Southern China Is Blanketed in Smog as Beijing Gets Slight Reprieve	中国北方重见蓝天，南方又被雾霾笼罩
HONG KONG — With pollution levels receding in Beijing, parts of southern China, including Hong Kong, experienced dangerous levels of smog Monday as weather patterns pushed bad air into the region.	香港——周一，北京的污染程度降低，但随着天气模式推动糟糕的空气进入中国南方包括香港在内的部分地区，导致那里出现了达到危险水平的雾霾。
The worsening conditions caused the Hong Kong government to warn of a "very high" health risk, particularly for the elderly, children and those with existing respiratory conditions.	随着情况不断恶化，香港政府提醒民众注意，健康风险水平"甚高"，尤其是老年人、孩子和呼吸道疾病患者。
The level of PM2.5 pollution, the fine particulates that pose the greatest danger to health, exceeded 190 micrograms per cubic meter on Sunday in Hong Kong, and the high levels continued into Monday. The World Health Organization recommends daily exposure of no more than 25 micrograms of PM2.5 per cubic meter, and levels above 150 are considered "unhealthy."	周日，香港的PM2.5，即对健康危害最大的细微颗粒浓度超过了每立方米190毫克，且这种高浓度一直持续到了周一。世界卫生组织(World Health Organization)建议日常接触的PM2.5浓度不高于每立方米25毫克，高于150毫克被认为"不健康"。
Hong Kong's Environmental Protection Department blamed shifting weather patterns for the pollution, as sunny and dry conditions on	香港环保署称不断变化的天气模式应为此次污染负责，因为周日晴朗干燥的天气使得雾霾停留在了该地区的上空。

Sunday essentially trapped haze over the region.
"Hong Kong is being affected by an airstream with higher background pollutant concentrations," a department spokesman said. "The light wind hinders effective dispersion of air pollutants. The sunshine enhances photochemical smog activities and the formation of ozone during the daytime, resulting in high pollution in the region."	"本港现正受背景污染较高的气流影响，"环保署的一名发言人表示。"而微弱的风势亦不利污染物扩散。日间的阳光有利光化烟雾现象，令臭氧在区内迅速形成，导致本地区的高污染。"
Nearby Chinese provinces including Guangdong and Hainan also had unhealthy levels of pollution.	附近包括广东和海南在内的省份的污染也达到了不健康的水平。
By contrast, Beijing was starting to get a slight reprieve after an extended bout of filthy air, although pollution levels there and in other northern Chinese cities remained high.	相比之下，在持续多日的污浊空气过后，北京的情况开始略有缓解，但那里和华北其他城市的污染水平仍较高。
On Friday, the Chinese minister for environmental protection, Chen Jining, told reporters in Beijing that air quality had generally improved but that it would take a while to wean the Chinese economy from relying on heavy industry and fossil fuels that cause the smog. He also said that the unusually static air across northern China recently had contributed to the buildup.	周五，中国环保部部长陈吉宁在北京对记者表示，大气质量总体上有所改善，但要让中国经济摆脱对重工业和化石燃料的依赖还需要一段时间。后者是造成雾霾的原因。他还表示，最近整个华北地区的空气异常不活跃，是污染加剧的原因之一。
"Cleaning up atmospheric pollution can't be done in an instant," Mr. Chen said, according to his ministry's website. "Cleaning up atmospheric pollution is a war of offense, but it's also a war of endurance."	据环保部网站显示，陈吉宁说，"因此大气污染治理也不可能一蹴而就。大气污染治理是攻坚战，也是持久战。"
The pollution in Hong Kong includes emissions from China's industrial heartland in the Pearl River Delta, as well as coal burning in the winter and vehicle emissions from the city's heavy traffic. Recent measures have helped reduce pollution levels over the last year, including	香港的污染包括来自珠三角工业中心的排放，以及冬季烧煤和该市繁忙的交通产生的车辆尾气排放。最近采取的举措帮助污染水平实现了同比下降，包括将柴油商用车的数量降到最低，并要求停靠在港口的船只在泊港期间使用低硫燃料。

minimizing the number of diesel-powered commercial vehicles and requiring ships docked in the city to rely on low-sulfur fuel while berthed there.
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170110/china-air-pollution-hong-kong	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170110/china-air-pollution-hong-kong
Taiwan's President Meets With Ted Cruz in the U.S., and China Objects	中国抗议美参议员克鲁兹会见蔡英文
TAIPEI, Taiwan — President Tsai Ing-wen of Taiwan met with Senator Ted Cruz of Texas in Houston and then flew off to visit leaders in Latin America, seeking to promote her island's cause as it gets positive signals from President-elect Donald J. Trump.	台湾台北——就在台湾得到候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普发出的积极信号之际，台湾总统蔡英文为促进台湾的事业，在休斯敦与德克萨斯州参议员特德·克鲁兹(Ted Cruz)见了面，然后飞往拉丁美洲对那里的领导人进行访问。
The meeting on Sunday with Mr. Cruz, who lost to Mr. Trump in the Republican presidential primary contest, suggested that Ms. Tsai was looking to expand her ties to the Republican Party as it takes control of the White House and keeps its grip on Congress.	周日与克鲁兹的会面，表明蔡英文正在寻求扩展与共和党的关系，目前共和党即将控制白宫，并保持着对国会的控制。此前克鲁兹在总统大选的共和党预选中输给了特朗普。
"I was honored to meet with President Tsai Ing-wen of Taiwan today," Mr. Cruz said in a statement released after the meeting. "We discussed our mutual opportunity to upgrade the stature of our bilateral relations in a wide-ranging discussion that addressed arms sales, diplomatic exchanges and economic relations."	在会面后发表的声明中，克鲁兹表示：“我很荣幸今天能见到台湾总统蔡英文。我们的讨论涉及广泛，包括军售、外交和经济关系，期间我们探讨了那些能提升双边关系的共同机会。”
Mr. Cruz added that members of Congress from the Houston area had received a "curious" letter from the Chinese Consulate requesting that they not meet with Ms. Tsai.	克鲁兹还说，来自休斯敦地区的国会议员们收到了一封从中国领事馆发来的“稀奇古怪”的信，要求他们不要与蔡英文见面。
Ms. Tsai's stop in Houston preceded visits to El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras and Nicaragua, four of the 20 countries, along with the Vatican, that maintain diplomatic relations with Taiwan rather than China. Last month, São Tomé and Príncipe, an island nation off the west	蔡英文在休斯敦过境之后，要去萨尔瓦多、危地马拉、洪都拉斯和尼加拉瓜访问，这四个国家与梵蒂冈一样，属于仍与台湾、而非与中国保持外交关系的20个国家之列。上个月，非洲西海岸岛国圣多美和普林西比断绝了与台湾的外交关系。

coast of Africa, severed diplomatic ties with Taiwan.
Beijing's influence in Latin America and the Caribbean is growing, and it is expected to achieve recognition from more countries, as China is the wealthier benefactor.	随着中国成为这个地区财力雄厚的捐助人，北京在拉丁美洲和加勒比地区的影响力正在增长，预计将得到更多国家的承认。
The United States does not maintain official diplomatic relations with Taiwan as a result of negotiations with Beijing that led to Washington's recognition of the People's Republic of China in 1979.	华盛顿与北京的谈判使得美国于 1979 年承认了中华人民共和国，作为那些谈判的结果之一，美国与台湾没有正式外交关系。
Under the "One China" policy, which underpins relations between China and the United States, Washington acknowledges that Beijing claims Taiwan while pledging to defend Taiwan from attack. The Communist Party of China has vowed to retake Taiwan, a democracy, by force if necessary.	在作为中美关系基础的“一个中国”政策下，华盛顿承认北京对台湾拥有主权，同时承诺保卫台湾免受攻击。中国共产党早就发誓，如有必要，将用武力收回实行民主制度的台湾。
China has warned Mr. Trump against making changes to the One China policy after he takes office on Jan. 20. The warning came in response to a phone call between Ms. Tsai and Mr. Trump after his November election victory, the highest-level exchange between American and Taiwanese leaders since the end of diplomatic relations and one that has threatened to upend relations between Washington and Beijing.	中国已警告特朗普，在 1 月 20 日就任之后，不要改变“一个中国”政策。这个警告，是对去年 11 月特朗普大选获胜后，蔡英文与其通电话的回应，他们的通话是自从台湾与美国结束外交关系以来双方领导人之间最高级别的交流，通话对华盛顿与北京间关系的构成了威胁，可能将颠覆两国间的关系。
For Ms. Tsai, it provided a potential opening with Mr. Trump's party.	对蔡英文来说，通话为开启与特朗普所在政党的关系提供了一个潜在的开端。
"Taiwan has maintained relations with China hawks in the Republican Party over the past several administrations," said Ian Rowen, a postdoctoral fellow at Academia Sinica in Taipei, the capital of Taiwan. "Cruz is influential above and beyond many senators, given his performance in the last election campaign. It makes sense to add Cruz,	"在美国过去几届政府执政期间，台湾一直与对中国持强硬态度的共和党人士保持着关系，"台湾首都台北的中央研究院的博士后研究员伊恩·罗文(Ian Rowen)说。"鉴于克鲁兹在上次总统大选中的表现，他的影响力比许多参议员的要大。不管他与特朗普政府的关系如何，与克鲁兹拉关系是有意义的。"

whatever his relationship is going to be with the Trump administration.”
Echoing the defiant Twitter posts Mr. Trump issued after speaking with Ms. Tsai, Mr. Cruz bluntly refused to allow Beijing to set the terms of meetings between officials from the United States and Taiwan.	与特朗普在与蔡英文通话后所发的挑衅性推文相一致的是，克鲁兹拒绝让北京来限制美国与台湾官员的见面。
“The People’s Republic of China needs to understand that in America we make decisions about meeting with visitors for ourselves,” Mr. Cruz said. “This is about the U.S. relationship with Taiwan, an ally we are legally bound to defend. The Chinese do not give us veto power over those with whom they meet. We will continue to meet with anyone, including the Taiwanese, as we see fit.”	克鲁兹说：“中华人民共和国需要明白，在美国，我们自己为自己决定我们与哪位到访者见面。这是关于美台关系的事情，台湾是我们受法律约束要保卫的盟友。在关于他们与什么人见面一事上，中国人对我们没有否决权。我们将继续与任何我们认为合适的人会面，包括台湾人。”
While American leaders have vowed to defend Taiwan from attack, the United States is not legally bound to do so, despite what Mr. Cruz said.	虽然美国领导人誓要保卫台湾免受攻击，但美国并不受法律约束必须那样做，尽管克鲁兹是这样说的。
While in Texas, Ms. Tsai also met with Gov. Greg Abbott, with whom she discussed energy, trade and commerce. Reducing Taiwan’s economic reliance on China has been a major focus for the Tsai administration, which took office in May.	在德克萨斯，蔡英文还会见了州长格雷格·阿伯特(Greg Abbott)，并与他讨论了能源、贸易和商业问题。减少台湾对中国的经济依赖是去年5月上台的蔡英文政府的主要重点。
In the wake of the meetings, Lu Kang, a spokesman for the Chinese Foreign Ministry, said Beijing opposed any contact between Taiwan’s leader and “anyone from the U.S. government,” saying it threatens to hurt ties between Beijing and Washington.	这些会面发生后，中国外交部发言人陆慷说，北京反对台湾领导人“与美国官方人士进行任何形式的接触”，并表示这种接触威胁损害北京与华盛顿的关系。
A Chinese-language statement about Ms. Tsai’s time in Houston, released by Taiwan’s presidential office, did not mention the meetings with Mr. Cruz or Mr. Abbott, focusing instead on her attendance at a banquet for ethnic Chinese who live overseas.	台湾总统府发布的关于蔡英文在休斯敦过境期间活动的中文报道，没有提及她与克鲁兹或阿伯特的会面，主要是关于她出席了一个旅居海外华人的晚宴。
At the event, Ms. Tsai said that her administration had been committed	据总统府的新闻稿，蔡英文在晚宴上说，她的政府一直致力于深化台湾与美

to deepening relations between Taiwan and the United States, according to the statement. "The U.S. is Taiwan's most important ally and friend, and it occupies a special place in the hearts of the Chinese people," it said.	国的关系。“美国是台湾最重要的盟友与朋友，在台湾人民的心中占有相当特殊的地位，”新闻稿说。
Before leaving Houston, Ms. Tsai, speaking with reporters, said that her visits to the four Central American countries would "show the international society that Taiwan is a capable and responsible partner for cooperation."	在离开休斯敦之前，蔡英文对记者说，她对中美洲四国的访问将“向国际社会展示，台湾是一个有能力和负责的合作伙伴”。
After her Central American tour, Ms. Tsai will pass through San Francisco on her return to Taiwan. On Saturday, Jessica Ditto, a spokeswoman for Mr. Trump, said in an email to The Associated Press that neither Mr. Trump nor anyone on his transition team would be meeting with Ms. Tsai.	访问中美洲之后，蔡英文将途经旧金山返回台湾。周六，特朗普的发言人杰西卡·迪托(Jessica Ditto)在给美联社的电子邮件中说，特朗普或其过渡小组的任何人不会与蔡英文见面。
In June, Ms. Tsai met with Senator Marco Rubio in Miami en route to Panama, another country with diplomatic ties with Taiwan.	去年6月，蔡英文在前往巴拿马的途中，曾在迈阿密会见了参议员马可·鲁比奥(Marco Rubio)，巴拿马是另一个仍与台湾有外交关系的国家。
She has also previously met with Reince Priebus, Mr. Trump's chief of staff.	她以前也见过特朗普的白宫幕僚长蒲博思(Reince Priebus)。
Mr. Rowen, the postdoctoral fellow, said that the visits were timely given Mr. Trump's ascendance.	博士后研究员罗文说，考虑到特朗普即将就任总统，蔡英文的访问很及时。
"In general, it raises Tsai's national and international stature to be going on trips like this," Mr. Rowen said. "There is, however, the potential for a shift in U.S.-Taiwan relations, so of course she's going to seize the opportunity to meet with as many officials as possible."	“一般来说，这种访问能提高蔡英文在国内和国际上的地位，”罗文说。“但是，现在有美台关系发生变化的可能性，因此，她当然要将抓住这个机会，与尽可能多的官员见面。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170110/taiwan-ted-cruz-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170110/taiwan-ted-cruz-china
Taiwan Responds After China Sends Carrier to Taiwan Strait	中国航母进入台湾海峡

HONG KONG — China sent its sole aircraft carrier into the Taiwan Strait on Wednesday morning, Taiwan officials said, a defiant move that signals China's growing naval strength and may foreshadow an early foreign policy challenge for President-elect Donald J. Trump when he takes office in nine days.	香港——台湾官方称，中国唯一一艘航空母舰周三早间进入台湾海峡。这种公然表现不断壮大的中国海军力量的举动，可能预示着候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普早早就面临着外交政策挑战，特朗普将于九天后就职。
The transit of the aircraft carrier, the Liaoning, which had been conducting exercises in the South China Sea, comes amid rising tensions between Taiwan and China, and after Mr. Trump broke decades of protocol by speaking on the phone with Taiwan's president, Tsai Ing-wen, after his election victory. Ms. Tsai leads a political party that has traditionally supported Taiwan's formal independence from China.	航空母舰“辽宁号”此前一直在南海进行训练，此番进入台湾海峡正值台湾与中国大陆关系的紧张关系日渐升级之时。之前，特朗普在大选获胜后打破了几十年的惯例，与台湾总统蔡英文通了电话。蔡英文领导的政党传统上支持台湾从中国正式独立出去。
"It's a show of force, and I think it is intended in part to intimidate, and that's worrisome from the U.S. and Taiwan's point of view because we don't know how much more they are going to ratchet up these pressures and tensions," said Bonnie S. Glaser, senior adviser for Asia at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. "If the Trump administration does see this as a test of U.S. resolve, I suspect they'll push back pretty forcefully."	"这是在展示实力，我认为这一举动在一定程度上是为了恐吓，从美国和台湾的角度来看，这令人担忧，因为我们不知道他们打算让这些压力和紧张局势升级到何种程度，"华盛顿战略与国际研究中心亚洲事务高级顾问葛来仪(Bonnie S. Glaser)说。"如果特朗普政府确实认为这是对美国决心的考验的话，我猜想他们会做出相当有力的反应。"
Taiwan scrambled F-16 fighter jets and a P-3C anti-submarine plane in response, and its navy dispatched a frigate to monitor the Liaoning's movement, Taiwan's official Central News Agency reported. Ms. Tsai, who is visiting Nicaragua, made two calls to Taiwan seeking updates on the Liaoning's transit, the Central News Agency reported, citing Alex Huang, the president's spokesman.	据台湾中央通讯社报道，台湾的反应是出动 F-16 战斗机和 P-3C 反潜机，台湾海军还派了一艘护卫舰前去监视辽宁舰的行动。中央通讯社援引总统府发言人黄重谚的话报道说，正在尼加拉瓜访问的蔡英文两次打电话回台湾，要求了解辽宁舰进入台湾海峡的最新情况。

It was the third time in three days that air forces in the region had scrambled jets in response to Chinese military activity, after Japan and South Korea deployed fighters on Monday. Those actions occurred when a squadron of six Chinese bombers and two other aircraft flew over the waters that separate Japan and South Korea and over the Sea of Japan.	这是三天来，该地区国家的空军为回应中国的军事活动，第三次动用军机。周一，日本和韩国出动了战斗机，当时一个由六架轰炸机及两架其他飞机组成的中国机队飞过了日本和韩国之间的水域以及日本海上空。
China was using the aircraft carrier to send a symbolic warning to both Taiwan and the incoming Trump administration, said Ni Lexiong, a naval affairs researcher at the Shanghai University of Political Science and Law.	上海政法学院研究海军事务的学者倪乐雄说，中国在用这艘航空母舰向台湾和特朗普政府发出象征性警告。
"It's all connected," Mr. Ni said in a telephone interview. "Since Trump won the election, his words and actions have touched China's bottom line. I think this was directed at America and the Taiwanese authorities. The aircraft carrier was on training exercises after all, but on the other hand, choosing this route to return was a response to their provocations."	"这都是有关联的，"倪乐雄在接受电话采访时说。"自从特朗普大选获胜以来，他的言论和行动已触及了中国的底线。我认为，这是针对美国和台湾当局的。这艘航空母舰只不过是训练而已，但从另一方面来看，选择这条返回的航线是对他们的挑衅做出的反应。"
But Ms. Glaser said the action could have been planned well in advance as part of the vessel's exercises in the South China Sea.	但葛来仪说，作为航母在南海训练的一部分，该行动有可能是早就事先安排好的。
Liu Zhenmin, a Chinese vice foreign minister, said on Wednesday that the Taiwan Strait was an international waterway and that it was normal for the Liaoning to pass through it. The passage would not have any effect on cross-strait relations, he said in remarks carried in the Chinese news media.	中国外交部副部长刘振民周三表示，台湾海峡是国际水道，辽宁舰从其中经过是正常的。他说，辽宁舰往返台湾海峡不会影响两岸关系，他的这番话发表在中国新闻媒体上。
Mark C. Toner, a State Department spokesman, told reporters in Washington in response to a question about the Liaoning's passage	在华盛顿回答关于辽宁舰经过台湾海峡的提问时，美国国务院发言人马克·C·托纳(Mark C. Toner)对记者说，只要其他国家的船只在国际水道航行符

through the strait that the United States “wouldn’t have a problem” with countries sailing their vessels in international waters so long as it was done in accordance with international law.	合国际法律，美国对这种航行“不会有异议”。
It also was not the first time the Liaoning had sailed through the strait: It passed through in November 2013 on its way to the South China Sea after having been commissioned only the year before.	这也不是辽宁舰第一次经过台湾海峡：2013年11月，在投入使用一年后，辽宁舰曾在前往南海的途中穿过台湾海峡。
In that instance, the carrier kept to the western half of the strait, closer to mainland China. In a statement on Wednesday morning, Taiwan’s Defense Ministry said that the Liaoning was also staying to the west of the strait’s middle and urged citizens to remain calm. A transit on the eastern side, closer to Taiwan, would be viewed as much more provocative.	当时，这艘航母走的是海峡西侧靠近中国大陆的航道。台湾国防部在周三上午发表的声明中说，辽宁舰这次走的也是海峡中间以西的航道，并敦促公民保持冷静。从靠近台湾的海峡东侧航道经过会被视为更具挑衅性。
Taiwan, considered by Beijing to be Chinese territory, has been ruled separately since 1949, when the forces of the Nationalist leader Chiang Kai-shek fled to the island following their defeat on the mainland by the Communists. China views any assertion of Taiwan’s separateness from the mainland, such as Ms. Tsai’s call with Mr. Trump, as an affront to its claim of sovereignty.	北京认为台湾是中国的领土。1949年国民党领导人蒋介石的军队在大陆被共产党打败后退至台湾，从那时起，台湾与中国大陆一直处于各自的统治之下。中国认为，任何关于台湾与大陆分离的表述，比如蔡英文与特朗普通电话，都是对中国主权的冒犯。
Since 1979, the United States has recognized the government in Beijing and broke off formal diplomatic ties to Taiwan as part of the One China policy. In the wake of the Trump-Tsai phone call, China warned the incoming president against making changes to that policy after he takes office on Jan. 20.	从1979年起，作为“一个中国”政策的组成部分，美国一直对北京政府予以承认，并与台湾切断了正式外交关系。特朗普与蔡英文通电话之后，中国曾警告这位即将上任的总统，1月20日就职后不要改变该政策。
Euan Graham, the director of the International Security Program at the Lowy Institute in Sydney, Australia, said that for the Chinese, traveling	澳大利亚悉尼的洛伊国际政策研究所(Lowy Institute for International Policy)的国际安全项目主任尤安·格雷厄姆(Euan Graham)说，对中国来说，

through the strait was a logical way to move from one area of fleet operations to another along its long coastline. In order for warships based in northern ports, like the Liaoning, to return home from southern waters, they must either pass close to Japanese islands or transit the Taiwan Strait. "Geography forces a very binary choice," he said.	在台湾海峡漫长的海岸线上，穿过该海峡是把舰队从一个行动海域调往另一个行动海域的合理航道。为了让基地位于北方港口的军舰，比如辽宁舰，从南方水域返回北方基地，它们必须从靠近日本岛屿的水道经过，或从台湾海峡经过。“地理位置让他们只能有一个非常二元化的选择，”他说。
Mr. Graham said it was important to see how the Liaoning conducted its passage. If it had aircraft on deck and was conducting flight operations, that would be seen as more provocative than if it passed through the strait with the aircraft in its hangar bay, he said.	格雷厄姆说，重要的是看辽宁舰是如何穿过台湾海峡的。如果它的飞机在甲板上，并正在进行飞行操作的话，这与它经过海峡时飞机呆在机库里相比，会被视为更具挑衅性，他说。
The Liaoning, commissioned in 2012 and built from a Soviet hull, is China's first aircraft carrier. In past decades, the United States has shown its resolve to defend Taiwan by sailing carriers through the Taiwan Strait. In 1995, the aircraft carrier Nimitz transited the strait amid heightened tensions after Beijing conducted missile exercises in the waters.	2012年投入使用的辽宁舰，是用一艘苏联船体改造的，它是中国的第一艘航空母舰。在过去几十年里，美国用让航空母舰驶入台湾海峡的做法表示了要保卫台湾的坚定决心。1995年，北京在台湾海峡进行导弹试验、加剧了紧张局势之后，美国航母“尼米兹号”曾穿越台湾海峡。
China's military decision-making is highly secretive, but it would seem inconceivable for the Liaoning to pass through such contested waters without approval from the president, Xi Jinping, who is also the chairman of the Central Military Commission, which controls the military. And the Chinese military media has described the aircraft carrier as embodying Mr. Xi's plans for a stronger navy, capable of projecting force far beyond China's territorial waters.	中国的军事决策高度保密，但是，如果没有得到国家主席习近平的批准，辽宁舰穿过如此有争议的水域，是几乎不可想象的，习近平也是控制军队的中央军事委员会的主席。中国军方的媒体曾把这艘航母描述为是习近平加强海军建设的具体体现，习近平希望中国海军能够把力量投射到中国领海以外的区域。
Last Thursday, the front page of People's Liberation Army Daily, the official newspaper of the Chinese military, featured a report about the	上周四，中国军队的官方报纸《解放军报》在头版刊登了一篇关于这艘航母的最新航程的报道，标题是“我们航行在领袖关注的目光里”，显然是在向习

aircraft carrier's latest journey under the headline, "We're sailing under the leader's attentive gaze," a clear tribute to Mr. Xi.	近平献礼。
Although the passage of the Liaoning sent an emphatic political message, China's aircraft carrier program is still in its fledgling stage.	虽然辽宁舰穿越台湾海峡发出了一个强烈的政治信号,但中国的航母发展仍处于初级阶段。
The Liaoning, refashioned from an unfinished hull bought from Ukraine, displaces about 60,000 tons. That is much smaller than the American Navy's Nimitz-class aircraft carriers, which have a displacement of 97,000 tons.	辽宁舰是用一个购自乌克兰的未完成船身改造的,排水量约6万吨,远小于美国海军排水量9.7万吨的尼米兹级航空母舰。
In contrast with China's one carrier, the American Navy has 10 operational aircraft carriers and one more, the Gerald R. Ford, which will soon be commissioned.	中国只有一艘航空母舰,而美国海军有10艘航母正在服役,另外还有一艘杰拉德·R·福特号(Gerald R. Ford)也即将投入使用。
China is building a second aircraft carrier in Dalian, a northeastern port city, and experts estimate that the second carrier, similar in design to the Liaoning but perhaps a bit larger, will be ready to launch this year or next. After that, the Chinese Navy appears likely to start building larger carriers.	中国正在东北港口城市大连建造第二艘航母,专家估计这艘航母的设计与辽宁舰相似,也许会稍大一点,准备今年或明年下水。之后,中国海军有可能开建更大的航母。
Ma Xiaoguang, a spokesman for the Taiwan Affairs Office in Beijing, said in a news conference on Wednesday that the Liaoning's passage was part of the ship's scheduled training in the western Pacific, which had begun on Dec. 24.	周三,国务院台湾事务办公室发言人马晓光在新闻发布会上表示,辽宁舰穿越台湾海峡是12月24日开始的西太平洋训练计划的一部分。
Mr. Ma also said that the Taiwan-China relationship in the coming year would face "increasing uncertainty, looming risks and challenges."	马晓光还说,展望2017年,两岸关系"发展面临的不确定因素增加,风险挑战增大"。
He added that Taiwan's government and "independence forces" there had "seriously threatened the peace and stability of the Taiwan Strait," accusing them of engaging in separatist activities and warning that	他称台湾政府和"台独"势力"严重威胁台海和平稳定",指责他们搞分裂活动,并且警告说中国会"坚定维护国家主权和领土完整"。

China would “resolutely safeguard its national sovereignty and territorial integrity.”
The aircraft carrier’s passage was part of a cluster of recent acts by the Chinese military that have raised regional hackles.	中国军方最近做出一连串引发区域愤怒的举动，航母穿越台湾海峡是其中之一。
Last month, a Chinese warship seized an underwater drone belonging to the United States Navy about 50 miles northwest of Subic Bay in the Philippines. The drone was returned after the Obama administration publicly chided China over the seizure. On Monday, Japan said it had sent fighter jets into the air after Chinese bombers and surveillance planes flew over the East China Sea and the Sea of Japan.	上月，一艘中国军舰在菲律宾苏比克湾西北约 50 英里处捞走一艘属于美国海军的水下无人机。奥巴马政府公开谴责中国此举之后，无人机被送回。周一，日本表示，在中国轰炸机和侦察机飞越了东海和日本海后，他们也派出战斗机升空。
“When China was militarily weaker, Japan considered that area to be its backyard,” said Mr. Ni, the naval researcher. “This was a way of telling Japan that if there ever is conflict, the location of any future battle space won’t be decided by you and America. We have the initiative. So Japan, don’t think of meddling further afield in Taiwan or the South China Sea.”	“中国军事力量比较弱的时候，日本认为这个地区是它的后院，”海军研究员倪乐雄说。“这是在告诉日本，如果发生冲突，未来任何战场的位置都不会由你和美国来决定。我们具有主动性。所以日本不要试图在台湾或南海开展进一步的干预行动。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170111/china-taiwan-strait-aircraft-carrier-trump	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170111/china-taiwan-strait-aircraft-carrier-trump
As China Seeks Bigger Role on World Stage, Xi Jinping Will Go to Davos	瞄准全球事务领导权，习近平将首次出席达沃斯
President Xi Jinping of China plans to stride into the snowy high-altitude conclave of the world’s financial elite next week, attending the World Economic Forum at Davos, Switzerland, the first time a top Chinese leader will put himself into the mix of political leaders and business executives who view themselves as the masters of the global economy.	下周，当全世界的金融精英在白雪皑皑的高海拔地区汇聚一堂的时候，中国国家主席习近平将阔步走进会场，出席瑞士达沃斯的世界经济论坛。这将是 中国最高领导人首次加入到这些政治领导人和商业高管的行列，在他们看来，自己是全球经济的主宰者。

His participation was announced by the Chinese Foreign Ministry on Tuesday. It is the latest, and in some ways the boldest, Chinese attempt to compete with the United States' dominant position in world economic and strategic institutions, a decades-long campaign that has been carried out everywhere from the conference rooms of Asian central banks to the waters of the South China Sea to the halls of the United Nations in New York.	中国外交部于周二宣布了他打算参会的消息。这是中国试图挑战美国在世界经济和战略机构中的主导地位的最新举措，在某种程度上也是最大胆的一次。过去几十年间，中国一直四处开展此类行动，从亚洲国家央行的会议室，到南海水域，再到纽约的联合国大厅，都留下了它的足迹。
But it is unclear whether Mr. Xi, who rarely ventures beyond platitudes in discussing the strategies of the world's second largest economy, can take advantage of this time of transition when the rest of the world is gauging whether the United States is pulling back from global leadership.	但目前尚不清楚，每当就世界第二大经济体的战略进行讨论时都显得颇为谨慎、很少打破陈词滥调的习近平，是否能在全世界正评估美国是否正放弃全球领导地位之际，妥善利用这一过渡期。
Mr. Xi may sense an opening during a historic inflection point. He plans to deliver a speech at Davos at a moment when the incoming United States president, Donald J. Trump, has suggested that the United States should withdraw from the traditional superpower role it has played since World War II, including its leadership of a global free trade agenda.	适逢历史性的转折点，习近平或许觉得出现了一个机会。他打算在达沃斯发表演讲的时候，即将成为美国总统的唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)已然表示，美国应该放弃它自从二战以来一直在扮演的传统超级大国角色，包括它在一项全球自由贸易议程中的领导地位。
In recent years, Davos had come to embody that American-led agenda – a gathering at an Alpine ski resort of some of the world's most powerful figures in the realms of politics, media and technology. Discussions each year have been set by Western leaders, not Asian ones.	近年来，在达沃斯举办的世界经济论坛已经开始体现由美国人主导的这项议程。全球政界、媒体界和科技界的某些最有影响力的人物，每年都会因为该论坛而汇聚到阿尔卑斯山的这个滑雪胜地。发起讨论的一直都是西方领导人，而非亚洲领导人。
But events of the past year brought into sharp focus a rise in populist denunciations of globalization, free trade and inequality in some Western nations, including the United States, with Davos frequently	但过去一年发生的事件，让一些西方国家内部对全球化、自由贸易和不平等进行的民粹主义批判成为焦点，批评者常把达沃斯当成本国病根的一个象征来说。

mentioned by critics as a symbol of the root causes of their countries' ailments.
China has benefited greatly from access to international trade markets since its entry in 2001 into the World Trade Organization, and it could now become the most vocal proponent of that system. Mr. Trump campaigned on opposition to the existing global trade system and has denounced China for competing unfairly against the United States.	自从在 2001 年加入世贸组织以来,获准进入国际贸易市场的中国受益匪浅,它现在可能已经成为该体系最坚定的拥护者。特朗普曾在竞选期间宣扬对既有国际贸易体系的反对意见,他还谴责中国采用不公平的手段与美国竞争。
At Davos, Mr. Xi plans to lead a delegation of senior officials, China's wealthiest entrepreneurs and top executives of state-owned enterprises, including the China Poly Group Corporation, which has ties to the Chinese military.	习近平打算率领一个代表团前往达沃斯,其成员包括高级官员、中国最富有的企业家以及国企高管,和中国军方有关联的中国保利集团公司的高管也位列其中。
His appearance is a logical step in his country's evolution into a globe-spanning superpower, a rapid transformation that has been marked by bold symbolic gestures and events in the past decade, including the 2008 Summer Olympics in Beijing under President Hu Jintao, Mr. Xi's predecessor.	在中国蜕变为影响力遍及全球的超级大国的道路上,他的出席是合乎逻辑的一步。在过去十年间,一些大胆的象征性姿态和事件成为这种蜕变的标志,包括在习近平的前任胡锦涛主席治下举办的 2008 年北京奥运会。
Mr. Xi has carried on that theme with much more aggressive actions, including overseeing construction of military infrastructure in the South China Sea's contested waters and establishing a regional lending bank opposed by the United States.	习近平一直在以更加积极的举措继续推动这一进程,例如督建南海争议水域的军事基础设施,以及创办一家遭到美国反对的地区性信贷银行。
Premiers of China, including the current one, Li Keqiang, have attended Davos before, but the nation's president — and head of the Communist Party — has never been to the gathering.	此前,包括现任总理李克强在内的多位中国总理出席过达沃斯论坛,但还没有国家主席——以及中共中央总书记——参会的先例。
"Clearly it signals that Xi Jinping is now interested in writing both China and himself in a grander way on the global diplomatic horizon," said	"这显然表明,习近平现在有意以一种更宏大的方式,在全球外交领域写下中国和他本人的名字,"亚洲协会(Asia Society)美中关系中心(Center on

Orville Schell, director of the Center on U.S.-China Relations at the Asia Society. "He feels it's time to really come out. Behind that probably is an assumption and wishful thinking that the U.S. is in disarray, Europe is feckless, and so on."	U.S.-China Relations)主任夏伟(Orville Schell)说。“他觉得到了真正出场的时候了。这背后可能有这样一种假设和一厢情愿的想法：美国局势混乱、欧洲软弱无力等等。”
"He'll be received almost as the number one citizen at Davos," Mr. Schell added.	“他在达沃斯几乎会被当作头号人物对待，”夏伟接着讲道。
Mr. Xi plans to attend Davos on Jan. 17, during a state visit to Switzerland from Jan. 15 to 18, said Lu Kang, a Foreign Ministry spokesman, at a regularly scheduled news conference in Beijing on Tuesday. Mr. Xi is expected to speak at the opening session of the forum, which runs from Jan. 17 to 20.	周二，外交部发言人陆慷在北京举行的一场例行记者会上表示，习近平计划在1月15日至18日对瑞士进行国事访问期间，于17日出席达沃斯论坛。预计习近平将会在论坛的开幕会上发表演讲。论坛将从1月17日持续到20日。
Strong anti-globalization sentiments erupted last year in the movement in Britain that culminated in the popular vote by British citizens to leave the European Union. But it was Mr. Trump's election in November that was the apotheosis of the move in the West toward isolationism, and meetings and conversations at Davos — whose theme this year is "responsive and responsible leadership" — will take place in the shadow of Mr. Trump's campaign promises and rhetoric.	去年，一场以英国全民公投决定脱欧为顶点的运动体现了强烈的反全球化情绪。但西方走向孤立主义的巅峰，却是特朗普在去年11月当选美国总统。而且达沃斯的会议和讨论，将在特朗普的竞选承诺和虚夸言辞的阴影下进行。该论坛今年的主题是“灵敏与负责的领导力”。
"It's going to be very tempting for China to imagine for itself that it's gained much more status after this election in a whole array of global endeavors, including trade and on climate change and possibly other issues," Mr. Schell said. "If the U.S. is going to absent itself more — and we don't know if that's the case yet — nature does abhor a vacuum. When a father grows old, the son is sometimes able to fill the space."	“这次大选之后，中国很容易想象自己在一系列全球事务中获得了比过去高得多的地位，包括在贸易、气候变化，及其他可能的议题上，”夏伟说。“如果美国打算更多地缺席这些事务——我们还不知道情况会不会是这样——总有人会填补那个空白。当一位父亲老去，儿子有时就会填补他的位置。”
Victor Shih, a scholar of China's political economy at the University of	在加州大学圣迭戈分校(University of California, San Diego)研究中国政治

California, San Diego, said there are actually some global agenda matters on which China's influence "might have peaked in the medium term."	经济的学者史宗瀚(Victor Shih)表示, 在一些全球议程事项上, 中国的影响力实际上可能"已经中期见顶"。
He pointed to China's push in recent years to have the renminbi counted as an international currency. That has been undermined in the past year by efforts of the Chinese central bank, the People's Bank of China, to withdraw large quantities of offshore renminbi from circulation. The bank has been doing that in order to try to prop up the value of the renminbi and limit capital flight from China, including the transfer of money to Hong Kong by wealthy Chinese.	他指的是最近几年中国推动人民币成为国际货币的努力。在过去的一年里, 中国的央行中国人民银行让大量离岸人民币退出流通, 削弱了上述努力。这么做的目的是推高人民币的价值, 限制资金外流, 包括限制富裕的中国人将资金转移到香港。
"The People's Bank of China continues to claim that renminbi internationalization is important, and of course, at Davos, President Xi may continue to pay verbal homage to that agenda because it would be an important sign of China's ascendance on the world stage," Mr. Shih said. "Yet, in the past year, we have seen renminbi deposits outside of mainland China decline by hundreds of billions of renminbi."	"中国人民银行不断声称人民币国际化很重要, 当然, 习近平在达沃斯也会继续口头肯定这项工作, 因为它将是中国登上世界舞台的重要证明," 史宗瀚说。"但是在过去的一年里, 我们看到中国大陆之外的人民币储蓄减少了数千亿元。"
Among the Chinese tycoons expected to attend Davos are Wang Jianlin, founder of the Wanda Group, a property and cinema company, and Jack Ma, founder of the Alibaba Group, China's biggest e-commerce company.	有望出席达沃斯论坛的中国企业界巨子包括房地产和院线公司万达集团创始人王健林, 以及中国最大的电子商务公司阿里巴巴集团创始人马云。
They are commonly referred to as the two wealthiest men in China. Both are investing in the United States, and Mr. Ma met with Mr. Trump on Monday at Trump Tower in New York to discuss business opportunities between companies in the two countries. (Within Mr. Trump's family, his son-in-law, Jared Kushner, has been involved in	他们被普遍认为是中国最富有的两个人。两人都在美国进行投资, 马云还于周一在纽约的特朗普大厦与特朗普会面, 讨论中美企业间的商业机会。(在特朗普的家族内, 他的女婿贾里德·库什纳[Jared Kushner]一直在和中国顶尖的企业高管进行个人商务谈判。) personal business negotiations with top Chinese executives.)

Some members of the Congress, mostly Republicans, have called for greater scrutiny of Chinese investments in the United States, including those by Wanda, which recently bought the AMC movie theater chain and Legendary Entertainment, a film production and financing company.	一些国会议员——大多为共和党人——呼吁对中国在美国的投资进行更严格的审查，包括万达的投资。后者最近收购了 AMC 连锁院线，以及制片与融资公司传奇影业(Legendary Entertainment)。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170111/davos-china-xi-jinping-trump	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170111/davos-china-xi-jinping-trump
Rex Tillerson's South China Sea Remarks Foreshadow Possible Foreign Policy Crisis	蒂勒森：应禁止中国进入南海人工岛
HONG KONG — Rex W. Tillerson's call for China to be denied access to its artificial islands in the South China Sea, made Wednesday during his confirmation hearing for secretary of state, set the stage for a possible crisis between the world's two biggest economies should his comments become official American policy.	香港——周三，在国务卿提名确认听证会上，雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)呼吁阻止中国靠近其在南海修建的人工岛屿，如果这一呼吁成为美国官方政策的话，将有可能引发世界上两个最大经济体之间的危机。
Mr. Tillerson told members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Wednesday that China's multibillion-dollar island-building campaign in the oil-and-gas rich sea was illegal and "akin to Russia's taking of Crimea."	蒂勒森周三对参议院外交关系委员会的成员说，中国在石油和天然气资源丰富的南海花数十亿美元修建岛屿的行为是非法的，“类似于俄罗斯吞并克里米亚。”
"We're going to have to send China a clear signal that, first, the island-building stops, Mr. Tillerson told the senators. "And second, your access to those islands also is not going to be allowed."	"我们将必须向中国发出一个明确的信号，首先，停止修建岛屿，"蒂勒森对参议员们说。"第二，你们也将不被允许靠近这些岛屿。"
Should those words be translated into action after Donald J. Trump assumes the presidency on Jan. 20, it would be a remarkable change in the American approach to Beijing's island-building in the South China Sea, which is transforming the area into what one Washington think	唐纳德·J·特朗普将于1月20日就任总统，如果以上言论在他就任后转化为实际行动的话，将会是美国在对待北京于南海修建人工岛的方式上的显著变化，目前中国的建岛活动正在改变着该水域。用华盛顿一个智囊团的话说，2030年，南海将“几乎成为一个中国湖”。中国声称拥有南海的大部分主权，

tank said would by 2030 become “virtually a Chinese lake.” China asserts sovereignty over most of the South China Sea despite competing claims by countries including Vietnam and the Philippines and an international ruling rejecting most of Beijing’s assertions.	虽然包括越南和菲律宾在内的其他国家也有着主权要求，而且国际法庭的一个裁决否定了北京的大部分主权主张。
The Obama administration has challenged what it calls China’s “excessive maritime claims” in the sea by sailing warships close to the artificial islands, some of which feature deep harbors and runways capable of handling jumbo jets. But that has not stopped China from continuing its buildup, which now includes military installations such as radar stations on more than 3,000 acres of artificial land built on reefs and shoals.	奥巴马政府派遣过军舰在人工岛附近航行，这一做法挑战了其称之为中国对南海的“过度领海主权要求”，其中一些人工岛拥有深水港口和能够让大型喷气式飞机起降的跑道。但美国的做法未能阻止中国继续进行建设，目前的项目包括军事设施，比如在礁石和浅滩上填充出来的 3000 多英亩（约合 12 平方公里）的人工土地上建设雷达站。
Mr. Tillerson’s comments, with the possible implication that the United States might use its armed forces to deny the Chinese access to the islands, garnered reactions including confusion, disbelief and warlike threats from analysts in China.	蒂勒森的说法带有美国可能使用武装力量禁止中国接近这些岛屿的暗示，这在中国的分析人士中引发了包括困惑、不相信和类似战争威胁的反应。
“This is a signal, now that Trump is set to take office, that he wants to have a tough stand on China,” said Yang Chengjun, a retired senior colonel and military expert, who said that China’s potential war-fighting capability was greater than America’s. “China does not stir up troubles but we are not afraid of them when they come.”	退役高级将领、军事专家杨承军说，“这是个信号，现在特朗普即将就职，他想对中国采取强硬立场”，杨承军说中国潜在的战斗力比美国的要强大。“中国不惹麻烦，但是如果麻烦来了，我们也不怕。”
Lu Kang, a spokesman for the Chinese Foreign Ministry, declined to answer a reporter’s question about what Beijing might do if the United States Navy moved to deny China access to the islands, saying it was a “hypothetical question.”	中国外交部发言人陆慷拒绝回答一名记者的提问，称之为“假设性的问题”，该记者问道，如果美国海军不让中国靠近这些岛屿，北京可能会怎么做。
But his reaction also highlighted the confusion sown by the testimony,	但是，陆慷的反应也突显了听证会带来的困惑，因为蒂勒森并没有解释美国

because Mr. Tillerson did not explain how the United States could block China from the islands.	将如何阻止中国靠近这些岛屿。
"I can't predict what Mr. Tillerson is thinking specifically, and on the other hand, it is impossible for me to make any prediction about China's policy, based on your assumptions of what he said," Mr. Lu said.	"我不会去猜测蒂勒森先生具体想的是什么，也不会根据你对他的话所作的一些猜测来预断中方的政策，"陆慷说。
That confusion was shared by one of China's most prominent experts on the South China Sea, who also questioned the legality of any American effort to block access to the islands.	中国最著名的南海问题专家之一也表达了这种困惑，他还质疑了美国阻止中国靠近这些岛屿做法的合法性。
"Is this a warning? Or will this be a policy option?" said Zhu Feng, executive director of the China Center for Collaborative Studies of the South China Sea at Nanjing University. "If this is a policy option, this will not be able to block China's access to these constructed islands. There is no legal basis."	"这是警告吗？或者说，这会是一个政策选择吗？"南京大学中国南海研究协同创新中心执行主任朱峰问道。"如果这是政策选择的话，那也不能阻止中国前往这些人工岛屿。没有法律依据。"
Mr. Trump's transition team did not respond to emailed questions asking for details on Mr. Tillerson's remarks, and whether they represented the intended policy of the United States after Mr. Trump assumes the presidency.	特朗普的过渡团队没有回复用电子邮件发去的问题，记者希望了解蒂勒森言论更为详细的内容，以及他的说法是否代表特朗普担任总统后美国将采取的政策。
What is also not clear is the extent to which Mr. Tillerson's tough stance on the South China Sea springs from his extensive experience in the region during his time as chief executive of Exxon Mobil, when his company became embroiled in bitter territorial disputes over the extensive oil and gas reserves beneath the seafloor.	尚不清楚的是，蒂勒森对南海采取的强硬立场在多大程度上基于他担任埃克森美孚公司(Exxon Mobil)首席执行官期间在该地区的丰富经验，那期间，他的公司曾几次卷入有关海底石油和天然气储备的激烈领土争端。
During his tenure, the company forged close ties to the Vietnamese government, signing an agreement in 2009 with a state-owned firm to drill for oil and gas in two areas in the South China Sea. The agreement	在他担任首席执行官期间，埃克森美孚与越南政府建立了密切联系，并于2009年与越南一家国有公司签署了一项协议，双方将共同在南海两个水域开展石油和天然气开采。据泄露的美国外交电报，由于与中国的领土主张有

with PetroVietnam was signed quietly, according to a leaked United States diplomatic cable, because it conflicted with Chinese territorial claims.	所冲突, 埃克森美孚与越南石油天然气公司(PetroVietnam)的协议是悄悄签订的。
While Exxon Mobil has some operations in China, including a stake in a petrochemical plant in the country's south, it has a very small presence in the country's huge retail market for gasoline, which is dominated by state-owned Chinese companies. In contrast, its agreements with Vietnam are potentially huge, given that the South China Sea may contain 11 billion barrels of oil and 190 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, according to the United States Energy Information Administration.	虽然埃克森美孚在中国有一些业务, 包括拥有中国南部一家石油化工厂的股份, 但这家美国公司在中国巨大的汽油零售市场上只占有很小的份额, 该市场由中国国有企业控制着。相比之下, 埃克森美孚与越南的协议有巨大的潜在利益, 据美国能源信息署, 南海可能拥有 110 亿桶石油和 190 万亿立方英尺(约合 5.4 万亿立方米)的天然气。
A spokeswoman for Exxon Mobil in Singapore did not return a phone call asking for comment about the company's operations in Vietnam. The Vietnamese Foreign Ministry did not reply to a request for comment about Mr. Tillerson's remarks.	埃克森美孚在新加坡的发言人没有回复请求公司就其越南业务置评的电话。越南外交部也没有答复对蒂勒森言论发表评论的请求。
But his statements have put further strains on one of the world's most important bilateral relationships. Policy directions set by President Richard M. Nixon more than 40 years ago have remained relatively steady under the Republican and Democratic administrations that followed. But Mr. Trump's talk of enacting new tariffs on Chinese goods and his willingness to break decades of protocol by taking a phone call from Taiwan's president have called those policies into question.	但蒂勒森的这番话已给世界上这个最重要的双边关系制造了进一步的压力。40 多年前, 理查德·尼克松总统制定的政策方向在其后的共和党和民主党政府下一直保持着相对的稳定。但是, 特朗普关于对中国商品施加新关税的说法, 以及他打破了几十年的惯例与台湾总统通电话的做法, 都给那些政策带来了疑问。
"How much farther will the Trump administration go?" said Mr. Zhu of Nanjing University. "When it comes to South China Sea, we'll have to wait and see."	"特朗普政府还要走多远?" 南京大学的朱峰问道。"在南海问题上, 我们只能走着瞧。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170113/rex-tillerson-south-china-sea-u	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170113/rex-tillerson-south-china-sea-u

s	s
Chinese State Media Denounce Rex Tillerson's Call to Block Island Access	中国官媒谴责蒂勒森南海言论，发出战争警告
BEIJING — The Chinese state news media lashed out at Rex W. Tillerson, President-elect Donald J. Trump's nominee for secretary of state, on Friday, warning that his call to deny China access to islands it has constructed in the South China Sea could provoke a conflict.	北京——中国官方新闻媒体昨日谴责了候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)的国务卿提名人雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)，并警告说，他呼吁阻止中国接近其在南海所建岛屿的做法可能会挑起冲突。
Mr. Tillerson said during a confirmation hearing this week before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that China's efforts to build islands in the sea and to equip some with military equipment were illegal, and he drew comparisons to Russia's annexation of Crimea in 2014.	蒂勒森上周在参议院外交关系委员会(Senate Foreign Relations Committee)就其提名举行的确认听证会上说，中国在南海建造岛屿和架设军事装备是非法的，他把这些行动和2014年俄罗斯吞并克里米亚相提并论。
State-run news outlets in China angrily denounced Mr. Tillerson's remarks on Friday, vowing to counter any effort by the United States to intervene in the strategically significant waterway, which Beijing argues has been its territory since ancient times.	中国官方新闻机构对蒂勒森周五的言论进行了愤怒的谴责，誓言要和美国干预这条战略性航道的任何行动对抗到底，北京声称该航道自古以来就是中国的领土。
Global Times, a newspaper that often adopts a nationalistic tone, warned in an editorial that the United States might be forced to wage a "large-scale war" if it tried to block China from the islands.	经常采用民族主义调子的《环球时报》发表社论，警告说如果美国试图阻止中国接近这些岛屿，美国可能不得进行一场“大规模战争”。
"China has enough determination and strength to make sure that his rabble-rousing will not succeed," the editorial said, referring to Mr. Tillerson.	“中国有足够的决心和力量确保他要求中国远离那些岛屿的话就是瞎扯淡，”社论提到蒂勒森时说。
China Daily, a state-run, English-language newspaper, said in an editorial that the nominee's remarks were "not worth taking seriously because they are a mishmash of naïveté, shortsightedness, worn-out prejudices and unrealistic political fantasies."	中国官方英文报纸《中国日报》在一篇社论中说，蒂勒森的言论“不值得认真对待，因为它们是天真、短视、带有过时的偏见和不切实际的政治幻想的混合物”。

"Should he act on them in the real world, it would be disastrous," the editorial continued. "It would set a course for devastating confrontation between China and the U.S."	"如果他将这些言论付诸行动，就会带来灾难性的后果，"社论说。"这将开启中美之间毁灭性的对抗道路。"
The angry reaction to Mr. Tillerson's remarks reflected the degree to which Chinese leaders see the island-building campaign as a matter of national sovereignty and a crucial part of efforts to become a global military superpower.	对蒂勒森言论的愤怒，反映出中国领导人在多大程度上将建岛活动视为国家主权，视为中国建设全球军事超级大国的重要部分。
But the response also suggested that Chinese officials seek to stake out a tough position as they prepare to deal with Mr. Trump, who has criticized Chinese policies on trade and North Korea.	但是，这样的反应还表明，中国官员试图对特朗普采取强硬态度。特朗普在贸易政策和北朝鲜问题上对中国进行了批评。
"China is looking to heighten the threat of conflict," said Anders Corr, principal of Corr Analytics, a research organization based in New York. "They're basically doing that to try to intimidate U.S. political and economic actors, and influence their decision making around issues like Taiwan and the South China Sea."	"中国正在试图给发生冲突的威胁加码，"位于纽约的研究机构科尔分析所(Corr Analytics)所长安德斯·科尔(Anders Corr)说。"他们这样做基本上是想恐吓美国的政经人士，影响他们在台湾和南海问题上的决定。"
Mr. Corr added that Mr. Trump and his cabinet nominees, through their harsh words, also sought a strong hand in negotiations.	科尔还补充说，特朗普及其内阁提名人也想在谈判中占据有利地位，他们也发表了严厉言论。
Still, many analysts in China reacted with alarm to the remarks by Mr. Tillerson, who recently stepped down as chief executive of Exxon Mobil. He said that the United States would need to "send China a clear signal that, first, the island-building stops." He added, referring to China, "Your access to those islands also is not going to be allowed."	然而，中国的很多分析人士对蒂勒森的言论表示了警惕。蒂勒森最近卸任埃克森美孚公司(Exxon Mobil)首席执行官一职。他说，美国需要"向中国发出一个明确的信号，首先就是要停止建岛屿活动"。他还说，"不能允许中国登上这些岛屿。"
Over the past several years, China has dredged sand to turn scattered South China Sea reefs and atolls into islands — totaling roughly 3,000 acres — despite protests from neighbors and from the United States. An	在过去几年里，中国不顾邻国和美国的抗议，挖沙将南海的几处礁石和环礁扩建为岛屿——总面积约 3000 英亩。去年，一个国际法庭裁定中国在南海的很多领土主张是无效的，但中国领导人仍然在推进建岛工程。

international tribunal invalidated many of China's claims in the sea last year, but Chinese leaders have pressed forward with construction.
The Obama administration has dispatched warships near the artificial islands, in what it calls an attempt to uphold freedom of navigation in the sea, an important economic and strategic waterway that is believed to be rich in oil and gas. But American officials have so far stopped short of threatening to block China's access to the islands.	奥巴马政府将军舰派遣到人工岛附近, 声称要维护这片海域的自由通航, 该海域被认为是重要的经济和战略航道, 据信拥有丰富的石油和天然气资源。但美国官员迄今为止还没有威胁过要阻止中国登上这些岛屿。
Carlyle A. Thayer, an emeritus professor of politics at the University of New South Wales in Australia, said that such a move would be akin to President John F. Kennedy's ordering a blockade of Cuba during the Cuban Missile Crisis.	澳大利亚新南威尔士大学(New South Wales)名誉政治教授卡莱尔·A·塞耶(Carlyle A. Thayer)说, 这种举动将类似于约翰·F·肯尼迪总统(John F. Kennedy)在古巴导弹危机期间对古巴的封锁。
"Tillerson's proposal would provoke a serious confrontation that could quickly develop into armed conflict," he said.	"蒂勒森的提议将引发严重对抗, 可能还会迅速发展为武装冲突," 他说。
Some Chinese analysts said Mr. Tillerson's remarks were an indication that the United States would continue to seek a robust presence in Asia, despite Mr. Trump's pledges to focus on domestic issues.	中国的一些分析人士指出, 蒂勒森的言论表明, 尽管特朗普承诺把重心放在国内问题上, 但美国将继续在亚洲寻求强大的存在。
Su Hao, a professor at China Foreign Affairs University in Beijing, said that such a move by Washington would draw resistance from China and other nations in the region.	北京中国外交学院的教授苏浩说, 华盛顿这种举动将引发中国和该地区其他国家的抵制。
"China will not adjust its policy regarding the South China Sea," Mr. Su said in a telephone interview. "We will continue to do things that are in line with our own national interests and our own logic."	"中国不会调整在南海的政策," 苏浩在电话采访中说。"我们将继续做符合国家利益以及自身逻辑的事情。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170116/rex-tillerson-south-china-sea	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170116/rex-tillerson-south-china-sea
Taiwan Works to Keep Its Central America Friends (Among Its Few)	中国压力下, 蔡英文努力维护中美洲邦交
MEXICO CITY — President Tsai Ing-wen of Taiwan has been	墨西哥城——台湾总统蔡英文上周出访中美洲, 参加了尼加拉瓜总统丹尼

hopscothing across Central America this week, attending the inauguration of Nicaragua’s president, Daniel Ortega, touring Guatemala’s colonial city of Antigua and visiting the shrine of Honduras’s patron saint.	尔·奥尔特加(Daniel Ortega)的就职典礼, 游览了危地马拉殖民城市安提瓜, 还参观了洪都拉斯守护神的神庙。
From a global perspective, it is the sort of tour that looks like a diplomatic asterisk. But there is nothing trivial about it for Ms. Tsai, who is in Central America to shore up relationships amid increasing pressure from China.	从全球角度来看, 这属于正常的外交旅行。但对于蔡英文来说, 在中国日益施压的时候去中美洲巩固邦交关系, 这绝不是件小事。
Taiwan, which China considers a breakaway province, has diplomatic relations with only 20 countries, along with the Vatican; the largest cluster of those is in Latin America and the Caribbean. These relationships, complete with embassies, trade agreements and foreign aid, strengthen Taiwan’s effective sovereignty.	中国认为台湾是个分裂的省份, 目前台湾只和 20 个国家以及梵蒂冈保持着外交关系; 其中不少国家位于拉丁美洲和加勒比海地区。这些邦交关系再加上大使馆、贸易协定和外国援助, 巩固了台湾实际上的主权地位。
That is particularly important now for Taiwan, which fears becoming a casualty as President-elect Donald J. Trump threatens to roil the China-America relationship. Mr. Trump accepted a congratulatory phone call from Ms. Tsai after his election, a break from protocol that prompted angry responses from China.	现在这对台湾来说特别重要, 美国候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)威胁要搅浑中美关系, 台湾担心自己会成为牺牲品。特朗普在胜选之后接听了蔡英文的祝贺电话, 这种破格之举引发了中国的愤怒反应。
In a pointed message this week, China sent its sole aircraft carrier through the Taiwan Strait, and Ms. Tsai’s government responded by scrambling fighter jets over the waterway.	上周, 中国派遣唯一的航母穿越台湾海峡, 传达出严厉的讯息, 蔡英文政府连忙做出反应, 战机紧急升空。
Maintaining the few formal relationships Taiwan has is an important source of domestic legitimacy for its leaders. If Taiwan is “not recognized by any country in the world — what good are you?” said Richard C. Bush, director of the Center for East Asia Policy Studies at the	维持台湾的少量正式邦交关系, 是台湾领导人在本土获得合法性的重要来源之一。如果台湾“不被世界上任何国家承认——那你有什么用”, 华盛顿布鲁金斯学会(Brookings Institution)东亚政策研究中心主任资深研究员理查德·C·布什(Richard C. Bush)说。

Brookings Institution in Washington.
China has worked for decades to isolate Taiwan. Under the One China policy, Beijing demands that countries with which it has diplomatic relations drop their recognition of Taiwan. Since the United States established formal ties with China in 1979, most of the world has followed suit.	几十年来，中国一直在竭力孤立台湾。在一个中国政策下，北京要求与它建交的国家放弃承认台湾。自美国在 1979 年正式与中国建交以来，世界上大多数国家也都与中国建立了外交关系。
Central America is an outlier. In a quirk of diplomacy, all the countries of the region except Costa Rica still recognize Taiwan.	中美洲是个例外。奇的是，除了哥斯达黎加，这个地区所有国家都依然承认台湾的外交地位。
China poached Taiwan's friendships for years, but it stopped while Ms. Tsai's predecessor, Ma Ying-jeou, who advocated closer ties to China, was in office. New leaders in Panama, Paraguay and El Salvador all explored a switch, but China held them at bay.	在过去多年里，中国一直在挖台湾的盟友，但它在蔡英文的前任马英九上台在任期间停止了这一行动，后者倡导与中国结成更紧密的关系。巴拿马、巴拉圭和萨尔瓦多的新领导人都试图倒戈，但中国稳住了他们。
"China can turn the screw whenever it wants," said Colin Alexander, an assistant professor of political communications at Nottingham Trent University who wrote a book about the relationship between Taiwan and Central America.	"只要它愿意，中国随时可以改变这种状况，"诺丁汉特伦特大学(Nottingham Trent University)助理教授科林·亚历山大(Colin Alexander)说。他写过一部有关台湾与中美洲关系的著作。
After the election last January of Ms. Tsai, whose Democratic Progressive Party has traditionally favored independence, China increased pressure on Taiwan, a democracy in which a majority of people do not want to be part of China. In her year-end news conference, Ms. Tsai said she wished to avoid confrontation.	自去年 1 月蔡英文——她领导的民进党历来支持独立——当选之后，中国加大对台湾的压力。后者是民主政体，它的大部分民众都不想成为中国的一部分。在年末举行的新闻发布会上，蔡英文表示，她希望能避免冲突。
But China responded bitterly to her call to Mr. Trump. Afterward, Saõ Tomé and Príncipe, an island nation off the west coast of Africa, broke relations with Taiwan. "One can see the Saõ Tomé switch as a signal from Beijing that 'we have leverage,'" Mr. Bush said.	但中国对她向特朗普致电反应极大。紧接着，位于非洲西海岸的岛国圣多美和普林西比与台湾断交。“可以将圣多美和普林西倒戈看作北京发出的一个信号，即‘我们手上有筹码’，”布什说。

In light of the call, "it would not be surprising to see increasing efforts from Beijing (and concomitant response from Taiwan) to lure allies away," Jonathan Sullivan, director of the China Policy Institute at the University of Nottingham, wrote in an email.	因为有那次通话，“北京更加努力（台湾随之也会做出反应）引诱其盟友脱离台湾，也就不奇怪了，”诺丁汉大学中国政策研究所(China Policy Institute at the University of Nottingham)所长苏利文(Jonathan Sullivan)在一封邮件中写道。
Since taking office in May, Ms. Tsai has been careful to cultivate those allies. In June, she visited Panama and then Paraguay, the only South American country that maintains relations with Taiwan. And the trip this week to four Central American allies is intended to keep them in the fold.	自去年 5 月就职以后，蔡英文一直小心地维护着这些盟友。去年 6 月，她先后访问了巴拿马和巴拉圭，后者是唯一一个与台湾保持外交关系的南美洲国家。本周访问四个中美洲国家，也是意在保持与它们的关系。
"The best outcome" of the trip "is that nothing happens," Mr. Bush said.	这趟旅程“最好的结果”就是“什么事也没有”，布什说。
One curious advantage of the Central American relationships for Ms. Tsai is that they allow her to make transit stops in the United States, asserting Taiwan's presence even if she cannot participate in formal diplomatic meetings. On her way to Panama last summer, Ms. Tsai met with Senator Marco Rubio in Miami. Recently in Texas, she met with Senator Ted Cruz and Gov. Greg Abbott on her way to Honduras.	对蔡英文来说，与中美洲国家保持外交关系有一个奇特的优势，即可以让她在美国做过境停留，以及宣示台湾的存在，尽管她不能参加正式的外交会议。在去年夏天前往巴拿马途中，蔡英文在迈阿密会见了参议员马尔科·卢比奥(Marco Rubio)。最近她又于前往洪都拉斯途中，在得克萨斯州会见了参议员特德·克鲁兹(Ted Cruz)和该州州长格雷格·阿伯特(Greg Abbott)。
Historically, the Central American countries, like others with formal ties to Taiwan, have found the arrangement favorable because Taiwan spent heavily to maintain them. But the money has sometimes ended up in the wrong hands. "Until the late 1990s, this was all about state bribery," Mr. Alexander said.	在历史上，这些中美洲国家和其他与台湾建交的国家一样，支持这样的安排，因为台湾投入了巨资来维持这种关系。但这些钱有时会落到错误的人手里。“直到 90 年代末之前，这完全是国家贿赂，”亚历山大说。
Former President Alfonso Portillo of Guatemala admitted in United States Federal Court in 2014 that he had received $2.5 million in bribes from Taiwan between 1999 and 2002 — ostensibly intended to buy books for school libraries — in exchange for diplomatic recognition.	2014 年，危地马拉前总统阿方索·波蒂略(Alfonso Portillo)曾在美国联邦法院承认，在 1999 至 2002 年间，他曾经从台湾接受 250 万美元的贿赂——替学校图书馆购买图书的名义——用以交换对台湾外交地位的承认。

Before his death last year, Francisco Flores, a former president of El Salvador, was charged with channeling $10 million in donations from Taiwan for victims of a 2001 earthquake to his political party. An additional $5 million in donations also disappeared.	在去年逝世之前，萨尔瓦多前总统弗朗西斯科·弗洛雷斯(Francisco Flores)曾被控将台湾给 2001 年一场地震的受害者提供的 1000 万美元捐款，用作自己政党的资金。另有 500 万美元捐款也不知去向。
There is a darker side to the relationships, too, going back to the Cold War. In the 1970s, Taiwan trained Guatemalan and Salvadoran military officers involved in rights violations in brutal civil wars.	这些关系还有黑暗的一面，可以追溯至冷战时期。上世纪 70 年代，台湾为在残酷内战中参与侵犯人权行动的危地马拉和萨尔瓦多军官提供了培训。
Taiwan has since ended its “checkbook diplomacy,” in a tacit acknowledgment that it could never outspend China. That has been clear in the Caribbean, where China has invested in expensive projects, sometimes in exchange for switching diplomatic recognition from Taiwan.	自那之后，台湾结束了“金钱外交”，默认自己的手笔永远大不过中国。这一点在加勒比海地区表现得很清楚，中国在那里投资了昂贵的项目，有的是作为交换，让这些国家不再承认台湾的外交地位。
Indeed, the other Central American countries have found that they can attract Chinese investment without normalizing diplomatic relations. They maintain informal business contacts.	事实上，其他中美洲国家已经发现，它们无需正常化外交关系也可以吸引中国的投资。它们维持着非正式的贸易关系。
“It’s all a kind of smoke and mirrors,” Mr. Alexander said. “The Central American republics have it pretty good. Taiwan treats them like a princess, and China is engaged in smart power and flexible diplomacy where it’s still willing to invest.”	“这有点像是烟幕与镜子，”亚历山大说。“中美洲的共和国在这方面玩得很好。台湾像对待公主一样对待它们，中国则在自己仍然愿意投资的领域，运用智慧和灵活的外交。”
China’s most grandiose investment in the region is a Chinese tycoon’s $50 billion plan to build a canal across Nicaragua, an opaque project with uncertain funding that stalled before work had begun. In Honduras, a Chinese company is building a dam on the Patuca River with funding from Chinese banks.	中国在这一地区最宏大的投资是一位中国大亨花 500 亿美元建造一条穿越尼加拉瓜的运河的计划。这是一个不太透明的项目，资金来源不明，在开工之前就陷入拖延。在洪都拉斯，一家中国公司正在帕图卡河上建造一座大坝，资金来自中国多家银行。
“As long as there is a fluid relationship between Taiwan and China, it’s a	“只要台湾和中国之间的关系还有余地，这个把戏它们就可以继续玩下去，”

game they can continue to play," said Enrique Dussel Peters, a China expert at the National Autonomous University of Mexico.	墨西哥国立自治大学(National Autonomous University)的中国专家恩里克·杜塞尔·彼得斯(Enrique Dussel Peters)说。
But turbulence in that relationship could change the dynamic.	但双方关系的震荡可能会改变这种状况。
"There have been discussions in each of these countries about whether it makes sense to continue the relationship with Taiwan," Mr. Dussel said.	"这些国家都在讨论，继续与台湾维持关系是否有意义，"杜塞尔说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170116/taiwan-president-tsai-central-america-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170116/taiwan-president-tsai-central-america-china
A Banker Inspired by Western Novelists Seeks to Build Asia	和亚投行掌门人金立群聊英美文学
BEIJING — As China was opening up 40 years ago, Jin Liqun was an ambitious young academic fascinated by 20th-century American literature and other Western works. In the fragile era after Mao's death, the freedom to indulge in such texts was a heady experience.	北京——40年前中国对外开放时，金立群还是一名踌躇满志的年轻学者，着迷于20世纪的美国文学和其他西方著作。在毛泽东去世后的脆弱时代里，沉迷在这类著作中的自由是一种令人陶醉的经历。
William Faulkner's novels in particular stuck with Mr. Jin, now the president of China's Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank, a major force in the country's rush to secure a leading role in the world's financial architecture. An underlined copy of "Absalom, Absalom!" is on his office bookshelves, along with Shakespeare and the Bible. He said he found inspiration in Faulkner's complex human relationships.	尤其痴迷于威廉·福克纳(William Faulkner)作品的金立群，现已是中国的亚洲基础设施投资银行(Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank, 简称亚投行)行长，该银行是中国为在全球金融体系中获得领导地位而展开的行动中的一个大动作。他办公室的书架上放着一本《押沙龙，押沙龙!》(Absalom, Absalom!)，书里画了许多重点线；旁边是莎士比亚的著作和《圣经》。他说自己在福克纳笔下复杂的人际关系中找到了灵感。
"I look at the literature of the U.S. to get a sense of humanity's adaptation to nature — conquering is a wrong term," he said. "You cannot conquer nature; you have to come to terms with nature, you have to cohabit with nature, and you have to cohabit with other species in this world."	"我从美国的文学作品中看到了人类对大自然的适应，征服这个说法是错误的，"他说。"你不可能征服大自然，你得和大自然达成一致，和大自然共处，得和世界上的其他物种共处。"
The Obama administration refused to join the bank when it opened at	该银行2015年底成立时，成员国数量惊人，包括了欧洲大国和除日本外的

the end of 2015 with a surprising number of members, including the European powers and the major Asian countries, except Japan.	主要亚洲国家，但奥巴马政府拒绝加入。
Yet Mr. Jin seems prepared to maneuver in the treacherous terrain between Beijing and Washington. His goal, he said, is to steer the bank toward building infrastructure across Asia in a way that is environmentally friendly and free of corruption.	不过金立群似乎做好了在北京和华盛顿之间的危险地带游走的准备。他说，他的目标是带领亚投行朝着在亚洲各地用对环境无害、没有腐败现象的方式修建基础设施的方向发展。
Mr. Jin, 67, gray-haired and slightly rumped, was at ease in a recent interview at the bank's temporary headquarters in Beijing's financial district.	最近在亚投行位于北京金融区的临时总部接受采访时，金立群一副轻松的神态，现年 67 岁的他头发灰白、稍显凌乱。
In his sparsely furnished office, guests are seated at the head of a long table, with the host alongside them. That makes meetings seem more like affairs of equals, rather than a hierarchy with China at the top, as some bank members fear.	在没有几件家具的办公室里，访客坐在一张长桌子的一端，主人就坐在他们旁边。这让会面看上去更像是地位平等的双方之间在谈事，而不是像一些成员国所担心的那样，是一种中国高高在上的等级制度。
It doesn't hurt relations with outsiders, particularly Europeans, that Mr. Jin has edited a two-volume anthology of English verse that starts with Chaucer and concludes with Seamus Heaney. Asked his favorites, he chooses T. S. Eliot, Ted Hughes and Dylan Thomas. Then he adds one more. "Ezra Pound is great, though he is a little bit controversial."	金立群编辑过一部两卷本的英文诗歌选集，用乔叟(Chaucer)开篇，以谢默斯·希尼(Seamus Heaney)收尾，这有益于与外面的人、尤其是欧洲人打交道。被问及最喜欢的诗人时，他选择了 T.S.艾略特(T. S. Eliot)、泰德·休斯(Ted Hughes)和迪伦·托马斯(Dylan Thomas)。之后，他又加了一个名字。“埃兹拉·庞德(Ezra Pound)也不错，不过他有点争议。”
At the Group of 20 meeting in Hangzhou last year, China's president, Xi Jinping, made it clear that no one should forget the bank is led by China. He singled out Mr. Jin for praise. That was an unusual public accolade by a Chinese leader to one of his foot soldiers, a signal that Mr. Jin had the full backing of the Chinese government.	去年，在杭州的二十国集团(Group of 20)峰会上，中国国家主席习近平明确表示，谁都不应忘记，亚投行是由中国发起成立的。他挑出金立群予以表扬。中国领导人公开称赞一名职位低但责任重的工作人员颇为少见，这标志着金立群得到了中国政府的全力支持。
Delicately, Mr. Jin chose another interpretation. "I think he was giving me a warning: 'You have to do your job well because all eyes are on	金立群谨慎地选择了另一种解读。“我觉得他是在告诫我：“你得把你的工作做好，因为所有人的眼睛都盯着这个银行。”

this bank.”
Mr. Jin has tried to persuade skeptics in Washington that the bank is not a Chinese hegemon, at least not for now. He has smoothed prickly attitudes by agreeing to cooperate with the workhorses of the 70-year-old American-dominated Bretton Woods system – the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank.	金立群试图让华盛顿持怀疑态度的人相信，亚投行不是中国的一个霸权，至少现在不是。通过同意和已有 70 年历史、以美国为主导的布雷顿森林 (Bretton Woods) 体系的主要机构世界银行(World Bank)和亚洲开发银行 (Asian Development Bank) 合作，他消除了敌对态度。
Still, he seems aware that the China-led bank is likely to prosper under a Trump administration that has shown little signs of interest in the World Bank or the International Monetary Fund.	他似乎也意识到，特朗普政府上台后，中国牵头成立的亚投行可能会繁荣发展。特朗普政府几乎未表现出对世界银行或国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)感兴趣的迹象。
He pointed to an article he wrote before Donald J. Trump won the presidency. “The U.S. risks forfeiting its international relevance while stuck in its domestic political quagmire,” he wrote, adding, “History has never set any precedent that an empire is capable of governing the world forever.”	他提到了自己在唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)赢得总统选举之前写的一篇文章。“美国的风险在于一方面与国际脱节，一方面陷入国内的政治泥沼，”他写道，并接着表示，“历史上从来没有先例，哪一个王朝可以永远地统治世界。”
Mr. Jin has none of the family lineage that counts in getting to the top in China. He is not a princeling, the rank that confers privilege on Chinese leaders by virtue of being a descendant of the revolutionary leaders of the Mao era.	在升到中国最高层的过程中，金立群的家族中没有可以仰仗的人。他不是太子党。后者是一个凭借身为毛泽东时代革命领袖的后代而被赋予中国领导人特权的阶层。
But he likes to stress that he was born at a propitious moment for the Communist Party. The Nationalists under Chiang Kai-shek had fled China’s east coast and the Communists were in control by the time he was born in Changsu, a river port city in Jiangsu Province, in August 1949.	但他喜欢强调自己出生在一个对共产党有利的时刻。1949 年，金立群出生在江苏省的一个内河港口城市常熟。那时，蒋介石领导的国民党已逃离中国东部沿海地区，共产党已取得控制权。
“I was born under the red flag,” he said with a big smile.	“我生在红旗下，”他大笑着说。
His father was an accountant, his mother a textile worker, and his	他的父亲是一名会计，母亲是一名纺织工人，和他们同住的爷爷因为一起工

grandfather, who lived with the family, was disabled from a work accident. The eldest child of five, he was left to handle the household while still in primary school.	伤事故而致残。他在五个孩子中排行老大，还在上小学时就要料理家务。
"I tried to be a little leader of my siblings," he said. "I never beat my brothers or sisters. I started to learn to cook when I was 9."	"我努力当弟弟妹妹的小领袖，"他说。"我从没打过弟弟妹妹。我9岁就开始学做饭了。"
He was still in high school when the chaos of the Cultural Revolution began in 1966, and like all students at the time, he was corralled to become a Red Guard. After a brief stint, he retreated to the countryside, a decade-long journey that left an indelible impression.	1966年文化大革命的混乱开始出现时，他还在上高中。和当时的所有学生一样，他被裹挟着成了一名红卫兵。不久后，他便下乡了。十年的下乡经历给他留下了难以忘怀的印象。
He joined the peasants in the fields during the day. At night, he studied at a makeshift desk forged from a discarded blackboard and four bamboo sticks. He devised a strict curriculum for himself, and devoted himself to mastering written and spoken English, via BBC radio.	白天，他和农民一起下地干活。晚上，他在用一块废弃的黑板和四根竹杆做的临时书桌旁学习。他给自己设计了一个严格的课程表，并通过BBC的广播努力掌握英语写作和口语。
At the end of the Cultural Revolution, he enrolled in the postgraduate English literature program at the Beijing Foreign Studies University in 1978.	文革结束后，他于1978年考上了北京外国语大学的研究生，学习英语文学。
There, he came under the wing of Prof. Wang Zuoliang, a dedicated teacher of English-language authors. When Mr. Wang returned from a trip to the Adelaide Festival in Australia in 1980, he encouraged Mr. Jin to translate "The Tree of Man," a novel about man's battle with nature by Patrick White, the Australian Nobel laureate.	在那里，他师从王佐良教授。王佐良是一名兢兢业业的老师，教授英语文学。1980年去澳大利亚参加阿德莱德艺术节(Adelaide Festival)回国后，王佐良便鼓励金立群翻译澳大利亚诺贝尔奖获得者帕特里克·怀特(Patrick White)的小说《人之树》(The Tree of Man)。该书讲述的是人类与大自然的斗争。
China had just joined the World Bank. Because Mr. Jin was fluent in English, the Finance Ministry plucked him out of academia to join the office of the executive director for China at the World Bank in Washington. He had translated five chapters of White's book, but	那时，中国刚刚加入世界银行。因为金立群英语流利，财政部把他从学术界挖走，派他去华盛顿的世界银行中国执行董事办公室工作。当时，怀特那本书他已经翻译了五章。但为了服务国家，他放下了一切。 dropped everything to serve his country.

The stint in Washington led to a career at the top echelons of China's financial machinery: He was vice minister of finance, and later chairman of the supervisory board of the China Investment Corporation.	在华盛顿工作的那段经历为他开启了在中国金融系统高层的职业生涯：他曾担任财政部副部长，后来又出任中国投资有限责任公司监事长。
All the while he kept up his interest in things Western. In 1998, his daughter, Keyu, asked to leave home at 14 to live with an American family in New York and attend school there — a revolutionary idea for a Chinese family at the time. Mr. Jin's experience abroad prepared him for sending his only child away, Keyu Jin said.	他一直对西方的事情很感兴趣。1998年，14岁的女儿金刻羽想要离开家，搬到纽约的一个美国家庭去住，并在当地上学——当时对于中国家庭来说，这是一个革命性的想法。金刻羽说，父亲自己在海外的经历，让他做好了把唯一的孩子送出国的准备。
"My father was able to let me go," said Ms. Jin, 33, now a tenured assistant professor of economics at the London School of Economics, and a popular figure on China's social media. He set an example, she said, by always "reading and writing and listening to classical music after work. We never watched television."	"父亲能让我走，"金刻羽说。她现年33岁，是伦敦政治经济学院(London School of Economics)经济学终身助理教授，也是中国社交媒体上的红人。她说父亲做出了榜样，"下班后总是读书、写作、听古典音乐。我们从来不看电视。"
Beneath his diplomatic finesse, Mr. Jin is fiercely patriotic. Under the bank's rules, a Chinese does not automatically succeed him.	在金立群外交精神的背后，是强烈的爱国主义精神。根据该银行的规则，接替他的未必会是中国人。
But his expectations are clear.	但他的期望很明显。
"I would hope a Chinese can succeed me, and I hope we have competent Chinese people to succeed me in the future," he said, before heading off to a meeting with a delegation that was too big to fit around the table in his office.	"我希望会有一个中国人接替我，我希望我们有能干的中国人，在未来接替我的工作。"说完，他离开去和一个代表团见面，代表团人数太多，他办公室的桌子旁边坐不下。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170117/china-aiib-jin-liqun	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170117/china-aiib-jin-liqun
U.S.-Trained Official May Shape China's Response to Trump on Trade	习近平的市场派经济顾问面临更大改革阻力
BEIJING — Over the last year, Liu He, a soft-spoken,	北京——去年一年里，说话斯文、曾在美国接受教育的刘鹤巩固了他作为中

American-educated technocrat, has consolidated his status as President Xi Jinping's top economic adviser, amassing influence that some believe rivals that of the prime minister.	国国家主席习近平最高经济顾问的地位。一些人认为，他积聚的影响力堪比总理。
But as his star has climbed, Mr. Liu has struggled to overcome resistance to a program of measured economic liberalization and more open markets that he argues is critical to China's long-term economic health — and that is generally favored by Washington.	但在地位上升期间，刘鹤努力克服着经济审慎的自由化并进一步开放市场这样一个方案所遇到的阻力，刘鹤认为这对中国经济的长久健康至关重要，而且总体上华盛顿也是欢迎这样一个方案的。
Now, as President-elect Donald J. Trump prepares to enter the White House renewing warnings of China's economic menace, it will be even more difficult for Mr. Liu to achieve his agenda, which could be overwhelmed by fears of fallout from a trade war.	现在，随着候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)准备入主白宫，并重新对中国的经济威胁发出警告，刘鹤达成自己议程的难度会更大。该议程可能会被对贸易战后果的担忧所淹没。
There is little in his public record to suggest precisely how he would advise Mr. Xi to handle Mr. Trump's threats to raise tariffs on Chinese products.	在刘鹤的公开言行中，几乎没有迹象能清晰地表明他将如何建议习近平应对特朗普对中国的产品加征关税的威胁。
But in a study he oversaw that was published as a book more than three years ago, he argued that China "cannot shoulder excessive responsibility" for reducing its trade deficits with other economies.	但在他领导的一项研究中，他说中国“承担过多国际经济调整责任”。三年前，该研究的成果出书发表。
"Populist policies adopted by the governments of developed countries are often the instigators of crisis," he wrote.	“发达国家政府所采取的民粹主义政策通常是危机的推手，”他写道。
In the pre-Trump era, Mr. Liu was seen as the kind of Chinese official whom Americans could work with. He advocated China's adjusting its saving and spending to help the United States recover from the 2008 financial crisis.	在前特朗普时代，刘鹤被视为那种美国人可以同其合作的中国官员。他支持中国调整储蓄和开支，帮助美国从2008年的金融危机中复苏。
When President Obama's treasury secretary, Jacob J. Lew, needed to cut through the fog of Chinese economic policy last winter, he called	去年冬天，当奥巴马总统的财政部长雅各布·J·卢(Jacob J. Lew)需要绕过中国经济政策的迷雾时，他给刘鹤打了电话。

Mr. Liu.
"Liu He was always kind of a must-stop for Treasury because he had a macro view of the Chinese economy and the global economy," said David P. Loevinger, the senior coordinator for China affairs at the Treasury in President Obama's first term.	"刘鹤永远是财政部必须要请教的人，因为他是从宏观的角度看待中国经济和全球经济的，"奥巴马总统第一届任期内的财政部中国事务高级协调员的洛文杰(David P. Loevinger)说。
Mr. Liu was regarded as an insider with a direct line to the top.	刘鹤被认为是可与高层直接联系的内部人士。
Now he is widely expected to become the director of the National Development and Reform Commission, a powerful agency where he is currently a deputy director. That promotion would increase his visibility as well as his prospects of becoming a deputy prime minister in 2018, when a new government is formed for Mr. Xi's second term.	现在，外界普遍预计他会成为大权在握的国家发展和改革委员会的主任。他目前的身份是副主任。这种提拔会增加对他的关注，以及他在2018年习近平第二届任期的新政府成立时担任副总理的机会。
Mr. Liu cannot dictate policy unilaterally, but his proximity to Mr. Xi gives him more sway than his bureaucratic-sounding titles would suggest.	刘鹤不能单方面决定政策，但和习近平关系亲近让他的影响力比其听上去颇具官僚气息的头衔所显示的要大。
"There's no doubt in my mind that Liu He is extraordinarily powerful," said Christopher K. Johnson, a senior China analyst at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. "He has shifted from a stance earlier on when he was very careful not to demonstrate the level of influence he had."	"我心里毫不怀疑刘鹤的影响力非常大这一点，"华盛顿国际战略研究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)高级中国问题分析师克里斯托弗·K·约翰逊(Christopher K. Johnson)说。"早前他非常谨慎，不愿显露自己的影响力，现在他已经改变了这种态度。"
Beside pressing for a dose of economic liberalization and more room for markets, he has advocated trimming bloated state-owned industry and sought to curtail China's ever-rising debt.	除了要求一定程度的经济自由化和提升市场的地位外，他还支持精简臃肿的国有行业，并寻求减少中国不断增加的债务。
But even as he has gained influence, his ability to push through changes in these areas has been limited. Mr. Xi still calls the shots, and his pledge to revamp the economy jostles alongside his fiercely	但即便影响力增加，他在这些领域推行变革的能力也有限。习近平仍是发号施令的人，他一边承诺振兴经济，一边推行极其保守的议程，旨在恢复党的控制并保护国有企业。习近平产业重组和减少债务的承诺，与保持增长的誓

conservative agenda to restore party control and protect state companies. Mr. Xi's promises of shaking up industry and reducing debt clash with vows to keep growth ticking.	言相抵触。
Mr. Liu "is committed to reform, I have no doubt," said Eswar Prasad, a Cornell University economist who used to be the China section chief at the International Monetary Fund. "Despite his commitment to the reforms, he doesn't have the power to make it happen," at least not without the backing of powerful allies.	刘鹤“真心想要推进改革，我对此毫不怀疑”，康奈尔大学(Cornell University)经济学家、国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)前中国事务主管埃斯瓦尔·普拉萨德(Eswar Prasad)说。“尽管他是真心想要推进改革，但并不具备把理想变成现实所需要的权力”，至少在没有位高权重的盟友支持下是不可能的。
The election of Mr. Trump and his selection of a trade team that seems ready to restrict China's exports to the United States have only complicated the task ahead for Mr. Liu. The risk of layoffs in export industries, and even just the uncertainty about what lies ahead, will make it even harder to push through changes and may strengthen the hand of bureaucrats who want banks to keep lending heavily to keep businesses humming, regardless of losses.	特朗普的当选，加之他选出的贸易团队似乎准备限制中国向美国的出口，只会令刘鹤今后的任务变得更加复杂。出口产业裁员的风险，乃至前方的不确定性，会让改革更加难以推进，那些希望银行一直不计代价地大力放贷以便维持企业运行的官僚，这样一来会更有声势。
Chinese trade experts with government ties have already hinted that if the Trump administration imposes barriers to Chinese goods, they are ready to retaliate through steps like switching aircraft contracts from Boeing to Airbus, diverting food import contracts to rival countries like Brazil and possibly making it more difficult for Apple to sell iPhones in China.	一些有政府关系的中国贸易专家已经暗示，如果特朗普政府针对进口自中国的商品设置壁垒，他们准备以某些举措进行报复，比如把跟波音(Boeing)的合约转给空中客车(Airbus)，把食品进口地从美国换成巴西等与之竞争的国家，还有可能进一步给苹果公司(Apple)在中国的 iPhone 销售设置障碍。
While Mr. Liu and other market-oriented economists may see an argument in principle for lowering some of China's steep trade barriers, doing so amid the nationalistic backlash that could be provoked by American trade restrictions would be political poison.	刘鹤和其他主张以市场为导向的经济学家，也许原则上主张降低中国的某些高耸的贸易壁垒，但在美国的贸易限制措施可能引发的民族主义抵制浪潮中这样做，无异于饮下政治毒药。

But Mr. Liu is a savvy player. His response to his agenda being sidelined in 2015 offers an intriguing window into his political style and the art of waging policy battles at the top levels of the Xi administration.	不过，刘鹤是一个明白人。当他的议程在 2015 年被搁置时，从他的反应不仅能看出他的政治风格，还可以一窥在习近平政府高层进行政策斗争的艺术。
A set of economic challenges that year — the stock market tumble in June, a currency devaluation two months later and a significant and unexpected slowing of economic growth — dampened the appetite for economic liberalization. Policy tensions opened up over the right balance between shoring up growth and imposing overhauls.	那一年的一系列经济挑战——股市在 6 月份崩盘，人民币在两个月后贬值，经济增速出人意料地大幅放缓——抑制了人们对于经济自由化的热望。由于要在保持增长和实施改革之间寻求适当地平衡，政策压力颇大。
Mr. Liu began a canny lobbying effort aimed squarely at Mr. Xi.	刘鹤开始径直对习近平进行高明的游说。
In an apparent bid to win favor, Mr. Liu submitted a long memo in late 2015 praising Mr. Xi's record in office and arguing that he had a historic mission to transform China, including by making bold economic changes, according to four people who have been told about the document by senior officials. All spoke on the condition of anonymity.	显然是以博取好感为目的，刘鹤于 2015 年末递交了一份大篇幅的备忘录。据四名从高级官员口中得知备忘录相关内容的人士透露，刘鹤称颂了习近平的政绩，并声称他肩负着推进中国改革进程的历史使命，包括进行大胆的经济改革。上述四名人士均要求匿名。
While the memo was not made public, Mr. Xi endorsed it by ordering it circulated among the party's upper echelons.	这份备忘录并未被公开，但却得到了习近平的首肯，命令在党内高层传阅。
Last May, an article by an anonymous official appeared in People's Daily, the Communist Party's main newspaper, warning of the risks of an overleveraged economy. The official, cited only as an "authoritative person," accused laggard officials of undercutting reforms by trying to spend their way out of economic malaise, implicitly exempting Mr. Xi from any blame.	去年 5 月，由一名匿名官员撰写的一篇文章出现在共产党的主要报纸《人民日报》上，警告高杠杆经济的风险。这位官员只是自称“权威人士”，他指责落后的官员试图依靠投资在经济困境中找到出路，从而削弱了改革，文章含蓄地为习近平开脱。
If rising debt is not restrained, "it will trigger a systemic financial crisis and lead to negative growth and even the evaporation of ordinary people's savings," the article said. "That would be fatal."	如果上升的债务不受限制，“就会引发系统性金融危机，导致经济负增长，甚至让老百姓储蓄泡汤，”文章说。“那就要命了。”

Officials, economists and even reports in the Chinese news media have said the article came from Mr. Liu's office, and the article echoes phrases and ideas Mr. Liu has used.	官员、经济学家甚至中国新闻媒体的报道都说,这篇文章来自刘鹤的办公室,它与刘鹤用过的措辞和想法是一致的。
Still, the results of his campaign have been limited. Beijing disclosed on Thursday that bank loans and other credit rose again last month by more than Western economists had expected, a trend that has continued largely unabated in the eight months since the anonymous article appeared.	不过,他的努力获得的成果有限。北京于周四披露,银行贷款和其他信贷上个月的上升再次超过西方经济学家的预期,在这篇匿名文章发表后的八个月内,这一趋势大体上没有减弱。
In nearly any room of senior Chinese officials, Mr. Liu stands out. While most other bureaucrats in their 50s and 60s dye their hair black, Mr. Liu, 64, has gray hair.	在中国高层官员中,刘鹤总是显得很不一样。大多数官僚在五六十岁便开始染黑发,64岁的刘鹤却留着灰白的头发。
He also stands out for his American education, a rare qualification among senior Chinese officials. He received a master's degree in public administration from the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, and before that studied business at Seton Hall University in New Jersey.	他所接受的美国教育也令他与众不同,这种资历在中国高级官员中是罕有的。他曾在哈佛大学的肯尼迪政府学院获得公共管理硕士学位,之后在新泽西的西东大学(Seton Hall University)学习。
Returning to Beijing, he rose quickly from writing studies of industrial policy as a government researcher to leading the party group that steers economic policy. In 2013, he became a deputy director of the National Development and Reform Commission, which steers industrial policy.	回到北京,他以政府研究员的身份撰写的产业政策研究文章让他平步青云,成为指导经济政策的党内组织的负责人。2013年,他成为国家发展和改革委员会的副主任,负责制定产业政策。
"He was seen as influential under the previous presidency, and his influence has increased further under Xi Jinping," Charles Collyns, a former assistant Treasury secretary, said. "He had a well-informed, shrewd, balanced assessment of China's structure and priorities. He	"他在上一届政府中被认为是有影响力的人物,这种影响力在习近平任内进一步增加了,"前财政部助理部长查尔斯·科林斯(Charles Collyns)说。"他对中国的组织结构和当务之急做出了有见地的、精准而平衡的评估。他看上去并不是一个狂热分子。" didn't come across as a firebrand."

While his response to American trade restrictions is unknown, there is little doubt that a trade war with the United States would amplify the voices of economic nationalism.	他对美国贸易限制的反应是未知的，毫无疑问，与美国的贸易战争将放大经济民族主义的声音。
As Global Times, a nationalistic Chinese newspaper controlled by the Communist Party, put it in an editorial this month: "There are flowers in front of the China Commerce Ministry gate, but sticks as well, hidden behind the door. Both are waiting for the Americans."	正如共产党控制的中国民族主义报纸《环球时报》在本月发表的一篇社论中所说：“中国商务部的门前摆着鲜花，但门后同样藏着大棒。它们都在恭候美国人。” https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170118/liu-he-china-trade-trump	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170118/liu-he-china-trade-trump
3 Performances by Sumi Jo, Korean Soprano, Canceled in China	韩国著名女高音歌唱家来华巡演被取消
BEIJING — Sumi Jo, a Grammy Award-winning South Korean soprano, had been scheduled to perform alongside three top orchestras in mainland China.	北京——曾获格莱美奖的韩国女高音歌唱家曹秀美原定在中国大陆与三家顶级管弦乐团一起表演。
One venue billed the performance as a "grand and worthy" tribute to the beloved opera singer Maria Callas by "one of the most sought-after Korean sopranos in the world."	一家音乐厅的广告把表演称为“世界上最抢手的韩国女高音之一”，对深受爱戴的歌剧歌手玛丽亚·卡拉斯(Maria Callas)的“盛大和当之无愧”的致敬。
But on Sunday, about a month before the concerts were scheduled to take place, the three orchestras suddenly issued separate but seemingly coordinated notices announcing that Ms. Jo, a veteran coloratura soprano, would no longer be performing.	但是，就在音乐会即将举行前约一个月的周日，这三家管弦乐团突然发出了通知，宣布有丰富经验的花腔女高音曹秀美将不再出场演出。这三家乐团的通知是各自单独发出的，但似乎又是协同一致的行动。
The cancellations have heightened suspicions that South Korean classical musicians are the latest casualties of political tensions with China that go back to July, when the government in Seoul announced that it would deploy a United States missile-defense system known as Thaad on its soil.	这些取消演出的声明增强了人们怀疑，认为韩国古典音乐家成为了中韩紧张政治关系的最新受害者。紧张关系是从去年7月开始的，当时首尔政府宣布，将在该国领土上部署一个名为“萨德”的美国导弹防御系统。

In statements published on their official WeChat social media accounts, three orchestras — the Shanghai Symphony, the Guangzhou Symphony, and the China Philharmonic in Beijing — offered little or no explanation for why Ms. Jo would not be performing.	这三家乐团是上海交响乐团、广州交响乐团，以及北京的中国爱乐乐团，它们在各自的官方微信社交媒体帐户上发表的声明中，基本上或根本没有解释曹秀美为什么不演了。
The China Philharmonic noted that Ms. Jo and the South Korean conductor Min Chung had been “forced to withdraw” from the performance for “specific reasons.”	中国爱乐乐团只是说，曹秀美和韩国指挥家郑旻“因故被迫取消”演出。
For each of the concerts, a Chinese soprano will replace Ms. Jo; the Chinese conductor Yang Yang will replace Mr. Min at the Beijing concert.	一名中国女高音歌唱家将取代曹秀美出场与三家乐团的演出；中国指挥家杨洋将在北京的音乐会上取代郑旻。
The Xi’an Concert Hall has also removed from its online performance calendar information about a concert that had been scheduled for March 25 and that was to feature Ms. Jo. It was not part of the Callas tribute series.	西安音乐厅也从其在线表演日程表上删除了关于一个音乐会的信息，那场音乐会原定于3月25日举行，由曹秀美主唱。但那不是致敬卡拉斯系列的一部分。
Ms. Jo’s performances with the Hong Kong Philharmonic on Feb. 3 and 4 appear to be unaffected. The city has a separate visa application process.	曹秀美于2月3日和4日与香港管弦乐团的表演似乎未受影响。香港有自己单独的签证申请过程。
The announcements on Sunday came just days after a performance by the South Korean pianist Kun-woo Paik and the Guiyang Symphony Orchestra, scheduled for March in the Chinese province of Guizhou, was abruptly called off on Wednesday.	就在周日宣告出来的几天前，原定于3月在中国贵州省举办的一场韩国钢琴家白健宇与贵阳交响乐团的演出也在周三突然被取消。
Mr. Paik has been replaced in the program by the renowned Chinese pianist Sa Chen, the Guiyang Symphony Orchestra said on its website.	贵阳交响乐团在其网站上说，著名中国钢琴家陈萨将取代白健宇出场表演。
“We never expected this to happen,” Ms. Jo’s brother, Jay Jo, said by telephone on Monday. “Sumi has toured nearly every year in China for	“我们从来没想到会发生这种事，”曹秀美的兄弟曹杰(Jay Jo)周一通过电话说。“秀美几乎每年都在中国巡回演出，已有近10年了。”

almost 10 years.”
Many observers had been expecting various forms of Chinese retaliation after the announcement about the missile system. In August, several events in China featuring South Korean music and television stars were suddenly called off, setting off fears that the Chinese government was quietly going after K-pop, one of South Korea’s biggest cultural exports.	宣布部署导弹系统之后，许多观察者一直在预计中国会以各种形式进行报复。去年8月，中国举办的几场以韩国音乐和电视明星为主的活动突然遭到取消，这让人们担心，中国政府正在悄悄地对韩国流行音乐下手，而这是韩国最大的文化出口之一。
There has been no official confirmation of a Chinese blacklist or a ban on South Korean artists and entertainers. But “that’s the beauty of the Chinese government – they never say anything,” Mr. Jo said.	官方尚未证实中国是否有一个被禁的韩国艺术家和艺人的黑名单。但是，“这正是中国政府的美妙之处——他们从来都不公开表态，”曹杰说。
He added that the idea for the tribute concerts to Callas had been presented to Ms. Jo more than two years ago, and that the China tour dates had been confirmed in the summer.	他还说，致敬卡拉斯音乐会的想法两年多前就向曹秀美提出来了，中国巡回演出的日程也已在去年夏季确定。
When Ms. Jo was preparing to apply for an entry visa last month, Mr. Jo said, the Chinese orchestras were unable to provide the required government-approved invitation letter.	曹杰说，当曹秀美上个月准备申请入境签证时，中国管弦乐团却无法提供所需的、得到政府批准的邀请函。
Reached by telephone on Monday, the Guangzhou Symphony Orchestra declined to comment. The China Philharmonic Orchestra and the Shanghai Symphony Orchestra did not respond to requests for comment sent by email and WeChat. The Chinese conductor Long Yu, who holds a leadership position in all three of the orchestras, did not respond to a call for comment.	周一打电话给广州交响乐团时，他们拒绝发表评论。中国爱乐乐团和上海交响乐团也没有回应用电子邮件和微信发去的置评请求。在这三家管弦乐团担任领导职务的中国指挥家余隆没有接听请他置评的电话。
Ms. Jo last performed in China in May, at a concert with the guitarist Pepe Romero at the National Center for Performing Arts in Beijing.	曹秀美最近一次在中国演出，是去年5月与吉他手佩佩·罗梅罗(Pepe Romero)在位于北京的国家表演艺术中心的一个音乐会上。
On Jan. 31, she will make her debut with the New York Philharmonic at	1月31日，她将在纽约爱乐乐团的年度春节音乐会上首次亮相。余隆将担

its annual Chinese New Year concert. Mr. Long will conduct.	任指挥。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170124/sumi-jo-soprano-maria-callas	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170124/sumi-jo-soprano-maria-callas
Xiaomi, Chinese Phone Maker, Losing Its Global Face as Hugo Barra Exits	小米全球副总裁离职，称生活环境影响健康
HONG KONG — Xiaomi, the smartphone start-up that showed the potential and the limits of a new generation of Chinese technology companies, is losing its most familiar global face.	香港——智能手机初创企业小米展现了新一代中国科技公司的潜力和局限性，现在它正失去其最广为人知的全球代言人。
On Monday, Hugo Barra, a Google veteran who ran Xiaomi's global division, said he planned to resign and return to Silicon Valley. Mr. Barra became the global face of Xiaomi, a little-known phone maker as it became a well-known brand and a sign of China's newfound tech prowess.	周一，谷歌前雇员、小米全球部门主管雨果·巴拉(Hugo Barra)表示要离职并回到硅谷。巴拉成为小米的全球性招牌期间，该公司从一个名不见经传的的手机制造商变成了一个知名品牌，也变成了中国新兴科技实力的一个标志。
But his departure comes as some of that promise looks to be in doubt. Xiaomi grew quickly in China by selling cheaper smartphones with premium features, initially only online. It has had mixed success outside China, however. At home, it faces rising competition from big, deep-pocketed rivals like Huawei Technologies and other scrappy upstarts like the Chinese brand OnePlus.	但是他离开的时候，小米看上去有些前景不妙。最初小米手机只在网上销售。通过销售这些具有高级功能，但价格便宜的手机，小米在中国迅速成长。然而，在中国以外的地区，小米的扩张有成功也有失败。在本土，它也面临着日益激烈的市场竞争，对手不仅有华为这种财力雄厚的大公司，也包括一加(OnePlus)这种生机勃勃的新兴品牌。
Two years ago, Xiaomi was valued around $45 billion. Today, the company, which is privately held, is widely considered to be worth far less.	两年前，小米估值约 450 亿美元。而如今，业界广泛认为这家私人持有的公司价值已经远远不及当年。
In a note about his resignation on Facebook, Mr. Barra, who joined Xiaomi in 2013, called his time there "spectacular" and said that he was moving on for personal reasons.	巴拉在 2013 年加入小米，他在 Facebook 上发布离职消息时，称自己在那里的经历“叹为观止”，并表示他是出于个人原因离开的。
"But what I've realized is that the last few years of living in such a	"但我意识到，这几年在这样一个异常的环境中生活，对我的生活造成了巨

singular environment have taken a huge toll on my life and started affecting my health," he wrote, adding that he was moving back to Silicon Valley to be closer to friends and family.	大损害，并开始影响到我的健康状况，”他写道。他表示要回到硅谷，离朋友和家人近一点。
Bryan Ma, an analyst at IDC, said that Mr. Barra's departure was a blow to the company and that it called into question the future of Xiaomi's fledgling overseas business.	国际数据公司(IDC)的分析师布莱恩·马(Bryan Ma)说，巴拉的离开对小米是一个打击，让人们小米羽翼未丰的海外业务的前景提出了质疑。
"The question is, Who will replace him? Will that person be as effective an ambassador?" he said. "They're doing fine in India, but what happens for everything else? Where does this all sit in the grand plan they had several years ago to expand to a bunch of markets?"	“问题是，谁会替代他？这个人能起到大使的作用吗？”他说。“他们在印度的业绩不错，但是在其他市场呢？他们几年前制定了扩张到其他一些市场的宏伟计划，这对该计划有怎样的影响？”
Xiang Wang, a veteran of Qualcomm who has led Xiaomi's supply chain and intellectual property rights teams, will take over Mr. Barra's responsibilities and lead Xiaomi's global business, Xiaomi said. Mr. Barra did not respond to a request for comment.	小米表示，曾在高通公司任职的小米供应链和知识产权团队主管王翔将接替巴拉，领导小米的全球业务。巴拉没有回复置评请求。
Xiaomi has long been targeted by critics who accuse it of copying rivals. Yet its earlier success presaged the rise of other Chinese start-ups, such as the drone maker DJI, and demonstrated the power of the country's fast-growing e-commerce sector.	小米长期被人指责抄袭对手。然而，它在早期的成功不仅为其他中国初创企业的兴起揭开了序幕，比如无人机制造商大疆，而且也展示了该国快速增长的电商部门的实力。
Mr. Barra, the vice president responsible for Xiaomi's global division, presided over international expansion. Unlike China's other major internet companies, Xiaomi made an early decision to expand beyond China's borders, targeting markets like India, Myanmar and Brazil.	负责小米全球部门的副总裁巴拉主持了该公司的国际扩张行动。与中国其他大牌互联网公司不同的是，小米早就决定扩张到中国境外，并把目光瞄向了印度、缅甸和巴西等市场。
Mr. Barra, a widely recognized name in the tech world, was often the public face of that expansion. Orchestrating product releases in new markets and acting as an ambassador, he often gave talks in local	巴拉作为科技界广为人知的名人，常常在这种扩张中作为公开的招牌。他在新市场中协调产品发布并担任大使，经常在当地市场发表演讲，为产品造势。 markets to build buzz.

Xiaomi has done relatively well in India, which accounted for about 18 percent of the company's total phone shipments in the third quarter of 2016, according to IDC.	根据 IDC 的数据，小米在印度市场的销售形势相对较好，占了其 2016 年第三季度手机总出货量的 18%。
In other markets it has been less successful. For instance, after a high-profile release of its phones in Mr. Barra's home country of Brazil in 2015, the company has not been able to establish a significant beachhead there.	而在其他市场，小米的扩张不太成功。例如 2015 年在巴西高调发布手机后，小米未能在当地真正立住脚。
Competition has intensified in China from Huawei, OnePlus, Lenovo Group Limited and other companies getting into the handset business. From the third quarter of 2015 to the third quarter of 2016, Xiaomi's market share in China dropped to 8 percent from 16 percent, according to IDC.	而且华为、一加、联想，和其他进军手机业务的公司也加剧了国内的竞争。IDC 的资料显示，从 2015 年第三季度到 2016 年第三季度，小米在中国的市场份额已经从 16% 下降到了 8%。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170124/xiaomi-hugo-barra-resigns-smartphone	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170124/xiaomi-hugo-barra-resigns-smartphone
At Hong Kong New Year Fair, Defiance Gives Way to Resignation	年宵花市上香港人的愤怒与屈从
HONG KONG — Hong Kong's Lunar New Year fairs draw thousands of visitors who stroll past stalls of potted narcissus, snack on fish balls and snap up the latest plush toys. In recent years, the largest of the fairs, at Victoria Park, has also become a prime site for political expression.	香港——香港的年宵花市吸引了数以千计的游客，他们流连于盆栽水仙、鱼丸小吃的摊位，抢购最新款的毛绒玩具。位于维多利亚公园的年宵花市是规模最大的，近年来，那里也成为了表达政治诉求的重要场所。
Two years ago, after street protests failed to achieve greater public participation in the selection of the leader of Hong Kong, a semiautonomous Chinese territory, some holiday stalls offered clothing and other items carrying pointed messages of resistance. This year — before the March election of the leader in which the outcome will, as	香港是半自治的中国领土，两年前，当街头抗议未能实现让更多民众参与到香港领导人选举的目标后，这里年宵花市上的一些摊位就开始出售带有抵制信息的衣服和其他物品。香港领导人选举将于今年 3 月举行——选举结果会像往常一样，由亲北京人士在候选人经过了审查的终选名单里投票选出一——而现在，反抗似乎已经变成了愤怒的屈从。

usual, be decided by pro-Beijing loyalists voting on a short list of vetted candidates — defiance appears to have given way to indignant resignation.
"I feel so helpless that as a Hong Konger, as a citizen, I don't even have a vote," said Priscilla Pang, a 22-year-old student, frowning at a wheel of fortune featuring the faces of several potential candidates for the leader, or chief executive. Given a choice, she would pick none of them, she said. "We're like chickens having food forced down their throats. There's no use fighting."	22 岁的学生普莉希拉·庞(Priscilla Pang)说,“很无奈我身为一个香港人,一名公民,我连一票也没有。”她皱眉看着一个幸运轮,上面有香港最高领导行政长官几个候选人的头像。她说,如果有选择,她不会选他们中的任何一个。“像小鸡被迫喂食一样,挣扎也没有用。”
The wheel of fortune was set up by the pro-democracy Civic Party to highlight the closed nature of the election, said Alvin Yeung, the party leader and a legislator.	这个幸运轮是由亲民主的公民党(Civic Party)设立,用来突显选举的封闭性质,该党党魁、立法会议员杨岳桥说道。
"Most of the Hong Kong people who came and played the wheel, they don't have the right to vote," Mr. Yeung said. "We allow people to take their turn and see who will be the one, but at the end of the day our message is, 'None of them are your real choice because this election is not a genuine election.'"	“大部分来玩这个幸运轮的香港市民,他们没有投票权。”杨岳桥说,“我们让市民来玩这个幸运轮,转转看谁会当选,但最终我们要传达信息是,‘他们并不是你真正的选择,因为这次选举不是真正的选举。’”
Nearby, a stall run by the Democratic Party was selling a modified version of Fish, Prawn, Crab, a Chinese game of chance. It, too, featured the expected candidates, with the winners determined by a roll of the dice. The point was that whichever candidate won, it was from the same restricted pool.	民主党(Democratic Party)在附近摆了一个卖类似“鱼虾蟹”的摊位,这是一种碰运气的中式游戏。其内容也是意料之中的候选人,获胜者以掷骰子的方式来决定。问题是,无论哪个候选人胜出,都是来自同一个有限的池子。
"Most people here will not be able to participate whatsoever," said Helena Wong, a member of the Democratic Party, as she finished a "fai chun" — good wishes written in Chinese calligraphy on red paper — for	“这里的人基本上都没法参与,”民主党党员黄碧云说道,她写了一个“挥春”(粤语地区对春联、福贴的叫法——译注),也就是在红纸上写下祝福的话。“他们最多只能玩玩这个罢。”

display. "They can at most have fun playing the game."
The declared candidates include three former government officials and a retired judge. All except the former judge, who is given little chance of winning, have embraced the strict framework the Chinese government imposed in 2014 for changes to Hong Kong's election rules. It allowed the chief executive to be elected, for the first time, by a popular vote. But the list of candidates would still be chosen by a pro-Beijing committee. It was that decision that led to the months of protests in Hong Kong, later known as the Umbrella Movement, calling for "genuine" universal suffrage.	已经宣布参选的候选人包括三名前政府官员和一名退休的法官。除了几乎没有获胜机会的前法官之外，其他人都接受了中国政府在2014年对香港选举规则进行修改的严格框架。根据该框架，行政长官将第一次以民众投票的方式选举。但候选人名单仍然会由一个亲北京的委员会拟定。正是这个决定导致香港出现了持续数月的抗议活动，即后来所说的雨伞运动，呼吁真普选。
Some leaders of the 2014 protests went on to win seats on the Legislative Council, Hong Kong's 70-member legislature, but a sense of gloom was evident along the political aisle at the weeklong fair, where pro-democracy parties were calling for donations to fight a government-initiated legal challenge to their members' qualifications to take office.	2014年抗议活动的一些领导人在香港70个议席的立法会中赢得了席位，但这个为期一周的年宵花市的政党摊位，显然缭绕着悲观的情绪。民主党派在年宵花市上呼吁市民捐款，应对政府对其成员就职资格发起的法律挑战。
"Nathan Law could be stripped of his Legislative Council membership," Joshua Wong, a leader of the 2014 protests who co-founded the Demosisto party with Mr. Law, shouted through a megaphone. "If — touch wood — he loses the case, he would go bankrupt."	"罗冠聪(Nathan Law)可能会失去立法会会员资格，"2014年抗议活动的领导者、与罗冠聪共同创办香港众志(Demosisto)党的黄之锋(Joshua Wong)通过扩音器大喊。"如果——touch wood（但愿走好运）——他输了官司，他会破产。"
Mr. Law, who at 23 is the youngest person ever to have been elected to the Legislative Council, is among four pro-democracy legislators the government is trying to unseat over what it said were invalid oaths of office. The move has stirred worries of a wider crackdown on opposition politicians, after the government won a similar, but separate,	23岁的罗冠聪是立法会有史以来最年轻的当选议员，政府正在试图以"无效宣誓"为由，取消他和其他三名亲民主议员的资格。此举令大家担忧反对派政治人士遭到更大范围的镇压，因为政府已经赢得了类似的但不相关的案件，阻止了两名支持香港独立的政治人士到立法会就任。香港是前英国殖民地，在1997年回归中国的统治。

case that prevented two politicians who favor independence for Hong Kong, a former British colony that returned to Chinese rule in 1997, from taking seats in the Legislative Council.
In another blow to those two politicians, Sixtus Leung, known as Baggio, and Yau Wai-ching, the Hong Kong government rescinded a permit for their party, Youngspiration, to set up a stall at Victoria Park less than a week before the opening of the fair. In a first, it cited the party's pro-independence advocacy, saying visitors might "support or oppose the messages" of the party and thus "endanger public order and safety." Another pro-independence party, the Hong Kong National Party, was also barred from the fair.	其中两名政治人士梁颂恒(Sixtus Leung, 又名 Baggio)和游蕙祯(Yau Wai-ching)遭受的另一个打击是, 在离花市开始不到一周的时候, 香港政府收回了其党派“青年新政”(Youngspiration)在维多利亚公园摆摊的许可, 称该党拥护港独, 可能在“支持或反对有关讯息”的观众中引发冲突, 从而“危及公共秩序及公共安全”。另一个支持港独的党派香港民族党(Hong Kong National Party)则被禁止参加花市。
During New Year celebrations last year, in the Hong Kong district of Mong Kok, violent clashes broke out between the police and protesters who said they wanted to defend the New Year tradition of food hawkers' selling fish balls and other street snacks. Although the hawkers were unlicensed, they were supported by Hong Kong residents who saw them as emblematic of local culture, which they feel is under threat. Many among the dozens of people arrested were connected to a pro-independence activist group.	在去年的新年庆祝活动期间, 警方和抗议者在香港的旺角地区爆发暴力冲突。抗议者称他们是想捍卫小吃摊贩卖鱼丸和其他街头小吃的新年传统。尽管小贩们属于无证经营, 但他们得到了香港民众的支持。民众认为小吃摊贩是本地文化的象征, 而他们觉得香港本地文化受到了威胁。被捕的数十人中, 很多都和一个支持独立的激进团体有关。
Mr. Wong, a founder of Demosisto, said on Thursday that he was concerned that the authorities might broaden their crackdown on avowed separatists to those who seek greater democracy, with legal challenges and through other means.	作为香港众志的创始人, 黄之锋在周四表示, 他担心当局可能会通过法律和其他手段, 把对公开承认的分离主义者的打压, 扩大到争取更大民主的人身上。
"It set a very bad precedent," he said in an interview, referring to the move to bar pro-independence parties from setting up shop at the fair,	"这开了一个很坏的先例," 他在接受采访时说, 指的是禁止亲独立政党在花市设立摊位的做法。他接着说自己不支持香港独立。"今日封杀港独派, 明

adding that he does not support independence for Hong Kong. "Today they banned pro-independence parties, tomorrow they could ban those supporting self-determination, and one day they can ban anyone who calls for universal suffrage and democracy."	天封杀自决派，他朝任何要求普选民主的人他都可以封杀。”
Despite the Hong Kong government's apparent anxiety about the messages of opposing parties' provoking violence, political adversaries have long coexisted peacefully at the Lunar New Year fair in Victoria Park.	尽管香港政府似乎是担心对立政党传达的讯息会引发暴力，但在维多利亚公园的年宵花市上，对立的政治力量长期和平共处。
This year, the stall of the staunchly pro-Beijing New People's Party, featuring chicken-themed plush toys — the year that begins Friday night is the Year of the Rooster — stood alongside those of pro-democracy parties.	今年，坚定支持北京的新民党(New People's Party)的摊位就设在亲民主政党的摊位旁边。新民党的摊位主要售卖以鸡为主题的毛绒玩具，从周五夜里开始的新年正是鸡年。
A makeshift museum at the fair featured photos of the 1989 Tiananmen Square protests, run by a group that condemns the Chinese Communist Party's military crackdown and calls for an end to one-party rule.	市场上还有一个临时博物馆，展出1989年天安门广场抗议的照片。管理该博物馆的团体谴责中共的军事镇压，并要求结束一党制。
From inside the museum, one could hear the music from a nearby miniconcert celebrating the approaching 20th anniversary of Hong Kong's return to the Chinese "motherland."	在博物馆里，能听到从附近的一场小型音乐会上传来的音乐声。这场音乐会是在庆祝即将到来的香港回归“祖国”20周年纪念。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170203/hong-kong-new-years-fair-election	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170203/hong-kong-new-years-fair-election
China Assails U.S. Pledge to Defend Disputed Islands Controlled by Japan	美国防长重申钓鱼岛立场，遭中方驳斥
BEIJING — China reacted with strong displeasure on Saturday to a promise by Defense Secretary Jim Mattis that the United States would	北京——周六，中国对美国国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)称美国将保卫东海两个无人居住岛屿的承诺表示了强烈的不满，这两个岛屿目前处于日本的

defend two uninhabited islands in the East China Sea that Japan controls but China also claims as its own.	控制之下，但中国称其是自己的领土。
Mr. Mattis, the first member of President Trump's cabinet to visit East Asia, had told Japanese officials earlier Saturday that America's defense obligations to Japan extended to the disputed rocky outposts, known in China as the Diaoyu and in Japan as the Senkaku.	马蒂斯是特朗普总统内阁第一个访问东亚的成员，周六早些时候他告诉日本官员，美国对日本的防务义务涵盖了这些有争议的边远岩礁。它们在中国被称为钓鱼岛，在日本被称为尖阁诸岛。
The chief spokesman for China's Foreign Ministry, Lu Kang, accused Mr. Mattis of putting regional stability at risk and urged him to forgo what he called a Cold War mentality.	中国外交部首席发言人陆慷指控马蒂斯将地区稳定置于险境，敦促他放弃“冷战思维”。
"We urge the U.S. side to take a responsible attitude, stop making wrong remarks on the issue involving the Diaoyu islands' sovereignty, and avoid making the issue more complicated and bringing instability to the regional situation," Mr. Lu said in a statement posted on the ministry's website.	"我们敦促美方采取负责任的态度，停止在钓鱼岛主权问题上发表错误言论，避免使有关问题进一步复杂化，给地区形势带来不稳定因素。"外交部网站上写道。
He described the 1960 defense treaty between the United States and Japan, which Mr. Mattis cited in pledging to defend the islands, as a "product of the Cold War, which should not impair China's territorial sovereignty and legitimate rights."	他提到了1960年代的《美日安保条约》，称马蒂斯在承诺保卫这些岛屿时的根据是“冷战时期的产物，不应损害中国的领土主权和正当权益”。
Mr. Mattis was not staking out a new American position; while in office, President Barack Obama said that the United States would defend the islands.	马蒂斯表达的并不是一个新立场；奥巴马总统在任时曾表示，美国将为这些岛屿提供保护。
But the defense secretary's words were reassuring to Japanese officials, who had been unnerved by Mr. Trump's remarks as a presidential candidate suggesting that he might reduce America's military commitments to its Asian allies.	但国防部长的话让日本官员感到安心，因为特朗普曾在竞选期间发表评论，暗示他会减少美国对亚洲盟国的军事承诺，这令日本官员不安。

The disputed islands have been among a number of potential points of contention as China builds up its presence in the East and South China Seas.	随着中国增加在东海和南海的活动，这些有争议的岛屿已成为了众多潜在的争论点之一。
Chinese and Japanese vessels regularly maneuver at close quarters in the waters as China tries to challenge Japan's control of the islands.	中国试图挑战日本对这些岛屿的控制权，两国船只经常在该水域开展近距离行动。
Last year, China sent a warship to within 24 miles of the islands. President Xi Jinping of China declared much of the East China Sea to be a Chinese air defense zone in 2013, and since then China has regularly sent fighter jets to patrol the area.	去年，中国派出一艘军舰，前往距离这些岛屿不到 39 公里的水域。中国国家主席习近平在 2013 年宣布东海大部分地方为中国防空区，此后，中国定期派出战斗机在该地区进行巡逻。
At a news conference in Tokyo, Mr. Mattis cited Article 5 of the United States-Japan treaty, which commits the United States to defend Japan or territories that it administers against attack.	在东京的新闻发布会上，马蒂斯援引了《美日安保条约》第 5 条，其中规定美国将保卫日本或其管辖的领土免于攻击。
"I made clear that our longstanding policy on the Senkaku Islands stands — the U.S. will continue to recognize Japanese administration of the islands," Mr. Mattis said. "And as such, Article 5 of the U.S.-Japan security treaty applies."	"我清楚表达了我们对尖阁诸岛的长期政策立场——美国将继续承认日本对这些岛屿的管辖，"马蒂斯说。"所以，《美日安保条约》第 5 条适用于它。"
Before going to Japan, Mr. Mattis went to South Korea to offer assurances to that ally about defense commitments, and China's reaction was similar.	在去日本之前，马蒂斯去了盟国韩国，向其做出防务承诺方面的保证，而中国的反应也类似。
Mr. Lu struck a strident tone on Friday in expressing China's opposition to American plans to deploy a missile defense system in South Korea, one that Mr. Mattis said was intended to protect the country from North Korea's nuclear threat.	陆慷上周五发表措辞强硬的声明，表示中国反对美国在韩国部署导弹防御系统的计划，马蒂斯说那是为了保护韩国免受朝鲜的核威胁。
"We firmly oppose" the deployment, Mr. Lu said at a regular news briefing. "This will not change and has not changed." The system, which	陆慷在定期举行的新闻发布会上说，"中方坚决反对"在韩国部署该反导系统，"这一立场从未改变，也不会变化。"中国说，美国试图干涉中国的核威慑力，

China says is an American attempt to interfere with China's nuclear deterrent, "will undermine the strategic balance," he said.	才会推进部署“萨德”，陆慷称此举会“破坏地区战略平衡”。
China has threatened South Korea with economic consequences if it agrees to the deployment of the system, known as Thaad, which stands for Terminal High Altitude Area Defense.	这种系统称为“萨德”(Thaad)，意思是末端高空区域防卫系统(Terminal High Altitude Area Defense)。中国威胁说，如果韩国同意部署“萨德”，就会对其加以经济惩罚。
With the South Korean government in disarray and a presidential election coming there, the Chinese government has been wooing the opposition Minjoo Party, which opposes the Thaad deployment.	随着韩国政府出现动荡，总统选举即将到来，中国政府已经开始争取反对部署“萨德”的在野党共同民主党(Minjoo Party)。
Officials of that left-leaning party have visited Beijing twice in recent months, offering reassurances that they oppose the system.	这个左倾党派的官员近几个月两次访问北京，再三保证他们反对部署“萨德”部署。
While Mr. Mattis was in Tokyo on Friday, China's top foreign policy official, Yang Jiechi, spoke by telephone with Mr. Trump's national security adviser, Michael T. Flynn, the Foreign Ministry said Saturday.	中国外交部周六表示，中国负责外交的最高级别官员杨洁篪与特朗普国家安全事务助理迈克尔·T·弗林(Michael T. Flynn)于周五通了电话，当时马蒂斯正在东京访问。
The conversation, which the ministry said was initiated by the White House, appeared to be a preparatory step for a call between Mr. Xi and Mr. Trump.	中国外交部称这次电话交谈是白宫发起的。它似乎是为习近平和特朗普之间的通话做准备。
The ministry's account of the conversation was upbeat. Mr. Flynn said the United States was committed to "developing strong and powerful U.S.-China relations" and "properly managing the sensitive issues," the ministry said. For his part, Mr. Yang emphasized the two countries' "broad common interests and great cooperation potential," according to the ministry.	外交部对这次交谈的描述很乐观。弗林说，美国致力于“发展强有力的美中关系”，将“妥善处理敏感问题”。杨洁篪则强调，两国“拥有广泛共同利益和巨大合作潜力”。
Mr. Trump criticized China on a variety of fronts during the presidential transition, but the White House has had little to say about the country during the president's first two weeks in office.	在总统过渡期间，特朗普在诸多问题上对中国进行了批评，但在他就任的前两周时间里，白宫对中国几乎只字不提。

And although Mr. Trump has held phone conversations from the Oval Office, several of them stormy, with a variety of world leaders, Mr. Xi has not been among them.	虽然特朗普已经在椭圆形办公室与多位外国领导人进行过电话交谈，其中几次火药味较浓，但尚未与习近平通过电话。
There has been speculation among diplomats in Beijing and among American business groups in Washington that the two leaders would talk by phone in the coming days.	在北京的外交官和华盛顿的商业团体猜测，这两位领导人将在未来数日通话。
Mr. Yang and Mr. Flynn last spoke in New York, a month after the presidential election, and from Mr. Yang's point of view the meeting was not helpful.	杨洁篪和弗林上次交谈是总统选举的一个月后在纽约进行的。从杨洁篪的角度来看，那次会面是个败笔。
Just two days later, Mr. Trump astounded the Chinese government by asserting that the One China policy, under which the United States recognizes the government of Beijing and not Taiwan, was far from sacrosanct.	就在两天后，特朗普声称“一个中国”政策并非神圣不可侵犯，令中国政府震惊。根据该政策，美国应该承认北京政府而不是台湾政府。
"I don't know why we have to be bound by a One China policy unless we make a deal with China having to do with other things, including trade," Mr. Trump said on Fox News.	"我不知道为什么我们必须受'一个中国'政策的约束，除非我们与中国在贸易等其他问题上达成协议，"特朗普在福克斯新闻(Fox News)中表示。
Although there was no indication that Mr. Trump was reacting to anything Mr. Yang had said to Mr. Flynn, the episode was embarrassing for the Chinese official so soon after their meeting.	虽然没有迹象表明特朗普这么做和杨洁篪对弗林说过的话有关，但对杨洁篪来说，情形很尴尬，因为事情就发生在他和弗林会面之后不久。
Earlier in December, Mr. Trump upended decades of American diplomatic practice by speaking with Taiwan's president by telephone. The Chinese have since stressed on several occasions that the One China policy is not negotiable.	12月初，特朗普与台湾总统进行电话交谈，打破了数十年来的美国外交惯例。此后中国人多次强调“一个中国”政策不容谈判。
The Foreign Ministry's statement on the conversation on Friday between Mr. Yang and Mr. Flynn did not say whether the two had	外交部上周五关于杨洁篪和弗林通话的声明，没有提到两人是否讨论过台湾问题，只说他们对地区事务交换了看法。 discussed Taiwan, only that they had discussed regional affairs.

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170206/china-us-jim-mattis-japan-islands	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170206/china-us-jim-mattis-japan-islands
Joyous Africans Take to Rails, With China's Help	非洲人欢天喜地踏上中国投资的列车
DJIBOUTI — The 10:24 a.m. train out of Djibouti's capital drew some of the biggest names in the Horn of Africa last month. Serenaded by a chorus of tribal singers, the crush of African leaders, European diplomats and pop icons climbed the stairs of the newly built train station and merrily jostled their way into the pristine, air-conditioned carriages making their inaugural run.	吉布提——上个月，一趟上午 10 点 24 分发自吉布提首都的火车引来了非洲之角一些最重要的人物。在部落歌手合唱团的演唱声中，一大群非洲领导人、欧洲外交官，以及流行文化的偶像，在新建的火车站爬上楼梯，快乐地竞相进入全新的、有空调的车厢，乘坐了这趟首次运行的列车。
"It is indeed a historic moment, a pride for our nations and peoples," said Hailemariam Desalegn, the prime minister of Ethiopia, shortly before the train — the first electric, transnational railway in Africa — headed toward Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital. "This line will change the social and economic landscape of our two countries."	"这的确是一个历史性的时刻，值得我们两国和两国人民自豪，"埃塞俄比亚总理海尔马里亚姆·德萨莱尼(Hailemariam Desalegn)在这趟开往埃塞俄比亚首都亚的斯亚贝巴的列车启程前不久时说。"这条铁路将改变我们两国的社会和经济布局。"这是非洲的第一条电气化跨国铁路。
But perhaps the biggest star of the day was China, which designed the system, supplied the trains and imported hundreds of engineers for the six years it took to plan and build the 466-mile line. And the $4 billion cost? Chinese banks provided nearly all the financing.	但那天最大的明星也许是中国，中国设计了该系统，提供了火车，并在规划和建设这条全长 753 公里的铁路的六年间，输入了数百名工程师。那 40 亿美元的造价呢？中国银行提供了几乎所有的资金。
Having constructed one of the world's most extensive and modern rail networks at home, China is taking its prodigious resources and expertise global. Chinese-built subway cars will soon appear in Chicago and Boston, Beijing is building a $5 billion high-speed rail line in Indonesia, and the Chinese government recently christened new rail freight service between London and Beijing. Another ambitious system	中国已建成了世界上覆盖最广、最现代化的铁路网络之一，现在中国正在把其雄厚的资源和专业知识带给世界。中国制造的地铁车厢将很快出现在芝加哥和波士顿，北京正在印度尼西亚建设一条造价 50 亿美元的高速铁路，中国政府最近在伦敦和北京之间建成了新的铁路货运服务。另一个尚未完成的雄心勃勃的工程是总长度为 8.1 万公里的泛亚铁路网，这个网络将把中国与老挝、泰国和新加坡连接起来。

in the works, the 2,400-mile Pan-Asia Railway Network, would link China to Laos, Thailand and Singapore.
But few places are being reshaped by China's overseas juggernaut like Africa, a continent that has seen relatively little new railroad construction in a century.	但很少有地方像非洲那样正在被中国的巨大海外投资重新塑造, 一个世纪以来, 非洲大陆只新建了为数不多的铁路。
Despite years of steady economic growth, sub-Saharan Africa remains hobbled by an infrastructure deficit, according to the Africa Development Bank, with only half of its roads paved and nearly 600 million people lacking access to electricity.	尽管有多年来的稳定经济增长, 但撒哈拉以南的非洲仍受基础设施不足的困扰, 据非洲开发银行的数据, 非洲的道路只有一半铺有路面, 有近 6 亿人尚未用上电。
Chinese companies, many of them state-owned and grappling with an economic slowdown at home, have stepped onto the breach, spending some $50 billion a year on new ports, highways and airports across the continent, according to the China Africa Research Initiative at Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.	中国公司(其中许多是受国内经济增长放缓影响的国有企业)已经在填补这个缺口, 这些公司每年在为非洲各地建设新港口、新高速公路和新机场上投入了约 500 亿美元, 据约翰·霍普金斯大学高等国际研究院中非研究所(China Africa Research Initiative)的统计。
Many of the projects are part of Beijing's new Silk Road initiative, a $1 trillion effort intended to deepen ties between China and its trading partners in the developing world.	许多项目是北京“新丝绸之路”计划的一部分, 这个价值 1 万亿美元的计划旨在加深中国与其发展中国家贸易伙伴之间的关系。
Much of that spending has been directed at rail projects that planners hope will transform the way Africans travel and do business with one another, and the rest of the world.	这笔资金的绝大部分都投在铁路项目上, 项目计划者希望, 这些铁路将改变非洲人的旅行方式, 也将改变非洲人之间以及非洲与世界其他地方做生意的方式。
Chinese-built and -financed projects include a two-year-old light-rail system in the Ethiopian capital; a $13 billion rail link between the Kenyan capital, Nairobi, and the port city of Mombasa that will open later this year; and an ambitious rail modernization project in Nigeria that includes an urban transit system for Lagos.	中国建造和资助的项目包括两年前在埃塞俄比亚首都建成的一个轻轨系统, 还有今年晚些时候将通车的、将肯尼亚首都内罗毕与港口城市蒙巴萨连接起来的造价 130 亿美元的铁路, 以及尼日利亚的一个雄心勃勃的铁路现代化项目, 其中包括一个为拉各斯修建的城市交通系统。

"For the longest time, railroads across Africa were limping along and in decline, but with the Chinese, that's definitely changing," said Andrew Grantham, the news editor at Railway Gazette International, a trade publication.	"很久以来，非洲各地的铁路都在勉强维持并走向衰退，但中国人来了之后，这一切肯定在改变，"贸易出版物《国际铁路快报》(Railway Gazette International)的新闻主编安德鲁·格兰瑟姆(Andrew Grantham)说。
China's enthusiasm for constructing railroads, schools and stadiums in Africa stands in marked contrast to the role of the United States, which has largely shied away from financing infrastructure on the continent. One of the few exceptions, Power Africa, a $9.7 billion initiative announced by President Barack Obama in 2013, has fallen far short of its goal of providing electricity to 20 million households within five years.	中国在非洲建设铁路、学校和体育馆的积极性，与美国在那里的作用形成鲜明对比，美国在很大程度上不愿意投资非洲大陆的基础设施项目。一个为数不多的例外是巴拉克·奥巴马总统2013年宣布的97亿美元的"Power Africa"计划，但这个计划远未达到其在五年内向2000万个家庭提供电力的目标。
When it comes to trade, China surpassed the United States in 2009 to become Africa's biggest trading partner.	就贸易而言，中国早在2009年就超过了美国，成为非洲最大的贸易伙伴。
It remains unclear how that calculus might change under the Trump administration. President Trump has questioned the benefits of free trade agreements, and a questionnaire from his transition team that was sent to the State Department last month expressed skepticism for foreign aid and development efforts in Africa.	美国的考虑在特朗普政府下会如何改变尚不清楚。特朗普总统一直怀疑自由贸易协定带来的好处，他的过渡班子上个月发给国务院的一个调查问卷对外国在非洲的援助和发展努力表示了怀疑。
That worries some African officials and longtime experts, who fear the loss of American influence and largess — and the good will that is often produced by desperately needed infrastructure projects.	这使一些非洲官员和长期关注非洲的专家感到担忧，他们担心失去的不仅是美国的影响力和慷慨解囊，还有通常伴随急需的基础设施项目建设而来的良好意愿。
Amadou Sy, director of the Africa Growth Initiative at the Brookings Institution, said the United States was also missing opportunities to cultivate loyal customers.	布鲁金斯学会非洲增长倡议项目主任阿马杜·赛(Amadou Sy)说，美国也在失去培养忠实客户的机会。
"If you're looking for new markets, Africa is the place to be," he said.	"如果你在寻找新市场的话，非洲是非去不可的地方，"他说。"但是现在，美

"But right now, the U.S. is not leveraging Africa's huge potential. By contrast, the Chinese are there, and they are willing to take risks."	国并没有利用非洲的巨大潜力。相反，中国人已经在那里，他们愿意冒这个险。"
China is placing more than $14 billion worth of bets here in Djibouti, a geopolitically strategic speck of a country beset by soaring poverty and unemployment. The projects include three ports, two airports and a pipeline that will bring water from Ethiopia, its landlocked neighbor and a regional economic power that depends on Djibouti's ports for 90 percent of its foreign trade.	中国正在吉布提投下价值超过 140 亿美元的赌注，吉布提是一个高度贫困和高失业率的小国，但它在地缘政治上具有战略意义。中国在吉布提的项目包括三个港口、两个机场，以及一条从其内陆邻国埃塞俄比亚引水的管道，埃塞俄比亚是该区域的经济大国，其外贸的 90% 依赖于吉布提的港口。
Also on the drawing board are a series of Chinese-built, coal-fired power plants that would ease summertime electricity failures and help fuel a new tax-free manufacturing zone that officials hope will turn Djibouti into a Hong Kong-style entrepôt and international shipping hub.	待建的项目还有一系列由中国建造的燃煤发电厂，这些电厂可以缓解夏季断电的问题，并为建设一个新的免税制造区提供动力，当地官员希望这个免税区将把吉布提变成一个类似香港的转运口岸和国际海运枢纽。
Aboubaker Omar Hadi, chairman of the Djibouti Ports and Free Zones Authority, said he hoped the new railway linking his country to the Ethiopian capital would be just the first leg of a long-dreamed trans-Africa route, from the Indian Ocean to the Atlantic.	吉布提港和自由贸易区管理局主席阿布贝克·奥马尔·哈迪(Aboubaker Omar Hadi)说他希望，把他的国家与埃塞俄比亚首都连接起来的新铁路，将是人们长期梦想的、从印度洋到大西洋的跨非洲铁路的第一段。
"The train is already a game-changer," he said, noting that it will cut to 12 hours what until now had been a grueling three- or four-day trip by truck.	"通火车已经改变了游戏规则，"他说，他指出火车将把行程减少到 12 小时，直到现在，两地之间艰苦的三至四天的旅行仍靠卡车。
Mr. Hadi praised the Chinese for going all in after Western banks declined to help finance the nation's glaring infrastructure needs.	哈迪称赞中国人在西方银行拒绝为该基础设施需求提供资金后全力投资。
"We approached the U.S., and they didn't have the vision," he said. "They are not thinking ahead 30 years. They only have a vision of Africa from the past, as a continent of war and famine. The Chinese have	"我们找过美国，但他们没有这种远见，"他说。"他们不是在考虑未来的 30 年。他们用过去的目光看非洲，只看到了非洲大陆的战争和饥荒。中国人有远见。"

vision.”
Not everyone is comfortable with China’s vision. Some worry about the leverage China wields and what happens when countries fall behind on loan payments.	并不是每个人都对中国的愿景感到安心。一些人担心中国手里的筹码，以及这些国家不能偿付贷款会发生什么情况。
For Djibouti, the debt is especially daunting, amounting to 60 percent of its gross domestic product. But Ilyas Moussa Dawaleh, the country’s finance minister, dismissed such concerns, saying Djibouti’s heady 6.7 percent growth rate would allow it to meet its loan payments.	吉布提欠下的债务特别高，占其国内生产总值的60%。但是该国财政部长伊利亚斯·穆萨·达瓦莱(Ilyas Moussa Dawaleh)对这种担忧不屑一顾，称吉布提的增长率是6.7%，足以偿还贷款。
“If we don’t take this risk now and develop our infrastructure, we will remain stuck in poverty,” he said. “Come back in a few years, and you will find that Djibouti has become the logistics hub of the continent.”	“如果我们现在不承担这种风险，不发展我们的基础设施，我们将继续陷在贫困中，”他说。“几年后，你就会发现吉布提已经成为非洲大陆的物流中心。”
Others worry about the Djiboutian government’s lack of transparency, its authoritarian impulses and a vexing legacy of official corruption. Mohamed Daoud Chehem, a leader of Djibouti’s embattled opposition and a former presidential candidate, said the lack of information about the terms of China’s loans raised questions about potential malfeasance.	另外一些人担心的是吉布提政府缺乏透明度，在独裁体制中做出心血来潮之举，官僚腐败遗风令人恼火。吉布提做好战斗准备的反对派领导人、前总统候选人穆罕默德·达乌德·谢希姆(Mohamed Daoud Chehem)表示，中国贷款的条件没有披露详细信息，因此有人质疑可能存在渎职行为。
“We’re talking about billions of dollars and complete opacity,” he said. “Have there been kickbacks to government officials? There is no way to know.”	“我们谈论的是数以十亿计的美元和透明度为零，”他说。“有没有回扣给政府官员？答案没法知道。”
Others wonder what will happen to the system after the Chinese leave. European imperialists in Africa built a skein of lines, most of which fell into disrepair in the decades after their colonies achieved independence.	另外一些人担心在中国离开之后，这条铁路会发生什么事。欧洲帝国主义者曾在非洲修建了一些铁路线，其中大多数在殖民地独立之后的几十年里就失修破败了。 documenting the legacy of the Chinese-built train linking Tanzania and Zambia, said long-term maintenance could be more challenging than initial construction. Built during the Cold War and hailed as a symbol of Chinese-African friendship, the train, the Tazara Railway, has struggled to maintain regular service, prompting talk of a Chinese takeover.	Monson)说, 长期维护可能比初期建设更具挑战性; 那本书记录了中国建造的一条连接坦桑尼亚和赞比亚的铁路的故事。坦赞铁路修建于冷战时期, 被誉为中非友谊的象征, 对它的日常维护做得很不到位, 因此一些人想让中国人来接管它。
Jamie Monson, the author of “Africa’s Freedom Railway,” a book	《非洲自由铁路》(Africa’s Freedom Railway)一书的作者杰米·蒙松(Jamie

"Without proper maintenance comes problems, which can have a huge impact on a regional economy and local people's livelihoods," she said.	"没有适当的维护就会产生问题, 这对区域经济和当地人民的生计可能会造成巨大影响," 她说。
For now, however, much of nation is euphoric over the completion of Djibouti's first modern railway, which follows the path of a creaky French-built line, completed in 1917, that met its demise several years ago after generations of neglect.	然而就眼下来说, 吉布提第一条现代化铁路的建成让很多人感到兴奋, 它是沿着 1917 年竣工的一条破旧铁路修建的。当年法国建造的那条铁路, 在经过数代人的忽视之后, 已经在几年前寿终。
Although workers from China did much of the technical and engineering work, thousands of Djiboutian and Ethiopian laborers were hired to lay tracks and dig tunnels, helping to head off some of the local resentment that has dogged other Chinese projects in Africa. The system will be operated by Chinese conductors for five years and then turned over to local citizens, many of them trained in China.	虽然来自中国的工人做了大量技术和工程方面的工作, 但是该项目雇佣了数以千计的吉布提和埃塞俄比亚劳工铺设轨道和挖掘隧道, 帮助克服了其他中国在非洲项目常常在当地引发的不满情绪。这个项目将由中国人运营五年, 然后转交给当地人, 他们中的很多人在中国接受过培训。
After a boisterous opening day ceremony in the broiling sun, only the best-connected attendees were allowed to board the train, which filled with applause and song as it glided out of the station.	热烈的开幕式在炙热的阳光下举行, 只有最有关系的来宾才获许登上火车。在掌声和歌声中, 火车缓缓驶离了车站。
Daha Ahmed Osman, 34, a tech specialist who works for the Djiboutian government, displayed a wide grin as he watched the arid, harshly beautiful landscape spill across the train's picture windows.	34 岁的达哈·艾哈迈德·奥斯曼(Daha Ahmed Osman)是为吉布提政府工作的技术专家, 他透过火车的窗户凝望着荒芜的、拥有粗犷之美的景致, 脸上露出了大大的笑容。
He predicted that the new train would transform Djibouti and Ethiopia, and eventually all of Africa. "For this, we have the Chinese to thank,	他预测, 新火车将改变吉布提和埃塞俄比亚, 最终将改变非洲。"为此, 我们得感谢中国人, 因为他们分享了资金和技术给我们," 他说。"感谢他们对

because they shared with us their money and their technology," he said. "More than anything we thank them for showing confidence in us."	我们的信任。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170209/africa-china-train	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170209/africa-china-train
A Video, a Wheelchair, a Suitcase: Mystery of Vanished Tycoon Deepens	被单蒙头用轮椅推走：肖建华神秘失踪内情
HONG KONG — In a newspaper ad, the Hong Kong billionaire declared that he was just fine, merely resting overseas. The local news media insists that he is helping with an important investigation in China. The police say he left the territory through a normal border control point.	香港——一名身居香港的亿万富翁登报声明自己只不过是在国外养病，并无大碍。而当地新闻媒体则坚称他正在中国为当局的一项重要调查提供帮助。警方表示，他离开香港走的是正常的边境关卡。
But Xiao Jianhua, one of China's wealthiest and most politically connected financiers, whose disappearance last month sent a chill through Hong Kong and the political class in Beijing, does not appear to be fine.	然而肖建华，这位中国最富有、政治人脉关系最密切的金融家之一，似乎并不安好，他上个月的突然消失令香港和北京的政治阶层不寒而栗。
In the early hours of Jan. 27, he was taken out of the Four Seasons Hotel in Hong Kong in a wheelchair, his head covered by a sheet or a blanket, according to people who have seen or been briefed on video footage captured by security cameras in the hotel.	据看过香港四季酒店监控录像片段或知道有关情节的人士说，1月27日凌晨时分，肖建华坐在轮椅上被人从酒店带走，他的头被像床单或毯子的东西蒙着。
Mr. Xiao, 45, who was not known to use a wheelchair, was accompanied by about half a dozen unidentified men who were also pushing a large suitcase on rollers. He is believed to have been transported by boat from Hong Kong, eluding border controls, and is now in police custody in mainland China, according to two people familiar with the investigation into his whereabouts.	现年45岁的肖建华以前并不用轮椅。被带走时，肖建华身边大约有六名身份不明的男子，他们还推走了一个大号行李箱。据两名了解肖建华下落调查的人士说，有理由相信他被人用船从香港运往内地，以避免边检，肖建华现已被中国大陆警方拘留。
While the reasons for his apparent abduction remain a mystery, it	虽然这次疑似绑架的原因依然是个谜，但事情发生的时间恰在中国共产党领

comes ahead of an important Communist Party leadership meeting this year that will fill top posts, leading to speculation that someone powerful may have wanted Mr. Xiao out of the way, or perhaps wanted to use him to silence rivals with whom he has business ties.	导层今年要召开的一个重要会议之前，本次会议将任命党内高层的几个职位。这不禁引起人们猜测，也许某个有权势的人物不想让肖建华碍事，或想要用他来堵住那些与他有生意往来的政治竞争对手的嘴。
Few people are in a position to know more about the financial holdings of China's leading political families than Mr. Xiao, who made billions investing in banks, insurers and real estate around the world. In the past decade, he has served as a de facto banker to the Communist Party elite.	很少有人比肖建华更了解中国政治领导人家族的财产状况了。肖建华靠投资世界各地的银行、保险公司和房地产赚了数十亿。在过去的十年里，他实际上在为共产党高层人物担任银行家。
His disappearance has again raised fears about Chinese encroachment into Hong Kong in violation of the "one country, two systems" rule that allows this former British colony to run its own affairs and bars mainland security forces from operating here. A year ago, the city was outraged when five Hong Kong booksellers disappeared — only to turn up in Chinese custody.	他的消失再度引发了人们对于中国大陆违背“一国两制”原则、干涉香港事务的恐慌。该原则让这个前英国殖民地管理自己的事务，内地的警察不得在香港执法。一年前，五名香港书商失踪并在中国遭羁押的事件已让这座城市感到愤慨。
Steve Tsang, director of the SOAS China Institute in London, said Mr. Xiao's extraction from Hong Kong was unlikely to have occurred without the approval of China's president, Xi Jinping, who has challenged party traditions of collective leadership with a bold drive to consolidate power.	伦敦大学亚非学院中国研究院院长曾锐生(Steve Tsang)表示，很难想象肖建华被从香港带走的事情，会在没有中国国家主席习近平批准的情况下发生。习近平把权力集中在自己手里的做法已挑战了党的集体领导传统。
Mr. Tsang said Mr. Xi might be holding Mr. Xiao in custody to protect himself or to gain leverage against people he "needs to persuade" at the coming party congress to push through his agenda and cement his legacy.	曾锐生表示，习近平可能是为了保护自己而对肖建华进行了控制，也可能是他为了在即将召开的共产党全国代表大会上，为巩固自己的政权遗产推出自己的议题，对那些他“需要说服的人”拥有一些筹码。
"I do not know if the operation was initiated or ordered by Xi, but his	曾锐生在一封电子邮件中写道：“我不知道这个行动是习近平提起或下令进

consent must have been given, in light of Xiao's connections with Xi's family," Mr. Tsang said in an email.	行的，但考虑到肖建华与习近平家人的关系，习近平一定表示过同意。”
In January 2013, weeks after Mr. Xi came into power at the last party congress, his sister and brother-in-law sold their stake in an investment firm to a company founded by Mr. Xiao. Mr. Xiao later said the move was part of an effort by the Xi family to exit investments, which reduced Mr. Xi's political vulnerability as he embarked on a sweeping campaign against corruption.	2013年1月，也就是习近平在上一届共产党全国代表大会上当选为总书记的几周之后，习近平的姐姐和姐夫将他们持有的一家投资公司的股份出售给了肖建华创建的一家公司。后来，肖建华表示，出售股份是习近平家人退出投资努力的一部分，随着习近平开始其大范围的反腐运动，家人退出投资减少了习近平自身的政治脆弱性。
But Mr. Xiao also appears to have done business with relatives of other party leaders, including Zeng Qinghong, a former vice president and power broker whom Mr. Xi may consider a potential threat.	不过肖建华似乎也与党内其他领导人的亲属有过生意往来，其中包括可能被习近平视为潜在威胁的中国前国家副主席、权力掮客曾庆红。
A Chinese-born Canadian citizen with an Antiguan diplomatic passport, Mr. Xiao has lived in a serviced apartment at the Four Seasons in Hong Kong for years, attended to by a coterie of female bodyguards.	肖建华出生在中国大陆，是加拿大公民，还持有安提瓜的外交护照。他多年来一直住在香港四季酒店的酒店式公寓里，身边有一群女性保镖伺候。
On the night he disappeared, the men in plain clothes were recorded by closed-circuit security cameras entering his suite with a wheelchair and the large suitcase, according to one of the people familiar with the footage.	据熟悉酒店监控录像片段的一名知情人士透露，肖建华消失的那天晚上，闭路电视拍摄到了一群着便衣的男子，带着一个轮椅和一个大号行李箱进入了他的套间。
Some time later, the men emerged from the suite with Mr. Xiao in the wheelchair, along with several women and the suitcase. Mr. Xiao was not struggling but seemed fatigued and his head was covered, according to the people familiar with the video. They spoke on the condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to talk to the news media or feared retaliation by the Chinese government.	一段时间后，这些男子带着坐在轮椅上的肖建华从套间出来，同时出来的还有几名女子和那件行李箱。据熟悉那段录像的人说，肖建华没有挣扎，但看上去十分疲惫，他的头被蒙着。这些知情人士均要求不具名，因为他们未被授权与媒体交谈，他们也担心遭到中国政府报复。
The lobby of the Four Seasons apartment tower is separate from the	四季酒店公寓楼（四季汇）的大堂与酒店是分开的，四季汇有自己的前台和

main hotel, with its own front desk and a single door that opens with a key card. Hotel staff members there questioned the men who left with Mr. Xiao, and they were told that the men were part of his security detail and that he was ill and needed medical attention, the people said.	需要用门卡打开的唯一入口。四季汇的工作人员曾询问带走肖建华的男子，并被告知他们是肖的安保，这些人说肖建华患了病，需要医疗看护。
Mr. Xiao's disappearance has been marked by confusion and misinformation.	肖建华失踪一事充满了混乱和误传。
His flagship company, The Tomorrow Group, printed a front-page advertisement in Mr. Xiao's name on Feb. 1 in Ming Pao, a Hong Kong newspaper, saying that he had not been abducted and that he was "recuperating abroad." But that was a lie meant to appease the Chinese government, which did not want his case discussed in the news media, one person close to Mr. Xiao's family said at the time.	2月1日，肖建华名下最主要的“明天系”集团公司以他的名义在香港《明报》刊登头版广告，称肖未被绑架，而是“在国外养病”。但是，一位与肖建华家人关系密切的知情人士表示，那是安抚中国政府的谎言，中国政府不希望新闻媒体讨论肖建华的事情。
Days after the apparent abduction, the Hong Kong police disclosed that one of Mr. Xiao's relatives had filed a missing persons report but later withdrew it. The police also said that Mr. Xiao had left at "one of Hong Kong's boundary control points."	绑架发生的几天后，香港警方曾透露，肖建华的亲属做过失踪报案，但随后将其撤销。香港警方还表示，肖建华是从“香港一个出入境关卡”离开的。
Asked about the possibility that Mr. Xiao had left Hong Kong by boat, the police said in a statement that they were continuing to investigate. Amy Powell, a spokeswoman for the Four Seasons, said the hotel would not comment.	当被问及肖建华乘船离开香港的可能性时，警方在一则声明中表示，案件调查仍在继续。四季酒店发言人艾米·鲍威尔(Amy Powell)表示，酒店方面不对此事置评。
Mr. Xiao's family members have been allowed to communicate with him, a person close to the family said, adding that his wife is concerned about his health because he left Hong Kong without his medication for angina and other ailments.	一位与肖建华家人关系紧密的知情人士说，肖建华的家人已获准与他联系。该人还表示，由于肖建华离开香港时没有带治疗心绞痛和其他疾病的药物，肖建华的妻子对他的健康状况有些担心。
Mr. Xiao's path to fortune began shortly after he graduated from Peking	肖建华是名神童，14岁就上了北京大学。大学毕业后不久，他走上了发财

University, where he enrolled as a child prodigy at age 14. He was head of the official student union and remained loyal to the government even as many of his classmates participated in the pro-democracy protests that ended in a bloody crackdown in June 1989.	的道路。他曾担任官方学生组织的领导，就在他的很多同学参加了支持民主的抗议活动时，他仍对政府保持忠诚，民主抗议活动后来在1989年6月遭到暴力镇压。
As his wealth rose, he entered into various business deals with relatives of the Communist Party elite.	随着他财富的增长，肖建华开始与共产党高层进行各种各样的商业往来。
Several companies affiliated with Mr. Xiao were involved in the controversial 2006-7 privatization of Luneng, a huge state-run power company in Shandong Province, in eastern China. Among the others who gained shares was a man named Zeng Ming, according to an exposé published by the investigative magazine Caijing that the Chinese authorities later ordered removed from newsstands.	肖建华名下的几家公司曾参与了2006-07年备受争议的鲁能集团的私有化。鲁能集团是一家总部设在中国东部省份山东的大型国有电力公司。据调查新闻杂志《财经》的一篇揭露报道，那次交易中的一个受益者叫曾明。后来，中国政府下令所有报刊亭撤掉了那期杂志。
Overseas Chinese news media later identified Zeng Ming as a pseudonym used by the son of Zeng Qinghong, the former vice president.	海外中文媒体后来认定曾明是前国家副主席曾庆红的儿子用过的一个化名。
In January 2009, one of the Tomorrow Group's main companies, Baotou Tomorrow Technology, announced that it would pay about $50 million to buy property in southwestern China from a company headed by the son-in-law of the fourth-ranking member of the Communist Party at the time, Jia Qinglin, company records show.	2009年1月，“明天系”的主要公司之一、包头明天科技股份有限公司宣布，以约五千万美元的价格收购中国西南部的一家公司。资料显示，该公司的主管是当时在共产党内排名第四的领导人贾庆林的女婿。
While both Mr. Jia and Mr. Zeng are retired, they have long been seen as important allies of Jiang Zemin, the former president and party leader who continues to wield some influence.	虽然贾庆林和曾庆红均已退休，但人们长期以来视他们为江泽民的重要盟友。江泽民曾担任中国国家主席和中共总书记，他仍在继续搞些背后操纵。
Another prominent Chinese businessman who has taken refuge in Hong Kong to stay out of reach of mainland authorities and spoke on	另一位不愿具名的知名中国商人说，肖建华这些不同寻常的政治关系让他成为一个显而易见的靶标，该商人为了躲避中国当局已在香港寻求庇护。

the condition of anonymity said that Mr. Xiao's extraordinary political connections made him an obvious target.
Mr. Xiao, he said, was in a special category.	该人表示，肖建华属于一个特殊的类别。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170212/xiao-jianhua-hong-kong-disappearance	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170212/xiao-jianhua-hong-kong-disappearance
Plan for $10 Billion Chip Plant Shows China's Growing Pull	全球半导体产业重心继续向中国转移
HONG KONG — After Intel and Foxconn said they would build advanced factories in America, it might have seemed as if the United States were gaining high-end manufacturing momentum.	香港——在英特尔(Intel)和富士康(Foxconn)宣布将在美国修建先进的工厂后，也许看上去美国似乎在高端制造业势头强劲。
But on Friday, the California-based chip maker GlobalFoundries announced a $10 billion project in China, showing how the center of gravity continues to shift across the Pacific.	但周五，总部设在加利福尼亚州的芯片制造商 GlobalFoundries 宣布了一个投资额达 100 亿美元（约合 700 亿元人民币）的项目，投资的目的地是中国。这表明，重心继续在向太平洋对岸转移。
The new advanced semiconductor factory, in the central Chinese city of Chengdu, is only the most recent in an array of investments, often by major multinationals, into China with the support of the Chinese government. The projects have become markedly more sophisticated, making more modern microchips, memory chips or flat-panel displays.	该公司计划在中国腹地的成都新建一座先进的半导体工厂。这只是最近在中国政府的支持下进入中国的一系列投资中距今最近的一笔。这些投资的主体通常是大型跨国企业。相关项目已明显变得更加高级，生产的产品则是更先进的微芯片、记忆芯片或平板显示器。
The reason for the shift is in part the Chinese government. In 2013 Beijing announced a major initiative to expand the country's ability to produce microchips, which act as the brains of everything from guided missiles to smartphones. Also driving the companies, according to analysts, are new guidelines urging Chinese electronics makers to buy chips made in China.	重心转移的原因部分在于中国政府。2013 年，北京宣布了一个旨在增强中国微芯片生产能力的重大行动。微芯片是从制导导弹到智能手机在内的一切物品的大脑。据分析人士称，号召中国电子器件制造商购买中国制造的芯片的新指导方针，也在推动相关公司的决策。
Since China has begun focusing on semiconductors, the provenance of advanced chips has become an increasingly fraught political issue. The	因为中国已经开始把重点放在半导体上，先进芯片的出处成了一个越来越令人担忧的政治问题。过去两年，美国政府叫停了向中国和欧洲芯片公司

United States government has blocked several Chinese deals for American and European chip companies during the past two years, and a commission created by former President Barack Obama said China's chip policies posed a risk to American companies.	发出的交易要约，而前总统贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)成立的一个委员会则称，中国的芯片政策对美国公司构成了危险。
The election of President Trump has further increased pressure on companies, several of which have announced plans to build facilities in America. In Intel's case, it was a recommitment to an earlier plan the company had announced.	特朗普总统当选导致相关公司面临的压力进一步增加，其中几家已经宣布了在美国建厂的计划。以英特尔为例，该公司再次承诺实施其早前宣布的一个计划。
Leading China's charge have been both the central and provincial governments, which have been spending billions of dollars on investments and subsidies. The government has said China will spend about $100 billion to bring chip factories and research facilities to China.	领导中国这场攻势的，既有中央政府，也有省一级政府。它们在投资和补贴上花了数十亿美元。政府称中国将投资大约 1000 亿美元，用于把芯片工厂和研究设施引入中国。
"Almost all of the large semiconductor enterprises in the United States have received investment offers from Chinese state actors," according to a report from the Mercator Institute for China Studies, a think tank based in Germany. The report added that China's newest industrial policy, Made in China 2025, had named semiconductors as a crucial area to improve.	"美国几乎所有大型半导体企业都收到过中国代表政府机构的主体发出的投资要约，"总部设在德国的智库墨卡托中国研究中心(Mercator Institute for China Studies)发布的一份报告称。该报告还接着表示，中国最新的工业政策《中国制造 2025》将半导体列为了需要提升的关键领域。
Although analysts remain unsure of how quickly China might be able to close a huge gap with companies from Japan, South Korea, Taiwan and the United States, the funds have been slowly attracting new plants. A semiconductor industry group said in a recent report that it was tracking the production of more than 20 semiconductor manufacturing plants in China.	尽管分析人士仍不确定中国大概能在多长时间内消除与日本、韩国、台湾和美国公司之间的巨大差距，但资金一直在慢慢吸引新的工厂。一个半导体行业组织在最近的一份报告中称，自己正在追踪中国逾 20 家半导体制造厂的生产情况。

“Such spending momentum will drive China to the top-tier bracket for fab equipment and is paving the way to establish China’s position on the global semiconductor stage,” according to a recent report by SEMI, a global microelectronics industry association, referring to tools used to fabricate chips.	“这种花钱势头将推动中国获得顶级微芯片制造设备，并且正在为建立中国在全球半导体舞台上的地位铺平道路，”全球微电子行业协会 SEMI 最近发布的一份报告说。它指的是用来制造芯片的工具。
The GlobalFoundries project is being built in cooperation with the Chengdu municipal government. GlobalFoundries declined to specify the amount of the investment, but several documents on government websites put the total project around $10 billion.	GlobalFoundries 的项目已经开建了，与它合作的是成都市政府。GlobalFoundries 拒绝透露具体的投资金额，但政府网站上的几份文件称，该项目总投资 100 亿美元左右。
Jason Gorss, a GlobalFoundries spokesman, declined to provide financial details but said in an email that “industry analysts estimate that the total cost of an advanced semiconductor fab is on the order of $10B and this fab will be in that range.” It is not clear how much investment is being provided by the company and how much by the Chengdu government.	GlobalFoundries 的发言人贾森·戈尔斯(Jason Gorss)拒绝提供财务细节，但在一封电子邮件中称“行业分析人士估计，修建一座先进的半导体制造厂的成本约为 100 亿美元，这座制造厂将在这个范围内”。目前尚不清楚该公司和成都市政府分别负担多少投资。
Although the semiconductors produced at the plant will be a generation behind the most cutting-edge chip technology, they are based on a special design that is likely to make them useful in sensors for mobile devices, cars and other gadgets that are increasingly being connected to computer networks.	尽管该工厂生产的半导体将落后最尖端的芯片技术整整一代，但它们是基于一个特殊的设计。这种设计可能会让它们能够用于移动设备、汽车和其他日渐和计算机网络相连的器械的传感器中。
GlobalFoundries is based in Santa Clara, Calif., and owned by Abu Dhabi, one of the United Arab Emirates. The company has semiconductor plants across the world, including two former IBM plants in the United States that it uses to make chips for the American military.	GlobalFoundries 的总部设在加利福尼亚州的圣克拉拉，为阿拉伯联合酋长国的成员国之一阿布扎比所有。该公司的半导体工厂遍布全球，包括美国境内的两座用来为美国军方生产芯片的工厂。这两家工厂原本属于 IBM。

Although Intel and Foxconn have said they have plans to build in America, the factories being built in China greatly outnumber them.	虽然英特尔和富士康均表示计划在美国建厂，但中国境内的在建工厂在数量上远远超过了它们。
In late 2015, a leading chip maker, Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing, said it would build a production facility in China despite longtime concerns from Taiwan's government about insulating the industry from Chinese competition and potential intellectual property theft. Late last year, another major chip maker from Taiwan, United Microelectronics, said it would build a factory on the east coast of China.	尽管台湾政府长期对让该行业摆脱中国的竞争和潜在的知识产权盗窃感到担忧，但 2015 年年底，领先的芯片制造商台湾积体电路制造股份有限公司表示将在中国修建一个生产工厂。去年年底，台湾另一家主要的芯片制造商联华电子宣布，将在中国东部沿海地区修建一座工厂。
Other companies have taken different approaches. The American chip maker AMD has licensed technology to a Chinese joint venture, also in Chengdu. IBM has licensed chip technology to a separate local partner.	其他公司则采取了不同的方式。美国芯片制造商 AMD 把技术授权给了一家同样位于成都的中国合资企业。IBM 则把芯片技术授权给了当地另外一个合作伙伴。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170213/china-computer-chips-global-foundries-investment	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170213/china-computer-chips-global-foundries-investment
Employees of Missing Hong Kong Billionaire Are Barred From Leaving China	更大的网罗正在张开，肖建华公司雇员被控制
HONG KONG — At least 30 employees of a Hong Kong billionaire who was whisked to China about two weeks ago have been stopped from leaving the mainland, with many more probably unable to travel, two people familiar with the matter said on Monday.	香港——据两名知情人士周一透露，一位两周前被匆匆带到中国的香港亿万富翁的至少 30 名雇员被阻止离开内地，可能还有更多人无法出行。
It has become increasingly apparent that Beijing's dragnet extends far beyond the billionaire, Xiao Jianhua, and is now closing in on dozens, if not hundreds, of his employees in one of the most far-reaching crackdowns on a private Chinese conglomerate in the nearly four decades since the country began to embrace free markets.	越来越明显的是，现在北京撒出的罗网超出了亿万富翁肖建华之外，正逼近他的雇员，其人数就算没有数百，也有数十人。这场行动是自中国开始实施自由市场以来的近 40 年时间里，对中国私人企业集团进行的范围最广的打压之一。

Mr. Xiao, one of China's wealthiest and most politically connected financiers, was said to have been removed from his apartment at the Four Seasons in Hong Kong in a wheelchair, his head covered by a sheet or a blanket. He is believed to have been taken by boat to the mainland, where he is now in police custody, according to people familiar with the investigation into his disappearance.	肖建华是中国最富有、政治背景最强的金融家之一。据称他是坐在轮椅上、头部被床单或者毯子蒙着，被人从位于香港四季酒店的公寓带走的。拒信他是被人用船从香港运到了内地，如今被警方拘押在那里，该消息来自熟悉他失踪调查情况的人士。
Mr. Xiao's inside knowledge of the financial dealings of China's most powerful families may have overridden any concerns about violating Hong Kong's autonomy under the "one country, two systems" arrangement.	肖建华了解中国最有权势家庭金融交易的内情，这可能超越了此举违反香港在“一国两制”下自治权的所有顾虑。
In another development, an employee who worked on the computer systems at Mr. Xiao's companies was detained at the Hong Kong airport on Sunday evening, suspected of committing passport violations while trying to fly to Japan, the people familiar with the matter said.	另一方面，有知情人士透露，肖建华公司一位负责管理计算机系统的雇员在周日晚上于香港机场被拘留，被怀疑违反护照规定，试图飞往日本。
The employee, who is still being held, was in Hong Kong working on securing the companies' networks, one of the people said.	其中一位人士透露，这位依然被拘的雇员在香港的工作是维护公司的网络。
The moves signal that Mr. Xiao, 45, is in serious trouble and that his companies are unlikely to be spared amid a widening crackdown.	这些举措释放出一个信号，即在这场范围逐渐扩大的打压行动中，45岁的肖建华陷入了严重的麻烦，他的公司也难以幸免。
Companies under Mr. Xiao's Tomorrow Group, which was founded in 1999, control tens of billions of dollars in assets, and its holdings have included stakes in more than 30 financial institutions, including Ping An, one of China's biggest insurers, as well as Harbin Bank and Industrial Bank.	肖建华的明天集团创立于1999年，旗下多家公司控制着数十亿美元的资产，持有30多家金融机构的股票，包括中国最大的保险公司平安，以及哈尔滨银行和兴业银行。
His apparent abduction comes before an important Communist Party meeting expected to take place in October or November. There, the	他显然是遭绑架，这起事件发生在预计10月或11月召开的一次重要的共产党会议之前。在这次会议上，党将确认中国最高的政治权力机构、由七人组

party will name as many as five new members to the elite Politburo Standing Committee, the group of seven men at the pinnacle of political power in China.	成的高层政治局常务委员会中的五位新成员。
In the months leading up to the conclave, held once every five years, the party puts stability at a premium, and Mr. Xiao, through his substantial holdings, is seen as having the potential to bring instability to China's stock markets.	在这个每五年举行一次的秘密会议召开前的几个月里，党极其重视稳定。因持有数额庞大的股票，肖建华被认为有可能给中国股票市场带来不稳定性。
Bill Bishop, who publishes the widely read Sinocism newsletter on Chinese politics, said that China's leaders, including the president, Xi Jinping, and the Communist Party's top antigraft enforcer, Wang Qishan, might see Mr. Xiao's company as a "systemic threat to the stock market" in a year when stability is paramount.	读者甚广的中国时事通讯博客 Sinocism 的作者利明璋(Bill Bishop)表示，在一个稳定大于一切的年份里，包括国家主席习近平、党的最高反腐执行者王岐山在内的中国领导层可能将肖建华的公司视为“股市的系统性威胁”。
"It seems like a no-lose move for Wang and Xi," Mr. Bishop said by email.	“对王岐山和习近平而言，这似乎是一个必定成功的举措，”利明璋通过邮件表示。
One Hong Kong newspaper, the South China Morning Post, which is owned by the mainland's Alibaba Group, said that Mr. Xiao was "assisting investigations" into China's stock market gyrations in 2015. Shares in Shanghai climbed to highs in early June of that year, only to fall more than 40 percent in just over two months.	大陆阿里巴巴集团拥有的香港报纸《南华早报》表示，肖建华在“协助调查”中国 2015 年的股市动荡。当年 6 月初沪市攀升至高点，但两个月内暴跌了逾 40%。
The full extent of Mr. Xiao's wealth is not known. One person close to Mr. Xiao said his true wealth was many multiples more than the $5.8 billion in assets that the Shanghai-based Hurun Report, which tracks China's wealthy, assigns to him.	肖建华的财富具体有多少不为人知。上海追踪中国最富裕人群财富状况的月刊《胡润百富》(Hurun Report)称他的身家为 58 亿美元，但一个接近肖建华的人说，实际数字超过这个许多倍。
The clampdown at the borders illustrates the lengths China is willing to go to secure the man who long served as the de facto banker to the	这起边境上的压制行动表明，为了抓住这名为中国共产党权贵长期充当实际上的银行家的男子，中国愿意做出怎样的事情。此事也让中国和香港的精英

Chinese Communist Party elite. The case has also chilled Chinese and Hong Kong elites, as it demonstrates an increasing willingness by Chinese security forces to encroach into Hong Kong, which is supposed to run its own affairs.	阶层寒心，因为这表明中国的安全势力染指香港的意愿越来越大，而香港事务本来应该由香港人自己管理。
The employee currently detained by Hong Kong's Immigration Department was stopped while trying to fly to Tokyo from Hong Kong International Airport on Sunday night, two people said. The man, Yao Long, worked in information technology at one of Mr. Xiao's companies and had come to Hong Kong to work on strengthening the company's cybersecurity within China, one person said.	有两个人说，目前在香港入境事务处拘押的那名员工，是周日晚上从香港国际机场前往东京的时候遭拦截的。一名知情人士说，这个名叫姚龙（音）的员工是肖建华一家公司的IT人员，到香港来是为了提升该公司在中国境内的网络安全性。
The Immigration Department, which is still holding Mr. Yao, is investigating whether his travel documents are valid, the person said. It is unclear how Mr. Yao would have been able to enter Hong Kong with the documents, but one possibility is that China invalidated the passport while he was in Hong Kong, the person said.	有关人士表示，香港入境事务处现仍然控制着姚龙，正在调查他的旅行证件是否有效。目前尚不清楚姚龙是如何以那些证件进入香港的，但知情人士说，其中一种可能是，姚龙在香港期间，中国注销了他的护照。
A spokesman for the Hong Kong Immigration Department declined to comment, saying the agency did not discuss individual cases.	香港入境事务处发言人拒绝予以置评，称该机构不讨论个案。
But invalidating a passport would not be particularly abnormal, according to Jonathan Man, a lawyer who advised Edward J. Snowden, the former National Security Agency contractor.	但根据律师文浩正(Jonathan Man)的说法，注销护照的情况也不是特别不正常。文浩正曾为前美国国家安全局承包商爱德华·J·斯诺登(Edward J. Snowden)提供建议。
"It's done by other countries; with Snowden, the U.S. revoked his passport — it's quite a normal way if you want to get a person," Mr. Man said in a telephone interview. "You cancel his passport to prevent him from going anywhere else," he said, adding that Beijing has a number of ways to get people to come back over the border.	"其他国家也做过这种事；在斯诺登的案件里，美国注销了他的护照——如果你想抓到某个人，这是一种很正常的方式，"文浩正在接受电话采访时说。"你注销护照，以防他前往别的地方"，他还表示，北京有很多方法让人回到境内。

While it is not clear what will happen to Mr. Yao, Mr. Man said that the Immigration Department would quite likely have to decide whether to charge him with a crime within 48 hours. At that point, if he is not charged but has an invalid passport, he would probably be unable to travel anywhere other than China.	目前尚不清楚姚龙将会遇到什么情况，但文浩正说，入境事务处可能需要在 48 小时内做出是否以某项罪名起诉他的决定。就目前来说，如果他没有被起诉，但护照无效，他可能无法在中国以外的任何地方旅行。
Attempts to contact Mr. Yao were unsuccessful.	我们尝试与姚龙联系，但未能成功。
China's domestic news media has been largely silent on Mr. Xiao, possibly because his situation is so politically delicate after he helped relatives of Mr. Xi's divest from a financial company, The New York Times reported in 2014.	中国国内新闻媒体对肖建华一事基本上保持沉默，可能是此事在政治上非常微妙，因为肖建华曾帮助习近平的亲戚从一家金融公司剥离，《纽约时报》在 2014 年报道过这件事。
But on Sunday, the influential financial magazine Caixin suggested that the investigation into Mr. Xiao's company might have been going on for many months before his apparent abduction and rendition to the mainland on Jan. 27. The report also hinted at the possible reach and influence of Mr. Xiao's empire.	但是在周日，素有声望的金融杂志《财新》表示，在肖建华 1 月 27 日似乎遭到绑架并移送大陆之前，他的公司可能已经遭到了数月之久的调查。该报道还暗示了肖建华的帝国涵盖之广，影响之大。
The magazine, citing people it did not identify, reported that one of the country's top newspapers covering the Chinese stock market, Securities Daily, had been controlled by Mr. Xiao's Tomorrow Group. Through three corporate shareholders, Tomorrow owned more than a third of the media company and influenced its editorial decisions to portray Tomorrow and its affiliates in a positive light, the magazine said.	该杂志援引匿名人士的话报道，肖建华的明日集团控制了中国股票市场最重要报纸之一的《证券日报》。《财新》表示，尽管该媒体公司有三个法人股东，但明日集团持有超过三分之一的股份，由此影响编辑决策，对明日集团及其附属公司进行正面描绘。 late December, the company said in a statement at the time. On Jan. 4, trading in the company's stock was suspended because "important information cannot be kept safe or has been leaked," it said.	的职位，该消息来自公司当时发布的一项声明。报道还提到，该公司以“重大信息难以保密”为由，自1月4日起停牌。
Caixin reported that the newspaper's top official had been removed from his post and expelled from the Communist Party for "serious disciplinary violations," which usually means corruption.	《财新》还报道，这家报纸的最高负责人已被撤职、开除党籍，原因是“严重违纪”，这通常意味着腐败。
That official, Xie Zhenjiang, lost his job as chairman of the newspaper in	这位名为谢镇江的官员是在去年 12 月底被撤掉了《证券日报》公司董事长

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170214/xiao-jianhua-hong-kong-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170214/xiao-jianhua-hong-kong-china
Greenpeace Links Beijing's Air Pollution Surge to Steel Factories	绿色和平：中国钢铁生产恶化空气污染
Despite promises to cut steel overcapacity, China actually brought more steel production online last year, resulting in a surge in air pollution in northern China, especially around Beijing, according to a report released this week by Greenpeace East Asia.	绿色和平东亚分部(Greenpeace East Asia)本周发表的一份报告称，尽管中国承诺要减少钢铁产能过剩，但实际上该国去年生产了更多的钢铁，导致中国北方的空气污染程度急剧上升，特别是北京周围一带。
The growth in operating capacity was more than twice the total steel making capacity of Britain, the report said.	报告说，实际产能的增长是英国炼钢能力的两倍以上。
The increase in steel production, which is powered by the burning of coal, also means that levels of greenhouse gas emissions from that sector almost certainly grew last year, compared with 2015 levels. Greenhouse gases are the main factor behind the acceleration of climate change. The steel industry is the second biggest emitter of carbon dioxide, the main greenhouse gas; the first is power generation, which also relies mostly on coal.	由于使用燃煤，钢铁生产的增加也意味着与2015年的水平相比，该行业的温室气体排放在去年几乎肯定有所增长。温室气体排放是气候变化加速背后的主要因素。钢铁业是主要温室气体二氧化碳的第二大排放行业；第一是发电，它也主要使用燃煤。
China is the biggest greenhouse gas emitter in the world, ahead of the United States.	中国是世界上最大的温室气体排放国，居于美国之前。
The report, released Monday, shows how powerful state-owned enterprises and local officials have acted to keep steel companies operating out of economic self-interest despite a serious overcapacity problem in the industry. And as China's economic growth slows, local governments feel rising pressure to support factory jobs to avoid	周一发布的这份报告显示，强大的国有企业和地方官员尽管面临行业严重产能过剩的问题，却仍然让钢铁企业在没有经济利益的情况下继续运营。随着中国经济增长放缓，地方政府承受着支撑工厂经营、避免国内动荡的压力。 domestic unrest.

The report said 10 Chinese provinces increased their operating steel production capacity. The greatest increases were in Shanxi and Hebei, which are close to Beijing and have some of the most toxic air in the world. Only six provinces had a net decrease, the report said.	这份报告称，中国有 10 个省份提高了钢铁产能。增幅最大的是北京附近的山西和河北，那里的空气污染也属于世界最差水平。报告说，只有 6 个省份实现了产能净减少。
The Chinese consulting firm Custeel, under commission from Greenpeace East Asia, did the main research for the report. The firm based its calculations on surveys and official documents, including ones from local governments.	中国的咨询公司中联钢受绿色和平东亚分部的委托，为这份报告做了主要的调研工作。该公司计算的依据是调查和官方文件，包括来自地方政府的文件。
Growth in steel demand across China has been slowing since 2011, leading to pledges by officials to cut capacity.	自 2011 年以来，中国钢铁的需求增长一直在放缓，因此官员承诺要削减钢铁产能。
Officials said that efforts last year to cut capacity had exceeded targets set for the year. But the research by Custeel showed that officials pulled a sleight of hand in making that declaration — many of the cuts were to plants that had already been idle. As a result, only 23 million metric tons of capacity was actually closed, the report said.	官员们说，去年削减产能的努力超过了当年目标。但是中联钢的研究表明，官员们在宣布这个消息时做了手脚——削减的产能来自已经停产的工厂。因此实际上仅削减了 2300 万吨的产能。
Those closures curtailed supply at the same time that government stimulus led to a short-term uptick in demand. Officials and companies restarted some plants that had previously been suspended, the report said. That production capacity was equal to 49 million metric tons, about the same as Germany's total steel making capacity.	关闭工厂减少了供应量，而与此同时，政府的刺激措施又导致了短期需求上扬。报告说，官员和公司重新启动了一些暂时关闭的工厂。这部分产能为 4900 万吨，相当于德国总的钢铁产能。
China also added 12 million metric tons of new capacity.	而中国还增加了 1200 万吨的新产能。
As a result, the net increase in operating steel capacity for 2016 was 36.5 million metric tons, the report said. Eighty percent of that increase came from just three provinces: Hebei, Shanxi and Tianjin.	报告说，因此 2016 年经营钢铁产能的净增量为 3650 万吨。其中 80% 的增长来自于三个省份或直辖市：河北、山西和天津。

Some government policies have gone against the stated goal of cutting overcapacity. From 2013 to 2015, bank lending and government subsidies to the steel industry increased. In 2016, stimulus policies "created a miniboom in construction, artificially inflating steel demand and steel prices."	政府的一些政策也与削减产能过剩的既定目标相抵触。从 2013 年到 2015 年，银行贷款和政府对于钢铁业的补贴都增加了。在 2016 年，刺激政策“带来了短暂的繁荣，人为导致了钢铁需求和钢铁价格的上升”。
The report said most of the capacity that was cut came from closures of plants that were privately owned or owned by central state enterprises, which suggested that local state-owned enterprises and governments were protecting their own interests.	报告说，大部分削减的产能都是来自中央国有企业或者私企关闭的工厂，这表明地方国有企业和政府正在保护自己的利益。
A Greenpeace analysis of Beijing air quality data showed that steady progress in curbing air pollution in Beijing stalled last year. In some months late in the year, air quality worsened over 2015. In the first five weeks of 2017, the concentration of PM2.5, or particulate matter of a size deemed especially harmful, was almost twice as much as the same period in 2016.	绿色和平对北京空气质量数据的分析显示，北京空气污染治理本来一直进展稳定，但在去年停滞不前。在 2016 年下半年的某些月份，空气质量较 2015 年有所恶化。在 2017 年前五周里，危害尤其大的颗粒物 PM2.5 的浓度几乎是 2016 年同期的两倍。
In 2013, the central government announced goals to cut coal use in three major population centers in China, including in the large region around Beijing, to try to bring down levels of air pollution, among the worst in the world.	2013 年，中央政府宣布了削减中国三大人口中心煤炭消耗量的目标，试图改善其全球最差级别的空气污染水平，其中就包括北京和周边地区。
Stimulus policies last year also led to an increase in coal prices during one period, though climate change researchers say they expect data to show that overall coal consumption in China declined in 2016 compared with 2015.	去年的刺激政策也导致了煤价上涨，不过气候变化研究人员表示，他们预计数据会显示 2016 年中国整体煤炭消耗量较 2015 年有所下降。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170217/beijing-air-pollution-china-steel-production	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170217/beijing-air-pollution-china-steel-production

China Suspends All Coal Imports From North Korea	中国全面暂停进口朝鲜煤炭
SEOUL, South Korea — China said on Saturday that it was suspending all imports of coal from North Korea as part of its effort to enact United Nations Security Council sanctions aimed at stopping the country's nuclear weapons and ballistic-missile program.	韩国首尔——中国周六表示暂停从朝鲜的所有煤炭进口，这是中国执行联合国安全理事会制裁措施努力的一部分，制裁旨在停止朝鲜的核武器和弹道导弹计划。
The ban takes effect on Sunday and will last until the end of the year, the Chinese Commerce Ministry said in a brief statement posted on its website on Saturday. Chinese trade and aid have long been a vital economic crutch for North Korea, and the decision strips North Korea of one of its most important sources of foreign currency.	中国商务部周六在其网站公布的一份简短声明中表示，禁令于周日生效，并持续到年底。中国的贸易和援助长期以来一直是朝鲜的重要经济支柱，中国的决定断绝了朝鲜最重要的外汇来源之一。
Coal has accounted for 34 percent to 40 percent of North Korean exports in the past several years, and almost all of it was shipped to China, according to South Korean government estimates.	根据韩国政府的估计，在过去几年里，煤炭占朝鲜出口的34%到40%，而且几乎所有的煤炭都出口到中国。
The ban comes six days after the North Korean test of a ballistic missile that the Security Council condemned as a violation of its resolutions that prohibited the country from developing and testing ballistic missile technology.	禁令是在朝鲜测试弹道导弹六天后发布的，安理会谴责朝鲜违反了禁止该国发展和测试弹道导弹技术的决议。
In the test, North Korea claimed that it had successfully launched a new type of nuclear-capable missile. It said its intermediate-range Pukguksong-2 missile used a solid-fuel technology that American experts say will make it harder to detect missile attacks from the North.	朝鲜声称在这次试验中成功地发射了一枚新型的能运载核弹头的导弹。朝鲜说，该国的中程“北极星-2”导弹使用了固体燃料技术，美国专家说，这种技术将让来自朝鲜的导弹袭击更难被发现。
In the resolution it adopted in November in response to the North's fifth and most powerful nuclear test, the Security Council said that North Korea should not be allowed to export more than 7.5 million metric tons of coal a year or bring in more than $400 million in coal sales,	作为对朝鲜第五次、也是能量最大的一次核试验的响应，联合国安理会在去年11月通过的决议中说，朝鲜一年出售的煤炭不能超过750万公吨，或者销售额不能超过4亿美元，哪个指标先达到就采用哪个。目前尚不清楚这个限额今年是否已经达到。

whichever limit is met first. It was unclear whether that cap has already been reached for this year.
Officials of the United States and its allies, including President Trump, have suggested that China, North Korea's principal economic patron, should be more aggressive in enforcing sanctions. But while it does not approve of the North's weapons program, China has also been seen as reluctant to inflict crippling pain on North Korea, for fear that it might destabilize its Communist neighbor.	包括特朗普总统在内的美国官员及美国的盟友表示，朝鲜的主要经济资助者中国应该更积极地执行制裁。但是，虽然中国不赞成朝鲜的武器计划，但人们也看到，中国不太愿意给朝鲜造成严重的痛苦，因为担心那样会让自己的这个共产主义邻国不稳定。
In April, China announced that it would ban coal imports from North Korea as part of the United Nations' efforts to squeeze the country's ability to raise funds for its nuclear and missile programs. But it allowed exemptions for coal imports for "livelihood" reasons, and deliveries continued.	去年4月，中国曾宣布禁止从朝鲜进口煤炭，作为联合国抑制该国为其核计划和导弹计划筹集资金能力的努力的一部分。但中国把出于“生计”原因的煤炭进口作为例外，朝鲜的煤炭仍继续源源不断地进入中国。
The Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs did not comment on the suspension after it was announced on Saturday. Calls to the ministry's press officer were not answered. On Friday, the Chinese minister of foreign affairs, Wang Yi, said at a conference in Munich that the United Nations sanctions of North Korea "must continue to be strictly implemented."	周六宣布暂停煤炭进口后，中国外交部没有发表评论。打给外交部新闻官员的电话无人接听。中国外交部长王毅周五在慕尼黑的一个会议上说，“当然要继续严格执行联合国安理会（对朝鲜制裁的）决议”。
But Mr. Wang also argued that only renewed negotiations would offer any hope of curtailing North Korea's nuclear weapons development. China has hosted six-party talks — including itself, South Korea, North Korea, the United States, Japan and Russia — aimed at a negotiated settlement of the North Korean nuclear standoff. But those talks have stopped since 2009, and there seems little hope of them restarting	但王毅也指出，只有恢复谈判，才能为限制朝鲜的核武器发展带来任何希望。中国曾主持过六方会谈，包括中国、韩国、朝鲜、美国、日本和俄罗斯的六方会谈旨在通过谈判解决朝鲜的核武器僵局。但是，这些谈判自2009年起就停了下来，近期似乎没有多少希望恢复谈判。

anytime soon.
"This situation cannot continue," Mr. Wang said, "because the ultimate outcome may be intolerable to all sides."	王毅说，“这一状况不应再继续下去了！因为其最终局面可能各方都无法承受。”
Last year, China imported 22.5 million metric tons of coal from North Korea, an increase of 14.5 percent on the amount in 2015, according to Chinese customs statistics. In December, China imported about 2 million tons of North Korean coal. Mysteel, a Chinese industrial analysis firm, estimated that under the limits imposed by the sanctions, the coal quota would be used up by April or May. In 2015, China's cumulative imports of North Korean coal reached 7.5 million metric tons by May.	据中国海关统计，中国去年从朝鲜进口了 2250 万公吨煤，比 2015 年增加了 14.5%。去年 12 月，中国从朝鲜进口了约 200 万吨煤。中国工业分析公司 Mysteel 估计，由于制裁的限制，朝鲜出口煤炭的配额将于 4 月或 5 月份用完。2015 年，中国从朝鲜累计进口的煤炭到 5 月份就已达到了 750 万吨。
The coal suspension also followed the assassination of Kim Jong-nam, the estranged half brother of the North Korean leader Kim Jong-un, on Monday at an airport in Malaysia. The Malaysian authorities are continuing to investigate the case. South Korean officials have suspected North Korean involvement in the killing of Mr. Kim, who had been living in Macau, the Chinese gambling enclave.	暂停煤炭进口的宣布也是在金正男上周一在马来西亚机场被暗杀之后，金正男是朝鲜领导人金正恩的同父异母哥哥，两人的关系早已破裂。马来西亚当局正在继续调查该案。韩国官员怀疑朝鲜参与了杀害金正男，他曾住在中国的赌博王国澳门。
Some analysts have speculated that the killing may have infuriated Beijing because Mr. Kim was considered a pro-Chinese candidate to replace Kim Jong-un, the North Korean leader, should the current government in North Korea fall.	一些分析人士认为，暗杀也许惹恼了中国，因为如果朝鲜目前的政府垮台的话，金正男被认为是取代朝鲜领导人金正恩的亲中国候选人。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170220/north-korea-china-coal-impors-suspended	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170220/north-korea-china-coal-impors-suspended
Chinese Security Forces Rally in Xinjiang in a Show of Power	新疆举行近年最大规模安全部队集结
Chinese officials in the western region of Xinjiang, an area troubled by occasional acts of ethnic violence and domestic terrorism, ordered	过去一周，在被偶发的民族暴力事件和国内恐怖主义所困扰的中国西部地区新疆，官员组织了准军事部队和警察的大规模集结，以展示其力量。 paramilitary units and police officers to attend large rallies in the past week as a show of force.

The rallies were the biggest in recent years, if statistics cited by official websites are accurate.	如果官方网站引用的数据准确，这些集结的规模是近年来最大的。
About 10,000 police officers and members of the People's Armed Police, a paramilitary force responsible for domestic security, attended a rally on Saturday in a central square in Urumqi, the regional capital, according to a report on the Xinjiang government's official website. Hundreds of police vans and other official vehicles also filled the square.	据新疆政府官方网站的一则报道称，周六，约一万名警察以及负责国内安全的准军事部队“人民武装警察”在该地区首府乌鲁木齐的一个中央广场集结。数百辆警车及其他政府车辆也占满了广场。
Similar rallies took place in Khotan on Thursday and in Kashgar on Friday, both oasis towns with mostly Uighur populations along the old Silk Road.	周四在和田、周五在喀什也举行了类似的集结活动。这两个地方都是古丝绸之路之上以维吾尔人为主的绿洲城市。
According to an official news report, the rallies had a common theme, "Showing power to intimidate, lining up the forces."	据官方的一则新闻报道，这些集结有一个共同的主题——“扬威震慑，武装拉拢”。
Xinjiang, which abuts Central Asia, is one of the largest regions in China. Parts of it are home to ethnic Uighurs, a Turkic-speaking people who mostly practice Sunni Islam. At least privately, many Uighurs criticize the rule of the ethnic Han, the dominant group in China.	新疆毗邻中亚，是中国最大的行政区之一，其中有部分地区是维吾尔少数民族的聚居地。维吾尔人的语言属突厥语族，大多信奉逊尼派伊斯兰教。很多维吾尔人至少在私下里会批评汉人的统治。汉族是中国的主要民族。
Prominent bursts of violence have occurred in recent years. The most startling unfolded in Urumqi in 2009, when ethnic rioting resulted in about 200 deaths. The government said most of the victims were ethnic Han. Uighurs and international human rights groups criticized an intense security crackdown that followed.	近些年爆发了一些广为人知的暴力事件。最令人震惊的是2009年乌鲁木齐的民族暴动，导致约200人死亡，政府称大部分受害者是汉人。维吾尔和国际人权组织批评了随后的强力武装镇压。
In 2013 and 2014, Chinese state-run news organizations reported on many attacks in Xinjiang, some involving groups of people in Uighur	2013年和2014年，中国官方新闻机构报道了新疆的很多暴力袭击事件，据称有些发生在维吾尔城镇或周边地区，一群群人带着匕首围攻警察局。中国

towns or neighborhoods who laid siege to police stations with knives, according to the news organizations. Chinese officials accused the attackers of being terrorists or religious extremists with ties to international jihadists but offered no evidence of organized terrorism groups at work in Xinjiang.	官员称那些袭击者是与国际圣战组织有联系的恐怖主义者或宗教极端主义者，但没有提供任何证据表明新疆存在有组织的恐怖主义团体。
Since then, open conflict in the region has ebbed, though there are occasionally flare-ups of violence.	从那以后，该地区的公开冲突减少了，不过偶尔还是会爆发暴力事件。
Last year, Chen Quanguo, the Communist Party chief of the Tibet Autonomous Region, where ethnic tensions are also a chronic problem, was appointed to be the party chief of Xinjiang. His predecessor in Xinjiang, Zhang Chunxian, was seen by some central-level officials as being too lenient. Mr. Chen, an ethnic Han known for tough policies in Tibet, has tried to project an uncompromising image in Xinjiang.	去年，西藏自治区党委书记陈全国被任命为新疆的党委书记。西藏也是一个长期存在民族冲突的地区。某些中央官员认为陈的前任张春贤过于仁慈。身为汉人的陈全国在西藏以强硬政策闻名，他试图在新疆塑造不妥协的形象。
James Leibold, a scholar of Xinjiang and China's ethnic policies at La Trobe University in Australia, said the recent rallies seemed "disproportional to the current threat level.	澳大利亚拉筹伯大学(La Trobe University)的新疆和中国少数民族政策学者雷国俊(James Leibold)表示，最近的集结似乎“与当前的威胁水平不相称”。
"The new regime of Chen Quanguo not only wants to look tough on terror in the eyes of the Han and Uighur population of the Xinjiang Uighur Autonomous Region, but also wants to send a message back to Zhongnanhai that his regime is going to take a more hard-line stance on terror when compared to his predecessor Zhang Chunxian," Professor Leibold said. Zhongnanhai is the name of the Communist Party's leadership compound in central Beijing.	“陈全国的新政府不仅想让新疆维吾尔自治区的汉人和维吾尔人看到他对恐怖活动的强硬态度，还想向中南海表明，与前任张春贤相比，他的政府打算对恐怖活动采取更强硬的立场，”雷国俊说。
Mr. Leibold said Mr. Chen was "clearly angling for a Politburo seat at the 19th party congress," an important political meeting that is expected to	近日曾就新疆安全部队问题撰文的雷国俊说，陈全国“显然想在十九大上跻身政治局”。计划今年秋季在北京举行的“十九大”是一个重要政治会议。他还

take place in Beijing in the fall. Mr. Leibold, who has recently written on security forces in Xinjiang, said his research showed that the Xinjiang government had recruited more than 30,000 new police officers to be present at streetside mobile stations since Mr. Chen took power last year.	说, 研究表明陈全国去年上台以来, 新疆政府招募了三万多名新警察, 增加了街头流动执勤点。
Under Mr. Chen, officials held several rallies earlier this winter, as they did in the years of Mr. Zhang. But there were no signs indicating that any of those earlier rallies under Mr. Chen or Mr. Zhang were attended by as many as 10,000 security officers.	在陈的领导下, 官方于去年冬初举行了几次集结, 张春贤主政时期也有同样的动作。但没有任何迹象表明, 陈或张之前曾经组织有上万人参加的安全部队集结。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170221/xinjiang-china-police-rallies	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170221/xinjiang-china-police-rallies
How the Communist Party Guided China to Success	共产党是如何引导中国走向成功的
Sebastian Heilmann, 51, is the founding president of the Mercator Institute of Chinese Studies (Merics) in Berlin and a government professor at the University of Trier. He has published extensively on Chinese industrial and technological policies, the Chinese Communist Party's organizational structure and how today's China reflects the party's history as a revolutionary organization forged in remote, scattered regions of the country.	51 岁的韩博天(Sebastian Heilmann)是位于柏林的德国墨卡托中国研究中心(Merics)的创办总裁和特里尔大学的政治经济学教授。他著述广泛, 内容涉及中国工业技术政策、中国共产党的组织结构, 以及今天的中国如何反映了党作为一个创建于偏远分散地区的革命组织的历史。
One of Mr. Heilmann's major works is a comprehensive guide to how China is governed, now updated and translated into English as "China's Political System." This is a wide-ranging examination of how the system works — how it guides the economy, provides services to people and formulates new policies. An online version of the book will be updated every two to three months, allowing readers to stay in touch with the creation of government agencies or campaigns.	韩博天的主要著作之一是关于中国是如何治理的综合指南, 该书如今已更新再版, 并被译成英文, 英文书名是《中国的政治制度》(China's Political System), 书中广泛考察了中国政治制度是如何工作的——它如何指导经济、如何为人民服务, 以及如何制定新政策。这本书的在线版本将每两三个月更新一次, 让读者能够随时跟踪新建立的政府机构或新运动。

In an interview, Mr. Heilmann discussed the underappreciated strengths of China's political system as well as how, under President Xi Jinping, it may have cast off some of the openness to experimentation that contributed to its success in recent decades.	在一次采访中，韩博天讨论了中国政治制度未得到充分认识的长处，以及在国家主席习近平领导下，这个制度也许已经抛弃了一些对试验的开放态度，而勇于试验是中国近几十年来成功的原因之一。
What is striking about your book are the case studies, showing how different ministries and commissions actually function.	你的书的惊人之处是其中的案例研究，这些案例显示了不同部委和委员会的实际功能。
We wanted to show problem-solving, or what's known as the provision of public goods. For example, how exactly does it create a rural health care system? How does it ensure food safety? These are issues that governments around the world have to deal with. It's about more than ideology. It's about how the system actually works.	我们想展示解决问题的方式，或所谓的提供公共物品的方式。例如，如何创建一个农村医疗保健系统？如何确保食品安全？这些是世界各国政府都要对付的问题，超出了意识形态的范畴。这是关于制度实际上如何工作的问题。
Another unusual feature that we try to explain is how the system of cadres [party officials] functions. In the West, policies are set by law and then carried out by civil servants. In China, policy implementation depends on cadres. They are given clear metrics and goals for achieving things and then told to go do them. Major policy shifts and top-down initiatives are managed through this cadre system, not by making laws.	我们试图解释的另一个不寻常的特点是（党的）干部制度的功能。在西方，政策是通过法律制定的，然后由公务员来执行。在中国，政策的实施取决于干部。他们得到完成业绩的明确指标和目标，然后被告知去做事情。主要政策转变和自上而下的方案是通过这种干部制度来管理的，而不是通过制定法律。
For example?	比如？
Xi Jinping's anticorruption campaign. The Communist Party has expanded and mobilized a parallel disciplinary bureaucracy with great powers to step in and investigate. But it has no clearly defined legal basis. Its operations are directed by party documents and internal directives.	习近平的反腐败运动。共产党已经扩大和调动了一个有很大权力的平行的、负责纪律的官僚机构，由其出面进行调查。但这个机构没有明确的法律依据。这个机构在党内文件和内部指示的指导下运作。
A key question you pose is how much of China's success can be	你提出的一个关键问题是，中国的成功在多大程度上能归功于这个政治制

ascribed to this political system. What's the answer?	度。答案是什么呢?
There are several important elements. One is the party successfully sets long-term political goals, such as the modernization of industry or technology, or infrastructure planning. As Deng Xiaoping made clear in the 1980s, it can concentrate resources in priority areas. I see this as a strength in the initial phase of development, from say the 1980s to the mid-2000s.	有几个重要的元素。一是党成功地制定了长期的政治目标，比如工业或技术的现代化，或基础设施规划。正如邓小平在 20 世纪 80 年代所展示的，这个制度可以把资源集中到优先领域上。我认为在发展的初始阶段，也就是说从 20 世纪 80 年代到 21 世纪头十年的中期，这是一种长处。
Another crucial element is experimentation. This is something we ignore in the West – how unexpectedly flexible China's deeply bureaucratic system can be. This flexibility has been demonstrated in the ability to set up pilot projects in special economic zones, in local tests – such as for housing reform or bankruptcy in state enterprises. Very difficult measures were regularly tested in pilot projects for several years before national laws were enacted.	另一个关键因素是试验。在西方，被我们忽视的东西是，中国深度官僚的体制是如何出人意料地灵活。这种灵活性已被经济特区的试点项目所证实，也被地方上的试验所证实，比如住房改革和国有企业破产。在国家法律颁布之前，难度极大的措施经常已在试点项目中测试了好几年了。
You show how this flexibility arose from the Communist Party's revolutionary experience.	你阐述了这种灵活性如何诞生于共产党的革命实践。
This is very important. Because we have to ask ourselves, how did a socialist bureaucratic system get this kind of adaptability that you didn't see in Eastern Europe? It's due to the specific historical experiences of this party [in the 1930s and 1940s before coming to power]. It controlled very spread-out and not contiguous districts. So when it tried something like land reform it was done experimentally and in a decentralized fashion. This was fundamentally different from the Soviet Union.	这个非常重要。因为我们必须问自己，一个社会主义官僚制度是如何得到这种在东欧没有看到的适应性的？这是由于中国共产党（在掌权之前的上个世纪 30 年代和 40 年代）的具体历史经验。那时，中国共产党控制着非常分散、而且不是连在一起的地区。所以，当它尝试像土地改革这样的事情时，是通过试验和分散的方式进行的。这与苏联有根本的不同。
This willingness to experiment was also a hallmark of the Deng	勇于试验的做法也是邓小平和江泽民时代的标志。

Xiaoping and Jiang Zemin periods.
It only largely ended with Xi Jinping with the idea of “top-level design.” There was a feeling that these decentralized experiments contributed to corruption and a lack of discipline. So now every policy initiative has to be approved by the center. This has taken a lot of the energy out of China’s political system.	只是在习近平时代，这种做法才在很大程度上结束了，习近平提出了“顶层设计”的观念。有一种感觉认为，那些分散的试验导致了腐败和纪律涣散。因此，现在每个政策举措都必须得到中央的批准。这就抽走了中国政治制度中的许多能量。
There was an argument that reforms must proceed in sequence, so they had to be coordinated. But the effect has been that not much has happened since 2013 [when Mr. Xi became president] in terms of ground-up problem-solving. If you rely on hierarchy and discipline, the courage to experiment at the lower levels is squeezed out. People are afraid of trying things.	有种观点认为，改革必须循序渐进，因此必须协调进行。但是实际效果是，自从2013年（习近平担任国家主席）以来，就自下而上地解决问题而言，没有发生多少东西。如果你强调等级制度和纪律，那么，下层试验的勇气就会受到挤压。人们会害怕尝试。
Ironically, it’s only now that some countries are looking at China as a model. Can it be a model?	具有讽刺意味的是，现在有些国家正在把中国视为一种模式。中国可能是模式吗？
For many years I would have said no, but many countries are struggling with how to deal with pressing basic problems like maintaining internal security, building physical infrastructure and providing jobs. These are the basis of populist movements around the world. China is a point of orientation. It can’t be duplicated because these other countries don’t have a Communist Party with the special history and features of China’s. But in terms of considering illiberal, state-directed solutions, China is often cited as an example of how an authoritarian government can deal with things differently. China’s experience is thus a permanent question mark for the world when they ask if the Western model is the best.	在过去的很多年里，我都会说不能，但许多国家正在艰难地应对紧迫的基本问题，比如维持内部安全、建设有形基础设施，以及提供就业机会。这些基本问题是世界各地民粹主义运动的原因。中国指出了一个方向。中国模式不可重复，因为这些其他的国家没有一个具有中国特殊历史和特征的共产党。但就不自由的、国家导向的解决方案而言，中国经常被引为威权政府如何用不同方式处理问题的例子。因此，当人们想知道西方模式是否是世界上最好的时，中国的经验是一个永恒的问号。

Toward the end of the book you offer several scenarios for how China might develop, and poll Merics staffers for their views. Most support the first scenario, which is a “centralized and disciplined party and security state (the Xi Jinping system).” You are less sure, arguing that the risks are greater than people realize.	在书的结尾处，你为中国可能的发展提供了几种设想，并就这些设想调查了墨卡托中心员工的意见。大多数人支持第一种设想，既“集权和纪律严明的高度戒备的党国（习近平体制）”。你对这种前景不太确定，你认为制度的风险比人们意识到的要大。
I’m not sure that the party can achieve everything it’s set out to do. It’s tried to keep a lid on all changes in society, but I doubt this can work over time. There are different lifestyles and forces in society. I’m not sure they can be unified. I’m very skeptical.	我不确定党能实现它想要做的一切。党试图控制社会上的所有变化，但我怀疑这种做法的长期可行性。社会上有各种各样的生活方式和力量。我不确定这些方式和力量可以被统一起来。我对此深表怀疑。
Also, we shouldn’t forget that hierarchical systems are susceptible to shocks. If Xi Jinping became seriously ill, what would happen to the political system? The system has been tailored to him. Or, if there are military skirmishes, how will the nationalistic forces in society react?	此外，我们不应忘记，等级制度容易受到冲击。如果习近平患重病的话，中国的政治制度会发生什么事情？这个制度已变成围着他转的。或者，如果发生小的军事冲突，社会上的民族主义力量将会如何反应？
This system is built for expansion, especially economic expansion, and setbacks are very hard to justify. It’s easier in Western systems because you can change the government. But in China you can’t. So the potential for disruption is greater than people imagine.	这个制度是为扩展、特别是经济扩展而建的，这个制度很难为挫折作辩解。而这在西方制度下更容易，因为你可以改变政府。但在中国不能。因此，发生颠覆的可能性比人们想象的要大。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170223/china-politics-xi-jinping	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170223/china-politics-xi-jinping
Donald Tsang, Former Hong Kong Leader, Gets 20 Months for Misconduct	香港前特首曾荫权获刑 20 个月
HONG KONG — A former leader of Hong Kong was sentenced to 20 months in prison on Wednesday for misconduct in public office, a development in a high-profile trial that has again brought attention to the cozy ties between the city’s political elites and business tycoons.	香港——本周三，在一宗备受瞩目的审判中，香港一名前任领导人因公职人员行为失当罪被判处 20 个月监禁，此事再次引起人们对香港政治精英和商业巨头之间亲密关系的关注。
Donald Tsang, who was the chief executive of Hong Kong from 2005 to	曾荫权在 2005 年至 2012 年期间任香港特区行政长官，是香港被判入狱的

2012, is the highest-ranking former official in the city to be put behind bars.	最高级别前官员。
Mr. Tsang was found guilty last week over his failure to disclose his interests when his cabinet was considering a broadcasting license application by a Chinese property developer from 2010 to 2012.	上周，曾荫权被裁定在 2010 年至 2012 年期间，其内阁考虑一名中国地产开发商的广播牌照申请时，未能披露自己的利益。
A jury concluded that Mr. Tsang had deliberately concealed his plans to lease a three-story penthouse from the developer, Wong Cho-bau, when the developer's company was seeking government approval for several applications, including one for a digital audio broadcasting license. The applications were approved.	评审团得出的结论是，曾荫权故意隐瞒了他从房地产开发商黄楚标那里租赁一套三层顶楼公寓的计划，当时这家开发商的公司有多项申请正在寻求香港政府的批准，其中包括一个数码广播牌照。这些申请均获得了批准。
Mr. Tsang is planning to appeal his conviction, his wife, Selina Tsang, told reporters outside the High Court after the sentencing.	判决宣布后，曾荫权的妻子曾鲍笑薇在高等法院外告诉记者，他计划提出上诉。
"Today is a very dark day. The entire family is disappointed and upset," she said.	"今日是很黑暗的日子，对法庭裁决感失望和伤心。"她说。
The conviction and sentencing are sure to tarnish the legacy of Mr. Tsang, who had served in public office for 45 years, including seven as chief executive, the city's top political office.	定罪和判刑肯定会损害曾荫权的政治遗产，他已经在公职部门工作了 45 年，其中包括担任香港最高政治职位行政长官的 7 年。
"Never in my judicial career have I seen a man fallen from so high," said the judge in the case, Andrew Chan Hing-wai, according to the public broadcaster RTHK.	据公共广播机构香港电台(RTHK)报道，审理该案的法官陈庆伟表示："从没看到任何一个人从如此之高的位置上如此之快地跌落。"
Mr. Tsang, 72, faced a maximum sentence of seven years in prison for misconduct in public office. Taking into account his life in public service, the judge cut the original sentence to 20 months from 30 months.	曾荫权现年 72 岁，公职人员行为失当罪最高可被判处 7 年监禁。考虑到他的公职生涯，法官将原来的刑期从 30 个月减少到 20 个月。
He was acquitted of another charge of misconduct over failing to	他还被指控犯有另一项行为失当罪，因为他在提名一名室内设计师获得一项

declare that an interior designer he nominated for an official honor had renovated the penthouse, in the neighboring Chinese city of Shenzhen, at below market rates.	政府荣誉时，没有申报对方在邻近的中国城市深圳以低于市场的价格装修了那套顶楼公寓。
The jury failed to reach a majority verdict on a corruption charge that accused Mr. Tsang of accepting advantage – the refurbishment of the apartment – from Mr. Wong in return for approving his company’s license application. The charge is set to be retried in September.	陪审团未能就一项腐败指控达成多数裁决，该指控涉及曾荫权从黄楚标那里收取好处——翻新该公寓——以换取批准其公司的拍照申请。这项控罪将于九月重审。
In 2014, Mr. Tsang’s deputy, Rafael Hui, was convicted of misconduct in public office in another high-profile trial over dealings with a billionaire property tycoon.	2014年，在另一宗备受瞩目的审讯中，曾荫权副手许仕仁因与一名亿万地产大亨的往来，被判定为公职人员行为失当罪名成立。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170223/donald-tsang-sentence-hong-kong	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170223/donald-tsang-sentence-hong-kong
Western China Region Aims to Track People by Requiring Car Navigation	强制安装卫星定位，新疆巴音郭楞要追踪每一辆车
Officials in China’s largest prefecture, in the far-western region of Xinjiang, are requiring all drivers there to install a Chinese-made satellite navigation system in their vehicles, according to an official news report this week.	据一篇官方新闻报道称，位于中国西部新疆的中国最大地级行政区的官员，正要求所有的司机在车内安装一个由中国自己制造的卫星导航系统。
Police officials say drivers must install the navigation system by June 30. “The installation rate will reach 100 percent,” said a report on Monday on the website of The Korla Evening Post, a newspaper in the prefecture’s capital, Korla. The report was also posted on the government-managed website of Beidou, the Chinese satellite navigation system. Beidou is China’s version of the Global Positioning System, or GPS.	警方称，司机必须在6月30日之前完成安装。“安装率要达到100%”，周一发表在该行政区首府库尔勒的报纸《库尔勒晚报》上的一篇报道说。中国的卫星导航系统——北斗的官网转载了该报道，这个网站由政府管理。北斗是中国版的全球定位系统(GPS)。

The new requirement is intended to help the authorities track people in a region where violence sometimes erupts because of ethnic tensions. Parts of Xinjiang are home to ethnic Uighurs, a Turkic-speaking people who mostly practice Sunni Islam and often resent policies made by the ethnic Han, the dominant group in China.	在一个有时会因民族关系紧张而爆发暴力事件的地区，这一新规意在帮助当局进行追踪。新疆部分地区是维吾尔人的家园。维吾尔人讲的语言属突厥语族，他们大多信奉逊尼派伊斯兰教，并且对于在该国占支配地位的汉人所制定的政策，时常心怀怨恨。
The most notable burst of violence occurred in 2009, when ethnic rioting convulsed Urumqi, the regional capital, resulting in about 200 deaths, most of them ethnic Han, according to official reports. Officials responded with a harsh security crackdown. Other episodes have resembled domestic terrorism, and some officials say the attackers have connections to groups engaged in global jihadist activities, but they have not offered any evidence to buttress that claim.	最著名的一轮暴力事件发生在 2009 年。当时，民族骚乱震动了自治区首府乌鲁木齐。官方报道称，事件造成大约 200 人死亡，其中大部分是汉人。作为回应，官方进行了一场严厉的安全打击行动。其他一些事件和国内恐怖主义类似，一些官员称袭击者与从事全球圣战主义活动的组织有关，但他们没有给出任何证据来支持这一说法。
The prefecture, Bayingol Mongol Autonomous Prefecture, is next to Urumqi, and many vehicles that travel through it are going to or coming from Urumqi. Oasis towns with heavy Uighur populations lie to its west. The prefecture's population is 32 percent Uighur and 59 percent Han, according to official statistics, even though the prefecture's name implies that Mongolians are a significant population. (In fact, they are 3 percent of the total.)	报道中提到的巴音郭楞蒙古自治州紧邻乌鲁木齐，经过该州的很多车辆都是往返乌鲁木齐的。维吾尔人口密集的绿洲城镇位于该州的西部。官方统计数据 displays, 该州人口中维吾尔人占 32%，汉人占 59%，尽管该州的名字意味着蒙古人应占重要比例（实际上，蒙古人占 3%）。
Last year, central Communist Party officials appointed Chen Quanguo as the new party chief of Xinjiang. Mr. Chen formerly oversaw the Tibet Autonomous Region, which also has chronic problems involving ethnic conflict. Mr. Chen has tried to roll out more hard-line policies. It seems likely that he hopes to get a seat this fall on the Politburo, a top governing body in the party.	去年，共产党的中央官员任命陈全国担任新一任新疆党委书记。陈全国之前曾主政西藏自治区，后者也长期存在涉及民族冲突的问题。陈全国试图推出更强硬的政策。他似乎希望今年秋天在共产党的最高管理机构政治局获得一席之地。

Nicholas Bequelin, the East Asia director for Amnesty International, said the requirement to install the navigation system was consistent with Xinjiang's "important role as a trial ground" for China's ambition to create a "world-class, high-tech counterterrorism force."	国际特赦组织(Amnesty International)东亚分部主任林伟(Nicholas Bequelin)说, 安装该导航系统的要求符合新疆作为中国打造一支“世界级、高科技反恐力量”愿望的“试验田的重要角色”。
"While preventing terrorist attacks is a legitimate concern for the government," Mr. Bequelin said, "the kind of indiscriminate, quasi-totalitarian policies rolled out in Xinjiang" under Mr. Chen "are bound to create a deep pool of resentment that will indeed turn into a real time bomb for China."	“尽管对政府来说, 防范恐怖袭击是合法的,”林伟说, 但陈全国上台后“新疆推出的这种不加区分、类似极权主义的政策”, “一定会导致强烈的怨恨情绪, 这种怨恨又会给中国变出一枚真正的定时炸弹。”
In 2014, a series of bomb blasts in the prefecture killed six people, according to an official report. Security forces then shot people whom the report described as rioters. Forty people died, including some who blew themselves up, the report said.	据一篇官方报道称, 2014年该自治州曾发生一系列爆炸, 造成6人死亡。安全部队随后朝着报道中所说的暴徒开枪。该报道称, 整个事件导致40人死亡, 其中包括一些自爆者。
In 2013, a Uighur farmer used a knife to kill at least five people and wound seven, according to an official report.	另一篇官方报道称, 2013年, 另有一名维吾尔农民在这里发起持刀袭击, 造成至少5人死亡, 7人受伤。
News of the navigation system requirement first appeared in a post on the official microblog of the Bayingol traffic police department on Feb. 4. The post said: "In recent years, the international antiterrorism situation has been grim. Cars are the main means of transport for terrorists and have become a frequently chosen tool in terrorist attacks."	要求安装导航系统的新闻, 最早出现于2月4日巴音郭楞蒙古自治州交管部门的官方微博中。微博写道: “近年来, 全球恐怖主义形势日益严峻, 而汽车则是恐怖分子使用的首要交通工具。”
Another post said that on Feb. 19, police officers met to discuss the requirement. After that, a post appeared telling car owners about the order.	另一条微博写道, 2月19日, 警方召开会议, 讨论安装导航系统的规定。之后出现的一条微博向车主通报了该命令。
Since then, all those posts have been deleted from the official	之后, 这些微博都从官方微博账号上删除, 不过网上保留了缓存版本, 目前

microblog account, but cached versions were saved and are viewable online.	还能看到。
In the past week and a half, officials in Xinjiang have ordered paramilitary units and police officers to hold large rallies in at least three cities with significant Uighur populations as demonstrations of force. A report on the official regional government website said the rally at a central square in Urumqi involved at least 10,000 security officers and hundreds of vehicles.	过去一周半时间里, 新疆的官员命令准军事组织和警察在至少三个维吾尔人口比例较大的城市举行大规模集结, 彰显力量。自治区官网上的一篇报道称, 至少一万名安保人员和数百辆车参加了乌鲁木齐市一个广场上的活动。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170227/china-xinjiang-gps-vehicles	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170227/china-xinjiang-gps-vehicles
China and Taiwan Commemorate a Violent Nationalist Episode, 70 Years Later	70年后, “二二八事件”仍在两岸回响
TAIPEI, Taiwan — A shuttered tailor’s shop, a nondescript bank, a former radio station.	台湾台北——一家歇业的裁缝店, 一间不起眼的银行, 一座曾经的广播电台。
Often lost in the busy hum of today’s Taipei, this is the time of year when these buildings reverberate with violent echoes from 70 years ago, when Taiwan’s modern identity was born.	在如今繁忙的台北, 这些建筑往往被人遗忘, 但每年的这个时候, 70年前暴力事件的回响会再次在这些地方回荡, 台湾的现代身份认同就是在那个时候诞生的。
The “2/28 Incident,” as it has come to be known, was an uprising that flared on Feb. 28, 1947. It soon spread to other parts of the island, and was crushed in the massacre of up to 28,000 Taiwanese by the troops of Chiang Kai-shek, a Nationalist leader of China. The revolt was followed by four decades of martial law and divisions between Taiwanese whose roots in the island predated the Nationalists’ arrival in 1945 and the Chinese mainlanders who came after.	如人们所知, “二二八事件”是1947年2月28日爆发的起义。它很快蔓延到岛上的其他地方, 其后被中国国民党领袖蒋介石的部队所镇压, 其过程中大约有2.8万名台湾人遭到屠杀。叛乱之后, 台湾人经历了40年的戒严, 1945年国民党到来之前已在这里生活的本省人, 与其后到来的中国大陆人之间出现了分裂。
Yet it was the eventual willingness to confront these events that enabled Taiwan’s people to begin to heal those divisions and achieve	然而, 台湾最终愿意面对这些事件, 使台湾人民能够开始治愈这些分裂, 并在政府中发出他们的声音, 这正是抗议者们在70年前所要求的。

the voice in their government that the protesters demanded seven decades ago.
"In recent years, the quest to redress Feb. 28 has been a very important development," said Su Ching-hsuan, the executive secretary of the Taiwan Association for Truth and Reconciliation. "It's had a major influence on Taiwan's democracy movement."	"在这个时代，追求二二八平反这件事情很重要，"台湾民间真相与和解促进会执行秘书苏庆轩说："它还是有影响到台湾民主运动。"
And that quest continues. On Thursday, a committee of scholars released six new volumes of files related to the uprising, which they said reinforced the conclusion that ultimate responsibility for the massacre lay with Chiang.	这个要求还在继续。周四，一个学者委员会发布了六卷与起义有关的文件，他们说，这些文件巩固了一个结论：大屠杀的最终责任在于蒋介石。
The Feb. 28 episode actually began the day before, outside the Pegasus Teahouse in Dadaocheng, old Taipei's commercial district. A widow selling cigarettes illegally was confronted by inspectors and the police. After an inspector struck her head with his pistol, enraged passers-by surrounded the officers, one of whom shot and killed a bystander before the officers escaped into police protection.	二二八事件实际上是从前一天开始的，当时在台北市商业区大稻埕的天马茶房之外，一名非法贩卖香烟的寡妇被查缉员和警察质询。一名查缉员用手枪击打她的头部，激怒的路人将官员们包围，其中一名官员开枪杀死了一名旁观者，随后被警察保护起来。
Unable to pressure the authorities into giving up the officer that night, hundreds of protesters gathered the next morning to march from Dadaocheng to the office of Taiwan's governor, Chen Yi, to demand justice.	当天晚上，人们没能迫使当局交出那名官员，第二天早上，数百名抗议者聚集起来，从大稻埕走到台湾省行政长官陈仪的办公室，要讨个公道。
Taiwanese anger at the Nationalists had been building for months. Nationalist soldiers were originally greeted as liberators by Taiwanese, who had lived under Japanese colonial rule for 50 years. For a fleeting moment, there was optimism that Taiwan would enjoy greater self-determination.	台湾人对国民党的愤怒已经积累了几个月。他们在日本的殖民统治下生活了50年，国民党士兵最初被他们视为解放者而受到欢迎。在一段短暂的时间里，人们乐观地认为台湾将享有更大的自决权。

They wouldn't.	但他们没有。
"When the Chinese arrived, people thought their situation would improve, because many Taiwanese were of Chinese descent, but things became even worse," said Hsieh Tsai-Ming, who has been leading tours at the Taipei 228 Memorial Hall since it opened on Feb. 28, 1997.	"国民党来的时候，人家以为会比以前好，因为台湾人是从中国来的，但是台湾情况更糟糕了，"谢在明说，自台北二二八纪念馆于1997年2月8日开放以来，他就一直在这里担任导游。
Governor Chen had taken a ham-handed approach to ruling the Taiwanese, Mr. Hsieh said. By mid-1946, he had shut down all Japanese-language publications and had made Mandarin the official language of the local government, essentially shutting out many Taipei residents. Locals were aghast at the unruly behavior of Nationalist troops, while Nationalist officials seized public and private property.	谢在明说，行政长官陈仪对台湾人的统治非常拙劣。到1946年中，他已经禁止了所有的日文出版物，并使国语成为当地政府的官方语言，这实际上是把许多台北居民排除在外。当地人对国民党部队的不轨行为感到厌恶，而国民党官员则到处搜刮公共与私人财产。
Besides that, residents simmered under corruption, mismanagement and the shifting of resources to the Chinese mainland, where the Nationalists were fighting Mao Zedong's Communists.	除此之外，还有腐败与管理不善，当地的资源被转移到中国大陆，供国民党与毛泽东领导的共产党作战之用，这些都令当地居民的怒火一触即发。
The marchers of Feb. 28 headed south from Dadaocheng toward the north gate of the old city wall, their numbers steadily multiplying.	2月28日，游行者从大稻埕南向旧城墙北门游行，人数渐渐增加。
Chou Ching, a local journalist, recorded the moment he arrived at the north gate.	当地记者周青记录了他来到北门时的那一刻。
"I saw a giant banner coming my way," he wrote in his 1993 book, "Love and Hate: Feb. 28."	"就见到一巨大横幅迎面而来，"他在1993年出版的《爱憎：二·二八》中写道。
"Written on it were eight big characters reading, 'Severely punish the killer — a life for a life.' A leather drum 2.5 chi (about three feet) across, following behind the banner, rattled eardrums ... behind the drum followed a trail of innumerable people joining the petition procession. There were men and women, elderly and children, but it was primarily	"上面写着：'严惩凶手，杀人偿命'八个大字。那直径二尺半宽的牛皮大鼓跟在横幅后面不断震击耳膜，大鼓后面尾随着参加请愿的数不清群众，男女老幼均有，但主要是青年。"

youth."
The march took a violent turn after arriving at a Taiwan Monopoly Bureau office, Chung Lee-ho, a novelist, wrote in his diaries, also published in 1993.	游行到达台湾专卖局办公室后，事态开始恶化，小说家锺理和在于1993年出版的日记中写道。
"Regardless of what it was, the crowd grabbed and carried everything they could from the Monopoly Bureau and burned it, even cars, bicycles and rickshaws," Mr. Chung wrote.	"专卖局里的东西不管是什么，民众全把它拿出来抬出来放火烧，连汽车、自行车、洋车。汽车整个被翻过来，"锺理和写道。
Shortly after the unarmed crowd reached the governor's office, soldiers opened fire, killing several protesters and wounding dozens. A group fled and took over the provincial radio station, calling for an uprising against the Nationalists, an end to corruption, and a greater say in the island's economy.	手无寸铁的人群到达行政长官公署后不久，士兵开枪杀死了几名抗议者，打伤了数十人。一个团体逃离并接管了省广播电台，要求对国民党发动起义，结束腐败，对岛上的经济拥有更大发言权。
Revolts broke out in all major cities. Taiwanese people were soon in charge, managing government offices and keeping order in the streets. Governor Chen played along, biding his time until military reinforcements arrived from the Chinese mainland. Then the killing began.	所有大城市都发生了暴动。台湾人民很快就掌管了局面，管理政府办公室，并在街头维持秩序。陈仪顺势而行，拖延时间等待军队从中国大陆赶来。然后杀戮开始了。
Streets were cleared by soldiers in jeeps with machine guns, who then rounded up suspected Communists and anyone else considered suspicious. Most were tortured and killed.	街道被乘坐吉普车的士兵用机枪扫射，他们还围捕被怀疑为共产党以及任何被视为可疑的人。大多数人遭到折磨与杀害。
Although most victims were not Communists, a Communist presence in Taiwan was setting up an underground resistance. One party member, Xie Xuehong, had an important role in the uprising, an angle that China's Communist government has used over the years to lay a claim of solidarity with the people of Taiwan, which it considers the last	虽然大多数受害者不是共产主义者，但是台湾的一个共产主义组织发起了地下抵抗运动。党员谢雪红在起义中扮演了重要角色，中国共产党政府多年来一直利用这一点，声称要团结台湾人民，它将台湾视为中国最后一个还未从被击溃的国民党手中收回的省份。

Chinese province yet to be reclaimed from the vanquished Nationalists.
China has long commemorated Feb. 28, usually quietly. This year, for the 70th anniversary, it took a more public approach, organizing a symposium in Beijing on Thursday.	多年来，中国一直在以往较为低调的方式纪念二二八运动。但在今年的70周年之际，它采取了更加公开的方式，于周四在北京组织了一次研讨会。
Feb. 28 "is a part of the Chinese people's liberation struggle," said An Fengshan, a spokesman for China's Taiwan Affairs Office, at a news conference on Wednesday. He added, "For a long time, this incident has been used by certain Taiwan independence forces for ulterior motives."	"二二八事件是中国人民解放斗争的一部分，"中国国务院台湾办公室发言人安峰山在星期三的记者招待会上说。他说，"长期以来，这个事件被一些台独势力别有用心地加以利用。"
During the martial law years, discussion of the Feb. 28 uprising was banned. After martial law was lifted in 1987, some people found the confidence to speak up, with the tacit encouragement of President Lee Teng-hui, the first leader of modern Taiwan who was born there. In 1995, Mr. Lee became the first senior official to mention Feb. 28 publicly, opening the floodgates for discussion.	在台湾戒严期间，对二二八起义的讨论遭到禁止。1987年戒严解除后，由于现代台湾第一位本土出生的领导人李登辉总统的默许，一些人开始有了发声的信心。1995年，李登辉成为第一位公开提到二二八事件的高级官员，从而打开了讨论的闸门。
Today a small plaque where the Pegasus Teahouse once stood marks the location, most recently occupied by a tailor's shop. The Monopoly Bureau office is today a bank. And the former radio station houses the Taipei 228 Memorial.	如今，天马茶房曾经所在的地方，有一个小匾作为标记，直到最近一直是一家裁缝店。专卖局如今成了一家银行。原广播电台现在成了台北二二八纪念馆。
In 2009, Ma Ying-jeou became the first president of Taiwan to visit the memorial to commemorate Feb. 28, which he did in each of his eight years in office. On Tuesday, Tsai Ing-wen will make her first visit as president.	2009年，马英九成为台湾第一位访问该馆、纪念二二八事件的总统，其后他在自己的八年任期中每年都这样做。周二，蔡英文将以总统身份首次访问该馆。
Hsiao Ming-Chih, a curator at the 228 memorial, said Mr. Ma's visits were an acknowledgment of the Nationalists' "original sin."	二二八纪念馆馆长萧明治说，马英九的访问是对国民党"原罪"的承认。
Seventy years on, as one of Asia's freest democracies, Taiwan has made	70年来，作为亚洲最自由的民主国家之一，台湾在消除旧有的外省人-本省

significant progress in eliminating the old Chinese-Taiwanese divisions. Most young people claim a "Taiwanese" identity, regardless of when their ancestors arrived. But for some, closure may never come.	人分歧方面取得了重大进展。大多数年轻人声称自己的身份是“台湾人”，无论他们的祖先是何时到来。但对一些人来说，释怀的感觉可能永远不会到来。
Mr. Ma's commemoration of the event, overseeing reparations to victims' families and other displays of concern "definitely had an impact," Mr. Hsiao said. "But whether relatives, or people of different political stripes, find that acceptable, that's another matter."	马英九对这一事件的纪念、监督对受害者家庭进行赔偿，以及其他关注的表现“有他一定的影响”，萧明治说，“但是家属或者是不同立场不同党派，能不能接受那就是另外一件事情。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170227/taiwan-1947-kuomintang	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170227/taiwan-1947-kuomintang
U.N. Human Rights Experts Unite to Condemn China Over Expulsions of Tibetans	联合国人权专家谴责中国驱逐藏区僧尼
A half-dozen United Nations experts who investigate human rights abuses have taken the rare step of banding together to condemn China for expulsions of monks and nuns from major religious enclaves in a Tibetan region.	六名调查侵犯人权行为的联合国专家罕见地一致谴责中国驱逐藏区主要宗教飞地的僧尼的行为。
In a sharply worded statement, the experts expressed alarm about "severe restrictions of religious freedom" in the area.	在一份措辞尖锐的声明中，这些专家表达了对该地区“严厉限制宗教自由”的担忧。
Most of the expulsions mentioned by the experts have taken place at Larung Gar, the world's largest Buddhist institute and one of the most influential centers of learning in the Tibetan world. Officials have been demolishing some of the homes of the 20,000 monks and nuns living around the institute, in a high valley in Sichuan Province.	他们提到的大部分驱逐活动都发生在喇荣五明佛学院，后者位于四川省的一个高原峡谷里，是全世界最大的佛学院，也是藏人世界最有影响力的学习中心之一。官方一直在拆除生活在该学院周围的2万名僧侣的部分房屋。
The statement also cited accusations of evictions at Yachen Gar, also known as Yarchen Gar, an enclave largely of nuns that is also in Sichuan and has a population of about 10,000.	声明还对亚青邬金禅林发生的驱逐行为进行了谴责。亚青邬金禅林是一个主要由尼姑组成的飞地，也在四川境内，人口约为一万人。
"While we do not wish to prejudge the accuracy of these allegations,	"尽管我们不希望对这些指控的准确性进行预判，但我们对严厉压制藏人佛

grave concern is expressed over the serious repression of the Buddhist Tibetans' cultural and religious practices and learning in Larung Gar and Yachen Gar," the statement said.	教徒的文化宗教活动,以及在喇荣五明佛学院和亚青邬金禅林的学习活动表示严重关切,"声明说。
It was signed by six of the United Nations experts, or special rapporteurs, who come from various countries. They each specialize in a single aspect of human rights, including cultural rights, sustainable environment and peaceful assembly. It is unusual for that many of them to collaborate in this manner.	六名来自不同国家的联合国专家,也就是特别报告员,在声明上签了名。他们分别专注于人权的不同方面,包括文化权利、可持续的环境以及和平集会。这么多特别报告员像这样合作的情况很少见。
The statement was sent to the Chinese government in November, but was made public only in recent days, before the start of this year's session of the United Nations Human Rights Council in Geneva. The session began Monday and is scheduled to end on March 24.	声明已于去年 11 月寄给中国政府,但这几天才在今年的联合国人权理事会(United Nations Human Rights Council)会议于日内瓦召开之前公之于众。本次会议已于周一开幕,定于 3 月 24 日结束。
The United Nations experts have asked Beijing to address the reports of evictions and demolitions. The release of the statement before the session in Geneva puts more pressure on China to explain the actions taking place at the two Tibetan Buddhist institutions. China says matters related to Tibet are internal affairs, but Chinese officials in Beijing have privately expressed some concern over outside perceptions of the demolitions and evictions at Larung Gar and related Western news coverage.	联合国专家要求北京对有关驱逐和拆除活动的报道做出回应。在日内瓦的会议开幕前公布这份声明,增加了中国对上述两个藏传佛教学院发生的事情做出解释的压力。中国称有关西藏的事务是内政,但在北京,中国官员私下里对外界对喇荣五明佛学院的拆除和驱赶活动的看法,以及相关的西方新闻报道表示了一些担心。
Over the summer, Chinese officials began deporting monks and nuns living at Larung Gar who were not registered residents of Garze, the prefecture where the institution is. Since then, hundreds of clergy members have been forced out, and workers have demolished small homes clustered along the valley walls. One day last fall, I watched	整个夏天,中国官方开始驱赶生活在喇荣五明佛学院、但非学院所在地甘孜州户籍的僧尼。自那时起,已有成百上千名神职人员被迫离开,工人们已将山谷两侧密布的小房屋拆除。去年秋天的一天,我曾亲眼看到工人拆毁木屋。他们有时会使用链锯。

workers tearing and cutting apart wooden homes, sometimes using a chain saw.
Official reports have said the demolition is part of a project to improve safety in the area because people live in such tight quarters there. In 2014, a fire destroyed about 100 homes.	官方的报道称拆除活动是一个旨在改善该地区安全状况的项目的一部分，因为那里人口太密集了。2014年，一场大火烧毁了大约100处房屋。
Residents said the government planned to bring the population down to 5,000 from 20,000 by next year. The government evicted many clergy members once before, in 2001, but people returned. The encampment was founded in 1980 near the town of Sertar by Jigme Phuntsok, a charismatic lama, and is now run by two abbots. Those abbots have not protested the demolitions or evictions.	居民称政府打算在明年之前，把人口从两万降到五千。政府2001年也赶走了很多神职人员，但他们又回来了。这片营地位于色达县附近，由富有魅力的喇嘛晋美彭措(Jigme Phuntsok)在1980年建立的，现在由两名住持管理。这两名住持未抗议拆除和驱赶活动。
The United Nations experts said in the statement that while they await China's response, they "urge that all necessary interim measures be taken to halt the alleged violations and prevent their reoccurrence."	联合国专家在声明中称，在等待中国的回应期间，他们“呼吁采取一切必要的临时措施，停止相关侵权活动并防止它们再次发生”。
The experts also expressed concern over reports that Chinese officials had suppressed peaceful protests against a mining project last year by Tibetans in the town of Amchok. Residents had criticized the project as being harmful to the environment and a violation of a sacred mountain. Protests over such issues take place on occasion in various parts of the Tibetan plateau.	专家还对有关中国官员去年镇压阿木去乎(Amchok)藏人针对一个采矿项目举行的和平抗议的报道表示了关切。居民指责该项目有害环境，且侵犯了一座圣山。在西藏高原各地，围绕这类问题的抗议时有发生。
The statement said the protest at Amchok began on May 31, 2016, and the next day, the authorities deployed armed security forces to beat, detain and arrest protesters.	声明称阿木去乎的抗议2016年5月31日开始，第二天，当局就部署武装安保力量殴打、拘押和逮捕抗议者。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170228/china-tibet-buddhists-larung-gar	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170228/china-tibet-buddhists-larung-gar

10 White Houses, 4 Arcs de Triomphe, 2 Sphinxes ... Now China's Tower Bridge Attracts Scorn	苏州山寨“伦敦塔桥”引发的尴尬与反思
BEIJING — China has at least 10 White Houses, four Arcs de Triomphe, a couple of Great Sphinxes and at least one Eiffel Tower.	北京——中国至少有 10 座“白宫”、四座“凯旋门”、两座“狮身人面像”和至少一座“艾菲尔铁塔”。
Now a version of London's Tower Bridge in the eastern Chinese city of Suzhou has rekindled a debate over China's rush to copy foreign landmarks, as the country rethinks decades of urban experimentation that has produced an extraordinary number of knockoffs of world-renowned structures.	现在，在中国东部的苏州，一座山寨的伦敦塔桥(Tower Bridge)重新激起了关于中国热衷于复制外国地标建筑的争论；几十年来的城市实验已经产生了非常多的世界知名建筑山寨版，中国正在对此进行反思。
This week, photographs of the bridge were posted online by various news outlets. One headline proclaimed: "Suzhou's Amazing 'London Tower Bridge': Even More Magnificent Than the Real One."	本周，这座桥的照片出现在了各新闻媒体的网站上。其中一个标题是《苏州惊现山寨“伦敦塔桥”：比真的更宏伟》
Indeed. Suzhou's urban planners had clearly stepped up their game. The bridge, completed in 2012, has four towers — compared with the two spanning the Thames in London — making room for a multilane road.	确实如此。苏州的城市规划师们明显做了一些升级扩建，这座 2012 年竣工的桥梁有四座塔楼，为多车道提供了空间——而伦敦泰晤士河畔的塔桥只有两座塔楼。
Cars and pedestrians crowd the bridge and its observation platforms. At night, the towers are bathed in blue and yellow light. Not surprisingly, it has also attracted couples eager for a European sheen to their wedding photographs.	汽车和行人挤在这座桥梁和它的观景台上。晚上，塔楼笼罩在蓝色和黄色的灯光下。它吸引了一些热衷于拍摄欧式婚纱照的夫妇也就不足为奇了。
Suzhou, in the eastern province of Jiangsu, is probably most famous for its ancient gardens and tranquil waterside views. Often called the Venice of the East, it features some of China's most exquisite traditional architecture, with whitewashed courtyard houses and meandering walkways above lotus-carpeted ponds. (The Astor Chinese Garden	苏州位于江苏省东部，最有名的也许是它的古代园林和宁静水景。它常常被称为东方的威尼斯，中国一些最精致的传统建筑就在这里，它们有白色的庭院建筑，荷花池上蜿蜒的步道（纽约大都会艺术博物馆的艾斯特中国庭院，就是仿造的苏州一处建筑）。

Court at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York was modeled after a house in Suzhou.)
Nevertheless, Suzhou, too, has joined the scramble of Chinese cities in recent years to erect clones of famous foreign structures, partly as publicity stunts and partly to attract business.	然而，苏州近年来也加入了中国城市争相仿制著名外国建筑的潮流，这么做部分是宣传噱头，部分是为了吸引生意。
Not everyone approves. Online comments about the Suzhou bridge have been scathing.	不是每个人都赞成这种做法。网上对苏州这座桥的评论相当尖刻。
"Piracy!" wrote one.	"盗版！"一个用户写道。
"Embarrassing," wrote another.	"尴尬，"另一个写道。
Li Yingwu, president of the OAD architecture firm in Beijing, called the bridge outright plagiarism and questioned the decision to build it in a city with its own rich architectural heritage.	北京 OAD 建筑设计事务所的总裁李颖悟称，这座桥是彻头彻尾的剽窃，他对于一座拥有如此丰富建筑遗产的城市做出这样的决定表示了质疑。
"I was really surprised that it got built in Suzhou, because it has preserved its culture really well," Mr. Li said in an interview. "It shows that local officials lack confidence in their own culture. They don't understand that architecture essentially is about culture. It's not merely an object."	"这个建在苏州我感到非常吃惊，因为苏州的文化算保护得很好的，"李颖悟在接受采访时说。"这说明了当地官员对自己的文化没有自信。他们不明白建筑说到底是和文化相关，它们并不是简单的物品。"
A commentary on Monday on JSChina.com.cn, a news site of the Jiangsu provincial government, read, "We don't have any reason to give a thumbs-up to the replicated iconic building, and all Chinese architects need to reflect on this."	周一，江苏省政府的新闻网站中国江苏网 JSChina.com.cn 发表评论说："面对这样的山寨地标性建筑，我们没有理由为它点赞；我们中国所有的建筑设计师应当进行深刻反思。"
The copy, it said, would impede the promotion of traditional Chinese culture.	它说，这种山寨品将阻碍中国传统文化的推广。
According to Cheng Taining, an architect at the Chinese Academy of Engineering, many officials see foreign designs as shortcuts to	据中国工程院的建筑学家程泰宁说，很多官员认为外国设计是通往现代性和国际范儿的捷径。

achieving a look of modernity and worldliness.
“Chinese officials like foreign things they’ve seen,” Mr. Cheng told Beijing News in 2015. “They will tell you ‘Please design a building that looks like that building overseas.’ That’s obvious in the numerous cloned buildings in China. Officials believe building a ‘White House’ or a ‘European-style’ street confers status.”	“领导喜欢看过的国外的东西，”程泰宁 2015 年告诉《新京报》。“他会跟你说‘你给我设计像国外的某个建筑’。你看在中国遍地开花的山寨建筑就知道了，盖个‘白宫’，盖个欧式街区，领导觉得这个很有身份。”
It’s unclear why the Suzhou bridge, which has been in place for years, has suddenly attracted a burst of attention. But the criticism it has been receiving is in line with President Xi Jinping’s calls for a greater emphasis on China’s cultural legacy.	苏州的这座桥建成已经好几年，不清楚为什么它突然引起了人们的注意。但是它遭到的批评与习近平主席对进一步突显中国文化遗产的呼吁是一致的。
In a speech in 2014, Mr. Xi called for a halt to “weird buildings,” an appeal echoed last year when the State Council, China’s cabinet, denounced urban architecture that was “oversize, eccentric, weird” in favor of buildings that are “appropriate, economical, green and pleasing to the eye.”	在 2014 年的一次讲话中，习近平呼吁不要再修建“奇奇怪怪的建筑”。去年，国务院又谴责了修建“贪大、媚洋、求怪，特色缺失和文化遗产堪忧”建筑物的做法，提倡“适用、经济、绿色、美观”的方针。
In December, in a speech before the Association of Literature and Art and the Chinese Writers’ Association, Mr. Xi called on artists to “consolidate confidence in Chinese culture.”	去年 12 月，习近平在中国文学艺术界联合会和中国作家协会的发言中，呼吁艺术家“增强对中国文化的信心”。
The Suzhou bridge was commissioned by the city’s Xiangcheng district government around 2008, according to an employee at the Suzhou Municipal Engineering Design Institute, which built the bridge, who answered the telephone but declined to give her name. Local officials did not immediately respond to requests for comment.	这座桥由苏州市工程设计院建造，该院一名拒绝透露姓名的工作人员在电话中表示，这座桥是由相城区政府委托修建的。地方官员没有立即回应置评请求。
“I think the bridge was built just to be decorative,” said Zhou Qian, 36, who works at a construction company a block away from the bridge. “It	“我觉得这座桥是为了装饰而修建的，它没有真正的用途。”36 岁的周前（音）说。他在一家建筑公司工作，距离这座桥仅一个街区。

doesn't have a real use."
The version of the Tower Bridge is just one of 56 copycat bridges in Suzhou. Others include versions of the Sydney Harbor Bridge in Australia and the Alexandre III Bridge in Paris. The Western-looking structures were reportedly part of an attempt to brand Xiangcheng district as an international trade and finance center.	这座山寨的塔桥只是苏州的 56 座仿制桥之一。其他还包括澳大利亚的悉尼海港大桥(Sydney Harbor Bridge)和巴黎的亚历山大三世桥(Alexandre III Bridge)。据说修建这些西式建筑,是把相城区打造为国际贸易和金融中心的一部分。
Certainly, the bridge has advanced some commercial endeavors. Studios specializing in wedding photographs in Suzhou have flourished.	当然,这座桥确实推进了一些商业活动。苏州专门从事婚纱摄影的工作室的生意就很兴隆。
"The effects in the bridge shoot will be quite good, and you don't even need to go abroad!" said a woman who answered the phone at a Suzhou studio that offers Tower Bridge wedding shoots. She gave only her surname, Su.	"桥上照出来的照片效果非常好,而且你也不用去国外!"苏州一所拍摄塔桥婚纱照的工作室接电话的女士表示。她只透露自己姓苏。
The site's popularity is reflected in local news reports about the number of traffic accidents caused by wedding shoots at the bridge.	在当地的一些新闻报道上可以看到这个地点的受欢迎程度:在桥上拍婚纱照引发了不少交通事故。
Even 95 miles away in Shanghai, a studio is offering a tour package with wedding photographs at Suzhou's Tower Bridge, with a price tag of 19,999 renminbi, about $2,900.	甚至是 95 英里之外的上海,一家工作室也在提供苏州塔桥婚纱旅游套餐,价格为 19999 人民币。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170303/china-london-tower-bridge-suzhou	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170303/china-london-tower-bridge-suzhou
Xi Jinping, Seeking to Extend Power, May Bend Retirement Rules	王岐山有望打破“七上八下”留任,为习近平铺路
BEIJING—For years, China's Communist Party has maintained a check on the power of its leaders by calling on them to retire if they have reached age 68 when a new term begins.	北京——许多年来,中国共产党一直对其领导人的权力保持着一种约束,如果领导人在新的任期开始时已满 68 岁,就会要求他们退休。
Now President Xi Jinping, already the strongest Chinese leader in decades, may be maneuvering to bend those rules to retain a	现在,已经是中国几十年来权力最大的领导人国家主席习近平,为了继续留用一个强大的盟友,也许正在想办法改变这些规则,这样做也创造了一个先

formidable ally — and create a precedent he could use to extend his own time in power.	例，为其延长自己掌权时间时可能用得上。
Mr. Xi, 63, who has shaken up many political norms, does not want to be shackled by an informal rule created by his predecessors, people close to senior officials have said.	习近平现年 63 岁，已彻底改变了许多政治常规。据与高级官员关系密切的人士说，他不想被前任建立的这个非正式规定所约束。
Whether Mr. Xi can get away with changing the age ceiling for staying in the party's top rank, the Politburo Standing Committee, has become a bellwether of how far he can consolidate his grip on a new party leadership that will be chosen in the fall.	习近平是否能成功地改变在党的最高领导层、政治局常委会留任的年龄上限，已经成为他在巩固自己对党的新领导层的控制上能走多远的前兆，新领导层将于今年秋天产生。
Mr. Xi's immediate goal appears to be opening the way to keeping on Wang Qishan, who has led his signature anticorruption drive and become one of the most powerful and feared officials in China, those people and other observers said. Mr. Wang, who is 68, could be forced to step down this year if the informal age ceiling holds.	上述人士及其他观察家说，习近平目前的目标似乎是要为留下王岐山开道，王岐山一直在领导着习近平发起的反腐败运动，这让他成为了中国最为强大和最令人畏惧的官员之一。如果这个非正式的年龄上限依然有效的話，现年 68 岁的王岐山今年可能会被迫离任。
But keeping Mr. Wang in place would also create an example that Mr. Xi could follow to stay in power after his two terms as president end in 2023. Already, news that Mr. Xi may delay choosing his successor has fanned speculation that he wants to prolong his hold on power.	让王岐山留任也将创造一个可效仿的先例。到 2023 年，当习近平作为国家主席的两个任期结束后，这一先例能让他继续掌权。已经有消息称，习近平可能推迟对自己继任者的选择，引发了人们对他想延长自己把持权力的时间的猜测。
Mr. Wang's fate has become one of the most intensely followed parts of the secretive maneuvering ahead of a Communist Party leadership shake-up late this year and is likely to be a topic of back-room speculation when the national legislature convenes here on Sunday.	今年晚些时候，共产党领导层将发生重大变化。在此之前，幕后操作正在党内紧锣密鼓地进行着，王岐山的去留已成为变化中最受关注的部分之一，这也很可能是国家立法机构本周日在这里开始年度会议时，人们私下猜测的一个话题。
Mr. Wang's staying on is a strong possibility, though not a certainty, said a retired Chinese official who knows several leaders, speaking on the condition of anonymity to discuss elite political deliberations. He said	一名认识几位领导人、现在已经退休的中国官员说，王岐山留任的可能性很大，但并非一定如此，因为所谈之事涉及最上层的政治商议，该人要求匿名。他说，习近平曾说过，年龄的规定不是绝对的，这被官员们理解为，习近平希

that Mr. Xi said that the age rule was not absolute, which was understood by officials to mean that he wanted Mr. Wang to be considered for the next term.	望他们考虑让王岐山再担任一个任期。
The blunt and combative Mr. Wang is an old friend of Mr. Xi's. Since 2012, Mr. Wang has led the Communist Party's discipline commission, overseeing the anticorruption campaign that has been a crowning feat of Mr. Xi's tenure. Mr. Wang also expanded the commission's role in policing loyalty to the party leader, making him a top political enforcer for Mr. Xi.	直言不讳且好斗的王岐山是习近平的老朋友。自 2012 年以来，王岐山一直领导着共产党的纪律检查委员会，负责反腐运动，反腐是习近平任内的一个重大举措。王岐山还把纪委的作用扩大到监督对党领导的忠诚上，这使他成为了习近平的主要政治执行者。
Along with his allegiance to Mr. Xi, Mr. Wang's diverse achievements — including as deputy prime minister, mayor of Beijing and as one of the government's top financial firefighters — have fueled talk that Mr. Xi may want to install him as prime minister, shunting aside Li Keqiang, who was not Mr. Xi's pick for the job.	王岐山不仅对习近平忠诚，还在许多方面有不凡的政绩，他当过副总理和北京市长，也曾是为政府解决金融危机的最高官员之一，这些都增加了人们的猜测，认为习近平可能想让王岐山当总理，把李克强调到别的位置上去，李克强此前并非习近平的总理人选。
A party congress this fall will almost certainly reappoint Mr. Xi as party general secretary for five more years and appoint a new team to serve under him. Five of seven members of the Politburo Standing Committee must retire then under the current age limits, including Mr. Wang.	今年秋天召开的共产党第十九次代表大会几乎肯定会让习近平再担任五年党的总书记，十九大还将任命一个由习近平领导的新班子。届时，由于现行的年龄限制，政治局常委会的七名成员中，有五名必须退休，其中包括王岐山。
But the rule, known as "seven up, eight down," is not codified in any public documents. It says members of the Politburo Standing Committee who are 68 or older when the party congress meets every five years will retire, while officials 67 or younger remain in contention for the next term.	但是，这个被称为“七上八下”的规定并没有写入任何公开文件。这个不成文的规定说，在每五年召开一次的党代表大会上，68 岁或以上的政治局常委委员将退休，67 岁或以下的官员将可以被考虑再担任一个任期。
The retirement age has been changed for political ends before. In 1997,	退休年龄过去也曾因政治目的而改变过。1997 年，担任国家主席的江泽民，

President Jiang Zemin imposed a ceiling of 70 to dispense with one rival, and five years later reduced it to 68 to push out another. (He made an exception for himself, staying on as party leader until he was 76.)	为了让一名对手下台，制定了一个 70 岁的年龄上限，五年后，为了挤走另一名对手，年龄上限下调到 68 岁。（他把自己作为例外，担任党的总书记直到 76 岁。）
“The rules for succession are all unwritten and largely up for negotiation,” said Kerry Brown, a professor of Chinese studies at King’s College, London. “All Xi has to do is play the ‘exceptional times need exceptional remedies’ card.”	“继任的规定都是不成文的，而且在很大程度上取决于商讨，”在伦敦国王学院研究中国问题的教授凯利·布朗(Kerry Brown)说。“习近平需要做的，就是打出‘特殊的时刻需要特殊的解决办法’这张牌。”
But while Mr. Xi is formidable, he may have to make trade-offs. Mr. Wang’s chances of staying on may not survive the bartering among the party elite who choose the new lineup.	但是，虽然习近平很强大，但他可能不得不作出些让步。王岐山留任的可能性，也许会成为党内精英为选择新领导层所做交易的牺牲品。
In particular, Mr. Xi may face suspicions that he wants to use Mr. Wang as a stalking horse for keeping power beyond the usual two terms as top leader. That too is an informal rule that has developed since the 1990s, when Deng Xiaoping sought to prevent another dictator-for-life like Mao.	特别是有人可能会怀疑，习近平想用王岐山来试探自己在两届任期后保留最高领导人权力的问题。两届的任期限制也是 1990 年代以后建立起来的一个非正式规定，当时，邓小平想防止出现另一个像毛泽东那样的终身独裁者。
By law, Mr. Xi can serve only two terms as president, but no law prevents him from retaining the more powerful post of party leader or some other position. Mr. Xi will turn 69 in 2022 when his second term as party general secretary ends.	按照法律，习近平只能担任两届国家主席，但没有法律禁止他继续担任权力更大的总书记的职位，或是其他职位。到 2022 年，习近平作为总书记的第二个任期期满时就 69 岁了。
Neither Mr. Xi nor Mr. Wang has said anything publicly about his plans. That would be nearly unthinkable hubris in the shadow play of Chinese politics, where ambition and power plays come cloaked in high-minded rhetoric and rules.	习近平和王岐山都没有对习近平的计划做过任何公开表示。那样做在中国的政治皮影戏中几乎是不可想象的傲慢，在这种戏中，野心和权力的游戏是隐匿在高尚词藻和规则之下的。
But the talk about Mr. Wang took off last October, when a party official, Deng Maosheng, told foreign reporters in Beijing that the age rule was	但是，关于王岐山的猜测是去年 10 月开始的，当时，党内官员邓茂生在北京对记者说，年龄的规定不是刻在石头上的。 not set in stone.

"The strict boundaries of 'seven up, eight down' don't exist," he said, according to Bloomberg. "This is something from folklore."	据彭博社报道，邓茂生说，“党内没有严格的‘七上八下’的规定。那是一种民间传说。”
At the time, it was unclear whether Mr. Deng was echoing the views at the top of the party. His comments were not reported in Chinese media.	当时并不清楚，邓茂生的说法是否反映了党的最高层的意见。中国媒体没有报道他的话。
But before Mr. Deng's public remarks, Mr. Xi had said behind closed doors that the age rule was "not absolute," said the former official who knows several members of the party leadership.	但是，据上文提到的那名认识几位党领导人的前官员说，在邓茂生发表这番公开言论之前，习近平曾在非公开场合表示过，年龄的规定“不是绝对的”。
His account was corroborated by a former American official with extensive high-level contacts in China. He spoke on condition of anonymity to protect those contacts. He said two people who meet with senior leaders had told him that Mr. Xi had played down the "seven up, eight down" rule.	他的说法得到了一名美国前官员的证实，这个美国人与中国高层有广泛的接触，他要求不具名，以保护那些与他有联系的人。他说，两位与高层领导人见过面的人告诉他，习近平曾淡化“七上八下”的规定。
Both unnamed sources said that, as far as they knew, Mr. Xi had not yet expressly demanded that Mr. Wang be kept on. Instead, by raising the age issue, Mr. Xi has signaled that Mr. Wang should be considered in discussions over coming months.	这两位不具名的消息人士说，据他们所知，习近平还没有明确要求让王岐山留任。而是通过提出年龄的问题，对未来几个月的讨论中应当考虑王岐山留任一事发出了信号。
The bond between Mr. Xi and Mr. Wang goes back about five decades to Mao's turbulent Cultural Revolution, when they were both sent from Beijing to work in the dusty, poor hill country of northwestern China. Mr. Wang worked on a commune 50 miles from Mr. Xi, who has recalled visiting Mr. Wang for a night and giving him a book on economics.	习近平与王岐山之间的关系，可回溯到50年前毛泽东发起的那场动荡的文化大革命，当时他们都是从北京下放到中国西北尘土飞扬的贫困山区的知识青年。王岐山曾在距离习近平插队地点80公里远的一个公社工作，习近平回忆说，他在王岐山那里住过一个晚上，留给王岐山一本关于经济学的书。
After Deng Xiaoping began to free up the economy in the late 1970s,	20世纪70年代末，邓小平开始让经济自由发展后，王岐山放弃了自己刚刚

Mr. Wang abandoned a nascent career as a historian and became an expert on economic reforms. In the 1990s and early 2000s he took a series of government jobs cleaning up financial messes.	起步、作为一名历史学家的职业生涯，成了经济改革方面的专家。在 20 世纪 90 年代和 21 世纪初期，他担任过一系列清理财政混乱的政府职务。
As deputy prime minister from 2008 to 2013, he was a crucial player in economic talks with the United States. After the global financial crisis erupted, he led a group of officials assigned to design China's response.	他曾在 2008 年至 2013 年间担任副总理，在与美国的经济会谈中起过关键作用。在全球金融危机爆发后，他领导了一个被指派负责制定中国对策的官员小组。
"You were my teacher," Mr. Wang told Henry M. Paulson Jr., a Treasury secretary under President George W. Bush, Mr. Paulson wrote in a book on dealing with China. "We aren't sure we should be learning from you anymore."	乔治·W·布什总统的财政部长亨利·M·保尔森(Henry M. Paulson)在一本关于中国的书中写道，王岐山告诉他，“你曾经是我的老师。不过，我们不知道是否应该再向你学习。”
Mr. Wang also displays a deep red streak of faith in authoritarian one-party rule not so far from Mr. Xi's convictions.	王岐山也表现出一种对一党威权统治的深红色信念，这与习近平的信念相差不远。
"Wang is pragmatic and cleareyed," said Trey McArver, the director of China research for TS Lombard, an investment research company. "But it's a mistake to see him as a liberal free-marketeer. Rather, he is a reformer in the Chinese sense of the word. He will seek to increase the efficiency of the state-controlled system."	“王岐山务实且头脑清晰，”投资研究公司 TS Lombard 的中国研究部主任特雷·麦卡维尔(Trey McArver)说。“但是，认为他是一个自由的自由市场主义者是个错误。他只不过是一名中国意义上的改革者。他要寻求提高国家控制之下的系统的效率。”
Some in Beijing say they believe that with China's economy slowing and straining under debt, and President Trump threatening to curb Chinese exports, Mr. Xi could make a case for making Mr. Wang prime minister.	北京的一些人说，他们认为，由于中国经济发展减速和负债累累的问题，加上特朗普总统威胁要遏制中国的出口，习近平可能有理由让王岐山担任总理。
"It seems clear to me that Xi would trust Wang more than Li and, as we know, Li was not Xi's choice," said Tony Saich, a professor at Harvard who specializes in Chinese politics. "The replacement of Li by Wang might provide a chance to kick-start stalled reforms after the next	“在我看来很明显，习近平对王岐山的信任度，比对李克强的要高，而且我们知道，李克强不是习近平的选择，”哈佛大学专门从事中国政治研究的教授托尼·塞奇(Tony Saich)说。“让王岐山替换李克强，可能为在下一届党代会之后重启停滞了的改革提供一个机会。” congress.”

Most insiders consider the move unlikely, however. Mr. Wang would be reluctant to take the job unless Mr. Xi gave him a bigger say over the economy, said Deng Yuwen, a commentator in Beijing who formerly edited a party newspaper. Mr. Xi might be unwilling to share that power.	不过，大多数内部人士认为这种变化不太可能。曾在一份党的刊物担任编辑的北京评论员邓聿文说，除非习近平让王岐山对经济有更大的发言权，王岐山可能不愿意接受总理的职务。而习近平可能不愿意让出这个权力。
“The reason Li can’t get much done is that everyone knows where the real power is,” Mr. Deng said. “Wang Qishan would certainly want to be more like a traditional premier, with more power over the major economic decisions.”	“李克强很多事情都做不成的原因大家都清楚，真正的权力不在他手里，”邓聿文说。“王岐山肯定想要当更传统的总理，在主要的经济决策上有更多的权力。”
The retired official said that Mr. Wang had told friends that he was ready to retire at the end of the year. But Mr. Wang has also said he never expected to become the head of the party’s anticorruption agency, and has warned officials always to be prepared for unexpected tasks.	上述中国退休官员说，王岐山曾对朋友说过，他准备在年底退休。但王岐山也说过，他从未料到自己会担任党反腐败机构的负责人，他还曾警告官员们说，要随时准备应对未预料到的任务。
“Look it up, before the 18th Party Congress, nobody expected it, inside and outside the party, here and abroad, when Wang Qishan became the central discipline inspection commission secretary,” Mr. Wang told officials in a video that leaked online last year. “What’s the Communist Party about? You do whatever the party tells you.”	“你们查一下，十八大开之前，出乎党内外、国内外之预料之外，王岐山当中纪委书记，”王岐山对官员说，他那次讲话的视频去年在网上泄露出来。“什么叫中国共产党啊。党叫干啥就干啥。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170303/xi-jinping-china-retirement-rules	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170303/xi-jinping-china-retirement-rules
China’s Response to Reports of Torture: ‘Fake News’	“假新闻”，中国模仿特朗普口吻回击负面报道
BEIJING — “FAKE NEWS,” a Twitter post declared. “Prejudice-based,” another said. “Cleverly orchestrated lies,” a news article asserted.	北京——“假新闻”，一条推文说。“基于偏见”，另一条说。“巧妙编制的谎言”，一则新闻说。
President Trump’s harangues against the American news media appear to have inspired a new genre of commentary in China’s state media,	特朗普总统对美国新闻媒体进行了抨击，似乎激发了中国官方媒体的一种新式评论类型，本周，中国的宣传机构为了让社交媒体帖子和新闻文章生动起

whose propagandists spiced up social media posts and news articles with Trumpian flourishes this week.	来，多处借用了特朗普式的语言。
People's Daily, the flagship newspaper of the ruling Communist Party, mimicked Mr. Trump's characteristic bluster — and his fondness for capital letters — on Friday in denouncing Western news coverage of a Chinese lawyer and human rights advocate who said he had been tortured.	周五，在谴责西方媒体对一位中国律师和人权倡导者的报道时，执政党共产党的主要党报《人民日报》模仿了特朗普式的咆哮——以及他喜欢的大写字母。这位律师说自己遭受了折磨。
An article on the topic a day earlier by Xinhua, the state-run news agency, had accused the foreign news media of "hype" and suggested that legal activists were manipulating the press to "smear the Chinese government."	前一天，官方通讯社新华社也在一篇文章中指责外国新闻媒体“炒作”，称这些法律活动人士操纵新闻媒体“抹黑中国政府”。
"The stories were essentially fake news," Xinhua wrote, adopting a phrase that Mr. Trump has embraced.	“这些故事本质上就是假新闻，”新华社写道，这是借用了特朗普的用语。
The Chinese government has long denounced Western news organizations as biased and dishonest — and in Mr. Trump, Beijing has found an American president who often does the same.	中国政府长期以来一直都谴责西方的新闻机构带有偏见、不诚实——而特朗普上任后，北京已经找到了一位也经常这样做的美国总统。
The irony in China's criticism is apparent, given Beijing's history of obscuring facts and censoring stories that officials deem a threat to the party.	中国做出这种批评明显很讽刺，因为北京有模糊事实、审查内容的黑历史，官员认为对党存在威胁的内容就会遭到审查。
Experts said on Friday that Mr. Trump's continuing attacks on the news media would help lend credibility to Chinese efforts to undermine Western ideals and foreign journalists.	一些专家周五表示，特朗普继续攻击新闻媒体，将有助于中国在打击西方理想和外国记者时增强可信度。
"Trump's attacks on the media will offer a good excuse for Chinese officials to step up their criticism of Western democracy and press freedom," said Qiao Mu, a journalism professor at Beijing Foreign	“特朗普对媒体的攻击可以给中国的官员攻击西方的民主和新闻自由提供一个很好的借口，”北京外国语大学新闻学教授乔木说。“中国可以指向特朗普的攻击说西方的民主是虚伪的。”

Studies University. "China can turn to Trump's attacks to say Western democracy is hypocrisy."
Some of Mr. Trump's remarks about the news media would not seem out of place in some of China's leading broadsheets, where commentators regularly denounce independent reporting by foreign news outlets on delicate subjects like Taiwan or religious persecution.	特朗普关于新闻媒体的一些言论似乎也适用于中国主要的大报，那里的评论者经常谴责外国新闻媒体就台湾或宗教迫害等微妙问题所做的独立报道。
Rights advocates said Mr. Trump had given China an opportunity to further distort the boundaries of journalism.	权利倡导人士表示，特朗普给了中国一个进一步扭曲新闻边界的机会。
"If the Chinese version of journalism, which is really only propaganda, is considered mainstream, it will challenge the understanding of what real journalism should be," said Patrick Poon, a researcher for Amnesty International in Hong Kong.	"如果中国版本的新闻业——实际上就是政治宣传——被看作主流，将对人们理解什么是真正的新闻业构成挑战，"国际特赦组织(Amnesty International)香港研究员潘嘉伟(Patrick Poon)说。
The heated commentary in the Chinese news media came in response to foreign coverage of a Chinese lawyer, Xie Yang, whose account of torture at the hands of interrogators was widely reported in January, including in The New York Times. The reports about Mr. Xie, who is still in custody, were based on transcripts of his interviews with his lawyers.	中国新闻媒体中的激烈评论是对外国媒体就中国律师谢阳的报道做出的回应。今年1月，包括《纽约时报》在内的国外媒体对谢阳讲述的遭遇审讯人员折磨的情况进行了广泛地报道。这些有关依然在押的谢阳的报道，是基于他和他的律师的面谈内容所做。
Xinhua's report suggested that the account of the torture of Mr. Xie, who was formally arrested last year on a charge of inciting subversion of state power, was fabricated.	新华社的报道暗示，有关谢阳遭受酷刑的描述是编造出来的。去年谢阳被警方以煽动颠覆国家政权的罪名正式逮捕。
"Investigations by reporters and an investigative team have showed that the accusations were nothing but cleverly orchestrated lies," the report said.	"记者和调查组的调查发现，这些指控只不过是精心策划的谎言，"报道称。
Xinhua said Jiang Tianyong, a prominent human rights lawyer, had invented the story and shared it with foreign activists.	新华社表示，是知名人权律师江天勇编造了这个故事，将它透露给了外国活动人士。

One of Mr. Xie's lawyers, Chen Jiangang, denied that on Friday. In a statement, Mr. Chen reiterated that Mr. Xie had provided the account of his torture, describing in detail the meeting at which he had done so.	谢阳的代理律师之一陈建刚周五否认了这种说法。他在一份声明中重申有关遭受酷刑的描述出自谢阳，还详细描述了谢阳提供这些情况的那次会面。
Chinese officials routinely block efforts to report on topics that the government deems delicate. On Friday, the BBC reported that its journalists had been harassed by the authorities in a village in Hunan Province while trying to interview a woman who says her family's land was stolen. The BBC said that its journalists were assaulted during the encounter, and that a crowd in the village had smashed the crew's cameras.	通常情况下，中国官员一向阻止对政府看来比较敏感的话题进行报道的努力。据 BBC 周五报道，它的记者在湖南省一个村庄试图采访一名称自家土地被窃取的女子时，遭到当局的骚扰。BBC 表示，在冲突中，它的记者受到袭击，工作人员的相机也在村里被一群人打碎。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170306/china-fake-news-xie	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170306/china-fake-news-xie
China and Economic Reform: Xi Jinping's Track Record	习近平第一个任期的成绩单
Economists generally agree: China must overhaul its huge but wasteful economy if it wants to continue to grow in the years to come. That means limiting political interference in banking and the financial system, making bloated industries more sensitive to market forces and lowering barriers against foreign trade and investment.	经济学家们普遍认为：中国必须对其体量庞大但浪费严重的经济进行改革，才能在未来继续保持增长势头。这意味着限制对银行和金融体系的政治干预，让一些臃肿的行业对市场力量更加敏感，并降低针对外国的贸易和投资壁垒。
Proponents took heart in late 2012 when President Xi Jinping took formal control of the Chinese Communist Party with pledges to crack down on corruption and cut red tape.	习近平主席于 2012 年末正式成为中共最高领导人的时候，做出了打击腐败、简化行政程序的承诺，令支持者满怀信心。
Today, as Mr. Xi nears the end of his first five-year term, much of the optimism among economists has faded. China remains heavily dependent on large investments and has maintained brisk but slowing economic growth only with a steep rise in government-steered lending. Still, his administration has made some small changes, and	现如今，随着习近平的第一个五年任期进入尾声，经济学家中间的这种乐观情绪渐渐减弱。中国仍未摆脱对大规模投资的依赖，靠急剧扩大由政府引导的信贷的规模，才得以维持了虽有活力但在放缓的经济增长。不过，他的政府还是带来了某些小变化，而且有迹象表明，习近平或许会在第二个任期开始之际把重心更多地放在经济改革上。

there have been hints that Mr. Xi may focus more on economic overhauls when he starts his second term.
Here is what Mr. Xi has done so far – and, more important, what he has not done.	下文列明了习近平迄今为止做了什么——更重要的是他尚未做什么。
Currency	货币
Reforms: Experts give some credit for China's moves on currency. Beijing persuaded the International Monetary Fund in 2015 to admit its currency, the renminbi, to an elite club of currencies in which central banks hold their reserves. To win approval, China made it much easier to move money in and out of the country, and shifted the daily pegging of the renminbi to the dollar to a slightly more market-based system.	改革：专家对中国在货币方面采取的举措给予了某种赞许。2015年，北京说服国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)同意让其货币，也就是人民币，加入一个精英货币俱乐部——各国央行以该俱乐部中的货币为储备货币。为了获得这一许可，中国让资金流入和流出本国变得更加容易了，还把例行的人民币与美元挂钩改成了一种略微增加了一些市场基础的机制。
Lingering problems: Those moves have been in doubt lately. Opening up money flows led so many Chinese families and companies to send their money out of the country that the renminbi weakened against the dollar and the Chinese government had to spend nearly $1 trillion to prop it up. In the past 12 months, Beijing has reimposed many restrictions on sending money out of the country.	尚存的问题：这些举措最近遭到了质疑。放开资金流入流出限制后，大批中国家庭和企业把资金转移到国外，致使人民币对美元走弱，中国政府不得不花费将近1万亿美元为本国货币提供支撑。过去12个月里，北京重新实施了很多限制将资金转移到国外的规定。
Real Estate	房地产
Reforms: Faced early last year with a huge supply of unsold real estate and stalling construction, Beijing decided to make it much easier for banks to issue mortgages. This set off a buying frenzy in big cities that slightly pared the backlog of empty apartments.	改革：面对去年初房地产库存巨大、施工停滞的状况，北京决定让银行可以更容易地发放抵押贷款。此举在大城市里掀起了抢购狂潮，令房地产库存略微下降。
Lingering problems: What looked like a bubble before looks like one even more so now. Beijing and Shanghai already have some of the world's highest real estate prices in relation to local incomes.	尚存的问题：以前看上去存在泡沫，现在就更是如此了。北京和上海的房价收入比已经居于世界前列。开发商依然负债累累。

Developers are still heavily in debt.
Financial Markets	金融市场
Reforms: China made limited moves to allow foreigners to trade more extensively in the bond market, hedge their currency risk and connect its stock markets in Shanghai and Shenzhen with Hong Kong, which has long served as China's financial gateway to the rest of the world. Local governments have been discouraged from setting up companies that borrow heavily to pay for public works.	改革：中国采取了有限的行动，允许外国人在债券市场上进行更广泛的交易以及货币风险对冲，还让沪深股市与香港实现联通——香港一向是中国通往外部世界的金融大门。地方政府成立公司、大举借债以便为公共项目买单的做法不再受到提倡。
Lingering problems: Any moves to open up have been overshadowed by tighter government control after a 2015 stock market crash. A major stock market index passed on including Chinese stocks, citing the need for further improvements. New public-private partnerships have emerged to continue China's borrowing spree. While Chinese officials had hoped that the private partners would force local governments to make wiser and more cautious investments, the initial "private" partners have tended to be state-owned enterprises, which typically share local governments' interest in borrowing heavily to create jobs.	尚存的问题：股市于2015年崩盘后，政府收紧了控制，任何开放措施都被笼罩在这一阴影下。一个主要的股票市场指数推迟了纳入A股的时间，理由是A股还需继续改进。新的公私合营出现，让中国的借贷狂潮继续汹涌。中国官员希望私营合伙人能迫使地方政府做出更为明智和审慎的投资决策，但最初的“私营”合伙人往往是国有企业，通常和地方政府一样有着大举借债以便创造工作岗位的兴趣。
Banking	银行业
Reforms: China has moved to help banks plagued by a rising tide of bad loans. Banks have been allowed to swap a few of those unpaid loans for equity stakes in troubled borrowers. Asset management companies have been buying some bad loans from banks. Banks have been given growing discretion to set interest rates based on the creditworthiness of borrowers. The interest rates that banks pay on deposits have been deregulated, allowing a competition among banks that benefits	改革：中国已经开始帮助那些因为不良贷款不断上升而备受困扰的银行。银行获准将陷入麻烦的债务人的未清偿贷款转换为股权。资产管理公司一直在购买银行的某些坏账。银行已经获得越来越大的自由裁量权，可以基于债务人的信用度设定利率。对银行存款利率的管制有所放松，各银行之间的竞争让存款人成了受益者。 depositors.

Lingering problems: Those moves are not enough. Banks still face a large overhang of loans to money-losing companies with little hope of repayment. Banks continue to roll over loans to troubled borrowers and extend huge loans to politically connected borrowers, including influential private companies as well as state-owned enterprises. If the economy does slow sharply, the mountain of bad loans will grow much more. At the same time, entrepreneurs continue to complain that the system denies them the access to cheap money that they need to grow.	尚存的问题：仅采取这些举措还不够。银行仍然面临着贷给亏损企业的大笔款项几乎不可能得到偿还的情况。银行继续对陷入麻烦的债务人进行债务展期，并为有政治背景的债务人提供大笔贷款。如果经济增速真的陡然下降，不良贷款的大山会愈发高耸。与此同时，创业者继续抱怨说，银行系统拒绝为其企业提供发展壮大所需的廉价资金。
Industrial Overcapacity	工业产能过剩
Reforms: China has modestly reduced its steel-making and coal-mining capacity.	改革：中国适度削减了钢铁和煤炭产能。
Lingering problems: It has a lot more work to do. China still has roughly the same steel-making capacity as the rest of the world combined. China still has too many coal mines given its long-term plans to shift to more solar, wind and nuclear energy. In many other industrial sectors, intense competition and slowing economic growth have curbed private investment.	尚存的问题：还有大量工作要做。中国的钢铁产能仍然大致相当于世界其他地方的钢铁产能总和。中国虽然制定了更多地利用太阳能、风能和核能的长期计划，但仍然有着太多的煤矿。在其他很多工业部门里，激烈的竞争和经济增长放缓让私人投资受到了遏制。
State-Owned Enterprises	国有企业
Reforms: Pay has been limited for top executives. A few enterprises have been merged, notably in rail equipment, to limit the extent to which they compete with one another for overseas sales.	改革：顶级高管的薪酬受到了限制。少数几家企业——特别是经营铁路设备的企业——进行了合并，限制了它们在海外市场的竞争激烈程度。
Lingering problems: China's state-run companies remain bloated and inefficient. Monopolies and oligopolies continue to dominate large	尚存的问题：中国的国有企业依然臃肿低效。垄断和寡头企业仍然在电信、电力等大的经济部门占据着主导地位。钢铁、煤炭等部门的国有企业仍然倾

sectors of the economy, like telecommunications and power transmission. State-owned enterprises in sectors like steel making and coal mining tend to focus mainly on preserving employment for their workers, no matter how much money they need to borrow from state-controlled banks to cover financial losses. And those pay limits? They may drive talented leaders to the private sector.	向于把主要精力放在保住工人的饭碗上，根本不管自己要从受控于国家的银行里借多少钱才能弥补财务上的损失。至于那些薪酬限制，或许会把有才能的领导者推进私营部门。
Demographics	人口
Reforms: Faced with a shrinking labor force and a population that is rapidly graying, Mr. Xi ended China's notorious one-child policy, with its fines and forced abortions, and his government has even begun mulling whether to offer incentives for families to have a second child.	改革：面对劳动力的日益减少和人口的迅速老龄化，习近平给中国臭名昭著的一孩政策以及与之相伴的罚款和强迫堕胎画上了句号，他的政府甚至开始考虑是否要为生二胎的家庭提供奖励。
Lingering problems: The labor force will continue to shrink for decades, presenting a serious drag on economic growth.	尚存的问题：劳动力数量在未来几十年里会继续减少，从而严重拖累经济增长。
Urbanization	城市化
Reforms: The government has made it easier for migrant workers from rural areas to obtain residency and access to social benefits in medium-size and smaller cities. The government is preparing to move the municipal bureaucracy of Beijing at the end of this year to an outlying suburb as part of an experiment aimed at testing whether it can build satellite cities around major metropolitan centers.	改革：政府已经让来自农村地区的移民工人能够更加容易地在中小城市获得户籍和社会福利。政府准备于今年年底把北京市级党政机关搬迁到远郊，这是一项旨在测试它能否围绕主要都会中心建设卫星城的试验的一部分。
Lingering problems: Rural migrants still have little hope of gaining residency in big cities like Beijing and Shanghai. Without residency, their access to medical insurance, education for their children and other benefits is limited.	尚存的问题：来自乡村的移民依然不太可能在北京、上海之类的大城市获得户籍。没有户籍，他们在医保、子女教育以及其他福利的获取上就会受限。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170306/china-xi-jinping-economic-ref	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170306/china-xi-jinping-economic-ref

orm-scorecard	orm-scorecard
What's Under Discussion at One of China's Biggest Political Gatherings	今年两会，中国人关心什么
BEIJING — It's that time again, when more than 5,000 delegates to China's National People's Congress and its advisory body, the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference, meet in Beijing to endorse legislation and discuss government plans for the coming year. They talk about their policy ideas with the local media too, and coverage of their proposals and the online comments they attract provide glimpses into some of the issues on the minds of Chinese today.	北京——又到了全国人大和政协的 5000 多名代表齐聚北京，批准立法，讨论政府来年工作计划的时候了。他们也和当地媒体谈到了自己的政策理念，你可以从他们的提案及其吸引的网上评论中看到当今中国人对一些问题的看法。
End All Birth Restrictions. Lower the Marriage Age	取消各种生育限制，降低结婚年龄
In 2015, China announced it was ending its decades-long "one-child" policy, allowing all couples to have two children. But Huang Xihua, a National People's Congress delegate from Guangdong Province, said China should lift all controls on births and lower the legal marriage age to 18, from 22 for men and 20 for women.	2015 年，中国宣布结束数十年来的“独生子女”政策，允许所有夫妇生育两个孩子。但广东省全国人民代表大会黄细花表示，中国应该取消所有的出生限制，并将法定结婚年龄降至 18 岁。现在的最低结婚年龄男性是 22 岁，女性是 20 岁。
"You can't turn people's willingness to have babies on and off like a water tap," Ms. Huang told Southern Metropolis. "Once having fewer children becomes a trend, it's hard to reverse."	"生育不像自来水般可随意开关，少子化一旦成为常态，逆转极其困难。"黄细花告诉《南方都市报》。
As for marriage, she added: "Females reach sexual maturity at around 14 years old, and males at 16. That means Chinese people are sexually mature for six years before being allowed to marry. Lowering the legal marriage age is a way to protect civil rights and preserve social harmony."	至于婚姻年龄，她表示：“女子 14 岁、男子 16 岁左右就已发育成熟，开始具有生育能力。中国男女青少年从性成熟到法定结婚年龄之间的时间长达 6 年之久，容易造成一些社会问题。降低法定婚龄，有利于保护普遍存在低龄事实婚姻一族的合法权益，有利于社会的和谐稳定。”
E-tee-wee-tee: "This would undermine women's right to education.	E-tee-wee-tee: "这将损害女性受教育的权利。虽然这只是一个选择，但在

Although it would only be an option, in China, where parents are obsessed with maintaining the family bloodline, it would result in more women dropping out of school early."	中国，家长执着于传宗接代，这将导致更多的女性早早辍学。"
Banzhixiangyan007: "It's only a proposal, aimed at giving people the choice to marry at 18, not forcing anyone to get married then. If they're adults and want to get married, why not let them? And if you want to get married later, you do it later. Isn't more choice a good thing?"	半支香烟 007: "这只是一个建议，让人选择在 18 岁结婚，又不强迫任何人结婚。如果他们是成年人，想结婚，为什么不让他们结？如果你想以后再结婚，你可以以后结。有更多的选择难道不是好事？"
Ziqidonglaizhenren: "First you punish people for having too many children. Now that you want people to have more kids, people should do as you wish? Besides, being a parent isn't just about giving birth, it's about responsibility. What do 18-year-olds know when they're kids themselves?"	紫气东来真人: "你先是惩罚生太多孩子的人。现在你又想让人们生更多的孩子，人们就该按照你的意愿去做吗？此外，当父母又不仅仅是生孩子，这是一种责任。18 岁的孩子自己懂什么？"
Drop English from the University Entrance Exam	高考取消英语
English is a compulsory subject on the gaokao, the university entrance examination. According to Li Guangyu, a National People's Congress delegate from Hunan Province and chairman of the Yuhua Education Group, this has caused students to devote too much time to English at the expense of other subjects. "English imposes too much pressure on Chinese students," Mr. Li said on sohu.com.	英语是中国大学入学考试高考的必考科目。来自湖南省的全国人大代表、中国宇华教育集团董事局主席李光宇认为，学生学英语花了太多时间，牺牲了其他科目。"英语学习大大加重了学生负担，"李光宇对搜狐说。
Ahuhua: "Most people don't need English in their everyday life. They need Chinese. But they don't learn Chinese well either. Their grammar is terrible. They can't write characters correctly. People who keep stressing the importance of English are actually threatening the position of Chinese in school."	啊胡胡啊: "大多数人在日常生活中都不需要英语。他们需要的是中文。但他们也不学中文。他们的语法很糟糕。字还会写错。一些人总是强调英语重要性，实际上威胁了中文在学校里的地位。"
Songbeibeipifalatiao: "English is one of the most widely used languages	宋杯杯批发辣条: "英语是世界上使用最广泛的语言之一。高考怎么能取消？"

in the world. How can we drop it from the gaokao? Why not cancel math? Do you need math to communicate in your everyday life?"	为什么不取消数学？你日常生活中需要用数学来沟通吗？”
Fanxiaopi Superpi: "In China, if it's not compulsory, who spends any time on it? Have you ever seen Chinese kids studying philosophy, which isn't tested?"	范小痞 Super 痞：“在中国，如果不是强制性的，谁会花时间去学？如果不考试，你见过中国孩子学习哲学？”
Make Parental Negligence a Crime	把父母疏忽入刑
A group of 13 delegates to the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference have proposed that parents whose negligence results in their child's injury or death should be prosecuted. According to one delegate, Li You, quoted in Chengdu Business Daily, every year, 10 million children in China are injured in accidents, 100,000 fatally, often caused by parents' negligence. In February, two children slipped and fell five floors to their deaths in a Tianjin shopping mall when their father held them over a railing. In January, a 4-year-old boy drowned in a bath as his mother, who was beside him, remained engrossed in her cellphone.	政协一个 13 名代表的联名提案提出，应当起诉因疏忽而导致儿童受伤或死亡的父母。《成都商报》引述政协委员李铀的话说，中国每年近 1000 万的孩子受到意外伤害，死亡儿童达到 10 万。今年 2 月，在天津的一家商场里，父亲抱着两个孩子在栏杆边时，孩子从手中滑脱，从五层楼摔下死亡。1 月，一名不满 4 岁的男童在温泉中心溺水身亡，他的母亲一直在旁边看手机。
Demoiselle-Crane-flying: "Agree, and I suggest parents should have to get a certificate before they're allowed to have children. Being qualified to marry isn't the same as being qualified to raise kids."	蓑羽鹤 flying：“同意，我建议父母应该先获得证书，然后才允许生孩子。有资格结婚不等于有资格养孩子。”
Phantom1205: "It's already so painful for parents if their children are killed or injured. Wouldn't putting them in jail only add to the family's misfortune?"	魅影 1205：“如果孩子死亡或受伤了，父母已经很痛苦。把他们关进监狱只会给家庭增添不幸吧？”
More Holiday Time	延长春节假期
The Chinese Lunar New Year holiday, known as Spring Festival, is often called the biggest human migration in the world, as millions return to	中国农历新年假期，即春节，往往被称为世界上最大的人口迁移，因为有成千上万的人回到家乡和亲人团聚。新浪报道说，来自湖南省的全国人大代表、

their hometowns for family reunions. Lai Xiaomin, a delegate to the National People's Congress from Hunan Province and chairman of China Huarong Asset Management, wants the seven-day holiday most workers are granted to be extended to 15 days, sina.com reported. With the long distances they must travel, he said, many people are unable to spend much time with their relatives on this most important of Chinese holidays.	中国华融资产管理股份有限公司董事长赖小民希望将大部分员工的假期从7天延长至15天。他说，员工要长途旅行回家，因此在中国这个最重要的假期中，很多人无法与亲人相处太多时间。
Qinggetalang: "Fabulous! Even 15 days is too short, maybe 30?"	轻歌踏浪：“太棒了！就算是15天也太短，也许应该30天？”
Tianxiongboke: "Does he understand China's situation? With companies hurting so much with worker shortages and the rising cost of labor, I can't imagine what would happen if the holiday was even longer."	天雄博客：“他懂中国的国情吗？工人短缺和劳动力成本上涨已经让公司很受伤了，如果假期更长，我不能想象会发生什么事。”
Luoxuerushuang: "I suggest we have seven days off a week. We'd no longer have to work, and I suppose our food would drop down to us from heaven."	雪落如霜：“我建议每周休息7天。我们就不再需要工作了，我想食物会从天上掉下来。”
Jujibeijixing: "First, how about making sure every company gives its employees all the holidays they're entitled to under current laws?"	狙击北极星：“首先，不如确保每个公司都让员工享受到现行法律规定的所有假期？”
Stack the Dead	修建塔式墓地
In many urban areas, the price of a burial plot is soaring — costing more, by square meter, than an apartment, said Song Xinfang, a National People's delegate from Shandong Province. He proposes that China build tower-style cemeteries to save land and money.	在很多城市地区，墓地价格飙升——有些墓地的每平方米价格比公寓还高，来自山东省的全国人大代表宋心仿说道。他建议中国建立塔式墓地，节约土地和金钱。
"If we build two floors underground, and five to seven floors above, lots of people's ash boxes can be stored on a small plot," Mr. Song told Legal Evening News. "Perhaps a family could buy a tower or different families could share the same tower. It would save a lot of land."	“改造后的墓塔可地下1至2层，向上5至7层，每格祈福位可存放两个灵位（夫妇），既保证了寄存骨灰较多，又极大地节省了土地占用量。”宋心仿对《法制晚报》说。

Haohaoxuexili bii gengjin: "This would be really scary. If you went to visit your family's shrines, you'd have to pass all the shelves and rooms where other people's ashes were stored. It reminds me that in many horror movies, ghosts appear in elevators."	好好学习离 bii 更近: "真的可怕, 扫个墓还要从都是死人的房间楼层走过, 看多恐怖片的电梯闹鬼在墓塔里面怪吓人。"
Daydayda: "I think it's reasonable and it would help save land. I'm sure our dead ancestors would understand. But you have to consider that many people would find this creepy."	daydayda: "我觉得可行, 这样真的可以节省资源, 我觉得逝去先人们会理解, 就是在设计上可以考虑到这种惊悚因素。"
Make It Easier for People to be Registered Where They Work	降低在就业地落户的难度
In the 1950s, a household registration system was instituted to curb rural migration to cities and it continues to determine where citizens can live and still enjoy full social welfare rights. Cai Jiming, an economics professor at Tsinghua University in Beijing and a delegate to the National People's Congress, said it's time to do away with maximum population targets for cities and to treat all citizens equally. He says the traffic congestion, air pollution and high housing costs that afflict big cities result from poor management rather than overpopulation.	上世纪 50 年代, 中国为了限制农村人口流向城市, 开始实施户籍制度。该制度至今仍决定着中国公民能在哪里居住并享受完整的社会福利。北京的清华大学经济学教授、全国人大代表蔡继明称, 取消城市人口规模限制, 对全体公民一视同仁的时候到了。他说, 交通拥堵、空气污染和高房价这些大城市病的原因在于管理不善而非人口过多。
"People tend to move to big cities, not just in China, but everywhere in the world," he told Caixin. "This is driven by market forces, and we should respect market forces."	"人口向大城市聚集不仅是中国的规律, 而且是世界的规律," 他对财新网说。"是市场在发挥作用, 而我们的政策应该顺应这种市场规律。"
Quanqiuhaodianyingsoulou: "I suggest that this delegate go to the hospitals, schools and subways and have a look himself. Do some field research before talking about this."	全球好电影搜罗: "建议这位代表去医院, 中小学, 地铁里调研调研再发话。"
Fangfengzhengdemoyu: "I think the really urgent problem is that job opportunities aren't evenly distributed in China. Beijing, Shanghai and	放风筝的墨鱼: "解决该问题的根源在于中国就业机会分布极其不均匀, 北上广深占据极大一部分, 才会导致人才和劳动力不断涌入, 如果能够平衡发

Guangzhou have absorbed so many resources that people are all rushing into these cities. If Chinese cities were equally developed, with better education and medical services, there would be fewer people coming to Beijing to inhale the smog."	展，增强中小城市的就业吸附能力和城市教育医疗等配套建设，慢慢的就不会有人愿意去北京吸雾霾了。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170313/china-congress-policy	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170313/china-congress-policy
China's Premier, Li Keqiang, Strikes Upbeat Tone Amid U.S. Tensions	李克强谈中美关系，释放乐观信号
BEIJING — China's premier, Li Keqiang, presented an optimistic picture of relations with the Trump administration on Wednesday, arguing that the two sides would be able to overcome their smoldering tensions over trade imbalances, currency policy and geopolitical disputes across Asia.	北京——周三，中国国务院总理李克强对与特朗普政府的关系提出了乐观看法，认为双方能够克服在贸易不平衡、货币政策以及亚洲地缘政治争端方面暗中加剧的紧张局势。
The comments appeared intended to set an upbeat tone for a first meeting between President Trump and his Chinese counterpart, Xi Jinping, that is provisionally scheduled for next month at Mr. Trump's Mar-a-Lago resort in Florida.	这些评论似乎是为特朗普总统和中国国家主席习近平的首次会晤奠定乐观的基调。这次会晤暂定于下个月在特朗普的佛罗里达州马阿拉歌庄园 (Mar-a-Lago) 举行。
"This relationship is crucial for not just China and the United States, but also for regional and global peace, security and stability," Mr. Li told hundreds of reporters at the end of the annual meeting of China's legislature, the National People's Congress.	"中美关系不仅会关系两国利益，而且涉及到地区和世界的和平安全稳定，" 李克强在中国一年一度的立法会议全国人民代表大会结束时对数百名记者说。
"China and the United States now share extensive common interests. It's also true that there are some differences between the two countries," Mr. Li said. "But I believe it's important for both countries to uphold strategic interests and to sit down to talk to each other so as to enhance mutual understanding and trust."	"中美已经有了广泛的共同利益。当然，我们之间也有分歧，" 李克强说，"但是，我们双方都需要保持战略定力，加强沟通，坐下来谈，增进相互了解和理解。"
Before and after his election victory in November, Mr. Trump threw	在去年 11 月选举胜利前后，特朗普向北京的决策者们发出了不少挑战，令

down a number of challenges that rattled policy makers in Beijing.	他们紧张不安。
Mr. Trump threatened to punish China over its big trade surplus with the United States. He suggested he might abandon longstanding American policy on Taiwan, the self-governed island that China treats as an illegitimate breakaway territory. His secretary of state, Rex W. Tillerson, promised to stop China's building of islands as military outposts in the disputed South China Sea, where the Philippines, Vietnam and other neighbors have competing territorial claims.	由于中国对美国的巨额贸易顺差，特朗普威胁要惩罚中国。他表示可能会放弃美国长期以来对台湾的政策，中国一直视这个自治岛为不正当脱离的领土。美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)承诺阻止中国在有争议的南海地区建设岛屿作为军事前哨，菲律宾和越南等邻国在那里也有领土主张争议。
But more recently, Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi have spoken over the phone, and Mr. Trump reaffirmed established American policy that Taiwan is a part of "one China." Administration officials have reined in warnings of possible military action in the South China Sea. And so far, at least, the White House has not introduced measures that could sharply cut the flow of Chinese goods into the United States.	但是近来特朗普和习近平通了电话，特朗普重申了美国的“一个中国”政策。特朗普政府的官员也减少了可能在南海采取军事行动的警告。至少到目前为止，白宫没有提出可能大幅削减销往美国的中国货物的措施。
Last year, the United States' deficit in trade in goods with China reached $347 million, and Mr. Trump has promised to close that gap, which he has also attributed to what he calls China's rigged currency exchange policies. But Mr. Li said that a trade war of tit-for-tat protectionist measures would ultimately damage the American economy.	去年，美国对中国的货物贸易逆差达到 3.47 亿美元，特朗普承诺缩小这一差距，他还认为这与中国操纵货币兑换政策有关。但是李克强表示，针锋相对的保护主义贸易战最终会损害美国的经济。
"If a trade war breaks out between China and the United States, it would be foreign companies, in particular American firms, that would bear the brunt," he said, citing what he said were findings from a foreign think tank. "Our hope on the Chinese side is that no matter what ructions this relationship experiences, this relationship will continue to move forward in a positive direction."	"如果中美发生贸易战的话，首先受损的是外资企业，首当其冲的是美资企业，"他说。他说自己引用的是外国智库的研究发现。"中方希望，中美关系不管有什么样的坎坷，还是要向前走、向好处走。"

He also stressed that China would pay close attention to whether Mr. Trump's administration stuck to the One China policy, which in effect denies Taiwan the possibility of recognition as a separate country, something to which pro-independence groups in Taiwan aspire.	他还强调，中国将密切关注特朗普政府是否坚持“一个中国”的政策，这实际上断绝了台湾被承认为一个独立国家的可能性，而那是主张独立的一些台湾团体所向往的。
"This policy constitutes the political foundation of China-U.S. relations," Mr. Li said of the One China policy. He said: "With that foundation in place, we believe there are bright prospects for China-U.S. cooperation."	"这项政策是中美关系的政治基础，"李克强在提到“一个中国”政策时说。“有了这样一个政治基础，中美合作的前景是广阔的。”
Mr. Li also presented an optimistic view of China's economy this year. At the opening of the meeting last week, Mr. Li said the government wanted the economy to grow 6.5 percent or more in 2017. The target represented a slight easing from last year's goal, which was 6.5 to 7 percent. China's economy grew 6.7 percent last year, according to official statistics.	李克强还对今年的中国经济表达了乐观看法。上周大会开幕时，李克强表示，政府希望2017年中国经济增长6.5%或以上。这个目标相比去年的6.5%至7%略有放缓。据官方统计，去年中国经济增长了6.7%。
At his news conference, Mr. Li said that the 6.5 percent target differed little from last year's target. "We believe that China will continue to be a strong driving force in the face of a sluggish global economy," he said.	李克强在记者会上表示，6.5%的目标与去年的目标相差无几。“中国仍然是世界经济复苏乏力情况下推动全球增长的重要力量，”他说。
But the trade-offs between stoking growth and fixing underlying economic problems have become increasingly difficult and contentious.	但是，刺激经济增长与解决深层经济问题之间的权衡已经变得越来越困难，引发了越来越多的争议。
The government says the economy must keep expanding at a relatively fast pace to create enough urban jobs for roughly 11 million rural migrants and new university graduates this year. Mr. Xi will also oversee a big leadership shake-up at a Communist Party congress this autumn, when he starts his second term as party leader, magnifying the government's hunger for social confidence and stability.	政府认为，经济必须以相对较快的速度保持增长，为约1100万农民工和今年的大学毕业生创造足够多的城市就业机会。今年秋季，习近平还将在党代会上监管领导层的大调整，届时他将开始自己作为党领袖的第二个任期，这增加了政府对社会信心和稳定的渴望。

But China has come to depend on bigger and bigger injections of bank lending to fire up investment and demand, worrying economists who say that increasingly heavy debt and misspending will eventually drag down growth.	但中国已经开始依赖越来越大规模的银行贷款，以刺激投资和需求，这引发了经济学家们的担忧。他们认为，越来越沉重的债务和资金滥用将最终影响经济增长。
Much of the lending has ended up in housing and construction projects, including new expressways and airports, even in regions where demand is tepid. As a result, the growth dividend from each dollar of new credit has been shrinking year by year, even as company debt has expanded.	许多贷款最终用在了住房和建筑项目上，包括新建的高速公路和机场，甚至是在一些需求不旺盛的地区。结果，每一美元新增信贷的增长红利已逐年减少，尽管公司债务在逐年增长。
Industrial production and investment were strong in the first two months of this year, government statisticians announced on Tuesday, but that strength was again underpinned by heavy investment on the part of already indebted state-owned enterprises, as well as a continuing, mortgage-fueled frenzy in the country's real estate markets, already among the world's least affordable relative to local rents and incomes.	周二公布的政府数据显示，今年前两个月，中国的工业生产和投资势头强劲，但这也是由于在负债累累的国有企业以及以贷款为动力的持续发热的房地产市场上大力投资——相对于当地租金和居民收入，中国的房价在全世界已经属于非常昂贵的行列。
Mr. Li, however, sought to allay worries about rising Chinese debt. He said that there was no risk to the overall financial system and that the Chinese government's relatively low budget deficit — roughly 3 percent of economic output — and large capital bases in banks would protect the country. But there were risks, he added.	不过，李克强试图消除人们对中国债务增加的担忧。他说，整个金融体系没有风险，中国政府相对较低的预算赤字（约占经济产出的3%）和充足的银行资本将保护这个国家。不过他也说，存在一些风险。
"We are fully aware of potential risks and will take prompt and targeted action," he said.	"对于这些风险点，我们是高度关注的，发现了会及时处置、靶向治疗，"他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170315/china-us-li-keqiang-press-conference	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170315/china-us-li-keqiang-press-conference

Taiwan's Ex-President Ma Ying-jeou Indicted in Wiretapping Case	台湾前总统马英九被控泄密遭起诉
TAIPEI, Taiwan — Prosecutors in Taiwan announced on Tuesday that the island's former president Ma Ying-jeou had been indicted over the handling of classified information in a 2013 wiretapping case.	台湾台北——台湾的检察官周二宣布起诉台湾前总统马英九，罪名是他在2013年的窃听案中对保密信息处理不当。
If convicted, Mr. Ma faces a maximum of three years in prison.	如果被判有罪，马英九面临最多三年的监禁。
Post-presidential legal troubles are something of an occupational hazard for leaders of Taiwan. After leaving office in 2008, Mr. Ma's predecessor, Chen Shui-bian, was convicted on corruption charges. Mr. Chen was released on medical parole in 2015 after serving six years of a 20-year sentence.	卸任总统后遇到法律麻烦对台湾领导人来说简直就是一种职业危害。马英九的前任陈水扁在2008年离任后被判犯有腐败罪，并被判处20年有期徒刑。2015年，陈水扁在服刑六年后获医保假释。
Upon assuming the presidency in 2008, Mr. Ma was viewed by many as a steady hand after Mr. Chen's unpredictable tenure. But when Mr. Ma stepped down as president in May, he was highly unpopular after eight years of poor economic performance, numerous scandals and accusations of selling out to China.	马英九于2008年担任总统，许多人把他视为陈水扁变换莫测的任期之后的稳定因素。但是，马英九去年5月卸任总统时，人们对他的不满程度颇高，因为在他的八年任期里，经济表现不佳，丑闻频出，人们还指责他把台湾出卖给了中国大陆。
During his tenure, Mr. Ma focused on improving relations with China, which claims self-ruled and democratic Taiwan as its territory and has threatened to attack the island if it formalizes its independence.	马英九在任职期间集中精力改善与中国大陆的关系，大陆认为自治的民主台湾是其领土的一部分，并威胁说，如果台湾正式宣布独立，将对台湾使用武力。
Legislative moves to open Taiwan's service sector to Chinese investment led to the protests known as the Sunflower Movement in 2014, in which tens of thousands took to the streets and hundreds of demonstrators occupied the Legislative Yuan, Taiwan's legislature. The protests succeeded in killing the legislation.	台湾立法会让台湾服务业向中国投资开放的立法努力曾导致了2014年名为“太阳花运动”的抗议运动，其间有数万人走上街头，数百名示威者还占领了台湾立法机关立法院。抗议活动成功地阻止了该项立法。
Mr. Ma's indictment is connected to a high-profile fight in 2013 that he picked with the former president of the Legislative Yuan, Wang	对马英九的起诉涉及他在2013年与前立法院院长王金平的一场高调政治争论，王金平曾以能够跨党派界限工作而深受欢迎。马英九和王金平都是国民

Jin-pyng, a popular lawmaker known for his ability to work across party lines. Mr. Ma and Mr. Wang are members of the Kuomintang, which was the governing party at the time but is now a severely weakened opposition party.	党员，国民党那时是执政党，但现在是影响力严重削弱的反对党。
While president, Mr. Ma accused Mr. Wang of influencing prosecutors to not appeal a not-guilty verdict in a court ruling involving Ker Chien-ming, a senior lawmaker in the Democratic Progressive Party. Mr. Ma is accused of having illegally ordered an investigator to leak details of wiretapped conversations between Mr. Wang and Mr. Ker to Taiwan's premier at the time, Jiang Yi-huah.	时任总统的马英九指控王金平对检察官施加影响，让其不上诉法院对民进党资深立法委员柯建铭作出的无罪判决。马英九被指控非法命令调查人员把窃听来的王金平和柯建铭与时任台湾行政院长江宜桦的对话细节泄露出去。
Prosecutors questioned Mr. Ma in December as part of their current investigation.	作为他们目前调查的一部分，检察官在去年12月曾询问过马英九。
Hsu Chiao-hsin, a spokeswoman for Mr. Ma, told the news media that he expected "a fair and just verdict" in the case.	马英九的发言人徐巧芯对新闻媒体说，马英九期待这个案件会得到“公平和公正的判决”。
The Kuomintang's loss of both the presidency and control of the legislature in the general election last year is widely attributed to Mr. Ma. Speaking at an event last week at the Brookings Institution in Washington, he rejected accusations that he was to blame.	国民党在去年的大选中丢掉了总统的位置和立法院的控制权，人们普遍将竞选的失败归咎于马英九。上周，马英九在华盛顿布鲁金斯学院举办的一个活动上，拒绝了认为自己对竞选失败有责任的指责。
In a brief statement, Hu Wen-chi, deputy director of the Kuomintang's Culture and Communications Committee, described the indictment as "quite regrettable."	国民党文化传播委员会副主任委员胡文琦在一份简短的声明中表示，马英九遭起诉“令人遗憾”。
"The Kuomintang believes in former President Ma's innocence and personal integrity," Mr. Hu said.	胡文琦说，“国民党相信马英九的清白与操守。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170315/taiwan-president-ma-ying-jeo-u-charged	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170315/taiwan-president-ma-ying-jeo-u-charged

1917: China Breaks With Germany and Seizes Ships	时报历史上的今天：中国与德国断交
LONDON —According to Washington despatches, China has officially announced that she has severed diplomatic relations with Germany.	伦敦——据华盛顿消息，中国正式宣布与德国断绝外交关系。
The American Navy Department has been informed that the Chinese government has seized all the German ships, six in number, at Shanghai. The crews have been landed and an armed guard has been placed on board each vessel. The decision of the Chinese government to break with Germany was definitely come to after the two Houses of Parliament, having taken cognizance of the report on the measures adopted and the government's intentions for the future, had given a vote of confidence, passed by a crushing majority.	美国海军部得到消息，中国政府夺取了德国在上海的全部船只，共计六艘。船员都被送上岸，每艘船上都安排了武装警卫驻守。中国政府之所以做出与德国断交的决定，明显是在参众两院注意到关于采取的措施和政府未来意图的咨文后，举行了信任投票，以压倒多数通过了断交决定。
The Peking correspondent of The Times says that the last effort made by Germany with a view to saving the situation was the handing in at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs yesterday of her reply to the Chinese note. In this document, Germany expressed regret at being unable to modify her submarine policy, and added that every precaution will be taken to safeguard the lives and property of the Chinese. — The New York Herald, European Edition, March 15, 1917	时报驻北京记者表示，为挽救局面，德国所做的最后努力是昨天在外交部提交对中国声明的回应。在这份文件中，德国对无法修改自身的潜艇政策表示遗憾，还提出会采取一切预防措施来维护中国人的生命与财产安全。——《纽约先驱报》(New York Herald)欧洲版，1917年3月15日。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170316/iht-retrospective-1917-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170316/iht-retrospective-1917-china
Xi Jinping Pushes Legal Overhaul That Would Bolster State Power	习近平重提制定民法典，欲重塑中国司法制度
BEIJING — For six decades, Chinese leaders have tried to put in place a sweeping civil code to explain the law on some of China's most contentious issues, including property rights, migrant workers, defamation and divorce.	北京——六十年来，中国领导人一直试图制定一部全面的民法典，用来解释涉及中国最有争议的一些问题的法律，这些问题包括财产权、农民工、诽谤和离婚等。
And for six decades, they have failed, stymied by political squabbling	六十年来，受政治纷争和社会动荡的妨碍，他们一直没有成功，中国的法律

and social upheaval and leaving China with a piecemeal and outdated legal system.	制度支离破碎、陈旧过时。
Now, President Xi Jinping is reviving the idea of a national civil code as he seeks to remake China's justice system. His government has embraced the code as a tool to fight corruption and fickleness in the courts, as well as to formalize state power on issues as varied as free speech and parental responsibility.	现在，习近平主席正在重提制定一部民法典的想法，试图重塑中国的司法制度。他的政府将该法典视作一个打击法院腐败和变化不定的工具，同时也用它来正式确定国家权力对多个问题的管辖，包括言论自由和父母责任的问题。
"Even while engaging in terrific repression in some respects, there is a desire to show continuing legal progress," said Jerome A. Cohen, a New York University expert on Chinese law. "Xi is trying to convince the world that China now can take the lead."	"即使他们在某些方面进行了极其严厉的镇压，他们仍然希望让人看到他们在法律上的持续进步。"纽约大学的中国法律专家杰罗姆·A·科恩(Jerome A. Cohen)说："习近平正试图说服世界，中国现在可以成为引领者。"
On Wednesday, the Chinese legislature, a rubber-stamp body of Mr. Xi and the ruling Communist Party, took a first step toward adopting a civil code, overwhelmingly approving a set of guiding principles and vowing to finish a complete code by 2020.	周三，对习近平和执政党共产党言听计从的中国立法机构朝着民法典迈出了第一步，高票通过了民法总则，并决定到2020年完成一部完整的法典。
But to succeed, Mr. Xi and lawmakers will need to overcome significant ideological divisions within the party, especially on heated issues like how to handle land disputes.	但是要想获得成功，习近平和立法者需要克服党内严重的思想分歧，特别是在如何处理土地纠纷等热点问题上。
China's government often tries to present the image of a unified and efficient bureaucracy marching in step. But the struggle over the civil code is a reminder that it remains divided on a range of ideological and policy issues, complicating the leadership's efforts to meet rising public expectations.	中国政府经常试图塑造一个统一、高效、步调一致的官僚体制形象。但是，在民法典上的争议提醒大家，他们仍然在一系列意识形态和政策问题上存在分歧，领导层想要满足不断增长的公众期望的努力也因此变得复杂起来。
China's leaders also face resistance from activists and rights-minded scholars, who dismiss the civil code as nothing more than window	中国领导人还面临着活动人士和有着权利意识的学者的反对，他们认为这部民法典只是摆设，是习近平在他四年多的执政期间推行强硬政策的手段，目

dressings and a means for Mr. Xi, who has pushed hard-line policies during his more than four years in power, to restrict free speech in China further.	的是进一步限制中国的言论自由。
Critics cite as a worrying sign the decision by lawmakers, during the annual meeting of the National People's Congress this month in Beijing, to make the defamation of Communist heroes and martyrs a civil offense.	批评家认为，一个令人担忧的迹象是，本月在北京举行的全国人民代表大会年度会议上，立法者们决定，诋毁共产主义英雄和殉道者将被定为民事违法行为。
"Will other citizens' rights be protected as well?" asked He Weifang, a professor of law at Peking University and a prominent critic of the Communist Party. "This is a really bad move and has violated the basic spirit of civil laws, which champion dignity, personal freedom and equality."	"其他公民的权利也同样能保障吗？"北京大学法学教授、共产党著名的批评者贺卫方问道。"这是很不好的做法，违反了民法的基本精神。民法倡导的是尊严、个人自由以及平等。"
Still, others have warned that enshrining too many freedoms in the civil code, which hundreds of thousands of judges across the country will use to decide disputes large and small, might risk creating social unrest.	然而，也有人警告说，全国各地数以十万计的法官将用民法典来决定大大小小的争议，在民法典中规定太多的自由可能会引发社会动荡。
One prominent legal scholar, Liang Huixing of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in Beijing, has raised the possibility of revolution if China were to guarantee expansive personal freedoms like property rights and free speech in the civil code, as some lawmakers and scholars have suggested. He has drawn comparisons to the 2014 uprising in Ukraine, warning of the threat posed by "unchecked freedom."	和一些立法者和学者一样，位于北京的中国社会科学院的著名法学家梁慧星认为，如果中国要保障财产权和言论自由等广泛的个人自由，就有可能出现革命。他以2014年乌克兰的起义为例子，对"不受制约的自由"带来的威胁提出了警告。
Zhou Guangquan, a lawmaker and a professor at Tsinghua University in Beijing, dismissed concerns that the government was not interested in protecting individual rights. He said it was essential to update China's	人大代表周光权是清华大学的教授，他并不认同政府对保护个人权利不感兴趣的担忧。周光权说，中国的民法必须修订，它源于德国法律，上次进行重大修订是在1980年代经济和社会发生变革之前。

civil law, which has its roots in German law and was last significantly revised in the 1980s, before economic and social transformations.
"There are a lot of overlaps and contradictions," Mr. Zhou wrote in an email. "The passing of civil code will erase these problems."	"它有很多重叠和矛盾，"周光权在一封电邮中写道。"民法典的通过将消除这些问题。"
Lawmakers say they intend to grapple with a host of issues in the civil code, including whether unborn children should be entitled to inheritance rights. They also say they intend to update laws on property to include virtual possessions, and to protect good Samaritans from punishment if they accidentally injure someone they are helping.	立法者们表示，他们想在这部民法中解决一系列问题，包括未出生的小孩是否应该享有继承权。还提到有意更新财产法，把虚拟财产也算在内，同时保护热心助人的人，以免他们在不小心伤到自己的帮扶对象时受到处罚。
The new rules might also touch on the need to conserve resources, Mr. Zhou said, helping resolve issues like the excess use of packaging in popular holiday gifts like moon cakes.	周光权表示，这部新法规或许也会涉及保护资源的需求，有助于解决月饼等流行的节日礼物过度包装等问题。
One of the chief issues is how to resolve land disputes between residents and the government, a continuing source of social unrest. In China, homeowners have rights to their dwelling but not the ground underneath it.	一个主要问题是如何解决居民和政府之间的土地纠纷，这是一个持续导致社会不稳定的源头。在中国，房主只拥有房屋所有权，而没有土地所有权。
To propel China's development over the last quarter-century, the government has seized land and demolished homes at a rapid pace, in many cases over the opposition of local residents. In addition, the government parcels out land through 20- to 70-year leases, some of which are soon expiring, fueling uncertainties in real estate markets.	在过去的 25 年里，为推动中国的发展，政府快速征地和拆除房屋——很多时候是在当地居民反对的情况下。此外，政府把土地以 20-70 年的租约分配出去，有些很快就要到期，这将给房地产市场增加不确定性。
Some lawmakers and legal scholars have proposed that the civil code should permit Chinese citizens to use land indefinitely.	一些立法者和法律学者提议，这部民法应该允许公民无限期使用土地。
Despite the adoption of a property rights law a decade ago, critics argue that the state continues to exert too much power over citizens in	尽管有十年前出台的《物权法》，但批评人士称，政府在解决土地纠纷方面依然对公民拥有太大的权力。

resolving land disputes.
"The right to property is a basic human right," said Zhang Lifan, an outspoken Chinese historian. "But what we have seen is that even with the passing of the property law, forced demolition cases still abound, and many such violations have taken place in the name of the state."	"物权是基本的人权之一，"直言不讳的中国历史学家章立凡说。"可是我们这几年看到的是，即便有了物权法，暴力拆迁的案例还是很多，而且很多是以国家的名义进行。"
The Chinese government has used the civil code to promote the image of China to the world. The state-controlled media has called it China's "declaration of rights," with one article quoting lawmakers from Bangladesh offering glowing assessments.	中国政府利用这部民法向全世界宣传中国的形象。国家控制的媒体称之为中国的"《权利法案》"，还有一篇文章援引孟加拉国议员的话对它发表了充满溢美之词的评价。
Previous efforts to pass a civil code failed, but experts said the fact that Mr. Xi and the party seem to have embraced the push to draft a code was a sign that this time, the effort is likely to bear fruit.	通过一部民法的努力之前一直没能成功，但专家表示，习近平及共产党推动起草民法是一个迹象，表明这一次这项努力有可能结出果实。
Professor Cohen of N.Y.U. said adopting a civil code could help reinforce Mr. Xi's efforts to reassure domestic and foreign investors about the strength of China's economic and political system.	纽约大学的科恩教授表示，采用一部民法可能会有助于加强习近平的一项努力，即让国内外投资者对中国的经济政治制度的实力有信心。
"It is part of his effort to show how open and ready China is by providing a legal system in which investors can have confidence," he said. "Of course, the proof is in the pudding."	"他的一部分努力是通过推出一部让投资者有信心的法律制度，来显示中国有多么开放和完备，"他说。"当然，是好是坏还需要实践来检验。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170316/xi-jinping-legal-overhaul	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170316/xi-jinping-legal-overhaul
In Beijing, Two Wheels Are Only a Smartphone Away	共享单车：昔日自行车王国的首都找回一点灵感
BEIJING — Stepping off a stylish, compact, orange-and-silver bicycle on the sidewalk outside her Beijing office, Cao Dachui kicked down its metal stand and locked the back wheel. Her half mile ride from a nearby subway station cost just 14 cents, and she could leave the bike anywhere.	北京——在她北京办公室外面的人行道上，曹达垂（Cao Dachui，音）蹬着一辆时尚小巧、橙银两色的自行车，她踢下车子的金属支架，锁上后轮。从附近的地铁站骑车半英里来到这里只需花费 14 美分租车，而且她可以把这辆自行车停在任何地方。

"It's so very convenient," Ms. Cao, 27, said as buses and cars roared by, disgorging the stink of gasoline exhaust. Walking to the advertising agency would have taken twice as long. "Life has really gotten easier," she said. Her friend Ma Zheng, 23, who was parking his own shared bike, nodded.	"非常方便，"27岁的曹达垂说，公共汽车和小轿车从她身边呼啸而过，排出汽油尾气的臭味。如果步行到她的广告代理公司需要花费两倍的时间。"生活真的变得更方便了，"她说。她的朋友，23岁的马正（Ma Zheng，音）正在停放自己的共享自行车，也点了点头。
Beijing was once a city of bikes, the capital of a country known as the Bicycle Kingdom for the millions of two-wheelers that dominated urban transport in a state-planned economy where cars were reserved for official business and the politically powerful. Decades of remarkable economic growth, beginning in the 1990s, led to a huge influx of cars in cities like Beijing, where owning one became not just a marker of reaching the middle class but also practically a prerequisite for marriage. As the economy roared, autos pushed bikes off the roads, creating heavy pollution and miserable traffic.	北京曾经是一个自行车的城市，是这个被称为自行车王国的国家的首都，成百上千万辆的两轮车在国家计划经济体系中主导着城市交通，而汽车则留给官方活动和政界掌权者使用。从20世纪90年代起，数十年来，中国取得了令人瞩目的经济增长，导致了汽车在北京等城市大量涌现，如今，在大城市里，拥有一辆汽车不仅仅是中产阶级的标志，而且几乎是婚姻的先决条件。随着经济的快速发展，汽车将自行车挤出道路，也造成了严重的污染和糟糕的交通状况。
Now, Beijing may be returning to its roots — with a modern twist. Thanks to about two dozen technology start-ups, brightly colored shared bikes have flooded Beijing since last year, dotting a normally drab cityscape with flashes of bumblebee yellow, kingfisher blue and tangerine.	现在，北京可能正在回归本源——不过带有一丝现代化色彩。在大约20多家科技初创公司的努力之下，自去年以来，色彩明亮的共享自行车淹没了北京，明黄、翠蓝与橘红色的自行车点缀着以往单调的城市风景。
Beijing commuters have long endured packed buses and airport-style security checks at subways, so many Chinese like Ms. Cao are embracing the shared bikes for the flexibility and freedom they offer. Commuters pick up the bikes and then ride and drop them off anywhere they like, locking the back wheel, with no need to find a stand or retether them, in contrast to city bike programs in Paris or New	长期以来，北京通勤者都要忍受拥挤的公共汽车和实行机场式安检的地铁，所以许多像曹达垂这样的中国人都喜欢上了共享自行车带来的灵活与自由。通勤者推起自行车就可以骑，之后可以把车子随意放在任何地方，只要锁上后轮就好，不必找一个支架或是连上什么设备，这和巴黎或纽约的城市自行车服务完全不同。

York.
Urban obstruction is nothing new here. Scooters whiz down sidewalks and cars often park randomly, even on crosswalks, giving daily life in Beijing the feeling of a hectic video game. But the bikes — strewn around the city like bright candies — have taken Beijing’s chaos to another level, and drivers are particularly upset.	城市障碍在这里不是什么新鲜事。滑板车在人行道上穿梭而过，汽车也经常随便停放，甚至是在人行横道上，这让北京的日常生活显得像是一场令人手忙脚乱的视频游戏。但是这些自行车像明亮的糖果一样散布在城市之中，把北京的混乱提升到另一个水平，这让机动车司机们尤为不安。
“In the last few months, the bikes have been going crazy. They’re like monsters occupying the city,” said Huang Linwei, 29, a designer who drives to work in Beijing every day from Tongzhou, an eastern suburb. “More than once I’ve found it difficult to park my car because the bikes are parked all over the place!”	“过去的几个月里，自行车简直是疯了。它们就像占领城市的怪物，”29岁的黄林伟（Huang Linwei，音）说，他是一名设计师，每天从北京东郊的通州开车进入市区工作。“不止一次，我很难停放自己的车子，因为自行车停得到处都是！”
Others fear for their livelihood. Xu Jianmin, 56, an electric rickshaw driver, said he had made less money transporting commuters since the tens of thousands of bikes began appearing this winter.	另外一些人担心的则是自己的生计。56岁的电动三轮车司机徐建民（音）说，自从数以万计的单车开始在刚刚过去的这个冬天现身街头以来，他通过运送通勤者赚的钱便不如以前多了。
“I know our business is kind of a gray zone, that we are not registered with the government, and of course nobody cares if we’re affected,” Mr. Xu said. “But I have to make money.”	“我知道我们的生意处于灰色地带，我们没在政府部门那里登记，如果我们受了影响，肯定不会有人在意，”徐建民说。“但我必须挣钱。”
“I probably would like the bikes, too, if I had another job,” he added.	“如果干的是别的工作，我可能也会喜欢这些自行车，”他补充道。
There have also been highly publicized instances of misuse and vandalism. In February, the police detained two nurses at a military hospital in Beijing for five days after they locked bikes with chains to stop others from using them.	目前还存在滥用和毁坏单车的情况，媒体对此做了大量报道。2月份，北京一家部队医院的两名护士在用锁把共享单车锁住、以防其他人使用之后，被警方拘留五天。
Angela Cai, a spokeswoman for Ofo, a market leader in bike-sharing in cities across China, said the company was working to address the dumping of bikes in public places. Workers wearing heavy blue coats	Ofo 是中国城市共享单车市场的领头羊之一，其女发言人安吉拉·蔡(Angela Cai)说，该公司正致力于解决单车被乱放于公共场所的问题。眼下，在朝阳区的马路边能看到身穿蓝色厚外套的工作人员收集被乱放的 Ofo 单车。 can now be spotted on side roads in Beijing's Chaoyang district, picking up discarded Ofos.

This month, the municipal government said it would issue parking, management and maintenance regulations for the bikes by June, and that it expected the companies to cooperate.	北京市政府本月宣布，将在6月底前发布共享单车停放和管理运维规定，希望相关公司予以配合。
Riding the bikes requires only a few taps on a smartphone.	骑乘共享单车只需在智能手机上点几下。
Customers download one of the start-ups' apps, electronically transfer a deposit and then pay per ride by using a bike's individual code. Bikes that rely on mobile technology feel right at home in a place like Beijing, where even elderly people are often early adapters of technology.	顾客先下载相关创业公司的应用程序，再以电子转账的方式存入一笔押金，然后每骑行一次就通过车辆代码付一次费。在北京这样的地方，依赖移动科技的单车如鱼得水——就连这里的老年人也常常抢先尝试科技产品。
Some companies offer booking services and even GPS to enable riders to find the nearest pair of wheels. But it doesn't always work as well as it sounds — when I booked a bike recently, I wandered in circles for 10 minutes without finding it. I was at a high-rise mall, and it is possible the bike was parked on a different floor from those I was able to check.	一些公司提供预订服务，甚至是能让骑行者找到一辆离自己最近的单车的GPS。但该服务并非总像听上去那么好用——不久前，我预订了一辆单车，但转来转去整整10分钟，也没找到它。我当时在一所高层购物中心里，而它有可能被停放在别的楼层，不在我所能搜寻的范围之内。
Costing as little as 7 cents a half-hour and designed to take people the last leg from public transport to their places of work or entertainment, the bikes have the potential to transform urban living and even shape people's decisions about where to live and work. Those are vital issues in this sprawl of about 20 million people, many of whom spend hours a day commuting.	共享单车旨在服务于那些下了公共交通工具之后，距离工作或娱乐地点还剩最后一截距离的人，每使用一小时最低仅需付费7美分。它们有可能改变城市生活，甚至影响人们关于在哪里居住和工作的决定。在这个拥有2000万人口、其中很多人每天的通勤时间都长达好几个小时的城市里，这些是至关重要的问题。
"Having a bike like this might allow me to choose, say, to live a bit further out, or take another job in a place that isn't as easy to get to," said Ms. Cao, the employee at the advertising agency.	"有了这样一辆自行车，或许我就可以选择，比如说，住得更远一点儿，或者在一个交通不那么便利的地方找一份工作，"在广告代理公司工作的曹达垂说。
Analysts in China say there are three factors behind the sudden surge: a	中国的分析人士称，共享单车异军突起背后有三个因素：大量寻找去处的资

lot of cash looking for a home, a good idea and government support.	金，一个好创意，以及政府的支持。
Since March 2015, two industry leaders — Mobike and Ofo — have attracted about $750 million in private investment from China and overseas, the bulk of it in recent months, according to Ofo and Caixin, a financial magazine.	来自 Ofo 和财经杂志《财新》的数据显示，2015 年 3 月以来，两个行业领导者——摩拜和 Ofo——从国内外吸引到了约 7.5 亿美元私人投资，其中很大一部分是近期募得的。
But easy money is only part of the story, according to Wang Chenxi of Analysys, a Chinese data and analysis firm. “Behind this is the push of capital, but shared bikes are a good product,” Ms. Wang said in an interview via WeChat, a messaging app. “Capital needs an outlet, and just at that moment, shared bikes came along.”	但中国数据及分析公司易观的分析员王晨曦（音）认为，容易找到钱只是这个故事的一部分。“这背后是资本的推动，但共享单车是一个好产品，”王晨曦通过通讯应用微信接受采访时说。“资本需要一个出口，就在这时候，共享单车来了。”
Ms. Cai, the Ofo spokeswoman, said the company thought that as the city’s population grew, and traffic jams got worse, “shared bikes could solve the ‘last mile’ problem in an environmentally friendly way.”	Ofo 的女发言人安吉拉·蔡说，该公司认为，在北京人口的日益增长和交通状况继续恶化之际，“共享单车能以一种环境友好型方式解决‘最后一公里’问题。”
Another important reason for the speed and scale of the investment in the bike-sharing start-ups is government support, said Lin Chen, a professor at the China Europe International Business School, which is based in Shanghai. “Capital only goes quickly to industries that the government supports,” she said.	上海的中欧国际商学院的教授林宸（音）说，为共享单车初创企业带来当前投资速度和规模的另一个因素是政府的支持。“只有政府支持一个行业，资本才会快速涌入，”她说。
The bikes have become so popular so quickly that they have also led to questions in Chinese media of an industry bubble and predictions of a battle for market share among the different start-ups, like what happened among ride-hailing companies in China. Uber China ultimately sold itself to its fiercest rival there, Didi Chuxing.	共享单车在如此短的时间里变得如此受欢迎，引得一些中国媒体连连质疑这个行业存在泡沫，并预言不同创业公司之间免不了要开展市场份额争夺战，类似的情形曾发生在中国的召车公司身上。最后，优步中国(Uber China)把自己卖给了跟它在中国斗得最凶的对手滴滴出行。
A recent headline on the Chinese portal sohu.com asked: “Are the recently extremely popular shared bikes a bubble, or the next Didi?”	中国门户网站搜狐最近一篇文章的标题这样问道：最近特别火的共享单车，是商业泡沫还是下一个滴滴？

Among frequent users of the bikes, they provoke a tangible sense of enthusiasm — even glee.	共享单车在经常使用它们的人当中激起了一种看得见摸得着的热情——甚至是兴高采烈之感。
One recent afternoon, Feng Yuqin, 70, used her smartphone to unlock a bike parked on a sidewalk near Ms. Cao's office. She said that she used to ride either her own pedal bike or her electric bike to the park to exercise, but that the bikes had been stolen a few times.	不久前的一个午后，现年70岁的冯玉琴（音）使用智能手机，给停放在曹达垂的办公室附近人行道上的一辆单车解了锁。她说她以前常常骑着自己的脚踏车或电动自行车去公园锻炼，但车子被盗过好几次。
"With these, there's no loss," she said. "It makes me really happy!"	"有了这些单车，就不会再遭受损失了，"她说。"这让我很高兴！"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170320/beijing-bike-sharing	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170320/beijing-bike-sharing
Tai Chi Encourages Calm. So Why Are Its Chinese Fans Stressing Out?	太极拳申遗何时成功？中国人很着急
BEIJING — Last year, Indian yoga made Unesco's list. In 2011, South Korea's taekkyeon became the first martial art so honored.	北京——去年，印度瑜伽被列入联合国教科文组织的名录。2011年，韩国的跆拳道成为首个获此殊荣的武术项目。
So why can't Chinese tai chi win similar international recognition?	那么，中国的太极拳为何无法赢得类似的国际认可？
That is the question on Yan Shuangjun's mind as the annual deadline approaches for nominations to Unesco's Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity list, established by the United Nations agency to celebrate and protect the world's cultural diversity. For the past decade, Mr. Yan has lobbied for the inclusion of tai chi, a centuries-old martial art that combines flowing movements with deep breathing and meditation.	随着一年一度申请列入联合国教科文组织的人类非物质文化遗产名录的最后期限临近，严双军一直在脑海里想这个问题。该名录由联合国教科文组织制定，旨在颂扬和保护全世界的文化多样性。过去十年里，严双军一直四处游说，希望把太极列入该名录。太极是一种有数百年历史的武术，把如行云流水般的动作与深呼吸和冥想结合在了一起。
"Through tai chi, one can understand Chinese culture, from medicine to literature, from philosophy to art," said Mr. Yan, who heads the Tai Chi Unesco Heritage Application Group in Wen County, Henan Province, widely thought to be the martial art's birthplace.	"通过太极，可以了解中国文化，从医学到文学，从哲学到艺术，"河南省温县太极拳申报人类非物质文化遗产领导小组副组长严双军说。温县普遍被认为是太极的发源地。
As much as tai chi advocates and fans insist that it embodies unique aspects of Chinese culture, they fear that if China does not secure it a Unesco listing, other countries might move ahead with their own	虽然太极拳的支持者和爱好者坚称太极体现了中国文化独一无二的方面，但他们担心，如果中国不能让太极进入联合国教科文组织的名录，其他国家可能会推动它们自己的版本申遗。他们说，已经有过先例了。

variants. It would not be the first time, they say.
Although tai chi may have its roots in self-defense, in recent years it has gained broad popularity as a therapeutic exercise, promoting physical fitness while reducing stress. Across China and beyond, its practitioners can be seen gathered in parks and other public spaces, moving slowly in unison through prescribed routines.	尽管太极拳或许起源于防身的需要，但近年来，它广受欢迎，被当成了一种有益健康的锻炼，既能促进身体健康，又能减轻压力。在全中国甚至国外，都能看到练习太极拳的人聚集在公园或其他公共场所，整齐划一地慢慢做完规定的动作。
But that very popularity is adding to its advocates' concerns. During the recently concluded session of the National People's Congress, a delegate from Henan, Zhang Liyong, stressed the urgency of the matter.	但正是受欢迎这一点，增加了太极拳支持者的担忧。在前不久闭幕的全国人民代表大会会议上，来自河南的代表张立勇强调了此事的紧迫性。
"Both South Korea and Japan are competing with us to get tai chi registered," Mr. Zhang told reporters. "Especially South Korea. Some people there are claiming tai chi was invented by Koreans. And since South Korea has already registered the Dragon Boat Festival as theirs, we should be alarmed."	"韩国、日本等国都在'抢报'太极拳申遗，"张立勇对记者说。"尤其是韩国，通过媒体到处散布'太极拳的创始人是张三丰，张三丰是辽东济州岛人，济州岛属于韩国'等不实言论，韩国已经把我们的端午节和拔河都申请为他们的非物质文化遗产，应引起我们高度警觉。"
China's Dragon Boat Festival commemorates the ancient poet Qu Yuan with boat races and a public holiday. When Unesco added South Korea's Gangneung Danoje Festival to its list in 2008, some Chinese objected that it was derived from the Dragon Boat Festival and accused the United Nations of endorsing Koreans' appropriation of Chinese culture. The Chinese festival was accepted in 2009.	中国的端午节用赛龙舟和设立公共假日的方式纪念古代诗人屈原。当2008年联合国教科文组织把韩国的江陵端午祭列入非物质文化遗产名录时，一些中国人提出反对，称其发源于中国的端午节，并指责联合国支持韩国侵占中国文化。2009年，中国端午节被纳入名录。
Recognition confers prestige rather than a monetary prize. But that prestige means a lot to Mr. Yan. So far, he has not heard whether the Chinese government will nominate tai chi, and he says he is getting anxious. The deadline is March 31.	得到认可只会带来声望，而非经济回报。但对严双军来说，这种声望意义重大。截至目前，他还没听说中国政府会否申报太极。他说自己很焦虑。申报的截止日期是3月31日。

"No news is bad news," he said.	"没有消息就是坏消息,"他说。
When China drew up its own national intangible cultural heritage list in 2006, tai chi was on it. And in 2008, tai chi was among China's 35 nominations to Unesco. But Mr. Yan and his associates were told that Unesco found the application "too vague." They were asked to revise and resubmit it.	中国 2006 年制定自其国家非物质文化遗产名录时,太极拳名列其中。2008 年,太极是中国向联合国教科文组织申报的 35 个项目中的一个。但严双军和同伴被告知,教科文组织觉得申报材料"太模糊"。他们被要求进行修改并重新申报。
They withdrew it, hoping to offer it for consideration the next year. But then the rules changed. No country could submit more than two candidates. Tai chi was shut out when China nominated Peking opera and acupuncture, both of which won Unesco recognition.	于是,他们收回申请,希望第二年再申报。但后来,规则变了。所有国家的申报项目都不得超过两项。太极拳被排除在外,中国申报了京剧和中医针灸,它们都得到了教科文组织的认可。
"Since then," Mr. Yan lamented, "tai chi has never stood out on the long list of Chinese heritage items waiting for inclusion."	"从那以后,"严双军哀叹道,"在一长串等着申遗的中国文化遗产中,太极拳就再也没有引起过注意。"
Among the items that have won Unesco recognition for China in recent years are shadow puppetry and mathematical calculations based on the abacus.	近年来,中国获得教科文组织认可的项目包括皮影戏和珠算。
The nominations are submitted to Unesco by the Ministry of Culture's intangible cultural heritage center. Reached by telephone, a researcher at the center, who declined to give her name, said it would not be convenient to discuss which candidates would be put forward this year.	申报由文化部的非物质文化遗产保护中心向联合国教科文组织提交。接到电话时,该机构一名不愿透露姓名的研究员说不方便讨论今年会申报哪些项目。
Zhang Jian, a 57-year-old tai chi master in Beijing, said it would be a shame if tai chi failed again to be nominated.	北京 57 岁的太极拳师傅张见说,如果又没报上去,就太遗憾了。
"When people talk about kung fu, they usually think of the Shaolin Temple," Mr. Zhang said, referring to the temple and its monks in Dengfeng County, Henan Province, popularized in martial arts movies. "But Shaolin kung fu is more about performance. Tai chi is different. It's	"说到功夫,人们往往会想到少林寺,"张见说。他指的是河南省登封的那座寺庙和里面的僧侣,武打片让他们出了名。"但少林功夫更多的是为了表演。太极拳不一样。它完全是为了个人练习,应该受到更多关注。"

all about personal practice and deserves more attention.”
Mr. Yan said he would keep up the campaign to win wider global recognition for Chinese tai chi.	严双军说他会继续努力，争取让中国太极拳在全球获得更广泛的认可。
“Compared with many other aspects of Chinese culture, tai chi is relatively practical and could help China expand its soft power,” he said. “Even our astronauts practiced tai chi, so we’ve already made it into outer space!”	“相比于中国文化的其他很多方面，太极拳相对实用，能帮助中国提升软实力，”他说。“就连我们的宇航员都练太极，所以说我们已经让它进入外太空了！”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170321/china-tai-chi-unesco	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170321/china-tai-chi-unesco
Printing the Ancient Way Keeps Buddhist Texts Alive in Tibet	在德格印经院，古法印刻让藏文佛典传承不息
DERGE, China — The dozen or so Tibetan men wearing aprons sat in pairs in low chairs. Each pair bent over a thin rectangular wooden block and worked by sunlight streaming into the second-story room open to a courtyard.	中国德格——十几名穿着围裙的藏族男子一对一地坐在低椅子上。每一对都在弯着身子工作，他们眼前有一片薄的长方形木板，给他们照明的阳光透过窗户洒在这个与庭院相连的二楼房间里。
Their hands moved quickly. Over and over they went through the same motions, several times each minute: One man slathered red or black ink on the block, which was carved with Tibetan words and religious images. Then his partner placed a thin piece of white paper atop the block and, bending even lower, ran a roller over it. Seconds later, he whipped off the paper and put it aside to dry.	他们的双手在很快地活动着。一次又一次地重复着相同的动作，每分钟好几次：其中一人给木板涂上红色或黑色的墨水，木板上刻有藏文和宗教图像。之后，他的搭档把一张薄薄的白纸盖在板上，把身子弯得更低，用一个滚筒从纸的背面刷过。几秒钟后，他快速取下那张纸，把它放在一边晾干。
That bending was an act of prostration to the Buddha, said Pema Chujen, a Tibetan woman who was leading a group of ethnic Han visitors around the monastery. I stood at the back of the tour, having walked into the monastery during a two-week road trip across this part of Tibet.	那个弯腰动作是在拜佛，白玛楚珍（Pema Chujen，音）说，这位藏族女子正带领着一群汉族游客参观这座寺院。我跟在旅游团的后边走了进来，这是我在这个藏区的两周公路旅行的一站。
“They are like this every day,” she said. “This is just the faith in their	“他们每天都是这样，”她说。“这是他们心中的信仰。当然，用很多钱来祭奉

hearts. Of course, it's good to make offerings to the Buddha using a lot of money, but it's more faithful to make offerings using your body, mouth and mind."	佛陀也不错，但是用你的身、口、心来祭奉更忠诚。”
So went a typical afternoon in one of the most revered institutions in the Tibetan world, the Parkhang printing lamasery in the mountainous heart of the Kham region. On Chinese maps, it is in the far west of Sichuan Province, across the Cho La, a vertiginous pass at 16,600 feet.	这是这个藏传佛教世界最受尊敬机构之一的一个典型下午，这个寺院是位于康区腹地的德格印经院。在中国版图上，康区位于四川省的最西部，到那里需要穿越海拔 5000 多米的险峻的 Cho La 山口。
The press, in the town of Derge, dates to 1729 and draws pilgrims from across the Tibetan plateau to the three-story monastery, its walls painted scarlet and with golden Buddhist icons on the roof.	这座位于德格镇的印经院始于 1729 年，它吸引着来自青藏高原各地的朝圣者，寺院建筑高三层，外墙深红色，屋顶下有金色的佛像。
The printing press is the embodiment of a hallowed tradition and is one site where the Tibetan language is being preserved, despite the lack of immersive Tibetan-language education on the plateau. It has more than 320,000 wooden printing blocks that are on average more than 260 years old, said Ms. Pema, a volunteer who cleans the monastery's objects and guides visitors.	印经院使用的印刷术是一种神圣传统的实例，这里也是藏文得以保护的地方之一，尽管沉浸式的藏语教育已在整个青藏高原消失。白玛说，印经院里有 32 万余块木刻古印版，印版的平均年龄超过 260 年。白玛在寺院当义务清洁工，也当导游。
The monastery also houses venerable collections of sutras, including 830 classic scriptures and copies of more than 70 percent of ancient Tibetan manuscripts, she said. The founder of the monastery, Chokyi Tenpa Tsering, embraced works from the range of Tibetan Buddhist schools.	寺院里还有古典经文收藏，其中包括 830 卷古典经文和藏文古籍抄本的 70%，她说。寺院的创始人却吉·丹巴泽仁(Chokyi Tenpa Tsering)搜集了来自不同藏传佛教学派的文本。
"He was very open minded, like the ocean containing water from all rivers," she said.	“他思想开放，就像大海能包容来自所有河流的水那样，”她说。
Besides trying to preserve the old blocks, the printing house has been making new ones since the 1980s. A decade from now, it is expected to	除了保存古印版的努力之外，印经院自从 20 世纪 80 年代起一直在刻制新印版。白玛说，估计十年后，这里的印版数量将达到 40 万块。

have 400,000 blocks, Ms. Pema said.
The printing blocks are constructed from red birchwood in 13 steps. At an early stage, the raw pieces of wood have to be soaked in feces for a half-year. Those that do not crack or break during this period are then made into printing blocks, Ms. Pema said. This ensures the blocks that are used will endure — able to withstand the bites of rats and insects, among other hazards.	印版以红桦木为材料，经过 13 个步骤制作而成。在制作过程的早期，原料木材须在粪池中浸泡半年。经过这个过程而不出现裂纹或破裂的木材才被刻制成印版，白玛说。这就确保了木刻印版可以长期保存，能够抵御被老鼠和昆虫蚕食及其他危害。
The printing operations employ about 60 people. The men have been here for two decades on average, despite low pay, Ms. Pema said. Each day, they print about 2,500 pieces of paper, on both sides, for distribution across the Tibetan plateau.	印经工作雇用约 60 人。白玛说，尽管工资很低，这些男子平均已在这里工作了二十年。他们每天印约 2500 页纸，每页纸都是双面印刷，然后装订分发到青藏高原各地。
At its height, the press employed more than 500 people, and almost all were monks from the neighboring Gonchen Monastery. These days, the printers are laypeople.	在印经院最繁忙的时期，这里曾雇用过 500 多人，几乎所有的工人都是来自附近 Gonchen 寺院的僧人。这些日子里，印刷工人都是普通人。
The monastery is a warren of hallways and rooms. On the third floor, a few men sat in a small, dark room. Here they made simple thangkas, large hangings with Buddhist iconography.	印经院里的通道狭窄、房间不大。几名男子坐在三楼一间阴暗的房间里。他们在那里制做简单的“唐卡”，这是一种以佛教图像为题材的大挂图。
Hanging from a string were thangkas showing popular aspects of the pantheon: the seated Sakyamuni Buddha, the fingers of one hand touching the earth; Medicine Buddha, holding a bowl; Mahakala, the fierce protector deity that appears in paintings as a blue, multiarmed, fanged demon.	一根绳子上悬挂的几幅“唐卡”展示着佛教神殿里常见的东西：手指触摸土地的释迦牟尼坐像，手持衣钵的药师佛，还有在绘画中表现为蓝色、多臂、长着长牙的恶魔的大黑天护法神。
In one corner of the room, an abbot sat discussing a text with one of the printers.	在房间的一个角落里，一名坐着的长老正与一名印经工人讨论印的东西。
A few feet away, a tall Tibetan man in a black Arc'teryx jacket pointed	几米之外，一位身穿黑色 Arc'teryx 外衣的高个子藏人把房间里的几件东西

out items in the room to a friend. He was Chime Dorje, a prominent doctor and advocate of traditional medicine who ran a clinic in the town center.	指给朋友看。他叫奇美多杰 (Chime Dorje, 音), 是一位有名的藏医, 也是传统医学的倡导者, 他在镇中心有一家诊所。
He said the monks here had once operated a clinic. Now he and others were the inheritors of the tradition. Like the printing process here, the practice of Tibetan medicine had managed to survive the Mao era and the advent of a quasi-market economy.	他说, 这里的僧人曾经开过诊所。如今, 他和其他人是那个传统的继承者。与这里的印刷技术一样, 藏医传统在经历了毛泽东时代和准市场经济后幸存了下来。
"There were myths that Tibetan medicine contained a large amount of mercury and lead, but actually its ingredients are just normal," he told me. "Some theoretical studies have also proven that Tibetan medicine is scientific."	"有些荒诞的说法称, 藏药里含有大量的汞和铅, 但实际上, 藏药的成分很正常," 他对我说。"有些理论研究也证明藏医是科学的。"
Outside, pilgrims walked around the building to complete a kora, or holy circuit. Old women spun hand-held prayer wheels and hobbled along with walking sticks. The monastery was one of three pilgrimage sites in the Tibetan world that represented the body, mouth and mind of the Buddha, Ms. Pema said.	外面, 朝圣者在环绕寺院走转经。老年妇女手中的转经轮不定地旋转着, 她们拄着拐棍蹒跚而行。这个印经院是藏传佛教中分别代表佛陀身、口、心的三个朝圣地之一, 白玛说。
One visitor, Sonam, said he saw more traditional dress in Derge than anywhere else in the region. He pointed to women circling the monastery with coral and turquoise stones entwined into braids in their hair. "They have money," he said.	一位名叫 Sonam 的游客说, 他在德格看到的穿传统服装的人比这个地区其他地方的要多。他用手指着在印经院外转经的女子说, "她们有钱", 这些女子梳的辫子里有珊瑚和绿松石等宝石。
Chanting emanated from loudspeakers. In hills to the east of the monastery were clusters of red, three-story wooden homes, a traditional design in the region.	扬声器里传来了念经的声音。印经院东边的山脚下, 有一群红色的三层木制房屋, 这是该地区的一种传统建筑。
Even if the scene around the monastery evoked ancient customs, the town did not. Modern five-story buildings lined the valley walls along	虽然寺院周围的风景唤起了人们对古老风俗的回想, 但镇子本身却没有一点特色。五层高的现代建筑在山谷里沿河排列着。黄色的起重机高耸在地平线

the river. Yellow construction cranes loomed above the skyline, a sight typical of cities big and small across China. At night, neon signs glowed.	上, 这种景象在中国各地的大小城市中很常见。夜晚, 到处都闪烁着霓虹灯。
Katia Buffetrille, a scholar of Tibet at the École Pratique des Hautes Études in Paris, said the sprawl of the town had surprised her when she visited last year. She had last come here three decades earlier.	巴黎索邦大学高等社科院藏学学者卡提娅·布菲特里耶(Katia Buffetrille)说, 去年访问时, 这个镇子摊大饼式的发展令她非常惊讶。她曾在 30 年多前来过这里。
The monastery was in bad shape in 1985, she said. But the printing press was functioning back then, years after the end of the destructive Cultural Revolution.	她说, 1985 年时, 印经院处于失修的状态。但当时, 人们仍在用传统方法从事印刷, 那是在毁灭性的文化大革命结束后不久。
"The operations of the printing press are today similar to what they were in 1985," Ms. Buffetrille said. "It's amazing how many pages they print every day."	"如今的印刷操作与 1985 年的非常相似," 布菲特里耶说。"他们每天能印出那么多页纸, 令人惊讶。"
"That can explain the bad quality of the printing sometimes," she added.	"这也能解释为什么印刷质量有时很差的问题," 她补充说。
But the traditions endure. On the afternoon I visited, in a monastic building uphill from the printing press, monks held a dharma ceremony, which they do every few weeks. One monk walked around a crowded courtyard sprinkling drops of water on worshipers. Others sat on a dais at the front, reading aloud from scriptures that had been printed by hand next door.	但传统仍在继续。在我去参观的那个下午, 离印经院不远的山坡上, 僧人们正在一座寺庙建筑里举行一个达摩仪式, 他们每隔几周就举行一次。一名僧人在一个拥挤的庭院里来回走动, 边走边向前来朝拜的人洒着圣水。还有人坐在前面的台子上大声朗读经文, 这些经文就是隔壁印经院手工印制的。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170322/tibet-derge-parkhang-buddhist-texts-ancient-printing-press	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170322/tibet-derge-parkhang-buddhist-texts-ancient-printing-press
A.I. Expert at Baidu, Andrew Ng, Resigns From Chinese Search Giant	百度失去一位技术精英, AI 科学家吴恩达离职
HONG KONG — In 2014, Baidu announced a hiring coup in the world of artificial intelligence: It had brought in the Stanford and Google alumnus Andrew Ng to lead a new research lab in Silicon Valley.	香港——2014 年, 百度宣布招聘到了人工智能领域一位不可多得的人才: 曾在斯坦福大学和谷歌工作的吴恩达(Andrew Ng), 他将领导新成立的百度硅谷实验室。
Just under three years later, Mr. Ng said in a blog post on Tuesday that	在还不到三年之后的本周二, 吴恩达在一篇博文中说, 他即将离开这家中国

he was leaving the Chinese search engine company.	搜索引擎公司。
His departure is a blow to Baidu, which has been betting big on artificial intelligence, a technology that is expected to undergird a range of others, like voice recognition and driverless cars.	他的离职对百度来说是个打击，百度一直在人工智能（简称 AI）方面大力投资，该技术预计会为诸如语音识别、无人驾驶汽车等其他技术打下基础。
In a post on Facebook and Twitter, Baidu said: "Andrew Ng joined Baidu with a shared goal, to improve life through artificial intelligence. Today, that goal remains strong. Thank you, and all the best on your new chapter!"	百度在 Facebook 和 Twitter 上发的一个帖子中说：“恩达加入百度是因为我们对人工智能的未来有着共同美好的追求。即使今天分别，我们仍有着一致的目标。感谢恩达，并祝他未来取得更大成就！”
The company now has more than 1,300 employees dedicated to A.I. In a signal of just how critical the efforts are to the company, it said in January that it had hired Qi Lu, a former executive at Microsoft and an A.I. specialist, to become the chief operating officer.	百度目前有 1300 多名员工投入到人工智能领域。这些努力对公司来说有多么重要的一个信号是，公司今年 1 月表示，已聘请了微软前高管、人工智能专家陆奇担任公司首席运营官。
Mr. Ng's announcement comes after the technology executive Hugo Barra left Xiaomi, a Chinese phone maker and e-commerce company, for Facebook. Mr. Ng and Mr. Barra were viewed as part of a nascent trend of Silicon Valley executives jumping to well-funded Chinese internet companies. They seemed to represent a new era of closer ties, and competition, between America's tech giants and China's.	吴恩达的宣布出来之前，中国手机制造商和电子商务公司小米的技术执行官雨果·巴拉(Hugo Barra)宣布离开小米，加盟 Facebook。吴恩达和巴拉曾被视为是硅谷高管跳槽资金丰厚的中国互联网公司这一新兴趋势的一部分。他们似乎代表了美国技术巨头与中国技术巨头之间更紧密联系、更激烈竞争的新时代。
The resignations underline how that trend never materialized. Few American tech executives followed them, and China's internet behemoths remain mostly focused on their home markets.	他们两人的离职表明，这个趋势并未真正成为现实。没有几位美国技术主管步他们的后尘，而且中国互联网巨头的主要精力仍集中在国内市场上。
Even so, analysts say, the Chinese companies have grown ever more innovative, particularly in A.I. For instance, last year when Microsoft researchers declared they had created software capable of matching human skills in understanding speech, Mr. Ng chided Microsoft,	分析人士表示，即使如此，中国企业在创新方面已越来越强，尤其是在人工智能领域。比如，当微软研究人员去年宣称，他们开发出了语言理解能力与人类相当的软件后，吴恩达批评了微软，指出百度在 2015 年就已取得了类似的成就。

pointing out that Baidu had achieved a similar feat in 2015.
In his post on Tuesday, Mr. Ng struck a positive note: "Baidu's A.I. is incredibly strong, and the team is stacked up and down with talent; I am confident A.I. at Baidu will continue to flourish."	吴恩达在周二的帖子中对前景表示乐观：“百度在 AI 方面非常强大，整个队伍人才济济；我对百度将继续在 AI 方面蓬勃发展充满信心。”
Mr. Ng wrote that he would continue working to ensure A.I. made "life better for everyone." He wrote that he saw the technology's impact going far beyond large tech companies like Google and Baidu.	吴恩达写道，他将为确保人工智能让“每个人的生活更美好”这个目标继续努力。他写道，在自己眼里，该技术的影响远远超过谷歌和百度等大型技术公司。
"In addition to transforming large companies to use A.I., there are also rich opportunities for entrepreneurship as well as further A.I. research."	“除了把大公司转变为使用 AI 之外，丰富的机会也在等待着创业者和进一步的 AI 研究。”
Mr. Ng is part of a still-small coterie of researchers who are experts in deep learning, a branch of artificial intelligence that seeks to use computers to emulate the functions of the human brain. During his time at Baidu, Mr. Ng said the lab at Silicon Valley had helped create two different business units, one that works on speech recognition and another focused on driverless cars.	吴恩达属于 AI 领域中一个仍然不大的研究圈子，这个圈子里的人都是深度学习的专家，深度学习是人工智能的一个分支，试图用计算机来模拟人脑的功能。吴恩达在百度工作期间曾表示，百度硅谷实验室帮助公司建立了两个不同的业务部门，其中一个致力于语音识别，另一个专注于无人驾驶汽车。
As China's most dominant search engine, Baidu has long had a lock on a profitable section of online advertising. Yet as more Chinese consumers picked up smartphones, the company has struggled to keep its hold on ad spending. In a bid to surpass its rivals, the company has poured money into A.I. technology that executives say will support next-generation products.	百度作为中国最大的搜索引擎，早就在有利可图的在线广告市场有可靠的收入。但是，随着越来越多的中国消费者开始使用智能手机，百度不得不在维持广告收入上不断努力。为了超越竞争对手，公司已在人工智能方面投了大钱，公司的管理层认为 AI 技术将支持下一代的产品。
Mr. Ng wrote that the lab he helped start and is now leaving is working on many of those technologies, "such as face-recognition (used in turnstiles that open automatically when an authorized person approaches), Melody (an A.I.-powered conversational bot for health	吴恩达写道，他帮助成立并即将离开的实验室正在开发许多这方面的技术，“例如，人脸识别（用于在已被授权的人走近时自动打开的旋转门），Melody（医疗保健方面一个以 AI 为后盾的对话机器）等等。”

care) and several more.”
“As the principal architect of Baidu’s A.I. strategy, I am proud to have led the incredible rise of A.I. within the company,” he wrote.	“作为百度 AI 战略的首席架构师，我为领导了公司在 AI 方面令人难以置信的兴起感到自豪，”他写道。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170323/baidu-artificial-intelligence-andrew-ng	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170323/baidu-artificial-intelligence-andrew-ng
At Asia’s Hottest Art Fair, Taking Selfies With a Mao ‘Corpse’	在香港艺术展上，和毛泽东的“尸体”来个自拍
HONG KONG — It’s not every day that you get to take a selfie with Mao Zedong’s corpse. So at the fifth edition of Art Basel Hong Kong, which runs through Saturday, spectators were seizing the chance to do just that, posing with an eerily lifelike model of a gray-haired Mao on display in a clear coffin.	香港——和毛泽东的尸体一起自拍的机会，不是每天都有的。所以本周末结束的第五届香港巴塞尔艺术展上，观众们抓住机会，在一个透明棺材前摆出姿势，和栩栩如生、头发灰白的毛泽东模型一起自拍。
The model was part of the 2009 work “Summit,” by the Chinese artist Shen Shaomin. Arranged beside Mao were several other Communist strongmen: Ho Chi Minh, Kim Il-Sung, Fidel Castro and Vladimir Lenin. The installation, presented by Osage Gallery in the fair’s Encounters section, is a stark reminder that in this perfectly lit bubble of expensive art and Champagne, political realities are never too far away.	该模型是中国艺术家沈少民 2009 年作品《峰会》的一部分。毛泽东身边还有其他几位共产主义者：胡志明、金日成、菲德尔·卡斯特罗和弗拉基米尔·列宁。奥沙画廊(Osage Gallery)在展览会的艺聚空间(Encounters)摆放了这个装置作品，它是一个引人瞩目的提醒：在昂贵的艺术品和香槟吹起的完美泡泡里，政治现实永远不会离得太远。
Ahead of this year’s fair, dealers from the 242 participating galleries had voiced a number of concerns, like the coming election for Hong Kong’s chief executive and the overall global uncertainty stemming from Brexit and last year’s American presidential election. Another issue was the increasing capital controls in China, currently the world’s third-largest art market, according to a new report released by Art Basel and UBS on Wednesday.	在今年的展会举办之前，来自 242 个参展画廊的经销商已经表达了一些担忧，例如香港特首选举即将来临，以及去年英国脱欧、美国总统大选带来的全球不确定性。另外还有一个问题，巴塞尔艺术展和瑞银周三公布的新报告称，作为全球第三大艺术市场，中国正在加严资本管制。
Over the last year, China’s financial regulators have stepped up scrutiny	去年，中国金融监管机构加大了对中国个人外汇交易和海外投资的监督力

on foreign exchange transactions and overseas investments by Chinese individuals as part of an effort to stem the depreciation pressure on China's currency, the renminbi.	度，缓解人民币贬值压力。
The growing scrutiny of capital outflows has forced many mainland Chinese collectors to find ways to circumvent the currency controls. And while there continue to be workarounds, it has led some to think twice about their art purchases abroad – a worrying development for many Western dealers.	外流资金面临越来越多的审视，迫使中国大陆的很多收藏家要想办法绕开货币管制。虽然一直存在变通的方法，但一些人在境外购买艺术品时也会多考虑一下，对于很多西方经销商来说，这一点令人担忧。
"Two years ago, it wasn't a problem," said Liu Gang, a collector in Beijing. "But then, last year, I bought $300,000 of art at the fair and I couldn't remit directly to the gallery, so I sent renminbi to a friend, who helped me settle it abroad."	"两年前，这还不是问题，"北京收藏家刘刚（音）说。"但是去年，我在展会上买了30万美元的艺术品，不能直接汇钱到画廊，所以我把人民币汇给一位朋友，帮我在国外付款。"
"The value of the renminbi is under pressure," Mr. Liu added. "It's hard to predict when the policies will change."	"人民币的价值面临着压力，"刘刚表示。"很难预测政策何时会改变。"
It's an issue that many dealers said they were watching, coming into this year's fair. Marc Glimcher, the president of Pace Gallery, for example, said that opening a new space in Seoul this month to diversify further the gallery's collector base in Asia was "probably a gut reaction" to that concern.	参加今年展会的很多经销商都表示，他们正在关注这个问题。例如，佩斯画廊(Pace Gallery)总裁马克·格利姆彻(Marc Glimcher)表示，本月他们在首尔开设新空间，进一步多元化画廊在亚洲的收藏家队伍，这可能是对该担忧的"直觉反应"。
"It's a tough time in Beijing," he said.	他说："北京现在面临困难。"
But after just a few hours of brisk deal-making on the floor of the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Center on Tuesday, any lingering worries appeared to be temporarily assuaged.	但是周二，在香港会议展览中心，经过短短几个小时的交易后，所有的担忧似乎都被暂时抛到了一边。
"The fair feels strong this year," said Lieselotte Seaton, sales director at Sadie Coles HQ in London. "I thought the currency controls in China	"今年的展会感觉势头很好，"伦敦萨迪·科尔斯画廊(Sadie Coles HQ)的销售总监莉泽洛特·西顿(Lieselotte Seaton)表示。"我原本认为中国的货币管制会

would be a major issue, but it hasn't been, really, and it certainly hasn't stopped the Chinese collectors from coming out."	是个严重问题，但事实并非如此，它绝对没有阻止中国收藏家花钱。”
That may be because in the five years since Art Basel first began in Hong Kong, it has become perhaps the most important annual event on the regional art calendar. While it may not have the star power of Art Basel Miami or the gravitas of Art Basel in Switzerland, dealers and collectors agree: When it comes to Asian art, Art Basel Hong Kong is the place to go.	那可能是因为巴塞尔艺术展五年前在香港开办以来，已经成为了该区域艺术活动中或许是最重要的年度盛事。尽管不如迈阿密巴塞尔艺术展、瑞士巴塞尔艺术展那么耀眼闪亮，但经销商和收藏家同样认为：对于亚洲艺术，香港巴塞尔艺术展是你的首选。
"It's still the best opportunity to learn and discover new trends and artists in the region," said the art dealer Jeffrey Deitch. "And every year I always make sure to add on an extra stop like Manila or Shanghai, so I can go deeper into what I'm seeing here."	“它仍然是学习和发现该地区新趋势和艺术家的最佳机会，”艺术品经销商杰弗里·戴伊奇(Jeffrey Deitch)表示，“而且每年我总是会增加一个新站点，比如马尼拉或上海，这样我可以更深入地了解我在这里看到的東西。”
The opportunity for learning goes in both directions. For many Asian collectors, Art Basel Hong Kong is also an opportunity to discover Western artists. Local collectors noted that after several years of participating in the fair, the Western galleries had become more confident and more willing to take risks, bringing high-quality masterpieces as well as works by emerging artists. The days of pandering to the perceived tastes of Asian collectors, they said, seemed to be over.	了解的机会是双向的。对于很多亚洲收藏家来说，巴塞尔艺术博览会也是发掘西方艺术家的机会。当地收藏家指出，参展几年后，西方画廊变得更加自信，更愿意承担风险，不仅带来新兴艺术家的作品，也带来了高品质的杰作。他们表示，迎合亚洲收藏家的口味的阶段似乎已经结束。
"Over all, the Western galleries seem much more poised," said Adrian Cheng, a prominent Hong Kong collector and the scion of a multibillion-dollar real estate and retail empire. "They aren't fidgeting anymore, like in the first few years; they really know what the Asian collectors want."	“总而言之，西方画廊似乎更加有备而来。”香港著名收藏家、身家亿万的地产业和零售大亨郑志刚(Adrian Cheng)表示：“他们不像以前几年那样慌乱，他们真的知道亚洲收藏家想要什么了。”

By the end of the first day, dealers were reporting strong interest from collectors. Ever the optimists, many noted that, as is typical of the fair here, collectors were taking their time to learn about the artists, putting down reserves and finalizing the purchases later.	第一天即将结束时，交易商们纷纷表示藏家表现出强烈的兴趣。许多向来乐观的交易商指出，跟这个展会以往的情况一样，藏家们花比较多时间了解这些艺术家，交下定金，之后再完成交易。
Nonetheless, the fair had a steady stream of sales. Pace sold a number of works, including a Robert Rauschenberg and a Yoshitomo Nara, each for $2.5 million. Hauser & Wirth had several seven-figure sales, including that of a Frank Auerbach painting that was placed in a Chinese private collection.	尽管如此，展会依然获得了稳定的交易量。佩斯画廊卖出了不少作品，其中包括一件罗伯特·劳申贝格(Robert Rauschenberg)和一件奈良美智(Yoshitomo Nara), 售价都是 250 万美元。豪泽与沃思画廊(Hauser & Wirth)达成了好几项七位数的交易，其中包括一副弗兰克·奥尔巴赫(Frank Auerbach)的画作，它被放在一个中国私人收藏里。
Sales at the booth shared by Kukje Gallery, from Seoul, and the Tina Kim Gallery, from New York, included two works by Haegue Yang, which each went for $35,000 to $50,000. Lisson Gallery sold works by Ryan Gander and Julian Opie, who both have solo shows in China opening this month. At David Zwirner, two paintings by the artist Luc Tuymans, who was at the fair, sold within the first hour of the event for $1.5 million each.	由来自韩国的画廊国际画廊(Kukje Gallery)和纽约蒂娜-金画廊(Tina Kim Gallery)共享的展位达成的交易包括两件梁慧圭(Haegue Yang)的作品，售价都在 3.5 至 5 万美元。里森画廊(Lisson Gallery)卖出了瑞安·甘德(Ryan Gander)和朱利安·奥培(Julian Opie)的作品，两人本月都有个人展正在中国举行。在卓纳画廊(David Zwirner)的展位上，吕克·图伊曼斯(Luc Tuymans)——本人当时也在展会上——的两幅画作在开展后一小时内就以每幅 150 万美元的价格售出。
Just across the aisle, as the day wound down, Champagne was being poured at Magician Space of Beijing, which reported a number of sales, including a Wu Chen painting sold to Mr. Cheng, the Hong Kong collector, for over $21,000, and a video work by the artist Wang Shang for over $11,000.	随着这一天时间过去，走廊另一端的北京魔金石空间(Magician Space)开始倒起庆祝的香槟。这家画廊公布了不少成交信息，其中包括香港藏家郑志刚以不低于 2.1 万美元买下的一幅武晨的画作，还有以超过 1.1 万美元成交的一件王墒的影像作品。
"It was better than we expected," said Qu Kejie, of Magician Space. "The pace seemed a lot faster than in past years. All of our sales were made in the first two hours."	"情况比我原先预计的更好，"魔金石空间的曲科杰说。"成交速度似乎比往年快很多。我们所有的销售都是在前两个小时完成的。"
The fair has had strong attendance from representatives of major	参加这届展会的还有不少重要的西方博物馆，比如旧金山的亚洲艺术博物馆

Western museums like the Asian Art Museum in San Francisco, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, and the Guggenheim Museum in New York. Exposure to such institutions, said Misa Shin, who runs a gallery in Tokyo, is what makes the fair worthwhile.	(Asian Art Museum)、洛杉矶艺术博物馆(Los Angeles County Museum of Art)和纽约的古根海姆博物馆(Guggenheim Museum)。在东京经营一家画廊的辛美沙(Misa Shin)表示,能接触到这些艺术机构,是这个展会值得一来的地方。
"The fair attracts not just private collectors, but also important museum people, so you can put on a more challenging, more intellectual show," Ms. Shin said, gesturing toward her booth, which featured a collection of vintage photographs by the Japanese artist Hikosaka Naoyoshi.	"这个展会吸引的不仅有私人藏家,也有重要的博物馆人士,因此你可以拿出更具挑战性、更有学养的展览,"辛美沙指着自己的展位说,那里的主要展品是日本艺术家彦坂尚嘉(Hikosaka Naoyoshi)的一批老照片。
But there is no denying the fair's essentially transactional DNA.	但无可否认的是这个展会根本的交易属性。
"Hong Kong is our best Basel fair," said Rita Targui, director of STPI Gallery, in Singapore. "In Basel Basel and in Miami Basel, sales are, of course, good, but it's more about outreach. Here, it's all about sales."	"香港艺术展是我们销售最好的巴塞尔展会,"新加坡 STPI 画廊(STPI Gallery)的总监丽塔·塔尔吉(Rita Targui)说。"在巴塞尔和迈阿密的巴塞尔艺术展上,销售当然也不错,但那些展会主要是宣传展示。在这里,则主要是销售。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170324/at-asias-hottest-art-fair-taking-selfies-with-a-mao-corpse	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170324/at-asias-hottest-art-fair-taking-selfies-with-a-mao-corpse
China to Plant 'Green Necklace' of Trees Around Beijing to Fight Smog	为北京戴上“绿色项链”能解决雾霾问题吗?
Senior Chinese officials have tried tackling their country's chronic air-pollution problem in piecemeal ways — fining some polluting companies, investing in alternative energy sources and ordering lower-level officials to enforce standards, for example.	中国高层官员试过用零星的方式来解决该国长期存在的空气污染问题,例如对一些污染企业处以罚款,投资替代能源,责成下级官员执行标准等等。
To the dismay of many, pollution levels remain among the worst in the world, even if some official statistics point to slight improvements.	令人失望的是,中国污染水平还是处在全球最糟的程度,即便有些官方统计数字显示存在轻微的改善。
Now, officials in Hebei Province, which surrounds Beijing, have decided to create what they call a "green necklace" of trees in hopes of clearing the air. Hebei is filled with coal-powered steel factories and has the most polluted cities in China. The pollution from the factories is	现在,在北京周围的河北省,官员们决定打造一个叫做“绿色项链”的树木带,希望能改善空气质量。河北有大量煤电钢厂,中国污染最严重的一些城市就在该省。这些的工厂排放的污染物是2200万人口大城市北京以及北方的其他地方大部分的雾霾来源。

responsible for much of the smog in Beijing, a city of more than 22 million, and other parts of northern China.
The “green necklace” plan was announced Thursday on the Hebei provincial government website. The announcement referred to details that appeared in a March 15 document about coordinating development in Hebei and Beijing.	“绿色项链”计划是上周四在河北省政府网站上公布的。该计划提到了3月15日河北和北京协调发展文件中的一些细节。
The plan aims to increase forest coverage on the Hebei-Beijing border, in part by tapping into rivers, reservoirs, wetlands and farmland, an official statement said. Though the plan calls for greater wetlands preservation, it does not mention that Beijing suffers from a chronic drought, so there is very little water on which to draw.	官方公告中说，该计划旨在依托河流水系、水库、湿地、田间耕地之类，增加交界地区森林面积。虽然计划要求扩大湿地保护规模，但没有提到北京长期遭受干旱，很少有水可用的问题。
The plan also emphasizes the need for “ventilation corridors” that would channel wind and air movement to help disperse smog. In February 2016, Chinese news organizations reported that Beijing officials were considering creating five giant “ventilation corridors,” each at least 1,500 feet wide, to run through the city and improve air circulation. The reports said officials were also considering constructing an unspecified number of narrower corridors.	该计划还强调需要“通风走廊”，用风和空气流动来驱散雾霾。2016年2月，中国新闻机构报道，北京官员在考虑建立五条大的“通风走廊”，每条至少500米宽，通过城市，改善空气流通。有报道称，还有一些较窄的走廊也正在规划中，具体数目不详。
Earlier that month, the website of the government-controlled China Science Daily, officially called Science Times in English, published an opinion article that said the root cause of the smog in Beijing was declining wind strength. And one of the factors behind that was the planting of trees where none had existed before, the article said.	当月初，政府主办的《中国科学报》在网站上发表文章，称北京雾霾的根本原因是风力衰减。文章说，风力减弱的因素是在原先没有树的地方种植了树木。
That would seem to contradict the official claims that creating a “green necklace” around Beijing would reduce pollution levels.	这似乎与在北京建立“绿色项链”将会降低污染水平的官方说法相矛盾。

China has tried ambitious tree-planting projects before to address environmental problems. The most famous have been in the Inner Mongolia region and other parts of northern China, where people have been ordered or encouraged to plant trees to hold back the spread of the Gobi Desert. Scientists have debated the extent to which those measures help, and deserts have continued expanding in critical regions.	中国已经尝试过用庞大的植树项目来解决环境问题。最有名的是中国北方的内蒙古等地区命令或鼓励人们种植树木，以阻止戈壁沙漠的蔓延。这些措施在多大程度上发挥了作用，科学家中还存在争议，而沙漠仍在重要地区不断扩大。
Some environmental experts say the real solution to the pollution crisis around Beijing and Hebei is to shut down significant numbers of steel factories in the region. Powerful official interests and state-owned enterprises have opposed such moves.	一些环保专家说，对于北京周围和河北省的污染危机，真正有效解决办法是关闭该地区的大量钢铁厂。强大的官方利益集团和国有企业反对这种举措。
On Thursday, Anders Hove, an associate director of research in the Beijing office of the Paulson Institute, which does environmental advocacy work, commented on the "green necklace" plan on Twitter. "Cutting Hebei steel emissions would be both cheaper and faster," Mr. Hove wrote. "But widely perceived as too hard."	周四，做环境倡导工作的保尔森基金会(Paulson Institute)北京办公室研究副总监侯安德(Anders Hove)在 Twitter 上对“绿色项链”计划发表了评论。“削减河北的钢铁厂排放成本更低，速度也更快，”霍夫写道。“但它被普遍认为更难实现。”
Beijing officials have experimented with other approaches on the margins. Last week, Legal Daily, an official publication, reported that police officers in Beijing had detained an employee of a heating company for actions that had led to greater pollution. The man, whose surname was given as Zhao, had overseen the shutdown of desulfurization equipment, the report said.	北京官员也在周边地区尝试了其他一些措施。据官方出版物《法制日报》上周报道，北京警方拘留了一家热力公司的一名员工，原因是参与导致更大污染的行动。报道称这名赵姓男子负责监督让脱硫设备停工的工作。
When an inspection team of police officers and environmental officials visited the plant in western Beijing on March 4, they found that a boiler at the plant emitted more than 10 times the amount of permitted sulfur	据报道，当一个由警察和环保官员组成的检查组于3月4日来到这家位于北京西部的工厂时，他们发现工厂的一个锅炉排放的二氧化硫达到许可量的十倍以上。

dioxide, the report said.
Officials fined the company and interrogated Mr. Zhao, who was detained on March 13 after confessing, the report said.	报道称，官员们对这家公司处以罚款，并对那名赵姓男子进行了审问，后者在供认后于3月13日被拘。
Legal Daily said this was the first time the police had detained a worker under a strengthened environmental protection law that went into effect in January 2015. New regulations listed 23 circumstances under which company employees could be put under administrative detention for causing pollution.	《法制日报》表示，这是一部经过强化的环境保护法于2015年1月生效以来，警方首次拘捕一名工作人员。新法规列举了23种公司员工会因导致污染而被行政拘留的情况。
Alex L. Wang, a law professor at the University of California, Los Angeles, who studies Chinese environmental regulations, said although this case was apparently a first for Beijing, regulators in other parts of the country had been using administrative detention. He cited a study that said there had been at least 2,079 cases nationwide since 2015.	在加州大学洛杉矶分校(University of California, Los Angeles)研究中国环境法规的法学教授王立德(Alex L. Wang)表示，尽管这种案件在北京显然是第一次出现，但其他地区的执法官员一直在使用行政拘留手段。他援引了一项研究，其中显示自2015年以来全国至少有2079起这种案件。
"We need to know much more about how these detentions are being implemented," Mr. Wang said. "As potential penalties increase, the opportunity for police abuse increases. Are there procedural protections in place to protect citizens from state overreach?"	"我们需要更多地了解这种拘留是如何实施的，"王立德说。"随着处罚可能性的增加，警方滥用权力的情况也会增加。他们有没有设置程序保护措施，以防止公民受害于政府越权？"
"We need to know whether these detentions target the right people," he added. "Are these examples of line-level workers being scapegoated for the decisions of their bosses? And in the end, are authorities using their detention powers in a way that actually improves environmental performance?"	"我们需要知道这些拘留行动瞄准的是不是对的人，"他接着讲道。"这些普通级别的员工是在给他们的老板当替罪羊吗？当局这样使用自身的拘留权力到底能不能改善环境状况？"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170324/china-to-plant-green-necklace-of-trees-around-beijing-to-fight-smog	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170324/china-to-plant-green-necklace-of-trees-around-beijing-to-fight-smog
As Hong Kong Chooses Its Next Leader, China Still Pulls the Strings	香港特首选举在即，亲北京派获胜几无悬念

HONG KONG — For the fifth time in the two decades since this former British colony’s return to Chinese rule, Hong Kong’s next chief executive will be selected on Sunday by a committee stacked with supporters of the Chinese government rather than by a free election.	香港——香港的下任行政长官本周日将由一个大多是支持中国政府的人组成的委员会挑选出来，而不是通过自由选举产生，这是自这个英国前殖民地的主权回归中国之后 20 年中的第五次。
With a victory by Beijing’s favored candidate all but a foregone conclusion, some are raising a difficult question: Did pro-democracy demonstrators miscalculate when they rallied against Beijing’s offer of a popular vote three years ago?	受北京青睐的候选人当选早已是意料中的必然结果，这让一些人提出了一个困难的问题：三年前，亲民主示威者反对北京提出的普选方案，是否是一个错算？
As paradoxical as it may sound, the pro-democracy activists insist they were right to oppose Beijing’s offer to allow for a direct popular vote for the chief executive, Hong Kong’s top official, saying it would have been a sham anyway, with a pool of candidates approved by Beijing.	虽然听起来也许有矛盾，但亲民主活动人士坚持认为，他们反对北京提出的普选方案的做法是正确的，普选将允许选民直接投票选举行政长官，也就是香港的最高官员。他们说那种普选是假的，因为候选人需要得到北京的批准。
“The proposal would have given the election false legitimacy, and the chief executive a false mandate,” said Nathan Law, one of the student leaders of the protest movement, which paralyzed parts of Hong Kong for nearly three months. “There’s absolutely no regret.”	“那个方案会让普选得到假合法性，让行政长官得到假的经选举而获得的授权，”罗冠聪(Nathan Law)说。“绝对没有遗憾。”罗冠聪是抗议活动的学生领袖之一，抗议活动让香港瘫痪了近三个月。
Instead of accepting a new election method with just a veneer of democracy, pro-democracy politicians have said they would rather keep the status quo that has existed since Hong Kong returned to Chinese rule in 1997: with the chief executive selected by a privileged minority.	亲民主政治人士曾表示，与其说接受一种有虚假民主外表的新选举方法，不如让自 1997 年香港主权回归中国以来就存在的现状继续下去，也就是，行政长官由有特权的少数人挑选。
Since the 2014 protests, China has tightened its grip over Hong Kong. In an extraordinary move in November, Beijing intervened in a Hong Kong court case to block the seating of two politicians in the legislature after they pledged allegiance to the “Hong Kong nation” during their	自从 2014 年发生抗议活动以来，中国大陆已加强了对香港的控制。去年 11 月，北京采取罕见做法，对香港一个法庭的案件进行干预，阻止了两名政治人士就任他们在香港立法会赢得的席位，这之前，这两个人在宣誓就职仪式上承诺效忠“香港民族”，还在他们的誓词中添加了辱华言论。

swearing-in ceremony and inserted an anti-China snub into their oaths of office.
Then, in January, a Chinese-born billionaire was taken from his apartment at a luxury hotel in Hong Kong and spirited into police custody in mainland China, even though mainland law enforcement officials are barred from operating across the border. The case brought to mind the disappearance of five Hong Kong booksellers last year, with both incidents raising fears about the erosion of civil liberties in Hong Kong.	今年1月，一名出生在中国大陆的亿万富翁被人从他在香港一家豪华酒店的公寓带走，悄悄送回中国大陆遭警方拘留，尽管有明文禁止大陆执法人员在香港操作。此案让人想起2015年五名香港书商失踪的事情，这两宗案件引发了人们对香港公民自由受到削弱的担心。
Even as pro-democracy activists dismiss Sunday's selection process as rigged, they are lamenting Beijing's apparent snub of John Tsang, one of three candidates in Sunday's voting. A former financial secretary bearing the nickname Mr. Pringles for his resemblance to the brand's cartoon mascot, Mr. Tsang is a rare pro-establishment figure who has both the blessing of pro-democracy parties and a good chunk of the general population, as major opinion polls suggest.	在亲民主活动人士对周日挑选特首的程序表示不屑，认为那是内定的同时，他们也对北京似乎冷落曾俊华的做法表示失望，曾俊华是将在周日接受投票的三名候选人之一。曾经担任香港财政司司长的曾俊华有一个绰号是“薯片叔叔”，因为他的样子有点像品客薯片包装盒上的头像，他是一位罕见的亲建制派人物，既得到亲民主党派的赞同，又在人民群众中有相当大的支持率，民意调查显示。
Despite these qualities, Chinese leaders have reportedly expressed their support for Carrie Lam, a former No. 2 official in Hong Kong's government who tried and failed to push through the proposal for direct elections that was championed by Beijing.	尽管他有这些优点，但据说中国领导人已经表示他们支持香港政府前二号官员林郑月娥，她曾试图让北京的普选方案在立法会获得通过，但未成功。
Ms. Lam is loyal to the Chinese Communist Party "but more skillful" politically than Leung Chun-ying, the deeply unpopular incumbent chief executive, said Chan Kin-man, an associate professor of sociology at the Chinese University of Hong Kong who helped organize the 2014 protests. Mr. Leung was the city's first chief executive to not seek a	香港中文大学社会学系副教授陈健民说，林郑月娥虽然对中国共产党很忠诚，但政治上比梁振英“老练得多”，梁振英是极其不得人心的现任行政长官。陈健民曾帮助组织2014年的抗议活动。梁振英是香港首位不寻求第二个五年任期的行政长官。

second five-year tenure.
Hong Kong news outlets reported that Beijing conveyed its backing for Ms. Lam to dozens of Hong Kong electors in February when Zhang Dejiang, the chairman of China's Parliament and the head of a group overseeing Hong Kong affairs, met with the electors in the neighboring mainland city of Shenzhen.	香港新闻媒体报道称,张德江今年2月在邻近香港的大陆城市深圳会见选举委员会的几十名成员时,向他们转达了北京对林郑月娥的支持,张德江是全国人大常委会委员长、兼中共中央负责香港工作小组的组长。
"Beijing officials have obviously decided they no longer need to keep up appearances about nonintervention in Hong Kong affairs," wrote Suzanne Pepper, a scholar of Hong Kong elections. "Past suspicions in this regard were typically met with bland denials. But at least pretensions were maintained."	"北京官员显然已做出决定,没有必要继续保持不干预香港事务的假象,"研究香港选举的学者胡素珊(Suzanne Pepper)写道。"人们过去对这个问题的怀疑通常会受到枯燥的否认。但至少假象得以维持。"
The changes proposed by Beijing in 2014 were meant in part to honor its commitment to allow Hong Kong's leader to be elected by universal suffrage after it regained sovereignty over the territory in 1997. But the proposal contained strict limitations: While millions of people would have been able to vote, they could have only chosen from among two or three candidates selected by the same committee that now both nominates and selects the chief executive.	北京2014年提出的普选方案,部分地是为了履行一个承诺,中国1997年恢复对香港的主权后曾承诺,将通过全民选举产生香港领导人。但北京的方案中有严格的限制:尽管数百万选民能投票选举特首,但他们只能从两名或三名候选人中挑选,而候选人则由现在提名和挑选特首的同一个选举委员会产生。
The proposal was meant "to make sure that the Chinese Communist Party will have a defining voice as to who will get into the ring," said Alan Leong, part of a bloc of pro-democracy legislators who voted against the proposal. "The Umbrella Revolution has saved for Hong Kong our primary and most basic dignity — namely we can call a spade a spade."	这个方案是为了"确保中国共产党对什么人能成为候选人有决定权",梁家杰(Alan Leong)说,他是对普选方案投了反对票的亲民主立法会议员之一。"雨伞革命为香港保住了我们最主要、而且最基本的尊严,那就是我们还能说实话。"
And as the voting nears, the Chinese government is continuing to	随着特首选举的临近,中央政府正在继续对付一些要求香港有更大自治权的

struggle with persistent calls for Hong Kong's greater autonomy from China, which have found particular resonance among young people.	持续呼声，这些呼声在香港青年人中产生了特别的共鸣。
Such defiance was highlighted by the political theater accompanying the swearing-in of new lawmakers in October. One legislator, Lau Siu-lai, read her oath extremely slowly, pausing after each word. Another legislator, Leung Kwok-hung, opened a yellow umbrella, a symbol of the 2014 protests. Mr. Law, the student protester who went on to become the youngest legislator in Hong Kong history, began his speech by saying that he would never be loyal to a "regime that murders its own people," presumably referring to China.	去年 10 月，发生在新当选立法者宣誓就职仪式上的政治戏剧凸显了这种反抗。立法会议员刘小丽(Lau Siu-lai)以极慢的速度宣读誓词，每个词后停顿数秒。另一名议员梁国雄(Leung Kwok-hung)撑起了黄雨伞，那是 2014 年抗议活动的象征。后来成为香港历史上最年轻的立法会议员的抗议活动学生领袖罗冠聪在宣读誓词前说，他永远不会效忠“屠杀自己人民的政权”，想必指的是中国。
According to the Chinese government's legal edict, Hong Kong officials must take their oaths "sincerely and solemnly."	据中央政府对法律的解释，香港官员必须“真诚地、庄重地”宣读就职誓词。
A local court will decide in the coming weeks whether the lawmakers who took part in the displays of defiance would be stripped of their membership in the legislature.	香港一家法院将在未来几周内决定是否取消做出上述反抗表示的立法会议员的资格。
"I warn students who want to get a summer internship at my office," Mr. Law said. "If I get disqualified, they could be without a job."	“我警告那些暑假想在我办公室实习的学生，”罗冠聪说。“如果我被取消资格，他们可能会失去工作的机会。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170324/hong-kong-chief-executive-ce-election-carrie-lam-john-tsang	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170324/hong-kong-chief-executive-ce-election-carrie-lam-john-tsang
China Bars Professor at Australian University From Leaving, Lawyer Says BEIJING — A Chinese-born professor at an Australian university who has often criticized Beijing's crackdown on political dissent has been barred from leaving China and is being questioned by state security officers as a suspected threat to national security, his lawyer said on Sunday.	中国禁止澳大利亚教授离境，指其危害国家安全 北京——周日，一名澳大利亚大学教授的律师透露，这位出生于中国、经常批评北京镇压政治异见的教授近日被禁止离开中国，并因被怀疑对国家安全构成威胁而遭受国家安全官员的审问。

The confinement of Feng Chongyi, an associate professor at the University of Technology Sydney, or U.T.S., unfolded over the weekend while China's premier, Li Keqiang, visited Australia to promote deeper trade and diplomatic ties. Professor Feng's case could cloud those ties.	这位教授名叫冯崇义，在悉尼科技大学任副教授，他从周末开始遭到禁闭。与此同时，中国总理李克强正在出访澳大利亚，以求加深两国之间的贸易与外交关系。冯崇义案可能会令这些关系蒙上阴影。
The lawyer, Chen Jinxue, said Professor Feng had not been arrested or formally charged.	他的律师陈进学说，冯崇义没有遭到逮捕或正式起诉。
The professor has been staying in a hotel in Guangzhou, a city in southern China, and has been repeatedly questioned by national security officers after being stopped by entry-exit checkpoint officials on Friday and Saturday from taking flights back to Australia, Mr. Chen said from Guangzhou, where he was accompanying Professor Feng.	陈进学表示，冯一直住在中国南方城市广州的一家酒店，周五和周六在准备乘坐飞机返回澳大利亚时，被出入境检查站官员拦下，之后被国家安全官员多次质询，当时和冯在一起的陈进学说。
"He's been told he's suspected of involvement in a threat to national security," Mr. Chen said by telephone, adding that Professor Feng declined to comment.	"他们告诉他，他是涉嫌危害国家安全的，"陈进学在电话中说，并表示冯崇义拒绝对此置评。
"His movements inside China aren't officially restricted, but national security authorities have questioned him a number of times about who he's met and that kind of thing," the lawyer added. "They've told him that he'll have to stay around for at least a couple more days to answer their questions."	"他在国内的行动没被正式限制，但国安部门已经有几次向他提问，问和谁见面那样的问题，"陈进学补充说。"他们已经告诉他还要多待起码两天来回答他们的问题。"
Professor Feng has been researching Chinese human rights lawyers, who have been subjected to a withering crackdown and detentions since 2015, and that work may have caught the attention of security investigators, Mr. Chen said.	冯崇义一直在研究中国人权律师的情况，自2015年以来，这些人一直遭到大规模的镇压和拘留，他的工作可能引起了安全调查人员的关注。
Mr. Li, the Chinese premier, ended a five-day visit to Australia on Sunday, and it was unclear whether the professor came up during his	中国总理李克强于周日结束了对澳大利亚的五天访问，冯崇义的话题是否出现在他与澳大利亚政界人士的会谈中，目前不得而知。但是，澳大利亚外交

talks with Australian politicians. But that nation's Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade said it could not demand to see Professor Feng because he is not an Australian citizen.	事务与贸易部表示, 因为冯崇义不是澳大利亚公民, 所以不能要求去看望他。
"The Australian Government is aware that a U.T.S. professor, who is an Australian permanent resident, has been prevented from leaving China," the department said in an email. Under an agreement with China, the department said, "the Australian government is able to provide consular assistance only to Australian citizens who have entered China on their Australian passport."	"澳大利亚政府知道一位悉尼科技大学教授及澳大利亚永久居民被禁止离开中国, "外交事务与贸易部在电子邮件中说。根据与中国的协议, 该部门表示, "澳大利亚政府只能向持澳大利亚护照进入中国的澳大利亚公民提供领事协助。"
Professor Feng, 56, was born in southern China. His lawyer confirmed he has permanent residence in Australia and was not a citizen. Even so, the case has ignited demands that the Australian government do more to secure his quick release.	冯崇义现年 56 岁, 出生于中国南方。他的律师证实他是澳大利亚永久居民, 不是该国公民。即使如此, 这一案件也令人们要求澳大利亚政府采取更多行动, 确保冯崇义尽快得到释放。
"We are urging the Australian government to intervene," John Hu, a spokesman in Sydney for the Embracing Australian Values Alliance, which has sought to promote free speech and counter the Chinese government's influence over the ethnic Chinese community in Australia.	"我们正在敦促澳大利亚政府进行干预, "捍卫澳洲价值观联盟(Embracing Australian Values Alliance)发言人约翰·胡(John Hu, 音)在悉尼说, 该联盟旨在促进言论自由, 反对中国政府对澳大利亚华裔社区施加的影响力。
"Right now the excuse for their inaction is that Chongyi Feng is only a permanent resident but not a citizen," said Mr. Hu, who is a friend of Mr. Feng's. "Feng has not breached the Chinese law — his doings were not even in China's jurisdiction, and the Chinese government has no right to persecute him."	"现在, 他们不作为的借口是, 冯崇义只是永久居民, 而不是公民, "作为冯崇义的朋友的约翰·胡说, "冯没有违反中国的法律——他的行为甚至不是发生在中国的管辖范围内, 中国政府也没有权利来迫害他。"
The university has been in contact with Professor Feng and was helping his family, Greg Walsh, a university spokesman, said by email.	悉尼科技大学正在与冯联系, 并且正在帮助他的家人, 该大学发言人格雷格·沃尔什(Greg Walsh)在电子邮件中说。

The professor is probably better known in Chinese intellectual circles than in Australia. A historian, he has long been involved in debates about China's future, advocating a path of political liberalization.	冯崇义在中国知识界可能比在澳大利亚有名。作为一名历史学家，他长期以来一直在参与关于中国未来的讨论，倡导政治自由化的道路。
He has also criticized the Chinese government's increasing efforts to exert influence over ethnic Chinese in Australia. Last year, he spoke out against plans for concerts honoring Mao Zedong in Sydney Town Hall and Melbourne Town Hall.	他还批评中国政府力图对澳大利亚华裔施加更大的影响力。去年，他公开反对在悉尼市政厅和墨尔本市政厅举行毛泽东纪念音乐会的计划。
"Australia is proud of its commitment to free speech, tolerance and cultural diversity," he wrote. "However, should intolerance be tolerated? Should lies about Mao and promotion of Maoism, which denies freedom of speech, be allowed as a legitimate part of free speech?"	"澳大利亚以对言论自由、宽容和文化多样性的承诺为傲，"他写道。"但是，不宽容是否也应当得到宽容？关于毛泽东的谎言，以及否定言论自由的毛泽东主义，是否应当被允许成为言论自由的一部分？"
With its growing ethnic Chinese population and growing economic ties to China, Australia has experienced a succession of cases of residents or citizens being detained in China, creating tensions over their legal rights and access to Australian diplomats. In 2011, Yang Hengjun, a writer and former Chinese official who had migrated to Australia, was detained for days in Guangzhou by security officials.	随着华裔人口不断扩大，以及同中国的经济关系日益密切，澳大利亚也遇到了一连串居民或公民在中国遭到关押的案件，这些人的合法权利以及澳大利亚外交人员与他们的联络问题引发了争议。2011年，移民澳大利亚的作家和前中国官员杨恒均在广州被安全官员拘留了几天。
Until the 1960s, Australia excluded Chinese migrants through the "White Australia" policy. In recent decades, the number of migrants from China has grown drastically, and by 2015, nearly 500,000 of Australia's 24 million residents had been born in China.	直到1960年代，澳大利亚一直在通过“白澳”政策把中国移民拒之门外。近几十年来，来自中国的移民人数急剧增加，到2015年，澳大利亚2400万居民中有近50万人是在中国出生的。
The disappearance of those seen as acting against China's interests has stirred concerns in other territories. A Taiwanese activist for human rights and democratic rights, Lee Ming-cheh, has been missing since last Sunday morning, when he boarded a flight from Taipei to Macau	被认为违反中国利益的人的消失，也在其他领域内引起了关注。台湾人权与民主活动人士李明哲(Lee Ming-cheh)自上周日上午一直失踪，当时他从台北乘坐飞机到澳门，但一直未从抵达口出来，他的朋友和家人担心他可能被中国当局拘押。

but never emerged from the arrivals gate. His friends and family fear he may have been detained by the Chinese authorities.
As the Chinese president, Xi Jinping, has clamped down on dissent, Professor Feng and other advocates of political relaxation have no longer been able to write for the domestic Chinese news media. But on overseas Chinese websites and in interviews with foreign journalists, he has sharply criticized Beijing's clampdown.	中国国家主席习近平一直在打击异议人士，冯崇义等宽松政治环境的倡导者已经不能再为中国国内的新闻媒体写作了。但是在海外华人网站上，以及接受外国记者采访时，他仍然严厉批评北京的压制政策。
"Since Xi Jinping came to office, he has not only failed to lead China forward in reform and opening up and constitutional government, he has made an historical U-turn," he wrote last year.	"习近平登基以来，不但没有在改革开放或宪政转型方面引领中国向前迈进，而是大开历史倒车，"他在去年写道。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/australia-professor-feng-chongyi-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/australia-professor-feng-chongyi-china
Climate Change May Be Intensifying China's Smog Crisis	气候变化可能加剧中国的雾霾危机
BEIJING — Chinese leaders, grappling with some of the world's worst air pollution, have long assumed the answer to their woes was gradually reducing the level of smog-forming chemicals emitted from power plants, steel factories and cars.	北京——中国领导层正在艰难地应对着世界上最严重的一些空气污染问题，他们一直以为解决这个问题答案是逐渐减少发电厂、钢铁厂和汽车排放的造成雾霾的化学物。
But new research suggests another factor may be hindering China's efforts to take control of its devastating smog crisis: climate change.	但最新的研究显示，或许有另一个因素在阻碍中国控制不断恶化的雾霾危机的努力：气候变化。
Changing weather patterns linked to rising global temperatures have resulted in a dearth of wind across northern China, according to several recent studies, exacerbating a wave of severe pollution that has been blamed for millions of premature deaths. Wind usually helps blow away smog, but changes in weather patterns in recent decades have left many of China's most populous cities poorly ventilated, scientists say.	近期发布的几项研究显示，与不断上升的全球气温有关的气象规律变化已经导致整个华北地区缺少空气流动，由此令一波严重的污染加剧，而后者则被归为导致数百万人早逝的原因。科学家们表示，刮风往往有助于吹散雾霾，但最近几十年出现的气象规律变化导致中国一些人口最密集的城市空气流动情况很差。

The findings, some of the first to link climate change to smog, may escalate pressure on Chinese leaders to move more swiftly to shutter steel factories and coal-fired power plants amid rising public anger over smog caused by soot and gases like sulfur dioxide. The research could also push China to assume an even more forceful role in international efforts to curb climate change by reducing carbon emissions, at a time when the United States, under President Trump, appears to be backing away from the issue.	这些发现属于最早将气候变化与雾霾联系起来的研究成果，它们可能会加大中国领导层的压力，使之在公众对由煤烟和二氧化硫等气体造成的雾霾产生的不断增长的愤怒情绪中，更快地采取行动，关闭钢铁厂和燃煤发电厂。在特朗普领导下的美国似乎在从通过减少碳排放遏制气候变化的国际努力中退缩之时，这项研究还有可能促使中国在其中承担更有力的角色。
"Everyone used to think that controlling smog hinged on reducing regional pollution," said Liao Hong, a professor at Nanjing University of Information Science and Technology and the co-author of a climate change study published this week. "Now it's clear that it will require a global effort."	"过去大家都认为雾霾的控制在于降低区域污染，"南京信息工程大学教授、本周发布的一项气候变化研究的联合作者廖宏说。"现在我们都清楚这需要全球范围内的协作。"
As public outrage has grown in China over dirty skies and a rash of respiratory illnesses linked to smog, Chinese officials have redoubled efforts in recent years to fight air pollution. They have sent teams of police officers to inspect factories, closed hundreds of coal-fired power plants and imposed limits on driving and activities like outdoor barbecuing.	随着公众对肮脏的天空和一连串与雾霾有关的呼吸疾病的愤怒情绪逐渐增长，中国官员在最近几年加大了抗击空气污染的努力。他们派出一批批执法人员去工厂检查，关掉了数以百计的燃煤发电厂，还对机动车驾驶和户外烧烤等活动进行限制。
Premier Li Keqiang, speaking at the annual session of China's legislature this month, vowed to "make our skies blue again" and promised to take further steps to reduce the use of coal.	国务院总理李克强在本月举行的一年一度的人大会议上发誓要"打好蓝天保卫战"，还承诺采取进一步的措施，减少煤炭的使用。
But even if Chinese officials push forward with ambitious plans to cut emissions, they may struggle to offset the effects of climate change, the findings suggest.	但这些发现显示，即使中国官员努力推进雄心勃勃的减排计划，恐怕也难以抵消气候变化的影响。

Ms. Liao's study, which examined data on pollution in Beijing from 2009 to 2016, predicted that weather conditions associated with severe smog would become increasingly common in coming decades. The study did not account for possible reductions in carbon emissions under the 2015 Paris Agreement on climate change.	廖宏的研究仔细分析了北京自 2009 年至 2016 年的污染数据，之后预测与严重雾霾有关的天气情况有可能在未来几十年里变得越来越普遍。这项研究没有考虑在 2015 年签署的有关气候变化的巴黎协议(Paris Agreement)之下有可能出现的碳排放减少。
Scientists point to the so-called airpocalypse that fell on Beijing in January 2013 as an example of the effects of climate change on smog.	科学家们把北京 2013 年 1 月出现的所谓“空气末日”(airpocalypse)现象当作气候变化对雾霾产生影响的一个例证。
During that episode, Beijing and dozens of other cities in northern China were shrouded in toxic haze for days. Despite emergency measures to cut emissions, the concentration of PM2.5, particles of a size that can penetrate the bloodstream, remained dangerously high.	在那段时间，北京等几十个华北城市被笼罩在有毒的雾霾之中数天。尽管政府采取了紧急措施削减排放，但可以渗透到血液中的微小粒子 PM2.5 的浓度依然高到十分危险的程度。
Researchers now attribute the resilience of smog during that period to unusually stagnant air conditions brought on by climate change. The air was the stillest in three decades during the heavy particulate pollution in 2013, according to a study published this month in the journal Science Advances.	现在，研究人员将那段时间雾霾难以消除的情况归因于由气候变化引起的非同寻常的不流动空气状况。本月发表在《科学前沿》(Science Advances)杂志上的一项研究显示，2013 年高浓度颗粒污染期间的空气是过去三十年里流动性最差的时期。
The study found that the melting of ice in the Arctic, combined with increased snowfall in Siberia, contributed to changes in wind patterns across Asia that winter that failed to clear the air over northern China.	这项研究发现，北极冰川融化和西伯利亚降雪增加，导致那年冬天整个亚洲的风向规律发生改变，因此没能净化华北上空的空气。
Yuhang Wang, an atmospheric scientist at Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta who was a co-author of the study, said the results suggested that Chinese officials would have an especially difficult time curbing air pollution in the winter, when weather conditions are most conducive to smog and more coal is burned for heating. The Ministry of Environmental Protection pledged this month	这项研究的联合作者、位于亚特兰大的佐治亚理工学院(Georgia Institute of Technology)的大气科学家王宇航表示，这些研究结果表明，中国官员在冬天遏制空气污染将会尤其困难，因为那个季节的气象条件最易造成雾霾，而且由于要烧暖气，那个时段的煤炭燃烧量也会更大。中国环境保护部本月开始实施更严格的政策，以便对冬季的空气污染进行控制。北京将在 2022 年举办冬季奥运会。

to put in place stricter policies to curb winter air pollution. Beijing is set to host the Winter Olympics in 2022.
"In the long run, emission reductions of both pollutants and greenhouse gases are needed to mitigate the winter haze problem," Mr. Wang said.	"从长远看，为了减轻冬季的雾霾问题，需要同时减少污染物和温室气体排放，"王宇航说。
The effect of climate change on air pollution might extend beyond China. In a study last year, for example, Mr. Wang found that warmer and drier conditions might lead to longer stretches of ozone pollution in parts of the southeastern United States. (Previous studies have also shown a link between climate change and ozone pollution.)	气候变化对空气污染的影响或许延伸到了中国之外。比如，王宇航在他去年进行的一项研究中发现，更暖和、更干燥的空气可能是美国东南部一些地区出现更长时间臭氧污染的原因。（之前的几项研究也显示气候变化和臭氧污染之间存在关联。）
The Chinese government has emerged as one of the leading voices on fighting climate change. As the Trump administration hints that it might move away from international efforts to cut emissions, environmentalists are looking to China, the world's largest emitter of greenhouse gases, to play a leading role in curbing the use of fossil fuels.	中国政府已经逐渐成为对抗气候变化的主要角色之一。随着特朗普政府暗示它可能会从减排的国际努力中退出，环保人士将目光投向世界最大的温室气体排放国中国，期待它在控制化石燃料使用方面承担起领导角色。
The government has pledged to go more aggressively after polluters and to cut excess production in heavy industry. Already, some progress has been made, with particulate pollution falling nearly 10 percent in the Beijing area over the past three winters, according to government statistics.	该国政府已经承诺，要更积极地打击制造污染的源头，削减重工业领域的过剩产能，而且已经取得了一些进步——政府数据显示，在过去的三个冬天里，北京地区的颗粒物污染水平已经降低近10%。
But many cities, especially in the north, continue to experience severe bouts of smog, resulting in school closures, traffic accidents and increases in hospital visits. Enforcement of environmental laws remains lax, and steel capacity actually rose last year, contributing to a surge in	但这里的许多城市——尤其是北方城市——仍然在经历一轮轮严重的雾霾天气，它们导致学校停课，引发交通事故，也使医院就诊人数增加。绿色和平的一份报告发现，中国的环境法执法情况依然不够严格，而且该国去年的钢铁产能实际上有所增加，这大致空气污染情况激增。

air pollution, a Greenpeace report found.
The growing body of research on the links between climate change and air pollution might serve as a rallying cry for China to take a more aggressive role in cutting greenhouse gas emissions. But it could also give the government another excuse for the country's pollution problems, analysts said.	不断增加的有关气候变化与空气污染的研究,可能成为促使中国在减少温室气体排放方面扮演更积极角色的集结号。但分析人士表示,它也会给中国政府提供另一个为本国的污染问题辩解的理由。
"In light of growing local protests against poor air quality, linking this issue with climate conditions outside of China underscores the fact that the pollution problem has international sources in addition to local," said Marc Lanteigne, a senior lecturer on Chinese defense and security issues at Massey University in New Zealand.	"鉴于当地对恶劣空气质量的抗议日益增加,将这个问题与外界的气候条件联系起来可以突显这样一个事实,即出现污染问题除了本地的根源,也存在国际的原因,"新西兰梅西大学(Massey University)研究中国国防与安全问题的 高级讲师兰马克(Marc Lanteigne)说。
Environmentalists said the role of climate change in exacerbating smog was an important finding. But they underlined the need for local governments to do more to reduce emissions.	环保人士表示,气候变化在加剧雾霾问题方面所起到的作用是一个重要的发现。但他们强调当地政府需要做更多努力来减少排放。
"It won't change the overall conclusion that air pollutant emission is the direct and interior cause for this air pollution problem," Dong Liansai, a climate and energy advocate at Greenpeace in Beijing, wrote in an email. "Much more action is required."	"它不会改变这样一个总体结论,即空气污染物排放是导致空气污染问题的直接原因和内在原因,"绿色和平北京分部的气候与能源倡导人士董连赛在一封邮件中写道。"需要采取大得多的行动。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/china-air-pollution-smog-climate-change	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/china-air-pollution-smog-climate-change
Bao Bao, an American-Born Panda, Steps Out in China	窝窝头和四川口音,熊猫"宝宝"的中国新生活
CHENGDU, China — Strange food. Unintelligible natives. These are just some of the things that Bao Bao, the 3-year-old panda from the National Zoo in Washington, has grappled with since moving to China last month. But the culture shock is fading, her handlers say, as she	中国成都——奇怪的食物。听不懂的本地话。3岁大熊猫"宝宝"上个月从华盛顿国家动物园回到中国后,需要努力克服的麻烦不仅仅是这些。但她的饲养员表示,当她开始习惯居住在祖祖辈辈繁衍的这片土地上时,文化的冲击将会消失。 settles into the land of her ancestors.

On Friday, after 30 days of quarantine, Bao Bao made her first public appearance at the Dujiangyan base of the China Conservation and Research Center for the Giant Panda in Sichuan Province.	周五，在检疫隔离 30 天后，“宝宝”首次在中国四川的大熊猫保护研究中心都江堰基地公开露面。
Bao Bao’s new life in China has been not easy, according to Tang Cheng, one of her keepers during her quarantine. Over the past month, she has had to learn Mandarin with a Sichuan accent and get used to the local fare – including wowotou, or steamed cornbread buns, in place of the biscuits she was used to.	据报道，“宝宝”在检疫隔离期间的饲养员唐诚说，“宝宝”在中国的新生活并不容易。在过去一个月里，她不得不学习带四川口音的普通话，习惯当地的食物——包括窝窝头，一种蒸熟的玉米面包，而不是她习惯吃的饼干。
By now, Bao Bao can understand some commands in Chinese, including “stand up” and “sit down,” Mr. Tang said.	唐诚说，现在“宝宝”可以听懂一些中文命令了，包括“站起来”和“坐下来”。
Mr. Tang was selected to work with Bao Bao in part because he speaks English as well as Chinese, an important skill to help haigui, or overseas returned, pandas to adapt to their new homes.	唐诚被安排照顾“宝宝”，部分原因是他能说中英双语，这种能力对帮助海归的大熊猫适应新的家园来说很重要。
At the ceremony on Friday, several United States diplomats and dozens of reporters and other guests were on hand to greet Bao Bao. Although they were clearly excited to see her for the first time, waving their hands and shouting her name to get her attention, Bao Bao seemed unimpressed. She spent most of the time sitting in her outdoor playground, munching on bamboo. From time to time, she would examine the rubber balls and tires hanging near her brick enclosure.	在周五的仪式上，几位美国外交官、几十位记者和其他客人在现场迎接“宝宝”。虽然他们第一次看到她都很高兴，挥着手，喊着她的名字想引起她注意，但“宝宝”对他们爱理不理。她大部分时间都坐在户外的游乐场上，嚼着竹子。还时不时地琢磨着橡胶球，以及挂在砖墙附近的轮胎。
According to Mr. Tang, Bao Bao spent her first few days in China overcoming jet lag and by now has settled into a routine: four to six meals a day, of bamboo, carrots, apples and wowotou. At first she did not like the wowotou and tended to throw it away.	唐诚介绍说，到中国的最初几天里，“宝宝”都是在倒时差，现在已经养成了固定的起居习惯：每天吃四到六餐，有竹子、胡萝卜、苹果和窝窝头。起初她不喜欢窝窝头，爱把它扔开。

By now, though, Mr. Tang said, "she is adapting well to her new environment," and has gained more than four pounds.	但现在，唐诚说：“她适应新环境的能力很强，”已经长了四斤多。
Bao Bao is not the first American-born panda to face the challenges of a new life. In November, when Mei Lun and Mei Huan, the first surviving panda twins to have been born in the United States, at Zoo Atlanta, came to China, the Chinese news media reported that they, too, had difficulties with the local language and food.	“宝宝”不是第一只面对新生活挑战的美国出生的熊猫。中国的新闻媒体报道说，去年11月，在美国境内第一对出生并存活下来的大熊猫双胞胎“美轮”和“美奂”从美国亚特兰大动物园回到中国时，他们也在语言和食物方面遇到了困难。
According to the conservation and research center, 25 pandas have been born abroad since the 1990s, when China set up panda breeding programs in collaboration with 17 zoos in 12 countries. Of these, 18 have survived. By agreement, pandas provided by China are considered loans, and their offspring must be sent to China before their fourth birthday in preparation for breeding.	据这个保护研究中心介绍，自20世纪90年代以来，共有25只熊猫在国外出生，中国在12个国家与17个动物园合作建立了大熊猫育种计划。其中18只存活下来。按照协议，中国提供的大熊猫被视为借出，繁衍的后代必须在四岁前送到中国，为繁殖做准备。
Bao Bao was born on Aug. 23, 2013, to Mei Xiang and Tian Tian, two pandas on loan to the National Zoo. Her older brother, Tai Shan, who was born in 2005 and sent to China in 2010, is now her neighbor at the Dujiangyan base. A younger brother, Bei Bei, was born in 2015 and is still in Washington.	“宝宝”是2013年8月23日出生的，父母是借给华盛顿国家动物园的“添添”和“美香”。她的哥哥“泰山”出生于2005年，在2010年被送回中国，现在成为了她在都江堰基地的邻居。她还有一个弟弟“贝贝”，出生于2015年，目前仍在华盛顿。
A 2016 report by the International Union for the Conservation of Nature put the total number of giant pandas around 2,060. While that is up from the 1,596 counted in a 2000-4 census, the health of the population depends on continued conservation efforts. Each panda has a mission to spread the genes, and Bao Bao is no exception. Once she reaches sexual maturity, around 5 or 6 years old, she will acquire a boyfriend.	国际自然保护联盟(International Union for Conservation of Nature)2016年的一份报告指出，现有大熊猫的总数约为2060只。虽然这比2000~2004年的一次普查结果1596只有所增多，但种群数量的健康有赖于持续的保护工作。每只熊猫都有传播基因的使命，“宝宝”也不例外。一旦达到性成熟期，也就是到五六岁的时候，她就会交男朋友。

"When Bao Bao gets to that age, we will arrange for her to meet many young males," Mr. Tang said, "and their relationship will be based on love."	唐诚说：“当‘宝宝’到了适当年纪，我们会安排她见很多的年轻备选对象，直到找到男朋友，他们的关系将是基于双方的爱的基础上的。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/china-panda-bao-bao	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/china-panda-bao-bao
Carrie Lam Wins Vote to Become Hong Kong's Next Leader	No. 2 变 No. 1, 林郑月娥成香港新任特首
HONG KONG — A committee dominated by supporters of the Chinese government chose Carrie Lam as Hong Kong's next leader on Sunday, opting for Beijing's preferred candidate in a move likely to dismay residents who see the city's freedoms as being under threat from China.	香港——周日，一个主要由支持中国政府的人士组成的委员会挑选林郑月娥为香港下任领导人，此举可能会让那些认为香港自由正在受到大陆威胁的居民感到沮丧。林郑月娥是北京青睐的候选人。
Mrs. Lam, a former No. 2 official in the city, received 777 out of 1,163 votes cast to become the next chief executive, as Hong Kong's leader is called. She defeated John Tsang, a former finance secretary who polls indicated was more popular with the public.	上届港府二把手林郑月娥获得了 1163 张选票中的 777 票，当选为香港下任行政长官，即香港领导人。她击败了曾任财政司司长的曾俊华，曾俊华在民意调查中更受公众欢迎。
The leader of this semiautonomous Chinese city of 7.3 million is chosen by just 1,194 electors, most of them business and political figures who have close ties to Beijing.	香港是一个有着 730 万人口的半自治中国城市，该地领导人由一个只有 1194 名选委的选举委员会选举产生，委员会的大多成员是与北京关系密切的商界和政界人物。
In an apparent act of protest, one elector drew a cross on the ballot with check marks, and another wrote an obscenity on it.	一名选委在选票上用钩号画了一个叉，另一名选委在选票上写了脏字，明显是为了抗议。
Hong Kong is guaranteed civil liberties and a high degree of autonomy under the terms of the 1997 handover that returned the city, a former British colony, to Chinese rule — an arrangement known as "one country, two systems." But many believe China has violated that agreement with increasingly open interference in its affairs.	香港曾经是英国殖民地，主权在 1997 年回归了中国，为回归达成的协议保障香港有公民自由和高度自治，也就是“一国两制”。但是，许多人认为大陆在对香港事务进行日益公开的干涉，已经违反了回归协议。
"China promised that Hong Kong people would run Hong Kong, and we would have a high degree of autonomy," said Mabel Yau, 52, one of	"中国承诺让港人治港，承诺我们将享有高度自治，"52 岁的梅布尔·邱(Mabel Yau)说，她是在选举委员会投票场所外抗议的数百人之一。"今天，由只有

hundreds of protesters outside the voting site. "Today, only 1,200 people are representing us in electing the chief executive; is it fair?"	1200 人的委员会代表我们来选举行政长官。这公平吗？”
Such concerns are unlikely to be eased by the choice of Mrs. Lam, who was a loyal deputy to Leung Chun-ying, the unpopular departing chief executive.	让林郑月娥当特首的选择不太可能会减轻这种担忧，林郑月娥是即将离任且不得人心的行政长官梁振英的忠实副手。
In a speech after the vote, Mrs. Lam vowed to prioritize mending social rifts. "Hong Kong, our home, is suffering from quite a lot of divisiveness," she said. During her campaign, she added, "I heard so much more from peoples' hearts and learned and experienced many new things as well as different angles to things. I see my shortcomings and understand that I must put in more efforts."	在计票结果出来后的胜选感言中，林郑月娥发誓，要把弥合社会裂痕作为首要工作。她说，“香港、我们共同的家，今日存在颇严重的撕裂和积累了很多郁结。”她还说，“在选举过程中，我听到很多人的心声，学了、体会了很多新的事物和对事物的不同角度。我看到自己的不足，明白必须要加把劲。”
Mrs. Lam led the failed effort to overhaul the city's election process according to Beijing's wishes, which prompted the so-called Umbrella Movement protests that shut down parts of the city for months in 2014.	林郑月娥曾试图根据北京的愿望，改革香港的选举程序，但未成功。北京的选举方案引发了名为“雨伞运动”的 2014 年的抗议活动，导致香港部分地区停摆了好几个月。
"When the No. 2 official becomes the No. 1, there isn't going to be much change," said Joshua Wong, one of the leaders of those protests. " 'One country, two systems' is going down the drain, and our high degree of autonomy will exist in name only," Mr. Wong said.	“只是政府 No. 2 变成 No. 1，不会有太大的改变，”抗议活动的领袖之一黄之锋说。“一国两制只会走下坡，而高度自治也只是名存实亡。”
The protests in 2014 were a response to Beijing's plan to let Hong Kong choose the chief executive this year by direct popular vote. Under that plan, China would have screened the candidates — a restriction that made the so-called reform a sham, in the view of the student-led protesters who occupied the streets for months.	2014 年的抗议活动是对北京提出的选举方案的回应，该方案是为了让香港人今年用直接投票的方式选举行政长官。根据北京的方案，中央政府会对候选人进行筛选。在以学生为主的抗议者眼里，这个限制使得所谓的改革形同虚设，抗议者占领了香港街道数月之久。
The local legislature rejected the proposal, meaning that a small committee again chose the city's leader this year. But pro-democracy	当地立法机构否决了北京的方案，意味着今年的特首选举仍旧在一个小委员会中进行。但亲民主政治人士表示他们并不后悔，认为北京的方案会赋予行

politicians have said they have no regrets, arguing that the plan would have bolstered Beijing's grip on Hong Kong by giving the chief executive a false public mandate.	政长官一种假的经选举而获得的授权，从而加强北京对香港的控制。
Since the Umbrella Movement protests, young people in particular have become even more resentful of the Chinese government, calling in growing numbers for Hong Kong's self-determination and even independence from China. In the first major legislative elections after the protests, voters turned out in record number and elected for the first time two young, openly pro-independence politicians.	自从“雨伞运动”抗议活动以来，一些人对中央政府越来越不满，尤其是年轻人，对香港自决、甚至从中国独立出去的呼声也越来越高。在抗议活动之后的第一次立法会议员大选中，参加投票的选民人数创下历史新高，并首次把两名公开支持独立的年轻政治人士选进了立法会。
But in November, Beijing took the extraordinary step of intervening in a Hong Kong court case to prevent them from taking their seats, after they pledged allegiance to the "Hong Kong nation" during their swearing-in ceremony and inserted an anti-China snub into their oaths of office.	但去年 11 月，北京采取罕见做法，对香港一个法庭的案件进行干预，阻止了这两名政治人士在香港立法会就职，这之前，他们在宣誓就职仪式上承诺效忠“香港民族”，还在自己的誓词中添加了辱华言论。
Fears of increasing interference from Beijing were also worsened when a bookseller and, later, a billionaire businessman disappeared from Hong Kong, later to re-emerge in police custody in mainland China. Such developments have alarmed many residents, but others are loyal to China and regard pro-democracy activists as a disruptive force.	香港书商失踪、以及那之后一名亿万富翁商人从香港消失，而后来这些人都在中国大陆以被警方拘留的形式再次出现的事件，都让人们在北京干扰香港事务的担心进一步加剧。虽然这些发展令许多香港居民震惊，但其他忠于大陆的港人则把亲民主活动人士视为一种破坏力量。
Mrs. Lam, who will take office on July 1 as the first female chief executive in Hong Kong history,, will have to manage not only the city's political turmoil but a rapidly aging population, low social mobility, slowing economic growth and one of the largest wealth gaps in the world.	林郑月娥将于 7 月 1 日上任，成为香港历史上首位女行政长官，她不仅要对付香港的政治动荡，还要处理一系列的其他问题，包括人口迅速老化、社会流动性下降、经济增长放缓，以及世界上贫富差距最大的地方之一的社会矛盾。
Hong Kong's housing is routinely ranked as even more unaffordable	香港房价经常登上令人买不起的榜单，比伦敦和纽约的还糟糕，部分原因来

than London's and New York's, in part because of relentless demand from wealthy buyers in mainland China. Despite cooling measures enacted by the current government, average housing prices are at a record high, having more than doubled from a decade ago and far outpaced income growth.	自中国大陆富裕买家的持续强烈的需求。尽管现任政府制定了一些限制房价的措施，但平均房价仍不断创下历史新高，比十年前翻了一番，远高于收入的增长。
Such economic grievances have fed calls for greater public participation in elections, though no change in that area is likely to occur quickly under the new administration. Mrs. Lam has said she will not rush to restart talks on reforming the electoral process, citing a need to avoid confrontation.	虽然经济上的不满已引发人们对更多的公众参与选举的呼声，但在新任政府之下，在这方面很快发生变化的可能性不大。林郑月娥表示，出于避免发生对抗的必要，她不会急于重新开始讨论选举改革的问题。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/hong-kong-election-carrie-lam-chief-executive	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/hong-kong-election-carrie-lam-chief-executive
Missing Taiwanese Man May Be in Chinese Custody, Some Fear	台湾人权人士失踪，疑为中国当局羁押
TAIPEI, Taiwan — The disappearance of a Taiwanese activist for human rights and democratic causes has raised fears here that he may have been detained by the Chinese authorities.	台湾台北——台湾一名人权和民主活动人士的失踪，在这里引起了可能已遭中国当局拘押的担忧。
The man, Lee Ming-cheh, has not been heard from since last Sunday morning, when he boarded a flight from Taipei to Macau, according to friends and relatives. A friend went to the airport in Macau to meet him, but he never emerged from the arrivals gate, said Cheng Shiow-jiuan, the director of Taipei Wenshan Community College, where Mr. Lee is a manager.	据他的朋友和亲人称，名为李明哲(Lee Ming-cheh)的这名男子自从上周日上午登上从台北飞往澳门的航班后，便没有了消息。李明哲担任管理人员的台北市文山社区大学校长郑秀娟(Cheng Shiow-jiuan)说，一个朋友去澳门的机场接李明哲，但一直未看到他从抵达口出来。
Mr. Lee had crossed from Macau into mainland China on Sunday, but his whereabouts have been a mystery since then, Taiwan's Mainland Affairs Council, a cabinet-level agency that deals with China-related	台湾负责处理大陆事务的内阁级别机构大陆委员会最近几天称，李明哲周日从澳门过境进入中国大陆，但自那以后，他的下落成谜。 issues, said in recent days.

China has issued no statements about Mr. Lee.	大陆尚未发布有关李明哲的通告。
“The fact that Lee Ming-cheh has gone missing once again raises serious questions about the safety of people working with civil society in China,” Nicholas Bequelin, Amnesty International’s East Asia director, said in a statement on Friday.	“李明哲失踪的事实，让那些和中国公民社会合作者的安危再度受到质疑，”国际特赦组织东亚区主任林伟(Nicholas Bequelin)周五在一份声明中说。
Macau, like nearby Hong Kong, is a semiautonomous Chinese territory responsible for administering its own borders and immigration. But the unprecedented spiriting away of five Hong Kong publishers to mainland China, as well as the apparent seizure of a Chinese billionaire from his serviced apartment in Hong Kong more recently, have raised concerns that China’s government no longer respects those borders.	和附近的香港一样，澳门也是中国的一个半自治地区，拥有自行管理边境和移民事务的权力。但五名香港出版商史无前例地被偷偷带去中国内地，以及前不久一名中国富翁从香港的酒店公寓被带走一事，引发了对中国政府不再尊重这些边境的担忧。
Chiu Chiu-cheng, a spokesman for the Mainland Affairs Council, noted at a news conference on Thursday that a strict law regulating the activities of foreign nongovernmental organizations in China went into effect this year. That may have increased risks for Taiwanese people engaging with mainland Chinese involved in civil society, Mr. Chiu said.	陆委会发言人邱垂正(Chiu Chiu-cheng)在周四的新闻发布会上指出，一部管理外国非政府组织在华活动的严格法律已于今年生效。邱垂正称，这也许增加了台湾人和参与公民社会事务的大陆人士交往的风险。
Ms. Cheng, the director of the community college, said on Saturday that Mr. Lee had not been directly involved with civil society work in mainland China.	文山社区大学校长郑秀娟周六表示，李明哲并未直接参与大陆的公民社会工作。
But she said his wife, Lee Ching-yu, had told her that he had weekly chats on Chinese social media about “some of Taiwan’s experiences with democracy and transitional justice” with mainland friends who wanted China to move in a direction similar to Taiwan’s.	但她说，李明哲之妻李净瑜(Lee Ching-yu)告诉她，李明哲每周都会在中文社交媒体上和希望大陆朝着与台湾类似的方向发展的大陆朋友聊天，讨论“台湾的一些民主和转型正义经验”。
Such discussions are dangerous in China, where state surveillance of	这种讨论在中国颇为危险，因为国家对互联网的监视无处不在，批评执政的

the internet is pervasive and comments critical of the ruling Communist Party can draw swift punishment.	共产党的言论可能会迅速招致惩罚。
Mr. Lee met with some of those friends during visits to the mainland about once a year, Ms. Cheng said.	郑秀娟说，李明哲在大约一年去一次大陆的时候，见过其中部分朋友。
"It's not any kind of formal activity; it's just catching up with friends," she said. She added that he also delivered donated Taiwanese books to the family of imprisoned rights lawyers in China and had planned to seek medical advice for a relative during this month's trip.	"不是任何形式的正式活动，只是和友人叙叙旧，"她说。她又补充，自己也给大陆被关押人权律师的家人寄过台湾的赠书，本计划在本月去大陆期间，替一个亲戚寻求医疗建议。
Ms. Lee was unavailable for comment on Saturday.	记者周六无法联系到李净瑜予以置评。
Beijing views self-governed, democratic Taiwan as a renegade province that must eventually be reunited with China — by force if necessary. Some Taiwanese news outlets have speculated that Mr. Lee's disappearance could be retribution for the arrest this month of a Chinese national accused of espionage.	北京认为实行自治和民主的台湾是一个脱离的省份，最终必须与大陆统一——必要时可使用武力。台湾的一些新闻机构怀疑，李明哲的失踪可能是本月一名被控从事间谍活动的大陆人被捕一事的报复。
Mr. Lee has long been active in pro-democratic and human rights causes. Ms. Cheng described him as a dedicated manager who had made a deep impression on others since joining the community college's planning department in February 2016.	李明哲长期积极参与亲民主和人权事业。郑秀娟称他是一个具有奉献精神的管理人员，自2016年2月加入文山社区大学，负责课程规划工作以来，给其他人留下了深刻的印象。
Eeling Chiu, secretary of the Taiwan Association for Human Rights, said on Friday that Mr. Lee's disappearance was the first case of a Taiwanese worker for a nongovernmental organization going missing after entering China.	台湾人权促进会秘书长邱伊翎(Eeling Chiu)在周五表示，这是第一起台湾非政府组织工作人员在进入大陆后失踪的事件。
Mr. Lee does not work for the association, but he has done volunteer work for an umbrella organization to which it belongs, called Covenants Watch.	李明哲不为人权促进会工作，但他为该组织所属的综合性组织人权公约施行监督联盟(Covenants Watch)提供过志愿服务。

Ms. Chiu called on the Chinese government to release images of Mr. Lee as he passed through customs to prove that he had not been detained at the border.	邱伊翎呼吁中国政府公布李明哲过海关时的画面，以证明他未在通关时被拘押。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/taiwan-lee-ming-cheh-missing-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170327/taiwan-lee-ming-cheh-missing-china
Hong Kong Democracy Advocates Face Charges Over 2014 Protests	香港警方将起诉“占中三子”等9人
HONG KONG—Several organizers of the 2014 pro-democracy protests in Hong Kong said they were notified by the police on Monday that they would face criminal charges, raising concerns over a broader crackdown more than two years after the demonstrations for freer elections swept the semiautonomous Chinese territory.	香港——2014年亲民主抗议活动的几位组织者说，警方已在周一通知他们，将对他们提起刑事诉讼。在要求更自由选举的示威席卷了这片半自治的中国领土两年多后，人们担心当局要开始一场更大范围的打压。
The authorities will charge the three early masterminds of the 2014 protests and six other participants, including current and former legislators and two student leaders, according to three of the protesters.	据三名抗议者说，当局将对2014年抗议活动的三名早期策划人、以及包括前立法会议员和两名学生领袖在内的其他六名参与者提起诉讼。
“The charges send a strong message that the authorities are going to create more conflict in the community, that they will continue a hard-line approach,” said Chan Kin-man, a sociology professor at the Chinese University of Hong Kong and one of the three founders of the protest group Occupy Central With Love and Peace.	“让爱与和平占领中环”运动的三名发起人之一、香港中文大学社会学教授陈健民说，“这些指控传递给人们的强烈信息表明，当局要在社会上制造更多的冲突，他们将继续采取强硬的手法。”
Mr. Chan said the police telephoned on Monday morning to tell him that he would face one public nuisance charge and two incitement charges. Eason Chung, who was a leader of the Hong Kong Federation of Students and another organizer of the protests, said he would also face a public nuisance charge. The nuisance charge carries a maximum jail sentence of seven years.	陈健民说，警方周一上午打电话通知他，他将面临一项“公众妨碍罪”和两项煽动罪的起诉。另一名抗议活动组织者、曾任香港学生联合会领导的钟耀华说，他也面临公众妨碍罪的起诉。该罪最高可判七年有期徒刑。

The police did not immediately confirm the charges. Normally, they do so only after suspects are brought in to hear the charges in person.	警方没有马上对这些指控予以证实。通常情况下，只是在嫌疑人被带上法庭亲身听取指控后，警方才会予以确认。
It was unclear why the police waited so long to bring charges, but Mr. Chan said that the current Hong Kong government, led by the unpopular chief executive Leung Chung-ying, had waited until Beijing's preferred candidate, Carrie Lam, was selected to succeed him. Bringing charges earlier might have hurt her campaign, he said, because she was a loyal deputy to Mr. Leung.	虽然目前尚不清楚警方为何等了这么长时间才提起诉讼，但陈健民表示，不得人心的行政长官梁振英领导的本届香港政府一直在等待着，等北京中意的候选人林郑月娥被挑选为其继任者之后，再采取行动。陈健民说，更早地提起诉讼可能会有损于她的竞选活动，因为她曾是梁振英的忠实副手。
Over 900 people were arrested during the protests in 2014, also known as the Umbrella Revolution. Among them, 81 have been convicted of various offenses as of January, according to the Hong Kong Department of Justice.	2014 年的抗议活动也被称为“雨伞革命”，其间有 900 多人被逮捕。据香港律政司发布的信息，被逮捕的人中已有 81 人被以各种指控定罪。
The charges came one day after a pro-Beijing committee chose Mrs. Lam, who in 2014 had tried but failed to defuse the protests in a televised debate with student representatives, including Mr. Chung. The protests paralyzed multiple parts of the city for nearly three months.	就在这些起诉出现的一天前，一个亲北京的委员会挑选林郑月娥为下任特首，她曾在 2014 年的一场电视直播对话会上试图劝说包括钟耀华在内的学生代表不要抗议，但未能成功。抗议活动让香港的多个地区瘫痪了近三个月。
"This is clearly an act of political revenge," said Raphael Wong, vice chairman of a pro-democracy party, the League of Social Democrats, who also faces a public nuisance charge. "We're not afraid, and we will fight on for a genuine universal suffrage."	"这显然是一种政治报复行为，"亲民主党派社会民主连线的副主席黄浩铭说，他也面临公众妨碍罪的起诉。"我们不害怕，我们将为争取真正的普选继续奋斗。"
Mrs. Lam, who vowed after the vote on Sunday to mend the divisions in Hong Kong society, said on Monday that she did not know about and was not responsible for the prosecutions. But she added: "Mending social rifts doesn't mean compromising on rule of law."	周日，林郑月娥在当选后曾发誓要弥合香港社会的裂痕，她在周一表示对起诉不知情，并表示那不是她的责任。但她补充说："修补社会撕裂不等于在法治方面作出妥协。"
In 2014 and 2015, Mrs. Lam led a task force to push through a	林郑月娥曾在 2014 年和 2015 年领导过一个负责推动北京支持的普选方案

Beijing-backed proposal to enable the direct popular election of the city's leader but with strict limitations on the choice of candidates. Protesters argued that such a system would only bolster Beijing's grip on the former British colony by giving the chief executive undeserved legitimacy.	的专责小组，该方案让香港市民能直接投票选举行政长官，但对谁能成为候选人有严格的限制。抗议者认为，那种普选只会让行政长官得到不该有的合法性，从而加强北京对这个英国前殖民地的控制。
The charges would be the first against the three founders of the Occupy Central campaign, which later joined forces with student protesters who were engaged in a weeklong boycott of classes. The three Occupy leaders, Mr. Chan, Benny Tai and Chu Yiu-ming, turned themselves in to the police two months into the protests but had not been charged with any crime until Monday.	这些指控是对占中运动三位创始人的首次起诉，该运动后来与参加当时已经开始的一周罢课抗议的学生联合了起来。占中运动的三名领袖陈健民、戴耀廷和朱耀明在运动开始两个月后，向警方投案自首，但他们直到周一才受到起诉。
Reports of the charges have been celebrated by pro-Beijing groups as overdue justice, but they risk raising tensions in a city where young political leaders are already planning another large demonstration in a few months. The protests will be timed with the expected visit of President Xi Jinping of China on July 1, the 20th anniversary of Hong Kong's return to Chinese rule, according to Joshua Wong, the secretary general of Demisisto, as part of a response to Mrs. Lam's election.	亲北京的团体把起诉的消息作为迟到的正义来庆贺，但起诉也冒下了让香港紧张气氛升级的风险，这里的一些年轻政治领导人已在策划几个月后的又一次大型示威活动。据香港众志(Demisisto)的秘书长黄之锋介绍，新抗议活动的原定在7月1日，届时，中国国家主席习近平预计将前来庆祝香港回归中国20周年，抗议活动也是对林郑月娥当选的回应的一部分。
"Lam's victory, despite her lack of representation and popular support, reflects the Chinese Communist Party's complete control over Hong Kong's electoral process and its serious intrusion of Hong Kong's autonomy," the party said in a statement on Sunday. "It is our hope that those who have previously fought, and continue to fight, for fair political representation in Hong Kong will not lose momentum over the next half-decade as a consequence."	"林郑月娥的当选尽管缺乏代表性和公众支持，却充分反映了中共完全操控香港选举过程、严重干预香港自治的做法，"香港众志在周日发表的声明中说。"我们衷心希望，所有曾经和现在正为香港争取平等参与政治权利的朋友，未来五年不要灰心丧志。"

Mr. Wong and two other student protest leaders, Nathan Law and Alex Chow, were previously found guilty of unlawful assembly or inciting people to take part in an unlawful assembly preceding the 79 days of street occupation in 2014.	黄之锋和另外两名抗议活动学生领袖罗冠聪和周永康，已在此前被判犯有煽动他人参与非法集会罪，法院认为他们引发了持续 79 天的街头抗议。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170328/hong-kong-umbrella-democracy-charges	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170328/hong-kong-umbrella-democracy-charges
Postcard From China: Secret Video of a Women's Rights Demonstration	100 年后，她们只能秘密游行纪念三八妇女节
Times Insider delivers behind-the-scenes insights from The New York Times. In our Postcards series, Times reporters share on-the-ground observations about the places where they live.	“时报内情”(Times Insider)专栏为读者呈现来自《纽约时报》的幕后故事。在我们的“明信片”(Postcards)系列中，时报记者分享他们对生活之地的实地观察。
BEIJING — The video says so much: a lone demonstration, shot under conditions of secrecy, to mark International Women's Day in China.	北京——这段视频意涵深刻，它通过秘密拍摄的方式，记录了中国唯一一个纪念国际三八妇女节的示威活动。
Made with a sense of both fun and history, it shows a group of contemporary Chinese women dressed in the traditional gowns of female students in 1924, the first year the day was marked in China, the participants say.	拍摄这段视频既是为了兴趣，也是出于一种历史感。视频中是一群身穿 1924 年传统女学生装的当代中国女性，参与拍摄的人说，那年中国首次庆祝了国际妇女节。
It also says much that, 93 years later, the video and the demonstration had to take place on March 6, two days before the official event, to protect the women from the risk of detention.	93 年后，为了保护参与示威的女性免受拘留风险，视频拍摄以及示威活动不得不在妇女节两天前的 3 月 6 日举行，这本身就意味深长。
In China, we're always ahead — 12 or 13 hours ahead of New York, to be precise. So a request from editors for contributions to a global story about women's day on the day itself promised to be a rush job.	中国所在的时区比纽约要早 12 到 13 个小时。所以，时报编辑部让我们参与妇女节当天全球报道的要求来得有点急促。
The rush wasn't the problem. Reporting is often last minute. The real problem was that I hadn't heard of anything, and for good reason.	急促并不是问题。新闻报道常常要赶时间。真正的问题在于，我并未听到会有什么行动，而这并不难理解。
Feminist activism blossomed here as recently as 2015, but today it is in	这里的女权主义行动直到最近的 2015 年仍颇为活跃，但如今却进入了冷藏

a deep freeze, placed there by a Communist Party government that says it supports women’s rights yet is determined to enact a patriarchal, Confucian-inspired vision of “harmony” that is intolerant of dissent.	状态，这个共产党政府口头上对妇女的权利表示支持，却坚决把一种容不得异议、源于儒家思想的父权制的“和谐”版本强加给社会。
Second, reporting in China isn’t quite like reporting anywhere else in the world, though two of its hallmarks — opacity and control — exist elsewhere, too. Here, you need deep contacts and good language skills — including the ability to read Chinese — to penetrate a society where so much happens in secret. Patience, subtlety, and the humility to know that you can’t always get what you want immediately, help.	再说，在中国做报道不像在世界其他地方那样，虽然中国的两个特点——不透明和控制——也存在于世界其他地方。在中国，你需要有深层的联系和良好的语言技能，包括阅读中文的能力，才能深入到这个许多事情都在秘密中发生的社会里。耐心、敏锐和谦卑——知道你并不总是能够马上得到你所要东西，对报道会有所帮助。
China has the most extensive and sophisticated internet censorship system in the world. It focuses not on the expression of discontent but on quashing every sign of collective action that could produce social mobilization, researchers at Harvard University say.	中国有着世界上最广泛、最复杂的网络审查制度。哈佛大学的研究人员称，这个制度侧重的不是不满情绪的表达，而是消灭一切可能会起到社会动员效果的集体行动迹象。
And with the high-profile detentions in 2015 of several feminists on the eve of International Women’s Day that year for their plans to distribute leaflets on public transportation warning about gropers, the authorities signaled that they see feminism as a force for collective action. The movement taps widespread anger at enduring abuse and discrimination.	2015年妇女节前夕，几名女权主义者因计划在公共交通工具上发放传单，告诫民众提防“咸猪手”而遭拘押，引起外界广泛关注；当局发出的信号是，他们认为女权主义是一股会引发集体行动的力量。该运动利用了民众对持续的摧残和歧视的普遍愤怒。
Last last year, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs warned me away from reporting on the feminists, saying, elliptically, that I must “obey the police.” (I do. I am less likely to obey unidentified men in civilian clothes who physically intimidate me but refuse to say who they are. That is what had happened in April, in the incident to which they were referring, as I waited with another reporter outside the detention center	去年年底，中国外交部警告我不要报道女权主义者，隐晦地说我必须“服从警察”。（我当然服从。我不太可能服从那些身份不明、身着便装、动手动脚地恐吓我却不愿说出自己是谁的人。这种事就发生在去年4月和上述几名女权主义者有关的那次事件中。当时，我正和另一名记者等在其中五人被关押数周的拘留所外面。后来，我听到她们一年的保释附加条件被解除。） where five of the women had been held for weeks, to hear that their year-long bail conditions had been lifted.)

Some government departments didn't like feminists who "organized," said a ministry employee, in a one-on-one meeting that was devised to communicate a message from the government.	外交部的一名工作人员在一次一对一的碰面中说，一些政府机构不喜欢“组织起来的”女权主义者。安排那次碰面的目的是传达政府的讯息。
By now, intimidation of independent feminist activity is routine. Last November a small group of women abandoned a plan to walk in public wearing bruise-like makeup to mark the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, after warnings from security officials.	但现在，恐吓独立女权主义活动已经成了常态。去年11月，在遭到安全官员的警告后，一小群女性放弃了通过化妆成像有瘀伤的样子在公共场合走动，来庆祝“消除对妇女的暴力行为国际日”(International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women)的计划。
So like a flock of birds sensing danger, Chinese feminists have taken off, leaving Beijing for provincial cities or other countries, while those who have stayed have kept a low profile.	于是，像感觉到了危险的鸟群一样，中国女权主义者纷纷离开北京，前往其他省的城市或其他国家，留下来的人则保持低调。
This year on March 8 there were no independent street demonstrations, enactments of glass ceilings or strikes here, as there were in dozens of countries. The Times's story did not have input from the vast, party-run mainland of China, home to about one in six women in the world.	今年的3月8日，中国不同于其他几十个国家。这里没有独立的街头示威，没有针对“玻璃天花板”问题的行动，也没有罢工。时报那篇报道中没有与广袤的、由党控制的中国大陆有关的内容，这里生活着全世界大约六分之一的女性。
Yet shortly after the story ran, I found what I was looking for, and now I can fill in that missing part of the report. It would go something like this:	但那篇报道刊出后不久，我就发现了自己当时要找的内容。现在，我可以把那篇报道缺失的部分写出来。它大概会是这样的：
On March 6, in a rare public demonstration, a group of Chinese women wearing the long gowns of students in 1924 met in People's Park in the southern Chinese city of Guangzhou to commemorate that year, when International Women's Day was first marked by Chinese feminists.	3月6日，一群中国女性罕见地举行公开示威。她们身穿1924年的学生装，在中国南方城市广州的人民公园里集合，纪念1924年中国女权主义者首次庆祝国际妇女节。
Holding small pink banners, they discreetly chanted slogans: "We won't	她们举着粉色的小横幅，谨小慎微地喊着“女权路不停步”和“一百年前她们都

retreat on the feminist road!" and "A hundred years ago they were awake, today you're all asleep!"	醒了，一百年后你们还睡着”的口号。
Yet despite the deliberately low-key nature of the event, which the women said they held two days early to avoid the risk of detention, security guards repeatedly chased them away, saying that banners were not permitted in the park and that their dress was "strange," said Jian Hu, a pseudonym given by one member of the group who asked that her real name not be used, for fear of detention.	她们说，提前两天举行活动是为了避免被拘押的风险。尽管这次活动刻意保持低调，但一个因为害怕被抓而要求不具真名、化名为“鉴湖”的成员称，保安仍多次驱赶她们，称公园里不允许打横幅，并说她们身着“奇装异服”。
The upshot of an environment where real public, political debate is banned is that the field is open to a paternalistic, state-run version of Women's Day.	一个禁止进行真正公开政治讨论的环境下，其结果就是可以接受家长式的、官方版本的妇女节。
That arrived at my home on March 8 in the shape of a bouquet of flowers and a bar of soap, courtesy of my landlord, which is ultimately the Ministry of Foreign Affairs since we live in a diplomatic compound.	3月8日这一天，它以一束花和一块肥皂的形式来到了我家。礼物来自我的房东，其实就是中国外交部——因为我家住在外交公寓。
A card with a drawing of a delicate female with long, black locks and a pert, upturned nose enjoined me to enjoy "the essence of womanhood" — flowers and soap, I guess.	一张卡片要求我享受“女性的精髓”——我猜就是鲜花和肥皂吧。卡片上画着一名优雅的女子，她的头发又长又黑，有着一个小巧上翘的鼻子。
In Guangzhou, the city government whose employees chased away the feminists for their "strange clothes" offered free entry to public parks on March 8 to any woman wearing a figure-hugging qipao, a Chinese dress. The feminists' practical gowns were too loose and did not qualify, Ms. Hu said.	在广州，派工作人员以“奇装异服”为由驱赶女权主义者的市政府规定，3月8日当天，公园对所有穿旗袍的女性免费。旗袍是一种贴身的中式裙装。鉴湖说，她们的学生裙太宽松了，不符合条件。
And Global Times, a media outlet that is part of People's Daily, tweeted this on March 8:	《人民日报》旗下的报纸《环球时报》在3月8日这一天发推说：
This #womensday, let's not forget International Men's Day (Nov 19), a	今天是#妇女节，但我们不要忘记国际男人节（11月19日），那是庆祝我们

time to celebrate our achievements and fight against discrimination	的成就和反对歧视的日子。
The paper did, however, apologize later that day:	但当天晚些时候，该报做出了道歉：
Sorry for our male editor's effort to steal the limelight on Women's Day. We know you hold up more than half sky.	对我们的男编辑想在妇女节这一天抢镜的行为表示道歉。我们知道你们顶起的不止半边天。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170328/postcard-from-china-secret-video-of-a-womens-rights-demonstration	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170328/postcard-from-china-secret-video-of-a-womens-rights-demonstration
On State TV, Chinese Forces Storm a Compound a Lot Like Bin Laden's	模仿猎杀本·拉登？中国在新疆特训反恐武装
BEIJING — The action-packed, prime-time segment on Chinese state-run television featured an elite police force storming a gated desert compound and sprinting toward a white, three-story house.	北京——中国官方电视台在黄金时段播放了一段充满动作情节的短片，其中的一个场面是，精锐武警部队冲进一个位于沙漠地带的封闭院子，跑向一座白色的三层楼房。
To some viewers, that house looked familiar.	对一些观众来说，那个房子看上去有点眼熟。
The structure bore an uncanny resemblance to the compound in Pakistan where United States Navy SEALs killed Osama bin Laden in 2011. Like that house, this one had a wide, flat roof and small windows; the verandas and the outhouses were similar, and even the triangular yard was of the same proportions.	它与巴基斯坦的一个有院子的建筑异常地相似，2011年，正是在那里，美国海军海豹突击队击毙了奥萨马·本·拉登。与那个房子一样，央视画面中的房子也有一个大型平屋顶，窗户也很小，阳台和附属建筑也很相似，就连三角型的院子也具有相同比例。
The news item, broadcast Friday on a China Central Television channel devoted to military affairs, did not mention bin Laden or point out the similarities to the compound in the Pakistani city of Abbottabad where he spent his last years in hiding. But an eagle-eyed fan of the People's Liberation Army noticed, posting a screen shot of the replica on Weibo, the Chinese version of Twitter, along with several photos of the bin Laden compound for comparison.	这段新闻视频是周五在中央电视台的军事频道上播出的，里面没有提及本·拉登，也未指出白房子与位于巴基斯坦城市阿伯塔巴德那个院落的相似之处，本·拉登在生命的最后几年一直躲藏该处。但是，中国人民解放军的一位观察敏锐的粉丝注意到了，并把白房子的一张截图发到了微博上，还附带了几张本·拉登住所的照片，加以比较。微博相当于中文版的Twitter。
"Imitating and then innovating is better than working on your own behind closed doors," one Weibo user said in a comment on the post.	"先模仿再创新，比闭门造车强，"一位微博用户在贴图下面发表的一个评论中说。

The CCTV segment was filmed in Xinjiang, the vast desert region of western China that has occasionally experienced ethnic unrest and attacks on the authorities. Many Uighurs, members of a Muslim, Turkic-speaking group that makes up the majority of Xinjiang's population, resent what they consider Beijing's heavy-handed rule.	央视的这段视频是在新疆拍的，新疆地处中国西部广阔的沙漠地带，那里偶尔会发生民族冲突和袭击当局的事件。占新疆人口多数的维吾尔族是一个讲一种突厥语系语言的民族，其中大多数是穆斯林，对于他们眼中的北京的高压统治，不少维吾尔族人都感到气愤。
China has rapidly expanded its military force in the region, pointing to reports that Uighurs have traveled to Iraq and Syria and are suspected of joining the Islamic State. A think tank based in Washington, New America, said last year that at least 114 Uighurs were believed to have joined the extremist group. But China has not produced evidence connecting Xinjiang's occasional outbreaks of violent unrest in recent years to international terrorism.	中国已经迅速扩大了该地区的军事力量，中国指出，有报道称维吾尔族人曾前往伊拉克和叙利亚，涉嫌加入伊斯兰国。总部位于华盛顿的新美国(New America)智库去年表示，至少有 114 名维吾尔族人被认为加入了该极端主义组织。但中国并未提供证明，表明近年来新疆偶尔爆发的暴力动乱与国际恐怖主义有关。
Last month, armed antiterrorism forces held large rallies in several Xinjiang cities, including the capital, Urumqi. The news segment Friday on counterterrorism training in the region appeared to be a show of force of a different kind.	上个月，反恐武装力量在包括首府乌鲁木齐在内的几个新疆城市大规模集结。周五播放的这段在新疆进行的反恐训练的新闻看来展示的是另一种力量。
The central figure who leads the raid into the bin Laden-like house is Zhang Yue, leader of the Bayingolin special force squadron of the Xinjiang Armed Police Corps. In true propaganda style, the narrator endows Mr. Zhang with a rosy résumé, studded with brave deeds.	带队突袭本·拉登式房子的核心人物，是武警新疆总队巴州支队特勤中队队长张跃。与宣传片常用的手法相符，解说者炫耀了张跃的漂亮简历和英勇事迹。
"After being enlisted for 13 years, he has risen from the ranks to the top of the elite special force," the voice-over says. "It is the routine of this squadron to have intensive training in an unfamiliar environment, so they can calmly handle all kinds of urgent, difficult, dangerous and heavy tasks."	"入伍 13 年来，他从一名普通战士成长为特战尖兵。"画外音解释说，"在这样的陌生地域进行高强度化的实战训练，是这个中队的常规科目，目的就是让官兵能够沉着应对各种突发、或急难险重任务。"

Mr. Zhang, described by one of his subordinates as being “like a devil,” belonged to the Chinese team that performed in an international competition for special forces in Jordan in 2014.	被一名下属描述为“像魔鬼”的张跃，曾作为中国武警代表队的一员，参加了2014年在约旦举行的国际特种兵比武大赛。
Col. David S. Maxwell, associate director of the Center for Security Studies at Georgetown University, who watched the CCTV segment on YouTube, said there was little doubt that Mr. Zhang and his forces were copying American techniques.	乔治城大学(Georgetown University)安全研究中心副主任、退役的美军上校戴维·S·马克斯韦尔(David S. Maxwell)在YouTube上看了这段央视视频之后说，几乎没有疑问，张跃及其中队在模仿美军的技术。
“The movements, room-clearing techniques and shooting drills are all basic special operations techniques,” he said. “I did not see any advanced techniques such as explosive breaching, mechanical breaching — and something you do not see in propaganda films — failed breaches.”	“他们的动作、清除屋内威胁的技术，以及射击演习，这些都是基本的特种部队作战技术，”他说。“我没有看到任何先进的技术，比如用爆炸打开缺口，或用机械方法打开缺口，也没看到你在宣传片中看不到的东西——未成功的打开缺口操作。”
Colonel Maxwell said it was important for counterterrorism forces to train to handle unexpected developments, like the Black Hawk helicopter crash during the bin Laden raid. “There is a big difference between demonstrating choreographed skills and being able to conduct combat operations in the fog and friction of real war when things go wrong, as they did for the assault force in Abbottabad,” he said.	麦克斯韦尔说，反恐部队处理突发事件的训练很重要，比如袭击本·拉登住所时发生的黑鹰直升机坠毁事件。他表示，“展示精心编排的技能，与能在真正战争的困惑和摩擦中进行实战操作，有着很大的差别，实战中会出现异常情况，就像特种部队在阿伯塔巴德遇到的那样。”
Li Wei, an antiterrorism expert at the China Institute of Contemporary International Relations, a government think tank in Beijing, said that training at the bin Laden-like compound was the next best thing to combat experience for China’s special forces.	北京一家政府智囊机构、中国现代国际关系研究院的反恐专家李伟表示，用类似本·拉登住所的建筑作训练，是中国特种部队仅次于实战的最好实践。
“Even though China has built up a strong antiterrorism force, there are still few chances for them to be trained in actual combat, especially	李伟说，“虽然中国建起了一支强大的反恐部队，但这支队伍仍很少有机会进行实战训练，尤其是与美国特种部队相比，美国在中东和其他地区都有实

compared to the Americans who have conducted operations in the Middle East and elsewhere," Mr. Li said. He said the terrorist threat in the southern part of Xinjiang, where the bin Laden replica was built, was "still grave."	战经验。“他说，新疆南部的恐怖主义威胁“仍很严重”，仿造本·拉登住所的建筑就建在新疆南部。
The special training in Xinjiang may suggest that China plans to deploy its antiterrorism forces further afield, a move that would have been unthinkable until recently, said Zhang Baohui, a professor of international affairs at Lingnan University in Hong Kong. "I have seen some reports that China may send its P.L.A. forces to Central Asian countries," Mr. Zhang said.	香港岭南大学国际关系教授张泊汇表示，在新疆进行特种部队训练可能意味着，中国打算在更远的地方部署反恐力量，这种做法直到不久前还是不可想象的。“我看到一些报道说，中国可能会把解放军派往中亚国家，”张泊汇说。
A CCTV report last year quoted Yevgeniy Sysoyev, an antiterrorism official at the Shanghai Cooperation Organization, which includes China, Russia and four former Soviet republics, as saying that China had provided training, equipment and other assistance to Central Asian governments.	中央电视台在去年的一个报道中，援引上海合作组织反恐官员叶夫根尼·瑟索耶夫(Yevgeniy Sysoyev)的话说，中国向中亚的政府提供了培训、设备及其他援助。上海合作组织成员包括中国、俄罗斯和四个前苏联共和国。
The CCTV segment on Friday was not the first to feature a replica of a well-known structure coming under assault from Chinese forces. In 2015, military forces were shown storming a fake version of the presidential palace in Taipei, capital of Taiwan, the self-governed island that Beijing says must eventually be reunited with China.	周五在央视片段中出现的不是第一个被中国部队袭击的知名建筑的复制品。2015年，电视台曾播放过解放军占领复位于台湾台北的总统府的复制品的画面，台湾是一个自治的岛屿，北京说台湾与大陆最终必须实现统一。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170329/china-osama-bin-laden-compound-xinjiang	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170329/china-osama-bin-laden-compound-xinjiang
China Says It Has Detained Rights Activist From Taiwan	中国证实拘押台湾人权人士李明哲
BEIJING — A human rights advocate from Taiwan has been detained in China on suspicion of being a threat to national security, an official in	北京——北京的一名官员周三表示，一名来自台湾的人权倡导人士被怀疑对国家安全构成威胁，在大陆被拘，这进一步表明，中国开始对与陷入困境的

Beijing said on Wednesday, adding to signs of an intensified clampdown on outsiders working with China's beleaguered human rights lawyers and groups.	中国人权律师和团体合作的外来者进行更加严厉的打击。
The activist, Lee Ming-cheh, went missing more than a week ago, after he took a flight from Taipei to Macau to cross into mainland China. His case had already ignited widespread news coverage in Taiwan, a self-governed island at odds with mainland China, which claims the island as its own territory. That unease appeared likely to grow after a Chinese official confirmed that Mr. Lee was being held on a highly serious charge.	这位名为李明哲(Lee Ming-cheh)的活动人士是一周多前失踪的，此前他登上了从台北前往澳门的班机，由此进入中国大陆境内。他的案件在台湾引发媒体的广泛关注，那是一个与中国大陆相对抗的自治岛屿，中国称这座岛屿是自己的领土。在一名中国官员确认李明哲因一项极为严重的指控被拘之后，岛内的不安似乎有可能加剧。
Mr. Lee was "under investigation by the relevant authorities on suspicion of activities harmful to national security," Ma Xiaoguang, a spokesman for the Chinese government's Taiwan Affairs Office, said at a news conference in Beijing.	李明哲“因涉嫌从事危害国家安全活动，已接受有关部门调查”，中国政府的台湾办公室发言人马晓光在北京举行的新闻发布会上表示。
Mr. Ma did not detail what activities brought Mr. Lee under suspicion. But they probably involved his contacts in China, where he used social media to discuss Taiwan's transition to democracy, visited friends about once a year, and delivered donations of books and money to the families of imprisoned human rights lawyers, according to his wife and to the director of the community college in Taiwan where he is employed.	马晓光没有详细说明是什么活动导致李明哲涉嫌这一罪名。但它们有可能与他在大陆的联系有关。据他的妻子和他任职的台湾一所社区大学的校长透露，李明哲利用社交媒体讨论台湾向民主政体的转变，大约每年看望一次朋友，还将捐献给被监禁人权律师家属的书籍和资金交到他们手上。
Mr. Lee's detention has added to signs that security authorities in China are increasingly vigilant against people from outside the mainland who meet with or help civic activists in the country. Some advocacy groups have linked the case to China's introduction this year of a law	李明哲被拘进一步表明，中国安全当局对与中国的民权活动人士见面或帮助他们的外来人士愈发警惕。一些倡导组织将这个案件与中国今年推出一项规范和限制境外非政府组织(NGO)活动的法律联系起来。

regulating and limiting activities of overseas nongovernment organizations.
The detention “will definitely have a chilling effect on other foreign NGO workers in China, especially those who work on issues and with people considered sensitive by the Chinese government,” Patrick Poon, a researcher on China for Amnesty International in Hong Kong, said in an email. “The case exactly fits with what we were worried about the risk exposed to foreign NGOs when it was enacted.”	李明哲被拘“肯定会对其他在中国运营的境外非政府组织形成寒蝉效应，尤其是那些与中国政府认为比较敏感的人协作、解决在它看来比较敏感的问题的机构，”在香港的国际特赦组织(Amnesty International)研究中国问题的研究员潘嘉伟(Patrick Poon)在一封邮件中表示。“这个案件完全应了我们之前就这项法规通过之后外国 NGO 组织将面临风险的担忧。”
But Mr. Lee’s activities appeared to be the kind that would have drawn official suspicion in China even before the new law took force. Last year, China expelled Peter Dahlin, a Swedish human rights advocate living in Beijing, after detaining and interrogating him over his work helping rights lawyers and activists.	但李明哲的活动似乎是那种即便在新法规施行之前也会引发官方质疑的行动。去年，中国拘留了在北京生活的瑞典人权倡导人士彼得·达林(Peter Dahlin)，就他帮助人权律师和活动人士的工作进行审问后将其驱逐出境。
The detention probably also reflected a wider clampdown in China ahead of a Communist Party congress this year, said Shawn Shieh, an expert on Chinese civil society who lives in Hong Kong. That congress will endorse a new leadership lineup to serve under Xi Jinping in his second five-year term as party leader and state president.	在香港生活的中国公民社会专家谢世宏(Shawn Shieh)表示，拘留行动或许也显示出中国在今天的共产党全国代表大会前夕进行的范围更大的打压行动。这届代表大会将认可一个新的领导层，他们将在习近平作为党的领导人和国家主席的第二个五年任期内担任领导职位。
“I think certainly Chinese police and security forces are in a hyper state of vigilance,” Mr. Shieh said by email. That intense vigilance would continue, in the months leading up to the party congress, which is likely to be in October or November, he said.	“我认为中国警方和安全部队无疑处在高度警惕的状态，”谢世宏在邮件里讲道。他还表示，在党代会前的几个月里——会议有可能在 10 月或 11 月举行，这种高度警惕的情况会一直持续。
Tensions between China and Taiwan have risen since last year, when President Tsai Ing-wen, whose Democratic Progressive Party advocates reducing ties with China and asserting Taiwan’s separate status, took	中国和台湾之间的紧张关系自去年台湾总统蔡英文(Tsai Ing-wen)上任后便开始加剧，后者领导的民进党主张减少与中国的联系，主张台湾的独立地位。

office.
Mr. Lee previously worked for the party, but he has not been a member for years, said Cheng Shiow-jiuan, the director of Taipei Wenshan Community College, where Mr. Lee is a manager. Other members of the party have traveled to China without threat.	李明哲担任管理人员的台北市文山社区大学校长郑秀娟(Cheng Shiow-jiuan)表示, 李明哲此前曾为民进党工作, 但他已经退出民进党很多年。该党的其他成员前往中国大陆并不会受到威胁。
At a news conference on Wednesday, Mr. Lee's wife, Lee Ching-yu, and other supporters in Taipei asked China to give information about his location and release him immediately. Eeling Chiu, secretary of the Taiwan Association for Human Rights, said that Mr. Lee's detention was "going to make even more Taiwanese view China's human rights situation as extremely problematic."	在周三举行的一场新闻发布会上, 李明哲的妻子李净瑜(Lee Ching-yu)和他在台北的支持者要求中国提供有关李明哲所在地点的信息, 并要求立即释放他。台湾人权促进会秘书长邱伊翎(Eeling Chiu)表示, 李明哲被拘"会让更多台湾人觉得中国的人权状况是非常有问题的"。
But Mr. Lee was going to China this time only to visit friends there and had no other agenda, his wife, Ms. Lee, said in an interview. She said officials from the island had told her that her husband was detained after crossing the border from Macau into China.	但李明哲的妻子李净瑜在接受采访时表示, 他这次去中国大陆只是为了看望那里的朋友, 没有其他日程。她表示台湾官员告诉她, 她的丈夫在从澳门过境进入中国后被拘。
"I only hope that China handles this according to the standards of a civilized country," she said.	"我只是希望中国按照文明国家的标准去处理,"她说。
Over the weekend, state security officers in southern China also prevented Feng Chongyi, a professor at the University of Technology Sydney, from taking flights back to Australia. Mr. Feng, a Chinese citizen with permanent residence in Australia, has supported liberal Chinese intellectuals critical of their government and has also been researching Chinese "rights defense" lawyers who challenge state power and abuses through litigation and public campaigns.	上周末, 在中国南部, 有国家安全官员阻止悉尼科技大学教授冯崇义(Feng Chongyi)乘坐返回澳大利亚的航班。冯崇义是一名获得澳大利亚永久居留权的中国公民, 他支持批评政府的中国自由知识分子, 也在研究中国的"维权"律师, 后者通过诉讼和公开的活动挑战国家权力和权力滥用行为。
Mr. Feng has been staying at a hotel in Guangzhou, the capital of	冯崇义的律师陈进学在接受电话采访时表示, 在国家安全官员就他在中国和

Guangdong Province, while state security officers questioned him about his contacts and activities in China, as well as in Australia, his lawyer, Chen Jinxing, said by telephone on Wednesday. Mr. Feng has criticized Beijing's efforts to influence ethnic Chinese people abroad and mobilize them to back it on territorial disputes and other controversies.	澳大利亚的联系与活动进行质询时，冯崇义一直住在广东省会城市广州的一家酒店里。冯崇义曾经指责北京竭力对海外华人施加影响，动员他们支持它在领土争端和其他争议上的立场。
Under Mr. Xi, the government's clampdown has not been confined to social organizations, said John Fitzgerald, a professor at Swinburne University of Technology in Melbourne, Australia, who studies civil society in China.	在位于澳大利亚墨尔本的大学(Swinburne University of Technology)研究中国公民社会的教授约翰·菲茨杰拉德(John Fitzgerald)表示，在习近平领导下，中国政府的打压行动没有局限在社会团体范围内。
"These restrictions appear to go well beyond civil society groups to professional lawyers, tertiary institutions, media, and so on," he said. "Nothing is beyond tightening."	"这些限制似乎超出了公民社会团体的范畴，将职业律师、高等教育机构、媒体等也涵盖在内，"他说。"一切都在收紧。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170330/china-taiwan-activist-lee-ming-cheh	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170330/china-taiwan-activist-lee-ming-cheh
As Power Wanes, Kuomintang Struggles to Hang On in Taiwan	"掉队"的国民党未来在哪里?
TAIPEI, Taiwan — The party once ruled China, helping to vanquish Japan in World War II. Defeated by Mao Zedong's Communists, it fled to Taiwan, where it imposed martial law for decades before grudgingly yielding to popular demands for democracy.	台湾台北——这个政党曾经统治中国，还在第二次世界大战中协助击败日本。被毛泽东领导的共产党人打败之后，它逃到了台湾，在那里实施了几十年的戒严，之后不情愿地屈服于实行民主制度的民众吁求。
But now the days of power and wealth are gone for the Chinese Nationalist Party, or Kuomintang, as it struggles to stay relevant in Taiwan politics — a situation that has implications for Beijing and Washington.	然而，坐拥权力与财富的时代如今已经离国民党远去，它正在艰难地跟上台湾政治的步伐——这种局面已经影响到北京和华盛顿。
After a disastrous performance in last year's general election, the	在去年的大选中惨败之后，国民党失去了总统职位，这是台湾自1996年实

Kuomintang, also known as the K.M.T., lost control of the presidency for the second time since Taiwan's presidential elections began in 1996. For the first time, it is a minority party in the island's legislature.	行总统选举制度以来第二次出现这种情况。而且它第一次成为了台湾立法机构中的少数党。
"The K.M.T. is looking for its footing in a new environment," said Nathan Batto, assistant research fellow at Academia Sinica and an expert on Taiwan's elections. How it will adapt to challenges on several fronts is still an open question.	"国民党正在一个新环境里寻找自己的立足之地，"中央研究院(Academia Sinica)副研究员、台湾选举专家鲍彤(Nathan Batto)说。它会如何适应在好几个领域面临的挑战，依然有待观察。
The Kuomintang's base is made up of those who think of themselves "as Chinese in some way," Mr. Batto said. That base, however, is now only 20 to 40 percent of voters. Corporations seeking access to the Chinese market are an additional pillar of support — especially financial.	国民党的基本盘是由那些"在某种程度上"将自己看作"中国人"的人构成，鲍彤讲道。然而，这些人群现在只占全部选民的20%至40%。试图进入中国市场的企业是另外一股支柱力量——尤其是在经济上。
The Kuomintang is under investigation regarding public and private assets it seized after arriving in Taiwan seven decades ago. In the 1990s, Kuomintang assets totaled $2.9 billion, according to party data. Its assets now frozen, it has recently cut staff from 800 to under 400 because of insufficient funds.	国民党正在就它在70年前抵达台湾后获取的公共和私有财产问题接受调查。该党的统计数据显示，在上世纪90年代，国民党的资产总计达到29亿美元。如今党产已被冻结，最近还因资金不足，将党工人数从800减至400不到。
Watching the Kuomintang drama is China, which claims Taiwan and threatens to attack if it officially acknowledges its functional independence. Chinese observers differ in their views on the state of the Kuomintang, Beijing's preferred dialogue partner in Taiwan.	中国眼看着国民党经历了这样的戏剧性变化，它宣称台湾是中国的领土，并威胁如果台湾正式承认独立将会对它发起袭击。对于北京更偏好的台湾谈判对象国民党的状况，中国观察人士意见不一。
"The Kuomintang can't be lifted up again," Wang Hongguang, a retired People's Liberation Army lieutenant general, said at a conference in China last December. "It is being marginalized."	"国民党已经拾不起来了，"人民解放军退役中将王洪光在去年12月参加一个会议时说道。它"正在不断地被边缘化"。
Mr. Wang, a former deputy commander of the P.L.A. Nanjing Military Area Command responsible for deployment in an invasion of Taiwan,	之前任人民解放军南京军区——负责部署进攻台湾的行动——副司令员的王洪光预测，台湾和中国将在2020年左右爆发战争，并表示中国会"一举"夺

predicted that war between China and Taiwan would begin around 2020. He said China would take Taiwan "in one stroke."	取台湾。
Ni Yongjie, deputy head of the Shanghai Institute of Taiwan Studies, said in a telephone interview that the future of the Kuomintang was uncertain, while noting incorrect predictions that the now-governing Democratic Progressive Party was doomed after losing the presidency in 2008.	上海台湾研究所副主任倪永杰在接受电话采访时则表示，国民党的未来还不确定。他同时指出，之前出现的有关现在执政的民进党在 2008 年总统大选失败后要完蛋的预言已经被证明是错误的。
"It's just too early to draw any conclusions," Mr. Ni said, adding that the Chinese government has "strategic patience" for a long-term policy of peaceful unification.	"现在下结论还为时过早，"倪永杰说。他还表示，中国政府对和平统一的长期政策有"战略耐心"。
China's approach to Taiwan is two-pronged, Jessica Drun, a fellow at the National Bureau of Asian Research in Washington, wrote in an email.	华盛顿的国家亚洲研究局(National Bureau of Asian Research)研究员庄宛桦(Jessica Drun)在一封邮件中表示，中国对台湾的策略是双管齐下。
"Beijing aims to demonstrate to the Taiwan electorate that the K.M.T. is the party best-suited in managing cross-strait relations, while at the same time maintaining informal channels of communication with the D.P.P. and third parties in order to remain abreast of their views and strategic thinking," Ms. Drun wrote.	"北京旨在向台湾选民表明，国民党是最适合管理两岸关系的政党，同时又保持与民进党和第三方的非正式沟通渠道，以便及时了解它们的态度和战略思维，"庄宛桦写道。
The cornerstone of relations between the Kuomintang and China is the so-called 1992 Consensus. The Consensus is named for discussions in Hong Kong that year in which both sides were said to have agreed to a "One China" policy, with each side interpreting it differently.	国民党与中国关系的基础是所谓的"九二共识"，它是以 1992 年在香港进行的一系列商谈命名的。双方据称在商谈中都同意"一个中国"政策，但各方的解读不同。
In 1978 Washington announced it would switch diplomatic recognition of China's government from Taipei to Beijing, while maintaining unofficial relations with its ally Taiwan. A joint communiqué noted that	1978 年，华盛顿宣布其外交上承认的中国政府将从台北变成北京，同时又保持了与盟友台湾的非正式关系。一份联合公报指出，美国"政府承认中国的立场，即只有一个中国，台湾是中国的一部分"，但并没有承认中国对台

the United States “acknowledges the Chinese position that there is but one China and Taiwan is part of China,” without recognizing China’s claim on Taiwan.	湾的管辖权。
While selling arms to Taiwan, Washington has consistently adhered to its own interpretation of One China that seeks neither to cross Chinese red lines nor abandon Taiwan. That tightrope walk took a momentary sidestep in December when the president-elect at the time, Donald J. Trump, accepted a congratulatory phone call from Taiwan’s president, Tsai Ing-wen.	在向台湾出售武器的同时，华盛顿始终坚持自己对“一个中国”的解读，争取既不越过中国的红线，又不抛弃台湾。去年12月，当时还是候任总统的唐纳德·J·特朗普接听了台湾总统蔡英文(Tsai Ing-wen)的祝贺电话，华盛顿走钢丝的策略暂时走偏。
Weeks later, that uncertainty spiked even higher when Mr. Trump, still president-elect, told The Wall Street Journal that “everything is under negotiation, including One China.” Mr. Trump climbed down from that statement in his first call as president with China’s president, Xi Jinping, committing to honor Washington’s previous One China policy.	几周后，当仍是候任总统的特朗普对《华尔街日报》(The Wall Street Journal)表示“一切还在协商中，包括‘一个中国’”时，这种不确定性进一步增强。但在第一次以总统的身份同中国国家主席习近平通电话时，特朗普放弃了这一言论，承诺遵守华盛顿之前的“一个中国”政策。
China cut off official communication with Taiwan after Ms. Tsai refused to bow to its demand that she recognize the 1992 Consensus in her inauguration speech last May. Beijing has increased military drills in Taiwan’s vicinity, including the first passage of its lone aircraft carrier through the Taiwan Strait.	去年5月，在蔡英文拒绝按中国的要求在就职演讲中承认“九二共识”后，中国切断了与台湾的正式沟通。北京增加了在台湾附近的军事演习，包括首次派其仅有的一艘航空母舰通过台湾海峡。
China’s reaction to Ms. Tsai’s pivot away from her predecessor Ma Ying-jeou’s close ties to Beijing in favor of closer relations with Washington and Tokyo is being used as a line of attack by the Kuomintang.	中国对蔡英文放弃前任马英九(Ma Ying-jeou)亲北京的立场，转而寻求与华盛顿和东京建立更密切的关系的反应，被国民党当成了一种攻击线路。
That opportunity may have been diminished by a new blow to the Kuomintang’s image: the March 14 indictment of Mr. Ma over a	但这个机会可能会因为国民党的形象再次遭受打击而被削弱：3月14日，马英九因一起窃听案被起诉。该案件和他与国民党资深立委王金平之间的长

wiretapping case connected to his long-running rivalry with the veteran Kuomintang legislator Wang Jin-pyng. He faces up to three years in prison if convicted.	期竞争有关。若被判有罪，马英九最高可获刑三年。
Mr. Wang, one of the Kuomintang's more popular members, said Ms. Tsai's administration had mishandled relations with China.	作为国民党较受欢迎的成员之一，王金平称蔡英文政府对与中国的关系处理不当。
"It won't go as far as war breaking out, but there's no contact" between the two sides, Mr. Wang said. In dealings with China, he said, Taiwan should "maintain a certain degree of mutual contact, maintain a certain degree of friendship – this is the path of the K.M.T."	王金平说，“不会打架，但是呢彼此之间没有往来。”他表示，在中国打交道时，台湾应该“保持一定程度的互相来往，保持一定程度的友善。国民党会照这个路走”。
The Kuomintang chairwoman, Hung Hsiu-chu, met with Mr. Xi in Beijing last November, continuing her party's talks with its erstwhile adversary. Ms. Hung said that she and Mr. Xi seek peaceful cross-strait development, while opposing Taiwan independence.	去年 11 月，国民党主席洪秀柱(Hung Hsiu-chu)同习近平在北京会面，延续了该党与其从前的对手的对话。洪秀柱称，她和习近平寻求两岸和平发展，同时反对台独。
Cross-strait relations would be stable under this framework, she said, adding that Taiwan could negotiate a peace agreement with China.	她说两岸关系应在这一框架下保持稳定，接着又表示台湾可以通过谈判，与中国达成一份和平协议。
"Although we're not at war, a hostile relationship still exists" across the strait, Ms. Hung said.	“虽然现在不打仗，可是那个敌对的关系其实还是存在，”洪秀柱说。
To reach such an agreement would require the Kuomintang to return to power in 2020, an unlikely prospect unless the party leadership charts a new path, despite President Tsai's current low approval ratings. It will elect its party leader on May 20, with five candidates intending to challenge Ms. Hung. In recent weeks, Wu Den-yih, the former vice president, has emerged as the strongest of those.	要达成这样一份协议需要国民党在 2020 年重新掌权，但尽管蔡英文目前支持率低迷，这一幕仍不太可能发生，除非国民党领导层制定出一个新路线。国民党将于 5 月 20 日选举党主席，共有五名候选人试图挑战洪秀柱。最近几周，前副总统吴敦义(Wu Den-yih)成了其中势头最强劲的一位。
"Nobody is saying 'Here is the direction I want to lead our country. Give me power, I want to lead our society to a better place,'" Mr. Batto said of	“没人说‘这就是我希望领导我们国家要去的方向。给我权力，我希望把我们的社会带到一个更好的地方，”鮑彤说到这些挑战者时表示，而洪秀柱描绘

the challengers, while Ms. Hung is offering an even more Chinese nationalist vision, more extreme than the 1992 Consensus.	的愿景甚至有着更浓厚的中国民族主义色彩，比“九二共识”还极端。
“The ‘92 Consensus fell apart,” he said. “You can’t just put Humpty Dumpty back together again.”	“‘九二共识’瓦解了，”他说。“破镜难圆。”
Some younger Kuomintang members seeking to increase their party’s low appeal to Taiwan’s youth are wary of embracing China too closely. Hsu Yu-jen, 38, a first-time legislator, acknowledged the challenge.	一些更年轻的国民党成员希望增加国民党对台湾年轻人的吸引力。他们唯恐与中国走得太近。首次担任立委的38岁的许毓仁(Hsu Yu-jen)承认存在这个挑战。
“You can’t get too close, and you have to maintain a friendly distance,” Mr. Hsu said.	“不能走得太近，又必须友好地保持距离，”许毓仁说。
For the Kuomintang to reverse its electoral fortunes in next year’s local elections and the 2020 general election, it will need to change its messaging, said Ms. Drun, noting that the Democratic Progressive Party moderated its views on formal independence after eight years under President Chen Shui-bian, who often rocked the cross-strait relations boat.	庄宛桦说，要想在明年的地方选举和2020年的大选中扭转局势，国民党需要改变自己传达给外界的信息。她指出，在经常导致两岸关系这艘小船发生剧烈晃动的陈水扁(Chen Shui-bian)当了八年总统后，民进党对正式独立的态度变得温和了一些。
“It seems that the K.M.T. may be coming off as too extreme on the opposite side of the spectrum,” Ms. Drun said, “as pro-unification under Hung Hsiu-chu.”	“看上去，洪秀柱领导下的国民党在对立的一面可能表现得太过极端，”庄宛桦说，“甚至到了支持统一的地步。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170330/taiwan-china-kmt-kuomintang	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170330/taiwan-china-kmt-kuomintang
China Poised to Take Lead on Climate After Trump’s Move to Undo Policies	应对气候变化，中美角色互换
For years, the Obama administration prodded, cajoled and beseeched China to make commitments to limit the use of fossil fuels to try to slow the global effects of climate change.	多年来，为了试图减缓气候变化对全球的影响，奥巴马政府督促、劝诱并恳求中国做出限制使用化石燃料的承诺。
President Obama and other American officials saw the pledges from	奥巴马及其他美国官员认为，北京和华盛顿的承诺很关键：中国是温室气体

both Beijing and Washington as crucial: China is the largest emitter of greenhouse gases, followed by the United States.	的最大排放国，其次是美国。
In the coming years, the opposite dynamic is poised to play out. President Trump's signing of an executive order on Tuesday aimed at undoing many of the Obama administration's climate change policies flips the roles of the two powers.	未来几年里将出现与过去截然相反的动态。特朗普总统周二签署了一项行政命令，目的是要撤销奥巴马政府在气候变化方面的许多政策，这就调换了中美两国的作用。
Now, it is far likelier that the world will see China pushing the United States to meet its commitments and try to live up to the letter and spirit of the 2015 Paris Agreement, even if Mr. Trump has signaled he has no intention of doing so.	现在，这个世界更可能看到的是，中国会推动美国履行其承诺，尽力在文字和精神上履行 2015 年达成的《巴黎协议》，尽管特朗普表示并无意这样做。
"They've set the direction they intend to go in the next five years," Barbara Finamore, a senior lawyer and Asia director at the Natural Resources Defense Council, based in New York, said of China. "It's clear they intend to double down on bringing down their reliance on coal and increasing their use of renewable energy."	"他们已经确定了他们未来五年的行动方向，"芭芭拉·菲娜慕(Barbara Finamore)提到中国时说，她是一位资深律师，在位于纽约的自然资源保护委员会(Natural Resources Defense Council)担任亚洲项目主任。"很明显，他们打算加倍努力减少对煤炭的依赖，加倍努力增加对可再生能源的使用。"
"China wants to take over the role of the U.S. as a climate leader, and they've baked it into their five-year plans," she added, referring to the economic development blueprints drawn up by the Chinese government.	"中国想取代美国成为应对气候变化的领袖，他们已将之写入了他们的五年计划，"菲娜慕补充说，"五年计划"指的是中国政府制定的经济发展蓝图。
Even before the presidential campaign last year, Mr. Trump had made statements consistent with climate change denial, including calling climate change a hoax created by China. He has also threatened to formally withdraw the United States from the Paris Agreement. Since Mr. Trump's election in November, senior Chinese officials and leaders have been taking the high ground on the issue by urging all countries,	即使在去年的总统竞选活动之前，特朗普就曾发表过与气候变化否认者一致的言论，包括把气候变化称为中国造成的骗局。他还威胁要让美国正式撤出《巴黎协议》。自从特朗普去年 11 月当选总统以来，中国的高级官员和领导人一直在这个问题上拿出一种高姿态，敦促包括美国在内的所有国家遵守其气候承诺。 including the United States, to abide by their climate commitments.

The biggest rhetorical turning point came in January, when Xi Jinping, China's president, said at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, that the Paris Agreement was "hard won" and should remain in force.	中国态度的最大转折点发生在今年1月, 当时, 中国国家主席习近平在瑞士达沃斯的世界经济论坛上说,《巴黎协议》“来之不易”, 其有效性应该保持下去。
"All signatories should stick to it instead of walking away from it, as this is a responsibility we must assume for future generations," he said.	习近平说, 所有缔约国“应该共同坚守, 不能轻言放弃。这是我们对子孙后代必须担负的责任”。
Other Chinese officials at Davos repeated that message, including the energy minister, Nur Bekri, and top executives of state-owned enterprises.	包括能源局局长努尔·白克力和国有企业高层管理者在内, 出席达沃斯会议的其他中国官员也复述了这个信息。
In an interview before the recent climate conference in Marrakesh, Chai Qimin, a climate change researcher and policy adviser, said that policies adopted at a recent Communist Party meeting showed that China "has attached ever greater importance to ecological civilization and green development."	在最近的马拉喀什气候变化大会召开之前的一次采访中, 气候变化研究员兼政策顾问柴麒敏说, 共产党在不久前的一个会议上采纳的政策表明, 中国“更加重视生态文明和绿色发展”。
"Everyone is taking this more and more seriously," he added.	“所有的人都在越来越认真地对待这个问题”, 他补充说。
Chinese participation is critical for global efforts on climate change. With its economic growth and rampant infrastructure construction, China consumes as much coal as the rest of the world combined. The burning of coal, which is at the core of the power, steel and cement industries in the country, generates enormous amounts of carbon dioxide, the main greenhouse gas. So environmental advocates and officials around the world constantly say China must break its coal addiction.	中国的参与, 对应对气候变化的全球努力来说至关重要。由于中国的经济增长、以及上马了大批基础设施建设项目, 中国的煤炭消耗量已相当于世界其他地区消耗量的总合。煤炭的燃烧支撑着国内的电力、钢铁和水泥行业, 也产生了大量的制造温室效应的主要气体二氧化碳。因此, 世界各地的环保倡导者和官员一再说, 中国必须打破自己对煤炭的依赖。
But unlike in the United States, Chinese leaders and senior officials have	但与美国不同的是, 中国领导人和高级官员一致认为, 气候变化是一个严重

consistently said that climate change is a serious problem and acknowledged that changing the energy mix to move away from fossil-fuel sources is important.	的问题，他们承认，改变能源结构、减少化石燃料的使用十分重要。
And because of its air pollution crisis, China announced policies in 2013 to limit the use of coal in the country's three largest population centers. More recently, scientists have said that there is a dangerous cycle at work: Weather patterns from climate change are exacerbating the smog.	而且，由于受空气污染危机的困扰，中国已于2013年宣布了限制在国内三大人口中心使用煤炭的政策。科学家们最近表示，可能有一种危险的恶性循环：气候变化带来的天气模式正在导致雾霾的加剧。
"China is cutting back on coal because of its lethal costs to human health as well as its high carbon emissions, and plans to transition to the energy sources of tomorrow, rather than yesterday," said Isabel Hilton, founder of Chinadialogue, a prominent website that reports on environmental issues and policy. "President Trump seems intent on reviving a 19th-century energy source rather than pursuing the promise of the 21st century."	对中国环境问题和政策进行报道的网站“中外对话”(Chinadialogue)的创始人伊莎贝尔·希尔顿(Isabel Hilton)说，“中国正在减少煤炭的使用，因为煤炭给人类健康带来致命的代价，也产生很高的碳排放，中国打算转向未来的能源，而不是昔日的能源。特朗普总统似乎想重振一种19世纪的能源，而不是追求21世纪的曙光。”
Mr. Trump's pro-coal talk, and the unlikelihood that his administration will pressure China to cut back on fossil fuels, might mean that pro-coal interests in China, including among state-owned energy companies, will try harder to push back against officials putting limits on coal.	特朗普的亲煤言论，以及他的政府不大可能会向中国施压、让其减少化石燃料使用的前景，也许意味着，包括国有能源公司在内，中国亲煤炭利益集团将会更加努力地抵制官员对煤炭的限制。
But in recent years, coal consumption in China has declined slightly, surprising many analysts and researchers. China's economic slowdown — from decades of double-digit annual growth to 6.7 percent last year — has been a major factor. Analysts say there appeared to be an increase in coal use during part of 2016 because of economic stimulus policies, but preliminary statistics released in February indicate that	但近年来，中国的煤炭消耗量已略有下降，这令许多分析人士和研究人员惊讶。中国经济增长放缓是一个主要的因素，去年，中国的经济增长率从过去几十年的两位数降低到了6.7%。分析人士说，由于经济刺激政策的出台，煤炭的使用在2016年的部分时间似乎有所增加，但2月份公布的初步统计数字显示，去年的煤炭消耗量与2015年相比仍有所下降。

overall coal consumption declined last year compared with 2015.
Given such numbers, researchers say China may reach a carbon emissions peak in 2025 – five years ahead of its stated goal of 2030.	考虑到这些数字，研究人员表示，中国可能在 2025 年达到二氧化碳排放峰值，比中国宣布的 2030 年的目标提早五年。
China has also made pledges on the percentage of total energy that will be generated by non-fossil-fuel sources, which include hydropower, nuclear power, wind and solar. Mr. Xi has said that by 2030, 20 percent of China’s energy will come from such sources. Chinese officials are now grappling with the complex problem of getting energy generated by wind and solar sources onto the grid and properly used.	中国也在包括水电、核电、风能和太阳能等非化石燃料在能源结构中所占的比例作出了承诺。习近平说，到 2030 年，中国的总能耗中将有 20%来自非化石燃料。中国官员目前正在努力解决让来自风能和太阳能的电力并入电网、让其得到正确使用的复杂问题。
“Trump’s rejection of regulatory action on climate change creates a vacuum in global climate leadership that China can now seize,” said Alex L. Wang, a law professor and China environmental expert at the University of California, Los Angeles. “In recent years, a variety of factors – crisis levels of pollution, economic opportunities from green development and concerns about the domestic risks of rising temperatures – have pushed China to action on climate change. Trump’s actions don’t affect these underlying drivers.”	“特朗普拒绝在气候变化方面采取监管行动，这就在全球应对气候问题的领导力上造成了真空，中国现在可以抓住这个机会，”加州大学洛杉矶分校法律教授和中国环境问题专家王立德(Alex L. Wang)说。“近年来，各种因素——污染达到了危机水平、绿色发展带来的经济机遇，以及对温度上升所带来的国内风险的担忧——推动了中国在气候变化方面的行动。特朗普的所作所为不会影响这些根本的动力。”
In addition, China has said that it will put in place by the end of this year a national market for greenhouse gas quotas, commonly known as a cap-and-trade program. It has experimented with seven such regional markets, and there have been problems with them, but the government is determined to set up a national program to put a price on carbon and impose a cost on companies that generate large amounts of carbon dioxide, Chinese policy advisers say.	此外，中国还表示，今年年底前将建成一个被称为“排放限额与交易”系统的温室气体配额全国市场。中国已在七个这类区域性市场中进行试验，尽管遇到一些问题，但政府建立一个全国碳排放交易系统的决心未变，这将让产生大量二氧化碳的公司付出代价，中国的政策顾问说。
China appears to be overperforming on other targets besides its carbon	除了提早让碳排放达到峰值外，中国似乎也在超前实现其他目标。中国曾表

emissions peak date. It had stated that by 2020, 58 percent of its energy would come from coal consumption. Official statistics indicate China might meet that target early. Chinese officials now say they expect to get the number down to 60 percent this year.	示，将在 2020 年让其能源消耗的 58%来自煤炭。官方统计数据显示，中国可能提前达到这一目标。中国官员现在说，他们预计今年的煤炭消耗会降到总能耗的 60%。
A report released in January by the Institute for Energy Economics and Financial Analysis, based in Ohio, said China was the world leader in domestic investment in renewable energy and associated low-emissions-energy sectors, with $103 billion invested in 2015. And China is going global with that strategy – last year, it invested $32 billion in large overseas deals involving renewable energy.	总部设在俄亥俄州的美国能源经济与金融分析研究所在 1 月份发布的一份报告中指出，中国在可再生能源和相关的低排放能源领域的国内投资处于世界领先地位，2015 年的投资达到了 1030 亿美元。中国的这个战略正在向全球扩展，去年，中国达成的涉及可再生能源的大型海外项目的总投资为 320 亿美元。
“There are clear differences between the Chinese approach and the Trump administration on climate change,” Ms. Hilton said. “While Trump’s administration seems to believe that action on climate change is a waste of money and threatens jobs in the U.S., China sees investment in climate-related action as essential to secure a safe and prosperous future for Chinese citizens, as well as a strategic opportunity to develop and supply the technologies of the future.”	“在气候变化方面，中国的做法与特朗普政府的有明显的差别，”希尔顿说。“特朗普政府似乎认为，应对气候变化的行动是浪费金钱、给美国的就业带来威胁，而中国则把应对气候变化行动方面的投资，认为对确保中国公民有一个安全和繁荣的未来至关重要，也把这些行动看作是开发和提供未来技术的机会。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170330/trump-climate-change-paris-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170330/trump-climate-change-paris-china
Foreign Correspondents as They Live and Breathe	驻外记者手记：我们同呼吸共命运
Times Insider shares insights into how we work at The New York Times. In this article, Didi Kirsten Tatlow, a Beijing-based Times correspondent, compares notes and guilt trips with Times reporters around the world who have moved with their families to smog-laden news hubs.	“时报内情”(Times Insider)专栏分享我们在《纽约时报》的故事。在这篇文章中，驻北京的时报记者狄雨霏(Didi Kirsten Tatlow)与世界各地的时报记者比较了各自的情况和充满内疚感的经历，他们带着家人搬到了烟雾严重的时报分社驻地。
Air matters. So when the conversation over a recent lunch in The	空气很重要。所以不久前，在《纽约时报》的北京分社，当大家边吃午餐边

Times's Beijing bureau turned to the air pollution that regularly suffuses this city with chemicals and despondency, Ian Johnson, a China correspondent, took out his phone to check Air Matters, an app that measures air quality based on the Environmental Protection Agency's Air Quality Index, which scores the air from 0 to 500. Over 300 and the air is "hazardous."	聊到定期让这座城市充满化学物质和沮丧情绪的空气污染时，驻中国的记者张彦(Ian Johnson)拿出手机，打开了“在意空气”(Air Matters)应用。这个应用根据环境保护局(Environmental Protection Agency)的空气质量指数测量污染程度，范围从0到500不等，超过300的空气是“危险的”级别。
It was at 169, "unhealthy" by American standards and several times the World Health Organization's recommended daily level.	这天的指数是169，按照美国的标准是“不健康的”，比世界卫生组织(WHO)推荐的日常标准高出好几倍。
Air quality has long been a serious problem here in Beijing – for citizens and The Times's foreign correspondents alike. Now efforts to dial back air pollution worldwide are likely to take a hit: On Tuesday, less than a week after rolling back fuel-economy standards for the auto industry, President Trump announced an executive order reversing the rest of the Obama administration's climate plan. If carried through, the order – which lifts American limits on carbon dioxide emissions from coal-fired power plants, the largest contributor of particulate pollution – flies in the face of the United States' pledge under the Paris climate accord to cut its emissions.	在北京，空气质量一直以来都是个严重的问题——对市民和时报的外国记者都一样。现在，全球减少空气污染的努力可能会受到打击：周二，就在汽车行业燃油经济性标准回落之后不到一周的时候，特朗普总统又发布了一项行政命令，扭转了奥巴马政府气候计划的其他内容。这个政令取消了美国对燃煤发电厂二氧化碳排放量的限制——燃煤发电厂是最大的颗粒污染源——如果照此执行，美国就会违背在《巴黎气候协议》中对减少排放量的承诺。
Air pollution is worst in developing nations, particularly in Asia, where economies are growing fast and countries often have lax regulations, but smog also affects Europe, making headlines in London, Paris and Warsaw. Beijing, New Delhi and Tehran experience smog that far exceeds W.H.O. limits. Dirty air contributes to the deaths of millions of people each year, according to a recent Health Effects Institute report, "State of Global Air."	在发展中国家，特别是亚洲，空气污染尤为严重，那里经济增长很快，国家监管往往不严，但烟雾也在影响欧洲，成为伦敦、巴黎和华沙的头条新闻。根据美国健康影响研究所(Health Effects Institute)最近的报告《全球空气状况》(State of Global Air)，北京、新德里和德黑兰的烟雾超过了WHO的上限。根据健康效应研究所(Health Effects Institute)最近发布的报告《全球空气状况》，肮脏的空气每年造成数以百万计的人死亡。

Katrin Bennhold, a Times correspondent in London, cycles daily through smoggy parts of the city to reach work. "There are days in the summer when the heat and the rush-hour fumes hang over the stationary black cabs and double-decker buses like an invisible blanket," she wrote in an email. A year ago, her doctor warned her about it. "He said the damage to my respiratory system of biking for 30 minutes, twice a day, almost certainly outweighs the health benefit. That came as a shock."	时报在伦敦的记者卡特琳·本霍尔德(Katrin Bennhold)每天上下班时都会途径一些烟雾弥漫的地方。她在一封电邮中写道：“夏天有些时候，在酷热和高峰时段，有害微粒悬浮在黑色出租车和双层巴士上，像一条看不见的毯子。”一年前，她的医生发出了警告。“他说，骑自行车 30 分钟，每天两次，几乎可以肯定对我的呼吸系统弊大于利。当时我很震惊。”
For Ellen Barry, The Times's South Asia bureau chief, who is based in New Delhi, the smog's arrival is "a true disaster."	时报在新德里的南亚分社社长艾伦·巴里(Ellen Barry)表示，雾霾的到来是“一场真正的灾难”。
"When you land at the airport and they open the hatch on the aircraft," she says, "the smell hits you like a wall while you're still in your seat. A strong chemical burning smell. That's the smell of Delhi through the winter."	“当飞机在机场降落时，舱门一打开，”她说，“你还在座位上的时候，气味就会像一道屏障撞到你。那是一种刺鼻的化学品烧着的气味。那就是德里冬天的味道。”
Ellen and her husband run medical-quality air purifiers around the clock, in every room of their home. Their two daughters wear masks on their way to and from school. Most days from November to February, the school doesn't allow students to play outside. And it is introducing a new vacation that will allow foreign families to leave Delhi for the worst, most dangerous weeks, at the beginning of November.	在家中的每个房间，艾伦和丈夫让医疗级别的空气净化器全天开着。两个女儿在上放学路上会戴口罩。从 11 月至 2 月的大部分时间，学校不允许学生在户外活动。并且他们正在推出一个新的假期，允许外国家庭在 11 月初离开德里，避开最恶劣、最危险的几个星期。
"But these solutions are contingent on having resources," Ellen adds, "which is not true for the vast majority of people who live here. So you protect your family with the terrible consciousness that the people who surround you cannot."	“但这些解决方案取决于是否拥有资源，”艾伦补充说。“绝大多数居住在这里的人并没有这种资源。所以你在保护家人的时候，会难受地意识到周围的人做不到这一点。”
In Beijing, the situation is similar.	在北京，情况也类似。

"Even those colleagues who go to great lengths to protect the lungs of their children find it can be difficult to keep the effects of the smog at bay," says Edward Wong, a former Beijing bureau chief who returned to the United States late last year. One reason for the move was his 3-year-old daughter's hacking cough, despite air purifiers, that disappeared in cleaner places.	"即使是那些竭尽全力保护孩子肺部的同事，也难以抵御烟雾的影响。"去年年底返回美国的北京分社前社长黄安伟说。他回美国的一个原因是，虽然安装了好几台空气净化器，3岁的女儿还是一直干咳，但在空气比较清洁的地方，她的咳嗽就好了。
For parents, guilt is unavoidable, but families don't always have a choice of where they live. And although scientists and public health officials know smog is unhealthy, no one can say exactly how much exposure is a problem, and how much of a problem. Should one stay only three years? Five? Ten?	对于父母而言，内疚是不可避免的，但人们并不总是能选择自己的居住地。虽然科学家和公共卫生官员知道烟雾影响健康，但没有人能确切地说在烟雾中暴露多久会造成问题。应该只待三年吗？五年？还是十年？
For Katrin, the hunt is on for a good face mask that can catch pollution particles that travel deep into the lungs and enter the bloodstream.	对于卡特琳来说，她正在寻找一种好用的口罩，可以挡住深入肺部并进入血液的污染颗粒。
We've tried everything in Beijing, but in reality only one thing will work: cleaning up the air.	我们在北京尝试过各种方法，但实际上只有一件事情有用：让空气清洁起来。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170331/foreign-correspondents-air-pollution-smog-beijing	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170331/foreign-correspondents-air-pollution-smog-beijing
As Hong Kong Ponders Its Future Under Beijing, Politics Infuses Its Art	挫败与无助：雨伞运动后的香港艺术
HONG KONG — As 1,194 electors were casting ballots on Sunday for Hong Kong's next leader, Sampson Wong was tagging Facebook videos that showed city residents making breakfast, riding trains and playing with cats.	香港——上周日，当 1194 名选委为挑选香港下任领导人进行投票时，黄宇轩(Sampson Wong)正在给 Facebook 上的几段视频添加标签，视频显示了香港居民做早饭、坐地铁和逗猫等情节。
The scenes were unremarkable, and that was the point: Mr. Wong and other members of the Add Oil Team, an artists' collective, were broadcasting the videos of people engaged in activities that did not	这些情节平淡无奇，而这正是要点：黄宇轩是艺术团队“打气小队”的一员，他和团队的其他成员当时在播放人们进行日常活动、不包括投票行为的视频，作为对一个不具代表性的政治程序的批评。他们在 Facebook Live 上播

include voting as a critique of an unrepresentative political process. "No Election in Hong Kong Now," the title of their Facebook Live stream said.	的视频流的标题是“没有票的香港”。
The Add Oil Team plans to turn the videos into a documentary-style work that could be exhibited in a gallery. "Although it's an angry protest gesture, it's also kind of peaceful," Mr. Wong said, flanked by laptops and coffee cups in a minimalist design studio.	“打气小队”打算把这些视频制作成一部可在陈列馆展示的纪录片。“虽然这是一种愤怒抗议的表示，但表达的形式相当和平，”黄宇轩说，他正在一间极简主义的设计室里工作着，两边都是笔记本电脑和咖啡杯。
Nearly three years ago, this semiautonomous Chinese city of 7.3 million was roiled by months of pro-democracy protests, known as Occupy Central or the Umbrella Movement, that stoked an existential debate over its political future. The protests ended without achieving their goal of greater public participation in the election of Hong Kong's leader, and several organizers now face criminal charges. In July, Hong Kong will inaugurate its new leader, Carrie Lam, Beijing's preferred candidate, as the former British colony commemorates the 20th anniversary of its handover to Chinese rule.	将近三年前，这个有 730 万人口的半自治中国城市经历了几个月的亲民主抗议活动的动荡，被称为“占中”或“雨伞运动”的抗议激发了一场关于香港将有怎样的政治未来的辩论。抗议活动没有达到其希望在香港领导人选举中有更多公众参与的目的，而且，抗议活动的几位组织者目前面临刑事指控。今年 7 月，在这个英国前殖民地纪念主权回归中国 20 周年之际，香港的新领导人林郑月娥将上任，她是北京青睐的候选人。
All of that leaves local artists struggling to find meaning in the city's upheavals, art professionals said in interviews. And while some of their recent works are more overtly political than others, many are infused with a sense of helplessness toward what is widely seen here as the city's increasing subjugation to Beijing's authoritarianism.	本地的艺术家在采访中表示，所有这些都让他们试图从香港的动荡中寻找意义。在他们的近期作品中，虽然有些作品比其他的具有更明显的政治色彩，但许多作品都充满了一种无力感，这种感觉来自一种普遍的看法，即香港正越来越多地屈服在了北京的专制政权下。
"The expression of frustration, or the acceptance of failure, could be the key words of the artwork which reacts to the Umbrella Movement," said Chow Chun Fai, who paints scenes from films in which characters comment on Hong Kong's relationship with the mainland.	“沮丧的表达，或接受失败，也许是对雨伞运动的回应的艺术作品的关键词，”周俊辉说，他的作品包括绘制有评论香港与大陆关系的人物出现的电影画面。

“Three years ago, we had to be very quick and loud” during the street protests, he added. But recent artwork is “more sentimental, and we have the distance to tell the story and to listen to the story.”	“三年前，我们必须非常迅速、非常大声地行动”，他补充说，他指的是街头抗议活动。但最近的作品则“更多的是伤感，我们现在讲故事、听故事已与当时有了一定的距离”。
Artists and curators in Hong Kong say that some of the themes coursing through local art have been present for decades. But the 2014 protests, they say, were an important catalyst for many artists, particularly those who came of age in this century.	香港的艺术家和策展人说，注入当地艺术主题的一些东西在当地已经存在了几十年。但是，他们说，2014年的抗议活动，对许多艺术家、特别是那些本世纪成长起来的艺术家来说，是一个重要的催化剂。
“Somehow the Umbrella Movement unfolded a lot of layers of the political and social problems” that Hong Kong faces, said Clara Cheung, a co-founder of C&G Artpartment, an art space in the Kowloon district.	位于九龙的艺术空间“C&G 艺术单位”的联合创始人张嘉莉说，“雨伞运动以某种方式展现了“香港所面临的“政治和社会问题的多个层面。”
Recent artworks that address Hong Kong politics vary widely in message and delivery. Some are intended for public spaces, rather than commercial galleries, and feature loaded commentaries on the “one country, two systems” framework that guarantees the city its civil liberties and a high degree of autonomy until 2047.	涉及香港政治的近期作品在传递和传播信息上有很大的差别。有些是为公共空间、而不是为商业画廊制作的，这些作品带有对“一国两制”的含蓄评论，“一国两制”的框架保证香港在 2047 年前享有公民自由和高度自治。
A prominent example is the nine-minute light show Mr. Wong and Jason Lam mounted last year that counted down the seconds until “one country, two systems” was due to expire. The display was exhibited across the face of Hong Kong’s tallest skyscraper to coincide with a visit by Zhang Dejiang, a member of China’s governing Pwalolitburo Standing Committee — but pulled after the artists explained its subversive message.	一个显著的例子是，黄宇轩和林志辉(Jason Lam)去年的一个九分钟的视频作品，其中有“一国两制”到期的秒数倒计时。作品展示在香港最高摩天大楼的玻璃外墙上，恰好时值中国中共中央政治局常委会委员张德江到访香港，但是，在艺术家解释了其中的颠覆性信息之后，作品被撤了下来。
In a similar vein, “Controlling Device,” by Kacey Wong, shows a pair of nooses, one bronzed, and one coated in red wax. Mr. Wong has said the piece is a commentary on recent crackdowns on free expression in	与此类似，凯西·黄(Kacey Wong)的作品《控制装置》显示了一对绞索，其中一个为铜的，另一个打着红蜡。黄先生表示，作品是对最近香港言论自由受压制的评论，包括 2015 年发生的几位书商显然被绑架到了大陆的事件。

Hong Kong, including the apparent abductions of several prominent booksellers to the mainland in 2015.
"We're fighting a war that we cannot win, so how to fight it?" Mr. Wong asked on a recent afternoon in his studio. "You fight it with grace."	"我们正在打一场打不赢的战争，该怎么打呢？"最近的一个下午，黄先生在他的工作室里问道。"要用文雅的方式来打。"
Other artworks comment on Hong Kong's relationship with Beijing in more roundabout ways.	其他艺术品则以更迂回的方式来评论香港与北京的关系。
Ocean Leung, for example, incorporates police and pro-Beijing political banners into mixed-media works that intentionally distort the banners' original messages. The works are not overtly pro-democratic, and Mr. Leung said that his art illustrated how difficult it was to take clear positions on political questions.	比如，梁御东(Ocean Leung)把警察和亲北京政治的横幅融合到其混合媒体作品中来，并故意歪曲横幅上原有的信息。这些作品并非显而易见地亲民主，而且梁御东说，他的艺术所表现的，是在政治问题上采取明确立场的困难程度。
"It's an embrace of failure," he said.	"这是在接受失败，"他说。
Similarly oblique commentaries run through "Breathing Space: Contemporary Art From Hong Kong," an 11-artist show on view through July 9 at the Hong Kong Center of the Asia Society, which in November canceled a planned screening of a documentary about the Umbrella Movement, citing political concerns.	亚洲协会香港中心举办的《喘息空间：香港当代艺术展》上也贯穿着类似的间接评论，这次展示 11 名艺术家作品的展览将于 7 月 9 日闭幕。该中心去年 11 月取消了上映一部有关雨伞运动纪录片的原定计划，理由是担心涉及政治。
One piece, "Defense and Resistance," by South Ho, shows photos of the artist walling and then unwalling himself in with bricks marked with "Made in Xianggang," the word for Hong Kong in Mandarin, the mainland's dominant tongue. The bricks are also stacked up in the center of the gallery, with a chunk missing, and it is unclear whether the wall is structurally sound — a possible metaphor for Beijing's power over the city.	这次展览的一个作品是何兆南(South Ho)的《防御与抵抗》，作品由一系列照片组成，照片中，何兆南用以在大陆的主要语言普通话标有“香港制造”的砖头堆墙将自己围起来，然后再把墙拆掉。展室中央也有一个用砖头堆起来的墙，其中有一大部分缺失，所以不清楚这堵墙是否在结构上稳定，这也许是在比喻北京对香港控制。
An especially haunting work, "If the Moment Came," is a waist-high	一件尤其令人难忘的作品是《如果那刻来了》，这是一段循环视频，其中有

black box with a top made of wired glass and a murky interior that shows a looping video of a hand playing with a kendama, a Japanese toy featuring a wooden handle and a small ball.	一个盖着铁丝玻璃窗的半身高的黑盒子，盒子里光线暗淡，有一只手在玩剑球(kendama)，剑球是一个由木柄和小木球组成的日本玩具。
The artist, Chloë Cheuk, said that she created the installation after making an audio recording of boys playing with kendamas at one of the 2014 protest sites. She added the wired glass, she said, as a reference to protesters who smashed a window at the Legislative Council complex around the same time.	艺术家卓思颖(Chloë Cheuk)说，2014年抗议活动期间，她在一个抗议地点录下了一些男孩玩剑球的声音，之后在那段录音的基础上制作了这个装置。她补充说，铁丝玻璃窗的使用与抗议活动期间砸破了立法会大楼窗户的示威者有关。
Ms. Cheuk, 27, said that the ball's inevitable failure to break through the glass was intended to evoke the feeling of helplessness that she said was now familiar to many young Hong Kongers.	27岁的卓思颖说，很明显，木球根本不可能打破带铁丝的玻璃，作品的目的是给人以一种无可奈何的感觉，她说，许多年轻的香港人对这种感觉已经很熟悉。
But that feeling transcends politics, she said, and her artistic practice is primarily guided by her emotions.	但这种感觉超越了政治，她表示，她的艺术作品主要是以自己的感情为指导。
"When people see my work, they can respond because they can really feel it," she said on a recent evening in Yau Tong, an industrial area in eastern Kowloon. "They feel that they've been understood."	"人们看到我的作品时，他们能产生共鸣，是因为他们真正感受到了其中的感情，"最近的一个晚上，她在九龙东部的工业区油塘这样说道。"他们感觉到他们被人理解了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170331/hong-kong-art-political-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170331/hong-kong-art-political-china
China Confirms Details of Trump-Xi Meeting at Mar-a-Lago	中国确认习近平特朗普会谈细节安排
HONG KONG — President Xi Jinping of China will visit President Trump at his Mar-a-Lago estate in Florida next week, the Chinese Foreign Ministry said Thursday, confirming details of the two leaders' first summit meeting.	香港——中国外交部周二表示，中国主席习近平将在佛罗里达州的马阿拉歌庄园(Mar-a-Lago)拜访特朗普总统，两国领导人第一次举行峰会的细节得到了确认。
The meeting had been in the planning stages for several weeks as aides worked out the particulars. China had pushed for the more relaxed atmosphere of a meeting at Mr. Trump's resort, rather than at the White	数周来，这次会晤一直处在规划阶段，助理们在对具体事项做安排。美国官员说，中国极力要求在特朗普的度假村见面，而非白宫，这样气氛会更加轻松一些。

House, American officials said.
The leaders will have a full agenda as they hash out some of the more contentious issues in bilateral relations: Mr. Trump's claims about China's unfair trade practices; curbing North Korea's nuclear ambitions; and American concerns about Chinese military ambitions in the South China Sea, among other matters.	两位领导人将有一个完整的议程,他们将讨论双边关系中争议更大的一些问题:特朗普对于中国不公平贸易做法的说法;遏制朝鲜的核野心;美国人担心中国在南海的军事野心等等。
The meeting, on April 6 and 7, will follow a recent trip to China by the United States secretary of state, Rex W. Tillerson. Mr. Tillerson struck a conciliatory tone as he met Mr. Xi in Beijing on March 19, a visit during which details of the Florida meeting were ironed out.	在4月6日和7日的这次会晤举行之前,美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)最近访问了中国。蒂勒森3月19日到北京与习近平会面时采取了安抚的态度,那次访问敲定了佛罗里达会晤的细节。
Mr. Xi will visit Mar-a-Lago, in Palm Beach, after stopping in Finland, said Lu Kang, a spokesman for the Chinese Foreign Ministry.	中国外交部发言人陆慷说,习近平将在芬兰做停留之后,前往棕榈滩的马阿拉歌庄园。
The two leaders had spoken by phone on Feb. 9. During that conversation, Mr. Trump told Mr. Xi he would honor the so-called One China policy, under which the United States recognizes a single Chinese government in Beijing and has no formal diplomatic ties with Taiwan.	两位领导人曾在2月9日通过电话。在交谈中,特朗普告诉习近平,他将遵行所谓的“一个中国”政策,即美国承认北京是唯一的中国政府,不与台湾建立正式外交关系。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170331/trump-china-xi-mar-a-lago-summit-meeting	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170331/trump-china-xi-mar-a-lago-summit-meeting
The New York Times vs. the 'Great Firewall' of China	纽约时报中文网的“前世今生”
Times Insider shares insights into how we work at The New York Times. In this article, Craig S. Smith, a former Times Shanghai bureau chief and China managing director who is now a staff writer-at-large, reflects on the ups and downs of delivering New York Times content to the Chinese world.	“时报内情”(Times Insider)专栏为读者呈现《纽约时报》报道的幕后故事。在这篇文章中,之前曾担任时报上海分社社长、中国区执行董事,现为时报资深记者的石克雷(Craig S. Smith)回顾了将《纽约时报》的内容推向中文世界过程中所经历的起伏。

If you look at the top of our home page, you'll see a tab with two Chinese characters, which mean "Chinese." Few people know the struggle and angst that put those characters there.	看一眼时报主页的顶端，你会发现一个由两个汉字构成的标签，它的意思是“中文”。很少有人知道这两个字能出现在这里，背后经历了怎样的艰难与焦灼。
In August 2001, I accompanied our publisher, Arthur O. Sulzberger Jr., and a group of New York Times writers and editors to see Jiang Zemin, then the president of China. The meeting took place in a typical Chinese meeting room — doily-draped fauteuils underneath a monumental ink-and-brush painting of sea and mountains — at China's leadership compound in Beidaihe, an otherwise gritty seaside resort on the northeastern coast.	2001年8月，我随时报出版人小阿瑟·奥克斯·苏兹伯格(Arthur O. Sulzberger Jr.)与一群时报作者和编辑见到了当时的中国国家主席江泽民。会面在一个典型的中式会议室进行——铺着沙发巾的扶手座椅，墙上挂着巨幅的山水水墨画——这里是中国领导人在北戴河的办公地点，它位于中国东北海岸一个多砂砾的海滨疗养地。
The New York Times's English-language website was blocked in China, and after a long discussion on a range of topics Tom Friedman asked why. President Jiang didn't appear to know, and agreed to look into it. Within days, nytimes.com was accessible again in China. For the next 10 years, The Times's website was reachable by mainland Chinese readers, with articles only occasionally blocked from view.	《纽约时报》的英文网站当时在中国受到屏蔽。就一系列话题谈论了不短的时间之后，汤姆·弗里德曼(Tom Friedman)问起中国为何屏蔽时报的网站。江泽民似乎并不知情，但他表示会调查此事。没几天，nytimes.com 又能在中国打开了。在接下来的10年里，《纽约时报》的网站一直可以被中国大陆的读者打开，只是偶尔出现有些文章看不到的情况。
I left The Times for a Chinese start-up that never started and in late 2010 wanted to bring what I had learned back to The Times. I emailed Arthur and Bill Keller, the executive editor at the time, asking if they would be interested in a New York Times website in Chinese. I had experience building digital products and was well connected to the Chinese news media industry. The timing seemed right.	之后我离开时报，去了一个始终没能启动的中国创业公司。到了2010年末，我想把自己学到的东西带回时报。于是我给阿瑟和时报执行总编比尔·凯勒(Bill Keller)发了邮件，询问他们对成立纽约时报中文网站是否有兴趣。我有了打造数字产品的经验，跟中国的新闻媒体行业关系也不错。时机看来水到渠成。
I asked Phil Pan, now The New York Times's Asia editor — who had quit The Washington Post and was living in Hong Kong — to join me in hammering out a proposal. We worked for a year before we had a	我请现为《纽约时报》亚洲主编的潘公凯(Phil Pan)——他当时已经离开了《华盛顿邮报》，在香港生活——和我一起做这项提案。我们努力了一年，才有了一份时报愿意投资的商业计划。我和潘公凯在2012年1月加入《纽约时报》，

business plan in which The Times was willing to invest. Phil joined and I rejoined The Times in January 2012 and we got started.	启动了这个项目。
October 2012 would begin a once-in-a-decade leadership change, which made our timing tricky. The government tightens its control of the news media during such times, but most people expected that period to pass. The incoming administration was widely expected to advance reforms that had been stalled under the presidency of Hu Jintao.	2012年10月会是十年一轮的中国领导层更替的时刻，这让我们启动的时机变得有些棘手。政府会在这段时间收紧对新闻媒体的控制，但大多数人都觉得这个阶段会过去。大家普遍认为，新一届政府会继续推进在胡锦涛时期停滞的改革。
Despite squalls, I had watched China's news media climate steadily improve since I first arrived there in 1980. I expected, and ultimately still expect, that trajectory to continue. Besides, The New York Times's main website hadn't had a problem in China since that meeting with President Jiang in 2001. That's how I responded to worries from senior management that the China project might founder amid stiff political headwinds. None of us foresaw the authoritarian retrenchment that has since been enacted by the new president, Xi Jinping.	尽管其中不乏风暴，但自我于1980年第一次到中国以来，看到的是中国的媒体大气候一直在不断改善。我期待——至今仍然期待——这个趋势还会持续下去。此外，自2001年与江泽民会面之后，《纽约时报》的主站在中国一直没什么问题。我正是这样回应来自高级管理层对这个中国项目有可能在强劲的政治顶头风中遭遇挫败的担忧。我们没有一个人预见到新任国家主席习近平上台后会实施专制紧缩。
Phil and I set off on a mad dash that January, renting office space and hiring editors and translators and a tech team that would build the site to carry New York Times content to the Chinese world. It was fun and exciting. On June 28, 2012, we huddled around a computer as our tech team turned the site on.	那年1月，我和潘公凯紧锣密鼓地开启这个项目，我们租下办公室，招聘编辑和翻译，还招募了一个技术团队负责搭建起将《纽约时报》的内容带到中文世界的网站。这个过程很有意思，也让人兴奋。2012年6月28日，我们围在一台电脑旁，看着我们的技术团队将网站上线。
The response from readers was heartening. Traffic soared, and fans on Sina weibo, the dominant social media platform of the day, grew even faster. But within hours we faced a harbinger of things to come: Suddenly the weibo account was blocked and soon it disappeared.	读者的反应令人振奋。网站流量激增，我们在当时占主导地位社交平台新浪微博上的粉丝增长得更快。但不到几个小时，我们就遇到了一个有预兆性的事件：微博账号突然遭到屏蔽，不久便消失了。

Things took a turn for the worse four months later when David Barboza published his Pulitzer Prize-winning piece on the family finances of China's outgoing premier, Wen Jiabao. The article infuriated the incoming administration as much as the outgoing one. Access to both the Chinese-language and main English-language New York Times sites were immediately blocked in China.	四个月后,当张大卫(David Barboza)发表了当时中国即将离任的总理温家宝家族财务状况的文章后,情况更是急转直下。后来张大卫凭此报道获得了普利策奖。这篇报道激怒了即将离任和即将上任的政府。《纽约时报》中文和英文网站立即在中国遭到屏蔽。
We embarked on a yearlong lobbying effort, hoping to get the block overturned. We met repeatedly with the State Council information office and the Foreign Ministry; we worked with the head of Xinhua news agency (a ministerial-level position) and the head of People's Daily (another ministerial-level position); we spoke with Rupert Murdoch's former government relations director, who has family ties to the Central Propaganda Department; we even tried back-channel negotiations with a series of intermediaries who claimed influence with people around President Xi. Of course, we tried at every opportunity to meet with President Xi himself, hoping for a repeat of the success with President Jiang.	我们做了长达一年的游说努力,希望能够解禁。我们一次次与中国的国务院新闻办公室和外交部的人见面;与新华社社长(部级职位)和人民日报社社长(也是部级职位)合作;与鲁伯特·默多克(Rupert Murdoch)的前任政府关系总监聊天,此人与中央宣传部官员有家庭关系;我们甚至尝试与许多声称对习近平周围的人有影响力的中间人进行非正规途径的谈判。当然,我们也千方百计地想要找机会见到习近平本人,希望能像当年说服江泽民一样说服他。
The effort wasn't without raised voices. At one point a young Foreign Ministry official sat forward in agitation and shouted to me, "I love my Party!" Nor was it without sarcasm. A State Council elder with bottle black hair asked if I was due a bonus if the sites were unblocked (I was not). And there were many corny conversations filled with metaphors about bridges.	这些努力不是没有遭遇过大声驳斥。一名年轻的外交部官员曾坐着俯身向前,激动地冲我喊,“我爱党!”讽刺挖苦也不是没有。一位有着乌黑头发的国务院老资格人士问,如果解除对网站的屏蔽,我是不是会拿到一笔奖金(并不会有)。还有许多老生常谈的谈话,其间充斥着有关桥梁的比喻。
None of it worked — and, as months turned to years, my initial, guarded optimism that we were witnessing a cautious new administration's	结果无一奏效。随着时间从数月变成数年,我从最初的谨慎乐观——认为我们见证的是一个小心翼翼的新政府在短期内巩固自身的权力——变成无奈地

short-term consolidation of power gave way to resignation that we had been an early victim of a larger policy of information control that extended well beyond China's borders.	接受这样一个事实，即我们是一项更大的、远远超出中国边境的信息控制政策早期的受害者。
The Chinese Communist Party's efforts at shaping the world's view of its country, culture and government have grown into an aggressive transnational censorship program that seeks to quash critical voices globally. The frustrating thing is that this strategy, while hurting China's image internationally, has been remarkably successful at home. Relatively few Chinese, for example, know who the artist Ai Weiwei is, much less the democracy activist Liu Xiaobo, who won the Nobel Peace Prize even as he was languishing in a Chinese jail.	中国共产党塑造世界对它的国家、文化和政府看法的努力，演变成积极的跨境审查行动，竭力阻挡世界批评它的声音。令人沮丧的是，这项战略尽管在国际上损害了中国的形象，却在国内取得了非同寻常的成功。比如，在中国鲜有人知道艺术家艾未未是什么人，知晓民主活动人士刘晓波的人更是少之又少——后者获得诺贝尔和平奖时正囚禁在中国的一座监狱里。
The majority of Chinese, including highly educated Chinese, are satisfied for the most part with the news and information available to them. Virtual private network software allows people to jump the "Great Firewall" and view the global internet; but most people are happy with the worldview that state-licensed broadcasts and publications afford.	中国的绝大多数人，包括受过高等教育的中国人，对自己能接触到的新闻和信息大体满意。虚拟专用网络（Virtual private network, 简称 VPN）软件让人们可以越过“防火长城”(Great Firewall)，连接全球的网络；但绝大多数人满足于经过政府批准的广播电视和出版物提供的世界观。
Despite our main websites being inaccessible in China, we continued to make progress in penetrating the mainland Chinese market. We started a lifestyle site that was accessible and then blocked and then unblocked and is now blocked again. We created unblocked mirror sites to feed social media accounts and started two newsletters that bring our stories directly to tens of thousands of readers each week. We built apps that our tech team engineered so they could not be blocked at all. We even started print publications, the most successful of which will soon be rebranded as 时 — The New York Times Chinese Magazine, a	尽管我们的主站在中国一直无法打开，但我们在打进中国大陆市场方面持续取得进步。我们推出了一个生活方式网站，一开始可以打开，然后遭到屏蔽，之后解除，现在又再度被屏蔽。我们建立了不受屏蔽的镜像网站，给社交媒体账户提供内容，还创建了两项新闻订阅服务，将我们的报道每周直接发送给数以万计的读者。我们打造了多个由自己的技术团队编写的应用程序，它们无法被屏蔽。我们甚至开始印刷纸质出版物，其中最成功的一本很快将重塑形象，以《时》这个名字面世——纽约时报中文杂志，一份 48 页的生活方式季刊。我们的读者也在持续增长，其中主要来自中国大陆。

48-page lifestyle quarterly. Our audience, primarily from mainland China, kept growing.
Our traffic has long since surpassed what it was when our troubles began, and it grew nearly 70 percent last year alone. The New York Times brand now has a firm foothold in the country and among the global Chinese diaspora. When news media restrictions relax, and I believe they eventually will, The Times's Chinese audience will most certainly take off.	我们的网页浏览量早就超过了麻烦开始时的数字，去年一年就增长了近70%。《纽约时报》这个品牌现已经在中国和全球海外华人中站稳了脚跟。等到新闻媒体管制放松之时——我认为这一天终会到来——时报的中文读者肯定还会迅速增加。
The harassment, however, still hasn't stopped.	然而，骚扰并未停息。
Our former landlords refused to renew our lease for office space overlooking the Foreign Ministry, claiming they were under pressure to make us move. Mysterious technicians have attached monitoring devices to our telecommunication cables in both buildings where we have set up offices. Some of our Chinese employees are occasionally invited "for tea" to be probed by state agents. Despite paying for the highest level of service, our internet speed regularly slows to a crawl.	之前的房东拒绝让我们续租可以远望外交部的办公室，声称他们承受着让我们离开的压力。身份不明的技术人员在我们前后两处办公室所在的大楼的通讯电缆上安装了监控设备。我们的一些中国雇员不时被请去“喝茶”，被政府特工调查。尽管花钱买了最高级别的服务，但我们的网速还是经常慢得像在爬。
Our Android app was never accepted in Chinese Android stores and recently Apple removed our iOS app from their Chinese app store, most certainly because of Chinese government pressure.	我们安卓(Android)系统的应用程序一直没有被中国的安卓应用商店接受，iOS系统的应用程序最近也被苹果公司在中国的应用商店下架——很有可能是因为受到来自中国政府的压力。
The problem in China is that you never really know who is behind such decisions. The local Public Security Bureau? The city government? A ministry? A central government official? State Security? President Xi? Chinese bureaucracy is like a series of Chinese boxes that are harder and harder to open as you move toward the center.	在中国的问题是，你永远无法知道这些决定是由谁做出的。当地的公安局？市政府？某个部委？某个中央政府官员？国家安全部？习近平？中国的官僚体制就像一个套一个的中国盒子，越往中间越难打开。
We don't have answers now, and I expect we never will.	我们现在还没有答案，我觉得我们永远也找不到这些答案。

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170401/the-new-york-times-vs-the-great-firewall-of-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170401/the-new-york-times-vs-the-great-firewall-of-china
Within Hours, Plans for a Quiet Corner of China Send Home Prices Soaring	中国设立雄安新区，当地房价暴涨
SHANGHAI — A residential and industrial area roughly 80 miles south of Beijing once barely registered on China’s economic map. Consisting mostly of apartment buildings, villages, wetlands and empty fields, it has primarily been known for its donkey burgers.	上海——位于北京以南大约 80 英里（约合 130 公里）的一片住宅和工业区，以前在中国的经济版图上几乎不为人所注意。这里大多由公寓楼、村庄、湿地和空地构成，主要以驴肉火烧为人所知。
But now the area around Xiongxian County has become another example of the frothiness and unpredictability of the Chinese property market — a market that many experts warn could have severe repercussions for China and the world if it stumbles.	但现在，雄县周边这片区域成为了证明中国房地产市场容易产生泡沫且不可预测的又一个例子。许多专家曾经警告，如果这个市场崩盘，将给中国和整个世界带来严重的影响。
On Saturday, China declared that an area that sprawls across three local counties will someday become Xiongan New Area, a gleaming economic powerhouse reminiscent of earlier developments that helped put China’s economy on its fast-growth trajectory. When completed, it will cover nearly 800 square miles, offer favorable regulation to businesses and become a modern urban area crucial to redeveloping the Rust Belt around Beijing.	周六，中国宣布一片横跨当地三个县的区域未来将成为雄安新区，一个闪闪发光的经济发动机，它让人想起早年将中国经济送上快车道的那些经济开发区。建成之后，这个面积近 800 平方英里（约合 2070 平方公里）的新区，将实行有利于企业的管理，会成为一个对北京周边铁锈地带(Rust Belt)的再开发至关重要的现代都市区。
Almost immediately, speculators pounced, setting off a property buying frenzy and sending shares of construction companies soaring. It has been such a chaotic market that local authorities have been forced to freeze purchases and close real estate offices. Chinese social media showed photos of new property developments and real estate offices with signs saying they had been temporarily closed.	投机者几乎立即袭来，掀起一轮购买房产的狂潮，导致建筑公司股价飙升。市场如此混乱，以致当地政府不得不冻结交易，关闭售楼处。中国的社交媒体上出现了不少照片，可以看到一些新地产项目和售楼处挂出了暂时关闭的提示牌。

The price spikes have been fast and furious.	房价飙升的速度迅速而又猛烈。
In the town of Baigou, about 12 miles north of Xiongxin, prices for an apartment jumped to 12,000 renminbi per square meter — or more than $160 per square foot — from 8,750 renminbi within hours after the announcement, according to Wen Yunlong, a local real estate agent. On Sunday, it rose by an additional 3,000 renminbi, he said.	在雄县以北 12 英里（约合 20 公里）处的白沟镇，当地的房屋中介文云龙表示，成立新区的消息宣布不到几小时，一套公寓的价格就从每平方 8750 元人民币激增到每平方 1.2 万元人民币。他还表示，周日这个价格又上涨了 3000 元人民币。
“Prices have gone up every day,” Mr. Wen said.	“房子一天一个价，”文云龙说。
Since Saturday, he said, potential buyers had lined up at his agency. “I have been working from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. these days,” he said. “Last night, I worked till midnight.”	他表示，从周六开始，潜在的买家就在他所在的中介机构排起了队。“我最近都是早上 8 点上班，一直到晚上 10 点，”他说。“昨天晚上我半夜 12 点才下班。”
He added: “I haven’t seen so many people here before. It went crazy.”	他还讲道：“我从没见过这么多的人。都疯狂了。”
On Monday, Hong Kong-traded shares of the BBMG Corporation, a Beijing cement maker, jumped nearly 35 percent. Shares of other Hong Kong-traded property-related firms active in the area rose by smaller amounts. Markets in China were closed on Monday for a holiday.	周一，在香港上市的北京水泥生产商北京金隅(BBMG Corporation)的股价暴涨了近 35%。在香港股市，在该地区比较活跃的其他房地产相关企业的股票，也实现了低于这个幅度的增长。中国的股市交易周一因赶上节假日而关闭。
Property is a major investment vehicle in China, where the stock market has long been seen as unreliable and where the authorities tightly limit how much money can be sent outside the country. That has led to surging prices — and worries about bubbles — in a number of cities. While mortgages in China are not as big or as common as they are in the United States, a surge of lending to home buyers has prompted worries about what might happen if China’s property market bursts.	房地产是中国主要的投资工具。在那里，股市一直被认为不太可靠，当局又对海外投资的量进行了严格的限制。这导致许多城市的房价激增——也随之产生对市场泡沫的担忧。尽管中国的抵押贷款的规模不像美国那么大，也不像美国那么普遍，但给购房者提供的贷款激增，促使人们担心中国房地产市场崩盘会带来什么样的后果。
In declaring its intent to build Xiongan, the Chinese government invited comparisons to the southern city of Shenzhen and the Pudong area of Shanghai. Shenzhen was part of China’s earliest experiments with	中国政府宣布打造雄安新区的想法，让人不由得将它与华南城市深圳和上海的浦东新区进行比较。深圳属于中国在毛泽东去世后最早的一批私人企业试验区，它如今依然是中国最富有的区域之一。浦东新区拥有许多构成上海天

private enterprise after the death of Mao Zedong, and it remains one of the richest parts of China. Pudong, home of many of the gleaming skyscrapers that define Shanghai's skyline, became one of China's most successful and high-profile development projects.	际线的耀眼的摩天大楼, 已经成为中国最成功、最引人注目的开发项目之一。
Xiongan will become "a demonstration area for innovative development," Xi Jinping, China's president, told the official state media.	中国国家主席习近平对官方新闻媒体表示, 雄安将成为一个“创新驱动发展引领区”。
Xiongan also fits into China's grand plan to create a vast urban area uniting the capital city of Beijing with the nearby port city of Tianjin and with Hebei Province, the industrial province between them. Called Jing-Jin-Ji, the area — which would include Xiongan — will become a hive of economic activity that is intended to replace Hebei's dependence on smokestack industries like steel and put the region on a path to rival Shanghai and Shenzhen.	雄安也符合中国的一项宏大计划, 即打造一个巨大的都市区, 将首都北京与附近的港口城市天津和二者之间的工业省份河北联结在一起。这片包括雄安在内、被称为京津冀的地区, 将成为经济活动频繁的区域, 其目的是改变河北对钢铁等烟囱工业的依赖, 使之走上能与上海和深圳比肩的道路。
Right now, the Xiongan area has less than 1 percent of the economic output of Beijing, according to state media. It is part of an area known for its donkey burgers — sandwiches with roasted donkey meat, which tastes something like pastrami.	据官方媒体报道, 雄安地区的经济目前还不到北京经济产值的1%。它属于一个以驴肉火烧出名的地区——夹有烤驴肉的烧饼, 这种肉吃起来有点像熏牛肉。
Owen Li took the morning train on Monday from Beijing to sample donkey burgers but had an unusually hard time buying a ticket. Once in Baigou, where property sales had not been shut down, Mr. Li noticed that many cars on the street were brands like Audi, BMW and Mercedes-Benz.	欧文·李(Owen Li)周一从北京搭火车去品尝驴肉火烧, 但却费了很大劲才买到票。在房产销售没有被喊停的白沟镇, 欧文·李注意到街上出现了许多奥迪(Audi)、宝马(BMW)和奔驰(Mercedes-Benz)车。
He then met many potential apartment buyers from out of town and began talking to them. Mr. Li said he was tempted to join them, though he wondered at Xiongan's long-term prospects.	之后他遇到很多来自镇外的潜在公寓买家, 开始跟他们交谈。欧文·李表示, 尽管对雄安的长期前景心存疑虑, 但他当时差点加入他们的队伍。

"If I had the extra money, I would buy several," he said. "It's cheap and has room for appreciation. But maybe not this time."	"如果我手头有余钱，我会买几套，"他说。"这儿的房价便宜，主要看中升值空间。但这次可能不买。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170405/china-economic-zone-xiongan	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170405/china-economic-zone-xiongan
As Trump Meets Xi at Mar-a-Lago, There's a 'Wild Card'	习近平特朗普峰会上的潜在搅局者郭文贵
He is a billionaire who made his fortune in real estate. He has been called a narcissist. He posts to Twitter — incessantly — about politics and his battles against the media. Lately, he has been spending time at a Florida resort named Mar-a-Lago.	他是一名亿万富翁，他在房地产业发了财。他被称为自恋狂。他不停地在 Twitter 上发布关于政治以及他与媒体斗争的帖子。最近，他在佛罗里达州一个名叫马阿拉歌庄园(Mar-a-Lago)的度假村度过了一些时光。
His name?	他叫什么名字?
Guo Wengui.	郭文贵。
Mr. Guo is a Chinese property magnate who has been living outside the country for more than two years. In recent weeks, he has launched a broadside — in television interviews and on Twitter — criticizing the effectiveness of the Communist Party's fight against corruption, all from the safety of financial capitals like London and New York. He is also a member at President Trump's resort in Palm Beach, and posted photos of himself on the grounds last month with Mar-a-Lago's managing director.	郭文贵是中国的一名地产大亨，已经在外国生活了两年多。最近几周，他从自己在伦敦和纽约等金融之都的安全居所发声，通过电视采访和 Twitter 猛烈批评共产党打击腐败的有效性。他也是特朗普的棕榈滩度假村的会员，在 Twitter 上发布了上个月他在马阿拉歌庄园与那里的总经理合影的照片。
Mr. Guo's newly public persona — more akin to a dissident Russian oligarch and highly unusual in Chinese politics — comes at an awkward time, just before China's president, Xi Jinping, and Mr. Trump are to meet at the resort for their first summit meeting. The Chinese billionaire's ties to the club are a new twist in how President Trump's business interests can complicate diplomacy, in this case with arguably	郭文贵新近公开的形象——更像是持有异见的俄罗斯寡头，在中国政治中极不寻常——出现在一个尴尬的时刻，就在中国国家主席习近平和特朗普即将在该度假村举行首次首脑会议之前。这位中国亿万富豪与该俱乐部的关系是特朗普的商业利益可能如何使外交关系复杂化的一个新情节——这一次牵扯到世界上最重要的双边关系。

the world's most important bilateral relationship.
At Mar-a-Lago, moneymaking, socializing and statecraft converged in February, when Shinzo Abe, Japan's prime minister, conferred with Mr. Trump over a North Korean missile test in full view of the club's members. Entry into Mar-a-Lago will be more strict this time than during Mr. Abe's visit, said a United States official with knowledge of the preparations for the meeting, who was aware of Mr. Guo's remarks, but could offer no details about the security protocols.	今年 2 月，在马阿拉歌庄园的俱乐部会员众目睽睽之下，日本首相安倍晋三 (Shinzo Abe) 就朝鲜导弹试验与特朗普商议一番，从而让生意、社交和治国汇集此地。一位了解本次会议准备情况但不能提供安保规格细节的美国官员称，这次进入马阿拉歌庄园的限制会比安倍那次更严格。这位官员知道郭文贵的言论。
At the very least, it would be embarrassing if Mr. Guo, who is also known as Miles Kwok, were to show up at the seaside resort during the meeting Thursday and Friday. At worst, his presence could incense Mr. Xi and the Chinese delegation. Mr. Guo left China during a corruption scandal linked to the jailing of his political patron, a top security official. Mr. Guo said his assets in China — he puts the figure at more than $17 billion — were seized.	如果在周四和周五的会晤期间，郭文贵（他的英文名是迈尔斯·郭[Miles Kwok]）出现在该海滨度假村，那至少会很尴尬。最糟糕的情况可能是，他的出现会激怒习近平和中国代表团。郭文贵是在与他的政治靠山（安全方面的一位高级领导人）入狱相关的腐败丑闻中离开中国的。郭文贵称，他在中国的资产被冻结，他说那些资产超过 170 亿美元。
"Guo would certainly be a very disruptive wild card at Mar-a-Lago," said Christopher K. Johnson, a former senior China analyst at the C.I.A. who is now at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. Mr. Johnson said in an interview that China considered Mr. Guo a criminal and sought his return, although there is no public record of him being charged with a crime.	"郭文贵在马阿拉歌庄园肯定会是一个极具破坏力的未知因素，"华盛顿国际战略研究中心的克里斯托弗·K·约翰逊(Christopher K. Johnson)说。他曾是前中央情报局(CIA)的高级中国分析师。约翰逊在接受采访时表示，中国认为郭文贵是罪犯，要求他回国，尽管他没有公开的犯罪记录。
During Mr. Abe's visit, club members and guests were permitted to enter without undergoing all the stringent security protocols imposed at the White House. The United States official, who was not authorized to speak to the news media and asked for anonymity, did not know if	在安倍晋三访问期间，俱乐部会员和宾客无需经过白宫的那些严格的安全检查就被获准入内。上述那位美国官员不知道在习近平和特朗普会晤期间，会员们是否会被禁止入内。此人无权接受新闻媒体采访，所以要求匿名。

members would be barred from the grounds during the Xi-Trump meeting.
Mr. Guo, when asked, would not say whether he intended to show up for the summit. Even if he is kept out, the vetting of a president's paying guests before a major summit meeting presents a staffing challenge that no previous administration has faced. The allure of rubbing shoulders with the rich and powerful is an attraction of Mar-a-Lago, which recently doubled its initiation fee to $200,000. Mr. Trump has called it the "Southern White House."	当被问及是否打算在这次峰会上现身时，郭文贵没有予以回复。即便他被排除在外，在重要峰会之前审查总统的付费宾客也是之前的所有政府从未遇到过的人员安置挑战。结交权贵人士是马阿拉歌庄园的一项魅力。最近，它的入会费翻了一番，高达 20 万美元。特朗普称它为“南方白宫”。
Mr. Guo's membership could be especially sensitive because of the lengths China's leaders go to stamp out any political discussion that deviates from the Communist Party line, particularly remarks about the wealth of top leaders. Mr. Guo has leveled specific accusations against a former top party leader.	郭文贵的会员资格可能特别敏感，因为中国领导人坚决压制任何偏离共产党路线的政治讨论，特别是关于高层领导人财富的评论。郭文贵已经对一名前高层领导人做出了指名道姓的指控。
In two recent Chinese-language interviews and on Twitter, Mr. Guo, while highly critical of many current and former Chinese leaders, has praised Mr. Xi, or at least refrained from directly criticizing him.	在最近的两次中文采访以及在 Twitter 上，郭文贵虽然激烈批评了现任和前任的很多中国领导人，但对习近平却表示了赞赏，至少没有直接批评他。
"I pray that President Xi's visit is smooth, for relations between the peoples of the United States and China to start a great new era," Mr. Guo said in a text message in response to questions from The New York Times.	郭文贵在回应《纽约时报》提问的一条短信中表示：“我为他祈祷此次访问顺利。为中美两国人民之间的关系开启一个新的伟大的时代！”
Mr. Guo is not the first Chinese tycoon to leave the country in a cloud of controversy and decamp to the United States or another Western country. Mr. Johnson said he was most likely second on a list of prominent business executives Beijing was seeking to repatriate, behind	郭文贵不是第一个在一片争议声中离开中国、逃到美国等西方国家的大亨。约翰逊说，他很可能排在一个北京寻求遣返的著名企业家名单的第二位，位居第一的是前中共中央办公厅主任的弟弟令完成，他在三年前哥哥逮捕前离开中国赴美，目前他哥哥因渎职罪在服无期徒刑。

the younger brother of a top official who held a post equivalent to the White House chief of staff. That man, Ling Wancheng, left China for the United States about three years ago before the arrest of his brother, who is now serving a life sentence for graft.
But Mr. Ling has stayed quiet and kept his whereabouts secret. For the first two years of his exile, Mr. Guo did the same.	但令完成一直保持缄默，对自己的行踪很保密。郭文贵在流亡的头两年里也是这样。
That all changed in late January, when he activated his Twitter account and gave the first of two rambling interviews with the Mirror Media Group, a Chinese-language news company based on Long Island.	但这一切在1月下旬发生了变化，当时他激活了自己的Twitter帐户，并接受了总部位于长岛的中文新闻媒体明镜集团的两次闲聊式的采访。
China has more billionaires than any other country with the possible exception of the United States, but none as outspoken and flamboyant as Mr. Guo. He has a penchant for posting photos of himself in workout tights and camouflage, performing planks and other exercises. He sips vintage French wine in front of a picture of an aviator glasses-wearing, cigarette-smoking chimpanzee in his London office and likes to show off the private jets he uses for his frequent trans-Atlantic flights. One American who met with him described him as affable.	可能除了美国以外，中国比其他任何国家的亿万富豪都多，但他们都没有郭文贵那么直言不讳和高调外露。他喜欢贴自己穿运动紧身裤、迷彩装做平板支撑和其他运动的照片。他在伦敦办公室里喝着法国葡萄酒陈酿，身后是一张戴着飞行员墨镜吸烟的黑猩猩的照片，他还喜欢炫耀用来经常横跨大西洋飞行的私人飞机。一个曾经见过他的美国人说他平易近人。
But Mr. Guo is anything but happy-go-lucky. He built a fortune in the Darwinian world of Chinese real estate, and people who crossed him soon rued the day. In 2006, he handed to the police a sex tape of a Beijing deputy mayor who had disputed one of his land deals. The official was imprisoned and Mr. Guo got the property, building the torch-shaped Pangu Plaza next to Beijing's Olympic Green, a landmark during the 2008 Summer Games.	但郭文贵并不是听天由命的人。他在中国适者生存的房地产界发了财，得罪他的人很快就会后悔不迭。2006年，他向警方递交了北京市一名副市长的不雅视频，此人曾经对他的一项土地交易提出异议。结果这名副市长被监禁，郭文贵拿到了地皮。他在北京奥林匹克公园附近修建了一个火炬形状的盘古大观，成为2008年夏季运动会期间的一个地标建筑。
He kept his extensive car collection in a vast underground parking lot,	一个认识他的人说，他拥有大量的汽车收藏，在一个庞大的地下停车场里，

arranging the dozens of Ferraris, Rolls-Royces, Bentleys and Bugattis in petal shapes to show to visitors, said one person who knows him.	好几十辆的法拉利、劳斯莱斯、宾利和布加迪被摆成花瓣形状，供来访者参观。
He is in a long-running public battle with China's most prominent journalist, Hu Shuli, whose newsmagazine, Caixin, reported in 2015 that Mr. Guo used his ties to Ma Jian, a former vice minister in the country's spy agency, to further his business interests. Mr. Ma was expelled from the Communist Party and is being prosecuted on graft charges. Mr. Guo accused Ms. Hu of being corrupt and working for a "behind the scenes" power broker. Caixin sued Mr. Guo, saying he defamed Ms. Hu.	他与中国最杰出的记者胡舒立之间有着长期公开的矛盾，后者的新闻杂志《财新周刊》在2015年报道，郭文贵和国家安全部前副部长马建勾结，以便获得更大的商业利益。马建被开除出党，遭到贪污指控。郭文贵指责胡舒立很腐败，为一个“幕后的”权力掮客服务。《财新周刊》起诉了郭文贵，称他诽谤胡舒立。
Mr. Guo claims that he was the victim of corruption that went to the highest level of Chinese politics, the elite standing committee of the Communist Party's Politburo, but that the official in question — now retired — has not been prosecuted. Mirror Media says its Chinese audience reaches the hundreds of millions, making Mr. Guo's assertions particularly sensitive for Mr. Xi, who is trying to consolidate power before a major Communist Party leadership meeting later this year.	郭文贵声称，他是中共政治的最高机构——政治局常务委员会某官员腐败的受害者，但那个官员已经退休，还没有被起诉。明镜集团自称在中国的受众高达数亿人，因此郭文贵的这个说法对于习近平特别敏感；今年晚些时候要召开共产党领导大会，习近平正试图在会前巩固自己的权力。
"We have all been used as tools," Mr. Guo said in a March 8 interview.	郭文贵在3月8日的采访中说：“我们都被当作工具使用。”
Mr. Guo named names. His most eye-popping statement is that his former business partner, now in jail, was backed by the son of the Communist Party's former top discipline official, He Guoqiang. He also described an audiotape he obtained, which detailed threats his erstwhile business partners were planning. "They said that they would beat Guo Wengui to death, and to put Guo Wengui to death," Mr. Guo said during the Mirror Media interview.	郭文贵在发言时指名道姓。他最惊人的说法是，一个身陷囹圄的前商业伙伴得到了共产党前最高纪检官员贺国强的儿子的支持。他还说已经拿到了一盘录音带，记录了一些前商业伙伴详细谋划的威胁手段。郭文贵在明镜集团的采访中说：“说要弄死郭文贵，弄死郭文贵。”
Chinese billionaires living abroad are not immune to the long reach of	中国在海外的亿万富豪也躲不开北京安全机构的势力范围。郭文贵1月下旬

Beijing's security apparatus. The day after Mr. Guo's first public broadcast in late January, another prominent billionaire, Xiao Jianhua, was apparently abducted from his apartment at the Four Seasons Hotel in Hong Kong, whisked across the border and taken into custody in mainland China. Mr. Guo says he knows Mr. Xiao, and they have something in common: business ties that intersect with top Chinese leaders.	首次在节目中公开亮相的第二天, 另外一位亿万富豪肖建华似乎在香港四季酒店的公寓里被绑架, 然后被带过边境, 关押在中国大陆的一个地方。郭文贵说, 他认识肖建华, 两人有一些共同点: 业务关系都和中国最高领导人有交集。
Mr. Guo was in London last week at the prestigious Mark's Club in Mayfair, which requires men to wear jackets "at all times." He said he was a member there.	郭文贵上周出现在伦敦梅菲尔区著名的马可俱乐部(Mark's Club), 那里要求男士“始终”穿西装, 他说自己是那里的会员。
Earlier in March, he was at Mar-a-Lago, posing for pictures. He posted photographs of himself with Bernd Lembcke, the club's managing director. During his stay, he also visited Bethesda-by-the-Sea, an Episcopal church that the Trumps attend, and spent some time at an elegant beachside home, decorated with an Asian motif and featured in Architectural Digest that is now owned by a limited liability company tied to Victor Vargas, a Venezuelan banker. Mr. Guo, posting on Twitter in Chinese, said he had done business at the club, convening a meeting of his limited partnership company there. Mr. Guo, in a Twitter message to The New York Times, said he was a member, which was confirmed by a person briefed on the matter.	3月初, 他在马阿拉歌庄园(Mar-a-Lago)拍照。他贴出了和该俱乐部总经理贝恩德·伦布克(Bernd Lembcke)的合影。在逗留期间, 他还参观了特朗普参加的圣公会教堂贝斯达教堂(Bethesda-by-the-Sea), 并在一个优雅的海滨住宅停留了一段时间, 这里采用亚洲主题装饰, 登上过《建筑文摘》(Architectural Digest), 现在业主是一个和委内瑞拉银行家维克多·巴尔加斯(Victor Vargas)有关系的有限责任公司。郭文贵在Twitter上用中文表示, 他在这家俱乐部做生意, 并在那里召开了他的有限合伙公司的会议。郭文贵在发给《纽约时报》的一条Twitter消息中表示, 他是那里的会员, 此事获得了一名知情人士的确认。
"Over the years, there have been many memorable moments here," Mr. Guo wrote of Mar-a-Lago. "I'm feeling a lot of emotion. In the last few months a controversial businessman became the American president. Why he wanted to become president I just don't understand. But I	"多年来在这里留下了很多难忘的回忆。"郭文贵在提到马阿拉歌庄园时写道:"感慨很多。几个月的时间这个备受争议的商人竟成了美国总统。他为什么要当这个总统我实在不明白。但是我很佩服他的这个执著的性格。不放弃!" admire his persistent character. Don't give up!"

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170405/china-mar-a-lago-guo-wengui	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170405/china-mar-a-lago-guo-wengui
Maoists for Trump? In China, Fans Admire His Nationalist Views	特朗普的出现让中国毛左为之一振
BEIJING — They protest, picket and sing to defend Mao's memory, yearning for the East to be red again. But lately some of China's Maoists are finding inspiration in an unlikely insurgent in the West: Donald J. Trump.	北京——他们用抗议、纠察和歌唱来捍卫对毛泽东的记忆，渴望再现东方红。但最近，让中国的一些毛派人士为之一振的，是西方世界里的一个出人意料的叛逆者：唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)。
Mr. Trump "has torn up the old rules of the ruling elites, not just of the capitalist West," said Zhang Hongliang, a polemicist who is the loudest proponent of what could be loosely called "Maoists for Trump." In a recent essay, Mr. Zhang lauded the American president as being alone among national leaders daring "to openly promote the political ideas of Chairman Mao."	特朗普“不仅撕裂了西方资本主义世界的旧有规则，还撕裂了统治精英的旧有规则，“能言善辩的“拥护特朗普的毛派”中坚力量张宏良说。在前不久的一篇文章里，张宏良称赞特朗普是唯一一位“敢于公开宣传毛主席政治理念”的国家领导人。
President Xi Jinping of China will be sizing up Mr. Trump during a visit to his Mar-a-Lago estate in Florida this week, in the leaders' first summit meeting. Meanwhile, many ordinary Chinese people have also been taking the measure of the new American president and have been bewildered, incensed and yet, sometimes, inspired.	中美首脑首次峰会于下周在佛罗里达州马阿拉歌庄园举行之际，到访的中国国家主席习近平将对特朗普作出评估。与此同时，很多普通的中国人也在掂量新上台的美国总统的斤两，他或许让他们困惑，或许激起了他们的怒火，但有时也能让他们感到振奋。
The global wave of nationalist, anti-establishment sentiment that Mr. Trump rode to power has washed ashore in China, encouraging a hard-left fringe that is hostile to capitalism and Western influence, and that the Communist Party has long sought to cultivate — and contain.	把特朗普送上了权力巅峰的民族主义和反建制情绪正在全球泛滥，中国也不例外。这种潮流让敌视资本主义和西方影响的中国极左派人士受到了鼓励，他们是共产党一直在培育——以及限制——的一个边缘群体。
China's Maoists are a small minority; most Chinese have no desire to revive the ruthless, convulsive politics of the Mao era. But the Maoists' growing assertiveness, echoed in their embrace of aspects of Mr.	中国的毛派只是一个很小的群体，大多数中国人都不愿意看到毛泽东时代严酷、狂暴的政治氛围卷土重来。但毛派日益强硬的态度——在他们对特朗普的某些议程的热情支持中有所体现——可能会帮助推动这个国家朝着更具威

Trump's agenda, could help push the country in a more authoritarian direction.	权色彩的方向发展。
They also complicate the efforts of Mr. Xi to play both sides of an ideological divide: as a robust defender of Mao's legacy, but also a proponent of market liberalization and even a champion of globalization in the Trump age.	此外，他们会给试图兼顾意识形态分歧各方的习近平制造困难——他在扮演毛泽东的政治遗产的捍卫者同时，还要倡导市场自由化，甚至在特朗普时代扛起全球化的大旗。
It is a paradox that these admirers of Mao Zedong, a Marxist revolutionary who railed against Western imperialism, have found things to like about this American president, a property tycoon with a cabinet crowded with millionaires. But they want Mr. Xi to take a page from Mr. Trump's "America First" script and protect Chinese workers from layoffs, privatization and foreign competition.	吊诡的是，他们既崇拜毛泽东，又在特朗普身上发现了可爱之处，因为毛泽东是一名反对西方帝国主义的马克思主义革命者，而当今美国总统是一名地产大亨，组建了一个满是百万富翁的内阁。但他们希望习近平能够借鉴特朗普的“美国优先”论，保护中国工人不受下岗、私有化和外国竞争对手的伤害。
"Trump opposes globalization, and so should China," said one article on Utopia, a popular Maoist website. "Trump's ideology has oriented toward China, and he is learning from China," said another hard-left Chinese site.	“特朗普反对的全球化中国也应该反对，”颇受欢迎的毛派网站乌有之乡上有一篇文章这样写道。“特朗普的意识形态转向中国，要向中国学习了，”另一个极左派网站上的一篇文章写道。
China's neo-Maoists, as they are sometimes called, are loosely united by demands for stringent economic equality, zealous nationalism and a loathing of the capitalist West and liberal democracy.	他们有时被称为中国的新毛派，对严格的经济平等的渴求、对狂热的民族主义的信奉，以及对西方资本主义国家和自由民主制度的厌恶，让他们结成了松散的联盟。
"Many of the same ideas now animating the global populist movement have been the hallmarks of the neo-Maoist movement for over a decade," said Jude Blanchette, a researcher in Beijing who is writing a book about the movement.	“眼下在全球范围内激起民粹主义运动的很多理念，已经作为新毛派运动的标志在中国存在了十余年，”在北京从事研究、就新毛派运动写过一本书的学者裘德·布兰切特(Jude Blanchette)说。
"The neo-Maoists have also clearly benefited from the rise of Xi Jinping, as he has blasted a pretty large dog whistle in their direction," Mr.	“显然，习近平的崛起也让新毛派得到了好处，他已经向他们发出了颇为明显的暗示，”布兰切特补充道。

Blanchette added.
Many on China's far left see Mr. Trump as a dangerous foe who has questioned established American policy on Taiwan, vowed to confront China's hold on the disputed South China Sea and threatened to cut Chinese exports to America.	中国的很多极左派人士把特朗普视为一个危险的敌人——他质疑美国既有的对台政策，发誓要直面中国占据南海争议水域的问题，还扬言要抑制中国对美国的出口额。
But some Maoists say Mr. Trump also offers a model. They think he led a populist revolt that humbled a corrupt political establishment not unlike what they see in China. They cheer his incendiary tactics, sometimes likening them to Mao's methods. And they hear in his remarks an echo of their own disgust with Western democracy, American interventionism and liberal political values.	但一些毛派人士称，特朗普也树立了一个榜样。他们认为，他领导了一场民粹主义者的反抗，让一个腐败的、和他们在在中国见到的没什么两样的政治建制派锐气大挫。他们为他使用的一些煽动人心的手腕喝彩，有时还将其与毛泽东的策略联系起来。厌恶西式民主、美国的干涉主义以及自由派政治价值观的他们，在他的言论中找到了共鸣。
Maoist meetings and websites dwell on a clutch of enemies, including the C.I.A. and America in general, genetically modified crops and advocates of privatizing state companies. But they reserve a particular venom for liberal Chinese intellectuals and celebrities who have condemned Mao.	毛派人士的会议和网站总是在讨论一大串敌人，其中包括中央情报局(CIA)以及整个美国，转基因作物以及国企私有化倡导者。但他们尤其痛恨中国的自由派知识分子和攻击毛泽东的名人。
In the West, Mr. Zhang argued, the nationalists are on the right while the left generally supports internationalism. "But China is the opposite," he said. "Chinese rightists are the traitors, while Chinese leftists are the patriots."	张宏良认为，在西方，民族主义者身处右派阵营，而左派通常支持国际主义。“但在中国正相反，”他说。“中国的右派是叛徒，左派是爱国者。”
The Communist Party never repudiated Mao's legacy after his death in 1976, but it condemned his excesses, including the violent Cultural Revolution, and for years he was ignored or discredited while Deng Xiaoping pursued economic liberalization.	自从毛泽东于1976年去世以来，共产党从未否定毛泽东的政治遗产，但却谴责了他的过激行径，包括发起残暴的文革。在邓小平推动经济自由化的很多年时间里，毛泽东受到了忽视或者怀疑。
In the 1990s, though, the party refurbished Mao's image and fostered a	不过，在1990年代，为了巩固自己的权威，并压制推行政治自由化的呼声，

popular revival to bolster its authority and blunt calls for political liberalization. Officials started using Maoists to intimidate liberal academics, dissidents and other critics. Before Mr. Xi came to power in 2012, a political rival, Bo Xilai, openly encouraged “red” nostalgia for the Mao era as part of an effort to build a populist power base.	共产党重塑了毛泽东的形象，促成了民粹主义的复兴。官员们开始利用毛派来恫吓自由派学者、异见分子和其他批评人士。习近平于 2012 年上台前，其政治对手薄熙来曾公开提倡开展怀念毛泽东时代的红色怀旧运动，旨在打造民粹主义权力基础。
Mr. Bo was purged in a scandal, but the Maoists regrouped as Mr. Xi associated himself more closely with Mao’s legacy than his predecessors and called for a return to Marxist purity.	薄熙来在卷入一桩丑闻后受到了清洗。但随着习近平以超出所有前任的力度把自己和毛泽东的政治遗产紧密联系起来，并呼吁保持党的马克思主义纯洁性，毛派人士重整旗鼓。
Under Mr. Xi, Maoists have become bolder in taking to the streets and organizing online campaigns. A court ruling last year and legislation adopted last month protecting Communist heroes buoyed them further.	在习近平治下，毛派开始更加大胆地上街游行和组织网络运动。法院去年作出的一项裁决，以及上月被采纳的一项保护共产主义英雄的提案，让他们愈发有了底气。
Nobody expects Maoists to seize power in Beijing. They are disdained by the middle class and kept on a tether by the party authorities. Across China, there are maybe a few thousand active supporters of Maoist groups and causes, and their petitions against liberal intellectuals have gathered tens of thousands of signatures online, according to Mr. Blanchette, the researcher.	没人认为毛派有在北京掌权的可能。他们被中产阶级厌弃，又受到共产党当局的制约。学者布兰切特说，在中国各地，毛派团体和事业的积极支持者可能只有几千人，他们反对自由派知识分子的请愿书只征集到了几万个网络签名。
But the Chinese left’s broader message of muscular nationalism and its criticism of widening inequality have reverberated, especially among retirees, hard-up workers and former party officials dismayed by extravagant wealth and corruption. Mr. Trump and the global surge of nationalism and populism have added to the political tinder.	但中国左派广泛传递的带有强硬民族主义色彩的讯息激起了回响，尤其是在退休人员、生活落魄的工人以及对奢侈腐败之风感到失望的前共产党官员中间。特朗普以及在全球澎湃的民族主义和民粹主义浪潮，让这种政治火种有所壮大。
Dai Jianzhong, a sociologist in Beijing, said Maoists could gain a bigger following if an economic slowdown caused mass layoffs, or if tensions	北京的社会学家戴建中说，如果经济增速放缓导致大批人员下岗，或者与美国的紧张关系升级为相互对峙，毛派可能会有更多支持者。

with the United States escalated into confrontation.
"It was a big shock for China to see American middle-class society overwhelmed by this tide of populism," Mr. Dai said. "China is a different society, but if the economy stagnates and workers feel badly let down, populism will gain influence. The influence of Maoists and ultraleftists would spread."	"看到美国的中产社会被这种民粹主义浪潮吞没，对中国来说是一种巨大的冲击，"戴建中说。"中国社会与美国不同，但如果经济停滞不前，工人们产生被抛弃的糟糕感觉，民粹主义就会获得影响力。毛派和极左派的影响力就会扩大。"
In January, about a hundred protesters gathered in Jinan, a provincial capital in eastern China, to condemn a professor of communications and advertising, Deng Xiangchao, who had dared criticize Mao online. They chanted and held banners near Mr. Deng's home, reviling him as a "traitor" and "enemy of the people," and roughed up a few people who came to show their support for him.	今年2月，约100名抗议者汇聚于中国东部省会城市济南，谴责胆敢在网上批评毛泽东的广告传播学教授邓相超。他们在邓相超家附近举着横幅，高呼口号，说他是"汉奸"和"人民的敌人"，并嘲弄了几个前来对他表示支持的人。
"We love Chairman Mao because we're poor, and the poor all love Chairman Mao," Yang Jianguo, a retired worker who was among the protesters, said by telephone after the protest.	"我们爱毛主席是因为我们是穷人，穷人都爱毛主席，"参加抗议活动的退休工人杨建国事后接受电话采访时说。
The university swiftly dismissed Mr. Deng rather than engage in a prolonged battle with the Maoists. Later, left-wing activists also successfully demanded the dismissal of a television station worker who had voiced support for Mr. Deng.	邓相超所在的大学迅速解除了他的职务，而不是加入到一场与毛派人士的漫长对抗中。随后，左派活动人士还成功地让一名发声支持邓相超的电视台工作人员遭到解雇。
It would be unthinkable for the party to be so obliging of protesters for free speech or other causes the party considers anathema. But while Mr. Xi has silenced the party's liberal critics, the party has tolerated, even abetted, its hard-left opponents, giving the Maoist populists room to grow stronger.	难以想象共产党会以同样的热诚帮助争取言论自由的抗议者，或为其他遭到该党厌弃的事业而走上街头的人。但在习近平压制党的自由派批评者的声音之际，中共却一直容忍乃至纵容极左派反对者，给了毛派民粹主义者发展壮大空间。
"Their influence has clearly grown with the leftist turn in ideology,	"随着意识形态向左转，他们的影响力显然有所增强，自2015年以来尤为如

especially since 2015," said Deng Yuwen, a current affairs writer in Beijing who has criticized the Maoists.	此,“北京的时事评论员、对毛派有批评的邓聿文说。
"It's not that the top level of the party directly controls them, but the Maoists are politically astute, and they have a good sense of what they can get away with," he added. "They know the officials use them, but they also use the officials."	"毛派并非直接受到党的最高层的控制,但他们在政治上很精明,他们能够很好地把握做什么事不会出问题,"他补充道。"他们知道官员在利用他们,但他们也在利用官员。"
While party leaders may find them useful for intimidating critics, the Maoists want to take China in a different direction and reverse market policies that have fueled decades of growth, by seizing the assets of the rich and strengthening state ownership of industry, for example.	党的领导者或许觉得可以用毛派来恫吓批评者,毛派却想要通过没收富人的资产、加大企业国有化力度之类的办法,带领中国走上一条不同的道路,完全改变推动经济增长了数十年的市场化政策。
Most phrase their criticism of the party carefully, but some openly accuse it of betraying Mao. "China is a capitalist state under socialist guise," said Mr. Yang, the retired worker. "Capitalists dominate the country."	大多数毛派批评共产党时都会小心翼翼地措辞,但一些人公开指责它背叛了毛泽东。"中国是一个打着社会主义招牌的资本主义国家,"退休工人杨建国说。"搞资本主义的人霸占着国家。"
Asked about the American president, Mr. Yang was more generous: "Trump has socialist tendencies, because the way he won power in a way reflected the workers' demands."	被问及美国现任总统时,杨建国的态度比较宽容:"特朗普有社会主义倾向,他上台一定程度上反映了工人的要求。"
Many Maoists see Mr. Xi as a fellow traveler who is taking China in the right direction by restoring respect for Mao and Marx. But others say privately that even Mr. Xi may not be a dependable ally. They point out that he has promoted himself abroad as a proponent of expanding global trade and a friend of multinational corporations, drawing an implicit contrast with Mr. Trump.	很多毛派人士都把习近平视为同路人,认为他正通过恢复对毛泽东和马克思的尊重,带领中国朝着正确的方向前进。但另外一些人私下表示,就连习近平可能也不是一个靠得住的盟友。他们指出,他在海外一直把自己塑造成不断扩大的全球贸易的支持者以及跨国公司的朋友,与特朗普形成了一种含蓄的对比。
He Weifang, a law professor at Peking University who is often reviled by China's far left, said Mr. Xi was playing a dangerous game by allowing	经常受到中国极左派人士攻击的北京大学法学教授贺卫方说,允许毛派民粹主义者压制自由派声音的习近平在玩一个危险的游戏,面临着点燃他无法轻

Maoist populists to silence liberal voices and risked igniting political fires that he cannot easily control.	易控制的政治火焰的危险。
"If political currents in China increasingly converge with populism," Mr. He added, "that would have a powerful effect on China's future."	贺卫方还说，“如果中国的政治潮流逐渐和民粹主义融汇，会对中国的未来造成重大影响。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170405/maoists-for-trump-in-china-fans-admire-his-nationalist-views	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170405/maoists-for-trump-in-china-fans-admire-his-nationalist-views
The 'Goddess' Yi Wan Ka: Ivanka Trump Is a Hit in China	“女神”伊万卡：中国人为何追捧特朗普千金
BEIJING — When Wang Ge, a business school student, wakes up, she often asks herself, "What would Ivanka do?"	北京——商学院学生王戈每天醒来时常常问自己，“伊万卡会做什么？”
That would be Ivanka Trump, the eldest daughter of President Trump, a woman Ms. Wang has never met but worships.	这里说的正是特朗普总统的大女儿伊万卡·特朗普(Ivanka Trump), 一个王戈从没见过却十分崇拜的女人。
In the United States, Ms. Trump has become a controversial figure, battling persistent questions about business conflicts and criticism for not doing more to moderate her father's policies toward women.	在美国，伊万卡已经成为一个颇具争议的人物，要应对接连不断的有关商业冲突的质疑，被批评没有做更多努力以缓和她父亲针对女性的政策。
But in China, Ms. Trump is widely adored. Her lavish lifestyle and business acumen resonate with many young professionals who are hungry for fame and fortune in a society that often equates material wealth with success.	但在中国，伊万卡却受到普遍的喜爱。在一个将物质财富等同于成功的社会里，她奢华的生活方式和出色的商业头脑，引发了许多渴望获得声名与财富的年轻职业人士的共鸣。
Ms. Wang keeps photos of Ms. Trump on her iPad. She counsels burned-out friends to read Ms. Trump's self-help tips ("Find strength in others" and "Be an optimist"). And she models her day on Ms. Trump's, waking at 6 a.m. to increase productivity and setting aside at least a half-hour to read.	王戈在自己的 iPad 上保存着伊万卡的照片。她劝自己那些消沉的朋友读读伊万卡的自助建议（《在他人中汲取力量》[Find strength in others]和《做一个乐观主义者》[Be an optimist]）。她参照伊万卡的作息，早上六点起床，以提高效率，留出至少半小时时间阅读。
"She's pretty, she has her own career, she's hardworking and she has a beautiful family," said Ms. Wang, 26, a student at Cheung Kong Graduate	“她很漂亮，有自己的事业，十分勤勉，又有一个美好的家庭，”北京的长江商学院 26 岁的学生王戈说道。“她激励着我。”

School of Business in Beijing. "She inspires me."
While Mr. Trump, who meets President Xi Jinping of China in Florida on Thursday, has bluntly assailed China on issues like trade and North Korea, Ms. Trump has helped soften her father's volcanic image.	在特朗普——将于周四在佛罗里达州会见中国国家主席习近平——口无遮拦地就贸易和朝鲜等问题攻击中国时，伊万卡却帮助缓和了她父亲容易爆发的形象。
She is called a "goddess" on social media. A video of her daughter singing in Chinese went viral, attracting tens of millions of viewers. Working mothers have latched onto Ms. Trump's brand of have-it-all feminism, even if most lack her financial resources, and entrepreneurs have studied her speeches for clues on making successful pitches.	她在社交媒体上被称为“女神”。一段她女儿唱中文歌的视频在网上疯传开来，吸引了数千万人观看。职场妈妈们热情地接受伊万卡那拥有一切的女性主义品牌，尽管她们大多缺乏跟她一样的财力；企业家们则研究她的演讲，想从中找到实现成功宣传的秘诀。
Xinhua, the official news agency, weighed in last week, describing Ms. Trump as having an "elegant and poised style."	上周，中国的官方通讯社新华社也加入这一行列，称她“优雅大方气质好”。
"A lot of people think Ivanka is the real president," said Li Moya, 31, who runs an app for renting venue space in Beijing. "We think she has the brains, not her father."	"很多人觉得伊万卡才是真正的总统，"31岁的曾丽说道，她在北京运营着一个场地租赁应用软件。"我们觉得她才是有头脑的那个，而不是她的父亲。"
Young Chinese women working in sectors like technology and finance have been especially taken by Ms. Trump, whom they see as an elegant symbol of power and ambition. They say they have sought to mimic her tenacity and confidence as they confront chauvinism and stereotypes in the workplace and in family life.	在科技和金融等行业工作的年轻中国女性尤其喜爱伊万卡，她们将其看作兼具实力与雄心的优雅象征。她们表示，在面对职场和家庭生活中的沙文主义与模式化观念时，她们会努力效仿她的坚韧与自信。
Many are also impressed by Ms. Trump's decision to start her own fashion brand rather than simply focus on the family real estate business.	许多人也十分钦佩伊万卡决定开创自己的时尚品牌，而非仅仅专注于家族地产生意。
"She's very independent," said Wang Jiabao, 28, a reality television producer in Beijing. "She represents what we're looking for — to marry into a decent family, to look good, and to also have your own career."	"她很独立，"生活在北京的28岁真人秀制片人王佳宝说。"她代表着我们渴望的东西——嫁入体面的家庭，拥有良好的形象，还有自己的事业。"

Some also believe Ms. Trump embodies Confucian values, pointing to her decision to convert to Judaism for her husband and her steadfast defense of her father, both seen as illustrations of a devotion to family.	还有一些人认为伊万卡身上体现出儒家的价值观，指出她为丈夫皈依犹太教，并坚定地为自己的父亲辩护，二者都被看作是忠于家庭的表现。
In China's stressed-out urban centers, Ms. Trump's tips on leading a balanced life ("Don't sleep with your BlackBerry next to your bed," says one) have found a large audience.	在中国压力巨大的城市中心，伊万卡有关平衡生活的自助建议（比如“睡觉时不要把你的黑莓手机放在枕边”）获得了许多受众的追捧。
On messaging apps, young professionals trade translations of her self-help guides, while working mothers share her advice on carving out time for loved ones.	在社交应用软件上，年轻专业人士交换着有关她的自助建议的译文，职场妈妈们则分享她提出的腾出时间陪伴挚爱亲友的建议。
Chinese companies have also tried to profit from Ms. Trump's popularity, filing hundreds of trademark applications using her name — Yi Wan Ka in Chinese — on products and services such as shoes, spa treatments, plastic surgery and pottery.	中国的企业也试图从伊万卡的大受欢迎中获益，用她的名字——中文“伊万卡”——提交了许多商标注册申请，用于鞋、水疗、整形手术和陶器等产品和服务。
Still, Ms. Trump has her critics. Some are skeptical of her father's policies and disturbed by her decision to join his administration, in which she serves as assistant to the president. Others believe that as a child of privilege she is a poor role model for everyday Chinese people.	不过，伊万卡也不乏批评者。有人质疑她父亲的政策，为她做出加入父亲的政府、担任总统助理的决定感到不安。还有人认为，作为一个拥有特权的孩子，她并不适合当普通中国人的楷模。
"She's trying too hard and pretending too much," said Shi Yixuan, 22, an administrative staff member at Peking University in Beijing.	“她太刻意、太假，”22岁的北京大学行政管理人员石艺璇（音）说。
But many women see recognizable Chinese attributes.	然而，却有很多女性在她身上看到了中国人的特质。
"Underneath her image are very traditional values," said Dai Linjia, a communications consultant. "Her family is almost like a dynasty."	“她的内在有着十分传统的价值观，”公关顾问戴林佳（音）说。“她的家族几乎像是个王朝。”
While her father has threatened a trade war with China and criticized China's efforts to build outposts in the South China Sea, Ms. Trump and her husband, Jared Kushner, have embarked on a charm offensive with	尽管她的父亲曾威胁与中国进行贸易战，还批评中国在南海建立前哨据点的行动，但伊万卡和她丈夫贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)开始对这个国家展开了魅力攻势。

the country.
It helps that her daughter, Arabella, speaks Chinese, which she began learning from her Chinese nanny. Ms. Trump and Arabella attended a Lunar New Year festival at the Chinese Embassy in Washington in February, an event broadcast on China's prime-time news.	她的女儿阿拉贝拉(Arabella)可以讲中文这一点起到了作用, 后者跟自己的中国保姆学中文。今年2月, 伊万卡和阿拉贝拉参加了华盛顿中国大使馆举行的农历新年招待会, 这一事件在中国黄金时段的新闻节目中播出。
On Tuesday, two days before her father was to meet Mr. Xi, Ms. Trump posted a photo of her younger son, Theodore, playing with wooden blocks emblazoned with Chinese characters.	周二, 也就是距离她父亲与习近平会晤还有两天的时候, 伊万卡发了一张她的小儿子西奥多(Theodore)的照片, 他当时在玩带有醒目中文字样的积木。
Analysts said Ms. Trump's popularity could help ease the relationship between China and the United States at a tense time.	分析人士表示, 伊万卡大受欢迎有助于在中美两国关系趋紧时起到缓解效果。
"Her father is a regular critic of China, so Ivanka's moves sort of compensate for that," said Shi Yinong, a professor of international relations at Renmin University in Beijing. "The Chinese government will see there are both ugly and positive messages coming out of the U.S."	"他的父亲经常批评中国, 所以伊万卡这样做是一种补偿, "位于北京中国人民大学国际关系学院教授时殷弘说。"这样一来中国政府会看到美国既有令人不快的信息, 也有积极的信号。"
Many younger Chinese will be watching this week's meeting between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi for signs of Ms. Trump.	许多更年轻的中国人会关注特朗普与习近平本周的会晤, 从中寻找伊万卡的踪迹。
Ms. Wang, the business school student, said she hoped that Ms. Trump could help improve China's standing in the United States.	商学院学生王戈表示, 她希望伊万卡能帮助改善中国在美国的名声。
"She's a very good role model," she said. "I think she can help the two countries grow closer."	"她是一个非常棒的楷模, "她说。"我认为她能帮助这两个国家走得更近。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170406/ivanka-trump-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170406/ivanka-trump-china
When Xi Jinping Visits Trump at Mar-a-Lago, 'Nothing Involving Golf Clubs'	特朗普如何招待不打高尔夫的习近平?
HONG KONG — President Xi Jinping of China is not expected to be strolling the manicured fairways of the Trump International Golf Club	香港——本周四, 中国主席习近平应该不会对特朗普的国际高尔夫俱乐部修剪整齐的球道上踱步, 估算着球要怎么打。

on Thursday, sizing up his approach shot.
Mr. Xi is known to be an avid soccer fan, bent on transforming China into a great power in that egalitarian team sport, but the Chinese Communist Party maintains an ideological contempt for golf as a rich person's game.	很多人都知道习近平是一名狂热的足球迷，决心要把中国变成足球大国，这项团体运动有着平等主义色彩。而中国共产党始终在意识形态上蔑视高尔夫，把它视为一种富人运动。
That view, among others, places him at odds with President Trump, who owns more than a dozen golf courses and whose so-called Winter White House, the Mar-a-Lago resort in Palm Beach, Fla., charges more than $200,000 for membership.	这种观念是他与特朗普之间的另一个差异。特朗普拥有十几座高尔夫球场，他所谓的“冬季白宫”——佛罗里达州棕榈滩的马阿拉歌庄园(Mar-a-Lago)，费会超过 20 万美元。
However he spends his time at Mar-a-Lago, "it's safe to say there's not going to be any golf," the White House said in a statement.	无论习近平在马阿拉歌庄园(Mar-a-Lago)的时间如何度过，“可以说不会有任何高尔夫活动，”白宫在一份声明中说。
Mr. Trump, who played 18 holes with Prime Minister Shinzo Abe of Japan during his visit in February, will have to find another way to build a warm rapport with his Chinese counterpart.	今年 2 月日本首相安倍晋三(Shinzo Abe)前往该庄园的时候，特朗普和他一起打 18 洞高尔夫球，现在特朗普必须找到另一种方式与中国主席培养亲切和谐的关系。
Although as many as a million people in China, not necessarily part of the wealthy elite, play golf, the game has become a symbol of capitalist excesses and corruption in the eyes of the Communist Party. That view goes back to 1949, when Mao Zedong declared golf the "sport for millionaires."	尽管中国有一百万人打高尔夫球，他们不一定都属于富豪精英阶层，但这种运动已经成为共产党眼中资本主义奢侈和腐败的象征。这种观念可追溯到 1949 年，当时毛泽东宣布高尔夫是“百万富翁的运动”。
Mr. Xi has led a crackdown on corruption, and golf has been depicted as a temptation that has led party officials astray. Dozens of courses across China have been shut in recent years, ostensibly to preserve water and arable lands.	习近平领导了一场反腐运动，将高尔夫形容为引导党员干部误入歧途的诱惑。近几年来，中国已经有数十座高尔夫球场被关闭，表面上说是为了保护水和耕地。
What might Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi do instead of playing golf in between discussions about trade or what to do about North Korea's nuclear	那么在讨论贸易问题，或者在讨论如何应对朝鲜的核挑衅的间歇，特朗普和习近平如果不打高尔夫，他们会做什么呢？

provocations?
"It's possible that they'll walk around a bit, as the mood strikes," the White House statement said, "but nothing formal or nothing involving golf clubs."	"如果气氛到了，他们可能就会散散步，"白宫的声明称。"但不会有任何正式活动，也不会涉及高尔夫俱乐部。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170406/xi-jinping-golf-trump-mar-a-la-go	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170406/xi-jinping-golf-trump-mar-a-la-go
China's Poplar Trees: A Spring Nuisance That Snows White Fluff	北京春天的烦恼：满城尽飘白杨絮
When spring arrives in China, few things are as loathed as the fuzzy, flamboyant poplar trees.	当春天降临中国时，很少有什么东西像飘着飞絮的杨树那样招人讨厌。
They were planted by the millions in Chairman Mao's day as a quick and cheap way to bring greenery to landscapes across China that were devastated by poverty and strife.	在毛主席时代，中国种植了数以百万计的杨树，觉得这是一种快捷、低廉的方式，可以给因贫困和冲突而受到破坏的中国带去绿意。
Now they are everywhere, growing like mad and making a major nuisance of themselves. "We can't control them any more," said Che Shaochen, a senior researcher at the Beijing Forestry Sciences Institute.	现在它们无处不在，疯狂生长，成为了一大麻烦。北京林业科学研究院高级研究员车少琛（音）说，“我们控制不了它们了。”
Here's the trouble: Every spring, the female poplar trees and their willow tree cousins blanket the streets of Chinese cities with cottonlike balls of fluff known as catkins. They get into everything, clogging car radiators and irritating people's eyes. In some places they come down so thickly that they can disrupt traffic and even cause fires.	麻烦是这样的：每年春天，雌性杨树和它们的柳树表亲就会用棉花状的绒毛球铺满中国城市的街道。它们还会钻进一切东西，堵塞汽车散热器，并且会刺激人的眼睛。有些地方的杨絮非常多，它们还会扰乱交通，甚至引发火灾。
In Beijing, the capital, which has one poplar tree for about every 10 people, the municipal government has begun to fight back with a campaign to eliminate the fuzz once and for all.	在首都北京，人和白杨的比例是 10: 1，市政府已经开始行动，要一劳永逸地消灭杨絮。
Officials have dispatched teams to hose down and prune thousands of trees and to inject a chemical known as birth control into trees to stop	官员们派人对成千上万的树进行了修剪浇灌，并将一种避孕性质的化学物质注入树木，防止它们生出絮来。 them from emitting the fuzz.

The worst offenders have even been given sex-change operations of a sort: Arborists graft segments of male trees onto the female trunks.	飘絮最严重的树木甚至被做了变性手术: 树木栽培专家将雄性树木的枝干嫁接到雌性树木上。
Residents of China's smog-choked metropolises long ago grew accustomed to dealing with stubborn air pollutants. But in the springtime, nothing irks them quite like the catkins, especially when they drop uninvited into a steaming bowl of soup or suddenly swirl in the air, blocking visibility like a bad snowstorm.	中国大都市雾霾严重, 居民长期以来已经习惯了顽固的空气污染物。但是在春天, 最让他们烦恼的就是杨絮了, 特别是当它们不请自来地落入一碗热气腾腾的汤, 或者突然在空中旋转, 好像严重的暴风雪那样妨碍可见度的时候。
Chen Jimen, 43, a street sweeper who works near the Forbidden City, estimates that during the peak season he sweeps up a whole trash can's worth of catkins every day.	43 岁的陈希门 (音) 在紫禁城附近工作, 是一名街头清洁工, 他估计在飘絮严重的时候, 自己每天都能扫出整整一垃圾桶的絮状物。
Liu Yingjie, 41, a taxi driver, said he had mastered the routine of regularly blasting the catkins off his car's engine. "They entirely block your line of sight," he said.	41 岁的出租车司机刘英杰 (音) 表示, 他已经养成了定期从汽车引擎上清除杨絮的习惯。"它们还会阻挡视线," 他说。
Zhang Weiming, 27, a banker, said he stayed indoors when the catkins were in full force. "They get into your eyes and your mouth," he said. "I never want to go outside."	27 岁的张伟明 (音) 在银行工作, 他表示, 飘絮太严重的时候他就待在室内。"它们会钻进你的眼睛和嘴巴," 他说。"我根本不想到室外去。" https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/chinese-metropolises-springtime-foe-the-poplar-tree	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/chinese-metropolises-springtime-foe-the-poplar-tree
Rising Waters Threaten China's Rising Cities	洪水围城: 气候变化威胁中国大都市
GUANGZHOU, China — The rains brought torrents, pouring into basements and malls, the water swiftly rising a foot and a half.	中国广州——雨水的湍流涌入地下室和商场, 水位迅速上升到一英尺半。
The city of Dongguan, a manufacturing center here in the world's most dynamic industrial region, was especially hard hit by the downpour that May 2014. More than 100 factories and shops were inundated. Water	制造业中心东莞市位于世界上最富活力的工业区。在 2014 年 5 月的暴雨中, 这里受到的打击尤为严重, 100 多家工厂和商店被淹。水位在 20 分钟内升到膝盖的高度, 吞没了数十家企业价值数百万美元的库存。

climbed knee-high in 20 minutes, wiping out millions of dollars of inventory for dozens of businesses.
Next-door in Guangzhou, an ancient, mammoth port city of 13 million, helicopters and a fleet of 80 boats had to be sent to rescue trapped residents. Tens of thousands lost their homes and 53 square miles of nearby farmland were ruined. The cost of repairs topped $100 million.	这座古老的港口大城市与广州毗邻，拥有 1300 万人口，政府不得不出动直升机和 80 艘船只营救受困的居民。数万人失去家园，附近 53 平方英里的农田被毁。修缮费用高达一亿美元。
Chen Rongbo, who lived in the city, saw the flood coming. He tried to scramble to safety on the second floor of his house, carrying his six-year-old granddaughter. He slipped. The flood swept both of them away.	住在这座城市的陈榕波看到洪水来了，试图带着六岁的孙女到自家房子的二楼避难。他滑倒了，洪水吞没了他们两人。
Flooding has been a plague for centuries in southern China's Pearl River Delta. So even the rains that May, the worst in the area in years, soon drifted from the headlines. People complained and made jokes on social media about wading through streets that had become canals and riding on half-submerged buses through lakes that used to be streets. But there was no official handwringing about what caused the floods or about how climate change may bring more extreme storms and make the problems worse.	中国南方珠江三角洲地区的洪水已经肆虐了数百年。所以，尽管那年五月的降雨量是这个地区多年以来最严重的，相关报道也很快从新闻中消失。人们抱怨并且在社交媒体上开玩笑说，有的街道成了运河，得蹚水过去，有的街道成了湖泊，得坐着一半淹没在水下的公共汽车过去。但是，关于洪灾的原因，以及气候变化或许会带来更多的大风暴，令问题更加恶化，没有任何官员在表达担忧。
A generation ago, this was mostly farmland. Three vital rivers leading to the South China Sea, along with a spider's web of crisscrossing tributaries, made the low-lying-delta a fertile plain, famous for rice. Guangzhou, formerly Canton, had more than a million people, but by the 1980s, China set out to transform the whole region, capitalizing on its proximity to water, the energy of its people, and the money and port infrastructure of neighboring Hong Kong.	在上一代人之前，这里主要是农田。通往南海的三条重要河流以及星罗棋布的支流令这个低洼三角洲成为盛产稻米的肥沃平原。当时广州只有一百多万名居民，但是到了 1980 年代，中国开始利用其邻近水域的地理位置、人民的活力，以及附近香港的资金和港口基础设施，对这个地区进行改造。

Rushing to catch up after decades of stagnation, China built a gargantuan collection of cities the size of nations with barely a pause to consider their toll on the environment, much less the future impact of global warming. Today the region is a goliath of industry with a population exceeding 42 million.	经历了几十年的停滞，中国急于迎头赶上，在这里建立了一个庞大的、如国家般大小的城市群，然而几乎没有任何时间停下来考虑这些城市对环境造成的负担，更不用说它们未来对全球变暖的影响。今天，这个地区成了一个工业庞然大物，人口超过 4200 万。
But while prosperity reshaped the social and cultural geography of the delta, it didn't fundamentally alter the topography. Here, as elsewhere, breakneck development comes up against the growing threat of climate change. Economically, Guangzhou now has more to lose from climate change than any other city on the planet, according to a World Bank report. Nearby Shenzhen, another booming metropolis, ranked tenth on that World Bank list, which measured risk as a percentage of GDP.	繁荣的经济重新塑造了三角洲的社会文化地理，但却没有从根本上改变这里的地形地貌。像其他地方一样，突破性发展会遭遇到气候变化造成的日益严重的威胁。据一份世界银行报告，全世界城市中，气候变化将给经济造成损失最大的是广州。附近的深圳是另一个蓬勃发展的大都市，在世界银行的那份风险占 GDP 百分比的榜单上排名第 10。
While it is difficult to attribute any single storm or heat wave to climate change, researchers here say there is evidence that climate change is already having some effects here, as seen in higher water levels, increasing temperatures and ever-more severe storms.	虽然很难将某一场暴雨或高温归因于气候变化，但是这里的研究人员称，有证据表明，气候变化已经在这里造成了一些影响，如水位较高，气温升高和暴雨日益严重。
And climate change not only poses a menace to those who live and work here, or to the massive concentration of wealth and investment. It is also a threat to a world that has grown dependent on everything produced in the area's factories.	它所造成的威胁不仅仅影响到在这里生活和工作的人，影响到这个大量财富与投资的聚集地，而且也影响到日益依赖该地区工厂的各种产品的整个世界。
The rising South China Sea and the overstressed Pearl River network lie just a meter or so below much of this new multi-trillion-dollar development — and they are poised to drown decades of progress, scrambling global supply chains and raising prices on a world of goods	南海不断上升，珠江水系不堪重负，它们的水位仅仅比这个价值数万亿美元的新开发区低一米——这样的水位已经构成威胁，可以淹没数十年来的进步，扰乱全球供应链，令各种商品价格上涨，比如智能手机、T 恤、生物药品，甚至圆珠笔内的微小弹簧。

like smartphones, T-shirts, biopharmaceuticals and even the tiny springs inside ballpoint pens.
As always, climate change works like an opportunistic pathogen, worsening existing woes, not acting alone. This can make it hard to pin down, easy to dismiss. Notoriously, China today is crippled by air pollution, linked to local emissions from coal-fired power plants, steel factories and cars. But a new report shows that rising temperatures and stagnant air due to climate change – caused largely by worldwide emissions of carbon dioxide – are significantly exacerbating the smog crisis, which has contributed to millions of premature deaths.	气候变化的作用往往就像乘虚而入的病原体，它会令现有的种种问题不断恶化，而不是单独发生作用。因此它的作用难以得到确证，容易为人们所忽视。众所周知，中国如今正遭受空气污染的严重损害，这种污染与燃煤电厂、钢铁厂和汽车的当地排放量相关。但是一份新的报告显示，气候变化引起的气温上升和空气污浊——主要是由全球二氧化碳排放造成的——大大加剧了雾霾危机，造成数百万人过早死亡。
The Chinese government has become an outspoken voice on climate change. President Xi Jinping, who is meeting this week with President Trump, has urged the signatories of the 2015 Paris climate accord to follow through on their pledge, while state-run Chinese media has lately criticized the Trump administration for “brazenly shirking its responsibility on climate change.”	中国政府已经开始公开谈起气候变化。本周与总统特朗普举行会议的习近平主席已敦促 2015 年巴黎气候协定签字方遵守承诺，中国官方媒体近来则批评特朗普政府“公然推卸气候责任。”
China is now the world leader in domestic investment in renewable energy, and over the past decade the central authorities in Beijing have made environmental performance a higher priority for civil servants. But stronger mandates haven't yet overcome the pace of expansion, a decentralized fiscal system, lax enforcement and a culture that frequently pits growth against green. The country continues to consume as much coal as the rest of the world combined, and to increase its steel capacity.	中国如今是在国内投资可再生能源的全球领导者。在过去十年中，北京的中央政府把环保作为公务员绩效考评的重点事项。但是更强大的权力仍然不能克服分散的财政制度、执法不力以及经常将增长与环保对立起来的文化。与此同时，国家还在继续建设燃煤电厂，提高钢铁产能。
Here in Guangdong, all the new cars, the concrete and belching	在广东，所有的新轿车、混凝土和喷着烟雾的工厂令温度飙升，危及病人和

factories spike temperatures, endangering the sick and elderly, creating urban heat islands and incubating pandemics like dengue fever, an outbreak of which slammed Guangzhou in 2014, afflicting 47,000 people.	老年人，制造了城市热岛，滋生登革热之类的大范围流行病——2014年，广州爆发的登革热令4.7万人受到感染。
On top of this are the increasing floods and tidal surges, worsened by a mix of ever-more severe storms and land sinking under the sheer weight of development — amplifying the impact of rising waters. The flooding and surges overwhelm hastily planned, often shoddily constructed buildings and neighborhoods with overstressed sewage systems in poorly conceived areas of urban sprawl. Chinese authorities like to show off the region’s shiny new office towers and airports, which generate cash and enhance the country’s prestige. Fixing costly sewers that no one sees is not a high priority.	最首要的还是日益增加的洪水和潮水上涨。更严重的暴风雨导致了海平面上升，而开发带来了陆地沉降，令水位上升的影响加剧，二者综合起来造成了这种情况。那些仓促计划、粗制滥造的建筑，以及规划不良、杂乱无章的城区内污水处理系统压力过大的地带，往往被洪水和上涨的水位所淹没。中国当局喜欢炫耀该地区闪亮的新写字楼和机场，它们创造了现金，提高了国家的声誉，但是维修成本高昂却没有人能够看到的排水管道就不是重点事项了。
In the meantime, the costs of inaction rise like the tides and temperatures.	与此同时，不作为的代价就像潮汐和气温一样上升。
Natural Defenses Paved Over	被铲平的天然屏障
One afternoon, I met Cai Yanfeng at a Starbucks in Shenzhen. The Starbucks occupies a ground floor corner in a factory complex where her parents used to work, now converted into high-end rental lofts and art galleries. Fashionable young Chinese sipped Frappuccinos and stared into smartphones.	一天下午，我在深圳的星巴克面见了蔡妍丰（音）。这家星巴克占据了一栋工业建筑一楼的角落，她的父母过去就在此工作，现在它变成了一处高端出租空间和美术馆。时尚的中国年轻人啜饮着星冰乐，盯着智能手机。
Shenzhen was still a sleepy fishing village of some 35,000 during the late 1970s when Chinese authorities declared it a Special Economic Zone, bringing in huge investments and waves of migrants from the countryside who have helped make what today is a metropolis of 11	1970年代末，深圳仍然是一个平静的渔村，约有3.5万人口，当时中国当局宣布将其划为经济特区，带来了巨额投资和来自农村的移民浪潮，如今，这里的人口已经达到1100万。蔡妍丰在80年代初期和父母一起来到这里。学习城市规划的她看到了这个城市的演变，她今年36岁，相对来说，已经

million. Ms. Cai arrived during the early 80s as a toddler with her parents. Now trained as an urban designer, she has seen the city's evolution and, at 36, is a relative old-timer.	是这座城市的老居民。
She was recalling her childhood, when she would cross the street up the block from the Starbucks to play in the mangrove swamps hugging the bay. Ms. Cai gestured out the window, as if pointing at something, although the world she was conjuring up had long ago vanished. Today, the street she used to cross is the size of an American interstate. Where the mangroves started, not far from the Starbucks, a hospital campus flanks a shopping mall. The mangroves were ripped out and bulldozed, replaced by landfill, smothered by acres of concrete, asphalt, office towers, high-rise apartments and industrial development.	她回忆起小时候自己穿过马路，走过如今星巴克所在的这个街区，来到环绕海湾的红树湿地玩耍。她向窗外示意，好像在指着什么东西，虽然她回忆中的世界早已消失。如今，她曾经穿过的那条街道和美国的州际公路一样宽。距离星巴克不远的红树林那边是一个医院，对面有一个购物中心。红树林被连根拔起，夷为平地，变成了垃圾填埋场，被混凝土、沥青、写字楼、高层公寓和工业开发区所淹没。
"It started with amusement parks along the beach," Ms. Cai remembered. "Then the city built another big road near the sea, with the area filled in between with residential blocks. Things sped up after that."	"这是从沿着海滩的游乐园开始的，"蔡妍丰回忆，"然后，城市在海边又建了一条大路，里面塞满了住宅小区。然后一切都开始加速。"
The destruction of the wetlands where Ms. Cai once played is today one of the region's biggest climate challenges. Mangroves provide a natural buffer from the sea, shielding the coastline, reducing the impact of waves and rising water, filtering out salt that can infiltrate freshwater reserves, absorbing exceptional quantities of carbon and lowering ambient temperatures. But some 70 percent of the mangrove forests in Shenzhen are gone. And their disappearance is accelerating: 2,100 acres paved over between 1979 and 1985; 6,700 more acres during the next decade, thousands and thousands more since.	蔡妍丰曾经玩耍的湿地遭到破坏，这是该地区如今面对的最大的气候挑战之一。红树林为海洋提供自然缓冲区，保护海岸线，减少波浪和水位上升对海岸线的影响，过滤掉可能渗入淡水资源的盐，吸收超量的碳，并降低环境温度。但是在深圳，大约70%的红树林已经消失。而且它们的消失还在加速：1979年至1985年期间有2100英亩红树林被铲平；在接下来十年里，又有6700多英亩被铲平，自那以后还有很多。

Lately, Chinese officials announced plans to add yet another 21 square miles of landfill along Shenzhen's coast. The problem isn't just the destruction of mangroves. Landfill is notoriously vulnerable to rising waters. When Hurricane Sandy socked Lower Manhattan in 2012, it swamped streets built on landfill, peaking where the island's long-obscured natural shore had once been. In the end, nature always finds its level. Along the Huishen highway in Shenzhen, rising seawater recently eroded a stretch of landfill three football fields long, leaving a shamble of asphalt and concrete. When a typhoon pounded the delta in 2008, a third of the seawall in Zhuhai crumbled, letting water reach the city.	最近，中国官员宣布计划在深圳沿海增加 21 平方英里的垃圾填埋场。问题不仅在于红树林的破坏。垃圾填埋场易受水面上涨的影响是出了名的。当桑迪飓风在 2012 年席卷曼哈顿下城时，淹没了建在垃圾填埋场上的街道，一直涨到岛上早已消失不见的天然海岸线。到头来，大自然总是能够找到自己的水平面。深圳的惠深高速公路一线，上涨的海水最近侵蚀了三个橄榄球场大的垃圾填埋场，只剩下凌乱的一堆沥青和混凝土。2008 年台风冲击珠江三角洲时，珠海三分之一的防波堤崩溃了，洪水涌入城市。
By contrast, Zhuhai's nature preserve, where the mangroves had not been cut down, absorbed the brunt of the water and survived.	相比之下，珠海的自然环境得以保存，红树林没有遭到砍伐，它们吸收了洪水的冲击力，幸存下来。
In Shenzhen, I came across Xiyong Beach, which local fishermen say has been shrinking, gradually swallowed up by rising waters that experts here link to climate change. Chen Tegu, a professor in Guangzhou with the State Oceanic Administration, has been taking measurements since the mid-1980s, watching coastline disappear. Mr. Chen ticked off statistics about temperatures, storms and drought, predicting the South China Sea could rise almost as much as a foot and a half by the end of the century.	在深圳，我来到西涌海滩，当地渔民说这里正在萎缩，逐渐被上涨的水面所吞没，专家认为这同气候变化有关。1980 年代中期，广州教授陈特固一直在与国家海洋局共同观测海岸线的消失。陈特固列举了关于气温、风暴和干旱的统计数据，预计到本世纪末，南海的海平面上升可能高达一英尺半。
That increase, exacerbated by the sinking of the land, will mean more salt water infiltrating the delta, which, combined with drought, threatens drinking water. A drought several years ago caused water shortages for millions of delta residents — and five major saltwater	这种上升由于土地的下沉而加剧，意味着更多的盐水渗入珠江三角洲，再加上干旱的影响，令饮用水受到威胁。几年前的干旱造成了三角洲数千万居民的水资源短缺——仅在过去 20 年间，该地区就遭受了五次严重的南海海水倒灌。这些倒灌不仅污染饮用水，而且污染工厂用水，腐蚀设备，提高生产

incursions from the South China Sea have hit the region during the past 20 years alone. These incursions corrupt not just the water people drink but also the water used by factories, corroding equipment and raising production costs, with ripple effects all along the distribution network, hurting local agricultural yields as well. China has been building water treatment plants but the pace hasn't kept up with the threat.	成本，对整个分销网络产生涟漪效应，也损害当地的农业生产。中国一直在建设淡水处理厂，但其步伐并没有赶上面临的威胁。
I asked Ms. Cai whether she thought people in Shenzhen worried much about climate change. "Some NGOs talk about it," she said, "but people here still focus on the economic side of things, on jobs and G.D.P. They care about whether we are a first-tier city yet. Are we beating Guangzhou?"	我问蔡妍丰，她是否认为深圳人对气候变化感到担忧。“有些非政府组织在讨论这件事，”她说，“但是这里的人们仍然更关注经济方面的事，关注就业和GDP。他们更关心我们是不是一线城市。我们能不能胜过广州？”
Liang Bo agreed. She works for the Shenzhen Mangrove Wetlands and Conservation Foundation. I walked with her through a waterfront park that's more or less where Ms. Cai once played in the mangroves. Along the shore, garbage washed up on the rocks from the murky, gray water in the bay.	为深圳市红树林湿地保护基金会工作的梁波同意这一看法。我和梁波一起走过一个海滨公园，这里从前多少曾经是蔡妍丰玩耍过的那片红树林。海滩沿岸，垃圾被海湾阴沉的灰色海水冲上礁石。
"It's worse at low tide," Ms. Liang told me. "You really see how filthy it has become." Because of all the landfill and new development, she said, water no longer flows in and out of the bay as it once did. So garbage gets trapped, stagnation gets worse, fish are killed off. That scenario is repeated throughout the delta, where small rivers and tributaries have been filled in and paved over to make way for new highways, office parks and housing developments, adding to the strains on an already inadequate system of drains and sewers.	“低潮时情况更糟，”梁波告诉我。“你真的能看到它已经变得那么肮脏。”因为那些垃圾填埋场和新的开发项目，她说，海水不再能像以前一样流入和流出海湾。所以垃圾被困住，淤塞情况更加严重，鱼类死亡。这样的情况在整个三角洲一再重复发生，这里的小河与支流已经被填满、铺平，为新建的高速公路、办公园区和住宅楼盘提供空间，给已经负担过重的下水道和排水系统增添更多压力。
"The sea, the wetlands and mangroves used to be part of people's lives	“大海、湿地和红树林曾经是本地人生活的一部分，”梁波指出，“但是红树林

here," Ms. Liang pointed out, "but most of the people who live here now weren't around when the mangroves were still here. They see this park, which makes us more vulnerable to rising seas and typhoons, as they do all the tall buildings and highways. They equate it with progress."	存在的时候，现在住在这里的大部分人都还没有到来。他们看到的只是这个公园，正是这个公园使我们更容易受到上涨的海面与台风袭击，那些高层建筑和高速公路也是这样。他们把这些等同于进步。”
The Trillion-Dollar Question	价值万亿美元的问题
"Air pollution is a direct challenge to people, it's right in their face," said Ma Jun, founder and director of the citizen-led Institute of Public and Environmental Affairs in Beijing. "It's about the food they put on their table for their children. So they've made noise, and things have changed in terms of air pollution policy by Chinese authorities. On the other hand, climate change is happening at a different speed. Sea level rise is not something you easily notice."	"空气污染是对人们的直接挑战，就在他们眼前的，"北京民间组织公众环境研究中心的创始人兼主任马军说："这关乎他们为孩子放在桌上的食物。所以他们发出了声音，中国政府的空气污染政策也发生了变化。另一方面，气候变化正在以不同的速度发生。海平面上升不是那么容易注意到的。"
This is the challenge everywhere. Storms happen, like hot days, all the time — they always have happened. So people don't automatically chalk them up to climate change. Climate change is like the tortoise. Development is the hare. "The problem isn't unique to China," Mr. Ma said. "There is no obvious, short-term solution to climate change problems, no clear strategy everybody agrees is what needs to happen to offset climate change. And there's no certainty about how to pay for what needs to be done. So there's reluctance to address the issue. What's the business model?"	这是无处不在的挑战。暴风雨从来都是有的，就像炎热的天气一样。所以人们不会自动把它们归因为气候变化。气候变化像是乌龟。而发展就像是兔子。"这个问题并不是中国所特有的，"马军说。"气候变化问题没有明显的短期解决方案，关于如何抵消气候变化带来的影响，没有一个所有人都同意的明确战略。相关措施应当如何出资是无法确定的。所以人们在处理这个问题时总是很勉强。它的商业模式是怎样的？"
That's a trillion-dollar question, according to the World Bank, which projected the potential cost of damage to coastal cities from rising seas to be somewhere near that figure. It estimated that China is already losing 1.4 percent of its annual G.D.P. to climate change. Last spring,	根据世界银行的说法，这是一个价值万亿美元的问题，它预测沿海城市因海平面上升遭到的潜在损失价值接近这个数字。它还估计，中国已经因气候变化而损失了1.4%的年度G.D.P.。去年春天，广州的居民一觉醒来，发现街道再次被淹没，倾盆大雨席卷了珠江三角洲，对城市造成严重破坏。当地媒

residents in Guangzhou woke again to flooded streets after a furious downpour swept across the delta and drowned swathes of the city. Local media, once more, said that there had been nothing like it in years. And as usual, Chinese social media sites buzzed with posts of people trapped in flooded cars. One man, named Pang, became an overnight celebrity for trapping a fish with his umbrella, then going home and making soup with the head and tail. "It was fresh and tender," he told the Guangzhou Daily.	体再次表示，这是多年来不曾遇到的情况。像往常一样，有关困在水中汽车里的人的帖子在中国社媒上疯转。一名庞姓男子一夜成名，他用伞捞鱼，回家还用鱼头鱼尾炖汤。“鲜嫩可口，”他对《广州日报》说。
Rains brutalized many other cities throughout southern China last year, with more than 160 people killed by drowning and landslides, dozens left missing, 73,000 homes collapsed and more than a million acres of farmland destroyed. The death tolls from floods across China have actually been trending down, thanks to improved emergency relief efforts. But the damage is increasingly felt in urban areas, where overdevelopment continues to outpace the country's appetite to prepare for natural disasters.	去年，暴雨也横扫了中国南方其他许多城市，全国有 160 多人因溺水和山体滑坡而死亡，数十人失踪，7.3 万户住房倒塌，逾 600 万亩农田遭到破坏。由于紧急救援工作得到改善，中国全境因洪灾造成的死亡人数实际上是在下降的。但由此带来的损害在城市地区日趋明显，因为在那里，过度开发的势头，依然要盖过国家对自然灾害应对的意愿。
That's partly because canals and waterways that once helped drain cities like Guangzhou naturally have been filled in and paved over with concrete and asphalt. Especially in older, underserved areas, infrastructure replacing the canals is shoddy. While Guangdong province now claims more billionaires than any other in the country, there are millions of low-wage workers and migrants from the countryside who settled in cheaper, poorly maintained neighborhoods, the crumbling legacy of humongous socialist-era housing developments.	其中一部分原因是，在广州这样的城市，曾经有助于自然排水的运河与水路被填平，铺上了混凝土和沥青。特别是在较老的、服务欠发达的地区，用来替代运河的基础设施很糟糕。虽然现在广东省的亿万富豪比全国任何地区都要多，但是数百上千万的低收入工人和农民工定居在廉价、维护不佳的社区中，那些都是计划经济时代的庞大住房开发项目留下的破败遗迹。

Zhou Jianyun, an architect and professor who moved to Guangzhou as a student during the early 1980s, took me one day to see some of the older parts of the city most prone to flooding. We toured the area around what used to be the ancient city gates. Streets once lined with handsome covered pedestrian arcades from the 1930s have been widened into boulevards to make more room for cars . Further west, older neighborhoods spill toward the Pearl River. In many ways, these neighborhoods, like Guangzhou's ancient villages — crowded, labyrinthine vestiges of old Canton now dwarfed by giant new malls and housing complexes — are the liveliest parts of the city. But they are also more and more frequently underwater because they are near the river, inadequately protected and ill-served by the outdated sewage system.	这一天，1980年代初求学期间移居广州的建筑师、教授周剑云带我参观这个城市一些较老的、最容易被水淹的地方。我们拜访的这个区域过去曾经是古城门。1930年代，马路两侧曾经是有着漂亮拱廊的步行道，如今已经扩建为林荫大道，为汽车腾出空间。再往西一点，向着珠江的方向，散布着更加古老的社区。在许多方面，这样的社区就像广州那些古老的村庄一样，是这个城市最活跃的地方——那些拥挤的、迷宫般的老广东遗迹，如今在旁边巨大的新购物中心和综合住宅楼映衬下，显得相形见绌。而由于靠近珠江，没有得到充分的保护，陈旧的污水处理系统也起不到作用，导致它们还越来越频繁地被淹。
To the east, an immense, modern district called Tianhe has risen from next to nothing in 30-odd years, its offices and apartment blocks now overshadowed by the super-tall skyscrapers of Guangzhou's Zhujiang New Town, with its opera house by Zaha Hadid and signature Canton Tower. New Town, Guangzhou's picture-postcard image, can bring to mind American downtowns from the late 20th century — cities like Atlanta or Phoenix, only glossier and on a vast scale. Advertised as more environmentally conscious than older parts of the city, with better flood protections, New Town is still a sprawling development conceived for cars and glass towers, a carbon-heavy diet still dependent on highways and air conditioning.	在东部，一个叫天河的地方在三十多年时间里从一片空白发展成一个巨型的现代化区域，但如今它的办公楼和公寓楼已经笼罩在珠江新城的超高层摩天大楼的阴影之下，那里拥有扎哈·哈迪德(Zaha Hadid)设计的歌剧院以及标志建筑广州塔。作为广州的明信片形象，珠江新城令人想起20世纪末的美国城市——像亚特兰大或菲尼克斯，只是这里更绚丽、更宏大。宣传中说这里比老城区更环保，拥有更好的防洪系统，然而珠江新城仍然是为汽车和玻璃高塔准备的巨型开发项目，一种仍然依赖高速公路与空调的高碳排放方案。
"The cities we now have are partly based what we saw in American	"我们现在的城市部分是基于我们在美国电影中看到的東西——关于大型购

movies – on the dream of big malls, airports, highways and tall buildings,” Mr. Zhou said. “I belong to the generation that witnessed the biggest change. We had been almost like North Korea, closed off. Suddenly we could see American movies.”	物中心、机场、高速公路和高层建筑的梦想，”周剑云说。“我属于见证了最大变化的那一代人。我们曾经几乎和朝鲜一样，是封闭的。突然间就可以看到美国电影了。”
“This became our idea of progress,” he added. “Only we wanted to do everything bigger, because we thought that is what it meant to be modern. The actual needs of the real city are ignored,” he said. “In many ways, we are still living a dream.”	“这构成了我们对于进步的观念，”他补充说。“我们只想把所有东西都做得更大，因为我们认为这就意味着现代化。真实城市的实际需要则被忽视。”他说。“在很多方面，我们仍然是生活在一个梦里。”
An Exodus and an Opportunity	工厂外流和一个机会
Clearly, the region’s future depends on whether, and how fast, Chinese officials redefine that concept of progress.	显然，该地区的未来取决于中国官员是否重新定义关于进步的观念，以及这个重新定义来得有多快。
“China’s feelings about modernization keep changing,” said Zhou Ming, an urban planner in Shenzhen who expressed some optimism for the future. We met one afternoon in the glittery hotel lobby at the top of what, for the moment, remains the city’s tallest skyscraper: the 1,400-foot-tall KK100, with a panoramic view that takes in Hong Kong.	“中国对现代化的感受还在不断变化，”深圳的城市规划师周铭对未来表示乐观。那天下午，我们在 KK100 大厦华丽的酒店大堂里见面，截止到当时，它仍然是全城最高的摩天楼，有 1400 英尺高，拥有可以看到香港的广阔视野。
“Before the opening to the outside world, people didn’t have food to eat,” he said. “So they focused on jobs and basic needs. Now wages are going up for workers, people are concerned about air pollution, and they are starting to value traditional culture again, meaning neighborhoods that are human scale and not just a bunch of skyscrapers. That’s on top of pressure from international businesses whose employees care about environmental and climate issues and can decide whether they want to do business here.”	“在对外开放之前，人们都吃不饱肚子，”他说。“所以他们关注工作和基本需求。现在工资正在上涨，人们关心空气污染，又重新开始重视传统文化，这意味着社区以人为本，而不仅仅是一堆摩天大楼。这也是建立在国际企业的压力之上的，它们的员工关心环境和气候问题，根据这些因素决定是否在这里开展业务。”
Not incidentally, some factories have been quitting Guangdong. Rising	并非偶然的是，一些工厂在弃广东而去。在越来越高的工资和收紧污染管制

wages and threats of stiffer pollution standards have prompted less scrupulous manufacturers to move their businesses to countries like Vietnam and Cambodia, where regulations are weaker. In turn, those countries are repeating mistakes, related to climate change preparedness, that China is paying for now.	标准的威胁下，一些不那么自觉的制造商将业务转移到了法规较弱的越南和柬埔寨等国家。反过来，这些国家正在重复与气候变化应对有关的错误，中国目前正是因为这些错误而付出代价。
But this exodus, seeking short term profits, has also created an opportunity for China. Planners and environmentalists here talk about a chance to rebrand Guangdong as a global leader in green, cutting edge, industrial technology and urbanism – to go beyond token “green” skyscrapers and really get ahead of climate change.	但是，这种为寻求短期利润而导致的外流也为中国创造了机会。这里的规划师和环保人士谈到，如今有机会把广东重新打造为绿色、前沿、工业技术和城市化的全球领导者——不仅是建造象征性的“绿色”摩天楼，而是真正领先于气候变化。
The opportunity has increased with the Trump administration retreating on the environment, attacking clean energy, promoting outmoded coal, seeking to undo longstanding federal protections even for drinking water and air. A recent report by Bloomberg Philanthropies made the obvious financial case for climate adaptation, citing billions of dollars in climate-related engineering and construction opportunities.	随着特朗普政府和环境领域的倒退，打击清洁能源，推广过时的煤炭，甚至想取消那些长久以来为饮用水和空气提供保护的联邦管制规则，让这种机会愈发加大。布隆伯格慈善基金会(Bloomberg Philanthropies)最近的一份报告列举了价值数十亿美元的气候相关工程和建设机会，表明气候适应方案是可以有经济效益的。
Prosperity will ultimately belong to cities and nations around the world that find ways to capitalize on strategies of resilience against the inevitable impact of climate change. Those cities will retool themselves for global businesses whose employees, reflecting a growing, worldwide generational shift, want to walk, ride bikes and take mass transit.	世界各地都有城市和国家寻求方案，抵御气候变化不可避免的影响，并从这些抵御战略中获利，繁荣最终将属于它们。这些城市将重新打造自己，适应国际企业，这些企业的员工们反映了全球范围内一代人的发展变化，他们更想走路、骑自行车和乘坐大众交通工具。
China has demonstrated it can be nimble and ingenious. Since 1997, Guangzhou has built an entire new metro system with scores of stations, covering hundreds of miles; Shenzhen has done the same in	中国已经证明它可以有灵活与巧妙的手段。自 1997 年以来，广州建成了全新的地铁系统，拥有数十个车站，长度达数百英里；深圳只用了十几年就做到了这一点。而纽约在半个世纪内才勉强建成了四座地铁站。

only a dozen years. New York has barely managed to construct four subway stations in half a century.
But little of this infrastructure in China was conceived in anticipation of extreme conditions and climate change. Rising waters repeatedly reduced train traffic in the delta to a crawl last year, halting ferry service on the Pearl River, turning several of the new subway stations into swimming holes.	但是中国的这一基础设施在构想时很少预期到极端条件和气候变化。去年，上升的水位一再令三角洲地区的火车交通变得十分迟缓，珠江的渡轮服务停止，将几座新的地铁站变成了巨大的游泳池。
“What climate change says is that if you want to maintain the city as a good place to live and work for everyone, business as usual won’t do,” said Robert J. Nicholls, a professor of coastal engineering. He helped write the World Bank report that warned of the fiscal impact of climate change on the Pearl River Delta. “Disasters will become more likely. And the last thing the Chinese want is a Katrina event,” he added, referring to the hurricane that devastated New Orleans in 2005.	“气候变化表明，如果你希望把城市保持为适合所有人生活和工作的地方，就不能照着老一套的行事方式，”海岸工程教授罗伯特·尼科尔斯(Robert J. Nicholls)说，他参与撰写了那份警告气候变化对珠江三角洲的经济影响的世行报告，“灾难的可能性在增大。而中国人最不想要的就是一起卡特里娜事件(Katrina)，”他补充说，他说的卡特里娜指的是2005年摧毁新奥尔良的飓风。
Flooding is not an insurmountable hurdle, he noted. The Chinese can build smarter cities — healthier, safer, more humane ones, with restored waterways and waterfronts, flood-proof buildings, genuine, wide-reaching air-pollution controls, earlier warning systems, levees that double as parks, retention ponds that provide recreation, neighborhoods less dependent on cars.	他指出，洪水并不是无法克服的困难。中国人可以建设更智慧的城市——更健康、更安全、更人性化——他们可以修复航道和滨水区，修建防洪设施，建造真正的、范围广阔的空气污染控制系统以及早期预警系统，修建可以兼做公园的防洪堤坝，以及为人们提供休闲娱乐的蓄水池，减少生活社区对汽车的依赖。
“The challenge for the Chinese, as it is for so many others,” he said, “is taking the long view.”	“对中国人乃至其他许多人而言，挑战在于把目光放长远，”他说。
Which shouldn’t really be so hard, considering the recent past. The government estimated regional losses from last summer’s floods alone at $10 billion. For all of 2016, rainfall in China was 16 percent above	考虑到不久以前的情况，这应该没那么困难。据政府估计，仅仅去年夏季，洪灾造成的地区损失就高达100亿美元。2016年全年，中国的降雨量比平均水平高出16%。

average.
That was the highest level in recorded history.	那是有记载以来的最高降雨量。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/climate-change-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/climate-change-china
Dalai Lama's Journey Provokes China, and Hints at His Heir	达赖喇嘛的达旺之旅深深刺激了北京
NEW DELHI — It has been a hard journey for the 81-year-old Dalai Lama, perhaps his last over the mountain passes at the edge of China, to a town that has played a fateful role in his life, and in the history of Tibetan Buddhism.	新德里——对 81 岁的达赖喇嘛(Dalai Lama)而言, 这是一段艰难的旅程, 或许是他最后一次越过这个位于中国边界附近的山口, 前往一个对他的生活和藏传佛教的历史起到决定性作用的城镇。
Violent rains buffeted the small plane he flew into the valley. His party was forced to continue overland, traveling seven or eight hours a day over steep serpentine roads, lined with villagers hoping to glimpse him.	大暴雨猛烈袭击了将他载入这座山谷的小飞机。一行人被迫改走陆路, 每天在陡峭、蜿蜒的山路上行进七八个小时, 两旁列着期待能看他一眼的村民。
Each day, as he came closer to the holy site of Tawang, China pressed India more forcefully to stop his progress, its warnings growing increasingly ominous.	随着他每天距离圣地达旺越来越近, 中国开始施加更大的压力阻止他前进, 发出的警告越来越有威胁性。
By Thursday, a day before the Dalai Lama was expected to reach Tawang, the official China Daily wrote that Beijing "would not hesitate to answer blows with blows" if the Indian authorities allowed the Dalai Lama to continue.	至周四, 也就是达赖喇嘛预计抵达达旺的前一天, 官方报纸《中国日报》写道, 如果印度当局允许达赖喇嘛继续这趟行程, 北京“将毫不犹豫地以牙还牙”。
At stake on this journey, scholars said, is the monumental question of who will emerge as the Dalai Lama's successor — and whether that successor, typically a baby identified as the next reincarnation of the Dalai Lama, will live inside or outside China's zone of influence.	学者们表示, 这趟旅程最紧要的是解决这样一个重大问题: 谁将是达赖喇嘛的继任者, 以及这位继任者——通常是一个被确认为达赖喇嘛转世的婴儿——会生活在中国的影响范围之内还是之外。
By visiting Tawang, a Tibetan Buddhist stronghold that was the birthplace of a previous Dalai Lama, he is expertly needling Beijing, which maintains that this area should be part of China. He is also	达旺是藏传佛教的大本营, 也是以前一位达赖喇嘛的出生地。达赖喇嘛是想通过拜访这个地方刺激北京, 后者坚称这个地区应该是中国的一部分。他也是在巩固自己的教派在该地区民众中的深厚根基, 为那里出现一名转世化身

consolidating his sect's deep roots among the population, potentially laying the groundwork for a reincarnation there.	铺路。
"He is a wise Lama, and he is thinking far ahead, as he always has," said Brahma Chellaney, an analyst at New Delhi's Center for Policy Research. "He is not given to sentimental reasoning. There is nothing about his trip to Arunachal Pradesh that is sentimental in its nature."	"他是一个聪明的喇嘛，在做长远的思考，就像他一贯那样。"新德里政策研究中心(Center for Policy Research)的分析师布拉马·切拉尼(Brahma Chellaney)说。"他不爱感情用事。他这次阿鲁纳恰尔邦之旅压根没有一点情绪化的成分。"
Tawang is home to the Monpa people, who practice Tibetan Buddhism and once paid tribute to rulers in Lhasa, 316 miles to the north. Though the town's population is about 11,000, officials said they were expecting as many as 60,000 to gather for the Dalai Lama's appearances at Tawang's monastery this weekend.	达旺是信奉藏传佛教的门巴族人的故乡，过去曾向位于它北部 316 英里(约合 510 公里)远的拉萨的统治者进贡。尽管这个城镇的人口只有大约 1.1 万，但官员们表示，他们预计本周达赖喇嘛现身达旺的寺庙时，会吸引多达 6 万人聚集。
"We have been preparing for the last two months," said Lobsang Khum, secretary of the monastery. "Everybody wants to see him, get his blessings, touch his feet. For us, the Dalai Lama is more important than our lives."	"在过去的两个月里，我们一直在做准备，"这座寺庙的主持洛桑库姆(Lobsang Khum)说。"所有人都想见他，得到他的祝福，触摸他的脚。对我们来说，达赖喇嘛比我们的生命还要重要。"
The most treasured lore among the Monpa surrounds Tsangyang Gyatso, who in 1682 became the sixth Dalai Lama. People here make pilgrimages to his childhood home, where a stone is displayed with a faint footprint said to be his, and speak longingly of the possibility that it could happen again.	门巴族人最珍视的传说与仓央嘉措(Tsangyang Gyatso)有关，后者在 1682 年成为第六世达赖喇嘛。这里的人会去他童年的住所朝圣——那里摆着一块石头，上面有一个模糊的脚印据说就是他的留下的——还热切地表示希望奇迹会再次发生。
"That is the dream of many people here, that the next Dalai Lama should be born in Tawang," said Sang Phuntsok, Tawang's deputy commissioner. Tsering Tashi, a local legislator, said that, as a layman, he had no business commenting, but in the end he could not restrain himself. "I wish that the reincarnation of the next Dalai Lama happens in	"下一任达赖喇嘛出生在达旺，是这里许多人的梦想，"达旺的副长官桑平措(Sang Phuntsok)说。当地议员次仁扎西(Tsering Tashi)表示，作为一名在俗教徒，他无权置评，但最后他还是没忍住。"我希望下一任达赖喇嘛的转世化身出现在达旺，"他说。"我能说的就这些。"

Tawang," he said. "That's all I can say."
The Dalai Lama has been enigmatic about how his successor will be chosen.	达赖喇嘛对于如何选出继任者讳莫如深。
In the past, monks have turned to visions and oracles to lead them to a child conceived just as the previous Dalai Lama died. Having identified a child, they administer tests seeking to confirm that he is the reincarnated lama, such as asking him to pick out objects belonging to his predecessor.	过去, 和尚们会依靠幻象和神谕引领, 找到一个在前任达赖喇嘛去世时怀上的孩子。确定后, 他们会进行测试, 以便确认他就是转世的喇嘛, 比如让他挑选出属于他的前任的物品。
But that method would leave Tibetan Buddhism without a leader for at least a year, allowing China to identify and promote its own candidate. The Dalai Lama has hinted that he may instead opt for a nontraditional selection process, selecting a child or an adult to succeed him while he is still alive.	但这种办法会令藏传佛教在至少一年的时间无人领导, 这会让中国有机会确认和宣传它自己的候选人。达赖喇嘛暗示, 他可能会选择一种非传统的选拔程序, 在自己仍然在世的时候挑选一名儿童或一个成人来接替他的位置。
Aging Tibetan Buddhist lamas have, in some cases, visited places where they would later be reincarnated as babies, and the Dalai Lama's visits to Tawang and Mongolia seemed to fall into that pattern, said Robert J. Barnett, a historian of modern Tibet at Columbia University.	在哥伦比亚大学(Columbia University)研究现代西藏的历史学家罗伯特·J·巴尼特(Robert J. Barnett)表示, 老去的藏传佛教喇嘛有时会访问他们之后转世为婴孩的地方, 达赖喇嘛前往达旺和蒙古似乎就属于这种情况。
"This is a way of getting under the skin of the Chinese, of probing them, and reminding them that they have no control over where the next reincarnation occurs," he said.	"这是一种刺激、试探中国人, 提醒他们不能控制下一次转世在哪里发生的方式," 他说。
As the Dalai Lama's arrival in Tawang grew closer this week, Chinese statements grew increasingly bellicose, a tactic that has succeeded in pressuring officials of many countries to snub the Tibetan leader.	本周, 随着达赖喇嘛于抵达达旺的时间临近, 中国发出的声明火药味也越来越浓, 这种策略曾经成功地迫使许多国家的官员冷落这位西藏领导人。
On Wednesday, a foreign ministry spokeswoman said India had "obstinately arranged" the Dalai Lama's visit, causing "serious damage"	周三, 中国的一名外交部发言人表示, 印度"执意安排"达赖喇嘛这次访问活动, 会"严重伤害"中印关系。周四, 官方小报《环球时报》建议, 中国可以

to bilateral ties. On Thursday, The Global Times, a state-run tabloid, suggested that China could retaliate by supporting the anti-Indian militancy in Kashmir.	通过支持克什米尔的反印度军事行动来进行报复。
"Can India afford the consequence?" it asked sarcastically. "With a G.D.P. several times higher than that of India, military capabilities that can reach the Indian Ocean and having good relations with India's peripheral nations, coupled with the fact that India's turbulent northern state borders China, will Beijing lose to New Delhi?"	印度“哪里有资本把中印关系搞砸本”？文中带有讽刺意味地问道。“中国的GDP数倍于印度，我们的军事力量已经可以向印度洋投送，印度周边有中国友好国家，印度不稳定的东北部紧靠中国，如果中印相互‘玩地缘政治’，北京会输给新德里吗？”
Though India is typically wary of provoking China, several officials have been unusually pugnacious in their responses. Pema Khandu, the chief minister of Arunachal Pradesh, took the unusual step this week of stating that an independent Tibet, not China, is India's true northern neighbor.	尽管印度通常会谨慎地避免激怒中国，但几位官员这次的反应却异乎寻常地带有挑衅意味。阿鲁纳恰尔邦首席部长佩马坎杜(Pema Khandu)本周做出不同寻常的举动，称独立的西藏——而非中国——才是印度在北面真正的邻居。
"Let me get this straight," Mr. Khandu told journalists. "China has no business telling us what to do and what not to do because it is not our next-door neighbor."	“让我把话说清楚，”佩马坎杜对记者们讲道。“中国无权告诉我们该做什么、不该做什么，因为它根本不是我们的邻居。”
The Dalai Lama, for his part, has been characteristically jovial to the crowd of journalists trailing after him, expounding cheerily on subjects from quantum physics to global warming. He hardly needs to do more, Mr. Barnett said.	达赖喇嘛对随访他的记者群体表现出一贯的友好，兴高采烈地就量子物理学至全球变暖等各种话题发表观点。巴尼特表示，他几乎不需要再做什么了。
"He doesn't have to do anything except exist and be his usual beaming self to embarrass the Chinese," he said. "He will be right on the border, he will be a complete free person, he will be only meters away from Chinese territory, but they cannot do anything about it."	“除了活着和做他那耀眼的自己从而令中国人难堪之外，他不需要再做什么事，”他说。“他会来到边境线上，成为一个完全自由的人，距离中国的领土只有几米之遥，但他们对此无能为力。”
The Dalai Lama also revisited his escape from Tibet in 1959, when he	达赖喇嘛也回顾了自己1959年逃离西藏的情景，当时他从中国军方在拉萨

fled a Chinese military crackdown in Lhasa. Disguised, and with a small group of aides, he crossed the mountain passes to safety in Tawang.	进行的军事镇压行动中逃走。他伪装起来，和一小群随从越过了这个山口，到达旺寻求庇护。
He was reunited this week with Naren Chandra Das, 76, an Indian soldier who escorted him on the last three days. The two embraced before the cameras: the former soldier painfully thin, his eyes clouded by cataracts; the monk apple-cheeked and jovial.	他本周与 76 岁印度士兵纳伦·钱德拉·达斯(Naren Chandra Das)重逢，后者在逃难的最后三天里一直陪同着他。两人在镜头前拥抱：这名退役士兵极其瘦弱，眼睛因为患上白内障而看不大清；达赖喇嘛则脸色红润，十分愉快。
"I became old, but he stays the same," Mr. Das said. "He is a big man, the king of Tibet."	"我变老了，他却还是那个样子，"达斯说道。"他是个大人物，是西藏的国王。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/dalai-lama-sucessor-tibet-china-buddhism	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/dalai-lama-sucessor-tibet-china-buddhism
Reporters Without Borders Picks Taiwan for Asian Bureau	香港新闻自由恶化，无国界记者在台北设办事处
HONG KONG — Reporters Without Borders, which advocates press freedom, announced on Thursday that it would open its first Asian bureau in Taipei, Taiwan's capital, rather than in Hong Kong, which is increasingly under China's sway.	香港——倡导新闻自由的无国界记者(Reporters Without Borders)周四宣布，它将在台湾首府台北建立第一个亚洲办事处，而不是受中国影响越来越大的香港。
"Hong Kong was the place where we originally wanted to open an office in Asia," Christophe Deloire, the group's secretary general, said in an email, adding, "It is not so easy now to run activities from there."	"我们最初想把亚洲办事处放在香港，"无国界记者秘书长克里斯托弗·德卢瓦尔(Christophe Deloire)在一封邮件中说道。他还表示，"如今在那里开展活动没那么容易了。"
Mr. Deloire said that the Paris-based organization, also known as Reporters Sans Frontières, decided against Hong Kong because of "a lack of legal certainty for our entity and activities." He also cited the possibility that staff members would be put under surveillance.	德卢瓦尔表示，这个总部位于巴黎、又叫 Reporters Sans Frontières 的机构之所以没有选择香港，是因为"对我们的实体和活动缺乏法律上的确定性"。他还提到，在那里的工作人员有可能受到监视。
The announcement is a reversal of fortune for both Hong Kong and Taiwan. When Reporters Without Borders was founded in 1985, Hong Kong was a British colony with a high degree of press freedom, while	这个消息对香港和台湾都称得上是一种命运的反转。当无国界记者在 1985 年成立时，香港还是一个英国殖民地，有高度的新闻自由，而台湾则处在长达 40 年戒严的末期。

Taiwan was at the tail end of four decades of martial law.
Taiwan began its democratic transformation in the 1990s and now ranks 51st globally for press freedom, according to Reporters Without Borders. Hong Kong, a semiautonomous Chinese city, is 69th, while China is 176th.	台湾在 90 年代开始实行民主变革，如今在无国界记者机构的排名中位列全球新闻自由度第 51 高的国家。半自治中国城市香港排第 69 位，中国则是第 176 位。
"I don't blame Reporters Without Borders for jilting Hong Kong," said Claudia Mo, a Hong Kong legislator who was a journalist before entering government. Ms. Mo said that before returning to Chinese control in 1997, Hong Kong had led Asia in press freedom, but that under Chinese sovereignty, "It's been going downhill."	"我不会怪无国界记者放弃香港，"在从政之前曾是一名记者的香港立法会议员毛孟静(Claudia Mo)说。她表示，在 1997 年回归中国之前，香港是亚洲新闻自由度最高的城市，然而在中国的主权管辖之下，"它一直在走下坡路。"
Mak Yin-ting, the former chairwoman of the Hong Kong Journalists Association and a member of its press freedom subcommittee, said that conditions had worsened under Hong Kong's leader, Leung Chun-ying, who will step down on July 1.	香港记者协会(Hong Kong Journalists Association)前任主席、该机构下属的新闻自由小组委员会成员麦燕庭(Mak Yin-ting)表示，在将于 7 月 1 日卸任的香港领导人梁振英(Leung Chun-ying)的领导下，情况变得更糟了。
Self-censorship, government manipulation and pressure from pro-Beijing media owners were cited by journalists as the main challenges in a recent survey by the association, Ms. Mak said. More than 70 percent of journalists polled said they thought press freedom had deteriorated in Hong Kong over the past year.	麦燕庭还提到，香港记者协会最近进行的一项问卷调查显示，自我审查、政府操纵和来自亲北京的媒体所有者的压力，被记者们列为目前面临的主要挑战。接受问卷调查的记者有超过七成认为香港的新闻自由状况在过去的一年里出现了恶化。
Neither Ms. Mak nor Ms. Mo expects things to improve under Mr. Leung's successor, Carrie Lam, who was chosen by a committee dominated by people with close ties to Beijing. Ms. Lam has said she will uphold press freedoms in Hong Kong.	麦燕庭和毛孟静都认为，在梁振英的继任者林郑月娥(Carrie Lam)的领导下，情况不会有改善，后者是由一个与北京关系密切的人主导的委员会选出的。林郑月娥曾表示，她将推进香港的新闻自由。
Taiwan, a self-ruled, democratic island, is also feeling pressure from China, which considers it a breakaway province.	实行民主制的自治岛屿台湾也开始感受到来自中国的压力，中国将其看作自己的一个分离省份。

“The main threat to media freedom comes from China, which has been exerting growing economic and political pressure on the Taiwanese media,” Taiwan’s profile on Reporters Without Borders’ website said.	“媒体自由的主要威胁来自中国，后者在对台湾媒体施加越来越大的经济和政治压力，”无国界记者网站在对台湾新闻自由状况的描述中写道。
For Taiwan, the group’s decision to set up in Taipei is a rare — and welcome — soft-power win. The bureau is scheduled to open in June.	对台湾而言，无国界记者在台北设立办事处的决定是一项难得的且受欢迎的软实力胜绩。该办事处计划于6月开启。
“Because of difficulties owing to Taiwan’s diplomatic plight, strengthening ties with international NGOs that espouse universal values, such as R.S.F., will be a boost to Taiwan’s international participation,” said Hsu Kuo-yung, a spokesman for Taiwan’s government, referring to Reporters Without Borders using its initials in French.	“台湾因外交处境上的困难，强化与世界各国具普世价值的非政府组织，如RSF等的关系，亦能有助于台湾的国际参与，”台湾政府发言人徐国勇(Hsu Kuo-yung)说道；他在提及无国界记者时使用了它的法文缩写。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/reporters-without-borders-asia-hong-kong	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170407/reporters-without-borders-asia-hong-kong
China Investigates Regulator of Fast-Moving Insurance Industry	中国保监会主席项俊波被调查
SHANGHAI — China’s anti-corruption investigators are targeting the country’s top insurance regulator, throwing doubt over an industry that has been behind a wave of blockbuster global deals but has raised concerns about financial risk in the world’s second-largest economy.	上海——中国反腐调查人员正把矛头对准该国保险业的最高监管者，让这个屹立于一系列轰动一时的全球性交易背后的行业，笼罩在了疑云之下。它引发了人们对于这个世界第二大经济体出现金融风险的担忧。
The Chinese Communist Party’s anti-corruption investigation agency said Sunday afternoon that the regulator, Xiang Junbo, had been placed under investigation for “severe violations of discipline.” In China, that language is commonly used in reference to a corruption inquiry.	中国共产党的反腐调查机构周日下午表示，这位名为项俊波的监管者涉嫌“严重违纪”，目前正接受组织调查。在中国，此种说辞通常被用来指代反腐调查。
Mr. Xiang oversaw an industry that has gone from a cash-rich but sleepy backwater to a major player on the global deal-making scene in recent years. Chinese insurers have bought up a large number of	项俊波监管的保险业，近年来已经从一个现金充裕但却死气沉沉的行业，成长为全球交易舞台上的一个主要参与者。中国保险企业买下了大量产业，其中包括大型开发项目、欧洲的金融机构以及纽约的华尔道夫-阿斯特里亚

properties, including big developments, European financial institutions and the Waldorf Astoria hotel in New York. Since last year, Chinese regulators have moved to curtail what have been widely seen as some of the insurance industry's riskier practices.	(Waldorf Astoria)酒店。中国监管机构从去年开始采取行动，限制保险业的某些被普遍认为风险较高的做法。
Mr. Xiang himself had become a name to be noticed on Wall Street. In 2012, Mr. Xiang met with Jamie Dimon, the chief executive of JPMorgan Chase, and asked him to hire a young woman who he said was the daughter of a close friend. The American authorities later opened a bribery inquiry into whether the bank hired children of powerful Chinese officials to help it win lucrative business there.	项俊波本人早已受到华尔街的关注。项俊波曾在 2012 年和摩根大通 (JPMorgan Chase) 的首席执行官杰米·戴蒙 (Jamie Dimon) 会面，让后者聘用一名年轻女子，他说该女子是他一个好朋友的女儿。后来美国当局就摩根大通是否曾聘用位高权重的中国官员的子女，以便在中国市场上承揽利润丰厚的业务开展了腐败调查。
The bank settled the case last year for $264 million; neither Mr. Dimon nor Mr. Xiang was accused of wrongdoing.	去年，摩根大通以 2.64 亿美元的代价，就该案与当局达成和解；戴蒙和项俊波均未被控行为不端。
It is not clear whether the investigation into Mr. Xiang is related to any of those matters. The anticorruption agency, the Central Commission for Discipline Inspection, provided no details. Mr. Xiang, 60, could not be reached for comment on Sunday, and no one answered the phone at the press office of the China Insurance Regulatory Commission, which he oversees. As of Sunday afternoon, the insurance commission's website still listed him as its chairman.	目前尚不清楚对项俊波的调查是否与上述任何一件事有关。反腐机构中纪委未提供细节。记者在周日未能联系上现年 60 岁、身为中国保监会掌门人的项俊波进行置评，打给保监会新闻宣传部门的电话也无人接听。截至周日下午，在保监会网站上，他的头衔依然是保监会主席。
Mr. Xiang is just the latest top Communist Party official to fall afoul of President Xi Jinping's yearslong anti-corruption campaign. He is a member of the party's Central Committee, a group of about 200 officials who make major decisions about how the party is run.	由国家主席习近平发起的为期数年的反腐运动已导致多名共产党高官落马，项俊波只不过是最新的例子。他是中共中央委员会委员，有着几百名官员作为成员的该委员会将就如何治党作出重要决定。
He is also the top regulator of a vast industry that has undergone major changes in recent years.	他还是一个近年来发生巨变的庞大行业的最高监管者。

China has pushed to energize its long-sleepy insurance industry as part of an effort to modernize its financial system and nurture a rising culture of middle-class spenders who might want financial security. But under Mr. Xiang, the industry — which boasts 15.1 trillion renminbi, or $2.2 trillion, in assets — has also become more daring in what it invests in, defying the image of insurers as conservative stewards of wealth.	中国一直想要实现金融体系现代化，并培育日益崛起的中产阶级消费者文化，而这类消费者或许有财务安全需求。作为相关努力的一部分，中国竭力激活长期以来死气沉沉的保险行业。但在习近平治下，坐拥 15.1 万亿人民币(约合 2.2 万亿美元)资产的保险业在投资标的的选择上也变得更加大胆，这和保险企业作为保守的财富管家的形象背道而驰。
Chinese insurers have also become aggressive over the past several years in selling investment products that were regulated as life insurance but promised high rates of return with maturities of as little as a year. These products allowed insurers, particularly smaller insurers, to raise large sums of money quickly, which they then used to speculate in bonds, real estate and other investments.	过去几年间，中国保险商还积极销售一些投资型产品，它们被定性为人寿保险，但却在期限可低至一年的情况下，许以很高的回报率。这些产品让保险商，尤其是规模较小的保险商得以迅速筹集到大笔资金，然后用这些钱进行债券和房地产投机，或者进行其他投资。
The best-known of China’s smaller but fast-growing insurers in the past year has been Anbang, which bought the Waldorf Astoria in 2015. Anbang came close to investing in a Manhattan real estate tower with President Trump’s son-in-law and adviser, Jared Kushner. Work on that deal was abruptly halted last month as it began to trigger considerable public attention.	过去一年间，中国规模较小但发展极快的保险商中最令人耳熟能详的，就是在 2015 年买下华尔道夫-阿斯特里亚酒店的安邦。安邦一度就要与特朗普总统的女婿兼顾问贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)达成交易，投资曼哈顿的一所大厦。在这项交易开始引发公众的大量关注之际，相关工作于上个月突然被叫停。
By the standards of top Chinese financial regulators — indeed, by the standards of financial regulators in any country — Mr. Xiang led an uncommonly varied and creative life.	以中国最高级别的一些金融监管者为参照——实际上是以任何一个国家的金融监管者为参照——项俊波过着不同寻常、多姿多彩而又富于创意的生活。
According to state-controlled media, he joined the army and fought Vietnamese forces in a border war in 1979. He then became a successful television writer and producer, writing the screenplays for at least two TV series on the perils of corruption and a third on kung fu	据国有媒体报道，他参过军，并在 1979 年的一场边境战争中抗击过越南军队。他随后成为了一名成功的电视编剧和制作人，至少为两部关于腐败的危害的电视剧以及一部武侠剧写过剧本。

combatants.
Along the way, he also found time to climb the ranks of the country's financial elite. He became chairman of China's third-largest bank, the Agricultural Bank of China, in 2009 and of the insurance commission two years later.	在其职业生涯中，他还抽空抵达了中国金融精英阶层的顶峰。他在2009年当上了中国第三大银行——中国农业银行的董事长，两年后升任中国保监会主席。
Mr. Xiang's continued leadership of the insurance commission was a subject of considerable discussion on the sidelines of the annual session of the National People's Congress in Beijing early last month, but he was not seen as a possible target of an anti-corruption investigation. Questions instead had revolved around whether insurance regulation would be consolidated with other agencies as part of an overhaul in how China oversees its financial system.	每年一度的全国人大会议于上月初在北京举行期间，他能否继续领导保监会一事引发了大量讨论，但没什么人认为他会遭遇反腐调查。人们的问题都围绕保险监管机构是否会和其他机构合并，从而推动中国金融系统监管方式的整改进程展开。
Asked during a news conference right before the congress whether financial regulation might be consolidated under the China Banking Regulatory Commission, Guo Shuqing, China's newly named top banking regulator and an official with a reputation as a reformer, said only that financial regulatory agencies needed to coordinate their activities.	全国人大会议召开前夕，刚刚被任命为中国银监会主席、有着改革者名声的官员郭树清，在一个新闻发布会上被问及其他一些金融监管机构是否有可能被合并到银监会名下时只是说，金融监管机构需要协调行动。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170410/china-investigates-regulator-of-fast-moving-insurance-industry	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170410/china-investigates-regulator-of-fast-moving-insurance-industry
What Chinese News Reports Tell Us About Beijing's View of Trump	中国媒体如何报道习近平特朗普的首次会晤
They dined by candlelight, discussed thorny issues like trade and North Korea and took walks under palm trees. In public, President Trump and President Xi Jinping of China offered little more than smiles and clichés during a meeting this week in Florida.	他们共进烛光晚餐，讨论贸易和朝鲜之类的棘手问题，还一同在棕榈树下散步。在大庭广众之下，特朗普总统和习近平主席本周在佛罗里达举行的峰会，展示的不过是微笑和老一套而已。

But what is really going on behind the scenes, and what does Mr. Xi's government really think of Mr. Trump? China's state-controlled news media offered some hints. We scoured Chinese news coverage of the meeting for clues about how China might portray itself in the era of Trump.	但在幕后发生的情况是怎样的？习近平的政府又是怎么看特朗普的呢？对于这些问题，中国政府控制的新闻媒体提供了一些线索。我们整理了中国对这次会面的报道，看看在特朗普时代，中国如何描述自己。
An Adult in the Room	房间里的成年人
The photo on the left, seen here on the front page of People's Daily, China's largest newspaper, ricocheted across Chinese television and news sites. In it, Mr. Xi appears calm and in command. Mr. Trump, slouching on the couch, could be viewed as less authoritative.	上面那张照片出现在中国最大的报纸《人民日报》的头版，并在中国的各电视台和新闻网站上传播。在照片中，习近平看起来冷静、有领导派头。特朗普懒洋洋地靠在沙发上，可以被视为权威性较低。
The image reinforced China's efforts to appear like an adult on the global stage, at a time when Mr. Trump's erratic behavior has alienated some American allies. On a host of issues, including climate change and trade, Mr. Xi is trying to show that China can assume the mantle of global leadership.	这种形象强化了中国在全球舞台上看起来显得像是成年人的努力，而特朗普近来的不稳定行为已经疏远了美国的一些盟友。在气候变化和贸易等很多问题上，习近平都试图表明中国可以担当起全球领导者的地位。
The image might also help elevate Mr. Xi's stature at home before an important Communist Party leadership reshuffle this fall. Mr. Xi, already one of the most powerful leaders in recent Chinese history, is looking to amass even more political power before the meeting. He may be eager to show that he knows how to handle a testy leader like Mr. Trump and that he was able to avert a trade war.	这种形象可能也有助于提升习近平在国内的地位，今年秋天，共产党领导层将进行一次重要的重新洗牌。习近平已经是最近的中国历史上权力最为集中的领导人之一了，他希望能在那次会议之前积累更多的政治权力。他可能渴望向大家展示，自己知道如何对付一个像特朗普那样暴躁的领导人，而且他能够避免一场贸易战。
Highlighting a Cultural Connection	突出文化交流
Mr. Trump's attacks on issues like trade and climate change have rattled Beijing. So the news media chose to highlight a lighter moment: a performance of a Chinese song by a granddaughter of Mr. Trump.	特朗普在贸易和气候变化等问题上的叫板让北京感到不安。所以新闻媒体选择强调一个比较轻松的时刻：特朗普的外孙女唱中文歌。

Chinese leaders want to show they can work with Mr. Trump, even on difficult issues, to avert crises. Showcasing the Trump family's affinity for Chinese culture may help ease concerns in China that Mr. Trump views Beijing as an enemy.	中国领导人想表明,即便是在困难的问题上,他们也仍然可以与特朗普合作,避免危机的发生。展示特朗普的家人对中国文化的喜好,可能有助于缓解中国的疑虑,因为一些人担心特朗普把北京视为敌人。
Playing Down Trade Worries	淡化贸易忧虑
Chinese officials are keenly aware that American workers are worried about manufacturing jobs being outsourced to China. In an attempt to temper that anxiety, the American arm of CCTV, the Chinese state broadcaster, released an English-language video blaming automation for job losses, not trade with China.	中国官员深切地意识到,美国工人担心制造业岗位被外包给中国。为了缓解这种焦虑,中国中央电视台的美国分部发布了一个英文视频,把工作流失的原因归结为自动化,而不是与中国之间的贸易。
Since delivering a prominent speech in Davos, Switzerland, in January, Mr. Xi has become a leading proponent of globalization as a force for prosperity. But he faces a rival in Mr. Trump, who has threatened to impose steep tariffs on Chinese goods. Now China appears to be preparing to make its case directly to American workers.	自从今年1月在瑞士达沃斯发表重要演讲以来,习近平已经成为了全球化带来繁荣的主要推动者。但是,特朗普在这方面是他的对手,曾威胁过要对中国商品征收高额关税。现在中国似乎准备直接和美国工人讲道理。
All in a Handshake	一切都在握手中
Many people in China have heard about Mr. Trump's affinity for long and sometimes awkward handshakes. They wondered how Mr. Trump might approach Mr. Xi, who is not exactly known for a playful style.	很多中国人都听说过,特朗普喜欢握手握很久,而且有时候会导致尴尬。他们想知道特朗普会怎么和习近平握手,后者不是以爱开玩笑闻名的人。
When Mr. Xi appeared to walk away from Mr. Trump's grip unscathed, the Chinese media applauded. Several news outlets published displays of Mr. Trump's more amusing grip-and-grins on Weibo, a Chinese microblogging site. "When it comes to handshakes, many other people have tasted bitterness with Trump," read a post by Phoenix Television, a Hong Kong news organization that is considered favorable to Beijing.	习近平和特朗普握手之后似乎显得毫发无损,中国媒体对此予以赞许。有几家新闻机构在新浪微博上发布了特朗普更为有趣的握手一笑的照片。被认为亲北京的香港新闻机构凤凰卫视在一篇帖子里写道:"在握手问题上,吃过特朗普苦头的还有不少人。"

Chinese officials hoped Mr. Xi would emerge from the summit showing he could hold his own against Mr. Trump. In a handshake, at least, they could declare victory.	中国官员希望习近平在这次首脑会议中，表现出可以和特朗普对抗的气场。现在至少在握手问题上，他们可以宣布获胜了。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170410/china-trump-xi-jinping	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170410/china-trump-xi-jinping
After Xi Leaves U.S., Chinese Media Assail Strike on Syria	习近平结束访美后，官媒开始炮轰特朗普
BEIJING — With President Xi Jinping safely out of the United States and no longer President Trump’s guest, China’s state-run media on Saturday was free to denounce the missile strike on Syria, which the American president told Mr. Xi about while they were finishing dinner.	北京——周六，在中国国家主席习近平安稳地离开了美国，不再是特朗普总统的客人后，中国的官方媒体开始随意谴责对叙利亚的导弹袭击。在晚宴快结束时，特朗普曾告诉习近平袭击相关情况。
Xinhua, the state news agency, on Saturday called the strike the act of a weakened politician who needed to flex his muscles. In an analysis, Xinhua also said Mr. Trump had ordered the strike to distance himself from Syria’s backers in Moscow, to overcome accusations that he was “pro-Russia.”	中国官方通讯社新华社周六称，袭击是一个步履维艰的政客展示强人形象的做法。在一篇分析文章中，新华社还说，特朗普下令发动袭击是为了撇清与莫斯科的叙利亚支持者的关系，消除对他“亲俄”的指责。
That unflattering assessment reflected China’s official opposition to military interventions in the affairs of other countries. But it was also a criticism of Mr. Trump himself, who Mr. Xi had hoped was a man China could deal with.	这种不客气的评价反映了中国官方反对军事干涉他国事务的态度，但也是对特朗普本人的指责。习近平本希望特朗普是一个中国能与之打交道的人。
Chinese officials had feared that the two leaders’ 24-hour encounter at Mr. Trump’s Mar-a-Lago estate in Florida might be marred by a campaign-style anti-China outburst from Mr. Trump. Instead, it was interrupted by the unexpected missile attack.	中国官员原本担心两位领导人在特朗普位于佛罗里达州的马阿拉歌庄园长达 24 小时的共处，会受到特朗普爆发出的竞选式反华言行的影响。但实际上，打断会面的却是那场出人意料的导弹袭击。
Some Chinese analysts viewed the strike’s timing as no coincidence. Mr. Trump wants China to do more to deter the development of nuclear weapons by North Korea, its ally, and these analysts viewed the Syria	一些中国分析人士认为，此次袭击的时机并非巧合。特朗普希望中国作出更多努力，威慑其盟友朝鲜的核武器发展。这些分析人士还认为，叙利亚袭击是在提醒习近平，必要时，美国也可能袭击朝鲜。

attack as a reminder to Mr. Xi that the United States could also attack the North, if necessary.
The missile strike on Syria overshadowed meetings that American and Chinese officials described as big-picture conversations on trade as well as North Korea, which stopped short of producing specific agreements.	对叙利亚的导弹袭击给会谈蒙上了阴影。两国官员都把这个未达成具体协议的会面称之为有关贸易和朝鲜问题的重要会谈。
Both sides agreed that the North Korean threat had reached a “very serious” stage, according to Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson. He said the United States was prepared to take its “own course” if China did not do more to rein in the North.	据美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)称，双方一致认为朝鲜构成的威胁已经到了“非常严重”的阶段。他说，如果中国不采取更多行动控制朝鲜，美国将准备采取“自己的方式”。
But the official Chinese account of the talks in Xinhua did not mention North Korea — a burning issue for Mr. Trump, but less so for Mr. Xi. Analysts said the omission was probably intentional, a response to the attack on Syria.	但新华社有关会谈的官方中文报道并没有提到朝鲜。朝鲜问题对特朗普来说是当务之急，但对习近平来说则没有那么紧迫。分析人士称，不提朝鲜可能是有意为之，是对叙利亚袭击做出的反应。
Xinhua’s commentary on the Syria strike also made no reference to North Korea. But it mentioned American missile attacks on Libya in 1986 and Sudan in 1998, and scolded the United States for not achieving its “political goals” in those instances.	新华社有关叙利亚袭击的那篇评论文章也没提到朝鲜。但它提到了美国在1986年对利比亚发起的导弹袭击和1998年的苏丹导弹袭击，并数落美国在这些例子中并未达到其“政治目的”。
“It has been a typical tactic of the U.S. to send a strong political message by attacking other countries using advanced warplanes and cruise missiles,” the article said.	“利用先进战机和巡航导弹对他国发动袭击，并由此传递强烈政治信息，是美国惯用的手段，”文章说。
The state-run media offered sanitized accounts of the Mar-a-Lago talks, emphasizing the sweeping green lawns on which the leaders walked and the ornate room where the official discussions took place. Those articles omitted the surprise of the Syria attack, in keeping with the goal of presenting an uplifting account of the two leaders meeting as peers.	官方媒体有关马阿拉歌会谈的报道都经过了审查，强调两位领导人走过的连绵起伏的绿草坪和进行正式会谈的豪华房间。这些文章没有提到对叙利亚袭击的震惊，符合以一种令人振奋的叙述呈现两位领导人以势均力敌的身份举行会谈这个目标。

Mr. Tillerson told reporters that when Mr. Trump notified Mr. Xi about the Syria strike toward the end of dinner, Mr. Xi expressed understanding, because it was punishment for a chemical attack that had killed children.	蒂勒森对记者表示，当特朗普在晚餐快结束时通知习近平叙利亚袭击一事时，习近平表示理解，因为袭击是对一场造成儿童死亡的化学武器袭击的惩罚。
The Chinese president very rarely talks to the Chinese or foreign news media, making it almost impossible to determine his opinion about the attack or how he expressed it to Mr. Trump.	身为中国国家主席的习近平很少接受中外新闻媒体的采访，导致几乎不可能确定他在此次袭击的态度，以及他是如何向特朗普表达自己的态度的。
But Chinese analysts, whose advice is sometimes sought by the government on foreign policy questions, were scornful of the strike, which they viewed as a powerful country attacking a nation unable to fight back. And they rejected what they viewed as an unspoken American message equating Syria, which has no nuclear arsenal, with North Korea, which has carried out five nuclear arms tests and hopes to mount a nuclear warhead on an intercontinental missile.	但中国的分析人士——有时候，中国政府会在外交政策问题上征求他们的意见——对此次袭击感到不屑，认为是一个强国袭击一个无力还击的国家。他们还认为这是美国发出的一个没有言明的讯息，把没有核武器的叙利亚，同已进行过五次核试验并希望把核弹头装载在洲际导弹上的朝鲜等同了起来。对此，他们持反对意见。
"I don't deny that the United States is capable of such an attack against North Korea, but you need to see that North Korea is capable of striking back," said Lu Chao, director of the Border Studies Institute at the Liaoning Academy of Social Sciences. "That would create chaos."	"我不否认美国有对朝鲜发起这种攻击的能力，但你也要看到朝鲜它有反击的能力，"辽宁社会科学院边疆史地研究所所长吕超说。"那就只会更混乱。"
If Syria had nuclear weapons, the United States would not dare attack it, said Shen Dingli, a professor of international relations at Fudan University in Shanghai. "Chemical weapons and nuclear weapons are totally different," Mr. Shen said. "A chemical bomb kills dozens of people, and the atomic bomb at Hiroshima killed hundreds of thousands."	上海复旦大学研究国际关系的沈丁立教授表示，如果叙利亚有核武器，美国就不敢袭击它。"化学武器和核武器是完全不一样的，"沈丁立说。"一个化学武器死几十个人，广岛的原子弹就死了十几万人。"
Mr. Shen added that many Chinese were "thrilled" by the attack because	沈丁立接着表示，很多中国人对这次袭击其实"高兴得不得了"，因为它可能

it would probably result in the United States becoming further mired in the Middle East.	会导致美国在中东陷得更深。
"If the United States gets trapped in Syria, how can Trump make America great again? As a result, China will be able to achieve its peaceful rise," Mr. Shen said, using a term Beijing employs to characterize its growing power. "Even though we say we oppose the bombing, deep in our hearts we are happy."	"如果美国再在叙利亚搞下去，特朗普怎么让美国伟大起来啊？结果就是中国实现和平崛起，"沈丁立说。他用了北京描绘自己实力不断增强的一个说法。"虽然我们口头上说反对，但心里很高兴。"
On trade, Mr. Xi and Mr. Trump agreed to a "100-day plan" that Commerce Secretary Wilbur L. Ross said would include "way stations of accomplishment." American business executives took that to mean there had been no deep negotiations on whether China would further open its markets to American companies.	在贸易问题上，习近平和特朗普达成了"百日计划"。美国商务部长威尔伯·L·罗斯(Wilbur L. Ross)称该计划将包括"阶段性成就"。美国企业高管认为，这意味着双方未就中国是否会进一步向美国企业开放其市场展开深入协商。
Business leaders had expected the Chinese to announce investments in the United States that would create jobs, as a way to offset some of Mr. Trump's complaints about the countries' trade imbalance. But Mr. Xi made no such offers, at least publicly. According to an account in Xinhua, the Chinese invited the United States to participate in a program it calls One Belt One Road, an ambitious effort to build infrastructure projects across Asia to Europe, for which China hopes it can attract some American investment.	商业领袖本以为中国会宣布在美国投资，创造就业岗位，以抵消特朗普有关两国贸易不平衡的一些埋怨。但习近平未作出这类提议，至少在公开场合没有。据新华社的一篇报道称，中国邀请美国加入"一带一路"计划。这是一个野心勃勃的行动，涉及从亚洲到欧洲修建基础设施项目。中国希望能吸引到美国的部分投资。
"The Chinese did not want to create the impression that Xi went to the U.S. to make concessions to Trump, that would come across as weakness," said Yun Sun, a senior associate in the East Asia Program at the Stimson Center in Washington.	"中国不想留下习近平去美国向特朗普让步的印象，这会给人软弱的感觉，"华盛顿史汀生中心(Stimson Center)东亚项目高级研究员孙韵(音译)说。
In the preparations for the talks, Chinese officials emphasized that they	筹备会谈期间，中国官员强调他们预计会谈几乎不会取得具体的成果，因为

expected few concrete results because they viewed the Florida encounter as a getting-to-know-you session between two big personalities. In that sense, the Chinese prevailed, Ms. Yun said.	他们认为，佛罗里达州的会面是为了让两个大人物相互了解。孙韵表示，从这个意义上来说，中国赢了。
"It will be Trump who will have difficulty explaining to his voters what he got from the Chinese," she said.	"特朗普将很难向选民解释，他在中国那里得到了什么，"她说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170410/china-xi-jinping-president-trump-xinhua	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170410/china-xi-jinping-president-trump-xinhua
China's Death Penalty Is Still Veiled in Secrecy, Amnesty Says	数据不透明掩盖中国死刑真相
BEIJING — When Jia Jinglong, a villager in northern China, was executed late last year for killing an official he blamed for the demolition of his home, the news media boiled with debate about the death sentence. Mr. Jia's family and lawyers argued that the official had victimized him and that his life should have been spared.	北京——中国北方村民贾敬龙因为杀死了一名他认为对其住宅被拆负有责任的官员，去年年底被处以死刑，当时新闻媒体就这个死刑判决进行了大量辩论。贾敬龙的家人和律师认为，这名官员对他施害在先，他罪不至死。
"The verdict against my brother was unfair," Mr. Jia's sister, Jia Jingyuan, said in an interview this week. "There's a gap between the standards written in the laws and how those standards are enforced."	"对我弟弟判决不公平，"贾敬龙的姐姐贾敬媛在本周接受采访时表示。"法律上写的和执行的标准不一致。"
A report released by Amnesty International on Tuesday suggests that such complaints of injustice are far from isolated but often remain muffled by official secrecy. That secrecy has undermined the Chinese government's vows to limit death sentences, distorting how common executions are in China, the report said.	国际特赦组织(Amnesty International)本周二发表的一份报告表明，对这种不公正的抱怨不是孤立事件，但是由于官方保守机密，往往不为人知。报告说，这种保密做法破坏了中国政府遏制死刑的承诺，扭曲了人们对中国死刑执行普遍程度的认识。
"This deliberate and elaborate secrecy system, which runs counter to China's obligations under international law, conceals the number of people sentenced to death and executed every year, both of which Amnesty International estimates run into the thousands," said the	这份 44 页长的报告指出："这违反了中国的国际法义务，其蓄意、复杂的保密制度掩盖了每年被判处死刑和执行死刑的人数，国际特赦组织估计这两项的人数都数以千计。" report, which is 44 pages long.

The Amnesty report is the latest addition to a debate among experts and advocates about how much to trust China's claims that it has sharply cut the number of prisoners it executes.	对于中国已经大幅减少执行死刑人数的说法,一些专家和活动人士表达过不同意见,国际特赦组织的报告是对这些意见的最新补充。
China's president, Xi Jinping, has harshly stifled political protest and has overseen a widespread crackdown on human rights lawyers. In January, the head of China's courts, Zhou Qiang, railed against any notion that judges should be independent of Communist Party control.	中国主席习近平严厉打压政治抗议活动,并领导了对人权律师的大举打击行动。今年1月,中国最高法院院长周强对法官独立于共产党控制的观念表示了反对。
But Mr. Xi has also promised to give ordinary citizens a fairer and more open legal system, and in recent years courts have exonerated prisoners who had been executed or had been given decades-long prison sentences for crimes that they had not committed.	但习近平也承诺为普通公民提供一个更公平、更开放的法律制度,近年来,法院给一些在冤案中被执行了死刑或被判处数十年监禁的人平了反。
In 2007, China's highest court, the Supreme People's Court, won back the power to review death sentences, in an attempt to make use of the penalty more consistent and to root out egregious injustices. Mr. Xi's government has also promised much greater transparency about judicial decisions and standards.	2007年,中国最高人民法院收回了复核死刑的权力,试图提高死刑判决的一致性,消除惊人的不公正现象。习近平政府也承诺在司法裁决和司法标准中提供更大的透明度。
Some foreign experts say that the number of executions in China appears to have dropped, even though the government does not issue statistics.	一些外国专家表示,虽然中国政府没有提供统计数字,但它执行死刑的数量似乎下降了。
At the height a decade or so ago, China probably executed 10,000 or more prisoners a year, the Amnesty report said, citing a Chinese scholar quoted in a news report last year.	国际特赦组织的报告援引一名中国学者去年在一篇新闻报道中的话说,死刑处决的高峰期在大约十年前,当时中国每年可能处决一万名以上的囚犯。
But the number executed annually is now probably in the "low thousands," said Susan Trevaskes, a professor at Griffith University in	澳大利亚格里菲斯大学(Griffith University)研究中国死刑问题的教授苏珊·特拉夫斯科斯(Susan Trevaskes)表示,现在每年执行死刑的数字大概在

Australia who studies China's use of the death penalty.	“数千人”。
“All major death penalty scholars in China say that death penalty decision-making has improved greatly since 2007,” Professor Trevaskes said by email. “I believe that the government has significantly reduced use of the death penalty since the mid-2000s.”	“中国所有研究死刑的主要学者都说，自 2007 年以来，死刑决策已经获得了大幅改善，”特拉夫斯科斯教授在电邮中说。“我相信自 2000 年代中期以来，中国政府大大减少了死刑执行的数量。”
But China still executes far more prisoners than any other country, and the government's refusal to release full records about death sentences has undercut its claims to have reduced executions, said the report from Amnesty International, which opposes all uses of the death penalty. Amnesty argues that the persistent secrecy easily conceals abuses and that any trend toward fewer executions could be reversed, depending on the political winds.	但反对一切死刑的国际特赦组织在报告中说，中国仍然比其他国家处死的囚犯要多得多，而且政府拒绝公布关于死刑的全部记录，因此削弱了这种说法的可信度。该组织称，继续对数字保密很容易掩盖滥用权力的行为，如果政治风向改变，死刑减少的趋势就可能遭到扭转。
“There are no guarantees that the reforms adopted so far, even if they had led to a decrease in the number of executions, will prove effective in the long term or that they could not be reversed at some point in the future,” the report said.	该报告指出：“迄今为止所采取的改革措施，即便导致了死刑执行的人数可能在减少，但也不能保证它长远的有效性，或者在将来的某些时候不会遭到扭转。”
The report found that an official website for Chinese court decisions, China Judgments Online, published records of only 701 defendants whose death sentences were approved by the Supreme People's Court from the start of 2011 to the end of 2016, although the actual number of executions every year probably “runs into the thousands.”	中国法院判决网站中国裁判文书网上公布了最高人民法院从 2011 年初至 2016 年底核准的死刑判决，但报告发现它只涵盖了 701 名被告，而实际被执行死刑的人数每年可能“达到数千”。
Combing through Chinese news reports online, Amnesty found accounts of 931 people executed between 2014 and 2016, but only 85 of them also turned up in the court judgments database.	国际特赦组织整理了中国的网络新闻报道，发现 2014 年至 2016 年执行死刑的人数为 931 人，但其中只有 85 人可以在中国裁判文书网上找到。
The gaps in the public records indicated that the Chinese government	在香港的国际特赦组织中国研究员倪伟平(William Nee)表示，公开记录存在

was not living up to its promises to be more transparent and consistent in how courts imposed death sentences, said William Nee, a China researcher in Hong Kong for Amnesty International, who helped write the report.	的这种差异表明，中国政府并没有履行提高死刑判决透明度和一致性的承诺。倪伟平协助撰写了这份报告。
"The scale of the incompleteness makes it seem unlikely that it's just an administrative oversight," Mr. Nee said by telephone. "There probably is some sort of systematic concealment going on."	"数据不完整的程度应该不太可能只是行政监督上的疏漏，"倪伟平在电话中说。"可能存在一些系统性的隐瞒。"
The Amnesty report said that public reports of executions appeared to leave out many cases of death sentences for drug offenses and for terrorism-related crimes, especially in Xinjiang, the tense western region where the Uighurs, a largely Muslim minority, have become increasingly estranged from the government.	国际特赦组织报告说，公开的处决报告似乎没有提到很多涉及毒品犯罪和与恐怖主义相关罪行的死刑判决案，特别是在形势紧张的西部地区新疆，那里住着以穆斯林为主的少数民族维吾尔族，他们与政府越来越疏远。
Chinese courts have also announced death sentences against foreigners who have been convicted of smuggling banned drugs into China. Often these defendants are lowly drug couriers, and verdicts against them do not appear in the official court database, said Mr. Nee, the Amnesty researcher.	对于向中国走私违禁毒品被定罪的外国人，中国法院也会做出死刑判决。国际特赦组织研究员倪伟平说，这些被告通常是低等级的毒品配送者，对他们的正式判决也没有出现在中国判决文书网上。
Court verdicts for Mr. Jia, the executed farmer, are among those that do appear in the open court records. One of his lawyers, Gan Yuanchun, said he had noticed a drop in death sentences in recent years and had successfully pleaded for reducing death sentences to prison terms in dozens of cases.	被处死的农民贾敬龙的判决书倒是在公开法庭记录中找到。他的律师之一甘元春说，近几年来，他发现死刑判决的数量下降了，而且还成功地请求将数十起案件的死刑判决改判为监禁。
"There's been an improvement in transparency in enforcement of the death penalty, but total numbers are still not disclosed," Mr. Gan said by telephone.	甘元春在电话中说："死刑适用执行的透明度有所提高，但是总量还是没有公布。"

But Mr. Jia's case showed Chinese courts still lacked accountability, he said. The courts had ignored the evidence that Mr. Jia had been wronged by the official, who did not give him due compensation for his demolished home, Mr. Gan said. (The Supreme People's Court publicly defended its decision to approve the execution.)	他说，贾敬龙的案子表明，中国法院依然缺乏问责。法庭未理会拆除贾敬龙房屋而没有给予适当赔偿的官员本人有错在先，甘元春说道（最高人民法院公开维护其核准这起死刑的做法）。
"Of course, that's not an excuse to kill someone," Mr. Gan said. "But in using the death penalty, you should consider the misdeeds of the victim."	甘元春说：“当然这些不足以成为他杀人的理由。但是在适用死刑时，应该考虑死者的过错。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/china-execution-amnesty-international	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/china-execution-amnesty-international
Meteorite Finder Fights China's (Mostly Terrestrial) Property Law	中国的法律“黑洞”：从天而降的陨石属于谁？
BEIJING — One summer day, a Kazakh herder in northwest China noticed that a giant black boulder had appeared overnight in the grasslands where he raises sheep and cattle. He left it there, and it sat undisturbed for more than two decades.	北京——一个夏日，中国西北地区的一位哈萨克牧民，在自己放养羊牛的草场上，看到一块夜间降临的黑色巨石。他没有动它，20多年来，那块石头一直呆在那里。
But in 2011, local officials declared the rock a meteorite and hauled it away, arguing that natural resources were state property. So the herder and his sons decided to sue.	但2011年，当地官员宣布那块石头是陨石，把它运走了，他们说自然资源是国家财产。牧民和他的儿子决定起诉。
"The meteorite wasn't made on land, or even on the earth," the family's lawyer, Sun Yi, said in a telephone interview from Shanghai. "It's from outer space, so it should belong to the person who first discovered it."	“陨石不是地上长出来的，都不是属于地球上的东西，”该家的代理律师孙毅从上海接受电话采访时说。“是太空产物，所以它应该属于第一个发现它的人。”
The case opened in the Xinjiang autonomous region last month after years of legal wrangling, and a verdict is expected within six months. Legal experts say it highlights how the private land-use rights that China's governing Communist Party introduced in the 1980s — in a	多年的法律纠纷之后，这个案件已于上月在新疆自治区一家法庭开庭审理，预计裁决会在六个月内做出。法律专家说，此案凸显了土地使用权私有化中存在的问题，在中国，土地归国家所有，执政的中国共产党在20世纪80年代引入了土地使用权私有的概念，但什么东西归国家所有的定义过于广

country where all land is owned by the state — are so broadly defined that they often sow confusion.	泛，经常制造混乱。
But the case is also unique, experts say, because it exposes what is essentially a legal black hole: Chinese statutes do not clearly indicate who owns property with intergalactic characteristics.	但专家说，这个案例也是独特的，因为它揭示了法律上存在的一个黑洞：中国法律对具有来自外星特征的财产并没有明确规定归谁所有。
“We’re left with a blank, a vacuum, in Chinese law, with no definition of natural resources and no clear saying as to whether meteorite rights belong to the state,” said Zhang Libin, a lawyer in Beijing who advises the government on legal reform in the energy and minerals sectors.	“我们面对一个空白、一个真空，中国法律没有给自然资源下定义，对陨石是否属于国家没有明确的说法，”北京律师张利宾说，他在能源和矿产行业的法律改革上为政府出谋划策。
The Xinjiang meteorite weighs 17.8 tons and is made of siderite, or iron carbonate, according to a report in the Chinese news media that cited an official research center.	据中国新闻媒体援引一家官方研究中心的话报道，这块新疆陨石重达 17.8 吨，主要成分是菱铁、既碳酸铁。
Mr. Sun said he thought it was worth nearly $320 million based on his understanding of the commercial meteorite market. But Tong Xianping, a meteorite collector in Urumqi, the Xinjiang capital, said by telephone that $24 million was a more realistic value based on what he estimated was the rock’s per-gram value of about $1.45.	孙毅表示，根据他对商业陨石市场的了解，这块陨石的估价接近 3.2 亿美元。但陨石收藏家佟先平（音）从新疆首府乌鲁木齐市通过电话表示，这块陨石更现实的价值为 2400 万美元，这是在他对该陨石每克价格约为 1.45 美元的基础上做的估价。
Eric Twelker, the founder of the Meteorite Market, an online emporium based in the United States, said he doubted that the Xinjiang meteorite was worth millions of dollars because he rarely saw specimens of any size selling for much more than about $30,000.	总部设在美国的在线商场陨石市场(Meteorite Market)创始人埃里克·特韦尔克(Eric Twelker)说，他对新疆那块陨石的价值数以百万美元计持怀疑态度，因为他几乎没见过售价远超 3 万美元的陨石，无论大小。
“Once you get into something like 17.8 tons, your market is infinitesimally small,” Mr. Twelker said in a telephone interview from his home in Port Townsend, Wash.	“一旦遇到的是 17.8 吨的东西，你的市场就非常小，”特韦尔克在位于华盛顿州汤森港的家中接受电话采访时说。
China is not the only country where meteorite claims have led to court	中国不是唯一一个陨石所有权主张引发官司的国家。

battles.
In the United States, an 1892 decision by the Iowa Supreme Court established that a meteorite belonged not to the prospector but to the landowner, according to the 2006 book "The History of Meteoritics and Key Meteorite Collections: Fireballs, Falls and Finds."	据 2006 年出版的《陨石学历史和关键的陨石收藏：火球、坠落与发现》(The History of Meteoritics and Key Meteorite Collections: Fireballs, Falls and Finds)介绍，在美国，艾奥瓦州最高法院在 1892 年做出的一份判决确立了陨石不属于探矿者，而属于土地所有者。
Another landmark court decision awarded a meteorite that was discovered by prospectors in 1976, on federal land in California's Old Woman Mountains, to the government. The so-called Old Woman Meteorite was later sent to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, and Mr. Twelker said the case had established a legal framework of sorts for contemporary prospectors.	另一份具有里程碑意义的法院判决把一名探矿者在加利福尼亚州老姬山的联邦土地上发现的一块陨石判归政府。后来，这块名为老姬陨石的石头送至华盛顿的史密森尼学会(Smithsonian Institution)。特韦尔克说，该案算是给当代探矿者确立了一个法律框架。
"It's the story of treasure hunters and the government everywhere," he said. "If the government can get your treasure, they will."	"在哪里它都是寻宝人和政府的故事，"他说。"政府如果能够拿走你的财宝，他们就会这么做。"
In 1986, the herder in the Xinjiang case, Juman Reamazhaen, was told by local officials that he could keep the meteorite, according to his son, Teliewubieke Juman. But in 2011, a team of government workers went to the family's property in Kuoleteke village to seize it.	据新疆这桩官司中的牧民朱曼·热阿玛扎恩(Juman Reamazhaen)之子泰列乌别凯·朱曼(Teliewubieke Juman)称，1986 年，当地官员对朱曼·热阿玛扎恩表示， he 可以把陨石留着。但 2011 年，一群政府工作人员去他们家位于阔勒特克村的地里没收了石头。
Mr. Reamazhaen and his two sons insisted that the meteorite was theirs, and they took turns protecting it in round-the-clock shifts through the summer and early autumn, Mr. Juman said. But a few months later, when they ended their vigil because of cold weather, the workers swooped in.	朱曼说，热阿玛扎恩和两个儿子坚称石头是他们的，并在整个夏天和初秋 24 小时轮班保护石头。但几个月后，在他们因为天气冷而结束昼夜守护后，工作人员发起了突袭。
The meteorite now sits in a wooden crate outside a government office in the nearby city of Altay. Mr. Sun, the lawyer, said that to his knowledge, the government had not conducted any scientific tests on	那块石头现保存在附近的阿勒泰市某政府机构外面的一个木头箱子里。前述律师孙毅说，据他所知，政府还没对陨石进行任何科学检测。当地官员未回复记者通过传真发送的置评请求。

it. Local officials did not respond to a faxed request for comment.
Legal experts say the herders' case boils down to whether a clause in Chinese law that defines natural resources as state property – in which the word "et cetera" appears at the end of a list of natural resources that includes mountains, grasslands and wetlands – should apply to things from outer space.	法律专家称，这名牧民的案子可归结为中国法律中把自然资源界定为国有财产的条款——在此条款中，包括山岭、草原和湿地在内的自然资源后面加了一个“等”字——是否适用于来自外太空的物品。
"Both sides seem to have an argument which is seemingly right, but there is no clear answer," said Mr. Zhang, the legal adviser in Beijing. "The state says if the law says 'et cetera,' then you can certainly include meteorites. But then it goes to the question of how to define natural resources."	"双方似乎都有道理，但没有明确的答案，"前述法律顾问张利宾说。"政府说如果法律说了'等'，那肯定包括陨石。但又涉及如何界定自然资源的问题。"
Mr. Zhang said similar, although not identical, questions were bound to surface as the Chinese government granted concessions on state land to more coal, geothermal, and oil and gas companies. He said the government could avoid future property disputes by sharpening its minerals and natural-resource statutes.	张利宾说，随着中国政府授予更多煤炭、地热和油气公司国有土地的特许权，一定会出现尽管不是一模一样，但却类似的问题。他说，政府未来可能会通过让有关矿产和自然资源的法律更加严厉来避免出现产权纠纷。
For the moment, though, property disputes between stubborn farmers and powerful officials are common, and they seem likely to continue as China urbanizes at a breathtaking pace.	但目前，执拗的农民和大权在握的官方之间的财产纠纷颇为常见。随着中国以惊人的速度城镇化，它们看上去可能会继续下去。
Susan Finder, a scholar in residence at the Peking University School of Transnational Law in the southern city of Shenzhen, said the overwhelming trend in Chinese property disputes was that courts favored officials over ordinary people.	北京大学设在南方城市深圳的国际法学院驻校学者苏珊·范德(Susan Finder)说，中国财产纠纷中一个普遍的趋势是，法院支持官方而非普通百姓。
"It's all related to this tension between the huge power of the state and the limited scope for an individual to protect his or her property rights,"	"都和国家权力巨大与个体保护自己财产权的范围有限之间的对立关系有关，"她说。

she said.
In the Xinjiang case, Mr. Reamazhaen would consider negotiating for a compensation fee if the Chinese authorities determined that the 17.8-ton meteorite could be useful for scientific research, his lawyer said.	在新疆这起案件中，代理律师称，如果中国当局断定那块 17.8 吨重的陨石可用于科研，热阿玛扎恩会考虑通过谈判争取赔偿金。
His son, however, appeared less willing to compromise.	然而，他的儿子似乎不那么愿意妥协。
"I have visited our local government bureau several times and saw some guards standing around the meteorite," he said by telephone. "Were they protecting it? Hard to say. In any case, we are not happy with the way they've handled this situation, and we will keep suing the government until we get a satisfactory result."	"我去过政府那边好几次，看到有保安站在陨石边上，"他在电话上说："很难说是不是在守着这个陨石。不论怎么样，我们都不太满意政府的做法。我们会继续告政府，直到得到满意结果为止。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/china-meteorite-property-law	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/china-meteorite-property-law
Wife of Detained Activist From Taiwan Is Barred From China	台湾人权人士李明哲之妻台胞证被注销
TAOYUAN, Taiwan — China's Ministry of Public Security has barred the wife of a detained Taiwan-born rights activist from flying to Beijing on Monday, adding to the drama surrounding the man's disappearance after he entered China more than three weeks ago.	台湾桃园——中国公安部周一禁止目前被大陆拘留的、台湾出生的人权活动人士的妻子飞往北京，增添了围绕着这名男子失踪一事的戏剧性气氛，三周多前，该人在大陆入境后失踪。
The wife, Lee Ching-yu, said at a news conference at Taoyuan International Airport, in northern Taiwan, that her mainland travel permit had been canceled by China, making her ineligible to board her Monday afternoon flight to seek answers about the whereabouts and status of her husband, Lee Ming-cheh.	他的妻子李净瑜在台湾北部的桃园国际机场举行的记者会上表示，中国取消了她前往大陆的旅行许可证，让她不符合搭乘航班的条件，无法在周一下午飞往大陆，寻找关于丈夫李明哲下落和状况的答案。
Ms. Lee said she had not received an explanation for the cancellation of her permit, which is required for people from Taiwan to enter the mainland, as Beijing does not recognize passports from the Republic of	李净瑜说，她没有收到台胞证被取消的解释，台湾人入境大陆需要台胞证，因为北京不承认中华民国发的护照，中华民国是台湾的官方名称。中国声称自治、民主的台湾是中国的领土，并威胁要用武力将其收复。

China, the island's official name. China claims self-ruled and democratic Taiwan as its territory and has threatened to annex it by force.
Mr. Lee, 42, has been unreachable since he entered Guangdong Province in southern China from the semiautonomous territory of Macau on March 19. Ten days later, China's Taiwan Affairs Office confirmed that Mr. Lee was being investigated on suspicion of "activities harmful to national security."	自3月19日起,外界一直无法与42岁的李明哲联系,他在那天从半自治的澳门入境进入中国南部省份广东。十天后,中国政府的台湾事务办公室证实,李明哲因涉嫌“危害国家安全活动”正在接受调查。
The denial of any contact with relatives or a lawyer has left Ms. Lee fearing for her husband's well-being. One of the objectives of her trip to Beijing was to deliver medication he takes for high blood pressure.	不让亲属或律师与他接触的做法让李净瑜为丈夫的状态担心。她去北京的目的之一是给他带去他需要的高血压药物。
"I'm extremely worried," she said. "I'm extremely concerned."	“我非常担心,”她说。“我非常担忧。”
Chinese officials have yet to clarify what Mr. Lee had done to warrant his detention over national security concerns. Ms. Lee and others say they believe it is probably connected to his weekly online discussions with Chinese contacts about democracy and transitional justice or his donations of money and books from Taiwan to the relatives of detained Chinese rights lawyers.	中国官员尚未明确表示李明哲干了什么,才使得大陆以涉及国家安全的说法将他拘留。李净瑜及他人认为,这可能与李明哲每周在网上与他认识的大陆人士讨论有关民主和民主过渡后的司法有关,或者与他从台湾向被拘留的中国维权律师的家属捐钱、捐书有关。
On Thursday, Taiwan's deputy justice minister, Chen Ming-tang, told the local news media that Beijing had not responded to multiple requests for information about Mr. Lee's location and condition.	台湾法务部次长陈明堂周四对当地新闻媒体说,北京方面一直没有答复关于李明哲目前所在地点和状况的多次询问。
It appears that China may have contacted Ms. Lee through unofficial channels in an attempt to silence her. Ms. Lee said an unofficial "fixer" presented her with a photocopied letter on Friday that seemed to have been written by her husband. Claiming that he had written the letter against his will, Ms. Lee said she would not accept any letter or	看来中国也许已通过非正式渠道与李净瑜进行了联系,试图让她缄口。李净瑜说,一名非官方“掮客”上周五交给她一封信的复印件,信似乎是她丈夫写的。李净瑜称,丈夫一定是被迫写下这封信的,并表示在见到他本人之前,她不会接受丈夫的任何信件或声明。 statement by her husband until she had seen him.

Ms. Lee said the fixer told her that if she ceased her public campaign to highlight Mr. Lee's plight, he would then be released, but if she persisted, a Guangdong television station would broadcast a confession made by Mr. Lee. Coerced televised confessions have become common under China's president, Xi Jinping.	李净瑜说，该掮客对她说，如果她停止为丈夫呼吁的公开活动的话，他将会被释放，但如果她坚持活动的话，一家广东电视台将播放李明哲供认罪行的视频。在中国国家主席习近平领导下，嫌疑人被迫在电视上认罪已变得很普遍。
"I ask you this," Ms. Lee said at the airport while holding the photocopied letter, "If this isn't a threat, what is?"	李净瑜在机场拿着复印信说，“我问你们，如果这不是威胁的话，又是什么呢？”
Also on Friday, An Fengshan, a spokesman for China's Taiwan Affairs Office, said that the Association for Relations Across the Taiwan Straits, based in Beijing, had delivered a letter written by Mr. Lee to his parents and Ms. Lee through "relevant groups," according to Taiwan's Central News Agency.	中国台湾事务办公室发言人安峰山也在上周五说，北京的海峡两岸关系协会已通过“有关团体”把李明哲写的信转交给了他的父母和妻子，据台湾中央通讯社报道。
Mr. An accused certain rights organizations in Taiwan of "deliberately spreading rumors to cause trouble," CNA reported.	中央通讯社报道说，安峰山指责台湾一些人权机构“蓄意造谣生事”。
Other members of the campaign to free Mr. Lee criticized how China had handled the matter.	从事争取释放李明哲活动的团体的其他成员批评中国处理此事的做法。
Eeling Chiu, secretary of the Taiwan Association for Human Rights, described the cancellation of Ms. Lee's mainland travel permit as "regrettable" and inconsistent with China's claim to be a country governed by the rule of law.	台湾人权促进会秘书长邱伊翎表示，取消李净瑜的大陆旅行许可证“令人遗憾”，并说这与中国声称自己是法治国家不符。
"Where's the rule of law? Where are human rights?" asked Cheng Shioh-jiuan, the director of Taipei Wenshan Community College, where Mr. Lee is a manager. "If Lee Ming-cheh has committed any crime, we're psychologically prepared to hear what it is."	“法治何在？人权何在？”台北文山社区大学校长郑秀娟问道，李明哲是该校的一名经理人。“如果李明哲犯了罪的话，我们有心理准备听听他犯的是什么罪。”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/china-taiwan-activist-lee-ming-cheh	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/china-taiwan-activist-lee-ming-cheh
Suspect a Spy Is Lurking? In Beijing, Speak Up and Collect	北京全民抓间谍，政府悬赏最高 50 万
BEIJING — Psst. Over here. Don't look at me, but if you're in Beijing and happen to know your local Agent 007, you may be able to cash in.	北京——嘿，在这里。不要看我，但如果你在北京，并且正好认识本地的 007 特工，也许你就能够赚一笔。
The Chinese capital's spy hunters are offering people up to a half-million renminbi (more than $72,000) to help identify foreign espionage activities and catch the operatives responsible, Beijing newspapers said on Monday.	北京的报纸周一报道，作为中国的首都，北京抓间谍的人向民众提供最高 50 万人民币（逾 7.2 万美元）的奖励，让大家帮助发现外国间谍活动、抓住从事间谍活动的人。
The Chinese government has long admonished citizens that they have a duty to catch foreign spies and their agents. Under President Xi Jinping, warnings have grown about spooks lurking near military bases or seducing lovelorn officials. There's even a National Security Education Day to drum home the warnings.	中国政府一直告诫民众，他们有责任抓外国间谍和他们的代理人。中国国家主席习近平上台后，有关间谍在军事基地附近潜伏或勾引害了相思病的官员的警告增加。中国甚至还设立了一个国家安全教育日，用来强化这种警告。
But the Beijing Municipal Bureau of State Security has decided that appeals to pure patriotism are not enough. It's offering cash for tips. Rewards for exposing espionage in the lowest category range from $1,450 to $7,240, according to rules that went into effect on Monday. The highest category offers rewards of more than $72,000.	但北京市国家安全局断定，呼吁纯粹的爱国精神还不够。该机构正在用现金鼓励民众提供消息。根据周一生效的规定，举报最低级别的间谍活动可获得 1 万至 5 万元的奖金。最高则可获得 50 万元的奖金。
"For actions that play a particularly large role in preventing or halting espionage activity or breaking espionage cases, and for contributions of especially important leads, the reward will be from 100,000 to 500,000 yuan," say the rules. The yuan is another name for the Chinese currency.	"对防范、制止间谍行为或侦破间谍案件发挥特别重大作用，贡献特别突出的线索，给予 10 万至 50 万元奖金，"规定写道。
For residents who still need convincing, an online cartoon ad is	针对还需要说服的民众，一个卡通宣传片正在宣传这项活动。广告中的主角

promoting the campaign. It features a young boy wearing the red scarf of a Communist Young Pioneer who dishes the dirt on a swarthy, bearded foreigner in a bandit's mask.	是一个小男孩，带着中国少先队的红领巾。他举报了一个皮肤黝黑、胡子拉碴、戴土匪面罩的外国人。
"Steal state secrets with me and make a fortune by selling them abroad!" the swarthy foreigner tells the boy outside a hotel.	"跟我一起偷国家机密吧，卖给外国赚大钱！"这个皮肤黝黑的外国人在一家酒店外面对这个小男孩说。
But the Young Pioneer is too smart for that.	但这名少先队员非常聪明。
"Uncle policeman, he's the one!" he tells an officer who whisks the foreigner away in handcuffs.	"警察叔叔，就是这个人！"他对一名警察说。后者用手铐把那名外国人迅速带走了。
The boy's reward is a lollipop. But the ad tells residents to expect much more if they call in about spies they stumble across.	这个小男孩获得的奖励是一根棒棒糖。但这个宣传片告诉民众，如果打电话举报偶然发现的间谍，他们会有更多回报。
"Think informing on spies is too much effort for too little reward?" the ad says in the kind of shrill voice that might be used to sell kitchen knife sets on late-night television. "Do you still think that good deeds go unrewarded?"	"你还在担心举报间谍费力不讨好吗？"宣传片用一种尖声尖气的声音说道。这种声音也许会被用来在深夜的电视节目中推销厨房刀具。"你还在思考好人是否有好报吗？"
The cash-for-spies campaign is the latest addition to the Chinese government's battery of measures to fight foreign espionage and subversion. In 2014, the government introduced a counterespionage law. Mr. Xi has established a secretive National Security Commission, and Ministry of State Security agents seem more and more numerous and intrusive.	这场用金钱鼓励民众举报间谍的行动，是中国政府为打击外国间谍和颠覆活动而采取的一系列措施中的最新举措。2014年，政府实施了一部反间谍法。习近平成立了神秘的国家安全委员会，国家安全部的特工也似乎越来越多，越来越无孔不入。
As the national capital, awash with political gossip, high-tech companies and foreigners, Beijing is a prime location for "foreign espionage and intelligence agencies and other hostile forces who are engaged in infiltration, subversion, separatism, sabotage and stealing secrets," according to an explanation accompanying the new rules.	据和新规一起出现的一条解释称，作为中国的首都，北京是政治传闻、高科技企业和外国人聚集的中心，是"境外间谍情报机关和其他敌对势力对我国进行渗透、颠覆、分裂、破坏和窃密等活动"的首选地。

Chinese media have reported arrests of foreigners and Chinese nationals accused of spying, especially for Japan, but have given few details. A couple of years ago, Jilin Province in northeast China introduced a hotline for residents to report possible spies (dial 12339). There was a spate of news reports about the hotline, but no spate of reports of captured spies.	中国的媒体报道过被控从事间谍活动的外国人和中国公民被捕的事情，尤其是服务于日本的案例，但都几乎未透露细节。几年前，位于中国东北部的吉林省设立了一条热线（12339），供民众举报可能的间谍。之后，出现了大量有关该热线的新闻报道，但并没有涌现出有关间谍被抓的报道。
The latest campaign in Beijing implicitly acknowledges that all this focus on foreign threats may create dangerous incentives. Those who “use the excuse of informing to deliberately make false accusations or frame others” or abuse the rules in other ways could be prosecuted, the rules say.	北京的最新动作含蓄地承认，关注外国的威胁可能会产生危险的刺激作用。新规称，那些“借举报之名故意实施诬告陷害他人”或以其他方式滥用新规的人，可能会被追究法律责任。
China state security agents usually like to remain in the shadows. But the reward scheme requires the spy hunters to open up a little to the public. Locals can inform on suspected spies by calling a state security phone line (12339, like the Jilin number), writing to the Beijing state security bureau or showing up at its office (No. 9, Qianmen Street East, not far from Tiananmen Square).	中国的国安特工通常喜欢躲在暗处。但这个奖金计划要求抓捕间谍的人向公众开放一点。本地民众可通过拨打国家安全举报电话（和吉林省的12339一样）、给位于北京的国家安全机关写信或直接到国家安全机关（北京市东城区前门东大街9号）举报疑似间谍。
For successful whistle-blowers, the rules carry an important reminder: “Informants can pick up the reward within 90 days of receiving notification.”	对于成功的举报人的奖励，新规中有一条重要的提示：“举报人可在接到通知之日起90日内领取”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/suspect-a-spy-is-lurking-in-beijing-speak-up-and-collect	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170411/suspect-a-spy-is-lurking-in-beijing-speak-up-and-collect
Video of United Airlines Passenger Creates Furor in China, Too	美联航事件引发中国舆论愤怒谴责
BEIJING — A day after the forced removal of a passenger from a United Airlines flight provoked a social media furor in the United States, a	北京——美国联合航空公司将一名乘客强行拖下航班的事情，在发生后的一天里，引发了美国社交媒体上的群情激愤。随后，中国也爆发了类似的抗议，

similar outcry followed in China, after state-run news outlets here described the man as being of Chinese descent.	先是中国的官方新闻媒体把被拖下飞机的男子描述为华裔。
The man's name has not been released, but another passenger on the flight Sunday said he had complained of being singled out because he was Chinese.	虽然该男子的名字尚未公布，但搭乘周日那次航班的另一名乘客说，该男子抱怨说他被选中，是因为他是华人。
By Tuesday afternoon, the hashtag "United forcibly removes passenger from plane" was the most popular topic on Weibo, China's equivalent of Twitter, garnering more than 150 million views and more than 100,000 comments. Many Chinese social media users accused United of racism, while others called for a boycott.	截至周二下午，“美联航强制乘客下机”的话题在相当于中国 Twitter 的微博上已经是最热门的，有逾 1.5 亿次阅读和 10 万条以上评论。许多中国社交媒体用户指责美联航种族歧视，也有些人呼吁抵制美联航。
The outrage was furious and sustained, with internet users calling on United to apologize for its treatment of the man, who was dragged from his seat by security officers after refusing to be bumped from an overbooked flight from Chicago to Louisville, Ky.	这次公愤爆发得猛烈又持续，网民呼吁美联航为其对待该男子的做法道歉，该人乘坐的从芝加哥到肯塔基州路易斯维尔的航班超卖座位，在拒绝让出自己的位置后，被安保人员强行拖下飞机。
The episode was prominently displayed across the Chinese news media on Tuesday. CCTV, the state broadcaster, showed photos of the passenger's bloodied face above the word, "Savage!" People's Daily, the ruling Communist Party's flagship newspaper, scolded United for failing to condemn the man's treatment.	周二，中国各地的新闻媒体对这一事件进行了突出报道。最大的官方电视台网中央电视台播放了该乘客脸上带血的画面，还配有“野蛮！”的字样。执政的共产党的旗舰报《人民日报》批评美联航没有对该人遭受的待遇表示谴责。
United has said that the passenger and three others were selected to be removed from the flight after no one accepted the offer of a voucher to leave voluntarily. The other three passengers left without incident, the airline said. United's chief executive, Oscar Munoz, apologized for "having to re-accommodate these customers," called the episode "upsetting" and said the airline was conducting a review.	美联航表示，在无人愿意接受代金券自愿改签的情况下，该乘客和其他三名乘客被选中让出他们的座位。航空公司说，其他三名乘客离开飞机时没有发生问题。美联航首席执行官奥斯卡·穆尼奥斯(Oscar Munoz)为“不得不改签这些乘客的航班”表示道歉，称其为“令人不快”的事情，并表示航空公司正在对事情进行调查。

The controversy threatened to hurt United's revenue in China, where the airline began flying in 1986 and has steadily built a loyal customer base. As of last May, United had 96 departures a week to cities in mainland China and Hong Kong.	这场争议已对美联航在中国的收入构成威胁，美联航于1986年开通了飞往中国的航班，并在中国稳步建立起一批忠实的客户。截至去年5月，美联航每周有96个航班从中国大陆城市和香港起飞。
Wang Guanxiong, 40, an angel investor in the technology industry in Beijing who travels frequently to Silicon Valley, said he would never fly on United again.	北京的高技术天使投资人、40岁的王冠雄经常飞硅谷，他表示再也不会乘坐美联航。
"Why did they choose an Asian out of so many passengers?" he said in a telephone interview. "Obviously Asians are the minorities."	"他们为什么从那么多乘客中选中了一名亚裔？"王冠雄在接受电话采访时说。"亚裔显然是少数。"
People's Daily said it was "gravely disappointing" that the airline had "mentioned nothing of the violence against the Asian passenger."	《人民日报》说，航空公司事后“未提对该亚裔乘客采取的暴力行为令人非常失望”。
The Chinese news media often highlights episodes of violence and racism directed at people of Chinese descent overseas as evidence of what it considers the hypocrisy of Western democracies on human rights issues.	中国的新闻媒体经常突出报道针对海外华人的暴力和歧视行为，认为那是西方民主国家在人权问题上虚伪的证据。
Some of the online discussions took on political overtones, with commentators saying the incident exposed deeper problems in American society. "Where are the human rights the democratic countries have been advocating?" a Weibo user wrote.	一些在线讨论还带有政治色彩，有评论说，这一事件暴露了美国社会上更深层次的问题。一名微博用户写道：“那些民主国家所倡导的人权何在？”
Others said the episode showed that people of Chinese descent in the United States faced rampant discrimination. "In the United States, Asians are often discriminated against," one Weibo user wrote. "If it were a Muslim or black person, they wouldn't have acted this way."	其他人则表示，事件显示了华人在美国所面临的普遍歧视。“亚裔在美国经常受歧视，”一个微博用户写道。“如果是穆斯林或黑人的话，他们不会这样做。”
Zhang Zishi, a student from the coastal province of Shandong who lives in Britain, started a petition on the website of the White House calling	张子实是来自中国沿海省份山东的学生，现在住在英国，他在白宫的网站上用标签#ChineseLivesMatters（华人的命也是命）发起了一个请愿活动，呼

for a federal investigation into the case, using the hashtag #ChineseLivesMatters. The petition has nearly 25,000 signatures.	吁联邦政府调查美联航。请愿书已有近 2.5 万个签名。
"I've learned from the media that there is a lot of racism in the United States," Mr. Zhang, 18, said in a telephone interview. "I feel that Chinese people are treated unfairly."	"我从媒体上了解到，美国有很多种族主义，"18 岁的张先生在接受电话采访时说。"我觉得华人受到了不公平的待遇。"
Joe Wong, a popular Chinese-American comedian, was among those urging a boycott of United. "Many Chinese who have faced discrimination are unwilling to speak out because of their pride," Mr. Wong wrote on Weibo. "Because of this attitude, neither mainstream Western media nor the public pays much attention to discrimination against Asians."	受欢迎的美籍华裔喜剧演员黄西也是呼吁抵制美联航的人之一。黄西在微博上写道："很多华人感觉自己受歧视但碍于面子不说出来，导致西方主流媒体和公众都不把亚裔歧视当回事儿。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170412/united-airlines-passenger-dragged-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170412/united-airlines-passenger-dragged-china
China's Aged and Sick Flock to a Hamlet Known for Longevity	老病者在广西巴马寻找"青春泉"
BAMA COUNTY, China — His legs numb from a stroke, his head throbbing with pain, Wu Weiying came to the jagged green mountains of southern China in search of a cure.	中国巴马县——武炜英的双腿因为中风而失去了知觉，头一阵阵抽痛。为了治病，他来到了中国南方这片地势起伏的苍翠群山间。
Mr. Wu, 66, had been hearing about Bama County for years — it was the longevity capital of China, the brochures promised, where illnesses vanished and people lived long past 100. Mr. Wu, eager to regain his vitality so he could once again play mah-jongg, set out in September for Bama's turquoise rivers.	来之前，66 岁的他听说巴马县的传闻已有多年。宣传手册断言它是中国的长寿之乡，在这里，疾病消失，人们会活到 100 多岁。渴望恢复活力以便能重新打麻将的武炜英，于去年 9 月出发，前往巴马碧绿的河流。
In Bama, he adopted the local lifestyle, eating mushrooms said to possess divine powers, drinking water from a river that promised a long life and exercising in a cave known for its pristine air. But after seven	在巴马，他采取当地人的生活方式，吃的是据称拥有神力的蘑菇，喝的是从一条据说能让人长寿的河里打来的水，并在一个以空气纯净而出名的山洞里锻炼。但七个月后，他的情况并没有出现好转的迹象。他陷入了沮丧。

months, his condition showed no signs of improvement, and he fell into depression.
"I've lost all hope," he said, his eyes brimming with tears. "It's impossible to cure my disease."	"我没希望了,"他眼里噙满泪水说道。"我的病不可能治好。"
Once a largely undisturbed hamlet hidden in the karst mountains of Guangxi Province, Bama has in recent years become a magnet for China's sick and aged.	巴马曾是一个宁静的小县,隐藏在广西卡斯特地貌的山区。近年来,它吸引了中国的病人和老人。
Visitors come seeking exotic medicines, bottles of "longevity water," visits with centenarians and advice on living healthier lives. Many leave after a few days feeling hopeful and rejuvenated.	访客来这里寻求灵丹妙药、瓶装的"巴马活泉"、拜访百岁老人,以求寻求活得更健康的建议。几天后离开时,很多人满怀希望,觉得自己恢复了活力。
But for people battling grave illnesses over the long term, the experience can be agonizing. Many are drawn by promises of miracles, only to confront setbacks. Others fall victim to scams and doctors with fake credentials.	但对长期和重病作斗争的人来说,这种经历可能会令人非常痛苦。很多人满怀出现奇迹的希望,不料却遭遇挫折。其他一些人成了骗子和资质造假的医生的受害者。
"This is my last hope," said Li Ming, 57, a retired postal worker from Shanghai, who was told by doctors in December that liver cancer would kill her within a year. "If this doesn't cure me, I'll be forced to accept my death sentence."	"这是我最后的希望,"57岁的退休邮政系统员工李明(音)说。她来自上海,12月被医生告知肝癌可能会在一年内要了她的命。"如果这里治不好我,我就要被迫接受死刑判决了。"
As the number of seniors rapidly increases in China, medical and longevity-themed tourism is blossoming. The Chinese government, hoping to tap into the rising popularity of elder care, has encouraged villages across the country to refashion themselves as longevity destinations.	在中国,随着老年人迅速增加,以医疗和长寿为主题的旅游业蓬勃发展。中国政府希望对越来越受欢迎的老年人护理加以开发利用,鼓励全国各地的村庄把自己重新塑造成长寿游的目的地。
In Bama, once an impoverished backwater, the local government has turned centenarians into celebrities, posting their portraits on billboards	在曾经贫穷落后的巴马,当地政府让百岁老人成了名人,把他们的肖像印在广告牌上,把他们的家打造称圣地。开发商迅速从村民手中买地,修建五星

and building their homes into shrines. Developers are rapidly buying up land from villagers to build five-star hotels, resorts and luxury housing with names like "Secret Land," marketing them as retirement investments for health-conscious families.	级酒店、度假村和豪华住宅，还给起上“秘境”这样的名字，作为退休投资推销给重视健康的家庭。
The Chinese news media has heavily promoted the village lore, and scientists are investigating why some residents there live exceptionally long lives. (A 2012 study suggested a genetic variation might partly account for the phenomenon.)	中国的新闻媒体大力宣传这里的传闻，科学家也正在调查这里一些居民的寿命为什么特别长（2012年的一项研究称，这种现象在一定程度上可能是由一种基因变异造成的）。
Each year, more than two million people visit the county, which has a population of 270,000 and a sprightly club of 82 centenarians. These days, tourists arrive by the busload, mainly from northeast China, the southern provinces and Hong Kong. They bring offerings to the centenarians, pestering them for photographs and asking for the secrets to a long life.	人口 27 万的巴马县有 82 位精神矍铄的百岁老人。这里每年要接待 200 多万游客。如今，一车车的游客来到这里，他们主要来自中国东北、南方各省和香港。他们会给百岁老人带来礼物、缠着跟他们合影，并打听长寿的诀窍。
The influx of tourists has created a thriving market for dubious health products. There are endless varieties of "longevity water" — starting at about $600 for a ton — with ads promising an escape from illnesses like diabetes and osteoporosis. Street vendors hawk medicinal sprays said to contain secretions from snakes and scorpions, presenting them as cures for smelly feet, menstrual cramps and arthritis.	游客的涌入为可疑的保健品创造了一个繁荣的市场。有变化无穷的“巴马活泉”——最低价格约为 600 美元（约合 4100 元人民币）一吨——广告承诺能让饮用者摆脱糖尿病和骨质疏松等疾病。街头小贩兜售的医用喷雾据称含有蛇和蝎子的分泌物，能治疗脚臭、痛经和关节炎。
The surge in visitors has at times created tensions with residents, who say they are pleased by the economic benefits but worry that the tranquillity of the area has been ruined.	外来人口的激增有时会造成与当地居民关系的紧张。后者表示对经济效益感到高兴，但担心该地区的宁静遭到破坏。
"It used to be quiet and pristine," said Liu Sujia, a farmer. "Now it's filled with litter and ill people."	“过去这里安静、原始，”农民刘素佳（音）说。“现在到处是垃圾和病人。”

Li Hongkang, a doctor who practices traditional Chinese medicine in Bama, said he had seen a long list of patients in recent years, including an actor who portrayed Mao Zedong on television, Communist Party officials and a billionaire who brought three cars and two nurses for his ailing mother.	巴马的中医李泓慷说,近年来好多人找他看过病,包括一个在电视上演过毛泽东的演员、一些共产党官员和一名亿万富翁,这名富翁为他生病的母亲带了三辆车和两个护士。
He said many visitors were willing to invest small fortunes in health treatments, convinced they could overcome their illnesses in Bama. Most people stay in Bama for a few days, though it is becoming increasingly popular to rent short-term residences.	他说,很多游客愿意在保健治疗上花一小笔钱,相信能在巴马治好自已的病。大部分人只会在巴马待几天,不过租住短期房屋的情况也越来越多了。
"They live a lot better here," Mr. Li said. "Even if they can't be cured, it's much more comfortable."	"他们在这里过得好多了,"李泓慷说。"就算治不好病,也舒服多了。"
Many visitors to Bama say their health has been transformed, noting that the area is virtually free of pollution, unlike many parts of China. They also point to a high concentration of negatively charged oxygen ions in the regional caves, which scientists say help purify the air.	很多来巴马的人说自己的健康状况发生了改变,称该地区几乎没有污染,不像中国很多地方。他们还提到了该地区山洞里的高浓度负氧离子。科学家称负氧离子有助于净化空气。
Every morning, people file into Baimo, or Hundred Devils, Cave, a natural attraction in the county that is said to harbor special healing powers.	每天早上,人们排队进入百魔洞。这是该县的一处自然景观,据称拥有特殊的康复能力。
First come the cancer patients, whose bodies have been ravaged by the disease. Then the young men battling AIDS, the women cursing the heavens for robbing them of their hair and children as young as 13 with coal miners' coughs.	先是癌症病人,他们的身体已遭到疾病的摧残。然后是年轻的男性艾滋病患者、咒骂上天夺去了她们的秀发的女性,以及年纪才13岁的尘肺病儿童。
By midday, they are all there, perched atop the cool rocks of the cave. They read spiritual texts, watch soap operas on their cellphones and ask each other whether they believe in the cave's supposed healing	到正午时分,所有人都还在那里。他们坐在洞内冰凉的石头上,看陶冶性灵的文字、在手机上观看肥皂剧、彼此询问信不信这个洞能看好病。 powers.

Chen Rangzhi, a former manager of a trading company in Changsha, a southern city, described the area as "magical." He learned he had lung cancer in 2013 but had stayed healthy, he said, through tai chi exercises inside the cave and a diet heavy in boiled pigeon and apples.	陈让之曾是南方城市长沙一家贸易公司的经理，他说这个地区很“神奇”。他自称在 2013 年得了肺癌，但通过在洞穴内练习太极拳，大量食用煮鸽子和苹果，他保持了身体健康。
Inside the cave one recent day, Mr. Chen, 62, counseled a group of visitors, advising them to eat dates and drink a glass of hot water every morning. He said that many people wrongly believed that just by visiting Bama they could overcome their illnesses.	近日的一天，在洞穴里，62 岁的陈让之为一群游客提供咨询，建议他们每天早晨吃枣，喝一杯热水。他说很多人以为只要到了巴马就可以治好病，这是错误的。
"This place is for nursing your health," he said. "If the hospital tells you there's no cure, then even if you come here, there's still no cure."	"这地方是养生的，"他说。"如果医院说你这病没法治，即使你来这儿，还是没法治。"
Outside the cave, in an area filled with butterflies and snakewood trees known as the oxygen bar because of the quality of its air, Sun Luyao, 21, watched over her grandmother, 72, who was suffering from lung cancer. Nearby, dozens of seniors threw their arms into the air, soaking in the light.	在洞穴外面，一个满是蝴蝶和蛇纹树、因为空气好而被称为氧吧的地方，21 岁孙璐瑶看着 72 岁患有肺癌的祖母。附近，几十名老年人把手臂伸到空中，晒着太阳。
Ms. Sun, from the northeastern city of Harbin, said she worried the cave had been overrun by tourists and was beginning to lose its healing effects. "If too many people come, the good oxygen will be sucked out," she said.	孙璐瑶来自东北城市哈尔滨，她说担心这个洞穴被游客挤满了，开始失去治疗效果。她说："如果太多人来，那这里的氧气就会被吸光了。"
For those who do not improve, the experience of moving to Bama can be draining and disappointing.	对那些病情没有改善的人来说，搬到巴马的经历很折腾人，也很让人失望。
Mr. Wu, a former supervisor at a plant that produced baijiu, a clear Chinese liquor, had a devastating stroke four years ago. He ambles down the streets of Bama with a wooden cane, feeling dizzy and	武炜英曾经是一家白酒厂的主管，四年前中风。他拄着木拐在巴马的街道上徘徊，时常感到头晕脑胀，听别人说话很吃力。 struggling to understand people.

Every morning, Mr. Wu takes part in what are called life revival exercises. On the banks of the Panyang River, he throws his arms into the air, twists his waist and slaps his thighs, repeating lines of encouragement along the way ("Surprise yourself! Try harder!").	武炜英每天早上都参加所谓的生命复原练习。在盘阳河畔，他举起双臂，扭腰，拍打大腿，反复念叨鼓励自己的句子（“震撼自己！努力尝试！”）。
But Mr. Wu still struggles to walk long distances, cook and hold a conversation. His wife has grown tired of living in an area with so many sick people, she said.	但武炜英仍然走不了远路，做饭和说话都很吃力。他的妻子说，她已经厌倦了生活在有这么多病人的地方。
Mr. Wu said he had given up on Bama and would return to his hometown in the northwestern province of Gansu next month.	武炜英说，他不想再待在巴马了，下个月他们将回到西北甘肃省的家乡。
"As long as I can manage my own life and not bother other people, I'll be fine," he said. "I just want to be healthy."	"只要我生活还能自理，不麻烦别人，就行了，"他说。"我只想健健康康的。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170413/bama-county-china-longevity	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170413/bama-county-china-longevity
China Says Its Trade With North Korea Has Increased	中国对朝贸易增长，一季度进口朝鲜煤炭减半
Amid sharply rising tensions over North Korea's nuclear arms program, China said on Thursday that its trade with the country had expanded, even though it had complied with United Nations sanctions and stopped buying Korean coal, a major source of hard currency for Pyongyang.	在围绕朝鲜核武器计划的紧张局势急剧升级的时候，中国周四表示与朝鲜的贸易有所增长，尽管中国已执行了联合国的制裁措施，停止从朝鲜购买煤炭，煤炭是平壤主要的外汇来源。
China released the first-quarter trade data just days after President Trump urged its leader, Xi Jinping, to clamp down on trade with North Korea. The two leaders met at Mr. Trump's Mar-a-Lago compound in Florida last weekend.	就在特朗普总统敦促中国领导人习近平严格限制中国与朝鲜之间贸易的几天后，中国公布了第一季度的贸易数据。上周末，两国领导人曾在佛罗里达州特朗普的马阿拉歌(Mar-a-Lago)庄园会晤。
With signs indicating that North Korea could be planning a nuclear or missile test as early as Saturday, a United States Navy strike group led by	有迹象表明，朝鲜可能最早会在周六策划进行核试验或导弹试验。为展示武力，由卡尔文森号航空母舰率领的美国海军打击编队正在驶向朝鲜半岛水

the aircraft carrier Carl Vinson is steaming toward the Korean Peninsula in a show of force. But the Trump administration has indicated that economic pressure — particularly imposed by China, with which North Korea conducts almost 90 percent of its trade — is its preferred form of deterrence.	域。但是，特朗普政府已表示，经济压力、特别是由中国施加的经济压力，是美国首选的遏制方式，朝鲜几乎 90% 的贸易是与中国进行的。
On Wednesday, Mr. Trump said in interviews that he had encouraged Mr. Xi to solve the North Korea problem, offering China a better trade deal if he did so.	周三，特朗普在采访中表示，他已劝告习近平要解决朝鲜问题，如果习近平这样做的话，中国会得到更好的贸易协议。
Recent satellite images indicate that North Korea may be preparing for an underground nuclear test, which would be its sixth in a decade. North Korea often conducts such tests on important anniversaries, and Saturday is the 105th anniversary of the birth of the country's founder, Kim Il-sung.	最近的卫星图像显示，朝鲜可能正在准备进行一次地下核试验，这将是十年中的第六次。朝鲜经常在重要的纪念日进行这种试验，周六是朝鲜创始人金日成的 105 岁诞辰。
The trade data released on Thursday showed that China's trade with North Korea grew 37.4 percent in the first quarter of this year from the period in 2016. Chinese exports surged 54.5 percent, and imports increased 18.4 percent, the General Administration of Customs said at a news conference in Beijing.	周四公布的贸易数据显示，中国与朝鲜的贸易今年第一季度与 2016 年同期相比增长 37.4%，海关总署在北京举行的发布会上说，中国对朝鲜的出口激增 54.5%，进口增长 18.4%。
China buys iron ore, zinc and other minerals from North Korea, as well as growing amounts of seafood and garments manufactured in the North's well-equipped textile factories. China reported that its imports of North Korean iron were up 270 percent in January and February compared to the period in 2016.	中国从朝鲜购买铁矿石、锌及其他矿产，也从朝鲜购买越来越多的海鲜和服装，朝鲜有设备精良的纺织工厂。据中国报道，今年 1 月和 2 月中国从朝鲜铁进口的铁矿石总量比 2016 年同期增长 270%。
But imports of coal dropped 51.6 percent in the first three months of 2017 compared to the first quarter of last year, said Huang Songping, a	但海关总署发言人黄颂平说，2017 年头三个月的煤炭进口比去年同期下降 51.6%。煤炭在朝鲜相当有限的出口产品中一直是最大的硬通货来源。

spokesman for the customs agency. Coal has been the biggest hard-currency earner among North Korea's fairly limited menu of exports.
China agreed to stiffer United Nations sanctions last November, after the United States said Beijing's coal purchases were helping to pay for the North's nuclear weapons program. The coal, used in China's steel mills, earns the North about a billion dollars a year, according to economists.	美国曾表示，北京的煤炭进口正在帮助朝鲜的核武器计划，那之后，北京在去年 11 月同意加强实施联合国对朝鲜的制裁。据经济学家统计，用于中国钢铁厂的煤炭每年可让朝鲜赚取约 10 亿美元。
China had not imported any coal from North Korea since Beijing imposed a cutoff on Feb. 19, said Mr. Huang, the spokesman. That ban has been interpreted as punishment for the February killing in Malaysia of Kim Jong-nam, the estranged half brother of North Korea's leader, Kim Jong-un, which Pyongyang has been accused of orchestrating.	发言人黄颂平说，自从北京 2 月 19 日暂停进口朝鲜煤炭之后，中国再也没有从朝鲜进口任何煤炭。该禁令被解释为是对平壤的惩罚，今年 2 月，与朝鲜领导人金正恩关系疏远的同父异母哥哥金正男在马来西亚遇害，平壤被指责策划了暗杀行动。
There have been other indications that China was following through on its promise to stop buying the North's coal. Shipping data from this month showed a dozen cargo ships returning to North Korea fully laden, after China ordered its trading companies to return coal, Reuters recently reported. Mr. Trump referred to that as an encouraging sign in one of his interviews on Wednesday, a detail that appeared to show that he was paying attention to China's actions against North Korea.	也有其他迹象表明，中国遵守了其停止购买朝鲜煤炭的承诺。据路透社最近报道，在中国下令交易公司退回购买的煤炭之后，本月的运输数据显示，十几艘返回朝鲜的货船全都装满了货物。特朗普在周三接受的几次采访中有一次提到这个数据，称其为令人鼓舞的迹象。从这个细节来看，他正在关注中国对朝鲜采取的行动。
After the United Nations sanctions were announced, some economists said it was still possible for Chinese businesses to import coal on an off-the-books basis, using transactions that would not be recorded by customs officials.	在联合国的制裁宣布之后，一些经济学家曾表示，中国企业仍可能在不入账的基础上、也就是通过不被海关官员记录的交易进口煤炭。
But since mid-February, Chinese coal traders have said that their	但自 2 月中旬以来，中国的煤炭进口商表示，他们的业务基本上已不复存在。

business has virtually vanished.
On Wednesday, Global Times, a prominent state-run Chinese newspaper, said that if the North tested another nuclear bomb or a missile, restrictions on oil might be the next step. North Korea is almost entirely reliant on China for crude oil.	周三，中国一家有名的官方报纸《环球时报》表示，如果朝鲜再次进行核弹或导弹试验的话，下一步可能会是限制石油。朝鲜的石油几乎完全依赖中国。
"If the North makes another provocative move this month, the Chinese society will be willing to see the United Nations Security Council adopt severe restrictive measures that have never been seen before, such as restricting oil exports to the North," the paper said in an editorial.	《环球时报》在一篇社评中写道：“如果朝鲜在本月再破底线，中国社会将会愿意看到安理会做出包括严格限制对朝鲜出口石油的空前严厉反应。”
How much harder China would bear down on North Korea by its own volition remained an open question.	中国会在多大程度上主动对朝鲜施加更大的压力仍是一个未决的问题。
"It's hard to ban normal trade that is not prohibited by U.N. resolutions," said Yang Xiyu, a former Chinese diplomat who led China's delegation to the so-called six-party talks on the North's nuclear arms development in the mid-2000s.	曾在本世纪头 10 年中期带队参加就朝鲜核军备问题进行的所谓六方会谈的前中国外交官杨希雨说，“很难禁止未被联合国决议禁止的正常贸易。”
The Chinese Foreign Ministry cautioned on Thursday that Washington should not expect China to squeeze its neighbor, and ally, to the point that sanctions would provoke instability, and possibly the collapse of the North's government. Nor would China be enthusiastic about more sanctions being placed by others on North Korea, the ministry said.	中国外交部周四警告说，华盛顿不应指望中国会对其邻国、也是盟国的朝鲜过度施压，以至于让制裁引起不稳定，甚至导致朝鲜政府垮台。外交部表示，中国也不会热衷于其他国家对朝鲜采取更多的制裁。
Asked about the impact of secondary sanctions that could be applied by the United States on Chinese firms that do business with North Korea, the ministry's spokesman said Beijing was opposed to such actions.	当被问及美国可能会对与朝鲜有业务往来的中国企业进行次级制裁的影响时，外交部发言人表示，北京反对这种做法。
"China has always opposed the frequent use of unilateral sanctions in	"中方一向原则上不赞成在国际事务中动辄使用单边制裁的做法。我们尤其

international affairs, and we especially oppose those sanctions that undermine China's interests," the spokesman, Lu Kang, said at a briefing. "China always decides its own stance and policy based on the merit of the matter itself."	反对这些单边制裁损害中方的利益，“发言人陆慷在例行记者会上说。“中方一向根据事情本身的是非曲直决定中方自己的立场和政策。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170414/china-north-korea-trade-coal-nuclear	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170414/china-north-korea-trade-coal-nuclear
Greater Corruption in China? A Billionaire Says He Has Evidence	“大老虎”不止周永康？郭文贵爆料直指贺国强
It happens in Russia — occasionally. An oligarch, made fabulously wealthy through the privatization of state assets, breaks ranks, becoming a critic of President Vladimir V. Putin.	这种事情偶尔在俄罗斯发生。一个通过将国有资产私有化发家的寡头富豪脱离原来的阵营，成为普京总统的批评者。
China was different. Its growing ranks of billionaires often owe their fortunes to the good graces of the Communist Party and its leading families. But the firsthand knowledge that the country's tycoons might have of the complex shareholding ties that serve to enrich the political elite had stayed secret.	中国以前没有过这种事情。中国加入亿万富豪行列的人越来越多，他们能发财通常是因为他们得到了共产党及其领导人家族的欢心。但是，中国大亨们对让政治精英富有的复杂股份关系可能掌握的第一手知识也一直保密。
That changed this year. In two rambling interviews with a New York-based media company lasting more than four hours, Guo Wengui, a real estate magnate, described what he said was a ferocious struggle that culminated two years ago in the collapse of a business deal pitting him against relatives of a retired top Communist Party official, He Guoqiang.	今年出现了变化。一家总部设在纽约的媒体公司对房地产巨头郭文贵进行了两次采访，在为时四个多小时的冗长漫谈中，郭文贵描述了他称之为是一场凶残的斗争，斗争以两年前的一笔商业交易崩溃而告终，也让他与现已退休的共产党高官贺国强的亲戚成了死敌。
Since then, Mr. Guo has lived abroad, and is a member of President Trump's Mar-a-Lago resort in Florida.	那以后，郭文贵一直住在国外，他还是特朗普总统位于佛罗里达州的马阿拉歌(Mar-a-Lago)度假村的会员。
In going public with his charges, Mr. Guo demonstrated just how dangerous a loose-lipped billionaire can be to China's Communist	通过将指控公开化，郭文贵展示了一位不守口如瓶的亿万富翁给中国共产党带来的危险有多大。中共仍在努力塑造党为国家无私奉献的形象，官方新闻

Party. The party still strives to cultivate an image of selfless service to the nation, with state-run news media repeatedly emphasizing that no official is immune to President Xi Jinping's anti-corruption drive, now in its fifth year.	媒体一再强调，没有官员能够逃脱习近平主席的反腐败运动，目前这个运动已经进入了第五年。
If Mr. Guo is to be believed, Mr. Xi, when he assumed leadership of the Communist Party in November 2012, may have faced a far more serious corruption problem than has been publicly disclosed, touching not only the departing chief of the country's security forces but perhaps also the top official in charge of rooting out graft in the party's own ranks, Mr. He. Both were members of the Politburo Standing Committee, the elite body that wields supreme power in China.	如果郭文贵的话可信，习近平在2012年11月担任共产党领导人的时候，他所面临的腐败问题也许比已公开披露的要严重得多，腐败不仅涉及了国家安全部门当时即将离任的负责人，而且可能也触及到负责铲除党内受贿问题的最高官员贺国强。这两人都曾是政治局常委会成员，政治局常务委员会是在中国行使最高权力的精英班子。
"If you are Xi Jinping and you are deciding to go after corruption, can you take them on all at once?" asked Andrew Wedeman, a professor of political science at Georgia State University who studies corruption in Chinese politics.	"如果你是习近平，而且你决定要清除腐败，你能一下子把他们两个人都拿下吗？"美国佐治亚州立大学(Georgia State University)专门研究中国政治腐败问题的政治学教授安德鲁·威德曼(Andrew Wedeman)问道。
The former head of the security forces, Zhou Yongkang, was prosecuted on graft charges and is now serving a life sentence in prison. But there is no report that Mr. He or members of his family have been prosecuted. To Mr. Guo, that demonstrates the weakness of the corruption crackdown: Among the elite, the campaign touches only those who are already on the losing side of factional power struggles.	前国内安全事务负责人周永康已被以腐败罪起诉，目前正在监狱中服无期徒刑。但没有关于贺国强或其家人被起诉的报道。在郭文贵眼里，这显示了打击腐败的不足之处：在精英层中，反腐运动只涉及那些在派系权力较量中已处于不利地位的人。
Mr. Guo explained in a March 8 videotaped interview with Mirror Media Group, a Chinese-language news company based on Long Island, how Mr. He's son He Jintao was the "boss" of the second-largest shareholder in Founder Securities, a company in which Mr. Guo was seeking to	郭文贵在总部设在纽约长岛的中文媒体明镜新闻出版集团于3月8日录制的采访中，贺国强的儿子贺锦涛是方正证券第二大股东的“上司”，郭文贵当时正要购入方正证券的大量股份。郭文贵说，贺锦涛通过代理人隐瞒了自己的角色。

acquire a large stake. He Jintao concealed his role through a proxy, according to Mr. Guo.
That deal soured when Mr. Guo tried, without success, to name directors to Founder Securities' board and became locked in a dispute with his former business partner, Li You, who was the chief executive of the brokerage's state-owned parent, according to a report by Caixin, a Chinese news company.	据中国新闻媒体财新的一篇报道，郭文贵曾试图提名方正证券董事会人选，但未成功，那之后，股票的买卖没做成，郭文贵还与自己以前的业务合伙人李友陷入一场纠纷，李友曾是方正证券的国有母公司的首席执行官。
Mr. Guo, using turns of phrase that wouldn't be out of place in "The Godfather" or "The Sopranos," said He Jintao was working against him.	郭文贵在采访中用的一些表达方式在影片《教父》(The Godfather)或电视剧《黑道家族》(The Sopranos)中都不会显得出格，他说，贺锦涛要整死自己。
"To be honest, if I could publish evidence about you, He Jintao, I promise that in 24 hours, 10 million people will take to the streets and will eat you alive," Mr. Guo told Mirror Media.	"说实话，我要能公布了你贺锦涛先生的这个证据，我保证在 24 小时内，有 1000 万人会上街，会把你给活吃喽，"郭文贵对明镜说。
Mr. Guo, who also goes by the name Miles Kwok, did not offer any proof of wrongdoing by the He family. But for all his bluster, there is some documentation to support his assertion that the family had a financial stake in Founder Securities.	郭文贵也有一个英文名叫迈尔斯·郭(Miles Kwok)，他在采访中没有提供任何有关贺家人不法行为的证据。但是，尽管他只讲了些吓人的话，还是有一些文件支持他宣称的贺家人持有方正证券金融股权的说法。
In 2015, New York Times reporters working in Beijing, Hong Kong and the southwestern Chinese city of Chengdu mapped out the financial network of He Guoqiang's family, examining shareholding records and verifying relationships by interviewing a member of the family. Those documents and interviews show that the family did appear to control, indirectly through a series of shell companies, a stake in Founder Securities, which has a joint venture in China with Credit Suisse, the Swiss bank.	2015 年，在北京、香港和中国西南城市成都工作的《纽约时报》记者，通过查阅股权记录，并通过采访一名贺氏家族成员核实关系之后，绘制出了贺国强家族的金融网络。这些文件和采访显示，贺氏家族的确看来通过一系列空壳公司间接地控制过方正证券的股份，方正证券与瑞士银行瑞士信贷(Credit Suisse)在中国有一家合资企业。

Founder Securities is one of China's biggest brokerages, with a market capitalization of more than $10 billion. Unusual for a securities company, it is based in the south-central province of Hunan, He Guoqiang's native province. Its second-biggest shareholder at the time of its 2011 initial public offering was a company called Lide Technology Development.	方正证券是中国最大的券商之一，市值超过 100 亿美元。对证券公司来说不寻常的是，方正证券的总部设在中国中南部省份湖南，贺国强的老家就在湖南。方正证券 2011 年首次公开发行股票时，其第二大股东是一家名为利德科技的公司。
Until at least mid-2014, Chinese company records show, Lide was controlled by companies tied to the He family. A member of the family identified one of the ultimate shareholders, Zhang Xiuqin, as He Jintao's maternal aunt. Lide owns stakes in property, medical and financial companies across China worth more than $600 million, corporate records show.	至少截至 2014 年中期，中国的公司记录显示，利德科技都处在与贺氏家族有关系的公司控制之下。经贺家一名成员确认，利德科技最终的股东之一是张秀琴（音），她是贺锦涛的姨母。公司记录显示，利德科技拥有中国各地的房地产、医药和金融公司的股份，这些股份的总值超过 6 亿美元。
Credit Suisse Founder, the joint venture, was begun in 2008, the first full year that He Guoqiang was on the Politburo Standing Committee, and it allowed the Swiss bank entry, through the venture, to China's domestic investment banking market. Founder Securities retained majority control, with a two-thirds stake.	合资公司瑞信方正成立于 2008 年，那一整年是贺国强担任政治局常委后的第一年，合资公司的成立让这家瑞士银行得以进入中国国内的投资银行市场。方正证券在合资公司中保持多数控股权，持有三分之二的股份。
According to Bloomberg data, the venture underwrote one of its first initial public offerings in August 2010 – of a company called Hangzhou Shunwang Technology. One of this company's directors was Liao Ying, whose name and biography on the company's prospectus match those of He Jintao's wife.	据彭博(Bloomberg)资料显示，该合资公司在 2010 年 8 月为一些公司的首次公开募股担任了主承销商，其中一家公司叫杭州顺网科技。这家公司曾有一位名叫廖颖的董事，她在公司招股说明书上的名字和简历与贺锦涛妻子的相符。
Moreover, at the time of the I.P.O., Hangzhou Shunwang's third-biggest shareholder, owning almost 10 percent, was a company controlled by the He family and ultimately owned by two of its business associates,	此外，查阅中国的公司记录显示，杭州顺网首次公开招股时，拥有公司近 10% 股份的第三大股东是一家由贺氏家族控股的公司，该公司的最终拥有者是贺家的两名商业伙伴。瑞信方正也是方正证券自己在 2011 年进行首次公

according to a review of Chinese corporate records. Credit Suisse Founder was also an adviser for Founder Securities' own I.P.O. in 2011.	开招股时的顾问。
A spokeswoman for Credit Suisse in Hong Kong had no comment. Founder Securities and Hangzhou Shunwang did not respond to questions submitted via fax and email. He Jintao did not respond to a request for an interview made through his Beijing-based company, Womei Investment.	瑞士信贷（香港）的发言人没有发表评论。方正证券和杭州顺网也没有回复通过传真和电子邮件提交的问题。贺锦涛没有回复通过他设在北京的公司沃美投资发去的采访请求。
With a flourish of bluster and in the third person, Mr. Guo expressed just how heated the conflict was with the younger Mr. He, telling him, via a video interview viewed by hundreds of thousands of people, that more disclosures could come should their business interests clash again.	郭文贵用令人难忘的咄咄逼人语言和第三人称表达了自己与贺锦涛的冲突有多么激烈，在有数十万观众的视频采访中，郭文贵对贺锦涛说，如果两人的商业利益再次发生冲突的话，他会披露更多的东西。
"Guo Wengui is from the grass roots, born as a farmer and not afraid of death," Mr. Guo said. "If you do it again, then I would have no choice and will fire a cannon to you. I don't want to war against you, but He Jintao, you had better watch carefully what you say and what you do, including with your wealth — you'll be responsible for it."	"郭文贵是草根出身，农民出身，不怕死，"郭文贵说。"如果你再来做，那我没有办法，我只能给你开炮。我不想和你战争，但是贺锦涛先生，你对你的言行、对你的所做所为，包括你的钱财，都要看好了，你要负责任。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170417/china-billionaire-guo-wengui-xi-mar-a-lago	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170417/china-billionaire-guo-wengui-xi-mar-a-lago
Excerpts From a Chinese Historian's Speech on North Korea	沈志华：朝鲜半岛上谁是朋友谁是敌人
BEIJING — Shen Zhihua, a Chinese historian known for his groundbreaking research on the Korean War, has urged Beijing to rethink its longstanding support for North Korea. Mr. Shen made his case in a speech last month that has ignited widespread discussion in China, reflecting growing debate about how tough the government should be on North Korea. Here are some excerpts:	北京——沈志华，一位因对朝鲜战争的开创性研究而闻名的中国历史学家，敦促北京重新考虑其长期以来对朝鲜的支持。上个月，沈志华在一次演讲中阐明了他的理由，这在中国引起了广泛讨论，反映出关于政府应该对朝鲜有多强硬这一问题上日益激烈的争论。下文为演讲内容摘录：

“Chairman Mao said long ago that who is our friend and who is our enemy is the question of first importance in a revolution. Getting to grips with that is also of the first importance in the foreign policy situation of northeast Asia. Just who is our friend, and who is our enemy? If you can't distinguish between friend and foe, how can you fight and whom do you fight? Of course, friends can also have conflicts, and sometimes there's also compromise and cooperation with enemies.	“毛主席早就说过，谁是我们的朋友，谁是我们的敌人，这个问题是革命的首要问题。在东北亚的外交格局中，这也是首先要搞清楚。究竟谁是朋友，谁是敌人？敌我都分不清楚，怎么斗争，跟谁斗争？当然，朋友之间也会有矛盾，与敌人有时也会妥协、合作。”
“If we look at North Korea and South Korea, who is a friend of China and who is an enemy? Outwardly, China and North Korea are allies, while the United States and Japan support South Korea against North Korea. That's a legacy of the Cold War. But I believe that after decades of contention and shifts in the international landscape, there's long been a fundamental transformation. My basic conclusion is judging by the current situation, North Korea is China's latent enemy and South Korea could be China's friend.	“我们现在就来看一看，朝鲜和韩国，谁是中国的朋友，谁是中国的敌人。表面上看，中朝是同盟关系，美日支持韩国对抗朝鲜，这是冷战的遗产。但是，我认为，经过这几十年的争斗和国际环境的变化，情况早已发生了根本的改变。我有一个基本的判断：就目前的格局来看，朝鲜是中国潜在的敌人，韩国是中国可能的朋友。”
“To call North Korea a latent enemy of China means that, for now, this still hasn't come to the fore. Diplomatically, when leaders of the two countries talk to each other, they don't use particularly hostile rhetoric. But that doesn't count. Don't look at the rhetoric. Look at fundamental interests! Look at whether the fundamental interests of China and North Korea are aligned and consistent. Speaking in light of my own research into the history of the Chinese-North Korean relationship, China and North Korea really were friends and allies in the past. That was when the relationship was a special friendship created by Mao	“说朝鲜是中国潜在的敌人，意思就是现在它没有显露出来，在外交上，在两国领导人谈话中，都没有什么特别敌对的言辞。但这是不算数的，你不能看言辞，要看根本利益！就是看中国的根本利益和朝鲜的根本利益是不是一致的，有没有一致性。这就要从我研究的中朝关系的历史说起了。中朝过去的确是朋友，是盟友，那时的中朝关系，是毛泽东和金日成等中朝两国老一代领导人缔造的一种特殊的友好关系。”

Zedong, Kim Il-sung and other senior Chinese and North Korean leaders.
"When China and South Korea established diplomatic relations in 1992, that totally destroyed the political basis of the Chinese-North Korean relationship. ... By 1992, at the end of the Cold War, the Chinese-North Korean relationship and alliance created by the previous generation no longer existed. Practically speaking, everything had changed in the relationship. In foreign policy, economics, politics, everything, the interests of China and North Korea had diverged, and the basis for an alliance had disintegrated. The treaty of alliance between China and North Korea became a piece of scrap paper. At that time the Chinese-North Korean relationship became an ordinary, normal relationship between states. But this normal relationship quickly and quietly turned toward hostility, and that was because North Korea launched its nuclear strategy.	"1992年中韩建交，彻底摧毁了中朝关系的政治基础.....到了1992年，冷战结束的时候，老一辈缔造的中朝关系，中朝同盟，已经不存在了。在实际关系中，一切都发生了变化。外交、经济、政治，无论哪个方面，中朝之间的利益已经背离，同盟的基础已经瓦解。中朝同盟条约就是废纸一张了。这时的中朝关系，就是一般的、正常的国家关系了。然而，这个正常的国家关系很快就悄悄地发生了变化，走向了敌对。这就是因为朝鲜开始了他的核战略。"
"The root cause of the ever-worsening crisis on the Korean Peninsula is that North Korea has gone nuclear and is constantly holding nuclear tests, and that's also the fundamental cause of instability on China's periphery. But North Korea has been doing this for the sake of its fundamental interests. So, putting it objectively, the fundamental interests of China and North Korea are at odds. China's fundamental interest lies in achieving stability on its borders and developing outward. But since North Korea acquired nuclear weapons, that periphery has never been stable, so inevitably Chinese and North Korean interests are at odds. The spokespeople for our Foreign Ministry	"现在朝鲜拥核，不断搞核试验，就是朝鲜半岛危机不断升级的根源，也是在中国周边制造不安定状态的根本原因。但这是朝鲜的根本利益要求的。这样，在客观上，中朝的根本利益就发生了对立。中国的根本利益是要求周边稳定，对外发展，但自从朝鲜有了核武器，周围就没安稳过，所以中朝利益必然是对立的。我国外交部发言人认为，朝核危机是美朝对立引起的，作为外交辞令，这样说未尝不可，但是作为学者，我们要清楚，朝鲜改行拥核政策，是中朝关系变化引起的。"

claim that the North Korean nuclear crisis was triggered by antagonism between the United States and North Korea, and that's entirely understandable as diplomatic language. But, as scholars, we must see clearly that North Korea's shift to a policy of holding nuclear weapons was triggered by the shifts in its relationship with China.
"We must see clearly that China and North Korea are no longer brothers in arms, and in the short term there's no possibility of an improvement in Chinese-North Korean relations. The situation now is that each time North Korea stages a nuclear test, the United States increases its military forces in northeast Asia, sending in drones or an aircraft carrier or holding military exercises. And then the military pressure from the U.S. leads North Korea to stage another nuclear test. You stage a test, he adds troops and it keeps escalating. The outcome? The real pressure is felt by China and South Korea, and the ones who ultimately bear the brunt are China and South Korea. ... So the upshot of North Korea stirring up trouble is more pressure and threats on China. Stepping back, if a Korean nuclear bomb explodes, who'll be the victim of the nuclear leakage and fallout? That would be China and South Korea. Japan is separated by a sea, and the United States is separated by the Pacific Ocean.	"我们要看清楚，中国与朝鲜已经不是战友了，在短期内，中朝关系不可能改善。现实的情况是，朝鲜搞一次核实验，美国对东北亚地区的军事力量就增加一分，一会儿弄无人飞机过来，一会儿弄个航母过来，要不就搞个军演。而美国的军事压力，又导致朝鲜再一次核试验。你试验一次，他增兵一次，循环上升。结果呢？真正受到压力的是中国和韩国，最后倒霉的也是中国和韩国.....所以朝鲜闹事的结果是给中国增加压力与威胁。退一步讲，就是朝鲜的原子弹自爆了，造成核泄漏、核污染，受害的是谁呀？还是中国和韩国，日本隔着一道海，美国还隔着一个太平洋呢！"
"You shouldn't do what your enemies want you to do, so I've been really disgusted by how China has handled Thaad [the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense antiballistic missile system being deployed in South Korea]. I have no idea whose idea that was, but what you've done is stir up such a ruckus that South Korean shops have had to close, and	"你不能做敌人想让我们做的事，所以我对现在中国处理萨德（部署在韩国的末端高空防御系统）的做法非常反感，我不知道是谁出的主意，你看干的事，把人家韩国店全给闹得关门了，然后又去砸这个，又去砸那个.....说高了，你是完全没有外交头脑，你干的这个事就是敌人想让我们干的事，你现在把韩国向美日韩铁三角推了。说低了，你还是不是一个文明大国，你还是

you've smashed up here, smashed up there. ... Putting it one way, you've got no foreign policy smarts. You've done exactly what your enemies would like you to do, and you've pushed South Korea into an iron triangle with the United States and Japan. Putting it another way, are you a civilized great power or not? Aren't you a civilized ancient country, so why stoop to this? How do you want neighboring countries to view China? You just know how to pick on a company to blow off steam. You're not using your brain. Isn't there a mite of intelligence? By doing this we've alienated public opinion in South Korea, and in dealing with a democracy, the most important thing is to win over public sentiment and opinion. ... What we've been doing is just what the Americans and North Koreans want most of all. The North Koreans are also overjoyed, because the result of all this uproar over Thaad is that Chinese-South Korean relations have ruptured."	不是一个文明古国，咱们至于这样吗？你让周围邻国怎么看中国？你就知道拿一个公司撒气，你不动动脑子，有点智慧没有啊？我们这样做，伤的是韩国的民心，而对待一个民主国家，争取民心 and 民意是最重要的.....我们现在做的事，是美国人和朝鲜人最想看到的。朝鲜人也非常高兴，就是现在这个萨德闹到这个结果，中韩关系的破裂。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170419/north-korea-south-china-shen-zhijia	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170419/north-korea-south-china-shen-zhijia
China Seeks Arrest of Billionaire Who Accused Officials' Relatives of Graft	中国要求国际刑警组织全球通缉郭文贵
A Chinese-born billionaire who in recent months has publicized allegations of corruption against relatives of high-ranking Communist Party officials is now a wanted man after Beijing asked Interpol to issue a global request for his arrest.	一名出生于中国的亿万富翁最近一直公开指控共产党高官的亲属涉嫌腐败。在北京方面要求国际刑警组织(Interpol)对他发出全球通缉令之后，他目前成了一名通缉犯。
China's Foreign Ministry said on Wednesday that the country had asked Interpol, the global police organization, to arrest the billionaire, Guo Wengui, hours before he appeared on television to deliver what he said	中国外交部周三表示，中国已要求国际刑警组织逮捕这名叫做郭文贵的亿万富翁。中国提出该要求数小时后，郭文贵出现在电视上，对共产党高官的亲属提出腐败指控。他曾表示这些指控会是“核爆级别”的爆料。

would be a “nuclear bomb” of corruption allegations against the families of top Communist Party officials.
Mr. Guo, 50, has lived abroad for the past two years after a business deal to acquire a brokerage went sour. In March, he accused the son of a former top Communist Party official of corruption. On April 15, The New York Times, citing corporate records and an interview with one of the official’s relatives, reported that some of his allegations could be substantiated.	在一桩收购一家证券经纪商的交易告吹后，过去两年间，现年 50 岁的郭文贵一直居住在海外。今年 3 月，他指控一名前共产党高官的儿子涉嫌腐败。4 月 15 日，《纽约时报》(New York Times)援引公司记录以及对该官员一名亲属的采访内容报道称，他的一些指控或许可以得到证实。
China asked Interpol to issue a so-called red notice to its member countries for Mr. Guo’s arrest, Lu Kang, a Foreign Ministry spokesman, told reporters on Wednesday in Beijing. Mr. Lu said that the notice had been issued, but that Mr. Guo’s name does not appear on Interpol’s wanted list. Interpol, in a statement, said that any of its 190 member countries could request that wanted notices not be publicized.	周三，中国外交部发言人陆慷在北京告诉记者，中国已要求国际刑警组织向其成员国发出对郭文贵的所谓红色通报。陆慷说红色通报已被发出，但郭文贵并未出现在国际刑警组织的通缉名单上。国际刑警组织在一份声明中表示，它的 190 个成员国中的任何一个，都可以提出不把红色通报公开的要求。
Mr. Guo is accused of giving 60 million renminbi, or about $8.7 million, in bribes to a former top intelligence official, Ma Jian, The South China Morning Post reported on Wednesday, citing people briefed on the matter whom the newspaper did not identify. Mr. Ma has been referred to in Chinese news outlets as Mr. Guo’s political patron.	《南华早报》援引匿名知情者的话称，郭文贵被控向前高级情报官员马建行贿 6000 万人民币（约合 870 万美元）。中国的新闻媒体把马建称为郭文贵的政治保护伞。
Countries do not have to honor red notices, and as of Wednesday, Mr. Guo was not in custody. Instead, he was at his penthouse apartment on Fifth Avenue in Manhattan, which he bought in 2015, through a shell company, for $67.5 million. Two reporters from Voice of America’s Chinese-language service conducted a live television interview with him in the apartment.	各国不是必须按照红色通报的要求行事，而且截至周三，郭文贵尚未被关押。相反，他还待在位于曼哈顿第五大道的一套顶层公寓里。那是他在 2015 年通过一个空壳公司以 6750 万美元的价格买下的。来自美国之音(Voice of America)中文部的两名记者在公寓里对他进行了一场电视直播采访。

In the interview, Mr. Guo called the report that he bribed Mr. Ma “false,” and he said he was not a Chinese citizen. He said he held passports from 11 other countries. Mr. Guo is a member of President Trump’s Mar-a-Lago resort.	郭文贵接受采访时说，关于他向马建行贿的报道是“错误”的，他还说自己不是中国公民。他说他持有另外 11 个国家的护照。郭文贵也是特朗普总统的马阿拉歌庄园的会员。
He said he was in regular contact with F.B.I. agents and was not worried that he would be arrested. Mr. Guo said the issuance of the red notice was an attempt to prevent the Voice of America interview.	他说自己和联邦调查局(FBI)保持着经常的联系，不担心自己会被逮捕。郭文贵说，红色通报的发布，意在阻止美国之音采访他。
In the interview, Mr. Guo made new allegations about business empires secretly controlled by Chinese leaders, in this instance the nephew of a current member of the Communist Party’s ruling Politburo Standing Committee. Those claims could not be immediately substantiated.	在采访中，郭文贵提出了与秘密受控于中国领导人的商业帝国有关的新指控，他这一次提到了一名现任政治局委员的外甥。这些指控没能立即得到证实。
“Corrupt people do not represent the Chinese government, they do not represent the Chinese people,” Mr. Guo said. “If they weren’t so corrupt, they wouldn’t be scared of me.”	“腐败分子不代表中国政府，不代表中国人民，”郭文贵说。“如果他们不是那么腐败，就不会害怕我。”
Voice of America, which operates independently but is funded by the United States government, billed the interview as three hours long, running promotions about Mr. Guo’s promise to deliver “nuclear bomb” revelations about corruption, with the first hour broadcast and the remainder in an online webcast.	美国之音是一家独立运营但受到美国政府资助的机构，它此前曾预告说，将对郭文贵进行三小时的专访——还在预告片中提到了郭文贵关于带来“核爆级别”腐败爆料的承诺——头一个小时的专访通过电视直播，剩余的则在网上播出。
China’s government pressed Voice of America to cancel the interview, an official with the broadcaster said. The Foreign Ministry summoned its Beijing-based correspondent, Bill Ide, on Monday, where he was told that the interview would be viewed by China as interference in its internal affairs and told that it might affect the renewal of journalists’ visas, according to two people at Voice of America with knowledge of	美国之音的一名工作人员说，中国政府曾敦促该机构取消这次采访。中国外交部于周一约见了美国之音驻北京记者比尔·艾德(Bill Ide)。两名了解会面内情的美国之音内部人士称，艾德被告知，采访郭文贵将被视为对中国内政的干预，还有可能影响记者签证的续签。

the meeting.
Officials from the Chinese Embassy in Washington also called Voice of America in an effort to stop the interview from taking place, one person with direct knowledge of the conversations said. The person added that at no time were executives at Voice of America contacted by the United States government about the interview. The people interviewed for this article spoke on the condition of anonymity to talk freely about communications with the Chinese government.	华盛顿的中国驻美大使馆的官员也曾联系美国之音，试图阻止这次采访，一名对相关谈话的内容有直接了解的人士说。此人还表示，美国政府未就相关采访事宜联系美国之音的管理人员。就这篇文章接受采访的一些人士要求匿名，以便自由谈论与中国政府之间的交流。
Voice of America executives, led by its director, Amanda Bennett, proceeded with the interview, with the understanding that the live portion last only one hour. The rest of the interview would be recorded to give reporters a chance to check Mr. Guo's allegations and allow the Chinese government an opportunity to respond, the broadcaster said.	美国之音的管理人员在台长阿曼达·贝内特(Amanda Bennett)领导下安排了此次采访，条件是只能进行一小时的直播。美国之音称，剩下的采访将被录制下来，以便让记者有机会去查证郭文贵的指控，也让中国政府有机会做出反应。
"In a miscommunication, the stream was allowed to continue beyond the first hour," a Voice of America spokeswoman, Bridget Serchak, said in an emailed statement. "When this was noticed, the feed was terminated. We will release content from these interviews and will continue to report on corruption issues."	"由于沟通不畅，直播时间超出了一小时，"美国之音女发言人布里奇特·瑟查克(Bridget Serchak)在一份邮件声明中表示。"注意到这一点以后，直播便被终止了。我们将会发布来自这些采访的内容，并继续报道腐败问题。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170420/china-guo-wengui-interpol-voice-of-america	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170420/china-guo-wengui-interpol-voice-of-america
Amid Delays, Hong Kong's Ambitious Museum Plan Takes Shape	姗姗来迟，M+博物馆是否就是香港的 MoMA?
Long famous for its food, finance and shopping, Hong Kong is eager to broaden its image with the opening of M+, a museum of visual culture, in late 2019.	香港长期以来以美食、金融和购物闻名，它渴望通过将于 2019 年底开幕的视觉文化博物馆 M+拓宽自己的形象。
Officials expect the $640 million, government-funded museum to stand	香港的官员们期望这家政府资助的耗资 6.4 亿美元的博物馆能与纽约的现代

peer to peer with contemporary art icons such as the Museum of Modern Art in New York City, the Pompidou Center in Paris and the Tate Modern in London. They want the city to emerge as the cultural capital of Asia as other art venues open nearby.	艺术博物馆(Museum of Modern Art)、巴黎的蓬皮杜中心(Pompidou Center)和伦敦的泰特现代艺术馆(Tate Modern)等当代艺术的标志性机构相提并论。随着附近其他艺术场所的开设,他们希望这座城市能成为亚洲的文化之都。
M+ represents the crown jewel of the West Kowloon Cultural District, a designated arts hub on approximately 100 acres of landfill jutting into the harbor. On the district's docket is the building of the Xiqu Center Chinese opera house and the Hong Kong Palace Museum, with treasures from China's Forbidden City.	M+是西九文化区(West Kowloon Cultural District)的中心建筑。西九文化区是在插入港口的一块约 100 英亩的填海地块上建起来的专门的艺术中心。它的重点建筑包括戏曲中心和香港故宫文化博物馆——后者将展示来自中国故宫的珍宝。
But obstacles have long dogged the project. For one, the museum is two years behind its planned opening date because of construction delays. Much of the cultural district's territory is a huge construction zone, with some park greenery showing through.	但该项目一直障碍重重。一方面,由于施工延误,该博物馆的开放日期比预订的晚了两年。一个巨大的建筑区占据了该文化区的很大面积,中间穿插着一些绿树葱郁的公园。
Some critics also wonder how much curatorial freedom M+ will be able to exert, as the Chinese government increases its sway over a former British colony that on paper is supposed to operate under its own laws.	有些批评人士还想知道 M+能拥有多大的策展自由。虽然香港名义上应该依照自己的法律运行,中国政府却正对这块前英国殖民地施加越来越多的影响。
On a broader scale, the authority that oversees the cultural district has had its share of problems. The latest surrounded the December announcement of the Hong Kong Palace Museum. Under fire is Hong Kong's incoming chief executive, Carrie Lam, who started the project but bypassed the process of public feedback.	在更大的层面上,监管该文化区的当局也有它自己的一些问题。最新的问题围绕去年 12 月公布的香港故宫文化博物馆项目。即将上任的香港特首林郑月娥遭到严厉批评,因为她绕开公众评议程序,启动了该项目。
Officials from the authority declined to discuss the issue, but stressed that they had seen "continuous good progress on the construction of M+ over the past two years."	当局官员拒绝谈论这个问题,但强调他们在“过去两年里看到 M+的建设持续取得良好进展”。
The museum will look like a giant inverted T. "The upside-down T is	该博物馆将看起来像一个巨大的倒写 T。“倒写的 T 很简单,“M+的副馆长兼

simple," Doryun Chong, M+'s deputy director and chief curator, said in an interview this year. "There is nothing fussy about this. There is something radically simple about having only a horizontal and vertical slab. We want to have a confident and friendly building that's open to the public."	首席策展人郑道炼(Doryun Chong)今年在一次采访中说,“它一点都不浮华。只有一横和一竖,特别简单。我们想建一个对公众开放的自信而友好的建筑。”
The building's name is meant to indicate that it is a museum and more. Starting with work from the mid-1950s, it will present 20th- and 21st-century Asian art, film, architecture and design with a Hong Kong perspective. It will bring visibility to Chinese and Japanese artists who are unknown today, Mr. Chong said.	该建筑的名称旨在表明它不只是一个博物馆。它将运用香港的视角来展示从20世纪50年代中期起的20世纪和21世纪的亚洲艺术、电影、建筑和设计。郑道炼表示,它将给如今并不出名的一些中国和日本艺术家带来关注。
Mr. Chong arrived more than three years ago from the Museum of Modern Art, where he worked as associate curator of painting and sculpture. Suhanya Raffel, the new executive director of M+, is the former director of collections at the Art Gallery of New South Wales in Australia. (Ms. Raffel declined a request for an interview.)	郑道炼三年多前从现代艺术博物馆来这里工作,他在那里担任绘画和雕塑的助理策展人。M+的新执行总监华安雅(Suhanya Raffel)是澳大利亚新南威尔士美术馆(Art Gallery of New South Wales)的前收藏总监(她拒绝接受采访)。
The museum's design team includes Herzog & de Meuron, the Swiss architectural firm behind the Tate Modern and the Bird's Nest stadium built for the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing. M+'s concrete structure, with a horizontal base and a vertical tower, will total nearly 700,000 square feet with nearly 185,000 square feet reserved for exhibition space, according to Mr. Chong and cultural district officials. (That compares with MoMA's allotment of 125,000 square feet for gallery space in 630,000 square feet of total real estate.)	该博物馆的设计团队包括瑞士建筑师事务所赫尔佐格与德梅隆(Herzog & de Meuron),它曾设计了泰特现代艺术馆以及北京2008年奥运会使用的鸟巢体育场。据郑道炼和该文化区的官员们称,M+的混凝土结构包括一个水平的底座和一个垂直的大厦,总室内面积近70万平方英尺,其中近18.5万平方英尺的面积将用作展览空间(相比之下,纽约的现代艺术博物馆的总室内面积为63万平方英尺,展厅面积为12.5万平方英尺)。
Museum galleries will be in the horizontal slab while the 17-floor skyscraper will house offices, a members' lounge and restaurants. The	该博物馆的展厅将设在水平的底座里,17层高的大楼将用作办公室、会员休息室和餐厅。大楼正面看似汽车影院的电影屏幕。晚上,楼体正面会用

face of the tower will resemble a drive-in movie screen. At night the surface will glow with LED lights, displaying works of still or moving art, visible across Victoria Harbor. The edifice will be set in a grassy park with a waterfront promenade.	LED 灯照亮，展示静态或动态的艺术作品，隔着维多利亚港都能看到。该建筑将设在一个带有海滨步道的绿草茵茵的公园里。
Public reactions to the design are mixed – some calling it sublime, others referring to it as bland. “Architecturally it doesn’t have that ‘wow’ factor,” said Fred Scholle, owner of Galerie du Monde, Hong Kong’s longest running contemporary art gallery, which has been in operation since 1974. “But it definitely conveys the fact it is a great museum that visually works extremely well with its location.”	公众对该建筑的设计反应不一——有些人觉得它很绝妙，也有些人觉得它平淡无奇。“从建筑角度讲，它没有令人惊叹的元素，”世界画廊(Galerie du Monde)的所有者弗雷德·肖勒(Fred Scholle)说。世界画廊是香港运营时间最长的当代艺术画廊，创立于1974年。“但它绝对传达了一个事实——这是一个伟大的博物馆，它在视觉上与其地理位置十分搭配。”
So far curators have amassed about 6,000 items from Asia, with the majority coming from artists in China and Hong Kong. Uli Sigg, a former Swiss ambassador to China, donated 1,463 articles, and the museum purchased 47 items.	到目前为止，策展人从亚洲收集了约6000件作品，大部分出自中国和香港的艺术家的手。前瑞士驻华大使乌利·希克(Uli Sigg)捐赠了1463件作品，该博物馆购买了47件。
Lars Nittve, the former executive director of M+ and the founding director of the Tate Modern, secured the acquisition. He stepped down from his post in early 2016 after it became clear that the museum was going to be delayed by two years, but he remains as a consultant.	M+的前执行馆长、泰特现代艺术馆的创始馆长李立伟(Lars Nittve)完成了这些收购。2016年初，在该博物馆确定会延迟两年开幕之后，他辞去了这个职位，但他依然担任顾问。
“I have no doubt that M+ will be a museum of absolute world class,” Mr. Nittve said. “It already has an international top class team, and the collection is already amazing. Hong Kong will get the museum Asia does not have, which was the task I was given almost seven years ago.”	“我毫不怀疑，M+绝对会成为世界级的博物馆，”李立伟说，“它已经拥有一个顶级国际团队，藏品已经非常惊人。香港将拥有一个亚洲从未有过的博物馆，而那正是我差不多七年前接受的任务。”
Citywide programs have been instilling the M+ message into public consciousness since 2012. The message reaches schools through the M+ Rover, a customized art trailer. Lectures, summer camps, exhibitions	从2012年起，全市范围的各种项目一直在将M+的讯息灌输到公众意识之中。它通过特制的艺术拖车M+敢探号(M+ Rover)传送到学校里。宣传活动还包括讲座、夏令营、展览和电影。

and films are also part of the promotions.
About 10,000 visitors viewed Communist Party posters and early Toshiba rice cookers in the museum's inaugural design show last fall. Held at the 9,450-square-foot M+ Pavilion, it was the first project to be finished on cultural district soil.	去年秋天,约一万名观众在该博物馆的首次设计展上观看了共产党海报和早期的东芝电饭煲。它是在占地 9450 平方英尺的 M+展亭举行的,那儿也是这个文化区里完成的第一个项目。
M+ recently gave the public a sneak peek of its Hong Kong collection in "Ambiguously Yours: Gender in Hong Kong Popular Culture," which examined themes of sexual identity in film, pop music and magazines.	前不久,M+通过“暧昧:香港流行文化中的性别演绎”展让公众一窥它的香港收藏品。该展览回顾了电影、流行音乐和杂志中的性身份主题。
Not all are happy with the museum's direction. Among its critics is Mathias Woo, executive director of the experimental theater company Zuni Icosahedron and a former member of the cultural district's arts and cultural advisory group. He said the museum did not reflect the Hong Kong voice because the executive staff was not from Hong Kong, and the bulk of the collection did not represent Hong Kong society.	并不是所有人都对该博物馆的方向感到满意。其中一位批评者是胡恩威,他是实验剧院公司“进念·二十面体”的执行董事,也是西九文化区艺术和文化顾问小组的前成员。他表示,该博物馆没有反映香港的声音,因为它的行政人员不是来自香港,大部分收藏并不代表香港社会。
"M+ is just a MoMA or a Tate, without a true Hong Kong soul," Mr. Woo said, adding that top management had "no knowledge about Hong Kong society and Hong Kong arts."	胡恩威说:"M+只是又一个 MoMA 或泰特艺术博物馆,没有真正的香港灵魂。"他还表示,该博物馆的高层管理人员"毫不了解香港社会和香港艺术"。
But Katie de Tilly, co-president of the Hong Kong Art Gallery Association, countered that few locals had experience in starting and running a world-class museum. "We need to rely on the experts," she said.	不过,香港画廊协会的联合主席凯蒂·德·蒂莉(Katie de Tilly)反驳称,香港本地人几乎都没有开办和经营世界级博物馆的经验。"我们需要依靠专家,"她说。
At the same time, she added, "The Hong Kong point of view is as diverse and international as this city is."	她还表示,与此同时,"香港的视角和这座城市一样多样化和国际化。"
Also at issue is how much freedom of expression M+ will be allowed. Some in the art world say that the new entity will have more license for	还有一个问题是,M+将获得多大的自由表达空间。艺术界的一些人士表示,这个新实体获得的表达自由度将超过中国的其他任何博物馆。 expression than any other museum in China.

In 2015, however, five Hong Kong booksellers involved with books that took jabs at government leadership disappeared and turned up in mainland China, with one saying afterward that he had been abducted.	然而，在 2015 年，五名与刺痛了政府领导层的书籍相关的香港书商失踪了，此后他们在中国大陆现身。其中一位后来声称，他被绑架了。
"The threat to freedom of expression does exist, not only to M+ but all cultural institutions and media organizations in Hong Kong," said Vivienne Chow, an art and culture critic and founding director of the nonprofit Cultural Journalism Campus in Hong Kong.	"对言论自由的威胁的确存在，不仅是对 M+，而且是对香港所有的文化机构和媒体组织，"香港艺术文化评论家、非营利性的文化新闻学研习营的创办总监薇薇恩·周(Vivienne Chow)说。
In her opinion, government censorship is not overt, but Hong Kong institutions often self-censor to avoid trouble.	在她看来，政府的审查并不明显，但香港的机构经常自我审查，以避免麻烦。
Mr. Nittve holds a different perspective. "So far, Chinese censorship has not affected the cultural activities in Hong Kong, and hopefully that will not change," he said. "But if it were to happen, that of course would severely damage M+. You can't be world class under censorship."	李立伟对此持不同观点。他说："到目前为止，中国的审查并没有影响香港的文化活动，希望这不会改变。但是如果发生变化，那当然会严重损害 M+。在审查制度之下，你不可能成为世界级的博物馆。"
As a nod to its freedom, the museum previously showcased works from the Chinese artist Ai Weiwei, known for his outspoken criticism of the Beijing government. M+ also displayed photographs of the bloody aftermath of the 1989 China pro-democracy demonstrations.	作为对其自由的反映，该博物馆之前展示过中国艺术家艾未未的作品，他因对北京政府直言不讳的批评而闻名。M+还展示了 1989 年中国民主示威游行的血腥结局的照片。
These same works would have been banned in mainland China, Ms. Chow said. "M+ demonstrated its determination in safeguarding artistic freedom when Lars Nittve was the museum's executive director."	薇薇恩·周表示，同样的作品在中国内地是会被禁止的。"李立伟担任该博物馆的执行馆长期间，M+表明了自己捍卫艺术自由的决心。"
For now, expectant eyes are focused on the swinging cranes and beams stationed on the M+ property. By 2019, it will have been 10 years in the making.	现在，期望的眼睛都注视着 M+ 园区上转动的起重机和横梁。到 2019 年，它已经建了十年。
"If this proves to be what we are all expecting," said Mr. Scholle of	"如果这被证明是我们都期待的，"世界画廊的肖勒说，"香港将拥有世界上最

Galerie du Monde, "Hong Kong will have one of the finest contemporary art museums in the world, especially for Chinese contemporary art."	好的当代艺术博物馆之一，尤其是对中国当代艺术来说。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170420/hong-kong-museum	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170420/hong-kong-museum
Chinese Activist Who Wanted Asylum in Taiwan Returns to China	大陆活动人士向台湾申请政治庇护未果
TAIPEI, Taiwan —Taiwan's government said on Wednesday that a Chinese political activist who intended to apply for asylum had voluntarily returned to China after meeting with the immigration authorities. His departure spares the government a potential diplomatic tangle as it continues to seek information on the detention of a Taiwanese rights advocate in China last month.	台湾台北——台湾政府周三表示，一名打算申请庇护的中国政治活动人士在与移民当局会面后，自愿返回中国。他的离开让台湾政府避免了一场潜在的外交纠纷，台湾正在继续寻求上个月在中国被羁押的一名台湾人权人士的信息。
Zhang Xiangzhong, 48, an anticorruption campaigner who spent three years in prison in China, had arrived in Taiwan on April 12 as part of an eight-day group tour. The next day he abandoned the group and on Friday said in an interview with Radio Free Asia that he planned to apply for political refugee status. But according to a statement from Taiwan's Mainland Affairs Council, Mr. Zhang flew back to China on Wednesday morning with his tour group.	48岁的张向忠曾在中国坐过三年牢，是一名反腐活动人士，他参加了一个8天的旅行团，于4月12日抵达台湾。第二天他就脱团离开，上周五他在接受自由亚洲电台（Radio Free Asia, RFA）采访时表示，他计划申请政治难民身份。但根据台湾陆委会的声明，张向忠本周三上午已经跟随该旅游团返回了中国。
Mr. Zhang, who had called for greater transparency from the Chinese government, was detained in 2013 for "gathering a crowd to disrupt public order." In 2014 he was sentenced on what his lawyers said was a trumped-up charge of credit card fraud, and he was released last July. Mr. Zhang told Radio Free Asia that his conviction was based on a forced confession obtained through torture and that his health had deteriorated while in prison because of a lack of medication for his	张向忠曾经呼吁中国政府提高透明度，在2013年以“聚众扰乱公共场所秩序”罪名被羁押。2014年，他以律师称系捏造的信用卡欺诈罪名获刑，去年7月获释。张向忠告诉自由亚洲电台，他的定罪是基于酷刑逼供，而且由于狱中缺乏治疗哮喘的药物，他的健康状况出现恶化。

asthma.
"There's legitimate concern about Zhang's safety after he's sent back to China," said Patrick Poon, a researcher at Amnesty International in Hong Kong.	国际特赦组织(Amnesty International)香港研究员潘嘉伟(Patrick Poon)表示：“有理由担忧张向忠被送回中国之后的安全。”
Taiwan does not grant political asylum to Chinese citizens, although it has granted long-term residence for political reasons on a case-by-case basis. Taiwan had previously offered asylum but ceased doing so after several hijackings of planes by Chinese asylum seekers in the 1990s.	台湾并不为中国公民提供政治庇护，不过会基于政治理由提供长期居留许可，但要依个案分别加以考量。台湾之前曾经提供庇护，但在1990年代，寻求庇护的中国人劫持了几架飞机之后，台湾就放弃了这种做法。
China claims self-governed Taiwan as its territory and has not ruled out the use of force to annex it, adding an extra layer of complexity to cases of Chinese political refugees.	中国称自治的台湾当局是其部分领土，不排除使用武力来吞并它，这给中国政治难民的案件增加了一层复杂性。
According to the Mainland Affairs Council statement, the Taiwan immigration authorities determined that Mr. Zhang's application materials "did not conform to the rules for special cases of long-term residence currently in effect."	根据陆委会的声明，台湾移民当局确定张向忠的申请材料“尚不符现行专案长期居留规定，也不符相关修正草案之精神”。
"After explaining this to Mr. Zhang, he fully understood and agreed to depart with his original tour group upon completion of its travel period, in accordance with the rules of the Cross-Strait Tourism Agreement," it said. In a later email, the Mainland Affairs Council said that the cases of Mr. Zhang and the detained Taiwanese rights activist, Lee Ming-cheh, were "not connected in any way."	声明说，“经向张员说明后，张员充分理解，同意依照两岸旅游协议规定，在旅行期间结束，随原旅行团一同出境。”陆委会后来又在一封电子邮件中说，张向忠和被羁押的台湾维权活动家李明哲的案件“没有任何关系”。
Mr. Zhang told Radio Free Asia that he was inspired to apply for asylum by a statement made last week by Mr. Lee's wife, Lee Ching-yu. Mr. Lee, who has been held in China on national security grounds for the past month, had donated cash and books to relatives of imprisoned Chinese	张向忠告诉自由亚洲电台，李明哲的妻子李净瑜上周发表的声明启发了他庇护申请的念头。李明哲过去一个月以国家安全理由被扣押在中国境内，他之前向被监禁的中国人权律师的亲属捐赠了现金和书籍。 rights lawyers.

China has not granted Mr. Lee, whose whereabouts have not been disclosed, access to a lawyer or visits by relatives, nor has it stated what crime he may have committed. Ms. Lee had announced she intended to go to China to “rescue” her husband, but Chinese officials canceled Ms. Lee’s permit to enter China, preventing her from boarding a flight to Beijing on April 10.	李明哲目前下落不明，中国没有允许律师或亲戚见他，也没有提到他可能犯了什么罪。李净瑜宣布她打算去中国“救”丈夫，但中国官员注销了李净瑜的台胞证，阻止她4月10日搭乘飞机前往北京。
Ms. Lee’s campaign on her husband’s behalf, which has rankled Chinese officials and drawn criticism from some Taiwanese politicians who said her activities were interfering with behind-the-scenes negotiations, struck a chord with Mr. Zhang.	李净瑜营救丈夫的行动惹怒了中国的官员，也遭到了一些台湾政治人士的批评，说她的活动影响了幕后谈判，但令张向忠深受鼓舞。
“I remember something Lee Ching-yu said,” he told Radio Free Asia. “I must carry on fighting. I will not allow my husband to lose his dignity in return for his freedom and to spend the rest of his life little better than a dog.”	他对自由亚洲电台说：“我念念李净瑜的这句话，‘我必须战斗下去，我不会让我先生为获得自由而失去尊严，像狗一样活未来的一生。’”
“It doesn’t matter how powerful China becomes,” Mr. Zhang added. “They can only take our freedom and our lives, but they can’t break our dignity.”	张向忠说：“中国再强大，也只能剥夺我们的生命与自由，但绝对粉碎不了我们的尊严。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170420/taiwan-china-asylum-zhang-xiangzhong	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170420/taiwan-china-asylum-zhang-xiangzhong
Furor in China Over Team’s Banner: ‘Keep Homosexuality Far From Campus’	中国高校现反同性恋横幅引发众怒
BEIJING — Huazhong University of Science and Technology in central China was known for its relatively welcoming attitude toward gay and lesbian people. Students waved rainbow flags at graduation, and the	北京——华中科技大学位于中国中部，以对同性恋相对欢迎的态度而闻名。有学生在毕业时挥舞彩虹旗，学校也主办过跟同志作家和艺术家有关的活动。 school hosted events featuring gay authors and artists.

So many Chinese were alarmed when a message of intolerance emanated recently from the university's main campus in Wuhan, the capital of Hubei Province.	所以，当湖北省省会武汉的这所大学最近出现一个不宽容的声音时，很多中国人都感到担忧。
"Protect traditional Chinese morals," said a banner carried on campus by members of the women's basketball team. "Defend core socialist values. Resist corrosion from decadent Western thoughts. Keep homosexuality far from campus."	该校的女子篮球队队员在校园挂起了一个横幅，上书“维护中华民族传统伦理，捍卫社会主义核心价值观，抵制西方腐朽思想侵蚀，让同性恋远离大学校园”。
A photo of the students with the banner, posted online by the team's coach on Sunday, provoked immediate outrage, with people across China calling on the university to fire the coach and punish the students.	周日，球队教练在网上张贴了学生拉着横幅的照片，立刻引发了愤怒，来自全国各地的人在呼吁开除教练，处罚这些学生。
The incident also prompted a broader conversation about discrimination against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender students at Chinese schools.	这一事件也引发了对于女同性恋、男同性恋、双性恋和跨性别学生在中国的学校里遭受歧视的广泛讨论。
China, which until 1997 considered homosexuality a crime, has gradually grown more tolerant of gay and lesbian people. Still, the country does not permit same-sex marriage, and discrimination is widespread, even at universities, which are often seen as more tolerant.	在1997年之前，中国一直将同性恋视为犯罪行为，之后才逐渐提高了对同性恋者的宽容度。不过，中国目前不允许同性婚姻，而且歧视普遍存在，即使是在通常被视为气氛宽容的大学也是如此。
"It's shocking to know things like this can happen," said Luo Yinxi, 21, a gay student at the university.	"这件事情的发生让人很震惊，"21岁的大学男同学罗胤熙说。
In social media posts, Chinese students and activists called for the government to put in place greater protections for sexual minorities.	在社交媒体上，中国学生和活动家呼吁政府对性取向少数群体提供更多的保护。
"This incident will be over soon, but the scar of it is never going to be erased," one user wrote on WeChat, a popular messaging app. "Don't	"事件会逐渐平息，但是伤痕无法抹去，不要等悲剧发生了再去弥补。"一位用户在人气消息应用——微信上写道。“别等到出了下一个悲剧再来亡羊补牢

wait until the next tragedy to make up for it.”	了。”
Activists started a hashtag, #NoQueerNoGame, to show solidarity with lesbian athletes at Huazhong University of Science and Technology, an elite school.	活动人士开启了 NoQueerNoGame 标签，声援华中科技大学这所名校的女同性恋运动员。
A group of mothers of gay students at the school took to the streets with a banner of their own. “Don’t let homophobes hurt our children!” it said. They called on the university to investigate the incident.	该校一群同性恋学生的母亲走上街头，她们的旗帜上写着“别让恐同者伤害我们的孩子！”。她们呼吁校方调查这起事件。
The women’s basketball team at Huazhong University of Science and Technology had a history of harassment against lesbian players, according to students. Ling Bing, a coach of the team, posted anti-gay rants on his social media accounts.	根据学生的说法，华中科技大学女子篮球队有骚扰同性恋球员的历史。篮球队教练凌冰也在他的社交媒体账号上发布了反同言论。
Even after the photo of the banner drew widespread criticism, Mr. Ling posted again to say it was a “double standard” that gay students could hold a rainbow flag at graduation but that the banner held by the basketball team members was considered unacceptable.	即使在横幅照片受到广泛批评之后，凌冰仍然发帖表示，同性恋学生毕业时可以举彩虹旗帜，但是篮球队队员拉横幅就被认为不可接受，这是“双重标准”。
“What a pity that the great Chinese Communist Party and the great people of China won’t give you a chance to do that,” he wrote in a public post on QQ, a messaging platform.	他说：“可惜伟大的中国人民和伟大的中国共产党不给你们机会的！”他在消息平台 QQ 上发表了一个公开帖子里说。
University officials declined to comment.	该校官员拒绝置评。
Mr. Luo said he had been heartened to see straight people stand with gay and lesbian students in denouncing the banner. Still, he said, the reaction on campus had been mixed.	罗胤熙说，他很高兴看到直男直女和同性恋的学生一起谴责那条横幅。不过，他说校园里对这件事的反应并不一致。
“Some think views like this are appalling, and some say it’s not worth talking about,” he said.	“有些同学觉得这件事情非常骇人听闻，但是也有人觉得没有太多必要讲这件事。”他说。
But the conversation online was largely critical of the banner and the	但网上大部分人都是在批评横幅和该校对此事的处理。例如有几个人认为横

university's handling of the situation. Several people, for instance, took issue with the banner's suggestion that socialism was at odds with homosexuality.	幅把社会主义与同性恋对立起来有问题。
Li Tingting, a prominent advocate for gender equality, said in an interview that socialist values were about "freedom, justice, democracy."	著名的性别平等倡导者李婷婷在接受采访时表示，社会主义价值观是关于“自由、正义、民主”的。
"The organizer does not have a deep understanding of what socialist values are," she said.	她说：“那个组织者对社会主义价值观并不了解。”
Some experts expressed concern about the suggestion that homosexuality was an import from the West, despite its long history in China.	一些专家表示了担忧：横幅暗示同性恋是西方舶来品，尽管它在中国有悠久历史。
Harriet Evans, a professor at the University of Westminster in London, said the banner might have been influenced partly by the Chinese government's recent efforts to limit "pluralistic values and practices," noting the arrest of five women's rights activists, including Ms. Li, in 2015.	伦敦威斯敏斯特大学(University of Westminster)教授哈里特·埃文斯(Harriet Evans)表示，这一横幅可能受到中国政府最近限制“多元价值观和实践”的影响，他提到了五名女权人士在2015年被逮捕事件，其中包括李婷婷。
She said the banner's call to preserve traditional Chinese morality was a distortion of history. "It has nothing whatsoever to do with resisting moral corruption," she wrote in an email.	她表示，维护中华民族传统道德的说法是在歪曲历史。她在一封电子邮件中写道：“这与抵制道德腐败无关。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170421/china-anti-gay-banner-university	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170421/china-anti-gay-banner-university
China Bans 'Muhammad' and 'Jihad' as Baby Names in Heavily Muslim Region	取名犯禁，维族人今后不能叫“穆罕默德”
BEIJING — The Chinese government, further tightening its grip on Muslims in western China, has prohibited parents from choosing names	北京——中国政府正在进一步加强对西部地区穆斯林的控制，父母为子女取“穆罕默德”、“阿拉法特”和“吉哈德”这样的名字也遭到了禁止。

like "Muhammad," "Arafat" and "Jihad" for their children.
Officials described the ban, introduced this month, as part of an effort to "curb religious fervor" in the western region of Xinjiang, home to more than 10 million Uighurs, a mostly Muslim minority group.	这个禁令于本月推出，官员称这是西部新疆地区“遏制宗教狂热”的一部分，新疆生活着 1000 多万维吾尔人，那是一个以穆斯林为主的少数民族。
The government considers Xinjiang a hotbed of Islamic extremism, violence and separatist thought. But many Uighurs say the government's strict limits on worship and speech are responsible for tensions in the region.	政府认为新疆是伊斯兰极端主义、暴力和分裂思想的温床。但很多维吾尔人说，政府对宗教和言论的严格限制，才是该地区紧张局势的主要原因。
The list of names, a copy of which was provided to The New York Times by Uighur activists, is titled, "List of Banned Ethnic Minority Names." It bans more than two dozen names, including "Mujahid" and "Medina."	在维吾尔族活动人士向《纽约时报》提供的这份《少数民族禁用名字列表》中，包含有“穆贾希德”和“麦地那”等 20 多个名字。
Security officials in Urumqi and other cities in Xinjiang confirmed the ban. Some said in interviews that if residents did not comply, they risked forfeiting critical benefits for their children, including education and health care.	乌鲁木齐和新疆其他城市的安全官员确认了这道禁令。有人在采访中说，如果居民违抗，子女可能就享受不了一些重要的福利，包括教育和保健。
Rights advocates said the ban showed the lengths to which the government would go to limit the civil liberties of Uighurs in the name of fighting terrorism.	人权倡导者表示，这道禁令显示出政府以打击恐怖主义为名，不遗余力地限制维吾尔人的公民自由。
"China's policies are increasingly hostile," said Dilxat Raxit, a spokesman for the World Uyghur Congress, a group in Munich that advocates self-determination for Xinjiang. "Uighur people have to be cautious if they want to give their children names they are happy with, and at the same time avoid punishment from the government."	"中国的政策敌对性越来越严重，"流亡组织世界维吾尔代表大会(World Uyghur Congress)发言人迪里夏提·热西提(Dilxat Raxit)说。"维吾尔人如果想给孩子们取名字必须小心谨慎，才能既让自己满意，又能避免政府的惩罚。"世界维吾尔代表大会位于慕尼黑，是一个倡导新疆民族自决的流亡组织。
Sophie Richardson, the China director of Human Rights Watch, said that	人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)中国部主任芮莎菲(Sophie choosing baby names should be a "joyful, private discussion."	Richardson)表示, 给婴儿选择名字应该是一个“快乐的、私下的讨论”。

"This is the latest absurd restriction that the Chinese government has imposed on people in Xinjiang," she wrote in an email.	“这是中国政府对新疆人民最新的荒谬限制,”她在一封电邮中写道。
To combat what officials describe as extremism in Xinjiang, the Chinese government has put in place a series of restrictions in recent years. Earlier this month, for example, security officials imposed bans on long beards and veils in public places.	为了打击官方所谓的新疆的极端主义, 中国政府近年来实施了一系列限制。例如在本月初, 安全部门对长胡子和面纱在公共场所的出现实施了禁令。
This year, officials held large rallies of paramilitary and police forces as a show of force in Xinjiang. The region has struggled with clashes between residents and security officials and occasional acts of domestic terrorism.	今年以来, 官员们在新疆派驻了大批军事和警察部队, 作为武力展示之用。在该地区, 居民和安全官员之间不时爆发冲突, 偶尔也有国内恐怖主义活动。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170426/china-xinjiang-ban-muslim-names-muhammad-jihad	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170426/china-xinjiang-ban-muslim-names-muhammad-jihad
In China, Daydreaming Students Are Caught on Camera	中国大量学校公开直播学生课堂引发争议
BEIJING — In the halls of Yuzhou No. 1 High School in central China, students refer to them simply as “the cameras.”	北京——在中国中部禹州市第一高级中学的走廊里, 学生们简单地用“摄像头”来指代它们。
When the first bell sounds before 7 a.m., their fish-eye lenses spring to life, broadcasting live as students sit at their desks and measure geometric angles, pass notes or doze during breaks. Before long, thousands of people — not just parents and teachers — are watching online, offering armchair commentary.	早上7点前第一次铃响时, 它们的鱼镜头开始启动, 直播学生坐在课桌旁测量几何角度、传纸条或在课间休息时打盹。不久后, 便有数以千计的人——不仅仅是家长和老师——足不出户地在网上观看, 并发表评论。
“What is this boy doing? He’s been looking around doing nothing, like a cat on a hot roof,” one user wrote. “This one is playing with his phone!” added another, posting a screenshot.	“这个男生在干什么? 他一直在东张西望, 像热锅上的蚂蚁一样,” 一名用户写道。“这个学生在玩手机!” 另一名用户发了一张截图说。
As internet speeds have improved, live-streaming has become a	随着网速提升, 直播已经成了中国的一个文化现象, 改变着在线娱乐和约会、

cultural phenomenon in China, transforming online entertainment and everyday rituals like dating and dining. Now the nation's obsession with live video is invading its schools, and not everyone is happy about it.	吃饭等日常活动。现在，对直播的迷恋正在涌入学校，但对此，并不是所有人都感到高兴。
Thousands of schools — public and private, from kindergarten to college — are installing webcams in classrooms and streaming live on websites that are open to the public, betting that round-the-clock supervision, even from strangers, will help motivate students.	从公立到私立，从幼儿园到大学，成千上万所学校正在教室里安装网络摄像头，在面向公众开放的网站上做直播，它们认为这种昼夜不停的监督——即便是来自陌生人，有助于调动学生的积极性。
School officials see the cameras as a way to improve student confidence and crowdsource the task of catching misbehaving pupils. Parents use the feeds to monitor their children's academic progress and spy on their friendships and romances. But many students see live-streaming as an intrusion, prompting a broader debate in China about privacy, educational ethics and the perils of helicopter parenting.	学校领导认为这些摄像头是增强学生自信心，并把发现行为不规范的学生这项任务众包出去的一种方式。家长利用视频监督孩子的学习进步，并监视他们的交友和恋爱情况。但很多学生认为直播干涉了自己的生活。这在中国引发了一场有关隐私、教育伦理和直升机式家长教育的危害的广泛讨论。
"I hate it," said Ding Yue, a 17-year-old senior at Yuzhou No. 1 High, in Xuchang, a city in Henan Province. "I feel like we are zoo animals."	"我恨它，"河南省许昌市禹州一高17岁的丁悦说。"我觉得我们像动物园里的动物。"
Some experts warn that live-streaming in schools will make Chinese youth, already accustomed to the nation's extensive internet censorship and use of outdoor security cameras, even more sensitive to surveillance.	一些专家警告称，中国年轻人已经习惯了该国广泛的网络审查和户外安全摄像头的使用，学校里的直播会让他们对监视更加敏感。
"If classrooms are under surveillance at all times, instruction will definitely be influenced by outside factors and the opinions of whoever is watching," said Xiong Bingqi, vice president of the 21st Century Education Research Institute, an influential Chinese think tank, who called the practice a violation of students' rights and a threat to academic freedom.	"如果总被监视，教室的教学一定会被外部的因素和看直播的人的观点所左右，"中国颇有影响力的智库21世纪教育研究院的副院长熊丙奇说。他表示这种做法侵犯了学生的权利，威胁到了学习自由。

After a critical article on the subject recently in The Beijing News, a prominent newspaper, several schools announced they were ending the broadcasts. But thousands of others chose to remain online and continue to draw a daily audience of cyber class monitors eager to report daydreaming students and lax teachers.	在知名报纸《新京报》最近刊登了一篇对此事的批评报道后，有几所学校宣布将结束直播。但其他数千所学校仍选择留在网上，每天继续吸引渴望举报走神的学生和不严格的老师的网络课堂监督员。
There are dozens of live-streaming platforms in China, and classroom feeds can be found on many of them. Anyone with an internet connection can visit and choose from thousands of live school feeds. The most popular site may be Shuidi, owned by the internet security giant Qihoo 360 Technology Company, which sells webcams and software, among other products.	中国有数十个直播平台，其中许多都能找到教室里的直播画面。任何人，只要有网络连接，就可以访问观看数以千计的学校直播视频。最受欢迎的，可能是销售网络摄像头和软件等产品的网络安全巨头奇虎 360 科技有限公司旗下的水滴直播。
"When you tell them, 'It's possible your parents might be behind your back watching,' it's like a sword hanging over their heads," said Zhao Weifeng, the director of a private school in the eastern province of Jiangsu that installed cameras in its classrooms last year. "Having surveillance makes children behave better."	"当你跟他们说'你父母可能在后面看得到'。就像他们脖子后面悬了一根剑嘛。" 东部省份江苏一所私立学校的校长赵卫峰说。该校于去年在教室里安装了摄像头。"有监控孩子表现更好"。
The Deep Blue Children Robot Center, a network of technology enrichment programs based in Beijing, said it had made live-streaming a central part of its teaching model.	深蓝少儿机器人中心位于北京，有多个科技含量很高的项目。它表示已将直播作为其教学模式的核心。
"A noble person shouldn't have anything to hide," said Jiang Jifa, a computer scientist and co-founder of the network. "Everyone needs to be able to pose onstage, to run for office, to receive attention from the country and the world."	"君子无不可告人之事。"该中心联合创始人、计算机科学家姜吉发说。"每个人都要走上舞台，参加竞选，接受全国甚至世界的关注。"
In China's cutthroat education system, live-streaming has also found evangelists among G.P.A.-obsessed parents looking for new ways to	网络直播也在中国残酷的教育体系中找到了支持者——那些痴迷成绩、寻找督促孩子的新方式的家长以及渴望提高学习成绩的学校。"网络直播摄像头

push their children and schools eager to improve academic performance. "It helps students spend their time more efficiently and get into their dream universities," a parent of a senior at Yuzhou No. 1 High wrote recently in an online forum.	帮助学生有效利用时间，可以帮助他们考上理想的大学，“禹州一高一名高三学生的家长前不久在一个在线论坛上写道。
Webcams have proved especially popular at rural boarding schools, where teachers say live-streaming can be a vital link between children and parents, often migrants working in cities hundreds of miles away.	网络摄像头已被证明在农村寄宿学校特别受欢迎，那里的老师表示，直播是孩子和家长之间的重要纽带，那些家长通常是在数百上千公里外的城市务工的农民工。
China is not the first to use internet-enabled cameras inside classrooms. Private schools and charter schools in the United States have in recent years experimented with closed-circuit, private broadcasts to deter crime and misbehavior. Britain is testing body cameras for teachers, in part to gather evidence for student disciplinary hearings.	中国不是第一个在教室里安装互联网摄像头的国家。近些年，美国的私立学校和特许公立学校在试验通过使用闭路私人播放遏制犯罪行为和不当行为。英国正在试验为教师配备身体摄像头，其中一个目的是为学生纪律听证会收集证据。
But critics say Chinese schools have adopted live-streaming technology on an unheard-of scale and with few of the privacy protections in place elsewhere.	但批评者认为，中国的学校以前所未有的规模采用直播技术，却未能像其他地方那样提供隐私保护。
Deng Xu, whose daughter attends an elite preschool in Beijing, said she understood the desire to keep an eye on children and their teachers at school, especially when they are very young. But she said at some point parents had to let go.	邓旭的女儿在北京的一所精英幼儿园上学。她表示，她理解家长们希望密切关注学校的孩子和老师的愿望，尤其是在孩子很小的时候。但她表示，在某个时候，父母必须放手。
"It's just sad to be watched all the time," she said. "Parents need to learn to be hands-off."	“一直被看着就太惨了，”她说，“家长要学着放开”。
Han Xiao, a lawyer in Beijing who has spoken out against live-streaming in classrooms, said that many schools were operating the cameras without the consent of parents and students and that public broadcasts	公开反对教室直播的北京律师韩晓表示，许多学校未经家长和学生同意就运行摄像头，而且公共播放给学生的安全构成了威胁。

posed a threat to student safety.
"Classrooms are enclosed spaces, so the activities of students like reading and eating snacks should be regarded as private," he said. "Living under surveillance and fear will hurt students' potential to grow."	"教室是密闭的空间,学生的一些活动诸如阅读和吃零食应该是私人的事情,"他说。"生活在监控和恐惧的环境下不利于学生的成长"
Qihoo 360's cameras are advertised as tools for deterring thieves and monitoring young children at home. But the company said it had not targeted schools for sales. It added that it had not received complaints about privacy and that individuals initiating live-streams must agree to respect the privacy of others.	奇虎 360 摄像头是被作为威慑窃贼和家庭观察幼儿的工具而进行宣传的。该公司表示,它没有针对学校进行销售。它还表示,它没有收到有关隐私权的投诉,并认为进行直播的个人必须尊重他人的隐私。
"Many schools and teachers willingly bought and installed our devices and choose to share the footage voluntarily," the company said in a statement.	该公司在一份声明中表示:"许多学校和老师愿意购买和安装我们的设备,并选择自愿分享视频。"
Live-streaming in general is on the cutting edge of entertainment in China, making stars of ordinary people as they use their phones to broadcast meals, candid monologues on the meaning of life and tutorials on subjects like applying makeup and rebuilding cars.	总体来讲,直播正处于中国娱乐的前沿,很多普通人因此成了红人,他们用手机直播做饭,对生活意义的坦率独白,以及化妆和改装汽车等指导性活动。
The industry more than doubled in size in 2016 and is expected to generate $5 billion in revenue this year, largely through the sale of virtual gifts, according to Credit Suisse. But it has proved difficult for the Chinese government to regulate.	据瑞士信贷(Credit Suisse)称,2016年,该行业的规模翻了一倍多,预计今年的总收入将高达50亿美元,主要是通过销售虚拟礼品。而且事实证明,中国政府很难对它进行监管。
The authorities issued guidelines last fall that banned pornography and original news reporting on live-streaming channels. The rules recognized a general right to privacy, but did not address the use of live-streaming in schools.	去年秋季,中国当局发布指示,禁止通过直播渠道传播色情内容和原创新闻。这些规定承认普遍的隐私权,但没有提到学校直播的问题。
At Yuzhou No. 1 High, which began live-streaming classes late last year,	禹州第一高级中学从去年年底开始直播课堂。学生们现在开玩笑说,他们的

students now joke that their school should instead be called "Yuzhou No. 1 Prison."	学校应该被称为“禹州第一监狱”。
Reached by telephone, several said they were uncomfortable that anyone with an internet connection could tune into their classroom discussions. To avoid the camera's stare, they sometimes congregate in a blind spot near the front of the classroom, they said.	有几名学生在接受电话采访时表示,任何一个能上网的人都可以收听他们的课堂讨论,这让他们感到不舒服。他们说,为了躲避摄像头的注视,他们有时聚集在教室前面的一个盲区里。
"Who knows if there are any psychopaths watching?" asked Li Li, a junior.	"谁知道有没有精神变态的人在看?"高二学生李黎问道。
The school did not respond to a request for comment.	学校没有回应置评请求。
Ding Yue, the senior, said live-streaming had also contributed to bullying at the school, recalling how a student was teased after classmates read that an online commenter had made fun of his looks.	高三学生丁悦表示,直播还会导致学校欺凌,他想起有一位学生曾遭到嘲笑,因为同学们在在线评论中看到有人取笑他的长相。
"Most students want to speak and fend for themselves, but we don't have the power," he said, when asked if students had complained to the school. "It's the business of grown-ups. We aren't allowed to talk about it."	当被问及学生是否曾向学校投诉时,他说:"大部分学生想站出来维护自己,但我们没有力量。这是大人的事。不允许我们谈论。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170426/in-china-daydreaming-students-are-caught-on-camera	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170426/in-china-daydreaming-students-are-caught-on-camera
China Sentences Phan Phan-Gillis, U.S. Businesswoman, in Spying Case	华裔美国人被中国法院判处间谍罪
BEIJING — An American businesswoman from Houston was sentenced to three and half years in prison in China on spying charges on Tuesday, over two years after Chinese security officers spirited her away and 20 or more years after the alleged espionage was said to have taken place, her lawyer said.	北京——律师称,在被中国安全人员秘密带走两年多之后,一名来自休斯顿的美国女商人在中国以间谍罪判处有期徒刑三年半。她被控的间谍活动据称发生在20年前,甚至更为久远。
But the businesswoman, Phan Phan-Gillis, often called Sandy, may	但这位名为潘婉芬(Phan Phan-Gillis),通常被叫作桑迪(Sandy)的女商人的

soon be deported to the United States, allowing her to reunite with her husband, Jeff Gillis, who has adamantly rejected the accusations and fought for her freedom, said her lawyer, Shang Baojun.	律师尚宝军称，她也许很快会被遣返回美国，与丈夫杰夫·吉利斯(Jeff Gillis)团聚。后者坚决反对相关指控，并一直在为妻子的自由而斗争。
After a secret trial in the morning in Nanning, the capital of the Guangxi region in southern China, a judge declared Ms. Phan-Gillis guilty, sentenced her and ordered her expelled from China — but left unclear whether she had to serve out her prison sentence before being deported, Mr. Shang said by telephone.	审判在中国南方广西壮族自治区的首府南宁举行。上午的秘密审理结束后，一名法官宣布潘婉芬有罪、对她判了刑并下令将她驱逐出境。但尚宝军在电话里表示，尚不清楚她是否要在被遣返前服满刑期。
“A court can order expulsion from the country for foreign nationals either after serving a sentence or concurrent with a sentence starting, but the judge wasn’t clear on which applied here, so I also have to wait to read the verdict,” Mr. Shang said. “Of course, I hope that they’ll deport her as soon as possible, but we have to wait until we see the written verdict to be sure.”	“法庭可以在刑满后或刑期开始时下令把外国人驱逐出境，但法官没有明确说本案是哪种情况，所以我也要等到看判决书，”尚宝军说。“当然，我希望他们尽快遣返她，但要等看到判决书，才能确定。”
It could be days before he receives the written judgment, he said.	他说，可能要过几天才能收到判决书。
The uncertainty about the sentence has added an agonizing twist to a case that turned Ms. Phan-Gillis’s husband into an amateur detective and lobbyist, seeking to clear his wife of the accusation that she had worked as a spy for the American authorities. Mr. Gillis said by email that he did not want to comment on the trial.	有关判决的不确定性，为这起案件增添了一个令人焦虑的变数。因为该案，潘婉芬的丈夫成了一名业余侦探和说客，试图洗清妻子曾是一名为美国当局工作的间谍的指控。吉利斯通过电子邮件表示，他不想就此次审判发表意见。
The United States Consulate in Guangzhou, in southern China, has handled Ms. Phan-Gillis’s consular needs while she has been held in Nanning, 315 miles to the west. The consulate confirmed that she had stood trial but gave no details.	位于华南的美国驻广州总领事馆负责处理潘婉芬的领事需求，她被关押在广州以西 315 英里的南宁。该领事馆证实了潘婉芬受审一事，但没有给出细节。
“We continue to follow Ms. Phan-Gillis’s case closely,” the consulate’s	“我们会继续密切关注潘婉芬一案，”该领馆新闻文化处通过电子邮件表示。

press office said by email. "We have regularly raised Ms. Phan-Gillis's case with Chinese officials, including at the most senior levels."	"我们经常向中国官员提起潘婉芬一案，包括最高层的官员。"
China's president, Xi Jinping, has redoubled the government's longstanding warnings that it faces dire threats from foreign spies and subversion, and state security officers have appeared increasingly active. Other foreigners have also been tried on spying charges, including a Canadian man released last year soon after his trial ended with a guilty verdict. But ethnic Chinese people appear especially vulnerable, because officials have fewer scruples about detaining them.	中国国家主席习近平进一步加强了政府一贯的警告，认为政府面临着外国间谍和颠覆活动的严峻威胁。国家安全人员似乎越来越活跃。其他外国人也曾因间谍指控受审，包括一名加拿大男子。去年被判有罪后，这名男子很快获释。但华人似乎特别容易受影响，因为官员对关押他们的顾虑要少一些。
Calls to the Nanning Intermediate People's Court, where Ms. Phan-Gillis was tried, went unanswered, and there was no word of the trial in Chinese news media. The Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs did not respond to faxed questions about the case.	打给审判潘婉芬的南宁市中级人民法院的电话无人接听，中国的新闻媒体上也没有出现有关该审判的消息。中国外交部未回复记者通过传真发送的提问。
Ms. Phan-Gillis, 57, was seized near a border crossing by Chinese security officers in March 2015, when she was accompanying a delegation of officials and businesspeople from Houston, including the mayor pro tem at the time, Ed Gonzalez.	57岁的潘婉芬是2015年3月在一处过境通道附近被抓的。当时，她正陪着一个来自休斯顿的代表团。该代表团由官员和商人组成，包括休斯顿当时的临时市长埃德·冈萨雷斯(Ed Gonzalez)。
Ms. Phan-Gillis was born in Vietnam into an ethnic Chinese family, and she fled in her teens by boat, eventually settling in the United States. She worked as a consultant for Houston businesses interested in Chinese customers and investment, as well as for Chinese businesses interested in Texas, and she traveled often to southern China.	潘婉芬出生在越南的一个华人家庭。十几岁时，她乘船离开，最终定居美国。她的工作是为对中国的消费者和投资感兴趣的休斯顿企业，以及对得克萨斯州感兴趣的中国企业提供咨询。她经常去中国南方。
At first, Mr. Gillis said, he kept quiet about Ms. Phan-Gillis's detention and hoped that Chinese investigators would release her after realizing the charges were groundless.	吉利斯说，起初，他对潘婉芬被关押一事保持沉默，希望中国调查人员会在意识到相关指控没有根据后放人。

But as the months wore on, Mr. Gillis concluded that the Chinese authorities would not back down, and he turned to public appeals to seek her freedom.	但随着几个月过去，吉利斯断定中国当局不会放弃，于是转而公开求助，为妻子争取自由。
He was told that she had been formally arrested in September 2015, days before Mr. Xi arrived in the United States for a visit.	他被告知，妻子已于2015年9月遭正式逮捕。几天后，习近平抵达美国，开始访美。
"I really don't want to be disruptive. I don't want to ruin anybody's party," Mr. Gillis said at the time. "I just want to get my wife back."	"我真的不想捣乱。我不想让任何人的聚会不快，"他当时说。"我只想让我的妻子回来。"
Ms. Phan-Gillis was indicted last July, setting in motion preparations for the trial. Mr. Gillis said then that the claims in the indictment crumbled under closer scrutiny. The prosecutors claimed that Ms. Phan-Gillis had spied in China for a time in 1996 when she was not even in the country, he said.	潘婉芬于去年7月遭到起诉，审判的准备工作由此展开。吉利斯当时表示，在对起诉书进行了更仔细的研究后，里面的说法根本不成立。他说，检方称潘婉芬在1996年的一段时间里在中国从事间谍活动，但那时候，她甚至都不在中国。
In the indictment, the prosecutors also claimed that Ms. Phan-Gillis had tried to recruit Chinese people living in the United States to work for a "foreign spy organization." Mr. Gillis said that claim was also false. "The charges are beyond ridiculous," he said.	在起诉书中，检方还指控潘婉芬试图招募在美国生活的中国人，为一个"外国间谍组织"工作。吉利斯说这项指控也是假的。"相关指控简直荒唐可笑，"他说。
The lawyer, Mr. Shang, said he could not discuss what specific accusations prosecutors made at the trial, because lawyers are forbidden to publicly disclose national security cases without approval. But their broad accusation was that Ms. Phan-Gillis "engaged in activities harmful to Chinese national security" in both China and the United States between 1995 and 1998, he said.	尚宝军说他不能讨论检方在法庭上提出的具体指控，因为律师不得在未经允许的情况下公开透露涉及国家安全的案件情况。但大体的指控就是潘婉芬在1995到1998年期间，在中美两国"从事危害中国国家安全的活动"。
At the trial, Ms. Phan-Gillis pleaded guilty to the spying charge, he said.	他说，在庭审现场，潘婉芬对间谍罪的指控表示认罪。
"After the verdict was read out, the chief judge didn't ask her whether she'd appeal," Mr. Shang said. "But when I met her yesterday and	"判决宣读完毕后，主审法官没有问她是否认罪，"尚宝军说。"但我昨天和之前见她并问她时，她说她不会上诉，只要能尽快离开中国。"

previously and asked her, she said she wouldn't appeal, as long as she could leave China as soon as possible."
Ms. Phan-Gillis previously said that she was innocent, but she may have changed her position in the hope of early release and a return home. A United Nations human rights panel last year demanded her release after finding that she had suffered arbitrary detention and deprivation of access to lawyers.	潘婉芬之前说自己是无辜的，但她可能改变了自己的立场，希望早日获释回家。去年，在发现潘婉芬被任意扣留并被剥夺了见律师的权利后，联合国的一个人权委员会要求中国当局释放她。
"They put words in my mouth," Ms. Phan-Gillis told a visiting American consular officer, according to an earlier account given by Mr. Gillis.	根据吉利斯早前的描述，潘婉芬曾对探视她的美国领事官员称，“他们从我嘴里套话。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170426/sandy-phan-gillis-china-houston-espionage	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170426/sandy-phan-gillis-china-houston-espionage
The Tech Challenge of Reporting Under China's Watchful Eye	驻华记者的“黑科技”，听时报北京分社长谈经验
How do New York Times journalists use technology in their jobs and in their personal lives? Jane Perlez, The Times's bureau chief in Beijing, discussed the tech she is using.	《纽约时报》的记者如何在工作和个人生活中使用科技产品？北京分社社长裴若思(Jane Perlez)介绍了她在使用的一些科技产品。
As Beijing bureau chief, what is it like to try to get information online given China's Great Firewall, the system of filters and controls that can limit what people see on the internet there?	中国设有防火长城，这是一套过滤和控制系统，可以限制人们在互联网上看到的内容，那么作为北京分社社长，试图在网上获取信息是怎样的感受呢？
We live and die by the strength of virtual private networks, or VPNs. The Chinese government is always trying to disrupt VPNs.	我们的死活就靠虚拟专用网络 VPN 了。中国政府一直在试图破坏 VPN。
Some work relatively well for a few months, then all of a sudden they slow down, a sign that the government has successfully interfered with them. As journalists, we feel frustrated by the instability of the internet, the overall slowness.	有些 VPN 最开始几个月还比较好用，但突然之间，它们的速度就变慢了，这表明它们遭到了中国政府的干扰。互联网不稳定，总体上速度较慢，这让我们记者感到很沮丧。
But we are not the only ones affected. Businesses operating in China	但我们也不是唯一受影响的人。在中国做生意的企业也有同样的问题。研究

have the same problems. So do researchers, scholars and scientists, all people who need to get information from websites – including Twitter, Facebook and Google – that the government blocks.	人员、学者和科学家也不例外，所有人都需要从政府封锁的网站（包括 Twitter、Facebook 和谷歌）获取信息。
What story was your greatest challenge working with these restrictions?	在这些限制下，哪篇报道是你最大的挑战？
All stories are a challenge. Everything. That's the point – the Great Firewall blocks so much.	每篇报道做起来都是挑战。所有一切。这就是重点——防火长城阻挡了非常多的东西。
The internet always slows to a crawl during Communist Party congresses, when the government believes it must keep everything controlled and calm. We are expecting the internet to be particularly slow this fall when the party holds a major meeting to re-elect President Xi Jinping as leader.	互联网总是在人大会议期间变成龟速，政府认为在会议期间必须保持一切东西受到控制，一切风平浪静。今年秋季网速应该特别慢，因为届时中共将举行重大会议，再次选举习近平为总书记。
What tools do you use to overcome the Great Firewall? What could be better about the tools, if anything?	你用什么工具来克服防火墙？这些工具可以变得更好吗，如果有区别的话？
I would like to see faster, more efficient VPNs that are not so vulnerable to Chinese hackers, who are world champions.	我想有更快更高效的 VPN，不要那么容易被水平一流的中国黑客攻陷。
Is government surveillance a concern for you? If so, how do you keep your work and communications private?	你担心政府的监视吗？如果是这样，你如何保证工作和通信中的隐私？
Surveillance in China is all-encompassing. There is no foolproof way to elude it. We are just reporters and we don't have anything to hide. There are CCTV cameras everywhere. We do take steps to protect our sources.	中国的监视是很全面的。没有绝对可靠的方式来避开它。我们只是记者，没有任何要遮遮掩掩的东西。每个地方都有监控摄像头。我们确实采取了措施来保护消息源。
The Chinese were way ahead of Americans in adopting messaging apps like WhatsApp and WeChat. What messaging app do you use the most?	在采用 WhatsApp 和微信之类的消息应用方面，中国人领先于美国人。你最常使用的消息应用是什么？
I use both WeChat and WhatsApp, though not a lot. By not using WeChat too much, I deny the prying eyes of the government the	我使用微信和 WhatsApp，尽管不是很多。微信用得少，政府就无法马上知道我在跟谁说话。但我不会试图隐藏任何东西。因为那是不可能的。上个月，

pleasure of knowing instantly whom I am talking to. But I do not try to hide anything. That's impossible. Last month, I was in the provinces and when I started to talk to someone on WhatsApp, I was immediately disconnected.	我到了中国的一些省份，当我用 WhatsApp 和别人交谈时，接连立刻就断开了。
Beyond your job, what tech product are you currently obsessed with using in your daily life and why?	除了工作之外，你在日常生活中常用的技术产品是什么，为什么？
Air Matters is a vital app for checking pollution levels. I can tell in the morning from my apartment in a high-rise building what the air is like. My measure is whether I can see the beautiful Beijing hills in the distance. On clear days, they stand out as a jagged ridge of blue. On bad days, you can't see them.	“在意空气”(Air Matters)是一个检查污染状况的重要应用。早晨，我可以在高层公寓判断空气状况。我的方法是，能否看到远处美丽的山丘。在晴朗的日子里，它们很清楚，看起来像蓝色的锯齿状山脊。在污染严重的日子里，你是看不到它们的。
Today the A.Q.I. (air quality index) in Beijing is 188, or moderately polluted. On Air Matters you can see the A.Q.I. in other Chinese cities – most are over 100 today.	今天北京的空气质量指数是 188，属于中度污染。“在意空气”上可以看到其他中国城市的空气质量指数，今天大多数城市都超过了 100。
And you can see the worst polluted place in the world. Today it is a city in the west of China, Aksu, with a level of 900 because of a sandstorm. I am glad I am not there.	你可以看到世界上污染最严重的地方在哪里。今天是中国西部的阿克苏，由于沙尘暴，指数达到了 900。很高兴我不在那里。
What Chinese online service or app do you use that Americans may not know about and why do you like it?	你在中国会用到什么美国人可能不大知道的网络服务或应用，以及你为什么喜欢它们？
I like Didi, the ride-hailing service. It's better than Uber. You can get an ordinary Beijing taxicab with a pleasantly cranky driver, grungy interior and an ultracheap fare. Or you can go high end, and get a Didi driver who comes in a spiffy car with a clean interior and bottled water.	我喜欢滴滴，它是个打车服务，比 Uber 好用。你可以叫到普通的北京出租车，司机有着讨人喜欢的坏脾气，车里有点脏，车费超便宜。你也可以要求高端的服务，来的是滴滴司机，开着好车，车内干净，还备有矿泉水。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170427/china-internet-controls-reporting	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170427/china-internet-controls-reporting

China Embraces Art for the People, by the People	“人民的艺术”在中国
BEIJING — Above rows of assembly line workers, a mix of provocative slogans and abstract paintings adorns the corrugated metal walls of the Bernard Controls factory in southern Beijing.	北京——在伯纳德控制设备（北京）有限公司位于北京城南的工厂里，一排排流水线工人的上方，激励人的口号和抽象派画作一起装饰着波纹状的金属墙壁。
In this unlikely setting, local artists and employees of the factory have spent the last six years producing artworks and performance pieces as part of a project managed by an Italian artist, Alessandro Rolandi. Called Social Sensibility, it is dedicated to injecting spontaneity and random exploration into the workplace.	在这种意想不到的环境下，本地的艺术家和工人过去六年里一直在创作艺术品和表演艺术作品。这是意大利艺术家李山(Alessandro Rolandi)管理的一个项目的一部分。这个项目叫“社会敏感性”(Social Sensibility)，致力于为工作场所注入自发性和随意的探索。
“I have no artistic aspirations. I just like fresh things and to gain more knowledge,” Wu Shuqing, 37, a worker on the assembly line, said about her participation. Despite having no previous film experience, she shot a 24-hour, black-and-white film called “Sensual Love of the Fingertips,” depicting her hands performing dexterous, repetitive tasks.	“我没有艺术追求，就是喜欢新鲜事物，想掌握更多知识，”37岁的流水线工人武淑清谈到参与该项目时说。尽管之前没有演电影的经验，但她拍摄了一部名为《指尖的性爱》的黑白电影，片长24小时。画面上，武淑清的手灵巧地做着重复性的工作。
Social Sensibility is just one example of a growing wave in China of so-called social practice art — work that is community-oriented, involves a high degree of participation by nonartists and has a strong focus on social issues.	“社会敏感性”只是中国日渐兴起的一股所谓的社会实践艺术浪潮中的一个例子。社会实践艺术是指以社区为导向的作品，涉及非艺术家的高度参与，强烈关注社会问题。
The artists behind these projects, frustrated by or even indifferent to the formal art world, often operate independently of galleries and museums, produce intangible or site-specific works that are not easily displayed, and embark on long-term undertakings that sometimes challenge what can be considered art.	这些项目背后的艺术家对正统的艺术界感到不满甚至不屑。他们的行动常常独立于美术馆和博物馆之外，创作难以确定的或场域特定、不容易陈列的作品，并开展长期任务，这些任务有时候会挑战艺术的定义。
Elements of social practice art are not new; artists have been producing highly participatory art since the Surrealists nearly a century ago, and	社会实践艺术的元素并不算新鲜。从近一个世纪前的超现实主义开始，艺术家们就一直在创作参与性很强的艺术作品。这类作品依然经常引起轰动（想

such work still tends to cause a splash (think Marina Abramovic's much-talked-about "The Artist Is Present"). But in more recent years, social practice art has slowly been gaining institutional recognition in North America and Europe, where museums and art foundations have begun encouraging more community-oriented art.	想玛丽娜·阿布拉莫维奇[Marina Abramovic]常被提起的“艺术家在此”[The Artist Is Present])。但近年来, 在北美和欧洲, 博物馆和艺术基金会开始鼓励创作更多以社区为导向的艺术作品, 社会实践艺术慢慢得到了体制的认可。
In 2005, the California College of the Arts in San Francisco started offering the first fine arts program with a concentration on social practice art, and the Guggenheim recently began a new social practice initiative. Amid much uproar, the prestigious Turner Prize was awarded in 2015 to Assemble, a British collective of architects who transform neglected public spaces through community engagement.	2005年, 位于旧金山的加州艺术学院(California College of the Arts)开设首门以社会实践艺术为重点的美术课程。古根海姆博物馆(Guggenheim)最近也启动了一个新的社会实践项目。2015年, 在巨大的争议声中, 颇有声望的特纳奖(Turner Prize)颁给了“Assemble”。这是英国的一群建筑设计师, 他们通过社区参与与改变未得到妥善看护的公共空间。
In China, critics and artists alike say that such art taps into both past and contemporary developments.	在中国, 评论人士和艺术家都认为这种艺术利用了过去和当代的发展。
"The sense of equality that was installed in our consciousness by socialist revolution had a huge impact on these artists. Social practice art has a socialist legacy," said Zheng Bo, an assistant professor at the City University of Hong Kong whose online gallery, A Wall, documents social practice art in the greater China region. "But beginning in the 1990s, Chinese contemporary art went through an export-oriented era, addressed to a foreign audience. Now we're going through a rebuilding of a local art language."	"社会主义革命在我们的意识中注入的平等观念, 对这些艺术家产生了巨大的影响。社会实践艺术受了社会主义的影响," 香港城市大学助理教授郑波说。他创立的在线美术馆“A Wall”记录了大中华地区的社会实践艺术。“但从90年代开始, 中国当代艺术经历了一个以出口为导向的时期, 都是针对外国观众的。现在, 我们正在经历本土艺术语言的重建。”
That language has largely been devoted to describing China's rapid transition from an agricultural country to an increasingly urban one. In the early 1980s, about 80 percent of people still lived in rural areas. Today, 56 percent of Chinese live in cities, while an additional 277	这种语言主要被用于描述中国从一个农业国家到一个城市化程度越来越高的国家的迅速转变。80年代初, 中国大约80%的人生活在农村地区。如今, 56%的中国人生活在城市里。另外, 每年还有2.77亿农村人口进城务工。全国性城镇化目标是到2020年, 再让1亿人搬到城市里。

million rural residents travel to cities for work each year. National urbanization goals aim to move 100 million more people into cities by 2020.
This monumental shift of citizens and resources has raised the overall standard of living but brought with it corresponding losses, scattering families and disrupting old ways of life.	民众和资源的这种巨大转变提升了总的生活水平，但同时也造成了相应的损失，导致家族成员分散在各地，扰乱了旧有的生活方式。
Themes of industrialization and urbanization, often symbolized by migrant workers, are not new to Chinese contemporary art. In 2001, the husband-and-wife team of Song Dong and Yin Xiuzhen created "Dancing With Migrants," hiring migrant workers to perform choreographed movements within gallery spaces. Another internationally recognized artist, Zhang Dali, made resin casts of migrant workers' bodies that were hung upside down from rafters in his 2003 series "Chinese Offspring."	对中国当代艺术来说，工业化和城镇化的主题——通常以农民工为象征——并不新鲜。2001年，宋冬和尹秀珍夫妇创作了《和民工跳舞》，雇佣农民工在美术馆里表演设计好的动作。另一位受到国际认可的艺术家庄大力在他2003年的系列作品《种族》中，把用树脂做的民工身体倒模倒挂在椽子上。
"The subjects weren't so much participants as they were treated like props to be used in the art pieces," says Madeline Eschenburg, a doctoral candidate at the University of Pittsburgh who studies contemporary Chinese art.	"这些表现对象不算参与者，因为他们像是被当成了艺术作品中的道具，"匹兹堡大学(University of Pittsburgh)研究中国当代艺术的博士研究生艾美林(Madeline Eschenburg)说。
By contrast, today's social practice artists engage with their subjects as collaborators, placing a premium on building a sense of community by attempting to counter the monotony of urban rhythms and ease the strains that contemporary life has put on interpersonal relationships.	相比之下，今天的社会实践艺术家把表现对象当做合作者，重视建立一种社区感，试图对抗城市节奏的单调乏味，并缓解当代生活给人际关系带来的压力。
"As society goes through demolition and urbanization, the biggest changes happen on the level of human relationships," said the Shanghai-based artist Chen Yun. "Trust, care and mutual exchange:	"随着社会经历拆迁和城市化进程，最大的变化发生在人际关系层面，"上海艺术家陈韵说。"信任、关怀和相互交流：这些都是你看待人际关系的方式方法造成的。"

These are all created by how you see human relationships.”
For the last three years, Ms. Chen has been assembling a visual and textual record of Dinghaiqiao, a historic industrial district in Shanghai now on the verge of being demolished, a task that links her work to sociological research and investigative journalism. The interviews she has conducted inspired her to begin a “mutual aid” society staffed by volunteers who provide art lessons, cooking classes and discussion groups for community residents.	过去3年来，陈韵一直在为定海桥编撰一份视觉和文字记录。定海桥是上海的历史性工业区，目前正在拆除中，这项工作将她的社会学研究和调查新闻工作连接到一起。采访的过程启发她开办了一个由志愿者参与的“互助”组织，为社区居民提供艺术课、烹饪课和讨论组。
Yet she stresses that her project does not do the same sort of work as nongovernmental organizations. “We are not here to provide a community with services but rather to encourage collaboration, interaction and the accumulation of knowledge,” she said.	但她强调，她的项目与非政府组织做的工作并不相同。“我们并不是来这里为社区提供服务，而是来鼓励合作、互动和知识积累的，”她说。
Through this continuing interaction, artists hope to have a positive effect on the lives of their collaborators.	通过这种持续的互动，艺术家们希望对合作者的生活产生积极的影响。
“Art has given me self-confidence,” Li Baoyuan, 51, a resident of Shijiezi, a remote village in the northwestern Chinese province of Gansu, said by telephone. He was one of the first participants in “Fly Together,” a project managed by the artists Jin Le, a native of Shijiezi, and Qin Ga, which brings in artists to work with local residents in making site-specific artworks using local materials.	“艺术给了我自信，”51岁的李保元在接受电话采访时说。他是中国西北部甘肃省偏远的石节子村的居民，也是“一起飞”项目的第一批参与者之一。该项目由艺术家靳勒和琴嘎管理，靳勒是石节子本地人，琴嘎带来一些艺术家与当地居民一起合作，用当地材料制作特定地点艺术作品。
The project has attracted positive attention from county officials, who installed solar-powered street lighting in the village in 2010, as well as other artists, who in 2013 donated money to provide the village with running water. In October, Mr. Li came to Beijing as part of a talk about “Fly Together.”	该项目引起了县级官员和其他艺术家的积极关注。2010年，县里给村子安装了太阳能路灯；2013年，其他艺术家捐款给该村安装了自来水系统。去年10月，李保元来到北京，参加“一起飞”项目的讨论活动。

"Art is the reason I am able to stand in front of you," he told the audience. "Art is what has allowed me to meet so many talented people."	"艺术是我能站在你们面前的原因,"他对观众说,"艺术让我遇到了这么多有才华的人。"
Other artists, seeking to reconnect with hometowns they abandoned before those towns disappear, have sought to bridge the urban and rural worlds.	还有一些艺术家想在自己放弃的故乡消失之前与它们重新建立联系,把城市和农村连接起来。
For the last five years, Chao Hewen has been traveling between Beijing and his hometown for his project "In Transit." The village, located less than a mile from the capital of Yunnan Province, Kunming, has been pulled into the city's orbit in recent years. Mr. Chao has tried to mirror the outbound migration that has emptied the village by bringing in a small group of artists each year to create works like "Intermittence," a short film about women from the Naxi minority group, and "Bridge," a sculptural piece assembled by villagers out of borrowed wooden chairs.	过去五年来,晁贺文(音)为了自己的项目"过境"在北京和家乡之间穿梭。近几年,这座离云南省省会昆明不到一英里的村庄被吸入该市的轨道。晁贺文想反映已掏空这个村子的人员外流问题,他每年带一小组艺术家来这里搞创作,完成了《续断》和《桥》等作品。《续断》是一部关于纳西族妇女的短片;《桥》是村民用借来的木椅组装的雕塑作品。
"Whether in villages or cities, everyone experiences issues of demolition, rapid changes to our communities, questions of memory," Mr. Chao said. "But within Beijing art circles, we get caught up in our false problems, whereas in the countryside, we can have more authentic experiences and adjust our old ways of thinking anew."	"不管在农村还是城市,每个人都会遇到拆迁、社区快速变化和回忆中的疑问等问题,"晁说,"但在北京艺术圈,我们被一些虚假的问题困住了,而在农村,我们可以拥有更多真实的体验,重新调整旧有的思维模式。"
Not everything connected with these projects goes smoothly. The open-ended nature of social practice art means it is plagued by miscommunication and logistical glitches, its makers frequently facing skepticism from local people.	不是所有与这些项目相关的事情都进行得很顺利。社会实践艺术的开放性意味着它容易被沟通不畅和后勤障碍所困扰,它的发起者经常面临当地人的质疑。
During the first year of "In Transit," the Beijing-based artist He Congyue tried to gather the entire village for a portrait, but only about a tenth of	在"过境"制作的第一年,北京艺术家何聪岳(音)想把全村人聚起来拍一张照片,但只有十分之一的村民参与。不过最后这张照片在村里展出时引起轰

the villagers showed up. Eventually, however, the photograph caused a buzz in the village when it was displayed, and the artist went door to door inviting residents to pose again. This time, twice as many people came, some even taking time off from their work elsewhere to travel home and participate.	动，然后这位艺术家挨家挨户上门邀请村民再次拍照。这一次来的人是上次的两倍，有的甚至是从其他地方请假回家来参与拍摄。
It is precisely that kind of slow progress and relationship-building that is at the heart of social practice art, said Mr. Rolandi of Social Sensibility.	“社会敏感性”项目的罗兰迪表示，社会实践艺术的核心正是这种缓慢的进步和关系建设。
“I don’t think the art itself is really the point,” he said of his own project. “Radicalness and subversiveness today means creating something that grows and doesn’t just shock.”	他谈起自己的项目时表示，“我认为艺术本身不是重点，如今的激进和颠覆意味着要创造一些不断发展的东西，而不仅仅是让人震撼的东西。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170427/china-social-practice-art	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170427/china-social-practice-art
He Tweeted About Chinese Government Corruption. Twitter Suspended His Account.	指控中共高层腐败，郭文贵 Twitter 账号被封 4 小时
Twitter on Wednesday briefly suspended the account of a Chinese-born billionaire who was using the social media service to publicize allegations of corruption against top Communist Party officials.	周三，Twitter 暂停了一位中国出生的亿万富翁的账户。此人使用该社交媒体服务公布对共产党高官腐败的指控。
The billionaire, Guo Wengui, also known as Miles Kwok, had in recent days added tens of thousands of followers to his account, @KwokMiles, where he posted screenshots of documents that he said suggested corruption at the highest levels of the Chinese government. China, where Twitter has a minimal presence and is blocked by the authorities, considers Mr. Guo to be a criminal. A Chinese official said last week that Interpol, the global police organization, had issued a global request for his arrest.	近些天，亿万富豪郭文贵（又名迈尔斯·郭[Miles Kwok]）的 Twitter 账户 @KwokMiles 多了数万名关注者，他在自己的主页上发布了一些他认为能表明中国政府最高层腐败的文件截图。Twitter 在中国遭到当局封锁，用户非常少。该国认定郭是罪犯。上周，一名中国官员表示，国际刑警组织(Interpol)已对他发出全球通缉令。

Nicholas Pacilio, a spokesman for Twitter, declined to comment.	Twitter 发言人尼古拉斯·帕奇利奥(Nicholas Pacilio)拒绝置评。
Mr. Guo's account was apparently suspended for about four hours before it was restored after inquiries from members of the news media. Twitter normally suspends accounts if they are deemed to be sending out spam, if they appear to have been "hacked or compromised" or if they engage in "abusive behavior," according to the company's website.	郭的账户显然被封了约四个小时，在新闻媒体询问后才恢复。据该公司网站称，如果 Twitter 发现某个账户似乎在发送垃圾信息，“遭到入侵或泄露”，或出现“滥用行为”，会暂停该帐户。
Twitter considers the posting of private information, like identification numbers, without the consent of those involved to be abusive behavior. In recent days, Mr. Guo had posted two screenshots that contained the Chinese national identification numbers of several people. When his account was restored, those screenshots had been removed.	Twitter 认为未经当事人同意发布私人信息属于滥用行为，比如泄露身份证号码。最近几天，郭发布了两张截图，包含几个人的身份证号码。他的账户恢复后，那些截图已被删除。
In recent days, Mr. Guo was in New York. He has said publicly that he does not have a Chinese passport. The suspension of his Twitter account came days after his Facebook account was suspended in what the company called a mistake.	郭文贵近日在纽约。他已公开表示，他没有中国护照。在他的 Twitter 账户被暂时停用之前几天，他的 Facebook 帐户也被暂停，该公司称之为失误。
Mr. Guo has done business with family members of top Communist Party officials, and he had a close working relationship with one of China's top spies. His recent public denunciations appear to have alarmed Beijing.	郭文贵曾与共产党高官的家属做生意，并曾与中国间谍机关的一名负责人有密切的工作关系。他最近的公开谴责似乎引起了北京的警惕。
On April 19, Mr. Guo appeared in a televised interview with Voice of America's Chinese-language service, during which he accused one of China's most senior leaders of corruption. China summoned Voice of America's Beijing reporter to the Foreign Ministry and contacted it in Washington through its embassy, urging the news service, which is part of the United States government but is run independently, to cancel the	4月19日，郭文贵在美国之音中文频道的电视采访中现身，指控中国一位最高级别领导人存在腐败。中国把美国之音的北京记者召集到外交部，通过大使馆与华盛顿的美国之音联系，敦促该新闻机构取消该采访。美国之音隶属美国政府，但独立运作。 interview.

Mr. Guo did not respond to a request for comment.	郭文贵没有回应置评请求。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170427/guo-wengui-chinese-billionaire-twitter	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170427/guo-wengui-chinese-billionaire-twitter
Wealthy Chinese Scramble for Imperiled Commodity: U.S. 'Golden Visa'	美移民政策恐有变，中国人慌忙申请“黄金签证”
BEIJING — He has a lakeside villa valued at more than $3 million, two Mercedes sedans in the garage and a butler who fluffs his pillows and shines his shoes.	北京——他拥有一座价值 300 多万美元的湖畔别墅，车库里有两辆梅赛德斯轿车，还有一名管家，为他拍打枕头，擦亮皮鞋。
But Liu Xiyu, a real estate executive in Beijing, still lacks the convenience he says he most wants in life: an American green card.	不过北京房地产高管刘西玉（音）生活中最想要的一个便利却仍然欠缺：一张美国绿卡。
Fed up with China's rampant air pollution and the rigid school system his children endure, Mr. Liu pledged $500,000 to a California housing development last year in hopes of obtaining a special visa for investors, known as EB-5, which would allow his family to spend more time in the United States.	他受够了中国肆虐的空气污染和子女承受的僵硬的学校制度，刘西玉去年承诺向加州的一个房地产开发项目出资 50 万美元，希望获得 EB-5 投资者特别签证，这样他和家人就可以更多地待在美国了。
Now, President Trump's vow to tighten immigration policies and new scrutiny after a series of fraud and abuse scandals have spurred thousands of Chinese applicants like Mr. Liu to seek a visa before more stringent requirements can be put in place.	现在，在一系列欺诈和职权滥用丑闻之后，特朗普总统发誓要收紧移民政策，开展新的审查，这促使数以千计像刘西玉这样的中国申请人寻求在更严格的规定落实到位之前获得签证。
Lawmakers are discussing the EB-5 program this week as they try to reach a deal on the budget and avert a government shutdown.	立法者本周在试图对预算达成协议，避免政府停摆的同时，也讨论了 EB-5 项目。
"I'm trying to help America's economy grow," Mr. Liu, 47, said. "I don't understand why anyone would be opposed."	47 岁的刘西玉说：“我想帮助美国发展经济。我不明白为什么有人会反对。”
Wealthy Chinese families, eager to move money out of China, have rushed to obtain green cards through the EB-5 program in recent years.	渴望将资金从中国转出的富有家庭，近年来急于通过 EB-5 项目获得绿卡。2016 年的大约 1 万份投资者签证中，有四分之三都被中国公民获得。

In 2016, three-quarters of the roughly 10,000 investor visas issued went to Chinese citizens.
The program, sometimes referred to as a "golden visa," has helped attract billions of dollars of investment in hotels, highways, casinos and other projects in the United States.	这个项目有时被称为“黄金签证”，已经帮助美国的酒店、高速公路、赌场和其他项目吸引了数以十亿计的美元。
It has also prompted concerns about abuse, including a $50 million fraud investigation in Los Angeles this month involving more than 100 people, including Chinese citizens.	但它也引发了对滥用的担忧，包括本月洛杉矶一起 5000 万美元欺诈案的调查，这个案件涉及 100 多人，其中包括中国公民。
The program poses a dilemma for Mr. Trump, who has vowed to tighten immigration policies, but who is also eager to promote job creation.	该项目让特朗普面临两难困境，一方面他誓言要收紧移民政策，另一方面他也渴望促进就业的增长。
Since taking office, he has sought better economic relations with China after assailing the country during the presidential campaign. And as businessmen, Mr. Trump and his son-in-law and adviser, Jared Kushner, embraced the EB-5 program to help finance real estate projects.	他在总统竞选过程中抨击中国，但上任以来，却寻求和中国培养更好的经济关系。作为商人，特朗普及其女婿、顾问贾里斯·库什纳(Jared Kushner)认可 EB-5 项目，以帮助房地产项目获得融资。
In China, many visa applicants hope that Mr. Trump will examine the issue from a business perspective. They say they agree with the president's call for stricter immigration policies, but they have said he should focus on illegal immigrants, not investors.	在中国，很多签证申请人都希望特朗普从商业角度审视这个问题。他们说自己赞成特朗普收紧移民的政策，但他们表示要把重点放在非法移民而不是投资者身上。
Li Jing, an entrepreneur from Beijing who applied for an investor visa two years ago, said it was unfair that the United States let immigrants without authorization live in the country but turned away Chinese investors seeking visas through legal means.	来自北京的企业家李静（音）在两年前申请了投资移民签证，她表示，美国让非法移民留下，却把通过合法手段寻求签证的中国投资者拒之门外，这很不公平。
Ms. Li invested $500,000 in a highway project in Georgia, hoping to get a green card so she could join her son, who is studying at a military	李静在乔治亚州的一个高速公路项目中投资了 50 万美元以便获得绿卡，加入她正在该州一所军事院校学习的儿子。她说，中国城市的房地产市场很繁

academy in the state. She said a booming real estate market in Chinese cities was making it easier for families to sell homes and use the money to invest.	荣，所以人们出售房屋并用这些钱来投资比较容易。
"The most important thing is education for the kids," she said. "Chinese parents are willing to spend anything. They're trying to give the next generation the best they can provide."	"最重要的是孩子的教育，"她说。"中国的父母愿意付出任何代价，来为下一代提供力所能及的最好东西。"
The EB-5 program, created in 1990, allows foreigners and their immediate relatives to apply for permanent residency in the United States if they invest $500,000 in projects that create at least 10 jobs in rural regions or areas with high unemployment. They can also become eligible by investing $1 million in projects in other areas.	EB-5 项目成立于 1990 年，它允许外国人及其直系亲属在美国申请永久居留权，但他们需要在农村地区或失业率高的地区投资 50 万美元，至少产生 10 个工作岗位，或者也可以选择在其他区域投资 100 万美元。
The program has been so popular that there is a backlog of more than 20,000 applications, resulting in delays of up to five years for green cards. Still, many Chinese say they are willing to wait.	这个项目非常受欢迎，以至于积压了 2 万 multiple 份申请，最长要拖五年绿卡才能批下来。不过很多中国人说他们愿意等。
Wei Chi, 23, applied for an EB-5 visa two years ago after he was unable to secure a work visa through his employer. His parents in Guangzhou, a southern Chinese city, provided the $500,000 he needed to qualify for the program, which he invested in an apartment building in Washington.	23 岁的魏驰（音）两年前因雇主无法办理工作签证而申请了 EB-5 签证。他父母来自中国南方城市广州，他们提供了 50 万美元，让他在华盛顿投资了一座公寓大楼。
"All I can do now is wait," said Mr. Wei, a management consultant who lives in New York on a student visa.	魏驰是一名管理顾问，现在靠留学生签证留在纽约，他说："我现在所能做的事情就是等。"
Some American officials are more skeptical. Senator Dianne Feinstein, Democrat of California, and Senator Charles E. Grassley, Republican of Iowa, introduced legislation in January to eliminate the program, pointing to Ponzi schemes and high-profile cases of abuse. Lawmakers	一些官员对这个项目疑心比较大。来自加利福尼亚州的共和党参议员黛安娜·范斯坦(Dianne Feinstein)和来自艾奥瓦州的共和党参议员查尔斯·E·格拉斯利(Charles E. Grassley)在今年 1 月提出了消除该项目的立法，称它导致了庞氏骗局和引人注目的滥用案件。立法者也对投资者安全背景调查不充分表

have also raised concerns about inadequate background checks of investors.	示了担忧。
Ms. Feinstein said the program suggested American citizenship was for sale. "It is wrong to have a special pathway to citizenship for the wealthy while millions wait in line for visas," she said in a statement.	范斯坦说，这个项目显得好像美国公民身份可以出售似的。她说：“数以百万的人正在等待签证，为富人提供一条特殊的公民资格通道是不对的。”
Some lawmakers are concerned that the EB-5 program favors big cities at the expense of rural regions — an argument that Mr. Trump may be sensitive to, analysts say, given his political support in those areas.	一些立法者也担心，EB-5 项目以农村地区的发展为代价，令大城市获益——鉴于特朗普在农村地区获得的政治支持，分析人士指出，他可能会对这个说法很敏感。
Rather than scrap the program, some have suggested raising the minimum amount required to invest, to $1.35 million from the current threshold of $500,000. Others support encouraging investment in rural areas by setting aside a block of visas for those who invest there.	有些人建议不要取消项目，而是将投资的最低金额从目前的 50 万美元提高到 135 万美元。其他人则认为应该鼓励在农村投资，为他们留下一部分签证。
The Trump administration has remained largely silent on the future of the program, though some analysts argue that Mr. Trump may be supportive of it, given his background in real estate. One of Mr. Kushner's projects, a Trump-branded luxury apartment tower in Jersey City, received nearly a quarter of its financing, about $50 million, from Chinese investors.	特朗普政府对该项目的未来仍然保持沉默，不过一些分析师认为，鉴于他在房地产业方面的背景，特朗普可能会支持该项目。库什纳在泽西市有一个特朗普品牌的豪华公寓楼项目，从中国投资者那里获得了近四分之一的融资，大约 5000 万美元。
"It could be the one immigration program that they are willing to accept," said Stephen W. Yale-Loehr, an immigration law professor at Cornell Law School. "If done correctly, it creates jobs for U.S. workers."	"这可能是他们唯一愿意接受的移民项目。"康奈尔法学院的移民发教授史蒂芬·W·耶尔-勒尔(Stephen W. Yale-Loehr)表示："如果设计得当，它可以为美国工人创造就业机会。"
In anticipation of changes to the program under Mr. Trump, applications for investor visas in China have surged over the past several months, lawyers said.	律师表示，由于预计特朗普政府会修改这个项目，过去几个月里，来自中国投资者的申请数量出现了飙升。
The Chinese government, hoping to prevent a potentially destabilizing	中国经济在放缓，政府希望防止资金急速流出，引发不稳定，因此最近实行

rush of money out of the country as the economy slows, has recently imposed strict currency controls. Still, investors in the EB-5 program have found ways around those rules, by using offshore accounts, for example.	了严格的货币管制措施。尽管如此，EB-5 项目的投资者通过离岸账户等方法绕过了这些规则。
"Many are motivated by the fear that this will be their last chance to get a better deal," said Gu Ouwen, an immigration lawyer in Beijing. Wealthy families also see the program as a way of shielding their assets from political winds in China, he added.	北京移民律师顾欧文（音）说：“很多人担心这将是他们获得更好交易的最后机会了。”他还表示，中国的富人也将该项目视为保护资产免受政治风暴冲击的一种方式。
Mr. Liu, the real estate executive, said he would continue to wait for a visa, though he said he worried about his 11-year-old son's health and education in Beijing.	房地产高管刘西玉表示，他将继续等待签证，但他说自己很担心 11 岁的儿子在北京的健康和教育状况。
"If President Trump really wants to put America first," he said, "he has to let Chinese investors through the door."	"如果特朗普总统真的想把美国放在第一位，"他说，"他必须让中国投资者走进门。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170428/china-eb-5-golden-visa	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170428/china-eb-5-golden-visa
Hong Kong Protest Organizers Arrested Ahead of Expected Visit by China's President	香港逮捕多名活动人士，被指为习近平访港“清场”
HONG KONG — The Hong Kong police arrested nine pro-democracy activists on Thursday, adding to a recent crackdown said to be aimed at defanging opposition protests ahead of an expected visit by President Xi Jinping of China in July.	香港——当地警方周四拘捕了九名亲民主活动人士，增加了最近的打压力度。据称此举是为了在中国国家主席习近平定于 7 月份访问香港之前，让反对派的抗议活动失效。
"They want to silence the opposition and discourage the general public from participating in protests," said Avery Ng, chairman of the League of Social Democrats and one of the nine people arrested over their roles in a November protest against China's move to block two separatists from taking office as local legislators.	"他们要让反对派噤声，阻止广大公众参加抗议活动，"社会民主连线主席吴文远说，他是九名被捕者之一。这九人在去年 11 月组织了反对中央政府阻止两个分离主义者就职当地立法会的抗议活动，这是他们被捕的原因。

The arrests on Thursday followed a series of recent legal actions against opposition politicians and protest organizers in Hong Kong, a former British colony, and came just two months before the 20th anniversary of its return to Chinese rule, when President Xi is expected to visit the semiautonomous territory.	周四的逮捕行动发生在最近对香港反对派政治人士和抗议活动组织者采取的一系列法律行动之后，也是在英国前殖民地香港的主权回归中国 20 周年纪念日的两个月前，习近平主席预计将要访问这片半自治的领土。
Pro-democracy groups are planning large protests against what they see as Beijing's tightening grip on the city's freedom, supposedly guaranteed under an arrangement known as "one country, two systems." The groups have increasingly called for greater autonomy, if not independence, from China.	亲民主团体正在组织一场大规模的抗议活动，反对他们认为是北京在打压香港自由的做法。在被称为“一国两制”的安排之下，这些自由应该得到保障。这些团体要求更大自主权的呼声已经越来越高，如果不从中国独立出去的话。
On Wednesday, two pro-independence politicians, Yau Wai-ching and Sixtus Leung, and three of their assistants were charged over their attempt to enter Hong Kong's legislative chamber after it refused to swear them in because they inserted anti-China snubs into their oaths of office.	周三，两名支持独立的政治人士游蕙桢和梁颂恒、以及他们的三名助手因试图进入香港立法会而受到指控，立法会拒绝让他们两人宣誓就职，因为他们在自己的誓词中加入了怠慢中国的言辞。
Last month, the Hong Kong authorities brought criminal charges against nine other protest organizers, including the three founders of the huge protests in 2014 that paralyzed streets in several parts of the city for weeks.	上个月，香港当局对另外九名抗议活动组织者提出了刑事指控，其中包括 2014 年大规模抗议活动的三名创始人，那次抗议活动让香港几个街区的道路瘫痪了好几周。
"The Hong Kong government is trying to prove that everything is under control before Xi Jinping's visit and avoid large-scale protests by targeting active organizers," said Joshua Wong, who during the 2014 protests became the teenage face of Hong Kong's resistance to Chinese encroachment on its freedoms.	"香港政府正试图想证明，在习近平来访之前，一切都在他们的控制之下，当局通过打击活跃的组织者来避免发生大规模抗议活动，"黄之锋说。他在 2014 年的抗议活动中成为香港抗拒中央政府侵蚀其自由的青少年代表。
The nine arrested on Thursday, including two members of Mr. Wong's	周四被捕的九人中包括黄之锋所在的“香港众志”(Demosisto)党的两名成员。

party, Demosisto, face charges including unlawful assembly and disorderly conduct in public, they told reporters after they were released on bail Thursday afternoon. The Hong Kong police could not immediately confirm the charges.	周四下午交保获释后，被捕者对记者说，他们面临非法集结和扰乱公共秩序的指控。香港警方没有马上对这些指控表示确认。
Mr. Wong said his party was planning to stage a “large civil disobedience protest” on July 1, which could embarrass President Xi, as he is expected to participate in celebratory events as well as swear in the next chief executive of Hong Kong, Carrie Lam, a longtime civil servant trusted by Beijing.	黄之锋说，他的党派正计划在7月1日举行“大规模的公民不服从抗议活动”，这可能会让习近平感到难堪，因为他预计将来香港参加庆祝活动，并主持下任行政长官林郑月娥的宣誓就职仪式，林郑月娥是北京信任的资深公务员。
“We’re facing a greater challenge,” Mr. Wong said, but “we will not back down.”	“我们正面临着更大的挑战，”黄之锋说，“但我们不会退缩。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170428/hong-kong-protest-arrests-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170428/hong-kong-protest-arrests-china
Anbang, Chinese Company With Global Reach, Faces New Scrutiny	财新揭安邦虚增资本，吴小晖威胁将起诉
BEIJING — Wu Xiaohui, the Chinese tycoon who was in failed talks with President Trump’s son-in-law, Jared Kushner, to buy into a skyscraper project in Manhattan, is fighting doubts about his future and has threatened to sue a Chinese magazine that examined his company’s labyrinthine financing.	北京——曾与特朗普总统的女婿贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)谈判购买曼哈顿一座摩天大楼项目的股份、但未成功的中国大亨吴小晖，正在与怀疑其未来的人争辩，并威胁要起诉一家调查他的公司错综复杂的融资关系的中国杂志。
The Anbang Insurance Group, which Mr. Wu controls as president and chief executive, said on Sunday that it would take legal action against Caixin Media and its editor in chief, Hu Shuli, after Caixin Weekly magazine questioned whether Anbang was as financially robust as the company claimed.	安邦保险集团的控股董事长兼首席执行官吴小晖周日表示，安邦将对财新传媒及其主编胡舒立提起诉讼，此前《财新周刊》曾发表文章质疑安邦的财务是否真像公司声称的那样强劲。
“Anbang’s shareholder structure is like a maze,” Caixin said in an article	财新在周六在线发表、周一付印的一篇文章中说，“安邦的股东结构犹如一

published online on Saturday and in print on Monday. It said that Anbang's meteoric growth and acquisitions raised suspicions of financial sleight of hand, including capital injections coming from companies linked to Mr. Wu.	个迷魂阵。”文章说，安邦资本的迅速增长以及其大手笔的收购引发了人们对公司财务手法、包括来自与吴小晖有关公司的资本注入的怀疑。
"The left hand has been helping the right hand to inflate capital," the article said.	"左手倒右手虚增资本，"文章说。
Anbang hit back with its own incendiary accusations. Caixin is a widely respected economics weekly, and its findings echoed an extensive report on Anbang by The New York Times last year. But Anbang suggested on Sunday that Caixin had published its report after failing to squeeze advertising orders and other contributions from Anbang.	安邦用它自己的煽动性指责予以回击。财新是广受尊重的经济周刊，财新这篇文章的发现与《纽约时报》去年发表的一篇安邦深度报道的内容有很多相符的地方。但安邦在周日暗示，财新是在未能从安邦勒索到广告订单和其他赞助的情况下，才发了这篇报道。
According to Anbang, Caixin falsely claimed that Mr. Wu had married three times and "made a series of smears and slanders against our company's legitimate business activities." The marriage allegation appeared to refer to a report in Caixin in 2015.	照安邦的说法，财新对吴小晖结过三次婚的报道不实，财新传媒“对公司的合法经营活动进行一系列的抹黑和污蔑。”对婚姻报道的指控似乎指的是财新2015年的一篇文章。
Caixin responded to Anbang's threat to sue with its own threat of litigation. On its website on Monday, Caixin said the suggestion that it took on Anbang out of vengefulness was "an attempt at framing with no basis in facts."	财新用自己的起诉威胁回应了安邦的威胁。财新周一在其网站上表示，财新是为了报复才对安邦进行揭露报道的暗示“是罔顾事实的构陷之举”。
"We strongly condemn the slander in the Anbang statement and reserve the right to take legal recourse," Caixin said. A director of communications at Caixin, Ma Ling, declined to answer questions and referred to the online statement.	"对安邦声明之诬蔑行为，我司予以强烈谴责，并保留法律追诉的权利，"财新说。财新传媒的通讯主管马玲除了指出公司的在线声明外，拒绝回答问题。
Caixin's latest report on Anbang has been part of a burst of unwelcome attention for the company and Mr. Wu, which has thrown into doubt	财新的最近这篇报道，对安邦集团和吴小晖来说，是一次不需要的关注爆发的一部分，报道让人们对于吴小晖的商业头脑和政治上不会受伤害的声誉产生

his business acumen and his reputation for political invulnerability.	了怀疑。
"The level of detail that is provided in the article is, I think, relatively unique for any type of story of a Chinese company in Chinese media," Christopher Balding, an associate professor at the Peking University HSBC Business School in the southern Chinese city of Shenzhen, said by telephone.	设在深圳的北京大学汇丰商学院的副教授克里斯托弗·鲍尔丁(Christopher Balding)在电话中说,“我觉得,这篇文章中提供的细节,对中国媒体有关中国公司的任何形式的报道来说,都相当独一无二。”
A lawsuit would pit a company that has recently appeared politically vulnerable against a magazine that has proved skilled at navigating censorship to report on corruption and financial shenanigans in China.	诉讼将让一家最近似乎在政治上显得脆弱的公司与一家已被证明在报道中国腐败问题和金融把戏上能设法通过审查的杂志对簿公堂。
The controversy over Anbang has come while the Chinese Communist Party government under President Xi Jinping is seeking stability ahead of a leadership turnover later this year. But Mr. Xi also vowed in late April to rid China's banks, insurers and other financial companies of excessive risk. Last month, Xiang Junbo, the chief regulator of Chinese insurers, including Anbang, was put under investigation by party anticorruption investigators.	中国的领导班子将在今年晚些时候换届,在那之前,国家主席习近平正在寻求稳定,而关于安邦的争议恰好出现在这个时刻。不过,习近平也曾在四月下旬发誓,要消除中国的银行、保险公司和其他金融企业风险过高的隐患。上个月,监管包括安邦在内的中国保险公司的主要负责人项俊波已经在接受中共反腐败机构调查员的调查。
The questions raised by the article, and by the possibility of a lawsuit, may test whether the desire for stability will outweigh the government's vows to take on nettlesome financial issues.	财新文章中提到的问题、以及法律诉讼的可能性,可能会检验政府企盼稳定的愿望是否会压倒政府想处理棘手金融问题的愿望。
"Anbang is definitely a little bit more extreme and more aggressive than other Chinese insurance companies," Mr. Balding said. "But at the same time, if you look at the finances of the insurance industry at large, and at individual insurance companies, their revenue and building and things like that were exploding by just astounding rates in the past few years."	"安邦的做法肯定比中国其他保险公司的更极端、更声势浩大,"鲍尔丁说。"但与此同时,如果你看一下整个保险行业的财务状况,看一下每家保险公司的财务状况,你会看到它们的收入和建筑等东西都在过去几年里有惊人的增长。"

Guo Wengui, a Chinese businessman who fled abroad, has added to the recent jitters in Beijing by publicizing allegations — many of them lurid and difficult to corroborate — of corruption reaching into the party elite. Mr. Guo has also clashed with Caixin.	流离国外的中国商人郭文贵最近公开指控共产党精英中的腐败问题——其中有许多骇人听闻、难以证实的东西，他的做法增加了北京的紧张不安。郭文贵也与财新发生过冲突。
Mr. Wu’s family and personal ties are at the heart of the growing questions about Anbang, which he co-founded in 2004.	吴小晖的家庭和个人的关系是对安邦越来越多疑问的核心，安邦是他在2004年与他人共同创建的。
He has been a member by marriage of China’s political and business aristocracy: He married a granddaughter of Deng Xiaoping, the Communist patriarch who oversaw China’s market reforms in the 1980s. Mr. Wu also came close to sealing a partnership with American political royalty through Mr. Kushner, the New York developer who is a son-in-law and adviser of Mr. Trump.	他通过婚姻成为中国政治和商业贵族的一员：他与邓小平的一个外孙女结了婚，邓小平是在20世纪80年代推动中国搞市场经济改革的共产党领导人。吴小晖还差点通过库什纳与美国的政坛要人做成一笔生意，身为纽约开发商的库什纳是特朗普的女婿兼顾问。
Anbang was in talks with Mr. Kushner’s family company to pay $400 million for a stake in a flagship skyscraper on Fifth Avenue in Manhattan. Anbang bought the Waldorf Astoria hotel, a popular venue on the New York social calendar, in 2014 as part of a spree of acquisitions.	安邦曾与库什纳家族的公司进行谈判，想购买该家族位于曼哈顿第五大道一座主要摩天大楼的4亿美元的股份。安邦已在2014年购买了在纽约社交日历上有重要地位的华尔道夫酒店。
But the deal with Mr. Kushner’s company foundered in March, in the wake of growing controversy about a presidential in-law doing business with a Chinese conglomerate with many ties to Beijing’s political elite. Mr. Kushner has also become an influential White House adviser to Mr. Trump, including on China policy.	不过，安邦与库什纳家族的交易今年3月没做成，这主要是由于有关总统女婿与一家与北京的政治精英有很多联系的中国企业集团做生意的争议日益激烈。库什纳也已成为包括在中国政策上对特朗普有很大影响的白宫顾问。
Anbang’s international luster had already dulled after it withdrew an application last year to buy an Iowa insurer, Fidelity & Guaranty Life, and also shelved a $14 billion bid to buy Starwood Hotels and Resorts.	安邦去年撤回了购买爱荷华州保险公司信保人寿(Fidelity & Guaranty Life)的申请后，公司的国际光泽已经开始失色，安邦还放弃了以140亿美元购买喜达屋酒店及度假村的投标。在这些交易失败之前，美国的投资者和监管机

Before those deals foundered, American investors and regulators raised doubts about Anbang’s opaque ownership and its financial strength.	构已经对安邦不透明的股东结构和财务实力提出了质疑。
Now Caixin has laid out similar doubts for its readers. The Chinese news media had already raised questions about Anbang’s spending spree, but Caixin stepped into more sensitive territory by examining the group’s ownership and accounts in painstaking detail.	现在，财新也把类似的质疑呈现在其读者面前。虽然中国的新闻媒体已经对安邦的收购狂潮提出了疑问，但是，财新的报道通过仔细调查安邦的股东结构和账本，涉及了更敏感的东西。
In 18 months from October 2014, Caixin estimated, Anbang had spent $16 billion on overseas acquisitions. But Caixin also said Anbang’s successive injections of capital, which have helped finance these deals, appeared to often involve companies linked to Mr. Wu’s relatives and associates, raising the possibility that they were not real injections by outside investors.	据财新估计，在自 2011 年 10 月起的 18 个月里，安邦在海外收购上已经花了 160 亿美元。但财新也说，安邦为帮助这些交易进行的连续几轮资本注入，似乎往往涉及与吴小晖的亲属和同事有关的公司，增加了这些资本注入不是来自外部投资者的真实投资的可能性。
Anbang appeared to have “used circular injections of funding to magnify its capital,” the report said.	财新报道说，安邦看来已“通过循环出资放大资本”。
The Caixin report said those doubts were reinforced by Anbang’s complicated ownership. Many of those companies registered under obscure addresses, with little capital registered in their names, and often they were formed in clusters shortly before they bought into Anbang – findings that echo the Times report. The names, addresses and other details of dozens of people registered as holding shares suggested that they were Mr. Wu’s relatives and associates.	财新报道说，这些疑问被安邦错综复杂的股东结构强化。许多持股公司用鲜为人知的地址注册，它们名下几乎没有注册资金，而且经常是在购买安邦之前集中注册成立的，这些调查结果与时报的报道相符。几十名登记为持股人的姓名、地址及其他细节表明，他们是吴小晖的亲戚和同事。
Until recent days, Anbang was mostly silent about the reports on Mr. Wu and the group’s finances, including internet-born rumors that he had been held as part of a criminal investigation. No Chinese officials have said anything to suggest that Mr. Wu was detained or under	直到最近几天，对于吴小晖及集团财务状况的报道，以及他在遭受刑事调查的互联网传闻，安邦绝大时候都保持沉默。对于吴小晖被羁押或正在接受调查的说法，中国官员没有任何表态。 investigation.

But since late last week the company has fought back. Anbang issued a statement on Friday that it had sufficient cash flows; it told a Chinese newspaper that rumors that Mr. Wu was in detention were false; and Mr. Wu gave an interview to another Chinese newspaper, The Beijing News, that also seemed intended to squash the rumors.	但自上周以来，该公司做出了一系列反击。安邦周五发表声明称集团现金流充足；安邦还告诉一家中国报纸，吴小晖被羁押传闻是假的；他自己也接受了另外一家中国报纸《新京报》的采访，似乎打算遏制谣言。
Mr. Wu said in the interview that Anbang was especially enthusiastic about Mr. Xi's plan to expand Chinese investment and construction abroad in a much-promoted plan called "One Belt, One Road." Now investors and political analysts will watch to see whether Mr. Xi's government takes sides in the dispute between Anbang and Caixin.	吴小晖在采访中表示，安邦特别热衷于习近平推行的“一带一路”计划，扩大中国在海外的投资建设，现在投资者和政治分析人士将注意观察，在安邦和财新之争中，习近平政府会支持哪一方。
"Hu Shuli and Caixin have done an amazing job carving out a space for honest and incisive reporting in China's heavily censored media," Victor Shih, a professor at the University of California, San Diego, who studies finance and politics in China, said by email. "Caixin will need all of its savvy to navigate the Anbang lawsuit though."	"中国对媒体的审查很严重，而胡舒立和财新成功地从中争取到了一个诚实和敏锐的报道空间。"加州大学圣迭戈分校(University of California, San Diego)研究中国金融和政治的史宗瀚(Victor Shih)在一封电子邮件中说。"但是财新需要发挥最大的聪明才智来面对安邦的诉讼。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/anbang-caixin-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/anbang-caixin-china
China's Environmental Woes, in Films That Go Viral, Then Vanish	从垃圾围城到塑料王国，他所记录的中国
BEIJING — Achieving fame was not hard for Wang Jiuliang, but staying in the spotlight has proved more difficult.	北京——对于王久良来说，要获得名声并不困难，但是事实证明，要一直保持在聚光灯下就比较困难了。
His career as a documentary filmmaker has followed a distressing pattern: spectacular internet reactions to his movies and videos on environmental topics, followed by their rapid disappearance from the web in China.	作为纪录片制作人，他的职业生涯陷入了一种令人不安的模式：他以环境为主题的电影和视频，在网上引起非常热烈的反响，之后这些作品就在中国网络上迅速消失了。
The latest, in January, was a video showing him standing before a large	最近一次遇到这种情况，是今年1月的一个视频，他站在一块大屏幕之前，

screen displaying appalling photos of indiscriminate quarrying and other environmental woes and delivering a talk about them. In one, mountaintops have been obliterated. In another, an aerial shot, a rocky landscape has been pockmarked with gaping holes where the stone was extracted.	展示关于矿石滥采和其他环境问题的各种可怕照片，并对这些照片进行解说。在其中一张照片中，山顶已经被抹去了。另一张图片显示，为了采石，一片岩石地带被挖出了很多洞穴。
The video became an instant internet sensation, but four days after it was posted it disappeared.	这个视频立刻在互联网上引起轰动，但是在发布后的四天就消失了。
Another documentary of Mr. Wang's, "Plastic China," about the plastic waste industry, which was screened at the Sundance Film Festival this year, also went viral in January before quickly disappearing from the internet in China.	在圣丹斯电影节放映的《塑料中国》，是他制作的另一部纪录片，讲的是塑料废弃物产业，今年1月份该片也在网上走红，但不久就在中国互联网上迅速消失了。
The wiry, 40-year-old Mr. Wang said he had no idea who had deleted the items or why. "Some invisible power," he joked in a recent interview over coffee in Beijing's central business district.	40岁的王久良看起来瘦而结实，他说他不知道是谁删掉了那些视频，也不知道是因为什么原因。“一些无形的力量，”他最近在北京的中心商业区一边喝咖啡一边接受采访时调侃道。
Before the talk on the environmental destruction from quarrying, Mr. Wang had spent the last decade filming China's mostly unregulated garbage dumps and their environmental impact. He produced two critically acclaimed documentaries that made him an authority on the subject.	在拍摄采石场对环境的破坏这个话题之前，王久良花了过去十年时间拍摄中国基本不受管制的垃圾场及其对环境的影响。他制作了两部广受好评的纪录片，这使他成为这个问题上的专家。
His first, "Beijing Besieged by Waste," released in 2010, explored the garbage dumps encircling China's capital. Before then, few Chinese thought about where the waste went. The scenes of people and sheep grazing through the piles of garbage, and of trucks apparently dumping whatever they like with no authorities in sight, were a shock to most.	第一部纪录片《垃圾围城》于2010年推出，影片探查了中国首都北京周边的垃圾场。在那之前，很少有中国人考虑垃圾都去了哪里。其中人和羊群一起在成堆的垃圾里翻找东西、卡车明显随意倾倒任何垃圾却不见当局管制的场景，令大多数人感到震惊。
"It is very important work, a milestone," Ma Jun, the director of the	"这是非常重要的，一部里程碑似的作品，"公众与环境研究中心主任马军在

Institute of Public and Environmental Affairs, said in a telephone interview.	接受电话采访时说。
Born a peasant's son in a village in China's eastern Shandong Province. Mr. Wang sold cellphones and vegetables to save for college, finally making it to the Communication University of China in Beijing, at 26, to study photography.	王久良出生在中国东部山东省一个乡村里的农民家庭，靠着贩卖手机和蔬菜攒够大学学费，直至 26 岁那年才进入北京的中国传媒大学学习摄影。
In 2008, a year after graduating, Mr. Wang went back to his village to shoot a photo project and was horrified by the devastated landscape he found.	2008 年，王久良毕业一年后回到村里做一个拍照项目，发现当地景观已经遭到破坏，感到非常震惊。
"I spent my childhood summers catching locusts and fish. Now where are they? Are there still tadpoles and frogs in the creek? No," he said. That prompted him to question what had happened and who was responsible.	"我小时候每个夏天都是捕蚂蚱捞鱼度过的。现在它们都在哪儿？小河里还有蝌蚪青蛙吗？没有，"他说。这促使他质疑究竟发生了什么事，应当由谁来负责。
That quest drew him into environmental issues and he became curious about garbage and where it went in Beijing. Following garbage trucks, he found hundreds of trash dumps outside Beijing's fifth-ring road. The dumps, he found, were unregulated; trucks brought in whatever they liked without supervision.	对这个问题的探索驱使他关注环境问题，他开始对北京的垃圾和它们的去向感到好奇。跟随着垃圾车，他在北京五环之外找到了数百个垃圾场。他发现，这些垃圾场是不受管制的；卡车可以拉来任何东西，没有受到监督。
After three years of filming — and 9,300 miles on his motorbike — he marked on Google maps all the dumps he found. At the end, he produced "Beijing Besieged by Waste."	经过三年的拍摄——他的摩托车上显示行车里程是 1.5 万公里——他在谷歌地图上标出了他发现的所有垃圾场。最后，他制作了《垃圾围城》(Beijing Besieged by Waste)。
The Beijing government has since cleaned up more than 80 percent of the garbage dumps, Mr. Wang said. "I found some answers. But I also started to have more questions," he said.	王久良说，自那以后，北京政府已经清理了 80% 以上的垃圾场。"我找到了一些答案。但也开始有了更多问题，"他说。
In 2011, wanting to learn more about how garbage is recycled, Mr.	2011 年，王久良想了解更多关于垃圾回收的信息，于是去了加利福尼亚。

Wang went to California. In one of the biggest waste recycling companies in Oakland, a manager pointed to a truck loaded with containers of plastic waste that was about to be shipped to China.	在奥克兰最大的废物回收公司之一，一位经理指给他一辆装满集装箱的卡车，里面都是即将运往中国的塑料垃圾。
"I'm not a nationalist at all, but somehow his words provoked me," Mr. Wang said. "Because I saw this junk — dirty and detrimental — going to China."	"我根本不是一个民族主义者，但不知怎么他的话刺激了我，"王久良说。"因为我看到这些垃圾，这些脏的有害的东西，是要去中国的。"
Another six years' work went into finding and documenting what happens to imported plastic waste. The discovery shocked Mr. Wang. Thousands of family-run factories operate in the open air shredding the waste plastic into small particles to sell to factories in southern China, which then make them into new plastic goods. The air and nearby rivers are heavily polluted, he found. Workers sifting through the waste with their bare hands are often pricked by used needles.	接下来的六年里，他的工作变成了寻找和记录进口塑料废物的情况。这些发现让王久良感到震惊。数以千计的家庭作坊在露天操作，把废塑料切碎成小颗粒，出售给中国南方的工厂，再由这些工厂将其变为新的塑料制品。他发现那些塑料处理厂附近的空气与河流受到严重污染。工人在筛选废物时，没有进行防护的双手经常被针头刺伤。
"I'm not against recycling plastic waste, I'm all for it," Mr. Wang said. "But absolutely not this kind of raw method of recycling without protection and producing more pollution. The profit and cost is disproportionate."	"我不反对塑料产业的回收，我支持拥护回收，"王久良说。"但是我看到以这种粗放的，没有保护的，产生更多环境危害的方式去进行回收的时候，这是不可以的。这是得不偿失的。"
For one and a half years, Mr. Wang lived in a rented place near the two families he filmed, in a small town largely dependent on recycling imported plastic waste in Shandong, his home province. He hung out with the families every day, eating together and sometimes helping them with the work.	他的拍摄地点是家乡山东的一座小镇，这里很大程度上要依赖回收进口塑料废物，一年半的时间里，王久良都住在他拍摄的两个家庭附近的一座出租屋中。他每天和两家人呆在一起，一起吃饭，有时也帮他们干活。
The final product was "Plastic China," an 81-minute film featuring the two families, and a 26-minute version that explains the industry itself and every character in its chain, like waste suppliers in the United States and Europe and Chinese workers who make their living from the trade.	最后的成果是《塑料王国》(Plastic China)，这是一部 81 分钟的影片，拍摄了两个家庭，另有一个 26 分钟的版本，解释了这个行业本身，以及行业链条上的每个角色，比如美国和欧洲的废物供应商，以及从这项贸易中谋生的中国工人。

The longer version is nonjudgmental, showing the tough conditions faced by people scratching out an existence in a tough business with razor-thin margins. Its images are raw and bleak: dying fish in a nearby contaminated river are picked up for a family meal; a baby is born amid mountainous heaps of plastic; Yi Jie, 9, eldest daughter of one of the two families featured, cut pictures of ballet flats from an English magazine, just to have them to look at.	较长的版本是非判断性的，展示了人们在这个艰苦的行业中忍受着恶劣的环境，赚取一点微薄的利润，仅能勉强维持生存。影片的图像阴冷惨淡：附近受污染的河流中的死鱼被捞出来作为全家人的一餐；一个婴儿出生在堆积如山的塑料垃圾的环绕中；9岁的依姐是其中一家人的大女儿，她从英文杂志上剪下芭蕾舞鞋的照片，只为了留给自己看。
Yi Jie was not going to school when Mr. Wang started to film, because her father said he did not want to pay the fees. When Yi Jie turned 11, Mr. Wang and the film's producing companies spent their own money to send Yi Jie back to her hometown in Sichuan to go to school.	王久良开始拍摄这部电影时，依姐没有上学，因为她父亲说不想支付学费。依姐11岁那年，王久良和该片的制片公司自掏腰包，把依姐送回四川的家乡上学。
"They work for scanty wage and their health is impaired. This needs to be addressed from different sectors in a society," Mr. Ma said.	"他们为了微薄的收入，导致对身体的损害，这部分这些问题的解决有赖于社会很多其他方面共同参与，"马军说。
Mr. Wang said there were handsome profits to be made from plastic waste, but mostly in the international trade.	王久良说，塑料废物带来的利润很大，但主要是在国际贸易当中产生。
But "Plastic China" does not seek to criticize specific groups of people, said Ruby Chen, one of the film's producers. Rather, she said, everyone should reflect on their own roles in the trade after watching how the two families live.	但是《塑料王国》并不是为了批评特定的群体，电影制片人之一陈玲珍(Ruby Chen)说。她说，看到这两个家庭的生活之后，每个人都应当审视自己在这行业中的角色。
"If I'm a policy maker, how to solve problems? If I run a small factory, is there a better way to do things? If I'm a boss, is it really necessary to use all this plastic packaging?" said Ms. Chen, joining the conversation with Mr. Wang over coffee. "People who have watched it have told us: 'I will need to think carefully whether to use plastics.'"	"如果我是法规制定者，如何解决问题？如果我是小作坊的人，会想有没有更好的方式，如果是老板，真要这样吗塑料包装吗？"陈玲珍喝着咖啡，加入了笔者与王久良的谈话。"看过的人都说，我会仔细思考我不要不要用塑料。"
Mr. Ma compared Mr. Wang's films with Rachel Carson's book "Silent	马军将王久良的电影与蕾切尔·卡森(Rachel Carson)的著作《沉默的春天》

Spring," a seminal work that helped start the environmental movement. "Recycling plastics could have been a good thing, but if it isn't done well, it causes secondary pollution," he said. "Plastics can't be degraded or buried. So it's very important to mobilize people to reduce using them."	(Silent Spring)相提并论, 该书影响深远, 在开创环保运动方面发挥了作用。"回收再利用本来是一个挺好的事情。但是这中间如果不能够做好, 又可能形成严重的二次污染,"他说。"塑料烧也不是, 埋也不是。所以动员大家从源头减量特别重要。"
Mr. Wang said he was perplexed by the censorship of his work on the internet. "Our goal is to let more people see it," he said. "We hope they would pay attention and changes could be made. But if the channel for communication is jammed, I have to reconsider what our efforts mean."	王久良说, 他的作品在互联网上遭到了审查, 这令他感到困惑。"我们最终的目标还是为让更多的人能看到,"他说。"希望引起注意, 变化。但是如果传播都不通畅的话, 我不得不去考虑我们所有努力的意义。"
Still, it is not stopping what the filmmaker is, in his own words, destined to do. "He won't stop caring. Otherwise he couldn't even sleep at night," Ms. Chen said with a laugh, "He is unrelenting. If he thinks this is important, he does it at all costs."	尽管如此, 这没有阻止这位电影制作人——用他自己的话来说——去做他命中注定要做的事。"他不会停止关心。他停止关心晚上睡不着,"陈玲珍笑着说, "他是一个很坚持的人, 他觉得重要, 他就不顾一切地去做。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/chinas-environmental-woes-in-films-that-go-viral-then-vanish	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/chinas-environmental-woes-in-films-that-go-viral-then-vanish
Chinese Rights Lawyer, Li Heping, Gets Suspended Prison Sentence	人权律师李和平被判颠覆罪, 缓刑四年
HONG KONG — One of China's most prominent human rights lawyers was given a suspended three-year prison sentence on Friday after being convicted of subversion charges.	香港——周五, 一位声名显赫的中国人权律师被判颠覆政权罪, 获刑三年, 缓期执行。
The lawyer, Li Heping, who has been in detention since 2015, received a four-year reprieve, a court in the port city of Tianjin said in a statement. That means he will not have to serve the sentence if he stays out of legal trouble during that time.	律师李和平自 2015 年以来一直被监禁。位于港口城市天津的一座法院发声称, 李和平获得四年缓刑。这意味着如果他在此期间不再出现法律问题, 就不必服那三年刑期。
The sentence means Mr. Li will be released, but it effectively prevents	多家人权组织表示, 这个判决意味着李和平将被释放, 但判决实际上令他在

him from practicing law in the near future, rights groups said.	未来几年无法从事律师行业工作。
During Mr. Li's detention, the authorities harassed his family and prevented his wife, Wang Qiaoling, from seeking legal representation, Ms. Wang said in an interview last year.	在被监禁期间,当局曾骚扰他的家人,阻止他的妻子王峭岭为他找代理律师,该消息是王峭岭在去年接受采访时透露的。
Frances Eve, a researcher at the Chinese Human Rights Defenders, said the threat of a return to detention meant that Mr. Li and his family would continue to endure uncertainty. "He and his family are effectively prisoners for the next four years," she said.	人权捍卫者(Chinese Human Rights Defenders)研究员法兰茜(Frances Eve)表示,因为存在重新被监禁的威胁,李和平和他的家人还将继续忍受不确定性。"他和家人实际上要再当四年的囚犯,"她说。
Mr. Li has represented some of China's best-known dissidents and rights activists. He was detained in 2015 by the police during an expansive crackdown on dissent that targeted more than 250 lawyers, legal assistants and activists, in what the lawyers said was a political assault on their profession.	李和平代理过中国一些最知名的异见者和人权活动人士。他于2015年在一场压制异见者的大规模行动中被警方拘捕。这场行动的打击目标包括250多名律师、律师助理和活动人士,律师们称这是对他们的职业的政治打压。
One of Mr. Li's high-profile clients was the blind legal advocate Chen Guangcheng, who escaped house arrest and fled to the United States Embassy in Beijing in 2012. He has also represented practitioners of Falun Gong, a religious sect banned in China.	李和平最知名的委托人之一是盲人维权人士陈光诚,后者在2012年摆脱软禁,逃到了美国在北京的大使馆内。他也曾为在中国被禁的教派组织法轮功的学员做代理律师。
The No. 2 Intermediate People's Court in Tianjin said Mr. Li had endangered national security and social stability by "attacking" the government and had "colluded" with religious activists and lawyers with "subversive ideologies."	天津市第二中级人民法院表示,李和平"攻击"政府,和"具有颠覆国家政权思想的"宗教活动人士和律师"勾结",危害国家安全和社会稳定。
The trial was held behind closed doors because it involved state secrets, according to the statement posted online by the court. Mr. Li said he would not appeal, the statement said.	该法院在其发布的声明中称,因涉及国家秘密,这次审判不进行公开审理。文中还提到李和平表示自己不会上诉。
The crackdown by the Chinese authorities on lawyers and their	中国当局对律师及其助手的打压引发国外法律专家和法律团体的谴责。去

associates has drawn condemnation from foreign jurists and legal societies. Last year, the United Nations' top human rights official called on China to release a group of detained lawyers, including Mr. Li, expressing alarm over what he called a "very worrying pattern" of prosecution.	年，联合国高级人权官员曾要求中国释放包括李和平在内的一群被拘律师，并就他所说的一种“非常令人担忧”的起诉方式发出警告。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/chinese-rights-lawyer-li-heping-sentence	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/chinese-rights-lawyer-li-heping-sentence
China Deports American Woman Convicted on Spying Charge	中国驱逐被判间谍罪的美国女商人潘婉芬
BEIJING — China has deported an American businesswoman convicted and sentenced on a spying charge, and she arrived in the United States on Friday, her husband said.	北京——中国驱逐了一名被判处间谍罪的美国女商人，她的丈夫表示她已于上周五抵达美国。
The deportation ended uncertainty about the fate of the Houston businesswoman, Phan Phan-Gillis, known as Sandy, who was sentenced on Tuesday by a court in southern China to three and a half years in prison on an espionage charge. The judge said Ms. Phan-Gillis would be deported, but left unclear whether she would have to serve her sentence first.	又名桑迪(Sandy)的休斯敦商人潘婉芬(Phan Phan-Gillis)被驱逐出境的消息，结束了围绕她的命运的不确定性。周二她被中国南部一家法院以间谍罪名判处了三年半徒刑。法官说潘婉芬将被驱逐出境，但不清楚她是否必须先服刑。
On Friday, however, Ms. Phan-Gillis's husband, Jeff Gillis, who has campaigned to overturn the spying charge and to win her freedom, said she had been put on a flight from Guangzhou in southern China to Los Angeles, and had arrived there that day.	然而，周五时潘婉芬的丈夫杰夫·吉利斯(Jeff Gillis)表示，她已经从中国南部城市广州飞往洛杉矶，于当天抵达了那里。吉利斯曾开展活动，试图推翻间谍指控，帮助妻子赢得自由。
"Many of Sandy's friends and family members have been crying tears of joy throughout the day," Mr. Gillis said in an email. He continued to reject the accusation that his wife had been a spy for the American authorities, and said her conviction was manifestly unjust.	吉利斯在一封电邮中说：“桑迪的很多朋友和家人开心地哭了一整天。”他仍然否认妻子是美国当局间谍的指控，表示她被定罪极不公正。

“Sandy was not allowed to speak with her lawyers for well over a year,” Mr. Gillis said. “China State Security used torture to force Sandy to make a false confession,” he said, echoing Ms. Phan-Gillis’s earlier statements about her treatment.	吉利斯说：“在一年多的时间里，他们不允许桑迪和她的律师联系，中国国家安全局使用酷刑迫使桑迪作出虚假的供认，“这和潘婉芬之前谈到自己遭遇时的说法是一致的。
Before her trial, Ms. Phan-Gillis had denied the accusations, but in court this past week, she said she was guilty, possibly as part of deal to win her release.	在审判之前，潘婉芬否认了间谍罪的指控，但上周在法庭上，她说自己有罪，这可能是为获得释放而做出的协商的一部分内容。
Chinese security officers detained Ms. Phan-Gillis, a 57-year-old business consultant, in March 2015, when she was accompanying a delegation of city officials and businesspeople from Houston, her hometown. She was held in detention for six months and not allowed to see a lawyer for 14 months. A United Nations human rights committee condemned her detention as a violation of international law.	中国安全官员在 2015 年 3 月扣留了 57 岁的商业顾问潘婉芬，当时她和休斯顿的一个市政官员和商人代表团在一起。她被关押了六个月，14 个月无法见到律师。联合国人权事务委员会谴责说，对她的羁押违反了国际法。
Mr. Gillis initially hoped that the allegations against his wife would be dropped quietly after an investigation, but after she was charged in September 2015, he started a public campaign to fight the charge. The Chinese authorities accused Ms. Phan-Gillis of collecting information and recruiting sources from 20 years ago or longer.	吉利斯最初希望在调查之后，对妻子的指控会被默默撤销，但是在她 2015 年 9 月被起诉之后，他发起了一场公开的活动来应对这个起诉。中国当局指责潘婉芬至少从 20 年前就开始收集信息并招募线人。
The Dui Hua Foundation, an organization based in San Francisco that works to improve human rights in China, also sought Ms. Phan-Gillis’s release, and it said Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson had added his influence to the effort.	致力于改善中国人权状况的旧金山组织对话基金会(Dui Hua Foundation)也在寻求潘婉芬的释放。他们表示国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)在这件事中发挥了影响。
“Negotiations to secure the release of Ms. Phan-Gillis intensified during Secretary Tillerson’s visit to Beijing in March 2017,” the group said in a	该基金会在一份声明中表示：“国务卿蒂勒森 2017 年 3 月访问北京期间，在谈判中要求释放潘婉芬。”并称白宫曾协助国务院“进行了成功的谈判”。 statement about her release, adding that the White House had helped the State Department “in bringing the negotiations to a successful conclusion.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/phan-phan-gillis-china-deport-spy-charge	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170502/phan-phan-gillis-china-deport-spy-charge
The Rescuer Expected to Find Two Bodies. Then One of Them Spoke.	台湾情侣雪山被困逾月，一人奇迹生还
KATHMANDU, Nepal — The rescue team had nearly given up when it spotted distant figures on a ledge.	尼泊尔加德满都——救援队看到了远处岩架上的人影，那之前他们差一点就放弃了。
Over the course of 47 days, since two young Taiwanese trekkers wandered off the trail in a snowstorm, the searchers had tried almost everything: aerial surveys by helicopter, bushwhacking through deep forest, trying to follow the movements of vultures.	自从两名年轻的台湾徒步游客在一场暴风雪中失踪以后，搜救者在 48 天的时间里差不多做了所有的努力：出动直升机进行空中勘察，在森林深处仔细找寻，试图追随秃鹰的踪迹。
The father of Liang Sheng-Yueh, one of the missing students, had even consulted an astrologer. But they found nothing.	两名失踪学生之一梁圣岳的父亲，甚至咨询过占星师。但他们一无所获。
Alerted by a fellow searcher who saw what he assumed were two bodies on the ledge, the leader of the rescue team, Madhab Basnet, carefully made his way to the site, using a handmade ladder the rescuers had quickly fashioned. When he reached the ledge, he was shocked when one of the two, an emaciated and badly weakened young man, spoke to him.	接到一名认为自己看见两具尸体躺在岩架上的搜救者报信后，救援队队长马德哈·巴斯内特(Madhab Basnet)借助救援者们迅速以手工制成的一架梯子，小心翼翼地在那里行进。抵达岩架的时候，巴斯内特大吃一惊，因为倒在地上的两人之一，一个瘦骨嶙峋、极其虚弱的年轻男子，居然开口说话了。
He said that his girlfriend, Liu Chen Chi, 19, had died three days before.	他说他的女朋友，19 岁的刘宸君，已于三天前去世。
“He said his girlfriend was in a lot of pain and grief,” Mr. Basnet said. “He said he ate salt and water and that’s how he survived.”	“他说他的女朋友经受了太多苦痛和悲伤，”巴斯内特说。“他说他靠着吃盐、喝水活了下来。”
Every trekking season in Nepal produces tales of physical endurance and heartbreak. They are rarely as extreme, though, as that of Mr. Liang,	在尼泊尔，每一个徒步季都会制造出与身体耐力和心碎有关的故事。不过它们都很少能在极端程度上超越已于周一出院的梁圣岳的故事。他的体重从

who was released from the hospital on Monday. He arrived having dropped to 84 pounds from 150 pounds, his hair infested with lice and the flesh of one foot being eating by maggots. Doctors said he most likely survived because he was able to replenish the salt in his body and drink melted snow.	150 磅下降到了 84 磅，他的头发生了虱子，他一只脚上的肉被蛆吃掉了一些。医生说之所以撑了过来，极有可能是因为他可以为身体补充盐分，并喝下融化的雪水。
It was not immediately clear where he got the salt, but Mr. Liang was an experienced climber who might have carried an extra supply in case of such a disaster.	尚不清楚梁圣岳是从哪里拿到了盐，但他是一个经验丰富的攀登者，或许携带了额外的补给，以防遇到这样的灾难。
Ms. Liu appeared to have died of starvation, said Dr. Mani Maharjan, who performed an autopsy.	刘宸君似乎死于饥饿，做了尸检的马尼·马哈江(Mani Maharjan)医生表示。
Dr. Chakra Raj Pandey, the medical director at Grande International Hospital, said Mr. Liang at one point turned to him with a strange request.	格兰迪国际医院(Grande International Hospital)的医疗主任沙克拉·拉伊·潘迪(Chakra Raj Pandey)医生说，梁圣岳一度向他提出了一个奇怪的请求。
"He asked me to provide him with a book that had maps," Dr. Pandey said. "It appeared to me that he wanted to look at a map and recall his trekking journey and probably find out where the journey went wrong."	"他让我拿给他一本带地图的书，"潘迪医生说。"我觉得他想要看着地图，回顾徒步之旅，可能是要找出旅途中哪里出了问题。"
The two hikers, both students at National Dong Hwa University in Taiwan, arrived in Nepal for their trek in February and were last seen on March 9.	这两名徒步者都是台湾国立东华大学的学生，于今年 2 月来尼泊尔徒步，最后一次露面是在 3 月 9 日。
After becoming disoriented in a snowstorm, they tried to follow the path of a river, in hopes that it would lead them to a settlement, Mr. Liang told his rescuers and local news media immediately after the rescue. Since then, he has declined all interview requests at the behest of the Taiwanese government.	在暴风雪中迷失方向后，他们试图沿着一条河往前走，希望最终能抵达一个居住点——梁圣岳在获救之初告诉救援者和当地媒体。那之后，他应台湾政府的要求，婉拒了所有采访请求。
As they made their way along the river, they slid into a ravine and	沿着河边往前走的时候，他们滑入了一个峡谷，被困在山壁上，在一个岩穴

became stuck on the ledge, where they took shelter in a cave. They remained there for more than six weeks. On either side of the ledge were steep rock faces, so they could not move up or down, and snow was falling outside, Mr. Liang told the rescuers. After 10 days, their food ran out, he said.	里躲避风雪。他们在那里呆了六个多星期。山壁的两侧都是陡峭的岩面，因此他们上不去也下不来，而且外面还下着雪，梁圣岳告诉救援者。他说刚过10天，他们就把食物吃光了。
Their parents, alarmed not to have heard from them, hired a search party on March 26. The team set off the next day and continued to search for nearly two weeks. When that failed, a second search began.	他们的父母与他们失去联系后惊恐万分，于3月26日雇了一支搜救队。搜救队从次日开始，连续搜救了将近两个星期。失败后又开始进行二次搜救。
The lost trekkers were first spotted by Dawa Tamang, 55, a farmer who was helping the rescue effort. "I went by using a machete in the jungle," he said. "I went by the side of the river. It was risky for me to go through. I might have lost my life as well."	首先发现这两名失踪的徒步者的是达瓦·塔芒(Dawa Tamang)，一名现年55岁、帮助开展救援工作的农民。“我在丛林里借助砍刀前行，”他说，“我沿着河边走。对我来说进行搜救要冒很大的风险。我也有可能丧命。”
But then he spied the two figures on the ledge.	但他随即看到了岩架上的两个人。
"I didn't touch them," Mr. Tamang said. "I came back and went to call my friends because I was told not to touch the bodies. I just saw them and then came back."	“我没碰他们，”塔芒说。“我折返回来，给我的朋友们报信，因为我曾被告知不要触碰尸体。我只是看到了他们，然后就回来了。”
They built a ladder out of a dead tree, expecting to retrieve the bodies. That is when Mr. Basnet descended to the ledge and, to his surprise, found Mr. Liang alive but too weak to stand. They fed him noodles hoping to build up his strength.	他们用枯树制作了一架梯子，为的是取回尸体。接着，巴斯内特下到了山壁上，惊讶地发现梁圣岳还活着，但由于太虚弱，无法站起来。他们喂他吃了面条，希望他能恢复一些力气。
"We were shocked and afraid," Mr. Basnet said. "We were thinking he was dead."	“我们又惊又怕，”巴斯内特说。“我们本来以为他死了。”
They carried Mr. Liang to safety, while the young woman's body was airlifted from the ledge.	他们把梁圣岳抬到了安全的地方，不过年轻女子的尸体是用飞机从岩架上运走的。
Over six days in the hospital, Mr. Liang gained 13 pounds, the doctor	医生说，在梁圣岳住院的六天里，他的体重增加了13磅。 said.

"I feel relaxed now, but can't recall the last 47 days," he told a reporter from The Himalayan Times.	"我现在觉得很放松,但不敢回想过去的 47 天,"他告诉《喜马拉雅时报》(The Himalayan Times)的一名记者。
He celebrated his 21st birthday in the company of journalists, telling them that he had survived only thanks to the prayers of others.	他在记者们的陪伴下庆祝了自己的 21 岁生日,并告诉他们,全靠其他人诚心祈望,他才能活下来。
"If you look at his eyes and his face, you can see that he is excited about a new life," Dr. Pandey said. "This is called rebirth. But the happiness of rebirth is mixed with the loss of his girlfriend and the tragedy of staying in the mountains and enduring so much pain."	"如果看着他的眼睛和脸庞,你会发现他因获得新生而感到兴奋,"潘迪医生说。"这就是所谓的重生。但重生的喜悦是和失去女友以及待在山间、忍受那么多痛苦的悲惨遭遇混合在一起的。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170503/nepal-trekkers	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170503/nepal-trekkers
Is China the World's New Colonial Power?	中国式新殖民主义? (一): 全天候的朋友
Read Part 2.	中国式新殖民主义? (二): 新的边疆
Every weekday before dawn, a morning migration takes place near the desert on Africa's southwestern coast. At 5:30 in the Namibian enclave Swakopmund, whose century-old buildings still bear the imprint of German colonization, solitary men in khaki uniforms emerge from houses and apartment complexes, the white reflective strips on their pants flashing as they walk briskly through the darkness. They are not African but Chinese. No one else is stirring in the Atlantic Coast town as the men converge on a tidy house on Libertina Amathila Avenue, the only one in the neighborhood with its lights ablaze.	每个工作日的黎明之前,非洲西南海岸的沙漠附近都会发生一场晨间迁徙。5 点 30 分,在斯瓦科普蒙德——纳米比亚的一块飞地,这里的历经上百年风霜的古老建筑,依然带有德国殖民者留下的印记——身穿卡其布制服、形单影只的男人们从一些房屋和公寓楼里冒出来,快步走在黑暗中,裤子上的白色反光条纹闪闪发亮。他们不是非洲人,而是中国人。当这些男人汇聚至利伯蒂纳·阿马蒂拉大道(Libertina Amathila Avenue)的一所小房子的时候,大西洋海岸这座城镇的其他人尚未苏醒,利伯蒂纳·阿马蒂拉大道是唯一一个灯光闪烁的地方。
Dylan Teng, a boyish 29-year-old engineer with a brush cut and wire-rimmed glasses, is among the last to arrive. Just as he has done nearly every day since landing in Namibia three and a half years ago, Teng joins the others in wolfing down a breakfast of steamed buns and	迪兰·邓(Dylan Teng)是最后抵达的人之一。现年 29 岁的他是一名工程师,留着平头,戴着一副金属框架的眼镜,看上去有些孩子气。他加入其他人的行列,狼吞虎咽地吃下由馒头和粥组成的早餐——自从在三年半以前抵达纳米比亚以来,几乎每天都是如此。随后,他拿起由公司的厨师准备的一份打

rice porridge. He picks up a packed lunch prepared by a company chef and at precisely 6 o'clock, with stars still glimmering overhead, he boards a bus emblazoned with the letters C.G.N. — China General Nuclear, a state-owned behemoth that owns the biggest Chinese project in all of Africa.	包的午餐，在天空仍有星光闪耀的6点整登上一辆大巴。印在大巴上的“CGN”，是大型国企中国广核集团英文名称的首字母缩写，该公司拥有中国在非洲最大的项目。
An hour later, as the sun clears the horizon, the bus winds through a craggy moonscape and descends to the Husab Uranium Mine, a $4.6 billion investment that is the second-largest uranium mine in the world. Teng has made this trip nearly a thousand times, but Husab always seems like a mirage: a virtual city stretching seven miles across the desert floor, from two vast open pits being gouged out of the rocky substratum to a processing plant that, on the last working day of 2016, produced its first drums of U_3O_8, the yellowcake that can be used to generate nuclear power (and also to make weapons). “We had a big ceremony that day,” Teng says.	一小时后，太阳升起时，大巴穿过一片崎岖的不毛之地，下到哈萨博铀矿 (Husab Uranium Mine)，它是世界第二大铀矿，投资高达46亿美元。迪兰·邓来这里已经快有一千回了，但他眼中的哈萨博依然像一座海市蜃楼：一座在沙地上绵延7公里的幻城，有着岩石底层上挖出的两个巨大的露天矿坑，以及一家在2016年最后一个工作日生产出自己的首批“黄饼”的加工厂——以氧化三铀为主要成份的“黄饼”，可被用于生产核电（以及制造武器）。“我们那天举办了一个很大的庆功会，”迪兰·邓说。
One of the few university graduates from his village in China's southwestern Sichuan Province, Teng is keenly aware of Husab's significance. It is not simply a lifeline for Namibia's struggling economy, one that the country estimates will increase its gross domestic product by 5 percent when the mine reaches full production next year. The uranium itself, almost all of which will go to China, will also help turn Teng's homeland into a world leader in nuclear energy and reduce its dependence on coal. In Beijing, where he worked before coming here, Teng lived under the gray blanket of coal-generated pollution that hangs over much of eastern China. Now he is working for the future —	迪兰·邓出生于中国西南省份四川的一个小村庄，是村上少有的几个大学生之一。他对哈萨博的重要性有着深刻的认识。它不仅是挣扎求存的纳米比亚经济的生命线——据纳米比亚估计，当这个铀矿于明年全面投产时，会让该国国内生产总值提高5%。它产出的铀本身——几乎全都会被运往中国——还将帮助把迪兰·邓的祖国变成核能领域的一个世界领导者，减少对煤的依赖。迪兰·邓来纳米比亚前在北京工作，那里的天空常常笼罩着源于燃煤污染的灰色雾霾，中国东部的很多地方都是如此。眼下，他正在非洲无垠的钴蓝色天空下为未来而奋斗——他自己的未来以及他的祖国的未来。“我以前从未想到，”他说，“我会来到半个世界以外的地方。”

his own and his country's — under an endless African sky of cobalt blue. "I never imagined," he says, "I would end up halfway around the world."
China's gravitational pull can be felt today in every nook of the globe. Few countries feel the tug more strongly than Namibia, a wind-swept nation with a population of 2.4 million — barely a tenth the size of Beijing's — some 8,000 miles away from the Chinese capital. The desert where the Husab mine has materialized in recent years used to be known only for the presence of Welwitschia mirabilis, the short, droopy national plant that grows just two leaves — and can live for more than 1,000 years. Now, in little more than 1,000 days, China's reach has spread far beyond the uranium mine.	如今，全球各个角落都能感觉到中国的吸引力，但鲜有国家能比纳米比亚更为强烈地感受到这种力量。这个多风的国家距离中国首都北京大约 8000 英里，人口约 240 万，仅仅是北京的十分之一。哈萨博铀矿是近年才被发现的，它所在的那片沙漠过去仅仅因为出产百岁兰而闻名。百岁兰是一种低矮、下垂的植物，只有两片叶子，能活 1000 多年，是纳米比亚的国花。现在，在短短 1000 多天里，中国的影响力早已蔓延到了铀矿之外的地方。
Just north of Swakopmund, a Chinese telemetry station sprouts from the desert floor, its radar dishes pointing skyward to track satellites and space missions. Twenty-five miles south, in Walvis Bay, a state-owned Chinese company is building an artificial peninsula the size of 40 baseball fields as part of a vast port expansion. Other Chinese projects nearby include new highways, a shopping mall, a granite factory and a $400 million fuel depot. Chinese trade flows through the port: shipping containers filled with cement, clothing and machinery coming in; tiles, minerals and — in some cases — illegal timber and endangered wildlife heading out to China. The activity is so frenzied that rumors of a proposed naval base in Walvis Bay, though vehemently denied by Chinese officials, do not strike locals as implausible.	就在斯瓦科普蒙德的北边，中国的一个遥测站在沙漠中拔地而起，它的雷达天线指向天空，追踪卫星和航天任务。在斯瓦科普蒙德以南 25 英里的沃尔维斯湾，一家中国国有企业正在修建一个人工半岛，其面积相当于 40 个棒球场。这个半岛属于一项庞大的港口扩建工程。附近的其他中国项目还包括多条新公路、一个大型购物中心、一个花岗岩厂和一个投资四亿美元的燃油库。与中国的贸易往来在这个港口川流不息：装满水泥、服装和机械的海运集装箱源源不断地到来，瓷砖和矿产则起航运往中国，有时还会有非法木材和濒危野生动物。贸易活动如此热火朝天，以至于中国提议在沃尔维斯湾建立海军基地的谣言并没有让当地人觉得难以置信，虽然中国官员强烈地否认了此事。
This small outpost offers a glimpse of what may be the largest global trade-and-investment spree in history. Driven by economics (a hunger	这个位于偏远地区的小小贸易基地让外界得以一窥这场全球投资与贸易狂潮，它或许是史上规模最大的一波浪潮了。在经济（对资源和新市场的渴求）

for resources and new markets) and politics (a longing for strategic allies), Chinese companies and workers have rushed into all parts of the world. In 2000, only five countries counted China as their largest trading partner; today, more than 100 countries do, from Australia to the United States. The drumbeat of proposed projects never stops: a military operating base, China's first overseas, in Djibouti; an $8 billion high-speed railway through Nigeria; an almost-fantastical canal across Nicaragua expected to cost $50 billion. Even as China's boom slows down, its most ambitious scheme is still ramping up: With the "One Belt, One Road" initiative — its name a reference to trade routes — President Xi Jinping has spoken of putting $1.6 trillion over the next decade into infrastructure and development throughout Asia, Africa and the Middle East. The scheme would dwarf the United States' post-World War II Marshall Plan for Europe.	和政治（对战略盟友的渴望）的驱动下，中国的公司和工人涌入世界各个角落。2000年，只有五个国家认为中国是它们最大的贸易伙伴。如今，从澳大利亚到美国，已经有100多个国家视中国为最大的贸易伙伴。拟建项目的鼓声从未停止：中国首个海外军事行动基地预计在吉布提建立；一条贯穿尼日利亚的高速铁路预计投资80亿美元；一条近乎神奇的运河横穿尼加拉瓜，预计耗资500亿美元。尽管中国的繁荣放缓，但它仍在加速推进自己最宏大的计划：在其“一带一路”——这个名字是指贸易线路——计划中，中国国家主席习近平表示要在接下来的十年里投资1.6万亿美元，用于亚洲、非洲和中东各地的基础设施和开发。该计划将让美国在二战之后向欧洲提供的马歇尔计划(Marshall Plan)也相形见绌。
China's relationship with Africa goes back to the 1960s, when Chairman Mao Zedong promoted solidarity with the developing world — "Ya Fei La," as he called it, using the first syllables for Asia, Africa and Latin America. Though it was poor and mired in the chaos of the Cultural Revolution, China won new allies in Africa by finishing, in 1976, a 1,156-mile railroad through the bush from Tanzania to Zambia. Aid continued to trickle in, but there were no other big projects for nearly 30 years, as China focused on building up its domestic economy, following its leader Deng Xiaoping's prescription to "hide your strength and bide your time." That ended in the 2000s, when Beijing, recognizing the need for foreign resources and allies to fuel its	中国与非洲的关系可追溯至60年代。当时，毛泽东主席倡导与发展中国家，即他所说的“亚非拉”——亚洲、非洲和拉丁美洲第一个字组成的简称——团结一致。尽管贫穷且深陷文化大革命的混乱之中，但在1976年，中国通过建成一条1156英里长的铁路赢得了新盟友。这条铁路在荒野之中穿行，连通了坦桑尼亚和赞比亚。中国的援助继续渗入，但在近30年时间里没再出现其他大项目，因为中国遵照领导人邓小平“韬光养晦”的指示，把精力集中在国内经济建设上。本世纪前十年，这种情况结束了。北京意识到需要利用外国资源和盟友促进经济增长，于是鼓励中国企业“走出去”。

economic growth, exhorted the nation's companies to "go out" into the world.
Today, if you take the red-eye flight from Shanghai to Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, chances are you'll be seated among Chinese workers heading to a construction site in oil-rich Equatorial Guinea, a cotton-processing plant in Mozambique, a telecom project in Nigeria. China's trade with African nations has increased fortyfold in the past 20 years. The workers and migrants carrying out China's global vision are now so ubiquitous in Africa — as many as a million of them, according to one estimate — that when my wife and I wandered into a Hunanese restaurant in Addis, the red-faced workers devouring twice-cooked pork blurted out: "Ah, laowai laile!" "Foreigners have come!" It seemed rude to point out that they were foreigners, too.	现在，如果从上海乘坐红眼航班前往埃塞俄比亚首都亚的斯亚贝巴，你可能会坐在一群中国工人中间。他们的目的地可能是石油资源丰富的赤道几内亚的一个建筑工地、莫桑比克的一个棉加工厂，或是尼日利亚的一个电信项目。过去 20 年里，中国与非洲国家的贸易增加了 40 倍。这些工人和移民正在实现中国的全球愿景，如今他们在非洲随处可见——有人估计他们的人数高达 100 万——以至当我和妻子走进亚的斯一家湖南餐厅，几个面色红润，吃着回锅肉的工人脱口而出：“啊，老外来了！”指出他们自己也是老外似乎有些无礼。
China's advances have come as the West seems to be retreating. United States engagement in Asia, Africa and Latin America declined after the Cold War, when the regions served as proxies for superpower rivalries. China's rise and the wars in the Middle East also pulled away resources and attention. And now, with Washington raising doubts about global agreements on issues like free trade and climate change, Beijing has more leverage to push its own initiatives and show its capacity for global leadership. President Trump's disdain for the Trans-Pacific Partnership has already made Beijing's trade proposals, which exclude the United States, more appealing. "In certain parts of the world, the relative inattention of the Trump administration is definitely creating an opening for China to fill," says David Shambaugh, director of the China	中国向前推进时，西方似乎正在撤退。冷战期间，对于相互竞争的超级大国来说，亚洲、非洲和拉丁美洲充当着它们的代理人角色。冷战结束后，美国对这些地方的介入就减少了。中国的崛起和中东的战火也分散了美国的资源与注意力。现在，随着华盛顿在自由贸易和气候变化等问题的全球协议方面遭到质疑，北京也有了更多砝码，可以推动自己的计划，并彰显自己的全球领导力。特朗普总统对“跨太平洋伙伴关系协定”(Trans Pacific Partnership)的不屑，正好令北京的贸易提议变得更加诱人，这些提议都是把美国排除在外的。“在世界上的某些地区，特朗普政府相对而言的不关注肯定给中国制造了可以填补的空白，”乔治·华盛顿大学中国政策研究项目(China Policy Program at George Washington University)主任、2013 年出版的《中国走向全球》(China Goes Global)一书的作者沈大伟(David Shambaugh)说。但“中国在很大程度上依然只是一个局部大国——只能向其他国家提供经济关

Policy Program at George Washington University and author of the 2013 book "China Goes Global." But "China remains very much a partial power — and only offers other countries an economic relationship."	系”。
Still, for a nation like Namibia, China's pitches can be irresistible partly because they're rooted in historical solidarity. Beijing backed the black nationalist movement's liberation struggle against apartheid and its white South African overlords. Sam Nujoma, the leader of the South West Africa People's Organization (Swapo), visited Beijing in search of guns and funds in the early 1960s. When Namibia finally claimed independence in early 1990, with Nujoma as president, China became one of its first diplomatic allies, pronouncing the two countries "all-weather friends." (Beijing was also desperate for allies to break its diplomatic isolation after its violent crackdown on the 1989 democracy movement.)	但对纳米比亚这样的国家来说，中国的推销可能无法抗拒。这部分是因为它们有着团结一心的历史渊源。北京曾支持黑人民族主义运动反抗种族隔离与南非白人统治者的解放斗争。60年代初，西南非洲人民组织（South West Africa People's Organization，简称 Swapo）领袖山姆·努乔马(Sam Nujoma)曾访问北京，寻求武器和资金。当纳米比亚最终在1990年初宣布独立时，中国成为其最早的外交盟友之一，宣布两国是“全天候的朋友”。（暴力镇压1989年的民主运动后，北京也渴望获得盟友，以打破外交上的孤立局面。）
In addition to offering its own history as a model for climbing out of poverty, China provides no-strings financing that, unlike Western aid, is not conditional on such fine points as human rights, clean governance or fiscal restraint. "We welcomed China very much because, for the first time, it gave us a real alternative to a Western-driven agenda, whether it was South Africa or the Western world," Calle Schlettwein, Namibia's minister of finance, told me. "The Chinese say, 'We want you to be masters of your own destiny, so tell us what you want.'" But they have their conditions, too, he says. "They want de facto total control over everything, so it's difficult to bring about a situation that is truly beneficial."	除了把自己的历史作为摆脱贫困的榜样外，中国还提供无附带条件的资金。不同于西方的援助，这些资金不以诸如人权、廉政或财政紧缩这样的细节为条件。“我们非常欢迎中国，因为它让我们在西方——不管是南非还是西方世界——主导的议程之外，第一次真正有了其他选择，”纳米比亚财政部长卡勒·施莱特魏因(Calle Schlettwein)对我说。“中国人说，‘我们想让你们做自己命运的主人，所以告诉我们你们想要什么。’”但他说，中国人也有自己的条件。“他们想要对一切事务事实上的绝对控制权，因此很难产生一种真正有帮助的形势。”

China's leaders insist that its influence is entirely benign, a global exercise in what they call "win-win cooperation." And indeed, many of the projects Chinese companies are pursuing — roads and railways, ports and pipelines, mines and telecom networks — might never be built without them. China's investment in the Husab uranium mine, in which C.G.N. subsidiaries hold a 90 percent stake and the Namibian government owns 10 percent, is doing its part to stave off a recession. "We helped Namibia gain its political liberation," Xia Lili, a former Chinese diplomat who now works as an executive at a Chinese company in Windhoek, the Namibian capital, says. "Now we're helping it fight for economic emancipation."	中国领导人坚称它的影响完全是有益的，是在全球实现他们所说的“合作共赢”。中国公司正在这里修建公路和铁路、港口和管道、矿井和电信网络，的确，如果没有他们，这些项目或许永远修不起来。哈萨博铀矿由中国广核集团的子公司持股 90%，纳米比亚政府持股 10%，中国的投资正在为该国抵御经济衰退贡献力量。“我们帮助纳米比亚取得了政治解放，”夏丽丽（音）曾是中国的一名外交官，现在纳米比亚首都温得和克一家中国公司担任高管，她说。“现在，我们正在帮助它争取经济解放。”
For some Namibians, however, the flood of Chinese loans and investments doesn't look so much like freedom as it does a new form of colonialism. The infrastructure is welcome, but as projects made possible by loans — financed by the Chinese — they have saddled the economy with debt and done little to alleviate the nearly 30 percent unemployment rate. Over the last few months, moreover, a series of scandals involving Chinese nationals — including tax evasion, money-laundering and poaching endangered wildlife — has soured locals on a foreign presence that can seem largely extractive: pulling uranium, timber, rhino horns and profits out the country without benefiting a population that, because of apartheid's legacy, ranks among the most unequal economically in the world. In January, a Windhoek newspaper captured the rising sentiment with an illustration on its front page of a golden dragon devouring the Namibian flag. The	然而，对一些纳米比亚人来说，中国的大量贷款和投资看上去不太像自由，更像是一种新的殖民主义形式。基础设施受到欢迎，但是，尽管中国提供的贷款让相关项目成为可能，它们也让经济背上了债务，并且对降低该国接近 30% 的失业率几乎没起到作用。此外，过去几个月里一系列涉及中国人的丑闻，包括逃税、洗钱和偷猎濒危野生动物，使本地人对这支看上去可能是以榨取资源为主的外国势力感到失望：他们把铀、木材、犀牛角和利润运出纳米比亚，却没有惠及当地民众。因为种族隔离的遗留影响，纳米比亚是全世界经济最不平等的国家之一。1 月，温得和克一家报纸在头版上用一幅插图刻画了这种日渐强烈的情绪，画面上，一条金色的龙正在吞食纳米比亚国旗，标题是“用纳米比亚喂中国人”(Feeding Namibia to the Chinese)。

headline: "Feeding Namibia to the Chinese."
The question of how China is changing the world is often framed as a binary proposition: Is China the savior for developing nations, the only world power investing in their future — or is this the dawn of a new colonial era? The question itself, however, is misleading. In Namibia, as in much of the rest of the world, the narratives live uncomfortably side by side, impossible to disentangle. "You can argue that China is the best thing to happen to Africa — or the worst," says Eric Olander, the co-host of the weekly "China in Africa Podcast." "The beauty is in the complexity."	中国正在给世界带来什么改变？这个问题常常被设定成一个非此即彼的命题：中国是发展中国家的救星，是唯一一个投资它们未来的世界强国吗，抑或当前只是新殖民时代的黎明？然而，这个问题本身就是误导性的。和世界上的其他很多地方一样，在纳米比亚，这两种叙事令人不安地同时存在着，不可能理清。“你可以说中国是非洲遇到的最美好的事情，也可以说是最糟糕的事情，”周播节目《中国在非洲播客》(China in Africa Podcast)的主持人之一埃里克·奥兰德(Eric Olander)说。“美妙之处就在于这其中的错综复杂。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part1	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part1
Study Disputes Success of China's $100 Billion Forest Effort	研究称中国造林绿化运动效果被夸大
HONG KONG — China has invested more than $100 billion over the last decade alone in a nationwide campaign to plant new forests, and its top leaders speak of the effort with pride.	香港——过去十年里，中国投资了1000多亿美元，在全国范围内植树造林，中国高层领导人也非常自豪地谈到过这项工作。
"Planting trees now will benefit our future generations, and we should roll up our sleeves to plant more trees year after year, generation after generation," President Xi Jinping said in March at a tree-planting ceremony in Beijing.	习近平今年3月份在北京的一个植树仪式上说，“造林绿化是功在当代、利在千秋的事业，要一年接着一年干，一代接着一代干，撸起袖子加油干。”
But a study published on Wednesday suggests that some official estimates of China's greening campaign overstated its successes, and mistook shrubs for forests.	但本周三发表的一项研究表明，中国官方对绿化运动的估算夸大了它的成功，并且错误地把灌木当作了森林。
United Nations data, which are based on national statistics, show that between 2000 and 2010 China gained 167,568 square miles of forest, an	以各国自己的统计数据为依据的联合国数据显示，从2000年至2010年间，中国新增森林面积为167568平方英里，比加州的面积略大一点。中国自己

area slightly larger than California. China's own estimates were not far behind.	的估计也差不了多少。
But the newly released study, based partly on an analysis of high-resolution photographs, found that China had gained only about 12,741 square miles of forest over the same period, an area roughly the size of Maryland. And it found that much of the government's reported new forests were actually just collections of shrubs.	但最新发布在这份研究报告，其依据是对高分辨率照片进行的分析。它发现中国在这段时期新增了大约 12741 平方英里的森林，这个面积和马里兰州大致相当。报告还发现，政府报告中的大部分新森林实际上都是灌木丛。
"China's forests are not as green as we think," Xu Jianchu, a co-author of the study and a professor of ethnoecology at the Kunming Institute of Botany in southwest China, said in a telephone interview.	"中国的森林没有我们以为的那样绿，"这项研究的合著者许建初在接受电话采访时说。他是位于中国西南部的昆明植物研究所的民族生态学教授。
Lu Zhi, a conservation biologist at Peking University in Beijing, who was not involved in the study, said its findings were consistent with recent research suggesting that China's forest resources have not significantly increased despite the government's extensive tree-planting campaign or its efforts to halt commercial logging in forests.	北京大学保护生物学家吕植没有参与这项研究，她表示，这项发现和最近的一个研究结果是一致的，后者显示，尽管政府开展了广泛的植树活动，而且努力防止对森林进行商业采伐，但中国的森林资源却没有明显增长。
The authors of the study, published in the journal Proceedings of the Royal Society B, wrote that their results highlighted a need for more refined forest monitoring and a better way of measuring performance of Chinese forests based on "climatic suitability."	这项研究发表在了《皇家学会学报 B》(Royal Society B)中，其结果突显了中国需要对森林进行更精细的监测，并以“气候适宜性”为基础，找到更好的方法来衡量中国森林的表现。
"These findings indeed point to major gaps between the way the concept of forest is defined in the various international conventions, versus how the general public understands it," said Meine van Noordwijk, a professor of agroforestry at Wageningen University in the Netherlands and the chief science adviser for the World Agroforestry Center. He was not involved in the study.	荷兰瓦赫宁根大学(Wageningen University)农林业教授迈内·范诺德维克(Meine van Noordwijk)是世界农林中心首席科学顾问，他表示：“这些发现确实揭示了各种国际公约中对森林概念界定，和公众对森林的理解之间存在很大的差异。”他没有参与这项研究。

The study's authors wrote that the United Nations forestry data was far higher than their own estimates in part because it counted young plantations and bare land that is earmarked for planting new forests. Places where modest forestry gains were detected in China were often not targeted for afforestation, they wrote, because the land was in demand for agriculture or urbanization.	这项研究的作者写道，联合国林业数据远远高于他们的估计，部分原因是前者把刚种的森林，以及计划用来造林的裸地也计算在内了。在中国，森林面积增长很小的那些地区往往没有把造林当作目标，因为这些土地要满足农业或城市化需求。
Pinpointing tree-cover change in China is globally important, the authors wrote, in part because China is the world's leading timber importer and has invested more money than all other countries combined in tree-planting.	作者写道，在中国，弄清林木覆盖率的变化非常重要，部分原因是中国是全球主要木材进口国，在种植树木上投入的资金比所有其他国家加起来都多。
The major reason for ambiguity in forest estimates worldwide is that there are over 800 official definitions for the term "forest," with criteria ranging from over 10 percent to over 30 percent tree cover, the journal Nature Climate Change reported in 2015.	全球森林的估计数字之所以很笼统，主要是因为“森林”这个词有超过 800 个官方定义，《自然气候变化》(Nature Climate Change)杂志在 2015 年报道说，这些定义对林木覆盖率的标准要求有所不同，低的为 10%，高的到 30%。
Mr. Xu said the newly released study underscored how the Chinese government should pay closer attention to the areas that it targets for new forests, and avoid its practice of planting trees in semi-arid regions and deserts. "It's time to look at both the economic efficiency and the ecological returns," he said.	许建初表示，这份新发布的研究报告强调了中国政府应该如何重视他们有意造林的地区，避免在半干旱地区和沙漠地区种树。他说：“现在是时候考量经济效益和生态回报了。”
Mr. van Noordwijk said that to avoid such discrepancies in measuring forests, researchers could either clearly differentiate subcategories under the "umbrella" term of forest, or else avoid the term entirely.	范诺德维克说，为了避免在森林的测量上出现这种差异，研究人员可以在森林这个“笼统”术语下明确区分出子类别，或者就完全不用这个术语。
"Once you are over the initial shock, the latter is actually feasible," he said.	他说：“在最初的惊讶消失之后，你会发现后一种办法其实是可行的。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/study-disputes-success-of-chi	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/study-disputes-success-of-chi

nas-100-billion-forest-effort	nas-100-billion-forest-effort
After Trump's Phone Call to Philippines Leader, China's President Calls Him	习近平致电杜特地，中国继续拉拢菲律宾
BEIJING — President Xi Jinping of China spoke by phone on Wednesday with the president of the Philippines, Rodrigo Duterte, in what Chinese news media described as a friendly call that came just a few days after President Trump's amicable conversation with the authoritarian Filipino leader.	北京——中国国家主席习近平周三与菲律宾总统罗德里戈·杜特地(Rodrigo Duterte)通了电话，中国新闻媒体说这是一场友好的通话。就在几天之前，特朗普总统才和这位菲律宾强权领导人进行过友好交谈。
Mr. Xi's outreach to Mr. Duterte appeared to be part of efforts by the Chinese to woo a longtime American ally and strengthen their sovereignty claims in the South China Sea.	习近平主动和杜特地接触，似乎是中国的整体行动的一部分，他们一直在试图拉拢这个美国的长期盟友，强化中国在南海的主权主张。
Chinese news media said North Korea and other issues were discussed in the phone call. On Saturday, Mr. Trump, surprising his own staff, telephoned Mr. Duterte and invited him to visit the White House.	中国新闻媒体称，双方在电话中对朝鲜等问题进行了讨论。上周六，特朗普曾打电话给杜特地，邀请他访问白宫，此举让特朗普自己的幕僚也感到意外。
Mr. Trump's gesture was widely condemned over concerns about human rights abuses in the Philippines carried out under Mr. Duterte's auspices. In a sign of lingering tensions between the two countries, Mr. Duterte later said he might be too busy to make the trip.	特朗普的态度受到了广泛的谴责，因为在杜特地的支持下，菲律宾开展了一些侵犯人权的行动。杜特地后来表示，他可能太忙了，无法成行。
In Mr. Xi's follow-up to Mr. Trump's overture, he pledged to deepen ties with the Philippines and called the country a "friendly neighbor," according to Chinese news media reports. Mr. Xi also said Manila would be an "important partner" in his plan to invest in infrastructure overseas.	习近平在特朗普邀请杜特地之后跟进，据中国新闻媒体报道，他承诺加强与菲律宾的联系，并称菲律宾为“友好邻邦”。习近平还表示，在他的海外投资建设计划中，马尼拉将成为一个“重要的合作伙伴”。
The remarks were in line with China's recent attempts to capitalize on tensions between the United States and the Philippines and draw Mr. Duterte's government closer with promises of economic aid. But they	这些说法符合中国近年的打算，即利用美国和菲律宾之间的紧张局势，用经济援助的承诺来进一步拉拢杜特地政府。但这似乎也是一种表示感谢的方式，因为在两国声索有争议的南海岛屿上，菲律宾不再对中国持挑衅态度。

also appeared to be a way of thanking the Philippines for not provoking China over disputed South China Sea islands claimed by both countries.
"There is a scramble to win over the heart and mind of President Duterte," said Patrick M. Cronin, a senior adviser at the Center for a New American Security, a Washington-based policy research group.	华盛顿智囊团新美国安全中心(Center for a New American Security)的高级主管帕特里克·M·克罗宁(Patrick M. Cronin)表示：“目前大家都在争取赢得杜特地总统的心。”
The two leaders also discussed tensions in North Korea, with Mr. Xi reiterating China's call for restraint and dialogue. Mr. Trump and Mr. Duterte also spoke about North Korea in their call on Saturday, White House officials said.	两位领导人还讨论了朝鲜的紧张局势，习近平重申了中国对于遏制和对话的主张。白宫官员说，特朗普和杜特地也在周六的通话中谈到过朝鲜。
The phone call between Mr. Xi and Mr. Duterte came against the backdrop of warming ties between Mr. Xi and Mr. Trump, who is increasingly reliant on China to help contain the crisis over North Korea. The North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un, has threatened the United States and its Asian allies with nuclear war and repeatedly tested missiles in defiance of international sanctions.	习近平与杜特地通话的背景是，他与特朗普之间的关系也在转好，特朗普越来越依赖中国帮助他遏制朝鲜危机。朝鲜领导人金正恩用核战争来威胁美国及其亚洲盟国，并屡屡试射导弹，无视国际制裁。
The North Korea crisis has minimized or at least obscured trade disputes and other problems between the United States and China, including China's territorial claims over most of the South China Sea.	朝鲜危机使得美国和中国之间的贸易纠纷和其他问题变成了小事，或者至少不那么明显，其中一个问题就是中国对南海大部分海域的领土主张。
In what appears to be a remarkable deference to China by the Trump administration, no American Navy ship has gone within 12 miles of any disputed island in the South China Sea claimed by China since Mr. Trump took office, Defense Department officials say.	美国国防部官员说，自特朗普就职以来，没有任何美国军舰进入过任何南海争议岛屿的12英里范围内，这似乎是特朗普政府对中国表现出的一种明显尊重。
That is a major turnabout by Mr. Trump and his aides, who once vowed to challenge China's control of disputed reefs that it has turned into artificial islands, replete with military equipment and runways. Secretary	这是特朗普及其助手的一个重大转向，他们曾经发誓要挑战中国对一些争议礁石的控制权，中国把它们开发成人造岛屿，安装了军事设备，修建了跑道。国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)在确认他任职资格的听证会上曾表示，

of State Rex W. Tillerson had said during his confirmation hearings that China should be denied access to the islands.	应该阻止中国取得这些岛屿。
Since taking office last year, Mr. Duterte has upset the balance of power in Asia by vowing to cut some military and economic ties with the United States. At the same time, he has embraced China as an economic and security ally and acquiesced to Chinese demands to resolve territorial disputes in the South China Sea through direct talks rather than international arbitration.	杜特地自从去年上任以来，扬言要切断和美国的一些军事和经济关系，从而打破了亚洲的权力平衡。同时，他把中国作为一个经济和安全盟友，默许了中国通过直接会谈而不是国际仲裁来解决南海领土争端的主张。
This week, Mr. Duterte welcomed Chinese Navy ships to Davao City, where he had served as mayor for many years. It was the first visit by the Chinese Navy in several years.	本周，杜特地欢迎中国军舰抵达达沃市，他曾在那里担任市长多年。这是中国海军几年来第一次访问菲律宾。
In the phone call, Mr. Duterte thanked Mr. Xi for allowing him to tour a Chinese missile destroyer during the visit, according to a statement on Wednesday from the presidential palace in Manila.	马尼拉总统府周三发表的声明称，在通话中，杜特地感谢习近平让他参观了到访的中国导弹驱逐舰。
Relations between China and the Philippines were once seriously frayed over disputed territory in the South China Sea, a major waterway for international shipping. But under Mr. Duterte, the tensions have eased.	南海是国际航运的一条主要航道，中菲关系曾经因为在南海的争议领土遭受了严重破坏。但是在杜特地上台之后，这种紧张局势已经得到了缓解。
In a possible sign of Mr. Duterte's efforts to appease Beijing, the Association of Southeast Asian Nations, which Mr. Duterte presided over this year, did not criticize China's actions in the South China Sea in an official statement following a meeting in Manila last week.	菲律宾是东盟今年的轮值主席国，上周东盟在马尼拉举行的会议时，并没有批评中国在南海的行动，这可能是杜特地为安抚北京而作出的努力。
Asked by reporters covering that meeting whether China should be pressured over its territorial claims, Mr. Duterte was dismissive. "Who will dare pressure?" he asked. "Who can pressure China? Us?"	报道该会议的记者当时提问说，对于中国的领土主张，是否应该对中国施压，杜特地不屑一顾地说，“谁敢去施压？”他问。“谁能去给中国施压？我们？”

Dialogue with China, Mr. Duterte, said, is "the only luxury we have."	杜特地说，与中国的对话是“我们唯一的奢侈品”。
Bonnie S. Glaser, a senior adviser for Asia at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, said Mr. Xi might have been showing approval for Mr. Duterte's position by agreeing to speak with him.	华盛顿的国际战略研究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)高级顾问葛来仪(Bonnie S. Glaser)表示，习近平同意与杜特地交谈，可能是在展现对其立场的认同。
"China has benefited greatly from the shift in Manila's policy toward the South China Sea and Duterte's friendly approach to Beijing," she said.	她说：“马尼拉在南海立场上的转变，以及杜特地对北京的示好，让中国受益匪浅。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/trump-duterte-xi-south-china-sea	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/trump-duterte-xi-south-china-sea
Why Trump's Budding Bromance With Xi Is Doomed	特朗普和习近平的兄弟情谊注定难持久
BEIJING — They were both born to privilege. They both possess boundless self-confidence. Each seeks advice from a select inner circle, ignoring the big bureaucracies of his government.	北京——他们都出身于特权阶层。他们都有无止境的自信。他们各自在一个至亲好友的核心圈子中寻求咨询，忽视各自政府的大官僚机构。
President Xi Jinping of China and President Trump, despite vastly different personal styles, have those things in common.	尽管他们有极不同的个人风格，但中国国家主席习近平与美国总统特朗普有上述共同之处。
Mr. Trump, not known for his effusive praise of world leaders, said in an interview on CBS's "Face the Nation" last weekend that his relationship with China was "already acclaimed as being something very special, something very different than we've ever had." He called Mr. Xi "a man that I've gotten to like and respect."	不以对世界领导人极尽溢美之词闻名的特朗普，上周末在接受哥伦比亚广播公司《面向全国》(Face the Nation)节目采访时表示，他与中国的关系“已经受到高度评价，是一种非常特殊的关系，与我们曾经有过的不同。”他称习近平是“一位我已经开始喜欢和尊重的男人”。
But beneath the bonhomie, Chinese analysts say, fundamental differences of strategic interest are likely to undermine any personal ties Mr. Trump says he has forged with the Chinese leader. The romance, they say, may be more a short marriage of convenience.	但是，中国分析人士说，在欢乐友情的背后，战略利益上的根本分歧很可能会削弱特朗普所说的他已经与中国领导人建立起来的个人关系。他们说，两国领导人之间的兄弟情谊可能会像一段简短的权宜婚姻。
Mr. Trump's public effusiveness is barely reciprocated in China. The	特朗普公开表露的溢美之词几乎没有在中国得到回应。这里的官方媒体对特

state-run media accords Mr. Trump polite coverage, much more so than it did President Barack Obama — a signal that the government, for the time being, would like the Chinese people to view the American president in a positive light.	朗普的报道很有礼貌，比对奥巴马总统的报道礼貌得多，这表明政府至少在目前希望中国人民能够积极地看待这位美国总统。
Among foreign policy experts, however, there is skepticism that Mr. Trump's flattery of Mr. Xi, and his reliance on the Chinese leader to bear down on North Korea over its nuclear program, will bring the results he wants.	然而，在外交政策专家中有一种怀疑，认为特朗普对习近平的奉承、以及他依赖这位中国领导人在朝鲜核问题上对朝鲜施压的做法，不会带来他所期望的结果。
Mr. Trump has said he would give Mr. Xi more on a trade deal if China — North Korea's main trading partner and sole major ally — cracked down on its recalcitrant neighbor. "I think that, frankly, North Korea is maybe more important than trade," Mr. Trump said last weekend.	特朗普曾表示，如果朝鲜的主要贸易伙伴和唯一的大盟国中国能压制自己的顽固邻国的话，他会让习近平得到更好的贸易协议。“我认为，坦白地说，朝鲜可能比贸易更重要，”特朗普在上周末说。
In essence, the Trump administration is asking China to apply maximum economic pressure on the North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un, so that he will relinquish his nuclear arsenal, or at least agree to negotiate on Washington's terms.	从本质上讲，特朗普政府在要求中国对朝鲜领导人金正恩施加最大的经济压力，以让其放弃核武器，或者至少同意按照华盛顿的条件进行谈判。
Analysts say Mr. Xi is likely to take steps to curb the activities of some Chinese companies that help North Korea with the foreign exchange it badly needs, but not all of them. They say he may even, at some point, shut down the oil supply from China that keeps the economy afloat — but if so, only for a short period.	分析人士说，习近平可能会采取措施，遏制一些帮助朝鲜获得其急需的外汇的中国公司的活动，但不会限制所有的这类公司。他们说，习近平甚至可能在某个时刻停掉维系朝鲜经济的、来自中国的石油供应，但如果这样做的话，也只会是短时间的。
Some analysts said Mr. Trump's own predictability should not be taken for granted.	有些分析人士说，特朗普本人的可预测性不应被认为是理所当然的。
"He needs China to help implement what he wants on North Korea," said Yan Xuetong, director of the Institute for International Relations at	"他需要中国帮助他实现他希望在朝鲜问题上得到的东西，"清华大学国际问题研究所所长阎学通说。"这不会成功。特朗普很快会改变他对中国的态度。"

Tsinghua University. "It won't work. Trump will change his attitude to China very soon. I don't think he will be so nice to our president for very long. His policy toward China is not durable."	我觉得，他对我们的国家主席这么友好的时间不会很长了。他的中国政策不会持久。”
Others noted that it would be against China's national security interests to side with the United States against North Korea.	其他人则指出，中国与美国站在一起与朝鲜对抗，不符合中国的国家安全利益。
"I think this ends unhappily," said Douglas H. Paal, vice president for studies at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. "In the end, China is not going to deliver North Korea on our doorstep. China will say: 'We've done these things. What are you so upset about?'"	“我认为这会有不幸的结局，”卡内基国际和平研究院负责研究的副院长包道格(Douglas H. Paal)说。“到头来，中国不会把朝鲜送到我们的家门口。中国会说：‘我们做了这些事情。你凭什么不高兴？’”
Mr. Trump, who likes to do business by phone, is acquiring a reputation for pestering Mr. Xi. He called the Chinese president four days after their summit meeting in Florida last month, saying afterward on Twitter that he had had "a very good call" with Mr. Xi about the "menace of North Korea."	喜欢在电话里谈生意的特朗普，正在得到一个老缠着习近平的名声。上个月，他在佛罗里达州与习近平会面四天后就与中国国家主席通了电话，通话后，特朗普在 Twitter 上表示，他与习近平就“朝鲜的威胁”进行了“很好的交谈”。
He called again on April 23. Mr. Paal said he was told by Chinese officials that after that call, Mr. Xi did not appreciate being treated like a midlevel official. Mr. Trump should realize that the Chinese president sets the framework for policies but cannot be expected to keep a checklist of tasks, the officials told him.	4月23日，特朗普与习近平再次通了电话。包道格说，他从中国官员那里听到，这次通话之后，习近平不太高兴，他不喜欢被人当作中级官员对待。中国官员对包道格说，特朗普应该明白，中国国家主席为政策制定框架，但不能指望他有一个任务清单。
Still, Mr. Trump's impulse to reach out to Mr. Xi is in the tradition of some of the smoothest moments of relations between the two countries, and it plays to China's long-held preference to conduct policy through personal relationships.	尽管如此，特朗普对习近平感兴趣的冲动，是两国关系中某些最平稳时刻的传承，也符合中国长期以来喜欢通过个人关系处理政策问题的传统。
"Chinese leaders have demonstrated over and over again that they like to operate through personal relationships — like Mao Zedong and Zhou	“中国领导人一次又一次地显示，他们喜欢通过个人关系打交道，就像毛泽东和周恩来与亨利·基辛格那样，”约翰·霍普金斯大学高级国际研究学院驻校

Enlai with Henry Kissinger,” said James Mann, a fellow in residence at Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies and the author of “About Face: A History of America’s Curious Relationship With China, From Nixon to Clinton.”	学者孟捷慕(James Mann)说，他是《脸面：从尼克松到克林顿的微妙中美关系史》(About Face: A History of America’s Curious Relationship With China, From Nixon to Clinton)一书的作者。
“It’s a matter of Chinese culture,” Mr. Mann said, “but it also serves their interests, because personalized diplomacy helps them overcome the idea that China should be treated by the same impersonal rules and policies that apply everywhere else.”	“这是中国文化的问题，”孟捷慕说，“但也符合他们的利益，因为个体化的外交帮助他们克服一种他们不喜欢的观念，既应该用对其他地方适用的不讲人情的规则和政策来对待中国。”
It is not unusual for a new American president to reach out to a foreign leader, even an adversarial one, in an attempt to break a pattern of the past.	美国新任总统与外国领导人、甚至是敌对的领导人接触，试图打破过去格局的做法并不罕见。
Early in his tenure, President George W. Bush praised President Vladimir V. Putin of Russia, saying he had “looked the man in the eye. I found him very straightforward and trustworthy — I was able to get a sense of his soul.”	乔治·W·布什总统就任后不久曾称赞过俄罗斯总统弗拉基米尔·V·普京，说他“直视过这个男人的眼睛。我发现他非常直率而且值得信任——我对他的灵魂能有些感受。”
Former Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice later wrote in her memoir that Mr. Bush’s remark had made him appear gullible. “We were never able to escape the perception that the president had naïvely trusted Putin and then been betrayed,” she said.	前国务卿康多莉扎·赖斯(Condoleezza Rice)后来在回忆录中写道，布什的话让他显得容易上当。“我们从未摆脱总统天真地信任了普京，但后来被普京辜负的看法。”
Though they come from vastly different worlds, Mr. Xi and Mr. Trump were both born into privilege. Mr. Xi’s father, Xi Zhongxun, was a senior general under Mao during the civil war and helped the Communists come to power. Mr. Trump’s father, Fred C. Trump, was a major New York City builder who left a fortune to his son.	虽然他们来自极为不同的世界，但习近平和特朗普都出身于特权阶层。习近平的父亲习仲勋在国共内战期间是毛泽东手下的一名高级将领，对共产党的上台有功。特朗普的父亲弗雷德·C·特朗普(Fred C. Trump)是纽约市的一个主要开发商，给儿子留下了一大笔财富。
Both men rely on a small group of people to help craft their decisions.	他们两人都依赖一个小圈子来帮助他们做决定。在世界各地与习近平一起旅

For Mr. Xi, Li Zhanshu and Wang Huning, two secretive officials who travel with him everywhere, are said to be the most influential.	行的栗战书和王沪宁这两位神秘官员，据说对习近平的影响力最大。
For Mr. Trump, his daughter Ivanka, and her husband, Jared Kushner, outstrip everyone else. It is Mr. Kushner who has served as the go-between for Mr. Trump in his dealings with the Chinese. He has convinced his father-in-law of the importance of good relations with China, and encouraged him to play up the personal relationship with Mr. Xi, American analysts familiar with the arrangements said.	对特朗普来说，女儿伊万卡(Ivanka)和女婿贾里斯·库什纳(Jared Kushner)的影响力超过任何其他。库什纳是特朗普与中国打交道的中间人。他说服了岳父与中国保持良好关系的重要性，并鼓励特朗普强调与习近平的个人关系，据熟悉这些安排的美国分析人士说。
Mr. Xi has consistently shown contempt for Kim Jong-un and declined to meet with him, unlike Mr. Trump, who said Monday that he would meet with the North Korean leader if the circumstances were right.	习近平对金正恩始终表示蔑视，并拒绝与金正恩会面，这与特朗普不同，特朗普周一表示，如果情况合适的话，他会与这位朝鲜领导人会面。
But Mr. Xi's remoteness from Mr. Kim should not be taken to mean that he will do what Mr. Trump wants and force North Korea to change its behavior, Chinese analysts said.	但是，习近平与金正恩的疏远，不应该被理解为是他会做特朗普想要他做的事情，既强迫朝鲜改变其行为，中国的分析人士说。
"There is no possibility for China to fix the situation," said Shi Yinhong, professor of international relations at Renmin University in Beijing. "That's because China does not want a nuclear-armed enemy in North Korea."	"中国没有办法解决这个问题，"北京中国人民大学国际关系教授时殷鸿说。"那是因为，中国不想有朝鲜这个拥有核武装的敌人。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/why-trumps-budding-bromance-with-xi-is-doomed	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170504/why-trumps-budding-bromance-with-xi-is-doomed
Is China the World's New Colonial Power?	中国式新殖民主义？（二）：新的边疆
Read Part 1.	中国式新殖民主义？（一）：全天候的朋友
The sign on the lime green cement wall outside the restaurant, written in Chinese, read "Ye Shanghai": "Shanghai Nights." Inside, the lunch crowd was already gone, but six middle-aged Chinese men and women	餐厅鲜绿色的水泥外墙上挂着牌子，上面用中文写着“夜上海”。餐厅里面，吃午饭的人群已经离去，只有六名中年中国男女围坐在一张桌子旁边，其中就有餐厅老板詹姆斯·沈(James Shen)和他妻子罗丝(Rose)。他们一边剥虾，

— including James Shen and his wife, Rose, the proprietors — crowded around a table peeling prawns and sucking heartily on the shells. Nobody spoke. Blaring from the flat-screen television on the wall was a special report on CCTV-4, a channel from China’s state television broadcaster, breathlessly describing the powers of the People’s Liberation Army. When a double row of explosions erupted in the sea, Rose exclaimed, “Wah, our China is so strong!”	一边尽情吮吸着虾壳。没人说话。墙上的平板电视上播放着中国官方电视台中央电视台中文国际频道的一则特别报道。报道激动地描述着中国人民解放军的实力。当海面上出现两排爆炸时，罗丝喊了起来，“哇，我们国家这么强大！”
The couple’s restaurant is in Walvis Bay, a port surrounded on three sides by the Namib Desert, which some consider the oldest in the world. James and Rose are part of the early wave of Chinese immigrants who landed in Africa 20 years ago and never left. The Chinese diaspora has a long history of finding a foothold, and then thriving, in some of the world’s most remote places: I’ve bumped into Chinese merchants everywhere from the Arctic tundra of Siberia to mining towns in the Andes. In Africa, entrepreneurs like James and Rose found a new frontier with the space, freedom and opportunities that many early settlers saw in the American West. “My husband came to look at business here, and he fell in love with the wide-open spaces,” Rose told me. “But we’re still Chinese first and foremost.”	这对夫妇的餐厅位于沃尔维斯湾，这座港口三面都被纳米比沙漠环绕着。有人认为纳米比沙漠是世界上最古老的沙漠。詹姆斯和罗丝在早期中国移民浪潮中前来。他们在 20 年前来到非洲，之后再未离开。背井离乡的华人在世界上最偏远的一些地区站稳脚跟，然后繁荣发展，这种历史颇为悠久：从北极的西伯利亚冻原到安第斯山脉深处的矿业城镇，我在各个地方都碰到过中国商人。在非洲，像詹姆斯和罗丝这样的企业家发现了一个新边疆。这里有很多空间、自由和机会，就像早期移民在美国西部所看到的那样。“我丈夫来考察生意，他爱上了这里的广阔空间，”罗丝告诉我。“但我们首先还是中国人。”
Like many Chinese immigrants around the world, the couple began by opening a small mom-and-pop shop, filling the shelves with cheap clothes, shoes and bags shipped by container from China. Their store, James and Rose, still stands at a central intersection of Walvis Bay, even as their ventures have expanded to include a hotel, a restaurant, a karaoke bar, a massage parlor and a trading company. Today there are	和世界各地的很多中国移民一样，他们先是开了一个小型夫妻店，在货架上摆满了用集装箱从中国运来的廉价服装、鞋履和箱包。那家名为“詹姆斯和罗丝”(James and Rose)的商店现在依然矗立在沃尔维斯湾中心的一个十字路口处，但他们的生意如今已经扩大到一家酒店、一家餐厅、一个卡拉 OK 厅、一家按摩院和一个贸易公司。如今，纳米比亚几乎每个镇都有这种中国人开的店——在整个非洲，这种店铺数以千计。

such Chinese-run stores in nearly every town in Namibia – and thousands more across Africa.
On a recent Sunday in Windhoek’s Chinatown, where dozens of shops occupy a series of long warehouses in the city’s industrial district, Namibian families strolled the lanes, haggling over everything from knockoff Nikes and plastic children’s toys to solar panels and secondhand mobile phones. One man told me he liked the low prices, even as he complained about the goods’ poor quality – and the harm they did to the local garment industry. Wu Qiaoxia, a Chinese entrepreneur whose real estate business began with a simple store in the northern town of Oshakati, waves off such criticism. “Many Namibian children didn’t even have shoes before we got here,” Wu says. “The people here needed everything, and we sold it to them, cheaply.”	温得和克的中国城位于该市工业区内，一系列长方形仓库里开着数十家店铺。前不久的一个周日，纳米比亚人拖家带口地在店铺之间的过道里溜达，对着各种商品讨价还价，从冒牌耐克(Nike)鞋和塑料儿童玩具，到太阳能电池板和二手手机。一名男子对我说，他喜欢这里低廉的价格，但他也抱怨这些商品质量不好，此外还对本地服装行业造成伤害。中国房地产企业家吴乔侠（音）是靠北部奥沙卡蒂镇的一家简易小店起家的，他对这种指责不屑一顾。“我们来之前，纳米比亚很多孩子甚至连鞋都没有，”吴乔侠说。“这里的人什么都需要，是我们廉价卖给他们的。”
One of the most influential Chinese immigrants in Namibia, Jack Huang, parlayed a small textile business into a mining, real estate and trade conglomerate. A backslapping 49-year-old native of Nantong, a city located about two hours northwest of Shanghai, Huang moved to Namibia nearly two decades ago. Early on, he helped transform Oshikango, a sleepy town on the Angolan border, into a raucous Chinese trading post anchored by his properties. Angolans made rich by a boom in oil production flooded in to buy things like stereos and S.U.V.s, paying with United States dollars or, at times, diamonds. The collapse of oil prices has turned Oshikango into a ghost town. But Huang, through his Sun Investment Group, has diversified into many	黄跃权是纳米比亚最有影响力的中国移民之一，他把一个小型纺织企业发展成了一个采矿、房地产和贸易企业集团。待人热情的他现年49岁，来自距上海西北大约两小时车程的南通市。近20年前，黄跃权来到纳米比亚。从早期，他就从中发挥作用，把毗邻安哥拉边境的宁静小镇奥希坎戈变成了一个繁荣的中国贸易中心，以他的产业为支柱。因繁荣的石油生产而致富的安哥拉人大量涌入，用美元，有时是钻石，购买立体音响和SUV这类东西。油价的暴跌把奥希坎戈变成了一座鬼城。但是，通过他的太阳投资集团，黄跃权已经经营了多种利润丰厚的企业，包括一家矿业公司。该矿企已在哈萨博附近发现了其他铀矿。

lucrative businesses, including a mining venture that has identified other uranium deposits close to Husab.
Huang's success has come, in part, from cultivating connections with Namibia's political elite. Swapo, the guerrilla-group-turned-political-party, has dominated Namibia's elections since its independence — the kind of stability that appeals to China's rulers and to entrepreneurs hoping to make long-lasting connections. Huang has referred to Sam Nujoma, Namibia's founding father, as "my special adviser." During the 2014 election campaign, Huang and the Swapo candidate Hage Geingob (then the prime minister, now the president) attended a gala dinner at which, according to local reporting, the Chinese businessman pledged Geingob's political party a donation of 1 million Namibian dollars — about $90,000. (Huang denies this.)	黄跃权的成功，部分来自和纳米比亚的政治精英建立关系。自纳米比亚独立以来，前身是游击队组织的纳米比亚人组党(Swapo)一直主宰着该国的选举。这种稳定受到了中国统治者以及希望建立长期关系的企业家们青睐。黄跃权说，纳米比亚国父山姆·努乔马是“我的特别顾问”。2014年竞选期间，黄跃权和纳米比亚人组党候选人哈格·根哥布(Hage Geingob)（时任总理，现任总统）出席了一场晚宴。据本地的报道称，在晚宴上，这名中国商人承诺向根哥布所在的政党捐款100万纳米比亚元——大约相当于九万美元。（黄跃权否认了这一报道。）
Huang's friends prefer to emphasize how much he has given back to his host country through his charity, the Namibia-China Loving Heart Organization. (Huang was out of the country at the time of my visit, but he authorized two deputies to speak with me on his behalf.) Over the last seven years, Huang's charity has awarded more than $2 million in scholarships to Namibian students to attend medical school in China (in Nantong, naturally). Some critics, however, claim that a few recipients of Huang's philanthropy were not needy students but children of the ruling elite. Last year, moreover, the local media revealed that before Geingob was elected president in 2014, Huang was the owner of a majority stake in a real estate venture whose only other shareholders	黄跃权的朋友更愿意强调他通过自己创办的慈善机构“纳米比亚华人爱心组织”(Namibia-China Loving Heart Organization)，为东道国做出了多少回报。（我去采访时，黄跃权不在纳米比亚，但他授权两名副手代表他接受我的采访。）过去七年里，黄跃权的慈善机构向纳米比亚学生发放了逾200万美元的奖学金，供他们去中国上医学院（当然，是在南通）。然而，部分批评人士说，一些接受黄跃权善款的人并不是穷学生，而是统治精英的子女。此外，本地媒体去年曝出，在根哥布2014年当选总统之前，黄跃权控股的一家房地产企业的其他股东是根哥布的家族信托基金和他的前妻。黄跃权和根哥布试图在媒体上撇清与对方的关系，根哥布也宣称没有对该公司的经营控制权。但黄跃权的朋友对他巴结权贵的做法感到担心。“我一直提醒杰克（Jack，黄跃权的英文名——译注），“一个偶尔和黄跃权打交道的商人说。”不

are Geingob's family trust and ex-wife. The men tried to distance themselves from each other in the press, and Geingob professed to have no operational control of the company. Still, Huang's friends worry about his courting of the powerful. "I kept warning Jack," says one businessman who occasionally socializes with Huang. "'Don't get too close to the fire. You'll burn your fingers.'"	要离火太近。会引火烧身。”
The exact number of Chinese living in Namibia remains the subject of contentious debate. No definitive data exist, and the constant ebb and flow of contract workers muddies the picture. Last fall, Namibia's home-affairs ministry raised alarms when it claimed that 100,000 Chinese nationals live in Namibia — a figure that would be equivalent to 4 percent of the population. More conservative estimates run between 10,000 and 20,000. It is clear, however, that in Namibia and all across the developing world, the older generation of long-term immigrants is being eclipsed by China's new diaspora: younger, more educated workers going abroad to get experience — and make a small fortune — before returning to China. "We were among the first ones here," Rose Shen says, "but now there are Chinese everywhere."	生活在纳米比亚的中国人的具体人数依然是一个有争议的话题。目前没有权威的数据，合同工人数的波动让情况变得更加复杂。去年秋天，纳米比亚内务部称纳米比亚生活着 10 万中国人，相当于该国人口的 4%，这个数字引起了警觉。根据更保守的估计，中国人的人数在一万到两万人之间。然而，显而易见的是，在纳米比亚和所有发展中国家，老一代长期移民正在被中国新移民所超越：这些新移民是更年轻、受教育程度更高的工人，他们去国外是为了获得经验，并且赚一小笔钱，之后就会回到中国。“我们属于最先来的，”罗丝·沈说，“但现在到处都有中国人。”
Sean Hao, a young telecommunications engineer in Windhoek, is part of that diaspora. Raised in a cave dwelling in central China's Shaanxi province, he wasn't expected to venture far beyond his village's orchard of jujube trees. But Hao was accepted by a university, a first for his family, and worked after graduation installing networks for a Chinese telecom giant. Renting a room for just $15 a month helped him squirrel away most of his $500 monthly salary, but his savings were hardly	年轻电信工程师肖恩·郝(Sean Hao)在温得和克工作，他也是这个移民群体中的一员。他在中国中部省份陕西的一个窑洞里长大成人，从没有人想到他的足迹会踏出村里那片枣园。但肖恩·郝考上了大学，成了家里的第一个大学生，毕业后，他在中国一家大型电信公司从事网络安装工作。当时，他租住在月租仅为 15 美元的房间里，把 500 美元月薪的一大半攒下来，但这笔积蓄仍然不足以买下结婚所需的公寓。由于政府实施严格的计划生育政策，中国的年轻男性远远多于女性，一套公寓被视为男人吸引女性与自己结婚、避

enough to buy the apartment he would need to marry. In a country where young men far outnumber women — a legacy of the government’s restrictive family-planning policy — an apartment is seen as a prerequisite for attracting a wife and avoiding the fate of a “bare branch” (an unmarried person). But real estate seemed an impossible aspiration for a young man who grew up in a cave.	免成为光棍的先决条件。但对于一个在窑洞里长大的年轻男子来说，房产似乎可望而不可及。
When a headhunter told Hao about a job in Africa that would pay more than $6,000 a month, Hao figured it was a swindle. “I thought this must be a case of human trafficking,” he remembers, laughing. The offer was real, but the job was in Nigeria, which he thought was unsafe. So Hao instead signed a contract to work on building the telecom system in Angola for more than $5,000 a month, more than 10 times his previous salary. After a year in Africa, Hao put a down payment on an apartment in Xi’an, a city in central China, and persuaded his girlfriend’s parents that he was financially secure enough to marry their daughter. Hao and his wife soon had a baby girl, but his job in Africa meant that he saw her for only one month out of her first 15. “She didn’t even recognize me,” he said. His wife and daughter joined him in his new posting in Namibia, but they lasted one lonely year before going home, leaving Hao stuck between his longing to be with his family in China and the opportunity to make money in Namibia.	当一名猎头告诉肖恩·郝，非洲有一个工作机会，月薪超过 6000 美元的时候，他以为自己遇到了骗局。“我寻思他们肯定是贩卖人口的，”他笑着回忆。这个工作邀约是真实的，但工作地点在尼日利亚，他觉得不太安全。于是，肖恩·郝签了另外一份工作合约——在安哥拉建设电信系统，月薪 5000 多美元，是他以前工资的十倍还多。在非洲工作了一年以后，肖恩·郝为一套位于中国中部城市西安的公寓交了首付，并让女友的父母相信，他的财务状况足够安全，可以和他们的女儿结婚。肖恩·郝和妻子很快就生了一个女儿，但由于他在非洲工作，女儿长到 15 个月大的时候，只和他相处过一个月。“她甚至都不认识我了，”他说。他在纳米比亚找到新工作以后，妻女来这里和他团聚，但寂寞的日子只撑过了一年，她们就回国了，留下肖恩·郝一个人，在回国与家人团聚的渴望与留在纳米比亚赚钱的机会之间犹豫不决。
On a warm Saturday night in late March, Hao joined a dozen Chinese colleagues under the thatched roofs of Joe’s Beerhouse in Windhoek. Two of the men were headed back to China after finishing their short-term contracts, and the group was sending them off by knocking	3 月末，一个温暖的周六夜晚，肖恩·郝与十几名中国同事聚集在温得和克“乔的啤酒屋”(Joe’s Beerhouse)的茅草屋顶下。其中两个男人在短期工作合约到期后即将返回中国，这群人一杯杯地喝着德式啤酒为他们送行。我赶到酒吧的时候，已经有三个男人喝得不省人事，头伏在桌子上，还有几个人喝得

back pints of German-style lager. By the time I arrived at the bar, three men had already passed out, their heads planted on the table, and a few others were listing badly. Hao, the designated driver, had barely sipped any beer at all. Celebrating his colleagues' return to the motherland had put him in a contemplative mood. "I'd like to go home, too," he said, "but there are no jobs in China that could pay me even close to what I'm making now."	东倒西歪。被指定当司机的肖恩·郝几乎滴酒未沾。庆祝同事回国让他陷入了沉思。“我也想回家，”他说，“但在中国找不到工资水平哪怕是和现在接近的工作。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170505/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part2	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170505/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part2
A Monument to Jesus in the City of Mao	在长沙，耶稣的圣殿高过毛主席像
CHANGSHA, China — Sweeping heavenward like an enormous glass-and-metal ski jump, a new Protestant church dominates the crumbled earth, freshly planted trees and unfinished water features of a suburban park under construction in Changsha.	中国长沙——在长沙郊区一个在建的公园里，一座新落成的新教教堂耸立在碎裂的泥地、新栽种的树和尚未完工的水景之中。它向天而立，犹如一个用玻璃和金属建造的巨大滑雪跳台。
About 260 feet tall and topped by a cross, the Xingsha Church is bigger even than the biggest statue of Mao Zedong in China, which is just three miles west of here.	该教堂名为星沙堂，高约 80 米，顶上安放着一个十字架。它甚至比 5 公里以西、中国最大的毛泽东塑像还要大。
On Tangerine Island, in the broad Xiang River, the massive granite head and shoulders of the revolutionary leader rear up as if surveying the world. But at 105 feet, the sculpture is still less than half the height of the church.	在宽阔湘江上的橘子洲，这位革命领袖的巨大头部和肩膀花岗岩雕塑巍然而立，像是在审视这个世界。但它 32 米的高度仍不及星沙堂的一半。
That disparity, in the very city where Mao spent his youth and first embraced politically radical ideas, has infuriated his most fervent admirers across China.	出现在毛泽东度过青年时光，并第一次接受政治激进思想的这座城市所形成的巨大差异，激怒了他在全国各地最狂热的崇拜者。
Sensing an ideological challenge to their hero — who founded the	今年，成千上万的毛泽东“红色”粉丝觉得自己的英雄——他在 1949 年创立了

People's Republic in 1949 and denounced Christianity as a tool of foreign imperialism — thousands of Mao's "red" fans reached for their smartphones and computers this year and charged into verbal battle against this defilement of sacred ground.	中华人民共和国，并谴责基督教是外国帝国主义的工具——在意识形态上受到了挑战，拿出智能手机和电脑，与圣地出现的这个污点展开了口水战。
They railed against the church's size and symbolism, saying that building it in a public space was a misappropriation of resources in the officially atheist state.	他们愤怒地抗议教堂的规模和象征意义，称在这个官方信奉无神论的国家，在公共场所修建教堂是滥用资源。
"Going for Christianity in a big way damages our nation's ideological security," wrote Zhao Danyang of the website Red Morality Think Tank, in a typical post when the furor erupted in February.	这种公愤在2月爆发时，赵丹阳在网站“红德智库”上一篇颇具代表性的文章中写道，“大兴基督教危害国家意识形态安全。”
Wary of a political crisis, Changsha officials rushed to tamp down the controversy.	长沙的官员担心出现政治危机，迅速平息争议。
Guards were posted at the Xingsha Ecological Park, where the church, a Bible studies center, administrative offices and residential quarters are near a Cupid Garden for local sweethearts. News reports vanished from the internet. Public debate fizzled. Multiple telephone calls to the provincial headquarters of the state-run Protestant association went unanswered. A bell jar of censorship descended.	教堂所在的星沙生态公园配备了保安。在这个公园里，星沙堂、一个圣经学习中心、行政管理办公室和居住区就设在供当地情侣游玩的丘比特园附近。网上的新闻报道消失不见。公开讨论也偃旗息鼓。记者多次致电由官方控制的新教协会的省级总部，均无人接听。审查的钟形罩已经扣下。
But on the streets of Changsha, the capital of Hunan Province, residents seem to know or care little about the clash of Christianity and Communism in their midst. Asked about it, several people shrugged and declined to comment, or said they had not heard of it.	但在湖南省会长沙的街头，民众对基督教与共产主义在他们身边发生的这场冲突似乎知之甚少，或是不怎么关心。被问到时，好几个人耸耸肩拒绝发表评论，或表示没听说过此事。
If such grass-roots insouciance in Mao's former home seems surprising, to one resident it makes perfect sense.	如果草根阶层的这种不在乎的态度出现在毛泽东的故乡有些令人意外，那么对其中一人来说，这种现象很好理解。
"In Hunan, contradictions are not contradictions. They're normal," said	“在湖南，矛盾不是矛盾，是正常的，”探索山区非凡的语言多样性的小说《马

Han Shaogong, the author of "A Dictionary of Maqiao," a novel that explores the hilly region's extraordinary linguistic diversity. "Life here is a bit like Chinese food. Throw lots of different things into a wok and stir them around."	桥词典》的作者韩少功说。“这里的生活有点像中餐。把很多不一样的东西扔进锅里，然后拌匀。”
In the village outside Changsha where he farms and writes, Mr. Han said, Christianity coexists happily with other traditions. "There are a couple of old ladies who believe in Jesus, but they believe in Buddha, too," he said.	韩少功说，在长沙郊外他从事耕种和写作的那个村子里，基督教和其他传统友好共处。“有一对老姐妹信耶稣，但也信佛祖，”他说。
Although the Communist state suppressed religion as superstition until after Mao's death in 1976, it recognized five faiths — Protestantism, Catholicism, Buddhism, Taoism and Islam — which are managed through "patriotic" associations.	尽管直至毛泽东 1976 年去世后，这个共产主义国家都在把宗教当做迷信镇压，但它承认五种宗教信仰——新教、天主教、佛教、道教和伊斯兰教——并通过“爱国”协会管理它们。
Estimates vary, but many put the number of Protestants at about 60 million, half of them adherents of the government-approved church, the rest worshipping in illegal "house churches." A Protestant cleric at the Xingsha Ecological Park, who gave only his surname, Jiang, said Changsha's official Protestant churches had about 100,000 members.	各方估计的中国新教徒人数各不相同，但很多人认为中国有大约 6000 万新教徒，其中一半是得到政府批准的教堂的信徒，其余的人则在非法的“家庭教会”开展宗教活动。星沙生态公园的一名新教神职人员称，长沙官方的新教教堂有大约 10 万信徒。他只愿透露自己姓蒋（音）。
Reminders of Mao's connection to the city are everywhere. His image, on wall-mounted illuminated boxes, decorates the new subway. Restaurants advertise his favorite dishes, including fatty red braised pork. Chiles, also loved by Mao, fire up the cuisine.	这里到处都在提醒毛泽东与这座城市的联系。他的照片出现在墙上的灯箱上，装饰着新建成的地铁。餐厅为他最爱吃的菜做广告，包括高脂的红烧肉。同样深得毛泽东喜爱的辣椒，让湖南菜充满激情。
"We really like chile," Mr. Han said. "And we're hot-tempered. It's seen as a sign of strength."	“我们真的爱吃辣，”韩少功说。“性子急。这被当成了一种力量的象征。”
Wu Aiyun was one of several women distributing free shampoo samples near Mao's statue on Tangerine Island, where a riot of spring	在橘子洲，春花烂漫。吴爱云（音）是几名在毛泽东塑像附件发放免费洗发水样品的女子之一。被问到曾试图镇压资本主义的毛泽东会怎么看待她们

flowers bloomed. She barely paused when asked what Mao, who tried to crush capitalism, would think of them.	时，她几乎没有停下脚步。
"I think he'd love what we're doing," she said. "That was then. This is now."	"我觉得他会喜欢我们正在做的事情，"她说。"那时候是那时候，现在是现在。"
Pointing at the stone ripples of Mao's hair, she joked: "He was a good-looking guy! Not bad hair!"	她指着毛泽东的波浪头开玩笑说："他挺帅的！头发不错！"
As a young man, Mao attended schools in Changsha, including a teacher-training college that charged no tuition and offered cheap board and lodging, he told Edgar Snow, as the American journalist recounted in "Red Star Over China."	美国记者埃德加·斯诺(Edgar Snow)在《西行漫记》(Red Star Over China)中写道，毛泽东告诉他，青年时期的自己在长沙上过多所学校，包括一所不收学费，还提供廉价食宿的师范学校。
"During this period my political ideas began to take shape," Mao told Snow. "Here also I acquired my first experiences in social action." He read Adam Smith and German philosophers in Changsha's public library, which opened in 1905 under the influence of Western missionaries.	"我的政治思想在这个时期开始形成，"毛泽东告诉斯诺。"我也是在这里获得社会行动的初步经验的。"他在长沙的公立图书馆里阅读亚当·斯密(Adam Smith)和德国哲学家的著作。该图书馆是1905年在西方传教士的影响下设立的。
Mao organized student and worker strikes in Changsha, helping shape a peasant movement of the kind that would later take all of China.	毛泽东在长沙组织学生罢课、工人罢工，并参与组织了一场农民运动。后来，这种农民运动在中国遍地开花。
"We say, 'No man of Xiang isn't a soldier,'" Mr. Han said, using a local name for Hunan.	"我们说，'无湘不成军'，"韩少功说。湘是湖南的简称。
But the region is also known for its reverence for scholarship, he said. "In Guangdong, in the south, a local hero would be a businessman. In Hunan, traditionally it was a scholar."	他说，当地也以尊重学问而闻名。"在广东，在南方，地方名人会是商人。而在湖南，传统上就是学者。"
Reflecting both those soldierly and scholarly values, Mao went on vigorous treks through the Hunan countryside. He believed that the Chinese must become stronger if they were to throw out the	他在湖南农村考察，一边思考着那些文武价值观。他相信，如果把帝国主义和传教士赶出去，中国人一定会变得更强大。 imperialists and missionaries.

Changsha was a hub of Christianity. The Yale Foreign Missionary Society, later the Yale-China Association, was founded here in 1901, a connection that endures. New Haven, home to Yale, is developing a sister city relationship with Changsha.	长沙曾是一个基督教重镇。1901年在这里成立了耶鲁外国传教团(Yale Foreign Missionary Society),也就是后来的雅礼协会,这种联系保持了下来。耶鲁的老家纽黑文正在与长沙发展姊妹城市关系。
"There once were many churches in Changsha, but many were knocked down," said Tan Hecheng, a Hunan native and former journalist whose account of a massacre in the province during Mao's Cultural Revolution, "The Killing Wind," was recently released in English but cannot be published in mainland China.	"长沙以前有许多教堂,但很多都被推倒了,"当过记者的湖南本地人谭合成说,他写的《杀人风:中国一个县在文革中陷入疯狂》(The Killing Wind)讲述了毛泽东发动的文革期间在该省进行的一场大屠杀,该书最近发行了英文版,但无法在中国大陆出版。
Despite that suffering, to many locals Mao is a source of pride, his fame conferring status on the city and drawing tourism.	尽管带来了这样的苦难,对很多当地人来说,毛泽东却是自豪之源,他的名声提升了该市的地位,促进了旅游业。
"Mao was a son of Changsha. And emperor. The most successful man in China. So he's a great asset to Hunan and Changsha," Mr. Tan said.	"毛泽东是长沙的儿子。是皇帝。是中国最成功的人,所以他对湖南和长沙来说是一笔巨大的财富。"谭合成说。
"Belief in the party has died, and everything today turns on advantage and disadvantage," he said. "Under such conditions, people don't care about anything, really. Mao is fine. Christianity is fine. It's all kind of irrelevant."	"党内的信仰已经死了,如今什么东西都取决于能带来什么好处和坏处。在这样的情况下,人们真的不关心什么了。毛泽东也好,基督教也罢,一切都无关紧要的。"
More than two months after the controversy broke, the Hunan Protestant association is not commenting on what will happen with the church. But people linked to China's Christian circles said one possibility that had been discussed to appease critics was walling it off from the rest of the park and removing the cross.	争议爆发两个多月后,湖南新教协会也没有对教会准备怎么做发表置评。但中国基督教界知情人士说,他们讨论了怎么安抚批评者,其中一种可能性就是把公园和其他地方隔绝开来,并且移除十字架。
Striking a compromise would suit the spirit of a place where people are tough but love, above all, a good time, Mr. Han said.	韩少功说,折衷很符合这里人的性格,当地人很顽强,但最爱的却是享乐。

"During the revolutionary years, they were really busy," he said. "But now it's all eat, drink, play. You could say there's something degenerate about it. But isn't it also kind of adorable?"	"在革命年代，他们真的很忙，"他说。"但现在都是吃喝玩乐。你可以说堕落了。但是这不也挺可爱的吗？"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170508/china-changsha-christian-church-park	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170508/china-changsha-christian-church-park
In China, It's the Party That Keeps the Boy Band Going	少年天团 TFBoys：粉丝爱，党也爱
BEIJING — The most shared post on Weibo, China's Twitter-like social media platform, is not a video of frolicking pandas or President Xi Jinping meeting world leaders, but a teenage boy's birthday message:	北京——在类似 Twitter 的中国社交媒体平台微博上，分享次数最多的帖子不是熊猫嬉戏的视频，或习近平主席会见其他国家领导人的新闻，而是一个少年的生日讯息。
"I'm 15 today. Thanks for being with me all these years."	"今天我十五岁了，谢谢这几年来你们的一直陪伴。"
Since that was posted in September 2014, it has been shared more than 335 million times, the most shared Weibo post ever, according to Guinness World Records.	这则帖子于 2015 年 9 月发布以来，已经被分享了 3.35 亿余次，根据吉尼斯世界纪录，它是迄今为止分享次数最多的微博。
The poster was Wang Junkai, leader of TFBoys, a wildly successful boy band in China. Since their debut in 2013, when the boys were just 12 and 13, they have won major Chinese music industry awards and amassed more than 20 million Weibo followers. Sales of band merchandise average more than $17 million per month, according to Chinese news reports.	发帖者王俊凯，是在中国大获成功的男孩组合 TFBoys 的队长。这几个男孩在 2013 年出道时不过十二三岁，自打那时起，他们收获了中国音乐界的多个重要奖项，积累了超过 2000 万微博粉丝。据中国媒体报道，该组合周边商品的月均销售额为 1700 多万美元。
So what explains their appeal?	他们为什么有这么大的吸引力？
"I like them because they express such positive values," said Jia Su, a 24-year-old advertising worker in Beijing. She has followed the group since she was a university student and now manages the Weibo account of a fan club for TFBoys. "They are nice, kind, hardworking. That's what the Japanese and Korean boy bands don't have."	"我喜欢他们是因为他们传递了正能量，"现年 24 岁的北京广告公司职员贾素说。她从大学时代开始一直是该组合的粉丝，现在管理着一个 TFBoys 粉丝俱乐部的微博账号。"他们善良、正直、努力工作。他们具备一些日韩男团不具备的品质。"

Unlike many teenage pop stars in Japan, South Korea and elsewhere, the members of TFBoys display no signs of youthful rebellion. They decidedly do not walk on the wild side. They sing of studying hard and serving the nation. The group's music is cheerful with upbeat lyrics, and the boys' appearance tends toward neat outfits and sweet smiles.	和日本、韩国等地很多青少年流行明星不同，TFBoys 的成员没有表现出一丝一毫年少的叛逆。他们绝不展示狂野冲动的一面。他们唱的是好好学习、报效国家。这个组合的音乐曲调明快，歌词乐观；几个成员总是穿着整洁的服装，展露甜美的笑容。
The group is no accident, having been formed by a company, Time Fengjun Entertainment, using three boys — Mr. Wang, Wang Yuan (no relation) and Yiyang Qianxi — plucked from its trainee program.	TFBoys 的成立并非偶然。北京时代峰峻文化艺术发展有限公司从自己的培训项目中选出三个男孩——王俊凯、王源、易烊千玺——组成了这个乐队。
The video for one of their most popular songs, "Manual of Youth," shows the boys dancing with comic book superheroes in a classroom aglow with pastel colors as they sing: "The sun of this world can only shine on me brightly because of confidence. The center of this stage only flashes for me."	《青春修炼手册》是他们最红的歌曲之一，视频中，这几个男孩在一个色彩柔和的教室里一边与漫画超级英雄共舞，一边唱道：“这世界的太阳，因为自信才能把我照亮。这舞台的中央，有我才闪亮。”
That wholesome schoolboy image has won TFBoys love not only from Chinese fans, but also from the government. They have twice been featured on the Chinese Lunar New Year television gala staged by CCTV, the state broadcaster. The Communist Youth League's official Weibo account often promotes the group's activities. In April, it posted an item about Wang Yuan's receiving a special award from United Nations officials in China for his proposals on education.	这种健康向上的校园男孩形象，不仅为 TFBoys 赢得了中国粉丝的喜爱，还让他们受到了政府的青睐。他们曾两度参加官方广播机构中央电视台举办的春节联欢晚会。共青团中央官方微博常常推介该组合的动态。今年4月，它发布了王源因其关于教育的建议而获联合国驻华官员颁发特别奖的消息。
On International Children's Day in 2015, the Communist Youth League released a video featuring TFBoys singing "We Are the Heirs of Communism," the song of the Young Pioneers, the Communist children's organization. In the video, they wear the Young Pioneers' signature red scarves and sing: "Love the country and the people. Fear	2015 年的国际儿童节那天，共青团中央发布了 TFBoys 演唱少年先锋队队歌《我们是共产主义接班人》的视频。少先队是共产党的儿童组织。视频中，戴着红领巾的他们唱道：“爱祖国，爱人民。不怕困难，不怕敌人。”

neither hardship nor the enemy.”
“One way the Chinese government controls the entertainment industry,” said Zhu Dake, a cultural critic at Tongji University in Shanghai, “is by honoring and financially rewarding those who, from the government’s perspective, are conveying positive values.”	“有关主管部门一直试图管理艺人的道德行为，”上海同济大学的文化批评家朱大可说，“其中一种管理方式是，给予所谓‘德艺双馨’的艺人以荣誉和经济方面的丰厚好处，从‘正面’引导艺人，鼓励其散发出符合规范的‘香气’。”
In this case, “positive values” means not just traditional values such as filial piety, social harmony and hard work, but also deference to the party line.	在这里，“德艺双馨”不仅意味着秉持孝顺、促进社会和谐、努力工作等传统价值观，还意味着拥护党的政策。
The Chinese authorities are quick to discipline celebrities who break the rules, whether by indulging in illicit drugs, soliciting prostitutes or demonstrating sympathy for Hong Kong or Taiwanese “separatists.” Recent victims have included South Korean entertainers. Since South Korea agreed last year to allow the United States to install a missile defense system — called the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or Thaad — South Korean shows have been blocked from the Chinese internet, and South Korean singers and actors have been barred from Chinese television.	艺人们只要打破这些规则，不论是沉溺于毒品、嫖娼，还是对香港或台湾的“分裂者”表示同情，立即就会受到中国当局的教训。最近，韩国的一些艺人也成了牺牲品。自从韩国于去年允许美国部署名为末段高空区域防御系统（Terminal High-Altitude Area Defense，简称“萨德”）的导弹防御系统以来，韩国节目便在中国互联网上遭遇了封杀，韩国歌星和演员也被中国电视台封杀。
“No company can risk sponsoring a ‘bad boy’ band that might end up on the government’s blacklist,” said Zou Dangrong, the chief executive of the Hunan Dangrong Film and Television Media Center, which trains people to become online celebrities. “The celebrities can’t have a ‘tainted history.’ They can’t just do whatever they want. That’s common sense in China.”	“那种叛逆的‘坏小子’组合在中国很有可能会进入政府黑名单，没有公司愿意冒这个风险，”培养网络艺人的机构——湖南当荣影视传媒中心总经理邹当荣说。“艺人不能有‘黑历史’，不能想做什么就做什么，这在中国算是一种常识。”
Mr. Zou said the TFBoys’ success was also a sign of the progress of China’s entertainment industry.	邹当荣说，TFBoys 的成功也是中国娱乐产业进步的标志。

"Before the early 2000s, the mainland Chinese entertainment industry was dominated by Hong Kong, Taiwan, Japan and South Korea. Celebrities from those places were regarded as true stars," Mr. Zou said. "But it's different now. We have the money, and the market. What's more, entertainment companies have learned the key to producing successful idols."	"在 2006 年之前，大陆的娱乐产业一直都是被港台、日韩引领着，港台、日韩艺人当时在大陆才被看作是真正的明星，"邹当荣说。"但是现在不一样了，我们大陆有资金，有市场，最重要的是，大陆的娱乐公司已经知道该怎么造星了。"
The TFBoys' fame is reaching beyond the music industry, and bringing film offers. Wang Junkai had a role in Zhang Yimou's movie "The Great Wall." Wang Yuan appeared in the film adaptation of the popular writer Guo Jingming's fantasy novel "L.O.R.D.: Legend of Ravaging Dynasties."	TFBoys 的名声正超越音乐圈，为他们带来电影邀约。王俊凯参演了张艺谋的电影《长城》。王源参演了改编自流行作家郭敬明的奇幻小说《爵迹》的一部电影。
Ms. Jia said she was saving money for one of TFBoys' fourth-anniversary concerts in August. "I'm happy to do all this for them," she said.	TFBoys 将于今年 8 月举办四周年演唱会。贾素说她正为购买门票而存钱。"我乐意为他们做这些事情，"她说。
"I love their persistence, their maturity, which is remarkable for people their age," she said. "When I'm feeling bad, I tell myself, 'These boys are working so hard, so why can't I?'"	"我喜欢他们的坚持、超过同龄人的成熟，"她说。"当我心情不好的时候，我就告诉自己，'这些孩子都能这么努力，我为什么不能坚持下去？'"
How will she feel if, as these boys grow up, one of them breaks loose and does something really scandalous?	随着这些男孩长大成人，如果其中有谁行差踏错，闹出大丑闻，她会作何感想？
Ms. Jia did not seem ready to face that possibility. She paused before responding.	贾素似乎并未准备好面对这种可能性。她停顿了一会儿才作答。
"Well, I don't believe they will," she said. "There's a Chinese saying: At the age of 3 you can already see what a man will be like when he is old."	"我觉得他们不会，"她说。"就像中国有句老话说的，三岁看老。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170508/china-tfboys-boy-band	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170508/china-tfboys-boy-band
Is China the World's New Colonial Power?	中国式新殖民主义？（三）：“奇迹”矿场
Read Part 1.	中国式新殖民主义？（一）：全天候的朋友

Read Part 2.	中国式新殖民主义? (二): 新的边疆
In the hardscrabble hills of Sichuan Province, the parents of the uranium miner Dylan Teng still work as farmers, growing rice and maize in a hillside hamlet where most families share the same surname. Their village, called Tengjiayan (or Teng Family Rock), had only a primary school, so Teng left to study in nearby Guang'an, the birthplace of Deng Xiaoping, and then went on to college in China's northeast. It was a long road that was about to grow longer. "I never thought I'd go abroad," he says, "so I didn't even try in my English classes."	在四川的贫困山区, 铀矿工作者迪兰·邓的父母依然务农为生, 他们在一个山坡上的小村庄里种稻谷和玉米, 那里的大多数人家都是同姓。这个名为邓家岩的村庄只有一所小学, 所以迪兰·邓后来离开村庄到附近的广安——邓小平的出生地——读书, 之后又去中国的东北地区上大学。路途很遥远, 而且即将变得更长、更远。“我从没想过自己会出国,”他说,“所以英语课上都没怎么努力。”
In Teng's first job after graduation — at the Beijing-based Uranium Resources Company, a C.G.N. subsidiary — he learned about the company's mining interests in Kazakhstan, Australia and Namibia. The rural kid knew nothing about these foreign lands. But soon he was flying off to the most distant of the three to work in one of China's largest and most strategic mines. And one where C.G.N. was fully in control.	迪兰·邓毕业后的第一份工作是在中广核的子公司、总部位于北京的铀业发展有限公司(Uranium Resources Company), 在那里他了解了这家公司在哈萨克斯坦、澳大利亚和纳米比亚的采矿权益。这个农村孩子对国外一无所知。但他很快就飞到了上述三个国家中最远的一个, 在中国控制的最大、最具战略意义的矿场之一工作。该矿场完全由中广核掌控。
As a load-and-haul engineer at the Husab mine, Teng helps choreograph 26 gargantuan trucks whose wheels stand twice as tall as he does. So far, the trucks have hauled more than 100 million metric tons of rock out of Husab's open pits. As production increases this year, far more will be needed to process the 15 million pounds of uranium oxide that the mine aims to produce annually. "The pressure is always on to stockpile enough so the processing plant never runs out of rock," Teng says.	作为哈萨博铀矿的一名装卸与运输协调人员, 迪兰·邓参与调配 26 辆车轮有他两倍高的巨型卡车。截至目前, 这些卡车从哈萨博的露天矿坑里运走了超过 1 亿公吨的矿石。随着今年产量增加, 运输的矿石还会更多, 以达到这座矿场制定的 1500 万磅(约合 680 万公斤)的氧化铀年产量。“储备足够多矿石、不让加工厂缺原料的压力一直都在,”迪兰·邓说。
To feed its hungry economy, China has worked frantically to secure	为满足经济发展的迫切需求, 中国拼命获取足够多的资源, 以确保经济的巨

enough resources to keep the juggernaut going. Besides oil and gas, which are a primary focus of its investments abroad, China's state-owned companies have gobbled up mines around the world: copper in Peru, nickel in Papua New Guinea, iron ore in Australia. In Africa, Chinese mining investments have increased 25-fold in just 10 years, from stakes in a handful of mines in 2006 to more than 120 in 2015.	轮持续转动。除了作为国外投资重点的石油和天然气，中国的国有企业也在全世界抢购矿石：秘鲁的铜、巴布亚新几内亚的镍和澳大利亚的铁矿石。在非洲，中国的矿业投资在仅仅十年里就增长了 25 倍，持股矿场从 2006 年的少数几个增加到 2015 年的 120 多个。
As its economy has slowed recently and commodity prices have plunged, China has sharply reduced some of its imports, causing a few boom areas, like Western Australia, to go bust. Chinese mines in Zambia (copper) and South Africa (iron ore) have been forced to close. It might seem something of a miracle, then, that Husab runs at all. With uranium prices at less than half their level before the 2011 nuclear disaster in Fukushima (and less than a quarter of what they were in 2007), Namibia's two other active uranium operations have stopped digging up rock and process only already-stockpiled material. But Husab forges ahead, hiring many of the hundreds of workers laid off at those other mines. As one Namibian engineer who landed a job there after spending six months unemployed told me, "Husab was my salvation."	由于最近自身经济放缓、大宗商品价格暴跌，中国的一些原料进口也急剧减少，这导致西澳大利亚等一些新近繁荣起来的地区陷入困境。中国在赞比亚（铜）和南非（铁矿石）的矿场被迫关闭。这时候哈萨博矿场还在运营，似乎称得上一个奇迹。随着铀的价格降至不足 2011 年福岛核灾发生前的一半（不及 2007 年的四分之一），纳米比亚另外两个活跃的铀矿企业已经停止采矿，只加工之前储备的原料。但哈萨博还在继续前进，从其他几家矿场下岗的数百名工人有不少被它聘了去。就像一名失业六个月后在那里找到工作的纳米比亚工程师告诉我的，“哈萨博救了我。”
There is a simple reason that C.G.N. can afford to ramp up production at Husab: It is selling most of the uranium to itself, the Chinese state, so price is almost irrelevant. (Low prices, in fact, have enabled China both to stockpile uranium cheaply and to buy part of a struggling Namibian uranium mine, Langer-Heinrich.) An even bigger reason is China's ambition both to reduce its carbon emissions and to become a world	中广核之所以能让哈萨博加大生产，原因很简单：它把大部分铀矿卖给自己，也就是中国政府，所以价格高低几乎没什么影响（实际上，低价不仅能让中国以便宜的价格储备铀矿，还让它有机会买下了处境艰难的纳米比亚铀矿场朗格尔-海因里希[Langer-Heinrich]的一部分）。还有一个更大的原因在于中国的雄心——减少碳排放量，同时成为核能方面的世界领导者。

leader in nuclear power.
Nearly 88 percent of China's energy now comes from fossil fuels, only 1 percent from nuclear power. (Solar, wind and hydropower account for the remaining 11 percent.) To reach its clean-energy goals — and shed the ignominious title of world's biggest producer of greenhouse gases — China has put nuclear power back on an almost impossibly fast track. The country now has 37 nuclear reactors, with another 20 under construction, and it aims to have 110 reactors by 2030. (Beyond that, the goal is to become an exporter of nuclear-reactor technology. China has already built six reactors overseas, and last month, Swakop Uranium, a C.G.N. subsidiary, submitted a proposal to construct a reactor in Namibia.)	中国的能源现在有近 88%来自化石燃料，只有 1%来自核能（剩下的 11%是太阳能、风能和水电）。为达到自身的清洁能源目标，同时甩掉不光彩的世界最大温室气体排放国的名号，中国已将核能重新放到了一条快到不可思议的发展轨道上。这个国家现在有 37 座反应堆，另有 20 座正在建设，它的目标是到 2030 年建成 110 座。（除此之外，其目标还包括成为核反应堆技术出口国。中国已经在海外建了六座反应堆，上个月中广核的子公司斯瓦科普铀业[Swakop Uranium]又提交了一份在纳米比亚建反应堆的提案。）
This rate of growth, six new plants each year, would catapult China past the United States as the world's top nuclear power, but it also raises concerns. In January, an American consultant to C.G.N. pleaded guilty to charges that he conspired to illegally recruit United States nuclear engineers to help accelerate the design and manufacture of C.G.N. reactor components. Critics at home and abroad also question whether China's safety standards can keep pace with the new reactors. One Chinese physicist, He Zuoxiu, even told The Guardian that the plan is "insane."	每年新建六个工厂的增长速度将使中国超过美国，成为世界头号核电大国，但这也引发了人们的担忧。今年 1 月，中广核集团的一名美国顾问承认自己非法合谋招募美国核工程师，帮助加快该集团核反应堆配件的设计和制造。国内外的评论人士也质疑中国的安全标准能否跟上新反应堆的建设速度。中国物理学家何祚庥在接受《卫报》(The Guardian)采访时甚至表示，该计划是“疯狂的”。
C.G.N. did not allow me to visit the mine or interview its managers, claiming that they were too busy increasing production. To get a glimpse of the vast complex, I drove down a dusty back road to the highland plain where the Welwitschia mirabilis grow, near Husab's back	中国广核集团不允许我参观矿场或采访它的经理们，声称他们忙于提高产量，无暇接受采访。为了一瞥这个庞大的工地，我沿着一条尘土飞扬的小路行驶，来到哈萨博后门附近长着百岁兰的高地平原。2013 年，在哈萨博开始施工之前，该公司移植了四株罕见的百岁兰，否则这些标本会在爆炸中被

gate. Before construction began at Husab in 2013, the company transplanted four rare Welwitschia specimens that would have been destroyed in the blasts — a symbolic gesture in a country that reveres the ancient plant. Since then, C.G.N. has seemed eager to dispel the uncaring reputation that Chinese state-owned companies have earned: It has made donations to drought victims, offered scholarships to local engineering students and, in a first for a Chinese company in Namibia, even invited a local labor union to set up shop at the mine site.	毁。这样做是为了向这个敬畏此种古老植物的国家表示敬意。从那以后，中广核似乎渴望甩掉中国国有企业没有爱心的名声：向旱灾受害者捐款；为当地工程科学生提供奖学金；并成为纳米比亚首个邀请当地工会在矿场设立分部的中国公司。
Independent unions are essentially illegal in China. And the Metal and Allied Namibian Workers Union had waged a campaign against Chinese state-owned companies, accusing some of paying Namibian workers only one-third of the minimum wage and others of using armies of Chinese workers for unskilled jobs that by law should go to Namibians. So when C.G.N. invited the union’s secretary general, Justina Jonas, to China for the mine’s inaugural event, she was skeptical. “The Chinese will promise you heaven,” she told me, “but the implementation can be hell.” Jonas threatened not to go to China if Husab didn’t sign a project labor agreement protecting workers’ wages, hours and safety. Just days before the trip, C.G.N. signed the agreement, a first for a Chinese company.	在中国，独立工会基本上是非法的。纳米比亚冶金联合工会(Metal and Allied Namibian Workers Union)也对国有企业发起了一场运动，指责某些企业仅向纳米比亚工人支付最低工资的三分之一，还有些企业雇佣中国劳工大军从事依法本应属于纳米比亚人的非技术性工作。所以当中广核邀请工会秘书长贾斯蒂娜·乔纳斯(Justina Jonas)去中国参加该矿场的揭幕活动时，她表示怀疑。“中国人会承诺得天花乱坠，”她对我说，“但可能根本做不到。”乔纳斯威胁称，如果哈萨博不签署保护工人工资、工作时长和安全的项目劳动协议，她不会去中国。在出发前几天，中广核签署了协议，它是第一个这样做的中国公司。
For all its public outreach, Husab still operates in a self-contained Chinese universe. Chinese managers often schedule key meetings for the weekend, when it’s convenient for them to review and plan — but also when Namibian colleagues are not present, according to local employees. Local workers marvel at how, when a non-Chinese part	尽管花了很大力气开展公共宣传，哈萨博依然在一个独立的中国世界之中运转着。当地雇员称，中方经理常常把重要的会议安排在周末，以便对工作进行回顾和计划——但那同时也是纳米比亚同事不在场的时刻。让当地工人感到诧异的是，当并非源自中国的部件发生故障时，中国工程师有时会把部件规格发回国内，这样一来中国公司就能经由“反向工程”，以极低的成本打造

breaks down, Chinese engineers will sometimes send the specs home so Chinese companies can reverse-engineer replacement parts at a fraction of the cost. This looks different from a Chinese perspective: Just as the mine offers young engineers an opportunity to hone their expertise in vital new jobs, it also gives Chinese companies a chance to show that they can make high-quality vehicles and equipment — at a third of the cost of top foreign brands. Husab still makes companies go through testing and bidding, but as one worker put it: “We have to help and support our brother companies. It’s all part of the ‘going out’ policy.”	出替代部件。中方对此有着不同的看法：就像哈萨博为年轻工程师提供一个在至关重要的新岗位上磨练技能的机会一样，这给了中国公司一个展示自我的机会：它们可以生产出高品质的车辆和设备——而且所用成本只是海外顶级品牌的三分之一。哈萨博铀矿还是会让一些公司参与测试和竞标，但正如一名员工所说：“我们必须帮助和支持我们的兄弟企业。这是‘走出去’政策的一部分。”
Mining is hardly China’s only interest in Namibia. The land is too arid to sustain the kinds of vast agricultural projects underway in Mozambique and Brazil. But China’s state-owned construction companies are burning up their excess capacity building Namibian highways and ports, a Chinese embassy compound and a new military academy in Okahandja. Military relations are close, too. China trains Namibian officers — an echo of its 1960s assistance to Swapo — and supplies weapons. In April, the United States intervened to stop Namibia from paying $12 million to Poly Technologies, a subsidiary of a Chinese company on the American sanctions list for selling banned weapons to Iran, Syria and North Korea. It was a reminder that the United States is still in the background, warily watching China’s incursion into Africa.	矿业不是中国在纳米比亚的唯一兴趣所在。由于土地太过贫瘠，在莫桑比克和巴西上马的那种大型农业项目，在这里难以持续下去。但中国的国有建筑公司善加利用其过剩的产能，在纳米比亚修建了高速路和港口，还修建了一个中国使馆院落以及一所位于奥卡汉贾的新军校。两国的军事关系也很密切。中国会为纳米比亚培训军官——与其在 1960 年代对纳米比亚人组党的帮助相呼应。今年 4 月，美国采取干预措施，阻止纳米比亚向保利科技有限公司支付 1200 万美元。该公司是一家中国企业的子公司，因为向伊朗、叙利亚和朝鲜出售违禁武器而上了美国的制裁名单。这说明美国仍然在幕后警觉地关注着中国对非洲的介入。
Husab is a tangible, direct investment, but most Chinese projects in Namibia and around the world are financed by soft loans that carry risks. Last year, China established a new $60 billion fund to finance	哈萨博是一项切实的直接投资，但中国在纳米比亚乃至世界各地的大多数项目，都以携带风险的软贷款为资金来源。去年，中国成立了一个规模为 600 亿美元的新基金，用大多来自中国的贷款，为非洲的基础设施项目提供资金

infrastructure projects in Africa, mostly with Chinese lending. The easy money is alluring, and the projects can be essential. But most of the loans stipulate that a Chinese state-owned company must take the lead, ensuring that the work, skills and profits are kept largely in the Chinese family. Countries like Namibia are left holding the debt. Schlettwein, the finance minister, told me, "I don't think those are real investments, but opportunities latched onto by Chinese enterprises without really adding value to the Namibian economy."	支持。这些低息贷款极具吸引力，这些项目也很重要。但大部分贷款都有附加条件：领衔的必须是一家中国国有公司，以便确保相关工作、技术和利润主要由中国人把控。纳米比亚等国家则要背负上这些债务。该国财政部长施莱特魏因告诉我，“我认为这些并不是真正的投资，而是被中国企业锁定的机会，不会真正让纳米比亚经济增值。”
Such criticism irritates Chinese business owners and diplomats, who point out that Chinese companies have invested more than $5 billion in Namibia and now employ more than 6,000 Namibians. "We're here to do business on an equal footing with the locals," says Xia Lili, the former diplomat who is deputy general manager of Jack Huang's Sun Investment Group and secretary general of the Namibia-China Loving Heart Organization. "We bring in money to establish mines and factories. Who benefits? The Namibians. Did the Western powers ever do this? Not nearly as much. So this talk of new colonialism is untrue."	这类批评让中国企业主和外交官感到不快，他们指出，中国企业已在纳米比亚投资 50 多亿美元，现已雇用超过 6000 名纳米比亚人。“我们来到这里，想要平等地与当地人展开商务活动。我们带来资金，建起矿场和工厂。受益的是谁？纳米比亚人。西方强国做过这样的事情吗？远没有这么多。因此关于新殖民主义的说法是错误的，”前外交官夏力力说。夏力力现在是黄跃权的太阳投资集团的副总经理，以及纳米比亚华人爱心组织的秘书长。
Namibia, though, is starting to push back. Last year the government pulled out of a $570 million loan agreement with a state-owned Chinese company to expand the Windhoek airport. Then in September, as sluggish growth and other foreign loans pushed Namibia's debt to over 40 percent of its G.D.P., the government suspended all new loan tenders. Schlettwein says the freeze was a prudent act of belt-tightening, not a move specifically targeting China. Nevertheless, he says: "It sends out a signal that Namibian interests are not to be	不过，纳米比亚已经开始做出抗拒之举。去年，该国政府取消了与中国国有企业之间的一项金额为 5.7 亿美元、旨在扩建温得和克机场的贷款协议。及至 9 月份，随着缓慢的经济增长以及其他外债把该国债务占 GDP 的比重推高到 40% 以上，政府暂停了所有新的贷款招标。施莱特魏因说，冻结招标是勒紧腰带的谨慎之举，而非专门针对中国的措施。不过他说：“由此发出的信号是，纳米比亚的利益不能被随意践踏。由此发出的信号是，我们之间的关系必须走向成熟。” trampled on indiscriminately. It sends a signal that our relationship must mature.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170509/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part3	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170509/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part3
Blocked by China, Taiwan Presses to Join U.N. Agency’s Meeting	北京重重施压，台湾恐无缘世界卫生大会
TAIPEI, Taiwan — Taiwan will continue to seek inclusion in the World Health Assembly’s annual meeting this month in Geneva, government officials said on Monday, pushing back against the latest in a series of efforts by China to block the self-ruled island from participating in international organizations.	台湾台北——台湾政府官员周一表示，台湾将继续争取出席本月举行的世界卫生大会(World Health Assembly)年会，抗击中国采取的一系列阻止这个自治岛屿参与国际组织的努力。
“We will continue doing everything we can until the last minute,” Hsu Min-Huei, a counselor with the Ministry of Health and Welfare, said at a news conference. He spoke hours before the expiration of a deadline for online registration for the meeting, which will be held from May 22 to 31.	卫生福利部的技监许明晖在新闻发布会上说：“必将全力以赴坚持到最后一刻。”他说这番话时距离会议的在线注册截止日期只剩下几个小时，此次会议的举行时间是从5月22日至31日。
Mr. Hsu and his colleagues are fighting an uphill battle against Beijing.	许明晖和他的同事们正在与北京进行艰苦的斗争。
Since President Tsai Ing-wen of Taiwan took office a year ago, China has worked to suppress Taiwan’s participation in global aviation and policing organizations, and has lured away another of its diplomatic allies.	自从台湾总统蔡英文上任以来，中国不仅遏制台湾参与全球航空和警务组织，还挖走了台湾的另外一个外交盟友。
Beijing, which claims sovereignty over Taiwan and has vowed to annex it by force if necessary, seeks to pressure Ms. Tsai into accepting the so-called 1992 Consensus, which holds that there is only one “China,” encompassing the Chinese mainland and Taiwan, although each side has its own interpretation of what that means. As a permanent member	北京声称对台湾拥有主权，并且扬言在必要时使用武力统一台湾，以图迫使蔡英文接受“九二共识”，即只有一个“中国”的共识，尽管中国大陆和台湾对于这个说法的意涵各有解释。中国作为联合国安理会常任理事国——这个席位曾经属于台湾，在联合国机构世界卫生组织(WHO)有着很大的影响力，世界卫生大会就是由WHO举办的。

of the United Nations Security Council — a seat once held by Taiwan — China has considerable sway over the World Health Organization, the United Nations agency that convenes the World Health Assembly.
On Monday, the director of Beijing's Taiwan Affairs Office, Zhang Zhijun, said the Tsai government's refusal to recognize the 1992 Consensus was responsible for the breakdown of communication channels between Beijing and Taipei and for Taiwan's ineligibility to participate in the World Health Assembly.	周一，北京方面的台湾事务办公室主任张志军表示，蔡英文政府拒绝承认“九二共识”是北京与台北商谈机制中断，以及台湾没有资格出席世界卫生大会的原因。
"It is clear to everyone on which side the blame lies," Mr. Zhang told reporters in Jiangsu Province. Ms. Tsai has not shown any inclination to yield to China's demands.	张志军在江苏告诉记者：“责任在哪一方大家都很清楚。”蔡英文对中国的要求没有任何妥协的迹象。
In recent days, she has campaigned on Twitter, making a case for observer status for Taiwan at this year's meeting by sharing stories about Taiwanese doctors helping with health programs in countries including Vietnam and Burkina Faso. Taiwan had been a World Health Assembly observer since 2009.	最近几天，她在 Twitter 上开展了一系列的活动，解释台湾以观察员身份参加今年会议的意义，分享台湾医生在越南和布基纳法索等国家参与当地健康项目的故事。台湾自 2009 年以来每年都是世界卫生大会的观察员。
"Taiwan should not be excluded from W.H.A. this year for any reason," she wrote on Twitter on April 29. "Health issues don't stop at border & Taiwan's role is impt to global health."	"无论出于什么原因，台湾都不应该被排除在世界卫生大会之外。"4月29日，她在 Twitter 上写道。“健康问题不会因边界而消失，台湾的角色对全球健康问题很重要。”
Taiwan is the size of Kentucky, but its population is larger than Australia's and it has the world's 22nd-largest economy. Its extensive transport and trade links to the rest of the world make it particularly relevant in the case of global epidemics.	台湾的面积和肯塔基州差不多，但人口比澳大利亚还多，是世界第 22 大经济体。它和世界其他地区存在广泛的运输和贸易联系，因此从全球流行病的角度来说，台湾特别重要。
The SARS epidemic of 2002-3 highlighted the human cost of the political isolation of Taiwan by the World Health Organization.	2002 年到 2003 年的 SARS 突显了 WHO 对台湾进行政治隔离导致的人道代价。台湾的研究人员表示，他们想从 WHO 获得有用的病毒资料，但遭到了

Researchers in Taiwan said they were hampered in their efforts to obtain valuable data on the virus from the W.H.O., while patients in Taiwan died and the virus continued to spread in Taiwan and China.	阻挠，与此同时台湾的病人纷纷死亡，病毒继续在台湾和中国蔓延。
"The issue of whether Taiwan can attend this year's W.H.A. is a very important indicator of cross-strait relations," Ms. Tsai said in an interview with Reuters last month.	"台湾是否可以参加今年的世界卫生大会是两岸关系的重要指标。"蔡英文上个月在接受路透社采访时表示。
China has worked persistently to block opportunities for Taiwan to participate in any events that could offer it international visibility or influence. Taiwan, officially known as the Republic of China, lost its membership in the United Nations in 1979, when the mainland People's Republic of China took over the seat.	中国一直坚持不懈地阻止台湾参与任何可以获得国际可见度和影响力的活动。台湾的正式称呼是中华民国，在1979年失去了联合国的会员资格，该席位由中华人民共和国获得。
Last week in Perth, Australia, the Chinese delegation to a Kimberley Process conference on controlling conflict diamonds blocked Taiwan's participation as an observer, even though Taiwan had received a formal invitation. Chinese delegates reportedly hijacked the microphone, speaking over the proceedings until the Taiwan delegates were asked to leave.	上周在澳大利亚珀斯举行的金伯利进程(Kimberley Process)会议，讨论的是控制血钻的问题，但中国代表团拒绝台湾作为观察员参与，尽管台湾受到了正式邀请。据报道，中国代表使用麦克风大声鼓噪，质疑会议程序问题，直到台湾代表被要求离开为止。
In September, the International Civil Aviation Organization, a United Nations agency, declined to issue Taiwan an invitation to participate as an observer in its assembly in Montreal. The organization had invited Taiwan to participate as "Chinese Taipei" the previous year at Beijing's request, when Ms. Tsai's predecessor, the China-friendly Ma Ying-jeou, was president.	去年9月，在联合国机构国际民航组织(International Civil Aviation Organization)拒绝邀请台湾作为观察员参加在蒙特利尔举行的会议。蔡英文的前任、对中国友好的马英九当总统时，该组织曾在北京的要求下，邀请台湾以"中华台北"的名义参会。
In November, the global police organization Interpol rejected Taiwanese participation in its general assembly. In December, the tiny	去年11月，全球警察组织国际刑警组织(Interpol)拒绝台湾参会。12月，小国圣多美和普林西比宣布与台湾断绝外交关系，承认中国的地位，现在台北

nation of São Tomé and Príncipe announced that it would cut diplomatic ties with Taiwan and recognize China, leaving Taipei with only 21 diplomatic allies.	只剩下了 21 个外交盟友。
Last week, Taiwan's minister of health and welfare, Chen Shih-chung, told reporters that Taiwan would send a delegation to the W.H.A. in Geneva this month even without an invitation and that the country had not ruled out holding a news conference in the Swiss city to protest its exclusion.	台湾卫生福利部长陈时中上周告诉记者，即使没有邀请，台湾也将派出代表团前往本月在日内瓦举行的世界卫生大会，台湾不排除在这座瑞士城市召开新闻发布会，对不能参会表示抗议。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170509/taiwan-world-health-china-In Reversal, Chinese Lawyer Confesses, and Rights Groups Denounce His Trial	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170509/taiwan-world-health-china-人权律师谢阳法庭上改口，称未遭刑讯逼供
BEIJING — Before the Chinese human rights lawyer stood trial for subversion, he wrote a letter saying he would confess to such charges only if he was tortured.	北京——在这名中国人权律师以颠覆罪名受审之前，他写过一封信，称自己只会在受到严刑拷打后认罪。
But on Monday, the lawyer, Xie Yang, appeared at court a drastically altered man. He had become a seemingly contrite actor in a trial intended to discredit China's struggling dissident lawyers who take up contentious cases and want courts freed of Communist Party control.	但周一出现在法庭上时，这位名叫谢阳的律师发生了巨大的变化。在一场意在败坏中国持不同政见律师声誉的审判中，他似乎成了一名悔罪的演员。这些律师处境艰难，他们代理有争议的案件，希望法院摆脱共产党的控制。
"I feel ashamed and deeply remorseful for my past actions," Mr. Xie said at his trial in Changsha, a city in southern China, according to transcripts issued online by the court. "Everyone should take me as a warning to certainly stay within the framework of the law, and avoid being exploited by Western anti-China forces."	"我对我以前的行为感到既羞耻又悔恨，"据法院发布在网上的庭审笔录显示，谢阳在中国南方城市长沙受审时说。"大家要以我为戒，一定要在法律框架内行事，避免被西方反华势力利用。"
At the trial, Mr. Xie withdrew his claims of torture, which were laid out in piercing detail in transcripts of meetings shared earlier by his former	在法庭上，谢阳收回了遭受酷刑的说法。早前，他的前任辩护律师分享的会见笔录，非常详细地记述了他自称受到酷刑的说法。他对颠覆国家政权和扰

defense lawyers. He pleaded guilty to the subversion charge and a charge of disrupting court proceedings. And he placed blame for his years as a combative lawyer on seductive but toxic ideas about constitutional government learned from study sessions abroad.	乱法庭秩序的指控表示认罪，还将自己多年作为好斗律师所作出的行为，归咎于从国外的培训中学到的吸引人却有害的宪政思想。
"The legal authorities fully ensured my legitimate rights and did not extract confession through torture," Mr. Xie said, according to the court's account, which was widely publicized by Chinese official news media.	据中国官方新闻媒体广泛报道的法院庭审笔录显示，谢阳说，“司法机关充分保障了我的合法权利，没有对我刑讯逼供。”
Mr. Xie, 45, is the latest in a succession of lawyers and activists arrested in a 2015 crackdown who have faced trial, pleaded guilty and been displayed on television voicing remorse for their former activism. Four stood trial in August last year, and last month, Li Heping, another rights lawyer, was given a suspended prison sentence after pleading guilty to a subversion charge. Others detained in the crackdown and released on bail have also made televised confessions.	在 2015 年的一场打击活动中，一连串的律师和活动人士被捕，他们出庭受审、认罪并出现在电视上，表达对之前激进主义的懊悔。现年 45 岁的谢阳是最新的一位。去年 8 月，有四人受审，上月另一名人权律师李和平在对颠覆指控表示认罪后被判处缓刑。在那场打击活动中被拘押和保释的其他人也在电视上供认了自己的罪行。
The Chinese government has said that Mr. Xie's trial and the others were open. But Western diplomats and journalists who have tried to enter such hearings have been kept outside, and friends and supporters of the defendants have said the confessions appeared carefully rehearsed and made under compulsion.	中国政府称对谢阳和其他人的审判是公开的。但试图进入审判现场的西方外交官和记者总是被挡在外面，被告的朋友和支持者称，认罪环节似乎经过仔细的排练，是被迫的。
Human rights groups denounced the proceedings against Mr. Xie as a show trial illustrating how far China's president, Xi Jinping, has rolled back dissent.	人权组织谴责对谢阳的审讯是走过场，说明了中国国家主席习近平对异议的打压多么严重。
"Never mind that the trial was closed to the public, and that Xie was deprived of representation by a lawyer of his own choosing and of	"更不用说审讯不向公众开放，以及谢阳被剥夺了自己选择代理律师和接受家人探视的权利，"人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)驻香港的研究员王

family contacts," Maya Wang, a researcher for Human Rights Watch in Hong Kong, said by email. "Somehow, the authorities want us to believe that under these circumstances, Xie's sudden change of heart was made under free will."	松莲(Maya Wang)通过电子邮件说。“不知为什么，当局想让我们相信，在这种情况下，谢阳突然改变主意是自愿的。”
A day before the trial, Mr. Xie's wife, Chen Guiqiu, denounced the Chinese government's claims that his case would be heard openly and impartially.	开庭前一天，谢阳的妻子陈桂秋谴责中国政府称谢阳的案件会得到公开、公正审理的说法。
"I have a deep understanding of how in China the police, prosecutors and courts are in league, and there is no judicial fairness or transparency to speak of," Ms. Chen said in a letter issued on Sunday. She fled China in February, eventually reaching the United States through Thailand, according to an interview she gave to The Associated Press.	“我深深知道，在中国，公检法是一家，司法毫无正义和透明可言，”陈桂秋在周日发布的一封信中说。据她在接受美联社(The Associated Press)采访时介绍，她2月离开中国，最终经由泰国抵达美国。
In her letter, Ms. Chen said she remained convinced that her husband was tortured after the police detained him in July 2015, during a sweeping crackdown on lawyers accused of subversion, encouraging protests, fraud and other crimes.	在信中，陈桂秋说她依然确信丈夫在2015年7月被警方拘押后，受到了酷刑。在那场广泛的打压活动中，律师被控颠覆国家政权、鼓励抗议、诈骗和其他罪行。
"If the torture didn't happen, all the authorities have to do is show the video footage from Xie Yang's time in custody," Ms. Chen wrote.	“如果酷刑是假的，官方只需要拿出谢阳关押期间的录像为证，”陈桂秋写道。
Mr. Xie's trial stood out because of the allegations of torture that emerged from his detention in January, and his reversal at the trial. Mr. Xie said he was abused by interrogators who blew smoke in his face, punched and kicked him, and forced him to sit on top of a wobbly stack of plastic stools, warning him not to move or suffer recriminations.	对谢阳的审理之所以独特，是因为1月出现了他在被拘押期间遭受酷刑的指控，但在庭审现场，他矢口否认。谢阳曾说自己遭到审讯人员的虐待，他们朝他脸上喷烟，对他拳打脚踢，还逼他坐在一摞摇摇晃晃的塑料凳子上，警告他不要动，否则就会挨骂。
"I wanted to end their interrogation of me as quickly as I could, even if it	会见笔录显示，谢阳对他的律师陈建刚和刘正清说，“我想尽快结束他们对

meant death," Mr. Xie told his lawyers, Chen Jiangang and Liu Zhengqing, according to transcripts of their meetings that Mr. Chen vouched for as authentic. He and Mr. Liu were told that Mr. Xie did not want them as his lawyers, and Mr. Xie was represented at the trial by lawyers who accepted much of the prosecution's case.	我的审讯，哪怕是死了。”陈建刚为笔录的真实性做了担保。他和刘正清被告知，谢阳不想让他们当他的律师。在庭审现场代表谢阳的律师，接受了检方的很多观点。
Chinese state news media reports also said their transcripts were "fake news," and at the trial, Mr. Xie said his claims of torture were bogus, according to the court. Mr. Xie said he had been "brainwashed" into antigovernment beliefs at training sessions organized in Hong Kong and South Korea by human rights groups.	中国官方新闻媒体也说他们的笔录是“假新闻”。据法院称，在庭审现场，谢阳说自己遭受酷刑的说法是假的。谢阳说自己在参加人权组织在香港和韩国组织的培训时，被“洗脑”了，接受了反政府思想。
"What was the training about?" a prosecutor asked Mr. Xie, according to the online court transcript.	据在线庭审笔录显示，一名公诉人问谢阳，“培训些什么内容？”
"It was mainly brainwashing in Western constitutionalism and other erroneous ideas," Mr. Xie answered, according to that transcript.	庭审笔录显示，谢阳说，“主要是西方宪政等错误思想的洗脑。”
"What effect did this training have on you?" he was asked.	“这些培训对你产生了什么影响？”他被问道。
"It gave me ideas like overturning the present system and realizing Western constitutional government in China," Mr. Xie said.	“让我产生推翻现有体制，在中国实行西方的宪政等想法，”谢阳说。
The prosecutors said that Mr. Xie used Weibo, a popular Chinese microblog service, to voice subversive ideas, and they cited messages he sent with Telegram, a message service that has become popular among Chinese rights activists because of its supposed security. The Changsha Intermediate People's Court did not announce a verdict on Monday, but a guilty verdict seems virtually certain.	公诉人说谢阳利用中国流行的微博服务平台新浪微博发表颠覆思想，他们还提到了他用 Telegram 发送的信息，这是一个信息服务平台，因为被认为安全而在中国人权活动人士当中颇为流行。长沙市中级人民法院周一没有直接宣判，但看上去有罪判决几乎是肯定的。
"I express my sincere regret for the misleading and negatively influencing the public over the question of torture," Mr. Xie told the	“由于酷刑的问题对公众产生的误导及负面影响，我表示真诚的歉意，并希望得到公众的谅解，”谢阳在法庭上说。

court.
But in the letter written in January and issued in March, Mr. Xie sounded a warning.	但在那封1月写成，3月发布的信中，谢阳发出了警告。
"If one day in the future I admit guilt — whether in writing or in a video or voice recording — that will not be a true expression of my thoughts," Mr. Xie said in that letter. "Now, I'm under huge pressure, and so is my family, demanding that I admit guilt and keep my mouth shut about the torture and torment."	"如果有一天我认罪了，无论是书面的还是录音录像的方式，那都不是我真意思的表示，"谢阳在信中说。"现在我受到巨大压力，我家人受到巨大的压力，要求我认罪且闭口不谈酷刑折磨的事情。"
Mr. Chen, the defense lawyer who exposed Mr. Xie's claims of torture, was taken into custody in southwest China last week, according to a message he sent to friends. He did not answer phone calls on Monday.	据曝光谢阳遭受酷刑说法的辩护律师陈建刚发给朋友们的一条信息称，他上周在中国西南部遭到拘押。周一当天，他的电话无人接听。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170509/xie-yang-china-lawyer-trial	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170509/xie-yang-china-lawyer-trial
11 Children Are Killed in Bus Crash in China	山东威海发生校车事故，11名幼童遇难
SHANGHAI — Eleven schoolchildren and their driver were killed in eastern China on Tuesday after their bus crashed in a tunnel and burst into flames, an accident that highlighted persistent road safety problems in the country.	上海——星期二，因为巴士发生交通事故并起火，11名学童及其司机在中国东部地区遇难，此事突显了中国一直存在的道路安全问题。
The crash occurred in Weihai, a city in Shandong Province. The city government said that the bus had been rented by the Zhongshi International School, which is attended by many Koreans in the area. The bus was on its way to the school when the accident happened.	事故发生在山东省的威海市。市政府表示，这辆巴士是由中世国际学校租用，当地很多韩国人在该校上学。事故发生时，巴士正在去学校的路上。
A teacher was also severely injured, the city government said, and the circumstances of the crash were being investigated.	市政府表示，一名老师也受了重伤，事故情况正在调查中。
An employee at the South Korean Consulate in Qingdao, a major port city in Shandong, who declined to give her name, said that the children	在山东主要港口城市青岛，韩国领事馆一名不愿具名的工作人员说，这些孩子的年龄在3到7岁之间。 were ages 3 to 7.

The nationalities of the children were unclear. The South Korean Embassy in Beijing said that of the 11 who died, 10 were South Korean and one was Chinese. But the city government in Weihai said that five of the pupils were South Korean and six Chinese.	孩子们的国籍尚不清楚。韩国驻北京大使馆表示，在死亡的11人中有10个是韩国人，1个是中国人。而威海市政府表示，有5个学生是韩国人，6个是中国人。
One of the Chinese victims had a South Korean identity card, according to Xinhua, China's state-run news agency.	中国官方通讯社新华社报道，有一名中国遇难者持有韩国身份证。
The school declined to comment.	该学校拒绝置评。
Hwang Kyo-ahn, South Korea's acting president, expressed "grave sadness" over the deaths, which occurred on the same day as presidential elections in the country.	当天也是韩国总统选举的日子，韩国代理总统黄教安(Hwang Kyo-ahn)表达了对遇难者的“哀恸”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/china-bus-crash-south-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/china-bus-crash-south-korea
China's Newest Propaganda Format: Children's Bedtime Stories	中国孩子有了新的睡前故事：聊聊“一带一路”
HONG KONG — Sometimes “Goodnight Moon” just won't do the trick.	香港——有时候，《晚安，月亮》(Goodnight Moon)根本不起作用。
So for parents struggling to get their little ones to rest their eyes for the night, China's state propaganda apparatus has a suggestion: Tell your child about President Xi Jinping's ambitions to extend China's political and economic power across Asia and the Middle East.	于是，针对晚上难以让小家伙闭上眼睛睡觉的家长，中国官方宣传机构给出了一个建议：给孩子讲中国国家主席习近平扩大中国在亚洲和中东各地的政治和经济实力的宏伟计划。
China Daily, a state-controlled media organization that aims primarily at an international audience, began releasing English-language videos this week describing a huge spending and infrastructure push called the Belt and Road Initiative, in the form of a child's bedtime story. In the two videos released so far, a father uses a windup camel skittering across a map to describe trade across Asia along the old Silk Road, and how China plans to help develop the regions it once passed through.	本周，主要面向国际读者的官方传媒机构《中国日报》开始发布英语视频，以小孩睡前故事的形式，介绍名为“一带一路”的大型支出和基础设施计划。在目前发布的两段视频中，一个父亲通过让一头装有发条的骆驼在地图上移动的形式，介绍古时候沿着丝绸之路发展的亚洲贸易，以及中国计划帮助开发曾经经过的地区。

Mr. Xi's name is, of course, dropped prominently.	习近平的名字当然会显著地出现。
"They're building new things like highways and railways and airports, and even pipeline and internet cables," says a father trying to put his daughter to bed.	"他们会建新的东西，比如说高速公路，铁路，还有飞机场，甚至是管道和网络，"一个试图让女儿入睡的父亲说。
"So it's just about moving stuff around?" she asks.	"那就是讨论怎么把东西搬来搬去的咯？"他女儿问。
"That's a big part of it," he says. "But there's a lot more."	"这只是其中一部分，"他说。"还有更多其他东西呢。"
In a second video, the father expands on that point. "It's not just about roads and rail and airports to move stuff," he says. "It's also about people and cooperation."	在第二段视频中，这个父亲在这一点上进行了延伸。"不仅仅是汽车、火车和飞机怎么运送货物，"他说。"它还是关于人和合作的。"
Any country can join, the father says. "But," he notes, "the United States hasn't joined the initiative."	这位父亲说，任何国家都可以参与其中。"但是，"他指出，"美国不参与'一带一路'。"
"It's China's idea," he says, "but it belongs to the world."	"想法是中国提出的，"他说，"但它属于全世界。"
The video identifies the father as Erik Nilsson, who is listed on LinkedIn as assistant director, features at China Daily. He did not respond to calls and an email requesting comment. An editor at China Daily's new media desk declined to immediately answer questions.	视频里这位父亲叫聂子瑞(Erik Nilsson)。在领英(LinkedIn)上，他的身份是中国日报特稿部主任助理。他没有回复请其置评的电话和电子邮件。《中国日报》新媒体编辑部的一名编辑拒绝立即答复记者的问题。
China has been trying to polish its ham-handed approach to telling its story to skeptical audiences outside its borders, just as it has at home. In a video released two years ago, for example, China's official broadcaster repackaged an important but dry story about the formulation of a new five-year economic and development plan into an animated ditty about the "Shisanwu."	与在国内一样，中国在向国外持怀疑态度的观众讲故事时有些笨手笨脚的。它一直在努力改进这种方式。比如，在两年前发布的一段视频中，中国官方宣传机构把一个有关制定新五年经济和发展计划的重要却枯燥的故事，重新包装成了一支有关"十三五"的动画小曲。
Then there were the foreigners who appeared in a video by the Communist Party's newspaper, People's Daily, calling Mr. Xi a great leader, a family man and a handsome fellow.	之后，外国人出现在共产党的报纸《人民日报》制作的视频中，称习近平是一位伟大的领导人，重视家庭又英俊帅气。

The Belt and Road videos were released ahead of a forum in Beijing next week dedicated to the infrastructure initiative. Mr. Xi and the leaders of countries including Indonesia, Kazakhstan, Pakistan, the Philippines, Russia and Turkey plan to attend.	“一带一路”系列视频发布时，北京将于下周举办一个专门讨论该基础设施计划的论坛。习近平和印度尼西亚、哈萨克斯坦、巴基斯坦、菲律宾、俄罗斯和土耳其等国的领导人均计划出席。
It is not clear how China's plans to help build infrastructure across the region will fare. But the benefits could be considerable for the country, which has far too many steel, glass and cement factories and is looking to find markets for that overcapacity.	尚不清楚中国帮助该地区修建基础设施的计划会有怎样的表现。但对中国来说，好处可能非常大。中国的钢铁、玻璃和水泥厂太多，正指望为过剩的产能寻找市场。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/china-propaganda-bedtime-belt-road	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/china-propaganda-bedtime-belt-road
A Chinese Giant Is on a Global Buying Spree. Who's Behind It?	海航集团的神秘持股人
During his first state visit to Britain, President Xi Jinping of China heralded the great economic opportunities between the two countries, in energy, infrastructure and finance. He finished off the late 2015 trip at Manchester Airport, unveiling a new direct flight to Beijing on the Chinese carrier Hainan Airlines.	2015年底首次对英国进行国事访问时，中国国家主席习近平宣告了两国在能源、基建和金融方面的巨大经济合作机遇。那次访问的最后一项内容，是在曼彻斯特机场为中国航空公司海南航空新开通的直飞北京的航班剪彩。
The political spotlight was a global coup for Chen Feng, chairman of the carrier's parent, the HNA Group, who was on hand to greet Mr. Xi and David Cameron, then British prime minister.	该航空公司所属的海航集团的董事长陈峰，在现场向习近平和时任英国首相戴维·卡梅伦(David Cameron)致意，能够站在这样的政治聚光灯下，对陈峰来说是一次重大胜利。
In just over two decades, Mr. Chen, 63, has helped transform a small airline in southern China into one of the country's few global powerhouses, with big stakes in Hilton Hotels, Swissport and Ingram Micro. This week, HNA said it was the largest investor in Germany's Deutsche Bank, part of a broader push by Chinese players into global finance.	在短短 20 多年的时间里，63 岁的陈峰把中国南方的这家小型航空公司发展成该国少数几家全球性大企业之一，在希尔顿酒店(Hilton Hotels)、瑞士国际空港(Swissport)和英迈(Ingram Micro)等企业持有大量股份。本周，海航宣布成为德国德意志银行(Deutsche Bank)的头号投资者，这是中国企业进入全球金融市场的整体行动的一部分。

As China's financial might has grown, companies like HNA have embarked on ambitious expansions, spreading money around the world and reshaping markets. But the opaque nature of some big Chinese players is prompting scrutiny from policy makers and politicians in the United States and elsewhere who are trying to understand the forces behind the aggressive deal-making and the role that the Chinese government plays.	随着中国金融实力的增长，海航这样的公司开始进行雄心勃勃的扩张，在世界各地散布资金，重塑市场。但是，一些中国大企业的不透明性正引发美国等地的政策制定者和政治人士的密切关注，他们试图了解这些势头凶猛的交易背后的力量以及中国政府所扮演的角色。
Mr. Chen has propelled the privately held HNA onto the world stage through a dizzying array of acquisitions, a spending spree supported by Chinese state banks and hidden behind a holding company with a complex ownership structure. According to corporate filings, state-backed banks have given HNA a $60 billion line of credit, a level of lending usually reserved for state-owned enterprises charged with carrying out the government's policies.	陈峰通过一系列令人眼花缭乱的收购把私人控股的海航推上了世界舞台。这些疯狂的投资行为得到了中国国有银行的支持，并且隐藏在这个拥有复杂所有权结构的控股公司背后。根据海航的申报文件，国有银行给予它 600 亿美元的授信额度，通常只有负责执行政府政策的国有企业才能获得这么多贷款。
In a statement, the company insisted that it was "supported by strong operational cash flow and a wide range of domestic and international sources of financing."	该公司在一份声明中坚称，它得到了“强大的运营现金流和广泛的国内外融资来源”的支持。
"HNA Group is focused on continuing to build a leading global platform in tourism, logistics and financial services supported by strong operational cash flow and a wide range of domestic and international sources of financing," the company said in a statement.	“海航集团致力于继续以强大的运营现金流和广泛的国内外融资来源为支持在旅游、物流和金融服务领域建立一个领先的全球平台，”该公司在一份声明中说。
Another acquisitive Chinese behemoth, the Anbang Insurance Group is facing scrutiny for its aggressive deal-making in the United States, after it held talks this year to buy a Manhattan office tower owned by the family of Jared Kushner, President Trump's son-in-law and a senior	另一个中国收购巨鳄安邦保险集团，今年在商谈购买曼哈顿的一幢写字楼后因其在美国的大举并购而面临审查。该写字楼属于特朗普总统的女婿兼白宫高级助手贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)的家族。中国的监管机构正在关注安邦的销售行为。

White House aide. Chinese regulators are taking aim at Anbang for its sales practices.
The White House declined to comment.	白宫拒绝置评。
HNA's deals are increasingly putting the company in the political cross hairs, at home and abroad.	海航的并购交易让它渐渐成为国内外政治纷争的焦点。
This year, one of HNA's subsidiaries agreed to buy a major stake in SkyBridge Capital, an investment firm founded by Anthony Scaramucci, a former Trump campaign fund-raiser who was eyeing a role in the White House. The move was seen by some as a way to influence the Trump administration.	今年,海航的一家子公司同意购买天桥资本(SkyBridge Capital)的主要股权。天桥资本是前特朗普竞选筹款人安东尼·斯卡拉穆奇(Anthony Scaramucci)创立的投资公司。斯卡拉穆奇曾谋求在白宫获得职位。有些人认为海航的这一举动是为了影响特朗普政府。
Mr. Scaramucci, in a telephone interview, disputed any suggestion that HNA was trying to curry favor with the Trump administration. "I'm very glad to have sold my business to them. They're world-class," he said. "And if I were to serve in government, I'd sign a full recusal, so I wouldn't be dealing with them."	斯卡拉穆奇在接受电话采访时否认海航意在讨好特朗普政府。“我很高兴把我的公司卖给了他们。他们是世界级的,”他说。“如果我能在政府任职,我会签一个全面回避协议,那样我就不会和他们打交道。”
Last week, HNA was the subject of wild online speculation after a fugitive Chinese billionaire said in a television interview that relatives of a senior Chinese leader, Wang Qishan, had a stake in the company. No proof was provided.	上周,一名逃亡的中国亿万富翁在电视采访中表示,中国高层领导人王岐山的亲属在海航持有股份,该公司因此在网上引起诸多猜测。那位富翁没有提供任何证据。
The allegations leveled by the billionaire, Guo Wengui, who has ties to China's former spy chief, is part of his broader war on the Chinese government. From his New York apartment, Mr. Guo, using his Twitter account and Google's YouTube, has been making claims of widespread government corruption. China has requested his arrest, on separate corruption charges.	亿万富翁郭文贵的指控,是他对抗中国政府的行动的一部分。郭与前中国情报官员有关系。他在自己的纽约公寓里通过Twitter和谷歌的YouTube揭发普遍的政府腐败。中国已以多项腐败指控要求逮捕他。

As speculation swirled that HNA could be drawn into a political firestorm, shares of one of the company's Hong Kong affiliates tumbled late last month. Soon after, critical news articles on the group began disappearing from Chinese websites, prompting concerns that government censors had handed down orders to delete unfavorable news about HNA.	人们纷纷猜测海航可能会陷入政治风暴，上月底它的一个香港分支的股票因此暴跌。不久之后，批评该集团的新闻报道开始从中国的网站上消失，人们担心，政府审查机构已下令删除关于海航的不利消息。
HNA declined to comment on the allegations by Mr. Guo.	海航拒绝就郭文贵的指控发表评论。
The birth of HNA traces back to the creation of China's brand of capitalism.	海航的诞生可以追溯到中国式资本主义的初创时期。
When the company was founded in 1993, China had just begun experimenting with private ownership, opening new economic zones and allowing companies to sell shares to the public. The Hainan provincial government asked Mr. Chen, a former pilot with the People's Liberation Army, to help develop a regional carrier, one that would be partly owned by the state and partly owned by private investors.	1993年，该公司成立时，中国刚刚开始尝试私有制，开设新的经济特区，允许公司向公众发售股票。海南省政府要求前解放军飞行员陈峰帮助创立一个部分由国家控股、部分由私人投资者控股的区域性航空公司。
As the company gained momentum, Mr. Chen brought in overseas investors, including the billionaire George Soros, who in 1995 invested $25 million, for a 25 percent stake. (Mr. Soros has since sold his stake.) With deeper pockets, it began diversifying into other, more stable businesses like hotels, finance, advertising and property development, creating a holding company called the the HNA Group.	随着公司的发展势头越来越好，陈峰引进了一些海外投资者，包括亿万富翁乔治·索罗斯(George Soros)。1995年，索罗斯投资2500万美元购买了25%的股份（索罗斯后来卖掉了自己的股份）。随着该公司的资金实力越来越雄厚，它开始进行多元化发展，进军其他更稳定的行业，比如酒店、金融、广告和房地产开发，创建了一个控股公司，名叫海航集团。
The strategy and structure allowed Mr. Chen and his top executives to parlay their small stake in a state-backed airline into a controlling stake in its parent company. In doing so, a group of six longtime HNA executives — led by Mr. Chen — effectively took the group private.	在这样的战略和架构之下，陈峰及其管理层将他们在一家由国家支持的航空公司中的小额股份增值，变为其母公司的控股权。这样，陈峰领导下的六名海航集团长期高管实际上等于将该集团变为私有。

Along the way, he nurtured government ties. Mr. Chen has been a delegate to the national congress of the Chinese Communist Party, which meets every five years to help determine party leadership. In 2008, HNA formed a venture with a firm connected to a son of He Guoqiang, the Communist Party's powerful discipline chief at the time.	在这个过程中，陈峰培养了同政府的关系。他是中国共产党全国代表大会代表，这个五年召集一次的会议旨在巩固共产党的领导。2008年，海航集团与一家同贺国强之子关系密切的公司合作，成立了合资企业，贺国强当时在权力很大的中共中央纪律检察委员会担任书记。
It all played to Mr. Chen's goals. A Buddhist and an expert calligrapher, Mr. Chen has tried to use his force of personality to create a corporate culture based in part on Confucian values of ethical living. But he is also an executive who talks not so much about creating a profitable enterprise as a really big one.	这一切都对陈峰实现目标有所帮助。陈峰信奉佛教，还擅长书法，他试图用自己的个性力量来打造一种部分基于儒家道德生活价值观的企业文化。至于如何把一家盈利的公司打成一个庞大的企业，这位高管并不愿多谈。
In 1993, the company had just $17 million in revenue. Today, it has about $90 billion in annual revenue, most coming from companies acquired outside China.	1993年，该公司的收入只有1700万美元。如今，公司的年收入约为900亿美元，大部分来自在中国以外的地区所收购的公司。
"His fundamental goal is to be in the top 10 of the Fortune 500 by 2025," says William Kirby, who teaches at Harvard and has known Mr. Chen for nearly a decade. "This is an incredibly ambitious company."	"他的基本目标是在2025年之前打入财富500强公司(Fortune 500)前10位，"在哈佛大学教书的威廉·柯比(William Kirby)认识陈峰已经将近十年，他说："这家公司非常有野心。"
HNA, of late, has embraced the government's push to "go global" and invest overseas, focusing on shipping, hotels, logistics and retail, amassing a $145 billion portfolio. Over the past three years, it has spent more than $30 billion, according to Dealogic.	最近，海航响应了政府"走出去"的号召，投资海外，专注于航运、酒店、物流和零售业务，积累了总值为1450亿美元的投资组合。根据迪罗基公司(Dealogic)的数据，过去三年来，该公司已经斥资300多亿美元。
In a span of three months in 2016, HNA bought a construction and property development company; a flight catering and airport servicing group in Switzerland with 40,000 employees; a St. Regis hotel in Bora Bora, in French Polynesia; a global network of 1,400 hotels, among them the Radisson and Park Plaza brands; and a 28-story office tower in	在2016年的三个月时间内，海航的收购名单包括一家建筑与物业开发公司；瑞士一家提供航班餐饮和机场服务、拥有4万名员工的集团；法属波利尼西亚的波拉波拉岛上一家瑞吉酒店；一个拥有1400家酒店的全球网络，其中包括丽笙酒店(Radisson)和丽亭酒店(Park Plaza)等品牌；此外还有旧金山一栋28层的办公楼。

San Francisco.
Last year, the company spent $6 billion to buy Ingram Micro, a technology wholesaler, and $10.4 billion for the aircraft leasing business of CIT Group. It has snapped up American hotel chains, golf courses and signature buildings, including paying $2.2 billion for 245 Park Avenue in Manhattan.	去年，该公司斥资 60 亿美元收购了技术批发商英迈，并以 104 亿美元收购了 CIT 集团的飞机租赁业务。它还在美国抢购连锁酒店、高尔夫球场和标志性建筑，其中包括以 22 亿美元在曼哈顿买下的公园大道 245 号大厦。
And two of the company's top executives — Mr. Chen and his brother, Chen Guoqing — seem determined to make a home in New York. Each has purchased an entire floor at One57, the ultra-luxurious, 75-story residential tower, with commanding views of Central Park.	而公司的两位最高管理者——陈峰和他的弟弟陈国庆——似乎决定在纽约安家。他们两人各自在 One57 大厦买下了一整个楼层，One57 是一栋 75 层的超豪华住宅楼，能俯瞰中央公园的壮丽景色。
The company also outbid the Ukrainian-born billionaire Len Blavatnik for the Upper East Side limestone mansion owned by the art dealer Wildenstein & Company, buying it for $79.5 million. For its American headquarters, HNA paid $450 million for 850 Third Avenue, which includes tenants like the City of New York.	这家公司还在拍卖中击败乌克兰裔亿万富翁列·布拉瓦特尼克(Len Blavatnik)，以 7950 万美元拍下了原本由艺术品经销商威尔斯腾公司(Wildenstein & Company)拥有的一栋上东区石灰岩大宅。公司的美国总部位于纽约第三大道 850 号大楼，是以 4.5 亿美元买下的，纽约市政府也是该大厦的租户。
"If there's any strategy, it's to go out and buy up as much as possible," says Edward Tse, a longtime consultant who has advised HNA and now runs Gao Feng Advisory.	"如果他们有任何策略的话，那就是走出去，多多益善地购买，"曾为海航提供咨询服务的资深顾问谢祖焯说，他现在是高风咨询公司的主管。
While other big Chinese deals have been delayed or canceled in recent months, after the country imposed tighter controls on money flowing out of the country, HNA so far has managed to keep borrowing and making more purchases. It has racked up a debt pile of a size that some analysts wonder is sustainable.	近几个月来，中国对资金外流实施更加严格的管制，其他来自中国的重大交易都遭到推迟或取消，然而目前海航已设法继续借贷，进行更多采购。它已经积累了一定规模的债务，一些分析师怀疑公司是否能够持续发展下去。
Its biggest lenders are state-owned banks like the China Development Bank and the Export and Import Bank of China, institutions that	公司最大的贷方是国家开发银行和中国进出口银行等国有银行，这些银行总体上支持国有企业和国家的产业政策。2016 年，另一家国有银行巨头中国

generally support state enterprises and the country's industrial policies. In 2016, another state giant, China Construction Bank, announced it was giving HNA a $4.5 billion credit line, and said that it would partner with the company to set up a $2.9 billion "industry fund."	建设银行宣布，向海航提供 45 亿美元的信贷额度，并表示将与海航合作，建立 29 亿美元的“产业基金”。
In tapping Wall Street and the global bond market for even more money, HNA has relied on a network of affiliates and subsidiaries to increase its borrowing power. Eighteen companies now listed on the Chinese stock market fall under the HNA Group, and several more trade on a smaller stock exchange in Beijing.	在利用华尔街和全球债券市场获得更多的资金的同时，海航还依靠一个由关联公司和子公司构成的网络来增加自己的借款能力。目前有 18 家中国股市上市公司属于海航集团所有，它还有几家公司在北京一家较小的证券交易所进行交易。
Understanding how these companies work together, and who controls the HNA Group, is a challenge. Its shareholders are masked behind multiple layers of shell companies, subsidiaries and offshore affiliates.	要了解这些公司如何进行合作，以及海航集团究竟由谁来控制，是非常困难的。该集团的股东被掩盖在多层壳公司、子公司和离岸关联公司之后。
One of the group's biggest shareholders is the Hainan Traffic Administration Holding Company, which is in turn owned by four other entities. Those entities are owned by yet other entities.	海航集团最大的股东之一是海南交管控股有限公司，这家公司又由另外四家法人实体所拥有。这四家实体又由其他实体所拥有。
Corporate filings show that 45 percent of the HNA Groups's shares are owned by Mr. Chen and five longtime company executives. Another 22 percent is owned by the Cihang Foundation, run by Zeng Haorong, a former government official who once served as mayor of Haikou, where HNA is based.	企业文件显示，海航集团 45% 的股份由陈峰和五名公司长期高管所有。另有 22% 由慈航基金会拥有，该基金会理事长曾浩荣此前是政府官员，曾任海口市市长，海航总部就位于海口。
There are also a few mystery investors, like Guan Jun, who does not appear in filings as a top executive. Mr. Guan's residence, in the records, is a rundown apartment building in Beijing.	此外还有一些神秘的投资者，比如关俊（音），他的名字没有出现在高管的档案当中。根据记录，关俊的住所位于北京一座破旧的公寓楼里。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/hna-group-hainan-airlines-china-deals	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/hna-group-hainan-airlines-china-deals

Is China the World's New Colonial Power?	中国式新殖民主义? (四): 走向世界的中国人
Read Part 1.	中国式新殖民主义? (一): 全天候的朋友
Read Part 2.	中国式新殖民主义? (二): 新的边疆
Read Part 3.	中国式新殖民主义? (三): “奇迹”矿场
One morning in late December, the Namibian conservation biologist Chris Brown was working alone in his Windhoek office when he heard a banging at the gate. Rushing out, he found two angry Chinese men in button-down shirts: the first and second secretaries from the Chinese Embassy. One of them threw a crumpled letter through the gate, Brown says, and shouted: “These are lies! You are making China look bad in the eyes of the world!”	12 月底的一个早晨, 纳米比亚保育生物学家克里斯·布朗(Chris Brown)独自在温得和克的办公室里工作, 突然听到门口传来砰砰的敲门声。他冲出来, 发现两个身穿纽扣领衬衫, 怒气冲冲的中国男子——他们是中国大使馆的一秘和二秘。布朗说, 其中一个人通过大门扔进来一封皱巴巴的信, 大喊道: “一派胡言! 你在破坏中国的世界形象!”
The pages were the same ones Brown hand-delivered to the Chinese Embassy two days before — and then sent to other diplomatic missions, media outlets and international organizations. Signed by 45 local environmental groups, including Brown's own Namibian Chamber of Environment, the letter blamed Chinese nationals for a sharp surge in the commercial poaching of wildlife in Namibia — and excoriated the embassy for doing little to stop it.	这几张纸正是布朗两天前亲手交给中国大使馆的——然后又发给了其他外交使团、媒体和国际组织。该信件由当地 45 个环保团体签署, 包括布朗自己的纳米比亚环境事务所(Namibian Chamber of Environment)在内, 信中指责中国公民在纳米比亚进行商业性野生动物偷猎的情况急剧上升, 并且严厉指责大使馆几乎没有采取任何行动来予以阻止。
Over the last two years, Namibia has lost nearly 200 elephants and endangered rhinos to poaching. In November, a Chinese smuggler was caught in the Johannesburg airport with 18 rhino horns — all from Namibia. Two months earlier, four Chinese men were sentenced to 14 years in prison for trying to smuggle out 14 rhino horns in 2014. (Rhino-horn powder is an ingredient in traditional Chinese medicine that is believed to strengthen the immune system.) Brown had meant	在过去两年时间里, 纳米比亚已经因偷猎失去了将近 200 头大象与濒危的犀牛。11 月, 一名携带 18 只犀牛角的中国走私者在约翰内斯堡机场被抓, 它们全部来自纳米比亚。两个月前, 四名中国男子因为在 2014 年试图走私 14 只犀牛角, 被判入狱 14 年(犀角粉是一味传统中药, 据信可以增强免疫力)。布朗希望这封信能够激起回应, 但是此次造访是他始料未及的。

the letter to provoke a response, but this visit was unexpected.
"You are abusing China's good nature," one of the diplomats said, in a raised voice, according to Brown. "Only a handful of Chinese have been involved in poaching."	"你侮辱了中国的善意，"一名外交官提高了声音说。"只有少数几个中国人参与偷猎。"
"No, Chinese demand is driving all of this," Brown replied. "I think you are trying to strip all of our resources for China." When the yelling subsided, Brown says, he invited the men inside. Sitting in his conference room, they leafed through binders filled with photographs of slaughtered rhinos and elephants. "They got quieter and quieter," Brown recalls. A few days later, he met with the Chinese ambassador, who cautioned him against letting a few "rotten apples" tarnish the entire Chinese community. Brown again insisted it was a more systemic problem. "Listen, we can ratchet up the pressure and make things even worse for you," he says he argued. "Or we can come together to solve this problem." The ambassador, he says, agreed to join the antipoaching fight.	"不，是中国的需求正在拉动所有这一切，"布朗答道。"我认为你们正在试图剥夺我们所有的资源，带给中国。"布朗说，一阵大喊大叫过后，他邀请两人进来。他们坐在会议室里翻看他的活页夹，里面塞满了被宰杀的犀牛与大象的照片。"他们变得愈来愈安静，"布朗回忆说。几天后，他和中国大使见了面，后者告诫他不要让一些"烂苹果"坏了整个华人社区的形象。布朗再次坚称这是一个更为系统化的问题。"听着，我们可以再施加一点压力，让你们的处境变得更糟，"布朗回忆自己当时这样说，"又或者我们可以一起解决这个问题。"布朗说，最后大使同意加入反偷猎斗争。
One of the most troubling dimensions of China's global expansion is its reputation for pillaging and pilfering the natural world. China is not the only culprit in the $19 billion illegal wildlife trade. But its growing hunger for the rare, exotic and dubiously curative is devastating worldwide populations of rhinos and elephants, sharks and tigers — and spurring illegal timber operations in rain forests stretching from Congo to Cambodia. Huang Hongxiang, a former journalist from China who investigated ivory and rhino-horn poaching in Namibia, has started a Kenya-based nonprofit organization, China House, to help Chinese	中国对自然界的豪取强夺已经名声在外，这也是该国全球扩张过程中最令人不安的方面之一。在价值190亿美元的非法野生动物贸易里，中国并不是唯一的罪魁祸首。但是中国人愈来愈渴求珍稀奇异、效果存疑的药品，这在全球范围内令犀牛、大象、鲨鱼和老虎的种群遭受摧残，也在从刚果到柬埔寨的各地雨林中刺激着非法木材作业。黄泓翔曾是一名中国记者，曾在纳米比亚调查象牙和犀角偷猎情况，他在肯尼亚启动了非营利组织"中南屋"，帮助中国公司和社区参与野生动植物保护，作为企业社会责任的一种形式。"在很多全球环境问题上，中国人是问题的一部分，"他说，"所以他们也必须成为解决方案的一部分。"

companies and communities engage in wildlife conservation as a form of corporate social responsibility. "In a lot of global environmental issues, Chinese are part of the problem," he says, "so they have to be part of the solution."
Poaching is a scourge in Damaraland, an arid region of rocky outcroppings in northwest Namibia. "Locals are enticed into killing rhinos by the China market," my Namibian guide, Taffy, who tracks elephants and rhinos, told me. "The horns always seem to end up in Chinese hands." In the past, conservation issues were mostly championed by white Namibians. That is changing. "Blacks used to think whites cared more about the animals than them," says Shinovene Immanuel, a reporter at The Namibian. "But now that poaching has gotten out of hand, everybody is upset."	达马拉兰是纳米比亚西北部一片干旱的地区，嶙峋的岩石露在地表之外，偷猎令这里深受其害。“本地人受到中国市场引诱去杀害犀牛，”我的纳米比亚向导塔菲(Taffy)一直在追踪大象和犀牛的痕迹，他告诉我。“犀角最后似乎总是落到中国人手里。”过去，提倡动物保护的主要是纳米比亚白人。现在这种情况已经有了变化。“黑人曾经认为白人关心动物多于关心他们，”纳米比亚记者施诺维恩·伊曼纽尔(Shinovene Immanuel)说。“但是现在偷猎已经失控了，所有人都很生气。”
Public anger is also rising over some Chinese business proposals that could do damage to the environment. One Chinese-owned company has sought to clear-cut part of Namibia's only pristine forest, in the Zambezi region, to create a tobacco plantation nearly double the size of Manhattan, despite the fact that the area's sandy soil is unsuitable. Another Chinese business wants to set up donkey abattoirs to meet China's soaring demand for donkey meat and skin (the latter is considered a curative in Chinese medicine). And a Namibia-based Chinese company filed a request last fall to capture killer whales, penguins, dolphins and sharks in Namibian waters — all to sell to aquatic theme parks in China. Local activists protested for weeks until the Chinese firm withdrew its proposal.	中国的一些商业计划可能会对环境造成破坏，这也激起了日益强烈的公愤。一家中资公司谋求在赞比西地区清除一片森林，建立烟草种植园，那里位于纳米比亚唯一一片原始森林之中，面积几乎是曼哈顿的一倍，而且该地的沙质土壤并不合适种植烟草。另一家中国公司想建立宰驴场，以满足中国对驴肉和驴皮日益上涨的需求（后者被视为一味中药）。去年秋天，一家位于纳米比亚的中国公司提出申请，要在纳米比亚海域捕捉虎鲸、企鹅、海豚和鲨鱼，以将之出售给中国的水上主题乐园。为此，本地活动人士抗议了几个星期，直到该公司撤回提案。

Three months after Brown's letter provoked the indignant response, the Chinese Embassy hosted a much more diplomatic meeting of Namibian activists and some 60 Chinese business leaders. Besides trumpeting China's recent ban on all ivory sales — and airing an antipoaching video featuring the basketball star Yao Ming — the acting ambassador, Li Nan, denounced poaching and lectured Chinese nationals about obeying Namibian law. Li told me in an email that, at Brown's invitation, he will visit the rhinos' habitat in northern Namibia this month. The two countries, he said, are also working to form a joint law-enforcement task force to combat transnational wildlife criminals.	布朗的信件获得义愤填膺的回应三个月之后，中国大使馆主持了一场更为平和有礼的会晤，邀请纳米比亚活动人士与 60 多位中国商界领袖参加。会上大肆宣传中国近期已禁止所有象牙销售，还播出了一个反偷猎宣传视频，由篮球明星姚明出演，驻纳米比亚使馆临时代办李南谴责了偷猎行为，并告诫中国公民遵守纳米比亚法律。李南在一封电子邮件中告诉我，在布朗的邀请下，他将于本月造访位于纳米比亚北部的犀牛栖息地。他说，两国也正在组建一个联合执法工作组，以打击跨国野生动物犯罪分子。
Jack Huang also spoke out against poaching, but a different kind of dragnet was closing around him. On Feb. 1, the tycoon and four others (three of them Chinese) were arrested at Windhoek's international airport for their participation in a supposed tax-fraud scheme that netted nearly $300 million — the largest case in Namibian history. The arrests were part of a two-year investigation into more than 30 Chinese companies accused of concealing illegal earnings. While in custody, Huang reportedly tried to contact President Geingob, but his business partner refused to help. "When my 'friend' was arrested and spent a night in jail, there was no interference or intervention," Geingob told a local paper later. "This is because in Namibia, we uphold the rule of law, the separation of powers, and pride ourselves on the total independence of our judiciary."	黄跃权也公开表示，反对偷猎，但是另一张大网正在向他逼近。2月1日，这位大亨和另外四人(其中三人为中国人)因参与一项所谓的纳税欺诈计划，在温得和克国际机场遭到逮捕，涉案金额近3亿美元，是纳米比亚历史上最大的案件。纳米比亚对30多家被控隐瞒非法收入的中国公司已经开展了为期两年的调查，这次逮捕行动正是其中的一部分。据报道，黄跃权在拘留期间曾经试图和根哥布总统取得联系，但他的商业伙伴拒绝提供帮助。“我的朋友”被逮捕，在监狱里度过了一个晚上，此事没有受到任何干涉或干预，“根哥布后来对一家当地报纸说。“这是因为在纳米比亚，我们维护法治和分权，我们以拥有完全独立的司法系统而自豪。”
Huang, the man with all the connections, now finds himself disconnected. In mid-February, soon after his release on $75,000 bail,	黄跃权本来拥有庞大的关系网，现在却发现所有的关系都断了。2月中旬，他在交纳7.5万美元的保释金后获释。不久后，他声称，针对他的税务欺诈

he claimed that the tax-fraud case against him was based on outdated information. Xia, his deputy at Sun Investment, told me that Huang actually divested from Golden Phoenix, a company named in the case, more than eight years ago, but that the transaction had not been entered into the official computer system. When this trial is over, Huang may file lawsuits against those who attacked his businesses, Xia says. In the meantime, the gregarious entrepreneur will probably spend more time dining alone. When he invited an old friend out to dinner recently, he was gently rebuffed — the power broker was suddenly a pariah.	案是基于过时的信息。太阳投资集团的副总经理夏力力在接受采访时表示，实际上，黄跃权8年多前就从该案提到的金凤凰公司撤资了，但这一变更没有被记录在官方的电脑系统中。夏力力表示，审判结束后，黄可能会对那些攻击他的公司的人提起诉讼。与此同时，这位爱交际的企业家也许要更多地独自进餐了。前不久，他邀请一位老朋友外出用餐时，被婉转地拒绝了——这位权力掮客突然间变得无人待见。
Arresting a high-flying Chinese businessman may be a simple matter of law, but it is also one more sign of how the relationship between Namibia and China is being recalibrated. Li Nan wrote to me that he believes that the boisterous local press is “trying to whip up racist sentiments and hatred.” The animosity in Namibia, though, is nowhere near the levels that have caused explosive riots at a Chinese coal mine in Zambia, including one in 2012 that left a Chinese manager dead, or that sparked unruly protests against Chinese traders in Kampala, Uganda, last month. (The rising resentment toward the Chinese in Uganda recalls another era, when the dictator Idi Amin expelled an earlier wave of immigrant merchants, from the Indian diaspora, in 1972.)	逮捕一名极其成功的中国商人可能只是一个简单的法律问题，但也是纳米比亚与中国关系正被重新调整的又一个信号。李南在接受邮件采访时表示，他认为喧闹的当地媒体在“努力煽动种族主义情绪和仇恨”。不过，纳米比亚的敌意远不及有些其他非洲国家：赞比亚的一个中国煤矿多次爆发骚乱，2012年的一次骚乱导致一名中国经理死亡；上个月，乌干达坎帕拉多次爆发抵制中国贸易商的混乱抗议活动（乌干达对中国人不断加深的怨恨让人想起了另一个时代：1972年，独裁者伊迪·阿明[Idi Amin]驱逐了早期的一批印度商人移民）。
Still, the new tensions between China and Namibia are laid bare at police checkpoints around the country, where Chinese nationals are routinely singled out for inspection. The police say this new policy has already exposed several cases of wildlife smuggling. Jack Huang’s	不过，中国和纳米比亚最近的紧张关系在该国各地的警察检查站暴露无遗，在那里，中国公民经常被挑出来接受检查。警方称，这项新政策已经破获了数起野生动物走私案。上个月，黄跃权的副手夏力力在机场道路的检查站被要求靠边停车。警察搜了他的身，逐一检查了他的行李，还搜查了他的汽车。

associate, Xia, was pulled over at the checkpoint on the airport road last month. The police frisked him, combed through his luggage and scoured his car. "All the while they were yelling, 'Rhino horn, rhino horn, where's the rhino horn?'" Xia recalls. "I was shocked that this could happen in Namibia. This is a country that is supposed to be our all-weather friend."	"他们一直在喊：'犀牛角，犀牛角，犀牛角在哪儿呢？'夏力力回忆说。"这样的事居然会发生在纳米比亚，这让我很震惊。我们一直认为这个国家是我们全天候的朋友。"
As the afternoon sun weakens over the Husab Uranium Mine, most of the 2,000 or so Namibian workers return to their desert barracks. Teng and the other Chinese engineers board buses for the ride back through the moonscape to Swakopmund and the little house on Amathila Avenue. After sharing another Chinese meal together, the men disperse. Teng walks back to his apartment, where he will spend a few hours on his computer doing administrative and supervisory tasks. "Our real secret," Teng says, "is that we work 12-hour days while everybody else works eight."	傍晚，照耀在哈萨博铀矿上的阳光开始减弱，约 2000 名纳米比亚工人中的大部分返回沙漠营地。迪兰·邓等中国工程师乘坐公共汽车穿过荒芜的沙漠，返回斯瓦科普蒙德和阿马蒂拉大道上的小房子。他们一起吃完中餐后就散开了。邓走回自己的公寓，在电脑上花了几个小时完成行政和监督任务。"真正的秘密是，"邓说，"我们每天工作 12 个小时，而其他人都是工作 8 个小时。"
It's a chilly Saturday in April — the antipodal winter is coming — and Teng has worked overtime again. He has missed one of the only diversions here: Saturday-afternoon basketball games at the local sports center. (China now has so many state-owned companies in Namibia that they stage an annual 15-team championship; China Harbour Engineering, the port builder in Walvis Bay, won this year.) Strolling on the Swakopmund waterfront, Teng was no longer clad in his khaki mining uniform. Wearing jeans and a Quiksilver T-shirt and cradling a cappuccino, he looked like any tourist gazing out over the crashing Atlantic surf. During his nearly four years here, Teng has not	那是 4 月份一个寒冷的周六——南半球的冬天即将来临——邓再次加班。他错过了这里仅有的几项娱乐活动之一：周六下午在当地体育中心举行的篮球比赛（现在中国在纳米比亚的国企很多，他们每年举办由 15 支球队参与的锦标赛。今年，在沃尔维斯湾修建港口的中国港湾工程公司获得了冠军）。在斯瓦科普蒙德的海滨漫步时，邓不再身穿卡其色采矿制服，而是穿着牛仔裤和 Quiksilver T 恤，拿着一杯卡布奇诺。他眺望着澎湃的大西洋海浪，看起来像一名游客。在这里的近四年时间里，邓没有太多机会旅游，不过前不久，他利用一个假期前往埃托沙国家公园(Etosha National Park)进行了一次野生动物游览之旅。

had too many chances to be a tourist, though he took advantage of a recent holiday to go on a wildlife tour in Etosha National Park.
In their bubble at Husab, Teng and his colleagues are mostly insulated from the tensions between China and Namibia. These huge Chinese projects all over the developing world can seem like spaceships landing on distant planets. Chinese workers often have little incentive — or latitude — to venture out into the alien environment, especially when the state-owned mother ship provides food, lodging and transport. And the exhausting work can sap them of all curiosity about their surroundings. On a plane back to China in April, I sat next to a worker who had just spent two years in Equatorial Guinea — but had no idea where it was.	在哈萨博的泡泡里生活的迪兰·邓和同事们,基本感受不到中国与纳米比亚的紧张关系。这些遍布于发展中国家的大型中国项目,就像是落在遥远星球上的宇宙飞船。中国的工作人员往往没什么动力——或自由——去探索这个异域环境,尤其是在食物、住宿和交通工具都由这艘国有母舰提供的情况下。累人的工作会磨掉他们对周边环境的所有好奇心。在今年4月返回中国的一趟班机上,我身旁坐了一位员工,他刚在赤道几内亚待了两年——却还不知道这个国家在哪。
The tech-savvy Teng, by contrast, can pinpoint his exact location on Google Earth, even though his routine is largely circumscribed by the 43-mile route between Husab and Swakopmund. Saving more in Namibia than he could back in China — thanks, in part, to all those free meals on Amathila Avenue — Teng has built a tidy nest egg. In 2014, when a C.G.N. delegation from China visited Husab, Teng chatted with one of the two women in the group. Online flirting ensued. In January, Teng stunned his Husab colleagues when he returned from a trip to China with a ring on his finger. He'd married the visitor — mission accomplished — joining a handful of others who had done the same thing. Teng's other goal has not yet been achieved. He wants to see Husab reach its full potential next year, fueling China's continued rise. "This is an important thing for China," he says, "and I want to be a part	相比之下,善于利用科技产品的迪兰·邓可以在谷歌地球(Google Earth)上找到自己的确切位置,尽管他的生活大体局限在相距43英里远的哈萨博与斯瓦科普蒙德之间。在纳米比亚生活比在中国省钱——这在一定程度上要归功于在阿马蒂拉大道上的免费饭食——因此他攒下了一小笔钱。2014年,当一个中产核代表团从中国去哈萨博访问时,迪兰·邓和代表团中两名女性中的一位聊了起来。之后两人开始通过网络谈情说爱。今年1月,迪兰·邓回了趟中国,返回纳米比亚的时候手上戴了一枚戒指,令哈萨博的同事们大吃一惊。他和那位代表团成员结了婚——使命完成——成了那里为数不多的已婚人士。他希望哈萨博明年能发挥出全部潜力,推动中国经济的持续增长。“这对中国来说很重要,”他说,“我想参与其中。”

of it.”
The Chinese migrants who have gone out into the world, the risk-takers who have found spots in Asia, Latin America and Africa, are as diverse as China itself: young and middle-aged, unschooled and highly educated, working for private companies and state-owned enterprises — and even for themselves. They are not a monolith. And yet, in these far-off places, they are connected to one another in a way that they never could be back home in a land of 1.4 billion people. It’s not just the shared food, culture or language — or the solidarity that comes from being thrown together in a harsh environment. What binds these individuals together is an abiding belief that their presence overseas is making China better and stronger. This shared conviction, as much as the state that has nurtured it, is what makes China a colossus, a nation that can be seen by others, in the same instant, as a blessing and a curse.	走向世界的中国移民——在亚洲、拉丁美洲和非洲找到据点的冒险者——像中国本身一样丰富多样：有年轻人，也有中年人；有没上过学的，也有受过高等教育的；有为私企工作的，也有在国企的——甚至还有给自己打工的。他们不是铁板一块。但在这些遥远的地方，他们以一种在 14 亿人口的祖国不曾有的方式彼此相连。他们的团结不仅因为他们有相同的饮食、文化或语言，也不只是因为都被抛到了一个严酷的环境中。将这些个体绑在一起的，是一种持久的信念，即他们在海外的存在会令中国变得更好、更强大。正是这种共同的坚定信念——以及扶持了这种信念的政府——使中国成为一个巨人，一个在其他国家的眼里既是福音也是灾难的国家。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part4	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170510/is-china-the-worlds-new-colonial-power-part4
Hong Kong Pro-Democracy Rally Displaced by Pro-Beijing Event, Organizers Say	香港民主集会被亲北京团体挤出维多利亚公园
HONG KONG — Organizers of a pro-democracy rally held annually in July on the anniversary of Hong Kong’s handover to China said on Wednesday that they had been denied permission to use a downtown park, a move that threatens to raise tensions ahead of an expected visit by President Xi Jinping of China.	香港——周三，每年七月在香港回归中国周年纪念日举行民主集会的组织者表示，他们未获得使用一个市区公园的许可。在国家主席习近平预计访问香港之前，此举有让紧张气氛升级的危险。
The organizing group, the Civil Human Rights Front, a coalition of	这个由亲民主活动人士联盟“民间人权阵线”组织的 7 月 1 日的集会，传统上

pro-democracy activists, has traditionally used Victoria Park as the starting point for a July 1 rally that calls for universal suffrage and the preservation of civil liberties in Hong Kong, a semiautonomous territory. Last year's rally drew at least 19,000 people, and previous ones have drawn hundreds of thousands.	以维多利亚公园为出发点，今年的主题是呼吁普选、维护香港公民自由，香港是中国半自治的领土。去年的集会吸引了至少 1.9 万人，以前的集会曾吸引过数十万人参加。
But on Wednesday, the group said in a Facebook post that permission to use the park on July 1 had instead been granted to the Hong Kong Celebrations Association, a group that the local news media identified as being pro-Beijing. The post said that the Hong Kong authorities had told the Civil Human Rights Front on Tuesday that its application had been a lower priority because it had sought to use the park for free.	但在周三，民间人权阵线在 Facebook 上发帖表示，7 月 1 日使用维多利亚公园的许可证已被授予香港各界庆典委员会，当地新闻媒体说那是一个亲北京的团体。民阵的帖子说，香港当局周二告诉他们，因为民阵寻求免费使用公园，所以其申请没有得到优先考虑。
An organizer with the Civil Human Rights Front was quoted as telling the local news media that the group was talking with the authorities and still planned to begin the rally at Victoria Park.	当地新闻媒体援引民间人权阵线一名组织者的话说，他告诉媒体，民阵正在与当局进行交涉，并仍计划在维多利亚公园开始集会。
The event this year is loaded with significance: It was planned for the 20th anniversary of Hong Kong's transfer in 1997 to China from Britain, and President Xi is expected to attend ceremonies in the city marking the anniversary. The denial of permission to use the park also comes after several pro-democracy leaders have recently been arrested in what activists say is an effort to quell dissent ahead of the expected visit by Mr. Xi. It would be his first trip to Hong Kong since he assumed full power in 2013.	今年的活动充满了重要意义：今年是香港主权于 1997 年从英国回归中国的 20 周年纪念，国家主席习近平预计将前往出席在香港举行的周年庆典。未获得使用维多利亚公园的许可也发生在几位亲民主领袖最近被逮捕之后，活动人士说，那些人被逮捕是当局在习近平预计来访之前平息异议的一种努力。这将是习近平在 2013 年掌权以后首次访问香港。
The Leisure and Cultural Services Department of Hong Kong, which has jurisdiction over the city's parks, did not immediately respond to an email seeking details on July 1 bookings in Victoria Park.	香港康乐及文化事务署对城市的公园有管辖权，该机构没有立即回复寻求关于维多利亚公园 7 月 1 日预订详情的电子邮件。

The local news media has reported that Mr. Xi is expected to make a three-day visit to Hong Kong, where he is to swear in the city's next chief executive, Carrie Lam, a longtime civil servant who is trusted by Beijing.	当地新闻媒体报道说，习近平预计将对香港进行为期三天的访问，他将主持香港下任行政长官林郑月娥的宣誓就职仪式，林郑月娥是北京信赖的资深公务员。
Pro-democracy groups have been planning large protests to coincide with Mr. Xi's expected visit and highlight what they see as Beijing's tightening grip on Hong Kong's political freedom, which is supposed to be guaranteed under an arrangement known as "one country, two systems." The groups have increasingly called for greater autonomy, if not independence, from China.	亲民主团体一直在筹划在习近平的预计访问期间举行大规模的抗议活动，以此来强调在他们看来北京收紧香港政治自由的问题，香港的政治自由本该在“一国两制”的安排下得到保障。这些团体要求更大自治权的呼声越来越大，有些人甚至呼吁香港从中国独立出去。
The recent arrests of pro-democracy activists involved people who led or took part in huge protests that paralyzed some areas of Hong Kong in 2014. The charges have included unlawful assembly and disorderly conduct in public.	最近被逮捕的民主活动人士领导或参加了 2014 年的大规模抗议活动，抗议活动曾导致香港部分地区瘫痪。对他们的指控包括非法集会和公众妨扰。
Two pro-independence politicians, Yau Wai-ching and Sixtus Leung, and three of their assistants were also charged last month over their attempt to enter Hong Kong's legislative chamber last year. Legislators loyal to Beijing had refused to swear them in because they had declared allegiance to a "Hong Kong nation" and replaced the word China with "Shina," an anti-China snub.	上个月，两名支持独立的政治人士游蕙祯和梁颂恒及其三名助手也被起诉，因为他们去年曾试图闯入香港立法会大会。忠实北京的立法会议员们取消了梁颂恒和游蕙祯的议席，因为他们在宣读就职誓词时宣称忠于“香港民族”，还在誓词中用辱华词汇“支那”取代了中国。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170511/hong-kong-protest-rally-hand-over-day	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170511/hong-kong-protest-rally-hand-over-day
M.M.A. Fighter's Pummeling of Tai Chi Master Rattles China	“打假”太极，MMA 拳手徐晓冬成公敌
BEIJING — For weeks, the mixed martial arts fighter Xu Xiaodong had been taunting masters of the traditional Chinese martial arts, dismissing	北京——连续几周，综合格斗拳手徐晓冬一直在奚落传统的中国武术大师，对他们不屑一顾，认为他们是过度商业化的骗子，并挑战他们要么证明自己，

them as overly commercialized frauds, and challenging them to put up or shut up.	要么闭嘴。
After one of them — Wei Lei, a practitioner of the “thunder style” of tai chi — accepted the challenge, Mr. Xu flattened him in about 10 seconds.	在其中一人——练习雷氏太极的魏雷——接受挑战后，徐晓冬用了大约 10 秒时间将他击败。
Mr. Xu may have proved his point, but he was unprepared for the ensuing outrage.	徐晓冬也许证明了自己的观点，但随后引发的愤恨令他措手不及。
When video of the drubbing went viral, many Chinese were deeply offended by what they saw as an insult to a cornerstone of traditional Chinese culture.	太极大败的视频疯传，很多中国人觉得受到了严重冒犯，认为这是对传统中国文化一大基石的侮辱。
The state-run Chinese Wushu Association posted a statement on its website saying the fight “violates the morals of martial arts.” The Chinese Boxing Association issued similar criticism.	官方的中国武术协会在其网站上发表了一份声明，称那场比赛“违背武德”。中国拳击协会发出了类似的批评。
An article by Xinhua, the state news agency, called Mr. Xu a “crazy guy,” saying that the fight had caused people to question whether Chinese martial arts were of any use and even to ask, “What exactly are traditional Chinese martial arts?”	官方通讯社新华社的一篇文章说徐晓冬是“狂人”，称那场打斗导致人们质疑中国武术是否有用，甚至会问“中国武术到底是什么”。
The reaction has been so furious that Mr. Xu has gone into hiding.	外界的反应如此激烈，徐晓冬只得暂避风头。
“I’ve lost everything, my career and everything,” he said in a message circulating online. “I think many people misunderstand me. I’m fighting fraudulence, but now I’ve become the target.”	“我的事业，我的东西都没了，”他在网上流传的一段视频中说。“我只是打假，我现在变成打击对象了。”
Many people around the world assumed that this debate had long been settled. Mixed martial arts fighters have for years held exhibition fights against practitioners of traditional martial arts — kung fu, karate and judo among them. The old ways, for all their balletic grace, lost decisively.	全世界的很多人以为这场辩论早已经尘埃落定了。多年来，综合格斗拳手一直和练习传统武术，包括功夫、空手道和柔道的人举行表演赛。尽管如芭蕾舞般优雅，但传统武术输得很彻底。

Known broadly as wushu, traditional Chinese martial arts include such disparate disciplines as qigong, categorized as an “internal” practice that is mostly spiritual, and kung fu, an “external” art that is practiced by the monks of the Shaolin Temple and was popularized around the world by Bruce Lee. There are hundreds of styles of wushu in China, and many overlap.	传统中国武术被统称为武术，包括迥然不同的领域，如气功和功夫。前者被归为一种“内在”练习，以精神为主，后者则是少林寺僧侣的一种“外在”技能，因为李小龙(Bruce Lee)的原因而在全世界流行了起来。中国有数百个武术流派，很多流派之间有重合。
Tai chi, while a martial art, is viewed by many today as a spiritual breathing and balance exercise enjoyed by people of all ages, usually performed in slow motion in a quiet park instead of a fight ring.	太极尽管属于武术，但在今天的很多人看来，它是一种精神上的呼吸和平衡锻炼，适合各个年龄段。太极动作缓慢，通常是在安静的公园，而不是拳台上进行。
Mixed martial arts, or M.M.A., is a “no-holds-barred” fighting style developed over the last century from fighting styles around the world. It began to gain popularity in the United States in the 1980s. While it is violent, it does have rules — including no biting, spitting or gouging.	综合格斗简称 MMA，是过去一个世纪里从世界各地的格斗流派发展出来的一种“无限制”格斗流派，上世纪 80 年代开始在美国流行起来。虽然暴力，但综合格斗有自己的规则，包括不得咬人、吐口水和挖眼。
The fight between Mr. Xu and Mr. Wei was brutal. As Mr. Wei circled slowly, arms outstretched in a calm tai chi defense, Mr. Xu lunged, jabbed him to the floor, then used a “ground and pound” technique to subdue him. It was all over in about 10 seconds.	徐晓冬和魏雷之间的打斗颇为野蛮。在魏雷慢慢地转圈，把手臂摆成镇静的太极防御姿势时，徐晓冬一个猛冲，把他扑倒在地，然后用了一种“地面打击”技术将其制服。所有这一切只用了大约 10 秒钟时间。
Mr. Xu did not respond to a request for an interview sent to his personal Weibo account a few days after the fight on April 27. Shortly afterward, his account was taken down as the authorities rushed to try to tamp down the controversy.	在 4 月 27 日的比武结束几天后，徐晓冬未回复发至他个人微博账号的采访请求。不久，他的账号就被封，当局试图迅速平息争议。
A woman reached by telephone at the Battle Club in southeast Beijing, where Mr. Xu works, said he was not giving interviews. She declined to give her name.	在北京东南部徐晓冬工作的必图拳馆，一名接听电话的女子表示，徐晓冬不接受采访。她不愿透露自己的姓名。
On Wednesday morning, the door of the Battle Club, in the dingy	周三上午，位于一栋高楼昏暗肮脏的地下室里的必图拳馆大门紧锁。楼梯井

basement of a high-rise, was locked. Photographs of Mr. Xu and other M.M.A. fighters decorated the walls of the stairwell.	的墙上贴着徐晓冬和其他 MMA 拳手的照片。
An electrician lingering by a cigarette shop at the top of the stairs said he practiced wushu and had come to check out the club after hearing about the controversy. He said that Mr. Xu had been right to pose his challenge, even though it had infuriated people.	楼梯顶端是一家卖烟的小店。在小店附近逗留的一名电工说自己习武，听说相关争议后过来看看拳馆。他说徐晓冬发出挑战是对的，虽然这么做激怒了一些人。
"No one can avoid fighting," said the man, who gave only his surname, Lian, and a social media username, Ruyi.	"谁都免不了打架，"这名只愿透露自己姓连(音)、社交媒体上的用户名叫"如意(音)"的男子说。
He said defenders of the traditional martial arts were incensed that Mr. Xu had dared to say that they staged impressive performances but were ineffective fighters and that, by doing so, he had threatened their livelihoods.	他说，传统武术的捍卫者生气的是徐晓冬居然敢说他们练习的是令人印象深刻的花架子，在实战中不起作用，他威胁到了那些人的生计。
Yet Mr. Xu's ultra-aggressive assault on his tai chi rival had missed an important point, Mr. Lian added.	但他说，徐晓冬对太极对手极其猛烈的攻击忽略了一点。
"The key difference between what Mr. Xu does and martial arts is that martial arts isn't a competitive sport," he said. "It's not about really hurting. It's about giving your opponent 'face.' And Mr. Xu's style is about beating your opponent to near death."	"徐晓冬练的和武术的关键区别在于武术不是竞技体育，"他说。"不是为了真的伤人。是为了给对手'面子'。徐晓冬的风格是把对手打得奄奄一息。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170511/mma-martial-arts-china-tai-chi	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170511/mma-martial-arts-china-tai-chi
Qian Qichen, Pragmatic Chinese Envoy, Dies at 89	务实的外交家钱其琛：六四后引导中国走出孤立
BEIJING — Qian Qichen, an imperturbable Chinese diplomat who as foreign minister and vice premier steered his country on a pragmatic course through the end of the Cold War, the collapse of the Soviet Union and bitter quarrels with the United States, died here on Tuesday. He was 89.	北京——沉着冷静的中国外交官钱其琛周二在北京去世，享年 89 岁。他曾担任外交部长和国务院副总理，带领中国采取务实路线，经历了冷战结束、苏联解体和与美国的激烈争执。

Official Chinese news reports announced Mr. Qian's death but did not give a cause.	中国官方新闻报道宣布了钱其琛去世的消息，但没有提到死因。
Mr. Qian, whose full name is roughly pronounced chee-en chee-chen, had mostly stayed out of the public eye in recent years, but on Thursday his death was mourned on the front page of People's Daily, the Communist Party's main newspaper — a sign of the deep imprint he made in shaping a muted, unsentimental policy after the Soviet bloc fell apart in 1991 and in chipping away at China's isolation from the West in the years after 1989.	近年来，钱其琛大部分时候都远离公众视线。但周四，共产党的主要报纸《人民日报》在头版对他的去世表示哀悼，这标志着他在苏联集团 1991 年解体后塑造一种温和、冷静的政策，以及在 1989 年之后的多年里逐步瓦解西方对中国的孤立方面，都功不可没。
"Deng Xiaoping was the architect of China's pragmatic foreign policy, but Qian Qichen was the diplomat who carried it out," said Susan L. Shirk, who worked with Mr. Qian when she was a deputy assistant secretary of state under President Bill Clinton and is now a professor at the University of California, San Diego.	"邓小平是中国务实外交政策的设计师，但钱其琛是执行这一政策的外交官，"曾在比尔·克林顿(Bill Clinton)总统任内担任副助理国务卿时与钱其琛共过事的加州大学圣迭戈分校(University of California, San Diego)教授谢淑丽(Susan L. Shirk)说。
Mr. Qian's tough yet phlegmatic manner underwent its biggest test when the United States and other Western nations bridled with revulsion after Deng, the party's most powerful elder, ordered soldiers in June 1989 to crush pro-democracy protests that had engulfed Beijing and other Chinese cities. Hundreds of civilians died in the gunfire and the chaos on roads leading to Tiananmen Square.	1989 年 6 月，共产党权力最大的元老邓小平命令军队镇压席卷北京和中国其他城市的亲民主抗议，导致数以百计的平民在通往天安门广场的马路上，死于炮火和混乱。事后，美国和其他西方国家极度厌恶中国，钱其琛强硬但务实的方式经历了最大的考验。
In Congress there were demands for harsh sanctions, but President George Bush, not wanting to risk a total rupture with China over the violence, sent his national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, to Beijing for talks. In their meetings, at first held in secret, Mr. Scowcroft sparred with Mr. Qian over how to improve relations.	美国国会要求对中国实行严厉的制裁，但乔治·布什(George Bush)总统不想冒因为这次暴力事件而与中国彻底绝交的风险，于是派国家安全顾问布伦特·斯科克罗夫特(Brent Scowcroft)前往北京，与中方举行会谈。起初，会谈是秘密进行的。在会谈期间，斯科克罗夫特和钱其琛围绕如何改善两国关系产生了争执。

"You have your difficulties, and we have ours," Mr. Qian told Mr. Scowcroft, according to Mr. Qian's memoirs, which were published in Chinese in 2003 and in English in 2006. "You're looking for a solution, and we're also looking for one."	"你们有你们的困难，我们有我们的困难，"钱其琛的回忆录显示他当时对斯科克罗夫特说。"你们在寻求解决问题的方法，我们也在寻求解决的方法。"钱其琛的回忆录分别在2003年和2006年出版了中文版和英文版。
Mr. Scowcroft, in a talk in 2006, said that although tensions between the two nations had persisted, "in negotiating principally with Qian Qichen, we came up with a road map to renormalize our relations."	斯科克罗夫特在2006年的一次演讲中说，尽管两国之间的紧张关系持续存在，但"在主要同钱其琛进行的谈判中，我们制定了让两国关系恢复正常的路线图"。
Mr. Qian so won the trust of Deng and President Jiang Zemin that he was elevated to vice premier in 1993 and into the Politburo, or Political Bureau, a council of 25 senior officials, in 1998. It was a rare feat for a career diplomat, one that has not been matched by any succeeding foreign minister.	钱其琛因为赢得了邓小平和中国国家主席江泽民的信任，而在1993年升任副总理，又在1998年进入由25名高级官员组成的政治局。这样的成就对一名职业外交官来说颇为罕见，之后尚没有哪位外交部长能与其相提并论。
"The fact that he rose to become both vice premier and a Political Bureau member is a mark of the high esteem in which he was held by Chinese leaders," Robert L. Suettinger, a China researcher in Washington, said in an email, adding that Mr. Qian "was able to guide Jiang Zemin and others out of international isolation after Tiananmen."	"升为副总理和政治局委员这个事实，标志着他深受中国领导人的敬重，"华盛顿研究中国问题的苏葆立(Robert.L.Suettinger)在一封电子邮件中说道，又补充说钱其琛"能够在天安门事件后引导江泽民和其他人走出国际孤立局面"。
Mr. Suettinger was director of Asian affairs on the National Security Council under President Clinton when he met Mr. Qian, whom he described as "always well-informed, consistently knowledgeable, never unsure of his brief."	苏葆立曾在担任克林顿政府国家安全委员会(National Security Council)亚洲事务负责人时见过钱其琛。他说，钱其琛"总是见多识广，始终很博学，永远不会对自己的任务没有把握"。
Mr. Qian began his career prepared for a very different world; at the time, it seemed that China and the Soviet Union had formed an ironclad alliance and that the United States would be their perpetual foe.	开始自己的职业生涯时，钱其琛面临的世界与现在大为不同。当时，看上去中国和苏联结成了牢不可破的联盟，美国是它们永远的敌人。
He was born on Jan. 5, 1928, in Tianjin, a northern Chinese port city,	他1928年1月5日出生在中国北方的港口城市天津，但祖籍是逾700英里

but traced his roots more than 700 miles to the south, to Jiading, now a district of Shanghai. His ancestors included a famed Qing-era scholar.	(约合 1100 公里) 以南的嘉定。后者现在是上海的一个区。他的祖先中有一个清代的著名学者。
As a student in pre-revolutionary Shanghai, Mr. Qian was drawn into underground activism for the Communist Party. He joined the party in 1942, seven years before Mao Zedong declared the creation of the People's Republic of China.	革命前在上海求学时，钱其琛接受了共产党的地下激进主义。他 1942 年加入共产党。七年后，毛泽东宣布中华人民共和国成立。
Chinese reports about Mr. Qian's death gave few details about his background and family, although a son, Qian Ning, wrote an admiring book about the United States based on his experiences as a student at the University of Michigan.	有关钱其琛去世的中文报道几乎没有提到关于他的背景和家人的细节，但他其中一个儿子钱宁根据自己在密歇根大学(University of Michigan)上学时的经历，写了一本有关美国的书，书中充满赞赏之情。
Mr. Qian was sent to study in the Soviet Union in 1954 after spending several years as a journalist and party operative. The next year he was given a junior post in the Chinese embassy in Moscow. There, for seven years, he watched the relationship between Beijing and the Kremlin crumble.	1954 年，在当了几年记者和党务工作者后，钱其琛被派去苏联学习。第二年，他在莫斯科的中国大使馆谋得一份小差事。在那里工作的七年里，他看着北京与克里姆林宫关系破裂。
Mao had looked to the Soviet Union as an ideological soul mate and source of expertise, but relations soured over doctrinal rifts and Chinese resentment of Russian dominance.	毛泽东视苏联为意识形态上的灵魂伴侣和专业知识源泉，但因为政治理论上的分歧，以及中国对俄罗斯控制的不满，两国关系恶化。
After he returned to China in 1962, Mr. Qian continued his way up the foreign policy ladder. But like many officials he was sidelined by the anarchic Cultural Revolution that Mao unleashed in 1966. Mr. Qian was sent to a "cadre school" for re-educating officials before being called back into diplomatic service in 1972.	1962 年回国后，钱其琛在外交领域继续攀升。但和很多官员一样，他因毛泽东 1966 年发起的无政府主义文化大革命而遭排挤。钱其琛下放到一所对官员进行再教育的“干校”，1972 年才被召回，重回外交岗位。
After Mao's death, in 1976, Mr. Qian embraced a push by Deng and other leaders to open China up to the world. He was promoted to	1976 年毛泽东去世后，钱其琛支持邓小平和其他领导人的对外开放举动。他 1988 年升任外交部长时，中国与西方和苏联建立桥梁的行动似乎取得了

foreign minister in 1988, when China's efforts to build bridges with the West and the Soviet Union seemed to be succeeding. But in little over a year, the carnage at Tiananmen Square and the fall of the Soviet bloc threw China's diplomatic progress into doubt.	成功。但仅仅过了一年多一点，天安门广场的大屠杀和苏联集团的解体，让中国的外交进展为疑云所笼罩。
As Communism dissolved in Eastern Europe, some Chinese officials wanted Beijing to step forward as a bolder ideological rival to the United States. But Mr. Qian supported Deng's policy of a low-profile, practical foreign policy that would allow China to focus on economic growth and core territorial issues, like the one with Taiwan. Deng called it "biding our time and nurturing our strength."	随着共产主义在东欧消亡，一些中国官员想让北京站出来，在意识形态上更大胆地对抗美国。但钱其琛支持邓小平实行低调、务实的外交政策，这让中国能够把精力集中在经济增长和台湾问题等核心领土问题上。邓小平称其为“韬光养晦”。
Explaining that policy in 1995, Mr. Qian said: "The only thing is to focus on doing our own tasks. No matter how international circumstances change, we must hold unwaveringly onto economic development as the focus."	“不管国际形势如何变化，”钱其琛在 1995 年解释该政策时说，“要真正扎扎实实地抓好经济建设，不要耽搁。”
Throughout the 1990s, Mr. Qian led China's effort to end its ostracism by the West. He helped draw Japan closer to China, opened diplomatic relations with South Korea, normalized ties with Indonesia, wooed Russia and other post-Soviet states, and looked toward improving ties with Washington.	在整个 90 年代，钱其琛领导着中国结束西方排斥的努力。他参与改善中日关系、与韩国建交、与印度尼西亚关系正常化、争取俄罗斯和其他前苏联国家的支持，并希望改善与华盛顿的关系。
In 1990, seeking a compromise to end hostilities after Iraq invaded Kuwait, he visited Baghdad for talks with President Saddam Hussein, who asked him whether he thought the United States would really go to war.	1990 年，伊拉克入侵科威特后，他为了寻求各方让步以结束敌对状态，他访问了巴格达，同该国总统萨达姆·侯赛因(Saddam Hussein)举行会谈。后者问他是否认为美国真的会打仗。
"I told him that a great power that has assembled dozens of armies does not back away without a fight unless it had achieved its goal," Mr.	“我说，一个大国，集结了几十万大军，如果没有达到目的，是不会不战而退的，”钱其琛在其回忆录中写道。

Qian wrote in his memoirs.
Throughout the 1990s, however, he also skirmished with American diplomats over Chinese missile sales to Pakistan, suppression of dissent in China and sanctions on trade with China. China was infuriated when, in 1995, the Clinton administration, pressed by Congress, decided to allow Lee Teng-hui, the president of Taiwan, to visit Cornell University.	在整个 90 年代，围绕中国向巴基斯坦出售导弹和镇压国内异见人士，以及对华贸易受到的制裁，钱其琛也同美国外交官多次交锋。1995 年，当克林顿政府在国会的压力下决定允许台湾总统李登辉(Lee Teng-hui)访问康奈尔大学(Cornell University)时，中国大怒。
The White House described Mr. Lee's visit as a private one, but China regards Taiwan as an illegitimate breakaway province and denounced the visit as an attempt by Mr. Lee to end its diplomatic isolation. The crisis spilled into 1996, when China fired missiles near Taiwan before the island's elections.	白宫称李登辉的访问是私人活动，但中国视台湾为一个非法分裂出去的省份，谴责李登辉试图通过访问结束台湾的外交孤立局面。这场危机一直延续到 1996 年中国在台湾岛内举行选举前，在台湾附近发射导弹。
"China has never committed itself to abandoning the use of force for reunification" with Taiwan, Mr. Qian warned in an hourlong news conference.	"我们从未承诺放弃使用武力，"钱其琛在一个长达一小时的新闻发布会上警告说。
Mr. Qian stepped down as foreign minister in 1998 and retired from his other high posts in 2003. Unlike some retired Chinese diplomats, he did not comment publicly as his country's foreign policy grew more pugnacious in recent years, especially under President Xi Jinping.	钱其琛 1998 年离任外交部长一职，2003 年从其他高级职位上退下。和一些退休的中国外交官不同的是，在中国外交政策近些年，尤其是习近平主席上台后变得更加好斗，他没有公开发表过评论。
Mr. Qian "never berated Western counterparts for effect, as some of his successors did," Professor Shirk, at the University of California, said. Unlike his weaker successors, she added, Mr. Qian also "appeared to have the authority to make concessions, when necessary, to get agreements."	钱其琛"从来没有像他的一些继任者那样，为了做样子而斥责西方同僚"，加州大学圣迭戈分校的谢淑丽说。她接着表示，不同于软弱的继任者，钱其琛"似乎有权在必要时做出让步，以便达成协议"。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170512/qian-qichen-dead-china-foreign-minister	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170512/qian-qichen-dead-china-foreign-minister

Chasing After the Kushners in China	我被赶出了库什纳家族在北京的宣讲会
The tip came in the form of an advertisement posted in the elevator of a Beijing apartment building.	透露这条消息的是张贴在北京一座公寓楼的电梯里的广告。
"New Jersey Central Tower," it said above a rendering of a gleaming housing complex. "Government supports, star family builds."	广告中有一座耀眼的住宅大楼，上方写有“新泽西中央大厦”的字样。还写着“政府支持，明星地产家族建造”。
The "star family" referred to relatives of Jared Kushner, son-in-law of and senior adviser to President Trump. The ad gave the details of a meeting at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Beijing where investors would learn how they could obtain permanent residence in the United States by investing $500,000 in a project called "Kushner1."	“明星家族”指的是特朗普总统的女婿和高级顾问贾里德·库什纳的亲戚。广告上给出了一个在北京丽思卡尔顿酒店举行的会议的详细信息，投资者将在会上了解怎样通过对名为“Kushner1”的项目投资 50 万美元来获得美国的永久居留权。
On Saturday, May 6, I showed up at a ballroom in the Ritz-Carlton, doing my best to blend in with a crowd of Chinese investors.	5 月 6 日的那个周六，我来到了丽思卡尔顿酒店的一个宴会厅，尽可能地与一大群中国投资者打成一片。
After about a half-hour, the keynote speaker took the stage: Nicole Meyer, Mr. Kushner's sister and a leader of Kushner Companies, the family real estate business.	大约半个小时后，主旨演讲嘉宾走上了讲台：尼科尔·迈耶(Nicole Meyer)，她是库什纳的妹妹、家族地产公司库什纳集团(Kushner Companies)的领导。
I listened attentively, jotting down her opening words: "This project means a lot to me and my entire family." But about a minute into her speech, a public relations executive blocked my view.	我非常认真地听着，记下了她的开场白：“这个项目对我和我的整个家族来说意义重大。”但是，就在她开始讲话后大约一分钟的时间里，一位公关高管挡住了我的视线。
"This is a private event," she said. "I have to let you go. We don't want to make a scene."	“这是一个私人活动，”她说。“我不得不请你出去。我们不希望发生争吵。”
I noted that the meeting had been publicly advertised. (A colleague in the Beijing bureau of The Times, Jonathan Ansfield, had spotted the notice inside the compound where he lives.)	我指出，这个会是公开做了广告的。(时报北京分社的同事安思乔[Jonathan Ansfield]在他住的小区里看到了会议通知。)
But it was clear that the handlers were going to block me from hearing the rest of Ms. Meyer's remarks. I left the ballroom, but my colleague	但很明显，组织者不想让我听到迈耶讲话的其余部分。我离开了宴会厅，但我的同事、时报北京分社的记者曹莉设法在会场多留了几分钟。

Cao Li, a journalist in the Beijing bureau of The Times, managed to stay inside for a few more minutes.
Outside the ballroom, a team of about half a dozen public relations executives and security officials grew hostile, threatening to take us into a private room. They followed us throughout the hotel, trying to discourage investors from speaking out.	在宴会厅外，约六名公关高管和安全官员变得越来越蛮横，威胁要把我们带到一个私人房间里去。他们在酒店里自始至终地跟着我们，试图阻止投资者与我们交谈。
As journalists in China, we are accustomed to dealing with harassment. But we don't typically encounter bullying at events where American companies hold court.	作为在中国工作的记者，我们对这种骚扰已习以为常。但我们一般不会在美国公司举办的活动上遇到仗势欺人的事情。
After the meeting, we ran after Ms. Meyer, asking whether she worried her business activities in China might create ethical issues for her brother. She wouldn't answer but tried to calm down her irritated husband, Joseph Meyer, chairman and publisher of Observer Media, who shouted three times, "Please leave us alone!"	会后，我们追着迈耶向她提问，问她是否担心她在中国的商业活动可能会给哥哥制造伦理问题。她没有回答，但她试图让恼怒的丈夫约瑟夫·迈耶 (Joseph Meyer) 保持冷静，迈耶先生是 Observer Media 的董事长和出版人，他曾三次大喊，“请不要打搅我们！”
Later that evening, we broke news that Ms. Meyer had dropped her brother's name and his White House role during her sales pitch at the Ritz-Carlton.	当天晚上，我们报道了迈耶在丽思卡尔顿酒店作推销时提了哥哥的名字及其白宫角色的消息。
In the days that followed, Kushner Companies apologized; U.S. senators called for an end to the investor visa program that the company was using; and the mayor of Jersey City, N.J., where the housing development is expected to be built, said he opposed tax breaks for the company.	在接下来的日子，库什纳集团做了道歉；美国参议员要求停掉该公司正在利用的投资者签证项目；新泽西州泽西市的市长也表示，他反对给该公司减税，这个住宅楼开发项目预计将建在泽西市。
By Friday, Kushner Companies seemed to have grown tired of the controversy. The company announced that Ms. Meyer and other executives would leave China early, withdrawing from the rest of their	截至周五，库什纳集团似乎已对这个争议感到厌倦。公司宣布，迈耶女士及其他高管将提前离开中国，退出投资项目中国路演的剩余部分。

roadshow.
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170513/chasing-after-the-kushners-in-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170513/chasing-after-the-kushners-in-china
China, Addicted to Bootleg Software, Reels From Ransomware Attack	全球性网络攻击暴露中国依赖盗版软件的风险
HONG KONG — China is home to the world’s largest group of internet users, a thriving online technology scene and rampant software piracy that encapsulates its determination to play by its own set of digital rules.	香港——中国是世界上互联网用户最多的国家，网络技术行业兴旺繁荣，软件盗版情况猖獗，这些因素使它决定按自己的数字规则行事。
But as the country scrambles to recover from a global hacking assault that hit its companies, government agencies and universities especially hard, the risks of its dependence on pirated software are becoming clear.	然而，当这个国家急着地从一场全球性的黑客袭击中恢复时（该国企业、政府机关和大学受害尤深），依赖盗版软件产生的风险变得明晰起来。
Researchers believe large numbers of computers running unlicensed versions of Windows probably contributed to the reach of the so-called ransomware attack, according to the Finnish cybersecurity company F-Secure. Because pirated software usually is not registered with the developer, users often miss major security patches that could ward off assaults.	芬兰网络安全公司 F-Secure 的研究人员认为，有大量电脑运行的是盗版的 Windows 软件，或许是它们为所谓的勒索软件入侵打开了方便之门。由于盗版软件通常没有在开发者那里注册，用户往往会错过安装可以抵御袭击的重要安全补丁。
It is not clear whether every company or institution in China affected by the ransomware, which locked users out of their computers and demanded payment to allow them to return, was using pirated software. But universities, local governments and state-run companies probably have networks that depend on unlicensed copies of Windows.	目前并不清楚是否所有遭该勒索软件入侵的中国企业与机构都在使用盗版软件——该软件令用户无法登录电脑，要求他们支付相应费用才能拿回电脑的控制权。但大学、地方政府和国营企业可能有依赖盗版 Windows 的电脑网络。
Microsoft and other Western companies have complained for years about widespread use of pirated software in a number of countries that	多年来，微软(Microsoft)等西方企业一直抱怨许多国家普遍使用盗版软件，这些国家在这次袭击中损失尤其严重。软件供应商同业公会 BSA 去年进行

were hit particularly hard by the attack. A study last year by BSA, a trade association of software vendors, found that 70 percent of software installed on computers in China was not properly licensed in 2015. Russia, at 64 percent, and India, 58 percent, were close behind.	的一项研究发现，2015年中国的计算机上安装的软件有70%没有获得正当授权。在俄罗斯，这个比例为64%，印度紧随其后，为58%。
Zhu Huanjie, who is studying network engineering in Hangzhou, China, blamed a number of ills for the spread of the attack, including the lack of security on school networks. He said piracy was also a factor. Many users, he said, did not update their software to get the latest safety features because of a fear that their copies would be damaged or locked, while universities offered only older, pirated versions.	在中国杭州学习网络工程的朱焕杰将这次袭击的大面积传播归因于许多问题，其中包括学校的网络缺乏安全保障。他表示，盗版也是一个因素。他说很多用户之所以不更新软件以获得最新的安全保障，是因为他们担心自己的盗版软件会遭破坏或无法使用，而大学提供的只有更老的盗版。
"Most of the schools are now all using pirate software, including operation system and professional software," he said. "In China, the Windows that most people are using is still pirated. This is just the way it is."	"目前大多数的学校，全部都是用盗版软件的，包括操作系统和专业软件，"他说。"在中国，大部分人用的Windows都是盗版的，这就是一个现状吧。"
On Monday, some Chinese institutions were still cleaning computer systems jammed by the attack. Prestigious research institutions like Tsinghua University were affected, as were major companies like China Telecom and Hainan Airlines.	周一，中国的一些机构还在清理因这次袭击而瘫痪的系统。清华等知名研究机构受到影响，中国电信和海南航空等大公司也是如此。
China's securities regulator said it had taken down its network to try to protect it, and the country's banking regulator warned lenders to be cautious when dealing with the malicious software.	中国证券监管机构称，为保护自身的网络，已将它关停。中国银行监管机构则警告贷款机构在处理这种恶意软件时要小心谨慎。
Police stations and local security offices reported problems on social media, while university students reported being locked out of final thesis papers. Electronic payment systems at gas stations run by the state oil giant PetroChina were cut off for much of the weekend. Over	警察局和当地的派出所报告了社交媒体上的问题，大学生则表示自己无法登陆电脑准备期末论文。上周末大部分时间，国有石油巨头中石油运营的加油站的电子支付系统中断。据官方电视台报道，总计有大约4万家机构受到影响。另据中国安全公司奇虎360报告，有超过2.9万个机构的电脑被感染。

all, according to the official state television broadcaster, about 40,000 institutions were hit. Separately, the Chinese security company Qihoo 360 reported that computers at more than 29,000 organizations had been infected.
At China Telecom, one of the country's three main state-run telecommunications providers, a similar scramble occurred over the weekend, according to an employee who was not authorized to speak on the matter. When a company-provided software patch did not work, the employee was told to use one from Qihoo 360, which supports pirated and out-of-date versions of Windows, the person said. A spokesman for China Telecom did not immediately respond to a request for comment.	中国三大国营电信运营商之一中国电信上周末也出现了类似的混乱景象，该消息来自一名没有被授权谈判此事的员工。这名员工表示，公司提供的软件补丁不起作用，之后被告知使用奇虎 360 的一个补丁，后者支持盗版和授权过期的 Windows 系统。中国电信的一名发言人没有立即回应时报的置评请求。
Using copied software and other media has become embedded in China's computing culture, said Thomas Parenty, founder of Archefact Group, which advises companies on cybersecurity. Some people are under the impression that using pirated goods in China is legal, while others are simply not used to paying for software, he said.	为企业提供网络安全建议的 Archefact Group 公司创始人托马斯·帕朗蒂 (Thomas Parenty) 表示，使用拷贝软件及其他媒介已经在中国的计算机文化中扎根。他提到，有些人以为在中国使用盗版软件是合法的，有些人则只是不习惯为软件付费。
Mr. Parenty cited an instance when he was working at the Beijing office of an American client. "It turned out every single one of their computers, all the software, was bootlegged," he said.	帕朗蒂举了他在一个美国客户的北京办公室工作时碰到的例子。“结果证明那里每台电脑上的所有软件都是盗版的，”他说。
The twin problems of malware and the unwillingness to pay for software are so ingrained that they have led to an alternative type of security company in China. Qihoo 360 built its business by offering free security programs; it makes money from advertising.	恶意软件和不愿为软件付费的双重问题如此根深蒂固，以致在中国催生了另一种类型的安全企业。奇虎 360 的商业模式是提供免费的安全方案，公司则通过卖广告赚钱。
The issue has led to political battles between Microsoft and the Chinese	这个问题曾引发微软和中国政府之间的政治斗争。 government.

In a bid to get more organizations in China to pay for their software, Microsoft, which is based in Redmond, Wash., has tried education and outreach. It has also stopped distributing Windows on discs, which are easy to copy.	为了让更多的中国机构为自己的软件付费，总部位于华盛顿州雷德蒙德 (Redmond) 的微软公司曾经尝试教育用户，主动提供帮助。它也不再销售光盘形式的 Windows 软件，因为它们容易复制。
One effort in 2014 put it at loggerheads with Beijing.	2014 年的一项努力令它与北京发生了严重冲突。
At that time, Microsoft cut off support for Windows XP, an operating system that was about 14 years old but that was still widely used by the government and by Chinese companies. Many in China complained that the move showed that the country still relied on decisions made by foreign companies. An article by the official news agency Xinhua said that such corporate behavior could be considered anticompetitive. Microsoft later agreed to offer free upgrades and reached a deal with a state-run company that often works for the military to develop a version that catered to China.	当时，微软决定不再支持已经推出 14 年的操作系统 Windows XP，但该版本依然被中国政府和企业广泛使用。许多中国人抱怨，这一举动显示出中国仍然要受制于外国企业的决策。官方通讯社新华社的一篇文章称，这类企业行为可以被看作是反竞争的。后来，微软同意提供免费升级，并与一家常常为军方工作的国有企业达成了协议，开发适合中国的版本。
The Chinese government has been less focused on software piracy — and more on building local alternatives to Microsoft. After leaks by the former intelligence contractor Edward J. Snowden about American hacking attacks aimed at monitoring China’s military buildup, leaders in Beijing accelerated a push to develop Chinese-branded software and hardware that would be harder to breach.	相比于软件盗版，中国政府更关注发展微软的本土替代品。前美国情报机构合同雇员爱德华·J·斯诺登(Edward J. Snowden)泄密事件发生后，中国知道了美国在实施黑客袭击，试图监控中国的军事发展，于是北京的领导层开始加速推动开发更难攻破的中国自有品牌的软件和硬件。
For now, however, much of China relies on Windows. And for all of the impact of the weekend’s cyberattack, Mr. Parenty said he did not think that there would be a big effect on attitudes toward pirated software.	然而，截至目前，中国的大多数电脑依然使用 Windows 系统。在谈到周末那场黑客袭击的影响时，帕朗蒂表示，他觉得这件事不会对人们对盗版软件的态度产生太大影响。
“The only way I see this changing things is if the central government	“我认为令情况改变的唯一办法，就是中央政府判断这种威胁对关键基础设

decides there is a risk to critical infrastructure from this threat and force people to buy legitimate software," he said. "But I don't see that happening right now."	施构成威胁，强制性地让人们购买合法软件，“他说。”“但我不认为这种情况会很快发生。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170516/china-ransomware-wannacry-hacking	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170516/china-ransomware-wannacry-hacking
Xi Jinping Positions China at Center of New Economic Order	习近平的“一带一路”将中国置于新经济秩序中心
BEIJING — President Xi Jinping of China delivered a sweeping vision of a new economic global order on Sunday, positioning his country as an alternative to an inward-looking United States under President Trump.	北京——中国国家主席习近平周日提出了一个宏伟的新国际经济秩序愿景，当特朗普总统领导下的美国将注意力投向国内之时，习近平意在让自己领导的国家成为一个替代选择。
Mr. Xi, surrounded by autocratic leaders from Russia and Central Asia at a forum in Beijing, pledged more than $100 billion for development banks in China that he said would spearhead vast spending on infrastructure across Asia, Europe and Africa. Noticeably absent from the gathering were leaders of major Western democracies.	在北京的一个论坛上，被来自俄罗斯和中亚的独裁领导人环绕的习近平承诺，为中国的开发银行提供逾1000亿美元（约合7000亿元人民币），并表示这些银行将充当大举投资亚洲、欧洲和非洲基础设施的先锋。引人注目的是，主要西方民主国家的领导人缺席了这次会议。
Sparing no modesty for the plan, Mr. Xi called the initiative, known as “One Belt, One Road,” “this project of the century.” The program, based on Chinese-led investment in bridges, rails, ports and energy in over 60 countries, form the backbone of China’s economic and geopolitical agenda.	对于名为“一带一路”的该计划，习近平毫无保留地称其为“世纪工程”。该计划的基础是中国在60个国家里主导的桥梁、铁路、港口和能源投资，构成了中国的经济和地缘政治议程的支柱。
In a new twist for China, which has generally been skeptical of social programs by the World Bank, Mr. Xi said the initiative would tackle poverty in recipient countries. He promised to deliver emergency food aid and said China would begin “100 poverty projects,” though he stopped short of providing details.	习近平称该计划将解决接受国的贫困问题，这对向来不太看好世界银行(World Bank)的社会项目的中国是一个改变。习近平承诺提供紧急粮食援助，并表示中国将启动“100个减贫项目”，但他没有给出细节。
He portrayed the plan as “economic globalization that is open,	习近平称该计划是“开放、包容、普惠、平衡、共赢的经济全球化”。他说，

inclusive, balanced and beneficial to all." China would invite the World Bank and other international institutions to join it in meeting the needs of developing — and developed — countries, he said, in a suggestion that he is seeking to forge new markets and export China's model of state-led expansion.	中国将邀请世界银行和其他国际机构和自己一同满足发展中国家以及发达国家的需求。这表明他正在寻求建立新市场，并输出中国以国家为主导的扩张模式。
Mr. Xi stressed the differences between the United States system of alliances and his notion of commerce under China.	习近平强调了美国的联盟体系和他所说的以中国为主导的商业之间的不同。
"We have no intention to form a small group that would dismantle stability but we hope to create a big family of harmonious coexistence," he said, with the Russian president, Vladimir V. Putin, in the front row of the convention center where he spoke.	"不会形成破坏稳定的小集团，而将建设和谐共存的大家庭，"坐在会场中央第一排的他说。俄罗斯总统弗拉基米尔·V·普京(Vladimir V. Putin)和他坐在同一排。
So far, China has spent only $50 billion on the initiative that Mr. Xi announced four years ago, a relatively small amount compared with the vast domestic investment program.	目前，中国在习近平四年前宣布的这个计划上只投资了 500 亿美元。和巨大的国内投资计划相比，这个金额相对较小。
But Mr. Xi told the audience — made up of more than two dozen national leaders, envoys from more than 100 countries and officials from various financial institutions and businesses — that he was increasing the amounts available to China's main policy banks.	但习近平对与会者——由 20 多位国家领导人、100 多个国家的代表和各金融机构及企业的领导组成——表示，他正在增加中国主要政策银行可使用的资金。
The China Development Bank and the Ex-Im Bank would dispense loans of $55 billion between them, and the Silk Road Fund would receive an additional $14 billion, he said. About $50 billion more would be directed at encouraging financial institutions to expand their overseas renminbi fund businesses.	他说，中国国家开发银行和进出口银行将获得共计 4800 亿元人民币贷款，丝路基金将再获得 1000 亿元人民币，还有大约 3000 亿元人民币将被用于鼓励金融机构扩大人民币海外基金业务。
The Chinese government has been planning the forum for months, introducing an extensive propaganda campaign on the initiative in state	中国政府为这次论坛部署了数月，在官方新闻媒体上开展了一场广泛的宣传活动，并压制持怀疑态度的学者和对这种烧钱行为感到担心的国企高管的不

news media and squelching alternative views from skeptical scholars and state company executives worried about burning money.	同观点。
China, seeking validation for the project, pressed Western countries and American allies to dispatch their leaders, but most declined, sending lower level officials instead.	试图让该计划得到认可的中国向西方国家和美国的盟友施压, 要求对方派领导人出席, 但大部分国家拒绝了, 只派出了级别低一些的官员。
Among the attendees were Britain's chancellor of the Exchequer, Philip Hammond, and Matthew Pottinger, senior director for Asia at the National Security Council in Washington.	与会者包括英国财政大臣菲利普·哈蒙德(Philip Hammond)和华盛顿国家安全委员会(National Security Council)负责亚洲事务的高级主任马修·波廷格(Matthew Pottinger)。
In remarks to the forum, Mr. Pottinger urged China to insist on transparency in government procurement as projects began. "Transparency will ensure that privately-owned companies can bid in a fair process, and that the cost of participating in tenders will be worth the investment," he said.	在论坛上发言时, 波廷格敦促中国在项目开始时, 在政府采购环节坚持透明。"透明将确保私营企业能够在公平的过程中投标, 并且参加投标的成本是值得的," 他说。
American firms were eager to work on the projects, he said.	他说, 美国公司渴望参与相关项目。
Prime Minister Narendra Modi of India did not turn up, concerned about the significant infusion of Chinese money into its rival Pakistan. Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif of Pakistan, for his part, whose country has been a longtime ally of China, said he was proud to stand "shoulder to shoulder" with Beijing.	印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)没有出席。他担心中国的资金大量流入其竞争对手巴基斯坦。巴基斯坦总理纳瓦兹·谢里夫(Nawaz Sharif)则表示对与北京"并肩"而站感到骄傲。长期以来, 巴基斯坦一直是中国的盟友。
The Indian government said in a statement on the eve of the forum that the initiative risked "unsustainable debt burden for countries," a worry expressed by some Western economists who have studied the program. China is not giving aid, they say, but is asking countries to assume debt from Chinese banks to pay for the infrastructure.	在论坛召开的前夕, 印度政府在一份声明中表示, 该计划可能会"给各国带来无法维持的债务负担"。一些研究过该计划的西方经济学家表达过这种担忧。他们说, 中国不是在提供援助, 而是让各国从中国的银行举债为基础设施买单。
Some officials from the United States and Western Europe contend that	美国和西欧的一些官员认为, 中国在海外支出并逼迫其他国家加入自己的同

China is spending abroad and corralling others to join it while keeping important sectors of its huge market at home off limits to foreign investors.	时，其巨大的国内市场的重要领域却依然禁止外国投资者进入。
"The opening up of China for foreign businesses is still timid," said Joerg Wuttke, the former head of the European Chamber of Commerce in China.	"中国对外国企业的开放依然谨小慎微，"前中国欧盟商会(European Union Chamber of Commerce in China)主席约尔格·伍德克(Joerg Wuttke)说。
Hours before Mr. Xi was to speak, North Korea fired an intermediate-range ballistic missile.	在习近平发表讲话的几个小时前，朝鲜发射了一枚中程弹道导弹。
Some delegates interpreted the test launch, the first since a new president took office in South Korea, as a deliberate effort to embarrass Mr. Xi.	一些代表将这次试射看作是故意为了让习近平难堪。这是朝鲜在韩国新总统上台后进行的首次试验。
Chinese news media were ordered to take down coverage of the launch an hour before Mr. Xi's speech, Chinese reporters said. Then, 30 minutes before Mr. Xi was to to speak, the delegations from North Korea and South Korea met briefly, said a South Korean diplomat who spoke only on the condition of anonymity.	中国的记者表示，在习近平发表演讲的一小时前，中国新闻媒体被下令撤下有关导弹发射的报道。然后，一名要求匿名的韩国外交官表示，在习近平发言的30分钟前，朝鲜和韩国代表团进行了短暂的会面。
It was fairly normal procedure, the diplomat said, for those delegations to meet at international gatherings. Still, the encounter seemed to symbolize China's interest in arranging talks on the North among all the parties, including the United States.	这名外交官说，两国代表团在国际会议上见面是相当正常的程序。但这次碰面似乎象征着中国有意在包括美国在内的各方当中安排有关朝鲜问题的会谈。
The South's Yonhap news agency reported that Park Byeong-seok, a senior member of the Democratic Party of Korea, told the North's delegation that his government "strongly objected" to the missile test.	韩国联合通讯社(Yonhap)报道称，韩国民主党(Democratic Party of Korea)资深人物朴秉石(Park Byeong-seok, 音)对朝鲜代表团表示，韩国政府"强烈反对"此次导弹试验。
The presence of the North Korean delegation, led by Kim Yong-jae, the minister of economic relations, at a highly choreographed event drew	朝鲜负责经济关系的部长金英宰(Kim Yong-jae, 音)率团出现在一场精心安排的活动中，此事遭到了美国驻京大使馆的指责。 criticism from the United States Embassy in Beijing.

The Trump administration has asked China to exercise pressure on the North but it is unclear what China has done to further cut its economic ties.	特朗普政府要求中国对朝鲜施加压力,但尚不清楚中国为进一步切断经济往来采取了什么措施。
At Mr. Xi's invitation, President Moon Jae-in of South Korea sent Mr. Park to the forum, a spokesman for the South Korean leader said.	韩国总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)的发言人说,总统应习近平的邀请,派朴秉石出席论坛会议。
The two leaders shared a phone conversation on Thursday, days after Mr. Moon was elected, setting the stage for tense relations between the countries to improve.	两位领导人在文在寅当选几天后的周四通了电话,为改善两国之间的紧张关系奠定了基础。
Mr. Park is expected to meet a former foreign minister of China, Tang Jiaxuan, in Beijing on Monday, South Korea said.	韩国方面称,朴秉石预计会于周一在北京同中国前外交部长唐家璇举行会谈。
Those talks would probably center on China's strong opposition to the deployment of an American missile defense system, known as Thaad, in the South, and how Mr. Moon plans to walk a fine line between the United States, its security guarantor, and China, its biggest trading partner.	这些会谈可能会集中在中国强烈反对在韩国部署被称作萨德(Thaad)的美国导弹防御系统,以及文在寅计划如何在保障韩国安全的美国和他最大的贸易伙伴中国之间谨慎行事。
The Chinese Foreign Ministry criticized the North's missile launch, saying in a statement that it violated United Nations Security Council resolutions and asking for restraint.	中国外交部指责朝鲜发射导弹的做法,在一份声明中称其违反了联合国安理会(United Nations Security Council)的决议,要求朝鲜保持克制。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170516/xi-jinping-one-belt-one-road-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170516/xi-jinping-one-belt-one-road-china
China Is Reluctant to Blame North Korea, Its Ally, for Cyberattack	网络袭击考验中朝关系:中国能容忍到什么程度?
HONG KONG — North Korea tests nuclear weapons less than 100 miles from China's border. It launched a missile hours before a major speech by President Xi Jinping of China on Sunday, a move Chinese analysts	香港——朝鲜在距离中国边境不到100英里(160公里)的地方进行了核试验。在中国国家主席习近平周日发表一个重要讲话几小时前,朝鲜发射了一枚导弹,中国的分析人士称之为外交打脸。朝鲜印制的中国和美国假币每年 called a diplomatic slap in the face. Its counterfeiting of Chinese and American currency costs China millions of dollars a year.	令中国损失不小。

North Korea's history of erratic behavior has embarrassed China in many ways. But through it all, China has remained stoic about its neighbor and ally.	朝鲜一直在以各种出其不意的行为让中国难堪。但中国自始至终对它的这位邻居和盟友保持着忍耐。
As evidence mounts that North Korea may have links to a ransomware attack that destroyed more than 200,000 computers globally – and hit 40,000 institutions in China – China's response has been muted. Which raises the question: How far can North Korea go without getting disciplined by its more powerful neighbor?	当越来越多的证据显示朝鲜或许与一场在全球破坏 20 多万台电脑、令中国 4 万家机构遭到攻击的勒索软件袭击有关联时，中国的反应是沉默。这引发了这样一个疑问：这个更强大的邻居可以容忍朝鲜到什么程度？
China has been one of the biggest victims of the attack, which crippled computers at universities, major businesses and local governments, adding a potentially dangerous new element to a relationship that has increasingly tested Chinese leaders.	中国是这次袭击最大的受害者之一，袭击导致中国许多大学、大型企业和地方政府的电脑瘫痪，由此给一段愈发考验中国领导层的关系增加了一种新的有潜在危险的因素。
"North Korea has been a constant threat in terms of missiles and nuclear weapons," said Cheng Xiaohe, an associate professor of international relations at Renmin University. "All of a sudden, it poses a cyber threat."	"在导弹与核武器方面，朝鲜一直是个威胁，"中国人民大学国际关系学院副教授成晓河说。"突然之间，它又成了一个网络安全威胁。"
He added: "This time if it's from North Korea, the malware was targeted indiscriminately against all computers. That's a big change. It harms and threatens China."	他还讲道："如果这次袭击的确是朝鲜所为，恶意软件袭击的矛头是不加区分地指向了所有电脑。那就是个很大的改变。它对中国构成了伤害与威胁。"
Amid these tensions, Beijing is not eager to call attention to its deteriorating relations with its longtime ally. North Korea's missile launch took place hours before Mr. Xi addressed an international gathering in Beijing to promote China's "One Belt, One Road" project –	在这样的紧张局势下，北京不太想让外界关注它与自己的长期盟友日益恶化的关系。朝鲜的导弹试验发生数小时后，习近平在北京举行的一场国际会议上为推动中国的"一带一路"项目发表讲话，那是一个庞大的基础设施项目，预期会在亚洲、欧洲和非洲建造多个工程。

an enormous infrastructure undertaking that is expected to build projects in Asia, Europe and Africa.
Even though the timing of the launch suggested it was a deliberate ploy to embarrass Mr. Xi at an inopportune time, it was not reported in the Chinese state media.	尽管导弹发射的时间表明朝鲜是有意在一个不合适的时间让习近平难堪，但中国的官方媒体却没有这样报道。
Regarding the ransomware attack, China analysts say Beijing will hesitate before directly casting blame on North Korea even if evidence, still inconclusive, directly ties the North to the attack. Beijing is more likely to single out other actors, particularly the United States, experts say.	至于那场勒索软件袭击，中国的分析人士表示，即便有证据将朝鲜与那场袭击直接联系起来（目前还无定论），北京也会在直接责备朝鲜一事上有所犹豫。专家们称，北京更有可能单独拿别的因素说事，尤其是美国。
The attack took advantage of vulnerabilities in Microsoft Windows software through a tool stolen from the United States' National Security Agency. That plays into broader Chinese concerns about its overreliance on American software.	这次袭击利用了微软 Windows 软件的漏洞，借助从美国国家安全局 (National Security Agency) 窃取的一个工具来实现的。这符合中国对自身过于依赖美国软件的更大的担忧。
China's influence over North Korea's hacking efforts has been significant. By some accounts, the idea to experiment with cyberattacks came to North Korea from China.	中国对朝鲜黑客行动的影响很大。据称，尝试网络袭击的想法就是从中国传到朝鲜。
Initially, the North Korean government viewed the internet as a threat. But in the early 1990s, a group of computer experts returned from China with the idea of using the web to take secrets and attack government enemies, according to one defector.	最初，朝鲜政府将互联网看作一种威胁。但据一名脱北者讲述，在上世纪 90 年代初，一群计算机专家带着利用网络窃取秘密或攻击敌对政府的想法从中国返回了朝鲜。
Since then, North Korean hackers have attended schools in China and used it as a staging ground for attacks. As North Korea devoted more resources to those efforts — eventually selecting child math prodigies for training and assembling an army of more than 6,000 — it	自那之后，朝鲜黑客开始到中国求学，将那里当作发动袭击的阵地。随着朝鲜将更多资源投入这项努力——选拔数学神童进行训练，最终集结了一支 6000 多人的军队——它在中国为自己隐秘的黑客部门建立了一个大型前哨基地。 established a large outpost for its secretive hacking unit in China.

Security analysts say North Korean hackers operate out of hotels, restaurants and internet cafes in northeastern Chinese cities like Shenyang and Dandong, which are outposts for trade with North Korea. Though many still operate in China, North Korean hackers have increasingly moved further afield, to countries in Southeast Asia, where government surveillance and control is less strict.	安全分析师表示，朝鲜黑客在沈阳、丹东等中国东北城市的酒店、餐馆和网吧里实施袭击，这些地方是中国与朝鲜开展贸易的前哨。尽管有许多人还在中国行动，但朝鲜黑客已经越来越多地向更远的地方转移，转向政府监控和控制相对不那么严密的东南亚国家。
The moves are also intended to protect cyberattack options in the event of a war on the Korean Peninsula. Security analysts say some attacks are also carried out from North Korea, but are limited by the fact that the country has only one main portal to the internet, through China's state telecom operator China Unicom.	此举也是为了让朝鲜在半岛发生战争的情况下依然能实施网络袭击。安全分析师表示，也有一些袭击是从朝鲜发出，但这些行动受到客观条件限制，因为朝鲜只有一条主要的互联网通道，而且是通过中国的国有电信运营商中国联通来实现的。
Despite evidence suggesting a North Korean role in the ransomware attack, the most common reaction among experts and on Chinese social media was to blame the United States.	尽管有证据显示朝鲜与这场勒索软件存在关联，但专家和中国社交媒体上最普遍的反应却是指责美国。
"Many criticized the U.S. government, saying that it was responsible for this spread of ransomware. Obviously this accusation is reasonable," the editor in chief of state-run Global Times wrote in a prominent commentary on Monday.	"很多人批评美国政府，认为它对勒索病毒的扩散负有责任。这种指控显然有道理，"官方报纸《环球时报》的总编周一在一篇醒目的评论文章中写道。
"Attacks always happen," said Chen Zhong, a professor in computer science at Peking University. "What catches our eyes this time is that the attack used a tool that leaked from the N.S.A.," he said.	"袭击总是发生，"北京大学计算机科学教授陈钟说。"这一次惹人注意的是，袭击使用了一个从美国泄露的工具，"他说。
On the social media site Weibo, users almost uniformly blamed the United States for the attack.	在社交网站微博上，用户们几乎一致将这次袭击归罪于美国。
"Hell, if North Korea could do this they would have showed it off long	"要是朝鲜有这本事，早就卖弄出来了，"其中一名用户写道。"要是朝鲜能做

ago," said one user. "North Korea would have become a major power if they can pull this off," said another.	到这点，它就成大国了，"另一名用户写道。
But Mr. Cheng of Renmin University said that if events more definitively linked the attack to North Korea, it was likely to pose a new test to China's increasingly rocky relationship with Pyongyang.	不过，人民大学的成晓河说，如果证据更加明晰地将这次攻击与朝鲜联系起来，那可能会对中国与平壤日益波折的关系构成新的考验。
"Since North Korea started its nuclear program in 2006, China-North Korea relations have gradually deteriorated, and are currently at an abnormal level. If we add another virus, the image of North Korea in the eyes of China will be even worse."	"自2006年朝鲜开始实施核计划以来，中朝关系逐步恶化，目前处于异常水平。如果再加上另外一种病毒，在中国眼中，朝鲜的形象会更差。"
China's news organizations, both state-run and private, reported on the hacking attacks, as well as the possible links to North Korea, hours after it occurred, but they did so in a controlled fashion that was confined to inside pages of newspapers, and played in modest ways on websites.	黑客攻击发生几个小时后，中国官方和民营的新闻机构都报道了该事件以及可能与朝鲜之间的联系，但是显得很有节制，只在报纸的内页刊登报道，或者以不太起眼的方式放在网站上。
Still, several news portals wrote that cybersecurity firms like Kaspersky Lab had found initial evidence that pointed to North Korea. The news portal Sina pointed to previous attacks – in Bangladesh, against Sony and the South Korean subway – that may have originated from the North.	不过，也有几个新闻门户网站报道说，卡斯基实验室(Kaspersky Lab)等网络安全公司发现的初步证据指向了朝鲜。新浪门户网站指出，孟加拉国、索尼公司和韩国地铁之前遭受的一些攻击可能就来自于朝鲜。
Should the evidence against North Korea mount, it would add to other indignities China has suffered at the hands of its neighbor.	如果指向朝鲜的证据变得明晰，这就意味着中国从这个邻国遭受了新的侮辱。
Over the years, North Korea has flooded northeastern China with counterfeit $100 bills of American currency. It has also mass manufactured counterfeit Chinese renminbi, but China says little about the problem.	多年来，朝鲜伪造的100元美钞在中国东北部地区泛滥。而且它还大量制造人民币伪钞，但中国对此闭口不言。
This year, South Korea accused the North of assassinating the half	今年，韩国指责朝鲜在马来西亚首都吉隆坡的国际机场暗杀了朝鲜领导人金

brother of the North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un, at the international airport in Kuala Lumpur, the capital of Malaysia. The relative, Kim Jong-nam, was considered a friend of China and he had lived in the Chinese-controlled territory of Macau, where he was protected by state security.	正恩同父异母的哥哥金正男(Kim Jong-nam)。他被认为是中国的朋友，住在中国控制的澳门境内，受到国家安全机关的保护。
Chinese state-run media reported on the killing but refrained from associating Mr. Kim, the half brother, with China.	中国官方媒体报道了这起谋杀案，但并没有将金正男和中国联系到一起。
In 2013, an uncle of Kim Jong-un, who was the main financial conduit between China and the North, was executed by a firing squad that used anti-aircraft guns, according to South Korea's National Intelligence Service.	根据韩国国家情报院的说法，在2013年，金正恩的姑父张成泽被行刑队用高射炮处决，他是中国与朝鲜之间主要的金融沟通渠道。
South Korean intelligence said the killing of the uncle, Jang Song-thaek, was ordered by Mr. Kim as he was consolidating power over North Korea. His death meant that China lost its most important interlocutor with the North, and was an early signal from Mr. Kim that under his rule relations between China and North Korea would not be business as usual. But China withstood the insult without public recrimination.	韩国情报人士表示，张成泽被处决是金正恩下的命令，金正恩当时正在巩固自己在朝鲜的权威。张成泽之死意味着中国失去了与朝鲜最重要的对话者，这是金正恩发出的一个早期信号，表明在他的统治下，中朝关系会不同于以往。但中国忍受了这种侮辱，没有进行公开谴责。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170518/china-north-korea-ransomwar e	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170518/china-north-korea-ransomwar e
With Chinese Tourism Down, Taiwan Looks to Lure Visitors From Southeast Asia	中国大陆游客锐减，台湾将目光投向东南亚
TAIPEI, Taiwan — Nowhere is the boom in tourism from China over the past decade more palpable than among neighbors of the country, Asia's largest economy. But perceived economic benefits can be used as a political weapon when Beijing wants to send a message.	台湾台北——与亚洲最大经济体比邻的国家和地区，对中国旅游业过去十年的激增的感受，比任何地方都明显。但是，这种能觉察到的经济效益，在北京想传达某个信息时，也可成为一种政治武器。

Many Chinese tourists are boycotting South Korea in response to its deployment of an antimissile defense system that China considers a threat to its security. In March, Chinese tourist arrivals in South Korea were 40 percent lower than a year earlier, dragging down total arrivals by 11 percent in the period. Hong Kong had a similar experience after pro-democracy demonstrations in 2014.	作为对韩国部署一个反导弹系统的响应，许多中国游客在抵制韩国，中国认为该反导系统对其安全构成威胁。今年3月份入境韩国的中国游客数量，与去年同期相比下降了40%左右，导致该月入境韩国的旅客总人数下降了11%。香港在2014年发生了亲民主示威活动之后，也有过类似的经历。
"Beijing has used Chinese tour groups as both carrots and sticks," said Ian Rowen, an assistant professor of geography at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore, who is writing a book on Chinese tourism.	"北京既把中国旅游团当作胡萝卜、也把其当作大棒使用，"新加坡南洋理工大学地理系的助理教授伊恩·罗文(Ian Rowen)说。他正在写了一本关于中国旅游业的书。
Now, the stick is being deployed against Taiwan, he said, to pressure President Tsai Ing-wen, who took office a year ago, to publicly endorse a view of China and Taiwan as part of "one China." Her Democratic Progressive Party has historically favored independence for Taiwan. Since her inauguration, Chinese visits to Taiwan have fallen significantly.	他说，现在这个大棒正被用来对付台湾，以对一年前上任的蔡英文总统施压，迫使她公开认可“一个中国”的观念，即台湾是中国的一部分。她所在的民进党传统上支持台湾独立。自从蔡英文就职以来，中国大陆到台湾访问的人数已大幅下降。
Ms. Tsai has held her ground, however, and demonstrated that a declining number of Chinese tourists can be offset, to some extent, by visitor increases from other Asian markets.	但蔡英文仍不让步，并已证明，中国游客数量的下降，可以在一定程度上被来自其他亚洲市场游客数量的增加所抵消。
Last year, international arrivals in Taiwan reached a record high of nearly 10.7 million, up from 10.4 million in 2015, according to the Tourism Bureau. That happened even as arrivals from China dropped more than 600,000, to 3.5 million, after Beijing urged tour group operators to reduce travel to Taiwan. Many of the new visitors were from Southeast Asia, whose numbers rose 16 percent.	据观光局的统计，去年入境台湾的国际游客人数达到了1070万人，创下历史新高，尽管来自中国大陆的游客人数下降了60万，减少到350万人。新增的访客中有很多来自东南亚，来自这些地区游客的游客人数上升了16%。

Figures from the first three months of this year show, however, that while Southeast Asian arrivals exceeded 478,000, up 36 percent from the same period in 2016, the number of Chinese visitors continued to drop, by 42 percent, to just under 660,000. This pulled down total arrivals by 10 percent in the first quarter, putting pressure on Taiwan to attract more visitors from other Asian countries.	今年头三个月的数字显示，虽然来自东南亚的入境人数已超过 47.8 万人，比 2016 年同期增长 36%，但来自中国大陆的游客持续下降，入境人数在 66 万人以下，比去年同期减少了 42%。这使第一季度的总入境人数下降了 10%，让台湾感受到需要吸引更多亚洲其他国家游客的压力。
The search for alternative sources of tourism revenue is part of Ms. Tsai's New Southbound Policy, a plan to shift Taiwan's economy away from its dependence on China, and to strengthen ties with 18 countries in South Asia, Southeast Asia and the Pacific. Her predecessor, Ma Ying-jeou, had pursued closer economic relations with China, including the expansion of business and leisure travel in Taiwan.	寻求其他来源的旅游收入是蔡英文“新南向政策”的一部分，这是一个旨在让台湾在经济上摆脱对中国的依赖、加强台湾与南东南亚及太平洋地区 18 个国家的联系的计划。蔡英文的前任马英九采用了与中国建立密切经贸关系的做法，包括扩大大陆与台湾之间的商务与休闲旅行。
The tourism component of the policy has focused on making it easier for Southeast Asians to come to Taiwan; visa requirements have been relaxed, new air routes have opened, and announcements at some train stations are made in Indonesian, Thai and Vietnamese. The number of Southeast Asian visitors is expected to rise further when Taiwan extends visa-free entry to the Philippines, most likely this year, as it did for Thailand last August.	新南向政策旅游部分的焦点是让东南亚人更容易来台湾；已经放宽了对他们的签证要求，开通了新航线，部分火车站的广播也开始使用印尼语、泰语和越南语。台湾很可能在今年让菲律宾人免签入境，就像去年 8 月开始让泰国人免签入境那样，预计这将让来自东南亚的游客数量进一步上升。
Taiwan's tourism industry is maturing at a time when a new generation of cash-rich travelers is emerging in Southeast Asia, said Tsai Hung-Jeng, director of National Sun Yat-sen University's Center for Southeast Asian Studies.	国立中山大学东南亚研究中心的蔡宏政主任说，正当东南亚涌现出新一代的现金充裕的旅客的时候，台湾的旅游业也在走向成熟。
"The economies of Southeast Asian countries are growing very quickly, and their middle classes are expanding rapidly," Mr. Tsai said.	“东南亚国家的经济正在迅速发展，那里的中产阶级也正在迅速扩大，”蔡宏政说。

That is reason enough to pursue new markets, he said, but avoiding an overreliance on China is also important, he said, citing the experiences of South Korea and Hong Kong.	他说，这本身就是寻找新市场的理由，但他说，避免对中国大陆的过度依赖也很重要，他把韩国和香港的经验引以为例。
Peter Lin, sales director of Topology Travel, an agency in Taipei, said that under the policy, inquiries from the Philippines, Thailand and Vietnam had more than doubled.	台北真程旅行社(Topology Travel)的销售总监林文攀(Peter Lin)说，新政策出台之后，来自菲律宾、泰国和越南的询问次数翻了一番。
Until last year, the agency's Southeast Asian customers mostly lived and worked in major Chinese cities. But now, clients are coming directly from Vietnam and Thailand, he said, spending as much as $400 per person a day, excluding accommodations.	直到去年，真程旅行社的东南亚客户大多数是在中国大陆主要城市旅居和工作的人。而如今，客户直接来自越南和泰国，他说，每天人均消费高达400美元，不包括住宿。
"They're really, really high end," he said.	"他们真的非常、非常高端，"他说。
In addition to typical tourist destinations like Taipei 101 – one of the world's tallest buildings – night markets and the National Palace Museum, Mr. Lin said, many of his Southeast Asian clients are eager to experience the cooler climates and snow of Taiwan's two largest mountain ranges.	林文攀说，除了像世界最高建筑物之一台北101、夜市，以及国立故宫博物院等典型旅游景点外，旅行社的许多来自东南亚的客户也渴望体验台湾两大山区比较凉爽的气候和山上的雪。
Providing a high level of service can be a challenge, primarily because of linguistic considerations, he said. Most clients based in mainland China speak Mandarin and English, his company's core languages. This results in the need to seek local partners in Indonesia, Thailand or Vietnam, whereas the high level of English proficiency in the Philippines makes that market more accessible.	他说，提供高水平的服务也许是个挑战，主要是因为语言问题。大多数来自中国大陆的游客都会说普通话或英语，那是他的公司的主要语言。这就需要公司在印度尼西亚、泰国或越南寻找当地的合作伙伴，而英语水平很高的菲律宾让在那里获得游客更加容易。
Government overtures under the New Southbound Policy are complementing efforts by companies in Taiwan to draw Southeast Asian visitors. Cheng Ying-huei, deputy director of the Tourism	政府在新南向政策下作出的友好姿态，是对台湾企业吸引东南亚游客的努力的补充。观光局国际组代组长郑慧慧说，政府正在通过现场活动和数字营销来宣传台湾，并在为旅游团代理商提供补贴。她说，观光局今年计划在曼谷

Bureau's International Affairs Division, said the government had been promoting Taiwan through on-the-ground and digital marketing, and had offered subsidies to tour group agents. The bureau also plans to open an office in Bangkok this year, she said.	开设办事处。
One possible benefit of shifting toward more Southeast Asian tourists and putting less of a focus on Chinese tour groups is that more money could stay in Taiwan, Mr. Rowen, the tourism researcher, suggested.	研究旅游的罗文表示，向更多的东南亚游客转移，而不过于依赖中国大陆旅游团体的做法，还有一个可能的好处，那就是，更多的钱会留在台湾。
Mr. Rowen, who traveled to Taiwan from China in an organized group as part of his research, said that such tours are highly structured, with "mandatory prearranged shopping stops and rushed site visits."	作为其研究项目的一部分，罗文曾参加一个大陆赴台旅游团从大陆去台湾，他说，这些旅游团的行程非常受限制，往往包括“强制性的、事先安排好购物站点和仓促的景点参观”。
"Tourists have little choice but to comply with their local tour operator's selection of hotels and restaurants," he added.	“除了使用当地旅游经营者为他们挑选的酒店和餐厅外，游客别无选择，”罗文补充说。
How much of the spending by Chinese groups remains with Chinese companies remains unclear, but suspicions run deep in Taiwan that its businesses may not be the main beneficiaries.	尚不清楚大陆旅游团的花销中，有多少留在了中国公司的家中，但台湾人高度怀疑台湾的公司是大陆旅游业的主要受益者。
"The vast majority of industry insiders I've interviewed — even those who have championed tourism from China — are certain that hotels, transport companies and shopping destinations have been penetrated, if not dominated outright, by Chinese capital," Mr. Rowen said. "But given opaque ownership structures and local partners, it's difficult to demonstrate the veracity of such claims."	“我访谈过的绝大多数行业内部人士——包括那些为争取来自大陆的游客而努力的人在内——都确信，酒店、运输公司和购物中心都已经被大陆的资本渗透，如果不是直接被大陆资本主导的话，”罗文说。“但由于不透明的所有权结构和大陆在当地的合作伙伴，很难证明这种说法的真实性。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170518/taiwan-china-tourism	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170518/taiwan-china-tourism
China's Dog Meat Festival May Have to Cancel the Dog, Activists Say	动物权益倡导者称玉林将短期禁售狗肉
BEIJING — Animal rights advocates are reporting a victory in their fight against an annual dog meat festival in China, saying that officials in the	北京——据动物权益倡导者报告，他们反对中国一年一度的狗肉节的努力取得了胜利，他们说，南部城市玉林的官员同意在今年活动的前一周里禁止销

southern city of Yulin had agreed to ban the sale of dog meat in the week before the event.	售狗肉。
No city officials reached on Thursday were able to confirm the ban, and dog restaurants contacted by the BBC said they had not heard anything about it.	记者周四联系到的所有城市官员都未能确认该禁令，而英国广播公司联系到的一家狗肉餐厅则说，他们没听说过禁令。
The Humane Society International and the Duo Duo Project, an animal advocacy group based in California, announced news of the ban on Thursday, citing reports from Chinese animal rights advocates and dog meat traders in Yulin. According to the reports, anyone caught selling dog meat in the week leading up to the Yulin Lychee and Dog Meat Festival, which starts on June 21, will face fines of up to 100,000 renminbi, or about $14,500, and possibly time in prison.	国际人道协会和总部设在美国加利福尼亚州的动物保护组织“多多计划”(Duo Duo Project)周四宣布了禁令的消息，称消息来自中国动物权益倡导者和玉林的狗肉贸易商。据这些人的说法，所有在“玉林夏至荔枝狗肉节”6月21日开始前的一周内销售狗肉的人，将面临高达10万元人民币的罚款，还可能被判监禁。
While there have been previous attempts to curtail sales of dog meat, this is believed to be the first time that the government had threatened concrete penalties.	虽然以前有过减少销售狗肉的尝试，但禁令被认为是政府首次威胁使用具体的处罚措施。
“I’m optimistic,” Peter J. Li, a China policy adviser to Humane Society International, said in a telephone interview. “Of course we understand that no law can completely deter the sale of dog meat in Yulin. But this ban suggests that the government is becoming more serious about taking action in a determined way.”	“我对此表示乐观，”国际人道协会的中国政策顾问李坚强(Peter J. Li)在接受电话采访时说。“当然，我们知道，光靠法律不能彻底制止玉林的狗肉销售。但这个禁令表明，政府正在认真对待这个问题，并有决心采取行动。”
Animal rights supporters were calling it a “milestone victory” in the campaign to end the consumption of dogs in China.	动物权益保护者称，禁令是制止在中国消费狗肉努力的“里程碑式的胜利”。
Activists said notice of the temporary prohibition was conveyed orally to local restaurant owners and vendors. In the past, officials have mostly skirted the issue, insisting that the festival is a local tradition	活动人士说，这个临时禁令是以口头的形式传达给当地的餐厅业主和供应商的。过去，官员们大都回避这个问题，坚持认为狗肉节是标志夏至到来的地方传统，并不意味着政府对吃狗肉的认可。周四，在包括食品安全局在内的

signaling the summer solstice and not organized or endorsed by the government. Reached by telephone on Thursday, employees at four government departments in Yulin, including the food safety bureau, said that they had not heard of a ban.	四个玉林政府部门接听电话的员工都表示，他们没听说有这个禁令。
"I don't think they will publicly acknowledge it," said Andrea Gung, the founder of the Duo Duo Project, referring to the government officials. "But my source spoke with every single one of the dog meat vendors at Dongkou" – Yulin's main market for the meat – "and they all said the same thing: a seven-day ban on dog meat sales starting on June 15."	"我觉得他们不会公开承认禁令，"多多计划的创始人巩增恒(Andrea Gung)说，他指的是政府官员。"但我的消息源问了东口（玉林的主要肉类市场）的每个狗肉贩子，他们的说法都一样：禁止销售狗肉的七天禁令于6月15日生效。"
It remains to be seen to what extent a ban will be enforced. The ban lasts only a week. While this covers the days before the festival and its opening, when a majority of the dogs are typically killed and consumed, activists expect that most, if not all, of the dog meat vendors will resume selling once the ban is lifted. In addition, it is unclear whether the prohibition extends to cats, which are also consumed during the festival, though their meat is less popular.	禁令能在多大程度上执行还有待观察。而且禁令只持续一个星期。虽然涵盖了节日开始前的几天，即大多数狗通常被杀死和消费的时候，但活动人士预计，大多数狗肉贩将在禁令结束后重新销售狗肉。此外，还不清楚这条禁令是否涵盖猫肉，狗肉节期间也有猫肉出售，尽管吃猫肉的人较少。
Nevertheless, the embargo is still being celebrated as a positive step for animal welfare in China.	无论如何，这条禁令仍被认为是中国动物福利进程中的积极一步。
"Even though these dog meat traders will probably return to business as usual, the ban still sends a clear signal: From now on, your livelihood and your business will only become much more difficult," Mr. Li said.	李坚强说："即使这些狗肉销售商可能会重新恢复经营，禁令仍然发出了明确的信号：从现在开始，你们的生计和生意只会变得更加困难。"
The ban is the latest development in what has become a highly charged standoff between animal welfare advocates and residents and dog meat vendors in Yulin.	这条禁令是动物福利倡导者和玉林的居民以及狗肉贩之间火药味十足的对峙的最新动向。
Animal lovers have grown increasingly vocal in their calls to shut down	动物爱好者越来越高调地呼吁取消这个节日，活动人士表示，这个节日是

the festival, which activists say was only started in 2010 by dog meat vendors to increase sales. More than 10,000 dogs — many of which are believed to be stolen pets — are said to be consumed at the celebrations every year.	2010年由狗肉贩子搞起来的，目的是为了增加狗肉销量。有1万多只狗每年在这个庆祝活动中被消费——其中很多据信是偷来的宠物狗。
As international scrutiny has intensified, residents and dog meat vendors have become increasingly defensive. Activists say only about 30 percent of people in Yulin eat dog meat regularly, but many residents say they feel they have been unfairly targeted. Eating dog meat and lychees during the summer solstice, they argue, is a longstanding local custom, and no different from eating cows or pigs.	随着国际监督力度的加大，居民和狗肉贩子的防御心态也在增强。活动人士说，只有约30%的玉林人经常吃狗肉，但很多居民表示，他们觉得自己成为靶子很不公平。他们声称，在夏至吃狗肉和荔枝是当地的一种长期习俗，与吃牛肉或吃猪肉没有区别。
But in recent years, what began as a mostly international movement, led by celebrities like Ricky Gervais and Gisele Bündchen, has gained more support in China, where the issue of animal rights is given more space for debate relative to other grass-roots topics.	但近年来，瑞奇·格列维(Ricky Gervais)和吉赛尔·邦辰(Gisele Bündchen)等名人领导的一个初期主要在国际上进行的运动在中国获得了更多的支持，相对于中国的其他草根议题而言，动物权利问题获得了比较多的讨论空间。
As pet ownership rates have risen, local animal rights advocates have become more active, regularly intercepting trucks filled with trafficked dogs and organizing social media campaigns to raise awareness about issues like dog meat consumption, a practice that is found mostly in the northeast and in the southern regions of Guangxi and Guangdong.	随着家庭饲养宠物数量的上升，中国的动物权益倡导者也变得越来越活跃，他们经常拦截装满被贩卖犬只的卡车，还在社交媒体上举办宣传活动，提高人们对狗肉消费的认识。吃狗肉主要是中国东北部和两广南部的习俗。
Now, calls to end the festival have become so widespread that it has become the focal point of a broader campaign to end dog meat consumption in China and the often-brutal practices associated with its largely unregulated trade.	现在，要求取消狗肉节的呼吁广为传播，成为更广泛的结束中国狗肉消费行为的一个焦点，中国的狗肉贸易基本上不受管制，狗肉消费常常非常残酷。
“A big credit goes to the Chinese activists,” Ms. Gung said. “Usually most of the foreign activists take off after the festival ends, but these local	“中国活动人士做了很大贡献。”巩增恒说，“通常，大多数外国活动人士在狗肉节结束后就坐飞机离开了，但是这些当地的活动人士坚持不懈，他们仍然

activists, they stick around, and they still talk about it, they care about it.”	在讨论它，关心这件事。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170519/china-dog-meat-yulin-festival	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170519/china-dog-meat-yulin-festival
When Chinese Rights Activists Were Jailed, Their Wives Fought Back	“离开梳妆台打流氓”：中国人权律师妻子们的抗争
BEIJING — Before her husband disappeared into detention, Chen Guiqiu did not ask him much about his risky work as a Chinese human rights lawyer. Before word crept out that he had been tortured, Ms. Chen trusted the police. Before she was told she could not leave China, she never expected she would make a perilous escape abroad.	北京——在丈夫遭拘押而失去音讯前，陈桂秋几乎不曾过问他所从事的中国人权律师这份危险的工作。在有关他遭受酷刑的消息传出之前，陈桂秋一直相信警察。在被告知她不能离开中国之前，她也从没想过自己会走上危机四伏的海外逃亡之路。
Ms. Chen and her two daughters reached the United States in March after an overland journey to Thailand that almost ended in their deportation back to China. Her husband, Xie Yang, was tried and convicted this month of subversion and disrupting a court. But Ms. Chen said her escape was the culmination of a personal transformation that began after he was detained almost two years ago.	今年3月，陈桂秋和两个女儿抵达美国，之前她先是经由陆路前往泰国，在那里差点遭遣返。她的丈夫谢阳本月在一所法院接受审判，被判颠覆国家政权和扰乱法庭秩序。但陈桂秋表示，她的逃亡是一场人生变故的顶峰，这个过程始于丈夫约两年前被捕之时。
“It was because of all the pressure from all sides — from state security police, my employer — and slowly I lost commitment and hope,” Ms. Chen said in a telephone interview from her temporary home in Texas. “I was always being followed. I felt I was living without freedom.”	“是因为来自各方面的压力——来自国安安全人员、我的雇主——让我渐渐失去了信心和希望，”陈桂秋在她位于得克萨斯州的临时住所接受电话采访时说。“我一直被人跟踪，感觉生活没有自由。”
Ms. Chen’s evolution was part of a startling outcome of China’s crackdown on outspoken rights lawyers and advocates that began in July 2015 — the spouses who resisted. She and other wives of rights advocates held in China described their experiences to a congressional subcommittee in Washington on Thursday.	从某种程度上讲，陈桂秋的转变是中国自2015年7月以来，对直言不讳的人权律师、活动人士及其不屈从的丈夫采取的打压行动所造成的一个意外后果。周四，她和其他在中国被拘的人权倡导人士的妻子在华盛顿向美国国会的一个小组委员会讲述了自己的经历。
After their loved ones disappeared in the wave of arrests, some family	在爱人于一场拘捕行动中失去音讯后，一些家属，尤其是被捕律师的妻子们

members, especially the wives of the detained lawyers, overcame their fear and fought back, often in a theatrical fashion. They used online appeals and visits to jails, prosecutors and courts. They gathered in bright red clothes and with red buckets to publicize their demands for information and access to the prisoners.	克服自己的恐惧，发起了抗争，而且常常是以一种戏剧性的方式进行。她们在网上发出呼吁，探访监狱、检察院和法院。她们穿着大红色的衣服聚在一起，举着红色的水桶，宣扬她们要求获得信息和探视拘押者的要求。
Their tongue-in-cheek slogan became "Leave the dressing table and take on the thugs," said Li Wenzu, whose husband, Wang Quanzhang, a human rights lawyer, has remained in secretive custody 21 months after he was detained in August 2015.	李文足说，她们半开玩笑地将口号变成了“离开梳妆台打流氓”。她的丈夫、人权律师王全璋自 2015 年 8 月被捕以来，已被秘密拘押 21 个月。
"The story of the wives is one of the great stories of the whole crackdown — it is a brilliant adaptation by the activists to repression," said Terence Halliday, a researcher at the American Bar Foundation in Chicago who has written a book on Chinese criminal defense lawyers. "My goodness, the attention they have brought to bear, not just for their husbands, but also the state of the crackdown."	"这些妻子们的故事是整个打压行动中最精彩的一个部分——是活动人士对打压行动做出的一种了不起的应对。"芝加哥美国律师基金会(American Bar Foundation)的研究员特伦斯·哈利迪(Terence Halliday)说，他写过一本有关中国刑事辩护律师的著作。"我的天，她们吸引了那么大的注意力，不仅是因为他们的丈夫，也因为她们遭到政府的打压。"
Chinese state investigators have long applied pressure on detainees' families to win cooperation and confessions. But this time their tactics seemed more systematic, said Wang Qiaoling, the wife of a detained lawyer, Li Heping. Mr. Li was recently released after being tried and receiving a suspended prison sentence.	中国政府的调查人员长期给被拘押者的家属施加压力，好让他们配合、招供。但被拘律师李和平的妻子王峭岭表示，这一次他们的策略似乎更加系统。在接受审判并获得缓刑后，李和平最近获释。
"They can treat you like hand-pulled noodles, squeeze you into any shape," Ms. Wang, 45, said in an interview. "If you're isolated and scared, it's hard to resist."	"他们可以把你当成面团，想捏成什么形状就捏成什么形状，"45 岁的王峭岭在接受采访时说。"如果你被孤立，感到害怕，是很难进行反抗的。"
Some wives of detainees said they had been forced to move from rented apartments after the police warned landlords. Some were	有些被拘人士的妻子表示，在警方警告了房东之后，她们被迫搬出了租住的公寓。有些人的孩子无法注册入学。警方还会发动一些亲戚，去央求她们保

prevented from enrolling their children in school. And the police recruited relatives to beg them to stay quiet and compliant. The families described these tactics as “lianzuo” or “zhulian,” old Chinese terms for the collective punishment of families.	持沉默与顺从。家属称这些策略为“连坐”或“株连”，它们是意指连带惩罚家属的古代术语。
Some families buckled. But others protested and filed petitions about the secretive detentions and trials. Ms. Wang encouraged a tight circle of women who rallied the relatives of detainees, arguing that silence would only encourage courts to hand down stiffer sentences.	有些家属屈服了。但也有人表示抗议，提交了反对秘密拘押和审判的诉状。王峭岭鼓励被拘人士家属形成一个关系紧密的圈子，称沉默只会让法院做出更严厉的判决。
“If you want to protect your family, you can’t stay silent,” Ms. Wang said. “It’s been crucial that we’ve been able to stick together.”	“如果你想保护家人，就不能保持沉默，”王峭岭说。“我们保持团结一致，是非常重要的。”
But for Ms. Chen, 42, the journey to defiance was especially wrenching.	然而，对42岁的陈桂秋来说，走上抗争之路的过程却尤其曲折。
While many of the detained lawyers lived in Beijing, she lived in Changsha, the capital of Hunan Province, about 800 miles to the south. And she had a secure, state-funded job as a professor of environmental engineering at Hunan University, studying ways to remove heavy metal and organic pollution from water.	许多被拘律师的家庭都在北京，她却生活在南部800英里（约合1300公里）远的湖南省会城市长沙。在那里，她有一个有保障的国家饭碗——湖南大学环境工程学教授，研究消除水中的重金属和有机污染的方法。
While Mr. Xie traveled relentlessly, she cared for their two daughters, now ages 4 and 15. And when Mr. Xie was home, they barely discussed his contentious legal cases. “It never occurred to me that he could get into serious trouble for being a lawyer,” she said. “The children kept us busy enough.”	谢阳不停地出差，她则在家里照顾两个女儿——一个4岁一个15岁。当谢阳在家的時候，他们之间也很少讨论他那些有争议的法律案件。“我从没想过他会因为当律师而陷入这么大的麻烦，”她说。“俩孩子就够我们忙的了。”
Initially, when the police took Mr. Xie away, Ms. Chen thought he would be freed quickly once investigators found that he had committed no crime. She kept quiet, heeding the advice of the police that silence would buy him lenience.	谢阳被警方带走时，陈桂秋一开始觉得，一旦调查人员发现他没有犯什么罪，就会很快把他放了。她保持沉默，遵从警方的建议，相信沉默能换来对他的宽大处理。

"Under heavy pressure and ignorant, I chose to accept the police's illegal orders and went along with them for nearly nine months," she wrote last year in an essay about her experiences. "I heeded the advice of the state security: no media interviews, no going abroad, no contact with other families involved in the case."	"重压之下，茫然无知的我，选择接受警方的非法指令，配合他们近9个月，"她在去年发表的一篇有关个人经历的文章中写道。"我听从了国保的建议：不接受媒体采访，不出境，不和其他涉案家属联系，不利用微博微信等披露实情（所谓炒作）。"
But like other family members, she ran up against an opaque legal system that held detainees in secrecy for many months with no visits by relatives or access to lawyers.	但和其他家属一样，她遇到的是一个不透明的法律体制，可以把人秘密关押数月，不允许接受家人探视或接触律师。
"Not one office followed the law, not one gave us a legal response," she said in the interview. "That was totally different from what I expected. This was a legal case, and I wanted to defend my husband by using the law, but it was impossible to use the law."	"没有一个机构依法办事，没有一个给我们一个合法的答复，"她在采访中说。"这和我想的完全不一样。这是一起法律案件，我想用法律为我丈夫辩护，但利用法律是不可能的。"
Her growing frustration led her to speak up and contact other wives of detainees, including Ms. Wang, who offered advice and encouragement.	日渐累积的不满促使她公开发声，并联系其他被拘人员的妻子，包括给予她建议和鼓励的王峭岭。
Ms. Chen was spared some of the intimidation that other families described. Her children were not singled out at school, she said. But other wives of detainees said their children had been denied access to schools or kindergartens in Beijing after officials warned principals or refused to process paperwork.	陈桂秋没有受到其他家庭所说的一些恐吓。她说她的孩子在学校没有被区别对待。但其他被拘押人员的妻子说，在官方警告了校长或拒绝处理相关材料后，她们的孩子无法进入北京的学校或幼儿园。
But Ms. Chen felt a shock in April last year when she tried to take her daughters on a trip to Hong Kong, a self-governed city that mainland Chinese must get a special pass to enter. The police stopped her from taking the train across the border on the grounds that she was a security risk.	但去年4月，当陈桂秋试图带女儿去香港时，发生的事让她感到惊讶。香港是一个自治城市，大陆地区的中国人必须持特别通行证才能进入。警方以她可能危害国家安全为由不让她搭乘过境的火车。

"I woke up to the fact that I was being treated as guilty by association," she said. "They told me I was deemed a threat to national security, and if I was already regarded as guilty, then Xie Yang was, too."	"我猛然醒悟，我被牵连了，"她说。"他们对我说，我被列为可能危害国家安全的人员，如果我已经被认为有罪，那么谢阳也一样。"
In touch now with a circle of wives of detainees, she occasionally took part in their demands for access and information when she visited Beijing. Partly inspired by feminist protests in China in 2015, they took to carrying red buckets and displaying red slogans on their dresses as a display of defiance, especially when visiting Tianjin, the port city near Beijing where many of their husbands were held.	她和一个由被羁押人员的妻子组成的圈子保持着联系。去北京时，她偶尔会参加她们要求探视并获得相关信息的活动。她们开始携带红色的桶，并在衣服上写上红色的口号，以示抗议，尤其是在去北京附近的港口城市天津时。她们很多人的丈夫都被关在天津。这在一定程度上是受了2015年中国出现的多场女权主义抗议的启发。
"We developed a headstrong mentality," Ms. Wang said. "The more they wanted to make us feel like heinous criminals, the more we kept up a relaxed, casual attitude."	"我们形成了一种坚定的心态，"王峭岭说。"他们越想让我们觉得自己像十恶不赦的犯罪分子，我们越要保持一种放松、轻松的态度。"
But staying upbeat was not easy. Ms. Chen began to hear that her husband had been tortured in Hunan, where he was held. At first, the accounts came indirectly. Then, when Mr. Xie was allowed to see his lawyers in January this year, he spilled out a description of abuses, including beatings and deprivation of sleep. Ms. Chen decided to release the transcripts online, hoping that the publicity would help end the abuses.	但保持乐观并非易事。陈桂秋开始听说丈夫在湖南——他被关押在那里——遭受酷刑。起初，相关说法是间接传来的。后来，谢阳在今年1月获准和律师见面时，描述了自己受到的虐待，包括殴打和睡眠剥夺。陈桂秋决定把会见笔录发到网上，希望曝光有助于结束虐待。
"Let the world know what forced confession through torture is, what shamelessness without limit is," Ms. Chen said in a statement at the time.	"让世人知道什么是刑讯逼供，什么是无耻没底线！"陈桂秋在当时的一份声明中说。
The government has denied those claims of torture, and at his recent trial, Mr. Xie also retracted them and pleaded guilty, after his own lawyers were replaced by ones chosen by the authorities. But many	政府否认了有关酷刑的说法。前不久受审时，谢阳也在自己的律师被换成了当局选定的律师后，收回了相关说法并认罪。但很多被羁押律师的家属说，有证据表明虐待现象普遍存在，包括被迫服用让在押人员听话和顺从的药

family members of detained lawyers say that the evidence points to widespread abuses, including the forced taking of drugs that made the detainees docile and submissive.	物。
By February, Ms. Chen lived under stifling surveillance, she said. Constantly monitored at home and work, and warned by the police, university officials and relatives not to speak out more about her husband, she decided to escape.	陈桂秋说，到2月，她生活在令人窒息的监视下。在家里和在工作的地方，监视无处不在。警方、学校领导和亲戚均告诫她不要多谈她丈夫的事。于是，她决定逃离。
She gathered up her daughters, confided her plan to the older one and told the younger one they were going on a trip. The security officers who followed her had become used to her driving away to work each day, but Ms. Chen and her daughters quietly walked out, evading the watchers.	她把女儿叫到一起，将自己的计划向大女儿和盘托出，对小女儿则说她们要去旅行。跟踪她的安全人员已经习惯了每天开车去上班，但陈桂秋和女儿悄悄地步行出门，躲过了监视她的人。
Ms. Chen declined to describe the details of how she and her children made the journey to Thailand, fearing that would endanger people who helped her. She kept her cellphone turned off, but the Thai police tracked her to a safe house – she believes with help from Chinese security officers alerted to her disappearance.	陈桂秋不愿介绍自己和孩子一路抵达泰国的细节，担心这么做会危及帮助过她的人。她一直保持手机关机，但泰国警方仍追踪她到一个安全的藏身之处。她认为，自己的失踪引起了中国安全人员的警惕，泰国警方是得到了中方的帮助。
After a court appearance, Ms. Chen and her children were taken to a detention center and told they would be sent back to China. Officials from the United States Embassy in Bangkok stepped in and secured her release after haggling with the Thai authorities, she said. On March 17, Ms. Chen and her children arrived in Houston, after a standoff with Chinese and Thai officials at Bangkok International Airport.	法庭审讯结束后，陈桂秋和孩子被带去了一处拘留所，并被告知她们会被送回中国。她说，来自设在曼谷的美国大使馆的官员介入，并在同泰国当局争论了一番后让她得以获释。3月17日，陈桂秋和孩子抵达休斯顿。在那之前，中泰两国的官员在曼谷国际机场(Bangkok International Airport)发生对峙。
Mr. Xie was given a suspended prison sentence, but he remains cut off from normal contact, apparently under police guard outside Changsha,	陈桂秋说，谢阳被判处缓刑，但依然无法通过正常渠道联系上，看起来他是被警方在长沙郊区监视起来了。

Ms. Chen said.
"I hope that one day Xie Yang can join us here," she said. "But we might have to wait a long time to see him. We've already waited a long time."	"我希望有一天谢阳能在这里和我们团聚,"她说。"但我们也许要等很久才能见面。我们已经等了很久了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170519/china-lawyers-detained-wives-families	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170519/china-lawyers-detained-wives-families
The 5 'Handsome Girls' Trying to Be China's Biggest Boy Band	5个"帅气女孩"要做中国最大的少男乐队
BEIJING — In a small dance studio in Beijing, the members of China's newest entry in the national pop-music pageant ran through a sequence of pulsing pelvic thrusts and choreographed crotch grabs.	北京——在北京的一个小型舞蹈工作室里,一个中国流行音乐新星组合正在做一系列有节奏的甩胯和精心编排的抓胯动作。
After a three-minute workout, the group's leader, Lu Keran, breathlessly asked the band's manager: "Now can I go to the bathroom?"	刚练了三分钟,队长陆柯燃就上气不接下气地问乐团经理:"我现在可以去洗手间吗?"
It has been a hard and fast ascent for Ms. Lu and her bandmates in Acrush — five young women who want nothing more than to show the world they can become their country's biggest boy band.	对陆柯燃和她在 Acrush 组合的其他成员来说,这是一场艰难而又迅速的上升旅程——这五名年轻的女孩一心想向世界证明,她们可以成为中国最大的美少年团体。
Acrush, which stands for "Adonis crush," after the Greek god, is the creation of Zhejiang Huati Culture Media Company, one of China's pop-music factories and a supergroup incubator aiming to saturate the market with ensemble acts that can rack up Weibo fans and flood Tencent video streams.	Acrush 是"Adonis crush"(意为被迷恋的阿多尼斯)的缩写,阿多尼斯为希腊神话中的美少年。组合的打造者浙江华体文化传媒公司是一家中国流行音乐公司,也是一个超级团体孵化器,目标是用在微博上拥有众多粉丝、给腾讯带来巨大视频流量的团体占据市场。
Since China's unofficial ban last year on popular South Korean cultural imports, Chinese promoters have tried to satisfy pop music fans with homegrown talent. There are slick boy bands and foxy girl groups, but Acrush aims for a growing segment of Chinese youth culture: androgynous urban trendsetters who reject traditional gender norms.	自从中国去年开始非正式地禁止韩国流行文化输入,中国推广者就试图用本土人才来满足流行音乐粉丝的需求。市场上出现了华丽的男团和性感的女团,但 Acrush 瞄准的是势头不断增强的中国青年文化:反对传统性别规范的都市中性潮流引领者。
"People have been really curious," said Peng Xichen, 21, the newest	"人们十分好奇,"最新加入的 Acrush 成员、21 岁的彭兮辰说。"他们过去看

member of Acrush. "They're used to seeing either cutesy or sexy girl groups, or boy bands. But I guess they're not really used to seeing a totally androgynous girl band."	到的要么是娇揉造作或性感的女团，要么是男团。但我想他们还是不太习惯看到一个完全中性化的女团。”
The group was formed late last year after a nationwide search for members for a new girl band. During auditions, promoters found "many very natural, very handsome girls," said Wang Tianhai, the chief executive of Zhejiang Huati, which is based in Hangzhou.	经过一场全国性的女团成员选拔后，这个团体在去年末成立。在面试期间，筹办者发现了“许多十分自然、非常帅气的女孩”，总部位于杭州的浙江华体首席执行官王天海说。
These "handsome girls" represent a new marketing gambit for Mr. Wang to break into a previously unclaimed sliver of the increasingly diversified Chinese audience.	对王天海而言，这些“帅气的女孩”代表着一种新的市场策略，可以让他们打入日益多元的中国观众中之前不曾被开发的一块。
"There are so many androgynous-looking girls these days, we thought they would be more relatable," Mr. Wang said.	“现在有这么外观十分中性化的女孩，我们想她们肯定能获得更多的认同，”王天海说。
For the members of Acrush, which released its first video last month, the band is a chance for them to express themselves and pursue dreams of stardom in a society that has long stressed conformity over individuality.	对上月已经发布了首支单曲视频的 Acrush 成员来说，这个组合是一个机会，可以让她们在一个长期强调从众大过个性的社会里，表达自我和追求明星梦。
'How Could I Be a Celebrity?'	“我怎么可能出名？”
An Junxi's father really wanted a son. "But I was born a girl, so my dad just thought, 'Well, she's young, so we'll just dress her up like a boy,'" Ms. An said, straddling a lounge chair — full manspread — during a break in rehearsal outside the studio.	安俊稀的父亲真正想要的是个男孩。“但我生下来是个女孩，所以父亲就想，‘她还小，就把她打扮成男孩的样子好了，’”安俊稀在排练间歇横跨在工作室外的一张躺椅上说道，露出十足的男子气。
"I've dressed like this ever since I was young," she explained. Wearing dresses "just felt weird."	“我从小就穿成这个样子，”她解释说。穿裙子“感觉很怪”。
Like many Chinese of her generation, Ms. An, 22, became enamored with K-pop music imported from South Korea, especially that of the	像她这一代的许多中国人一样，22岁的安俊稀迷上了从韩国引入的流行音乐，尤其是说唱歌手权志龙(G-Dragon)的音乐。

rapper G-Dragon.
After she graduated from college, she moved from her small hometown in the northeast near Shenyang across the country to the city of Chengdu, where she was discovered rapping in a friend's bar by her agent, Zhou Xiaobai.	从大学毕业后，她从离东北城市沈阳不远的家乡小镇搬到中国西南城市成都，在那里被她的经纪人周小白发掘，当时她正在一个朋友的酒吧里表演说唱音乐。
"I thought she was a total scammer," Ms. An said of her agent, who manages Acrush. "I wasn't a trained singer, I was singing other people's songs and I had studied classical Chinese dancing — how could I be a celebrity?"	"我当时完全以为她是个骗子，"安俊稀指的是负责管理 Acrush 的经纪人。"我不是一名受过训练的歌手，唱的是别人的歌，而且我学的是中国古典舞，怎么可能出名？"
'My Parents Wanted Me to Be a Stock Trader'	"我父母想让我成为一名股票交易员"
Growing up in the southern city of Nanjing, Lu Keran was a tomboy. She played sports, and even went to a special athletic academy to be a competitive fencer.	在南部城市南京长大的陆柯燃以前是个假小子。她练体育，为了成为一名有竞争力的击剑运动员，甚至去上了一所专门的体育学校。
Keeping her hair long, she said, was annoying, so at age 10 she cut it short, and people would often confuse her for a boy. "It was really awkward," she recalled, but her closely cropped coif suited her and felt like an early act of rebellion against the traditional expectations of her parents, both engineers.	她说留长发很烦人，所以就在 10 岁的时候剪了短发，人们常把她错当成男孩。"就很尴尬，"她回忆道，但那头短发很适合她，而且让人感觉像是对父母——都是工程师——传统期望的早期反叛。
"They think girls are supposed to work in an office and then go home," Ms. Lu, 21, said. "My parents wanted me to be a stock trader."	"他们觉得女孩就该在办公室里工作，然后下班回家，"21 岁的陆柯燃说道。"我父母想让我成为一名股票交易员。"
Her youthful acts of rebellion started to grow: a small geometric tattoo on her right ankle went unnoticed, then a sprawling image of a dragon's head on her right forearm.	青春期的叛逆行为开始增多：先是在右脚踝上纹了一小块几何图案，没被注意，之后又在右前臂纹了一大片龙头图案。
When her parents discovered her tattoos, Ms. Lu said, her mother refused to speak to her for days.	陆柯燃说，父母发现了纹身后，母亲有好多天没跟她说话。

"They thought getting a tattoo was something that bad kids did," she said. "But you see a lot of kids in my generation getting tattoos now. I guess that's the generation gap."	"他们觉得纹身是坏孩子干的事，"她说。"但你看我们这一代现在有很多孩子都纹身了。我想这就是代沟。"
Though she studied economics in college in Nanjing to appease her parents, Ms. Lu had her own ambitions.	尽管陆柯燃对父母做出让步，去南京的一所大学读了经济学，但她依然有自己的抱负。
"I do what I want to do," she said defiantly. "Whatever makes me happy, I do."	"我做自己想做的事，"她挑衅地说道。"什么开心就干什么。"
'I'm Still a Typical Girl'	"我仍是个典型的女孩子"
Min Junqian, 24, had always dreamed of becoming a star. In 2012, she left the musical performance program at a university near her hometown in the eastern province of Shandong to jump-start her entertainment career in Beijing.	24岁的闵俊千一直梦想成为一个明星。2012年，她放弃了离山东老家不远的一所大学的音乐表演课程，来北京发展自己的娱乐事业。
She performed on several variety shows, including an online series called "Let Go of That Piece of Clothing," before she was invited to join Acrush in September.	去年9月应邀加入Acrush之前，她参加过几个综艺节目，包括网络节目《放开那件衣服》。
Ms. Min is the band's most macho member. On Sina Weibo, the Chinese social media platform, she recently posted a photo of herself dressed in a black tank top to show off her biceps.	闵俊千是乐队里最有男子气质的。前不久，她在中国社交网络平台新浪微博上发布了一张身穿黑色背心的照片，展示自己的肱二头肌。
The band's management forbids members to talk openly about their sexual orientation, and Ms. Min plays it coy: "What do you think I am? You can't really tell, right?"	乐队管理层禁止成员公开讨论自己的性取向。闵俊千也不愿直言："你觉得我是同性恋吗？你也说不准，是吧？"
Ms. Min confesses a fan-girl crush on Wang Leehom, the Taiwanese-American pop idol. "Wang Leehom is so handsome and talented. So handsome! I want to marry him!"	闵俊千承认自己是台湾裔美籍流行偶像王力宏的迷妹。"王力宏太帅了，太有天分了。简直帅呆了！我想嫁给他！"
She added: "I'm still a typical girl."	她还说："我仍是个典型的女孩子。"

'My Life Is My Own Life'	"我的生活我做主"
Tall and lanky, Lin Fan, 18, is the youngest member of the group and has yet to find her rock-star mojo.	18岁的林凡又高又瘦，是乐队里最年轻的成员，她还没有找到摇滚明星的感觉。
At a recent photo shoot, the other members of the group struck power poses while Ms. Lin stood awkwardly, arms hanging limply by her sides. She admits that she is not the strongest dancer.	前不久拍照片时，乐队里的其他成员都摆出很有力量的姿势，林凡尴尬地站在那里，胳膊无力地放在身体两侧。她承认自己不是乐队中最强的舞者。
"I'm pretty clumsy," she said. "But I've always dreamed of doing this, so I'm very happy."	"我很笨拙，"她说。"但这一直是我的梦想，所以我很高兴。"
Ms. Lin is the most feminine of the five bandmates and cast by image makers as the ingénue — the small-town girl finding her place in the world. Though female fans refer to the other members of the band as "husband" — as in the sort of boy a girl would want to marry — they affectionately refer to Ms. Lin as "wife" or "little sister."	林凡是五位乐队成员中最有女人味的，她被形象设计师塑造为天真少女——寻找自己在世界上的位置的小城女孩。虽然女粉丝们把乐队的其他成员称为"老公"——女孩想嫁的那种男孩——她们亲切地称林凡为"老婆"或"妹子"。
"My family has always thought that girls should look and act like girls," she said. "But for my generation, we think: My life is my own life."	"我的家人一直认为，女孩应该有女孩的样子，"她说，"但我们这一代人认为：我的生活我做主。"
Peng Xichen, 21, is a pop-music veteran. Before she joined Acrush in January, she was in another girl group — a "cute band" — in which each member played a stereotypical female role.	21岁的彭兮辰已经在流行乐圈打拼多年。今年1月加入Acrush之前，她属于另一个"可爱"组合，每个成员扮演一个模式化的女性角色。
"We had to dance these kind of cute, sexy routines," she said. "I could do it, but it wasn't the image I wanted to show. I didn't feel like it was me."	"我们必须跳那种可爱性感的舞蹈，"她说。"我可以跳，但那不是我想展示的形象。我觉得那不是我。"
Ms. Peng had studied dance at a special school since she was 12, and trained in different styles, including Latin dance. But it was not until she joined Acrush, she said, that she felt as if she could express her true self.	彭兮辰从12岁起就在一所专门的学校里学习舞蹈，受过各种风格的舞蹈训练，包括拉丁舞。不过她说，直到加入Acrush后，她才感觉能够表达真正的自我。
"Male dancing is more powerful, more handsome," she said.	"男性舞蹈更有力量，更帅，"她说。
It remains to be seen if audiences will embrace Acrush's	彭兮辰表示，观众是否接纳Acrush女扮男装的风格，仍需拭目以待。"我非

gender-bending style, Ms. Peng said. "I'm really scared that what we've prepared isn't what everyone wants."	常担心，我们准备的东西并不是大家想要的。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170522/china-acrush-pop-music-gender-boy-band	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170522/china-acrush-pop-music-gender-boy-band
Killing C.I.A. Informants, China Crippled U.S. Spying Operations	中国处死或监禁多名 CIA 线人，美国在华谍网被毁
WASHINGTON — The Chinese government systematically dismantled C.I.A. spying operations in the country starting in 2010, killing or imprisoning more than a dozen sources over two years and crippling intelligence gathering there for years afterward.	华盛顿——从 2010 年起，中国政府系统性地捣毁了美国中央情报局(CIA)在中国的间谍行动，在两年的时间里杀死或监禁了十几个线人，让之后多年的情报收集工作处于瘫痪状态。
Current and former American officials described the intelligence breach as one of the worst in decades. It set off a scramble in Washington's intelligence and law enforcement agencies to contain the fallout, but investigators were bitterly divided over the cause. Some were convinced that a mole within the C.I.A. had betrayed the United States. Others believed that the Chinese had hacked the covert system the C.I.A. used to communicate with its foreign sources. Years later, that debate remains unresolved.	美国的现任和前任官员把情报员的损失描述为数十年来最糟糕的一次。损失引起华盛顿的情报和执法部门采取紧急措施，防止影响蔓延，但调查人员对情报网造破坏的原因持极为不同的看法。有些人坚信，中情局内有出卖美国的内奸。其他人则认为，中国人侵入了中情局用来与其外国线人联络的秘密系统。问题发生多年后，辩论仍悬而未决。
But there was no disagreement about the damage. From the final weeks of 2010 through the end of 2012, according to former American officials, the Chinese killed at least a dozen of the C.I.A.'s sources. According to three of the officials, one was shot in front of his colleagues in the courtyard of a government building — a message to others who might have been working for the C.I.A.	但是，人们对破坏所造成的损失没有任何意见分歧。据美国前官员说，从 2010 年的最后几周起，到 2012 年底止，中国杀死了至少十几个中情局的线人。据三位前官员的说法，其中一人是在政府大楼院子里他的同事眼前被击毙的——这是给其他那些可能为 CIA 工作的人发出的信息。
Still others were put in jail. All told, the Chinese killed or imprisoned 18 to 20 of the C.I.A.'s sources in China, according to two former senior	还有些人被关进了监狱。据两名前美国高级官员说，总的来说，中国政府杀死或监禁了 CIA 在中国的线人中 18 至 20 人，有效地捣毁了中情局花多年

American officials, effectively unraveling a network that had taken years to build.	时间建立起来的网络。
Assessing the fallout from an exposed spy operation can be difficult, but the episode was considered particularly damaging. The number of American assets lost in China, officials said, rivaled those lost in the Soviet Union and Russia during the betrayals of both Aldrich Ames and Robert Hanssen, formerly of the C.I.A. and the F.B.I., who divulged intelligence operations to Moscow for years.	虽然可能很难评估间谍活动被暴露所带来的影响,但这次事件造成的损失被认为特别严重。官员说,美国这次在中国损失的有用者的人数,与前中情局特工奥尔德里奇·艾姆斯(Aldrich Ames)和前联邦调查局(FBI)特工罗伯特·汉森(Robert Hanssen)向莫斯科出卖情报多年,在苏联和俄罗斯所造成的损失不相上下。
The previously unreported episode shows how successful the Chinese were in disrupting American spying efforts and stealing secrets years before a well-publicized breach in 2015 gave Beijing access to thousands of government personnel records, including intelligence contractors. The C.I.A. considers spying in China one of its top priorities, but the country's extensive security apparatus makes it exceptionally hard for Western spy services to develop sources there.	这个以前未曾报道过的事件显示,在2015年广为人知的破坏行动让北京获得了包括情报承包商在内的成千上万的政府人事档案之前,中国在扰乱美国的间谍活动、以及窃取美国秘密方面有多么成功。中情局认为,在中国搜集情报是其首要任务之一,但中国巨大的安全机构让西方间谍部门在其境内发展线人非常困难。
At a time when the C.I.A. is trying to figure out how some of its most sensitive documents were leaked onto the internet two months ago by WikiLeaks, and the F.B.I. investigates possible ties between President Trump's campaign and Russia, the unsettled nature of the China investigation demonstrates the difficulty of conducting counterespionage investigations into sophisticated spy services like those in Russia and China.	中情局正在试图搞清楚,两个月前,其最敏感的文件是怎样通过维基解密(WikiLeaks)泄漏到互联网上去的, FBI也在调查特朗普总统的竞选活动与俄罗斯之间的可能联系,在这个时刻,对中国情报网遭破坏的调查尚无结果的事实,表明了对像俄罗斯和中国这样的老练情报部门进行反间谍调查的难度之大。
The C.I.A. and the F.B.I. both declined to comment.	中情局和联邦调查局都拒绝发表评论。
Details about the investigation have been tightly held. Ten current and former American officials described the investigation on the condition	上述调查的细节一直处于严格控制之下。十名美国的现任和前任官员描述了有关调查,但他们要求匿名,因为他们不想在讨论这些信息时透露身份。

of anonymity because they did not want to be identified discussing the information.
The first signs of trouble emerged in 2010. At the time, the quality of the C.I.A.'s information about the inner workings of the Chinese government was the best it had been for years, the result of recruiting sources deep inside the bureaucracy in Beijing, four former officials said. Some were Chinese nationals who the C.I.A. believed had become disillusioned with the Chinese government's corruption.	发生麻烦的第一个迹象出现在 2010 年。当时，中情局掌握的有关中国政府内部运作情况的信息质量是多年来最好的，四名前官员说，那是 CIA 在北京官僚机构的纵深发展线人的结果。其中一些人是中国公民，CIA 认为他们已对中国政府的腐败感到失望。
But by the end of the year, the flow of information began to dry up. By early 2011, senior agency officers realized they had a problem: Assets in China, one of their most precious resources, were disappearing.	但到年底时，信息的来源开始枯竭。到了 2011 年初，中情局高级官员们意识到，他们遇到了问题：他们最宝贵的资源之一，也就是他们在中国的有价值人员，正在消失。
The F.B.I. and the C.I.A. opened a joint investigation run by top counterintelligence officials at both agencies. Working out of a secret office in Northern Virginia, they began analyzing every operation being run in Beijing. One former senior American official said the investigation had been code-named Honey Badger.	联邦调查和中情局对此展开了联合调查，调查由两家机构的最高反间谍官员领导。调查工作在弗吉尼亚州北部的一个秘密办公室进行，有关人员开始分析在北京的每项行动。一位美国前高级官员说，联合调查曾用过 Honey Badger 的代号。
As more and more sources vanished, the operation took on increased urgency. Nearly every employee at the American Embassy was scrutinized, no matter how high ranking. Some investigators believed the Chinese had cracked the encrypted method that the C.I.A. used to communicate with its assets. Others suspected a traitor in the C.I.A., a theory that agency officials were at first reluctant to embrace – and that some in both agencies still do not believe.	随着越来越多的线人消失，调查也变得越来越紧迫。美国大使馆的几乎每名员工，不管他们的位置有多高，都受到了仔细审查。一些调查人员认为，中国人破解了中情局用来与其线人进行沟通的方法。其他人则怀疑 CIA 内部出了叛徒，中情局官员最初不愿意接受这个理论，CIA 和 FBI 的一些人至今仍不相信该理论。
Their debates were punctuated with macabre phone calls – “We lost another one” – and urgent questions from the Obama administration	他们的辩论被“我们又失去了一个”的可怕电话、以及奥巴马政府对为什么有关中国的情报越来越少的紧急询问一次又一次地打断。

wondering why intelligence about the Chinese had slowed.
The mole hunt eventually zeroed in on a former agency operative who had worked in the C.I.A.'s division overseeing China, believing he was most likely responsible for the crippling disclosures. But efforts to gather enough evidence to arrest him failed, and he is now living in another Asian country, current and former officials said.	抓内奸的工作最终锁定了一名曾经在 CIA 分管中国的部门工作的前特工人员，他被认为是泄露造成严重损害信息的最有可能的责任人。但现任和前任官员说，收集逮捕他的足够证据的努力失败了，他目前住在亚洲另一个国家。
There was good reason to suspect an insider, some former officials say. Around that time, Chinese spies compromised National Security Agency surveillance in Taiwan – an island Beijing claims is part of China – by infiltrating Taiwanese intelligence, an American partner, according to two former officials. And the C.I.A. had discovered Chinese operatives in the agency's hiring pipeline, according to officials and court documents.	几名前任官员说，有很好的理由怀疑出了内奸。据两位前官员说，就在发生问题的前后，大陆间谍通过渗透美国的伙伴台湾情报部门，让美国国家安全局(National Security Agency)在台湾的监听监视工作陷入危险，北京认为台湾是中国的一部分。而且，据官员的说法和法庭文件，中情局也在其应招人员中发现了为中国工作的人。
But the C.I.A.'s top spy hunter, Mark Kelton, resisted the mole theory, at least initially, former officials say. Mr. Kelton had been close friends with Brian J. Kelley, a C.I.A. officer who in the 1990s was wrongly suspected by the F.B.I. of being a Russian spy. The real traitor, it turned out, was Mr. Hanssen. Mr. Kelton often mentioned Mr. Kelley's mistreatment in meetings during the China episode, former colleagues say, and said he would not accuse someone without ironclad evidence.	前官员说，但是，在中情局负责抓间谍的马克·凯尔顿(Mark Kelton)不接受内奸理论，至少最初是那样。凯尔顿曾与布莱恩·J·凯利(Brian J. Kelley)是亲密的朋友，20 世纪 90 年代，FBI 曾错误地怀疑凯利是俄罗斯间谍。事实证明，真正的叛变者是汉森。凯尔顿以前的同事说，凯尔顿经常在调查中国事件的会上提到凯利遭受的不公正对待，并表示，在没有确凿证据之前，他不会对人提出指控。
Those who rejected the mole theory attributed the losses to sloppy American tradecraft at a time when the Chinese were becoming better at monitoring American espionage activities in the country. Some F.B.I. agents became convinced that C.I.A. handlers in Beijing too often traveled the same routes to the same meeting points, which would	那些拒绝内奸理论者把线人的损失归咎于美国人对情报工作掉以轻心，而与此同时，中国对美国在其境内间谍活动的监控正变得越来越好。一些 FBI 特工让证据说服，认为 CIA 在北京负责与间谍联络的人，过于经常地使用同一路线、在同一地点与线人接头，这会帮助中国庞大的监视网络在人群中确定间谍的身份。

have helped China's vast surveillance network identify the spies in its midst.
Some officers met their sources at a restaurant where Chinese agents had planted listening devices, former officials said, and even the waiters worked for Chinese intelligence.	前官员说，CIA 的有些情报官在中国特工已经安装了窃听器的餐馆与线人接头，在那些餐馆里，甚至有些服务员也为中国情报部门工作。
This carelessness, coupled with the possibility that the Chinese had hacked the covert communications channel, would explain many, if not all, of the disappearances and deaths, some former officials said. Some in the agency, particularly those who had helped build the spy network, resisted this theory and believed they had been caught in the middle of a turf war within the C.I.A.	一些前官员说，这种粗心大意，加上中国人破获了秘密通信渠道的可能性，能解释许多（如果不是全部）失踪和死亡线人的情况。中情局有些人、特别是那些帮助把间谍网建立起来的人，不接受这个理论，他们认为被夹在了中情局内部势力范围争夺战之中。
Still, the Chinese picked off more and more of the agency's spies, continuing through 2011 and into 2012. As investigators narrowed the list of suspects with access to the information, they started focusing on a Chinese-American who had left the C.I.A. shortly before the intelligence losses began. Some investigators believed he had become disgruntled and had begun spying for China. One official said the man had access to the identities of C.I.A. informants and fit all the indicators on a matrix used to identify espionage threats.	尽管如此，被中国人打掉的中情局间谍越来越多，中方的行动一直持续到 2011 年和 2012 年。随着调查人员缩小了接触过相关信息的嫌疑人名单，他们开始把注意力集中到一名在情报工作遭破坏前不久离开了中情局的美籍华人。一些调查人员认为，该人因某种原因对 CIA 不满，并开始为中国充当间谍。一名官员说，该男子能接触为 CIA 提供消息者的身份信息，而且，他与用来确定间谍威胁模型中的所有标志相符。
After leaving the C.I.A., the man decided to remain in Asia with his family and pursue a business opportunity, which some officials suspect that Chinese intelligence agents had arranged.	这名男子离开中情局后，为了一个商业机会，决定与家人一起留在亚洲，有些官员怀疑，中国情报人员为他安排了那个机会。
Officials said the F.B.I. and the C.I.A. lured the man back to the United States around 2012 with a ruse about a possible contract with the agency, an arrangement common among former officers. Agents	官员说，FBI 和 CIA 曾在 2012 年前后，用与中情局签订一项可能合同（这在前中情局官员中很常见）的借口，将这名男子诱回美国。特工对他进行了询问，问他为什么决定留在亚洲，并对他拥有一些对中国人有价值的秘密表

questioned the man, asking why he had decided to stay in Asia, concerned that he possessed a number of secrets that would be valuable to the Chinese. It's not clear whether agents confronted the man about whether he had spied for China.	示了担忧。目前尚不清楚，特工是否直接向他提出他是否曾为中国当间谍的问题。
The man defended his reasons for living in Asia and did not admit any wrongdoing, an official said. He then returned to Asia.	一名官员说，该男子为自己留在亚洲的原因做了辩解，不承认有任何不法行为。那之后，他返回了亚洲。
By 2013, the F.B.I. and the C.I.A. concluded that China's success in identifying C.I.A. agents had been blunted — it is not clear how — but the damage had been done.	到 2013 年时，FBI 和 CIA 都做出结论，认为中国成功识别中情局特工的能力已经减弱——虽然目前不清楚原因，但所造成的损失已无法挽回。
The C.I.A. has tried to rebuild its network of spies in China, officials said, an expensive and time-consuming effort led at one time by the former chief of the East Asia Division. A former intelligence official said the former chief was particularly bitter because he had worked with the suspected mole and recruited some of the spies in China who were ultimately executed.	官员说，中情局一直在试图重建其在中国的间谍网，这项费钱费时的工作一度曾由中情局东亚处的一位前主管领导。一名前情报官员说，该前主管曾非常不快，因为他曾与那名被怀疑为内奸的人一起工作，而且那些后来最终被中国处决的间谍中，有些也是该前主管发展的。
China has been particularly aggressive in its espionage in recent years, beyond the breach of the Office of Personnel Management records in 2015, American officials said. Last year, an F.B.I. employee pleaded guilty to acting as a Chinese agent for years, passing sensitive technology information to Beijing in exchange for cash, lavish hotel rooms during foreign travel and prostitutes.	美国官员说，中国近年来的间谍活动特别具有攻击性，不仅是 2015 年侵入美国政府人事管理办公室(Office of Personnel Management)系统的问题。去年，一名 FBI 雇员承认有罪，他曾为中国充当特工，向北京提供了敏感技术信息，以换取金钱，以及在外国旅行期间住豪华酒店房间和招妓女的待遇。
In March, prosecutors announced the arrest of a longtime State Department employee, Candace Marie Claiborne, accused of lying to investigators about her contacts with Chinese officials. According to the criminal complaint against Ms. Claiborne, who pleaded not guilty,	今年 3 月，检察机关宣布逮捕了曾在美国国务院长期工作的坎迪斯·玛丽·克莱本(Candace Marie Claiborne)，她被指控在对她与中国官员接触的调查中，向调查人员撒谎。据对克莱本的刑事起诉书，中国特工曾把现金汇入她的银行账户，并向她赠送了包括 iPhone、笔记本电脑和一家中国时装学校

Chinese agents wired cash into her bank account and showered her with gifts that included an iPhone, a laptop and tuition at a Chinese fashion school. In addition, according to the complaint, she received a fully furnished apartment and a stipend.	学费在内的礼品，她不承认有罪。另据起诉书说，她还得到了一套家具齐全的公寓和一份津贴。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170522/china-cia-spies-espionage	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170522/china-cia-spies-espionage
Why Send Germany a Statue of Marx? The Chinese Have Some Ideas	把马克思像送给德国，中国的用意引发无数猜测
BEIJING — From China, with love. Or something more insidious?	北京——这是来自中国的爱意，还是潜藏了什么弦外之音？
For weeks, Chinese have been debating the meaning of a superhero-size statue of Karl Marx headed to Trier, the German town where the political philosopher was born. An attempt to spread Communist revolution back to democratic Germany? A joke?	将一尊卡尔·马克思(Karl Marx)的超大雕像运往德国小镇特里尔，也就是这位政治哲学家的出生地，这个举动究竟意味着什么？中国人为此已经讨论了几个星期。这是在试图让共产主义革命重新回到实行民主制度的德国吗？抑或只是一个笑话？
The 18-foot work by the sculptor Wu Weishan is a gift from the Chinese government and is to be unveiled next May as part of wider commemorations for the 200th anniversary of Marx's birth. Marx is officially revered in China, the last major Communist state after the fall of the Soviet Union in 1991.	这座 18 英尺高的雕像是中国政府的礼物，也是马克思诞辰 200 周年纪念活动的一部分，它由雕塑家吴为山创作，将于明年 5 月揭幕。1991 年苏联垮台后，中国是最后一个共产主义大国，马克思在这里的官方地位颇为尊崇。
This noble-looking Marx gazing into the future expresses "the confidence of today's China in its own theories, path, system and culture," Mr. Wu wrote in People's Daily, the party newspaper, in January describing a visit he made to Trier last year to conceptualize the work.	这尊庄严的马克思像仿佛在展望未来，今年 1 月，吴为山在中共党报《人民日报》上发表文章，描述自己去年为构思这件作品到特里尔访问的旅行，他写道，这尊雕塑表达了“今天中国的理论自信、道路自信、制度自信、文化自信。”
Mr. Wu's vision prompted controversy in Germany after a model was unveiled in Trier in March. Historians and politicians asked whether it was appropriate to honor so uncritically a man whose ideas led to dictatorship, including in the former East Germany. In April, Trier's City	今年 3 月，吴为山作品的模型在特里尔揭幕，之后在德国引发了争议。历史学家和政治家们质疑，马克思的思想曾经导致包括前东德在内的独裁国家出现，这样不加批判地纪念他是否妥当。特里尔市市议会最终于 4 月批准了这份礼物，但将其尺寸缩小了两英尺多。

Council gave final approval to the gift but whittled down its size by more than two feet.
In China, "there are two completely different voices in the debate" over the statue, said Zhu Dake, a cultural commentator and professor at Tongji University in Shanghai.	在中国，关于这座雕像，“辩论中有两种完全不同的声音”，上海同济大学教授、文化评论家朱大可说。
"One is that Germany is now a wholly capitalist state that has abandoned Marxism. Sending the statue is tantamount to sending his ideas back to try to reignite the spark of revolution," he said in an interview.	“其一是，德国现在完全是一个资本主义国家，已经放弃马克思主义。送去这尊雕像无异于送回他的思想，是在重新点燃革命的火花，”他在接受采访时说。
"The other is that Marx's theory of class struggle had a very negative effect on China," he said. "Sending the statue is symbolically returning defective goods."	“另一种声音是，马克思的阶级斗争理论对中国有着非常负面的影响，”他说。“送去雕像象征着退回残次品。”
Much of the discussion in China is taking place in private, given the sensitivity of commenting publicly on a project overseen by the Communist Party's Propaganda Department. But Zhihu.com, a question-and-answer service, provides glimpses of those views.	在中国，公开评论这样一个由中共宣传部督办的项目是非常敏感的，因此关于此事的大部分讨论都是在私下进行。但是，在问答服务网站知乎上可以看到若干观点。
"The International will certainly succeed!" wrote a user identified as Wang Dongyang, referring to the Communist International, founded in 1919 to advance world Communism.	“英特纳雄耐尔就一定会实现！”名为王冬羊的用户说，这里提到的是成立于1919年、以推动国际共产主义事业为目标的共产国际(Communist International)。
"Am I the only one who thinks this looks like Mao in 'Chairman Mao Goes to Anyuan'?" asked another commenter, referring to a famous propaganda painting from the Cultural Revolution.	另外一个评论者提到文化大革命时期的一幅著名宣传画，“只有我觉得这个雕像的姿态有点像《毛主席去安源》吗？”
"At midnight on day two a South China Sword team" — a special forces unit of the People's Liberation Army — "will leap out of the statue," wrote a person with the handle Ning Andong, comparing it to a Trojan	名为宁安东的用户把这座雕像比作特洛伊木马，“第二天半夜雕像里跳出一队南国利剑”——南国利剑是中国人民解放军的一支特种部队。 horse.

"What China means is: We're sending it back to you. We don't believe in it," the user Wu Jia said.	"中国的意思是：给你们送回去，我们不信了，"用户伍加说。
Millions died in Communist political campaigns after the founding of the People's Republic in 1949, and in a famine precipitated by an effort to collectivize agriculture in the late 1950s. Still, the government insists the party remains essential to China's prosperity and stability, pointing to recent decades of high economic growth.	中华人民共和国于1949年成立后，各种共产主义政治运动，以及1950年代后期由农业集体化导致的饥荒，造成数千万人死亡。然而政府指出，近几十年来中国经济出现了高速增长，坚持认为党对中国的繁荣稳定至关重要。
In that time, trade with Europe has also prospered, raising for some questions of how democratic nations should deal with an economically powerful state that rejects democracy and has a poor human rights record. Last year, China became Germany's leading trading partner with two-way trade of $180 billion, overtaking the United States for the first time.	在这段时期，中国与欧洲的贸易兴盛起来，这也带来了一些问题：民主国家应当如何应对一个拒绝民主，人权记录不良的经济强国？去年，中国成为德国最大的贸易伙伴，双边贸易额达到1800亿美元，首次超过德国与美国的贸易额。
"Haha, Germans have to kowtow to the renminbi. They no longer care about political ideology when the money pours in from rich Chinese," a user identified as Guo Xiaomeng wrote on Zhihu.com.	"哈哈哈哈哈，德国人：不得不向人民币低头，去他娘的政治信仰，中国人土豪送钱还不要吗，"名为郭小萌的用户在知乎上写道。
To Chang Ping, a Chinese journalist who has lived in exile in Germany since 2011, the Marx statue represents a challenge most Germans fail to understand.	对于自2011年便流亡德国的中国记者长平来说，马克思雕像代表着一种大多数德国人都无法理解的挑战。
"This is not just a question of commemorating a historical figure. It's also a question of how to deal with the Chinese government's ambition to shine on the world stage," Mr. Chang said by email.	"这不仅仅是纪念一个历史人物的问题，也关乎如何面对一个渴望在世界舞台上出风头的中国政府，"长平在电子邮件中说。
"I think that I can see better than ordinary Germans the hideous grin behind the statue that is to be erected in Trier, and the threat it	"我认为我比普通德国人更能看清，即将矗立在特里尔的那座雕像背后隐藏着丑陋的笑容，它代表着对世界上的文明政治文化的威胁。" represents to the civilized political cultures of the world," he said.

The mayor of the city, Wolfram Leibe, finds such concerns overblown.	特里尔市市长沃尔弗拉姆·莱布(Wolfram Leibe)认为这样的忧虑是夸大其词。
"It was a gesture of friendship and has nothing to do with ideology," Mr. Leibe said in a telephone interview in April, shortly after returning from China, where he met with Mr. Wu, the sculptor.	莱布曾于今年访问中国，同雕塑家吴为山会面，回国不久后，他在4月的一次电话采访中说：“这是一种友谊的姿态，与意识形态毫无关系。”
"Maybe a certain naïveté is not always bad if it prevents over-interpretation, so you don't always dissect things in detail and suspect everything," he said.	“如果能防止过度阐释，也许某种程度上的天真并不总是那么糟糕，所以你并不总是对事物详加剖析，然后怀疑一切。”
Mr. Wu declined three requests for an interview, saying that the statue was a state affair and that he did not want to interrupt his creative flow.	吴为山三次拒绝了采访要求，说雕像是国家事务，此外他不想打断自己的创作进展。
Well known in China for his monuments to historical and cultural figures, as well as his flowing mane of hair and cravats, Mr. Wu, 55, is the director of the National Museum of China and holds a seat in the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference, a government advisory body.	在中国，吴为山以创作历史题材和文化人物的纪念碑而闻名，同样出名的还有他的飘逸长发和围巾。今年55岁的他是中国美术馆馆长，在政府顾问机构中国人民政治协商会议中担任委员。
He has produced other sculptures of Marx, notably one that shows him with his collaborator Friedrich Engels, at the party's Central Compilation and Translation Bureau in Beijing. In 2011, an enormous statue of Confucius he created briefly stood near Tiananmen Square in Beijing, before being removed under circumstances that have never been fully explained.	他还曾制作其他马克思雕塑，特别是一尊马克思与合作者弗里德里希·恩格斯(Friedrich Engels)站在一起的雕像，矗立在北京的中央编译局门前。2011年，他创作的一尊孔子巨像曾经树立在北京天安门广场附近，不久后出于不明原因被搬走。
He is known internationally, too, having won the 2003 Pangolin Prize of the Royal British Society of Sculptors, sculpted a bust of Queen Beatrix of the Netherlands and presented a sculpture to the International	他在国际上也颇具知名度，于2003年获得英国皇家雕塑家协会(Royal British Society of Sculptors)颁发的攀格林奖(Pangolin Prize)，曾为荷兰女王贝娅特丽克丝雕塑半身像，并曾向国际奥委会赠送一尊雕塑。

Olympic Committee.
Mr. Wu's grandiose vision for the statue in Trier overturned a more approachable concept proposed by residents who wanted Marx depicted as a child, seated on a bench in a small square, where people could sit beside him.	吴为山为特里尔的雕像提供了一个宏伟的设想，推翻了该镇居民原本更加平易近人的想法，居民们原本希望把马克思塑造成一个小孩，坐在一个小广场的长凳上，人们可以坐在他旁边。
"Mr. Wu came to Trier and said, "This square is too small and cramped. Karl Marx was a great man and we can't put him in a small square," Mr. Leibe said.	"吴先生来到特里尔后说，'这个广场太小、太窄了。卡尔·马克思是个伟人，我们不能把他放在一个小广场上，"莱布说。
To Geremie Barmé, a founder of the Wairarapa Academy for New Sinology in New Zealand, the sculpture is an expression of party power.	新西兰白水书院(Wairarapa Academy for New Sinology)的创始人白杰明(Geremie Barmé)认为，这座雕塑是为了表达党的力量。
"The Germans' suggestion was for an early, humane, humanist Marx, a source for change in China – not the heroic, sclerotic, formalized Marx used for party purposes that Wu offered," Mr. Barmé said by telephone.	"德国人的建议是一个早期的、人性化的、人道主义的马克思，这样的马克思是中国变革的源泉——而不是吴为山提出的那个英雄式的、僵硬的、被党的目的所定型的马克思，"白杰明在接受电话采访时说。
China's message is, he said, "Since we're the only one that's been successful and adapted Marxism to state leadership, we'll tell you what it's about."	他说，中国要传达的讯息是："既然只有我们成功了，把马克思主义应用到领导国家当中，那就让我们来告诉你们马克思主义到底是什么。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170522/china-trier-germany-marx-statue	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170522/china-trier-germany-marx-statue
After Report on Killings of C.I.A. Sources, China Asserts Right to Defend Itself	中国回应捣毁美国在华情报网报道
The Chinese government has the obligation to defend its national security and the legal authority to protect China's interests, a government spokeswoman said on Monday, the first official response to a New York Times report on the dismantling of C.I.A. espionage operations in China.	中国政府的一名发言人周一表示，中国政府有义务维护国家安全，依法保护中国的利益。这是中国官方首次回应《纽约时报》有关捣毁中央情报局(C.I.A.)在华间谍网的报道。

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs spokeswoman Hua Chunying, speaking during a regularly scheduled news conference in Beijing, did not confirm or deny The Times's report that for two years starting in 2010, more than a dozen C.I.A. sources were killed or imprisoned, crippling United States intelligence gathering in China.	在北京的一场例行记者会上，中国外交部发言人华春莹没有证实，也没有否认时报的报道。根据该报道，在从 2010 年开始的两年时间里，十多名中情局线人被杀或被关押，导致美国在华情报搜集工作处于瘫痪状态。
"I am not aware of the details of that report," Ms. Hua said, according to an official transcript. "But I can tell you that China's national security organ is investigating and handling organizations, personnel and activities that endanger China's national security and interests and fully perform its duty with the authorization by law."	"关于《纽约时报》有关报道的具体情况我不了解，"官方文字记录显示华春莹说。"我可以告诉你的是，中国国家安全机关按照中国有关法律授权，对危害中国国家安全和利益的组织、人员和行为依法开展调查和处置，有效履职尽责。"
"I do not want to say more about the normal performance of duty by the national security organ," she added.	"对于国家安全机关正常行使职权的工作，我不作过多评论，"她接着说。
The Times's article cited 10 former and current American officials who described a vast and damaging breach of intelligence-gathering efforts in China, the cause of which remains under debate.	时报的文章援引 10 名前任和现任美国官员的说法称，在华情报搜集工作遭到毁灭性破坏，原因仍在讨论中。
Global Times, a stridently nationalist newspaper owned by the Chinese Communist Party, criticized the article but also said China should be praised for its counterespionage efforts.	中共具有强烈民族主义色彩的报纸《环球时报》指责时报的报道，但也表示应该赞扬中国的反间谍行动。
"If C.I.A. spying operations in China were crippled, the U.S. has nothing to be proud of," it said in an editorial, which was carried in both its English- and Chinese-language editions. "But the N.Y.T. report portrayed the people that spied for the U.S. as innocents, but the Chinese national security forces as merciless."	"如果中情局在华情报网遭到打击，这决非美方光彩的事情，"该报在一篇社论中说。"但是经《纽约时报》这么一写，美国间谍好像'挺无辜的'，倒是中国国家安全的守护者们显得'不近人情'了。"该报的中文版和英文版均刊登了这篇社论。
It added that the events reported should be considered "a sweeping victory" for China.	文章接着表示，应该把《纽约时报》报道的行动当作中国"反间谍工作的最高境界"。

"If this article is telling the truth, we would like to applaud China's anti-espionage activities," said the unsigned editorial. "Not only was the C.I.A.'s spy network dismantled, but Washington had no idea what happened and which part of the spy network had gone wrong."	"如果纽时的报道是真的，我们要为中国反间谍系统的出色表现点赞，"这篇未署名的社评说。"不仅把中情局的情报网给破了，还能让华盛顿不知道'发生了什么'，搞不清他们的在华情报网哪个环节出了问题。"
The commentary took issue with one specific detail of the story, saying the description of one C.I.A. source being shot in a courtyard was "purely fabricated." Global Times did not offer any evidence for that assessment.	社评反驳了《纽约时报》报道中的一个具体细节，称有关一名中情局线人在一个政府机关大院里被开枪打死的内容是“瞎编的”。《环球时报》没有提供得出这个评价的任何证据。
On Monday, Ms. Hua also confirmed the arrest of six Japanese citizens in China who had been accused of endangering national security.	周一，华春莹还证实了六名在华日本公民被捕一事。他们被控危害中国的国家安全。
Yoshihide Suga, the chief cabinet secretary of Japan, said on Monday that six men were detained in Shandong and Hainan Provinces, coastal areas that are home to Chinese Navy bases.	日本内阁官房长官菅义伟(Yoshihide Suga)周一表示，六名男子在中国沿海省份山东和海南被拘押。这两个省份均设有中国海军的基地。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170523/china-cia-espionage-response	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170523/china-cia-espionage-response
Expert Doubts China's Population Number, Saying India May Be No. 1	印度人口已经超越中国?
BEIJING — Chinese people cheering on their country's ascent sometimes comfort themselves with the idea that Asia's other behemoth, India, is years from surpassing China's population and decades from emerging as a potential economic peer.	北京——为自己国家的崛起加油鼓劲的中国民众，有时会用亚洲另一个大国印度的人口要在数年后才能超过中国，经济则要在数十年后才能成为中国潜在对手的想法安慰自己。
But Yi Fuxiang, a Chinese scientist based in Wisconsin, boldly challenged that assumption this week in Beijing. He laid out arguments that India may already be more populous than China, a view that has created a controversy about whose numbers to believe in forecasting China's demographic and economic destiny.	本周，在威斯康星州工作的中国科学家易富贤在北京大胆地质疑了这个假设。他列出了多个理由，认为印度人口可能已经超过了中国。这个观点引发了在预测中国的人口和经济命运时，谁的数据更可信的争议。
"India could become the No. 1 country," Mr. Yi, a medical expert and	"印度可能会成为第一大国，"医学专家、威斯康辛大学麦迪逊分校(University

population researcher at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, said in an interview. "There are many reasons, but population is the most important one."	of Wisconsin, Madison)人口问题研究员易富贤在接受采访时说。“原因有很多，但人口是最重要的原因。”
China's real population may be 1.29 billion people, 90 million fewer than the government's estimate of 1.38 billion in 2016, Mr. Yi told a meeting at Peking University on Monday, citing what he said were telltale inconsistencies among birthrate, hospital and school statistics. India's population, on the other hand, had grown to 1.33 billion in 2016, according to the United Nations.	周一在北京大学的一次会议上，易富贤说，中国的实际人口可能在 12.9 亿，比政府估计的 2016 年中国人口 13.8 亿少 9000 万。他给出的理由是，出生率以及医院和学校统计数据之间的差异显露了实情。而在另一方面，联合国的数据显示，2016 年印度人口已增至 13.3 亿。
"I want people to pay attention, because this is such a big issue for China," Mr. Yi said. He has long criticized China's family planning policies that emerged in the 1970s and took a draconian hold in the 1980s. "If so many aggregate numbers are wrong, so how can we make accurate predictions?"	“我想让人们注意，因为这对中国来说是一个大问题，”易富贤说。他长期批评中国的计划生育政策。该政策出台于 70 年代，80 年代严格执行。“如果这么多总数都是错的，我们怎么能做出正确的预测。”
Mr. Yi said that he was not just splitting statistical hairs. China's birthrate will determine the size of the work force sustaining its economy, and the data indicated that stagnation could occur in coming decades, he said.	易富贤表示，他不只是对统计数据吹毛求疵。他说，中国的出生率将决定维持其经济的劳动力的规模，并且相关数据显示，未来几十年可能还会出现经济增长的停滞。
Chinese main official population statistics have often masked a steep falloff in the birthrate, Mr. Yi said. Even more sobering, he said, President Xi Jinping's decision in 2015 to loosen the one child policy was too late and piecemeal to arrest a decline in birthrates, Mr. Yi said.	易富贤说，中国主要的官方人口统计数据通常都掩盖了出生率的大幅下降。他说，更严峻的是，中国国家主席习近平 2015 年放松一胎政策的决定为时已晚，对阻止出生率下降作用不大。
Family planning policies, sometimes enforced with sterilizations and abortions, have ended, but left a lasting imprint on policies and attitudes, Mr. Yi said.	易富贤说，有时采用绝育和堕胎方式来执行的计划生育政策已经结束了，但它对各种政策和人们的态度留下了持久的影响。

"We enforced the one-child policy for over three decades, and a swathe of economic and social policies came to center on one child," Mr. Yi said at Peking University, according to a Chinese transcript that he shared online.	发到网上的一份中文记录显示，易富贤在北京大学的会议上说，“我们实行了三十多年一胎政策，经济、社会各种政策都围绕着一个孩子。”
"Even if family planning stopped, habits die hard," he said. "Overall, our structure is where Japan was in 1992, and our economic waning will be a long-term trend."	"即便停止计划生育，这种惯性是很难改变的，"他说。"综合来说，我们目前正处于日本 92 年的结构，我们的经济下行将会是一个长期的趋势。"
Other demographers strongly disagree with Mr. Yi.	其他人口学专家强烈反对易富贤的观点。
His findings have not been published in a peer-reviewed journal. Some Chinese experts said that Mr. Yi overstated the problems in the official data, perhaps to fit his longstanding criticism of China's family planning controls.	尚没有同行评议期刊发表他的研究结果。一些中国专家认为，易富贤夸大了官方数据中存在的问题，或许是为了与他长期指责中国实行计划生育政策相符。
Some scoffed at the idea that China had essentially cooked data to create a phantom population almost as big as Henan Province, which has 94 million people.	一些人嘲笑中国篡改数据本质上是为了制造一个几乎与人口 9400 万的河南省相当的影子人口这个观点。
"I think that the numbers from the National Bureau of Statistics are quite reliable," said Lu Jiehua, a population researcher at Peking University, referring to the birthrate estimates.	"我觉得国家统计局的数字相对比较可信，"北京大学研究人口问题的学者陆杰华指的是对出生率的估计。
"As well, what would their motive be for faking on a major scale?" Mr. Lu said. "Being totally dismissive is not objective or scientific."	"另外，他们有什么大幅度造假的动机呢？"陆杰华说。"全面否定不客观不科学吧。"
This debate has broad implications, but it will also be fought over seemingly slight differences in assumptions and data that population scientists use to study trends.	这场争论影响广泛，但人口专家用来研究趋势的假设和数据中出现的看似细微的差异，也会引发这种争论。
That would be a sensitive issue in any society, but in countries like China and India, which are plowing through tumultuous industrial and	在任何社会，这都是一个敏感问题，但在中国和印度这种正在经历动荡的产业变革和社会变革的国家，难度更大。并且易富贤说，中国官员通过篡改数

social changes, it's even more difficult. And Chinese officials' habit of massaging data to show their policies in the best light added distortions, Mr. Yi said.	据来彰显政策高明的习惯，加剧了数据的失实。
China's official birthrate — the average number of children born by each woman — is much lower than the rate given in state statistics, he said. China's fertility rate in 2015 fell to 1.05 births per woman, far lower than the rate of up to 1.64 births per woman estimated by China's National Health and Family Planning Commission, he said in a PowerPoint presentation at Peking University. The commission did not reply to questions faxed to them about Mr. Yi's claims.	他说，中国真实的生育率，即平均每个女性生育的孩子数量，远低于官方统计数据给出的出生率。易富贤在北京大学开会时演示的幻灯片中说，中国的生育率在2015年跌至每个女性生育1.05个孩子，远低于国家卫生和计划生育委员会估计的每个女性生育1.64个孩子。国家卫计委没有回复记者通过传真发送的有关易富贤相关说法的提问。
China's demographic stagnation could be worse than Japan's, he argued. Chinese women show less desire to have more than one child and China has not built a robust welfare net that can protect older Chinese.	易富贤认为，中国的人口停滞情况可能比日本更严重。中国女性对生育多个孩子的欲望降低，并且中国没有建立起一个强大的福利系统，保护上了年纪的人。
"Young people don't want to have one child, let alone two children," he said. "In the future, it will be very hard to achieve an increase."	"年轻人不想生孩子，更别说两个孩子了，"他说。"将来，很难实现增长。"
But some demographers said Mr. Yi appeared to underestimate the ability of Chinese statisticians to reach reasonably accurate estimates.	但一些人口学专家表示，易富贤似乎低估了中国统计学专家做出比较准确估计的能力。
"The numbers from the National Health and Family Planning Commission are derived from hospital childbirth statistics," said Liu Hongyan, a researcher at the China Population and Development Research Center, a government institute in Beijing. "In recent years the rate of hospital births has been quite high, up to 97-98 percent, so I think those numbers from the hospitals are quite solid."	"国家卫计委的数字是通过住院分娩统计数字算出来的，"设在北京的政府机构中国人口与发展研究中心的研究员刘红燕说。"最近几年中国的住院分娩率比较高，达到97-98%，我认为通过住院分娩数字报上来的数据比较可信。"
In India, too, Mr. Yi's findings were met with raised eyebrows.	在印度，易富贤的研究结果也遭到了质疑。

K.S. James, a professor of population studies at Jawaharlal Nehru University in New Delhi, said it was unlikely that population estimates were so off that India had already overtaken China. That will happen in the coming years, he said.	新德里新德里尼赫鲁大学(Jawaharlal Nehru University)研究人口问题的教授 K·S·詹姆斯(K.S. James)说,不太可能出现印度人口已经超过中国这种如此严重的估算出错情况。他表示,印度人口超越中国的情况未来几年有可能出现。
Indian people born 20 years ago “will be getting married now,” Mr. James said. “The population will grow for the next 30 to 40 years.”	20年前出生的印度人“现在快结婚了”,詹姆斯说。“接下来的30到40年里,人口会增加。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170525/china-india-population	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170525/china-india-population
Chinese Fashion Designers Flock to City of T-Shirts and Flip-Flops	T恤人字拖的厦门也是时尚之都
XIAMEN, China — In the seven years she lived in Beijing, Vega Zaishi Wang started her eponymous label and made her name as one of China’s top young fashion designers.	中国厦门——王在实(Vega Zaishi Wang)在北京生活的七年里,不仅开创了同名的时装品牌,还跻身中国顶尖的年轻时装设计师之列。
But the capital city’s grueling pace of life — the media, the parties, the pollution, the cost of living — was taking its toll. She struggled with depression so oppressive she named her 2014 autumn/winter collection “The Dark Night of the Soul.”	但首都的生活节奏很磨人,媒体、派对、污染、生活成本……都在侵蚀着她的生活。她与抑郁症的斗争太压抑,以至于把自己2014秋冬系列命名为“灵魂暗夜”。
And so, last September, Ms. Wang finally made her escape. Like a bird in search of warmer climes, she fled south to Xiamen, a coastal city between Hong Kong and Shanghai. She set up a studio in a four-story mansion in a quiet neighborhood on Xiamen Island, just a short walk from the beach.	于是去年9月,王在实终于选择了逃离。她像一只寻找温暖气候区的小鸟一样,南下来到地处香港和上海之间的沿海城市厦门。在厦门岛上一个安静地段,在一栋距离海边几步之遥的四层小楼里成立了工作室。
On a recent sunny afternoon, an ocean breeze blew in through the studio’s open windows. Gritty Beijing, so often blanketed in smog and traffic, felt like a world away.	不久前一个阳光明媚的下午,海风轻轻地从工作室开着的窗户吹进来。空气里弥漫着沙尘且经常出现雾霾天气和交通拥堵的北京,感觉像是在世界的另一头。
“In Beijing, there was no such thing as work-life balance,” said Ms. Wang, 32, settling into a vintage raspberry-colored leather armchair.	“在北京,没有工作和生活平衡这种东西,”32岁的王在实坐在一把老式的树莓色皮质扶手椅里说。“但在厦门这里,我可以放慢节奏,专注于自己的系

"But here in Xiamen, I can slow down my pace and focus on my collections. I'm much happier here."	列。在这里，我开心多了。”
In moving to Xiamen, Ms. Wang became the latest addition to a small but robust community of up-and-coming young Chinese fashion designers who have forgone the glamour of cosmopolitan Shanghai and Beijing in favor of off-the-beaten-path Xiamen.	一批颇有前途的中国服装设计师纷纷放弃上海和北京的都市魅力，选择了不甚有名的厦门。这个群体虽小，但却充满活力。移居厦门的行动，让王在实成了他们中的最新一员。
Known as the "Xiamen gang," these designers — whose aesthetics range from elevated street wear to high-end fashion — are beloved by fashionistas from Beijing to Hong Kong. Their creations have been promenaded on the elite catwalks of London and Paris fashion weeks and have even inspired numerous knockoffs on Chinese e-commerce platforms like Alibaba's Taobao.	被称作“厦门帮”的这些设计师，深受从北京到香港的时尚达人的喜爱。他们的美学涉及的范围广泛，从高端街头休闲服装到高档时装。他们的作品登上了伦敦和巴黎时装周，中国的电商平台，如阿里巴巴旗下的淘宝上甚至出现了大量仿品。
In addition to Ms. Wang, their ranks include designers like Shangguan Zhe of Sankuanz and Liu Min of Ms Min. All three were featured last year in Opening Ceremony's "Year of China," for which the influential New York-based fashion retailer highlighted a select group of emerging Chinese designers.	除了王在实，这一群人还包括 Sankuanz 的设计师上官喆和 Ms Min 的设计师刘旻。去年，这三位设计师的作品都在开幕式(Opening Ceremony)的中国年上亮相。开幕式是很有影响力的纽约时装零售公司，它着重推出了几位精选的中国新秀设计师的作品。
Together, the designers are behind some of the most cutting-edge fashion trends coming out of China. That strikes many as curious, given they are working out of a city where the concept of fashion seems to be an afterthought.	这些设计师是中国最前卫的一些时尚潮流的幕后人物。这令很多人感到奇怪，因为他们的大本营是一个时尚概念似乎无足轻重的城市。
"Xiamen is a place that doesn't have any fashion," said Dido Liu, founder of the Xiamen-based brand Deepmoss. "It's so hot, most people just go out wearing T-shirts, shorts and flip-flops."	“厦门没有时尚，”厦门品牌 Deepmoss 的创始人刘小路(Dido Liu)说。“这儿太热了，大部分人出门只穿T恤、短裤和人字拖。”
The term "chill" comes up often in discussions about Xiamen. Visitors to	在关于厦门的讨论中，经常出现“轻松”这个概念。游客们沿着两侧满是恢宏

the city stroll along boulevards lined with stately colonial buildings, the legacy of 19th-century European traders who once frequented the port of Xiamen — then known as Amoy — looking to exchange sugar and opium for Chinese tea and porcelain.	的殖民地风格建筑的大道散步。那是 19 世纪欧洲商人的遗迹，他们一度经常光顾厦门港，用糖和鸦片交换中国的茶叶和瓷器。
The more adventurous wander through Bashi, the bustling seafood market where fishermen drop off their daily hauls, or meander around Shapowei, a local art zone that comes alive at night with skateboarders and small vendors selling handmade jewelry and crafts. (Thank You Cafe in Shapowei, started by the designer Cotton Yu of Mymymy, is a favorite watering hole for the fashion gang.)	更爱猎奇的游客在热闹的海鲜市场“八市”闲逛——渔民们把每天捕到的海鲜运到这里——或者在当地艺术区沙坡尾漫步，那里到了晚上生机勃勃，充满滑板爱好者和售卖手工珠宝和工艺品的小贩（沙坡尾的 Thank You Cafe 咖啡馆是 Mymymy 的设计师于静[Cotton Yu]开设的，它是时尚业界人士青睐的酒吧）。
Residents often converse in Hokkien, the dialect native to the Fujian region. In language, culture and atmosphere, the city more closely resembles Taiwan, which is within swimming distance of Xiamen, than the frenetic metropolises of Beijing and Shanghai to the north.	当地居民经常用闽南话交谈——闽南话是福建的方言。这座城市在语言、文化和氛围上更接近台湾——从厦门游泳就能到达台湾——而不太像北边的北京和上海这类有着疯狂节奏的大都市。
But it is precisely Xiamen’s laid-back vibe that attracts designers like Ms. Liu. The harbor city of almost four million consistently ranks near the top in lists of most livable cities in China. Couples from around China flock to Xiamen to take romantic photos on the island’s beaches.	不过，正是厦门悠闲的氛围吸引了刘旻这样的设计师。这座拥有近 400 万居民的港口城市一直名列中国宜居城市排行榜前列。中国各地的情侣们蜂拥来到厦门，在小岛的沙滩上拍摄浪漫照片。
And what the city may lack in fashion sense, it more than makes up for with its abundant greenery, waterside cafe culture, and vibrant culinary scene. Here, an idea of a good night out means squeezing into a dimly lit hole-in-the-wall restaurant and feasting on fresh seafood and cold beer.	这座城市可能缺乏时尚感，但它茂盛的绿色植被、滨海的咖啡馆文化，以及生机勃勃的美食文化大大弥补了这一点。这里美好的夜生活就是挤进一家灯光灰暗的小餐馆，尽情享受新鲜的海鲜和凉爽的啤酒。
“Xiamen is one of those rare cities where you can work really hard and get a lot done but you can also relax,” said Ian Hylton, the president of	“厦门是几个罕见的城市之一，你在这里可以非常努力地工作，完成很多事情，但你也可以放松，”Ms Min 的首席执行官、前宝姿(Ports)男装创意总监

Ms Min and former creative director of men's wear for Ports, which maintains its China headquarters in Xiamen.	伊恩·希尔顿(Ian Hylton)说。宝姿的中国总部就在厦门。
Unlike Ms. Wang, who sought out Xiamen as a refuge, the other designers in the so-called Xiamen gang settled here more by circumstance. Many, including Mr. Zhe, Ms. Liu of Deepmoss and Ms. Liu of Ms Min, grew up in the region.	王在实是为了远离喧嚣而来到厦门的，而厦门帮的其他设计师生活在这里则更多的是环境使然。他们中的很多人在这个地区长大，包括上官喆、刘小路和刘旻。
But what keeps them here is more than inertia. Work-life balance aside, there are concrete incentives to running a fashion label out of Xiamen. For one, the operation costs can be much lower in Xiamen than in Shanghai, China's de facto fashion capital, and Beijing, the nexus of China's fashion media.	但把他们留在这里的不只是惰性。除了能获得工作和生活的平衡，在厦门经营一个时装品牌还有一些具体的动力。比如，厦门的运营成本要比上海和北京低得多。上海是中国事实上的时尚之都，北京则是中国时尚媒体的大本营。
Ms. Wang estimated that she paid about one-quarter of what she would pay to rent a comparable studio space in Beijing. Skilled employees, like machinists, can also be easier to find, given the region's history as a garment manufacturing hub.	据王在实估计，她在厦门租一个面积相同的工作室所支付的租金是在北京的约四分之一。在这里，也更容易找到熟练工人，比如机械工，因为该地区有着作为服装制作业中心的历史。
Local designers can also apply for generous rent subsidies from the Xiamen city government, which has been eager to promote the city's image as a contemporary fashion hub.	当地设计师还可以从厦门市政府申请丰厚的租金补贴。该市政府渴望推广该市作为当代时尚中心的形象。
But taking government subsidies can come with challenges. Designers are often pressured by officials to participate in local government-sponsored fashion events. Accepting the benefits also subjects designers to strict regulations that often don't take into account the nuances of the fashion design business.	不过，接受政府的补贴也带有一些挑战。设计师们经常迫于官员们的压力，去参加当地政府赞助的一些时尚活动。设计师接受补贴后也不得不遵守一些严格的规定，那些规定往往不考虑时装设计行业的具体情况。
The designer Wan Yifang discovered that reality recently when local officials seized on the sewing machines in her small subsidized studio	前不久，设计师万一方就经历了这种情况，当地官员指出，她接受补贴的小工作室所用的缝纫机有违该大楼禁止生产的消防规定。

space as a violation of the building's fire code prohibiting production.
"The government doesn't really know what it's doing," said Ms. Wan, who is currently looking for a new studio. "Design studios are really a new thing for them. They've never thought about how to differentiate between large-scale manufacturers and small design studios."	"政府也不是太了解情况，"万一方说。眼下，她正在寻找新的工作室。"对他们来说，设计工作室真的是个新鲜事物。他们从来没想到如何区别对待规模生产企业和小设计工作室。"
Still, such drawbacks are minimal when compared with the city's relaxed lifestyle and many conveniences. The ease of communication platforms like Tencent's WeChat and the frequency of flights out of Xiamen have further bridged the gap, allowing local designers to tap into what has become a fast-moving fashion revolution in China, a country that just one generation ago had little option but to wear somber-colored Mao suits.	不过，与这座城市轻松的生活方式和许多便利条件相比，这些缺陷微不足道。微信等便捷的沟通平台以及厦门繁忙的航班进一步弥补了隔阂，使得当地设计师可以融入中国快速发展的时尚革命。仅在约 25 年前，中国人几乎没什么选择，只能穿颜色灰暗的中山装。
"Fashion in China moves so quickly," said Timothy Parent, founder of China Fashion Bloggers, a blog about Chinese fashion. "In just a few decades, the concept of 'made in China' has become 'designed in China.' Instead of producing clothes, more and more people now want to create and design them."	"中国的时尚业发展得非常迅速，"关于中国时尚的博客 China Fashion Bloggers 的创始人蒂莫西·帕伦特(Timothy Parent)说。"就在这几十年里，'中国制造'的概念已经变成了'中国设计'。现在，越来越多的中国人不再只是生产服装，而是想创造和设计服装。"
As a result, a growing number of young Chinese fashion designers are rising to the fore. Many, like Ms. Wang and Ms. Wan, are returning home after studying abroad at prestigious institutes like Central St. Martin's in London, bringing with them a unique design language that fuses a multitude of influences and cultures.	结果，越来越多的中国年轻服装设计师涌现出来。其中很多人——比如王在实和万一方——是在国外著名学院学成回国的，比如伦敦的中央圣马丁学院(Central St. Martin's)，他们带回了独特的设计语言，融合了各种影响和文化。
"These days, Chinese designers are more international," said Mr. Zhe, who created Sankuanz in 2008 and has since mentored many young local designers. "But of course, the sense of nationality — that sense of	"如今的中国设计师更加国际化，"上官喆说。他于 2008 年创立了 Sankuanz，后来指导了很多当地的年轻设计师。"当然，民族感，也就是身为中国人的感觉，很难摆脱。" being Chinese — can be difficult to shake off.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170525/chinese-fashion-designers-flock-to-city-of-t-shirts-and-flip-flops	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170525/chinese-fashion-designers-flock-to-city-of-t-shirts-and-flip-flops
Court Ruling Could Make Taiwan First Place in Asia to Legalize Gay Marriage	台湾将成亚洲首个同性婚姻合法化地区
TAIPEI, Taiwan — In a ruling that paves the way for Taiwan to become the first place in Asia to recognize same-sex marriage, the constitutional court on Wednesday struck down the Civil Code’s definition of marriage as being only between a man and a woman.	台湾台北——周三，台湾宪法法庭作出释宪，推翻了《民法》将婚姻仅视为在男女之间有效的定义，为台湾成为亚洲第一个承认同性婚姻的地方铺平了道路。
The legislature now has two years either to amend the Civil Code or to enact laws addressing same-sex couples.	立法机关现在有两年的时间修改《民法》，或是制定针对同性恋配偶的法律。
If the legislature fails to pass an amendment or legislation in the next two years, same-sex couples “shall be allowed to have their marriage registration effectuated at the authorities in charge of household registration,” the court wrote in a news release.	法庭在新闻稿中写道，如果立法机关未来两年的修订案或者立法没有通过，那么同性伴侣“可向户政机关办理结婚之登记”。
When the ruling was announced, cheers broke out among the hundreds of supporters who had gathered outside the legislature, monitoring developments on a big-screen television.	该释宪宣布后，数以百计在立法机关外观看大屏幕电视直播的支持者爆发出欢呼声。
“Everyone is very happy,” said Woody Wang, president of Taiwan LGBT Family Rights Advocacy. “We don’t want to see the legislature dither on this.”	“每个人都非常开心。”台湾同性恋家庭权利倡导者伍迪·王(Woody Wang)表示：“我们不想看立法机关动摇。”
Cindy Su, of the Lobby Alliance for LGBT Human Rights, said she was “excited and proud” of the court’s ruling, but also eager to see legislation passed as soon as possible. “We hope that we don’t have to wait another two years before we can get married,” said Ms. Su, whose	同志人权法案游说联盟的辛迪·苏(Cindy Su)说，她对法院的裁决感到“兴奋和骄傲”，但也渴望尽快通过立法。苏说，“我们希望不用再等待两年才能结婚。”她与加拿大伴侣的婚姻在台湾无法获得承认。

marriage to her partner in Canada was not recognized in Taiwan.
The court's ruling came in response to two petitions to review the current law, one brought by Chi Chia-wei, a longtime gay rights campaigner. Mr. Chi favors amending the Civil Code to define marriage as a union of two spouses, arguing that a separate marriage law for gays and lesbians would be unacceptable.	该法庭是在收到要求重审现行法律的两个申请后作出这个释宪的，其中一个申请者是资深同性恋权利运动人士祁家威。祁家威赞成修改《民法》，将婚姻定义为两个配偶的结合，他认为，针对男女同性恋分别制定婚姻法是不可接受的。
"For us, there is only one choice," Mr. Chi said in an interview, adding that separate laws for same-sex couples would be "a total disaster."	"对我们来说，只有一个选择，"祁家威在接受采访时表示，为同性结合制定一部单独的法律将是"一场灾难"。
The second petition for a review was brought by the city government of Taipei, the capital, which was sued after rejecting marriage applications from same-sex couples.	第二个申请者是台湾首府台北的市政府，它在拒绝批准同性伴侣的婚姻申请后遭到了起诉。
The ruling of the court, formally known as the Council of Grand Justices, came as bills to legalize same-sex marriage have stalled after passing an initial reading late last year. The current legislative session ends on May 31, and the next session opens in September.	这个正式名字叫司法院大法官的机构作出释宪之际，正值多项意在让同性婚姻合法化的议案在通过去年年底的初读后陷入停滞。当前的立法会议周期将于5月31日结束，下一个周期将于9月开始。
"I think it's an important and monumental decision," said Hsu Yu-jen, a lawmaker for the opposition Kuomintang who sponsored a same-sex marriage bill. "And I want to urge the president and my colleagues in the Legislative Yuan to move ahead with this and show Taiwan's progressive values to the world."	"我认为这是一个重要的、有重要意义的裁决，"发起过一项同性婚姻议案的在野党国民党立委许毓仁(Hsu Yu-jen)说。"我想呼吁总统和立法院的同仁推进这个裁决，向世界展示台湾进步的价值观。"
With local elections in 2018 and a presidential election in 2020, Mr. Hsu said that the governing Democratic Progressive Party may be hesitant to push same-sex marriage legislation, which has been met with strong opposition from conservative groups and churches in central and southern Taiwan.	鉴于地方选举和总统大选将分别于2018年和2020年举行，许毓仁说，执政的民进党可能不愿推动遭到了保守派团体，以及台湾中部和南部教会强烈反对的同性婚姻立法。

President Tsai Ing-wen, who took office last year, had declared her support for same-sex marriage during the election campaign, saying, "In the face of love, everyone is equal." Since then, however, Ms. Tsai has yet to throw much political capital behind the issue. When Taipei's streets were occupied by rallies both for and against same-sex marriage in November and December, her silence surprised some who had seen her as an ally.	去年上台的总统蔡英文(Tsai Ing-wen)曾在竞选期间宣布自己支持同性婚姻，称“在爱之前，大家都是平等的”。然而，自那以后，蔡英文并没有给这个问题提供多少政治支持。去年11月和12月，当台北街头被支持和反对同性婚姻的集会占领时，她的沉默令一些视她为盟友的人大吃一惊。
Responding to a question about her expectations for the legalization of same-sex marriage at a Dec. 31 meeting with local and foreign journalists, Ms. Tsai said she believed that Taiwan's handling of the issue would be "a test of the maturity of our society."	12月31日，蔡英文同台湾和国外的记者见面。在回答有关她对同性婚姻合法化期望的问题时，蔡英文说她认为台湾对这个问题的处理会“测试台湾的成熟度”。
The apparent momentum that the same-sex marriage bills enjoyed at the end of last year dissipated this spring, after groups opposed to the bills threatened to mobilize voters against lawmakers who supported the other side. The announcement in February that the constitutional court would hear the petitions filed by Mr. Chi and the Taipei government effectively allowed wary lawmakers to postpone dealing with the issue.	今年春天，在多个反对同性婚姻议案的团体威胁要动员选民反对支持议案的立委后，相关议案去年表现出来的势头逐渐消失。实际上，2月发出的有关宪法法院会审理祁家威和台北政府所提申请的公告，让唯恐受影响的立委得以推迟处理这个问题。
For Mr. Chi, who was arrested in 1986 after publicly declaring that he was gay while Taiwan was still under martial law, the ruling on Wednesday was another step in a decades-long campaign for greater rights.	对祁家威来说，周三的释宪是为争取更广泛权利而展开的数十年斗争中取得的又一个进步。1986年，祁家威在公开宣布自己是同性恋后被捕，当时台湾仍处在戒严时期。
"In Asia, every country's situation is different," he said. "But this should certainly offer some encouragement to different societies to consider following in Taiwan's footsteps and giving gays and lesbians the right to	"在亚洲，各国的情况都不一样，"他说。"但这肯定会给不同的社会一些鼓励，促使它们考虑跟随台湾的脚步，赋予男女同性恋结婚的权利。" marry.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170525/taiwan-same-sex-marriage-court	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170525/taiwan-same-sex-marriage-court
Review: ‘Joshua: Teenager vs. Superpower,’ a War That Isn’t Fiction	少年 VS 超级大国：黄之锋和他的抗争故事
“Joshua: Teenager vs. Superpower” has the three things any action movie needs: a valiant hero, a mighty enemy and a catchy title. That it’s a documentary only makes the story more involving – and more worrisome – than most fictions.	《黄之锋：少年 VS 超级大国》(Joshua: Teenager vs. Superpower)具备任何动作片都需要的三个要素：一个勇敢的英雄、一个强大的敌人和一个让人过目难忘的片名。是一部纪录片这一点，只会让它比大部分虚构的故事更吸引人，也更令人担心。
The real-life lead here is Joshua Wong, who, as a 14-year-old in Hong Kong, made a breathtakingly brave stand against the Chinese government, which in 2012 began to institute a pro-Communist education program in that territory. China had taken control of Hong Kong in 1997 and had promised it autonomy, a vow that had weakened over time and would be violated further by the school proposal.	现实生活中的主角叫黄之锋(Joshua Wong)，香港人，在 14 岁时就异常勇敢地反抗中国政府。后者 2012 年开始在香港开设一门亲共产主义的教育课程。中国 1997 年取得对香港的控制权，并承诺它实行自治。但这个承诺已随着时间的推移而动摇，并会遭到该教育提议的进一步破坏。
Mr. Wong and the organization he founded, Scholarism, recruited supporters (“If you want to defeat Darth Vader, then you have to train some Jedi,” one early member says), distributed leaflets and then occupied the square outside the Hong Kong government headquarters to protest the Chinese plan.	黄之锋和他建立的组织学民思潮(Scholarism)招募支持者（“要想打败黑武士，就要训练一些绝地武士，”一名早期成员说），发放传单，后来占领了香港政府总部外面的广场，以抗议中国的计划。
At first, the ragtag group numbered 10 or 20. “There seems to be no hope,” Mr. Wong recalled feeling. “But a miracle happened.” Within days, the crowd grew to over 100,000, many inspired by Mr. Wong’s speaking skills.	起初，这个组织散漫的团体只有 10 个或 20 个成员。“似乎没有希望，”黄之锋回忆当时的感受说道。“但奇迹发生了。”在几天时间里，人员规模增加到了逾 10 万人，很多是受了黄之锋演讲技巧的鼓舞。
To put this skinny young man onstage is to see him turn instantly captivating: Mr. Wong is energetic but composed, determined yet	把这个消瘦的年轻人放到台上后，你会发现他立刻变得魅力十足：黄之锋精力旺盛又神态镇静，态度坚决但注重实际。他质疑香港领导人的场景本身就

realistic. Scenes in which he questions Hong Kong's leader are bold on their own. When you consider that Mr. Wong was only a teenager at the time, they are astonishing. It's as if he had been "doing this for, like, 20 years," one interviewee says. That's an understatement.	很大胆。想到黄之锋当时只是一名少年时，它们令人震惊。像是他“做这件事情已经有，比如20年了一样”，一名受访者说。这是保守的说法。
Joe Piscatella, the director, dives in immediately to set a speedy pace. He also provides a quick summary of Hong Kong's recent history, and looks to the future. After the education controversy ends — no spoilers for those unfamiliar with the outcome — Scholarism joins a protest over Beijing's intervention in elections, then prepares to run candidates of its own.	导演乔·皮斯卡泰拉(Joe Piscatella)马上开始加快节奏。他还快速总结了香港的近代历史，并展望了未来。教育争议结束后——在这里就不向那些不熟悉事情结果的人透露剧情了——学者加入反对北京干预选举的抗议，然后又准备自己竞选。
Through it all, we see Mr. Wong and his group come of age. As their battles intensify, things grow complicated, and threats are always present: Some activists confronting China have found themselves on trial or have just "disappeared."	在整个观影过程中，我们看着黄之锋和他的组织越来越成熟。随着斗争变得激烈，情况也复杂起来，威胁始终存在：一些反抗中国的活动人士出庭受审或是突然“失踪”了。
"Teenager vs. Superpower," which won an audience award at the Sundance Film Festival, ends the way most action movies don't — with hero and villain still battling. Yet amid the fight, there's a sense of hope as we watch one tough kid turning into one tough man. With luck, that will lead to a sequel.	在圣丹斯电影节(Sundance Film Festival)上获得一个观众奖项的《黄之锋：少年 VS 超级大国》结束的方式不同于大部分动作片：英雄与反派的战斗仍在继续。但在这场斗争中，看到一个坚毅的小孩变成一个坚毅的男人时，我们感觉到了希望。如果顺利的话，还会有续集。
Joshua: Teenager vs. Superpower	片名：《黄之锋：少年 VS 超级大国》
Director Joe Piscatella	导演：乔·皮斯卡泰拉
Running Time 1h 19m	时长：1 小时 19 分钟
Genre Documentary	影片类型：纪录片
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170526/c26joshua	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170526/c26joshua
Google's A.I. Program Rattles Chinese Go Master as It Wins Match	国手柯洁情绪波动，再次输给“冷血”的人工智能

HONG KONG — It's all over for humanity — at least in the game of Go.	香港——人类全完了，至少在围棋上是这样。
For the second game in a row, a Google computer program called AlphaGo beat the world's best player of what many consider the world's most sophisticated board game. AlphaGo is scheduled to play its human opponent, the 19-year-old Chinese prodigy Ke Jie, one more time on Saturday in the best-of-three contest.	名为 AlphaGo 的谷歌计算机程序连续在第二局比赛中获胜，击败了世界上最好的围棋选手，许多人认为围棋是世界上最巧妙复杂的游戏。按照事先的安排，AlphaGo 将在周六与其人类对手、19 岁的中国围棋神童柯洁在这次三局两胜制比赛中再次较量。
But with a score of 2-0 heading into that final game, and earlier victories against other opponents already on the books, AlphaGo has proved its superiority.	但由于以 2 比 0 的比分进入最后一局比赛，加上以前击败其他对手的纪录，AlphaGo 已经证明了自己的优越性。
Discussing the contest afterward, Mr. Ke said a very human element got the better of him: his emotions. In the middle of the game, when he thought he might have had a chance at winning, he got too keyed up, he said.	柯洁在事后谈到这局比赛时说，一个非常人类的因素让他失误：他的情绪。他说，在棋局中间，当他觉得自己可能有获胜的机会时，变得过于紧张。
"I was very excited. I could feel my heart bumping," Mr. Ke said after the contest, which took place in Wuzhen, near Shanghai. "Maybe because I was too excited I made some stupid moves."	"我太紧张了，心跳太快，"柯洁在第二局比赛结束后说，比赛是上海附近的乌镇进行的。"因为太紧张的缘故，下了一些不好的棋。"
"Maybe that's the weakest part of human beings," he added.	"我觉得这可能是人类的弱点，"他补充说。
AlphaGo's victory on Thursday simply reinforced the progress and power of artificial intelligence to handle specific but highly complex tasks. Because of the sheer number of possible moves in Go, computer scientists thought until recently that it would be a decade before a machine could play better than a human master.	AlphaGo 周四的胜利，只是进一步加强了人工智能在处理具体但非常复杂的任务上取得的进步和展现的能力。由于围棋中数量巨大的布子可能性，计算机科学家直到最近都认为，机器能战胜人类高手还需要十年的时间。
A small consolation for Mr. Ke was that he played a near-perfect game for the first hundred moves, according to the scientists who designed AlphaGo.	柯洁得到的一个小小的安慰是，他的前 100 步棋下得近乎完美，据设计 AlphaGo 的科学家说。

Still, like a sprinter who can at first keep pace with a train, in the end Mr. Ke was left in the dust by the computer.	尽管如此，就像一名短跑运动员在刚开始时能够跑得比火车快一样，柯洁最后还是被计算机击败了。
Demis Hassabis, the co-founder of DeepMind — the artificial intelligence arm of Google’s parent, Alphabet Incorporated, that created the software — said that as he watched how close the game was, his pulse rate went up as well.	AlphaGo 是 Google 母公司 Alphabet 旗下的人工智能部门 DeepMind 研发的，DeepMind 的联合创始人戴米斯·哈萨比斯(Demis Hassabis)说，他看到棋局最势均力敌时，自己心跳的速度也加快了。
AlphaGo of course has no heart and feels no nerves, and in the end that may have helped make the difference. Scientists and futurists have pointed to that cold focus as a major reason artificial intelligence may someday take over large numbers of white-collar jobs. Still, that detachment means AlphaGo lacks the human touch required to manage employees, counsel patients or adequately write flowing newspaper features about its own dominance over humans.	AlphaGo 当然没有心脏，也没有紧张感，这最终也许有助于决定胜负。科学家及未来学家指出，能冷漠无情地集中注意力，是人工智能也许有朝一日取代大量白领工作的一个主要原因。然而，这种超然意味着 AlphaGo 不具某些工作所需的人情味，比如管理员工、为患者提供咨询，或者以足够优美的文笔写出关于自己支配人类的长篇报告文学。
Tests of the technology in games like Go still mark an early step. Because the strategy options are limited to moves on a board, games like Go are particularly suited to the technology.	在围棋这样的游戏中测试人工智能技术仍仅仅是个开端。由于其中的战略选择只限于棋盘上的步骤，围棋这样的游戏特别适合于这种技术。
Computer scientists say that often the best use of artificial intelligence is not to pit it against humans, but to pair it with them.	计算机科学家说，人工智能的最佳用途，往往不是让其与人类较量，而是让其与人类配合。
To that end, two Go professionals, each partnered with AlphaGo, are scheduled to play against each other on Friday. Mr. Hassabis has said that top amateur Go players, with the help of AlphaGo, can generally manage to beat the software program in a match. In short, a human with a computer is still stronger than a computer.	为此目的，周五将安排两名各自有 AlphaGo 配合的专业围棋手对决。哈萨比斯曾表示，得到 AlphaGo 帮助的顶级业余围棋手，通常可以在比赛中打败该软件程序。简言之，有计算机帮助的人仍比计算机强。
Ke Jie has said that after the third game on Saturday, he will return to focusing on playing against humans, and is not likely to take on a	柯洁表示，周六的第三局比赛之后，他将把精力返回到与人类棋手较量上来，不太可能再次挑战机器，他认为人工智能技术已变得过于强大。 computer again, arguing that the technology has become too formidable.

"After this time, AlphaGo to me is 100 percent perfection, to me AlphaGo is the god of the Go game," he said after the game on Thursday.	"这局棋后，AlphaGo 在我眼里十全十美，对我来说，它就是围棋上帝，"他在周四的比赛之后说。
"For human beings," he added, "our understanding of this game is only very limited."	他补充说，"对人类来说，我们对围棋的认识非常有限。" https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170526/google-beats-ke-in-go	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170526/google-beats-ke-in-go
Is China Outsmarting America in A.I.?	人工智能的竞赛，中国超越美国？
HONG KONG — Sören Schwertfeger finished his postdoctorate research on autonomous robots in Germany, and seemed set to go to Europe or the United States, where artificial intelligence was pioneered and established.	香港——师泽仁(Sören Schwertfeger)在德国完成了有关自主机器人的博士后研究，按理来说，接下来他应该会去人工智能研究比较领先和成熟的欧洲或美国。
Instead, he went to China.	但他没有。他去了中国。
"You couldn't have started a lab like mine elsewhere," Mr. Schwertfeger said.	"在其他地方，你建不了我这样的实验室，"师泽仁说。
The balance of power in technology is shifting. China, which for years watched enviously as the West invented the software and the chips powering today's digital age, has become a major player in artificial intelligence, what some think may be the most important technology of the future. Experts widely believe China is only a step behind the United States.	科技领域的力量平衡正在发生改变。中国多年来一直羡慕地看着西方发明驱动这个数字时代的软件与芯片，如今，它也成了人工智能领域的一个重要玩家——有人认为这或许会是未来最重要的技术。专家们普遍认为，中国距离美国只有一步之遥。
China's ambitions mingle the most far-out sci-fi ideas with the needs of an authoritarian state: Philip K. Dick meets George Orwell. There are plans to use it to predict crimes, lend money, track people on the	中国的野心将最遥不可及的科幻观念与一个威权国家的需求结合起来：菲利普·K·迪克(Philip K. Dick)遇到乔治·奥威尔(George Orwell)。他们计划利用这项技术预测犯罪行为、协助发放贷款、通过无所不在的闭路摄像头追求人们

country's ubiquitous closed-circuit cameras, alleviate traffic jams, create self-guided missiles and censor the internet.	的踪迹、缓解交通堵塞、制造自导导弹，以及审查互联网内容。
Beijing is backing its artificial intelligence push with vast sums of money. Having already spent billions on research programs, China is readying a new multibillion-dollar initiative to fund moonshot projects, start-ups and academic research, all with the aim of growing China's A.I. capabilities, according to two professors who consulted with the government on the plan.	北京正在投入大笔资金支持人工智能的发展。在之前几十亿美元投资的基础上，中国又在为一个数十亿美元的新计划做准备。这些资金将用来资助登月项目、创业公司和学术研究，目标都是增强中国的人工智能能力，该消息来自两名在这项计划上为政府提供建议的教授。
China's private companies are pushing deeply into the field as well, though the line between government and private in China sometimes blurs. Baidu — often called the Google of China and a pioneer in artificial-intelligence-related fields, like speech recognition — this year opened a joint company-government laboratory partly run by academics who once worked on research into Chinese military robots.	中国的私营企业也在逐渐深入这个领域，尽管在中国，政府与私营企业之间的界限有时会有些模糊。百度是人工智能相关领域的一个先驱——比如语音识别——它常被称为中国的谷歌。今年它与政府联合成立了一个实验室，其中有一部分负责人是曾经从事中国军用机器人研究的学者。
China is spending more just as the United States cuts back. This past week, the Trump administration released a proposed budget that would slash funding for a variety of government agencies that have traditionally backed artificial intelligence research.	在中国加大投资的同时，美国却在削减开支。上周，特朗普政府发布了一份预算案，将削减一直为人工智能研究提供支持的多个政府机构的资金。
"It's a race in the new generation of computing," said James Lewis, a senior fellow at the Center for Strategic and International Studies. "The difference is that China seems to think it's a race and America doesn't."	"新一代计算的竞争正在进行，"国际战略研究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)高级研究员詹姆斯·刘易斯(James Lewis)说。"区别在于中国似乎认为这是一场竞赛，美国却不这么认为。"
For Mr. Schwertfeger, the money mattered. He received a grant six times larger than what he might have gotten in Europe or America. That enabled him to set up a full artificial intelligence lab, with an assistant, a technician and a group of Ph.D. students.	对师泽仁来说，钱很重要。他在这里拿到的拨款是在欧洲或美国的六倍多。这让他有机会搭建起一个完整的人工智能实验室，有助手、技术员和一群博士生。

"It's almost impossible for assistant professors to get this much money," he said. "The research funding is shrinking in the U.S. and Europe. But it is definitely expanding in China."	"对助理教授来说，拿到这么多资金几乎是不可能的，"他说。"美国和欧洲的研究资金在缩水，但中国的明显在增加。"
Mr. Schwertfeger's lab, which is part of ShanghaiTech University, works on ways for machines, without any aid from humans, to avoid obstacles. Decked out with wheeled robots, drones and sensors, the lab works on ways for computers to make their own maps and to improve the performance of robots with tasks like finding objects – specifically, people – during search-and-rescue operations.	师泽仁的实验室隶属上海科技大学，主要研究机器在没有人工协助的情况下如何避开障碍物。实验室内装饰着带轮子的机器人、无人机和感应器，其研究领域包括让计算机自己制定路线的方法，以及如何提高机器人在搜救行动中寻找目标——具体来说就是人——等任务的能力。
Much of China's artificial intelligence push is similarly peaceful. Still, its prowess and dedication have set off alarms within the United States' defense establishment. The Defense Department found that Chinese money has been pouring into American artificial intelligence companies – some of the same ones it had been looking to for future weapons systems.	中国在人工智能领域的努力大多是和平的。但它的实力和决心已经在美国国防界引发担忧。国防部发现，中国的资金源源不断地注入美国的人工智能公司——有些曾有望致力于未来的武器系统。
Quantifying China's spending push is difficult, because authorities there disclose little. But experts say it looks to be considerable. Numerous provinces and cities are spending billions on developing robotics, and a part of that funding is likely to go to artificial intelligence research. For example, the relatively unknown city of Xiangtan, in China's Hunan province, has pledged $2 billion toward developing robots and artificial intelligence. Other places have direct incentives for the A.I. industry. In Suzhou, leading artificial intelligence companies can get about $800,000 in subsidies for setting up shop locally, while Shenzhen, in southern China, is offering $1 million to support any A.I. project	要量化中国的投入十分困难，因为当局很少透露这方面的信息。但专家们表示，其额度将非常可观。无数个省份和城市都在投入几十亿美元研发机器人，其中一部分资金可能会流向人工智能研究。比如，相对不太出名的湖南城市湘潭就承诺拿出 20 亿美元发展机器人和人工智能。其他地方也给人工智能行业提供直接的激励。在苏州，领先的人工智能企业在那里设立分支可以获得大约 80 万美元的补助，南方城市深圳则为在那里设立的任何人工智能项目提供 100 万美元资金。

established there.
On a national level, China is working on a system to predict events like terrorist attacks or labor strikes based on possible precursors like labor strife. A paper funded by the National Natural Science Foundation of China showed how facial recognition software can be simplified so that it can be more easily integrated with cameras across the country.	在国家层面上，中国正在建立一套预测比如恐怖袭击或工人罢工等事件（依据劳动纠纷等可能存在的前兆）的系统。由国家自然科学基金委员会资助的一项研究显示，人脸识别软件可以被简化到能轻松植入遍布全国的摄像头的程度。
China is preparing a concerted nationwide push, according to the two professors who advised on the effort but declined to be identified, because the effort has not yet been made public. While the size wasn't clear, they said, it would most likely result in billions of dollars in spending.	中国准备进行一场齐心协力的全国行动，该消息来自上述为该项目提供建议的两名教授——由于该项目还没有公布，他们拒绝公开自己的身份。他表示，尽管目前还不清楚规模有多大，但很可能需要几十亿美元的投资。
President Trump's proposed budget, meanwhile, would reduce the National Science Foundation's spending on so-called intelligent systems by 10 percent, to about $175 million. Research and development in other areas would also be cut, though the proposed budget does call for more spending on defense research and some supercomputing. The cuts would essentially shift more research and development to private American companies like Google and Facebook.	与此同时，特朗普总统的预算案则会把美国国家科学基金会(National Science Foundation)在所谓智能系统上的开支减少 10%，降至 1.75 亿美元。其他领域的研究与开发预算也会减少，尽管预算案的确呼吁在国防研究和一些超级计算上加大开支。这些削减将带来很大的影响，使更多的研发向谷歌和 Facebook 等私营企业转移。
"The previous administration was preparing for a future with artificial intelligence," said Subbarao Kambhampati, president of the Association for the Advancement of Artificial intelligence. "They were talking about increasing basic research for artificial intelligence. Instead of increases, we are now being significantly affected."	"上届政府是在为一个有人工智能的未来做准备，"人工智能协会(Association for the Advancement of Artificial intelligence)主席苏巴拉奥·坎布哈姆帕蒂(Subbarao Kambhampati)说。"他们当时有讨论加强人工智能的基础研究。现在，我们非但不增加，反而受到极大的影响。"
China's money won't necessarily translate into dominance. The	中国的资金并不一定能转化为优势。政府自上而下的运作方式、缺乏透明度

government's top-down approach, closed-mouth bureaucracy and hoarding of information can hobble research. It threw a tremendous amount of resources toward curing severe acute respiratory syndrome, the deadly virus known as SARS, when it swept through the country 15 years ago. Yet the virus was eventually sequenced and tamed by a small Canadian lab, said Clay Shirky, a professor at N.Y.U. Shanghai and a technology writer.	的官僚机构以及信息囤积的做法，都可能会阻碍研究过程。15年前，当致命的急性呼吸综合征“非典”（也称 SARS）肆虐中国的时候，政府也曾投入过大量资源。但纽约大学上海分校的教授、技术领域的撰稿人克雷·舍基(Clay Shirky)表示，最终还是加拿大的一家小实验室进行测序，驯服了这种病毒。
"It wasn't that anyone was trying to stop the development of a SARS vaccine," Mr. Shirkey said. "It's the habit that yes is more risky than no."	"并非有人试图阻止'非典'疫苗的研制。"舍基说，"阻止它的是一种习惯：说'是'比说'不'风险更大。"
Authorities in China are now bringing top-down attention to fixing the problem of too much top-down control. While that may not sound promising, Wang Shengjin, a professor of electronic engineering at China's Tsinghua University, said he had noticed some improvement, such as professional groups sharing information, and authorities who are rolling back limits on professors claiming ownership of their discoveries for commercial purposes.	中国当局正逐渐着重于自上而下地解决上级控制过强的问题。然而清华大学电子工程教授王胜金（音）表示，这看起来不是很有希望。但是他注意到了一些改进，例如专业团体的信息分享，对于那些为了商业目的而对自己的发现主张所有权的教授，当局的限制也在逐渐减少。
"The lack of open sources and sharing of information, this has been the reality," Mr. Wang said. "But it has started to change."	"缺乏开源和信息共享，这是现实，"王胜金说。"但是已经开始改变了。"
At the moment, cooperation and exchanges in artificial intelligence between the United States and China are largely open, at least from the American side. Chinese and American scholars widely publish their findings in journals accessible to all, and researchers from China are major players in America's research institutions.	目前，中美之间人工智能方面的合作交流基本上是开放的，至少在美国方面是这样。中美学者会在对所有人开放的期刊上发表研究成果，来自中国的研究人员在美国研究机构中发挥着重要作用。
Chinese tech giants like Baidu, Tencent and Didi Chuxing have opened artificial intelligence labs in America, as have some Chinese start-ups.	百度、腾讯和滴滴出行等中国科技巨头以及若干中国初创企业都在美国设有人工智能实验室。根据五角大楼近期的报告，过去六年来，中国投资者为

Over the past six years, Chinese investors helped finance 51 American artificial intelligence companies, contributing to the $700 million raised, according to the recent Pentagon report.	51 家美国人工智能公司提供资金，融资达七亿美元。
It's unclear how long the cooperation will continue. The Pentagon report urged more controls. And while there are government and private pushes out of China, it is difficult to tell which is which, as Baidu shows.	目前尚不清楚这样的合作将会持续多久。五角大楼的报告敦促对此实行更多管控。政府和私营企业都在走出中国，但就像百度的情况一样，二者之间的界限很难分清。
Baidu is a leader in China's artificial intelligence efforts. It is working on driverless cars. It has turned an app that started as a visual dictionary — take a picture of an object, and your cellphone will tell you what it is — into a site that uses facial recognition to find missing people, a major problem in a country where child kidnapping has been persistent. In one stunning example, it helped a family find a child kidnapped 27 years earlier. DNA testing confirmed the family connection.	百度是中国人工智能工作的领导者，目前正在开发无人驾驶汽车。它还曾把一个视觉词典应用程序（给物品拍一张照片，手机就会告诉你这是什么东西）改进为使用面部识别技术寻找失踪者的网站——在中国，拐卖儿童一直是个重大问题。在一个惊人的案例中，它帮助一个家庭找到了 27 年前被拐卖的孩子。DNA 测试证实了他们之间的血缘关系。
Baidu's speech-recognition software — which can accomplish the difficult task of hearing tonal differences in Chinese dialects — is considered top of the class. When Microsoft announced last October that its speech recognition software had surpassed human-level language recognition, Baidu's head of research at the time playfully reminded the American company that his team had accomplished a similar feat a year earlier.	百度的语音识别软件也被认为是一流的，它可以完成识别中文方言音调差异这项艰巨任务。去年十月，当微软宣布其语音识别软件已经超越了人类的语言识别水平时，百度当时的研究主管开玩笑地提醒这家美国公司，他的团队一年前也取得了类似的成就。
In an apparent effort to harness Baidu's breakthroughs, China said this year that it would open a lab that would cooperate with the company on A.I. research. The facility will be headed by two professors with long experience working for government programs designed to catch up to	中国今年表示将会开设一个与百度公司合作的人工智能研究实验室，显然是为了对该公司取得的突破进展加以利用。这一设施将由两位教授领导，他们长期从事旨在赶上和替代国外技术的政府计划。根据多篇已发表的相关论文，两位教授也都参与了一项名为“清华智能移动机器人”的项目。这种机器

and replace foreign technology. Both professors also worked on a program called the Tsinghua Mobile Robot, according to multiple academic papers published on the topic. Research behind the robot, which in one award is described as a "military-use intelligent ground robot," was sponsored by funding to improve Chinese military capabilities.	人在一个奖项中被描述为“军用智能地面机器人”，得到了旨在提高中国军事能力的基金资助。
Li Wei, a professor involved in the Baidu cooperative effort, spent much of his career at Beihang University, one of China's seven schools of national defense.	参与百度合作计划的李伟教授，职业生涯大部分时间供职于中国的国防七校之一“北航”。
A company spokeswoman said: "Baidu develops products and services that improve people's lives. Through its partnership with the A.I. research community, Baidu aims to make a complicated world simpler through technology."	百度公司发言人说：“百度开发改善人们生活的产品和服务。在与人工智能研究界的合作中，百度的目标是通过技术使复杂的世界变得更简单。”
Still, there are advantages in China's developing cutting-edge A.I. on its own. National efforts are aided by access to enormous amounts of data held by Chinese companies and universities, the large number of Chinese engineers being trained on either side of the Pacific and from government backing, said Mr. Wang, of Tsinghua.	在发展尖端人工智能技术方面，中国仍然有自己的优势。清华大学的王胜金说，中国公司和大学掌握的大量数据，众多在中美两地接受培训的中国工程师都有助于国家的这项工作，此外还有政府的支持。
Driving that attention is a breakthrough from an American company largely banned in China: Google. In March 2016, a Google artificial intelligence system, AlphaGo, beat a South Korean player at the complicated strategy game Go, which originated in China. This past week, AlphaGo beat the best player in the world, a Chinese national, at a tournament in Wuzhen, China.	一家美国公司所取得的突破性进展——就是在中国基本上遭到禁止的谷歌公司——推动了这一关注。2016年3月，谷歌的人工智能系统AlphaGo在起源于中国的复杂策略游戏围棋的竞赛中击败了韩国棋手。在过去的一周里，AlphaGo在中国乌镇举行的比赛中再次击败了世界上最好的棋手，一位中国人。
The Google event changed the tenor of government discussions about	据中国的几位教授介绍，谷歌事件改变了政府在资金问题讨论中的基调。

funding, according to several Chinese professors.
"After AlphaGo came out and had such a big impact on the industry," said Zha Hongbin, a professor of machine learning at Peking University, "the content of government discussions got much wider and more concrete." Shortly afterward, the government created a new project on brain-inspired computing, he added.	"AlphaGo 出来后对行业产生了很大的影响,"北京大学研究机器学习的教授查红彬说,"政府讨论的内容变得更加广泛,更加具体。"他补充说,不久后,政府便创立了一个关于脑启发计算的新项目。
For all the government support, advances in the field could ultimately backfire, Mr. Shirky said. Artificial intelligence may help China better censor the internet, a task that often blocks Chinese researchers from finding vital information. At the same time, better A.I. could make it easier for Chinese readers to translate articles and other information.	舍基说,尽管有政府的大力支持,这个领域内的进步最终可能会产生适得其反的效果。人工智能可能有助于中国更好地审查互联网,这通常会阻碍中国研究人员查找重要信息。与此同时,更好的人工智能可能有助于中文读者轻松地翻译文章和其他信息。
"The fact is," Mr. Shirky said, "unlike automobile engineering, artificial intelligence will lead to surprises. That will make the world considerably less predictable, and that's never been Beijing's favorite characteristic."	"事实是,"舍基说,"与汽车工程不同,人工智能会带来意想不到的事物。这将使世界变得更加不可预测,这一点从来不是北京乐见的。" https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170527/china-us-ai-artificial-intelligence	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170527/china-us-ai-artificial-intelligence
The Billionaire Gadfly in Exile Who Stared Down Beijing	郭文贵, 逼迫中国做出让步的流亡者
The biggest political story in China this year isn't in Beijing. It isn't even in China. It's centered in a $68 million apartment overlooking Central Park in Manhattan.	中国今年最重大的政治新闻不是发生在北京,甚至也不是发生在中国。它的中心是曼哈顿一套价值 6800 万美元(约合 4.7 亿元人民币)的公寓,从那里可以俯瞰中央公园(Central Park)。
That's where Guo Wengui, a billionaire in self-imposed exile, has hurled political grenades at the Chinese Communist Party for months, accusing senior leaders of graft using Twitter as his loudspeaker. He escalated his attack by claiming that members of the family of China's second most powerful official, who oversees the country's	在这里,自我流放的亿万富翁郭文贵于过去几个月里向中国共产党发起了政治攻击,把 Twitter 当作扩音器,控诉中国高级领导人的贪腐行径。他升级了这场攻击,声称负责反腐运动的中国二号领导人的家人,秘密拥有中国一个大型企业集团的大量股份。

anticorruption effort, secretly own a large stake in a major Chinese conglomerate.
The Chinese government responded by unleashing the state-controlled media to enumerate Mr. Guo's alleged frauds, and asking Interpol to put out a global warrant for his arrest.	中国政府发动官方媒体列举郭文贵被控的欺诈罪行，以此作为回应。此外，官方还请求国际刑警组织(Interpol)对其发出全球通缉令。
But then something unexpected happened. China stood down. The state media campaign against him tapered off. In mid-May, Mr. Guo announced on Twitter that his wife and daughter – previously barred from leaving China – had been allowed to visit him in New York.	但后来，意想不到的事情发生了。中国做出了让步。官方媒体针对他的行动逐渐减弱。5月中旬，郭文贵在Twitter上宣布，之前被禁止离开中国的妻女已获准去纽约看他。
"We need to root out some of the robbers of this country," Mr. Guo, referring to China, told two New York Times reporters this month at his apartment. To emphasize the point, he wrote it out in Chinese in a notebook. "We are against using corruption to root out corruption."	"我们要铲除一些盗国者，"郭文贵本月在其公寓里对两名《纽约时报》记者说。他指的是中国。为了强调这一点，他还用中文把它写在了一个笔记本上。"反对以贪反贪。"
Mr. Guo's allegations are unproved, and some of his claims have been outlandish and easily debunked. Yet amid his barrage of charges about China's powerful and wealthy are claims that have turned out to be accurate. And the government's treatment of Mr. Guo, whose former political patron was one of China's highest-ranking intelligence officials, suggests that he may be taken seriously, perhaps even supported, by some officials in Beijing.	郭文贵的指控未经证实，他的一些说法甚至是荒诞的，很容易被揭穿。但那些对中国权贵的接二连三的指控中，有一部分已经被证明是准确的。他的前政治靠山曾是中国最高级的情报官员之一，而政府处理郭文贵的方式说明了他可能被严肃地对待，甚至获得了北京某些官员的支持。
Mr. Guo's most recent claims have reverberated across China and fed unease on Wall Street about doing business there. The assertions, if substantiated, could upend politics in China, the world's second-biggest economy, possibly driving a wedge between President Xi Jinping and Wang Qishan, the anticorruption czar.	郭文贵近期的大部分说法在全中国引起了反响，并在华尔街上引发了对在中国做生意的担忧。如果得到证实，这些说法可能会颠覆这个全球第二大经济体的政治，在中国国家主席习近平和反腐高官王岐山之间挑起不和。

Mr. Wang, the focus of Mr. Guo's allegations, has close ties to Wall Street, with enormous influence over China's financial sector. Mr. Guo's assertions come just months before a Communist Party meeting that will decide whether Mr. Wang, recently the focus of speculation that he may become China's next prime minister, will remain on the party's elite Politburo Standing Committee.	王岐山与华尔街关系密切，对中国金融领域有着巨大的影响力。几个月后，共产党将召开会议，会议将决定王岐山是否留在共产党的领导机构政治局常务委员会里。最近，王岐山备受瞩目，有传言称他可能会出任中国下一任总理。就在此时，郭文贵抛出了相关说法。
Mr. Guo's Twitter broadsides have continued, and his ability to stare down the world's most powerful authoritarian nation has underscored the mystery, in China and abroad, about how he acquired his billions, what he knows and who, if anyone, is backing him.	郭文贵在 Twitter 上的抨击还在继续。在国内外，他逼得全世界最强大的威权主义国家让步的能力，突显了围绕他如何获得万贯家财、他知道些什么以及如果有人支持他的话，这个人是谁的谜团。
Ruthless, or a Hero?	无情，还是英雄？
His ambitions, like his personality, are big and sometimes baffling. He says he has a plan to exorcise graft from the party, bring rule of law to China, and put ties with America on a stable track by ending decades of Chinese skullduggery on trade. At other times, he explains his corruption allegations as an act of vengeance for a long-ago death. He could, though, just be a man feeling pressure, his assets frozen in China and bad investments and lawsuits chipping away at his fortune.	他性格张扬，志向远大，有时候却令人困惑。他自称有一个计划，可以消除共产党内部的腐败、给中国带来法治，并通过在贸易上结束持续数十年的中国不当行为，让中美关系稳定发展。在其他时候，他又解释说自己的腐败指控，是对很久以前的一起死亡事件的报复。但他可能只是一个感到有压力的人。他在中国国内的资产被冻结，且不良投资和多起官司正在慢慢侵蚀他的财富。
No one better represents the marriage of the Party and money than Mr. Guo, known as Miles Kwok outside China, who parlayed relationships with some of China's most powerful officials to help build a global portfolio including hotels, office buildings and securities brokerages.	没人能比在国外叫迈尔斯·郭(Miles Kwok)的郭文贵更好地代表共产党与资本的联姻。他利用与中国权力最大的一些官员的关系，帮助建立了一个包括酒店、办公楼和证券经纪的全球投资组合。
Show Mr. Guo a spreadsheet listing the shareholders of the giant Chinese company, HNA, which has been buying up businesses in the West, and he'll rattle off the names of the prominent families who he	规模庞大的中国公司海航在西方收购动作不断。如果给郭文贵看一份列着海航股东的表格，他会飞快说出著名家族成员的名字。他声称，真正持有股份的是这些人。让他画出这些名字的家谱图——这是在中国追踪不义之财的关

claims really control their stakes. Ask him to map out family trees for those names, the key to tracking ill-gotten wealth in China, and he'll do it from memory, down to the sisters, the cousins and the aunts.	键一一的话，他会凭记忆画出来，具体到姐妹、堂表亲和姑娘。
"The allegations with regard to HNA simply aren't true," a spokesperson for HNA said.	"关于海航的指控是不真实的，"海航的一位发言人说。
Over a decade ago, the Chinese Communist Party welcomed businessmen into its ranks. In turn, those tycoons helped make the sons and daughters of the revolution rich while helping the country show spectacular growth rates. Now, armed with information, one of them has strayed.	十几年前，中共向商人伸出双臂，打开了加入该党的大门。反过来，这些大亨在帮助中国实现惊人的增长率的同时，也帮助革命的子子孙孙成了富豪。现在，掌握了信息的其中一人脱离了既定轨道。
"These people have power and influence and knowledge," said William C. Kirby, a professor at Harvard Business School. "Many of them are easily controlled. But others go off the reservation."	"这些人掌握着权力、影响力和知识，"哈佛大学商学院(Harvard Business School)的教授柯伟林(William C. Kirby)说。"其中很多人容易控制。但其他人会走到笼外去。"
Mr. Guo has gone farther than anyone else. When the party retaliated against him, the state-controlled Beijing News reported that he was suspected of obtaining a "fraudulent loan" worth 3.2 billion yuan ($466 million) from one state-owned bank. Another publication, Caixin, referring to documents from Mr. Wang's Central Commission for Discipline Inspection, said that Mr. Guo had arranged for $299 million of client's funds at a securities firm he controlled to be illegally transferred out of the brokerage.	郭文贵比其他任何人都走得更远。中共报复他时，官方媒体《新京报》报道称他涉嫌从一家国有银行“骗贷”32亿元。另一家刊物《财新周刊》则参考来自王岐山领导的中央纪律检查委员会的文件，称郭文贵安排把自己控制的一家证券公司的20.5亿元客户资金，非法转出该公司。
The government's most potent weapon was the release in April of a videotaped confession of Ma Jian, a former spymaster and political patron to Mr. Guo, who said he had accepted more than $8.7 million in gifts from Mr. Guo in exchange for favors, including frequent	政府最强大的武器，是4月公布的前中国反间谍事务负责人、郭文贵曾经的政治靠山马建的认罪视频。在视频中，马建说自己收了郭文贵价值逾870万美元的礼物，而郭文贵从他那里换取的好处包括他频繁干预官员的决策，以绕过郭文贵房地产项目遇到的一切障碍。“郭文贵为了讨好我，感谢我，

interventions with officials to short-circuit any obstacles to his property projects. "Guo Wengui, to ingratiate me, to thank me, and to maintain his relationship with me, gave me a huge amount of benefits," Mr. Ma said in the video.	维系和我的关系，也给我输送了大量的利益，”马建在视频中说。
Mr. Guo's presence in the United States poses a dilemma for the Trump administration, which is seeking China's cooperation to rein in North Korea's nuclear ambitions. In recent years Mr. Guo provided Washington with insights into Chinese politics through his visits with embassy officials in Beijing, according to one former senior administration official.	郭文贵人在美国这一点，让正在寻求中国的合作，以控制朝鲜核野心的特朗普政府进退两难。据一名前联邦政府高级官员称，近年来，郭文贵多次拜访北京的使馆官员，为华盛顿洞察中国政治提供了帮助。
Mr. Guo, who is a member of Mar-a-Lago, President Trump's private Palm Beach club, is eager to get close to the powerful. On Tuesday, he wrote on Twitter that he flew to Washington for meetings at the Trump International Hotel. He contributed to charitable work by Tony Blair, the former British prime minister, who calls him a friend.	身为特朗普总统位于棕榈滩的私人俱乐部马阿拉歌的会员的郭文贵，迫切地想要接近权力在握的人。周二，他在 Twitter 上写道，他飞往华盛顿，去参加在特朗普国际酒店举行的会议。他是前英国首相托尼·布莱尔(Tony Blair)所作慈善工作的捐赠人，布莱尔对他以朋友相称。
When the Times reporters visited Mr. Guo's apartment at the Sherry-Netherland hotel in late April, he stepped away to take a phone call in another room, with the speakerphone on. His assistant explained that a top aide to Mr. Xi was on the line. The implication was obvious: Despite his unprecedented public tirades against some top officials, Mr. Guo was communicating with the one who matters most.	《纽约时报》记者4月底造访郭文贵在荷兰雪梨(Sherry-Netherland)酒店公寓里的住所时，他走到另一个房间接了一个电话，开着扬声器。他的助理解释说，电话的另一头是习近平的一个高级助手。这其中的暗示显而易见：尽管前所未有的地公开抨击一些最高层官员，但郭文贵仍在和最重要的那个人有联系。
As with many of Mr. Guo's claims, it wasn't possible to confirm who was on the other end of the call, but the episode was fully in keeping with Mr. Guo's showman personality. That flair for the dramatic is typical of him, said one longtime acquaintance who has been present when he	和郭文贵的很多说法一样，外人不可能证实电话另一头是谁，但这件事完全符合郭文贵爱炫耀的个性。一个和他相识已久的人说，擅长引起注意是他的特点。郭文贵曾当着这个人的面接听前情报官员马建的电话。

takes calls from Mr. Ma, the former intelligence official.
Many Chinese dissidents and journalists working outside of the state media umbrella cast Mr. Guo as a hero for his outspoken criticism. Some who know him, though, say that he can be ruthless. A Beijing vice mayor who once stood in his way to securing property rights for an elaborate plaza at the 2008 Olympic Games park was ousted and given a suspended death sentence for bribery after Mr. Guo obtained a tape showing the official having sex with a mistress.	因为那些公开的抨击，郭文贵被中国很多异见人士和处于官媒体系之外的记者说成了英雄。但一些认识他的人说，他可以很无情。北京的一名副市长曾妨碍他在奥林匹克公园旁边修建一座精美的大厦。后来，在郭文贵拿到一盘这名官员和情妇发生性关系的录像后，该官员被免职并因受贿被判处死缓。
Mr. Guo also takes aim at news organizations that write unflattering stories about him. In 2015, Caixin wrote a lengthy investigative story about his business and political connections. In response, Mr. Guo accused its editor of having an affair and a child with his former business partner, even publishing what he claimed was the child's national identity card number. Caixin is suing Mr. Guo for libel.	郭文贵还把目标对准了所写报道有损其形象的新闻机构。2015年，财新撰写了一篇有关其商业和政治人脉的长篇调查性报道。作为回应，郭文贵声称财新总编和他的前生意伙伴有染并育有一子，甚至还公布了他所说的那个孩子的身份证号码。财新正在起诉郭文贵诽谤。
His public attacks against the leadership of the country he fled two years ago began in January. Using Twitter, and in a televised interview last month on Voice of America, Mr. Guo said a top police official, at the behest of President Xi, had asked him several years ago to look into Mr. Wang's family finances.	两年前，他逃离中国。他对中国领导人的公开攻击始于1月。通过Twitter和上月在美国之音(Voice of America)上的一个电视采访，郭文贵说几年前，中国警界的一名最高官员按习近平的吩咐，让他调查王岐山的家庭财务情况。
When the Chinese government eased up on its barrage against Mr. Guo, the about-face suggested that that the Communist Party's top leadership may not agree on how to deal with him, according to Victor Shih, a professor at the University of California, San Diego, who studies finance and politics in China. "If the party were unified in opposing Guo Wengui, his family would have had much harsher treatment," he said.	加州大学圣迭戈分校(University of California, San Diego)研究中国金融和政治的教授史宗瀚(Victor Shih)认为，当中国政府减少了对郭文贵的攻击，这种态度的大转变表明，在如何处理郭文贵的问题上，其最高领导层可能存在分歧。“如果党内一致反对郭文贵，对他家人的处理应该会严厉得多，”他说。

Seeking Revenge	寻求复仇
Away from his homeland, Mr. Guo still enjoys the high life. On Twitter, where his profile page portrays him as a male version of the Mockingjay from the “Hunger Games” series, he showed off his new private Airbus jet. When giving a tour of his 18th-floor New York apartment —shared with a Bichon Frise puppy — he pointed out the Lalique crystal chandelier, Louis XVI furniture and an ancient Chinese watercolor painting. The monthly maintenance fees alone for the apartment are $58,000.	身在国外的郭文贵依然过着豪华的生活。他的 Twitter 个人页面将他描绘成《饥饿游戏》(Hunger Games)系列里嘲笑鸟(Mockingjay)的男版。在 Twitter 上, 他炫耀过自己新买的空客(Airbus)私人飞机。在介绍他在纽约的那套公寓——他和一只比熊犬住在那里——时, 他一一指出了 Lalique 的水晶吊灯、路易十六的家具和一幅中国古画。这套位于 18 层的公寓每月仅维护费用就高达 5.8 万美元。
Mr. Guo boasts of multiple residences around the world, including in Beijing, London, Tokyo, Abu Dhabi and Hong Kong. His oceanside home there, with sweeping views of Repulse Bay, sits on two lots which Mr. Guo’s son bought for $880 million Hong Kong dollars ($113 million) in 2011, according to property records.	郭文贵号称在全球有多处房产, 分布在北京、伦敦、东京、阿布扎比和香港等地。从香港那处坐落在海边的房屋里看出去, 浅水湾一览无余。房产记录显示, 房屋所在的两个地块为郭文贵之子 2011 年花 8.8 亿港币 (约合 7.7 亿元人民币) 购得。
His lakeside property in Beijing is modeled on a traditional one-story courtyard home but is far more elaborate, with multiple levels, a cavernous closet with hundreds of identical suits, and a pool in a complex of more than 86,000 square feet. One real estate agent in Beijing estimated its value at about $230 million.	他在北京的湖边物业是仿照传统平房庭院建造的, 但要精致得多, 而且是多层的。一个巨大的衣橱里装着数百套同样的西装, 面积达 8.6 万平方英尺的院落内配有游泳池。据北京的一个房产中介估计, 其价值约为 2.3 亿美元。
Mr. Guo took Mr. Kirby, then a Harvard dean, on a two-hour tour of the property in 2004. The group was ushered into a private theater, the lights dimmed, and Strauss’s Radetsky’s March began to play as Mr. Guo made a videotaped introduction to a development he planned near the site of the 2008 Olympic games in Beijing. He and a Beijing vice mayor then asked Harvard to locate a campus on the complex, Mr. Kirby	2004 年, 郭文贵把当时在哈佛当系主任的柯伟林带到这个地方, 参观了两个小时。一行人被领进一个灯光昏暗的私人影院, 当郭文贵用一段事先录好的视频介绍自己打算在北京 2008 年奥运会场地附近开发的一个项目时, 施特劳斯的《拉德斯基进行曲》开始响起。柯伟林回忆说, 郭文贵和北京的一名副市长而后请哈佛在该建筑综合体中设置一个分校。 recalled.

At dinner, he pressed his case, all the while watching a Chinese soap opera on a tiny television screen. "It was, still to this day, the most bizarre evening I have ever spent in China," Mr. Kirby said. (Harvard did not take up Mr. Guo's offer.)	晚餐期间，郭文贵一边观看一个小小电视屏幕上的中国肥皂剧，一边继续阐述自己的想法。“那至今仍是我在中国度过的最离奇的一个晚上，”柯伟林说。（哈佛没有接受郭文贵的邀约。）
Mr. Guo says the motivation for his corruption allegations is simple: he claims the state shot one of his brothers in 1989 and he's been plotting his revenge ever since. The circumstances of the death are murky, though, like much of Mr. Guo's story.	郭文贵说，他控诉腐败的动机很简单：他声称政府在1989年枪杀了他的一个弟弟，自从那时起他一直在谋划复仇。不过，像郭文贵的故事中的很多情节一样，关于那起死亡事件的细节含混不清。
Mr. Guo says that during the 1989 Tiananmen student protests, he was arrested for giving money to the student movement and jailed for two years. But an overseas Chinese website, citing court documents, says Mr. Guo had been arrested in a fraud involving oil sales and that his brother was killed when he and Mr. Guo attacked police.	郭文贵说，1989年的学生抗议活动期间，他因为给学生运动提供资金而被捕，并坐了两年牢。但一家海外网站援引法庭文件称，郭文贵当初是因为卷入一起跟石油销售有关的诈骗案而被捕的，他弟弟则是在和他一起袭警时被杀的。
He says he was born in May, 1970, one of 10 boys in a family with ties to the army from a small town in eastern China's Shandong province. (Legal documents say he was born in February, 1967.) In prison, Mr. Guo, who only had a middle-school education, learned about Chinese history and other topics from educated inmates, he says.	他说自己来自中国东部省份山东的一个小镇，生于1970年5月，是家中的十个男孩之一，家里在部队上有些关系。（法律文件显示他生于1967年2月。）郭文贵说，在狱中，只念到初中的他从一些有文化的犯人那里学到了关于中国历史和其他问题的知识。
After his release in 1991, Mr. Guo met a prominent businesswoman, who introduced him to wealthy investors. Soon after he built a hotel in the central Chinese city of Zhengzhou, which became a meeting spot for government officials.	1991年被释放后，郭文贵认识了一个著名的女商人，她向他介绍了几位富有的投资者。不久后，他在中国中部城市郑州建成了一家酒店，那里成了政府官员的聚会地点。
Those contacts and later relationships with other officials, including Mr. Ma, the spy chief, helped Mr. Guo build up his empire. He later	与这些官员的接触以及后来的关系（包括同间谍机构负责人马建的联系）帮助郭文贵建立起他的帝国。后来他把业务扩大到金融领域，收购了一家证券

expanded into finance, acquiring a large stake in a securities brokerage. In 2014, the Hurun Report, which tracks the fortunes of China's elite, estimated his wealth at $2.3 billion. But that same year, Mr. Guo's ambition to take control of one of China's biggest brokerages fell apart and he had a dispute with his business partner, who was later jailed.	经纪公司的大量股份。2014年，追踪中国精英财富的《胡润百富》(Hurun Report)估计他的财富为23亿美元。但是，同年，郭文贵控制中国最大券商之一的野心破灭了，他与自己的生意合伙人发生了争执，这位合伙人后来被判入狱。
Since then, he has lived abroad and his assets in China — he claims 120 billion yuan ($17.4 billion) in all — have been frozen. Mr. Guo is facing financial pressures.	从那以后，郭文贵一直在国外生活，他在中国的资产——他声称共有1200亿人民币（约合174亿美元）——遭到冻结。郭文贵正面临财务压力。
One hedge fund in Hong Kong has alleged that he owes $88 million. The fund, Pacific Alliance Asia Opportunity Fund, recently sued him in New York, saying that he has racked up millions of dollars in interest in loans from 2008.	一家位于香港的对冲基金声称，郭文贵欠该基金8800万元。这家名为太盟亚洲机会基金(Pacific Alliance Asia Opportunity Fund)的公司最近在纽约起诉他，称他从2008年起已经累积拖欠了数百万美元的贷款利息。
Last year, he sued the Swiss bank UBS, arguing that he was misled in a series of transactions that resulted in a $500 million loss for him, but the suit was dismissed. Caixin published a story last week saying that Mr. Blair had introduced Mr. Guo to Abu Dhabi's crown prince. Mr. Guo later used money from Abu Dhabi to finance a failed takeover of a Chinese securities firm which resulted in the the loss, Caixin reported. A representative for Mr. Blair did not address whether Mr. Blair had made introductions for Mr. Guo. Mr. Guo said the story was groundless.	去年，郭文贵起诉瑞士银行瑞银，声称他在一系列交易中被误导，造成了5亿美元的损失，但诉讼被驳回。财新上周发表了一篇报道，说布莱尔曾把郭文贵介绍给阿布扎比的王储。郭文贵后来利用阿布扎比的资金资助一家中国证券公司进行失败的收购，从而导致了这场亏损。布莱尔的一位代表没有谈到布莱尔是否向郭文贵介绍过阿布扎比王储。郭文贵则说，这个故事毫无根据。
One claim Mr. Guo made in March regarding the hidden wealth a prominent Chinese family could be substantiated by company documents, the Times reported in April. Going after Mr. Wang, though, is particularly risky.	根据时报4月的报道，郭文贵3月就一个显赫中国家族秘密财富所发表的说法，可以通过公司文件得到证实。然而，调查王岐山是一件格外有风险的事。
The 68-year-old official has a reputation for being a problem-solver	这位68岁的官员以擅长解决问题著称，曾与多位美国高管有过密切合作，

who has worked closely with American executives, including Henry M. Paulson, the former chief executive of Goldman Sachs and treasury secretary. His many proteges are in influential positions throughout China's government. Mr. Wang didn't respond to faxed questions sent to the Central Commission for Discipline Inspection in Beijing. HNA declined to comment.	其中包括前高盛(Goldman Sachs)首席执行官、前美国财政部长亨利·M·保尔森(Henry M. Paulson)。他的嫡系人物在中国政府内身居多个要职。王岐山没有回复传真到位于北京的中央纪律检查委员会的问题。海航集团拒绝置评。
"Wang Qishan has been the model of clean and competent, and all but untouchable," said William Zarit, chairman of the American Chamber of Commerce in China. "Should his star fall, business and government players should be concerned about their own safety."	"王岐山一直是清廉能干的典范，几乎是不可战胜的，"中国美国商会主席蔡瑞德(William Zarit)说。"如果他的仕途一落千丈，企业和政府的操盘者也应该关心自身的安全。"
There's no sign that Mr. Guo is letting up. Before the Communist Party meets this fall to pick a slate of top leaders, Mr. Guo plans his most dramatic assault of all, a live event, perhaps from Lincoln Center, that will focus on Chinese corruption.	郭文贵没有任何偃旗息鼓的迹象。今年秋天，共产党又要召开会议，选择一批高层领导人，郭文贵打算在这之前发起最具戏剧性的一次攻击，可能是在林肯中心举行一个现场活动，重点谈及中国的腐败问题。
"I want it to be carnival style with a big screen," he said. "We will sing," he added. "We will cry and we will talk about the world."	"我想让它成为狂欢节的风格，要有一个大屏幕，"他说。"我们要唱歌，"他补充说。"我们要大喊，我们要谈谈这个世界。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/china-guo-wengui	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/china-guo-wengui
Greed, Injustice and Decadence: What 5 Scenes From a Hit TV Show Say About China	贪婪、堕落和不公：《人民的名义》里的中国
BEIJING — China's ruling Communist Party banned television dramas about politics and corruption from prime time more than a decade ago, apparently worried that they reflected reality a little too well. But its propagandists let loose this spring with "In the Name of the People," a slick, ostentatious, 55-episode series that has been called a Chinese version of "House of Cards."	北京——中国的执政党共产党十多年前禁止了在黄金时段播放以政治和腐败为题材的电视剧，显然是担心这些电视剧与现实生活过于接近。但中共负责宣传的官员今年春天对制作花哨、剧情夸张的 55 集电视连续剧《人民的名义》破了例，该剧被称为中国版的《纸牌屋》。

Assassins conspire to kill government investigators. Bribetaking officials flee the country to escape punishment. Scheming judges are caught in bed with foreign mistresses — and Chinese audiences are loving it. Ratings have been through the roof and the show has garnered billions of views online, becoming one of the most popular television programs in Chinese history.	刺客密谋暗杀政府调查人员。受贿官员为躲避惩罚逃到国外。诡计多端的法官与外国女人一起被人逮在了床上。这些情节深受中国观众的喜爱，收视率创下纪录。这部电视剧已在网上得到了数十亿次观看，成为中国历史上最受欢迎的电视节目之一。
Despite this focus on bad behavior, “In the Name of the People” largely glorifies the party’s anti-corruption efforts, portraying government investigators as folk heroes up against nefarious forces. This approach dovetails with the corruption crackdown that President Xi Jinping has used to cement both his grip on power and his own popularity.	尽管《人民的名义》聚焦的是不良行为，但该剧在很大程度上是在为中共的反腐败努力歌功颂德，政府调查人员在剧中的形象是与邪恶势力作斗争的民间英雄。这种手法与国家主席习近平巩固自己的权力、打造自己深得民心形象所用的相吻合。
Here’s a breakdown of five scenes from the show and what they say about China today.	下面是电视剧中的五个情节以及它们所反映的当下的中国。
Seduced by Greed	被贪婪诱惑
At the core of “In the Name of the People” is the idea that corruption is omnipresent, capable of seducing even the steeliest of officials — and that only a strong government can contain it, certainly not democratic elections or a free press. This is one of the Communist Party’s favorite propaganda themes.	《人民的名义》的中心思想是腐败无处不在，就连最坚定的官员也难免受诱惑。控制腐败只能靠强大的政府，当然不是靠民主选举、或新闻自由。这是共产党最喜欢的宣传主题之一。
In this scene, an official named Zhao Dehan begs for mercy after the police discover the fortune he collected in bribes hidden in his home.	剧中一个情节是，警察在一位名叫赵德汉的官员家中发现了 he 受贿得来的大笔钱财之后，赵德汉乞求政府对自己从宽处理。
Mr. Zhao could recite the exact amount of his illicit gains: 239,995,400 renminbi, or about $30 million. But he says he is too ashamed to spend any of it, choosing to live in a modest apartment and ride his bicycle to work.	赵德汉能如数道出自己的不义之财：两亿三千九百九十九万五千四百元人民币（约合 3000 万美元）。但他说，他深感羞愧，那些钱一点也不敢花，他选择住在一个不起眼的公寓里，骑自行车上班。

"My relatives have been farmers for generations," he said, standing by a refrigerator overflowing with cash. "I didn't dare spend a penny."	"我家祖祖辈辈是农民，"他站在一个装满现金的冰箱旁说。"我一分钱都没花。"
The investigator who exposed Mr. Zhao's misdeeds is unmoved, replying: "It's such poor luck for Chinese farmers to have a bad son like you."	发现赵德汉不当行为的调查人员不为所动，回答说："中国农民那么倒霉，有你这么个坏儿子。"
Mr. Zhao's humble appearance underscores the government's message that corruption lurks everywhere, not just among the most powerful or flashy officials, and it recalls real-life cases. In 2014, for example, the authorities found $33 million in cash, bundled and weighing more than two tons, in the home of a low-level energy official. It took 16 mechanical bill counters to count the money, and four of the machines burned out in the process.	赵德汉谦逊的外表强化了政府要传达的腐败无处不在的信息：腐败问题不仅存在于最有权、最爱炫耀的官员身上。这个情节也让人想起现实生活中的案例。比如，2014年，当局在一个管水电的小官家中发现了重量超过两吨的成捆现金，总额超过2亿元。用了16台数钞机才把这些现金数清，其中四台机器在数钱过程中烧毁。
The government seems to be hoping that "In the Name of the People" can deter would-be swindlers: The show has become required viewing for local party officials in some areas.	政府看起来是希望《人民的名义》对想贪污的人形成一种威慑：在有些地方，这个电视剧已成为当地党政官员的必看节目。
Everyday Injustices	日常生活中的不公正
The injustices suffered by ordinary workers at the hands of corrupt officials are front and center in the series. In this scene, workers at a textile mill stage a protest after learning that their factory has gone bankrupt, part of a broader scheme involving businessmen and local officials to force the factory to be demolished to make room for luxury housing.	贯穿这部系列电视剧的一个主题是，普通工人在腐败官员手中遭受的不公正。剧中有一个情节，纺织厂工人听到工厂破产之后举行抗议活动。这是商人和地方官员一个更大策划的一部分，他们要拆掉工厂，为开发豪宅腾地。
"Defend the factory, defend ourselves!" workers chant as they wave torches. They pour gasoline on a barrier and light it on fire, leading to a chaotic scene in which several workers are injured.	"保卫工厂，保卫自己！"工人挥舞着火把高喊着。他们把汽油倒在围栏上，将其点燃，接下来是多名工人受伤的混乱情景。

Again, this scene mirrors reality. Labor protests have erupted across China in recent years as state factories have been sold on the cheap to private investors with political connections, often with few benefits for workers. The government has tolerated some protests but tries to defuse demonstrations and block criticism of senior party leaders.	这个情景也是现实的反映。近年来，许多国有工厂被廉价卖给了有政治关系的私人投资者，工人的利益在这种交易中几乎得不到保障，导致中国各地频繁爆发劳工抗议活动。当局对一些抗议活动持宽容态度，但努力平息示威活动，阻止对共产党高级领导人的批评。
In another realistic touch, the show's fictional protest is live-streamed online and picked up by the foreign news media to the chagrin of local leaders. Livestreaming has become a cultural phenomenon in China, and aggrieved workers in China sometimes turn to foreign journalists because of the restrictions on the Chinese press.	剧中另一个很现实的情节是，剧中的抗议活动在网上直播后，被国外新闻媒体作了报道，令当地领导人大怒。网上直播已在中国成为一种文化现象，由于中国对新闻的限制，有怨气的工人有时会找上外国记者的门来。
Obsession With Growth	痴迷经济增长
The propagandists clearly want the audience to cheer for the upright party officials in the show who battle corruption. But many Chinese have embraced a different character instead, a local party chief named Li Dakang with a single-minded focus on economic growth.	宣传官员显然希望观众们为那些与腐败作斗争的正直中共官员喝彩。但许多中国人却在支持另一个人物，他就是心中只有经济增长的地方市委书记李达康。
Mr. Li discusses his philosophy in this scene, in which he speaks to the news media about the protests. Hoping to quell public outrage, he argues that China must push forward with economic development.	剧中，李达康就发生抗议活动举行了新闻发布会，在对媒体的讲话中他提到了自己的哲学。为了平息公众愤怒，他表示，中国必须推动经济发展。
"There is nothing wrong with demolishing the old China," he says. "There will not be a new one without demolishing the old one."	"拆除一个旧中国没什么不好吧？"他说。"不拆掉一个旧中国，怎么能建设一个新中国呀？"
Mr. Li tends to overlook corruption and the negative effects of a headlong pursuit of growth. He does want to protect the environment, but it is his obsession with gross domestic product that has won him wide admiration among viewers and inspired internet memes. "Don't bow your head, the G.D.P. will drop if you do," says one.	李达康未注意到腐败和不顾一切地追求增长所带来的负面影响。他确实也想保护环境，但他对国内生产总值的痴迷，不仅让他赢得了广大观众的钦佩，还启发了互联网上的一些米姆(meme)，其中一个，"别低头，GDP会掉。"

Local party officials in China are largely judged on their success delivering economic growth. Critics say that has exacerbated problems such as pollution, inequality and corruption. But it has also fueled a historic expansion of prosperity, and Mr. Li's popularity suggests many Chinese accept the trade-off and take pride in the nation's economic progress.	中国地方政府官员的成功，在很大程度上是以他们实现经济增长的能力来衡量的。批评者说，这让环境污染、不平等和腐败等问题变得更加严重。但也带来了历史上前所未有的繁荣，李达康的得人心表明，许多中国人接受这种利弊的权衡，他们为国家的经济进步感到自豪。
Excesses of the West	西方的荒淫无度
Almost nothing in China screams "corrupt" like playing golf, a game long derided by the Communist Party as a bourgeois luxury of the West. In this scene, one of the chief villains, Qi Tongwei, a public security official, plays a round with his mistress.	在中国，没有比打高尔夫球更让人联想起“腐败”的活动了，长期以来，共产党一直把高尔夫运动视为西方资产阶级的奢侈游戏。剧中一个情节是，主要反面人物之一、公安官员祁同伟和他的情妇一起打高尔夫。
"In the Name of the People" is filled with suggestions that Western decadence has corrupted Chinese officials.	《人民的名义》剧中充满了西方的堕落如何腐化中国官员的暗示。
In real life, Chinese often complain about "naked officials" who send their entire families abroad, sometimes with ill-gotten gains, and Mr. Xi has pressed a campaign to hunt down Chinese officials who have fled to the United States and other countries and return them to China to face punishment.	在现实生活中，中国人经常抱怨那些把全家都送到国外生活的“裸官们”，其中有些人能这样做靠的是他们非法得来的钱财，习近平已在开展一项运动，把逃到美国和其他国家的中国官员追捕归案，回国接受惩罚。
Linking corrupt officials to the United States serves the party's propaganda purposes, casting American leaders who refuse to extradite them as hypocrites and tarring democratic values by association.	把腐败官员与美国联系起来，是为中共的宣传目的服务，这让拒绝将贪官引渡回国的美国领导人看起来是伪君子，让民主价值观因此而蒙灰。
In an early episode of the show, a deputy mayor escapes to Los Angeles after investigators learn that he has taken bribes. On board an airplane, he asks for champagne. A flight attendant asks what he is celebrating. "Freedom," he replies.	这部电视剧的前某集中有这样一个情节，调查人员发现一名副市长受贿之后，他出逃洛杉矶。他在飞机上要香槟喝。一名乘务员问他在庆祝什么。他回答说，“自由。”

Xi at the Core	以习近平为核心
Since coming to power in 2012, Mr. Xi has made fighting corruption a centerpiece of his tenure. "In the Name of the People" glorifies that campaign at a critical moment — ahead of an important party leadership congress this fall, and as his first term as president and party chief is winding down.	自从 2012 年上台以来，习近平一直把打击腐败作为政府的首要任务。《人民的名义》的播出正是在一个关键时刻——在今年秋天召开重要的全党代表大会之前，在习近平的第一任总书记任期即将结束之际——为反腐败运动歌功颂德。
There are several nods to Mr. Xi spread in the series. The last Chinese characters of the given names of the three main heroes add up to "Xi Jinping," though the show's screenwriter says that is a coincidence. They also wear the kind of dark that Mr. Xi has made popular and mimic his fondness for quoting Mao.	剧中有几个支持习近平的细节。剧中三位主要英雄人物姓名的最后一个汉字连起来是“习近平”，虽然该剧的编剧说，那是巧合。这三人都和习近平一样穿着深色制服，也都模仿习近平喜欢引用毛泽东语录的做法。
Mr. Xi has used the anti-corruption campaign to sideline political enemies and promoted it as an effort to build a more egalitarian society.	习近平利用反腐败运动削弱了政敌，并宣称这场运动是在努力建设一个更平等的社会。
That vision is articulated by the character Chen Yanshi, a respected party elder who turns away exotic gifts that are sent to his home — 35 birds, 43 bouquets and 16 bonsai trees. In the scene above, he reports the gifts to the party.	剧中，这个愿景在受尊敬的共产党老干部陈岩石身上得到了阐释。陈岩石拒绝接受别人送到他家里的各种奇异礼品，其中包括 35 只鸟、43 大束鲜花，以及 16 棵盆景树。在这场戏里，他向党汇报了这些礼物。
"Corruption is like cancer," he says later in the episode. "It slowly corrodes society's fabric."	"腐败就像癌细胞一样，"他在这一集中说，"一点一点地侵蚀社会的肌体。" https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/china-in-the-name-of-the-people-xi-jinping-corruption	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/china-in-the-name-of-the-people-xi-jinping-corruption
A High-Proof Tribute to Tiananmen's Victims Finds a Way Back to China	纪念“六四”的酒，对抗中国健忘症
BEIJING — It's a big journey for a little bottle, even one so potent in	北京——这个小小的瓶子里装满烈酒，具有强大的象征意义，如今更是走过

alcohol and symbolism.	了漫长的旅途。
The liquor bottle — whose label commemorates the 1989 crackdown on democracy demonstrators in Tiananmen Square in Beijing — made a monthslong trip around the world and arrived in Hong Kong days before the 28th anniversary of the killings on Sunday and one year after it was produced in Chengdu, in the southwestern Chinese province of Sichuan.	酒瓶上的标签是为了纪念 1989 年在北京天安门广场遭到镇压的民主示威者，一个月来，它游遍整个世界，终于抵达香港。几天之后的星期日便是那场屠杀的 28 周年纪念，也是这瓶酒在中国西南的四川省成都市被生产出来的一周年纪念日。
It was carried by hand, reportedly by a sympathetic Chinese official, from Chengdu to the Middle East and then by someone else to Paris, where it was mailed to Washington, arriving about four weeks ago, said Yang Jianli, a Chinese-born rights activist based in Washington who aided its passage around the world.	中国出生、现居华盛顿的维权人士杨建利是这次环球旅行的协助者，他说，这个瓶子据说是被一个同情此事的中国官员亲自从成都带到中东，之后又被另一个人带到巴黎，在那里它被寄往华盛顿，并于四周前到达那里。
Finally, coming nearly full circle, the 450-milliliter bottle of baijiu, a fiery Chinese clear liquor, was carried to Hong Kong, a semiautonomous city that is part of China, by Andrew To, a local democracy advocate. Mr. To confirmed his part in the bottle's travels in an interview. In Hong Kong, it is set to appear at a candlelight vigil on Sunday to memorialize the crackdown in Tiananmen Square, providing a new "focal point" for the event, Mr. Yang said.	最后，这个装有 450 毫升白酒（一种无色的中国烈酒）的瓶子绕了地球将近一周，被香港民主倡导人士陶君行(Andrew To)带到这个中国的半自治城市。陶君行在采访中证实了自己在这个瓶子的旅行中所扮演的角色。杨建利说，香港于周日举行的纪念天安门广场镇压事件的烛光守夜上，这个瓶子也将出现，为该活动带来新的“焦点”。
Mr. Yang declined to identify the official who smuggled it out and asked that the Middle Eastern country that was the liquor's first destination not be identified to protect the official.	杨建利拒绝透露将这瓶酒走私出境的官员姓名，并且出于保护这位官员的目的，要求不透露旅行第一站那个中东国家的名字。
As all of that was going on, the four men charged with producing and selling the commemorative liquor sit in detention in Chengdu, facing possibly long prison sentences. In March, Chinese prosecutors charged	与此同时，四名被指生产和销售这瓶纪念白酒的人仍被关押在成都，可能面临长期监禁。三月份，中国检察机关以“煽动颠覆国家政权罪”对陈兵、符海陆、罗富誉、张雋勇发起指控。法庭称他们对“我国社会主义制度不满”，并

Chen Bing, Fu Hailu, Luo Fuyu and Zhang Junyong with “inciting subversion of state power.” They were “dissatisfied with our country’s socialist system,” the court said, and “plotted together, discussed, manufactured and printed” the baijiu’s special labels.	且“共谋商量制作印有”那些特殊标签的白酒。
The liquor’s name, “Eight Liquor Six Four,” is a homophone for 89.6.4, the date of the massacre on June 4, 1989. The label features a modified drawing of the famous standoff between an unarmed man and a row of tanks near Tiananmen Square, and it boasts that the liquor was aged for 27 years. (Last year was the 27th anniversary of the crackdown.) The men advertised their product online and had sold perhaps several dozen bottles — charging 89.64 renminbi, about $13, for two — when the police detained them in May 2016.	酒的名字叫做“八酒六四”，和那场屠杀发生的日期 89.6.4 谐音。标签上画着那场著名的对峙：天安门广场附近，一个手无寸铁的男人面对一排坦克，此外上面还自称这瓶酒有 27 年历史。（去年是该镇压事件的 27 周年纪念日）。几人在网上公布了这件产品，售价是 89.64 元人民币一瓶，约合 13 美元，截止到 2016 年 5 月他们被警察拘留之前，大约售出了几十瓶。
The Chinese government has never said how many people died around Tiananmen Square when troops moved in on the night of June 3, 1989. It officially labels the event “turmoil” and forbids public discussion or commemoration of the victims, arguing that the high-speed economic growth that followed the protests proves that taking firm action to restore Communist Party-led political and military order was the correct course.	中国政府从来没有说过 1989 年 6 月 3 日晚部队进驻之时，天安门广场周围究竟有多少人死亡，并且正式把该事件定性为“动乱”，禁止公开讨论或纪念遇难者，他们声称抗议活动之后的经济高速增长证明，当初果断采取行动，恢复共产党领导的政治和军事秩序，是正确的道路。
The charges against the four men are absurd to the parents of Xiao Jie and Wu Guofeng, who were killed in the crackdown as 20-year-old students at Renmin University of China in Beijing. The parents, who live in Sichuan, want to testify on behalf of the defendants, who they said are of good character.	在那场镇压中遇害的肖杰和吴国锋当时在北京的中国人民大学就读，去世时年仅 20 岁，他们的父母认为对这四人的控告是荒谬的。两对父母现居四川，他们表示四位被告品行良好，并且愿意为他们作证。
“If remembering June 4 is a crime, then please, the Chengdu Public	“如果说纪念六四有罪，那么请成都市公安局干脆来抓我们算了，”吴国锋

Security Bureau should arrest us," said Mr. Wu's father, Wu Dingfu, in a deposition for the court, copies of which have been circulating online. "We remember our son each year on June 4. We must be the real plotters."	的父亲吴定富在一份呈交法庭的笔录中表示，“我们每年都在因为儿子的原因纪念六四，我们才是主谋！”这份笔录的副本正在网上流传。
"Like my son Xiao Jie, I just want this country to get better," said Mr. Xiao's father, Xiao Zongyou. The four defendants are idealistic, he said, "just like my son."	“我和我儿子一样，只想这个国家更好，”肖杰的父亲肖宗友说。他说，四名被告都是理想主义者，“像我的肖杰这样。”
No date has been set yet for the trials at the Chengdu Intermediate People's Court, Wan Miaoyan, a lawyer for Mr. Chen, said in an interview. Her client and the other defendants have pleaded not guilty, she said.	陈兵的律师万淼焱在接受采访时表示，成都市中级人民法院仍然没有确定审判日期。她说，她的客户和其他被告都不认罪。
"The reason we've pleaded not guilty is because, under Chinese law, their mere commemorative action does not constitute a crime," Ms. Wan said, calling on the court to judge the case leniently in the interest of social harmony.	“我们做无罪辩护的原因，是从我国的法律来看，他们的单纯纪念行为确实不能构成任何的犯罪，”万淼焱说，她呼吁法院从社会和谐出发，对此案宽大处理。
"Blood was shed during the student movement, no matter whose. A lot of people's destinies were affected," she said.	“学运事件，无论发生时的谁对谁错，但毕竟有过流血，很多人的命运受到牵连，得以改变，”她说。
"It's doesn't make sense that after 28 years such a moderate and innocent commemoration should be seen through the prism of politics, as if it threatened political power," she said. "The incident should be neither taboo nor a totem."	“时过境迁 28 年，如果这样一个中性的单纯的纪念行为，仍然要用政治的眼光上到危害政权的层次，显然，不符合常识，”她说。“这一事件，不应该是禁忌，也不应该是图腾。”
Commemorations have taken place every year with small, private events in China and public events outside the Chinese mainland.	在中国，每一年都会有小型的私人纪念活动，中国大陆以外的地方，每年也会举行公开纪念活动。
Nowhere is the anniversary remembered on a greater scale than in Hong Kong, the former British colony that returned to Chinese rule in	在各地的周年纪念活动中，香港的规模是最大的，这里曾是英国的殖民地，于 1997 年回归中国统治，但保留了更加自由的政治和经济制度。每年这个

1997 but has retained a more liberal political and economic system. Tens of thousands of people, including some visitors from the Chinese mainland, gather each year for a candlelight vigil in a public park.	时候，都会有数万人聚集在一个公园里举行烛光守夜仪式，其中也包括一些来自中国大陆的访问者。
The presence of the modest bottle so freighted with meaning may irritate the Chinese government, as a symbol of persistent challenges to the Communist Party's interpretation of history. After the vigil, Mr. To said, it may be placed in a Hong Kong museum dedicated to the 1989 protest movement.	这样一个传达某种含义的普通瓶子可能会刺激中国政府，认为它象征着对共产党历史解读的持续挑战。陶君行表示，在守夜仪式之后，它可能会被存放在一个旨在纪念1989年抗议活动的香港博物馆中。
Mr. Yang said the bottle's label will help combat the amnesia that has enveloped the killings on the Chinese mainland.	杨建利说，这个瓶子的标签将有助于对抗中国大陆的健忘症，关于杀戮的记忆在那里已被封存。
"These people were trying to reactivate the collective memory of our own past," he said. "China must some day come to terms with its past, and this incident must have a solution."	"这些人正在努力恢复关于我们过去的集体记忆，"他说："中国有一天会接受它的过去，这个事件必须有一个解决办法。"
"I think the resolution of Tiananmen, one way or another, will provide the key to opening up the political space of the future," he said, adding that the four digits – 89.6.4 – had become a "code" for political change.	"我认为天安门事件的解决，或多或少，将为未来政治空间的开放提供一把钥匙，"他补充说，这四个数字：89.6.4，已经成为政治变革的"代码"。
Elsewhere, too, the bottle meme has been picked up. In a Twitter post, Amnesty International called on people to #toasttoremember the anniversary with a Chinese baijiu bottle featuring photographs of the four defendants.	在世界的其他地方，这个瓶子也被当做政治米姆(meme)。国际特赦组织(Amnesty International)在一条推中呼吁人们以 #toasttoremember 为标签，以带有四位被告照片的中国白酒瓶图案纪念这个周年纪念日。
Or with Western-style wine.	或者使用西式葡萄酒瓶。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/china-tiananmen-liquor-bottle-baijiu	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/china-tiananmen-liquor-bottle-baijiu
From Heavy Metal Frontman to Taiwan's Parliament	从摇滚明星到立法委员，台湾人林昶佐的信念
TAIPEI, Taiwan — In a land renowned for its singalong pop songs and	台湾台北——在一个以朗朗上口的流行歌和珍珠奶茶著称的地方，林昶佐向

bubble milk tea, Freddy Lim has always been something of a black sheep.	来是异类。
A prominent figure in Taiwan's underground music circles, Mr. Lim, 41, was until recently best known as the head-bashing frontman of the heavy metal band Chthonic, sometimes called the "Black Sabbath of Asia."	身为台湾地下音乐圈一个响当当的人物，41岁的林昶佐在过去最为人所知的身份是狂舞长发的重金属乐团主唱，领衔有“亚洲 Black Sabbath”之称的“闪灵”(Chthonic)乐团。
But for the past year, Mr. Lim has put his music career of more than two decades on pause to redirect his energy to a more buttoned-up pursuit: serving as a member in Taiwan's Legislative Yuan, or Parliament.	但是在过去一年里，林昶佐暂时放下了二十多年的音乐生涯，将精力转向一个相对严肃的事业：担任台湾立法院委员，亦即国会议员。
"My fans keep asking when I'm going to do a metal scream in Parliament," said Mr. Lim, smiling mischievously.	“我的歌迷一直在问我，什么时候在国会来一声金属嘶吼，”林昶佐坏笑着说。
Mr. Lim was at ease alternating between Chinese and English in a recent interview in his office, a creative's sanctuary in an otherwise drab, florescent-lit government building in central Taipei. While Mr. Lim has lately traded in his black leather and face paint for more traditional bureaucrat attire, echoes of his musician alter ego remain on display in his office.	在自己的办公室接受采访时，林昶佐自如地在中英文之间切换。这座台湾市中心灯火通明、单调乏味的政府大楼内，他的办公室成了一个文创避难所。近来他放弃了黑色皮革服饰和面部的油彩，改穿比较传统的官员服饰，然而他的音乐人身份在办公室里依然有所展现。
The electronic drum set. A black-and-white poster of David Bowie. A photo taken during a packed outdoor Chthonic concert and campaign rally in Taipei's Liberty Square in 2015. And, displayed behind Mr. Lim's desk, a floor-to-ceiling portrait of the Dalai Lama — "one of my life mentors," he says.	一套电子鼓。一幅大卫·鲍伊(David Bowie)的黑白海报。一张2015年摄于台北自由广场的照片，呈现的是人山人海的闪灵乐团户外演唱会暨竞选集会。在他的办公桌后面是一幅占满整个墙面的达赖喇嘛像——他是“我的一个人生导师，”他说。
Another holdover from his rocker life is the long mane of hair, which he has made a point of keeping ever since a politician from the rival Nationalist Party urged voters at a campaign rally not to vote for Mr.	另一个摇滚艺人时代特征是一头长发，这是他有意留下的，因为一个国民党竞选对手曾在集会上呼吁选民不要投票给林昶佐，称他的头发“比女人还长”。

Lim, whose hair, said the opponent, "is longer than a woman's."
Fast-forward a little over a year. That ponytail is now the trademark feature of a man who has emerged as one of the leaders of a growing youth-driven movement pushing for progressive change and independence for Taiwan.	时光快进一年多。作为一场势头渐起的青年运动的领袖之一，马尾辫已经成为他的标志。这场运动旨在推动进步变革和台湾独立。
"Freddy is a rock star, and he's very charismatic," said Huang Kuo-chang, a fellow lawmaker and chairman of the New Power Party, the left-wing political party that Mr. Lim helped start in 2015. "He has helped us attract people who did not care about politics at all in the past."	"昶佐是摇滚明星，很有感染力，"同为立法委员的时代力量主席黄国昌说，这个左翼政党是林昶佐在 2015 年参与创办的。"他帮我们吸引到一些过去完全不关心政治的人。"
Mr. Lim's recent turn toward politics began in the spring of 2014, when hundreds of students occupied Taiwan's Parliament to protest a trade deal with China that they feared would make Taiwan more vulnerable to Beijing's influence. For nearly a month, thousands of supporters joined students in the streets in a remarkable display of resistance that became known as the Sunflower Movement.	林昶佐近期转而投身于政坛，这始于 2014 年春天。当时，数百名学生占领台湾立法院，抗议与中国的一项贸易协议。他们担心该协议会让台湾更容易受北京的影响。在近一个月时间里，成千上万名支持者加入学生的队伍，走上街头。这是一场引人注目的反抗活动，后被称作"太阳花运动"。
As the lead vocalist of Chthonic and chairman of Amnesty International Taiwan at the time, Mr. Lim was among the best-known figures at the demonstrations.	时任闪灵乐团主唱和国际特赦组织台湾分会会长的林昶佐，是多场示威活动现场最引人注目的人之一。
At the heart of the protests was an issue that has long formed the axis around which Taiwanese politics revolves: Taiwan's uncertain relationship with mainland China. Cross-strait relations have been tense since the Nationalist government, led by Chiang Kai-shek, fled to Taiwan after the Communist Revolution in 1949. Both sides claim to be the legitimate government of China, and China still claims Taiwan as	抗议的核心是台湾与大陆不确定的关系。长期以来，这个问题已经构成了一个轴心，让整个台湾政治围绕着它运转。1949 年，蒋介石领导的国民党政府在共产主义革命后逃至台湾。自那以后，两岸关系紧张。双方均声称是中国的合法政府，并且中国依然称台湾是其领土的一部分。 part of its territory.

As time passed, however, Taiwan, spurred on by its peaceful transition to democracy in the late 1980s, began to forge a separate political and national identity. Today, while many in Taiwan still hope for reunification with China, surveys show that a growing number of Taiwanese feel little to no connection with the mainland. According to a 2016 survey by the Election Study Center at National Chengchi University in Taipei, over 58 percent of people now identify as Taiwanese, up from 17.6 percent in 1992.	然而，随着时间的流逝，台湾受 80 年代末和平的民主过渡的鼓舞，开始形成自己的政治和民族认同。如今，尽管很多台湾人依然希望重新与中国统一，但调查显示，觉得与大陆关联甚少甚至没有关联的台湾人越来越多。从位于台北的国立政治大学选举研究中心在 2016 年进行的一项研究来看，认为自己是台湾人的比例从 1992 年的 17.6%，增加到了现在的逾 58%。
The trend is especially evident among young people in Taiwan.	在台湾的年轻人中，这种趋势尤为明显。
“The younger generation is totally different from their parents,” Mr. Lim said. “We call them the ‘tianran du’ or ‘natural supporters of Taiwanese independence.’ They were born in a country of democracy and freedom. To them, it’s not even a question: Taiwan is independent.”	“年轻一代完全不同于他们的父辈，”林昶佐说。“我们把他们称为‘天然独’，即‘天然支持台湾独立的人’。他们生在一个民主、自由的国家。在他们看来，台湾独立甚至都不是问题。”
Despite his youthful demeanor and boyish looks, Mr. Lim does not fall into the “tianran du” category. Born in 1976, the Taipei native came of age during the martial law years, a dark period of history during which Taiwan was subject to repressive one-party rule by the Nationalist Party.	尽管拥有散发着青春气息的举止和年轻的容貌，但林昶佐并不属于“天然独”这个类别。他出生于 1976 年，是土生土长的台北人，在戒严时期长大成人。那是台湾历史上的黑暗时期，国民党对台湾实行一党专制统治。
Under martial law, the Nationalist government sought to create a unified Chinese identity — even if that meant using force. In classrooms, teachers taught mainland Chinese history instead of the history of Taiwan. Children were punished for speaking Taiwanese Hokkien — then the native language of more than half of Taiwan’s population — instead of Mandarin.	根据戒严令，国民党政府寻求创造一种统一的中国认同，哪怕这意味着使用武力。在教室里，老师教的是中国大陆的历史，而不是台湾的历史。孩子们会因为说台湾闽南语——当时是超过一半台湾人的母语——而不是普通话，受到惩罚。

Looking back, Mr. Lim said, those years were a period of "great self-struggle."	回首往事，林昶佐说，那些年是“激烈的自我斗争”时期。
"As a child I was close to my grandmother, who spoke Taiwanese and Japanese at home," he said. "But in school we were taught that this was wrong. I began to look down on my grandmother and my own family."	“孩提时代，我和祖母很亲，她在家里说台湾话和日语，”他说。“但在学校里，我们接受的教育说这是错误的。我开始看不起祖母和我自己的家庭。”
That changed as Mr. Lim grew older. His small island home, he discovered, had a distinct history. It was home mostly to people who had migrated over the centuries from southern China as well as a number of aboriginal groups. It had also been a strategic trading post for the Dutch and the Spanish in the 17th century and, in the early 20th century, a Japanese colony.	随着年龄的增长，这种情况发生了变化。他发现，自己坐落在一个小岛上的家园有着不一样的历史。这里的人主要是数百年间从中国南方移民过去的，还有大量原住民部落。此外，这里在 17 世纪是荷兰和西班牙的战略贸易枢纽，在 20 世纪初是日本的殖民地。
To be Taiwanese, he realized, meant much more than being Chinese. That belief in a separate Taiwanese identity later became a constant thread woven throughout Mr. Lim's music.	他意识到，台湾人这个身份的含义，远多于中国人这个身份。后来，对台湾人的身份应该独立出来的信念，始终贯穿在林昶佐的音乐中。
"As a Taiwanese person, I felt strange singing about the typical extreme metal themes like vampires and Satan," said Mr. Lim. "Instead, we used Taiwanese mythology and folk stories as source material. It became a way to build up my identity and go deeper into Taiwanese history."	“作为一个台湾人，我对歌唱典型的极端金属主题，比如吸血鬼和魔鬼感到不自在，”林昶佐说。“相反，我们把台湾的神话和民间故事作为素材。这成了构建我的身份认同并深入探索台湾历史的一种方式。”
With his band, Mr. Lim toured the world for years, introducing heavy metal fans to what the band called "orient metal." (Think screaming vocals overlaid with traditional Asian instruments.) In 2007, Chthonic snagged a rookie slot on Ozzfest, Ozzy Osbourne's annual tour of hard-rock and metal bands, becoming one of the first Taiwanese metal bands to tour the United States.	林昶佐长年带领乐队在全世界巡演，向重金属乐迷们介绍了所谓的“东方金属”（想象吼叫的人声与亚洲传统乐器相结合）。2007 年，“闪灵”在奥兹·奥斯本(Ozzy Osbourne)为硬摇滚与金属乐队举办的年度巡演奥兹音乐节(Ozzfest)上挤进了新秀时段，成为首批前往美国巡演的台湾金属乐队之一。
Randy Blythe, lead singer of the metal band Lamb of God, recalled	金属乐队“上帝的羔羊”(Lamb of God)的主唱兰迪·布莱斯(Randy Blythe)回

seeing Taiwanese-Americans — some in their 60s and 70s, and often wearing black Chthonic T-shirts — at almost every stop on the tour.	忆，他们在巡演的每一站几乎都能看到台湾裔美国人——有些人已经六七十岁了——他们经常穿着黑色的“闪灵”T恤衫。
“I think for Taiwanese-Americans, it was a real source of pride,” Mr. Blythe said in a telephone interview.	“我觉得对于台湾裔美国人来说，这支乐队是他们真正的骄傲，”布莱斯在接受电话采访时说。
“In our world, a lot of people can yell and make angry music and be like, ‘The system sucks,’” Mr. Blythe added. “But Freddy did something. He took a concrete step to try and change things for the better.”	“在我们的世界里，很多人可以大喊大叫，做出愤怒的音乐，唱点‘体制烂透了’之类的，”布莱斯补充说，“但是弗雷迪做了一些事情。他尝试采取具体的步骤，让一切变得更好。”
Just over a year in office, Mr. Lim and the New Power Party are still in the process of making the transition from activists to politicians. With only five legislators in Taiwan’s 113-seat Parliament, the party is still a long way from its stated goal of displacing the Nationalist Party and becoming one of Taiwan’s two major political parties along with the Democratic Progressive Party.	林昶佐和新力党上任只有一年多的时间，他们仍在完成从活动人士向政治家的过渡。该党宣扬自己的目标是取代国民党，与民进党一起成为台湾两大政党，台湾的立法院有 113 个席位，目前新力党在院内只拥有五位立法委员，他们距离自己的目标还很遥远。
In addition to party recruitment, Mr. Lim said that for now, he was focusing on his party’s domestic priorities, which include changing Taiwan’s referendum and impeachment processes.	除了招募党员之外，林昶佐说，自己目前还专注于党在国内的优先事项，包括改变台湾的全民公决及弹劾程序。
Just this week, the New Power Party celebrated along with local L.G.B.T. groups after the constitutional court issued a ruling paving the way for Taiwan to become the first place in Asia to recognize same-sex marriage.	就在本周，台湾宪法法院发布裁决，为台湾成为亚洲第一个承认同性婚姻的地区铺平了道路，新力党与本土的 LGBT 群体一起举行了庆祝。
“I’m so, so happy,” said Mr. Lim. “This was such an important step for Taiwan.”	“我非常、非常高兴，”林昶佐说，“这对于台湾来说是非常重要的一步。”
There is another item at the top of his political agenda: gaining greater international recognition for Taiwan.	在他的政治议程里位居前列的还有另一件事情：让台湾获得更大的国际认可。
And so, on the cloudy morning of Jan. 20, Mr. Lim found himself on the	所以，1月20日那个多云的早晨，林昶佐置身华盛顿的国家广场，同大群

Washington Mall, cheering alongside throngs of Donald J. Trump supporters as they watched the maverick businessman take the oath of office to become the nation's 45th president. Back in December, Mr. Trump became an unlikely partner for many Taiwanese when he broke with decades of precedent by accepting a congratulatory phone call from Taiwan's president, Tsai Ing-wen.	唐纳德·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)的支持者们一起欢呼, 看着这位特立独行的商人宣誓就职, 成为美国的第45任总统。去年12月, 特朗普打破几十年的先例与台湾总统蔡英文通电话, 那时, 他出人意料地成为了许多台湾人眼中的合作伙伴。
But much has happened since then, not the least a chummy meeting between Mr. Trump and the Chinese leader, Xi Jinping, by which time Mr. Trump had already shifted his position to embrace the "one China" policy.	但是从那之后, 发生了很多事情, 尤其是特朗普和中国领导人习近平举行了一次友好的会晤, 当时特朗普已经改变立场, 接受了“一个中国”的政策。
Many politicians in Taiwan, including Mr. Lim, are now approaching Mr. Trump's administration with what they call "cautious optimism."	许多台湾政治家在接近特朗普政府时, 都抱着他们所谓的“谨慎乐观”心态, 林昶佐也是如此。
"Improving Taiwan's relations with America doesn't mean the U.S. and China can't have good relations," he said. "We just want to have relations with everyone on our own terms. It's not a zero sum situation."	“改善台湾与美国的关系并不意味着中美两国关系会不好,”他说。“我们只想按照我们自己的方式同所有人建立关系。这不是一种零和博弈的情况。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/from-heavy-metal-frontman-to-taiwans-parliament	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/from-heavy-metal-frontman-to-taiwans-parliament
At Chinese Factory Where Ivanka Trump Shoes Are Made, an Activist Is Detained	中国劳工活动人士被拘, 卧底于伊万卡品牌代工厂
BEIJING — A labor activist who had been working undercover at a Chinese factory that makes shoes for Ivanka Trump and other brands has been detained by the police, as concerns rise over a crackdown on the country's advocacy groups.	北京——就在中国对人权团体的打压越发令人担忧之际, 一名在中国工厂里卧底的劳工活动人士遭到了警方扣押, 而这家工厂为伊万卡·特朗普(Ivanka Trump)和其他品牌生产鞋子。
The activist, Hua Haifeng, who was working on behalf of the advocacy	这名活动者名为华海峰, 代表倡导团体中国劳工观察(China Labor Watch)

group China Labor Watch, was detained on suspicion of illegal eavesdropping, his wife, Deng Guimian, said late Tuesday. Mr. Hua and two other labor activists had been undercover at two Chinese factories that make shoes for Ms. Trump and other brands. They all disappeared on Saturday, according to their employer, China Labor Watch.	开展卧底工作，他的妻子邓桂莲周二晚些时候表示，他因涉嫌非法窃听遭到扣押。华海峰和另外两名劳工活动人士曾在中国的两家工厂工作，这两家厂为伊万卡·特朗普品牌和其他品牌制造鞋子。据他们的雇主中国劳工观察说，三人均在周六失踪。
They were last seen in Ganzhou, a large city in southern Jiangxi Province. It is unclear whether the other two were detained.	最后一次有人看见他们是在江西省南部的大城市赣州。其他两人是否被羁押目前还不清楚。
The group had been investigating labor conditions at the two factories, one in Ganzhou and another in Dongguan. Their preliminary findings, which had not yet been made public, detail that workers were subject to exceptionally long hours.	中国劳工观察一直在调查这两家工厂的劳动条件，一家在赣州，另一家在东莞。初步调查显示工人的工作时间非常长，调查结果尚未公开。
Ms. Deng said a police officer from the Public Security Bureau in Jiangxi Province in south-central China called her on Tuesday afternoon to officially notify her of the detention. Mr. Hua could be held for days or weeks before being formally arrested.	邓女士说，中国中南部省份江西省的一名公安周二下午打电话给她，正式通知华海峰已被拘留。在被正式逮捕之前，他可能被拘留数天或数周之久。
Ms. Deng said her husband had worked for nongovernmental organizations, mainly related to labor issues, for more than a decade. She added that without his pay, it would be difficult to care for the couple's daughter, 7, and son, 3, as well as three elderly relatives.	邓女士表示，这十多年来，丈夫为各种非政府组织工作，主要是跟劳工问题有关。她说，如果没有他的薪水，很难照顾他们7岁的女儿和3岁的儿子，以及三个长辈。
"I was panicked, very angry and almost lost control of my temper," when the officer phoned, she said.	她说：“我当时很恐慌，非常生气，情绪有点失控。”
Li Qiang, the director of China Labor Watch, said that the three labor activists did not have any illegal eavesdropping equipment, and speculated that Mr. Hua and the other activists might have been detained over the use of cellphones. "Jiangxi police are just looking for	中国劳工观察总监李强说，这三名劳工活动人士没有任何非法窃听设备，他推测华海峰和其他活动者可能是因为使用手机被羁押的。“江西警察只是找了一个借口，”他说。 an excuse," he said.

The Ivanka Trump brand declined to comment on the detention. The White House did not immediately reply to a request for comment.	伊万卡·特朗普品牌拒绝就此事予以置评。白宫没有立即回复置评请求。
A spokeswoman for Marc Fisher Footwear, which makes Ivanka Trump shoes, said, "We were unaware of the allegations against" the Chinese manufacturer and would look into them immediately.	Marc Fisher Footwear 负责为伊万卡·特朗普品牌制作鞋子，那里的一名发言人表示，“不知道和中国制造商有关的指控”，将会立即开展调查。
A woman answering the phones on Tuesday night at the Ganzhou Public Security Bureau, the municipal unit of the Jiangxi Province Public Security Bureau, said that an official statement, if any, would have to wait until Wednesday, after the end of a three-day, national holiday.	周二晚上，在江西省公安厅下属赣州市公安局，接听电话的一位女士说，如果官方会发声明的话，也必须等到周三，也就是三天的全国性假日结束之后。
The detention follows rising pressure on advocacy groups in the country. Dozens of human rights activists have been arrested in the past year, prompting broad alarm within the advocacy community.	这起羁押事件发生之前，该国的倡导团体遭到的打压力度正在增加。过去一年来，有数十名人权活动人士遭到了逮捕，在倡导群体中引起了普遍警惕。
Mr. Li, who set up China Labor Watch 17 years ago and has conducted hundreds of investigations of Chinese factories, said this was the first time any of his activists had been detained in a criminal case. China Labor Watch has previously looked into labor conditions at Apple and Samsung.	李强于 17 年前成立了中国劳工观察，对中国的工厂进行了数百次的调查，他说这是该组织第一次有活动人士遭到刑拘。中国劳工观察曾经调查过苹果和三星的劳动状况。
In his view, the unusual action by the Chinese police appeared to be a response to his group's decision to investigate a manufacturing operation related to President Trump's family. But he offered no evidence for his opinion.	在他看来，中国警方采取这种不同寻常的行动，似乎和该组织决定调查涉及特朗普家族的制造业务有关。但他没有证据来支持这个看法。
The Trump family's relationship with China has drawn significant attention since the campaign. While Mr. Trump has blamed the country for taking manufacturing jobs from the United States, his family has also	自特朗普的竞选活动以来，其家族与中国的关系引起了极大的关注。虽然特朗普指责中国抢走了美国的制造业岗位，但他的家人也希望在中国市场上获利。 looked to profit from China's market.

Mr. Trump has recently secured more than 75 trademarks in China. The family of his son-in-law, Jared Kushner, is trying to raise money from Chinese investors for a real estate project, efforts that have highlighted White House connections.	特朗普最近在中国申请到了逾 75 个商标。他女婿贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)的家人正在试图从中国投资者那里筹集开展房地产项目的资金, 这些努力都凸显出与白宫的关系。
The factories belong to Huajian International, one of the world's largest manufacturers of women's shoes. The Ivanka Trump brand, according to Huajian, represents only about 100,000 pairs of shoes a year out of its overall production of 8 million pairs a year, including brands like Coach and Alain Delon.	这些工厂属于世界最大的女鞋生产商之一的华坚国际。该集团表示, 伊万卡·特朗普品牌鞋子他们每年只生产约 10 万双, 而他们每年总共生产 800 万双鞋, 包括 Coach 和 Alain Delon 等品牌鞋子。
Huajian's spokesman, Wei Xuegang, also declined to comment, citing the holiday. Mr. Wei had said that he had not heard of any labor activists in any of the company's factories.	华坚的发言人危雪刚也以放假为由拒绝置评。他说, 没有听说过公司的哪个工厂里有劳工活动人士。
In interviews on Sunday and Monday outside the Huajian factory gate in Dongguan, many workers described working 10 or more hours a day, six days a week. Mr. Wei said that the company had encountered a busy season in which workers had agreed to work extra hours but were paid overtime. He added that the factory also had quiet seasons when the hours were less.	周日和周一到东莞华坚工厂门外采访时, 很多工人表示他们每天工作 10 小时以上, 每周工作六天。危雪刚说, 公司目前是生产旺季, 工人同意加班, 也获得了加班工资。他表示, 工厂也有生产淡季, 那时的工作时间就不长。
Mr. Hua had been working undercover in Huajian's main factory in Dongguan. The factory, about 50 miles up the Pearl River from Hong Kong, has about 5,000 employees. Another activist, Su Heng, was working in Huajian's second factory in Ganzhou, which has about 3,000 employees.	王海峰在位于东莞的华坚主厂工作。厂子约有 5000 名员工, 在香港沿着珠江而上大约 50 英里(约合 80 公里)的地方。另外一名活动者苏恒则在华坚位于赣州的第二家工厂工作, 那里约有 3000 名员工。
Huajian produces the heels for Ivanka Trump shoes in Dongguan, along	华坚在东莞为许多其他品牌生产整鞋, 为伊万卡·特朗普品牌生产鞋跟。然后

with the full production for many other brands. It then ships the heels north to Ganzhou, where Ivanka Trump shoes are assembled.	将这些鞋跟往北运送到赣州，在那里组装伊万卡·特朗普品牌鞋。
A third activist, Li Zhao, was dismissed after working undercover for just five days in the Dongguan factory in April; he was discovered taking photos with his cellphone. Many factories have strict policies against photography to prevent industrial espionage.	第三名活动人士叫李招，4月份在东莞的工厂从事卧底工作五天后被解雇；因为工厂发现他用手机拍照。很多工厂都有严格的防拍摄政策，以防工业间谍。
Li Zhao was phoned by local police but not actually brought in for questioning, according to China Labor Watch. He soon fled to Ganzhou and then disappeared.	据中国劳工观察说，当地警方给李招打过电话进行询问，但并没有带走询问。他很快逃到了赣州，然后就消失了。
At the direction of China Labor Watch, Mr. Hua had left his job and tried to go to Hong Kong last Thursday for meetings with China Labor Watch and journalists, including from The New York Times. Mr. Hua was denied permission to exit mainland China by a Chinese immigration agent at the border with Hong Kong, and told to phone the local police in Shenzhen, the mainland border city with Hong Kong.	在中国劳工观察的指示下，华海峰已经从工厂离职，上周四他试图去香港，和中国劳工观察以及《纽约时报》等媒体的记者会面。但到了大陆和香港边境，一名中国移民官员拒绝了华海峰的离境要求，被告知需要向深圳警方打电话。深圳是大陆与香港接壤的边境城市。
Mr. Hua called the police, who asked him to come in for questioning, according to China Labor Watch. When he arrived, the police told Mr. Hua that they knew he had been investigating the Huajian factory in Dongguan, Mr. Li said.	中国劳工观察称，华海峰打了电话给警方，警方要求他前去接受询问。他到达后，警方告诉华海峰，他们知道他一直在调查东莞的华坚工厂。
After the questioning, Mr. Hua, 36, fled to Ganzhou last Friday, only to disappear soon after, the advocacy group said.	中国劳工观察说，在接受询问后，36岁的华海峰上周五逃到赣州，不久之后就消失了。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/labor-activist-detained-ivanka-trump-factory	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/labor-activist-detained-ivanka-trump-factory
China Charges Activist From Taiwan With 'Subverting State Power'	中国以颠覆罪逮捕台湾人权倡导人士李明哲
TAIPEI, Taiwan — Lee Ming-cheh, a human rights advocate	台湾台北——中国政府在一场针对公民社会组织的持续打压行动中宣布，今

from Taiwan who was detained in China in March, has been formally arrested on a charge of "subverting state power," the Chinese government has announced, amid a continuing crackdown on civil society organizations.	年3月在中国被拘的台湾人权倡导人士李明哲(Lee Ming-cheh)以“颠覆政权”的罪名遭正式逮捕。
His arrest, announced on Friday, marks the first time the Chinese authorities have charged someone from Taiwan with subversion. Many people in Taiwan fear it will not be the last, and it has added a new strain to the tensions between Beijing and Taipei.	他被捕的消息是在上周五宣布的，这是中国当局首次以颠覆罪指控一名台湾人。有不少台湾人士担心，这不会是最后一次。此事给北京与台北之间的紧张关系增添了新的压力。
China's ruling Communist Party has never administered Taiwan but claims it as Chinese territory, to be annexed by force if necessary. The Nationalists who once dominated China fled to the island after losing to the Communists in a civil war in 1949. Today more residents of Taiwan identify themselves as Taiwanese than Chinese, and few support unification with China.	中国的执政党共产党不曾统治台湾，但宣称它是中国领土的一部分，如有需要，将通过武力统一。曾经统治过中国的国民党在1949年的内战中败给了共产党，之后逃到了这座岛上。如今，更多的台湾居民以台湾人自居，不认为自己是中国人，也很少支持与中国统一。
The rift between the two sides has widened since last year, when Tsai Ing-wen was elected president of Taiwan. The Democratic Progressive Party, led by Ms. Tsai, has historically favored formal independence from China.	自蔡英文去年当选台湾总统以来，双方的裂痕扩大了。蔡英文领导的民进党历来倾向于从中国正式独立。
Beijing broke off official communications with Taiwan after Ms. Tsai, in her inauguration speech, declined to yield to Chinese demands that she endorse a political formula that holds that Taiwan is part of "One China" that includes both mainland China and Taiwan.	自蔡英文在就职演说中拒绝顺从中国要求她支持台湾属于“一个中国”的政治模式——其中既包括中国大陆，也包括台湾——后，北京便切断了与台湾的官方沟通渠道。
Mr. Lee was detained on March 19 after crossing into mainland China from Macau, a former Portuguese colony that has limited autonomy from Beijing. Since then he has been held incommunicado, denied	李明哲是在3月19日从澳门过境进入中国大陆后被拘，澳门是前葡萄牙殖民地，具有有限的自治权。自那之后，李明哲便与外界失去联系，无法接受家属探访，也不能与律师见面。

family visits and access to lawyers.
In the announcement of Mr. Lee's arrest, An Fengshan, a spokesman for China's Taiwan Affairs Office, said Mr. Lee visited China frequently over the past five years and "colluded with relevant individuals in the mainland, laying down an operational program, establishing an illegal organization and planning and implementing activities to subvert state power." Mr. An offered no evidence to support these claims.	国台办发言人安峰山在宣布李明哲被捕的消息时表示,他在过去五年里频繁进入大陆,“与大陆有关人员勾结,制定行动纲领,建立非法组织,策划、实施颠覆我国家政权的活动”。安峰山没有提供证据证明这些说法。
The Chinese government has in recent years increasingly used the crimes of "subversion" or "inciting subversion" to imprison political dissidents and human rights advocates. Chinese courts come under Communist Party control and rarely reject the prosecution's case, especially in politically charged trials. Defendants found guilty of subversion can face up to life in prison, although shorter sentences are more common.	最近几年,中国政府越来越多地以“颠覆”或“煽动颠覆”的罪名监禁政治异见者和人权倡导人士。中国的法院受到共产党的控制,很少驳回这些起诉案件,尤其是涉及政治指控的案件。被认为犯有颠覆罪的被告可能会面临终生监禁,尽管短一些的刑期更为常见。
Last year, Peter Dahlin, a Swedish man living in Beijing who helped train Chinese legal advocates to challenge government decisions, was detained in secrecy and then expelled after he was made to confess on television.	去年,生活在北京的瑞典人彼得·达林(Peter Dahlin)被秘密拘捕,在电视上认罪后被驱逐出境。他曾帮助培训中国的法律维权人士挑战政府的决定。
Mr. An said that Mr. Lee and his Chinese associates had "candidly confessed" to the allegations. He did not give any details.	安峰山表示,李明哲与他的中国同谋对上述指控“供认不讳”。但他没有提供任何细节信息。
People close to Mr. Lee said that he sympathized with China's beleaguered democracy movement and, before his detention, spoke weekly with Chinese contacts via the social media app WeChat about Taiwan's experiences with democratization. They also said he had donated money and books to relatives of Chinese rights lawyers who	与李明哲关系密切的人士表示,李明哲同情陷入困境的中国民主运动,被捕之前,他每周通过社交媒体软件微信与他认识的中国人士通话,分享台湾在民主化方面的经验。他们还表示,他曾给被捕的中国人权律师的家属捐赠资金和书籍,这些人的罪名与他现在面临的一样。

had been imprisoned on the same charges he now faced.
Mr. Lee worked as a manager at a community college in Taipei and was a volunteer for Covenants Watch, an alliance of human rights organizations in Taiwan. Previously, he also worked in the Democratic Progressive Party.	李明哲之前在台北一所社区大学担任管理人员，是台湾人权组织人权公约施行监督联盟的一名志愿者，也曾为民进党效力。
The Democratic Progressive Party issued a statement on Saturday criticizing China for not making public any evidence of Mr. Lee's purported crimes and for not formally notifying the Taiwan government of his detention. China's opaque handling of Mr. Lee's case was "certain to produce a chilling effect on the Taiwanese people" and had already "hurt the international image of the Chinese mainland," the party said.	民进党上周六发布了一份声明，谴责中国没有公开与李明哲的罪名有关的证据，也没有向台湾政府正式通知拘留他的消息。声明还表示，中国在李明哲案件上不透明的处理方式“势必让台湾人民产生寒蝉效应”，“更伤害了中国大陆的国际形象”。
China's handling of Mr. Lee has added to the frosty relations across the Taiwan Strait. Beijing did not acknowledge his detention until 10 days after his disappearance. Last month, China barred Mr. Lee's wife, Lee Ching-yu, from flying to Beijing to inquire about him.	中国对待李明哲的方式令两岸关系雪上加霜。直到李明哲失踪 10 天后，北京才承认拘押了他。上月，中国又阻止李明哲的妻子李净瑜飞去北京询问他的消息。
In addition to trying to fly to China, Ms. Lee has publicly campaigned to free her husband, holding numerous news conferences and, last week, testifying before a United States House of Representatives committee about her husband's plight.	除了试图飞往中国，李净瑜还公开活动，多次举行新闻发布会，要求释放她的丈夫。上周，她还在美国众议院的一个委员会前为丈夫的糟糕处境作证。
Eeling Chiu, secretary general of the Taiwan Association for Human Rights, said that China's treatment of Mr. Lee was likely to lead nonprofit workers from Taiwan — many of whom were engaged in less politically sensitive areas such as environmental protection — to question whether it was safe for them to operate in the mainland.	台湾人权促进会秘书长邱伊翎(Eeling Chiu)表示，中国对待李明哲的方式有可能导致台湾的非营利组织工作人员怀疑自己在大陆活动是否安全，他们中许多人都介入的是环境保护等政治敏感性相对低一些领域。

"I'm afraid that this is going to result in serious concerns for a lot of people who go over to China," Ms. Chiu said in an interview.	"我恐怕这会让很多去中国的人很担心，"邱伊翎在接受采访时表示。
Chinese state news outlets have marshaled mainland Chinese academics to reject the criticisms from Taiwan, endorse the government's handling of Mr. Lee and argue that other people visiting the mainland from Taiwan need not fear arrest — so long as they obey the laws.	中国的官方新闻机构安排大陆的学者反驳台湾的批评，支持政府对李明哲的处理，指出其他从台湾来大陆访问的人不需要担心被捕——只要他们遵守法律。
"The evidence of Lee Ming-cheh's suspected crimes is abundant," Xinhua, the Chinese state news agency, said on Saturday, citing Chinese scholars. "The mainland's handling of this shows laws must be followed, laws rigorously enforced and lawbreaking punished."	"李明哲涉嫌触犯刑法证据充分，"中国官方通讯社新华社在周六援引几名中国学者的话表示。"大陆方面的处理体现了'有法必依、执法必严、违法必究'。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/taiwan-china-activist-lee-ming-cheh	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170531/taiwan-china-activist-lee-ming-cheh
Born on June Fourth: an American Journalist Reflects on How Tiananmen Was Covered	生于6月4日：美国驻华记者回忆“六四”报道
Mike Chinoy was the CNN Beijing bureau chief from 1987 to 1995. In recent years he wrote and reported "Assignment China," a 12-part documentary film series produced by the U.S.-China Institute at the University of Southern California on the history of American journalists in China from 1945 to the present day. The premise behind the project was that American reporters covering China have had a huge impact in shaping how China is viewed by the American public and the world. The series takes viewers behind the scenes and onto the front lines of how reporters told the China story over the course of many decades. Chinoy's episode about the 1989 Tiananmen Square democracy	1987年到1995年，齐迈可(Mike Chinoy)担任CNN北京分社社长。近年他以撰稿和记者的身份参与了《报导中国》(Assignment China)的创作。这部12集的系列纪录片由南加州大学美中学院(U.S.-China Institute at the University of Southern California)摄制，讲述了1945年至今美国驻华记者的历史。影片的创作基于这样一个假设：美国记者对中国的报道，对美国公众以及全世界如何看待中国有着重要影响。这一系列纪录片将观众带到了台前幕后，看到几十年以来记者如何报道有关中国的故事。由齐迈可任记者的有关1989年天安门广场民主运动的一集，只是大故事的一部分，从中可以看到都有哪些记者，在以何种方式工作，尤其是在中国现代史上一个如此紧张、关键的时期。齐迈可正是参与了1989年报道的记者之一，6月4日，

movement is just one part of a much bigger story that depicts who these journalists were and how they did their jobs, especially during such a tense and pivotal period in modern Chinese history. Chinoy was there among them in 1989, and spent his birthday, June 4, covering the deadly military crackdown on the protests in Beijing.	也就是他生日那天，他在北京报道了死伤惨重的军事镇压。
Ahead of the 28th anniversary of the June 3-4 military crackdown, Mr. Chinoy spoke with NYT Chinese about that time, and the lessons it holds for foreign journalists reporting on China today. Conducted through e-mail, the interview has been condensed and edited.	在临近6月3日和4日的军事镇压28周年之际，齐迈可向纽约时报中文网讲述了当时的情景，以及这对如今外国记者报道中国有什么启示。采访通过邮件进行，经过删减和编辑。
A lot of people from around the world remember what happened in Beijing on June 4th 1989 because they watched it unfold on TV. Many people in China have no idea, because public discussion of the crackdown is forbidden. June 4th also happens to be your birthday. Tell us how you spent it 28 years ago and how the turn of events that day changed you and the way you understand China.	纽约时报中文网：世界上很多人都记得1989年6月4日在北京发生的事情，因为他们当时正在电视上看着事件一步步发展。但在中国，很多人对这件事并不了解，因为政府禁止有关镇压行动的公众讨论。6月4日正好是你的生日。告诉我们28年前你是如何度过那一天的，发生这一系列事件对你自己有什么改变，你对中国的理解又发生了什么变化？
As CNN's Beijing bureau chief from 1987-1995, I spent the entire spring of 1989 covering the student protests. From the beginning, I was convinced the Communist Party would not tolerate such an overt challenge to its power, and I had been worried for several weeks that the situation would end badly.	齐迈可：作为1987年至1995年间CNN北京分社的社长，1989年整个春天我都在报道学生的抗议活动。从一开始我就认定，共产党不会容忍有人公开挑战党的权力，那几周我也一直担心事件会以悲剧告终。
Because communications were so basic then as compared with today, in early May, CNN had taken a room at the Beijing Hotel with a good view down Chang An Boulevard in the direction of Tiananmen. We used the room as a place to recharge batteries for our camera equipment and briefly refresh ourselves before returning to the Square,	当时的通讯方式跟现在比是很简陋的，因此5月初的时候，CNN在北京饭店开了一间对着天安门的房间，可以从一个很好的角度看到长安街。我们用房间作为给拍摄器材充电的地方，也可以让我们自己短暂休息，以便之后回到天安门广场，我们一天24小时都有人员在那里。房间里也有一部电话，好让我们定时与CNN在亚特兰大的总部联系。6月3日下午，很明显事件

which we staffed 24 hours a day. The room also had a phone which allowed us to be in regular contact with CNN headquarters in Atlanta. On the afternoon of June 3, as it became clear the crisis was reaching a climax, I returned to the Beijing Hotel. I stayed there the entire night, doing live broadcasts over the phone of what I saw from the balcony, and also conveying information that other CNN colleagues were providing from different places around Beijing. I was frustrated because I wanted to be in the middle of the Square. Like many journalists at the time, however, I was a prisoner of the need to communicate with the head office. But the room provided a vantage point from which I could watch the PLA's move into the heart of Beijing and its occupation of the Square, all of which I was able to report live over the phone. Needless to say, it was not much of a birthday.

要进展到高潮了，我回到北京饭店。我一整晚都待在酒店房间里，通过电话直播着我从阳台上看到的景象，同时转述其他 CNN 的同事在北京各地发来的讯息。我当时非常沮丧，因为我很想置身于天安门广场正中间。就像当时很多记者一样，我因为需要和总部联系而受困。但是，房间的位置非常有利于观察，我可以看到解放军向北京的中心渐渐靠近，以及对广场的占领。不用说，这过得并不像生日。

The events that day made clear what I had always assumed but had never witnessed so graphically- that the Party would do whatever was necessary to maintain its grip on power. Like many observers, I was not certain at the time that the crackdown would succeed. And I would never have imagined that, barely three years later, the economic reform process would be revived, let alone that it would prove as successful as it has been. While, in the aftermath of Tiananmen, many journalists and other observers focused on the repression, I think many of us missed the fact that the process of economic reform had not been halted. We were slow to recognize in the early 1990s that this dynamic was gaining new strength, and would lead to the amazing China boom that followed.

那天的事件证实了我一直以来的推断——共产党会在必要时采取一切手段，紧握手中的权力——只是此前未能如此真切地目睹它的发生。就像很多旁观者一样，当时我不能肯定镇压行动能否成功。我怎么也不会想到，仅仅三年之后，经济改革进程又重新复苏，更不会想到改革能一如既往地成功。天安门事件结束之后，许多记者和观察人士都聚焦在镇压上，而许多人忽略了经济改革进程未曾停滞这一事实。我们后知后觉，在 90 年代初才意识到这一股动力积攒了新的能量，并会在之后促使中国经济腾飞。

When you made the film and interviewed your colleagues from 1989, was there anything you learned that perhaps you didn't know before or realize at the time? What were some of their key revelations or insights?	纽约时报中文网：当你制作影片和采访 1989 年的同事的时候，有没有得知一些之前不知道或是当时没意识到的事情？他们透露了什么关键信息或见解呢？
One of the things that comes through clearly in the interviews I did for Assignment China was just how difficult it was to cover, in real time, a story of such magnitude and complexity. There were huge crowds on the streets. You had an authoritarian government that was not exactly communicative towards the western media. Reporters were camped out in Tiananmen literally for days, exhausted, stressed, and under constant deadline pressure. With the benefit of hindsight, I would say the western press on the scene got the broad picture basically right. But there were many elements that we either missed or were unable to portray with as much nuance and detail as we should have.	齐迈可：在为《采访中国》做的采访中，有一点很明白，就是要实时报道一个如此宏大而复杂的事件有多么困难。街道上人山人海。你面对的是一个不太愿意跟西方媒体沟通的威权政府。记者真的是日以继夜地露宿在天安门，疲劳而紧张，还要不断面对截稿时限的压力。事后看来，我觉得当时在场的西方媒体对整体形势的掌握基本上是正确的。但我们也错过了很多因素，或是未能详细报道出所有细节。
One issue is the degree to which, as the demonstrations reached a peak in mid-May, many journalists believed this would have a "happy ending," with the Communist Party backing down and offering sweeping concessions. There were explicit comparisons made to the "People Power" revolution that had peacefully toppled dictator Ferdinand Marcos in the Philippines in 1986. To me, this showed a lack of appreciation for the way the Communist Party operated. Conveying this impression to news consumers around the world only accentuated the sense of anger and bitterness among audiences when the crackdown occurred.	其中一个问题是，随着示威活动在 5 月中旬达到高潮，共产党的态度开始缓和，表示愿意做出全面让步，许多记者因此相信事情会有一个“圆满结局”。有人干脆把这件事和 1986 年以和平的方式推翻独裁者费迪南德·马科斯 (Ferdinand Marcos) 的菲律宾“人民力量”革命相提并论。对于我来说，这反映出对共产党行事方式认识不够。在发生镇压的时候，向世界各地的新闻受众传达这样一种印象，只会加剧他们的愤怒和悲痛。
Another is the debate about the use of the term "Tiananmen Square massacre." This became a kind of press shorthand for the overall	另一个问题就是，当时就使用“天安门广场屠杀”(Tiananmen Square massacre) 一词产生过争议。这一词已经成了媒体对整个镇压行动的某种简

crackdown. It was widely used then, and is still used today. But, as several of the reporters who were actually in the Square that night told me, the fact is that, within the confines of Tiananmen itself, there was no evidence of widespread killing. Indeed, as some journalists noted, the worst of the violence came along Chang An Boulevard as the PLA moved towards the Square. Using this shorthand was understandable. But the lack of precision gave the Chinese authorities a weapon to discredit broader journalistic accounts. As Richard Roth, who was there for CBS News noted, this was a case where "getting the facts right matters."	称。它在当时被广泛使用，至今仍然在用。但是，有几个当晚在天安门广场的记者告诉我说，在广场本身的范围内，没有证据显示发生过大规模的杀戮。事实上，正如一些记者所说，最严重的暴力行为发生在长安街上，解放军向天安门推进的时候。使用这一简称情有可原。但由于用词不够精确，中国当局获得了禁止更广泛的新闻报道的武器。正如当时在现场的 CBS 新闻频道 (CBS News) 记者理查德·罗斯 (Richard Roth) 所说，在这件事中，“明确事实是很要紧的”。
The most iconic image from the summer of 1989 was that of the lone man standing in front of the row of tanks. There were no digital cameras or iphones back then. Film had to be smuggled out by an American student in his underwear to the AP bureau. How did the limits of technology back then affect how you did your job covering a big story?	纽约时报中文网：1989 年夏天最有标志性的一幕就是一个男子只身站在一列坦克前面。当时还没有数码相机或是 iPhone。一名美国学生把胶卷藏在内裤里，偷偷带到了美联社分社。技术限制对你们报道一个重大事件的工作有何影响？
Today, news consumers take for granted that they will see live video from almost anywhere in the world, if not on TV than online. It is possible to do a live transmission with an Iphone. Everyone has a cell phone and wifi. Very little of that existed in 1989.	齐迈可：现在，新闻消费者可以从电视或网上看到世界上几乎所有地方的直播视频，人们觉得这是理所当然了。现在用 iPhone 是可以做到实况转播的。每个人都有手机和无线网络。而这些技术在 1989 年几乎是不存在的。
In the case of the man in front of the tank, the AP photographer gave his film to a student who brought it in to the AP bureau, where it was developed and then transmitted. The CNN video was hand-carried to Hong Kong and transmitted from there. If something similar occurred today, it would likely be live-streamed direct from an Iphone.	美联社记者将站在坦克前面的男子这张照片的胶卷交给了一名学生，由这名学生带到了美联社，并在那冲印和传送。CNN 的录像由专人带到香港，并从那里传送出去。如果现在有类似事件发生，很可能是用一部 iPhone 直播。

The technological changes are amazing. However, to some extent they have made journalists prisoners of the new technology. It is now possible to go live at any time, to post online, to use social media etc. But sometimes the pressure to do so means journalists today do not have time to report in as much depth, to think, analyze, or check with multiple sources before transmitting their news. Speed therefore carries a risk of getting things wrong, or incomplete. In 1989, there was intense pressure to get the story out. But newspaper reporters usually had only one daily deadline. The big three U.S. TV networks had just one major evening news show. Even CNN, which was on the air 24 hours a day, did not require constant live shots, and gave us some freedom to dig around . Today that is much less the case, and I fear that accuracy and background suffer in the rush for instant information.	技术上的变革是惊人的。然而，这在某种程度上让记者沦为新技术的囚犯。现在你在任何时候都可以直播，在网上发布信息，运用社交媒体等等。但有时候，做这些的压力意味着，记者在今时今日没有足够的时间去做深度报道、思考、分析，或在发稿前核查多个消息来源。因此，速度带来的是报道错误或不完整的风险。在1989年，把报道传出去的压力是很大的。但通常报章记者每天只有一个截稿时间。美国三大电视网只有一场晚间重要新闻时间。即使全天24小时播出的CNN也不需要不断播出直播片段，所以我们有足够的自由可以做调查。今天情况则不一样了，我担心会因为需要即时信息，对精确度和背景会有负面影响。
The government ordered you to shut down CNN's broadcasting facility in Beijing on May 20, how did you decide to broadcast that moment live for the world to see, and how did you cover the rest of the story without a live visual feed from the square?	纽约时报中文网：5月20日，政府命令你关闭CNN的广播设施，你是如何决定将那一刻转播给全世界看的，在不能传送广场上的实时画面的情况下，你是如何做余下的报道呢？
Because of the visit by Soviet leader Gorbachev, which took place the week of May 15, CNN and the other major international networks had been given permission by the Chinese authorities to bring in satellite equipment for what was intended to be live coverage of that event. This is why we had our own satellite dish, microwave links, and other transmission facilities. But then the protesting students literally stole the stage where much of the pomp of the Gorbachev visit was to take place- Tiananmen Square. The Chinese authorities were taken aback by	齐迈可：前苏联领导人戈尔巴乔夫于5月15日那一周到访，CNN和其他国际广播公司得到中国政府许可，可以带卫星设备，原意是对到访一事进行报道。这就是为什么我们会有自己的碟形卫星天线、微波链路以及其他传输设备。当时戈尔巴乔夫到访的地点就是天安门广场，完全被示威的学生抢了风头。中国政府没有料到抗议规模如此之大，内部对于如何处理事件也出现了分歧。结果是，戈尔巴乔夫的访问全程都能允许进行实时转播。那一周，CNN的直播时段有相当一部分用于展示人山人海的天安门广场。

the scale of the protest, as well as internally divided over how to deal with it. The result was that, for the duration of Gorbachev's trip, the live transmissions were allowed to proceed. It was during that week that CNN devoted hours and hours of live air time to show the amazing scenes of huge crowds filling the Square.
But just one day after the Soviet leader left, martial law was declared and live video transmissions were halted. At the CNN work-space in the Great Wall Sheraton Hotel, two Chinese officials arrived on the morning of May 20 to order the network to shut down its transmission. As CNN producers negotiated and tried to buy time, a cameraman from another network hooked up a camera and the encounter was itself broadcast live. The confrontation became one of the iconic moments in the history of TV news. Once the satellite feed was cut off, live reports were only possible over the phone. Video tapes had to be smuggled out of Beijing for transmission Hong Kong or Tokyo, which meant that there was a gap of several hours between when a camera-person shot something and the images appeared on TV?	但就在前苏联领导人离开一天之后，政府开始实施戒严，实时影像传输就停止了。5月20日早上，两名中国官员来到CNN在喜来登长城饭店的工作间，命令停止信号传输。CNN的制片人和他们谈判，尝试争取时间，来自另一家电视网的一名摄像师连上了一台摄像机，直播了交涉本身。这一次对峙成为了电视新闻史上最具标志性的时刻之一。在卫星传送被中断之后，就只能用电话进行实时报道了。录像带只能让人偷偷从北京带出来，到香港或东京再传送出去，这就意味着从拍摄到电视播出会有几个小时的间隔。
What lessons do you think the party learned about management, messaging and propaganda directly from TAM and how different is their approach today? How much harder is it to read the tea leaves in the era of Xi Jinping, in your view?	纽约时报中文网：你觉得在管理、信息传送以及政治宣传方面，天安门事件给共产党带来了那些直接的教训，他们如今的方式有何不同？在习近平时代，读解时局的难度又增加了多少？
The Party learned many lessons from the events of 1989. It has become ever more sophisticated in managing the Chinese press. As China has become increasingly wealthy and powerful, however, we have seen more effort devoted to trying to shape the international narrative as	齐迈可：共产党从1989年的事件中吸取了很多教训。对中国媒体的管理变得前所未有的复杂。中国渐渐变得富裕、强大，我们同时也看到中国正在花费更多精力，尝试塑造国际报道中的形象。外国常驻记者近年受到了很大压力，若有新闻机构的报道是共产党不喜欢的，共产党就会对其采取惩罚措施。

well. This has been evident both in the pressures put on resident foreign correspondents in recent years, and punitive measures taken against news organizations whose coverage the Party dislikes. Even so, my own sense is that Chinese society has become more and more open, certainly in comparison to when I first visited the country in the 1970s. Despite the limitations, foreign journalists are able to travel and talk to a remarkably wide range of people. So that has made it possible for foreign journalists today to do a reasonably good job of covering Chinese society.	即便如此，我自己的感觉是中国社会变得越来越开放，对比我在 70 年代第一次来中国无疑开放了很多。虽然有一定限制，外国记者仍然可以去到不同地方，跟各种各样的人交流。因此，如今外国记者还是可以很好地报道中国社会。
However, making sense of the internal dynamics within a still very secretive leadership remains extremely challenging. In many ways, journalists do not know much more about the inner workings at the top than they did 30 years ago, despite the surface veneer or modernization, the greater international travel and exposure of Chinese leaders, and a more open Chinese media climate than when I first started going to China.	然而，要理解这个非常神秘的领导层的内部运作仍然非常困难。虽然比起我开始到中国的时候，现在的中国外表光鲜或现代化了，中国领导人出国和抛头露面的机会更多了，中国媒体氛围也更加开放，但是在很多方面，记者对中共高层内部运作的了解并没有比 30 年前好多少。
You mention in the film reporters openly sympathized with the protestors because it was hard not to be wrapped up in the euphoria of the moment and see the full picture. Is it possible for foreign media to stay objective? What lessons can you draw from that in terms of the capacity of the foreign media to understand and cover the complexity of China?	纽约时报中文网：你在影片内提到，记者公开对示威者表示同情，因为当时很难不被高涨的情绪包围，以看到事情全貌。这对于外国媒体理解中国的能力，以及报道出中国的复杂性有何启示？
Every journalist brings their own experiences, values, and views to any given story, the challenge is to ensure that this background does not prevent the correspondent from honestly reporting what he or she	齐迈可：每个记者都会将自己的经历、价值观以及看法带入任何报道之中，难点就在于要保证记者的背景不会影响到他/她如实报道眼前所见。西方的记者都来自以新闻自由、言论自由和政治多元为基本价值的地方。因此，当他

witnesses. Western journalists come from societies where freedom of the press, freedom of speech, and political pluralism are basic values. As a result, they carry those values with them as they cover events in China or elsewhere, and tend to instinctively sympathize with those seen as sharing similar aspirations. Sometimes, this can lead to excessive focus on some issues rather than others, and can sometimes create misleading impressions of what is going on. It takes an extra effort to try to put oneself in the shoes – or the mind-set- of the people one is covering. But as I look at the work of the western press in China today, I am impressed by how many journalists seem able to put whatever personal biases they have aside and produce really compelling reporting on a host of issues.	们报道中国或其他地方发生的事件的时候, 这些价值观也会随之而行, 他们通常会本能地与那些有相似价值观的人产生共鸣。有时候, 这可能导致他们过度聚焦在一些问题上, 而对其他事情有所忽略, 这也可能导致他们对发生的事情产生误解。要站在报道对象的角度想问题, 或是了解他们的想法, 需要额外的精力。当我现在看西方媒体在中国的工作, 我看到许多记者可以放下自己的偏执, 在许多问题上都能制作出非常有说服力的报道。
Were you able to show this film inside China? What was the reaction of the Chinese audience outside China?	纽约时报中文网: 你可以在中国国内放映这部影片吗? 中国以外的华人观众对它的反响如何?
We have been able to screen earlier episodes in China, for example the ones looking at how American reporters covered the Chinese civil war, the Nixon trip in 1972, and the early years of Deng Xiaoping's reforms. But the events of 1989 are so sensitive that there is little chance this episode would be permitted to be shown in China.	齐迈可: 我们在中国放映了前面几集, 比如关于美国记者如何报道中国内战、1972年尼克松访华以及邓小平早期改革开放政策那几集。但1989年的事件太敏感了, 那一集获准在中国放映的机会微乎其微。
What happened at Tiananmen was such a dramatic story no matter what your political point of view. Besides the documentary The Gate of Heavenly Peace from 1995, nothing really big has ever been made. How do you view the prospects for a major motion picture or TV miniseries nowadays and down the road? Given China's rising global influence, is this a topic too risky for Hollywood?	纽约时报中文网: 不论你的政治观点如何, 天安门事件是一个充满戏剧性的故事。除了1995年的纪录片《天安门》(The Gate of Heavenly Peace), 没有真正关于它的大制作。你觉得现在或将来, 出现一部大制作电影或电视迷你剧的前景如何? 随着中国在全球影响力的提升, 这个题材对于好莱坞是不是太冒险了?

Hollywood has increasingly linked its future to China and the Chinese market, with more and more co-productions, as well as Chinese companies acquiring production companies and movie theatre chains in the U.S. Under these circumstances, given the sensitivity of the subject, I suspect it would be highly unlikely that the Tiananmen story will be turned into a feature-length movie.	齐迈可：好莱坞的未来与中国及中国市场的连接越来越密切，有越来越多联合制作的作品，中国公司也在并购美国的制片公司以及院线。在这些情况下，再加上题材的敏感性，我觉得天安门事件的故事不太可能变成一部长篇电影。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170602/mike-chinoy-tiananmen	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170602/mike-chinoy-tiananmen
Can China Take the Lead on Climate Change? That Could Be Difficult	中国要成为应对气候变化的领袖并非易事
As the weeks before an autumn summit meeting in Beijing between the presidents of the United States and China ticked down, John F. Kerry, then the American secretary of state, tried to seal a deal on climate change.	随着为美国总统和中国国家主席那年秋天在北京举行元首会晤的几周准备工作接近尾声，美国国务卿约翰·F·克里在想方设法让达成气候变化协议成为定局。
He invited China's senior envoy, Yang Jiechi, to a lunch at Legal Sea Foods overlooking the harbor in Boston, Mr. Kerry's hometown. Mr. Kerry noted that the harbor had once been badly polluted but that government efforts and regulations had rejuvenated it.	他邀请了中国高级外交官杨洁篪在俯瞰波士顿港的 Legal Sea Foods 餐厅共进午餐，波士顿是克里的老家。克里说，波士顿港曾被严重污染，但政府的努力和环境法规已使港口恢复了新生。
That meeting nudged China further into climate talks that would result in President Obama and President Xi Jinping making a landmark announcement in November 2014 that set hard emissions reduction targets for the two nations and energized global negotiations for the Paris Agreement.	那次午餐推动了中国在气候谈判上走得更远，带来了奥巴马总统和习近平主席在 2014 年 11 月做出里程碑式宣布的结果，中美两国制定严格减排目标的宣布，为《巴黎协定》的全球谈判增添了活力。
Under the Obama administration, tough face-to-face conversations between officials from the two countries were critical in getting China, the world's largest emitter of greenhouse gases, to announce commitments and to step up in stressing the need for global efforts to	在奥巴马执政时期，中美两国官员进行的面对面的艰难对话，对促使中国宣布减排承诺、对限制气候变化影响的全球努力的必要性站出来表态至关重要，中国是世界上最大的温室气体排放国。

limit the effects of climate change.
With Washington now ceding global leadership on climate change and at least temporarily halting its partnership with Beijing, China may find it hard to fill the vacuum. Some of China's biggest strides in recent years came through joint efforts with the United States and their mostly friendly superpower rivalry on renewable energy.	现在，当华盛顿把应对气候变化的全球领导地位拱手让出、并至少暂停与北京在这方面的伙伴关系时，中国可能会发现，填补真空并非易事。近年来，中国在这方面取得的一些最大进步，靠的都是中美两国的共同努力、以及两国在可再生能源行业很大程度上友好的超级大国竞争关系。
China must now be the world's standard-bearer by default while trying to resolve sharp internal divisions on its own energy future. Its leaders insist that nations should abide by the Paris agreement, despite the decision by President Trump to withdraw the United States, historically the world's biggest greenhouse gas emitter, from the accord.	中国正在力图解决本国在未来能源问题上存在的尖锐内部分歧，美国的缺席，让中国不得不在此时出来担当世界领袖。中国领导人坚称，世界各国应该遵守《巴黎协定》，尽管特朗普总统宣布了美国将退出协定的决定，美国是历史上全球最大的温室气体排放国。
But the importance of Washington in laying the foundation for the Paris accord was evident, for example, in the negotiations between the United States and India, the third-largest emitter of greenhouses gases. Only after a series of meetings between Mr. Obama and Narendra Modi, the prime minister of India, did India announce more ambitious climate commitments.	但是，在为达成巴黎协议奠定基础上，华盛顿的重要性显而易见，这表现在比如美国与印度的谈判上，印度是第三大温室气体排放国。只是在奥巴马总统和印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪举行了一系列会晤之后，印度才宣布了更雄心勃勃的气候变化承诺。
"Reaching an agreement in Paris depended on the United States, China and a small group of key countries pushing each other to be ambitious in their targets and holding each other accountable," said Jonathan Finer, former chief of staff and director of policy planning at the State Department. "This same dynamic should have resulted in an ongoing effort to ratchet up the fight against climate change, which everyone knows is necessary to actually address it. The United States pulling out takes a lot of that pressure off."	"能在巴黎达成协议靠的是美国、中国，以及一小批关键国家，它们在承诺更加雄心勃勃的目标上相互推动，也相互监督，"国务院前幕僚长兼政策规划主任乔纳森·芬内(Jonathan Finer)说。"同样的互动本该为加强应对气候变化的努力带来持续不断的推动作用，人们都知道这对问题的实际解决必不可少。美国的退出减少了这方面的压力。"

For now, public affirmations of the Paris agreement by Chinese leaders send a strong signal to other nations that might be wavering in the wake of the withdrawal by the United States. On Thursday, Li Keqiang, prime minister of China, said during a visit to Germany to meet with Chancellor Angela Merkel that “step by step, and very arduously, together with other countries, we will work toward the goals set.”	就目前而言，中国领导人对巴黎协定的公开肯定，是对美国退出后可能会摇摆不定的其他国家发出的强烈信号。周四，中国总理李克强在德国访问期间与德国总理安格拉·默克尔会面时表示，中国将“一步一步、扎扎实实地与世界各国一起，向制定的目标努力迈进”。
China has strong domestic reasons to change its energy structure to increase its sources of energy from nonfossil fuel while limiting its use of coal. Ridding cities of air pollution from the use of coal is a priority for some leaders. Mr. Li has stressed that the government is waging a “war on pollution.”	中国有很强的国内原因要改变自身的能源结构，增加非化石燃料能源的使用，同时限制煤炭的使用。消除燃煤给城市带来的空气污染是一些领导人的首要任务。李克强曾用政府正在对“污染宣战”的说法来强调这项工作的重要性。
But on Friday, Mr. Li and European leaders in Brussels failed, because of a trade policy dispute, to endorse a joint statement on climate change. The two sides made public affirmations in Berlin on Thursday and in Brussels on Friday to work with each other.	但在周五，由于在贸易政策上的争议，李克强和布鲁塞尔的欧洲领导人未能在气候变化问题上宣布一项联合声明。中欧双方周四曾在柏林发表有关申明，周五，双方在布鲁塞尔表示将继续合作。
Earlier, it was the United States, and not China, that pushed India to make commitments ahead of the Paris summit meeting, even if it was China that helped set an example for large developing nations in the announcement in 2014 by Mr. Obama and Mr. Xi. In 2015, Mr. Kerry took the unusual step of attending a trade fair in Mr. Modi’s home state of Gujarat, India, in order to prod Mr. Modi on climate change policy and pave the way for a visit by Mr. Obama, who aimed to make the Paris agreement a top priority of discussion with Mr. Modi.	最初，推动印度在巴黎首脑会议之前作出承诺的是美国，而不是中国，虽然奥巴马和习近平在 2014 年的宣布对中国为发展中大国树立榜样有所帮助。2015 年，为了在气候变化政策上鼓励莫迪，同时也为奥巴马访问印度铺平道路（奥巴马把与莫迪讨论巴黎协定作为那次访问的首要任务），克里曾采取了一个不同寻常的做法，他参加了在莫迪家乡、印度古吉拉特邦举办的一个贸易展览会。
There is still internal resistance in China by some powerful parties to policies cutting the use of coal and other fossil fuels. Those interests	在减少煤炭等化石燃料使用的政策问题上，中国内部仍存在着一些来自强有力部门的内部阻力。其中包括国有能源企业等利益集团。一些中国学者认为，

include the state-owned energy companies. Some Chinese scholars say global efforts on climate change, with the Obama administration at the forefront, gave ammunition to Chinese officials trying to push through energy restructuring in the face of resistance from companies that profit from the consumption of fossil fuel.	以奥巴马政府为首的全球应对气候变化的努力，为试图推动能源结构调整的中国官员提供了所需的武器，这些官员面临着来自从化石燃料消耗中获利的公司的抵制。
"The talk of climate change actions is very important because energy reforms will inevitably hurt some vested interests," said Lin Boqiang, an energy scholar at Xiamen University who has advised PetroChina, the big Chinese oil producer. "Such talk has created favorable conditions for energy reforms, without which many things would have been impossible.	"使用气候变化行动的语言非常重要，因为能源改革将不可避免地伤害一些既得利益，"厦门大学的能源学者林伯强说，他曾为大型国有石油生产商中石化当顾问。"这种语言为能源改革创造了有利条件，没有这种语言，许多事情会变得很难办。"
"For instance, solar and wind subsidies were possible because the climate change agenda has forced policy makers to turn to a low-carbon economic model," he said. "We know that China has a lot of coal and it's very cheap, so without climate change promises we wouldn't be talking about the low-carbon economy now, and industries such as that of electric cars would have faced more hurdles."	"比如，气候变化议程迫使决策者转向低碳经济模式，这就让为太阳能和风能提供补贴成为可能，"他说。"我们知道中国有很多煤，而且煤很便宜，如果没有气候变化的承诺，我们目前不会谈论低碳经济，像电动汽车这样的行业也会面临更多的障碍。"
Mr. Lin added: "China is now No. 1 in the world in installed capacity of wind and solar power. This would not be possible without all the talk about climate change and a low-carbon economy."	林伯强还说："中国目前的风电和太阳能发电装机容量世界第一。如果没有有关气候变化和低碳经济的讨论，这是不可能的。"
But there is still conflict in China over deployment of electricity generated by wind and solar sources. Because energy companies with coal-fired power plants have advantages in setting up contracts with China's two main grid companies, wind and solar power companies have not been as successful as they should be in getting their electricity	但是，中国在风电和太阳能发电的使用问题上仍存在着矛盾。由于拥有燃煤发电厂的能源企业与中国两大电网公司在签订上网合同上有优势，风电和太阳能发电企业在让其电力上网上不如想象的那么成功，能源分析师说。燃煤发电厂在向国有电网企业销售电力上有保障，因此能源企业仍在不断建设这类发电厂，尽管现有的燃煤发电厂在低负荷运行，表明产能已经过剩。

on the grid, energy analysts say. Coal-based power plants are guaranteed sales to the state-owned grid enterprises, so energy companies continue to build such plants, even though the existing ones are operating at low capacity, a sign of a glut.
Mr. Lin and other experts say such conflicts can be resolved in favor of clean energy if big countries, including the United States, keep up the global push on climate change. The retreat of the United States strengthens the positions of those who support wider use of fossil fuels, a stand that President Trump and a top adviser, Stephen K. Bannon, also take.	林伯强和其他专家说, 如果包括美国在内的大国继续推动全球应对气候变化的努力, 这种矛盾可以通过有利于清洁能源的方法得到解决。美国的退出强化了支持更广泛地使用化石燃料的人的立场, 这也是特朗普总统及其主要顾问斯蒂芬·班农所持的立场。
Addressing climate change has also played a role in a wider economic debate in China. It has helped officials wanting to make the case that China needs to move from its carbon-intensive economic growth model based on the development of infrastructure to a more consumer-driven model, which would produce lower emissions. Here, too, the United States withdrawal weakens the positions of those officials and bolsters opponents of this more radical economic transformation.	应对气候变化也对中国更广泛的经济讨论起一种作用, 对那些想让中国经济转型的官员有所帮助。这些官员认为, 中国需要从以基础设施建设为主导的碳密集型经济增长模式, 转向更多地依赖消费者的较低碳排放的增长模式。在这个问题上, 美国的退出也削弱了这些官员的地位, 加强了反对更激进的经济转型的人的地位。
Alex L. Wang, a law professor at the University of California, Los Angeles, who studies Chinese environmental regulation, said that while Chinese leaders remained committed to the Paris agreement, "the headwinds on implementation of climate goals remain strong."	洛杉矶加州大学法学教授王立德(Alex L. Wang)从事中国环境法规的研究, 他说, 虽然中国领导人仍承诺遵守巴黎协定, 但“实现气候目标所面临的阻力仍然很大”。
"Coal still accounts for 62 percent of China's energy consumption," Professor Wang said. "Millions of jobs are still tied to coal, steel and other carbon-intensive industries. Powerful vested interests will	“煤炭在中国能源消耗中仍占 62%的比例,”王立德说。“数以百万计的工作岗位仍依赖于煤炭、钢铁和其他碳密集型行业。强大的既得利益将继续推动中国放缓应对气候变化的行动。将会有把碳密集型活动转移到中国西部和国外

continue to push for a slowdown in Chinese climate action. There will be a temptation to shift carbon-intensive activities to western China and abroad. Efforts to improve data quality and transparency are ongoing, but require political resolve and resources. The U.S. exit from the Paris agreement only helps those interests within China opposed to climate action.”	的诱惑。虽然提高数据质量和透明度的努力正在进行，但这需要政治决心和资源。美国退出巴黎协定只会对中国内部反对气候行动的利益集团有利。”
“The dynamic between the U.S. and China in recent years created a healthy competition on clean energy and climate change,” he added. “That dynamic has already faltered as Trump has pulled back on climate action. A full exit from the Paris agreement will be a final nail in the coffin.”	“中美两国近年来的互动，为清洁能源和应对气候变化创造了一种健康的竞争，”他补充说。“由于特朗普在气候行动上的退缩，这种互动已在减弱。彻底退出巴黎协定将导致中美在这个问题上的合作终结。”
How proactive on climate change will China be? The Paris accord was written so that countries would push one another to make more ambitious commitments in the coming years, with the biggest emitters in the lead.	中国在应对气候变化上将会多积极主动？巴黎协定的写法让世界各国在今后几年中能相互推动，对减排做出更雄心勃勃的承诺，这需要最大的排放国能领先做出承诺。
“I would hope that China would play a constructive leadership role and recognize that their partner the United States will be back at the table one of these days,” said Todd D. Stern, the former United States special envoy for climate change in the Obama administration. “And one of these days might be just a few years from now.”	“我希望中国能发挥建设性的领导作用，并认识到他们的伙伴美国总有一天会重新参与进来，”曾在奥巴马政府担任首席气候变化谈判代表的托德·斯特恩(Todd D. Stern)说。“所谓总有一天，也许距今只有几年的时间。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170605/china-climate-change-trump-paris-accord	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170605/china-climate-change-trump-paris-accord
Turning Against Trump: How the Chinese Covered the Climate Pact Exit	中国官媒如何报道美国退出巴黎协定
BEIJING — President Trump’s decision to withdraw the United States	北京——特朗普总统让美国退出巴黎气候变化协定的决定，遭到了世界各国

from the Paris climate change accord drew criticism from leaders around the world. In China, the government seized the moment to cast doubt on American democracy and promote an image of China as a responsible superpower. Here's how the state-controlled news media covered Mr. Trump's decision and what the portrayal suggests about China's efforts to extend influence across the globe.	领导人的指责。在中国，政府抓住这个机会质疑美国的民主，并宣传中国作为一个负责任的超级大国形象。下面介绍了官方新闻媒体是如何报道特朗普的决定的，以及这种描述所体现出的中国努力扩大其全球影响力的举动。
Questioning American Democracy	质疑美国的民主
Mr. Trump's withdrawal from the Paris agreement gave fresh material to one of the state media's favorite propaganda themes: the idea that Western democracy is flawed, chaotic and prone to social strife.	特朗普退出巴黎协议的决定，给官方媒体最喜欢的宣传主题：西方的民主有缺陷、一片混乱且容易引起社会冲突这些提供了新鲜的素材。
The news media highlighted protests and criticism of Mr. Trump in the United States, suggesting that America was facing a crisis. In the video above, shown on the state channel CCTV, an announcer likens Mr. Trump's decision to an earthquake. He asks, "Will the already divided America become even more torn apart?" Images of protesters loom in the background.	新闻媒体突出报道了美国国内的抗议活动和对特朗普的指责，称美国面临着一场危机。在官方的中央电视台播出的上述视频中，主持人把特朗普的决定比作地震。他问道，“原本就分裂的美国国内会否因此进一步被撕裂？”背景是抗议者的照片。
Commentators pointed to the disarray of the 2016 presidential election as evidence of the perils of democracy. Now they are showcasing the political divisions among Americans under Mr. Trump as evidence of the decline of the United States.	评论人士曾用 2016 年大选的混乱来证明民主的危险。现在，他们强调特朗普上台后美国民众中的政治分歧，将其作为美国衰落的证据。
Taking on Trump	炮轰特朗普
Mr. Trump has many fans in China, where he is known for his business acumen and ostentatious displays of wealth. The news media has also been kind to him, especially as he has sought closer ties with President Xi Jinping.	在中国，特朗普以在生意上的精明和炫富而出名，有很多粉丝。新闻媒体对他也颇为友好，尤其是因为他寻求与中国国家主席习近平建立更加密切的关系。

But Mr. Trump's decision to withdraw from the climate agreement provoked widespread fury. On social media, news outlets referred to Mr. Trump as a "public enemy of the world," saying he was endangering the health of the planet. On Weibo, a Twitter-like service, a CCTV post portrayed Mr. Trump as childish and impulsive in a fake chat with current and former world leaders.	但特朗普退出气候协议的决定引发了广泛的愤怒。在社交媒体上，新闻机构称特朗普是“世界的公敌”，说他危及整个星球的健康。在类似于 Twitter 的服务平台新浪微博上，央视的一篇帖子模拟了特朗普同现任和前任世界领导人的交谈，把他描述得幼稚、冲动。
"I don't want to talk to you!" he tells President Obama. "You signed a terrible deal!"	“不想理你！”他对奥巴马总统说。“你签的这个‘糟糕的交易’！”
CCTV's message was clear: The United States can't be trusted as a responsible global player, at least on environmental issues.	CCTV 要传递的信息很清楚：至少在环境问题上，不能把美国当成一个负责责任的全球事务参与者来信任。
China in the Lead	中国处于领导地位
The news media has used the occasion of Mr. Trump's withdrawal from the accord to trumpet the country's commitment to fighting climate change. More broadly, the government is seeking to show that China is ready to take a more active role in global affairs – not just on the environment, but on issues like trade and infrastructure.	新闻媒体利用特朗普退出气候协定的时机，宣传中国抗击气候变化的承诺。总体上，政府正试图表现出中国准备好了在全球事务，不仅仅是环境，还包括贸易和基础设施等问题上扮演更加积极的角色。
Those themes shined through recently on the front page of The Global Times, a newspaper that often takes a stridently nationalist tone. The newspaper showed a photograph of a beaming Premier Li Keqiang standing next to Chancellor Angela Merkel of Germany.	最近，这些主题始终贯穿《环球时报》的头版。这份时常采取强烈民族主义调子的报纸，刊登了一幅中国总理李克强满面笑容地站在德国总理安格拉·默克尔 (Angela Merkel) 旁边的照片。
The Global Times warned of upheavals in United States policies, but vowed that China and the European Union would "hold hands in firmly keeping promises." The newspaper said the United States' exit from the Paris accord would "affect the chess game among big powers."	《环球时报》警告外界注意美国政策的波动，但发誓中国和欧盟将“携手坚守承诺”。该报还说，美国退出巴黎协定“牵动大国博弈”。
Chinese leaders hope that they can move swiftly to deepen an alliance	中国领导人希望能够迅速深化与欧洲的盟友关系，这是其对抗美国的平衡战

with Europe as part of a balancing strategy against the United States. Here, the message was that China was a consistent and reliable partner, unlike the United States under Mr. Trump.	略的一部分。这里要传递的讯息是，中国是一个始终如一的、可靠的合作伙伴，不像特朗普领导下的美国。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170605/china-media-climate-trump	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170605/china-media-climate-trump
China's Role in Climate Change, and Possibly in Fighting It	对抗气候变化，中国将扮演的角色
BEIJING — When President Trump announced that he would take the United States out of the Paris climate accord, a treaty to limit global warming, he threw an accusing spotlight on China, the planet's biggest emitter of greenhouse gases from fossil fuels and industry.	北京——特朗普总统宣布将让美国退出巴黎气候协定这一旨在遏制全球变暖的协议时，把批评的焦点对准了世界上最大的温室气体排放国，中国。其排放的温室气体主要来自化石燃料的使用和工业生产。
Under that treaty, "China will be able to increase these emissions by a staggering number of years – 13," and "be allowed to build hundreds of additional coal plants," Mr. Trump said.	按照该协定，“中国将得以在一个长得惊人的时间段——未来 13 年间——增加此类排放”，并“获准额外建造大量煤电厂”，特朗普说。
But China has said it is serious about cutting greenhouse gases. Is China living up to its word, and what more could it do if it wanted to become a global leader in fighting climate change? Here's an explanation.	但中国表示，它正诚心诚意地减少温室气体排放。中国是否言行一致？如果想要成为对抗气候变化的全球领导者，它还可以做些什么？相关分析如下。
How did China come to be the world's biggest greenhouse gas polluter?	中国是如何成为全球最大温室气体排放国的？
China stands head and shoulders above other countries in greenhouse gas output. Starting in the 1990s, its emissions leapt, and by 2007 it had overtaken the United States as the world's biggest carbon dioxide polluter. The United States had been the biggest emitter for over a century.	中国排放的温室气体远远多于其他国家。从 1990 年代开始，其排放量便大幅增长，到 2007 年，它终于超越美国，成为世界上最大的二氧化碳排放国。此前一百余年里，最大排放国的名号一直属于美国。
In 2015, China released almost 10.4 billion metric tons of carbon dioxide from fossil fuels and industry, equal to 29 percent of total emissions worldwide, according to the Global Carbon Budget, a research	根据“全球碳预算”(Global Carbon Budget)研究联盟的数据，2015 年，中国排放了约 104 亿吨源自化石燃料使用和工业生产的二氧化碳，相当于全球总排放量的 29%。美国 2015 年的排放量为 54 亿吨。

consortium. The United States emitted 5.4 billion tons in 2015.
China's daunting pollution in part reflects its population — 1.37 billion people, more than any other country. As Chinese people have become richer, buying cars, bigger homes, refrigerators and air-conditioners, their emissions have risen, although their emission per capita remains much lower than Americans'.	中国严峻的污染状况在某种程度上是其人口规模的反映——它有 13.7 亿人口，比其他任何国家都多。随着中国人日渐富裕，购买汽车、更大的房子、冰箱和空调，其碳排放量也水涨船高，尽管他们的人均排放量仍远远低于美国人。
But more than sheer population lies behind China's rising emissions. Although China is still relatively poor, its average emissions per person have already passed the European Union average.	不过，推动中国碳排放量日益增长的不仅仅是人口因素。虽然中国是一个相对较穷的国家，但其人均排放量已经超过了欧盟平均水平。
Another cause is China's galloping industrial growth, fueled by coal. China's economic takeoff has been propelled by high-polluting factories, steel mills, cement and power plants.	以煤炭为驱动力的中国工业生产的突飞猛进也是原因所在。在中国经济腾飞的过程中，高污染工厂、钢铁厂、水泥厂和发电厂功不可没。
"The Chinese emissions story is really a coal story," Glen Peters, a senior researcher at Cicero, a climate and environmental research institute in Oslo, wrote recently.	"关于中国碳排放的故事其实是关于煤炭的故事，"奥斯陆国际气候与环境研究中心(Cicero)的高级研究员格伦·彼得斯(Glen Peters)近日写道。
China has been trying to shift away from these smokestack industries and to cleaner energy, and coal demand has cooled since 2012. But coal still provides about two-thirds of China's total energy needs. And each unit of energy from burning coal creates more carbon dioxide than oil or gas.	中国一直设法摆脱对这些“烟囱产业”的依赖，并转而使用更清洁的能源，其煤炭需求自 2012 年以来有所降温。但中国能源总需求的大约三分之二依然要靠煤炭来满足。而煤炭释放每单位能量所产生的二氧化碳，要多于石油或天然气。
What did China pledge to do under the Paris accord?	中国在巴黎协定中做出了什么承诺？
China has long argued that as a poorer country, it shouldn't shoulder the same strict caps on its greenhouse gas pollution that rich countries should accept. Instead, China has argued that developing countries should be allowed to let their emissions rise while their citizens grow	中国一直以来都表示，作为一个相对较穷的国家，对它的温室气体排放限制不应该像富裕国家理应接受的限制那样严格。中国称，发展中国家在其人民摆脱贫困的过程中，应该获准增加排放。 out of poverty.

The pledges that China made as part of the Paris agreement reflected that idea. Instead of agreeing to a firm ceiling on emissions, China pledged that it would cut carbon intensity — the amount of carbon dioxide pollution released to create each dollar of economic activity. That means China’s emissions can keep growing as the economy expands, but at a slower rate than the growth in gross domestic product.	上述观点在中国就巴黎协定做出的承诺中得到了反映。中国并未同意设定严格的排放上限，而是承诺它将降低碳强度——也就是每增加价值1美元的经济活动所要排放的二氧化碳的量。这意味着中国的碳排放量可以随着经济扩张而增长，但其增长率会低于GDP增长率。
In the Paris agreement, China said it would cut its carbon intensity by 60 to 65 percent by 2030, compared to its level in 2005.	中国在巴黎协定中表示，到2030年，它将让本国的碳强度在2005年的基础上降低60%至65%。
China also pledged that its carbon dioxide emissions would reach their maximum by around 2030, and that it would try to reach an earlier peak. It aims to achieve that partly by expanding solar, wind, nuclear and other nonfossil energy to about 20 percent of total energy use.	中国还承诺，其碳排放量将在2030年左右达到峰值，它还会设法让峰值尽早到来。它打算通过把太阳能、风能、核能以及其他非化石能源用量增至能源总用量的20%左右，来实现这一目标。
Is China serious about cutting its greenhouse gas pollution?	中国是真心要降低其温室气体排放量吗？
China’s carbon dioxide pollution output has already slowed more than the government promised in the Paris agreement, and that trend seems likely to continue, many experts say. China’s emissions are likely to peak years before the 2030 date that the government pledged as part of the Paris agreement.	很多专家都表示，中国的二氧化碳排放量增速已经比中国政府在巴黎协定中承诺的水平还要低了，而且这种势头似乎有可能持续下去。中国的碳排放有可能在距离2030年——也就是政府在巴黎协定中承诺的期限——还有好几年的时候达到峰值。
“China is very close to making the turn in its carbon dioxide emissions. It will very likely be before 2030 and — in the very best case — may already have happened,” said Niklas Höhne, a founding partner at the NewClimate Institute.	“中国的二氧化碳排放量非常接近于拐点。拐点很有可能在2030年之前到来——往最好里想，或许已经浮出了水面，”新气候研究所(NewClimate Institute)的一位创始合伙人尼古拉斯·胡内(Niklas Höhne)说。
International pressure may have played a part in curbing China’s	国际压力或许在遏制中国的碳排放方面起了作用，但国内因素才是主要原因

emissions, but the main reasons have been domestic: an economy less dependent on heavy industry and coal, and public discontent over air pollution. That widespread anger has reinforced Chinese leaders' efforts to cut smokestack industries, and those cuts are also good for limiting greenhouse gases.	所在：中国经济对重工业和煤炭的依赖有所下降，还有就是公众对空气污染感到不满。这种普遍的愤怒促使中国领导人采取举措削减“烟囱产业”的产能，而这类措施也有助于限制温室气体的排放。
"The real drivers for clean energy in China are much closer to home than Paris," said Lauri Myllyvirta, a Beijing-based analyst of Chinese energy policy for Greenpeace. "The air pollution and the need to reinvent the economy are much bigger drivers."	"在中国，发展清洁能源的更大驱动力与其说源自巴黎，不如说源自国内，"绿色和平组织(Greenpeace)驻北京的研究分析师柳力(Lauri Myllyvirta)说。"空气污染以及重塑经济的需要是更大的驱动力。"
Could China do more to cut emissions?	中国还可以做些什么来减少排放？
China could have signed onto bolder emissions pledges in the Paris agreement, and many environmental advocates and scientists hope that it will offer more ambitious goals in future talks.	中国本可以在巴黎协定中做出更大胆的排放承诺，很多环境倡导人士和科学家都希望它在未来的协商中提出更具雄心的目标。
But the Chinese government tends to make conservative commitments in international agreements, and the Paris treaty was designed so governments could offer modest initial goals that became more ambitious, said Mr. Peters, the researcher at Cicero.	但国际气候与环境研究中心的研究员彼得斯说，中国政府往往会在国际协议中做出保守的承诺，而巴黎协定的设计初衷是，让各国政府得以提出最温和的初始目标，然后逐步加码。
"Since countries don't want to fail, it is natural that the emission pledges will be conservative," Mr. Peters said by email. "But, this is partly the point of the Paris agreement and the bottom-up pledges. They are designed to start weak with ambition increased over time."	"各国都不想要落得个完不成目标的结局，因此自然会做出保守的承诺，"彼得斯在电子邮件中写道。"但这在某种程度上正是巴黎协定以及由下而上的承诺的意义所在。其目的是先迈出一小步，然后随着时间的推移而设定更雄心勃勃的目标。"
How quickly and deeply China drives down greenhouse gas emissions could be politically contentious.	中国会多么迅速和彻底地减少温室气体排放，可能是一个在政治上存在争议的问题。
While some Chinese officials want audacious steps to cut coal and encourage green growth, others worry that going too fast would put	几名专家称，一些中国官员想要采取大胆的举措，削减煤炭用量，推动绿色增长，另外一些人则担心，步子太快会导致太多煤矿工人和产业工人失业，

too many mining and industrial workers out of a job, and soak up government revenue better spent elsewhere, several experts said.	并吸走花在别的地方会更好的政府收入。
"The fundamental uncertainty is whether and how fast China can be in terms of transforming its economy from an energy-intensive, investment-intensive economy," said Ranping Song, an expert on Chinese energy policy at the World Resources Institute in Washington. "Old habits are really hard to kick."	"基本的不确定性在于，中国能否真正开展以及能以多快的速度开展其能源密集型和投资密集型的经济的转型，"世界资源研究所(World Resources Institute)中国能源政策方面的专家宋然平说。"旧有的习惯真的很难戒除。"
Mr. Trump's announcement that he wants to leave the Paris accord won't prompt the Chinese government to retreat from its pledges, but it could embolden local officials and energy companies resistant to faster cuts, said Zou Ji, a professor of environmental policy at Renmin University in Beijing.	中国人民大学致力于环境政策研究的教授邹骥说，特朗普宣布其想要退出巴黎协定之举，不会促使中国政府放弃自己的承诺，但的确会让不愿加快产能削减步伐的地方官员和能源企业更有底气。
"It will have an impact on interest groups," Mr. Zou said. "For example, high-carbon industries, such as coal power, metals, steel, will say: 'America is doing nothing, why is the central government demanding that we take action? Why don't you loosen up on us?'"	"此事会对利益集团产生影响，"邹骥说。"比如，火电、金属、钢铁等碳排放量高的行业会说：'美国现在什么也没做，为什么中央政府要让我们采取行动？你为什么不放松一下对我们的要求？'"
Could China become the global leader in fighting climate change?	中国有可能成为对抗气候变化的领导者吗？
Mr. Trump's retreat from the climate agreement has offered China an opportunity to promote itself as a responsible defender of the international climate change pact.	特朗普退出巴黎协定，让中国有机会把自己宣传成这一国际气候变化协议的负责任的捍卫者。
But China doesn't want to assume the role of single-handedly defending the Paris accord. Instead, China is likely to turn to the European Union, as well as to other developing countries such as India and South Africa, to steer the negotiations, several Chinese experts said.	但中国不愿扮演独力捍卫巴黎协定的角色。几名中国专家称，它有可能转而向欧盟以及印度、南非等其他发展中国家求助，以掌控谈判方向。
As well, China still holds the awkward status of being the world's	此外，中国仍然处于身为世界最大二氧化碳排放国的尴尬境地。再者，它即

biggest carbon dioxide polluter. And even while it has limited coal plant construction at home, China has expanded exports of these plants.	便在国内限制了煤电厂的建设，却也扩大了这类电厂的输出。
China's claim to a leadership mantle would be stronger if it cut back overseas sales of coal plants, set stricter pollution standards for them and focused on exporting clean energy technology, said Mr. Myllyvirta from Greenpeace.	绿色和平组织的柳力说，如果中国能减少煤电厂的输出数量，为其制定更严格的污染标准，并致力于出口清洁能源技术，那么它就更有资格扛起领导者的大旗。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170605/chinas-role-in-climate-change-and-possibly-in-fighting-it	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170605/chinas-role-in-climate-change-and-possibly-in-fighting-it
China's New Bridges: Rising High, but Buried in Debt	中国超级大桥热潮背后：债务沉重、腐败丛生
CHISHI, China — Soaring over a lush valley in southern China, the Chishi Bridge is a 1.4-mile-long marvel of concrete and steel. Four piers, like graceful tuning forks as tall as skyscrapers, secure cables suspending a four-lane expressway 610 feet above fields of corn and rice.	中国赤石乡——高架在中国南部一个茂密山谷中的赤石大桥，是个长度近 2.3 公里的混凝土和钢铁的奇迹。四座桥塔犹如摩天大楼之高的优雅调音叉，把钢索牢靠地固定住，斜拉索把这座有四条车道的高速公路桥悬挂在高出下面的玉米地和稻田 180 多米的空中。
Squinting up from a dirt road below, Gu Tianyong, a 66-year-old farmer, pondered the colossus, which is a shortcut linking southwestern China with the east coast.	66 岁的农民谷田用在桥下的一条土路上眯起眼来向上看，琢磨着这个庞然大物，这座桥缩短了中国西南地区与东海岸之间的车程。
"The government wouldn't have built it if it was useless," he said. "It does nothing for me, but must be useful for the country."	"如果这东西没用的话，政府不会修它，"他说。"它对我来说一点用也没有，但对国家来说一定有用。"
The Chishi Bridge is one of hundreds of dazzling bridges erected across the country in recent years. Chinese officials celebrate them as proof that they can roll out infrastructure bigger, better and higher than any other country can. China now boasts the world's highest bridge, the longest bridge, the highest rail trestle and a host of other superlatives, often besting its own efforts.	赤石大桥是最近几年里中国各地建成的数百座令人赞叹不已的大桥之一。中国官员把它们称赞为自身能力的证据，中国修建的基础设施比世界上任何国家的都更大、更好、更高。中国目前拥有世界上最高的桥梁、最长的桥梁、最高的铁路栈桥，以及一些其他之最，经常在打破自己以前的纪录。

The eye-popping structures have slashed travel times in some areas, made business easier and generated a sizable slice of the country's economy, laying a foundation, in theory at least, for decades of future growth.	这些令人瞩目的结构缩短了在一些地区旅行的时间，让做生意变得更容易，也制造了相当大部分的国家经济产值，而且至少在理论上，为未来几十年的发展奠定了基础。
But as the bridges and the expressways they span keep rising, critics say construction has become an end unto itself. Fueled by government-backed loans and urged on by the big construction companies and officials who profit from them, many of the projects are piling up debt and breeding corruption while producing questionable transportation benefits.	但是，随着桥梁及其支撑的高速公路建设项目不断增加，批评者说，这些项目本身已成为一种目的。在政府担保的贷款的推动下，在大型建设公司、以及从中获利的官员们的鼓动下，许多这类项目正在积累越来越多的债务，成了腐败的温床，其产生的运输效益却令人生疑。
For all its splendor, the Chishi Bridge, in Hunan Province, exemplifies the seamy underside of China's infrastructure boom. Its cost, $300 million, was more than 50 percent over the budget. The project struggled with delays and a serious construction accident and was tarnished by government corruption. Since it opened in October, the bridge and the expressway it serves have been underused and buried in debt.	湖南省的赤石大桥尽管很壮观，但也是中国基础设施建设热潮阴暗面的例证。大桥总造价约合3亿美元，超过预算50%以上。大桥建设因严重事故而退持，也难免于政府腐败的影响。自去年10月建成通车以来，大桥及其上的高速公路一直没有得到充分使用，债务负担沉重。
"Infrastructure is a double-edged sword," said Atif Ansar, a management professor at the University of Oxford who has studied China's infrastructure spending. "It's good for the economy, but too much of this is pernicious. 'Build it and they will come' is a dictum that doesn't work, especially in China, where there's so much built already."	"基础设施建设是一把双刃剑，"牛津大学管理学教授阿提夫·安萨尔(Atif Ansar)说，他专门研究中国的基础设施开支。"基础设施建设对经济有好处，但过多的建设是有害的。'建好了就会有人用'的说法不灵，尤其是在中国，那里已经有太多的基础设施。"
A study that Mr. Ansar helped write said fewer than a third of the 65 Chinese highway and rail projects he examined were "genuinely economically productive," while the rest contributed more to debt than	安萨尔参与撰写的一项研究指出，他研究过的65个中国高速公路和铁路项目中，只有不到三分之一有"真正的经济效益"，其余项目的主要贡献是更多的债务，而不是满足运输需求。研究报告警告说，除非这类项目受到严格控

to transportation needs. Unless such projects are reined in, the study warned, "poorly managed infrastructure investments" could push the nation into financial crisis.	制，否则“管理不善的基础设施投资”可能会把国家推入金融危机。
In the country that built the Great Wall, major feats of infrastructure have long been a point of pride. China has produced engineering coups like the world's highest railway, from Qinghai Province to Lhasa, Tibet; the world's largest hydropower project, the Three Gorges Dam; and an 800-mile canal from the Yangtze River system to Beijing that is part of the world's biggest water transfer project.	在这个建造了长城的国家，基础设施壮举长久以来一直是人们引以为豪的东西。中国已经创下的工程奇迹包括，从青海省到拉萨的世界上海拔最高的铁路，世界上最大的水电工程三峡大坝，以及把长江水送到北京的总长约 1300 公里的运河，而这只是世界上最大输水工程的一部分。
Leaders defend the infrastructure spree as crucial to China's development.	中国领导人为基础设施项目辩护，称其对中国的发展至关重要。
"It's very important to improve transport and other infrastructure so that impoverished regions can escape poverty and prosper," President Xi Jinping said while visiting the spectacular, recently opened Aizhai Bridge in Hunan in 2013. "We must do more of this and keep supporting it."	国家主席习近平在 2013 年视察新建成的吉首矮寨特大悬索桥时说，“贫困地区要脱贫致富，改善交通等基础设施条件很重要，这方面要加大力度，继续支持。”
Indeed, the new roads and railways have proved popular, especially in wealthier areas with many businesses and heavy commuter traffic. And even empty infrastructure often has a way of eventually filling up, as early critics of the country's high-speed rail and the Pudong skyscrapers in Shanghai have discovered.	的确，新的公路和铁路项目已被证明非常受欢迎，特别是在商业发达、交通拥堵的较富裕地区。而且，即使一开始使用率不高的基础设施，常常最终会逐渐用起来，就像那些最早批评中国高铁项目和上海浦东摩天大楼的人们所看到的那样。
But if the jury is still out on the bridges' benefits, one can still admire their engineering prowess.	但是，如果说对这些大桥带来的好处下结论还为时尚早的话，人们仍可把它们作为工程奇迹来欣赏。
The vertiginous Duge Beipan River Bridge, the world's highest, vaults a 1,853-foot-deep chasm in southwest China. On the Aizhai Bridge,	令人眩晕的都格北盘江大桥是世界上第一高桥，横跨于中国西南地区一个 564 米深的峡谷之上。矮寨大桥的两头都是隧道口，司机从一条隧道中开出

drivers shoot out of a tunnel to cross a 1,165-foot-deep gorge and then whiz straight into another tunnel. The Qinglong railway bridge carries high-speed trains over a graceful arch 968 feet above the Beipan River in Guizhou Province.	来, 越过一个 355 米深的峡谷后, 开进另一条隧道。位于贵州省晴隆县的铁路大桥是一座优美的拱桥, 让高铁从北盘河上约 300 米处通过。
"The amount of high bridge construction in China is just insane," said Eric Sakowski, an American bridge enthusiast who runs a website on the world's highest bridges. "China's opening, say, 50 high bridges a year, and the whole of the rest of the world combined might be opening 10."	"中国的高桥建设数量有点疯狂,"美国的桥梁爱好者埃里克·萨科夫斯基(Eric Sakowski)说, 他建了一个关于世界上最高桥梁的网站。"中国每年开工约 50 个高桥项目, 而全世界其他地区加起来, 每年可能只有 10 个项目开工。"
Of the world's 100 highest bridges, 81 are in China, including some unfinished ones, according to Mr. Sakowski's data. (The Chishi Bridge ranks 162nd.)	据萨科夫斯基的统计, 世界上最高的桥梁中, 有 81 座在中国, 其中包括几座尚未建成的。(赤石大桥排名第 162。)
China also has the world's longest bridge, the 102-mile Danyang-Kunshan Grand Bridge, a high-speed rail viaduct running parallel to the Yangtze River, and is nearing completion of the world's longest sea bridge, a 14-mile cable-stay bridge skimming across the Pearl River Delta, part of a 22-mile bridge and tunnel crossing that connects Hong Kong and Macau with mainland China.	中国也拥有世界上最长的桥梁, 全长 165 公里的丹阳昆山特大桥是一条平行于长江之上的高铁大桥。世界上最长的跨海大桥也马上就要在中国全线贯通, 这座跨越珠江三角洲的斜拉桥全长约 29 公里, 是把中国大陆与香港和澳门连接起来的 35 公里长的桥梁和隧道系统的一部分。
The country's expressway growth has been compared to that of the United States in the 1950s, when the Interstate System of highways got underway, but China is building at a remarkable clip. In 2016 alone, China added 26,100 bridges on roads, including 363 "extra large" ones with an average length of about a mile, government figures show.	中国的高速公路建设可与美国在 20 世纪 50 年代开始的州际高速公路系统建设相比, 但中国的速度令人惊讶。政府数据显示, 仅在 2016 年一年, 中国就新增加了 2.61 万座公路桥, 其中包括平均桥长在 1.6 公里以上的"特大桥梁"363 座。
China also devotes a much higher share of its economy to building infrastructure than the West — about 9 percent versus about 2.5	根据麦肯锡全球研究所的统计, 基础设施建设在中国经济中占的比重约为 9%, 远高于西方国家, 在美国和西欧, 基础设施建设只占经济的约 2.5%。 percent in the United States and Western Europe, according to the McKinsey Global Institute.

A primary motive is economic growth: Infrastructure spending surged as part of a huge stimulus program after the 2008 global financial crisis. Each bridge can cost billions and employ hundreds of workers for several years.	主要动机是经济增长：2008年全球金融危机后，作为中国巨大的经济刺激方案的一部分，基础设施开支大幅增长。每座桥梁的建设可耗资数十亿美元，雇用数百名工人好几年。
But the endless construction has also created a self-perpetuating gravy train, feeding corruption and distorting priorities.	但是，无休止的建设也创造了一种自我延续的轻松赚大钱的机会，导致贪污腐败，让项目的目的本末倒置。
While experts often advocate infrastructure building as a path to economic development, local governments in China "went overboard" because of corruption and other financial lures, said Huang Shaoqing, an economist at Shanghai Jiaotong University.	虽然专家经常提倡基础设施建设，称其为通向经济发展的道路，但中国的地方政府由于腐败和其他金融诱惑“过于热衷”这类项目，上海交通大学的经济学家黄少卿说。
And as gleaming expressways and majestic bridges spread into less populated areas, the cost-benefit ratio of each new mile of asphalt drops sharply.	随着崭新的高速公路和雄伟的桥梁延伸到人口稀少的地区，每公里道路的成本效益比在急剧下降。
The Chishi Bridge, for instance, promised "a fast and convenient access to the sea" for southwestern China, a Hunan transportation official, Chen Mingxian, said in 2010, shortly before construction began.	赤石大桥就是一个例子。2010年项目开工前不久，湖南省的交通运输官员陈明宪曾表示，大桥将为“湖南乃至西部地区打造出一条快捷出海通道”。
Promising that bridges and expressways could be Hunan's road to riches, Mr. Chen and other local officials quadrupled the province's expressways, to 3,778 miles by the end of last year, from 872 miles in 2005.	陈明宪等地方官员口口声声地说，桥梁和高速公路将是湖南省的致富之路，他们让全省高速公路的总长度翻了四倍，从2005年的1403公里增加到去年年底的6080公里。
They were certainly roads to riches for Mr. Chen and his colleagues. In the past six years, anticorruption inquiries have toppled more than 27 Hunan transportation officials.	这些高速公路显然是陈明宪及其同事的致富之路。在过去六年中，反腐败调查已经导致湖南省交通运输官员中至少27人下台。

"In their jurisdiction, they were the emperors," a party report said in 2014. "Officials in the provincial transportation office, high and low, racked their brains for ways to get their claws into expressway projects."	"在他们分管的范围里，他们就是皇帝，"中共 2014 年发表的一份报告这样写道。"省交通厅的大小干部，都想方设法插手高速公路建设项目。"
Mr. Chen, who had been lavished with official praise for his magnificent bridges, was one of the biggest culprits. According to a party report published last year, he and two underlings accepted about $4.4 million in kickbacks for steering contracts on eight expressway projects to grateful companies in just two years.	曾因建造雄伟大桥而受到官方盛赞的陈明宪是最大的罪魁祸首之一。据去年发表的一份中共报告，陈明宪及其两名下属让某些公司得到了八个与高速公路有关的项目，在两年时间里从受益公司拿到了 3018 万元的回扣。
"Connections became a magic drug for scoring engineering contracts," he said, according to a party report in 2015. A court found him guilty of graft, and he is likely to spend decades in prison.	据共产党 2015 年的一份报道，陈明宪说，"关系成了工程招投标的灵丹妙药。"法院已经判他犯有受贿罪，他很可能会被判处数十年的监禁。
The Chishi Bridge was among the tainted projects. But the bridge and hundreds like it — overpriced, underused and sinking in debt — are squeezing governments across China.	赤石大桥也是受腐败污染的项目之一。但是，这座以及数百座与其一样的造价高、使用率低、负债累累的大桥，正在给中国各地的政府带来压力。
The projects are often financed by loans from state-owned banks to companies owned by local governments, which collect tolls to repay the loans. But on many routes in less populous inland regions, tolls are not keeping pace with the costs, setting off a spiral of mounting debt and rising expenses.	这类项目的资金通常靠国有银行向地方政府拥有的公司提供贷款，政府通过收取道路桥梁通行费来偿还贷款。但是，在人口较少的内陆地区的许多公路上，通行费的收取远远跟不上支付贷款和道路维修的成本，导致债务越来越高、支出越来越多的恶性循环。
The Chinese government estimated that expressways nationwide lost $47 billion in 2015, more than double the loss in 2014. In Hunan, expressways faced interest payments of $1.9 billion a year while taking in $1.3 billion in tolls, a deputy governor said in 2015.	据中国政府估计，2015 年全国高速公路总共亏损了 3187 亿元，是 2014 年的两倍多。湖南省一名副省长曾在 2015 年表示，全省高速公路一年需要支付的利息是 130 多亿元，而通行费收入只有 90 多亿元。
But provincial officials say they are trapped. They cannot afford to lower tolls to attract more drivers to the Chishi Bridge and the 70-mile	省级官员说他们陷入了一种困境。他们负担不起为吸引更多司机使用赤石大桥及其连接的 110 公里高速公路而降低通行费的做法，但增加通行费会导致

expressway it connects, but raising tolls would reduce traffic.	交通减少。
The price of crossing the bridge, about $3 and up depending on the size of the vehicle, is beyond the reach of most villagers below. That toll is on top of a higher toll for using the expressway.	赤石大桥的过桥费最低 20 元，取决于车辆的大小，超过桥下大多数村民的承受能力。过桥费是叠加在高速公路通行费之上的。
"The capacity to repay loans with tolls is extremely weak, revenue cannot cover the outlays on operation and management, and we have no capacity at all to pay the interest and capital" on the construction loans, the Hunan transportation office said in April, responding to a complaint from a local official.	湖南省交通部门一名官员今年 4 月份回复地方官员提出的问题时说，“收费还贷能力十分弱，收入不能保证运营管理支出，完全没有能力支付（建设贷款）利息和还本。”
Thanks to government backing, the state-owned company building the bridge is unlikely to default or go bankrupt. But bridges like Chishi leave local governments and developers struggling with debt, and those who live below nonplused.	由于有政府的支持，负责桥梁建设的国有企业不太可能会出现贷款违约或破产的问题。但是，像赤石大桥这样的桥梁已让地方政府和开发商们陷入了债务困境，也让那些生活在桥下的人困惑。
"If you don't build roads, there can't be prosperity," said Huang Sanliang, a 56-year-old farmer who lives under the bridge. "But this is an expressway, not a second- or third-grade road. One of those might be better for us here."	“如果不修路，就不会有繁荣，”住在桥下的 56 岁的农民黄三亮说。“这是一条高速公路，而不是二级或三级公路。那种公路对我们来说可能会更好。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170612/china-bridges-infrastructure	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170612/china-bridges-infrastructure
Chinese Censors Have New Target: Celebrity News	中国网络审查新目标：明星八卦
BEIJING — Whether read openly and voraciously or behind closed doors, celebrity gossip plays an integral role in the entertainment world, connecting stars and the big businesses that back them to an audience eager for the juiciest of details.	北京——不管是公开地大量阅读，还是背地里偷偷看，名人八卦在娱乐世界里扮演着一个必不可少的角色，它将明星与一门大生意连接起来，这门生意为明星带来了渴望获知种种最具刺激性细节的观众。
But to some officials in China, the bloggers that report those tidbits play another role: a threat to public order.	但是在一些中国官员看来，报道这类花边新闻的博主还起到另外一个作用：对公共秩序构成威胁。

A large number of Chinese “celebrity news” blogs have disappeared in recent days after coming under the scrutiny of China’s cyberspace regulators. Their absence comes amid a broader tightening of online and media controls ahead of a once-in-every-five-years meeting of top Communist Party leaders this year, at which party officials will consider major decisions about who will lead the country in the coming years.	最近几天，在经过网络监管机构的仔细审查之后，中国的一大批“名人八卦”博客消失。这是一场范围更大的、对网络和媒体收紧行动的一部分，此时正值今年中国每五年一次的共产党最高领导层会议举行之前，会上中共官员将考虑接下来五年谁来领导这个国家等重大决策。
At a meeting on Wednesday with representatives from China’s leading internet companies, officials from the Beijing bureau of the Cyberspace Administration of China, the country’s top online regulator, called on the companies to “actively promote socialist core values” and create a “healthy, uplifting environment for mainstream opinion” by combating vulgar and sensationalist coverage of celebrity scandals and lifestyles.	周三，在与中国主要的互联网企业代表举行的会议上，中国最高网络监管机构国家互联网信息办公室北京办公室的官员呼吁这些企业“积极传播社会主义核心价值观”，通过打击对名人丑闻和生活方式所做的庸俗和耸人听闻的报道，营造“健康向上的主流舆论环境”。
Since that meeting, reported by the state broadcaster China Central Television, major Chinese internet companies like Tencent and Baidu and the news aggregation platform Jinri Toutiao have shut down more than 80 popular entertainment-related public accounts, according to state news outlets. Many were on Tencent’s WeChat social-media service, which is widely used in China and is increasingly a source of news and information.	据多家官方新闻机构报道，这次由官方的中央电视台报道的会议召开后，腾讯和百度等主要的中国互联网企业，以及今日头条等新闻聚合平台关掉了80多个热门的娱乐公众号。其中有不少是依托于腾讯的微信社交媒体服务，该软件在中国得到广泛使用，日益成为一个重要的新闻与信息来源。
Many of the closed blogs and accounts were making a tidy profit from advertising revenue, and some recently turned to venture capital investors as a route to growth. Zhuo Wei, known as China’s No. 1 paparazzo, had more than seven million followers for his coverage of celebrities like the singer Faye Wong and the Chinese actress Bai Baihe. He could not immediately be reached for comment.	被关的博客与账号有许多凭借广告收入获利丰厚，有些最近还向风险资本融资，以谋求更大发展。被称为中国头号狗仔的卓伟拥有700多万粉丝，他曾经报道过歌手王菲和中国女演员白百合等名人。时报没能立即联系到他予以置评。

At least one of the closed accounts was affiliated with a global brand. The entertainment-related WeChat account of the fashion magazine Harper's Bazaar was shut down, although its account on Weibo, another social-media service, and its general WeChat account appeared to have survived. A spokesman for Harper's Bazaar could not immediately be reached for comment.	至少有一个被关账户隶属于一个全球品牌。时尚杂志《时尚芭莎》的微信娱乐账号被关，不过它在另一家社交媒体平台新浪微博上的账号，以及它在微信上的总账号似乎安然无恙。时报未能立即联系到《时尚芭莎》的发言人予以置评。
The closings prompted a swift outcry from China's media circles. While the local news industry has long been subjected to strict government censorship on politics and other topics deemed to be delicate, entertainment news has typically been viewed as safe.	关停事件立即引起了中国媒体圈的强烈抗议。尽管中国的新闻行业在政治和其他被认为敏感的话题上长期受到严格的政府审查，但娱乐新闻通常被认为是安全的。
"In China, there were only two areas before that we could say had news freedom: One was entertainment, and the other was sports," said Gao Ming, host of the podcast Radio HiLight and a former editor at AsiaContent.com, an online entertainment news company. "But now I think the government is trying to send a message that all the news needs to be within its control."	"在中国，之前只有两个领域我们可以说是新闻自由的：一个是娱乐，另一个是体育，"之前在网络娱乐新闻公司 AsiaContent.com 担任编辑，现为播客高明电台(Radio HiLight)主持人的高明说。"但现在我觉得政府在释放一个信息，即所有的新闻都要在它的掌控之下。"
Using a Chinese phrase that means to make an example of someone or something, Mr. Gao added, "They're killing the chicken to scare the monkeys."	高明接着讲道，"这是杀鸡儆猴。"这是一句中国成语，意为用某人和某事杀一儆百。
Of particular concern for many fans and industry watchers was the shutdown of popular entertainment-related accounts that were not in the business of trading celebrity gossip. One of these was the WeChat public account of the popular movie-review blog Dushe Dianying, which still had more than 4.8 million followers on Weibo. In July, the Chinese news media reported that Dushe Dianying was valued at about	许多粉丝和行业观察者尤其关心的，是那些不属于名人八卦交换行业的知名娱乐账号被关闭的情况。其中一个是大受欢迎的影评博客毒舌电影的微信公众账号，它在微博上依然有 480 万粉丝。今年 7 月，有中国新闻媒体曾报道，毒舌电影在完成早期轮融资后，估值达到了约 4400 万美元。

$44 million, after completing an early round of financing.
"Generally, China's leaders have been obsessed with the containment of negative coverage, and under Xi Jinping we've seen a rather dramatic decline in serious coverage by China's media," David Bandurski, editor of the China Media Project at the University of Hong Kong, said in emailed comments, referring to the Chinese president. "What we're now seeing is a war on the nonserious."	"总体而言，中国领导层通常喜欢遏制负面新闻。在习近平的领导下，我们看到中国媒体的严肃报道出现了十分剧烈的下滑，"香港大学中国传媒研究计划编辑班志远(David Bandurski)在通过邮件发来的评论中表示。"我们现在看到的是一场对非严肃报道领域的战争。"
"It's no longer enough for media content to avoid the negative," he added. "It must be adequately positive."	"媒体的内容避开负面元素已经不够了，"他接着讲道。"它必须足够积极。"
The shutdowns come after a new cybersecurity law and new regulations issued by the Cyberspace Administration of China concerning the provision of news information through social media platforms like WeChat came into effect last week. According to the regulations, all online publishers — including websites, apps, blogs and social media accounts — must obtain permits from the authorities in order to publish news or news commentaries.	这次事件是在国家互联网信息办公室颁布的一些新法规于上周生效之后，其中包括新的网络安全法规和有关通过微信社交媒体平台提供新闻信息的一些新的管理规章。依据这些规章，所有的网络出版商——包括网站、app、博客和社交媒体账号——必须从当局获得许可，才能发布新闻或新闻评论。
"These regulations could have quite a dramatic impact on the ecosystem of public accounts on WeChat, and on the broader online space," Mr. Bandurski said. "This is something we must watch closely."	"这些法规会对微信公众号的生态系统，以及更广泛的网络空间产生巨大的影响，"班志远说。"这是我们必须密切关注的。"
Some of the affected accounts have already begun to regroup. By Thursday morning, Go Ying Studio, known for celebrity photographs and gossip, had created a new account and posted an official apology. "For us, this was a very profound lesson," the statement read. "We wholeheartedly accept the criticism and help given to us by different corners of society, and from now on, we will make sure to strengthen	一些受影响的账号已经开始重建。至周四上午，以拍摄名人照片和八卦著称的Go 硬工作室已经建立了一个新账号，并发表了一份官方声明。这"对于我们来说是一个深刻的教训，"声明写道。"我们衷心接受社会各界对我们的批评和帮助，我们将明确加强对自身的思想和品行教育。" our own thinking and moral education.”

But the future of many of the accounts remains uncertain — a cause for concern among the bloggers’ millions of fans.	但许多账号的未来依然不确定——这令这些博主数百万的粉丝感到担忧。
“To me, it has become a habit to read some of these accounts every evening to relax,” lamented one reader, Luna, in a comment on a Chinese-language article about the deleted accounts. “People need these kinds of positive entertainment news. I am so sad.”	“每天晚上看这些账号已经变成了放空自己脑袋的习惯，”一位名为 Luna 的读者在一篇有关被删账号的中文文章的评论中哀叹道。“人们需要这种正面娱乐。很伤心。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170612/china-celebrity-news-wechat	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170612/china-celebrity-news-wechat
In China, Video of Deadly Accident Reignites Debate Over Lack of Trust	河南致命车祸再次引发辩论：道德感哪里去了？
BEIJING — An agonizing traffic accident caught on surveillance cameras has reignited a debate in China about a lack of values and trust in society.	北京——一场令人痛苦的交通事故被监控摄像头录下后，再次在中国引发了关于缺乏价值观和信任的辩论。
The episode took place on April 21 in Zhumadian, a city in the central province of Henan. The graphic video, which was posted online Wednesday, shows a woman trying to cross a street on a crosswalk during what appears to be a red light for pedestrians.	这起事件 4 月 21 日发生在中部省份河南的驻马店市。周三公布在网上的视频显示，一名女子试图在斑马线上穿过街道，当时行人交通灯似乎亮的是红灯。
After crossing two lanes, she is struck by a taxi and tossed in the air before landing on the ground. Then the light turns green for pedestrians. People walk by but do not help, nor do the drivers who were stopped at the light. The woman lifts her head, but the traffic resumes and she is soon run over by an S.U.V. She later died from her injuries.	穿过两条车道后，她被一辆出租车撞飞，然后落在地面上。之后行人交通灯变绿。但走过斑马线的行人，和停在交通灯前的司机都没有帮助她。这个女人抬起头来，但行人交通灯再次变红，她很快就被一辆运动型多功能车(SUV)碾过，后来伤重不治。
“If this case was only about the first driver running away after hitting the victim, it would just be a normal traffic accident,” said Zhang Xuebing, a lawyer and a former law professor at the East China University of	律师张雪忠曾经是中国华东政法大学的法律教授，他说：“这起事件如果只是肇事司机撞了人然后逃逸，那就是一个普通交通事故。它现在之所以引发这么大的讨论，是因为很多路人在现场看到以后没有去施救。”

Political Science and Law in Shanghai. "But the reason it's stirred up a heated discussion is because many onlookers on site didn't help the victim."
The original video has been viewed 30 million times. On Weibo, China's Twitter-like social media site, the original post has been shared 70,000 times and attracted 80,000 comments. On a report on the video by China News, a user called Zhuwu left this comment:	原视频已被浏览 3000 万次。在 Twitter 风格的社交媒体新浪微博上，原帖已经被转发了 7 万次，获得了 8 万条评论。在中国新闻视频报道中，一位叫猪巫的用户留下了这样的评论：
"It is not the onlookers but society that is coldblooded."	"不是路人太冷漠，是社会太冷漠。"
Some say the problem is a legal one. In 2006, a man in Nanjing who helped an injured woman get to a hospital was held financially responsible for her treatment on the grounds that he would only have helped if he were responsible. In addition, many Chinese are wary of helping because of numerous scams where people purport to be victims of an injury in order to extract compensation.	有人表示，这是一个法律问题。2006 年，南京有名男子帮一名受伤的妇人去了医院，却被判支付她的医疗费，理由是只有对此事负有责任，他才会出手帮助。此外，许多中国人对帮助别人持警惕态度，是因为出现了许多的骗局，其中有人声称自己受伤，以索取赔偿。
"In the aftermath of the Nanjing case, many Chinese worry about the victims turning around to blame the helpers, and thus feel unable to offer direct help," Dali L. Yang, a political scientist at the University of Chicago who has written about the lack of social trust in China, said in an interview.	"在那起南京案件发生后，很多中国人担心受害者会反咬一口帮助他们的人，因此觉得不能直接提供帮助，"芝加哥大学(University of Chicago)政治学家杨大利(Dali L. Yang)在接受采访时说，他撰写过有关中国缺乏社会信任的论文。
That was the view of one poster named Ranmo:	一位名为冉秣的发帖人认为：
"If I helped her to get up and sent her to the hospital, doctors would ask you to pay the medical bill. Her relatives would come and beat you up indiscriminately. Traffic police would then ask you to submit the data in your automobile data recorder and write up your witness account. It would go on till the next morning. Then the relatives would casually say	"扶起来送到医院，医生拉着你让交医药费，家属来了不分青红皂白先打你一顿，交警来了又是提交行车记录仪资料，又是录口供，折腾到第二天凌晨，家属一句轻飘飘的，啊，对不起哈，谢谢你。然后自己拖着疲惫的身躯回家，自己处理车后排坐上的那一滩血迹？我有病是么？"

'Sorry and thank you' and then you could finally go home, exhausted, and deal with the blood on the back seat of your car. Am I stupid?"
But many people reacted differently. The local police announced that more than a dozen people had called the emergency rescue number, and some had offered help to the victim's family. The police also announced this week after the public outcry that the two drivers of the vehicles that hit the woman had been found. The police added that compensation had been paid to the victim's family, but it was unclear who paid it.	但并非所有人都是这样的反应。当地警方宣布，有十多个人拨打了紧急求助电话，也有人给受害人的家属提供了帮助。在公众发出强烈抗议之后，警方本周还宣布，撞到这位女子的两名司机已被找到。警方还表示，受害人家属得到了赔偿，但目前并不清楚是谁提供了赔偿。
A common concern is that society lacks a moral compass. Some commenters on Weibo noted that onlookers could have saved the woman simply by stopping the traffic. The Weibo user Jillna Chen wrote:	一种共同的担忧是，这个社会缺少道德感。微博上的一些评论者指出，旁观者只要拦下来往车辆，就可以救那名女子。名为 Jillna Chen 的微博用户写道：
"If someone went to halt the traffic and called the police — didn't even have to help her get up — she wouldn't have died. If one can leave a society that is this coldhearted, that may not be a bad thing."	"但凡有个人过去挡着点车，不扶她，帮着报个警，她也不至于死。这么冷漠的社会，能早点离开，也不见得是坏事。"
Concern about the state of morality is reinforced by the frequency of these reports. Last year, a woman was stuffed into the trunk of a car and apparently kidnapped while bystanders did nothing. Also last year, a woman was slashed in an alley, and no witnesses offered help.	由于此类报道频繁出现，这个国家的道德状况愈加令人担忧。去年，一名女子被塞入一辆汽车的后备箱，明显是被绑架，但旁观者却没有采取任何行动。也是在去年，一名女子在一条巷子里被人拿刀子捅，同样没有目击者伸出援手。
The case that arguably started the discussion took place in 2011, when a 2-year-old girl was hit by two vans and pedestrians simply walked by. Ultimately, the girl was carried to the side of a road by a street sweeper — a person often seen as at the lowest rungs of society — which further added to the nation's anguish. The girl died a week later in the hospital.	可以说，开启这些讨论的案件始于 2011 年，当时一个 2 岁的女童被两辆面包车撞到，行人却无视走过。最后，那名女童被一位街道清洁工挪到路旁——通常被认为属于社会最底层群体的人——进一步加重了这个国家的伤痛。这名女童一周后在医院离世。

Since coming to power in 2012, President Xi Jinping has made public morality a top priority. In addition to a better-known anticorruption campaign, the government has introduced a campaign to promote values, many of them traditional.	中国国家主席习近平自 2012 年掌权以来，将公德列为一个首要事项。除了一项更广为人知的反腐败运动，政府也开展了宣传价值观的运动——其中大多为传统价值观。
Some online commentators, however, said those efforts had not yet borne fruit.	然而，网上的一些评论者却表示，这些努力还没有产生成效。
"There is a lack of citizenship in society," said Qiao Mu, an independent scholar in Beijing. "People feel society is too cold."	"社会缺乏公民责任感，"北京独立学者乔木说。"人们感觉社会太冷漠。"
Mr. Zhang, the lawyer, said that government policies are partly to blame. Although the government preaches morality, its actions often undermine that message.	律师张雪忠表示，政府在这方面也有责任。尽管政府宣传道德，但它的行动往往在破坏这种信息。
"You need to pay attention to what our government has been doing," Mr. Zhang said. "Our government sentences a father whose son gets kidney stones after drinking toxic milk powder for petitioning. It also demolishes the libraries set up by nonprofits in the countryside to help poor kids who don't have a proper education."	"你需要看到政府平时是怎么做的。我们的政府会一位父亲给因为和毒奶粉而得结石的宝宝去维权而被判刑。还是我们的政府，会把 NGO 在农村建的去帮助贫困儿童学习的图书馆给拆了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170612/china-woman-run-over-video	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170612/china-woman-run-over-video
'No Such Thing as Justice' in Fight Over Chemical Pollution in China	"世间没有正义": 中国化工污染的伤害
DAPU, China — The small boy could no longer recognize the sound of his mother's voice. Bony and pale, vanishing beneath a winter coat, he spoke mostly in grunts and screams, the language of his malady. He stumbled as he walked, never certain of the ground beneath him.	中国大浦——这个小男孩再也认不出母亲的声音了。他消瘦苍白，隐匿在一件冬装下，基本只会发出咕噜声和尖叫，患上他那种病就会这样。他走路的时候跌跌绊绊，总是一脚深一脚浅。
Wang Yifei, 5, was destined for a better life, his family thought. To ensure years of good fortune, they relied on traditions that had always guided them: making certain his mother stepped over hot coals on her	王一飞现在 5 岁，家人以为他注定会过上更好的生活。为了确保年年交好运，他们一直按照传统行事：他母亲在婚礼当天跨了火盆，他的婴儿床垫了白布辟邪。 wedding day and lining his crib with white cloth to fend off wayward spirits.

But Yifei had fallen ill, and like more than 300 other children in Dapu, a town of 62,000 in Hunan Province, in central China, he suffered hearing loss, impaired speech and difficulty walking. Many other children also struggled with memory problems, stunted growth, anemia and seizures.	但是一飞生了病，在中国中部湖南省人口 6.2 万人的大浦镇，他和其他 300 多名儿童一样，也出现了听力丧失、语言障碍和行动困难的症状。还有很多孩子有记忆力问题、发育迟缓、贫血和癫痫。
Doctors eventually determined that the children had lead poisoning and pointed to a nearby factory, Meilun Chemical Materials, which produced pigments for use in paints and makeup powder. Upset and demanding accountability, dozens of families prepared to sue.	医生最终确诊这些孩子是铅中毒，并指附近的美仑颜料化工有限责任公司是问题的根源，那是一家为油漆和化妆粉饼生产颜料的工厂。许多家庭气愤不已，准备起诉、要求问责。
Yet in Dapu, as in much of China's rural heartland, the chemical industry is king — the backbone of years of above-average economic growth. Local Communist Party officials depended on Meilun and other plants for their livelihoods and political fortunes, and they had a history of ignoring environmental violations to keep the factories humming.	然而，在大浦，就像中国大部分农村的中心区域一样，化学工业就是太上皇——它们是多年来经济高速增长的支柱。当地的共产党官员依靠美仑和其他工厂来谋取生计和政治资本，为了让工厂运转下去，他们以前就有无视环保违法行为的历史。
Yifei's father, Wang Jiaoyi, did not anticipate the backlash to the lawsuit. First, he said, his co-workers at a local farm warned that he might lose his job packing vegetables. Then thugs showed up at his door, threatening to hurt his family. After months of pressure, Mr. Wang decided to drop the case.	这起诉讼遭遇的阻力，出乎一飞的父亲王家义（音）的预料。他说，先是他当地农场的同事警告说，他可能会失去包装蔬菜的工作。然后有暴徒上门，威胁要伤害他的家人。承受了几个月的压力之后，他决定放弃这个案子。
"There's no way to win," he said. "There's no such thing as justice."	"没有办法赢，世间没有正义。"他说。
After a decade in which companies in wealthier nations exported to poorer ones much of the dirty business of making hazardous substances, China is now the world's largest manufacturer of industrial	十多年来，富裕国家的企业将生产有害物质的肮脏产业输出到穷一些的国家，现在，中国已是世界上最大的化工产品制造国，据估计，其产量已经占到全球的三分之一。

chemicals, claiming a third of global production by some estimates.
But as the Chinese government has promoted the sector's rapid growth, it has struggled with its impact on the environment. The chemical industry has quashed calls to strengthen oversight and force companies to publicly disclose what substances they produce. Local environmental bureaus are often politically feeble and understaffed. Even when companies acknowledge some responsibility for harming public health, as Meilun did, the remedies given to communities often fall far short of the victims' needs.	但在中国政府推动化工业快速增长的同时，它在应对化工业对环境的影响上却步履维艰。人们呼吁加强对该行业的监管，强迫企业公开他们的产品，但这些呼吁已经被化工行业击退。地方环保局往往在政治上处于弱势，而且人手不足。即使一些公司承认对损害公共卫生负有一定责任，就像美仑化工厂那样，但它们为社区提供的补救措施往往远低于受害者的要求。
"It's a dwarf regulating a giant," said Ma Jun, a prominent Chinese environmentalist.	中国著名的环保人士马军说：“这是矮人在监管巨人。”
Under President Xi Jinping, the government promised a chance for people to fight back, declaring a "war on pollution" and enacting a law in 2015 to make it easier to sue companies and force them to cover the cost of cleaning up neighborhoods. The law was supposed to level the playing field by enabling nonprofit groups to file public interest lawsuits against polluters. Environmentalists heralded it as a breakthrough.	在习近平上台后，政府誓言要为大家提供一个反击的机会，不仅宣布要“和污染作战”，还在 2015 年颁布了法律，让人们可以更加容易地起诉企业，迫使它们承担清理社区的费用。按照这项法律，非营利组织可以向污染者提起公益诉讼，从而提供公平的竞争环境。环保人士将其视为一个突破口。
But progress has been limited. In the Chinese courts, the Communist Party controls the decisions of judges, and they routinely rule on cases in consultation with officials who have a political and financial interest in the outcome. The police, at the behest of the local authorities, often harass lawyers and activists, hoping to deter them from bringing cases, advocates say. And the government decides which nonprofit groups can file public interest lawsuits.	但真正的进展很有限。在中国的法庭上，法官的裁决受共产党控制，他们经常和审判结果有政经利益关联的官员进行磋商。倡导人士表示，警方会按照地方当局的要求，经常骚扰律师和活动人士，希望以此阻止他们提起诉讼。哪些非营利组织可以提起公益诉讼得由政府来决定。
As a result, those who stand up to the chemical industry in China rarely	结果，那些站在中国化工行业对面的人极少能占上风。 prevail.

Wang Zhenyu, a lawyer based in Beijing who has taken on cases on behalf of pollution victims, said the new law had failed to deter what he called a "privileged class" from intervening in environmental cases. "The elite see pollution victims as their enemies," he said, "and they will do everything possible to undermine them and keep their grip on power."	为污染受害者打过官司的北京律师王振宇（音）说，新的法律未能阻止他所称的“特权阶级”干扰环境案件的现象。他说：“权贵阶层将污染受害者视为敌人，他们会尽一切可能打败他们，保持对权力的控制。”
Signs of Something Wrong	出现问题的迹象
Staff members at Dapu Elementary School were startled. Children at the school were showing signs of hyperactivity and memory loss at an alarming rate. Teachers spent hours drilling geography and math into their students, but the following morning, many seemed to have forgotten the material.	大浦镇完全小学的工作人员感到震惊。该校的孩子以惊人的速度出现多动症和记忆丧失问题。老师头天花了几个小时教他们地理和数学，但到了第二天上午，很多孩子似乎就忘记了这些内容。
Seeking answers, parents took their children to hospitals in the provincial capital, Changsha, and in Shanghai, 600 miles away. Doctors ordered blood tests and discovered a pattern: The children showed unusually high levels of lead in their blood. By the spring of 2014, lead poisoning had been diagnosed in more than 300 children.	为了寻找答案，父母带孩子去了省会长沙，以及 1000 公里外的上海求医。医生通过血液检查发现了一个规律：孩子们血液中铅含量异常地高。到 2014 年春天，已有 300 多名儿童被诊断出铅中毒。
For years, residents had accused Meilun of polluting the town. The plant stood in the center of a densely populated stretch of homes, vegetable markets and rice paddies.	这些年来，居民纷纷指责美仑化工厂污染了该镇。该厂位于一片人口密集的区域中心，周围分布着住宅、蔬菜市场和稻田。
When Dapu residents challenged the wisdom of allowing Meilun to operate so close to homes and schools, local officials were defiant. Meilun, formerly a state-owned plant, was one of the town's biggest employers, with more than 100 workers at its peak, and it generated hundreds of thousands of dollars in tax revenue.	为什么让美仑化工厂建在如此接近民宅和学校的地方，面对大浦居民的这种质问，地方官员根本不放在眼里。美仑原本是国有工厂，是该镇最大的雇主之一，高峰期有 100 多名工人，带来的税收数以十万美元计。

Across China, a similar refrain was spreading. Chemical plants were popping up by the hundreds of thousands — alongside train tracks, public housing complexes, rivers and farms.	在中国，类似的事情随处可见。数以十万计的化工厂拔地而起——就建在铁路、居民小区、河流和农场旁边。
China forbids facilities with hazardous chemicals to operate less than two-thirds of a mile from public buildings and major roads, but the rules are often violated. Lax enforcement contributed to a series of accidents, including the deadly explosion at a chemical plant in the port city of Tianjin two years ago, one of the worst industrial disasters in China's history.	中国禁止在距离公共建筑和主要道路不到三分之二英里的范围内设置危险化学品设施，但这些规定往往没有落实。执法不力已经造成了一系列事故，比如两年前，港口城市天津一个化学设施发生爆炸，致死致伤多人，那是中国历史上最严重的工业灾难之一。
In Dapu, few companies could rival Meilun's influence. When officials from the local environmental bureau accused the Meilun plant of violating emissions rules in 2013 and 2014, the plant's leaders called senior party leaders in Hengdong County to object, employees said. The regulators quickly dropped their complaints.	在大浦，很少有企业拥有美仑那样的影响力。当地的环保局官员在2013年和2014年指控美仑工厂违反排放规定时，厂领导找衡水县的高层领导出面。结果监管机构迅速放弃了追究。
As public anger grew, China Central Television, the influential state broadcaster, aired a report that outlined the problems in Dapu and featured students who complained of stomach pain and nausea.	随着公众的愤怒增加，有着很大影响力的国家电视台中央电视台播出了一个报道，概述了大浦出现的问题，在节目中，学生抱怨肚子痛和恶心想吐。
In one segment of the report, Su Genglin, the head of Dapu's government, said students might have been poisoned by chewing on pencils, though they contain graphite, not lead.	在其中一个片段，大浦镇镇长苏根林表示，学生铅中毒可能是因为咬铅笔的习惯；其实铅笔芯的原料并非铅，而是石墨。
The report stirred popular outrage and forced the factory to halt production.	报道引起人们的愤慨，美仑工厂被迫停产。
But Mr. Su stayed in office. The land remained highly toxic, according to tests by local environmental activists, and there was no plan to clean it up. Many children continued to be afflicted with symptoms related to	但苏根林还是继续当他的镇长。根据当地环保人士所做的检测，当地的土地毒性依然很高，而且根本没有制定清理计划。很多儿童继续在出现与铅中毒有关的症状。政府为他们提供了免费牛奶，表示牛奶可以让铅从身体排出来，

lead poisoning. The government offered free milk to treat them, suggesting incorrectly that it could flush the lead out of their bodies.	但这个说法并没有根据。
On a recent morning, Mao Baozhu, 63, watched over her young grandson, who suffered chronic stomachaches and memory loss. They lived across the lane from the former Meilun plant, and tests showed the lead in his blood at six times international safety standards, one of the worst cases in Dapu.	不久前的一天上午，63岁的毛宝珠照看着长期腹痛和记忆力下降的幼孙。他们住的地方，和以前的美仑工厂只有一街之隔。检查结果显示，孩子体内的血铅含量是国际安全标准的六倍，他是大浦最严重的病例之一。
Ms. Mao said she had once walked among cedar trees as a young woman. Now the earth was a wasteland, covered with tree stumps and jasmine bushes that had lost their scent. She held her grandson's hand. "This isn't the life we imagined," she said.	毛宝珠说，她年轻时周围都是杉树。现在这里成了一片荒地，只剩下树墩和已经没有香味的茉莉花丛。她牵着孙子的手。“这不是我们原本想像的生活，”她说。
Intimidating the Families	恐吓患儿家人
The trial was about to begin, and Dai Renhui was anxious. He had devoted his career to defending pollution victims. But rarely had he found himself in a case as contentious as the lead pollution lawsuit in Dapu.	就要开庭审理了，戴仁辉忧心忡忡。他投身于为环境污染的受害者辩护的事业，但他之前代理的案件，几乎没有像大浦铅污染案这样引起如此大的争议。
Even before Mr. Dai filed the case, Meilun had waged a campaign to intimidate the families of the sick children, according to Dapu residents. Groups of unidentified men would show up at dusk, warning residents that they could lose their jobs or face violence if they continued to pursue the case. They offered bribes of $1,500 to those who would withdraw, some families said.	据大浦居民称，在戴仁辉提起诉讼前，美仑就开始对患儿家人进行恐吓。一群身份不明的男子在傍晚的时候现身，警告民众如果继续追究该案，他们可能会失业或遭遇暴力。一些家庭说，他们向愿意撤诉的人提供了1500美元的贿赂。
By the spring of 2015, when Mr. Dai went to court, 40 people had abandoned the suit. Only 13 remained.	当2015年春戴仁辉出庭时，已有40人放弃诉讼，剩下的只有13人。
They were seeking more than $300,000 from Meilun to pay medical	他们要求美仑拿出逾30万美元，支付血液中铅含量超标的13名儿童的医疗

bills for 13 children who had high levels of lead in their blood.	费用。
In court, Meilun's lawyers moved to dismiss the suit by questioning whether the children had proper paperwork to show that they resided near the factory, even though many of their families had lived there for decades.	在法庭上,美仑的律师质疑那些孩子是否具有可证明他们住在工厂附近的有效文件,要求法庭驳回诉讼,尽管很多患儿的家人已经在那里生活了几十年。
At one point, the lawyers even suggested that poor hygiene among the children in Dapu might be to blame, provoking shouts of protest from the audience, according to relatives who were in the courtroom.	据在场的患儿家属称,美仑的代理律师甚至一度暗示也许应归咎于大浦儿童不讲卫生,引发了旁听席上的高声抗议。
The challenges the Dapu families faced in court were just some of the many obstacles that confront pollution victims in China.	大浦患儿家庭在法庭上遇到的挑战,只是中国的污染受害者所面临的诸多障碍中的一部分。
Collecting evidence is expensive, with even the most basic tests of soil or water pollution costing tens of thousands of dollars. Many plaintiffs spend years and small fortunes trying to build a case.	收集证据的过程耗资不菲。即便是最基本的土壤或水污染监测也要花数万美元。很多原告要用数年时间和一大笔钱来搜集证据。
Adding to the difficulties, judges often question data collected by third parties, favoring official reports, which local governments sometimes refuse to release.	导致难度进一步增加的是,法官常常质疑第三方收集的数据,而更喜欢官方报告,但地方政府有时候拒绝公开这种报告。
Victims of pollution can band together to hire lawyers and cover the cost of collecting evidence and soliciting expert opinions. But Chinese courts are often unwilling to hear cases with multiple plaintiffs, worried they might embolden citizens to organize protests.	污染的受害者可以联合起来聘请律师,分担收集证据和征求专家意见的费用。但中国的法院通常不愿审理有多名原告的案件,担心这可能会给组织抗议的民众壮胆。
The new environmental law promoted by President Xi was meant to help people like the families in Dapu by empowering nonprofits to take on powerful companies.	习近平推进的新环境法意在通过授权非营利组织与势力强大的公司抗争,帮助大浦那样的病患家庭。
But courts have dampened the law's effects by favoring nonprofit groups that enjoy good relationships with the government or are	但法院更青睐与政府关系良好或由党控制的非营利组织的做法,削弱了该法的效果。2015年,只有9家非营利组织设法根据该法提起诉讼,但全国各

controlled by the party. In 2015, only nine nonprofits managed to file cases under the law, even though more than 700 environmental groups across China were eligible.	地有资质的环保组织超过 700 家。
Zeng Xiangbin, a lawyer in the central city of Wuhan, represented residents of a village in the southwestern province of Yunnan that had been contaminated with cadmium. Several villagers, including a 15-year-old boy, died suddenly, and residents blamed the pollution.	中部城市武汉的律师曾祥彬（音）曾是中国西南省份云南某遭受镉污染的村庄村民的代理人。包括一个 15 岁的男孩在内的几名村民突然死亡，民众将其归咎于镉污染。
The case received wide attention in the Chinese news media in 2012. But there has been little action since. A court accepted the case, Mr. Zeng said, but has refused for years to hold a hearing.	那是 2012 年，该案受到了中国新闻媒体的广泛关注。但自那以后，几乎没什么动静。曾祥彬说，一家法院受理了案件，但多年来一直拒绝审理。
"It keeps stalling, and that's it," he said. "That's China's way of solving the problem."	"一直拖着，就行了，"他说。"这就是中国解决问题的方式。"
Victory, but Little Reward	胜诉，但回报甚微
Ms. Mao, whose grandson has lead poisoning, struggled to grasp the number before her.	孙子铅中毒的毛宝珠难以接受摆在她面前的数字。
A Hengdong County court ruled last year that Meilun was responsible for seriously poisoning two of the 13 children whose cases made it to court, including Ms. Mao's grandson. But it ordered the company to pay her and relatives of the other child only 13,000 renminbi each, or $1,900.	去年，衡东的一家法院审理了 13 个孩子的案件，并判定美仑应为导致其中两个孩子，包括毛宝珠的孙子严重中毒负责。但法院下令该公司仅向毛宝珠和另一个孩子的亲属各支付 1.3 万元人民币。
The money was barely enough to cover legal fees and the cost of collecting evidence, she said, let alone medical bills. The other families would get nothing.	她说，这些钱还不够付律师费和收集证据的费用的，更别说医疗费了。其他家庭则一无所获。
In April, a Hengdong court agreed to hear the case again. Still, Ms. Mao said she worried that the outcome would be the same.	4 月，衡东一家法院同意重审该案。但毛宝珠担心结果还是会一样。

"Sometimes I lose hope and feel this will never end," she said. "Nobody wants to take responsibility for what has happened to our children."	"有时候我觉得没有希望,这一切都不会结束,"她说。"没有人愿意为此负责。"
In Dapu, the local government has tried to restore a sense of calm. Officials acknowledge that some children, but no more than 100, showed signs of serious lead poisoning but insist they have all been treated. Tan Zhenli, a propaganda official in Hengdong County, said all the children were now healthy and that the polluted land had been cleaned.	在大浦,当地政府试图恢复风平浪静的感觉。官方承认一些孩子出现了严重铅中毒的症状,但指人数不超过100人,并坚称他们都得到了治疗。衡东县负责宣传事务的官员谭珍利说,那些孩子现在都很健康,被污染的土地都得到了清理。
"It's old news," Ms. Tan said. "The factory has been closed. Everything is improving here."	"是旧新闻,"谭珍利说。"工厂已经关了。这里一切都在好转。"
But Ms. Tan would not allow people in Dapu to speak with reporters unless she was present. Several said the authorities had ordered them not to accept interviews and warned they could be imprisoned for continuing to speak out.	但谭珍利不允许大浦的民众和记者说话,除非她在场。数名民众表示,当局下令他们不得接受采访,并警告称如果继续发声,他们可能会被关进监狱。
Meilun has relocated to a nearby town, and its old factory in Dapu sits abandoned. Yifei plays nearby, splashing in puddles and pushing a yellow racecar down the sidewalk.	美仑已搬至附近的一个镇,它在大浦的老厂废弃了。一飞在附近玩耍,他在人行道上推着一辆黄色的赛车,水坑里的水被他溅起。
On Tuesdays, he goes to the hospital to check the level of lead in his blood, which was once nine times international standards and remains dangerously high. His condition is mostly unchanged, his parents said, but his memory shows signs of weakening.	每周二,他会去医院检查血铅值。他的血铅值一度是国际标准的九倍,现在依然高得危险。一飞的父母说,他的健康状况基本没变,但记忆力出现了衰减的迹象。
"We're powerless to change our situation," his father said. "There's nothing we can do to win."	"我们完全无力改变现状,"他父亲说。"没办法赢。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170613/china-environmental-pollution-chemicals-lead-poisoning	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170613/china-environmental-pollution-chemicals-lead-poisoning

Australian Casino Company's Employees Face Charges in China	中国起诉澳大利亚博彩公司员工违法推广赌博
SYDNEY, Australia — The Chinese authorities have charged employees of an Australian casino company with violating gambling promotion regulations, the company said on Tuesday, shedding potential light on a legal clash that has cast a pall over the gambling industry's efforts to win Chinese customers.	澳大利亚悉尼——澳大利亚一家博彩公司周二表示，中国当局已对该公司的雇员提起诉讼，罪名是违法推销赌博，这可能会让一个法律冲突变得更明朗，冲突已给赌博行业争取中国客户的努力蒙上了阴影。
Crown Resorts Limited, a casino company partly owned by the Australian billionaire James Packer, said in a filing with Australia's stock exchange on Tuesday that the employees had been charged and would be tried by a court in Baoshan, a district in Shanghai. Employees still being detained by the police and those released on bail had been charged, Crown said. The company declined to comment further.	澳大利亚亿万富翁詹姆斯·帕克(James Packer)部分拥有的博彩公司皇冠度假酒店集团周二在向澳大利亚证券交易所提交的一份报告中表示，公司员工已被起诉，将在上海宝山区的一家法院受审。皇冠集团说，被起诉的员工中有些仍被警方拘留，有些已获保释。公司拒绝发表进一步的评论。
The Chinese authorities detained 18 employees, including three Australian citizens, in October in a crackdown that sent shivers through the casino industry. Gambling is illegal on the Chinese mainland, but Chinese customers have helped drive robust casino growth in Macau, a Chinese city that operates under its own laws, as well as in Australia, Singapore and a number of other destinations in the Asia-Pacific region. Casino companies often lure Chinese gamblers to their flashiest properties through indirect methods, promoting them as glamorous destinations replete with shopping opportunities. The inquiry is focused on whether the defendants' efforts crossed a line into pushing gambling more explicitly.	中国当局去年10月在打击赌博行动中拘留了18名皇冠员工，其中包括3名澳大利亚公民，给整个赌博行业带来恐慌。虽然赌博在中国大陆非法，但中国客户已经帮助推动了澳门赌场的强劲增长(澳门是有自己法律的半自治中国城市)，也推动了澳大利亚、新加坡和亚太地区其他地方博彩行业的繁荣。博彩公司经常用间接方式把中国赌客吸引到它们的奢华赌场，把赌场推销为特别富有魅力、充满购物机会的旅游目的地。此案的核心问题是被告的做法是否越线成为更明显地推销赌博。
The detained Australians were members of Crown's sales and marketing team. The vice president of V.I.P. international operations,	被拘留的澳大利亚人是皇冠集团销售和营销团队的成员。公司国际贵宾部的副总裁杰森·奥康纳(Jason O'Connor)是被拘留者之一，他负责公司招揽富

Jason O'Connor, who oversaw the company's efforts to attract wealthy players, was among those detained. Also detained were two dual Australian-Chinese nationals, Jerry Xuan and Jenny Pan, according to the news media. Until Tuesday's disclosure by Crown, their status had been unclear.	裕赌客的业务。据新闻媒体报道，被拘留者中还有两名拥有澳大利亚和中国双重国籍的人，他们是宣杰瑞(Jerry Xuan)和潘丹(Jenny Pan)。公司周二做出官方宣布之前，外界一直不了解这两人的情况。
If convicted, the Crown workers could face several years in prison.	如果被判有罪，这些皇冠员工可能会被判处数年有期徒刑。
One of those workers is Jiang Ling. Her husband, Jeff Sikkema, said in an interview on Tuesday that she had been released on bail, but he said he had not heard about the charges until Crown made its disclosure. He said his wife had been released on a bond of about $7,400 after being detained for almost two months.	这些员工中有一名叫姜玲(音)。她的丈夫杰夫·西柯马(Jeff Sikkema)周二在接受采访时表示，妻子已获保释，但他说，皇冠披露上述信息之前，他没有听说过这些指控。他说，他的妻子在被拘留近两个月后已获保释，保释金是5万元。
"The whole thing has been ugly, just a bad situation," said Mr. Sikkema, who works at a logistics company in Shanghai. "For my wife — who does admin stuff, makes hotel reservations, processes visas — how is that possibly involved with gambling?"	"整件事令人非常不快，是个很糟糕的情况，"在上海一家物流公司工作的西柯马说。"我的妻子只是个行政人员，负责酒店预订、处理签证等，怎么可能涉及赌博呢？"
Still, Mr. Sikkema said, they were hopeful that she would not spend time in prison.	西柯马说，夫妻俩对姜玲不会被判监禁抱有希望。
"My understanding is it's unlikely she'll go back to jail," he said. "The worst possible thing for her would be to have a suspended sentence, which will give her a criminal record."	"我的理解是，她不大可能被送回监狱，"他说。"对她来说，最糟糕的事情是被判缓刑，这将让她有一个犯罪记录。"
The Chinese authorities have broad powers to detain those suspected of crimes and to hold them after their arrests. In China, criminal charges almost always result in convictions, according to official data.	中国当局在逮捕涉嫌犯罪者、并在逮捕后将其拘留上有广泛的权力。官方数据显示，中国刑事诉讼的结果几乎毫无例外是被告被判有罪。
"The Australian government continues to provide consular assistance to three Australian Crown employees detained in Shanghai since 14	澳大利亚外交贸易部在一份声明中说："澳大利亚政府继续为去年10月14日在上海被拘留的三名皇冠澳大利亚员工提供领事援助。"

October," Australia's Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade said in a statement.
Crown Resorts, one of Australia's largest gambling companies, operates casinos in the Australian cities of Melbourne and Perth as well as in London, Macau and Manila.	皇冠度假是澳大利亚最大的博彩公司之一，在澳大利亚的墨尔本和珀斯，以及伦敦、澳门和马尼拉设有赌场。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170614/crown-resorts-china-employees-charged	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170614/crown-resorts-china-employees-charged
Nearly 14,000 Companies in China Violate Pollution Rules	中国北方近 1.4 万企业未达空气污染控制标准
Environmental inspectors in northern China have found that nearly 14,000 companies, or 70 percent of the businesses they examined, failed to meet environmental standards for controlling air pollution, according to a state news agency report.	据一家国有媒体报道，环境监察人员在中国北方发现，将近 1.4 万家企业，也就是 70% 的受检企业，未达到空气污染控制方面的标准。
The inspectors working for the Ministry of Environmental Protection came up with those results after two months of work across 28 cities in northern China, said Xinhua, the state news agency. The companies and industries varied widely, including businesses such as wool processing and furniture production.	国家通讯社新华社称，中国环保部调集的监察人员在对中国北方的 28 个城市进行为期两个月的督查后得出了上述结论。所涉企业和行业范畴殊异，其中包括毛料加工和家具制造企业。
More than 4,700 companies were in unauthorized locations, lacked the proper certificates and failed to meet emissions standards, said the report, which was published on Sunday.	于周日发表的这篇报道称，督查组检查出 4700 余家“散乱污”问题企业。
Even though Chinese leaders have vowed to crack down on polluters, the factories continue to contribute to severe levels of air, water and soil pollution. Chinese citizens cite the country's widespread pollution as one of the issues of greatest concern to them.	尽管中国领导人誓言打击污染企业，但乱排污的工厂目前仍是空气、水和土壤严重污染的元凶之一。中国广泛存在的污染问题，已跻身该国公民最担心的问题之列。
The announcement, which was dated June 10 and circulated online	本周，在网上流传的一份所注日期为 6 月 10 日的通告，也引发了关于中国

this week, also calls into question whether China can fill a global leadership vacuum on the issue of climate change. China, the world's largest emitter of greenhouse gases, has urged countries to abide by the Paris climate accord, even though President Trump is withdrawing the United States, historically the largest emitter, from the accord.	能否填补应对气候变化问题的国际领导力真空的质疑。身为全世界最大温室气体排放国的中国，一直敦促各国遵守巴黎气候协定，尽管特朗普总统要让美国这个历史上的最大温室气体排放国退出该协定。
China has pledged to hit certain targets to try to limit or bring down emissions, and its leaders say they intend to curb coal use.	中国已承诺会实现某些目标，以便竭力限制或降低排放；其领导表示他们有意遏制煤炭的使用。
Coal consumption, the biggest source of greenhouse gases, has been flat or declining in recent years, largely because of slowing economic growth. But state-owned enterprises that burn coal — including those in the power, steel and cement sectors — remain powerful and challenge official efforts to limit coal consumption.	近年来，主要是由于经济增长放缓，作为温室气体最大来源的煤炭消费趋于持平或有所下滑。但燃煤的国有企业——包括电力、钢铁和水泥产业的企业——仍然颇具影响力，让官方限制煤炭消费的努力遭遇了挑战。
Coal is also the biggest source of air pollutants, including the fine particulate matter commonly known as PM 2.5, deemed by scientists to be extremely harmful. The coal-burning steel factories in Hebei, the province surrounding Beijing, are huge emitters of air pollutants and greenhouse gases.	煤炭还是空气污染的最大来源，污染物就包括被科学家认定极其有害、通常被称为 PM2.5 的细颗粒物。在环绕着北京的河北省，燃煤的钢铁厂排放大量的空气污染物和温室气体。
The inspectors sent out by the environmental ministry have been looking at enterprises in what is known as the Jing-Jin-Ji area, a vast urban sprawl that includes the cities of Beijing and Tianjin, as well as Hebei Province. The Beijing municipal area has about 22 million people, and Tianjin 15 million.	环保部派出的监察人员此次督查的京津冀地区，是一个巨大的城市群，北京、天津和河北都被囊括其中。北京市约有 2200 万人口，天津市则有 1500 万。
In April, the Ministry of Environmental Protection announced it was carrying out a series of inspections over one year to try to improve the air quality. It said about 5,600 inspectors would be sent to Beijing,	环保部今年 4 月宣布，为了改善空气质量，它将在一年时间里开展一系列督查行动。它说约有 5600 名环境执法人员会被派到北京、天津和京津冀地区的 26 个较小的城市。

Tianjin and 26 smaller cities in Jing-Jin-Ji.
The ministry has been posting announcements with some results from the rounds of inspections. The latest announcement said that of 467 enterprises inspected in one recent round, a staggering 350, or 75 percent, had “environmental problems.” The issues included lack of pollution control mechanisms and sewage treatment facilities.	环保部已经发通告公布了几轮督查的部分结果。最新一份通告称，在近日的一轮督查中，受检的 467 家企业中竟然有 350 家存在“环境问题”，占比 75%。相关问题包括缺乏污染控制机制和污水处理设施。
Cities in northern China have some of the worst air pollution in the world, rivaled only by urban centers in India and Iran. Li Keqiang, China’s premier, has vowed to carry out a “war on pollution.”	中国北方的一些城市，身处世界上空气污染最严重的地方之列，只有印度和伊朗的城市中心区能出其右。中国总理李克强已经发誓要“向污染宣战”。
On occasion, officials in Beijing have had to issue a “red alert,” ordering the shutdown of schools and telling people to stay home because of overwhelming smog.	有时候，由于雾霾严重，北京的官员不得不发布“红色预警”，让学校停课，告诉人们待在家里。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170615/china-companies-air-pollution-paris-agreement	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170615/china-companies-air-pollution-paris-agreement
Explosion at China Kindergarten Kills at Least 8 and Wounds Dozens	江苏幼儿园爆炸致 8 死，官方称系刑事案
XUZHOU, China — An explosion outside a kindergarten in eastern China killed at least eight people and injured nearly 70 on Thursday, leaving a chaotic scene as dozens, some clutching children, were thrown to the ground.	中国徐州——周四，中国东部的一所幼儿园外发生了爆炸事件，造成至少 8 人死亡，近 70 人受伤，现场一片混乱，数十人被掀翻在地，其中一些人还抱着孩子。
Images of dazed and injured people outside the Chuangxin kindergarten on the outskirts of Xuzhou, a large city in the province of Jiangsu, circulated on Chinese social media. One video showed what appeared to be doctors trying to revive a toddler covered in blood.	在中国的社交媒体上，可以看到在江苏省的大城市徐州的创新幼儿园大门外不知所措的伤者图像。在一个视频中，似乎是医生正在试图救助一名满身是血的孩子。
In a video posted on Weibo, the Chinese equivalent of Twitter, a man yelled, “Now they are carrying out dead bodies!”	在微博上贴出的一个视频中，一男子大喊：“现在他们正在把尸体搬出来！”。微博相当于中国的 Twitter。

By Friday morning, the Feng County government in Xuzhou said 65 people had been hurt, including eight with serious injuries, in addition to the eight confirmed dead. Two of the dead perished outside the brightly painted building and the other six died later.	徐州市丰县政府说，截止周四晚，除了 8 人确定死亡之外，还有 65 人受伤，其中 8 人重伤。其中有两名死者是在那幢外观颜色鲜艳的建筑物外遇难的，另外 6 人死于稍晚时候。
The mayor of Xuzhou, Zhou Tiegeng, told reporters that none of the casualties were from the kindergarten.	徐州市市长周铁根向记者表示，没有任何伤亡来自这个幼儿园。
"We've checked and at the time of the explosion, the Chuangxin kindergarten still hadn't been let out of class, and none of the children or teachers from the kindergarten was a casualty," Mr. Zhou said, according to the website of Legal Daily, an official Chinese newspaper.	"经核实，爆炸发生时，创新幼儿园尚未放学，该园无师生伤亡，"周铁根说。消息来自中国官方报纸法制日报网站。
Mr. Zhou said that the police had "made an initial determination that this is a criminal case, and are tentatively focusing on a suspect." But his wording left unclear whether investigators believed that the explosion, which occurred shortly before 5 p.m., was deliberate or caused by negligence.	周铁根还表示，警方"初步判定为刑事案件，已初步锁定嫌疑人。"但他并未明确说明调查者认为这起在接近下午 5 点发生的爆炸是故意行为还是疏忽造成的。
Hospital workers in Xuzhou said in interviews on Friday that most of the people injured outside the kindergarten were parents or grandparents who were waiting to pick up students at the school.	周五，徐州医院的工作人员在接受采访时说，大部分在幼儿园外受伤的伤者都是在等着接孩子的父母或祖父母。
But at least some of the people waiting at the entrance to the school apparently had toddlers with them.	但至少这些在幼儿园门口等待的人中有一部分似乎是带着小宝宝来的。
Police officers stood guard early Friday outside the kindergarten, which sits in the middle of a tree-lined residential area, next to a seafood market and small shops.	周五清晨，警察守卫在幼儿园外面。这个幼儿园坐落在一个绿树成荫的住宅区的中心，旁边是一个海鲜市场和一些小商店。
Families gathered at nearby hospitals through the night, awaiting word of loved ones.	伤者家属整夜守候在附近的医院里，等候亲人的消息。

A woman who declined to provide her name said she was there in search of her sister, who had been waiting outside the school when the explosion occurred. She said she had dialed her sister's phone number repeatedly but could not get through.	一名不愿透露姓名的女子说，爆炸发生的时候她妹妹在幼儿园外等着接孩子，事发后她去现场，不停拨打妹妹的电话，但无法接通。
"I don't know where my sister is," she said. "All I can do is wait here."	"我不知道妹妹在哪里，"她说。"我现在能做的就是在这里等。"
Xuzhou is an industrial city that lies at the intersection of China's main rail lines leading south from Beijing with an important rail line from the east coast that runs to Central Asia.	徐州是一座工业城市，北京连接南方的铁路主干线与一条连接东部沿海和中亚的重要铁路干线在这里交汇。
It is a large center for the manufacture of construction equipment and also has extensive military facilities because of its role as a rail hub.	徐州也是一个大型的建筑设备制造中心，由于是铁路枢纽，它还有大量军事设施。
The blast appears likely to provoke public anger and worry about safety around schools, including dangerous chemicals, fire hazards and explosive materials.	这起爆炸似乎会引起公众的愤怒以及对学校周边安全的担心，比如对危险化学品、火灾和爆炸物质的担心。
In 2001, Zhu Rongji, then the premier, apologized about an explosion at a rural schoolhouse in southeast China that killed 42 people, including 38 children. Mr. Zhu had initially dismissed reports, which turned out to be true, that the children had been making fireworks.	2001年，时任总理朱镕基对中国东南部一所农村校舍发生爆炸事件表示了歉意，该事件造成42人死亡，其中38名是儿童。有报道称这些孩子当时在做烟花，朱镕基一开始并未重视这些报道，但事实证明做烟花的说法是真的。
Since then, safety around Chinese schools has generally improved. But the country's feverish growth has created hazards. Food vendors often use portable gas tanks carried on bicycles and carts. In 2013, an explosion on a cycle killed two people outside a school in the Guangxi region in southern China.	自那此后，中国学校的安全状况出现了普遍好转。但是，中国的高速增长带来很多危险。食品摊贩经常用自行车和推车搭载便携式气罐。2013年，中国南方省份广西一所学校外面三轮车发生爆炸，造成两人死亡。
In instances in the past incidents, deranged people residents have attacked schools, but officials made no suggestion that this explosion on Thursday was deliberate and asked people to wait	过去曾出现过精神错乱者袭击学校的事件，但官员没有暗示本周四的爆炸是有人故意为之，他们要求大家等待全面调查的结果。

for the results of a full investigation.
This year, China's premier, Li Keqiang, addressed public worries about school safety, promising the government would do better.	中国总理李克强今年提到过公众对学校安全的担忧，承诺政府会做出改善。
"Campus safety concerns the healthy development of millions of students and the happiness of their families," Mr. Li said at a meeting in April of the State Council, China's government cabinet.	"校园安全事关广大学生健康成长和亿万家庭的幸福。"李克强4月份在国务院常务会议上说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170615/china-kindergarten-explosion	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170615/china-kindergarten-explosion
Hong Kong Wants a 3rd Runway. Will Its Dolphins Pay the Price?	香港机场增建跑道，中华白海豚何处安家？
HONG KONG — As pink fins surfaced off the boat's port side, the Canadian college students scrambled toward the bow, cameras in hand, and began snapping pictures.	香港——粉红色的鳍在船的左侧浮出水面，船上的加拿大大学生们纷纷挤向船头，举起相机抓拍。
"Ten o'clock!" a spotter with binoculars cried from the boat's top deck, pointing at the Chinese white dolphins that were swimming along the Pearl River estuary's shimmering surface. "About 100 meters!"	"十点钟方向！"顶层甲板上手拿双筒望远镜的观测员叫道，他的手指向在波光粼粼的珠江入海口处游弋的一群中华白海豚。"大约100米！"
Click. The students were beaming, and they would see about a dozen white dolphins during the recent all-day survey of the waters near Lantau, Hong Kong's largest island. (Despite their name, the dolphins often appear pink, thanks to blood vessels just under their skin.)	咔嚓。学生们一片欢腾，在前不久的这次对香港最大岛屿大屿山附近水域进行的全天调查中，他们看到了十几头白海豚。（虽然名叫“白海豚”，但是由于皮下血管组织的缘故，它们往往呈现粉红色。）
Marine biologists say, however, that the long-term survival of the white dolphin — the official mascot of this former British colony's handover to China in 1997 — is in doubt.	香港曾是英国殖民地，于1997年被移交中国，中华白海豚是这座城市的吉祥物，然而海洋生物学家说，如今它的长期生存面临问题。
Last summer, workers began an eight-year project to build a third runway in waters beside Hong Kong International Airport. Officials say that the estimated $18 billion project will allow Hong Kong to maintain its status as a global aviation hub and that a marine park should be	去年夏天，工人们开始在香港国际机场附近水域兴建第三条跑道，这是一个为期八年的工程。官员们表示，这个估计造价为180亿美元的项目将令香港保持全球航空枢纽的地位，跑道落成后，附近将于2023年左右建成一座海洋公园，以补偿该计划中对一片海豚栖息地的破坏，这片栖息地的面积约为

created nearby after the runway is completed, around 2023, to compensate for the planned destruction of an area of dolphin habitat roughly twice the size of Central Park in New York City.	纽约市中央公园的两倍。
But biologists say the third runway will compound the environmental damage of high-speed ferry traffic and other infrastructure projects, including a nearly completed bridge and tunnel crossing that will link Hong Kong and Macau to the Chinese mainland. They say Hong Kong – a commercial center with a British-style legal system and a high degree of political autonomy – appears increasingly bent on destroying its native dolphins through economic development, just as China drove the Yangtze River dolphin to extinction a decade ago.	但生物学家说，第三跑道项目会加剧高速渡轮交通及其他基础建设项目对环境造成的破坏，这些基础建设中包括一个将香港和澳门同中国大陆连接起来的桥梁与隧道系统，如今已经接近竣工。生物学家们说，这个拥有英式法律体系和高度政治自治的商业中心似乎越来越倾向于在发展经济的同时不顾本土海豚的毁灭，正如中国在十年前将白鱄豚推向灭绝一样。
“It’s such a terrible image for Hong Kong that we cannot protect our dolphins because we want even more money,” said Samuel Hung, a biologist who has been studying the estuary’s dolphins for decades and has battled the third runway project – unsuccessfully – in court.	“我们想要更多的钱，所以无法保护我们的海豚，对于香港来说，这真是一幅可怕的画面，”生物学家洪家耀(Samuel Hung)说。几十年来，他一直在研究珠江入海口的海豚，并且在法庭上与第三跑道项目做斗争，但没有成功。
The population of Chinese white dolphins in the coastal waters of the Pearl River estuary is estimated to be about 2,500, making it the largest near China’s coast and perhaps also in Southeast Asia. A report published in March by the scientific journal PLOS One, based on a four-and-a-half-year survey by University of Hong Kong biologists, estimated that “at least 368 dolphins used Hong Kong’s territorial waters as part of their range.”	珠江入海口是中国近海最大的中华白海豚栖息地，可能也是它们在东南亚最大的栖息地，这里的中华白海豚数量估计约为 2500 头。今年 3 月，科学期刊《PLOS One》发表了一份香港大学生物学家根据四年半来的调查结果写成的报告，估计“至少有 368 头海豚将香港的水域作为部分活动区域。”
Mr. Hung’s government-financed surveys, which use a different methodology, indicate that the dolphin abundance in Hong Kong waters – an estimate of how many dolphins are present at any one	洪家耀的调查受政府资助，他采用另一种研究方法，表明香港水域内的海豚数量(某一时段内海豚出现数量的估计值)已从 2003 年的 188 头降至 2015 年的 65 头，达到历史最低水平。“我们处于危急关头，”他说。

time — dropped to a record low of 65 in 2015, from 188 in 2003. “We’re at a critical juncture,” he said.
The Airport Authority has said that the third runway will significantly expand flight capacity at the airport, which served 70.5 million passengers last year, and provide $58 billion in additional revenue by 2061. Supporters of the plan include Cathay Pacific Airways, Hong Kong’s flagship carrier.	香港机场管理局表示，去年香港机场接待了 7050 万人次，第三跑道将大大提升航班容量，到 2061 年将增加 580 亿美元收入。该计划的支持者包括香港航空公司中的佼佼者国泰航空。
“If there was already a third runway, it would be utilized,” said Will Horton, a senior analyst in Hong Kong with the Capa Center for Aviation, based in Australia. “Local airlines are not growing as fast as they could, while foreign airlines are waiting to add flights.”	“如果机场目前已经有了第三条跑道，它也能被利用上，”总部在澳大利亚的亚太航空中心(Capa Center for Aviation)驻港资深分析师威尔·霍顿(Will Horton)说，“本地航空公司的增长受抑制，外国公司也在等待增加航班。”
But critics call the third runway project a white elephant, in part because it is unclear how much airspace mainland aviation authorities will allocate to Hong Kong in the coming decades, or whether the city airport can even hope to compete over the long term with its mainland Chinese counterparts.	但是批评者称第三跑道项目是一项华而不实的工程，部分原因在于目前尚不清楚未来几十年内，大陆航空当局将向香港分配多少空域，乃至这座城市的机场是否还有希望同大陆的同级机场实现长期竞争。
Albert Cheng, an aircraft engineer and former Hong Kong legislator, said the city should not bother investing in a third runway because it had already been “marginalized by China in every aspect” and would eventually lose its cachet as Asia’s aviation hub, lowering demand for flights.	飞行器工程师、前香港立法委委员郑经翰(Albert Cheng)表示，这个城市根本不应投资第三条跑道，因为它已经“在各个方面被中国边缘化”，最终将失去亚洲航空枢纽的声望，对航班的需求也会降低。
Another issue is whether the project’s proponents have accurately conveyed its environmental risks and whether the government should have allowed it to go forward.	另一个问题是，项目的支持者是否准确地表述了它的环境风险，政府当初是否应该允许它的发生。
Some critics say that the project should not have been approved	一些批评者表示，由于对海豚的潜在影响，该项目当初本不应获得批准，而

because of the potential impact on dolphins and that HSBC, the project's financial adviser, bears some responsibility because it has adopted the Equator Principles, a set of standards many institutions apply to ensure the projects they finance or advise do not harm people or the environment.	且项目的财务顾问汇丰银行也要承担一些责任，因为该银行已接受“赤道原则”，这是许多机构都在应用的一套标准，旨在确保它们的投资或咨询项目对人或环境无害。
HSBC has been advising the Airport Authority “on the preparation of the environmental information that financing banks will need, when selected, in order to evaluate this project as lenders in accordance with the Equator Principles,” Adam Harper, a spokesman for the bank, said in response to emailed questions about the runway project and the bank's corporate due diligence process. “We are committed to the Equator Principles.”	银行发言人亚当·哈珀(Adam Harper)在回应关于该跑道项目和公司尽职调查程序的电子邮件问询时表示，在香港机场管理局“筹备融资银行在筛选项目，对该项目进行评估，以便令放款人遵守赤道原则时所需的环境信息”过程中，汇丰银行一直在为它提供咨询意见。“我们致力于遵守赤道原则。”
The Airport Authority has said that its marine park proposal is based on international best practices and that noise from construction vessels will not cause long-term harm to dolphins because they are “expected to simply keep out of the way, which is an expected reaction by intelligent animals.”	香港机场管理局表示，该局关于海洋公园的提案是以国际最佳实务为基础，而且建造船只的噪音不会对海豚造成长期伤害，因为它们“预计会躲开，这是有智力的动物的预期反应。”
The authority said in a statement that the proposed marine park was nearly four times the size of the runway project and would “pave the way” for a rebound of the dolphin population in Lantau's northern waters. It would have been impractical to establish a park there during the construction phase, the statement said, mainly because the designation would have precluded building.	该局在一份声明中表示，拟建的海洋公园是跑道项目规模的四倍，将为大屿山北部海域的海豚数目反弹“铺平道路”。声明说，在跑道施工阶段，在这里建立公园是不切实际的，主要是因为这项规划早已把这一建筑排除在外。
But biologists say the proposed park would not protect the dolphins from construction-related noise between now and 2023, or cover	但生物学家说，从现在起至 2023 年，拟建的公园无法保护海豚免受建筑噪音影响，也未能涵盖大屿山西南部水域的重要海豚栖息地。

critical dolphin habitats in Lantau's southwestern waters.
"The saddest thing is that the experts from the airport say, 'It's O.K. for them to leave. They'll come back later,'" said Mak Hei Man, one of several researchers who conduct dolphin surveys off Lantau as part of a government-financed research project that began in the 1990s.	"最悲哀的是，机场专家说，'现在让它们离开，没问题，稍后它们还会回来，' 麦希文 (Mak Hei Man, 音) 说，她是在大屿山进行海豚调查的几位研究人员之一，该研究属于一个自 1990 年代开始的政府资助项目。
"But in mainland waters, it's even worse," she said, referring to pollution and disturbances.	她说："但在大陆的水域，情况更加糟糕，"她指的是那里的污染和扰动。
Billy Hau, a University of Hong Kong biologist and a member of the city's Advisory Council on the Environment, said that the runway project illustrated the problems with the environmental permit system.	香港大学生物学家兼该市环境咨询委员会成员侯智恒(Billy Hau)说，跑道项目说明了环境审批制度存在的问题。
Hong Kong's Environmental Protection Department has rejected just seven of 249 applications for approval of environmental impact assessments since the permit review process became legally binding in 1998. Mr. Hau said the process lacked accountability, because it did not allow for public hearings or the formation of expert panels to review especially contentious projects.	自 1998 年环境审批程序具有法律约束力以来，在 249 项环境影响评估审批申请当中，香港环境保护署只拒绝了其中七项。侯智恒表示，该程序缺乏问责，因为它不允许举行公开听证会，或组成专家小组审查特别有争议的项目。
"Many people criticize this as unfair because most of the proponents either have a very strong interest in government, or they're actually government departments themselves," he said.	"很多人批评这是不公平的，因为大多数支持者在政府内有很大的利益，或者本身就是政府部门的工作人员，"他说。
The department disputed this, saying by email that the process allowed both the public and the Advisory Council on the Environment to inspect projects twice.	环境保护署对此表示异议，它通过电子邮件表示，审批程序允许公众和环境咨询委员会两次对项目进行审查。
John Wang, a biologist at Trent University in Canada who studies Hong Kong's dolphins, said that the process had effectively allowed the Airport Authority to gamble with the dolphins' lives. Even after the	研究香港海豚的加拿大多伦多大学生物学家王愈超(John Wang)说，这种做法实质上是令机场管理局用海豚的生命作赌注。他说，即使香港政府发布了环境影响研究报告，海豚会对跑道施工噪音以及未来高速渡轮或航运路线变

release of an environmental impact study, he said, it remains unclear precisely how dolphins may respond to runway construction noise or to future changes in high-speed ferry or shipping routes.	化做出什么样的回应，目前依然不确定。
Mr. Wang said that at some point, the dolphins could become so stressed and confused by the noise in the estuary that they would stop swimming away from noise sources, leading some observers to assume they were unbothered.	王愈超说，在某些时候，海豚可能会对出海口的噪音感到紧张和困惑，因此会停止游离噪声源头，导致一些观察家认为它们没有受到影响。
"People will misunderstand that, saying, 'Oh, they've acclimatized, they're O.K. now,'" he said, standing on the deck of the survey boat. "No. They've just given up."	"人们会产生误会，说：'哦，它们已经适应了，它们现在没问题了，'"他站在调查船的甲板上说。"不是这样的。它们只是放弃了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170615/hong-kong-white-dolphins-air port	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170615/hong-kong-white-dolphins-air port
A $664,000 Parking Spot Symbolizes Hong Kong's Property Frenzy	66.4 万美元在香港能买什么房？一个停车位！
HONG KONG — In many places, $664,000 can buy you a nice house. For that price in Hong Kong, you can buy a slab of concrete, roughly 17 feet long and 11 feet wide, to leave your luxury car.	香港——在许多地方，66.4 万美元（约合 452 万元人民币）可以买到一套漂亮的房子。但这个价钱在香港只能买到一块约 5 米长、3.3 米宽的水泥地，用来停你的豪车。
Hong Kong is now home to a very expensive parking spot, the latest sign of a property market run amok. Even in a city well accustomed to costly real estate, the price spiral has confounded the most experienced observers.	香港如今已成为停车位最贵的地方，这是当地房地产市场过热的一个最新标志。即使在这个对昂贵的房地产市场已经习以为常的城市，地价的攀升也让最有经验的观察人士大惑不解。
"This is basically the price of one flat in Hong Kong," said Lennon Choy, an associate professor of real estate and construction at the University of Hong Kong. "This is crazy, actually."	"这基本上是香港一套公寓的价格，"香港大学房地产及建设系副教授蔡鸿达说。"真是疯了。"
The buyer was listed as Kwan Wai-ming, whom local news outlets identified as executive director of the Huarong Investment Stock	买主登记的名字是关伟明，当地新闻报道说他是华融投资股份有限公司的执行董事。他的公司拒绝对此置评。这个价格买下的停车位在港岛的一座公寓

Corporation. His company declined to comment. That price, paid for a spot in an apartment complex on Hong Kong Island, was a new local record, breaking the previous $615,000 paid for a slightly smaller spot last year.	楼里，是香港停车位的新纪录，打破了去年一块略小车位的 61.5 万美元的买价。
The huge price paid for a single parking spot illustrates the broader rise in real estate values. By some measures, Hong Kong is already the world's most expensive housing market per square foot.	为单个停车位付出如此巨大的价钱显示了香港房地产价格上涨的更大范围的问题。用某种方式计算，香港已经是世界上每平方英尺价钱最高的住房市场。
While the run-up has enriched property owners and developers, it has led to widespread worries that a generation of young residents will be unable to afford a home. The unaffordability of housing played a role in protests three years ago and has spurred leaders to try to address the problem.	虽然价格的飞涨让业主和开发商发了财，但也引了普遍的担忧，人们担心新一代的年轻居民将负担不起这种房价。住不起房的问题是导致三年前的抗议活动的一个因素，也促使香港领导人试图解决这个问题。
A number of causes explain the run-up. A dense city spread over rocky islands and a peninsula that borders mainland China, Hong Kong has had a surge in investment from mainlanders looking for a relatively safe place to park their money. City officials tightly control the market for new land parcels, exacerbating supply limits.	房价飞涨有许多原因。香港由有山的岛以及与大陆接壤的半岛组成，城市人口密度已经很高，大陆居民投到香港的资金正在激增，大陆人想为自己的财产寻找一个比较安全的地方。同时香港官员严格控制新地块的市场，加剧了供应的紧张。
As mainland developers have increased competition with longtime Hong Kong property giants, land prices have set records. And property developers are encouraging potential buyers by directly offering mortgages in competition with local banks.	由于大陆开发商已经加强了与香港老牌房地产巨头的竞争，地价多次创下记录。房地产开发商也在与当地银行竞争，通过直接向潜在买家提供抵押贷款的方式鼓励他们买房。
New fees on out-of-town buyers and tighter rules on money leaving mainland China have done little to contain the rising prices.	对外来买家征收的新费用、以及中国大陆收紧资金出境的做法对香港房价的上涨几乎没有作用。
The run-up is leading to worries about a damaging crash. Last month, the Hong Kong Monetary Authority, which acts as the central bank,	房价飞涨也带来另一种担心，即房市崩溃给经济造成的损害。上个月，作为给市场降温的一种努力，香港金融管理局收紧抵押贷款规则，金管局相当于

tightened mortgage lending rules in an effort to tame the market.	香港的中央银行。
"The risk of overheating in the property market in Hong Kong continues to increase," Norman Chan, the authority's chief executive, said in a statement last month. He added, "I would like to remind the public that, for most people, buying a property is not only one of the most important decisions in life, it is also a financial transaction entailing significant leverage through borrowing."	"香港房地产市场过热的风险继续上升,"金管局总裁陈德霖上月在一份声明中说。他还说:"我想提醒市民,对大多数人而言,置业不只是生活中最重要的决定之一,也是一个高杠杆和大额财务的金融交易。"
For his money, Mr. Kwan may get convenience. He already owns property in the same apartment complex where the parking spot is situated, called the Upton, in the Sai Ying Pun district. He previously bought two apartments for $9.7 million and two other parking spots in the complex for $995,000, according to the Hong Kong land registry.	关伟明花的钱可能为他买来了方便。他已经在西营盘区那个名为"维峰"(Upton)的楼盘拥有房产。根据香港土地注册处,他以前曾花970万美元在那里买了两套公寓,还花了99.5万美元买下了两个停车位。
Such an expensive parking spot may seem excessive in a city where transportation can be cheap. Hong Kong has a world-class mass transit system, and a passenger can cross Hong Kong Island for $1.30 on the subway, or — with a little patience — 30 cents by tram.	如此昂贵的停车位,对这个公共交通便宜的城市看说,似乎有点过头。香港拥有世界一流的公共交通系统,乘客花1.3美元就可以从香港岛的一头到另一头,或者有耐心的话,乘有轨电车只需30美分。
But some wealthy residents revel in the recognition that comes with a Lamborghini or even a coveted license plate. Last year, a plate carrying the number 28, which sounds like a phrase for "easy money" in Cantonese, sold for a record $2.3 million at auction.	但一些富裕的居民痴迷于兰博基尼、或令人垂涎的车牌引起的羡慕。去年,一个号码中有28的车牌,以230万美元的价格拍卖成交,28用粤语读与"易发"谐音。
Of course, Hong Kong may not be unique. One New York City developer once asked $1 million for a place to park.	当然香港可能并不独一无二。纽约市的一位开发商曾给一个停车位开价100万美元。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170616/hong-kong-parking-spot-record-real-estate	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170616/hong-kong-parking-spot-record-real-estate
China, Where the Pressure to Marry Is Strong, and the Advice Flows	中国女性结婚压力大,网上情感顾问受追捧

Online
BEIJING — Every evening, Liang Xuemeng goes online to read the latest postings from Ayawawa, one of China’s most popular advice columnists.	北京——每天晚上，梁雪梦都要上网阅读中国最红的情感咨询专栏作家之一 Ayawawa 的新贴。
“I’ve learned a lot from Ayawawa,” said Ms. Liang, 29, an office clerk in Beijing. “I wish I’d started following her before my first marriage failed.”	“我从娃娃那里学到了很多，我后悔没有在第一次婚姻中接触到娃娃的理论。”北京 29 岁的办公室职员梁女士说道。
Ayawawa is the online name of Yang Bingyang, one of several online advice dispensers who have won celebrity in China by tapping into urban women’s anxieties about finding a man to marry.	利用都市女性寻找男人结婚的焦虑，有几个网上情感咨询师在中国成为了名人。网名 Ayawawa 的杨冰阳就是其中之一。
A former model, author of nine books and, she says, one of the first Chinese admitted to Mensa, the high I.Q. society, Ms. Yang has 2.8 million followers on Weibo, a Twitter-like messaging service, and 1.3 million on WeChat, the social media platform where she answers readers’ questions.	她曾经当过模特，写过九本书，自称高智商者协会门萨俱乐部(Mensa)的第一批中国成员。杨冰阳在类似 Twitter 的微博平台上拥有 280 万粉丝，在社交媒体平台微信上拥有 130 万粉丝，她在这些平台上回答读者的提问。
“Since I was very young, even before I had my first relationship, I’ve been good at giving advice on relationships to people around me,” Ms. Yang said in an interview.	杨冰阳在接受采访时说：“我很小的时候，甚至在初恋之前，我就比较擅长给身边人的情感问题出谋划策。”
Although women in their 20s are greatly outnumbered by men in the same age group in China, a product in part of the since-abandoned one-child family policy and a cultural preference for sons, they face enormous pressure to marry. Those who do not have a husband by the age of 27 are routinely branded as “leftover women,” with diminishing value in the dating market.	在中国，20 多岁的男性数量远多于女性，这是已经取消的独生子女政策和重男轻女的文化传统所致，虽然如此，女性却面临着巨大的结婚压力。27 岁没有结婚的女性常常被称为“剩女”，在婚恋市场上的价值逐渐下降。
Many of these “leftover women” are well-educated urban professionals in a society where men prefer women who are younger and less	这些“剩女”很多都是受过良好教育的都市专业人士，在这样一个社会，男人喜欢比自己年轻、没有自己成功的女人。而剩男多聚集在另一头，即贫穷的

successful than themselves. The surplus of bachelors shows up mostly on the other end of the spectrum, poor rural men, prompting the state-run All-China Women's Federation to urge women to lower their standards, lest they, too, end up as "leftovers."	农村男性，因此中华全国妇女联合会敦促女性降低择偶标准，以免成为“剩女”。
The stress surrounding the search for a suitable partner has given rise to highly rated television dating shows and public matchmaking events. And to advice columnists like Ayawawa, who can detail the techniques for dating and marrying a man.	寻找合适伴侣的压力催生了高收视率的电视相亲节目和公开相亲活动。还有像 Ayawawa 这样的情感咨询专栏作家，向大家详细介绍和男人约会以及结婚的技巧。
The columnists have their critics, who accuse them of reinforcing gender stereotypes, but the columnists counter that they are simply acknowledging reality.	有些人批评这些专栏作家，指责他们强化了性别的刻板印象，但专栏作家们反驳说，他们只不过是在承认现实。
"Our world has been hijacked by political correctness," Ms. Yang said. "I'm criticized for telling the truth about the differences between men and women."	"我们的世界已经被政治正确绑架了。"杨冰阳说："我因为说出了男女的差别而受到批评。"
She compared managing a relationship to taking an examination. "If there's something wrong with the exam, it's not my job to change how it works, but to tell my followers how to take the exam and score a high grade under the existing circumstances."	她把关系的经营比作考试。“就像是高考，现在很多人说高考制度有问题，但是我不是那个改变高考制度的人，我是提供应考策略，让她们在这个制度下得到更高的成绩。”
Ms. Liang wishes she'd paid attention earlier. "Then I'd have understood the importance of a woman's M.V. and P.U.," she said.	梁女士希望自己早一些关注杨冰阳。“如果早一点接触她的理论，我就能早一些了解到女人 M.V.和 P.U.的知识，”她说。
As Ayawawa explains on her WeChat home page, "M.V." stands for "Mate Value," and "P.U." refers to "Paternity Uncertainty."	Ayawawa 在她的微信主页上解释说，“M.V.”代表的是“婚恋市场价值”，而“P.U.”是指“亲子不确定性”。
She elaborated: "A man's M.V. is determined by his age, height, looks, wealth, I.Q., emotional quotient, sexual capacity and willingness to make a long-term commitment." The eight elements in a woman's M.V.	她进行了说明：“一个男人的 M.V.的衡量标准主要有 8 项：年龄、身高、长相、财富、智商、情商、性能力和长期承诺。与男人标准相对应，衡量一个女人的 M.V.的 8 项标准为：年龄、长相、身高、罩杯、体重、学历、性格、

are her "age, looks, height, bra cup size, weight, academic degrees, personality and family background."	家庭环境。”
As for P.U., Ayawawa said, "In human evolutionary history, a man's great concern is that he cannot be certain if he is the father of his partner's child." So she advises her female readers: "Don't wear revealing clothes. Don't be always posting pictures of yourself drinking in a bar. Be a lady, speak softly, be modest."	对于 P.U., Ayawawa 说：“在整个人类进化历史中，男性一直面临着父亲身份不确定的问题。”所以她建议她的女性读者：“平时要注意不要穿太暴露的衣服。不要总发喝酒照片。行为要淑女，说话要温声，要矜持。”
Her suggestions to women include letting the man take the lead. Don't call him for the first few dates. Don't have sex for the first few months. In response to one young woman's request for advice about a suitor, she counseled, "Hold back. Make him invest more in you," meaning both time and money.	她给女性的建议还包括让男人采取主动。在前几次约会不要打电话给对方。头几个月不要有性行为。在回应一名年轻女子关于追求者的咨询意见，她建议，“打住。让他在你身上投更多的资，”投资既包括时间，也包括金钱。
Ms. Liang credits Ayawawa's advice with rescuing her romantic life. She's now engaged to marry.	梁女士说，Ayawawa 的建议拯救了她的恋爱关系。她现在订婚了。
Many of Ayawawa's fans consider her the personification of the success they crave for themselves: attractive, married to a man she describes as a loving husband, the mother of two children.	Ayawawa 的很多粉丝们把她当作自己渴望的那种成功的化身：有吸引力，有一个据说是充满爱心的丈夫，生了两个孩子。
By contrast, Lu Qi, a popular online relationship adviser with 26 million followers on Weibo, owes much of his credibility to being a single man in his early 30s, who presumably knows firsthand what such men really think of women. He also said that his advice was based on extensive research in the social sciences and psychology.	相比之下，另一个很红的网上情感顾问陆琪拥有 2600 万微博粉丝，这和他是一个 30 出头的单身男子有很大关系，因为他可能真的知道男人对女人的看法。而且陆琪还表示，他的建议建立在广泛的社会科学和心理学研究的基础上。
"Chinese schools don't offer a proper education in love and relationships," Mr. Lu said in an interview. "People get their ideas mostly from TV dramas."	“中国人在学校里面没有接受到正规的恋爱教育。”陆琪在接受采访时表示：“大多数人的恋爱价值观是通过电视剧得来的。”

Asked whether he really believed there were rules governing love, he said, "You can't measure love, of course, but there are some rules that apply to all relationships and social interactions."	当被问及他是否真的相信有爱情规则时，他说：“我个人觉得爱情是不可量化的。但是人际关系有一定规律可循，会有一个大致趋向性。”
He expounds on some of these in taped lectures he sells online, on such subjects as: "Teaching women to solve relationship problems in a scientific way. Overcoming lingering feelings from a former relationship. Fighting a 'little third'" — a Chinese term for a third party in a relationship.	他的在线节目对一些问题做了阐释，其中一些主题包括：“教女性用科学方法解决情感问题：快速脱单，戒断旧情，挽回前任，击退小三等。”小三指的是一段关系中的第三方。
Mr. Lu is also famous for sharing his doctrines on Weibo.	陆琪还以在微博上分享自己的信条出名。
"For women, spending more time with a man deepens her love. But for a man, the longer he stays with a woman, the less he loves her," Mr. Lu posted this month.	"时间可以让一个女人慢慢爱上男人，但时间却很难让男人慢慢爱上女人。女人的爱情可以通过陪伴、累积而越来越多，可男人的爱情却会随着时间而慢慢减少。"
He said he wanted to empower women by teaching them to be pragmatists about what they want from men.	他说，他想通过教女性成为两性关系中的实用主义者，从而赋予女性权力。
"In traditional China, women had an easier life," he said. "They didn't need to work hard and have a career, though, of course, they lacked certain rights. Feminism has made women's lives harder, not easier. I'm teaching women how to get ahead."	"中国历来教育女性过的更轻松。"他说，"社会不期待她们工作努力事业有成，当然，这也是有代价的。但是女权主义是让女性过的更辛苦。我是一个女性实用主义者，但是我希望女性过的更好。"
Lu Pin, a founder of Feminist Voices, an online journal devoted to women's issues, said the counsel provided by online advisers underlined how Chinese society should change.	吕频是专门讨论女性问题的网络期刊女性之声的创始人，她说，网上情感顾问提供的建议突显了中国社会应该做出怎样的改变。
"Both of them advise women to manipulate men to gain material benefits," Ms. Lu said. "The question is, Why in China is it women who scheme to get men to commit to marriage? Why, when it comes to marriage, are women the sellers and men the buyers? It's because	"他们的观点异曲同工。他们都是指导女性如何从男人身上谋取利益。"吕频说："但是今天现实变得很露骨，为什么完全是女性向男性谋取婚姻？在婚姻这个问题上，男女方为什么变成了买方和卖方的关系？根本上是因为女性缺乏一个独立发展的途径。" women don't have the space to develop themselves."

She said economic progress in China had not been accompanied by progress on gender relations.	她说，中国的经济进步了，但两性关系并没有随之进步。
"It's sad to see, when the economy has produced so many more opportunities, that more and more women believe that getting married is superior to working hard and achieving a successful career," she said.	她说：“我们的经济发展带来了更多的机会，但是男女掌握机会的差距变大。同时有越来越多的女性相信‘干得好不如嫁的好’，这个是我们这个时代的悲哀。”
Ms. Liang shrugs off such criticism of the advice she credits with helping her find a new husband. Sometimes Ayawawa fans meet on weekends to discuss how to improve their M.V. Ms. Liang, for example, is trying to lose weight and improve her makeup skills and is practicing baking.	梁女士对这些指责不以为然，因为她觉得能找到新丈夫就是这种情感建议的功劳。有时候，Ayawawa 的粉丝会在周末见面，讨论如何改善她们的 M.V.。例如梁女士试图减肥，提高她的化妆技巧，并且正在练习烘焙。
As for the charge that the online advisers promote a backward view of gender relations, she said: "The differences between men and women are inborn. I take these ideas seriously because I want a better life for myself, not because I'm eager to make the world better for women."	当问到怎么看待这些情感博主的理论受到质疑，梁小姐说，“男女差异天生存在。我关注娃娃的理论，因为我想要在现有的社会条件下收获更好的生活，而不是我多么渴望创造一个对女性更公平的社会。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170619/china-advice-columnists-online-relationships	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170619/china-advice-columnists-online-relationships
Mongolian Warriors and Communist Soldiers: A Frontier Town in China	从蒙古骑兵到解放军，追随父亲的足迹走访边城
WENQUAN, China — Wenquan means "hot springs," and the town, nestled in a fertile swath of Central Asia, certainly has its share. Alpine forests cloak the surrounding mountains. To the south is a wide lake where azure waters lap at stony shores. Horses and sheep roam the pastures.	中国温泉县——温泉县坐落于中亚一片肥沃的狭长地带之中，顾名思义，这里当然有温泉。镇子四周环绕着长满高山丛林的山脉，南面是一个宽阔的湖泊，天蓝色的湖水拍打着石岸。骏马和羊群在牧场上游荡。
But an abundance of natural beauty is not what brought the Mongolian warriors to this land of broad valleys in China, next to present-day	这座巨大的山谷位于中国境内，毗邻如今的哈萨克斯坦，但当年蒙古士兵来到这里，可不是为了欣赏美丽的自然风光。

Kazakhstan.
The Chahar made the long journey in horse and camel caravans in the 18th century, under orders from the Qianlong Emperor and his court in Beijing. Qianlong, the greatest of the Manchu rulers of the Qing dynasty, cobbled together a vast multiethnic Chinese empire through conquests and alliances. Mongolian khanates, armies and tribes fell under his rule, often after vicious battles.	18 世纪，奉乾隆皇帝和北京的朝廷之命，一支察哈尔军队骑着马和骆驼长途跋涉来到这里。通过征服与结盟，乾隆这位伟大的满清统治者建立了一个多民族的中华大帝国。蒙古的汗国、军队和部落都服从他的统治——通常是经历恶战之后。
Qianlong dispatched a Chahar army from near the Mongolian steppe to newly conquered territories along the empire's northwestern rim, where the Chahar were to form a border garrison.	乾隆派遣蒙古草原附近的一支察哈尔军队，让他们沿着帝国西北边缘来到新征服的领土，在那里组建边防部队。
"My father was here from a young age," said Xiu Yun, 48, a manager at a modest resort hotel built around the hot springs in the town center. "His parents were from here too. My family members are descendants of the Mongolians who came under the Qing. We Mongols are very proud of this history."	"我父亲从小就在这里，"48 岁的秀云说，她是县中心一家中等规模的温泉度假酒店的经理。"他的父母也来自这里。我的家人是清朝时期到来的蒙古人的后裔。我们蒙古人对这段历史非常自豪。"
She added: "I can speak Mongolian and read and write it. Most Mongolians here can do the same."	她还说："我可以讲蒙古语，也可以读写。这里大多数蒙古人都是这样。"
In recent years, Wenquan officials have begun highlighting the town's Mongolian heritage. Street signs have both Chinese and Mongolian script. A new concrete mural on the main road next to the hot springs hotel depicts the ancient caravans that traveled west. A museum at the other end of the main street has a large map showing the three waves of Chahar migration. On one wall, a poem called "The Door of the Rainbow" pays tribute to that history.	近年来，温泉县的官员们开始强调该县的蒙古遗存。街道的标志上都有中文和蒙古文。紧邻着温泉酒店的大路边，混凝土墙壁上有一幅新近绘制的壁画，描绘着向西行进的古队。大路另一头的博物馆里有一张大型地图，标出了三次察哈尔移民潮。在一面墙上，一首名为《彩虹之门》的诗歌向这段历史致敬。
For centuries, the Chahar claimed to have a seal from Genghis Khan,	1675 年，一场失败的叛乱之后，察哈尔部被纳入清朝的八旗编制。几个世

which conferred legitimacy. So their alliance with the Qing — they were incorporated into the banner system after a failed rebellion in 1675 — was important for the Manchu rulers. It bolstered Manchu standing in the eyes of other Mongolian tumen, or tribes.	纪以来，察哈尔部都声称保存有一颗成吉思汗的印玺，赋予他们正统地位。所以他们的联盟对满族统治者来说非常重要。它巩固了满族在其他蒙古万户（即部落）眼中的地位。
“From Genghis Khan to the emperors of the Yuan dynasty to the khans of the Chahar tumen, there was this single lineage,” said Oyunbilig Borjigidai, a professor of Manchu and Mongolian history at Renmin University of China in Beijing. “Its status and influence were much greater than those of the other tumen.”	“从成吉思汗，然后是元朝的皇帝们，然后到察哈尔万户的可汗，是一脉相承的，”北京的中国人民大学满族与蒙古历史教授乌云毕力格·孛尔只斤 (Oyunbilig Borjigidai)说：“地位、势力大概都是比其他的万户高得多。”
Another Mongolian group, the Dzungars, ruled northwest Xinjiang, on the Central Asian frontier, before Qianlong decimated them in a famous series of campaigns. Qianlong then wanted to build garrisons on the borderlands, and so armies from the Chahar, Xibe and Solon ethnic groups were dispatched.	在中亚边疆，另一个蒙古部族准噶尔统治着新疆西北部，此后乾隆在一系列著名的战役中击败了他们。当时乾隆想在边境地区建立驻军，于是派遣察哈尔、锡伯族和索伦族的军队前往。
“They truly played an important role in helping the Qing court establish a foothold in the northwestern border area and develop it,” Mr. Oyunbilig said of the Chahar. “They have a reason to be proud.”	“确实它对清朝在那个地方立住脚，后来经营西北边疆这个地方，他功劳很大。他这个确实应该自豪。”乌云毕力格这样评价察哈尔部起到的作用。
Wenquan is part of the Bortala Mongol Autonomous Prefecture, the base of the Chahar in Xinjiang. (Their ancestral home is in present-day Inner Mongolia, where the majority of Chahar in China live.) The prefecture is one of several scattered enclaves that arose from Qing-era garrisons. Farther south, in the fertile Ili Valley, is another — that of the Xibe, who speak a language similar to Manchu and are one of China’s 56 official ethnic groups.	温泉县位于新疆博尔塔拉蒙古自治州，该州是新疆察哈尔人的主要居住地（察哈尔人的祖籍位于如今的内蒙古，目前中国大部分察哈尔人都住在那里），也是从清朝时期驻军发展起来的几个分散的聚居地之一。在南疆肥沃的伊犁河谷内有另一个从清朝驻军发展起来的锡伯族聚居地，他们是中国官方承认的 56 个民族之一，语言和满语很类似。
Wenquan is a quiet town beyond a pass north of Sayram Lake, the	温泉县是一个安静的小镇，位于新疆最大的高山湖赛里木湖以北的一处山

largest alpine lake in Xinjiang and where Kazakh herders graze sheep and offer horseback rides to tourists in summer. Wenquan has one short commercial strip — at one end is the hot springs hotel and at the other is the museum.	口，夏天，哈萨克牧民在这里放牧羊群，为游客提供骑马游览。温泉县里有一条短短的商业街——一头是这家温泉酒店，另一头是博物馆。
Half the town is taken up by a bingtuan, a term for an agricultural production center that originated in the Mao era as a garrison project of the People's Liberation Army. It is a modern-day variation on the mission of the Chahar.	镇子有一半的地方被兵团占据着——这是一种起源于毛泽东时期的人民解放军驻军方案，其功能是农业生产中心。它堪称古代察哈尔人使命的现代变种。
It is hard to tell where the town ends and the bingtuan begins. The two merge seamlessly. The bingtuan, the 88th Regiment of the Fifth Division, has streets, homes, schools, shops and office buildings.	镇子和兵团的分界线很难说清，二者之间融合得天衣无缝。这里的兵团番号是解放军第五师 88 团，他们有自己的街道、住宅、学校、商店和办公楼。
While on a reporting trip to Xinjiang, I drove to Wenquan to spend a night here. I was curious about the town because my father, as a member of the Chinese Army, had been posted here from 1955 to 1957 to work in an earlier bingtuan, as an aide to the party chief.	在一次去往新疆做报道的旅行中，我开车去了温泉县，在这里过了一夜。我对这个镇子感到好奇，因为从 1955 年到 1957 年，我的父亲作为一名中国军人曾驻扎在这里，在一个早期的兵团工作，担任党支部书记的助手。
He bunked with two others in a room with a coal stove. The town had a dirt road lined with homes. There were no shops then. The hot springs bathhouse stood alone, not as part of a hotel, and my father enjoyed dips there. The mud-walled home where my father lived was uphill at one end of the road, on the grounds of the headquarters of the Fifth Regiment.	他和另外两人合住一个有煤炉的房间。镇上有一条土路，两边都是民房。那时没有商店。温泉浴场是自成一体的，并不是某个酒店的配套设施，父亲喜欢在那里泡一泡。父亲住的夯土房子位于第五团总部内，在一条山路的尽头。
"Every day, I would look at the mountains," he told me. "Someone said, 'You cross the mountains and you are in Russia.' Kazakhstan was on the other side."	"我每天都眺望群山，"他告诉我。"有人说，'翻过山去就是俄国了，'山那边其实是哈萨克斯坦。"
Wenquan is a palimpsest of military conquest. In a sense, my father and	温泉县反复成为军事征服的目标。某种意义上，在共产党统治的最初十年里，

the handful of other ethnic Han soldiers posted here in the first decade of Communist Party rule were spiritual descendants of the Chahar.	父亲和驻扎在这里的其他几个汉族士兵是察哈尔人的精神后代。
Though there were Mongolians in the area back then, most people in town and in the surrounding hills were Kazakhs, and they remain the largest ethnic group in Wenquan. On occasion, my father would ride a horse for a day to visit nomads in the high pastures and spend a night or two in their felt yurts. He learned to speak some Kazakh.	当时，虽然当地也有蒙古人，但大多数城镇和周边山区的人都是哈萨克人，如今他们仍然是温泉县最大的族群。有时候，父亲整天骑着马，在高山牧场上访问牧民，在他们的毛毡帐篷里度过一两个晚上。他学会了一些哈萨克语。
To visit Mongolians in the nearby prefecture seat of Bortala, my father and his comrades rode in a horse-drawn wagon. In Wenquan, there was no emphasis on Mongolian language or culture. After my trip, my father was surprised to hear of the displays of Mongolian culture I had seen.	父亲还和战友赶着马车，去拜访博尔塔拉附近地区的蒙古人。当时在温泉镇，没有人强调蒙古语言或文化。我去过那里之后，父亲看到我拍下的那些蒙古文化的迹象，感到非常惊讶。
Though the party's ethnic policies are contentious, there has been a revived interest in some parts of China in the languages and traditions of smaller ethnic groups. Sometimes this has strong support by the national government, as in the case of the Manchus. In other instances, ordinary people or community officials drive the revival.	虽然中国共产党的民族政策引发了批评，但在中国的一些地区，人数较少的族群语言和传统也出现了复兴。有时，这是在国家政府的强力支持下发生的，满族就是这样。在其他情况下，这种复兴是由普通民众或社区官员推动的。
"There is this new sub-ethnic consciousness," said Peter C. Perdue, a historian at Yale University who has studied the Qing conquest of Xinjiang. "The Chahar want to say they are a separate ethnic group, not mixed in with the other Mongolians there."	"这是一种新的亚民族意识，"耶鲁大学历史学家、曾研究清朝征服新疆过程的濮德培(Peter C. Perdue)说。"察哈尔想表明自己是一个独立的民族，不愿同那里的其他蒙古人混在一起。"
"You hear about the Uighurs all the time there," he added, referring to a Turkic-speaking group in Xinjiang. "The other minority people are also trying to regenerate a sense of their identity, in a somewhat different sense than the way the People's Republic of China assigns ethnic labels	"你总是能听到关于新疆维吾尔人的情况，"他还说，维吾尔族是新疆一个突厥语系的民族。"其他少数民族也试图重新形成自己的身份认同，在某种程度上，这完全不同于中华人民共和国给民众分配民族标签的方式。"

to people.”
The evening I stayed in town, Mongolians, Kazakh, Han and Uighurs all showed up at the bathhouse in the hot springs hotel. In recent years, violence involving Uighurs and Han has erupted in oasis towns in southern Xinjiang, the Uighur heartland, and in the regional capital, Urumqi. There did not appear to be much tension in Wenquan.	晚上我住在温泉镇里，来到温泉酒店浴室里的有蒙古族人也有哈萨克人、汉族人和维吾尔人。近年来，维吾尔人和汉人的暴力事件都发生在南疆的绿洲城镇，那里是维吾尔族聚居的心脏地带，此外还有新疆的首府乌鲁木齐。温泉县似乎没有紧张的迹象。
Ms. Xiu, the hotel’s manager, has an uncle who writes Chahar poems for local newspapers and plays the topshur, a two-stringed instrument popular among western Mongolian tribes. The uncle, Madega, 66, runs a local company that makes the instrument. He lives with a daughter, Wuyunhua’er.	酒店经理秀云有一位叔叔曾在当地报纸上发表过察哈尔语诗歌，还会弹拖布舒尔琴(topshur)，这是西部的蒙古部落中流行的一种二弦乐器。他名叫马德嘎(Madega)，今年66岁，拥有一家制作这种乐器的公司。目前和女儿乌云花尔(Wuyunhua’er)住在一起。
“The Chahar dialect is still widely spoken in Chahar families in Wenquan,” the daughter said. “But over all, I can’t say how well preserved the Chahar culture is in Wenquan.”	“在温泉的话，察哈尔方言还是大家在家里面都说，”他的女儿说。“但是察哈尔文化总体上在温泉保护得怎么样，这个我不好说。”
For the last decade, the prefecture has held a summertime festival called Naadam, in which Mongolians celebrate traditional sports that include wrestling, archery and horse racing. Wenquan began hosting it about four years ago. Last year, officials changed the name from Naadam, a common Mongolian word for such a festival, to the Hot Springs Festival, in a bid to attract more tourists.	过去的十年中，这个自治州一直在举办一个名叫“那达慕”(Naadam)的夏季庆典，蒙古人用摔跤、射箭和赛马等传统运动来庆祝这个节日。温泉县于四年前开始承办这一庆典。“那达慕”是这类节日惯用的蒙古语说法，去年，官员们将这个名称改为“温泉节”，以吸引更多游客。
But in other ways, the festival has been expanding the spotlight on the area’s Mongolian heritage.	但在其他方面，这个节日一直在扩大对该地区蒙古遗产的关注。
At last summer’s event, Ms. Xiu said, “local Kazakhs and Mongolians sold costumes, handicrafts and relics for the first time, and this was popular with tourists.”	秀云提到去年夏天的活动时说：“当地的哈萨克族和蒙古族人第一次开始出售民族服装、手工艺品和古董，很受游客欢迎。”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170619/mongolian-warriors-and-communist-soldiers-a-frontier-town-in-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170619/mongolian-warriors-and-communist-soldiers-a-frontier-town-in-china
In Greece, China Finds an Ally Against Human Rights Criticism	希腊阻止欧盟在联合国批评中国人权状况
GENEVA — China has long won diplomatic allies in the world’s poor countries by helping them build expensive roads and ports. Now, it appears to have similarly won over a needy country in Europe.	日内瓦——长期以来，中国通过为穷国建设成本高昂的道路和港口，赢得了一些外交盟友。现在，它似乎要通过类似的方式赢得一个欧洲穷国了。
At a meeting of the United Nations Human Rights Council this month in Geneva, the European Union sought to draw renewed attention to human rights abuses in China — only to be blocked by one of its member countries, Greece. A spokesman for the Greek Foreign Ministry in Athens called it “unproductive criticism.”	联合国人权理事会本月在日内瓦举行的一次会议上，欧盟试图重新提起对中国侵犯人权问题的关注——结果却被成员国希腊所阻止。希腊外交部长在雅典的发言人称“这种批评缺乏建设性”。
It was the first time that the European Union did not make a statement in the Human Rights Council regarding rights violations in specific countries, including China, which has a seat on the council. That silence was an embarrassing reversal for the 28-country bloc, which has prided itself on taking progressive positions on human rights on a council where some nations with poor human rights records habitually resist country-specific resolutions and examinations of their conduct.	这是欧盟第一次在人权理事会上没有就中国等国的人权侵犯状况发表声明，中国拥有该理事会席位。对于有 28 个成员国的欧盟来说，这种沉默是一个尴尬的逆转。欧盟一直以在该理事会上采取进步的人权立场而自豪，但理事会里一些人权纪录不佳的国家习惯性地对欧盟指名道姓的决议和考察本国行为的做法进行抵制。
Greece is increasingly courting Chinese trade and investment as it faces pressure from international creditors and a cold shoulder from its traditional rich allies in Europe. China’s largest shipping company, known as China COSCO Shipping, bought a majority stake last year in the Greek port of Piraeus. The Greek prime minister, Alexis Tsipras, has visited China twice in two years. And China will be the “country of honor” at Greece’s annual international business fair in September in	希腊面对着债权国的压力，以及传统欧洲富国盟友的白眼，越来越积极地寻求中国的贸易和投资。中国最大的航运企业中远集团去年买下了希腊比雷埃夫斯港(Piraeus)的多数股份。希腊总理亚历克西斯·齐普拉斯(Alexis Tsipras)两年之内两度访华。希腊一年一度的国际商务博览会将于 9 月在塞萨洛尼基港举行，中国将成为今年的“主题国”。

the port of Thessaloniki.
Greek ports are critical to China's "One Belt, One Road" initiative, a huge infrastructure project across Asia, Africa and Europe. Just last week, at a concert of the Shanghai Chinese Orchestra in Piraeus, the Chinese ambassador to Greece hailed the cooperation between the two countries. "Greece and China will remain good friends in good and bad times, good partners for mutual progress," said the envoy, Zou Xiaoli, according to Xinhua, the Chinese news agency.	希腊的港口对中国横跨亚洲、非洲和欧洲的大型基础设施项目“一带一路”至关重要。就在上周，在比雷埃夫斯举办的上海民族乐团演奏会上，中国驻希腊大使邹肖力对两国的合作表示赞赏。据新华社报道，邹肖力说：“无论是顺利时期还是波折时期，希腊和中国都保持了良好的友谊，是共同进步的好伙伴。”
China is seeking to expand its diplomatic influence worldwide, projecting itself as the chief proponent of international trade and cooperation as President Trump stakes out an increasingly nationalist position for the United States. In the past month, the Chinese premier has made high-profile visits to Brussels, the European Union's headquarters, and Berlin, the German capital.	就在特朗普总统把美国带向越来越民族主义的立场时，中国却在寻求全球范围内扩大其外交影响力，将自己定位为国际贸易与合作的主要倡议者。上个月，中国总理对欧盟总部布鲁塞尔和德国首都柏林进行了高调访问。
After Mr. Trump pulled out of the Paris climate accord this month, the European Union said it would work with China, the world's largest polluter, to achieve the accord's chief target: keeping global warming to "well below" 2 degrees Celsius. China could well take advantage of the European Union's silence in Geneva.	本月，特朗普将美国从巴黎气候协定中撤出之后，欧盟表示将与世界上最大的污染国中国一起实现该协定的主要目标：让全球变暖的幅度“远低于”2摄氏度。中国可以好好利用欧盟在日内瓦的沉默。
In the last Human Rights Council session in March, the European Union statement pointed to China's detention of lawyers and human rights defenders. The statement also criticized Russia for its crackdown on civil liberties and the Philippines for its targeted drug-related killings.	人权理事会上次举行会议是在3月份，当时欧盟的声明称中国拘留了律师和人权活动者。声明还批评俄罗斯限制公民自由，以及菲律宾对涉毒人员的杀戮。
At the current Human Rights Council session, which ends this week, the European Union made no such statement on China because of Greek	欧盟外交官说，在这周结束的人权理事会本次会议上，由于希腊的反对，欧盟没有就中国发表类似这样的声明。 objections, European Union diplomats said.

"When the stability of a country is at stake, we need to be more constructive in the way we express our criticism," a spokesman for the Greek Foreign Ministry said in a telephone interview, "because if the country collapses, there will be no human rights to protect."	"当一个国家的稳定遭受威胁时,我们需要更加有建设性地表达我们的批评,"希腊外交部发言人在接受电话采访时表示。"如果国家崩溃了,保护人权就无从谈起。"
The spokesman, who requested anonymity because of diplomatic protocol in the country, added that Greece had adopted a similar stance with other nations, including Egypt, and that it was better to raise human rights issues in private meetings between diplomats from Brussels and Beijing.	鉴于希腊在外交上的规定,该发言人不愿具名,但他说,希腊对其他国家也采取类似的立场,包括埃及,人权问题最好是在布鲁塞尔和北京的外交官之间举行的非公开会议上讨论。
It was an odd explanation, considering that China's stability does not appear to be at risk. But in the face of the Greek objection, the European Union's statement died on the vine.	这个解释很奇怪,因为中国的稳定性似乎并没有遭到什么威胁。但是,希腊的反对意见导致欧盟的声明流产了。
"The global human rights agenda is best served when the E.U. speaks with one voice," Maja Kocijancic, a spokeswoman for the European Union's executive body, wrote Monday in an email.	"欧盟用统一的声音发言,这对全球人权议程是最好的,"欧盟执行机构发言人玛雅·科齐扬契奇(Maja Kocijancic)周一在一封电邮中写道。
"We will continue our work to bring all 28 together and hope it will, as we normally do, be possible to align positions" for the next session of the Human Rights Council later this year, she added.	"我们将继续开展工作,把28个成员国团结在一起。"她表示,"希望通过这种我们惯常的做法",可以在今年晚些时候举行的人权理事会下届会议上"统一立场"。
Greece's move to block the statement was first reported in The Guardian.	希腊阻止这个声明的做法是由《卫报》率先报道的。
Human Rights Watch said it was "shameful that Greece sought to hold the E.U. hostage to prevent much-needed attention to China's human rights crackdown."	人权观察(Human Rights Watch)说,"希腊试图挟持欧盟,试图阻止对于中国严重侵犯人权所急需的关注,希腊的做法很可耻。"
But it also said this was one of three occasions in the past three weeks	不过该组织也表示,这是在过去三周内,欧盟第三次"表现出缺乏意图、缺

when the bloc had “demonstrated no intention, compassion or strategic vision to stem the tide of human rights abuses in China.” It cited a summit meeting with the Chinese premier, Li Keqiang, at the start of June and the anniversary of the Tiananmen Square crackdown as other recent occasions on which Europe had failed to forcefully condemn human rights abuses in China.	乏同情心，缺乏战略眼光来遏制中国的人权侵犯行为了”。它提到，一次是在6月初与中国总理李克强举行的峰会，一次是天安门广场镇压的纪念日，另外，欧洲近期在其他一些场合也没有就中国侵犯人权予以强烈谴责。
Diplomats in Geneva noted that Greece was not alone in arguing against the European Union’s statement to the council. Lengthy discussions in Brussels on the text of the statement failed to overcome Hungary’s objection to mentioning human rights concerns in Egypt.	日内瓦的外交官指出，反对欧盟在人权理事会上作出这个声明的国家不只是希腊。他们在布鲁塞尔对声明的措辞进行了长时间的讨论，但匈牙利仍然表示反对提及埃及的人权问题。
After a tense emergency meeting of European ambassadors in Geneva just two hours before the Human Rights Council debate, Hungary relented and withdrew its objection, leaving Greece as the sole obstacle to consensus.	在人权理事会进行辩论两小时之前，驻日内瓦的各位欧洲大使举行了一个紧张的紧急会议，之后匈牙利放弃了反对意见，所以希腊就成为达成共识的唯一障碍。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170620/china-human-rights-greece-united-nations	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170620/china-human-rights-greece-united-nations
Review: Wait, Was That Confucius? PBS’s Rushed ‘Story of China’	《中华故事》：“洗白”近代史的娱乐之作
Six hours of television would be enough to cover the histories of most countries satisfactorily, but China is not most countries.	六个小时的电视节目足以令人满意地覆盖大多数国家的历史，但中国不属于大多数国家。
“The Story of China,” which begins on Tuesday with two hourlong episodes on PBS, is all highlights. Three dynasties, not to mention Confucius, fly past in the first episode.	周二开始在 PBS 两集连播，每集一个小时的《中华故事》(The Story of China) 亮点满满。在第一集中，三个朝代一闪而过，更别说孔子了。
The host, the British historian and TV personality Michael Wood (“In Search of the Dark Ages,” “Michael Wood’s Story of England”), does linger here and there. He has a crush on the Song dynasty – wonderful,	主持人、英国历史学者、电视名人迈克尔·伍德 (Michael Wood, 著有《寻找黑暗时期》[In Search of the Dark Ages]和《听迈克尔·伍德讲英格兰的故事》[Michael Wood’s Story of England]) 的确会四处徘徊。他对令人惊叹、

peaceful, prosperous — which gets most of an hour, equal to the more recent and better documented Ming and Qing. The mid-19th-century Taiping Rebellion, with its Christian roots, gets ample time.	和平、繁荣的宋朝情有独钟。宋朝占了一个小时中的大部分时间，与更靠近现在的、记录更完善的明朝和清朝的时间相当。19 世纪中期有基督教基因的太平天国运动，也在该片占据大量篇幅。
But mostly, it's a mad rush. This really sinks in when the first mention is made of Mao and Chinese Communism with fewer than 30 minutes to go in the final episode. The Great Leap Forward and the resulting famine are covered in one sentence. The Cultural Revolution gets a few minutes, almost entirely devoted to an anecdote about a family hiding a treasured heirloom from the Red Guards.	但大部分时候都显得匆忙。当节目在最后一集还剩不到 30 分钟时首次提到毛泽东和中国的共产主义，这一点更是显露无疑。大跃进和它导致的饥荒只用一句话带过。对文化大革命的介绍持续了几分钟，但几乎全部用来讲述一家人隐藏一件珍贵的传家宝，避免被红卫兵发现的故事。
And therein lies a key to the approach of Mr. Wood and his producer and director, Rebecca Dobbs. "The Story of China" is framed by the idea that respect for family is the constant thread through 4,000 years of tumultuous and violent history. It's a simplistic notion, but it's a natural fit for Mr. Wood's folksy, intimate storytelling method.	这正是伍德和他的制片人兼导演丽贝卡·多布斯(Rebecca Dobbs)策略的关键所在。《中华故事》的构想是，对家庭的重视始终贯穿动荡和暴力的 4000 年历史。这种观念过于简单，却非常符合伍德有民俗特色的、亲切的叙事风格。
The series has its share of talking scholars, nearly all of them Chinese or Anglo-Chinese (balancing Mr. Wood). And it saves trouble, if not money, by frequently using scenes from Chinese movies and TV dramas to illustrate historical moments. (These serve mainly to warn you off Chinese-produced costume dramas.)	节目也有学者发声的环节。他们几乎都是中国人或美籍华人（是对伍德的平衡）。频繁使用中国电影和电视剧里的场景来介绍历史时刻的做法，即便没有省钱，也省去了麻烦（这主要是为了告诫你远离中国制作的古装剧）。
But most of what we see happens in the present. Mr. Wood narrates the past on location, walking or motoring through the modern cities where the events he describes (legendary or more clearly historical) are said to have taken place. It's history as travelogue, and for many viewers, this will be the reason to watch — a glimpse of places the Bourdains and Zimmerns don't get to, like the ancient Shang capital of Luoyang. (Many	但我们看到的大部分内容都发生在当下。伍德在外景地讲述过去的历史，步行或开车穿梭在据说是他所说的那些事件发生地的现代城市里。这是历史，也是游记，对很多观众来说，这将是观看节目的理由——一睹布尔丹和齐默恩等人没有去的地方，如古代商都洛阳（街头很多人似乎都是在欣赏自己的文化遗产的中国人）。

of the people on the streets appear to be Chinese tourists checking out their own heritage.)
Mr. Wood's awkward enthusiasm seems genuine, though it can start to wear on you. There's a lot of "Fantastic" and "Isn't that wonderful." In what starts to feel like an unintentional running joke, he credits a series of cities, from Xian to Kaifeng to Nanjing to Shanghai, with having been the greatest in the world in their time.	伍德令人尴尬的热情似乎是发起内心的，尽管这可能让观众疲惫不堪。节目用了大量“了不起”和“绝妙”。他把一系列城市，从西安到开封、南京、上海，归为各自时代全世界最繁华的都市。这开始让人觉得像是一个无心的老套笑话。
On a less amusing note, he invokes the Uighur minority in western China several times to make the case for various dynasties' inclusiveness, without mentioning the violent conflict between Uighurs and the central government today. "The Story of China" is good entertainment, if you don't mind a little whitewashing of recent history.	为了证明不同朝代的包容，他几次以不那么娱乐的口吻提到了中国西部的少数民族维吾尔人，却绝口不提如今维吾尔人与中央政府之间的暴力冲突。《中华故事》是优秀的娱乐节目，如果你不介意近代历史被一定程度洗白的话。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170620/review-the-story-of-china-pbs	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170620/review-the-story-of-china-pbs
Hopes Fade After Landslide Destroys Chinese Village	四川山体垮塌超百人失踪，救援希望渺茫
BEIJING — Hundreds of rescue workers tapped, poked and dug through the earth and rubble left by a landslide that smothered a village in southwestern China on Saturday, looking for signs of survivors among the 100 or more people who were missing. But as night fell and the search continued under lights, hopes of pulling many alive from the rocks and earth dimmed.	北京——中国西南部的一个村庄周六发生山体垮塌，成百上千名救援人员仍在垮塌形成的土堆和碎石上敲击、捅探和挖掘，试图寻找 100 多名被掩埋的失踪者的生命迹象。但是随着夜幕降临，搜救工作在灯光下继续进行，从泥土和碎石中找到许多生者的希望愈发渺茫。
"Currently, there are no signs of life," the headquarters of the search operation reported, according to Xinhua, the official news agency.	官方通讯社新华社从救援现场指挥部了解到，“目前，暂没有发现生命迹象信号。”
The village, Xinmo, in Mao County, Sichuan Province, lies in a region of brittle, unstable mountains vulnerable to landslides and tremors. But the landslide struck around 5:40 a.m. after a night of rain with no warning,	事故发生在四川省茂县新磨村，该村位于脆弱、不稳定的山区，易受山体垮塌和地震的影响。此次事故发生在凌晨 5 点 40 分左右，此前没有任何预警，灾害发生前下了一夜雨，村里 62 幢房屋里的许多居民显然或是仍在睡觉，

and many residents of the 62 or so homes in the village were apparently sleeping or awakened too late by the roar of a falling hillside.	或是当他们被泥石流的巨大声音唤醒时，已经为时已晚。
"The entire village was shattered," Deng Zusong, a 25-year-old resident of a nearby village, said in a telephone interview. "It was just like an earthquake."	"整个村子都塌了，"25岁的邓祖松（音）在接受电话采访时说，他是附近村子的一位村民。"就像一场地震。"
Nearly 2,000 rescue workers and members of support teams had converged on Xinmo by Saturday afternoon, news reports said. Initially there were heartening bulletins of a survivor who yelled from under the debris and another who answered a telephone call.	新闻报道说，截至周六下午，已有近2000名救援人员和支持团队队员聚集到新磨村。最初有过鼓舞人心的公告，称一名幸存者在废墟下大声喊叫，另一名幸存者接了电话。
But as night came, the rescuers had little good news to share. The woman who answered the call appeared to have died, said Sichuan Online, a provincial news service. By late in the day, officials said that searchers had found 15 bodies, and estimated that 118 people were missing.	但随着夜幕降临，救援人员不再有多少好消息可供分享。省级新闻机构《四川在线》说，那位接了电话的女士看来已经去世了。官员表示，截至当天晚些时候，搜查人员已找到了15具尸体，据估计，有118人失踪。
"The chances of surviving being buried by a high-mountain collapse are very slim," Xinhua stated, citing a geologist who was helping the rescuers. "The area for rescue work is narrow, and it will be difficult to expand rescue forces to a large scale."	新华社援引一位在现场帮助救援工作的地质学家的话说，"在山体高位垮塌被掩埋的人员生还的概率非常小。特别是现场搜救作业面狭窄，大规模救援力量难以展开。"
Fearful of setting off another landslide, the rescuers could not dig deeply over a large area, Xinhua said. They also had a hard time moving the boulders that had crashed down onto the village.	新华社说，由于担心再次引发泥石流，救援者们不能大面积地深挖。在移动砸在村子里巨石的问题上，他们也面临着困难。
A family of three escaped the worst of the disaster after an infant in the home woke up crying shortly before the landslide hit. The child's father, Qiao Dashuai, said he got up to comfort the infant and realized there was a landslide coming down.	一个三口之家得以躲过最严重的灾难，在山体垮塌前不久，他们被家里的婴儿的哭声吵醒了。婴儿的父亲乔大帅说，他起床安慰孩子，此时，他意识到发生了山体垮塌。

"He pulled up his wife, carried the child, and as they were running, they were tossed around by a massive roar of air, became caught in the mud and rocks and then fought their way out of danger," China Central Television news reported, citing Mr. Qiao. The three were recovering in hospital, the broadcaster said.	"他拉上妻子，抱上孩子，在奔跑过程中被巨大气流掀翻，陷入泥石流中，经挣扎逃脱困境，"中央电视台的新闻报道引用乔大帅的话说。央视说，一家三口正在医院休养恢复。
An expert at the site said the landslide might have been caused by a buildup of rainfall under the surface of the steep hillside, apparently acting as a kind of lubricant that let a slab of earth slide down, a reporter for the newspaper People's Daily said.	据《人民日报》记者报道，现场的一名专家说，这次山体垮塌可能是由于降雨积累在陡峭山坡的表土下造成的，这些水显然成了某种润滑剂，使得大片表土滑落。
In a statement, President Xi Jinping ordered the rescue efforts to continue at full intensity, and he told other areas of the country to be on guard for signs of danger during the rainy season.	国家主席习近平作出指示，要求尽最大努力减少人员伤亡，他还告诫全国其他地区在汛期对危险信号保持警惕。
Initial Chinese news reports contained no suggestion that officials had been warned that the steep, thinly vegetated hillside could collapse. But the region has been rife with landslides and other geological hazards, and officials may be questioned about whether more could have been done to protect or move villagers.	中国最初的新闻报道中没有提到官员曾对陡峭且植被稀疏的山坡可能会发生山体垮塌予以预警。但该地区经常发生山体垮塌等地质灾害，官员可能会在是否能在保护或转移村民上做更多的工作受到质疑。
An enormous earthquake in 2008 rippled across much of Sichuan Province and nearby areas, leaving about 90,000 people dead or missing and presumed dead. And in 1933, an earthquake in Mao County killed nearly 10,000 people, according to Chinese news reports.	2008年发生的巨大地震曾波及附近、乃至四川省的大部分地区，地震造成约9万人死亡或失踪，失踪者被推定为死亡者。据中国新闻报道，1933年的茂县地震造成近万人死亡。
The county government has issued repeated warnings in documents about the continued risks from landslides, and it has been involved in a program to identify areas at greatest risk. A county government directive issued late last year counted 769 places across the county	县政府曾多次在文件中对持续的山体垮塌风险发出警告，并在进行一个项目，以确定哪些地区风险最大。县政府去年底发了一份通知，提到全县共有769个地点是山体滑坡等地质灾害的易发处。 vulnerable to landslides and similar hazards.

"Mao County is a geologically hazardous area of Sichuan Province," the directive said. "Earthquakes and heavy rain in recent years have exacerbated the level of geological hazards in our county."	"茂县是四川省地质灾害多发区和易发区,"该通知说。"近年来地震、强降雨等的影响加剧了我县地质灾害威胁程度。"
The Paper, a news website based in Shanghai, reported that the village of Xinmo had been listed in 2016 as vulnerable to geological hazards.	上海的澎湃新闻网站报道说,新磨村曾在2016年被列入易受灾害影响的地方的名单。
But Mr. Deng, the villager who lived near Xinmo, said he could not recall any government warnings about landslides in the area.	但住在新磨村附近的村民邓祖松说,他不记得政府对该地区的山体垮塌做出警告。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170625/china-landslide-sichuan-province	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170625/china-landslide-sichuan-province
Is a Buddhist Group Changing China? Or Is China Changing It?	红旗下的佛光, 能否填补中国的道德真空
YIXING, China — For most of her life, Shen Ying was disappointed by the world she saw around her. She watched China's economic rise in this small city in the Yangtze River Valley, and she found a foothold in the new middle class, running a convenience store in a strip mall. Yet prosperity felt hollow.	中国宜兴——在人生的大部分时候, 沈颖对自己周围的世界感到失望。她在长江三角洲的这个大城市见证了中国经济的崛起, 也在新兴的中产阶级中找到了立足之地, 她在一个商业街上经营一家便利店。不过, 繁荣感觉上很空虚。
She worried about losing her shop if she didn't wine and dine and pay off the right officials. Recurring scandals about unsafe food or tainted infant formula made by once-reputable companies upset her. She recalled the values her father had tried to instill in her — honesty, thrift, righteousness — but she said there seemed no way to live by them in China today.	她担心, 如果不跟相关的官员喝酒、吃饭, 贿赂他们, 她可能会失去自己的店铺。有关不安全食品或曾经声誉良好的公司制造有害婴儿配方食品的丑闻不断出现, 让她感到不安。她想起父亲曾努力给她灌输的价值观——诚实、节俭、正直——但是她说, 在如今的中国, 似乎无法按照这样的价值观生活。
"You just feel disappointed at some of the dishonest conduct in society," she said.	"你对社会上的一些不诚实行为感到失望,"她说。
Then, five years ago, a Buddhist organization from Taiwan called Fo	五年前, 一个名叫佛光山的台湾佛教组织开始在她的城市宜兴郊区修建寺

Guang Shan, or Buddha's Light Mountain, began building a temple in the outskirts of her city, Yixing. She began attending its meetings and studying its texts — and it changed her life.	庙。她开始参加它的集会，学习它的教义，那改变了她的生活。
She and her husband, a successful businessman, started living more simply. They gave up luxury goods and made donations to support poor children. And before the temple opened last year, she left her convenience store to manage a tea shop near the temple, pledging the proceeds to charity.	她的丈夫是一名成功的商人。她和丈夫开始过上更简朴的生活。他们放弃了奢侈品，捐款资助贫困的孩子。去年寺庙开放前，她放弃了便利店的生意，在寺庙附近经营一间茶铺，承诺把收益用于慈善。
Across China, millions of people like Ms. Shen have begun participating in faith-based organizations like Fo Guang Shan. They aim to fill what they see as a moral vacuum left by attacks on traditional values over the past century, especially under Mao, and the nation's embrace of a cutthroat form of capitalism.	在中国各地，有成百上千万沈颖这样的人开始加入佛光山这样以信仰为基础的组织。他们的目标是填补道德真空，在他们看来，出现这个真空的原因是过去一个世纪，尤其是毛泽东统治时期，对传统价值观的攻击，以及中国对残酷资本主义形式的接受。
Many want to change their country — to make it more compassionate, more civil and more just. But unlike political dissidents or other activists suppressed by the Communist Party, they hope to change Chinese society through personal piety and by working with the government instead of against it. And for the most part, the authorities have left them alone.	很多人想要改变自己的国家——让它更具同情心，更文明，更公正。但是，与遭到共产党压迫的政治异见人士或其他活动人士不同，他们希望通过个人的虔诚以及与政府合作而非对抗来改变中国社会。大部分时候，当局不干涉他们。
Fo Guang Shan is perhaps the most successful of these groups. Since coming to China more than a decade ago, it has set up cultural centers and libraries in major Chinese cities and printed and distributed millions of volumes of its books through state-controlled publishers. While the government has tightened controls on most other foreign religious organizations, Fo Guang Shan has flourished, spreading a powerful	佛光山可能是其中最成功的组织。自从十多年前来到中国之后，它在中国的一些主要城市建立了文化中心和图书馆，通过国家控制的出版社出版发行了成百上千万册自己的书籍。虽然政府加紧了对其他大部分外国宗教组织的控制，但佛光山兴盛了起来，并传播了一个重要信息——个人善行能够重塑中国。 message that individual acts of charity can reshape China.

It has done so, however, by making compromises. The Chinese government is wary of spiritual activity it does not control — the Falun Gong an example — and prohibits mixing religion and politics. That has led Fo Guang Shan to play down its message of social change and even its religious content, focusing instead on promoting knowledge of traditional culture and values.	不过，它是通过妥协做到这一点的。中国政府对自己无法控制的灵修活动十分警惕，禁止将宗教和政治扯到一起，法轮功就是一个例子。因此，佛光山淡化自己改变社会的理念，甚至淡化自己的宗教内容，把重点放在弘扬传统文化和价值观上。
The approach has won it high-level support; President Xi Jinping is one of its backers. But its relationship with the party raises a key question: Can it still change China?	这种方式为它赢得了政府高层的支持，习近平主席就是其中一位支持者。但它与中国共产党的关系引发了一个关键问题：它还能改变中国吗？
Avoiding Politics	避谈政治
Fo Guang Shan is led by one of modern China's most famous religious figures, the Venerable Master Hsing Yun. I met him late last year at the temple in Yixing, in a bright room filled with his calligraphy and photos of senior Chinese leaders who have received him in Beijing. He wore tannish golden robes, and his shaved head was set off by thick eyebrows and sharp, impish lips.	佛光山是由中国现代著名宗教人物星云大师领导的。去年年底，我在宜兴那间寺庙的一个明亮的房间里与他会面，房间里挂满了他的书法作品，以及他在北京与接见他的中国高级领导人的合影。他穿着淡褐色僧袍，浓密的眉毛和有些顽皮的薄嘴唇，在剃去了头发的头上显得很突出。
At age 89, he is nearly blind, and a nun often had to repeat my questions so he could hear them. But his mind was quick, and he nimbly parried questions that the Chinese authorities might consider objectionable. When I asked him what he hoped to accomplish by spreading Buddhism — proselytizing is illegal in China — his eyebrows arched in mock amusement.	89岁高龄的他几乎完全失明，一名比丘尼必须经常重复我的问题，他才能听见。但他思维敏捷，巧妙地回避了可能引起中国当局反感的问题。当我问他希望通过传播佛教实现什么目的时——在中国，劝人信教是违法的——他竖起了眉毛，做出一副逗趣的样子。
"I don't want to promote Buddhism!" he said. "I only promote Chinese culture to cleanse humanity."	"我并不想弘扬佛法！"他说。"我只是宣扬中华文化，净化人性。"

As for the Communist Party, he was unequivocal: "We Buddhists uphold whoever is in charge. Buddhists don't get involved in politics."	对于中国共产党，他的态度非常明确：“谁当家做主，我们就拥护谁。佛教不参与政治。”
That has not been true for most of Master Hsing Yun's life. Born outside the eastern city of Yangzhou in 1927, he was 10 when he joined a monastery that he and his mother passed by while searching for his father, who disappeared during the Japanese invasion of China.	不过，星云大师的大部分人生不是这样的。1927年，他在中国东部城市扬州郊外出生。他的父亲在日本侵华期间失踪。10岁时，他和母亲在寻找父亲途中经过一间寺庙，他在那里出了家。
There, he was influenced by the ideas of Humanistic Buddhism, a movement that aimed to save China through spiritual renewal. It argued that religion should be focused on this world, instead of the afterworld. It also encouraged clergy to take up the concerns of the living, and urged adherents to help change society through fairness and compassion.	在那里，他深受人间佛教理念的影响，人间佛教旨在通过精神重生拯救中国。它认为，宗教应该重点关注今生，而非来世。它还鼓励僧侣关注民生疾苦，敦促信众通过公正和同情心帮助改变社会。
After fleeing the Communist Revolution, Master Hsing Yun took that message to Taiwan and founded Fo Guang Shan in the southern port of Kaohsiung in 1967. He sought to make Buddhism more accessible to ordinary people by updating its fusty image and embracing mass-market tactics. In sports stadiums, he held lectures that owed more to Billy Graham than the sound of one hand clapping. He built a theme park with multimedia shows and slot machines that displayed dioramas of Buddhist saints.	为了躲避共产主义革命，星云大师前往台湾，并将这种教义带到了那里，于1967年在高雄南部的港口创立了佛光山。通过更新过时的形象和采用大众市场策略，他试图让佛教变得令普通人更容易接受。他在体育馆里举办的那些讲座更像是受到葛培理(Billy Graham)的影响，而非只手之声的感悟。他建造了一座主题公园，里面有多媒体演出，还有展示着佛教圣徒模型的老虎机。
The approach had a profound impact in Taiwan, which then resembled mainland China today: an industrializing society that worried it had cast off traditional values in its rush to modernize. Fo Guang Shan became part of a popular embrace of religious life. Many scholars say it also helped lay the foundation for the self-governing island's evolution into	这种策略在台湾产生了深远的影响，当时的台湾与今日的中国十分相像：一个处在工业化之中的社会，担心在急着走向现代化的过程中丢掉传统的价值观。佛光山变成了支持宗教生活的一种受欢迎的方式。许多学者表示，它对推动这个自治岛屿进化成有活力的民主政体也起到了作用，因为它促进了一种致力于平等、礼貌和社会进步的政治文化。

a vibrant democracy by fostering a political culture committed to equality, civility and social progress.
Fo Guang Shan expanded rapidly, spending more than $1 billion on universities, community colleges, kindergartens, a publishing arm, a daily newspaper and a television station. It now counts more than 1,000 monks and nuns, and more than one million followers in 50 countries, including the United States.	佛光山迅速扩大，先后花费 10 亿多美元建造和创立了多所大学、社区学院、幼儿园、一家出版机构、一份日报和一座电视台。如今，在包括美国在内的 50 个国家里，它拥有 1000 多名僧尼和 100 多万名信众。
Government Support	政府支持
But the group declines to offer an estimate of its following in China, where the government initially viewed it with suspicion. In 1989, an official fleeing the Tiananmen massacre took refuge in its temple in Los Angeles. China retaliated by barring Master Hsing Yun from the mainland.	但该团体拒绝透露它在中国大约有多少信众，在那里，政府一开始对它持怀疑态度。1989 年，一名从天安门屠杀事件中逃离的官员曾在该团体位于洛杉矶的寺庙里避难。之后中国进行了报复，禁止星云大师去大陆。
More than a decade later, though, Beijing began looking at Master Hsing Yun differently. Like many in Taiwan of his generation born on the mainland, he favored unification of China and the island – a priority for Communist leaders.	不过，在十多年之后，北京开始以不同的方式看待星云大师。和他这一代出生在大陆的许多台湾人一样，星云大师也支持中国与台湾统一——这件事在中共领导层眼中是重中之重。
In 2003, they allowed him to visit his hometown, Yangzhou. He pledged to build a library, and followed through a few years later with a 100-acre facility that now holds nearly two million books, including a 100,000-volume collection of Buddhist scriptures, one of the largest in China.	2003 年，他们允许他访问了自己的故乡扬州。他承诺在那里修建一座图书馆，几年后的确建起了一座占地 100 英亩（约合 607 亩）的设施，里面保存了近 200 万本书籍，其中包括 10 万册佛经，这是中国规模最大的佛经收藏之一。
Under President Xi, who started a campaign to promote traditional Chinese faiths, especially Buddhism, as part of his program for “the rejuvenation of the Chinese nation,” the government’s support has	在习近平执政期间，政府对佛光山的支持有所增加。习近平开启了一场宣传中国传统信仰、尤其是佛教的运动，这是他提出的“中华民族伟大复兴”计划的一部分。自 2012 年以来，他与星云大师见过四次，还在其中一次会面时

grown. He has met with Master Hsing Yun four times since 2012, telling him in one meeting: "I've read all the books that master sent me."	对他讲,“大师送我的书,我全都读完了。”
While Mr. Xi's government has tightened restrictions on Christianity and Islam, it has allowed Fo Guang Shan to open cultural centers in four cities, including Beijing and Shanghai. The organization's students include government officials, who don gray tunics and trousers and live like monks or nuns for several days, reciting the sutras and learning about Master Hsing Yun's philosophy.	尽管习近平的政府加强了对基督教和伊斯兰教的控制,但它允许佛光山在四个城市设立文化中心,其中包括北京和上海。该团体的学员包括政府官员,他们和僧尼一样身着灰色衣服生活数天,诵经和学习星云大师的哲学。
But unlike in Taiwan, where it held special services during national crises and encouraged members to participate in public affairs, Fo Guang Shan avoids politics in China. There is no mention of civic activism, and it never criticizes the party.	但是在台湾,佛光山在出现危机事件时会举办特殊的法会,并鼓励信众参与公共事务,但他们在中国会避开政治,不会提到公民行动主义,也从来 not 批评共产党。
"We can keep the religion secondary but introduce the ideas of Buddhism into society," said Venerable Miaoyuan, the nun who runs the library in Yangzhou. She describes the group's work as "cultural exchange."	"我们把宗教放在次要的位置,但我们会把佛教的观念引入社会,"管理着扬州那座图书馆的妙圆法师说。她把该团体的工作描述为"文化交流"。
"The mainland continues the ideology of ancient emperors — you can only operate there when you are firmly under its control," said Chiang Tsan-teng, a professor at Taipei City University of Science and Technology who studies Buddhism in the region. "Fo Guang Shan can never be its own boss in the mainland."	"大陆是延续古代帝王的思想,必须牢牢被他控制你才可以活动,"台北城市科技大学(Taipei City University of Science and Technology)研究佛教的教授江灿腾(Chiang Tsan-teng)说。"在大陆就是老板不能佛光山自己当。"
That limits its influence, but many Chinese express understanding given the reality of one-party rule.	这限制了它的影响力,但考虑到一党执政的现实,许多中国人对此表示理解。
"It certainly cannot promote social service and create associations," said Hu Jia, a prominent dissident who is Buddhist. "The party certainly	"当然你不能推行社会服务,形成团队,"同时也是佛教徒的知名异见人士胡佳说。"共产党不可能让你发挥的,所以佛光山要做出妥协。但它还是在弘

would not allow it, so Fo Guang Shan makes compromises. But it is still promoting Buddhism.”	扬佛法。”
A ‘Moral Standard’	一种“道德标准”
Carved into two valleys of lush bamboo forest, the temple on the outskirts of Yixing features giant friezes that tell the story of Buddha, a 15-story pagoda and a gargantuan 68,000 square-foot worship hall.	这座位于宜兴郊外的寺庙坐落在两个覆盖着茂密竹林的山谷里，那里有讲述佛教故事的巨大浮雕、一座 15 层的佛塔，还有一座面积 6.8 万平方英尺（约合 6317 平方米）的宏伟大殿。
Since construction started in 2006, Fo Guang Shan has spent more than $150 million on the facility, known as the Temple of Great Awakening. On a nearby hill, track hoes hack away at trees to make way for a new lecture hall and a shrine to the goddess of mercy, Guanyin. There, the group plans to feature a moving, talking, three-dimensional hologram of the deity.	自 2006 年开工以来，佛光山花费了超过 1.5 亿美元修建这座名为大觉寺的寺庙。在附近的一座山上，铲车正在除掉树木，好在那里修建一座新的讲堂和一座观音殿。佛光山还计划在那里安装一座能动、能说话的全息神像。
Unlike most temples in China, it bans hawkers and fortunetellers, and it does not charge an entrance fee. The atmosphere is reflective and solemn, with quiet reading rooms offering books, newspapers, spaces to practice calligraphy, and tea. A stream of visitors from Yixing come for lectures, meals and camaraderie.	与中国的大多数寺庙不同，这座寺庙拒绝小商贩和算命师，而且不收门票。这里的氛围沉静而肃穆，有安静的阅览室可以读书看报，还有练习书法和饮茶的地方。有一拨宜兴的访客前来听讲，吃斋饭和联络感情。
Last autumn, Fo Guang Shan welcomed 2,000 pilgrims at the temple to celebrate China’s National Day. Over the course of a long afternoon, they walked along a road to the temple in a slow, dignified procession: taking three steps and kowtowing, three steps and kowtowing, on and on for about two hours.	去年秋天，为庆祝中国的国庆节，佛光山在这座寺庙接待了 2000 名善男信女。在持续了一个下午的活动中，他们以一种缓慢庄严的仪式，沿着一条路走到了庙里：三步一叩头，三步一叩头，整整走了大约两个小时。
Mrs. Shen said that when she took over the tea shop she had a hard time understanding what being a good Buddhist meant. At first, she admitted, she wanted to make more money for the temple by using	沈颖说，接手茶馆时，她费了很大功夫才明白做一个虔诚的佛教徒意味着什么。她承认自己起初还想使用低档食用油，好赚更多钱给寺庙。

low-grade cooking oil.
But her husband objected. China is rife with scandals about restaurants using unsafe or cheap ingredients, and he argued that good Buddhists should set a better example.	但她丈夫表示反对。餐馆使用不安全或廉价的食材，这样的丑闻在中国比比皆是，他认为，虔诚的佛教徒应该树立更好的榜样。
"This made me realize that faith gives you a minimum moral standard," Ms. Shen told me. "It helps you treat others as your equals."	"这让我意识到，信仰会给你一个最低的道德标准，"沈颖告诉我，"它可以帮助你把别人当做和你平等的人。"
Many followers say they want a cleaner, fairer society and believe they can make a difference by changing their own lives.	许多信徒说，他们想要一个更干净、更公平的社会，并相信他们可以通过改变自己的生活来推动这一点。
Yang Jianwei, 44, a kitchenware exporter who embraced Fo Guang Shan, said he stopped attending the boozy late-night dinners that seem an unavoidable part of doing business in China. "I realize that you might lose some business this way, but it's a better way to live," he said.	今年44岁的杨建伟是一位厨具出口商，他支持佛光山的理念，他说自己已经不再参加那些持续到深夜的纵酒饭局，虽然在中国，这样的饭局是做生意免不了的。"我明白这样做可能会失去一些生意，但这是更好的生活方式，"他说。
This idealism is why the authorities support Fo Guang Shan, said Jin Xinhua, an official who helped the group secure the land for the new temple.	官员金新华说，当局支持佛光山正是因为这样的理想主义，他曾帮助佛光山得到建造新寺庙的土地。
"Through its work, Fo Guang Shan is helping the masses," he said. "We need that sort of thing today."	"佛光山正在通过自己所做的工作帮助群众，"他说。"如今我们需要这样的事情。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/china-buddhism-fo-guang-shan	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/china-buddhism-fo-guang-shan
Xi Jinping Is Set for a Big Gamble With China's Carbon Trading Market	启动全国碳交易市场，习近平的一场豪赌
BEIJING — As other countries look to China to take the lead in fighting global warming after President Trump's rejection of the Paris climate agreement, President Xi Jinping is pushing ahead with an ambitious plan to build the world's largest market for carbon emissions permits.	北京——就在特朗普总统拒绝了巴黎气候协定之后，其他国家都希望中国能在应对全球变暖上处于领导的位置，国家主席习近平也正大力推动一项雄心勃勃的计划，要在中国建立世界上最大的碳排放许可证交易市场。

The start of a national carbon trading market in China by late this year has been years in the making, but is now shaping up as Mr. Xi's big policy retort to Mr. Trump's decision to quit the Paris accord. The Chinese government said in a greenhouse gas policy guide released on Wednesday that the 2017 start was on track.	今年晚些时候开启的中国全国碳交易市场已经筹备了好几年，但随着习近平对特朗普退出巴黎协定的决定做出重大政策反应，这个市场开始成形。中国政府周三公布的温室气体政策通知说，该交易市场将在2017年按时启动。
"Carbon trading on a national scale will send a signal to the world that China is serious about this," said Wang Yi, a professor at the Chinese Academy of Sciences in Beijing who also belongs to the national legislature and advises the government on climate policy.	"在国家范围进行碳交易将向全世界发出信号，表明中国对这个问题持认真的态度，"北京的中国科学院的教授王毅说，他也是人大代表，并在气候政策上向政府提供建议。
But this is a high-visibility, high-stakes gamble for Mr. Xi. He seems eager to take the initiative from the United States on trade, multilateral cooperation and climate change. His record on the environment and market reforms, though, is mixed, and China's carbon trading plan is not a sure bet to succeed.	但这对习近平来说，是一个高度引人注目的高额赌注。习近平似乎急于在贸易、多边合作和气候变化等方面夺走美国的领导地位。尽管习近平在环境和市场改革方面的记录有好有坏，但中国的碳交易计划并不是一个既定成功的赌注。
Europe and California already use this cap-and-trade approach, which sets a ceiling for greenhouse-gas emissions and allows businesses to buy and sell emissions permits in the hope of unleashing market competition to save energy and embrace clean technology. But no one has tried this on the scale the government envisions for China, the world's leading source of carbon emissions.	欧洲和加利福尼亚州已经采用这种限额和交易市场，为温室气体排放设定了上限，让企业购买和出售排放许可，希望以此释放市场竞争，推动节能和清洁技术的使用。但是，还没有人在中国政府设想的规模上进行过这种尝试，中国是世界上一个主要的碳排放国。
Making the trade run smoothly could take years and test Mr. Xi's vows to let markets expand and to curtail polluting industries. Major setbacks in the nascent market could embarrass China and undermine global support for using cap-and-trade measures to reduce the greenhouse gases that are causing warming.	让碳交易顺利进行可能会需要几年的时间，并将检验习近平扩大市场、限制污染行业的誓言。新的碳交易市场如果遭受巨大挫折，可能会让中国尴尬，并削弱全球对使用限额与贸易措施来减少导致变暖的温室气体排放的支持。

Mr. Trump's renunciation of the Paris agreement could also drag on China's expansion of emissions trading by making powerful companies and industry associations more reluctant to accept pollution cuts, Mr. Wang said.	王毅说，特朗普退出巴黎协定之后，一些实力强大的公司和行业协会更加不愿意接受减排交易，这可能也会拖累中国扩大排放交易的行动。
"It's a really complicated task," he said. "That's precisely why China must work on this in a steady way and mustn't fail. If China's carbon market fails, that will be a big blow not just to China but also to global carbon markets."	"这是一个非常复杂的任务，"他说。"这就是为什么中国必须稳步推进、不能失败的原因。如果中国的碳交易市场失败，不仅对中国，对全球碳市场都会是一大打击。"
The idea behind cap and trade is that companies that cut pollution are rewarded, while laggards pay a higher price. The government sets a ceiling on the amount of pollution allowed and divides that into emissions permits issued or sold to businesses. Participating factories, power plants and other enterprises can use their permits to discharge pollution; cut pollution and sell or save leftover permits; or buy more permits, often at punishing prices, if they use up their allotment.	制定上限和进行交易的理念是减少排放的公司得到奖励，而落后者将付出更高的代价。政府规定污染物排放量的上限，并把这个量用排放配额的形式分配或者出售给企业。参加交易的制造厂、电厂等企业可以根据各自的配额进行排污；如果削减了污染，就可以出售余量，或是把它存起来备用；如果用尽了现有配额，那就需要购买更多的配额，而购买价格通常具有惩罚性质。
Governments can over time lower the allowed emissions, making permits scarcer and magnifying price pressures on companies to cut pollution.	随着时间推移，政府可以降低排放量，让配额更加稀缺，加大价格压力，从而促进企业减排。
"Every ton of emissions that's going up the stack becomes potentially money lost," said Dan J. Dudek, vice president for Asia of the Environmental Defense Fund, who has advised the Chinese government on its market. "It changes people's minds about what was once fundamentally free."	"每一吨排放量都意味着潜在的金钱损失。"美国环保协会(Environmental Defense Fund)亚洲区副总裁杜丹德(Daniel J.Dudek)表示，"它改变了人们对曾经基本上免费的东西的想法。"该协会一直就碳交易市场为中国政府提供建议。
Before Mr. Dudek began working with China, he spent decades advising American politicians on using cap and trade to limit pollution, among	在杜丹德开始和中国合作之前，他为美国政界提供用上限和交易来限制污染的建议已有数十年时间，其中包括总统乔治·H·W·布什(George H.W. Bush)，

them President George H. W. Bush, who used it to reduce the sulfur dioxide and nitrous oxide causing the acid rain that was harming forests.	他用这种方式来减少二氧化硫和一氧化二氮，这些污染物所致的酸雨对森林造成了危害。
But creating a government-mandated market has rarely been easy. Even mature economies have encountered problems in setting the rules for greenhouse gas markets. Chinese policy makers have studied Europe, as well as California, which started its emissions trading program in 2013.	但创建政府指定的市场从来都不容易。即使是成熟的经济体，也在制定温室气体市场的规则时遇到了问题。中国的决策者已经研究了欧洲和加利福尼亚的做法，后者在 2013 年推出了排放交易计划。
Moreover, China has a huge industrial sector dominated by state conglomerates that can outgun regulators and ignore laws. Officials habitually meddle in markets. Local protectionism often stymies domestic competition, and pollution and energy data can be unreliable or outright fake.	而且，中国的工业部门相当庞大，由国有企业集团主导，这些集团有些时候比监管机构更强大，对法律采取无视态度。官员干预市场已成习惯。地方保护主义往往会阻碍国内竞争，污染和能源数据可能并不可靠，或者干脆造假。
"One of the problems they have had is getting realistic numbers," said Deborah M. Lehr, a senior fellow at the Paulson Institute who has advised Chinese officials on climate-friendly financial policies. "To move to emissions trading, you need to have realistic numbers on how to start to price these emissions."	"他们遇到的麻烦之一，就是如何获得真实的数字，"保尔森基金会(Paulson Institute)高级研究员、向中国官员提供关于气候友好型金融政策建议的戴青丽(Deborah M. Lehr)说。"要采取排放交易行动，你就需要有真实数字，以便弄清如何给这些排放定价。"
If China gets past these problems, it will create the world's biggest emissions market, overshadowing the European Union's, and that could deepen China's influence over developing new energy technology, Chinese policy advisers said.	中国的政策顾问表示，如果克服了这些问题，中国就会超过欧盟，创造出世界上最大的排放市场，而且还有可能深化中国在发展新能源技术上的影响力。
"A successful start of a carbon market will greatly enhance China's international standing in responding to climate change," said Zhang Xiliang, a professor at Tsinghua University in Beijing who is advising the	在碳市场问题上为政府建言献策的清华大学教授张希良表示："碳市场的成功启动，将大大提升中国在应对气候变化方面的国际地位。" government on the market.

For now, Chinese officials are planning a relatively modest start and have retreated from their initially high ambitions.	中国官员目前已经放弃了一开始宏大的目标，打算从相对较小的规模起步。
After 2015, when Mr. Xi announced a national emissions trading plan as part of a formal pledge with the Obama administration to support a new climate agreement, policy makers in Beijing assembled plans for a market that would at first cover eight sectors, including steel, petrochemicals and construction materials.	2015年后，习近平宣布了一项国家排放交易计划，作为和奥巴马政府一起正式承诺的支持新气候协议的一部分，当时北京的决策者提出的碳市场计划包括八个部门，比如钢铁、石油化工和建筑材料等。
But several months ago, the National Development and Reform Commission, the government agency preparing for the market, decided that it still lacked reliable information for many industries, according to experts involved in the planning.	据参与规划的专家们说，几个月前，为碳市场做准备的政府机构国家发改委认为仍然缺乏很多可靠的行业信息。
The commission abruptly reduced the number of industries most likely to join at the start to just three: coal-fired power plants, cement and aluminum, according to experts and preparatory remarks from local governments. These industries have relatively simple production processes, making it easier to collect data. Aviation may also be included.	根据专家和地方政府筹备工作组的说法，发改委把一开始很有可能加入市场的行业骤减至三个：燃煤电厂、水泥和铝。这些行业的生产流程相对简单，收集数据更容易。航空业也可能被包括在内。
"It's a good idea to start with a narrow range of sectors, even if that wasn't the original plan," said Stian Reklef, a Beijing-based co-founder of Carbon Pulse, which provides information on greenhouse gas markets and climate change policy.	Carbon Pulse 联合创始人、位于北京的斯迪安·瑞克勒夫(Stian Reklef)表示：“从少量行业起步，虽然和原计划不同，但却是一个好主意。”这个机构提供温室气体市场和气候变化政策方面的信息。”
"It's still going to be a massive challenge to make it work," he said. "Anyone who thinks that the Chinese scheme will be effective in making big cuts in emissions from the start is going to be disappointed."	“要让其发挥效果仍然是一个巨大的挑战，”他说。“如果你觉得中国的方案从一开始就能有效地大幅减排，你会失望的。”

Still, China is by far the world's leading carbon dioxide emitter — releasing about 10.4 billion metric tons of the gas from factories and other human sources in 2015. And even in its scaled-back form, the fledgling market will cover roughly half of those emissions, Mr. Dudek said.	不过，中国是全球最大的二氧化碳排放国——2015年，中国的企业和其他人为活动释放了约104亿吨气体。杜丹德表示，即使是缩减之后，这个新兴市场的排放量也会达到该数字的一半。
A basic challenge will be persuading thousands of Chinese companies to put their trust and capital in a limited market for carbon dioxide, which most have discharged without weighing the environmental cost.	基本挑战之一就是说服数以千计的中国企业把信任和资本投入到这个规模有限的二氧化碳市场上，其中大多数企业在排放污染物时都没有权衡过环境成本。
Since 2013, China has run seven pilot carbon-trading programs, including in Beijing, Shanghai and the central province of Hubei. (Fujian Province on the east coast announced an eighth last year.)	自2013年以来，中国已经开展了七个碳交易试点项目，地点包括北京、上海和中部的湖北省（东部沿海的福建省去年宣布推出第八个项目）。
Some observers said that even with this trial run, China's lax statistics and enforcement of rules could hobble the national market. But others said the trade itself would amplify pressure for reliable numbers.	一些观察人士说，即便进行了这一连串的试点，中国不严格的统计数据和执行不力依然可能束缚全国市场。但其他一些人表示，交易本身会放大获得可靠数据的压力。
"You start to create vested interests in local government, in industry associations and in other parts of the private sector for more accurate data," said Huw Slater, research and projects manager for China Carbon Forum, a group in Beijing that monitors emissions trading. "In China, you can't really wait until you've got perfect data, because it will never happen."	"你开始在地方政府、行业协会和私营部门的其他领域创造出提供准确数据的确定权益，"北京观察排放交易的团体——中国碳论坛的研究和项目经理休·斯莱特(Huw Slater)说。"在中国，不能真的等到掌握了精确数据再开始，因为永远等不到那一天。"
Even now, though, many company managers outside the pilot programs have little idea how the market will work, and could bridle at the paperwork and inspections used to monitor emissions, said Wang Ke, a professor of environmental economics at Renmin University of China in Beijing, who has been advising officials.	但一直在为政府官员提供建议的中国人民大学环境经济教授王克说，即便是现在，试点项目之外的很多公司高管对这个市场将如何运作知之甚少，并可能对相关文书工作和用来监测排放情况的检查不快。

After the national market officially opens, it will be more a test exercise until around 2020, while officials and companies work out how to allocate permits and regulate the market. Companies are likely to receive generous initial allocations of permits, meaning that they will have to buy or bid for only a fraction of the allowances they need to emit. Market purchases will expand only gradually.	全国市场正式开启后，一直到 2020 年前后更多的将是实验性质，而官方和企业则会确定如何分配许可证和管理这个市场。起初，企业可能会分到富足的排放许可，这意味着它们只用购买或竞拍一小部分的排放额度。
Several experts advising the Chinese government said that officials have resisted proposing a carbon tax in the face of public resentment over current tax burdens. Last year, China's legislature authorized a new environmental tax that will start from 2018, but policy makers resisted including the explicit authority for a carbon tax.	几名担任中国政府顾问的专家说，官方不愿在目前公众对税负颇为不满之际提出碳税。去年，中国立法机构批准了一项新的环保税，将从 2018 年开征，但政策制定者反对把明确许可征收碳税纳入其中。
"The realities of the political process are that a carbon tax is unlikely in the short term," Mr. Wang said. "Politically, this is more difficult than launching the carbon market."	"政治进程的现实是，碳税短期内不太可能出台，"王克说。"在政治上，这比成立碳市场更难。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/china-cap-trade-carbon-green-house	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/china-cap-trade-carbon-green-house
Court in China Reduces Sentence for Man Who Killed Debt Collector	"刺死辱母者"案于欢改判 5 年
BEIJING — A Chinese court commuted on Friday the sentence of a man who had killed a creditor who had harassed his mother, in a closely watched case that has provoked a national debate about family honor and filial piety.	北京——上周五，中国的一家法院对一名男子进行了宣判，该男子杀死骚扰他母亲的收债人一案在全国引发了关于家庭荣誉和孝道的辩论，引起公众的密切关注。
The Shandong Higher People's Court in eastern China sentenced the 22-year-old Yu Huan to five years in prison, overturning a lower court's sentence of life in prison that had been widely condemned.	中国东部的山东高级人民法院判处 22 岁的于欢 5 年有期徒刑，推翻了下级法院做出的无期徒刑裁决。
Mr. Yu was working alongside his mother, Su Yinxia, at the family's store	去年的一天，于欢与母亲苏银霞在自家企业上班时，来了 11 名收债人，向

last year when 11 debt collectors showed up seeking payment from Ms. Su on a high-interest loan.	苏银霞催收高利贷。
The men grew increasingly violent toward Ms. Su, cornering her and her son in a back office. When one of the collectors, Du Zhihao, yelled insults and exposed his genitals, Mr. Yu responded by stabbing Mr. Du and several other men. Mr. Du later died in a hospital.	这些男人对苏银霞的行为越来越暴力，把她和儿子堵在了一间接待室里。当收债人之一杜志浩肆意辱骂他们，并暴露生殖器时，于欢刺伤了杜志浩和其他几个人。杜志浩后来在医院死亡。
Mr. Yu's life sentence in February prompted a furious response, with tens of thousands of people taking to the internet to ask officials to show mercy.	于欢在2月份的一审中被判处无期徒刑后，激起了强烈反响，数以万计的民众在网上要求官员从轻处理。
Many argued that Mr. Yu had been carrying out his duty to protect his mother, an idea that resonated widely among many Chinese families.	很多人认为，于欢是在履行保护母亲的责任，这个想法在很多中国家庭引起了广泛共鸣。
In the end, the Shandong court found that the "very bad nature" of the insults directed at Ms. Su should be considered.	最后，山东法院认定，应该考虑到苏银霞遭受的侮辱“性质非常恶劣”。
Mr. Yu's relatives said on Friday that they were considering appealing the decision.	于欢的亲戚上周五表示，他们正在考虑对这个裁决提出上诉。
"What our child did was fair," his aunt, Yu Xiurong, said in a telephone interview. "He wasn't intending to harm them at all. He simply wanted to leave."	"俺的孩子做的都是正大光明的，"他的姑姑于秀荣在接受电话采访时说。"他根本没有想要伤害他们的半点意思。他就是想出去。"
As of Friday evening, the Shandong court's decision was one of the most popular topics on the Weibo messaging service, with nearly five million views and thousands of comments.	上周五傍晚时，山东法院的裁决是微博上人气最高的话题之一，浏览量近500万，并留下数以千计的评论。
Legal experts said that public anger had probably influenced the ruling.	法律专家说，公众的愤怒可能对这一裁决产生了影响。
"The court considered China's family values and the idea of respect for the mother," said Cao Shuchang, a partner at King & Capital, a law firm in Beijing. "For a mother to be hurt in that way, under those	"法庭还是考虑了中国的家庭价值观和对母亲的孝道。"北京京都律师事务所合伙人曹树昌说："一个母亲受到了那种伤害，在那种情况下，作为一个男人不那样做就没有人性了。"

circumstances, it would be inhumane for a man not to act.”
Fu Hualing, a law professor at the University of Hong Kong, said the case had posed a predicament. On the one hand, officials may have been eager to show some sympathy for the harsh circumstances the defendant had faced. On the other, Professor Fu said, the government most likely wanted to signal that it would not tolerate violent acts.	香港大学法学院教授付华伶说，这个案件让官员面临两难困境。一方面，官员也许乐于对被告所处的恶劣环境表示同情；而另一方面，政府可能也非常想要传达不能容忍暴力的信号。
“The state doesn’t want society to use violence on its own, regardless of how legitimate it might be,” Professor Fu said. “The state wants to monopolize the use of violence, to tell people, ‘Come to us, we will help you out, but don’t do it on your own.’ ”	付华伶表示：“不管其正当性如何，国家不希望社会自己使用暴力。国家想垄断暴力的使用，告诉人们，‘来找我们，我们会帮你，但你不要自己动手。’”
The case shed light on the illicit world of loan sharks in China. Many have resorted to thuggish tactics in recent years, as defaults have increased and as it has become more difficult to collect debts. Several of the men who harassed Ms. Su were later arrested on suspicion of having ties to organized crime.	这个案件也揭示了中国非法贷款的状况。近年来，随着违约的增加，收债变得更加困难，很多人开始诉诸于野蛮手段。骚扰苏银霞的几名男子涉嫌集团犯罪，后来都遭到了逮捕。
Small-business owners, fearing retribution, are often powerless in the face of harassment. Ms. Su was paying an interest rate equivalent to 120 percent a year on a loan related to her car parts business, far exceeding the national limit of 36 percent, according to court records.	小企业主由于担心遭到报复，面对骚扰往往无能为力。法庭记录显示，苏银霞为汽车零部件业务贷款支付的是相当于120%的年息，远远超过国家规定的上限36%。
The episode also raised questions about the willingness of the police to fight on behalf of ordinary citizens.	这个案子发生后，一些人也开始质疑警方是否真的愿意为普通民众化解纠纷。
Chinese news reports suggested that Mr. Yu had lashed out at least in part because police officers had left the scene without resolving the situation. A court later exonerated the officers. On Friday, China Central Television, the state broadcaster, showed a video of the officers urging	根据中国的新闻报道，于欢刺伤收债人，至少有部分原因是警察没有解决问题就离开了现场。一家法院后来免除了这些警察的责任。上周五，中国中央电视台播放了一段视频，显示警察敦促这些人不要打架。

the men not to fight.
Public reaction to the ruling was mixed on Friday. While many people praised the lighter sentence, calling it reasonable, others said they were distressed that the court appeared to have been swayed by popular opinion.	上周五，公众对这个案件的裁决看法不一。虽然很多人对减轻量刑表示了称赞，说这么做很合理，但有些人表示痛心，说法院似乎受到了民意的左右。
"After you kill someone, all you need to do is spend a little money to hire some people to cause a stir online, then you'll be commuted," one person wrote on Weibo. "Too easy!"	"以后杀人后，花点钱请些水军在网上炒作就可以减刑了，"有人在微博上写道。"太轻松啦！"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/chinese-court-debt-collector-ruling	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/chinese-court-debt-collector-ruling
A Buddhist Leader on China's Spiritual Needs	星云大师：如何满足中国人的精神需求
YIXING, China — During a visit last fall to the Temple of Great Awakening, the sprawling complex built by the Buddhist organization Fo Guang Shan in Yixing, we were greeted by an unexpected host: the Venerable Master Hsing Yun, the group's founder and one of modern China's most prominent religious figures.	中国宜兴——去年秋天访问由佛教组织佛光山在宜兴修建的大型建筑群大觉寺期间，我们受到一位出人意料的东道主的接待：该组织的创始人以及当代中国最重要的宗教人物之一，星云大师。
Master Hsing Yun established Fo Guang Shan, or Buddha's Light Mountain, in Taiwan. But he was visiting mainland China to attend a ceremony and had stopped by the temple to inspect the construction of a new hall. At 89, he is mostly blind and suffers from diabetes, but he spoke with us for more than an hour, adeptly responding to questions that the authorities might find objectionable, including any suggestion that Fo Guang Shan is proselytizing in mainland China. Here is an edited excerpt from our conversation:	星云大师在台湾创办了佛光山。他当时是到中国大陆来参加会议，并顺便前往大觉寺，视察一座新大殿的施工情况。89岁的他几乎看不见东西，还患有糖尿病。不过他和我们交谈了一个多小时，巧妙地回应了一些可能会让当局反感的问题，其中包括关于佛光山正在中国大陆展开传教活动的任何暗示。经过编辑和删节的对话如下：
What are the goals of Fo Guang Shan in promoting Buddhism in	佛光山在中国大陆弘扬佛法的目标是什么？ mainland China?

I don't want to promote Buddhism! I only promote Chinese culture to cleanse humanity.	我并不要弘法，我只是宣扬中华文化，为人性，净化人性。
What are the spiritual needs of ordinary Chinese people nowadays? How can Fo Guang Shan satisfy their spiritual needs?	现如今，普通中国人有哪些精神需求？佛光山可以如何满足他们的精神需求？
I offer people what they want. I think, in the secular world, they want money and love. But they also need peace, safety and happiness. In this regard I offer them encouragement, truth and transcendence. By influencing them, I make them relieved both physically and mentally, unrestrained and stable.	人想要的是什么，我就要给他什么。我想他们要的是，在世间来说要钱财、要爱情。另外还需要安心、平安、安全、快乐。在这一方面我给他们一些鼓励、真善和超越。接触和影响他们，让他们得到身心的解脱、自在和安稳。
Does the mainland leadership support your work?	大陆的领导支持你的工作吗？
I support the leadership. They care for us as well. It is mutual. We Buddhists uphold whomever is in charge. Buddhists don't get involved in politics. But we respect the leadership, ethics and rule of law.	我支持领导，他们也爱护我们。佛教不管你政治上什么人，谁当家做主我们就拥护谁。佛教不参与政治，但是尊重国家的领导人、伦理、法治。
After the Cultural Revolution, Buddhism in China was severely damaged. The new generation of Buddhists lacks talent, education and role models. I encourage fellow Buddhists to strive for kindness.	文化大革命后，佛教受到了严重的摧残。新形成的一代中，佛教缺乏人才、教育和好的形象的树立。我鼓励佛教同道们要努力，向善。
Are you satisfied with Fo Guang Shan's development in the mainland?	您对佛光山在大陆的发展满意吗？
The mainland is gradually making progress. There are some restrictions on religion. But I have also felt their kindness. They help us to restore temples in the mainland.	大陆在慢慢进步。对宗教有一些限制。不过我也受了他们的好意。他们帮助我们回到中国来恢复祖庭，我感到很顺利方便。
When I give speeches in the mainland, I don't feel any restrictions. There are always thousands, sometimes tens of thousands of people listening to me speak. They never stop them. I also have many undertakings, and they never say no to me. The People's Publishing	我到处去讲演，我没觉得有限制。常常几千人、上万人都来听我讲演，他们没有阻止、限制。我办很多事业，也没有来说过我不对。我的书出版，现在都是人民出版社出版我的书。他们可能知道我认同中华文化吧，尤其是中华文化里的佛教。

House even publishes my books. I think they know that I acknowledge Chinese culture, especially Buddhism in Chinese culture.
Chinese believe in karma, which contributes to stabilizing society, rebuilding moral ethics and building people's confidence. We are here to strengthen it to inspire our compatriots.	中国人相信因果报应。这对于安定社会，重振道德，树立人民的自信，这种观念对中国会有贡献。我们就是把这种东西加强，让兄弟同胞们得到心灵鼓舞和心理建设。
What do lay Buddhists in the mainland need the most?	大陆的居士最需要什么？
Lay Buddhists most need Buddhist doctrine and a relieved mind. Society is rife with superstition and cults. Fewer people believe in real Buddhism. Real Buddhism is about mercy, wisdom and dissolving confrontation.	居士最需要的是佛法和安心。迷信鬼神、邪道的很多。不是佛教的东西倒是蛮多的，真正的佛教很少。真正的佛教、佛法是慈悲、智慧，是没有对立。
Is Taiwan part of China?	台湾是中国的一部分吗？
President Xi said Taiwan and the mainland belong to the same family. I think the entire human race should love, respect and tolerate each other. The government here gives us land without asking for money. They send people to water the plants for us. I hope the government can treat people fairly like this.	习主席说台湾大陆两岸一家亲，我说全世界人类都应该是相亲相爱，互相尊重。这里的政府不收我们的钱，还给我们地。派人帮我们浇花草树木。我希望共产党的政府都能这样平等对待大家，那就很好。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/hsing-yun-buddhism-fo-guang-shan	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170626/hsing-yun-buddhism-fo-guang-shan
Liu Xiaobo Embodied Hope for China's Democracy. Now He's Sick.	刘晓波的命运与中国民主的绝境
BEIJING — In the fall of 2008, dozens of activists secretly worked to produce a political manifesto. It was only 3,554 Chinese characters long, but it listed a series of demands on China's leaders to make the country a liberal democracy.	北京——2008年秋天，数十名活动人士开始秘密撰写一个政治宣言。该宣言只有3554个汉字，但它列出了对于中国领导人的一系列主张，力图推动中国变成一个自由民主的国家。
Less than a decade later, one of the main authors, the Nobel Peace Prize winner Liu Xiaobo, is confined in a hospital, released from prison	不到十年，该宣言的主要作者之一、诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波目前被囚禁在一所医院接受治疗，律师说他已处在肝癌晚期，目前保外就医。

though not from custody, to be treated for what his lawyers described as an advanced case of liver cancer.
Mr. Liu's imprisonment and now his illness have become a grim reflection of the fate of that cause, one born in hope but crushed by China's intolerance of dissent – and the world's increasing resignation, even acquiescence, to it, given the country's diplomatic and economic clout.	刘晓波遭到监禁，以及他现在的病况，令人沮丧地反映出该运动的命运。它诞生于希望之中，却被中国对异见的不宽容所碾碎——鉴于中国的外交和经济影响力，其他国家对这种不包容越来越顺从，甚至是默许。
The document was called Charter 08 and was modeled after one published by dissidents in Czechoslovakia under Communist rule, Charter 77. More than 300 activists in China signed at first – and many more did later, inside and outside of the country.	该宣言称为《零八宪章》，它模仿了捷克斯洛伐克的异见者在共产主义统治下发布的《七七宪章》。中国有 300 多名活动人士率先签署了这份文件，之后国内外又有更多的活动人士签了名。
While almost no one expects China to become a democracy now, that was at least a hope in 2008.	虽然现在几乎没有人觉得中国有望成为一个民主国家，但至少 在 2008 年的时候，那还是有希望的。
"When Charter 08 was signed, there was a yearning for more open dialogue and talk about a peaceful societal transition," said one of the signatories, Ai Xiaoming, a scholar and documentary filmmaker in the southern Chinese city of Guangzhou. "But now there is even more strict social control, and the room for civil society has shrunk significantly."	"在签署《零八宪章》的时候，人们渴望展开更多的公开对话，谈论和平的社会转型，"中国南方城市广州的学者和纪录片制作人艾晓明说道。"但现在社会管控更加严格，公民社会的空间急剧压缩。"
Ms. Ai, who met Mr. Liu before his imprisonment, also expressed guilt that he alone among the organizers had been convicted and sentenced so harshly – to 11 years in prison for "inciting subversion of state power" – though many others also faced harassment that forced them underground or out of the country.	艾晓明在刘晓波坐牢之前跟他碰过面，她觉得很内疚，因为这件事的组织者只有刘晓波一人定罪，还以“煽动颠覆国家政权”被判了 11 年徒刑，不过其他很多人也遭到骚扰，不得不转入地下，或者出国。
International attention – Mr. Liu was awarded the Nobel in 2010 – gave Ms. Ai and others hope of protecting him, but the world moved	国际性的关注——刘晓波于 2010 年被授予诺贝尔奖——给艾晓明和其他人带来了保护他的希望，但是即便中国收紧对非营利组织的控制、开始逮捕律

on, even as China tightened its controls over nonprofit organizations and moved to arrest lawyers.	师，全世界的焦点还是转移到了其他事情上。
"It's sad to see he's no longer the center of attention," Ms. Ai said in a telephone interview. "We had a kind of illusion that the government would be nice to him given his international influence. Now I doubt that was the case."	"看到他不再是关注的焦点，我们感到难过。"艾晓明在接受电话采访时表示，"我们有一种幻想，觉得政府会因为他的国际影响而善待他。现在我怀疑情况不是这样的。"
Mr. Liu's wife, the poet and photographer Liu Xia, has been under strict house arrest in Beijing since his Nobel Prize was announced. Friends circulated a cellphone video on Monday in which a crying Ms. Liu said doctors "can't operate, can't use radiotherapy, can't use chemotherapy" to treat her husband's cancer.	自刘晓波获得诺贝尔奖的消息宣布之后，他的妻子、诗人和摄影家刘霞就一直在北京遭到严厉的软禁。周一的时候，他们的朋友间在传播一个手机录制的视频，刘霞在里面哭诉，称医生"不能手术、不能放疗、不能化疗"来治疗自己的丈夫。
Mr. Liu's Nobel Prize — in recognition of "his long and nonviolent struggle for fundamental human rights in China" — focused attention on his fate, but over the years he was sidelined if not forgotten by the pragmatic needs of countries that felt no choice but to work with China, not criticize it.	刘晓波获得诺贝尔奖——以表彰"他在中国基本人权方面做出了长期而非暴力的斗争"——曾经吸引了人们对其命运的关注，但这些年下来，刘晓波受到了冷落——如果不是被遗忘的话，其他国家出于现实需要，觉得别无选择，只能和中国合作，不能批评中国。
China's response to the prize illustrated the risks of going against it. Norway's government has no say in who wins the prize, but it is awarded by a five-person committee chosen by the Norwegian Parliament. China swiftly cut imports of Norwegian salmon, depriving Norway of its largest market.	中国对这个奖项的反应说明了与之作对会有什么风险。挪威政府在谁会赢得这个奖项上并没有发言权，但奖项是由挪威议会选定的五人委员会颁发的。中国迅速削减了挪威三文鱼的进口，使挪威失去了其三文鱼的最大市场。
China wields those sorts of economic levers with great effect, Graham T. Allison argues in a new book, "Destined for War," about the potential collision of the United States and a rising China.	格雷厄姆·艾里森（Graham T. Allison）在讲述美国和正在崛起的中国之间可能发生冲突的新书《注定一战》(Destined for War)中指出，中国掌握着那些强大的经济筹码。
"Few governments have had the capabilities or will to resist," Mr. Allison,	艾里森是哈佛大学贝尔弗科学与国际事务研究中心(Harvard Belfer Center

director of the Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs at Harvard, said by email from Dalian, China, where he was attending the World Economic Forum's annual summer meeting.	for Science and International Affairs)主任，他在一封从中国大连发来的电邮中表示：“很少政府有抗拒的能力或意愿。”艾里森正在那里参加世界经济论坛夏季年会。
In the case of Norway, its diplomats persuaded China to restore full relations after making a series of conciliatory gestures that dismayed human rights campaigners there and in China.	在挪威方面，该国外交官采取了一系列安抚手段，说服中国全面恢复关系，这让挪威和中国的人权活动人士都感到失望。
For the United States, the focus on China's record of human rights has become increasingly muted, especially under President Trump, reflecting the conflicting goals of doing business with China.	而美国对中国人权状况的关注已经变得越来越少，尤其是在特朗普总统上任之后，这反映出跟中国做生意的矛盾目标。
"China is very smart about this," said Hu Jia, a rights advocate in Beijing. He noted how Greece, which is courting Chinese investment, recently thwarted a European Union effort to make a statement about human rights abuses in specific countries to the United Nations Human Rights Council.	"中国很聪明，"北京的人权倡导人士胡佳说。他提到正力图获得中国投资的希腊，最近阻挠了欧盟试图就特定国家侵犯人权的情况向联合国人权理事会(United Nations Human Rights Council)发表声明的行动。
"Because of issues like economic cooperation, security, North Korea and terrorism, leaders aren't as willing to raise human rights problems with China," Mr. Hu said.	"因为经济合作、安全、朝鲜、恐怖那样的问题，领导不愿意跟中国提到人权问题，"胡佳说。
Charter 08 was signed in the twilight of the administration of President George W. Bush, who used his second term to advance what the White House promoted as a "Freedom Agenda" in the aftermath of the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. President Barack Obama vocally championed human rights around the world, but he pursued the issue less vigorously when it came to China.	《零八宪章》的签署发生在乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)政府的末期。布什用第二届任期推进白宫在阿富汗和伊拉克战争结束后所宣扬的"自由议程"(Freedom Agenda)。贝拉克·奥巴马总统直言不讳地支持世界各国改善人权，但涉及中国时，他也服软。
Mr. Obama praised Mr. Liu's Nobel Prize, but when the Senate passed legislation that would have renamed a street in front of China's	奥巴马对刘晓波获得诺贝尔奖一事表示称赞，但当参议院通过立法，要用刘晓波的名字重新命名华盛顿中国大使馆前面的一条街道时，联邦政府却传递

embassy in Washington after him, the administration signaled that Mr. Obama would veto it. The bill quietly died in the Republican-controlled House after Mr. Trump's election last fall.	出了奥巴马会否决议案的信号。去年秋天特朗普当选后，该议案悄无声息地夭折在了共和党控制的众议院。
Mr. Trump and his advisers have clearly indicated that human rights are less important on the president's agenda than security and trade matters.	特朗普和他的顾问明确表示，在特朗普的议程上，人权没有安全和贸易问题重要。
"Human rights has retreated in terms of people's interest in China," said Jerome Cohen, director of the U.S.-Asia Law Institute at New York University's School of Law.	"在人们对中国的兴趣上，人权的地位降低了，"纽约大学法学院美国-亚洲法律研究所(U.S.-Asia Law Institute at New York University's School of Law)所长孔杰荣(Jerome Cohen)说。
The fear of being excluded from China's market is palpable. "Everybody is under pressure from constituents to have a piece of the action," Mr. Cohen said. "Of course, the U.S. no longer asks other countries to do anything, because we decided it's not important for our purposes."	被中国市场拒之门外的担忧显而易见。"所有人都面临选民要求参与其中的压力，"孔杰荣说。"当然，美国也不再要求其他国家做任何事了，因为我们断定它对我们的目标来说无足轻重。"
Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson, going against tradition, did not introduce his department's annual human rights report in March, though he was scheduled to appear with Ivanka Trump at the department on Tuesday to introduce a similar report on human trafficking. For the first time, the department plans to reduce China's rating to the lowest tier of countries, signaling that it has exerted minimal effort to combat trafficking, The Associated Press reported.	3月，国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)打破传统，没有亲自发表国务院的年度人权报告，虽然他被安排在周二和伊万卡·特朗普(Ivanka Trump)一起，在国务院发表一份与之类似的人口贩卖报告。美联社(The Associated Press)报道，国务院首次计划把中国的评级下调到所有国家中的最低级别，表明它在打击贩卖人口方面几乎没有做什么作为。
In Beijing on Tuesday, a spokeswoman for the United States Embassy, Mary Beth Polley, said the United States had called on China to release Mr. Liu and his wife and provide them freedom of movement and access to medical care of their choosing.	周二在北京，美国大使馆发言人玛丽·贝丝·波利(Mary Beth Polley)说，美国已呼吁中国释放刘晓波和他的妻子，并为他们提供行动自由，让他们接受自己选择的医疗护理。
As news of Mr. Liu's illness emerged, China's beleaguered democracy	随着刘晓波患病的消息传出，中国处境困难的民主倡导人士发表了一份新的

advocates issued a new petition, one that was far more modest than Charter 08. It simply called for Mr. Liu and his wife to be unconditionally released and urged that he be given the medical treatment he needed. Within hours it had more than 400 signatures.	请愿书。这封请愿书远比《零八宪章》温和。它只是呼吁无条件释放刘晓波和他的妻子，并要求为刘晓波提供需要的治疗。几小时内，请愿书便获得了400多个签名。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170628/liu-xiaobo-china-xia-nobel-cancer	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170628/liu-xiaobo-china-xia-nobel-cancer
Revisiting My Hong Kong, 20 Years After the British Left	20年后重返香港，回忆我在这座城市的潦倒青春
I knocked and knocked on the door to the artist's studio, beside the plastic logo of a painter's palette. It had been so hard to find the address of this musty commercial building on Hong Kong's Wyndham Street, I was beginning to think it was time to give up on finding my old friend Ng Tak Tung there.	我不停地敲那位画家工作室的门，旁边是调色板形状的塑料标识。在香港的云咸街找到这栋散发着霉味的商业建筑可费了一番功夫，我开始想，恐怕是找不到我在那里的老朋友吴德东(Ng Tak Tung)了。
In 1997, just a few days after my college graduation, I moved alone to this island in the South China Sea to work at a business magazine. Much had been made of the British handing over control of their colony to the Chinese, which for many marked the symbolic end of an empire and an era. I wanted a little history, a little adventure and a little excitement, and ended up with more of all three than I was prepared to handle.	1997年，大学毕业几天后，我就独自来到这个位于南中国海的小岛上，就职于一家商业杂志。英国把对这个殖民地移交给中国的工作大部分已经完成了。对很多人来说，这象征着一个帝国和一个时代的结束。我想要来点历史，来点冒险，再来点刺激，最后却发现，这三样东西都比我准备面对的要多。
From the deck of a rented junk bobbing off Stanley Beach, I watched teams of men and women furiously paddle their brightly painted dragon boats, the carved wooden heads, teeth bared, jutting from the prows. I reported from a demonstration for the first time, a candlelight vigil in Victoria Park with tens of thousands of participants to honor the democracy protesters slain at Tiananmen Square eight years before.	在赤柱海滩一艘上下颠簸中式帆船上，我看着一队队男女奋力地划着颜色鲜艳的龙舟，木雕的龙头和露在外面的龙牙从船头伸出去。我第一次在示威现场做报道。那是维多利亚公园的一个烛光守夜活动，数万名参与者聚在一起，缅怀八年前在天安门广场遇难的民主抗议者。

A few weeks after that, I sat in a tiny storefront bar festooned with Christmas lights and watched a television news report showing that, just before dawn, armored personnel carriers brought Chinese troops over the border from Shenzhen. That same weekend, at the red-and-white brick Foreign Correspondents' Club, a giant of a man in muddy black tuxedo pants and an untucked pleated shirt head-butted me because the bar was closed and he couldn't get a drink.	几周后,我坐在一家悬挂着圣诞灯饰的临街小酒吧里,看电视上的新闻报道,称就在黎明前,中国军队搭乘装甲运兵车从深圳入境。同一个周末,在用红白色砖墙的外国记者协会(Foreign Correspondents' Club),一名身形魁梧、身穿灰黑色礼服裤子,带褶衬衫的下摆没有扎起来的男子故意用头撞我,因为酒吧关门了,他没喝到酒。
And I had a darts partner from the Chinese island of Hainan, a painter who spoke as little English as I did Hainanese, which is to say none. But Tak Tung and I became unlikely friends at the dive bar across from my office on Hollywood Road, the Globe. He had a knack — confounding the Britons we defeated — for missing the easy throws and then hitting the bull's-eye with improbable consistency.	我有一个一起玩飞镖的朋友,他来自中国海南岛,是个画家,几乎不会说英语,而我也不会说海南话。但我和德东两个,在我位于荷李活道上的办公室对面的平价酒吧Globe里,出人意料地成了朋友。他总是在容易击中的情况下失手,然后再不可思议地连续击中靶心,令败在我们手下的英国人蒙圈。
Since our words flew unintelligibly past each other, we communicated by drawing on napkins and beer coasters. We sketched the people we knew. We drew maps, of Hong Kong and China, of the world, of boats and airplanes and the dotted lines that described our respective journeys.	因为言语不通,我们便在餐巾纸和啤酒杯垫上涂涂画画进行交流。我们画认识的人,画地图,有香港、中国和世界地图,还用船、飞机和虚线表示我们各自的旅程。
The last time Tak Tung and I saw each other, he invited me back to his studio. He picked up the phone (a landline, of course) and dialed a number and handed the receiver to me. A woman was on the other end — his wife. She said she was in the hospital and that her husband was having a difficult time because of her illness. He wanted me to know it meant a lot to him to have me as a friend.	最后一次见德东时,他邀请我去他的工作室。他拿起电话(自然是固定电话了)拨了一个号码,然后把听筒递给我。电话的另一头是一名女士,他妻子。她说自己在医院里,丈夫因为她的病而过得很辛苦。他想让我知道,有我这样一个朋友对他来说意义重大。
Soon after, I left that part of the world. It was long before Facebook. A	不久后,我离开香港。那是在Facebook诞生之前很久的事了。那时,很多

lot of people didn't even have email addresses yet. And when you made a broke, disorderly retreat from a city as I did, you lost touch with most of your friends half a world away.	人甚至没有电子邮箱。当你像我一样不名一文地匆忙离开一座城市时，你会和身在世界另一头的大部分朋友失去联系。
Now two decades on, the only relic I had of Tak Tung was a small reproduction of a painting he had made of a bar scene in the Lan Kwai Fong night-life district. As I prepared to return for the first time since the autumn of 1997, I searched online and found only a painting of wine bottles sold at Christie's a decade earlier and an ancient-looking website for an art school with the purple-palette logo I had come to stand beside now. No one answered my knocking.	一晃二十年过去了，吴德东留给我的唯一念想，是他的一幅兰桂坊夜生活区酒吧画作的小型复制品。准备踏上1997年秋天以来首次重返香港的旅程之际，我上网搜索，只找到他画的一幅酒瓶十年前由佳士得拍卖的信息，以及一所有着紫色调色板标识的艺术学校的网站，风格看上去很过时——我现在就站在这个标识旁边。无人应门。
He could have moved back to the mainland, emigrated to the West or, for all I knew, passed away. As a last-ditch effort, I took out a business card and scribbled on the back that I was in town and to please call or write. That is, I added, if he even remembered me. I slid the card under the locked door to his darkened studio and left.	他有可能已经搬回内地或移居西方国家，还有一种可能是已经去世了。作为最后的努力，我掏出一张名片，在背面留言说我到了香港，请打电话或写信给我。前提是，如果他还记得我的话——我补充道。通往他那幽暗工作室的大门被锁住了，我把名片从门底下的缝隙塞进去，然后离开了。
So much had happened in the 20 years of Chinese rule — the SARS epidemic, creeping authoritarianism, the protest movement — I did not expect to recognize Hong Kong. Looking on Wikipedia before my wife, Rachel, and I left for the trip, I saw that 18 of the 20 tallest buildings in the city had been built since I departed. I could picture the modern skyscrapers as they rose, cloaked in canvas and the city's traditional bamboo scaffolding.	在中国的统治下，过去20年间发生了太多事情——非典疫情、渐渐显现的威权、抗议运动——我并未指望看到一个熟悉的香港。与妻子瑞切尔一同启程前，我在维基百科(Wikipedia)上看了看，发现这座城市最高的20栋建筑中，有18栋是在我离开以后建的。我可以想象那些现代摩天大楼拔地而起时，被帆布和城中传统的竹脚手架遮蔽的样子。
But as we scanned Google Maps for hotels, I pointed out my old apartment on Lyndhurst Terrace, traced my finger along the path I used to take down to the ferry pier. Rachel noted that I remembered the	但我们在谷歌地图(Google Maps)上查找酒店时，我认出了自己以前住过的摆花街上的公寓，用手指划过一条当年去渡轮码头时经常要走过的路。瑞切尔注意到，虽然离开香港已有20年，但我还记得那些街道的名字，有时

street names from 20 years ago better, in some cases, than those in Crown Heights, where we have lived for three years.	记得比我们已经住了三年的皇冠高地的街道还清晰。
Upon our plane's descent into Hong Kong, I looked out the window onto cargo ships slowly plying through gray-green waters, the shipping containers like so many primary-colored Legos stacked on their decks and could see the dark masses of the outlying islands jutting up from the water. I found it all instantly recognizable.	我们的飞机在香港落地时，我透过窗户看到货轮慢慢穿过灰绿色的水域，甲板上堆着大量仿佛原色乐高积木块的集装箱，还能看到突出水面的偏远小岛的暗影。我立即认出了所有的一切。
Despite our extreme jet lag, I goaded us into a lengthy walking tour, each memory pushing me a few more steps, and the next sight leading to another memory. I showed Rachel the incense-filled Man Mo Temple and the stone wall trees, banyans whose sprawling gray roots clung to the faces of old retaining walls like dense webs. The rank markets of raw flesh and living sea creatures still defied the advances of sterile supermarkets. And when there was no answer at Tak Tung's studio, I pushed us onward.	尽管时差反应严重，我还是唆使妻子和我一道进行了漫长的徒步，每一段记忆都会推动我再多走几步，看到的每一个场景又会勾起另一段记忆。我带着瑞切尔参观了香火缭绕的文武庙和石墙树——灰色的榕树根如密网般伸展开去，附着在古老的护土墙上。市场里的生肉和海鲜散发着刺鼻的气味，至今仍击退无聊的超级市场的进犯。没能敲开吴德东工作室的门之后，我带着妻子继续前行。
The Star Ferry chugged us across the harbor, cheap as ever, offering amazing views of the bristling forest of high-rises scaling Victoria Island. We disembarked and surged into the crowded insanity of Tsim Sha Tsui at the tip of Kowloon, on the mainland side, more densely packed than ever but the explosion of warm neon light largely extinguished in favor of cheaper LED. We plunged into the themed clusters of shops in nearby Mong Kok, touring the Goldfish Market, with thousands of colorful little fish swimming tiny circles in the rows and rows of plastic bags where they were displayed.	我们乘坐天星小轮前往海港对面，费用一如既往地便宜，其间可以看到港岛上密密麻麻的高层建筑，颇为壮观。我们在大陆一侧的九龙上岸，融入尖沙咀的人山人海，这里比以前还要拥挤，不过曾经随处可见的散发暖意的霓虹灯几乎就要绝迹，取而代之的是更廉价的LED灯。我们流连于旺角附近许多主题街道上的商铺，还逛了金鱼街，在那里，成千上万条五颜六色的小鱼被放在一排排塑料袋内展示，正绕着小圈子游来游去。
We saw Flower Market Street's profusion of blossoms, including locally	我们看到了花墟道上盛开的花朵，其中有本地生长的百合和菊花。我们还在

grown lilies and chrysanthemums. And we watched proud owners introduce their brightly plumed, squawking parrots at the Yuen Po Bird Garden.	园圃街雀鸟花园看到骄傲的主人介绍他们那羽毛明亮、嘎嘎鸣叫的鸚鵡。
This was a far cry from my old routine in Hong Kong. When I first arrived in the city, I discovered that I was working semi-legally at best, dispatched by hydrofoil to the Portuguese colony of Macau (now part of China) when my tourist visa was about to expire for a new stamp upon re-entry. The only room I could afford was hardly bigger than the single wooden-framed futon I slept on; once I put it down, the tiny bed filled the entire floor. My clothes hung on a pressure rod above my head so I could stand up only by pushing my shirts and slacks aside.	这一切截然不同于当年在香港生活时的日常。第一次来到香港的时候，我发现我的工作身份充其量只是勉强合法，等到旅游签证即将到期，需要重新盖章才能再次入境时，我乘水翼船去了葡萄牙的殖民地澳门（现在也已经是中国的一部分）。我只能租得起比自己睡的那张单人木框架沙发床大不了多少的房间；我把这张小床一打开，它就会占据整个地面。我的衣服挂在头部上方的一根伸缩杆上，因此我要把自己的衬衫和裤子拨拉到一边才能站起来。
Instead of a shower there was a hole in the bathroom floor and a spray nozzle attached to the sink. The kitchen consisted of a single burner attached to a propane tank.	卫生间内没有淋浴器，地上有一个洞，水槽上连着一个喷嘴。厨房里只有一个连着石油气罐的炉子。
I did not spend a lot of time on Flower Market Street perusing fresh blossoms. I spent most of my time at the Globe. For anyone raised on back-to-back syndicated episodes of Cheers as I was, the Globe represented an ideal: not just an after-work hangout, but a lifeline in a new city, with a built-in group of friends.	我没有花太多时间在花墟道细赏鲜花。而是把大部分时间留给了 Globe。对任何一个像我一样看着重播情景喜剧《干杯酒吧》(Cheers)长大的人来说，Globe 都代表着一种理念：它不仅是你工作之余经常出没的场所，还是你在一座新城市的生命线，是能交到一帮朋友的地方。
One night we decided we didn't know enough jokes so we required all customers to tell one before they could order a drink. We drew up lists of countries and cities each had visited for fun. Bets were settled with a paperback Guinness book, a dictionary and a complete works of Shakespeare. The darts matches went late into the night, and even when you had to wake him up for his turn, Tak Tung still hit the	一天晚上，我们觉得自己知道的笑话不多，于是要求所有客人都讲一个听听，讲完才能点单。出于好玩，我们列出了自己去过的所有国家和城市的名单。我们拿平装本吉尼斯世界纪录大全、字典以及一套莎士比亚全集打赌。掷飞镖比赛进行到深夜，但轮到吴德东的时候，哪怕刚刚被摇醒，他也能命中靶心。

bull's-eye.
One of my starkest memories was from the night of the handover fireworks display. We had propped open the door to the stairwell of a nearby office tower and expected one of the best unauthorized views in the city.	一段极为深刻的记忆来自举行交接仪式烟花表演的那天晚上。我们推开通往附近一栋办公楼楼梯间的门，以为它通向城中最好的私人观礼台之一。
When the time came, we hiked the auxiliary staircase to the roof. But as the fireworks started, all we could see was a flickering halo around a dark rectangular silhouette. The hulking unlit mass of a skyscraper under construction, which had sprung up since the last fireworks display, eclipsed the light show for this political theater piece.	时间一到，我们冲上辅助楼梯，前往楼顶。但当烟花表演开始时，我们只看到一个黑暗的矩形轮廓周围闪耀的光圈。一栋在建的摩天大楼自上一次烟花表演以来拔地而起，它那高耸的身影遮住了为这出政治大戏而举行的烟花秀。
The handover was planned and choreographed far in advance, but the Asian Financial Crisis was pure improvised catastrophe. The magazine where I worked was Thai owned and after the baht collapsed they stopped paying us. I was evicted.	对交接的规划和安排早在很久以前就已开始，但亚洲金融危机是一场令人完全猝不及防的灾难。我任职的那家杂志社老板是泰国人，泰铢崩溃后他们便没再给我们发工资。我被扫地出门了。
I had no recourse or safety net but the bartenders at the Globe, who adopted me. I found myself sleeping on the sofa of a kindly barmaid and her electrician boyfriend. As my financial position deteriorated, my beers were slipped surreptitiously on to the checks of rowdy bankers who were never the wiser.	我没有追索权或者社会保障，只有 Globe 的酒保，他们收留了我。我曾睡在一个善良的女酒保和她那电工男友的沙发上。随着我的财务状况不断恶化，我的啤酒被偷偷记在一些吵闹的银行家账上——他们始终没发现。
By the time I visited this year, the Globe had shut down on Hollywood Road, but avid patrons had chipped in to reopen it around the corner. The old metal sign from outside had been salvaged and now hung on a wall inside. The signature painting of a map of the world presided over a nook filled with games and books. At the old Globe, meals were made — or should I say, cheese was melted — in a toaster oven. The new	今年重返香港时，荷李活道上的 Globe 已经停业，但狂热的顾客凑了些钱，让它在不远处重新开张。原本挂在外边的旧钢铁牌子被人取了下来，挂在室内的一面墙上。绘有世界地图的标志性画作高踞在一个堆满游戏器具和书籍的角落上方。在老 Globe，餐食的制作——或许我应该说奶酪的融化——是在烤箱内进行的。新 Globe 则是一家非常棒的美食酒吧，供应精致的鱼和松露玉米粥。

iteration was a full-on gastro pub with delicate fish and truffle polenta.
Rachel and I ate in Hong Kong as I never could have back when cut-rate scallion pancakes and cheap, filling McDonald's value meals were all I could afford. We had Sichuan fried chicken and pork belly buns at Little Bao; dim sum at the traditional Luk Yu Tea House, with its wooden booths and ceiling fans; and black truffle dumplings at the Sohofama restaurant in the converted police barracks, the PMQ, now a hip mix of art, retail and dining in Hong Kong's Soho neighborhood.	我和瑞切尔在香港品尝的美食，是我当年只能买得起折价葱油饼和便宜、饱腹的麦当劳套餐的岁月里从未吃过的。我们在小包包吃了四川炸鸡包和猪腩肉包；在有着木头卡位和吊扇的传统陆羽茶室吃了点心；还在 Sohofama 吃了黑松露饺子，该餐厅所在的由前警察宿舍改建而成的 PMQ 元创方，是香港苏豪区的一个融艺术、零售和餐饮于一体的时髦去处。
Short for "South of Hollywood Road," I remembered Soho as a smattering of bars and mostly quiet restaurants near the giant series of escalators that eased the steep commute from the Mid-Levels. Now throngs of young people spilled out of the many locales, a group of young women in colorful wigs even drinking as one sat on a yellow fire hydrant. We had a couple of quick Gweilo Pale Ales at the local craft beer bar 65 Peel before succumbing to jet lag.	苏豪(SoHo)是"South of Hollywood Road"（荷李活道以南）的缩写。我记忆中的苏豪有大量酒吧以及位于一系列巨型自动扶梯附近、大多都很安静的餐厅——那些扶梯缓解了半山交通高峰期的压力。现在，许多年轻人从这样的场所涌出来，一群戴着五颜六色假发的年轻女子正在喝酒，其中一人甚至坐在黄色的消防栓上。向时差投降前，我们在当地的精酿啤酒吧 65 Peel 匆匆喝了些鬼佬清啤(Gweilo Pale Ales)。
The next day, to escape the rain, we hopped one of the old trams and coasted along the busy waterfront all the way to North Point, where we watched thousands of maids from Indonesia and the Philippines picnic wherever there was shelter, under bridges and overpasses clogged with their day-off celebrations.	第二天，为了避雨，我们跳上一辆旧电车，沿着繁忙的海滨一径前往北角。在那里，我们看到大量来自印度尼西亚和菲律宾的女佣在任何有遮挡的地方野餐，她们聚在桥梁和立交桥下打发自己的假日时光。
At the western end of the subway line in up-and-coming Kennedy Town, I toasted my old bartender friend Scott Wrayton at his new restaurant, Shoreditch. Scott, a small-town English boy, recalled arriving a quarter-century before in a neon city where the clouds shrouded the tops of the skyscrapers from view and thinking he had landed in the	在新兴的坚尼地城的地铁线西端，我在酒保老友斯科特·弗雷顿(Scott Wrayton)新开的餐厅 Shoreditch 里向他举杯祝贺。曾是英格兰小镇男孩的斯科特，回忆起自己 25 年前抵达一座霓虹城，看到云朵笼罩在摩天大楼顶端时的情形，他还以为自己走进了电影《银翼杀手》(Blade Runner)。

movie "Blade Runner."
The change in the city's skyline was most evident from the clamorous, ever touristier vantage of Victoria Peak. I.M. Pei's Bank of China Tower, once a dominant feature on the island with its twin masts and white triangular patterns, was now easily lost among the many Goliaths that stood shoulder to shoulder in Central.	从游客永远熙熙攘攘的太平山上，能够最清楚地看到这座城市天际线的变化。贝聿铭的中国银行大厦曾是这座岛上最显眼的建筑——双桅杆和白色三角形图案——现在它很容易迷失在中环鳞次栉比的高楼大厦之中。
We had just finished eating egg tarts at Tai Cheong Bakery, as I puzzled over which fancy boutique had moved into the ground floor of my once-grimy old apartment house, when I received a WhatsApp message. "Hi Nick, I'm Tak Tung! So excited to see your name card! Are you in HK now?"	我们刚在泰昌饼家吃完蛋挞，我很想知道哪个奢华的服装精品店搬到了我曾经住过的肮脏旧公寓楼的一层，这时，WhatsApp 传来一条消息。“嗨，尼克，我是德东！看到你的名片我很激动！你现在在香港吗？”
I arrived at his studio to find the door propped open. Wooden frames were stacked against the wall, along with a few brightly painted pink and blue canvases of flowers. Ng Tak Tung had round, black-framed glasses I didn't remember and a white goatee now covered his chin. Despite the 20 years that had passed, he was instantly recognizable to me.	到达他的工作室时，发现门开着。墙边堆着很多木画框，还有几幅颜色鲜艳的粉蓝花朵油画。吴德东戴着黑框圆眼镜——我以前不记得他戴眼镜——白色山羊胡子现在遮住了他的下巴。尽管 20 年过去了，我还是一下子就认出了他。
The name on the cover of the books of his paintings, however, was not. According to them, he was now Ng Chung. Then I understood why it had been so hard to trace him. He brought out two Cohibas to celebrate. We puffed on the Cuban cigars as I admired the books.	但我没认出画册上他的名字。据他们说，他现在叫吴松。我这才知道为什么找他这么难了。他拿出两根高斯巴(Cohiba)雪茄庆祝。我们一边抽着古巴雪茄，一边欣赏画册。
His assistant translated for us as we spoke and occasionally had questions of her own. "How did you talk to each other when you don't speak Chinese?" she asked. I explained that we would draw on whatever we could find. As she related what I had said, he flipped	我们交谈时，他的助理为我们翻译，偶尔也提出她自己的问题。“你不会说中文，你们过去是怎么交谈的？”她问道。我解释说，我们会在随便找到的什么东西上画画。她在转述我的话时，他兴奋地翻那些画册，指着他在啤酒垫背面和碎纸片上画的素描的复制品——两个裸体女人，一条鱼咬着一根手

through the books excitedly and pointed to reproductions of his sketches on the backs of beer coasters and scraps of paper, two nude women, a fish biting a finger, a scrawny youth who looked a little familiar.	指，一个看起来有点眼熟的瘦骨嶙峋的年轻人。
I joked about how he was so good at hitting the bull's-eye and he squeezed one eye shut and mimed holding a rifle. His aim was so good because he had been a crack shot in the People's Liberation Army, including during skirmishes on the border with Vietnam.	我开玩笑说他总能射中靶心，他眯起一只眼，假装端着一支步枪。他准头这么好是因为他曾是人民解放军的一名神枪手，参与过中越边境的冲突。
His story began to pour forth, more complicated than I ever could have guessed. He came from a family of property owners and they had a difficult time during the Cultural Revolution. After military service he went to art school at the Guangzhou Academy of Fine Arts, where he met his wife, and followed her to Hong Kong.	他开始讲述自己的故事，比我能想像的还要复杂。他出生在一个地主家庭，文革期间处境艰难。退伍后他去了广州美术学院，在那里他遇见了未来的妻子，跟着她来到香港。
Was his wife sick in those days, I asked, testing my memories; in the hospital even? Yes, she was. Did she speak English? Yes, she did.	我问他，那时候，他妻子是不是病了，甚至还住院了？我想看看自己的记忆对不对。是的，当时她是病了。她是不是会说英语？是的，她会说。
As part of his artistic transformation, Ng Chung had abandoned his realist training and thrown himself into neo-Expressionism, sinking into Lan Kwai Fong's dissolute bar scene like Toulouse-Lautrec into Montmartre. "He started off from this foreign place, discerned the feeling of alienation everywhere he went, and comprehended what loneliness and helplessness meant," as one of the essays in the book put it.	作为自己的艺术转型的一部分，吴松还放弃了写实主义的科班训练，投身于新表现主义，就像图卢兹-罗特列克(Toulouse-Lautrec)沉浸在蒙马特那样，泡在沉沦堕落的兰桂坊酒吧里。就像画册中的一篇文章说的，“他从这个陌生的地方出发，去到哪里都会感到疏离，并领悟了孤独与无助的含义。”
Like me, he had only just moved to the city at the time. More than I understood then, our friendship sprang from a shared loneliness that neither of us had been able to articulate. He changed his name, he told	和我一样，他也刚搬到这座城市。当时我并不知道，我们的友谊是从共同的孤独感中生发出来的，当时我们都无法表达那种孤独感。他对我说，他改了名字，想换换运气，重新开始。他获得了成功，现在，他的油画被大博物馆

me, to change his luck, to start fresh. He had found success — his paintings now belonged to the collections of major museums and he lived on the Peak, the aspirational address high above the city.	收藏，他住在太平山上——那是俯瞰这座城市的一个令人艳羡的区域。
In the years after I left, the stories I told about this place were always fun and lighthearted, the dragon-boat races, Chinese dice games, Cantopop karaoke. Then I found an old leather-bound journal I had kept and was dumbfounded at the misery. Down and out wasn't fun, getting rocked by a financial crisis didn't feel like a roller coaster, losing your first job out of school, getting evicted and spending all your savings just to survive was romantic only in retrospect.	在我离开后的几年里，我总是会讲些这个地方轻松有趣的故事：赛龙舟、中式骰子游戏，粤语流行歌卡拉OK。后来我读到自己一本包着皮革书套的旧日记，其中的悲惨痛苦不禁令我哑口无言。落魄潦倒不是什么有趣的经历；在金融危机中受到震荡的感觉并不像坐过山车；失去离开学校后的第一份工作，遭到驱逐，把所有的积蓄都用于生存，这样的经历只有在事后回想起来才是浪漫的。
The city was too big, too expensive and too tough for me. What made it tolerable and, through the hazy tint of memory, a wonderful time, were the friends I made. Ng Chung led me down a back staircase, to a bar where they knew him as well as they used to know us at the Globe. His assistant left and we drank happily, as before, chattering away without comprehending the words but still understanding.	这个城市太庞大、太昂贵、对我来说太艰难。是我交过的那些朋友们才让它变得能够忍受，而且模糊地回忆起来还能称得上一段美好的时光。吴松带着我走下后楼梯，来到一个酒吧，那里的人都认识他，就像那时Globe的人都认识我们。他的助手离开了，我们像以前一样开心地喝酒、闲聊，不太能听懂对方的话，但却依然彼此理解。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170629/revisiting-hong-kong-after-british-rule-memories	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170629/revisiting-hong-kong-after-british-rule-memories
Struggle for Control Underlies Xi Jinping's Visit to Hong Kong	习近平访问香港将带去“胡萝卜和大棒”
BEIJING — Nearly three years ago, when thousands of pro-democracy demonstrators seized major roads in central Hong Kong for more than two months, they mocked President Xi Jinping and demanded that he allow a free vote for the city's leader.	北京——近三年前，数千名亲民主示威者占据了香港中部的主要道路两个多月，他们对国家主席习近平表示蔑视，要求他允许港人直接投票选举香港领导人。
Mr. Xi never set foot in Hong Kong or addressed the protesters, but the local government, widely understood to have his blessing, offered no	习近平并没有去香港，对抗议者提出的要求也没有表态，但当地政府不做出让步，派防暴警察清理了道路，逮捕了示威活动的领袖，这些做法被广泛认

compromise, deployed the riot police to clear the streets and arrested the leaders of the rallies.	为得到了习近平的许可。
On Thursday, when Mr. Xi arrives in the city for the first time as China's leader, he is unlikely to mention the 2014 upheaval that challenged his young administration, but it will lie behind his message of Beijing's firm control.	周四，当习近平作为中国领导人首次来到香港时，他不太可能会提 2014 年的动乱，但是，那个在习近平刚成为国家领导人后不久挑战了他的政府的动乱，将是他要传递的北京强有力控制信号的背景。
He will take "a kind of carrot and stick approach," said Willy Lam, a political commentator who teaches at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. "But more emphasis will be put on the harder line. The change of attitudes is more than just the personal thing of Xi Jinping. This reflects the entire paradigm shift between Hong Kong and China."	他会采取“一种胡萝卜加大棒的做法”，在香港中文大学教书的政治评论人士林和立说。“但会更多地强调更强硬的路线。这种态度的改变不仅仅是习近平个人的事情，也反映了香港与中国大陆之间整体模式的转变。”
Mr. Xi's three-day visit to Hong Kong to celebrate the 20th anniversary of its return from Britain is sure to include reassurances that Beijing still formally respects the "one country, two systems" framework negotiated by China and Britain. Under the pact, China agreed to give the city limited autonomy and its own judicial system for 50 years after the British left in 1997.	习近平为期三天的访问是为了庆祝香港主权从英国回归中国 20 周年，肯定会包括北京仍正式尊重中英谈判制定的“一国两制”框架的保证。根据协议，1997 年英国人离开后，中国同意让香港在未来 50 年里保持有限的自主权和自己的司法制度。
But Mr. Xi, whose government has pressed the limits of that agreement, is likely to accompany such reassurances with warnings, veiled or symbolic, to convey that he will not brook challenges to Beijing's authority.	但是，习近平的政府已经在限制协议的适用范围，他的保证很可能会伴随着含蓄或象征性的警告，以表示他不允许挑战北京权威的做法。
"They're trying to make Hong Kong people get used to the demonstration of central authority," said Brian Fong Chi-hang, a researcher at the Education University of Hong Kong who studies the growing influence of mainland China. "The ways that the Hong Kong	“他们试图让香港人习惯中央权威的展示，”香港教育大学研究员方志恒说，他研究的是中国大陆对香港日益增长的影响。“怎样对待香港政府官员，甚至他们的座位安排，都可以表达这种权威。”

government officials are treated, even where they are seated, can convey that.”
The main ceremonies of Mr. Xi’s visit take place in a convention center a few minutes’ walk from the thoroughfare that became the main camp for the protesters. Thousands of police officers will be on guard to hold back demonstrations.	习近平访问期间的主要仪式将在一个会议中心举行，该中心距离曾是抗议者大本营的道路只有几分钟的步行路程。数千名警员将在那里严阵以待，不让示威游行干扰会场。
Among the events Mr. Xi will attend will be the swearing-in of Carrie Lam, Beijing’s favored candidate, as chief executive, the most powerful government post in the city.	习近平将出席的活动包括林郑月娥的宣誓就职仪式，她是北京最喜欢的行政长官候选人，行政长官在香港政府中权力最大。
Even that routine formality will be a reminder of the local government’s deference to the mainland. Two pro-independence politicians elected to Hong Kong’s legislature were barred from taking their seats after they changed words in their oaths of office to show anger with Beijing.	就连这种例行公事的仪式也将让人们想起香港政府对中央政府的遵从。两名新当选的、支持香港独立的立法会议员被禁止在立法会就职，因为他们为了表达对北京的愤怒，改变了就职誓词中的一些词语。
Hong Kong newspapers loyal to Beijing have said that Mr. Xi will visit another symbol of central power, the garrison of the People’s Liberation Army. China’s first aircraft carrier will also visit in July, after Mr. Xi leaves, reinforcing the military shadow over the city, those papers also said.	忠于北京的香港报纸已经表示，习近平将视察另一个中央权力的象征，既驻防香港的解放军部队。这些报纸还说，中国第一航空母舰也将在七月份、习近平离开之后抵达香港，增加了笼罩在这座城市之上的军事阴影。
Mr. Xi has stepped up Beijing’s reassertion of power over the former British colony after signs there of deepening disaffection with China. But his harsher policies seem to have reinforced that disaffection, especially among the young.	有迹象表示，一些人对中央政府的不满正在加深，因此，习近平已多次重申了北京对这个英国前殖民地的权威。但是，他采取更严厉政策的做法，似乎增强了这种不满，特别是在年轻人中。
A recent survey by the University of Hong Kong Public Opinion Program found only about 3 percent of residents ages 18 to 29 identified as “Chinese,” a steep drop from over a decade ago, when about 30 percent did. Almost two-thirds in that age bracket now give	香港大学民意研究计划最近进行的一次调查显示，在18至29岁年龄段的香港居民中，只有约3%的人在身份认同上选择了“中国人”，比十年前大幅下降，那时有约30%的人选择这个认同。在这个年龄段中，有近三分之二的人现在把“香港人”作为他们的民族认同。

"Hong Konger" as their ethnic identity.
But China under Mr. Xi has not hesitated to enforce its will in Hong Kong, even at the risk of appearing to blatantly violate the "one country, two systems" pledge.	但是，习近平领导下的中国在对香港强制实行自己的意志上毫不犹豫，甚至不顾可能公然违反“一国两制”承诺的风险。
The abduction and detention in China in 2015 of five Hong Kong booksellers who produced potboilers about Communist Party leaders served as a warning that residents could be seized with little public protest from the city authorities. So did the abduction in January of one of China's wealthiest financiers, who was spirited from a Hong Kong hotel.	2015年，五名香港书商被绑架到大陆并被拘留，他们曾为赚钱编辑出版了关于共产党领导人的书籍，书商事件发出了一种警告，既香港居民可能会被抓，而香港政府基本上不会公开抗议。中国最富有的金融家之一今年1月被人从香港一家酒店偷偷带走一事，也是这种警告。
Early on, some in Hong Kong hoped that Mr. Xi might be a more pragmatic leader. As an official in Fujian and Zhejiang Provinces in eastern China in the 1990s and early 2000s, he repeatedly visited Hong Kong, seeking investment and business lessons from the wealthy port city widely envied across the border in the mainland.	习近平刚上台不久，一些香港人曾希望习近平可能是一名更务实的领导人。20世纪90年代和21世纪的头10年里，习近平在担任东部省份福建省和浙江省的官员期间，曾多次访问香港，从这个深受大陆人羡慕的富裕港口城市寻求投资和商业经验。
In a 2005 visit, as Communist Party secretary of Zhejiang, he told executives that he wanted to "converge with and absorb Hong Kong's obvious advantages in the service sector," a provincial newspaper reported at the time.	据一家省报当时的报道，时为浙江省党委书记的习近平在2005年的一次访问中曾对香港高管表示，他希望浙江能“接轨和吸纳香港在服务业方面的明显优势”。
Mr. Xi's family background also fed hopes that his oversight might be rather mild. His father, Xi Zhongxun, was an early supporter of China's economic liberalization under Deng Xiaoping. From the late 1970s, the elder Mr. Xi was a senior official in Guangdong Province, next to Hong Kong, and wooed cross-border investment by backing new special economic zones.	习近平的家庭背景也增加了人们对他可能相对温和地监管香港的期望。他的父亲习仲勋是邓小平让中国经济自由化的早期支持者。从20世纪70年代末期起，习仲勋一直是毗邻香港的广东省的一名高级官员，他通过支持建立新的经济特区来吸引跨境投资。

Yet by the time the younger Mr. Xi was climbing into China's leadership, relations between Beijing and Hong Kong were increasingly strained. In 2003, hundreds of thousands of Hong Kong residents jammed streets to oppose a proposed internal security law backed by Beijing. Hu Jintao, the president of China at the time, and the Hong Kong administration backed down.	但是，当习近平在中国领导层的地位逐步上升时，北京和香港的关系却在变得日益紧张。2003年，成千上万的香港居民走上街头，抗议得到北京支持的、拟议中的内部安全法。中国当时的国家主席胡锦涛和香港政府做出了让步。
But since Mr. Xi took office in 2012, Beijing has been bolder in pressing demands on Hong Kong. China holds much more economic influence than it did 20 years ago, and any party leader would probably use that influence to blunt defiance in the city, several experts said.	但自从习近平于2012年上任以来，北京更敢对香港提出要求了。中国的经济影响力比20年前大了很多，不论谁担任党的领导人，可能都会使用这种影响来扼杀香港的反抗，几位专家这样说。
Mr. Xi has also been single-minded with what he sees as China's territorial integrity, whether it concerns Tibet, Taiwan, the South China Sea or Hong Kong.	习近平对于在他看来是涉及中国领土完整的问题，立场一直很强硬，不管是西藏、台湾、南海，还是香港。
Indeed, even during the 2014 protests, Mr. Xi held up Hong Kong's "one country, two systems" approach as a model that might eventually coax Taiwan, the self-governed island, to accept Chinese sovereignty.	的确，即使是在2014年的抗议活动期间，习近平也曾把香港“一国两制”的方式，作为也许最终可以说服自治的台湾接受中国大陆主权的模型。
But any hope of soon winning over Taiwan has dimmed, weakening the need to treat Hong Kong so carefully.	但是，任何能尽快赢得台湾人心的希望很快已经破灭，这就削弱了需要如此谨慎地对待香港的需要。
"Hong Kong is now dispensable," said Steve Tsang, a professor at the School of Oriental and African Studies of the University of London who studies Hong Kong and China. "That doesn't mean that the Chinese government wants to lose Hong Kong, mess up Hong Kong. But, fundamentally, that change in context means the Chinese government can afford to take a much more robust position over Hong Kong."	“香港现在可有可无，”伦敦大学东方与非洲研究学院的教授曾锐生说，他研究香港和中国大陆。“这并不意味着中国政府想丢掉香港、搞乱香港。但从根本上说，这种情况的变化意味着中国政府能够对香港采取更强硬的做法。”
Even Hong Kong's position as a financial capital, since rivaled by	就连香港作为金融中心的地位，对北京来说也不再重要，上海已经成为香港

Shanghai, is no longer so vital to Beijing.	的竞争对手。
Still, Mr. Xi may find time to court members of the powerful business elite, most of whom remain in his corner.	尽管如此，习近平可能会抽时间去取悦香港的商业精英们，他们中的大多数仍在其阵营内。
Mr. Xi only wants Hong Kong to be “a good son” to China, said Lui Che-woo, a billionaire who was part of a business delegation from the city that met with Mr. Xi in Beijing in 2014.	习近平只想让香港成为中国的“好儿子”，吕志和说，这位亿万富翁曾作为香港工商界代表团成员于2014年在北京与习近平见过面。
“Being a good son doesn’t mean you need to be obedient all the time, but at least you should be reasonable and benefit China’s system and society,” Mr. Lui said. “Hong Kong is the central government’s, of course it has to listen.”	“当个好儿子并不意味着你总要顺从，但至少应该懂道理，做有利于中国制度和社会的事情，”吕志和说。“香港属于中央政府，当然要听中央的话。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170629/xi-jinping-hong-kong-handover-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170629/xi-jinping-hong-kong-handover-china
Drought in Northern China Is Worst on Record, Officials Say	中国北方遭遇有记录以来最严重旱灾
Officials governing a large area of northern China say their region is suffering from the worst drought on record, leading to crops wilting and farmers and herders growing desperate to get water to farmlands, grasslands, animals and their households.	管理着中国北方大片区域的官员说，那里正遭受着有记录以来最严重的旱灾，农作物枯萎，农牧民为农田、草原、动物和家人找水发愁。
The drought is affecting the northeastern and eastern areas of the Inner Mongolian Autonomous Region, which is near Beijing.	这场干旱正在影响距离北京不远的内蒙古自治区的东北部和东部地区。
In recent years, Chinese scientists have attributed extreme weather patterns in China, and especially in northern China, to climate change. The region of Inner Mongolia and its residents have been hit especially hard by wide fluctuations in the weather.	近年来，中国科学家把中国，特别是中国北方的极端天气模式归结于气候变化。天气的大幅波动对内蒙古地区及其居民的影响尤其严重。
President Xi Jinping and other Chinese leaders say climate change is an urgent problem that nations must address together, and they have	习近平等中国领导人说，气候变化是各国必须共同解决的紧迫问题，他们坚定主张各国要遵守巴黎气候协定，虽然特朗普本月宣布美国将退出这个协

insisted that countries abide by the Paris climate accord, despite President Trump's announcement this month that the United States would withdraw from the agreement.	定。
The United States is historically the world's largest emitter of greenhouse gases, while China is currently the largest one.	美国在历史上是世界最大的温室气体排放国，而目前最大的排放国是中国。
In Inner Mongolia, official statistics from the vast municipal area of Hulunbuir, also known as Hulunbei'er, indicate that the economic loss from the recent drought has been 5.3 billion renminbi, or $780 million.	在内蒙古面积巨大的呼伦贝尔市，官方统计数据显示，近期的干旱已经造成了 53 亿元人民币的经济损失。
The municipality is a rural area with grasslands and herders that abuts Russia and lies immediately west of the region once known as Manchuria.	该市是一个乡村地区，有草原和牧民，毗邻俄罗斯，曾经被称为满洲的地区就在它的东边。
Officials in Hulunbuir said 16 million acres of pastureland had been affected.	呼伦贝尔的官员说，全市草场受旱面积 9876 万亩。
They said the local government had spent $16 million for aid and relief and deployed 13,300 people to tackle the problem.	他们表示，地方政府投入抗旱资金 1.09 亿元，投入抗旱人员 13.3 万人。
Another large municipal area, Tongliao, has also been severely affected. Photographs by Xinhua, the state news agency, show crops in dry soil and farmers spraying their fields with water.	另一个大城市通辽的旱情也很严重。官方通讯社新华社的照片显示了干旱土地上的农作物，以及农民浇灌农田的场面。
From the air, vast patches of land appear brown and lifeless.	从空中看，大片土地呈现棕色，毫无生机。
The state news media began reporting on the drought last month and said conditions were turning grim because of a lack of rainfall since mid-April.	国家新闻媒体上个月开始报道这场旱灾，称自从 4 月中旬以来，由于缺少降水，旱情正在恶化。
Xinhua said that by late May, 120,000 people and a half-million livestock were grappling with a shortage of drinking water.	新华社说，截至 5 月下旬，有 12 万人、50 万头大牲畜因旱饮水困难。
The report cited Chen Lei, minister of water resources.	该报道引用了水利部部长陈雷的说法。

At the time, 5.5 million people had joined in efforts to alleviate the drought, Mr. Chen said. They were trying to help by drilling wells or working on pumping stations to irrigate crops.	陈雷说，已经有 550 万人加入了抗旱行动。他们试图通过打井或建泵站进行抗旱浇地。
Large parts of northern China experienced extremely high temperatures in May.	5 月份，华北大部分地区经历了极端高温。
A few brief rain spells at the end of the month brought hope of relief, but the heat and drought have persisted.	虽然月底出现短暂降雨，带来了缓解旱情的希望，但是高温和干旱并未消退。
The Chinese government has made great efforts to try to halt or turn back the growth of deserts in northern China, and especially in Inner Mongolia.	中国政府一直在大力遏制或扭转中国北方地区沙漠的扩张，特别是在内蒙古。
For many years, Chinese deserts expanded at an annual rate of more than 1,300 square miles, and the Gobi pushed southward toward Beijing.	多年来，中国的沙漠以每年 1300 多平方英里（约合 3367 平方公里）的速度扩张，戈壁向南边的北京推进。
The government has said tree-planting efforts have made a difference, though some scientists argue that this strategy has done little to stop desert expansion.	政府表示，植树的努力产生了成效，尽管有些科学家认为，这个策略对阻止沙漠扩张没有什么效果。
The Chinese government has also tried to limit the movements of herders, saying their animals are turning grasslands into desert. Some scholars say that this policy is misguided, and that animal grazing is not the main cause of desertification.	中国政府也试图限制牧民的流动，说他们的牲畜正在把草原变成沙漠。有学者说，这个政策是错误的，放牧并不是荒漠化的主要原因。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170630/china-drought	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170630/china-drought
Once a Model City, Hong Kong Is in Trouble	香港，曾经的模范城市变成一个警世故事
HONG KONG — When Hong Kong returned to Chinese rule two decades ago, the city was seen as a model of what China might one day become: prosperous, modern, international, with the broad	香港——20 年前香港回归中国时，外界认为中国也许会以它为榜样，有一天变成它的样子：繁荣、现代、国际化、享有法治的广泛保护。 protections of the rule of law.

There was anxiety about how such a place could survive in authoritarian China. But even after Beijing began encroaching on this former British colony's freedoms, its reputation as one of the best-managed cities in Asia endured.	有人担心，这样一个地方如何能在实行威权主义的中国生存。但即便在北京开始侵犯这个前英国殖民地的自由后，它亚洲管理最佳城市之一的名声仍得以保持。
The trains ran on time. Crime and taxes were low. The skyline dazzled with ever taller buildings.	列车准点行驶。犯罪率和税率处于低位。天际线上总有更高的建筑出现，令人惊叹。
Those are still true. Yet as the 20th anniversary of the handover approaches on Saturday, the perception of Hong Kong as something special — a vibrant crossroads of East and West that China may want to emulate — is fading fast.	这些依然是事实。但在周六的政权移交 20 周年纪念日到来之际，认为香港是一个特别的地方——东西方交汇的一个充满活力的十字路口，中国可能想要效仿它——的想法正在迅速消失。
Never-ending disputes between the city's Beijing-backed leadership and the pro-democracy opposition have crippled the government's ability to make difficult decisions and complete important construction projects.	北京支持的香港领导层和亲民主的反对派之间没完没了的争吵，严重影响了政府制定艰难决策和完成重要建设项目的的能力。
Caught between rival modes of rule — Beijing's dictates and the demands of local residents — the authorities have allowed problems to fester, including an affordable-housing crisis, a troubled education system and a delayed high-speed rail line.	夹在对立的治理模式——北京发出的号令和本地民众的诉求——之间，当局放任问题恶化，包括经济适用房危机、问题丛生的教育制度和一条延迟的高铁线路。
Many say the fight over Hong Kong's political future has paralyzed it, and perhaps doomed it to decline. As a result, the city is increasingly held up not as a model of China's future but as a cautionary tale — for Beijing and its allies, of the perils of democracy, and for the opposition, of the perils of authoritarianism.	很多人说，围绕香港的政治未来展开的斗争让它陷入了瘫痪，也许还会使它注定衰落。因此，香港越来越不被当作中国未来的样板，而是作为一个警世故事——对北京及其盟友而言，是提醒它们注意民主的危害；而对反对派来说，则是警惕威权主义的危害。
"More and more, there is a sense of futility," said Anson Chan, the	"徒劳的感觉越来越强烈，"曾在香港回归前后担任港府二号人物的陈方安生

second-highest official in the Hong Kong government in the years before and after the handover to Chinese rule. She blames Beijing's interference for the city's woes. "We have this enormous giant at our doorstep," she said, "and the rest of the world does not seem to question whatever the enormous giant does."	(Anson Chan)说。她将香港的问题归咎于北京的干涉。“我们的门口站着一个庞大的巨人，”她说，“不管这个巨人做什么，世界其他地方似乎都不太会去质疑。”
Others spread the blame more broadly. They point to the opposition's reluctance to compromise and policies that weaken political parties, including multiseat legislative districts that allow radical candidates to win with a minority of votes.	也有人归咎于更广泛的因素。他们把矛头指向反对派的不愿妥协和一些削弱政党的政策，比如多议席选区制让一些激进候选人只需少数票就可以获胜。
"This kind of a political atmosphere will disrupt many of the initiatives that may come along," said Anna Wu, a member of the territory's executive council, or cabinet.	“这种政治气氛会破坏许多原本可能会出现的创举，”香港特别行政区行政会议成员胡红玉(Anna Wu)说。
A high-speed rail station planned for Hong Kong is a half-finished shell — years after every other major city in China has been linked by bullet trains.	计划多年的高速铁路香港站到现在还没完工，而中国其他城市的高铁已经开通多年。
Hong Kong ranks only after New York and London as a center of global finance, but it has no world-class museums. After 15 years of delays, construction of a cultural district intended to rival Lincoln Center has started, but funding from the legislature could be disrupted in the coming days.	香港是仅次于纽约和伦敦的全球金融中心，但它却没有一个世界级的博物馆。在拖延了15年之后，一个有意与林肯中心(Lincoln Center)分庭抗礼的文化区终于开工，但接下来，立法会的拨款也有可能受阻。
Widespread complaints about test-obsessed schools leaving students ill equipped to compete against those in mainland China have not led to education reform. Nor has the government found a way to address simmering public anger over skyrocketing rents and housing prices.	人们普遍不满于学校热衷考试，致香港学生在与大陆学生的竞争中处于劣势，但不满并没有转化为教育改革。飞速上涨的租金和房价引起的愤怒情绪一触即发，但港府至今不知如何应对。
Hong Kong was once known for the speed and efficiency with which it	香港曾以速度和效率著称，每隔几年就建造一批巨大的规划社区，里面提供

built huge planned communities with ample public housing every several years. But it has not managed to do so since Britain returned it to Chinese rule on July 1, 1997.	大量的公共住房。但是自英国在 1997 年 7 月 1 日将香港的管辖权交还给中国后，香港再也没能再做到这一点。
Hong Kong is still a gem in many ways, a place that is hard not to love, and for its 7.4 million residents, hard to leave.	从许多方面讲，香港依然是一颗明珠，一个让人很难不喜欢的地方，也是让这里的 740 万居民难以离开的地方。
Narrow ribbons of oceanfront skyscrapers are backed by wooded hillsides protected as country parks. Just 10 minutes uphill from the majestic Victoria Harbor and financial district are breathtaking views of the South China Sea. Steel and concrete fade into sylvan trails that wind past lakes and waterfalls, all of it not too far from the city's cavernous and efficient airport, part of a renowned transport network of subways, buses, trams and ferries.	如狭长丝带一般的滨海摩天大楼背后就是被树林覆盖的山坡，这些地方被当作郊野公园保护起来。从景色壮观的维多利亚港和金融区沿着山坡走 10 分钟，就可以看到令人惊叹的南海海景。沿着湖泊和瀑布蜿蜒延伸的森林小径上，钢筋和水泥渐渐消失。所有这些景色距离香港巨大而高效的机场都不太远，而机场只是香港著名的交通网络的一部分，此外还包括地铁、巴士、有轨电车和渡船。
But the airport was built by the British before they left. So were the institutions that really distinguish the city: the independent courts, the widely respected civil service, the freewheeling press.	但这座机场是在香港回归之前由英国人建造的。那些真的让这座城市与众不同的地方也是如此：独立的法院、广受尊敬的行政部门，以及自由的媒体。
Those were preserved under the "one country, two systems," formula that promised Hong Kong a high degree of autonomy when Britain returned it to China. But they have been weakened as the Communist Party increasingly meddles in the city's affairs, intimidating and even abducting people seen as challenging its interests.	在“一国两制”的制度下，这些状况得以保持。当英国将香港归还给中国之时，这项制度承诺给予香港高度自治权。然而，随着共产党越来越多地干预香港事务，恐吓甚至绑架被认定在挑战其利益的人，这项制度已经被削弱。
The Umbrella Movement demanding free elections that seized control of downtown streets for 11 weeks in late 2014 is just a distant memory. But sullen resentment of mainland China has spread as Hong Kong's democratic evolution has stalled.	2014 年末爆发的要求自由选举权的雨伞运动已经成为遥远的记忆——当时活动人士控制市中心多条街道长达 11 周。但随着香港民主发展进程陷入停滞，针对中国大陆的怨愤情绪在香港蔓延开来。
This spring, a new chief executive for the territory, Carrie Lam, was	今年春天，林郑月娥(Carrie Lam)被一个由大约 1200 名成员组成的委员会

selected by a committee of about 1,200 residents — mostly allies of Beijing following its instructions.	选为香港新任特首，这些委员大多是听从北京指令的盟友。
Her predecessors tiptoed around tough issues, wary of both offending the Chinese leadership and provoking the public. At the same time, critics say, limited public accountability has allowed incompetence and even graft to spread among officials. The top two government officials from a previous administration have been tried on corruption charges.	在她之前的几任特首绕开了一些棘手的问题，小心翼翼地既不想惹到中国领导层，也不想激怒香港民众。批评人士表示，与此同时，有限的公众问责使香港官员中出现大量不称职乃至贪腐的行为。前一届政府的一、二号人物都因此遭到腐败指控而受审。
Beijing's allies have a majority in the legislature because half the 70 seats are selected by interest groups mostly loyal to the mainland government. But the other half is elected, and lawmakers who favor greater democracy have won a majority of those seats. The result is gridlock.	香港立法会议员大多为北京的盟友，因为这70个席位中有一半是由大多忠于大陆政府的利益集团选出的。不过另一半是选举出来的，想要实现更多民主的议员，赢得了这些席位中的绝大多数。结果就形成了现在的僵局。
There has also been a generational shift in the pro-democracy camp. Voters have replaced older, more pragmatic politicians with younger candidates more stridently opposed to the Communist authorities and willing to engage in all-out resistance. Late last year, Beijing intervened to prevent the seating of two pro-independence politicians who had altered their oath of office to protest Chinese rule.	在支持民主的阵营，也有一种代际转换在发生。选民们替换掉年龄较大、较务实的政客，代之以更年轻的候选人，后者更强硬地反对共产党当局，愿意进行全面的抵抗。去年末，北京曾介入香港事务，阻止两名支持港独的政治人士取得立法会席位，此前两人修改了自己就职宣誓词，以示对中国统治的抗议。
The legislature's rules allow any three members to stall action for months with filibusters. In the last two years, various groups in the pro-democracy camp have repeatedly used that tool as leverage, causing a backlog of legislation that has delayed even projects that are not contentious, like a cleanup plan for the harbor.	依据立法会的规章，任何三名议员都可以通过拉布拖延行议程数月。在过去两年里，亲民主阵营中的各种团体曾多次使用这种战术，由此导致议案积压，甚至连一些没有争议的项目也遭到延误，比如港口清理计划。
Both sides agree that the city will become ungovernable without some kind of political change. But they cannot agree on what to do.	双方都认为，如果不做出某种政治上的改变，香港将变得难以治理。但他们无法就改变什么达成一致。

The democrats want a clear road map to universal suffrage – which Beijing promised in 2007 “may be implemented” in 2017 – starting with direct elections for the chief executive. Only when the government is accountable to the public will it have a mandate to tackle the challenges facing the city, they say.	民主人士想要一张明确的实现普选权路线图——北京曾在 2007 年承诺“可以在 2017 年实行普选,即开始直接选举香港特别行政区行政长官。他们表示,只有政府对民众负责,它才能获得授权,解决这个城市面临的各种挑战。
But supporters of Beijing say the problem is too much democracy, not too little.	但支持北京的人士表示,现在的问题是民主太多了,而不是太少。
Shiu Sin-por, the departing head of the local government’s agenda-setting Central Policy Unit, said pro-Beijing lawmakers must break with tradition and get tough on filibusters.	即将卸任的香港特别行政区政府中央政策组首席顾问邵善波(Shiu Sin-por)表示,亲北京的议员必须摒弃传统,对拉布采取强硬手段。
He also wants to eliminate civil service protections for many senior officials and put them on renewable, short-term contracts – which would make them more accountable to Beijing.	他还想取消许多高层官员享有的公务员保护,改为与之签署可续期的短期合同——这会让他们更好地对北京负责。
“You have a lot of deadbeats and layabouts who drag it out until they retire,” he said. “Would elections change this? No.”	“里面有许多游手好闲的人,他们会一直拖到退休,”他说。“选举会改变这种状况吗?不会。”
Mr. Shiu, a longtime power broker with close ties to the Beijing government, warned that if Hong Kong remained politically paralyzed, it could slip from the ranks of the world’s great cities and end up like Monaco, a tax haven for the wealthy with few industries beyond financial services and retail.	作为与北京政府关系密切的资深权力中间人,邵善波警告,如果香港继续保持这种政治僵局,将会跌出世界最伟大城市的行列,最终沦为摩纳哥那样的城市,即富人避税的天堂,除了金融服务和零售之外几乎没什么产业。
In an interview, Mrs. Lam, who will be sworn in on Saturday, acknowledged “a certain degree of truth” in the argument that the lack of a political overhaul was making it more difficult to address issues like housing, education and infrastructure.	即将在周六宣誓就职的林郑月娥在接受采访时承认,不进行政治改革就更难解决住房、教育和基础设施等问题,这种说法“有一定的道理”。
But she added: “If we were to have universal suffrage tomorrow, would	但她也表示:“如果明天就开始普选,所有这些问题都会消失吗?我觉得不

all these problems disappear? I don't think so."	会。”
In many ways, Hong Kong as a city has fared better than its people. Since the handover, more than one million mainland Chinese have moved here, contributing their energy and talents to the territory's economic development. But the newcomers' success has sometimes come at the expense of those with deeper roots.	从许多方面讲，香港作为一座城市的境遇要比它的居民强。自回归以来，有超过100万大陆人移居到这里，为香港的经济发展贡献了他们的活力与才能。但新来者的成功，有时是以牺牲在本地生活了更久的人为代价的。
Big international companies and banks now aggressively recruit mainland Chinese instead of local residents, who speak Cantonese instead of the Mandarin used on the mainland and who often lack the connections to win deals and thrive there.	现在，大的跨国公司和银行在积极招募大陆人，而非本地居民——后者说的是粤语，不是大陆使用的普通话，而且他们往往缺少在大陆赢得交易和发展壮大所需的关系。
The language issue is a challenge for Hong Kong's education system, which tries to teach three of them — English, as well as Mandarin and Cantonese. This produces many graduates with weaker English and Mandarin than those from the mainland's top schools.	语言问题对香港教育制度构成了挑战，这里试图教授三种语言——英语、普通话和粤语。这样一来就会有许多毕业生在英语和普通话上不及来自大陆顶尖学府的学生。
But efforts to address the problem get caught in the city's fractious politics, with suspicions that Beijing wants to undermine local identity or limit the West's influence.	然而，解决这个问题的努力却受困于香港难以驾驭的政治，因为有人疑心北京想破坏香港本地的身份认同，或限制西方对这里的影响。
At the same time, the government has resisted proposals to ease the culture of high-pressure testing, a source of much public dissatisfaction. Instead, it tried to introduce "patriotic" material into the curriculum, appeasing Beijing while angering parents and students.	与此同时，政府也拒绝接受缓解高压考试文化的提议，这种文化是引发大量公众不满的一个源头。相反，政府试图将“爱国”内容引入课程，这在取悦北京的同时，却激怒了香港的学生和家长。
The influx of mainland Chinese has also contributed to a historic run-up in housing prices, making Hong Kong one of the world's most expensive places to live. A single parking space recently sold for $664,000.	大陆人大量涌入，将这里的房价推至历史新高，令香港成为世界上居住成本最高的地方之一。最近单单是一个停车位都卖到了66.4万美元。

Soaring prices and rents have squeezed middle-class families and younger residents in particular, fueling resentment against the mainland Chinese who have poured money into the market. Government measures to limit speculation have not deterred those investors, many of whom are looking for a safe way to get their money out of the mainland.	不断飙升的房价和租金尤其给中产家庭和更年轻的居民带来压力，助长了他们对大陆人的怨恨情绪，正是后者将大笔资金投入了这个市场。政府采取的遏制投机的措施没能阻止这些投资者，他们中有许多在寻找将资金从大陆转移出去的安全方式。
The underlying problem is limited supply. Land disputes have nearly halted plans to build big residential areas in the rural sections of northern Hong Kong.	根本的问题在于供应有限。因为存在土地纠纷，在香港北部乡村区域修建大型住宅区的计划几近停滞。
Under a policy dating from the colonial era, families in traditional villages there are awarded long-term grants of land, producing suburban sprawl and making it difficult to put together a large parcel for development. The government could force families to sell but is worried about setting off protests, in part because the leaders of those communities have generally supported Beijing.	依据一项始于殖民时代的政策，香港传统村落的家庭被授予长期拥有土地的权利，由此导致郊区杂乱扩张，令集中大片区域开发变得十分困难。政府可以迫使这些家庭出售土地，但他们担心这会引发抗议，部分原因在于这些社区的领导者基本都是北京的支持者。
Plans to build elsewhere have also stalled. Efforts to rezone the fringes of country parks for apartment buildings have been blocked by environmentalists, while the government has been leery of the cost of controversial proposals by developers to subsidize land reclamation and build thousands of acres of artificial islands.	在其他地方建住宅区的计划也被搁置。将郊野公园的外围改建为公寓楼的打算遭到环境保育人士的阻拦，而开发商提出的土地回收补贴和修建成千上万亩人工岛的争议性计划，又让政府担心成本过高。
“There’s land in Hong Kong, but what we lack is developable land,” said Anthony Cheung, the transport and housing secretary, noting that everyone wanted more housing but no one wanted it built next door. “We still need to seek local community support.”	“香港有土地，但我们缺少可开发的土地，”香港运输及房屋局局长张炳良 (Anthony Cheung)说。他指出，人人都希望有更多房屋建起来，但没人希望它们建在自家隔壁。“我们仍需争取本地社区的支持。”
Gaining such support is difficult, though, given deep distrust of the	不过，鉴于政府非常不受信任，想要获得这类支持并非易事。一些社区和环

government. Lawsuits by neighborhoods and environmental groups have delayed a range of infrastructure projects that require much less land than housing developments.	保团体提起的诉讼，已经让一系列所需土地远远少于住宅区的基础设施项目的建设有所延迟。
The planned high-speed rail line, for example, is being built underground the entire 16 miles to the border partly because of the political challenge of obtaining land. That has driven up the project's cost many times over. Even the tunneling effort required the removal of a village of scarcely 100 people, though, and democracy activists joined them in protests that slowed the initiative.	举个例子，由于在获得土地方面遭遇了政治挑战，计划中全长 16 英里（约合 26 公里）的高铁线路将全部建在地下。这让该工程的成本增加了很多倍。不过，就算开挖隧道只需让一个不到 100 人的村庄搬迁，民主活动人士还是和村民一道举行了拖延项目进度的抗议活动。
The proposed deployment of Chinese immigration officers at the downtown rail station under construction is also contentious. Critics are objecting to an expanded mainland security presence in the heart of the city. They point to several recent cases in which Chinese officers appeared to abduct people — booksellers peddling salacious tales about mainland officials, or a tycoon with rare insight into the finances of the Communist Party elite — and whisk them to the mainland without legal authority.	向市中心在建高铁站派驻中国移民官员的提议也引发了争议。批评人士反对大陆在这座城市的中心布设更多安保力量。他们提及了最近发生的几起事件：中国官员现身香港，绑架了一些人——其中包括几名书商，他们卖的书里有的讲述了大陆官员的香艳故事，还有一名对共产党权贵的财务状况有着罕见了解的大亨——并在没有合法权限的情况下将其带到大陆。
"It will be used as an excuse to create a serious loophole to allow mainland officers to implement mainland laws in Hong Kong's territory," said Eddie Chu, a pro-democracy member of the legislature.	"这会被人当成幌子，去制造严重的漏洞，从而让大陆官员得以在香港境内实施大陆的法律，"立法会亲民主议员朱凯迪(Eddie Chu)说。
As the political wrangling in Hong Kong is drawn out, some people are leaving. One popular destination is Taiwan, a flourishing Chinese democracy with more affordable real estate and news outlets that have not been cowed by Beijing, as many of those in Hong Kong have.	随着政治角力在香港持续上演，一些人正在离开。台湾是一个颇受青睐的目的地，这片实施民主制的欣欣向荣之地有更便宜的楼市，以及不受北京胁迫的媒体——香港也有很多这样的媒体。
Pat Yeung, 43, an entrepreneur, said she moved to Taiwan this summer	现年 43 岁的创业者帕特·杨(Pat Yeung)说，她于今年夏天搬到了台湾——在

after a friend emigrated to get her children out of the high-pressure schools, and after she met another couple who relocated in search of cheaper housing.	在此之前，她看到一个朋友为帮助子女摆脱学习压力极大的学校而移居那里，她还遇到过另一对为寻求更便宜的住房而搬过去的夫妇。
In Hong Kong, with its relentless business competition and darkening political climate, Ms. Yeung said, "the pressure is too, too much."	在商业竞争无休无止、政治氛围日渐暗淡的香港，帕特·杨说，“压力实在太大了。”
Three years ago, Beijing presented Hong Kong with a proposal to allow residents to elect the chief executive, but only from a slate of candidates approved by a nomination committee under its control. The pro-democracy forces rejected the offer, holding out for free elections without such a limit, and Beijing's refusal to budge prompted the Umbrella Movement protests.	三年前，北京给了香港这样一个方案：香港居民可以选举特首，但只能从一份得到提名委员会首肯的候选人名单里选——该委员会受北京控制。亲民主力量拒绝了这项提议，坚持要求进行不受此限制的自由选举，北京拒绝让步，从而引发了名为“雨伞运动”的抗议活动。
It was a pivotal moment for Hong Kong, with all sides letting a chance at compromise slip by and digging in for what has been a prolonged stalemate.	对香港来说那是一个关键时刻，各方都让妥协的机会从手边溜走，固执己见地不肯退让，进而催生出旷日持久的僵局。
The pro-democracy camp's biggest mistake may have been believing that President Xi Jinping, who at the time had been in office for almost two years, intended to guide China toward a more pluralistic future.	亲民主阵营的最大错误或许是，认为当时上台快两年的习近平有意带领中国走向更多元化的未来。
Martin Lee, the founding chairman of the Democratic Party, said that he harbored such hopes because he had met Mr. Xi's father, a senior Communist leader considered more open-minded than most of Mao's generals.	民主党创始人李柱铭(Martin Lee)说，他当初怀有这样的希望是因为他见过习近平的父亲，一名被认为比毛泽东的大多数将领更开明的共产党高级领导人。
Others noted Mr. Xi's record as a leader in the eastern provinces of Fujian and Zhejiang, where he adopted a moderate tone while trying to attract Hong Kong investors, said Joseph Cheng, another longtime democracy advocate.	还有人提到习近平在中国东部省份福建和浙江出任领导职务的履历。资深民主倡导人士郑宇硕(Joseph Cheng)说，习近平在那些地方采取了一种温和的路线，竭力吸引香港的投资者。

Zhang Dejiang, a member of the powerful Politburo Standing Committee, took the lead on policy toward Hong Kong, and some wondered at the time if his hard-line stance reflected Mr. Xi's views.	位高权重的中共中央政治局常委张德江曾主导对港政策，当时有人怀疑，他的强硬立场反映了习近平的想法。
But there is little doubt now that Mr. Xi calls the shots. After nearly five years in power, he has proved to be a committed authoritarian who considers political liberalization a threat.	不过现在毋庸置疑的是，发号施令的是习近平。在他上台将近5年后，事实证明，他是一个坚定的威权主义者，把政治自由化视为一种威胁。
There seems little hope that Beijing will make Hong Kong an offer better than the one it put forward three years ago. Jasper Tsang, the recently retired president of the legislature and a longtime ally of Beijing, said the attitudes of the Chinese leadership toward the city had hardened.	北京似乎不太可能给香港一个好过三年前的方案。北京长期以来的盟友、最近刚从立法会主席的位置上退下来的曾钰成(Jasper Tsang)说，中国领导层对香港的态度很强硬。
"People are telling me there won't be a second chance," he said.	"有人告诉我，不会有第二次机会，"他说。
Last month, Mr. Zhang visited Macau, the former Portuguese colony that is now a Chinese gambling hub, and praised it in terms that suggested he saw it as a model for Hong Kong.	张德江于上月到访澳门——这个前葡萄牙殖民地目前是中国的一个博彩业中心——对那里赞赏有加，言谈中透露出他认为澳门是香港的榜样。
People here were stunned because Macau has a reputation for obsequious obedience to Beijing as well as chronic corruption, organized crime and limited tolerance for labor unions and other independent organizations.	一些香港人颇为惊诧，因为澳门向来唯北京马首是瞻，并且存在长期腐败和有组织犯罪，对工会和其他独立组织缺乏容忍。
The worry now is that Mr. Xi may share that vision of Hong Kong's future. "If the idea came from him," Mr. Lee said, "we are finished."	人们现在担心习近平对香港的未来也是这么看的。“如果这个看法源自他，”李柱铭说，“我们就完了。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170630/hong-kong-china-handover	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170630/hong-kong-china-handover
China Won't Let Liu Xiaobo, Nobel Laureate, Get Cancer Treatment Abroad	中国不准刘晓波出国接受癌症治疗
BEIJING — The Chinese authorities have refused permission for Liu	北京——诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波因患癌症已获准保外就医，他的一名代

Xiaobo, a Nobel Peace laureate paroled from prison for cancer treatment, to go abroad for care, one of his lawyers said on Thursday.	理律师周四表示，中国当局拒绝让他出国治病。
The authorities did not explain the rejection, according to the lawyer, Shang Baojun. The news undermined hopes among supporters of Mr. Liu, a writer and dissident, that he might be freed altogether, if not allowed to leave China. He remains under police guard in a hospital.	律师尚宝军说，当局没有解释拒绝的原因。刘晓波是一名异见人士作家，他的支持者们曾希望他会完全获释，就算不让他离开中国的话，新消息削弱了他们的这个希望。刘晓波在医院中仍处于警察看守之下。
There have been signs that China's leaders were growing sensitive to the international attention that Mr. Liu's case has received, especially allegations that the government had effectively caused him to become gravely ill by failing to treat his liver cancer while he was incarcerated.	有迹象表明，中国领导人对刘晓波的案件所受到的国际关注越来越敏感，特别是政府未在他被监禁期间为他治疗肝癌、事实上导致了他的病情严重恶化的指责。
The judicial department of the northeastern province of Liaoning, where Mr. Liu has been serving his sentence and is being treated, released a statement Wednesday evening saying that he had received regular checkups in prison and that the cancer had been detected only a month ago.	刘晓波一直在东北部省份辽宁服刑，目前也在那里接受治疗，辽宁省司法部门周三晚间公布的一份声明说，刘晓波在监中曾接受定期体检，他是在一个月前才被诊断患有肝癌的。
That followed the release of a video of Mr. Liu in prison — the first public glimpse of him since he was sentenced in 2009 — showing him exercising and undergoing what appeared to be routine medical tests.	这之前曾传出一段有关刘晓波在狱中生活的视频，这是自从他2009年被判入狱以来，公众首次看到他的情况，视频显示他正在锻炼，以及他在接受看来是常规医学检查的片断。
The statement said that a team of specialists had convened to oversee Mr. Liu's treatment on June 7, apparently leading to the decision to transfer him from his jail cell on medical parole. The condition of Mr. Liu, who is 61, was not clear from the statement, though his lawyers and friends, citing his wife, said that his cancer was so advanced that there appeared to be little hope of recovery.	政府的声明说，一个专家小组已于6月7日就刘晓波的治疗问题进行了会诊，结果之一显然是把他从监狱送到医院保外就医的决定。声明中并没有提到61岁的刘晓波的病情，但他的律师和朋友引用他妻子的话说，他的癌症已是晚期，看来几乎没有恢复的希望。
Dozens of prominent writers have appealed directly to China's	几十位著名作家已直接向中国国家主席习近平发出请求，呼吁他让刘晓波得

president, Xi Jinping, to grant Mr. Liu unrestricted medical care, including the opportunity to leave the country if he chooses. The appeal, organized by PEN America, also urged the authorities to free Mr. Liu's wife, the poet Liu Xia, who has been under house arrest since 2010 even though she has never been charged with a crime. Ms. Liu has appealed for her husband to be allowed to seek treatment abroad.	到不受限制的治疗，包括到出国治疗的机会，如果刘晓波愿意那样做的话。这份由美国笔会(PEN America)发起的呼吁书，还要求当局释放 刘晓波的妻子刘霞，尽管刘霞从未被指控犯有任何罪行，但自 2010 年以来，她一直处于软禁之中。刘霞已呼吁让丈夫获许出国治疗。
"We applaud your decision to grant him medical parole, and hope that it will be accompanied with due regard for the steps necessary to ensure that, however much time he may have, he is afforded the dignity and autonomy that every human being deserves," read the letter, which was signed by about 50 authors, including Martin Amis, Margaret Atwood, J. M. Coetzee, Philip Roth and Salman Rushdie.	"我们对你们让他保外就医的决定表示赞赏，并希望伴随而来的是采取必要步骤的适当考虑，以确保无论他还有多少时间，尽可能地让他享有每个人都应得的尊严和自主权，"呼吁书写道，约 50 名作家在呼吁书上签了名，其中包括马丁·艾米斯(Martin Amis)、玛格丽特·阿特伍德(Margaret Atwood)、库切(J. M. Coetzee)、菲利普·罗斯(Philip Roth)，以及萨尔曼·拉什迪(Salman Rushdie)。
On Thursday, a letter endorsed by 154 Nobel laureates and addressed to Mr. Xi called for Mr. Liu and his wife to be allowed to travel to the United States.	周四，一封直接写给习近平的、有 154 位诺贝尔奖获得者签名的信呼吁，允许刘晓波和妻子前往美国。
It would be highly unusual for the government to grant someone like Mr. Liu leniency. A leader of the protests in Tiananmen Square in 1989, he was one of the main organizers of a public appeal in December 2008 for greater democracy in China, which became known as Charter 08. He was swiftly arrested; the following year, he was convicted and sentenced to 11 years in prison.	政府宽恕像刘晓波这样的人将会是非常罕见的。他是 1989 年天安门广场抗议活动的领导人之一，他是在 2008 年 12 月、在后来被称为《零八宪章》的文件中公开呼吁让中国享有更大民主的主要组织者之一。之后，他很快被政府逮捕。次年，他被判有罪，并被判处 11 年有期徒刑。
He was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 2010 for his "long and nonviolent struggle for fundamental human rights in China." He was represented at the ceremony in Oslo by an empty chair.	2010 年，刘晓波因为“在中国争取基本人权而长期进行的非暴力努力”获得了诺贝尔和平奖。在奥斯陆举行的颁奖仪式上摆了一把代表刘晓波的空椅子。
Mr. Xi, who is preparing for a Communist Party congress in the fall that	习近平正在为秋季召开的共产党代表大会做准备，预计党代会将进一步巩固

is expected to consolidate his authority, has overseen a crackdown on dissent since rising to power in 2012.	习近平的权威，习近平自从 2012 年上台以来，一直在指导对异见人士的镇压。
The new American ambassador to China, Terry Branstad, raised the possibility on Wednesday of Mr. Liu's release for medical treatment "elsewhere." Speaking to reporters, he also promised to use his personal relationship with Mr. Xi, whom he met during a Chinese trade delegation's visit to Iowa in 1985, to help President Trump address thorny issues in the United States-China relationship like human rights.	美国新任驻华大使特里·布兰斯塔德(Terry Branstad)周三提出了让刘晓波在“其他地方”寻求医疗的可能性。他对记者说，他还承诺会利用自己与习近平的个人关系（1985 年，他在一个中国贸易代表团访问爱荷华州时，首次认识了习近平），来协助特朗普总统处理美中之棘手问题，比如人权问题。
Mr. Branstad did not explicitly appeal for Mr. Liu's release, and it was not clear whether any efforts were underway behind the scenes to negotiate one.	布兰斯塔德没有明确呼吁释放刘晓波，也不清楚是否有幕后谈判的努力。
Mr. Trump is expected to meet with Mr. Xi at the Group of 20 summit meeting in Germany next week. The details of their meeting, which is expected to focus on North Korea's nuclear weapons, are still being worked out, China's vice foreign minister, Li Baodong, said at a briefing on Thursday.	特朗普将在下周在德国举行的 20 国集团首脑会议上与习近平会晤。预计会晤将聚焦朝鲜的核武器问题，中国外交部副部长李宝东在周四的媒体吹风会上表示，会晤的细节尚未确定。
The video of Mr. Liu in prison — which first appeared on boxun.com, a Chinese-language website based in the United States — was clearly filmed and edited by the prison authorities. But it was impossible to verify the circumstances surrounding the video, including the timing of its release and whether Mr. Liu consented to its being made.	刘晓波在监狱中情况的视频首先出现在博讯网上，那是一个位于美国的中文网站。很明显，视频是监狱当局拍摄和编辑的。但不可能核实这段视频是在什么情况下制作的，包括视频的发布时间，以及刘晓波是否同意这样做。
In it, Mr. Liu briefly speaks through a glass barrier with his wife, praising two officials he called Mr. Dai and Mr. Jin. "They are nice, and they have paid great attention to my health," he said. "Very good. I am very grateful to them."	在视频中有刘晓波与妻子隔着玻璃窗短暂对话的情景，刘晓波赞扬了两位他称为戴先生和金先生的官员。“他们对我还是很关心的，特别是对我的身体，”他说。“真是很好。我挺感激的。”

Later, he is shown telling a doctor that he contracted hepatitis B two decades ago. The inclusion of that footage appears to be an attempt to suggest that his current illness stemmed from a pre-existing medical condition, not mistreatment behind bars. Hepatitis B increases the risk of developing liver cancer, according to the World Health Organization.	视频后来还显示了他告诉医生，他20年前感染了乙肝病毒的片段。这段似乎是试图表明，刘晓波目前患的疾病与先前存在的情况有关，不是在狱中受虐待的结果。据世界卫生组织的数据，乙肝增加了肝癌的风险。
Ms. Liu, who is also said to be in poor health, has been allowed to visit her husband in No. 1 Hospital of the China Medical University in Shenyang, the capital of Liaoning, but the police officers guarding him have not permitted his lawyers or others see him.	刘霞的身体据说也很不好，她已获许到位于辽宁省首府沈阳的中国医科大学第一附属医院看望丈夫，但看守刘晓波的警察还没有允许他的律师或其他人去看他。
An acquaintance of the couple who lives abroad, Liao Yiwu, said Ms. Liu wrote a letter in April suggesting that her husband had agreed to leave China if he were released, and that she also wanted to do so. If the authorities' claim about Mr. Liu's diagnosis is correct, then it was written before she knew of his cancer.	认识刘氏夫妇的廖亦武说，刘霞曾在四月份的一封信中暗示，如果获释，丈夫愿意离开中国，她也想离开。如果当局关于刘晓波的诊断时间的说法是的话，信是在她得知丈夫患癌症之前写的。
"I am sick of my life, this grotesque life," reads the letter, which was posted on social media. "I want to tear the version of myself who lives in this grotesque life to pieces. I long to escape."	"我厌倦我的生活，我的生活很难看，"信中写道，这封信已经上了社交媒体。"我想撕碎这扭曲生活中的我，我渴望逃离。"
Global Times, a state-run newspaper, published a scathing editorial Wednesday night about the concern for Mr. Liu's health. It appeared only in English, suggesting it was not intended to draw Chinese readers' attention to Mr. Liu's case. "The West put a halo on Liu for their political goals, but this cannot change Liu's risk of cancer," it read. The editorial, which was unsigned, went on to say that Mr. Liu was "an ordinary prisoner."	官方报纸《环球时报》周三晚发表了一篇措辞严厉的社论，批评人们对刘晓波健康状况的担忧。社论只有英文版，表明它不想把中国读者的注意力吸引到刘晓波的健康状况上来。"西方为其政治目的给刘晓波披上了光环，但这并不能改变他患癌症的风险，"社论写道。这篇没有署名的社论在后面还说，刘晓波是"一名普通的囚犯"。
"He ought to be grateful for the extra help from the prison authorities,	"他应该感谢监狱当局的额外帮助，但是，他和他的支持者们没有权利要求

but he and his supporters have no right to demand preferential treatment," it read.	受到优待，"社论说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170630/liu-xiaobo-nobel-cancer-abroad	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170630/liu-xiaobo-nobel-cancer-abroad
Xi Delivers Tough Speech on Hong Kong, as Protests Mark Handover Anniversary	习近平给香港划“红线”：决不允许挑战中央权力
HONG KONG — President Xi Jinping of China delivered a tough speech Saturday at the end of a three-day visit to the semiautonomous Chinese city of Hong Kong, warning against politicizing disputes or challenging the authority of the central government. But he didn't stick around for the reaction, as thousands of people took to the streets in an annual protest calling for greater democracy.	香港——周六，中国国家主席习近平在对中国半自治城市香港为期三天的访问结束的时候，发表了措辞强硬的演讲，对争议政治化和挑战中央政府权力的行为发出警告。不过，他并没有逗留等待大家的反应——每年的这一天，都有成千上万的香港民众走上街头表达民主诉求。
Mr. Xi came to Hong Kong to mark the 20th anniversary of the former British colony's handover to Chinese control. He inspected thousands of People's Liberation Army troops stationed here, met with local dignitaries and swore in Carrie Lam as the city's new chief executive, the top local official.	习近平访港，是为了庆祝这个前英国殖民地的控制权移交中国 20 周年。他检阅了数千人的解放军驻港部队，会见了当地各界杰出人士，主持了香港最高行政长官、新任特首林郑月娥的宣誓就职仪式。
His praised the city for its success as a prosperous global hub of trade and finance, but he also warned against resistance to Beijing's control and influence, which has bubbled here for years.	他称赞这座城市是繁荣的国际贸易和金融中心，但也对抵制北京的控制和影响的行为提出了警告，这些行为在当地已存在多年。
Hong Kong is a "plural society" with "different views and even major differences on some issues," Mr. Xi said while speaking to dignitaries at the inauguration of Hong Kong's government at the city's convention center along Victoria Harbor.	习近平在维多利亚港的香港会展中心举行的新政府就职典礼上对各界人士发表讲话时说，香港是一个“对一些具体问题存在不同意见甚至重大分歧”的“多元社会”。
He cautioned that "making everything political or deliberately creating	他告诫，“陷入‘泛政治化’的漩涡，人为制造对立、对抗”，将“会严重阻碍经

differences" will "severely hinder Hong Kong's economic and social development."	济社会发展”。
Mr. Xi warned that "any attempt to endanger China's sovereignty and security, challenge the power of the central government" or to "use Hong Kong to carry out infiltration and sabotage against the mainland is an act that crosses the red line and is absolutely impermissible."	习近平警告，“任何危害国家主权安全、挑战中央权力”，或者“利用香港对内地进行渗透破坏的活动，都是对底线的触碰，都是绝不能允许的”。
His comments on "infiltration and sabotage" in particular signal that the government will likely try to resurrect security legislation, known as Article 23, against sedition and subversion, said Willy Lam, a political analyst and adjunct professor at Chinese University of Hong Kong.	香港中文大学政治分析员、客席教授林和立指出，“渗透和破坏”之说表明政府可能会尝试恢复安全立法，也就是基本法第二十三条，即反煽动和颠覆条款。
"This is the first time Xi Jinping or anyone in the leadership has mentioned a 'red line,'" he said. "It's a warning to the pro-independence or other so-called anti-China elements to not challenge the authority of the central government."	“这是习近平或领导人当中第一次有人提到‘红线’”，他说。“这是对支持独立或其他所谓反华分子的警告，不要挑战中央政府的权威。”
Mr. Xi's visit to the military garrison here furthered that message, Mr. Lam said. "It's an implicit threat, if the Hong Kong police are not able to do the job or there's widespread disorder, the troops will be mobilized," he added.	林和立表示，习近平探访驻港部队的军营进一步强化了这个信息。他说：“这是一个没有明说的威胁，如果香港警方无法做好这项工作，或是发生大范围的混乱状态，就会出动部队。”
Many people in Hong Kong have grown frustrated with high housing costs, a lackluster education system and a growing influx of millions of visitors from mainland China.	在香港，很多人因为高企的房价、僵化的教育制度，以及数以百万计大陆游客的不断涌入而感到懊恼。
Mr. Xi said the key to Hong Kong's success was the "one country, two systems" formulation, under which Hong Kong maintains its own legal, economic and local political system. But many in Hong Kong worry that the system is eroding under growing pressure from mainland	习近平说，香港取得成功的关键是“一国两制”，也就是香港继续拥有自己的法律、经济和地方政治制度。但香港有很多人担心，来自中国大陆不断增加的压力令这个制度走样。

China.
The disappearance of local booksellers and a politically connected billionaire, who were apparently abducted by mainland security officials, was seen as an example of the deteriorating rule of law and increased meddling from Beijing.	当地几位书商和一个与政界关系密切的亿万富翁失踪事件——显然是遭大陆国安人员绑架——被视作香港法治受到破坏和北京增强干预的实例。
On Friday, Lu Kang, a spokesman for China's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, said Hong Kong's affairs were a domestic matter and the Sino-British Joint Declaration, which outlined Hong Kong's return to China and the protection of basic rights for its population, was "history and of no practical significance."	周五，中国外交部发言人陆慷表示，香港事务属于中国内政，《中英联合声明》是“一个历史文件，不具有任何现实意义”。《中英联合声明》是香港回归中国、保护香港民众基本权益的纲要。
He was responding to comments by Boris Johnson, the British foreign secretary, on the importance of civil liberties in Hong Kong, and remarks by a U.S. State Department spokeswoman who said Washington was concerned about intrusions on freedom of the press and other rights in the city.	他的这番话，是为了回应英国外交大臣鲍里斯·约翰逊(Boris Johnson)关于香港公民自由重要性的评论，以及美国国务院发言人表示华盛顿关切香港的新闻自由及其他权利受到侵犯的言论。
A British Foreign Office spokeswoman responded that the "Sino-British Joint Declaration remains as valid today as it did when it was signed over 30 years ago," Reuters reported.	根据路透社的报道，英国外交部的一名发言人回应称，“《中英联合声明》和30年前签署时一样，今天也具有同样的法律效力。”
On the streets of Hong Kong, concerns about attacks on fundamental rights were evident. A group of prominent pro-democracy activists including Joshua Wong and Leung Kwok-hung, a local lawmaker, say they were set upon by thugs when they tried to protest outside a flag-raising ceremony Saturday morning. The police took away some of the activists but later released them.	在香港街头，对于基本权益受到侵害的关切显而易见。包括黄之锋和香港立法会议员梁国雄在内的一群知名民主活动人士表示，他们试图在周六早上的升旗仪式现场举行抗议活动时，受到暴徒的袭击。警方将一些活动人士带走，但后来将他们释放。
One protester, Avery Ng, said he and another activist, Figo Chan, were	其中一名抗议者吴文远说，他和另一名活动人 Figo Chan 在羁押中受到警察

assaulted by the police while they were in custody. The police media office did not answer calls for comment Saturday afternoon.	的攻击。周六下午，警方的媒体办公室没有回应置评要求。
July 1 is a public holiday in Hong Kong to mark the handover to Chinese sovereignty, but it also has become a big day for pro-democracy protests. In 2003, a half-million people took to the streets to protest the government's handling of the deadly SARS outbreak and efforts to enact the Article 23 national security law. The size of subsequent protests has varied as discontent with the government has ebbed and flowed.	7月1日是香港纪念主权移交的公众假期,但它也成为了民运抗议的大日子。在2003年,有50万人走上街头,抗议政府对致命SARS疫情爆发的处置不当,以及制定第二十三条国家安全法的企图。之后七一游行的规模,随着对政府不满的起落而有大有小。
In the fall of 2014, thousands of demonstrators occupied key roadways for months to demand the chief executive, Leung Chun-ying, step down and that the public be given a bigger say in choosing his replacement.	2014年秋天,成千上万的示威者占领重要路段长达数月时间,要求行政长官梁振英下台,在继任者的选择上给予公众更大的发言权。
But Mr. Leung remained, finishing a term that ended Saturday. And Beijing refused to make any substantive changes to its proposal for the chief executive election, which allowed a public vote but only for candidates vetted by a pro-Beijing nominating committee.	但梁振英继续任职,任期于星期六结束。而北京也拒绝对行政长官的选举方案作出任何实质性的改变,这个方案虽然允许民众投票,但只能在由亲北京的提名委员做过审查的候选人中作出选择。
Pro-democracy representatives in Hong Kong's local legislature rejected the proposal. So the chief executive was chosen by the 1,194-member election committee, a body packed with supporters of Beijing. Ms. Lam, who served as Mr. Leung's chief deputy, was elected in March with 777 votes despite trailing a more popular candidate in public opinion polls.	香港地方立法机关的民主派代表拒绝了这个方案。所以行政长官是由1194名选举委员会成员选出,这个机构里有大量的北京支持者。担任梁振英政务司司长的林郑月娥于三月以777票当选,不过在民意调查中她落后于另一位更受欢迎的候选人。
She gave a much shorter speech than Mr. Xi on Saturday, saying she would cultivate a "new style of governance to rebuild a harmonious	她周六的就职演说比习近平的演讲要简短得多,她提出“以管治新风格,重建和谐社会,恢复市民大众对政府的信任”。 society and renew the people's trust in the government."

Mrs. Lam delivered her speech in Mandarin, the national language of China, but she spoke briefly in Cantonese, the mother tongue of most Hong Kong residents, to read the lyrics of a song about social cohesiveness.	林郑月娥以中国的国语普通话发表的演讲,但她用绝大部分香港居民的母语——广东话,简短地朗读了一首关于社会凝聚力的歌曲的歌词。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170701/hong-kong-china-xi-jinping	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170701/hong-kong-china-xi-jinping
As Beijing Joins Climate Fight, Chinese Companies Build Coal Plants	中国企业海外大兴煤电,全球控温成不可能任务
When China halted plans for more than 100 new coal-fired power plants this year, even as President Trump vowed to "bring back coal" in America, the contrast seemed to confirm Beijing's new role as a leader in the fight against climate change.	中国今年停止了 100 多个燃煤电厂的在建计划,而特朗普总统誓言要“把煤带回”美国,这种对比似乎确认了北京应对气候变化领导者的新角色。
But new data on the world's biggest developers of coal-fired power plants paints a very different picture: China's energy companies will make up nearly half of the new coal generation expected to go online in the next decade.	然而,和全球最大燃煤电厂开发商有关的新数据却勾勒出了一幅不同的图景:预期在未来 10 年里并网的新增煤电生产中,近一半将来自中国的能源公司。
These Chinese corporations are building or planning to build more than 700 new coal plants at home and around the world, some in countries that today burn little or no coal, according to tallies compiled by Urgewald, an environmental group based in Berlin. Many of the plants are in China, but by capacity, roughly a fifth of these new coal power stations are in other countries.	设在柏林的环保组织 Urgewald 汇编的数据显示:这些中国企业正在在全球各地建设或计划建造 700 多座新的煤电厂,其中一些位于目前燃煤量很少或没有煤电厂的国家。很多煤电厂位于中国,但从装机容量来看,这些新电厂的大约五分之一是在其他国家修建的。
Over all, 1,600 coal plants are planned or under construction in 62 countries, according to Urgewald's tally, which uses data from the Global Coal Plant Tracker portal. The new plants would expand the world's coal-fired power capacity by 43 percent.	Urgewald 使用全球煤炭跟踪(Global Coal Plant Tracker)的数据,发现全球 62 个国家计划修建或正在建设 1600 座煤电厂。有了这些新工厂,全球的燃煤电厂的装机容量将增加 43%。

The fleet of new coal plants would make it virtually impossible to meet the goals set in the Paris climate accord, which aims to keep the increase in global temperatures from preindustrial levels below 3.6 degrees Fahrenheit.	修建了这些煤电厂之后，巴黎气候协定中将全球气温控制在工业化之前水平 3.6 华氏度增幅以内的目标，实际上是不可能实现了。
Electricity generated from fossil fuels like coal is the biggest single contributor globally to the rise in carbon emissions, which scientists agree is causing the Earth's temperatures to rise.	用煤炭等化石燃料发电是全球碳排放量增加的最大单一来源，科学家认为碳排放导致了地球温度的上升。
"Even today, new countries are being brought into the cycle of coal dependency," said Heffa Schücking, the director of Urgewald.	Urgewald 的总监赫法·舒克(Heffa Schücking)说：“甚至是在今天，还有新的国家被带入煤炭依赖的循环。”
The United States may also be back in the game. On Thursday, Mr. Trump said he wanted to lift Obama-era restrictions on American financing for overseas coal projects as part of an energy policy focused on exports.	美国可能也会回到这个趋势中。特朗普周四表示，作为出口能源政策的一部分，他希望撤销奥巴马时期对美国海外煤炭项目融资的限制。
"We have nearly 100 years' worth of natural gas and more than 250 years' worth of clean, beautiful coal," he said. "We will be dominant. We will export American energy all over the world, all around the globe."	他说：“我们拥有可以使用将近 100 年的天然气和 250 多年的清洁、美丽的煤。我们将占据主导地位。我们将向全球各地出口美国的能源。”
The frenzied addition of coal plants underscores how the world is set to remain dependent on coal for decades, despite fast growth in renewable energy sources, like wind and solar power.	煤电厂的疯狂增长突显出，尽管风力和太阳能等可再生能源的发电量在快速增长，在未来几十年里，全球仍将依赖燃煤发电。
In China, concerns over smog and climate change have prompted a move toward renewables, as have slowing economic growth and a gradual shift in the Chinese economy away from heavy manufacturing and toward consumer industries. The addition of domestic capacity, though large on paper, does not mean there will be growth in coal consumption. The current coal plants are operating far below capacity	在中国，随着经济增长放缓，中国经济逐步从重工业向消费行业转移，公众对雾霾和气候变化的担忧促使了可再生能源的发展。国内发电能力的增加主要还是在纸面上，并不意味着煤消耗量会增长。因为中国国内对燃煤发电的需求大幅减缓，目前煤电厂以远低于最高产能的状态运行。 because demand for coal-generated power has slowed considerably.

But overseas, the Chinese are playing a different game.	但在海外，中国人正在玩一个不同的游戏。
Shanghai Electric Group, one of the country's largest electrical equipment makers, has announced plans to build coal power plants in Egypt, Pakistan and Iran with a total capacity of 6,285 megawatts — almost 10 times the 660 megawatts of coal power it has planned in China.	中国最大的电气设备制造商之一上海电气集团宣布，它计划在埃及、巴基斯坦和伊朗修建煤电厂，总装机容量为 6285 兆瓦，几乎是中国境内计划新增的 660 兆瓦的 10 倍。
The China Energy Engineering Corporation, which has no public plans to develop coal power in China, is building 2,200 megawatts' worth of coal-fired power capacity in Vietnam and Malawi. Neither company responded to requests for comment.	中国能源工程公司在中国没有开发煤电的公开计划，却正在越南和马拉维建设装机容量 2200 兆瓦的燃煤发电厂。这两家公司都没有回应置评请求。
Of the world's 20 biggest coal plant developers, 11 are Chinese, according to a database published by Urgewald.	Urgewald 发布的资料显示，全球 20 家最大的煤电开发商中，有 11 家来自中国。
Over all, Chinese companies are behind 340,000 to 386,000 megawatts of planned coal power expansion worldwide, Urgewald estimated. A typical coal plant has a capacity of about 500 megawatts and burns 1.4 million tons of coal each year, enough to power almost 300,000 homes.	Urgewald 估计，总的来说，全球煤电从 34 万兆瓦扩张到 38.6 万兆瓦的计划后面，是中国公司在打主力。一个典型的煤电厂计划产能约为 500 兆瓦，燃烧 140 万吨煤，足以为大约近 30 万家庭供应电力。
Kevin P. Gallagher, a professor of global development policy at Boston University and an expert in Chinese energy investment overseas, said a strong infrastructure demand in developing countries and a sharp fall in coal financing by the World Bank and Asian Development Bank had opened up the field for Chinese involvement.	波士顿大学(Boston University)全球发展政策教授、中国能源海外投资方面的专家凯文·P·加拉格尔(Kevin P. Gallagher)表示，发展中国家对基础设施需求旺盛，而世界银行和亚洲开发银行的煤炭融资急剧减少，这给中国的参与打开了大门。
"In China, you have lots of very competitive and politically influential companies — but all of a sudden there's no demand," Professor	"中国有很多竞争力强、在政治上有影响力的公司——但突然之间，国内没有任何需求，"加拉格尔教授指的是中国经济增长放缓。"所以中国正在帮助

Gallagher said, referring to China's slowing economic growth. "So China is helping these companies go overseas to help make the adjustment at home less painful."	这些企业进军海外，减轻国内调整带来的阵痛。”
Much of China's overseas push has come under a state initiative called "One Belt, One Road," announced in 2013, which calls for up to $900 billion in infrastructure investments overseas, including high-speed railroads, ports, gas pipelines and power plants.	中国海外进军势头，大部分来自于2013年提出的“一带一路”倡议，它呼吁对海外基础设施进行投资，最高可达9000亿美元，用来修建高速铁路、港口、天然气管道和发电厂等等。
China's two global policy banks, the China Development Bank and the Export-Import Bank of China, have already provided more than $43 billion in overseas coal financing since 2000, according to a separate database of Chinese energy investments published this year by Boston University.	波士顿大学今年发布的一个单独的中国能源投资数据库显示，中国两个全球政策性银行——国家开发银行和中国进出口银行自2000年以来，已经提供了超过430亿美元的海外煤炭融资。
Some of the countries targeted for coal-power expansion, like Egypt or Pakistan, currently burn almost no coal, and the new coal plants could set the course of their national energy policies for decades, environmentalists warn.	环保人士警告说，中国煤电扩张进军的一些国家，如埃及或巴基斯坦，目前几乎没有燃煤电厂，而新建的煤电厂可能会为这些国家的能源政策设定几十年的走势。
In Egypt, coal projects by Shanghai Electric and other global developers are set to bring the country's coal-fired capacity to 17,000 megawatts, from near zero, according to the Urgewald database.	Urgewald数据库的资料显示，在埃及，上海电气集团等全球开发商的煤电项目将让该国的燃煤电厂产能从接近零开始，提升到1.7万兆瓦。
Pakistan's coal capacity is set to grow to 15,300 megawatts from 190. In Malawi, planned coal projects would bring its coal-fired capacity to 3,500 megawatts from zero.	巴基斯坦的燃煤电厂的装机容量将从190兆瓦增至1.53万兆瓦。在马拉维，计划中的煤炭项目将把该国的装机容量从零提升到3500兆瓦。
Chinese companies are not the only drivers of the global coal expansion.	中国企业并非煤电产业在全球范围内拓展的唯一驱动力。
The world's single largest coal-plant developer is India's National	世界上最大的一个燃煤电厂开发商是印度的国家热能电力公司(National

Thermal Power Corporation, which plans to build more than 38,000 megawatts of new coal capacity in India and Bangladesh. The corporation did not respond to an email query.	Thermal Power Corporation), 它计划在印度和孟加拉国新建总装机容量超过 3.8 万兆瓦的煤电厂。该公司未回应记者通过电子邮件提出的问题。
The AES Corporation, based in Arlington, Va., is building coal plants in India and the Philippines with a combined capacity of 1,700 megawatts. Amy Ackerman, a spokeswoman for the company, said it was shifting its focus to renewables and natural gas, and had no plans to build coal plants after its India and Philippines projects.	总部位于弗吉尼亚州阿灵顿的爱依斯电力公司(AES Corporation)正在印度和菲律宾建造煤电厂, 装机容量合计 1700 兆瓦。该公司发言人阿米·阿克曼(Amy Ackerman)表示, 他们正把重心转向可再生能源和天然气, 在印度和菲律宾的项目之后没有其他建造煤电厂的计划。
Japan's Marubeni Corporation is involved in joint ventures for a combined 5,500 megawatts of new coal generation in Myanmar, Vietnam, Philippines and Indonesia, according to the database. Japan is also adding to its coal-fired capacity at home, to make up for an energy shortfall in the wake of the Fukushima nuclear disaster. A Marubeni spokesman confirmed projects in the four countries.	前述数据库的信息显示, 日本的丸红株式会社(Marubeni Corporation)正在缅甸、越南、菲律宾和印度尼西亚参与新建总装机容量为 5500 兆瓦的合资煤电厂。日本还在本国进行了煤电扩容, 以弥补福岛核灾难之后出现的能源短缺。丸红株式会社的发言人对该公司在这四个国家的项目予以证实。
Western investors also continue to play a role in financing new coal plants overseas. Bonds and shares of the world's biggest coal developers, like India's National Thermal Power and Marubeni, are frequently found in the portfolios of large institutional investors and banks.	西方投资者也在继续为海外新煤电厂项目提供资金支持。印度国家热能电力公司和丸红株式会社等全球最大煤电厂开发商的债券和股票, 常常出现在大机构投资者和银行的投资组合之中。
To be sure, countries like China and Japan are also big players in renewables. China is a major exporter of solar panels and wind turbines, and is leading the construction of the Quaid-e-Azam solar park in Pakistan, one of the world's largest.	可以肯定, 中国、日本等国家也是可再生能源领域的大玩家。中国是太阳能板和风力涡轮机的主要出口国之一, 正在巴基斯坦主导规模居于世界前列的真纳太阳能园区(Quaid-e-Azam)的建设。
Chinese wind and solar companies are "among the leading renewables companies around the world and play a key role in the dramatic fall of	自然资源保护协会(Natural Resources Defense Council)驻北京的气候与能源专家林明彻说, 中国的风能和太阳能公司“跻身世界上主要的可再生能源

wind and solar power prices," said Alvin Lin, a Beijing-based climate and energy expert at the Natural Resources Defense Council. And President Xi Jinping of China and other top leaders there have been resolute in setting climate policy.	企业之列，在推动风能和太阳能价格大幅下降方面发挥着至关重要的作用”。此外，中国国家主席习近平以及该国的其他高级领导人，在制定气候政策时一直颇为果决。
But China's climate concerns have so far been driven by narrow concerns over local pollution, said Eric G. Gimon, a senior fellow at Energy Innovation, a research firm based in San Francisco.	但迄今为止，促使中国关切气候变化的是源于当地污染问题的局部担忧，“在总部位于旧金山的研究公司能源创新(Energy Innovation)担任高级研究员的埃里克·G·吉蒙(Eric G. Gimon)说。
"For now, those concerns seem not to extend elsewhere," Mr. Gimon said.	“截至目前，这些担忧似乎还未拓展到别的领域，”吉蒙说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170703/china-energy-companies-coal-plants-climate-change	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170703/china-energy-companies-coal-plants-climate-change
Young People Have Their Say About the Future of Hong Kong	香港的未来将会怎样? 青年一代有话说
HONG KONG — When crowds calling for greater democracy occupied the streets of Hong Kong three years ago, a skinny teenager led them. When voters went to the polls last year, they elected a 23-year-old legislator, the youngest in the city's history. And when calls for Hong Kong's independence from China gained momentum, young people were again at the forefront.	香港——三年前，香港群众在一个瘦小青年领导下占领街头，呼吁施行更广泛的民主。去年，选民们通过投票选出了这个城市历史上最年轻的一位立法委员，年仅23岁。随着香港要求从中国独立的呼声愈演愈烈，年轻人又一次走在了前列。
Many of the most influential voices in Hong Kong today belong to those who have little or no memory of this former British colony's return to Chinese rule two decades ago. But this generation's identity has been shaped by the handover.	如今香港的许多最有影响力的声音，对20年前这个前英国殖民地回归中国的记忆少之又少。但是这一代人的身份认同，已被那场政权移交所塑造。
People between the ages of 18 and 29 in Hong Kong are more likely than at any time since 1997 to see themselves broadly as Hong Kongers, according to a survey by the University of Hong Kong. Only	香港大学的一项调查显示，大致来说，18岁至29岁的香港人比1997年以来的任何时候都更愿意将自己视为香港人。现在只有大约3%的人宽泛地称自己为中国人，这是自移交以来的最低水平。 about 3 percent now describe themselves broadly as Chinese, the lowest level since the handover.

By contrast, Carrie Lam, who will be sworn in Saturday as Hong Kong's new chief executive, says she wants to make sure that children will learn from an early age to say, "I am Chinese."	相比之下, 于周六宣誓就职香港新任特首的林郑月娥(Carrie Lam)说, 她希望确保孩子们从小就学会说“我是中国人”。
We asked a half-dozen young people in Hong Kong how they identify themselves, what it has been like to grow up in a city newly returned to Chinese rule and what they expect from the future. These are excerpts from their answers, edited for clarity and length:	我们询问了六个香港年轻人的自我认同, 在一个新近回归中国的城市长大有何感受, 以及他们对未来的展望。下面是经过摘录的答案, 经过编辑的精选提炼:
Matthew Chan, 19	陈旻晞(Matthew Chan), 19 岁
Student beginning at Hong Kong Polytechnic University in September	学生, 即将于 9 月进入香港理工大学
I was born after the handover. When I was growing up, society told me I was Chinese. When I was young, I was proud to be Chinese. I was excited when I saw China shoot a rocket into space.	我是在政权移交后出生的。从小这个社会就告诉我, 我是中国人。小时候我很为身为中国人感到自豪。当我看到中国发射火箭进入太空时, 感到非常兴奋。
But when I grew up, I learned more and more about China and the Communist Party, and I felt ashamed to be Chinese. Especially in recent years, the Communists kind of control Hong Kong. When a foreigner asks me who I am, I will always say I'm a Hong Konger but not Chinese. In my mind, I know I'm Chinese, but I don't want to say I am from China. I would rather say that I'm from Hong Kong.	但是, 长大后我对中国和中国共产党的了解越来越多, 开始为身为中国人感到羞耻。特别是近年来, 共产党人基本上控制了香港。如果有外国人问我是谁, 我一直都说自己是香港人, 不是中国人。在我心里, 我知道自己是中国人, 但我不想说我来自中国。我宁愿说自己来自香港。
The thing I don't like is the truth — that Hong Kong is a part of China. Our city has to follow every rule set by Beijing. We have no rights to our politics. We couldn't really vote for the chief executive. The Communist Party is actually assigning the people to control Hong Kong.	我不喜欢的是这样一个事实: 香港是中国的一部分。我们的城市必须遵循北京制定的一切规则。我们对自己的政治没有任何权利。我们不能真正投票选出特首。共产党实际上是派人来控制香港。
Monkey Chan, 20	陈俊汶(Monkey Chan), 20 岁

High school graduate pursuing a nursing career	高中毕业，希望从事护理行业
I started to pay close attention to politics after the Umbrella Movement in 2014. Everyone in my class, which had about 30 people, had been to the protest sites at some point, and the school held a forum the next day after the protest erupted. The whole assembly hall was full.	我由 2014 年雨伞运动开始关心政治。我班上所有同学，大概是 30 人，都有到过抗议现场。活动爆发后的第二天学校举办了讨论会。整个礼堂坐满了人。
Hong Kongers should unite as a nation, and then go independent. As long as Hong Kong is under China's rule, there will not be democracy. That's one reason. But another important reason is that I want to tell the world we're not Chinese.	香港人应该作为一个民族团结起来，然后独立。香港在中国管治下不会有民主。那是一个原因。另一个原因是我想跟世界说我们不是中国人。
Our differences with Chinese people are mainly cultural. You can tell very easily when you travel. Hong Kongers queue up and won't talk too loud, and they don't spit or squat everywhere. We have our language – traditional scripts and Cantonese – and shared experience and spirits.	我们的差别大多都是文化上的。你旅游时就很容易看到。香港人排队，说话不会太大声，不会随街吐痰和蹲。我们有自己的语言——有繁体字和广东话——还有集体的经历和精神。
Hong Kong needs to be economically independent as well. Hong Kong's economy has tilted too much toward the mainland and has become overreliant on it. If China's economy collapses, Hong Kong would be doomed.	香港的经济也要独立起来。香港的经济已经往大陆倾斜得太多，变得十分依赖。要是中国的经济崩溃，香港就没了。
Corey Lau, 25	刘振海(Corey Lau), 25 岁
Community officer with a pro-Beijing political party	亲北京政党的社区官员
I was 5 during the handover. But I remember there was less political struggle. The neighborhood relationships were better. There were fewer complaints about the colonial government.	政权移交那年我 5 岁。但我记得那时没有那么多政治斗争。邻里关系更好。对殖民地政府没有太多怨言。
I am happy to see the return of Hong Kong to China. Twenty years after the handover, the development of Hong Kong is still stable. Hong Kong has retained its prosperity. China has done a satisfactory job managing	我很高兴看到香港回归中国。移交 20 年后，香港的发展仍然稳定。香港依然保持繁荣。中国在政治发展方面所做的工作令人满意。但是，中国还要为香港人心的回归做更多事情。 political development. But still, China has to do more for the return of Hong Kong people's hearts.

Hong Kong is part of China. Therefore, I would identify myself as a Hong Konger and also Chinese. Still, I would see myself first as Hong Konger because this is the place where I grew up.	香港是中国的一部分。所以我会认同自己既是香港人，也是中国人。不过，我会首先把自己视为香港人，因为这里是我长大的地方。
But this cannot violate my Chinese identity. Hong Kong is a place, and China is a country.	但这不会同我的中国人身份相抵触。香港是一个地方，中国是一个国家。
Ada Jin, 24	金家莹(Ada Jin), 24岁
University of Hong Kong graduate from the Chinese city of Harbin who now works in finance	来自中国哈尔滨市，香港大学毕业生，现于金融行业任职
After graduation I decided to stay in Hong Kong. But now, if you asked me again, I am probably open to going back to China. I visit Beijing and Shanghai a few times every year, and I realize they have been developing pretty fast and making lots of progress. Now China in general has lot of advantages over Hong Kong.	毕业后，我决定留在香港。但是现在，如果再问我，我可能也很愿意回到中国。我每年都要去几次北京和上海，我意识到它们发展很快，取得了很大进步。现在，和香港相比，中国在整体上有很大优势。
Many Chinese people are more adaptable to new technology and new ideas. Hong Kong is a bit lacking in terms of that. Of course, Hong Kong has pretty good infrastructure. It's quite developed. Now China has developed so fast, as a function of that, Hong Kong will be weakened in the future.	许多中国人更适应新技术和新观念。香港在这方面有些欠缺。当然香港的基础设施很好。它是相当发达的。现在中国发展得如此之快，未来香港这方面的功能将会减弱。
I think some Hong Kong people are not very happy about the handover. Some Hong Kong people I know have British passports. They are very proud of it.	我认为有些港人对政权移交不太满意。我认识的一些港人有英国护照。他们为此感到自豪。
And also, my British friends, they are very arrogant about it. They're like, "Hong Kong was a British colony. We decided to give it to China. We're	还有，我的英国朋友们对此非常傲慢。他们的态度类似，“香港是英国殖民地。我们决定把它交给中国。我们真是太棒了。”这些话让我不大开心，但

so awesome." These conversations make me unhappy, but they're still my friends.	他们还是我的朋友。
Victoria Lee, 17	维多利亚·李(Victoria Lee), 17岁
Student at St. Stephen's College, a secondary school in Hong Kong	香港中学圣士提反书院(St. Stephen's College)的学生
Growing up in Hong Kong as an American-born Chinese, I've never really identified fully and exclusively with one single culture or had a strong sense of nationalism.	我是在美国出生的华裔, 在香港长大, 我从来没有完全、排外地认为自己属于某一个文化, 也没有强烈的民族主义意识。
I think the most relevant issue to youth like me would be the tangible social divide by language, mannerisms and cultural identity within Hong Kong. There is a lot of local tension between a perceived "them" and "us." It has led to a lot of friction and compromise between the Chinese and the Hong Kongers. A lot of people are also unsatisfied with the increasingly corrupt political and justice scene.	我认为, 对我这样的年轻人来说, 最重要的问题是香港内部因语言、举止和文化身份而产生了明显的社会分裂。可以明显感觉到, 本地存在“他们”和“我们”的冲突。中国人和香港人之间有很多摩擦和妥协。很多人还对越来越腐败的政治和司法状况感到不满。
All said and done, I'm proud to be associated with Hong Kong. I personally think that Hong Kong is also much, much more than just a city under Chinese rule. In fact, it could be argued that the handover inadvertently caused the term "Hong Konger" to be coined, the idea that the people of Hong Kong are neither this nor that, but their very own.	尽管如此, 我为自己与香港联系在一起而感到自豪。我个人认为, 香港远不只是中国统治下的一个城市。实际上, 可以说, 香港回归无意中形成了“香港人”这个概念, 也就是说, 香港人不属于任何群体, 而是自成一体。
Vicky Kung, 26	龚颖淇(Vicky Kung), 26岁
Freelance video producer	自由职业影视制作人
I think Hong Kong has two problems. First is the systemic political problem in terms of who gets power and whether Hong Kong people have the independence to determine whatever we want to determine. The second is the income gap problem.	我认为香港有两个问题。一是整体的政治问题, 关系到谁来掌权, 以及香港人是否拥有自行决定一切的独立性。二是收入差距问题。

Hong Kong has this bottled-up situation where people are very upset about housing in particular. The government is too scared to do anything to land developers because they're making a lot of money out of selling land.	香港有一个僵局,那就是人们对住房问题尤为沮丧。政府不敢对地产商动手,因为他们正从卖地中赚取大量的钱。
I despise politicians old or young who are just yelling, doing nothing. Thank you, we all know there's a problem. Can you think of a smart way to solve it? Hong Kong right now, I think that everyone is just so angry, and we're not moving anywhere. We're just stuck.	我鄙视那些只讲空话、不做实事的政客,不管是年老的还是年轻的。谢谢你,我们都知道有问题。你能不能想出一个解决问题的好办法?我觉得,现在香港每个人都很愤怒,我们没有任何进展。我们困在原地。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170703/hong-kong-china-handover-young-people	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170703/hong-kong-china-handover-young-people
China's Strongman Has a Weak Point: North Korea	强人领袖习近平的软肋: 朝鲜
BEIJING — Xi Jinping, China's leader, is known as the Chairman of Everything. He makes decisions daily on the economy, the military, foreign policy, human rights and more.	北京——中国国家主席习近平以统管一切著称,每天都在就经济、军事、外交、人权等诸多事务做出决策。
Yet on North Korea he is stuck. A strongman who usually acts with precision and boldness, Mr. Xi has been reluctant to take on the North's leader, Kim Jong-un, ostensibly a Chinese ally, whom he privately disparages to Western leaders as young and reckless.	不过在朝鲜问题上,他陷入了困境。作为一名行事通常周密果敢的强人领袖,习近平一直不愿把矛头对准中国表面上的盟友——朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)。习近平与西方领导人私下交流时会流露出对金的轻视,说他年轻而又莽撞。
The July 4 test of the North's first intercontinental ballistic missile has raised the question of what is China's red line for its ally, and whether the test will force Mr. Xi to act decisively against North Korea as the Trump administration is asking him to do.	朝鲜于7月4日首次测试洲际弹道导弹,已经让人产生疑问,中国对其盟友设下的红线在哪里,以及此次测试是否会迫使习近平像美国所要求的那样,果决地对朝鲜采取行动。
The answer? He will probably do little, if anything.	答案?即便有所行动,可能也只是聊胜于无。
As much as Mr. Xi disapproves of North Korea's nuclear program, he fears even more the end of Mr. Kim's regime, a unified Korea with	习近平不赞同朝鲜发展核计划,然而他更担心的是金正恩政权垮台,美韩联军开赴中朝边境线,大批难民从朝鲜涌入中国。此外,中国军事和战略问题

American troops on his border and a flood of refugees from the North into China. And despite North Korea's missile advancement on Tuesday, Mr. Xi still has some breathing room, Chinese military and strategic experts said.	专家称，虽然朝鲜的导弹项目于周二取得了进展，但习近平仍有一些喘息的空间。
Chinese military experts are assessing the launch more conservatively than their American counterparts, saying they were not convinced the missile was actually an intercontinental ballistic missile.	与美国同行相比，中国军事专家对此次发射的评估更为保守，他们说还不能确信朝鲜发射的是洲际弹道导弹。
"This test may or may not be an ICBM," said Wu Riqiang, associate professor of international affairs at Renmin University. He said the missile was "probably unable to hit Alaska."	"此次测试的可能是洲际弹道导弹，也可能不是，"中国人民大学研究国际事务的副教授吴日强表示。他说这枚导弹的射程"可能无法抵达阿拉斯加"。
In contrast, American experts said the North Koreans had crossed a threshold, if only just, with a missile that appeared able to reach Alaska. While the missile traveled only about 580 miles, it did so by reaching 1,700 miles into space and re-entering the atmosphere, North Korean, South Korean and Japanese officials said.	美国专家则认为，朝鲜人已经跨越了一道门槛——但愿只是一道——研制出了似乎可以抵达阿拉斯加的导弹。朝鲜、韩国和日本官员称，虽然这枚导弹只射到了 580 英里(约合 933 公里)之外，但它飞行了 1700 英里进入太空，然后重新进入大气层。
South Korea's Defense Ministry suggested on Wednesday that the North's missile had the potential to reach Hawaii, about 4,780 miles from Kusong, the North Korean town from where the missile was fired, and farther than Alaska.	韩国国防部周三表示，发射自朝鲜龟城的这枚导弹，射程有可能抵达比阿拉斯加还远的夏威夷。夏威夷距龟城约 4780 英里。
On Wednesday, the top American general in South Korea, Gen. Vincent K. Brooks, said that self-restraint was all that kept the United States and South Korea from going to war with the North.	驻韩美军最高将领文森特·K·布鲁克斯(Vincent K. Brooks)周三称，美国 and 韩国之所以没走到对朝鲜开战那一步，全靠"自我克制"。
Mr. Wu said the North's long-range missile capabilities were less threatening to China than to the United States. China would be more concerned if the North had tested a short- or medium-range ballistic	吴日强表示，朝鲜的远程导弹能力对中国的威胁不像对美国那样大。他说，如果朝鲜测试的是短程或中程弹道导弹，中国会更担心。

missile, he said.
China has always considered itself to be less threatened by North Korean nuclear capabilities than the United States, but it does fear American countermeasures, like its recent deployment of an antimissile system on South Korean soil to deal with the threat from the North. South Korea's new president, Moon Jae-in, recently suspended deployment of that system, and there was no sign after the North's missile launch that he was changing that position.	中国一直认为朝鲜核能力对自己的威胁小于对美国的威胁,但它的确忧心于美国的反制措施,比如美国最近在韩国境内部署的一个用以应对朝鲜威胁的导弹防御系统。新任韩国总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)不久前下令暂停部署该系统,在朝鲜试射导弹后尚无迹象表明他会改变自己的立场。
China may be increasingly frustrated by the North's behavior, but it has never been the target of Mr. Kim's weapons. The United States is the North's declared enemy and the ultimate target of its nuclear arsenal.	朝鲜的行为或许会让中国越来越恼火,但金正恩的那些武器所针对的从来都不是中国。美国才是朝鲜公开宣称的敌人及其核武库的终极目标。
More worrisome to China than the missile advances was the prospect of North Korea's test of a sixth nuclear bomb, Mr. Wu and other experts said. China's northeast, a depressed area of smaller cities and rusted industries, runs along the border with North Korea, not far from the tests. The nuclear testing site at Punggye-ri in North Korea is so close to the Chinese border that residents in the city of Yanji have complained that their windows rattled during the last several tests.	吴日强等专家称,比起朝鲜的导弹研发进展,更让中国担心的是朝鲜进行第六次核弹测试的可能性。中国东北——一个由诸多较小城市构成,经济以重工业为主的萧条地区——位于中朝边境线附近,离一些测试地点不远。朝鲜丰溪里核试验基地离中国边境非常近,延吉市的居民抱怨说,最近几次试验时家中窗户咯咯作响。
When the North tested a nuclear weapon in September 2016, local residents said they were afraid of large-scale leaks of radioactive material. Some said they were concerned that the North may actually use the bomb against China. There have been fears in the last few years of soil contamination in the northeast from the North's nuclear testing.	当地居民称,朝鲜于2016年9月进行核武试验时,他们很害怕放射性物质发生大规模泄漏。一些人说,让他们悬心的是朝鲜到头来或许会用核弹对付中国。过去几年间还一直有人担心,朝鲜的核试验会污染东北的土壤。
"For China, a sixth nuclear test represents a graver threat than an ICBM test," said Feng Zhang, a fellow in political science at the Australian	"对中国来说,第六次核试验会带来比洲际弹道导弹测试更严峻的威胁,"澳大利亚国立大学(Australian National University)政治学研究员张峰说。"朝

National University. "North Korea's ICBMs threaten the U.S. more than China, but North Korea's nuclear weapons and the testing of them near the Chinese border are a strategic and environmental threat to China."	鲜的洲际弹道导弹对美国的威胁大于对中国的威胁，但朝鲜的核武器及其在中朝边境线附近进行的核武测试，对中国的战略和环境构成威胁。”
Mr. Wu said, "The missile launch just isn't as pressing for China as a nuclear test might be."	吴日强说，“此次导弹试射给中国带来的压迫感不像一次核试验那么大。”
But no matter the North's behavior, it would be very difficult for Mr. Xi to declare a red line with Pyongyang, either officially or unofficially, said Cheng Xiaohe, associate professor of international relations at Renmin University.	但中国人民大学国际关系学院副教授成晓河说，不论朝鲜如何行事，习近平都非常难以正式或非正式地宣布对平壤设红线。
"The ICBM is not a Chinese red line — even the U.S. does not draw that line clearly and unequivocally," Mr. Cheng said. If China did draw such a red line, he said, "China or the U.S. must automatically take retaliatory actions," such as Beijing cutting off oil supplies to North Korea.	“洲际弹道导弹不是中国的红线——就连美国都有没清楚明了地划下这条线，”成晓河说。如果中国真的划下这样一条红线，他说，“中国或美国必定要自动采取报复行动，”比如北京会切断对朝鲜的石油供应。
But China cannot afford to squeeze the North so hard — by cutting off fuel, for example, or basic trade — that the country destabilizes, sending refugees pouring over the border.	但北京无法承担通过切断燃料供应或基础贸易之类的办法强力逼迫朝鲜的后果——朝鲜的稳定会受到破坏，导致难民涌入中国境内。
Mr. Xi is at least publicly expressing disapproval of North Korea's latest actions. He was in Russia visiting President Vladimir V. Putin when the North announced it had successfully tested an ICBM. The two leaders issued a joint statement calling for negotiations that would aim to freeze the North's arsenal in exchange for limitations on the American military posture in South Korea.	至少习近平在公开表示不赞同朝鲜最近的行为。朝鲜宣布成功测试一枚洲际弹道导弹之际，他正在俄罗斯拜访弗拉基米尔·V·普京(Vladimir V. Putin)总统。两位领导人发表了一份联合声明，呼吁开展谈判，旨在以冻结朝鲜核武库为条件，换取美国对其在韩军事态势的限制。
Instead of penalizing North Korea, China has been calling for such negotiations for many months, but the Trump administration has declined.	连月来，中国没有惩罚朝鲜，而是呼吁开展此类谈判，但特朗普政府已经拒绝了。

Beyond cracking down on trade between the two nations, Mr. Xi holds very few cards against North Korea, and he has little choice but to rely on a kind of strategic hesitation, said a Chinese analyst of foreign affairs who sometimes advises the government.	中国的一名有时会给政府提供建议的外交分析人士说，在打压中朝贸易之外，习近平手中可以用来对付朝鲜的王牌少之又少，除了战略性的迟疑，他几乎没有别的选择。
"Xi as a strategist is facing an anguished choice to use up his means on Kim Jong-un while having no confidence at all that it would be effective," said the analyst, Shi Yinhong, a professor of international relations at Renmin University. "What can this strategist do? A sort of hesitation is unavoidable."	"习近平作为一个战略家，面临着一个痛苦的选择：出完可以用来对付金正恩的牌，却没信心它一定能见效，"前述分析人士、中国人民大学国际关系学院教授时殷弘说。"这个战略家能做什么？某种犹豫是不可避免的。"
Mr. Xi is facing an increasingly "determined and decisive" Mr. Kim, and he is also confronted by an American president who is not easy to deal with, Mr. Shi said. "Xi and Trump are unable to see eye to eye for long, and even if they were it would extremely difficult to thwart Kim for long," he said.	时殷弘说，习近平面对的是一个越来越"坚定果决"的金正恩，他还面对着一个不容易相处的美国总统。"习近平和特朗普的看法不可能长期保持一致，即便能如此，要想长期遏制金正恩也是极为困难的，"他说。
In Washington, Mr. Trump repeated his impatience with Mr. Xi. In a post on Twitter on Wednesday, the president said China's trade with North Korea had grown by almost 40 percent in the first quarter. "So much for China working with us — but we had to give it a try," he said.	在华盛顿，特朗普再度表达了对习近平失去耐心之意。他周三在 Twitter 上发文称，今年第一季度，中朝贸易额增长近 40%。"中国与我们的合作差不多就这样了——但是总得试试，"他说。
It was not clear where Mr. Trump got his 40 percent figure. A South Korean trade group said on Monday that China had imported much more iron in the last few months than previously. But the group also said that the North was a long way from making up the lost revenues from China shutting down its North Korean coal imports.	尚不清楚特朗普是从哪里得来 40% 这个数字。韩国的一个贸易团体周一表示，中国在过去几个月间进口的铁比以前多得多。但该团体还表示，朝鲜要弥补因为中国暂停进口朝鲜煤炭而损失的收入，还有很长的路要走。
China's trade with the North grew 37.4 percent during the first three months of the year, compared with the same period in 2016, Chinese	4 月份发布的中国贸易数据显示，今年前三个月，中朝贸易额同比增长 37.4%。中方称，这一增长幅度是在中国停止从朝鲜采购煤炭的情况下实现

trade data released in April showed. China said the trade grew even as it stopped buying North Korean coal.	的。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170706/xi-jinping-kim-jong-un-north-korea-china-icbm	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170706/xi-jinping-kim-jong-un-north-korea-china-icbm
China Sees Opening Left by Trump in Europe, and Quietly Steps In	特朗普与欧洲隔阂渐深，中国“趁虚而入”
LONDON — Much of the world’s attention at the Group of 20 economic summit on Friday and Saturday will be on President Trump’s first meeting with his Russian counterpart, Vladimir V. Putin, with strenuous efforts to decipher the nature of the long-distance bromance between them.	伦敦——20 国集团经济峰会将于周五和周六举行，全世界的注意力将主要放在特朗普与俄罗斯总统弗拉基米尔·V·普京(Vladimir V. Putin)的首次会议上，竭力破译他们之间远距离兄弟情的本质。
But the leader of the world’s other superpower, Xi Jinping of China, will also be in Hamburg, Germany, ready to slip quietly into the widening gap between Mr. Trump and longtime European allies and to position Beijing as the globe’s newest, biggest defender of a multilateral, rules-based system.	但另一个超级大国中国的领导人习近平也会出现在德国的汉堡，准备不声不响地嵌入特朗普与美国长期的欧洲盟友之间不断加深的隔阂，将北京定位成一个基于规则的多边体系最新、最大的维护者。
Mr. Xi will have just concluded a state visit with Germany, including bilateral meetings and a small dinner Tuesday night in Berlin with the summit host, Chancellor Angela Merkel, who has made no secret of her differences with Mr. Trump.	习近平刚刚结束对德国的国事访问，其间举行了多场双边会谈，还于周二晚在柏林与此次峰会的东道主德国总理安格拉·默克尔(Angela Merkel)一起出席小型晚宴，后者一直毫不掩饰自己与特朗普的分歧。
Having helped Ms. Merkel open the Berlin Zoo’s new $10 million panda garden (complete with two new Chinese pandas), and watched a German-Chinese youth soccer match, Mr. Xi will have already made a mark.	在帮默克尔为柏林动物园耗资 1000 万美元的新大熊猫馆（配有两只刚从中国抵达的熊猫）举行开馆仪式，又观看了一场中德青少年足球赛之后，习近平已经在这里留下自己的印记。
He has cemented his closeness to Germany and Ms. Merkel, the woman many consider not just the most important leader in Europe, but also	他巩固了自己与德国和默克尔的密切关系——有许多人认为，默克尔不仅是欧洲最重要的领导人，也是西方国家事实上的领袖，尽管她并不情愿担当这

the reluctant, de facto leader of the West.	个角色。
"The election of Trump has facilitated China's aims in Europe," said Angela Stanzel, an Asia scholar at the European Council on Foreign Relations in Berlin.	"特朗普当选使中国更顺当地实现了自己在欧洲的目标，"位于柏林的欧洲对外关系委员会(European Council on Foreign Relations)的亚洲问题学者安格拉·施坦策尔(Angela Stanzel)说。
"Trump facilitates China's narrative of being the new defender of multilateralism and especially global free trade, and China sees Germany as defending that, too, as a kind of sidekick," she added. "And it fits into the Chinese idea of creating an alternative leadership to the United States."	"特朗普令中国对于担任多边主义最新维护者的叙述更为顺理成章，尤其是在全球自由贸易方面，中国认为德国也在维护这种秩序，有点像是搭档，"她接着讲道。"这符合中国的想法，那就是确立一种可以替代美国的领导角色。"
Even before this week, Mr. Xi has tried to take advantage of Mr. Trump's nationalist and protectionist policies and open disdain for multilateral institutions, using a much-publicized speech in Davos, Switzerland, in January to proclaim himself a champion of global trade, much as the United States used to do.	早在本周之前，习近平已经在竭力利用特朗普的民族主义政策和贸易保护主义政策，及其对多边组织公开的鄙视，他还利用今年在瑞典达沃斯所做的一个被广泛报道的演讲，宣称自己是全球贸易的倡导者，就像美国过去那样。
Export-dependent Germany shares China's view, with Mrs. Merkel defending everything from trade deals to the United Nations and the Paris climate accord, from which Mr. Trump has withdrawn.	依赖出口的德国与中国观点一致，默克尔也在维护各种多边关系，不管是与联合国的贸易协议，还是特朗普已经退出的巴黎气候协议。
And China recognizes how important Germany has become in influencing European Union policies toward China, including trade and human rights, especially after Britain's vote to quit the bloc.	中国知道，在影响欧盟对中国的贸易和人权等政策方面，德国起到十分重要的作用，尤其是在英国公投脱欧之后。
Speaking to Mr. Xi in Berlin on Wednesday, Mrs. Merkel said tellingly: "I am delighted to be able to welcome you in a period of unrest in the world, where China and Germany can make an effort to soothe this unrest a bit and to make a somewhat quieter world out of it." The two countries have "a comprehensive strategic partnership," she said.	周三在柏林与习近平谈话时，默克尔颇有意味地讲道："我很高兴能在一个世界动荡的时期欢迎你的到来，中德可以努力缓解这种动荡局面，造就一个更为安宁的世界。"她还表示，两国拥有"全方位战略伙伴关系"。

Mr. Xi's state visit follows another high-level trip to Germany, at the end of May, by the Chinese prime minister, Li Keqiang.	在习近平这次国事访问之前，中国还有一次高层访德活动，那就是5月底中国国务院总理李克强出访德国。
His visit also comes just after Mrs. Merkel, who is up for re-election in September, said that Mr. Trump's America was no longer a reliably close ally and that Europe must "really take our fate into our own hands."	而就在这次访问之前，将于9月竞选连任的默克尔刚刚表示，特朗普领导的美国已经不再是一个可靠的盟友，欧洲必须“真的把命运掌握在自己手中”。
In a measure of Mr. Trump's increasing unpopularity in Germany, her party's election material now refers to the United States as a "most important partner outside Europe" rather than, as four years ago, its "most important friend."	能体现出特朗普在德国越来越不受欢迎的一点是，默克尔所在政党的选举材料现在提及美国时所用的措辞是“欧洲之外最重要的伙伴”，而非四年前的“最重要的朋友”。
There are tensions, of course, between China and Germany, and China and Europe, too, but largely over trade and access to markets.	当然，中德、中欧的关系也有点紧张，但大体是在贸易和市场准入方面。
In the last year especially, Ms. Stanzel said, German officials and the German public have become "more critical of Chinese economic patterns and investments in Germany, especially in key technologies and industries where Germany is known to have a global edge."	施坦策尔表示，去年尤其如此，德国官员和德国公众“对中国的经济模式和在德投资的批评增多，尤其是在大家都知道德国拥有全球优势的关键技术领域和行业”。
Mrs. Merkel was particularly upset last year, German officials have said, when China bought the cutting-edge German robotics firm so important to manufacturing, Kuka Robotics. The Germans see China moving from demanding technical know-how from European investors to wanting to own the technology outright.	德国官员曾经表示，中国去年收购了对制造业十分重要的德国尖端机器人公司库卡机器人(Kuka Robotics)，这让默克尔特别不满。德国看到中国从一个在欧洲投资者那里要求获得技术知识，转变成想要完全拥有这项技术的国家。
But these problems pale next to Mr. Xi's fraught relations with Mr. Trump, whose public estimates of their relationship swing wildly.	但是与习近平与特朗普让人担忧的关系相比，这些问题都相形失色。特朗普对两人关系的公开评价变化十分剧烈。
The latest North Korean missile test is another strain, given Mr. Trump's public desire that China and Mr. Xi restrain Pyongyang's nuclear ambitions through stepped-up economic sanctions.	考虑到特朗普曾公开表示希望中国和习近平能通过加大经济制裁来遏制平壤的核野心，朝鲜最近再次发射导弹会成为另一个让中美关系紧张的因素。

Only last week, Mr. Trump angered China by approving a $1.4 billion arms sale to Taiwan, sanctioning a Chinese bank for evading sanctions on North Korea, warning that America would act to restrict Chinese steel imports and sending an American warship off the coast of contested islands in the South China Sea that Beijing claims.	就在上周，特朗普刚刚激怒了美国，因为他批准了价值 14 亿美元的对台军售，以破坏对朝鲜的制裁为由对一家中国银行实行制裁，还警告称美国会采取行动限制中国的钢材进口，以及派一艘美国军舰到北京宣示主权的南海有争议岛屿周围巡逻。
For all those reasons, suggested Robin Niblett, director of Chatham House, a research group based in London, Mr. Xi is likely to keep a low profile in Hamburg.	总部位于伦敦的研究机构皇家国际事务研究所(Chatham House)的主任罗宾·尼布利特(Robin Niblett)表示，因为上述原因，习近平在汉堡期间可能会保持低调。
"While China would like to gradually ramp up the idea of its global leadership, it would be better in Hamburg to keep the attention on Trump and Putin and the aftermath of Brexit," he said.	"尽管中国想逐步增强它是全球领导者的看法，但在汉堡期间大家的注意力最好还是放在特朗普和普京，以及脱欧的影响上，"他说。
"The timing for Xi is not good," Mr. Niblett said. "He will feel the risk that Trump may use foreign policy as a more fruitful appeal to his base. China-bashing, though it has some risks, is a pretty safe bet for rallying forces in the U.S."	"对习近平来说，这个时机不太好，"尼布利特说。"他会感觉到存在一种风险，即特朗普可能会把外交政策当作更有效吸引支持者的东西。抨击中国尽管也存在风险，却是在美国集合各方力量的十分有把握的赌注。"
The world has shifted since Mr. Xi's Davos speech, he said. "Xi would prefer nice clear water between a munificent China and an America focused on itself," he said. "But there's a lot of trouble out there, and China is getting wrapped up in Trump's drama, while China likes minimal drama."	他表示，自习近平在达沃斯发表讲话之后，世界已经开始发生转向。"习近平更愿意让慷慨的中国和主要关注自身的美国之间形成鲜明的对比，"他说。"但这里麻烦很多，中国又被卷入了特朗普的戏剧里面，而中国最不喜欢的就是戏剧性。"
Despite new worries in Europe about China becoming more of a competitor than a partner, Mr. Xi sees another advantage, and a challenge, in keeping the European Union sweet.	尽管欧洲已经开始担心中国会成为一个竞争者而非伙伴，但习近平看到了让欧盟保持友好的另一个优势和挑战。
China favors regional hegemonies rather than American hyperpower and sees a world of regions, where China, Russia and Europe dominate	尼布利特提到，中国偏好地区领导权而非美式的超级大国，它看到的是一个由不同个地区构成的世界，中国、俄罗斯和欧洲在各自的地区占据主导地位。

their respective areas, Mr. Niblett said.
While trying to be dominant in East Asia, China has no interest in ruffling Russia's feathers, especially with Mr. Putin in an election year and Russia as a permanent member of the United Nations Security Council.	中国竭力在东亚取得主导权，无意惹怒俄罗斯，尤其是考虑到明年是普京的大选年，俄罗斯又是联合国安理会常任理事国。
So China will take a more watchful role in Hamburg, eager to get along with everyone, but especially the Europeans.	所以，中国在汉堡会扮演一种更偏向于观察者的角色，渴望与所有人搞好关系，特别是欧洲人。
The Chinese see the European Union as "an essential partner for the kind of multilateral, globalized world China wants to see, where each region looks after itself and comes together flexibly to meet global challenges, like climate," Mr. Niblett said.	中国将欧盟看作“对实现中国想要看到的多边、全球化世界至关重要的盟友，在那个世界里，各个地区互不干涉，同时又能灵活地协作，以应对气候等全球挑战，”尼布利特说。
"The last thing China wants," he added, "is to get on worse with the E.U. now that the U.S. relationship is so fickle."	“中国最不想看到的，”他接着讲道，“就是与欧盟关系恶化，因为中美关系已经太过变化莫测。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170706/xi-merkel-trump-china-germany	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170706/xi-merkel-trump-china-germany
China Is Challenged on Bid for Unesco Heritage Status in Tibetan Area	可可西里申遗遭援藏团体反对
BEIJING — An international advocacy organization is challenging China's effort to secure special recognition from the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization for a vast, traditionally Tibetan region, arguing that the designation would disrupt the lives of nomads who have roamed its fragile lands.	北京——一个国际倡导组织正在挑战中国向联合国教科文组织（United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, 简称 Unesco）为一大片历来属于西藏的地区申请特殊称号的努力，称这项命名会破坏在那片脆弱的土地上漫游的游牧部落的生活。
The region, known as Hoh Xil or Kekexili, is part of the high-altitude plateau in Qinghai Province and is twice the size of Belgium. It is home to the endangered Tibetan antelope, or chiru, whose soft fur is so coveted for luxurious shawls known as shahtoosh that poachers had	这个名为可可西里的地区属于青海省高海拔高原的一部分，面积是比利时的两倍。那里生活着濒危动物藏羚羊，它们身上的软毛是制作“沙图什”(shahtoosh)，一种昂贵披巾的原料，因此几乎被偷猎者们洗劫殆尽。

nearly wiped out the species.
Unesco's World Heritage Committee, meeting this week in Krakow, Poland, is scheduled to vote on the designation on Friday. The organization, the International Campaign for Tibet, which is critical of China, is trying, at a minimum, to delay consideration of the application to address concerns about development plans for the region.	Unesco 下属的世界遗产委员会(World Heritage Committee)本周正在波兰的克拉科夫举行会议, 计划周五就这项命名进行投票。对中国持批评态度的国际声援西藏运动(International Campaign for Tibet)组织至少在是努力推迟对该申请的考虑, 以便消除外界对该地区发展规划的担忧。
In a report released late last week, the group argued that recognizing the region as a World Heritage site would bolster China's efforts to resettle tens of thousands of pastoralists from the plateaus into villages, while threatening the habitat of the antelope and the environment in general.	该组织上周末发布的一份报告中称, 将那个地区定为世界遗产, 会让中国更有理由将数万牧民从高原地区安置到村庄, 对藏羚羊的栖息地以及环境在整体上构成威胁。
"This controversial nomination would signify Unesco endorsement of China's forced relocation of Tibetan nomads, who have protected the grasslands and wildlife for centuries," said Matteo Mecacci, president of the Tibet organization.	"这种有争议的申遗会显得 Unesco 对中国迫使西藏牧民迁移的行动持支持态度, 那些牧民几个世纪来一直保护着那里的草原和野生动物, "该组织主席马泰奥·梅卡奇(Matteo Mecacci)说。
The annual meeting of Unesco has become unusually contentious, underscoring how debates on cultural patrimony can assume political significance.	Unesco 的年度会议已经变得饱含争议, 这突显出有关文化遗产的讨论具有多么大的政治意义。
In addition to the debate about China's designation of Hoh Xil, Israel is fighting an appeal by the Palestinian Authority to secure World Heritage status for two sites in the West Bank: the old city of Hebron and the Cave of the Patriarchs, revered by Jews, Muslim and Christians as the burial place of Abraham. Poland, this year's Unesco host, also faced a warning for allowing logging in its ancient Bialowieza Forest, which already has World Heritage status.	除了就中国对可可西里申遗产生的争论之外, 以色列也在竭力抵制巴勒斯坦民族权力机构(Palestinian Authority)提出的一项申请, 即将约旦河西岸的两个地方列为世界遗产保护区: 老城希伯伦和始祖墓穴(Cave of the Patriarchs), 后者被犹太人、穆斯林和基督教徒视为亚伯拉罕(Abraham)的墓地而备受尊崇。Unesco 年度会议的举办地波兰今年也因为允许在古老的比亚沃韦扎森林(Bialowieza Forest)伐木而受到警告, 这片森林之前已经被列为世界文化遗产。

China's government has actively sought Unesco's designations for various sites since its first application 30 years ago. China now has 50 natural or cultural heritage sites, which are defined as having "outstanding universal value." While Unesco has no enforcement powers over the places it recognizes, the organization can withdraw designations, which are considered important for promoting tourism and, in some cases, political aims.	自 30 年前第一次申遗以来，中国政府一直在积极寻求 Unesco 对各种地方的命名。现在，中国有 50 个自然或文化遗产地，它们被认为拥有“杰出的普世价值”。尽管 Unesco 对自己命名的地方没有强制权力，但该组织可以撤销命名，而这种命名被认为对推广旅游十分重要，在有些情况下还能帮助实现政治目标。
If Unesco accepts two new applications under consideration, China could become the country with the most heritage sites, surpassing Italy, which has 51. That landmark has been touted by Chinese state media as a major accomplishment. China's second application under review this year covers Gulangyu, the pedestrian-only island near the city of Xiamen, in Fujian Province.	如果 Unesco 批准了正在考虑的两项申请，中国可能会超越拥有 51 个遗产地的意大利，成为世界上遗产地最多的国家。这个里程碑事件被中国官方媒体当作一项重大成就，大肆宣传。中国今年正在接受审核的第二项申请是鼓浪屿，那是位于福建省厦门市附近的一个只容步行的岛屿。
The International Campaign for Tibet's argument is that China's designation of Hoh Xil would erode, not protect, the area's fragile ecosystem. In particular, the organization's report argued that China has declared the region a "no man's zone," discounting the unique environment and the role people play in it. The report said Unesco's review of the site did not take into account the concerns of local inhabitants, as required by its own guidelines.	国际声援西藏运动认为，将可可西里列为世界遗产将会破坏而非保护该地区脆弱的生态环境。该组织的报告特别强调，中国宣称该地区是“无人区”，完全无视那里独特的环境和人在其中扮演的角色。报告称，Unesco 对该地区的评估没有像它的准则所要求的那样，考虑当地居民的利益。
The report also complained that China's application exempted a two-and-a-half-mile-wide corridor in which a highway and railway bisect the region, allowing unfettered development. That, the report noted, would threaten the migratory paths of the antelope the designation is meant to protect.	报告还抗议中国的申请忽略了一个两英里宽的（约合 4 公里）走廊（公路和铁路从这里通过，将该地区一分为二），会带来不受控制的开发。报告指出，它会对遗产地命名力图保护的羚羊的迁徙路线构成威胁。

Officials in Beijing declined requests to comment on the opposition to its application, but Du Yue, secretary general of China's delegation to Unesco, circulated a letter in Krakow challenging the criticism of the application. The letter said that China would "fully respect the will of local herders and their traditional culture, religious beliefs and lifestyle."	北京的官员拒绝就针对该申请的反对意见置评，但中国联合国教科文组织全国委员会秘书长杜越在克拉科夫分发了一封信件，质疑对这项申请的批评。信中表示，中国会“完全尊重当地牧民的意愿，以及他们的传统文化、宗教信仰和生活方式”。
The organization's opposition puts it at odds not only with the Chinese government, but also with environmentalists and others who say the designation would protect the antelope habitat.	该组织的反对意见不仅与中国政府的观点对立，也与称这项命名会保护羚羊栖息地的环保人士及其他人意见不一。
Jin Yuanpu, director of the Cultural Industries Institute at Renmin University of China in Beijing, said that China's embrace of Unesco's heritage designations reflected a new attention to cultural preservation after the repressions of the Cultural Revolution under Mao Zedong.	位于北京的人民大学文化创意产业研究所所长金元浦表示，中国对申遗的支持反映出在毛泽东时期的文化大革命压制之后出现的对文化保护的新的关注。
"From the central government, to the Culture Ministry, to a lot of grass-roots groups, a lot of attention has been given to the work of preservation of cultural and natural relics," he said.	“从中央政府到文化部，再到很多民间的组织都对文化和自然遗产的保护非常重视，”他说。
He added that the designation was "in line with Tibetans' interests" and would help fight poaching of the Tibetan antelope, which was dramatized in "Mountain Patrol: Kekexili," a 2004 film directed by Lu Chuan.	他还表示，此次申遗“符合西藏人民的利益”，将有助于打击偷猎藏羚羊的行为——陆川 2004 年导演的影片《可可西里》就是依据偷猎事件改编。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170707/china-tibet-unesco	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170707/china-tibet-unesco
At the Movies in China, Some Propaganda With Your Popcorn	在中国电影院，吃着爆米花接受“中国梦”教育
BEIJING — The house lights dimmed, and moviegoers in a Beijing cinema settled in with their popcorn for some of Hollywood's finest escapist entertainment.	北京——室内的灯光变暗，北京一家电影院的观众们带着他们的爆米花安顿下来，等着即将开始的好莱坞一部最精彩的娱乐大片。
But first they got a dose of Communist Party propaganda, courtesy of	但他们首先得接受一点共产党的宣传，这是中国电影当局免费赠送的：看一

China's film authorities: a short video message promoting "socialist core values."	段宣传“社会主义核心价值观”的短片。
Chinese cinemas have been ordered to play one of four government-issued videos before every movie screening. Theater managers in several Chinese cities confirmed on Wednesday that they had received the order, which went into effect last week.	中国电影院已接到命令，在每次放映正片之前，需播放四段政府发行的视频之一。几个中国城市的影院经理们周三证实说，他们已经收到了这项上周生效的命令。
Besides "socialist core values," the videos promote President Xi Jinping's cherished "Chinese dream" and two other Communist Party slogans, the "Four Comprehensives" and the "Five in One Overall Arrangement."	除了“社会主义核心价值观”外，还有宣传国家主席习近平珍爱的“中国梦”、以及另外两个共产党的口号、“四个全面”和“五位一体总体布局”的短片。
To make such abstruse fare more palatable to audiences, the videos, produced by the State Administration of Press, Publication, Radio, Film and Television, feature A-list Chinese celebrities, including Jackie Chan, Angelababy and Kris Wu.	为了让这些费解的短片更能让观众接受，这些由国家新闻出版广电总局制作的视频中有成龙、Angelababy 和吴亦凡等一线明星出演。
In a video played before a screening of "Transformers: The Last Knight" at a Beijing theater on Wednesday, the actress Li Bingbing, who was in the previous "Transformers" installment, appears before a somber gray backdrop.	周三，在北京一家影院放映《变形金刚5：最后的骑士》之前，曾出演《变形金刚4》的演员李冰冰出现在一个暗淡的灰色背景下。
"No matter what you do, as long as you don't disappoint our country, our society, our people and your family, then you are helping to realize the Chinese dream," Ms. Li says.	“不管你是什么职业，只要对得起国家、社会、民族、家人，你就是在给中国梦的实现助力，”李冰冰说。
The celebrities appear one by one, quoting from ancient poetry and national leaders. In the video extolling the "Four Comprehensives," Donnie Yen, who was recently featured in "Rogue One: A Star Wars Story," reads a quote from Mao Zedong.	名人们逐一出现，朗读古诗和国家领导人的语录。在宣传“四个全面”的视频中，最近曾参演《侠盗一号：星球大战外传》的甄子丹朗读了毛泽东语录的一句话。
It is not clear what, if any, consequences there would be for theaters in	目前还不清楚，中国影院如果不按照命令去做的话，是否会有某种后果。这

China that do not follow the order, which comes as government scrutiny of the entertainment industry has increased.	项命令是在政府对娱乐业的审查有所增加时出台的。
Last month, a number of popular entertainment gossip blogs were shut down after a meeting in which Chinese cyberspace regulators called on internet companies to create a “healthy, uplifting environment for mainstream opinion” by resisting sensationalist celebrity coverage. In the past, Mr. Xi has called on artists to use their talents to serve the nation and “disseminate contemporary Chinese values.”	上个月，一些深受欢迎的娱乐八卦微信公众号被关闭，之前，中国的网络监管机构曾在一次会议上呼吁互联网公司通过拒绝有关名人的耸人听闻报道，来营造“健康向上的主流舆论环境”。习近平也曾呼吁艺术家们用自己的才华为国家服务，“传播中国当代价值观”。
Response to the videos appears to have been mixed.	对这些短片的响应似乎毁誉参半。
“Many came late for the movie just to avoid the short video, and others complained about the video after watching the movie,” the English-language Global Times, a party-affiliated Chinese newspaper, quoted a cinema employee as saying.	隶属共产党的报纸、《环球时报》英文版引用电影院一位员工的话说：“许多人为了躲过短片迟到，其他人在看了正片后对短片表示不满。”
Others, however, were more supportive. “I thought the video was great,” said Zhang Xun, 34, as she walked out of a theater in Beijing. “It was easy to understand, it spreads positive energy, and it was relevant to my life.”	但也有人更支持这些短片。“我觉得这个短片很不错，”34岁的张荀（音）从北京一家影院走出来时说。“短片很容易理解，传播的是正能量，与我的生活有关。”
Other countries in Asia have required patriotic messages before film screenings, though China’s edict is more overtly political. Last year, moviegoers in India were arrested after they were accused of refusing to stand for the national anthem, as required by a Supreme Court ruling. In 2008, a man in Thailand was charged with lèse-majesté — offending the dignity of the monarch — for not standing as the royal anthem was played in a movie theater.	亚洲其他国家也曾要求在放映电影之前播放爱国信息，不过，中国的命令更具政治色彩。去年，印度的电影观众曾因拒绝在播放国歌时站立的指控被逮捕，印度最高法院的一项裁决要求人们那样做。2008年，泰国一名男子因在电影院播放颂圣歌时没有站立，被指控犯有“不敬罪”，也就是冒犯了国王的尊严。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170707/propaganda-movies-communi	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170707/propaganda-movies-communi

st-party-china	st-party-china
Muffled by China, Taiwan President Embraces Twitter as Megaphone	面对北京孤立政策，蔡英文尝试 Twitter 外交
TAIPEI, Taiwan — Over the past year, China has doubled down on its campaign to reduce Taiwan’s presence on the world stage, whether by luring away its few remaining diplomatic allies — most recently Panama — or blocking its participation in international organizations like Interpol and the World Health Organization.	台湾台北——过去一年中，中国大力削弱了台湾在世界舞台上的存在，无论是吸引走台湾剩下为数不多的外交盟友——最近的一个例子是巴拿马——还是阻止其参加国际刑警组织和世界卫生组织等国际机构。
Now President Tsai Ing-wen of Taiwan is trying to tweet the island back into the global conversation.	如今，台湾总统蔡英文正在试图用发推文的方法，让台湾岛重返全球对话。
Ms. Tsai had her first encounter with Twitter’s reach in December, when Donald J. Trump, newly elected to the White House, wrote on Twitter that she had called to congratulate him. His announcement made headlines around the world. It was believed to have been the first time an American president or president-elect had spoken with a leader of the island since at least 1979, when the United States broke diplomatic ties with Taiwan, formally known as the Republic of China, as part of its recognition of the People’s Republic of China.	去年 12 月，蔡英文首次感受到了 Twitter 的影响范围，当时新近当选总统的唐纳德·特朗普在 Twitter 上写道，蔡英文已打电话给他表示祝贺。特朗普的宣布成了世界各地的头条新闻。据说，那是自从 1979 年，作为承认中华人民共和国的一部分，美国与台湾（正式名称是中华民国）断交以来，美国总统或候任总统首次与台湾领导人通话。
Weeks later, Ms. Tsai revived her moribund Twitter account, posting regularly in English and sometimes in Japanese. Since then, her followers have nearly tripled.	几周后，蔡英文重新启用了她封尘的 Twitter 帐号，定期用英文、有时也用日文发推文。那以后，她的粉丝数量达到了以前的三倍。
Her office says her rekindled interest was spurred by outreach from Twitter itself, not by the Trump episode. But there are certain parallels between her and President Trump. Where Mr. Trump uses the service to bypass what he considers a biased news establishment and to address the public directly, Ms. Tsai appears to see it as a means to	蔡英文的办公室表示，她重新对 Twitter 感兴趣是因为 Twitter 的拓展能力，而不是因为特朗普事件。但是，她与特朗普总统有一些相似之处。特朗普及 Twitter 是要绕过他认为带有偏见的新闻机构，直接向公众发表意见，蔡英文似乎把 Twitter 当成是规避中国迫使台湾与世界隔离的工具。

circumvent the diplomatic isolation imposed by China.
"Twitter, and more broadly, digital diplomacy, provides Taiwan with an easy and cost-effective way to connect and engage internationally," said Danielle Cave, a Google Policy Fellow at the Digital Asia Hub, a nonprofit organization based in Hong Kong that researches society and the internet.	"Twitter、或更广泛地说数字外交，为台湾提供了一种简单易用且划算的连接和参与国际社会的方法，"数字亚洲中心(Digital Asia Hub)的谷歌政策研究员丹尼尔·卡夫(Danielle Cave)说，该中心专门研究与社会和互联网有关的问题。
"Frankly, Taiwan's future is tenuous, and their international space is increasingly limited at a time when they need their voice to be heard more than ever," Ms. Cave said.	"坦率地说，台湾的未来非常脆弱，他们的国际空间越来越受限制，而他们比以往任何时候都需要让世界听到他们的声音，"卡夫说。
China claims self-governed Taiwan as part of its territory, and its diplomatic relations with other countries are conditional on their agreement not to recognize the island as independent. That has led to Taiwan's exclusion from the United Nations and other international forums.	中国称自治的台湾是中国领土的一部分，中国与其他国家的外交关系是以不承认台湾是独立国家为条件的。这导致了台湾被排斥在联合国和其他国际平台之外。
Only 20 countries maintain formal relations with Taiwan, a list that has shrunk by two since Ms. Tsai took office in May 2016. She has resisted demands from Beijing that she endorse the so-called One China principle, which holds that Taiwan and China are part of a single country, although each side has its own views on how that country is defined.	目前只有 20 个国家仍与台湾保持正式的外交关系，自从蔡英文在 2016 年 5 月出任总统以来，又减少了两个。她拒绝了北京让她对所谓的"一个中国"原则表示赞同的要求，"一个中国"指的是台湾和中国同属一个国家，虽然两岸对如何界定这个国家有自己的看法。
In December, Mr. Trump briefly cast doubt on America's adherence to its One China policy, when he broke with longstanding practice by sharing a call with Ms. Tsai. He later said he would honor the policy, but his Twitter message announcing the conversation stunned China watchers and gave Ms. Tsai her first taste of global exposure on social	去年 12 月，特朗普与蔡英文通电话一事，曾让人们对美国是否继续坚持"一个中国"政策产生了怀疑，特朗普的做法打破了长期以来的传统。他后来表示会遵守这项政策，但他用 Twitter 宣布两人通话的做法震惊了中国观察人士，也让蔡英文首次尝到了在全球社交媒体上亮相的滋味。 media.

Weeks later, Ms. Tsai stopped by Twitter headquarters in San Francisco, on her way back from visiting diplomatic allies in Central America. The company had contacted Ms. Tsai's office about reviving her account, according to Vincent Chao, chief of staff to the secretary general at the Presidential Office.	几周后，蔡英文在中美洲访问了台湾的外交盟友后，途经旧金山时曾前往 Twitter 总部。据总统府秘书长办公室主任赵怡翔说，Twitter 曾与蔡英文办公室联系恢复帐号的事宜。
Ms. Tsai, who joined Twitter in 2010, had previously posted in Chinese, but she stopped in May 2014, primarily because relatively few people in Taiwan use the service, Mr. Chao said. For domestic engagement, Ms. Tsai posts in Chinese on her Facebook page, which has more than 2.1 million followers.	赵怡翔说，蔡英文曾在 2010 年建了个 Twitter 帐号，她过去用中文发推，但在 2014 年 5 月就停了下来，主要是因为台湾不太用 Twitter。蔡英文在自己 Facebook 页面上发中文帖子与国内民众交流，她的 Facebook 帐号的粉丝数量超过 210 万。
Describing the past few months of Twitter diplomacy as "fairly successful," Mr. Chao said that the number of people who follow the account had risen since January from 36,800 to more than 100,000. They include foreign journalists and others who can communicate Taiwan's positions.	赵怡翔把过去几个月的 Twitter 外交描述为“相当成功”，他说，自 1 月份以来，这个 Twitter 帐户的粉丝数量已经从 3.68 万增加到了 10 万以上。粉丝包括外国记者及其他可以传递台湾立场的人士。
"It's followed by journalists from most major publications from around the world," he said. "Increasingly, we're seeing interest from politicians in the U.S., Japan and other democracies."	"该帐号的粉丝中有来自世界各地大多数主要出版物的记者，"他说。"我们看到越来越多的美国、日本和其他民主国家的政治人士对这个帐号感兴趣。"
Alex Huang, a spokesman for the Presidential Office, noted: "The broad role of this is to increase international exposure for the president and Taiwan."	总统府发言人黄重谚指出："这个帐号的广泛作用是增加总统和台湾在国际上的曝光率。"
"There's a core group of people working on Twitter that have been with President Tsai for quite a while, and we also have people who provide input from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and other government	"有一个从事 Twitter 工作的核心小组，他们与蔡英文总统一起工作已经有一段时间了，在具体问题上，我们也有人从外交部及其他政府部门得到相关意见，"他说。

agencies on specific issues," he said.
For her part, Ms. Cave said: "The president's tweets are clearly crafted for an international audience." She added: "Most of her tweets are concerned with foreign affairs, and given how little international media the president has done since she took office, it has become the primary vehicle to keep track of Taiwan's international priorities and how the president sees cross-strait relations."	就蔡英文而言，卡夫说：“总统的推文明显地是为国际听众精心编写的。”她补充说：“蔡英文的推文大部分都涉及外交事务，考虑到自从上任以来，总统在国际媒体上露面的次数很少，发推文成了追踪台湾的国际首要事务和总统对两岸关系看法的主要渠道。”
Since her return to Twitter, Ms. Tsai has posted more than 100 times. Initial messages rarely broached sensitive subjects. But that has changed in recent weeks. In May, she wrote 13 times about Taiwan's exclusion from the World Health Assembly, which happened at Beijing's behest.	自从重新使用 Twitter 之后，蔡英文已发推 100 多次。最初发的帖子很少提到敏感话题。但最近几周已经发生了变化。今年 5 月，她对台湾被排除在世界卫生大会之外发了 13 次推，排挤台湾是北京的要求。
Many recent posts have dealt with attempts by China to isolate Taiwan, including Panama's decision to sever diplomatic ties with Taiwan in favor of recognizing Beijing. "China's coercion & threats won't bring two sides closer, they will drive our two ppl's apart. We will never surrender to such intimidation" she wrote hours after the news broke.	最近发的不少推文与中国隔离台湾的企图有关，包括巴拿马与台湾断绝外交关系、承认北京的决定。这条消息传出后的几小时，蔡英文写道：“中国的强迫和威胁不会让两岸更靠近，只会让我们的人民离得更远。我们永远不会被这种恐吓屈服。”
On the anniversary of the June 1989 military crackdown on pro-democracy demonstrators in Tiananmen Square in Beijing, Ms. Tsai also posted several times, saying the protesters "inspired a generation" and offering to share Taiwan's experiences in its own transition to democracy.	在 1989 年 6 月对北京天安门广场上的民主示威者进行军事镇压的纪念日，蔡英文也多次发推文说，抗议者们“启发了一代人”，她还提出要分享台湾的民主过渡经验。
Although Twitter is blocked in China, some citizens who employ virtual private networks to bypass their country's "great firewall" are clearly following Ms. Tsai's account, and even the state news media is taking	虽然 Twitter 在中国大陆被屏蔽，但也有中国人用虚拟私人网络绕过政府的“防火长城”，显然在关注蔡英文的账号，就连中国的国家新闻媒体也注意到了。

note.
Mr. Chao said that when Ms. Tsai wrote her Tiananmen anniversary messages, "there were a lot of Chinese netizens that posted comments saying, 'We hope you can help encourage China to become democratic,'" while others were critical. "We also had Chinese people saying, 'This has nothing to do with Taiwan.'"	赵怡翔说，蔡英文发有关天安门周年纪念的消息时，“有很多大陆网友发表评论说，‘我们希望你能帮助中国的民主化。’”也有持批评观点的评论：“我们也看到有大陆人说，‘这和台湾毫无关系。’”
Last week, People's Daily used Twitter to call attention to an article titled "Taiwan leader's Twitter post infuriates the public," in response to her message in which she thanked Japan, in Japanese, for its support of Taiwan's bid to join the Trans-Pacific Partnership trade deal.	上周，《人民日报》用 Twitter 来引起人们对一篇文章的注意，该文的题目是《台湾领导人的 Twitter 发文激怒公众》，是对蔡英文推文的回应，蔡英文用日本发推，感谢日本支持台湾加入跨太平洋伙伴关系贸易协定的努力。
Mr. Chao welcomed the new online arena for cross-strait engagement.	赵怡翔对让两岸接触的这个新在线平台表示欢迎。
"It's not just Chinese people being angry at President Tsai," he said. "Hopefully they see it as an area where they can freely discuss their views on different situations."	"这不只是让中国人对蔡英文表示愤怒的地方，"他说。"希望他们能把 Twitter 看作是一个他们可以自由地讨论他们对不同情况的看法的平台。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170707/taiwan-tsai-twitter	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170707/taiwan-tsai-twitter
Crowds in Hong Kong Line Up to See China's First Aircraft Carrier	中国航母“辽宁号”访港，传递爱国主义信息
HONG KONG — Hundreds of people in Hong Kong lined up on Saturday to visit China's first aircraft carrier, the Liaoning, which is making a five-day port call here to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the former British colony's return to Chinese rule.	香港——上周六，成百上千的香港人排队参观中国的第一艘航空母舰“辽宁号”，它正在这里进行为期五天的停靠，以纪念香港回归 20 周年。
The ship's visit is part of efforts to raise the profile of China's military and inspire patriotism in the semiautonomous city, analysts and officials said. Hong Kong has been the site of large street protests in recent years as calls for increased local autonomy and even independence grow. Young people are increasingly likely to call	分析人士和政府官员表示，这次访问属于提升中国军事形象努力的一部分，在这个半自治城市激发爱国精神。最近几年，随着本地自治乃至独立的呼声日渐增高，香港出现了大规模的街头抗议。年轻人越来越喜欢称自己是“香港人”，而非“中国人”，当地官员表示他们希望能改变这种状况。

themselves “Hong Kongers” instead of “Chinese,” which local officials say they want to change.
The carrier’s visit is intended to send several messages, said Jean-Pierre Cabestan, a professor of government and international studies at Hong Kong Baptist University.	在香港浸会大学(Hong Kong Baptist University)研究政府和国际问题的教授高敬文(Jean-Pierre Cabestan)表示,“辽宁号”访港意在传达几个信息。
“The first, to Hong Kong society, is to remember that you are Chinese and Hong Kong is part of China,” he said. “The second message is to be proud of being Chinese, because now we are a powerful force to be reckoned with, on par with the United States.”	“第一个信息是,让香港社会记住你们是中国人,记住香港是中国的一部分,”他说。“第二个信息是,要为自己是中国人而自豪,因为我们现在是一个可以依靠的强大力量,与美国不相上下。”
This past week, President Xi Jinping of China reviewed troops at a military base here and delivered a tough speech warning against crossing a “red line” of challenging central government authority or Chinese sovereignty over Hong Kong.	上周,中国国家主席习近平检阅了中国人民解放军驻港部队,并发表了措辞强硬的演讲,警告香港不要越过“红线”,挑战中央政府的权威或中国在香港的主权。
The Liaoning and three accompanying ships, the frigate Yantai and the destroyers Jinan and Yinchuan, sailed through the Taiwan Strait en route to Hong Kong this past week. Self-ruled Taiwan, which China claims as part of its territory, dispatched aircraft and ships to monitor the group’s passage, its Ministry of National Defense said.	上周,“辽宁号”与三艘属舰——护卫舰“烟台号”、驱逐舰“济南号”和“银川号”——穿越台湾海峡来到香港。中国宣称属于领土范围但实行自治的台湾派出了飞机和舰艇,监视这支舰队的通行,该消息来自台湾国防部。
The port call also comes as China hopes to exert authority over its claims in the South China Sea. In May, China complained after a United States Navy ship sailed within 12 miles of an artificially built island that China claims in the South China Sea. The United States Air Force said two B-1B Lancer bombers flew over the South China Sea on Thursday while on a training mission from Guam.	这次进港停靠也发生在中国希望在南海对它宣示主权的海域行使权力之时。今年5月,一艘美国军舰曾在中国宣称主权的一个南海人工岛屿12海里内航行,中国对此表示了抗议。上周四,美国空军又表示,两架美国B-1B枪骑兵战略轰炸机在从关岛出发执行飞行任务时飞越了南海海域。
The Liaoning’s visit to Hong Kong is its first port call outside mainland	军事分析人士表示,“辽宁号”的访港行程,是它在中国大陆之外的首次停靠,

China and the first time the 999-foot ship has been open to the public, military analysts say. Residents waited overnight for 2,000 tickets, and 1,600 more were distributed through local organizations.	它也是这艘 999 英尺（合 306 米）长的航空母舰第一次向公众开放。香港居民排了一夜的队争抢 2000 张参观券，另有 1600 多张票则通过当地机构发放。
At the Central district piers along Victoria Harbor on Saturday, two distinct crowds mingled. To one side, groups of young people, including many expatriate workers, met to board junks for leisurely cruises during which they would drink and swim in isolated bays. On the other side, patriotic ticket holders waited for rides to board the Liaoning, which was at anchor to the northwest of Hong Kong Island.	上周六，在维多利亚港边上的中环码头，两群不同的人交汇了。一边是一群来这里碰面准备乘中式帆船出海游玩的年轻人，其中包括许多外籍员工，他们会在无人的海湾游泳喝酒。另一边则是手持爱国主义船票的人，等着搭船登上停靠在香港岛西北部的“辽宁号”。
“This shows our country is growing up,” said one man, who would give only his surname, Ouyang, and was from the city of Foshan, in neighboring Guangdong Province. “We can compete with the United States now, because you bully us.”	“我们国家长大了，”一名自称姓欧阳的男子说，他来自紧邻香港的广东省的佛山市。“我们可以比一比美国，因为你们美国欺负我们。”
Dickie Wong, 41, a financial analyst, said the aircraft carrier’s port call would inspire Hong Kong residents to feel more Chinese. “I think they want to show everyone, not just Hong Kong people but everyone in the world, that China’s military is strong enough to have a huge aircraft carrier,” he said.	41 岁的金融分析师迪基·黄(Dickie Wong)表示，这艘航空母舰的到港会让香港居民觉得自己更像中国人。“我觉得他们是想让所有人，不只是对香港人，也包括全世界的人看到，中国的军事力量很强大，足以拥有巨大的航空母舰，”他说。
Mr. Wong was given four tickets by a relative, but his family was turned away because his two children were under age 11 and not allowed to board the aircraft.	迪基·黄从一个亲戚那里拿到了 4 张票，但他的家人被拒，因为他的两个孩子年龄不足 11 岁，不被允许登上这艘航空母舰。
The Chinese Navy did not allow members of the news media to visit the ship, citing national security.	中国海军以国家安全为理由，也不允许新闻媒体登船。
For those who could not secure tickets, the ship could be glimpsed by traveling to Hong Kong Disneyland on Lantau Island, squeezing	没弄到票的人可以前往大屿山的香港迪士尼乐园，钻过一道栅栏，沿着一道滑溜溜的混凝土防波堤走上几分钟，在那里领略这艘航母的风姿。

through a fence and walking along a slippery concrete breakwater for several minutes.
"I and the people of Hong Kong are very honored to have it come here," said Eric Cheng, 37, an insurance worker who took the Star Ferry to Disneyland Resort Pier, which gave a close look at the Liaoning. "It's not many Chinese who see it this close." He added, while pausing from taking pictures of the Liaoning, "We feel more Chinese."	"它能来这里，我们香港人感到非常荣幸，"37岁的保险从业人员埃里克·程(Eric Cheng)说，他乘天星小轮去了迪士尼乐园码头，那里可以近距离观看"辽宁号"。"没多少中国人能这么近地看到它，"他接着讲道，一边暂时停下了拍"辽宁号"的动作，"我们感觉自己更像中国人了。"
Not everyone was happy about the Liaoning's arrival. Some newspapers documented the exhaust belching from the ship, and the pictures were reposted widely on social media.	不是所有人都对"辽宁号"的到来感到高兴。一些报纸拍下了这艘航母喷黑烟的景象，这些照片在社交媒体上被广为转发。
The ship, which was once known as the Varyag, was built in a Ukrainian shipyard in the late 1980s. After the collapse of the Soviet Union, the ship languished in the Black Sea until it was brought through the Bosphorus and around the Cape of Good Hope to China. It was ostensibly purchased for use as a floating casino in the Chinese territory of Macau, although it was later revealed that the buyer was a front for China's navy. The ship was retrofitted in the port city of Dalian in northeastern China and commissioned in 2012.	这艘航母原名"瓦良格号"(Varyag)，是上世纪八十年代在一家乌克兰造船厂建造。苏联解体之后，这艘航母一直滞留在黑海，后来被拉着穿越博斯普鲁斯海峡，绕过好望角，来到中国。表面上，购买这艘航母是为了在属于中国领土范围的澳门将之改造成一座海上赌场，但后来有消息曝光，称买家是给中国海军做幌子。这艘航母在中国东北部城市大连进行了升级改造，于2012年开始编入现役。
China's first home-built aircraft carrier was launched in April and is undergoing equipment testing and trials, the Ministry of National Defense said. The ship was based on the design of the Liaoning, complete with a ski-jump ramp for aircraft takeoff.	中国国防部表示，中国第一艘自主研发的航空母舰已于今年4月下水，现在正在进行设备调试和试验。这艘航母的设计以"辽宁号"为基础，采用了滑跃式起飞装置。
Within 20 years, China will probably have four or five aircraft carriers, said Richard A. Bitzinger, the coordinator of the military transformations program at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore.	新加坡南洋理工大学(Nanyang Technological University)军事转型项目协调员理查德·A·毕辛格(Richard A. Bitzinger)表示，在20年时间里，中国或许将拥有四到五艘航空母舰。

“The Liaoning is like training wheels for the People’s Liberation Army Navy,” he said. “It will help train up a cadre of pilots and let them get smart on deck-based carrier operations.”	“‘辽宁号’就像是人民解放军海军的辅助轮，”他说。“帮助训练飞行员骨干，让他们学习舰基航母操作。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/china-aircraft-carrier-liaoning-hong-kong	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/china-aircraft-carrier-liaoning-hong-kong
Asia Society Blames Staff for Barring Hong Kong Activist’s Speech	亚洲协会禁止黄之锋发言，被指进行自我审查
HONG KONG — A week after a leading democracy activist in Hong Kong was barred from speaking at a literary event at the local chapter of the Asia Society, embroiling the group in accusations of censorship, the organization sought to tamp down the controversy on Friday.	香港——香港一位重要的民主活动人士被禁止在亚洲协会香港分会的一个朗读会上发言一周之后，这个组织受到进行自我审查的指责，周五它试图平息相关争议。
The event, to feature Joshua Wong, a leader of the 2014 pro-democracy demonstrations, was planned for the release of “Hong Kong 20/20: Reflections on a Borrowed Place,” a collection of work from writers discussing the 20th anniversary of the former British colony’s return to Chinese control. Jason Y. Ng, president of PEN Hong Kong, the literature and free speech group behind the anthology, said the organization decided to change venues because of the ban.	这次活动是前英国殖民地香港回归中国 20 周年纪念作品集《反思香港 20 / 20: 借用之境》(Hong Kong 20/20: Reflections on a Borrowed Place) 的新书发布会，本来安排了 2014 年民主示威活动的领导人黄之锋(Joshua Wong) 到场。文学和言论自由团体美国笔会(PEN America)是这部作品集的出版方，其主席杰森·Y·吴(Jason Y. Ng)表示，由于这个禁令，该团体决定更换场地。
“We couldn’t let that happen because it goes against what we stand for,” Mr. Ng said. “It’s really hard for me to explain to Joshua or any other contributor that you can contribute, you can write, but you can’t read at the launch.”	“我们不能让这种情况发生，因为它违背了我们的立场。”吴先生说：“我很难向黄之锋和其他供稿人解释，你可以供稿，你可以写，但你不能在发布会上朗读。”
The Asia Society, based in New York, issued a statement on Friday that said it took the issue “very seriously,” while blaming “an error in judgment at the staff level” for the decision.	总部位于纽约的亚洲协会周五发表了一项声明，称对这个问题“非常重视”，同时把这个决定归咎于“员工层面的判断错误”。
The attempt to prevent Mr. Wong from participating in the event has	阻止黄之锋参与这个活动的企图，突显了人们对香港自由言论的忧虑，香港

highlighted concerns about free speech in Hong Kong, a semiautonomous Chinese territory that was promised it could maintain its own political, economic and legal systems after the 1997 handover from Britain. The episode has also renewed questions about the influence that China, and people with deep business interests in China, hold over universities, nongovernmental organizations and other groups that rely on wealthy donors.	是半自治的中国领土，本来的承诺是在 1997 年从英国手里移交给中国后可以维持自己的政治、经济和法律制度。这一事件也再次引起了人们对于中国以及在中国具有深厚商业利益的人要挟那些依赖富有捐赠者的大学、非政府组织等团体的质疑。
"I have watched with alarm over the past decade the increasing force field that has been projected by China on think tanks, universities, civil society organizations and cultural groups," said Orville Schell, director of the Center on U.S.-China Relations at the Asia Society. "The reality is that if you want to work with China, you have to be discreet. I would say it's a worrisome trend."	"过去十年来，我警惕地看到中国在智库、大学、公民团体和文化团体的势力范围不断增长。"亚洲协会美中关系中心主任夏伟(Orville Schell)表示，“现实是，如果你想和中国共事，你必须谨慎。我觉得这是一个令人担忧的趋势。”
Mr. Wong was a leader of the 2014 Umbrella Movement, which takes its name from the umbrellas protesters used to defend themselves from police pepper spray during a monthslong occupation of major roadways in Hong Kong. The demonstrators were calling for a more direct say in the election of Hong Kong's chief executive, the top political office. China's central government had proposed direct elections, but only of candidates who had been vetted by a largely pro-Beijing nominating committee, a limitation that the protesters and pro-democracy lawmakers rejected.	黄之锋是 2014 年“雨伞运动”的领导人，该活动占据香港主要道路几个月之久，参加者用雨伞来保护自己免遭警察的胡椒喷雾，因此得名“雨伞运动”。示威者要求在选举香港最高行政长官时拥有更直接的选举权。中国中央政府曾经提议进行直接选举，但候选人必须先经过一个基本上亲北京的提名委员会的审核，而示威者和亲民主的立法者拒绝这样的限制。
The book event last month was moved to the Foreign Correspondents' Club. Mr. Wong ended up not attending, as he was participating in a protest where he was arrested.	上个月的新书发布会后来搬到了外国记者俱乐部。黄之锋由于参加抗议活动遭到逮捕，没有参加这个发布会。

In the fall, the Hong Kong Center of the Asia Society canceled a screening of a documentary on the Umbrella Movement because of concerns that a panel on the film would have only included pro-democracy viewpoints.	秋天的时候，亚洲协会香港中心取消了一个“雨伞运动”纪录片的放映活动，因为担心这部电影放映后的小组讨论只包括亲民主观点。
Representative Chris Smith, a Republican of New Jersey and co-chairman of the Congressional-Executive Commission on China, said this week that the Asia Society had “some explaining to do” over the cancellations and that he would seek to understand whether the decisions were made “because of self-censorship or under direct threats from Beijing.”	美国国会及行政当局中国委员会（Congressional-Executive Commission on China，简称 CECC）的联席主席、新泽西共和党众议员克里斯·史密斯 (Chris Smith) 本周表示，亚洲协会对取消计划“有一些解释工作要做”，他将努力了解这个决定究竟是“出于自我审查，还是来自北京的直接威胁”。
“It is sad to see this venerable organization kowtowing to Beijing’s ‘red lines’ in Hong Kong and abandoning its core mission to educate and build bridges,” Mr. Smith added, according to a written statement.	根据一份书面声明，史密斯还表示：“令人难过的是，在香港，这个很有声望的组织对北京的‘红线’卑躬屈膝，放弃了教育和搭建桥梁的核心使命。”
The Asia Society said in its statement that the group, “throughout its history, has hosted events at all of its global locations with speakers representing all sides of major Asia-related issues.”	亚洲协会在声明中表示，该组织“自诞生以来，在其全球各地的分会举办了各种活动，演讲嘉宾代表着与亚洲相关问题的方方面面”。
S. Alice Mong, the executive director of the Asia Society Hong Kong Center, said in a message to members that the organization had “received no representations from the Chinese government on this matter.”	亚洲协会香港中心行政总监孟淑娟女士 (S. Alice Mong) 在发给成员的信息中说，该组织“在这件事上没有收到过中国政府的任何意见”。
The Hong Kong chapter declined to comment further. Mr. Wong wrote on Twitter that he was “disappointed to learn that the leadership of @AsiaSociety had not taken any measures to remedy the erosion to the freedom of the press.”	香港分会拒绝进一步置评。黄之锋在 Twitter 上写道：他很失望“@AsiaSociety 的领导层没有采取任何措施来弥补新闻自由遭受的侵蚀”。
Ronnie Chan, a billionaire property developer and philanthropist in	香港的亿万富豪房地产开发商、慈善家陈启宗 (Ronnie Chan) 是亚洲协会的

Hong Kong, is co-chairman of the Asia Society and chairman of the Asia Society's Hong Kong Center. He was also an outspoken supporter of Leung Chun-ying, the former chief executive who was a target of the 2014 protests. Mr. Chan did not respond to a request for comment made Friday through his company, Hang Lung Properties.	联席主席，也是亚洲协会香港中心主席。他曾直言不讳地支持 2014 年抗议活动的目标、前香港行政长官梁振英。陈启宗周五没有回应通过其公司恒隆地产转交的置评请求。
The Asia Society noted that Mr. Wong spoke at an event at its New York headquarters in May. The discussion was invitation-only and off the record, a decision that was made in part because the opportunity to host came too late for a large, public event, Susan Jakes, editor of the Asia Society's publication ChinaFile, wrote on Twitter.	亚洲协会指出，黄之锋 5 月份在其纽约总部的一个活动中发表了讲话。亚洲协会出版物《中参馆》的编辑翟淑珍(Susan Jakes)在 Twitter 上写道：这个讨论只有受邀者可以参加，而且是非正式的，做出这个决定的部分原因是时机太晚了，无法办成一个大型的公开活动。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/hong-kong-joshua-wong-censorship	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/hong-kong-joshua-wong-censorship
'Regulations Kill' the Vibe for Hong Kong's Indie Music Scene	拥挤的香港容不下独立音乐的梦想
HONG KONG — Just after the rock band finished its set, a squad of police officers in riot gear swept into the industrial building, past the freight-elevator lobby, and through the doors of Hidden Agenda, a ground-floor music club in Hong Kong.	香港——就在摇滚乐队结束演出后，一队穿着防暴装备的警察冲进这座工业大楼，穿过货梯大堂，闯入了位于一楼的音乐俱乐部 Hidden Agenda。
Shouting ensued, police dogs barked, and four musicians from Britain and the United States dialed lawyers from behind a black curtain that separated them from a bewildered audience, according to people who witnessed the episode on a recent spring evening.	这一幕发生在今年春天的一个夜晚。据目击者称，随后，尖叫声响起，警犬狂吠，在一块将他们与困惑的观众隔开的黑色幕布后面，四位来自英国和美国的音乐人给自己的律师打了电话。
"I am not a criminal," the club's owner, Hui Chung-wo, said he told the officers. They arrested him anyway, on suspicion of allowing foreign citizens to perform without work visas. He was detained for 22 hours, he said, and is expected in court this month.	"我不是罪犯，"俱乐部老板许仲和称他这样对警察说。但他们还是以涉嫌允许没有工作签证的外国公民表演为名将其拘捕。他说自己被拘留 22 个小时，预计于本月出庭。

Few indie musicians in Hong Kong were surprised by the raid. Hidden Agenda, for example, has shuttered three previous locations because of regulatory problems since 2009.	很少有香港独立音乐人对此次警方突查感到意外。以 Hidden Agenda 为例，从 2009 年起，它此前所在的三个地点皆因监管问题被取缔。
"Live houses are always closing down from lack of funds or building regulations," said Jerry Tse, the bass player in the rap-metal band Sexy Hammer.	"展演空间总是因为缺乏资金或违反建筑监管规定而被关闭，"说唱金属乐队性感锤仔(Sexy Hammer)的贝斯手阿钊(Jerry Tse)说。
Policy experts say that Mr. Hui's troubles at Hidden Agenda, the beating heart of Hong Kong's "live house" indie music scene, illustrate how zoning and performance rules in this city of 7.4 million are so restrictive that they impede artistic expression and cultural development.	政策专家表示，许仲和的 Hidden Agenda 遭遇的麻烦——它是香港展演空间(live house)独立音乐圈的心脏——表明这座 740 万人口的城市区域规划和表演规定很有局限性，阻碍了艺术表达和文化发展。
Local manufacturers mostly relocated to the nearby Chinese mainland a generation ago, turning acres of vacant factories into ideal spaces for up-and-coming bands to kick out the jams. A handful of entrepreneurs opened clubs that were lean on furnishings but full of cheap beer and youthful energy.	二十多年前，当地制造企业大多搬到了毗邻的中国大陆，大量的空闲工厂变成了新兴乐队施展手脚的理想空间。一些创业人士开设俱乐部，内部设施简陋，但是有取之不竭的廉价啤酒和青春活力。
But many of the clubs have folded, often after violating regulations that critics say effectively criminalize most nonindustrial activities. The result is that Hong Kong's indie bands are forever searching for places to perform — a further indignity for working-class musicians and fans in a financial hub where the night life caters largely to people on corporate salaries.	不过，很多俱乐部都关闭了，往往是在违反规定之后，批评人士表示，那些规定实际上把大部分非工业活动定为犯罪活动。结果，香港的独立乐队永远都在寻找表演场地，愈发伤害工薪阶层音乐人和乐迷的尊严，在这个金融中心，夜生活主要是为高薪白领阶层服务的。
"We are not just talking about upper-class, high-class art," Tanya Chan, a legislator from Hong Kong's pro-democracy Civic Party, said of the music at Hidden Agenda and other quasi-underground venues in the city's industrial neighborhoods.	"我们不是只谈上流社会的高雅艺术，"香港民主党派公民党的立法会议员陈淑庄(Tanya Chan)在谈起 Hidden Agenda 的音乐以及该市工业区其他半地下场所时说。

"I don't see why ordinary citizens or music lovers can't have their own place to play music," she added. "If no such choices exist in our city, that's a pity."	"我不明白为什么普通市民或音乐爱好者不能拥有自己的展演空间,"她还说。"如果我们的城市不存在这样的选择,是很可悲的。"
Hong Kong has fewer than 13 small-scale live houses, mainly in industrial buildings, and seven others, including Hidden Agenda, that would be considered midsize or large, said Adrian Chow, a composer and producer who supervises the music group at the Hong Kong Arts Development Council, a government-funded advisory body.	在政府资助的顾问机构香港艺术发展局负责监管音乐组织的作曲家兼制作人周博贤表示,香港有近13个小型展演空间,大多都在工业建筑里,另外还有7个算得上中等或大型的展演空间,包括Hidden Agenda。
Many of those venues would struggle to survive even without onerous regulations because the property market is among the world's most expensive. What's more, a recent industrial "revitalization" program gave landlords financial incentives to convert industrial buildings into offices, but it also drove up the value of such space in districts like East Kowloon, a popular area for live houses.	由于有着世界上最为昂贵的地产市场,即使没有复杂的监管规定,香港很多展演空间也将艰难为生。另外,最近的一个工业"振兴"计划给予业主经济刺激,鼓励他们把工业建筑改造成写字楼,也推高了东九龙等区的此类空间的价格。东九龙是最受展演空间欢迎的地区。
Industrial rents in East Kowloon climbed to $1.77 a square foot in 2015, from $1.05 a square foot five years earlier, a 68 percent increase, according to data provided by Savills, a property consulting firm. The rents there — Mr. Hui said he pays about $7,700 a month for his venue in East Kowloon — are still a small fraction of what club owners would pay in commercial districts. But that does not make them more affordable.	根据地产咨询公司第一太平戴维斯(Savills)提供的数据,2015年,东九龙的工业租金攀升至每平方米1.77美元,比五年前的1.05美元上涨了68%。许仲和称,他每个月为东九龙的场地支付约7700美元的租金,与俱乐部老板在商业区需要支付的租金相比只是个零头。即便如此,他们也很难承担得起。
"There have to be subsidies by the nonprofit-making community or the government" to enable live houses to survive, said James Siu, the head of Kowloon for Savills. Almost no such subsidies exist.	第一太平戴维斯公司的九龙销售部主管萧兆新表示,"必须有非营利团体或政府提供补贴",展演空间才能生存下去。而现在几乎不存在这样的补贴。
But musicians and policy experts say that the regulations on zoning,	不过,音乐人和政策专家表示,对音乐展演空间来说,区域规划、卫生和消

hygiene and fire safety are at least as big of a headache for live houses, and perhaps even more of a long-term threat to the indie music scene.	防安全规定至少也是同样令人头疼的事情，对独立音乐来说，那些规定甚至可能是更长期的威胁。
A key problem, they say, is that venues in industrial buildings cannot apply for a public entertainment license unless they buy a prohibitively expensive waiver.	他们表示，一个关键问题是，工业建筑里的场地无法申请公共娱乐场所牌照，除非他们购买一份极其昂贵的豁免书。
Jeremy Tam, a Civic Party legislator from East Kowloon, said that such a waiver would most likely cost a live house like Hidden Agenda $128,000 to $192,000 a year. Failing to obtain one would technically make any concert in an industrial building illegal.	东九龙公民党立法会议员谭文豪表示，这样一份豁免很可能需要 Hidden Agenda 这样的展演空间每年支付 12.8 万至 19.2 万美元。实际上，如果没有豁免书，在工业建筑里举行任何音乐会都是违法的。
The Lands Department, which partly oversees entertainment licenses, said in an emailed statement that a primary aim of its policies was to discourage public foot traffic in industrial buildings, which it said generally faced greater fire risks than other types of buildings.	部分监管娱乐牌照的地政总署通过电子邮件发布声明称，它的政策的主要目的是劝阻在工业建筑里组织公共活动，因为它认为，总体来讲，工业建筑的火灾风险比其他类型的建筑更大。
But Mr. Tam said that it was clearly possible to alter outdated zoning and performance rules without threatening public safety.	不过谭文豪表示，在不威胁公共安全的前提下，改变过时的区域规划和表演规定显然是有可能的。
After studying industrial zoning rules in Seoul and London, he said, he plans to introduce legislation that would allow live houses like Hidden Agenda to operate legally on the first three levels of industrial buildings if they met reasonable safety standards.	在研究过首尔和伦敦的工业区域规划规定后，他称自己打算推出法案，允许 Hidden Agenda 这样的展演空间在工业建筑的底部三层合法运营——如果它们符合合理的安全标准的话。
"It's the best way to optimize the limited space in Hong Kong," he said. "That's how you build a nighttime culture."	"那是充分利用香港有限空间的最佳方式，"他说。"这样才能形成一个夜生活文化。"
Musicians said in interviews that they were not holding their breath.	很多音乐人在采访中表示，他们并没有抱很大希望。
Jan Curious, the stage name for the singer in the band Chochukmo, called it ironic that restrictions on live music in this semiautonomous Chinese city were harsher than those on the mainland, where political	艺名为 Jan Curious 的触执毛乐队(Chochukmo)主唱表示，讽刺的是，这个半自治的中国城市对现场音乐表演的限制，比严格限制政治言论的大陆还苛刻。 speech is far more restricted.

The authorities there do not care about policing concerts, he said. "Maybe they'll come and ask you for money. But they won't tell you to stop."	他说，大陆当局并不关心音乐会管理。“他们也许会来跟你要钱。但不会制止你。”
Hanes Cheung, the guitarist for the band Twisterella, said that the average live house tended to fold after about two years and that the shortage of proper music venues often forced bands to perform in restaurants against their will.	Twisterella 乐队吉他手黑尼斯·张(Hanes Cheung)表示，普通的展演空间通常会在两年后关闭，缺乏合适的音乐表演场地经常让乐队被迫在餐厅里表演。
"Regulations kill the whole scene," he said on a recent Sunday after playing a raucous set at Hidden Agenda as part of an all-day music event.	“那些规定在扼杀整个现场音乐表演，”前不久的一个周日，他在 Hidden Agenda 进行完一段喧闹的表演后表示。那是一个全天音乐活动的一部分。
Mr. Hui, the club owner, spent much of the afternoon filtering through a mellow crowd of perhaps 100 people, and occasionally pausing to dance amid artificial fog and pulsing stage lights. He said that the event might be Hidden Agenda's last, at least until his legal issues were resolved, and that he had lost about $14,000 in June after canceling five performances that had been booked before his arrest in early May.	那个下午的大部分时间，俱乐部老板许仲和穿行在大约一百个带着酒意的人中间，偶尔停下来，在人造雾和动感的舞台灯光中跳舞。他说，这可能是 Hidden Agenda 的最后一场活动，至少在他的官司了结之前。他说，6 月份，他损失了约 1.4 万美元，因为他取消了五场 5 月初被捕前已经定好的演出。
Mr. Hui, 30, said that he did not expect the rules governing the music scene to change because any overhaul could upset long-established relationships between city officials and real estate interests.	30 岁的许仲和表示，他并不指望管理现场音乐的规定会改变，因为任何改变都会影响政府官员和地产利益相关者长期确立的关系。
Officially designating a live house as a venue would affect developers by altering the dynamics of the property market, he said. "The government doesn't want to have any argument with them, which is why they're going to push us away."	他表示，正式指定一个展演空间为表演场所会影响开发商的利益，因为那会改变地产市场的态势。“政府不想跟他们争执，所以就想把我们赶走。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/hong-kong-live-music	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/hong-kong-live-music

Doctors Say Liu Xiaobo, Convicted Nobel Laureate, Can Be Safely Moved Overseas for Cancer Treatment	美德医生称刘晓波身体状况适合出国治疗
BEIJING —Liu Xiaobo, the political prisoner and Nobel laureate who is on medical parole in a Chinese hospital to treat late-stage liver cancer, is fit to travel abroad to receive medical care, doctors from the United States and Germany said on Sunday.	北京——来自美国和德国的医生周日说，政治犯、诺贝尔奖获得者刘晓波的身体状况适合出国接受治疗。他目前因晚期肝癌正在中国一家医院保外就医。
The doctors, Joseph M. Herman of the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center and Markus Büchler of the University of Heidelberg, who evaluated Mr. Liu on Saturday, said he had indicated that he wanted to be sent abroad for the remainder of his treatment.	美国德克萨斯大学 MD 安德森癌症中心的医生约瑟夫·M·赫尔曼(Joseph M. Herman)和德国海德堡大学的医生马库斯·布胥勒(Markus Büchler)周六对刘晓波的病情进行了评估，他们说，他已经表示，他想在余下的时间里到国外接受治疗。
"While a degree of risk always exists in the movement of any patient, both physicians believe Mr. Liu can be safely transported with appropriate medical evacuation care and support," the doctors said in a joint statement. They added that they were willing to provide Mr. Liu such care.	医生在一份联合声明中说：“尽管任何病人的转移都存在着一定程度的风险，但两位医生均认为，在适当的医疗后送照料和支持下，刘晓波能得到安全转移。”他们还说，他们愿意为刘晓波提供这种照料。
Shang Baojun, a lawyer who represented Mr. Liu at his trial in 2009 on charges of state subversion, said by phone, "He said his first preference would be Germany, but if that wasn't workable, then the United States would be fine, too."	2009年，刘晓波曾因颠覆国家罪的指控接受审理，当时为他担任代理律师的尚宝军在电话中说：“（刘晓波）表示，他的第一选择是德国，但德国如果不行的话，美国也可以。”
Mr. Shang said he was not sure why Mr. Liu preferred Germany, but that seemed to be the first preference of his wife, Liu Xia, who is under house arrest. The lawyer, other people close to Mr. Liu and his wife have asked that he to be allowed to travel abroad for treatment, but have not given a clear reason. They appear to be driven by distrust of Chinese hospitals and a desire for him to regain some freedom. Human	尚宝军说，他不清楚刘晓波为什么喜欢德国，但那似乎是他的妻子刘霞的选择，刘霞目前处于被软禁状态。这位律师以及其他与刘晓波及其妻子关系密切的人已经提出要求，让刘晓波出国接受治疗，但他们一直没有给出明确的理由。他们的主要考虑似乎是对中国医院的不信任，以及让他重获一点自由的愿望。人权活动人士也对刘晓波正在接受的医疗有所质疑。

rights activists have also questioned the medical care he has been receiving.
Mr. Liu's condition appears to be rapidly deteriorating. Dr. Herman and Dr. Büchler concurred with Chinese experts who said in May that Mr. Liu has primary liver cancer. They said that additional treatment options might exist, such as radiotherapy. They also said they recognized the "quality of care" that he had been receiving in China.	刘晓波的病情似乎在急剧恶化。赫尔曼和布胥勒对中国专家今年5月做出的、刘晓波患有原发性肝癌的诊断表示认同。他们说可能还存在一些额外的治疗方案，比如放射治疗。他们说，他们也对刘晓波在中国接受的“治疗的质量”表示认可。
The doctors' assessment of Mr. Liu's ability to travel renews pressure on China to grant more liberties to Mr. Liu, who is serving an 11-year sentence after being convicted of state subversion. One of China's most prominent dissidents, Mr. Liu led efforts to promote political liberalization in the country until his arrest in 2008.	这两位医生对刘晓波旅行能力的评估，再次给中国带来了让刘晓波获得更多自由的压力，刘晓波被判犯有颠覆国家罪，仍在11年有期徒刑的服刑期。刘晓波是中国最主要的异见人士之一，2008年被捕之前，他曾领导过推进国内政治自由化的努力。
China's rules on medical parole assume that prisoners released on medical parole will be treated in China under the continued supervision of prison authorities and the police. In addition, Chinese officials have said that Mr. Liu is too sick to travel.	中国关于保外就医的规定是，保外就医的犯人将在监狱当局和警方的持续监控下，在国内接受治疗。此外，中国官员已表示，刘晓波的病情不适合旅行。
But First Hospital of China Medical University in Shenyang in northeastern China, which is treating Mr. Liu, invited German and American doctors to evaluate him in person after facing intense pressure to allow the dissident to travel overseas for medical treatment.	位于中国东北地区沈阳市的中国医科大学附属第一医院正在为刘晓波治病，但这家医院在面临让这名异见人士到海外接受治疗的强大压力之后，邀请了德国和美国的医生来医院对他进行评估。
Going abroad for treatment would probably require an exception from China's rules for medical parole, the lawyer, Mr. Shang, said. But China has made such exceptions in the past, he noted.	尚宝军说，出国接受治疗可能需要中国保外就医规定的例外许可。但他指出，中国过去曾经批准过此种例外情况。
Wei Jingsheng, a prominent Chinese human rights activist who was imprisoned in 1994, left for the United States while he was on medical	1994年被监禁的著名中国人权活动人士魏京生就是在保外就医期间离开中国，前往美国底特律一家医院接受治疗的。1989年的抗议活动遭镇压后，

parole and was treated by a hospital in Detroit. In 1994, Wang Juntao, a prominent dissident who was imprisoned after the crackdown on protests in 1989, was allowed to travel to the United States for treatment for hepatitis and a heart problem despite a 13-year prison sentence.	被捕入狱的著名异议人士王军涛，曾在 1994 年获准前往美国接受肝炎和心脏病治疗，尽管他当时正在 13 年有期徒刑的服刑期。
Since that time, China's leaders have become increasingly reluctant to release prisoners to the West, even on medical grounds. Some of Mr. Liu's supporters have called on President Xi Jinping to give him amnesty.	那以后，即使有医疗的理由，中国领导人也越来越不愿意释放囚犯，让他们前往西方。刘晓波的一些支持者已经呼吁国家主席习近平赦免他。
"The Constitution allows the president to grant special pardons," Bao Tong, a former official and friend of Mr. Liu's, said by telephone. "In this case, Xi Jinping should exercise that power so that Liu Xiaobo can go abroad for treatment."	"宪法允许国家主席发布特别赦免令，"刘晓波的朋友、曾担任政府官员的鲍彤通过电话说。"在目前情况下，习近平应该行使这一权力，让刘晓波出国接受治疗。"
Article 80 of China's Constitution allows the president to grant special pardons based on the national legislature's decision.	中国宪法第 80 条允许国家主席根据国家立法机关的决定发布特赦令。
American officials on Sunday reiterated calls to allow Mr. Liu, who was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 2010 for his human rights advocacy, to seek care abroad.	美国官员周日再次呼吁允许刘晓波出国就医，刘晓波因倡导人权的努力，于 2010 年获得诺贝尔和平奖。
"We continue to call on the Chinese authorities to grant Mr. Liu full parole and to release his wife, Liu Xia, from house arrest and to allow them to travel to seek specialized care that would ease his suffering in his final days," said Mary Beth Polley, a spokeswoman for the United States Embassy in Beijing.	"我们继续呼吁中国当局，让刘晓波获得彻底的保释，并解除对他的妻子刘霞的软禁，允许他们前往国外寻求专门的医疗，以让他在最后的日子里得以减轻他的痛苦，"美国驻北京大使馆发言人玛丽·贝丝·波利(Mary Beth Polley)说。
Human rights advocates have criticized the government for not treating Mr. Liu's illness earlier and have called on Chinese officials to	人权倡导者已批评政府未能及早给刘晓波治病，并呼吁中国官员允许他前往海外接受治疗。

allow him to receive treatment overseas.
“There should not be any more excuse by the Chinese authorities, as these experts have already made it clear that they are ready to accept Liu Xiaobo for treatment,” Patrick Poon, a researcher for Amnesty International in Hong Kong, wrote in an email.	国际特赦组织(Amnesty International)香港研究员潘嘉伟(Patrick Poon)在电子邮件中写道,“中国当局不应再有任何借口,因为这些专家已明确表示,他们愿意接受刘晓波为其治病。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/liu-xiaobo-china-cancer	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170710/liu-xiaobo-china-cancer
Chinese Doctors Say Nobel Laureate Is in Critical Condition	中国医生说刘晓波病情危急,与美德医生意见相左
BEIJING — Tensions and uncertainty over the fate of Liu Xiaobo, the Nobel Peace laureate imprisoned for subversion, escalated on Monday, when Chinese doctors warned that he was in critical condition from liver cancer, a day after two foreign doctors said he appeared strong enough to travel abroad.	北京——周一,围绕因颠覆罪被监禁的诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波命运的紧张气氛和不确定性有所加剧,中国医生在当天警告说,他由于肝癌情况危急。而在一天前,两名外国医生曾表示,他的身体状况似乎足以出国。
Calls for Mr. Liu to be allowed to go overseas for treatment were denounced by the Chinese government as meddling. And the German Embassy in Beijing strongly criticized the release, apparently with Chinese approval, of a video that showed the foreign doctors – one German, the other American – visiting Mr. Liu in a Chinese hospital, and the German doctor praising his treatment there.	中国政府谴责外界呼吁官方允许刘晓波出国接受治疗的做法是干涉内政。而位于北京的德国大使馆强烈批评了一段视频的发布,视频显示一名德国医生和一名美国医生在一家中国医院看望刘晓波,德国医生对医院为其提供的治疗予以称赞,视频的发布显然得到了中国方面的批准。
The First Hospital of China Medical University in northeastern China, where Mr. Liu is being treated after receiving medical parole, sounded ominous in an online update on his condition. A team of Chinese doctors advising on his treatment said Mr. Liu’s stomach was increasingly bloated, his abdominal wall was inflamed, his blood pressure was falling, and his kidneys were faltering, the hospital said. Mr. Liu also had growing cancer lesions, the hospital said.	刘晓波正在中国东北的中国医科大学附属第一医院保外就医,在这家医院在网上发布的病情通报中,刘晓波看起来情况不妙。医院说,对刘晓波进行了会诊的中国医疗专家组表示,他的腹胀严重,腹膜炎,血压下降,肾脏衰竭。医院说,刘晓波的肝癌病灶增大。

"Our hospital is following the consultative opinions of the national expert team and entering a state of active rescue," the update said. "The family is aware of these developments."	"我院正在按照全国专家组的会诊意见进入积极抢救状态，"病情通报说。"上述情况，家属已知情。"
The prognosis seemed far graver than the one the foreign doctors had given Sunday, when they said Mr. Liu was well enough to go abroad for treatment, as he has requested. And comments from a spokesman for the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Geng Shuang, on Monday seemed to offer little hope that Mr. Liu would be allowed to leave the country.	这个预后听起来比外国医生周日给出的严重得多，外国医生说刘晓波的身体状况能够按照他要求的那样出国治疗。而中国外交部发言人耿爽周一的评论似乎给人的感觉是，刘晓波获准离开中国的希望不大。
"We've answered many times that China is a country of rule by law, and everyone is equal before the law," Mr. Geng said at a regular news briefing in Beijing, when asked about Mr. Liu's request and the foreign doctors' comments. "We hope that the countries concerned will respect China's judicial sovereignty and don't exploit so-called cases to meddle in China's internal affairs."	"我们对这个问题已经回答了多次，中国是一个法治国家，在法律面前人人平等，"耿爽在北京的例行记者会上被问及刘晓波的要求和外国医生的看法时说。"我们希望有关国家尊重中国的司法主权，不要利用所谓的病情干涉中国内政。"
Asked repeatedly about Mr. Liu's desire to leave, Mr. Geng repeated that vague formula and denied that there were precedents that would apply to Mr. Liu, although some other Chinese prisoners convicted on political charges have been given medical parole so they could seek treatment abroad.	记者多次问及刘晓波想出国治疗的愿望，耿爽只是不断重复上述模糊说法，并否认有适用于刘晓波的先例，尽管曾有过其他因政治原因被定罪的中国囚犯在保外就医期间得以出国治疗的例子。
"There have never been so-called precedents," Mr. Geng said when asked about those examples. But when asked whether that position amounted to a "no" to Mr. Liu, Mr. Geng did not give a direct answer.	"从来没有过所谓的先例，"耿爽被问到这些例子时说。但当被问及该立场是否意味着"不"允许刘晓波出国时，耿爽没有给出直接的答复。
Mr. Liu is China's most famous political prisoner, and now what is likely to be his short time still alive has become a source of contention with	刘晓波是中国最著名的政治犯，现在，在很可能是他生命为数不多的日子里，他却成了中国政府与人权倡导者和西方政府争吵的原因。

human rights advocates and Western governments.
Mr. Liu, 61, was sentenced late in 2009 to 11 years in prison on charges of inciting subversion, a year after he was detained on the cusp of issuing a bold democratic petition called Charter 08. In 2010, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, infuriating the Chinese government.	现年 61 岁的刘晓波在 2009 年底被判处 11 年有期徒刑，罪名是煽动颠覆。2008 年，在即将发布一份名为《零八宪章》的大胆的民主请愿书之际，他被逮捕。在 2010 年，他被授予诺贝尔和平奖，令中国政府大怒。
The prison authorities revealed late last month that Mr. Liu had advanced liver cancer and had been given medical parole. He has been receiving treatment in the university hospital in Shenyang, a city 390 miles northeast of Beijing, guarded by the police. He and his wife, Liu Xia, have not spoken publicly or received well-wishers outside their immediate family.	监狱当局上月底透露，刘晓波患晚期肝癌，获许保外就医。他一直处于警方看守下，在沈阳那所医科大学的医院接受治疗，沈阳位于北京东北方向约 630 公里的地方。刘晓波和妻子刘霞还没有公开讲过话，也没有接待直系亲属以外对他们表达良好祝愿的人。
But a lawyer for Mr. Liu and friends of the couple have said the couple wanted Mr. Liu to go abroad for treatment, apparently out of distrust of Chinese hospitals and to give Mr. Liu some freedom in his final days.	但刘晓波的一位律师，以及这对夫妇的朋友都表示，夫妻两人想让刘晓波出国治疗，显然是出于对中国医院的不信任，再就是让刘晓波在最后的日子里得到一点自由。
Their efforts received a boost over the weekend after the American and German cancer specialists examined Mr. Liu on Saturday and said he was well enough to travel.	美国和德国的癌症专家周六对刘晓波进行了观察之后表示，他的身体状况足够好、可以旅行，这对律师和朋友的努力来说是一种激励。
Dr. Joseph M. Herman of the MD Anderson Cancer Center of the University of Texas and Dr. Markus Büchler of the University of Heidelberg were invited by the Chinese government to examine Mr. Liu. But they apparently departed from the government's official script that Mr. Liu was not stable enough to travel.	美国德克萨斯大学 MD 安德森癌症中心的约瑟夫·M·赫尔曼博士(Dr. Joseph M. Herman)和德国海德堡大学的马库斯·布胥勒博士(Dr. Markus Büchler)应中国政府的邀请，给刘晓波做了检查。但他们显然偏离了政府的官方脚本，政府认为刘晓波的身体状况不稳定，不宜旅行。
"While a degree of risk always exists in the movement of any patient, both physicians believe Mr. Liu can be safely transported with appropriate medical evacuation care and support," the two doctors said	"尽管任何病人的转移都存在一定程度的风险，但两位医生均认为，在适当的医疗护送照料和支持下，刘晓波能够得到安全转移，"这两名医生周日在一份联合声明中说。"但医疗护送必须尽快。"

in a joint statement on Sunday. "However, the medical evacuation would have to take place as quickly as possible."
But the two doctors were also used in Chinese propaganda. They were shown visiting Mr. Liu in a video that appeared to have been made and issued with the backing of the Chinese authorities. The video released Sunday showed them and a number of Chinese medical workers crowded around Mr. Liu, gaunt and motionless in a bed, while a woman with short hair — apparently his wife, Liu Xia — stood at his feet. "They are very committed to the treatment of your man, of your husband," Dr. B�uchler says of the Chinese doctors. "They want us to help, and I think this is a very nice gesture." Dr. Herman then comforts the woman with a gentle pat on her shoulder.	不过，中国的宣传活动也利用了这两名医生。在一段显然是在中国政府支持下制作和发布的视频中，出现了两名医生看望刘晓波的镜头。这则周日发布的视频显示，他们和一群中国医务人员挤在刘晓波的病床边，刘晓波面容憔悴、静静地躺在床上，一名看来是他妻子刘霞的短发女子站在床尾。“他们尽心尽力地治疗你的男人、你的丈夫，”布胥勒提到中国医生时说。“他们希望我们提供帮助，我觉得这是一个非常好的表示。”然后，赫尔曼轻拍了女子的肩膀，以表安慰。
The German Embassy in Beijing denounced the video as an exploitative violation of promises not to record and distribute such images.	德国驻北京大使馆谴责该视频是对承诺不记录和发布此类图像的利用式违背。
"These recordings were made against the expressed wishes of the German side, which were communicated in writing prior to the visit," the embassy said on Monday, adding, "It seems that security organs are steering the process, not medical experts."	"这些视频的制作违背了德国方面明确表达的意愿，意愿是在医生前往看望之前以书面形式表达的，"德国大使馆周一说。"看来，是安全机关、而不是医学专家在指导治疗过程。"
China has given political prisoners medical parole to go abroad, although there seem to have been virtually no instances in the past decade.	中国曾允许政治犯出国保外就医，虽然过去十年里似乎几乎没有这种例子。
John Kamm, the founder of the Dui Hua Foundation, an organization in San Francisco that has worked to free Chinese prisoners, said he could recall roughly a dozen such cases in all. The last one was Rebiya Kadeer, an imprisoned advocate for the Uighur minority who was released on	总部设在旧金山的对话基金会曾致力于让中国囚犯获释，基金会创始人康原(John Kamm)说，他能想起十几个出国就医的例子。最后一个是热比亚·卡德尔(Rebiya Kadeer)，她曾为少数民族维吾尔族倡导权益，并被监禁，于2005年获释保外就医。 medical parole in 2005.

The Chinese government, however, told Mr. Liu's lawyer, Shang Baojun, in late June that Mr. Liu was not fit to travel. Chinese Foreign and Justice Ministry officials had also rejected suggestions that Mr. Liu could go abroad.	不过，中国政府曾在6月底对刘晓波的律师尚宝军说，刘晓波的身体状况不适合旅行。中国外交部和司法部的官员也都驳斥过刘晓波能够出国的说法。
The Chinese government's position on Mr. Liu appeared sure to anger Chinese human rights activists and international rights organizations that have called for him to be freed to choose his own treatment. And the issue has strained Beijing's ties with the United States and the European Union.	中国政府在刘晓波问题上的立场肯定会激怒中国人权活动人士和国际人权机构，他们呼吁释放刘晓波，让他自己选择治疗方式。这个问题使北京与美国和欧盟的关系变得紧张。
For the past decade and more, Washington, Brussels and other Western capitals have become less vocal in pressing human rights cases with Beijing, and Beijing has become brusquely impatient with criticism of its harsh limits on expression and dissent. But the United States and European governments have spoken out for Mr. Liu in recent weeks.	在过去十多年间，华盛顿、布鲁塞尔等西方首都在人权问题上对北京施压的声音已经不再那么有力，北京也对外界对其严厉限制言论和异议做法的批评变得极不耐烦。但是，美国和欧洲各国政府在最近几个周里已在刘晓波的事情上直言不讳。
The European Union urged China in late June to allow him to "receive medical assistance at a place of his choosing in China or overseas." The American State Department said Mr. Liu should have "freedom of movement and access to medical care of his choosing."	欧盟曾在6月底敦促中国允许刘晓波"选择自己在中国或海外接受医疗帮助的地点"。美国国务院也表示，刘晓波应该有"行动和自我选择获得医疗照料"的自由。
"We continue to ask that China immediately grant Mr. Liu parole on humanitarian grounds and allow him to receive medical assistance at a place of his choosing in China or overseas," the European Union Delegation in Beijing said on Monday in an emailed statement.	"我们继续要求中国出于人道主义的考虑，立刻给予刘晓波假释，让他自己选择在中国或海外接受医疗照料的地点，"周一，欧盟驻北京使团在一封用电子邮件发来的声明中说。
Earlier, Global Times, a Chinese tabloid that often bluntly defends Beijing's policies, said Ms. Kadeer, the prisoner who left China in 2005,	早些时候，经常毫无保留地为北京政策辩护的中国小报《环球时报》说，早在2005年离开中国的囚犯卡德尔已经表明，为什么让刘晓波出国有危险。

showed why it would be dangerous to allow Mr. Liu to leave. She had plunged into political activism after leaving, an editorial in the English-language edition of the papersaid in late June.	该报 6 月下旬在其英文版发表的一篇社评中说，卡德尔出国后已贸然加入到政治行动主义的行列。
"If Liu is allowed to go abroad for medical treatment, as a 'Nobel Laureate,' he could motivate more Western public opinion attacks against China," it said. But even that strident paper did not entirely close the door. It said: "It needs to be stressed that whether Liu is allowed to seek medical treatment abroad is within China's own jurisdiction."	"如果允许刘某某出国接受医疗，那么作为一名'诺贝尔奖得主'，他能激发更多的攻击中国的西方舆论，"社评说。但是，就连这家咄咄逼人的报纸也没有把门关死。社评说："需要强调的是，是否允许刘某某出国寻求医疗服务是中国自己管辖范围内的事情。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170711/liu-xiaobo-china-cancer-abroad	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170711/liu-xiaobo-china-cancer-abroad
Ailing Dissident's Case Fits a Pattern in Chinese Prisons, Critics Say	批评称中国政治犯面临严峻健康威胁
BEIJING — One Chinese activist died after the authorities ignored pleas to treat her liver disease while she was in detention. Another was left with years of chronic pain after prison doctors misdiagnosed a problem with his pancreas.	北京——一名被当局羁押的中国活动人士在治疗肝病的请求遭无视后去世。另一名活动人士在胰腺问题被狱医误诊之后，承受了多年的慢性疼痛。
Accusations that Liu Xiaobo, the imprisoned Nobel Peace laureate who has late-stage liver cancer, has not received proper treatment have brought new scrutiny to what human rights advocates say is a pattern in Chinese prisons: the denial of health care to dissidents to intimidate and punish them.	被监禁的诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波已经患上了晚期肝癌，有人指责他没有获得适当的治疗，这引起了人们对中国监狱一些做法的审视，一些人权倡导者说，中国监狱常常不让异见者获得医疗救助，以此来恐吓和惩罚他们。
At some prisons, requests for health checkups and medicine are refused, human rights experts and former prisoners say. At others, ill prisoners suffer physical abuse and malnutrition. In some cases, chronic ailments and serious diseases are left untreated, or medical care is repeatedly delayed.	人权专家和前囚犯表示，一些监狱会拒绝囚犯对体检和医药的要求。还有一些监狱会让病中的囚犯继续遭受肢体虐待和营养不良。在某些情况下，慢性和重大疾病得不到治疗，或者再三推迟治疗。

"There is a real fear amongst prisoners of conscience and their families that authorities aren't afraid to let them die from lack of adequate medical care," said Frances Eve, a researcher at Chinese Human Rights Defenders, a coalition of advocates.	权益组织人权捍卫者(Chinese Human Rights Defenders)的研究员法兰茜(Frances Eve)表示：“良心犯及其家属是真的很担心，就算让他们缺医少药而死去，当局也没什么可怕的。”
Mr. Liu, 61, who is serving an 11-year sentence for "inciting subversion of state power," is being treated for advanced liver cancer at a hospital in the northeastern city of Shenyang, the authorities announced last month.	现年 61 岁的刘晓波因“煽动颠覆国家政权罪”被判处 11 年有期徒刑，目前正在服刑，东北城市沈阳的一家医院上个月宣布，他正在接受晚期肝癌治疗。
Critics have faulted prison officials for failing to tend to Mr. Liu's cancer earlier, which they say might have afforded him a better chance at a recovery. And on Monday, the Chinese authorities rebuffed calls that he be transferred abroad for treatment.	批评人士指责监狱官员没有尽早让刘晓波治疗癌症，他们认为，如果早点治疗，恢复的可能性会更大。本周一，中国当局拒绝了把刘晓波送到国外就医的呼吁。
Activists say the decisions reflect a pattern of neglecting the health of incarcerated activists.	活动人士说，这些决定体现了一个倾向：监禁中的活动人士的健康遭到忽视。
Since President Xi Jinping became the national leader in 2012, the ruling Communist Party has taken a hard line against critics, imprisoning scores of activists, lawyers and journalists. Dissidents who have spent time in prison say the harassment continues there.	自 2012 年习近平成为中国领导人以来，执政的共产党对批评者采取强硬路线，监禁了大量活动人士、律师和记者。服过刑的异见者表示，他们在监狱里会继续遭到骚扰。
"Prisoners are still being treated like the enemy," said Hu Jia, an activist who was imprisoned from 2008 to 2011. "They need to treat people as human beings."	“犯人还是被看成敌人，”2008 至 2011 年期间遭到监禁的活动人士胡佳说，“首先他们得把人当人看。”
Mr. Hu said doctors repeatedly misdiagnosed pains that he felt in his abdomen as a side stitch. When he was released from prison, doctors found that he actually had acute pancreatitis, a potentially life-threatening illness.	胡佳说，他腹部感到疼痛，被医生多次误诊为岔气。获释后，医生发现他实际上患有急性胰腺炎，这是一种可能会危及生命的疾病。

In at least two recent cases, imprisoned critics who had requested medical parole for treatment of life-threatening conditions died after their pleas for medical care were rejected.	至少在近期的两个案例中，遭到监禁的批评者曾要求保外医治危及生命的病症，但遭到拒绝，之后两人相继过世。
In 2014, Cao Shunli, an activist who was detained in Beijing after leading a human rights campaign, died after the authorities denied her requests for medical parole to treat tuberculosis, liver disease and other ailments.	人权活动人士曹顺利在北京领导一个人权活动之后遭到羁押，她请求保外就医治疗结核病、肝病等疾病，遭到拒绝之后于 2014 年去世。
In 2015, a prominent Tibetan religious leader, Tenzin Delek Rinpoche, 65, died while serving a prison sentence on charges of "terrorism and inciting separatism" after his request for medical parole to treat a heart ailment went unanswered.	2015 年，著名的西藏宗教领袖勒仁波切(Tenzin Delek Rinpoche)过世。当时他因涉嫌“煽动分裂主义”遭到监禁，去世前他曾要求保外治疗心脏病，没有得到任何回复。
The government has denied depriving political prisoners access to health care as a means of retaliation. "China has repeatedly said that Chinese judicial departments protect every right of prisoners according to law," the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said in a statement on Monday.	政府说，他们并没有剥夺政治犯获得医疗救治的机会，将其作为一种报复手段来使用。中国外交部本周一在一份声明中表示：“中国多次表示，中国司法部门依法保护囚犯的所有权利。”
Chinese prisons, which house more than 1.6 million inmates, are notoriously grueling institutions, plagued by torture, forced labor and malnutrition. Political dissidents battling illnesses while in detention face additional threats to their well-being, activists say.	关押着逾 160 万名囚犯的中国监狱向来恶名昭彰，里面充斥着严刑拷打、强制劳动和营养不良的情况。活动人士称，在监禁期间身患疾病的政治异见者要面临其他的健康威胁。
At some prisons, medical workers are ambivalent about treating inmates; others are poorly trained and ill equipped to handle serious diseases, experts say. A 2011 survey of a prison hospital in Shanghai found that 28 percent of doctors said the nature of the crimes committed by patients had affected their diagnosis and treatment.	专家表示，在有些监狱，医务人员对治疗囚犯持一种矛盾的心态；也有人缺乏训练和设备，没有能力治疗重大疾病。2011 年对上海一座监狱进行的调查显示，有 28% 的医生表示，病人的犯罪性质会对他们的诊断和治疗产生影响。
Tang Jingling, a human rights lawyer in southern China who was	来自华南地区的人权律师唐荆陵去年以颠覆国家罪被判五年徒刑，上个月他

sentenced last year to five years in prison for subversion of state power, fell ill last month with stabbing pains in his heart, according to his relatives. But the prison where he is being held in the southern province of Guangdong would not treat him, they said.	病倒了，心脏感到刺痛，但他所在的位于广东南部的监狱不愿给他治疗，这些消息来自唐荆陵的亲人。
"All we want is to get better treatment conditions," said Mr. Tang's wife, Wang Yanfang. "So many prisons lack good medical facilities. This kind of an environment causes serious harm to people's physical and mental health."	"我们是希望得到更好的医治条件，监狱很多医疗设施是缺乏的，"唐荆陵的妻子汪艳芳说。"这种环境对人的身体和精神是造成严重伤害的。"
In China, law enforcement officers, not doctors, usually make decisions about medical parole; as a result, many requests for parole are denied, advocates say.	倡导人士表示，在中国，决定能否保外就医的通常是执法人员而非医生；因此许多要求假释的请求都会被拒绝。
The Chinese Constitution guarantees a right to medical care for all citizens. Under United Nations standards, inmates who require treatment should be sent to "specialized institutions or to civil hospitals."	中国的宪法规定所有公民都有权享受医疗服务。依照联合国的标准，要求获得治疗的囚犯应该被送往"专门院所或平民医院"。
Occasionally, the government has shown signs of compromise, such as in 2015, when it granted medical parole to Gao Yu, a journalist who was serving a prison sentence on charges of leaking a Communist Party document. Ms. Gao has high blood pressure and cardiovascular ailments.	中国政府偶尔也会显示出妥协的迹象，比如在2015年，它曾批准高瑜保外就医，这名记者当时正因泄露共产党文件的指控在监狱服刑。高瑜患有高血压和心血管疾病。
Still, those who receive parole are often strictly monitored and rarely have the freedom to see doctors of their choosing.	不过，那些被允许保外就医的人往往也会受到严格的监视，很少能根据自己的意愿选择医生。
Torture and other abusive practices in prisons have exacerbated the health problems of many inmates. Malnutrition is common in some jails because of the poor quality of meals. Sleep deprivation has also been	监狱中的拷打和其他虐待行为使许多囚犯的健康问题恶化。因为餐饮质量很差，营养不良的情况在一些监狱十分常见。人权倡导人士称，睡眠剥夺也经常当作一种策略，用来对付异见者。 used as a tactic against dissidents, rights activists say.

Yang Maodong, a democracy activist from southern China now serving a six-year sentence, was subjected to sleep deprivation and harassment by guards last year at a prison in Guangdong, according to relatives. Mr. Yang, 51, who is also known by his pen name, Guo Feixiong, lost a third of his weight and had difficulty walking.	来自华南地区的民主活动人士杨茂东正在服六年徒刑。据他的亲戚透露，他去年在广东的一座监狱被狱警剥夺睡眠的权利，还遭到他们的骚扰。51岁的杨茂东——网名郭飞雄——体重掉了三分之一，行动困难。
Mr. Yang was sent to a prison hospital but continued to suffer abuse, he told relatives. He was held in a small, windowless room with four other patients, and prison doctors refused to conduct a physical examination.	杨茂东告诉亲人，他被送到了一家医院，但依然受到折磨。他和其他四名病人被关在一个没有窗户的小房间里，狱医拒绝给他们做身体检查。
Zhang Qing, Mr. Yang's wife, said he was still very weak and pale. "He says he is now taking care of his own health and will live for his family and his unfinished cause," she said.	杨茂东的妻子张青表示，他的身体依然很虚弱。“他本人在监狱里很注意身体健康，他要为家人、为他未竟的事业而活着，”她说。
While medical care in jails can be poor, treatment at pretrial detention centers, which typically lack dedicated medical facilities, is often worse.	监狱的医疗状况很差，但审前的看守所医疗条件更糟糕，那里通常缺乏专门的医疗设施。
The Chinese government was widely criticized in 2014 after the death of Ms. Cao, who died at a detention center about five months after her arrest.	2014年曹顺利在被捕大约五个月后死于看守所，此后中国政府受到了广泛的指责。
A 2015 report by Human Rights Watch, citing interviews with former detainees, found that medical care provided by detention centers was "rudimentary at best." The report said that officials barred seriously ill inmates from seeking care outside detention centers, contrary to international standards.	人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)2015年发布的一份报告显示，看守所“最多只提供基本的医疗照护”，文中援引了几名曾被羁押的人士接受采访时所说的话。报告称，官员禁止重病囚犯在看守所之外寻求治疗，这与国际标准是相悖的。
The case of Mr. Liu, who was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 2010, has brought fresh worries to relatives of many imprisoned activists.	在2010年被授予诺贝尔和平奖的刘晓波的情况，再度引发许多被囚活动人士家属的担忧。
The Chinese government has made a point of showcasing the high	中国政府特意展示了刘晓波接受的高质量的治疗，甚至从德国和美国请医生

quality of the treatment Mr. Liu is receiving, even inviting doctors from Germany and the United States to visit him.	来给他看病。
But relatives of activists are concerned that the government is sending another message: that officials are content to allow dissidents to wither in prison until it may be too late.	但活动人士的家属们担心政府在释放另外一个信息：官员们乐于见到异见者在监狱中日渐衰弱，直到来不及治疗。
Ms. Zhang, who now lives in the United States, said she worried other prisoners might endure Mr. Liu's fate.	现居美国的张青表示，她担心其他囚犯也会遭遇刘晓波的命运。
"Liu Xiaobo's suffering is a great shock, worry and sorrow for all political prisoners and their families," she said. "Political prisoners have no control over their own lives."	"刘晓波先生在监狱中罹患肝癌，这对整个在监狱中服刑的政治犯和他们的家人都是很大的震撼、担忧和伤痛，"她说。"政治犯无法掌控自己的生活。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170711/liu-xiaobo-medical-care-dissidents	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170711/liu-xiaobo-medical-care-dissidents
Beijing Says U.S. Apologized for Confusing China With Taiwan	白宫声明将习近平称为“中华民国”主席
HONG KONG — A Chinese official said on Monday that the United States had apologized for a White House statement that misidentified China's leader, Xi Jinping, as president of the Republic of China — the formal name for Taiwan.	香港——中国官员周一表示，美国就白宫的一份声明表示了歉意，声明中误把中国领导人习近平称为“中华民国”主席，中华民国是台湾的正式名称。
"According to my understanding, the Chinese side has already raised this with the United States side," said Geng Shuang, a spokesman for the Chinese Foreign Ministry. "The United States side apologized and said this was a technological error that has already been corrected."	中国外交部发言人耿爽说：“据我了解，中方已就此向美方提出交涉。美方向中方道歉，承认这是技术性错误并已作出更正。”
The erroneous reference was in the heading of a White House transcript, released on Saturday, of presidential remarks before a bilateral meeting between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi at the Group of 20 session in Hamburg, Germany. Mr. Xi is the president of the People's	这个错误出现在周六发布的一份白宫声明的标题中，声明的内容是在德国汉堡 G20 会议期间与习近平进行双边会议之前，特朗普所做的发言。习近平是中华人民共和国主席。

Republic of China.
The gaffe was one of a handful of misnomers issued by the White House during the summit meeting. Mr. Trump's Instagram account briefly identified Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong of Singapore as President Joko Widodo of Indonesia, Singapore news outlets reported. And another White House statement called the prime minister of Japan, Shinzo Abe, "President Abe of Japan."	白宫在峰会期间的声明出现了好几个错误，这是其中之一。新加坡媒体报道说，特朗普的 Instagram 帐号一度将新加坡总理李显龙错认为是印度尼西亚总统佐科·威多多(Joko Widodo)。另外一份白宫声明还把日本首相安倍晋三称为“日本的安倍总统”。
The Republic of China flub was awkward for Beijing, which considers Taiwan part of its territory.	北京把台湾视为自己领土的一部分，被误称为“中华民国”对北京来说很尴尬。
A Chinese-language transcript from Mr. Geng's Monday news briefing on the Foreign Ministry website rendered "Republic of China" in English, highlighting the discomfort with the name in Beijing.	在中国外交部网站上，耿爽周一记者会的中文记录提到“中华民国”时使用了英文，突显北京对这个名称的忌讳。
In December, Donald Trump, as president-elect, accepted a telephone call from President Tsai Ing-wen of Taiwan, which broke with decades of United States precedent and was considered a snub for Beijing. The United States severed formal ties with Taiwan in 1979 as part of the so-called One China policy under which it recognizes Beijing as the government of China.	去年 12 月，候任期间的特朗普接听了台湾总统蔡英文的电话，打破了美国数十年来的惯例，被外界视为对北京的冷落。作为“一个中国”政策的一部分，美国在 1979 年与台湾断绝正式关系，该政策承认北京为中国政府。
Mr. Trump later suggested that he might not be bound by the One China policy, but he reaffirmed it during a call with Mr. Xi in February.	特朗普后来暗示，他可能不会受“一个中国”政策的约束，但在 2 月份与习近平通电话的时候，他却对该政策进行了重申。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170711/us-china-taiwan-xi-jinping	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170711/us-china-taiwan-xi-jinping
In Liu Xiaobo's Last Days, Supporters Fight China for His Legacy	支持者捍卫刘晓波的精神遗产
BEIJING — As the life ebbs from Liu Xiaobo, China's most famous dissident and only Nobel Peace Prize laureate, a battle is shaping up over his life, his legacy, his words and maybe even his remains.	北京——随着中国最有名的异见人士和唯一的诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波的生命逐渐衰弱，一场围绕着他的生命、遗产、言论，也许甚至是他的遗体的战斗正在形成。

It is a battle that other countries are largely sitting out, a reflection of China's rising power and the retreat of international pressure on its human rights record.	其他国家大都是这场战斗的旁观者，这反映了中国的强大崛起，以及国际社会对中国人权纪录施压的倒退。
The Chinese government has sequestered Mr. Liu in a hospital room in northeast China and refused his request to go abroad for treatment, saying it wants to ensure that he receives the best care for his terminal liver cancer.	中国政府已将刘晓波隔离在中国东北一家医院的病房里，拒绝了他希望出国治疗的要求，称那是为了确保他在患晚期肝癌期间得到最佳照料。
But supporters of Mr. Liu say the government, which has held him in custody since 2008, wants to control his last days in defiance of his lifelong cause: the right of the individual to live, speak and remember, free of authoritarian control and censorship.	但刘晓波的支持者说，自 2008 年以来一直羁押他的政府希望控制他最后的日子，不让他实现其为之奋斗终身的目标：每一个人在免受专制控制和审查下生活、说话和记忆的权利。
"The key is control of his talk. They don't want him to be able to speak freely," said Perry Link, a professor of Chinese at the University of California, Riverside, who edited an English-language selection of Mr. Liu's essays and poems. "If he's let out for treatment, he could talk, and that's what the regime is afraid of."	"关键是控制他说话。他们不希望他能够自由地说话，"加州大学河滨分校的中文教授林培瑞(Perry Link)说，他编辑过刘晓波的散文和诗歌的英译选集。"如果让他出国治疗的话，他也许会说话，这正是那个政权所害怕的。"
Mr. Liu has written has about "angry ghosts" who denounce official misdeeds from the grave, and Beijing seems fearful that he will become one of them, inspiring opposition even in his afterlife. On Tuesday, the hospital that is treating Mr. Liu said he had septic shock and organ dysfunction, suggesting his condition was grim.	刘晓波曾写下“冤魂”对官方的恶行死不瞑目这样的文字，北京似乎害怕他将成为其中一员，甚至在死后也激励着反对政府的人。周二，负责治疗刘晓波的医院说，他处于“感染性休克”和器官功能丧失状态，表明他的病情严重。
A panoply of state censorship and propaganda around Mr. Liu is testament to his tenacious influence, almost seven years after he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, nearly a decade after he was last detained and sentenced to 11 years in prison for inciting subversion,	有关刘晓波的大量国家审查和宣传，正是他的影响力仍顽强存在的例证，即使是在他被授予诺贝尔和平奖近七年之后，在他最后一次被拘押、并以煽动颠覆罪被判处 11 年有期徒刑近十年之后，以及在共产党指责他为支持 1989 年席卷中国的学生抗议活动背后的煽动“黑手”28 年之后。

and 28 years after the Communist Party denounced him as a seditious "black hand" for backing the student protests that swept China in 1989.
Mr. Liu has not been allowed to speak freely since he was arrested in late 2008, and his wife, Liu Xia, has been under heavy police surveillance since 2010, when he was awarded the Nobel medal. But lately, the Chinese authorities have released images and videos abroad to make the case that the couple are contented and cooperative.	自从 2008 年底被捕以来，刘晓波一直不能自由地说话，自从他在 2010 年被授予诺贝尔奖以来，他的妻子刘霞一直处于警方的严密监视之下。但最近，中国当局已在国外发布了一些图片和视频，以给人以这对夫妇感到满足，并且很配合的印象。
"They want everything to be controllable, and if he went abroad, he would lie beyond their control," Cui Weiping, a retired professor of Chinese literature and friend of Mr. Liu, said from Los Angeles, where she now lives. "This has always been the purge approach for dealing with dissidents – minimize their influence so they don't become a focus."	"他们希望能控制一切，如果他出国了，他会处于他们的控制之外，"已退休的中国文学教授、刘晓波的朋友崔卫平说，她目前居住在洛杉矶。"这一直是政府对付异见人士的净化方法——尽量减少他们的影响力，不让他们成为焦点。"
Yet while the government wants Mr. Liu to stay silent and to ensure that his legacy fades as quickly as possible, his supporters have mobilized, despite intense restrictions and police warnings. They want to win him the right to speak out, go abroad for palliative treatment and decide how he is memorialized.	然而，尽管政府希望刘晓波保持沉默，希望确保他遗留下来的东西尽可能快地消失，但他的支持者们不顾有力限制和警方的警告，已经行动起来。他们想为他赢得说话的权利，让他能出国寻求"姑息疗法"(palliative treatment)，以及能决定别人纪念自己的方式。
Some sympathizers of Mr. Liu have tried to visit him in his hospital, where the police blocked their way; some organized a petition calling for him to be given freedom at the end of his life. Longtime friends of Mr. Liu have been warned not to speak out or placed under police watch, including Zhou Duo, a scholar who joined Mr. Liu on Tiananmen Square on June 3, 1989, as armed soldiers closed in, when they and two other friends negotiated the safe passage of protesters who were still	一些同情刘晓波的人前往他所在的医院，试图看望他，但医院里的警察阻止了他们。有些人组织起草了一份请愿书，呼吁让他在生命的最后时刻获得自由。刘晓波的一些长期的朋友已收到不要讲话的警告，或已被警方严密监视，其中包括学者周舵，他曾在 1989 年 6 月 3 日加入刘晓波，在全副武装的军人来到天安门广场时，与另外两个朋友一起与官方谈判，让留在广场的抗议者安全地离开了那里。

there.
"To make Liu Xiaobo spend his final time like this doesn't bring honor to the government, but they'll stick to their ways," said Wen Kejian, a friend of Mr. Liu who unsuccessfully tried to visit him in the hospital. "I think the chances that we'll get what he wants are slim — that would require a dramatic change in the system — but we must try our best."	"让刘晓波这样度过自己最后的日子，不会给政府带来荣誉，但他们会坚持这样做，"温柯江（音）说，他是试图到医院看望刘晓波但未成功的朋友之一。"我觉得，我们能为他争取到他想要的东西的可能性极小——那将需要体制发生巨大的变化——但我们必须尽力而为。"
Mr. Liu, 61, was moved from prison to the First Hospital of China Medical University in Shenyang, 390 miles northeast of Beijing, last month, and officials revealed that his cancer had already reached a terminal stage. Mr. Liu has said that he wants to travel to Germany or the United States for treatment. The Chinese government has not flatly rejected that request, but it has left little hope it will say yes.	现年 61 岁的刘晓波上个月被从监狱送到沈阳的中国医科大学附属第一医院，沈阳位于北京东北方向 630 公里的地方，官方当时透露，他的癌症已进入晚期。刘晓波已表示，他想去德国或美国接受治疗。虽然中国政府并没有断然拒绝这个要求，而政府给人的印象是表示同意的希望不大。
But by keeping Mr. Liu locked up as he dies, the Chinese government has soiled its own image, said Liao Yiwu, an exiled Chinese author living in Berlin who knows Mr. Liu. Domestic Chinese news reports about Mr. Liu are heavily censored, and his illness has gone virtually unmentioned, except in English-language outlets read by few. But the images of Mr. Liu, gaunt on a hospital bed, have caused anger and disgust in China among the small minority who have seen them, Mr. Liao said.	但是，中国政府在刘晓波弥留之际的时候仍关着他，这已经破坏了自己的形象，廖亦武说，他是流亡柏林的华人作家，认识刘晓波。中国国内关于刘晓波的新闻报道受到严格审查，除了几个鲜有人阅读的英文新闻机构外，报道几乎不提他的病情。廖亦武说，但是憔悴的刘晓波躺在医院病床上的图片，在见过这张图片的为数不多的中国人中引起了愤怒和憎恶。
"By locking him up and preventing him from traveling abroad, they're actually making him even more symbolically powerful," Mr. Liao said by telephone. "Now the whole world is paying attention, and I think that's even more powerful."	"关着他，不让他出国治疗，这实际上让他所具有的象征性意义更强大，"廖亦武在电话中说。"现在全世界都在关注，我觉得这更强大。"
The tensions over Mr. Liu have also spilled abroad. China's president, Xi	围绕着刘晓波的紧张气氛也蔓延到了国外。中国国家主席习近平对人权游说

Jinping, exudes disdain for human rights lobbying, and Western governments have weighed how far to press his case even as rights groups call for action.	流露出轻视的态度，就在倡导人权的组织呼吁采取行动的时候，西方国家的政府则在权衡对刘晓波的情况该施加多大压力。
A spokesman for China's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Geng Shuang, on Monday denounced calls for Mr. Liu to be freed to go abroad as "meddling" by foreigners, even though two doctors, a German and an American, who were invited by the government to examine Mr. Liu said that he could travel and that their hospitals would treat him.	中国外交部发言人耿爽周一指责释放刘晓波、让他出国的呼声是外国人“干涉”中国内政，尽管受政府邀请，前来为刘晓波做检查的一名德国医生和一名美国医生说，他可以旅行，而且二人的医院都会为刘晓波提供治疗。
"Politically, it's 100 percent sure that the Communist Party doesn't want Mr. Liu to be freed or leave China," said Zhao Hui, a writer and friend of Mr. Liu who goes by a pen name, Mo Zhixu. He said: "Whatever chance we have of making that happen depends on external pressure."	“政治上可以百分之百地肯定，共产党不希望刘晓波获释或者离开中国，”刘晓波的朋友、笔名莫之许的作家赵晖说。他说：“我们能让刘晓波获释的全部可能性取决于外部压力。”
But so far most Western leaders, including President Trump, have said nothing publicly about Mr. Liu, leaving any comment to lower-ranking officials.	但到目前为止，包括特朗普总统在内的大多数西方领导人对刘晓波的事情都未公开表态，只是让下级官员发表些评论。
When Mr. Trump met with Mr. Xi during the Group of 20 meeting in Hamburg, Germany, last week, Mr. Trump did not mention Mr. Liu, according to a senior administration official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the issue. But Mr. Trump's national security adviser, H. R. McMaster, raised his treatment with Chinese officials, asking that he be allowed to go abroad for treatment accompanied by his wife, the official said.	据政府一名高级官员说，特朗普上周在德国汉堡举行的二十国集团会议间隙与习近平见面时，没有提到刘晓波。因为所讨论问题的敏感性，这位官员要求不具名。但特朗普的国家安全顾问 H·R·麦克马斯特(H.R. McMaster)曾向中国官员提出刘晓波治疗的问题，要求允许刘晓波在妻子的陪同下出国治疗，上述官员说。
European leaders have also chosen their words cautiously. The French Foreign Ministry said on June 29 that it was "preoccupied" with Mr. Liu's condition and called on China to free him for humanitarian reasons.	欧洲领导人也谨慎地选择了他们的措辞。法国外交部曾在 6 月 29 日表示对刘晓波的病情“忧心忡忡”，呼吁中国以人道主义的理由释放他。

A spokesman for Germany's chancellor, Angela Merkel, said on Monday that "this tragic case of Liu Xiaobo is a great concern of the chancellor" and that "she would like a signal of humanity for Liu Xiabao and his family."	德国总理安格拉·默克尔(Angela Merkel)的一位发言人周一说,“刘晓波的悲惨病情是总理极为关注的一个问题”,还说“她希望在刘晓波及其家人的问题上能看到一个人道的信号”。
The Nobel Peace Prize is awarded in Oslo, and after Mr. Liu was announced as the recipient, the Chinese government vented its anger on the Norwegian government, curtailing diplomatic and economic cooperation. Ties revived only this year, and the Norwegian government has trod carefully on the subject of Mr. Liu's terminal illness.	诺贝尔和平奖在奥斯陆颁发,刘晓波被宣布为获奖者后,中国政府向挪威政府发泄了不满,减少了与挪威的外交和经济合作。直到今年关系才恢复正常,挪威政府对刘晓波患晚期癌症的事情作出小心翼翼的表示。
"This is a demanding case that we are following closely. We have waited over six years to return to normal relations with China," said Frode O. Andersen, the head of communications for the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, according to Norwegian news reports. "Our thoughts go out to him and his family. It is important that he gets medical treatment."	“这是一个非常复杂的情况,我们正在密切关注。我们等待了六年才与中国恢复了正常关系,”据挪威的新闻报道,挪威外交部负责通讯的佛罗地·安德森(Frode O. Andersen)说。“我们为他和他的家人祝福。重要的是他得到医治。”
There is no guarantee that Mr. Xi would bow to stronger foreign pressure to free Mr. Liu. In past decades, Chinese leaders were willing to release political prisoners to Western countries after granting medical parole. They included Wei Jingsheng, the most prominent dissident of his generation, who reached the United States in late 1997 after President Bill Clinton pressed his case with China's president at the time, Jiang Zemin.	不能保证习近平会向更强大的外交压力屈服,释放刘晓波。过去几十年中,中国领导人曾愿意在批准政治犯保外就医后,把他们释放到西方国家。这些政治犯中包括在这一代中最著名的异见人士魏京生,在比尔·克林顿(Bill Clinton)总统向时任国家主席的江泽民提出魏京生的事情后,他于1997年年底到达了美国。
But as the Chinese government has grown more confident and impatient with Western criticism, it has stopped that practice. Mr. Xi	但是随着中国政府越来越自信,对西方的批评越来越不耐烦,政府已停止了那种做法。习近平似乎特别不愿意做出可能削弱其强人形象的让步。

appears particularly set against making concessions that could weaken his strongman reputation.
"The Chinese government is legitimate in its refusal of calls for Liu to be taken overseas for treatment," the English-language edition of Global Times, a party-run tabloid with a nationalist tinge, said in an editorial on Monday. In any case, it added, "Western mainstream society is much less enthusiastic than before in interfering with China's sovereign affairs."	"中国政府拒绝接受让刘某某到海外治病的呼吁是合法的,"《环球时报》英文版在周一的一篇社评中说,这是一份有民族主义色彩的党报。社评还写道,无论如何,"西方主流社会比以往任何时候都更不愿意干涉中国的主权事务。"
Even after Mr. Liu dies, his funeral arrangements could become a focus of contention. Chinese rules say that prisons control the funerals of prisoners and can cremate them even if the family objects.	即使在刘晓波去世后,他的葬礼事宜也可能成为争论的焦点。中国的法规规定,监狱对囚犯的后事全权办理,即使家人反对,也可以将囚犯的尸体火化。
But the "whole area of the rights of individuals serving sentences on medical parole is a murky one indeed, including funereal rights," said John Kamm, the founder of the Dui Hua Foundation, an organization in San Francisco that has worked to free Chinese prisoners.	但是,"关于保外就医的服刑人员权利问题的所有方面确实存在着很多不清楚的地方,包括办后事的权利,"对话基金会创始人康原(John Kamm)说,这是一家位于旧金山,致力于让中国囚犯获得释放的组织。
The Chinese government will almost certainly try to prevent any grave site for Mr. Liu from becoming a place of pilgrimage for dissenters. The grave of Lin Zhao, an outspoken writer executed during the Cultural Revolution, has become one such site, and Mr. Liu's pull would be more powerful.	中国政府几乎肯定会试图阻止让刘晓波的墓地成为异见人士的朝圣地。文革期间因直言不讳被处决的作家林昭的墓地已经成为了一个这样的场所,刘晓波的吸引力会更强大。
He could become the first Nobel Peace laureate to die in effective police custody since Carl von Ossietzky, the German pacifist and foe of Nazism who won the prize in 1935 and died under guard in 1938, after years of maltreatment.	德国和平主义者、纳粹反对者卡尔·冯·奥西茨基(Carl von Ossietzky)是1935年的诺贝尔和平奖获得者,他在遭受多年迫害后,于1938年在监禁中去世。刘晓波有可能成为冯·奥西茨基之后的首位实际上在监禁中逝世的诺贝尔和平奖获得者。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170712/china-liu-xiaobo-nobel-peace-	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170712/china-liu-xiaobo-nobel-peace-

prize-cancer	prize-cancer
The Nobel Peace Laureate Liu Xiaobo, in His Own Words	身陷囹圄，声闻天下：刘晓波作品摘录
HONG KONG – The Chinese government tried to silence Liu Xiaobo by banning the publication of his writing, barring him from public speaking and locking him behind bars. But much of his work has been published overseas. It reveals Mr. Liu as a staunch advocate of democratic change in China who could be harshly critical of the country's political authorities, some of its more celebrated writers and even, at times, himself.	香港——中国政府试图扼杀刘晓波的声音，禁止公开出版他的作品，不允许他公开发表言论，并把他关进牢狱。但他的大部分作品已在海外出版。它们揭示出，刘晓波是中国民主变革的坚定倡导者，他会严厉批评中国政治权威，以及颇受推崇的一些中国作家，甚至有时也严厉地批评自己。
Mr. Liu, who died on Thursday, was a passionate and acerbic lecturer and literary critic in Beijing in the 1980s. He emerged as an influential figure in the 1989 pro-democracy movement. On June 2, two days before the military crushed the demonstrations in Tiananmen Square, Mr. Liu and three friends began a hunger strike. They declared:	刘于本周四逝世，在 1980 年代，他曾是北京一位充满激情、言辞尖刻的讲师和文学评论家。在 1989 年的民主运动中，他成了一位颇具影响力的人物。6 月 2 日，军方镇压天安门广场上的示威者之前的两天，刘晓波和三位朋友开始了绝食。他们宣称：
We advocate the spread of democracy in China through peaceful means, and we oppose violence in any form. At the same time, we are unafraid of violence. Our aim is to show through peaceful means how the iron resolve of Chinese people who want democracy will in the end demolish an undemocratic order that maintains itself with bayonets and lies.	我们主张以和平的方式推进中国的民主化进程，反对任何形式的暴力。但是，我们不畏强暴，我们要以和平的方式来显示民间的民主力量的坚韧，以粉碎靠刺刀和谎言来维系的不民主的秩序！
(Translation by Perry Link in "No Enemies, No Hatred")	(英文译文选自林培瑞[Perry Link]的《没有敌人，没有仇恨》[No Enemies, No Hatred])
Mr. Liu was the primary force behind the Charter 08 manifesto, which called for political changes to democratize China. The document, which was initially signed by hundreds of Chinese intellectuals, led to	刘晓波是《零八宪章》宣言背后的主要推动力量，它呼吁通过政治变革使中国实现民主化。这份文件最初有数百名中国知识分子签署，最终导致他于 2008 年 12 月被捕。2009 年 12 月 25 日，他因“煽动颠覆国家政权”被判入

his arrest in December 2008. On Dec. 25, 2009, he was sentenced to 11 years in prison for "inciting subversion of state power." Charter 08 read, in part:	狱 11 年。《零八宪章》部分节选如下：
China, as a major nation of the world, as one of five permanent members of the United Nations Security Council, and as a member of the U.N. Council on Human Rights, should be contributing to peace for humankind and progress toward human rights. Unfortunately, we stand today as the only country among the major nations that remains mired in authoritarian politics. Our political system continues to produce human rights disasters and social crises, thereby not only constricting China's own development but also limiting the progress of all of human civilization. This must change, truly it must. The democratization of Chinese politics can be put off no longer.	中国作为世界大国，作为联合国安理会五个常任理事国之一和人权理事会的成员，理应为人类和平事业与人权进步做出自身的贡献。但令人遗憾的是，在当今世界的所有大国里，唯独中国还处在威权主义政治生态中，并由此造成连绵不断的人权灾难和社会危机，束缚了中华民族的自身发展，制约了人类文明的进步——这种局面必须改变！政治民主化变革不能再拖延下去。
(Translation by Perry Link)	(英文版由林培瑞译)
During his trial, Mr. Liu defended Charter 08, saying it accurately described events such as the Anti-Rightist Campaign of the late 1950s, the Great Leap Forward of 1958-61, the Cultural Revolution and the Tiananmen crackdown of June 3-4, 1989.	刘晓波在审判过程中为《零八宪章》辩护，他说这份宣言准确描述了 1950 年代后期的反右运动、1958-61 年的大跃进、文革，以及 1989 年 6 月 3 日至 4 日的天安门镇压事件。
First, the "human rights disasters" mentioned in Charter 08 are all facts that have occurred in contemporary China: the Anti-Rightist Campaign wrongly labeled more than 500,000 people as rightists; the Great Leap Forward caused the unnatural deaths of as many as 10 million people; the Cultural Revolution created a national catastrophe. June 4th was an act of murder during which many people died, and many were thrown into jail. These facts are all universally acknowledged "human rights	首先，《零八宪章》指出的“人权灾难”都是发生在当代中国的事实：“反右”错划了五十多万右派；“大跃进”造成了上千万人的非自然死亡；“文革”造成国家的浩劫；“六四”是血案，许多人死了，许多人被投入监狱。这些事实都是举世公认的“人权灾难”，确实为中国的发展带来危机.....

disasters” that indeed brought on crises in China’s development. ...
Second, the long-term objective of the values declared and political reform proposals raised in Charter 08 is the establishment of a free and democratic federal republic. It contains 19 reform measures and advocates a gradual and peaceful approach to reforms. In view of the various malpractices of the current lame-duck reform, it requests that the ruling party transform the lame foot into a second leg, namely, that it advance political and economic reforms together in harmony. ...	其次，《零八宪章》所声明的价值和所提出的政改主张，其长远目标是建成自由民主的联邦共和国，其改革措施是十九条，其改革方式是渐进的和平的方式。这是有感于现行的跛足改革的种种弊端，要求执政党变跛足为双足，即政治与经济同步并进的均衡改革.....
Third, in the past two decades, from 1989 to 2009, I have always expressed the view that China’s political reforms should be gradual, peaceful, orderly, and controlled. I have also consistently opposed quick one-leap radical reforms, and even more so violent revolution.	再次，从1989年到2009年的二十年里，我所表达的中国政治改革的观点，一直是渐进、和平、有序、可控。我也一贯反对一步到位的激进改革，更反对暴力革命。
(Translation by Human Rights in China)	(英文版由“中国人权”[Human Rights in China]译)
In 2010, Mr. Liu was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. When he learned the news during a prison visit from his wife, Liu Xia, he cried and dedicated the prize to the people killed during the 1989 military crackdown. Mr. Liu was credited with saving many lives when he helped negotiate a retreat of protesters as soldiers advanced on Tiananmen Square. The bloodshed of the crackdown, in which hundreds and possibly thousands of people were killed, gave him a profound focus and a lasting sense of guilt, something he addressed in an essay in 2003:	2010年，刘晓波获得诺贝尔和平奖。当他从探监的妻子刘霞口中获悉这一消息时，不禁失声痛哭，把这个荣誉献给1989年军事镇压期间遇害的人们。在士兵占领天安门广场期间，刘晓波曾参与谈判，让示威者得以撤退，因此被誉为挽救了许多人的生命。镇压过程中的流血事件导致了数百人，甚至可能有数千人遇害，这为他的思考带来一种深刻的焦点和持久的内疚感，他在2003年的一篇文章中表达了这一点：
That bloody dawn in 1989 ... showed me how shallow and self-centered I still was, taught me to recognize the warmth and the inner strength of love, and gave me new appreciation of what is most important in life. I	是十四年前的那个血腥黎明，让我懂得了自己的浅薄和自负，懂得了爱的柔性温暖和内在力量，并开始尝试着去体验真实生存的厚重——活着的罪恶和对亡灵的敬畏.....

knew from that time on I would forever be living with the guilt of a survivor and in awe of the souls of the dead.
(From "Using Truth to Undermine a System of Lies," 2003. Translation by Eva S. Chou in "No Enemies, No Hatred")	(选自《用事实推翻建立在谎言上的系统》，2003年。英文版由周杉[Eva S. Chou]译，收录于《没有敌人，没有仇恨》)
Chinese state news outlets criticized Mr. Liu, particularly after the Nobel Prize, for his previous writings and interviews that praised the West over China. In one oft-quoted passage from a 1988 interview with Open Magazine in Hong Kong, then a British colony, he said that since the city had progressed so much during 100 years of British rule, China would "need 300 years of colonialism" to catch up. But in later work he expressed second thoughts. In the epilogue to his 1990 book "Chinese Politics and China's Modern Intellectuals," he wrote:	中国国有新闻媒体批评刘晓波，特别是在他获得诺贝尔奖之后，称他在之前的写作和采访中曾有崇洋媚外的言论。1988年他接受香港《开放杂志》(Open Magazine)采访时的一段话经常被引用，香港当时还是英国的殖民地，他表示，因为这个城市在英国统治的100年期间取得了巨大的进步，所以中国政府“需要300年的殖民”才能赶上。但在后来的作品中，他表达了进一步的想法。他在1990年出版的《中国政治与中国当代知识分子》一书中写道：
My tendency to idealize Western civilization arises from my nationalistic desire to use the West in order to reform China. But this has led me to overlook the flaws in Western culture — or, even if I see them, to set them aside intentionally. I have not, therefore, been able to stand apart from Western culture, take a critical view of it and perhaps get a better view of human frailty more generally. I have been obsequious toward Western civilization, exaggerating its merits, and at the same time exaggerating my own merits. I have viewed the West as if it were not only the salvation of China but also the natural and ultimate destination of all humanity.	正因为我的民族主义立场和企图借助于西方文化来改造中国，所以我对中国的批判是以对西方文化的绝对理想化为前提的。我忽略了或故意回避了西方文化的种种弱点，甚至是我已经感觉到、意识到的弱点。这样，我就无法站在更高的层次上对西方文化进行批判性的反省，对整个人类的弱点给予抨击。而只能向西方文化文明“献媚”，以一种夸张的态度来美化西方文明，同时也美化我自身，仿佛西方文化不但是中国的救星，而且是全人类的终极归宿。
(Translation by Stacy Mosher in "No Enemies, No Hatred")	(英文版由斯塔西·莫舍[Stacy Mosher]译，收录于《没有敌人，没有仇恨》)
Because Mr. Liu remained in prison after he was selected for the Nobel in 2010, he was represented at the award ceremony by an empty chair.	2010年，刘晓波获得诺贝尔奖后，因为仍被监禁，所以颁奖礼上用一把空椅子来代替他。他的演讲由挪威女演员和导演丽芙·乌曼(Liv Ullmann)朗读，

His lecture, which was read by the Norwegian actress and director Liv Ullmann, was the statement he had prepared for his 2009 trial. "I Have No Enemies: My Final Statement" describes Mr. Liu's love for his wife, Liu Xia, his lack of enmity toward the police and prosecutors who put him behind bars, and his hopes for political liberalization in China:	那是他在 2009 年为审判准备的声明，在《我没有敌人：我的最后陈述》中，刘晓波表达了对妻子刘霞的爱、对警察以及令他入狱的检察官没有敌意，以及对对中国政治自由化的希望：
I look forward to [the day] when my country is a land with freedom of expression, where the speech of every citizen will be treated equally well; where different values, ideas, beliefs and political views ... can both compete with each other and peacefully coexist; where both majority and minority views will be equally guaranteed, and where the political views that differ from those currently in power, in particular, will be fully respected and protected; where all political views will spread out under the sun for people to choose from, where every citizen can state political views without fear, and where no one can under any circumstances suffer political persecution for voicing divergent political views. I hope that I will be the last victim of China's endless literary inquisitions and that from now on no one will be incriminated because of speech.	我期待我的国家是一片可以自由表达的土地，在这里，每一位国民的发言都会得到同等的善待；在这里，不同的价值、思想、信仰、政见.....既相互竞争又和平共处；在这里，多数的意见和少数的意见都会得到平等的保障，特别是那些不同于当权者的政见将得到充分的尊重和保护；在这里，所有的政见都将摊在阳光下接受民众的选择，每个国民都能毫无恐惧地发表政见，决不会因发表不同政见而遭受政治迫害；我期待，我将是中国绵绵不绝的文字狱的最后一个受害者，从此之后不再有人因言获罪。
Freedom of expression is the foundation of human rights, the source of humanity, and the mother of truth. To strangle freedom of speech is to trample on human rights, stifle humanity, and suppress truth.	表达自由，人权之基，人性之本，真理之母。封杀言论自由，践踏人权，窒息人性，压抑真理。
In order to exercise the right to freedom of speech conferred by the Constitution, one should fulfill the social responsibility of a Chinese citizen. There is nothing criminal in anything I have done. [But] if charges are brought against me because of this, I have no complaints.	为践行宪法赋予的言论自由之权利，当尽到一个中国公民的社会责任，我的所作所为无罪，即便为此被指控，也无怨言。

(Translation by Human Rights in China)	(英文版由“中国人权”[Human Rights in China]译)
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170713/liu-xiaobo-china-nobel-writing	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170713/liu-xiaobo-china-nobel-writing
Liu Xiaobo, Chinese Dissident Who Won Nobel While Jailed, Dies at 61	刘晓波病逝：自由的探路者，专制主义的囚徒
BEIJING — Liu Xiaobo, the renegade Chinese intellectual who kept vigil on Tiananmen Square in 1989 to protect protesters from encroaching troops, promoted a pro-democracy charter that brought him an 11-year prison sentence, and won the Nobel Peace Prize of 2010 while locked away, died on Thursday. He was 61.	北京——中国民主人士刘晓波于本周四逝世，享年 61 岁。刘晓波是一位离经叛道的知识分子。1989 年学生运动中，他曾守在天安门广场，军队逼近之际，救护了现场的抗议者。因为起草并传播一份呼唤民主的宣言，他被判处 11 年有期徒刑。2010 年，刘晓波在狱中获得诺贝尔和平奖。
The bureau of justice of Shenyang, the city in northeastern China where Mr. Liu was being treated for cancer, announced on its website that Mr. Liu had died.	沈阳市司法局在其官方网站上宣布了刘晓波的死讯。刘晓波就是在沈阳的一家医院接受癌症治疗的。
The Chinese government revealed he had liver cancer in late June only after it was virtually beyond treatment. Officially, Mr. Liu gained medical parole. But even as he faced death, he was kept silenced and under guard in a hospital in northeastern China, still a captive of the authoritarian controls that he had fought for decades.	中国政府直到 6 月底才公布刘晓波患有肝癌，那时他的病情已经基本医治无望。从官方的角度来说，刘晓波获得了保外就医。但即便是住进东北一家医院、面临死亡的时候，刘晓波仍被禁言，始终有人看押。他几十年来与这个专制政权的牢笼斗争，临死时仍然是它的囚徒。
The police have kept his wife, Liu Xia, under house arrest and smothering surveillance, preventing her from speaking out about Mr. Liu's death and his belated treatment for cancer.	刘晓波的妻子刘霞一直被警方软禁，并处于严密监视之下。警方不允许她就丈夫的死和迟到的癌症治疗发表言论。
"Can't operate, can't do radiotherapy, can't do chemotherapy," Ms. Liu said of her husband before he died in a brief video message to a friend when her husband's fatal condition was announced. The message quickly spread online.	刘晓波危及生命的病情被公开时，刘霞在一段对朋友的简短的视频中这样描述他的情况：“不能手术、不能放疗、不能化疗。”这段视频迅速在网上传播开来。
Mr. Liu's illness elicited a deluge of sympathy from friends, Chinese	刘晓波的病况引起了朋友、中国人权活动人士以及国际团体的广泛同情。在

rights activists and international groups, who saw him as a fearless advocate of peaceful democratic change. He was the first Nobel Peace Prize laureate to die in state custody since Carl von Ossietzky, the German pacifist and foe of Nazism who won the prize in 1935 and died in a prison hospital in 1938.	他们看来，刘晓波是一名无畏的和平民主改革倡导者。他是 1935 年的诺贝尔和平奖得主——1938 年在监狱医院中死亡的德国和平主义者、纳粹的敌人卡尔·冯·奥西茨基(Carl von Ossietzky)——以来，第一位在国家监控下死亡的诺贝尔和平奖得主。
"The reaction to his illness shows how much he was respected," said Cui Weiping, a former professor of literature in Beijing who knew Mr. Liu and now lives in Los Angeles. "People from all walks of life – friends, strangers, young people – have been outraged to hear that someone with terminal cancer was kept locked up till he died."	"人们对他病情的反应说明了他受到了多大的尊重，"现居洛杉矶、一名认识刘晓波的前北京文学教授崔卫平说。"各界人士——朋友、陌生人、年轻人——在听说有癌症晚期患者被关押至死，都相当愤怒。"
Mr. Liu was arrested most recently in 2008, after he helped initiate Charter 08, a bold petition calling for democracy, the rule of law and an end to censorship.	刘晓波最后一次被捕是在 2008 年，在他参与起草《零八宪章》之后。那是一份呼吁民主、法治以及结束审查制度的大胆的请愿书。
A year later, a court in Beijing tried and convicted Mr. Liu on a charge of inciting subversion. The petition and essays he wrote in which he upbraided and mocked the Chinese government were cited in the verdict. Mr. Liu responded to the heavy sentence with a warning about China's future.	一年后，北京一座法院审理了刘晓波的案子，并以“煽动颠覆国家政权罪”对其判刑。判决书引用了《零八宪章》和刘晓波批评、戏谑中国政府的文章。面对沉重的判决，刘晓波回以一个对中国未来的警告。
"Hatred can rot a person's wisdom and conscience," Mr. Liu said in a statement he prepared for the trial. "An enemy mentality will poison the spirit of a nation and inflame brutal life and death struggles, destroy a society's tolerance and humanity, and hinder a country's advance toward freedom and democracy."	"仇恨会腐蚀一个人的智慧和良知，"刘晓波在为一项为审判而准备的陈述中写道："敌人意识将毒化一个民族的精神，煽动起你死我活的残酷斗争，毁掉一个社会的宽容和人性，阻碍一个国家走向自由民主的进程。"
By the time of the trial, Mr. Liu was already China's best-known dissident, and his fame grew even more when he was awarded the	受审当时，刘晓波已是中国最出名的异见者。在 2010 年获得诺贝尔奖之后，他变得更加出名。当时他被关在中国东北狱中。挪威诺贝尔奖委员会表彰他

Nobel Peace Prize in 2010 while imprisoned in northeast China. The Nobel committee in Norway praised him as "the foremost symbol of this wide-ranging struggle for human rights in China."	是“中国人权斗争最突出的象征人物。”
Mr. Liu could not collect the prize himself and he was represented at the ceremony by an empty chair. His statement for his trial, which he was not allowed to read out, served in his absence as his Nobel lecture.	刘晓波无法亲自领奖，在颁奖典礼上，本该属于他的位置摆放着一张空椅子。他为审判而准备、却未被准许宣读的法庭陈述，被人代为朗读，作为他的诺贝尔演讲。
"Xiaobo was wedded both psychically and physically to China and its fate," Geremie R. Barmé, an Australian Sinologist and a close friend of Mr. Liu's, wrote in a tribute before Mr. Liu's death. "In the end, his words and deeds may have garnered him a Nobel Prize, yet in an authoritarian system, one that since 1989 has oscillated merely between the poles of the cruel and the pitiless, they sealed his fate."	"无论是在精神还是肉体上，晓波都与中国及其命运紧紧相连，"刘晓波去世前，澳大利亚汉学家、他的好友白杰明(Geremie R. Barmé)在一篇颂词中这样写道。"到头来，他的言论与行动可能为他赢得了诺贝尔奖，但是在一个专制的体制里，在一个1989年以来不过是在残酷与无情之间摆动的体制里，那些言论与行动已经注定了他的命运。"
Confrontation and detention were nothing new to Mr. Liu. He was born on Dec. 28, 1955, in Jilin Province, northeast China. The son of a professor who remained loyal to the Communist Party, Mr. Liu made a vocation out of obdurate opposition to authoritarianism.	刘晓波对抗争和监禁毫不陌生。1955年12月28日，他在中国东北的吉林省出生。他的父亲是一名忠于共产党的大学教授，他却一生顽强执拗地与专制主义抗争。
"He was a dissident even among dissidents," said Mr. Yu, the friend and biographer. Mr. Yu now lives in the United States.	"即使在异见者中间，他也是一名异见者，"刘晓波的友人余杰说道。他曾为刘晓波写过一部传记。余杰现居美国。
He added, "Liu Xiaobo was willing to criticize himself and reflect on his actions in a way that even many activists in the democracy movement can't."	他还说道："刘晓波愿意作自我批评，反省自己的所作所为。就连许多民主运动中的活动人士，也做不到这一点。"
Mr. Yu recalled the first time Mr. Liu spoke to him over the phone, in about 1999. "He said, 'I've read your book and there's a lot I disagree with,'" Mr. Yu said. "He criticized me for about half an hour."	余杰回忆了大约在1999年，他第一次与刘晓波通电话的情景："他说，'我已经读过你的书了，有很多地方我不同意，'他批评了我大约半个小时。"
Mr. Liu started out as a notoriously abrasive literary critic in Beijing in	20世纪80年代，刘晓波在北京作为一个严厉的文学评论家出了名，被人称

the 1980s. He was called a “dark horse” who bridled at intellectual conformity, even in the name of reform. But he was increasingly drawn into political questions as Deng Xiaoping, the Communist leader, resisted matching economic liberalization with political transformation.	为“黑马”。知识界的一致顺从让他深恶痛绝，哪怕是以改革的名义。当时，邓小平拒绝进行与经济自由化匹配的政治改革，他渐渐将重心转向政治问题。
In 1989, he was a visiting scholar at Columbia University when students in Beijing occupied Tiananmen Square to demand democratic changes and an end to party corruption. He returned to Beijing to support the protests. He later described that time as a turning point, one that ended his academic career and set him irrevocably into a life of political opposition.	1989年，在北京的学生占领天安门广场、要求民主改革并结束政党腐败时，他是哥伦比亚大学的访问学者。他回到北京支持抗议者。后来，他将该时间点描述为一个“转折点”——让他结束学术生涯，不可逆转地走上了政治反抗的人生道路。
Mr. Liu’s sympathy for the students was not unreserved; he eventually urged them to leave Tiananmen Square and return to their campuses. As signs grew that the Communist Party leadership would use force to end the protests, Mr. Liu and three friends, including the singer Hou Dejian, held a hunger strike on the square to show solidarity with the students, even as they advised them to leave.	刘晓波对学生展现了无保留的同情。他最终敦促他们离开天安门广场，回到校园。越来越多迹象表明，共产党领导层将动用武力结束抗议活动；这时，刘晓波和他的三个朋友（包括歌手侯德健）在广场上一边绝食声援学生，一边劝导他们撤离。
“If we don’t join the students in the square and face the same kind of danger, then we don’t have any right to speak,” Mr. Hou quoted Mr. Liu as saying.	“如果我们没有加入广场上的学生并且面对同样的危险，我们就没有资格发言，”侯德健引述了刘晓波的话。
When the army moved in, hundreds of protesters died in the gunfire and the chaos on roads leading to Tiananmen Square. But without Mr. Liu and his friends, the bloodshed might have been worse. On the night of June 3, they stayed in the square with thousands of students as tanks, armored vehicles and soldiers closed in.	当军队进来时，在通向天安门广场的路上，有成百上千示威者死在枪弹下和混乱中。但如果没有刘晓波和他的朋友，流血事件的后果可能更加惨重。6月3日夜晩，当坦克、装甲车以及解放军官兵朝天安门方向推进合围时，刘晓波和他的朋友们也守在广场。
Mr. Liu and his friends negotiated with the troops to create a safe	刘晓波和他的朋友与逼近的军队协商，要求为留在广场的示威者开放一条安

passage for the remaining protesters to leave the square, and he coaxed the students to flee without a final showdown.	全的通道以便他们撤离，并说服惊慌的学生离开，避免冲突。
"I understand what you're feeling, but haven't you considered how as soon as the first shot rings out, Tiananmen Square will become a river of blood?" Mr. Liu told the students, as he recounted in a memoir published in 1989.	"你们的心情我理解。但是你们想过没有，这枪一响，天安门广场将血流成河？"根据刘晓波撰写的有关1989年的回忆录，他当时在天安门广场上这样说。
"If he hadn't been on the scene, I'm sure people would have died on the square. That was his pacifism in action," said Liu Suli, a friend of Mr. Liu who stayed with him and his friends on Tiananmen Square on the night of June 3. "Xiaobo had a kind of heroism complex that never left him."	"如果他没有在现场，我相信会有人死在广场上。那是他的和平主义行动，"6月3日那晚同刘晓波留在天安门广场上的友人刘苏里表示。"晓波有一种从未消失的英雄主义情结。"
Mr. Liu was arrested days after the crackdown and spent 21 months in detention for supporting the protests. He lost his university lecturing job, his books were banned, and the Communist Party labeled him a "black hand" who had helped foment turmoil. His later support for American government policies, including the invasion of Iraq, also brought scorn.	军方镇压动乱之后不久，刘晓波因支持抗议而被捕，在狱中度过了21个月。他失去了大学讲师的工作、著作被禁，共产党把他贴上煽动民运的"黑手"的标签。他随后支持包括入侵伊拉克在内的美国政府政策的行为也招来鄙视。
But he was unbowed. In 1996, he was sent to a labor camp for three years after demanding clemency for those still in prison for joining the demonstrations.	但他没有为此屈服。1996年，因为呼吁释放因参与示威而仍被囚禁的人士，刘晓波被判处劳教三年。
Mr. Liu did not instigate Charter 08, but after he joined activists who were preparing to release it, he worked to make its demands acceptable to as many people as possible, tramping from door to door in Beijing to recruit prominent signatories.	刘晓波不是《零八宪章》的发起人，但他后来参与了公开发布这份声明之前的准备，并且让它能被尽可能多的人所接受。他还在北京挨家挨户地敲门，动员知名人物签字。
The petition at first drew 303 signatories, including many prominent Chinese writers, academics, lawyers and former officials who were	这一请愿书一开始吸引了303人签字，其中包括刘晓波动员的许多中国著名作家、学者、律师和卸任官员。截至2009年5月，签字人数已达8600多

recruited by Mr. Liu. By May 2009, the number of signers had grown to over 8,600, including supporters living overseas.	人，包括海外支持者。
"He was able to span people inside and outside the system," said Ms. Cui, the friend who also signed the charter. "He also linked together opposition movements from different generations. I don't think anyone other than Liu Xiaobo could have done that."	"他能兼顾体制内外的人，"刘晓波的朋友、同样也签署了《零八宪章》的崔卫平说："他还把来自不同世代的反对派运动联系起来。我不认为除了刘晓波还有人可以做到这一点。"
Mr. Liu and most other participants dismissed the risk that they could be severely punished. But his wife feared that the government would retaliate harshly. In the statement that Mr. Liu wrote for his trial, he thanked Liu Xia for her "selfless love."	刘晓波和大多数其他签署者对可能受到严惩的风险不以为然。但他的妻子刘霞担心政府会严加报复。在刘晓波的审判陈述中，他感谢刘霞的"无私的爱"。
"Even if I am crushed into powder, I will embrace you with ashes," he wrote. "Dearest, with your love, I will calmly face the impending trial, with no regrets for my choices, and will look forward with hope to tomorrow."	"即使我被碾成粉末，我也会用灰烬拥抱你，"他写道："亲爱的，有你的爱，我就会坦然面对即将到来的审判，无悔于自己的选择，乐观地期待着明天。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170713/liu-xiaobo-dies-at-61	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170713/liu-xiaobo-dies-at-61
China's Religious Revival Fuels Environmental Activism	中国宗教复兴助推环境意识觉醒
MAO MOUNTAIN, China — Far from the smog-belching power plants of nearby cities, on a hillside covered in solar panels and blossoming magnolias, Yang Shihua speaks of the need for a revolution.	中国茅山——远离附近城市冒着烟的电厂，在一个覆盖着太阳能电池板，盛开着木兰花的山坡上，杨世华谈到了来一场革新的需要。
Mr. Yang, the abbot of Mao Mountain, a sacred Taoist site in eastern China, has grown frustrated by indifference to a crippling pollution crisis that has left the land barren and the sky a haunting gray. So he has set out to spur action through religion, building a $17.7 million eco-friendly temple and citing 2,000-year-old texts to rail against waste and pollution.	茅山是中国东部的一个道教圣地，杨世华是茅山道院住持。一次严重的污染危机导致土地荒芜，天空灰暗，人们漠不关心的态度让杨世华感到沮丧。所以他开始通过宗教来激励行动，牵头修建了一座耗资 1770 万美元的生态友好型道观，并引用 2000 年前的古训来抵制废弃物排放和污染。

“China doesn’t lack money — it lacks a reverence for the environment,” Abbot Yang said. “Our morals are in decline and our beliefs have been lost.”	“中国不缺钱——缺的是对环境的尊重。”杨世华说，“我们的道德正在衰落，我们的信仰已经丧失。”
Hundreds of millions of people in China have in recent years turned to religions like Taoism, Buddhism, Christianity and Islam, seeking a sense of purpose and an escape from China’s consumerist culture.	近年来，中国有数以亿计的人开始从道教、佛教、基督教和伊斯兰教等宗教中寻找人生的意义，以摆脱中国的消费主义文化。
Now the nation’s religious revival is helping fuel an environmental awakening.	现在，中国的宗教复兴正在帮助推动环境意识的觉醒。
Spiritual leaders are invoking concepts like karma and sin in deriding the excesses of economic development. Religious followers are starting social service organizations to serve as watchdogs against polluters. Advocates are citing their faith to protest plans to build factories and power plants near their homes.	精神领袖引用业力和罪孽这样的概念，嘲弄过度的经济发展。宗教信徒开始创立社会服务机构，对污染排放者进行监督。倡导者援引他们的信仰，对在家园附近建造工厂和发电厂的规划进行抗议。
“Certainly it is a very powerful force,” said Martin Palmer, the secretary general of the Alliance of Religions and Conservation, a group that works with Chinese spiritual leaders. “People are asking, ‘How do you make sense of your life?’ An awful lot are looking for something bigger than themselves, and that is increasingly the environment.”	“这当然是一股非常强大的力量。人们在问：‘你怎么领悟人生真谛？’非常多的人都在寻找比自身更宏大的东西，越来越多的人看向了环境。”与中国一些精神领袖有合作的世界宗教与环境保护基金会(Alliance of Religions and Conservation, 简称 ARC) 秘书长彭马田(Martin Palmer)说道。
The Chinese government, which regulates worship and limits activism, has so far tolerated the rise of religious environmentalists.	对敬奉神明的行为进行监管、对行动主义加以限制的中国政府，至今为止，对宗教环保者的崛起采取了容忍的态度。
President Xi Jinping has championed the study of Chinese traditions, including Taoism and Confucianism, in part to counter the influence of Western ideas in Chinese society. Mr. Xi, in articulating the so-called Chinese dream, has called for a return to China’s roots as an “ecological civilization” — a vision he has described as having “clear waters and	习近平主席主张研究中国传统思想，包括道教和儒家思想，部分原因是为了抵制西方思想对中国社会的影响。在阐述“中国梦”的时候，习近平呼吁要让中国回归到“生态文明”的根本上一—他描述了一个全国各地“绿水青山”的愿景。 green mountains" across the land.

Mao Mountain, with its stretches of untouched land, stands as a monument to nature. Chongxi Wanshou, Abbot Yang's eco-friendly temple, opened in August 2016. Its 20 acres include an organic vegetable garden. Nearby is a giant statue of Lao-tzu, the founder of Taoism, who is worshiped here as a "green god." Bees' nests hang undisturbed, and signs remind passers-by that branches and trees are synonymous with life.	茅山及其原生态的土地是一座自然的纪念碑。2016年8月，杨世华牵头修建的生态友好型道观崇禧万寿宫落成，它占地20英亩（约合120亩），带有一个有机蔬菜园。旁边是道教的创始人老子的巨大雕像，他在这里被敬奉为“绿神”。悬挂的蜂巢无人惊扰，标牌提醒路人，树木枝叶是生命的代名词。
The mountain's spiritual leaders say they are seeking to define a distinctly Chinese type of environmentalism, one that emphasizes harmony with nature instead of Western notions of "saving the earth."	茅山上的精神领袖说，他们想要界定一种具有明显中国特征的环保主义，强调人与自然的和谐，而不是西方那种“拯救地球”的概念。
Xuan Jing, a Taoist monk with a black beard, said Western notions of the environment were focused on treating symptoms of a problem, not the underlying disease.	留着黑胡子的道士玄静（音）说，西方的环境概念治标不治本。
"You must cure the soul before you can cure the symptoms," he said. "The root lies with human's desires."	"你必须治好病根，症状才能好转，"他说。"病根在于人的欲望"。
As he sipped tea, he jotted down Taoist teachings: "Humans follow the earth, the earth follows heaven, heaven follows Taoism, Taoism follows nature."	他一边品茶，一边写下道家教义："人法地、地法天、天法道、道法自然。"
Many spiritual leaders are also energized by what they see as an opportunity for China to become a global leader on environmental issues, with the United States showing new skepticism toward causes like combating climate change.	很多精神领袖也认为，随着美国对阻止气候变化这样的事业表示怀疑，中国有机会成为环境问题的全球领导者，这也振奋了他们的士气。
"We all live on earth together — we are not isolated," Abbot Yang said in criticizing President Trump's decision to withdraw from the Paris	"我们一起生活在地球上——不是孤立的，"杨道长在批评特朗普总统退出巴黎协议的决定时说道。"作为道教徒，我们必须竭力影响海内外的人，让他

climate accord. "As Taoists, we have to work to influence people in China and overseas to take part in ecological protection."	们参与生态保护。"
Environmentalism is infusing other religions in China as well, inspiring Buddhists, Christians and Muslims to take action.	环境保护论也在渗入中国的其他宗教, 鼓舞佛教徒、基督徒和穆斯林采取行动。
In Nanjing, the capital of Jiangsu Province, about an hour from Mao Mountain, Li Yaodong, 77, a retired government worker and a Buddhist, is the founder of a nonprofit called Mochou, or "free of worries," dedicated to cleaning up polluted lakes.	在距离茅山大约一个小时车程的江苏省省会南京, 77岁的政府退休工作人员、佛教徒李耀东创立了非营利组织“莫愁”, 致力于清理被污染的湖泊。
Mr. Li said that he saw parallels between his faith and protecting the environment. He leads by example, wearing secondhand clothes given to him by his children and collecting used staples to send back to factories.	李耀东表示, 他发现自己的信仰和保护环境有相似之处。他以身作则, 穿孩子们给他的二手衣服, 收集用过的订书钉送回工厂。
"From an environmental protection perspective, saving means reducing carbon emissions," he said. "From a Buddhist perspective, it means accumulating merits and doing good deeds."	"从环保的角度看, 节约意味着减少二氧化碳排放,"他说。"从佛教的角度看, 它意味着积德行善。"
Muslims and Christians are also speaking up on environmental issues, drawing on their faith to galvanize the masses. China is home to more than 60 million Christians and more than 20 million Muslims by some estimates.	穆斯林和基督教也在谈论环保议题, 利用它们的信仰激励群众。据估计, 中国有 6000 多万名基督徒和 2000 多万名穆斯林。
Shen Zhanqing, a pastor who works for the Amity Foundation, a Christian charity, said many church members felt inspired by religion to help protect the environment. The foundation has held study groups on issues like reducing carbon emissions and climate change, and it encourages members to take buses to church.	为基督教慈善机构爱德基金会(Amity Foundation)工作的牧师沈占强表示, 许多教友感觉自己受到宗教信仰的启发, 开始协助保护环境。该基金会就减排和气候变化等议题组织了学习小组, 还鼓励教友乘公交去教堂。
"The decadence of human beings has destroyed the environment in	"人类的放纵行为破坏了中国的环境,"沈占强说。"我们的目的是保护上帝的

China," Pastor Shen said. "Our purpose is to protect God's creation."	创造。"
At Mao Mountain, the monks gather each morning to read ancient texts and to write calligraphy next to the trees and stones. Hundreds of visitors climb the stairs each day to pay respect to Lao-tzu. To limit pollution, they are prohibited from burning more than three sticks of incense each.	在茅山，道士们每天清晨会聚在一起读古经，在树木和石头旁练书法。有成百上千的访客每天爬山去参拜老子。为了减少污染，每次烧香不能超过三支。
Abbot Yang devotes much of his time to persuading local officials across China to set aside areas for natural protection, an unpopular idea in many parts. He has also worked to attract young, wealthy urbanites to Taoism. Many of them are eager for a spiritual cause and have responded warmly to Taoist leaders' embrace of environmentalism.	杨道长将自己的大部分时间用于劝说中国各地的地方官员留出自然保护区，这种建议在很多地方并不受欢迎。他也竭力吸引年轻、富有的城里人皈依道教。他们中有许多人渴望获得精神上的依托，对道教领袖的环保立场予以热烈的响应。
Taoist officials have also spoken up at national leadership meetings in recent years, calling on the government to take more action to prevent environmental catastrophes.	最近几年，道教官员也在国家领导层会议上发言，呼吁政府采取更多行动，防止环境灾难的发生。
The abbot acknowledged that it might seem strange for Taoists, who practice a philosophy of wu wei, or inaction, to be leading a call for change. Still, he said it was important to set an example.	杨道长承认，由秉承无为哲学的道家来领导一项呼吁改变的行动，看起来可能是有点奇怪。但他表示树立一个榜样是很重要的。
"Taoism has almost 2,000 years of history — environmental protection isn't new for us," he said. "We have to take action."	"道教有近 2000 年的历史——环境保护对我们来说不是什么新鲜事，"他说。"我们必须采取行动。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170713/mao-mountain-china-religion-environment	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170713/mao-mountain-china-religion-environment
Asia Society and One of Its Leaders Are at Odds Over Hong Kong	亚洲协会禁言黄之锋，自我审查争议风波再起
Last week, the Asia Society sought to put behind it accusations that it had censored a prominent democracy activist in Hong Kong.	上周，亚洲协会试图将有关它审查一名著名民主活动人士的指控置诸脑后。
But at a luncheon on Thursday at the organization's Manhattan	但是周四，在该组织于曼哈顿总部举行的午宴上，这件事再次引起关注。香

headquarters, the issue arose again when Ronnie Chan, a Hong Kong billionaire and the society's co-chairman, asserted that the group was apolitical and should steer clear of disputes.	港亿万富翁，同时是该协会联席主席的陈启宗坚称，该组织与政治无关，应该避免纷争。
"Why would we be dragged into local politics?" said Mr. Chan, who is also the chairman of the society's Hong Kong Center.	"为什么我们要被牵扯进地方政治中呢？"陈启宗说，他也是亚洲协会香港中心的主席。
Mr. Chan's remarks came in response to a question about his commitment to free speech in Hong Kong, following the decision by the Hong Kong Center to bar the democracy activist, Joshua Wong, from speaking at a literary event two weeks ago.	他的评论是为了回应有关他对香港言论自由承诺的问题。在两周前，香港中心决定禁止民主活动人士黄之锋在一次朗读会上发言。
His comments put him at odds with the society's official response to the dispute. In a statement earlier this month, the organization attributed the exclusion of Mr. Wong to a judgment error "at the staff level." It also said that the organization has hosted events "with speakers representing all sides of major Asia-related issues."	他的言论与亚洲协会对此争议的官方回复相悖。在本月早前的声明中，该组织称将黄之锋排除在外的决定是“员工层面”的判断错误。声明还称在该机构举办的活动中，“演讲嘉宾代表着与亚洲主要相关问题的方方面面”。
Mr. Wong was a leader of the Umbrella Movement, which began in 2014 and took its name from the umbrellas that protesters used to defend themselves from police pepper spray during weeks of widespread demonstrations where they demanded a more direct say in the election of the Hong Kong's chief executive, its top political office.	黄之锋是雨伞运动领袖。该运动在2014年掀开序幕，这场历时数周的大规模示威因抗议者用雨伞抵挡警察的胡椒喷雾得名。示威者当时要求对行政长官——香港最高政治领导人——的选举有更直接的话语权。
Mr. Wong contributed to "Hong Kong 20/20: Reflections on a Borrowed Place," a compilation of writings marking the 20th anniversary of Britain's 1997 handover of the territory to China. The Asia Society had invited him to speak at a gathering to commemorate the publication of the book.	黄之锋是《反思香港 20/20：借用之境》的撰稿人之一。这是一本纪念1997年英国将香港主权移交给中国20周年的作品集。亚洲协会邀请他在集会上发言，庆祝书籍出版。
Once it became clear that Mr. Wong was not welcome, allegations of	当事情变得明显：黄之锋是不受欢迎的时候，对该组织自我审查的指控开始

 censorship arose, and fingers pointed at Mr. Chan, a real estate developer and philanthropist who has been outspoken in his support of Leung Chun-ying, the former chief executive of Hong Kong and the focus of the 2014 democracy protests. 	 出现，矛头也指向了地产开发商、慈善家陈启宗。他曾坦率地表达过对前香港特首、2014年民主示威的关注焦点梁振英的支持。
 "At Asia Society, we just don't cover certain things. Can I have the liberty to do that?" the co-chairman said at the lunch on Thursday, which had the theme "Hong Kong, 20 Years Later: Promises Made, Promise Kept, Promises to be Fulfilled." 	 “在亚洲协会，我们就是不会涉足一些话题。我能有这样做的自由吗？”这位协会联席主席在周四的午餐会上说道，该午宴的主题是“香港，20年后：许下的承诺，遵守的承诺，未完成的承诺”。
 "I have never invited once the pro-establishment camp to say a word about local politics," he said, referring to pro-Beijing speakers. "Never. Check our program," he added. 	 “我从未邀请过建制派说任何有关本地政治的事情，”他说，指的是亲北京派发言者。“从来没有。可以检查我们的节目单，”他补充道。
 On Thursday, Tom Nagorski, the executive vice president of the Asia Society, said Mr. Wong was later invited to another event. 	 周四，亚洲协会的执行副总裁汤姆·纳格尔斯基(Tom Nagorski)称，黄之锋之后获邀参加另一项活动。
 One of the sponsors of the luncheon at the Asia Society on Thursday was the Hong Kong Economic & Trade Office in New York. 	 周四亚洲协会午宴的其中一个赞助商是香港驻纽约经济贸易办事处。
 Earlier this week, Forbes published an article on its website about a growing Chinese influence at the Asia Society. But on Thursday, the story no longer appeared on the magazine's website. A spokeswoman for Forbes, which is owned by a Hong Kong-based media group called Integrated Whale Media, declined to comment. 	 本周早些时候，福布斯杂志在网站上发表了一篇关于中国对亚洲协会日渐增长的影响的文章。但周四，这篇文章从该杂志的网站上消失了。福布斯的一名发言人拒绝评论此事。杂志的所有者是一家名为本汇鲸(Integrated Whale Media)的香港本地媒体集团。
 https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170714/asia-society-and-one-of-its-leaders-are-at-odds-over-hong-kong 	 https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170714/asia-society-and-one-of-its-leaders-are-at-odds-over-hong-kong
 Liu Xiaobo's Fate Reflects Fading Pressure on China Over Human Rights 	 刘晓波之死和无力对抗中国威权的西方世界
 BEIJING — Liu Xiaobo, China's only Nobel Peace Prize laureate, catapulted to fame in 1989, when the Communist Party's violent 	 北京——中国唯一的诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波在1989年声名鹊起，当时共产党在天安门广场暴力镇压抗议活动，引起国际哗然。

crackdown on protests in Tiananmen Square created an international uproar.
Now, nearly three decades later, Mr. Liu has died of cancer while in state custody, a bedridden and silenced example of Western governments' inability, or reluctance, to push back against China's resurgent authoritarians.	近 30 年后，刘晓波在关押期间因癌症病逝，在病笃与无声中再次突显一个问题：西方政府缺乏对抗卷土重来的中国威权主义者的能力或意愿。
Mr. Liu's fate reflects how human rights issues have receded in Western diplomacy with China. And it shows how Chinese Communist Party leaders, running a strong state bristling with security powers, can disdain foreign pleas, even for a man near death.	刘晓波的命运反映了在西方与中国的交涉中，人权问题是如何大事变小的。同时也显示出，驾驭着一个拥有强大军力的大国的共产党领导人，可以怎样蔑视外国的请求，哪怕这关乎一个垂死之人。
"It's certainly become more difficult," said John Kamm, an American businessman and founder of the Dui Hua Foundation, who for decades has quietly lobbied China to free or improve the treatment of political prisoners. He said his attempts to win approval for Mr. Liu to leave China for treatment, as Mr. Liu and his wife requested, got nowhere.	"情况肯定变得更加艰难了，"中美对话基金会(Dui Hua Foundation)创始人、美国商人康原(John Kamm)说，几十年来，他默默游说中国政府释放政治犯或改善他们的待遇。他表示，遵照刘晓波及其妻子的意愿，他曾设法让刘晓波获准离开中国接受治疗，但却无功而返。
"I tried my best. I did everything I could," he said before Mr. Liu died. "Things are pretty difficult right now. It's hard for me to get the kinds of responses I need."	"我已经尽力了，尽了我所能，"他在刘晓波去世前说。"情况现在非常困难。很难达到我想要的效果。"
These days, major Western governments struggle to get responses from China about prisoners and conditions in Tibet and Xinjiang. Many Western politicians have also become less willing to dwell on human rights problems when other issues — North Korea, trade and investment, terrorism, climate change, cybersecurity — fill their meetings with Chinese officials, said rights advocates and experts.	这些日子以来，在西藏和新疆的囚犯生活条件上，西方大国政府很难得到中国的回应。人权倡导者和专家说，很多西方政界人士和中国官员的会面都被其他问题占满，比如朝鲜、贸易与投资、恐怖主义、气候变化、网络安全等问题，他们不像以前那么愿意集中在人权问题上了。
The United States, Germany and other Western governments did	美国、德国等西方国家政府，也礼貌地敦促中国释放刘晓波，由妻子刘霞陪

politely prod China to release Mr. Liu from prison and let him go abroad for treatment of his liver cancer, accompanied by his wife, Liu Xia.	同出国治疗肝癌。
A spokesman for Germany's chancellor, Angela Merkel, issued a statement that "she would like a signal of humanity for Liu Xiaobo and his family," while President Trump said nothing publicly about his case, leaving any comment to lower-ranking officials.	德国总理默克尔的发言人在一份声明中说，“她希望看到向刘晓波及其家人发出的一个人道主义讯号”，而特朗普总统本人没有公开表态，交由下级官员置评。
Ms. Merkel's statement was a reflection of how the world order has shifted, with the United States under Mr. Trump departing from its traditional role as the most vocal advocate of human rights.	默克尔的声明反映了世界秩序的转变，而在特朗普的治下，美国也脱离了最直言不讳的人权倡导者这个传统角色。
Still, Mr. Kamm and others said the shift came many years before Mr. Trump entered the White House in January.	不过，康原和其他人还表示，这种转变早在特朗普一月入主白宫之前就已经开始。
"I do not think that the world prior to Jan. 20, 2017, was one rife with robust, consistent diplomatic intervention on behalf of peaceful, independent civil society in China," said Sophie Richardson, the China director of Human Rights Watch. "Taken together, particularly over the 2000s and into the 2010s, you have got progressively less interest on foreign governments in really fighting as hard as they ought to have for systemic change in China."	人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)中国部主任芮莎菲(Sophie Richardson)表示：“我认为，在2017年1月20日之前，国际社会也没有为中国境内的和平、独立民间团体进行强硬而持续的外交干预。总的来说，特别是在2000年代到2010年代这段时间，外国政府在这方面的兴趣逐渐减少，没有真的尽力去抗争，促进中国进行系统性变革。”
In Mr. Liu's case, Chinese officials have dismissed calls by Western governments as meddling.	在刘晓波的问题上，中国官员把西方政府的呼吁说成是干涉。
Beijing issued video and still images of Mr. Liu in a hospital in northeast China, as if to say: We don't need lectures about how to take care of our prisoners. Beijing ignored advice from a German and an American cancer specialist who visited Mr. Liu, at its invitation, and who said he was well enough to travel for treatment.	北京发布了刘晓波住在中国东北一家医院的视频和照片，仿佛在说：我们不需要你们来指导如何照顾我们的囚犯。北京邀请了德国和美国癌症专家去看望刘晓波，但却无视他们的建议。专家们说，刘晓波的身体状况适合出国治疗。

"If Xiaobo, a Nobel Peace Prize laureate, was able to win some freedom for half a month — or two weeks or four days or half a day — and could speak out after eight years of silence, that would be intolerable for the government," said Wu Yangwei, a writer who uses the pen name Ye Du and is a friend of Mr. Liu's. "Ten years ago, it might have been different, there might have been a little hope. But the political atmosphere has shifted."	"晓波是诺贝尔和平奖获得者，如果他能有半个月，或两周，或四天，或者半天时间的自由，可以在八年的沉默之后发声，那对政府来说是不可容忍的。十年前情况可能有所不同，可能还有一点希望。但政治气氛已经变了，"刘晓波的朋友、笔名"野渡"的吴杨伟说。
Lobbying China over its harsh prison sentences for dissent and its other shackles on citizens' rights has never been an amicable conversation; progress has long been spotty. But Mr. Liu's case reflects how Western pressure on China's human rights problems has decreased, while Chinese leaders have become adept at using economic and diplomatic lures and threats to thwart it.	每当要游说中国改变对异见者的严判，减少对公民权利的各种束缚，对话从来都不会友好，进展一直微乎其微。但刘晓波的案例反映了西方在中国人权问题上的施压减少到了何种地步，中国领导人很擅长利用经济和外交的诱惑及威胁来挫败这种压力。
The shifting geopolitics around China and the human rights issue also appeared to be reflected in the disjointed reaction to Mr. Liu's death from top officials of the United Nations, where China has moved to raise its prominence by increasing financial support and furnishing peacekeeping troops.	联合国高层官员对刘晓波去世的消息反应不一，似乎也反映了围绕中国和人权问题的地缘政治的变化。中国竭力通过增加财务支持和提供维和部队来提高自己在联合国的地位。
The organization's high commissioner for human rights, Zeid Ra'ad al-Husseini, implicitly criticized China in a condolence statement by describing Mr. Liu as a champion who had been "jailed for standing up for his beliefs."	该组织的人权事务高级专员扎伊德·拉阿德·侯赛因(Zeid Ra'ad al-Husseini)在一份悼辞中明确批评了中国，称刘晓波是一名"因坚持信念而入狱"的卫士。
But António Guterres, the secretary-general, was more circumspect. Asked for a comment, his spokesman, Stéphane Dujarric, said Mr. Guterres was "deeply saddened," but he did not address the	但联合国秘书长安东尼奥·古特雷斯(António Guterres)就要小心许多。在被请求置评时，他的发言人斯特凡·杜加里克(Stéphane Dujarric)表示，古特雷斯"深感悲痛"，但他没有提到刘晓波去世的背景和他的妻子行动受限的情况。

circumstances of Mr. Liu's death or the restrictions on Mr. Liu's wife. "I don't have anything further to say at this point," Mr. Dujarric told reporters on Thursday.	“在目前这个阶段，我没有更多可以讲的，”杜加里克周四对记者讲道。
In 1989, Mr. Liu was detained for nearly two years after the Chinese government called him a "black hand" who supported the student demonstrators who crowded Tiananmen Square before an armed crackdown. Back then, Communist Party leaders railed against Western-inspired subversion and imprisoned leading participants in the protests who hadn't fled.	1989年，中国政府指控刘晓波是聚集在天安门广场示威——后遭武力镇压——的学生背后的“黑手”，之后被关押了近两年。当时，共产党领导层批判了受西方影响的颠覆行动，将没有逃离中国的抗议活动领导者关进监狱。
Yet China was more vulnerable to pressure, and sometimes made concessions.	不过，中国当时更容易受到压力的影响，有时会做出妥协。
It was the world's ninth-biggest economy in 1989, and needed expertise, investment and technology from advanced countries to begin growing again. It did not have a wide circle of countries that would help it thwart Western sanctions and isolation. And the party general secretary and later president, Jiang Zemin, appeared eager for affirmation and even friendship from President Bill Clinton and other Western leaders.	1989年，中国是世界第九大经济体，需要先进国家的专业知识、投资和技术才能开始再次获得增长。它也没有太多盟国可以帮助它抵御西方的制裁和孤立。中国当时的中共中央总书记、后来担任国家主席的江泽民，似乎渴望获得美国总统比尔·克林顿(Bill Clinton)及其他西方领导人的肯定乃至友谊。
But since China joined the World Trade Organization in 2001 and its economy took off, leaders in Beijing have become increasingly set against making concessions on human rights cases. That posture has reflected China's economic and diplomatic strength. But it has also reflected leaders' longstanding fears that, even with robust growth, broad public support and a powerful police apparatus, they are vulnerable to political foes.	但自中国在2001年加入世贸组织，经济开始起飞后，北京的领导层越来越不愿在人权问题上做出妥协。这种姿态反映了中国的经济和外交实力。但它也反映出领导层存在已久的担忧：即便获得了强劲的增长、广泛的支持，有了强大的警察部门，他们依然容易受到政治敌人的影响。

From 1989 to 2008, when Mr. Liu helped start Charter 08, a petition for democratic change, he and other dissenters still hoped that the Communist Party could be coaxed to give citizens greater freedoms, pushed by civic mobilization in China and encouraged by Western governments and groups. Even if there were occasional setbacks, many believed expanding market forces and a growing middle class would shape history in their direction and would make the government ultimately accept political liberalization.	从1989年至2008年——刘晓波在这一年参与起草了呼吁民主改革的《零八宪章》——他和其他异见者依然期待在中国公民动员的推动和西方政府与机构的鼓励下，能够劝说政府给予公民更大的自由。即便不时遭遇挫折，许多人依然相信，不断扩大的市场力量和日益增多的中产阶级将使历史朝着他们期待的方向发展，会让政府最终接受政治自由化。
"China's economy is growing quickly, and this economic development is supportive of a political transformation," Mr. Liu said in an interview in 2004. "China's international environment has seen big changes, and there'd be very strong international support for its political reforms."	"中国经济现在还在高增长中，它有这种经济上的发展来支撑政治上的转型，" 刘晓波在2004年接受采访时曾这样讲道。"中国现在所处的国际环境和以前相比大不一样了，对它在政治上的改革会有非常强大的国际性的支持。"
But Mr. Liu was arrested in 2008 and sentenced to 11 years in prison in 2009. China's president since 2012, Xi Jinping, has overseen an even more comprehensive crackdown on dissent, rights lawyers and independent civil groups. Mr. Liu's supporters have not abandoned their hopes, but they see that the government has gained confidence against critics.	但刘晓波在2008年被捕，2009年被判11年徒刑。自2012年以来，在中国国家主席习近平的监督下，中国对异见者、人权律师和独立民间组织进行了更广泛的打压。刘晓波的支持者没有放弃希望，但他们看到政府有了应对批评者的信心。
Mr. Kamm of the Dui Hua Foundation said he would continue to present lists of political prisoners to Chinese officials. Now he also plans to point out how the government's treatment of Mr. Liu hurt China's image, he said.	对话基金会的康原表示，他会继续提交政治犯名单给中国官员。但他表示，他也打算指出政府对待刘晓波的方式会对中国的形象造成什么损害。
"I think they have taken an incredible hit on this," Mr. Kamm said. "There are five prisoners on my list tonight that I will use this to try to get out of prison into their loved ones' arms."	"我想他们在这件事上遭到了巨大的打击，"康原说。"今晚我的名单上有五名囚犯，我会利用这一点竭力将他们带出监狱，让他们回到亲人的怀抱。"

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170714/liu-xiaobo-china-human-rights	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170714/liu-xiaobo-china-human-rights
Arson Suspected in Fire in China That Killed at Least 22	江苏火灾 22 人遇难，纵火嫌犯被捕
BEIJING — At least 22 people died in a blaze that gutted a two-story workers' dormitory in eastern China on Sunday, and investigators suspect the fire was the work of an arsonist who used gasoline, according to local news reports.	北京——周日，中国东部地区一座两层楼的员工宿舍发生火灾，至少 22 人丧生，调查人员怀疑有人用汽油纵火。
Police officers arrested a suspect in Yushan Town, Jiangsu Province, Chinese Central Television news reported. But the report gave no motive for the fire, which broke out around 4:30 a.m. in a house serving as a dormitory for 29 or so restaurant workers.	中国的中央电视台报道，江苏省虞山镇警方逮捕了一名嫌疑人。但是报道没有提及作案动机。火灾在凌晨 4 点 30 分左右发生，这座民房是大约 29 名餐厅员工的宿舍。
Videos shared on news websites showed residents yelling in panic while firefighters stood outside the building in Jiangsu, and a dense ribbon of smoke rose into the sky. The pictures indicated that the windows were blocked with anti-theft grates, which might have stymied people from jumping to safety. Six people managed to escape, including three who were injured and sent to the hospital. One resident was missing, the reports said.	新闻网站上的视频显示，消防员在江苏的这座建筑物外面的时候，住在里面的人惊慌地大喊大叫，浓密的烟雾涌向天空。图片显示，窗户被防盗网封住，可能阻碍了居住者跳楼。有六人成功逃出，其中三名伤者送院救治。报道称有一人失踪。
Safety investigators discovered "traces of burned gasoline at the scene, and the doors had all been locked from the outside," the State Administration of Work Safety wrote online.	安全调查人员发现“现场有汽油焚烧的痕迹，房门均被反锁”，国家安监总局网上写道。
The police used surveillance video to identify and arrest a suspect, identified by only one name, Jiang, said the reports, which gave no other details. The town government said the suspect had been caught in the afternoon near the site of the fire, hiding inside a water tank on top of a building, the China News Service reported.	警方使用监控录像辨认并逮捕了一名姜姓嫌疑人，但没有提供其他细节。据中新社报道，镇政府表示，这名嫌疑人在火灾现场附近被捕，当时他躲在一座建筑物顶部的水箱内。

The site of the fire raised the possibility that it might have started from a business or work dispute that turned into a deadly attack, like other fires and bombings that have struck small towns and cities in China. The building was being rented by a restaurant using it to house cooks, waiters and other employees, investigators said.	从火灾发生地点来看，这可能是生意和工作上的纠纷导致的攻击行为，中国小城镇的很多火灾和爆炸事件都是这样引发的。调查人员说，一家餐馆租用了这座民房，给厨师、服务员和其他雇员当宿舍。
Last month, an explosion outside a kindergarten in another part of Jiangsu Province killed eight people and injured 65 others, and the police said it had been ignited by a resident who appeared to have psychological problems.	上个月，江苏省有一家幼儿园发生爆炸事件，造成 8 人死亡，65 人受伤，警方称一名似乎存在精神问题的居民制造了这起爆炸事件。
A fire on a school bus in neighboring Shandong Province killed 11 children in May, and the police concluded it had been started by the driver.	5 月份，邻近省份山东的一辆校巴起火，造成 11 名儿童死亡，警方得出结论，是司机放火。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/china-fire-jiangsu-province	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/china-fire-jiangsu-province
Liu Xiaobo's Dying Words for His Wife	与妻书：刘晓波写给刘霞的临终遗言
BEIJING — As Liu Xiaobo, China's most famous political prisoner, lay dying under police guard, he struggled to finish what was probably his last written work. It was not a political statement, but a sometimes playful, sometimes darkly cryptic, tribute to his wife, Liu Xia, an artist and poet who endured house arrest while he served an 11-year prison sentence.	北京——作为中国最知名的政治犯，身处病榻之上和警方看守之下的刘晓波，挣扎着完成了或许是他此生最后的书面作品。这并非一篇政治宣言，而是献给他的妻子刘霞的一首时而透出俏皮，时而暗藏深意的赞歌。刘霞是一名艺术家和诗人，在被判刑 11 年的刘晓波服刑期间遭到软禁。
"Love as intense as ice, love as remote as blackness," reads one of the handwritten notes Mr. Liu wrote in a hospital in the northeastern city of Shenyang before he died of liver cancer on Thursday. "My praise is perhaps an unforgivable poison," he wrote in the brief and sometimes fragmentary tribute to his wife and her art.	"冰一样激烈的爱，黑一样遥远的爱，"这是刘晓波于上周四在东北沈阳的一家医院因肝癌去世前，亲手写下的话语的一部分。"我的赞美也许是难以饶恕的毒药，"他在献给妻子及其艺术作品的有时显得零散的短文中写道。

Mr. Liu's notes were for the preface of an unpublished collection of his wife's photographs provisionally titled "Accompanying Liu Xiaobo." His notes and the photo collection were shared by a Chinese editor who was a friend of the couple and who had helped compile the book. The editor said Mr. Liu made contact late last month and that people close to Mr. Liu later passed on pictures of his notes from the hospital. The editor asked to remain anonymous, citing fear of repercussions.	这些文字源自刘晓波给妻子那本尚未出版、名字暂定为《我陪伴刘晓波的方式》(Accompanying Liu Xiaobo)的摄影集写的序。将刘晓波的序言和刘霞的摄影集分享给外界的是夫妇俩的朋友，一名帮助编撰该书的中国编辑。这名编辑说，刘晓波于上月末与自己取得联系，接近刘晓波的人士随后将其手稿的照片从医院里传了出来。由于害怕受到影响，这名编辑要求匿名。
Mr. Liu will remain best known as an obdurate dissident who was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 2010 while in prison. He was sentenced in 2009, the year after he helped issue a petition calling for democratic change that led to his arrest.	于2010年在狱中获颁诺贝尔和平奖的刘晓波，最为人所知的身份仍将是一名顽强执拗的异见人士。他于2009年获刑，那是他帮助发布一份呼吁进行民主改革的请愿书并因此被捕的第二年。
But his last known writing shows how Mr. Liu, whose fame began in the 1980s when he was a quarrelsome literary academic, remained an artistic soul who drew inspiration from Ms. Liu and feared for her future. She has lived under constant police watch since Mr. Liu received the Nobel Peace Prize.	但透过已知的最后的手稿可以看出，在1980年代开始出名的刘晓波——当时的他是一名喜欢与人争论的文学学者——生前依然保有艺术家的灵魂，他从刘霞身上汲取灵感，也对她的未来感到担忧。自从刘晓波获颁诺贝尔和平奖以来，刘霞一直生活在警方的监视之下。
Ms. Liu's book may include a few poems that speak of the couple's bond, and of the isolation and anguish she endured while Mr. Liu was imprisoned, said the editor, who is seeking a foreign publisher.	正为刘霞的书寻找海外出版商的前述编辑说，该书或许会包含几首讲述刘霞与刘晓波的关系，以及她在丈夫身陷囹圄期间遭受的孤立和痛苦的诗。
Her black-and-white photographs include many images of dolls with pained expressions in nightmarish settings. Some of the images have been exhibited before. One shows a doll locked in a birdcage, holding a flickering candle. Another shows a doll whose arms and legs are tied with strips of cloth.	她拍的黑白照片包含很多表情痛苦的娃娃玩偶置身噩梦般场景的影像。有些影像此前展出过。一张照片中，一个娃娃玩偶被锁在鸟笼里，身前有一支微光摇曳的蜡烛。另一张照片中，一个娃娃玩偶的胳膊和腿都被布条绑住。
In one poem dedicated to Mr. Liu, which was shared by the editor, Ms.	这名编辑分享了一首诗，是刘霞献给刘晓波的，她在诗中写道：

Liu wrote:
I know sooner or later the day will come	知道早晚有一天
When you'll leave me	你会离开我
And walk alone down the road of darkness.	独自走上黑暗之路。
Many other people have voiced concern for Ms. Liu since the government revealed that Mr. Liu had advanced liver cancer late last month, a point at which a cure was nearly impossible.	政府于上月底,也就是罹患晚期肝癌的刘晓波几乎没了治愈希望之际披露了他的病情,很多人随后表达了对刘霞的担忧。
Friends and supporters said they feared that Chinese security forces could force Ms. Liu back into house arrest, although she has not been accused of any crime.	朋友和支持者说,他们担心中国安保部门可能会迫使刘霞重回软禁状态,尽管她至今尚未被控以任何罪名。
Ms. Liu has found her isolation hard to take. In a rare interview in 2012, when reporters with The Associated Press managed to evade guards outside her apartment in Beijing, she said, "Kafka could not have written anything more absurd."	刘霞遭受了让她觉得难以承受的孤立。2012年,美联社(The Associated Press)记者成功避开刘霞北京寓所外的看守,对她进行了一次罕有的采访,她当时表示,“我估计卡夫卡也写不出这么不着调、荒诞的事。”
Now Ms. Liu will not have even the consolation of visiting her husband once a month and hoping for his release.	刘霞原本还可以每月探望丈夫一次,并期盼他被释放,现在就连这点安慰也没有了。
"That's what we're worried about. Now he's gone, we're all worried that Liu Xia will face serious difficulties and struggle to cope," said Wu Yangwei, a writer who uses the pen name Ye Du and was a friend of the couple.	"这正是我们所担心的。现在他走了,我们都担心刘霞会面对难以克服的严峻困难,"刘晓波夫妇的朋友、笔名野渡的作家吴杨伟说。
"If she stays in China, the house arrest and surveillance won't let up for several years at least," Mr. Wu said. "She needs to go somewhere free so that she can preserve her health, otherwise the consequences could be unthinkable."	"如果她留在中国,软禁和监视至少会持续若干年,"吴杨伟说。"她需要去某个自由的地方,这样才能保住健康,否则后果可能不堪设想。"
The United States, the European Union and other Western	像联合国人权事务高级专员一样,美国、欧盟及其他一些西方政府都表达了

governments voiced the same fears, as did the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights. In tributes to Mr. Liu, they all urged Beijing to end the unofficial detention of Ms. Liu, and to allow her to leave China if she wants.	同样的担忧。它们在向刘晓波致敬的同时，均敦促北京方面结束对刘霞的非正式软禁，并允许她离开中国——如果她愿意的话。
"There's an incredible sense of urgency about how best to help her," said Sophie Richardson, the China director of Human Rights Watch. "Every single government I've talked to in the last week has been very focused on how to try to help her. We are sick with worry about the prospect of her just going right back into house arrest."	"对于如何最好地为她提供帮助，人们有种不可思议的紧迫感，"人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)中国部主任芮莎菲(Sophie Richardson)说。"我在过去一周里接触过的每一个政府，都非常关注如何设法帮助她。一想到她有可能重新被软禁，我们就担心得不得了。"
At a briefing on Friday, a spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, Geng Shuang, bristled at the international criticism that followed Mr. Liu's death and brushed aside repeated questions about whether Ms. Liu would be allowed to leave the country. He said, as Beijing officials often do, that such matters were part of China's internal affairs.	在上周五的一场新闻发布会上，中国外交部发言人耿爽对刘晓波之死引发的国际批评表示了不满，还避开了关于当局是否会允许刘霞离开中国的多个问题。他秉持北京官员的一贯论调，说这类事情是中国内政的一部分。
Mr. Geng also called Mr. Liu's Nobel Prize a "blasphemy."	耿爽还表示，刘晓波获颁诺贝尔和平奖是对该奖项的“亵渎”。
"His words and deeds go against the principles and purposes of the peace prize," Mr. Geng said.	"把和平奖授予这样一个人，完全违背了这一奖项的宗旨，"耿爽说。
But Mr. Liu's handwritten preface also reflected his passion for art, literature and ideas, a side of him that became obscured in the focus on his political activism and his Nobel Prize.	但刘晓波手书的序言还折射出他对艺术、文学和思想的热忱，折射出被他的政治活动和诺贝尔奖遮蔽了的另一个刘晓波。
"Appreciation has become my destiny in life, perhaps it's the instinct of a polar bear enjoying hibernation in the vast snows," he wrote in the tribute to his wife and her art.	"赞美成了我一生的宿命，或者北极熊享受茫茫白雪中冬眠的本能，"他在献给妻子及其作品的赞歌中写道。
Mr. Liu shot to official notoriety in 1989, when he sided with the student protesters who occupied Tiananmen Square to demand political	刘晓波在1989年成了官方眼中臭名昭著的人物，当时他和那些占领天安门广场、要求推动政治自由化的学生抗议者站在一边。6月3日和4日的武装

liberalization. He was arrested days after the armed crackdown of June 3-4, when he and three friends helped avoid bloodshed on the square itself by negotiating with soldiers to let protesters leave peacefully. He served 21 months in detention.	镇压过后没几天，他就被捕了。那两天，他和三个朋友曾与军队进行协商，让抗议者和平离开，从而帮助避免了在天安门广场上发生流血事件。他坐了21个月的牢。
But before that turning point, Mr. Liu was already known as a combative and original literary thinker. His dying comments on his wife's work show how that artistic background stayed with him, and underline the bond formed with Ms. Liu through poems they wrote for each other.	但在这一转折点来临之前，刘晓波已经作为一个好斗且对文学有着独特思考的思想者为人所知。他在濒死之际对妻子作品的评论，表明他具有深厚的艺术造诣，也突显了他和刘霞之间通过写给彼此的诗形成的联系。
"Liu Xia's photographs and Liu Xiaobo's poems struggle with shared demons," Perry Link, a professor of Chinese at the University of California, Riverside, wrote in his introduction for the unpublished selection of Ms. Liu's work, which he agreed to share. "The two artists look, feel and worry side by side."	"刘霞的摄影与刘晓波的诗句，与其共同的魔障展开缠斗，"加利福尼亚大学河滨分校(University of California, Riverside)的中文教授林培瑞(Perry Link)在其同意分享的为尚未出版的刘霞作品集所作的一篇序言中写道。"两位艺术家并肩观看、感受、担忧。"
Mr. Liu and Ms. Liu met in the 1980s, when they belonged to a broad circle of writers, artists and academics embracing the new freedom and ideas opened up by economic reform and a measure of political relaxation. Ms. Liu abandoned a job in the financial bureaucracy to write poetry and make art. Mr. Liu completed a doctorate in literature but bridled at convention and censorship.	刘晓波和刘霞相识于1980年代，那时候他们同属一个由作家、艺术家和学者构成的宽泛的圈子，圈中人都正张开双臂拥抱由经济改革带来的新的自由和思想，以及某种程度的政治松绑。刘霞辞去了在国税局的工作，致力于写诗、搞艺术创作。刘晓波拿到了文学博士学位，但却对条条框框和审查制度感到不屑。
Later, after their first marriages had broken up and Mr. Liu emerged from prison, they became close. They married in 1996 while he was serving a sentence in a labor camp for his political advocacy.	后来，在两人各自的第一次婚姻宣告破裂、刘晓波出狱以后，他们变得很亲密。他们于1996年结婚，当时刘晓波正因坚持自己的政治主张而在一个劳改营服刑。
"I lived as a convict's wife. During this period of intense loneliness and desperation I began taking black-and-white photographs," Ms. Liu wrote in a dedication at the front of the book. "I am so grateful to my	"艰难的探监生活。在极度的孤独和绝望中，开始了黑白摄影，"刘霞在其摄影集前面的致谢辞中写道。"感谢我的父母兄弟，在极端的日子给我无尽的爱，并且爱晓波如爱我一样。" family for their inexhaustible love during the difficult times.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/china-liu-xiaobo-nobel	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/china-liu-xiaobo-nobel
Ruling Threatens Hong Kong’s Independence From China	香港民主派在立法会进一步丧失阵地
HONG KONG — Nearly three years after sweeping pro-democracy protests filled the streets of Hong Kong, a local court delivered the struggling movement a severe blow on Friday, removing four legislators from office and assuring China greater influence over the city’s government.	香港——周五，在铺天盖地的亲民主抗议将香港街头堵得水泄不通三年后，本地一家法院取消四名立法会议员的资格并确保中国对该市政府拥有更大的控制，给了这个处境艰难的运动重重的一击。
The pro-democracy lawmakers were dismissed from the Hong Kong Legislative Council because they had used unacceptable words or even dubious tones in taking oaths of office that require declarations of loyalty to China. The ruling means that democracy advocates in the semiautonomous city’s legislature will no longer have enough votes to block legislation from their pro-Beijing counterparts.	亲民主议员被取消立法会任职资格是因为他们在要求宣布效忠于中国的就职宣誓期间，使用了不被允许的词句，甚至是可疑的语调。这一裁决意味着这座半自治城市的立法机构不再拥有可以阻止亲北京议员提出的立法通过的足够票数。
“Voters entrusted us with the task of monitoring the government,” said Leung Kwok-hung, one of those unseated. “We’ve lost that power.”	“香港人在基本法里面唯一用选票委托立法会去监察一个小圈子政府和特首的功能，已经丧失了，”被取消资格的议员之一的梁国雄(Leung Kwok-hung)说。
Hong Kong has been rattled by episodes that have raised fears that China is reaching deeper into the city to enforce its will. A bookseller who sold lurid titles about China’s leaders was abducted and taken to mainland China. Xiao Jianhua, a prominent billionaire who grew up in China, was snatched from a high-end hotel and brought to the mainland.	香港不断出现各种事件，令外界担心中国正在该城进一步渗透，以强行推行自己的意志。一名售卖有关中国领导人艳俗出版物的书商遭到绑架，并被带至中国内地。在中国长大的著名富豪肖建华也被从一家高端酒店抓走，并带回内地。
And when President Xi Jinping of China visited Hong Kong two weeks ago for the 20th anniversary of its return to Chinese sovereignty, he	此外，两周前，当中国国家主席习近平前往香港参加香港主权回归中国 20 周年紀念活动时，他既保证了该市的特殊地位，又发出了不要考验北京意志

mixed reassurances about the city's special status with an unmistakable warning not to test Beijing's will.	的明确警告。
Since 1997, China's economy has become less dependent on Hong Kong, while the territory's prosperity has become more entangled with the mainland. As the political and economic power imbalance grows, and Hong Kong is drawn tighter into China's orbit, Beijing's leaders are less willing to offer Hong Kong the same degree of deference they once showed it.	从 1997 年开始，中国经济对香港的依赖降低，香港的繁荣与内地的关系却变得更加紧密。随着政治和经济权力不平衡加剧，并且香港进一步被拉入中国的轨道，北京的领导人向香港提供他们曾经表现出的那种尊重的意愿降低了。
But through it all, people in Hong Kong have been comforted by the fact that the city has its own legal system — based on British common law, unlike China's — that is proudly independent. That legal system remains robust, and it is one reason investment flows to Hong Kong. But Friday's ruling will deepen worries that Chinese influence is weakening judicial protections.	但在整个过程中，令香港民众感到欣慰的是香港有自己的法律制度这个事实。不同于中国，香港的法律制度是基于英国的习惯法，相当独立。该制度依然强劲有力，这是投资涌入香港的原因之一。但周五的裁定将加剧对中国的影响正在削弱司法保护的担忧。
Since pro-democracy protesters occupied major streets in Hong Kong for months in 2014 — a movement that came to be known as the Umbrella Revolution — Mr. Xi's government has sought to strengthen its grip on the city. But the democratic lawmakers held enough seats in the legislature to frustrate the city's pro-Beijing administration with filibustering and veto power over bills introduced by pro-Beijing lawmakers.	自 2014 年亲民主抗议者占领香港主要街头数月——该运动后来被称作雨伞革命(Umbrella Revolution)——以来，习近平领导的政府便寻求加强对这座城市控制。但民主议员在立法会有足够的席位，可对亲北京议员提起的议案采用拖延战术和否决权，阻挠香港的亲北京政府。
The court ruling was "a disturbing and ominous development," said Willy Lam, a political analyst and adjunct professor at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. Like many critics of the decision, he suggested that the judge had bent over backward to create a decision	法院的裁决是“一个令人不安的不祥动向”，香港中文大学的政治分析人士、副教授林和立(Willy Lam)说道。和很多对这一裁决持批评意见的人一样，他表示，法官竭尽全力做出了一个讨好北京的裁决。

pleasing to Beijing.
"It's a direct interference in Hong Kong's internal affairs, a breach of both its judicial independence and separation of powers," Mr. Lam said.	"这是对香港内政的直接干涉，侵犯了香港的司法独立和三权分立，"林和立说。
The ruling could galvanize opposition groups in Hong Kong. On Friday night, hundreds of protesters gathered outside the Legislative Council, a concrete and glass edifice near Victoria Harbor, to denounce the decision.	这一裁决可能会激起香港反对派团体的行动。周五晚上，数百名抗议者聚集在立法会外面谴责该裁决，这是维多利亚港附近的一个混凝土玻璃大厦。
But for now, Hong Kong's pro-democracy parties have been forced into retreat after a buoyant showing in local elections last year, and some of the lawmakers who were removed may privately rue turning their oath-taking into protests.	但去年在本地的选举中表现可喜之后，眼下香港的亲民主政党被迫后退。被取消资格的部分议员也许私底下会后悔把宣誓变成抗议。
Hong Kong returned to Chinese sovereignty from British rule in 1997. Under terms agreed upon by London and Beijing, Hong Kong retained its own legal system, as well as the Legislative Council.	1997年，香港的主权从英国回归中国。按照伦敦和北京达成的条件，香港保留自己的法律制度和立法会。
When their protest movement in 2014 failed to bring about freer local elections, Hong Kong's democracy campaigners set their sights on maintaining enough members in the council to thwart policies they saw as weakening the city's separate status.	当2014年的抗议活动未能带来更加自由的选举后，香港的民主活动人士把目光放在了在立法会保持足够的席位，以阻挠他们认为会削弱香港独立地位的政策。
The voters did not disappoint. In September, people turned up at polling stations in record numbers, electing many of the protesters who led rallies and spent nights in tents.	选民没有失望。9月，人们以创纪录的规模出现在投票站，选出了很多曾领导集会并在帐篷中过夜的抗议者。
It was a triumphant moment for the activists, and the message was clear: Hong Kong people reject Chinese encroachment on their city's freedoms. The next month, in the grand chamber of the Legislative Council, the newly elected legislators took the oath of office.	那是活动人士的胜利时刻，它传达的信息也很明确：港人反对中国侵犯他们的城市的自由。第二个月，在立法会的议事厅，新当选议员宣誓就职。

That's when the troubles began.	这正是麻烦开始的时候。
First, the authorities came for the separatists. In November, the Chinese government took the extraordinary step of blocking Sixtus Leung, known as Baggio, and Yau Wai-ching, advocates for an independent Hong Kong, from assuming office as legislators, ostensibly because they inserted anti-China snubs into their oaths of office.	首先，当局把瞄准了分离主义者。11月，中国政府一反常态，禁止英文名 Baggio 的梁颂恒(Sixtus Leung)和游蕙禎(Yau Wai-ching)就任议员，表面上是因为他们在就职宣誓中加入了反华言论。此二人都倡导香港独立。
It did so by issuing a legal interpretation of the Basic Law, the charter ensuring that Hong Kong is governed according to a "one country, two systems" principle and that the judiciary remains independent for at least half a century from when the city returned to Chinese rule. The interpretation orders that legislators who deliver an oath in an "insincere or undignified manner" must be barred from office and not be given a chance to do it again.	中国采取的方式是发布对《基本法》的法律解释。《基本法》确保香港按照“一国两制”的原则进行治理，且香港回归中国的统治后司法系统至少在半世纪里保持独立。法律解释规定，禁止“以任何不真诚、不庄重的方式”宣誓的议员就职，且不得向其提供再次宣誓的机会。
The purge continued on Friday. The court removed the four additional legislators based on the interpretation and precedent set in the removal of Mr. Leung and Ms. Yau, arguing that they, too, had failed to take the oath properly.	周五当天，这种清洗仍在继续。法院根据该解释以及梁颂恒和游蕙禎被取消资格的先例，取消了前述四名议员的资格，称他们也未能正确宣誓。
The removed legislators include Nathan Law, a leader of the 2014 protests who later founded the party Demosisto with fellow protester Joshua Wong.	被取消资格的议员包括 2014 年抗议活动的领导者之一的罗冠聪(Nathan Law)。后来，他和同为抗议者的黄之锋(Joshua Wong)创办了政党香港众志(Demosisto)。
"It's flagrant political suppression by the government," Mr. Law said. "I had read the oath completely, and the Legislative Council approved it. It only became an issue after Beijing's interpretation."	"这是政府赤裸裸的政治打压，"罗冠聪说。"我有完整读出誓词，而立法会亦接纳。只是北京释法后这才变得有问题。"
Mr. Law, 24, had begun his oath saying he would "never serve a regime that murders its own people" and read the Cantonese word for "China"	24 岁的罗冠聪以他“永远不会为一个残杀自己人民的政权服务”开始宣誓，并用粤语念“中国”，上扬的声调像是在提问。他是史上赢得立法会席位最年轻

with an upward inflection, as if asking a question. He was the youngest person ever to win a legislative seat.	的人。
"By adopting a rising intonation, Mr. Law was objectively expressing a doubt on or disrespect of the status of the People's Republic of China as Hong Kong's legitimate sovereign country," the judgment said.	"罗先生把'中华人民共和国香港特别行政区'中的'国'字的声调提高,在客观上是要表达出他对中华人民共和国作为香港特别行政区的合法主权国的地位的质疑或不尊重,"判决书上写道。
The three other legislators who were unseated, Leung Kwok-hung, Lau Siu-lai and Edward Yiu, had delivered their oaths with various displays of defiance, including by reading extremely slowly, inserting words calling for democracy and displaying props. Likewise, their oaths were declared invalid by the court, and they have been asked to pack up in two weeks.	被取消资格的其他三人梁国雄、刘小丽(Lau Siu-lai)和姚松炎(Edward Yiu)在宣誓时也用不同的方式表示自己的反抗,包括用极慢的速度读誓词、加进呼吁民主的字句和使用道具。同样,他们的宣誓也被法院宣布无效,并被要求在两周内收拾行李走人。
The four disqualified legislators may not be the last to be removed, since at least four other pro-democracy legislators used props or made defiant speeches before or after delivering the oath of office.	这四人也许不是被取消资格的最后一批人,因为至少还有另外四名亲民主议员在宣誓前或宣誓后使用道具或发表反抗言论。
"They played with fire and got burned," said Priscilla Leung, vice chairwoman of the pro-Beijing party Business and Professionals Alliance for Hong Kong.	"他们自己玩死自己,"亲北京政党香港经济民生联盟(Business and Professionals Alliance for Hong Kong)的副主席梁美芬(Priscilla Leung)说。
Ms. Leung told reporters she might introduce a bill to amend legislative rules to prevent filibustering by opposition legislators, though she declined to offer a timeline. "We've been discussing that since I entered the Legislative Council in 2008, but we hadn't had enough votes."	梁美芬对记者表示,她可能会提出一份修改立法规定的议案,以防止反对派议员采用拖延战术,但她不愿给出时间表。"大家由二零零八年开始加入立法会一直有讨论,但一直都不够票。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/hong-kong-court-pro-democracy-lawmakers	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/hong-kong-court-pro-democracy-lawmakers
Liu Xiaobo, Chinese Dissident and Nobel Laureate, Is Cremated	刘晓波被海葬, 遗孀刘霞仍遭严密控制
BEIJING — China cremated its only Nobel Peace Prize laureate, Liu	北京——中国周六火化了该国唯一的诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波的遗体, 但

Xiaobo, on Saturday, but watchful officials allowed only his widow and a few other mourners to bid farewell to the man who was also the country's most famous political prisoner.	警惕的官员们只允许他的遗孀和为数不多几名哀悼者与这位中国最著名的政治犯告别。
Later in the day, Mr. Liu's ashes were lowered into the sea in a simple ceremony, ensuring that there would be no grave on land to serve as a magnet for protests against the Communist Party, especially on the traditional tomb-sweeping day every April.	当天晚些时候，在一个简单的仪式上，刘晓波的骨灰盒被放入大海，以确保陆地上不存在能吸引针对共产党的抗议活动的墓地，特别是在每年四月的传统清明节扫墓时。
"As Mozart's Requiem played, Liu Xiaobo's wife, Liu Xia, first came forward to stand before his body," according to an official account of the funeral emailed by the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs. "She gazed upon him for a long time and murmured her final farewells to her husband."	"在莫扎特安魂曲的伴奏下，刘晓波的妻子刘霞首先站到了他的遗体前，"据中国外交部用电子邮件发来的官方对遗体告别仪式的描述。"她长时间地凝视着他，向丈夫喃喃地道别。"
The mourners bowed three times before Mr. Liu's body, and Ms. Liu and other family members bowed three times again, the account said. After the cremation, "Ms. Liu received the container of ashes and tightly hugged it to herself," it said.	官方描述说，悼念者在刘晓波的遗体前三鞠躬，然后，刘霞及其他家属再次三鞠躬。并说，火化后，"刘霞接过骨灰盒紧紧抱在怀中。"
Mr. Liu's small, muted funeral in the early morning hours in Shenyang, a city 390 miles northeast of Beijing, took place three days after he died of liver cancer at the age of 61. The funeral respected local customs and his family's wishes, Xinhua, the state news agency, reported.	刘晓波因肝癌去世，享年 61 岁，在他去世后第三天的一大早，一个低调的遗体告别仪式在距离北京东北部 390 英里（约合 630 公里）的沈阳市举行。据国家通讯社新华社的英文报道，仪式是按照当地风俗和家属的意愿举办的。
The ceremony, however, like Mr. Liu's final days in a hospital, was a paradoxical display of the efforts by the Chinese government to defend its treatment of him and his wife, even as it had kept them and their family members under tight guard. The family members were mostly unable to say whether they accepted the government's account of their	不过，这个仪式和刘晓波在医院里度过的最后日子一样，也是一个自相矛盾的展示：中国政府努力为政府对待刘晓波及其妻子的方式辩护，与此同时，政府却又严密地控制着这对夫妇和他们的亲属。大多亲属都无法表示是否接受政府就对待他们方式的给出的说法。 treatment.

An exception was Liu Xiaoguang, Mr. Liu's eldest brother, whom officials escorted to an afternoon news conference in Shenyang, where he expressed thanks for the Communist Party's handling of Mr. Liu's treatment and funeral, and said that he supported the idea of dropping the ashes into the sea.	刘晓波的大哥刘晓光是个例外，刘晓光在官员的陪同下出席了下午在沈阳举行的新闻发布会，他在发布会上感谢共产党对刘晓波的治疗和后事的处理，表示他支持将骨灰盒放入大海的主意。
"I would like to express my heartfelt thanks to the party and government for completely following the family's wishes," said Mr. Liu, a former manager in a garment trading company. He repeated that view two more times during the news conference. Liu Xiaobo's medical treatment, he said, "showed the superiority of our country's socialist system."	"我感谢党和政府完全按照家属的心愿，"曾经担任一家服装贸易公司经理的刘晓光说。他在新闻发布会上重复了这句话两次。他说，刘晓波的治疗"体现了我国社会主义制度的优越性"。
Mr. Liu's widow, he added, was too fragile with grief to speak to the news media.	他还说，刘晓波的遗孀刘霞因悲伤身体虚弱，不能对媒体讲话。
Many friends and supporters of the dissident were revolted and incensed by Mr. Liu's cremation and sea burial under such intimidating controls.	刘晓波的许多朋友和支持者对在这种令人恐惧的控制之下，把刘晓波的遗体火化并进行海葬感到惊骇和愤慨。
"Inhuman, insult, shameful, disgusting," Ai Weiwei, the outspoken Chinese artist, who lives in Germany, said on Twitter.	"冷酷无情、侮辱人格、太不像话、令人作呕"，旅居德国的直言不讳的中国艺术家艾未未在 Twitter 上写道。
The mourners at the funeral included a brother of Ms. Liu and two of Mr. Liu's brothers, as well as their wives. But the identity of the friends of Mr. Liu's who the government said had also attended the funeral was unclear. Government-issued photographs did not appear to show any close friends of the couple among the 10 or so people at the funeral who were not family members.	参加告别仪式的人包括刘霞的弟弟和刘晓波的两个兄弟以及他们的妻子。政府说，刘晓波的朋友也参加了告别仪式，但目前尚不清楚这些朋友是谁。政府发布的照片显示约有 10 名非亲属参加了告别仪式，但他们中似乎没有与刘氏夫妇关系密切的朋友。

Ms. Liu has been under house arrest since 2010, when her imprisoned husband won the Nobel Peace Prize. A spokesman for the Shenyang city government, Zhang Qingyang, said at a morning news conference on Saturday that Ms. Liu was free, yet also suggested that she was under protection for her own good.	自从 2010 年身陷囹圄的刘晓波被授予诺贝尔和平奖以来，刘霞一直被软禁着。沈阳市政府发言人张清洋周六上午在新闻发布会上表示，刘霞是自由的，但又表示为了让她不被打扰，她受到保护。
"Liu Xia is free now," Mr. Zhang said, according to Ming Pao, a Hong Kong newspaper. "But since Liu Xiaobo passed away, she is grief-stricken and doesn't need to be disturbed. This is the family hope and is also basic human nature."	"刘霞现在是自由的，"据香港报纸《明报》援引张清洋的话说。"但刘晓波去世后，她过度悲伤，需要不被打扰。这是家属的希望，也是人之常情。"
But Mr. Liu and Ms. Liu had never given any reason to think that they would welcome police surveillance and would willingly cut themselves off from friends and well-wishers, even journalists. Many of those friends, as well as Western governments and human rights organizations, have said that the couple appeared to have little say over Mr. Liu's final days and funeral, and added that they feared Ms. Liu would remain under house arrest and smothering surveillance.	但刘晓波和刘霞从来没有给出过任何理由让人认为，他们会欢迎警方的监视，并愿意切断自己与朋友和祝福者、乃至记者的联系。许多这些朋友、以及西方政府和人权组织都表示，刘氏夫妇在刘晓波最后的日子及葬礼的安排上几乎没有发言权，他们还说，他们担心刘霞将继续处于被软禁和令人窒息的监视之下。
Berit Reiss-Andersen, the chairwoman of the Norwegian Nobel Committee, which awards the Peace Prize, was rebuffed on Friday when she tried to apply for a visa at the Chinese Embassy in Oslo to attend Mr. Liu's funeral, she said in an email. The embassy said it would not accept a visa application for the funeral unless Ms. Reiss-Andersen had an invitation from Ms. Liu or another member of Mr. Liu's family, she said.	负责颁发诺贝尔和平奖的挪威诺贝尔委员会的主席贝瑞特·瑞斯-安德森 (Berit Reiss-Andersen) 在一封电子邮件中说，她想参加刘晓波的遗体告别仪式，于周五去中国驻奥斯陆大使馆申请签证被拒。她说，大使馆表示，不接受参加遗体告别仪式的签证申请，除非瑞斯-安德森收到了刘霞、或刘晓波其他家庭成员的邀请。
"So far, no one has succeeded in reaching the widow Liu Xia," Ms. Reiss-Andersen said. "Everything points to the authorities keeping her	"到目前为止，没有人能成功地与刘霞取得联系，"瑞斯-安德森说。"所有迹象都表明，当局将她置于与外界隔绝的状态。" isolated from the outside world.”

Mr. Liu died just over two weeks after the government revealed that his illness had reached a terminal state, and that he had been given medical parole.	在政府披露他患有晚期癌症、获许保外就医仅两个多星期之后，刘晓波就去世了。
Mr. Liu was convicted of inciting subversion and imprisoned for 11 years in 2009, a year after he was arrested as he prepared to unveil a petition for democratic change called Charter 08. In 2010, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, infuriating Chinese Communist Party leaders, and mentions of his name in the official news media have been rare and invariably hostile.	2009年，刘晓波被判犯有煽动颠覆罪，并被判处了11年有期徒刑。他在2008年被逮捕，当时他正准备将名为《零八宪章》的呼吁民主改革的请愿书公诸于世。2010年，他被授予诺贝尔和平奖，授奖引起了中共领导人的愤怒，官方新闻媒体很少提他的名字，提到时也总是敌对的。
Since revealing Mr. Liu’s fatal illness, the Chinese government has gone out of its way to tell the outside world that he was treated humanely. The handling of his cremation extended that publicity drive, and officials showed reporters in Shenyang a slide show of the funeral, even as they stressed their respect for the family’s privacy.	自从刘晓波患致命疾病的消息传出后，中国政府煞费苦心地向外界告诉，刘晓波受到了人道的待遇。把他的遗体火化是这种宣传努力的延伸，官员们在沈阳给记者播放了遗体告别仪式的幻灯片，尽管他们强调，他们尊重刘家的隐私。
The images included one of Ms. Liu wearing dark glasses and holding a picture of her late husband fringed with black trimming. To her left, Mr. Liu’s younger brother, Liu Xiaoxuan, clutched a container that held Mr. Liu’s ashes.	幻灯片中有一张是戴着墨镜的刘霞手里捧着镶在黑色镜框里的已故丈夫的照片。刘霞的左边是刘晓波的弟弟刘晓暄，他手里紧抱着刘晓波的骨灰盒。
Later, the government released pictures of Mr. Liu’s family aboard a boat used to drop his ashes into the sea. The family scattered white and yellow chrysanthemum petals into a pale bowl holding the ashes, and it was gently lowered into the water.	那之后，政府还发布了刘晓波家人在船上的照片，他们乘船将他的骨灰投入大海。家人把白色和黄色的菊花瓣撒在一个盛放骨灰的浅色容器里，然后将其轻轻地放入水中。
Such sea ceremonies are not common in China, though Mr. Zhang, the city spokesman, said it was a “local custom.” Mr. Liu, the elder brother,	虽然海葬在中国并不常见，但沈阳市政府发言人张清洋说，葬礼符合“当地风俗”。刘晓波的哥哥刘晓光说，海葬是他的想法。但刘晓波是在长春出生

said it had been his idea. But Liu Xiaobo was born in Changchun, a city about 290 miles from the Chinese coast, and Shenyang, the city where he died, is about 100 miles from the coast.	的，长春距离中国海岸线约 290 英里（约合 460 公里），刘晓波去世的城市沈阳距离海岸线约 100 英里（约合 160 公里）。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/liu-xiaobo-cremation-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170717/liu-xiaobo-cremation-china
A Cleanup of 'Holes in the Wall' in China's Capital	北京整治“开墙打洞”，市井小店被封门
BEIJING — When China's leaders began the hurly-burly transition to a market economy, they encouraged dislocated workers to take up their own entrepreneurial pursuits. Many of them started small shops, bars or cafes, in what became known as kai qiang da dong, meaning "to open a hole in the wall."	北京——当初启动向市场经济转型的喧嚣进程时，中国领导人曾鼓励下岗工人追寻自己的创业梦想。很多失业者通过所谓的“开墙打洞”，开办了小商店、酒吧或咖啡厅。
Now, in Beijing, the holes are being bricked up.	在现今的北京，这些洞正被封堵起来。
Neighborhood by neighborhood, block by block, workers are tearing down unauthorized structures, additions and storefronts as part of a reconstruction effort as sweeping as any since the Olympics in 2008.	工人们正逐个社区、逐条街道地拆除违规的建筑物、增建部分和店面，这是一项重建活动的组成部分，其规模与 2008 年奥运会期间种种举措同样浩大。
The work, which accelerated in the spring, has convulsed entire districts, churning up debris and clouds of dust and wiping out scores of the places that have given the capital a bit of its rakish charm.	这项工作在今年春天加快了进程，已经把相关街区搅得天翻地覆，翻卷起瓦砾和一股股烟尘，夷平了许多曾为首都增添潇洒魅力的地方。
Hardest hit have been the old neighborhoods of picturesque, if not always pristine, alleyways known as hutongs. In alley after alley, once-thriving businesses now have bricked-up walls where storefronts or doors once were.	受冲击最严重的是那些由胡同构成的老街区，它们虽非原汁原味，倒也风景别致。一条条胡同曾是繁华的商业地段，如今，诸多店铺原本的店面或大门所在之处都竖起了砖墙。
Pudao Cottage, a highly regarded bookstore on Mao'er Hutong north of the Forbidden City, shut down after workers bricked over an unapproved glass entrance. Its owner, Zhuo Yifang, wrote an angry post, called "Who murdered a bookstore?" but later removed it. Reached	朴道草堂是故宫以北帽儿胡同一家颇有人望的书店，工人们用砖封堵了违规的玻璃门入口之后，这家店关门歇业了。店主周一方以《谁是杀死一个书店的凶手》为题，写了一篇愤怒的帖子，但随后将其删除。记者拨通了他的电话，但他拒绝谈论停业一事。

by telephone, he refused to discuss the closing.
"We had all the proper business licenses, hoping that this would save the bookstore," he wrote on Weibo, a Twitterlike social media site. "But what we didn't anticipate was a citywide campaign, dragging us into the carnage."	"我们把各种证照办理齐全，以为终于可以安全了，不想这是一次全城运动，还是厄运难逃。"他在类似于 Twitter 的社交媒体网站微博上写道。
The city authorities call it a beautification project. And it is, of a sort, in places where white walls, tree boxes and flowering planters have replaced jerry-built, sidewalk-clogging stalls and storefronts.	北京市政府称之为美化工程，基本相当于在一些地方用白墙、树篱和开花的盆栽取代粗搭滥建、阻塞人行道的摊位和店面。
It is also part of a broader campaign — some say a crackdown — meant to transform Beijing's bustling, overcrowded city center into a futuristic capital of government, finance, media and technology. That means ridding it of uncontrolled development and "low end" entrepreneurship, while pushing out millions of migrants from other parts of China.	它也是一项更广泛的运动的组成部分，旨在把北京繁华拥挤的市中心变成未来的行政、金融、传媒和科技之都。这意味着让它摆脱无序发展和“低端”创业，并迫使数以百万计来自中国其他地方的移民离开，一些人称之为打击运动。
In the Sanlitun neighborhood, Yashow DVD Shop No. 98 survived the destruction that swept through a side street in April, but sales have plummeted since the front entrance facing the street was shuttered. Customers now have to find their way through the grimy courtyard of a six-story apartment block, piled with debris and garbage.	在三里屯社区，今年4月的一场整治行动横扫了一整条小街，街上的雅秀DVD店虽然得以幸存，但由于对着大街的前门遭到封堵，其营业额大幅下降。现在，顾客进店之前先要穿过一栋六层公寓楼脏兮兮的院子，那里有成堆的瓦砾和垃圾。
Zhu Yi, whose family opened the shop after moving from the southern city Guangzhou in 2008, said they had been given ample warning of the work. He acknowledged that the storefront entrance, which led to a basement shop, had not been erected according to any zoning code, but rents in nearby shopping centers are too exorbitant.	这家店是朱毅一家于2008年从南方城市广州搬到北京后开的，他说他们此前收到过大量与整治工作相关的警告。他承认，他们为地下店铺搭建的店面入口不符合任何城市规划政策，但附近一些购物中心的租金都太过高昂。
"To this government it is illegal," he said, but added that a shop like theirs should also be "a part of Beijing's local color."	"对政府来说，这可能是非法的，"他说，但这类店铺也呈现出"北京本地文化的特有的色彩"。

As with most government decisions in China, there was no public debate about the campaign, and those affected said there was little they could do to challenge it.	像中国政府的大多数决定一样，这项行动启动前并未经由公众讨论，受影响的人说，他们很难对它发起挑战。
It took root in 2014, with President Xi Jinping's declaration that Beijing would shift its "noncapital" functions to the surrounding regions. The plan would cap the city's population at 23 million while expanding Tianjin and other nearby cities, linking them all together to create a megalopolis. With an important Communist Party congress coming in the fall, the local authorities have an added incentive to make the city orderly, if not immaculate.	它源自 2014 年，习近平主席宣布将把北京的“非首都”功能纾解到周边地区的决定。根据这一规划，北京将把人口控制在 2300 万以内，天津等临近城市则将得到拓展，它们会被联结起来，最终形成一个特大都市区。今年秋天，共产党将在北京召开一次重要代表大会上，这也成为北京政府的动力，届时就算不能令城市完美无瑕，至少也要整洁有序。
A less explicit goal is to rid the capital of many of the migrants who have poured into Beijing and other principal cities in recent decades. While they were important contributors to China's economic boom, officials seem to have calculated that they are not as vital to the new phase of development.	另一个较为隐晦的目标则是迫使大量移民离开首都。过去几十年间，众多移民涌入了北京以及其他主要城市。他们曾为中国经济的腾飞做出重要贡献，但官员们似乎认为，在新的发展阶段，他们已经不像以前那样重要。
The most visible sign of that has been a related campaign to close or shrink dozens of bustling wholesale markets, also heavily populated with migrant entrepreneurs. These include the Alien Street Market, which catered to Russian shuttle traders, and a cluster of buildings near the Beijing Zoo that composed the city's largest and most famous clothing market.	最明显的迹象便是几十家繁荣的批发市场都遭到关闭，或者规模遭到缩小。这些市场也是大量移民创业者聚集之地，其中包括面向俄罗斯跨境小贩的老番街市场，以及北京动物园附近一系列构成本市最大、最著名的服装市场的建筑。
As with previous efforts to reshape Beijing, this one has torn the fabric of urban life. Eviction notices at one of the zoo markets prompted daily protests last month, at least one of which ended with scuffles between tenants and guards. Dozens of shopkeepers have been promised	与以往重塑北京的努力相似，这一次的行動也撕裂了城市生活的基础。上个月，在动物园附近的一个市场，搬迁通知引发了日复一日的抗议，至少有一场抗议活动以租户和警卫之间的冲突告终。一些商户已经得到承诺，会得到基于租约的补偿，但那些抗议者表示还没看到补偿。

refunds on their leases, but those protesting said they had yet to see them.
The police, wary as ever of public displays of discontent, moved to stifle the protest before it could draw more attention. (When I showed up the next day, a police officer stopped me within minutes, checked my documents and asked me to leave.)	警方一如既往地警惕着人们公开展现不满情绪，赶在抗议活动获得更多关注之前便采取措施将其扼杀。（我于翌日赶到那里的时候，没过几分钟就被一名警察拦下，对方检查了我的证件，并要求我离开。）
More evictions are coming. The state-run Xinhua news agency reported that the city plans to close or relocate 120 markets this year.	更多驱逐行动正在到来。据国有媒体新华社报道，北京市今年计划关闭或搬迁 120 个市场。
“We want to reveal the dark side of the cleanup,” said Di Yanjie, one of the shopkeepers who protested. She said she had been detained at the local police station for 12 hours.	“我们想要揭露治理行动的阴暗面，”参加抗议活动的商户之一狄言洁（音）说。她说她在当地的派出所被拘留了 12 个小时。
In an interview at a restaurant, beyond the scrutiny of the police, she described the trajectory of her business, one that reflected the extraordinary gains China has made in lifting people into prosperity over the last three decades.	她避开警方的耳目，在一家餐厅里接受采访，描绘了自己做生意的历程。这段经历折射出过去三十年间中国在让人民致富方面取得的巨大成就。
A native of Beijing, Ms. Di and her husband first went into business two decades ago, selling women’s clothing from a blanket on the sidewalk. Over the years they gradually expanded, and in 2009 moved into the market building – which now, according to Xinhua, will be converted into offices for finance and high-tech companies.	狄言洁是北京当地人，她和丈夫第一次开始做生意是 20 年前的事，两人在人行道上铺了条毯子，出售女装。年复一年，两人的生意越做越大，到 2009 年，他们搬进了市场的建筑物里边——现在据新华社报道，那里将被改造成金融和高科技公司的办公场所。
“This place is famous all over China – the Beijing Zoo wholesale market!” Ms. Di said. “You could say this place is part of China’s history.”	“这个地方在全国都很有名啊——北京动物园批发市场！”狄言洁说。“这个地方可以说是中国历史的一部分。”
So, too, were many of those “holes in the wall” in the narrow alleyways that survived Beijing’s past building booms. Increasingly coveted for their traditional character, the hutongs attracted boutiques and	在那些狭窄的胡同里，很多“墙洞”在北京城以往的一波波建设高潮中幸存下来，它们也是历史的一部分。胡同因其传统特色而日益受到青睐，引得诸多精品店、餐厅、咖啡厅乃至美式精酿酒吧纷纷入驻，它们服务于一个日益扩

restaurants, cafes and even American-style brew pubs that catered to an expanding consumer class.	大的消费阶层。
The “cleanup” campaign has forced scores of those businesses to close or move, while others struggle to make ends meet. One website compiled before-and-after photographs of the losses to the city’s culinary life, particularly in a popular stretch of restaurants and bars along Fangjia Alley, northeast of Tiananmen Square.	这项“治理”行动已经迫使许多这类店铺关门或迁址，其他一些店铺则是挣扎求存、勉强度日。一个网站通过发布前后对比照片，来展示这座城市的美食生活所遭受的损失，尤其是天安门广场东北侧方家胡同一带，一系列知名餐厅和酒吧受到了严重冲击。
When the municipal authorities announced plans for this year’s construction work, they pledged that it would make the city greener, remove safety hazards and, above all, “improve the people’s sense of achievement.”	北京市政当局宣布本年度建设工作规划时承诺，相关工作有助于城市绿化，排除安全隐患，更重要的是有助于“增强全社会的成就感”。
And some people interviewed along the affected streets said it had.	在受影响的街道附近接受采访的一些人说，确实见到了这种成效。
One reconstruction effort that drew attention removed a cluster of shops, restaurants and bars along several side streets in the Sanlitun neighborhood. Because of its notoriety as an area for carousing and prostitution, it was known, collectively, as “Dirty Bar Street.” Many cheered its demise on social media when the bulldozers arrived in April.	在一项备受关注的重建举措中，三里屯社区几条小街上的一系列商店、餐厅和酒吧被清理掉了。那几条街以纵酒狂欢和卖淫闻名，被统称为“脏街”。当推土机在4月抵达现场时，很多人在社交媒体上为它的消亡欢呼。
The work did more than disrupt the night life, though — it removed part or all of 33 shops. The prospects for the owners appear gloomy.	不过，这项工作不仅破坏了夜生活，它还导致33家商店遭到部分拆除或全部拆除。店主们的前景似乎颇为黯淡。
Zhang Lifan, a prominent historian who grew up in the city, said that the disruption of so many small business would change the character of the city, upending lives of migrants and also their customers. He said the government’s efforts were “too simplistic and brutal.”	在这座城市里长大成人的知名历史学家章立凡说，太多小生意被毁会改变北京的特质，颠覆移民及其客户的生活。他说政府的举措“过于简单粗暴”。
“I think the move failed to take into account the needs of a lot of people,” he said. “Many of those owners set up their businesses in a	“这样的做法没有考虑很多人的需求，”他说。“很多店主通过合法的途径开店，也投了很多钱。但是现在他们付出的努力都白费了。” legal manner and had invested a lot of money, but now everything they've worked for is gone.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/beijing-china-reconstruction-hutong	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/beijing-china-reconstruction-hutong
In Urban China, Hardly Anyone Is Using Cash Anymore	在中国使用现金？你已经过时了
SHANGHAI — There is an audacious economic experiment happening in China.	上海——中国正在进行一场大胆的经济实验。
It has nothing to do with debt, infrastructure spending or the other major economic topics du jour. It has to do with cash — specifically, how China is systematically and rapidly doing away with paper money and coins.	它与债务、基础设施支出或其他热门的主要经济议题无关。它和现金有关——具体来说，就是中国如何系统、快速地终结了纸币和硬币的使用。
Almost everyone in major mainland Chinese cities is using a smartphone to pay for just about everything. At restaurants, a waiter will ask if you want to use WeChat or Alipay — the two smartphone payment options — before bringing up cash as a third, remote possibility.	在中国大陆的城市里，几乎所有人都在使用智能手机支付各种费用。在餐厅，服务员会问你是用微信还是支付宝埋单——这是两种智能手机付款方式——然后才说可以用现金，把它当作第三种付款方式，感觉顾客使用现金的可能性比较小。
Just as startling is how quickly the transition has happened. Only three years ago there would be no question at all, because everyone was still using cash.	同样令人吃惊的是，这种转变发生的速度有多快。仅仅三年前，根本就不存在这种情况，因为每个人都用现金。
“From a tech standpoint, this is probably one of the single most important innovations that has happened first in China, and at the moment it’s only in China,” said Richard Lim, managing director of venture capital firm GSR Ventures.	风险投资公司金沙江创投(GSR Ventures)的董事总经理林仁俊(Richard Lim)说：“从科技的角度来看，这可能是率先在中国发生的最重要的创新之一，目前只在中国有。”
There are certain parts of the Chinese internet that have to be seen to be believed. Coming from outside the country, it’s hard to comprehend	中国互联网的某些层面，你必须亲眼看到才能相信。来自国外的人，很难理解 Facebook 或谷歌可以被完全屏蔽，直到你不得不在没有它们的情况下生

that Facebook or Google can be completely blocked until you are forced to do without them. It's tough to fathom how critical the messenger app WeChat is for everyday life until the sixth person of the day asks to scan your QR code — a sort of bar code — to connect the two of you.	活。他们也很难理解消息应用微信对于人们的日常生活有多么重要，直到同一天里有六个人要求扫你的二维码（一种条码）来加好友。
What's happening with cash in China is similar. For the past three years, I have been outside mainland China covering Asian technology from Hong Kong, which has a very different internet culture from the mainland. I knew that smartphone payments were taking over in China, as the statistics were stark: In 2016, China's mobile payments hit $5.5 trillion, roughly 50 times the size of America's $112 billion market, according to consulting firm iResearch.	在现金方面，中国的情况也很类似。过去三年里，我住在大陆以外地区，从香港报道亚洲的科技新闻，而香港与大陆的互联网文化截然不同。我知道智能手机支付已经席卷了中国，从统计数据来看，这很明显：2016年，中国移动支付金额达到5.5万亿美元，是美国1120亿美元市场规模的50倍左右。
Even so, the attendant cultural shift was graspable only in person. I recently moved to Shanghai and felt the change with cash acutely because my first few weeks in the metropolis of more than 20 million were spent cut out of the system. Because of an issue with my bank, I couldn't immediately link my account to WeChat, which has become a virtual wallet for so many.	即使如此，只有亲自体验，你才能感受到随之而来的文化转变。我最近搬到了上海，对现金使用上的变化感触很深，因为我在这个2000多万人口大都市里度过的前几个星期，完全被隔绝在了手机支付系统之外。这是因为我的银行出了个问题，让我无法立即将银行帐户与微信绑定，而微信已经成为了很多人日常活动中的虚拟钱包。
That meant I had to navigate China the way I would have three years ago: with a stack of red 100-renminbi notes.	这意味着我不得不以三年前的方式在中国生活：使用一叠红色的人民币。
At coffee shops and restaurants, I held up lines as I fumbled out my wallet and peeled off the bills to give the cashier. If I was hungry I had to go outside and find a restaurant, while bowls of noodles, groceries and coffee materialized at our office, ordered by my colleagues and paid for on the phone. If I had to get somewhere, I couldn't use my	在咖啡店和餐馆，我摸索钱包，拿出钞票递给收银员时，减慢了收款队伍移动的速度。如果我饿了，就只能去外面找一家餐馆，而在我们的办公室，同事已经用手机付款购买了面条、各种杂物和咖啡。如果需要去某个地方，我无法使用手机解锁自行车——在中国的共享单车热潮中，这种自行车遍地都是。

phone to unlock one of the ubiquitous bicycles that are a part of China's bike-sharing craze.
Even the buskers were apparently ahead of me. Enterprising musicians playing on the streets of a number of Chinese cities have put up boards with QR codes so that passers-by can simply transfer them tips directly.	就连街头艺人似乎也把我甩在了后面。在一些中国城市街头表演的艺人挂出了二维码，这样路人就可以直接用手机打赏。
"It has become the default way of life now," said Shiv Putcha, an analyst with the research firm IDC. "Literally every business and brand in China is plugged into this ecosystem."	"现在这已经成为了默认的生活方式。"市场研究公司 IDC 分析师希夫·普恰 (Shiv Putcha)说："中国的每一个企业和品牌都接驳到了这个生态系统上。"
Some Scandinavian countries have also weaned themselves from cash but still use cards frequently. In China, the change has been to phones. One friend didn't realize how reliant she had become on mobile payments until her bank called her. She had left her A.T.M. card in the machine three weeks earlier and had not noticed its absence.	一些斯堪的纳维亚国家也在减少现金的使用，但仍然需要经常使用银行卡。在中国，这个变化转向手机。一位朋友在接听了银行打来的电话后，才意识到自己对移动支付系统的依赖度有多高。原来她三周前把银行卡忘在了自动取款机里，自己一直没有发现。
In practical terms, this means Tencent and Alibaba's financial affiliate, Ant Financial, the two Chinese internet companies that run WeChat and Alipay, respectively, are sitting atop a gold mine of staggering proportions. Both companies can make money off the transactions, charge other companies to use their payment platforms and all the while collect the payments data to be used in everything from new credit systems to advertising.	实际上，这意味着腾讯和阿里巴巴旗下的财务机构蚂蚁金服——这两家中国互联网公司分别是微信和支付宝的经营者——正坐在一个金矿上面，各自占据了很大的份额。它们都可以从交易中赚钱，向其他公司收取使用其支付平台的费用，同时也可以收集付款数据，运用到从信用系统到广告的各种服务中。
Mr. Lim said that according to recent data, Ant Financial and Tencent were set to surpass Visa and Mastercard in total transactions per day in the coming year. The key is that both companies are able to provide payments on the cheap, partly by allowing smaller vendors to make use of a simple printout of a QR code or their phone, instead of an	林仁俊表示，最新数据显示，在未来一年里，蚂蚁金服和腾讯的每天交易总额将超过维萨(Visa)和万事达卡(Mastercard)。关键在于，这两家公司能够以低廉的价格提供付款服务，部分原因是允许小型供应商使用简单的二维码打印件或手机，无需昂贵的读卡器。它们还用后台系统来存储用户的帐户记录，不需要与银行进行通信，这也有助于降低成本。

expensive card reader. A back-end system that stores a record of user accounts, instead of having to communicate with a bank, also keeps costs down.
While Tencent does not break out what it makes from mobile payments, in the fourth quarter of 2016 the “other services” item in its earnings almost tripled from a year earlier to 6.4 billion renminbi, or $940 million, driven largely by mobile payments.	虽然腾讯没有具体列出从移动支付中赚了多少钱，但在该公司 2016 年第四季度的财报中，“其他服务”一项的营收较上年增长了近两倍，达 64 亿人民币，这主要就来自移动支付。
There are some potential problems with China’s sweeping embrace of online payments. As the country builds its entire consumer economy around two private smartphone payment platforms, it is slowly locking out people unable to get onto those networks, and locking itself into those companies.	中国网络支付的广泛普及也存在一些潜在的问题。随着中国围绕着两个私人智能手机支付平台来打造整个消费型经济，无法进入这两个平台的人就逐渐被关在了外面，而且它也把自己锁定在了这些公司上。
At the simplest level, that makes life difficult for tourists and business travelers who are unlikely to open a bank account in China and so will find it hard to turn their phones into wallets.	从最简单的层面上说，游客和商务旅客不太可能在中国开设银行账户，所以他们难以将手机变成钱包。
More broadly, it means things could get harder for foreign and local businesses alike. Foreign companies hoping to sell to Chinese consumers now must deal with Alibaba and Tencent or risk being unable to take payments. Likewise, Chinese companies reliant on Alibaba and Tencent have to build out separate structures to deal with the world of Facebook, Google and credit cards that still dominate elsewhere.	从更广泛的角度看，这意味着对外国和本土企业来说，经营会变得更加困难。企图向中国消费者出售产品的外国公司现在必须和阿里巴巴或腾讯打交道，否则就有可能无法收款。同样，依赖阿里巴巴和腾讯的中国企业也必须建立一个独立的机构，来和 Facebook、谷歌和信用卡占主导的其他地区做生意。
There is a corollary for what could happen in China. In Japan in the early 2000s, flip phones could do everything from stream cable TV to pay at stores. But because the phones were so advanced, Japan was	对于中国可能会发生的事情，有这样一个推测。在 2000 年代初的日本，翻盖手机可以做很多事情，无论是观看有线电视，还是在商店里付款。但正是由于这些手机如此先进，日本向智能手机转移的速度就比较缓慢，结果 15

slow to adopt smartphones, and it went from tech giant to tech laggard in 15 years.	年后，日本从科技巨头沦为了落后者。
Now in Japan those flip phones, which are still being used, are called Galápagos phones because they evolved perfectly for an isolated environment.	眼下在日本，这些仍在被使用的翻盖式手机被称作加拉帕戈斯手机 (Galápagos phones)，因为它们完美地演变成了一个孤立的环境。
No doubt aware of this, Alibaba and Tencent are pushing to expand beyond China to ensure their newest innovation doesn't go the way of the dinosaurs.	阿里巴巴和腾讯无疑意识到了这一点，正在向国外扩张，以确保它们最新的创新不会步恐龙的后尘。
"The million-dollar question is: Will Western firms decide to build a system and compete?" Mr. Lim of GSR Ventures said. "The answer is probably yes."	"一个重要问题是：西方公司会不会决定打造一个系统，参与竞争？"金沙江创业投资基金的林仁俊说。"答案很可能是肯定的。"
Until then, new arrivals like me have to deal with being locked out.	在这一天到来之前，像我这样新来者必须应对被拒之门外的困境。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/china-cash-smartphone-payments	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/china-cash-smartphone-payments
China Censors Winnie-the-Pooh on Social Media	小熊维尼在中国惹怒了谁？
BEIJING — The Chinese government routinely censors discussion of weighty issues like Tibet, Taiwan and human rights abuses.	北京——中国政府会常规性地审查有关西藏、台湾和侵犯人权这类重要问题的讨论。
Now it is being accused of going after a far softer target: Winnie-the-Pooh.	现在，中国政府被指把矛头指向了一个温和得多的目标：小熊维尼 (Winnie-the-Pooh)。
Internet users in China have in recent days reported problems posting references to the warmhearted bear of A.A. Milne's children's books on social media sites. The apparent reason? Some commenters are using images of Winnie-the-Pooh to suggest that he shows a resemblance to President Xi Jinping.	小熊维尼本是 A·A·米尔恩 (A. A. Milne) 的童书中的角色，但最近几天，中国网民反映在社交媒体网站上发表和这只热心肠的小熊有关的内容时遇到了问题。显而易见的原因？一些发表评论的人用小熊维尼的图片来暗示他和中国国家主席习近平相像。
The Communist Party bristles at even the slightest hint of criticism, and	共产党对哪怕是最细微的批评迹象也会大为光火，并且审查机构对涉及习近

censors are especially sensitive to any mockery involving Mr. Xi, the most powerful Chinese leader in decades.	平的任何嘲弄尤其敏感。习近平是中国几十年里影响力最大的领导人。
The party has shown particular disdain for comparisons of Mr. Xi and Winnie-the-Pooh.	共产党对拿习近平和小熊维尼作比表现得尤其抵触。
The government's army of censors has been battling the meme since at least 2013, when Mr. Xi met President Barack Obama at the Sunnylands estate in Rancho Mirage, Calif. At the time, internet users posted pictures of Mr. Xi and Mr. Obama alongside an image showing Winnie-the-Pooh and his smiling companion, Tigger.	至少从 2013 年,习近平和贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)总统在加利福尼亚州兰乔米拉奇的“阳光之乡”庄园会面开始,政府的审查机构就在打击这个米姆。当时,网民把习近平和奥巴马同框的照片,与小熊维尼和满脸笑容的同伴跳跳虎(Tigger)在一起的图片放在一起。
The recent blackout does not appear to be uniform. On Weibo, a Twitterlike site, it was still possible on Monday to write posts and upload images related to Winnie-the-Pooh. But posting comments on existing posts that included the term Winnie the Pooh, who is known in Chinese as xiao xiong wei ni (or “Winnie the Little Bear”), was more problematic, returning an error message.	最近这场管制似乎不是统一行动。在类似于 Twitter 的微博上,周一当天依然可以发表和小熊维尼有关的帖子,上传相关图片。但对包含“小熊维尼”这个词的已有帖子发表评论的困难更大,用户会收到出现错误的提示。
After a fresh round of news reports about the censorship on Monday, including on the front page of The Financial Times, Chinese internet users took to social media sites to test the ban. Some seemed to be mocking the foreign news media, taking pride in being able to freely post pictures of the honey-loving bear.	周一出现有关此次审查的新一轮新闻报道,包括《金融时报》(The Financial Times)的头版报道后,中国网民纷纷登陆社交媒体网站一探究竟。一些人似乎在嘲弄外国新闻媒体,对自己能够自由地发布这只喜欢蜂蜜的小熊的图片自豪不已。
“He’s so cute, who could he have offended?” wrote one Weibo user.	“那么可爱招谁惹谁了”一名微博用户写道。
“Winnie-the-Pooh is also banned?” another asked. “Should everything related to Winnie-the-Pooh in Shanghai Disneyland be removed too?”	“小熊维尼也被禁?”另一名用户问道。“上海迪士尼小熊维尼相关都该撤了?”
Censors have been on high alert since the death last week of Liu Xiaobo, a jailed pro-democracy activist and Nobel laureate who had	上周,一直与肝癌作斗争的亲民主活动人士、被关押的诺贝尔奖获得者刘晓波去世,引发强烈抗议。之后,审查机构高度警惕。 been battling liver cancer, which prompted an outcry.

Winnie-the-Pooh has endured previous periods of censorship in China.	此前，小熊维尼在中国经历过多轮审查。
Images of Winnie-the-Pooh and Tigger alongside Mr. Xi and Mr. Obama after their meeting in 2013 were quickly deleted.	2013年习近平和奥巴马会面后，小熊维尼和跳跳虎与他们两人并排的图片被迅速删除。
And in 2014, censors took action when Winnie-the-Pooh comparisons resurfaced after an awkward handshake between Mr. Xi and Japan's prime minister, Shinzo Abe. Internet users memorialized the encounter with an image of the yellow bear shaking hands with a gloomy-eyed and uncomfortable Eeyore.	2014年，当小熊维尼的类比在习近平与日本首相安倍晋三(Shinzo Abe)尴尬握手后再度出现时，审查机构采取行动。网民用黄色的维尼小熊和眼神沮丧、不自在的屹耳驴握手的图片来纪念两人的会面。
Research by King-wa Fu at the University of Hong Kong showed that an image of Winnie-the-Pooh was one of the most consistently censored items on Chinese social media sites in 2015. The image depicted Winnie-the-Pooh in a toy truck, apparently meant to mock widely circulated images and video of Mr. Xi inspecting troops from a black limousine at a parade marking the 70th anniversary of the end of World War II.	香港大学的傅景华(Fu King-wa)进行的研究显示，小熊维尼的一张图片是2015年中国社交媒体网站上受审查最持久的对象之一。在这张图片上，小熊维尼站在一辆玩具卡车上，似乎是模仿广为流传的习近平在纪念“二战”结束70周年的阅兵仪式上，乘坐一辆黑色的豪华轿车检阅部队的照片和视频。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/china-winnie-the-pooh-censored	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/china-winnie-the-pooh-censored
As China Prepares for New Top Leaders, Women Are Still Shut Out	中共权力的玻璃天花板依然厚重
BEIJING — China's Communist Party leaders will gather this fall for a closely watched congress to decide who will take the party into its eighth decade of power. Yet for all the speculation about who will emerge at the top of the ruling party, one result seems certain: Few, if any, will be women.	北京——今年秋季，中国共产党的领导人将召开一个备受关注的大会，以决定谁将带领该党进入执政的第八个十年。在所有关于谁将出现在执政党顶层的各种猜测中，有一点似乎是肯定的：其中很少会是女性（如果有的话）。
Not once since the Communists came to power in 1949 has a woman	从共产党1949年上台以来，没有一位女性进入该党的最高机构，也就是如

sat on the party's highest body, the seven-member Politburo Standing Committee now led by President Xi Jinping. The 25-member Politburo has just two women, though that is the highest number since the Cultural Revolution, when the wives of the Chinese leader Mao Zedong and of Lin Biao, his designated successor, were given seats in 1969.	今由习近平主席领导的七人政治局常委会。由 25 人组成的政治局中只有两名女性，不过那已经是文革以来的最高数字——1969 年，中国领导人毛泽东的妻子以及他指定的接班人林彪的妻子被给予政治局席位。
Despite China's constitutional commitments to gender equality, discrimination remains widespread, academics and feminists say, summed up by the saying that a woman with power is like "a hen crowing at dawn" – an augur of the collapse of the family and state.	据学者和女权主义者称，尽管中国宪法要求两性平等，但歧视广泛存在，并集中体现在这句成语中：“牝鸡司晨”——意指女性当权是家族和国家崩溃的凶兆。
Mandatory early retirement for women doesn't help. Women must retire up to 10 years earlier than men, on the assumption that they are the primary caregivers for grandchildren and elderly relatives. That removes them from contention just as their careers begin to peak.	女性退休的法定年龄较早也是一个不利因素。女性必须比男性最多早 10 年退休，这是基于孙子辈和老年亲戚主要由女性照顾的假设下。就在她们的事业开始达到顶峰时，她们被迫从竞赛中退出。
So as Beijing's sultry summer deepens, Guo Jianmei and a group of fellow lawyers and feminists are rushing to complete a document urging the Communist Party to promote more women to leadership positions. They hope to distribute the document to party leaders to stimulate discussion before the congress, Ms. Guo, 57, said in an interview.	在北京越来越闷热的夏日，郭建梅和一群律师及女权主义者正在赶制一份敦促共产党提拔更多女性领导者的文件。57 岁的郭建梅在接受采访时表示，他们希望在大会召开前将文件发给党的领导人，以激发讨论。
She declined to provide details, saying the issue was sensitive because it touched on party power. "It's unusual for members of civil society to raise an issue with the party like this," said Ms. Guo, a longtime women's rights advocate at the Qianqian Law Firm in Beijing.	她拒绝提供细节，称该问题很敏感，因为它涉及党的权力。“民间团体成员向党提出这样的问题并不常见，”郭建梅说。她来自北京千千律师事务所，长期以来是一名妇女权益倡导者。
Twice in the past, she and others have appealed to the National People's Congress, China's Parliament, but this is their first approach to	过去，她和其他人曾两次向中国的议会机构全国人民代表大会提起呼吁，但这是他们第一次向拥有最高权力的党发出倡议。

the supremely powerful party.
Theirs might be a quixotic venture, but they are pressing ahead anyway. "At least it's doing something," Ms. Guo said, sighing.	他们的努力可能是一场不切实际的冒险，但他们还是勇往直前。“至少它是一种行动，”郭建梅叹息道。
The party has long publicly championed women's rights. At the United Nations in New York in 2015, Mr. Xi announced a $10 million donation to U.N. Women, the United Nations office working for gender equality.	中国共产党长期公开支持女性权益。2015年，习近平在纽约的联合国宣布向联合国妇女署(U.N. Women)捐款1000万美元。联合国妇女署是致力于促进两性平等的联合国机构。
Yet political power in China remains overwhelmingly male. Mr. Xi, 64, who was appointed party general secretary in 2012, is expected to serve a second five-year term.	不过，中国的政治权力依然由男性主导。64岁的习近平2012年被任命为总书记，他很可能会继续第二个五年任期。
"It would take a miracle for a woman to become head of the People's Republic of China in the foreseeable future," Cheng Li, director of the John L. Thornton China Center at the Brookings Institution, wrote in a recent essay.	“在可以预见的未来，除非有奇迹发生，否则不会有女性担任中华人民共和国领袖，”布鲁金斯研究院(Brookings Institution)约翰·桑顿中国研究中心(John L. Thornton China Center)的主任李成前不久在一篇文章中写道。
In fact, the percentage of women among full members of the party's Central Committee has declined in recent years, from 6.4 percent in 2012 before the last party congress to 4.9 percent today.	实际上，近些年，女性在中共中央委员会中所占的整体比例有所下降，从2012年上次党代会前的6.4%下降至如今的4.9%。
The figures signal that China is out of step with global trends. According to U.N. Women, more than twice as many women lead a country today than about a decade ago, though the number is still low at 17.	这些数字表明，中国与全球趋势脱节。根据联合国妇女署的数据，如今担任国家领袖的女性数量是约十年前的两倍多，虽然目前的人数依然很少，只有17个。
It is also out of step with its Chinese-speaking neighbors.	它也落后于同样讲中文的邻居们。
Taiwan, the self-ruled island that China claims as its territory, elected its first female president, Tsai Ing-wen, last year. In Hong Kong, the former British colony that rejoined China 20 years ago but retains its own political system, the first female chief executive, Carrie Lam, was sworn in this month.	中国宣称属于自己领土的自治岛屿台湾去年选出了第一位女总统蔡英文。上个月，香港的第一位女特首林郑月娥宣誓就职。香港是前英国殖民地，20年前回归中国，不过依然保留着自己的政治体系。

"If the party wants to survive, to move forward, they should be more inclusive," Mr. Li said in an interview, expressing optimism that this would happen eventually, noting that the party acted to broaden its base under former President Jiang Zemin, who drew in businesspeople in the 1990s.	"如果该党想生存下去，向前推进，就必须更具包容性，"李成在接受采访时表示。他对这最终会否实现表示乐观，并指出在前主席江泽民执政时期，该党努力扩大自己的基础，在20世纪90年代开始吸纳商界人士。
Still, the likelihood of a woman being appointed to the Politburo Standing Committee at this year's congress is low, he said.	不过他说，在今年的党代会上，一名女性被任命为政治局常委的可能性很小。
"The chance is probably only 5 percent," said Mr. Li, naming as the long-odds candidate Sun Chunlan, 67, one of the two female Politburo members and the head of the party's United Front Work Department.	"可能性很可能只有5%，"李成说。他所说的可能性很小的候选人是67岁的孙春兰，她是政治局的两名女委员之一，现任中央统战部部长。
The official retirement age for most male party cadres is 60, though that is often ignored at the top, where men may serve until at least 67, by unofficial agreement. The retirement age for female party cadres, civil servants and employees of state enterprises is 55. Other female workers retire at 50.	大部分男性党干部的官方退休年龄是60岁，不过高层往往无视这项规定，根据非官方的约定，男性至少可以任职至67岁。女性党干部、公务员和国企员工的退休年龄是55岁。其他女性工人的退休年龄是50岁。
The second female Politburo member, Liu Yandong, also an exception at 71, is expected to retire this fall, Mr. Li said.	李成表示，政治局的另一名女委员刘延东可能会在今年秋季退休。她也是一个例外，今年71岁。
"I would be shocked if a woman were named to the Standing Committee," Leta Hong Fincher, author of "Leftover Women: The Resurgence of Gender Inequality in China," wrote in an email.	"如果一名女性被任命为常委，我会感到非常震惊，"《剩女时代》(Leftover Women: The Resurgence of Gender Inequality in China)的作者洪理达(Leta Hong Fincher)在接受电子邮件采访时表示。
"I believe the government has no intention of doing anything substantive to improve its dismal record on women's political representation," Ms. Fincher said. "Instead, China is merely giving lip service to gender equality in order to appear more responsible as it vies for a more prominent global leadership role."	"我认为，中国政府没打算做任何实质性的努力，来改善它在女性参政方面的糟糕记录，"洪理达说。"相反，中国只是口头上赞同两性平等，那是为了在争取更显著的全球领导地位时显得更负责任。"

Others are more sanguine.	不过，有些人比较乐观。
"Top leaders are aware of the issue of female political participation," said Niu Tianxiu, a professor at Nanjing Normal University's School of Public Administration.	"女性参政已经逐渐引起高层领导人的重视，"南京师范大学公共管理学院教授牛天秀说。
About three in 10 midlevel cadres are female, dropping to two in 10 higher up the chain, Ms. Niu said, citing figures from a 2013 book by Song Xiuyan, the party secretary of the state-run All-China Women's Federation.	牛天秀引用国家控制的中华全国妇女联合会党组书记宋秀岩 2013 年的书中的数据，称约有十分之三的中层干部是女性，而在更高层的干部中，这个比例降至十分之二。
Asked to comment on women's political participation in China, the federation said in a faxed statement that the party attached "great importance" to women's work and that, "with Comrade Xi Jinping as the core," it had put more emphasis on women's and children's issues.	当被要求就中国女性参政作出评论时，该联合会在发来的传真声明中表示，中国共产党"非常重视"女性工作，"以习近平同志为核心"的党中央更加重视妇女和儿童问题。
"The environment for feminist discourse and policy have improved somewhat," Ms. Niu said. "And especially at the middle and lower level, if local leaders have progressive attitudes toward gender and can get the support of the families involved, exceptionally able women can partake in a fair competition."	"总体而言，参政政策环境不断改善，"牛天秀说，"尤其是在中层和基层，如果领导具有先进的性别意识，又能得到家庭的支持，能力突出的从政女性在岗位的公平竞争中也能脱颖而出。"
Yet she did not expect the situation to change much, with so few women in the pipeline for promotion.	不过，她并不期望情况会发生很多改变，因为可供提拔的女性很少。
"I don't think we'll see a clear increase in women at the top after the 19th Party Congress," she said. "There's scarce talent coming up in terms of high-level female cadres."	"我觉得，十九大以后，女性高层领导人数不会出现明显的增加，"她说。"高层女干部储备人才稀缺。"
Serving as the party secretary or governor of a province is practically a prerequisite for a top job, but only two out of 62 such positions are currently held by women.	实际上，曾担任省委书记或省长是获得高层职位的先决条件，但是目前的 62 个此类职位中只有两个由女性担任。

In addition, Ms. Niu said, the “two-child policy” that replaced China’s longstanding “one-child policy” last year is increasing pressure on women to stay home. With more of their middle years consumed by child-rearing, women are less likely to reach senior positions before age-related cutoffs kick in.	牛天秀还说，去年开始实行的“二胎政策”取代了中国长期以来的“独生子女政策”，增加了女性做全职主妇的压力。随着女性的中年时间更多地被抚养孩子所占用，她们更不可能在退休之前升至高级职位。
The road to power, controlled by the Communist Party, is more difficult for women on an even more fundamental level, statistics suggest. Only 25.1 percent of China’s 88 million party members are female, according to the latest figures, from 2015.	数据显示，即便在更基础的层次上，女性在共产党控制的权力之路上也面临着更大的困难。根据 2015 年的最新数据，中国的 8800 万党员中只有 25.1% 是女性。
This year’s party congress is expected to undergo the largest change in top-level leaders since 1969, with about 70 percent of the Central Committee due to turn over, Mr. Li said.	李成表示，在今年的党代会上，高层领导可能会出现 1969 年以来的最大规模变动，因为约 70% 的中央委员会委员到了交出职位的时候。
So, in theory, Ms. Guo’s appeal to appoint more women is well timed. Still, she is tempering her expectations.	所以从理论上讲，郭建梅提出任命更多女性的倡议的时机选得很好。不过，她仍在降低自己的期望值。
“At this meeting they want to choose leaders,” she said. “All we can do is advocate and raise something that hopefully they will talk about.”	“他们想在这次会议上选出领导人，”她说。“我们能做的只有倡议和提出一个希望他们会讨论的议题。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/china-women-communist-party	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/china-women-communist-party
Liu Xiaobo’s Death Pushes China’s Censors Into Overdrive	中国网络审查变本加厉，严禁纪念刘晓波言论
BEIJING — It came as little surprise when, after the death of the dissident Liu Xiaobo last week, China’s vast army of censors kicked into overdrive as they scrubbed away the outpouring of grief on social media that followed.	北京——异见人士刘晓波上周去世后，为了删除人们在社交媒体上随之表达的哀悼，中国庞大的审查队伍拼命工作，这一点也不奇怪。
The accounts of censorship have been mostly anecdotal. But systematic research from the Citizen Lab at the University of Toronto’s	有关审查的描述大多是个别的故事。但加拿大多伦多大学蒙克全球事务学院公民实验室(Citizen Lab)的系统性研究显示，在刘晓波去世后的日子里，审

Munk School of Global Affairs shows that there was a “significant shift” in censorship techniques in the days after Mr. Liu’s death, particularly on WeChat, the popular messaging app from Tencent.	查手法发生了“重大转变”，尤其是在腾讯的流行即时短信应用平台微信上。
On WeChat, which has more than 768 million daily active users, the number of keyword combinations that were blocked greatly increased, according to the report that the Citizen Lab published on Sunday. Additions to the blacklist included general references to his death like “Xiaobo + died” in Chinese and in English, and even just his name “Liu Xiaobo,” effectively censoring any messages that mentioned him.	微信上每天的活跃用户数超过 7.68 亿，据公民实验室周日发布的报告，该平台上被屏蔽的关键词组合的数量大大增加。被加入黑名单的词组包括“晓波+去世”这种一般性地提及他的死亡的中英文，甚至只提他的名字“刘晓波”也不行，任何有关他的消息基本上都遭到了审查。
The Citizen Lab said it was also the first time that images were automatically filtered in private one-on-one chats on WeChat. Blocked images included photographs of Liu Xiaobo and of people commemorating him.	公民实验室说，在微信的私人一对一聊天中，图片也首次被自动过滤。被屏蔽的图像包括刘晓波的照片、以及人们对他进行悼念的照片。
One of the distinguishing features of WeChat is that it does not notify users when their messages are blocked. The service also makes a distinction between accounts registered to phone numbers from mainland China and phone numbers from elsewhere.	微信的一个特征是，用户的消息被屏蔽时，它不会予以通知。该平台也对用中国大陆手机号注册的帐户与用其他地方的电话号码注册的帐户进行了区别对待。
In one experiment, researchers at the Citizen Lab found that a photo of Liu Xiaobo posted to an international user’s WeChat social media feed was visible to other users abroad but was hidden from users with Chinese accounts.	在一个实验中，公民实验室的研究人员发现，发到一个微信国际用户帐号里的刘晓波照片，其它国外用户可以看到，但中国国内的帐号却无法看到。
The heightened – yet uneven – censorship in recent days has elicited frustration and confusion among Mr. Liu’s supporters.	审查力度在最近几天无规律地加大，让刘晓波的支持者们沮丧，也让他们无所适从。
On the day after Mr. Liu’s death, one user posted on his WeChat feed: “Did you see what I just sent?’ ‘No, I can’t see it.’ For the last two days,	在刘晓波去世后的第二天，一位用户在他的微信朋友圈里写道：“你们看到我刚发的东西了吗？”“没有，没看到。”“在过去的两天中，这已成为了朋友间

this has been the constant question and answer among friends.”	经常性的问答。”
The aggressive attempt at censorship is just the latest indication of the strong grip that the Chinese government maintains on local internet companies. In addition to automatically filtering certain keywords and images, internet companies like Baidu, Sina and Tencent also employ human censors who retroactively comb through posts and delete what they deem as sensitive content, often based on government directives.	气势汹汹地加大审查的努力，只是中国政府加强对本地互联网公司控制的最新表现。除了自动过滤某些关键词和图片外，百度、新浪和腾讯等互联网公司还雇佣了人工审查员，他们通常根据政府的指示，把他们认为带有敏感内容的已发帖子删掉。
Failure to block such content can result in fines for companies or worse, revocation of their operational licenses. Censors have been on especially high alert this year in light of the Communist Party’s 19th National Party Congress in the fall.	未能封禁此类内容可能会让公司遭到罚款或更严重的惩罚：丢掉经营许可。由于中国共产党将在秋季召开第十九次全国代表大会，审查员今年一直处于高度戒备状态。
Over the years, the constant cat-and-mouse game between Chinese censors and internet users has led to the rise of a robust internet culture in which censorship is normalized and satire and veiled references are par for the course.	多年来，中国的审查者和互联网用户之间无休止的猫捉老鼠游戏，已经导致一种强大的互联网文化的兴起，在这种文化中，审查常规化，讽刺和隐晦的用法则是家常便饭。
So even as censors stepped up scrutiny in recent days, many savvy Chinese internet users found ways to evade those efforts. In tributes to Mr. Liu, users referred to him as “Brother Liu” or even “XXX.” They posted passages from his poems and abstract illustrations of Mr. Liu and his wife, Liu Xia.	就在审查员近日来加紧工作的时候，很多精明的中国互联网用户也发现了躲避审查努力的方法。网上纪念刘晓波的方式颇有创意，有的用户用“刘大哥”、甚至“XXX”来称呼他。他们发的帖子中有摘自刘晓波诗词的段落，也有人发了他和妻子刘霞的抽象插画。
Over the weekend, however, the tributes gave way to scathing critiques as friends and supporters of Mr. Liu reacted angrily to the news of Mr. Liu’s cremation and sea burial under strict government oversight.	但在周末，在政府严格监督之下，刘晓波的遗体被火化和海葬的消息传来，随着他的朋友和支持者们对消息做出愤怒反应，网上的纪念表达已经转化为对政府的猛烈抨击。
One user took to his WeChat feed on Sunday to express disgust with the use of Mr. Liu’s corpse in what some called a blatant propaganda	周日，一位用户在自己的微信里对一些人称之为公然使用刘晓波的遗体做宣传的做法表示了厌恶。“迅速火化，迅速海葬，”他写道。“活着怕、死了也怕。

exercise. "Swift cremation, swift sea burial," he wrote. "Scared of the living, scared of the dead, and even more scared of the dead who are immortal."	更怕死而不朽的。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/liu-xiaobo-censor	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170718/liu-xiaobo-censor
Tomb Robbing, Perilous but Alluring, Makes Comeback in China	危险的诱惑：中国盗墓者卷土重来
BAOLING VILLAGE, China — One day last November, Yang Mingzhen received a tip: Construction workers digging on his family's land had discovered an ancient tomb.	中国宝陵村——去年 11 月的一天，杨明镇（音）听到小道消息：在他家的地里施工的建筑工人发现了一座古墓。
That night, Mr. Yang and his father and uncle sneaked down to the tomb, in a barren dirt field just outside the entrance of Baoling Village, on a dusty hilltop in Shaanxi Province.	当晚，杨明镇与父亲和一名男性亲戚偷偷下到古墓里。古墓就位于村口外一片贫瘠的泥地里，而村子位于陕西省一个尘土飞扬的小山顶上。
Early the next morning, a worker found the bodies of Mr. Yang and the two other men. Sometime in the night the centuries-old tomb had collapsed, and they had been buried alive.	第二天清晨，一名工人发现了杨明镇和另外两名男子的遗体。夜里的某个时候，那座有数百年历史的古墓坍塌，他们被活埋了。
Village residents were shocked. "He wouldn't have even dared to steal his neighbor's carrots," said Yang Yuansheng, 62, the village accountant, referring to Mr. Yang. "Who would have thought he would risk his reputation to go rob a tomb?"	村民们感到震惊。“他连邻居的胡萝卜都不敢偷，”62 岁的村会计杨元胜（音）说起杨明镇时表示。“谁想到他不顾自己的名誉，冒险去盗墓？”
Such are the extreme allures — and perils — of grave robbing, an ancient practice that has made a roaring comeback as the global demand for Chinese antiquities has surged. With prices for some Chinese antiquities reaching into the tens of millions of dollars, a flood of amateur and professional thieves looking to get rich quick has hit China's countryside.	这就是盗墓的巨大诱惑——和危险。盗墓是一个古老的行当，但随着全球对中国文物的需求激增，这种现象迅速卷土重来。在一些中国文物的价格达到数千万美元的情况下，大批指望一夜暴富、或业余或专业的盗墓贼涌入中国乡村。
While accurate figures are difficult to come by, the looting has resulted	尽管难以得到准确的数字，但盗墓导致中国许多文化遗址遭到永久性的破

in the permanent destruction of numerous Chinese cultural heritage sites. In 2016, China's State Administration of Cultural Heritage reported 103 tomb-raiding and cultural relic theft cases.	坏。2016年，中国国家文物局通报了103起墓葬被盗和文物失窃案件。
Experts believe many more cases have gone undetected. Between ancient and modern thieves, they say, up to eight out of every 10 tombs in China have been plundered.	专家认为，未被发现的案件更多。他们表示，中国每10座墓穴就有8座在古代或者现代遭过劫掠。
Provinces rich in Chinese imperial cultural heritage, like Henan, Shaanxi and Shanxi, have been especially hard hit.	中国帝王文化遗产丰富的省份，如河南、陕西和山西，受影响尤其严重。
"Henan has pretty much been emptied," said Ni Fangliu, the author of several popular books about tomb raiding. "There's nothing left to steal."	"河南几乎被挖空了，"写过多本盗墓题材的畅销书的倪方六说。"没有可盗的了。"
China, under President Xi Jinping, has shown a growing desire to embrace traditional culture. The government — which asserts ownership over all ancient tombs and underground cultural relics — has sought to combat the tomb-robbing problem through lawmaking, increased surveillance and monetary rewards for people who turn in relics.	中国国家主席习近平上台后，中国对弘扬传统文化表现出了越来越强烈的愿望。政府——拥有所有古墓和地下文物的所有权——寻求通过立法、加强监督和给予上交文物者现金奖励来打击盗墓问题。
But officials say the problem is so pervasive that it has become nearly impossible to eliminate.	但官员称，这个问题太普遍，几乎不可能根除。
"It's just like drugs in the United States," said Zhou Kuiying, deputy director of the Shaanxi provincial bureau of cultural heritage. "Even though the government bans tomb robbing, there are still many people who do it."	"就像美国的毒品问题，"陕西省文物局副局长周魁英说。"尽管政府禁止盗墓，但还是有很多人这么干。"
For more than 3,000 years, Chinese rulers and aristocrats adhered to elaborate funerary rituals, including the practice of burying the dead	在3000多年里，中国的统治者和贵族坚持复杂的丧葬仪式，包括把日常用品和逝者埋在一起，供其往生后使用。随葬品可能无所不包，从玉盘和青铜

with objects to use in the afterlife. Depending on the era and the rank and wealth of the deceased, the burial goods could include everything from jade discs and bronze vessels to lacquer boxes and glazed pottery figurines.	器到漆盒和上釉陶俑,具体取决于逝者所处的时代和阶级,以及拥有的财富。
Grave robbing in China has a history that is perhaps as long. In the second century B.C., tomb robbing was so widespread that the Lüshi Chunqiu, a classic Chinese text compiled around 239 B.C., advocated frugal burials to deter looters. Even the mausoleum of China's first emperor, Qin Shihuangdi, which is guarded by his famous Terracotta Army, is rumored to contain a series of booby traps intended to ward off potential robbers.	在中国,盗墓的历史或许同样悠久。在公元前2世纪,盗墓现象非常普遍,以至在公元前239年前后编写的中国经典著作《吕氏春秋》倡导实行节俭的丧葬,以防止盗墓贼。就连中国第一位皇帝秦始皇的陵墓,据传也为了阻挡盗墓贼而设了一系列机关。著名的兵马俑就是守护秦始皇的。
It wasn't until centuries later, during the post-Mao opening of China in the 1980s, that this practice became an epidemic. Farmers, whose families had for generations been charged with safeguarding local tombs, began moving off the land and into cities. Vast areas were turned over to make way for subway tunnels, apartment buildings and highway networks. Construction sites doubled as archaeological pits, and countless tombs and historical relics were unearthed in the process.	直到多个世纪后的80年代,中国进入后毛泽东时代的开放时期,盗墓才又变得泛滥成灾。家族历代负责保护当地墓穴的农民开始离开土地,进入城市。为了给地铁隧道、公寓楼和公路网腾出地方,大片地区被挖得底朝天。在这个过程中,建筑工地成倍增加,考古遗址和不计其数的墓穴和历史文物得到发掘。
Along the way, many Chinese, buoyed by rising incomes, developed a new appreciation for relics, giving rise to a new class of Chinese collectors who rival even longtime Western collectors of Chinese antiquities in their knowledge, enthusiasm and purchasing power.	在此期间,在收入不断增加的支撑下,很多中国人开始喜欢上了文物收藏,催生出一个新的中国藏家阶层。无论是在知识、热情还是购买力上,他们甚至堪比长期收藏中国古董的西方藏家。
As the market for Chinese art and antiquities exploded, so too did the number of forgeries. The problem became so rampant that some	随着中国艺术品和古董市场的爆发,赝品的数量也呈爆增之势。这个问题变得非常猖獗,以至一些收藏家甚至开始悄悄寻找新近劫掠的文物,以避免买

collectors even began quietly seeking out recently looted objects to avoid the risk of buying fakes.	到赝品的风险。
For tomb robbers, the appeal is clear. "One nice bronze from the Qin or Han dynasty can buy you a big house," Mr. Ni said.	对盗墓者而言，吸引力很明显：“一件秦汉时期的上等青铜器够你买个大房子，”倪方六说。
But there is little romance to the grave-looting life. In China, most grave robbers are migrant workers and farmers. Some are like Yang Mingzhen — amateur thieves equipped with only basic tools. Others, however, are part of professional trafficking networks that make use of everything from high-tech probing devices to traditional feng shui masters.	但盗墓的生活几乎没有浪漫可言。在中国，大部分盗墓者都是农民工或农民。一些人像杨明镇一样，是业余的盗墓贼，只配备了基本的工具。然而，另外一些人则属于专业走私网络的一部分。它们会利用从高科技探测设备到传统风水大师的一切资源。
The task is dirty and dangerous, requiring workers to crawl into small tunnels, handle explosives and inhale stale air — all while evading detection. When raids are successful, the objects are often passed through a shadowy, cross-border network of middlemen, smugglers and dealers before reaching the display cases of wealthy collectors and museums in China and abroad.	盗墓的工作肮脏、危险，要求干活的人爬进狭小的地道、安放炸药、呼吸污浊的空气，并且在做这一切时还要避免被发现。成功后，墓穴葬品通常会通过中间人、走私犯和古董商构成的一个隐秘跨境网络，才能到达中国国内外富裕的收藏家和博物馆的展示柜。
Even so, tomb robbing has become a pop culture phenomenon. The online fiction series "Grave Robbers' Chronicles" by Nanpai Sanshu, about a young man's tomb-robbing adventures, became a sensation after it first appeared in 2006. Since then, numerous television shows and movies have also been made about tomb robbing, including Wuershan's "Mojin: The Lost Legend" and Lu Chuan's "Chronicles of the Ghostly Tribe."	即便如此，盗墓已经成了一个流行文化现象。南派三叔讲述一个年轻人盗墓冒险经历的网络小说《盗墓笔记》2006年首次上线后，便引起了轰动。那以后又出现了很多有关盗墓的电视节目和电影，包括乌尔善的《寻龙诀》和陆川的《九层妖塔》。
"There's a natural curiosity about the supernatural, fantastic or unknown world," said Mr. Lu, the film director, about the public's fascination with tomb robbing.	“对超自然、稀奇古怪或未知的世界有一种天生的好奇，”陆川说到民众对盗墓题材的喜爱时表示。

As part of research for the film, Mr. Lu met with tomb robbers who told him about their looting techniques. The discussion was so off-putting, Mr. Lu said, that while making "Chronicles of the Ghostly Tribe" he purposely avoided depicting scenes of tomb raiding in action.	在为电影做调研期间，陆川见过多名盗墓贼。他们和他讲了自己的盗墓技巧。陆川说，相关讨论令人非常不快，因此在拍摄《九层妖塔》期间，他故意避免刻画现实中的盗墓画面。
"I thought to myself, "This is just plain robbery," Mr. Lu said. "It's not romantic at all and they are not heroes."	"我心里想，'这纯粹是抢劫，'"陆川说。"一点也不浪漫，他们不是英雄。"
Some officials and cultural preservationists worry that the popularization of tomb robbing has encouraged amateurs to dip their toes in the trade. In a case from 2015, for example, a looter surnamed Luan told the police that he and associates planned to rob a tomb in Zhejiang Province after first discussing the idea in an online fan group for "Grave Robbers' Chronicles," according to a local news outlet.	一些官员和文化保护主义者担心，盗墓的通俗化会促使业余爱好者涉足这种交易。例如，有新闻媒体报道，在2015年的一起案件中，一个名叫栾的劫掠者告诉警方，他和同伙在《盗墓笔记》的网络粉丝群里进行过讨论之后，计划在浙江省盗个墓。
The rise in amateurs has added to the headache for officials trying to crack down on the practice. After reaching a peak in the early 2000s, officials say instances of tomb robbing at major heritage sites have decreased sharply in recent years.	业余盗墓者的兴起，让那些试图打击盗墓活动的官员更加头疼。官员们说，各大遗址的盗墓活动在2000年代初达到高峰，近年来出现了急剧下降。
But the downside to having a civilization more than 5,000 years old is that cultural heritage sites are everywhere, making comprehensive protection all but impossible. In 2015, the police broke what they called the biggest antiquities trafficking case since 1949, arresting 175 people across six provinces for stealing and trafficking objects worth an estimated $80 million.	但中华文明有五千多年的历史，它的不利之处就是文化遗产无处不在，全面保护是不可能的。在2015年，警方破获了自1949年以来最大的文物贩卖案件，在六个省份有175人因偷窃和贩卖价值约8000万美元的文物被逮捕。
"It's a constant battle between us and the criminals," said Wang Jinqing, head of cultural relics protection in the Shaanxi provincial bureau of cultural heritage. "There are so many small tombs that we don't know	"我们在不断地与犯罪分子作斗争。"文物局督察与安全保卫处的官员王金清说："有很多小型墓葬的存在我们都不知道，不可能保护到它们。"

about, it's impossible to protect them all."
Despite all the looting and destruction, some say there has been one small silver lining. When it comes to unopened tombs, Chinese cultural officials typically take a more conservative stance, opting to protect rather than excavate. As a result, tombs that have already been opened by tomb raiders have become gold mines for archaeologists.	尽管遭到这样的劫掠和破坏,有人说还是有点小小的好处。对于未开启的坟墓,中国文化官员通常采取更保守的立场,选择保护而不是挖掘它们。因此,那些已经被盗墓者挖开的墓葬,就成为了考古学家的金矿。
"Many of China's major archaeological discoveries have been made in plundered tombs," said Wang Genfu, an archaeology professor at Nanjing Normal University. But, he added, the condition of the looted tombs is often so poor such that "archaeologists are still missing a lot of historical information."	"中国的许多考古发现都是在被盗的坟墓中获得的。"南京师范大学考古学教授王根富说。但是,他也表示,被盗的墓葬状态往往很差,所以"考古学家仍然缺少很多历史资料"。
With robbers now turning their attention to the large number of untouched tombs in northern and western China, experts say that more action needs to be taken to protect those sites. But fully resolving the problem, they say, will ultimately come down to the people at the other end of the looting chain: the collectors.	随着盗墓者现在把注意力转移到了中国北部和西部大量尚未被染指的墓葬,专家们说,这些地方需要采取更多的保护措施。他们说,要完全解决这个问题,就要处理盗墓链条另一端上的人,即收藏者。
"No one would risk their life to loot a tomb if there wasn't a market for the stuff," said Donna Yates, an archaeologist at the Scottish Center for Crime and Justice Research at the University of Glasgow. "No demand, no looting."	"如果没有交易赃物的市场,就不会有人冒着生命去盗墓。"格拉斯哥大学苏格兰犯罪与司法研究中心(Scottish Center for Crime and Justice Research at the University of Glasgow)的考古学家唐娜·伊茨(Donna Yates)说,"没有需求,就没有劫掠。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170719/china-tomb-robbing-qin-dynasty	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170719/china-tomb-robbing-qin-dynasty
China Disrupts WhatsApp Service in Online Clampdown	WhatsApp 被中国部分屏蔽
SHANGHAI — The last of Facebook's major consumer products that still worked in China was disrupted by the government on Tuesday, as	上海——周二,随着北京大范围地收紧对互联网的控制,Facebook 旗下最后一个仍可在中国境内使用的主要消费品受到了政府的干扰。

Beijing broadly tightens its controls over the internet.
WhatsApp, a messaging app used across the globe, was partly blocked by Chinese filters, leaving many unable to send videos and photos and some also unable to send text-based messages.	中国的屏蔽系统部分地阻碍了全球各地都在使用的即时消息应用 WhatsApp, 导致许多人无法发送视频和照片, 还使得一些人无法发送基于文本的信息。
The disruption of WhatsApp was the latest in a long line of big digital services running up against China's "Great Firewall," the country's system of internet filters and controls. In recent weeks, the government has appeared to increase its grip, an online crackdown fed by a perfect storm of politically sensitive news, important upcoming events, and a new cybersecurity law that went into effect last month.	中国的“防火长城”(Great Firewall)是该国对互联网进行过滤和控制的系统, WhatsApp 的受阻是遭遇该系统的一长串大型数字服务的最新一例。政府似乎在最近几周里加强了对网络的控制, 而且, 政治敏感新闻、即将到来的重要事件, 以及上个月生效的新《网络安全法》的完美风暴 (perfect storm, 指坏事同时发生、糟得不能再糟的局面——译注) 也助长了这次网上打压行动。
Sites hosting popular foreign television shows have had videos taken down, and tools used to skirt the censors have faced more frequent disruptions. In an article, the mouthpiece of the country's Communist Party scolded the Chinese internet company Tencent over a popular video game, calling it too addictive.	播放受欢迎的外国电视节目的网站上已有一些视频遭到删除, 用来躲避审查系统的工具也面临着更频繁的干扰。共产党的喉舌还在一篇文章中批评中国互联网公司腾讯, 称其一款流行的电子游戏让人过于上瘾。
The news environment has heightened the sensitivity. In recent weeks, the Chinese dissident Liu Xiaobo passed away in detention. A Chinese billionaire in the United States accused senior leaders of graft, from his platform on Twitter. And Hong Kong commemorated the 20th anniversary of its handover to China.	新闻环境也让敏感程度有所提高。最近几周里发生的事情包括, 中国异见人士刘晓波在关押下去世, 一名旅居美国的中国亿万富翁在 Twitter 平台上指责中国高层领导人受贿, 再就是香港庆祝回归中国 20 周年。
To make matters more fraught, the 19th Party Congress — where top leadership positions are determined — is just months away. In the run up to the event, which happens every five years, the government puts an increased emphasis on stability, often leading to a tightening of internet controls.	让事情更糟糕的是, 离共产党第十九次全国代表大会的召开只有几个月的时间了, 每五年一次的党代会将决定高层领导人的安排。政府在大会召开的前夕更加重视稳定, 这往往导致对互联网控制的收紧。

WhatsApp, which had generally avoided major disruptions in China despite the full block of Facebook and Instagram, appears to have become a victim of those circumstances.	尽管 Facebook 和 Instagram 被彻底屏蔽,但 WhatsApp 基本上一直未在中国遇到大的阻碍, 不过, 该应用似乎已经成为目前紧张状况的受害者。
The blocks against WhatsApp originated with the government, according to a person familiar with the situation who declined to be named because they were not authorized to speak on the record about the disruption. Security experts also verified that the partial disruption in WhatsApp started with China's internet filters.	据一名了解情况的人士透露,屏蔽 WhatsApp 的做法是政府发起的, 该人要求不具名, 因为未被授权对媒体讨论有关事宜。安全专家也证实, WhatsApp 的部分中断始于中国的互联网过滤系统。
"According to the analysis that we ran today on WhatsApp's infrastructure, it seems that the Great Firewall is imposing censorship that selectively targets WhatsApp functionalities," said Nadim Kobeissi, an applied cryptographer at Symbolic Software, a cryptography research start-up.	密码学研究初创公司 Symbolic Software 的应用密码学家纳迪姆·科贝西 (Nadim Kobeissi)说, "据我们今天对 WhatsApp 的基础架构所做的分析, 看来防火长城正在有选择性地对 WhatsApp 的功能加强审查。"
Mr. Kobeissi said it was not clear whether the targeted censorship of videos and photos was intentional, or if it was just a prelude to a more complete block of WhatsApp in the coming days.	科贝西表示, 目前尚不清楚针对视频和照片的审查是专门的措施, 还是这是在未来几天里全面封锁 WhatsApp 的序幕。
WhatsApp is hugely popular around much of the globe but the platform is not widely used in China, where local messaging app WeChat dominates. Even so, it is used by many Chinese to communicate or do business outside the country or in Hong Kong.	WhatsApp 在全球绝大多数地区深受欢迎, 但该平台在中国并没有大量的用户, 微信是在中国占主导地位的即时消息应用程序。尽管如此, 许多中国人在与国外或香港交流、或进行交易时会使用 WhatsApp。
In the past, partial blocks have sometimes led to full bans, or have eventually been removed by the government, and service restored. Still, Beijing's track record with other American social networking services does not bode well for WhatsApp. Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Google and Gmail are all blocked in the country.	过去, 部分屏蔽有时会演变为全面封锁, 但有时, 政府会最终停止这种做法, 让服务得到恢复。不过, 从其他的美国社交网络服务平台的情况来看, 北京在这方面的前科对 WhatsApp 不是好消息。Facebook、Instagram、Twitter、Google 和 Gmail 都已被中国屏蔽。

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170719/whatsapp-facebook-china-internet	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170719/whatsapp-facebook-china-internet
Dodging Chinese Police in Kashgar, a Silk Road Oasis Town	便衣警察“陪伴”我游览喀什
KASHGAR, China — The five policemen in black uniforms surrounded the young man and his friend on the sidewalk.	中国喀什——便道上，五名身穿黑色制服的警员将一名年轻男子和他的朋友围住。
The man, an ethnic Uighur, pulled out identification. The policemen had been unaware that he was one of their own — an officer, but in plainclothes.	这名维吾尔族男子掏出证件。那些警员此前没意识到对方是自己人——他也是一名警员，只不过身着便装。
The man, whose name my companions and I would later learn was Rexat Yusuf, had been following us since we left our hotel in Kashgar, a Silk Road oasis town in the deserts of far west China. From the start, we could tell he and his companion, who was of the dominant Han ethnicity, were policemen assigned to watch us.	这里是喀什，一个丝绸之路上的绿洲城镇，位于中国西部边疆的沙漠中。我和同伴自从离开当地的一家宾馆，一直被该男子尾随。我们后来得知他叫雷塞特·优素福（Rexat Yusuf，音）。从一开始，我们就知道他和他那名汉族同伴是奉命监视我们的警员。
On our stroll, we reached the rebuilt ramparts of the old city wall and climbed stairs to take photographs. The two men waited at the bottom, and that was when the police patrol confronted them.	我们一路溜达着来到重建的老城墙处，顺着台阶往上走，以便拍些照片。那两个人等在墙根下，遭遇了巡逻的警员。
When we walked down minutes later, the same patrol turned its attention to us. They asked for our identification. Because I was renewing my journalist visa, I did not have my passport on me — it was in the hands of the Beijing police unit overseeing visas. They had given me a temporary travel document that I had left in our hotel.	几分钟后，当我们往下走的时候，同一群巡逻的警员把注意力转向我们。他们要求我们出示证件。由于我的记者签证正在更新中，并未随身携带护照——它在负责处理签证事宜的北京警察部门手中。
The police then ushered our group — Gilles Sabrié, a photographer; Vanessa Piao, a bureau researcher; and me — into a van and drove us to a station. We were under detention.	警方随即把我们一行——除了我，还有摄影师吉勒斯·萨布里(Gilles Sabrié)、分社研究员瓦妮莎·朴(Vanessa Piao)——带上一辆面包车，拉到警务室。我们被暂时扣下了。
So went my final reporting trip as Beijing bureau chief for The New York	以上是我最后一次以《纽约时报》北京分社社长的身份出差做报道的遭遇。

Times. It was my fifth visit to Kashgar, on the rim of the Chinese empire. I found that officials had tightened security measures and limits on the religious practice of the Uighurs, who are mostly Sunni Muslim.	这是我第五次到访位于中华大帝国边陲的喀什。我发现官员们加强了安全措施，收紧了对维吾尔人宗教活动的限制。维吾尔人大多是逊尼派穆斯林。
In the streets, I saw regular police patrols, mobile police stations resembling food trucks and officers asking Uighur men for identification. On my first trip, in 1999, I had seen many women wearing full face veils. Now that was absent. And only elderly men and Pakistani traders had long beards.	在街头，我看到了警方的日常巡逻，类似于流动餐车的流动警务室，以及要求维吾尔族男子出示证件的警员。1999年第一次来这里的时候，我见过很多女人戴着全罩式面纱。现今那种景象已不复存在。此外，只有上年纪的男子和巴基斯坦商贩才留长胡子。
Officials said they were trying to prevent violent, anti-state episodes in Uighur areas, which they attributed to separatism, terrorism and religious extremism. The greatest outburst took place in 2009, when ethnic rioting in Urumqi, the capital of Xinjiang, the autonomous region where Kashgar is located, resulted in about 200 deaths. Uighur advocates say the harsh security measures fuel resentment.	官员们说他们正竭力防止在维吾尔人聚居的地区发生被其归因于分离主义、恐怖主义和宗教极端主义的反政府暴力事件。最惨烈的事件发生在2009年，当时，乌鲁木齐的种族骚乱导致约200人死亡。乌鲁木齐是喀什所在的新疆自治区的首府。维吾尔族倡导人士说，这些严厉的安保措施引发了不满。
I flew to Kashgar for a last look because it is a touchstone in my relationship with China. For me, as for travelers through the centuries, this town in the heart of Central Asia has been a crossroads and a gateway. It is a bridge between interior China and the Eurasian continent, with its Islamic lands. It even lay closer to my former bureau in Baghdad than to my current one in Beijing, 2,500 miles away.	我乘飞机到喀什看最后一眼，是因为它堪称我的中国经历的试金石。对千百年来旅行者而言，位于中亚心脏地带的这座城镇，一直是一个十字路口、一扇大门，对我来说也是如此。它用自己这片伊斯兰教盛行的地区连接起中国内地和欧亚大陆。它到我以前任职的巴格达分社的距离，甚至比到2500英里（约合4023公里）之外的北京分社还近。
My first encounter with Kashgar was in the summer of 1999, when, after graduate school, I backpacked overland from Hong Kong to New Delhi. Kashgar was my gateway out of China then — a final stop before taking the glacier-flanked Karakoram Highway through the Pamir Mountains into Pakistan. I boarded a bus with other travelers from the Chini Bagh	第一次与喀什相遇是在1999年夏天，读完研究生的我展开背包旅行，经陆路从香港前往新德里。当时，喀什是我去往中国之外的大门——也是我在取道喀喇昆仑公路，穿越冰峰林立的萨米尔山脉进入巴基斯坦之前的最后一站。我和其他来自其尼瓦克宾馆的旅行者上了一辆大巴。那家宾馆所在之处，是英国领事馆旧址。

Hotel, on the site of the former British Consulate.
I did not return to Kashgar until August 2008, months after arriving in China for The New York Times. I and other members of the Beijing press corps flew to Kashgar to report on a bizarre assault that had resulted in the deaths of at least 16 paramilitary officers.	直到 2008 年 8 月，也就是我为《纽约时报》来到中国几个月后，我才再次来到喀什。我和北京记者团的其他成员一起飞到这里，报道一场导致至少 16 名武警死亡的诡异袭击。
I went back that autumn during a trip across southern Xinjiang to report on restrictions on Islam. My companion, Xiyun Yang, and I ended up in the apartment of a retired Uighur policeman and chatted with his son about Western television shows.	那年秋天，我在游走于新疆南部、报道伊斯兰教所受的限制期间重返喀什。我和同伴杨曦云 (Xiyun Yang, 音) 最终到了一名退休维吾尔族警员的寓所，和他的儿子聊起了西方的电视节目。
In 2010, Mr. Sabrié and I arrived in Kashgar after a long overland trip from the Wakhan Corridor of Afghanistan. Following days of driving through the mountains of Tajikistan and Kyrgyzstan, we experienced the same wonder that travelers must have felt centuries ago — at the bustling markets, the food stalls redolent with kebabs and cumin and the cool alleyways winding among mud-walled homes. The town was boisterous: Eid al-Fitr, the three-day feast celebrating the end of Ramadan, was starting.	2010 年，我和萨布里进行了一场始于阿富汗瓦罕走廊(Wakhan Corridor)的漫长陆路旅行，抵达喀什。在连日驾车穿越塔吉克斯坦和吉尔吉斯斯坦的群山之后，我们体验到了千百年前的旅行者想必也曾经历过的那种奇景——繁华的集市上，大排档散发出孜然羊肉串的香气，清凉的小巷在一处处泥墙房屋之间蜿蜒。城中很是热闹：以历时三天的宴会庆祝斋月结束的开斋节(Eid al-Fitr)刚刚开始。
That year, officials were razing most of the old town. Half-destroyed homes stood in dirt lots. When I arrived months ago on my final trip, those parts of the old town had been rebuilt. There were wide avenues and new concrete buildings. It was easier now for the police to monitor the streets and deploy large units.	那一年，官员们正在夷平大部分旧城。拆了一半的房屋伫立在废墟中。我几个月前最后一次到访的时候，旧城的那些地方已经被重建。有了宽敞的林荫道和崭新的水泥建筑。现在警方可以更容易地监控街道、部署大量人员。
The police surveillance made a greater impression on me than anything else. On earlier trips, I had not noticed being followed by the police, even after hotels had handed copies of our visas to the local police	给我印象最深刻的是警察的监视。在之前的几次旅行中，我没注意到有警察跟踪，甚至在酒店把我们的签证复印件交给当地派出所之后也没有。这一次，一走出其尼瓦克宾馆，我就看见优素福一伙人在尾随我们。

station. This time, I saw Mr. Yusuf and his companion tailing us as soon as we walked out of the Chini Bagh Hotel.
That was nothing compared with the police foot patrols, though. We ran into the first one in a market north of the Id Kah Mosque. A couple of ethnic Han officers stopped us to ask for documents. They zeroed in on Mr. Sabrié, the obvious foreigner in our group. He pulled out his French passport, and they let us go.	不过，与警察的徒步巡逻队相比，那都不算什么。我们在艾提尕尔清真寺(Id Kah Mosque)北边的一个市场碰到了第一个巡逻队。几名汉族警察拦住我们，要求出示证件。他们重点关注萨布里，因为他是我们这群人中明显的外国人。他拿出了自己的法国护照，他们就放我们走了。
Within an hour, we were confronted at the city ramparts by another patrol. That was the one that had mistakenly hassled Mr. Yusuf. They put us into their van when I said I did not have my travel document. After a wait at the station, Mr. Yusuf showed up. "What are you doing in Kashgar?" he asked in fluent English. He looked at the photos on Mr. Sabrié's camera and told him not to shoot anything related to the police or the military.	不到一小时后，我们在城墙附近被另一个巡逻队拦住了。他们就是错误地骚扰优素福的那队人。我说我没带旅行证件，他们就把我们抓上了警车。在派出所等了一会儿之后，优素福出现了。“你们在喀什干什么？”他用流利的英语问道。他查看了萨布里相机里的照片，叫他不要拍摄任何与警方或军方有关的照片。
Then they drove us back to the hotel so I could show them my travel paper. We passed a grassy clearing by the ramparts. "I took wedding photos there," Mr. Yusuf said.	然后他们开车把我们送回酒店，以便我向他们出示旅行证件。途径城墙附近一块长满青草的空地时，优素福说，“我在这儿拍过结婚照。”
After I got the document from my room, they said we were free to go. But Mr. Yusuf said he would keep an eye on us. "Kashgar can be dangerous for foreigners," he said. "We want to make sure you are safe."	我从房间拿出证件后，他们说，我们可以走了。不过优素福说，他会继续盯着我们。“对外国人来说，喀什可能很危险，”他说。“我们想保证你们的安全。”
Having covered the Iraq war for three and a half years, I had some awareness of risk, and I never got the sense of being in danger anywhere in Xinjiang.	我曾有三年半的时间报道伊拉克战争，对风险有一定的认识，但我在新疆的任何地方都没有处于危险之中的感觉。
We wandered more around the old city. A plainclothes police detail of five followed us. When we glanced back, they lowered their heads and	我们在老城又转了一会儿。五名便衣警察跟着我们。我们回头看时，他们低下头，假装看手机。

pretended to check their phones.
The next day, a Uighur guide named Abdul Wahid took us around Kashgar. We went first to the outdoor animal market, outside town. When I first visited Kashgar, in 1999, the market had been in the city center. There, Uighur, Kazakh, Kyrgyz and Tajik herders haggled over horses, donkeys, sheep and camels. Our guide said the market had moved twice since.	第二天，一个名叫阿卜杜勒·瓦希德(Abdul Wahid)的维吾尔族导游带我们游览喀什。我们先是去了城外的一个露天动物交易市场。1999年我初次访问喀什时，这家市场还在市中心。维吾尔族、哈萨克族、吉尔吉斯族和塔吉克族牧人曾在那里买卖马、驴、羊和骆驼。导游说，从那以后，这个市场搬过两次家。
Mr. Yusuf and other officers followed us around. We sat down to eat a bowl of noodles.	优素福和另外几名警察一直跟着我们。我们坐下来吃面。
"Business is very good here, better than at the old place," said Kerimaji, the noodle seller, who had been working in the market for 34 of his 62 years.	"这儿的生意很好，比以前的地方好，"卖面条的老板科里马吉(Kerimaji)说。他今年62岁，有34年的时间都在这个市场谋生。
That afternoon, we walked inside the 15th-century Id Kah Mosque, where young men stabbed to death the imam in 2014. We passed through metal detectors. In the courtyard, I noticed surveillance cameras above paths. The same cameras were present throughout the old city.	那天下午，我们走进15世纪建成的艾提尕尔清真寺。2014年，几名年轻男子在那里捅死了伊玛目。我们通过了金属探测器安检。在院子里，我注意到走道上方有监视摄像头。老城里到处都有这样的摄像头。
In the plaza in front of the mosque, I saw a mobile police station and officers milling around. One officer walked up to Abdul Wahid and asked him for his papers. Abdul Wahid said he was taking us foreigners around. The policeman then turned and walked over to a long line of Uighur men whom he had rounded up. He led them away to register them.	在清真寺前面的集市上，我看见一个移动警亭，周围有几名警察在巡逻。一名警察走向阿卜杜勒·瓦希德，要求他出示证件。阿卜杜勒·瓦希德说他是带我们这几个外国人游览的。那名警察转身走开，走向他逮捕的一长队维吾尔族男子，带着他们去登记。
What I saw was happening across Xinjiang. In late 2016, regional officials established thousands of mobile police stations and deployed	我看到的情况正在新疆各地发生。据学者雷国俊(James Leibold)和郑国恩(Adrian Zenz)去年12月在《外交》(Foreign Affairs)上发表的一篇文章称，

tens of thousands of policemen to staff them, according to an article last December in Foreign Affairs by two scholars, James Leibold and Adrian Zenz. The Xinjiang party chief, Chen Quanguo, was putting in place the same grid policing system he had used in Tibet.	2016 年底，当地官员设立了成千上万个移动警亭，配备了数万名警察。当时，新疆党委书记陈全国正在部署严密的警察系统，和他曾在西藏部署的一样。
Back at the hotel, I said goodbye to our guide. An American diplomat I had met in Beijing was checking in.	回到酒店后，我们与导游告别。我曾在北京遇见的一名美国外交官正在登记入住。
In the evening, we took a final stroll. We stopped at a carpet shop owned by the father of Abdul Wahab, a young Uighur man who visited Beijing to sell carpets and whom I knew. He had just been in eastern China and was on his way back to Kashgar to get married, but his flight had been grounded in Urumqi because of fog. We would not see him on this trip.	当天晚上，我们最后一次出去散步。我们来到阿卜杜勒·瓦哈卜(Abdul Wahab)的父亲经营的一个地毯店。瓦哈卜是我认识的一名维吾尔族年轻男子，他曾去北京卖过地毯。前不久，他去了中国东部，当时正在返回喀什结婚的路上，但他的航班因为大雾困在了乌鲁木齐。我们在这次旅行中没能见到他。
As Abdul Wahab's father, Ahmad, showed us carpets, Mr. Yusuf walked into the room. A couple of police tails lingered outside. Ahmad spread out a few carpets. Some had the classic pomegranate design native to Xinjiang. I began negotiating for one.	阿卜杜勒·瓦哈卜的父亲艾哈迈德(Ahmad)给我们看地毯，这时优素福走进店里。另外几名警察在外面徘徊。艾哈迈德展开几块地毯。其中有些织有新疆本土经典的石榴图案。我开始为其中一张毯子讲价。
"I think that's a good one," Mr. Yusuf said, pointing to the piece that had caught my eye. But he shook his head at the price.	"我觉得那个很好，"优素福指着我相中的那张地毯说。但他看到价格后摇了摇头。
Mr. Yusuf and his colleagues trailed us when we left. We went into a restaurant to have a kebab dinner. They did not follow us inside, and we saw no sign of them for the rest of the night.	我们离开时，优素福和他的同事们跟着我们。我们走进一家餐厅，去吃烤串。他们没有跟我们进去，在那个夜晚的其余时间，我们没再见到他们。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170720/dodging-chinese-police-in-kashgar-a-silk-road-oasis-town	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170720/dodging-chinese-police-in-kashgar-a-silk-road-oasis-town
In China, Despair for Cause of Democracy After Nobel Laureate's Death	刘晓波之死熄灭了中国民主改革的希望
BEIJING — For years, the fiery band of activists pushing for democracy	北京——多年来，在中国推动民主的一群充满激情的活动人士希望从被监禁

in China looked to Liu Xiaobo, the jailed Nobel Peace laureate, as a source of inspiration. They created social media groups devoted to his iconoclastic poetry. They held up his photos at rallies, demanding justice and transparency.	的诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波获得鼓舞。他们建立了以他批评传统信仰的诗词为核心的社交媒体群。他们在集会时举着他的照片，要求公正和公开透明。
But Mr. Liu's death last week of liver cancer, after a final, futile attempt by friends to bring about his release, has dealt a withering blow to the pro-democracy movement. Some say it is now at its weakest point since the Tiananmen Square crackdown in 1989.	但是，在朋友们为争取让其获释进行了最后的徒劳尝试之后，刘晓波在上周因肝癌去世，这给民主运动造成了难堪的打击。有人说，自从1989年天安门广场发生镇压以来，民主运动现在处于最弱的状态。
"It's a turning point," said Yan Wenxin, a human rights lawyer in Beijing. "The feeling of powerlessness among activists has peaked."	"这是一个转折点，"北京人权律师严文新说。"活动人士的无力感已经达到了顶点。"
Under President Xi Jinping, the government has imprisoned dozens of lawyers, journalists and advocates and tightened controls over the internet. Now, the ruling Communist Party's feverish attempts to erase Mr. Liu's legacy have raised fears that Mr. Xi will intensify his campaign against activists pushing for ideas like freedom of speech and religion.	在国家主席习近平的领导下，政府已经监禁了数十名律师、记者和权利倡导者，并加强了对互联网的控制。现在，执政的共产党拼命抹去刘晓波精神遗产的企图，让人担心习近平会加强打压推动言论和宗教自由的活动人士的运动。
The authorities, wary of turning Mr. Liu into a martyr, have in recent days censored online tributes and arrested activists who have sought to publicly remember him.	担心刘晓波会变成一位殉难者的警方，在最近几天里加强了对网络的审查，并逮捕了试图公开纪念刘晓波的活动人士。
The dearth of foreign leaders willing to publicly criticize Mr. Xi has added to a sense of despair and isolation among activists. Many say they feel abandoned by the United States in particular, and they worry that President Trump will prioritize trade with China at the expense of human rights.	愿意公开批评习近平的外国领导人少之又少，这增添了活动人士的绝望和孤立感。许多人表示，他们尤其感到被美国抛弃，他们担心特朗普总统会以牺牲人权为代价，优先考虑与中国的贸易。
"People are full of sorrow, anger and desperation," said Zhao Hui, 48, a dissident writer who goes by the pen name Mo Zhixu. "We hope the	"人们充满了悲伤、愤怒和绝望，"48岁的赵晖说，他是一位异见作家，笔名莫之许。"我们希望现存的民主活动人士能把运动维持下去。但是，让大局

democratic activists who still remain can keep the flame alive. But bringing about change to the bigger picture might be too much to ask.”	发生变化也许是奢求。”
The passing of Mr. Liu, who preached peace and patience, has provoked debate about the best path toward democracy. Many activists argue that more forceful tactics are necessary to counter what they see as unrelenting government hostility. Some have pushed for mass protests, while a small number believe that violence is the only option, even if they do not endorse it outright.	宣扬和平与耐心的刘晓波的逝世，引发了关于通向民主的最佳途径的辩论。许多活动人士认为，有必要采取更有力的手段来对付他们眼中的政府的持续敌对态度。有些人支持集体抗议活动，也有少数人认为，暴力是唯一的选择，虽然他们并不公开支持暴力。
“Some have turned to believe in violent revolution,” said Hu Jia, a prominent dissident who served more than three years in prison for his activism and still faces routine surveillance. “It makes people feel the door to a peaceful transition has closed.”	“有些人转而相信暴力革命，”胡佳说，他的民主活动曾使其入狱逾三年，目前他仍经常处于警方的监视之下。“让人们感到和平过渡的大门已经关闭了。”
Mr. Liu’s allies remain incensed by the Chinese government’s handling of his case. Officials disclosed that Mr. Liu, 61, had advanced liver cancer only when it was too late to treat it, prompting accusations that his medical care was inadequate. The authorities have also prevented his wife, Liu Xia, an artist and activist, from speaking or traveling freely.	刘晓波的盟友仍对中国政府处理其案子的方法感到愤怒。政府官员只是在61岁的刘晓波患晚期肝癌、已经无法医治的时候，才披露了他的病情，引发了没有为他提供适当医疗照料的指责。当局还不让他的妻子刘霞自由地说话和出行，刘霞是一位艺术家和民主活动人士。
The scrutiny facing government critics is likely to grow even more suffocating in the months ahead.	批评政府的人所面临的审查在未来几个月可能会更令人窒息。
The Communist Party will hold a leadership reshuffle this fall, at which Mr. Xi is expected to win another five-year term and appoint allies to key positions. In the run-up to the meeting, the party is tightening its grip on online communications and escalating pressure on critics.	今年秋天，共产党将对领导层进行重新安排，预计习近平届时会连任下一个五年任期的总书记，并任命自己的盟友担任重要职务。在十九大召开之前，中共正在加强对在线通讯的审查，加大对批评者的压力。
Human rights advocates say that the party appears increasingly hostile toward dissent and intent on quashing even small-scale movements.	人权倡导者说，中共对反对意见的敌意越来越大，就连小规模的运动也决意要镇压。过去两年来，数十名人权律师被捕入狱，政府指控他们与外国势力

Over the past two years, dozens of human rights lawyers have been jailed and accused of conspiring with foreign forces to carry out subversive plots. Mr. Xi's government, wary of grass-roots activism, has also increased oversight of domestic and foreign nonprofit organizations.	勾结进行颠覆活动。习近平政府对基层活动保持高度警惕，加强了对国内外非营利组织的监督。
Yaxue Cao, an activist who grew up in China but is now based in the United States, said Mr. Liu's death was "the climax of a long and continuous stretch of ruthless elimination." She recited a long list of critics who had been sidelined since Mr. Xi rose to power in 2012, which she said had led to a culture of fear and intimidation.	活动人士曹雅学在中国长大，目前旅居美国，她说，刘晓波之死是“残酷无情地消除异见、长期和持续的过程达到顶峰的表现”。她列举了一长串自从2012年习近平上台以来被噤声的批评者名单，她说，这种做法已制造了一种恐惧和恐吓的文化。
"The party has been working systematically to block the path forward," she said. "A few hundred or a few thousand activists are nothing for the party."	"中共一直在系统性地努力阻止前进的道路，"她说。"对党来说，几百甚至几千名活动人士不算什么。"
Advocates say they were startled that foreign leaders did not speak out more forcefully about the treatment of Mr. Liu. While American diplomats called on China to allow Mr. Liu to travel abroad for cancer treatment, Mr. Trump did not speak publicly about the case.	倡导者说，他们对外国领导人没有在刘晓波的待遇问题上发出更强有力的声音感到惊讶。虽然美国外交官曾呼吁中国允许刘晓波出国治疗癌症，但特朗普并没有公开提及他的情况。
"Western countries have adopted a policy of appeasement," Mr. Hu said. "The Communist Party has the resources to whip whomever they want."	"西方国家采取了绥靖政策，"胡佳说。"共产党有想打谁就打谁的本钱。"
The Chinese government has defended its treatment of Mr. Liu and accused foreign critics of meddling in its affairs.	中国政府为自己对待刘晓波的做法进行了辩护，并指责外国批评者干涉中国内政。
While China has seemed less responsive to foreign pressure on human rights issues in recent years, several activists said they thought it was still important for world leaders to speak out.	虽然近年来，中国似乎对外国在人权问题上的施压反应不大，但几位活动人士表示，他们认为，世界领导人在这个问题上发声仍然很重要。

"We hope the West can maintain its moral position," Mr. Zhao said. "Even though the pressure is not as effective as it should be, it needs to be expressed."	"我们希望西方国家能保持自己的道德立场，"赵晖说。"尽管压力不像以前那么有效，但还是应该有所表达。"
Despite the government's efforts to limit dissent, some of Mr. Liu's supporters say they have emerged more energized in the days since his death. They see hope in a middle class that is increasingly outspoken; grass-roots activists who are taking on issues as varied as pollution and forced demolitions of homes; and a generation of young advocates who have taken on causes like feminism and rights for gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender citizens.	尽管政府努力压制异议，但刘晓波的一些支持者表示，在他去世以后的日子里，他们已经变得更加活跃。他们寄希望于越来越敢说话的中产阶级，也寄希望于基层活动人士，他们正在抵制污染和强制拆迁房屋等问题，再就是年轻一代的倡导者，他们要争取女性权益，以及为男同性恋、女同性恋、双性恋和跨性别公民争取权利。
"How long can such an approach last before discontent boils over?" said Maya Wang, a researcher at Human Rights Watch in Hong Kong. "One only needs to look at the protests, particularly in the countryside, to see the enormous grievances there are out there."	"这种做法在不满爆发之前能延续多久？"香港人权观察组织研究员王娅莲问道。"只需要看看抗议活动、特别是农村的抗议活动，就能知道那些地方存在着巨大的不满。"
In the aftermath of Mr. Liu's passing, his admirers have found ways around the government's controls on speech to honor him. Several supporters uploaded photos of the ocean this week as a tribute to Mr. Liu, whose ashes were spread at sea.	刘晓波逝世之后，崇拜他的人们已经找到了绕过政府对言论控制的方式来对他表达敬意。几名支持者本周上传了海洋的照片，向刘晓波致敬，他的骨灰已撒入大海。
Wu Qiang, a dissident intellectual, drove about 400 miles last week from Beijing to the northeastern city of Shenyang, where Mr. Liu was being treated, to be near him in his final days. Mr. Wu, 46, said Mr. Liu's death had left many of his admirers with a desire to "turn sorrow into strength."	异见知识分子吴强（音）上周驱车 600 多公里，从北京来到东北城市沈阳，当时刘晓波正在那里接受治疗，吴强想在刘晓波最后的日子里在其身边。46 岁的吴强说，刘晓波的逝世让许多崇拜他的人想要"化悲痛为力量"。
"On one side is darkness; on the other side is hope," he said. "We need to find a new way forward."	"一边是黑暗，另一边是曙光，"他说。"我们需要找到新的前进道路。"

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170721/liu-xiaobo-nobel-peace-prize-china-democracy	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170721/liu-xiaobo-nobel-peace-prize-china-democracy
After a Famed Prisoner Dies in China, Taiwan Fears for Another	刘晓波去世令台湾担忧李明哲命运
TAIPEI, Taiwan — For many in Taiwan, the death in custody last week of the Chinese Nobel Peace laureate Liu Xiaobo had double relevance.	台湾台北——对很多台湾人来说，上周中国的诺贝尔和平奖获得者刘晓波在监禁中去世一事具有双重意义。
It was a reminder of how much Taiwan — but not China — has changed politically since the late 1980s, when both were one-party, authoritarian states.	它提醒人们，自两者同为一党制威权国家的 80 年代末以来，台湾——但不是中国——在政治上发生了多大的改变。
On Saturday, Taiwan, now a full-fledged democracy, celebrated the 30th anniversary of the end of four decades of martial law. On Tuesday, at the opening of the first Asian bureau of Reporters Without Borders, an organization that advocates press freedom, Wu'er Kaixi, a leader of the 1989 pro-democracy demonstrations in Beijing, dedicated a moment of silence to Mr. Liu, while praising Taiwan's progress.	上周六，现在完全是合格民主政体的台湾庆祝持续了 40 年的戒严结束 30 周年。周二，在倡导新闻自由的组织无国界记者(Reporters Without Borders)首个亚洲办事处的成立仪式上，1989 年北京亲民主抗议活动领袖之一的吾尔开希为刘晓波默哀，并称赞台湾的进步。
But the death by cancer of Mr. Liu, who was serving an 11-year prison sentence for his role in Charter 08, a manifesto for peaceful political change, also deepened concerns over the fate of Lee Ming-cheh, a human rights advocate from Taiwan who went missing after his arrival in the southern Chinese province of Guangdong in March.	刘晓波因为在呼吁和平政治改革的宣言《零八宪章》中所起的作用，而被判处 11 年有期徒刑；正在服刑的他因癌症去世一事，也加剧了对台湾人权倡导人士李明哲(Lee Ming-cheh)命运的担忧。3 月，李明哲在抵达中国南方省份广东后失踪。
More than a week passed before Chinese officials announced that Mr. Lee had been detained. In April, Mr. Lee's wife, Lee Ching-yu, was blocked from entering China, where she said she hoped to take him his blood-pressure medication. In late May, Mr. Lee was officially arrested on a charge of "subverting state power."	失踪一周多后，中国官方才宣布李明哲已被拘押。4 月，表示希望把血压药给丈夫送去的李明哲妻子李净瑜(Lee Ching-yu)被禁止进入中国。5 月末，李明哲以“颠覆国家政权”的罪名遭正式逮捕。
It has not been lost on Mr. Lee's family and friends, or the news media	李明哲的家人和朋友，以及台湾的新闻媒体都注意到，李明哲面临的“煽动

in Taiwan, that the charge he faces is similar to the one brought against Mr. Liu, of "inciting subversion of state power."	颠覆国家政权"指控, 与刘晓波的类似。
Hours after Mr. Liu's death, Taiwan's state-owned Central News Agency reported that the governing Democratic Progressive Party had issued a statement calling on China to release Mr. Liu's widow, Liu Xia, who was placed under house arrest in 2010, as well as Mr. Lee.	刘晓波去世几小时后, 台湾官方的中央通讯社报道, 执政的民进党发表声明, 呼吁中国释放于 2010 年遭到软禁的刘晓波遗孀刘霞和李明哲。
Comparing the plights of Mr. Liu and Mr. Lee, a commentary this month in a Taiwan newspaper, Liberty Times, asked: "Will Lee Ming-cheh be the next Liu Xiaobo?"	本月, 台湾报纸《自由时报》上的一篇评论文章比较了刘晓波和李明哲的遭遇, 问道: "李明哲会不会是下一个刘晓波?"
"What's similar is that Lee Ming-cheh and Liu Xiaobo were both arrested for the crime of 'subversion of state power,'" it said. "What's different is that Liu Xiaobo is Chinese, whereas Lee Ming-cheh is Taiwanese. After Lee Ming-cheh entered prison, will he 'get sick' or be forcefully 'sickened'? This deserves attention."	"相同的是, 李明哲和刘晓波都被中国以'颠覆国家政权罪'逮捕; 不同的是, 刘晓波是中国人, 而李明哲是台湾人, 李明哲入狱后, 会不会'生病'或强迫'被生病', 值得关注。"
Nongovernmental organization workers from Taiwan who travel to China should remain on a high state of alert, the commentary added. "You absolutely do not want to become the next Lee Ming-cheh," it said.	该评论接着说, 台湾的非政府组织工作人员去中国时要有高度风险意识。"千万别成为下一个李明哲," 文章写道。
In a letter to The Washington Post published on Sunday, Stanley Kao, Taiwan's envoy to the United States, also connected the cases.	在写给《华盛顿邮报》(The Washington Post)并于周日发表的一封信中, 台湾驻美国代表高硕泰(Stanley Kao)大使也把两件事联系在了一起。
"Mr. Liu's lifelong beliefs are the core values we live by in Taiwan, namely an abiding respect for human rights and due process of law," Mr. Kao wrote, adding that China should immediately release Mr. Lee.	"刘晓波终生的信念正是我们在台湾所秉持的核心价值观, 即尊重人权和正当法律程序," 高硕泰写道, 并接着表示中国应立即释放李明哲。
Beijing severed official communication channels with Taiwan in the fall after it became apparent that President Tsai Ing-wen, who took office in	在去年 5 月上台的台湾总统蔡英文(Tsai Ing-wen)明显不会属于中国的压力, 认可"九二共识"后, 北京于去年秋天中断了与台湾的官方沟通渠道。所

May last year, would not bow to Chinese pressure to endorse the “1992 consensus,” which holds that China and Taiwan agree there is “one China” — with each side reserving its own interpretation of what that means. Beijing has insisted that self-ruled Taiwan is part of its territory, and it has not renounced the use of force to achieve unification.	谓“九二共识”，即中国和台湾同意只有“一个中国”——双方保留自己对这句话的解读。北京坚称实行自治的台湾是其领土的一部分，而且从未宣布放弃使用武力实现统一。
That has left the Tsai administration with limited tools to press Beijing for information about Mr. Lee. Ms. Tsai — one of the first government leaders to issue a statement mourning Mr. Liu’s death — has taken to her Twitter account to call for Mr. Lee’s release.	这导致蔡英文政府向北京施压、要求了解李明哲境况的手段非常有限。作为最早发布声明悼念刘晓波政府领导人之一，蔡英文在自己的 Twitter 账号上呼吁释放李明哲。
If history is any guide, progress on Mr. Lee’s case is unlikely in the coming weeks. The Chinese Communist Party is preparing for its 19th Party Congress this fall, a meeting that will determine the leadership lineup under President Xi Jinping for the next five years and influence the succession beyond that. In the jockeying for power, concessions to Taiwan could be interpreted as a sign of weakness.	从以往经验看，李明哲一案在未来几周不太可能出现进展。中国共产党正在筹备今秋召开的第 19 次全国代表大会。这次会议将决定未来五年习近平领导下的领导人阵容，并对之后的权力交接产生影响。在争夺权力的过程中，对台湾让步可能会被解读成懦弱的标志。
Eeling Chiu, secretary general of the Taiwan Association for Human Rights, has supported Ms. Lee’s efforts to rally international pressure on China to free her husband. Ms. Chiu said that there had been no information about Mr. Lee’s situation aside from occasional statements from Beijing, such as the announcement last month that a lawyer had been appointed to represent him.	台湾人权促进会(Taiwan Association for Human Rights)秘书长邱伊翎支持李净瑜为争取国际社会向中国施压，要求释放她丈夫而采取的行动。邱伊翎说，除北京偶尔发布的声明，如上月宣布已为李明哲指派一名代理律师的通告外，没有关于李明哲近况的消息。
“We haven’t heard anything new since they announced they’d appointed him a lawyer,” she said in an interview, dismissing the gesture as “fake.” “We don’t even know who the lawyer is. If you’re trying to provide for the rights of someone involved in legal	“自从他们宣布为他指派了一名律师后，我们没听到任何新的消息，”她在接受采访时说道，并认为这一姿态“虚伪”、不值一提。“我们甚至不知道这个律师是谁。如果想为卷入法律程序的人提供权利，和家人联系是你应该做的最基本的事情之一。” proceedings, getting in touch with their family is one of the most basic things you should do.”

The Tsai administration says it will continue to work on Mr. Lee’s behalf. “The government is doing everything it can to secure Mr. Lee’s release as soon as possible,” Alex Huang, the spokesman for the presidential office, said on Tuesday.	蔡英文政府称，将继续为了李明哲的利益而努力。“政府正在尽一切努力，争取李明哲尽快获释，”总统府发言人黄重谚(Alex Huang)周二说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170721/taiwan-china-lee-ming-cheh-liu-xiaobo	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170721/taiwan-china-lee-ming-cheh-liu-xiaobo
Pyramid Investigation Has Investors Protesting Near Heart of Beijing	北京发生群体抗议，善心汇会员反对政府传销调查
BEIJING — Many hundreds of Chinese investors who paid into what the police have called a pyramid investment scheme took to the streets of Beijing on Monday, not to denounce the business in which some had placed their life savings, but to oppose the government investigation that threatened their earnings.	北京——成百上千名中国投资人周一涌上北京街头举行抗议。他们参与投资的项目被警方定性为传销，但周一的抗议不是针对这家有人投入了毕生积蓄的公司，而是针对展开调查、对其收入构成威胁的政府。
While demonstrations over losses in investment programs are not uncommon in China, the size and timing of Monday’s protest was. Just miles from Tiananmen Square and months before an important Communist Party congress, the protest seemed aimed at embarrassing the government.	投资失败引发的群体抗议在中国并不鲜见，但周一发生的此类规模的抗议，以及抗议发生的时间都颇为不同寻常。抗议发生地距离天安门广场数英里之遥，而且再过几个月，中共就将召开重要的党代会。这场抗议似乎有意让政府难堪。
Many of the protesters waved Chinese flags, and some held banners appealing to the president, Xi Jinping, to overturn the crackdown on their investment scheme, called Shanxinhui, and the recent arrest of its founder, Zhang Tianming.	很多抗议者挥舞着中国国旗，一些人举着横幅呼吁国家主席习近平推翻官方取缔善心汇投资项目的决定，释放近期被逮捕的公司创办人张天明。
“Today’s protest was self-organized,” said Li Yinuo, a 31-year-old investor who joined the demonstration. She said she had traveled to	“今天的抗议是自发的，”31岁的投资者李依诺说，她也参与了此次的示威抗议。她说自己是从河北的家中赶来的，听说投资者正聚集起来。“他们说我

Beijing from her home in nearby Hebei Province and had heard that investors were gathering. "They call us a pyramid scheme, which is absolutely not true. We came here today first to save ourselves and the platform. Second, we want Mr. Zhang to be released. Mr. Zhang is such a fine man."	们是传销。根本不是这样的。今天我们来首先是为了自己，也是为了这个平台。然后我们想让张先生放出来。他是一个很善良的人。”
But the government and the state news media have described the investment scheme as a dangerous swindle that preys on the gullibility and generosity of people who like the idea of making money while helping others.	但政府和官方媒体都将该投资描述为危险的骗局，利用人们容易轻信他人和慷慨的心态，这些人喜欢在帮助他人的同时也赚取金钱这个想法。
Hours after the demonstration erupted in the morning in Dahongmen, a neighborhood about four miles south of Tiananmen Square, the police arrived with buses to remove protesters from the site near the heart of the capital.	早上，大红门的抗议爆发几小时后，警方调来大巴，用来把靠近首都心脏的这些抗议者拉走。大红门位于天安门广场以南约四英里（约 6.4 公里）。
On Friday, the police arrested several people working for units of Shanxinhui, according to Xinhua, the state-run news agency.	根据新华社的报道，警方于周五逮捕了善心汇的几名成员。
Mr. Zhang, the company's founder and legal representative, and several employees were arrested on charges of defrauding "a huge amount of property" from victims "under the guise of 'helping the poor and achieving common wealth,'" Xinhua reported. Shanxinhui means "kindhearted exchange," and the group has promoted itself more as a charity that happens to make money than an investment plan.	新华社说，公司创办人、法人代表张天明和其他几人被捕的罪名是“以‘扶贫济困、均富共生’等为幌子”，“骗取巨额财物”。善心汇意为“带有善意的交换”，这个组织更多地将自己宣传为恰好能赚钱的慈善组织，而非投资计划。
Ms. Li, the investor, was defensive about the intentions of Shanxinhui. But she also gave a fervent description of how it worked by drawing in more investors attracted to profiting through good works.	对于善心汇的目的，投资人李依诺表现得很戒备。但她也热心地描述了其运作机制，即吸纳更多被做好事获利所吸引的投资人。
"Many people don't understand us and call us a pyramid scheme," Ms. Li	“很多人看不懂我们，说我们是传销，”李依诺说。“我们传的是善行文化。他

said. "What we sell to people is benevolence. When they first join the group, their purpose might be to make money. But as you get to know more about the program, your main focus will shift to help other people. I've helped 17 members of the group with the money I earned from this program."	们刚进来的时候可能是为了挣钱。但是你对这个项目了解得更多以后，关注点就会变成去帮助别人了。我在这儿挣到的钱已经帮了17个会员了。”
The protesters in Beijing carried banners that said Shanxinhui had been "persecuted" and they called on President Xi, and his government to investigate their complaints. Chinese social media users have posted about protests in other Chinese cities in recent weeks related to the company.	北京的抗议者打出横幅，声称善心汇遭到“迫害”，呼吁习近平和他的政府过问他们的诉求。中国社交媒体上有用户发布了最近几周其他城市与善心汇相关的抗议的帖子。
"Xi Jinping, solve the reasonable demands of the public swiftly and lawfully," said one banner shown on social media.	“习近平：依法及时解决民众的合理诉求，”出现在社交媒体上的一幅标语称。
But this noisy and sizable demonstration is likely to be especially galling for the government, which prizes stability in the capital.	但对重视首都稳定的政府来说，这场喧嚣的大规模游行可能尤为恼人。
Beijing will host a Communist Party Congress this autumn that will inaugurate a second five-year term for Mr. Xi, who is party general secretary as well as president. The buildup to that meeting has intensified official worries about unrest in the capital.	北京将于今秋举办一场党代会，届时，身为中共中央总书记兼国家主席的习近平将开始自己的第二个任期。随着会期日益临近，官方愈发担心首都发生动荡。
The Chinese police and the news media have in recent months issued warnings and reports accusing Shanxinhui of swindling small-time investors through extravagant promises paid for by luring in yet more gullible investors. Previously, though, the scheme energetically courted official favor by promising money to charitable causes and government-endorsed efforts to help the poor.	近几个月来，中国警方和媒体发布了一些警告和报道，指责善心汇通过许以超高回报欺诈小投资者，靠着引诱更多容易上当的新投资者上钩来支付老投资者的利息。不过此前，该计划曾通过承诺投资给慈善事业以及由政府批准的扶贫项目，积极争取官方的支持。
Some investors appeared unwilling to accept that they may have been	一些投资者看来不愿相信他们或许被骗了。

duped.
One investor, Zhao Guosheng, 40, said he had invested 3,000 renminbi, about $450, with Shanxinhui this year. He accused officials in the city of Yongzhou, in Hunan Province, of threatening to label Shanxinhui a pyramid scheme if the company did not pay off the politicians.	该公司的一名投资人、40岁的赵国胜（音）说，他今年在善心汇投了3000元。他指控湖南省永州政府官员以传销罪名相威胁，敲诈善心汇。
Communist Party officials in Yongzhou denied the blackmail accusation in a social media post, writing that the accusations “damaged civil servants’ images and infringed their legal rights.”	永州官方对敲诈指控予以否认，称这是“对国家公职人员形象的恶意损害和合法权益的严重侵犯”。
Mr. Zhao complained that the arrests of Shanxinhui managers meant the company could no longer raise money. “The people who gathered at Dahongmen today wanted to pressure the government to release the company leaders and let the company run as normal,” said Mr. Zhao, who did not attend the Beijing protest.	赵国胜抱怨说善心汇的经理遭到逮捕意味着该公司无法再筹集资金，“今天在大红门抗议的人想要向政府施加压力，让他们释放公司领导，让公司正常运转，”赵国胜说。他并未参加北京的抗议活动。
Dahongmen, the area of Beijing where the protesters gathered, is a scrappy area of the capital filled with markets and wholesalers. For many years it was also heavily populated with migrant workers and traders from other parts of China. On Monday, locals gathered outside the police cordon, but few knew what had ignited the protests.	抗议者的聚集地大红门是首都的一片杂乱无章的地方，汇聚着很多市场和批发商。多年来，这里还曾是农民工和来自中国其他地区的商贩聚居之处。周一，一些当地人聚在警戒线外，但甚少有人知道这些抗议者所为何事。
In April, the China Women’s Development Foundation, a state-backed nonprofit social welfare organization, said it was ending a four-month agreement with Shanxinhui because of “suspicions about the company’s business model.”	今年4月，有政府背景的非营利社会福利组织中国妇女发展基金会称其终止了与善心汇为期4个月的合作，因为公众“对该公司的经营模式存疑”。
Yet even after the protest in Beijing was stifled by the police, some investors insisted that they were right to put their faith in Mr. Zhang.	不过，即便是在北京的抗议活动被警方扼杀之后，一些投资者依然坚持认为，他们并没有错信张天明。
“Mr. Zhang Tianming was wrongly treated. He is a nice guy with no	“张天明先生是被冤枉的。他人很好，没有后台的，”西北省份陕西的29岁

political background," said Zhang Honggang, a 29-year-old steelworker in the northwest province of Shaanxi, who said by telephone that he had invested in Shanxinhui.	钢铁工人张洪刚说。他在电话中表示，他往善心汇投了钱。
"The salary I earn at the steel factory is not much. Next year I want to buy a car," said Mr. Zhang, the steelworker. "If Shanxinhui doesn't go bust, I want to rely on it since it can always make money."	"我在钢厂工作挣不了多少钱。明年我想买个车，"张洪刚说。"要是善心汇不败，我也想依靠它，毕竟能一直盈利。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/china-beijing-protest-shanxinhui	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/china-beijing-protest-shanxinhui
From Political Star to 'a Sacrificial Object' in China	孙政才，从中共“明日之星”到政治牺牲品
BEIJING — All the political stars seemed aligned for Sun Zhengcai to be promoted to a top national post in China at the Communist Party's congress this fall.	北京——所有的政治迹象似乎都表明，在中国共产党今年秋天召开的大会上，孙政才会晋升到国家最高级别的职位上去。
His most recent high-profile post was party secretary for Chongqing, a vast city of 30 million where he was sent to clean up a government in the aftermath of a corruption and murder scandal. Last year, President Xi Jinping publicly shook his hand and praised his city.	他近期最为高调的职位是重庆市委书记，在一起腐败和谋杀丑闻之后，他被派往这个有 3000 多万人口的大型城市去清理当地的政府。去年，国家主席习近平曾在公开场合与他握手，并对他管辖下的重庆予以表扬。
Then, on July 15, he abruptly vanished.	然而在今年的 7 月 15 日，他突然消失了。
Within five days of publicly vowing absolute loyalty to Mr. Xi and extolling his "superlative political wisdom," Mr. Sun was dismissed and put under investigation and has since disappeared, his career terminated by the man he had praised.	就在孙政才公开誓言绝对效忠习近平、颂扬了习近平“高超的政治智慧”的五天内，孙政才被解除了职位，并接受调查，那以后便没有了音信，他的职业生涯终结在了称赞他的人手中。
The sudden fall from grace was taken as a warning that Mr. Xi will play succession politics by his own ruthless rules.	孙政才的突然倒台被认为是一种警告，表明习近平将用自己残酷无情的规则来进行领导人换届的政治游戏。
"Sun Zhengcai was a sacrificial object to send a message across the party," said Wu Qiang, a current affairs writer and former political	"孙政才是个牺牲品，这是向全党发出的信息，"时事评论作家、曾在北京的清华大学担任政治学讲师的吴强说。"习近平已发出信号，他不被上一代领

science lecturer at Tsinghua University in Beijing. "Xi Jinping has signaled that he doesn't feel bound by the order of promotion set by the previous generation of leaders."	领导人制定的晋升次序所约束。”
The party's terse public announcement said only that Mr. Sun, 53, had been removed as party secretary of Chongqing. It gave no explanation and, ominously, said nothing about his future. His name has not appeared in official Chinese media since his dismissal.	中共发布的简短公告只是说，53岁的孙政才不再担任重庆市委书记。公告对解职未做任何解释，而且不祥的是，公告只字未提他的未来。自从被解除职位后，他的名字在中国官方媒体上一直没有出现过。
His replacement was Chen Miner, formerly the secretary of nearby Guizhou Province and a protégé of Mr. Xi since working under him in Zhejiang Province, in eastern China, over a decade ago.	接替他人是此前担任邻省贵州省委书记的陈敏尔，陈敏尔是习近平提拔起来的人，十多年前，他曾于浙江省在习近平手下工作。
Mr. Sun "was just the wrong guy in the wrong place," said Joseph Fewsmith, a professor at Boston University who studies Chinese party politics. "Chen Miner seems like one of those people Xi is counting on to get things done."	孙政才“只不过是错误的人出现在了错误的地方”，在波士顿大学研究中国政党政治的教授傅士卓(Joseph Fewsmith)说。“陈敏尔看来是习近平指望的那种能干事的人之一。”
Mr. Sun's fall also demonstrated the power of the roving party investigation teams that Mr. Xi has used to demand devotion and conformity from officials.	孙政才的倒台也展示了中共巡视调查小组的权力，习近平一直在通过这种巡视调查来要求官员忠诚和遵守纪律。
Three people who are close to senior officials said that before Mr. Sun was dismissed, he was put under investigation by the party. Two of them said an internal party explanation of his removal did not specify allegations but said investigators had found "violations of discipline," a vague term that might mean political infractions or corruption. The three spoke on condition of anonymity, citing fear of punishment for discussing internal party affairs. The Wall Street Journal first reported the inquiry.	三位接近高级官员的人士表示，孙政才在被解职之前，已经在党内接受调查。这三位人中的两位表示，党内对孙政才被解职的解释没有明确给出具体的指控，只是说，调查人员发现他有“违纪行为”，这是一个含糊不清说法，可能意味着政治违规或腐败。由于担心讨论党内事务会让他们受到惩罚，这三人要求不具名。《华尔街日报》率先报道了孙政才接受调查的消息。

News outlets in Chongqing were told to stop using Mr. Sun's keynote slogans for developing the area, according to an internal memo an editor at an official newspaper sent to his staff.	据一份党报的编辑发给该报采编人员的内部备忘录，重庆的新闻媒体被告知停止使用孙政才主导该地区发展时用的口号。
Mr. Sun's removal appears to undermine the pecking order of elite promotion that had been taking root under Mr. Xi's predecessors, especially Hu Jintao, the previous president. Mr. Sun's promotion was never fail-safe, but under the hierarchy created at Mr. Hu's retirement, he had appeared poised for elevation this year.	孙政才被解职似乎破坏了习近平的前任、特别是前总书记胡锦涛建立起来的精英层提拔的等级顺序。孙政才的晋升从来都不是一成不变的事情，但是，在胡锦涛退休前建立起来的等级顺序中，孙政才似乎准备好了在今年得到提升。
"If Sun Zhengcai is not promoted and in fact being brought down, being purged," said Susan L. Shirk, the chair of the 21st Century China Center at the University of California, San Diego, "that really is an indication that the unwritten rules, or norms, of leadership succession are not being followed."	加利福尼亚大学圣地亚哥分校 21 世纪中国研究中心主任谢淑丽(Susan L. Shirk)说，“如果孙政才不但不被提升，反而实际上被打倒、被清除，这真的是一个表明不成文的领导人换届规则或规范没有得到遵守的迹象。”
She saw the move as part of an effort by Mr. Xi to "consolidate as much power as he can" without being challenged by other members of the party elite.	谢淑丽将此举视为在不受党内其他精英成员挑战的情况下，习近平“尽可能把权力集中到自己手里”的一种努力。
"There have been people purged before and corruption has been the excuse, too," she said. "But it seems like there's been more of that under Xi Jinping."	“以前也有人被清除，腐败也一直是清除他们的借口，”她说。“但在习近平领导下，这种事情似乎更多了。”
Mr. Xi has not commented publicly on the moves, but he appears to be maneuvering to ensure that the Politburo and its all-powerful standing committee are dominated by loyalists.	习近平还没有在公开场合提到这些做法，但他似乎正在采取措施，以确保政治局及其全权的常委会由对自己忠实的人主导。
At the Party Congress this fall, at least 11 of the 25 members must retire, unless an unwritten retirement ceiling is relaxed. They include five members of the seven-member Politburo Standing Committee, the	在今年秋天的党代会上，政治局的 25 名成员中至少有 11 人必须退休，除非不成文的退休年龄被放宽。这 11 人中包括政治局七名常委中的五人，政治局常委会是最核心的权力机构。

core chamber of power.
Removing Mr. Sun furthers the ascent of Mr. Chen, a politician who has long been close to Mr. Xi, analysts said. For now, Mr. Sun is still a member of the Politburo, but Mr. Chen is likely to take Mr. Sun's seat on it at the Party Congress.	拿掉孙政才促进了陈敏尔上升的仕途，陈敏尔长期以来一直与习近平关系密切，分析人士说。目前来看，虽然孙政才仍然是政治局委员，但陈敏尔很可能在十九大上取代孙政才进入政治局。
If the inquiry leads to charges, Mr. Sun will face punishment, or he may get a minor post or quiet retirement, if he survives the scrutiny.	如果对孙政才的调查导致刑事指控的话，他会受到惩罚，如果他能设法捱过调查，他可能会得到一个不太重要的职位，或安静地退休。
In May, Mr. Xi also installed Cai Qi, an official who worked closely with him in Zhejiang, as party secretary of Beijing, a job that probably puts him on the Politburo. Mr. Xi may also replace the party secretary of Shanghai, another Politburo post, said Bo Zhiyue, an expert on China's top-level politics, who runs a consultancy firm in Wellington, New Zealand.	今年5月，习近平还把在浙江与自己有过密切工作关系的官员蔡奇安排为北京市委书记，这份工作可能会让蔡奇进入政治局。习近平也换掉了上海的市委书记，这也是政治局层次的职位，研究中国高层政治的专家薄智跃说，他在新西兰惠灵顿经营一家咨询公司。
"Before the 19th Party Congress, Xi wants to make sure he gets as many seats as possible at the Politburo level," Mr. Bo said. "Xi's people have been too junior, so he's pushing to get them into the right places for Politburo promotion."	"在十九大召开之前，习近平希望确保他在政治局这个级别上占有尽可能多的席位，"薄智跃说。"习近平的人级别都还太低，所以他正在把他们放到能进入政治局的合适职位上。"
Mr. Xi may go further and bend the informal age rules to let Wang Qishan, his ally in charge of the party anticorruption and discipline commission, stay in office beyond the current retirement ceiling, which usually requires leaders to step down at a congress if they are 68 or older, some party insiders have said. Mr. Wang is 69.	习近平也许会进一步改变不成文的年龄规定，让负责党内反腐和纪律工作的盟友王岐山超过目前的退休年龄上限继续留任，一些党内知情者说，通常在党的代表大会召开时，年龄达到或超过68岁的领导干部会被要求退休。王岐山现已69岁。
Some have also speculated that Mr. Xi wants to stay in power beyond 2023, when he must retire as president after two terms. There is no formal limit on how long a party general secretary can stay in office.	还有人猜测，习近平希望在2023年后继续掌权，届时他需要从已经当了两任的国家主席职位上退下来。没有任何正式文件限制党的总书记能担任多久。任何有关这方面的决定似乎仍很遥远。但是，习近平可能会通过推迟指

Any decision on that seems far-off. But Mr. Xi could keep his options open by delaying designating a successor.	定自己继任者的方式来保留自己的各种选择。
While it remains unclear exactly what did in Mr. Sun, party investigators questioned his political reliability earlier this year.	虽然尚不清楚孙政才倒台的具体原因，但党内调查人员曾在今年早些时候对他的政治可信度表示怀疑。
Mr. Sun was sent to Chongqing late in 2012, when the city was shaken by the corruption, murder and torture exposed after the previous party secretary, Bo Xilai, fell from power that year. Mr. Bo, an imperious politician, was dismissed and arrested after investigators found his wife, Gu Kailai, had murdered a British businessman. Mr. Bo was sentenced to life in prison for graft and abuse of power.	孙政才是 2012 年底被派往重庆的。那年，重庆市前任党委书记薄熙来落马，相关腐败、谋杀和刑讯逼供等丑闻的曝光震惊了重庆。调查人员发现，薄熙来的妻子谷开来谋杀了一名英国商人，之后，盛气凌人的政客薄熙来被解除职位并被逮捕。薄熙来因腐败和滥用权力罪被判处无期徒刑。
But while Mr. Bo's downfall gave Mr. Sun a big political break, it also appears to have figured in his undoing. A stinging party inspectors' report on Chongqing published in February said that under Mr. Sun, Chongqing had not done enough to eradicate the influence of Mr. Bo and his feared former police chief, Wang Lijun. The inspector who delivered the rebuke was Xu Lingyi, who had worked under Mr. Xi in Zhejiang.	但是，虽然薄熙来的倒台给孙政才带来一个巨大的政治机遇，但那似乎也是孙政才失败的一个重要部分。党的巡查人员今年 2 月份发布的关于重庆的措辞严厉的报告说，在孙政才领导下，重庆还未采取足够措施来消除薄熙来及其前警察局长王立军的影响。该报告的提交者是习近平在浙江期间曾在其手下工作的徐令义。
"Party leadership has weakened," Mr. Xu told Mr. Sun, according to a report from the discipline inspection commission. He laid out other failings in Chongqing, including not enough study of Mr. Xi's many speeches. "Eradication of the ideological toxic residue of Bo and Wang hasn't been thoroughgoing."	据中央纪律检查委员会的报告，徐令义对孙政才说，重庆有“党的领导弱化”的问题。徐令义还列举了重庆在其他方面的不足，包括对习近平的很多讲话学习得不够。“清除‘薄、王’思想遗毒不彻底。”
Any politician would probably have a hard time erasing nostalgia for Mr. Bo in Chongqing. He remains popular among many residents who liked his aggressive crackdown on crime. But Mr. Sun was contrite.	任何政客在消除重庆对薄熙来的怀旧感上都会遇到困难。薄熙来仍深受许多民众的欢迎，他们喜欢他对犯罪活动的大力打击。但孙政才表示了懊悔。

"This is an alarm bell for us," he told officials in Chongqing in February.	他在今年2月份对重庆的官员说，“（巡视组）为我们敲响了警钟。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/china-xi-jinping-sun-zhengcai-chongqing-	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/china-xi-jinping-sun-zhengcai-chongqing-
In China, Silicon Valley Giants Confront New Walls	硅谷巨鳄在中国为何水土不服
SHANGHAI — Facebook is the world’s largest social network, with more than two billion users. LinkedIn was sold to Microsoft for $26 billion last year. And Apple is Apple, the most valuable company in the world.	上海——Facebook 是世界上最大的社交网络，拥有超过 20 亿用户。领英 (LinkedIn)去年以 260 亿美元的价格出售给微软。苹果就是苹果，世界上价值最高的公司。
In most local markets, it would be a surprise if any one of these companies were floundering. But in China, the real shock is that their troubles no longer surprise anyone.	在世界上的大多数本土市场，如果这些公司当中有一家正在举步维艰，都会令人非常惊讶。但在中国，真正令人惊讶的是它们的困境不再让任何人感到惊讶。
Just in the past few weeks, Facebook had one of its most popular apps blocked by the Chinese government. LinkedIn, the globe-spanning social network of résumés, job recommendations and management essays, had its local boss step down amid tepid results in the country. And Apple announced a billion-dollar investment to comply with local law as it continued to watch Chinese demand for its iPhones fade.	就在过去的一两个星期里，Facebook 最受欢迎的手机应用之一遭到中国政府屏蔽。领英是跨越全球的社交网络，涵盖了简历、工作推荐与商业管理类论文，它在中国的业务发展不温不火，导致本土老板辞职。iPhone 手机的销售在中国已经下滑，但苹果公司还在持续关注中国的需求，它宣布了一项十亿美元的投资，以配合当地法律的要求。
This summer of challenge for the three companies offers a broad illustration of just how varied the obstacles have become for foreign companies in China. They also show in stark terms why this vast market has been frustratingly difficult for outsiders.	今年夏天，三家公司所面临的挑战可以全面展现如今的在华外资企业是怎样面临多种障碍；也赤裸裸地揭示出这个庞大的市场对于外界人士来说何以变得如此困难，令人沮丧。
Tempted by the world’s largest smartphone market and an increasingly wealthy population deeply intrigued by new technologies, just about every American tech company from Amazon to Zynga has taken a shot at China. But outside of Apple and a group of older companies like IBM and Intel, few have a major presence in the country today.	中国是世界上最大的智能手机市场，越来越富裕的人群对新技术深感兴趣，受到这样的诱惑，从亚马逊到 Zynga，几乎所有美国科技公司都把目标对准了中国。但是，除了苹果，以及 IBM 和英特尔之类较为老牌的公司之外，如今几乎没有外国公司能在这个国家占据重要地位。

"In general the China market is hard, even for Chinese companies," said Andy Tian, co-founder of Asia Innovations Group in Beijing and former general manager of Zynga China. "It's the most competitive place around for consumer services and technology."	"总的来说，中国市场难度很高，甚至对于中国企业来说也是如此，"北京的亚洲创新集团联合创始人兼 Zynga 中国前总经理田行智(Andy Tian)表示。"这里是消费者服务与技术竞争最激烈的地方。"
Over the years, internet companies like Twitter, Google and Snapchat have been blocked by censors. EBay was outmaneuvered by the local internet giant Alibaba. Groupon failed to stay afloat in the flood of copycats it inspired. Uber cut its losses after establishing a foothold and sold its local business to a Chinese rival.	多年来，Twitter、谷歌和 Snapchat 这样的互联网公司被这里的审查者所屏蔽。eBay 公司被当地的互联网巨头阿里巴巴所超越。Groupon 公司激起了诸多来势汹汹的模仿者，最终无力应付局面。优步(Uber)公司虽然取得了稳固的地位，但为了减少损失，将本地业务卖给了中国对手。
Even LinkedIn, which played ball with Chinese censors two years ago in order to get into the country, has had trouble getting traction with a local audience. "The big internet companies just don't have much of a hope here," said James McGregor, chairman of the greater China region for the consulting firm APCO Worldwide.	两年前，为了进入这个国家，领英公司只得配合中国审查者，但是就连它也难以在当地受众当中得到良好的认同。"大型互联网公司在这里并没有太大希望，"咨询公司安可顾问公司(APCO Worldwide)大中华区董事长麦健陆(James McGregor)说。
American start-ups are still in the game, in particular those selling services to Chinese businesses, Mr. Tian said. But the number of big American internet firms trying to get into the country has slowed, though exact figures are hard to come by.	田行智说，美国初创企业还没有出局，特别是那些向中国企业提供服务的公司。但是，试图进入中国的美国大型互联网公司的数目已经在减少，尽管确切的数据难以获取。
There are issues beyond offending censors. The Chinese internet culture is different, and at times quirky. And the technical requirements of China's internet filters can make operating difficult. Engineers often have to find alternatives to the services technology companies rely on outside China.	除了令人不快的审查者之外，还有其他问题。中国的互联网文化是不同的，有时显得很古怪。应付中国互联网过滤措施的技术要求可能令操作变得困难。工程师经常需要在中国寻找科技公司所依赖的那些境外服务的替代品。
For those that overcome all that, the market is rough in a way United States companies don't normally experience, and is often tilted against	对于那些克服所有这一切的公司来说，这里的市场非常不平稳，这种情况通常是美国公司所没有经历过的，而且该市场往往会使得外来者处于不利位置。 outsiders.

“It’s basically like someone who has been training for Olympic taekwondo going up against a street fighter,” Mr. Tian said. “The Olympic fighter is waiting for the whistle, and the street fighter already has him on the ground hitting him with elbows. There’s no rules.”	“基本上就像是一名经过奥运跆拳道训练的选手去和街头霸王打斗，”田行智说。“奥运选手还在等待裁判吹响口哨，街头霸王已经把他打倒在地，用肘部撞击他。规则根本不存在。”
More so than the others, Facebook’s problem in China is simple: Neither its website nor its app is accessible in the country. Both were blocked in 2009, shortly after ethnic rioting in western China. In the autumn of 2014, the umbrella protests in Hong Kong prompted the block of Instagram, which Facebook owns.	和其他公司相比，Facebook 在中国的问题很简单：它的网站和应用程序都不能在该国访问。二者都是在 2009 年中国西部地区种族暴动不久后被屏蔽的。2014 年秋天，香港的雨伞抗议活动令 Facebook 旗下的 Instagram 遭到屏蔽。
Around the same time Instagram went down, Facebook’s Mark Zuckerberg stepped up a charm campaign to try to get the social network back into China. He trotted out his Mandarin in a large public forum, invited the then head of China’s internet regulator to Facebook’s offices and even dined with president Xi Jinping during a state visit.	大约在 Instagram 遭屏蔽的同一时期，Facebook 的马克·扎克伯格(Mark Zuckerberg)加紧了魅力攻势，试图让其社交网络回到中国。他在一个大型公开论坛上搬出普通话，还邀请当时的中国互联网监管机构负责人到 Facebook 的办公室参观，甚至在中国国家主席习近平访美期间和他共进晚餐。
For all his efforts, just last week the company’s last major app in the country, WhatsApp, was blocked by the Chinese government. While experts say it’s not clear whether it will ultimately be fully blocked, in recent days users have been unable to send images, videos and voice messages.	尽管他做了那么多的努力，就在上周，该公司在中国的最后一个重要应用程序 WhatsApp 遭到政府屏蔽。虽然专家说不清楚该软件是否最终会被彻底屏蔽，但是最近几天用户无法发送图像、视频和语音信息。
At least partially responsible for the block, according to analysts, is a new cybersecurity law that went into effect on June 1. While vague, the new rules call for security checks on foreign companies and force firms to store key data in China.	根据分析师的说法，这次屏蔽至少部分是由于一项从 6 月 1 日开始施行新的网络安全法案。新的规则虽然很模糊，但要求对外国公司进行安全检查，并强制这些公司在中国存储关键数据。
While Apple’s position in China is about as different from Facebook’s as	苹果在中国的地位与 Facebook 大不相同——它已经建立了一个具有极大价

possible — it has built a hugely valuable retail business — it too has been affected by the law. Just the week before WhatsApp was hit by disruptions, Apple said that to ensure it complied with the law it would begin storing data from its iCloud service in China. It also said it would work with a local Chinese company to set up a data center in southwest China as part of a $1 billion investment.	值的零售业务——但它同样也受到这项法律的影响。就在 WhatsApp 服务遭到中断的一周之前，苹果表示，为了确保自己符合该项法律规定，它将在中国存储其 iCloud 服务的数据。它还表示，作为价值 10 亿美元投资的一部分，它将与一家中国本土公司合作，在该国西南部建立数据中心。
An Apple spokeswoman referred to remarks by Apple’s chief executive, Timothy D. Cook, during the company’s most recent earnings call, in which he said Apple was “very enthusiastic” about opportunities in China.	在苹果最近的一次财报电话会议上，该公司的一位发言人提到首席执行官蒂莫西·D·库克(Timothy D. Cook)的一番话。库克说，苹果对中国的机会“抱有很大热情”。
Yet keeping Beijing satisfied is only part of the challenge for Apple. With more and more Chinese smartphone makers selling high-quality smartphones cheaply, the company’s sales in the country have slid over the past two years. In the second quarter ending April 1, the company’s revenue in greater China fell 14 percent, even as the market remains critical. Greater China accounts for 21 percent of the company’s sales, making it Apple’s most important market after the United States.	不过，让北京满意只是苹果面临的其中一个挑战。越来越多的中国智能手机制造商正在销售廉价的高品质智能手机，所以在过去两年里，苹果在中国的销量在下滑。在 4 月 1 日结束的第二季度，该公司在大中华区的收入下降了 14%。尽管该市场依然非常关键。大中华区占该公司总销量的 21%，是苹果在美国之外最重要的市场。
In a new tack for Apple in China, just last week it created a new position, general manager for greater China, and appointed a longtime manager, Isabel Ge Mahe, to the position. Ms. Ge Mahe was born in China, speaks Mandarin and has deep engineering experience. The company is also in search of a greater China policy head after its former head, Jun Ge, recently resigned, according to two people familiar with the matter.	作为苹果在中国的新举措，上周，它设立了一个新职位——大中华区总经理，并任命资深经理葛越(Isabel Ge Mahe)担任该职位。葛越出生在中国，会讲普通话，而且具有深厚的工程经验。据两名了解内情的人士表示，在前大中华区政策主管葛军（音）辞职后，苹果也在寻找继任者。
If Apple is trying something new, LinkedIn is showing that what had	如果说苹果正在尝试新方法，那么领英正在表明，在中国曾被认可的模式也

been an accepted model within China is no guarantee of success. Unlike Apple, which as a hardware company is considered less threatening by the Chinese government, LinkedIn had to go along with a bargain other internet companies have refused.	不是成功的保证。苹果是一个硬件公司，中国政府认为它的威胁较小。但领英和苹果不同，它必须接受其他互联网公司已经拒绝的条件。
In 2014 the company agreed to start censoring — much as Google had done almost a decade before it eventually left China — and formed a partnership with two influential Chinese venture capital investment funds to create a separate China operation. While the self-censorship drew complaints from users, other technology companies looking to get into China came to see LinkedIn’s approach as a model.	2014年，该公司同意开始审查内容——与近十年前谷歌最终离开中国前的做法很像——并与两家很有影响力的中国风险投资基金公司达成合作关系，创立了一个单独的中国子公司。虽然自我审查遭到用户投诉，但其他想要进入中国的技术公司开始将领英的做法视为典范。
By bringing in well-connected investors, it was able to ensure its communications with the Chinese government were in capable hands. It also focused on the particulars of the local market. It hired Derek Shen, a successful Chinese entrepreneur and Google veteran, to run its China operations separately. Mr. Shen, in turn, created a stand-alone app to bring LinkedIn, a service built around email and computers, to China’s smartphone-dependent population.	通过引入具有庞大关系网的投资者，它能确保与中国政府的沟通掌握在有能力的人手中。它还把注意力放在当地市场的独特之处上。它雇佣成功的中国企业家、谷歌元老沈博阳(Derek Shen)单独经营中国的业务。沈博阳创立了一个单独的应用程序，把领英带给中国依赖智能手机的人群。领英本来的服务是围绕电子邮件和电脑展开的。
Three years on, the results have been mixed. Troubles have included missing sales targets and failing to attract enough users, according to four former and current employees who declined to be named because they were not authorized to speak officially. LinkedIn’s local app, Chitu, also failed to attract the hundreds of millions of would-be users who have less exposure to the international work force and live in China’s smaller cities.	四名因未获授权公开发言而拒绝具名的前任和现任员工表示，三年来，结果比较复杂。众多麻烦包括未能完成的销售目标，以及没有吸引到足够多的用户。领英的本地应用程序亦未能吸引在中国较小城市生活的数亿名对国际劳动力市场接触较少的潜在用户。
While in most countries LinkedIn simply runs its network as it does in	虽然在大部分国家，领英只是像在美国那样运营自己的网络，但在中国，结

the United States, in China that proved difficult. In China, many of the people the company wants to attract use only smartphones, and communicate on messaging apps instead of email. Mr. Shen decided to try a specialized app catering to those patterns. Yet it had to compete with entrenched social networks, like WeChat, and gained little traction.	果证明，很难像那样操作。在中国，该公司想要吸引的很多人只使用智能手机，通过即时通讯应用程序而非电子邮件进行沟通。沈博阳决定尝试开发一个特制的应用程序，来满足这种模式。它必须与根深蒂固的社交网络竞争，比如微信，但最终没有太大斩获。
In June, the company also announced the departure of Mr. Shen and is still in the process of looking for his permanent replacement. A LinkedIn spokesman said the decision that Mr. Shen would leave was mutual, and his decision was motivated by a desire to join a more entrepreneurial effort.	该公司于今年6月宣布了沈博阳离职的消息，目前尚未决定正式替代他的人选。领英发言人称，沈博阳的离职是相关方面共同做出的决定，沈离职的动机是加入一个更具创业色彩的项目。
Holding LinkedIn back wasn't so much the ferocious local competition or the regulatory hurdles, but Chinese internet culture itself. Many are simply not in the habit of publicly sharing their professional connections, and it has been hard to convince them, said analysts and those who worked at LinkedIn China.	阻挡领英的并不是当地极为激烈的竞争或者监管方面的障碍，而是中国的互联网文化本身。一些分析人士以及领英中国(LinkedIn China)的前员工表示，很多人都不习惯于公开分享他们的职场关系，而且很难说服他们如此行事。
A business person in China may blush at making a Rolodex public because it is so personal, and also incredibly valuable. And publicly updating a résumé can be misconstrued by an employer as a signal that an employee is looking for a new job.	在中国，一个商人或许会对公开自己的关系网感到为难，因为它非常私人化，又极具价值。再者，公开更新简历可能会让雇主产生误解，将其当成雇员正在寻找新工作机会的信号。
Also, with a corruption crackdown ongoing in China, showing the relationships that allow business leaders to get things done can be a liability.	此外，在中国开展反腐行动之际，商界领袖们亮明有助于办成事情的关系，或许会带来负面影响。
As a result, professional relationships are often managed on a more conventional social network that allows for greater privacy: WeChat. Though at its heart a messaging app, it has a function like Facebook's	因此，人们常常在一个更传统也更能保护隐私的社交网络上经营自己的职场关系，那就是微信。微信本质上是一款通讯应用，但它拥有与 Facebook 的信息流类似的功能，人们可以发帖。另一项被广泛使用的功能是群聊，校友、

newsfeed where people can post. Also widely used are group chats, where school alumni, embittered ex-employees or parents of a local school can keep up with the latest gossip or get a few potential candidates for a new position they have to fill.	心怀怨怼的前雇员，抑或当地某所学校的学生家长，都可以通过加入聊天群来掌握最新的八卦信息，或者为他们想要填补的一个新职位空缺找到几个潜在的候选人。
With the social side of business life on WeChat, many local services have focused more on the posting of job openings.	微信涉及的是商务生活中社会性的一面，当地的很多服务商则把重心更多地放在工作机会的发布上。
"It may not be so much that LinkedIn is having trouble in China because they're a foreign company," said Mark Natkin, founder of tech research firm Marbridge Consulting. "It's more that they're having trouble in China because this is not the model people want to use here." Most use Tencent messaging services like WeChat or QQ — another Tencent messaging service originally built for desktop computers — to connect for business instead, he added.	"有人觉得领英在中国遇到麻烦的主要原因在于它是一家外国公司，但事情或许并非如此，"科技咨询公司迈博瑞咨询(Marbridge Consulting)的创始人马克·纳特金(Mark Natkin)说。"它在中国遇到麻烦的更大原因在于，这并不是这里的人们想要使用的模式。"他还表示，大多数人会借助微信或QQ等腾讯旗下的通讯服务来进行商业联系。QQ是腾讯的另一款通讯服务，起初是专为台式电脑设计的。
That cultural difference has kept a broader swath of the Chinese from joining LinkedIn. Two former employees said that they had quotas of posts they had to write on LinkedIn China's website each week to help boost activity. One of them, who said she used to write five to 10 posts a week, said it often seemed futile because most people used WeChat for professional discussions. Along with group chats, articles and even long messages easily go viral with people sharing them between groups, or on their moments, roughly the equivalent of a Facebook wall.	这种文化差异一直妨碍着更广大的中国民众成为领英的用户。两名前雇员称，他们曾被要求每周在领英中国的网站上发布一定数量的帖子，以帮助提升活跃度。其中一人说自己每周一般会撰写五到十则帖子，她说这看上去常常是徒劳的，因为大多数人都用微信讨论职场事宜。除了进行群聊，人们还可以在群组间或朋友圈中分享文章乃至长讯息，从而让它们得到病毒式传播。朋友圈基本相当于Facebook的留言墙。
A spokesman said the program encouraging employees to post was voluntary.	领英发言人称，鼓励雇员发帖的项目是自愿性质的。
Selling to customers without experience in international business was	一名前雇员称，向没有国际商务经验的客户进行推广，常常意味着反复向其

often an exercise in explaining why people would want to post their résumé online, one former employee said. As a result most of LinkedIn's best Chinese consumers were companies with major international operations like Huawei and the drone company DJI.	解释为什么人们会想要把简历发到网上。结果，领英最好的中国客户大多是有着大型国际业务部门的公司，比如华为和无人机制造商大疆(DJI)。
Xu Mengya, a former marketing employee at LinkedIn China, said that although there were far fewer LinkedIn users in Australia than China, the network there was much more active. She attributed the difference to a more distinct work-life divide, where people use Facebook to communicate with friends and family, and LinkedIn with work connections. In China, she said, everyone uses WeChat for both.	曾在领英中国从事营销工作的徐梦雅（音）说，尽管领英在澳大利亚的用户数量远远少于中国，但其网站在澳大利亚的活跃度远远高于中国。她把这种差异归因于工作与生活之间更加清晰的分野：澳大利亚人会用 Facebook 与朋友及家人交流，用领英进行工作联络。而在中国，每个人都用微信同时做这两件事，她说。
As LinkedIn continues to press ahead, its new legacy may be less its model for going into China, and instead a willingness to accept a more modest type of success – underscoring the reality that for the world beaters of Silicon Valley, getting into China is only a first step in what can become a long slog.	或许，在领英继续前行之际，它最新留给世人的东西与其说是进入中国的模版，不如说是接受一种更有限的成功的意愿——其所突显的现实是：对硅谷的那些天下无敌的公司来说，进入中国只是万里长征第一步。
Although it failed to attract the huge number of users that companies like Alibaba and Tencent have, LinkedIn has attracted a large number of China's international professional class.	尽管没能像阿里巴巴、腾讯等公司那样吸引到巨量用户，但领英已经在中国的国际化职业阶层中吸引到大量拥趸。
In his departure note, Mr. Shen noted as a sign of its success the fact that the company had 32 million users in China. While that may be less than 5 percent of China's total internet-using population, a spokesman for the company said it showed the venture was living up to expectations. The company has also attracted more than 1,000 clients since coming to China less than four years ago, he said.	沈博阳在离职信中把领英拥有 3200 万中国用户引为该公司获得成功的一个标志。这一数字或许还不到中国互联网用户总数的 5%，但领英的一位发言人表示，它表明此番冒险的收获正达到预期。他说，该公司进入中国不到四年，已经拥有了超过 1000 个企业客户。
"So they haven't achieved nothing, they can congratulate themselves	"因此他们并非一无所获，他们可以恭喜自己开了个头，而且一直未被当地

on making a start and not having been lapped by any local competitor," Mr. Natkin said.	的任何竞争对手超越太多，“纳特金说。
Still, the current and former employees said there were other problems. LinkedIn's ad and recruiting rates are far more expensive than local competitors, making it hard to sell, according to two former employees.	但一些现任和前员工表示，还存在其他问题。两名前员工称，比起当地的竞争对手，领英的广告和招聘费率要昂贵得多，因此销售工作很难做。
Simply to get in, LinkedIn needed to create a new operation partially owned by well-connected local investors. Yet the logic also followed that an independent China business would indeed be more independent, allowing it to respond more quickly to local challenges without the myriad phone calls at odd hours required to coordinate with headquarters. But the structure also had a negative side. Benefits and quotas at LinkedIn China were also different from the rest of the company, sometimes damaging morale, the two people also said.	仅仅是为了进入中国，领英就需要创办一个新的子公司——一些背景深厚的当地投资者拥有一部分所有权。不过其逻辑还在于，一个单独的中国业务事实上会更加独立，可以更迅速地应对当地的挑战，而不必在非正常时段打大量电话，以便和总部相协调。但这种结构亦有消极的一面。前述两名前员工称，领英中国的福利和任务量也不同于该公司的其他部门，有时会令士气受损。
Ultimately however, Ms. Xu said LinkedIn's original sin was simply being too late and not necessary enough. "The root of the problem is that Chinese do not need a social platform for work. It is a fact in China that all social activities related to work are on WeChat," she said.	不过徐梦雅表示，归根结底，领英的原罪无外乎进入得太晚，还有就是其服务并非那么必不可少。“领英面临的一个本质上的问题实际上是中国不需要职场社交平台，因为中国的国情就是我所有的工作社交都在微信上完成，”她说。
"In China, LinkedIn has turned into a hiring website — a high-end version of domestic hiring sites," she said, referring to the many local sites that specialize in listing job opportunities.	“领英在国外，它很重要的角色实际上是职场社交，其次才是招聘和工作机会的网站，但是在国内的身份就变成了一个高端版的招聘网站。”她提及当地很多专门发布工作机会信息的网站时说。
"This has led to a lack of activity because it has lost its social side."	“所以就导致它的活跃度肯定是不高的，因为它没有社交属性了。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/in-china-silicon-valley-giants-confront-new-walls	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/in-china-silicon-valley-giants-confront-new-walls
China Bars Justin Bieber From Performing Over 'Bad Behavior'	“坏男孩”贾斯汀·比伯在中国演出被禁
BEIJING —Justin Bieber's Purpose Tour has been called a "world	北京——贾斯汀·比伯(Justin Bieber)的《决心之旅》(Purpose Tour)巡演被

apology tour" intended to show a more mature side of a pop singer whose antics have drawn embarrassing headlines over the years.	称为“世界道歉之旅”，旨在展示这个流行歌手成熟的一面，因为这些年来，他的古怪举动引发了很多令人尴尬的头条新闻。
But in the eyes of Chinese officials, the young heartthrob still has some growing up to do.	但是在中国官员的眼中，这位年轻的万人迷还不够成熟。
In a statement published on its website on Tuesday, the Beijing Municipal Bureau of Culture confirmed that Mr. Bieber, 23, had been barred from performing in China because of past instances of “bad behavior” in China and elsewhere.	北京市文化局周二在网站上发表的声明证实，23岁的比伯被禁止到中国演出，原因是他过去在中国和其他地方曾经有过“不良行为”。
“Justin Bieber is a gifted singer, but he is also a controversial young foreign singer,” the bureau said in its statement.	“Justin Bieber 是一个有歌唱才华但也是一个有争议的年轻外籍歌手。”声明表示。
“In order to maintain order in the Chinese market and purify the Chinese performance environment, it is not suitable to bring in badly behaved entertainers,” the statement read. “We hope that as Justin Bieber matures, he can continue to improve his own words and actions, and truly become a singer beloved by the public.”	声明还说：“为规范国内演出市场秩序，净化演出市场环境，因此不宜引进有不良行为的演艺人员。但是，希望 Justin Bieber 在成长过程中不断完善自己的言行，真正成为受公众喜爱的歌手。”
The statement was issued in response to a question recently submitted by a user of the bureau’s website — presumably a Chinese fan — asking for a detailed explanation for the prolonged absence from China of Mr. Bieber, a Canadian singer who is behind such hits as “Sorry” and “Love Yourself.”	该声明是通过回答提问的方式做出的，有人——可能是中国粉丝——最近在该局的网站上提交了这个问题，要求详细解释加拿大歌手比伯长期不在中国演出的理由，比伯是加拿大歌手，热单包括《对不起》(Sorry)和《爱你自己》(Love Yourself)。
While the statement did not provide details, it appears to have been prompted by Mr. Bieber’s behavior on previous visits to the region. In 2014, Mr. Bieber caused a minor diplomatic row when he posted photos of himself visiting the controversial Yasukuni Shrine in Tokyo, which honors Japanese war dead — including convicted war criminals from	虽然声明没有举出具体事例，但似乎和比伯以前在该地区的行为有关系。2014年，比伯张贴了自己参观有争议的东京靖国神社的照片，引发了一场小型外交纠纷，因为该神社供奉的是日本的战死人员——包括已定罪的“二战”战犯——长期以来，它一直是日本及其邻国之间摩擦的一个来源。

World War II — and has long been a source of friction between Japan and its neighbors.
Despite Mr. Bieber’s attempts to apologize, Chinese were outraged by the visit. Even the Foreign Ministry of China weighed in on the episode.	尽管比伯道了歉，但中国人仍然感到愤怒。就连中国外交部也参与了进来。
“I hope this singer can learn more about the history of Japanese militarism, and the wrongful historical and militaristic views promoted by the shrine after his visit,” said Qin Gang, a spokesman at the time.	当时的发言人秦刚说：“我希望，这个加拿大歌手在参拜靖国神社后，能清楚地了解日本的侵略史，和日本军国主义及其来源。”
In 2013, Mr. Bieber made headlines when photos emerged of him being carried up the Great Wall of China by his bodyguards. Earlier in the trip, Mr. Bieber, who was in town to perform as part of his Believe world tour, was recorded skateboarding through the streets of Beijing while being frantically chased by his bodyguards.	2013年，比伯的保镖抬着他登中国长城的照片上了头条新闻。当时他正在北京举办《相信》(Believe)世界巡演，而他在北京街头玩滑板，保镖在后面疯跑的场面也被拍了下来。
Mr. Bieber joins a growing list of Western entertainers who have been blacklisted in China. Last year, the singer Lady Gaga reportedly had her entire repertoire banned in China after she met with the Dalai Lama, the exiled Tibetan spiritual leader, to discuss topics like meditation and finding inner peace. Several other entertainers, including Bon Jovi, Maroon 5 and Bjork, have also reportedly run into trouble with the Chinese government after expressing support for the Dalai Lama.	比伯被中国列入了西方艺人黑名单。这个名单在不断变长。去年，据说女歌手 Lady Gaga 因为和流亡的西藏精神领袖达赖喇嘛见面，讨论了冥想和寻求内心安宁等话题，她的全部作品在中国被禁。据报道，还有其他一些艺人，包括邦乔维乐队(Bon Jovi)、魔力红(Maroon 5)和比约克(Bjork)等，在对达赖喇嘛表达了支持后，也遭到了中国政府的为难。
It is unclear how long Mr. Bieber will be barred from performing. Representatives for Mr. Bieber did not respond to emailed requests for comment. Reached by telephone on Friday afternoon, a woman with the surname Yan who works at the Beijing Municipal Bureau of Culture said that she was not aware of the ban and did not have any further details.	目前还不清楚比伯将被禁演多长时间。比伯方面没有回复电邮发送的置评请求。周五下午打电话到北京市文化局时，一位姓严的女士称她不知道禁令这回事，而且也没有任何进一步的细节。

The news came as a shock to Chinese “Beliebers,” many of whom were hoping to see their beloved star return to the stage in China. Mr. Bieber is scheduled to begin the Asian leg of his world tour in September and has concerts planned in Hong Kong, Japan, the Philippines and Singapore.	这个消息让中国的比伯粉丝(Beliebers)感到震惊，很多人都希望看到自己热爱的明星再次出现在中国的舞台上。比伯的世界巡演计划于9月份开始亚洲站的演出，预定将在香港、日本、菲律宾和新加坡举办演唱会。
Zhao Chen, 20, a Bieber fan from the eastern province of Shandong, said he had been looking forward to seeing Mr. Bieber again after he went to the singer’s concert in Dalian in 2013.	比伯粉丝、20岁的赵晨(音)来自东部省份山东，他说自己2013年到大连去看过比伯的演出，之后就一直期待再次见到比伯。
“But when I saw that Hong Kong was on the concert schedule, I knew then that there was no longer any chance that he would be performing in mainland China,” Mr. Zao said, referring to the semiautonomous city in China. “I’m so disappointed.”	“但是，当我看到演唱会的地点有香港时，我就知道不会再在大陆举办了。”赵晨说道；香港是一个半自治的中国城市。“我很失望。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/justin-bieber-china-tour	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170724/justin-bieber-china-tour
When Young Chinese Ask, ‘What’s Your Sign?’ They Don’t Mean Dragon or Rat	处女男招人嫌？中国千禧一代的星座文化
BEIJING — China, the birthplace of the Chinese zodiac and some of the world’s oldest and most sophisticated fortunetelling techniques, has a new obsession: Western astrology.	北京——中国是中式生肖以及世界上某些最古老、最复杂的算命术的发源地，但是现在，这里的人们迷上了西方占星术。
What remains a largely niche interest in the West has in recent years become a mainstream cultural trend in China, especially among the younger generation. At dinner tables and in coffee shops, friends and strangers trade the latest gossip and tidbits about their astrological profiles.	在西方，星座在很大程度上是一种小众的爱好，近年来却成了中国的一种主流文化，尤其是在年轻人中间。餐桌旁或咖啡店里，人们会跟朋友乃至陌生人谈论关于自己星座的最新八卦与趣闻。
Online, social media accounts with millions of fans dispense weekly horoscope forecasts. On dating websites, users list their zodiac signs	网络上，一些拥有数以百万计粉丝的社交媒体账号每周都会发布星座运势预测。相亲网站上，用户除了列出自己的年龄、收入以及是否有车有房，还会

alongside other basic information like age, salary, and car and home ownership status.	列出星座。
Starting in the 1990s, Western astrology began to seep into China, mostly through variety shows from Taiwan, which caught the astrology bug early on. After the spread of the internet, a seed of interest soon blossomed into a torrid love affair.	西方占星术自 1990 年代起开始传入中国，主要是通过各种台湾综艺秀——台湾人更早就已经成为星座爱好者。星座在网上流传开以后，兴趣的种子很快就开花结果，演变为狂热的爱好。
While concepts like the traditional Chinese zodiac are still relevant, they are often dismissed by millennials here as “the older generation’s pastime.” Western astrology, on the other hand, is seen as more fun. Much as some Westerners have embraced Eastern practices like Buddhism, young Chinese are gravitating toward Western astrology because they say it is new and exotic.	中国传统生肖之类的概念仍然有其市场，但这里的千禧一代常常带着些轻视的意味称之为“老一辈爱玩的”。西方占星术则被视为更有趣的东西。就如同一些西方人全盘接受佛教等东方修行，中国年轻人也同样受到占星术吸引，他们说它既新奇又富有异国情调。
“People don’t get as excited about traditional culture because it’s too familiar,” said Liu Hongchen, an astrologer known as Eskey among his more than nine million followers on Weibo, a popular microblogging site. “The younger generation likes Western culture more, and the interest in Western astrology is a perfect example of this.”	“因为人们对传统文化熟悉，所以就不是那么特别感兴趣，”被 900 余万微博粉丝唤作 Eskey 的占星师刘洪晨说。“年轻一代更喜欢西方文化，对西方星座的兴趣正好反映了这一点。”
More and more Chinese are consulting the ancient practice for celestial guidance on all kinds of major life decisions: relationship advice, making friends, having babies — even hiring employees.	越来越多的中国人正诉诸这种古老的办法，就生活中的各种重要决定寻求星象指引，不管是恋爱、交友、生子，还是招聘员工。
Que Gangjian, a manager at a car sales company in the southern Chinese city of Changzhou, said that true to his nature as a Pisces, he was better at handling the so-called softer side of the business. So when it came time to recruit a sales representative, Mr. Que considered what skills would be best suited to the demanding job and would	在中国南方城市广州的一家汽车销售公司担任经理的阙刚健（音）说，他是真正的双鱼座，更擅于应对生意中所谓柔性的一面。因此，招聘销售代表的时候，阙刚健会考虑哪些技能与这一要求很高的工作最契合，还可以和他自己的技能互补。 complement his own.

After listing the mandatory requirements — a hardworking attitude, a driver's license and a quick tongue — Mr. Que inserted another line into the online job posting: "Scorpios, Capricorns and Geminis preferred."	在列出勤奋的工作态度、有驾照和语速快等硬性要求之后，阙刚健在网络招聘帖子里加入了另一个条件：“天蝎座、摩羯座和双子座优先。”
"People who fall under these three signs tend to be more persistent — they don't give up as easily," Mr. Que said in a telephone interview. "So really this is just to save time and make the hiring process more efficient."	"这三个星座的人更有韧劲，他们不轻易放弃，"阙刚健在接受电话采访时说。"所以我觉得列出这些就是为了节省招聘时间，更有效率而已。"
It is not the only instance of what has become known in China as "zodiac discrimination." A recent survey showed that 4.3 percent of college graduates looking for jobs in China had experienced discrimination based on their Western or Chinese zodiac sign. On Baidu Baike, the Chinese version of Wikipedia, there is even an entry for the term "xingzuo zhaopin," or job recruitment based on Western zodiac signs.	这不是在中国被称为“星座歧视”的唯一一个例子。最近的一项调查显示，4.3%的中国大学毕业生在求职过程中曾因自己的星座或生肖而遭受歧视。在类似维基百科的百度百科里，甚至有一个条目是“星座招聘”，也就是基于西方星座的工作招聘。
Of the 12 horoscope signs, Virgos, or those born between Aug. 23 and Sept. 22, have an especially rough time. Described as perfectionists, Virgos — and Virgo men in particular — are considered to be constantly on the defensive. While the criticism is mostly tongue in cheek, the sign has become so tarnished that some Chinese employers go out of their way to emphasize in job postings that, yes, Virgos are welcome to apply, too.	在12个星座中，出生于8月23日至9月22日的处女座处境格外艰难。处女座——特别是处女座男性——被描述为完美主义者，也被视为一直处于戒备状态之中。虽然这样的批评大多是开玩笑的，但是这个星座已经被污名化，一些中国雇主会在招聘帖子里特意强调，是的，我们也欢迎处女座的申请。
The derision has prompted much introspection among Virgos.	这样的嘲笑引发了处女座人的不少反省。
"Sometimes I think about whether my personality has been shaped by the stereotype," said Yan Rubin, 35, a Virgo and an electronics engineer	"有时我会思考，自己的个性是不是被刻板印象塑造了，"中国北方西安市一位处女座的电子工程师、35岁的阎鲁宾（音）说。"我不会说这是歧视，但

in the northern Chinese city of Xi'an. "I wouldn't say it's discrimination, necessarily, but I guess we're just different from the other signs."	我想我们和别的星座不一样。”
Hu Xiaofei, like many of her friends, had a strong aversion to Virgos until she discovered that her boyfriend's birthday fell within the ill-fated range.	和她的许多朋友一样，胡晓飞（音）对处女座深恶痛绝，直到她发现男友的生日也落在了这个倒霉的星座。
"Well, he wasn't a true Virgo," said Ms. Hu, 28, a Taurus who works in public relations in Shanghai. "His mom changed his birthday when he was younger so he could make the age cutoff for school."	“嗯，他不是真正的处女座，”28岁、金牛座的胡晓飞说，她目前在上海做公关工作。“他小时候，他妈妈为了让他早点上学，就给他改了生日。”
In any case, Ms. Hu said she did not take horoscopes that seriously. "It's just something to read everyday when I'm bored on the subway," she said, adding that they certainly they did not influence her life decisions.	无论如何，胡晓飞说自己并没有认真对待星座。“只不过是我每天在地铁上无聊看的東西，”她补充说，这些当然不会影响自己的生活决定。
Well, that is, with one exception.	不过也有一个例外。
"Oh, I would never date a Cancer," Ms. Hu said adamantly. "They might be good family men but most of the Cancer guys I know dabble outside their marriage. It's really bad."	“我绝对不跟巨蟹约会，”胡晓飞斩钉截铁地说。“他们可能是很好的住家男人，但是我认识的绝大多数巨蟹男都搞婚外情。太差劲了。”
Over the centuries, China developed a set of sophisticated divination techniques for use within and outside the imperial court. Today, many Chinese still consult fate-calculating practices like bazi, which determines a person's fortune based on birth year, month, date and hour.	几个世纪以来，中国形成了一套复杂的占卜技术，在皇家与民间广泛使用。如今，许多中国人仍然参考“八字”这种算命方式——根据出生的年月日与时辰来决定一个人的命运。
And the traditional Chinese zodiac, which features 12 animals representing 12 years, is so widely referenced that in 2014, several provinces reported a spike in births among young couples hoping to have their babies in the last weeks of the auspicious Year of the Horse to avoid the less favorable Year of the Sheep.	中国十二生肖则是用12种动物来代表12年，它的使用非常广泛，比如2014年，有几个省份出现了婴儿出生的高峰，年轻夫妇希望在吉祥的马年里，赶在最后几个星期把婴儿生下来，避开不那么吉利的羊年。

China is, of course, not the only place where interest in the occult thrives. A survey by the National Science Foundation, published in 2014, found that in recent years the number of Americans who said they believed that astrology was "sort of scientific" or "very scientific" was on the rise.	当然，中国不是唯一一个对神秘学产生浓厚兴趣的地方。美国国家科学基金会(National Science Foundation)2014年发布的一项调查发现，近些年，声称自己认为占星术“有点科学”或“非常科学”的美国人的数量在上升。
The difference in China is the visibility of the phenomenon. Unlike in America, there is little embarrassment about believing in Western astrology. Determining your fortune based on the interaction between the sun, the stars and the planets is just what Chinese have been doing for hundreds of years.	这种现象在中国的特别之处在于它特别明显。与美国不同，相信西方占星术并不会让中国人觉得不好意思。根据与太阳、恒星和行星的互动确定命运是成百上千年来中国人一直在做的事。
At the root of Western astrology's popularity, some astrologers say, is a growing thirst for spiritual guidance.	有些占星师表示，西方占星术流行的根基是人们对精神指引越来越多的渴望。
"In America, you have religion," Panda Cao, a Chinese astrologer based in Washington, said. "But in China, most people don't have a defined belief system. They don't have a godlike figure to help them find a solution or guide them in a certain direction. So Western astrology helps fill that gap."	"在美国有宗教，"华盛顿的华裔占星师判答说，"但是在中国，人们没有一个明确的信仰系统，没有一个像上帝那样的形象来帮助人们找到一个解决问题的途径，或者指导他们方向。所以星座就起到了填补这个空白的作用。"
Never mind all the skeptics who say astrology is a pseudoscience.	不过，有不少质疑者声称占星术是伪科学。
"Didn't Reagan like astrology?" Ms. Cao asked, referring to Nancy Reagan, the former first lady who is said to have kept an astrologer on retainer while her husband, President Ronald Reagan, was in the White House. "So I don't think you can say that it's completely false."	"里根总统不也相信星座吗?"判答问道。她指的是前第一夫人南希·里根(Nancy Reagan)。据说她的丈夫罗纳德·里根总统(Ronald Reagan)在白宫时，南希经常咨询一名占星师。"所以我覺得你不能简单地将星座定义为迷信。"
For some astrologers, the growing obsession has translated into big business. Cai Yuedong, also known as Tongdao Dashu, shot to online fame in recent years with his satirical zodiac-themed cartoons.	对有些占星师来说，人们对星座越来越多的痴迷变成了大生意。近些年，“同道大叔”蔡跃东凭借讽刺性的星座主题漫画在网上蹿红。

In December, Meisheng Culture, a local investment firm, spent $32 million to acquire a 72.5 percent stake in Tongdao Dashu's company. There are now plans to spin off the popular social media account, which has over 12 million fans on Weibo and many more on Tencent's messaging app WeChat, into a sprawling zodiac-themed franchise.	去年 12 月，当地投资公司美盛文化以 3200 万美元购买了同道大叔公司 72.5% 的股份。现在，他们计划围绕自己的热门社交媒体账户发展出一个庞大的星座主题特许品牌。同道大叔在微博上有 1200 多万关注者，在腾讯的即时通讯应用程序微信上的关注者更多。
To be sure, China has plenty of astrology skeptics. In December, Guokr, a popular science website, organized an online lecture that used scientific arguments to defend against the growing prominence of Western astrology.	毋庸置疑，中国有很多星座怀疑者。去年 12 月，热门科学网站果壳网组织了一场在线讲座，用科学论述反驳西方占星术越来越显著的地位。
"Western astrology is the most annoying trend," said Yu Jun, a science editor at Guokr and a die-hard skeptic. "A person's personality has nothing to do with his or her star sign."	"星座的流行是一个讨厌的趋势，"果壳网的科学编辑、坚定的星座怀疑者虞骏说。"一个人的性格和他的星座没有关系。"
But every once in a while, Mr. Yu said, he finds himself succumbing to the celestial pressure.	不过，虞骏表示，他也会时不时地屈服于上天的压力。
"Sometimes I'll joke about horoscopes with my friends," Mr. Yu, a Pisces, admitted. "But my star sign is the sign that is least likely to believe in star signs."	"有时候，我也会拿星座跟朋友们开玩笑，"双鱼座的虞骏承认。"我的星座是最不可能相信星座的星座。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170725/china-western-astrology	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170725/china-western-astrology
Former Political Star in China Is Under Party Investigation	孙政才涉嫌"严重违纪"被立案审查
BEIJING — The Chinese Communist Party said on Monday that Sun Zhengcai, a high-flying politician who had been seen as a potential future premier, was under investigation over suspected "grave violations of discipline," ending his career and raising the stakes of a national leadership shake-up that is just months away.	北京——中国共产党周一表示，孙政才因涉嫌"严重违纪"正在接受调查。他曾是一名成功的政治人物，外界曾认为他有可能在未来担任总理。调查结束了他的职业生涯，也增加了几个月后即将到来的国家领导层人事变动的变数。
Mr. Sun, 53, is the most senior serving politician purged so far in a	孙政才现年 53 岁，他是进行已有五年之久的针对腐败、不忠及滥用职权的

five-year drive against corruption, disloyalty and abuse of power that President Xi Jinping began soon after taking control of the Communist Party in late 2012. The terse party announcement about the investigation issued through Xinhua, the state news agency, did not specify the allegations against Mr. Sun. "Violations of discipline" is a vague term that can include corruption, abuses of power and disloyalty to the party.	运动中清除的最高级别的在位官员，这项运动是共产党总书记习近平 2012 年底上台后不久后发起的。中共经由国家通讯社新华社发布的关于立案调查的简短公告，没有具体说明对孙政才的指控。“违纪”是一个含糊不清的说法，可能包括腐败、滥用职权和对党不忠。
But by removing Mr. Sun, Mr. Xi has eliminated a potential obstacle to his efforts to consolidate power later this year, when a Communist Party congress will appoint a new leadership team to serve under him for his second five-year stint as party leader and as president.	但是，习近平拿下孙政才，为自己在今年晚些时候巩固权力的努力清除了一个潜在障碍。共产党将在今年秋季召开全国代表大会，任命新的领导班子。在习近平担任第二个五年任期的总书记和国家主席期间，这个新领导班子将在他手下工作。
Mr. Sun had been party secretary of Chongqing, a riverside city in southwestern China, since late 2012, when he was sent there to help clean up a previous political scandal. His abrupt dismissal was announced on June 15, initially without explanation. Since then, he has not appeared in public, and his name had not appeared in state media until the official confirmation on Monday that he was under investigation.	自 2012 年底以来，孙政才一直担任重庆市委书记，那是中国西南部长江边上的一个城市。当时他被派往重庆，帮助清理曾在该市发生的一场政治丑闻。他突然被解除职位一事是 7 月 15 日宣布的，最初并没有解释解职的原因。那以后，他一直没有在公开场合出现过，在周一正式确认他被立案调查之前，他的名字也没有在官方媒体上出现过。
Mr. Sun was also a member of the Politburo, an elite 25-member council of central and provincial leaders; by rank, experience and age, he had appeared well placed to rise into the Politburo Standing Committee, an even more powerful body.	孙政才也是政治局的成员，政治局是由 25 名中央和省级领导人组成的精英委员会。从级别、经历和年龄来看，人们对他进入权力更大的政治局常委会曾相当看好。
The removal of Mr. Sun allowed Mr. Xi to place an acolyte, Chen Miner, in charge of Chongqing. The official investigation against Mr. Sun opens the way for his eventual expulsion from the Politburo and replacement	拿下孙政才让习近平能够把他的追随者陈敏尔放到重庆负责人的位置上。对孙政才进行立案调查，为把他最终逐出政治局，并让陈敏尔接替他进入政治局铺平了道路，陈敏尔曾在习近平手下与其密切配合，当时他们两人曾一起

by Mr. Chen, who worked closely under Mr. Xi when they were both officials in the eastern province of Zhejiang.	在东部省份浙江任职。
At the party congress this fall, at least 11 of the 25 members must retire, unless an unwritten rule on the age of retirement is relaxed. They include five of the seven members of the Politburo Standing Committee, the core chamber of power.	在今年秋季的党代会上，政治局的 25 名成员中至少有 11 人必须退休，除非不成文的退休年龄被放宽。这 11 人中包括政治局常委七人中的五位，政治局常委会是最核心的权力机构。
The announcement on Monday did not say whether Mr. Sun would be expelled from the Politburo. But that appears to be a formality once the official party inquiry ends. If investigators find grounds for criminal charges, they may also hand Mr. Sun over to prosecutors for investigation and prosecution.	周一的通告没有说明孙政才是否会被开除出政治局。但官方的调查一旦结束，这只是一个形式问题。如果调查人员找到了刑事指控的理由，他们也可将孙政才送交检察机关进行调查和起诉。
The same fate befell Mr. Sun's predecessor in Chongqing, Bo Xilai. Mr. Bo was dismissed in 2012 and arrested after investigators found that his wife, Gu Kailai, had murdered a British businessman. Mr. Bo was sentenced to life in prison for graft and abuse of power.	同样的命运也曾落到孙政才的重庆前任薄熙来的身上。薄熙来于 2012 年被解除职位，在调查人员发现他的妻子谷开来谋杀了一名英国商人后，薄熙来被逮捕，后因腐败和滥用职权罪被判处无期徒刑。
Speculation has circulated that Mr. Sun or his family may have been implicated in corruption, but party outlets have said nothing. Mr. Sun also came under political pressure this year after party inspectors accused him and other Chongqing officials of not doing enough to root out the "toxic residue" of Mr. Bo's influence.	有人猜测孙政才或其家人可能涉嫌腐败，但党媒对此未作任何表示。孙政才今年也受到较大的政治压力，党内巡查人员指责他及其他重庆官员在清除薄熙来“流毒”的影响上做得不够。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170725/china-xi-jinping-sun-zhengcai	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170725/china-xi-jinping-sun-zhengcai
Sacred Lakes Threatened by China's Growing Capital	雄安“千年大计”威胁白洋淀湿地生态
LAKE BAIYANGDIAN, China — A few hours by car south of Beijing is a delicate string of lakes and ponds famous over the centuries for its fishing, its hunting, its cooling summer breezes.	中国白洋淀——从北京出发，向南开几个小时的车，就可以看到一连串秀丽的湖泊和池塘，几个世纪以来，这里一直以垂钓、狩猎和夏季的习习凉风而闻名。

But over the coming decades these fragile wetlands are to be transformed into an enormous satellite city for China's overcrowded capital. Hospitals, universities, wholesale markets, corporate headquarters — almost anything that does not fit into Beijing's role as the political center of China — are to be moved near Baiyangdian in what officials call "the project of the millennium."	但在未来几十年里，这些脆弱的湿地将被开发为一个巨大的卫星城市，为拥挤不堪的首都北京分担一些功能。医院、大学、批发市场、公司总部——几乎任何不符合北京作为中国政治中心地位的东西，都将搬迁到白洋淀附近，这个方案官方称为“千年大计”。
The idea is to turn Beijing into something more like Washington — a city built around a national government, with stately streets and monuments that manifest power.	政府的想法是，让北京变得更像华盛顿那样的城市——华盛顿是一个围绕着国家政府部门而修建的城市，拥有庄严的街道和彰显权力的纪念碑。
"The government is redefining what Beijing should be," said Zhang Yue, a native of the capital who is now an associate professor at the University of Illinois at Chicago and the author of a book comparing Beijing with other global cities. "It doesn't want a city with old neighborhoods — a city of culture and history — but a political city that serves the needs of the central government."	“政府正在重新定义北京的样子，”北京人、现为芝加哥伊利诺伊大学副教授张跃（音）说道。“北京是一座文化历史名城，但他们不想要老旧的社区，而是想成为一个满足中央政府需要的政治城市。”张跃曾写过一本将北京与其他全球城市做比较的书。
Planners have already started to move many of the capital's municipal services to another satellite city, Tongzhou, and there are plans to tear down chaotic but lively markets and neighborhood streets.	规划者已经在将北京的很多市政服务部门搬迁到另一个卫星城通州了，还打算拆除一些混乱但活力十足的市场和社区街道。
The government's expansionist ambitions are clearest here in what will be known as Xiongan (pronounced Sheong-an) New Area. Three times the size of New York City, it is to be built from scratch out of the delicate swath of meres and marshlands of Baiyangdian, in Xiongan county.	而在这里，一个被称为雄安新区的地方，政府进行扩张的雄心表现得再明显不过了。在雄安县秀丽的白洋淀湖泊和沼泽地旁边，政府要从无到有地修建这个面积是纽约市三倍大的新区。
The region is dotted with scores of villages clinging to the sides of lakes and levees, an area that used to be impassable but for boat traffic until a	沿着这片地区的湖泊和堤坝，点缀着数十个村庄，就在数年前，出入这里还只能靠船只。新修的道路带来了旅游者和少许的繁荣。住宅在增多，建筑业

half-dozen years ago. New road construction brought tourism and modest prosperity. Homes were expanded, making construction a major industry.	成为了主要产业。
Locals know big changes are afoot, but they are unsure what those changes will mean for life in the wetlands.	当地人知道这里将会发生很大的变化,但他们不确定这些变化对湿地生活的意义。
“Of course it’s a great honor that the central government would pay attention to us here in Baiyangdian,” said Chen Dazheng, a boatman who fishes and ferries people along the region’s canals. “We just don’t know what to expect – except that we’re going to have to move.”	“当然,中央政府关注我们白洋淀是一件很荣幸的事情,只是我们不知道会发生什么事情——除了需要搬迁之外。”在当地打渔并沿运河提供摆渡服务的陈大政(音)说道。
That became apparent as soon as the plans were unveiled in April. Real estate prices in the area began to skyrocket, and authorities immediately imposed a strict ban on any sort of new construction.	今年4月,规划公布之后,情况变得很明显。该地区的房地产价格开始飙升,当局立即严格禁止任何新建工程。
In China, compensation for expropriated homes is based on the area that the dwelling occupies. In the past, that led residents to slap up additions to their homes or businesses so they could claim more money.	在中国,被征用房屋的补偿款是以住宅建筑面积为准的。以前遇到这种情况居民会纷纷扩建住房或门面,以便获得更多的补偿款。
Now, everything is at a standstill. At almost every street corner and next to many homes there are 10-foot stacks of red bricks awaiting laborers. But they cannot be touched. That is true even when a son marries and a new room is needed for the new couple – traditionally the most pressing need for new space.	现在,所有的施工活动都停了下来。几乎每个街角、每户家庭旁边,都堆着10英尺高的备用红砖。但是你不能动它们了。即便儿子结婚,新婚夫妇需要盖间新房也不行——结婚是以前最重要的扩建房屋的原因。
In one of the region’s most picturesque villages, Quantou, a jigsaw puzzle of narrow alleys and high walls, residents wait anxiously to find out if their homes will be demolished. Just last year the village was listed on a register of historical villages, not only for its architecture but	圈头村是当地风光最秀丽的村庄,狭巷和高墙犹如七巧板一般拼凑在一起,那里的居民正急切地等待着,想知道他们的家宅是否会被拆除。就在去年,这个村庄因为其建筑,以及它与地理位置紧密相关的文化,而被列入了历史保护村庄名录。

also for the culture that is tightly linked to its geography.
Quantou is home to a complex singing style derived from Buddhist scriptures. The music is sung by a choir of locals who each year take boats across nearby Damaidian Lake to a temple honoring the god of medicine.	圈头村有一种复杂的音乐会社，来源于佛教经典。表演这种音乐的当地乐队每年都乘船渡过附近的大麦淀，前往药王庙。
"We hope to keep this going even after the village is torn down, but it depends where we live," said Xia Manjun, a 36-year-old member of the Quantou choir. "Will we live nearby or be scattered? Will we even be allowed on the lakes if it's all lined with offices?"	"我们希望村庄拆迁后，这种传统还能保持下去，但这取决于我们住在哪里。"圈头村乐队36岁的夏曼俊（音）说："我们住得近还是分散开了？如果湖边都是办公楼，还会允许我们去游湖吗？"
This kind of forced urbanization and redevelopment has already badly damaged traditional cultures in places like Beijing. There, the destruction of the traditional hutong alleys uprooted traditional martial arts and music groups, scattering residents across far-flung suburbs.	这种强制性的城镇化和重建工作，已经严重破坏了北京这些地方的传统文化。在那里，当传统的胡同被拆除时，居民被分散安置在了遥远的郊区，传统武术和音乐团体遭到破坏。
In places like Quantou, the situation is even more fragile. People like Mr. Xia are among the last who still know the old music. He sells agricultural products to cities during the week and returns to Quantou on weekends to teach the tradition to local children.	圈头这样的地方更加容易受影响。夏曼俊这样的人，是仍然懂这种古老音乐的最后一批人之一。他平时到各个城市销售农产品，周末则返回圈头，向当地孩子传授这个传统。
One recent Sunday, he led 20 students in a four-hour workshop to learn the music many of their parents learned growing up in what was a relatively isolated part of the country.	近日的一个星期天，他给20名学生培训了4小时，在这个相对与世隔绝的地区，很多孩子的父母就是学着这些音乐长大的。
Even with roads, the area is still hard to traverse. Just 15 miles from Quantou Village but an hour drive along bumpy roads is Anxin, a county seat of 55,000 people. It is one of the few urban areas in the region. There, Prof. Zhou Runbiao, a historian in the local government, says concerns about the coming development are overblown.	即使有道路，要到达这个地区仍然很困难。安新县距离圈头村仅15公里，但道路崎岖蜿蜒，开车得花一个小时，这里的县城有5.5万人口，是该地区少数几个城镇之一。当地政府的历史学家周润彪（音）教授说，对未来发展的担忧被夸大了。

As one of the few officials willing to talk publicly about the project, Professor Zhou gave a fairly upbeat assessment. First, he noted that the plan was announced only in April and that details had not been worked out. So, he says, talk of demolitions is "premature."	只有少数官员愿意公开谈论这个项目，周教授就是其中之一，他对该项目的评估相当乐观。他指出，首先，这个计划是4月份才宣布的，细节尚未完成。所以他说，现在谈拆迁还“太早”。
He said the New Area could likely help improve the region's poor water quality. In the 1950s, wetlands and lakes covered nearly 300 square miles and were fed by nine rivers flowing from the Taihang Mountains. The area was famous for its aquaculture and clear waters.	他说，雄安新区可能有助于改善本地区糟糕的水质。1950年代，这里有近300平方英里的湿地和湖泊，水源来自太行山的九条河流。该地区以水产养殖和水质清澈而闻名。
Then began a program of dam-building that has transformed much of China, limiting chronic flooding that has plagued the country for centuries, and providing clean hydropower. But the effect on wetlands was catastrophic. The area's marshes and lakes shrank in half, industries appeared and the water is now undrinkable.	之后，一系列的水坝建设项目改变了中国很多地区的面貌，减缓了几个世纪以来困扰该国的洪水问题，还提供了清洁的水电。但它对这里湿地的影响是灾难性的。当地的沼泽和湖泊减少了一半。人们开始发展工业，现在这里的水已经达不到可饮用级别了。
"The reason is that local governments did what they pleased," Professor Zhou said. "Now, under central government control, the factories will be closed and the water cleaned up."	周教授说：“原因在于，地方政府想怎么做就怎么做。现在，在中央政府的管控下，工厂将会关闭，水体将会得到清理。”
Independent experts said they believed this could be the case. Ma Jun, the director of the Institute of Public and Environmental Affairs, a think tank in Beijing, said the project would lead to an influx of new residents, which would increase water use. But it would also very likely qualify for new government funding that could restore the ecosystem.	独立专家说，他们也认为事情可能会是这样的。智库团体公众环境研究中心 (Institute of Public and Environmental Affairs) 主任马军表示，这个项目将会导致新的居民涌入，从而增加用水量。但它可能会有资格获得新的政府资助，以便恢复生态系统。
"It basically depends on how big the efforts, how firm the resolution and how forceful the monitoring mechanism can be," Mr. Ma said. "If they are not cautious enough at the beginning, there will be problems."	“这主要取决于努力有多大，决心有多坚定，监察机制有多么给力。”马军说：“如果他们最开始不够谨慎，就会出现问题。”
Near Professor Zhou's home is the main lake of Baiyangdian and a	周教授的家附近就是白洋淀的主湖，和一个占地50平方英里的自然保护区。

50-square-mile nature reserve that is the site of an unusual private museum to Chinese guerrillas who fought the Japanese in the marshes and waterways during World War II. One of the museum's founders, Wang Mutou, 66, said he expected little resistance to the new plan.	保护区内还有一所不同寻常的私人博物馆，纪念的是二战期间，在这里的沼泽和水道上与日本人斗争的中国游击队。66岁的王木投（音）是博物馆的创始人之一，他认为这个新的规划几乎不会有人抵制。
"Our systems are different," he said. "You own your land, but in China we just have user rights. The land is owned by the government."	"我们的制度不一样，"他说。"你们的土地是自己的，但在中国，我们只有使用权。土地归政府所有。"
He had one plea, shared by many of his neighbors who fish, travel and worship along the local waterways.	和在当地的水道附近钓鱼、游玩和祭拜的很多邻居一样，他有个请求。
"We know we will have to move," Mr. Wang said. "We just hope that when all the research institutes move here and all the companies move in, that we are left with some access to our waters. Please let us stay near the water."	"我们知道必须要搬走，"王木投说。"我们只希望所有研究机构都搬到这儿来，所有公司都搬进来后，我们还能接触到水。请让我们留在离水近的地方。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170725/sacred-lakes-baiyangdian-beijing	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170725/sacred-lakes-baiyangdian-beijing
In China's Capital, a Portal to Hollywood's Golden Age	这家小众影院带你感受好莱坞的黄金时代
BEIJING — The tiny cinema offers 30 luxurious leather armchairs, perfect for lounging. There are side tables where patrons can place their Champagne or cocktail, and nibbles, even oysters and caviar. The screen is close and the ceiling low. The atmosphere is intimate and elegant.	北京——这个小小的影院配有30把豪华皮质扶手椅，非常适于懒洋洋地靠坐在上面。旁边有茶几，顾客可以用来放香槟、鸡尾酒以及小零食，甚至是生蚝和鱼子酱。屏幕很近，天花板很低。氛围私密而又优雅。
The theater, Cinker, is not a typical Beijing movie house — cavernous, packed multiplexes that offer Hollywood franchise films with earsplitting battle scenes or car chases. China's government importers and censors prefer those box office hits for the quota of 34 foreign movies allowed into the country each year.	三克(Cinker)并非典型的北京电影院——那些庞大的放映厅时常挤满了人，放映有着震耳欲聋的打斗场面或汽车追逐镜头的好莱坞大片。中国每年引进外国影片的配额是34部，该国经营电影进口业务的国企以及审查机构更为青睐那些票房大片。

Tucked away on the third floor of a building in an upscale area of the capital, Cinker was envisioned by its three partners as a place for movie lovers who want to revisit Hollywood classics, European art house films and vintage Chinese favorites.	三克藏身于北京某高端地段的一栋建筑的三层，按照它的三位合伙人的设想，它是一个面向想要重温好莱坞经典影片、欧洲艺术片和国产经典老电影的电影爱好者们的空间。
Some recent showings: "The Godfather" and "Love on Lushan Mountain," along with early Woody Allen and Agnès Varda.	这里近来放映的影片包括：《教父》(The Godfather)、《庐山恋》，还有伍迪·艾伦(Woody Allen)和阿涅斯·瓦尔达(Agnès Varda)的一些早期作品。
Amanda Zhang, a former criminal lawyer and a partner in the venture, is around most nights schmoozing with regular diners in the clubby restaurant and presiding over the 1930s-style brass-accented bar.	三克的合伙人之一、曾经当过刑事律师的阿曼达·张(Amanda Zhang)多数夜晚都会现身，在会所式的餐厅中与常客闲谈，或者打理着黄铜镶饰的1930年代风格酒吧。
Ms. Zhang's glamour — she may wear red silky shorts and a flowing top, or a black evening suit, or a form-fitting emerald green sheath, always with skyscraper heels — is meant to recall the splendor of Hollywood's golden age.	阿曼达·张很有魅力——她或许会身穿红色丝绸短裤和短上衣，或黑色晚礼服，或突显身材的祖母绿色紧身连衣裙，总是搭配超高的高跟鞋——会让人联想起好莱坞黄金时代的光彩。
Cinker emerged six months ago, an experiment in offering an alternative to Beijing's standard commercial theaters and a couple of out-of-the-way screening rooms that show old films. The founders invented the name Cinker as shorthand for Cinema Maker.	于六个月前出现的三克是一场实验，要在北京的标准化商业影院以及若干过时的老电影放映厅之外，提供另一种选择。其英文名Cinker是由几位创始人用Cinema Maker（电影院制造者）缩并而来。
"We don't have an independent cinema in China," said Yan Yixin, a founder. "We thought, 'How can we make an independent cinema?'"	"中国没有独立影院，"创始人之一严亦新(Yan Yixin, 音)说。"我们当时想的是，'如何打造一家独立影院?'"
A place with an eclectic schedule (by Beijing standards) and a beckoning atmosphere offered a good start, he said. Shanghai has always been considered the movie home of China — the big production studios opened there after 1949, and most of them remain there. Opening a jewel box cinema in the political capital was considered a brave move, a challenge to the conventional nod to Shanghai as the	他说，兼容并蓄的排片表（就北京的标准而言）和吸引人的氛围是一个不错的起点。上海一向被视作中国电影的发源地——1949年以后开办了一些大型电影公司，其中大多数公司至今依然在那里。在政治之都北京开办一家珠宝盒般的影院，被视为勇敢之举，也是对上海是时尚中心这一传统认知的挑战。 center of style.

Cinker is a contemporary twist on a turn-of-the-20th-century movie hall, the Electric, in the London neighborhood of Notting Hill Gate, where the audience sits on plush sofas, armchairs — even beds — and movies are shown on a stage dominated by a gilded ornate proscenium.	三克其实是加入了现代元素的 Electric。始建于 20 世纪初的 Electric 影院位于伦敦诺丁山门(Notting Hill Gate)社区，那里的观众可以坐在柔软的沙发、扶手椅上——甚至床上——用来放映电影的镜框式舞台上有一个华丽的镀金框。
Mr. Yan recalls going to the Electric with his girlfriend. “It is a vintage cinema, you could lie down on a sofa, have a cocktail from the bar, watch a movie — an amazing experience.”	严亦新还记得和女朋友去 Electric 的情形。“它是一家复古风格的电影院，你可以躺在沙发上，边享用来自酒吧的鸡尾酒，边看电影——非常美妙的体验。”
They chose a similar upscale district in Beijing called Sanlitun, which, like Notting Hill Gate, was a down-at-heel bar quarter in the late 1980s and '90s, with dozens of foreign embassy buildings along its edges.	他们选定了同属高档社区的北京三里屯，它和诺丁山门一样，在上世纪八九十年代是破败的酒吧区，边缘地带有很多外国使馆建筑。
Then, artists rented hole-in-the-wall spaces to be close to the diplomats who could afford to buy their paintings, and in the early 2000s, the director Quentin Tarantino lent a movie flavor when he hung out at a night spot called Vogue and worked on shooting his first martial arts movie, “Kill Bill,” during the day.	后来，艺术家们租下破破烂烂的空间，以便拉近与有能力购买其画作的外交官之间距离；2000 年代初，导演昆汀·塔伦蒂诺(Quentin Tarantino)给这里添加了电影元素——当时他晚上混在一个名叫 Vogue 的夜店里，白天则忙于拍摄自己的首部动作片《杀死比尔》(Kill Bill)。
Beijing’s city planners had other ideas than allowing valuable central real estate to lie idle to low-paying renters. In the mid-2000s, the seediness gave way to China’s first Apple Store, then fashion boutiques and now, a decade later, a Mercedes Me showroom with the most expensive models spilling onto a plaza with giant screen videos and a high-end cafe nearby.	北京的城市规划者有其他打算，不想让极具价值的市中心房产在低薪租户手中闲置。到了 2000 年代中期，破败的氛围被中国第一家苹果零售店(Apple Store)打破，然后是诸多时尚精品店的入驻，十年后的今天又有了一家奔驰体验店 Mercedes Me，最昂贵的车型一直延伸到附近一座有着巨大的屏幕和高档餐厅的购物中心。
By locating in Sanlitun, Mr. Yan and Ms. Zhang, and Lin Fan, an owner of one of Beijing’s fancy restaurants and a producer of Chinese movies,	北京有着无所不包的消费文化，通过把地点选在三里屯，严亦新、阿曼达·张和林凡(Lin Fan, 音)——林凡拥有北京的一家高档餐厅，还是一名中国电

are appealing to habitués of the premier axis of the city's all-enveloping consumer culture. They are also exploiting changes in moviegoing habits.	影人——试图吸引这种文化的核心群体成为常客。他们也在利用观影习惯的改变。
Box office revenue from Hollywood blockbusters dropped in China in the first six months of this year after many years of growth. For example, "Transformers: The Last Knight" fared less well than expected, while the Bollywood drama "Dangal" did much better. Audiences have become more sophisticated, and more fickle. And in China, as elsewhere, more moviegoers are watching videos provided by online streaming services.	好莱坞大片在中国的票房收入已经连续多年增长，但在今年前六个月有所下降。比如《变形金刚 5：最后的骑士》(Transformers: The Last Knight)的票房收入不及预期，宝莱坞影片《摔跤吧！爸爸》(Dangal)的表现却好得多。现在的观众更加成熟，也更易变。此外，和别的地方一样，在中国，更多电影观众正在观看由流媒体服务商提供的视频。
As the moviegoing audience fragments, Cinker appeals not only to the steady niche audience for classics, but also to a wide spectrum of people who have fallen in love with foreign actors who have starred in popular TV series.	在观众不断分化之际，三克不仅想要吸引青睐经典影片的稳定但却狭窄的群体，还致力于吸引对主演高人气剧集的外国演员颇为迷恋的更广泛人群。
To their surprise, Ms. Zhang said, Britain's National Theater Live series with actors like Benedict Cumberbatch, who appears in "Sherlock" — the British detective series that was a major television hit in China — have been among their biggest draws.	阿曼达·张说，让他们意外的是，演员表上有本尼迪克特·康伯巴奇(Benedict Cumberbatch)等人名字的“英国国家剧院现场”戏剧影像，竟跻身他们的最卖座影片之列。康伯巴奇出演的英国侦探类剧集《神探夏洛克》(Sherlock)曾在中国大热。
Cinker opened with a screening of Wes Anderson's "The Grand Budapest Hotel," a 2014 favorite of the three partners. The décor of Cinker's bar and restaurant — brass wall lights, plush red curtains — harks back to the movie.	三克开业时放映了韦斯·安德森(Wes Anderson)的《布达佩斯大饭店》(The Grand Budapest Hotel)，三位合伙人都很喜欢的一部 2014 年影片。三克酒吧的装潢——黄铜壁灯、红色绒布窗帘——就以这部电影为灵感。
"A lot of our audience likes to watch movies that are not really box office hits," Mr. Lin said. "'Budapest Hotel' only got a very short showing in China." The Woody Allen movies and "The Godfather" never had	“我们的很多观众喜欢看的电影并不是真正的票房大片，”林凡说。“《布达佩斯大饭店》在中国只放映过很短一段时间。”他说，伍迪·艾伦的影片及《教父》从未在中国进行过商业放映，人们只能看 DVD。 commercial releases and were available only on DVD, he said.

The repertoire for Cinker is limited, though, by China's all-powerful government Shanghai Media Group, the conglomerate that controls movie distribution, and must obey the censor's strictures. Like all movies, "Titanic," for example, was examined by the censors. Yet it emerged with flying colors. Communist party members were instructed to see the film, one of the first foreign movies released here in 1997, for lessons on bravery, and how even a capitalist moviemaker could tell the story of a poor boy falling for a rich girl.	不过，三克的放映片目受限于拥有巨大影响力、控制着影片发行的国有企业上海东方传媒集团，而且必须遵循审查机构的各种禁令。例如，像所有电影一样，《泰坦尼克号》(Titanic)也曾受到审查机构的审查。但这部影片大获成功。1997年，它作为首批外国影片之一在中国放映时，共产党员曾被要求观看，原因是它教会人勇敢，还表明就连资本主义电影制作者也可以讲述一个穷小子爱上富家女的故事。
From a library of about 4,000 movies at the media group, about 20 percent are suitable for a Cinker screening, Mr. Yan said. The Hollywood favorites come mostly from that backlist, he said.	严亦新说，上海东方传媒集团的片库里约有4000部电影，其中约20%适于在三克放映。他说，卖座的好莱坞影片大多源自那里。
"The Godfather, Part 1" sold out the fastest, helped along by a package deal of a movie ticket and an Italian dinner. Patrons were encouraged to turn up in dress that matched the characters, and some arrived in flowing gowns and tuxedos.	《教父 I》(The Godfather, Part 1)卖得最快，在某种程度上得益于电影票是和意式晚餐打包出售的。顾客被鼓励身穿与片中角色搭调的裙装现身，一些人到场时穿着飘逸的长裙和晚礼服。
Expansion is underway. An outdoor rooftop cinema, decorated with lush green plants and comfortable wicker, debuted last week. Coming next: Cinker's opening in Shanghai. And watch for the future Cinker film awards.	扩张正在进行中。一间饰以郁郁葱葱的绿植、配有舒适藤编座椅的顶楼露天影院于上周揭幕。接下来，三克将在上海开分店。此外，让我们对未来的三克电影奖拭目以待。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170726/beijing-theater-hollywood-movies	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170726/beijing-theater-hollywood-movies
Hong Kong Rail Plan Raises Fears of Mainland China's Influence	广深港高铁“一地两检”方案引争议
HONG KONG — A proposal to lease part of a new Hong Kong rail terminal to mainland China and to allow Chinese officers to enforce	香港——把香港新修的一座铁路总站的部分地方租给内地，并允许内地在那里实施内地法律的提议，引起了对该方案会破坏这座城市法律自治的担忧。

mainland law there has raised concerns the plan would undermine this city's legal autonomy.
Hong Kong officials have said that the terminal, which is scheduled to open late next year in the city's West Kowloon district, needs mainland customs and immigration officers in addition to Hong Kong officers in order to maximize efficiency for travelers. The 85-mile express rail line will connect Hong Kong with the cities of Shenzhen and Guangzhou in the neighboring mainland province of Guangdong.	这座铁路站坐落在香港西九龙区，计划明年投入使用。香港官方称，为了将服务旅客的效率最大化，除香港工作人员外，该站还需要内地的海关和边检工作人员。这条 85 英里（约合 140 公里）长的高铁将连接香港与相邻的内陆省份广东的深圳市和广州市。
When Hong Kong, a former British colony, returned to Chinese control 20 years ago, it was promised a high degree of autonomy, including the ability to keep its own legal, political and economic systems. Hong Kong maintains its own borders, and travelers between Hong Kong and mainland China pass through immigration controls similar to those between nations.	20 年前回归中国的统治时，曾是英国殖民地的香港被许以高度的自治，包括保留自己的法律、政治和经济制度。香港有自己的边境，往返香港和内地的人要像往返于不同国家之间一样通关。
Under the Hong Kong proposal announced on Tuesday, customs, immigration and quarantine officers from Guangdong Province would have enforcement powers in about one-quarter of the station's five-story terminal.	按照周二公布的相关提议，在这个五层楼高的铁路总站，来自广东省的海关、边检及检疫人员可能会在大约四分之一的地方范围内行使权力。
"It speaks of a greater presence of Chinese officials, of Chinese law, of Chinese values in the heart of Hong Kong," Simon N. M. Young, a law professor at the University of Hong Kong, said in an interview.	"此事象征着中国的官员、中国的法律、中国的价值观在香港核心地区的影响力增加，"香港大学法学教授杨艾文(Simon N. M. Young)在接受采访时说。
"It's worrisome," he added.	"这令人担忧，"他补充道。
Pro-democracy politicians in Hong Kong say the stationing of mainland Chinese officers in the city could undermine the "one country, two systems" model that allows Hong Kong to maintain the way of life	香港的亲民主政界人士称，内地工作人员进驻香港可能会破坏"一国两制"的模式。后者让香港得以保留民众在其 1997 年回归中国之前的生活方式，包括内地所没有的公民自由。

residents had before the 1997 handover to Chinese rule, including civil liberties unknown on the mainland.
Many Hong Kong residents have said they are concerned about threats to rule of law and free expression. The dramatic disappearances two years ago of Hong Kong booksellers who sold gossipy potboilers about China's political elite heightened those worries.	很多港人表示，他们担心法治和言论自由会受到威胁。两年前，多名售卖关于中国政治精英八卦书籍的香港书商突然失踪一事，突显了这些担忧。
Five men were taken into custody in mainland China, including one who was taken from Thailand and another who disappeared off the streets of Hong Kong. The men gave televised confessions that one said had been forced.	五名书商被关押在内地，其中一人是从泰国被带走的，另一人则是在香港街头失踪的。他们在电视上认罪，但其中一人后来说是被迫这么做的。
In January, a well-connected Chinese billionaire was taken from a hotel in Hong Kong and ended up in custody on the mainland, which was seen here as another case of mainland law enforcement trampling over legal protections in Hong Kong.	1月，一名人脉颇广的中国亿万富翁从香港一家酒店被带走，最后关押在内地。在香港，此事被视作内地执法侵犯香港司法保护的另一个例子。
Hong Kong officials say the rail terminal plan, which is called "one place, two checks," will enhance the efficiency of the high-speed rail system and eliminate the need for passengers to go through separate immigration protocols on both sides of the border.	香港官方称，被称作“一地两检”的这个铁路总站方案会提升高铁系统的效率，并免去乘客在边境两侧都要通关的麻烦。
Train trips between Hong Kong and Guangzhou will take about 48 minutes, from about two hours now, the government says. The project, which will cost Hong Kong more than $10 billion, was first proposed in 2000.	政府称，乘火车往返香港和广州的时间，将从现在的大约两小时缩短至48分钟左右。香港在该项目上耗资100亿美元。项目最初是在2000年提出的。
A similar immigration system was put in place 10 years ago in Shenzhen, where Hong Kong officers have jurisdiction at a control point on land that is part of Guangdong Province. But that move had	10年前，深圳实施了一项类似的通关制度。在那里，香港在一个陆地口岸的部分区域拥有执法权，而那里属于广东省。但此事没有引起内地工作人员在香港的领土上工作引发的这种争议。

none of the controversy of mainland officers working on Hong Kong soil.
Hong Kong officials say the scope of mainland officers' powers will be limited, and will not undermine Hong Kong's autonomy.	香港官方称，内地工作人员的权力范围有限，不会影响香港的自治。
"There is no question of that sort of concern and worry that we are compromising on the rule of law, on one-country, two systems, in order to get the convenience of the high-speed rail," Carrie Lam, the chief executive of Hong Kong, the city's top official, told reporters on Tuesday.	"不应该有我们为了享受高铁的便利而破坏法治，破坏一国两制的担心和忧虑，"香港最高官员、行政长官林郑月娥(Carrie Lam)周二对记者说。
But her assertion did little to quell public doubts.	但她的表态几乎无助于缓和公众的质疑。
"Why do we need this? Hong Kong is already connected to the mainland by land, air and sea," said Claudia Mo, a Hong Kong lawmaker. "The Chinese Communists, they know Hong Kongers are not feeling very Chinese these days, and they want to further consolidate the sentiment that Hong Kong is China."	"为什么需要这个？香港已经和内地海、陆、空通航了，"香港议员毛孟静(Claudia Mo)说。"中国的共产党员，他们知道如今香港人不太觉得自己是中国人，他们想进一步加强香港就是中国这种态度。"
Ms. Mo, a member of the pro-democracy camp in Hong Kong's 70-seat Legislative Council, said there was little hope of blocking or forcing a modification of the proposal after four of her legislative allies were unseated this month. While the passage of the rail terminal plan is expected to be controversial, the government now has the legislative power to make it happen, she said.	在香港设有 70 个席位的立法会里，毛孟静属于亲民主阵营。她说，在四名立法会盟友本月被取消议员资格后，阻止或强迫修改该提议的希望渺茫。尽管该铁路总站方案的通过预计会引起争议，但她说，政府现在掌握着让这一幕成为现实的立法权。
"We've lost our veto power," she said.	"我们失去了否决权，"她说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170726/hong-kong-mainland-china-rail-terminal	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170726/hong-kong-mainland-china-rail-terminal
China and India File Rival Claims Over Tibetan Medicine	中国与印度争为藏医药传统申遗

HONG KONG — China and India have jockeyed for centuries over the Himalayas. The Chinese military invaded Tibet in 1950. India granted asylum to the Dalai Lama, the Tibetan spiritual leader, in 1959. Three years later, the two countries fought a border war. Now they are in a standoff over an area disputed by China and Bhutan, the Himalayan kingdom whose claim is supported by India.	香港——若干世纪以来，中国和印度围绕喜马拉雅山的角力从未停止。中国军队在 1950 年进驻西藏。印度在 1959 年为藏人精神领袖达赖喇嘛提供了庇护。三年后，两国在边境打了一场战争。目前，它们正因为中国与喜马拉雅山区不丹王国存在争议的一个地区僵持不下——印度支持不丹的主张。
The two countries' latest struggle is over which one will be able to formally tie the ancient practice of Tibetan medicine to its national patrimony. The prize: international cachet and the possibility of significant commercial rewards.	两国之间最新的争斗焦点是，谁可以正式把古老的藏医药传统归为本国的国家遗产。彩头为：国际声望以及获得重大商业回报的可能性。
In March, China filed paperwork asking the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization to recognize medicinal bathing, one of many practices of sowa rigpa, the Tibetan name for this type of medicine, as part of its "intangible cultural heritage." Unesco's website indicates that the request will be considered next year. India filed its own bid — for the entire sowa rigpa tradition — around the same time.	今年 3 月，中国向联合国教科文组织（United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization，简称 UNESCO）提交文件，请求其将藏医药学(sowa rigpa)的多种疗法之一藏医药浴法，认定为中国的“非物质文化遗产”。UNESCO 的官网显示，这一申请将在明年被审查。几乎同一时间，印度就整个藏医药学递交了自己的申遗文件。
"If China is applying, of course India can also apply," said Geshe Ngawang Samten, the vice chancellor of the Central University of Tibetan Studies in Sarnath, India. "This is Indian culture as well."	“如果中国正在申请，印度当然也可以申请，”印度鹿野苑西藏研究中央大学(Central University of Tibetan Studies)副校长格西·阿旺桑登(Geshe Ngawang Samten)说。“这也是印度文化。”
Tibetans who live in exile and Western anthropologists who study Tibetan medicine said that it was difficult to predict what tangible effects Unesco recognition might have on the field.	流亡藏人以及研究藏医药的西方人类学家称，很难预计 UNESCO 的认定会对这一领域产生哪些实际影响。
Recognition could be beneficial, they said, if it led to greater access to medical care for rural Tibetans, recruitment of more Tibetan medical practitioners for high-level advisory roles or laws to regulate the	他们说，如果能让乡村地区的藏人享有医疗服务的渠道得到拓展，促使更多藏医药从业者受雇成为高级顾问，或者推动药品生产监管法规的出台，那么其认定或许是有益的。 production of pharmaceuticals.

The worry, however, is that Unesco recognition could lift the industry's commercial development without addressing some of its underlying problems, such as the watering-down of traditional medicinal formulas and the over-harvesting of medicinal ingredients in the wild.	但人们担心，UNESCO 的认定也许可以促进商业开发，却不能解决该领域的一些基本问题，比如传统方剂遭到篡改和野生药材被过度采挖。
The founding text of Tibetan medicine is "for the whole world to enjoy," said Tashi Tsering Phuri, the director of the Tibetan Medical and Astro-Science Institute in Dharamsala, the Indian city that serves as the seat of the Tibetan government in exile and the residence of the Dalai Lama. "It should not be a bone of contention between two big nations."	藏医药的基本文本应该“由全世界共享”，达兰萨拉藏医历算学院(Tibetan Medical and Astro-Science Institute)院长扎西·次仁普日(ashi Tsering Phuri)说。达兰萨拉是西藏流亡政府所在地，达赖喇嘛就住在那里。“它不应该成为两个大国之间的一个争议问题。”
Sowa rigpa is practiced in China, India and neighboring countries including Bhutan, Mongolia and Nepal. The name is often translated into English as "the science of healing," and the present form of the discipline's founding text, "The Four Tantras," is attributed by many Western scholars to a 12th-century Tibetan physician, with antecedents stretching to the eighth century or earlier.	目前，应用藏医药学的有中国、印度及周边的不丹、蒙古和尼泊尔等国家。与其对应的“sowa rigpa”在英文中常被译为“the science of healing”(治愈的科学)，很多西方学者认为，该学科现存的基本文本《四部医典》(The Four Tantras)是由 12 世纪的一名藏医学家编撰而成，而其前身可追溯至 8 世纪或更早的时间。
As late as the early 1990s, there was no discernible competition between China and India to claim Tibetan medicine as cultural patrimony, Western scholars say. But about 20 years ago, they say, people began to recognize its potential commercial value.	西方学者称，直至 1990 年代初尚未看到中印两国争着宣称藏医药学是本国文化遗产的迹象。但他们说，大约 20 年前，人们开始意识到藏医药的潜在商业价值。
Stephan Kloos, a medical anthropologist at the Austrian Academy of Sciences in Vienna, said his preliminary calculations suggested that the industry's value could be approaching $1 billion. Even non-Tibetans in India were beginning to see sowa rigpa as a business opportunity, he said.	位于维也纳的奥地利科学院(Austrian Academy of Sciences)的医学人类学家斯蒂芬·克鲁斯(Stephan Kloos)说，他的初步估算结果显示，该产业的价值可能达到 10 亿美元。他说，在印度，就连非藏人也开始把藏医药视作商机。

But this same economic potential concerns experts who say the industry, which has traditionally relied on the gathering of wild plants and animals in mountainous areas, is not really built for large economies of scale.	但这种经济潜力也让一些专家感到担忧，他们说，这个传统上有赖于在山区采集野生动植物的产业，其实与大规模经济并不契合。
Sienna Radha Craig, an associate professor of anthropology at Dartmouth College and an expert on Tibetan medicine, said one possibility was that Unesco recognition could stimulate the industry's growth without the proper environmental safeguards. In India, China and Nepal, the effort to expand the industry far outstrips "serious cultivation and conservation," Ms. Craig said, adding, "At a certain point that becomes completely untenable."	达特茅斯学院(Dartmouth College)人类学副教授、藏医药问题专家西思娜·拉达·克雷格(Sienna Radha Craig)说，一种可能性是：UNESCO 的认定会促进该产业的增长，环境却没得到适当的保护。克雷格说，在印度、中国和尼泊尔，拓展该产业的努力远远超出了“认真培育和保育”的努力；她还表示，“到了一定程度，会完全难以为继。”
In 2010, India officially recognized sowa rigpa as an Indian medicinal system. India notes on a government website that while "there are various schools of thought about the origin of this medical tradition," most of its theory and practice is similar to that of ayurveda, an Indian tradition that India says first came to Tibet in the third century.	2010年，印度正式把藏医药纳入本国的医疗体系。印度在一个政府网站上指出，尽管“关于这种医药传统的起源有各种说法”，但它的大多数理论和实践与阿育吠陀的类似。印度称，阿育吠陀这种传统医学最初是在3世纪传入西藏的。
Western scholars say there are clear historical links between ayurvedic and Tibetan medical traditions. But India's recent application for Unesco recognition prompted ripostes from Chinese experts.	西方学者说，阿育吠陀医学和藏医药之间有明显的历史渊源。但印度最近向UNESCO 申遗，招致了中国专家的反击。
In April, the state-run newspaper Global Times quoted Qin Yongzhang, an ethnologist at the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences, as saying, "The truth is that Tibetan medicine not only originated but has developed in China."	今年4月，官方报纸《环球时报》引用中国社科院民族学家秦永章的话称，“事实上，藏医药不仅起源于中国，而且是在中国发展壮大的。”
China's recent Unesco application said that Tibetan hot-spring and herbal-bath therapies — known as lum medicinal bathing — were	中国最近递交给UNESCO 的申请书称，温泉浴和药浴疗法——名为藏医药浴法——是由“西藏人民开发出来的”，在中国西部的很多地方十分流行，其中

"developed by the Tibetan people" and are popular across much of western China, including the Tibet Autonomous Region.	包括西藏自治区。
A Unesco designation would raise awareness of the bathing tradition "among the Chinese population, while encouraging dialogue on health and respect for nature among different ethnic groups," the application said.	申请书称, UNESCO 如能将藏医药浴法认定为世界文化遗产, 将会增进“中国民众”对这种疗法的认识, 同时“在不同民族群体之间促进关于健康的对话以及对自然的尊重。”
Robert Thurman, a professor of Indo-Tibetan Buddhist studies at Columbia University, said that because China "forcibly" owned most of the Tibetan Plateau, an area that he said had many mineral springs, its Unesco application made some sense.	哥伦比亚大学(Columbia University)从事印-藏佛教研究的教授罗伯特·瑟曼(Robert Thurman)说, 由于中国“强行”拥有了青藏高原的大部分地区——据他说那里有很多矿泉——它向 UNESCO 递交申请是说得通的。
"But to claim that somehow China has been the origin of the tradition is, frankly, just silly," Mr. Thurman wrote in an email.	“但坦白说, 以某种方式声称中国是这种传统的发源地, 显得挺傻的,” 瑟曼在一封电子邮件中写道。
A woman who answered the phone at the office of China's Unesco commission, who would not give her name, said that the government was working on its Unesco paperwork and that all related information was confidential.	UNESCO 中国委员会办公室一名不愿透露姓名的女士接起电话后表示, 政府正忙于准备提交给 Unesco 的书面材料, 所有相关信息都属机密。
Unesco said it could not comment on files it was processing. A spokesman in Bangkok, Noel Boivin, said in an email that the agency encouraged multinational intangible cultural heritage nominations.	UNESCO 称不能就自身正在处理的文件置评。身在曼谷的 UNESCO 发言人诺埃尔·博文(Noel Boivin)在一封电子邮件中表示, 该机构鼓励多国联合进行非物质文化遗产的提名申报。
In interviews, two prominent Tibetans took a mixed view of the Unesco process and said Tibetans had no easy options to safeguard their cultural heritage.	接受采访时, 两名知名藏人对 UNESCO 的程序意见不一, 并表示藏人在保护自己的文化遗产方面没有容易的选项。
Of China's Unesco bid, Tsering Woesser, a Tibetan writer who lives in Beijing, said it was "a shame to see that Tibetan people are once again represented without our consent."	谈及中国的申请, 生活在北京的藏人作家茨仁唯色(Tsering Woesser)说, “作为藏人自己, 则又一次被代表、被代言。”

However, she said, "if you do not take advantage of funds and opportunities, Tibetan medicine, together with much of traditional Tibetan culture, will gradually disappear."	但她表示, "如果不利用当局的资金与机会, 包括藏医学在内的诸多传统文化会日益凋敝。"
Dr. Tashi Rabten, a Tibetan physician in Nyack, N.Y., said that the overall effect could be positive, regardless of which country filed the application, but only if the Unesco designation clearly recognized that the tradition belonged to Tibetans — and no one else.	纽约州尼亚克的藏医学家扎西饶登 (Tashi Rabten, 音) 博士说, 整体影响会是正面的, 不论提交申请的是哪个国家, 但前提是 UNESCO 明确认定这一传统属于藏人——而非其他任何人。
Mr. Kloos, the medical anthropologist in Vienna, said that countries where sowa rigpa was practiced should work together if their goal was to have it recognized internationally.	维也纳的医学人类学家克鲁斯说, 应用藏医药学的各个国家应该开展合作, 如果其目标是让藏医药学得到国际认可的话。
"But politics creep in," he said, "even though it should really only be about medical considerations."	"但政治潜藏其中," 他说, "尽管一切真的只应该关乎医药方面的考量。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170727/unesco-tibetan-medicine-india-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170727/unesco-tibetan-medicine-india-china
Apple Removes Apps From China Store That Help Internet Users Evade Censorship	苹果下架中国区商店 VPN 应用
HONG KONG — Software made by foreign companies to help Chinese users skirt the country's system of internet filters has vanished from Apple's app store on the mainland.	香港——在内地, 由外国公司开发、帮助中国用户避开互联网过滤系统的软件已从苹果(Apple)的应用商店消失。
One company, ExpressVPN, posted a letter it received from Apple saying that its app had been taken down "because it includes content that is illegal in China."	其中一家公司 ExpressVPN 公布了来自苹果的一封信, 信中称其应用下架是 "因为包含在中国属于非法的内容"。
Another posted a message on its official account that its app had been removed.	另一家公司在其官方账号上留言, 称其应用已被下架。
A search on Saturday showed that some of the most popular foreign	周六进行的搜索显示, 一些最受欢迎的外国虚拟专用网络, 又称 VPN, 已

virtual-private networks, also known as VPNs, which give users access to the unfiltered internet in China, were no longer accessible on Apple's app store there.	经在中国的苹果应用商店里找不到了。VPN 让用户能够在中国访问未过滤的互联网。
ExpressVPN wrote on its blog that the removal was "surprising and unfortunate."	ExpressVPN 在其博客上写道，下架一事“令人震惊和遗憾”。
It added, "We're disappointed in this development, as it represents the most drastic measure the Chinese government has taken to block the use of VPNs to date, and we are troubled to see Apple aiding China's censorship efforts."	该公司接着表示，“我们对此事感到失望，它代表着中国政府迄今为止为禁止使用 VPN 而采取的最为严厉的手段，看到苹果协助中国进行审查，我们感到不安。”
Sunday Yokubaitis, president of Golden Frog, a company that makes privacy and security software including VyprVPN, said its software, too, had been removed from the app store.	产品包括 VyprVPN 在内的隐私与安全软件开发公司 Golden Frog 的总裁森迪·约库拜提斯(Sunday Yokubaitis)说，自己公司的软件也被苹果的应用商店下架了。
"We gladly filed an amicus brief in support of Apple in their backdoor encryption battle with the F.B.I.," he said, "so we are extremely disappointed that Apple has bowed to pressure from China to remove VPN apps without citing any Chinese law or regulation that makes VPN illegal."	“在苹果因后门加密而陷入与联邦调查局(FBI)的斗争时，我们心甘情愿地提交了一份非当事人意见陈述，支持苹果，”他说。“因此，对苹果屈从于中国的压力，不给出任何规定 VPN 违法的中国法律法规便下架 VPN 应用，我们感到极度失望。”
He added, "We view access to internet in China as a human rights issue, and I would expect Apple to value human rights over profits."	他接着说，“我们视中国的互联网访问为一个人权问题，我希望苹果重视人权而非利润。”
In a statement, Apple noted that the Chinese government announced this year that all developers offering VPNs needed to obtain a government license.	在一份声明中，苹果指出，中国政府今年宣布，所有提供 VPN 的开发商均须获得政府颁发的许可证。
"We have been required to remove some VPN apps in China that do not meet the new regulations," the company said. "These apps remain available in all other markets where they do business."	“我们被要求下架中国一些不符合新规定的 VPN 应用，”苹果说。“这些应用在它们开展业务的其他所有地方依然可用。”

This is not the first time Apple has removed apps at the request of the Chinese government, but it is a reminder of how deeply beholden the tech giant has become to Beijing at a moment when the country's leadership has been pushing to tighten its control over the internet.	这不是苹果第一次在中国政府的要求下下架应用，但此事提醒外界，在中国领导人一直推动收紧对互联网的控制之际，这家科技巨头已经欠了北京多少人情。
The removals signal a new effort by China to control the internet. In the past, the country's so-called Great Firewall has used technology to disrupt VPNs, and Beijing has shut down Chinese VPNs and even aimed a huge cyberattack at a well-known foreign site hosting code that circumvented the filters.	应用下架标志着中国为控制互联网而采取的新行动。过去，该国所谓的防火长城(Great Firewall)利用技术干扰VPN。北京还关闭了中国的VPN，甚至对一家托管规避过滤系统的代码的著名外国网站，发起了一场大规模的网络攻击。
But the move by Apple is also the first example of China successfully using its influence with a major foreign tech platform to push back against the software makers.	但苹果此举也是中国成功地利用自己对一家大型外国科技平台的影响力，回击软件开发商的第一个案例。
While internet crackdowns often peak every five years, ahead of a key Chinese Communist Party congress, the efforts this year cover fresh ground, a likely indication that stricter controls of things like VPNs will persist after the congress this autumn. China also began a partial block of the Facebook-owned messaging app WhatsApp this month.	尽管通常每五年，在一个关键的中国共产党大会前夕，对互联网的打压都会达到巅峰，但今年的行动出现了新的特点。它可能预示着今年秋天的大会结束后，对VPN等更严厉的控制措施将保留。本月，中国还开始部分屏蔽Facebook旗下的即时通讯应用WhatsApp。
Greater China, which includes mainland China, Hong Kong and Taiwan, is Apple's largest market outside the United States. That has made the company more vulnerable than almost any other American technology firm to a Chinese campaign to wean the country off foreign technology and tighten control over foreign tech companies operating there.	包括内地、香港和台湾在内的大中华地区是苹果在美国之外的最大市场。这使该公司几乎比美国其他任何一家科技公司更容易受中国摆脱外国技术、收紧对于在华经营的外国科技公司控制运动的影响。
In response, Apple has taken a number of steps to ensure that it stays on Beijing's good side. Last year, the company complied with what it said was a request from the Chinese authorities to remove from its	作为回应，苹果采取了大量措施，以确保自己仍能得到北京的青睐。去年，该公司遵从它所说的中国当局的要求，把《纽约时报》开发的多款新闻应用从中国的应用商店下架。

China app store news apps created by The New York Times.
The company said this month that it would open its first data center in China to comply with a new law that pushes foreign firms to store more of their data in the country.	苹果本月表示将在中国设立首个数据中心，以符合一项新出台的法规。该法律要求外国公司把更多数据存储在中国。
Apple has operated its app store in China for many years with only occasional run-ins with the government. The VPN crackdown and Beijing's move in December to target news sites indicate that China's internet regulators have taken a deeper interest, and are exerting more control, over what is available on Apple's China app store.	苹果的应用商店进入中国已有多年，与政府发生冲突的情况偶尔才会出现。打压 VPN，连同北京去年 12 月把目标对准新闻网站的举动表明，中国的互联网监管机构加大了关注力度，并且正在加强对苹果在中国的应用商店所含产品的控制。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170730/china-apple-censorhip	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170730/china-apple-censorhip
China Shows Off Military Might, and Xi Jinping Puts Rivals on Notice	习近平阅兵展示军权，要求绝对忠诚
BEIJING — China's president, Xi Jinping, has opened a public campaign to deepen his grip on power in a coming leadership shake-up, using a huge military parade on Sunday, speeches and propaganda, along with a purge in the past week, to warn officials to back him as the nation's most powerful leader in two decades.	北京——为在即将到来的领导层大调整中加强自己对权力的控制，中国国家主席习近平已开始了一场公开的运动，他用周日的大型阅兵式、讲话和宣传，以及上周的一次清洗活动，来提醒官员支持他成为 20 年来中国最强大的领导者。
Wearing his mottled green uniform as commander in chief of the People's Liberation Army, Mr. Xi watched as 12,000 troops marched and tanks, long-range missile launchers, jet fighters and other new weapons drove or flew past in impeccable arrays.	作为中国人民解放军总指挥的习近平穿着绿色迷彩服检阅了 1.2 万名官兵的部队，观看了坦克车、远程导弹发射器、喷气式战机和其他新型武器以完美的方阵队列行驶或飞行。
Mao famously said political power comes from the barrel of a gun, and Mr. Xi signaled that he, too, was counting on the military to stay ramrod loyal while he chooses a new leading lineup to be unveiled at a Communist Party congress in the autumn.	毛泽东有句名言，枪杆子里面出政权。习近平也表示，在为在今年秋季召开的共产党代表大会上亮相的新领导阵容确定人选的时候，他需要军队保持铁杆忠诚。
"Troops across the entire military, you must be unwavering in	"全军将士们！你们要坚定不移坚持党对军队绝对领导的根本原则，"习近平

upholding the bedrock principle of absolute party leadership of the military," Mr. Xi said at the parade, held on a dusty training base in Inner Mongolia region, 270 miles northwest of Beijing. "Always obey and follow the party. Go and fight wherever the party points."	在阅兵式上说。“永远听党的话、跟党走，党指向哪里、就打到哪里。”阅兵式是在北京西北 270 英里（约合 440 公里）之外的内蒙古的一个尘土飞扬的训练基地举行的。
The ceremony was broadcast across the country.	阅兵式在全国各地的电视台进行了转播。
Officially, the display was to celebrate the 90th anniversary of the creation of the People's Liberation Army. But it was also the highlight of a week of political theater promoting Mr. Xi as a uniquely qualified politician whose elevated status as China's "core" leader, endorsed by officials last year, should be entrenched at the party congress.	按照官方的说法，这次阅兵是为了庆祝中国人民解放军建军 90 周年。但这也是一周政治表演的亮点，都是为了表明习近平是独特的政治家，他已上升为中国的“核心”领导人，这个地位去年已得到各层官员的认可，并将在党的第十九次代表大会上得到确立。
"These military parades could become a regular, institutionalized thing, but this one also has a special meaning this year," said Deng Yuwen, a former editor at a party newspaper in Beijing who writes current affairs commentaries. "It's meant to show that Xi Jinping firmly has the military in his grip, and nobody should have any illusions of challenging him."	“这些阅兵仪式可能会成为常规化、制度化的东西，但今年的这次也有其特殊的意义，”邓聿文说，他曾是北京一份党报的编辑，现在撰写时事评论。“这是为了表明军队牢牢掌握在习近平手里，任何人都不要有挑战他的妄想。”
The congress will almost certainly give Mr. Xi, 64, a second, five-year term as the party general secretary and chairman of the commission that controls the military, and it will appoint a new team to work under him.	十九大几乎肯定会让现年 64 岁的习近平连任第二个五年任期的总书记，并继续担任控制军队的军委主席，十九大还将任命一个在他手下工作的新班子。
No exact date has been fixed for the congress. An annual legislative meeting early next year will also almost certainly give Mr. Xi five more years as state president.	十九大召开的确切日期还未确定。明年早些时候召开的年度立法会议也几乎可以肯定让习近平再当五年的国家主席。
Some experts have speculated that Mr. Xi may want to retain power after those terms end, although the constitution says he cannot stay on	有些专家猜测，习近平可能会在下个任期结束后继续保留 权力，虽然中国宪法规定他不能继续担任国家主席。总书记的职位没有严格的任期限

as president. There are no firm rules for maximum terms as party general secretary.	制。
Mr. Xi has accompanied the demands for unity with a vivid warning to officials who step out of line. In the past week, he oversaw the abrupt purge of Sun Zhengcai, a one-time contender for promotion at the congress. Mr. Sun, 53, had been the party secretary of Chongqing, a city in southwest China, until his dismissal in mid-July.	习近平在要求团结的同时，也向越界的官员发出了鲜明警告。上周，在习近平的监管下，曾经被人看好能在十九大得到升迁的孙政才突然遭到清洗。今年7月中旬被解职之前，现年53岁的孙政才曾担任中国西南地区重庆市的市委书记。
The party announced last Monday that he was under investigation for violations of “discipline” – usually a euphemism for corruption – and Mr. Sun has since been pilloried in official media. Provincial leaders, including many with a shot at promotion, have called meetings to denounce Mr. Sun as a “tiger,” or corrupt senior official.	中共上周一宣布，孙政才因违反“纪律”正在接受调查，违纪通常是腐败的委婉说法，那之后，官方媒体一直在公开批评他。各省领导人、其中包括许多有望在十九大得到升迁的官员纷纷召开会议，将孙政才斥为“老虎”，意为腐败的高级官员。
“At this point, we can’t say for sure he will be the last big tiger to be brought down before the opening of the party congress,” said Prof. Ding Xueliang, a political scientist at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology who studies the Chinese Communist Party. “We don’t know, other leaders don’t know either.”	“此时此刻，我们还不能确定，他是否将是十九大召开前被打掉的最后一只大老虎，”香港科技大学政治学教授丁学良说，他专门研究中国共产党。“我们不知道，其他领导人也不知道。”
For now, Mr. Xi appears to be seeking to ensure that his second-term lineup includes younger loyalists who will defend him and his policies for years to come. Several are poised to join the Politburo, a council of 25 senior central, provincial and military leaders. Up to 11 members of the Politburo are likely to retire at the congress, including five members of the Politburo Standing Committee, a more powerful body with seven members.	就目前而言，习近平似乎在寻求确保自己第二任期的领导阵容中，有年纪较轻的忠心人士，这些人将在未来很多年中捍卫他和他的政策。有几人已经做好了进入政治局的准备，政治局是由25名中央和省军级领导人组成的理事会。政治局委员中有11名可能十九大退休，其中包括五名政治局常委，由七人组成的政治局常务委员会是一个权力更大的机构。
The negotiations over the new lineup happen in secret. But the burst of	关于新阵容安排的谈判在秘密地进行着。但是，突然爆发的宣传和警告，似

propaganda and warnings appears designed to pressure officials and retired leaders to go along with Mr. Xi's wishes over who goes up and who steps down.	乎是为了迫使官员和已经退休的领导人就范，叫他们不要挑战习近平想让什么人上台、什么人下台的愿望。
Mr. Xi is by the estimate of many observers China's most powerful leader since Deng Xiaoping, who died in 1997. While the military does not have much direct say in politics, its support is essential for Mr. Xi's long-term authority, said Professor Ding.	据不少观察家估计，习近平是自从邓小平 1997 年去世以来，中国权力最大的领导人。虽然军队在政治上没有太多直接的发言权，但丁学良说，军队的支持对习近平的长远权威来说至关重要。
"Xi Jinping has spent more time on the military than any other leader," Professor Ding said by telephone. "He knows clearly that eventually, if he wants to keep in power, if he wants to concentrate power even more, he must make sure the army is with him."	"习近平花在军队上的时间比其他任何领导人花的都多，"丁学良在电话中说。"他清楚地知道，如果他想继续掌权，如果他想比过去有更集中的权力的话，他最终必须确保军队是支持他的。"
Mr. Xi's recent predecessors as national leader, Jiang Zemin and Hu Jintao, also prepared for leadership turnovers with crescendos of propaganda. But the adulation around Mr. Xi has been strikingly worshipful. More than them, Mr. Xi has made a personal case for power.	习近平最近的前任国家领导人江泽民和胡锦涛，也曾用越来越强大的宣传攻势为领导层换届作准备。但是，对习近平的吹捧异乎寻常地充满崇敬。与这两位前任相比，习近平更多地表现出对权力的个人追求。
On Friday, Study Times, a party newspaper widely read by officials, devoted its front page to an adulatory profile of Mr. Xi that said he was blessed by his "red" upbringing with special leadership mettle. It recounted his tough maturation as the son of a veteran revolutionary who was persecuted by Mao, testing the family's loyalty to the Communist cause, and his seven years working in the dirt-poor countryside during the Cultural Revolution.	周五，在官员中有大量读者的党刊《学习时报》在其头版上发表了一篇介绍习近平的颂扬文章，文章说习近平的"红色"家庭让他从小受到革命传统教育，让他具有领导人所需的特殊毅力。文章回顾了习近平作为一个受毛泽东迫害的老革命家的儿子艰苦成长的过程，那段经历检验了习家人对共产主义事业的忠诚，文章还提到习近平在文革期间在赤贫的农村地区工作了七年。
The profile has been widely promoted by party newspapers and websites, and its anonymous author was described as "special commentator," a title usually used for articles with high-level	这篇文章被中共报纸和网站大力推广，文章的匿名作者被冠以"特约评论员"的名称，这种名称通常意味着文章得到了最高层的支持。 endorsement.

"I never saw anything like this for Jiang Zemin or Hu Jintao," said Mr. Deng, the former editor, who used to work for The Study Times. "They didn't get this treatment."	"我从来没有看到过关于江泽民或胡锦涛的类似文章，"《学习时报》前编辑邓聿文说。"他们没有得到过类似对待。"
Mr. Xi, "grew up with an inheritance of red genes, was tempered by harsh setbacks and suffering, and has steeled himself in complicated international struggle," said the profile, referring to his revolutionary background and career.	习近平"是在红色基因传承中成长起来的，是在艰难曲折困境中磨砺出来的，是在复杂国际斗争中历练起来的，"介绍文章在提到他的革命背景和职业生涯时这样写道。
"The lion of the east has woken," it said, referring to China. "But it faces tremendous risks of being surrounded by tigers and wolves and suffering even more intense strategic encirclement, clashes and meddling."	"'东方睡狮'已经醒来，"文章说，它指的是中国。"但也面临虎狼围猎的巨大风险，遇到的战略围堵、战略冲撞、战略干扰更加尖锐激烈。"
The profile also said Mr. Xi personally pushed through difficult and contentious policy changes in his first five years in power, including building artificial islands fitted with military installations in the disputed South China Sea.	文章还说，习近平在担任领导人的第一个五年中，亲自推动了棘手和可能引起争论的政策制定，包括在有争议的南海修建配有军事设施的人工岛屿。
"In the South China Sea, he personally decided on building islands and consolidating reefs," said the profile. Mr. Xi had, it said, "built a robust strategic base for ultimately prevailing in the struggle to defend the South China Sea, and has in effect constructed a Great Wall at sea."	"在南海问题上，(他)亲自决策造岛固礁，"介绍文章说，还说，习近平"为最终赢得南海维权斗争胜利打造了一个牢靠的战略基地，等于筑起了一座海上长城。"
Mr. Xi's power has already unsettled critics, including some inside the party, who worry that he has destabilized norms of collective leadership that can slow decision-making but also prevent dangerous overreach.	习近平的权力已经让批评者、包括一些党内人士不安，他们担心他已经破坏了集体领导的规范，集体领导会减缓决策的速度，但也能防止权力过度扩张的危险。
"This over-concentration of authority can really get you in trouble," Susan L. Shirk, a former State Department deputy assistant secretary for	"权力的过度集中真能把人带入困境，"美国国务院前中国政策事务副助理国务卿谢淑丽(Susan L. Shirk)在阅兵式前接受采访时说。"我尤其关注外交和安

China policy, said in an interview before the parade. "I especially think about foreign and security policy."	全政策方面。"
As well as endorsing a new leadership, the congress will endorse a report laying out, in the dry jargon of party documents, Mr. Xi's broad goals for his next five years. He told senior officials at the two-day meeting that ended on Thursday that the report should treat China's next few years as a time of great risk.	十九大除了认可新领导层外，还将会批准一份报告，报告将用党内文件的枯燥语言展示习近平在自己未来五年中的广泛目标。他在周四结束、为期两天的会议上对高级官员说，报告应该把中国未来几年当作一个有很大危险的时期来对待。
"Look to the developments that are bring us risks," he told the officials, according to a report in People's Daily, the official party paper. "Be ready for the worst, and make the fullest preparations for that, while working toward a good outcome and striving for the best."	"看到形势发展变化给我们带来的风险，"据党报《人民日报》发表的报道，习近平对官员这样说。"从最坏处着眼，做最充分的准备，朝好的方向努力，争取最好的结果。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170731/china-military-parade-xi-jinping	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170731/china-military-parade-xi-jinping
In China, Designer Goods Delivered to Your Doorstep	在中国，买奢侈品也能在线下单、送货上门
BEIJING — In China, legions of delivery personnel power the world's largest e-commerce boom. Known for their careening three-wheeled carts, they terrorize pedestrians and sometimes dump their packages on doorsteps and desks with the delicacy of a restaurant employee tossing out yesterday's leftovers.	北京——在中国，快递员大军带动了世界最大的电子商务繁荣。他们以自己的三轮车而出名，令行人心生恐惧。有时，他们会用餐厅员工倾倒前一天的剩饭剩菜那样的随意性，把包裹扔在门口或桌子上。
Then there is Tang Hongliang, who is part of an ambitious effort to bring some sparkle to the business — and perhaps help revive the fortunes of the world's makers of high-priced handbags and watches.	唐洪亮（音）不一样。他是一个雄心勃勃的项目的一部分。这个项目意在恢复全球高价手提包和手表制造商的光芒——或许还有财富。
Decked out in a black suit, dark gray tie and white gloves, Mr. Tang does not look like a typical Chinese package courier. Instead of piping hot noodle lunches, he delivers a $2,400 designer handbag. Rather than a	一身黑西装、深灰领带和白手套的打扮，让唐洪亮看上去不像典型的中国快递员。他送的不是热气腾腾的午餐面食，而是一个2400美元（约合1.6万元人民币）的名牌手提包。他用来运输昂贵货物的工具也不是三轮车，而是

three-wheeler, he drives an electric car to transport expensive cargo. In the time he makes one or two deliveries, the typical Chinese courier would have made about 150.	一辆电动汽车。他用于投递一单或两单货物的时间，中国普通快递员可投递约 150 单货物。
"Efficiency is of course important," said Mr. Tang, who works for the online retailer JD.com. "But serving the customer is the most important."	"效率固然重要，"供职于网络零售商京东的唐洪亮说。"但服务顾客最重要。"
Facing slowing sales, global luxury brands are angling for a piece of China's e-commerce market, where people are accustomed to buying gadgets and groceries, but not high-priced jewelry and haute couture. Many are unsure, however, about diving headfirst into online retail, because China's favorite way to shop is also an industry better known for piracy and dusty deliverymen than for shine and polish.	面对销售放缓，全球奢侈品牌正在做出准备，想在中国电商市场分一杯羹。在中国的电商市场上，人们习惯购买小物件和食品杂货，而不是昂贵的珠宝和高级时装。很多人对一头扎进网络零售没有把握，因为中国最喜欢的购物方式，也是一个更多地以盗版和风尘仆仆的快递员而非精致和优雅而闻名的行业。
To court the luxury market, companies like Alibaba and JD.com are using their vast customer base to offer upscale retailers support on issues like digital marketing, pricing, customer services and, in the case of Mr. Tang, delivery.	为了向奢侈品市场示好，阿里巴巴和京东等公司正在利用自己庞大的消费者基础，在数字营销、定价、客户服务，以及以唐洪亮为例的快递等问题上为高端零售商提供支持。
"The most difficult thing to overcome is the experience for the shoppers," said Xia Ding, president of JD.com's fashion division. "But because we own the logistics we are really able to deliver luxury goods in a way that makes shoppers feel like they are getting the same special experience as they get offline."	"最难克服的是消费者的体验，"京东大服饰事业部总裁丁霞说。"但因为我们有自己的物流，所以真的能够做到用送货方式让消费者觉得他们得到的是和线下购物时一样的特殊体验。"
Chinese shoppers have long dominated the global luxury market. In the last two years, a continuing anticorruption campaign and an economic slowdown led to a decline in Chinese demand for luxury, contributing to an overall global slump. Still, last year Chinese shoppers accounted	中国消费者长期主导全球奢侈品市场。过去两年里，仍在继续的反腐运动和经济放缓导致中国对奢侈品的需求降低。这是全球奢侈品市场总体衰退的原因之一。但贝恩咨询公司(Bain & Company)的一份报告显示，去年，中国消费者仍贡献了全球奢侈品采购的 30%。

for 30 percent of global luxury purchases, according to a report by Bain & Company.
Until recently, however, many Chinese luxury purchases were being made overseas or through daigou – personal shoppers who buy goods abroad and bring them into China, avoiding the country’s hefty taxes. That started to change two years ago when, in an effort to combat gray-market sales, a number of high-end luxury brands led by Chanel took steps to reduce the price gap between goods in China and overseas.	然而，直到最近，中国的很多奢侈品购买都是在海外或是通过代购——采购人员在国外购买商品并带回国，免去了中国的重税——进行的。两年前，当以香奈儿(Chanel)为首的很多高端奢侈品牌为了打击灰色市场销售而采取措施，缩小中国和海外的商品价格差异时，这种情况开始改变。
At about the same time, the Chinese government also stepped up efforts to crack down on daigou shoppers, increasing checks at airports and lowering duties on some luxury goods imported through official channels.	大约在同一时间，中国政府也加大了对代购的打击力度，加强了在机场的检查，并降低了通过官方渠道进口的一些奢侈品的关税。
As a result, brands have seen a shift in luxury shopping habits, with more and more Chinese consumers now choosing to buy at home rather than abroad. This so-called reshoring has caught the attention of Chinese e-commerce companies, causing major players like Alibaba and JD.com, as well as smaller luxury-focused companies like Secoo and Xiu, to invest aggressively in the luxury sphere.	因此，品牌发现，奢侈品购买习惯发生了改变。越来越多的中国消费者现在选择在国内而不是国外购买。这种所谓的回岸引起了中国电商公司的注意，促使阿里巴巴和京东等主要企业，以及专注于奢侈品的寺库网和走秀网等较小的公司大举投资奢侈品领域。
“Mass market brands already know that there is no choice but to be on these e-commerce platforms,” said Liz Flora of L2, a market research company based in New York. “So luxury is really the next frontier for these e-tailers. You can see the competition getting more and more fierce.”	“大众市场品牌已经知道，除了加入这些电商平台外别无选择，”总部设在纽约的市场调研公司 L2 的利兹·弗洛拉(Liz Flora)说。“因此，奢侈品真的是这些网络零售商的下一个处女地。你能看到竞争越来越激烈。”
In addition to starting the white-glove delivery service, JD.com	除了开始提供高端送货服务外，京东上月还宣布了向总部设在伦敦的奢侈品

announced a deal last month to invest $397 million in the luxury e-commerce platform Farfetch, which is based in London. Both Alibaba and JD.com are considering rolling out separate platforms focused exclusively on luxury in the coming months, executives from the companies said in interviews.	电商平台 Farfetch 投资 3.97 亿美元的交易。阿里巴巴和京东的高管在接受采访时表示，两家公司都在考虑在未来几个月推出专门针对奢侈品的平台。
But so far, China's e-commerce companies have struggled to persuade top international luxury brands to sell on their platforms. Luxury companies have long been concerned that with e-commerce, it would be impossible to replicate the gilded, perfectly curated in-store shopping experience. Brands also worry about their products being sold next to counterfeit and gray-market items — an issue that Alibaba in particular has struggled with in the past.	但是到目前为止，中国的电子商务公司仍然很难说服国际顶级奢侈品牌在自己的平台上销售。奢侈品公司一直对电子商务怀有顾虑，认为它不可能取代金碧辉煌、精心布置的实体店购物体验。奢侈品牌还担心自己的产品和假冒商品以及灰市商品放在一起销售——这是此前令阿里巴巴格外头疼的一个问题。
Still, there is no ignoring the reality that Chinese consumers love shopping online. Chinese shoppers spent $758 billion online last year — more than the United States and Britain combined, according to official data, buying everything from toilet paper to luxury cars.	不过，一个不容忽视的事实是，中国消费者非常喜欢网购。根据官方数据，去年，中国消费者在网上花费了 7580 亿美元，比美国和英国的总和还多，他们从网上购买各种东西，从卫生纸到奢侈品牌汽车。
"The brands are finally starting to intellectualize the fact that to succeed in China, they need to go online," said Alexis Bonhomme, co-founder of CuriosityChina, a Beijing-based digital marketing and tech company that works with luxury brands. "The bottom line is they need new revenue channels and e-commerce is a real revenue channel."	"那些品牌最终开始理性对待这个事实：要想在中国取得成功，他们需要上网，"与奢侈品牌合作的数字市场营销和技术公司奇智睿思的联合创始人博远(Alexis Bonhomme)说。"最重要的是，他们需要新的营收渠道，而电子商务是一个真正的营收渠道。"
Some brands have already made the leap. Burberry in particular has led the push into e-commerce in China, opening a flagship store on Alibaba's Tmall platform. Others, like the Hong Kong jeweler Chow Tai Fook and the Swiss watch brand Tag Heuer, have stores on JD.com.	有些品牌已经取得了飞跃。尤其是博柏利(Burberry)，它是进军中国电子商务市场的领导者，在阿里巴巴的天猫平台上开设了一个旗舰店。另外，香港珠宝公司周大福和瑞士手表品牌泰格豪雅(Tag Heuer)等品牌在京东开设了店铺。

To appeal to brands, e-commerce companies offer to increase efforts to crack down on counterfeits.	为了吸引品牌，电子商务公司主动加大打击假冒商品的力度。
"One of our goals was to clean up the e-commerce market so we could ensure that anyone who bought online was buying a real Tag Heuer," said Leo Poon, general manager of Tag Heuer in greater China. "So far it's been working and we're seeing sales picking up."	"我们的一个目标是清理电子商务市场，确保大家在网上买到的都是真正的泰格豪雅，"泰格豪雅大中华区总经理潘锦基(Leo Poon)说。"到目前为止，这起作用了，销量在上升。"
But for more high-end luxury brands, increasing the anti-counterfeit effort is not enough.	不过，对更高端的奢侈品牌来说，只是加大打击假冒商品的力度还不够。
"Luxury brands are control freaks," Mr. Bonhomme of CuriosityChina said. "They want complete control over everything."	"奢侈品牌是控制狂，"奇智睿思的博远说。"他们想对一切拥有绝对的控制。"
For now, some luxury brands are opting to create their own e-commerce websites to sell directly to consumers. Many, like Cartier and Bulgari, have also begun partnerships with Tencent's popular WeChat mobile messaging service to create online stores, flash sales, and marketing campaigns featuring major Chinese influencers.	有些奢侈品牌目前选择创立自己的电子商务网站，直接向消费者销售。卡地亚(Cartier)和宝格丽(Bulgari)等很多品牌也开始与腾讯的热门手机即时通讯平台微信合作，设立网店，推出限时抢购活动，寻找在中国具有影响力的人进行广告代言。
Ultimately, e-commerce giants like Alibaba and JD.com are hoping that the allure of their vast consumer base will be too difficult for luxury brands to resist. Shiny add-on features like the white-glove delivery service may make swallowing the e-commerce pill a little easier for the brands.	阿里巴巴和京东等电子商务巨头期望自己庞大的消费群体最终会成为令奢侈品牌难以拒绝的诱惑。白手套快递等精致的附加服务也许会让奢侈品牌更容易接受电子商务。
On a recent morning, Mr. Tang, the courier, pulled out of a JD.com warehouse on the outskirts of Beijing with a single delivery box in tow. Three-wheeled delivery carts whizzed past as he drove calmly toward the city's central business district.	前不久的一个上午，快递员唐洪亮从北京郊区的一个京东仓库出来，他只带了一个快递箱。三轮快递车从他身边呼啸而过，他却从容地开着车前往北京的中央商务区。
After waiting for the customer for nearly two hours, Mr. Tang stepped	在等了客户近两个小时后，唐洪亮从车里出来，戴上他标志性的白手套，去

out of the car, pulled on his signature gloves and headed out to deliver the package.	送快递。
"Wow, I wasn't expecting this service at all," Yan Luxia, 30, said as she received the box and took out a designer Italian leather handbag.	"哇,我完全没想到还有这样的服务,"30岁的闫露霞(音)说。她接过箱子,取出一个意大利名牌皮革手袋。
Ms. Yan, who manages a dating service in Beijing, later said the premium delivery service had been a very "satisfying" experience.	闫女士是北京一家婚介交友公司的经理,后来她说,高端快递服务的体验令她非常"满意"。
"But to be honest," she added, "consumers care more about the authenticity of the product."	"不过,坦白地说,"她又说,"顾客更关心产品是不是真的。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170731/china-online-shopping-ecommerce-luxury-jd	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170731/china-online-shopping-ecommerce-luxury-jd
The Lonely Crusade of China's Human Rights Lawyers	中国人权律师的孤独战斗(一):"活在真理中"
Liang Xiaojun had just finished breakfast when he received the first instant message: His friends were disappearing from their homes and offices. By itself, this news was unremarkable. As a human rights lawyer in China, Liang had come to accept that periodic spasms of repression were an unavoidable risk of his profession. He also had grown intimately familiar with the rituals of pressure and coercion by which China kept its dissidents in line — the meetings over tea with government minders, the frequent check-ins from the judicial bureau, the police harassment. But on the morning of July 10, 2015, Liang knew that something far graver was underway.	梁小军刚吃完早饭就收到了头一条即时讯息:他的朋友们正从家中和办公室里消失。这则消息本身并没有特别之处。作为中国的一名人权律师,梁小军不得不接受现实:时不时地遭遇一阵打压,是从事这个职业的人无法回避的风险。他还逐渐熟悉了中国为了管控异见者而经常采取的施压和胁迫手段:让他们和来自政府的监管人一起"喝茶",频繁被司法人员造访,遭受警方的骚扰。但2015年7月10日早上,梁小军知道,严重得多的事情正在发生。
A disturbing event from the previous day, he now realized, had been merely a prelude. That morning, he awoke to startling news from a prominent rights lawyer named Wang Yu. After dropping her husband and son off at the airport for a red-eye flight, Wang returned to her	他现在意识到,前一天那令人不安的事件,其实只不过是前奏。那天早上,他刚睁开眼,就有一个令人震惊的消息从知名人权律师王宇那里传来。去机场送丈夫和儿子坐上一趟红眼航班后,王宇返回自己的公寓,发现家里断电、断网。凌晨时分,她群发了一条狂乱的讯息,描绘了几个男人试图闯进她家

apartment to find that the power and internet had been cut. In the early-morning hours, she sent out a frantic group message, describing how several men were trying to break in. Wang then dropped out of contact. That day, Liang and his colleagues in the human rights community circulated a petition, calling on the government to release her swiftly and without harm. But, he told me, "we didn't think a lot about it. These things happen. We worried about her, but not about ourselves."	的情形。王宇随后就联系不上了。那天，梁小军和他在维权界的同仁联署了一份请愿书，呼吁政府迅速释放王宇，不要伤害她。但他告诉我，“我们对此没有想太多。这种事时常发生。我们担心的是她，而不是我们自己。”
The petition was published online the next morning, just as Liang's phone was flooded with a new wave of panicked messages. The arrests began around 7:30 a.m., when three men snatched a prominent lawyer from a hotel on the edge of Beijing, rushing him through the lobby with a thick black hood over his head. Simultaneously, police officers raided Fengrui Law Firm, a legal nerve center of China's human rights community. Staff members scrambled to spread the news on messaging apps, then dropped abruptly out of contact as officers stormed through the building.	第二天早上，请愿书公布到了网上，梁小军的手机被新一波恐慌的消息淹没。逮捕从早上7点半左右开始，三名男子在北京边缘地带的一家酒店抓住一名著名律师，往他头上扣了一个黑色的厚头罩，押着他匆忙走过大堂。与此同时，警察对中国人权界的法律枢纽锋锐律所进行了突击搜查。工作人员匆忙地在即时通讯应用上散布了这个消息。在警察冲进大楼之后，他们突然失联。
Liang went to work, trying to pretend that it was a normal day even as desperate messages continued to spread across China — "Flee at once," one of them read. By late afternoon, nearly 60 lawyers were either detained or unreachable. Accounts of ransacked law offices, of friends and colleagues in handcuffs and hoods, circulated online. Alone in his small office in western Beijing, Liang watched his cellphone rumble to life with each bleak new update. One by one, his colleagues were vanishing.	梁小军依然去上班，努力假装这是寻常的一天，尽管令人绝望的消息继续在中国散布开来。其中一条写道，“赶紧逃。”到下午晚些时候，近60名律师被拘留或失联。关于被突查的律所、被带上手铐和头罩的朋友和同事的消息在网上散布开来。梁小军独自坐在北京西部自己不大的办公室里，看着手机不停传来灰暗的新消息。他的同行们在一个个消失。

The sense of siege was compounded by a near-total communications blackout. Just as the raids began that morning, Telegram, a messaging app popular with rights activists in China, went offline. Service remained down throughout the day, a result of a sustained cyberattack targeting the company's servers. The culprits were unknown, the company said, but the attack had been "coordinated from East Asia."	几乎密不透风的通讯管制加重了身陷重围的感觉。就在那天早上抓捕开始时，在中国人权活动人士中流行的即时通讯应用程序 Telegram 也断线了。它的服务一整天都没有恢复，那是因为该公司的服务器遭到了持续的网络攻击。该公司表示，不知道是什么人干的，不过袭击来自“东亚”。
Not wanting to alarm his wife, Liang waited until he returned home that evening to tell her what was happening. Then he began to prepare. He took a shower, tidied up his room and hugged his wife and young son. Around 10 p.m., his cellphone rang. It was the police, instructing him to come immediately to a nearby cafe. "I told my wife and son that I would be back soon, it's just a talk," he told me. But privately, he knew the truth: They had finally come for him.	梁小军不想吓到妻子，晚上回家后才告诉她发生了什么。然后他开始做准备。他洗了个澡，整理好自己的房间，拥抱了妻子和年幼的儿子。大约晚上 10 点，他的手机响了。是警察打来的，命令他立刻到附近的一家咖啡馆。“我告诉妻子和儿子，我很快就回来，只是找我谈话，”他对我说。但他心底里知道实情：他们终于来抓他了。
Life has never been easy for China's criminal defense lawyers. Until 1979, the People's Republic operated with virtually no criminal-justice system whatsoever: The Communist Party organized Soviet-style police and people's courts to address petty crimes and local disputes, but their primary responsibility was to enforce absolute loyalty to the party. Even the Constitution, the ostensible basis of the law, was rudimentary at best, and served mainly to outline the means of "socialist industrialization and socialist transformation" in order to abolish "systems of exploitation." The near-constant churn of intraparty purges, revolutionary campaigns and political mobilizations rendered law an afterthought at best and a tool of the bourgeois antirevolutionaries at worst.	对中国的刑事辩护律师来说，生活从来都不容易。在 1979 年之前，中华人民共和国基本上没有任何刑事司法系统：共产党组织了苏联式的警察和人民法庭，处理相对无足轻重的犯罪行为和地方纠纷，不过它们的主要职责是确保对党的绝对忠诚。甚至连名义上的法律体系根基宪法也只能算是不甚成熟，这还是从好的一面看去。其主要目的是为了确定“社会主义工业化和社会主义改造”的方式，取缔“剥削制度”。几乎不停歇的党内清洗、革命运动和政治动员在最好的情况下让法律变得无足轻重，在糟糕的情况下法律则成了资本主义反革命分子的工具。

The economic reforms of the late 1970s brought legal reform along with them. The legal profession and the criminal-justice system were built from scratch — Mao had purged and destroyed the nascent community of lawyers in one of his ideological campaigns — but there was trouble from the start. These new courts were envisioned not as independent arbiters but as the “knife handle of the proletarian dictatorship,” according to Sida Liu, a professor at the University of Toronto who studies law and society in China. Defense lawyers were often treated like criminals themselves, harassed and imprisoned for fulfilling the basic duties of their profession. Between 1997 and 2001, at least 143 lawyers were arrested, detained or beaten in China for working on criminal cases, according to the Chinese bar association. The threat of punishment — or the allure of a comfortable job at a government-friendly firm — persuaded many lawyers to avoid criminal cases altogether, or to simply accommodate the whims of the authorities.	1970年代末的经济改革带来了司法改革。毛泽东此前在他的一场意识形态运动中清洗和摧毁了新生的律师界。法律专业和刑事司法系统从零建起，但自打一开始就存在问题。多伦多大学(University of Toronto)研究中国社会的法律问题的教授刘思达说，按照设想，这些新法院并不独立于当权者，而是“无产阶级专政的刀把子”。辩护律师常常像罪犯一样被对待，还会因为履行自己的基本职责而被骚扰和监禁。来自中国律师协会的信息显示，1997至2011年间，在中国至少有143名律师因为代理刑事案件而被逮捕、拘留或殴打。遭受惩罚的威胁——或者在一家对政府很友好的律所做一份舒服差事的诱惑——促使许多律师根本就不接刑事案件，或者只是去迎合当局随便什么想法。
By the early 2000s, the Chinese leadership under Jiang Zemin was taking a relatively soft approach to ideological conformity — in part because the country was petitioning for membership in the World Trade Organization, which required American approval at a time when United States officials were pressing China on its domestic policies. A new generation of Chinese lawyers was also entering the profession, students who “would read about constitutionalism, would read about liberal values,” says Eva Pils, a reader in transnational law at King’s College, London. “Students in those days were really studying the	到2000年代初，江泽民带领下的中国领导层开始在统一意识形态方面采取相对温和的态度——这在某种程度上是因为中国正申请加入世界贸易组织(World Trade Organization)，需要获得美国的首肯，而当时，美国正就中国国内的政策向其施压。新一代中国律师也开始进入法律界，科班出身的他们“会读到关于宪政、关于自由主义价值观的东西”，伦敦国王学院(King's College)研究国际法的学者艾华(Eva Pils)说。“那时候的学生对美国宪法的研究真的和对中国宪法的研究一样多，他们竭力思考让宪法发挥效力的方法——想要给它注入生机与活力。”法律界内部的讨论浮出水面：在法律得不到尊重的社会，从业的律师是否应该循法律途径解决问题？面对自身权利和保

American Constitution as much as the Chinese one, and trying to think about ways of giving effect to the Constitution — to revitalize and breathe life into it.” A debate within the profession bubbled to the surface: Should lawyers operating in an illegal society follow the law? Faced with the slow strangulation of their rights and protections, some lawyers concluded that in an unjust system, extralegal methods — open letters, micro-blogs, protests and public advocacy — were the only way to uphold the true principles of the law.	障慢慢被绞杀的情况，一些律师得出结论，在一个不公正的系统里，只有诉诸法外途径——公开信、微博、抗议、公共宣传活动——真正的法律原则才能得到遵守。
Liang was making his name just as this newer, more radical movement of “rights protection lawyers,” weiquan lushi, was finding its voice. At first, the network was informal and uncoordinated; it grew through referrals, word of mouth and personal connections. From a core group of fewer than 20 people in the early 2000s, the movement expanded swiftly: By 2015, there were hundreds of lawyers practicing human rights law or engaged in online social groups. They were a fraction of a fraction — as of January 2017, China had 300,000 lawyers — but the rights lawyers were zealous, outspoken and willing to challenge the government in ways their predecessors would not have dared.	梁小军成名之际，也是这一更新、更激进的“维权律师”运动找到独特的发声方式之时。起初，这是一个不太注重协调配合的非正式网络；其成长靠的是推介、口碑和人脉。该网络在 2000 年代初不足 20 人的核心群体基础上迅速扩张：到 2015 年，已有数以百计的律师从事人权法方面的工作，或加入在线社会团体。他们的人数微不足道——截至 2017 年 1 月，中国共有 30 万名律师——但人权律师充满热诚、大胆敢言，也不惮以前辈们不敢采取的方式向政府发起挑战。
The movement scored notable victories. Rights lawyers helped draw national media attention to scandals involving tainted milk and vaccines, illegal land seizures and police brutality. But pragmatism was never their primary aim. To the new generation of lawyers, rights-defending was “a strict moral obligation toward the victims of abuses, as well as toward human society and toward oneself,” Pils wrote in a legal journal in 2006. Compromise was neither tenable nor	该运动取得了一些令人瞩目的胜利。人权律师帮助吸引了全国上下的媒体对毒牛奶、被污染的疫苗、非法征地、警察暴行等丑闻的关注。不过务实从来不是他们首先考虑的事情。在新一代律师看来，捍卫人权是“对被侵权者，以及人类社会乃至他们自己的一种严格的道德义务，”艾华 2006 年在一本法律期刊上写道。妥协既不现实，也不可取。在这个很多政治和社会议题都属禁忌，就连某些种类的思想都被禁止的国度里，人权律师的崛起是一种不稳固但却给人以希望的进展。“大家内心生发出一种使命感，”艾华说。“说起来

desirable. In a country where many political and social issues are taboo, and even certain kinds of thought are forbidden, the rise of rights lawyers was a precarious but hopeful development. "People developed a sense of purpose," Pils says. "It's a terribly hackneyed term, but there's a sense of being empowered, of agency." It was the allure, Pils says, of "living in truth."	可能很老套，但的确存有一种变得强大和自主之感。“那是“活在真理中”的诱惑，艾华说。
But success eventually invited repression. The activities of rights lawyers inside and outside the courtroom "made them doubly obnoxious to the regime," says Jerome Cohen, director of New York University's U.S.-Asia Law Institute. In August 2013, an internal party memo was leaked online. It listed "seven unmentionables" that the party sought to stamp out. Among them was "Western constitutional democracy," which included "independent judiciaries" and "universal values" like "human rights."	但成功最终招致了打压。人权律师在法庭内外的活动“让当权者对他们倍感厌恶”，纽约大学(New York University)美国—亚洲法律研究所(U.S.-Asia Law Institute)所长孔杰荣(Jerome Cohen)说。2013年8月，一份党内备忘录在网上被泄露。备忘录列出了“七不讲”，其中包括西方宪政，及其组成部分：“司法独立”、“普世价值”、“公民权利”。其所涉及的都是共产党寻求遏制的东西。
At the same time, the Chinese leadership under Xi Jinping began to place a new emphasis on "rule of law." During the Chinese Communist Party's 18th Congress, in October 2014, the leadership devoted an entire plenary session to discussing and passing an ambitious slate of legal reforms. The participants declared that "the country should be ruled in line with the Constitution," a constantly revised and modified document, which in its newest iteration guarantees such rights as freedom of speech, of the press, of assembly and of religious belief and, since 2004, "human rights." The session followed similarly spirited exhortations by Chinese judges, diplomats and bureaucrats. Across every sphere of government activity, "rule of law" has become the	与此同时，习近平带领下的中国领导层开始对“法治”予以新的重视。2014年10月中共十八届四中全会期间，领导层专题讨论并通过了一份关于司法改革的雄心勃勃的公报。参会者宣布，“要坚持依宪执政”——中国的宪法是一份不断被修正和修改的文件，受其最新版本保障的有言论自由、出版自由、集会自由、宗教信仰自由等权利，“人权”在2004年首次入宪。这次会议之后，中国的法官、外交官和官僚们纷纷高喊同样慷慨激昂的口号。在几乎每一个政府活动领域，“法治”都被大谈特谈。但在实践中，“法治”其实等同于“党治”。

phrase du jour. But in practice, “rule of law” has simply meant “rule of the party.”
The government’s rhetorical shift came as the world was recalibrating its relationship with China and its conception of human rights. During his time in office, President Barack Obama de-emphasized human rights in the United States-China bilateral relationship; instead, he sought to cultivate China as a partner on issues like trade, climate change and North Korea. In meetings with President Xi, Obama claimed “frank” discussions of the countries’ divergent views on human rights, but he refrained from pressuring Beijing over its detention of political dissidents and human rights activists. The fate of Liu Xiaobo, a fellow Nobel Peace Prize laureate who was imprisoned by the Chinese government on charges of “inciting subversion of state power” for his role in writing a pro-democracy manifesto, went largely unmentioned in Obama’s public comments. (Liu died earlier this month, from complications of liver cancer, while in government custody.) On the campaign trail and in office, President Trump has made explicit his predecessor’s shift: Today, China is too important and too rich to risk antagonizing over human rights issues. “I believe he is trying very hard,” Trump said of Xi, after the leaders met in April. “He certainly doesn’t want to see turmoil and death. He doesn’t want to see it. He is a good man. He is a very good man.”	中国政府措辞上的转变，发生在世界其他地方重新校准与该国的关系及其关于人权的概念之时。贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)担任总统期间，淡化了人权问题在美中关系中的角色；他寻求针对贸易、气候变化、朝鲜等议题，把中国培养成美国的伙伴。奥巴马声称他与习近平会晤时“坦率”地讨论了两国在人权方面的观点分歧，但他不愿意就政治异见人士和活动人士被拘事宜向北京方面施压。对于同为诺贝尔和平奖获得者，因为参与撰写一份亲民主宣言而被中国政府以“煽动颠覆国家政权罪”收监的刘晓波的命运，奥巴马基本没在公开发言中提到过。（本月早些时候，处于政府监护之下的刘晓波因肝癌并发症逝世。）这种路线的转变在特朗普总统竞选期间及上任后得到了明确的彰显：现今，中国太重要，也太富有，我们不能冒因为人权问题而惹怒它的风险。特朗普提及习近平时曾说：“我相信他非常尽力。他当然不希望看到动乱和死亡。他不希望看到那样的结局。他是好人，是个很好的人。”
The last five years have brought severe setbacks for China’s lawyers — especially those who work on the rule of law. Sida Liu, the Toronto professor, has called this divergence the “dual-state model.” “They use	过去五年让中国的律师，尤其是那些致力于法治工作的律师，遭遇了严重的挫折。身在多伦多的刘思达教授，把这种差异称为“双态模式”。“他们用一个体系处理普通的法律案件，用另一个严酷得多的体系处理敏感案件，”刘思

one system for ordinary legal cases and use another, much harsher system for sensitive cases," Liu told me. "They draw a line between the acceptable and the unacceptable." When that line is crossed, "they can do anything to you."	达告诉我。“他们在可接受和不可接受的事项之间划了一条线。”如果你越过那条线，“他们会不择手段。”
Liang was initially drawn into the profession more by circumstance than by conviction. The son of a People's Liberation Army officer and a manager at a library, Liang grew up in a comfortable middle-class household where the party's dictates were treated as gospel. He drifted into commercial law but struggled with the work. "It was not what I wanted," he says. "I felt to be a lawyer sometimes you have to speak against your will." His turning point came in 2008, when he defended a man from Xinjiang, the restive Muslim-majority autonomous region in China's far west. His client was accused of "splittism" and, eventually, of providing state secrets to foreigners. In reality, Liang believed, the man was imprisoned for converting to Christianity. A friend of Liang's took the case initially, but the police refused to allow him to meet his client; frustrated, the friend asked Liang if he could help. "I said, 'Yes, I can,'" Liang told me.	最初促使梁小军做这一行的是境遇而非信念。作为一个解放军军官和图书馆管理者的儿子，梁小军从小生活在一个优渥的中产阶级家庭里，党的命令被奉为圭臬。他稀里糊涂地开始从事商业法业务，但工作让他很痛苦。“那不是我想要的，”他说。“我感觉作为一名律师，有时候你必须说一些违心的话。”他的转折点出现在2008年，当时他给一个来自新疆的人做了辩护，那是中国西部一个穆斯林占据人口多数、局势较为动荡的自治区。他的客户被控从事“分裂”活动，最后还被指控向外国人提供国家机密。而事实上，梁小军相信那个人是因为皈依基督教而被关押的。案子一开始是由梁的一个朋友接手，但警察拒绝让他见自己的客户；这位朋友无奈之下请梁小军帮忙。“我说，‘好的，我可以’，”梁对我说。
When I met Liang for the first time, on a late-February day last year, I pressed him to explain this decision. The case proved to be his first step onto a potentially dangerous path of confrontation with the Chinese state. Why had he done it? We were sitting in Liang's modest, unadorned office, drinking tea, and as I spoke he cocked his head in apparent puzzlement. "I feel I must," he told me. "People's rights have been destroyed. Many times they have been tortured. Their families are	去年二月底第一次见到梁小军时，我追问他的这个决定。后来我们知道，那宗案子是他走上与中国政府对抗的危险之路的第一步。为什么他会接手？我们坐在他那间装潢简单的小办公室里喝着茶，在我说话时，他歪着脑袋，显得很困惑。“我觉得这是必须的，”他对我说。“人民的权利在被践踏。他们反复被酷刑折磨。他们被弄得妻离子散。这些我不能视而不见。”

broken. I cannot turn my back and ignore this.”
He opened his own law firm in 2009 and started taking more human rights cases soon thereafter. He didn't realize the work was dangerous — “the ignorant fear nothing,” he told me — until three months later, when the Ministry of Justice sent representatives to his office. By that point, he had accepted the risks. In the years that followed, Liang expanded his work to represent dissidents, human rights activists, petitioners and other persecuted groups across China. He took almost every case that came to him and quickly developed a reputation as a quiet but steadfast member of the burgeoning movement, working cases that had once seemed impossible or untouchable to him.	他在 2009 年创办了自己的律师事务所，从此开始接受更多人权案件。他没有意识到这是份危险的工作——“无知者无畏，”他对我说——直到三个月后司法部的人来到他的办公室。到了那个时候，他已经接受了这份工作的风险。此后几年，梁小军扩大了工作范围，将异见人士、人权活动人士、上访者以及其他在中国各地被迫害的群体也包括进来。只要找到他的案子，他基本上都不会拒绝，很快他就成为这场新兴的运动中的一个沉默而坚定的成员，接手一些在他以前看来不可能或不能碰的官司。
Then came July 9, 2015 — “709,” as it came to be known, the largest crackdown on Chinese lawyers in decades. All together, Chinese human rights observers estimated that fall, more than 300 rights lawyers and activists from across the country were targeted, with 27 forbidden to leave the country, 255 temporarily detained or forcibly questioned and 28 held in government custody. It was an attack not just on rights lawyers but also on the wider networks of civil and social activism. “The human rights lawyers play the most important role in civil society,” says Teng Biao, a rights lawyer who left China in 2014 and is now a visiting fellow at the U.S.-Asia Law Institute. “Whenever there is a blogger or a church leader or a journalist arrested, some courageous lawyers represent them.” Human rights lawyers are not just advocates for China's dissidents but often the connective tissue among them. The 709 crackdown was intended to silence many voices in one stroke. “Kill	然后就是 2015 年 7 月 9 日——也就是常说的“709”，几十年来中国律师遭到的最大规模的打压行动。中国人权观察人士估计，那个秋天全国共计有超过 300 名人权律师和活动人士成为目标，其中 27 人被禁止离境，255 人被暂时拘禁或强制审讯，28 人遭政府羁押。这不只是对人权律师，也是对更大范围内的公民与社会行动主义的一次打击。“人权律师在公民社会中扮演着最为重要的角色，”2014 年离开中国的人权律师滕彪说。如今他是美国-亚洲法律研究所(U.S.-Asia Law Institute)的访问研究员。“每次有博主或教会领袖或记者被抓，总有勇敢的律师会去做他们的代理人。”人权律师不只为中国异见者仗义执言，往往还是维系他们的纽带。709 大抓捕本意是一次性压制其中许多人的声音。“杀一儆百，”刘思达对我说。

one, intimidate 100," Sida Liu told me.
Many of the lawyers and activists swept up in 709 faced possible sentences of life imprisonment. For six months, they effectively disappeared, under a provision of the Chinese criminal code that allows the police to hold suspects incommunicado for "residential surveillance in a designated location," a practice that the United Nations Commission on Human Rights has asked the government to end "as a matter of urgency." In the aftermath of the crackdown, Liang – who avoided arrest himself – did his best to remain inconspicuous. It was a decision born of disposition as much as self-preservation: 45 years old, with boyish cheeks, kind eyes and short, graying hair, Liang is quiet and self-effacing, neither a natural advocate nor a zealous crusader. "He's not someone you would find on a soapbox," one friend told me.	许多涉 709 大抓捕的律师和活动人士可能面临着无期徒刑。在整整六个月的时间内，他们实际上等于失踪了，中国刑法的规定允许警方“在指定的居所”对嫌疑人实施“监视居住”，不得与外界接触。联合国人权理事会(United Nations Human Rights Council)已经要求中国政府“尽快”终止这种制度。在大抓捕后，梁小军——他本人未被逮捕——尽量低调行事。这既是自我保护，也是性情使然：现年 45 岁的梁小军有一张显稚嫩的脸庞，眼神柔和，留着灰白的短发，是个平静而不露锋芒的人，既不是天生的倡导者，也不是热血斗士。“他不是那种会站在高台上宣讲的人，”一位朋友跟我说。
Yet now, it was the lawyers themselves who needed defending. After 709, many of the remaining members of the legal community went underground or retreated from the work. Liang himself dared to write about the cases only under a pseudonym. His wife asked him to stop doing human rights cases when their first son was born, and again when Liang was nearly arrested in 2011.	然而，如今是律师们自己需要有人为其辩护了。在 709 之后，这一群体里剩下的一些人或转向地下，或停止了工作。梁小军自己则只敢用化名发表有关案件的文章。在第一个儿子出生后，他的妻子曾要求他不要再接人权案，2011 年几乎被捕后，她再次提出这个要求。
Seven months after the crackdown began, as we spoke in his office, I watched Liang's phone ping to life with a surprising message, delivered via a secure messaging app. "Hello, Liang," it began. "I'm Xie Yanyi's wife. You came to my house a few days ago. Now I need your help."	大抓捕过去七个月后，我们在他的办公室里交谈，我看到他的电话响起，传来一个意外的消息，是通过一个加密通讯应用发来的。“梁老师你好，”消息中说。“我是谢燕益的妻子。几天前您到我家来过。现在我需要你的帮助。”
No further explanation was necessary. Xie Yanyi was his close friend and a venerated figure among his fellow lawyers: Bold, confident and	无需多做解释。谢燕益是他的好友，也是在律师同行中很受尊敬的一位：无畏、自信、寸步不让，他会接其他人不愿接的官司，起诉掌握强权的政府部

uncompromising, Xie took cases no one else would, sued powerful government departments and spoke out openly in the press. The police came for him soon after the crackdown began, and he had been held ever since. The lawyer whom Xie's wife, Yuan Shanshan, had hired to defend him was under too much government pressure to continue working on the case.	门，并在媒体上公开发声。警方在大抓捕行动开始后很快找上门来，此后他一直被羁押。他的妻子原姗姗原来聘请的律师因为不堪政府的压力，不再受理此案。
"Can you suggest another lawyer?" Yuan asked in her message. "Or maybe, if possible, you could take the case."	"您能推荐其他律师吗？"原姗姗问道。"或者如果可能的话，您能接吗？"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170731/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part1	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170731/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part1
Apple's Silence in China Sets a Dangerous Precedent	危险的先例：苹果在中国的让步和沉默
A year ago, the Federal Bureau of Investigation made an extraordinary demand of Apple. To get inside a dead terrorist's iPhone, law enforcement officials wanted the company to create a hackable version of the software that runs all iPhones.	一年前，联邦调查局（Federal Bureau of Investigation，简称FBI）向苹果（Apple）提出了一个特别的要求。为了进入一名已经死亡的恐怖分子的iPhone，执法官员想让苹果针对所有iPhone运行的系统开发一个可破解版本。
To many legal experts, it wasn't obvious that Apple had a winning case against the request. But facing great legal and political opposition, Apple took a stand anyway. Timothy D. Cook, Apple's chief executive, argued that the company had a financial and moral duty to protect its users' privacy and security. He made clear that Apple would obey American law — but only after trying to shape the law.	在很多法律专家看来，拒绝这一要求的苹果胜诉的可能性并不大。但面对强烈的法律和政治反对，苹果表明了立场。它的首席执行官蒂莫西·D·库克（Timothy D. Cook）称，公司在财务和道德上都有义务保护用户隐私和安全。他明确表示，苹果会遵守美国的法律，但在这之前会设法引导法律。
The fight paid off. On the eve of a courtroom showdown, the F.B.I. rescinded its request. It is worth underlining this point: When Apple took a public stand for its users' liberty and privacy, the American government blinked.	斗争获得了回报。在法庭对决的前夕，FBI放弃了自己的要求。值得强调的一点是：当苹果为了用户的自由和隐私公开表态时，美国政府让步了。

Yet in China over the weekend, when faced with a broad demand by the Chinese internet authority, it was Apple that blinked.	但上周末在中国，面对中国互联网管理机构的广泛要求，苹果让步了。
Apple pulled down several VPN apps — programs that allow iPhone users to bypass the Chinese government’s censorship apparatus — from its Chinese App Store. The developers behind the apps must register with the government under a cybersecurity law that went into effect in January. The law imposes criminal penalties on Apple and other companies that host unregistered apps.	苹果将几款 VPN 应用——允许 iPhone 用户避开中国政府审查系统的程序——从中国区应用商店(App Store)下架。按照今年 1 月生效的一项网络安全法律的规定，这些应用的开发商必须在政府登记。依据该法，苹果和其他托管未登记应用的公司会被施以刑事处罚。
Whatever Apple may have done in private to fight the Chinese internet law, the company has not offered a peep of criticism in public. Apple’s only public statement on the VPN ban said that the company had been “required to remove some VPN apps in China that do not meet the new regulations,” but noted that the “apps remain available in all other markets where they do business.” Despite the pulldown, Apple says there are still hundreds of VPN apps available on its Chinese app store, some of which remain unregistered with the government.	不管苹果私下里因为中国这部互联网法律做了怎样的斗争，该公司未公开发表半个字的批评言论。苹果就此次 VPN 被禁一事发表的唯一一份公开声明称，公司被“要求在中国下架一些不符合新规定的 VPN 应用”，但指出“这些应用在它们开展业务的其他所有地方依然可用”。尽管下架了一些应用，但苹果表示，在中国区的应用商店里，仍有数百款 VPN 应用可用，其中一些仍未在政府登记。
Search Apple’s website for a letter from Mr. Cook issuing a public rebuke of China’s intrusion into his customers’ privacy and freedom of expression — you won’t find it. The company has not fully tested its political and economic leverage in China. It hasn’t tested the public’s immense love of its products. It hasn’t publicly threatened any long-term consequences — like looking to other parts of the world to manufacture its products.	在苹果的网站找不到库克公开指责中国干涉顾客隐私和言论自由的信。它尚未全面考验自己在中国的政治和经济影响力，以及民众对其产品的热爱。也没有公开威胁这么做会带来怎样的长期后果，比如去世界其他地方生产苹果产品。
The company’s silence may be tactical; the Chinese government, the conventional thinking goes, does not take well to public rebuke. Yet	苹果的沉默也许是出于战术考虑；常规思维是，中国政府不习惯被公开指责。但苹果一言不发地向其最大的市场之一收紧审查的行为投降，依然是一个危

Apple's quiet capitulation to tightening censorship in one of its largest markets is still a dangerous precedent.	险的先例。
"Apple's response is tremendously disappointing," said Eva Galperin, director of cybersecurity at the Electronic Frontier Foundation, a digital-rights advocacy group. "I think it's possible that Apple is playing a bigger role behind the scenes here. But the problem with that is, from the outside it looks exactly like doing nothing."	"苹果的回应当非常令人失望，"数字权益倡导团体电子前沿基金会(Electronic Frontier Foundation)会长伊娃·加尔佩林(Eva Galperin)说。"我觉得有可能苹果在幕后扮演着一个更大的角色。但这么做的问题是，从外面看它简直像什么都没做。"
This isn't just a blow for the liberties of Apple's customers in China. Authoritarian governments have a tendency to copy what works. Russia just passed a law curbing VPNs. Early this year, Apple pulled down The New York Times app in the Chinese App Store, and both Apple and Google removed the LinkedIn app from their Russian app stores. In the United States, President Trump has called for greater legal measures against the press. And he took the F.B.I.'s side in that fight over iPhones. What happens in China doesn't stay in China.	这不仅仅是对苹果中国用户自由的打击。威权主义政府有照搬奏效举措的倾向。比如，俄罗斯刚刚通过了一项打击 VPN 的法律。今年年初，苹果在中国区应用商店下架了《纽约时报》的应用，苹果和谷歌(Google)从俄罗斯的应用商店里下架了领英(LinkedIn)的应用。在美国，特朗普总统呼吁对媒体采取力度更大的法律措施。在那场围绕 iPhone 而起的斗争中，他站在 FBI 的一方。在中国发生的事情影响力不仅仅局限在中国。
It may be naïve to expect Apple to publicly take on the Chinese government. Sure, it may be the world's most valuable company, with extensive investments and operations in China. But Apple is also just a foreign company – it must obey local laws, and it must watch for its bottom line. The Chinese market accounts for a quarter of Apple's sales, and many analysts see the region as a key growth area for the company. So what was Apple supposed to do? Jeopardize its operations over a few apps?	指望苹果公开对抗中国政府可能有些幼稚。的确，它可能是世界上市值最高的公司，在中国有大量投资和业务。但同时，苹果只是一家外国公司，必须遵守当地的法律，必须关注利润。中国市场占苹果销量的四分之一，并且很多分析人士视该地区为苹果的关键增长区。因此，苹果应该怎么做？为了几款应用而危及自己的业务？
What's more, Apple's silence isn't unusual. While American tech companies frequently criticize decisions by American officials, they	此外，苹果的沉默并不少见。尽管美国科技公司频频指责美国官员的决策，但在中国，它们似乎不喜欢这么做。这个周末，亚马逊也开始在它的云计算

appear loath to do so in China. This weekend, Amazon also began banning VPN services from the Chinese version of its cloud-computing platform, called AWS. Facebook, has been exploring ways of getting into the Chinese government's good graces. Google pulled many of its services out of the Chinese market in 2010, blaming censorship, but it has lately been mulling ways to get back.	平台 AWS 的中文版上封禁 VPN 服务。Facebook 一直在想办法获得中国政府的垂青。谷歌 2010 年把很多服务都撤出了中国市场，指责审查制度，但最近，谷歌一直在想办法回归。
There is also a moral defense of Apple's decision to give in without a public fight: Despite the VPN ban, Chinese internet users might still be better off with Apple in China than with it outside. Its app store still provides people access to millions of apps that they might not find elsewhere in China. And Apple's own communications apps in China remain free of government censorship. For instance, Messages, Apple's texting app, and FaceTime, its video and phone-calling app, are protected by end-to-end encryption, allowing Chinese users to communicate freely.	还可以从道义层面为苹果决定不公开抗争就妥协进行辩护：尽管下架了一些 VPN 应用，但中国的互联网用户通过苹果享受的服务，也许依然比其他地方好。苹果的应用商店依然能够让人们使用数以百万计的应用，而在中国的其他地方，他们可能根本找不到这些应用。并且在中国，苹果自己的通讯应用依然不受政府的审查。比如，苹果的短信应用 Messages 和视频与电话应用 FaceTime 受端到端的加密保护，让中国用户能够自由交流。
But that may be of limited utility.	但这些的实用性可能有限。
"It will only get worse," said Xiao Qiang, a Chinese human rights activist and an adjunct professor at the University of California, Berkeley, School of Information. Mr. Xiao sees the latest crackdowns as the beginning of a new wave of internet censorship in China. And he doesn't buy the argument that saying something publicly would have backfired for Apple.	"只会变得更糟，"中国人权活动人士，加州大学伯克利分校信息学院 (University of California, Berkeley, School of Information) 副教授萧强说。他认为，最近的打压是中国新一波互联网审查的开始。对于公开表态会对苹果起到适得其反的效果这个观点，萧强并不赞成。
"They should say something," he said. "They are a U.S. company, after all. And they're a global company, upholding standards of privacy and speech in many, many markets outside China. So if they have to do	"他们应该说点什么，"他说。"他们毕竟是一家美国公司，而且是一家跨国公司，在中国以外的很多很多市场都坚持隐私和言论标准。所以说，如果不得不在中国采取不同的方式，他们也应该给出一些公开的解释——因为这种态

things differently in China, they should have some public explanation for why — because that attitude could matter globally, including in the U.S.”	度可能在全球都很重要，包括在美国。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/apple-vpn-china-dangerous-precedent	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/apple-vpn-china-dangerous-precedent
Subversive Hong Kong Tours Reveal Dark Side of a Glittering City	另类香港游带你参观这座繁华都市的阴暗面
HONG KONG — Among the crowds on Kweilin Street in the run-down Hong Kong neighborhood of Sham Shui Po, Alla Lau darted between street signs, peering at the backs of them until she found what she was looking for. She beckoned a group of tourists, mostly white, in flip-flops and with American accents.	香港——在破败的香港深水埗地区，艾拉·刘(Alla Lau)飞奔于桂林街的路牌之间，在路牌后边张望，直到发现自己的目标。她向一群游客招了招手。游客大多是穿人字拖、带美国口音的白人。
“There,” Ms. Lau said, pointing to a handwritten white sticker in Chinese characters that referred to the grimy building across the street. It was an advertisement for one of Hong Kong’s notorious cage apartments, where, for as little as 1,200 Hong Kong dollars a month (about $154), people could rent a cage to sleep in, stacked three deep, with barely space to sit up.	“在那边，”艾拉·刘一边说，一边指着一张白色标贴，上面用手写的中文指明了街对面一座脏兮兮的大楼。这是一则香港臭名昭著的笼屋的广告——每月只要花 1200 港币，就可以租到三层铁笼床位中的一层——空间很小，几乎无法直起身。
The group Ms. Lau led had signed up for a tour of the less glamorous underbelly of this fabulously wealthy city. Over the course of three hours, tourists learned about Hong Kong’s underpaid foreign domestic workers, its freewheeling street vendors and the suicides afflicting young students pressured by their parents to succeed in school.	艾拉·刘带的这个团，要参观的是这座极为富有的城市中不那么光鲜的角落。三个小时的游览过程中，游客们了解了香港的低薪外国家政工人、四处游走的街头摊贩，以及因为不堪家长在学业方面施加的压力而自杀的年轻学生。
Despite the horrid conditions in the cage apartments, Ms. Lau said, they still were not cheap. Per square foot, the monthly rent was more than that of the costlier apartments in Hong Kong, one of the world’s most	艾拉·刘说，笼屋的条件十分恶劣，但它们依然不便宜。每平方英尺的月租金竟然高于香港一些更为高档的公寓——要知道，香港的住房市场价格可是居于世界前列的——而且，很多住在笼屋里的人每月赚的钱，远远低于港人约

expensive housing markets, and many people living in the cages make far less than the city's monthly median income, roughly 12,000 Hong Kong dollars a month, or about $1,540.	1.2 万港币（约合 1540 美元）的月收入中位数。
During the eight or nine tours she leads a week, Ms. Lau, 26, gathers people at the subway station in Mong Kok, a teeming area where there were clashes last summer when the police tried to crack down on street hawkers. Greeting tourists in a neon jacket and with a wide smile, she gives them brightly colored maps. A recent tour first seemed like any other as she directed her group past the street vendors selling goldfish in plastic bags.	现年 26 岁的艾拉·刘每周带八九个团，总是让大家在旺角地铁站集合。旺角是一个熙熙攘攘的区域，去年夏天因为警方试图打击街头的小贩而爆发过冲突。身穿荧光夹克、脸上挂着灿烂笑容的她，会一边和游客打招呼，一边递上色彩明亮的地图。最近的一趟行程起初似乎与别的旅行团没有任何不同，她引导团员经过用塑料袋装着金鱼售卖的街头摊贩身旁。
But there was already an edge to the trip.	但这趟行程已经有些不安的气氛。
Shepherding the tourists past Filipino and Indonesian domestic servants, Ms. Lau quietly told her group that these women were not covered by Hong Kong's minimum wage; different, lower pay scales applied to them. Tourists calculated the amount into their local currencies and expressed surprise and dismay.	带领游客从一群菲律宾和印度尼西亚家政人员身旁经过时，艾拉·刘悄悄告诉其团员，那些女人不受香港的最低工资标准保护；适用于她们的是另一个较低的工资标准。游客们在把数额换算成自己国家的货币后，表达了惊诧之情。
Ms. Lau was inspired to become a tour guide in Hong Kong while backpacking around Europe; she took a tour of Sofia, Bulgaria, that highlighted the city's darker side.	艾拉·刘是在欧洲进行背包旅行期间受到启发，产生了在香港当导游的念头；她游览过保加利亚的索非亚，那趟行程以索非亚较为灰暗的一面为重点。
Determined to bring a similar experience to Hong Kong, she joined a tour company as a guide in her native city, but she was disappointed that the script she was given did not delve beneath the surface. She was not interested in telling tourists where to shop.	她决心把类似的体验引入香港这座生养她的城市，于是加入了一个旅行社，但让她失望的是，每天要说的解说词都很肤浅。她对告诉游客去哪里购物不感兴趣。
Ms. Lau jumped ship to Hong Kong Free Tours when she was offered the chance to share with visitors the problems she and her friends	艾拉·刘跳槽到了香港自由旅行社(Hong Kong Free Tours)，因为在那里她有机会跟游客分享她和她的朋友们面临的问题，其中包括维持生计的艰难。

faced, including the struggle to make ends meet.
"People come to Hong Kong for three or four days and see Tesla, Mercedes, skyscrapers in Central, all the things the government tries so hard to promote," she said.	"人们来香港三四天，会看到特斯拉，奔驰，中环的摩天大楼，都是政府竭力想要展示的东西，"她说。
"If I was a tourist, I'd see those things, how expensive everything is here, and think, 'Hong Kong people must have a really good life,'" she continued. "That's one side of Hong Kong. It isn't telling a lot of people's stories."	"如果我是游客，看到这些，看到这里的所有一切如此昂贵，我会想，'香港人一定过着很好的生活，'"她继续说道。"这只是香港的一面。它没有讲述很多人的故事。"
As the tour wound deeper into Kowloon, the broad peninsula that points toward the sparkling towers of Hong Kong Island, Ms. Lau discussed the city's housing crisis. She stopped outside real estate agencies to explain the prices, instead of taking the group down the "sneaker street" favored by bargain-seeking tourists.	当旅行团向九龙深处行进时，艾拉·刘谈起了这座城市的住房危机。九龙是一个宽阔的半岛，从那里可以遥望香港岛上闪亮的高楼。艾拉·刘在一些房地产中介公司门外停下脚步讲解楼价，而没有带着团员去逛波鞋街——想买便宜货的游客最爱的地方。
Ducking into the foyer of a landmark-listed building that houses a training school, Ms. Lau talked about the intense pressure on students, which, she said, was partly to blame for the city's youth suicide rate.	闪身进入一栋地标式建筑的大厅——那栋楼是一所培训学校的所在地——艾拉·刘谈起了学生面临的巨大压力，她说这是推高香港年轻人自杀率的一个因素。
She led the group through ramshackle, makeshift shelters on Tung Chau Street, a homeless community on the edge of Sham Shui Po, first warning people not to take photos.	在深水埗边缘的无家可归者聚居地通州街，她领着团员从破烂不堪的临时住所之间穿过，事先提醒大家不要拍照。
"This is their home," she said.	"这是他们的家，"她说。
Alessandro Dutto, 23, and Andrea Pertoldi, 24, two Italian backpackers, showed up after seeing a flier for the tour in their hostel, even though a fellow tourist told them not to bother because there was "nothing to see" in this part of the city.	23岁的亚历山德罗·达托(Alessandro Dutto)和24岁的安德烈·裴托迪(Andrea Pertoldi)是两名意大利背包客，在其栖身的旅馆看到了关于此次游览活动的传单。尽管被同行的一名旅客告知不必多此一举，因为香港的这部分"没什么好看的"，他们还是出现在了艾拉·刘面前。
"It was one of the most interesting things we could have done here," Mr.	"这是我们在香港能做的最有趣的事情之一，"裴托迪说。

Pertoldi said.
When the three-hour walking tour ended, Ms. Lau, still smiling, collected tips; the tours are free, but customers can choose to pay. Some disappeared back into Hong Kong's subway system, where they could emerge 10 minutes later back in the heart of the island's wealthy Central shopping district, with its air-conditioned Louis Vuitton and Armani stores.	在历时三小时的徒步游览结束之际,艾拉·刘仍旧面带微笑,接过大家给的小费。导游服务是免费的,但游客可以选择付费。一些人消失在香港的地铁系统中,十分钟后他们就可以重回港岛阔气的中环购物区核心地带,那里有开着冷气的路易威登(Louis Vuitton)和阿玛尼(Armani)门店。
Ms. Lau grew up not far from the tours she leads, in a public housing estate in Wong Tai Sin. There, her parents live in the same two-bedroom apartment where she once shared a bedroom with her sister and brother.	艾拉·刘是在黄大仙祠旁一栋公屋里长大成人的,那里离她所导游的区域不太远。她的父母现在依然住在同一套两居室公寓里——她和自己的一个姐妹以及一个兄弟曾分享其中一间卧室。
Her life is now much easier than those of her parents at her age, but Hong Kong's high cost of living means the glittering central mecca that tourists frequent is out of her reach.	她目前的生活,比父母在她这个年纪时轻松许多,但香港高昂的居住成本意味着游客常常光顾的地方——城中心熠熠生辉的令人向往之处,对她来说可望不可即。
"No one I know goes for lunch in Central or Admiralty," she said of the main business area on Hong Kong Island.	"我认识的人当中没有谁会在中环或金钟吃午餐,"她谈及香港岛的主要商业区时表示。
One topic she addresses in her tour is the volatile political climate in Hong Kong. Ms. Lau, who slept in the streets of central Hong Kong for a few weeks in 2014 as part of the Occupy movement, said the removal of four pro-democracy lawmakers from office in July had so angered and demoralized people she knew that some were thinking of leaving the city.	她带团时会提到的一个问题是香港动荡的政治氛围。2014年"占中"运动期间,艾拉·刘在香港中心地带的街道上住过好几个星期。她说,四名亲民主立法会委员今年7月被取消任职资格一事,让她认识的人深感愤怒和沮丧,一些人甚至正考虑离开这座城市。
During the next day's tour, she added a dose of the latest political developments, hoping, she said, that when Hong Kong reaches another breaking point, the tourists on her tour will see it on the news and feel a	第二天的游览过程中,艾拉·刘谈及了最新的政治动态。她说,等到香港达到另一个忍耐极限的时候,希望她带的游客能通过新闻报道得知消息,并感觉自己 and 这个地方是有关联的。 connection to the place.

"This city is not going to go quietly, the way that the government wanted it to," she said. "There is anger here, and something has to happen, something big. I don't know if it will be protests, demonstrations, revolution, or something else."	"这座城市不会像政府期待的那样悄无声息,"她说。"人们感到愤怒,一定会有事情发生,很大的事情。我不知道会是抗议、游行、革命,还是别的什么。"
Cheryl Dilks, originally from Boulder, Colo., and now living in Guam, took the tour while visiting Hong Kong for the first time. She said it was refreshing to hear Ms. Lau's perspective.	来自科罗拉多州博尔德、现居关岛的谢里尔·迪尔克斯(Cheryl Dilks),第一次到访香港就参加了这一游览活动。她说艾拉·刘的观点让她耳目一新。
"This side of the city would be hard to see as an outsider," she said. "It looks pretty clean everywhere, and you don't see a lot of homeless people. So for her to explain the inequities to us is something I was really thankful for."	"外人很难看到这座城市的这一面,"她说。"每个地方看上去都很整洁,你见不到大量无家可归的人。因此我真的很感谢她能把不平等的状况讲给我们听。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/hong-kong-subversive-tour	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/hong-kong-subversive-tour
On Heels of Typhoon Nesat, a Second Storm Hits Taiwan	台湾三日内连遭两场台风侵袭
HONG KONG — Taiwan was battered Monday by the second large storm in days, in the wake of a typhoon that flooded streets, injured scores of people and forced more than 10,000 to flee their homes.	香港——台湾周一迎来几天中的第二场大暴雨。此前,一场台风导致台湾街道被淹,数十人受伤,迫使逾一万人离开家园。
Tropical Storm Haitang struck Monday on the heels of Typhoon Nesat, which made landfall on Taiwan's northeastern coast on Saturday. With gusts over 100 miles per hour, Nesat sent trees crashing into cars, toppled motorbikes and kicked up broken glass and other debris that caused injuries, the authorities said.	继台风纳沙(Nesat)周六在台湾东北部海岸登陆后,热带风暴海棠周一登陆台湾。当局称,纳沙的风速超过每小时100英里(约合160公里),导致树砸到汽车、摩托车被掀翻、碎玻璃和其他碎片横飞,致人受伤。
No deaths had been reported as of Monday, which the authorities attributed to early warnings and evacuations that began on Friday. But the government said more than 100 people were injured by Nesat,	截至周一,尚没有人员死亡报道。当局把这归功于预警和始于周五的人员疏散。但政府称,纳沙造成100多人受伤,很多都是被碎片击中的救援人员。在地处东北海岸的宜兰县,一辆轻型货车侧翻,造成一名男子受伤。

many of them rescue workers who were struck by debris. One man in Yilan County, on the northeastern coast, was injured when a utility truck flipped.
By Monday, more than 100 people remained trapped by floodwaters, mostly in the country's southern counties, according to the government's Central Weather Bureau.	据政府的中央气象局介绍, 到周一, 仍有 100 多人被洪水围困, 大部分位于台湾南部的县。
More than 400 flights have been canceled since Saturday, and more than half a million people were without electricity Monday, according to statistics published by the Central Disaster Emergency Operation Center.	中央灾害应变中心公布的统计数据显示, 自周六以来已有 400 多个航班被取消, 周一当天超过 50 万人无电可用。
After passing over Taiwan, Typhoon Nesat made landfall in mainland China on Sunday. More than 70,000 people were evacuated from the southeastern province of Fujian, according to news reports.	离开台湾后, 台风纳沙周日登陆中国大陆。据新闻报道称, 位于中国东南部的省份福建疏散了逾七万人。
The authorities in Taiwan warned that the heavy rains increased the risk of landslides, urging residents to beware of "falling rocks, mudslides and flash floods."	台湾当局警告, 大雨增加了发生滑坡的风险, 敦促居民注意“落石、泥石流及山洪爆发”。
The deadliest typhoon to strike Taiwan in the past decade was Typhoon Morakot, which set off landslides in 2009 that left nearly 700 people dead.	过去十年里, 台湾人员伤亡最惨重的是 2009 年的莫拉克台风(Typhoon Morakot)。后者引发滑坡, 导致近 700 人死亡。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/taiwan-typhoon-nesat	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/taiwan-typhoon-nesat
The Lonely Crusade of China's Human Rights Lawyers	中国人权律师的孤独战斗(二): 女儿等他取名字
Read:	点击阅读:
Part 1.	《中国人权律师的孤独战斗(一): “活在真理中”》
Over the next two weeks, Liang went back and forth about Yuan's plea. "I knew how much pressure there was — this is a serious case," Liang	在接下来的两周时间里, 梁小军为原姗姗的请求奔走。“我知道压力有多大, 这是一起严重的案件,” 梁小军后来对我说。“我努力想, 哪些律师适合为谢

told me later. "I tried to think which lawyers were fit to defend Xie. But I have so many friends who are suspects themselves. There were not enough people left to defend all of them. Xie needed help and support."	燕益辩护。但我好多朋友自己就是嫌疑人。剩下的已经没有足够的人手，来为他们所有人辩护。谢燕益需要帮助和支持。”
On March 4, Liang wrote back to Yuan. He would take the case.	3月4日，梁小军给原姗姗回信息。他将接下这起案件。
On a brisk, cloudless day in late March, I joined Liang as he visited Yuan at her family's apartment on the outskirts of Beijing. As we drove past glittering shopping malls and rows of tall, identical housing blocks, Liang told me about the first time he met Xie, in 2009. At the time, Liang had only recently begun to self-identify as a human rights lawyer; Xie, by contrast, was already something of a legend among his peers, having challenged the president in spectacular fashion years earlier. The men became fast friends and allies.	在3月末一个清冷无云的日子，我和梁小军一起去原姗姗家位于北京郊区的公寓看望她。在开车经过一座座光彩夺目的商场和一排排一模一样的住宅高楼时，梁小军和我讲了他2009年第一次见到谢燕益时的经历。当时，梁小军刚开始把自己定义为人权律师，而相比之下，谢燕益已在多年前用惊人的方式挑战国家主席，算是同行中的传奇人物了。两人迅速成为朋友和盟友。
After nearly two hours we reached Miyun, a district in northeast Beijing abutting the dimpled mountains that ring the city. We wandered through a sprawling residential complex and arrived outside the Xie family apartment, where a rack overflowing with children's shoes crowded the landing. Liang knocked quietly, and Yuan, in black sweatpants, a gray sweater and flip-flops, answered the door and invited us inside.	近两小时后，我们到达密云。密云是坐落于北京东北部的一个区，挨着起伏不平的环京山峦。我们穿过一个庞大的小区，来到谢家门外。一个塞满童鞋的架子挤在门口。梁小军轻轻敲门，穿着黑色运动长裤、灰色毛衣和拖鞋的原姗姗应声开门，把我们请进屋里。
Before discussing business, Liang asked to see the Xies' new daughter. The child was born just a week earlier, almost nine months to the day after Xie's arrest. In a cramped, makeshift nursery, the baby was asleep, with Yuan's younger sister keeping a dutiful watch. "What's her name?" Liang whispered. "She doesn't have a name yet," Yuan replied quietly, eyes fixed on her newborn. "I'm waiting until her father returns home	在讨论正事之前，梁小军请求看看谢燕益刚出生的女儿。孩子一周前刚出生，距谢燕益被捕那一天已经快九个月了。孩子在一个临时安排的婴儿房里睡着了，由原姗姗的妹妹看着。“叫什么名字？”梁小军压低声音问。“还没取名字，”原姗姗轻声说，眼睛盯着出生不久的孩子。“我等她爸爸回来给她取名字。”

to give her one.”
Yuan ushered us into the living room, and Liang took a seat on a low brown couch. Drawings of ghosts and fall landscapes by the couple’s two sons hung on string across the window. Liang pulled a stack of papers from his backpack and began sorting through them as Yuan, in the kitchen, stood over a copier, scanning the identification documents that Liang would need in order to defend her husband. Though they had been colleagues for years, Liang had never inquired about his friend’s background, and as Yuan brought out the documents – lawyer’s license, marriage certificate, ID card and more – she began to tell her husband’s life story.	原姗姗引我们来到客厅，梁小军在一张低矮的棕色沙发上坐下。夫妻俩的两个儿子画的幽灵和秋日景色，用细绳挂在窗户上。梁小军从背包里取出一沓文件，开始整理。厨房里，原姗姗正在复印机上扫描身份证明文件，那是梁小军为她丈夫辩护所需要的。尽管同事多年，但梁小军从没打听过朋友的背景。原姗姗一边拿出律师执业证、结婚证、身份证等文件，一边开始讲述丈夫的生活经历。
Xie Yanyi was born in 1975, the son of a military officer turned factory boss and lawyer. He was stubborn from an early age, Yuan told me. Despite their age difference, Xie loved to challenge his older brother to wrestle and fight. He never won, she said, but the defeats did nothing to dampen his enthusiasm.	谢燕益是1975年生人，父亲曾是一名军官，后改行当了工厂老板和律师。原姗姗说他从小就很倔强。他喜欢跟年纪比他许多的哥哥摔跤和打。她说他从来没赢过，但是失败并不会打击他的热情。
In 1997, Xie’s mother, a lawyer herself, sent Xie to Singapore to study law. In addition to his classes, Xie interned at a local law firm, where he was exposed to human rights law and theory for the first time. When Xie returned to his hometown, he rented a small apartment, locked the door and asked a friend to bring him food twice a week. Six months later, he passed the bar. He practiced for several years before making his name in spectacular fashion in 2003, with a case that became a sensation in the Chinese media.	谢燕益的母亲也是一名律师，在1997年把他送到新加坡去攻读法律。除了上课，谢燕益还去当地一家律师事务所实习，在那里第一次接触到人权法律与相关理论。回到故乡后，谢燕益租了一个小公寓，锁上门，让朋友每周给他送两次吃的。六个月后，他通过了律师考试。在从业几年后，他在2003年因为一个被中国媒体大肆报道的案子崭露头角。
That year, Jiang Zemin ended his second term as president of the	那一年，江泽民结束了自己作为中华人民共和国国家主席的第二个任期。尽

People's Republic of China. Despite officially retiring from public life, Jiang retained his role as chairman of the powerful Central Military Commission. "Yanyi said that violated the Constitution, so he sued," Yuan told me with a rueful smile. Xie called his challenge to the ex-president "the first constitutional lawsuit" in Chinese history.	管明面上已经退出公共生活，江还是保留了中央军委主席这个掌握重权的职务。“燕益说那是违宪的，于是就起诉了他，”原姗姗带着悔恨的笑容跟我说。谢燕益称他对前国家主席发起的法律挑战是中国历史上的“首宗宪法诉讼”。
It was a courageous gesture, but also a foolhardy one. "I was young – I was very naïve," Xie told an interviewer years later. "I thought, The law provides this channel, and I'm going to use it. I believed in the protection of the law."	这是一个勇敢的举动，同时也是很鲁莽的。“我那时候很年轻——很天真，”几年后谢燕益接受采访时说。“我以为，法律提供了这个渠道，我就要利用它。我相信法律的保护。”
A Beijing court summarily dismissed Xie's challenge, but the complaint brought notoriety to the 28-year-old lawyer – as well as intense scrutiny from the state security apparatus. He moved to Miyun in hopes of escaping some of the pressure, but wherever he went, the young lawyer remained under constant surveillance.	北京一家法院当即拒绝了谢燕益的起诉，但是诉状给这位 28 岁的律师带来了恶名——还有官方安全机构的密切注视。他搬到了密云，希望能躲开一些压力，但是无论去哪，年轻的律师都处在严密监视之下。
From the start, Yuan said, she was conflicted about her husband's work. She found it difficult to fully support him. Why risk everything for a cause that had never returned anything to him? The couple married in summer 2006 and came to a compromise: She would take care of the home, and he would keep his work as a human rights lawyer away from the family.	原姗姗从一开始就说，她对丈夫的工作感到矛盾。她觉得很难彻底支持他。为什么甘冒失去一切的风险，只为了一个绝不会给他带来任何回报的事业呢？两人于 2006 年夏天结婚，并且达成了一项妥协：她照顾家里，而他不把自己人权律师的工作带进家中。
That compromise crumbled on July 11, 2015, two days into the wave of arrests. At 8 p.m., Xie received a phone call instructing him to come to an interrogation session. Xie knew that many of his friends and colleagues had been taken already. Yuan urged him to leave immediately, to go hide at his brother's factory until the situation	2015 年 7 月 11 日，律师们被捕两天后，这个妥协破裂了。下午八时，谢燕益接到电话，要他去接受一次问讯。谢燕益知道，他的很多朋友与同事已经被带走了。原姗姗催促他马上离开，去兄弟的工厂躲躲，直到风头过去。谢燕益拒绝逃走。在审讯中，五名警方人员向谢燕益问起他写给王宇表示支持的一封信，王宇的被捕表明打击的开始。谢燕益回答说，他是王宇的朋友，

cooled down. But Xie refused to flee. At the interrogation, five police officers asked Xie about a letter he had written in support of Wang Yu, the lawyer whose detention signaled the start of the crackdown. Xie replied that he was friends with Wang, as well as with many of the other captured human rights lawyers. The police asked Xie's opinion of the Chinese Communist Party. Xie replied that he was not a Communist and didn't need to be loyal to the party. The police instructed Xie to write a guarantee promising that he would not speak out about the captured human rights lawyers. He refused.	也是其他许多被捕的人权律师的朋友。警方问谢燕益对中国共产党的看法。谢燕益回答说，他不是共产党人，不需要忠于党。警方指示谢燕益写保证书，承诺不会就被捕的人权律师公开发言。他拒绝了。
Xie returned to his apartment at 1 a.m. on July 12. Six hours later, the police knocked at his door and told him that he was to come immediately for a meeting with their superior officer. He never returned. At 2 p.m., 20 policemen, some in uniform and some in plainclothes, swarmed into the apartment, confiscating Xie's registration papers, books, bank cards, case files and cellphone. Yuan managed to hide her husband's laptop before the police arrived. In their search for it, the officers tried to enlist the couple's two sons, ages 11 and 8. "Where's your father's laptop?" the officer asked, squatting down to eye level. "Where does he like to keep it?" After three hours, the police left.	7月12日凌晨1点，谢燕益回到公寓。六个小时后，警方来敲门，要他立即去见他们的上级。之后他再也没有回来。下午二时，20名警察涌入公寓，有些人穿着制服，有些人穿着便衣，他们没收了谢燕益的证件、书籍、银行卡、案件文档和手机。在警察到达之前，原姗姗设法藏起了丈夫的笔记本电脑。在寻找这些东西时，警官试图争取这对夫妇的两个儿子的协助，他们的年龄分别为11岁和8岁。“爸爸的笔记本电脑在哪儿？”官员蹲在两个孩子面前，看着他们的眼睛问道。“他喜欢把它放在哪儿？”三个小时后，警方离开了。
It was only days later, in a news broadcast, that Yuan learned that her husband was being investigated for the crime of "inciting subversion of state power," which carries a maximum sentence of life in prison. No one had seen or heard from Xie since July 12. The communications blackout meant that Xie was unaware of anything that had happened	没过几天，原姗姗从新闻播报中得知她的丈夫正在因“煽动颠覆国家政权”的罪行接受调查，这个罪名最高可被判处无期徒刑。自7月12日以来，没有人见到谢燕益，或是听到过他的消息。通讯中断意味着谢燕益不知道从他被捕以来发生的任何事情，包括他母亲去年8月22日因心脏病发作去世。原姗姗去了天津警局，要求警方批准谢燕益出席母亲的葬礼，据报道，谢燕益

since his arrest, including his mother's death from a heart attack on Aug. 22. Yuan traveled to the Tianjin police bureau, where Xie was reportedly being held, to ask permission for Xie to attend his mother's funeral. She stayed on a chair in a waiting room for three days, pleading her case. The police refused her request.	就是被关押在那里。她坐在接待室的一张椅子上等了三天，诉说她的情况。警方拒绝了她的要求。
Xie was also unaware of his wife's pregnancy. At the time of her husband's arrest, Yuan didn't know about the baby, either. Two days before her due date, she returned to the Tianjin police bureau, trying to get Xie's signature for a hospital form. Again, the police refused. "They wouldn't even tell him about the baby," Yuan said.	谢燕益不知道妻子怀孕了。在丈夫被捕时，原姗姗自己也不知道。预产期两天前，她回到天津警察局，争取能让丈夫在医院的一张表格上签名。警察再次拒绝了她。“他们甚至不想跟他说孩子的事，”原姗姗说。
Liang finished preparing the papers for Yuan to sign. She dropped gracefully to one knee in front of a low green-glass table and signed the forms, sliding them back toward Liang, who added his signature beside hers.	梁小军准备好了文件，让原姗姗签名。她端庄地单膝跪在一张绿玻璃矮桌前，签好了文件，推回给梁小军，后者在她的名字旁边签上了自己的名字。
Outside, Liang was in a quiet mood. As we approached his car, he began talking, as if to no one in particular, about what actually happened during his own meeting with the police during 709. "They asked me the same questions they asked Xie," he confessed. "They told me not to get involved with the captured lawyers, not to talk to journalists or write articles. I said O.K. They forced me to write a guarantee. I wrote it." He paused and smiled weakly. "I guess I am not as firm as Xie." We drove back to Beijing in silence.	梁小军出来后心情很平静。我们走向他的车时，他开始说话，好像不是专门说给谁听，他谈起“709事件”期间他自己与警察会面时的真实遭遇。“他们问我的问题跟谢燕益的一样，”他坦陈。“他们叫我不跟被捕的律师牵扯在一起，不要跟记者交谈，或者写文章。我同意了。他们强迫我写保证书。我写了。”他停顿了一下，虚弱地微笑了一下。“我想我没有谢燕益那么坚定。”我们开车回到北京，一路上没有说话。
One week after the visit to Yuan's apartment, Liang traveled to Tianjin, a bland industrial port city just southeast of Beijing, to try to meet his new client. Like many of the lawyers detained during 709, Xie was being held	在去原姗姗家一周后，梁小军去了天津——北京东南的一座平淡的工业港口城市——尝试会见自己的新客户。和“709事件”中遭拘捕的很多律师一样，谢燕益被关在天津市第二看守所。梁小军打算去看看守所确认自己作为谢燕益

at Tianjin Detention Center No. 2. Liang's plan was to visit the detention center and confirm his status as Xie's lawyer. That sounded simple enough, but as we prepared to leave on the train from Beijing, Liang was not optimistic. "All the lawyers who went to Tianjin said a special policeman came out and told them they couldn't see their client because he or she had refused a lawyer."	的律师的身份。那听起来很简单，但我们准备乘火车从北京出发时，梁小军并不乐观。“所有去天津的律师都说，会有一名专职警察出来告诉他们不能会见自己的客户，因为客户拒绝见律师。”
He was determined to press the issue. "It isn't legal for the police to tell us our client's will," he said. The visit in itself was valuable, he added. "It's pressure from lawyers and the suspect's relatives on police that changes things. We must keep up the pressure. If we don't, the policemen will think we don't care about the case."	他下决心解决这个问题。“警察转告我们客户的意愿是违法的，”他说。他还说，拜访本身非常重要。“它是律师和嫌疑人的家属向警察施加的压力，是能改变情况的。我们必须不断施压。如果我们不施压，警察会认为我们不关心这个案子。”
An Army soldier in camouflage and flak jacket remained motionless as we entered the detention center, following our movement only with his eyes. The local police, in varying degrees of armament, augmented the security. Behind the guards was a window onto the detention center's interior courtyard, neatly trimmed and ringed by stone arches, like a college quad.	我们进入看守所时，一名身穿迷彩服和防弹衣的军人一动不动，只是用眼睛盯着我们。地方警察有不同程度的武装，加强了安保措施。警卫身后有一扇窗户，通向看守所的内院，那里修剪整洁，周围是石头拱门，像个大学校园。
Liang presented his papers and asked to see his client. We watched as guards gathered at a desk behind a glass partition, peering at us and mumbling among themselves. Liang was calm but wary. I asked if he was nervous. "No," he said, and paused. "I'm just not sure what they're going to do with you." I thought back to my visits to Liang's office in Beijing: When it came time for me to leave, he would peek his head out the door, ensure that no one was keeping watch and only then let me go. It was only after several such goodbyes that I noticed the pattern	梁小军提交了文件，要求见自己的客户。我们看到警卫们聚在玻璃隔断后面的书桌前，盯着我们，窃窃私语。梁小军很平静，但很警惕。我问他是否紧张。他说“不”，然后他停顿一下，接着说：“我只是不确定他们会怎么对待你。”我回想起在北京几次去他的办公室的情景。每次我该走的时候，他都会探头往门外张望，确保没人盯梢，才让我走。经过几次这样的告别之后，我才注意到这个规律，意识到他是在保护我。

and realized that he was protecting me.
The wait was brief. A few minutes after we arrived, a thick metal door beside the glass partition swung open. Two men emerged. The first was young and crisply dressed, with short black hair and an enigmatic smile. The second man was older and less imposing. He had stooped shoulders, a thinning comb-over and a tired, distracted mien. The younger man turned to Liang and called him inside. Liang handed me his cellphone and disappeared with the men behind the heavy metal door.	我们等的時間很短。到達幾分鐘後，玻璃隔斷旁邊的一個厚金屬門開了。裡面走出兩個男人。第一個人比較年輕，打扮得很利索，留着黑色短髮，臉上挂着神秘的微笑。第二個年紀略長，不那么威嚴。他肩背有些駝，稀疏的頭髮從一邊梳向另一邊，帶着疲倦、心不在焉的神情。年紀較輕的那名男子轉向梁小軍，讓他進去。梁小軍把手機交給我，跟着那兩個人消失在厚重的金屬門後。
The meeting lasted less than four minutes. Liang emerged alone and headed directly for the exit. As we walked back along the rutted dirt track toward the subway, he narrated the encounter for me.	會見持續了不到四分鐘。梁小軍獨自現身，直接走向出口。我們沿着有深車轍的土路往地鐵站走時，他跟我講述了會見的經過。
The younger man, he explained, was an officer named Li Bin, who had been tasked with meeting the relatives and lawyers of all the 709 detainees. Liang had heard of Li, but Li clearly knew Liang intimately: He began the meeting by ticking off a list of Liang's previous cases and his encounters with the police and judicial bureau. Then he turned to Xie's case. "We can't accept your power-of-attorney form," he said. "Xie already has two defense attorneys." Liang asked who these lawyers were. Li replied that he was not required to answer. Liang asked if the other lawyers had visited Xie to prepare his defense. Li said again that he was not required to answer.	他說，那個年輕人是一名警察，名叫李斌（音），負責會見所有 709 被拘留者的親屬和律師。梁小軍之前聽說過李斌，不過李斌顯然非常了解他：李斌先是列舉了梁小軍代理過的一些案件，還提到了他與警察和司法局的會面。然後他轉向謝燕益的案子。“我們不能接受你的委託書，”他說，“謝燕益已經有兩名辯護律師了。”梁小軍問那兩名律師是誰。李斌說，他沒有義務回答。梁小軍問其他律師有沒有見過謝燕益，為他的辯護做準備。李斌還是說，他沒有義務回答。
Liang continued to press. How could he confirm that Xie had hired these lawyers? How could Xie have hired his own lawyers while incommunicado in detention? Li replied each time that he was not	梁小軍繼續施壓。詢問他怎麼能確定謝燕益請了那些律師呢？謝被單獨監禁，怎麼可能給自己請律師呢？每次李斌都說自己沒有回答的義務，還說梁小軍不是謝的律師，與嫌疑人沒有正式關係。另外一名警察什麼話也沒說。

obliged to say; Liang was not Xie's lawyer and had no official connection to the suspect. The second officer said nothing.
As Liang got up to leave, Li offered a comment. "I'm surprised you're not defending Wang Quanzhang," he said. Wang was one of Liang's closest friends and, like Xie, he was being held somewhere inside Tianjin Detention Center No. 2. No one had heard from him in eight months. "I know he's a good friend of yours." Then Li smiled, handed back Liang's papers, and showed him out.	梁小军起身离开时，李斌说了一句话。“我很奇怪你居然不是来为王全璋辩护的，”他说。王全璋是梁小军的密友，和谢燕益一样，他也被关押在天津市第二看守所的某个地方。已经有八个月没人听到他的任何消息。“我知道他是你的好朋友。”然后，李斌笑了，把梁小军的文件递还给他，让他出去。
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part2	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170801/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part2
China's State Media Slams Trump's 'Emotional Venting' on Twitter	新华社狠批特朗普，指美国就朝鲜问题推卸责任
BEIJING — After President Trump pilloried China in 48 tweeted words over the weekend, accusing it of failing to tame its neighbor and longtime ally North Korea, Beijing issued its own rebuke to Mr. Trump — in a cutting editorial of 1,000 Chinese characters from Xinhua, the official news agency.	北京——在特朗普总统周末用 48 个单词的推文抨击中国，指责中国未能遏制其邻居、长期以来的盟友朝鲜后，北京通过官方通讯社新华社发表的一篇 1000 个汉字的评论文章，严厉指责特朗普。
"Trump is quite a personality, and he likes to tweet," said the Xinhua response issued late Monday and widely displayed on Chinese news websites. "But emotional venting cannot become a guiding policy for solving the nuclear issue on the peninsula," it said, referring to the divided Korean Peninsula.	"特朗普很有个性，喜欢发推文，"新华社的回应文章说。文章于周一晚上发表，被中文新闻网站广泛转载。"但情绪化的表达不能变成解决半岛核问题具有指导性的政策，"文章指的是处于分裂状态的朝鲜半岛。
The United States, it said, "must not continue spurning responsibility" for the volatile standoff with North Korea, "and even less should it stab China in the back."	文章写道，美国"切勿再推卸"与朝鲜陷入不稳定的僵持的"责任"，"更不应在中国背后'捅刀'"。
The unusually personal nature of the editorial, together with comments	文章非同寻常的针对个人的性质，连同中国常驻联合国代表当天早些时候在

delivered earlier that day by China's ambassador to the United Nations in New York, show that North Korea is becoming the main dispute threatening to tear at Mr. Trump's initially friendly relationship with his Chinese counterpart, Xi Jinping.	纽约的言论,表明朝鲜正在成为可能导致特朗普与中国国家主席习近平初期的友好关系破裂的主要分歧。
"I am very disappointed in China," Mr. Trump declared on Twitter on Sunday, after North Korea tested an intercontinental ballistic missile in defiance of United Nations sanctions.	"我对中国很失望,"周日,特朗普在朝鲜不顾联合国制裁试射一枚洲际弹道导弹后在 Twitter 上宣布。
Despite China's big trade surplus with the United States, he continued in a second tweet, "they do NOTHING for us with North Korea, just talk."	尽管中国对美国的贸易存在巨大的顺差,他在第二条推文中继续写道,"在朝鲜问题上他们什么都没为我们做,只是说说而已。"
China's rebuke to Mr. Trump did not use exclamation marks. But the Xinhua editorial broke with Beijing's usual public reticence when Mr. Trump has taken China to task over trade imbalances, territorial disputes in the South China Sea, Taiwan and other sources of tension.	中国对特朗普的指责没有使用感叹号。但新华社那篇评论文章打破了北京在特朗普因贸易不平衡、南海的领土争端、台湾和其他导致两国关系紧张的问题而指责中国时保持缄默的常态。
"Taking out this outrage on China is clearly finding the wrong target," it said, warning that such broadsides could be dangerous.	"把这股怨气撒到中国身上,显然是找错了发泄的对象,"文章写道,并警告称这种指责可能会很危险。
"What the peninsula needs is immediately stamping out the fire, not adding kindling or, even worse, pouring oil on the flames," Xinhua said. The tensions could, it said, "evolve into a localized conflict, or even the outbreak of war, with unthinkable repercussions."	"当下,半岛最需要的是立即撤火,而不要添柴,更不要火上浇油,"新华社的文章写道,并接着表示形势"可以演变成局部冲突,甚至爆发战争,后果不堪设想"。
Chinese diplomats and the state news media have consistently argued that Washington and its allies should not rely so much on China to defuse tensions created by North Korea's growing nuclear weapons and missile capabilities. On Friday, North Korea tested a ballistic missile that experts have said could have the range to hit California.	中国外交官和官方新闻媒体一贯认为,华盛顿及其盟友不应太过依赖中国缓和朝鲜不断增强的核武器和导弹实力造成的紧张局势。周五,朝鲜试射一枚弹道导弹,专家称该导弹的射程可能可以到达加利福尼亚州。
Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson has turned up pressure on China to	美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)已向中国加压,要求帮助孤

help isolate and cajole North Korea. "China and Russia bear unique and special responsibility for this growing threat to regional and global stability," he said in a statement after the launch.	立和劝诱朝鲜。“中国和俄罗斯对这一日渐加剧的地区和全球稳定威胁负有独一无二的特殊责任，”他在朝鲜发射导弹后发表声明说。
In addition, the Pentagon will conduct a test of its intercontinental ballistic missile system on Wednesday, defense officials said, a move that is bound to raise questions about the Trump administration's intentions.	此外，防务官员称，五角大楼将于周三对其洲际弹道导弹系统进行一次测试。此举势必会引起对特朗普政府意图的质疑。
Defense officials had scheduled the missile tests months ago, but the timing of the test is nonetheless expected to be noted in Pyongyang and Beijing. It is planned a day after Mr. Tillerson said the United States was not seeking regime change in North Korea and would be willing to talk to Pyongyang.	防务官员原本把导弹测试安排在几个月前，但测试的时机预计会引起平壤和北京的注意。最终，测试被安排在了蒂勒森称美国不追求朝鲜政权更替，并愿意同平壤对话的一天后。
"We do not seek a collapse of the regime, we do not seek an accelerated reunification of the peninsula, we do not seek an excuse to send our military north of the 38th Parallel," Mr. Tillerson told reporters at the State Department.	“我们不追求朝鲜政权崩溃，不追求半岛加速统一，不追求找借口派军队进入38°纬线以北，”蒂勒森在国务院对记者表示。
But, he added, "You are presenting an unacceptable threat to us, and we have to respond. And we hope that at some point they will begin to understand that and we would like to sit and have a dialogue with them."	但他接着说，“你给我们带来了一个无法容忍的威胁，我们不得不作出回应。我们希望他们能在某个时刻开始理解这一点，我们愿意坐下来和他们对话。”
The the Chinese government argues, however, that North Korea will not return to negotiations over its weapons programs unless the United States and its northeast Asian allies, South Korea and Japan, take conciliatory steps. In particular, China has proposed that North Korea freeze its nuclear and missile programs in exchange for a halt to major	然而，中国政府认为，除非美国及其在亚洲东北部的盟友韩国和日本采取缓和局势的举措，否则朝鲜不会回到围绕其武器计划展开的谈判前。中国尤其建议朝鲜冻结核武器和导弹计划，以换取美国和韩国军队停止在朝鲜半岛及其海岸附近进行大规模军事演习。

military exercises by American and South Korean forces on the Korean Peninsula and off its coast.
As the tensions with North Korea have escalated, Mr. Trump has often treated Mr. Xi in public as a friend who was valiantly, though unsuccessfully, trying to bring North Korea around. "At least I know China tried!" Mr. Trump said on Twitter in June.	随着与朝鲜的紧张关系升级, 特朗普常在公开场合把习近平当作一个勇敢地试图让朝鲜回头却未能成功的朋友对待。“至少我知道中国努力过, ”特朗普6月在Twitter上说。
Now that friendly facade appears to be cracking. But Mr. Trump also has a long record of harsh criticisms of China, stretching back to his election campaign and much earlier. "China controls North Korea," he said in 2013. "They are using the Norks to taunt us," he said, using slang for North Koreans.	现在, 这种友好的表面似乎正在破裂。但回溯至竞选甚至更早些时候, 特朗普也有长期严厉指责中国的记录。“中国控制着朝鲜, ”他在2013年说。“他们在用朝鲜人(Norks)笑话我们, ”他说这句话时用了个指代朝鲜人的俚语。
The Chinese ambassador to the United Nations, Liu Jieyi, said on Monday that it was up to the United States and North Korea to find a solution to the current standoff, not China.	中国常驻联合国代表刘结一在周一表示, 应该由美国和朝鲜找到解决当前僵局的解决办法, 而不是中国。
"People talk about China a lot," he said at a news conference to mark the end of China's July term in the rotating presidency of the United Nations Security Council. "If the two principal parties refuse to move toward what is required by the Security Council resolutions — de-escalation of tension, negotiations to achieve denuclearization and peace and stability and also resume dialogue — then no matter how capable China is, China's efforts will not yield practical results because it depends on the two principal parties."	“人们总是提到中国, ”他在标志中国7月的联合国安理会轮值主席任期结束的新闻发布会上说: “如果两个主要相关方拒绝迈向安理会决议要求的方向——缓和局势、通过谈判实现无核化、和平和稳定并恢复对话——那么不管中国能力有多大, 中国的努力都不会带来实际的结果, 因为事情取决于两个主要相关方。”
He said that China had upheld United Nations sanctions against North Korea, while Pyongyang and Washington were heightening tensions by carrying out missile tests and the American side was raising the	他说, 中国支持联合国制裁朝鲜, 而平壤和华盛顿却分别通过进行导弹试验和提出实行新的单边制裁, 甚至是军事打击的可能, 加剧局势紧张。 prospect of new, unilateral sanctions and even the potential for military strikes.

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170802/china-trump-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170802/china-trump-north-korea
The Lonely Crusade of China's Human Rights Lawyers	中国人权律师的孤独战斗（三）：“卑贱地活着”
Read:	点击阅读:
Part1.	《中国人权律师的孤独战斗（一）：“活在真理中”》
Part2.	《中国人权律师的孤独战斗（二）：女儿等他取名字》
In the years since the movement's founding, rights defense lawyers have taken up causes including freedom of expression, labor rights, religious freedoms and advocacy for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people. Yet in every case, the lawyers face a common and elemental adversary: fear. Beyond beliefs or values, this is what unites the movement's members. "I think you can probably go inside lots of law schools" in China "and speak to lots of students and find they have pretty liberal ideas," Pils told me. "It makes sense to most people that law is better served by, for instance, an autonomous judiciary." But that does not make them human rights lawyers, she says. "It's really a question of, Can you withstand the pressure?"	在运动成立后的几年里，人权律师们接下了包括与言论自由、劳工权益、宗教自由相关，为女同性恋、男同性恋、双性恋以及跨性别者等群体争取权益的案件。然而在每一个案子里，律师们都要面对一个共同而又基本的敌人：恐惧。除了信念和价值观，这是团结这场运动的成员的共同点。“我觉得你也许可以走进很多法学院”，在中国“和许多学生谈话，并发现他们有自由主义的思想。”皮尔斯告诉我。“大多数人都同意，法律最好由一个独立的司法部监督。”但那并不会使这些人成为人权律师，她说。“这真的取决于一个问题，你能抵抗压力吗？”
Under President Xi, that pressure has ratcheted up across Chinese civil society. As part of a far-reaching campaign to stamp out "foreign hostile forces," the government has detained and deported foreign activists, denied medical care to detainees and revived the practice of forced televised confessions, a throwback to the days of internal party purges. The campaign has been justified by a host of new legislation granting the government a free hand over almost any matter deemed	在习近平治下，中国公民社会所面临的这种压力全面加大。作为一项压制“外国敌对势力”的广泛行动的一部分，政府已经拘捕和驱逐了外国活动人士，拒绝向在押人员提供医疗，重新开始强迫上电视忏悔的做法，倒退到了党内清洗的年代。一系列新的法律让政府可以放手处理一切它认为关乎国家安全的问题，给这项行动提供了法律依据。

relevant to national security.
For lawyers who veer into sensitive areas of the law, the pressure is applied slowly; it begins with a simple invitation to tea from the police. What kinds of cases are you working on? an officer asks. Do you know what your colleague has been up to lately? How are your children finding their new teacher?	对那些涉足法律敏感领域的律师而言，这种压力的施加过程是缓慢的；一开始是警方请喝茶。你在做什么类型的案子？一位警官会问。你知道你的同事最近在做什么吗？你的孩子找到新老师了吗？
Often, the first meeting is enough to change a lawyer's course. For those who continue, the pressure gradually escalates: frequent visits from the judicial bureau, being constantly followed and messages from government minders — “Be careful what you say at your meeting this morning” — that serve both to intimidate and to remind that someone is watching.	通常这第一次会面就已经足以令一名律师改变方向。至于那些继续下去的，压力会逐步增加：司法局的人频频登门，不断被政府的人跟踪，收到他们的警告——“今天早上见人时候你要小心说话”——这既是威胁，也是在提醒有人在监视他们。
The pressure can be startlingly personal. In the on-and-off cycle of repression and relaxation, some minders treat their target to dinner one week, then interrogate him the next. Softening euphemisms abound: to have been “spoken to,” instead of threatened; “educated,” instead of disciplined. Somehow the fear and the constant threat of violence become normalized. “At first you're scared just to talk to someone,” Pils says. “And then one day you're used to the idea that you could be taken anytime.”	压力有时会极其个人化。分管他们的人采用时紧时松的策略，这一周请他们吃饭，下周就审讯他们。处处是委婉说法：是“谈话”而不是威胁；是“教育”不是管教。恐惧和持续不断的暴力威胁不知不觉就成了常态。“一开始单是跟某人谈话就会让你害怕，”艾华说。“但是到后来，你对随时会被人带走都习以为常了。”
For Liang, it was soon after accepting his first human rights case in 2008 that he came to the attention of the authorities. In 2010, he was prevented from attending a meeting for the first time. A European embassy in Beijing was holding a conference on rule of law, and the organizers invited Liang to speak. The morning of the event, two	就梁小军而言，从2008年第一次接人权案件引起当局的关注开始，他就感到了这种压力。2010年，他第一次被禁止出席一个会议。当时欧洲某国驻京使馆正在举行一个法治座谈会，组织者邀请梁小军发言。会议当天早上，两名警察敲响了梁家的房门。他们全天都跟他在一起，给他午饭吃，会议结束后把他送回家。从那以后，骚扰几乎成为常态，包括政府暴徒的恐吓，以

policemen knocked on his door. They stayed with him throughout the day, gave him lunch and then sent him home after the conference concluded. Since then, the harassment has been nearly constant, including intimidation from government thugs and raids targeting Liang's office.	及对梁小军办公室的搜查。
The most jarring incident came in August 2015, a month after the 709 arrests. Liang was with his wife and son at the Beijing airport, preparing to fly to New York for an exchange program at Columbia University. When the family was at customs, Liang was stopped and told that he was not allowed to travel. "They said I might endanger national security," Liang says. He has been unable to leave the country since.	最令人震惊的事发生在 2015 年 8 月，也就是 709 抓捕一个月之后。梁小军与妻儿来到北京机场，准备飞往纽约，到哥伦比亚大学参加交流活动。当一家人来到海关时，梁小军遭到拦截，被告知他被禁止出行。“他们说 I 可能会危害国家安全，”梁小军说。从那以后他一直无法离开这个国家。
Before his travel ban, Liang opted to stay silent about the 709 crackdown. Having been granted a visa to the United States, he hoped to keep a low profile and so maintain his freedom to travel with his family. When that hope proved illusory, his calculus changed. "I decided, Well, I might as well go public," he told me. He began to write articles under his own name and openly denounced the detentions as illegal. And yet Liang has also made his accommodations to the system. Faced with the same decision as his friend Xie Yanyi, Liang chose to sign the forms, make the promise, nod when told. Liang has rarely been detained for longer than 12 hours, a rare distinction among human rights lawyers.	在被禁止出行之前，梁选择对 709 镇压保持沉默。得到美国签证后，他希望保持低调，维持同家人一起旅行的自由。随着这个希望被证明是虚幻的，他的策略也改变了。“我决定，好吧，那我也可以走向公开，”他告诉我。他开始实名发表文章，公开谴责这些拘留是非法的。然而，梁小军也在适应这个体制。面对与朋友谢燕益同样的抉择，梁小军选择签署表格，作出承诺，被告知事项时点头表示认可。梁小军很少被拘留超过 12 个小时，这在人权律师中是罕见的。
As he sees it, minimizing confrontation is a matter of tactics. "I don't deal with the police too hard," he told me, as we rode the subway from the detention center back to central Tianjin. "The police press me to	他认为，尽量减少对抗是一个战术问题。“我对警方不太强硬，”当我们乘坐地铁从看守所返回天津市中心时，他告诉我。“警方迫使我承诺做某事，我说 OK。因为对他们来说是没有法律的。如果他们不依法行事，我也不需要

take a pledge to do something, I say O.K. Because for them, there's no law. If they don't act in accordance with the law, I don't need to keep my pledge to them. I just need to do the things I think are right."	遵守对他们的承诺。我只需要做我认为正确的事情。”
I asked Liang if he considered himself a brave man. He paused. "I think I'm not braver than the lawyers in the detention centers," he said. "Sometimes I'm scared, and I still try to do the right thing, to defend sensitive cases and challenge the party in accordance with the law. But I have a family and parents, a wife and son. I need to protect myself sometimes."	我问梁小军，他是否认为自己是一个勇敢的人。他顿了一顿。“我觉得我不如在看守所的律师们勇敢。”他说。“有时我很害怕，我还是试着做正确的事情，为敏感案件辩护，依法向党发起挑战。但我有妻儿老小。我有时候需要保护自己。”
We reached our station and shuffled up the stairs. Before reaching the top, Liang stopped and turned to me. "Do you know 'The Catcher in the Rye'?" he asked. He began to paraphrase a passage: "An immature man wants to die nobly for a cause. A mature man wants to live humbly for one." He gave a small smile and fidgeted with his jacket pocket. "I use these words to comfort myself sometimes."	到站后，我们慢慢走上楼梯。走到顶部，梁小军停下来转向我。“你知道《麦田里的守望者》吗？”他问我，然后复述了一段话：“一个不成熟的男子的标志是他愿意为某种事业英勇地死去，一个成熟的男子的标志是他愿意为某种事业卑贱地活着，”他微笑着拨弄外套的口袋。“有时我会用这些话来安慰自己。”
In the aftermath of the 709 arrests, the police turned their attention to some of the wives and family members of the detained lawyers. The pressure became especially intense after two of the wives, Wang Qiaoling and Li Wenzu, began holding public demonstrations and pressing the government for answers. Together the women rallied the wives of the detained lawyers into an impromptu community, half support group and half protest movement.	709 抓捕之后，警方把注意力转向某些被捕律师的妻子和家属们。王峭岭、李文足这两位妻子开始举行公开示威，逼迫政府作出答复，之后压力变得格外巨大。女人们把被捕律师的妻子团结为一个临时社区，半是支持小组，半是用来举办抗议活动。
While lawyers like Liang navigated the byzantine legal system, the wives became the public face of 709, leading small rallies and protests in Beijing, Tianjin and other cities. The wives traveled to the detention	梁小军等律师们在混乱的司法体系中摸索的同时，妻子们成了 709 事件的形象代言人，在北京、天津等城市发起小型集会和抗议活动。她们以近乎宗教般的虔诚前往天津的看守所，每个星期都带上家人和朋友前往，在网上贴出

center in Tianjin with a nearly religious devotion. Each week, they took family and friends and posted photos online of their children frolicking on the beige linoleum floor of the prosecutor's office, like snapshots from a dystopian family vacation.	她们的孩子在检察官办公室米色亚麻地板上嬉戏的照片，好像一组反乌托邦家庭度假的快照。
I met Wang and Li in a wood-paneled coffee shop on a blistering summer afternoon, a little more than a week before the first anniversary of the crackdown. The worst part of their husbands' sudden disappearance, they agreed, was trying to explain the situation to their young children. Li, whose husband was Liang's friend Wang Quanzhang and whose son was 2½ when his father disappeared, tried at first to maintain a veneer of normalcy, telling her son that his father was on a business trip. But over the course of the year, as the family visited detention centers, police stations and lawyers, the boy came to realize that his father had been taken to prison. He asked his mother why.	在一个酷热的夏日下午，我在一个有木饰板的咖啡店里会见了王峭岭和李文足，距离 709 镇压事件一周年还有一个多星期。她们都说，丈夫突然失踪后，最糟糕的事情就是试图向年幼的孩子们解释发生了什么。李文足的丈夫是梁小军的朋友王全璋，父亲失踪时，两人的儿子只有两岁半，她先是试着维持一切正常的伪装，告诉儿子父亲出差了。但是在一年的过程中，一家人访问了看守所、警察局和律师，男孩意识到父亲被关进了监狱。他问妈妈为什么。
"I explained that he is a lawyer," Li told me. "He has to help others. Because he helps others, he has been taken away by monsters." Wang put her hand on Li's back as she continued. "'Why doesn't he come back?' my son asked. 'Are there too many monsters?' I said to him, 'If you be good and grow strong, you can help your father fight the monsters.'" She paused and took a sip of tea. Li's husband often came to Liang's office to work, and the books he had left behind still cluttered Liang's shelves — and as she spoke, Liang kept his eyes down, fiddling with a pen. "He asked if others are also helping fight the monsters," Li said. "I told him, 'Yes, many people.'"	"我解释说他是律师，"李文足告诉我。"他必须帮助别人。因为他帮助别人，所以被怪兽带走了。"在她说话的时候，王峭岭把手放在她的背上。"他为什么不回来？"儿子问。"怪兽太多了吗？"我告诉他"如果你乖，长得结结实实的，就可以帮爸爸打怪兽。"她停下来喝了一口茶。李文足的丈夫经常到梁小军的办公室去工作，他留下的书仍然乱七八糟地堆在梁的书架上——她说话的时候，梁小军一直垂着眼睛，玩着手里的笔。"他问我有没有人帮忙打怪兽，"李文足说。"我告诉他，'有，有好多人呢。'"

Yet despite their troubles, it was Xie's wife, the women agreed, who was in the toughest position. She lived far outside the city, isolated from the other wives and sources of support. And only Yuan had a new baby to care for, a distinction that the authorities had employed as a powerful bargaining chip.	尽管大家都有自己的困难，但女人们一致认为，谢燕益的妻子处境最艰难。她住在郊区，远离其他妻子和支持她们的资源。而且只有原姗姗有新生儿需要照顾，这一点被当局用来作为强大的议价筹码。
The police had offered Yuan a deal: If she would write a letter persuading her husband to confess, they would recommend a lighter sentence, and he would be allowed to see a photo of the baby. It was the only way, the police said, to reform Xie's "poor attitude." Liang warned her to resist. "They are trying to put psychological pressure on Mr. and Mrs. Xie," he told me. "I think it would cause Mr. Xie to break down. As a man, seeing video of your baby when you're not there — it would be too hard." Yuan hesitated at first, desperate for any form of contact with her husband, but eventually she agreed. She became an active member of the wives' group, traveling repeatedly to the detention center to demonstrate.	警方向原姗姗提出了一个交换条件：如果她写信劝丈夫坦白，他们会提供较轻的刑罚，他将被允许看到一张婴儿的照片。警方说，这是改变谢燕益的“恶劣态度”的唯一办法。梁小军提醒她拒绝。“他们试图给谢先生和谢太太施加心理压力，”他告诉我。“我认为这会导致谢先生的心理防线崩溃。作为一个男人，看到孩子的视频而自己又不在场——那是很难受的。”原姗姗迫切希望能以任何形式同丈夫取得联系，一开始她有些犹豫，但最终她同意了梁小军的看法。她成了妻子团体的积极成员，多次前往看守所示威。
In the coffee shop, Wang and Li began planning for the coming anniversary of the crackdown. They had yet to decide what form their protest would take; they discussed the possibility of all the wives' wearing red. "The red makes us feel better," Wang said. "We want to show our optimism, so every time we go to Tianjin, we wear red."	在咖啡馆，王峭岭和李文足开始规划即将来临的镇压周年纪念日。她们还没有决定要采取什么样的抗议形式；她们讨论，可以让所有妻子都穿红色衣服。“红色让我们感觉更好，”王峭岭说。“我们要表现出乐观的态度，所以每次去天津，我们都穿红的。”
As we got up to leave, Wang and Li pulled two short stacks of white printer paper from their purses and handed them to Liang. "Just in case," Li said. Scrawled across the pages were handwritten power-of-attorney forms, naming Liang as the lawyer for both of them	起身离开时，王峭岭和李文足从包里拿出两小叠白色的打印纸交给梁小军。“以防万一，”李文足说。这些纸页上都是手写的授权委托书，授权梁小军在两人被拘留的情况下担任她们的律师。梁小军一言不发地把这些文件放进自己的包里。两位妻子向我们挥手告别，然后手挽手地走进灼人的阳光中。 in the event that they were detained. Liang tucked the papers into his backpack without a word. The wives waved goodbye, then stepped out into the blazing sun arm in arm.

https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170802/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part3	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170802/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part3
The Lonely Crusade of China's Human Rights Lawyers	中国人权律师的孤独战斗（四）：“谁会记住他”
Read:	点击阅读:
Part1.	《中国人权律师的孤独战斗（一）：“活在真理中”》
Part2.	《中国人权律师的孤独战斗（二）：女儿等他取名字》
Part3.	《中国人权律师的孤独战斗（三）：“卑贱地活着”》
In mid-November, the Tianjin deputy police chief called Xie's older brother, Wei, with a proposal. The police had told Xie about his new daughter, but he still did not know about his mother, and the police worried that he would react violently when he learned the news. If Wei would agree to tell Xie about their mother's death, the police would arrange a meeting between the brothers. Wei agreed. It would be the first time anyone had seen Xie since his capture 16 months earlier.	11月中旬，天津市公安局副局长给谢燕益的哥哥谢伟（音）打电话，给出一个提议。警察已经告诉谢燕益他的女儿出生了，但他依然不知道母亲去世的消息，警察担心，他得知这个消息后会有激烈反应。如果谢伟同意告诉谢燕益母亲去世的消息，警察会安排他们兄弟见面。谢伟同意了。那将是谢燕益被捕16个月后，第一次有人见到他。
The meeting lasted more than four hours, with Xie carrying the bulk of the conversation. He spoke about human nature, about philosophy and democracy and about what he had learned in the detention center. His imprisonment was also valuable for the guards and officials, he said. "It's an exchange of minds," he told his brother. "The officials also need to be changed and enlightened by this experience. This is necessary to see the light."	会面持续了四个多小时，大部分时间都是谢燕益在说话。他谈到了人性、哲学和民主，以及他在看守所学到的东西。他说，他的监禁对警卫和官员来说也很重要。“那是一种思想的交流，”他对哥哥说。“官员们也需要被这段经历改变、点醒。要想看到光明，这是必需的。”
Around noon, lunch arrived. During the meal, Xie turned to the deputy	中午时分，午餐送来了。吃饭时，谢燕益对坐在旁边的副局长说，在监禁的

police chief, who was sitting off to the side. In his first six months of detention, Xie said, he had been given three steamed buns each day, but he never ate more than half his portion. "Do you know why I didn't eat them all?" he asked the deputy. "I was preparing myself to endure hunger. I wanted to be ready for the long term." The deputy laughed uneasily.	前六个月，他们每天给他三个馒头，但他从来最多只吃一半。“你知道我为什么不把它们都吃光吗？”他问副局长。“我在让自己做好挨饿的准备。我想做好长期坐牢的准备。”副局长不自在地笑了起来。
Xie did not seem interested in the outside world. He did not ask about the status of his imprisoned friends and colleagues, or about his wife and still-unnamed newborn daughter. He had spoken at great length, but Wei could not recall a single question his brother had asked.	谢燕益似乎对外面的世界不感兴趣。他没有询问被监禁的朋友和同事的状况，也没有问起妻子和刚出生的尚未命名的女儿的情况。他说了很多话，但谢伟不记得他问过一个问题。
Only the shock of his mother's death seemed to pull Xie briefly back to Earth. Wei hesitated to broach the subject, and he hoped somehow to avoid it. But the police officers interjected, reminding him of their deal. Wei reluctantly delivered the news. At first, Xie did not believe it. Wei moved to a chair beside his brother and held both his arms. "I explained it was a heart attack," Wei says. "He thought it was cruel to tell him about this." Xie began to cry, and no one spoke for several minutes. When Xie regained his composure, he said that the first thing he would do upon his release was visit his mother's grave.	似乎只有母亲去世的消息把他短暂地带回了尘世。谢伟不愿提起这个话题，他希望能有什么办法回避它。但警察打断了他们，提醒他之前的协议。谢伟不情愿地说出了这个消息。一开始，谢燕益不肯相信。谢伟坐到弟弟旁边的椅子上，搂住他的双臂。“我跟他讲，是因为心脏病发作，”谢伟说。“他觉得告诉他这个消息很残忍。”谢燕益开始哭，有几分钟时间谁也没有说话。恢复平静后，谢燕益说，释放后他要做的第一件事是给母亲扫墓。
Once the news had been delivered, the meeting quickly ended. As Xie was taken away, Wei asked the police officers if it would be possible to meet again. Before they could reply, Xie responded that there was no need. "You have your own work, and it's very tiring to come to Tianjin," he said. Wei asked again, and the police officers said that they would request approval. "There's no need," Xie repeated. "I can handle this by	母亲去世的消息一传达完，会面很快就结束了。谢燕益被带走时，谢伟问警察是否还有可能再见面。警察还没回答，谢燕益就说，没必要。“你有自己的工作，来天津挺累人的，”他说。谢伟再次询问时，警察表示，他们会申请的。“没必要，”谢燕益再次表示。“我能照顾好自己。”他被几名警卫带走，消失在一扇铁门之后。

myself." He was led away by several guards and disappeared behind an iron gate.
Later, when Yuan heard Wei describe the meeting, she remained mostly silent. But at the end, she leaned forward and spoke with pride about her husband's determination. "He's ready to spend his life in prison," she said. "He will take his case as a sacrifice to democracy and rule of law in China." Before his capture, Yuan said, her husband had wrestled with finding his purpose. "Now it seems he's found his way."	后来，原姗姗在听谢伟讲述这次会面时，大部分时间都保持沉默。但是最后，她身体前倾，骄傲地谈起丈夫的决心。“他打算在监狱里度过一生，”她说。“他会把自己的案子当成是对中国民主和法治的牺牲。”原姗姗说，被捕前，丈夫曾努力寻找自己人生的意义。“现在，他似乎找到了自己的道路。”
Liang, too, seemed bolstered by the news. "I'm very happy after what I just heard," he told Yuan and Wei. "But it's not a surprise to me. I know he's a man with a powerful heart."	梁小军似乎也被这个消息鼓舞了。“听到这些，我很高兴，”他对原姗姗和谢伟说。“不过我不觉得意外。我知道他是一个内心强大的人。”
Privately, though, Liang was more skeptical. "Xie is talking philosophy; we are dealing with his case," Liang told me after Yuan and Wei had left. The idea that Xie had given up the struggle, even while so many others continued to fight and long for his freedom, was difficult to accept.	不过私下里，梁小军则有些不确定。“谢燕益在谈论哲学，而我们在处理他的案子，”原姗姗和谢伟离开后，谢小军对我说。其他很多人在继续争取和盼望谢燕益重获自由，而他已放弃斗争，这令人难以接受。
Liang needed to get back to work. Yuan had asked him to prepare for the possibility of a trial, and he had begun drafting a statement of defense. But now he was unsure what to say, or how to proceed. It seemed that perhaps his client — his friend — was more lost than Liang had realized.	梁小军需要重新开始工作。原姗姗让他为可能出现的审判做准备，他已经开始起草辩护陈词。但是现在，他不确定该说什么，或者该如何操作。他的客户——也是他的朋友——似乎比他料想的更加迷失。
One afternoon, I found Liang hunched over his office desk, flipping through a yellowed, dog-eared copy of the Chinese criminal-procedure law, hoping to find a new way forward on Xie's case. As I entered, Liang put down the law book and rubbed his temples. Over the last several months, his spirals of gray hair, once limited to beside his ears, had	一天下午，我看见梁小军在办公桌前，俯身翻看一本发黄卷角的中国刑事诉讼法，希望找到推进谢燕益案子的新方法。我进去时，梁小军放下那本法律书，揉了揉太阳穴。在过去几个月里，他耳鬓的白发已经向上蔓延至头顶。“我知道我们赢不了，”他缓慢而平静地说。“我们无法为客户做无罪辩护。对这些人权律师，我们的工作就是与他们会面，鼓励他们，把他们的消息传到

spread upward toward the crown of his head. "We know we can't win," he said, slowly and quietly. "We can't do anything to make our clients not guilty. For human rights lawyers, our job is to meet with them, to encourage them, to deliver their message to the outside. Only lawyers can do this. And so I continue to defend them." Liang paused and touched a cup of tea cooling on the desk. "Maybe in the future, after many years, when we look back at the sacrifice of Xie and other lawyers, we will see it was worth it. That they used their sacrifice to push forward Chinese human rights, to expose the government's rule of law as fake." He stood up from his desk and turned back toward me. We were the only ones left in the office. "But who will remember his name?"	外界。只有律师能这样做。所以我会继续为他们辩护。”梁小军停下来，摸了一下桌上的一杯正在变凉的茶。“也许将来，许多年之后，当我们回头看谢燕益等律师的牺牲，我们会发现那是值得的。他们用自己的牺牲推动了中国人权的发展，暴露出政府的法治是虚假的。”他从书桌前站起来，背对着我。办公室里只剩下我们俩了。“但是谁会记住他的名字呢？”
Since the trials of the 709 detainees began last summer, the news for Liang and his fellow rights defense lawyers has largely been bleak. At trial, lawyers were forced to recant in humili-ating ways. "I want to remind everybody to wipe their eyes and clearly see the ugly faces of hostile forces overseas," one said, according to Xinhua, the state-run news agency. "Never be fooled by their ideas of 'democracy,' 'human rights' and 'benefiting the public.'" When Wang Yu, the first lawyer detained, was freed on bail, her release was accompanied by a video in which Wang conspicuously refused several prizes she was awarded while in prison, including one from the American Bar Association. "I am Chinese," she said, "and I only accept the Chinese government's leadership."	自去年夏天 709 被拘押者的审判开始以来，梁小军等辩护律师得到的消息大多令人沮丧。在审判中，律师们被迫以令人感到羞辱的方式公开认罪。“我想提醒大家擦亮眼睛，看清境外敌对势力的丑恶嘴脸”，根据官方通讯社新华社的报道，其中一名律师这样说。“永远不要被他们的‘民主’、‘人权’和‘公益’思想蒙骗。”第一位被拘押的律师王宇取保获释时，公布了一个视频，王宇在视频中公开拒绝接受她在狱中时获得的几个奖项，包括美国律师协会 (American Bar Association) 的一个奖项。“我是中国人，”她说，“我只接受中国政府的领导。”
In September, the Ministry of Justice announced new measures	去年 9 月，中国司法部宣布了几项新措施，显然是针对法律制裁范围以外的

expressly targeting the types of extrajudicial activism that had made the rights defense movement so potent and powerful. Under the revised regulations, activities like “conducting sit-ins, holding banners or placards, shouting slogans” and “expressing solidarity” were all forbidden. So, too, was “generating pressure through public opinion” by “forming groups, organizing joint signature campaigns, issuing open letters” or “gathering online in chat groups.” Firms were expected to dismiss lawyers who disobeyed or risk having their licenses revoked. Later that fall, three more rights activists disappeared into state custody.	活动，这些活动让人权维护运动更有威力。修订后的规定禁止“静坐、举牌、打横幅、喊口号、声援”等活动。此外，还禁止通过“串联组团、联署签名、发表公开信”或“组织网上聚集”来“制造舆论压力”。并要求律师事务所解雇不服从规定的律师，否则有可能吊销营业执照。去年秋末，又有三名人权活动人士遭到政府关押。
Then, in January, the first detailed account of a 709 lawyer’s arrest and detention became public. In transcripts released by his lawyers, Xie Yang — a human rights lawyer unrelated to Xie Yanyi with a history of working politically sensitive cases — described months of torture and mental abuse at the hands of a rotating cast of police officers, prosecutors and detention-center officials. During marathon interrogation sessions, Xie Yang said, his captors threatened his family — “Your wife and children need to pay attention to traffic safety when they’re out in the car; there are a lot of traffic accidents these days” — and told him that his detention had been authorized at the highest levels of the central government. If he wanted the interrogations to end, there was only one answer: “Let me tell you, filing a complaint will do you no good,” he was told. “This case comes from Beijing. We’re handling your case on behalf of Party Central.” When he refused, the torture began. “I’m going to torture you until you go insane,” one interrogator said. “You’re going to be a cripple.”	随后，今年1月，首次有律师详细叙述了在709事件中被捕和羁押的经历。此人叫谢阳，是一名人权律师，接过一些在政治上颇为敏感的案子。谢阳与谢燕益无亲属关系。谢阳的代理律师公布的会见笔录显示，他在不断轮替的警员、检察官和看守所官员手中经受了为期数月的肉体和精神虐待。谢阳说，在漫长的审讯过程中，他曾被逮捕他的人以家人的安危相威胁——“你老婆孩子开车的时候要注意交通安全，现在这个社会交通事故比较多”——还被告知，对他的拘押已经得到中央政府最高层的批准。如果他想要让审讯停止，只会得到这样的回答：“我告诉你，你告状也没有用，”对方跟他说。“你这个案子是北京的案子，我们代表的是党中央来处理你这个案子。”当他拒绝合作时，酷刑开始了。“我就是要故意折磨你，你看着，我要把你折磨成一个疯子，”一名审讯者说。“你以后就是一个废人。”

Amid the tide of dark news, there was one bit of hope for Liang. In early January, almost a year after Yuan first reached out to him to ask for his help, he received another surprising message from her. Xie Yanyi had been released on bail and moved from the detention center to a nearby hotel under house arrest. The Tianjin prosecutor had declined to pursue the case.	在坏消息不断涌来之际，梁小军只看到一丝希望。今年1月初，也就是原姗姗首次向他寻求帮助将近一年后，他收到了来自原姗姗的另一条令人意外的讯息。谢燕益已被保释，从拘留中心搬到附近的一家旅馆，接受软禁。天津检方拒绝继续跟进该案。
Two weeks later, Xie returned home. The family released a statement, thanking their supporters and stating that “due to his health and current situation,” Xie would not be accepting visitors or interviews or participating in any public affairs. Instead he would focus on spending time with his family; his first priority was picking a name for his 11-month-old daughter.	两周后，谢燕益回到家中。谢家发表了一份声明，表达了对支持者的感谢，并表示，“由于身体和现实情况”，谢燕益一定时期内暂无力参与公共事务，不接受采访和探望。他要花时间多陪孩子家人；首要任务是给11个月大的女儿取名。
It was not until early May that Xie began to emerge from his home and Liang finally had a chance to see him. The pair met at a KFC near a busy subway station in downtown Beijing. They chatted about their families and about Xie’s gradual readjustment to life outside the detention center. His freedom was imperfect and tightly controlled — a government minder, unobtrusive but obvious, trailed Xie wherever he went. But Liang noticed subtler changes in his friend, signs that his time in custody had chipped away at his spirit. Xie remained optimistic and pugnacious, but he was also calmer, more aloof. Still, Xie pressed on. He and his wife had finally chosen a name for his daughter: Xie Xin’ai, “thanks to love.” He had also taken his first case, representing members of the banned Falun Gong spiritual movement. Despite his wife’s protestations and the dire state of human rights law, Xie was eager to	直到5月初，谢燕益才开始出门，梁小军终于有机会见到他。两人在北京市中心一处繁忙的地铁站附近的肯德基里会面。他们聊了一下各自的家人，以及谢燕益离开看守所之后如何逐渐调整生活。他的自由是不完整的，受到严格的控制——一个政府的看管人到处跟随着他，虽然并不招摇，但却显而易见。但梁小军注意到，朋友产生了微妙的变化，表明遭到监禁的这段时间已经削弱了他的精神。谢燕益依然保持着乐观和好胜，但他也变得更加冷静，甚至有些冷漠。不过他依然在奋力前进。他和妻子终于为女儿起了名字：谢心爱（音）——“感谢爱”。他还接了第一个案子，代理被取缔的法轮功灵修团体成员。尽管有妻子的抗议和人权法的可怕现状，谢燕益却渴望重新开始工作。“他没有恐惧，”梁小军说。

get back to work. "He has no fear," Liang says.
Yet Xie's hard-won freedom belied a wider retreat of human rights. In July, when Liu Xiaobo died in government custody, foreign governments and heads of state issued perfunctory messages praising and mourning him, but the global reaction was muted. The world had turned its attention elsewhere — to economic growth, terrorism, North Korea and other issues on which China's cooperation was essential. Human rights was an unwelcome intrusion. The United States would no longer "tell other people how to live, what to do, who to be or how to worship," President Trump said, in a speech in Saudi Arabia. Liu died isolated and imprisoned "while the whole world watched," says Berit Reiss-Andersen, the chairwoman of the Norwegian Nobel Committee.	谢燕益艰难赢得的自由之下掩盖着更广泛的人权倒退。7月，刘晓波在政府羁押之下去世后，外国政府和国家领袖发表了例行公事的消息，赞扬他并表示哀悼，但全球的反应却是一片缄默。世界已经把注意力转移到了各种与中国的合作息息相关的问题上，诸如经济增长、恐怖主义和朝鲜问题。人权问题是一种不受欢迎的干涉。特朗普在沙特阿拉伯发表的演讲中说，美国再不会“告诉别人怎样生活，做些什么，要成为什么样的人，或者去崇拜什么”。刘晓波在隔离和囚禁之中死去之时，“整个世界都在袖手旁观”，挪威诺贝尔奖委员会主席贝瑞特·瑞斯-安德森(Berit Reiss-Andersen)说。
In the days just before and after Liu Xiaobo's death, Liang retweeted a string of messages from friends and colleagues, eulogizing Liu and grieving his loss. But Liang was circumspect about the potential for Liu's death to spark change inside China. "I think there will be a big reaction in the democracy movement," he said. "But the government will probably shut down news about this, or dilute it, so it won't have too much impact domestically." Nine years as a Chinese human rights lawyer had taught Liang that losses like Liu's death were the norm. They could not be prevented, only endured.	在刘晓波去世之前和之后的几天里，梁小军在 Twitter 上转发了一连串来自朋友和同事的信息，对刘晓波表示赞美和哀悼。但是对于刘晓波的去世在中国境内引发的变化，梁小军表示谨慎。“我认为民主运动会有很大的反应，”他说。“但是政府可能会封禁这方面的消息，或者说是淡化，所以对国内的影响也不会太大。”在中国担任人权律师的九年让梁小军明白，像刘晓波去世这样的失败是一种常态。这是不可能避免的，只能忍耐。
The End	全文结束
https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170803/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part4	https://cn.nytimes.com/china/20170803/the-lonely-crusade-of-chinas-human-rights-lawyers-part4
How to Identify a Stradivarius	500 万美元一把的小提琴长啥样?

This Stradivarius violin that was stolen in late January from the concertmaster of the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra appears to have been recovered.	1月底，密尔沃基交响乐团首席小提琴手的这把被盗的斯特拉迪瓦里(Stradivarius)小提琴好像被找到了。
Christopher Reuning, a rare-instrument dealer in Boston, explained how the violin, valued at $5 million, would be authenticated. But, he said, "When you're a violin expert, it's like looking at a family member You instantly recognize them."	波士顿的稀有乐器交易商克里斯多夫·鲁宁(Christopher Reuning)解释了这把价值500万美元的小提琴是如何被验证的。但是他说，“如果你是小提琴专家，那它对你来说就像家人，你一眼就能认出来。”
The top of the violin, made from spruce, has different widths of grain. Those widths will be compared to photographs like this one.	这把小提琴的上部是用云杉做成的，纹理的宽度不同。它的纹理宽度将与这张照片上的纹理相对比。
The ground, a wood preparation, and varnish make the wood look a certain way. "It makes the violin come alive," Mr. Reuning said. "It has an absolute beauty." It is hard to replicate, he added, but modern-day violin makers are coming close.	下部的木头涂有清漆，具有特殊的观感。“它让这把小提琴有了生命力，”鲁宁说，“它有一种绝对的美感。”他补充说，它很难复制，但是当今的小提琴制作者可以做得与此非常相像。
Every piece of wood is as unique as a fingerprint. The back of the violin, made of European curly maple, has a pattern of horizontal flames that an expert can measure for width and strength.	每块木头都像指纹一样独特。这把小提琴的背板是用欧洲自卷曲枫木做的，有水平花纹，专家能够测量它的宽度和强度。
The sound holes are carved in a unique shape, and each violin has a slightly different pattern.	音孔的曲线很独特，每把小提琴的样式都略有不同。
The instrument dates from 1715. It has scratches, battle scars and wear spots from being played over the years, and these marks will all be identifiable.	这把小提琴制作于1715年。它有划痕，有战争留下的伤痕，还有多年演奏留下的污点。这些标记都是可以辨认的。
To most people all violins look the same, Mr. Reuning said. But to an expert, "What makes a Strad a Strad is he used several outlines to create the unique shape that he used," he said.	鲁宁说，对大多数人来说，所有的小提琴看起来都一样，但是对专家来说，“斯特拉迪瓦里小提琴的独特之处在于他用几个关键点创造独特的形状。”
/culture/20140409/t09violin	/culture/20140409/t09violin

The Real Hedwigs	金刚芭比：走进变装演员的后台
The Broadway success of "Hedwig and the Angry Inch" suggests that gender-bending male performance has moved closer to the American mainstream, but it has also been flourishing in clubs around the world. The photographer Magnus Arrevad spent close to five years in several countries, documenting men applying makeup, dressing in elaborate costumes and performing. One of them, Eric Gorsuch, who goes by Mr. Gorgeous, says he has witnessed the transformation of the art form in real time. "I'm superlucky in that I feel like, even looking five years ago till now, so many people today are aware of and acknowledge different kinds of sexuality — gay, straight, bisexual, whatever," he says. "When society becomes a little more aware of other people's lifestyles, it allows people to make decisions artistically. For me, if it was 10 years ago, I don't think I would feel as confident being a male performer doing a parody of a stocking peel in high heels." Julie Bosman	百老汇音乐剧《摇滚芭比》(Hedwig and the Angry Inch)的成功表明，变装男性的表演向美国主流更靠近了一步，它在世界各地的俱乐部也流行开来。摄影师马格纳斯·阿里瓦德(Magnus Arrevad)在几个国家用近五年的时间记录画着浓妆、穿着精致服装进行表演的男性。埃里克·戈萨奇(Eric Gorsuch)是其中一位，他的艺名为“性感先生”(Mr. Gorgeous)。他说自己实时见证了这种艺术形式的演变。“我特别幸运，因为我觉得，即使与五年前相比，现在有更多人意识到也承认存在不同的性取向——同性恋、异性恋和双性恋等，”他说，“当这个社会更承认其他人的生活方式时，它就允许人们在艺术上做出自己的选择。对我来说，即使在十年前，我觉得我也不会如此自信地穿着丝袜和高跟鞋进行表演。”
Total ticket grosses for "Hedwig and the Angry Inch," as of June 19: $10,345,422	截至 6 月 19 日，《摇滚芭比》的总票房收入：10345422
Total attendance: 78,845	观看总人数：78845
Tony award nominations this year: 8 awards	今年获得托尼奖提名的个数：八项
Won: 4 (most of any show)	获奖个数：四项（是所有演出中获奖最多的）
/culture/20140629/t07hedwig	/culture/20140629/t07hedwig
Searching for Identity in China's Outer Lands	在中国的边远地带寻找自我
Q. Sakamaki has lived his life as an outsider.	Q. Sakamaki 在生活中就是一个局外人。
As a Japanese photographer based in New York City since 1986, Mr. Sakamaki has spent nearly the last 30 years far from home,	他是一名日本摄影师，自 1986 年起常驻纽约，远离家乡 30 年。他拍摄过战争、冲突、游行示威。即使是在日本长大期间，他也曾多次搬离居住地点，

documenting wars, conflict and demonstrations. Even growing up in Japan, he moved from place to place, becoming an outsider in his native land.	成为家乡的局外人。
Now, Mr. Sakamaki has turned to China's fringe provinces — Xinjian, Yunnan, Liaoning and others — where his project, "China's Outer Lands," catalogs marginalized minority groups that are rapidly becoming strangers in the territories they call home. The work is on display at The Half King in Manhattan until May 24.	现在, Sakamaki 来到中国的新疆、云南、辽宁等边远省份, 拍摄他的摄影项目“中国的边远地带”。这个项目纪录了中国边远地区的少数民族群, 正在迅速变为那片他们称之为故乡的土地的局外人。Sakamaki 的作品正在曼哈顿 The Half King 展出, 直至 5 月 24 日。
"China's Outer Lands' is about people instinctively looking for their own identity, between conformity or originality or autonomy or dependence," Mr. Sakamaki said. "It's natural, it's happening in not only China, it's everywhere." This project is part of a larger, global story Mr. Sakamaki wants to tell. While "China's Outer Lands" shows the clash between modernity and tradition in China, Mr. Sakamaki says that this conflict, along with wars and migration, has existed in other places and eras, such as during the campaigns of Genghis Khan.	"中国的边远地带'是关于人们在遵从和独创、自治与依赖之间, 本能地寻找自己的身份认同," Sakamaki 说, "这是很自然的, 不仅发生在中国, 也发生在世界的每个地方。" 这个项目是 Sakamaki 想要讲述的一个更大的、全球性故事的一部分。Sakamaki 说, "中国的边远地带"表现出中国的现代化与传统之间的冲突。这种冲突, 随着战争和迁徙的发生, 也存在在其他的其他地方和年代, 例如在成吉思汗时代的战役。
"Behind the scenes, it's not a romantic story," he said. "It's actually more like blood, blood, blood in history. One small change-up of power creates a huge wave of migration, often with new, bloody war. History shows that."	"在镜头的背后, 不是浪漫的故事," 他说, "实际上它更像是历史中的血腥、血腥、血腥。一次小型的权力交替都会制造出新的血腥战争以及大规模的移居潮。历史已经证明了这一点。"
Chinese development in Xinjiang Province has attracted a rush of Han migrant workers, and Mr. Sakamaki says the native Uighur population, which practices Islam, is being marginalized. The juxtaposition drawn between the Uighur inhabitants of the region and the migrant Han workers is stark.	Sakamaki 说, 中国新疆地区的发展吸引了一大批汉族打工者前来, 而本土信奉伊斯兰教的维吾尔族人被边缘化了。这种维吾尔族居民与汉族打工者的并存很突兀。

A Han couple poses in a field, dressed in traditional Western wedding clothes, as newly installed wind turbines tower over the countryside. Other signs of China's new industrialism dominate the landscape.	一对汉族夫妇身穿传统西式婚纱在田野间拍照，身后是新安装的风力涡轮机塔架。其他中国新工业化的标志占据了整幅风景。
But in the same province, the silhouette of a Uighur boy is shown as he looks at the rubble of a demolished building in a Uighur neighborhood. The Chinese government says it is taking down buildings to build earthquake-resistant structures, but Mr. Sakamaki insists the government is posturing. Mr. Sakamaki works as an outsider, and his photos offer glimpses of indecision and unease.	而同样是在新疆，一个维吾尔族男孩站在一个被拆毁的维吾尔族社区中，看着地上的碎石瓦砾。中国政府称拆毁这些建筑是为了修建抗震房屋，但 Sakamaki 认为政府只是在做样子。作为一个局外人，Sakamaki 的照片展现了迟疑与忧虑。
Mongolian men riding a motorbike fleck an immense field. The face of a polar bear pelt looms before the uniforms of China's last emperor, Puyi. An unemployed man, close and out of focus, partly obscures high-rise buildings being erected around a memorial square, dedicated to the region's iron industry.	蒙古人骑着摩托车驶过巨大的田野。北极熊熊皮的背后隐约可见中国末代皇帝溥仪的皇服。一个近景而虚焦的工人肖像，部分遮挡了在纪念广场附近林立的高楼。他曾为这个地区的钢铁行业做出贡献，现在已经下岗。
This work is Japanese in style, Mr. Sakamaki says, and much more personal than traditional photojournalism. He sees China's struggle for identity within himself and says that while the project takes place in China, the same ideas of independence and conformity are universal. "Japanese culture is very personal," he said. "So I felt maybe I put my personality, my identity, my own Japanese history, and also my own identity as a human being, combined."	Sakamaki 说，这组照片很日式，与传统摄影报道相比，带有强烈的个人风格。他在自己身上看到中国对于身份认同的努力与挣扎。他说，虽然这组照片在中国拍摄，但对于自主与遵从的想法是全球性的。“日本文化是非常个人化的，所以我认为也许我应该在作品中融入更多我的个性，我的身份，我自己的日本历史，我自己作为人类的身份认同。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/culture/20150515/c15sakamaki	https://cn.nytimes.com/culture/20150515/c15sakamaki
A Storied Bookstore and Its Late Oracle Leave an Imprint on Islamabad ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — After his father died, Ahmad Saeed took over the office on the ground floor of the family's storied bookstore here,	在恐怖主义年代坚守的巴基斯坦老书店 巴基斯坦伊斯兰堡——父亲去世之后，艾哈迈德·赛义德(Ahmad Saeed)就坐进了赛义德书店(Saeed Book Bank)一层的办公室里，他家的这座书店有三

Saeed Book Bank. Then the elderly men started visiting, seeking to settle old debts.	层楼高。之后，一些老人陆续拜访，希望偿还昔日的债务。
"They all apologized and said they had tried to see my father while he was alive, but his office was always too crowded and they were embarrassed," Saeed said.	"他们都是来道歉的，说本想在我父亲在世时就来拜访，但他的办公室总是挤满了人，而且他们觉得很不好意思，"赛义德说。
Five times such men arrived, hat in hand, not just to pay their respects to the son and family, but also to say they wanted to pay for books they had shoplifted as children. Saeed said his father, Saeed Jan Qureshi, who died of heart failure in September, would have been amused: He had always regarded book theft by children as an investment in a future where people still read, and thus become his customers.	像这样的拜访有五次，他们把帽子握在手里，不仅是向赛义德及家人致以哀悼，同时还表示，希望赔付自己儿时书店内偷窃的书籍。今年9月，赛义德的父亲赛义德·库雷希(Saeed Jan Qureshi)因心力衰竭去世。赛义德说，他父亲一定会感到喜悦：他从前总是将偷书的孩子视作对未来的投资，相信他们长大后依然热爱读书，会成为他的顾客。
The man himself became an oracle to those looking for advice on books, taking time to establish a personal connection and to urge favorites on visitors. (That is another thing his son has inherited: He asked a visitor if he had read "Fallen Leaves," the last book by the prolific American historian Will Durant, published in 2014, more than 30 years after his death.)	对于寻求建议的爱书人来说，库雷希自己也成为权威，他花很多时间与读者建立私人关系，还热心地向他们推荐心头所好。(儿子也继承了这个特点：赛义德就追问一位来访者是否读过《落叶集》[Fallen Leaves]，这是多产的美国历史学者威尔·杜兰特[Will Durant]的遗作，直到他去世30多年后，才在2014年出版。)
That approach helped Qureshi make an extraordinary future for Saeed Book Bank, particularly in an era when online sales have been driving independent bookstores out of business, and in a region where unfettered book piracy adds to retailers' travails.	库雷希采取的这种方式，令赛义德书店拥有了光明的前景。尤其是处在当今时代，网购正将独立书店逐出市场，当地猖獗的盗版，也加重了图书零售商的负担。
With his passion for books, Qureshi built one of the biggest bookstores in the world – mostly selling books in English, in a country where that is a second language for most people.	秉承对阅读的热衷，库雷希创办了这家书店，它是世界上规模最大的书店之一。店内大多数是英文书籍，而在巴基斯坦，英语对大多数人而言都是第二语言。
Saeed Book Bank has 42,000 square feet of usually busy floor space	赛义德书店占地4.2万平方英尺(约3900平米)，三层楼的书店里人头攒动。

over three stories, displays 200,000 titles, and stocks more than 4 million books in its five warehouses — all, Ahmad Saeed said, “by the grace of the almighty.”	书店陈列着 20 多万种书籍，五座仓库里有超过 400 万册库存。艾哈迈德·赛义德将这一切称作“万能之神的恩典”。
(His visitor had not read “Fallen Leaves,” so Saeed sent one of his 92 employees to fetch a copy. “It is so good, you must read this book.” Another visitor to the office, an aged doctor named S.H. Naqvi, agreed, having himself read it at their insistence: “It will touch your heart,” he said.)	(一位访客没有读过《落叶集》，于是赛义德派他 92 名员工中的一个去取来了一本。“这本书写得太好了，你一定要读读看。”另一位来到办公室的访客，上了年纪的医生 S·H·纳克维[S.H.Naqvi]，也同意他的说法，他已在店员的强烈推荐下读过此书。“这本书能触动你的心，”他说。)
Saeed Jan Qureshi came from a family that worked for a feudal landlord named Mir Banda Ali. His estates in southern Sindh province were so vast that five railway stops reputedly lay within his property lines. His library was similarly scaled, and as a 9-year-old, Qureshi was put to work dusting the shelves. One day Ali found him reading instead of working, and told the boy to get back to work immediately — but added that he could take a book home every night, so long as he returned it in mint condition.	赛义德江·库雷希的家族曾经为封建地主工作。那位名为米尔·班达·阿里(Mir Banda Ali)的地主，在南部的信德省拥有辽阔的土地，据说当时有五个铁路车站，都在其领地境内。他的藏书阁同样规模庞大，当时九岁的库雷希，职责就是掸扫书架灰尘。有一天，地主阿里发现库雷希在工作时看书，就命令这孩子立刻去干活，但补充道，每天晚上库雷希都可以带一本书回家，只要他爱护书籍，好好还回来就行。
Qureshi never got past high school but he was exceedingly well-read, and after school he found a job as a book salesman for a company that sent him to its Peshawar branch. Later, in the 1950s, he opened his own bookshop in Peshawar.	库雷希高中都没上完，但他博览群书。离开学校后，他在一家公司找到了图书推销员的工作，公司把他派去了白沙瓦的分公司。后来到了 50 年代，他在白沙瓦开设了自己的书店。
During the Cold War years that followed, Pakistan was an outpost in the U.S. rivalry with the Soviet Union, and Peshawar became an important military base, and later a vital CIA base of operations, particularly during the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan. Say what you will about the spooks, they were readers, and Qureshi built his business around	在随后到来的冷战时期，巴基斯坦是美国对抗苏联的堡垒，白沙瓦成了一个重要的军事基地。后来，白沙瓦又成了美国中央情报局(CIA)的重要行动基地，特别是在苏联占领阿富汗期间。不管你对间谍有什么看法，但他们也是读者。库雷希以满足他们的文学品味为核心，发展起了自己的业务。

catering to their literary tastes.
(Speaking of Afghanistan, Ahmad Saeed said: "Have you read 'The Spinner's Tale,' by Omar Shahid Hamid? No?" He seemed mildly shocked. Moments later a Pan Macmillan paperback copy of the novel materialized. "I am sorry, we've sold out of 'Fallen Leaves' — it's so hard to keep in stock — but read this," Saeed said. "A lot of it is set in Afghanistan.")	(说起阿富汗,艾哈迈德·赛义德说:"你看过奥马尔·沙希德·哈密德[Omar Shahid Hamid]的《板球投手传说》[The Spinner's Tale]吗?没有?"他似乎稍微有点震惊。过了一会儿,一本由潘麦克米伦[Pan Macmillan]出版的平装版《板球投手传说》便出现在了面前。"不好意思,《落叶集》卖完了,很难有存货,不过可以看这本,"赛义德说。"它的很多场景都设定在阿富汗。")
Later the rise of terrorism and fundamentalist Islam made Peshawar, capital of the wild frontier lands of Pakistan, a dangerous place for a bookseller — especially one who insisted on carrying magazines like Cosmopolitan and Heavy Metal, books by Karen Armstrong on Islam, and even scientist Richard Dawkins' atheist treatise, "The God Delusion." ("You just wouldn't believe how that sells," Saeed said. "We buy a thousand copies from Random House every year, year after year.")	再后来,随着恐怖主义和伊斯兰原教旨主义的崛起,作为巴基斯坦广袤边境地带的首府,白沙瓦对于书商成了一个危险的地方——尤其是一个坚持销售《时尚》(Cosmopolitan)和《重金属》(Heavy Metal)等杂志、凯伦·阿姆斯特朗(Karen Armstrong)有关伊斯兰教的书籍,乃至科学家理查德·道金斯(Richard Dawkins)的无神论著作《上帝错觉》(The God Delusion)的书商。("你根本想不到有多畅销,"赛义德说。"我们每年从兰登书屋[Random House]买1000本,年年如此。")
On the other hand, he said, another best-seller is "The Message of the Qur'an," an English translation of the holy book by Muhammad Asad, a European Jewish scholar and diplomat who converted to Islam.	他说,另一方面,另一本畅销书是《古兰经的讯息》(Message of the Qur'an)。该书是《古兰经》的英译本,译者是皈依了伊斯兰教的欧洲犹太学者、外交官穆罕默德·阿萨德(Muhammad Asad)。
Forced to close shop in Peshawar, Qureshi focused his efforts in Islamabad, the Pakistani capital, a place heavily insulated from the country's more extremist elements. Hard times followed as even Islamabad became a "no families" posting for diplomats and aid workers, but by then the bookstore was so big that its sheer breadth kept it viable, as plenty of Pakistanis read books in English.	被迫关闭白沙瓦的书店后,库雷希把业务放在了巴基斯坦首都伊斯兰堡,那里远离巴基斯坦较为极端的势力。但随着伊斯兰堡变成外交官和援助工作者"不宜带家属前往"的驻地,经营困难也随之而来。不过那时,书店已经很大了,单是书籍的广度就能让它存活下来,因为看英文书的巴基斯坦人很多。
"Other Pakistani booksellers laughed at us that we never carried pirated books," Saeed said. "But only best-sellers get pirated, and we carry	"其他巴基斯坦书商笑我们从来不卖盗版书,"赛义德说。"但只有畅销书才有盗版,而我们本身是什么都卖的。"

everything.”
For his father, books were more than just a business, Saeed said. One of the penitent former book thieves who dropped in was Suleman Khan, the vice chancellor of Iqra University, in Islamabad.	赛义德表示,对他父亲来说,书不仅仅是一门生意。前来忏悔偷过书的人中,包括伊斯兰堡伊克拉大学(Iqra University)的副校长苏莱曼·汗(Suleman Khan)。
“He came to say that when he was a child, 6 years old or so, he stole an Archie comic book and my father saw him,” Saeed said. “He said he was afraid he was going to get slapped, but my father said, ‘This is good that you like books. So every day you can take a book but keep it in mint condition and return it when you’re done so I can still sell it.’”	“他来了以后说,他小时候,大概6岁左右,偷了一本阿奇(Archie)漫画,被我父亲看到了,”赛义德说。“他说他当时很害怕,以为会挨打,但我父亲说,‘喜欢看书这一点很好。你每天都能拿走一本,但要确保书完好无损,看完了要还回来,这样我还能卖。’”
And then the vice chancellor said, “Everything that I am now, I owe to your father.”	那位副校长说,“我之所以能成为现在的我,都要归功于你父亲。”
(Naqvi, who is getting on in years, had seemed to doze off for a moment but awoke when he heard that story. “‘Fallen Leaves,’” he sighed. “You have to read that book. Everything is in there.”)	(上了年纪的纳克维似乎打了会儿瞌睡,但听到这个故事后,他醒了过来,叹了口气说:“《落叶集》你一定要看,一切都在那本书里。”)
https://cn.nytimes.com/culture/20151125/c25islamabad	https://cn.nytimes.com/culture/20151125/c25islamabad
Bidoun, an Influential Magazine of the Middle East, Extends Its Reach	在中东最有影响力的一本艺文杂志
Since its founding in 2004, the Middle Eastern art and culture magazine Bidoun has presented a distinctive, Technicolor vision of a complex region. It has given voice to important Arab feminists, analyzed Pakistani horror films, documented Egypt’s Tahrir Square uprising, and published interviews with the rapper M.I.A. and the gallerist Larry Gagosian. It even explored the influence of “Star Wars” on Saddam Hussein’s son Uday.	从2004年中东艺术文化杂志《Bidoun》创刊时起,它向我们展现了一个独特而色彩缤纷的复杂地区。它给重要的阿拉伯女权主义者提供发表意见的渠道,它分析巴基斯坦恐怖影片,记录埃及的解放广场(Tahrir Square)暴动,公布对说唱歌手 M.I.A.和画廊老板拉里·加戈西安(Larry Gagosian)的采访。它甚至探讨《星球大战》(Star Wars)对萨达姆·侯赛因(Saddam Hussein)的儿子乌代(Uday)的影响。
This month, Bidoun put its entire archive of thousands of stories and artworks online with free access and asked cultural figures, including	2015年12月,《Bidoun》把自己的全部历史资料——包括上万个故事和艺术作品——免费放到网上,并邀请文化名人创建自己的小收藏夹,包括土耳其

the Turkish Nobel laureate Orhan Pamuk and the curator Hans Ulrich Obrist, to create small collections of their favorites. The archive, at turns zany and poignant, is a photo album of a long and dramatic decade, from the aftermath of Sept. 11 to the reverberations of the Arab Spring.	诺贝尔奖得主奥汗·帕穆克(Orhan Pamuk)和策展人汉斯·乌尔里克·奥布里斯特(Hans Ulrich Obrist)。这些资料有的滑稽,有的尖锐,就像这漫长而具有戏剧性的十年的缩影——从9·11事件的影响到阿拉伯之春(Arab Spring)的反响。
"Bidoun was born of a particular moment — the post 9/11 period — and was founded by a bunch of people who are Middle Eastern in a broad sense," said Negar Azimi, a senior editor. She described her cohort as "people who grew up speaking multiple languages, maybe all of them badly," or who came of age "listening to heavy metal in Tehran or Egyptian tape metal in Kuwait."	该杂志的高级编辑内加尔·阿齐米(Negar Azimi)说:“《Bidoun》诞生于一个特殊时期——9·11事件后的那个时期。它是由一群广义上的中东人创立的。”她说她的同事是“讲多种语言长大的,可能哪一种讲得都不好”,或者是“在德黑兰听着重金属音乐或在科威特听着埃及磁带”长大的。
Ms. Azimi, who is Iranian-American and grew up in Europe and the United States, added: "Our vision of the Mideast extends to India, it extends to L.A. It certainly doesn't fulfill the expectations of the 'Clash of Civilizations' vision that's so pervasive."	阿齐米是伊朗裔美国人,在欧洲和美国长大。她补充说:“我们对中东的界定延伸至印度,延伸至洛杉矶。这样的理解肯定与中东是‘文明冲突地带’的普遍看法大不相同。”
For a magazine whose circulation has never gone above 10,000, Bidoun has had an outsize influence, especially in the art world. "Bidoun's arrival was a clear signal that a new digital cosmopolitanism had arrived with the early aughts," said Stuart Comer, the chief curator of media and performance art at the Museum of Modern Art.	《Bidoun》的每期发行量从未超过1万,但它的影响力极大,尤其在艺术界。现代艺术博物馆(Museum of Modern Art)的媒体与行为艺术策展主管斯图尔特·科默(Stuart Comer)说:“《Bidoun》的出现是早期新数字化世界主义到来的清晰标志。”
"Conceived in the spirit of an era in which citizenship is no longer a secure certainty," he said, "it has become a hub for a sprawling network of artists, writers, curators and designers" who he said are also drawn to offerings like Home Works, at the Ashkal Alwan cultural center in Beirut; the Sharjah Biennial; the Cinémathèque de Tanger; and Art Dubai.	他说:“它是在公民责任感不再可靠的时代精神中诞生的。它成为由艺术家、作家、策展人和设计师所组成的庞大网络的枢纽。”他说,这些人也喜欢贝鲁特 Ashkal Alwan 文化中心的 Home Works 活动、沙迦双年展(Sharjah Biennial)、丹吉尔先锋影展 Cinémathèque de Tanger)和迪拜艺术节(Art Dubai)等活动。
Bidoun means "without" — as opposed to "within" — in Arabic and Farsi.	Bidoun 在阿拉伯语和波斯语中的意思是 without, 与 within 相对。该杂志

"When I came up with the name, I was struggling," said Lisa Farjam, the magazine's founding editor and an Iranian-American who was then living in Europe. "I felt like I was without a place," she said. "I belong to many places and none. That was when I found that word. It meant a lot to me."	的创始编辑莉萨·法拉姆(Lisa Farjam)是伊朗裔美国人，创刊时她住在欧洲。她说：“我是在痛苦挣扎中想出这个名字的。我感觉自己没有归属感。我属于很多地方，但又不属于任何一个地方。我是在那种境况下找到这个词的。对我来说，它具有重要意义。”
Ms. Farjam's father, a businessman based in Dubai, backed the magazine until it became a nonprofit in 2010, based in New York. The magazine's most recent print edition came out in 2013. Since then, its staff members, all but one of whom are now volunteers, have been working on curatorial projects and events with institutions including New York University, the Sfeir-Semler Gallery in Beirut and the Serpentine Gallery in London.	法拉姆的父亲是迪拜的一位商人，他一直资助这本杂志，直到2010年它成为纽约的一本非营利杂志。它的最近一期纸质版出版于2013年。从那以后，它的工作人员——现在只有一位不是志愿者——与纽约大学(New York University)、贝鲁特的斯费尔-塞姆勒画廊(Sfeir-Semler Gallery)和伦敦的蛇形画廊(Serpentine Gallery)等机构合作策划项目和活动。
Over the years, Bidoun has been a testing ground for artists including the French-Moroccan Yto Barrada and Sophia Al-Maria, who is half Bedouin Arab, half Norwegian and whose work in Bidoun later became her 2012 memoir, "The Girl Who Fell to Earth." Next year, she is to have a show at the Whitney Museum.	这些年，《Bidoun》成为很多艺术家的试验场，包括法裔摩洛哥艺术家伊托·巴拉达(Yto Barrada)和索菲娅·艾尔-玛丽亚(Sophia Al-Maria)，后者有一半贝多因阿拉伯血统，一半挪威血统。2012年，她把自己在《Bidoun》上发表的作品编纂成回忆录《落入尘世的女孩》(The Girl Who Fell to Earth)。明年，她将在惠特尼博物馆(Whitney Museum)举办个展。
The magazine has also allowed readers to rediscover the writer and artist Etel Adnan, who was born in 1925 and whose life traces the complexities of the Arab situation in the 20th century. (Ms. Adnan was interviewed in Bidoun and also wrote on the little magazines from Beirut and Morocco that influenced her in the '50s and '60s, an era of transformation across the Arab world.)	这本杂志还引领读者重新发现作家兼艺术家埃泰莱·阿德南(Etel Adnan)。她生于1925年，她的一生反映出20世纪阿拉伯情况的复杂性(阿德南接受过《Bidoun》的采访，还写过关于贝鲁特和摩洛哥小杂志的文章，那些杂志在阿拉伯世界变革的五六十年代对她产生了深刻影响)。
In Bidoun in 2008, the Chicago-based American artist Michael Rakowitz did a series of cartoon drawings called "Strike the Empire Back," about	2008年，芝加哥的美国艺术家迈克尔·拉科维茨(Michael Rakowitz)画了一系列卡通画，名叫《反击帝国》(Strike the Empire Back)，讲的是萨达姆·侯

Saddam Hussein's son Uday and his obsession with "Star Wars." The first Iraqi screening of "Star Wars" is believed to have been held at a private event at Saddam Hussein's Baath Party headquarters in March 1980, six months before the start of the Iran-Iraq war, and the 15-year-old Uday attended.	赛因的儿子乌代以及他对《星球大战》的痴迷。据说，《星球大战》在伊拉克的首映是1980年3月在萨达姆·侯赛因阿拉伯复兴社会党(Baath Party)总部的一次私人活动上。六个月后，两伊战争爆发，15岁的乌代参战。
In 1995, Uday formed the Fedayeen Saddam, a violent paramilitary organization, and presented his father with a prototype for its helmet, modeled on that of Darth Vader. In July 2003, United States forces found and killed Uday and his brother Qusay. In 2010, Mr. Rakowitz's piece became part of an exhibition of his work at the Tate Modern.	1995年，乌代建立暴力准军事组织萨达姆突击队(Fedayeen Saddam)，向父亲呈献突击队头盔的样品，它是模仿达思·韦德(Darth Vader)的头盔制作的。2003年7月，美军发现并杀死乌代和他的弟弟库赛(Qusay)。2010年，拉科维茨的这系列作品在泰特现代美术馆(Tate Modern)他的个展上展出。
In 2011, Bidoun produced an issue on the Tahrir Square uprising that led to the toppling of President Hosni Mubarak of Egypt, before the return of military rule in 2014. Called "a rather brief moment in time," the issue is fractured, impressionistic "like a French film," said Michael C. Vazquez, a senior editor. The aim, he added, was to capture "whatever it means to betray a moment of revolutionary possibility."	《Bidoun》2011年的其中一期是关于解放广场暴动，这次暴动促使埃及总统胡斯尼·穆巴拉克(Hosni Mubarak)下台，2014年，埃及恢复军事统治。这本杂志的高级编辑迈克尔·C·巴斯克斯(Michael C. Vazquez)说，那一期被称为“非常短暂而及时的一刻”，“像一部法国电影”，支离破碎，给人以印象派的感觉。他补充说，目的是展现“一个有革命可能性的时刻”。
To make the issue, Bidoun held meetings, often at Cairo's Townhouse Gallery, and produced a kind of oral history. Interview subjects included teenage bloggers; newspaper editors; a tour guide at the Egyptian Museum of Cairo (the issue also featured lists of artworks stolen from it during the uprising); a journalist whose books on the Mubaraks had been banned and the Egyptian novelist Mahmoud Othman, whose self-published novel "Revolution 2053" in some ways anticipated the rebellion.	为了出版那一期，《Bidoun》多次召开会议，大多是在开罗的市政厅画廊(Townhouse Gallery)进行，留下了一段口述的历史。采访对象包括十几岁的博主、报纸编辑、埃及开罗博物馆(Egyptian Museum of Cairo)的导游(那一期还提到暴乱期间被盗的艺术品)、一名记者(他写的关于穆巴拉克的著作遭到封杀)，以及埃及小说家马哈茂德·奥斯曼(Mahmoud Othman)——他自助出版的小说《革命2053》(Revolution 2053)从很多方面预言了这次暴乱。
Bidoun has also sought to broaden the conventions of travel writing by	《Bidoun》还努力扩展旅行文学的传统，给那些通常很难归类的作家提供

giving space to writers who are often hard to categorize. It published the Kenyan author Binyavanga Wainaina reflecting on the viral success of his Granta essay "How to Write About Africa," and personal essays by the Los Angeles-based writer Gary Dauphin, a former editor in chief of Africana.com and BlackPlanet.com; the Indian writer Achal Prabhala; and the cultural critic Sukhdev Sandhu.	发表空间。它出版了以下作家的作品：肯尼亚作家比尼亚万加·瓦伊纳伊纳 (Binyavanga Wainaina)——他讲述自己入选《格兰特》(Granta)的散文《如何讲述非洲》(How to Write About Africa)获得的极大成功；洛杉矶作家、Africana.com 和 BlackPlanet.com 网站的前主编加里·多芬(Gary Dauphin)，发表的是他的个人散文；印度作家阿沙莱·普拉哈拉(Achal Prabhala)；以及文化批评家苏克德夫·桑杜(Sukhdev Sandhu)。
In 2009, Bidoun began a library project, a collection of about 3,000 books ranging from pulp fiction to more intellectual works, that "documents the innumerable ways that people have depicted and defined — that is, slandered, celebrated, obfuscated, hyperbolized, ventriloquized, photographed, surveyed, and/or exhumed — the vast, vexed, nefarious construct known as 'the Middle East,'" the magazine's website reads.	2009年,《Bidoun》开始进行一个图书馆项目,收藏了约3000本图书,从通俗小说到更具智慧的作品。该杂志的网站写道,那些作品“记录了人们描绘和界定‘中东’——这个广阔、动荡、邪恶的概念——的无数方式,比如诽谤、庆祝、混淆、夸张、口述、拍摄、调查和/或发掘,“。
The library has been put on view in six cities, including at the New Museum in New York and the Carnegie International in Pittsburgh.	这个图书馆在六座城市展出,包括在纽约的新博物馆(New Museum)和匹兹堡的卡内基国际展(Carnegie International)上。
Bidoun was sold at high-end bookshops from New York to Paris but often struggled with distribution in the Middle East. Putting the archives online is a way to reach more readers.	《Bidoun》在从纽约到巴黎的高端书店销售,但是在中东地区的发行却往往比较困难。把历史资料放在网上是为了接触更多读者。
"So many times someone said, 'Oh I wish I could see that issue.' And now it's finally there," Ms. Farjam, the founding editor, said. "Now it's cemented in the ether forever."	"我无数次听到有人说:‘哦,真希望我能看到那一期。’现在终于能看到了,"创刊编辑法拉姆说。"现在它将永远存在于网络空间了。"
/culture/20160104/t04bidoun	/culture/20160104/t04bidoun
Nigeria's Booming Film Industry Redefines African Life	瑙莱坞:讲述非洲故事的尼日利亚电影梦工厂
ASABA, Nigeria — Sitting on a blue plastic stool in the sweltering heat, Ugezu J. Ugezu, one of Nigeria's top filmmakers, was furiously rewriting	尼日利亚阿萨巴——酷热之下,尼日利亚顶尖的电影人尤格祖·J·尤格祖(Ugezu J. Ugezu)正坐在一张蓝色的塑料凳子上奋笔疾书,修改剧本。摄像

his script as the cameras prepared to roll. "Cut!" he shouted after wrapping up a key scene, a confrontation between the two leading characters. Then, under his breath, he added, "Good as it gets."	机做好了开动的准备。“停！”他在一场关键的戏结束后喊道。那是两位主演的一场对手戏。之后，他又低声说，“还算不错。”
This was the seventh — and last — day of shooting in a village near here for "Beyond the Dance," Mr. Ugezu's story of an African prince's choice of a bride, and the production had been conducted at a breakneck pace.	这是尤格祖执导的影片《舞蹈之外》(Beyond the Dance)在这附近的一个村庄取景拍摄的第七天，也是最后一天，这部电影的制作速度非常快。影片讲述的是一个非洲王子选择新娘的故事。
"In Nollywood, you don't waste time," he said. "It's not the technical depth that has made our films so popular. It's because of the story. We tell African stories."	“在瑙莱坞，不能浪费时间，”他说。“让我们的电影大受欢迎的不是高深的技术，而是故事。我们讲的是非洲故事。”
The stories told by Nigeria's booming film industry, known as Nollywood, have emerged as a cultural phenomenon across Africa, the vanguard of the country's growing influence across the continent in music, comedy, fashion and even religion.	“瑙莱坞”(Nollywood)是尼日利亚蓬勃发展的电影工业的代称。这里讲述的故事，已经成了整个非洲的一种文化现象。尼日利亚在非洲大陆的音乐、喜剧、时尚乃至宗教领域的影响力日渐增强，而瑙莱坞电影则充当了先锋。
Nollywood generates about 2,500 movies a year, making it the second-biggest producer after Bollywood in India, and its films have displaced American, Indian and Chinese ones on the televisions that are ubiquitous in bars, hair salons, airport lounges and homes across Africa.	瑙莱坞一年的电影产量约为 2500 部，是仅次于印度宝莱坞(Bollywood)的第二大电影产地。在非洲各地的酒吧、发廊、机场候机厅和居民家中随处可见的电视上，瑙莱坞电影已经取代了美国、印度和中国的电影。
The industry employs a million people — second only to farming — in Nigeria, pumping $600 million annually into the national economy, according to a 2014 report by the United States International Trade Commission. In 2002, it made 400 movies and $45 million.	美国国际贸易委员会(United States International Trade Commission)在 2014 年发布的一份报告显示，尼日利亚电影业有 100 万从业人员——仅次于农业——每年会为国民经济贡献 6 亿美元。而 2002 年时，尼日利亚电影业的产量只有 400 部，收入也仅有 4500 万美元。
Nollywood resonates across Africa with its stories of a precolonial past and of a present caught between village life and urban modernity. The movies explore the tensions between the individual and extended	瑙莱坞凭借其讲述的故事在整个非洲引起了共鸣，如这片大陆在沦为殖民地之前的历史，以及当下夹在农村生活和城市现代化之间的体验。影片探究了个人与大家庭之间、城市生活的吸引力与农村生活的牵绊之间、基督教和传

families, between the draw of urban life and the pull of the village, between Christianity and traditional beliefs. For countless people, in a place long shaped by outsiders, Nollywood is redefining the African experience.	统信仰之间的冲突。这里长久以来一直被外来者左右，对于这里的许多人来说，瑙莱坞正在重新定义非洲的体验。
"I doubt that a white person, a European or American, can appreciate Nollywood movies the way an African can," said Katsuva Ngoloma, a linguist at the University of Lubumbashi in the Democratic Republic of Congo who has written about Nollywood's significance. "But Africans – the rich, the poor, everyone – will see themselves in those movies in one way or another."	"我怀疑白人，不管是欧洲人还是美国人，无法像非洲人那样欣赏瑙莱坞的电影，"刚果民主共和国卢本巴希大学(University of Lubumbashi)语言学专家卡楚瓦·恩戈洛马(Katsuva Ngoloma)说。"但是非洲人，无论贫富贵贱，都会从这些电影里以某种方式看到自己的影子。"恩戈洛马曾撰文论述瑙莱坞的重要意义。
In Yeoville, a neighborhood in Johannesburg that is a melting pot for migrants, a seamstress from Ghana took orders one recent morning for the latest fashions seen in Nollywood movies. Hairstylists from the Democratic Republic of Congo, Mozambique and Zimbabwe, working in salons or on the street, offered hair weaves following the styles favored by Nollywood actresses.	约翰内斯堡的约维尔(Yeoville)地区是移民的大熔炉。不久前的一天上午，一名来自加纳的女裁缝接到订单，要缝制瑙莱坞电影里出现的最新服饰。来自民主刚果、莫桑比克和津巴布韦的发型师，不管是在店里还是在街头工作的，都会按照瑙莱坞女演员喜欢的发型给顾客做头发。
"Nigerian movies express how we live as Africans, what we experience in our everyday lives, things like witchcraft, things like fighting between mother-in-laws and daughter-in-laws," said Patience Moyo, 34, a Zimbabwean hair-braider. "When you watch the movies, you feel it is really happening. One way or another, it will touch your life somewhere."	"尼日利亚的电影表现的是我们非洲人的生活方式，我们在日常生活中的经历，比如巫术和婆媳大战等，"34岁的津巴布韦籍辫发师佩兴丝·莫约(Patience Moyo)说。"看电影的时候，你会觉得电影里发生的是真事。不管怎样，总会触及你生活的某个地方。"
Back in 2002, the movies were simply known as Nigeria's home videos. They were popularized at first through video cassettes traded across Africa, but now Nollywood is available on satellite and cable television	在2002年，瑙莱坞的电影还只能叫做尼日利亚家庭录像。它们最初是通过在非洲各地都能买到的录像带流行起来的。但现在，在卫星和有线电视频道，以及 iRokoTV 等流媒体服务平台上，均能看到瑙莱坞的影片。2012年，为

channels, as well as on streaming services like iRokoTV. In 2012, in response to swelling popularity in Francophone Africa, a satellite channel called Nollywood TV began offering round-the-clock movies dubbed into French. Most Nollywood movies are in English, though some are in one of Nigeria’s main ethnic languages.	回应瑙莱坞电影在非洲法语地区大受欢迎的局面，一个名叫瑙莱坞电视(Nollywood TV)的卫星频道，开始全天播放法语配音的电影。瑙莱坞电影大多使用英语，不过也有一些影片用尼日利亚主要的民族语言。
Until Nollywood’s ascendance, movies made in Francophone Africa – with grants from the French government – dominated filmmaking on the continent. But these movies catered to the sensibilities of Western critics and viewers, and won few fans in Africa, leaving no cultural footprint.	在瑙莱坞崛起之前，非洲法语国家摄制的电影，把持着这片大陆上的电影业。但这些靠法国政府的经费拍摄的影片，迎合的是西方影评人和观众的感情，在非洲几乎没有影迷，也没有留下文化印记。
In Nollywood, though, movies are still financed by private investors expecting a profit.	但在瑙莱坞，电影制作的资金依然来自希望赚到钱的私人投资者。
“You want to do a movie? You have the script? You look immediately for the money and you shoot,” said Mahmood Ali-Balogun, a leading Nigerian filmmaker. “When you get a grant from France or the E.U., they can dictate to you where to put your camera, the fine-tuning of your script. It’s not a good model for us in Africa.”	“想拍电影？剧本有了？马上就能筹集资金开拍，”尼日利亚知名电影人马哈茂德·阿里-巴洛贡(Mahmood Ali-Balogun)说。“要是用法国和欧盟的拨款，它们会规定摄像机的位置，还会改剧本。对我们这些在非洲的人来说，这种模式不好。”
Mr. Ali-Balogun was speaking from his office in Surulere, Lagos, the birthplace of Nollywood. Film production has since moved to other cities, especially Asaba, an otherwise sleepy state capital in southeastern Nigeria. On any given day, a dozen crews can be found here – “epic” films with ancient story lines like “Beyond the Dance” are in the works in nearby villages, while “glamour” movies about modern life make the city itself their sets.	阿里-巴洛贡是在他位于拉各斯苏鲁里尔(Surulere)的办公室接受采访的。这里是瑙莱坞的诞生地。如今，电影制作已转移至其他城市，特别是阿萨巴。如果没有电影业，位于尼日利亚东南部的阿萨巴就只是一个宁静的州首府。任何一天，都能在这里看到几十个剧组。像《舞蹈之外》这种有古代故事情节的“史诗”片，要在附近村子里的制片厂摄制，而讲述现代生活的“时髦”片则把城市本身当作布景。
One recent entry in the glamour category was “Okada 50,” the story of	最近有一部时髦片叫《奥卡达 50》(Okada 50)，讲的是一对母子离开他们

a woman and son who, after leaving their village, open a coffin business in the city and terrorize their neighbors.	生活的村子，在城里开了一家棺材店，并因此吓着了周围邻居的故事。
Most films have budgets of about $25,000 and are shot in a week.	大部分电影的预算都在 2.5 万美元左右，在一周之内完成拍摄。
Once completed in Asaba, the movies find their way to every corner of Africa, released in the original English, dubbed into French or African languages, and sometimes readapted, repackaged and often pirated for local audiences. Many movies are also propelled by a symbiotic relationship with Nigeria's Pentecostal Christianity, which pastors have exported throughout Africa.	在阿萨巴一完成制作，电影便会进入非洲的各个角落。英语原声的电影会被配音成法语或非洲语言。有时候，影片还会针对当地观众进行重新改编和重新包装，这些通常都是盗版。由于牧师们已经将尼日利亚的基督教五旬节派(Pentecostal Christianity)传播到了整个非洲，许多电影也因为与该教派相辅相成的关系，而得到了推动。
In the Democratic Republic of Congo, pastors who visited Nigeria years ago returned with videocassettes and showed the films in church to teach Christian lessons and attract new members, said Katrien Pype, a Belgian anthropologist at the University of Leuven who has written about the phenomenon.	鲁汶大学(University of Leuven)的比利时人类学家卡特林·派珀(Katrien Pype)称，在民主刚果，多年前来到尼日利亚的牧师，回国时带了很多录像带，为了教授基督教课程和吸引新信徒，而在教堂里放映电影。派珀曾撰文介绍过这一现象。
Today in Kinshasa, the Congolese capital, Nollywood permeates mainstream culture. Local women copy the fashion, makeup and hairstyles of the actresses; local musicians grumble at the popularity of Nigerian imports, like Don Jazzy and the P-Square twins.	如今在民主刚果的首都金沙萨，瑙莱坞全面影响着主流文化。当地的女性会效仿女演员的服饰、妆容和发型。当地的音乐人会抱怨从尼日利亚输入的音乐人太受欢迎，如唐·杰西(Don Jazzy)和双胞胎组合 P-Square。
Trésor Baka, a Congolese dubber who translates Nollywood movies into the local language, Lingala, said the films are popular because "Nigeria has succeeded in reconciling modernity and their ancient ways, their culture and traditions."	把瑙莱坞电影翻译成民主刚果当地语言林加拉语的配音演员特勒索·巴卡(Trésor Baka)表示，瑙莱坞电影受欢迎是因为，“尼日利亚成功地把现代化和他们的古老历史、文化和传统融为了一体”。
/culture/20160221/tc21nollywood	/culture/20160221/tc21nollywood
United Arab Emirates Soccer Warily Eyes China and Qatar	阿联酋风光不再，中国卡塔尔成足坛淘金新乐园
ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates — In international soccer, the United	阿拉伯联合酋长国阿布扎比——在国际足球赛事上，阿拉伯联合酋长国的表

Arab Emirates is looking good. The national team finished third at the 2015 Asian Cup continental tournament, and it is stocked with the country's golden generation of players. The team has a real chance of qualifying for the 2018 World Cup.	现看上去不错。其国家队集中了该国黄金一代球员，在 2015 年的亚足联亚洲杯(Asian Cup)中获得了第三名的成绩，而且很有可能会入围 2018 世界杯。
The 14-team Arabian Gulf League, which professionalized in 2008, is now regarded as one of the best in Asia. One of the clubs, Al Ahli of Dubai, reached the final of the Asian Champions League last year.	于 2008 年开始职业化的阿联酋阿拉伯海湾联赛(Arabian Gulf League)共有 14 个俱乐部，目前被认为是亚洲最好的职业赛事之一。其中的迪拜阿赫利(Al Ahli of Dubai)俱乐部，在去年的亚足联冠军联赛(Asian Champions League)中踢进了决赛。
Yet the league still struggles to attract fans, and it is now facing twin threats from the rise of Qatar and China in global soccer that threaten to knock the Emirates down the soccer ladder.	不过，这个联赛依然难以吸引球迷，而且在国际足球领域，它现在面临着来自卡塔尔和中国的双重威胁，后两者有可能会取代阿联酋的位置。
The Emirates, along with Qatar, was seen as a place for European and South American stars to earn big, tax-free salaries in the twilight of their careers. The captain of Italy's 2006 World Cup winning team, Fabio Cannavaro, ended his career in Dubai with Al Ahli, while David Trezeguet, a member of France's Cup winner in 1998, played briefly for Baniyas in Abu Dhabi near the end of his career.	过去，阿联酋和卡塔尔被看作欧洲和南美球星在职业生涯的黄昏时期赚取巨额免税工资的地方。2006 年赢得世界杯冠军的意大利国家足球队队长法比奥·卡纳瓦罗(Fabio Cannavaro)，就是在迪拜的阿尔阿赫利足球俱乐部度过了职业生涯的最后时期。1998 年世界杯冠军法国队的球员戴维·特雷泽盖(David Trezeguet)，也曾于职业生涯末期短暂服役于阿布扎比的巴尼亚斯(Baniyas)俱乐部。
The A-list veterans now go to Major League Soccer, while the younger talents who previously signed with Emirates clubs are heading to China and a league that has spent around $285 million in the transfer market in recent weeks.	如今的一线老球员往往投奔美国职业足球大联盟(Major League Soccer)，而曾和阿联酋俱乐部签约一些较年轻的球员，则转向中国，那里的联赛俱乐部在最近几周已经为球员转会砸下 2.85 亿美元。
Not only have the most famous clubs in the Emirates been unable to compete financially with the Chinese teams — a decline in oil prices hasn't helped — but a few have ended up selling to them. In July 2015, three years after joining Al Ain of Abu Dhabi from the English Premier	阿联酋最知名的俱乐部不仅在财务上难以与中国的足球俱乐部抗衡——石油价格下跌显然是个不利因素，到头来可能还要把球员卖给它们。从英超联赛(Premier League)的桑德兰队(Sunderland)离开，加入阿布扎比的阿尔艾因(Al Ain)俱乐部三年后，阿萨莫阿·吉安(Asamoah Gyan)于 2015 年 7 月加入

League team Sunderland, Asamoah Gyan joined Shanghai S.I.P.G. for a transfer fee thought to be around $25 million, at the time an Asian transfer record.	了上海上港集团(SIPG)俱乐部, 其转会费据说约为 2500 万美元, 创下当时的亚洲转会费最高纪录。
"Now U.A.E. teams are missing out on players who go to China. I remember a few years ago seeing that big stars went to Abu Dhabi or Dubai. China is now a big destination for players," Javier Aguirre, coach of Al Wahda, a club in Abu Dhabi, said in January after a victory over Dibba Club of Al Fujayrah. "The money is good there, and there is something happening."	"现在阿联酋各个球队的球员正在流失, 纷纷加入中国球队。我记得几年前, 大球星都是来阿布扎比或迪拜。中国现在成了足球明星的一大聚集地, "阿布扎比的阿尔瓦赫达(Al Wahda)队教练哈维尔·阿吉雷(Javier Aguirre)在今年 1 月战胜富查伊拉的迪巴(Dibba)队时说。"那边给的钱多, 情况正在发生变化。"
United Arab Emirates clubs have struggled to attract supporters to the stadium in a culture where many choose to watch games at home or in cafes. Al Wahda's official attendance against Dibba may have been 1,200, but there seemed to be considerably fewer fans in the stadium. While league games in China and Japan in 2015 averaged about 22,000 and 17,000 fans respectively, the average attendance in the U.A.E. League was 2,529 in the 2014-15 season.	在这样一个许多人习惯在家或咖啡馆看比赛的地方, 阿联酋的各个足球俱乐部难以吸引足够的观众到现场观看比赛。官方统计的阿尔瓦赫达对迪巴比赛上座人数可能有 1200 人, 但现场的人数似乎比这个数字要少很多。中国和日本 2015 年的足球联赛每场比赛平均上座率分别为 2.2 万和 2.7 万, 而阿联酋的联赛在 2014 至 2015 赛季的平均上座率只有 2539 人。
"It surprised me. If you go to do your job with empty seats, then it is not really good," Aguirre said. "That is the most difficult part for me. We have the facilities, but we need the fans."	"我挺吃惊的。如果你去比赛, 发现观众席上都是空的, 感觉肯定不会太好," 阿吉雷说。"对我来说, 这是最大的难题。我们有场地, 但我们需要观众。"
Qatar has similar issues, but it also has the 2022 World Cup. The Arabian Gulf League has traditionally been considered stronger than the Qatar Stars League, but there are worries that the World Cup may help change that. (The Qatari club Al Sadd S.C. made the biggest splash among Middle Eastern clubs last year when it signed the former Barcelona playmaker Xavi Hernández to end his career in Doha.)	卡塔尔也有类似的问题, 但它有 2022 年世界杯的主办权。阿联酋阿拉伯海湾联赛通常被认为比卡塔尔星级联赛(Qatar Stars League)更强, 但有人担心 2022 年世界杯有可能会改变这种状况。(去年, 卡塔尔阿尔萨德 SC[Al Sadd S.C.]俱乐部签下前西班牙球星哈维·埃尔南德斯[Xavi Hernández], 买断其余下合同期一事, 曾在中东地区的足球俱乐部中引起极大的轰动。)

"This country has to do something like Qatar," said Aguirre. "For the World Cup, Qatar is investing. As the World Cup gets closer, many big players will go there. The Emirates has to do something similar."	"这个国家必须像卡塔尔那样做一些努力，"阿吉雷说。"为了世界杯，卡塔尔正在进行投资。随着世界杯临近，不少大牌球员会转到卡塔尔去。阿联酋必须采取类似的对策。"
Perhaps one way would be for some of the Emirates' most talented players to go to Europe to challenge themselves against top talents, but few rarely do.	或许有一个办法是，让阿联酋最好的一些球员去挑战欧洲的顶级球员，但他们很少会这么做。
Some may be good enough to. Ali Mabkhout was the top scorer at the 2015 Asian Cup, and Ahmed Khalil was the 2015 Asian Player of the Year. Omar Abdulrahman, a bushy-haired playmaker, is regarded as one of the most talented in Asia and monitored by many of the top clubs in the world.	有些可能确实有这个实力。比如，2015年亚足联亚洲杯最佳球员阿里·马布霍特(Ali Mabkhout)，2015年亚洲足球先生艾哈迈德·哈利勒(Ahmed Khalil)。留着大蓬头的进攻组织者奥马尔·阿卜杜勒拉赫曼(Omar Abdulrahman)如今被认为是亚洲最优秀的球员之一，受到全世界不少顶级俱乐部的密切关注。
Abdulrahman was so impressive at the 2012 Olympics that he was offered a deal by the then-English champion Manchester City. He turned it down. In 2015, after starring at the Asian Cup, he signed a lucrative new deal with Al Ain.	阿卜杜勒拉赫曼在2012年的表现极为引人注目，当时的英超联赛冠军曼彻斯特城(Manchester City)队曾向他发出邀约。但他拒绝了。2015年，结束在亚足联亚洲杯上的优秀表现后，他和阿尔艾因俱乐部签下价格不菲的新合约。
For many players, the opportunity to earn big salaries at home, while paying no taxes, makes it harder to leave. Until the emergence of Abdulrahman, Ismail Matar was the biggest star in the country. The attacker was named the most valuable player at the 2003 World Youth Cup and was widely expected to join the big leagues in Europe. It never happened.	对许多球员来说，在家门口就可以赚大钱，而且不用纳税，这样的机会让他们更加难以离开。在阿卜杜勒拉赫曼出现以前，伊斯梅尔·马塔尔(Ismail Matar)是这个国家最著名的球星。这名进攻型球员曾在2003年的世界青少年杯赛(World Youth Cup)上被评为最有价值球员，业内当时普遍认为他会加入欧洲的某个俱乐部。这个预测并没有变成现实。
"I played against a lot of big names at that time like Seedorf, Vieira, the de Boers and they all said the same thing, "Why you don't play in Europe?" said Matar. "I know I have the quality to play there, but I didn't have the chance."	"当时我和西多夫、维埃拉、德波尔兄弟等许多大牌球星较量过，他们都说过同样的话，'你干嘛不来欧洲踢球？'"马塔尔说。"我知道自己有能力在那里踢球，但我没有这样的机会。"

Traditionally, the owners of clubs in the country have been reluctant to let stars go. In 2008, Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al-Maktoum, the crown prince of Dubai and the president of Al Ahli, intervened to stop striker Faisal Khalil from moving to France.	阿联酋各个俱乐部的老板们通常不愿放自己的球星走。2008年，迪拜王储、阿尔阿赫利俱乐部总裁谢赫穆罕默德·本·拉希德·阿勒马克图姆 (Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al-Maktoum)曾出面阻止该俱乐部前锋费萨尔·哈利勒(Faisal Khalil)加入法国的球队。
"If they go to the next step and sending people to Europe, then the league will be better," said Aguirre, who has also coached the Japanese and Mexican national teams and several teams in Spain's top tier. "They have a good league, good players, and salaries, but they need to put some young Emirate players in other countries, like Japan and Mexico do."	"如果他们采取下一步行动，送球员到欧洲去，那么这里的联赛可能会比现在更好，"阿吉雷说，他也曾在日本和墨西哥的国家队，以及西班牙的几个顶级俱乐部队执教。"这里有不错的联赛，有好球员，薪水也不错，但他们需要把一些年轻的阿联酋球员放到其他国家锻炼锻炼，比如日本和墨西哥。"
"Omar Abdulrahman can play in any part of the world," Aguirre said. "In my opinion, it is not about money, it is about this kind of life, this kind of pressure. They are in a comfort zone here."	"奥马尔·阿卜杜勒拉赫曼可以进世界上任何一个球队踢球，"阿吉雷说。"在我看来，这不是钱的事，而是那种生活，那种压力。这里对他们来说就是个安乐窝。"
The Emirates qualified for the World Cup once, in 1990, but Matar believes that the current golden generation can qualify for the 2018 tournament in Russia and give the local game a lift. "Japan, Australia and Iran are not the same as before," he said. "We have the quality and for me, it is easy."	阿联酋曾在1990年入围世界杯，但马塔尔认为，目前的黄金一代球员有能力让阿联酋入围2018年的俄罗斯世界杯，由此提振本国赛事。"日本、澳大利亚和伊朗队实力不比从前了，"他说。"我们现在有这个能力，在我看来，这并不难。"
/culture/20160321/t21iht-uaesoccer	/culture/20160321/t21iht-uaesoccer
Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman	时报普利策奖作品：被侮辱的与被损害的（上）
Read other chapters: Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman (2)	阅读：被侮辱的与被损害的（中）：仓促的审判。
Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman (3)	被侮辱的与被损害的（下）：正义何时到来？
KABUL, Afghanistan — Farkhunda had one chance to escape the mob that wanted to kill her. Two Afghan police officers pulled her onto the	阿富汗喀布尔——法尔昆达(Farkhunda)有过一次可以逃离那些想杀死她的暴民的机会。两名阿富汗警察把她拉到一个低矮棚屋的屋顶上，离开下面愤

roof of a low shed, above the angry crowd.	怒的人群。
But then the enraged men below her picked up poles and planks of wood, and hit at her until she lost her grip and tumbled down.	但是后来，下方愤怒的男人捡起杆子和木板打她，直到她失去平衡，摔了下去。
Her face bloodied, she struggled to stand. Holding her hands to her hair, she looked horrified to find that her attackers had yanked off her black hijab as she fell. The mob closed in, kicking and jumping on her slight frame.	她挣扎着站起来，脸上留着血。她发现在自己摔下去的时候，围攻者拽掉了她的黑头巾，她露出惊骇的神色，用手捂住头发。暴民们围上来，用脚踢她，在她瘦弱的身上蹂躏。
The tormented final hours of Farkhunda Malikzada, a 27-year-old aspiring student of Islam who was accused of burning a Quran in a Muslim shrine, shocked Afghans across the country. That is because many of her killers filmed one another beating her and posted clips of her broken body on social media. Hundreds of other men watched, holding their phones aloft to try to get a glimpse of the violence, but never making a move to intervene. Those standing by included several police officers.	27岁的法尔昆达·马利克扎达(Farkhunda Malikzada)遭受几小时折磨而死的事情震惊了整个阿富汗。她是一名很有抱负的伊斯兰教学生，被控在一处穆斯林的神圣场所焚烧《古兰经》。很多凶手互相拍摄殴打她的视频，还把她残破身体的视频发到社交媒体上。现场还有数百名男子围观，他们高举着手机试图一窥暴行的发生，完全没有进行干涉。旁观者中还有几名警察。
Unlike so many abuses against Afghan women that unfold in private, this killing in March prompted a national outcry. For Farkhunda had not burned a Quran. Instead, an investigation found, she had confronted men who were themselves dishonoring the shrine by trafficking in amulets and, more clandestinely, Viagra and condoms.	与私下披露出来的阿富汗妇女遭受虐待的很多事件不同，3月份(2015年3月——译注)的这次虐杀引发举国抗议。因为法尔昆达并没有焚烧《古兰经》。实际上，调查发现，她之前是在对抗那些玷污清真寺的男人，他们非法交易护身符，更偷偷摸摸地贩卖伟哥和保险套。
At first, the trial and convictions that followed seemed a victory in the long struggle to give Afghan women their due in a court of law. But a deeper look suggests otherwise. The fortuneteller who several investigators believe set the events in motion was found not guilty on appeal. The shrine's custodian, who concocted the false charge of	一开始，随后进行的审判和定罪让人以为在法庭上争取公平对待阿富汗妇女的长期斗争终于取得胜利。但是，仔细研究就会发现并非如此。那名被几位调查者认为引发这些事的占卜者被判无罪。捏造焚烧《古兰经》谣言、煽动暴民的清真寺看门人免于死刑。没有伸出援手的警察和其他围观者仅受到轻微惩罚。视频中可辨认的一些攻击者都未捕获。阿富汗的律师和人权倡导者

Quran burning and incited the mob, had his death sentence commuted. Police officers who failed to send help and others who stood by received slaps on the wrist, at most. Some attackers identifiable in the videos avoided capture altogether. Afghan lawyers and human rights advocates agree that most of the accused did not receive fair trials. Farkhunda's family, fearing reprisals and worried that the killers would not be held accountable, fled the country.	也认为，大部分被告没有受到公平审判。法尔昆达的家人害怕遭到报复，担心凶手不会被追究责任，所以逃离了这个国家。
Farkhunda's death and the legal system's response call into question more than a decade of Western efforts in Afghanistan to instill a rule of law and improve the status of women. The United States alone has spent more than $1 billion to train lawyers and judges and to improve legal protections for women; European countries have provided tens of millions more.	法尔昆达之死以及阿富汗司法系统的反应，让人们对于十多年来西方国家在阿富汗灌输法治观念、提高妇女地位的努力其成效产生质疑。单是美国就花费逾10亿美元帮这里培养律师和法官，加强对妇女的法律保护；欧洲国家也在这方面花费了数千万美元。
But like so many other Western attempts to remake Afghanistan, the efforts have foundered, according to Afghan and Western lawyers and officials. Afghan society has resisted more than 150 years of such endeavors by outsiders, from the British to the Russians to the Americans. This remains a country where ties of kinship and clan trump justice, and where the money brought by the West has made corruption into a way of life. The rule-of-law programs were often designed in ignorance of Afghan legal norms, international and Afghan lawyers say. And Western efforts to lift women's legal status provoked fierce resentment from powerful religious figures and many ordinary Afghans.	但是，据阿富汗和西方国家的律师和官员们称，与西方国家改造阿富汗的其他尝试一样，这些努力也失败了。150多年来，阿富汗社会一直抵制外界的这些努力——从英国人、俄国人到美国人。在这个国家，亲戚关系和宗族关系依然高于司法，西方的资助只是让腐败成为了一种生活方式。阿富汗国内外的律师称，法治项目的设计往往没有顾及阿富汗的法律规范。西方国家提高妇女法律地位的努力引起强大的宗教人物和很多普通阿富汗人的强烈愤恨。
Yet Afghan women most need the legal system to defend them: They	但是，阿富汗妇女是最需要法律体制来保护她们的：她们若没有男性家庭成

are largely powerless without the support of male family members, and it is usually family members who abuse them.	员的支持，基本上无能为力，而且虐待她们的往往是家庭成员。
"Where is the justice?" asked Mujibullah Malikzada, Farkhunda's elder brother, as he sat in a sparsely furnished apartment in Tajikistan. "In my Islamic country, a girl was disrespectfully, dishonorably lynched and burned, and what has happened? We have left our home. They never caught all the people. What are we to do?"	"正义何在？"法尔昆达的哥哥穆吉巴拉·马利克扎达(Mujibullah Malikzada)坐在塔吉克斯坦一个仅有简单家具的公寓里问道，“在我的伊斯兰国家，一个女孩被无礼、卑鄙地处以私刑并烧死，这到底是怎么回事？我们离开了自己的家园。他们一直没有抓住所有的凶手。我们该怎么办？”
As a last resort, Farkhunda's family has appealed to the Afghan Supreme Court, which has wide power to impose new sentences or order a new trial. The decision is pending.	法尔昆达的家人最后迫不得已，上诉到阿富汗最高法院(Afghan Supreme Court)，那里有重新宣判或下令重新审判的权力。目前最高法院尚未做出决定。
"If she gets justice, all women in Afghanistan who were harmed or killed or abused get justice," said Leena Alam, an Afghan television actress who found herself joining hundreds of women at Farkhunda's funeral, defying tradition by carrying the coffin. "If she doesn't, then all these years of the international community being here, all the support they gave, all the money, this whole war, means nothing. It all went to waste."	"如果她能得到法律的公正对待，就等于所有遭到伤害、杀害或虐待的阿富汗妇女得到了公正对待，"阿富汗女电视演员莉娜·阿拉姆(Leena Alam)说。她和数百名妇女参加了法尔昆达的葬礼，她们反抗传统，为她抬棺。“如果她得不到公正对待，那么国际社会这些年在这里的存在、所寄予的支持和资助以及整场战争都毫无意义。都是白费。”
The Killing	遇害过程
Farkhunda first visited the Shah-Do Shamshira shrine — named for a foreign warrior who is said to have helped bring Islam to Afghanistan — four weeks before her death.	去世前四周，法尔昆达首次访问双剑王清真寺(Shah-Do Shamshira)。这座清真寺因一位外国勇士得名，据说他协助将伊斯兰教传入阿富汗。
It was a Wednesday, women's day at the shrine, when men are not allowed. The women commiserate about their lives. They visit the fortuneteller to buy amulets to help them get pregnant, find a husband or have male children. Known as tawiz, the amulets usually consist of	那天是周三，是那座清真寺的女性日，男性不许入内。女人们相互倾诉自己的生活。她们向占卜者购买护身符，求孕、求姻缘或求子。这种护身符名叫tawiz，通常是在一张小纸片上写上字，女人可以将它别在身上或放在口袋里。

writings on a small piece of paper that a woman can pin to her body or keep in a pocket.
Farkhunda was appalled at the way the women's superstitions were being exploited, her brother Mujibullah recalled. She confronted the custodian, Zainuddin, and the fortuneteller, Mohammad Omran, saying: "You are abusing the women. You are charging them money for something that is not Islamic, that is not religious."	法尔昆达的哥哥穆吉巴拉回忆说，她看到女人们的迷信被这样利用，感到震惊。她对看门人扎因丁(Zainuddin)和占卜者穆罕默德·奥姆兰(Mohammad Omran)说：“你们在伤害女性。你们用一些非伊斯兰教的、不虔诚的东西在挣她们的钱。”
As the atmosphere at the shrine became tense, Mujibullah said, "The custodian said to Farkhunda: 'Who the hell are you? Who are you to say these things? Get lost.' "	穆吉巴拉说，清真寺里的情势变得紧张，“看门人对法尔昆达说：‘你以为你是谁？你管得着吗？赶紧滚开。’”
The Malikzadas are an educated family. Farkhunda's father, Mohammad Nader Malikzada, 72, worked for nearly 40 years as the lead engineer for Afghanistan's Public Health Ministry, keeping its medical technology, such as it was, running. Mujibullah had a job at the Finance Ministry, and a second brother was an engineer.	马利克扎达一家人都受过良好教育。法尔昆达 72 岁的父亲穆罕默德·纳德尔·马利克扎达(Mohammad Nader Malikzada)曾担任阿富汗公共健康部(Public Health Ministry)的首席工程师近 40 年，保持该国的医疗技术向前发展。穆吉巴拉在财政部(Finance Ministry)供职，她的另一个哥哥是工程师。
Farkhunda, one of eight sisters, was academically inclined. The girls were either graduates of or students at universities or teachers' colleges. Several were still single in their 20s, unusual for Afghan women. The family did not patronize places like the Shah-Do Shamshira shrine, which was known for attracting the local riffraff as well as pilgrims.	法尔昆达在家里有七个姐妹，她非常好学。这些女孩子不是在念大学或师范，就是已经毕业。其中有几个 20 多岁了，依然单身，这在阿富汗女性中不太常见。这家人不常去双剑王清真寺这样的地方，该清真寺以吸引不三不四的人和朝圣者而闻名。
Farkhunda turned out to be right: There was something amiss at the shrine. Investigators from the police and the National Directorate of Security, the Afghan intelligence service, learned later that the fortuneteller, almost certainly with the assistance of the custodian, was	结果证明，法尔昆达是对的：这座清真寺就是有问题。据阿什拉夫·加尼总统(Ashraf Ghani)在此案发生后成立的调查委员会的一名成员沙赫拉·法里德(Shahla Farid)说，警察局和阿富汗情报机构国家安全局(National Directorate of Security)的调查者后来得知，那名占卜者非法出售伟哥和保

trafficking in Viagra and condoms, said Shahla Farid, a member of the investigating committee set up by President Ashraf Ghani after the murder. Viagra is popular and easily available in Afghanistan. Some men see it as an aphrodisiac; others as a remedy if they are nervous on their wedding night.	险套，而且几乎肯定是得到了那名看门人的协助。伟哥在阿富汗很流行，也很容易买到。有些男人把它用作春药，也有些男人在新婚之夜感到紧张时会用到它。
The investigators also found pregnancy test strips and sweet-smelling body wash in the fortuneteller's bathroom, suggesting that women might have used it. Ms. Farid and police investigators said it was possible that the fortuneteller moonlighted as a pimp.	调查者还在这名占卜者的浴室里发现了验孕试纸和气味芳香的沐浴露，表明可能有女人用过这里。法里德和警察局的调查者称，这名占卜者有可能兼职拉皮条。
The last thing the fortuneteller wanted was a young woman, fired with religious faith, disturbing his means of making a living.	这个占卜者最不喜欢的就是一个满怀宗教信仰的年轻女子妨碍他的谋生之道。
On March 19, the last day of her life, Farkhunda returned to the shrine. After lecturing the women about the uselessness of the amulets, she gathered up some used ones and may have set them on fire in a trash can, said Ms. Farid, who is also a law professor at Kabul University.	2015年3月19日，在法尔昆达生命的最后一天，她再次来到这座清真寺。法里德说，法尔昆达在教导那些女人护身符没用之后，把一些用过的护身符收集起来，可能还在垃圾桶里把它们烧了。法里德也是喀布尔大学(Kabul University)的法律教授。
"The custodian, Zainuddin, was illiterate, and he took the burnt papers and added to them some old pages of a burnt Quran, and that's what he showed people outside the mosque as proof that she had burned the Quran," Ms. Farid said.	"看门人扎因丁是不识字的，他收集了一些烧糊的纸，又往里面加入了一些烧过的旧《古兰经》，这就是他向清真寺外的人出示的所谓她烧毁《古兰经》的证据，"法里德女士说。
That is a charge almost guaranteed to bring a violent reaction in Afghanistan, where even the rumor of a Quran burning can bring hundreds into the streets, calling for blood.	这项指责几乎肯定会在阿富汗引起暴力的反应，在这里，就连有《古兰经》被烧的谣言都可能引起数百人走上街头呼吁让肇事者流血。
Muhammad Naeem, who sells pigeon feed across the road from the shrine, said he had heard the custodian calling out to people walking by: "A woman burned the Quran. I don't know if this one is sick or	在清真寺对面的街道上卖鸽子饲料的穆罕默德·纳伊姆(Muhammad Naeem)说，他听见看门人对走过街头的人们喊叫："一个女人烧了《古兰经》。我不知道她是病了还是疯了，但你们是什么样的穆斯林？来保卫你们的《古

mentally disturbed, but what kind of Muslim are you? Go and defend your Quran.”	兰经》吧。”
It was about 4 o'clock, time for the afternoon prayer. The streets were full, and a crowd quickly gathered. Cellphone videos captured the first moments of the argument.	当时是下午四点左右，正是该做下午祷告的时间。整条街挤满了人，人群很快聚集起来。手机视频捕捉到争吵的第一幕。
“Why did you burn it?” a man shouted.	“你为什么烧它？”一个男人叫喊。
As Farkhunda insisted she had not, another man shouted, “The Americans sent you.”	法尔昆达说她没有烧，另一个男人叫喊，“是美国人派你来的。”
She responded, “Which Americans?”	她答道，“什么美国人？”
He said, “Stop talking or I will punch your mouth.”	他说，“闭嘴，不然我就打你嘴巴。”
Mr. Naeem said that a police officer had tried to lead Farkhunda away, but that, mindful of Afghan custom as well as strict Islamic teachings, she had asked the officer to bring a policewoman. The crowd broke through. In cellphone recordings, more than one person can be heard shouting, “Kill her!”	纳伊姆先生说，一个警察试着把法尔昆达带走，但是法尔昆达想起了阿富汗的习俗与严格的伊斯兰教义，她要求警察找个女警察来。人群冲上前来。从手机视频里可以看到，不止一个人喊道：“杀了她！”
“Then she fell down on the ground and the people tried to beat her and pummel her, and the police would try to help her up, and then the people from the other side would push her down,” Mr. Naeem recalled. “They were like kids playing with a sack of flour on the floor.”	“然后她倒在地上，人们冲上去打她，警察想帮她站起来，然后另一边的人又把她推倒，”纳伊姆回忆。“他们就像一群孩子在玩地上的面粉袋。”
In the videos, Farkhunda seems at first to be screaming in pain from the kicks, but then her body convulses under the blows, and soon, she stops moving at all. Even when the mob pulls her into the street and gets a car to run over her, and she is dragged 300 feet, the police stand by.	从录像里可以看到，法尔昆达先是因为挨踢而痛苦地叫着，然后她的身体因为殴打而抽搐，很快她就一动不动了。暴徒们把她拖到街上，弄来一辆车子碾过她的身体，她被拖了近百米，警察只是站在一边。
By then, she was little more than a clothed mass of blood and bones.	那时候，她已经血肉模糊。然而更多的人涌上来打她。最凶残的是一个年轻

Yet still more people came to beat her. One of the most fervent was a young man, Mohammad Yaqoub, who worked at an eyeglasses shop. He heard the crowd as Farkhunda was dragged behind the car and rushed out, eager to join.	男人，名叫穆罕默德·雅格布(Mohammad Yaqoub)，他在一家眼镜店工作。法尔昆达被车拖的时候，他听到了人群的声音，于是兴奋地加入进来。
Eight months later, neatly dressed with a small beard and mustache, Mr. Yaqoub hardly looked like someone capable of violence. Yet in the videos, he is so caught up in the moment that he has a terrifying ferocity.	八个月后，衣着整洁、蓄着小髭与山羊胡的雅格布先生看上去完全不像是一个能做出暴力行为的人。然而他那些极度凶残的行为都记录在视频里。
"People were saying, 'If someone doesn't hit her, he is an infidel.' That was when I got emotional and hit her twice," he said in an interview at Pul-i-Charkhi prison, just east of Kabul. "My third punch hit the road, and my hand got injured."	"大家说，'谁不打她就是异教徒。'我就是在那时候激动起来，打了她两次，"他在喀布尔以东的普勒恰尔希(Pul-i-Charkhi)监狱接受采访时说。"我第三拳打到了路面，手受伤了。"
After going back to his shop and patching up his hand, he heard the men outside still shouting and said he felt drawn back. The men had dragged Farkhunda's body to the riverbank, and Mr. Yaqoub looked for heavy rocks to drop on her. One was so large, he could barely lift it, he said.	他回到自己店里草草地把手上的伤口处理好，听见外面的男人们还在叫喊，于是又被吸引回去。男人们拖着法尔昆达的身体来到河边，雅格布找来大石块砸她。他说，其中一块石头太大了，他差点举不动。
Mr. Yaqoub was hardly an illiterate day laborer. He had completed 11th grade and, when interviewed in prison, said he was 18. He explained his fury by saying, "The Quran is like our honor: It is our personal honor and the honor of the prophet."	雅格布并非不识字的临时工。他读完了11年级。在狱中接受采访时，他说自己18岁。他这样解释自己的愤怒，"《古兰经》是我们的荣誉：是我们个人的荣誉，也是先知的荣誉。"
As Mr. Yaqoub milled with the crowd, other men set Farkhunda on fire, using their own scarves as fuel because her clothes were so soaked with blood, they would not light.	雅格布和人群一起动手打法尔昆达的同时，一些男人放火烧她，他们拿自己的头巾来引火，因为她的衣服浸透了鲜血，点不着。
In the middle of the mayhem, someone found Farkhunda's phone and	暴行中，有人发现了法尔昆达的手机，于是给她的父亲打电话。他和妻子，

called her father. He, his wife and Farkhunda's brother Mujibullah drove to the police station. They had no word of her fate until Gen. Abdul Rahman Rahimi, Kabul's chief of police, broke the news.	以及法尔昆达的兄弟穆吉巴拉(Mujibullah)开车来到警察局。他们并不知道她已经死了,直到喀布尔警察局长阿卜杜勒·拉赫曼·拉希米将军(Gen. Abdul Rahman Rahimi)告知这一消息。
"It is proved that she burned the Quran," he told Farkhunda's stunned parents, who knew she was deeply religious and planned to study theology at Kabul University. General Rahimi also informed them that he had told an Afghan television station that Farkhunda was mentally ill, in an attempt to calm an angry public.	"她烧了《古兰经》,"他对法尔昆达目瞪口呆的父母说,两人知道她极为虔诚,正打算在喀布尔大学学习神学。拉希米将军还告诉他们,为了安抚愤怒的公众,自己告诉阿富汗电视台说法尔昆达有精神病。
It was true that Farkhunda had been treated for mental illness. Its severity is unclear, but details given to the Afghan Independent Human Rights Commission and other investigators indicated that she had gone through several difficult periods — including one in which she mostly stayed in bed and said she feared praying because she might make a mistake, according to her mother. She was put on medication, which helped for a time, her mother said, according to the Human Rights Commission report.	法尔昆达的确曾经接受精神疾病治疗。其严重程度尚不清楚,但阿富汗独立人权委员会得到的详细资料表明,她已经度过了最严重的几个时期——在其中一个阶段,根据她母亲的说法,她只能整天呆在床上,说她害怕祈祷,因为有可能出错。根据人权委员会的报告,她母亲说,她在接受药物治疗,这起了一段时间的作用。
General Rahimi told Farkhunda's father that the police had failed to protect her and advised him to leave Kabul for his own safety. Months later, her brother Mujibullah recalled his despair.	拉希米将军告诉法尔昆达的父亲,警方没能保护她,还建议他为了自身的安全离开喀布尔。几个月后,法尔昆达的兄弟穆吉巴拉回忆起自己当时的绝望。
"I felt the sky had touched the earth and I was between the two, being shattered into pieces," he said. "I thought I am in some other world. Someone is telling me that a girl who loved the Quran, who would die for the Quran, had been killed, murdered, for burning the Quran.	"我觉得天都塌了,我被埋在中间,成了碎片,"他说。"我觉得我身处另一个世界。有人告诉我,一个深爱着《古兰经》,愿意为《古兰经》而死的女孩因为焚烧《古兰经》被杀死了。
"I couldn't believe it could be our Farkhunda."	"我无法相信那是我们的法尔昆达。"
Within two days of the killing, the Ministry of Hajj and Religious Affairs	这起事件发生不到两天,朝觐和宗教事务部(Ministry of Hajj and Religious announced that Farkhunda had been innocent. Soon, she was transformed from a person into a cause. Video clips of her death were broadcast on Afghan television, prompting shame among many citizens.	Affairs)宣布, 法尔昆达是无辜的。很快, 她就成为一场运动的代名词。她被害的视频剪辑在阿富汗的电视上广为传播, 在很多公民心中唤起羞耻之情。

Swelling numbers of young women, joined by some young men, gathered spontaneously at the shrine and held candlelight vigils. They formed a "Justice for Farkhunda" organization. They marched, demonstrated and demanded that her killers be brought to trial.	愈来愈多的年轻女性自发地聚集在那座清真寺前举行烛光守夜, 很多年轻男性也参加进来。他们成立了“为法尔昆达伸张正义”组织。他们游行、示威, 主张杀害她的人应当接受审判。
Most extraordinary, women rebelled against the custom of staying away from funerals, and hundreds gathered to carry and escort her coffin.	最不寻常的是, 很多女人反抗女人不能参加葬礼的习俗, 数百名女性聚集起来, 抬起并护送她的灵柩。
Ms. Alam, the Afghan actress, said she had felt compelled to go to the cemetery on the day of Farkhunda's burial.	阿富汗女演员阿拉姆女士说, 她觉得自己有义务在法尔昆达的葬礼那天到墓地去。
"Her body was brought to her grave by women and buried by women," she said. "We took all our shawls and scarves and knotted them together and held them on each side, and then lowered the coffin into the grave. And I remember I had a little cut from the wood from the coffin, and I didn't want that cut to heal."	"她的遗体由女人们抬到墓穴, 也由女人们安葬,"她说。"我们摘下披肩和头巾, 把它们系在一起, 围在墓穴周围, 然后把棺木放进坟墓。我记得, 我被棺材上的木头割破了手, 我不希望这个伤口愈合。"
/culture/20160420/t20afghanwomen1	/culture/20160420/t20afghanwomen1
Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman	被侮辱的与被损害的 (中): 仓促的审判
Read other chapters: Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman (1)	阅读: 时报普利策奖作品: 被侮辱的与被损害的 (上)
Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman (3)	被侮辱的与被损害的 (下): 正义何时到来?
Investigation and Trial	调查与审判
The case posed two sometimes conflicting challenges for the Afghan	这桩案子显示出阿富汗的司法系统存在两个时而冲突的挑战: 既要满足公众

legal system: satisfying public pressure for retribution while making sure the trial was perceived as fair.	严惩的压力，同时又要保证审判的公平。
Mr. Ghani himself pressed for action, declaring, "We are not going to allow mob justice." Ms. Alam played Farkhunda in a re-enactment of the killing held just before the trial began.	加尼先生敦促采取行动，他宣布，“我们不容许暴民的正义。”在审判开始之前，阿拉姆女士在重演谋杀场景的演出中扮演法尔昆达。
The circle of those culpable was wide. But the degrees of responsibility varied considerably and ultimately confounded the prosecutors, who charged only 30 civilians, 28 of them with the same crimes: murder and burning. Investigators believed that the fortuneteller, whose business was threatened, had incited the custodian of the shrine to accuse Farkhunda. The fortuneteller himself was not present the day she was killed, yet he was charged with her murder.	应受惩罚者的范围很大，但责任的程度相当不同，令公诉者们非常困惑。他们最后只起诉了30名公民，其中28人是同样的罪名：谋杀和纵火。调查者们认为，那名占卜者的生意受到了威胁，于是煽动看门人指责法尔昆达。这名占卜者本人在她被杀之时没有出现，但他仍然被指控参与杀害她。
Two or three police officers seem to have tried to help Farkhunda, but others who arrived later appeared to be overwhelmed by the mob. Officers called on to send help claimed that reinforcements had not arrived because the police pickup trucks had no fuel and because their radios had not been working. The mob was huge, and it was never established at what point in the beating, dragging and burning Farkhunda actually died.	两三个警察似乎试图帮助法尔昆达，但其他后来者显然被暴徒的气焰压倒。被叫来帮助的警察们说，支援者们尚未赶到，因为警察的皮卡没有燃料了，而且他们的无线系统也坏了。暴徒人数众多，而且法尔昆达遭到了殴打、拖拽和焚烧，她的确切死亡时间也一直未能确定。
The police, acting on the orders of the Interior Affairs Ministry, ultimately detained more than 50 people, 49 of whom — including 19 police officers — stood trial.	听命于内务部的警方最终逮捕了50多人，其中49名——包括19个警察——接受了审判。
Yet some who appeared guilty based on video evidence avoided capture or charges. They included the driver of the car that ran over Farkhunda and a man wearing a sweatshirt with the number six on it,	然而，还有一些通过视频证据看来显然有罪的人逃脱了逮捕和审判。其中包括那辆碾过法尔昆达身体车辆的司机，以及一个身穿有“6”字样卫衣的男人，录像表明他一再在她身体上踩踏。还有一个著名的本地人物哈比卜·代赫·阿

whom the videos showed repeatedly jumping on her body. Also involved was a well-known local figure, Habib Deh Afghanan, who trained as a wrestler and was at the shrine during the beating, according to witnesses.	富汗恩(Habib Deh Afghanan), 他接受过摔跤手训练, 证人说, 殴打期间他就在那处神圣场所内。
A senior police investigator in Kabul acknowledged that the police had failed to capture all of those responsible. He estimated that three or four key suspects had fled Kabul; it was unclear if they had political connections and therefore had been tipped off, or if some had been detained and then released. None of the provincial police forces had the will or the clout to arrest them, said the investigator, who asked not to be identified because the appeals process is still underway. The case became politicized, he added, with intense pressure to make arrests to show that the government was taking a stand.	喀布尔的一位资深警探承认, 警方未能拘捕所有责任者。他估计, 有三四个关键嫌犯逃出了喀布尔; 警方是否有熟人向他们透露了消息, 抑或有人被关押之后又被释放, 目前尚不清楚。地方警察力量没有意愿, 也没有能力拘捕他们, 这位警探说道; 他要求匿名, 因为上诉过程还在进行之中。他补充说, 这桩案件变得政治化, 政府通过施加严重压力, 要求逮捕嫌犯, 已经表明了自己的立场。
"Everyone tried to use this case for their political leverage," the investigator said. "Some used it as a way to attack the police chief, some to attack the government; others used it, under the guise of 'civil society,' to undermine the role of spiritual leaders or Islamic scholars. So all of that made our work difficult."	"所有人都在利用这个案子, 为自己谋求政治利益," 这位警探说。"有人利用这个案子攻击警察局长, 有人利用它来攻击政府; 有人在'公民社会'的幌子下, 利用这个案子损害精神领袖和伊斯兰学者扮演的角色。这一切都让我们的工作变得困难。"
If some of the guilty were spared, the legal system also appeared to entrap some of the innocent. Some of those arrested were later shown not to have even been physically present during the killing. And Afghan defense lawyers described multiple failures in protecting the rights of the accused, including their right to counsel.	如果说有些罪行得以逃脱处罚, 那么司法系统显然也拘捕了若干无辜者。有些被逮捕的人后来被证明根本没出现在杀戮现场。阿富汗辩护律师们说, 在保护被告的利益方面出了很多问题, 包括他们进行商议的权利也受到了侵害。
Zaki Ayoubi, an idealistic lawyer who had worked for a Western rule-of-law organization, had great hopes for changing the legal	扎基·阿尤比(Zaki Ayoubi)是个理想主义的律师, 为一个西方法治机构工作, 曾对改变司法系统抱着极大的希望。他担心有关方面不够重视为被告指派辩

system. He began to worry about the lack of attention to appointing counsel for the accused. He turned to friends from university and from Western legal workshops and began to recruit them.	护律师，于是向大学里的朋友们，乃至西方的法律工作室寻求帮助，并且开始雇用他们。
The American notion of defense lawyers does not exist in Afghanistan, where defense lawyers traditionally played the role of middleman between the accused and the prosecutors and judge. Until as recently as 2008, the few pro bono defense lawyers worked directly for the Ministry of Justice, which did little to give defendants confidence in them.	在阿富汗不存在美国意义上的辩护律师，传统上，这里的辩护律师是扮演被告、原告与法官之间的中间人角色。直到 2008 年，提供无偿专业服务的辩护律师寥寥无几，他们直接为司法部工作，而司法部也并没做多少工作令被告对他们产生信心。
Gradually, that is beginning to change, in part because of one of the more successful parts of the American rule-of-law programs, which helped create a bench of defense lawyers within the Justice Ministry and outside of it.	变化渐渐开始产生，部分是因为美国法治援助计划中开展得比较成功的部分，帮助阿富汗在司法部内外培养出一批辩护律师。
Mr. Ayoubi recognized early that even if he could find defense lawyers, the trial would be heavily politicized. Mr. Ghani continued speaking out. The country's chief executive, Abdullah Abdullah, had visited Farkhunda's family to offer his condolences. These moves clearly signaled to the judiciary that it needed to find people guilty.	阿尤比先生早就意识到，就算他能找到辩护律师，审判也仍然会非常政治化。加尼先生不停表态。该国首席执行官阿卜杜拉·阿卜杜拉(Abdullah Abdullah)曾经拜访过法尔昆达的家，表示慰问。这些举动显然对执法部分发出信号，示意它必须找出犯罪者。
The judge appointed to preside over the trial was Safiullah Mujadidi, a man who could be trusted to get the results leaders wanted. He was well known for his 2014 ruling in the case of seven men accused of raping four married women in a rural area of Kabul Province. In that case, Hamid Karzai, then the president, asserted publicly even before the trial that he would approve a death sentence. The judge sentenced five of the men to death even though they testified that they had	被指派主持审判的法官是萨菲乌拉·穆贾迪迪(Safiullah Mujadidi)，上级信任他可以得出领袖们想要的结果。他因 2014 年主持了喀布尔省一处乡村地区七名男子被控强奸四名已婚妇女案件的审判而出名。在那桩案子里，当时的总统哈米德·卡尔扎伊(Hamid Karzai)在审判之前便公开声称，他会批准死刑。穆贾迪迪法官判处这五个男人死刑，尽管他们作证说，他们是在刑讯逼供之下才认罪的。死刑很快就执行了。 confessed under torture. The men were quickly executed.

In Farkhunda's case, Judge Mujadidi again moved quickly. The prosecutors delivered their completed file to the judges on April 27, and the trial began just five days later. It was not clear whether the judges had even had time to review the more than 4,000 pages of material, according to international and Afghan lawyers who closely followed the case.	在法尔昆达的案件中，穆贾迪迪法官的动作仍然很快。4月27日，公诉人向法官呈交了完整的资料，审判五天后就开始了。密切关注此案的阿富汗律师与国际律师们说，法官们究竟是否有时间研究那4000多页材料，目前尚不清楚。
When the trial opened, fewer than seven of the 49 accused had retained defense lawyers. None of those lawyers were notified of the date or time of the trial, several of them said, and only three or four were present at all during the proceedings. Few, if any, were given access to the documents compiled by the prosecution until the trial started, so they were unable to prepare a defense of their clients, the lawyers said.	审判开始后，49名被告中，只有不到7人拥有辩护律师。律师们中有人说，没有一名被告律师被通知了审判日期或时间，只有三四名被告律师出席了审判。他们还说，审判开始后，能够看到公诉方收集的文件材料的被告律师没几个，所以他们无法为自己的客户准备辩护。
Judge Mujadidi, who has since been appointed as a counselor at the Supreme Court, said in an interview that he had attended training sessions provided by several American-funded rule-of-law programs and a German one.	穆贾迪迪法官之后被最高法院任命为顾问，他在一次采访中说，自己曾经参加过若干美国提供资金的法治培训计划，以及一个德国的培训计划。
In his view, he said, "The decision in the primary court was according to the law, which brought justice."	他说，在他看来，“初级法院的决定是依法做出的，并且实现了正义。”
He argued that criticisms about the lack of defense counsel and scant time for preparation were motivated by defense lawyers' greed. "All they think of is their business, not the people and the good of others," he said. "They even overcharge their clients to make more money."	他认为，关于缺乏辩护律师，以及辩护律师缺乏准备时间的批评都是源自被告辩护律师们的贪婪。“他们想的只是自己的生意，而不是人民和他人的利益，”他说。“他们甚至向自己的客户索要更多金钱。”
Judge Mujadidi added that every defendant had been asked if he	穆贾迪迪法官还说，每个被告都被询问过是否想要律师。“他们都说，自己

wanted a lawyer. "All of them said they could better defend themselves and they know what to say in court, so there was no need for the defense lawyers," he said.	为自己辩护会更好，他们知道在法庭上该说什么，所以不需要辩护律师，”他说。
Abdul Masood Khorami, a lawyer representing Mr. Yaqoub, the eyeglasses shop worker, did not even know the trial had begun until he received a call from Mr. Yaqoub's father, who was watching the proceedings on television. When Mr. Khorami rushed to the courtroom, he found that the trial was being run as if it were a terrorism case rather than a murder case. Heavily armed guards wearing dark glasses stood behind the judges.	为眼镜店工作人员雅格布辩护的律师阿卜杜勒·马苏德·科拉米(Abdul Masood Khorami)说，自己根本不知道审判已经开始，直到接到雅格布父亲的电话，说他在电视上看到了审判。等科拉米冲到法庭，才发现这个进行中的审判不像谋杀案件，倒像是恐怖主义案件。全副武装的卫兵戴着墨镜，站在法官们身后。
It took most of two days for the prosecutor to finish reading the indictment. Then the three-judge panel took a day to deliberate privately. On the third day, they delivered a verdict.	公诉人读起诉书占用了两天里的大部分时间，之后由三名法官组成的审判席花费一天时间进行非公开的商讨。第三天，他们宣告了判决。
Each defendant or his lawyer was allowed to speak for scarcely five minutes after the prosecutor read the evidence against the defendant. Many of the statements were pushed to the trial's last day and were unlikely to have been taken into consideration by the judges, who had deliberated the day before and announced the verdict shortly after the defendants finished speaking.	公诉人读完指控被告的证据之后，所有被告或其律师都被给予五分钟的发言时间。很多发言被推到审判的最后一日，很难得到法官的仔细考量，因为他们的商讨已在前一天完成，被告做完发言后不久，他们便宣布了判决。
In any case, few of the defendants were given a chance to speak beyond perfunctory responses to questions, and neither were most of their lawyers. One exception was Mr. Khorami, who had learned about the importance of objections in one of the Western-run rule-of-law courses he had taken. He understood that it was a critical moment under Afghan law as well: Unless an issue is raised in the trial court, it	不管怎样，所有的被告除了简单地回答提问之外，几乎没有机会讲话，大部分辩护律师也是一样。唯一的例外是科拉米，他在西方主持的法治课程上了解到提出异议的重要性。他知道，按照阿富汗法律，这也是一个关键时刻：如果一个问题未在审判法庭上提出，那么也不得在上诉中提出。他对自己的客户雅格布是成年人提出异议，声称自己可以证明他是未成年人。依照阿富汗法律，未成年人不得判处死刑。

cannot be raised in an appeal. He objected to a statement that his client, Mr. Yaqoub, was an adult, claiming that he could prove he was a minor. Minors are not subject to the death penalty under Afghan law.
Judge Mujadidi said in an interview that he did not believe Mr. Khorami. "He forged his client's tazkera to prove him underage," he said, referring to an Afghan identity document, "but the forensic medicine test and our knowledge said he was a grown adult with a full beard."	穆贾迪迪法官在接受采访时表示，他不相信科拉米的话。“他伪造了客户的tazkera，以证明他未成年，”他说。tazkera是阿富汗的一种身份文件。“但是法医检验以及我们的知识表明，他是成年人，留着络腮胡。”
The judge ignored Mr. Khorami's objection, and Mr. Yaqoub was one of four sentenced to death. The others were Zainuddin, the shrine's custodian; Sharaf Baghlani, a onetime employee of the Afghan intelligence service who had boasted on Facebook about his role in Farkhunda's killing; and Abdul Basheer, a driver.	这位法官不理睬科拉米的反对，判处雅格布死刑。另外3个被判死刑的人是：清真寺看门人扎因丁；谢拉夫·巴格拉尼(Sharaf Baghlani)，他曾供职于阿富汗情报部门，他在Facebook上炫耀自己在法尔昆达遇害过程中所起的作用；阿卜杜勒·贝希尔(Abdul Basheer)，他是一名司机。
Eight others were found guilty of major roles in Farkhunda's murder and were each sentenced to 16 years in prison. The other 18 civilian defendants were found not guilty for lack of sufficient evidence. Of the police officers, eight had their cases thrown out, and 11 were given the lightest penalty possible: They were required to continue working in their assigned police districts for one year and to refrain from traveling.	另有8人因在法尔昆达被害案中起主要作用而被判有罪，获刑16年。还有18名平民被告因证据不足而被判无罪。针对8名警察的指控未予受理；另有11名警察受到最轻微的处罚：他们被要求继续在指定警区工作1年，不得外出旅行。
Legal Changes	阿富汗法律系统的变化
Farkhunda's case highlighted the limits of the Western rule-of-law effort, but it suggested that there had been at least one significant achievement: Afghans did hold a trial and try to bring people to justice.	法尔昆达案突显出西方法治努力的局限性，但它至少也反映出一项重大进步：阿富汗人的确开始进行审判，并努力依法惩治。
However, a full investigation, a trial perceived as fair and sentences based on evidence would have sent a message that Afghans agreed that a lynch mob was unacceptable; that the police and courts could	不过，如果调查够全面，如果审判被认为是公正的，如果定罪是基于证据，那么它本可以传递一个信息：阿富汗人都认为，用私刑处死是不可接受的；警察和法院能伸张正义；受害人，甚至包括女性受害人，拥有各项权利。

deliver justice; and that victims, even female victims, had rights.
In reality, Afghans were divided about the event and what the punishments should be. Some believed that everyone in the crowd that beat Farkhunda and applauded should be punished; others thought only a few should be. Almost no one had faith in the justice system: In surveys, it is the least trusted Afghan institution.	但实际上，阿富汗人对这一事件以及应有的惩罚存在分歧。有些人认为，所有殴打法尔昆达并喝彩的人都应该受到惩罚；也有些人认为只有一小部分人应该受惩罚。几乎没有哪个阿富汗人对本国的司法系统持有信心：在民意调查中，司法系统是阿富汗最不受信任的机构。
In the face of competing pressures and beliefs, rumors and corruption, many of the legal lessons painstakingly taught by Western-funded lawyers were simply ignored.	面对相互冲突的压力和信仰、谣言和腐败，西方资助的律师们煞费苦心教授的法律经验都被弃之不用。
That is all the more surprising because almost everyone involved in the case had some exposure to rule-of-law training.	几乎所有参与此案审理的人都曾接受过法治培训，所以这更是让人吃惊。
Since 2005, according to the Special Inspector General for Afghanistan Reconstruction, the United States has spent more than $1 billion to train prosecutors, defense lawyers and judges in such areas as legal procedure, questioning witnesses and computerizing case loads. It has also underwritten programs encouraging transparency, justice for women, changes to detention practices and a stronger informal justice system, which dominates in rural areas.	据阿富汗重建特别检查长(Special Inspector General for Afghanistan Reconstruction)称，从2005年起，美国共花费逾10亿美元培训检察官、辩护律师和法官，涉及法律程序、询问证人，以及将案情输入电脑等方面。它还资助一些项目，以促进司法透明，对妇女公正，改变拘留程序，加强农村地区的非正式司法系统。
Every defense lawyer interviewed for this article had attended workshops or legal courses funded in part by the State Department's Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs; by the United States Agency for International Development; by the Justice Department; by the European Union Police Mission in Afghanistan; or by individual countries such as Canada, Germany or Sweden. Many prosecutors, particularly the elite ones used for Farkhunda's case, have	本文采访的每位辩护律师都参加过以下机构或国家资助的讲习班或法律课程：美国国务院(State Department)的国际毒品和执法事务局(Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs); 美国国际开发署(United States Agency for International Development); 美国司法部(Justice Department); 欧盟驻阿富汗警察团(European Union Police Mission); 或单个国家，比如加拿大、德国或瑞典。据美国等国的培训人员称，很多检察官，尤其是法尔昆达案所用的精英检察官，也参加过此类项目。

also attended such programs, according to American and international trainers. Although most of the judges in the case did not respond to requests for interviews, several who were not involved said it was common for judges to have received some Western training.	虽然此案的大部分法官没有回应采访请求，但是几名没有参与审理此案的法官称，法官接受西方国家的培训是很常见的。
But Afghan and Western observers alike said the efforts had been hobbled by ignorance of Afghan norms and, in some cases, by arrogance. Some trainers tutored Afghans about how to pick jurors, but judges decide cases in Afghanistan. Some also brought young lawyers in to teach older Afghans in a society where age is a symbol of authority and knowledge. The intricacies of law were often literally lost in translation from English to Dari, according to two international lawyers who have spent years working in Afghanistan.	不过，阿富汗和西方的观察员们称，由于无视阿富汗的法律传统——有时是由于骄傲自大——这些努力受到制肘。有些培训师指导阿富汗人如何挑选陪审员，但是在阿富汗，决定判决结果的是法官。还有些项目让年轻律师来教年长的阿富汗人，但是在这个国家，年龄是权威和知识的象征。据两位在阿富汗工作多年的国际律师称，法律的复杂性在从英文翻成达里语的过程中往往被简化。
An effort to rewrite the criminal procedure code, rather than translate it so the West could use it as a starting point, captured the occasional absurdities of the process.	还有一件事反映出这些努力偶尔冒出来的荒谬之处，那就是，试图重新编纂刑事诉讼法典，而不是翻译阿富汗已有的刑事诉讼法，以便西方以它为起点进行完善。
“At the time, it was the Italians who were in charge of the rule of law, so they wrote one close to the Italian code,” said a Western lawyer who has spent years in Afghanistan, and who asked not to be named because he is not allowed to speak for his organization. “Why would they write a new one when the Afghans had a criminal procedure code that everyone knew?”	“当时负责法治的是意大利人，所以他们编了一部与意大利法典接近的法典，”一位在阿富汗工作多年的西方律师说。他要求匿名，因为他未被允许代表自己的组织发言。“阿富汗人有自己熟悉的刑事诉讼法典，为什么要写一部新的呢？”
As with efforts to engineer gender equality, many Western ideals ran head-on into entrenched Afghan beliefs. For example, one lawyer recalled a two-week course in representing clients who bring sexual assault cases. But despite Western efforts, few sexual assault cases ever	为了推动性别平等，很多西方的理想主义者正面对抗根深蒂固的阿富汗信仰。比如，一位律师回忆说，有个为期两周的课程是关于如何代理提起性侵犯诉讼的客户。但是在阿富汗，由于家庭压力以及对报复的合理担心，几乎没有人就性侵提起过诉讼——尽管西方一直在努力推动。

come to trial in Afghanistan because of family pressures and a well-founded fear of reprisal.
Siavash Rahbari, an American lawyer who speaks fluent Dari and works on rule-of-law issues for the Asia Foundation, said the West fundamentally misunderstood Afghanistan's needs. The experts thought they were helping to rebuild a system in transition from the Taliban period to a more secular one. Rather, Afghans are still trying to determine what kind of system they want. The Afghan system still draws on Islamic law, as well as its own legal code, which has roots in both the German and Egyptian systems.	美国律师谢瓦沙·拉巴里(Siavash Rahbari)能讲流利的达里语,在亚洲基金会(Asia Foundation)从事法务工作。他说,西方从根本上误解了阿富汗的需求。专家们以为自己是在帮助阿富汗在从塔利班统治过渡到更世俗的社会过程中重新建立起一个制度。但是,阿富汗人仍在努力确定自己想要哪种制度。阿富汗的法律体系依然借鉴伊斯兰教法以及它自己的法典,后者起源于德国和埃及的法律体系。
Defense lawyers and prosecutors study law and political science in college, but almost all judges study theology and Shariah, Islamic law. So when the two meet in a courtroom, they come with completely different frames of reference. Often, they are talking past each other. And judges, who are the backbone of the system, are often resistant to change.	辩护律师和检察官在大学里学习法律和政治学,但几乎所有的法官学的都是神学和伊斯兰教法沙利亚(Shariah)。所以,当他们在法庭上相见时,完全是从不同的参考体系出发的,经常难以沟通。法官是这一体系的支柱,他们往往抵制改变。
Afghan lawyers said the Western designers of the program had not paid enough attention to Afghans' deference to age and experience.	阿富汗的律师们说,这些项目的西方设计者不够重视阿富汗人对年龄和经验的尊重。
"An American lawyer is standing before a class of Afghan lawyers or judges in their 40s and 50s, and the American lawyer is in his 30s," said Sayed Mohammad Saeed Shajjan, an Afghan defense lawyer with a Harvard degree who returned to his country to practice law. "Everyone has his pride, and they say, 'Why is this young kid teaching me?'"	"一名三十多岁的美国律师给一群四五十岁的阿富汗律师或法官授课,"阿富汗辩护律师赛义德·穆罕默德·萨义克·沙加恩(Sayed Mohammad Saeed Shajjan)说。他在哈佛大学(Harvard)获得学位后,回到祖国从事法律行业。"谁都有自尊,他们会说,'这个年轻人凭什么教我?'"
Mr. Shajjan also faulted a lack of follow-up.	沙加恩还提到缺乏后续行动的问题。
"At the end of the one-month training, they have a ceremony, get a	"在为期一个月的培训结束后,会举行一个仪式,拿证书,拍照,但是谁会

certificate and photos, but who follows up and sees if they learned something or not?" he asked. "No one is doing that, and it's a big mistake."	跟进调查他们是否真的学以致用?"他问道, "没人跟进, 这是个大问题。"
Nor did the Western training reckon with the pervasiveness of corruption, a scourge in the justice system as in so much else in Afghanistan.	西方的培训项目也不考虑如何应对腐败盛行的问题。腐败是阿富汗司法系统乃至整个阿富汗的祸根。
"When your client is a poor guy, you are asked to pay a bribe or he spends 16 years in jail," said Muhammad Aziz Sofizada, a defense lawyer who represented two clients in Farkhunda's case, including one who was sentenced to 16 years in prison. "What are you supposed to do? In this country, without spending money, you can't get anything."	"你的客户是穷人, 你被要求行贿, 否则他就得坐牢 16 年," 辩护律师穆罕默德·阿齐兹·索菲扎达(Muhammad Aziz Sofizada)说。他代理法尔昆达案中的两名被告, 其中一人被判入狱 16 年。"你该怎么办? 在这个国家, 不行贿, 你什么也得不到。"
But the trial also showed that some ideas had taken root, particularly among a growing cadre of young, Western-influenced defense lawyers. Michael J. Fannon, who was the chief of party for the International Development Law Organization and worked in Afghanistan for six years, said that when he left in 2014, the number of defense lawyers had swelled to about 2,000, from 200 in 2008.	不过, 这场审判也表明, 有些观念已经扎根, 尤其是在越来越多的受西方影响的年轻辩护律师中。迈克尔·J·范农(Michael J. Fannon)曾是国际发展法组织(International Development Law Organization)的总负责人, 曾在阿富汗工作 6 年。他说自己 2014 年离开时, 阿富汗的辩护律师数量已从 2008 年的 200 名迅速增长到当时的约 2000 名。
Two defense lawyers said they had drawn on their training in making legal arguments and registering objections to prosecutors, but they were in the minority. And several who were not directly involved in the trial, and so were freer to speak about it, said they believed the system had failed in Farkhunda's case.	有两名辩护律师称, 他们根据自己接受的培训, 进行法律论证, 并把反对意见传达给检察官, 但他们是少数派。几名没有直接参与审判所以可以更自由地谈论此事的律师称, 他们认为, 整个体系在法尔昆达案中未能合理运转。
"So many didn't have a defense lawyer — there were almost 50 people tried," Mr. Shajjan said. "You cannot try such a huge number of defendants, and defendants who don't have lawyers," in such a short	沙加恩说, "有那么多被告没有辩护律师——差不多共有 50 名被告", "你不能"在这么短的时间里"审讯这么多被告, 而且是没有律师的被告", "你需要给被告讲话的机会。每个人只给了 2 分钟"。 period. "You need to give the defendants a chance to speak. Everyone was given two minutes."

Human rights lawyers also argued that the legal system needed to send a clear signal that it is unacceptable to stand by and watch as a mob beats someone to death. "All those watching her being killed should have been given a sentence," said Shamsullah Ahmadzai, the head of the Afghan Independent Human Rights Commission office for the Kabul region. "When someone is being killed, it is not a play. It is not a movie."	人权律师们还表示，法律系统需要发出一个明确的信号，旁观暴徒殴打他人致死是不可接受的。“所有那些看着她被打死的人都应该受审，”阿富汗独立人权委员会(Afghan Independent Human Rights Commission)喀布尔地区办事处主任沙姆苏拉·艾哈迈德扎伊(Shamsullah Ahmadzai)说，“有人正在被杀害，这可不是儿戏，也不是电影。”
/culture/20160421/t21afghanwomen2	/culture/20160421/t21afghanwomen2
Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman	被侮辱的与被损害的（下）：正义何时到来？
Read other chapters: Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman (1)	阅读：时报普利策奖作品：被侮辱的与被损害的（上）
Flawed Justice After a Mob Killed an Afghan Woman (2)	被侮辱的与被损害的（中）：仓促的审判
Verdicts Overturned	判决被推翻
While supporters of Farkhunda celebrated the trial-court verdict, defense lawyers rallied on behalf of their clients. But unlike the televised trial, the appeal in late June took place behind closed doors, according to lawyers involved in the case and others who managed to slip into the hearing.	在法尔昆达的支持者们庆祝法庭审判的判决同时，辩护律师们在代表自己的客户举行抗议集会。不过，据参与此案的律师们或其他混进听证会的人说，与电视转播了审判不同，去年6月底进行的上诉是秘密进行的。
That secrecy is against Afghan rules of criminal procedure — although there is a loophole that allows judges not to announce a proceeding to the news media as long as no one is stopped from attending. The defendants and their lawyers were called in for discussions with the judges in groups, depending on their sentences.	这种方式与阿富汗的刑事诉讼规则相违背——虽然这一规则有个漏洞：只要无人被阻止出席，法官们就可以不向媒体公布某场诉讼。被告和他们的律师接受传唤，根据判决，与法官们分组讨论。

Lawyers for those condemned to death or long prison sentences pointed out that no one had bothered to determine when Farkhunda died. Under Afghan law, the penalty is far lighter for desecrating a dead body than it is for murder, so Mr. Sofizada, Mr. Khorami and other lawyers drilled down on that point.	那些代理被判死刑或长期监禁的被告的律师们指出，没人愿意费心确定法尔昆达的死亡时间。依照阿富汗法律，亵渎尸体的刑责比谋杀要轻得多，所以索菲扎达和科拉米等律师抓住这一点不放。
"Who is the guy who hit the first blow? Who is the one whose blow killed her?" asked Mr. Sofizada, who represented a shopkeeper named Mohmand. "If it's violence, who is responsible for this violence? The guy who started the episode and encouraged the people to hit her? The guy chanting slogans who encouraged the people? Was it a blow from a stick that killed her? A stone? Was it that she was burned, or was it the car running over her?"	"第一个动手的是谁？导致她毙命的是谁？"索菲扎达问道。他代理的是一个名叫穆赫曼德(Mohmand)的店主。"如果这是暴力行为，那么谁应该对它负责？是那个引发这一事件、鼓励人们打她的人吗？还是那个喊着口号煽动的人？她是被棍子打死的还是被石头砸死的？是被烧死的还是被车压死的？"
Mr. Yaqoub said he had only desecrated a corpse. "I knew she was dead because she was not moving," he said. Asked if Farkhunda might have been unconscious, but not dead, he did not reply.	雅格布说，他只是亵渎尸体。"当时我知道她已经死了，因为她不动了，"他说。当被问及法尔昆达当时可能只是昏迷并没有死时，他无言以对。
Mr. Yaqoub's lawyer, Mr. Khorami, used his session with the appellate judges to try to convince them that Mr. Yaqoub had been wrongly tried as an adult. He produced a tazkera, the Afghan identity document, saying that his client had been 17 at the time of the killing. Although the trial-court judge believed this document had been forged, the appeals panel deemed Mr. Yaqoub underage and commuted his death sentence to 10 years in prison.	雅格布的律师科拉米在与上诉法官的会谈中努力说服他们，雅格布被误判为成年人。他出示了一份身份文件，称谋杀发生时他的客户只有17岁。虽然审判法庭的法官认为这份文件是伪造的，但上诉委员会认定雅格布未成年，把他的死刑减为10年监禁。
The argument that there was no evidence on who had struck the blow that killed Farkhunda made sense to both the appellate court and the Supreme Court, according to people close to the courts. "It's very	据与法院关系密切的人说，上诉法庭和最高法院都认为，没有证据能证明致命一击到底来自谁。"如果无法确定死因，就很难确定责任，"一个与最高法院关系密切的人士说。此人要求匿名，因为在法院工作的人不允许对媒体谈

difficult to determine responsibility if you don't know what killed her," a person close to the Supreme Court said, speaking on the condition of anonymity because court employees are not allowed to talk to the news media.	论此事。
So the judges commuted the other three death sentences to 20-year prison terms.	所以，法官们把其他三人的死刑改判为 20 年监禁。
They also reviewed the evidence that the fortuneteller was not at the shrine when Farkhunda was killed and ruled that he was not guilty because he had not been present. They exonerated a ninth police officer, so that in the end, only 10 were disciplined at all.	他们还核查了一个事实：法尔昆达遇害时，那名占卜者不在清真寺。因为他不在现场，所以被判无罪。他们免除了第 9 名警察的罪责，所以到最后，只有 10 名警察受到处罚。
When the appeals court's ruling became public in July, Farkhunda's family and many women's groups were stunned to find out that they had been given no chance to make their case. Farkhunda's brother Mujibullah said the new verdict was a travesty.	去年 7 月，上诉法院公布判决结果时，法尔昆达的家人和很多妇女组织震惊地发现自己没有得到申诉的机会。法尔昆达的哥哥穆吉巴拉说，新判决是对法律的嘲弄。
"You saw that boy who hit her with that big stone, and the court said he's underage," he said. "Even if he is underage, he knows how to hit, but he doesn't know how to answer for his actions."	"你看见那个男孩用大石头砸她，而法院说他未成年，"他说，"就算他未成年，他知道怎么打人，却不知道怎么承担责任。"
Female lawyers who followed the case said the verdict showed Afghanistan's cultural bias against women. "There was some discrimination against women," said Najla Raheel, a young lawyer who takes cases on behalf of women, even when they cannot pay, and who was appointed by Mr. Ghani to lead the team representing Farkhunda's family in the appeal to the Supreme Court. "Some government officials didn't want 49 men punished for the death of one woman."	关注此案的女性律师们说，判决表明，阿富汗的社会文化歧视女性。"对女性存在歧视，"年轻律师娜杰拉·拉希勒(Najla Raheel)说。她代理女性案件，即使有些女人付不起钱。加尼先生任命她领导一个团队，代表法尔昆达的家人上诉到最高法院。"有些政府官员不想让 49 个男人因为杀害一个女人而受到惩罚。"
Soon after the new verdict, Farkhunda's family asked Mr. Ghani's	新判决公布之后不久，法尔昆达的家人请求加尼的妻子鲁拉(Rula)帮他们得

wife, Rula, who had taken an interest in the case, to help them get temporary visas to leave the country. They felt the appeals verdict signaled that the public did not support them.	到临时签证，以便离开该国——鲁拉曾对此案表示关注。他们感觉，上诉法院的判决表明，公众不支持他们。
In the meantime, the legal team appointed by Mr. Ghani decided there had been so many flaws in the case that the only fair course was to ask the Supreme Court to order a retrial, according to Ms. Raheel and Mr. Ayoubi, who had also joined the legal team representing Farkhunda's family.	据拉希勒和阿尤比（他也加入了代理法尔昆达家人的法律团队）说，与此同时，加尼任命的法律团队认为，此案存在很多疑点，唯一公正的解决办法就是请求最高法院下令重审。
The Road Ahead	前方的路
The request for a retrial was made in August, and the Supreme Court has not yet announced its decision. The court, which has great leeway to increase, reduce or throw out penalties, often simply confirms appellate decisions or sends them back to the appeals court for review. None of the lawyers interviewed for this article could recall a time when the court had sent a case back for a complete retrial.	重审的要求是在8月作出的，最高法庭尚未宣布自己的决定。最高法庭拥有极大的余地，可以增加、减少刑罚或不予受理案件，通常只是维持原判，或发回下级法院复核。本文中所采访的律师中，没有人记得最高法庭曾经将哪起案子发回彻底重审。
Farkhunda's family is beginning to worry that there will never be a decision and that she is being forgotten.	法尔昆达的家人开始担心最终判决永远不会做出，而她也开始被人们遗忘。
Five miles north of the Shah-Do Shamshira shrine, a sprawling graveyard covers a slope in Chaikhana, a northern neighborhood of Kabul. The rocky earth is brown and gray. The graves are gray, too, modest piles of small stones fenced off from one another. The ground is littered with empty water bottles and small pink or blue plastic bags blowing in the late autumn wind.	双剑王清真寺以北8公里处，在喀布尔北部的柴卡纳，山坡上是一大片坟场。棕灰色的土地布满乱石。坟茔也是灰色的，彼此之间用小小的石堆风格开来。地上到处扔着空水瓶，粉色和蓝色的小塑料袋在晚秋的风中四散飘荡。
In the middle of the cemetery, far from the main road, lies Farkhunda Malikzada. Her grave is large but half finished. The coffin has been sunk	法尔昆达·马利克扎达的墓在墓地中间远离大路的地方。她的坟墓很大，但只完工了一半。棺材被嵌入一块水泥厚板之中，面向着西方，那是麦加的方向。

into a concrete slab facing west, toward Mecca. At each of the four corners is an unfinished concrete column with metal spikes sticking out. A flag with her ghostly pale face, wrapped in a black hijab so not a hair is visible, hangs over the grave. It is hard even to make out her features. She is fading into memory.	坟墓的四角各有一根未修完的水泥柱子，钢筋露在外面。坟墓上挂着一面旗帜，上面是她苍白的面孔，裹在黑色面纱之中，没有一根头发露出来。从上面很难看出她的特征，她已经开始在记忆中消失。
On a recent Friday, the only people near the grave were four neighborhood children who use the cemetery as a playground.	前不久的一个星期五，墓地里只有附近四家住户的孩子在这里玩耍。
The children all knew her name. Ishaq, 6, volunteered: "Her name is Farkhunda. She burned the Quran, so she was punished and she was lynched."	孩子们都知道她的名字。六岁的伊沙克(Ishaq)主动说：“她叫法尔昆达。她烧了《古兰经》，所以她受到了惩罚，被私刑处死了。”
/culture/20160422/t22afghanwomen3	/culture/20160422/t22afghanwomen3
Questions and Answers on Brazil's Presidential Crisis	六个问题带你迅速了解巴西总统弹劾案
Q. Why is Dilma Rousseff facing impeachment proceedings?	问：迪尔玛·罗塞夫(Dilma Rousseff)为何面临弹劾程序？
She is charged with violating budgetary laws in order to conceal a deficit before what she anticipated would be a tough 2014 re-election campaign, borrowing money from banks that the executive branch controls to fund domestic programs, and making changes to the federal budget without congressional approval.	她被控违反了预算法，目的是在她预计会很激烈的 2014 年连任竞选前掩盖财政赤字，从行政部门掌控的银行借钱以便为国内项目提供资金，且未经国会批准擅自修改联邦预算。
Q. What did the Senate vote on?	问：参议院投票表决的议案是什么？
The Senate voted on whether to start a trial of Ms. Rousseff. Last week, a Senate committee formally presented charges against her when it approved a document detailing the accusations.	参议院投票表决的内容是是否开始审判罗塞夫。上周，参议院的一个委员会正式对罗塞夫提出指控，批准了一份详细介绍相关指控的文件。
Q. What exactly are those charges?	问：具体是什么指控？
Ms. Rousseff is accused of violating Articles 85 and 167 of Brazil's 1988 Constitution and the 1950 Law of Impeachment in making changes to	罗塞夫被控未经国会授权擅自修改预算，违反了巴西 1988 年宪法的第 85 和第 167 条，以及 1950 年的《弹劾法》(Law of Impeachment)。她还被控

the budget without congressional authorization. She is also accused of violating the Constitution and the same 1950 law in borrowing money from an institution that the state controls.	从政府控制的一个机构借钱，同样控违反了宪法和《弹劾法》。
Q. Why are these potentially impeachable offenses?	问：这些为什么是可能导致总统被弹劾的犯罪行为？
The 1950 law defines “crimes of responsibility,” identifying more than 50 situations that call for impeachment. One is violating the annual budgetary law. The 1988 Constitution applies because it includes “crimes of responsibility.”	1950 年那项法律对“职务犯罪”进行了界定，规定了 50 多种会招致弹劾的情况。其中之一是违反年度预算法。1988 年制定的宪法适用是因为它包含了“职务犯罪”。
The 2000 law of fiscal responsibility makes it illegal for the executive branch to borrow money from financial institutions it controls. The law also requires congressional approval of any changes in an annual budget after it has been approved.	2000 年制定的财政责任法规定，行政部门从其掌控的金融机构借钱属于违法行为。该法还要求年度预算在获得批准后，任何修改均需获得国会的同意。
Q. Can Ms. Rousseff go to prison if the Senate convicts her?	问：如果参议院判其有罪，罗塞夫是否会入狱？
No, but she must step aside temporarily while the trial is underway and would have to resign if convicted.	不会，但在审判过程中，她必须暂时停职，如果被判有罪则不得不辞职。
“The nature of these crimes are administrative crimes,” said Oscar Vilhena Vieira, a constitutional law professor at Fundação Getulio Vargas, a university in São Paulo. “They are not penal crimes, so you cannot be put in prison because of them, but you can lose your mandate.”	“这些犯罪行为的本质是行政犯罪，”圣保罗瓦加斯商学院(Fundação Getulio Vargas)研究宪法的教授奥斯卡·维列纳·维埃拉(Oscar Vilhena Vieira)说。“不是刑事犯罪，所以不会因此入狱，但可能会失去权力。”
Q. So is the Senate trial different from a criminal trial in a court?	问：所以参议院的审判不同于法庭的刑事审判对吗？
Yes. This is a political trial, and the standard of proof for conviction is less than it would be in a courtroom trial. If Ms. Rousseff were tried by the country’s Supreme Court over these same offenses, she would be likely to face better odds of obtaining a favorable result.	是的。这是政治审判，证明有罪的标准比法庭审判低。如果因为同样的罪名接受最高法院的审判，罗塞夫获得有利结果的几率可能会更高。

That also means that congressional support is crucial. "If she had a solid majority in Congress, these acts would be forgivable," said Brasília Sallum Jr., a professor of sociology at the University of São Paulo and an expert in Brazil's political processes.	这也意味着获得国会的支持至关重要。“如果有绝大多数国会议员的支持，这些行为都是可原谅的，”圣保罗大学(University of São Paulo)社会学教授、研究巴西政治进程的专家小布拉西利奥·塞卢姆(Brasílio Sallum Jr.)说。
Ms. Rousseff's problem, he said, is that, "the majority support she had in Congress at the beginning of her presidency no longer exists."	他表示，罗塞夫的问题是，“她开始担任总统时得到了国会多数人的支持，但现在这些支持已不复存在。”
/culture/20160513/t13brazilqanda	/culture/20160513/t13brazilqanda
Taj Mahal Under Attack by Bugs and Their Green Slime	变绿的泰姬陵：环境污染危及印度文化遗产
NEW DELHI — Over the centuries, the Taj Mahal has endured its share of attacks — plundered by the Jats of northern India and looted by British soldiers, among other indignities. In recent years, officials have worried that growing air pollution could permanently darken the tomb's brilliant white exterior.	新德里——数百年来，泰姬陵可谓历尽坎坷——它被印度北部的贾特人掠夺过，被英国士兵洗劫过，还饱受其他种种侮辱。最近几年，官员们又担心，它那光彩照人的白色外观会因为日渐严重的空气污染而永久性变暗。
But few people anticipated the latest affront — millions of mosquito-like insects, their numbers supercharged by nutritious algae blooming profusely along the banks of the polluted Yamuna River nearby. Like generations of romance-driven human couples before them, the bugs have swarmed the Taj Mahal on a mating flight, excreting a green substance on parts of its marble walls.	而它刚刚遭受的袭击出乎所有人的预料——前来撒野的竟是数百万只长相类似蚊子的昆虫。泰姬陵附近的亚穆纳河污染严重，获得丰富营养的藻类沿着河岸疯涨，进而让此种昆虫的数量出现激增。和此前一代又一代心怀浪漫的人类伴侣一样，这些昆虫涌入泰姬陵进行婚飞，把一种绿色的物质排泄在大理石墙壁上。
The Yamuna has suffered mightily in recent years from the dumping of solid waste in its waters, says an environmental activist in Agra, India, the site of the Taj Mahal.	泰姬陵位于印度阿格拉市，当地的一名环保活动人士说，近几年来，亚穆纳河饱受倾倒在河水中的固体垃圾之害。
"I have been constantly watching how the river pollution has gone from bad to worse," said D.K. Joshi, who filed a petition over the insects in the National Green Tribunal, an environmental court last week. "The	"我一直不断地观察，目睹了污染越来越严重的过程，"D·K·乔希(D.K. Joshi)说。上周，乔希向一个环保法庭——国家绿色法庭(National Green Tribunal)——递交了与前述昆虫有关的请愿书。他说，“河床及其周边地区正

encroachments on and around the riverbed, the sewage going directly into the river" are choking it, he said.	在遭到侵蚀，下水道污物直接排入河中”，这条河都快窒息了。
On Monday, the National Green Tribunal issued notices to the central and local authorities, including the Ministry of Environment and Forests, telling them to respond to the petition this month.	周一，国家绿色法庭向包括环境林业部(Ministry of Environment and Forests)在内的中央和地方当局发出了通知，要求它们于本月对这份请愿书做出回应。
With India's cities ranking among the most polluted in the world by the World Health Organization, public concern over toxic air and water is mounting. The central government has pledged billions of rupees to cleaning the Ganges River. But the effect of pollution on India's cultural heritage, though less obvious than its health effects, is also worthy of attention, experts say.	由于印度多个城市都登上了世界卫生组织(World Health Organization)发布的全球污染最严重城市排行榜，公众对有毒的空气和水源的担忧与日俱增。专家称，污染给印度文化遗产带来的影响虽然不像对健康的影响那样明显，但也值得关注。
Sohail Hashmi, a Delhi-based writer and expert on heritage monuments, told Press Trust of India in an interview that the recently revived white limestone doors of the historic Red Fort, a former residence the Mughal emperor that was completed in 1648, "have become yellow in about six years." Like the Red Fort, the Taj Mahal was built on the orders of Shah Jahan, a Mughal emperor, as a mausoleum for his beloved wife, and it was also finished in 1648.	德里的作家兼文物古迹专家苏海尔·哈什米(Sohail Hashmi)在接受印度报业托拉斯通讯社(Press Trust of India)采访时说，红堡(Red Fort)的石灰岩门前些年刚刚得到修复，才过了6年左右时间就变黄了。红堡是一座历史悠久的建筑，建成于1648年，曾为莫卧儿(Mughal)帝王的居所。和红堡一样，泰姬陵由莫卧儿帝国的皇帝沙贾汗(Shah Jahan)下令修建，用以埋葬他深爱的妻子；泰姬陵同样建成于1648年。
The green secretions on the back wall of the Taj Mahal, a residue of the chlorophyll the insects consume, are not themselves harmful to the monument beyond the discoloration, said Girish Maheshwari, the head of the department of entomology at St. John's College in Agra, who analyzed the problem for the Archaeological Survey of India.	阿格拉市圣约翰学院(St. John's College)昆虫学专业负责人吉里什·马赫什瓦里(Girish Maheshwari)说，泰姬陵后墙上的绿色分泌物，是那些昆虫消化的叶绿素的残余物质，除了会让墙壁变色，对泰姬陵并没有其他害处。
But the explosive numbers of the insects — called Goeldichironomus — were an alarming indication of how polluted the river has become, he	但他表示，那种名叫格莱德摇蚊的昆虫数量激增，表明了一个令人不安的问题：河水的污染已经到了极为严重的程度。因为格莱德摇蚊的卵只有在富含

said, since their eggs thrive on phosphorus and sediment in the water. And he worried over the “highly synchronized” swarm of insects that descend on the monument in the evening.	磷和沉淀物的水体中才会茁壮成长。他还对傍晚时分“高度同步地”出现在泰姬陵上方的大群昆虫感到担心。
“They can create problems for the visitors,” he said.	“它们可能会给参观者带来困扰，”他说。
The walls have been cleaned with clay packs, said Manoj Bhatnagar, an official in the Agra office of the archaeological survey. The excretions could also be removed with water, but the day-to-day cleaning is “very challenging.”	印度考古调查机构阿格拉办公室的一名官员称，泰姬陵的墙壁已经被人用粘土“面膜”清理过了。用水也可以清洗掉那些分泌物，但日复一日的清洗“非常具有挑战性”。
The insects do not seem to have deterred tourists, as yet. Samir Uberoi, who runs a tour company based in Mumbai, visited the Taj Mahal with groups twice in the last two weeks and did not notice a change. When asked what would happen if there was a significant recurring greening on the most loved monument in the country, he said, “I’m only hoping to God they find a solution before that.”	截至目前，游客们似乎并未因为昆虫而却步。过去两周里，在孟买开了一家旅游公司的萨米尔·乌贝罗伊(Samir Uberoi)曾两次带团参观泰姬陵，没觉得情况有什么变化。当被问及印度最令人向往的这处古迹如果非常明显地反复变绿，会发生什么事情时，他说，“我只能祈求神灵，让他们在那之前找出解决之道。”
Puneet Dan, a tour guide in Agra, said he noticed the discoloration on the boundary wall of the Taj Mahal and on the back of the monument. So did his tourists, who he said flew into “semipanic mode.”	阿格拉市一位名叫普尼特·丹(Puneet Dan)的导游说，他曾注意到泰姬陵的围墙以及陵墓后墙有变色的地方。他带去的游客也注意到了，他说他们迅速进入了“半恐慌模式”。
He said all he could do was assure them that officials were not about to let one of the greatest monuments in the world turn green.	他说自己当时只能向游客保证：官员们不会让世界上最伟大的历史遗迹之一变绿的。
/culture/20160518/t18india	/culture/20160518/t18india
From Cuba to Miami by Providence and a Homemade Boat	美古复交后，偷渡者为何越来越多
MIAMI — The sign from God and the Virgin Mary came near the end of their perilous, sun-scorched journey from Cuba to Florida: A dozen or so dolphins swam up to their home-built, overloaded sailboat, dipping in and out of the water, guiding them, they felt, toward a reimagined	迈阿密——在从古巴到佛罗里达州的危险焦灼旅程的尾声，上帝和圣母玛利亚传来讯息：十几只海豚游到他们自己制造的、超载的帆船周围，在水面上跳跃，指引他们驶向崭新的未来。

future.
"It's true we are blessed," Rolando Quintero Ferrer, 27, one of the 12 passengers on the boat, said on his video recording of the voyage. "What a beautiful thing. Nobody will get close to us now."	"我们的确得到了祝福，"27岁的罗兰多·金特罗·费雷(Rolando Quintero Ferrer)在自己记录这段旅程的视频中说。他是船上的12名乘客之一。"多么美妙。现在，没人能追上我们了。"
The omen proved true. After five days of being stuffed in the boat like cigarettes in a hard pack, including 24 hours on an uninhabited islet, the men sailed right up to a dock in Tavernier in the Florida Keys. It was 4:20 a.m. They scrambled out, pointed to the parking signs in English, hollered and wept. They then took out a cellphone and, knowing they would be welcomed, dialed 911, a trick gleaned from American television.	结果证明，那的确是个好兆头。他们挤在那条小船上航行了五天——就像装在硬烟盒里的香烟——中间在一个无人小岛上呆了24个小时。他们航行到佛罗里达群岛塔弗尼尔的一个码头。当时是凌晨4点20分。他们抢着爬下船，指着英文停车标识，又是喊又是哭。然后他们拿出手机，按下911，这是他们从美国电视剧里学到的技巧。他们知道自己会受到欢迎。
"Look at this great water," Yosvanys Chinaea, a 42-year-old carpenter, joked as he held up a bottle the police had handed him when they arrived. "It's already curing my parasites, something that, for me, hadn't happened in 42 years."	"看这水多好，"他们到警察局后，42岁的木匠约斯万斯·奇内亚(Yosvanys Chinaea)举起警察递给他的一瓶水打趣说，"它能杀死我的寄生虫，我活了42年，从没喝过这么好的水。"
Since President Obama renewed diplomatic ties with the island in December 2014, Cuba has undergone significant change. Airplane travel between Miami and Havana is booming. Cubans are expanding private microbusinesses with the help of stateside relatives. One thing that has not changed, however, is the desperation of Cubans to set sail in rickety boats for the United States — a sign that fears are increasing, not decreasing, as Cubans worry that protections, not available to other immigrants, offering them legal status are in danger of being rescinded.	2014年12月，奥巴马总统(President Obama)恢复了与这个岛国的外交关系。从那以后，古巴发生巨变。迈阿密和哈瓦那之间的航班往来变得频繁。古巴人在美国亲戚的帮助下扩展私营小买卖。不过，有一件事没有变：很多古巴人依然铤而走险，乘坐摇晃的小船向美国起航。这表明，人们的恐惧非但没减少，还在增加，因为古巴人担心，给他们提供合法地位的保护政策可能会取消——那是其他移民没有的待遇。
Since Oct. 1, more than 3,500 Cubans have either made it to the shores of the United States, allowing them to stay here legally, or been picked	从去年10月1日起，有3500多名古巴人尝试偷渡，有些人到达美国海岸，获准合法留在美国，也有些在海上被海岸警卫队(Coast Guard)拦截，遣送

up at sea by the Coast Guard and sent home. The numbers arriving this year may reach numbers not seen since the balsero exodus of the 1990s.	回国。今年可能会是 20 世纪 90 年代大偷渡以来成功抵达美国的古巴人人 数最多的一年。
They come for two reasons. Life in Cuba remains incalculably difficult, especially for those outside the hustle and bustle of Havana. Freedom of expression remains severely limited, and wages can be as low as $16 to $22 a month.	他们来美国有两个原因。古巴的生活依然十分艰辛，尤其是热闹的哈瓦那之 外的地方。言论自由依然受到严格限制，月薪只有 16 美元至 22 美元。
