

Egyptian Police Detain Uighurs and Deport Them to China	埃及警方遣返 12 名中国维吾尔人
CAIRO — At least 12 Chinese nationals were deported and put on a flight to China late Thursday, and 22 more were detained for immediate deportation, three Egyptian aviation officials said.	开罗——三名埃及航空官员称，至少有 12 名中国公民于周四晚上遭到驱逐，并被送上一趟飞往中国的航班；当日另有 22 人被拘留，等待被立即驱逐出境。
According to a Chinese student who said he was friends with some of those detained, all were Uighurs, members of an ethnic group that is mostly Sunni Muslim and lives mainly in the western Chinese region of Xinjiang. The student, Muhammed Emin Nurm Muhammed, said that his friends had been studying at Al Azhar, a mosque and university in Cairo.	和这些被拘留者当中的一些人是朋友关系的一名中国学生称，他们均为维吾尔人——该民族的成员大多是逊尼派穆斯林，主要居住在中国西部地区新疆。这个名叫穆罕默德·埃明·努尔穆哈买特(Muhammed Emin Nurm Muhammed)的学生说，他的朋友们此前一直在开罗的一所清真寺兼大学艾资哈尔(Al Azhar)求学。
Two of the aviation officials said that the Egyptian police had ordered them to deport at least 22 Chinese nationals on Thursday without providing an explanation. They were held at a police facility and were to be put on a flight that was scheduled to leave just before midnight.	前述航空官员中的两人表示，周四，埃及警方让他们遣返至少 22 名中国公民，但没有给出解释。那些人当时被关押在警方的一处设施里，要被送上一趟计划于午夜前起飞的航班。
At least 12 others were forced to leave on an EgyptAir flight to Guangzhou, a third aviation official said. All three aviation officials asked for anonymity to discuss the episodes.	第三名航空官员说，至少另有 12 人被迫乘坐埃及航空公司(EgyptAir)的一趟飞往广州的航班离开。三人均要求匿名。
Tarek Attiya, a spokesman for the Egyptian police, said that he could not confirm or deny the deportations.	埃及警方发言人塔里克·阿蒂亚(Tarek Attiya)说，他不能对遣返事宜予以证实或否认。
Al Azhar, Egypt's Aviation Ministry and EgyptAir did not respond to repeated requests for comment.	艾资哈尔、埃及航空部及埃及航空公司均未回应记者的多次置评请求。
Mr. Nurm Muhammed, who is Muslim and lives in Istanbul, said his friends had been living in fear of arrest for several weeks. "They were scared because the Chinese government told everyone who is studying Islamic studies to come back," he said. "They were worried about getting arrested in Cairo but they decided because they knew that if	努尔穆哈买特是穆斯林，生活在伊斯坦布尔，他说近几周，他的朋友们一直生活在恐惧中，担心遭到逮捕。“他们之所以害怕是因为中国政府让每个正在学习伊斯兰学的人都回去，”他说。“他们担心会在开罗被捕，但却心意已决，因为知道如果到了中国，自己肯定会被捕。”

they go to China, they will definitely get arrested.”
The repatriations seemed to be in support of the Chinese government’s deepening effort to stifle resistance among Uighurs in Xinjiang, which neighbors Central Asia.	中国政府正在新疆深化旨在遏制维吾尔人当中的抵抗行为的努力，而遣返似乎是对其予以支持。新疆与中亚相邻。
In recent years, Xinjiang has seen protests and attacks by Uighurs, resentful of a growing Chinese presence there. In response, the Chinese government has tried to roll back the influence of Islamic traditionalism among Uighurs, a Turkic people. Increasingly that effort has spilled abroad, especially in Turkey and the Middle East, where many Uighurs go to work or study.	近年来，新疆见证了由一些维吾尔人发起的抗议和袭击——他们不满于中国对那里越来越强的控制。作为回应，中国政府竭力消除伊斯兰传统思想在讲突厥语系的维吾尔人中间的影响。这种努力逐渐拓展至海外，尤其是很多维吾尔人前去学习和工作的土耳其及中东地区。
Mr. Nurmammed said that at least two of his friends had wives and children in Cairo.	努尔穆哈买特说，他的朋友当中至少有两人在埃及有妻子和孩子。
“I spoke to one wife who said she was hiding on the roof of their home because she doesn’t know where to go,” he said. “And I spoke to another one who was just walking around the neighborhood. They are panicking.”	“我和一个朋友的妻子通了话，她说自己躲在家里的屋顶上，因为不知道该去哪儿，”他说。“我联系上的另一个朋友的妻子一直在社区周围走来走去。她们惊惶失措。”
Mr. Nurmammed’s friends shot videos of themselves in detention using their phones and told him through WhatsApp that at least 75 other Chinese people were in custody.	努尔穆哈买特的朋友们用手机拍下了自己在押的视频，还通过 WhatsApp 告诉他，另有至少 75 个中国人被拘留。
The footage shared by Mr. Nurmammed could not be independently verified but it was widely shared on social media. One video shows people standing inside what looked like a government building with Egyptian police signs on the wall. Other videos show the men handcuffed inside a van.	努尔穆哈买特分享的片段无法被独立核实，但在社交媒体上广为流传。一段视频显示，有人站在一栋看上去像是政府部门建筑、墙上有埃及警方标牌的房子里。另有视频显示，这些男人戴着手铐待在一辆面包车里。
Lucia Parrucci of the World Uyghur Congress, an advocacy group based	总部位于德国的倡导团体世界维吾尔代表大会(World Uyghur Congress)的

in Germany, said that more than 80 Uighurs had been arrested in Cairo since July 1. "This is all because of the recent cooperation that is taking place between Egypt and China," she said.	卢西亚·帕鲁斯奇(Lucia Parrucci)说,自7月1日以来,已有80余名维吾尔人在开罗被捕。“这全是因为埃及和中国最近正在开展的合作,”她说。
"We believe that 90 percent of them left since then," she said, adding that 60 Uighurs had successfully fled to Turkey from Egypt on Thursday.	她说,“我们认为自那以来他们中90%的人都离开了”,并表示周四有60名维吾尔人成功从埃及逃往了土耳其。
At least 20 of the Uighurs still in Cairo are currently trying to seek political asylum through the United Nations refugee agency, she said. The number detained in Egypt remains unknown. "People are scared" and so it is difficult to verify information, Ms. Parrucci said.	她说,仍在埃及的至少20名维吾尔人正设法通过联合国难民机构寻求政治避难。尚不清楚有多少人被关押在埃及。“人们很害怕”,因此很难核实信息,帕鲁斯奇说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/africa/20170707/egypt-muslims-uighurs-deportations-xinjiang-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/africa/20170707/egypt-muslims-uighurs-deportations-xinjiang-china
Scratch-Off Art on Subway Platforms	纽约地铁站台上的撕刮艺术
To subway riders feeling impatient, restless or a little destructive, the print advertisements lining the walls of a station can make irresistible targets. Kevin Shea Adams, a photographer, began taking iPhone shots of ads in various states of decay and modification about four years ago. When layered on top of one another, the ads produce collage like art, as strips are peeled away to reveal underlying images. "They're participatory, they're public, they're sort of chaotic and random," he says. Because Adams commutes between Bushwick and Greenpoint, most of the stations he has frequented are in Brooklyn, where they tend to be less well maintained. "The ads are very tactile," he says. "When you're standing waiting for a train, bored out of your mind, you just want to pull them." Julie Bosman	对感到焦躁不安或者想搞点破坏的地铁乘客们来说,车站墙上粘贴的印刷品广告简直是难以抗拒的目标。摄影师凯文·谢伊·亚当斯(Kevin Shea Adams)大约四年前开始用iPhone拍摄各种遭到破坏或修改过的广告。这些广告层层叠加在一起,上面一层的某些部分被撕掉,露出下面的图像,就像是具有艺术感的抽象拼贴画。“它们是参与式的,是公开的,是混乱、随意的,”他说。因为亚当斯在布什维克站和绿点站之间通勤,他经常去的车站大多位于布鲁克林区,那里的广告通常维护得更不好。“这些广告让你很想去摸,”他说,“你站在那里等地铁时,觉得无聊,就手欠想去撕它们。”

New York City subway stations: 468	纽约市的地铁站数: 468 个
Average weekday subway ridership: 5.8 million	工作日平均每天的客流: 580 万
Ads in the subway system: roughly 140,000	地铁系统的广告数: 大约 14 万块
/art/20140822/t22subway	/art/20140822/t22subway
A Street-Level View of Kuala Lumpur	行走在吉隆坡的那些寻常巷陌
Che' Ahmad Azhar sits so quietly in the corner of a room, you might not notice him. But take him to the lively streets of Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and he becomes a maestro, conducting a symphony of noise, action, light and shadow in the best tradition of street photography.	谢·艾哈迈德·阿扎尔(Che' Ahmad Azhar)安静地坐在房间角落里, 你可能都注意不到他。但是只要把他带到马来西亚吉隆坡的熙攘街道上, 他就变成了一个大师, 秉承着优良的街头摄影传统, 指挥起一场噪音、动作、光和影所组成的交响乐。
On just three streets, no less.	不多不少, 就三条街。
Every Saturday for almost eight years, this former advertising director and landscape photographer prowls Petaling Street in Chinatown, Leboh Ampang in Little India and Pudu, a Chinese enclave. In courting the people who live there, Mr. Azhar, 49, has grown into a seasoned street photographer who can make sense of crazy cityscapes and vivid lives. Faceless street vendors, cooks and barbers, fortunetellers, security guards — all were once strangers, but became a new branch of his family.	在将近八年时间里, 这位原广告总监和风景摄影师每个星期六都会流连在唐人街地区的茨厂街, 小印度地区的安邦路口和华人聚居地富都。经过和当地居民多年的接触, 49 岁的阿扎尔已经成为了一个经验丰富的街头摄影师, 让疯狂的城市景观和鲜活的生命显得浑然有序。籍籍无名的街头小贩、厨师和理发师、算命先生、保安——他们原本都是陌路人, 但却成了他的大家庭中又一道支系。
I met him in June at the Obscura Festival in Georgetown, on Malaysia's Penang Island. We both had exhibitions at Obscura, a friendly photography festival in its first year, and were teaching master classes. Che' — also known as Chemad — has been a photography teacher at Multimedia University in Malaysia for 16 years, and his excellence has been recognized with numerous awards.	我和他是 6 月份在马来西亚檳榔嶼乔治市的暗箱摄影艺术节(Obscura Festival)上认识的。那是个气氛友好的摄影节, 今年是第一届, 我和他都有展览, 另外还在开班授课。谢——又叫谢马德(Chemad)——在马来西亚多媒体大学(Multimedia University)已经教了 16 年摄影, 他的卓越才能还得到了许多奖项的肯定。
During the festival, he took his eager students into the bustling streets	摄影节期间, 他带着兴奋的学生走上乔治市的喧闹街道, 时不时停下来拍摄

of Georgetown, stopping along the way to photograph scenes and point out interesting moments to the class.	景物，指点学生去观察一些有趣的瞬间。
But his series, which he calls "Walk of Life," had already moved me with its intimacy and familiarity with the people and the cityscapes. I asked him: Why the same three streets?	然而他那个叫作“三教九流”(Walk of Life)的系列作品早已打动我，这个系列中的人和都市风景充满柔情蜜意。我问他：为什么就这三条街？
"After walking the streets so often, they began to smile at me, invite me for coffee, to eat with them and tell me about their lives, some fortunate, some unfortunate," he said. "They are genuine, nothing fake about them. When I mingle with them, I feel a sense of belonging."	"在这些街道上走多了，他们就开始冲我笑，请我喝咖啡，和他们一起吃饭，跟我讲他们的故事，有些是好事，有些是坏事，"他说。"他们是真诚的，没有一点掺假。我融入他们当中，会有一种归属感。"
If anything, the streets remind him of where he was raised, in a small town near Penang. It was the kind of place where no neighbor was a stranger.	也有可能是因为，这些街道让他想起自己成长的环境，那是在槟城附近的一座小镇。在那种地方，邻里之间是不存在陌生人的。
"People like this, middle class and lower, are honest about who they are," he said. "They are cheerful. Their lives are lived out on the street more than the wealthy."	"像这种中等偏下的阶层，是能坦然面对自己的身份的，"他说。"他们很欢快。跟富人相比，他们的人生更多是在街道上展开的。"
In fact, he doesn't photograph the upper middle class or the wealthy.	事实上，他是不会拍摄中等偏上或富人阶层的。
"They are not nearly as interesting," he said.	"他们远没有这么有趣，"他说。
When he left advertising and graphic design, Mr. Azhar began to paint, using a camera only to record things like landscapes.	离开广告和平面设计行业后，阿扎尔开始画画，相机只用来记录风景之类的东西。
"It was very meditative, but at the mercy of Mother Nature," he said. "I started to think, 'What can I do besides this?' So I went into Kuala Lumpur and started shooting in a very random manner. I saw this was very interesting."	"那是些沉思性的东西，但是完全受着大自然的支配，"他说。"我开始考虑，'除了这个我还能做些什么呢？'就这样，我就来到吉隆坡，开始用很随机的方式拍摄。我发现这很有趣。"
He discovered work by Henri Cartier-Bresson, Robert Frank, Garry Winogrand, Diane Arbus and Bill Brandt.	他发现了亨利·卡蒂埃-布列松(Henri Cartier-Bresson)、罗伯特·弗兰克(Robert Frank)、盖瑞·温格兰(Garry Winogrand)、迪安·阿勃丝(Diane

	Arbus)、比尔·布兰特(Bill Brandt)。
"I didn't even know there was this genre called street photography," he admitted. "I wanted to know the history of these people and how they worked, and I realized I had to keep going back and back and back and that I would get more."	"我都不知道还有个门类叫街头摄影,"他坦言。"我想知道这些人的历史,他们是怎么工作的,我意识到我必须不断一次又一次地回到这里来,我需要拍更多的东西。"
He later delved into documentary photography, especially the work of celebrated Farm Security Administration photographers like Dorothea Lange and Walker Evans. More recently, he has pored over the work of Alex Webb, William Albert Allard and David Alan Harvey.	后来他开始探索记录摄影,尤其是农业安全管理局(Farm Security Administration)的那些著名摄影师的作品,比如多萝西娅·兰恩(Dorothea Lange)和沃克·埃文斯(Walker Evans)。近些年,他仔细研究了艾利克斯·韦伯(Alex Webb)、威廉·阿尔伯特·阿拉德(William Albert Allard)和戴维·阿兰·哈维(David Alan Harvey)的作品。
He now says he has been reborn into an entirely new world.	现在,他说自己在一个全新的世界里获得了重生。
"I was overwhelmed, and it gave me a new way of seeing," he said. "I discovered the geometry in photography, layered, variety of subjects, the idea of moments. David Alan Harvey once said it's never too late to be the man you could have been. I have done that."	"我被彻底击倒了,这给了我一种全新的观看方式,"他说。"我在摄影中发现了几何,层叠而多样的题材,瞬间的概念。戴维·阿兰·哈维曾经说过,成为那个你本应成为的人,这事是无所谓早晚的。我已经做到了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20130817/c17lens-kl	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20130817/c17lens-kl
Nepal Earthquake Poses Challenge to International Aid Agencies	国际救援人员赶赴尼泊尔,面临艰巨挑战
LONDON — International aid agencies and governments mobilized Sunday to respond to the devastating earthquake in Nepal, saying they faced challenges in getting assistance to the country and distributing it amid the widespread devastation there.	伦敦——周日,国际援助机构和政府纷纷动员起来,应对尼泊尔发生的毁灭性地震。它们表示,在把援助送抵尼泊尔并在大规模破坏的背景下施行援助方面,自身面临着重重挑战。
In the aftermath of the disaster, which has killed more than 2,400 people, injured 5,900 and left many more homeless, development workers said that continued aftershocks, a crippled transport network and the loss of power in parts of the country had made it tough to	此次地震导致逾 2400 人死亡、5900 人受伤,还使得许多人无家可归。从事发展工作的人员表示,余震不断,交通瘫痪,部分地区断电,致使他们很难搜寻幸存者,分发亟需的物资。

search for survivors and distribute much-needed supplies.
And employees of aid organizations have been affected themselves even as they organize responses to the catastrophe. Sanjay Karki, the country director for Mercy Corps, an international aid organization, said some members of his staff had lost their homes and that although his own house was still standing, his extended family in Kathmandu was camping outside until the aftershocks subsided.	在组织应对这场灾难的同时，援助机构的工作人员自身也受到了影响。援助机构国际美慈组织(Mercy Corps)尼泊尔地区的负责人桑贾伊·卡尔基(Sanjay Karki)表示，手下一些工作人员的住所被毁，虽然他自己的房子没有倒塌，但他在加德满都的亲属正在室外露宿，等待余震减弱。
"Every one or two hours we feel those big jolts," Karki said. "We really don't know what to expect, so everyone is in a state of panic."	"每隔一两个小时，就能感觉到巨大的震动，"卡尔基说。"我们完全不知道会发生什么，所以每个人都处于恐慌之中。"
The United States, India and China initiated their own relief efforts that were expected to see substantial numbers of foreign aid workers, search-and-rescue teams and medical equipment reach the stricken country over the next couple of days.	美国、印度和中国启动了自身的救援工作。未来几天，会看到大批外国救援人员、搜救队和医疗设备抵达这个遭受重创的国家。
"We're just gearing up," said Roger Hodgson, deputy country director in Nepal for Save the Children, an international charity that already has more than 400 people, mostly Nepali in the country. "People have been resilient. But it's been difficult to get people and supplies into the country, especially to rural areas far from Kathmandu."	"我们正在做准备，"救助儿童会(Save the Children)尼泊尔地区的副主管罗格·霍奇森(Roger Hodgson)表示。"人有适应能力。但人员和物资难以进入，特别是远离加德满都的乡村地区。"这家国际慈善组织在尼泊尔的工作人员已达400多名，主要是当地人。
The United Nations has said that more than 6 million people live in the areas of Nepal that have been affected by the earthquake. Many individuals have either lost their homes or have been forced to live on the streets because of the threat of further aftershocks.	联合国表示，有600万人生活在受此次地震影响的地区。很多人要么失去了家园，要么因为余震而被迫露宿街头。
"What's important to remember about Kathmandu is that it's densely, densely packed," said Gary Shaye, the director of humanitarian operations for Save the Children who worked in Nepal in the '70s and	"谈到加德满都，一定要记住的是，这里的人口非常非常地密集，"救助儿童会的人道主义行动负责人加里·沙亚(Gary Shaye)说。"这里原本是座村庄，慢慢发展成了城市。"他还表示，"没有太多开阔空间来安置那些流离失所的

'80s. "This is a village that grew into a city." He added, "There is not a lot of open space to accommodate people who get displaced."	人。“沙亚曾于上世纪七八十年代在尼泊尔工作。
Rain descended on Kathmandu on Sunday, and Shaye said that the relief efforts faced a "race against time" because the monsoon season begins in June.	周日，加德满都下起大雨。沙亚说，救援工作需要“与时间赛跑”，因为雨季将从6月开始。
"Even if we had all the plastic sheeting and temporary shelter, is this going to be adequate for the monsoon season?" he asked.	他问道，“即使我们有很多塑料布和临时庇护所，是不是就足以应对雨季呢？”
Still, because a severe earthquake had long been predicted by geologists, some agencies had made preparations and disaster plans.	不过，因为地质学家很久之前就预测会发生一场严重的地震，一些机构已经进行了准备工作，制订了救灾计划。
"There was a sense of readiness you always have to have," said Sarah Crowe, the crisis communications chief of UNICEF, who has also worked in Nepal.	同样曾在尼泊尔工作的联合国儿童基金会(UNICEF)负责危机公关事务的官员萨拉·克罗伊(Sarah Crowe)说，“要时刻具备做好准备的意识，而这种意识此前是存在的。”
She said UNICEF had supplies of tents, plastic sheeting and buckets, as well as zinc and oral hydration solutions for children who might be dehydrated from diarrhea.	她表示，联合国儿童基金会准备的补给品包括帐篷、塑料布和水桶，还有锌和口服脱水补充液，用以防止孩童因为腹泻而脱水。
"It won't be enough, and more shipments will have to be brought in," she said.	她说，“这些并不足够，还需要更多的救援物资。”
A U.S. disaster relief response team of almost 70 people is expected to arrive Monday, said Susan Parker-Burns, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Embassy in Kathmandu. Two teams of U.S. Special Forces were already in Nepal on a training exercise, and were now providing logistical and medical support to the country's army, she added.	美国驻加德满都大使馆的女发言人苏珊·帕克-伯恩(Susan Parker-Burns)称，一支由近70人组成的美国救灾应急队预计将于周一抵达。此外，两支美国特种部队本已身处尼泊尔进行训练演习，目前正在为尼泊尔军队提供物流和医疗支持。
Several of Nepal's neighbors have sent immediate help. India said that it had deployed 13 military transport planes and a 40-person disaster response team, while China said that a search-and-rescue team had	尼泊尔的几个邻国迅速提供了帮助。印度称已派遣13架军用运输机和一支由40人组成的救灾应急队；中国则表示，派出的一支搜救队已经抵达加德满都。 already reached Kathmandu.

Several European governments also have offered financial resources and personnel. On Sunday, the British government said it had made $7.5 million available to charities already working in Nepal so that they could buy essential supplies. Norway has pledged $4 million, while other European countries, like Germany, France and Spain, said they would offer financial support.	几个欧洲国家的政府也主动提出在金融资源和人员方面予以支援。周日，英国政府表示，为已在尼泊尔工作的慈善机构提供了 750 万美元（约合 4650 万元人民币）可供使用的资金，用于购买必需品。挪威承诺提供 400 万美元，德国、法国和西班牙等其他一些欧洲国家也宣布将提供金融支持。
As the death toll from the earthquake continued to rise, however, aid agencies said that more support and financial assistance would be needed, particularly as attention turns beyond the initial response to the long-term support needed to rebuild many parts of Nepal.	然而，随着地震造成的死亡人数继续上升，救援机构表示，它们将需要更多的支持和资金援助，尤其是，注意力从最初的救灾工作转移到重建尼泊尔众多地区所需的长期支持之上的时候。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150427/c27aid	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150427/c27aid
Nepal Rattled by Powerful New Earthquake East of Capital	7.3 级地震再袭尼泊尔
HONG KONG — A powerful earthquake shook Nepal on Tuesday, less than three weeks after a devastating temblor there killed more than 8,000 people. Early details were scarce, but some deaths and collapsed buildings were reported.	新德里——周二下午，尼泊尔发生强烈地震，这距离上一次该国发生的造成超过 8000 人死亡的灾难性地震仅不到三周。地震已造成数十人死亡，逾一千人受伤。
Residents of Kathmandu reported that buildings swayed in the earthquake, which was felt as far away as New Delhi. The United States Geological Survey assigned the quake on Tuesday a preliminary magnitude of 7.3, with an epicenter about 50 miles east of Kathmandu, near the border with China. The April 25 earthquake registered magnitude 7.8 and was centered west of Kathmandu.	加德满都的居民称，地震发生时建筑发生摇晃。远在新德里有震感。美国地质调查局(The United States Geological Survey)报告称周二的地震初步估计震级为 7.3 级，震中位于加德满都以东约 50 英里（约 80.5 千米）处，接近尼泊尔与中国的边境。发生在 4 月 25 日的地震震级为 7.8 级，震中位于加德满都以西。
"We're obviously hearing of buildings destroyed, buildings collapsed, buildings falling, we're hearing about casualties, but the numbers are	"我们明显听到有建筑被毁，建筑发生倒塌或降落，也听到有关于人员遇难的消息，但目前具体人数不确定，" 联合国开发计划署驻尼泊尔的协调员杰

not known yet," said Jamie McGoldrick, Nepal resident coordinator for the United Nations Development Program. He said several international rescue teams, including American and Indian teams, were still in Kathmandu but had not yet been asked to deploy.	米·麦戈德里克(Jamie McGoldrick)说。据他介绍,加德满都仍有若干个国际救援队驻守,包括美国和印度的救援队,但是没有被请求调遣。
Minendra Rijal, Nepal's minister for information and communications, said that while information was still coming in, the death toll did not appear to be high. About 500 injuries were reported in the Kathmandu Valley, he said.	据尼泊尔国家紧急行动中心(National Emergency Operation Center)周二傍晚消息,地震已造成42人死亡,1117人受伤。
Four people died in Chautara, a town in the Sindhupalchowk district east of Kathmandu where several buildings collapsed, said Paul Dillon, a spokesman for the International Organization for Migration. "A search and rescue crew of some locals and international groups are digging through rubble as best they can," Mr. Dillon said.	在加德满都东部的辛杜帕尔乔克(Sindhupalchowk)的城镇焦德拉(Chautara),一些建筑倒塌,四人死亡,国际移民组织(International Organization for Migration)的发言人保罗·狄伦(Paul Dillon)介绍说,当地居民和国际组织人员组成的搜救队正在废墟中尽全力挖掘。
Many families have moved back into their apartments, after living under tents for the week after the first quake.	很多家庭第一次地震之后露宿了一周,现在已经返回家中。
Bikash Suwal, a trekking guide in Kathmandu, said that he and other colleagues had fled from an office on the fourth floor of a building and sought safety in the open. He said that he had not seen any buildings fall or people injured.	加德满都的徒步旅行导游比卡什·苏瓦尔(Bikash Suwal)在电话采访中介绍,地震发生时,他和他的同事从位于一栋建筑四层的办公室逃出,到空地寻找安全。他说,没有看到建筑倒塌或者人员受伤。
He said that residents in Kathmandu would face a choice of staying outside overnight, and risk being caught in the rain, or going indoors and risk another quake. "I will stay at home, but other people, I don't know," he said.	苏瓦尔还说,加德满都的居民目前面临一个选择,如果在室外过夜,可能会遇上雨水,如果选择呆在室内,可能会遇到地震,"我将会留在家中,但是其他人,我不知道"。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150512/c12quake	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150512/c12quake
China and India Are Sitting Out Refugee Crisis	缅甸穆斯林移民危机,中印袖手旁观

HONG KONG –When a deadly earthquake rocked Nepal in April, China and India rushed to send relief supplies and search-and-rescue teams. But when another humanitarian crisis – boats bearing thousands of migrants – appeared off Southeast Asian shores a month later, Asia’s two most populous countries said and did little. Instead, offers to resettle the migrants came from Gambia and the United States.	香港——今年4月尼泊尔发生死伤惨重的地震时，中国和印度竞相运送救援物资，并派出救援队伍。一个月后，发生了另一场人道主义危机——载有数千名移民的船只出现在东南亚海岸附近。然而这一次，亚洲人口最多的两个国家既没有说什么，也没有做什么。反而是冈比亚和美国主动提出安置移民。
The wealthiest nations in the Asia-Pacific region stood back as well. Australia declared it would not resettle the migrants, mostly Rohingya Muslims fleeing religious persecution in Myanmar or poor Bangladeshis seeking jobs. Japan pledged $3.5 million in emergency assistance but also refrained from offering to take in any displaced people.	亚太地区最富裕的国家也大都置身事外。澳大利亚宣布不会安置这些移民。他们大多是逃离缅甸宗教迫害的罗辛亚穆斯林，或寻求工作机会的贫穷的孟加拉国人。日本承诺提供350万美元（约合2200万元人民币）的紧急援助，但也没有主动接收哪怕一名无家可归的移民。
More than a month after Malaysia and Indonesia agreed to provide temporary shelter for up to 7,000 of the migrants stranded at sea, there has been no sign of progress in finding them a permanent home, nor any hint that Myanmar would address the conditions driving the Rohingya exodus. And Asia’s most powerful nations are essentially sitting out the crisis.	马来西亚和印度尼西亚同意为至多7000名困在海上的移民提供临时庇护所。一个多月后，为他们寻找永久住所的努力仍未取得进展，也没有任何迹象表明缅甸会处理导致大批罗辛亚人外逃的问题。亚洲最强大的国家基本上都袖手旁观。
Their passivity is all the more striking because, halfway around the world, European leaders have been actively debating a response to their own migrant crisis, in which more than 1,700 people from Africa and the Middle East have died trying to cross the Mediterranean this year.	鉴于相隔半个地球的欧洲领导人一直在积极探索如何应对自身的移民危机——今年就有来自非洲及中东地区的逾1700人在试图穿越地中海时丧生——亚洲国家的消极态度显得尤为扎眼。
President Xi Jinping of China and Prime Minister Narendra Modi of India often present their nations as emerging global powers, promoting regional cooperation. Both countries also share a border with Myanmar	中国国家主席习近平和印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)经常宣称本国是新兴的世界大国，意图推动区域合作。中印两国均与缅甸接壤，是该国的主要贸易伙伴，享有不小的经济影响力，中国更是缅甸接收境外投资的第

and enjoy economic leverage as major trading partners, and in China's case, as a top source of foreign investment.	一大来源。
But neither has pressured the government on its treatment of the Rohingya or played a significant role in efforts to resettle them. During a meeting of the United Nations Security Council last month, China insisted that the matter was an internal one for Myanmar to resolve.	然而，这两个国家既没有就罗辛亚人的遭遇向该国政府施压，也没有在安置移民方面发挥重要作用。在上个月联合国安理会召开会议期间，中国坚称，这是缅甸的内部事务，应由他们自己解决。
"The Rohingya issue is a complex multilateral issue," said Zachary Abuza, an analyst with the consultancy firm Southeast Asia Analytics. The governments in Southeast Asia "want it to go away, but they are unwilling to solve it. China and India could play leadership roles but see it as a losing issue that would diminish their clout and bilateral interests.	"罗辛亚人的问题是一个复杂的多边问题，"咨询公司"东南亚分析"(Southeast Asia Analytics)的分析师扎卡里·阿布扎 (Zachary Abuza)说。东南亚各国政府"希望这个问题消失，但又不愿着手解决。中印两国可以发挥领导作用，但却认为这是一个会招致损失的议题，会削弱它们的影响力，破坏双边利益。"
"No country has more leverage over Myanmar than China, even if it's diminished in the past four years," he added. But China sees the Rohingya problem "as such a toxic one in Southeast Asia that it is unwilling to make a deal of the issue. There is no political upside."	他还表示，"没有哪个国家对缅甸的影响力会比中国还大，即便这种能量在过去四年里有所减弱。"不过，中国认为罗辛亚人的问题"是东南亚的一个非常棘手的问题，不愿插手。此事在政治上没什么好处。"
India has helped absorb past waves of refugees fleeing border wars and political repression in Myanmar, providing sanctuary to Burmese pro-democracy activists through decades of military rule, for example. It also hosts more than 10,000 Rohingya who fled earlier spates of violence against them.	印度曾帮助接收过去几波逃离缅甸边境战争及政治压迫的难民，例如，在几十年的缅甸军事统治期间，为该国亲民主活动人士提供庇护。印度还招待了1万多名逃避早前暴力活动的罗辛亚人。
But India has refrained from criticizing Myanmar and adopted a policy of grudging tolerance toward Rohingya arrivals rather than engagement, analysts and refugee advocates said. Some government officials have expressed fear that Rohingya Muslims in India might be infiltrated by jihadists.	不过，分析人士及倡导难民权益的人士表示，印度并没有指责缅甸，并对罗辛亚人的到来采取一种勉强容忍的政策，而不是主动接纳。一些政府官员还表示，他们担心在印度生活的罗辛亚穆斯林可能会遭到圣战分子的渗透。

"India sort of stayed away from this whole thing, and that is disappointing," said Meenakshi Ganguly, South Asia director of Human Rights Watch, referring to the most recent crisis. "India wants to be more careful in maintaining its strategic and economic influence" over neighbors rather than criticize them over human rights issues, she said.	"印度多少在回避这整件事情，令人失望，"人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)南亚地区负责人梅南科西·甘古利(Meenakshi Ganguly)提到近期的难民危机时表示。"印度希望更加谨慎地维持"对邻国的"战略与经济影响力"，而不是在人权问题上指责它们。
Michel Gabaudan, president of the advocacy group Refugees International, based in Washington, said India was distrustful of the international refugee process in part because it had received little recognition for taking in refugees, including more than 100,000 Tibetans from China and another 100,000 Tamils from Sri Lanka. "India has taken refugees when it made political sense, but not out of a sense of international obligation," he said.	总部在华盛顿的倡导组织难民国际(Refugees International)的主席米歇尔·加博当(Michel Gabaudan)表示，印度对国际救援不信任，部分原因在于它之前在接收难民方面的行动很少获得肯定，包括之前从中国接收 10 万西藏人，以及从斯里兰卡接收 10 万泰米尔人的行动。"印度只在救援活动存在政治意义的情况下才会实施救援，而并非出于国际责任感。"他说道。
Many in India and elsewhere in the region consider the problem of refugees to be a legacy of Western imperialism and colonial-era borders. The origins of the current crisis, for example, can be traced to 1974, when the Burmese military government asserted that the Rohingya were economic migrants who had traveled to Myanmar during British rule and stripped them of citizenship.	很多居住在印度和这一地区其他地方的人们认为，难民问题是西方帝国主义统治和殖民年代边境争端的遗留问题。比如，当下的危机出现的根源就可以追溯到 1974 年，那时缅甸军政府宣称罗辛亚族人是在英国统治时期进入缅甸的经济移民，并剥夺了他们的公民权。
As a result, Mr. Gabaudan said, there is a sense that responsibility for refugees rests with the West and institutions such as the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. Only a handful of nations in Asia are among the 148 countries that are parties to the main international conventions that protect refugees.	加博当表示，这样带来的结果是，人们觉得难民安置的责任属于西方国家和如联合国难民署(United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees)这样的机构。亚洲只有少数几个国家加入了保护难民的主要国际公约组织。
"Generally speaking, there is a lack of state responsibility for refugee protection in Asia," said Brian Barbour, director of external relations at	"亚洲国家普遍缺乏保护难民的国家责任感，"日本难民支援协会(Japan Association for Refugees)外事总监布雷恩·巴伯(Brian Barbour)说道。"这

the Japan Association for Refugees. "Most countries in the region believe that they should be praised for hosting such large numbers of refugees, not criticized for refusing to grant asylum or allow refugees to locally integrate."	个地区的大部分国家都认为自己应该为接收大量难民而受到表扬，而如果拒绝给难民提供庇护或不允许他们融入当地，则不应当被批评。”
During the last major refugee crisis in Asia, which began in the mid-1970s, more than three million people fled war in Indochina – Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos – and arrived in destinations across Southeast Asia that grew increasingly unwilling to accept them, including Hong Kong, Indonesia, Malaysia, Philippines, Singapore and Thailand. At an international conference in 1979, governments in the region agreed to admit the refugees temporarily only after the rest of the world promised to assume most of the costs and to resettle them elsewhere.	亚洲上一次重大的难民危机始于 1970 年代中期，当时有 300 多万人因战乱离开印度支那（即越南、柬埔寨和老挝三个国家），逃往包括香港、印度尼西亚、马来西亚、菲律宾、新加坡和泰国在内的东南亚国家，之后这些国家越来越抗拒接受这些难民。在 1979 年举行的一个国际会议上，这些国家的政府同意短暂地接收难民，前提是世界其他国家承诺承担大部分费用，并在之后将这些难民安置到别处。
More than one million people were resettled in the United States, with large populations going to Australia and Canada as well. Much smaller populations were resettled in Japan, Malaysia and the Philippines.	后来有 100 多万难民被重新安置到美国，也有不少安置在澳大利亚和加拿大，还有很少一部分重新安置于日本、马来西亚和菲律宾。
China resettled 260,000 ethnic Chinese who fled Vietnam at the time. In the preceding decades, it also took in hundreds of thousands of ethnic Chinese fleeing discrimination and violence in Indonesia and Malaysia, and earlier this year, it offered temporary refuge for ethnic Chinese known as the Kokang who fled fighting in their home state in northeastern Myanmar.	中国当时重新安置了 26 万从越南逃离的华裔。过去几十年，中国也接收了数十万为逃避印度尼西亚和马来西亚华人歧视和暴力侵害而离开的华裔。今年早些时候，中国还为果敢华人提供了短暂庇护，他们位于缅甸北部的国家当时发生了战乱。
But the Rohingya and other refugee populations that are not of Chinese ethnicity are less of a concern to Beijing, said Yun Sun, a scholar at the Brookings Institution in Washington who has studied China and	但布鲁金斯学会(Brookings Institution)研究中国和难民问题的学者孙云表示，对于并非华裔的罗辛亚人和其他难民，北京相对没那么关心。她还指出，北京帮助华裔难民是出于“亲善关系”，而且也只是在这类救援不会带来政治

refugee issues. She said Beijing helped ethnic Chinese refugees out of a sense of "amity," but only if such assistance was not politically costly. "Beijing doesn't want to be seen as interfering with other countries' internal affairs," she said.	问题的情况下才会行动。“北京不想被外界看作是干涉别国内政”，她说道。
Unlike India, China ratified the 1951 Refugee Convention. But it limits registration of refugees and restricts access by the United Nations' refugee agency to populations in China. The government has also refused to protect North Koreans who cross the border as refugees, treating them instead as economic migrants subject to forced repatriation.	跟印度不同，中国签署了1951年的《关于难民地位的公约》(Refugee Convention)。但它限制难民登记，也对联合国难民署向中国输入难民加以限制。中国政府还曾拒绝将私自越境的朝鲜公民视为难民予以保护，而是作为经济移民进行强制遣返。
"The domestic priority is internal stability," said Alistair D. B. Cook, a research fellow with the S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore.	国内的首要任务是内部稳定，“阿利斯泰尔·D·B·库克(Alistair D. B. Cook)说到，他是新加坡南洋理工大学(Nanyang Technological University)拉惹勒南国际关系学院(S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies)的一名研究员。
Mr. Cook said an emphasis on noninterference in Asia has meant that the only countries in the region that have responded to the migration crisis are those that had migrants leave or come ashore. "Essentially what we see now, we see going as far back as the Indochinese exodus," he said. "How states responded then and how they respond now, there hasn't been too much change."	库克表示，亚洲国家重视互不干涉内政，这意味着这一地区对移民危机有所反应的，只有那些有移民离开或进入的国家。“基本上，现在的情况和早期印度支那大批移民逃离时一样”，他说。“这些国家现在的反应和当时相比，没有太多变化。”
What has changed, however, is the economic strength of the region, which has enjoyed several decades of rapid growth since the Vietnam War. Many countries in Asia are much richer than they were 40 years ago, suggesting at least greater financial capacity to assist refugees.	但是，自越战以来的几十年里，这些国家的经济迅速发展，其经济力量已今非昔比。很多亚洲国家都比40年前富裕得多，也意味着他们至少有更强的经济实力为难民提供救援。
While countries such as Thailand and the Philippines provide temporary	在泰国和菲律宾等亚洲国家为逃避迫害的难民提供短暂救援的同时，日本是

sanctuary for migrants fleeing persecution, Japan is the only nation in Asia that has accepted refugees for resettlement through the United Nations' refugee agency. Since beginning the program in 2010, though, Japan has resettled only 18 refugee families, according to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.	亚洲地区唯一一个通过联合国难民署安排重置难民的国家。但是据日本外交部的数据显示，自从2010年这一项目开始以来，它重新安置的难民家庭数量只有18个。
Even Australia, long a destination for migrants seeking safety and a better life, has taken a tougher stance against asylum seekers. After as many as 880 people drowned trying to reach the continent in 2012, the government adopted a policy of intercepting migrants at sea and turning them back, or holding them indefinitely at offshore detention centers and, most recently, flying them to countries willing to take them for a fee.	即便是长期被寻求安全和更好生活的移民视为港湾的澳大利亚，也对难民采取了更强硬的立场。2012年，多达880人在试图前往澳大利亚途中溺水而亡，之后该国政府开始对他们进行海上拦截遣返，或将他们暂时关在近海的拘留中心，最近则将他们运往愿意以一定费用接收他们的国家。
Earlier this month, an Indonesian smuggler said the Australian authorities had given him and his crew more than $30,000 in cash to take their cargo of 65 migrants to Indonesia, possibly in violation of international and local laws. The allegation, which the government has neither denied nor admitted, was the latest sign of a further hardening under Prime Minister Tony Abbott.	本月早些时候，一名印度尼西亚走私者表示，澳大利亚官方已经向他和他的组织成员支付了3万多美元现金，让他把65名移民运往印度尼西亚，此举很可能违反国际和当地法规。对此，澳大利亚政府既没有否定，也没有承认，这是托尼·阿博特(Tony Abbott)总理治下的澳大利亚政府实行更严格移民政策的最新迹象。
"It's just a political choice," said Paul Power, chief executive of the Refugee Council of Australia, an umbrella group of nonprofits that work with asylum seekers. "It's all about presenting to a small element of the Australian population that they are tough. What's discussed is actually just being tough on persecuted people."	"它只是一种政治上的考量，"澳大利亚难民委员会(Refugee Council)行政总裁保罗·鲍尔(Paul Power)说道，他所在的组织是一个服务寻求庇护者的非盈利联合组织。"这只是为了向一小部分澳大利亚人证明，他们在这方面是强硬的。而这实质上就是对被迫害人群采取强硬态度。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150629/c29region	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150629/c29region
A Migrant Mother's Anguished Choice	抛妻别子，缅甸罗辛亚人的苦难逃亡

GELUGOR, Malaysia — Carrying one child in her arm, a second on her back and holding the hand of a third, Hasinah Izhar waded waist-deep through a mangrove swamp into the Bay of Bengal, toward a fishing boat bobbing in the dusk.	马来西亚牛汝莪——哈西娜·伊扎尔(Hasinah Izhar)带着三个孩子——胳膊下面夹着一个，背上背着一个，手里还牵着一个——走过一片齐腰深的红树林沼泽地，进入孟加拉湾，走向一条隐没在黄昏里的渔船。
“Troops are coming, troops are coming,” the smuggler said. “Get on the boat quickly.”	“军队来了，军队来了，”蛇头说道。“赶快上船。”
If she was going to change her mind, she would have to do it now.	如果她要改变主意，就必须这个时候做决定。
Izhar, 33, had reached the muddy shore after sneaking down the dirt paths and around the fish ponds of western Myanmar, where she and about 1 million other members of the Rohingya minority are stateless, shunned and persecuted for their Muslim faith.	悄悄走过几条土路，绕过几个鱼塘，33岁的伊扎尔已经来到这个泥泞的海滨。这里位于缅甸西部，有包括伊扎尔在内的将近100万名罗辛亚人(Rohingya)，因其穆斯林信仰而被孤立和迫害，成为没有国籍的族群。
She had signed up for passage to Malaysia, but knew that the voyage would be treacherous, that even if she survived, the smugglers would demand ransom before letting her and her children go, and that they sometimes beat, tortured or sold into slavery those who could not pay.	她已经跟蛇头约好要搭船偷渡到马来西亚，但她知道这个旅程将会有重重危险。就算她一路活了下来，蛇头也会向她索要赎金，否则不会让放他们走。而对于不能缴纳赎金的人，蛇头有时会殴打、虐待，或者将其卖作奴隶。
Her husband had been among tens of thousands who made the journey two years earlier, after Buddhist mobs rampaged through villages like their own, burning houses and killing at least 200 people. He had warned her not to follow, telling her the trip was too dangerous and too expensive.	两年前，附近数个村庄遭遇佛教暴徒的肆意蹂躏，他们烧毁房屋，杀害至少200人。之后她丈夫偷渡到了马来西亚，像他那样的逃亡者成千上万。他警告伊扎尔不要跟着来，告诉她这个过程太危险，收费也高。
But as she reached the wooden skiff that would take them on the first leg of a weeklong journey, one terrible fact weighed heaviest: She had left behind her oldest child, a 13-year-old boy named Jubair.	但她已经来到了木艇旁边，船会载他们走过长达数周的偷渡之旅的第一段。此刻最让她不放心的是自己最大的孩子，13岁的朱贝尔(Jubair)，她把他留在了缅甸。
Since 2012, tens of thousands of Rohingya have fled Myanmar, where they are officially considered intruders. Lost in the diplomatic wrangling	自2012年以来，成千上万的罗辛亚人逃离了缅甸，在那里，他们已经被官方认定为是入侵者。这些必须逃离的家庭面临的痛苦抉择，不得不承受的悲

over their fate are the anguished choices faced by the families who leave and the harrowing personal consequences they must endure.	惨的个人后果，而这些都淹没于有关他们命运的外交角力中。
Izhar knew it would cost as much as $2,000 just to bring her three youngest children to Malaysia. Taking Jubair could double the smugglers' price, and she had only $500 from selling their house, a bamboo and mud-daub hut in the village of Thayet Oak.	伊扎尔知道，单单把三个年幼的孩子带到马来西亚，就要花费 2000 美元(约合 1.2 万人民币)。如果带上大儿子朱贝尔，蛇头的要价会翻倍，而她卖了家里的房子——位于赛耶奥克村的一座竹子和泥建造的小屋——也不过只有 500 美元。
She had spent her entire life in the countryside around the village. She was married there at 18, and lost her first husband to a sudden illness. She relied on help from relatives to support her two gangly boys, Jubair and Junaid. A few years later, she married again and had another boy, Sufaid, and then a girl, Parmin.	她一辈子都生活在乡下，在这个村子周边。她 18 岁结婚，第一任丈夫死于急病。之后她依靠亲戚的接济，养活两个瘦弱的儿子，朱贝尔和朱奈德(Junaid)。几年后，她再婚，又生了一个儿子苏费德(Sufaid)，和一个女儿帕敏(Parmin)。
It was while she was pregnant with Parmin that her husband fled to Malaysia.	就是在她怀着帕敏的时候，丈夫逃到了马来西亚。
Buddhist militants had attacked villages like Thayet Oak across Rakhine state. Worried that he would be arrested and beaten like some of his friends, Ms. Izhar's husband went into hiding. Then in late 2012, he disappeared entirely, not calling to tell her that he had gone to Malaysia until three months after he arrived.	当时，佛教激进分子袭击了整个若开邦内的村庄，其中包括赛耶奥克村。因为担心自己被抓起来或者殴打，就像他的一些朋友遭遇的那样，伊扎尔的丈夫躲了起来。2012 年底，丈夫和家里完全失去联系，直到他到达马来西亚三个月后，才给她打电话告知此事。
Violence against the Rohingya flared again last year. Izhar heard rumors of children being shot. She saw police officers break a man's hand and strike another in the head with clubs, leaving him bleeding and unconscious.	针对罗辛亚人的暴力袭击从去年又开始严重起来。伊扎尔听说连一些孩子也被枪杀。她看到过警察打断一个男人的手，还用棍子打另一个人的头，任由他头上鲜血直流，昏倒在地。
Women living alone were especially vulnerable, and when night fell, she kept the house dark and hushed her children. By December, when word of ships waiting in the Bay of Bengal spread through the villages,	独自生活在那里的女人们尤其处境危险。到了晚上， she 会把灯关上，也不让孩子们出声。到 12 月底，有关孟加拉湾有偷渡船的消息传遍各个村庄，她再也坐不住了。

she could not wait any longer.
"How can I stay here?" she asked. "The old, the young, everyone has to keep watch on the village every night to protect the women. All the women are going to Malaysia, so I will go to Malaysia, too."	"我怎么在这里待下去?"她问道。"全村老少, 每个人都要在晚上放哨, 保护村里的女人。所有女人都要去马来西亚, 所以我也要去。"
But she was tormented by the thought of Jubair. What would become of him, alone in Thayet Oak, exposed to the very dangers she was running from? What would have become of her other children if they stayed?	一想到朱贝尔, 她就备受煎熬。独自留在赛耶奥克村, 暴露在她急于逃离的危险之下, 他会遭遇些什么? 如果其他孩子也留下来, 又会发生什么?
When it was time to leave, Jubair was off with friends in another village, and there was no time to think. She gathered up the other children, packed a bundle and fled.	到了要离开的时候, 朱贝尔和朋友去了另外一个村子, 时间很紧, 她来不及多想。把其他几个孩子叫过来, 收拾好一个包裹, 就带着他们离开了。
Now, as the shoreline receded in the distance, she wished she had had a chance to explain her decision to Jubair, and to hug him goodbye.	如今, 海岸线已经远得有些看不清, 她开始遗憾当时没有机会跟朱贝尔解释她的决定, 没能跟他拥抱, 好好告别。
"Some words came to my mind," she recalled later. "If I can stay alive, I will bring him to Malaysia. I felt very sad to leave my boy behind, but it would be better for the family if we left to live or die somewhere else. We couldn't stay."	"我想到了一些想对他说的话。"她后来回忆说。"如果我能活下来, 将来也要把他带到马来西亚。把儿子一个人留下, 我很难过。但是, 不管是在别的地方活下来, 还是死掉, 对这个家来说, 离开都是更好的选择。我们不能继续在那里待下去。"
The Transaction	交易
After about a week at sea, Izhar's family reached a much larger ship, where they joined hundreds of other migrants. Soon after the passengers boarded, the smugglers demanded that they hand over the phone numbers of relatives who were expected to pay for the journey.	在海上航行了一周以后, 伊扎尔和孩子们换乘到一艘更大的船上, 这艘船总共载有数百名偷渡移民。上船后不久, 蛇头要求他们提供家属的手机号, 他们是要为这个行程支付费用的人。
The next morning, crew members had her call her husband, Dil Muhammad Rahman. That was the first he knew that she had left Myanmar. She told him the smugglers were demanding about $2,100 in	第二天, 船员们让她给丈夫迪尔·穆罕默德·拉赫曼(Dil Muhammad Rahman)打电话。那是她第一次知道自己已经离开了缅甸境内。她告诉丈夫, 蛇头要求支付 2100 美金, 才会放她和三个孩子离开。 return for releasing her and the three children.

"I don't have the money to pay for you!" he shouted, and demanded to know why she had left Jubair behind.	"我没这个钱，没法给！"他在电话里喊道，然后要她解释为什么把朱贝尔留在了缅甸。
Izhar and her children stayed in the hold for weeks while their fate was negotiated. Twice a day, they received water and food: usually a scoop of rice with lentils or dried fish so putrid that she could barely swallow it, although the famished children wolfed down their servings.	在蛇头和她丈夫展开拉锯谈判期间，伊扎尔和孩子们被扣押了几个星期。蛇头每天给他们提供两次水和食物，一般是一勺米饭加上一些扁豆或鱼干，食物变质得厉害，她几乎难以下咽，但饿坏了的孩子们还是狼吞虎咽地吃完了自己的饭。
The smugglers kept up the pressure. One whipped Ms. Izhar several times on the back and waist with a piece of heavy plastic tubing, and they called her husband repeatedly.	蛇头们不断施压。其中一个曾经好几次用一截分量不轻的塑料管抽打伊扎尔的背部和腰部。他们还不给丈夫打电话。
"Don't you want your family released?" one asked him. "If you don't they will be thrown into the water."	"你还想不想让家人走？"有一个蛇头问他丈夫。"不想的话，我们就把他们扔到水里去。"
Haggling ensued. The smugglers' price dropped to $1,700.	然后就是讨价还价。蛇头把价格降到了 1700 美金。
Rahman begged everyone he knew for help: relatives, friends, friends of friends. "I started weeping; I would crouch at their feet," he said. He told them: "For the sake of my children, I will pay you back. If I cannot, I will be a slave for you."	拉赫曼向所有他认识的人求助：亲戚、朋友、朋友的朋友。"我开始哭，趴到他们脚上，"他说道。他告诉他们："看在孩子的份上，我一定会还给你的。如果还不了，我就给你当奴隶。"
The Boy Left Behind	被留下的男孩
From the nearest city, Sittwe, the capital of Rakhine state, the village of Thayet Oak is a 45-minute ferry ride, then a four-hour drive along rutted dirt roads.	从赛耶奥克村到离它最近的城市——若开邦首府实兑，要坐 45 分钟的摆渡船，然后再坐四个小时车，而且一路是崎岖不平的土路。
The first villager who appeared there was asked if he knew a 13-year-old boy named Jubair. "Yes," he said, and pointed down a dusty dirt road. At the end of the road, a boy was carrying two aluminum water jugs on the ends of a bamboo pole. "That's him."	记者问在村子遇到的第一个人，是否认识一个名叫朱贝尔的 13 岁男孩。"认识，"他说道，并指向一条尘土飞扬的土路。路的尽头，站着一个男孩，用一个竹竿挑着两个打水用的铝壶。"就是他。"

Everyone in Thayet Oak seems to know Jubair, the boy who was left behind.	赛耶奥克村的人似乎都知道朱贝尔，那个被留下来的男孩。
In a dark room of his cousin's bamboo house, where he sometimes sleeps, he sat on the dirt floor and patiently answered questions.	在一个光线微弱的屋子里，他坐在泥土地面上，耐心地回答问题。这间屋是他堂兄的竹房子中的一间，他有时会在这里睡觉。
Where is your home?	你的家呢？
"My mother sold the house to pay for the boat fees."	"我妈妈把它买了，为了偷渡船的钱。"
Why did your mother leave without you?	为什么你妈妈没带上你？
"I didn't know about it. She could not find me. She could not tell me. I was in another person's house. I was lost."	"我不知道。她当时找不到我，也没法告诉我为什么。我在另一个人家里。她找不到。"
Are you going to school?	你现在上学吗？
"I have not been enrolled this year."	"我今年没有被登记入学。"
What do you do?	那你做什么？
"I work at a person's house. I fetch water for him."	"我在一个人的家里干活。给他提水。"
Are you happy doing this work?	你喜欢这个工作吗？
"No."	"不喜欢。"
Do you want to go to school?	你想去上学吗？
"Yes."	"想。"
School is unlikely. Rohingya are denied citizenship by the Myanmar government, and the residents of Thayet Oak must seek permission before leaving the village, even to collect firewood in the nearby jungle. At a guard post outside the village, police officers watch everyone who comes in and out.	上学是不可能的。缅甸政府拒绝给罗辛亚人缅甸公民身份，赛耶奥克村的居民在离开村子之前还必须获得批准，哪怕只是去附近的树林里捡柴。警察会在村外的一个警卫亭里，监视每个出入村子的人。
In early May, a shrimp farmer, Salim Ullah, noticed Jubair sitting in a bamboo shack that serves as the local grocery store.	5月初，虾农萨利姆·乌拉(Salim Ullah)注意到，朱贝尔坐在一个竹棚子里，那里算是村子的食杂店。
"When I asked people, they said he has no father. His mother left	"当我问起人们，他们说他没有父亲。他的母亲已经走了，"乌拉说道。"我问，

already," Ullah said. "I asked where does he stay? They said he just stays on the street."	他住哪儿？他们说他就呆在街上。”
Ullah said he had took Jubair into his home as a servant, giving him work fetching water for the equivalent of $9 a month.	乌拉说，他把朱贝尔带到自己家，让他做佣人，每月给他相当于9美元的报酬，工作是提水。
Jubair has spoken to his mother six or seven times since her departure. She calls a neighbor's phone, and the neighbors summon him.	母亲离开后，先后和朱贝尔通过六七次电话。她会打到一位邻居家的电话上，然后让邻居们喊他接电话。
What did your mother say to you the last time you spoke?	最近一次通电话，你妈妈跟你说了什么？
"She said, 'Son, don't cry, don't be sad, stay well.'"	“她说，‘儿子，不要哭，也不要难过，好好保重。’”
Do you miss your mother?	你想妈妈吗？
He could not speak, and started to cry.	他说不出话，哭了起来。
Hardships in Malaysia	马来西亚的艰辛
Two days after she landed in Malaysia, more than a month after her journey began, Izhar was driven to Penang Island. Rahman beamed as he held Parmin for the first time.	到达马来西亚的第三天，也是这次旅程开始一个多月之后，伊扎尔坐车到了槟城。看见帕敏的时候，拉赫曼露出了微笑，那是他第一次见到女儿。
But there were also pained questions as he looked at his emaciated family.	但是看到憔悴的家人，他也冒出一堆痛苦的疑问。
"How could you come to Malaysia with such small children?" he said. "Why did you leave Jubair behind?"	“你怎么能带这么小的孩子们来马来西亚？”他说道。“为什么把朱贝尔落下了呢？”
Nearly six months after her voyage, Izhar and her family share a small, two-story house with 13 other people.	偷渡之旅结束将近六个月之后，伊扎尔和家人与另外13个人一起住在一座两层小楼房里。
She rises at 6:30 to pray; cook breakfast for her family; prepare her son Junaid for a school for refugees; and tidy the cramped bedroom where the couple and three children sleep on a tattered, full-size mattress.	她每天早上6点半起床祈祷；给家人做早餐；为儿子朱奈德上学做准备，他在一所难民子弟学校上学；然后收拾狭窄的卧室，夫妇二人和三个孩子一起睡在一张破烂的大床垫上。
Rahman walks to a spot beside an expressway where he waits for building and maintenance contractors looking for workers. If he is	拉赫曼会走到高速公路附近的一个地方，等待建筑和维修工程承包商来找干活的工人。运气好的情况下，他一天能赚8美金到16美金。 lucky, he can earn $8 to $16 for a day's work.

But most days he comes home empty-handed. There is pressure to repay the money he borrowed to pay the smugglers.	但是大多数时候，他会两手空空地回来。他们始终背负着压力，要偿还为了给蛇头钱而借的外债。
"As a mother, living without my eldest son is emotional torment for me," Izhar said. "I wouldn't dare bring my son over on the same hard journey I took. But as a mother, I feel like bringing my son back to me."	"作为一个母亲，大儿子不在身边，对我来说一直是一种精神上的折磨，"伊扎尔说道。"我不敢回去带儿子再走一次我已经经历过的艰辛旅程。但是作为母亲，我很想把儿子带到我身边来。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150710/c10family	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150710/c10family
With Ban on Exports Lifted, Japan Arms Makers Cautiously Market Wares Abroad	日本军工企业谨慎扩张海外市场
YOKOHAMA, Japan — Some of Japan's biggest companies, best known for motorcycles, washing machines and laptop computers, are pitching a new line of global products: military hardware.	日本横滨——一些以生产摩托车、洗衣机和笔记本电脑闻名的日本大公司，正在向全球推销另一种产品：重型军事装备。
Quiet-running attack submarines. Amphibious search-and-rescue planes. Ship-mounted radar systems that use lasers to help pinpoint approaching enemies.	悄无声息的攻击型潜艇。两栖搜救飞机。用激光精确定位正在靠近的敌人的船载雷达系统。
After a ban on weapons exports that the Japanese government had maintained for nearly 50 years, Mitsubishi, Kawasaki, Hitachi, Toshiba and other military contractors in this semipacifist country are cautiously but unmistakably telling the world they are open for business.	在日本政府坚守武器出口禁令近 50 年之后，这个半和平主义国家的三菱(Mitsubishi)、川崎(Kawasaki)、日立(Hitachi)、东芝(Toshiba)及其他军事承包商，正在小心翼翼却明白无误地告诉世界，它们在做这门生意。
A maritime security exposition here in May was the first military industry trade show in Japan, organizers and participants said. And it was the first anywhere to feature the Japanese manufacturers.	横滨今年 5 月举行了一个海上安全博览会，其组织者和参与者说，这是日本举办的第一个军工行业贸易展。实际上这也是日本制造商第一次出现在这类展览中。
"I've never seen them," said Maj. Gen. Mick Fairweather, a procurement specialist with the Australian armed forces, who regularly attends such expos around the world. "It's going to be a growing thing."	"我从来没有见过它们，"澳大利亚军方的采购专家、经常参加世界各地博览会的米克·费尔韦瑟少将(Mick Fairweather)表示。"以后这种情况会越来越多。"

Prime Minister Shinzo Abe lifted the prohibition on military exports last year, part of a loosening of restrictions on Japan's military power that were put in place after its defeat in World War II.	在二战中战败后。日本的军事实力受到限制。去年，首相安倍晋三(Shinzo Abe)解除了军事出口禁令，并采取了其他一些解除限制的措施。
While much of the Japanese public opposes the changes, Mr. Abe says they are long overdue. The growing might of China, Japan's close but not always friendly neighbor, has added force to his argument.	虽然很多日本民众反对这种变化，但安倍晋三说早就应该这么做了。日本与近邻中国之间的关系时好时坏，中国日益增长的实力为安倍晋三的主张增加了说服力。
Mr. Abe is counting on increased military-related trade to help cement ties with other countries in the region that share Japan's wariness of China. Southeast Asian nations and India are high on the list of potential customers.	安倍晋三正在依靠军事相关贸易的增长来巩固与其他一些国家的联系。这些国家同在亚太地区，同样对中国怀有戒心。在日本的潜在客户名单上，东南亚国家和印度排名很高。
Japan hopes Australia, a fellow Pacific democracy, will be a receptive market for Soryu-class submarines, built by Mitsubishi Heavy Industries and Kawasaki Shipbuilding. The subs, which cost about 50 billion yen, or $410 million, use ultraquiet diesel-electric drives that make them hard for adversaries to detect.	日本希望同在太平洋地区的民主国家澳大利亚成为苍龙级潜艇的买家。三菱重工和川崎造船公司研发的这种潜艇造价约500亿日元,约合25亿人民币,使用超静音的柴油和电力驱动,敌人很难发现它们。
Mitsubishi Heavy is also working on a prototype amphibious assault vehicle, used for landing troops on hostile seashores, that could eventually compete with American-designed vehicles used by the United States Marine Corps.	三菱重工还在研发一种两栖突击车,用于在环境恶劣的海岸进行登陆作战。它可能最终会与美国海军陆战队使用的一些由美国设计的载具开展竞争。
Many people outside the country would struggle to name a Japanese arms manufacturer. Even in Japan, the business is little publicized.	在国外,很多人都说不出日本有哪些军工制造商。即使在日本,该行业也很少做宣传。
But some of the country's large industrial conglomerates have long had sidelines in military production, supplying a variety of equipment, including tanks and planes, to the Japanese military, the Self-Defense Forces. With rare exceptions, the Japanese government has been their	但是,该国一些大型工业集团早已在生产军工产品,为日本军队自卫队提供包括坦克和飞机在内的各种设备。除了极少数例外情况,日本政府一直是这些公司唯一的客户。

only customer.
"When you don't fight wars, it doesn't exactly help the arms industry," said Masahiro Matsumura, a professor at Momoyama Gakuin University who specializes in politics and national security.	"你不打仗，对军事工业发展就没有多大帮助，"桃山学院大学(Momoyama Gakuin University)政治和国家安全教授松村昌广(Masahiro Matsumura)说。
Less than 1 percent of Japan's industrial output is military-related, and only four Japanese companies are among the top 100 arms producers ranked by the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, a watchdog group. The biggest, Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, earns less than a tenth the revenue from military sales as the top American military contractor, Lockheed Martin.	日本的工业产值中，只有不到1%与军事相关。在观察组织斯德哥尔摩国际和平研究所(Stockholm International Peace Research Institute)的名单中，只有四家日本公司名列全球百强武器生产商榜单。其中最大的三菱重工，其军事销售收入不到美国头号军事承包商洛克希德·马丁公司(Lockheed Martin)的十分之一。
Small production runs make Japanese hardware relatively expensive, Professor Matsumura said. And a lack of real-world experience presents an additional hurdle.	松村说，由于生产批量小，日本的重型装备比较昂贵。另一个障碍则是缺乏实战经验。
"The U.S. fights a lot of wars, so they get feedback on the performance of their weapons," he said. "Japan doesn't fight, so there's no feedback."	"美国打了很多仗，所以获得了武器性能的反馈，"他说。"日本没有打仗，所以也没有反馈。"
Japan has not sent troops into combat since World War II, and its postwar constitution renounces the use of force "as a means of settling international disputes." Among the changes Mr. Abe's government is enacting are new laws that will allow the Self-Defense Forces to operate abroad in a wider array of circumstances, including to defend allies like the United States.	日本自第二次世界大战以来没有出兵作战过，其战后宪法放弃用武力"作为解决国际争端的手段"。安倍政府正在进行的改革包括制定新法律，让自卫队可以在更广泛的环境下前赴国外开展行动，其中包括为美国等盟友承担防务。
To seed the market for military exports, Japan is offering financial aid to buyers. Credit guarantees, for example, would make buying weapons from Japan more affordable for developing countries, by lowering interest rates on the loans used to finance deals. In the last month,	为了启动军事出口市场，日本将为买家提供财政援助。例如信用担保可以降低用于贸易的贷款利息，让发展中国家能买得起日本的武器。在过去一个月里，日本已经开始与马来西亚和菲律宾谈判涉及军火的贸易协定。

Japan has begun negotiating military-related trade agreements with Malaysia and the Philippines.
India has already expressed interest in a large-capacity seaplane, the US-2, built for the Japanese navy by ShinMaywa Industries, a manufacturer better known for dump trucks and the passenger boarding bridges used at airports. The US-2 could help the Indian military patrol distant island chains like the Andaman and Nicobar, hundreds of miles from the mainland across the Indian Ocean.	印度已经表示了对大载重量水上飞机 US-2 的兴趣，这是新明和工业 (ShinMaywa Industries) 为日本海军研制的产品。该公司更有名的产品是自卸卡车，以及机场使用的乘客登机桥。US-2 可以帮助印度军方巡逻队前往与印度洋大陆相距数百英里的遥远群岛，比如安达曼和尼科巴群岛。
Breaking into a market dominated by established giants, often with close ties to governments, will not be easy. In many areas, specialists say, Japan's best bet is probably to cooperate rather than compete head-to-head.	往往与政府之间存在密切联系的巨头公司，在军工市场上占据着支配地位，要进入这个市场并不容易。专家说，在很多领域，日本最好的选择可能是合作而不是开展直接竞争。
Japan's most marketable products, they say, are relatively inconspicuous components, like image sensors and carbon-fiber aircraft parts, many originally developed with civilian applications in mind.	他们说，日本最有市场的产品是相对不起眼的组件，比如图像传感器和碳纤维飞机零件。很多这种组件在最初研发时，考虑的都是民用领域。
"We make some excellent parts and subsystems, but if we intend to produce whole systems, like next-generation fighters, it's impossible to develop these things on our own," said Satoshi Morimoto, a former defense minister.	"我们出产了一些优秀的零部件和子系统，但是如果我们打算生产整个系统，比如下一代战机，全靠自己研发是不可能的，"前防卫大臣的森本敏(Satoshi Morimoto)说。
Despite their new freedom to export, Japanese companies remain wary of being associated with a controversial industry.	尽管新近获得了出口军事产品的自由，和一个有争议的产业牵扯在一起，还是让日本企业感到担心。
"Most of the things here aren't very weaponlike," said Yoshiyuki Kusaka, a helicopter sales representative on duty at Kawasaki's booth at the expo, noting the absence of guns, missiles and other blatantly	"这里的大多数东西都不是很像武器，"博览会上川崎展台的直升机销售代表良文草香(音)说。他还表示，日本公司没有展示枪炮、导弹和其他明显具有威胁性的装备。

threatening gear from the Japanese companies' displays.
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150713/c13japanarms	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20150713/c13japanarms
Indian Writers Return Awards to Protest Government Silence on Violence	印度现作家“退奖”潮，莫迪政府面临考验
NEW DELHI — The novelist Nayantara Sahgal said she was returning India's highest literary honor to express sympathy for "all dissenters who now live in fear and uncertainty." G. S. Bhullar, a short-story author, said he was giving back the same award to protest the "violent retrogressive forces dictating terms in the field of literature and culture." Mandakranta Sen, a Bengali poet, said she was sending her award back to protest "attacks on rationalists."	新德里——小说家娜扬塔拉·萨加尔(Nayantara Sahgal)宣布将退还印度最高的文学荣誉，以表达对所有“生活在恐惧和不确定中的持异见者”的同情。短篇小说家 G·S·波拉尔(G. S. Bhullar)也宣称将退还该奖项，以抗议“残暴的倒退势力在文学和文化领域的独裁。”孟加拉诗人曼达科兰塔·森(Mandakranta Sen)称，她会归还自己的奖项，以抗议“对唯理主义者的攻击”。
In the last month, 35 leading Indian authors and poets have returned coveted awards from the National Academy of Letters in a collective revolt against what Salman Rushdie this week called the "thuggish violence" creeping into Indian life under the Hindu nationalist government of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.	在上个月，35名重要的印度作家和诗人退还了令人梦寐以求的印度文学院(the National Academy of Letters)的奖项，一致抗议萨尔曼·拉什迪(Salman Rushdie)本周指称的“凶残暴力”，说在总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)领导的印度教民族主义政府治下，这种“凶残暴力”逐渐潜入印度人的生活。
The writers' revolt, which began in September after a 76-year-old critic of Hindu idolatry was gunned down in his home, rapidly gained strength this month when Mr. Modi failed to promptly condemn the killing of a Muslim man, Mohammed Ikhtlaq, by a Hindu mob because they suspected he had killed a cow and eaten its meat.	这次作家的抗议活动始于9月，在一名76岁的评论家因批评印度教的偶像崇拜于住所内被枪杀之后。本月，一群印度暴民因怀疑穆斯林男子穆罕默德·阿科拉克(Mohammed Ikhtlaq)宰杀并食用了一头牛而将其杀害，而总理莫迪并未立即对此进行谴责。此后，抗议活动的声势剧增。
The revolt now presents Mr. Modi with a critical test of his vaunted ability to shape the public narrative of his administration. Perhaps more than any crisis he has faced since becoming prime minister 17 months ago, this one is offering a kind of X-ray of Mr. Modi's carefully cultivated	莫迪一直夸耀自己有能力塑造其政府的公共话语，而这次抗议活动给他造成严峻的考验。这可能是他出任总理的17个月以来，所面临的最为重大的一次考验。这一事件使人们能够仔细看清莫迪在印度及海外细心经营的个人形象。

persona both here and abroad.
Just last month, during a visit to the United States, Mr. Modi was warmly embraced by Mark Zuckerberg and other Silicon Valley titans, who praised him as the modernizing, progressive, open-minded leader of the world's largest democracy. But the backlash from some of India's most celebrated writers underscores the extent of debate here about the ultimate goals and essential nature of Mr. Modi's administration.	就在上一个月，在莫迪访美期间，马克·扎克伯格(Mark Zuckerberg)和其他硅谷巨头热情地欢迎了他。他们称赞莫迪为进步、开明的领导人，推动了现代化，治理着世界最大的民主国家。但印度一些最负盛名的作家的激烈反应，加剧了印度本国关于莫迪政府的最终目的和本质的争议。
Is he a Twitter-savvy technocrat obsessed with boosting development for all India by slashing red tape, wooing foreign investors and building a modern digital economy? Or is he a canny ideologue intent on imposing a strict Hindu code of values on a nation that prides itself on tolerance, diversity and pluralism?	他是否是一位谙熟社交网络的技术官员，一心想通过减少繁复的官僚程序、争取外国投资者以及建立现代化的数字经济来促进发展？还是精明的意识形态拥护者，热衷于将一套严苛的印度教价值观强加于一个素来以宽容、多样性和多元化为傲的国家？
"Mr. Modi talks all these tall words abroad, on foreign soil," said Mangalesh Dabral, a poet who is returning his award from 2000. "All the sermonizing, this talk of the great digital India and the dreams he shows to people. All of it seems plain boasting because enactment of these tall words is invisible in his behavior and words inside the country, on his homeland."	"莫迪总是在海外，在外国的土地上高谈阔论，"诗人曼格拉什·达布拉尔(Mangalesh Dabral)说，他打算退还自己于2000年获得的奖项。"他所有的说教，他所谈论的伟大的数字化印度，以及他展示给人民的美梦，所有这一切看起来不过是夸夸其谈而已，因为在自己的国家和土地上，他的言行从未兑现那些高谈阔论。"
One of Mr. Modi's favorite modes of communicating is Twitter, where he has 15 million followers and more than 9,500 posts. On Twitter, Mr. Modi presents himself as cheerleader in chief for all things India, celebrating achievements, sending birthday greetings and offering condolences. Yet, as many commentators have pointed out, not one of his Twitter posts has offered condolences to the Ikhlaq family, which was brutally attacked by a Hindu mob last month in a village 30 miles	莫迪最喜欢的交流方式之一是 Twitter。他有 1500 万关注者，发了 9500 多条推文。在 Twitter 上，莫迪以印度所有事务的首席拉拉队员的形象示人，庆祝取得的成就、送出生日祝福、表示慰问。然而，正如许多评论员所指出的那样，他的推文中没有一条向阿科拉克家表示慰问。上月，在德里以东 30 英里的一个村子里，一群印度教暴徒野蛮地袭击了阿科拉克家。

east of Delhi.
With each passing day of silence from Mr. Modi, more writers stepped forward to say they, too, were returning their awards from the academy, also known as Sahitya Akademi. At least a dozen more writers have joined since Monday, when right-wing Hindu activists in Mumbai smeared black paint on the face of Sudheendra Kulkarni, a think tank leader, for agreeing to host an event for a book for a former Pakistani foreign minister.	莫迪一直保持沉默。随着时间的推移，更多作家站出来表示，要把自己的奖项退还给文学院。周一，因为同意为前巴基斯坦外长写的一本书举办一场活动，智库领袖苏丁德拉·库尔卡尼(Sudheendra Kulkarni)的脸上被孟买的右翼印度教活动人士泼墨。自那时以来，至少又有 12 位作家加入其中。
"There are attacks on ordinary liberties, the ordinary right to assembly, the ordinary right to organize an event in which people can talk about books and ideas freely and without hostility," Mr. Rushdie told India's NDTV network on Tuesday. As if to prove his point, Mr. Rushdie described what happened when he posted on Twitter in support of Ms. Sahgal and the writers' revolt, warning that these are "alarming times for free expression in India." Within hours, he said, he was besieged with thousands of outraged responses.	"普通的自由、普通的集会权、人们组织活动并不带敌意地自由讨论著作和观点的普通权利受到攻击，"拉什迪周二对印度新德里电视台(NDTV)说。似乎是为了证明自己的观点，拉什迪描述了自己在 Twitter 上发文支持萨加尔和那些作家的反抗后发生的事情，警告称这些事情"令人对印度的言论自由感到担忧"。他说，在几个小时的时间里，自己遭到数千条愤怒回复的围攻。
Uday Prakash, a renowned Hindi writer, was the first author to renounce his award from the academy, in September. "I have never seen such hostility before," he said.	9 月，著名印地语作家乌代·普拉卡什(Uday Prakash)是第一位宣布放弃印度文学院奖项的作家。他说，"我以前从没见过这种程度的敌意。"
In interviews this week, the writers returned to the same refrain: That Mr. Modi's failure to confront intolerance by fellow Hindu nationalists is giving tacit permission for more intolerance. "The tide of violence against freedom of speech is rising every day," Ms. Sahgal said.	本周接受采访时，那些作家回口径一致，再次称莫迪未能应对印度教民族主义者的不宽容，而这是在默许更多的不宽容。"针对言论自由的暴力浪潮日益高涨，"萨加尔说。
On Tuesday, Mr. Modi for the first time directly addressed the Sept. 28 attack that left Mr. Ikhlaq dead. During an interview with the Bengali	周二，莫迪首次直接提到 9 月 28 日导致阿科拉克身亡的那场袭击。在接受孟加拉语报纸《Anandabazar Patrika》的采访时，莫迪称阿科拉克的死的

language newspaper Anandabazar Patrika, Mr. Modi called Mr. Ikhlac's death "really sad," and emphasized that his Bharatiya Janata Party, or B.J.P., "never supports such incidents."	确令人伤心”，并强调他所在的印度人民党（Bharatiya Janata Party，简称BJP）“从来不支持这种事情”。
But he also accused political opponents of trying to exploit Mr. Ikhlac's death. "The B.J.P. has always opposed pseudosecularism," he said. "Opposition regularly alleges B.J.P. of igniting communal flare. But isn't the opposition doing polarization now?"	但他也谴责政敌试图利用阿科拉克的死。“人民党向来反对伪世俗主义，”他说。“反对派常指称人民党引发社会紧张局势。但反对派现在不是正在制造分化吗？”
While Mr. Modi did not address the writers' revolt, his allies have been merciless. Rakesh Sinha, an unofficial spokesman for the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh, the ideological parent of the B.J.P., said the writers were "frustrated communist cadres" who had long opposed the "cultural nationalism" embraced by Mr. Modi's supporters.	莫迪未提到相关作家的反抗，但他的盟友却颇为无情。民族志工组织(Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh)的非官方发言人拉凯什·辛格(Rakesh Sinha)表示，那些作家是“受挫的共产主义干部”，长期反对莫迪的支持者奉行的“文化民族主义”。人民党的意识形态即发端于该组织。
He noted that at least two of the writers who returned awards signed an open letter warning that Mr. Modi's election as prime minister in 2014 would give rise to bigotry and violence. "They are not in a position to accept someone like Mr. Modi," he said in an interview.	他指出，退还奖项的作家中，至少有两人在2014年的一封公开信上签了名。那封公开信警告称，莫迪当选总理会引发偏见和暴力。“他们无法接受像莫迪那样的人，”他在接受采访时说。
In a lengthy post on Facebook, Mr. Modi's finance minister, Arun Jaitley, ridiculed the protests as political sour grapes by leftist writers still reeling from "the shrinking fortunes" of their traditional government patrons, the Indian National Congress and the Nehru-Gandhi dynasty.	莫迪的财政部长阿伦·贾特里(Arun Jaitley)最近在Facebook发表长文，嘲笑这些抗议源于左翼作家的政治酸葡萄心理，认为他们现在依然受到其传统政治主顾印度国大党(Indian National Congress)和甘地-尼赫鲁王朝“日渐式微”的影响。
"A few questions to the protesters: How many of them courted arrest, protested or raised their voice against the dictatorship of Mrs. Indira Gandhi during the emergency?"	“向抗议者们提几个问题：他们有几人在曾经抗议或大声反对英迪拉·甘地(Mrs. Indira Gandhi)在非常时期的独裁统治，又有几人因此被捕。”
"With the Congress showing no signs of revival and an insignificant Left lacking legislative relevance, the recipients of past patronage are now	“看不到国大党复兴的迹象，无足轻重的左翼力量又缺少与立法领域的关系，所以这些过去受赞助的人，现在开始诉诸其他政治手段，”贾特里接着写道。

resorting to 'politics by other means,' " Mr. Jaitley added. "The manufactured protest of the writers is one such case."	"这些作家制造的抗议，就是个例子。"
Several writers scoffed at the idea that the protests have a hidden political motive. Some pointed out that several Indian writers were jailed during the state of emergency declared by Mrs. Gandhi in 1975. Mr. Rushdie, a British citizen who was born in India, wryly noted that it was the Congress party that banned his novel "The Satanic Verses" in 1988. "I'm not a fan of any political party," he said.	对于抗议者有隐藏的政治动机这种想法，几位作家表示不屑。有些则指出，好几位印度作家曾在甘地 1975 年宣布进入的非常时期期间被监禁。出生于印度的英国公民拉什迪带有讽刺意味地指出，正是国大党在 1988 年禁了他的小说《撒旦诗篇》(The Satanic Verses)。“我不热心于任何一个政党，”他说。
Few writers have drawn more criticism than M.M. Kalburgi, a noted rationalist scholar who enraged far-right Hindu nationalists through his criticism of idol worship and superstition. Mr. Kalburgi said he received multiple death threats, and on Aug. 30 was shot dead at point-blank range in his home in Karnataka, a state in southern India. No arrests have been made.	没几个作家招致的指责多得过知名的唯理主义者 M.M.卡尔布吉(M.M. Kalburgi)，他因批评偶像崇拜和迷信而触怒了极右翼印度教民族主义者。卡尔布吉曾表示自己多次接到死亡威胁，8月30日他在自己位于印度南部卡纳塔克邦的家中被近距离击毙。目前警方还没逮捕任何嫌疑人。
Mr. Kalburgi's death created a fierce debate among members of the National Academy of Letters. Mr. Kalburgi had been a member of the academy's general council, and he received an award from the academy in 2006 for a collection of his academic research. Yet the academy issued no formal statements condemning Mr. Kalburgi's murder.	卡尔布吉的死在印度文学院成员中引起了激烈的争论。他曾是该院总理事会一名成员，2006年还因自己的一系列学术研究而获得该院颁发的一个奖项。但印度文学院并没有发布任何官方声明谴责对卡尔布吉的谋杀行为。
Some members wondered whether the academy was keeping quiet because it gets government funding. Ms. Sahgal, for one, criticized the academy for acting as if it was "wise to be silent when writers are being killed."	一些成员怀疑，文学院对此事保持沉默，有可能是因为它有政府资助。萨加尔就批评文学院表现得好像“在作家被杀害时保持沉默是明智之举”。
That silence is what led Uday Prakash to be the first to return his award.	这种沉默导致乌代·普拉卡什第一个返还了自己的奖项。“作家们都是一家人，

"Writers are a family, but they don't seem to care," he explained.	但他们好像并不关心，"他解释说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20151018/c19india	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20151018/c19india
U.S. Proposes Reviving Naval Coalition to Balance China's Expansion	美国重提亚太海军联盟，制衡中国
NEW DELHI — The chief of the United States Pacific Command, Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr., on Wednesday proposed reviving an informal strategic coalition made up of the navies of Japan, Australia, India and the United States, an experiment that collapsed a decade ago because of diplomatic protests from China.	新德里——周三，美国太平洋司令部司令、海军上将小哈里·B·哈里斯(Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr.)提议重启一个由日本、澳大利亚、印度和美国海军组成的非正式战略联盟。10年前，迫于中国的外交抗议，这个实验性的联盟瓦解了。
The proposal was the latest in a series of United States overtures to India, a country wary of forming strategic alliances, to become part of a network of naval powers that would balance China's maritime expansion.	印度这个国家对加入战略联盟相当谨慎。美国已经向印度多次提议，希望印度与其他一些海军大国一道，平衡中国的海上扩张。哈里斯的这次提议是其中最新的一次。
The American ambassador to India, Richard R. Verma, expressed hope in a speech that "in the not-too-distant future," joint patrols by navy vessels from India and the United States "will become a common and welcome sight throughout Indo-Pacific waters."	美国驻印度大使理查德·R·维尔马(Richard R. Verma)在一次讲话中表示，希望"在不太遥远的未来"，印度和美国海军舰艇的联合巡逻，"将在整个印度洋-太平洋水域，成为可喜的常态"。
And officials have said that the United States is close, after 10 years of demurrals from the Indian side, to concluding a logistics agreement that would allow the two countries' militaries to easily use each other's resources for refueling and repairs.	官员们说，在被印度婉拒了10年之后，美国有望不久与印度达成一项后勤协议，让两国军方可以方便地使用对方的资源，进行加油和维修。
Though he did not specifically mention China on Wednesday, Admiral Harris said powerful countries were seeking to "bully smaller nations through intimidation and coercion," and made the case that a broad naval collaboration was the best way to avert it.	虽然哈里斯上将周三没有具体提到中国，但他表示，一些强国正在试图"用恐吓和胁迫的手段来欺负小国"。他解释道，开展广泛的海军合作，是避免这种状况的最好办法。
"Exercising together will lead to operating together," he said, before	"共同训练会带来共同的行动，"他在与印度同行开会之前说。"把目光放远，

meetings with his Indian counterpart. "By being ambitious, India, Japan, Australia and the United States and so many like-minded nations can aspire to operate anywhere in the high seas and the airspace above it."	印度、日本、澳大利亚、美国，以及其他很多志同道合的国家，可望在公海及其空域的任何地方开展行动。”
Since Prime Minister Narendra Modi took office, India has ramped up naval cooperation with the United States. It reacted angrily in 2014 when a Chinese People's Liberation Army submarine docked in the Sri Lankan port of Colombo, and has warily watched the expansion of one of President Xi Jinping's priority projects, a maritime "silk road" with major ports in Gwadar, Pakistan, and Chittagong, Bangladesh. When President Obama visited India last year, the two countries issued a joint statement on "the Asia-Pacific and Indian Ocean region," something India had refused to do in the past.	自印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)上任以来，该国已经加强了与美国的海军合作。2014年，中国人民解放军的一艘潜艇停靠在了斯里兰卡科伦坡的一个港口，当时印度给予了愤怒的回应。印度也在警惕地关注着习近平的一个重点项目“海上丝绸之路”，其中囊括了巴基斯坦瓜达尔港和孟加拉国吉大港等主要港口。美国总统奥巴马去年访问印度时，两国发表了“亚太和印度洋地区”联合声明，过去印度曾拒绝发布这种声明。
Still, some of the American proposals smack of wishful thinking. India has not, to date, shown interest in carrying out joint patrols with the United States, even under the more neutral auspices of counterpiracy operations.	不过，美国的一些提议有点像是一厢情愿。迄今为止，印度都没有表现出与美国开展联合巡逻的兴趣，即便是在反海盗这种比较中立的情况下。
Officials here rebutted a Reuters report last month in which a United States official suggested India might participate in joint patrols in the South China Sea, something not even treaty allies like Australia or Japan have agreed to.	路透社上个月的一篇报道称，美国官员暗示，印度可能会参与在南海的联合巡逻。印度官员对此予以反驳，表示即便是澳大利亚和日本这样和美国签订了条约的盟友，也不会同意那么做。
"The last thing India wants to do is accidentally make itself into a front-line player in the South China Sea," said Nitin A. Gokhale, a security analyst, adding that "the best U.S.-aligned players can expect" is for India to remain active in regional forums, and shore up smaller navies like those of Vietnam and the Philippines.	“印度最不愿意做的事情，就是在南海成为排头兵，”安全分析人士尼廷·A·戈卡莱(Nitin A. Gokhale)说，“亲美的国家可以期待的最好状况”，就是印度在地区内的各种论坛上保持活跃，并为越南和菲律宾等规模较小的海军提供支持。

"I don't think India will be a front-line state," he said.	"我不认为印度会成为排头兵，"他说。
Admiral Harris's proposal of a quadrilateral security grouping, given at a forum hosted by the Observer Research Foundation, is certain to capture Beijing's attention. It did the same in 2007, when Prime Minister Shinzo Abe of Japan introduced the idea.	哈里斯上将提出的四方安全合作的建议，是在观察家研究基金会(Observer Research Foundation)举办的论坛上提出的，它肯定会引起北京的注意。2007年，日本首相安倍晋三提出这个想法的时候，就引起过中方的注意。
But Chinese analysts viewed the grouping as hostile; one called it a "mini-NATO." Even before the four countries convened for their first joint meeting, China had sent formal diplomatic protests to Washington, New Delhi, Canberra and Tokyo. At a summit meeting with China less than two years later, Australia announced that it was withdrawing from the quadrilateral arrangement.	中国分析人士认为，这种联合存在敌意，有人把它称为“小北约”。甚至在四国召开第一次联合会议之前，中国就向华盛顿、新德里、堪培拉和东京递交了正式外交抗议。之后不到两年，在中国共同举行的一场峰会上，澳大利亚宣布从这个四方计划中退出。
Under Mr. Modi, India's navy has embarked on the creation of a web of bilateral and trilateral agreements, which serve the same purpose but are less likely to be "caricatured" by China as a containment strategy, said Rory Medcalf, the head of the National Security College at the Australian National University. He added, however, that growing cooperation with the United States had forced China to take India more seriously.	莫迪上台后，印度海军着手签订了一系列双边和三边协定，它们服务于同样的目的，但是不太可能被中国“夸大”成是遏制战略，堪培拉的澳大利亚国立大学国家安全学院(National Security College)院长罗里·梅德卡尔夫(Rory Medcalf)如此表示。不过，他也说，印度与美国日益增强的合作，迫使中国不得不重视印度。
Shen Dingli, a professor of international relations at Fudan University in Shanghai, dismissed the idea that the grouping could be revived, and said that India would not join such a network for fear of Chinese retaliation.	对于这个联盟可以重启的想法，上海复旦大学国际关系学院教授沈丁立不以为然。他表示，印度不会加入这样的联合，因为担心中国会进行报复。
"China actually has many ways to hurt India," he said. "China could send an aircraft carrier to the Gwadar port in Pakistan. China had turned down the Pakistan offer to have military stationed in the country. If	"实际上中国有很多方式来伤害印度，"他说。"中国可以把航空母舰派到巴基斯坦的瓜达尔港。巴基斯坦曾提议让中国军队进驻该国，但被中国拒绝了。如果印度让中国不得不那么做，我们当然可以把海军派到你家门口了。"

India forces China to do that, of course we can put a navy at your doorstep.”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160303/c03india	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160303/c03india
Protest in Indonesia Against Ride-Hailing Apps Turns Violent	印尼雅加达出租车司机暴力抗议叫车应用
JAKARTA, Indonesia — The center of Jakarta, the Indonesian capital, was paralyzed Tuesday morning by a violent mass protest by taxi and other public transportation drivers against ride-hailing apps, with demonstrators blocking major roads and highways and attacking other taxis that were not taking part.	印度尼西亚雅加达——周二上午,印度尼西亚首都雅加达的城中心陷入瘫痪。出租车和其他一些公共交通工具的司机进行了反对打车应用的大型暴力抗议活动,示威者阻塞交通要道,还攻击了没有参与抗议的其他出租车。
An estimated 10,000 members of the Indonesian Land Transportation Drivers Association had planned a protest march from the national House of Representatives complex to the Presidential Palace to demand that the government ban app-based transportation companies, including Uber and Grab, saying they were hurting their ability to earn fares.	印度尼西亚地面交通驾驶员协会(Indonesian Land Transportation Drivers Association)的大约一万名成员原本计划进行抗议游行,路线是从人民代表会议大楼至总统府。他们要求政府封杀叫车应用企业,包括优步(Uber)和Grab,认为它们损害了自身的收入。
Instead, drivers ran amok in the district near the legislative complex, blocking roads leading to the Semanggi Flyover, the city’s main highway artery, and Jalan Sudirman, a primary thoroughfare that runs through the heart of Jakarta’s business district.	然而,进行抗议的司机在人民代表会议大楼附近的区域失控,堵塞了前往赛曼吉立交桥(Semanggi Flyover)和苏迪曼街(Jalan Sudirman)的道路。前者是雅加达的公路枢纽,后者则是贯穿商业区中心地带的大道。
Traffic was backed up for miles in all directions, and some offices closed because of security concerns.	在各个方向上,交通堵塞了数英里,一些办公室也出于安全原因关闭。
Two miles away, other protesters parked dozens of taxis on a thoroughfare off the city’s landmark roundabout, known as Bundaran H. I., blocking south-moving traffic throughout the morning.	在离此地两英里的地方,另一拨抗议者在雅加达的地标连环道(Bundaran H. I.)旁边的一条大路上停了数十辆出租车,堵塞了整个上午的南向交通。
“Stop illegal taxis,” protesters yelled. “No more apps.”	“封杀非法出租,”抗议者大喊。“不要叫车应用。”

Television news footage as well as videos posted on social media sites showed enraged taxi drivers pulling fellow drivers who were not part of the protest out of their vehicles and assaulting them. Their passengers were also forced to get out and run away.	电视新闻画面和社交媒体网站上发布的视频显示，有愤怒的出租车司机把没有参与抗议的同伴从车里拖出来进行攻击。乘客也被迫下车逃跑。
Protesters threw rocks at some taxis, smashed the windshields of others with sticks, or broke off their side mirrors.	抗议者往一些出租车上扔石头，用棍棒砸碎他人的挡风玻璃，或是敲掉后视镜。
Some protesters wearing their uniforms were seen attacking taxis belonging to their own company, as well as targeting those of rival operators. They were joined in the violence by the drivers of public transportation buses, three-wheeled scooters and minivans.	有人看到，一些身穿工作服的抗议者不仅袭击自家公司的出租车，也会打砸竞争对手公司的车辆。参与这种暴力行为的还有公交大巴、三轮小摩托和微型货车的司机。
In one bizarre scene, a taxi driver repeatedly tried to drive through a throng of protesters from his own company, the Blue Bird Group, who appeared to be trying to attack his cab and pull him from the vehicle. The driver was eventually able to drive away.	一名出租司机反复尝试开着车冲出自家公司蓝鸟集团(Blue Bird Group)的抗议者的包围圈，场面相当诡异。看起来，他们想要打砸他的车，并把他从车里拉出来。这名司机最终得以把车开走。
In another incident, protesters attacked a driver for Go-Jek, a popular Indonesian app-based motorcycle transportation company, whom they had pulled off his motorcycle.	另一起事件则是，抗议者把一名 Go-Jek 司机拉下了自己的摩托车，并对他进行了攻击。Go-Jek 是印尼当地的公司，提供的摩托车叫车应用颇受欢迎。
Many of the protesters work for Blue Bird, Indonesia's largest taxi company, and were plainly visible in their blue uniform shirts.	许多抗议者来自印尼最大的出租车公司蓝鸟集团，很容易通过他们身穿的蓝色工作衫辨认。
During a live televised news conference on Tuesday afternoon, Andri Nida, a spokeswoman for Blue Bird, said the company did not approve or support the protests.	在周二下午的直播新闻发布会上，蓝鸟的发言人安德丽·尼达(Andri Nida)表示，公司并未批准或支持这些抗议活动。
"If any vandalism was done by unscrupulous Blue Bird drivers, we'll cover the costs," she said. "We will punish any anarchic drivers, but we have to gather witnesses and evidence."	"假如有行为不端的蓝鸟司机进行了破坏，我们会弥补损失，"她说。"我们会对任何闹事的司机进行惩罚，但我们得找到目击者，搜集证据。"

By midday, the protesters had ended their blockade and marched or drove toward northern Jakarta, where they staged demonstrations at the Ministry of Communications and Information, and across from the State Palace.	到了中午时分，抗议者结束了堵路行为，开始步行或开车前往北雅加达。在那里，他们在印尼通信与信息部及其对面的国家官门前进行了示威活动。
The Jakarta police had deployed 6,000 officers early Tuesday to monitor the protest march. Police officials vowed to take action against protesters who committed violence, but it was unclear if they had made any arrests.	雅加达警方在周二清晨派出了六千名警员监控抗议游行。警方官员发誓要对进行暴力活动的抗议者采取行动。不过，目前并不清楚他们是否拘捕了什么人。
"We are still digging deeper into the incidents," Senior Commander Mohammad Iqbal, a spokesman for the Jakarta police, was quoted by The Jakarta Globe, a local newspaper, as saying. "The principle is that we will surely move against those who engaged in illegal acts."	根据当地媒体《雅加达环球报》(The Jakarta Globe)的报道，雅加达警方发言人、高级指挥官穆罕默德·伊克巴尔(Mohammad Iqbal)称，“我们还在对这些事件进行深入调查。原则上，我们一定会对从事非法行为的人采取措施。”
App-based transportation has seen explosive growth in numerous cities across Indonesia in the past two years, with motorcycle and car companies offering rides, deliveries, bill payments, shopping, cleaning services and even massages.	过去两年间，叫车应用出行在印尼各地的多座城市里取得了爆炸性发展。此类摩托车和汽车公司提供人员出行、货物递送、账单支付、购物和清洁等服务，甚至还涵盖了按摩服务。
The growth is driven by cheaper costs than traditional public transportation operators and more convenience, plus the fact that most Indonesians use their mobile phones for Internet access, according to many technology analysts.	许多技术行业的分析师认为，之所以取得这样的增长，是因为它们比传统公共交通运营商要更实惠方便，而且多数印尼人在用手机上网。
However, traditional transportation operators have taken exception to app-based companies, saying that they are not licensed and do not pay state taxes, and that their drivers, who are independently employed, do not have to pay for an annual transport permit. App-based transportation companies employ hundreds of thousands of drivers.	然而，传统出行方式的运营商很反对打车应用公司，宣称它们没有执照，也不纳税，旗下的司机独立受雇，不用支付年度牌照费。叫车应用公司雇佣的司机已达数十万之多。

Last year, Jakarta's governor, Basuki Tjahaja Purnama, called on the police to arrest Uber drivers, saying they were operating illegally. The company has denied this, citing Indonesian law on independent taxi operators.	去年，雅加达市长钟万学(Basuki Tjahaja Purnama)曾呼吁警方逮捕优步司机，声称他们在非法运营。优步公司援引印尼法律中针对独立出租运营商的规定，对此予以了否认。
On March 15, the transportation association held a peaceful rally of 2,000 drivers who protested outside City Hall, the Ministry of Communications and Information, and the Presidential Palace, saying the new competition was hurting their livelihoods.	今年3月15日，地面交通驾驶员协会举行了一场有两千名司机参与的和平集会。他们在雅加达市政厅、通信与信息部和总统府门前抗议，控诉这种新竞争损害了自己的生计。
Rudiantara, Indonesia's communications minister, who like many Indonesians has only one name, rejected calls to ban ride-hailing apps, saying they were part of Indonesia's growing digital economy.	印尼通信部长鲁迪安塔拉(Rudiantara)——与许多印尼人一样，他的名字是个单名——没有理会封杀叫车应用的呼声，而是表示它们是印尼不断增长的数字经济的一部分。
Instead, he said, the government will expedite licenses and permits for the companies so they do not have to suspend operations but do conform to Indonesian laws on public transportation.	他说，政府将加快向这类企业发放执照和许可的速度，这样的话，它们就能符合印尼在公共交通方面的法律，而不必停业。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160323/c23indonesia	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160323/c23indonesia
U.S. and India, With Eye on China, Agree to Strengthen Military Ties	印度向美国靠拢，加强军事合作制衡中国
NEW DELHI — The United States and India on Tuesday agreed in principle to a series of initiatives between their militaries that the Obama administration hopes will strengthen American ties in the region as it seeks to counter China's growing influence.	新德里——周二，美国和印度原则上同意了一系列军事计划。在试图制衡中国与日俱增的影响力之际，奥巴马政府希望这些计划能增强美国与该地区的联系。
Continuing recent steps to build closer collaboration between their militaries, the United States and India said they would allow their armed forces to share logistics abilities and enhance the exchange of defense technologies and other information.	美国和印度近期连续推出一些措施，希望密切双方军队之间的合作。两国表示，有了这些措施，双方军队可以共用后勤能力，并增进防务技术和其他信息的交流。
The initiatives, announced by Ashton B. Carter, the defense secretary,	这些举措是美国国防部长阿什顿·B·卡特(Ashton B. Carter)与印度国防部长

and his Indian counterpart, Manohar Parrikar, at a news conference here, were a further demonstration of India's increased willingness to work with the United States on military and security issues.	曼罗哈·巴里卡(Manohar Parrikar)在新德里的一个新闻发布会上宣布的，进一步证明印度在军事和安全上与美国合作的意愿在日益增长。
For decades as a leader of the Non-Aligned Movement, India shied away from entering into strong alliances with other countries, particularly large world powers. But under Prime Minister Narendra Modi, and wary of the growing power of its regional rival, China, the Indian government has moved closer to the United States.	几十年来，印度一直是不结盟运动的领导者，对于和其他国家，特别是世界强国结盟，印度总是退避三舍。但是在总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)上台后，出于对其区域竞争对手中国日益增长的实力的戒备，印度政府开始向美国靠拢。
The measures announced here, however, are largely symbolic. They provide India with few major military capabilities it does not already have. And they do not call for concrete actions like joint patrols in the South China Sea, which China has claimed as its own.	但是，他们公布的举措在很大程度上是象征性的。这些措施没有向印度提供多少其尚不具备的重要军事能力。它们并没有呼吁采取具体行动，比如在中国声称主权的南海开展联合军事巡逻。
In a statement released after the news conference, Mr. Carter and Mr. Parrikar said they had "reaffirmed the importance of safeguarding maritime security and ensuring freedom of navigation and overflight throughout the region, including in the South China Sea."	在新闻发布会结束后的一份声明中，卡特和巴里卡说，他们已经“重申了维护海上安全的重要性，重申了确保在包括南海的整个地区自由航行和飞行的重要性”。
The Obama administration has gone to great lengths to build a close relationship with India. Mr. Obama has visited the country twice, more than any president, and he and Mr. Modi seem to have built a close working relationship. Mr. Carter has spent more time with the defense minister, Mr. Parrikar, than any other counterpart. And the United States ambassador to India, Richard R. Verma, has worked closely with Indian officials to find ways the countries can collaborate more where they have common interests.	奥巴马政府为与印度建立密切关系不遗余力。奥巴马总统已经访问过该国的两次，超过以往任何一位总统。他和莫迪似乎已经建立了紧密的工作关系。卡特在和巴里卡接触的时间，也比和其他国防部长多。美国驻印大使理查德·R·维尔马(Richard R. Verma)与印度官员密切合作，想方设法让两国能在共同利益领域进行更多合作。
"As we stand here, our two countries and our two militaries are closer	"今天我们站在这里，我们两国和两军之间的距离比以往任何时候都更接近

than we have ever been — brought together by shared values, mutual interests and a promising destiny,” Mr. Carter said.	——是共同的价值观、共同利益和光明的前景让我们走到一起，“卡特说。
He added: “The U.S.-India relationship is destined to be one of the defining partnerships of the 21st century. And that destiny is rapidly and surely becoming a reality.”	他说：“美国和印度的关系注定将成为一种对 21 世纪产生决定性影响的伙伴关系。这种前景正在迅速、稳步地成为现实。”
The logistics agreement will allow the Indian and American militaries to use each other’s bases to refuel and as staging areas during emergencies or natural disasters. The pact has not yet been signed, Mr. Carter said, adding that the signing would be in coming weeks after a final draft of the agreement is completed.	根据这个后勤协议，在出现突发事件或自然灾害时，印度和美国军方可以使用对方的基地加油。协定尚未签署，卡特说将会在未来几周内最终草案完成之后签署。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160413/c13india	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160413/c13india
In South China Sea Visit, U.S. Defense Chief Flexes Military Muscle	美国南海军事部署是一场怎样的赌博
ABOARD THE U.S.S. JOHN C. STENNIS, in the South China Sea — Over the last week in Asia, Defense Secretary Ashton B. Carter has visited two aircraft carriers, revealed new military agreements with India and the Philippines, and generally signaled that the Obama administration had decided to lean more on military power to counter China’s territorial ambitions in the region.	随约翰·C·斯坦尼斯号航空母舰于南海——上周，美国国防部长阿什顿·B·卡特 (Ashton B. Carter) 在亚洲地区视察了两艘航空母舰，披露了与印度和菲律宾达成的新军事协议。这基本上是在宣告，奥巴马政府决定更加依赖军事力量来制衡中国在这一地区的领土抱负。
But the newly muscular approach on display during Mr. Carter’s tour represents a gamble. While it sends a message that the United States will work with its allies to challenge Beijing’s expanding presence in the disputed South China Sea, it also plays into fears within the Chinese leadership about American efforts to halt China’s rise.	然而，美国在卡特访问亚洲期间新近展示的强硬手段，相当于一种赌注。它释放出一个信号：美国将与盟友一起应对北京在存在争议的南海海域不断扩大其存在的行动。但它同时也会引起中国领导层对美国遏制中国崛起意图的担忧。
That may mean that the more the Pentagon steps up in the region, the more China may feel it needs to accelerate its military buildup,	那可能意味着，五角大楼越多介入该地区事务，中国可能就愈发感到需要加快自身军事力量建设，包括在争议海域填造配备有雷达和飞机跑道的新一代人工

including the construction of new islands equipped with radar and airstrips in contested waters.	島。
With a mix of showmanship and concrete initiatives during a six-day visit to India and the Philippines, Mr. Carter left little doubt that the United States intended both to strengthen alliances and move more hardware and troops here to counter China's growing military reach.	在访问印度和菲律宾的六天时间里，卡特既做出了高调的展示，也提出了一些具体的倡议。这让外界几乎可以肯定，美国意图加强联盟，并将更多重武器和部队转移到该地区，以制衡中国日益延伸的军事触角。
On Friday, he rode a helicopter to a symbol of American power projection in the Pacific, a Nimitz-class nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, as it cruised through the South China Sea near waters claimed by the Chinese.	周五，他乘坐直升机前来象征美国在太平洋地区力量投射的一艘尼米兹级核动力航空母舰视察。当时，这艘航母正在南海上靠近中国宣示主权的海域航行。
Before visiting the carrier John C. Stennis, he marked the end of 11 days of military exercises between the United States and the Philippines and said some American troops would stay behind "to contribute to regional security and stability."	在登上这艘名为约翰·C·斯坦尼斯号(John C. Stennis)的航空母舰之前，他刚刚出席了美国与菲律宾之间为期 11 天的军事演习的闭幕式，并表示其中的一些美国部队将留下来，“帮助维护地区安全与稳定”。
He also said the United States had begun joint patrols of the South China Sea with the Philippine navy and would soon do the same with the country's air force.	他还表示，美国已经开始和菲律宾海军在南海进行联合海上巡逻，也将很快与该军空军展开同样的合作。
Earlier in the week, Mr. Carter toured an Indian aircraft carrier, the first time an American defense secretary had boarded such a ship, and said the United States would help India upgrade its carriers. He also revealed a new logistics agreement and said the two nations would work together on other military technologies.	上周早些时候，卡特还参观了一艘印度航空母舰——这是美国国防部长第一次做出这样的举动——并表示美国将帮助印度升级它的航母。他还披露了一项新的后勤协议，并表示两国将在军事技术上展开合作。
Together, the measures announced by Mr. Carter hint at a potential American military resurgence in a part of the world where China believes it is destined to surpass the United States in influence. The	与此同时，卡特宣布的这些措施也暗示，在这个中国认定自己的影响力注定会超越美国的区域，美国军事力量有可能复苏。奥巴马政府似乎在押注中国会因此后退，而非继续采取行动，导致它的邻国欣然接纳美国军事力量。

Obama administration seems to be betting that China will back off rather than continue making moves that lead its neighbors to embrace the American military.
More than once in the last week, Mr. Carter cited China's actions as the driving force behind tensions in the region and, implicitly, the reason for its neighbors' increased engagement with the Pentagon.	上周，卡特不止一次提到中国的行为是导致该地区局势紧张的主要因素，并且暗示这是其邻国与五角大楼逐渐加强合作的原因。
Below deck, he said China should not see the carrier's presence as a provocation.	在甲板下接受采访时，他表示中国不应将这艘航母在该海域的存在看作一种挑衅。
"We have been here for decade upon decade. The only reason that question even comes up is because of what has gone on over the last year, and that's a question of Chinese behavior," he said. "What's not new is an American carrier in this region. What's new is the context and tension that exists, which we want to reduce."	"我们在该地区的活动已经持续几十年。之所以会被当成问题提出来，完全是因为过去一年出现的情况，而这属于中国自身行为的问题，"他说。"美国航母出没于这一海域不是新情况，这里目前的环境和紧张局面才是，而这正是我们想改善的。"
But some analysts warn that China could react to the Pentagon's moves by taking more aggressive actions, challenging America's commitment to the region in a high-profile game of chicken and raising the risk of a military conflict.	不过，一些分析人士警告，针对五角大楼的行动，中国可能做出回应，方式是采取更多激进行为，在一场高调的"看谁先退缩"的游戏中挑战美国对该地区做出的承诺，从而增加产生军事冲突的风险。
The Chinese have been closely watching Mr. Carter's tour, which had included a stop in Beijing before it was scrubbed from the schedule a few weeks ago. In a late-night statement on Thursday, the Chinese Defense Ministry accused the United States of reverting to a "Cold War mentality" and said the Chinese military would "pay close attention to the situation and resolutely defend China's territorial sovereignty and maritime interests."	中国一直在密切关注卡特此次的亚洲之行。这次访问原先还有一站是北京，但在几周前取消了。周四深夜，中国国防部发布了一份声明，指责美国重拾"冷战思维"，并表示中国军方会"高度关注有关动向，坚决维护国家领土主权和海洋权益。"
On Friday, China also disclosed that its most senior uniformed military	周五，中国又公布了其级别最高的现役军事指挥官视察存在争议的斯普拉特

commander had visited the disputed Spratly Islands, which appeared intended to signal Beijing's resolve in the South China Sea, most of which it considers Chinese territory.	利群岛 (Spratly Islands, 中国官方称之为南沙群岛——译注) 的消息, 似乎有意显示北京在南海事务上的决心。中国认为该海域大多属于其主权范围。
The Obama administration has declined to describe its approach toward China as a revival of "containment," the Cold War strategy aimed at preventing the spread of Communism. Instead, Mr. Carter said the new military initiatives in the region were consistent with longstanding American policy to work closely with countries that share its interests.	奥巴马政府拒绝将美国对待中国的手法描述为“遏制”策略的复苏, 即冷战时期采取的旨在防止共产主义思想扩散的策略。卡特表示, 美国在该地区采取的新军事动作, 与一项长期存在的美国政策是一致的, 那就是与存在共同利益的国家密切合作。
"America's policy continues to be one valued on principles of peaceful resolutions of disputes, lawful settlement of things like territorial disputes like the South China Sea, or anywhere else, freedom of navigation, freedom of commerce," he said.	“就和平解决争端、依法处理类似南海这样的领土争议等事宜、航海自由、通商自由等原则, 依然是美国的政策所看重的,”他说。
"Now countries who don't stand for those things, who don't stand with those things, are going to end up isolating themselves," he added. "That will be self-isolation, not isolation by us."	“如今不能坚守这些原则、支持这些原则的国家, 终将被孤立,”他还说。“那将是自我孤立, 而不是被我们孤立。”
For decades, neither India nor the Philippines was particularly interested in military cooperation with the United States. As a leader of the Non-Aligned Movement, India has been suspicious of alliances with other countries, particularly world powers. And the Philippines expelled American forces in the early 1990s, ending a military presence that began with the United States' capture of the islands from Spain in 1898.	此前数十年间, 不论是印度还是菲律宾都极其不愿意与美国进行军事合作。作为不结盟运动(Non-Aligned Movement)的领导者之一, 印度一直对自己与其他国家——尤其是与世界强国的盟约怀有戒心。菲律宾则曾在1990年代初赶走美国军队, 从而结束了美国自1898年从西班牙手中夺得菲律宾之后一直在该国驻军的历史。
But both countries have grown wary of China's rising military profile — more wary than they are of the United States.	但这两个国家都对日益增强的中国军事影响力越来越担忧, 其程度超过了对美国的担忧。
The initiatives that Mr. Carter announced with India were largely	卡特和印度方面共同宣布的那些倡议, 在很大程度上只具有象征意义, 但也

symbolic but could signal greater cooperation in the future, like joint patrols in the South China Sea and the sale of heavy weaponry and other equipment. In a significant policy shift, India is already in talks with Japan, an American ally, to upgrade civilian infrastructure in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, an Indian archipelago seen as a potential strategic asset in efforts to counter Chinese naval expansion.	可能意味着美印两国未来会进行更广泛的合作，比如在南海开展联合巡逻，或者出售重型武器以及其他装备。印度对其政策做了重大调整，为了升级境内安达曼-尼科巴群岛(Andaman and Nicobar Islands)的民用基础设施，它已经在和美国的盟友日本谈判。该群岛被视为一项潜在战略资产，可以用来减少中国海军扩张的影响。
A sweeping 10-year deal with the Philippines, approved by the nation's Supreme Court in January, will allow American forces to build military facilities and assign personnel, planes and ships to existing Philippine bases. Mr. Carter announced that more than 200 American pilots and crew members, as well as six aircraft and three helicopters, would remain in the country.	今年1月，菲律宾最高法院(Supreme Court)批准了美菲两国达成的一项为期10年的一揽子协议。根据该协议，美国军队可以在菲律宾现有的军事基地上兴建军事设施，或者把人员、飞机和军舰派往这些基地。卡特宣布，超过200名飞行员和机组成员外加六架战机、三架直升机会留守菲律宾。
The developments represent a setback for President Xi Jinping of China, who has overseen the acceleration of Beijing's buildup in the South China Sea and could be accused of needlessly drawing the United States back into the region.	这些事态进展对习近平主席来说是一次受挫，北京加快南海军事力量扩张的行动，是在他的督导下进行的，可能会有人指责他毫无必要地招惹美国重新进入该地区。
But analysts in China said the Obama administration's initiatives were unlikely to achieve its goal of persuading Mr. Xi to back off. Instead, they could heighten fears in the Chinese leadership that Washington is using Beijing's claims in the South China Sea as an excuse to encircle China and halt its global rise.	但中国的分析人士称，想通过前述倡议奉劝习近平后退的奥巴马政府不大可能如愿以偿。相反，这些倡议可能会让中国领导层更加担心：华盛顿正以北京的南海领土主张为借口包围中国，遏制其在全球范围内的崛起。
"China sees its actions in the South China Seas as legitimate in protecting its own sovereignty and integrity," Su Hao, a professor at China Foreign Affairs University in Beijing. "China will not just change its behaviors or deployment plan simply because of the Americans."	"中国认为自己在南海的行动合理合法，是在保卫主权和领土完整，"位于北京的中国外交学院教授苏浩说。"中国不会仅仅因为美国人就改变自己的行为或部署规划。"

https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160418/c18asiamilitary	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160418/c18asiamilitary
Uganda Halts Military Cooperation With North Korea	韩国说服乌干达终止与朝鲜军事合作
Uganda has agreed to cut all military and police ties with North Korea, depriving the North of a crucial base for arms and other exports in Africa, the office of President Park Geun-hye of South Korea said on Monday.	韩国总统朴槿惠(Park Geun-hye)的办公室周一表示, 乌干达已同意切断与朝鲜的所有军警联系, 朝鲜在非洲将失去一个武器和其他物资出口的重要基地。
President Yoweri Museveni of Uganda made that promise in a summit meeting with Ms. Park on Sunday during her visit to Africa, her office said.	朴槿惠的办公室说, 在她出访非洲期间, 乌干达总统韦里·穆塞韦尼(Yoweri Museveni)上周日与她举行了首脑会谈, 向她做出了这个承诺。
In the meeting, her office said, Mr. Museveni agreed to comply with United Nations sanctions aimed at limiting North Korea's capacity to earn foreign cash for its banned nuclear and missile program.	她的办公室说, 穆塞韦尼在会议上同意遵行联合国的制裁措施。这些措施旨在打击朝鲜的创汇能力, 遏制朝鲜的核计划和导弹计划。
"We are disengaging the cooperation we are having with North Korea, as a result of U.N. sanctions," Sam Kutesa, Uganda's foreign minister, told the Ugandan broadcaster NBS Television.	"我们正在取消与朝鲜的合作, 这是联合国制裁的结果," 乌干达外长萨姆·库泰萨(Sam Kutesa)对乌干达广播电视台 NBS Television 表示。
Col. Shaban Bantariza, a spokesman for the Ugandan government, said his country was simply "disengaging from military cooperation" and not cutting diplomatic ties with the North Koreans, The Associated Press reported.	据美联社(The Associated Press)报道, 乌干达政府发言人沙班·班塔瑞兹(Shaban Bantariza)上校表示, 该国仅仅是"取消军事合作", 而不是切断与朝鲜的外交关系。
Instructors from North Korea have been in Uganda for years, training its police in weapons use and other areas, according to South Korean officials and a United Nations sanctions report. Uganda was also believed to be a crucial buyer of rifles and other small arms from North Korea.	韩国官员和联合国的一份制裁报告称, 多年来, 朝鲜教官在乌干达为该国培训警察, 项目包括武器使用等等。据信乌干达也是步枪等小型朝鲜武器的重要买家。
Under economic pressure from international sanctions, North Korea	迫于国际制裁的经济压力, 朝鲜一直把武器出口和军事教官输出作为一种外

has relied on the exports of weapons and the deployment of military instructors abroad as a source of foreign currency.	币收入来源。
The United Nations vowed to crack down on these income sources in its latest sanctions imposed after the North's nuclear test in January.	朝鲜今年1月进行核试验后，联合国决心要打击朝鲜的这些收入来源，推出了最新的制裁措施。
North Korean officials have been visiting Uganda since the days of the North Korean leader Kim Jong-un's grandfather Kim Il-sung, who cultivated ties with African countries when he was president.	从朝鲜领导人金正恩的祖父金日成那一代起，就有朝鲜官员访问乌干达。金日成当总统时，培养了朝鲜与非洲国家的关系。
Mr. Museveni, in power since 1986, visited North Korea in 1987, 1990 and 1992 and met with Kim Il-sung. When he visited South Korea in 2013, he surprised officials by greeting them in Korean; he said he had learned it from Kim Il-sung, the South Korean news agency Yonhap reported.	穆塞韦尼自1986年上台以来，先后在1987、1990和1992年访问过朝鲜，见过金日成。2013年访问韩国时，他说了几句韩语，令韩国官员惊讶；据韩国联合通讯社的报道，他自称是从金日成那里学的韩语。
In 2014, he received a North Korean delegation led by Kim Yong-nam, the No. 2 man in the North's hierarchy. But that year, his government declined to receive an International Kim Il-sung Award that the North offered to Mr. Museveni, Yonhap reported.	2014年，他接见了朝鲜第二号人物金永南(Kim Yong-nam)率领的朝鲜代表团。但是据韩联社报道，就在这一年，朝鲜向穆塞韦尼颁发“国际金日成奖”(International Kim Il-sung Award)被他的政府拒绝。
Mr. Museveni has been looking to develop economic opportunities with countries like China and South Korea.	穆塞韦尼一直在寻求与中国和韩国等国发展经济机会。
The Park-Museveni agreement, if put into effect, would be a coup for Ms. Park. The South Korean leader supports aggressive enforcement of United Nations sanctions against North Korea. During her current three-nation tour in Africa, she has tried to rally support for the sanctions, offering aid packages as incentives.	朴槿惠-穆塞韦尼协议如果付诸实施，将会成为朴槿惠的一大胜利。她支持联合国对朝鲜的大力制裁。此次在非洲要访问三个国家期间，她试图争取他们对制裁的支持，并向他们提供一揽子援助计划作为奖励。
During her visit, Uganda and South Korea signed 10 cooperation agreements in areas like defense, health, rural development and	在她访问非洲期间，乌干达和韩国政府表示，两国在国防、卫生、农村发展和通信技术领域签署了10项合作协议。 communications technology, both governments said.

On Monday, Ms. Park and Mr. Museveni introduced a "Korea Aid" program in Mpigi, a town in central Uganda, where a South Korean medical crew started treating local people. The program will run ambulances to provide mobile health care and nutritional support.	周一，朴槿惠和穆塞韦尼在乌干达中部小镇姆皮吉推出了“韩国援助”计划，韩国医疗队开始在那里为当地人治疗疾病。根据该计划，一些救护车将在该国提供移动医疗保健和营养保障服务。
South Korea has exported $350,000 worth of helmets, bulletproof jackets and grenades to Uganda in the last three years, according to South Korean government data.	韩国政府统计的数据显示，在过去三年里，韩国向乌干达出口了价值 35 万美元的头盔、防弹衣和手榴弹。
For decades, South Korea and North Korea have competed to undercut each other's influence in Africa. The visit by Ms. Park was the first state trip to Uganda by a South Korean president since the two nations established diplomatic relations in 1963.	几十年来，韩国和朝鲜一直在争相削弱对方在非洲的影响力。朴槿惠此次访问乌干达，是自 1963 年两国建立外交关系以来，韩国总统首次对乌干达进行国事访问。
As Ms. Park was traveling to Ethiopia, Uganda and Kenya, a senior North Korean delegation led by Kim Yong-nam returned from a visit to several African countries, including Equatorial Guinea and Mozambique, in the past month.	在朴槿惠访问埃塞尔比亚、乌干达和肯尼亚之时，由金永南带队的一个朝鲜高层代表团返回了朝鲜。此前数月，他们对包括赤道几内亚、莫桑比克在内的好几个非洲国家进行了访问。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160531/c31korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160531/c31korea
To the Moon, North Korea? Or Does a Rocket Have a Darker Aim?	金正恩要上月球？朝鲜为何试验火箭发动机
WASHINGTON —Kim Jong-un is headed to the moon.	华盛顿——金正恩(Kim Jong-un)要去月球。
That, at least, is one of the official North Korean explanations for the testing last week of a rocket engine that, if as powerful as the North claims, would rival the commercial rockets that Jeff Bezos and Elon Musk, of Amazon and Tesla, now use in their aerospace companies to fire payloads into space.	这至少是朝鲜对上周试验一款火箭发动机给出的官方解释之一。若其功率真如朝鲜宣称的那么强劲，那么这款火箭便可与亚马逊(Amazon)的杰夫·贝佐斯(Jeff Bezos)和特斯拉(Tesla)的埃隆·马斯克(Elon Musk)名下的航空航天公司眼下用于升天的商业火箭媲美。
Inside the United States' intelligence agencies, though, there is	不过，在美国情报机构内部，对朝鲜是否真的渴望在月球上插上自己的旗帜

considerable skepticism that North Korea is truly eager to plant a flag on the lunar landscape. The agencies are exploring another explanation: that Mr. Kim, the North Korean leader, is racing ahead, as the United States is distracted by a bruising presidential election, to develop a way for his growing arsenal of nuclear weapons to reach New York and Washington.	存在相当大的怀疑。相关机构正在探索另一个解释：在美国因一场激烈的总统选战而分心之际，朝鲜领导人金正恩正在全速前进，以期为其日渐增加的核武器抵达纽约和华盛顿找到一种方式。
The North may not be working alone. An intelligence finding that the United States quietly made public in January suggests that the development of the North's big engine, which it claims produces 80 tons of thrust, may be part of a joint partnership with Iran. A Treasury Department announcement of sanctions against Iranian officials and engineers named two who had "traveled to North Korea to work on an 80-ton rocket booster being developed by the North Korean government."	朝鲜可能并非孤军奋战。美国今年1月低调地公布了一份情报分析。这份报告表示，朝鲜这款大型发动机的研发或许是与伊朗共同合作的一部分。朝鲜称该发动机能产生80吨的推力。在宣布对伊朗官员和工程师的制裁时，美国财政部提到了两名人员曾“前往朝鲜，参与朝鲜政府正在研制的一款80吨火箭助推器的相关工作”。
Few threats as urgent as the dramatic escalation of North Korea's nuclear and missile programs are likely to confront Hillary Clinton or Donald J. Trump, who will have their first debate on Monday night, as president.	在周一晚上进行首场辩论的希拉里·克林顿(Hillary Clinton)和唐纳德·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)，可能遇到的威胁甚少会像朝鲜的核计划和导弹计划显著升级这么紧迫。
An engine that delivers 80 tons of thrust would have about three times the power of an advanced North Korean rocket shown in a ground test in April, though it is not possible to verify the North's claims. By most unclassified estimates, it will take North Korea perhaps five years to marry its missile advances with a weapon small enough and strong enough to survive the stresses of re-entering the atmosphere atop an intercontinental ballistic missile.	若能产生80吨的推力，则这款发动机的威力大约是朝鲜在4月的一次地面试验中展示的一枚先进火箭的三倍，不过尚无法核实相关说法。按照大部分非机密的估计，朝鲜大概要用五年时间，才能将其在导弹上的进步与搭载在洲际弹道导弹上的武器相结合，这种武器要足够小，足够牢固，能抵御重新进入大气层时的压力。

So far, Mr. Kim's engineers have never executed a military test flight that could reach beyond the middle of the Pacific, though in a statement on Friday, the North threatened to attack Guam, home of the American B-1 bombers that conducted simulated runs last week over the Korean Peninsula.	截至目前，金正恩手下的工程师从未进行过范围超出太平洋中部的军事试飞。但在上周五的声明中，朝鲜威胁要攻击关岛。那里部署着美国的 B-1 轰炸机。上周，这款轰炸机在朝鲜半岛上空进行了模拟飞行。
The potential links to Iran complicate the issue. Iran has ignored a United Nations Security Council resolution, passed in conjunction with last year's agreement freezing its nuclear program, to refrain from tests of nuclear-capable missiles for eight years.	此事可能与伊朗有关让问题变得更为复杂。伊朗一直无视联合国安理会要求其八年内不得试验能够携带核弹头的导弹的决议。该决议是与去年冻结伊朗核计划的协议一并获得通过的。
The Obama administration has not sought sanctions, knowing they would be vetoed by Russia and China, nor has it said much in public about the details of the cooperation on the new rocket engine. There is a long history of sharing missile technology, but no persuasive evidence exists that the Iranians have been involved in the North's nuclear weapons tests.	奥巴马政府未寻求进行制裁——因为知道会遭到俄罗斯和中国的否决——也未在公开场合对双方在新款火箭发动机上的合作细节做过多讨论。共享导弹技术的做法历史悠久，但没有令人信服的证据表明伊朗参与了朝鲜的核武器试验。
The moonshot talk may be aspirational, but it is not lunacy. Rocket experts say four of the new North Korean engines, clustered at the base of a space vehicle, would be powerful enough to hurl a no-frills payload to the moon. But the North would have to master many other technologies before even an unmanned vehicle could be landed there.	登月的说法可能像是大话，但却并不疯狂。火箭专家称，若集中部署在航天器底部，四台朝鲜新型发动机或许便足以将基本的有效载荷发射至月球。不过，即便是让无人飞行器登上月球，朝鲜也必须掌握其他很多技术。
In an interview last month with The Associated Press, the director of the scientific research department of North Korea's National Aerospace Development Administration, Hyon Kwang Il, said a moonshot was the nation's goal.	上个月，朝鲜国家宇宙开发局(National Aerospace Development Administration)的科学发展司司长玄光日（Hyon Kwang Il，音）在接受美联社采访时称，登月是这个国家的目标。
"Even though the U.S. and its allies try to block our space development,	他说，“虽然美国及其盟友竭力阻扰我们太空事业的发展，但我们的航天科

our aerospace scientists will conquer space and definitely plant the flag of the D.P.R.K. on the moon," he said, using the abbreviation for the Democratic People's Republic of Korea.	学家将征服太空，一定要把 D.P.R.K.的旗帜插在月球上。“这里的 D.P.R.K.是指朝鲜民主主义人民共和国。
Always the propaganda master, Mr. Kim celebrated the rocket test on North Korea's central television station, which broadcast him in a white shirt on a sunny day at the North's test site, standing at the base of the giant engine. The broadcast, which has been recirculated on YouTube, shows the fiery test.	金正恩一直是个宣传高手，他在朝鲜的中央电视台上庆祝这次火箭试验，在电视画面中，他身穿白衬衫在一个阳光灿烂的日子来到朝鲜的试验场地，站在巨大发动机的基座旁。电视画面还展示了点火试验。这段视频也出现在 YouTube 上。
Whatever the goal, the most important aspect of the new North Korean engine is that its design appears to be indigenous, rather than a knockoff of decades-old Soviet missiles. That suggests a growing domestic ability, which may explain the appeal to Iran, which intelligence officials speculate may be helping to fund the effort.	不管目标是什么，朝鲜新发动机最重要的一点是，它似乎是自主设计，而不是苏联几十年前导弹的仿制品。那也就表明朝鲜本国的能力有所提升，这也许可以解释它对伊朗的吸引力，情报官员们猜测伊朗可能在帮忙为这一努力提供资金。
"It's like nothing we've seen before," John Schilling, an expert on North Korea's missile program at 38 North, a blog and think tank of the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies, said of the powerful new engine. "It's somewhat frightening that they have this capability, but somewhat encouraging that they want to use it for space launching."	"这跟我们之前见到的完全不同，"约翰·霍普金斯大学(Johns Hopkins University)国际问题高级研究院(School of Advanced International Studies)的博客、智库"北纬 38 度"(38 North)的朝鲜导弹项目专家约翰·席林(John Schilling)在谈起这个强大的新发动机时说，"他们拥有了这个能力，让人有点害怕，不过稍微令人感到鼓舞的是，他们想用它来进行太空发射。"
History shows that any strides in rocketry, no matter what the claimed purpose, can aid both civil and military programs. "That's what the United States did," said David Rothkopf, who has written two histories of the National Security Council. "It's what the Russians did. It's what the Chinese did. Why not the North Koreans?"	历史表明，不管声称的目的是什么，火箭技术的任何发展都会同时有助于民用和军事项目。"美国就是这样的，"戴维·罗斯科普夫(David Rothkopf)说。他写过两本关于国家安全委员会(National Security Council)的书。"俄罗斯和中国也是这么干的。朝鲜为什么不呢？"
American officials would not publicly say that the program referred to	美国官员不会公开承认财政部制裁所针对的正是导致上周试验的项目。不过

in the Treasury sanctions was the same one that resulted in last week's test. But there was no other logical conclusion.	没有别的合理推论。
The announcement identified "Iranian missile technicians" from companies working for Iran's Ministry of Defense for Armed Forces Logistics. It said that two of them, Seyed Mirahmad Nooshin and Sayyed Medhi Farahi, "have been critical to the development of the 80-ton rocket booster, and both traveled to Pyongyang during contract negotiations."	这项声明确认了几名“伊朗导弹技术人员”，他们所在的企业为伊朗武装部队后勤部(Ministry of Defense for Armed Forces Logistics)服务。声明称，其中两人——赛义德·米哈迈德·诺辛(Seyed Mirahmad Nooshin)和赛义德·马迪·法拉希(Sayyed Medhi Farahi)“对 80 吨火箭助推器的研发起到了至关重要的作用，两人都在合同谈判期间去过平壤”。
Dr. Schilling said the big new engine seemed more suited to launching satellites and space probes than warheads. The North Korean military is known to prefer missiles small enough to transport on trucks, haul on back roads and hide in tunnels.	席林博士称，新的大发动机似乎更适合发射卫星和太空探测器，而不是导弹弹头。众所周知，朝鲜军队更喜欢小导弹，适合卡车运输、方便僻径运送或藏在地道里。
But the North is also highly aware that its launching failures in past years have become the stuff of ridicule on the internet, making it easy to dismiss the program. It seems to be looking for something that would create at least the impression that it will not take long for it to fly to the moon or strike any part of the United States.	不过，朝鲜也非常清楚，它过去数年中多次发射失败在互联网上已成为笑柄，这令大家很难把该计划当回事。朝鲜似乎在寻找某种至少能给人留下用不了多久，它就能飞上月球或打击美国任何地区这一印象的东西。
"You cluster four of them together, and that's a very healthy ICBM," Jeffrey Lewis, a North Korea specialist at the Middlebury Institute of International Studies in Monterey, Calif., said of the new engine.	“你把四个放在一起，那就是很强大的洲际弹道导弹，”位于加利福尼亚州蒙特雷的米德尔伯里国际研究学院(Middlebury Institute of International Studies)朝鲜专家杰弗里·刘易斯(Jeffrey Lewis)在谈起这个新发动机时说道。
Of course, moving from a static engine test to a cross-Pacific flight test would take considerable time, and the rocket would be a giant sitting duck for American targeting on the launchpad.	当然，从静态发动机试验到跨太平洋飞行试验还需要很长时间，对瞄准那个发射台的美国人来说，击中那个目标是轻而易举的事情。
One possibility is that the North is trying to replicate elements of the	有一种可能是，朝鲜正在努力复制美国的陆海空“三位一体”核威慑力量——

American “triad” — the creation of a nuclear arsenal that can be delivered by aircraft, ground-based missile silos and submarines. A recent missile launch by the North appeared to have been from a submarine.	建立一个可以用飞行器、地面导弹发射井和潜水艇投放的核武器库。朝鲜前不久发射的一枚导弹似乎就来自一艘潜水艇。
“We have 400 missiles sitting in silos,” Dr. Lewis noted, though there is a movement to eliminate the silos because they are old and vulnerable to pre-emptive attack.	“我们的发射井里有 400 枚导弹，”刘易斯指出。不过现在也有人提议淘汰这些发射井，因为它们太陈旧，难敌先发制人的攻击。
The North Koreans may be thinking, “Why not have everything?” Dr. Lewis added.	刘易斯补充说，朝鲜人也许在想：“为什么不拥有这一切呢？”
David C. Wright, a senior scientist at the Union of Concerned Scientists, a Cambridge, Mass., group that monitors proliferation, also argued that the North Korea advance could well end up powering ICBMs from deep silos.	关注全球问题科学家联盟(Union of Concerned Scientists)的高级科学家戴维·C·赖特(David C. Wright)也认为，朝鲜的这一进步很可能最终是给发射井中的洲际弹道导弹提供动力。该联盟是位于马萨诸塞州坎布里奇市的一个关注核扩散的组织。
He noted that the high power of the new North Korean engine was similar to one that Chinese scientists developed to power that nation’s first long-range missile. It was quickly judged reliable enough to hurl warheads between continents.	他指出，动力强大的朝鲜新发动机与中国科学家研发的、给该国第一枚远程导弹提供动力的发动机类似。后者立即被认定足以用于洲际投掷弹头。
Dr. Wright, in a blog post on the North Korean advance, noted that the Chinese rocket, known as the DF-5 (for Dong Feng, or East Wind), “could carry a nuclear warhead to anywhere in the United States.”	赖特在一篇评价朝鲜取得该进步的博文中指出，中国的东风-5 型火箭“能够把核弹头送到美国的任何一个地方”。
“Who knows what North Korea might want to do?” Dr. Wright said. “At this point, I don’t think we can take an ICBM off the table.”	“谁知道朝鲜想干什么？”赖特说，“在这一点上，我觉得我们不能把洲际弹道导弹排除在外。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160927/north-korea-rocket-moon	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20160927/north-korea-rocket-moon
With North Korea Looming, Trump May Be Rethinking China	朝鲜核问题影响特朗普对华政策

Showdown
BEIJING — As a presidential candidate, Donald J. Trump talked about China almost solely in the context of trade, such as when he promised to slap punishing tariffs on cheap Chinese imports that he argued had ruined the lives of working-class Americans.	北京——作为总统候选人时，唐纳德·J·特朗普每每提到中国，几乎都是在贸易背景之下。例如，他承诺要对廉价的中国进口商品征收惩罚性关税，认为这些商品损害了工薪阶层美国人的生活。
But as he begins to feel the weight of office on his shoulders, there are signs that his focus in the Asia region may have shifted toward security — specifically, the problem of North Korea and its expanding nuclear arsenal, which experts say already threatens America’s regional allies, Japan and South Korea.	但是，随着他开始感受到总统职位所赋予他的重任，有迹象表明，他在亚洲地区的重点可能已经转向安全问题，具体来说，就是朝鲜及其不断增长的核武库问题，专家称这个问题已对美国的区域盟国日本和韩国构成威胁。
During his visit to The New York Times this week, Mr. Trump referred obliquely to a “big problem for the country” that President Obama had mentioned during their 90-minute meeting at the White House after the election. Well-placed American officials believe that reference was to North Korea.	特朗普上周在与《纽约时报》会谈时，拐弯抹角地说起在大选后，奥巴马总统在他们为时 90 分钟的白宫见面会上提到的一个“国家的重大问题”。了解情况的美国官员认为，特朗普指的是朝鲜。
Any solution to that problem must involve China, North Korea’s patron, American and Chinese officials agree. Mr. Trump acknowledged as much during the campaign, saying on one occasion that China should do more to bear down on the North.	美国和中国官员一致认为，这个问题的任何解决办法，都必将涉及朝鲜的支持者中国。特朗普在竞选期间也承认了这一点，他曾在一个场合说，中国应该对朝鲜施加更多的压力。
So which tack will Mr. Trump take with China? Will he seek its support for a deal on North Korea, or will he start a trade war, putting such cooperation in doubt?	那么，特朗普对中国将采取哪种策略呢？为在朝鲜问题达成协议，他是会寻求中国的支持，还是将开始一场贸易战，让这种合作变得不确定呢？
American officials briefed the Chinese several months ago on their assessment that the North’s nuclear capabilities had sharply increased, according to two Americans with knowledge of the briefings, who	据两位了解此事的美国人说，美国官员几个月前曾向中国人介绍了美国对朝鲜的评估，美国认为朝鲜的核能力已得到极大的提升，二人因此事的敏感性要求匿名。

spoke on the condition of anonymity because of the sensitivity of the matter.
But even before then, nuclear scientists from China and the United States had agreed for some time about the danger posed by the North's ambitions, said Siegfried S. Hecker, an American nuclear scientist at Stanford University who was the last outsider to visit the country's plutonium processing plant at Yongbyon, in November 2010.	但是, 即使在那之前, 在朝鲜野心所构成的威胁上, 中国和美国的核科学家达成共识已有一段时间了, 斯坦福大学的美国核科学家西格夫里·S·赫克 (Siegfried S. Hecker)说, 他是参观过朝鲜宁边钚加工厂的最后一名外国人, 那是在 2010 年 11 月。
Several years ago, the Chinese tended to play down the North's nuclear capabilities, Dr. Hecker said in an email exchange. But since the mercurial Kim Jong-un, a young leader who has declined to listen to China and has provoked the United States, took over the country, the assessments of the two powers have been "pretty much in line," he said.	赫克在电子邮件中说, 几年前, 中国人曾倾向于认为朝鲜的核能力不值一提。但是, 自从变幻莫测的金正恩担任该国领袖以来, 中美两国对朝鲜的看法已“基本一致”。年轻的金正恩拒绝听中国的话, 并不断挑衅美国。
Dr. Hecker and other scientists estimate that North Korea might develop the capacity to strike the West Coast of the United States with a nuclear warhead in about five years. But the real problem is here and now, in Asia, he said.	据赫克及其他科学家估计, 朝鲜可能在五年内研发出用核弹头打击美国西海岸的能力。但他表示, 真正的问题在于此时此地的亚洲。
"The greatest and most urgent threat comes not from a North Korean nuke being able to reach the U.S., but rather what they have already," he said. Specifically, Dr. Hecker wrote in a recent article, the North is now probably able "to put nuclear weapons on target anywhere in South Korea and Japan and even on some U.S. assets in the Pacific."	赫克说, “最大、最紧迫的威胁不是来自一枚能够到达美国的朝鲜核武器, 而是来自朝鲜已经拥有的东西。”他在最近的一篇文章中写道, 具体来说, 朝鲜目前可能已经能够“把核武器投到韩国和日本的任何地方, 甚至投到美国在太平洋中的一些设施”。
Worse yet, he wrote, North Korea may have developed a "false sense of confidence" from a recent spate of successful nuclear and missile tests — one that could lead it to grave errors of judgment.	他写道, 更糟糕的是, 朝鲜可能已经从最近几次成功的核武器和导弹试验中产生了一种“盲目的自信”, 这可能导致严重的判断失误。
By the end of this year, Dr. Hecker estimated, the country is likely to	赫克估计, 朝鲜到今年年底可能有足够制造大约 20 枚核弹头的裂变材料。

have enough fissile material for about 20 bombs. The danger would be exacerbated if the North decided "to field tactical nuclear weapons as its arsenal expands and its confidence in its nuclear arsenal grows."	如果朝鲜“随着自己核武库的扩大，以及对自己核武库信心的增长，（决定）将战术核武器派上用场的话”，危险将会进一步加剧。
In short, Dr. Hecker said, more and better bombs make a catastrophic miscalculation by North Korea more likely.	赫克说，简言之，更多、更好的核弹让朝鲜更有可能做出灾难性的错误估计。
How much of this Mr. Trump knew before his victory is unclear, but he was certainly aware of the problem. Early on, he expressed a mixture of awe and dismay toward Mr. Kim.	目前尚不清楚特朗普在大选获胜之前对这个问题有多少了解，但他肯定知道这个问题。在竞选的早期，他曾对金正恩表示过惊叹和诧异。
"If you look at North Korea, this guy, I mean, he's like a maniac, O.K.?" he said at a rally in Ottumwa, Iowa, in January.	今年1月，在艾奥瓦州奥塔姆瓦的一次集会上说，“你看看朝鲜那个家伙，我的意思是，他就像个疯子，对吧？”
"And you've got to give him credit. How many young guys — he was like 26 or 25 when his father died — can take over these tough generals?" Mr. Trump was referring to Mr. Kim's execution of several generals, including his uncle, Jang Song-thaek, who was the main conduit between North Korea and China.	“你不得不佩服他。有多少年轻人——他父亲去世时他好像是26岁或25岁——能拿下那些强大的将军？”特朗普指的是被金正恩处决的几名将军，包括他的姑父张成泽，张曾是朝鲜与中国沟通的主要渠道。
"We can't play games with him," Mr. Trump said at the time, referring to Mr. Kim. "Because he really does have missiles, and he really does have nukes."	“我们不能跟他逗着玩，”特朗普当时说，他指的是金正恩。“因为他真的有导弹，真的有核弹。”
Such considerations — and briefings that Mr. Trump presumably has received or will receive on the North's capabilities — could compel the new president to prioritize security over trade in his dealings with China. With the right approach, he could find a willing partner in Beijing, said Yang Xiyu, a former Chinese official who oversaw the so-called six-party talks on the North's nuclear program that collapsed in 2008.	这些考虑、以及特朗普已经或将会得到的有关朝鲜情况的汇报，可能会迫使这位新总统在与中国打交道时，把安全问题置于贸易问题之上。前中国官员杨希雨说，用正确的方式，特朗普能够在北京找到愿意合作的伙伴。杨希雨曾是所谓“六方会谈”的中方负责人，那个有关朝鲜核问题的谈判在2008年破产。

But Chinese officials say that approach would require removing a thorn in Beijing's side: an advanced missile defense system that the United States plans to install in South Korea. The Chinese view that system, known as the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense System, as an effort to contain its ambitions in Asia, though Washington and Seoul say it is intended purely to defend South Korea against the North.	但中国官员说，正确的方式需要消除一个对北京来说是眼中钉、肉中刺的问题：美国计划在韩国部署的先进导弹防御系统。中国人将这个名为“末段高空区域防御系统”（Terminal High-Altitude Area Defense，简称“萨德”）的部署，视为遏制中国在亚洲野心的努力，虽然华盛顿和首尔都表示，萨德只用于韩国对朝鲜的防御上。
In the past year, China has rebuffed many of Washington's requests for sharper measures against North Korea, and the missile system is one reason. Whether Mr. Trump would consider scrapping it is another unknown.	在过去一年中，中国拒绝了华盛顿多次提出的对朝鲜采取更严厉措施的要求，该导弹系统正是原因之一。特朗普是否会考虑将其取消也属未知。
Washington and Beijing did cooperate on United Nations sanctions against the North this year — an encouraging sign, analysts said, though many doubt that economic punishment alone will be a deterrent.	华盛顿和北京今年在联合国对朝鲜的制裁方面进行过合作，分析人士说，这是一个令人鼓舞的迹象，尽管许多人认为不能单靠经济制裁的遏制力。
And on Friday, the Chinese state-run news media reported that Beijing would support a new round of sanctions being considered by the Security Council that would close loopholes allowing North Korea to sell coal.	上周五，中国官方媒体报道说，北京将支持联合国安理会正在审议的新一轮制裁，该制裁将堵住让朝鲜出售煤炭的漏洞。
Mr. Yang, the former official, said the Trump administration must take into account Beijing's worst fear, where the North is concerned: a collapse of Mr. Kim's totalitarian regime, followed by refugees from the North pouring into China and a unified Korean Peninsula under the protection of the American military. As president, Mr. Trump must understand that Mr. Kim's government has to stay, Mr. Yang said.	前官员杨希雨说，在朝鲜问题上，特朗普政府必须将北京为最担心的事情考虑在内：金正恩极权政权的崩溃，因为随后会有大批朝鲜难民涌入中国，并会出现美军保护下的朝鲜半岛统一。杨希雨说，作为总统，特朗普必须明白，有必要保留金正恩的政府。
"Remove the bombs, not the regime, is the key to a peaceful solution," Mr. Yang said. If the United States shares that goal, he said, "we can	杨希雨说，“消除核弹，而不是政权，这是和平解决的关键。”他说，如果美国同意这一目标，“我们可以进行真诚和实质性的合作。” cooperate sincerely and substantively.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161128/donald-trump-china-trade-security	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161128/donald-trump-china-trade-security
U.N. Stiffens Sanctions on North Korea, Trying to Slow Its Nuclear March	中国同意联合国对朝鲜实施新制裁
UNITED NATIONS — In an effort to tighten sanctions that largely failed to throttle North Korea’s nuclear program, the United Nations Security Council on Wednesday imposed a cap on coal exports, the country’s chief source of hard currency.	联合国——周三，联合国安理会对朝鲜主要的硬通货来源——煤炭的出口设定了限额，此举旨在加强此前基本没能遏制朝鲜核项目的制裁措施。
The new penalties — adopted unanimously by the Council, including China — came as North Korea advances toward its goal of building a functional nuclear warhead. That presents a stark national security challenge to the incoming administration of President-elect Donald J. Trump, who called North Korea’s leader, Kim Jong-un, “a maniac” during the campaign, but has said nothing about how to contain Mr. Kim’s nuclear ambitions.	新的惩罚措施——由包括中国在内的安理会成员国一致采纳——出台的时机，恰逢朝鲜朝着制造实用性核弹头的目标迈进之时。这给即将上台的候选总统唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)带来严峻的国家安全挑战，后者曾在竞选期间称朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)是个“疯子”，但他并没有讲要如何遏制金正恩的核野心。
As with the original set of sanctions, which the Security Council adopted in March, the key to enforcing these new penalties remains in the hands of China, North Korea’s principal patron and coal customer.	就像安理会在今年3月采取的最初的制裁方案一样，执行这些新惩罚措施的关键依然取决于中国，即朝鲜主要的赞助者和煤炭资源客户。
The new restrictions on North Korean coal were relatively easy for Beijing to approve. They serve the purpose of expressing China’s displeasure with Mr. Kim’s agenda, yet they fall short of inflicting crippling pain on North Korea.	对朝鲜煤炭资源实施的新限制措施，对中国来说相对比较容易接受。它们可以让中国表达对金日成议程的不满，但又不会对朝鲜造成过于严重的打击。
China seems to have judged that reducing the coal imports will not upend the North Korean economy and cause social unrest and flows of	中国似乎已经做出判断，认为削减煤炭进口不会搞垮朝鲜经济，不会引发社会动乱，导致难民流向中国——这是它最担心的后果。 refugees into China, an outcome it most fears.

On Wednesday, China's permanent representative to the United Nations, Liu Jieyi, called on North Korea to halt its nuclear tests, saying they undermine regional stability and Beijing's "strategic interests." He said the resolution demonstrated "the uniform stance of the international community."	中国常驻联合国代表刘结一周三呼吁朝鲜停止核试验，称它们破坏地区稳定，有损北京的“战略利益”。他还表示，联合国的决议显示了“国际社会的一致立场”。
Samantha Power, the American ambassador to the United Nations, said Wednesday that "the United States recognizes China in working closely with us." Negotiations lasted for three months, since Pyongyang's fifth and latest nuclear test in September.	美国驻联合国大使萨曼莎·鲍尔(Samantha Power)周三表示，“美国十分赞赏中国能与我们展开密切的合作”。自平壤在今年9月进行第五次，同时也是最近一次核试验以来，相关谈判已经进行了三个月。
The original sanctions — which the United States at the time hailed as "comprehensive" — had sought to limit coal exports, unless it was for what the measure called "livelihood" reasons. In spite of the sanctions, exports to China increased.	最初的制裁方案——当时被美国称赞“全面”——也试图限制朝鲜的煤炭出口，但在出现决议所说的“生计”原因时除外。尽管有这样的制裁措施，但朝鲜对中国的出口却出现了增长。
American officials conceded this week that there was some "vagueness" in the original measure. The new resolution aims to shave $700 million from North Korea's coal revenues. The resolution says North Korea can sell no more than 7.5 million metric tons of coal a year, or bring in no more than $400 million in sales, whichever comes first.	美国官员本周承认，最初的措施有一些“模糊”。新决议计划使朝鲜的煤炭收入减少7亿美元，要求朝鲜一年出售的煤炭不能超过750万公吨，或者销售额不超过4亿美元，哪个指标先达到就采用哪个。
It also requires countries to tell the United Nations how much North Korean coal they are buying and expands the list of banned items for import by North Korea, including luxury goods like bone china worth more than $100 as well as equipment with dual-use purposes.	决议还要求各成员国告知联合国它们在从朝鲜买入多少煤炭，要求扩大禁止朝鲜进口的商品名单，包括价值超过100美元的骨瓷等奢侈品，以及可以两用的设备。
The measure also urges countries to allow North Korean diplomatic missions around the world to have only one bank account. That, the	制裁决议也强烈要求各成员国只允许朝鲜在世界各地的外交使团开一个银行账户。美国表示，此举是为限制朝鲜利用公使和大使推进核项目的倾向。

United States says, is intended to limit the country's penchant for using its envoys and embassies to further its nuclear program.
How successful the new measures will be, of course, depends on the willingness of countries to abide by them.	当然，这些措施能取得多大的成功，取决于各国执行它们的意愿。
The United Nations secretary general, Ban Ki-moon, called the measures the "toughest" sanctions imposed by the Council. But he warned that the passage alone would be insufficient. "It is incumbent on all member states of the United Nations to make every effort to ensure that these sanctions are fully implemented," he said.	联合国秘书长潘基文(Ban Ki-moon)称这些措施是安理会实施的“最严格”的制裁。但他也警告，单单通过这些措施是不够的。“联合国所有成员国都有责任尽最大的努力，确保这些制裁措施得到彻底的执行，”他说。
The bigger uncertainty is what posture Mr. Trump will take toward North Korea and Mr. Kim — and, by extension, toward Beijing.	更加不确定的是，特朗普会对朝鲜、金正恩，进一步说，对中国会采取什么态度。
"If you look at North Korea, this guy, I mean, he's like a maniac, O.K.?" Mr. Trump said at a campaign rally in January. He went on to say that "he really does have missiles, and he really does have nukes." Since then, Mr. Trump and his transition team are likely to have been briefed on the nature and scope of North Korea's nuclear arsenal.	“如果你看一看朝鲜，这个家伙，我是说，他就像个疯子，好吗？”特朗普在今年1月举行的一次竞选集会活动上说。他又继续讲道，“他真的有导弹，真的有核武器。”自那之后，特朗普及其交接团队有可能已经被简要介绍了朝鲜核武库的性质和范围。
American officials have warned for months that the North's nuclear capabilities have increased sharply. Its missile and nuclear tests, the most recent in September, have accelerated, despite the imposition of sanctions in March.	在过去的几个月里，美国官员一直在警告，朝鲜的核能力有了急剧的增长。这个国家开始加速进行导弹与核试验——最近一次是在今年9月——尽管联合国在3月已经对它实施了制裁。
The Security Council measures adopted on Wednesday are a response to the Kim government's fifth and largest nuclear test. The revised sanctions are aimed at cutting into North Korea's ability to profit from coal exports and to tighten the noose around individuals and companies involved in its nuclear program. The measure expands the	联合国安理会周三采取的措施，是对金正恩政府进行的第五次，也是规模最大的一次核试验做出的回应。经过修改的制裁方案旨在削弱朝鲜从煤炭出口获利的能力，同时加强对牵涉朝鲜核项目的个人和企业的限制。这项制裁扩大了需要冻结资产和禁止旅行的人员名单；其中包括驻埃及和苏丹等国家的一些公使。

list of people subject to asset freezes and travel bans; they include some envoys to countries like Egypt and Sudan.
American officials said the new sanctions would also clarify that the "livelihood" exemption applies to North Korean citizens, and cannot be used to protect the livelihoods of Chinese importers.	美国官员表示，新制裁也会明确“生计”豁免条款适用于朝鲜公民，而不能用于保护中国进口商的生计。
Publicly, China has defended its coal imports since the sanctions earlier this year. Even if statistics showed increased imports, the trade was legal under the livelihood exemption, the Foreign Ministry said.	自今年初实施制裁以来，中国一直公开为自己的煤炭进口辩护。该国外交部表示，即使数据显示进口出现了增长，但在生计豁免条款之下，这项贸易是合法的。
Chinese analysts point to conditions flourishing in the North Korean capital, Pyongyang, and say rudimentary market trading in rural areas is keeping much of the population afloat.	多名中国分析师指出朝鲜首都平壤欣欣向荣，并且表示农村地区的简陋市场贸易令这里的大多数人的生活得以维持。
And even though some Chinese steel makers in northern China value North Korea's high-grade coal, the new curbs would have relatively little impact on China's industrial output, said Deng Shun, a coal market analyst with Success Futures, a trading company in Guangzhou.	广州集成期货(Success Futures)的煤炭行业分析师邓舜表示，尽管中国北部的一些钢铁制造商看重朝鲜优质的煤炭资源，但新的制裁措施对中国工业出口的影响相对比较小。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161201/north-korea-un-sanctions	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161201/north-korea-un-sanctions
Trump, Taiwan and China: The Controversy, Explained	特朗普蔡英文通话意味着什么？6个问题帮你解读
When President-elect Donald J. Trump spoke on the phone with Taiwan's president on Friday, he was wading into one of Asia's longest-running and sensitive issues: the dispute between Taiwan and mainland China.	当美国候任总统唐纳德·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)在周五与台湾总统通电话时，他在踏入亚洲持续时间最久、最敏感的一个议题：台湾与中国大陆的争端。
Though the call alarmed experts, who say it risks upending decades of American efforts to manage the dispute, nonexperts could be forgiven for scratching their heads about the uproar. What follows, then, is a	尽管这个电话引起了专家们的警惕——他们表示这有可能让美国几十年来应对这一争端的努力功亏一篑——但非专业人士如果感觉对这场哗动摸不着头脑，也是可以理解的。接下来，我们就来了解一下中国—台湾这个问题：为

guide to the China-Taiwan issue: why it is so delicate, what role the United States has in the matter and why the phone call is significant.	什么它如此微妙，美国在其中扮演了什么角色，以及为什么这个电话事关重大。
What is the China-Taiwan issue?	什么是“中国—台湾”问题？
Both players claim, at least formally, to represent all of China — which they consider to include each other’s territory. That has created problems, including periodic risks of war, for decades.	双方至少在形式上都声称自己代表整个中国——它们认为其中包含了彼此的领土。这在数十年间制造了许多问题，包括时而显现的爆发战争的危险。
The disagreement dates to 1927, when civil war broke out in the Republic of China. The war culminated in Communist revolutionaries, led by Mao Zedong, mostly defeating China’s Nationalist government in 1949.	这种分歧可以追溯到 1927 年，当时中华民国爆发了内战。战争的高潮是毛泽东领导的共产主义革命，后者大体在 1949 年击败了中国的国民党政府。
But the Nationalist leaders fled to Taiwan, at that time a region of China, which their forces still controlled. Though fighting eventually stopped, both sides continued to claim all of China. The Taiwan-based government considered mainland China to be controlled by illegitimate Communist rebels. The Beijing-based government considered Taiwan a breakaway province.	但是，国民党领导层逃到了台湾——台湾当时是中国的一个地区——如今他们的军队依然控制着这个区域。虽然战争最终停止了，但双方依然声称自己对整个中国拥有主权。台湾政府认为中国大陆是被没有合法地位的共产主义叛乱者掌控。北京政府则认为台湾是从中国脱离的一个省份。
In this sense, the civil war was never fully resolved. Thus, Taiwan’s formal name is still the Republic of China. Mainland China — controlled by the Communist government in Beijing — is called the People’s Republic of China.	从这种意义上讲，内战从未真正结束。所以，台湾的正式名称依然是中华民国。由北京的共产主义政府控制的中国大陆，则被称为中华人民共和国。
Their dispute became a global Cold War issue. The Soviet Union and its allies recognized Beijing as China’s rightful government, while the United States and its allies recognized the Nationalists in Taiwan. The Taiwan government even held the United Nations seat for all of China.	它们的争端变成了全球冷战的议题。苏联及其盟国认为北京是中国的合法政府，而美国及其盟国则认可台湾的国民党政府。台湾政府甚至还占据着中国在联合国(United Nations)的席位。
In the 1970s, the world began accepting the reality of a divided China.	上世纪 70 年代，世界开始接受中国陷入分裂这个现实。北京在 1971 年获得

Beijing took over the United Nations seat in 1971. President Richard M. Nixon traveled to mainland China the next year. In 1979, America switched its recognition from the Taiwan government to Beijing's. Many other countries followed suit.	了中国在联合国的席位。第二年，美国总统理查德·M·尼克松(Richard M. Nixon)访问了中国大陆。1979年，美国的立场从认可台湾政府转向认可北京政府。其他许多国家也采取了同样的做法。
Since then, no American president or president-elect is believed to have spoken with a Taiwanese president – until the phone call on Friday.	自那以后，据信没有一位美国总统或当选总统与一位台湾总统交谈过——直到周五那个电话。
Why don't China and Taiwan just split?	中国和台湾为什么不干脆分开呢？
This would be extremely difficult for either government.	对它们中任何一个而言，这都是极其困难的。
The Beijing government has never given up hope of reintegrating Taiwan. Territorial integrity is an existential issue for all countries, but it is especially sensitive for Beijing, which fears emboldening separatism in Tibet and other regions.	北京政府从来没有放弃收复台湾的希望。领土完整对所有国家都是事关存亡的大事，但对北京来说尤其敏感，它担心这会加重西藏和其他地区的分裂主义倾向。
The Taiwan government is constrained on both sides. It cannot offer to reintegrate with the mainland, as the island is a democracy and Taiwanese people would be unwilling to surrender their freedoms. At the same time, Beijing has credibly threatened war should Taiwan declare independence. Taiwan cannot drop its claim to mainland China, as this would be tantamount to independence.	台湾政府两头受制约。它不能接受回归中国大陆，因为这个岛屿是民主政体，台湾民众不会愿意放弃自己的自由。与此同时，北京也做出过实质性的威胁，表示如果台湾宣布独立，它会发起战争。台湾也不能放弃自己对中国大陆的领土主张，因为那意味着独立。
This led, in 1992, to a semiofficial arrangement: Both countries agreed that there is only one China, encompassing the mainland and Taiwan. But they also agreed to disagree about which government is legitimate.	这种情况下，双方在1992年达成了一个半官方协议：双方认同只有一个中国，其中包含中国大陆和台湾。但在哪个政府是合法政府的问题上，它们各持己见。
Beijing is adamant about upholding this policy because it carries the promise of reunification. But in Taiwan, it has been controversial. Some prefer warm ties with their fellow Chinese and have sought to bolster trade. Others, particularly younger voters, distrust Beijing.	北京坚定地拥护这一政策，因为它蕴含着统一的希望。但在台湾，这项政策一直存在争议。有些人倾向于和大陆的中国同胞维持友好关系，努力推动两岸贸易。有些人则不信任北京，尤其是更年轻的选民。

Over time, Taiwan’s citizens have become more likely to call themselves Taiwanese – a distinct national identity – than Chinese.	随着时间推移，台湾民众变得更倾向于自称台湾人——一种不同的民族认同——而非中国人。
Some Taiwanese leaders have questioned the current arrangement, including President Tsai Ing-wen, who was elected this year. She has promised to uphold the status quo but stopped short of endorsing the 1992 understanding – exacerbating Beijing’s fears that Taiwan could seek independence.	有些台湾领导人对目前的协议存疑，包括今年当选的台湾总统蔡英文。她承诺会保持现状，但决定不再支持双方在 1992 达成的共识，这加重了北京对台湾追求独立的担忧。
Mr. Trump, by speaking with Ms. Tsai on the phone and referring to her as “the President of Taiwan” in a Twitter post, indulged those fears – and upended the traditional American stance, known as the “One China” policy.	因为与蔡英文通话，并在 Twitter 上发帖子称呼她为“台湾总统”，特朗普进一步强化了这种担忧，也颠覆了美国一贯的立场，即“一个中国”政策。
What is the “One China” policy?	什么是“一个中国”政策？
Because both Taiwan and Beijing claim the same territory, foreign states cannot recognize both. They must choose, as the policy’s name indicates, “one China.” Nearly all countries have chosen Beijing, which controls the world’s second-largest economy.	因为台湾和北京都声称自己对同一片领土拥有主权，其他国家无法同时认可二者。它们必须选择“一个中国”——就像这个政策的名称所显示的。几乎所有的国家都选择了北京，后者控制着世界上第二大经济体。
The United States has a particular kind of One China policy, meant to accomplish three main goals: keep positive relations with Beijing, with which the United States has a host of agreements and interests; protect and assist Taiwan, a fellow democracy; and prevent the outbreak of war.	美国有一种独特的一个中国政策，有意通过它达成三个主要目标：和与它有很多协议和利益的北京保持积极关系；保护和协助同为民主政体的台湾；防止爆发战争。
Though the United States officially broke off relations with Taiwan in 1979, it maintains a nonprofit center known as the American Institute in Taiwan, which acts as a barely unofficial embassy. The United States has also worked to promote Taiwan’s democracy and has sold it	尽管美国于 1979 年在名义上与台湾断绝了关系，但它依然保留着一个名为美国在台协会(American Institute in Taiwan)的非营利中心，其作用相当于一个几乎谈不上非官方的大使馆。美国也竭力推动台湾民主发展，向它出售先进的军事装备，尽管它近些年一直否认存在这些交易。而且，华盛顿不承

advanced military equipment, though these sales have declined in recent years. And Washington does not recognize Beijing's sovereignty over Taiwan.	认北京对台湾拥有主权。
In this way, the United States is able to deny Taiwan recognition, yet also ensure it is strong enough to remain functionally independent. The policy should not be mistaken as a favor or handout to Beijing. Rather, it is intended to maintain American interests in both mainland China and Taiwan and prevent instability or war.	这样，美国就能拒绝承认台湾的身份，但同时又确保它足够强大，能保持实质性的独立。这项政策不该被看作是偏向北京，或有利于它。相反，它意在同时保持美国在中国大陆和台湾的利益，预防出现不稳定局面或发生战争。
As the United States has come to play a crucial balancing role, both sides have scrutinized any hint of change in the American position. In 1995, Washington broke with practice by granting a visa to Taiwan's president. Beijing considered this a possible step toward recognition of Taiwanese independence and, in response, fired missiles into the Taiwan Strait. The United States, in turn, placed two aircraft carrier groups nearby.	随着美国开始扮演关键性的平衡角色，两方都在仔细观察美国立场发生变化的任何迹象。1995年，华盛顿打破惯例，给台湾总统签发了签证。北京认为这可能是认可台湾独立的第一步，便向台湾海峡发射导弹，作为回应。美国转而在附近部署了两个航母战斗群。
Though the crisis ended peacefully, it underscored the United States' role in maintaining stability and the risk of war.	尽管这场危机最终和平收场，但它突显了美国在保持两岸稳定局面、防止出现危机或爆发战争方面的作用。
Why does the phone call matter?	为什么这个电话事关重大？
The call does not in itself change policy, but it implies the possibility of a shift, forcing both China and Taiwan to guess at Mr. Trump's intentions.	这个电话本身不会改变什么政策，但它隐含着发生改变的可能，这促使中国和台湾两方开始猜测特朗普的意图。
Mr. Trump's transition team, by categorizing his call with Ms. Tsai of Taiwan alongside calls with other heads of state, implied that Mr. Trump recognized her as the leader of a sovereign state. Mr. Trump also wrote on Twitter that he had spoken to the "President of Taiwan."	特朗普的交接团队将他与台湾蔡英文的通话，与他和其他国家领导人的通话归为一类，意味着特朗普把她看作一个主权国家的领导人。特朗普还在Twitter上写道，他与“台湾总统”通了电话。

Recognizing Ms. Tsai as a sovereign leader would communicate that the United States considered Taiwan independent from the mainland, a position that even Taiwan does not take.	将蔡英文看作一个主权国家领导人，会传达出这样一个信号，即美国认为台湾独立于大陆，然而连台湾自身都不会持这种立场。
Such a position would force both Taiwan and Beijing into a difficult choice. Either ignore American policy on the issue — perhaps ending the decades-long American role in balancing cross-strait relations — or confront Taiwanese independence, which Beijing has said would provoke war.	这种情况将迫使台湾和北京都面临艰难的选择。要么忽略美国在这一问题上的政策——也许会给美国数十年来在平衡两岸关系方面所发挥的作用画上句号；要么面对台湾的独立——北京方面称这会挑起战争。
Both Beijing and Taiwan have played down the phone call, suggesting that they would prefer to see Mr. Trump’s words as a mistake rather than a deliberate policy shift.	北京和台湾都在淡化这通电话的意义，并暗示他们更愿意把特朗普的话当成口误，而非刻意为之的战略转向。
Still, Mr. Trump has retained some advisers who advocate more fully siding with the democratic Taiwan over the authoritarian China, perhaps even granting the former partial or full recognition.	不过，特朗普留用的一些顾问主张更加彻底地站在实行民主制的台湾而非实行威权制的中国一边，甚或对前者的地位给予部分或全面承认。
China and Taiwan, preparing for potential changes in America’s policy, must ask whether the call hints at a coming change, or at least at the possibility that hard-liners on Mr. Trump’s team could steer policy in radically new directions. If they are unsure, prudence would seem to require at least preparing for the possibility of a shift.	中国和台湾正为迎接美国政策的潜在变化做准备，它们必须弄清，这通电话是否暗示着变化即将到来，或者至少暗示着特朗普团队里的强硬派有可能会让政策转向全新的方向。如果它们不能确定，就小心行事，至少是就出现政策转向的可能性做好准备。
Why can America sell arms to Taiwan but not call its leader?	为什么美国可以向台湾出售武器，却不能打电话给它的领导人？
Many Americans might reasonably wonder about this question, which Mr. Trump raised in a Twitter post in defense of the phone call.	这是特朗普为了给这通电话做辩护而在一则 Twitter 帖子中提出的问题。许多美国人或许都会就此进行合理的质疑。
United States arms sales to Taiwan have indeed been controversial, particularly with Beijing. But they are an approach intended to maintain the status quo.	实际上，美国对台军售一向颇具争议，北京对此尤为抗拒。但这是旨在维持现状的一种办法。

By selling Taiwan arms, the United States ensures that the island can deter an invasion from the mainland's far larger military. This maintains a balance of power that, while fragile, is intended to prevent war.	通过向台湾出售武器，美国确保台湾可以震慑住规模更大的大陆军队，令其打消入侵的念头。如此一来就可以维持一种虽然脆弱，但却以避免战争为目标的力量均衡。
Granting Taiwan's leader informal recognition, or even an unofficial upgrade in ties, is different because it disturbs the status quo.	给予台湾领导人非正式的承认，甚或让双方关系出现非正式的提升，则是另外一回事，因为会打破现状。
Why has this alarmed China experts?	这通电话为何让中国问题专家颇为警惕？
To be fair to Mr. Trump, past presidents have adjusted the level of support for Taiwan, for example by increasing or reducing arms sales. But those policy shifts typically came with an explanation, so that China and Taiwan understood American intentions and knew what was and was not changing.	为特朗普说句公道话，往届总统曾经通过增加或减少对台军售之类的办法，对支持台湾的力度进行过调整。但美国通常会就那些政策转向进行解释，于是中国和台湾就能明白美国的意图，知道什么变了、什么没变。
What is different is that Mr. Trump has not made clear whether or not he intends to end America's 37-year-old policy on Taiwan and China. The fact of the phone call implies that he does intend to do so, but the possibility that he erred implies that maybe he does not.	这一次却不一样，特朗普没有清楚地表明，他是否有意为美国实施了37年的对中国和台湾的政策画上句号。通话的事实意味着他的确有此意图；只是一时失误的可能性则意味着他或许并不打算这样做。
In this way, the issue is not that he caused offense or broke with tradition, but rather that he introduced real uncertainty about how the United States will approach this issue under his leadership.	如此一来，事情就不是得罪人或者打破惯例那么简单了，他给自己治下的美国将如何处理这一问题带来了切实的不确定性。
In international relations, especially on tense issues, a lack of clarity or predictability can be destabilizing because it forces all states to plan for the worst.	在国际关系中，尤其是在一些令局面紧绷的议题上，缺乏清晰度或者可预测性可能会破坏稳定，因为这会迫使所有国家都为最糟糕的可能性做好打算。
The American policy on Taiwan and China is already ambiguous by design. In 2004, when asked about the One China policy, a senior State Department official told a congressional hearing, "I didn't really define it, and I'm not sure I very easily could define it."	美国对台湾和中国的政策从设计上来说就是模糊不清的。2004年，当被问及“一个中国”政策时，国务院的一位高级官员在国会听证会上表示，“我没有真正地定义过它，我也并不确定自己可以轻而易举地定义它。”

While the policy may be tough to articulate, it has at least been predictable. Mr. Trump, intentionally or not, has added a layer of ambiguity that is wholly new.	这一政策也许难以被阐述清楚，但它至少一直都是可预测的。而特朗普有意无意地为它添加了一层全新的模糊面纱。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161204/trump-taiwan-and-china-the-controversy-explained	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161204/trump-taiwan-and-china-the-controversy-explained
China Amplifies Warning on Taiwan, and Trump Takes a Tougher Line	北京就台湾问题放狠话，特朗普也不示弱
BEIJING — China warned President-elect Donald J. Trump on Monday that he was risking a confrontation over Taiwan, even as Mr. Trump broadened the dispute with new messages on Twitter challenging Beijing’s trade policies and military activities in the South China Sea.	北京——中国周一警告候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)，说他在台湾问题上正冒着与中国对抗的风险，同时，特朗普在 Twitter 上发了新信息，进一步扩大争议，对北京的贸易政策及其在南中国海的军事活动提出挑战。
A front-page editorial in the overseas edition of People’s Daily, the official organ of the Communist Party of China, denounced Mr. Trump for speaking Friday with Taiwan’s president, Tsai Ing-wen, warning that “creating troubles for the China-U.S. relationship is creating troubles for the U.S. itself.” The rebuke was much tougher than the Chinese Foreign Ministry’s initial response to the phone call, which broke with decades of American diplomatic practice.	中国共产党机关报《人民日报》海外版在头版发表评论文章，谴责特朗普周五与台湾总统蔡英文通电话，并警告说，“给中美关系制造麻烦，就是给美国自己制造麻烦”。文章用于指责的语言，比中国外交部对通电话一事的最初回应要严厉得多。通话打破了美国几十年的外交惯例。
For his part, Mr. Trump seemed to take umbrage at the idea that he needed China’s approval to speak with Ms. Tsai. In two posts on Twitter, he wrote: “Did China ask us if it was O.K. to devalue their currency (making it hard for our companies to compete), heavily tax our products going into their country (the U.S. doesn’t tax them) or to build a massive military complex in the middle of the South China Sea? I don’t think so!”	就特朗普而言，他似乎认为与蔡英文通话需要中国的批准是受到了冒犯。他在 Twitter 上发的两个帖子中写道：“中国让货币贬值（让我们的公司难以竞争），对我们的产品进入他们的国家征收高税（美国不对他们征税），在南中国海中建造庞大的军事设施。这些做法征求过我们的同意吗？我怎么觉得没有呢！”
China often uses the overseas edition of People’s Daily to test-run	中国经常用《人民日报》海外版来测试重要的政策声明。评论文章用特朗普

major policy pronouncements. In a pointed rejoinder to Mr. Trump, the editorial said that pushing China on Taiwan “would greatly reduce the chance to achieve the goal of making America great again.”	的竞选口号对他做出尖锐的回应。社论说，在台湾问题上触动中国，‘让美国再次伟大’的目标就会大打折扣。”
By going after China’s policies on trade and security, Mr. Trump appeared to be confirming his intent to take a tougher line with the Chinese leadership across a broader range of issues – and further dampened hopes in Beijing that he might step back from the campaign rhetoric he has used, including threats of punishing trade tariffs.	通过挑战中国的贸易和安全政策，特朗普看来在证实他打算在一系列更广泛的问题上对中国领导层采取更强硬的路线，这让北京的希望进一步受挫。后者曾希望特朗普可能会在自己竞选时威胁将征收惩罚性贸易关税等口号上有所退让。
That could put President Xi Jinping in a difficult position, forced to choose between playing down Mr. Trump’s attacks and risking a backlash at home, or raising the stakes by pushing back more forcefully and setting China on a potential collision course with the United States, its most important trading partner.	这可能会让国家主席习近平处于一种困境，迫使他在两种反应之间做出选择，要么不把特朗普的攻击当回事，从而冒下国内出现反弹的风险，要么通过更有力的回击加大利害关系，把中国推上与美国发生潜在冲突的进程。美国是中国最重要的贸易伙伴。
The Chinese government’s initial reaction to Mr. Trump’s call has already faced a torrent of criticism on social media from Chinese who complained it was not tough enough. The statement from Foreign Minister Wang Yi, which was relatively low-key given the unprecedented nature of the call, refrained from criticizing Mr. Trump, instead accusing Taiwan of playing a “little trick” on the American president-elect.	中国对特朗普与蔡英文通话的最初反应，已经面临社交媒体上来自中国人的大量批评，人们抱怨政府的反应不够强硬。鉴于通话史无前例的性质，外交部部长王毅的声明显得相对低调，他没有批评特朗普，而是指责台湾跟美国候任总统玩了个“小动作”。
That offered Mr. Trump a face-saving way out of the imbroglio, and a chance to de-escalate. But the messages he posted on Twitter late Sunday stepped up the pressure on China’s leaders instead.	这是为特朗普提供了一个不丢面子地摆脱尴尬处境的方式，以及一个让问题逐步降级的机会。但是，特朗普周日晚在 Twitter 上发的信息增加了对中国领导人的压力。
Some Chinese analysts see Mr. Trump as striking out early on a starkly different path from President Obama’s, determined to strenuously	一些中国分析人士对特朗普的看法是，他要早点出手，采取与奥巴马总统截然不同的做法，决意在经济问题上与中国激烈竞争。

compete with China on economic issues.
In the last four years, Mr. Obama has stressed cooperation with Beijing, particularly on the Paris international climate accord, which the Chinese government saw as being in its own interest because of its public's anger over pollution. Mr. Obama veered away from bargaining on issues like China's protected marketplace and its repressive human rights situation, even though some officials in his administration have privately argued he could have obtained concessions in those areas.	在过去四年里，奥巴马一直强调与北京的合作，特别是在巴黎国际气候协定上，中国政府也认为协定符合自己的利益，因为中国公众对污染问题很不满。奥巴马避免与中国在某些问题上进行谈判，比如中国保护国内市场、国内人权受压制的状况等，尽管其政府部门的一些官员私下表示，奥巴马可以在这些领域获得中国的让步。
By contrast, Mr. Trump is looking like a negotiator from the start, some Chinese analysts said. "By showing strength at the beginning, he may hope to gain advantages in bargaining later with the Chinese on many key issues," Zhang Baohui, a professor of international relations at Lingnan University in Hong Kong, said of Mr. Trump. "He is a businessman, and he could be bringing his business bargaining tactics to interstate relations." Thus, he said, there was "strategic logic" to Mr. Trump's actions in the past few days.	一些中国分析人士说，相比之下，特朗普一开始就看起来像个谈判者。“通过在开始的时候展示力量，他也许希望以后在许多关键问题上与中国进行谈判时获得优势，”香港岭南大学国际关系教授张宝辉提到特朗普时说。“他是个商人，他可以会把他商业谈判的战术带到政府间关系上来。”张宝辉说，因此，特朗普在过去几天里的做法有其“战略逻辑”。
Another Chinese state newspaper, the hawkish Global Times, called Mr. Trump a "neophyte" in diplomatic affairs, and some Chinese reports have suggested that the president-elect did not understand the import of his phone call with Ms. Tsai. But Mr. Trump's follow-up messages on Twitter seemed to show he had been well briefed on Taiwan and questions of trade and the South China Sea.	另一份官方报纸、鹰派的《环球时报》称特朗普在外交事务上是“新手”，还有些中国报道暗示，这位候任总统不了解他与蔡英文通话的严重性。但是，特朗普在 Twitter 上的后续帖子似乎表明，他在台湾问题、贸易问题和南海问题上得到了很好的情况汇报。
The call with Ms. Tsai and the Twitter posts reflected the views of Trump advisers with Asia experience, such as John Bolton, whom Mr. Trump is said to be considering as his secretary of state. Mr. Bolton	与蔡英文的通话、以及在 Twitter 上发的帖子反映了特朗普的有亚洲经验顾问的意见，比如约翰·博尔顿(John Bolton)，据说特朗普正在考虑提名博尔顿为他的国务卿。博尔顿曾于 21 世纪初期在乔治·W·布什的政府任职，担任

served during the administration of George W. Bush in the early 2000s as under secretary of state for arms control and international security affairs, and in the mid-1990s he wrote research papers for the Taiwan government.	过负责军备控制和国际安全事务的副国务卿，他还在 20 世纪 90 年代中期为台湾政府撰写过研究论文。
Mr. Bolton said Saturday of China that it was to time to “shake the relationship up,” noting what he called its “aggressive and belligerent claims” in the South China Sea. “Nobody in Beijing gets to dictate who we talk to,” Mr. Bolton said on Fox News.	博尔顿在周六提到中国时说，现在是“整改关系”的时候了，他还指出中国在南海有他称之为“侵略和好战的主权主张”。博尔顿在福克斯新闻节目上说，“不能让北京的人对我们跟谁通话发号施令。”
Reince Priebus, Mr. Trump’s choice for chief of staff, who has been described in Taiwan’s news media as a good friend of Taiwan, said in his own Fox News appearance Saturday that Mr. Trump “knew exactly what was happening” when he spoke with Ms. Tsai on Friday.	特朗普的白宫幕僚长人选是蒲博思(Reince Priebus)，他被台湾新闻媒体描述为“台湾的好朋友”，蒲博思本人周六在福克斯新闻节目露面时表示，特朗普与蔡英文周五通话时“确切地知道发生了什么”。
Jon Huntsman, a former ambassador to China who is also said to be under consideration for secretary of state, called Mr. Trump’s call “shrewd” on Saturday, saying it would provide a “useful leverage point” with Beijing. Mr. Huntsman spent two stints in Taiwan, first as a Mormon missionary and later as an executive for a company his family owned.	前驻华大使洪博培(Jon Huntsman)据说也是考虑中的国务卿人选，他在周六称特朗普的做法“有眼光”，称这将为对付北京提供一个“有用的杠杆支点”。洪博培曾在台湾度过两次较长的时间，先是作为摩门教的传教士，后是在他家族名下的一家公司担任执行官。
In Mr. Trump’s Twitter messages late Sunday about China, two of his three assertions were essentially correct, including his reference to the South China Sea. In the last several years, China has built artificial islands in the Spratly archipelago in the South China Sea, and it has constructed military airstrips and naval berths on three of them.	特朗普周日晚些时候在 Twitter 上发布的关于中国的消息中，三个说法里有两个基本上是正确的，包括他对南海问题的说法。过去几年中，中国在南海斯普拉特利群岛（Spratly archipelago，中国称南沙群岛——译注）建造了人工岛，并在其中三个岛屿上建造了军用飞机跑道和海军泊位。
During the construction phase, the Obama administration insisted that the South China Sea was an international waterway, and it used	在施工期间，奥巴马政府坚持认为，南海是一条国际航道，并利用美国海军的自由航行巡逻来说明这一点。美国一些认为奥巴马应该采取更激烈做法的

freedom of navigation patrols by the United States Navy to make that point. Some American critics who believed Mr. Obama should have shown a stronger hand approved of Mr. Trump's statement.	评论人士，对特朗普的声明表示了认可。
"Mr. Trump's tweets and actions appear to be more than a symbolic act," said James E. Fanell, a former director of intelligence and information operations for the United States Pacific Fleet. "This will upset Beijing, but it is going to remind the rest of the Indo-Asia Pacific region that the new administration is not going to be fettered by the past."	"特朗普的推文和行动似乎不仅仅是个象征性行为，"曾任美国太平洋舰队(United States Pacific Fleet)情报和信息行动主管的詹姆斯·法内尔(James Fanell)说道。"这将让北京恼火，但它将提醒印太亚洲(Indo-Asia Pacific)地区的其他国家，新政府不会被过去所束缚。"
On trade, Mr. Trump was also broadly accurate. When China joined the World Trade Organization in late 2001, it was treated as a developing country, allowed to retain higher tariffs than industrialized countries to protect its industries.	特朗普对于贸易的说法也是大致准确的。中国在2001年年底加入世界贸易组织的时候，被视为发展中国家，可以保留比工业化国家更高的关税，以保护其工业发展。
China reduced its high tariffs on imported cars, but only to 25 percent. By contrast, the United States imposes a 2.5 percent tax on imported cars. Many other goods entering China also face tariffs of 20 percent to 25 percent, while the United States has eliminated tariffs on a broad range of imports and kept tariffs at 2.5 percent or less for most other categories.	中国降低了对进口汽车的高关税，但税率仍为25%。相比之下，美国对进口汽车征收的关税为2.5%。进入中国的其他很多产品也面临着20%至25%的关税，而美国已经取消了大量进口关税，对大多数其他类别产品，关税保持在2.5%或更低的水平。
But Mr. Trump's assertion that China had devalued its currency — one he made frequently during his campaign — is out of date. In recent years, China has allowed its currency, the renminbi, to strengthen, to make it more appealing to global investors.	但特朗普说中国在让人民币贬值——这是他在竞选期间频繁出现的说法——已经过时了。近年来，中国为了吸引全球投资者，允许人民币走强。
Last year, the International Monetary Fund said the renminbi was no longer undervalued, after a decade of saying that it was. But a few	去年，国际货币基金组织转变了十年来的说法，称人民币不再处于被低估的状态。但是几个月后，人民币开始贬值，引起市场震惊，之后让人民币继续

months later, China devalued the renminbi, in a move that shocked the markets, and has since let it become weaker still.	走弱。
The difference is that these days, Beijing — worried about people and companies taking money out of the country — is trying to slow that fall. Many economists and investors believe the renminbi should weaken because China’s growth is slowing. But China has been dipping into its currency reserves and making other moves to moderate the drop. Without those efforts, many economists believe, the currency would be even weaker than it is now.	不同的是，这些日子以来，北京担心个人和公司将钱带到国外，因此试图减缓走弱趋势。很多经济学家和投资者认为，人民币本应更加疲软，因为中国的经济增长正在放缓。但是中国一直在用外汇储备和其他措施来缓阻这种跌势。很多经济学家认为，如果没有这些措施，人民币的汇率甚至会比现在更低。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161206/china-donald-trump-taiwan-twitter	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161206/china-donald-trump-taiwan-twitter
China Suggests It Has Placed Weapons on Disputed Spratly Islands	中国称南沙群岛武器部署正当合法
BEIJING — China signaled on Thursday that it had placed weapons on disputed South China Sea islands and would use them like a “slingshot” to repel threats, compounding an already tense relationship with the incoming Trump administration.	北京——中国在周四表示，它已经在有争议的南海岛屿上安置了武器，将它们用作“弹弓”，来抗御威胁，这使得他们与即将上台的特朗普政府已经很紧张的关系变得更加复杂。
The Chinese message, in a Defense Ministry statement, suggested that China was deviating further from a pledge made by its president, Xi Jinping, to not militarize the islands.	中国国防部的一份声明显示，中国正在进一步偏离习近平主席所做的不让这些岛屿军事化的承诺。
Known as the Spratlys, the islands dot some of the world’s busiest commercial maritime routes. China’s plan to strengthen its claims over the islands with permanent outposts has raised tensions with neighbors and the United States over freedom of navigation in the South China Sea. The Chinese have accused the United States in recent weeks of “provocative” moves by sending warships near some of these islands.	这些海岛称为斯普拉特利群岛（Spratly Islands，中国称为南沙群岛——译注），点缀在世界上最繁忙的商业海运路线上。中国计划用永久性前哨基地强化对这些岛屿的主权声明，加剧了它与邻国和美国在南海航行自由问题上的紧张关系。中国最近几周指责美国派遣军舰到其中一些岛屿附近是“挑衅”行为。

The Chinese have been artificially enlarging their Spratly outposts, creating harbors, runways and reinforced hangars big enough for military aircraft. But new satellite images made public this week appeared to reveal weapons emplacements for the first time.	中国人为扩大了斯普拉特利群岛，修建了港口、跑道和可供军用飞机使用的加强型机库。但是本周公布的新的卫星图像显示，那里第一次出现了武器装备。
The Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, which released the images through its Asia Maritime Transparency Initiative, said they showed “large anti-aircraft guns and probable close-in weapons systems,” which can theoretically thwart cruise missile attacks.	华盛顿的国际战略研究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)通过其亚洲海事透明度倡议组织(Asia Maritime Transparency Initiative)发布了这些图像，其中的“大型高射炮和疑似近距离武器系统”理论上可以防御巡航导弹的攻击。
The Defense Ministry statement, posted on its website in response to the images, did not specify what kinds of weapons they showed but said any military hardware on the islands was reasonable. It repeated China’s contention that activities on the islands are civilian in nature.	中国国防部在网站上发布了一份声明，对这些图像做出了回应，没有具体说明图中是哪些武器，但表示岛上的任何军事装备都是正当合法的。该声明重复了中国以往的说法，即岛上的活动属于民事性质。
“As for necessary military facilities, they are primarily for defense and self-protection, and this is proper and legitimate,” the Defense Ministry said. “For instance, if someone was at the door of your home, cocky and swaggering, how could it be that you wouldn’t prepare a slingshot?”	“至于必要的军事设施，主要是用于防御和自卫，是正当合法的。比如说，别人在你的家门口耀武扬威，难道你还不能准备一个弹弓吗？”国防部的声明说。
There was no immediate comment from President-elect Donald J. Trump or his transition team. But the statement seemed intended in part to further stoke China’s already testy relationship with the incoming administration.	候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)及其过渡团队没有立即发表评论。但从某种程度上说，这个声明似乎意图给中国和即将上任的特朗普政府之间已经剑拔弩张的关系加码。
Mr. Trump recently angered Chinese officials by holding a phone conversation with Tsai Ing-wen, the president of Taiwan, an island that Beijing deems a breakaway province of China. It had been nearly four decades since a United States president or president-elect had such	特朗普最近与台湾总统蔡英文通了电话，此举激怒了中国政府，因为北京把台湾视为一个脱离中国的省份。美国总统或候任总统与台湾领导人之间没有直接接触已近四十年了。

direct contact with a Taiwanese leader.
In an interview broadcast on Sunday, Mr. Trump also criticized China over its trade imbalance with America, its military activities in the South China Sea and its ties to North Korea. China was "building a massive fortress in the middle of the South China Sea, which they shouldn't be doing," he said in the interview on Fox News.	在周日播出的一个采访中，特朗普还批评中国对美贸易不平衡、在南海开展的军事活动，以及它与朝鲜的关系。他在接受福克斯新闻(Fox News)采访时说，中国“正在南海中间建立一个巨大的要塞，尽管不应该这么做”。
During his campaign, Mr. Trump dwelled on accusations that China had systematically sapped American industrial might, and he has indicated that trade issues will be a priority in dealings with Beijing. But the latest disclosures suggest how seemingly remote islands in the South China Sea could become a source of serious tensions, even military strife.	特朗普在竞选期间一直指责中国有系统地削弱美国的工业实力，表示贸易问题将是与北京打交道的优先事项。但最新的迹象表明，看似偏远的南海岛屿可能成为重大紧张局势的根源，甚至可能引发军事冲突。
The Spratlys, which China calls the Nansha Islands, are the subject of an especially volatile mix of competing claims. Parts of the archipelago are also claimed by the Philippines, Malaysia, Vietnam, Brunei and Taiwan. And the possibility of undersea oil and gas deposits has exacerbated the rivalries.	斯普拉特利群岛——中国称之为南沙群岛——的主权纷争，是一个特别容易引爆的问题。菲律宾、马来西亚、越南、文莱和台湾都声称拥有该群岛的部分地区。而海底蕴藏油气的可能性又加剧了主权纷争。
President Rodrigo Duterte of the Philippines has moved in recent months to ease tensions with China, and to distance his country from Washington. Even so, the Philippines keeps defense treaties with the United States.	菲律宾总统罗德里戈·杜特地(Rodrigo Duterte)近几个月来一直在缓和与中国的关系，同时与华盛顿拉开距离。即使如此，菲律宾仍然与美国保持着国防协议。
But China, with the world's second-biggest economy and a swelling military budget, has established an intimidating dominance across much of the South China Sea. And the latest satellite images appeared to confirm its deepening military grip on the Spratlys.	但是中国是世界第二大经济体，军事预算日益增加，它已经在南海大部分地区奠定了强大的统治地位。而最新的卫星图像似乎证实它加深了对斯普拉特利群岛的军事控制。
The steps "show that Beijing is serious about defense of its artificial	亚洲海上防卫倡议(Asia Maritime Defense Initiative)在关于卫星图像的报

islands in case of an armed contingency in the South China Sea," the Asia Maritime Defense Initiative said in its report about the images.	告中说,它"显示北京对于紧急情况下武力防卫南海那些人工岛屿是认真的"。
"Among other things, they would be the last line of defense against cruise missiles launched by the United States or others against" air bases that may soon go into operation on the islands, it said.	报告称,“除其他作用之外,它们也将是抵御美国或其他国家向岛上空军基地发射巡航导弹的最后防线”。这些岛上的空军基地可能即将投入运行。
The images showed that the facilities were in place before Mr. Trump's comments.	卫星图像显示,这些设施在特朗普发表评论之前就已经到位了。
The Obama administration sought to play down both the images and the Chinese Defense Ministry's response. "We watch Chinese naval developments very carefully, and we urge all parties in the South China Sea to avoid actions that raise tensions," said Capt. Jeff Davis, a Pentagon spokesman.	奥巴马政府试图对这些卫星图像和中国国防部的反应轻描淡写。“我们非常仔细地观察中国海军的发展,我们敦促南海所有各方避免采取引起紧张局势的行动,”五角大楼发言人杰夫·戴维斯上校(Capt. Jeff Davis)说。
The images elicited a far more contentious response from hawkish Republicans, who do not necessarily share Mr. Trump's views on China trade policy but see Beijing's actions in the South China Sea as an aggressive challenge to the United States.	相关图像导致鹰派共和党人做出了更具争议的反应。他们不一定认同特朗普对中国贸易政策的观点,但他们认为,北京在南海的行动是在咄咄逼人地挑战美国。
Senator John McCain, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the images confirmed "what has long been evident: China is militarizing the South China Sea, its leaders continue to lie about that fact, and Beijing is paying little to no price for its behavior."	参议院军事委员会(Senate Armed Services Committee)主席约翰·麦凯恩(John McCain)称,相关画面证实了“长期以来的明显事实:中国正在让南海军事化,对于这一事实其领导人继续谎话连篇,以及北京几乎没有为自己的行为付出代价”。
Some American military officials suggested privately that the anti-aircraft emplacements were purely defensive in nature, with a limited range, useful only if the outposts were under attack.	美国的一些军队官员在私下里表示,防空炮台性质上只是防御性的,因为其射程有限,只有在前哨基地受到攻击时才有用。
Of greater concern, they said, was the possibility that China could one day install more advanced anti-aircraft missile systems on the islands,	他们说,更令人担心的是中国有一天在那些岛屿上安装更先进的防空导弹系统这个可能性。防空导弹系统可以向数百英里外的目标开火。

which can fire at targets hundreds of miles away.
Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr., head of the United States Pacific Command, said on Wednesday that America would not abandon its military presence across the Asia-Pacific region. He indicated that American naval ships would continue passing through the South China Sea to show that the United States "will not allow the shared domains to be closed down unilaterally, no matter how many bases are built on artificial features in the South China Sea."	美国太平洋司令部司令、海军上将小哈里·B·哈里斯(Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr.)周三表示,美国不会放弃在亚太地区的军事存在。他暗示美国的海军船只将继续在南海通行,以表明美国“不允许共享水域遭到单方面的关闭,无论南海的人工岛屿上修建了多少基地”。
The latest images raised new doubts about the intent of comments made by China's president, Mr. Xi, after he met President Obama in the White House in September last year. The Obama administration has said it does not take a position on who has sovereignty over the disputed islands across the South China Sea, but it wants to protect freedom of navigation there and defuse conflict.	最新图像使中国国家主席习近平去年9月在结束与奥巴马总统的白宫会面后所发表评论的意图受到新的质疑。奥巴马政府表示不在谁拥有南海有争议岛屿的主权的问题上采取立场,但希望保护那里的航行自由并缓和冲突。
With Mr. Obama at his side, Mr. Xi told reporters that "China does not intend to pursue militarization" of the islands.	站在奥巴马身旁的习近平对记者表示,“中国无意”在相关岛屿“搞军事化”。
Previous satellite pictures of the islands, released by the Asia Maritime Defense Initiative in August, already indicated that China was building military facilities there. Those images appeared to show reinforced aircraft hangars at the Fiery Cross, Subi and Mischief Reefs, all part of the disputed parts of the archipelago.	亚洲海上防卫倡议今年8月公布的卫星照片已经表明,中国正在那里修建军事设施。那些照片拍到的似乎是永暑礁(Fiery Cross Reef)、渚碧礁(Subi Reef)和美济礁(Mischief Reef)上的加固式机库。这几处礁石都属于该群岛中有争议的地区。
A spokesman for China's Ministry of Foreign Affairs said Thursday that his government had been entitled to take such steps and said they did not count as "militarization."	中国外交部的一名发言人周四表示中国政府有权采取这类措施,并称它们不算“军事化”。
The spokesman, Geng Shuang, said he could not confirm the precise	名为耿爽的这名发言人表示,他无法证实从最新卫星图像中得出的明确结

findings from the latest satellite images but disputed they indicated any change on China's part.	果，但质疑它们表明中方的立场发生了变化。
"If China constructing normal facilities on its own islands and deploying necessary territorial defense facilities counts as 'militarization,'" he said, "then what about sending fleets through the South China Sea?"	"如果中国在自己的岛礁上开展正常的设施建设、部署必要的国土防御设施算是'军事化'的话，"他说，"那么把舰队开到南海又算什么？"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161216/china-spratly-islands	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161216/china-spratly-islands
Without Obama, Shinzo Abe's Approach to U.S.-Japan Ties May Be Tested	奥巴马谢幕特朗普登场，日本面临危机
TOKYO — Since becoming prime minister for the second time in 2012, Shinzo Abe has made it a centerpiece of his foreign policy to steer Japan closer to the United States.	东京——自从2012年第二次成为首相以来，安倍晋三外交政策的核心一直是让日本与美国建立更密切的关系。
Even as Washington has lost ground in the region, with China expanding its presence in the South China Sea and North Korea defying efforts to restrain its nuclear development, Mr. Abe has stood by the Obama administration, holding it close.	即使在华盛顿在东亚地区的影响力下降、中国扩大自己在南海的存在感、朝鲜对国际上遏制其核发展的努力置若罔闻的时候，安倍晋三也一直与奥巴马政府紧密地站在一起。
Yet as Mr. Abe visits Pearl Harbor on Tuesday with President Obama, in a symbolic capstone to the relationship between the two leaders, that approach may be tested more than ever.	然而，就在安倍晋三于周二与奥巴马总统一道访问珍珠港、这两位领导人之间的关系上升到象征性顶点之际，日美关系可能面临着前所未有的考验。
The Trans-Pacific Partnership, the multinational trade deal that both Mr. Abe and Mr. Obama championed, is in tatters now that President-elect Donald J. Trump has promised to torpedo it. North Korea appears to be on the verge of a nuclear breakthrough. China has lately been more aggressive in both the East and South China Seas.	安倍晋三和奥巴马所共同倡导的多国贸易协定“跨太平洋伙伴关系”(The Trans-Pacific Partnership)正面临破产，因为候任总统唐纳德·J·特朗普已承诺要将其废除。朝鲜似乎正处于获得核武器发展重大突破的边缘。中国最近在东海和南海海域都更加强势。
And Mr. Trump brings other kinds of uncertainty, grumbling about Japanese trade barriers and the cost of United States military support,	特朗普也带来了其他的种种不确定性，他抱怨日本的贸易壁垒以及美国为日本提供防卫的军事开支，他表示要对中国采取更为对抗性的做法，这可能给

and raising the specter of a more confrontational approach to China that could have unpredictable results in the region.	东亚地区带来不可预测的后果。
"Japan is in a kind of a crisis over what direction we can go," said Kyoji Fukao, a professor of international economics at Hitotsubashi University.	日本一桥大学国际经济学教授深尾京司(Kyoji Fukao)说,“在我们未来走向何方的问题上,日本面临着一种危机。”
The alliance between Japan and the United States has endured since the end of World War II, but analysts say Mr. Abe, a conservative nationalist, and Mr. Obama, a liberal who had ambitions to change the world, have helped to make the partnership stronger than it has been for decades.	虽然自第二次世界大战结束以来,日美联盟一直延续至今,但分析人士说,是保守的民族主义者安倍晋三和有改变世界抱负的自由主义者奥巴马,一道为这个几十年来最强有力的伙伴关系作出了贡献。
"This is the strongest, most reliable and trusting relationship probably in the last 40 years at least," said Takatoshi Ito, a professor of international finance and trade at Columbia University. "This has been a good four years."	"这可能是至少40年来,最强大、最可靠、最值得信赖的关系,"哥伦比亚大学国际金融与贸易学教授伊藤隆敏(Takatoshi Ito)说。"这四年间的关系一直很好。"
Given Mr. Abe's nationalist leanings, he might not have seemed the most likely Japanese leader to embrace the United States, or a Democrat like Mr. Obama, so warmly.	鉴于安倍晋三的民族主义倾向,人们最初可能并不认为他是最有可能如此热情地接受美国,或像奥巴马这样的民主党人的日本领导人。
Yet since he took office four years ago, after an earlier stint as prime minister in 2006-7, Mr. Abe has committed Japan to several policies favored by the Obama administration.	然而,自从安倍晋三四年前上任以来,他领导的日本一直跟随奥巴马政府支持的一些政策。(他曾在2006至2007年间担任过一段时间的首相。)
Mr. Abe expanded Japan's support of United States military bases despite fierce local opposition in Okinawa, and pushed through controversial security legislation that allows Japan's military, the Self Defense Forces, to participate in combat missions abroad. He offered nonmilitary aid to countries battling the Islamic State, even as ISIS	尽管在冲绳受到了激烈反对,安倍晋三仍扩大了日本对美国军事基地的支持。他还推动国会通过了有争议的安全法案,允许日本自卫队参加国外的作战任务。尽管伊斯兰激进分子杀死了一名日本人质,他仍向与伊斯兰国作战的国家提供了非军事援助。

militants killed a Japanese hostage.
The clearest motivation for Mr. Abe was the need for a partner in defending against a rising China.	安倍晋三最明显的动机是，在防御崛起的中国上需要一个合作伙伴。
"In the regional geopolitics, I think Japan and the U.S. are both pushed closer to each other by China," Mr. Ito said. "For security, there is no one but the U.S. which can provide the security to Japan, so there is no question about it."	"从区域性地缘政治来看，我认为日本和美国都是因为中国而彼此靠拢的，"伊藤隆敏说。"在安全上，除了美国，没有其他国家能为日本提供安全保障，这是毫无疑问的。"
Mr. Obama provided very clear promises of protection. In 2014, during a visit to Tokyo, he declared that a security treaty between the two countries obligated the United States to defend Japan in its confrontation with China over a set of disputed islands in the East China Sea, known in Japan as the Senkaku and in China as the Diaoyu. It was the first time an American president had explicitly said so.	奥巴马非常明确地做出过要为日本提供保护的承诺。在2014年一次访问东京期间，他宣布两国之间的安全条约决定了日本在东海一个群岛（它在日本称为尖阁列岛，在中国称为钓鱼岛）问题上与中国对抗时，美国要为日本提供保护。这是美国总统第一次就此做出明确表态。
Now Japan's leaders are warily watching Mr. Trump's approach to China. They may like that Mr. Trump is taking a more aggressive stance toward Beijing on issues like trade, Taiwan and the South China Sea, but there are also risks for Japan if that stance triggers a hostile response.	现在日本领导人谨慎地关注着特朗普对中国的一举一动。他们可能希望看到特朗普在贸易、台湾和南海等问题上对北京采取更为强势的立场，但如果这种立场引发了敌对回应，也会给日本带来风险。
"Standing tall vis-à-vis Beijing is of course welcome," said Sheila A. Smith, a Japan expert at the Council on Foreign Relations. But "the potential for use of force or a much more bellicose U.S.-Chinese relationship would be an uncomfortable spot for Tokyo."	"昂首挺胸地面对北京当然会受欢迎。"外交关系委员会的日本问题专家希拉·A·史密斯(Sheila A. Smith)说，"但是如果可能导致使用武力，或者美中之间的敌意加深，也会让东京坐立不安。"
Partly in hopes of providing another counterweight to China, Mr. Abe has worked for months to develop a relationship with Russia, trying to resolve a dispute over a set of islands that has prevented the two countries from signing a peace treaty since World War II ended. But a	为了找到制衡中国的其他方式，安倍晋三这几个月来努力与俄罗斯发展关系，试图解决日俄在一系列岛屿上的争端，两国在二战结束后一直没有签署和平条约正是因为这些争端。但最近俄罗斯总统普京和安倍晋三在日本举行的峰会并没有取得什么进展。

recent summit meeting in Japan between Russia's president, Vladimir V. Putin, and Mr. Abe ended with little progress.
Perhaps an even bigger disappointment for Mr. Abe is Mr. Trump's vow to pull the United States out of the Trans-Pacific Partnership, on which both Mr. Abe and Mr. Obama spent considerable political capital.	也许对安倍晋三来说，更大的失望是特朗普誓言要让美国退出“跨太平洋伙伴关系协定”（Trans Pacific Partnership，简称 TPP），安倍晋三和奥巴马都在 TPP 上投入了相当多的政治资本。
For Mr. Abe, it was in part an excuse to push for changes in Japan's agricultural industry, as well as an opportunity to gain tariff-free access for Japanese manufacturers to export markets in the United States and elsewhere. Now his only hope is to try to persuade Mr. Trump to resuscitate the deal. Mr. Abe briefly met Mr. Trump in New York in November, and he hopes to see Mr. Trump again in Washington shortly after the inauguration.	对于安倍晋三来说，TPP 既是推动日本农业产业变革的理由，也是日本制造商向美国和其他地方免关税出口产品的机会。现在他唯一的希望就是说服特朗普回到 TPP 上来。安倍晋三 11 月在纽约和特朗普进行过短暂会面，他希望在特朗普就职后不久两人再次举行会晤。
Mr. Abe has said he will continue to push for trade deals with other countries, and he is also seeking international partners on other issues. He visited Cuba and talked with the former leader Fidel Castro before he died, asking for Mr. Castro's help in reining in North Korea's nuclear program. In October, Japan and Britain conducted their first joint military exercises as part of a move to establish closer security ties in the East and South China Seas.	安倍晋三表示他将继续推动与其他国家的贸易协定，同时也在其他一些问题上寻求国际合作伙伴。他访问了古巴，在该国前领导人菲德尔·卡斯特罗(Fidel Castro)去世之前与其进行了交谈，寻求卡斯特罗在朝鲜核计划问题上的帮助。10 月，日本和英国进行了第一次联合军事演习，试图在东部和南海建立更紧密的安全联系。
But the alliance with the United States remains the bedrock of Japan's security, and none of its leaders are currently considering any other significant alternative. Given that, Mr. Abe and other Japanese officials will work hard to persuade Mr. Trump to maintain a strong partnership.	但与美国的联盟仍然是日本安全的基石，目前没有哪个日本领导人在考虑任何其他有意义的替代性做法。鉴于此，安倍晋三和其他日本官员将努力说服特朗普保持两国之间稳固的伙伴关系。
Some analysts said that may be a matter of education as much as anything else. "We are not sure that he knows the concrete measures or	一些分析人士说，这也是一个教育问题。东京大学政治学教授久保文明(Fumiaki Kubo)谈到特朗普时说：“我们不确定他是否知道美日安全关系的具

details of U.S.-Japan security relations," said Fumiaki Kubo, a professor of political science at the University of Tokyo, speaking of Mr. Trump.	体措施或细节。”
"What Prime Minister Abe has to do is give him Lesson 101 on U.S.-Japan relations," Mr. Kubo said.	久保文明表示：“安倍首相不得不做的事情是给他上一堂美日关系的入门课。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161228/shinzo-abe-barack-obama-alliance	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20161228/shinzo-abe-barack-obama-alliance
U.S. Ambassadors in Asia Make Final Plea for Dead Trans-Pacific Trade Pact	美国大使上书国会：不要放弃亚太领导权
When hope of enacting the ambitious Trans-Pacific Partnership trade pact ended in November, Max Baucus, the United States ambassador to China, was among the officials who had to grapple with disappointment.	去年 11 月，当雄心勃勃的跨太平洋伙伴关系(Trans-Pacific Partnership)贸易协定在国会通过的希望破灭时，美国驻华大使马克斯·博卡斯是不得不尽力克服失望的官员之一。
The partnership, called the TPP, was a hallmark of the Obama administration. It would have been one of the largest trade agreements in history, covering about 40 percent of the world's economy and setting new terms and standards for trade for the United States and 11 other Pacific Rim nations. China was not included but would have been able to join.	这个简称 TPP 的伙伴关系是奥巴马政府的标志。它本应是历史上最大的贸易协定之一，将覆盖约 40% 的世界经济，并为美国和其他 11 个太平洋沿岸国家制定新的贸易条款和标准。中国不在其内，但本来会有加入进来的可能。
When President Obama plucked Mr. Baucus in 2013 from the United States Senate to be the ambassador to China, he chose a politician with a record of promoting free trade. As ambassador, Mr. Baucus supported the Trans-Pacific Partnership and tried to dampen alarm in China over the American-led effort.	2013 年，当奥巴马总统从美国参议院中挑选出博卡斯作为驻华大使的时候，他选择的是一位有着促进自由贸易历史的政客。作为大使，博卡斯支持跨太平洋伙伴关系，并试图减弱中国对这个美国主导的协定的担忧。
Last week Mr. Baucus took the unusual step, with five other American ambassadors in the Asia-Pacific region, of sending an open letter to	上周，与美国驻亚太地区的其他五位大使一道，博卡斯采取了一个不寻常的举措，他们向国会发出公开信，要求议员支持该协定，以巩固美国在区域贸

Congress asking its members to support the pact in an effort to cement a leadership position for the United States in regional trade and not yield that role to China, which has the second-biggest economy in the world.	易中的领导地位，不把这个地位拱手让给中国，目前中国是世界上第二大经济体。
In their letter, the ambassadors warn that “walking away from TPP may be seen by future generations as the moment America chose to cede leadership to others in this part of the world and accept a diminished role.”	在信中，大使们警告说，“放弃 TPP，可能会被后代视为美国选择把领导权交给世界这个地区的其他国家、接受自己地位被削弱的时刻。”
“Such an outcome would be cause for celebration among those who favor ‘Asia for the Asians’ and state capitalism,” it added.	公开信还说，“这种结果将让那些喜欢‘亚洲是亚洲人的’说法以及国家资本主义的人有庆祝的理由。”
This passage critiques President Xi Jinping of China, who has said that Asia should be run by Asians and is a champion of a Chinese economic system that relies on industrial policy. (Mr. Xi was scheduled to appear on Tuesday at the pro-free-trade World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, the first Chinese leader to do so.)	这段话是针对中国国家主席习近平的，他认为亚洲事务应该由亚洲人来管理，习近平也是依靠产业政策的中国经济体系的支持者。（习近平定于本周二出席在瑞士达沃斯举行、支持自由贸易的世界经济论坛，他是首位出席该论坛的中国领导人。）
The 2016 presidential race was shaped by anti-globalization trends. Donald J. Trump promised to destroy the pact if he became president. Hillary Clinton also denounced it, even though she supported a form of it as secretary of state.	2016 年的总统大选受到了反全球化趋势的影响。唐纳德·J·特朗普承诺，如果当选总统，便会摧毁该协定。希拉里·克林顿也曾斥责过这一协定，虽然她当国务卿时曾支持过该协定的某个版本。
Senator Mitch McConnell, Republican of Kentucky and the majority leader, said after the election in November that Congress would not take it up. That meant it was dead.	参议院多数派领袖、肯塔基州共和党参议员米奇·麦康奈尔(Mitch McConnell)曾表示，11 月的大选之后，国会不会考虑通过这个协定的议题。这意味着协定已不复存在。
The letter by the six ambassadors, all of whom are political appointees who leave their jobs on Friday, was symbolic. It put them on record supporting Mr. Obama’s plan more than a year after the trade chiefs of	六位大使的信件是象征性的，他们都是被任命的政府官员，将于周五离任。这封信表示出他们对奥巴马方案的支持。一年多前，有关国家的贸易部长们已经签署了该协定。以下是公开信的全文：

the nations involved endorsed the pact. Following is the text of the letter:
An Open Letter to Members of Congress:	致国会议员的公开信：
Seventy-five years ago last month, an attack on the United States set us on the path to becoming the Asia-Pacific power we are today. As U.S. Ambassadors assigned to the region, we interact daily with governmental, business, and civil society leaders who appreciate profoundly the role the United States has played in underpinning the region's security and prosperity ever since. These same leaders are now asking an alarming question: Will we relinquish our mantle as the pre-eminent force for good in the planet's most dynamic region? The cause for their concern — possible U.S. withdrawal from the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP). We believe their fears are justified, that walking away from TPP may be seen by future generations as the moment America chose to cede leadership to others in this part of the world and accept a diminished role. Such an outcome would be cause for celebration among those who favor "Asia for the Asians" and state capitalism. It would be disastrous for supporters of inclusive politics, rule of law, and market economics — and for U.S. national interests.	75年前的上个月，一次对美国的袭击，让我们走上了成为如今亚太地区强国的道路。作为派驻这个地区的美国大使，我们每天都在与政府、商界及公民社会领导人相互交流，他们深刻地意识到，自那时起，美国在巩固这个地区的安全与繁荣上所起到的作用。这些领导人现在正在提出一个令人不安的问题：作为地球上这个最具活力地区，最主要的向善力量，我们是否会放弃这一责任？他们之所以有这样的担忧，是因为美国可能会从跨太平洋伙伴关系(TPP)中撤出。我们认为，他们的担忧是有道理的。放弃 TPP，可能会被后代视为美国选择把领导权交给世界这个地区的其他国家、接受自己地位被削弱的时刻。这种结果将让那些喜欢“亚洲是亚洲人的”说法以及国家资本主义的人有了为之庆祝的理由。这对包容性政治、法治和市场经济的支持者们会是一场灾难，对美国的国家利益也是一场灾难。
Let's be clear. The alternative to a TPP world is not the status quo. Others are actively engaged in setting the rules of commerce in the Asia-Pacific region without the United States. In addition to its massive Eurasian infrastructure initiative, China is working on a trade pact called the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) with fifteen other countries, many of whom are TPP signatories. RCEP is a much	让我们明确地说吧。目前的现状并不是 TPP 世界的替代品。其他国家正在积极参与制定亚太地区的商业规则，其中没有美国的参与。中国除了在欧亚地区开展大规模的基础设施计划之外，还正在与另外 15 个国家谈判一项名为区域全面经济伙伴关系（简称 RCEP）的贸易协定，其中许多国家是 TPP 签署国。RCEP 是一个标准低得多的协定，在没有 TPP 的情况下，它很可能成为亚洲经济一体化的模板，并将贸易转移到美国以外，美国将面临更高的

lower-standard agreement that, in the absence of TPP, would likely serve as the template for economic integration in Asia and shift trade away from America, which would face higher tariffs. That would mean less U.S. exports and more jobs moving overseas.	关税。这会意味着更少的美国出口和更多的就业机会流失海外。
TPP would not just cut tariffs for U.S. products. Unlike RCEP, it would compel stronger intellectual property rights, limits on subsidies to state-owned enterprises, and protection of worker rights, the environment, and a free and open internet. These enforceable commitments would give a leg up to U.S. companies already adhering to high standards — and the U.S. workers who make them the most productive in the world — and provide a powerful lever for change that we are unlikely to replicate in any other form in the near future. Without them, our companies will face even more competitive disadvantages in Asia’s booming markets.	TPP 不只会降低美国产品的关税。与 RCEP 不同, TPP 会强制协定国加强知识产权保护、限制对国有企业的补贴、保护工人权利、保护环境, 以及保护自由开放的互联网。这些可实施的承诺会让已经遵守高标准的美国公司更有优势, 也让使这些公司在世界上最有成效的美国工人更有优势, 并为变革提供一个有力的杠杆, 这一点, 是在不久的将来不可能以任何其他形式复制的。没有这些高标准, 我们的公司将在亚洲蓬勃发展的市场上面临更多的竞争劣势。
The blow to our strategic position is even more worrisome. This is not speculation. To turn our back on our allies and friends at this critical juncture, when the tectonic plates of regional power are shifting faster than ever, would undermine our credibility not only as a reliable trade partner, but as a leader on both sides of the Pacific. It would also create a potentially destabilizing void that might even lead to conflict, an outcome which would hurt everyone in the region, including China.	对我们战略地位的打击更令人担忧。这不是猜测。区域势力的构成变化的速度比以往任何时候都快, 我们在这个关键时刻抛弃我们的盟友和朋友, 会损害我们的信誉, 不仅是作为贸易伙伴的信誉, 而且是作为太平洋两岸领导者的信誉。这也会制造一个空白, 而这个具有潜在不稳定性的空白甚至可能导致冲突, 这种结果会伤害该地区的每个国家, 包括中国。
The bottom line is this: TPP is good for American workers, American values, and American strategic interests. We urge the Congress to work with the new administration to find a way to realize its many benefits before the window for doing so closes. As we reflect on more than	我们的基本论点是: TPP 有利于美国工人、美国价值观, 以及美国战略利益。我们敦促国会与新政府一起, 在机会之窗关闭之前, 寻找实现 TPP 诸多好处的方法。未来几十年, 这个地区将定义我们的命运, 当我们认真思考美国 70 多年来在这里的做出的牺牲和守护时, 我们应该明白, 如果我们未能应

seven decades of U.S. sacrifice and stewardship in the region that will define our destiny in coming decades, we should understand that, if we fail to answer today's call, history will pose a stern question — why did America forsake its best chance to shape the Pacific Century?	对今日挑战的话，历史将提出一个严峻的问题：美国为什么放弃自己塑造太平洋世纪的最好机会？
Signed by: Max Baucus, ambassador to China; Nina Hachigian, ambassador to the Association of Southeast Asian Nations; Caroline Kennedy, ambassador to Japan; Mark Lippert, ambassador to South Korea; Mark Gilbert, ambassador to New Zealand and Samoa; and Kirk Wagar, ambassador to Singapore.	署名：驻中国大使马克斯·博卡斯(Max Baucus)、驻东南亚国家联盟大使尼娜·哈奇吉安(Nina Hachigian)、驻日本大使卡洛琳·肯尼迪(Caroline Kennedy)、驻韩国大使马克·利伯特(Mark Lippert)、驻新西兰和萨摩亚大使马克·吉尔伯特(Mark Gilbert)，以及驻新加坡大使柯克·瓦加尔(Kirk Wagar)。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170118/china-tpp-ambassadors	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170118/china-tpp-ambassadors
Right-Wing Hoteliers in Japan Anger China With Radical Historical Views	日本酒店放置否认南京大屠杀书籍惹怒中国
TOKYO — She is the colorful face of Japan's largest hotel chain, known for her garish fashion sense and business books with titles like "I Am a President."	东京——她是日本最大连锁酒店的活招牌，以炫目的时尚品味和《我是总裁》这样的商业书籍著称。
He is the darker side of the partnership: a right-wing polemicist who has leveraged the couple's success to support contentious political causes, including defending Japan's militarist past.	他是右翼辩论家，是夫妇俩中更加阴暗的那一个。他们利用商业上的成功来支持有争议的政治事业，包括为日本军国主义的过去辩护。
Now Fumiko Motoya and her husband, Toshio, founders of APA Group, a Japanese real-estate and hotel empire, are facing a barrage of criticism in China. Their twin projects — business and conservative politics — collided this week in an uproar over right-wing historical books promoted at APA's chain of 370 budget hotels, in which such publications are often distributed to rooms in much the same way as Gideon Bibles in American hotels.	现在，日本房地产和酒店帝国 APA 集团的创始人元谷芙美子(Fumiko Motoya)及丈夫元谷外志雄(Toshio)在中国面临着一连串的批评。他们的两项事业——商业和保守政治——本周在一片哗然声中互相冲突，因为 APA 集团在 370 家经济型连锁酒店里摆放了推广右翼历史的书籍，就像美国酒店经常在客房里摆放《圣经》一样。

The furor over the books, which promote the claim that Japanese forces did not massacre Chinese civilians during a rampage in Nanjing in 1937, has prompted a rebuke from Beijing and threats of a boycott by Chinese travelers, a fast-growing and economically important group for Japan.	这些书中宣扬, 1937 年发生在南京的攻城略池中, 日本军队并没有屠杀中国平民。这些书引发的愤怒, 使得北京对其进行了谴责, 中国游客也威胁要抵制 APA 的酒店。中国游客人数正在快速增长, 对日本具有重要经济意义。
"This once again shows that some forces in Japan are still reluctant to look squarely at history, and even try to deny and distort history," a Chinese Foreign Ministry spokeswoman, Hua Chunying, said on Tuesday, as the outcry took on international political dimensions.	中国外交部发言人华春莹周二表示, "这再次表明日本国内一些势力始终不愿正视历史, 甚至企图否认和歪曲历史。"
The number of foreigners visiting Japan reached a record 24 million last year, fueled in large part by a surge of visitors from China looking for good food, clean air and quality shopping. Despite continued tensions with its neighbor, Japan has embraced the tourist rush in its effort to look for economic growth drivers, with many retailers hiring Chinese-speaking sales clerks. Last year, Japan approved plans to legalize casinos, with Chinese gamblers partially in mind.	去年到日本旅游的外国游客数量达到了创纪录的 2400 万, 其中以中国游客为主, 他们到日本寻求美食、清洁的空气和优质商品。尽管中日关系仍然紧张, 但日本已经积极拥抱这股旅游热潮, 视之为经济增长的驱动因素, 很多零售商都雇用了讲中文的销售员。去年日本还批准了博彩合法化的计划, 部分上就是考虑到了可以吸引中国赌客。
The Motoyas have shown how fraught that embrace can be. APA's stance has touched off anger online in China and condemnation from official media outlets, along with calls for Chinese travelers to take their business elsewhere.	元谷夫妇已经显示了这种展开怀抱可以变得多么令人担心。APA 的立场触发了网络上的愤怒和官方媒体的谴责, 有人呼吁中国游客去其他地方旅游。
APA has been unrepentant. In a statement, it said that "historic interpretation and education vary among nations," but it defended Mr. Motoya's claims about Nanjing.	APA 并没有悔改。在一份声明中, 它说"对历史的解释和教育因国家而异", 但它为元谷外志雄关于南京的主张进行了辩护。
"Therefore, we have no intention to withdraw this book from our guest rooms," the company said, adding that "no one-sided pressures" would	"因此, 我们不打算从客房收回这本书, "该公司说, "来自单方面的压力"不会迫使它改变主意。APA 邀请读者纠正任何不准确的声明, "以便我们可以

force it to change its mind. APA invited readers to correct any inaccurate statements “so that we can seriously study about them.”	认真研究它们”。
The Motoyas may not be as well known as another divisive and politically minded hotelier, Donald J. Trump, nor are their midmarket properties as gilded. But in Japan, they come close to being stars. Ms. Motoya, in particular, has embedded herself in popular culture through books, television appearances and an intermittent singing career.	元谷夫妇可能不像另一个制造分裂、热衷政治的酒店老板唐纳德·J·特朗普 (Donald J. Trump) 那么知名，他们的经济型酒店也没有特朗普的那么奢华。但在日本，他们也算是明星了。特别是元谷芙美子，出书、上电视节目、断断续续的歌唱生涯，在流行文化中占据了一席之地。
Wearing the fanciful hats that are her trademark, Ms. Motoya appears in advertisements for APA’s hotels and “APA president” merchandise like curry and rice crackers. She judges televised karaoke contests sponsored by the company, and a CD of her singing nostalgia-tinged songs can be purchased on APA’s website.	元谷芙美子戴着她标志性的奇特帽子，出现在 APA 酒店和“APA 总裁”产品的广告中，比如咖喱和米果。她是该公司赞助的电视卡拉 OK 比赛的评委，APA 的网站上还可以买到她唱怀旧歌曲的 CD。
The Motoyas are among the most prominent backers in Japan of rightist historical revisionism. While Fumiko Motoya represents the APA brand in public, her husband writes essays and books that seek to put Japan’s sometimes brutal imperial past in a kinder light. Their activism has put them at the center of controversies that have bedeviled Japan’s relations with China and South Korea for decades.	元谷夫妇是日本右翼历史修正主义最知名的支持者之一。元谷芙美子在公众面前代表着 APA 品牌，而她丈夫则在写论文写书，试图把日本帝国间或残酷的历史描绘得更为亲切。这种行为，让他们站在了几十年来一直令日本与中国和韩国关系备受困扰的争议中心位置。
“As political patrons, they can’t be ignored,” said Tamotsu Sugano, an author who has researched Japanese rightist groups. “They spread money everywhere.”	“作为政界资助者，他们不容忽视，”研究日本右派团体的作家菅野完 (Tamotsu Sugano) 说。“他们到处撒钱。”
The Motoyas have used a fortune estimated to be in the billions of dollars to court and support politicians, mostly on the conservative end of the spectrum — from the center-right establishment to the fringe. Guests at their long-running wine parties have included Shinzo Abe, the	元谷夫妇用来招揽和支持政界人士的资金估计数以十亿美元计，这些人大多数都属于保守派——从中间偏右的建制派到边缘派别。现任首相安倍晋三也参加过夫妇俩长期举行的葡萄酒派对，APA 在 2005 年发布的当年活动记录中有一张安倍晋三的照片。

current prime minister, according to a record of an event in 2005 that includes a photograph and was circulated by APA at the time.
A Japanese magazine, Shukan Gendai, has estimated that Mr. Motoya, who serves as president of the overall APA Group while Fumiko leads the hotel division, is Japan's fourth-richest person, with assets worth 220 billion yen, or about $1.9 billion. Shukan Gendai made its calculation based on tax records and on published APA documents, but because the company is privately owned, its disclosures are scarce and a precise figure is difficult to obtain.	元谷芙美子领导着酒店部门，元谷外志雄则担任整个 APA 集团的总裁，据日本杂志《周刊现代》(Shukan Gendai)估计，夫妇俩是日本第四大富豪，身家高达 2200 亿日元，约合 19 亿美元。《周刊现代》根据税务记录和公开的 APA 文件进行了计算，但由于该公司是私有的，披露的信息很少，难以获得准确数字。
The Motoyas hail from Fukui, a rural area on the Sea of Japan, where they met while working at a small local credit union, according to Ms. Motoya's autobiography. They built APA from a small operation beginning in the 1970s, starting with real-estate sales before moving into hotels for budget-conscious business travelers. In 2015, they expanded to the United States by buying a 200-room former Hilton hotel in Woodbridge, N.J.	元谷芙美子的自传称，夫妇俩来自靠近日本海的农村地区福井，是在当地一个小型地方信用合作社工作的时候相识的。两人从 1970 年代经营小生意，从房地产销售开始，之后进入经济型商旅酒店行业，就这样逐步建立了 APA 集团。2015 年，他们在新泽西州伍德布里奇收购了一所 200 间客房的希尔顿酒店(Hilton hotel)，把生意扩展到了美国。
Right-wing literature has long been a staple, if odd, amenity at APA hotels in Japan. Much of it is written by Mr. Motoya, who uses a pen name but acknowledges authorship.	长期以来，右翼文献都被 APA 在日本的酒店作为便利设施来提供，虽然这有点奇怪。其中大部分文献都是由元谷外志雄撰写的，他使用了笔名，但承认自己是作者。
The books and articles describe a kind of alternative historical universe, one where Japan fought entirely nobly in World War II and in which its alleged atrocities were invented by Chinese and Korean propagandists. The accounts differ sharply from those of mainstream historians, both in Japan and abroad.	在这些书和文章描述的那个历史世界中，日本在二战中完全是高尚的，所谓的暴行是中国和韩国的宣传机构捏造出来的。这些描述与日本国内外的主流历史学家的说法大相径庭。
One piece of literature that was featured for years was an essay by a	其中有一篇常年在列的文献出自前空军将军田母神俊雄(Toshio

former air force general, Toshio Tamogami, which won a prize in an APA-sponsored contest in 2008. In it, Mr. Tamogami claimed that Japan had been duped into attacking the United States at Pearl Harbor in 1941, in a plot he said was hatched by Communists inside the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.	Tamogami)之手, 该文在 2008 年 APA 赞助的比赛中获得了奖项。田母神俊雄在文中声称, 日本 1941 年攻击美国珍珠港是因为中了圈套, 而这个圈套是富兰克林·D·罗斯福(Franklin D. Roosevelt)总统政府中的共产党人设下的。
Mr. Tamogami was fired for writing the essay, and subsequently campaigned unsuccessfully to become governor of Tokyo and for a seat in the national Parliament, before being jailed for campaign finance violations last year.	田母神俊雄因撰写这篇文章而遭撤职, 后来竞选东京都知事和日本议会席位均未成功。去年, 他因为竞选财务违规行为身陷囹圄。
The latest controversy was touched off by a video on the internet. Posted by a couple describing themselves as an American woman and a Chinese man who stayed at an APA hotel, it shows excerpts from a book by Mr. Motoya denying the Nanjing massacre and the forcible recruitment of women into wartime Japanese military brothels. The video spread quickly through the Chinese internet this week, generating outrage and promises of a boycott.	最新的争议是由一段网上视频引发的。发布它的是一对伴侣, 女子自称是美国人, 男子自称是中国人, 他们入住了 APA 一家酒店。视频中显示了元谷外志雄一本书的摘录, 其中对南京大屠杀和强迫妇女成为日军“慰安妇”的事情进行了否认。这段视频本周在中国互联网上快速传播, 引发了众怒, 一些人发誓要抵制 APA 酒店。
For its part, the Japanese government appears to want to keep its distance. The chief cabinet secretary, Yoshihide Suga, declined to comment on the APA books when asked on Wednesday, saying only that Japan, China and South Korea should seek “forward-looking” ways to cooperate.	在日本政府这方面, 他们似乎想和此事保持距离。日本内阁官房长官菅义伟 (Yoshihide Suga) 本周三拒绝对 APA 的书籍置评, 只是说日本、中国和韩国应该寻求“前瞻性”的合作方式。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170120/japan-china-motoya-hot-el-apa	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170120/japan-china-motoya-hot-el-apa
Trump Injects High Risk Into Relations With China	特朗普给中美关系注入高风险
BEIJING — For China, President Trump’s scrapping of the	北京——对中国来说, 特朗普总统取消美国出面达成的太平洋贸易协定是一

American-brokered Pacific trade agreement is a chance to extend Beijing's economic and political influence. And it is an opportunity to deepen ties with its neighbors in Asia.	个机会,可以扩大北京的经济和政治影响,深化中国与亚洲邻国之间的关系。
But with a cooling economy at home, the last thing President Xi Jinping wants is a trade war, though officials have said they are prepared to fight one. Rather, China's leaders crave stability and predictability.	但是,随着国内经济增长放缓,习近平主席最不希望看到的事情之一就是出现贸易战,哪怕官员们口头上说他们做好了准备。事实上中国领导人想要的是稳定和可预测性。
Early signs indicate they may not get their wish. The Chinese fear that if Mr. Trump was willing to toss aside years of delicate negotiations with allies and decades of American trade policy, he could also go his own way on issues he has staked out with Beijing, including Taiwan and the South China Sea.	早期迹象表明,他们可能不会称心如意。中国担心,如果特朗普可以搁置多年来与盟友精心谈判的结果以及几十年来美国的贸易政策,他也可以用自己的方式处理那些他已经向北京阐明立场的问题,包括台湾和南海问题。
As if to bolster that point, on Monday — the same day that Mr. Trump withdrew from the Trans-Pacific Partnership, the 12-nation trade agreement — his spokesman said the United States would prevent China from accessing islands it claimed in the South China Sea, a threat that one nationalist Chinese newspaper had already warned would mean war.	好像是要强化这一点似的,本周一,就在特朗普取消 12 国参与的“跨太平洋伙伴关系协定”(Trans-Pacific Partnership, 简称 TPP)的同一天,他的发言人说,美国将阻止中国进入在南海的岛屿,一份民粹主义的中国报纸已经警告这种威胁意味着战争。
“This shows that Trump might act on his words,” Deng Yuwen, a public affairs commentator in Beijing, said in an interview. “With previous presidents, their election promises weren't taken so seriously.”	“这表明特朗普有可能说到做到,”北京的公共事务评论员邓聿文在接受采访时说,“而以前的总统,在竞选中说的话不用太当真。”
He added, “That means China must take his other warnings more seriously, especially about the South China Sea and Taiwan.”	他说,“这意味着中国必须更加重视他发出的其他警告,特别是关于南海和台湾的警告。”
Mr. Trump's goal in squelching the trade agreement was to protect American jobs and businesses. His trade officials have argued that the deal does not do enough to help the United States or to contain China,	特朗普退出 TPP 的目的是保护美国就业机会和企业。他的贸易官员认为, TPP 不足以帮助美国或者遏制中国。中国没有被邀请加入这个协定。

which was not invited to join the agreement.
But in killing an agreement designed to limit China's vast economic reach in Asia and anchor America's presence in the world's fastest growing region, analysts said, Mr. Trump created a void that President Xi was already practicing to fill.	但分析人士指出，TPP 旨在限制中国在亚洲的巨大经济影响力，让美国在世界经济增长最快的地区有所作为，特朗普退出 TPP 就会留出一个空白，习近平已经在着手填补它了。
Only last week, Mr. Xi was trying on the mantle of global leadership at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, suggesting that with the United States in retreat, China was prepared to step up as a champion of free trade and protector of the global environment.	就在上周，习近平在瑞士达沃斯的世界经济论坛上试图担当全球领导的角色，随着美国的退出，中国想要以自由贸易倡导者和全球环境保护者的身份上位。
Mr. Xi has kept China's economy behind high walls, and China remains the world's biggest emitter of greenhouse gases, but inconsistencies have never ruffled the president.	习近平把中国经济围在高墙之内，中国仍然是世界上最大的温室气体排放国，但这些矛盾之处从未使习近平感到困扰。
"This is indeed a big win for China in the struggle for global leadership," said Zhang Baohui, director of the center for Asia Pacific studies at Lingnan University in Hong Kong. "Trump is surrendering this opportunity to prove the continuing relevance of American primacy."	"对于中国争取全球领导力来说，这确实是一大胜利。"香港岭南大学亚太研究中心主任张宝辉说："特朗普放弃了这个证明美国的强大具有持续意义的机会。"
The death of the trade agreement is likely to accelerate Beijing's push for its alternative trade agreement, the China-centered Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership.	TPP 之死可能促进北京推动自己的贸易协定，即以中国为中心的区域全面经济伙伴关系协定（Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership，简称 RCEP）。
That agreement would exclude the United States and would reduce or eliminate tariffs on trade among China, Southeast Asian nations, Australia, India, Japan, South Korea and New Zealand. It includes few of the features of T.P.P. that would have been most awkward for Beijing, such as protections for independent labor unions and the environment, and requirements that state-owned enterprises behave more like	这个协定将把美国排除在外，旨在降低或取消中国、东南亚国家、澳大利亚、印度、日本、韩国和新西兰之间的贸易关税。它基本上不包含 TPP 中对北京而言非常尴尬的内容，例如要求有独立的工会和环境保护措施，要求国有企业变得更像商业企业。 commercial enterprises.

The agreement has stalled on rifts between Southeast Asian nations and the others, but Thailand's minister of commerce, Apiradi Tantraporn, said Monday that the talks "are expected to be expedited" without the T.P.P.	由于东南亚国家和其他国家之间的裂痕，这项协议遭到了搁置，但泰国商务部长阿披拉迪·丹达邦(Apiradi Tantraporn)周一说，没有了 TPP 之后，RCEP“预计将加快谈判”。
But the end of the T.P.P. will not be Mr. Trump's last word on trade with China.	但终结 TPP，并非特朗普对中美贸易的最后决定。
His trade officials say they expect greater access to the Chinese market in exchange for the easy access Chinese goods have to the United States. And they appear prepared to risk a trade war, an expanding tit-for-tat contest of tariffs and other trade restrictions, to get it.	他的贸易官员说，他们期望中国进一步开放市场，来换取中国货物进入美国时享受的方便。为此他们似乎准备冒风险打一场贸易战，针锋相对地提高关税并施加其他贸易限制。
Mr. Trump's trade officials have threatened to impose high tariffs on Chinese goods, starting with heavily subsidized products such as steel and aluminum, imported into the United States. "It's a little weird that we have very low tariffs and China has very high tariffs," Wilbur Ross, the nominee for commerce secretary, said at his Senate confirmation hearing last week.	特朗普的贸易官员威胁要对中国货物征收高关税，先从进口到美国受到大额补贴的产品开始，比如钢铁和铝。“我们的关税非常低，中国的关税非常高，这有点奇怪，”商务部长人选威尔伯·罗斯(Wilbur Ross)上周在参议院确认其任命的听证会上说道。
Last week, China proposed allowing greater foreign investment in certain sectors, but there was little confidence the recommendations would be carried out in the foreseeable future, and American businesses said they felt less welcome in China than before.	上周，中国建议允许外国投资更多地进入某些领域，但是这个建议是否会在可预见的未来施行，人们的信心并不大。美国企业表示，他们在中国的受欢迎程度不比以前了。
While Mr. Trump's advisers say that China has more to lose than the United States in a trade war, Chinese officials told visiting American businessmen last week that Beijing was prepared. They had developed lists of punitive options they would take against the United States if	虽然特朗普的顾问说，如果打起贸易战，中国的损失会比美国大，但中国官员上周对到访的美国商人说，北京已经做好了准备。他们表示已经列好了清单，只要华盛顿先出手，他们就采取清单上的惩罚性措施。

Washington took the initiative, they said.
"The signals are very clear: If this is going to be a trade war, China will reduce imports of American aircraft from Boeing and agricultural products," said Wu Xinbo, director of American Studies at Fudan University in Shanghai. "We can turn to Europe, Australia and Canada for those products. And we know that 20 to 30 of the states in the United States with big agricultural lobbies and Boeing plants will be putting pressure on Congress."	"他们的信号非常清楚：如果贸易战开打，中国将减少美国波音飞机和农产品的进口，"上海复旦大学美国研究中心主任吴心伯说。"我们可以改用欧洲、澳大利亚和加拿大的这些产品。我们知道美国有 20 到 30 个拥有大型农业游说团体和波音工厂的州会向国会施加压力。"
A long-serving American trade expert in China agreed, saying China was prepared to go to the mat.	一位研究中国问题的美国资深贸易专家也说，中国做好了准备。
"Trump's trade team would be wise to shelve 'The Art of the Deal' and focus on the 'Art of War,' if they really want to know what's ahead in U.S.-China trade relations," said James Zimmerman, a managing partner of the Beijing office of the law firm Sheppard, Mullin, Richter & Hampton who has worked in China for 19 years. "China views Trump as a paper tiger that will likely back down on the complicated, thorny issues that are not negotiable. The Chinese also know that Trump won't risk a trade war lest the business community will be up in arms."	"特朗普的贸易团队如果真的想知道美中贸易关系的未来，明智的做法就是把《做生意的艺术》(The Art of the Deal)放到一边，专注在《孙子兵法》(Art of War)上。中国认为特朗普是纸老虎，会回避那些不可谈判的、复杂棘手的问题。中国人也知道，特朗普不会冒险打贸易战，免得商业界强烈反对。"在中国工作了 19 年的吉莫曼(James Zimmerman)说。他现在美国盛智律师事务所(Sheppard, Mullin, Richter & Hampton)北京办事处的管理合伙人。
Others, though, detect anxiety, and read China's outward confidence as bluster. Bilahari Kausikan, ambassador at large for Singapore, said China had "a real insecurity about a trade war."	但也有人觉得中国很焦虑，认为中国表现出来的信心只是虚张声势。新加坡巡回大使比拉哈里·考斯甘(Bilahari Kausikan)说，中国"真的很担心打贸易战"。
Both sides are likely to lose, he said, but China stands to lose more "since the U.S. domestic political order is not at stake in the same way as the Chinese Communist Party rule may be at stake."	双方都有可能受损，他说，但中国的损失会更大，因为"美国国内政治秩序不像中国共产党的统治那样面临着风险"。
The next few months, as Mr. Xi focuses on choosing new members of	在接下来的几个月里，习近平会把精力放在为第二个五年任期选择常委会新

the ruling Standing Committee for his second five-year term, will be a particularly tense political period, and economic instability is the last thing he needs. Similarly, he will try at all costs to appear strong to his domestic, nationalistic audience in the face of challenges from Mr. Trump on Taiwan and the South China Sea.	成员上面, 这将是一个特别紧张的政治时期, 他绝对不希望出现经济上的不稳定。同样, 当面对特朗普在台湾和南海问题上的挑战时, 他将不惜一切代价地试图在国内的民族主义受众面前表现得强势。
Mr. Trump has suggested that the One China policy, under which the United States recognizes the government of Beijing and not Taiwan, is not sacrosanct, a major concern for Mr. Xi.	特朗普暗示“一个中国”政策并非不可违背, 这是习近平重点关注的一件事。根据该原则, 美国承认北京政府而不是台湾政府。
“In a year of political transition, Xi cannot afford to come across as weak,” said Paul Haenle, the director of the Carnegie-Tsinghua Center for Global Policy in Beijing, who served as China director for the National Security Council under President George W. Bush and President Barack Obama. “Taiwan is the core of core issues for China – a bottom line. Many Chinese stress that it is nonnegotiable.”	设在北京的清华—卡内基全球政策中心的主任韩磊(Paul Haenle)说, “在政治过渡年份, 习近平绝对不能显得弱势, 对中国来说, 台湾问题是核心中的核心——是一个关键问题。很多中国人强调, 这是不可讨价还价的。”韩磊曾是小布什和奥巴马当政期间美国国家安全委员会(National Security Council)的中国事务主任。
But for now, at least, the increased contention with Washington is likely to strengthen Mr. Xi’s political hand at home by rallying public and elite support against a foreign threat, said Minxin Pei, a professor at Claremont McKenna College in California who studies Chinese politics and Chinese-American relations.	但至少是现在, 与华盛顿增加冲突可能会巩固习近平在国内的政治实力, 把公众和精英阶层团结起来反对外来威胁, 加利福尼亚州克莱尔蒙特麦克纳学院(Claremont McKenna College)研究中国政治和中美关系的教授裴敏欣说道。
“Short term, it will almost certainly give the Chinese government a boost in its public support,” Dr. Pei said in a telephone interview. “It helps Xi, because whenever there is such pressure from outside, Chinese officials tend to rally around the top leader.”	“短期来说, 这几乎肯定会提升中国政府的公共支持度,” 裴博士在接受电话采访时说道。“这对习近平有利, 因为每当出现来自外部的压力, 中国官员都倾向于团结在最高领导人的周围。”
Mr. Trump has also threatened China on control of territory it claims in the South China Sea. The comments by Mr. Trump’s press secretary,	对于中国在南海控制其声称拥有主权的水域, 特朗普也发出了威胁。特朗普的新闻秘书肖恩·斯派塞(Sean Spicer)周一的评论呼应了国务卿提名人雷克

Sean Spicer, on Monday echoed those made by his nominee for secretary of state, Rex W. Tillerson, at his Senate confirmation hearing.	斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)在参议院任命确认听证会上的说法。
While Mr. Trump has not explained how he will keep China off islands where it has built airstrips and installed weapons, the comments by his appointees suggest the possibility of an American blockade. Indeed, while Mr. Obama tried unsuccessfully to leverage American allies in the region to compel China to back down, Mr. Trump seems willing to abandon them and face China on his own.	中国在南海的一些岛屿上修建了简易机场, 架设了武器, 虽然特朗普没有解释他要如何让中国远离那些岛屿, 但他提名的官员的评论表明, 美国有可能对那里进行封锁。事实上, 虽然奥巴马尝试过利用美国在该地区的盟友迫使中国退缩, 但未能成功, 但是特朗普似乎打算不靠盟友, 自己上阵去面对中国。
That go-it-alone attitude has raised alarms at the Pentagon and among American Navy experts who said such a blockade would be tantamount to war. The idea has also alarmed America's allies.	这种单挑的态度引发了五角大楼和美国海军专家的警惕, 他们说这种封锁等于开战。而且这个想法也引起了美国盟友的忧虑。
Australia, Washington's staunchest ally in the Asia Pacific region, would not participate in such a venture, its defense officials said, adding that a blockade could not be successful and could serve to persuade disenchanted American friends in the Asia Pacific to pivot toward China.	澳大利亚是华盛顿在亚太地区的坚定盟友, 其国防部官员表示, 他们不会参加这样的冒险行动, 而且封锁有可能不会成功, 反而导致美国在亚太地区的朋友心怀不满, 向中国靠拢。
With Mr. Trump portending divisive action on many fronts, Mr. Xi was calm and prepared, his foreign minister, Wang Yi, suggested.	随着特朗普在诸多方面表现出导致不和行为的意向, 中国外交部长王毅表示, 习近平很冷静, 已经做好了准备。
"Serene under the tumultuous clouds," Mr. Wang said, quoting a line from a poem by Mao Zedong, the founder of Communist China.	"乱云飞渡仍从容," 王毅引用了中国共产党创始人毛泽东的一首诗中的句子。
No one knows how long that will be the case.	没有人知道那会持续多久。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170125/trump-us-china-trade-trans-pacific-partnership	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170125/trump-us-china-trade-trans-pacific-partnership
Trump Foreign Policy Quickly Loses Its Sharp Edge	特朗普的外交政策迅速失去锋芒
WASHINGTON — When President Trump took a phone call from the	华盛顿——当特朗普总统去年 12 月接了台湾领导人打来的电话, 并声称美

leader of Taiwan in December and asserted that the United States might no longer be bound by the "One China" policy, his defenders hailed it as a show of strength — the latest delicate issue on which Mr. Trump was willing to challenge decades of diplomatic orthodoxy.	国可能不再受“一个中国”政策的约束时,他的捍卫者们称赞那是在显示力量,是特朗普愿意在许多微妙问题上挑战几十年的外交正统的最新表现。
On Thursday evening, Mr. Trump fell back into line. In a call with President Xi Jinping of China, he pledged fealty to One China, a 44-year-old policy under which the United States recognized a single Chinese government in Beijing and severed its diplomatic ties with Taiwan.	上周四晚上,特朗普转变了态度。在打给中国国家主席习近平的电话中,他表示忠于“一个中国”的承诺,这是一个执行了44年的政策,在这个政策下,美国承认北京政府是唯一的中国政府,并断绝了与台湾的外交关系。
Mr. Trump has also tacked to the center on Israel. After presenting himself as a stalwart defender of Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu who would buck the pressure campaign against Israeli settlements in the West Bank, Mr. Trump warned Israelis this week that he did not believe that "going ahead with these settlements is a good thing for peace."	在以色列问题上,特朗普也回到了中间派立场上来。在表明自己是本雅明·内塔尼亚胡(Benjamin Netanyahu)总理的坚定捍卫者、而后者要抵抗反对以色列在西岸的定居点相关运动的压力之后,特朗普在上周警告以色列人,他不认为“继续修建这些定居点是一件有利于和平的好事”。
And on Iran, where Mr. Trump threatened as a candidate to rip up the nuclear deal struck by President Barack Obama, advisers to the new president told the European Union's top foreign policy official, Federica Mogherini, that the United States would fully carry out the agreement.	而在伊朗问题上,特朗普作为总统候选人时曾威胁要撕毁奥巴马总统与伊朗达成的核协议,现在,新总统的顾问告诉欧盟最高外交政策官员费德里卡·莫盖里尼(Federica Mogherini),美国会全面履行协议。
As Mr. Trump begins to shape his foreign policy, he is proving to be less of a radical than either his campaign statements or his tempestuous early phone calls with foreign leaders would suggest. On Friday, as he welcomed Prime Minister Shinzo Abe of Japan to the White House, Mr. Trump characterized America's alliance with Japan as a "cornerstone of peace and stability." Those time-tested words bore little resemblance to	随着特朗普的外交政策开始成形,事实证明,他并不像他的竞选宣言或在早期与外国领导人冲突不断的电话所暗示的那样激进。当他周五在白宫欢迎日本首相安倍晋三时,特朗普把美国与日本的联盟称为“和平与稳定的基石”。这个历史悠久的说法与他在竞选期间做出的要把美日合作束之高阁的威胁几乎没有什么相似之处。

his threats during the campaign to mothball the partnership.
“Every president discovers that it looks different from the perspective of the Oval Office than it did on the campaign trail,” said Martin S. Indyk, the executive vice president of the Brookings Institution. “The fact that President Trump is proving flexible on some key foreign policy issues suggests he’s less ideologically driven than his early moves would imply.”	“每位总裁都发现，从椭圆形办公室的角度看问题，与竞选活动中的角度不一样，”布鲁金斯学会执行副会长马丁·S·因迪克(Martin S. Indyk)说。“特朗普总统在一些关键外交政策问题上被证明具有灵活性的事实表明，他受意识形态驱动的程度不如他早期举动所暗示的那样大。”
To some extent, Mr. Trump is simply undergoing the same evolution that all of his predecessors went through. Mr. Obama, who ran as an antiwar candidate, became an avid user of drone strikes and other covert counterterrorism operations pioneered by George W. Bush.	在某种程度上，特朗普只不过是在经历他所有的前任都经历过的那种演化。奥巴马作为总统候选人时曾坚决反战，后来却成为由乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)率先启用的无人机袭击和其他秘密反恐行动的热衷使用者。
In Mr. Trump’s case, however, the recalibration is starker because of the extreme nature of the positions he had staked out on issues like China, Russia and the NATO alliance, as well as the Trump campaign’s thin ranks of policy advisers and his slowness in assembling a full national security team in the White House. It also stands in stark contrast to his more uncompromising approach on other matters like the legal challenges to his executive order on immigration.	然而，在特朗普的情况下，政策的重新校准看起来更赤裸裸，其中的原因包括他在诸如中国、俄罗斯和北约联盟等问题上曾采取极端立场，加上特朗普竞选班子中缺少有关的政策顾问，以及他在白宫组建一个完整的国家安全队伍的动作缓慢。这也与他在其他事务上、比如他对移民问题行政命令的法律挑战所采取的不妥协做法形成鲜明对比。
“He made it all the way to inauguration without doing the deep-dive policy reviews and internal debates that every other successful administration does during the campaign and the transition,” said Peter D. Feaver, who served in Mr. Bush’s National Security Council.	“历届成功进入白宫的政府在竞选活动和过渡期间都有过深入的政策审查和内部辩论，他没有经历这些就宣誓上任总统了，”曾在布什国家安全委员会任职的彼得·D·菲弗(Peter D. Feaver)说。
Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson, administration officials said, was among those who urged Mr. Trump to publicly endorse the One China policy as a way to defuse tensions with Mr. Xi. Before Thursday, the two	据政府官员说，国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)是敦促特朗普把公开支持“一个中国”政策作为缓解与习近平紧张关系策略的人之一。上周四前，两位领导人自11月14日以来就一直没有通过话。政府官员说，如果美

leaders had not spoken since Nov. 14; administration officials said that the Chinese leader would not get on the phone with Mr. Trump without assurances from the administration that he would commit to the policy.	国政府不保证特朗普会承诺忠于“一个中国”政策的话，中国领导人不会接他的电话。
Defense Secretary Jim Mattis has also emerged as an influential player, officials said. He recently returned from a trip to Asia during which he offered reassurances of American support for allies like Japan and South Korea. Among his travel companions was Matthew Pottinger, who recently became the senior director for Asia in the National Security Council.	官员说，国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)也作为有影响力的参与者显露出来。他刚从一次亚洲之行返回美国，访问期间他向日本和韩国等盟国做出了美国将提供支持的保证。他的随行者中有马修·波廷格(Matthew Pottinger)，波廷格最近担任了国家安全委员会的亚洲部高级主任。
“There finally is an administration beginning to take shape around him, which there was not before — Tillerson and Mattis in particular,” said Jeffrey A. Bader, a former top China adviser to Mr. Obama. “During the transition, no one had the nerve or expertise to contradict him.”	“他身边最终开始形成了一个政府，特别是有了蒂勒森和马蒂斯之后，以前没有，”奥巴马的前中国顾问杰弗里·A·贝德(Jeffrey A. Bader)说。“在过渡期间，没人有胆量或专业知识去顶撞他。”
In addition to his cabinet officers, Mr. Trump and his aides are beginning to soak up advice from other leaders. The president stiffened his tone on settlements after he met briefly with King Abdullah II of Jordan; his advisers, including Jared Kushner, spoke with Arab officials, who urged the administration not to give Israel a free hand on the issue.	除了内阁官员，特朗普和他的助手们也开始吸取来自其他领导人的建议。总统在与约旦国王阿卜杜拉二世短暂会晤后，改变了他对定居点问题的态度。他的顾问们，包括贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)在内，与阿拉伯官员进行了交流，这些顾问敦促政府不要在定居点问题上让以色列自由行动。
In an interview with an Israeli newspaper, Israel Hayom, which was published on Friday, Mr. Trump said settlements “don’t help the process” — a phrase that is not substantially different from those used by Mr. Obama or Mr. Bush.	特朗普在接受以色列报纸《今日以色列》的采访（该采访于上周五发表）时说，定居点“不利于和平进程”，这个说法与奥巴马或布什用过的词语没有太大的不同。
“Every time you take land for settlements, there is less land left,” Mr. Trump continued.	“每次你为定居点扩大土地，剩下的土地就减少了，”特朗普接下来说。

When the White House issued an initial statement on settlements last week, some analysts read its ambiguous wording as leaving Israel plenty of room for maneuvering. It said that settlements were not an impediment to peace, but that they “may not be helpful.” Mr. Trump’s remarks were more pointed, however, and experts said they suggested a genuine shift.	白宫在上周发表关于定居点的最初声明时，一些分析人士把其模糊的措辞理解为，以色列在这个问题上有足够的周旋空间。声明说，定居点不妨碍和平，不过它们“可能（对和平）没有帮助”。但是，特朗普最近的言论则更加尖锐，专家们说，这些言论意味着立场的真正转变。
“The right-wingers who looked at him like he was going to be the master builder of the Middle East – that was not warranted,” said David Makovsky, a senior fellow at the Washington Institute for Near East Policy. “The more he immerses himself in this, he will see there are conflicting pressures and realities. He is going to have to navigate within those constraints.”	“在那些右翼人士眼里，他好像要成为中东建筑工程队队长似的，那是不恰当的，”华盛顿近东政策研究所高级研究员戴维·马科夫斯基(David Makovsky)说。“他越是深入外交问题，他越会看到里面有冲突的压力和现实。他将不得不在这些限制之内行事。”
The White House’s pledge to carry out the Iran nuclear deal does not reflect a change of heart on Tehran. The administration last week imposed new sanctions on Iran for its launching of a ballistic missile. But officials in the White House are more focused on curbing what they see as a pattern of aggressive behavior by Iran from Syria to Yemen.	白宫承诺履行伊朗核协议并不意味着它在德黑兰问题上改变了主意。上周，美国政府因伊朗发射了一枚弹道导弹而对它实施了新的制裁。但白宫的官员更注重遏制伊朗在叙利亚和也门实施在他们看来属于挑衅行为的模式。
Mr. Trump’s retreat on One China, experts said, also should be seen in a regional context. He offered the concession to Mr. Xi on the eve of a three-day visit by Mr. Abe, during which the Japanese leader had lunch at the White House and is Mr. Trump’s guest at Mar-a-Lago, where they and their wives are having dinner, and the two men are playing golf at a nearby club.	专家们表示，特朗普在“一个中国”问题上让步，也应该放到地区背景下看待。他是在安倍为期三天的访美活动前夕向习近平妥协的。访问期间，这位日本领导人在白宫享用了午宴，还到特朗普的马阿拉歌庄园(Mar-a-Lago)做客，两位领导人和他们的妻子此时正在那里共进晚餐，两人还将在附近的一个高尔夫俱乐部打球。
To allow the tensions between China and the United States to fester during such a prominent display of hospitality to the Japanese, analysts	分析人士表示，在展示对日本如此明显的友好期间让中美之间的紧张关系加剧，将进一步危害华盛顿与北京的关系。在与安倍召开新闻发布会期间，特

said, would have further poisoned relations between Washington and Beijing. At his news conference with Mr. Abe, Mr. Trump took pains to say he and Mr. Xi were developing their own rapport.	朗普煞费苦心他表示他与习近平正在发展融洽的关系。
"It was a very, very warm conversation," Mr. Trump said. "I think we are in the process of getting along very well, and I think that we'll also be very much of a benefit to Japan."	"那是一次非常非常友好的交谈,"特朗普说。"我认为我们处在形成融洽关系的过程中,我觉得我们也会给日本带来很大的益处。"
Mr. Abe appeared pleased, too, noting that the president had reaffirmed the American security guarantee to Japan, including over what the Japanese call the Senkaku Islands, which are administered by Japan but claimed by both Japan and China. That was a far cry from Mr. Trump's suggestion during the campaign that the United States might walk away from the alliance.	安倍似乎也感到满意,他指出这位总统重申了美国对日本的安全承诺,包括在日本称为尖阁诸岛的地方——那里目前在日方手中,但日中两国都宣称对该岛拥有主权。这种立场与特朗普在竞选期间的提议想去甚远,即美国可能会脱离这种盟友关系。
Michael J. Green, an Asia director in Mr. Bush's National Security Council, noted that in the weeks before Mr. Trump took office, he suggested that the key pillars of America's relationship with both China and Japan — the One China policy and the mutual defense treaty — would both be on the table, chips to be used in a broader negotiation.	曾在布什总统任内担任国家安全委员会(National Security Council)亚洲事务主任的迈克尔·J·格林(Michael J. Green)指出,特朗普曾在就职几周前提出,美国与中国和日本关系的关键支柱——"一个中国"政策和安保条约——将会摆在桌面上,用作更广泛谈判中的筹码。
"What's been so interesting about the last few days is that Trump took both issues off the table," Mr. Green said. "You can hear the sigh of relief across the whole Asia-Pacific region."	"过去几天最有意思的发现是,特朗普将两个问题都从桌面拿下,"格林说。"你可以听到整个亚太地区都松了口气。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170213/trump-foreign-policy-quickly-loses-its-sharp-edge	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170213/trump-foreign-policy-quickly-loses-its-sharp-edge
Trump, Changing Course on Taiwan, Gives China an Upper Hand	特朗普成了中国眼中的纸老虎
BEIJING — By backing down in a telephone call with China's president on his promise to review the status of Taiwan, President Trump may	北京——特朗普总统在与中国国家主席通电话时做出让步,承诺重新审视台湾的地位,这可能避免了与美国最强大的对手进行对抗。

have averted a confrontation with America's most powerful rival.
But in doing so, he handed China a victory and sullied his reputation with its leader, Xi Jinping, as a tough negotiator who ought to be feared, analysts said.	但分析人士说，他这样做是把胜利拱手交给了中国，损害了他本应作为一个让习近平感到担心的强势谈判者的声誉。
"Trump lost his first fight with Xi and he will be looked at as a paper tiger," said Shi Yin hong, a professor of international relations at Renmin University of China, in Beijing, and an adviser to China's State Council. "This will be interpreted in China as a great success, achieved by Xi's approach of dealing with him."	"特朗普在与习近平的第一次交锋中失败了，他将被看作纸老虎，"位于北京的中国人民大学的国际关系教授、中国国务院参事时殷弘说。"在中国，这会被看成是一个巨大的成功，习近平把他搞定了。"
Mr. Trump's reversal on Taiwan is likely to reinforce the views of those in China who see him as merely the latest American president to come into office talking tough on China, only to bend eventually to economic reality and adopt more cooperative policies. That could mean more difficult negotiations with Beijing on trade, North Korea and other issues.	特朗普在台湾问题上立场的逆转，可能会加深中国人的看法：他不过是上台时对中国态度强硬，最终却屈服于经济现实，采取更多合作政策的最新一个美国总统而已。这可能意味着美国在贸易、朝鲜和其他问题上和北京谈判时会更加困难。
At the same time, the Chinese leadership will view statements by Mr. Trump with even greater skepticism. "Even though Trump has said he will support the 'One China' policy, China cannot fully trust him," said Yan Xuetong, dean of the school of international relations at Tsinghua University, in Beijing. "Even his own people don't trust him."	与此同时，中国领导人对特朗普说的话疑心也会更大。"虽然特朗普说他会支持'一个中国'政策，中国不能完全信任他，"位于北京的清华大学国际关系研究院院长阎学通说。"即使他自己的人也不相信他。"
China's official reaction to the telephone call, in which Mr. Trump affirmed that America would abide by the longstanding policy, was polite, even upbeat.	特朗普在电话中表示，美国将遵循长期对华政策，中国对这通电话的正式反应很礼貌，甚至乐观。
"The conversation was very cordial," Lu Kang, the spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, said at a regular news briefing on Friday. "The One	"两国元首进行了非常好的通话。"外交部发言人陆慷在星期五的例行新闻发布会上说，"一个中国原则一直是中美关系的政治基础。"

China principle is the political foundation of China-U.S. relations.”
Under that policy, the United States recognized a single Chinese government in Beijing and severed diplomatic ties with Taiwan.	根据这项政策，美国承认北京政府是唯一的中国政府，并断绝了与台湾的外交关系。
American leadership was damaged by Mr. Trump staking out a position and then stepping back, said Hugh White, a professor of strategic studies at the Australian National University and the author of “The China Choice,” a book that argues that the United States should share power in the Pacific region with China.	《中国抉择》(The China Choice)作者、澳大利亚国立大学(Australian National University)战略研究学教授休·怀特(Hugh White)则认为，特朗普提出了一个立场，然后又往后退缩，这破坏了美国的领导力。《中国抉择》主张美国应该在太平洋地区与中国分享权力。
“The Chinese will see him as weak,” Mr. White said of Mr. Trump. “He has reinforced the impression in Beijing that Trump is not serious about managing the U.S.-China relationship.”	“中国人会觉得他弱势，”怀特提到特朗普时说。“他增进了北京的这种印象：特朗普对待美中关系并不认真。”
Mr. Shi said that Beijing had chosen to remain firm and patient with Mr. Trump, and that approach had paid off.	时殷弘说，北京选择对特朗普保持坚定和耐心，这种方法已经获得了回报。
Even though many other world leaders had spoken to the new American president by phone since his inauguration on Jan. 20, Mr. Xi had refused to talk to Mr. Trump until he was sure that the American president would give what turned out to be a concession — an affirmation of the One China policy, Mr. Shi said.	尽管自从特朗普 1 月 20 日就职以来，很多国际领导人已经和这位美国新总统进行过交谈，但习近平拒绝与特朗普通话，直到确信他会做出让步为止——也就是确认要遵循“一个中国”政策，时殷弘表示。
Mr. Trump put himself in a corner by questioning the status of Taiwan, an issue that the Chinese have regarded as nonnegotiable since President Jimmy Carter put the One China policy into effect in 1979, Mr. Shi added.	时殷弘还说，特朗普质疑 1979 年吉米·卡特(Jimmy Carter)总统颁布的一个中国政策，是把自己逼到了角落。中国人认为台湾问题是不可谈判的。
Some Chinese said Mr. Trump’s decision to walk back on the issue of Taiwan at least lowered the risk of conflict.	一些中国人说特朗普在台湾问题上做出让步，至少是减少了发生冲突的风险。
“If he agreed to the One China policy, that means there is no danger of	“如果他赞同一个中国政策，就意味着中美之间没有直接交战的危险，”清华

direct war between China and the United States," said Mr. Yan of Tsinghua University. "That fact is very positive."	大学的阎学通说。“这件事非常积极。”
When Mr. Trump took a precedent-shattering phone call from President Tsai Ing-wen of Taiwan in early December, and said a few days later that he wanted to extract concessions from Beijing in return for keeping the One China policy, the Chinese government issued "ugly" statements saying it would not waver on the issue of Taiwan, Mr. Shi said.	特朗普去年12月初和台湾总统蔡英文进行打破先例的通话,数日后他表示,他想要北京做出一些让步,以换取他继续遵循一个中国政策,而中国政府发布了“令人不安的”声明,自称不会在台湾问题上摇摆不定,时殷弘说。
Those statements came from the Foreign Ministry, which said that "it was out of the question" to negotiate and that the One China policy was "a core issue" that involved China's sovereignty and territorial integrity.	中国外交部发布的这些声明称,该问题“不容”谈判,一个中国政策是涉及中国主权和领土完整的“核心问题”。
In diplomatic parlance, that meant Taiwan was a rock-bottom issue that Beijing was prepared to fight over.	用外交辞令讲,这意味着台湾是中国会不惜为之开战的底线问题。
The tough statements were intended to recall the time in 1995 when China tested missiles near Taiwan, prompting President Bill Clinton to dispatch an aircraft carrier through the Taiwan Strait, near China's coast.	这些强硬的声明意在让人想起1995年,当时中国在台湾附近试射导弹,促使比尔·克林顿(Bill Clinton)总统派出了一艘航空母舰,穿过中国海岸附近的台湾海峡。
China is militarily much stronger today, armed with far more advanced missiles and a more robust navy that includes one aircraft carrier, with more on the way.	今天的中国在军事上要强大得多,拥有比当年更多的先进导弹,还有一支强大的海军——它拥有一艘航空母舰,并且计划建造更多。
The Chinese also decided to flatter Mr. Trump, Mr. Shi said. When the Trump administration started to make small steps to pave the way for the phone call with Mr. Xi, China was almost excessive in its response, a way of trying to reassure Washington without paying any price, Mr. Shi added.	时殷弘表示,中国也决定迎合特朗普。他还讲道,当特朗普政府开始采取一些小步骤为与习近平通话铺路时,中国的反应几乎有些过,这是他们不付出任何代价而尽力让华盛顿放心的方式。

So after Mr. Trump sent a letter to the Chinese Embassy in Washington this week, wishing the Chinese people a "prosperous Year of the Rooster," Beijing responded that it was "very happy" to receive the president's greetings.	所以在特朗普于上周向中国祝华盛顿的大使馆致信，祝中国人民“鸡年大吉”时，北京表示对收到这位总统的祝福感到“非常高兴”。
The American secretary of state, Rex W. Tillerson, who had pledged to uphold the One China policy during his confirmation hearings, was at the White House on Thursday before the call, apparently pointing out the risks of Mr. Trump's approach.	拨打周四那通电话之前，在提名确认听证会上承诺支持一个中国政策的美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)就在白宫里，显然是在指出特朗普的方式所存在的风险。
"The cost to the U.S. of refusing to recommit to the One China policy was very high, and Trump was persuaded," said Bonnie S. Glaser, director of the China Power Project at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington.	"美国拒绝再次承诺坚持一个中国政策的代价非常高，特朗普被说服了，"华盛顿国际战略研究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)中国力量项目(China Power Project)的总监葛来仪(Bonnie Glaser)说。
In an unusual move, the state-run Chinese news agency Xinhua posted on Twitter a cheeky quiz on the possible reason Mr. Trump had changed his mind on the One China policy. Twitter is banned in China.	中国官方通讯社新华社采取不同寻常的举动，在 Twitter 上发布了一个有些冒失的竞猜活动，让人猜测特朗普为何在一个中国政策上改变了主意。Twitter 在中国境内遭到屏蔽。
Xinhua gave four choices, giving prominent play to the options "blackmailing didn't work" and "China's unyielding stance," and including the possibility that a visit by Ivanka Trump and her 5-year-old daughter, Arabella, to the Chinese Embassy's New Year reception last week had played a role.	新华社给出四个选项，突出了“敲诈不成功”、“中国立场强硬”这两个选项，其中还包括了一种可能性，即伊万卡·特朗普(Ivanka Trump)和她5岁的女儿阿拉贝拉(Arabella)上周出席中国大使馆的新年招待会发挥了作用。
The tension between Washington and Beijing over Mr. Trump's attitude toward Taiwan has reverberated around the Asia-Pacific region, where American allies have worried since the December phone call with Ms. Tsai that, in the extreme, there could be armed conflict over Taiwan.	华盛顿与北京就特朗普对台湾问题的态度产生的紧张关系，在亚太地区产生了巨大的影响。自12月与蔡英文那次通话之后，美国在这里的盟友一直担心，在极端的情况下，可能会出现就台湾问题爆发的武装冲突。
On Friday, the United States Pacific Command said that a Chinese	据美联社报道，美国太平洋司令部(United States Pacific Command)周五表

aircraft and an American Navy patrol plane had had an “unsafe” encounter over the South China Sea, The Associated Press reported. A spokesman said that the “interaction” between a Chinese KJ-200 early warning aircraft and a Navy P-3C plane took place on Wednesday in international airspace. The spokesman did not say what was unsafe about the encounter.	示，一架中国飞机和一架美国海军巡逻机在南海上空进行了一次“不安全”的交会。一名发言人称，一架中国 KJ-200 预警飞机和一架 P-3C 海军飞机之间上周三在国际领空发生“交会”。这名发言人没有透露这次交会有什么不安全。
That Mr. Trump appears to have smoothed things out for the moment has brought relief, but it does not assuage concerns about future dealings between Mr. Xi and the American president.	特朗普似乎暂时解决了这些问题，让情况有所缓解，但它不能消除对习近平和美国总统今后往来的担忧。
Both the White House and the Chinese Foreign Ministry said that the two leaders wanted to strengthen cooperation. The White House statement said Beijing wanted to work with Washington on a number of issues, including trade.	白宫和中国外交部都表示，两位领导人希望加强合作。白宫的声明表示，北京希望与华盛顿在一系列问题上展开合作，包括贸易。
Mr. Trump has threatened a trade war by raising the possibility of steep tariffs in response to what he portrays as China’s predatory trade practices.	特朗普曾威胁有可能增加关税发动贸易战，以此回应他口中所说的中国损人利己的贸易行为。
Neither side specified in their statements how they would cooperate, and doubts remained in the Asia-Pacific region about Mr. Trump’s intentions on a variety of issues. China values predictability, and one phone call could not deliver that, analysts said.	双方都没有在声明中明确指出他们会如何合作，亚太地区对特朗普在一系列议题上的意图依然存疑。分析人士表示，中国重视可预测性，而一次通话无法实现这一点。
“Trump isn’t attached to any particular policy line with China or anyone else,” said Peter Jennings, executive director of the Australian Strategic Policy Institute. “So ‘working together’ could also be dumped whenever it suits.”	“特朗普不会一直和中国或其他任何国家坚持任何政策，”澳大利亚战略政策研究所(Australian Strategic Policy Institute)的执行主任彼得·詹宁斯(Peter Jennings)说。“所以在任何需要的时候，也有可能放弃‘携手’”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170213/trump-one-china-taiwan	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170213/trump-one-china-taiwan

Is China Pushing Trump to Talk to North Korea?	重启朝核谈判，中国给特朗普加压？
BEIJING — For years, the United States and others have pressed China’s leaders to suspend imports of coal from North Korea to push the reclusive state to abandon its nuclear weapons program. For years, the Chinese leadership resisted — until Saturday, when it suddenly announced in a terse statement that it would do just that.	北京——多年来，美国和其他国家一直在向中国领导人施加压力，想让中国暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭，以促使这个与世隔绝的国家放弃自己的核武器计划。多年来，中国领导人都顶住了压力，直到上周六，中国突然在一份简短声明中宣布将会这样做。
But if Beijing was sending a message to North Korea, it was also directing one at President Trump, who has complained that China was not putting enough pressure on North Korea.	但是，如果说北京是在向朝鲜发出信息的话，这也是中国发给特朗普总统的信息，特朗普一直抱怨中国未向朝鲜施加足够的压力。
Now President Xi Jinping of China has essentially said: We have done our part in enforcing sanctions. Over to you, Mr. Trump.	现在，中国国家主席习近平基本上是在说：“我们在执行制裁上做了我们该做的。现在看你的了，特朗普先生。”
The challenge comes at a tantalizing moment. For weeks now, plans have been afoot for a North Korean government delegation to meet in New York in early March with a group of former United States officials who have long been involved in North Korea policy.	这个挑战正好出现在一个令人展望的时刻。朝鲜的一个政府代表团计划于3月初在纽约与一群曾长期参与朝鲜政策的前美国官员会晤，准备工作已经进行了好几周了。
Will the Trump administration issue visas to the North Koreans, a move that would suggest the new president is interested at least in hearing from Pyongyang through informal channels?	特朗普政府会向朝鲜人发签证吗？发签证将会表明，新总统至少对通过非正式渠道听听平壤怎么说有兴趣。
There have been indications that Mr. Trump was willing to take a quite different tack from President Barack Obama.	有迹象表明，特朗普愿意作出与奥巴马总统截然不同的姿态。
During his campaign, Mr. Trump said he was interested in sharing a hamburger with the 33-year-old leader of North Korea, Kim Jong-un. He seemed to suggest he had a smidgen of respect for, or at least curiosity about, the maverick leader, the most recent incarnation of a longstanding dynasty.	特朗普在竞选时曾说，他有兴趣与朝鲜33岁的领导人金正恩一起吃汉堡。他似乎暗示，他对这个特立独行的领导人有一点点尊重，或至少有些好奇，金正恩是多年来执政朝鲜的金氏家族的最新一代。

Mr. Trump's response to the recent North Korean missile test was restrained, perhaps the result of Mr. Obama's warning after the November election that North Korea would be the incoming president's most dangerous foreign policy challenge.	特朗普对朝鲜最近导弹试验的反应比较克制，这可能是奥巴马在去年 11 月大选后警告的结果，奥巴马说朝鲜会是即将上任的总统所面临的最危险的外交政策挑战。
"If the visas are issued, it will be a clear message that the Trump administration is prepared to go the extra mile and engage North Korea," said Evans J. R. Revere, a former principal deputy assistant secretary of state.	"如果发签证，这将是特朗普政府愿意做出更多努力与朝鲜进行接触的一个明确信息，"前首席副助理国务卿李维亚(Evans J. R. Revere)说。
There should be little expectation, he warned, of any policy shift by the North, which has shown every indication of wanting to continue building its nuclear program.	李维亚警告说，不要对朝鲜会有任何政策转变抱多少希望，朝鲜的所有迹象表明，它要继续自己的核武器建设。
The planned meeting, sponsored by the National Committee on American Foreign Policy, headed by Donald S. Zagoria, falls far short of talks between the two governments and has been designed as an initial sounding board.	计划的会晤是由以唐纳德·S·萨戈里亚(Donald S. Zagoria)为首的美国外交政策国家委员会赞助的，会晤远没有达到两国政府之间会谈的级别，而是作为初步的决策咨询而设计的。
"I have been organizing such meetings with the North Koreans since 2003, and our goal is to increase mutual understanding as well as to encourage the kind of frank dialogue that may not be possible in official talks," Mr. Zagoria said.	萨戈里亚说："自从 2003 年以来，我一直在组织与朝鲜人进行这种会晤，我们的目标是增进相互了解，同时鼓励那种在正式会谈中不可能进行的坦率对话。"
The gathering would be the first of its type in New York in five years because the Obama administration opposed holding even informal talks on American soil given North Korea's expansion of its nuclear weapons program. That North Korea is holding two Americans hostage was another impediment.	这将是五年来首次在纽约举行这种会晤，因为奥巴马政府反对在朝鲜扩大核武器计划的情况下，在美国土地上举行即使是非正式的会谈。朝鲜关押了两名美国人质是另一个障碍。
Meetings with North Korean officials arranged by Mr. Zagoria and other	在奥巴马时代，萨戈里亚和其他团体安排的与朝鲜官员的会晤都是在其他国

groups were held in world capitals during the Obama era, including Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, and Berlin last year.	家的首都进行的，包括马来西亚吉隆坡和德国柏林。
The decision whether to allow the meeting to proceed in New York is now freighted with more than the usual complications.	是否允许会晤在纽约进行的决定现在充满了比通常情况下更多的复杂性。
Over the last 10 days, North Korea has shown its full colors. First, the regime flaunted its expanding nuclear capabilities with the test of an intermediate-range ballistic missile that uses a solid-fuel technology that will make it easier for the country to hide its arsenal.	朝鲜在过去的 10 天中展示了自己的全部色彩。首先，朝鲜通过测试一枚使用固体燃料技术的中程弹道导弹，炫耀了自己不断扩大的核能力，固体燃料技术将让朝鲜更容易隐藏其武库。
Then, last week, Kim Jong-nam, the half brother of the North Korean leader, was assassinated in Malaysia in a crowded passenger terminal at Kuala Lumpur International Airport. The South Korean government has publicly accused North Korea of the killing, and six North Koreans have been linked to the plot.	然后在上周，朝鲜领导人的同父异母哥哥金正男在马来西亚吉隆坡国际机场一个拥挤的旅客航站楼被暗杀。韩国政府公开指责朝鲜是主谋，已发现有六名朝鲜人与暗杀行动有关。
Without these two incidents, the Trump administration could have won praise for breaking the logjam with North Korea by allowing the New York meeting to go ahead, said a former participant in such meetings who declined to be identified because of the sensitivity of the topic.	没有发生这两件事的话，允许此次会晤在纽约进行，很可能让特朗普政府赢得打破朝鲜僵局的赞扬，一名曾参加过这种会晤的人说，由于所讨论问题的敏感性，该人拒绝具名。
But the assassination of Kim Jong-nam would allow opponents of North Korean engagement to charge that granting visas only rewarded bad behavior, the person said.	但此人表示，金正男被暗杀一事将让反对与朝鲜接触的人指责，批准发签证只会奖励不良行为。
Soon after the killing, Republican and Democratic members of Congress called for the United States to return North Korea to its blacklist of states that sponsor terrorism, from which it was removed nine years ago.	在暗杀发生后不久，国会中的共和党成员和民主党成员曾呼吁美国把朝鲜重新列入支持恐怖主义国家的黑名单，朝鲜是在 9 年前从这个名单上下来的。
The Trump administration faces another, perhaps more profound,	在如何处理朝鲜问题上，特朗普政府面临着另一个，也许是更深刻的决定。

decision on how to handle North Korea. Annual joint military exercises, set for March between South Korea and the United States, are expected to involve an American aircraft carrier, advanced stealth fighters, B-52 and B-1B bombers and a nuclear submarine, according to South Korean news reports.	据韩国新闻报道，今年3月的美韩联合军事演习应该会有一艘美国航空母舰、先进的隐形战斗机、B-52 和 B-1B 轰炸机和一艘核潜艇参加。
This annual show of force, not far from the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea and off the Korean coast, has traditionally been viewed by North Korea as an American preparation for an attack against its forces.	演习地点不远处就是朝鲜和韩国之间的非军事区和韩国海岸，朝鲜历来将这种一年一度的武力展示视为美国在为攻击其部队做准备。
With the heightened tensions on the Korean Peninsula, and Chinese-North Korean relations at a low point, the risk of a strong response by the North to the exercises – through the launch of missiles or a nuclear test – is higher than usual, said Peter Hayes, the executive director of the Nautilus Institute for Security and Sustainability in Berkeley, Calif.	总部位于加利福尼亚州伯克利(Berkeley, Calif)诺蒂斯安全与可持续发展研究所(Nautilus Institute)的执行主任彼得·海斯(Peter Hayes)表示，随着朝鲜半岛紧张局势加剧，以及中朝关系处于低点，朝鲜通过发射导弹或核试验做出强烈反应的风险已经高于往常。
Last year, for example, the North conducted its fifth nuclear test during joint American-South Korean military exercises.	例如去年，朝鲜在美韩联合军事演习期间进行了第五次核试验。
“We are likely entering a new and extremely dangerous phase of the Korean conflict,” Mr. Hayes said. He suggested ramping down the exercises to “avoid inadvertent clashes and escalation to nuclear war, and to probe North Korean intentions.”	“在朝韩冲突上，我们可能进入一个极其危险的新阶段，”海斯说。他建议缩减演习，以“避免无意挑起冲突、升级为核战争，同时对朝鲜的意图进行探询”。
China would like the Trump administration to deal directly with North Korea. Beijing’s suspension of coal imports from North Korea was a signal that China was being tougher than usual, offering Mr. Trump a concession to bring Washington to the table with the North.	中国希望特朗普政府直接与朝鲜打交道。北京暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭的做法显示，中国对朝鲜变得比以往更加强硬，同时这也是向特朗普做出的让步，以便华盛顿回到与朝鲜的谈判桌。

But how much impact a suspension of coal imports would have on the rudimentary and seemingly resilient North Korean economy was far from clear.	但是，暂停煤炭进口对朝鲜初级的、似乎具有弹性的经济会产生什么样的影响，目前还远远不清楚。
The Foreign Ministry insisted Tuesday that the suspension of coal imports was a bureaucratic procedure. In the first six weeks of 2017 China had already imported almost all its annual quota of coal allowed under the United Nations sanctions, the ministry said. Whether China had actually paid for those imports was not addressed.	中国外交部周二坚称，暂停进口煤炭只是正常程序。在 2017 年的前六周里，中国的进口量就几乎用完了联合国制裁规定的煤炭年度配额。中国没有提到是否真的为这些煤炭进口付了钱。
"It won't be as huge as many expected," said Zhang Liangui, an expert on North Korea at the Central Party School of the Communist Party. "Outsiders have underestimated the North's capability to cope with sanctions."	"影响不会像很多人想的那么大，"中共中央党校朝鲜问题专家张璉瑰说。"外面低估了朝鲜应对制裁的能力。"
Nor is Mr. Zhang optimistic that any talks with North Korea, formal or informal, will result in a diminishing of the North's nuclear capabilities.	而且张璉瑰也不乐观，他认为，与朝鲜的任何正式或非正式会谈都不会令朝鲜削减核能力。
"North Korea has said more than 50 times that it will not participate in any talks that have denuclearization on the agenda," he said. "I don't think President Trump could pull this off and talk the Koreans out of it."	"朝鲜说了我看不下五十次他不会参加任何有无核化议程的谈判，"他说。"我不觉得特朗普总统就能把谈好，把朝鲜给谈成了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170222/china-north-korea-trump-talks	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170222/china-north-korea-trump-talks
North Korea Accuses China of 'Mean Behavior' After It Tightens Sanctions	朝鲜官媒激烈抨击中国“卑鄙”
SEOUL, South Korea — North Korea on Thursday criticized China in unusually bitter language for tightening sanctions, accusing its powerful Communist neighbor of "mean behavior" and "dancing to the tune of the U.S."	韩国首尔——朝鲜周四用异常激烈的语言抨击中国加强制裁，指责它强大的共产主义邻国的“卑鄙做法”和“对美国随波逐流”。

The anti-Beijing commentary carried by the North's state-run Korean Central News Agency, did not name China and was written by a writer named Jong Phil. While it was not a formal government statement, commentators in North Korea do not depart from the government's official position. Mr. Jong left no doubt about his target, referring to "a neighboring country, which often claims itself to be a 'friendly neighbor.'"	朝鲜官方通讯社朝中社(Korean Central News Agency)发表的这篇反对北京的评论文章，没有点中国的名。作者署名正笔(Jong Phil)。尽管这不是正式政府声明，但朝鲜的评论人士不会偏离政府的官方立场。这位正笔说到了一个“口口声声标榜‘友好邻邦’的周边国家”，目标非常明确。
Mr. Jong's commentary came five days after China announced that it was suspending all coal imports from North Korea for the rest of the year. China said the ban was part of its efforts to enforce United Nations sanctions aimed at ending the North's nuclear weapons and ballistic-missile programs.	在署名正笔的这篇文章发表的五天前，中国宣布到今年年底，暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭。中国称该禁令是其实施联合国制裁的行动的一部分。联合国制裁意在结束朝鲜的核武器和弹道导弹计划。
"Its recent measures are, in effect, tantamount to the enemies' moves to bring down the social system in the DPRK," the commentary said, using the acronym for North Korea's official name, Democratic People's Republic of Korea. "This country, styling itself a big power, is dancing to the tune of the U.S."	"这样的措施，实际上同敌对势力要搞垮朝鲜制度的阴谋大同小异，"文章写道。"一个以大国自居的国家没有政治主见，对美国随波逐流。"
China imposed the coal ban after the North Korean test of a ballistic missile that the United Nations Security Council condemned as a violation of its resolutions. The ban deprived North Korea of one of its most important sources of hard currency. Coal accounted for nearly 40 percent of its exports in the past several years, and almost all of it was shipped to China, according to South Korean government estimates.	中国是在朝鲜试射一枚弹道导弹后禁止从该国进口煤炭的。联合国安理会对朝鲜的行为进行了谴责，称其违反了联合国决议。中国的禁令让朝鲜失去了最重要的一个硬通货来源。据韩国政府估计，过去几年，煤炭在朝鲜的出口中占比近 40%，并且几乎所有煤炭都运到了中国。
Although North Korea's "juche" ideology emphasizes the nation's self-reliance, in reality the country depends on China for 90 percent of	尽管朝鲜的“主体思想”强调该国的自立，但实际上，该国 90%的对外贸易依靠中国。

its external trade.
That has led officials in South Korea and the United States to argue that Beijing should use its economic influence to force the North to suspend its weapons programs. While pushing for ever tighter sanctions, some officials have suggested that Beijing was losing patience with the North Korean regime over its continued tests of nuclear weapons and ballistic missiles.	这导致韩国和美国的官员主张，北京应该用自己的经济影响力逼迫朝鲜停止武器计划。在推动实行日益严厉的制裁的同时，一些官员称，因为朝鲜不断进行核武器和弹道导弹试验，北京对朝鲜政权的耐心正在消失。
But other analysts remain skeptical about China's willingness to use its economic leverage. China and North Korea share a deep bond forged decades ago when their Communist leaders fought together.	但其他一些分析人士仍对中国利用自己的经济砝码的意愿持怀疑态度。中国和朝鲜有着深厚的关系，这个关系是几十年前，两国的共产主义领导人在并肩作战时建立起来的。
These analysts think that Beijing also fears a destabilized North Korea more than a nuclear-armed North Korea, and that it considers the country a vital buffer against the United States military based in South Korea.	这些分析人士还认为，北京更担心朝鲜失去稳定，而不是后者拥有核武器，而且北京认为朝鲜是抵御驻韩美军的重要缓冲。
They tend to see China's suspension of coal imports as a warning to North Korea, and as a deft move to blunt Washington's criticism that it was not doing enough to enforce sanctions. China insists that Washington engage the North in negotiations to solve the nuclear problem.	他们倾向于认为中国停止进口煤炭是对朝鲜的一个警告，同时也是一个巧妙的做法，可以缓和华盛顿对其在实施制裁上做得不够的指责。中国坚持认为，华盛顿应让朝鲜加入为解决核问题而进行的谈判。
On Wednesday, an editorial in the state-controlled Global Times of China said that despite the coal import ban, China's friendship with North Korea remained unchanged.	周三，中国官方控制的报纸《环球时报》上的一篇社评称，尽管颁布了煤炭进口禁令，但中国与朝鲜的友谊保持不变。
"Chinese sanctions only target at its nuclear weapon program, and we are firmly opposed to Seoul's political fantasy against Pyongyang," it said.	"中国的制裁措施只针对朝鲜拥核，我们坚决反对韩国媒体上针对平壤的各种政治幻想，"文章写道。

For its part, North Korea maintained a defiant tone. It warned on Thursday that it would be “utterly childish” to think that the North would stop building its “nuclear weapons and intercontinental ballistic rockets if a few pennies of money is cut off.”	朝鲜一方仍保持着强硬的态度。该国周四警告称，他们以为“只要切断小小资金的来路，便会使朝鲜无法制作核武器与开发洲际弹道火箭”，这本身是“幼稚可笑的”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170224/north-korea-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170224/north-korea-china
China and North Korea Reveal Sudden, and Deep, Cracks in Their Friendship	中朝友谊突然显露深刻裂痕
BEIJING — For decades, North Korea could count on China as a loyal ally despite the erratic behavior of the ruling Kim dynasty. Beijing held its tongue, even as its neighbor engaged in saber rattling, nuclear testing and bombastic threats.	北京——几十年来，朝鲜可以把中国当作忠实的盟友来依靠，尽管统治该国的金家王朝行为乖张。即便是在朝鲜耀武扬威、开展核试验和进行言辞威胁的时候，北京也没有说过这个邻国的坏话。
But by this week, things may have gone too far, with North Korea unleashing a tirade in which it deployed some of the most damning insults in its playbook, accusing China of “dancing to the tune of the U.S.” and “styling itself as a big power.”	但是到了本周，朝鲜可能把事情做出格了，因为他们发表长篇大论，使用了其战略手册中一些最为难听的侮辱性措辞，指责中国“对美国随波逐流”和“以大国自居”。
Chinese observers of relations between the countries were left in disbelief about how rapidly those ties have deteriorated, particularly after Beijing decided to cut off coal imports that provide badly needed currency for the North’s economy.	中国的国际关系观察家对中朝关系的恶化速度感到难以置信，特别是在北京决定暂停煤炭进口，让朝鲜经济无法从中获得急需的资金之后。
“At first many people thought it was a fake commentary,” Cheng Xiaohu, associate professor of international studies at Renmin University, said of the tirade against China, published in the North’s state-run news media on Thursday. “It is a big surprise that North Korea has launched such a strong attack against China. I expected an angry reaction — but not this strong.”	“起初很多人认为这个评论是假的，”提到朝鲜国有媒体周四针对中国的长篇檄文时，中国人民大学副教授成晓河说。“朝鲜这样猛烈地攻击中国太令人震惊了。我预计到朝鲜会作出愤怒的反应——但没料到这么猛烈。”

The diatribe, carried by the Korean Central News Agency, came just before the Malaysian government announced that VX nerve agent had killed Kim Jong-nam, the half brother of the North's leader, Kim Jong-un. North Korean agents are suspected of masterminding the attack.	朝鲜中央通讯社的这番恶骂，是在马来西亚政府宣布朝鲜领导人金正恩同父异母的哥哥金正男死于 VX 神经毒剂之后。人们怀疑是朝鲜特工策划了袭击。
The disclosure that a chemical weapon banned under international treaties was used in the attack is sure to put more pressure on China's relations with North Korea, which some Chinese analysts say are at their lowest point since the founding of the North as a separate country after World War II.	在这起攻击使用了国际条约所禁止的化学武器一事遭曝光后，肯定会给中国与朝鲜的关系施加更大的压力，一些中国的分析人士认为，这是朝鲜在二战之后成为一个独立国家以来，中朝关系降至的最低点。
The disclosure "makes things worse," Mr. Cheng said. "It's wrong to kill the half brother. It's more wrong to have used banned chemical agents."	这件事的曝光“雪上加霜”，成晓河说道。“杀死同父异母的哥哥是错的。使用禁用的化学毒剂更是错上加错。”
Earlier this month, the North issued a more indirect takedown of Beijing in its government newspaper Minju Joson, signaling a growing rift. Shortly afterward, China announced the suspension of coal imports.	本月初，朝鲜在其政府报纸《民主朝鲜日报》(Minju Joson)上发表了针对北京的比较婉转的指责，标志着双方裂痕的日益扩大。不久之后，中国就宣布暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭。
The burst of criticisms from Pyongyang — coupled with Beijing's coal ban — suggested boiling tensions between China's president, Xi Jinping, 63, who sees himself as a global leader, and Mr. Kim, 33, an eccentric dictator.	来自平壤的批评和北京的煤炭禁令一起，暗示了 63 岁的中国主席、自认为是全球领导者的习近平和 33 岁的古怪独裁者金正恩之间非常紧张的关系。
Mr. Xi is said to have low regard for Mr. Kim, who has not visited China and is not known to have been invited.	据说习近平看不起金正恩。金正恩没有访问中国，也不知道他是否收到过邀请。
Despite past periods of turbulence, including under Mao Zedong, both sides have more or less tried to preserve a polite public veneer of amity. But the friendship was a myth, said Shen Zhihua, a professor of history	尽管双方关系在过去发生了数次动荡，包括在毛泽东统治期间，双方或多或少地试图在表面上保持友好。但是这种友谊是虚假的，华东师范大学历史教授沈志华说道。

at East China Normal University.
The Chinese government has always viewed North Korea as a “vassal country,” he said in an interview with Phoenix Television on Thursday, shortly before the North Korean editorial was published.	中国政府一直把朝鲜视为“藩属国”，本周四，他在朝鲜的社论刊出前不久，接受凤凰电视台采访时说道。
“You can go through the People’s Daily from 1949 to this day, we have never said a single word of ill, all words of praise,” about North Korea, said Mr. Shen, who is one of China’s pre-eminent historians on the North. “Meanwhile, the North Korean newspapers do not speak ill of China.”	“你把从1949年至今的《人民日报》翻一翻，没有一句坏话，全是好话，”中国杰出的朝鲜问题史学家沈志华说。“同时，朝鲜报纸上也不说中国的坏话。”
Even as the relationship has noticeably worsened in recent weeks, China has maintained public restraint. An editorial in Global Times, a state-run tabloid that sometimes reflects the thinking of senior government officials, noted on Friday that the suspension of coal imports was “fair” and in keeping with United Nations sanctions.	即使近几周来，两国关系明显恶化，中国在公开场合仍然保持克制。《环球时报》上周五的一篇社论指出，停止煤炭进口是“公平”的，和联合国制裁保持了一致。该报是官方小报，有时反映了政府高级官员的思想。
The Chinese Foreign Ministry also kept up that facade. “China and North Korea are friendly neighbors, and we are willing to work with the North Korean side in joint efforts to develop healthy and stable relations,” said Geng Shuang, the ministry spokesman.	中国外交部也在保持这种表象。“中朝是友好邻邦。我们愿与朝方共同努力，推动中朝关系健康稳定发展。”外交部发言人耿爽说。
The ministry also played down the significance of the Malaysian announcement that VX had been used in the killing of Kim Jong-nam.	对于马来西亚宣布金正男暗杀事件中使用了VX，中国外交部也予以了淡化处理。
“It is only a preliminary result published by Malaysia, and there is not conclusion on this yet,” Mr. Geng said.	“目前马来西亚方面公布的只是一些初步情况，目前还没有人下朝鲜在马来西亚使用大规模杀伤性武器这个结论。”耿爽说。
It was not immediately clear how much China’s ban on coal imports would affect North Korea’s ability to look after its population. And at least publicly, China said that it was imposing the ban only because it	中国禁止煤炭进口将对朝鲜的民生造成怎样的困难目前还不清楚。至少在公开场合，中国说，完全是因为中方从朝鲜进口的煤炭已经接近联合国制裁允许的上限，他们才决定暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭。

had already fulfilled its coal quota allowed under United Nations sanctions.
That seemed to suggest that Beijing may have already paid Pyongyang for the coal it imported in the first 50 days of this year, money that would go to the North's cash-starved government, experts said.	这似乎表明，北京可能已经向平壤支付了今年头 50 天进口煤炭的钱，朝鲜政府获得了一些亟需的现金，专家说。
The exposure of the deepening rift comes as the Trump administration has been pressuring Beijing to use its leverage to curtail the North's rapidly expanding nuclear weapons program.	中朝之间日益加深的裂痕暴露出来同时，特朗普政府也一直在敦促北京利用其手中的筹码来遏制朝鲜迅速扩张的核武器计划。
In the last week, the American secretary of state, Rex Tillerson, has spoken with China's senior foreign policy official, Yang Jiechi, and the Chinese foreign minister, Wang Yi, about North Korea.	上周，美国国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)与中国的高级外交政策官员杨洁篪和中国外交部长王毅就朝鲜问题进行了交谈。
President Trump has said China can do significantly more to persuade the North to scale back its nuclear program, even as Beijing has told Washington that it holds limited influence. The latest flare-up is likely to further weaken that leverage, while illustrating the resistance of Kim Jong-un to China's arguments in favor of a denuclearized Korean Peninsula.	特朗普总统说，要说服朝鲜缩小其核计划，中国可以做的远远更多——即使北京告诉华盛顿说，自己的影响有限。事情的新发展可能进一步削弱这种筹码，同时也说明了金正恩非常抵触中国支持朝鲜半岛无核化的主张。
"In terms of diplomacy, I see no solution," said Yan Xuetong, the director of the Institute of International Studies at Tsinghua University. Mr. Yan, writing in the Chinese news media this week, said that China had no choice but to accept the North as a nuclear-armed state. That was because China had only two options: either a nuclear North Korea that was friendly toward China or a nuclear North Korea that was unfriendly, he wrote.	"在外交方面，我看不到解决办法，"清华大学国际关系研究院院长阎学通说。他本周在中国的新闻媒体上写道，中国别无选择，只能接受朝鲜作为有核国家。这是因为中国只有两个选择：对华友好的有核武器的朝鲜，和对华不友好的有核武器的朝鲜——他写道。
"I am very pessimistic about this issue," Mr. Yan said.	"我对这个问题非常悲观，"阎学通说。

https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170227/china-north-korea-relations-kim-jong-un	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170227/china-north-korea-relations-kim-jong-un
North and South Korea Give China a Double Headache	这边核弹那边萨德，朝鲜和韩国让中国两边头疼
BEIJING — The Chinese government is ratcheting up pressure on South Korea over its plans to deploy an American missile defense system, with the state-controlled news media urging the public to boycott South Korean retail products and threatening diplomatic and even military repercussions.	北京——中国政府正因韩国部署一个美国导弹防御系统的计划而对其加大施压力度，官方新闻媒体呼吁公众抵制韩国的零售产品，并威胁要采取外交甚至军事手段。
China's latest pronouncements follow months of not-so-subtle punitive measures that have already taken a toll on the South Korean economy, including an unofficial ban on Korean television shows and pop stars. The campaign risks a backlash in South Korea even as Beijing's relations with North Korea have also grown strained — a sign of how recent advances in the North's nuclear program have put China in a bind and are upsetting the regional security balance.	最近这番言论出来之前，中国不那么隐秘的惩罚性措施已持续了数月，给韩国经济造成了损失，其中包括针对韩国电视节目和流行明星的非官方禁令。这场运动可能引发韩国的强烈反对，同时北京与朝鲜的关系也已变得紧张——这个迹象表明朝鲜核计划的最新进展已让中国进退维谷，且正在打破该地区的安全平衡。
On Thursday, South Korea and the United States began talks in Seoul to finalize details of the deployment of the so-called Terminal High-Altitude Area Defense System, or Thaad, according to the South's Foreign Ministry. Both countries say the system's purpose is to defend the South against North Korea's growing missile and nuclear threat, but China has objected strongly to the system, which it sees as an American attempt to encircle it.	据韩国外交部称，周四，韩国和美国开始在首尔举行会谈，以敲定部署所谓的末段高空区域防御系统（Terminal High-Altitude Area Defense，简称“萨德”）的细节。两国称该系统的目的是让韩国防御朝鲜日渐严峻的导弹和核威胁，但中国强烈反对该系统，认为是美国试图包围自己。
No date has been set for the system's deployment, but the Pentagon said on Wednesday that Defense Secretary Jim Mattis wanted it in place "as soon as feasible." Military experts said the United States could use	部署该系统的日期尚未确定，但五角大楼周三表示，美国国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)想让它“尽快”就绪。军事专家称美国可能会用 C-17 运输机，把该系统的车载发射装置、拦截装置、雷达、火控装置和支持设备迅速运到

C-17 transport aircraft to quickly move the system's truck-mounted launchers, interceptors, radar, fire control units and support equipment to South Korea.	韩国。
China responded with anger when South Korea agreed in July to accept the Thaad system, and it has made its displeasure known as plans have moved toward the final stages in recent days.	韩国去年7月同意部署萨德系统时，中国颇为愤怒。最近，随着相关计划进行到最后阶段，中国公开表达了自己的不悦。
An outspoken Chinese general, Luo Yuan, now retired, recommended a tough series of responses in an article on Thursday, going so far as to suggest a military strike against the missile system. "We could conduct a surgical hard-kill operation that would destroy the target, paralyzing it and making it unable to hit back," General Luo wrote in the Global Times, a state-run newspaper that often features strident, nationalist views.	在周四的一篇文章中，出言无忌的中国退役少将罗援建议采取一系列强硬措施进行回应，甚至提议对该导弹系统进行军事打击。“我在必要时可对该阵地进行‘外科手术式’的‘硬杀伤’，定点清除，使其成为无还手之力的‘瘫子’，”罗援在常以强硬的民族主义观点为特色的官方报纸《环球时报》上写道。
"Since the United States, Japan and South Korea choose not to respect China's major security concerns, China does not need to be a gentleman on everything," the general wrote. "We must not undermine our own security interests while respecting the security interests of others."	“美日韩既然不尊重中国的重大安全关切，中国也没必要事事处处太‘君子’，”这位少将写道。“我们决不能在尊重其他国家安全关切的同时，反而危害自己国家的安全利益。”
People's Daily, the Communist Party newspaper that is often considered the official voice of the leadership, said in its international edition this week that China should consider a "de facto" severance of diplomatic ties with South Korea.	本周，通常被视作领导层官方声音的党报《人民日报》在其海外版中称，中国应考虑“在事实上”中断与韩国的外交关系。
It said in a commentary that China should take "political and military measures" against South Korea and that it should consider coordinating with Russia in dealing with what it called the "U.S.-Japan-South Korea	该报在一篇评论文章中称，中国应该对韩国采取“政治、军事安全手段”，并应考虑与俄罗斯协调，应对它所说的“美日韩反导网”。该报还在一定程度上提到了日本的声明。相关声明显示，日本也可能考虑把萨德作为防御朝鲜的

antimissile network." The paper was referring in part to statements by Japan that it might consider using Thaad as a defense against North Korea.	一道屏障。
China has said that the Thaad system would threaten its nuclear deterrent capacity. It said the system's powerful radar would make it much easier for the United States to detect Chinese missiles and would give the American military much more time to intercept them.	中国称萨德系统会威胁自己的核威慑能力，并称该系统强大的雷达会大大降低美国发现中国导弹的难度，令美军的拦截时间大大增加。
Chinese state news outlets have also suggested a consumer boycott of South Korean products. Much of China's anger has been borne by Lotte, a South Korean conglomerate that provided the government with land for the Thaad deployment in a deal that was finalized this week. Lotte has stores and shopping malls across China, and modest groups of mostly older Chinese held protests at the company's outlets in several cities on Thursday.	中国官方新闻机构也建议消费者抵制韩国产品。中国的愤怒很多都指向了韩国企业集团乐天(Lotte)。在本周敲定的一项协议中，该集团同意为政府提供部署萨德系统的土地。中国全国各地都有乐天的百货商店和购物中心。周四，在中国多座城市，以上了年纪的人为主的小规模人群在乐天的店铺外举行抗议。
On Wednesday, the Lotte website serving Chinese shoppers was hacked, the company said. On Thursday, another hacking attack shut down its duty-free shop's website for several hours. Lotte also said that some construction had been stopped by the Chinese authorities on the grounds that it had failed a fire inspection.	乐天称，该公司服务中国消费者的网站于周三遭到入侵。周四，另一场黑客攻击导致其免税店的网站关闭数小时。乐天还称一些建筑项目被中方以消防检查不合格为由叫停。
In recent months, popular South Korean stars have been denied visas to perform in China, and South Korean TV shows have been blocked from Chinese video streaming websites. Many in South Korea say they believe those actions are in retaliation for the Thaad issue, though China has denied any link.	最近几个月，受欢迎的韩国明星无法拿到前往中国表演所需的签证，韩国的电视节目也被中国的视频流媒体网站下架。很多韩国人认为这些行动是对萨德问题的报复，但中国否认存在任何关联。
One of the musicians denied a visa was Sumi Jo, a coloratura soprano	曹秀美(Sumi Jo)就是无法拿到签证的音乐人之一。过去十年里，作为一名

who has toured China almost every year for the past decade. Her brother, Jay Jo, said that she had been unable this year to get the government-approved invitation letter required for an entry visa.	花腔女高音歌唱家，曹秀梅几乎每年都会在中国举办巡演。她的兄弟曹杰 (Jay Jo)说，她今年一直拿不到办理入境签证所需的由政府批准的邀请函。
"As soon as the opportunities reopen, she will resume her concerts in China," Mr. Jo said. "But right now, we have no idea when that will happen."	"机会一重新开放，她就会继续在中国的演唱会，"曹杰说。"但目前，我们不知道要等到什么时候。"
Trade experts said Beijing might be reluctant to take more extreme economic measures. China is South Korea's largest trading partner by far, but South Korea is also China's fourth-largest, and Beijing would probably be reluctant to damage those ties during the current economic slowdown.	贸易专家称北京可能并不愿采取更极端的经济手段。中国目前是韩国最大的贸易伙伴，但韩国也是中国的第四大贸易伙伴，在当前经济放缓的形势下，北京很可能不愿破坏这些往来。
South Korean politicians have said that Washington wants the Thaad system deployed by mid-May, when many expect presidential elections to be held in the South. President Park Geun-hye was impeached by South Korea's legislature in December over a corruption scandal, and she awaits a ruling by the country's Constitutional Court on whether she will be permanently removed from office. The court's decision is expected in the coming weeks, and if it rules against her, a new president will be elected 60 days later.	韩国政客称，华盛顿想让萨德系统在5月中旬之前部署完成。很多人预计韩国将在那个时候举行大选。去年12月，韩国总统朴槿惠(Park Geun-hye)因一起腐败丑闻被该国立法机构弹劾。她目前正在等待该国宪法法院就是否将她永久性免职做出裁决。法院预计会在接下来的几周做出裁决。如果法院判定她败诉，韩国将在60天内选出新总统。
South Korea's progressive opposition is seen as having a strong chance of winning the presidency should that election be held. Opposition politicians have expressed skepticism about the Thaad system, and some have charged that the United States wants to rush the deployment to ensure that it is completed before a new president takes office.	如果举行选举，韩国倡导改革的反对派被认为有很大的机会获胜。反对派政界人物对萨德系统表示怀疑，一些人还指控美国这么性急是为了确保该系统在新总统上台前完成部署。

Members of the largest opposition party, the Democratic Party, have visited China twice since August. In January, in an unusual development, a delegation from the party met with the Chinese foreign minister, Wang Yi.	自去年8月以来,韩国最大的反对党民主党(Democratic Party)的成员已两次访华。今年1月,该党的一个代表团同中国外交部长王毅举行了会面。这种事态发展不同寻常。
China had hoped it could persuade the South's next president to refuse to agree to Thaad, said Cheng Xiaohu, an associate professor of international relations at Renmin University in Beijing. "Now China is afraid Thaad will be deployed before the new president of South Korea is in office," he said.	位于北京的人民大学国际关系学院副教授成晓河说,中国本希望能说服韩国下一任总统拒绝同意部署萨德。“现在,中国害怕萨德在韩国新总统上台前就部署好了,”他说。
Even as China's fury toward the South is on full display, it is also at odds with the North. A North Korean diplomat, Ri Kil-song, arrived in Beijing on Tuesday for five days of talks, an apparent effort by Pyongyang to reach out to China, its economic and political benefactor.	在中国全面发泄对韩国的愤怒时,它和朝鲜也有矛盾。朝鲜外交官李吉圣(Ri Kil-song)周二抵达北京,参加为期五天的会谈。这似乎是平壤为向自己的经济和政治靠山中国求助而采取的行动。
Mr. Ri and Mr. Wang, the Chinese foreign minister, made soothing public statements on Wednesday about the "traditional friendship" between their two countries. Behind the scenes, though, things are unlikely to have been so smooth.	周三,李吉圣和中国外交部长王毅就两国之间的“传统友谊”发表了宽慰人心的公开声明。但在幕后,事情不太可能这么顺利。
Last month, China suspended its imports of North Korean coal for the rest of the year, a surprise move that appeared to be a response to the brazen killing in Malaysia of Kim Jong-nam, the estranged half brother of the North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un. South Korea has accused the North of carrying out the attack.	上个月,中国宣布在今年剩下的时间里暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭,这个举动出人意料,似乎是在对朝鲜领导人金正日同父异母的哥哥金正南在马来西亚遭到无情暗杀一事做出的回应。韩国指责朝鲜开展了这起暗杀行动。
The killing may have been taken as an affront by Beijing because the victim had lived in Macau, a Chinese special administrative region. Kim Jong-nam had expressed admiration for China's market economy, and	北京可能把这起暗杀事件视为冒犯,因为受害者生前住在澳门,那是中国的一个特别行政区。金正男曾对中国的市场经济表示过钦佩,一些分析人士推测,中国可能觉得他是不按常理出牌的同父异母的弟弟金正恩的潜在替代人

some analysts have speculated that China saw him as a potential replacement for his erratic half brother.	选。
"One thing after another is happening," Mr. Cheng, the Renmin University professor, said of China's simultaneous troubles with the Koreans. "Not good things — all bad things."	"事情一件接一件地发生，"中国人民大学教授成晓河谈到中国同时也在和韩国起冲突时说。"没好事——全都是坏事。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170303/china-north-south-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170303/china-north-south-korea
U.S. May Soon Increase Pressure on China to Constrain North Korea	美国将进一步向中国施压，要求其约束朝鲜
WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Rex Tillerson will warn China's leaders that the United States is prepared to step up missile defenses and pressure on Chinese financial institutions if they fail to use their influence to restrain North Korea's nuclear and missile programs, according to several officials involved in planning his first mission to Asia.	华盛顿——据几名参与制定国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)首次亚洲之行计划的官员说，蒂勒森将警告中国领导人，如果他们不利用自己的影响力来约束朝鲜的核导弹计划，美国已做好了加强导弹防御和进一步向中国金融机构施压的准备。
China has complained vociferously about the Trump administration's recent decision to speed up the deployment of the Thaad antimissile system in South Korea, charging that it will undermine regional stability.	中国一直在大声抱怨特朗普政府最近作出的加快在韩国部署“萨德”反导系统的决定，指责该系统将破坏区域稳定。
But the Trump administration's message is that the United States has run out of time to respond to North Korea's military advances, and that the party the Chinese needs to complain to is in Pyongyang.	但特朗普政府发出的信息是，美国应对朝鲜军事进展的时间不多了，中国需要向其抱怨的对象在平壤。
One senior administration official involved in the planning called it "responsible" to increase the defenses of the United States and its allies against growing threats from North Korea. The official acknowledged that doing so would displease Beijing, but noted that China has the option of helping constrain and pressure the North.	参与制定访问计划的一位政府高级官员称，加强美国及其盟国抵御来自朝鲜日益增长的威胁的做法是“负责任的”。该官员承认，这样做会使北京不悦，但他指出，中国有帮助约束朝鲜、向其施压的选择。
The official agreed to discuss the internal deliberations of Mr. Tillerson's	该官员同意讨论有关蒂勒森行程的内部讨论，但条件是不具名，因为他没有

trip on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to be identified.	实名谈论此事的授权。
The tough message was shaped in a series of White House meetings before Mr. Tillerson's departure for Japan on Tuesday. It also followed more proposals at both ends of the spectrum — including opening up talks with North Korea and preparing for military action against its key missile and nuclear sites — that were set aside, at least for now.	这个强硬信息是在蒂勒森周二离开美国前往日本之前的一系列白宫会议上形成的。这个信息也是在讨论了更多的其他建议后形成的，建议涉及到广泛的内容，包括开启与朝鲜的谈判，以及对朝鲜的关键导弹和核基地采取军事行动做准备等，这些建议至少在目前不会考虑。
The result is that Mr. Tillerson is essentially adopting variants of the approaches that the Bush and Obama administrations took, though guided by Mr. Trump's declarations that, unlike his predecessors, he will stop the North Korean program from developing a new intercontinental missile.	讨论的结果是，蒂勒森将采取的方法基本上与布什和奥巴马政府的类似，只是由于特朗普的宣布而略有变化，与其前任不同，特朗普宣布他将停止朝鲜开发新洲际导弹的计划。
Against the waves of nuclear and missile tests in the past year, and Pyongyang's declaration that it is in the "final stages" of preparations for the test of an intercontinental ballistic missile, the White House recognizes it has little time for debate, the senior administration official said.	朝鲜在过去一年里进行了多次核试验和导弹试验，平壤还宣称正处在为洲际弹道导弹试验做准备的“最后阶段”，在这种情况下，白宫认识到已经几乎没有时间进行辩论了，该政府高级官员说。
This is not the first time that a secretary of state has sought to play the missile defense card. Mr. Tillerson's immediate predecessor in the job, John Kerry, told the Chinese that if China succeeded in constraining Pyongyang's military ambitions, the United States could limit and perhaps even withdraw some of its antimissile systems in the region.	这并不是美国国务卿第一次试图打出导弹防御的牌。蒂勒森的直接前任约翰·克里曾对中国人说，如果中国能成功地约束平壤的军事野心的话，美国可以限制甚至撤走一些其在东亚地区的反导系统。
"The president of the United States deployed some additional missile defense capacity precisely because of the threat of North Korea," Mr. Kerry said after an April 2013 visit to Beijing. "And it is logical that if the	"正是由于朝鲜的威胁，美国总统才在部署一些额外的导弹防御能力，"克里在2013年4月访问北京之后曾说。"合乎逻辑的是，如果由于朝鲜半岛无核化让朝鲜的威胁消失，那么很显然，将不再存在需要采取那种做法的威胁。"

threat of North Korea disappears because the peninsula denuclearizes, then obviously that threat no longer mandates that kind of posture.”
But there is no evidence that China, perhaps fearing instability on the Korean Peninsula, ever applied the sort of pressure that would have prompted North Korea to shelve its military programs.	但没有证据表明，中国曾经施加过会促使朝鲜搁置其军事计划的压力，这或许是出于对朝鲜半岛不稳定的担心。
It is not clear how explicitly Mr. Tillerson, a diplomatic novice with no past experience in proliferation issues, will deliver the message to the Chinese at a moment that he will also be trying to set up the first meeting between President Trump and President Xi Jinping, at the Mar-a-Lago resort in Florida early next month.	目前尚不清楚的是，蒂勒森将会多明确地向中国人传递这个信息，他在外交上是新手，没有处理武器扩散问题的经验，而且他还需要在这次访问期间，试图为特朗普总统与中国国家主席习近平下月初在马阿拉歌庄园 (Mar-a-Lago) 的第一次会晤作安排。
During the presidential campaign, Mr. Trump said he was willing to sit down with North Korea’s leader, Kim Jong-un, and negotiate with him directly, perhaps over a hamburger. Since then, Mr. Trump has taken an increasingly hard line, and suggested that he would link China’s use of its influence over the North to other issues, including trade relations.	特朗普在总统竞选期间曾表示，他愿意与朝鲜领导人金正恩坐在一起，直接谈判，也许还可以边吃汉堡包边谈。不过那以后，特朗普的态度越来越强硬，并暗示他会把中国在朝鲜问题上利用自己的影响与包括贸易关系在内的其他问题联系起来。
Last week, the Chinese repeated a proposal they knew the United States would reject, calling for a freeze in North Korea’s nuclear and missile programs in return for a cessation of American and South Korean annual military exercises, which are just now beginning. The Trump administration immediately rejected that call, saying that it would reward the North if it complied with United Nations resolutions it had long ignored, and would make the United States’ defense arrangements with South Korea a subject of bargaining.	上周，中国重提了一个他们知道会被美国拒绝的建议，中国呼吁朝鲜暂停其核计划和导弹计划，作为交换，美国和韩国暂停他们的年度军事演习，演习目前刚开始。特朗普政府马上拒绝了 this 建议，称那样做是奖励朝鲜，朝鲜本该遵守被它长期忽视的联合国决议，而且那样做将让美国与韩国的防务安排成为谈判的内容。
Reinforcing military ties, Gen. Joseph F. Dunford Jr., the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, conducted a 30-minute phone call on Tuesday	联合参谋长联席会议主席小约瑟夫·F·邓福德上将 (Gen. Joseph F. Dunford Jr.) 周二与他的韩国同行李淳镇将军 (Gen. Lee Sun-jin) 通了 30 分钟的电话，

with his South Korean counterpart, Gen. Lee Sun-jin. A Pentagon statement said the generals discussed the possibility that North Korea could carry out “provocative actions” during the joint American and South Korean exercises now underway, or in April when North Korean authorities commemorate the birthday of Kim Il-sung, the founder and first leader of the country.	以加强双边的军事关系。五角大楼在一份声明中说，他两人讨论了朝鲜在美韩目前进行的联合演习期间、或在今年4月朝鲜当局纪念开国领袖金日成的生日期间采取“挑衅行动”的可能性。
The New York Times reported earlier this month that in addition to bolstering traditional missile defenses, former President Barack Obama had ordered stepped-up cyber and electronic warfare attacks on the North’s intermediate-range missiles. In some of the tests, those missiles have had a remarkably high failure rate, though it is impossible to say how much those problems are rooted in American sabotage. More recently, however, North Korea has achieved some notable advances, including the test of a solid fueled intermediate-range missile and the recent launch of four medium range missiles into the Sea of Japan.	《纽约时报》曾在本月早些时候报道，前总统奥巴马除了加强传统的导弹防御之外，还下令针对朝鲜的中程导弹计划加强网络和电子战攻击。朝鲜在中程导弹测试中，有些有相当高的失败率，虽然其中有多少是美国的破坏造成的还无从而知。但是最近，朝鲜已取得了一些显著的进步，包括成功地测试了一枚使用固体燃料的中程导弹，以及最近向日本海接连发射了四枚中程导弹。
During the administration’s deliberations, there has also been discussion of putting more pressure on Chinese banks, perhaps through “secondary sanctions,” that would make it difficult for any bank that did business with North Korea to also deal in American dollars. The technique worked effectively against Iran before it reached a nuclear agreement in the summer of 2015.	政府在讨论朝鲜问题时还讨论了向中国银行施加更多压力的做法，也许通过所谓的“次级制裁”，这会让任何与朝鲜有业务往来的银行难以从事美元业务。这个做法在2015年夏天与伊朗达成核协议之前，曾被用来有效地对付伊朗。
But Daniel L. Glaser, a former Treasury official who constructed many of the sanctions, and now a principal at the Financial Integrity Network, said in an interview that the largest Chinese banks often shun dealings with North Korea and that some of the smaller ones have little exposure	但是，前财政部官员丹尼尔·L·格拉泽(Daniel L. Glaser)在接受采访时说，中国的几家大银行通常避免与朝鲜作交易，而中国较小的银行很少与美国银行系统接触，格拉泽曾是一些这些制裁措施的设计者，现在是 Financial Integrity Network 的负责人。

to the American banking system.
"It's not easy to execute," he said. "The North Koreans have hidden these relationships, and directed them, with care."	"执行起来不容易,"他说。"朝鲜人一直在隐藏这些关系,小心翼翼地管理它们。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170316/united-states-china-north-korea-nuclear-missiles	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170316/united-states-china-north-korea-nuclear-missiles
In Australia, a Call for Closer Ties to China Gains Support	向中国靠拢的呼声在澳大利亚日渐高涨
SYDNEY, Australia — President Trump's combative phone call with Australia's prime minister and his rejection of the Trans-Pacific Partnership trade deal have left many Australians wondering whether it is time to pay less attention to the United States and engage more with China.	澳大利亚悉尼——特朗普总统与澳大利亚总理通电话时的争吵,以及他拒绝接受跨太平洋伙伴关系贸易协定的做法,让许多澳大利亚人想知道是否到了该减少关心美国、与中国更多地接触的时候了。
Stephen FitzGerald, Australia's first ambassador to China, delivered a speech on Thursday that will only amplify that debate, arguing that the world had reached the end of an era defined by European and American leadership. He called on Australia to make China its primary focus of diplomacy and economic policy and to "implant in our education the study of China and Chinese."	澳大利亚的首位驻华大使斯蒂芬·菲茨杰拉德(Stephen Fitz Gerald)周四发表的演讲,只会进一步扩大这场辩论,他认为世界上一个由欧洲和美国领导的时代已行将结束。他呼吁澳大利亚把中国作为其外交和经济政策的主要焦点,并"在我们的教育中注入中国问题研究和中文课程"。
"We are living in a Chinese world," he said. "But we don't have a relationship to match it."	"我们生活在中国的世界里,"他说。"但我们没有与之相匹配的两国关系。"
Dr. FitzGerald's comments — delivered as part of a popular lecture series known as the Gough Whitlam Oration, named after the prime minister who sent Dr. FitzGerald to China in 1973 — reflect a view that has been gaining momentum in Australia for years, but especially so since Mr. Trump's victory.	菲茨杰拉德的这番话是作为一个受欢迎的讲座系列的一部分发表的,这个名为"高夫·惠特兰演说"(Gough Whitlam Oration)的讲座系列以澳大利亚前总理的名字命名,正是这位前总理在1973年将菲茨杰拉德任命为驻华大使。菲茨杰拉德的话反映了近年来,特别是自从特朗普大选获胜以来,在澳大利亚不断增长的一种观点。
After decades of Australia sidling up to the United States, sharing	几十年来,澳大利亚一直在犹犹豫豫地跟着美国行事,与美国共享情报,在

intelligence and fighting alongside the United States in Iraq and Afghanistan, many Australians in the foreign policy and economic establishment are now questioning what some have come to describe as a complacent favoritism for American priorities in the region.	伊拉克和阿富汗与美国共同作战。现在，许多在外交政策工作和属于经济当权派的澳大利亚人正在质疑这种做法，一些人称其是对美国在该区域重点的满不在乎的偏爱。
Dr. FitzGerald, an esteemed figure in Australia whose comments on China are always closely parsed, seemed especially eager to seize on Mr. Trump's rise to argue for a shift in focus. In his remarks, at Western Sydney University, he said that Mr. Trump both threatened the old order and provided "a moment of opportunity" in which Australia could become more independent of Washington and develop the kinds of ties to Beijing that would allow Australia to moderate China's behavior in the region.	菲茨杰拉德是一位受澳大利亚人尊敬的人，人们密切注意他发表的关于中国的言论，他似乎尤其积极地抓住了特朗普崛起的机会，来争辩转移关注点的问题。他在西悉尼大学的演讲中说，特朗普既对旧秩序构成威胁，也为澳大利亚提供了一个让其变得更加独立于华盛顿的“机会时刻”，澳大利亚可以利用这个时刻发展让其能够缓和中国在该地区行为的那种与北京的关系。
He did not hold back on what he hoped Australia could affect: Dr. FitzGerald explicitly criticized China's anti-democratic tendencies, calling out the way it seeks to influence Australian politics through investments and campaign contributions. He also condemned China's efforts to control information and opinions within Australia's Chinese community.	他对他希望澳大利亚能够产生的影响毫不掩饰：菲茨杰拉德直截了当地批评了中国的反民主倾向，尤其是中国通过投资和竞选捐款来影响澳大利亚政治的做法。他还谴责了中国在澳大利亚华人社区里控制信息和意见的努力。
Noting that the Chinese government or its affiliates "now have near-monopoly control of Australia's Chinese-language print and broadcast media," Dr. FitzGerald made clear that China's controlling tendencies were a challenge to Australia's democratic values.	菲茨杰拉德指出，中国政府或其附属机构“目前对澳大利亚的中文印刷和广播媒体有近乎垄断的控制”，并明确表示，中国喜欢控制的倾向是对澳大利亚民主价值的一种挑战。
Still, he maintained that there was only one way to manage the problem: by being "close enough to have voice and influence in Beijing."	然而他坚持认为，对付这个问题的方法只有一种：就是通过“足够密切的关系，让澳大利亚在北京有声音和影响力”。

Experts in Chinese-Australian relations who largely agreed with Dr. FitzGerald's approach said that this element of his argument would inevitably raise eyebrows, and hackles, even more than his comments about Mr. Trump.	基本上同意菲茨杰拉德所建议的做法的中澳关系专家认为，他的这个说法会不可避免地引起人们的怀疑和愤怒，甚至基于他有关特朗普的言论。
"These remarks are the one of the strongest articulations yet of one strand in the Australian debate — that we should accept a Chinese-led order in Asia," said Prof. Rory Medcalf, head of the National Security College at Australian National University. "But there are also firm views within Australia to the contrary. How does Australia protect its interests and its sovereignty against Chinese power and influence?"	"这些言论是澳大利亚辩论的一个方面迄今为止最强烈的表达，既我们应该接受一种中国领导下的亚洲秩序，"澳大利亚国立大学国家安全学院院长罗里·梅卡福(Rory Medcalf)教授说。"但在澳大利亚内部也有相反的坚定观点。针对中国势力和影响，澳大利亚如何保护其自身利益和主权？"
Alan Dupont, a China analyst and fellow at the Lowy Institute for International Policy, said that Dr. FitzGerald's speech, while well reasoned, reflected the views of a lifelong Sinophile who had overestimated Australia's ability to affect China's behavior.	国际政策研究所的中国分析员兼研究员艾伦·杜邦(Alan Dupont)说，虽然菲茨杰拉德在演讲中给出了充分的理由，但演讲反映的是一位终身亲华者的观点，他过高地估计了澳大利亚影响中国行为的能力。
"The bottom line is only large countries influence other large countries," he said. "I think he's overestimating the potential to influence China."	"总之，只有大国才能影响其他大国，"杜邦说。"我觉得他高估了（澳大利亚）影响中国的潜在能力。"
He added that Dr. FitzGerald did not take into account China's possible fragility or the degree to which Australians and Americans shared common values of openness and democracy, forming the basis of an alliance that went beyond geopolitics.	他补充说，菲茨杰拉德没有考虑中国可能的脆弱性，也没有考虑澳大利亚人与美国人对开放和民主的共同价值的认可程度，这种认可所形成的联盟基础，超越了地缘政治。
"Whatever you may think of Donald Trump's values or lack of them, Donald Trump is not the United States of America," Mr. Dupont said. "As a country and a society, do we have more in common with U.S.? I think the answer is yes."	"不管你对唐纳德·特朗普的价值观、或他缺乏的价值观怎么看，唐纳德·特朗普不是美国，"杜邦说。"作为一个国家和一个社会，我们与美国有更多的共同点吗？我认为答案是肯定的。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170317/trump-us-china-relations	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170317/trump-us-china-relations

-fitzgerald	-fitzgerald
All Eyes on China as U.S. Signals New Tack on North Korea	美国对朝政策转向，中国如何回应是关键
BEIJING — Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson signaled on Friday that the Trump administration was prepared to scrap nearly a decade of United States policy toward North Korea in favor of a more aggressive effort to eliminate the country’s nuclear weapons program. Whether that means pre-emptive action, which he warned was “on the table,” will depend a great deal on how China responds.	北京——国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)周五表示，特朗普政府准备放弃近十年来的美国对朝政策，采取更加主动的方式，铲除该国的核武器计划。这是否意味着美国要采取先发制人的行动，将取决于中国如何做出回应。他警告这种行动“已经在考虑中”。
North Korea relies on Chinese trade and aid to keep its economy afloat, and China has long been unwilling to withdraw that support. Up to 40 percent of the North’s foreign currency — essential for buying goods abroad — comes from a network of about 600 Chinese companies, according to a recent study by Sayari Analytics, a Washington financial intelligence firm.	朝鲜依靠中国的贸易和援助来维持其经济活力，中国长期以来一直不愿意切断这种援助。华盛顿金融情报公司 Sayari Analytics 最近的一项研究显示，朝鲜高达 40% 的外汇都来自约 600 家中国公司。朝鲜要在海外购买商品，外汇对他们至关重要。
Mr. Tillerson went to China on Saturday, a day after saying in Seoul, South Korea, that the United States would not negotiate with North Korea on freezing its nuclear and missile programs. His interactions with his hosts in Beijing, and whether he takes a hard line with China over its support for North Korea, will be closely watched — as will be China’s response.	蒂勒森于周六抵达中国。一天之前他曾在韩国首尔表示，对于冻结朝鲜的核计划和导弹计划，美国不会与朝鲜进行谈判。人们将密切关注他在北京如何与东道主互动，对于中国为朝鲜提供支持的做法，他是否会采取强硬姿态，以及中国将做出何种反应。
A sign of the administration’s stance came on Friday as President Trump criticized both North Korea and the Chinese government. “North Korea is behaving very badly,” he said on Twitter. “They have been ‘playing’ the United States for years. China has done little to help!”	周五，特朗普批评了朝鲜和中国政府，从中可以看出政府的立场。“朝鲜的行为非常糟糕，”他在 Twitter 上说。“他们多年来一直在耍美国。中国没有帮一点儿忙！”
The Chinese leadership is likely to bristle at such criticism, but it may be	中国领导人很可能会驳斥这种批评，但考虑到朝鲜和美国似乎正在走向冲

reviewing its options, given the collision course that North Korea and the United States seem to be on.	突，中国可能正在考虑现有的选项。
Last month, Beijing showed a new willingness to punish its longtime ally when it suspended imports of North Korean coal, saying it had reached the annual limit allowed under United Nations sanctions. Customs figures later showed that China had in fact imported only about 30 percent of the quota for 2017.	上个月，北京暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭，显示他们现在愿意对其长期盟友进行惩罚。北京称进口额已达到联合国制裁允许的年度限制，但海关数据显示，中国实际上只进口了2017年配额的30%。
Yang Xiyu, a veteran Chinese diplomat involved with North Korea, said Mr. Tillerson may be able to persuade Chinese leaders to do more when he meets with them in Beijing this weekend, particularly against Chinese companies that do business with the North.	曾在中国外交部负责朝鲜半岛事务的杨希雨表示，本周末蒂勒森在北京和中国领导人会面时，可能会说服他们采取更多的行动，特别针对那些开展中朝贸易的公司。
Mr. Yang cited as a potential model the case that United States officials built last year against a Chinese executive accused of selling North Korea a chemical that can be used in nuclear-enrichment centrifuges. While Beijing was not happy about the case, it eventually accepted it. "It wasn't easy, but it was the right way to push the issue to a solution," he said.	杨希雨提到了一个潜在的方法，针对一名被指向朝鲜出售可用于核浓缩离心机的化学品的中国企业高管，美国官员去年采用了这种方法。北京对该案虽然感到不快，但最终还是接受了。“这不容易，但这是给问题找到解决方案的一个正确思路，”他说。
When the United States filed criminal charges against the businesswoman, Ma Xiaohong, the owner of the Dandong Hongxiang Industrial Development Company, other Chinese companies conducting similar transactions were apparently left untouched.	那名女商人是丹东鸿祥实业集团所有人马晓红，美国对她提起了刑事指控，其他开展类似交易的中国公司似乎未被波及。
But Mr. Yang, who was a top negotiator for China during six-nation talks with North Korea from 2003 to 2009, suggested that those companies may now be vulnerable.	但杨希雨说，这些公司现在可能会受到很大影响。在2003年至2009年与朝鲜进行六国会谈期间，杨希雨是中国的首席谈判代表。
If the United States continues to present evidence of illegal activities	他说，如果美国继续提供一些非法活动的证据，表明中国没有尽到联合国制

that contravene China's responsibilities under United Nations sanctions, "there is a great deal of room for cooperation," he said. He noted that China had published five executive orders, totaling more than 900 pages, listing items banned from export to North Korea.	裁的责任，那就“有很大的合作空间”。杨希雨还表示，中国已经颁发了五份行政命令，总共超过 900 页，列出了禁止出口到朝鲜的产品。
"Such activities violate China's adherence to those orders," he said.	"这类活动违背了中国所遵行的这些命令，"他说。
Mr. Yang added: "The United States should say, 'Let's extend our cooperation to implementation of the United Nations resolutions on sanctions.' They should say, 'Starting with the Hongxiang case, let's move forward.'"	杨希雨说：“美国应该说，‘让我们扩大合作，一起执行联合国关于制裁的决议’，他们应该说，以鸿祥案为起点，我们要继续推进’。”
In Beijing, Mr. Tillerson met with China's top foreign policy official, Yang Jiechi, and the foreign minister, Wang Yi, on Saturday. He will see President Xi Jinping on Sunday.	周六，蒂勒森在北京会见了中国最高外交政策官员杨洁篪和外交部长王毅。周日他和习近平主席见了面。
"We have committed ourselves to do everything we can to prevent a conflict from breaking out," Mr Tillerson said at a press conference after meeting Mr. Wang.	"我们已经承诺要尽一切可能防止冲突爆发，"和王毅见面后，蒂勒森在记者招待会上表示。
The secretary said China and the United States "will work together" to see if they could make North Korea take "a course correction and move away from nuclear weapons."	蒂勒森称，中国和美国“将同心协力”，看是否能够让朝鲜“调整方向，放弃核武器”。
Mr. Tillerson declined to specify the "number of steps" that would be taken to achieve that goal.	蒂勒森拒绝透露达到这个目标需采取“哪些步骤”。
Over the past quarter-century, the Chinese government has been unwilling to cripple the North Korean economy, fearing a refugee crisis or a destabilizing conflict on its border. North Korea imports virtually all of its oil from China, and cutting off the spigot could severely undermine the North Korean economy. Doing so, however, would	在过去四分之一世纪里，中国政府一直不愿影响朝鲜的经济，担心会造成难民危机或导致边境上发生破坏稳定的冲突。朝鲜的石油几乎全部进口自中国，切断供应可能会严重影响朝鲜经济。然而，这么做几乎肯定会在朝鲜造成混乱，这正是中国所担心的。

almost certainly cause chaos in North Korea, something China fears.
Round after round of economic sanctions have failed to persuade North Korea's leaders to abandon their nuclear ambitions.	一轮又一轮的经济制裁未能说服朝鲜领导人放弃核野心。
China has long justified its support for North Korea on humanitarian grounds, and rejected accusations that it has been unwilling to get tough on Pyongyang.	中国长期以人道主义为由为自己对朝鲜的支持辩护，并否认有关其不愿对平壤采取强硬态度的指责。
But with North Korea closing in on its goal of an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of delivering a nuclear payload to the United States, and the Trump administration deploying a missile defense system to South Korea that China considers a threat to its security, the Chinese leadership's calculus may be shifting.	但随着朝鲜离一枚能够将核弹头发射到美国的洲际弹道导弹越来越近，以及特朗普政府在韩国部署被中国视为安全威胁的导弹防御系统，中国领导人的考量也许正在发生变化。
"It is not a foregone conclusion that China's leaders will shelter North Korea," Anthony Ruggiero, a former United States Treasury official involved in sanctions enforcement against Pyongyang, told a congressional panel last month.	"目前还不能下结论说中国领导层会维护朝鲜，"前美国财政部官员安东尼·鲁杰罗(Anthony Ruggiero)上月对一个国会委员会这样讲道，他曾参与实施对平壤的制裁。
Mr. Ruggiero said the United States would be likeliest to achieve Chinese cooperation from a position of strength.	鲁杰罗表示，美国最有可能依靠强势的姿态实现中国的合作。
In 2013, he noted, when the Treasury blacklisted North Korea's primary foreign exchange bank for contributing to the proliferation of nuclear materials, the Bank of China, one of China's major commercial banks, immediately closed its account with the North Korean outfit.	他指出，2013年财政部将朝鲜主要的外汇银行列入黑名单时——因为它们对该国核原料扩张起到了作用——中国重要的商业银行之一中国银行立即封掉了这家朝鲜机构在该银行的账户。
Now, no major Chinese banks deal with North Korea for fear of being penalized by the United States, though smaller ones do, along with front companies operating along the North Korean border with few links to the United States financial system, according to American	美国制裁专家表示，因为害怕遭到美国惩罚，现在没有哪个中国大银行还与朝鲜打交道，尽管一些更小的银行和挂名公司还在那么做，后者在朝鲜边境运作，与美国的金融系统几乎没什么关联。 sanctions experts.

"This is a good example of China acting to cut off North Korea's activities inside China when those actions threaten China's economic interests," Mr. Ruggiero said of the Bank of China's severance of its North Korea connections.	"这是一个很好的例子，可以证明当朝鲜在中国境内的活动威胁到中国经济利益时，中国便会采取行动切断它们，"鲁杰罗指的是中国银行切断与朝鲜的联系这一举措。
A more recent episode that could serve as a model came last week, when the United States Department of Commerce fined ZTE, one of China's biggest technology companies, $1.19 billion for breaking sanctions and selling electronics to Iran and North Korea.	更近期的一件事也可以作为例子，上周美国商务部(United States Department of Commerce)对中国最大的技术公司之一中兴通讯处以 11.9 亿美元罚金，原因是它违反制裁规定，向伊朗和朝鲜销售电子产品。
"This is what the U.S. should be doing, but finding it out ain't easy," said Stephan Haggard, a visiting fellow at the Peterson Institute for International Economics, which is based in Washington. "I think that Commerce pretty much had a gun to ZTE's head."	"这才是美国应该做的事，但找到它并不容易，"华盛顿彼得森国际经济研究所(Peterson Institute for International Economics)的客座研究员斯蒂芬·哈格德(Stephan Haggard)说。"我觉得商务部基本上是用一把枪对准了中兴通讯的脑袋。"
Officials in the Trump administration have discussed putting pressure on Chinese banks through "secondary sanctions," which would make it hard for any bank that did business with the North to also deal in American dollars. That technique worked against Iran, helping to force it to the negotiating table over its own nuclear program.	特朗普政府的官员们讨论过，通过二级制裁(secondary sanctions)对中国的银行施压，这种制裁会让任何与朝鲜有商业往来的银行都难以用美元进行交易。这项策略也被用于针对伊朗，可以迫使它就自身的核项目进行谈判。
But such measures are likely to have much less impact in North Korea, which is already isolated, than they did in Iran, a major trading nation, sanctions experts said.	但制裁专家们表示，相比于贸易大国伊朗，此类措施对朝鲜的影响力可能没有那么小，因为它本就处在与外界隔绝的状态。
"North Korea has one of the smallest international trade profiles on earth," said Joseph M. DeThomas, a former American ambassador who served as a State Department adviser on Iran and North Korea sanctions. "North Korea often has to end-run the entire financial system	"朝鲜是世界上国际贸易量最少的国家之一，"曾担任国务院伊朗和朝鲜制裁问题顾问的前美国大使约瑟夫·M·德托马(Joseph M. DeThomas)说。"朝鲜往往必须规避整个美国金融系统才能实现资金转移。他们采用老式的方法：派人带着装满钱的手提箱乘飞机运送。"

to move money. They do things the old-fashioned way: sending guys on airplanes with suitcases full of money.”
In an opinion article this week in The New York Times, a former United States deputy secretary of state, Antony J. Blinken, said the Obama administration had quietly pressed countries to eject North Korean workers whose remittances help fund the country’s military. He did not say how successful that effort had been. Tens of thousands of such workers are employed in China’s northeastern cities like Dandong and Hunchun, along the North Korean border.	前美国副国务卿安东尼·J·布林肯(Antony J. Blinken)本周在《纽约时报》发表评论文章称,奥巴马政府已经悄悄迫使多个国家驱逐汇款支持朝鲜军事发展的朝鲜务工者。他没有表示这项努力取得了多大的成功。在丹东和琿春等中国东北靠近朝鲜边境沿线的城市,有数万名这样的受雇人员。
But Marcus Noland, of the Peterson Institute for International Economics, said he believed the organized export of labor earned the North Korean government less than has often been reported — hundreds of millions of dollars per year, probably less than half a billion, he said. “The next time you hear the claim of $2 billion annual earnings from the organized export of labor, remember not to believe everything you hear,” he said.	然而华盛顿彼得森国际经济研究所(Peterson Institute for International Economics)的马库斯·诺兰(Marcus Noland)表示,他认为有组织的劳工出口让朝鲜政府获得的利益少于通常被报道的数量——他说,每年有数亿美元,可能不超过5亿。“下一次你听到有组织劳工出口获得20亿美元年收入的说法,记住不要照单全收,”他说。
Far more has been contributed in foreign currency by Chinese companies doing trade across the border, said Jessica Knight, director of analysis at Sayari Analytics. “Customs data indicates more than $8 billion in cross-border trade between China and North Korea since 2013, much of it in commodities like coal and steel,” she said.	萨亚里分析(Sayari Analytics)公司分析部门主管杰西卡·奈特(Jessica Knight)表示,越境交易的中国公司为之贡献的外汇资金要多得多。“海关数据显示,自2013年以来,中国与朝鲜之间的跨境贸易量超过了80亿美元,其中大部分是煤炭和钢铁等大宗商品,”她说。
Whether any sanctions at all will deter the North from its nuclear pursuits is far from clear. The former United States defense secretary William J. Perry, who dealt with the North Korean problem during the Clinton administration, said on Friday in Beijing that he doubted they	目前还远远无法确定,是否有什么制裁措施可以阻止朝鲜继续发展核武器。在克林顿政府时期与负责应对朝鲜问题的美国前国防部长威廉·J·佩里(William J. Perry)周五在北京表示,他对这些措施能起到阻止朝鲜的作用持怀疑态度。

would.
"We have sanctioned them a hundred times, and it didn't stop developing nuclear weapons," he said. "They seem to be prepared to suffer economic deprivation for the people so they can achieve the preservation of the regime, which they think that nuclear weapons is going to do for them."	"我们已经制裁他们上百次了，这并没有阻止朝鲜发展核武器，"他说。"他们似乎已经做好准备，让民众承受经济上的贫困，以便维持其政权，他们认为核武器会帮他们做到这一点。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170320/all-eyes-on-china-as-us-signals-new-tack-on-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170320/all-eyes-on-china-as-us-signals-new-tack-on-north-korea
Rex Tillerson and Xi Jinping Meet in China and Emphasize Cooperation	蒂勒森与习近平会面，强调美中合作
Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson and President Xi Jinping of China cast aside their differences on Sunday with a public display of cooperation, sidestepping areas of disagreement even as North Korea made another defiant statement by showing off a new missile engine.	周日，美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)和中国国家主席习近平摒弃分歧，用公开展示合作的方式回避两国意见不一的领域，而朝鲜恰在此时通过炫耀一个新导弹发动机，又一次做出蔑视的声明。
In the highest-level face-to-face meeting between the two countries since Donald J. Trump became president, the two sides made no mention of other contentious issues, including possible punitive trade measures against China and Washington's unhappiness with Beijing's assertiveness in the South China Sea.	在自唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)担任总统以来中美两国之间最高级别的面对面会晤上，双方没有提及其他有争议的问题，包括可能对中国采取的惩罚性贸易措施，以及北京在南中国海的坚定自信令华盛顿不悦。
Mr. Xi, greeting the new secretary of state in an ornate room in the Great Hall of the People, thanked Mr. Tillerson for a smooth transition to the Trump administration and expressed his appreciation for the sentiment that "the China-U.S. relationship can only be defined by cooperation and friendship."	习近平在人民大会堂的一个华丽大厅里欢迎了这位新上任的国务卿，并感谢蒂勒森在特朗普政府顺利过渡中的作用，也对其"定义美中关系的只能是合作和友好"的观点表示赞赏。
At least in public, Mr. Tillerson adopted a far different tone than that of his boss, who said in a Twitter post on Friday that China had "done little	蒂勒森至少在公开场合用了与自己的上司完全不同的语调，特朗普周五在Twitter发的一个帖子中说，中国在朝鲜问题上"没有帮助"，而不是说美国期

to help” on North Korea, instead saying that the United States looked forward to stronger ties with China.	待与中国建立更密切的关系。
China has been North Korea’s biggest backer, but relations between the two countries have been strained as the North continues to pursue the development of nuclear weapons. Hours before the meeting between Mr. Tillerson and Mr. Xi, North Korea stuck its nose under the tent, announcing that it had tested a new high-thrust missile engine that analysts said could be used in an intercontinental missile.	中国一直是朝鲜最大的支持者，但随着朝鲜继续走发展核武器的道路，两国关系已处于紧张状态。就在蒂勒森与习近平会面的几小时前，朝鲜对这次会面插了一脚，宣布已经测试了一个新的高推力导弹发动机，分析人士说，这种发动机可以用于洲际导弹。
The test, apparently timed for Mr. Tillerson’s visit to Beijing, was another sign that North Korea was expanding its missile capabilities, with state media reporting that the country’s leader, Kim Jong-un, had presided over an event of “historic significance.”	进行测试的时间显然与蒂勒森访问北京的日子相吻合，这是朝鲜扩大其导弹能力的又一迹象，朝鲜的官方媒体报道说，该国领导人金正恩主持了一场具有“历史意义”的活动。
By testing the engine on Saturday, the North Korean leader appeared to be giving China an additional headache by goading Mr. Tillerson, who said in South Korea on Friday that if the North elevated its threat, a pre-emptive strike by the United States would be on the table.	朝鲜领导人在周六测试这个发动机，看来是要通过招惹蒂勒森来给中国制造更多的头痛，蒂勒森曾于周五在韩国表示，如果朝鲜将其威胁升级的话，美国会考虑先发制人的行动。
The missile engine test created the “perfect test” of the red line drawn by Mr. Tillerson in Seoul, said Evans J. R. Revere, a former principal deputy assistant secretary of state, specializing in North Korea.	美国国务院前朝鲜问题高级官员李维亚(Evans J. R. Revere)说，导弹发动机的测试对蒂勒森在首尔画下的红线是一个“完美的检验”。
Mr. Kim said in January that North Korea was in the final stages of preparing for an ICBM test, a missile that could reach the United States. “Based on what just happened at the test site, he doesn’t seem to have been kidding,” Mr. Revere said.	金正恩曾在今年1月表示，朝鲜正处于进行洲际弹道导弹测试准备的最后阶段，这是一种可到达美国的导弹。“从测试基地刚刚发生的事情来看，他看来不是在开玩笑，”李维亚说。
During his 24-hour stay in Beijing, Mr. Tillerson, who also visited Japan during his first trip to Asia as secretary of state, took the unusual step of	这是蒂勒森担任国务卿后首次访问亚洲，他也去了日本，在北京逗留的24小时期间，蒂勒森异乎寻常地重复了中国对中美关系状态使用的美好辞令。

repeating rosy Chinese language on the state of relations between the United States and China.
The relationship between China and the United States was guided by "nonconflict, nonconfrontation, mutual respect and win-win cooperation," Mr. Tillerson said at a news conference with Foreign Minister Wang Yi. Chinese state media quoted Mr. Tillerson's echo of the Chinese phrasing, noting it approvingly in stories about his visit.	中美关系是以“不冲突不对抗、相互尊重、合作共赢的精神”为指导的，蒂勒森在与外交部长王毅举行的联合记者会上说。中国官方媒体引用了蒂勒森重复的这种中国说法，并在对他来访的报道中予以赞扬。
But behind the scenes, diplomats and analysts said there was little doubt that Mr. Tillerson had pressed China to enforce sanctions against North Korea and had raised the possibility that the United States would bolster its missile defense in Asia if China did not rein in Mr. Kim.	但外交官和分析人士说，几乎没有疑问的是，蒂勒森在非公开场合向中国施加了压力，让其加强对朝鲜的制裁，并提到了美国在亚洲加强导弹防御的可能性，如果中国对金正恩不加约束的话。
China strongly objects to the installation in South Korea of a missile defense system there, and the polite public words from Mr. Tillerson were designed to give China "face," said a diplomat in Beijing who spoke on the condition of anonymity per usual diplomatic custom.	中国强烈反对在韩国安装导弹防御系统，蒂勒森礼貌的公开言论是为了给中国“面子”，一位在北京的外交官说，该人按照通常的外交习惯要求匿名。
Mr. Tillerson was almost certainly sterner in private, according to the diplomat. "I believe Tillerson repeated in the meetings what he said publicly in South Korea and Japan, and backed up Trump in his tweet," the diplomat said.	据这位外交官的说法，几乎可以肯定蒂勒森在私下使用的语言更严厉。这位外交官说，“我相信蒂勒森在会面中重复他在韩国和日本的公开说法，支持了特朗普在其推文中的表述。”
That meant some public warmth was necessary, he said, because aside from talking about North Korea, Mr. Tillerson also had the task of setting a broad agenda for a summit meeting between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi that is expected to take place in Florida in early April.	这意味着有必要有一些公开的温和表示，他说，因为除了讨论朝鲜问题，蒂勒森还有一个任务，就是为特朗普与习近平的会面设立一个广泛的议程，这两位领导人的首脑会议预计将于4月上旬在佛罗里达州举行。
At the summit meeting, China is expected to seek a reaffirmation of the "One China" policy under which the United States recognizes a single	中国预计会在首脑会议上寻求再次确定“一个中国”的政策，也就是美国承认北京是唯一的政府，不与台湾建立外交关系。

government in Beijing and does not maintain diplomatic ties with Taiwan.
Mr. Trump committed to that policy in a telephone conversation with Mr. Xi in early February, but Chinese leaders, on edge about the president's unpredictability, are eager to nail that down even more clearly. Mr. Trump's trade team is expected to be in place by the time Mr. Xi reaches Florida, and the Chinese will be eager to deter plans for tariffs and moves toward more stringent scrutiny of Chinese investment in the United States.	特朗普在2月初与习近平通电话时表示认同这项政策，但中国领导人出于对这位美国总统的不可预测性的不安，渴望在这个问题上有更明确的表示。习近平抵达佛罗里达时，特朗普的贸易团队预计也已落实到位，中国人将急于阻止关税以及更加严格地审查中国在美国投资的计划。
Chinese analysts said the secretary probably encountered resistance to his arguments that the missile defense system, known as Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or Thaad, was of little danger to China, which firmly believes the system erodes its nuclear deterrent.	中国的分析人士说，国务卿在解释名为“末端高空防御系统”(Terminal High Altitude Area Defense system, 简称“萨德”)的导弹防御系统对中国没有危险时遇到阻力，中国坚信该系统损害了自己的核威慑力。
"Tillerson will repeat many times this is no threat to China, but Xi won't believe it," said Shi Yinhong, a professor of international relations at Renmin University.	中国人民大学国际关系教授时殷弘说：“蒂勒森会一再重复，这对中国没有威胁，但习近平不会相信。”
The best chance for cooperation on North Korea might come with China deciding to more dutifully enforce some economic sanctions, Mr. Shi said.	时殷弘说，在朝鲜问题上合作的最佳机会，可能会在中国决定更尽职地执行某些经济制裁措施后到来。
That would be a relatively small price to pay the Americans for a smooth summit meeting in Florida, although it would further hurt China's already strained ties with North Korea, he said.	他说，这样做是为在佛罗里达州举行平稳的首脑会议而付给美国人的一个相对较小的代价，虽然这会进一步伤害已经紧张的中朝关系。
"Maybe Xi will broaden the punishment against North Korea somewhat, at the cost of further damaging relations with North Korea," Mr. Shi said. "We have punished North Korea many times, and Kim Jong-un hates	“习近平也许会在某种程度上加大对朝鲜的惩罚，代价是进一步损害与朝鲜的关系，”时殷弘说。“我们已多次惩罚朝鲜，金正恩越来越憎恨中国。中国也许会采取一些小步骤关闭一些贸易公司，但不会关闭所有的。”

China more and more. Maybe China will take some small steps to shut down a few trading companies, but not all.”
China keeps the rudimentary North Korean economy running by supplying almost all its oil, and there was little chance Mr. Xi would consider shutting down the pipeline, even though China abruptly halted imports of North Korea’s coal last month, ending a valuable source of foreign currency for the leadership in Pyongyang.	中国通过向朝鲜供应几乎其所需的所有石油，维持着朝鲜初级经济的运行，但是，习近平会考虑关闭输油管道的可能性极小，虽然中国上月突然决定暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭，切断了平壤领导人的一个宝贵的外汇来源。
“China won’t turn the sanctions from targeting the North Korean nuclear program into a punishment for ordinary North Korean people,” The Global Times, a state-run newspaper that often reflects official thinking, said on Friday.	“中国不会把针对朝鲜核计划的制裁变为对全体朝鲜人民的惩罚，”《环球时报》周五说，这是一份经常反映官方思想的国有报纸。
But on the eve of Mr. Tillerson’s visit to Beijing, a Washington-based research organization specializing in nuclear matters released a study that it said showed China was not enforcing the sanctions aimed at the nuclear program.	但是，就在蒂勒森访问北京的前夕，一家专门研究核问题的华盛顿研究机构发布了一项研究报告，该机构在报告中称，中国并没有执行针对朝鲜核计划的制裁。
China had allowed large quantities of materials used to make a component of hydrogen bombs to pass through its borders to the North, according to the research group, the Institute for Science and International Security.	据科学与国际安全研究所(Institute for Science and International Security)的这份报告，中国让制造氢弹的一个组成部分所需的大批材料经过自己的边界进入朝鲜。
A newly operating plant in North Korea that produced a key ingredient for hydrogen bombs was a glaring example of China ignoring sanctions, the group said.	该研究机构说，朝鲜一家生产氢弹关键部分的工厂新近开工，是中国无视制裁的一个明显例子。
The study found that a plant producing lithium 6 — used in the manufacture of hydrogen bombs that are more powerful than conventional nuclear weapons — was located at a chemical complex	研究发现了一家生产锂6的工厂，它在位于朝鲜东海岸的一个化工基地，锂6被用于制造比常规核武器更强大的氢弹。

on the North's east coast.
North Korea had purchased mercury and lithium hydroxide in China, and the items had been transported across the border, the president of the institute, David Albright, said. The two commodities are needed for the production of lithium 6, he said.	朝鲜在中国购买了汞和氢氧化锂，并把这些物品跨过边境运回国内，研究所所长戴维·奥尔布赖特(David Albright)说。他说，这两种商品是生产锂6所需要的。
A recent report by a United Nations Security Council panel of experts on how North Korea skirts sanctions said that the government was attempting to sell lithium 6, an indication that the country was not just producing the material but making more than it needed.	联合国安理会的一个专家小组在最近发布的一份关于朝鲜如何躲避制裁的报告中说，朝鲜政府正在试图出售锂6，这表明，该国不仅在生产这种材料，而且产量高出本国的需求。
"Until today, North Korea has been able to advance its nuclear programs by buying in China, having little fear of having controlled or uncontrolled nuclear related goods stopped prior to reaching North Korea," Mr. Albright said. "One hopes the Trump administration will succeed in pressing China to take the types of enforcement steps against commodity trafficking taken years ago in the West."	"直到今天，朝鲜一直能够推进自己的核计划，因为它能在中国购买材料，而且几乎不用担心这些受控制或不受控制的核相关物品在进入朝鲜之前受阻，"奥尔布赖特说。"希望特朗普政府能成功地迫使中国采取打击这种商品贩运的执法措施，这类措施在西方已实行多年了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170320/rex-tillerson-xi-jinping-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170320/rex-tillerson-xi-jinping-north-korea
Australian Vote on Extradition Treaty With China Is Canceled	中澳关系升温遇考验，引渡条约再遭搁置
SYDNEY, Australia — Prime Minister Malcolm Turnbull canceled a parliamentary vote to ratify an extradition treaty with China on Tuesday after opposition lawmakers said they would not support it, and after some members of Mr. Turnbull's own Liberal Party expressed concern about moving forward.	澳大利亚悉尼——周二，澳大利亚总理马尔科姆·特恩布尔(Malcolm Turnbull)在反对党议员表示不会支持、他自己所在的自由党(Liberal Party)部分成员对前景表示担忧后，取消了就批准与中国的引渡条约举行的议会投票。
It was a significant symbolic and public rejection, suggesting that even though relations between China and Australia have warmed since	这是一次具有重要象征意义的公开拒绝，表明尽管中澳关系在美国总统特朗普上台后升温，但澳大利亚对中国严厉的法律制度和人权纪录的担忧，依然

President Trump took office in the United States, Australia's concerns about China's repressive legal system and human rights record will continue to limit how close the two countries become.	会限制这两个国家的亲密程度。
"What's clear now is that even Donald Trump is not enough to encourage Australia into a full strategic embrace of China," said Rory Medcalf, head of the National Security College at Australian National University. "There is a kind of a comprehensive reality check going on."	"现在清楚了，即便是唐纳德·特朗普也不足以让澳大利亚在战略上完全投入中国的怀抱，"澳大利亚国立大学国家安全学院(National Security College at Australian National University)的院长罗里·梅德卡尔夫(Rory Medcalf)说。"澳大利亚正在全面核实现状。"
China has been waiting a decade since the extradition treaty was signed for it to be passed, and the decision not to put it to a ratification vote may have surprised the country's leaders. The Chinese premier, Li Keqiang, had left Australia just two days earlier with several new trade deals and mostly positive news coverage.	自该引渡条约签署以来，中国等它获得通过等了10年，不举行批准投票的决定可能会令中国领导人感到意外。中国总理李克强两天前刚带着多项新签署的贸易协议和基本正面的新闻报道离开澳大利亚。
And yet, the treaty's prospects may have been shaped not just by Mr. Li's visit but by the case of Feng Chongyi, a Chinese-born professor at an Australian university who has criticized Beijing's crackdown on political dissent. Over the weekend, Mr. Feng was barred from leaving China and questioned by state security officers as a possible threat to national security, raising concerns in Australia about the reach and focus of China's legal system.	但导致该协议前景受到影响的，可能不仅是李克强的访问，还有冯崇义一事。冯崇义出生于中国，现为澳大利亚某大学的教授，一直对北京打压政治异见人士持批评态度。周末，冯崇义被禁止离开中国，并因可能对国家安全造成威胁而受到国安人员的讯问。此事在澳大利亚引起了对中国法律制度的势力范围和侧重点的担忧。
Some Chinese dissidents in Australia said that if China could hold Mr. Feng — a Chinese citizen but with permanent residence status in Australia, and a wife and children who are Australian citizens — others could be subject to extradition demands on national security charges that Australia would be unable to verify.	一些在澳中国异见人士称，如果中国能够扣留冯崇义——中国国籍，但拥有澳大利亚的永久居住权，妻子和孩子均为澳大利亚国籍——其他人也可能被中国以澳大利亚无法核实的国家安全的罪名要求引渡。
"What we're worried about is that some activists could be charged," said	"我们担心的是一些活动人士可能会受到指控，"2005年出走的前中国驻悉

Chen Yonglin, a former official at the Chinese Consulate in Sydney, Australia, who defected in 2005.	尼总领事馆官员陈用林说。
He added that the Chinese government also wanted the extradition treaty to extend its anticorruption campaign to Chinese businesspeople in Australia.	他接着表示，中国政府还想用该条约把反腐运动扩大到在澳大利亚的中国商人身上。
"The regime will gain more control," Mr. Chen said. "That's why they've repeatedly demanded that Australia pass it."	"这个政权将获得更大控制权，"陈用林说。"这就是他们反复要求澳大利亚通过条约的原因。"
The wish for swift approval remained undimmed in China. "We hope that Australia will look at it from a broader bilateral perspective and continue to advance its domestic process so that this extradition treaty can come into effect as soon as possible," said Hua Chunying, a spokeswoman for the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs, when asked in Beijing about the cancellation of the vote.	在中国国内，对条约迅速获得批准的愿望依然没有减退。"希望澳方从双边关系大局出发，继续推进相关国内程序，使条约尽快生效，"中国外交部发言人华春莹在北京被问及投票取消一事时说。
Mr. Turnbull's government insisted on Tuesday that the treaty would give Australia the ability to block extradition for those who might face execution or torture, while assisting Australia's efforts to fight drug smuggling and other crimes.	特恩布尔领导的政府周二坚称，该条约将让澳大利亚有能力阻止那些可能会面临处决或严刑拷打的人被引渡，同时也有助于澳大利亚打击毒品走私和其他犯罪的行动。
"It is in Australia's national interest to ensure that we can send back to China those who have committed crimes, subject to the significant safeguards that we have in place," said Julie Bishop, Australia's foreign minister. She added that officials would continue to try to work with opposition lawmakers to bring the treaty back for a vote.	"确保我们能把那些犯了罪，却享有我们现有大量保护的人送回中国符合澳大利亚的国家利益，"澳大利亚外长朱莉·毕晓普(Julie Bishop)说。她接着表示，官方会继续尝试与反对派议员合作，以便重新让该条约接受投票。
Michael Fullilove, executive director of the Lowy Institute for International Policy, a think tank in Sydney, said the withdrawal of the treaty represented a pause in the warming of relations between the two	悉尼智库洛伊国际政策研究所(Lowy Institute for International Policy)执行董事迈克尔·富利洛夫(Michael Fullilove)表示，收回该条约代表两国关系的升温暂停。 countries.

He argued that Australia was experiencing a moment of reconsideration about how to relate to China at a time when the United States had become more unpredictable.	他认为，在美国变得更加不可预测之际，澳大利亚正在经历一个重新考虑如何跟中国打交道的时刻。
“Any extradition treaty is a very sensitive issue, because it involves human beings in our custody, and you have to have confidence in the other country’s rule of law,” Mr. Fullilove said. “Both the Feng Chongyi case and the extradition treaty remind us of the very clear differences of our political systems – which, to me, impose a limit on the intimacy that the relationship will ever achieve.”	“任何引渡条约都是一个非常敏感的问题，因为它涉及受我们保护的人，你必须对另一个国家的法治有信心，”富利洛夫说。“冯崇义一事和引渡条约都提醒我们，我们之间的政治制度有着非常明显的不同。在我看来，这些不同限制了澳中关系能够达到的亲密程度。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170329/malcolm-turnbull-china-extradition-treaty	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170329/malcolm-turnbull-china-extradition-treaty
No Deal Between Kushners and Chinese Company Over Fifth Avenue Skyscraper	安邦集团与特朗普女婿家族企业终止谈判
A Chinese company with ownership ties to some of the Communist Party’s leading families has ended talks to invest billions of dollars in a Manhattan office tower owned by the family of Jared Kushner, President Trump’s son-in-law and a senior White House aide.	与一些共产党领导家族存在所有权关系的一家中国公司终止了向曼哈顿一栋办公大楼投资数十亿美元的谈判，该大楼的所有者是特朗普总统的女婿、白宫高级助理贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)的家族。
The Chinese financial conglomerate, Anbang Insurance Group, and the Kushner Companies “mutually agreed to end talks regarding the property,” a Kushner Companies spokesman said in an emailed statement on Wednesday. The development came days after Democratic lawmakers wrote letters to the Office of White House Counsel and Treasury Secretary, expressing concern that the possible deal could breach federal ethics rules, and as Mr. Trump is preparing to	库什纳公司(Kushner Companies)的发言人周三在一封电邮声明中表示，中国的金融企业安邦保险集团和库什纳公司“双方同意终止关于该物业的谈判”。就在数日前，民主党议员写信给白宫法律顾问办公室和财政部长，表达对该交易可能违反联邦伦理法规的担忧，而特朗普正准备在他位于佛罗里达州的马阿拉歌庄园(Mar-a-Lago)举办与中国主席习近平的首次峰会。

meet Xi Jinping, China's president, for their first summit at Mr. Trump's Mar-a-Lago resort in Florida.
The possible $4-billion deal between the two companies, first reported by The New York Times in January, would have paired a company led by a man who married the granddaughter of China's late paramount leader, Deng Xiaoping, with the family company of Mr. Kushner, a principal White House adviser on foreign affairs, including China policy.	《纽约时报》今年1月份率先报道了这两家公司可能达成一桩40亿美元的交易,这将是 中国已故最高领导人邓小平的外孙女婿领导的公司与白宫主要外交事务(包括中国政策)顾问库什纳的家族企业之间的配对。
Any deal faced headwinds on both sides of the Pacific Ocean. In the United States, it was subject to increasing scrutiny by lawmakers, who also called on the government committee that reviews overseas investment to scrutinize the agreement for possible national security issues. In China, government regulators are trying to stanch the loss of foreign exchange reserves, and are wary of signing off on multibillion dollar deals in industries, such as commercial real estate, not deemed to have strategic value.	这桩交易在太平洋两岸都面临阻碍。在美国,它面临立法者日益严密的关注,他们呼吁审查海外投资的政府委员会从国家安全角度审议这个协议。而在中国,政府监管机构正试图遏制外汇储备的流失,对在商业地产等行业签订数十亿美元的交易怀有戒心,认为这些交易不具有战略价值。
Plans for the redevelopment, which envisioned gutting the aging office tower and erecting a soaring glass-sheathed tower with luxury residences, a hotel and retail spaces designed by the late architect Zaha Hadid, will now require a new investor.	重建计划希望将老化的办公楼内部拆除,重新竖起一座高耸的玻璃外墙塔楼,提供高级公寓、一家酒店和零售店铺,新大楼的设计者是已故建筑师扎哈·哈迪德(Zaha Hadid);现在,该计划需要找到一个新的投资者。
"Kushner Companies remains in active, advanced negotiations around 666 5th Avenue with a number of potential investors," the company spokesman said in a statement. A spokesman for Anbang declined to comment.	"库什纳公司仍然就第五大道666号与一些潜在投资者进行积极的深入谈判。"该公司发言人在一份声明中说。而安邦发言人拒绝置评。
The end of the talks between Anbang and the Kushner Companies was first reported by the New York Post.	《纽邦邮报》率先报道了安邦与库什纳公司终止谈判的消息。

Mr. Kushner was the company president when the plan to redevelop the family's flagship building, which serves as the company headquarters, was drawn up. On Jan. 19 he stepped down from that role and he has since sold his stake in the building to a family trust.	这栋楼是库什纳家族企业的总部，也是他们的旗舰大楼，重建计划制定的时候，库什纳是公司总裁。从1月19日起，他不再担任这个职位，他在这栋建筑物中的股份已经出售给了一个家庭信托基金。
"Fifth Avenue is synonymous with luxury and opulence of the highest standards in the world," Mr. Kushner wrote in a brochure for the project. "This design will transform Fifth Avenue in a city that is continuously reinventing itself."	"第五大道是世界上最高标准的豪华和奢侈的同义词。"库什纳在该项目的小册子中写道："在一个不断重塑自己的城市中，这个设计将改变第五大道的面貌。"
But the Kushners' plan to transform 666 Fifth, a 41-story aluminum-clad office tower into a bullet-shaped, 74-story luxury skyscraper required billions of dollars, many years of development and a leap of faith from investors.	但是，库什纳公司将第五大道666号41层铝合金外表的办公楼改建成一座子弹形74层豪华摩天大楼的计划，需要数十亿美元的资金、多年的开发过程，以及投资者暴增的信心。
The family paid a record-setting $1.8 billion for the tower in 2007, in a move that the Kushners hoped would symbolize their transformation from an operator of suburban garden apartments to a major real estate player in Manhattan, the most lucrative and treacherous market in the country.	库什纳家族在2007年花了创纪录的18亿美元，买下这座塔楼，希望此举象征着他们从郊区花园公寓经营者转变为曼哈顿的一个主要房地产业者——这是美国利润最高、风险最大的市场。
But the cash flow from 666 Fifth only covered two-thirds of the annual debt service on the property. The Kushners quickly ran into financial problems; instead of heading steadily skyward, the real estate market and the country fell into a steep recession.	但是，666号的年现金流量只及该物业年债务清偿额的三分之二。这个家族很快就遇到了财务麻烦；房地产市场和美国经济没有在稳步前进，而是陷入萧条。
"History has looked back on it as one of the more frothy top-of-the-market deals," said Jed Reagan, a senior analyst at Green Street Advisors, a real estate research firm.	房地产调研公司绿街顾问(Green Street Advisors)的高级分析师杰德·里根(Jed Reagan)说："从历史上说，它是泡沫最大的高端市场交易之一。"
The Kushners sold portions of the building's retail space on Fifth	该家族将这栋建筑物在第五大道的零售空间部分出售给投资者，将办公空间

Avenue to investors, gave up a 49.5 percent stake in the office space to Vornado Realty Trust and renegotiated the terms of the debt. But the building is still losing millions of dollars a year, in part because the owners were no longer leasing office space as it became vacant in preparation for a complete redevelopment of the property.	的 49.5%的股份出售给了沃纳多房地产信托公司(Vornado Realty Trust), 并重新谈判了债务条款。但是, 这座建筑每年仍然亏损数以百万计美元, 部分原因是业主不再出租办公空间, 将房屋空置, 为完全重建做准备。
Mr. Kushner and his father Charles began showing potential investors a "white book," which laid out their vision for tearing down the blocky building to make way for the much taller, glassier skyscraper designed by Ms. Hadid.	库什纳和父亲查尔斯(Charles)开始向潜在的投资者展示一份白皮书, 其中阐述了他们的想法: 把这栋方块建筑拆掉, 以哈迪德设计的更高、采用更多玻璃的摩天大楼取而代之。
The book portrayed a tower made up of a 9-story retail base, an 8-story, 150-room hotel, 55 stories of ultra-luxury condominiums, topped by a sky deck. The Kushners also renamed the tower 660 Fifth, casting aside the "666" reference that some people may connect with the number for Satan in the Bible's Book of Revelations.	这份白皮书中描绘的塔楼下面是 9 层的零售店面, 上面是一座 8 层、有 150 间客房的酒店, 以及 55 层的超豪华公寓组成, 顶层是观景台。而且建筑名字也会改成第五大道 660 号, 因为"666"可能会让一些人联想到《圣经启示录》中撒旦的号码。
The financial summary in the white book described the redevelopment as a $6.7 billion project. It would take at least seven years to demolish the existing building, erect the new tower and sell the condominiums. Using what many real estate experts described as "aggressive projections," the Kushners estimate that the project would generate $11.2 billion in revenues and leave the owners with a $4.5 billion profit.	在白皮书的财务摘要中, 指出重建费用为 67 亿美元。拆除现有建筑、修建新的塔楼并出售公寓至少需要 7 年时间。该家族估计该项目将产生 112 亿美元的收入, 给所有者带来 45 亿美元的利润, 很多房地产专家称此为"大胆的预测"。
But the Kushners and the investors would need to come up with $6.7 billion in acquisition and development costs and wait years before revenue started flowing. And they were asking investors to put up the money at a time when the luxury market for condominiums, retail and hotels has slowed.	但是, 该家族和投资者需要拿出 67 亿美元的收购和开发成本, 而且要等待很多年才会见到营收。而且他们是在公寓、零售和酒店的奢侈品市场放缓的时候让投资者拿钱。

Mr. Reagan said the building had a great location, but he described the proposal as a "risky project" headed for an uncertain future.	里根说，这座建筑的位置很好，但他说这个计划是“风险项目”，未来很不确定。
The Kushners made the case to investors that 666 Fifth was one of the most valuable locations in the city. Real estate executives said the project might appeal to foreign investors with "patient money" and reasons other than economic for buying a piece of Manhattan real estate.	该家族向投资者宣传说，第五大道 666 号是纽约最有价值的地点之一。房地产业的高管们表示，该项目可能会吸引一些外国投资者，他们或者拥有“耐心资金”，或者出于经济之外的原因，希望在曼哈顿购买一块房地产。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170330/talks-end-between-kushners-and-chinese-company	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170330/talks-end-between-kushners-and-chinese-company
A Veteran and China Hand Advises Trump for Xi's Visit	驻华记者出身的白宫高参将出席中美峰会
WASHINGTON — A dozen years ago, Matthew Pottinger was roughed up by a Chinese state security guard while investigating a corporate corruption case. This week, Mr. Pottinger will be on hand for President Trump's meeting with President Xi Jinping of China, as the top Asia policy maker in an administration desperately short of his kind of on-the-ground experience.	华盛顿——十几年前，马修·波廷格(Matthew Pottinger)在调查商业腐败案件时被一名中国国家安全人员殴打。本周，他将以特朗普政府的最高亚洲政策制定者身份出席特朗普总统与中国国家主席习近平的会晤，而特朗普政府目前最缺乏的就是他这种拥有实地经验的人。
A former journalist and Marine, Mr. Pottinger, 43, now occupies an unusual — and not altogether comfortable — perch in the Trump White House.	43 岁的波廷格曾担任记者和海军陆战队队员，目前在特朗普的白宫内占据了颇不寻常，但却并不怎么舒服的一席之地。
He served as an intelligence officer in Afghanistan under Lt. Gen. Michael T. Flynn, who brought him to the National Security Council when Mr. Trump named his former commander to run the council. After Mr. Flynn was fired for misleading colleagues about his contacts with Russian officials, Mr. Pottinger was asked to stay on by the new national security adviser, Lt. Gen. H.R. McMaster, despite his ties to Mr.	他曾在阿富汗担任情报人员，当时是迈克尔·T·弗林(Michael T. Flynn)陆军中将的下属，特朗普任命弗林为国家安全顾问，于是弗林也将波廷格带到了国家安全委员会。弗林因与俄罗斯官员接触并误导同事遭到解雇后，新的国家安全顾问 H·R·麦克马斯特(H.R. McMaster)陆军中将不顾波廷格与弗林之间的联系，仍然要求他留下。上月，他与国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)一起前往北京，深入参与了特朗普和习近平会晤的议程计划。

Flynn. He traveled to Beijing last month with Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson, and has been deeply involved in planning the agenda for the meeting between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi.
"He's a very effective bureaucratic player, which is saying something because he's never had a policy job before," said Michael J. Green, who held Mr. Pottinger's post in the George W. Bush administration and counseled Mr. Pottinger about the challenges of working on the council during a long walk.	"他是一个非常高效的政府角色，他之前从来没有做过任何政策工作，所以这说明了一些问题，"迈克尔·J·格林(Michael J. Green)说，他在乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)政府内担任波廷格现在所担任的职务，并且就在国家安全委员会中长期任职所面临的挑战向波廷格提出了忠告。
As his job is usually defined, Mr. Pottinger is supposed to corral the varying views on the Asia-Pacific region within the government, including how to handle nuclear-armed North Korea, and help synthesize them into a coherent policy for his new boss, General McMaster.	波廷格的工作范围长期以来已经有了界定：他应该在政府内部收集对亚太地区的各种看法（包括如何处理拥有核武器的朝鲜），并协助将这些看法综合为一个连贯一致的政策，提供给他新老板麦克马斯特将军。
But like other staff members, Mr. Pottinger, who declined a request for an interview, is still struggling to navigate the byzantine structure of this White House. Mr. Trump's son-in-law, Jared Kushner, has opened an influential back channel with China's ambassador to Washington, Cui Tiankai, which limits the role of Mr. Tillerson, to say nothing of a midlevel China hand in the National Security Council.	然而，像其他工作人员一样，波廷格（他拒绝了采访的请求）仍需努力在白宫错综复杂的结构中寻找方向。特朗普的女婿贾里德·库什纳(Jared Kushner)与中国驻华盛顿大使崔天凯建立了一个有影响力的非正式渠道，这个渠道限制了蒂勒森的角色，更不必说国家安全委员会里一个中国领域的中层官员。
Trade issues are the subject of fierce, unsettled debate between mainstream advisers like Gary D. Cohn, the former Goldman Sachs banker who now runs the National Economic Council, and hard-liners like Stephen K. Bannon, the president's chief strategist, and Peter Navarro, a strident anti-China scholar who is the director of the National Trade Council.	主要顾问之间围绕着贸易问题展开了激烈混乱的辩论，这些顾问包括前高盛集团(Goldman Sachs)银行家，现领导国家经济委员会的加里·D·科恩(Gary D. Cohn)，总统首席策略师史蒂芬·K·班农(Stephen K. Bannon)，以及强硬的反中国学者，国家贸易委员会主席彼得·纳瓦罗(Peter Navarro)。

In a recent session in the Oval Office, a frustrated Mr. Pottinger watched as Mr. Bannon and Mr. Kushner complained to Mr. Trump that China was deliberately depressing its currency, which undercuts American goods (in fact, China has allowed its currency to rise). Mr. Pottinger, according to a person briefed on the exchange, drew Mr. Cohn, who was standing nearby, into the conversation, and Mr. Cohn contradicted the other two men.	在椭圆办公室最近的一次会议上，波廷格沮丧地看着班农和库什纳向特朗普投诉，声称中国故意降低汇率，削弱了美国货物的竞争力（实际上中国已经允许其汇率上升）。根据参与这一交流的人士称，波廷格拉着正站在旁边的科恩进入谈话，科恩反驳了另外两个人。
During Mr. Tillerson's maiden visit to Beijing, Mr. Pottinger sat with three other staff members in the front row at a news conference and listened as the secretary of state extolled the need for "mutual respect" and "win-win solutions" — phrases drawn straight from China's diplomatic playbook — to describe Chinese-American relations.	蒂勒森初次访问北京期间的一次新闻发布会上，波廷格与另外三名工作人员坐在前排，聆听国务卿大肆宣扬中美关系需要“相互尊重”与“合作共赢”——这两个词是直接从中国的外交战略里拿来的。
In a memo Mr. Pottinger had written just weeks before, he warned against that language, which is viewed as code for a Chinese sphere of influence in its region. Bending to China on those points, he wrote, would allow China to believe Washington had accepted those terms, according to an administration official who supports Mr. Pottinger and shared an excerpt from the memo.	波廷格在几周前写下的备忘录中警告说，这种语言被视为中国在该地区影响力的代码。根据一位支持波廷格观点、并分享了那份备忘录中部分摘录的政府官员说，波廷格写道，在这些方面向中国让步，会让中国相信华盛顿已经接受了相关条件。
China experts who have spoken to him said his views were hawkish but mainstream. He believes the United States should press China more insistently to use its influence with North Korea to curb its nuclear weapons and ballistic missile programs.	和他交谈过的中国问题专家说，他的看法是鹰派的，但也算主流。他认为，美国应该更加坚决地迫使中国利用其对朝鲜的影响力，遏制该国的核武器和弹道导弹计划。
"With North Korea, we've just gotten to the point where we solicit Chinese help; we've got to demand it," said Walter Lohman, the director of the Asian Studies Program at the Heritage Foundation. "Matt's head is	"在朝鲜问题上，我们已经到了请求中国帮忙的地步；我们必须要求帮助，"传统基金会(Heritage Foundation)亚洲研究项目负责人沃尔特·洛曼(Walter Lohman)说。"在这方面，马特的想法在大部分问题上都是正确的。"

in the right place on most of these issues.”
As a journalist in China for Reuters and later The Wall Street Journal, Mr. Pottinger was known for his audacity.	波廷格先是担任路透社的驻华记者，后来又成了《华尔街日报》(Wall Street Journal)的驻华记者，他以大胆而闻名。
When an editor asked him to find out about a meeting between a powerful Chinese minister and the head of a major American telecommunications company, Qualcomm, Mr. Pottinger, who speaks fluent Mandarin, strode past guards at a government complex and found the conference room. He parked himself outside the door, and after the American left, persuaded the usually tight-lipped Chinese official to describe the deal – landing a scoop.	一位编辑要他调查一位有权势的中国部长和美国一家主要电讯企业高通公司(Qualcomm)的负责人之间的会议，能说一口流利普通话的波廷格大步走过政府大楼门前的警卫，找到了会议室。他站在门外，在美国人离开之后，说服了通常三缄其口的中国官员对他描述这一交易——独家新闻就这样到手了。
But in 2005, Mr. Pottinger left journalism and enlisted in the Marines. He said his experience of repression in China had fired his patriotism and given him a deeper appreciation of his own country.	但在 2005 年，波廷格先生离开了新闻行业，加入了海军陆战队。他说，在中国的压抑经历点燃了他心中的爱国主义，令他对自己的国家有了更深刻的理解。
“Living in China shows you what a nondemocratic country can do to its citizens,” he wrote in a 2005 essay in The Wall Street Journal. “I’ve seen protesters tackled and beaten by plainclothes police in Tiananmen Square, and I’ve been videotaped by government agents while I was talking to a source.”	“在中国的生活可以告诉你，一个非民主的国家能对它的公民做些什么，”2005 年，他在《华尔街日报》发表的一篇文章中写道。“我看到抗议者在天安门广场被便衣警察拦阻和殴打，当我和一个信源说话时，还遭到政府人员录像。”
In switching careers, he was following the pattern of his father, J. Stanley Pottinger, a lawyer who ran the Justice Department’s civil rights division during the presidencies of Richard Nixon and Gerald R. Ford. The elder Mr. Pottinger left the Justice Department to open his own investment banking firm in New York. While in New York, he dated Gloria Steinem, had a short stint as a filmmaker and began a career as an author.	在改变职业道路这方面，他的榜样是父亲 J·斯坦利·波廷格(J.Stanley Pottinger)，老波廷格在理查德·尼克松(Richard Nixon)和杰拉德·R·福特(Gerald R. Ford)总统任期内是负责司法部民权部门的律师。离开司法部后，他在纽约开设了自己的投资银行。在纽约，他曾与格洛丽亚·斯泰纳姆(Gloria Steinem)约会，短暂担任过电影制片人，并且开始了作家的职业生涯。

His son's transition was tougher. Then 31, Matthew Pottinger was both over-age and overweight for the Marines. To get fit, he jogged on the Great Wall with a Marine from the United States Embassy in Beijing — overdoing it so much that on one occasion that he ended up in an emergency room. In late 2005, he began officer candidate training school in Quantico, Va.	小波廷格的职业转换更加艰难。马修·波廷格入伍那年31岁，对于海军陆战队来说不仅超龄而且超重。为了减肥，他和美国驻北京大使馆的一个海军陆战队员一起在长城上跑步，因为运动量太大，有一次还进了急诊室。2005年底，他开始在弗吉尼亚州匡蒂科的军官候选人培训学校就读。
A few years later, as an intelligence officer in Afghanistan, Mr. Pottinger befriended General Flynn, who was then deputy chief of staff for intelligence under Gen. Stanley A. McChrystal. The two men took a dim view of the military's efforts to wean villagers away from the Taliban. They wrote a critical report, "Fixing Intel: A Blueprint for Making Intelligence Relevant in Afghanistan," that was buried inside the Pentagon but made waves after they gave it to a Washington think tank, the Center for a New American Security, to publish.	几年后，作为驻阿富汗的情报官员，波廷格与弗林成了朋友，弗林当时为斯坦利·A·麦克里斯特尔(Stanley A. McChrystal)将军担任主管情报的副参谋长。两人对军方令村民远离塔利班的努力并不看好。他们撰写了一份重要报告，《修复谍报：令阿富汗情报工作重要起来的蓝图》，这份报告一度被深埋在五角大楼内部，但是当他们将其交给华盛顿智库“新美国安全中心”(the Center for a New American Security)，并将之发布之后，却引发了轩然大波。
Mr. Pottinger's performance caught the eye of David H. Petraeus, the retired general who succeeded General McChrystal in Afghanistan. Last year Mr. Petraeus presided at a ceremony in which Mr. Pottinger was promoted to lieutenant colonel in the Marine Corps Reserves. "Matt is one of those rare individuals who is the total package," Mr. Petraeus said, "highly intelligent, exceedingly hard working, a superb writer and very personable."	波廷格的表现吸引了戴维·彼得雷乌斯(David H. Petraeus)的关注，这位退役的将军曾是麦克里斯特尔将军在阿富汗的继任者。彼得雷乌斯去年主持了一个仪式，将波廷格晋升为海军陆战队预备役中校。“马特是那种少有的完美人才，”彼得雷乌斯说，“他非常聪明，非常努力工作，是优秀的写作者，而且风度翩翩。”
After leaving active duty in the military, Mr. Pottinger started a small firm that investigated Chinese companies on behalf of investors and later worked in a New York hedge fund.	不再担任现役军职之后，波廷格创办了一家小公司，代表投资者对中国企业进行调查，后来又在纽约一家对冲基金工作。
He will need all of those skills to succeed in the treacherous landscape	要想在特朗普白宫变化莫测的形势中取得成功，他得上所有这些技能。不

of the Trump White House. But it is unlikely that he will be fazed by anything the Chinese delegation throws at him this week.	过，中国代表团本周扔给他的任何事情都不太可能令他胆怯。
As he recalled in the 2005 essay in The Wall Street Journal, "I've been punched in the face in a Beijing Starbucks by a government goon who was trying to keep me from investigating a Chinese company's sale of nuclear fuel to other countries."	正如他于 2005 年在《华尔街日报》的一篇文章中所回忆的，“我在北京一家星巴克里被一个政府的打手迎面打了一拳，他试图阻止我调查一家中国公司向其他国家出售核燃料的情况。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170405/matthew-pottinger-trump-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170405/matthew-pottinger-trump-china
'The Authorities Yielded': Professor Speaks as Ordeal in China Ends	“当局向国际压力屈服了”：澳教授获准离开中国
SYDNEY, Australia — Feng Chongyi said he ran to the airport in Guangzhou on Saturday as soon as he received the message from Chinese officials: Go.	澳大利亚悉尼——冯崇义表示，他周六一接到中国官员发出的让他离开的信息，便赶到了广州的机场。
He had been barred from leaving China for just over a week, submitting to questioning whenever Chinese officials felt the need, he said, waiting for a chance to return to Australia.	他说他在一周多前开始被禁止离开中国，在此期间随时接受中国官员的审问，同时等待返回澳大利亚的机会。
Here, he has long been a respected academic at the University of Technology Sydney, an expert on China's repression of political dissent and its growing influence in Australia. His daughter and wife are Australian citizens.	他在澳大利亚一直是备受尊敬的悉尼科技大学(University of Technology Sydney)学者，是研究中国对政治异见者的压制及其在澳大利亚日益增长的影响力方面的专家。他的女儿和妻子都是澳大利亚公民。
There, in China, where Professor Feng was born, and where he still often travels, he was questioned as a threat to national security.	而在冯崇义出生且如今依然时常访问的中国，他却被当作对国家安全构成威胁的人进行审问。
"Until I got on the plane and got past border control, I was not sure it was real," Professor Feng said in an interview on Sunday 20 minutes after his overnight flight landed. "The authorities yielded to international pressure — including yours, the media. The media played an essential	“在登上飞机，越过边检之前，我一直不确定这是不是真的，”冯崇义在周日接受采访时说，当时他乘坐的夜间航班刚刚落地 20 分钟。“当局向国际压力屈服了——包括来自你们媒体的压力。推动他们这么做，媒体起到了十分重要的作用。” role in pushing them across the line.”

Professor Feng’s release brings an end to a recent whirlwind of tense negotiations for Australia and China. Last Sunday, the Chinese premier, Li Keqiang, was ending his tour of Australia and finalizing trade deals. Two days later, concerns over Professor Feng’s confinement helped undermine a vote for an extradition treaty that China had been waiting years for Australia to approve.	冯崇义的获释结束了澳大利亚和中国之间最近进行的一轮紧张谈判。上上个周日，中国国务院总理李克强结束他的澳大利亚之行，最后敲定几项贸易协议。两天后，就中国多年来一直等待着澳大利亚批准的一项引渡条约进行的投票被取消，这多少是出于对冯崇义遭关押的担忧。
Now, with President Xi Jinping of China scheduled to visit President Trump in Palm Beach, Fla., in the next week, Chinese officials seem to be clearing away distractions, at least those easily dismissed on this side of the world.	现在，在中国国家主席习近平将于本周前往佛罗里达州的棕榈滩会见美国总统特朗普之际，中国官员似乎在清除干扰，至少是世界的这一侧那些容易清除的干扰。
“Obviously we are glad that he’s back,” said John Hugh, a spokesman in Sydney for the Embracing Australian Values Alliance, which has sought to promote free speech and counter the Chinese government’s influence over the ethnic Chinese community in Australia. “It’s a victory for Professor Feng himself, and also a victory for everyone.”	“他能回来，我们当然很高兴，”捍卫澳洲价值观联盟(Embracing Australian Values Alliance)在悉尼的发言人约翰·休(John Hugh)说，该组织竭力推动言论自由，抵制中国对澳大利亚华人社区的影响力。“这对冯崇义教授是一个胜利，对我们所有人来说都是如此。”
Professor Feng, a legal resident in Australia who still travels on a Chinese passport, would say little about the content of his questioning. “I will not disclose the detail of those unpleasant conversations,” he said.	冯崇义是澳大利亚的合法居民，但他依然持中国护照旅行。对于受审的内容，他不大愿意谈起。“我不会透露那些不愉快的谈话的细节，”他说。
He suggested that the discussions were frequent and repetitive. “I got bored. I hope they got bored, as well,” he said. “They could call me anytime and have me talk anytime.”	他表示，那些谈话非常频繁，而且是重复性的。“我感到厌烦。我希望他们也是如此，”他说。“他们会在任何时候喊我，随时让我与他们交谈。”
Asked about any conditions on Mr. Feng’s being allowed to leave, Chen Jinxue, a lawyer who represented Mr. Feng while he was in China, said	在被问到冯崇义获释的条件时，冯崇义在中国的代理律师陈进学简单地说，“据我所知，冯崇义可能不太方便透露他被质询的细节。”

simply, "As I understand it, it may not be convenient for Feng Chongyi to reveal the details of what he was questioned about."
Mr. Feng seemed to be in good health, and in good spirits, chuckling at the interruption of airport announcements soon after he arrived.	冯崇义似乎身体状况良好，精神也不错，在抵达不久后他曾因被机场公告打断而低声轻笑。
He said he was eager to return to his family. Noting his daughter's efforts to rally support for his return, he said he was especially eager to see her again.	他说他急着回到家人那里，还提到女儿为他的返回争取支持的努力，说他尤其期待再次见到女儿。
"She seems to be as brave as me," he said.	"她看起来跟我一样勇敢，"他说。
Professor Feng added that despite his confinement, he did not intend to stop traveling to China. "I'm free to come and go, and I will return," he said. "As I said to my friends — I shall return."	冯崇义还表示，尽管这次遭到了关押，但他不会因此不再去中国。“我有来去的自由，我会回去，”他说。“就像我跟朋友们说的——我还会回去。”
Still he warned that the impact of his release should be seen as narrow in scope, as there are many others who are not as well known, and are more vulnerable to China's restrictions and aggressive tactics.	不过他也警告称，不应该将他被释放的影响看得太大，因为还有很多人不像他一样为人熟知，更容易因为中国的限制和挑衅策略而受害。
"For anyone who gets in trouble in China, the support of the international community, especially the international media, is essential," he said. "That is the only thing that will make them care."	"对所有在中国陷入麻烦的人来说，国际社会的支持，尤其是国际媒体的支持是至关重要的，"他说。“这是唯一一个会让他们在意的东西。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170405/the-authorities-yielded-professor-speaks-as-ordeal-in-china-ends	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170405/the-authorities-yielded-professor-speaks-as-ordeal-in-china-ends
Trump and Xi: Two Imposing Leaders With Clashing Agendas	特朗普与习近平：两个强势领袖如何正面交锋
BEIJING — When President Xi Jinping of China arrives at President Trump's Florida estate on Thursday, his goal will be to get through the quick visit looking like a resolute leader who can hold his own against the American president, something that even some of Washington's closest allies have failed to pull off.	北京——中国国家主席习近平周四来到特朗普的佛罗里达庄园时，他的目标将是，以一位在美国总统面前不退让的坚定领导人的形象结束这次短暂的访问，在这点上，就连华盛顿的一些最亲密的盟友也未能做到。

Mr. Xi wants to show his domestic audience that he can manage the relationship with Mr. Trump and avert a crisis in relations with the United States, a message that would strengthen his hand in the jockeying for power ahead of a Communist Party leadership congress later this year.	习近平要向国内观众表明，他能处理好与特朗普的关系，防止中美关系出现危机。传递这个信息将在今年早些时候共产党领导人大会之前的权力争夺中加强他的优势。
But while the meetings could lift Mr. Xi's stature at home, they also present significant risks. The two men are at odds on several contentious issues, and perhaps no Chinese leader has ever walked into a meeting with an American president like Mr. Trump, who has shown a disdain for the language of diplomacy. Mr. Xi has a highly scripted style, and the Chinese are accustomed to meetings that are tightly choreographed.	然而，虽然这次会面也许能提升习近平在国内的声望，但也带有显著的风险。他们两人在几个有争议的问题上意见不一致。而且，也许还没有一位中国领导人与特朗普这样的美国总统打过交道，特朗普对外交辞令表示鄙视。习近平有严格按照稿子讲话的风格，中国人也习惯于精心编排的会议。
Events began to veer off script on Wednesday as North Korea fired an intermediate range ballistic missile into waters off its east coast, a defiant move that seemed intended to exacerbate differences between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi.	周三，事态突然开始发生偏差，朝鲜向其东海岸以外的水域发射了一枚中程弹道导弹，这种挑衅做法似乎旨在加剧特朗普与习近平之间的分歧。
Mr. Xi is likely to play down potential conflicts, offering vague assurances on trade and North Korea's nuclear provocations that he believes Mr. Trump will want to hear but that may not amount to significant policy changes. At the same time, however, he will not want to look as though he is backing down or being lectured. For the Chinese, the atmospherics of the talks will be as important as the substance.	习近平很可能会淡化潜在的冲突，在贸易和朝鲜核挑衅问题上，提供他认为特朗普希望听到的模糊的保证，但这些保证也许并不意味着重大的政策变化。但是，与此同时，他不想表现出看起来他好像在作出让步或被教导的样子。对中国人来说，会面的气氛与实质性的内容同样重要。
"How to deal with Trump is a test of statesmanship," said Shi Yinhong, a professor of international relations at Renmin University in Beijing.	"如何对付特朗普是对政治才能的一种考验，"中国人民大学国际关系学教授时殷弘说。"成功非常重要。"

"Success is very important."
Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi may seem like polar opposites when it comes to temperament, but they are both imposing men with ambitious and at times clashing agendas.	特朗普和习近平在气质上看起来也许截然相反，但他们的身材都高大壮硕，他们都有着雄心勃勃、但有时显得矛盾的目标。
Mr. Xi runs an authoritarian government led by a Communist Party determined to drive China's economy past that of the United States to become the world's biggest. He relies on rigid decorum and a secretive inner sanctum of aides to project power. To squelch dissent in the past few years, he has ordered severe limits on the Chinese people's access to the internet.	习近平掌管着由共产党领导的专制政府，决意要发展中国经济，让其超越美国，成为世界上最大的经济体。他靠着僵硬的端庄稳重和一个秘密的内部副手圈子来投射力量。为了在过去几年里遏制异议，他下令严格限制中国人在互联网上能看到的東西。
Mr. Trump, unpredictable and a neophyte to diplomacy, has pledged to put "America First," in part by stalling China's rise and forcing it to the bargaining table on trade. Twitter is inaccessible in China, but the Chinese are rattled by Mr. Trump's habit of making brash statements on the internet.	特朗普变换莫测，而且是外交新手，他已承诺要坚持“美国优先”，这部分要靠暂缓中国的崛起，并迫使中国在贸易问题上重新谈判来实现。虽然中国人无法访问 Twitter，但他们也被特朗普在互联网上发表盛气凌人言论的习惯所震惊。
Yet Chinese analysts say Mr. Xi enters the meetings, beginning on Thursday afternoon, confident that he can stave off an eruption on the two biggest issues: North Korea and trade.	中国的分析人士说，习近平对将在周四下午开始的会晤充满信心，相信自己能在朝鲜和贸易这两个最大的问题上，推迟事态的爆发。
Mr. Xi is prepared for Mr. Trump to press for more economic punishment against North Korea for its expanding nuclear weapons program and will offer to bear down on the North, an ally of China's, Mr. Shi said.	时殷弘表示，对于特朗普希望中国对朝鲜采取更多的经济惩罚措施、以对付朝鲜不断扩大的核武器计划的要求，习近平已做好了准备，习近平将表示中国会对其盟友朝鲜施加压力。
But, he added, the Chinese leader is expected to cleave to a strategic bottom line: North Korea must serve as a buffer zone against the potential of a unified Korean Peninsula dominated by the American	但是，他补充说，估计中国领导人将坚守一条战略底线：朝鲜必须作为一个缓冲区存在下去，不能出现让统一的朝鲜半岛由美国军事力量主导的潜在可能。

military.
Before Mr. Xi's arrival, Mr. Trump upped the ante, telling The Financial Times last weekend that China had "to help us with North Korea." If Mr. Xi failed to do so, Mr. Trump said, the United States would take unilateral action.	在习近平到来之前，特朗普已经提高了筹码，他在上周末对《金融时报》说，中国需要“在朝鲜问题上帮我们的忙”。如果习近平不这样做的话，特朗普说，美国会单方面采取行动。
Adding to tensions were signs last week in North Korea of intensified activities at its Punggye-ri underground test site.	朝鲜丰溪里地下试验场上周出现了频繁活动的迹象，进一步加剧了紧张局势。
The preparations could be for an audacious test to disrupt the talks, experts said. But it was more likely that a test was aimed for April 15, an important national anniversary in North Korea. That timing would also embarrass Mr. Xi just fresh from his Florida meetings.	专家们说，那可能是为一次旨在搅乱中美领导人会晤的大胆测试做准备。不过这次测试更可能是为了4月15日（朝鲜的一个重要的全国纪念日）而进行的。但这个日子也会让刚从佛罗里达的首脑会议回来的习近平感到尴尬。
Mr. Xi appeared to be satisfied he could head off Mr. Trump's campaign threats of calling China a currency manipulator and imposing heavy tariffs on Chinese imports to the United States, Chinese officials said.	中国官员表示，习近平似乎确信，他能够阻止特朗普把中国宣布为货币操纵者、并对中国出口到美国的商品征收高额关税的做法，这是特朗普在竞选期间威胁要做的。
If Mr. Trump made these moves, the Chinese state media said, China would be ready with reprisals: ending purchases of grains from the heartland, ordering passenger aircraft from Airbus instead of Boeing and clamping down on the sales of American microchips and phones.	中国官方媒体说，如果特朗普采取这些做法的话，中国已做好报复的准备：中国将不再从美国腹地购买谷物，将改为从空中客车公司、而不是波音公司购买客机，并将限制美国微芯片和手机在中国的销售。
But as the Florida trip has gotten closer, China has become more nervous.	但随着佛罗里达行程越来越近，中国也变得越来越紧张。
Even on the basic issue of American adherence to the "One China" principle — a longstanding diplomatic policy recognizing Beijing as the sole government of China — Mr. Xi cannot be entirely confident, said Zhang Baohui, professor of international relations at Lingnan University in Hong Kong.	香港岭南大学国际关系教授张宝辉说，即使在美国遵循“一个中国”原则这个基本问题上，习近平也不能十分自信，在这个长期的外交政策之下，美国承认北京是中国的唯一政府。

Mr. Trump told Mr. Xi in February that he would respect Beijing as the sole government of China and that the United States did not recognize Taiwan.	特朗普曾在2月份对习近平说，他会尊重北京作为中国的唯一政府，并表示美国不承认台湾。
But after that phone conversation, Mr. Trump let Mr. Xi know that he owed him one. When the two sides issued separate statements, the White House version noted that Mr. Trump had agreed to the policy "at the request" of Mr. Xi.	但是，在那次电话交谈之后，特朗普让习近平明白，习近平欠了他一个人情。通电话后双方各自发表声明时，白宫的版本指出，特朗普是“在习近平主席的要求下”才那样做的。
In a telling difference, the Chinese version omitted that Mr. Xi had made the request.	一个很说明问题的不同之处是，中方声明中略去了习近平曾提出要求的说法。
"'One China' is not necessarily a done deal," Mr. Zhang said. "The question is: Can you trust Trump? 'One China' is never settled, and he knows bargaining better than anyone."	"'一个中国'未必已成定局，"张宝辉说。"问题是：你能相信特朗普吗？'一个中国'从来都不是不可改变的政策，特朗普比任何人都更知道如何讨价还价。"
Top Chinese officials have been closely gauging Mr. Trump's domestic fortunes as a barometer of the president's mood when the talks open.	中国官员一直密切关注着特朗普在美国国内的运气，把它视为举行会晤时总统心情的晴雨表。
By their calculation Mr. Trump's poor poll ratings, the investigations into his campaign's connections with Russia and the failure of his health care legislation are not necessarily beneficial for Mr. Xi.	在他们看来，特朗普的民调支持率不佳，以及竞选期间与俄罗斯的关系遭受调查，还有医保立法上的失败，可能对习近平都不是好事。
On the eve of the scheduled vote on the repeal of the Affordable Care Act, an American economist, Eswar Prasad, said he dropped in on Chinese colleagues who were gaming out Mr. Xi's economic proposals for Florida.	美国经济学家埃斯瓦·普拉萨德(Eswar Prasad)说，就在《平价医疗费用法案》(Affordable Care Act)被否决的前夕，他拜访了中国同行，他们正在为习近平将在佛罗里达峰会中提出的经济建议做规划。
Mr. Prasad said he was surprised to find that the Chinese economists were obsessed with tracking Mr. Trump's fortunes in the congressional vote. For example, they knew exactly how many votes the Freedom Caucus had mustered, he said.	普拉萨德说，他惊讶地发现，中国经济学家非常关注特朗普在国会投票的运气。他说，比如他们非常清楚“自由党团”(Freedom Caucus)掌握了多少票。

“They were saying they wanted the vote to go Trump’s way because then Trump would be less tempted to take it out on China,” said Mr. Prasad, an economist at Cornell. Mr. Trump suffered a big legislative defeat, the opposite of what they hoped for.	康乃尔大学经济学家普拉萨德表示：“他们说，他们希望投票结果有利于特朗普，这样特朗普就不太会把怨气撒到中国身上。”但特朗普在立法问题上遭遇惨败，与他们的希望完全相反。
Then Mr. Trump predicted in a Twitter post late last week that the meeting would be “a very difficult one in that we can no longer have massive trade deficits and job losses.”	然后，特朗普就在上周末发 Twitter 称，这次会晤将会“非常困难，我们不再容忍大量的贸易逆差和工作岗位的流失”。
To address the administration’s complaints blaming the trade imbalance with China for the loss of American jobs, Mr. Xi is likely to offer Chinese investments in American infrastructure and plants, Chinese analysts said.	中国的分析人士表示，美国政府抱怨与中国的贸易失衡导致工作岗位流失，为此，习近平可能会提出让中国对美国的基础设施和工厂进行投资。
But plans for such an announcement are not clear, and whether they will satisfy the hard-line wing of Mr. Trump’s economic team is an open question. Further, the analysts said, Mr. Xi did not want to appear too deferential to Mr. Trump.	但是到时候是否会宣布这种计划还不清楚，他们是否会让特朗普经济团队的中强硬派满意也还说不准。此外，分析人士称，习近平不想对特朗普表现得百依百顺。
“Beijing’s hope of using the Trump-Xi tête-à-tête to smooth the bilateral economic relationship,” Mr. Prasad said, “has been complicated by the uncertainties generated by Trump’s hostile Twitter posts and the mixed signals emanating from different parts of the administration.”	普拉萨德说：“北京方面希望利用特朗普和习近平的面谈来平衡两国的经济关系，但由于特朗普带有敌意的 Twitter 帖子所引起的不确定性，以及来自不同行政部门的信号有好有坏，使得情况变得很复杂。”
Before Mr. Xi’s departure, China’s Foreign Ministry was preparing for all possibilities — fretting over camera angles for the retinue of state-run media that will beam back images of him with Mr. Trump in balmy climes, and whether he would be comfortable staying at a hotel slightly less opulent than Mr. Trump’s lavish Mar-a-Lago.	在习近平离开之前，中国外交部正在为一切可能发生的状况做准备——担心随行的国有媒体的拍摄角度不好，他们将发回习近平与特朗普在宜人天气里碰面的画面，还担心他是否会为住在一个比特朗普豪华的马阿拉歌庄园略为逊色的酒店而感到不快。
Most of all, they were worried about how the two men would get along.	最重要的是，他们担心这两个人是否相处得好。

"Both leaders have strong characters," said one Chinese official involved in the planning who requested anonymity per diplomatic practice.	一位参与行程规划的中国官员表示：“这两位领导人个性都很强。”该官员出于外交惯例要求不具名。
Perhaps at the back of his mind was the fact that Mr. Xi and President Barack Obama met many times, starting with a similarly planned informal visit in 2013 at Sunnylands, a sumptuous estate in Southern California.	他也许是想到了习近平和奥巴马总统的多次见面，第一次就是2013年在南加州的豪华庄园阳光之乡(Sunnylands)进行，那是与这次类似的预定好的非正式访问。
"After that, the relationship only got grimmer and grimmer," Mr. Shi said.	时殷弘说：“在那之后，两人关系无非是变得越来越冷淡。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170406/xi-jinping-trump-china-mar-a-lago	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170406/xi-jinping-trump-china-mar-a-lago
How Trump Can Improve the Messy U.S.-Chinese Economic Relationship	中美经济关系乱如麻，特朗普该怎么办
The United States and China are locked in a mutually dependent, frequently dysfunctional economic partnership. The world's biggest and second-biggest economies are like a married couple that complain about each other constantly yet can't even contemplate a divorce.	美国和中国被一种相互依赖、常常无法正常运转的经济伙伴关系牵绊着。作为世界第一和第二大经济体，它们就像一对不停地抱怨彼此，但甚至无法把离婚纳入考虑范围的夫妻。
The marriage enters a new phase Thursday, as President Xi Jinping of China visits for two days of meetings at the Florida estate of a president who made China a punching bag on the campaign trail.	周四，随着中国国家主席习近平前往美国总统位于佛罗里达的庄园，与这位在竞选期间把中国当成沙袋暴打的总统进行为期两天的会晤，此桩婚姻进入了新阶段。
The question is whether President Trump can turn his bellicose language into concrete gains for American companies and workers. A look at the economics of the relationship between the nations, and conversations with former officials with battle scars from past negotiations, shows a path for getting a better deal.	问题是，特朗普总统能否把他的好战言辞转化为美国公司和工人的切实利益。通过审视两国关系的经济因素，并跟有着丰富的相关谈判经验的前官员交谈，可以发现一个达成更划算交易的途径。
That path to success may not include the kind of flashy, headline-generating announcements that the Trump administration	这个通往成功的途径，或许并不包括特朗普政府倾向于赞颂的那些华而不实、登上新闻头条的宣言。

has tended to celebrate.
It's not about the currency (for now)	它（暂时）和货币无关
In February, Mr. Trump called China the "grand champions at manipulation of currency." During the campaign, too, he frequently assailed China for artificially reducing the value of the renminbi to favor its companies versus American and other competitors.	今年2月，特朗普把中国称为“操纵货币的大赢家”。竞选期间他也常常攻击中国，说它为了帮助本国公司对付美国以及其他地方的竞争者，人为地让人民币贬值。
It is a view that is outdated. For years, China did intervene in financial markets to depress the value of its currency. But now it is intervening to keep the yuan from falling – actually doing the opposite of what Mr. Trump alleged. Economists generally think that the Chinese currency is close to the levels that would be set by purely market forces.	上述观点已经过时了。在很多年里，中国的确曾干预金融市场，压低本国货币的价值。但现在，它进行干预是为了不让人民币贬值——其做法其实和特朗普的指控完全相反。经济学家普遍认为，人民币当前的汇率与完全由市场力量决定的汇率水平颇为接近。
That doesn't mean currencies shouldn't come up at Mar-a-Lago. This moment of relative peace between the countries on currency policy could be the ideal time to develop an understanding for the future.	这并不是说在马阿拉歌不该提出货币问题。当前，中美两国在货币政策方面处于相对和平的时期，为双方就未来达成谅解提供了大好时机。
"I think currency is still an issue, but it doesn't make sense to discuss it under the rubric of manipulation," said Brad Setser, a senior fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations. "China is managing its currency; it's just that it's managing it right now in a way that is relatively advantageous to the United States. That understanding of how China intends to manage its currency in the future remains a top-order issue."	"我认为货币仍然是一个问题，但以操纵为主题进行讨论没有意义，"外交关系协会(Council on Foreign Relations)资深研究员布拉德·塞策(Brad Setser)说。"中国正在管控货币，但它眼下管控货币的方式相对而言对美国有利。弄清中国打算在未来如何管控本国货币，仍然是重要事项。"
In other words, Mr. Trump could use this moment not to beat China over the head about what happened in the past, or where things stand today, but to develop an agreement on what it will do in the future, if a day comes when market forces start pushing the yuan upward.	换句话说，特朗普可以利用好这一时期，别揪着以前的事情或眼下的问题不放，猛烈抨击中国，而是应该就中国在未来，也就是有朝一日市场力量开始推动人民币升值时会怎么做，与其达成协议。
Focus on the causes of the trade deficit, not the number	聚焦于贸易逆差的原因，而非数字

Mr. Trump has similarly assailed the United States trade deficit with China and other countries, often characterizing it as a scorecard, evidence that China is winning at trade and the United States losing, to the tune of $310 billion a year.	特朗普还抱怨了美国对中国以及其他国家的贸易逆差，他常常将其描绘成一张比分表，说它证明中国是贸易赢家，美国是输家，一年要输给中国 3100 亿美元。
The reality is more nuanced. The persistent trade deficit is indeed problematic, but that's because of the factors that drive it and the imbalances they cause to build. Simply targeting a lower trade deficit could well leave both American and Chinese workers worse off, if carried out the wrong way. For example, a trade war that significantly reduces American imports from China while also reducing American exports to China would reduce the trade deficit but would mean lower incomes and fewer jobs in both countries.	而现实更微妙。持续的贸易逆差的确成问题，但造成持续逆差的因素，以及这些因素所制造的不平衡才是根源所在。如果采取错误的方法，简单地着眼于降低贸易逆差，可能会让中美两国工人的处境都变糟。例如，一场贸易战会让美国大幅减少从中国进口商品，同时导致美国对中国的出口额下降，到头来贸易逆差是缩小了，但却会造成中美两国的收入水平变低，工作岗位变少。
The U.S.-China trade imbalance is indeed driven in part by trade barriers that China enacts against American companies, including a 25 percent tariff on imported automobiles and various quotas and restrictions that reduce agricultural imports. If Mr. Trump can persuade China to loosen those restrictions, it might close the trade deficit by increasing American exports — the healthy kind of trade rebalancing.	其实，中美贸易失衡在某种程度上源于中国针对美国公司树立的贸易壁垒，包括对进口汽车征收 25% 的关税，还有导致农业进口额下降的各种配额和限制性规定。如果特朗普能说服中国放松这些限制，或许就可以通过增加美国的出口来缩小贸易逆差——这是较为健康的那种贸易再平衡。
But the trade gap isn't driven just by the details of trade arrangements. It is also driven by the flow of capital between countries. To oversimplify, when a company sells more abroad than it buys, it has to do something with that money.	但造成贸易逆差的不仅仅是贸易安排的细节。起作用的还有国家间的资本流动。简单来说，当一个国家在海外市场上卖得较多、买得较少时，就必须拿那些钱做点什么。
The flip side of a current account deficit, as an economist might put it, is a capital account surplus. China's trade imbalances are a function not only of its trade practices, but also of its very high levels of savings,	与经济学家所谓的经常项目赤字相对应的，是资本项目盈余。导致中国贸易失衡的，不仅是它的贸易实践，还有非常高的储蓄水平——这些钱又被拿来在世界各地投资。 which are in turn invested around the world.

For China to change that, it would have to change the very structure of its economy: away from savings and big-ticket infrastructure investments, and toward consumer demand — including for products made both domestically and abroad.	中国要改变这种状况，就必须改变自己的经济结构：从储蓄和大手笔基础设施投资，转向消费需求——包括对产自国内外的产品的需求。
If the Trump administration really wants the trade deficit with China to come down over time, it's not enough to look at only one side of the international economic ledger — flows of goods — while ignoring the flow of capital.	如果特朗普政府真的希望对中国的贸易赤字有朝一日能降下来，只是着眼于国际经济账簿的一个方面，也就是商品的流动，而忽略资本的流动，是不行的。
In practice, this would mean making demands on some issues that might seem like purely domestic concerns only tangentially related to trade. That might include pushing China to allow more troubled state-owned enterprises to fail, so that their accumulated profits might be spread through the Chinese economy instead of funneled toward the purchase of foreign assets. A more generous pension system might spur demand among older Chinese citizens.	在实践中，这意味着要就某些问题提出要求，这些问题看上去好像是纯粹的内部事务，和国际贸易只有很小的关联。其中或许包括推动中国允许更多陷入困境的国有企业倒掉，这样一来它们积累的利润或许就会散落于中国经济之中，而不是被用于收购海外资产。一个更为慷慨的退休金制度或许可以激发中国老年人的消费需求。
If China allowed global financial companies more access to its market, it could both encourage more domestic spending and give a major American industry an opportunity it has long sought.	如果中国允许全球性金融公司更容易地进入本国市场，那它不仅推动国内支出的增加，还能让美国的一个主要产业获得其一直梦寐以求的机会。
Use leverage carefully	小心地使用筹码
President Trump prides himself on being a dealmaker, and his negotiating style is to lay out extreme requests in order to work back to agreement. But resetting economic relations with China will prove trickier than any real estate deal.	特朗普总统以善于达成交易为傲，他的谈判风格是，漫天要价，然后做出让步，以达成协议。但事实会证明，重塑与中国的经济关系比任何房地产交易都要棘手。
One of the fundamental realities of the relationship is that while neither	中美经济关系的一个基本现实是，尽管这种关系没能让它们中的任何一方完

side is wholly comfortable with how it works, these are big, powerful countries that can't be easily swayed by what a country on the other side of the Pacific Ocean wants to happen. The leverage that each side has to deploy is limited — at least so long as neither country is willing to shoot itself in the foot.	全满意，但它们都是有影响力的大国，谁也不会因为太平洋另一侧的一个国家想要怎样而轻易受影响。双方手上的筹码是有限的——至少在谁都不愿意搬起石头砸自己的脚的情况下是如此。
So, for example, in trying to get more favorable Chinese treatment of American goods and services, the standard menu of carrots Mr. Trump has to offer for compliance is relatively modest. China wants things like United States membership in the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank that it started, and support for its “One Belt, One Road” program to build better transportation infrastructure stretching from Southeast Asia to Europe.	因此，举个例子，在向中国为美国产品和服务争取更优惠待遇的过程中，特朗普手中用于交换的标准的好处清单相对较短。中国想要的是，美国加入中国牵头创办的亚洲基础设施投资银行，支持旨在修建从东南亚一直延伸到欧洲的更好基础设施的“一带一路”计划，等等。
Bigger Chinese goals, like achieving “market economy” status in the World Trade Organization, are likely to be nonstarters unless the country makes major progress on allowing international companies better access to its market.	至于中国的一些更大的目标，比如获得世贸组织框架下的“市场经济”地位，则不太可能达成，除非中国在允许国际性企业更容易地进入本国市场方面有重大进展。
The United States could conceivably have more negotiating leverage by threatening punitive tariffs or other aggressive measures, as Mr. Trump did during his campaign, but those actions are just as likely to produce a painful blowback from China that damages the United States.	想象得到，美国通过扬言征收惩罚性关税或采取其他激进措施——就像特朗普在竞选期间所做的那样——可以拥有更多谈判筹码。但这些举措同样可能招致中国奋起反击，进而损害美国的利益。
Then there are noneconomic issues, which invariably could shape the contours of economic relationships.	此外，还存在肯定会影响经济关系的那些非经济因素。
“In the Obama administration, China was a good citizen cooperating with us on Iran sanctions and on climate change, which I think made it hard for the U.S. to contemplate anything that harsh in the trade arena.”	“奥巴马政府执政期间，中国是一个不错的伙伴，曾就制裁伊朗、气候变化问题与我们合作，我想这让当时的美国很难去考虑在贸易领域采取任何严厉的举措，”曾是美国财政部驻华特使、现为布鲁金斯学会(Brookings

said David Dollar, a former Treasury Department official in Beijing and now a senior fellow at the Brookings Institution. "You could have something similar if the Trump administration wants China to cooperate more on North Korea. That could be hard to turn around and be harsh on them in the economic realm."	Institution)资深研究员的杜大伟(David Dollar)说。“如果特朗普政府想让中国在朝鲜问题上更合作，也会面临类似的情况。很难掉过头来在经济领域为难他们。”
Be patient, and don't get distracted by baubles	耐心一点，别被花哨的小玩意分了心
Mr. Trump likes to announce big splashy deals, and given that the Chinese are looking for places to invest their capital in the United States, it would be easy enough to find something along those lines to announce.	特朗普喜欢宣布达成引人注目的大交易的消息。鉴于中国人正在美国寻找投资标的，他很容易就能拿出点什么来宣布一下。
But in the context of the two giant economies, that kind of thing is small bore. This flawed economic relationship has been building for a long time, and the fixes are unlikely to come overnight.	但以两个巨大的经济体为背景，这样的东西显得很琐碎。带有瑕疵的经济关系是用了很长时间才建立起来的，修正工作不可能一蹴而就。
"Mr. Trump ought to pick the right fights rather than focus on issues that resonate with his political base but which are unlikely to help U.S. economic interest in either the short term or long run," said Eswar Prasad, an economist at Cornell and author of "Gaining Currency," a book about China's role in global finance.	“特朗普应该为正确的目标而战，而不是关注那些能在他的政治大本营里引发共鸣，但不论从短期还是长期来看都对增进美国的经济利益没有帮助的问题，”康奈尔大学(Cornell)经济学家、著有《不断升值的货币》(Gaining Currency)一书的埃斯瓦尔·普拉萨德(Eswar Prasad)说。该书讲的是中国在全球金融领域的角色。
It's unlikely that the first meeting between the new president and the Chinese leader will resolve issues that have been building for years or even decades. Rather, those who have worked in diplomacy advise looking beyond the current headlines to make progress on lowering Chinese trade barriers, increasing its domestic savings and committing not to return to the days of manipulating its currency lower.	新任总统和中国领导人的首次会晤，不大可能让那些在若干年间甚至几十年间累积起来的问题得到解决。一些外交工作者给出的建议是，别把眼光局限于时下的头条新闻，而是应该寻求在如下问题上取得进展：敦促中国降低贸易壁垒，增加国内储蓄，并承诺不会再度人为压低汇率。
When you're talking about commerce between two superpowers,	我们现在谈论的是两个超级大国之间的商贸往来，事情不会在一夜之间发生

things don't change overnight.	改变。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170407/how-trump-can-improve-the-messy-us-chinese-economic-relationship	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170407/how-trump-can-improve-the-messy-us-chinese-economic-relationship
Trump and Xi's First Meeting: How Long Will the Cordiality Last?	习近平会见特朗普：寒暄之后多少凶险对决？
PALM BEACH, Fla. — President Trump and Xi Jinping, the president of China, will take each other's measure on Thursday as they meet for the first time to discuss trade tensions, North Korea's nuclear ambitions and other issues.	佛罗里达州棕榈滩——特朗普总统与中国国家主席习近平将在周四互相摸底，在首次会晤期间，讨论贸易关系紧张、朝鲜核野心及其他问题。
The two men will spend about 24 hours together at Mr. Trump's beachside Mar-a-Lago estate in Florida, in what officials from both countries expect will be a public demonstration of respect as the adversaries seek to build a working relationship.	两位领导人将在特朗普位于佛罗里达州海滨的马阿拉歌(Mar-a-Lago)庄园一起度过大约 24 个小时的时间，两国官员都期望在这两个对手寻求建立工作关系的时候，会晤能成为相互尊重的一个公开表示。
But behind closed doors, American officials said, the president intends to aggressively press his counterpart to more effectively use China's economic leverage on North Korea to restrain its rogue leader, Kim Jong-un, from developing nuclear weapons.	但美国官员在私下说，总统打算声势浩大地对中国国家主席施加压力，让他更有效地使用中国的经济杠杆来阻止朝鲜行为失常的领导人金正恩发展核武器。
And while American officials played down the prospect of substantive discussions on trade, Mr. Trump is expected to privately repeat the tough statements he often makes on Twitter about the United States' trade deficit with China, which has swelled to more than $300 billion a year.	虽然美国官员淡化两人就贸易问题进行实质性讨论的前景，但预计特朗普会在私下里重申他在 Twitter 上经常发表的、有关美中贸易逆差的强硬言论，美国对中国的贸易赤字已经突破了每年 3000 亿美元。
How tough Mr. Trump is with Mr. Xi privately, and the reaction from the Chinese leader, may depend on the outcome of a fierce debate inside the White House about how to confront Beijing over trade.	特朗普私下里对习近平的强硬程度、以及这位中国领导人的反应，可能取决于白宫内部关于在贸易问题上如何与北京对抗的激烈辩论的结果。
Robert A. Manning, a senior fellow at the Brent Scowcroft Center on	布伦特·斯科克罗夫特国际安全中心(Brent Scowcroft Center on

International Security, said “bitter internal battles” had erupted between Trump advisers who want to be more aggressive in challenging China on trade and those who counsel a more moderate tone.	International Security)的高级研究员罗伯特·A·曼宁(Robert A. Manning)说, 特朗普的顾问们之间爆发了“激烈的内部争论”, 一些人要在贸易问题上更声势浩大地挑战中国, 另一些人则建议用更温和的方式。
“Trump’s more moderate advisers appear to have persuaded him that it would be more effective and less risky to pursue his grievances” through existing trade organizations, Mr. Manning wrote this week.	“特朗普更温和的顾问看来已经说服了他, (通过现有的贸易组织)来解决他在贸易问题上的不满会更有效, 风险也更小, ”曼宁在本周写道。
Since his election, Mr. Trump has sent contradictory signals about his approach to China and the effects of his “America First” foreign policy on the relationship between the two countries.	自从当选总统以来, 特朗普对中国的态度、以及其“美国优先”的外交政策对两国关系的影响, 传递了矛盾的信号。
Before he was sworn into office, Mr. Trump made an unorthodox telephone call to the president of Taiwan, and subsequently suggested that the United States might no longer honor the “One China” policy that has for decades recognized a single Chinese government.	在他宣誓就职之前, 特朗普与台湾总统通了一次电话, 这种做法很不正统, 他后来还暗示, 美国可能不再遵循几十年来的“一个中国”政策, 按照该政策, 美国承认只有一个中国政府。
But in February, Mr. Trump reversed himself during a call with Mr. Xi. At that point, the two men also agreed on the “necessity and urgency of strengthening cooperation” between their nations.	但今年2月, 特朗普在与习近平通电话时改变了说法。之后, 两位领导人还表示认同“中美加强合作的必要性和紧迫性”。
Mr. Trump has hosted a steady stream of world leaders at the White House since becoming president. But his diplomatic inexperience and his sometimes inconsistent approach toward China have raised the stakes for the meeting with Mr. Xi, who is looking to prove that he can hold his own against the American president.	自从担任总统以来, 特朗普已在白宫与源源不断前来到访的世界各国领导人会晤。但是, 特朗普外交经验的缺乏、以及他对中国时而采取的不一致态度, 提高了他与习近平会晤的风险, 习近平希望证明自己是能与这位美国总统抗衡的领导人。
On North Korea, Mr. Trump has publicly criticized China for failing to do enough to curb Mr. Kim. The president wrote on Twitter last month that North Korea had “been ‘playing’ the United States for years,” adding, “China has done little to help.”	在朝鲜问题上, 特朗普已经公开批评中国在遏制金正恩上做得不够。他上个月在 Twitter 上写道, 朝鲜“多年来一直‘玩弄’美国”, 还说, “中国几乎没有帮忙。”

On Tuesday, days before the summit meeting here, North Korea tested another ballistic missile.	就在这次首脑会议前的周二，朝鲜又测试了一枚弹道导弹。
Mr. Trump is expected to urge Mr. Xi to punish North Korea by cutting off its access to financial institutions and cracking down on people who evade United Nations sanctions. If China resists, the United States could impose its own sanctions against Chinese companies and people, a move that could lead to a surge in tensions between the two nations.	预计特朗普将敦促习近平惩罚朝鲜，切断朝鲜与金融机构的联系，打击那些躲避联合国制裁的人。如果中国对此表示抵制的话，美国也许会对中国的公司和个人采取制裁措施，这种做法可能会导致两国紧张局势的急剧上升。
On the eve of the visit, and perhaps to heighten the pressure on Mr. Xi, Mr. Trump spoke on Wednesday with Prime Minister Shinzo Abe of Japan, in a discussion that focused on North Korea's threat, according to a statement from the White House. China and Japan are uneasy neighbors, but both have called on the North to stop its saber-rattling and agree to retreat on its nuclear ambitions.	根据白宫发布的一份声明，特朗普周三与日本首相安倍晋三通了电话，重点讨论了朝鲜威胁等问题。通话发生在习特会前夕，也许是为了增加习近平的压力。中国和日本是关系紧张的邻国，但两国都呼吁朝鲜停止其挑战行为、放弃其核野心。
The White House statement said that Mr. Trump had vowed to protect the United States' interests and allies in the region, but it conspicuously avoided any mention of China in the short description of his conversation with Mr. Abe. The president "emphasized that the United States stands with its allies Japan and South Korea in the face of the serious threat that North Korea continues to pose," the statement said.	白宫在声明中说，特朗普曾发誓要保护美国在该地区的利益和盟友，但在这份简短描述特朗普与安倍晋三对话的声明中，明显避免了提及中国。声明称，总统“强调，在朝鲜不断制造的严重威胁面前，美国与盟友韩国和日本站在一起”。
Other issues likely to come up in the discussions on Thursday could add to the strain.	周四讨论中可能出现的其他问题也会给会晤增添紧张气氛。
The United States has opposed Chinese territorial claims in the South China Sea, which the Obama administration called excessive. The previous administration demonstrated its opposition by sailing warships near the artificial island that China has been building in the area.	美国一直反对中国在南海的领土主张，奥巴马政府认为中国的主张过分了。上届政府用派军舰在中国建造的人工岛屿附近海域巡逻的方式，表达了对中国主张的反对。

During his confirmation hearings to become secretary of state, Rex W. Tillerson said the United States should “send China a clear signal that, first, the island-building stops. And second, your access to those islands also is not going to be allowed.”	在担任国务卿之前的提名确认听证会上,雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)曾表示,美国应该“向中国发出一个明确的信号,首先,停止修建岛屿。第二,你们也将不被允许靠近这些岛屿”。
Climate change, which previously produced agreement between the two nations, could also be a source of tension during the meetings between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi.	气候变化是以前两国之间有共识的问题,现在,这个问题也可能是给特朗普与习近平会晤制造紧张气氛的原因。
After intense negotiations with President Barack Obama, Mr. Xi agreed to jointly participate in global efforts to combat climate change. But Mr. Trump has moved quickly to reverse his predecessor’s climate agenda, raising questions about the future of cooperation with China on that subject.	在与奥巴马总统进行了紧张谈判之后,习近平同意与美国一起加入到应对气候变化的全球努力中来。但特朗普已经迅速逆转了自己前任的气候议程,这对中美在气候问题上继续合作的前景带来了疑问。
Washington’s retreat on climate change will allow China to take a global leadership role on the issue, something it craves.	华盛顿在气候变化上的退却,将让中国在这个问题上发挥全球领导的作用,这正是中国渴望的。
Mr. Xi is expected to arrive in Florida around midday on Thursday. He is staying at a nearby hotel and is scheduled to depart by midday on Friday.	预计习近平将于周四中午抵达佛罗里达。他将在附近一家酒店下榻,并定于周五中午离开。
The two men are not expected to play golf, in part because Mr. Xi has discouraged Communist Party officials from playing the game as part of his anti-corruption campaign at home.	没人预计这两位领导人会去打高尔夫球,部分原因是,作为国内开展的反腐败运动的一部分,习近平不鼓励共产党官员打高尔夫球。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170407/trump-xi-jinping-china-summit-mar-a-lago	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170407/trump-xi-jinping-china-summit-mar-a-lago
Philippines on Duterte’s Order to Occupy Disputed Islands: Never Mind	菲律宾称进军南海不是挑衅
MANILA — The Philippine government on Saturday walked back comments by President Rodrigo Duterte ordering the armed forces to	在菲律宾总统罗德里戈·杜特地(Rodrigo Déttente)关于命令武装部队占领南海争议水域无人岛的言论导致中菲关系紧张之后,该国政府于周六就这番言

occupy uninhabited islands in the disputed South China Sea after the comments caused tensions to spike with China.	论进行了淡化处理。
For one thing, the Philippines already occupies nine islands and reefs in the disputed chain, the Spratlys, and has troops stationed on a dilapidated World War II-era ship it stranded on one of the contested shoals.	首先，菲律宾已经占领了争议岛链斯普拉特利群岛（Spratlys，亦称南沙群岛——译注）的九个岛礁，还派军队驻守着一艘来自二战时代、搁浅在一个争议浅滩上的破旧军舰。
Analysts and some officials were also perplexed by the order, since it came as ties between the two nations were on the mend a year after a United Nations-backed tribunal ruled in favor of the Philippines in the sea dispute.	在由联合国支持的一个仲裁庭就中菲南海争议做出有利于菲律宾的裁决一年后，两国关系本已得到弥合，杜特地却下达了这样的命令，让分析人士和一些官员颇为困惑。
Defense Secretary Delfin Lorenzana, who was with Mr. Duterte when he made the statements at a military camp on Thursday, sought to allay fears that the president was abandoning his pro-China stance.	杜特地于周四在一个军营里发表相关言论时，伴随其左右的是菲律宾国防部长德芬·洛伦扎纳(Delfin Lorenzana)。他试图消除对于总统正在抛弃亲中立场的恐慌。
"There is no cause for concern," Mr. Lorenzana said. "The islands have been in our possession since the 1980s, when former President Marcos declared it as ours."	"没有担心的理由，"洛伦扎纳说。"这些岛从80年代开始便在我们手中，马科斯(Marcos)总统当时宣布，它们是我们的。"
Mr. Lorenzana sought to clarify that Mr. Duterte meant the military should construct living accommodations in the islands, including a water and sewerage system, lighthouse and electricity, so that they could serve as sanctuaries for fishermen.	洛伦扎纳试图澄清，杜特地的意思是军方应该在岛上修建生活设施，包括一个给排水系统、灯塔以及电力设施，这样一来它们就可以充当渔民的避难所了。
Of the islands controlled by the Philippines, the biggest, Pag-asa, also known as Thitu, is considered an island municipality. It is occupied by troops and governed by an elected official under the province of Palawan, west of Manila.	在菲律宾控制的岛礁中，最大的派格阿萨岛（Pag-asa，也叫Thitu，中国称中业岛——译注）被视为一个海岛行政区。岛上驻扎着军队，其管理者是一名民选官员，上面是马尼拉以西的巴拉望省。
But it is part of the Spratly Islands, an archipelago of about 14 islets and	但它隶属于斯普拉特利群岛，后者由分布于南海中部的大约14个小岛、数

dozens of reefs and shoals scattered near the middle of the South China Sea. China, Taiwan, Vietnam, Malaysia, Brunei and the Philippines have overlapping claims in the archipelago.	十个礁石和浅滩组成。中国、台湾、越南、马来西亚、文莱和菲律宾都对该群岛提出了交叠的领土要求。
Security experts have long warned that the dispute is a flash point of conflict in the region.	安全专家一直警告说，相关分歧是地区冲突的一个触发点。
The Philippines occupies nine of the roughly 50 islands and reefs that it claims in the Spratlys, including Pag-asa. While all the countries with claims have agreed not to make any provocative moves, there is no binding "code of conduct" to govern their actions.	菲律宾宣称拥有斯普拉特利群岛大约 50 个岛礁，并占领了其中九个，包括派格阿萨岛。尽管所有声索国都同意避免采取任何挑衅行动，但并不存在用以管控其行为的具有约束力的“行为准则”。
China recently moved to advance its own claims in the sea by building shoals into artificial islands and building military and other facilities on them.	近年来，中国积极推进对南海的领土主张，将一些浅滩建成人造岛屿，并在上面架设了军事及其他设施。
A spokeswoman for the Chinese Foreign Ministry, Hua Chunying, said Beijing had been worried about Mr. Duterte's statement and expressed hope that Manila would continue to "properly manage maritime disputes with China."	中国外交部女发言人华春莹说，北京对杜特地的言论表示关切，希望马尼拉继续“同中方妥善管控涉海分歧”。
The two sides are to meet in May in a bid to hammer out a "bilateral" arrangement to manage conflicting claims.	双方将于 5 月举行会晤，争取就如何处理相互冲突的领土诉求达成“双边”协议。
A Philippine presidential spokesman, Ernesto Abella, assured the Chinese side that Mr. Duterte had not changed tack.	菲律宾总统发言人埃内斯托·阿贝拉(Ernesto Abella)向中国保证，杜特地并未改变立场。
"The Philippines assures all claimant countries that we remain committed to improving and enhancing our relations with our neighbors and partners in the region," Mr. Abella said. "At the same time, it is important that the living conditions, safety and personal security of Filipinos in Philippine territory be assured."	“菲律宾向所有声索国保证，我们仍然致力于改善和巩固与邻国以及在该地区的合作伙伴的关系，”阿贝拉说。“与此同时，菲律宾领土上的菲律宾人的生活条件和个人安全也很重要，需要得到保障。”

Mr. Duterte's position on the matter "is clear and has nothing to do with politics," he added. "His instructions cover existing Philippine facilities and Philippine territory."	他还说，杜特地在此事上的立场“很清楚，与政治无关。他的指令涉及的是菲律宾现有的设施和菲律宾的领土”。
This past week, Mr. Duterte ordered troops to occupy South China Sea islands that remained vacant. He also said he might go to Pag-asa island to plant a Philippine flag there on June 12, the country's Independence Day.	上周，杜特地命令军队占领仍然空着的一些南海岛屿。他还说他或许会在6月12日，也就是菲律宾独立日那天亲自登上派格阿萨岛，升起菲律宾国旗。
But the order puzzled observers. Mr. Duterte had previously noted that China and the Philippines could share resources in the disputed region rather than fight over it.	但这一命令让观察人士颇为困惑。杜特地早前曾表示，菲律宾和中国可以共享争议地区的资源，而不是你争我夺。
A former national security adviser, Roilo Golez, who remains active in anti-China political circles, said the president could merely be posturing.	仍然活跃在反华政治圈的前国家安全顾问罗伊洛·戈雷兹(Roilo Golez)说，杜特地总统或许只是在做样子。
It is not the first time Mr. Duterte has issued conflicting statements. Mr. Abella has told journalists to use their "creative imagination" in trying to interpret what the president meant.	这并非杜特地首次发表自相矛盾的言论。阿贝拉告诉记者，要发挥他们的“创造性想象力”，去解读总统的意图。
During a visit to China last year, the usually foul-mouthed president caused confusion when he announced an impending "separation" from the United States, a traditional security ally. But he later reversed that statement and said the two enjoyed a longstanding alliance treaty.	去年到访中国期间，这位常常口出污言的总统宣布将与其传统的国家安全盟友美国“分手”，引发了外界的困惑。但他后来调转口风，说美菲长期以来的同盟条约依然有效。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170410/philippines-duterte-spratly-islands	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170410/philippines-duterte-spratly-islands
Move of U.S. Warships Shows Trump Has Few Options on North Korea	中韩或加强对朝制裁，美航母逼近朝鲜半岛
SEOUL, South Korea — China and South Korea agreed on Monday to impose tougher sanctions on North Korea if it carries out nuclear or	韩国首尔——据韩国的一名高级外交官称，中国和韩国周一同意，如果朝鲜进行核武器或洲际弹道导弹试验，就会对该国施加更严厉的制裁。与此同时，

intercontinental ballistic missile tests, a senior South Korean diplomat said, as the United States increased its pressure on the North by moving a Navy carrier strike group toward the Korean Peninsula.	美国正派遣一支海军航空母舰打击编队向朝鲜半岛进发，增加对朝鲜的压力。
The South Korean announcement seemed intended to dissuade North Korea from conducting a test to mark a national holiday this week, but previous threats of sanctions have not deterred the North from pressing ahead with its nuclear program and tensions were running high in the region.	韩国公布的这个消息似乎旨在劝阻朝鲜本周为庆祝其国家节日而进行试验，但之前的制裁威胁并未能阻止朝鲜推进自己的核计划，该地区的局势高度紧张。
President Trump's order to launch missile strikes against Syria last week, coupled with a decision to send the aircraft carrier Carl Vinson and several other warships back to waters near Korea, have led some South Koreans to fear that a military strike against North Korea might be looming, should the country conduct another nuclear test.	上周，特朗普总统下令对叙利亚发动导弹袭击，并决定将卡尔文森号航空母舰(Carl Vinson)和其他几艘军舰派回朝鲜半岛附近的水域。这些决定让一些韩国人担心，如果朝鲜再次进行核试验，对该国的军事打击可能正在逼近。
On Monday, Wu Dawei, the top Chinese envoy for international efforts to end North Korea's nuclear weapons program, met with his South Korean counterpart, Kim Hong-kyun, in Seoul, the South's capital, to discuss what to do about the North's advancing nuclear and missile programs.	周一，加入了终止朝鲜核武器计划的国际努力的中方高级代表武大伟在韩国首都首尔会见了韩国官员金弘筠(Kim Hong-kyun)，讨论如何应对朝鲜不断推进的核武器和导弹项目。
"Both sides agreed that despite the international community's warnings, if North Korea makes strategic provocations such as a nuclear test or an ICBM launch, there should be strong additional measures in accordance with United Nations Security Council resolutions," Mr. Kim said after the meeting.	"双方都认为，尽管国际社会不断发出警告，但如果朝鲜进行核试验或洲际弹道导弹发射等战略挑衅，应该按照联合国安理会的决议采取强硬的额外措施，"金弘筠在会晤后表示。
Mr. Kim said he and Mr. Wu did not discuss a possible United States military strike against North Korea. Mr. Wu did not speak to reporters.	金弘筠称，他没有和武大伟讨论美国对朝鲜可能进行的军事打击。武大伟没有对记者讲话。

The Trump administration has been pressing Beijing to rein in its Communist neighbor by using its economic leverage or face unilateral American actions. Those actions were most likely to include sanctions against Chinese businesses accused of helping North Korea earn foreign currency to finance its weapons programs, analysts said.	特朗普政府一直在敦促北京使用经济杠杆控制其共产主义邻国，否则美国就会采取单方面行动。分析人士称，这些行动最有可能包括对被控帮助朝鲜赚取外币的中国企业进行制裁。对朝鲜而言，外汇为该国的武器计划提供了资金。
But in recent weeks, top aides to Mr. Trump have also publicly warned that they were not ruling out "military options." Over the weekend, Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson said the American military strike against Syria was a signal to other countries that "a response is likely to be undertaken" if they pose a danger.	不过最近几周，特朗普的高级助手也公开警告称，他们并没有排除“军事选项”。周末，美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)表示，美国对叙利亚的军事打击是向其他国家发出一个信号：如果它们构成威胁，那么美国“有可能采取回应措施”。
"President Xi clearly understands" and "I think agrees, that the situation has intensified and has reached a certain level of threat that action has to be taken," Mr. Tillerson said on the CBS News program "Face the Nation," referring to the Chinese president, Xi Jinping, who met with Mr. Trump last week in Florida.	蒂勒森在 CBS 新闻节目《面对国民》(Face the Nation)中表示，“习主席清楚地知道”，“我认为他也同意，局势已经非常紧张，达到了一定的威胁程度，必须采取行动”。他指的是中国国家主席习近平，后者上周在佛罗里达州会见了特朗普。
Analysts and officials in South Korea fear that a pre-emptive military attack against North Korea, even one limited to taking out nuclear and missile bases, could set off a catastrophic retaliation and a full-scale war. Seoul lies within range of North Korean artillery and rockets amassed along the border.	韩国的分析人士和官员们担心，针对朝鲜的先发制人的军事打击——甚至连仅限于摧毁核武器和导弹基地的袭击——都可能引发灾难性的报复和全面战争。首尔位于朝鲜在边界布置的大炮和火箭的攻击范围内。
In South Korea, the idea of a pre-emptive strike has long been dismissed as unrealistic.	在韩国，先发制人的袭击长期以来被认为是不现实的。
But "under President Trump, we are afraid that that may not necessarily be so any more," said Cheong Seong-chang, an analyst at the Sejong Institute, a think tank in South Korea.	但是，韩国智库世宗研究院(Sejong Institute)的分析师郑相昌(Cheong Seong-chang)表示，“在特朗普总统治下，我们担心，情况不一定再是这样了。”

Lee Sang-hyun, another Sejong Institute analyst, said that Mr. Trump appeared to make “impromptu” decisions on foreign policy.	世宗研究院的另一位分析师李相贤（Lee Sang-hyun，音）表示，特朗普似乎经常在外交政策方面做出“即兴”的决定。
But he said a pre-emptive strike remained only a “theoretical possibility.” There have been no signs of an imminent American military action against the North, such as the evacuation of tens of thousands of civilian Americans living in the South or the escalation of an alert level for South Korean and American military forces, Mr. Lee said.	但他表示，先发制人的袭击依然只是一种“理论上的可能性”。李相贤表示，没有迹象表明美国即将对朝鲜采取军事行动，比如撤离在韩国生活的数万名美国平民，或是提高韩国和美国军方的警戒水平。
The South Korean government also played down the possibility.	韩国政府也淡化了这种可能性。
Lee Duk-haeng, a spokesman for South Korea’s Unification Ministry, said, “All issues on the Korean Peninsula must be resolved peacefully.” South Korea was in close consultations with Washington, he said, and people “need not worry too much” about reports that the United States might attempt a strike against the North.	韩国统一部发言人李德恒（Lee Duk-haeng，音）表示：“朝鲜半岛的所有问题必须和平解决。”他表示，韩国正在与华盛顿密切磋商，人们“不必太担心”美国可能试图袭击朝鲜的报道。
On the question of a pre-emptive attack against the North, “It’s natural for us to have a different stance from the United States,” the unification minister, Hong Yong-pyo, was quoted as saying during a briefing for South Korean news outlets.	据说，统一部部长洪容杓(Hong Yong-pyo)在向韩国新闻媒体通报情况时表示，在关于向朝鲜发动先发制人的袭击问题上，“我们和美国的立场不同是很自然的”。
To South Koreans, Mr. Trump’s order to launch a barrage of missiles on Syria demonstrated his willingness to use military means against an adversary deemed particularly egregious. And the order to the Carl Vinson to return to waters near the Korean Peninsula appeared unusual, because it conducted exercises in the area last month.	对韩国人来说，特朗普下令对叙利亚发射一系列导弹，表明他愿意使用军事手段打击被他视为极其恶劣的对手。而命令卡尔文森号航母返回朝鲜半岛附近水域似乎也不同寻常，因为它上个月才在该地区进行了军事演习。
Moon Sang-gyun, a spokesman for the South Korean Defense Ministry, said the strike group was moving back to deter North Korean provocations in coming weeks.	韩国国防部发言人文相均(Moon Sang-gyun)表示，该打击编队的返回是为了在未来几周里遏制朝鲜的挑衅。

North Korea observes major anniversaries this month, including the April 15 birthday of its founder, Kim Il-sung, grandfather of the current leader, Kim Jong-un. Recent activities around the country's nuclear test site have raised concerns that it might celebrate the anniversaries, as it has sometimes in the past, with tests of major military hardware such as a nuclear device.	本月,朝鲜要庆祝一些重要纪念日,包括4月15日其开国领袖金日成(Kim Il Sung)的生日,金日成是现任领导人金正恩的祖父。该国近期在核试验场附近进行的活动让人们担心,它可能会像过去的某些时候那样,用核装置等主要军事装备的测试作为周年纪念活动。
The North Korean anniversaries also overlap with annual joint military exercises by the United States and South Korea.	朝鲜的这些周年纪念日也与美韩的年度联合军演重合。
North Korea, which has called these exercises rehearsals for war, has often lashed out with weapons tests. Last week, it test-launched a ballistic missile on the eve of Mr. Trump's meeting with Mr. Xi.	朝鲜称这些演习为战争预演,经常用武器试验作为回击。上周,在特朗普与习近平会晤前夕,它试射了一个弹道导弹。
On Sunday, North Korea said the United States' missile strikes against Syria proved that nuclear weapons were justified to protect the country against the Americans.	周日,朝鲜表示,美国对叙利亚的导弹袭击证明,用核武器保护该国免受美国伤害是合理的。
"Some forces are loudmouthed that the recent U.S. military attack on Syria is an action of 'warning,'" to North Korea, "but the latter is not frightened at such a threat," the Korean Central News Agency quoted a spokesman for the North Korean Foreign Ministry as saying. He added that the North's "tremendous military muscle with a nuclear force" would foil any American aggression.	朝中社(Korean Central News Agency)援引朝鲜外交部一位发言人的话说:"有些势力夸夸其谈,称美国前不久对叙利亚的军事袭击是对朝鲜的警告,但我们并不害怕这样的威胁。"这位发言人补充说,朝鲜"包括核武器在内的巨大军事力量"将挫败美国的任何侵略行动。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170411/north-korea-china-south Xi and Trump Discuss Rising Tensions With North Korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170411/north-korea-china-south 朝鲜半岛局势严峻,特朗普与习近平再次通话
BEIJING — China's leader, Xi Jinping, and President Trump spoke by phone on Wednesday about the escalating tensions with North Korea as a prominent Chinese state-run newspaper warned the North	北京——中国领导人习近平与美国总统特朗普周三就朝鲜紧张局势升级问题通了电话,同时,中国一家主要官方报纸警告说,如果朝鲜敢再次测试核武器的话,该国将面临其重要的石油供应被切断的可能。

that it faced a cutoff of vital oil supplies if it dared test a nuclear weapon.
The phone call, reported by China's state broadcaster, CCTV, came hours after Mr. Trump cautioned Beijing in a Twitter message and a television interview that it needed to help Washington rein in North Korea, a Chinese ally. During the call, which was initiated by Mr. Trump, Mr. Xi said that the matter should be solved through peaceful means, the state news agency Xinhua reported.	中国官方电视台网中央电视台报道了两位领导人的通话，通话发生的几小时前，特朗普曾发推文、并在一次电视采访中告诫北京，中国需要帮助华盛顿控制中国的盟友朝鲜。据官方通讯社新华社报道，这次通话是特朗普发起的，习近平在电话中表示，应该以和平方式解决朝鲜问题。
Tensions escalated further on Wednesday as reports said the Japanese Navy would join the United States Navy strike group led by the aircraft carrier Carl Vinson in its mission off the Korean coast. Those joint exercises would take place as the American armada passed through waters close to Japan, Reuters said.	紧张气氛周三进一步升级，有报道称，日本海军将加入到由卡尔文森号航空母舰带领的美国海军打击编队中来，一起在朝鲜半岛附近水域执行任务。路透社说，联合演习将在美国舰队从日本海域经过时进行。
The Carl Vinson and several other warships are heading toward the Korean Peninsula in a show of force intended to deter the North from testing a sixth nuclear weapon or launching missiles.	卡尔文森号及其他几艘军舰正在驶向朝鲜半岛，以展示力量，目的是阻止朝鲜进行第六次核武器试验或发射导弹。
North Korea on Saturday is celebrating the 105th anniversary of the birth of Kim Il-sung, the founder of the nation. Its current leader, Kim Jong-un, his grandson, is expected to use the occasion to either stage a nuclear weapons test or conduct a missile test, in direct defiance of the United States and its main patron, China.	朝鲜将于本周六庆祝开国领袖金日成诞辰 105 周年。预计金日成的孙子、现任领导人金正恩将利用这个机会上演一次核武器试验，或进行导弹测试，以对美国 and 朝鲜的主要资助者中国表示直接对抗。
American television networks and some newspapers have been invited to report on a military show in the capital, Pyongyang, this weekend.	朝鲜已邀请美国的电视台网和一些报纸对周末将在首都平壤举行的军事表演进行报道。
In an unusually strong editorial, Global Times, a newspaper that sometimes reflects the thinking of China's leadership, said Beijing	《环球时报》在一篇措辞异常强硬的社评中说，如果朝鲜再次进行核试验，北京会支持更严格的联合国制裁措施，包括“空前严厉”的对朝鲜出口石油的

would support stiffer United Nations sanctions, including "strictly limiting" oil exports to North Korea should it conduct a nuclear test.	限制。《环球时报》有时反映中国领导层的想法。
The editorial, indicating nervousness about what the North might do on Saturday, said that the peninsula was the closest to "military clashes" since 2006.	社评对朝鲜周六可能做出的动作表示担忧，社评说，自 2006 年以来，朝鲜半岛目前处于离爆发“军事冲突”最近的时刻。
"China, too, can no longer stand the continuous escalation of the North Korean nuclear issue at its doorstep," the editorial said. "Instead of accepting a situation that continues to worsen, putting an end to this is more in line with the wish of the Chinese public."	社评说：“中国也很难忍受朝核问题不停在家门口折腾了，让这个问题了结，比接受它不停发酵下去，更符合中国社会的集体愿望。”
The newspaper called on Pyongyang to avoid a "head-on collision" with Mr. Trump by suspending its provocative activities. If the North Korean regime did not restrain itself and made "a huge mistake, it may be difficult to have another chance to correct its strategy."	该报呼吁平壤暂停其挑衅活动，不与特朗普“迎头相撞”。如果朝鲜政权不自我约束的话，会“铸成大错，或许很难有开展战略修正的机会。”
North Korea is almost entirely dependent on China for its oil, and a loss of its supplies would cripple the noticeable economic growth in the country over the last few years.	朝鲜的石油几乎完全依赖中国，切断石油供应会削弱该国近几年明显的经济增长。
Global Times also reminded North Korea that Mr. Trump had ordered missile strikes against Syria, an attack that occurred during Mr. Xi's visit to Florida less than a week ago. Mr. Trump has promised in interviews that he is willing to take unilateral action against North Korea if necessary, although he has not specified what he would do.	《环球时报》还提醒朝鲜，特朗普已下令对叙利亚进行导弹打击，袭击就发生在习近平不到一周前访问佛罗里达州期间。特朗普已多次在采访中扬言，如果有必要，他愿意对朝鲜采取单方面行动，虽然他没有具体说明会采取什么行动。
"Not only is Washington brimming with confidence and arrogance following the missile attacks on Syria, but Trump is also willing to be regarded as a man who honors his promises," Global Times wrote.	“华盛顿正处在对叙利亚刚刚发动军事打击后对自己‘威严’和‘霸气’的自我欣赏中，”《环球时报》写道。而“特朗普是个愿意听到舆论称赞自己‘能够兑现诺言’的人。”
The two leaders discussed North Korea during their meeting at Mr.	中美两国领导人在特朗普位于佛罗里达州的马阿拉歌(Mar-a-Lago)庄园会

Trump's Mar-a-Lago estate in Florida, but little progress appears to have been made.	晤期间讨论了朝鲜问题，但似乎没有什么进展。
After the talks, administration officials said that Mr. Xi did not offer substantially new measures, including stiffer sanctions, to penalize North Korea's behavior.	会晤结束后，美国政府官员表示，习近平未提出任何实质性的新建议，比如用更严厉的制裁来惩罚朝鲜的行为。
The CCTV account of the call on Wednesday did not mention new actions China might take against North Korea. But the two leaders most likely had a substantive conversation about addressing the situation, a Chinese expert on North Korea said.	央视在周三对中美两国领导人通电话的报道中，没有提中国可能对朝鲜采取新行动。但中美两国领导人很可能就当前问题进行了实质性的交谈，中国的一位朝鲜问题专家说。
"We don't know the real content of the conversation," said Cheng Xiaohu, an associate professor of international relations at Renmin University. "China used to be in a passive mode. China's policies towards North Korea are becoming increasingly proactive."	"我们不了解通话的实际内容，"中国人民大学国际关系学院副教授成晓河说。"中国以前处于被动状态。中国对朝鲜的政策正在变得越来越主动。" https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170413/trump-china-north-korea-xi-jinping	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170413/trump-china-north-korea-xi-jinping
With Few Options, U.S. Doesn't Rule Out Talks With North Korea	对付朝鲜缺乏良策，美国不排除对话
BEIJING — North Korea may have refrained from detonating a nuclear device and botched another missile test this weekend, easing tensions in Asia. But it is unclear whether President Trump has found a way around the limited options against North Korea that constrained his predecessors and put it on the path to becoming a nuclear power.	北京——上周末，朝鲜似乎克制住自己没有引爆一个核装置，同时又搞砸了一次导弹试验，这令亚洲的紧张局势有所缓和。不过，目前尚不清楚特朗普总统是否找到法子克服有限的选项来对付朝鲜，他的前任曾为此束手无策，导致朝鲜走上了成为核武强国的道路。
Mr. Trump essentially has three choices: a military strike that could ignite a full-blown war; pressure on China to impose tougher sanctions to persuade the North to change course, an approach that failed for his predecessors; or a deal that could require significant concessions, with	特朗普大体有三个选择：对朝鲜实施军事打击——有可能引发全面战争；向中国施压，令它实施更严厉的制裁，以说服朝鲜改变航向——他的前任选择了这一策略，但没能取得成功；或者签署一项可能需要做出重大妥协的协议，而且无法保证朝鲜一定会履行承诺。

no guarantee that North Korea would fulfill its promises.
Thus far, Mr. Trump has tried to signal both resolve and ambiguity, suggesting at various times that he is open to all three options. The question is whether his apparent willingness to consider both war and a deal may be enough carrot and stick to persuade China to change its approach and apply enough pressure to bring the North to the table.	截至目前,特朗普竭力同时释放出坚定和模棱两可的信号,在多个场合表示,他对三种选项都持开放态度。问题是他同时考虑战争和协议的明显意愿是否足以达到软硬兼施的效果,从而说服中国改变自己的方式,施加足够的压力,将朝鲜拉到谈判桌上。
Vice President Mike Pence, during a visit to South Korea, raised the possibility on Monday that the Trump administration could pursue talks. No one should mistake the resolve of the United States, he said, also noting that Washington was seeking security “through peaceable means, through negotiations.” The phrasing was unusual for a senior American official discussing the Korean Peninsula with American troops in the background.	在访问韩国期间,美国副总统迈克·彭斯(Mike Pence)于周一提到了特朗普政府寻求对话的可能性。他表示,所有人都不应误判美国的决心,还指出华盛顿在努力“通过和平手段、通过谈判”实现安全。对一名谈论有美军驻扎的朝鲜半岛的美国高层官员而言,这种措辞非同寻常。
Talks have long been China’s preference, and now that Mr. Trump seems to be relying on Beijing to an unprecedented degree, Mr. Pence may have been signaling that the United States was open to negotiations. China’s chief objective is to get talks — of any kind — started to avoid conflict so close to home.	长久以来,中国一直倾向于进行对话,如今特朗普对北京的依赖似乎达到了前所未有的程度,彭斯或许是在释放美国愿意进行谈判的信号。中国的首要目标是展开对话——不管以何种方式——以免在距离本土这么近的地方发生冲突。
War on the peninsula is a nightmare for China that could lead to at least one million casualties, according to some estimates, ravage North and South Korea and set back Beijing’s climb to global pre-eminence.	对中国来说,朝鲜半岛爆发战争是一场噩梦。据估计,这至少会导致100万人伤亡,会摧毁朝鲜与韩国,也会阻碍中国跻身全球领先国家的进程。
In his most flexible language yet, China’s foreign minister, Wang Yi, appealed again last Friday for negotiations. “As long as it is a talk, China is willing to support it: either it is formal or informal, one-track or dual-track, bilateral, trilateral or quadrilateral,” Mr. Wang said in Beijing.	上周五,中国外交部长王毅以他迄今为止最灵活的措辞,再一次呼吁进行谈判。“只要是对话,不管是一轨的、二轨的、或者是三方四方的,中方都愿意支持,”王毅在北京表示。“我们也愿意以开放的态度,接受各方提出的倡议。”

"We are also willing to stay open-minded and accept the good advice from others."
North Korea's leader, Kim Jong-un, already has enough fissile material for 20 to 25 nuclear weapons, and may be able to produce sufficient fissile materials — plutonium and highly enriched uranium — for six to seven new weapons a year, according to Siegfried S. Hecker, a former director of the Los Alamos National Laboratory.	前洛斯阿拉莫斯国家实验室(Los Alamos National Laboratory)主任西格夫里·S·赫克(Siegfried S. Hecker)表示, 朝鲜领导人金正恩已经拥有足以制造20至25枚核武器的裂变材料, 或许还能生产足够多的裂变材料——钚和高浓缩铀——每年制造出六至七枚新武器。
Should the North conduct its sixth nuclear test, it would move closer to having a hydrogen bomb, or a two-stage thermonuclear weapon, Mr. Hecker said, with up to a thousand times more power than the Hiroshima-style weapons Mr. Kim has detonated so far.	赫克表示, 如果朝鲜进行第六次核试验, 将距离拥有氢弹, 或者说二段热核武器更近了, 后者的破坏力将是金正恩目前引爆的广岛式武器的一千倍。
With that level of firepower, Mr. Hecker said he worried about a "nuclear catastrophe" on the peninsula resulting from either "escalation of military activities" or poor security around the North's nuclear arsenal. Talks are needed immediately, he said, just to deal with the immediate threat to Japan and South Korea, both American allies.	赫克还提到, 有了这样的火力, 他担心会因为"军事活动升级"或朝鲜核武库安全措施不力, 给朝鲜半岛带来"核灾难"。他表示, 需要立即展开对话, 以便解决美国的两个盟友日本和韩国所遭受的迫在眉睫的威胁。
The logic for diplomacy should be compelling to the Trump administration, Chinese experts say, even as Washington stakes out a policy of "maximum pressure" and has deployed a naval flotilla led by the aircraft carrier Carl Vinson to the coast of the Korean Peninsula.	中方专家表示, 正当华盛顿抛出了"最大压力"政策, 部署了一支以卡尔文森号航空母舰(Carl Vinson)为首的海军舰队前往朝鲜半岛海岸的时候, 这种外交逻辑对特朗普政府而言应该足够有说服力。
In a formal proposal last month, China said that talks should be framed on the basis of North Korea suspending its nuclear testing, and the United States and South Korea suspending their military exercises off the peninsula.	中国在上月提出的正式建议中表示, 谈话应该在朝鲜暂停核试验、美韩暂停在朝鲜半岛海岸的军事活动的基础上进行。
Such suggestions were a nonstarter for the Obama administration,	这样的提议对奥巴马政府而言是不可接受的, 后者坚称朝鲜必须先放弃核武

which insisted that Pyongyang had to give up its weapons first, and the conditions, as proposed by Mr. Wang last month, were immediately rejected by senior Trump administration officials.	器, 这样的条件——就像王毅上月提议的——马上遭到了特朗普政府高层官员的拒绝。
Washington needs to understand North Korea's point of view, argues China, which fought on the North's side against the United States during the Korean War, losing an estimated 300,000 soldiers.	中国提出, 华盛顿需要明白朝鲜的想法, 后者于朝鲜战争期间在半岛北部与美国作战, 损失了约 30 万士兵。
As nearly 30,000 American troops are stationed in South Korea and frequent American military exercises occur on land and at sea, North Korea has complained that it is threatened by a "ring of American fire." The United States is still technically at war with the North because a peace treaty was never signed at the end of the Korean War in 1953.	现在有近 3 万美军驻扎于韩国, 在陆地和海上频繁举行军事演习的情况下, 朝鲜曾抱怨自己遭到“美国火力圈”的威胁。从技术层面讲, 美国和朝鲜依然处在战争状态, 因为在 1953 年朝鲜战争结束时, 两国并未签署和平条约。
A major purpose of any new diplomacy would be to halt the North's nuclear program. The longer the country is allowed to test its weapons, the more lethal they become. Capping the arsenal at its current stage is one of more palatable among several unpalatable options, American and Chinese experts say.	如若采取任何新的外交策略, 其主要目的应该是让朝鲜停止其核项目。这个国家被允许进行核实验的时间越长, 武器的破坏性就越大。美方和中方的专家表示, 让朝鲜核武库在目前的阶段封顶, 是几个难以接受的选项中相对能让人接受的一个。
The North's freedom to conduct underground tests gives it the chance to significantly improve its weapons by using less fissile material per weapon and producing greater explosive yields, said David Albright, a physicist who oversees the Institute for Science and International Security in Washington.	管理华盛顿科学与国际安全研究所(Institute for Science and International Security)的物理学家戴维·奥尔布赖特(David Albright)表示, 因为可以自由地进行地下试验, 朝鲜有机会大幅改善武器, 令每个武器使用更少的裂变材料而产生更大的爆炸当量。
For Mr. Trump — and China and its neighbors — this means a much graver threat than the Obama or Bush administrations faced, Mr. Hecker wrote in The New York Times in January.	赫克在今年 1 月发表于《纽约时报》一篇文章中写道, 对特朗普, 以及中国及其邻国而言, 这意味着一个比奥巴马或布什政府之前面临的大得多的威胁。
"Pyongyang can most likely already reach all of South Korea, Japan and	“平壤很有可能已经能将武器发射至韩国、日本全境, 甚至触及美国在太平

possibly even some United States targets in the Pacific" with its nuclear weapons, he wrote.	洋的一些目标,"他写道。
"Today the most important point is to avoid the use or detonation of a nuclear device on the Korean Peninsula," he said this weekend as the world waited to see whether the North would detonate a weapon. "Any use of nuclear devices of any sort on the Korean Peninsula is what I call nuclear catastrophe."	"如今最重要的问题是避免在朝鲜半岛上使用或引爆核装置,"上周末当整个世界都在等着看朝鲜是否会引爆一枚核武器时,他这样说道。"在朝鲜半岛上以任何方式使用任何类型的核装置,都会带来我所说的核灾难。"
During a visit to South Korea last month, Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson rejected China's push for talks as a way of buying time to halt North Korea's testing program. Negotiations could begin only after the North gave up its weapons, Mr. Tillerson said, a condition that Mr. Pence did not mention on Monday.	在上月访问韩国期间,美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)拒绝了中国推动对话的努力,以此为朝鲜停止核项目争取时间。蒂勒森表示,只有在朝鲜放弃核武器之后才能开启谈判,但彭斯周一并没有提及这个条件。
Chinese experts say they detect an opening for negotiations.	中方专家称,他们感觉谈判的窗户露出了一个缝。
"Mr. Trump said something interesting during his campaign — that if necessary he could meet with Kim Jong-un and have a sandwich with him," said Yang Xiyu, a former diplomat from China who led his country's delegation to the so-called six-party talks on North Korea in the mid-2000s. "We can see that as a shortcut to solve the issue in a peaceful manner."	"在竞选期间,特朗普曾说了一些有趣的话——如果有必要,他会和金正恩会面,一起吃三明治,"曾于2000年代中期带领中国代表团参加朝鲜问题六方会谈的前中国外交官杨希雨说。"我们可以把这看作以和平方式解决这一问题的捷径。"
The idea of a meeting between Mr. Trump and Mr. Kim, who has been treated with obvious disdain by Mr. Xi, is not so far-fetched, Mr. Yang said.	杨希雨表示,特朗普与金正恩会面的想法没有那么遥不可及,后者明显一直遭到中国国家主席习近平的蔑视。
Before Mr. Kim came to power in 2011, North Korea participated in the six-party talks with China and the United States, but the North always sent an official who lacked the power to decide on substantive issues.	在金正恩于2011年掌权之前,朝鲜曾参与和中国、美国进行的六方会谈,但朝鲜派去的始终是一名没有权力就实质性问题拍板的官员。

Now was the time to remove that obstacle and go to Mr. Kim directly, Mr. Yang said.	杨希雨认为，现在是时候解除障碍，直接和金正恩面谈了。
"There is only one person who has the authority to make a fundamental decision — yes or no — and that's Kim," Mr. Yang said.	"只有一个人有权做出一项重大决策——不管答案是肯定还是否定——那个人就是金正恩，"杨希雨说道。
"China can facilitate a three-way dialogue among the top leaders of China, North Korea and the United States so we can at least try the shortcut," he added.	"中国可以在中国高层领导人、朝鲜和美国之间推动三方对话，这样我们至少可以试试那条捷径是否可行，"他接着说道。
Mr. Kim would have to be persuaded that the United States would not attack the North if he gave up his weapons, Mr. Yang said. The fate of the Libyan leader, Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi, who was driven from power and then killed after he gave up the components of his nuclear weapons program, was foremost in Mr. Kim's mind, Mr. Yang said.	杨希雨表示，必须说服金正恩相信，如果他交出他的核武器，美国不会袭击朝鲜。他还提到，遭遇利比亚领导人穆阿迈尔·卡扎菲上校(Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi)的命运是金正恩的最大顾虑，前者在交出他的核武器项目组件后，被驱逐下台，然后杀死。
Robert Carlin, an American expert who served in the Clinton administration and favors talks as a way to control the North's weapons development, contends that negotiations based on the premise of the denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula are possible.	曾供职于克林顿政府的美国专家罗伯特·卡林(Robert Carlin)赞成将对话当作一种控制朝鲜武器发展的方式，认为在朝鲜半岛无核化的前提下进行对话是有可能实现的。
In 2016, North Korea's official spokesman, one of the "highest on the North's ladder of authority," spoke of denuclearization as "the steadfast will of our party, army and people," Mr. Carlin wrote in suggesting that the opening should be seized.	2016年，"位于朝鲜权力阶梯最高层"的一位官方发言人曾表示，无核化是"我党、我军和我们的人民坚定不移的意愿"，卡林写道，暗示外界应该抓住这个机会。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170418/trump-north-korea-nuclear-us-talks	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170418/trump-north-korea-nuclear-us-talks
Criticism of Beijing's North Korea Policy Comes From Unlikely Place: China	中国学者：北京的朝鲜政策很失败
BEIJING — When China's best-known historian of the Korean War, Shen	北京——中国最著名的朝鲜战争历史学家沈志华最近阐述了他对朝鲜的看

Zhihua, recently laid out his views on North Korea, astonishment rippled through the audience. China, he said with a bluntness that is rare here, had fundamentally botched its policy on the divided Korean Peninsula.	法，令听众非常惊讶。他以此间罕见的直言不讳，谈及中国基本上搞砸了其朝韩政策。
China's bond with North Korea's Communist leaders formed even before Mao Zedong's decision in 1950 to send People's Liberation Army soldiers to fight alongside them in the Korean War. Mao famously said the two sides were "as close as lips and teeth."	中国与朝鲜共产党领导人的关系，在毛泽东 1950 年决定派志愿军参加朝鲜战争之前就已经形成了。毛泽东有一个著名的说法，说中朝两国“唇齿相依”。
But China should abandon the stale myths of fraternity that have propped up its support for North Korea and turn to South Korea, Mr. Shen said at a university lecture last month in Dalian, a northeastern Chinese port city.	沈志华上个月在中国东北港口城市大连的一所大学进行的讲座中表示，中国应该抛弃变味的兄弟情谊神话，放弃支持朝鲜，转向韩国。
"Judging by the current situation, North Korea is China's latent enemy and South Korea could be China's friend," Mr. Shen said, according to a transcript he published online. "We must see clearly that China and North Korea are no longer brothers in arms, and in the short term there's no possibility of an improvement in Chinese-North Korean relations."	“从目前的情况来判断，朝鲜是中国潜在的敌人，而韩国可能是中国的朋友。”根据沈志华在网上发表的一份讲稿，他这么说道。“我们要看清楚，中国与朝鲜已经不是战友了，在短期内，中朝关系不可能改善。”
The speech was a strikingly bold public challenge to Chinese policy, which remains unwilling to risk a break with North Korea even as its nuclear program raises tensions in northeast Asia and beyond. The controversy over Mr. Shen's views in China has distilled a renewed debate about whether the government should abandon its longstanding patronage of North Korea.	此番言论是对中国相关政策异常大胆的公开挑战，朝鲜的核计划引起东北亚及其他地区紧张局势，但中国不想冒险与之断绝关系。沈志华的看法在中国引发的争论，重新引发了政府是否应该放弃长期以来作为朝鲜支持者立场的辩论。
China's "traditionalist view that views the U.S. as a much greater threat	中国的“美国比朝鲜威胁要大得多的传统观念根深蒂固，”华盛顿国际战略研

than North Korea is deeply entrenched," Bonnie S. Glaser, an expert on Chinese foreign policy at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, said in an email. "But the proponents of change are vocal, too. They argue that North Korea is a growing liability."	究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)中国外交事务专家葛来仪(Bonnie S. Glaser)在电子邮件中表示,“但是,支持改变的人也发出了声音。他们认为朝鲜是一个越来越沉重的累赘。”
For decades, China has tried to preserve ties with North Korea as a partner and strategic shield in northeast Asia, even when the North's leaders became testy and unpredictable. In recent years, though, China has also tried to soothe the United States, build political and business ties with South Korea and help rein in North Korea's nuclear weapons program.	几十年来,即使朝鲜领导人变得易怒暴躁、不可预测,中国仍在试图保持与朝鲜的关系,将其视为东北亚的合作伙伴和战略盾牌。不过,近年来,中国也试图安抚美国,与韩国建立了政治和商业关系,并参与遏制朝鲜的核武器计划。
But as North Korea has improved its missiles and nuclear warheads, opening the possibility that it could one day strike the continental United States, China's go-between approach has become increasingly fraught.	但随着朝鲜导弹和核弹头技术的提高,使得有朝一日打击美国本土有了可能,中国也越发难以做到两头不得罪。
North Korea did not hold a nuclear test over the weekend that some had expected, and its missile test on Sunday fizzled. But more tests and launches appear to be only a matter of time, and the Trump administration has pressed China's president, Xi Jinping, to use much tougher pressure on its neighbor.	朝鲜出乎一些人的意料,周末没有进行核试验,周日的导弹试射也失败了。但更多的试验和发射似乎只是个时间问题,特朗普政府敦促中国主席习近平对它的这个邻国施加远远更大的压力。
"The era of strategic patience is over," Vice President Mike Pence said in South Korea on Monday.	"战略耐心时代已经结束,"美国副总统迈克·彭斯(Mike Pence)周一表示。
"The president and I have a great confidence that China will properly deal with North Korea," he told reporters, but "if China is unable to deal with North Korea, the United States and our allies will."	"我和总统对于中国妥善对待朝鲜问题很有信心,"他对记者说,但"如果中国无法应对朝鲜,美国和盟友会去处理的"。
China suspended coal imports from North Korea in February, cutting off	中国在今年2月暂停了从朝鲜进口煤炭,切断了朝鲜的主要收入来源。但中

a major source of revenue for the North. But China has resisted choking off trade with North Korea, and debate over how to balance Pyongyang, Seoul and Washington has sharpened and become more fractious. Trying to stay friends with all sides is proving perilous.	国不愿放弃对朝贸易，对于如何在平壤、首尔和华盛顿之间取得平衡，争论也愈发尖锐，愈来愈激烈。事实证明，试图和所有各方都保持朋友关系是很困难的。
The Chinese government has fiercely objected to an American antimissile defense system, called the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or Thaad, being installed in South Korea, fearing it could be used to spy on China. But some Chinese experts have criticized the surge of anti-South Korean anger unleashed by Beijing as counterproductive.	中国政府强烈表示反对美国在韩国部署“萨德”（Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, 简称 Thaad）反导系统，担心它会被用来窥探中国。但一些中国专家对北京释放的反韩愤怒进行了批评，觉得这将适得其反。
Global Times, a state-run newspaper that often defends Chinese government policy, cautioned last week that North Korea would face harsher sanctions if it went ahead with another nuclear test. On Monday, the paper redoubled that warning, calling for China to choke off most oil supplies to North Korea if there was another test.	官方报纸《环球时报》经常激烈捍卫中国政府的政策，上周它警告说，如果朝鲜再进行一次核试验，就将面临更严厉的制裁。周一，该报对这个警告加码，呼吁说，如果朝鲜再进行一次核试验，中国就停止对朝鲜的大部分石油供应。
Mr. Shen has gone much further than other scholars in calling for a reset.	在呼吁调整对朝政策方面，沈志华比其他学者走得更远。
“The fundamental interests of China and North Korea are at odds,” he said in his lecture. “China’s fundamental interest lies in achieving a stability on its borders and developing outward. But since North Korea acquired nuclear weapons, that periphery has never been stable, so inevitably Chinese and North Korean interests are at odds.”	“中朝的根本利益发生了对立。”他在演讲中说。“中国的根本利益是要求周边稳定，对外发展，但自从朝鲜有了核武器，周围就没安稳过，所以中朝利益必然是对立的。”
He derided China’s opposition to the Thaad antimissile system as shrill and self-defeating, needlessly alienating South Korean opinion. “What we’ve done is exactly what the Americans and North Koreans would	他嘲笑中国反对萨德系统是瞎闹，只会适得其反，不必要地疏远了韩国。他说：“我们现在做的事，是美国人和朝鲜人最想看到的。”

like to see," he said.
Mr. Shen's views have incensed Chinese ultranationalists, who have accused him of selling out the country's ally in Pyongyang. His views and the debate about them have not been reported in Chinese state news media.	沈志华的观点引发了中国超国家主义者的愤怒，他们指责他对平壤的态度是出卖中国的盟友。中国国家新闻媒体没有报道他的看法和相关的辩论。
But Mr. Shen's speech remains on the website of the Cold War history research center at East China Normal University in Shanghai, where he works. He has also restated his views at lectures in Shanghai and, last week, in Xi'an in northwest China, he said.	但沈志华的演讲仍发表在上海的华东师范大学冷战历史研究中心的网站上，该中心是他的工作单位。他还在上海以及上周在西北城市西安的讲座中，重申了这种看法。
In the past, articles in China critical of North Korea have been quickly censored. In 2004, an influential Chinese policy magazine was closed down after it published an essay critical of North Korea. In 2013, an editor at a Communist Party journal in Beijing was shunted from his job for publicly proposing that China withdraw support for North Korea.	在过去，中国批评朝鲜的文章会迅速遭到审查。2004年，一家很有影响力的中国政策杂志发表了一篇批评朝鲜的文章，然后就被关停。2013年，一份共产党党刊在北京的某编辑因为他公开建议中国不再支持朝鲜而被解职。
Mr. Shen said the tolerance — so far — for his views suggested that the government might be willing to tolerate greater criticism of North Korea and debate about the relationship.	沈志华说，到目前为止，他的观点都受到了容忍，表明政府可能愿意容忍对朝鲜的更大批评，以及对中朝关系的争论。
"Many people have asked me, 'Teacher Shen, why hasn't your speech been taken down?'" Mr. Shen said in a telephone interview from Shanghai.	"很多人跟我讲，说'沈老师，你这个讲话为什么没有被删掉？'"沈志华在上海接受电话采访时说。
"At least it shows that there can be different views about the North Korea issue. It's up to the center to set policy, but at least you can air different views in public, whereas before you couldn't," he said. The "center" refers to China's central leadership.	"我觉得至少有这么一点，关于朝鲜的问题可以有不同的言论。中央怎么定再说，但是至少社会不同的看法可以讲的，原来是不能讲的。"他说。"中央"是指中国的中央领导。
Still, Ms. Glaser said, President Xi appears unlikely to turn entirely on	不过，葛来仪说，习近平主席似乎不太可能完全和朝鲜反目。

North Korea.
After a meeting with Mr. Xi, President Trump said his Chinese counterpart seemed willing to press Pyongyang. But China has balanced its criticisms of North Korea by pressing the United States to agree to prompt negotiations with the North and suspend major military exercises with the South.	和习近平会晤之后，特朗普说习近平似乎愿意对平壤施加压力了。不过，中国敦促美国与朝鲜进行谈判、暂停与韩国的大型联合军演，以此来平衡对朝鲜的批评。
In South Korea on Monday, Vice President Pence held out the possibility of opening talks with the North Koreans, noting that Washington was seeking security “through peaceable means, through negotiations.”	周一在韩国，副总统彭斯表示有可能会与朝鲜人会谈，指出华盛顿正在“通过谈判，以及通过和平手段”寻求解决安全问题。
His office added that any talks would include Japan, South Korea, other allies in the region and China.	他的办公室还表示，任何谈判都将有日本、韩国、该地区的其他盟友和中国的参加。
Mr. Shen, 66, is well known in China and is often cited for his groundbreaking studies on the outbreak of the Korean War that used archival records to expose the tensions and miscalculations behind Mao’s decision to send troops.	沈志华现在 66 岁，在中国很有名，他对朝鲜战争爆发进行了开创性的研究，利用档案记录来揭示毛泽东出兵决定背后的紧张局势和误判，这项研究经常被引用。
He is the son of Communist Party officials and previously used his earnings from business to pay for dredging archives in Russia, after serving a two-year prison term on a charge of leaking state secrets that he insisted was groundless.	他是共产党官员之子，曾用经商所得在俄罗斯挖掘档案。在那之前，他因泄露国家机密罪服刑两年。但他坚称该罪名没有根据。
He said he hoped that his research, including a new history of Chinese-North Korean relations that he hopes will appear in English this year, would dismantle deceptive myths that have grown up in China around that past.	他说他希望自己的研究，包括一本新的有关中朝关系的历史著作，能够破除在中国逐渐形成的有关那段历史的不实之辞。他预计该著作将于今年以英文的形式出版。
“It’s very hard for China to adjust relations,” he said. “If everyone understands the truth and this myth is burst, then there’ll be a basis	“中国调整关系还是很难，”他说。“如果大家了解了真相，这个神话破除了，这个政策调整就有了社会基础，有了干部基础。”

among the public and officials for adjusting policy.”
But Mr. Shen acknowledged that shifting direction on North Korea would carry risks. If political cooperation between Beijing and Washington fails to constrain North Korea, he said, the two governments should cooperate in a military response.	但沈志华承认，在朝鲜问题上转变方向可能存在风险。如果北京和华盛顿之间的政治合作未能约束朝鲜，他说，两国政府应该在军事应对上展开合作。
“If North Korea really does master nuclear weapons and their delivery, then the whole world will have to prostrate itself at the feet of North Korea,” he said in the interview. “The longer this drags out, the better it is for North Korea.”	“一旦朝鲜确实掌握了核武器而且运输传输都没有问题，到那个时候全世界都拜倒朝鲜脚下，”他在采访中说。“这个事情越拖对朝鲜越有利。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170419/china-north-korea-war	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170419/china-north-korea-war
North Korea Stages Long-Range Artillery Drills	朝鲜举行大规模炮火演习，美国核潜艇抵韩
HONG KONG — North Korea staged huge artillery drills on Tuesday to mark the 85th anniversary of the founding of the nation’s military, as China pressed its efforts to tamp down tensions over signs that Pyongyang was preparing for a nuclear test.	香港——为庆祝朝鲜人民军建军 85 周年，朝鲜周二举行了大规模实弹演习。同时，有迹象表明平壤正在准备进行核试验，中国因而加强了为自己减缓紧张局势所做的努力。
The long-range artillery drills were conducted near Wonsan, along North Korea’s east coast, according to the South Korean military. They coincided with military maneuvers by the United States and its allies as well as the arrival of the U.S.S. Michigan, a submarine armed with Tomahawk cruise missiles, in the port city of Busan in South Korea.	据韩国军方说，朝鲜的远程实弹炮火演习是在其东海岸的万山附近进行的。实弹演习与美国及其盟国的军事演习在同一时间进行，同时，搭载着战斧巡航导弹的美国密歇根号核潜艇抵达了韩国港口城市釜山。
The United States Navy described the arrival of the submarine as “routine,” but its presence reflected the heightened military readiness on both sides of the Korean Peninsula.	美国海军将潜艇的到来描述为“常规”，但潜艇的出现反映了朝鲜半岛双方都在加强军事准备。
In addition to holding joint naval exercises in the Yellow Sea, the United States and South Korea have been staging military maneuvers in	除了在黄海举行联合海军演习外，美韩两国还在首尔东北部的抱川举行了军事演习，展示了一些他们的最新武器。朝鲜官方报纸《劳动新闻》上周曾说，

Pocheon, northeast of Seoul, demonstrating some of their latest weapons. A North Korean state newspaper, Rodong Sinmun, said last week that the joint maneuvers were taking the tense situation on the peninsula to the “verge of explosion.”	美韩联合军演将半岛紧张局势带到了“爆炸的边缘”。
North Korea often uses important national holidays, like the anniversary on Tuesday, to display its military might. On April 15 – the 105th birthday of Kim Il-sung, the country’s founder – the North staged a large military parade, flaunting what analysts said could be new intercontinental ballistic missiles. The next morning, it launched a ballistic missile that failed after liftoff.	朝鲜经常利用重要的国家纪念日、比如周二的建军节来展示自己的军事力量。在4月15日纪念朝鲜开国领袖金日成105岁诞辰时，朝鲜举行了大型阅兵式，炫耀了被分析人士描述为可能是新的洲际弹道导弹的东西。阅兵式的第二天上午，朝鲜发射了一枚弹道导弹，但导弹在起飞后不久就失败了。
The lack of a nuclear or long-range missile test as of Tuesday afternoon led to speculation that Kim Jong-un, the leader of the country, had instead decided to celebrate the anniversary with a large demonstration of conventional weapons.	截至周二下午，朝鲜还没有进行核试验或远程导弹试验，这引起人们猜测，朝鲜领导人金正恩已决定用展示常规武器的方式来庆祝建军节。
“We are closely watching the North Korean military’s movements around Wonsan while maintaining a firm preparedness,” the South Korean military said in a statement.	韩国军方在一份声明中说：“我们正在密切注视着朝鲜军队在万山附近的活动，同时保持着稳固的备战状态。”
The South Korean news agency Yonhap, citing an unidentified government source, said the exercise involved 300 to 400 pieces of long-range artillery, of the same type deployed along the border north of Seoul. Seoul, a city of 10 million, lies in range of the North Korean artillery and could experience catastrophic damage should war break out.	韩国通讯社韩联社援引一名未披露姓名的政府方面人士的话说，有300-400门远程火炮参与了这次实弹演习，火炮类型与部署在首尔以北边境地区的那些相同。首尔是一座有1000万人口的城市，位于朝鲜火炮的射程范围之内，如果战争爆发，首尔可能会遭受灾难性的破坏。
Yonhap called the drill one of the largest live-fire exercises conducted by the North.	韩联社称这次演习是朝鲜进行的最大实弹演习之一。

South Korea said on Monday that it had developed radar that can detect incoming artillery faster and more accurately than the radar it currently uses. Col. Bae Hyun-woo, a spokesman for the Defense Acquisition Program Administration, said the technology, to be deployed by 2018, would not enable the South to intercept the rockets, but would allow the military to identify their source and strike the launchpads.	韩国周一表示，已开发出一种新雷达，它比目前使用的雷达能更快、更准确地侦测发射来的炮火。韩国国防采购项目管理局发言人裴贤佑（Bae Hyun-woo，音）说，该技术将在 2018 年投入使用，虽然它不能让韩国拦截火箭，而能让军方确定火箭的来源，从而打击发射台。
On Tuesday, China dispatched Wu Dawei, a longtime diplomat handling tensions on the Korean Peninsula, to Tokyo for talks with Japanese Foreign Ministry officials, in hopes of warding off military confrontation.	周二，中国派武大伟前往东京，与日本外务省官员进行会谈，希望防止军事冲突。武大伟是长期处理朝鲜半岛紧张局势的外交官。
China, an ally of North Korea that has become increasingly impatient with its behavior, has tried to play a mediating role; its president, Xi Jinping, speaking by phone with President Trump on Monday, has cautioned restraint. The question is whether Beijing has enough leverage to avert a detonation at the North's atomic test site in Punggye-ri, where, analysts say, preparations for a blast appear to have recently resumed.	中国作为朝鲜的盟国，对朝鲜的行为已越来越不耐烦。中国一直试图在朝鲜问题上进行斡旋，国家主席习近平周一再次与特朗普总统通了电话，呼吁克制。问题是，北京是否有足够的影响力来防止朝鲜在丰溪里核试验场再次引爆装置，分析人士说，为爆炸进行的准备工作似乎已在最近恢复。
As Mr. Wu traveled to Japan, the Chinese state news media defended how Beijing had handled the latest tensions. The Global Times, a widely read tabloid, praised Chinese coordination with the Trump administration, but said the key to defusing the tensions was in the hands of the United States, not China.	在武大伟前往日本的同时，中国官方新闻媒体为北京处理最近紧张局势的做法作辩护。有很多读者的小报《环球时报》赞扬了中国与特朗普政府进行协调的做法，但表示，缓解紧张局势的关键在于美国而不是中国。
"China's influence over the entire situation is very limited," an editorial in the paper said on Tuesday. "The United States hopes that China can be like a magician managing Pyongyang's nuclear activities, while	"中国对整个局势的影响非常有限，"该报周二发表的一篇社评说。"美国希望中国像变魔术一样管住平壤的核导活动，平壤则希望北京把施压的方向对准美韩的战争威胁。到头来中国不可能做到让双方的任何一方完全满意。"

Pyongyang hopes that Beijing will apply its pressure against the threat of war from the United States and South Korea. In the end, China can't make either side entirely happy."
Some South Korean news outlets raised concerns Tuesday about the decision by President Trump to speak with Mr. Xi and Prime Minister Shinzo Abe of Japan on Monday but not with the acting president of South Korea, Hwang Kyo-ahn. They characterized the omission as diplomatic fallout from the impeachment and ouster of former President Park Geun-hye, which has left the country without an elected leader until voters choose a successor next month.	韩国一些新闻媒体周二表示忧虑，因为特朗普总统周一决定与习近平和日本首相安倍晋三通电话，而没有与韩国代总统黄京安通话。媒体认为，这个遗漏是前总统朴槿惠被弹劾的外交后果，她的被迫离任让韩国在下个月选举下任总统之前，没有民选领导人。
In a cabinet meeting on Tuesday, Mr. Ahn stressed that South Korea was not being left out. As acting president, he said, he had spoken with Mr. Trump on the phone three times, as well as met with Vice President Mike Pence, Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson and Defense Secretary Jim Mattis during their recent visits to Seoul.	黄京安在周二的内阁会议上强调，韩国并没有被排除在外。他说，他曾三次作为代总统与特朗普通电话，并与最近先后到访首尔的副总统麦克·彭斯、国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森，以及国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯会面。
On Wednesday, Mr. Tillerson and Mr. Mattis are scheduled to brief the entire United States Senate at the White House on North Korea. The briefing will also include Dan Coats, the director of national intelligence, and Joseph F. Dunford Jr., the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Sean Spicer, the White House press secretary.	周三，蒂勒森和马蒂斯被安排在白宫向美国参议院全体议员介绍有关朝鲜的情况。白宫新闻秘书长肖恩·斯派塞(Sean Spicer)说，参加这次情况介绍的还有国家情报总监丹·科茨(Dan Coats)和参谋长联席会议主席小约瑟夫·F·邓福德(Joseph F. Dunford Jr.)。
While administration officials often go to the Capitol to address lawmakers, it is rare for the full Senate to be summoned to the White House.	虽然行政部门的官员经常在国会大厦向立法者发表讲话，但参议院全体议员被召到白宫的事情很罕见。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170426/north-korea-military-anniversary-artillery-drills	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170426/north-korea-military-anniversary-artillery-drills

The Drumbats Don't Add Up to Imminent War With North Korea	美朝紧张关系真的会演变为战争吗?
WASHINGTON — President Trump summoned all 100 members of the Senate for a briefing by his war cabinet on the mounting tensions with North Korea. An American submarine loaded with Tomahawk missiles surfaced in a port in South Korea. Gas stations in the North shut down amid rumors that the government was stockpiling fuel.	华盛顿——特朗普总统召集了参议院所有的100名议员听取他的军务内阁就日益紧张的美朝关系做情况通报。一艘运载着战斧(Tomahawk)导弹的美国潜水艇在韩国的一个港口露出水面。朝鲜关闭了不少加油站，有传言称，该国政府在储存燃料。
Americans could be forgiven for thinking that war is about to break out. But it is not.	在这种情况下，如果美国民众认为战争一触即发，也情有可原。但事实并非如此。
The drumbeat of bellicose threats and military muscle-flexing on both sides overstates the danger of a clash between the United States and North Korea, senior Trump administration officials and experts who have followed the Korean crisis for decades said. While Mr. Trump regards the rogue government in the North as his most pressing international problem, he told the senators he was pursuing a strategy that relied heavily on using China's economic leverage to curb its neighbor's provocative behavior.	特朗普政府高层官员及跟踪朝鲜危机几十年的专家们表示，美国和朝鲜的叫嚣威胁与武力炫耀夸大了两国冲突的危险。尽管特朗普认为朝鲜的流氓政府是他面临的最紧迫的国际问题，但他告诉这些参议员，他追求的战略十分依赖中国的经济杠杆，要靠它遏制朝鲜的挑衅行为。
Recent American military moves — like deploying the submarine Michigan and the aircraft carrier Carl Vinson to the waters off the Korean Peninsula — were aimed less at preparing for a pre-emptive strike, officials said, than at discouraging the North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un, from conducting further nuclear or ballistic missile tests.	官员们表示，美国最近采取的军事举动——比如在靠近朝鲜半岛的水域部署“密歇根号”(Michigan)潜艇和“卡尔文森号”(Carl Vinson)航空母舰——更大的目的是让朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)放弃进一步开展核试验或弹道导弹试验的念头，而不是为实施先发制人的袭击做准备。
"In confronting the reckless North Korean regime, it's critical that we're guided by a strong sense of resolve, both privately and publicly, both diplomatically and militarily," Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr., the Pentagon's top commander in the Pacific, told the House Armed Services	"面对鲁莽的朝鲜政权，以一种坚定的决心为指引是至关重要的，不管是在私下还是公开地，在外交还是军事上，都要如此，"五角大楼在太平洋地区的最高指挥官海军上将小哈里·B·哈里斯(Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr.)周三对众议院军事委员会(House Armed Services Committee)讲道。

Committee on Wednesday.
"We want to bring Kim Jong-un to his senses," he said, "not to his knees."	"我们想让金正恩恢复理智,"他说。"而不是让他屈膝下跪。"
There are other signs that the tensions fall short of war. Mr. Kim continues to appear in public, most recently at a pig farm last weekend. South Koreans are not flooding supermarkets to stock up on food. There is no talk of evacuating cities and no sign the United States is deploying additional forces to South Korea. Nor is the American Embassy in Seoul advising diplomats' families to leave the country.	还有其他迹象表明,两国的紧张关系不会演变成战争。金正恩持续在公开场合露面,最近一次是于上周末出现在一个养猪场。韩国人没有大量涌入超市囤积食物。没人谈论疏散城市,没有迹象表明美国在往朝鲜部署额外的兵力。美国驻首尔大使馆也没有建议外交官的家属撤离这个国家。
All those things happened in the spring of 1994, when President Bill Clinton was considering a pre-emptive strike on a North Korean reactor to prevent the North from extracting plutonium that it could use to make a bomb. That is the closest the United States has come to a military clash with North Korea since the end of the Korean War in 1953.	所有这些迹象在1994年春都曾出现过,当时比尔·克林顿(Bill Clinton)总统考虑对朝鲜的核反应堆进行先发制人的打击,以防止朝鲜从中提取钚,用以制造核弹。那是美国在朝鲜战争于1953年结束后,距离与朝鲜发生军事冲突最近的一次。
"The reality is not as tense as the rhetoric on both sides would lead you to believe," said Joel S. Wit, an expert on North Korea at the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.	"现实情况并不像双方的言辞让人感觉的那么剑拔弩张,"约翰·霍普金斯大学高级国际问题研究学院(Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies)的朝鲜问题专家乔尔·S·威特(Joel S. Wit)说。
None of this is to say there is no risk of miscalculation that could escalate into hostilities. Mr. Trump's penchant for provocative statements introduced an element of unpredictability to a relationship in which the uncertainty has historically been on the North Korean side. How Mr. Kim reacts is the major variable in a complicated equation.	这样讲,并不是说不存在错误估计、导致事态升级为战争的风险。特朗普倾向于发表挑衅性言论,这给美朝关系带来一种不确定因素,而在以往其中的不确定性是在朝鲜一方。金正恩会做出什么反应,一直是相关复杂公式里的主要变量。
North Korea is also steadily adding to its nuclear arsenal and edging closer to testing an intercontinental ballistic missile, tipped with a warhead, that could hit the United States. Intelligence estimates vary on	朝鲜也在稳步扩大自己的核武库,距离可以试射一种带核弹头、可以袭击美国的洲际弹道导弹越来越近。情报机构对这种情况会多快发生的估计各不相同,但有些表示会在三年之内:依据这个时间表,在特朗普任期内就会出现

how quickly that could happen, but some say within three years: a timetable that would put a successful test within Mr. Trump's term in office.	一次成功的试射。
"No previous president has ever been in that situation," said Victor D. Cha, director of the Asian studies program at Georgetown University, who advised the administration of George W. Bush on North Korea. "I don't think we're going to war, but we're in a different phase."	"之前没有哪个总统碰到过这种情况，"曾在乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)政府担任朝鲜问题顾问、现为乔治城大学(Georgetown University)亚洲研究项目主任的车维德(Victor D. Cha)说。"我不认为我们在走向战争，但我们的确处在一个不同的阶段。"
Mr. Cha said he viewed the briefing for senators as part of an effort by the White House to signal the seriousness of North Korea to an American public that regards it as a distant, complicated issue. But others criticized the president for being theatrical, with some saying he was using the senators as a prop to burnish his 100-day record.	车维德表示，他将参议员们参加的这场通报会看作白宫的相关努力的一部分，目的是让美国公众认识到朝鲜问题的严重性，因为他们一直觉得这是一个复杂而遥远的问题。但也有人指责总统是在做戏，称他是把参议员当道具，给他履职 100 天的业绩贴金。
"There was very little, if anything, new," said Senator Richard Blumenthal, Democrat of Connecticut and a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee. "It is still unclear what our strategy and policy is."	"几乎没什么新内容，"参议院军事委员会(Senate Armed Services Committee)成员、康涅狄格州民主党参议员理查德·布卢门撒尔(Richard Blumenthal)说。"目前仍不清楚我们的战略和政策是什么。"
Even some Republican senators complained afterward that they had learned little and wondered why they needed to pile into buses for the trip from Capitol Hill to the Eisenhower Executive Office Building on the White House grounds, where they were seated in an auditorium.	就连一些共和党参议员也事后抱怨，他们几乎没什么收获，也想不通为什么要他们挤进大巴，从国会山赶到白宫内的艾森豪威尔行政办公楼(Eisenhower Executive Office Building)，坐在其中的一座会堂里听这个报告。
"I'm not sure I would have done it," said Senator Bob Corker, Republican of Tennessee, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. He said he was not sure why the briefing had been timed for this week and begged off further comment, adding, "All I can say is, it was fine."	"我不确定我会这么做，"参议院外交关系委员会(Foreign Relations Committee)主席、田纳西州共和党参议员鲍勃·考克(Bob Corker)说。他说他不确定通报会为什么被安排在这周，也谢绝做进一步的评论，还讲道，"我只能说，还好。"
White House officials said they had been responding to a request from	白宫官员表示，此举是在回应参议院共和党领袖、肯塔基州参议员米奇·麦康

Senator Mitch McConnell of Kentucky, the Republican leader, and that Mr. Trump had proposed moving the site of the briefing. He spoke to the senators for less than three minutes, mainly promoting his efforts to persuade President Xi Jinping of China to put more economic pressure on North Korea.	奈尔(Mitch McConnell)的请求, 并表示是特朗普提议将举行通报会的地点挪到白宫。他向这些参议员讲话的时间不足3分钟, 主要是宣讲他劝说中国国家主席习近平向朝鲜施加更多经济压力的努力。
Mr. Trump then turned the briefing over to Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson; Secretary of Defense Jim Mattis; the director of national intelligence, Dan Coats; and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Joseph F. Dunford Jr.	然后, 特朗普就把发言的任务交到了其他人手上: 国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(State Rex W. Tillerson)、国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)、国家情报局局长丹·科茨(Dan Coats), 以及参谋长联席会议(Joint Chiefs of Staff)主席小约瑟夫·F·邓福德上将(Gen. Joseph F. Dunford Jr.)。
Analysts said it was too early to assess Mr. Trump's claim that the Chinese were finally cooperating with the United States. Previous presidents believed they had made headway with Beijing, only to have China's actions fall short of expectations.	分析人士表示, 现在对特朗普提出的中国最终会与美国合作的说法进行评价, 还为时过早。之前也有总统认为自己 and 北京取得了一些进展, 结果却发现中国的行动没有达到他们的预期。
The reports of closed gas stations in North Korea were intriguing, analysts said, because they suggested that the North was bracing for a suspension of fuel shipments from China. The Chinese have yet to take such a step, though they have curtailed purchases of North Korean coal.	分析人士表示, 有关朝鲜关闭加油站的报道非常引人关注, 因为这表明朝鲜在为中国暂停向朝鲜输送燃料的情况做准备。尽管中国已经削减从朝鲜购买煤炭的数量, 但它还没有采取上述措施。
In a separate briefing for reporters, the White House said Mr. Trump had decided on a strategy that would include diplomacy to persuade China to keep up pressure on its neighbor, as well as military preparations.	白宫在给记者提供的另一份简报中表示, 特朗普已经决定采取一种策略, 即一边采取外交手段说服中国继续向其邻国施压, 一边做好军事准备。
A senior White House official, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, declined to discuss the nature of the military preparations or the timetable for seeing a change in North Korea's behavior. He also said the administration was considering returning North Korea to the	一位匿名接受采访的白宫高层官员拒绝谈论这些军事准备的性质, 也不愿透露他们预计朝鲜的行为什么时候会发生改变。他还表示, 政府在考虑将朝鲜重新列入资助恐怖主义国家的名单。 government's list of state sponsors of terrorism.

On Thursday morning, the National Security Council will hold a principals committee meeting to weigh economic and military options.	周四上午，国家安全委员会(National Security Council)将举行一场重要的负责人级别会议，以权衡美国手上的经济和军事选项。
Admiral Harris told lawmakers that North Korea's recent setbacks in its missile launches would not slow the country's efforts to achieve its nuclear goals.	哈里斯上将对议员们表示，朝鲜不会因为最近在导弹发射上遭遇的挫折而放慢实现其核目标的努力。
"With every test, Kim Jong-un moves closer to his stated goal of a pre-emptive nuclear strike capability against American cities, and he's not afraid to fail in public," he told the House Armed Services Committee in a hearing on security challenges in the region.	"每经过一次试验，金正恩就距离他宣称的具备对美国城市实施先发制人核袭击能力的目标更进一步，而且他不怕在众目睽睽之下失败，"他在一场有关该地区安全挑战的听证会上对众议院军事委员会(House Armed Services Committee)讲道。
Admiral Harris welcomed China's role in influencing the North, but also singled it out for criticism. "While recent actions by Beijing are encouraging and welcome, the fact remains that China is as responsible for where North Korea is today as North Korea itself," he said.	哈里斯对中国在对朝鲜施加影响方面的作用表示肯定，但也就这一点专门进行了指责。"尽管北京最近的行动令人鼓舞、值得欢迎，但事实依然是，朝鲜走到今天这一步，中国要承担的责任和朝鲜本身一样大，"他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170428/trump-administration-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170428/trump-administration-north-korea
Trump's Volatility in Asia Distresses a Longtime U.S. Ally: Australia	中美夹缝中的澳大利亚该如何面对特朗普
DARWIN, Australia — South Korea, Japan and the United States have grown accustomed to North Korea's diatribes, but Pyongyang recently threatened a new target with a nuclear strike: Australia.	澳大利亚达尔文——韩国、日本和美国已经习惯了朝鲜的叫嚣谩骂，但平壤最近威胁要对一个新目标实施核打击，那就是澳大利亚。
During a visit by Vice President Mike Pence to Sydney, the North warned Australia to think twice about "blindly and zealously toeing the U.S. line" and acting as "a shock brigade of the U.S. master."	在美国副总统迈克·彭斯(Mike Pence)访问悉尼期间，朝鲜警告澳大利亚，要对"盲目积极地唯美国是从"和充当"美国主人的突击先锋"三思。
Australian and U.S. troops have fought side by side in every major conflict since World War I, and there are few militaries in the world with	在一战以来的每一场重大冲突中，澳大利亚军队都和美军并肩作战，两国军队的关系几乎是全世界最亲密的：最近，1250名美国海军陆战队成员抵达

closer relations: 1,250 U.S. Marines recently arrived in Darwin for six months of joint exercises; the two countries share intelligence from land, sea and even outer space; and Prime Minister Malcolm Turnbull is set to meet President Donald Trump on Thursday on an aircraft carrier in New York.	达尔文, 参加六个月的联合演习; 两国共享来自陆地、海洋甚至是外太空的情报; 澳大利亚总理马尔科姆·特恩布尔(Malcolm Turnbull)将于周四在纽约附近的一艘航空母舰上与唐纳德·特朗普总统举行会面。
But North Korea's threat against the country, far-fetched as it might seem, is an example of how Australia's most important military alliance faces a new challenge: the risk that Trump will draw the nation into a conflict or other unexpected crisis that destabilizes the region, angers its trading partners or forces it to side with either the United States or China.	尽管看上去可能有些不可思议, 但朝鲜对澳大利亚的威胁, 是后者最重要的军事联盟面临一个新挑战的例子: 特朗普可能会让该国陷入一场破坏该地区的稳定、激怒其贸易伙伴或迫使其选择支持美国还是中国的冲突或其他出人意料的危机的风险。
"The question is: What might America drag Australia into?" said Ashley Townshend, a research fellow at the U.S. Studies Center at the University of Sydney. "That's a very scary thought for Australians, many of whom perceive Donald Trump to be an erratic and highly self-interested commander in chief."	"问题是: 美国可能会置澳大利亚于何种境地?" 悉尼大学美国研究中心研究员阿什利·汤曾德(Ashley Townshend)说。"对澳大利亚民众来说, 这是一个非常可怕的想法, 他们很多人认为唐纳德·特朗普是一个多变且非常自我的最高统帅。"
Trump has already embarrassed Australia once, with an abrupt phone call to Turnbull that seemed to dismiss Australia's historic role as a friend who often gives more than it gets. Now his unpredictable approach is fueling a national debate about Australia's relationship with the world, and especially the United States. Last week, Paul Keating, a prime minister during the Clinton years, reignited discussion by arguing that Australia must end its status as a "client state."	特朗普已经让澳大利亚尴尬过一次了。他曾突然致电特恩布尔, 那通电话似乎没有考虑澳大利亚作为一个付出通常多过回报的朋友的历史角色。现在, 他令人捉摸不透的行事方式推动了一场有关澳大利亚与世界, 尤其是与美国关系的全国性讨论。上周, 在克林顿时期担任澳大利亚总理的保罗·基廷(Paul Keating)称该国必须结束其作为"附庸国"的地位, 从而重新点燃了这场讨论。
Australia is essentially caught between two powers: China, its largest trading partner, and the United States, its faithful ally, with a military	基本上, 澳大利亚被夹在了两个大国之间: 最大的贸易伙伴中国和忠诚的盟友美国。伊拉克和阿富汗的战争, 以及最近达成的逐渐扩大美国在达尔文的

connection that has been strengthened by the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan and more recent agreements to gradually expand the U.S. footprint in Darwin.	存在的协议巩固了澳大利亚与后者的军事联系。
What Australia and the United States are now trying to work out is how to manage that military momentum in an increasingly tense part of the world. If the military is a hammer in the Trump era, at what point does every dispute start to look like a nail?	澳大利亚和美国现在努力想要弄明白的是，如何在一个局势越来越紧张的地区管理这种军事势头。如果军队是特朗普时代的锤子，那么从什么时候开始，每一起纠纷看着都像是钉子？
"It's always important that there's a balance between the military and the diplomatic — because of the scale of the military," Keating said in an interview. "In both economic terms and in strategic terms, they squeeze diplomacy out."	"军事和外交保持平衡永远都很重要，原因在于军队的规模，"基廷在接受采访时说。"就经济和战略而言，他们把外交挤走了。"
Darwin, a humid, crocodile-infested coastal city at the northern end of this vast country, captures the past, present and future of Australia's alliance with the United States.	澳大利亚幅员辽阔，位于最北端的海滨城市达尔文气候潮湿，常有鳄鱼出没。这里记录着澳大利亚与美国之间的联盟的过去、现在和未来。
Japan attacked the city on Feb. 19, 1942, killing 235 people, and residents are quick to point out that the raids were led by the same commander responsible for the attack on Pearl Harbor 10 weeks earlier.	1942年2月19日，日本袭击达尔文。民众很快指出，领导突袭的，和应该为十周前的珍珠港袭击负责的指挥官是同一人。
Within a few months, Darwin became a hub for counterstrikes from bombers flown by Americans. A pocket guide for arriving U.S. troops set the tone: "You're going to meet a people who like Americans and whom you will like."	几个月后，达尔文成了美国人驾驶的轰炸机进行反击的枢纽。一份针对来到达尔文的美军的袖珍指南定了调："你会遇到一个喜欢美国人，并会得到你的喜爱的民族。"
During the Cold War, the relationship expanded.	冷战期间，两国关系增强。
Kim Beazley, a former defense minister and ambassador to the United States, cited the rise during the 1960s of three joint installations to maintain contact with U.S. submarines in the Indian Ocean and provide	澳大利亚前国防部长、驻美大使金·比兹利(Kim Beazley)提到了60年代三处联合设施的崛起。这些设施是为了保持与印度洋的美国潜艇联络，并提供对苏联军事力量的红外探测。它们把对潜在的苏联袭击发出警报的时间从15

infrared detection of Soviet capabilities, increasing the warning time for a potential Soviet strike to 30 minutes from 15.	分钟，增加到了 30 分钟。
Those installations and the ones that followed — especially Pine Gap, a joint Australian-U.S. spy base that helps provide battlefield intelligence and early warnings for missile launches around the world — “are never talked about, but they’re really the guts of the alliance,” Beazley said.	这些设施和之后的那些，特别是帮助提供战场情报和对全球导弹发射发出预警的澳美联合间谍基地松树谷(Pine Gap)， “从来没被提到过，但它们的确是这个联盟的内部核心，”比兹利说。
On the ground in countries like Iraq and Afghanistan, Australian troops are also peers in battle, said Lt. Col. Brian S. Middleton, commanding officer of the 3rd Battalion, 4th Marines — the U.S. unit that just moved into Darwin for six months of training with the Australians.	刚抵达达尔文，准备与澳大利亚进行六个月训练的海军陆战队四团三营的指挥官布莱恩·S·米德尔顿(Brian S. Middleton)中校说，在伊拉克和阿富汗等国的地面行动中，澳大利亚军队也是美国的友军。
As part of the U.S. pivot to Asia, the long-term plan, negotiated under the Obama administration, is to send up to 2,500 Marines to Darwin — the largest deployment of U.S. forces to Australia since World War II. “It’ll make us more effective in whatever conflict we end up serving in together,” said Kelly Magsamen, the Pentagon’s top Asia-Pacific policy official at the end of the Obama administration.	在奥巴马政府时期通过谈判达成的长远规划“转向亚洲”的部分内容，是向达尔文派驻最多 2500 名海军陆战队士兵。这是自二战以来，美国向澳大利亚最大规模的派兵行动。“不管我们最后会在什么冲突中共同作战，这都会增强我们的战斗力，”奥巴马政府末期五角大楼负责亚太策略的最高官员凯莉·玛格萨门(Kelly Magsamen)说。
Still, there have been challenges. In a discussion last year about the cost of the Marines in Darwin, the Australians came in with a data-heavy presentation asserting that U.S. Marines eat more than typical Australian soldiers, and therefore strain sewage systems more, and argued that the Americans should pay more of the costs of improving wastewater lines on military bases. The proposal stunned even the lead Australian negotiators, who quickly dropped it, according to U.S. defense officials.	但挑战依然存在。在去年的一场有关海军陆战队在达尔文产生的费用的讨论中，澳大利亚通过数据丰富的演示认为，美国海军陆战队士兵吃得比普通澳大利亚士兵多。因而给下水道系统造成的压力更大。因此，澳大利亚主张美国为改善军事基地的废水管线承担更多花费。据美国国防官员称，就连澳大利亚首席谈判代表都对这一提议感到震惊。他们很快放弃了该提议。
The toughest issues have involved China, the crucial lever of influence with North Korea and the region. Some U.S. officials have urged	最棘手的问题涉及对朝鲜和该地区均拥有影响力的关键力量中国。一些美国官员敦促澳大利亚参加强硬的南海航行自由行动，但澳大利亚拒绝了。中国

Australia to engage in robust freedom-of-navigation operations in the South China Sea, where China has set up bases on disputed islands, but the Australians have resisted.	已在南海一些有争议的岛屿上建立了基地。
Last year, U.S. officials also expressed alarm about a port in Darwin that local officials leased to a Chinese company for $361 million, possibly making it easier to collect intelligence on U.S. and Australian forces stationed nearby.	去年，美国官员还针对达尔文的一个港口表达了警惕之意。当地官员以 3.61 亿美元（约合 25 亿元人民币）的价格将该港口租给了一家中国公司。这可能会降低中国收集有关驻守在附近的美军和澳大利亚军队的情报的难度。
“China is the elephant in the room for both of us,” Magsamen said. “We need to have a more frank and structured discussion amongst ourselves about how to manage that relationship.”	“对我们两国来说，中国都是一个躲不过去的大议题，”玛格萨门说。“我们需要在内部就如何管理这种关系，进行一场更坦率、条理更清楚的讨论。”
Allan Gyngell, who ran Australia’s intelligence agency from 2009 to 2013, argues in a new book, “Fear of Abandonment,” that Australia’s foreign policy is still driven by worries about being left isolated, without the promise of security from a powerful friend: first Britain, now the United States.	2009 到 2013 年间领导澳大利亚情报机构的艾伦·金吉尔(Allan Gyngell)在新书《被抛弃的恐惧》(Fear of Abandonment)中称，在没有强大盟友——先是英国，现在是美国——提供安全承诺的情况下，澳大利亚的外交政策依然受到对被孤立的担忧的驱动。
Keating, the former prime minister, is among those urging a more independent foreign policy in which Australia accepts China as the region’s dominant power.	前总理基廷属于呼吁澳大利亚实行更独立的外交政策，接受中国成为该地区的主导力量的一派。
In the discussion last week at the Lowy Institute, a think tank in Sydney, Keating said Australia should say no to the United States more often — as France and Canada do — especially on issues that affect Australia’s relationship with China.	上周在位于悉尼的智库洛伊研究所(Lowy Institute)的讨论中，基廷称澳大利亚应该更经常地对美国说不——就像法国和加拿大那样——特别是在影响澳大利亚与中国关系的问题上。
Those who reject this argument include John Howard, the prime minister who followed Keating and was in Washington on Sept. 11, 2001. In an interview, Howard warned against being “mesmerized by	反对这个观点的人包括接任基廷总理职位的约翰·霍华德(John Howard)。2001 年 9 月 11 日那天，霍华德就在华盛顿。在采访中，他警告不要“被中国迷惑”，并称他所在的自由党(Liberal Party)已“做到了鱼与熊掌兼得”。该

China" and said his Liberal Party, which is the more conservative of the country's two largest parties, had "pulled off the daily double."	党是澳大利亚最大的两个政党之一，偏向保守。
"We deepened our relationship with the U.S. — and China became our biggest customer," he said.	"我们深化了与美国的关系，中国也成了我们最大的顾客，"他说。
He added that too many Australians were jumping to conclusions about Trump. "He's different," Howard said. "Whether he's good different or bad different is not the point; the world has to get used to him."	他接着表示，太多澳大利亚人急于对特朗普下结论。"他不一样，"霍华德说。"是好的不一样还是坏的不一样并不重要，这个世界必须习惯他。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170502/trump-north-korea-us-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170502/trump-north-korea-us-china
A Spring Thaw? Trump Now Has 'Very Good' Words for China's Leader	特朗普为何亲热地赞美习近平?
BEIJING — President Trump came into office fuming about China. But lately he has been describing his Chinese counterpart, Xi Jinping, as if Mr. Xi were an old friend, even in dealing with deep divisions over North Korea.	北京——特朗普总统上任时对中国怒气冲冲。但最近谈起中国国家主席习近平，他却好像在谈一位老朋友，哪怕在应对有关朝鲜的巨大分歧时也是如此。
"I believe he is trying very hard," Mr. Trump said in an interview with Reuters on Thursday. "He is a good man. He is a very good man, and I got to know him very well."	"我认为他在尽最大的努力，"特朗普在周四接受路透社(Reuters)采访时说。"他是个好人，一个很好的人，我对他有了深入的了解。"
That's heady praise for someone the president had never met before this month. But Mr. Trump's time as a businessman may help make sense of his backslapping tributes to Mr. Xi.	对于一个总统直到上月才初次见面的人，这是相当高的褒奖。但了解特朗普的商人经历，或许有助于我们理解他对习近平这种亲热的赞美。
In "Trump: The Art of the Deal," his braggadocious memoir-cum-business playbook from 1987, Mr. Trump explained how he flattered, pummeled, cajoled and bluffed his way to what he wanted. He seems to hope to use the same tactics with China.	在他1987年出版的那本自吹自擂的回忆录兼商业攻略手册《特朗普：交易的艺术》(Trump: The Art of the Deal)中，特朗普解释了他如何通过奉承、连续打击、哄骗及虚张声势得到自己想要的东西。他似乎希望用同样的策略来对付中国。

"A little hyperbole never hurts," he wrote of his deal-making.	"稍微夸张一点没什么坏处，"他在谈及自己的生意之道时写道。
Before the recent courtship, Mr. Trump had little good to say about China or Mr. Xi. In March 2016, Mr. Trump was asked in an interview with The New York Times about his impressions of Mr. Xi. Instead, he vented about China's trade surplus with the United States.	在最近这次示好之前，特朗普对中国和习近平几乎没说过什么好话。2016年3月，特朗普在接受《纽约时报》采访时曾被问到他对习近平的印象。结果他却就中国对美国存在贸易顺差的问题发泄了一通。
"Nobody has manipulated economic conditions better than they have," he said.	"在操纵经济情况方面，没人能比得上他们，"他说。
After Mr. Trump won the election, he kept taking potshots at the Chinese leadership. In December, Mr. Trump had a friendly phone chat with Tsai Ing-wen, the president of Taiwan, alarming Chinese officials, who regard Taiwan as a breakaway province.	赢得大选后，他继续抨击中国领导层。去年12月，特朗普与台湾总统蔡英文进行了友好的通话，这引起中国官员的警惕，他们视台湾为一个脱离出去的省份。
Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi had a brief phone call days after the American election, but more than two months passed before they had their next call — their first since the president took office. Mr. Trump said he would honor the "One China" policy, under which the United States does not give diplomatic recognition to Taiwan.	美国大选结束数天后，特朗普和习近平进行了一次简短的通话，但直到两个多月后他们才进行第二次通话——总统就职后两人的首次通话。特朗普表示他将履行"一个中国"政策，在该政策下，美国不会在外交上承认台湾。
But even as that issue faded as a source of tension with China, Mr. Trump has appeared increasingly alarmed about North Korea.	然而，就在这个事件作为令美国与中国关系紧张的一个源头逐渐淡去时，特朗普似乎对朝鲜愈发警惕起来。
After the North's leader, Kim Jong-un, said on Jan. 1 that his government was preparing to test an intercontinental ballistic missile, Mr. Trump complained that China had not put enough pressure on its ally and neighbor.	在朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)于1月1日表示他的政府正在为试射一枚洲际弹道导弹做准备之后，特朗普抱怨中国没有对它的这个盟友兼邻国施加足够的压力。
"China has been taking out massive amounts of money & wealth from the U.S. in totally one-sided trade, but won't help with North Korea. Nice!" Mr. Trump said on Twitter.	"中国在完全一边倒的贸易中从美国获得了巨额金钱和财富，却不愿帮忙对付朝鲜。真有你！"特朗普这样在Twitter上写道。

The signs before his first meeting with Mr. Xi were not promising.	在他与习近平进行第一次会晤前显现的迹象，不是太让人乐观。
Days before they met at Mr. Trump's resort in Florida, the president warned that China had to play along on North Korea or get out of the way.	两人在特朗普位于佛罗里达的度假胜地会面几天前，这位总统警告中国必须在朝鲜问题上与美国合作，否则就让到一边去。
"China has great influence over North Korea. And China will either decide to help us with North Korea, or they won't," Mr. Trump said in an interview with The Financial Times. "If they do, that will be very good for China, and if they don't, it won't be good for anyone."	"中国对朝鲜有很大的影响力。中国得决定是帮还是不帮我们对付朝鲜，"特朗普在接受《金融时报》(Financial Times)的采访时说道。"如果他们帮忙，对中国会很有好处，如果不帮，那对谁都不好。"
But Mr. Trump's potentially frosty first encounter with Mr. Xi turned out to be fairly amicable, and has been followed by two phone calls to discuss North Korea.	特朗普与习近平的会面原本被认为很可能会十分冷淡，但结果却相当友好亲切，之后他们还打了两次电话，讨论朝鲜问题。
They didn't see eye to eye on many things, but at least they were talking, and Mr. Trump was effusive about his new friend.	他们在很多事情上看法不一致，但至少在进行对话，特朗普对他的新朋友极尽溢美之词。
Mr. Trump told Fox Business Network that he had a "very, very good meeting with President Xi of China."	特朗普告诉福克斯商业频道(Fox Business Network)，他"与中国国家主席习近平进行了非常非常好的会面"。
Mr. Trump invoked Mr. Xi again on Saturday, when he condemned North Korea's latest, failed missile test. "North Korea disrespected the wishes of China & its highly respected President when it launched, though unsuccessfully, a missile today. Bad!" Mr. Trump said on Twitter.	在上周六谴责朝鲜最近进行的失败的导弹试验时，特朗普再次提到了习近平。"尽管没能成功，但朝鲜今天发射的导弹是对中国及其备受尊敬的国家主席意愿的不尊重。这非常恶劣！"特朗普在 Twitter 上表示。
"I really liked him," Mr. Trump said of their talks in Florida. "We had a great chemistry, I think. I mean at least I had a great chemistry — maybe he didn't like me, but I think he liked me."	"我真的很喜欢他，"特朗普这样谈到他们在佛罗里达的谈话。"我们。"我觉得我们之间有很不错的化学反应。我是说至少我感觉不错——或许他并不喜欢我，但我觉得他当时是喜欢我的。"
Mr. Xi isn't the only Asian leader caught in something of a whipsaw courtship with Mr. Trump.	习近平不是唯一一位受到过特朗普这种有点拉锯式的示好的亚洲领导人。
Mr. Trump has boasted about his new friendship with Prime Minister	特朗普曾经吹嘘过他与日本首相安倍晋三(Shinzo Abe)的新友谊，那是另一

Shinzo Abe of Japan, another country that was the target of his campaign warnings.	个在竞选期间被他拿来警告过的国家。
"We have a very, very good bond — very, very good chemistry," Mr. Trump said after meeting Mr. Abe in February.	"我非常非常契合——有非常非常好的化学反应，"今年2月特朗普在与安倍晋三会面后这样说道。
Mr. Trump even appears willing to sprinkle a little flattery on Mr. Kim, the North Korean leader, who has accelerated his government's drive for nuclear weapons and long-range missiles.	特朗普甚至似乎愿意对朝鲜领导人金正恩也来一点奉承，后者的政府在加速推进核武器和远程导弹的研发。
"He's 27 years old. His father dies, took over a regime. So say what you want, but that is not easy, especially at that age," he said in the Reuters interview of Mr. Kim, who is part of a dynastic succession.	"他只有27岁。父亲去世后，他接掌了政权。所以，随便你们怎么说，但那并不容易，尤其是在那个年龄，"他在接受路透社采访时这样提到从父辈继承了家族世袭政权的金正恩。
"I'm not giving him credit or not giving him credit, I'm just saying that's a very hard thing to do."	"这不代表我认不认可他，我只是说那一点很难做到。"
The initial rush of good will between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi might not last. China and the United States disagree on how harshly to pressure North Korea, and that rift could widen if North Korea stages another nuclear test.	特朗普和习近平之间最初显现的这种善意可能不会持久。中国和美国在向朝鲜施压的程度存在分歧，如果朝鲜再次进行核试验，这种分歧后续会增大。
In the same Reuters interview, Mr. Trump said, "We could end up having a major, major conflict with North Korea." Not the kind of soothing talk that Mr. Xi says is needed to coax North Korea into concessions.	在那次接受路透社采访时，特朗普还说道，"我们最终可能会和朝鲜产生很大很大的冲突。"这可不是可以让习近平哄劝朝鲜妥协的安抚性的话。
Washington and Beijing also have stubborn disagreements over trade and China's sweeping claims over the South China Sea. The United States is installing an antimissile system in South Korea that China sees as a threat to its own missile defenses.	在贸易和中国对南海提出大范围领土主张的问题上，华盛顿和北京也存在难以化解的分歧。美国正在韩国安装一套反导弹系统，中国将之视作对自身导弹防御系统的一种威胁。
As Mr. Trump wrote in "The Art of the Deal," words can carry a cause only so far.	就像特朗普在《交易的艺术》里所写的，话语能起到的作用也只有那么多。

"You can create excitement, you can do wonderful promotion and get all kinds of press, and you can throw in a little hyperbole," Mr. Trump wrote. "But if you don't deliver the goods, people will eventually catch on."	"你可以激发起热情，做精彩的宣传，获得各种报道，也可以有一点夸张，"特朗普写道。"但如果你拿不出东西，人们最终还是明白的。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170502/trump-xi-jinping-china China Craves Foreign Goods. Students in Australia Supply Them.	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170502/trump-xi-jinping-china 澳大利亚中国留学生把代购做成数亿美元的生意
MELBOURNE, Australia — Zhang Yuan's business started with favors for relatives: an aunt who wanted baby formula, a cousin looking for Ugg boots. She was a college student here in Australia and every dollar helped, so she mailed the items back to China and charged a bit of a commission.	澳大利亚墨尔本——张媛（音）的生意从帮助亲戚开始：一位姨妈想要婴儿配方奶粉，一个表妹在找乌格(Ugg)靴。张媛是一名在澳大利亚上大学的留学生，每块钱对她来说都很重要，所以她把帮人买的東西寄回中国，并收了一点儿佣金。
But then, through word of mouth, her business just kept growing. Between classes, she would shop for whatever was popular that week: vitamins, brand-name jewelry, a fake erectile dysfunction drug called Kangaroo Essence. And when she could not find a more lucrative job after graduation, she stayed in Melbourne and in the booming gray market for selling Australian goods to Chinese consumers.	但后来，一传十、十传百，她的生意越做越大。她会在课余时间去购买本周流行的各种东西：维生素、名牌首饰、一种名为“袋鼠精华”(Kangaroo Essence)的号称能治疗勃起功能障碍的假药。她毕业之后没找到能赚更多钱的工作，于是就留在了墨尔本，继续在繁荣的灰色市场上从事向中国消费者出售澳大利亚商品的业务。
Her business now employs two buyers, two packers and two people in customer service, with offices in Melbourne and Hangzhou, her hometown in eastern China. Taking orders online, she sells mainly to health-conscious and well-to-do women and says she makes more than $300,000 a year.	她的小公司现在雇有两名专门的购物者、两名包装工和两名客服人员，在墨尔本和她位于中国东部的老家杭州设有办事处。她通过网络得到订单，主要销售给健康意识强的富裕女性，她说，她每年挣的钱超过30万美元。
"The Chinese have always had blind adoration for foreign things," said Ms. Zhang, 25. "So rather than paying for expensive, made-in-China products that might lack safety, why wouldn't they buy high-quality	"中国人对外国东西一直盲目崇拜，"25岁的张媛说。"所以，与其说购买昂贵的、但可能不安全的中国造的产品，为什么不买更便宜的高质量澳大利亚产品呢？"

Australian ones at lower prices?”
Even as the world has come to rely on Chinese products, Australian goods have become hot commodities in China, and tens of thousands of young Chinese who are students at Australian universities or recent graduates have built a cottage industry to meet that demand.	在全世界都依赖中国产品的时候，澳大利亚商品却成了中国的热门货，为了满足这个需求，成千上万在澳大利亚的中国留学生或毕业不久的中国年轻人已经建立了一个作坊式的服务产业。
The thriving trade – fueled by Chinese anxiety over counterfeit goods and product safety at home – reflects the growing economic interdependence between China and Australia, with all the opportunities and challenges that come with closer ties between a wealthier nation of 24 million people and a rising regional power of more than 1.3 billion. China is now Australia’s biggest trading partner, and Chinese investment in Australia set a record last year.	这个繁荣的贸易受到中国人对国内假冒商品和产品安全的担忧的推动，也反映了中国与澳大利亚之间越来越多的经济相互依赖关系，以及与这种日益密切的关系相关的挑战，澳大利亚是一个只有 2400 万人口的富裕国家，而中国是正在崛起的、有 13 多亿人口的区域大国。中国目前是澳大利亚最大的贸易伙伴，中国去年在澳大利亚的投资创下了历史新高。
The students, who call themselves daigou, or purchasing agents, are highly attuned to Chinese tastes and move quickly, sometimes creating spikes in demand in Australia and clearing out stores of specific products before shopkeepers know what hit them. Some analysts estimate that daigou sent as much as $600 million in Australian products to China last year.	这些充当采购代理的学生自称“代购”，他们对中国人的嗜好高度敏感，并且行动迅速，有时能在澳大利亚市场上制造需求高峰，在店主还没有搞明白之前，把商店里的某个产品全部扫空。据一些分析师估计，去年，代购者向中国出口了总值高达 6 亿美元的澳大利亚产品。
But their success has also drawn scrutiny, with officials in both China and Australia examining whether they are paying required taxes and complying with other regulations.	但是，他们的成功也引起了更多的注意，中澳两国官员正在调查他们是否缴纳了需交的税，是否遵守其他规定。
The business is in many ways a byproduct of China’s huge interest in a different kind of Australian product: international education, considered one of the nation’s top exports, worth $15 billion a year. Nearly a third of the 450,000 foreign students in Australia are from China, and the	代购业务从许多方面来看，是中国人对澳大利亚另一种产品的巨大兴趣的副产品：国际教育被认为是澳大利亚最大的出口产品之一，价值高达每年 150 亿美元。澳大利亚的 45 万外国学生中有近三分之一来自中国，这个数字仍在增长。

figure is growing.
Peter Cai, a fellow at the Lowy Institute, a think tank in Sydney, said the students had become a powerful force helping Australian products break into China. "Just through the daigou's own personal networks, they enable a new market for a small- and medium-sized business in Australia," he said.	蔡彼得(Peter Cai)是位于悉尼的智库洛伊研究所(Lowy Institute)的研究员,他说, 这些学生已成为一种帮助澳大利亚产品打入中国的强大力量。“仅仅通过代购本人的个人关系网,他们就已经为澳大利亚的中小企业开创了一个新型市场。”
"I think we're almost entering a new phase of the China-Australia economic relationship" requiring greater understanding of the Chinese market, he added, and the students provide that understanding.	他补充说:“我认为, 我们几乎正在进入一个(需要对中国市场有更多了解的)中澳经济关系新阶段”, 而留学生们提供了这种了解。
Chinese purchasing agents first appeared in Europe, buying and shipping luxury goods like handbags for China's growing middle class. But the trade has shifted to Australia in recent years as the Chinese student population in Australia has expanded and consumers in China have grown more anxious about food and product safety.	中国的采购代理首先出现在欧洲,他们为中国不断增长的中产阶级购买手袋等奢侈品, 将其运回中国。但近年来, 随着澳大利亚的中国留学生人数的增长, 以及中国消费者对食品和产品安全的担忧越来越大, 代购业务开始转向澳大利亚。
Worries over infant formula, for example, surged in 2008 when six babies died and more than 300,000 children fell ill from drinking Chinese milk products that had been tainted with melamine, a toxic chemical. Many in China turned to imported milk powder in response, but reports of distributors or retailers adulterating it with Chinese formula prompted consumers to directly seek supplies from overseas.	比如, 2008年, 受有毒化学物质三聚氰胺污染的中国奶制品导致六名婴儿死亡、30多万名儿童患病之后, 人们对婴儿配方奶粉的担忧剧增。作为对这种担忧的回应, 许多中国人转为使用进口奶粉, 但分销商或零售商用中国奶粉对进口奶粉掺假的消息, 促使消费者直接向海外寻找供应。
"There'd be huge amounts of infant powder, 900-gram cans, that were being bought off the supermarket shelves here and put in mailbags and sent to China via students," said John Droppert, a senior analyst at Dairy Australia, an industry group. "Pallet loads were just disappearing because people were putting it in the post and sending it to China."	“曾有大量的婴儿配方奶粉, 900克装的罐头, 被人从这里的超市货架上买走, 放入邮袋, 通过学生寄往中国, “澳大利亚乳业公司(Dairy Australia)的高级分析师约翰·蒂洛普特(John Droppert)说。“整运货板的奶粉一下子就卖光了, 因为人们在把奶粉邮寄回中国。”

Chinese students in Australia say as many as eight in 10 of them are involved in the daigou business. Some are just trying to make ends meet with occasional sales. Others have managed to build significant export businesses. They mail their products to customers in China or ship them to Hong Kong, where traders can carry them across the border to avoid mainland tariffs.	澳大利亚的中国留学生说，他们每 10 人中就有八人参与了代购业务。有些人只是通过偶尔的销售把生活费挣出来。还有些人已经把代购做成了颇大的出口业务。他们将产品邮寄给中国的客户，或将其运到香港，通过那里的商人把东西带过边境，以避免大陆的关税。
"Shopping for others is like buying for myself. It gives me the same pleasure," said Uki Shao, 18, a business major in Melbourne who described herself as the "best daigou at my college." She sells brand-name items like Pandora jewelry, Michael Kors accessories and Aesop lotions and said that her main challenge was persuading customers that her products are not fake.	"为别人购物就像为自己买东西一样，给我带来同样的乐趣，"18 岁的邵宇绮（音）说，她是在墨尔本主修商务的学生，自称是"我所在大学的最佳代购"。她代购的名牌物品包括潘多拉(Pandora)首饰、迈克尔·科斯(Michael Kors)配饰，以及艾索布(Aesop)润肤乳等，她说，她的主要挑战是说服客户产品不是假的。
"Sometimes, I have to take a video and post it on WeChat to show I'm in Australia," she said, referring to the dominant messaging app in China, which the students also use to process payments.	"有时，我需要拍一段视频放到微信上播放，以此来显示我在澳大利亚，"她说，微信指的是在中国占主导地位的即时通讯应用，留学生们也用微信来处理付款。
The trade has grown so fast in recent years that Australian companies now hold events to meet with Chinese students and show them their products. Many work with retailers in China, too, but they are careful not to bypass the daigou in Australia, whose endorsements and personal networks they covet.	代购业务近年来发展的如此之快，以至于澳大利亚公司现在举办与中国留学生见面的活动，向他们展示自己的产品。许多公司也与中国零售商合作，但它们很慎重，不避开澳大利亚的代购，因为公司渴望得到这些人的认同和他们的个人关系网。
Van Diemen's Land Company, the Tasmanian dairy giant, began shipping thousands of liters of fresh milk to China every week but said in February that it intended to work closely with "the all-important daigou channel" to promote sales.	塔斯马尼亚的奶制品巨头范迪门土地公司(Van Diemen's Land Company)开始每周向中国运送数千升的鲜奶，公司已在 2 月份表示，为了促销产品，它打算与"最重要的代购渠道"密切合作。
The students can often be found in the aisles of Chemist Warehouse, a	在大药房连锁店 Chemist Warehouse 的货架之间的走道上，也经常能看到

major drugstore chain, with smartphones in hand, ticking off items on shopping lists while filling suitcases full of products such as concentrated cranberry extract, marketed by the Australian natural health company Blackmores for promoting urinary tract health.	中国留学生，他们手持智能手机，按照购物清单买东西，把携带的箱子装得满满的，其中有诸如澳大利亚天然保健品公司 Blackmores 销售的浓缩蔓越莓提取物等产品，公司宣称该产品能促进尿道健康。
Mario Tascone, the chief operating officer of Chemist Warehouse, said the daigou favored its stores because they offered competitive prices and could fill large orders. The chain also sells directly on the Chinese e-commerce platform TMall, but many customers prefer to place their orders with students.	Chemist Warehouse 的首席运营官马里奥·塔斯科内(Mario Tascone)说，代购喜欢去这家连锁店，因为它们提供有竞争力的价格，并能满足大订单。该连锁店也在中国电子商务平台天猫上直接销售，但很多客户喜欢通过留学生代买。
"They trust the daigou more," said Scarlett Liang, 18, an accounting and economics student at Trinity College in Melbourne. "They want to be convinced of the authenticity of the product."	"他们更信任代购，"18 岁的斯卡雷特·梁(Scarlett Liang)说，她在墨尔本三一学院读会计和经济学专业。"需要说服他们产品的真实性。"
The larger daigou businesses often buy in bulk directly from a manufacturer like Blackmores at a discount, then sell supplies to smaller student operators at a markup.	较大的代购企业经常从 Blackmores 等制造商那里以折扣价批量购买产品，然后加成转卖给较小的学生经营者。
Express delivery companies that specialize in shipping to China are now dotted throughout major Australian cities to keep up. One of the more popular companies, Chang Jiang International Express, which describes itself as a "direct train from Australia to China," sends about 400 tons of products to mainland China each month, according to its operations manager, Lu Wang.	在澳大利亚主要城市，已经有了一些专门向中国发货的快递公司。长江国际速递(Chang Jiang International Express)自称是"澳大利亚直达中国的列车"，其运营经理王露(音)介绍，该公司每月向中国大陆发送约 400 吨商品。
Recently, fresh fruit has been in demand. "Each year in cherry season, the Chinese start asking for more Australian cherries," said Angel Nie, 20, a student who studies politics at the University of Melbourne. "They're very expensive, but the Chinese say, 'I just want	最近，顾客对新鲜水果的需求较大。墨尔本大学 20 岁的政治学学生安吉尔·聂(Angel Nie)说："每到吃樱桃的季节，中国人都想要买更多的澳大利亚樱桃。樱桃价格很贵，但是中国人说，'我只想要新鲜的、维生素充足的樱桃。'"

fresh and full-of-vitamin cherries.”
But Ms. Nie said she dropped out of the business last year because she was not paying taxes, never obtained any licenses and worried it was “kind of like smuggling.”	但聂女士表示，去年因为没有缴纳税款，没有获得任何执照，担心这“有点像走私”，她已经放弃了这门生意。
Because most payments are processed on WeChat and other Chinese platforms, the authorities in Australia rely on students to declare the income themselves. Some daigou also offer lower prices by evading Chinese import duties, and there are occasional reports of arrests in China.	由于大部分付款是通过微信和其他中国平台完成的，所以澳大利亚当局需要学生自己申报收入。一些代购也通过避开中国的进口关税来降低价格，时不时会有人在中国被捕。
“There’s quite a few that have grown into quite substantial operations, and there’d be quite a lot where they’re perhaps flying under the radar,” said Paul Drum, the head of policy at CPA Australia, the national association of accountants.	澳大利亚会计师公会(CPA Australia)的政策主管保罗·德拉姆(Paul Drum)表示：“有相当多的代购已经发展成为颇具规模的生意，而且可能还有很多代购在私下进行。”
Last year, the Agriculture Department said it was investigating individuals suspected of shipping infant formula to China without meeting export requirements. Small exports of baby formula are legal, but shipments over 10 kilograms must come from registered export companies with health certificates, and meet Chinese import regulations, a spokesman said.	去年，农业部表示在对一些不符合出口要求却涉嫌将婴儿配方奶粉运往中国的个人进行调查。该部发言人说，出口少量婴儿配方奶粉是合法的，但是要出货 10 公斤以上，就必须是拥有健康证明的注册出口公司才行，并且需要符合中国的进口规定。
Daigou on student visas in Australia are also permitted to work only 40 hours every two weeks. Running an informal export business in excess of those hours may violate the terms of their visas, according to Rachel Drew, a partner at the law firm Holding Redlich.	拥有澳大利亚大学签证的学生只允许每两周工作 40 小时。豪力律师事务所(Holding Redlich)的合伙人雷切尔·德鲁(Rachel Drew)表示，超过规定时间的非正式出口业务可能会违反签证条款。
But Ms. Zhang expressed confidence that the market would continue to expand even as regulators caught up and Australian companies	但张女士相信，即便随着监管机构的跟进，澳大利亚公司建立起直接向中国客户销售产品的新渠道，这个市场还是会继续扩大。 established new channels to sell directly to Chinese customers.

"Everyone's got family and friends, and therefore their own customers," she said. "That's why there are so many daigou around."	"每个人都有家人和朋友，因此有自己的客户。"她说，"这就是为什么有这么多代购的原因。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170503/china-students-daigou	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170503/china-students-daigou
China's Appetite Pushes Fisheries to the Brink	中国远洋渔船来了，非洲人只能饿肚子？
JOAL, Senegal — Once upon a time, the seas teemed with mackerel, squid and sardines, and life was good. But now, on opposite sides of the globe, sun-creased fishermen lament as they reel in their nearly empty nets.	塞内加尔，若阿勒——从前，大海盛产鲭鱼、鱿鱼和沙丁鱼，那时的生活非常美好。但是现在，全球各地饱经风霜的渔民收起几乎空空如也的渔网，不禁发出叹息。
"Your net would be so full of fish, you could barely heave it onto the boat," said Mamadou So, 52, a fisherman in Senegal, gesturing to the meager assortment of tiny fish flapping in his wooden canoe.	"以前渔网里满是鱼，用尽全力才能拉上船，"52岁的塞内加尔渔民马马杜·索(Mamadou So)指着在自己独木舟里挣扎的一点点小鱼说。
A world away in eastern China, Zhu Delong, 75, also shook his head as his net dredged up a disappointing array of pinkie-size shrimp and fledgling yellow croakers. "When I was a kid, you could cast a line out your back door and hook huge yellow croakers," he said. "Now the sea is empty."	在遥远的中国东部，75岁的朱德龙(音)也摇着头，他的渔网里只有一些小指大的虾和幼小的黄鱼，十分令人失望。"我小时候，在自家后门放根钓线，就能钓到很大的黄鱼，"他说，"现在，海都空了。"
Overfishing is depleting oceans across the globe, with 90 percent of the world's fisheries fully exploited or facing collapse, according to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. From Russian king crab fishermen in the west Bering Sea to Mexican ships that poach red snapper off the coast of Florida, unsustainable fishing practices threaten the well-being of millions of people in the developing world who depend on the sea for income and food, experts say.	据联合国粮食及农业组织(United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization)称，过度捕捞正在全球范围内耗尽海洋资源，全球90%的渔业已被充分开发或面临崩溃。从西白令海捕捞帝王蟹的俄罗斯渔民，到佛罗里达州沿海偷捞红鲷鱼的墨西哥渔船，专家表示，不可持续的捕鱼行为威胁着发展中国家成千上百万人民的生计，他们都要依靠海洋获得收入与食物。
But China, with its enormous population, growing wealth to buy	但是中国正对全球海洋造成巨大冲击，因为它拥有庞大的人口，越来越多可

seafood and the world's largest fleet of deep-sea fishing vessels, is having an outsize impact on the globe's oceans.	用于购买海鲜的财富，以及世界上最大的深海捕鱼船队。
Having depleted the seas close to home, Chinese fishermen are sailing farther to exploit the waters of other countries, their journeys often subsidized by a government more concerned with domestic unemployment and food security than the health of the world's oceans and the countries that depend on them.	中国渔民已耗尽靠近本国的海域，他们正航行到更远的地方搜刮其他国家的水域，这种航行通常得到政府资助。中国政府更关心国内的失业和粮食安全问题，而非世界海洋的健康，以及那些依赖海洋的国家。
Increasingly, China's growing armada of distant-water fishing vessels is heading to the waters of West Africa, drawn by corruption and weak enforcement by local governments. West Africa, experts say, now provides the vast majority of the fish caught by China's distant-water fleet. And by some estimates, as many as two-thirds of those boats engage in fishing that contravenes international or national laws.	越来越多的中国远洋捕鱼船队正驶向西非海域，因为那里的政府腐败、执法不力。专家称，中国远洋渔船捕到的鱼绝大部分来自西非。据某些专家估计，这些渔船中多达三分之二都在从事违反国际法或领海所属国家法律的捕鱼行为。
China's distant-water fishing fleet has grown to nearly 2,600 vessels (the United States has fewer than one-tenth as many), with 400 boats coming into service between 2014 and 2016 alone. Most of the Chinese ships are so large that they scoop up as many fish in one week as Senegalese boats catch in a year, costing West African economies $2 billion a year, according to a new study published by the journal Frontiers in Marine Science.	中国的远洋渔船已增至近 2600 艘（美国的远洋渔船还不到这个数字的十分之一），其中 400 艘是 2014 年至 2016 年投入使用的。《海洋科学前沿》杂志(Frontiers in Marine Science)发表的一项新研究称，大部分中国渔船非常庞大，它们一周的捕鱼量相当于塞内加尔渔船一年的捕鱼量，每年给西非经济造成 20 亿美元的损失。
Many of the Chinese boat owners rely on government money to build vessels and fuel their journeys to Senegal, a monthlong trip from crowded ports in China. Over all, government subsidies to the fishing industry reached nearly $22 billion between 2011 and 2015, nearly triple the amount spent during the previous four years, according to Zhang	很多中国船主依靠政府资金，来建立船队和为去往塞内加尔的航行提供燃料——从中国繁忙的港口出发抵达那里需要一个月的时间。据新加坡南洋理工大学(Nanyang Technological University)研究员张宏洲称，2011 年至 2015 年间，中国政府对渔业的补贴高达近 220 亿美元，接近之前四年补贴总额的三倍。

Hongzhou, a research fellow at Nanyang Technological University in Singapore.
That figure, he said, does not include the tens of millions in subsidies and tax breaks that coastal Chinese cities and provinces provide to support local fishing companies.	他表示,这个数字还不包括中国沿海城市和省份为支持当地渔业公司而提供的数千万元的补贴和税收减免。
According to one study by Greenpeace, subsidies for some Chinese fishing companies amount to a significant portion of their income. For one large state-owned company, CNFC Overseas Fisheries, the $12 million diesel subsidy it received last year made the difference between profit and loss, according to a corporate filing.	绿色和平组织(Greenpeace)的一项研究发现,对于一些中国渔业公司来说,政府补贴占其收入的很大一部分。根据大型国有企业中水集团远洋股份有限公司的一份企业档案,去年获得的1200万美元的柴油补贴是决定公司盈亏的关键。
"Chinese fleets are all over the world now, and without these subsidies, the industry just wouldn't be sustainable," said Li Shuo, a global policy adviser at Greenpeace East Asia. "For Senegal and other countries of West Africa, the impact has been devastating."	"现在,中国的船队遍布世界各地,没有这些补贴,这个行业根本就维持不下去,"绿色和平组织东亚办公室全球政策顾问李硕说。"对塞内加尔和其他西非国家来说,其影响是毁灭性的。"
In Senegal, an impoverished nation of 14 million, fishing stocks are plummeting. Local fishermen working out of hand-hewn canoes compete with megatrawlers whose mile-long nets sweep up virtually every living thing. Most of the fish they catch is sent abroad, with a lot ending up as fishmeal fodder for chickens and pigs in the United States and Europe.	塞内加尔是一个人口1400万的贫困国家,它的渔业储备正在急剧下降。当地渔民用手工制作的独木舟捕鱼,根本无法与超大拖网渔船抗衡,后者长达一英里的渔网几乎能把所有活物一网打尽。他们捕的鱼大部分被运往国外,其中很多最终成为鱼粉饲料,供应美国和欧洲的养鸡场与养猪场。
The sea's diminishing returns mean plummeting incomes for fishermen and higher food prices for Senegalese citizens, most of whom depend on fish as their primary source of protein.	来自海洋的回馈不断减少,意味着塞内加尔渔民的收入骤然下降,食品价格则出现上涨——大部分塞内加尔人以鱼类作为主要的蛋白质来源。
"We are facing an unprecedented crisis," said Alassane Samba, a former director of Senegal's oceanic research institute. "If things keep going the	"我们正面临前所未有的危机,"塞内加尔海洋研究所前所长阿拉萨内·桑巴(Alassane Samba)说。"如果这种情况持续下去,人们就只能吃水母为生。"

way they are, people will have to eat jellyfish to survive.”
When it comes to global fishing operations, China is the indisputable king of the sea. It is the world’s biggest seafood exporter, and its population accounts for more than a third of all fish consumption worldwide, a figure growing by 6 percent a year.	在全球捕鱼业中，中国是无可争议的海洋之王。它是世界上最大的海产品出口国，中国对鱼类的消费量占全球总消费量的三分之一以上，并以每年6%的速度增长。
The nation’s fishing industry employs more than 14 million people, up from five million in 1979, with 30 million others relying on fish for their livelihood.	中国渔业的从业人员超过1400万人，远超1979年的500万人，另有3000万人从事和鱼类有关的行业。
“The truth is, traditional fishing grounds in Chinese waters exist in name only,” said Mr. Zhang of Nanyang University. “For China’s leaders, ensuring a steady supply of aquatic products is not just about good economics but social stability and political legitimacy.”	“实际上，中国水域的传统渔场只在名义上存在，”南洋理工大学的张宏洲说。“对中国领导人来说，确保水产品的稳定供应不仅是为了促进经济，也是为了保证社会稳定及其政治合法性。”
But as they press toward other countries, Chinese fishermen have become entangled in a growing number of maritime disputes.	但是随着中国渔民逼近其他国家，他们也陷入越来越多的海洋纠纷。
Indonesia has impounded scores of Chinese boats caught poaching in its waters, and in March last year, the Argentine authorities sank a Chinese vessel that tried to ram a coast guard boat. Violent clashes between Chinese fishermen and the South Korean authorities have left a half-dozen people dead.	印度尼西亚扣押了数十艘在其海域偷渔的中国船只。去年3月，阿根廷当局击沉了一艘试图撞击海岸警卫队船只的中国渔船。中国渔民和韩国当局之间的暴力冲突导致六人死亡。
For Beijing, the nation’s fleet of fishing vessels has helped assert its territorial ambitions in the South China Sea. In Hainan Province, the government encourages boat owners to fish in and around the Spratlys, the archipelago claimed by the Philippines, and the Paracel Islands, which Vietnam considers its own.	对北京来说，中国的捕鱼船队能帮助它确立在南海的领土野心。海南省政府鼓励船主在斯普拉特利群岛（Spratlys，亦称南沙群岛——译注）和帕拉塞尔群岛（Paracel Islands，亦称西沙群岛——译注）捕鱼。菲律宾和越南分别宣称拥有这两个群岛的主权。
This maritime militia receives subsidized fuel, ice and navigational	这些海上民兵获得了政府补贴的燃料、冰和导航装置。在中国海军护卫舰的

devices. Backed by the firepower of Chinese naval frigates, they have driven away thousands of Filipino fishermen who depended on the rich waters around the Spratly Islands.	火力支持下，他们赶走了数以千计的菲律宾渔民，后者以斯普拉特利群岛周围的丰富水产为生。
Across the Philippine province of Palawan, the impact is reflected in the rows of idled outriggers and the clouds of smoke drifting across freshly denuded hillsides.	在菲律宾的巴拉望省，一排排小艇闲置在那里，新近遭到砍伐的山坡上飘过一团团烟雾，这些都是中国影响力的体现。
Unable to live off the sea, desperate fishermen have been burning protected coastal jungle to make way for rice fields. But heavy rain often washes away the topsoil, environmentalists say, rendering the steep land useless.	由于无法靠海洋为生，绝望的渔民烧掉本应受保护的沿海丛林，想把它们改成稻田。但环保人士称，大雨经常冲走表层的土壤，致使陡峭的土地毫无用处。
"Young boys spend their lives preparing to become fishermen," said Eddie Agamos Brock, who runs Tao, an ecotourism initiative. "Now they have no way to make a living from the sea."	"一直以来，年轻男孩们学的都是捕鱼，"生态旅游计划 Tao 的经营者埃迪·埃格莫斯·布罗克(Eddie Agamos Brock)说，"现在他们却无法靠海洋为生。"
For Senegal, which stretches along the Atlantic for more than 300 miles, the ocean is the economic lifeblood and a part of the national identity. Seafood is the main export, and fishing-related industries employ nearly 20 percent of the work force, according to the World Bank.	塞内加尔沿着大西洋有 300 多英里的海岸线，海洋是它的经济命脉，也是这个国家身份认同的一部分。据世界银行(World Bank)称，海鲜是塞内加尔的主要出口产品，近 20%的劳动力从事与渔业相关的行业。
Ceebu jen, a hearty fish stew, is the national dish, and sawfish — once plentiful but now rare — grace bank notes. No Senegalese postcard is complete without an image of pirogues, the exuberantly painted boats fishermen use.	丰盛的炖鱼 Ceebu jen 是该国的特色菜；锯鳐的图像被印在钞票上——这种鱼过去有很多，现在已经非常稀少。塞内加尔的明信片上都印有色彩鲜艳的独木舟图案，这些独木舟是渔民使用的。
Despite declining fish stocks, unrelenting drought linked to climate change has driven millions of rural Senegalese to the coast, increasing the nation's dependence on the sea.	尽管鱼类储备减少，但与气候变化有关的持续干旱也迫使数百万塞内加尔农村人口来到海边，这增加了该国对海洋的依赖。
With two-thirds of the population under 18, the strain has helped fuel	塞内加尔有三分之二的人口在 18 岁以下，这种压力导致试图进入欧洲的塞

the surge of young Senegalese trying to reach Europe.	内加尔年轻人数量激增。
"Foreigners complain about Africa migrants coming to their countries, but they have no problem coming to our waters and stealing all our fish," said Moustapha Balde, 22, whose teenage cousin drowned after his boat sank in the Mediterranean.	"外国人抱怨非洲移民去他们的国家，但他们就可以肆无忌惮地来我们的水域，偷走我们所有的鱼，"22岁的穆斯塔法·巴尔德(Moustapha Balde)说。他十几岁的表弟在偷渡地中海时因船只沉没而被淹死。
The migration to the coast has transformed this seaside city, Joal, from a palm-shaded fishing village into a town of 55,000. Abdou Karim Sall, 50, president of the local fishermen's association, said there were now 4,900 pirogues in Joal, up from a few dozen when he was a teenager.	迁往海边的移民把海滨城市若阿勒从棕榈成荫的渔村变成了一个拥有5.5万人的城镇。50岁的阿卜杜·卡里姆·萨勒(Abdou Karim Sall)是当地渔民协会的主席。他说，现在若阿勒有4900艘独木舟，而他十多岁时只有几十艘。
"We always thought that sea life was boundless," he said while patrolling the coastline. Now, he added, "we are facing a catastrophe."	"我们一直以为海洋生物是取之不尽的，"他沿着海岸线巡逻时说。他还说，现在"我们面临着一场灾难"。
Mr. Sall became a local hero after he single-handedly detained the captains of two Chinese boats that were fishing illegally. These days, residents curse him under their breath because he has expanded his campaign against overfishing to include Senegalese boats that flout fishing rules designed to help stocks rebound.	萨勒凭着一己之力，扣留了两艘非法捕鱼的中国船只的船长，因此成了当地的英雄。如今，居民们却在悄悄骂他，因为他扩大了反对过度捕捞运动的范围，为了帮助鱼类储备回升，他把矛头也对准那些无视捕鱼规则的塞内加尔船只。
"I understand why they hate me," he said. "They are just trying to survive from day to day."	"我知道他们为什么恨我，"他说。"他们只是想一天一天地生存下去。"
Still, most of his ire is directed at the capacious foreign-owned trawlers. These days, more than 100 large boats work Senegalese waters, a mix of European, Asian and locally flagged vessels, according to government figures. That number doesn't include boats that fly Senegalese flags but are owned by Chinese companies.	但他的大部分愤怒仍是针对大容量的外国拖网渔船的。政府数据显示，目前有100多艘大型船只在塞内加尔的领海作业，有的悬挂欧洲和亚洲旗帜，有的悬挂本地旗帜。这个数字不包括悬挂塞内加尔国旗，但属于中国公司所有的船只。
Also uncounted are the ships that fish illegally, often at night or on the fringes of Senegal's 200-mile-wide exclusive economic zone — well out	非法捕鱼的船只也没有算在内。它们往往是在夜里，或是在塞内加尔200英里宽的专属经济区的边缘捕捞，对该国规模颇小的海军来说根本鞭长莫及。

of reach of the country's small navy.	及。
Dyhia Belhabib, a fisheries expert trying to quantify illegal fishing along the African coast, said Chinese boats were among the worst offenders; in West Africa, they report just 8 percent of their catch, compared with 29 percent for European-flagged vessels, she said.	试图量化非洲沿岸非法捕捞情况的渔业专家黛希娅·贝尔哈比卜(Dyhia Belhabib)表示, 中国渔船出现在罪魁祸首的行列里。她说, 在西非, 它们上报的捕鱼量仅为实际捕鱼量的8%, 相比之下悬挂欧洲旗帜的船只上报的捕鱼量是29%。
According to her estimates, Chinese boats steal 40,000 tons of fish a year from Senegalese waters, an amount worth roughly $28 million.	据她估计, 中国渔船每年从塞内加尔领海盗捕4万吨鱼, 价值约2800万美元。
Her figures do not include boats engaged in illegal fishing that were never caught — nearly two-thirds of all Chinese vessels, she said. "When darkness falls, the dynamics of illegal fishing change dramatically and it becomes a free-for-all."	她的数据不包括从来没被抓到过的非法捕捞船只, 相当于所有中国船只的近三分之二。“夜幕降临时, 非法捕捞的动态急剧变化, 成了一场没有规则的混战。”
The problem is magnified across West Africa. Some countries, like Guinea-Bissau and Sierra Leone, have just a handful of boats to police their national waters.	这个问题在西非各地更严重。一些国家, 如几内亚比绍和塞拉利昂, 只拥有少量船只去管理自己的领海。
In Senegal, recent legislation has drastically increased fines for illegal fishing to $1 million, and officials pointed to the two impounded foreign-owned boats in Dakar, the nation's capital, as proof that their efforts are bearing fruit.	在塞内加尔, 最近的立法把针对非法捕捞的罚款大幅增至100万美元。官方也以被扣押在该国首都达喀尔的两艘外国船只为例, 证明他们的行动卓有成效。
Glancing out at the sea, Capt. Mamadou Ndiaye described the challenges he faces as the director of enforcement for Senegal's Ministry of Fisheries and Maritime Economy. Many scofflaws, he noted, fish on the edge of Senegal's territorial waters and can easily escape when threatened.	向外瞥了一眼大海, 塞内加尔渔业与海洋经济部(Ministry of Fisheries and Maritime Economy)执法局局长马马杜·恩迪亚耶(Mamadou Ndiaye)上校说起了自己面临的挑战。他指出, 很多违法分子都是在塞内加尔领海的边缘捕鱼, 面临威胁时可以轻而易举地逃脱。
His agency cannot afford speedboats or satellite imagery; it could also use a functioning airplane. "Still, we have more than many other	他领导的机构买不起快艇, 也用不起卫星图片或是功能正常的飞机。“但我们的设备依然比其他很多国家多, 我们还得帮助它们,”他说。 countries, and we have to help them, too," he said.

Most of the small pelagic fish that swim in Senegalese waters — and make up 85 percent of the nation's protein consumption — migrate in enormous schools between Morocco and Sierra Leone. Along the way, they are scooped up by hundreds of industrial trawlers, at least half of them Chinese-owned, experts say.	塞内加尔海域内活动的大多数中上层小型鱼类会结成许多庞大的鱼群，在摩洛哥与塞拉利昂之间迁徙，它们提供了该国饮食中 85% 的蛋白质。专家说，一路上，它们被数以百计的工业拖网渔船捕捞，其中至少有一半渔船是归中国所有。
In 2012, Senegal stopped granting licenses to foreign trawlers for these small fish, but neighboring countries have refused to follow suit. Mauritania, where most of the fleet is Chinese-Mauritanian joint ventures, is home to 20 fishmeal factories that grind sea life into exported animal feed, with another 20 planned, according to Greenpeace.	2012 年，塞内加尔停止向捕捞这些小型鱼类的外国拖网渔船颁发执照，但邻国却拒绝效仿这一做法。毛里塔尼亚的大部分渔船队都是中毛两国合资的企业，根据绿色和平组织(Greenpeace)的数据，该国有 20 家鱼粉厂，将海洋生物碾磨为供出口用的动物饲料，另外还计划再开 20 家新厂。
Protecting the seas sometimes means saying no to China, whose largess is funding infrastructure across Africa.	有时候，保护海洋就意味着拒绝中国，而中国正在慷慨解囊，为非洲的基础设施建设提供资金。
"It's hard to say no to China when they are building your roads," said Dr. Samba, the former head of Senegal's oceanic research institute.	"当中国还在为你修路的时候，要对他们说不是很困难的，"塞内加尔海洋研究所前负责人桑巴博士说：
Then there is the lack of transparency that keeps national fishing agreements with China secret.	此外相关事务也缺少透明度，同中国签订的国家渔业协定就完全是保密的。
"There is corruption in opacity," said Rashid Sumaila, director of the Fisheries Economics Research Unit at the University of British Columbia Fisheries Center. "Sometimes the Chinese pay bribes to get access and that money doesn't trickle down, so the population is hit by a double whammy."	"不透明中存在着腐败现象，"不列颠哥伦比亚大学渔业中心渔业经济研究部门(Fisheries Economics Research Unit at the University of British Columbia Fisheries Center)主任拉希德·苏迈拉(Rashid Sumaila)说。"有时候中国人靠行贿获得许可证，这样的金钱不会下渗，普通人民等于受到双重打击。"
Beijing has become sensitive to accusations that its huge fishing fleet is helping push fish stocks to the brink of collapse.	中国的巨大捕鱼舰队正在推动鱼类种群陷入崩溃边缘，对于这样的指责，北京已经非常敏感。

The government says it is aggressively reducing fuel subsidies — by 2019 they will have been cut by 60 percent, according to a fishery official — and pending legislation would require all distant-water vessels manufactured in China to register with the government, enabling better monitoring.	政府表示正在大力减少燃料补贴——一位渔业官员说，到2019年将减少60%——此外，正待生效的法律要求所有中国制造的远洋船只都在政府登记，从而实现更好的监管。
“The era of fishing any way you want, wherever you want, has passed,” Liu Xinzong, deputy general director of the Bureau of Fisheries in Beijing, said. “We now need to fish by the rules.”	“想怎么捕捞就怎么捕捞，想在哪里捕捞就在哪里捕捞的时代已经过去了，”中国渔业局副局长刘新忠说。“我们现在需要按规则来捕鱼。”
But criticism of China’s fishing practices, he added, is sometimes exaggerated, arguing that Chinese vessels traveling to Africa were simply responding to the demand for seafood from developed countries, which have been reducing their own fleets.	但是，他补充说，对中国捕捞活动的批评有时过于夸张，他认为，去往非洲的中国船队只是为了满足发达国家对海鲜的需求，这些发达国家已经减少了自己的捕鱼船队。
“People come to me and ask, ‘If China doesn’t fish, where would Americans get their fish to eat?’” he said.	“人们来问我，‘如果没有中国人捕鱼，那么美国人吃的鱼从哪里来？’”他说。
Here in Joal, the dwindling catches have prompted the closing of three of the town’s ice factories, with the fourth barely holding on. On the town’s main quay, where women wade into the surf to meet arriving pirogues, the competition for fish has become intense.	在若阿勒，捕鱼量减少已经导致镇上三家冰厂关闭，只有第四家还在勉强维持。在镇上的主要码头，女人们涉水走向海浪，迎接到达的船只，收购鱼的竞争变得激烈。
“We used to have big grouper and tuna, but now we are fighting over a few sardinella,” said one buyer, Sente Camara, 68. On a good day, she makes $20; on a bad day, she loses money. “The future is dark,” she said.	“我们以前有大石斑鱼和金枪鱼，但是现在我们正为一点沙丁鱼争来抢去，”68岁的买家桑特·卡马拉(Sente Camara)说。生意好的时候，她一天能赚20美元；生意不好的时候还会亏钱。“未来是黑暗的，”她说。
To catch anything, fishermen have to venture out farther, putting their lives at risk if an engine stalls or a late summer storm barrels through. Sometimes the danger is a super trawler whose wake can easily swamp	为了捕到鱼，渔民不得不冒着危险出海到更远的地方，如果发动机停转或者在夏末遭遇暴风雨，他们可能会有生命危险。有时候，一艘超大型拖网渔船也会带来危险，它的尾流可以轻易打翻一艘独木舟。

a pirogue.
At Joal's vast outdoor smoking center, the lack of fish was apparent in the empty racks normally stacked with yellow-tailed sardinella and millet stalks smoldering below.	在若阿勒宽敞的户外烟熏中心，架子上通常都会堆满黄尾沙丁鱼，下面用谷物秸秆熏烧，如今架子上空荡荡的，鱼类显然非常缺乏。
Daba Mbaye, 49, one of the few people working, said the smokers could no longer compete with the fishmeal factories.	现年 49 岁的达巴·姆巴耶(Daba Mbaye)是还在工作的少数人之一，她说，熏鱼者无法再同鱼粉厂竞争。
"They leave us with nothing, and we are powerless to stop them," Ms. Mbaye said. "Now we are forced to catch juvenile fish, which is like going into a house and killing all the children. If you do that, the family will eventually disappear."	"他们没有给我们留下任何东西，我们无力阻止他们。"姆巴耶说。"现在我们被迫捕捞未成年的鱼，这就像进入一座房子，杀死里面所有的孩子。如果你这么做，这个家族终将消失。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170503/chinas-appetite-pushes-fisheries-to-the-brink	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170503/chinas-appetite-pushes-fisheries-to-the-brink
Trump's Turn Toward China Curtails Navy Patrols in Disputed Zones	朝鲜危机当头，美国不愿在南海挑战中国
WASHINGTON — Six weeks ago, the United States Pacific Command requested permission from senior American officials for a United States warship to sail within 12 nautical miles of Scarborough Shoal, a disputed reef in the South China Sea that is claimed by the Philippines and China.	华盛顿——六周前，美国太平洋司令部(Pacific Command)请求高级官员允许一艘该国军舰在南海有争议岛礁斯卡伯勒浅滩(Scarborough Shoal, 中国称黄岩岛——译注)12海里范围内航行。菲律宾和中国均声称拥有该礁石的主权。
The Navy had good reason to think the request would be granted. During last year's campaign, President Trump labeled then-President Barack Obama as weak in defending international waters in the South China Sea, where Beijing has started a sharp military buildup to reclaim land, install runways and haul equipment onto reefs and shoals it claimed as its own. Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson, during his confirmation hearing in January, called for China to be denied access to	美国海军有充分的理由认为该请求会获得批准。去年竞选期间，特朗普总统给时任总统贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)在捍卫南海国际水域上的表现贴上了软弱的标签。在过去一段时间，中国已在南海地区开始了一场迅速的军事建设，以便填海造陆、搭建飞机跑道并把设备运到其宣称为自己所有的岛礁和浅滩上。美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)在1月的提名确认听证会上呼吁，阻止中国登陆相关人工岛屿。外交政策专家和亚洲观察人士为美国海军恢复在中国自称是其领海的水域进行日常巡逻做好了准备。

the artificial islands. And foreign policy experts and Asia watchers braced for a return to routine Navy patrols within China's self-proclaimed territorial waters, something Mr. Obama allowed sparingly.	此前，奥巴马只是偶尔才批准这类行动。
But instead, the Pacific Command request — and two others by the Navy in February — was turned down by top Pentagon officials before they even made it to Mr. Trump's desk. More than 100 days into the Trump presidency, no American Navy ship has gone within 12 miles of any of the disputed islands in the South China Sea, Defense officials said.	但太平洋司令部的请求——连同美国海军在 2 月提出的另外两项请求——被五角大楼的高层官员拒绝了。它们甚至都没出现在特朗普的办公桌上。特朗普已担任总统 100 多天，国防部官员称，尚没有美国海军船只进入南海任何一座有争议岛屿 12 海里范围内。
The decision not to challenge China's territorial claims shows a remarkable deference toward Beijing from an administration that is increasingly turning toward Chinese President Xi Jinping for help amid the escalating crisis in the Korean Peninsula. It remained unclear on Tuesday whether it was Defense Secretary Jim Mattis; Gen. Joseph F. Dunford Jr., the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; or one of their deputies who turned down the three requests. Defense officials said that the White House was not involved.	不挑战中国领土主张的决定，显示出特朗普政府对北京惊人的顺从。在朝鲜半岛危机日渐升级的情况下，特朗普政府越来越转向中国国家主席习近平求助。周二当天尚不清楚是国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)、参谋长联席会议主席小约瑟夫·F·邓福德上将(Gen. Joseph F. Dunford Jr.)还是他们的某个副手拒绝了这三项请求。国防部官员称白宫没有参与此事。
"All of the language, combined with the fact that the Republican foreign policy establishment had been critical of Obama for not carrying out enough Fonops, means there was a wide expectation that Trump would put down a marker early. And that hasn't happened," said Robert Daly, the director of the Kissinger Institute on China and the United States at the Wilson Center. He was referring to the Navy excursions, officially known as freedom of navigation operations.	"所有这些相关言论，再加上共和党外交政策建制派一直指责奥巴马没有开展足够的 Fonops 的事实，都意味着人们抱有对特朗普会提早行动的广泛预期。但这一幕并没有发生，"威尔逊中心基辛格中美关系研究所(Kissinger Institute on China and the United States at the Wilson Center)主任戴博(Robert Daly)说。他指的是美国海军的一种远航行动，官方称其为航行自由行动(freedom of navigation operations, 简称 Fonops)。

The simmering crisis in North Korea seems to have changed the Trump administration's earlier assumptions on how to handle China. Mr. Trump campaigned on being tough on Beijing, promising that he would label China a currency manipulator and would go after Beijing on trade.	一触即发的朝鲜危机似乎改变了特朗普政府早前有关如何对待中国的假设。竞选期间，特朗普对北京态度强硬，承诺会把中国列为汇率操纵国，并在贸易问题上对中国采取行动。
But as North Korea accelerated its provocative behavior the past three months, attempting nine missile launches on six occasions since Mr. Trump came to power, his administration has adopted a more conciliatory air with Beijing as the president seeks help to rein in Pyongyang.	但随着过去三个月里朝鲜的挑衅行为加剧——自特朗普上台以来，朝鲜已在六个不同的时间试图发射九枚导弹——美国政府对北京采取了更温和的态度，因为特朗普总统要在控制平壤方面寻求帮助。
With each missile launch, Mr. Trump's newfound affection for the Chinese leader, Mr. Xi, has increased. Last Saturday, after the most recent launch, Mr. Trump wrote on Twitter that North Korea had "disrespected the wishes of China and its highly respected president when it launched, though unsuccessfully, a missile today. Bad!"	朝鲜每发射一次导弹，特朗普对中国领导人习近平新生的好感都会有所增加。上周六，在朝鲜进行了距今最近的发射后，特朗普在 Twitter 上发文称朝鲜“今天发射导弹的行为，虽然没有成功，但仍是对中国及其备受尊敬的国家主席的愿望的不尊重。太糟糕了！”
Decisions to deny the Navy's requests to sail within 12 nautical miles of disputed islands in the South China Sea were fairly routine during the Obama administration. In fact, that Mr. Obama came under sharp criticism from Republicans for suspending for more than two years of such excursions, out of concern for further raising tensions with Beijing.	拒绝海军在南海有争议岛屿 12 海里范围内航行请求的决定，在奥巴马政府时期相当常见。实际上，因为担心造成与北京的紧张关系进一步加剧，奥巴马让航行自由行动暂停了两年多。这让他当时受到了共和党人的严厉抨击。
In October 2015, the Obama administration sent a guided missile destroyer, the Lassen, within territorial waters near Subi Reef, one of several artificial islands that China has built in the disputed Spratly Islands chain. At the time, Mr. Obama's White House played down the episode and directed Defense Department officials not to talk about it	2015 年 10 月，奥巴马政府派“拉森号”导弹驱逐舰进入渚碧礁 (Subi Reef)——中国在有争议的斯普拉特利群岛 (Spratly Islands, 中国称为南沙群岛——译注) 岛链修建的多座人工岛屿之一——附近海域。当时，奥巴马领导的白宫淡化了该行动，并指示国防部官员不要公开讨论此事，想避免加剧冲突。

publicly, wanting to avoid escalating a conflict.
Such hesitance prompted harsh words from Mr. Trump during the presidential campaign. In an interview with The New York Times in March 2016, Mr. Trump said that Beijing had built in the South China Sea "a military fortress, the likes of which perhaps the world has not seen.	竞选期间，这种犹豫招到了特朗普的严厉指责。2016年3月接受《纽约时报》的采访时，特朗普说北京已经在南海建起了“军事堡垒，而且或许是全世界前所未见的那种”。
"Amazing, actually," he said. "They do that at will, because they have no respect for our president and they have no respect for our country."	"实际上令人惊叹，"他说。"他们随心所欲，因为他们不尊重我们的总统，不尊重我们的国家。"
Mr. Tillerson came to office saying that China's island-building campaign was "akin to Russia's taking of Crimea." He said that the Trump administration was "going to have to send China a clear signal that, first, the island-building stops," and "second, your access to those islands also is not going to be allowed."	蒂勒森上台时称中国的造岛运动“类似于俄罗斯吞并克里米亚”。他说，特朗普政府“将不得不向中国发出明确的信号，首先，停止修建岛屿”，并且“第二，不允许你们登陆这些岛屿”。
That denial of access is now on the back burner. In fact, China has continued to militarize the islands, according to Mr. Daly, of the Wilson Center, and has bomb-proofed airplane hangars that were built on the reclaimed islands as well as brought in additional equipment.	现在，不允许中国登上相关岛屿已经不重要了。实际上，据威尔逊中心的戴博称，中国继续让相关岛屿军事化，并对人工岛屿上修建的飞机库进行了防爆处理，还引入了额外的设备。
Chinese officials have maintained that such action does not constitute militarizing the islands. They say the islands are Chinese territory and Beijing therefore cannot militarize land it already owns. The United States and other countries disagree.	中国官员坚称这种行为不构成相关岛屿的军事化。他们说那些岛屿是中国的领土，因而北京不可能军事化已经属于自己的土地。美国和其他国家对此持不同意见。
The Chinese have not yet begun construction on Scarborough Shoal. American officials have long viewed doing so as something of a red line, and have cautioned Chinese counterparts that any building on the shoal would be viewed as provocative.	中国还没开始在斯卡伯勒浅滩上修建相关设施。美国官员长期视这么做的行为为某种红线。他们告诫中国同僚，斯卡伯勒浅滩上的任何建设行为都会被视作挑衅。

Mr. Obama warned Mr. Xi at a March 2016 meeting in Washington not to start building an island at Scarborough Shoal. Late last year, an unusually large number of Chinese vessels were positioned close to the disputed reef, renewing American concerns.	2016年3月在华盛顿举行会谈时，奥巴马警告习近平不要在斯卡伯勒浅滩上建造岛屿。去年年底，一批数量异常大的中国船只被部署在这个有争议的浅滩附近，再次引发了美国的担忧。
A Defense official described the Pacific Command request last month to conduct a naval excursion within 12 nautical miles of Scarborough Shoal as a signal to the Chinese that building on the atoll remained a red line for the United States. The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity to discuss sensitive operations more frankly, added that Navy officials believed that the request to be in line with what the Trump administration wanted.	国防部官员称，太平洋司令部上月请求在斯卡伯勒浅滩12海里范围内开展海军行动，以向中国发出信号，表明对美国来说，该环礁上的建造行为依然是一条红线。这名要求在匿名的条件下更坦率地讨论敏感行动的官员接着表示，海军官员认为，该请求符合特朗普政府的需要。
But Defense officials also said that Mr. Mattis and the Pentagon leadership want to look carefully at the strategic implications of such excursions on overall national security policy. While Mr. Mattis is far from opposed to the freedom of navigation trips, he is reviewing the American security posture around the world, Defense officials said.	但国防部官员也表示，马蒂斯和五角大楼的领导层希望仔细研究这类行动对整个国家安全政策的战略影响。国防部官员称，尽管马蒂斯完全不反对航行自由行动，但他正在审查美国在全世界的安全立场。
Additionally, Washington's hope that China will rein in North Korea has called into question the timing of the next freedom of navigation sail.	此外，华盛顿希望中国约束朝鲜。这让下一次航行自由行动的时间选择被打上了问号。
Andrew L. Oros, the author of the newly published "Japan's Security Renaissance," said that it was far more important now to address North Korea's missile and nuclear weapons development than to pick a fight over the Navy navigation trips.	新出版的《日本的安全复兴》(Japan's Security Renaissance)一书的作者安德鲁·L·奥罗斯(Andrew L. Oros)称，现在解决朝鲜的导弹和核武器发展，远比围绕海军的航行活动挑起争端重要。
"That's clearly the case," Mr. Oros said. But, he said, the Trump administration still must	"这是显然的，"奥罗斯说。但他表示，特朗普政府仍须密切监视中国的活动，不在有争议岛屿的问题上让步。
closely monitor China's activities and not give ground in the disputed	"我希望这么做不会让中国觉得这是默认北京对国际水域提出的肆无忌惮的

islands.	主权主张，”他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170503/navy-south-china-sea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170503/navy-south-china-sea
As Economy Grows, North Korea's Grip on Society Is Tested	有朝鲜特色的社会主义考验金氏政权
SEOUL, South Korea — Despite decades of sanctions and international isolation, the economy in North Korea is showing surprising signs of life.	韩国首尔——朝鲜遭受了长达数十年的制裁和国际社会的孤立，但其经济眼下正呈现出令人意外的蓬勃迹象。
Scores of marketplaces have opened in cities across the country since the North Korean leader, Kim Jong Un, took power five years ago. A growing class of merchants and entrepreneurs is thriving under the protection of ruling party officials. Pyongyang, the capital, has seen a construction boom, and there are now enough cars on its once-empty streets for some residents to make a living washing them.	自从朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong Un)于5年前上台以来，该国各地已经开办了众多市场。日益壮大的商人和创业家阶层在执政党官员的保护下迅猛发展。首都平壤出现了建筑高潮，一度空荡荡的街道上如今也有了足够多的汽车，使得一些居民有机会以洗车维持生计。
Reliable economic data is scarce. But recent defectors, regular visitors and economists who study the country say nascent market forces are beginning to reshape North Korea — a development that complicates efforts to curb Kim's nuclear ambitions.	可靠的经济数据并不多。但近来脱北的人士、常常到访朝鲜的人以及研究朝鲜问题的经济学家表示，新兴的市场力量正开始重塑朝鲜——这一新情况会让遏制朝鲜核野心的努力变得复杂起来。
Even as President Donald Trump bets on tougher sanctions, especially by China, to stop the North from developing nuclear-tipped missiles capable of striking the United States, the country's improving economic health has made it easier for it to withstand such pressure and to acquire funds for its nuclear program.	在唐纳德·特朗普总统寄望于以更严厉的制裁——尤其是出自中国之手的制裁——阻止朝鲜研制可被用来袭击美国的核弹头导弹之际，经济状况的改善让朝鲜可以更容易地抵御这些压力，并为其核计划筹集资金。
While North Korea remains deeply impoverished, estimates of annual growth under Kim's rule range from 1 percent to 5 percent, comparable to some fast-growing economies unencumbered by sanctions.	朝鲜仍处于极度贫困状态，但在金正恩治下，其经济增速据估计在1%至5%之间，即便与不受制裁所累、经济快速发展的国家相比也毫不逊色。
But a limited embrace of market forces in what is supposed to be a	不过，对于在2013年把经济增长列为与发展核武并驾齐驱的首要政策目标

classless society also is a gamble for Kim, who in 2013 made economic growth a top policy goal on par with the development of a nuclear arsenal.	的金正恩来说，在一个本该没有阶级差别的社会里，即便是有限度地拥抱市场的力量也是一种赌博。
Kim, 33, has promised his long-suffering people that they will never have to “tighten their belts” again. But as he allows private enterprise to expand, he undermines the government’s central argument of socialist superiority over South Korea’s capitalist system.	现年 33 岁的金正恩向长期遭受苦难的朝鲜人民承诺，他们永远也不必再“勒紧腰带”了。他允许私人企业发展壮大，但在这样做的时候，却动摇了其政府关于社会主义制度比韩国的资本主义制度更优越的核心主张。
There are signs that market forces are weakening the government’s grip on society. Information is seeping in along with foreign goods, eroding the cult of personality surrounding Kim and his family. And as people support themselves and get what they need outside the state economy, they are less beholden to authorities.	有迹象表明，市场力量正在削弱政府对社会的控制。和外国商品一起渗透进来的信息，侵蚀了对金正恩及其家族的疯狂个人崇拜。此外，随着人们可以自谋生路并在国有经济之外获取个人所需，他们也不再那么受制于当局了。
“Our attitude toward the government was this: If you can’t feed us, leave us alone so we can make a living through the market,” said Kim Jin-hee, who fled North Korea in 2014 and, like others interviewed for this article, uses a new name in the South to protect relatives she left behind.	“我们对政府的态度是这样的：如果不能让我们吃饱饭，你就别干涉我们，这样一来我们就能靠市场谋生，”于 2014 年逃离朝鲜的金镇熙(Kim Jin-hee, 音)说。像其他就本文接受采访的人一样，为了保护身在朝鲜的亲属，她在韩国使用了一个新名字。
After the government tried to clamp down on markets in 2009, she recalled, “I lost what little loyalty I had for the regime.”	在朝鲜政府于 2009 年试图取缔市场以后，她回忆说，“我对这个政权连一点忠诚都不剩了。”
Unofficial Activity	未得到官方许可的活动
Kim Jin-hee’s loyalty was first tested in the 1990s, when a famine caused by floods, drought and the loss of Soviet aid gripped North Korea. The government stopped providing food rations, and as many as 2 million people died.	金镇熙的忠诚首次经受考验是在 20 世纪 90 年代。当时，一场由洪水、干旱和失去苏联的援助引发的饥荒肆虐朝鲜。政府停止供应配给的食品，多达 200 万人死去。
Kim did what many others did to survive. She stopped showing up for	为了活下去，金镇熙做了其他人都在做的事。在矿区城镇茂山的一家国有机

her state job, at a machine-tool factory in the mining town of Musan, and spent her days at a makeshift market selling anything she could get her hands on. Similar markets appeared across the country.	床厂工作的她不再上班，而是每天在一个临时市场里售卖她能拿到手的所有东西。当时，该国各地都涌现出了类似的市场。
After the food shortage eased, the market in Musan continued to grow. By the time she left the country, Kim said, more than 1,000 stalls were squeezed into it alongside her own.	食品短缺有所缓解以后，茂山的市场继续壮大。到她离开朝鲜的时候，包括她的摊位在内，那里面挤进了超过 1000 个摊位。
Kim Jong Il, the father of the North's current leader, had been ambivalent about the marketplaces before he died in 2011. Sometimes he tolerated them, using them to increase food supplies and soften the blow of tightening sanctions imposed by the United Nations on top of a U.S. embargo dating to the Korean War. Other times, he sought to suppress them.	金正恩的父亲金正日(Kim Jong Il)于 2011 年去世前对这些市场的态度一直颇为矛盾。有时候，他容忍它们存在，利用它们增加食品供应，弱化美国自朝鲜战争以来实施的禁运措施外加联合国实施的日益严厉的制裁对朝鲜的打击。另外一些时候，他又寻求遏制它们。
But since 2010, the number of government-approved markets in North Korea has doubled to 440, and satellite images show them growing in size in most cities. In a country with a population of 25 million, about 1.1 million people are now employed as retailers or managers in these markets, according to a study by the Korea Institute for National Unification in Seoul.	但自从 2010 年以来，朝鲜得到官方许可的市场数量增加了一倍，达到 440 家；卫星图像显示，在大多数城市里，它们的规模越来越大。根据首尔的韩国统一研究院(Korea Institute for National Unification)的一项研究，在总人口数量为 2500 万的朝鲜，目前约有 110 万人的职业是在这些市场里当小贩或经理。
Unofficial market activity has flourished, too: people making and selling shoes, clothing, sweets and bread from their homes; traditional agricultural markets that appear in rural towns every 10 days; smugglers who peddle black-market goods like Hollywood movies, South Korean television dramas and smartphones that can be used near the Chinese border.	未得到官方许可的市场活动也大行其道：人们把在家里做的鞋子、衣服、糖果和面包进行贩卖；乡镇地区每隔十天就会有一场传统的农产品集市；走私者兜售着好莱坞电影、韩国电视剧以及能在中国边境附近使用的智能手机等黑市商品。
At least 40 percent of the population in North Korea is now engaged in	韩国情报机构负责人李炳镐 (Lee Byung-ho, 音) 在今年 2 月的一场闭门

some form of private enterprise, a level comparable to that of Hungary and Poland shortly after the fall of the Soviet bloc, the director of South Korea's intelligence service, Lee Byung-ho, told lawmakers in a closed-door briefing in February.	简报会上告诉国会议员，目前，至少有 40%的朝鲜人在以某种形式参与私人经营，这一水平与苏联集团解体不久后的匈牙利和波兰相当。
This market activity is driven in part by frustration with the state's inefficient and rigid planned economy. North Koreans once worked only in state farms and factories, receiving salaries and ration coupons to buy food and other necessities in state stores. But that system crumbled in the 1990s, and now many state workers earn barely a dollar a month. Economists estimate the cost of living in North Korea to be $60 per month.	在某种程度上，这种经济活动的驱动力是人们对效率低下而又死板的国有计划经济的失望之情。朝鲜人一度只在国有农场和国有工厂里工作，用领到的薪水和配给券到国有商店里购买食品及其他生活必需品。但这个体系在 1990 年代崩溃了，现在很多国有单位的职工一个月只能挣到 1 美元。据经济学家估计，在朝鲜，每个月的生活成本是 60 美元。
Eighty percent of consumer goods sold in North Korean markets originate in China, according to an estimate by Kim Young-hee, director of the North Korean economy department at the Korea Development Bank in the South.	按照韩国产业银行(Korea Development Bank)朝鲜经济部主任金容熙 (Kim Young-hee, 音) 的估计，在朝鲜市场上销售的消费品，有 80%来自中国。
But Kim Jong Un has exhorted the country to produce more goods locally in an effort to lessen its dependence on China, using the word jagang, or self-empowerment. His call has emboldened manufacturers to respond to market demand.	但金正恩鼓励国人要“自强”，自行生产更多产品，以减少对中国的依赖。他的这一倡议，让制造商们有了针对市场需求做出反应的底气。
Shoes, liquor, cigarettes, socks, sweets, cooking oil, cosmetics and noodles produced in North Korea have already squeezed out or taken market share from Chinese-made versions, defectors said.	脱北者说，产于朝鲜的鞋、酒、香烟、袜子、糖果、烹饪油、化妆品已经把来自中国的同类商品挤出了市场或者抢占了后者的一部分市场份额。
Regular visitors to Pyongyang, the showcase capital, say a real consumer economy is emerging. "Competition is everywhere, including between travel agencies, taxi companies and restaurants,"	首都平壤是朝鲜展示自我的窗口，常常到访平壤的人士说，一种真正的消费经济正浮出水面。“竞争无处不在，包括旅行社之间、出租车公司之间和餐厅之间，”维也纳大学(University of Vienna)研究朝鲜问题的经济学家吕迪格

Rudiger Frank, an economist at the University of Vienna who studies the North, wrote recently after visiting a shopping center there.	•弗朗克(Rudiger Frank)最近在逛过平壤的一个购物中心后写道。
A cellphone service launched in 2008 has more than 3 million subscribers. With the state still struggling to produce electricity, imported solar panels have become a middle-class status symbol. And on sale at some grocery stores and informal markets on the side streets of Pyongyang is a beverage that state propaganda used to condemn as “cesspool water of capitalism” – Coca-Cola.	于2008年推出的一项手机服务有了超过300万用户。朝鲜在电力生产方面仍然面临着重重困难,但进口太阳能电池板已经成了中产阶级身份的一个象征。此外,在一些食品杂货店里以及平壤街头的非正式市场上可以买到可口可乐,一种曾被该国宣传机器斥为“资本主义污水”的饮料。
Leaning On Private Sector	倚重私营部门
When Kim Jong Un stood on a balcony reviewing a parade in April, he was flanked by Hwang Pyong So, the head of the military, and Pak Pong Ju, the premier in charge of the economy.	金正恩于今年4月份站在台上阅兵的时候,陪伴在其身侧的是军方负责人黄炳誓(Hwang Pyong-so)和手握经济大权的总理朴凤柱(Pak Pong-ju)。
The formation was symbolic of Kim’s byungjin policy, which calls for the parallel pursuit of two policy goals: developing the economy and building nuclear weapons. Only a nuclear arsenal, Kim argues, will make North Korea secure from U.S. invasion and let it focus on growth.	上述组合象征着金正恩的“并行”路线,这一路线主张同时追寻两个政策目标:发展经济和制造核武器。金正恩声称,朝鲜只有拥有核武库,才能免遭美国入侵,进而专注于经济发展。
Kim has granted state factories more autonomy over what they produce, including authority to find their own suppliers and customers, as long as they hit revenue targets. And families in collective farms are now assigned to individual plots called pojeon. Once they meet a state quota, they can keep and sell any surplus on their own.	在该生产什么产品方面,金正恩给了国有工厂更多的自主权,其中包括自行寻找供应商和消费者的权限,只要它们的收入能达标。此外,当局现在给集体农场里的人家分配了被称为“pojeon”的个人地块。粮食产量如果超出了国家下达的任务量,他们可以留下超出的部分并自行出售。
The measures resemble those adopted by China in the early years of its turn to capitalism in the 1980s. But North Korea has refrained from describing them as market-oriented reforms, preferring the phrase “economic management in our own style.”	这些措施和中国在1980年代转向资本主义之初推行的举措颇为相似。但朝鲜并没有冠之以市场化改革之名,而是将其称为“具有我们自己的特色的经济管理”。

There is evidence that the state is growing increasingly dependent on the private sector.	有证据显示，朝鲜正越来越倚重私人部门。
Cha Moon-seok, a researcher at the Institute for Unification Education of South Korea, estimates that the government collects as much as $222,000 per day in taxes from the marketplaces it manages. In March, authorities reportedly ordered people selling goods from their homes to move into formal marketplaces in an effort to collect even more.	据韩国统一教育研究所(Institute for Unification Education of South Korea)的研究员车文石(Cha Moon-Seek)估计，朝鲜政府每天从接受管理的市场那里收取的税金多达22.2万美元。今年3月，当局多次命令销售自家出产的产品的那些人迁入得到官方许可的市场，以便收取更多的税赋。
"Officials need the markets as much as the people need them," said Kim Jeong-ae, a journalist in Seoul who worked as a propagandist in North Korea before defecting.	"官员需要这些市场的程度不亚于老百姓，"脱北前是一名宣传人员、目前在首尔当记者的金正艾(Kim Jeong-ae, 音)说。
Kim fled North Korea in 2003 but has kept in touch with a younger brother there whom she describes as a donju, or money owner.	金正艾是在2003年逃离朝鲜的，但和留在那里的一个被她称为"金主"(donju)的弟弟一直都有联络。
'Loyalty Donations'	"忠诚献金"
Donju is the word is what North Koreans use to describe the new class of traders and businessmen that has emerged.	朝鲜人用金主一词指代一个新出现的商贸人士群体。
Kim Jeong-ae said that her brother provided fuel, food and crew members for fishing boats, and that he split the catch with a military-run fishing company.	金正艾说，她弟弟为渔船供应燃料、食品和船组人员，和一家由军队运营的渔业公司对捕捞所得进行分成。
"He lives in a large house with tall walls," she added, "so other people can't see what he has there."	"他住在一栋环绕着高墙的大房子里，"她补充道，"这样一来其他人就看不到他在那里都有些什么。"
Called "red capitalists" by South Korean scholars, donju invest in construction projects, establish partnerships with resource-strapped state factories and bankroll imports from China to supply retailers in the marketplaces. They operate with "covers," or party officials who protect their businesses. Some are relatives of party officials.	被韩国学者称为"红色资本家"的金主，会投资于建筑项目，与资源短缺的国有工厂建立合作关系，还会出资从中国进口商品，为市场里的商贩供货。他们与"保护人"，也就是为他们的企业提供保护的党内官员合作。一些人是党内官员的亲属。

A Shifting View	看法正发生转变
As the markets develop, more North Koreans will see the vastly superior products made overseas and perhaps question their nation's backward status.	随着市场的发展,更多的朝鲜人将会看到产自海外的优异得多的产品,他们或许会去质疑本国的落后状况。
"Thanks to the market, few North Koreans these days flee for food, as refugees in the 1990s did," said the Rev. Kim Seung-eun, a pastor who has helped hundreds of defectors reach South Korea. "Instead, they now flee to South Korea to have a better life they learned through the markets."	"由于市场的缘故,近来几乎没有人像1990年代的难民那样,是为了食物而逃离,"曾帮助数百名脱北者抵达韩国的金承恩(Kim Seung-eun,音)牧师说。"相反,他们现在逃离朝鲜是为了过上他们通过市场所了解到的更好的生活。"
Jung Gwang-il, who leads a defectors' group in Seoul called No Chain, said that with more North Koreans getting what they needed from markets rather than the state, their view of Kim was changing.	首尔脱北者团体"无锁链"(No Chain)的领导者郑光日(Jung Gwang-il)说,随着越来越多的朝鲜人从市场而不是政府那里得到他们需要的东西,他们对金正恩的看法正发生转变。
"North Koreans always called Kim Jong Un's grandfather and father 'the Great Leader' or 'the General,'" Jung said. "Now, when they talk among themselves, many just call Jong Un 'the Kid.' They fear him but have no respect for him."	"朝鲜人以前总是把金正恩的祖父和父亲称为'伟大领袖'或'大将军',"郑光日说。"现在,当他们关起门来说话的时候,很多人都管金正恩叫'那小子'。他们害怕他,但并不尊敬他。"
"They say, 'What has he done for us?'" Jung said.	"他们说,'他为我们做了什么?'"郑光日说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170504/north-korea-economy-marketplace	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170504/north-korea-economy-marketplace
Trump's Mixed Signals on South China Sea Worry Asian Allies	特朗普的南海政策让亚太国家焦虑迷茫
BEIJING — South Korea wants to discuss unease about an American antimissile system on its soil. Taiwan is eager to buy weapons. The Philippines hopes to find out whether the United States plans to challenge China in the South China Sea.	北京——韩国想讨论对自己领土上的美国反导系统的不安。台湾急于购买武器。菲律宾想知道美国是否打算在南海挑战中国。
Leaders across Asia are looking to Washington for guidance on a variety	亚洲各国的领导人都希望华盛顿在各种紧迫的外交问题上给出指示。 of pressing diplomatic issues.

But President Trump's erratic approach to policy making and his focus on one issue — North Korea's nuclear weapons program — are creating anxiety and confusion in the region.	但特朗普总统制订政策的方式并不稳定，而且他只关注朝鲜的核武器计划，因此引发了该地区的焦虑和迷茫。
In South Korea, Mr. Trump has angered the public with several remarks, including his suggestion that the country, an ally for over six decades, pay for an antimissile system built by the Americans to deter North Korea. Moon Jae-in, who was elected president on Tuesday, has vowed to seek a more conciliatory approach with the North, setting up a potential rift with American policy.	特朗普的一些言论激怒了韩国民众，包括他建议这个60多年的盟国为美国建立的遏制朝鲜的反导系统买单。周二当选韩国总统的文在寅(Moon Jae-in)承诺与朝鲜寻找一种更具和解性的方式，而这可能会与美国的政策产生分歧。
In other parts of Asia, including the Philippines, Taiwan and Vietnam, Mr. Trump's willingness to bend to China is fueling worries that the United States will stop trying to counter China's growing influence in the region.	在亚洲的其他地区，包括菲律宾、台湾和越南，特朗普向中国屈服的意愿让人们更加担心，美国将停止尝试对抗中国在该地区日益增长的影响力。
Washington has been the main critic of China's efforts to build fortresses atop reefs, rocks and islands in the South China Sea. But the Trump administration, apparently wary of angering Beijing, recently decided to suspend patrols of islands and reefs claimed by China. "The South China Sea is now China's lake," said Carlyle A. Thayer, an emeritus professor at the University of New South Wales in Australia.	华盛顿一直是中国在南海的礁岩与岛屿上修建堡垒的主要批评者。但特朗普政府显然不想惹怒北京，前不久决定暂停对中国宣示主权的岛礁进行巡逻。“南海现在是中国的湖泊，”澳大利亚新南威尔士大学(University of New South Wales)的荣休教授卡莱尔·A·塞耶(Carlyle A. Thayer)说。
Mr. Trump's credibility among Asian allies is now at stake, diplomats and analysts say. He may jeopardize longtime economic and security alliances if he does not show a willingness to look beyond North Korea, they say.	外交官和分析人士表示，现在特朗普在亚洲盟国中的信誉系于一线。他们表示，如果他不表现出对朝鲜以外事务的关心，他可能会危害与这些国家之间长期的经济和安全联盟。
The president also risks pushing countries in the region closer to Beijing	如果总统不表明美国打算积极挑战中国在南海的领土主张，那么他也有可能

if he does not demonstrate that the United States intends to vigorously challenge China's territorial claims in the sea.	促使该地区的国家更亲近北京。
Mr. Trump's supporters say his unpredictable style and willingness to rethink decades of accepted policy may be an asset, especially in dealing with an intractable leader like Kim Jong-un of North Korea. But his lack of assurances to Asian allies and his efforts to please China have created the appearance that his foreign policy is negotiable.	特朗普的支持者表示，他不可预测的风格以及重新考虑数十年来的固有政策的意愿可能是一种优势，尤其是在对付朝鲜领导人金正恩这种棘手的领导人时。但他没有对亚洲盟国做出保证，而且试图取悦中国，这些似乎表明，他的外交政策是可以谈判的。
Antonio T. Carpio, a Supreme Court justice in the Philippines and a critic of China, said he understood Mr. Trump's focus on North Korea. But he said he worried about the "permanent concessions China may extract from the U.S."	菲律宾最高法院法官、中国批评人士安东尼奥·T·卡皮奥(Antonio T. Carpio)表示，他理解特朗普对朝鲜的关注。但他担心“中国可能从美国获取永久性让步”。
"Trump's emerging transactional foreign policy is not reassuring," he wrote in an email.	“特朗普新推出的交易性外交政策并不令人放心，”他在接受邮件采访时写道。
South Korea represents one of the more serious rifts that Mr. Trump will confront. Mr. Moon rose to power by vowing a conciliatory approach to North Korea, saying efforts by the United States and others to impose strict sanctions had fallen short. Mr. Trump favors applying maximum pressure on Mr. Kim's government.	韩国是特朗普将面临的较为严重的裂痕之一。文在寅凭借承诺对朝鲜采取和解方式而上台，宣称美国等国施加严厉制裁的做法并不起作用。特朗普倾向于对金正恩政府施加尽可能大的压力。
In Taiwan, officials worry that the Trump administration may delay arms sales, including F-35 stealth fighter jets, for fear of inflaming tensions with China. China considers Taiwan part of its territory, and it has repeatedly warned the United States against selling weapons to the island.	台湾的官员们担心特朗普政府可能会因为害怕加剧与中国的紧张局势而延迟销售武器，包括 F-35 隐形战机。中国认为台湾是其领土的一部分，一直警告美国不要向该岛出售武器。
Mr. Trump has already shown a willingness to use Taiwan as a bargaining chip with China. Before he took office, he publicly	特朗普已经显示出，愿意将台湾用作与中国谈判的筹码。他上任前曾公开质疑美国是否应该坚持“一个中国”的政策。但他后来放弃了这个主张，这么做

questioned whether the United States should uphold the “One China” policy. But he later backed down, apparently in an effort to curry favor with President Xi Jinping of China.	似乎是为了讨好中国国家主席习近平。
China has used Mr. Trump’s first few months in office to reinforce its position in the sea, a vast waterway through which over $5 trillion in trade passes each year. China says historical maps show it owns virtually the entire sea, despite overlapping claims by several smaller countries, including Indonesia, the Philippines and Vietnam.	中国利用特朗普上任后的前几个月巩固了自己在南海的地位。南海是一条庞大的航道，每年经南海运输的贸易量超过5万亿美元。中国声称，历史地图表明，它几乎拥有这一整片海域，尽管印度尼西亚、菲律宾和越南等几个小国也声称拥有部分主权。
China now has the ability to deploy warplanes and mobile missile launchers on several islands, according to satellite images provided by the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. It has recently put the finishing touches on airport hangars and radar systems.	根据华盛顿国际战略研究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)提供的卫星图像，中国现在有能力在多个岛屿上部署战机和移动导弹发射器。前不久，它完成了机场机库和雷达系统的扫尾工作。
Mr. Trump’s young administration has sent mixed signals on how it will approach the dispute. During the campaign, Mr. Trump criticized China’s actions in the sea. Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson has suggested that China should be denied access to the islands it built.	关于如何处理该争端，特朗普的新政府发出了混乱的信号。特朗普在竞选过程中批评了中国在南海的行动。国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)一度建议禁止中国靠近它修建的岛屿。
But The New York Times reported last week that top Pentagon officials recently turned down a request for an American warship to sail within 12 nautical miles of Scarborough Shoal, a disputed reef claimed by the Philippines and China.	但上周《纽约时报》报道称，前不久，五角大楼的高级官员们拒绝了一艘美国军舰在斯卡伯勒浅滩(Scarborough Shoal, 中国称黄岩岛——译注)12海里内航行的要求。斯卡伯勒浅滩是一个有争议的珊瑚岛礁，菲律宾和中国都声称对其拥有主权。
Mr. Trump has said that the threat posed by North Korea’s missile tests and nuclear weapons development is so grave that it may require temporarily setting aside contentious issues with China, in exchange for Beijing’s exerting more political and economic pressure on Pyongyang.	特朗普表示，朝鲜导弹试验和核武器研发所构成的威胁非常严重，可能需要暂时搁置与中国的争议事项，以换取北京方面对平壤施加更多政治和经济压力。
Cheng Xiaohe, an associate professor of international studies at Renmin	北京的中国人民大学国际研究副教授成晓河表示，特朗普政府停止巡航的决

University in Beijing, said the Trump administration's decision to halt patrols would send a message that "China's claims in the sea should be respected and the United States will not challenge that."	定会发出一个信号，那就是，“中国在南海的领土主张应得到尊重，美国不会对此提出挑战”。
Other countries that claim territory in the sea disagree. Many see it as a patriotic mission to defend territory there against China, and they have grown angry over frequent confrontations with Chinese ships.	其他在南海提出领土主张的国家不同意这种看法。那里的很多人认为对抗中国、捍卫领土是爱国使命，并为与中国船只的频繁对峙感到愤怒。
Diplomats in the region saw hope in President Barack Obama's talk of sending more American military and economic resources to Asia. But they were disappointed as China's building projects continued unabated.	该地区的外交官们曾从奥巴马总统关于向亚洲输送更多的美国军事经济资源的讲话中看到过希望。而后又陷入失望，因为中国的建设项目并未减慢步伐。
Mr. Trump's tough talk on China promised a fresh start. Mr. Tillerson went as far as to say during his confirmation hearing that China's island-building in the South China Sea was "akin to Russia's taking of Crimea" and pledged to block access to the islands.	特朗普关于中国的强硬言论一度似乎预示着新的开端。蒂勒森甚至在就其提名举办的听证会上表示，中国在南海修建岛屿“类似于俄罗斯强占克里米亚”，并承诺阻止它靠近这些岛屿。
But the administration has yet to follow through. And power dynamics are quickly shifting, with the Philippines, once one of America's strongest allies in the region, publicly distancing itself from the United States and embracing China.	但特朗普政府尚未执行这些承诺。而势力消长正在迅速发生变化，菲律宾曾是美国在该地区最坚定的盟国之一，现在则公然疏远美国，亲近中国。
Mr. Trump's credibility in the region has also been hurt by his decision to abandon the Trans-Pacific Partnership, a trade pact that was expected to have significant benefits for Southeast Asia.	特朗普放弃“跨太平洋伙伴关系协定”(Trans-Pacific Partnership, 简称 TPP) 的决定也损害了他在该地区的威信，东南亚国家本期望从该贸易协定中获取巨大利益。
China, on the other hand, has promised to double down on its investment in the region. "China sees a golden opportunity to step into the vacuum of leadership in the region," said Alexander L. Vuving, a professor at the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies	而另一方面，中国承诺加大在该地区的投资。“中国看到了进入该地区领导真空的绝佳机会，”夏威夷亚太安全研究中心(Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies)的教授亚历山大·L·吴翁(Alexander L. Vuving)说。

in Honolulu.
Mr. Trump has spoken in recent days with leaders of the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand, inviting each to the White House. Mr. Tillerson has tried to reassure allies that freedom-of-navigation patrols will continue.	这几天，特朗普与菲律宾、新加坡和泰国的领导人通话，分别邀请他们访问白宫。蒂勒森试图向这些盟国保证，将会继续进行自由航行巡逻。
Thitinan Pongsudhirak, a professor at Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok, said Mr. Trump seemed to be showing genuine interest in building a strategic network in the region. He said Mr. Trump was wise to de-emphasize human rights concerns with countries like Thailand and the Philippines; otherwise, it would "further push both countries and the rest of the region into China's orbit."	曼谷朱拉隆功大学(Chulalongkorn University)的教授提蒂南·蓬苏迪拉克(Thitinan Pongsudhirak)表示，特朗普似乎对在该地区建立战略网络表现出真正的兴趣。他表示，特朗普很明智地不去强调泰国和菲律宾等国的人权问题，否则会“进一步将这两个国家以及该地区的其他国家推入中国的轨道”。
"Once the United States regains some weight and credibility in the region," he added, "then it can rebalance and reconsider U.S. interests and values."	"一旦美国在该地区重获影响力和威信，"他还说，"它就可以重新平衡和考虑美国的利益和价值观。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170511/trump-south-china-sea-allies	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170511/trump-south-china-sea-allies
South Korea's New President Moves to Soothe Tensions With China	文在寅寻求与中国修复关系
SEOUL, South Korea — Moon Jae-in, the newly elected leader of South Korea, moved swiftly to mend ties with China on Thursday, announcing plans to dispatch a delegation to Beijing to resolve a festering dispute over the deployment of an American missile-defense system in his country.	韩国首尔——周四，韩国新领导人文在寅迅速采取行动修复与中国的关系，他宣布了派代表团去北京的计划，以解决有关两国在韩国部署美国导弹防御系统方面愈益恶化的争端。
Easing tensions over the antimissile system was a crucial topic when President Xi Jinping of China called Mr. Moon on Thursday to congratulate him on his election as president two days before.	中国国家主席习近平周四致电文在寅，祝贺他在两天前当选韩国总统。缓解有关反导弹系统的紧张局势是这次通话的一个关键话题。

During the campaign, Mr. Moon had criticized the antimissile system, known as the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or Thaad, which China sees as a threat to its security. In the call, Mr. Xi asked Mr. Moon to visit Beijing, Mr. Moon's office said.	文在寅在竞选期间曾批评过名为“末端高空防御系统”（Terminal High Altitude Area Defense，又称“萨德”）的反导系统。中国认为该系统是对本国安全的威胁。文在寅的办公室说，习近平在电话中邀请韩国总统访问北京。
Mr. Moon's predecessor, Park Geun-hye, who was impeached and ousted as president, had agreed to the deployment of Thaad, saying that it was needed to protect South Korea against a growing ballistic-missile threat from North Korea. But the Thaad system has led to a deep schism in relations between Beijing and Seoul, and has prompted widespread boycotts in China of popular South Korean brands.	文在寅的前任、已遭弹劾并被罢免的总统朴槿惠同意部署萨德，她说，韩国需要这个系统来保护自己免受来自朝鲜的不断增长的弹道导弹威胁。但是，萨德系统让北京与首尔的关系严重分裂，已在中国引起了对一度颇受欢迎的韩国品牌的广泛抵制。
"I am well aware of the concern and fear of the Chinese about the Thaad deployment," Mr. Moon was quoted as saying when Mr. Xi explained the Chinese stance on the matter. "I hope both countries can understand each other better on this and will soon open a channel of communication."	据报道，在习近平解释了中国对萨德的立场后，文在寅说，“我充分理解中方对部署萨德的重大关切和担忧，希望两国相互增强理解，尽快进行沟通。”
During the 40-minute conversation, Mr. Moon revealed his plans to send separate delegations to Beijing to discuss the Thaad dispute and North Korea's nuclear threat.	在 40 分钟的通话中，文在寅透露，为商讨有关萨德的争端和朝鲜的核威胁问题，他打算分别派两个代表团前往北京。
Thaad is one of the thorniest diplomatic issues the new South Korean leader faces.	萨德是韩国新领导人面临的最棘手的外交问题之一。
On Thursday, Mr. Moon asked Mr. Xi to help end the Chinese boycott of South Korean goods.	周四，文在寅请习近平帮助结束中国人对韩国商品的抵制。
"It will be easier to resolve the Thaad issue when North Korea doesn't do any more provocations," Mr. Moon said, according to Yoon	据总统的发言人尹永灿说，文在寅表示，“当朝鲜不再做出更多挑衅行为时，解决萨德问题将会更容易。”文在寅还暗示，如果中国想让萨德系统从韩国

Young-chan, his spokesman. Mr. Moon has indicted that if China wants to have Thaad removed from South Korea, it should play a more active role in reining in North Korea's nuclear and missile programs.	消失的话，中国在遏制朝鲜的核计划及导弹计划方面应该发挥更积极的作用。
Many of Mr. Moon's liberal supporters opposed the Thaad deployment, accusing Washington of foisting a weapons system on South Korea that they say is part of a broader American strategy of containing China with an antimissile shield. President Trump angered them further recently by demanding that South Korea pay $1 billion for the system.	许多支持文在寅的自由派人士都反对部署萨德，他们指责华盛顿把该武器系统强加于韩国，他们认为那是美国用反导弹系统遏制中国的更广泛战略的一部分。特朗普总统最近要求韩国为该系统支付 10 亿美元的说法，进一步激怒了这些自由派人士。
But if Mr. Moon asks the United States to withdraw the defense shield, which became operational last week, he would risk rupturing South Korea's close alliance with the United States and would also look as if he were succumbing to Chinese pressure.	但是，如果文在寅要求美国撤回这个已在上周投入使用的导弹防御系统的话，他将冒下破坏韩国与美国之间紧密联盟的危险，而且会被视为是他好像在中国的压力面前屈服了。
Mr. Moon has already faced accusations from the country's conservatives that his emphasis on dialogue with North Korea would strain ties with Washington.	文在寅已经受到韩国保守派人士的指责，他们批评他强调与朝鲜对话会让韩国与华盛顿的关系变得紧张。
On Thursday, Mr. Moon and Mr. Xi addressed their similar approaches to ending North Korea's nuclear crisis.	周四，文在寅与习近平讨论了他们结束朝鲜核危机的类似建议。
Mr. Moon called for dialogue with North Korea, emphasizing that the goal of sanctions must be to bring the country back to the negotiating table. Mr. Xi agreed, according to Mr. Moon's office. The state-run Chinese news media also reported that Mr. Xi said the nuclear issue should be resolved through talks.	文在寅呼吁与朝鲜进行对话，他强调，制裁的目的必须是促使朝鲜重新回到谈判桌上来。据文在寅办公室的消息，习近平对此表示同意。中国的官方新闻媒体也报道说，习近平表示，朝鲜的核问题应该通过谈判来解决。
"I have never met you, but I have been watching you with great interest," Mr. Xi was quoted as saying to Mr. Moon, according to the South Korean leader's office. "I have been greatly impressed by your	韩国总统办公室援引习近平对文在寅的话说，“虽然我从未见过你，但我一直在以极大的兴趣观察着你。我对你不寻常的个人背景、思想和观点印象深刻。” unusual personal background, thoughts and viewpoints.”

Mr. Moon, a former student activist and human rights lawyer, served in the government of Roh Moo-hyun, the South Korean president from 2003 to 2008, who promoted dialogue and economic exchanges with North Korea.	文在寅曾是学生活动家和人权律师，并在卢武铉于 2003 年至 2008 年担任韩国总统期间在政府工作，卢武铉提倡与朝鲜进行对话和经济交流。
Mr. Moon’s election signaled the return of the liberals to the center stage of South Korean diplomacy. They say that the American policy of relying on sanctions and pressure has failed to persuade North Korea to give up its nuclear weapons programs. In his inaugural speech as president on Wednesday, Mr. Moon said he was even willing to meet the North’s leader, Kim Jong-un, if the circumstances were right.	文在寅的当选表明，自由派人士重新回到了韩国外交舞台的中心。自由派人士说，美国依赖制裁和压力的政策，没有说服朝鲜放弃其核武器计划。文在寅在周三的总统就职演讲中表示，如果情况适当，他甚至愿意与朝鲜领导人金正恩见面。
South Korean liberals also believe that their country’s diplomacy has been too tilted toward Washington, and that South Korea should not be dragged into a hegemonic struggle between the United States and China.	韩国自由派人士还认为，该国的外交过多地向华盛顿倾斜，他们说，韩国不应该被拖入中美之间的霸权斗争。
But during a telephone call with Mr. Trump, Mr. Moon pledged to strengthen his country’s alliance with Washington, calling it “the foundation of our diplomacy and national security.”	但是，文在寅在与特朗普通电话时曾承诺要加强韩国与美国的联盟，他称韩美联盟是“我们的外交和国家安全的基础”。
Mr. Moon’s comments appeared aimed at easing fears that his new liberal government — and its eagerness for diplomatic and economic engagement with North Korea — might create a rift with the United States.	文在寅的这番话似乎是为了消除人们对新的自由派政府可能会与美国产生分歧的担忧，因为新政府急于在外交和经济上与朝鲜打交道。
Also on Thursday, Mr. Moon held a 25-minute phone conversation with Prime Minister Shinzo Abe of Japan. The two leaders agreed to hold a summit meeting soon, both sides said.	周四，文在寅也与日本首相安倍晋三进行了 25 分钟的电话交谈。两国表示，这两位领导人同意尽快举行首脑会议。

Mr. Abe called on South Korea to uphold a December 2015 agreement in which the two countries announced what they called at the time a “final and irreversible” settlement on the issue of “comfort women” — a euphemism for Koreans forced into sexual slavery for Japan’s World War II army.	安倍晋三呼吁韩国遵守 2015 年 12 月达成的一项协议，两国在协议中宣布了他们当时称为是“慰安妇”问题上达成的“最终的、不可逆转的解决方案”，“慰安妇”是二战期间被迫为日本军队充当性奴的韩国人的委婉称呼。
In the deal, Japan expressed responsibility and extended a new apology to the women, promising an $8.3 million fund to help provide old-age care. But some of the women have since rejected the deal, saying it failed to specify Japan’s “legal” responsibility or to provide official reparations.	日本在协议中表示承担责任，并重新向那些女性作出了道歉，日本还承诺建立一个 830 万美元的基金，以帮助为这些女性提供养老服务。但那之后，一些妇女拒绝接受该协议，她们说，协议没有具体提日本的“法律”责任，也没有提供正式的赔偿。
The deal also proved deeply unpopular among South Koreans, and during the presidential campaign, all of the candidates, including Mr. Moon, said they opposed it.	事实证明，该协议在韩国人中极不受欢迎。在总统大选期间，包括文在寅在内的所有候选人都表示，他们反对该协议。
“The reality is that most of our people emotionally cannot accept the deal,” Mr. Moon was quoted as saying by his office. But he stopped short of saying he wanted to scrap the agreement.	“事实是，大多数人韩国人在感情上都不能接受这个协议，”文在寅的办公室援引他的话说。但他没有表示他想要废除这个协议。
His office said Mr. Moon also emphasized that disputes rooted in history — Japan ruled Korea as a colony in the early 20th century — should not prevent the countries from developing ties and working together against the North Korean nuclear threats.	他的办公室表示，文在寅还强调说，历史产生的争端——日本在 20 世纪初曾把朝鲜作为殖民地来统治——不应该阻止两国家发展关系，不应该阻止两国一起为对付朝鲜的核威胁而努力。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170512/china-south-korea-moon-jae-in	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170512/china-south-korea-moon-jae-in
Singapore, a Rising Home for Quiet Money, Comes Under Pressure	新加坡取代瑞士，成为富豪们藏钱的好地方
SINGAPORE — Last year, American law enforcement officials pressed the Swiss bank UBS about Henry Hsiaw, a Taiwan-born American	新加坡——去年，台湾裔美国人亨利·萧(Henry Hsiaw)被控没有提交纳税申报表，在此案中，美国执法官员向瑞士银行瑞银(UBS)施加了压力。

whom they accused of failing to file tax returns.
The world has changed since the days when Swiss banks stood as the peak of privacy for the rich. Already, UBS had paid $780 million in fines and disclosed details of thousands of Swiss bank accounts held by Americans — including the records of one account controlled by Mr. Hsiaw.	对于富人们来说，瑞士银行曾经意味着最高级别的隐私，但如今世界已经发生了变化。瑞银已支付了 7.8 亿美元的罚款，并披露了数以千计由美国人持有的瑞士银行账户的细节，其中就包括由亨利·萧控制的一个账户。
Still, UBS balked at handing over information about Mr. Hsiaw’s account with the bank in Singapore. That information, it said, was protected under the Asian city-state’s bank secrecy laws.	不过，瑞银没有交出亨利·萧在新加坡银行的账户信息。瑞银称，这些信息受到这个亚洲城邦的银行保密法保护。
That courthouse dispute illustrates the growing pressures on Singapore, an increasingly popular destination for money that wants to stay under the radar. Tight bank secrecy laws have helped draw $1.1 trillion in foreign funds to the city, according to an estimate from Boston Consulting Group, a consulting firm. Singapore is now growing faster than Switzerland and is set to become the largest cross-border financial center in the world by 2028, the firm forecasts.	对于不希望受到注意的金钱来说，新加坡是一个越来越受欢迎的目的地，而这一法律争议表明该国正日益受到压力。据咨询公司波士顿咨询集团 (Boston Consulting Group) 估计，该国严格的银行保密法律已经吸引了 1.1 万亿美元的外国资金前来。新加坡现在的增长速度已经快于瑞士，该公司预计，到 2028 年，它将成为全球最大的跨国金融中心。
But in the face of growing international efforts to crack down on tax cheats, and complaints from abroad about its measures to stop illicit money, Singapore has made moves to show it takes the criticism seriously. It has jailed local and foreign bankers and closed down branches of two Swiss banks related to more than $3 billion that was said to have been siphoned from 1Malaysia Development Berhad, a Malaysian sovereign wealth fund, some of which moved through the city’s banks.	但面对国际社会打击税务欺诈的更多努力，以及国外对新加坡制止非法资金措施不力的投诉，新加坡已经采取行动，表明自己是在认真对待批评。它已经关押了若干本地和外国银行家，关闭了两家瑞士银行的分行，它们的涉案金额超过 30 亿美元，据称是从马来西亚主权财富基金一马发展有限公司 (1Malaysia Development Berhad, 简称 1MDB) 挪用而来，其中一部分曾在新加坡的若干银行内辗转。
Ravi Menon, chief of the city state’s top financial regulator, has said that	新加坡最高金融监管机构负责人拉维·梅农 (Ravi Menon) 表示，1MDB 一案表

1MDB showed Singapore can do better. "There is no doubt that the recent findings have made a dent in our reputation as a clean and trusted financial center," Mr. Menon said in a speech in July. The authority, he added, was "disappointed with the lapses" in financial controls.	明新加坡可以做得更好。“毫无疑问，最近的调查结果令我们作为一个廉洁可靠的金融中心的声誉受到了损害，”梅农在7月份的演讲中表示，他还补充说，在金融管控方面，当局“对于这些疏忽感到失望”。
The Straits Times, a Singaporean newspaper, cautioned the city's banks over 1MDB in an editorial last year. "Business is part of Singapore's DNA," it said, "but not the business of facilitating dubious deals."	新加坡报纸《海峡时报》(The Straits Times)在去年的一篇社论中就1MDB一案警告该市的银行。“商业是新加坡DNA的一部分，”文章说，“但是为可疑交易提供便利的商业不在其中。”
Singapore's position illustrates the new scrutiny global authorities are giving to quiet money. The Financial Action Task Force, a multicountry advisory group set up to combat money laundering, said last year that Singapore's financial firms had "a less developed understanding of the risk of illicit flows into and out of Singapore."	新加坡的立场说明了全球监管机构开始密切关注那些低调的钱。“金融行动特别工作组”(Financial Action Task Force)是一个为打击洗钱而设立的多国咨询小组，该组织于去年表示，新加坡的金融机构“对非法资金流入和流出新加坡的风险了解较少。”
"Singapore is the new Switzerland," said Andy Xie, an independent economist based in Shanghai. Mr. Xie was fired as chief Asia economist at Morgan Stanley in 2006 after a private email he wrote calling Singapore a money laundering center became public.	“新加坡是新的瑞士，”生活在上海的独立经济学家谢国忠表示。谢国忠原本在摩根士丹利(Morgan Stanley)担任首席亚洲经济学家，2006年，在自己的一封称新加坡为洗钱中心的私人邮件曝光后，他被公司解雇。
"Since the U.S. Department of Justice went after Swiss banks for hiding tax dodgers years ago, Singapore has filled the role," he said.	他表示：“自从美国司法部几年前开始追查瑞士银行隐瞒避税者之后，新加坡就填补了它留下的空白。”
The Monetary Authority of Singapore, its top financial regulator, disputed that allegation. "There is no doubt some increased risk of illicit fund flows associated with the rapid growth of private banking flows into Singapore," a spokeswoman said in a written statement. Nevertheless, she said, Singapore "will not tolerate its financial system being used as a refuge or conduit for illicit fund flows."	新加坡最高金融监管机构新加坡金融管理局(The Monetary Authority of Singapore)对这一指控提出异议。“毫无疑问，快速发展的私人银行涌入新加坡，会导致非法资金流动风险增加，”一位发言人在一份书面声明中说。不过新加坡“不会容忍其金融系统被用作非法资金流动的避难所或渠道”。

Singapore has positioned itself as a one-stop shop for Asia's rich. It encouraged private wealth managers to use the city as a regional base in the 1990s just as China's rise created a new generation of wealthy.	新加坡已将自己定位为亚洲富人的一站式服务中心。1990年代，中国的崛起创造了新一代富豪，与此同时，新加坡也鼓励私人财富管理者把该市作为在本地区的基地。
Today, in Singapore's financial district, big names in the private-money world, like Credit Suisse, Julius Baer and UBS, keep offices in gleaming skyscrapers among the squat facades of century-old colonial British buildings. Billionaires can fly in to the private jet terminal, gamble at private high-stakes tables at the two new casinos, and buy and sell on the world's first diamond trading exchange.	如今，在新加坡的金融区里，瑞信(Credit Suisse)、瑞士宝盛(Julius Baer)和瑞银等大银行的办公室坐落在闪闪发光的摩天大厦之中，周围环绕着有百年历史、建造于英国殖民时期的低矮建筑。亿万富翁可以飞到这里的私人飞机专用航站楼，在两家新赌场的私密高注额赌桌前赌博，在世界上第一家实物结算钻石交易所买进卖出。
They can store art, wine, gemstones or gold bullion bars in an ultra-secure, duty-and-tax-free facility called Le Freeport. Modeled on similar installations in Switzerland, the facility has been called "Singapore's Fort Knox."	他们可以将艺术品、葡萄酒、宝石或金条存放在自由港(Le Freeport)，这是一处超级安全、完全免税的设施，以瑞士的类似设施为模板，被称为“新加坡的诺克斯堡(Fort Knox)”。
The 1MDB scandal has cast a shadow over Singapore's success. American officials are trying to recoup more than $1 billion that they say was taken from 1MDB and ultimately spent in the United States by family and friends of Malaysia's prime minister, Najib Razak. Those funds went to American purchases like luxury homes in Manhattan and Los Angeles, to help finance the Hollywood movie "The Wolf of Wall Street" and to acquire paintings by Picasso and Monet, they said in a civil suit last year.	1MDB 丑闻为新加坡的成功蒙上了阴影。美国官员正在努力追偿超过 10 亿美元的资金，他们声称，这笔钱是从 1MDB 取出的，最终由马来西亚总理纳吉卜·拉扎克(Najib Razak)的家人和朋友在美国花掉。去年，美国官员在一桩民事诉讼中说，这些钱被用于购买曼哈顿和洛杉矶等地的豪宅，为好莱坞电影《华尔街之狼》(The Wolf of Wall Street)提供资金，并用于购买毕加索和莫奈的油画。
The officials have focused on Low Taek Jho, also known as Jho Low, a young Malaysian financier who partied with the likes of Paris Hilton. American officials say Mr. Low played a crucial role in laundering hundreds of millions of dollars from 1MDB into the United States. Mr.	官员们的重点关注对象是刘特佐 (Low Taek Jho, 也被称为 Jho Low)，他是一个年轻的马来西亚金融家，同帕丽斯·希尔顿(Paris Hilton)等人结交。美国官员说，在 1MDB 洗钱案中，数亿美元之所以能够合法进入美国，刘特佐在其中发挥了至关重要的作用。刘特佐和纳吉卜均否认自己曾经从事不法行

Low and Mr. Najib have denied wrongdoing.	为。
"1MDB and these other cases are a game changer for Singapore," said Chris Leahy, a co-founder of Blackpeak, a corporate advisory and investigations firm, who is based in Singapore.	"1MDB 以及其他这些案件对于新加坡来说，都是颠覆性的，"Blackpeak 公司联合创始人克里斯·雷希(Chris Leahy)表示，Blackpeak 是一家总部位于新加坡的企业咨询和调查公司。
In December, a Singapore court sentenced Yeo Jiawei, a former private banker at the local branch of the Swiss bank BSI, to 30 months in prison for tampering with witnesses and obscuring his ties to Mr. Low. In March, Singaporean regulators barred Tim Leissner, a former Goldman Sachs banker who worked with 1MDB, from dealing in securities here for 10 years.	12 月，新加坡法院以篡改证据及掩盖同刘特佐的关系等罪名，判处瑞士瑞意银行(BSI)本地分行的前私人银行专员杨家伟 30 个月监禁。3 月份，新加坡监管机构对曾与 1MDB 合作的前高盛(Goldman Sachs)银行职员蒂姆·雷斯纳(Tim Leissner)做出处罚，禁止其从事证券交易 10 年。
A lawyer representing Mr. Leissner did not respond to a request for comment. Goldman Sachs said it was cooperating.	代表雷斯纳的律师没有回应置评请求。高盛表示公司正在与新加坡合作。
Singapore is acting ahead of tighter regulations. Next year, new rules on global financial information exchanges among members of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development are set to go into effect locally.	新加坡正在提前采取更严格的管制。明年，经济合作与发展组织(Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development)成员国之间关于全球金融信息交流的新规则将在新加坡生效。
Le Freeport has also come under additional scrutiny. In its report in September, the Financial Action Task Force said that in some cases, the Singaporean authorities did not know enough about what was going on at Le Freeport, given the risks.	自由港也受到了额外密切的关注。金融行动特别工作组在其 9 月份的报告中表示，在某些情况下，考虑到风险的存在，新加坡当局对于自由港发生的事情尚不够了解。
Customs officials in Singapore say they have "robust regulatory measures" to prevent illicit activities. Lincoln Ng, the chief executive of Le Freeport and a former Singapore police officer, said local regulators "are aware of the activities through stringent checks and audits."	新加坡海关官员说，他们有"强有力的监管措施"来防止非法活动。自由港行政长官、前新加坡警务人员林肯·伍(Lincoln Ng)表示，地方监管机构"通过严格的检查与审核了解这些活动。"
Le Freeport, which is controlled by Yves Bouvier, a Swiss art dealer who	自由港掌握在定居新加坡的瑞士艺术交易商伊夫·布维耶(Yves Bouvier)手

is also a resident of Singapore, rents the space to firms that park merchandise there on behalf of clients. Tenants include Mr. Bouvier's own art transportation and storage firm, Natural le Coultre, which says it conducts due diligence on its clients and goods.	中,他把这里的空间租赁给代表客户寄放商品的公司。租户中也包括布维耶自己的艺术运输和仓储公司 Natural le Coultre, 该公司表示对客户和货物做过尽职调查。
"In short, we know what we have on hand and with whom we are dealing," says Christian Pauli, general manager of fine art logistics at Natural le Coultre.	"简而言之,我们知道我们手上在处理什么东西,我们也知道自己在和什么人打交道,"Natural le Coultre 的美术物流总监克里斯蒂安·保利(Christian Pauli)表示。
The facility combines European chic with the sort of security one might see in a James Bond movie. Private vaults lie behind an 11-ton steel door flanked by concrete walls that are more than 15 inches thick. Three different people are required to unlock the door. Some tenants, like companies handling precious metals, install extra cameras, facial recognition technology or iris readers.	此处设施既有欧洲式的精致,又有仿佛出自 007 电影的安全措施。私人保险库位于一座 11 吨重的钢门之后,四周环绕着超过 15 英寸厚的混凝土墙。需要三个不同的人才能打开门锁。一些租户,比如处理贵金属的公司,还会安装额外的摄像头、面部识别技术或虹膜扫描仪。
Le Freeport cannot gain access to the vaults once they have been leased to customers, which include art storage services like Christie's and companies specializing in handling gems and precious metals, wine, or banks storing gold bullion. In marketing materials, many tenants highlight confidentiality as a selling point.	保险库一旦被租给客户,自由港管理方就不能再进入,这里的客户包括佳士得等提供艺术品存储服务的公司;专门处理宝石、贵金属和葡萄酒的公司;以及储存金条的银行。在营销材料中,许多租户强调公司的保密性,将之作为卖点。
In the case of Mr. Hsiaw, the American born in Taiwan, lawyers say the Justice Department chose a particularly aggressive approach. Independent lawyers say American prosecutors based their initial action against UBS on a powerful type of summons that would have allowed them to follow the money from previous Swiss bank prosecutions that was later deposited in Singapore.	至于台湾裔美国人亨利·萧一案,律师说,司法部选择了一种特别强硬的做法。独立律师表示,美国检察机关对瑞银采取的初步行动是基于一种格外有力的传唤之上的,这使得他们能够追踪瑞士银行以前曾涉及起诉后来又被存入新加坡的钱。
The United States dismissed its charges after UBS produced some	瑞银提供亨利·萧的若干新加坡账户信息之后,美国方面撤回了这些指控。亨

information on Mr. Hsiaw's Singapore accounts. Mr. Hsiaw, a former telecommunications executive who relocated to China in 2007, could not be reached for comment.	利·萧曾在电信业担任高管，于2007年迁往中国，无法联系到他置评。
UBS said it had complied with all applicable laws, but did not elaborate.. Singapore's monetary authority said Singapore officials "can render assistance so long as there are legitimate grounds."	瑞银说，它已经遵守了所有适用的法律，但是没有详细说明。新加坡金融当局表示，新加坡官员“只要有合法理由就可以提供协助”。
Lawyers say the case, the first of its kind in the United States to target Singapore accounts, amounted to a warning shot.	律师说，这是美国同类案件中首例以新加坡帐户为目标的案件，相当于一种警告。
"It's the nuclear option," said Jeffrey Neiman, a lawyer in Florida who was one of the lead prosecutors on the federal government's initial 2009 case against UBS's Swiss bank.	“这是一个‘核选项’，”佛罗里达州律师杰弗里·内曼(Jeffrey Neiman)说，2009年初，他曾在联邦政府诉瑞银瑞士分行一案中担任主要检察官之一。
He added, "the ultimate death knell for secrecy in any jurisdiction would be a bank getting served one of these subpoenas and choosing to litigate, then losing in court."	他补充说：“在任何司法管辖范围内，保密制度最后的丧钟就是一家银行得到传票，并选择诉讼，然后在法庭上失败。”
Correction:	更正：
An earlier version of this article misstated the name of a corporate advisory and investigations firm co-founded by Chris Leahy. It is Blackpeak, not BlackRock.	本文稍早前的版本误将企业咨询和调查公司 Blackpeak 写作 BlackRock，特此更正。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170512/singapore-bank-secrecy-1mdb	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170512/singapore-bank-secrecy-1mdb
How North Korea Managed to Defy Years of Sanctions	制裁朝鲜，一场“猫捉老鼠的游戏”
DANDONG, China — As the end of the fashion season approached, and the suits and dresses arrived in her company's warehouses here in the Chinese border town of Dandong, the accountant crammed about $100,000 into a backpack, then boarded a rickety train with several	中国丹东——随着时装周接近尾声，西服和裙装运抵公司位于中国边境城市丹东的仓库，一名会计把大约10万美元现金塞进背包，和几名同事一起登上了一辆摇摇晃晃的列车。 co-workers.

She asked to be identified only by her surname, Lang, given the sensitivity of their destination: North Korea.	这名郎姓会计不愿透露自己的全名，因为她的目的地是一个颇为敏感的地方：朝鲜。
After a six-hour journey, she recalled, they arrived at a factory where hundreds of women using high-end European machines sewed clothes with "Made in China" labels. Her boss handed the money to the North Korean manager, all of it in American bills as required.	她回忆说，经过六个小时的旅程，他们抵达了一个工厂，厂内数以百计的女工正使用尖端的欧洲机器缝制带有“中国制造”标签的服装。她的老板把钱交给了朝方经理——按照对方的要求，均为美元。
Despite seven rounds of United Nations sanctions over the past 11 years, including a ban on "bulk cash" transfers, large avenues of trade remain open to North Korea, allowing it to earn foreign currency to sustain its economy and finance its program to build a nuclear weapon that can strike the United States.	尽管在过去 11 年间遭受了七轮联合国制裁，其中包括一道限制“大规模资金”转移的禁令，朝鲜仍然能够获得大笔贸易收入，这让它得以赚取外汇维持本国经济的发展，并为制造可用来袭击美国的核武器计划提供资金。
Fraudulent labeling helps support its garment industry, which generated more than $500 million for the isolated nation last year, according to Chinese trade data.	虚假贴牌帮助支撑起了朝鲜的服装产业。根据中国的贸易数据，被孤立的朝鲜去年通过对华服装出口获得了超过 5 亿美元的收入。
North Korea earned an additional $1.1 billion selling coal to China last year using a loophole in the ban on such exports, and researchers say tens of thousands of North Koreans who work overseas as laborers are forced to send back as much as $250 million annually. Diplomats estimate the country makes $70 million more selling rights to harvest seafood from its waters.	利用制裁规定的漏洞，朝鲜去年还通过向中国出口煤炭赚到了 11 亿美元；此外，研究人员称，数以万计的朝鲜海外劳工每年被迫把 2.5 亿美元汇回国内。外交人士估计，朝鲜通过出让其水域的捕鱼权另外赚得了 7000 万美元。
China accounts for more than 80 percent of trade with North Korea, and the Trump administration is counting on Beijing to use that leverage to pressure it into giving up its nuclear arsenal. The Chinese government took a big step in February by announcing that it was	中朝贸易额占朝鲜对外贸易总额的 80%，特朗普政府眼下寄望于北京利用这一筹码对朝鲜施压，敦促其放弃核武。中国政府于今年 2 月迈出了一大步，宣布今年内暂停从朝鲜进口煤炭。

suspending imports of coal from the country through the end of the year.
But China has a long record of shielding North Korea from more painful sanctions, because it is afraid of a regime collapse that could send refugees streaming across the border and leave it with a more hostile neighbor.	但长期以来，中国一直在避免让朝鲜遭受更严酷的制裁，因为它害怕朝鲜政权崩溃可能会导致难民涌入自己境内，并导致一个更具敌意的邻国出现。
In addition, Beijing now has a sympathetic ear in South Korea, whose newly elected president, Moon Jae-in, echoes its view that sanctions alone will not be enough to persuade Pyongyang to abandon its nuclear program.	此外，如今北京有了一个更和气的韩国。韩国新当选总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)与中国观点一致，认为单凭制裁不足以说服平壤放弃核计划。
While North Korea remains impoverished and dependent on food aid, its economy appears to be growing, partly because of a limited embrace of market forces since its leader, Kim Jong-un, took power more than five years ago.	尽管依然很贫困，依赖粮食援助，但朝鲜的经济似乎正在增长。这在一定程度上是因为，自其领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)五年多以前掌权后，朝鲜有限制地接受了市场力量。
Foreign trade, primarily with China, has surged, too, more than doubling since 2000, though it has slipped in the past three years.	以面向中国为主的对外贸易也大幅增长，自2000年以来增加了一倍多。但过去三年，朝鲜对外贸易有所下滑。
In theory, North Korea's greater openness to trade makes it more vulnerable to sanctions, with new potential targets and pressure points. But it also highlights the limits of an approach to sanctions — defined largely by China at the United Nations — that aims to punish North Korea's military and ruling elite while sparing its people. As trade expands, the lines have blurred.	在理论上，朝鲜扩大贸易开放会让它更容易受制裁的影响，产生新的潜在目标和压力点。但它也突显了一种制裁手段的局限性。这种在中国主导下由联合国制定出来的手段，旨在惩罚朝鲜的军事和统治精英力量，同时让朝鲜民众免受苦难。随着贸易扩大，两者的界线已变得模糊。
Positioned near the mouth of the Yalu River, Dandong is China's largest border town, and much of North Korea's trade with the world flows across its old bridges or through its deepwater port.	地处鸭绿江入海口附近的丹东是中国最大的边城，朝鲜与世界其他地方的很多贸易往来，都要经过丹东老旧的大桥或它的深水港口。

Ms. Lang, 33, moved here more than a decade ago to study environmental protection. She ended up like many with ambition in this city of more than three million: doing business with North Korea.	现年 33 岁的朗女士在十多年前来到这里学习环境保护。最后，她和这座人口逾 300 万的城市里很多踌躇满志的人一样，开始和朝鲜做生意。
She wears exquisite makeup and carries a Louis Vuitton handbag, and she said her role in the garment trade was straightforward: Orders come in from Japan, Europe and other parts of China, and she gets the clothes made.	妆容精致、拎着路易威登手袋的她说自己在服装贸易中的角色很简单：日本、欧洲和中国其他地方的订单来了，她负责找人把衣服做好。
For those with quick deadlines or detailed specifications, she turns to Chinese factories in Dandong, where quality control is better. Yet even these factories employ North Korean laborers, she said.	对那些时间紧迫或要求详细的订单，她会找丹东的中国工厂，它们的质量控制更好。但她说，即便是这些工厂，雇的也是朝鲜工人。
For decades, North Korea has been accused of sending workers abroad and confiscating most of their wages, an arrangement that activists liken to slave labor. Researchers say the practice has expanded since Mr. Kim took power, with more than 50,000 workers now toiling in up to 40 countries.	几十年来，朝鲜一直被指派人去国外工作，却没收他们的大部分工资。活动人士把这种安排比作奴工。研究人员称，金正恩掌权后，这种做法扩大了，现在有逾五万工人在最多达 40 个国家辛苦工作。
In Dandong, the local government boasts that 10,000 North Koreans are employed in its apparel factories, working 12- to 14-hour shifts, with just two to four days off each month and a monthly wage of no more than $260.	在丹东，地方政府号称这里的服装厂雇了一万名朝鲜人。他们轮班工作，每个班次 12 到 14 个小时，每月只休息两到四天，月薪仅 260 美元。
"They are well disciplined and easy to manage," says the website of the Dandong commerce bureau, noting that the workers have been vetted before arrival. "There is no such thing as absenteeism or interfering with management, no using illness to shun work or procrastination and losing work time."	丹东市招商局网站说，“工人纪律性强，易于管理”，并指出工人在抵达前都曾受过审查。“没有旷工及干扰管理现象，没有泡病号和拖延误工现象。”
Ms. Lang sends more-flexible orders to North Korea, where costs are	朗女士会把时间更加灵活的订单发往朝鲜，因为朝鲜的生产成本较低，但是

lower but it is impossible to guarantee delivery dates because of power failures and a shortage of trucks.	由于电力故障和卡车短缺，那里无法保证交货日期。
Her company ships fabric, buttons and zippers to factories there, she said, because the North lacks the materials, and they put "Made in China" labels in garments to make them easier to sell overseas. That would most likely be considered fraud and a violation of place-of-origin rules in countries that import the clothes, experts said.	她表示，由于朝鲜缺乏原料，所以她的公司把面料、纽扣和拉链运到当地工厂，并给成衣缝上“中国制造”的标签，使其更容易在国外销售。专家说，这种行为很有可能被视为欺诈，也违反了服装进口国的原产地规则。
Paul Tjia, managing director of GPI Consultancy, a Dutch company that offers advice on doing business in North Korea, said that some European clients had ordered hundreds of thousands of garments and that "Made in China" labels could be justified by additional work put into the clothes inside China.	荷兰的 GPI 咨询(GPI Consultancy)为在朝鲜开展业务的公司提供建议，总经理保罗·特贾(Paul Tjia)表示，一些欧洲客户已订购了数十万件成衣，“只要在中国国内对服装做一些加工，便可以将‘中国制造’标签合法化。”
But he added: "I'm not a garment manufacturer. I just make the introductions."	但他补充说：“我不是成衣制造商。我只是做介绍。”
China has kept North Korea's garment sector off the list of industries targeted by United Nations sanctions, arguing that punishing it would hurt ordinary people and not military programs. It has protected North Korea's seafood industry using the same argument.	中国把朝鲜的服装制造业从联合国行业制裁名单中除去，声称对这个行业施加惩罚只会伤害老百姓，而不会令军事项目受到损失。它还使用同样的理由保护了朝鲜的海产工业。
But it is difficult to say who benefits from this trade, in part because even private enterprise in North Korea is overseen by state officials who extract taxes and bribes.	但是这个行业究竟令谁受益还很难说，部分原因是，在朝鲜，即使私营企业也在国家官员的掌控之下，他们不仅提取税款，也收取贿赂。
"Whether the proceeds from the textile industry support the nuclear program is an open question," said Joseph M. DeThomas, a professor at Pennsylvania State University and a former American ambassador involved in sanctions policy. "Money is fungible."	“纺织工业的收益是否为核项目提供支持，这个问题尚且没有定论，”宾夕法尼亚州立大学教授约瑟夫·德托马斯(Joseph M. DeThomas)表示。他曾担任美国大使，参与过制裁政策。“钱是可以互换的。”

At least one North Korean enterprise controlled by the atomic energy bureau, the Korea Kumsan Trading Corporation, ran a garment factory that added embroidery and beading to clothing, according to a North Korean government trade website.	根据朝鲜政府贸易网站的信息，至少有一家朝鲜企业是由朝鲜原子能局控制的，该企业名叫朝鲜金山贸易公司(Korea Kumsan Trading Corporation)，经营着一家专门在服装上刺绣和钉珠的制衣厂。
And South Korean officials say the millions paid by Chinese companies to fish in North Korean waters go primarily to firms controlled by the North's military.	韩国官员说，中国公司为朝鲜水域捕鱼权所支付的数千万美元主要落入由朝鲜军方控制的企业之手。
Sanctions also do not cover the organized export of labor. The United States has urged countries to eject North Korean workers, saying their remittances benefit the military, not their families. But China, Russia and other nations continue to hire them.	制裁也不包括有组织的劳工出口。美国已经敦促各国驱逐朝鲜工人，声称这些工人向国内的汇款没有被他们的家庭得到，而是令朝鲜军方受益。但中国、俄罗斯等国家继续雇用他们。
American sanctions against North Korea began with a near-total economic embargo adopted in 1950, at the start of the Korean War. Over the years, some sanctions were eased and others added, including after the cyberattack on Sony Pictures in 2014 that Washington attributed to the North.	美国对朝鲜的制裁始于1950年朝鲜战争开始时通过的近乎全面的贸易禁令。多年来，一些制裁得到缓解，另一些制裁措施被增加进来，其中包括2014年增加的制裁，当时索尼影业遭受了网络攻击，美国认为这一攻击由朝鲜主导。
The United Nations Security Council did not impose sanctions until July 2006, when, after a series of missile tests, it banned countries from selling material for missiles or weapons of mass destruction to North Korea.	联合国安理会的制裁是从2006年7月才开始的，当时朝鲜进行了一系列导弹试验，其后安理会禁止各国向朝鲜出售制造导弹或大规模毁灭性武器的原料。
The North detonated its first nuclear device months later, followed by additional tests in 2009 and 2013, and two in 2016. The Security Council tightened sanctions after each test, as well as after a satellite launch in 2013. It targeted military supplies and luxury goods, shut Pyongyang out of the international financial system and, most recently, banned a	几个月后，朝鲜引爆了它的第一个核装置，又在2009年和2013年进行了更多试验，在2016年进行了两次试验。每次试验之后，安理会都会加强制裁措施，2013年朝鲜发射卫星后也加强了制裁。制裁主要针对军事用品和奢侈品，并将平壤排斥于国际金融体系之外，最近又禁止了一系列矿产出口。

range of mineral exports.
But loopholes abound. Resolutions called for searches of vessels carrying cargo to North Korea but have failed to stop its use of ships sailing under foreign flags. And when the Security Council banned its top export, coal, China insisted on an exception for transactions judged to be for "livelihood purposes."	但是这些制裁的漏洞很多。有决议要求搜寻携带货物抵达朝鲜的船只，但没能阻止朝鲜使用悬挂外国国旗的船只。而当安理会禁止朝鲜外销其最大宗的出口商品煤炭时，中国坚称，被判定“为了生计”的交易应予例外。
New measures seek to limit North Korea's ability to make money through its embassies. In Berlin, for example, the authorities are closing a hostel run out of former diplomatic quarters. But the North has responded to such crackdowns by shifting business to countries with weaker enforcement.	新的制裁措施旨在限制朝鲜通过其使馆筹措资金的能力。例如，在柏林，当局已关闭一家在朝鲜前外交宿舍基础上经营起来的旅馆。但是为了应付这种打击，朝鲜已经开始将业务转移到执法较弱的国家。
"How much cooperation will the international community get from Cuba, Russia, Iran or even Pakistan, Bangladesh or Laos?" asked Stephan Haggard, an expert on the North Korean economy at the University of California, San Diego.	“国际社会能从古巴、俄罗斯、伊朗，乃至巴基斯坦、孟加拉或老挝获得多少合作？”加利福尼亚大学圣迭戈分校朝鲜经济专家斯蒂芬·哈格德(Stephan Haggard)问道。
The United States has also urged a boycott of Air Koryo, the North Korean airline, but it still flies to China and Russia. Chinese tourism to North Korea is booming, said Cha Yong Hyok, whose company, Indprk, takes groups by train to Pyongyang and will soon use new flights from Dandong.	美国还呼吁抵制朝鲜航空公司高丽航空(Air Koryo)，但它的航班仍然飞往中国和俄罗斯。在中国，朝鲜游正在蓬勃发展，车英赫说，他的公司Indprk带着旅游团乘坐火车来到平壤，不久后还将使用从丹东起飞的新航班。
The North often circumvents banking sanctions using front companies and agents overseas, and North Koreans routinely send and receive payments using Chinese intermediaries who take a commission, despite the ban on "bulk cash" transfers.	朝鲜经常利用海外的挂名公司和代理人来规避银行制裁，尽管“大额现金”的转移受到禁止，但朝鲜人常常使用中国中介机构来发送或接受款项。
"We can and should go after these targets, but turning this into a game	“我们可以，而且应该追查这些目标，但如果只是把它变成一场金融上的猫

of financial cat-and-mouse will never achieve the level of pressure needed," said Daniel L. Glaser, a former Treasury Department official involved in sanctions enforcement.	捉老鼠游戏, 就永远不会达到我们所需要的压力水平, "曾经参与执行制裁的前财政部官员丹尼尔·L·兰泽尔(Daniel L. Glaser)说。
Ultimately, he argued, that pressure will come only if China makes a strategic decision to truly squeeze the North. "Though China has taken helpful steps at times," he said, "it has never been willing to go all in."	他认为, 最终, 只有当中国作出真正向朝鲜施压的战略决策, 压力才会产生。"虽然中国有时候也采取有帮助的措施, "他说, "但它从来不愿全力以赴。"
Many of China's best-known companies have done business with North Korea even as they have sought customers and investors in the United States or relied on American-made parts and materials. ZTE, the mobile phone and electronics manufacturer, for example, shipped about $15 million of goods to the North in 2015, according to Chinese customs records viewed via the global trade database company Panjiva.	许多中国知名企业尽管在美国寻求客户和投资者, 或者需要依靠美国生产的部件与材料, 但它们也同朝鲜做生意, 例如, 通过全球贸易数据库公司 Panjiva 查看的中国海关记录显示, 2015 年, 手机和电子产品制造商中兴公司(ZTE)向朝鲜运送了价值约在 1500 万美元的商品。
The company agreed to pay $1.19 billion in March for violating American sanctions against Iran and North Korea, in part by sending 283 shipments of electronics with American-made components to the North. ZTE has pledged to improve oversight.	今年 3 月, 中兴同意为违反美国对伊朗和朝鲜的制裁而支付 11.9 亿美元, 部分是由于该公司向朝鲜运送的 283 批电子产品中带有美国制造的原件。中兴公司承诺改善监督措施。
But many Chinese companies sell products to North Korea without such problems. The electric car and battery maker BYD, in which Warren E. Buffett's Berkshire Hathaway owns a 10 percent stake, has shipped $14 million in goods to North Korea since 2012, including rubber products in January and vehicles in December, customs records show. BYD and Berkshire Hathaway didn't immediately respond to a request for comment.	但是很多向朝鲜出售产品的中国公司没有这方面的问题。根据海关记录显示, 电动汽车和电池制造商比亚迪(BYD)自 2012 年以来向朝鲜运送了价值 1400 万美元的商品, 其中包括 1 月份的橡胶产品和 12 月份的车辆。沃伦·E·巴菲特(Warren E. Buffett)的伯克希尔·哈撒韦公司(Berkshire Hathaway)拥有比亚迪 10% 的股份。比亚迪与伯克希尔·哈撒韦没有立即回应置评要求。
Just about every big Chinese appliance maker does business with North Korea, too, shipping refrigerators, air-conditioners, televisions	在中国, 几乎所有大牌电器制造商都在同朝鲜做生意, 向该国运送冰箱、空调、电视机和其他电子产品。中国主要汽车制造商也向朝鲜出售车辆。

and other electronics. The major Chinese automakers sell vehicles to the North as well.
Even Tsingtao Brewery shows up in customs records, delivering $20,000 worth of beer in the summer of 2014.	甚至连青岛啤酒也出现在海关记录中，2014年夏天，该公司向朝鲜提供了价值2万美元的啤酒。
United Nations sanctions prohibit the sale of luxury goods to North Korea, but countries are generally left to define what that means. The resolutions list jewelry, luxury automobiles, sports equipment and snowmobiles but make no mention of televisions, consumer electronics or home appliances.	联合国制裁禁止向朝鲜出售奢侈品，但奢侈品的定义通常由各国自己决定。联合国各项决议列出了珠宝、豪华汽车、运动装备和机动雪橇，但没有提及电视机、消费类电子产品和家用电器。
In some cases, Chinese companies with access to advanced technology are doing business with North Korea. Subsidiaries of the defense manufacturer Norinco made seven shipments, mostly of electronic and optical goods, worth a total of $1.5 million, in the second half of last year, records say. Norinco did not respond to a request for comment.	在某些情况下，有渠道获得先进技术的中国企业也在同朝鲜做生意。记录表明，国防制造商中国北方工业(Norinco)的若干子公司去年下半年曾七次向朝鲜出货，其中大部分是电子和光学产品，总价值150万美元。中国北方工业没有回应置评请求。
Matthew Brazil, a security consultant and former diplomat for the United States who investigated Chinese trade controls in the 1990s, said it was often impossible to get China to follow up on leads suggesting Chinese firms were violating restrictions. "Three months later, if you're lucky, the visit is scheduled, and many times, visits weren't scheduled at all," he said.	美国安全顾问和前外交官马修·布拉齐尔(Matthew Brazil)曾于1990年代对中国的贸易管制进行调查，他表示，如果有线索表明中国企业违反了禁令，让中国去追踪这些线索往往是不可能的。“如果你幸运的话，三个月后才会给你安排造访时间，很多时候根本不会安排，”他说。
Mr. Brazil said the problem had persisted, and "any level of control of American electronics has completely collapsed because this technology can be so easily shipped from China to North Korea."	布拉齐尔表示，这个问题一直存在，而且“就美国电子产品而言，任何程度上的控制都已经彻底崩溃了，因为这种技术可以轻易从中国运往朝鲜。”
On AliExpress, an e-commerce platform run by the Chinese internet	在中国互联网巨头阿里巴巴运营的电子商务平台“阿里巴巴全球速卖

giant Alibaba, six of the nine shipping services list North Korea as a potential destination. Alibaba declined to comment.	通”(AliExpress)上, 九家运输服务公司中有六家将朝鲜列为可送达目的地。阿里巴巴拒绝置评。
The manager of a shipping firm in Dandong who asked to be identified only by her surname, Li, because of the nature of her work said shipping a package of electronics to North Korea was straightforward “as long as it doesn’t have obvious labels” and meets weight requirements.	丹东某航运公司一位李姓经理表示, 向朝鲜运送一揽子电子产品是非常简单的, “只要没有明显的标签”, 并满足重量要求。由于工作性质, 她要求只使用姓氏来称呼她。
In fact, a delivery is more likely to run into problems on the North Korean side of the border than with customs inspectors in China. “The key,” she said, “is to make sure everything is fine with the people on the other side.”	事实上, 比起中国的海关检查, 交付过程中在朝鲜一方更有可能遇到问题。“关键在于保证一切对那边的人来说都没问题,”她说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170515/north-korea-sanctions-loopholes-china-united-states-garment-industry	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170515/north-korea-sanctions-loopholes-china-united-states-garment-industry
U.S. Nuclear History Offers Clues to North Korea’s Progress	从爱因斯坦到朝鲜: 人类核历史的启示录
It started with Albert Einstein. His famous $E = mc^2$ revealed a vast asymmetry in the cosmic relationship between matter and energy. In time, experts looked into the possibility of exploiting the disparity.	一切都始于阿尔伯特·爱因斯坦(Albert Einstein)。他那著名的 $E = mc^2$ 揭示了物质和能量之间复杂关系中的巨大不对称性。随着时间的推移, 专家们研究了利用这种不对称性的可能性。
Today, North Korea is hard at work on that agenda. Its nuclear program has succeeded in producing blasts in the Hiroshima range. In each case, trillions of atoms in a tiny smidgen of matter — estimated at roughly 1 gram, the weight of a dollar bill — broke their nuclear bonds in violent bursts of primal energy.	如今, 朝鲜正努力推进这项议程。它的核计划已经成功制造出威力与广岛核爆相当的爆炸。每一次, 重约1克、与1美元纸钞相当的一点点物质中包含的数以万亿计的原子, 都会在原始能量的猛烈爆发中产生核裂变。
The North now seeks to turn bits of nuclear fuel into even more powerful blasts. Experts say its ultimate goal is to transform an ordinary atomic bomb into a hydrogen bomb, which can raise its destructive	朝鲜目前正寻求以少量核燃料制造更具威力的爆炸。专家称, 其终极目标是把普通原子弹转化成破坏力高千倍的氢弹。 force by 1,000 times.

"I can't imagine they're not working on true thermonuclear weapons," said Siegfried S. Hecker, a Stanford University professor who from 1986 to 1997 directed the Los Alamos weapons laboratory in New Mexico, the birthplace of the atomic bomb, and whom the North Koreans in seeking recognition as a nuclear power have repeatedly let into their atomic facilities.	"我无法想象他们没在研制真正的热核武器，"斯坦福大学(Stanford University)教授西格夫里·S·赫克(Siegfried S. Hecker)说。赫克曾在1986至1997年间担任原子弹诞生地新墨西哥州洛斯阿拉莫斯武器实验室的主任；为本国寻求核大国地位的朝鲜人曾多次让他进入他们的核设施。
"But that's a big step," Hecker cautioned. "You have to pay attention to what they're doing but take their claims with a grain of salt."	"不过这是一大步，"赫克提醒说。"你必须关注他们正在做什么，但不要过分在意他们说了什么。"
On Sunday, the North fired a medium-range missile in an act of defiance, its second in a week. Both tests were successful and seen as demonstrating the slow improvement of its nuclear arsenal.	周日，朝鲜执意发射了一枚中程导弹，这是它在一周内发射的第二枚。这两次测试都取得了成功，从中可以看到其核武库正缓慢得到改进。
Experts say atomic history — especially that of the U.S. program, the world's most successful, which other nations often seek to mimic — can help distinguish North Korea's credible accomplishments from bluster and empty threats.	专家称，追溯原子能发展史——尤其是全世界最为成功的、常常被其他国家设法效仿的美国核计划的发展史——可能有助于把朝鲜取得的可信成果与虚张声势以及空洞的威胁区分开。
The nuclear age began in 1938 over a snowy Christmas holiday in Sweden when Lise Meitner and her nephew, Otto Frisch, tried to make sense of a colleague's puzzling experiments on uranium. During a hike, the physicists sat on a tree trunk and discussed the unlikely possibility that its atoms had split in two.	核时代肇始于1938年瑞典的那个飘着雪花的圣诞假期。当时，莉泽·迈特纳(Lise Meitner)的一名同事已经做了关于铀的实验，迈特纳和她的外甥奥托·弗里施(Otto Frisch)试图对令人困惑的实验结果做出理论解释。一次远足期间，这两名物理学家坐在一根树干上，讨论一种看似不可能的可能性：铀原子一分为二。
Meitner knew Einstein's equation. She did a calculation estimating how much energy a split atom might release. Suddenly, all the experimental facts fell into place.	迈特纳知道爱因斯坦的等式。她估算了一下一个原子的分裂会释放出多少能量。突然间，所有实验事实都说得通了。
"It was beautiful," her biographer wrote. "Everything fit."	"真美，"她的传记作者写道。"所有的一切都很契合。"

The discovery, called nuclear fission, led to a global race to split heavy atoms in chain reactions. The fuels of the first atomic bombs were either uranium or plutonium, both heavier than lead.	这一名为核裂变的发现，引发了一场重原子裂变的全球竞赛。第一批原子弹的燃料不是铀就是钚，都比铅重。
Soon, scientists found another way to free the hidden energy – by fusing two light atoms into one. The fuels were deuterium and tritium, rare forms of hydrogen. They were known as thermonuclear because their ignition required the blistering heats of an exploding atomic bomb, which acted like a match.	很快，科学家们发现了另一种把隐藏着的能量释放出来的方法——让两个轻原子合二为一。其燃料是氘和氚，均为氢的稀有同位素。它们被称为热核燃料，因为它们的点燃都需要原子弹爆炸时形成的高温。原子弹在这里的作用有点儿像是火柴。
Fusion – which powers the sun and the stars – turned out to release far more energy. It led to history’s most powerful blasts as well as decades of superpower brinkmanship with thousands of nuclear arms.	事实证明，聚变——是太阳以及其他恒星的能量之源——可以释放出多得多的能量。它以数以千计的核武器制造了历史上最具威力的爆炸，催生了超级大国为期数十年的边缘政策。
The United States in 1951 injected a tiny amount of thermonuclear fuel into the core of an atomic bomb, boosting its power. The explosion was roughly three times stronger than the Hiroshima blast.	美国于 1951 年往一枚原子弹的中心加入了少量热核燃料，让它威力倍增。爆炸的猛烈程度几乎是广岛核爆的三倍。
What beckoned was the idea of installing near the atomic bomb a separate capsule that would hold much more thermonuclear fuel.	随后有了这样一个点子：在原子弹附近安装一个单独的可以盛放更多热核燃料的容器。
In 1954, on Bikini Atoll in the Pacific, the United States tried that approach. The fireball expanded for miles. The shock wave swept neighboring atolls clean of vegetation and animals. In minutes, the mushroom cloud rose some 25 miles. Slowly, its radioactivity spread around the globe.	1954 年，美国在太平洋的比基尼环礁尝试了这种方法。火球直径达数英里。冲击波让周围环礁上的动植物全军覆没。几分钟内，蘑菇云便升到了约 25 英里的高度。由此释放的放射性物质慢慢在全球范围内蔓延。
The destructive force of that single hydrogen device turned out to be far greater than all explosives used in World War II, including the atomic bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The blast, code-named Bravo, was 1,000 times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb. It was	事实证明，单是这一氢弹装置的破坏力就远远大于二战期间使用的所有爆炸物，其中包括投在广岛和长崎的原子弹。代号为“布拉沃”(Bravo)的这次爆炸，威力为广岛原子弹的 1000 倍。它是美国有史以来最暴烈的热核实验。

the nation's most violent thermonuclear test ever.
But as Einstein foretold, the amount of matter that Bravo converted into energy was mind-bogglingly small – on the order of 1,500 grams, or about 3 pounds.	但正像爱因斯坦预言的那样，被“布拉沃”转化为能量的物质的数量少到令人难以置信——约为 1500 克（约合 3 磅）。
Few experts think North Korea will get close to mastering the secrets of true hydrogen bombs any time soon, if ever. But they cite a range of evidence suggesting that the isolated nation is now working hard to raise the destructive force of its nuclear arsenal with thermonuclear fire.	甚少有专家认为，朝鲜很快就会接近掌握制造真正氢弹的诀窍——它或许永远也做不到。但他们援引一系列证据称，这个被孤立的国家正努力借助热核燃料强化其核武的破坏力。
“It's possible that North Korea has already boosted,” Gregory S. Jones, a scientist at the RAND Corp., said of the first step down the thermonuclear road.	“朝鲜可能已经进行了强化，”兰德公司(RAND Corporation)的科学家格雷戈里·S·琼斯(Gregory S. Jones)谈及朝鲜在热核道路上迈出的第一步时说。
The prospect of the North making strides in missiles topped with nuclear arms that could threaten the United States has prompted the Trump administration to increase pressure on Kim Jong Un, the North's leader.	朝鲜正研制搭载那些会威胁到美国的核武器的导弹，它在这方面大踏步前进的可能性，促使特朗普政府加大了对朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong Un)施压的力度。
The world's first atomic bomb, the Gadget, tested in 1945 in the New Mexican desert, had a fuel efficiency of less than 20 percent. Thereafter, over years and decades of experimentation, designers learned how to raise the burn rate. Exactly how far is a federal secret.	世界上的第一枚原子弹“小玩意”(Gadget)，于 1945 年在新墨西哥州的沙漠地带试爆，燃料效率还不到 20%。此后，经过数年乃至数十年的试验，设计者们弄清了如何提高燃烧率。具体被提高到了何种程度属于联邦机密。
The North, like most countries with nuclear ambitions, has followed the U.S. playbook. The question is how much progress it has made since its first atomic test more than a decade ago.	像大多数具有核野心的国家一样，朝鲜一直遵循着美国的路线。问题是自从在十余年前首次进行核试验以来，它取得了多少进展。
Two detonations last year helped clarify the picture. The first, in January, was about as powerful as the Hiroshima blast. With typical swagger, the North declared it had detonated a hydrogen bomb – a	去年的两次核爆有助于我们摸清情况。去年 1 月的第一次爆炸与广岛核爆威力相当。朝鲜一如既往地大肆吹嘘，声称自己引爆了一枚氢弹——专家们普遍不认可这种说法。此次爆炸的威力要小得多。

claim experts universally rejected. The explosion was far too small.
Still, emerging clues suggested the North was indeed going down the thermonuclear road — particularly in enhancing its atomic bombs.	不过，有越来越多的线索表明，朝鲜的确走上了热核之路——尤其是在强化其原子弹方面。
Experts found evidence that it had modified a reactor to make tritium, built a plant that could gather up the radioactive gas, and produced a thermonuclear fuel ingredient in such abundance that it was selling it online.	专家发现，有证据表明，朝鲜已经改良了一个制造氚的反应堆，建造了一个可以收集放射性气体的工厂，还生产出了一种制造热核燃料的原料，数量多到足以在网上出售。
"I think it's pretty clear they've weaponized and miniaturized," Bruce Klingner, a former head of the CIA's Korea branch, recently told a group in Washington.	"我认为他们很显然已经实现了武器化和小型化，"曾任中央情报局(CIA)韩国分部负责人的布鲁斯·克林纳(Bruce Klingner)最近告诉华盛顿的一个团体。
The finding went to warheads for short- and medium-range missiles able to hit much of Japan and South Korea. Experts say the North still has a long way to go in perfecting warheads for its intercontinental ballistic missiles, none of which have undergone flight testing.	这一结论指向的是搭载在中短程导弹上的可以袭击日本和韩国很多地方的核弹头。专家称，朝鲜在完善搭载于洲际弹道导弹的核弹头方面还有很长的路要走，两者都还没经过飞行测试的检验。
Last September, the North set off another blast — its fifth. By some estimates, the explosion was twice as strong as the Hiroshima bomb. That suggested its designers had used more atomic fuel, had achieved a higher rate of burning, or had engaged in thermonuclear boosting.	去年9月，朝鲜制造了又一次也就是第五次核爆。不过一些人估计，此次爆炸的威力是广岛原子弹的两倍。这意味着它的设计者使用了更多核燃料，提高了燃烧率，或是借助热核燃料造出了加强版原子弹。
Albright of the Institute for Science and International Security has argued for another possibility. The North, he says, may be pursuing an intermediate stage of thermonuclear arms design known as layering.	科学与国际安全研究所(Institute for Science and International Security)的戴维·奥尔布赖特(David Albright)提出了另一种可能性。他说，朝鲜或许正在推进名为层叠法的过渡性热核武器设计工作。
In that step, weapon designers wrap alternating layers of thermonuclear fuel and uranium around atomic bombs. That burns more hydrogen than simple boosting. When the Russians first tried that approach, Albright noted in a recent report, the test device produced a	在这一阶段，武器设计者用相间的热核燃料层和铀层裹住原子弹。比起简单的强化，这样做可以燃烧更多的氢。奥尔布赖特最近在一份报告中指出，俄国人首次尝试该方式时，测试用装置制造出的那场爆炸的威力，是广岛原子弹的25倍多。 blast over 25 times stronger than the Hiroshima bomb.

All of which leads to the question of what to expect if the North decides to detonate another nuclear device – which would be its sixth.	所有这些都引发了这样一个问题：如果朝鲜决定引爆另一个核装置——也就是进行第六次核爆——会发生什么？
Whether the nuclear test is big or small, delayed or scrapped, botched or successful, experts say the North’s program is now moving steadily beyond the rudiments of nuclear arms design, raising not only global alarms but the geopolitical stakes.	专家称，不论此次核试验是大是小，是一团糟还是取得成功，朝鲜的核计划目前都正朝着超出核武器设计雏形的方向稳步前进，不仅在全球范围内拉响了警报，还让地缘政治风险有所提高。
For his part, Einstein was horrified by the spread of nuclear arms and often spoke out against them. He worried that the human race had insufficient wisdom to free the primal energies.	爱因斯坦本人对核武器的蔓延感到震惊，常常公开反对。他担心人类没有足够的智慧去控制被释放出来的原始能量。
“The unleashed power of the atom has changed everything save our modes of thinking,” he remarked, “and we thus drift toward unparalleled catastrophe.”	“原子释放出的能量已经改变了一切——除了我们的思维方式，”他说，“因此，我们在滑向前所未有的灾难。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170523/north-korea-nuclear-weapons	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170523/north-korea-nuclear-weapons
U.S. Warship Sails Near Island Claimed by China in South China Sea	美军舰驶入南海争议海域，系特朗普执政后首次
BEIJING — A United States Navy warship sailed within 12 nautical miles of an artificial island claimed by China in the South China Sea on Wednesday, an operation that showed a new firmness by the Trump administration in its dealings with Beijing.	北京——周三，一艘美国海军军舰在中国宣称主权的一个南海人工岛屿的 12 海里内航行。这一行动显示特朗普政府在与北京的往来中采取了一种新的强硬态度。
The U.S.S. Dewey sailed within 12 nautical miles of Mischief Reef in the Spratly Islands, not far from the Philippines, American defense officials said.	美国国防部官员表示，杜威号驱逐舰(Dewey)在离菲律宾不远的斯普拉特利群岛(Spratly Islands, 中国称为南沙群岛——译注)美济礁(Mischief Reef)12海里内航行。
The operation may tamp down concerns among allies of the United States that the Trump administration has been unwilling to confront	这一行动可能会缓解美国盟国的担忧，他们担心，特朗普政府为寻求北京在遏制朝鲜核项目等问题上的合作，会不愿在南海对抗中国的领土主张。

China's territorial claims in the South China Sea as it seeks Beijing's cooperation on issues like halting North Korea's nuclear program.
Until the operation on Wednesday, the Pentagon had turned down requests from the United States Pacific Command in Hawaii, under the command of Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr., for such maneuvers. It was the first freedom of navigation operation since President Trump took office.	在周三的行动之前，五角大楼曾否决海军上将小哈里·B·哈里斯(Adm. Harry B. Harris Jr.)指挥下的夏威夷美国太平洋司令部的此类行动请求。这是特朗普总统上任后批准的首个自由航行任务。
Mr. Trump was initially reluctant to confront China's territorial claims once he became president, despite his criticism during the campaign of the Obama administration's handling of the issue. In an interview with The New York Times in March 2016, Mr. Trump said that Beijing had built in the South China Sea "a military fortress, the likes of which perhaps the world has not seen."	特朗普就任总统后，最初不愿对抗中国的领土主张，尽管他在竞选期间批评奥巴马政府对这一问题的处理方式。2016年3月，特朗普在接受《纽约时报》采访时表示，北京在南海建起了“一座军事堡垒，而且或许是全世界前所未见的那种”。
The naval operation on Wednesday was interpreted by the United States' allies in the region as a welcome sign of American engagement in the South China Sea.	美国在该地区的盟国将周三的海军行动视为美国参与南海事务的一个可喜迹象。
Even so, Australia, whose economy is highly dependent on exports to China, has declined to participate in the United States-led military operations, arguing that China now controls the Spratly Islands, where it has placed military weapons and runways for fighter jets.	尽管如此，澳大利亚拒绝参与美国领导的军事行动，认为中国现在控制着斯普拉特利群岛——中国在那里部署了军用武器，修建了战斗机跑道。澳大利亚的经济严重依赖对中国的出口。
"Australia is extremely reluctant to participate in freedom of navigation operations that involve flying over or sailing through the 12 nautical miles around the islands," said Alan Dupont, a former Australian defense intelligence official.	“澳大利亚极其不愿意参与自由航行行动，该行动需要在这些岛屿周围12海里内飞行或航行，”澳大利亚前国防情报官员艾伦·杜邦(Alan Dupont)说。
"The Australian government feels it would be provocative and upset China," Mr. Dupont said. "It feels it would be counterproductive now	“澳大利亚政府认为，那样做会激怒中国，令它不快，”杜邦说。“它认为，既然中国已经在那些岛屿上部署了军事设施，这样做只会起到反作用。”

that China has militarized the islands.”
Jamie Davis, a Defense Department spokesman, declined to discuss any current maneuvers but said the military was continuing with its freedom of navigation operations, known as Fonops.	国防部发言人杰米·戴维斯(Jamie Davis)拒绝谈论当前的任何行动，但他表示，军方正在继续进行自由航行任务。
“We are continuing regular Fonops, as we have routinely done in the past and will continue to do in the future,” he said in a statement. “All operations are conducted in accordance with international law and demonstrate that the United States will fly, sail and operate wherever international law allow.”	“我们正在继续进行常规的自由航行任务，就像我们过去经常做的那样，将来我们也还会继续这样做，”他在一项声明中说。“所有的行动都是依照国际法进行的，表明美国将在国际法允许的任何地方飞行、航行和行动。”
“We have a comprehensive freedom of navigation operations program that seeks to challenge excessive maritime claims in order to preserve the rights, freedoms and uses of the sea and airspace guaranteed to all nations under international law,” he added.	“我们拥有全面的自由航行任务计划，以期挑战过分的军事主张，依照国际法维护所有国家使用这片海洋和空间的权利和自由，”他还说。
Allies will be watching to see how consistent the Trump administration is on the South China Sea, some analysts said.	有些分析师表示，那些盟国将会关注特朗普政府在南海问题上能保持多大程度的一贯性。
“One operation won’t allay fears about Trump’s transactional approach toward China and its apparent disinterest in defending international and legal rights,” said Euan Graham, an analyst with the Lowy Institute in Australia.	“特朗普和中国打交道的方式是做交易，加之他明显对维护国际和法律权利不感兴趣，因此一次行动不足以打消这些担忧，”澳大利亚研究院洛伊研究所(Lowy Institute)的分析师尤安·格雷厄姆(Euan Graham)说。
Satellite images suggest that China has placed military hardware like anti-aircraft and antimissile systems on its man-made islands in the South China Sea, analysts say.	分析人士称，卫星图像表明，中国在南海的人工岛屿上部署了防空和防导弹系统等重型装备。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170525/south-china-sea-us-navy-warship-spratly-islands	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170525/south-china-sea-us-navy-warship-spratly-islands
The Latest Unrest in the Southern Philippines, Explained	关于菲律宾马拉维危机，你应该了解的问题

Philippine troops using tanks and helicopters stormed the southern city of Marawi on Thursday in an effort to defeat militants linked to the Islamic State who have besieged the city for days, setting fire to buildings and taking hostages.	菲律宾军队周四动用坦克和直升机突袭南部城市马拉维(Marawi), 试图击败和伊斯兰国(Islamic State)勾结的武装分子。后者已围攻马拉维数日, 他们焚烧房屋, 劫持人质。
Here is a look at what is happening and who is involved.	本文是对发生的事情和事件涉及各方的介绍。
— What is happening?	——发生了什么?
On Tuesday, security forces in Marawi tried and failed to capture Isnilon Hapilon, an Islamist militant on the FBI’s list of most-wanted terrorists. They were confronted by at least 100 militants, some of whom carried sophisticated weapons.	周二, 马拉维的安全部队试图抓捕美国联邦调查局(FBI)恐怖分子通缉犯名单上的伊斯兰派武装分子伊斯尼隆·哈皮隆(Isnilon Hapilon), 但以失败告终。他们遇到了至少 100 名武装分子的反抗, 其中一些人携有精密武器。
Many of those militants, members of a gang known as the Maute, then joined forces with Hapilon’s followers in a rampage through the city of 200,000. Both the Maute and Hapilon’s organization, Abu Sayyaf, have pledged allegiance to the Islamic State, and fighters have raised that group’s black banner over several buildings in Marawi, including the city’s main hospital.	这些武装分子是一个名为穆特组织(Maute)的成员, 他们中的很多人联合哈皮隆的支持者, 在人口 20 万的马拉维市为非作歹。穆特组织和哈皮隆的组织阿布沙耶夫(Abu Sayyaf)均承诺效忠伊斯兰国, 武装分子已在马拉维多栋建筑, 包括该市主要的医院楼顶悬挂该组织的黑色旗帜。
They have also taken a priest and his parishioners hostage and set fire to buildings. Thousands of civilians have fled the fighting, and at least 30 people have been killed.	他们还把一名神职人员和他的多名教民劫为人质, 并焚烧房屋。已有成千上万名平民逃离战场, 至少 30 人死亡。
On Tuesday, President Rodrigo Duterte imposed martial law on the southern island of Mindanao, which includes Marawi. Mindanao, home to 20 million people, is the heart of the country’s long-simmering Muslim insurgency.	周二, 菲律宾总统罗德里戈·杜特蒂(Rodrigo Duterte)对马拉维所在的南部岛屿棉兰老岛实行戒严。棉兰老岛生活着 2000 万人, 是该国长期一触即发的穆斯林暴乱的中心。
— Who are the key players?	——主要参与者是谁?
Abu Sayyaf is a jihadi group that has terrorized the southern Philippines	阿布沙耶夫是一个圣战组织, 几十年来一直在菲律宾南部制造恐怖, 从事海

for decades, engaging in piracy, kidnapping, extortion and bombings. The group beheaded a German hostage this year and killed two Canadians in 2016.	盗、绑架、敲诈勒索和爆炸活动。该组织今年斩首了一名德国人质，2016年杀害了两名加拿大人。
The group says it wants to establish an Islamic caliphate in the southern Philippines. Last year, Hapilon, a Muslim preacher and an experienced guerrilla, pledged his allegiance to the Islamic State and its leader, Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, in a video posted online.	该组织自称希望在菲律宾南部建立一个伊斯兰哈里发。去年，穆斯林传道者、久经沙场的游击队员哈皮隆在一段发布在网上的视频中承诺忠于伊斯兰国及其领导人阿布·巴克·巴格达迪(Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi)。
The United States has offered a $5 million reward for Hapilon's capture. In January, the Philippine military tried to kill him in an airstrike, but he was only wounded.	美国悬赏 500 万美元抓捕哈皮隆。1 月，菲律宾军方曾试图在一场空袭中杀死哈皮隆，但他只是受了伤。
Hapilon has been trying to unite several smaller Islamist groups in the region, including the Maute, who are mostly in Marawi.	哈皮隆一直试图联合该地区另外几个规模小一些的伊斯兰组织，包括主要在马拉维活动的穆特组织。
The Maute are another of the four Islamist groups in the region affiliated with the Islamic State. The group, founded by the brothers Abdullah and Omar Maute, started as a small band of petty criminals. Last year, members of the Maute were arrested in connection with a bombing at a night market in Davao City, Duterte's hometown. The authorities also said they foiled a plot in November in which the group tried to bomb the U.S. Embassy in Manila.	穆特组织是该地区四个隶属于伊斯兰国的伊斯兰组织之一。由阿卜杜拉和奥马尔·穆特(Abdullah and Omar Maute)兄弟建立的该组织成立之初，只是一小群罪行轻微的罪犯。去年，穆特组织的多名成员因为与杜特蒂的家乡达沃市一个夜市发生的爆炸有关联而被捕。当局还表示他们去年 11 月挫败了该组织试图轰炸马尼拉美国大使馆的阴谋。
Duterte cut short a trip to Russia this week to oversee the military operation and declared martial law in Mindanao.	为了指挥这场军事行动，杜特蒂缩短了本周对俄罗斯斯的访问，并宣布棉兰老岛实行戒严。
The populist president has taken an extreme hard line on crime and disorder, most notably with his contentious war on drugs, which has left thousands across the country dead and has drawn condemnation from rights groups and many Western governments. On Wednesday,	这位民粹主义总统对犯罪和骚乱的立场极其强硬，最有名的是他备受争议的打击毒品行动，该行动导致菲律宾全国成千上万人死亡，遭到权利组织和很多西方政府的谴责。周三，杜特蒂警告称他可能会对全国其他地方实行军事管制。他给出的理由是，恐怖分子可能会在菲律宾北部开始行动。

Duterte warned that he might impose military rule over the rest of the country, citing the possibility that terrorists could begin operations in the northern Philippines.
— How does martial law work?	——戒严令有何影响?
Tuesday’s declaration of martial law effectively replaced the civilian government in Mindanao with the armed forces. Under the declaration, soldiers have increased latitude to carry out arrests.	周二宣布戒严实际上是用武装部队代替了棉兰老岛的文职政府。根据宣布的戒严令，军方进行逮捕的自由加大。
For two months, civil liberties will be curtailed. Civilians can be held in detention merely on suspicion of committing a crime and can be subjected to trial by military tribunal.	公民自由将受到两个月的限制。平民可能会仅仅因为涉嫌犯罪就被关押，并被军事法庭审判。
Duterte’s threat to expand martial law nationwide is unnerving for many in the Philippines who lived through the dictator Ferdinand E. Marcos. Marcos declared martial law in 1972 and used it to maintain his grip on power for years.	对很多经历过费迪南德·E·马科斯(Ferdinand E. Marcos)的独裁统治的菲律宾人来说，杜特蒂要把戒严的范围扩大到全国的威胁令人不安。马科斯1972年宣布戒严，并用它来维持自己对权力的多年控制。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170526/c26philippines-explainer	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170526/c26philippines-explainer
New Emoji is a Meaningful Symbol for Indigenous Australians	一个表情符，浓缩了多少澳洲原住民的平权追求
SYDNEY, Australia — Hundreds of Australian Aboriginal leaders gathered on Friday at Uluru, a massive sandstone monolith in Australia’s central desert, to call for constitutional recognition of their people. Around the same time, a new emoji was quietly added to Twitter: the Australian Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander flags.	澳大利亚悉尼——数百名澳洲原住民领袖周五在澳大利亚中部沙漠的巨型单体巨石乌鲁鲁下聚集，呼吁在宪法中承认原住民地位。大约在同一时间，Twitter 未做声张地增加了一个新的表情符：澳洲原住民旗和托雷斯海峡岛民旗。
The emoji showing both flags together amounts to a small (very small) action, but for the group of people it stands for, the digital recognition carries deep significance.	虽然并列显示这两个旗帜的表情符是一个很小的（非常小的）动作，但对于该符号所代表的群体而言，得到数码世界的承认具有深远的意义。
“Emojis are huge,” said Luke Pearson, a digital producer of the	“表情符太重要了，”澳大利亚广播公司原住民广播部的数码产品制作人卢

Indigenous radio unit of the Australian Broadcasting Corporation. "We use them all day, every day, on so many different platforms. They aren't entirely insignificant, because they've become such a core part of our communications."	克·皮尔逊(Luke Pearson)说。“我们整天、每天都在用表情符，在那么多的不同平台上使用它们。它们并非完全微不足道，因为它们已成为我们交流方式的一个核心部分。”
The new emoji arrived the same week Australia is commemorating the 50th anniversary of the vote to include its indigenous people in the national census. In a week that includes National Sorry Day and the anniversary of the landmark Mabo case, which dealt with indigenous land rights, the flags amount to a form of recognition that can be easily shared; they become available on Twitter when users include certain hashtags, such as #IndigenousAU, #ReconciliationWeek, or #1967Referendum.	新表情符是在澳大利亚纪念把原住民纳入全国人口普查的修宪公投五十周年的同一周出现的，该周还包括“国家道歉日”和具有里程碑意义的《马伯案》周年纪念日，该案涉及原住民的土地产权。这些旗帜相当于一种很容易分享的承认方式；当 Twitter 用户使用某些主题标签（比如#IndigenousAu、#ReconciliationWeek，或 #1967Referendum）时，就可使看到该表情符。
But as Australia's indigenous peoples still struggle to overcome more than 200 years of colonization, with a population that is grossly overrepresented in prisons, and that has drastically poorer health and a lower life expectancy than the rest of Australia, does an emoji even matter?	但是，当澳洲原住民仍在为克服二百多年的殖民化问题而奋斗时，当监狱里的原住民人数与其人口不成比例地高、原住民的健康状况和预期寿命都远不如其他澳大利亚人时，这个表情符真的很有意义吗？
Other issues seem much more important; the leaders who gathered in Uluru, formerly known as Ayers Rock, are fighting for an Aboriginal representative body to be enshrined in the Constitution, for example.	其他问题似乎更重要；比如，聚集在乌鲁鲁（以前的名字是艾尔斯岩）的领袖们正在为争取建立一个得到宪法承认的原住民代表机构而奋斗。
But representation in all forms is important for indigenous Australians, who have been pressing their case on many federal, state and local fronts for decades.	但是，任何形式的代表性对于澳洲原住民来说都重要，原住民们数十年来一直在联邦、州和地方各级政府争取自己的权益。
Dr. Bronwyn Carlson, an associate professor of indigenous studies at the University of Wollongong, in New South Wales, says the inclusion of	在新南威尔士州卧龙岗大学从事原住民研究的副教授布朗温·卡尔逊 (Bronwyn Carlson) 博士表示，把旗帜添加到表情符中是 Twitter 迈出的重

the flags is a significant move by Twitter.	要一步。
"It means this corporate giant is taking notice of a small population of people, and also acknowledging that these people have something to say," she said.	她说：“这意味着，这家企业巨头正在对一个人口很少的群体表示关注，同时承认这些人有话要说。”
Social media, particularly Twitter, is a democratic and accessible space for indigenous Australians. For those who are fighting for broader recognition, it's a way to sidestep gatekeepers who may not respect or amplify their voices.	对澳洲原住民来说，社交媒体、尤其是 Twitter，是一种民主的且可及的空间。对那些为争取更广泛的承认而奋斗的人来说，这是一种避开把关者的方法，把关者们也许不尊重原住民的声音，或愿意将其放大。
"Mainstream media generally ignores us," said Dr. Carlson, an indigenous Australian. "But with Twitter, we have our own space, where we can continually raise our own stories and particularly talk about things that are important to us," she said.	“主流媒体一般不注意我们，”卡尔逊说，她是澳洲原住民。“但在 Twitter 上，我们有自己的空间，我们可以不断地讲述我们自己的故事，特别是讨论对我们来说重要的问题，”她说。
Mr. Pearson, who is also an indigenous Australian, and who set up IndigenousX, a Twitter account with rotating indigenous hosts, compares the flag icon to the recent addition of skin tones for some emoji.	皮尔逊也是澳洲原住民，他在 Twitter 上建立了一个名为 IndigenousX、由不同原住民轮流主持的帐号，他把旗帜符号的引入与最近增加的一些不同肤色的表情符作比较。
"I think this is comparable, in the same way that all those flags are there for people to show pride in their flags," he said, "and there wasn't one for us."	“我认为它们可比，就好像人们可以用那里所有的其它旗帜来表示他们的自豪感那样，”他说，“以前，没有能让我们表达这种感情的符号。”
Twitter has been aware of calls for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander flag emoji for years, but adding one little emoji is trickier than it might seem.	虽然多年来，Twitter 一直知道澳洲原住民和托雷斯海峡岛民有对用旗帜作表情符的要求，但添加一个小小的表情符做起来比听上去难得多。
Harold Thomas, the indigenous activist who created the Aboriginal flag in 1971, still holds the copyright to the design. Mr. Thomas ended up in a dispute with Google in 2010 when he refused to allow the technology	澳洲原住民旗是原住民活动家哈罗德·托马斯(Harold Thomas)1971年设计的，他对设计仍拥有版权。2010年，托马斯因拒绝让谷歌在其主页上使用旗帜的副本，与这家技术公司发生了争执。 company to reproduce the flag on its home page.

After months of back and forth with Twitter, Mr. Thomas granted the social media company permission to create the emoji, in time for the anniversary of the referendum.	在与 Twitter 进行了几个月的反复讨论之后，托马斯同意授权这家社交媒体公司把旗帜用于新的表情符，让该表情符得以在修宪公投周年纪念时亮相。
In an interview, Mr. Thomas said the flag expressed both the future of the Aboriginal people and their past, which goes back more than 40,000 years.	托马斯在接受采访时表示，该旗既象征着原住民的未来、也代表着他们的过去，原住民在澳洲的出现可追溯到 4 万多年前。
"The Aboriginal flag is central to our national identity," Mr. Thomas said. "We are the first people here, for a very long time, and we'll stay here until eternity."	"原住民旗是我们民族认同来的核心，"托马斯说。"我们是最早来这里的人，而且很早以前就来了，我们会永远留在这里。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170527/aboriginal-emoji-australia	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170527/aboriginal-emoji-australia
China Woos South Korea's New Leader, but the U.S. Left Behind a Spoiler	中国欲拉拢文在寅，萨德系统是绊脚石
BEIJING — When he assumed power in 2013, President Xi Jinping of China tried to court one of America's main Asian allies, South Korea. It worked for a while. Then the relationship soured.	北京——2013 年，当习近平主席上台时，他曾试图拉拢美国在亚洲的主要盟友之一——韩国。这种努力奏效了一阵子，之后中韩关系就恶化了。
South Korea's president at the time, Park Geun-hye, showed great respect for Mr. Xi, appearing shoulder to shoulder with him at a military parade in Tiananmen Square, the only American ally to do so. Then she turned on Mr. Xi when he declined to rein in North Korea as much as she had expected.	韩国当时的总统朴槿惠对习近平表现了极大的尊重，她与习近平并肩站在天安门城楼上观看广场上的阅兵式，这在美国的盟友中独一无二。后来，习近平没有像她所期望的那样有力地遏制朝鲜，朴槿惠就翻了脸。
Now Mr. Xi is trying again, wooing South Korea's new leader, Moon Jae-in, and still hoping to chip away at the American alliance with South Korea and to fortify China's position in Northeast Asia.	现在，习近平又开始尝试争取韩国新领导人文在寅，仍希望能削弱韩国与美国的联盟，从而巩固中国在东北亚地区的地位。

Mr. Moon, a proponent of engagement with North Korea, is a more natural friend for Mr. Xi than the conservative Ms. Park, who is in jail facing corruption charges.	文在寅支持与朝鲜进行接触，因此，与保守的朴槿惠相比，他自然与习近平更适合做朋友。朴槿惠已因腐败指控被逮捕入狱。
As North Korea steps up the frequency of its missile tests and prepares for a sixth nuclear test, it has become more important for China to make common cause with South Korea if it wants to find a diplomatic solution to the standoff with the North, as Beijing insists that it does.	朝鲜不断增加导弹测试的频率，并在准备进行第六次核试验。因此，如果北京像自己坚称的那样，希望寻求外交手段解决朝鲜问题的僵局，那么与韩国的联手则更为重要。
China's relationship with North Korea, its ostensible ally, is at a ragged low, and its ties with the South are in poor shape. All at once, Beijing is at odds with both Koreas.	中国与朝鲜这个表面上的盟友的关系正处于低谷，与韩国的关系也不怎么样。突然间，北京跟朝鲜和韩国都搞僵了。
But while Mr. Xi welcomes Mr. Moon as a preferable alternative to Ms. Park, he is concerned about one point of contention.	但是，虽然习近平对文在寅成为朴槿惠的替代者表示欢迎，但他仍对一个争议点表示担忧。
Mr. Xi has made it clear that an American missile defense system that was authorized by Ms. Park and quickly set up by the United States in South Korea just before Mr. Moon took office is a major obstacle to good relations.	习近平已明确表示，此前由朴槿惠批准的一个美国导弹防御体系是中韩关系好转的一个主要障碍。美国于文在寅上任前在韩国迅速启动了该系统。
Beijing complains that the system, the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense battery, known as Thaad, which the Americans designed to protect South Korea against the North, undermines China's missile force and its ability to deter a nuclear attack.	北京抱怨说，美国部署这一为保护韩国免受朝鲜袭击而设计的“末端高空防御系统”（简称“萨德”）削弱了中国军队的导弹能力和中国的核威慑力。
China views Thaad as just one element in an effort to contain its military by building a strategic architecture that would eventually connect South Korea, Japan and the United States.	中国把萨德看作是遏制中国军事力量努力的一部分，这种努力旨在建立一种最终将韩国、日本和美国连接起来的战略结构。
"Stopping the deployment of Thaad is the bottom line of China," said Global Times, a state-run newspaper that often reflects the thinking of	"停止部署萨德是中国的底线，"《环球时报》在文在寅当选总统后不久说，这家官方报纸经常反映中共领导人的想法。"首尔需要做出要'萨德'还是要完

the Communist Party leadership, soon after Mr. Moon's election. "Seoul needs to make a choice between deploying Thaad and resuming Sino-South Korean relations. It should not hope to have it both ways."	全恢复中韩关系的选择，它不应寄希望于鱼和熊掌兼得。”
How is Mr. Moon, a lawyer, going to finesse the demands of China that Thaad disappear, and the insistence of the United States that it remain?	中国要求萨德撤离韩国，美国坚持保留该反导系统，律师出身的文在寅该如何处理这一矛盾？
It will be difficult, Chinese experts say. Mr. Xi will try to persuade Mr. Moon to make some unpalatable compromises, they say, ones that would not sit well with the American military.	中国专家说，这很难。他们说，习近平将试图说服文在寅作出一些令人不快的妥协，美国军方不会喜欢这些妥协。
Already, Mr. Moon appears to be at loggerheads with the Pentagon. On Tuesday, he ordered a wide-ranging investigation into how four new Thaad launchers had arrived in South Korea without his knowledge. The launchers are intended to supplement the two Thaad installations already in place.	看起来，文在寅已经与五角大楼起了冲突。周二，他下令调查四个新的萨德发射器是怎样在他不知情的情况下运到韩国的。新发射器是对已经安装的两个萨德装置的补充。
But even rejecting the new equipment may not satisfy China.	但是，仅仅是拒绝新设备不一定能让中国满意。
"South Korea could make a promise to only allow one set of Thaad on its territory," said Cheng Xiaohu, an associate professor of international relations at Renmin University in Beijing. Mr. Cheng was referring to assessments that South Korea does not have sufficient Thaad batteries yet to protect the entire country, and will need more.	“韩国可以作出只允许在其领土上部署一套萨德的承诺，”中国人民大学国际关系学院副教授成晓河说。成晓河指的是对韩国已经部署的萨德系统的评估，人们认为韩国尚无足够多的发射器来保护整个国家，因此还需要更多的发射器。
"But that's not enough," Mr. Cheng added. "China could ask South Korea not to join a trilateral alliance with Japan and the United States." Since the 1990s, China has been concerned that the United States wants to form a NATO-like alliance on its doorstep.	“但这还不够，”成晓河接着说。“中国可以要求韩国不加入与日本和美国的三国联盟。”自 20 世纪 90 年代起，中国一直担心美国想在自己的家门口建立一个类似北约的联盟。
China could also demand that Mr. Moon's government allow China to verify that Thaad's radar system can detect incoming missiles only	成晓河说，中国还可以要求文在寅政府允许中国对萨德雷达系统进行核实，确定其对发射来的导弹的侦查范围在 800 公里以内，而不是 2000 公里。

within 800 kilometers (about 500 miles) and not 2,000 kilometers (about 1,200 miles), Mr. Cheng said.
But intrusive inspection of Thaad on South Korean territory by China for verification purposes would be rejected by the Pentagon, he acknowledged.	但他承认，五角大楼将拒绝让中国对韩国领土上的萨德系统进行侵入式的检查。
A Chinese rocket scientist, Wu Riqiang, said in an interview that the Thaad system allowed the United States to monitor Chinese intercontinental ballistic missiles from the moment they were fired from bases in central China. The American military would then have the ability to differentiate between real warheads and decoys carried on the missiles, thus weakening China's deterrent.	中国的火箭科学家吴日强在接受采访时表示，萨德系统让美国能在中国洲际弹道导弹从位于中国中部的基地发射之初就进行监测。这将让美国军方获得区分其所载弹头是真是假的能力，从而削弱了中国的威慑力。
"I don't think China can persuade South Korea to give up Thaad," said Mr. Wu, an arms control expert who has worked at China's Defense Ministry. In response to the missile defense system next door, he added, "China will build more nuclear weapons but won't do so publicly."	"我不认为中国可以说服韩国放弃萨德，"在中国国防部工作过的武装控制专家吴日强说。作为对邻国部署的导弹防御体系的回应，他补充道，"中国将会制造更多的核武器，虽然不会公开这么做。"
During the South Korean election campaign, Mr. Moon said he opposed the rushed deployment of Thaad, noting that it had not been put to a vote.	在韩国总统大选期间，文在寅曾说反对匆忙部署萨德，指出尚未对该系统的部署进行投票。
Mr. Moon has asked South Korean lawmakers to assess the initial decision on deployment, a move intended to buy some time.	文在寅已经要求韩国立法者评估最初的部署决定，此举是为了做出下一步的决定赢得一些时间。
"There is a search for a face-saving trigger," said John Delury, associate professor of Chinese studies at Yonsei University in Seoul, South Korea. "During the review, the Thaad equipment would stay there but would be turned off."	"那是在寻找一个保住面子的方法，"在韩国首尔延世大学从事中国问题研究的副教授鲁乐汉(John Delury)说。"在评估期间，萨德系统的设备继续留在那里，但将被关闭。"
Despite the difficulties over the missile defense system, China seems to	尽管在导弹防御系统上存在难处，但中国似乎觉察到，与其前任相比，在文

sense that it has a better chance of driving a wedge between South Korea and the United States with Mr. Moon than with his predecessor, especially with President Trump in the White House.	在寅执政期间，中国更有机会在韩国和美国之间挑起不和，尤其是当特朗普主政白宫。
Since the Korean War, when the United States fought to prevent the North from overrunning the South, American presidents have kept their commitments to the alliance.	朝鲜战争期间，美国曾为防止朝鲜吞并韩国参战。自那时以来，历任美国总统都承诺维护美韩联盟。
Mr. Xi can capitalize on Mr. Trump's distaste for alliances. In April, Mr. Trump called a five-year-old American trade accord with South Korea "a horrible deal" that had left America "destroyed."	习近平可以从特朗普对联盟的厌恶中获利。今年4月，特朗普曾称五年前美国与韩国签署的贸易协定“非常糟糕”，并说该协定“彻底摧毁了”美国。
During his campaign, Mr. Trump accused South Korea of not paying its share to maintain 28,500 American troops in the country, although once he took office he called the alliance "ironclad."	特朗普在竞选美国总统期间指责韩国，没有为驻扎该国的28500名美军支付韩国应该出的钱，虽然在上台后，他也曾表示美韩联盟“坚如磐石”。
Mr. Trump's grumbling probably strikes South Koreans as more true to form. The president sent shudders through the South Korean election campaign in April when he said he wanted Seoul to pay the estimated $1 billion cost of Thaad.	特朗普的抱怨可能让韩国人觉得他一贯如此。特朗普曾在4月份的韩国总统大选期间发表令韩国震惊的言论，他说，他要让首尔支付萨德系统预计需要的10亿美元的费用。
The opening moves between Mr. Xi and Mr. Moon have taken place indirectly and under subdued circumstances. They have yet to meet.	习近平和文在寅之间的初步接触是间接进行的，而且比较低调。他们尚未见面。
A South Korean envoy, Lee Hae-chan, arrived in Beijing shortly after Mr. Moon assumed office.	文在寅上任不久，韩国特使李海瓚(Lee Hae-chan)就来到了北京。
Mr. Xi took matters into his own hands, showing who was in charge. At a session between the Chinese and South Korean delegations in Beijing, Mr. Xi sat alone at a head table with the other officials seated below him, a choreography meant to show China's dominance that was widely noted.	为显示谁说了算，习近平做了一种特别的表示。在中方与韩国特使团在北京举行的一次会议上，习近平自己单独在头桌就座，其他官员都坐在比他低的位子上，这种特别安排旨在显示中国的主导地位，引起广泛注意。

After the deployment of Thaad, Beijing, which is Seoul's largest trading partner, encouraged Chinese consumers to boycott South Korean cars, phones, bands, television shows and even kimchi. Using the pretext of safety violations, the Chinese authorities closed half of the 112 stores operated in China by the South Korean conglomerate Lotte, and the company's website was hacked. Chinese tourism to South Korea slowed to a trickle.	韩国同意部署萨德之后,北京曾鼓励中国消费者抵制韩国的商品,比如汽车、手机、乐队、电视节目,甚至泡菜。韩国是中国最大的贸易伙伴。中国当局以安全违规为借口,关闭了韩国乐天集团在中国经营的112家商店中的一半,该公司的网站也被黑客入侵。赴韩旅游的中国游客人数骤减。
There has been only grudging relief.	问题只是勉强得到了改善。
The day after Mr. Lee's visit, the Lotte website was restored. But the stores remain shuttered, possibly pending a positive move by Mr. Moon on the American missile defense system in South Korea.	李海瓚到京后的第二天,乐天网站恢复了正常,但商店仍然关闭,也许,中国在等待文在寅对韩国的美国导弹防御系统采取建设性的行动。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170601/china-south-korea-xi-jin-ping-moon-jaein-thaad	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170601/china-south-korea-xi-jin-ping-moon-jaein-thaad
Trump Hosts Prime Minister Phuc of Vietnam and Announces Trade Deals	越南将成为美国抵御中国的第一道屏障?
WASHINGTON — President Trump welcomed the prime minister of Vietnam to the Oval Office on Wednesday, cutting business deals not long after transferring a Coast Guard cutter to a onetime enemy that the United States now views as a front-line defender against an expansionist China.	华盛顿——特朗普总统周三欢迎越南总理到访椭圆形办公室,双方达成多项商业协议。此前不久,美国将一艘海岸警卫队巡逻船转让给了越南。越南一度是美国的敌人,但现在,美国视其为抵御实行扩张主义的中国的的第一道屏障。
It was Mr. Trump's first meeting with the prime minister, Nguyen Xuan Phuc, and the president had warm words for his guest, despite having raised concerns within the Vietnamese government on both economic and security fronts early in his administration.	这是特朗普与越南总理阮春福(Nguyen Xuan Phuc)的首次会面。对这位来宾,特朗普言辞热情,尽管他上台初期在越南政府内部引起了经济和安全方面的担忧。
Mr. Trump withdrew the United States from the Trans-Pacific	特朗普让美国退出了前任总统贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)达成的地区性

Partnership, a regional trade pact struck by his predecessor, President Barack Obama, of which Vietnam is a member and would be a major beneficiary.	贸易协定“跨太平洋伙伴关系协定”(Trans Pacific Partnership), 而越南正是该协议的成员国和主要受益国。
The president has also relaxed the pressure on China in return for its help in curbing North Korea, which has prompted concerns among Vietnam and its neighbors that the United States might not be as quick to thwart Beijing's territorial ambitions in the South China Sea.	特朗普还减轻了对中国的压力, 以换取中国在限制朝鲜一事上的帮助。这引起了越南及其邻国的担忧, 认为美国可能不会很快阻拦北京在南海的领土野心。
"Prime Minister Phuc has done a spectacular job in Vietnam, led so many different categories in trade and other things," Mr. Trump told reporters before their meeting. "We're going to be discussing trade. We're going to be discussing North Korea. We have many things to talk about and we look forward to being together, very much so."	“阮总理在越南做了一份了不起的工作, 领导着许多不同类型的贸易和其他事务, ”特朗普在双方会面前对记者说。“我们会商讨贸易和朝鲜问题。我们有很多问题要讨论, 我们期待见面, 非常期待。”
Mr. Trump made no mention of Vietnam's human rights abuses, which include the detention of dissident bloggers and religious activists, and have become the subject of persistent interest on Capitol Hill.	特朗普没有提及越南的人权问题, 包括关押持不同政见的博客用户和宗教活动人士。一直以来, 越南的这些做法都受到了美国国会的关注。
"The Vietnamese Politburo has drifted in a more conservative direction," said John Sifton, the Asia advocacy director at Human Rights Watch. "They've become more retrogressive."	“越南政治局转向更保守的方向, ”人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)的亚洲宣传主管约翰·西夫顿(John Sifton)说。“他们变得愈发退步。”
As has been his custom with authoritarian leaders, including Xi Jinping of China and Recep Tayyip Erdogan of Turkey, Mr. Trump avoided raising those issues publicly. The White House press secretary, Sean Spicer, told reporters that in general, the president preferred to raise such issues in private.	特朗普避免公开提出这些问题, 这是他对待威权主义政权领导人的一贯做法, 包括会晤中国国家主席习近平和土耳其总统雷杰普·塔伊普·埃尔多安(Recep Tayyip Erdogan)的时候。白宫新闻发言人肖恩·斯派塞(Sean Spicer)对记者表示, 总的来说, 特朗普总统更愿意在私下里提出这些问题。
Sitting next to Mr. Trump, Mr. Phuc said, "The relationship between Vietnam and the United States has undergone significant upheavals in	与特朗普相邻而坐的阮春福说, “越南与美国的关系在历史上经历了巨大的起伏, 但现在, 我们已经能够成为全面的合作伙伴。”

history, but today we have been able to become comprehensive partners.”
As evidence of that, the two countries concluded more than $15 billion and $17 billion in trade deals, according to Mr. Phuc, mostly for high-tech products, with American companies like General Electric. Vietnam runs a nearly $32 billion trade surplus with the United States, a growing gap that the United States trade representative, Robert Lighthizer, lamented on Tuesday.	据阮春福称，两国分别达成了价值逾 150 亿美元（约合 1000 亿元人民币）和 170 亿美元的贸易协议，主要面向高科技产品，美方的公司包括通用电气 (General Electric) 等。这是上述合作伙伴关系言论的例证。越南与美国的贸易顺差接近 320 亿美元，并且还在不断增加。美国贸易代表罗伯特·莱特希泽 (Robert Lighthizer) 周二对此表示遗憾。
Vietnam was deeply disappointed by Mr. Trump’s decision to pull the United States out of the Trans-Pacific Partnership. But Mr. Phuc said in an interview with Bloomberg Television that the two countries would find “new mechanisms” to increase trade on a bilateral basis.	越南对特朗普决定让美国退出“跨太平洋伙伴关系协定”深感失望。但阮春福在接受彭博电视台 (Bloomberg Television) 的采访时说，两国会找到扩大双边贸易的“新机制”。
In the Oval Office, Mr. Phuc also witnessed Mr. Trump dodging questions about whether he plans to withdraw the United States from the Paris climate accord. Vietnam is a signer of the agreement; with 2,000 miles of coastline and millions of people living in the low-lying Mekong Delta, it is viewed as particularly vulnerable to the effects of rising seas.	在椭圆形办公室里，阮春福也亲眼目睹特朗普回避对他是否打算让美国退出巴黎气候协定的提问。越南是该协议的签署国。外界认为，海岸线长达 2000 英里（约合 3200 公里），并有数百万人生活在地势低洼的湄公河三角洲的越南，特别容易受海平面上升的影响。
“I’m hearing from a lot of people, both ways,” Mr. Trump said of the lobbying on the climate accord. “Both ways.”	“我正在听取很多人的意见，两方面的意见都有，”特朗普说的是各方有关该气候协定的游说活动。“两方面都有。”
Relations between the United States and Vietnam became significantly closer under Mr. Obama. He visited Hanoi last year and announced that the United States would rescind a decades-old ban on sales of lethal military equipment. Vietnam has yet to place an order for such weapons, but the lifting of the embargo was widely seen as an effort to	美国与越南的关系在奥巴马任内明显变得更加亲密。奥巴马去年访问河内，并宣布美国会取消一项实行了数十年的致命性军事装备销售禁令。越南尚未订购这类武器，但外界普遍认为，美国取消该禁令是为了支持越南就其海洋权益主张在南海对抗中国。

bolster Vietnam in its confrontation with China over maritime claims in the South China Sea.
Mr. Trump came into office with the expectation that he would be as tough, or tougher, than Mr. Obama in pushing back on China's ambitions. But after his recent summit meeting with Mr. Xi in Palm Beach, Fla., in which Mr. Trump pressed the Chinese president to use his leverage with North Korea, Mr. Trump softened his words toward Beijing.	特朗普上台时，外界以为他会像奥巴马那样强硬，甚至比奥巴马更强硬地阻拦中国的野心。但在佛罗里达州棕榈滩与习近平举行首脑会议之后，特朗普对北京发出的言论变得相对温和。在那次会面时他曾向习近平施压，要求习对朝鲜施加影响。
The recent transfer of a decommissioned American cutter to the Vietnamese Coast Guard was meant to reassure Vietnam. The vessel, formerly known as the Morgenthau, is designed to patrol coastal waters, making it a deterrent against Chinese aggression. The United States has also transferred six 45-foot patrol boats, known as Metal Sharks, to Vietnam.	最近将一艘退役的美国巡逻船转让给越南海警部队就是为了让越南放心。这艘船之前叫“摩根索号”(Morgenthau)，它的设计功能是在沿海水域巡逻。这让它成了对中国进逼姿态的震慑。美国还向越南转让了六艘 45 英尺（约合 14 米）长的“金属鲨鱼”(Metal Sharks)巡逻艇。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170601/vietnam-nguyen-xuan-phuc-trump	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170601/vietnam-nguyen-xuan-phuc-trump
Christian School Teaches Scions of the Elite in Atheist North Korea	在禁止宗教信仰的朝鲜，一所教会大学如何生存？
SEOUL, South Korea — Set on 250 sprawling acres in North Korea's capital, the Pyongyang University of Science and Technology abides by the cult of the Kim family.	韩国首尔——平壤科技大学位于朝鲜首都，占地 250 英亩（约合 100 公顷），这里处处可见对金氏家族的崇拜。
Atop its main building, large red characters praise "General Kim Jong-un," the country's provocative young leader. At the front of lecture halls hang smiling portraits of his father and grandfather, who led the nation before him.	在其主楼的顶部，有大大红字颂扬“金正恩将军”，即该国爱挑衅的年轻领袖。在讲堂的前面，挂着他父亲和祖父面带微笑的肖像，在金正恩之前，朝鲜由他们领导。
Yet the school is different in one striking way. In a country that bans	然而，这所学校有一个令人瞩目的独特之处：在一个禁止宗教信仰的国家里，

religion, it is run by evangelical Christians.	这所学校是由福音派基督徒管理的。
Founded seven years ago by a South Korea-born American, the school has thrived because of a deal with the leadership. It provides children of the North Korean elite with an education they cannot get elsewhere — computer science, agriculture, international finance and management, all conducted in English by an international faculty. Its teachers, half of them American, are forbidden to preach.	该校是七年前由一位在韩国出生的美国人创办的，它的繁荣得益于和朝鲜领导层的一个交易。它向朝鲜权贵阶层的孩子提供了在别处无法获得的计算机科学、农业、国际金融和管理方面的教育，所有这些课程都由国际教师用英语教学。该校的教师有一半是美国人，所有教师都不得布道。
But the school may offer the North Korean government something else as well: leverage. Since last month the government has arrested two of the school's volunteers, both American citizens.	但学校可能也向朝鲜政府提供一些其他东西：筹码。自上个月以来，朝鲜政府已经逮捕了该校的两名美国籍志愿者。
While the university's chancellor, Park Chan-mo, said the arrests were not related to the teachers' work at the school, the men were accused of "hostile acts," a charge that is often used against people accused of spying or proselytizing.	该校校长朴赞谟(Park Chan-mo)表示，这两次逮捕行动与老师在学校的工作无关，被捕的人被指控有“敌对行为”，这种指控常用于有间谍行为或传教布道者。
That effectively makes them bargaining chips in the high-stakes conflict between Pyongyang and Washington. As Mr. Kim pursues a destabilizing nuclear weapons program and the Trump administration warns that the time for "strategic patience" is over, the school gives the regime access to a rare commodity in their country: American citizens.	这些人实际上成了平壤在与华盛顿的高风险冲突中讨价还价的筹码。就在金正恩推进破坏稳定的核武器计划，特朗普行政当局警告说保持“战略耐心”的阶段已经结束之际，由于该学校的存在，朝鲜政权获得了一种境内罕见的商品：美国公民。
The volunteers' arrests have also cast a light on the school and the ways in which critics say it has, perhaps inadvertently, aided the regime.	志愿者被逮捕的事情把人们的注意力吸引到了这所学校，以及批评者的说法上：也许是在无意之中，它帮助了朝鲜政权。
Some of those critics say the school is training the future elite of a dictatorial regime that abuses human rights and threatens its neighbors with nuclear weapons. Right-wing activists in South Korea accuse the school of educating future hackers.	其中一些批评者说，这所学校正在为一个侵犯人权、对邻国进行核威胁的独裁政权培训未来精英。韩国的右派活动人士指责这所学校在培养未来的黑客。

The school “cannot operate in North Korea without making compromises to the regime — either in money or information — and I am uncomfortable with the extent of such a compromise,” said Suki Kim, who taught English at the university in 2011 as a journalist working undercover. She later described her experience in the book “Without You, There Is No Us.”	这个学校“如果没有向朝鲜政权妥协，无论是在资金还是信息方面，它是无法在该国做任何事情的——而且我对这种妥协的程度感到不安”，金素姬(Suki Kim)说道。她2011年在这所大学教英语，其实是一名卧底记者，后来她在《没有您，就没有我们》(Without You, There Is No Us.)中描述了这段经历。
Many of those compromises are apparent on campus.	那些妥协有些在校园里就很明显。
Students march to the cafeteria singing songs swearing loyalty to Mr. Kim. Course materials have to be approved by the North Korean authorities, who have their own staff members installed on campus. Faculty members must have “guides” with them when they venture off campus.	学生在前往食堂的路上唱着向金正恩效忠的歌曲。课程材料必须经朝鲜当局批准，政府在校内安排了自己的员工。教师要离开校园时，必须有“向导”跟着。
While the foreign faculty has unfiltered access to the internet, most students do not. Teachers have to watch what they say — students are required to report any subversive comments.	虽然外国教师可以不受限制地访问互联网，但大多数学生都不行。教师必须注意他们说了什么——学生需要汇报任何颠覆性言论。
One American professor was deported for trying to give a student a Bible.	一位美国教授试图给学生一本圣经，结果被驱逐出境。
An obelisk at the university, erected by the North Korean authorities and dedicated to Mr. Kim’s grandfather and father, has drawn scorn from outside observers.	朝鲜当局在校园里修建了一座方尖碑，用来纪念金正恩的祖父和父亲，遭到了外界观察家的嘲笑。
“Korean churches have ended up building a temple of idol worship there,” said the Rev. Lee Ho, the leader of the anti-Communist Holy Korea Network.	反共产主义的圣韩网(Holy Korea Network)领导人李浩(Lee Ho, 音)牧师说：“搞了半天，韩国教会在这里建了一个崇拜偶像的神庙。”
The university said the monument and other state propaganda were “obligatory,” and “normal” elements of all schools and other official	该大学说，在朝鲜所有学校和其他官方机构，纪念碑和其他宣传做法都是“强制性的”、“正常的”元素。 establishments in North Korea.

For the staff of about 90 foreign volunteers from a dozen or so countries, teaching at the university is a chance to gain a foothold in an atheistic country by befriending future North Korean leaders and teaching them an international mind-set.	校内有来自十几个国家的大约 90 名外国志愿者，对于他们而言，在这所大学的教学是一个机会：通过与未来的朝鲜领导人交好，并教会他们国际心态，从而在这个无神论国家得以立足。
The volunteers mingle and eat with the 500 or so handpicked students, who live on the campus. Together with their families, the staff members constitute the single largest foreign community in North Korea.	校内住有 500 名左右精心挑选的学生，志愿者与他们交往、一起吃饭。这些工作人员和家属构成了朝鲜最大的外国人社区。
The teachers, many of whom are Korean-American missionaries, are allowed to practice their faith among themselves. But the one inviolable rule is that they are not allowed to proselytize.	老师中有很多是都美国韩裔传教士，他们自己可以遵行信仰。但一个不可侵犯的规则就是，他们不可以劝人改变信仰。
"We want to teach the North Koreans how to catch fish, rather than giving them fish," said Mr. Park, also a Korean-American and a former president of South Korea's prestigious Pohang University of Science and Technology. "This will help narrow the economic gap between the two Koreas and the cost of the eventual reunification."	朴赞谟也是韩裔美国人，曾是韩国著名的浦项科技大学(Pohang University of Science and Technology)的校长，他说：“授人以鱼，不如授之以渔。这将有助于缩小朝韩的经济差距，减小最终统一的代价。”
Thae Yong-ho, a North Korean diplomat who defected to the South last year, said the university was popular among the children of the elite and taught them market principles in a country desperate to modernize its economy. Mr. Thae also dismissed the allegation that the school was training future hackers.	去年叛逃到韩国的朝鲜外交官太永浩(Thae Yong-ho)说，这所大学在权贵阶层的孩子中很受欢迎，朝鲜正在大力推动本国经济现代化，这所学校教会他们市场原则。太永浩驳斥了该学校正在培养未来黑客的传言。
And the university continues to grow, with plans to add a new medical school to the campus in southern Pyongyang.	该校还在继续扩大规模，已经计划在平壤南部的校园增设一个新的医学院。
Despite being in the spotlight, the school is trying to play down the significance of the volunteers' arrests.	尽管处在聚光灯下，该校正试图淡化志愿者被捕的严重性。

One of the detainees, Kim Sang-duk, an accounting teacher who is also known as Tony Kim, had frequently visited the northeast, where he distributed humanitarian aid to children's homes and recently delivered 20,000 blankets to flood victims, school officials said.	其中一名被捕的志愿者名叫金盛德 (Kim Sang-duk, 也叫托尼·金[Tony Kim]), 是会计老师, 经常前往朝鲜的东北部, 向那里的儿童之家分发人道主义救援物资, 最近还向洪水灾民发放了 2 万张毯子。
The other, Kim Hak-song, a Christian pastor, supervised an experimental farm on campus, visiting for a month at a time from China, where he worked as a missionary for a Los Angeles church, according to school officials and the church's website.	另一位是基督教牧师金学松(Kim Hak-song), 他在校园内管理着一个实验农场。据学校官员和洛杉矶一个教会的网站说, 他每个月去一趟中国, 在那里以该教会传教士的身份工作。
Both were detained as they were trying to leave the country. The government has provided no further details on their cases, including whether they are linked.	两人都在试图离开朝鲜的时候遭到了羁押。朝鲜政府没有提供进一步细节, 包括这两个案子之间是否有联系。
"We were told that their detentions had nothing to do with what they did at the school and that otherwise they would have been arrested on the school ground," Mr. Park said during an interview in Seoul, the South Korean capital. "We are praying for them."	朴赞谟在韩国首尔接受采访时表示: "我们被告知, 他们的案子与他们在学校的工作没有任何关系, 否则他们会在学校里被捕。我们在为他们祷告。"
The school has reminded its faculty of local rules, but otherwise life there continues in a "perfectly normal manner," the school said in a statement for this article. Several volunteers from the school have left North Korea in recent days, as planned and without incident, it said.	学校在就本文的一篇声明中说, 该校已经提醒过教员要遵守当地规则, 但其他生活仍然可以"以完全正常的方式"进行。声明还表示, 近日已经有几名志愿者按照原计划离开了朝鲜, 没出任何问题。
The university also says it takes care not to violate United Nations sanctions.	该大学还表示, 它也很注意不要违反联合国的制裁规定。
"We are in regular dialogue with officials in the U.S. and other administrations on this point, including sharing details of our curriculum," the statement said.	声明中说: "我们正在与美国官员和其他主管部门就此事进行定期对话, 包括分享我们的课程细节。"
When the university's founder, Kim Chin-kyung, who is also known as	当该大学的创始人金镇庆 (Chin-kyung Kim, 也称为詹姆斯·金[James

James Kim, visits South Korean churches to raise money, he asks congregants to “pay a price” for reunification and for their fellow Koreans suffering in the North, an appeal that resonates with many Christians in the South.	Kim) 到韩国的教会筹集资金时, 要求会众为了朝韩统一, 为了他们在北方受苦的同胞而“出钱”, 这种呼吁引发了很多韩国基督徒的共鸣。
He argues that reconciliation is the only way to achieve reunification of the divided Korea, and that Christian love can help nurture it.	他认为和解是实现朝韩统一的唯一途径, 基督教之爱有助于培养和解的态度。
“I am not a capitalist, I am not a Communist, I am a love-ist,” he likes to say.	他喜欢说: “我不是资本家, 我不是共产党人, 我是主张爱的人。”
Whether or not that works, the school has surely opened the minds of some students a bit simply by allowing them contact with foreigners.	无论是否有效, 仅仅是让学生与外国人接触, 该校必然开启了一些学生的心智。
Will Scott, an American computer scientist who taught there from 2013 to 2015, said some of his students admitted to “having nightmares” when they first met teachers from the United States, a country they had learned to demonize from childhood.	美国计算机科学家威尔·斯科特(Will Scott)2013年至2015年间曾在那里教书, 他说, 一些学生承认, 最初遇到美国老师的时候“会做噩梦”, 因为他们从小就学会妖魔化美国。
But the students were eventually able to channel their hatred toward the American government and came to accept the individuals they met there.	但学生们最终可以引导自己对美国政府的愤怒情绪, 开始接受他们在那里遇到的个体。
“Many of the students were at the university more for the chance to get to interact with foreigners than for the specific major they were in,” Mr. Scott wrote in a question-and-answer session on Reddit.	“相比于学习特定专业, 这所大学的许多学生来这里更多是为了有机会和外国人交流,” 斯科特在 Reddit 上的一个问答帖子中写道。
But the government tries to reinforce loyalty, requiring the students to take a class on the state ideology of juche, or self-reliance, every Saturday.	但政府竭力强化忠诚意识, 要求学生每周六要上一门有关“主体”这一国家意识形态的课程。
When Chancellor Park complained that the class would not give students enough time to do their homework, he said, a North Korean	朴赞谟校长表示, 当他抗议这门课让学生没有足够的时间做作业时, 一名朝鲜行政官予以了尖锐的反驳。 administrator had a pointed retort.

"Mr. Chancellor," he said, "you yourself go to church every week, don't you?"	"校长先生，"他说，"你自己每周也去教堂，对吗？" https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170602/north-korea-university-christian-evangelical	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170602/north-korea-university-christian-evangelical
Australian Politics Is Open to Foreign Cash, and China Has Much to Gain	政治捐赠软腐败，澳大利亚难挡中国人金钱诱惑
SYDNEY, Australia — As the United States investigates Russia's efforts to sway last year's presidential election, Australia is engaged in a heated debate over how vulnerable its own political system is to foreign influence — and whether China is already meddling in it.	澳大利亚悉尼——就在美国调查俄罗斯干扰去年总统大选之际，澳大利亚也开始热烈讨论该国的政治制度有多么容易遭受外国的影响——以及中国是否已经在干预它。
The issue was thrust to the forefront this week by a report that Australia's intelligence chief had identified two prominent businessmen of Chinese descent, who have donated millions across the political spectrum in recent years, as possible agents for the Chinese government.	本周，澳大利亚的情报负责人证实两位著名华商有可能是中国政府代理人的报道，将这个问题推至关注的中心。
One of the donors is said to have withdrawn a large contribution last year because of a political party's position on the disputed South China Sea, suggesting a back-room effort to shift public discussion of a delicate policy issue in Beijing's favor.	据说，其中一名捐赠者因为不同意某政党在南海争议上的立场，已经撤出了大笔捐款，这暗示着存在幕后操作，希望引导公众在一个敏感政策的讨论上朝着有利于北京的方向发展。
The question of Chinese interference is a sensitive one for Australia, an American ally that has embraced Beijing as its largest trade partner and welcomed Chinese investors and immigrants in large numbers. The political establishment here has generally been reluctant to tackle the issue.	对于澳大利亚来说，来自中国的干涉是一个很敏感的问题。澳大利亚是美国的盟友，北京是其最大的贸易伙伴，它对大量来自中国的投资者和移民持欢迎态度。该国的政治建制派一般不太愿意去处理这个问题。

But the nation is now asking how a multicultural society should police a Communist power that has a record of mobilizing, and sometimes bullying, ethnic Chinese overseas to support its goals — and how it can do so without succumbing to racist xenophobia that treats everyone of Chinese descent as suspects. China’s attempts to translate its economic might into political influence have caused unease in many countries. But the challenge is acute in Australia.	但现在，澳大利亚想知道：一个多元文化社会应该如何监督一股共产主义势力——这股势力曾动员中国侨民来支持自己目标，有时甚至采取威逼方式——以及在做到这一点的同时，又不把每个中国人当成嫌疑犯，造成种族主义仇外心理呢。中国试图将其经济实力转化为政治影响力的做法，已经让很多国家感到不安。但澳大利亚面临的挑战尤为激烈。
Many Australians view good ties with China as critical to their future prosperity, and Australia is an especially enticing target for Beijing because of its strategic value in the Pacific — and because foreign donations are both legal and difficult to track in its loose, opaque campaign finance system.	很多澳大利亚人都认为，良好的澳中关系对自己未来的繁荣至关重要，由于澳大利亚在太平洋地区的战略价值，它对北京是一个特别诱人的目标——而且来自外国的捐款在澳大利亚不仅合法，而且在其松散、不透明的竞选财务系统中难以进行追踪。
By contrast, such donations are largely banned in the United States, Canada and throughout most of Europe.	在美国、加拿大和欧洲大部分地区，这种捐款在很大程度上是被禁止的。
“It’s not so much that China is more active but that Australia is more receptive in some respects and more vulnerable,” said John Fitzgerald, a professor at Swinburne University of Technology in Melbourne, Australia, who studies civil society in China.	在澳大利亚墨尔本斯威本科技大学(Swinburne University of Technology)研究中国公民社会的教授费约翰(John Fitzgerald)说：“这不在于中国的活跃程度，而在于澳大利亚在某些方面更加来者不拒，更容易受危害。”
Concern about the influence of Chinese money has been building for years and erupted again with new disclosures about the two businessmen, both billionaire property developers: Chau Chak Wing, an Australian citizen, and Huang Xiangmo, an Australian resident who has applied for citizenship.	多年来，澳大利亚对于中国资金的影响一直心存担忧，随着两个亿万富豪房地产开发商的事情有新的曝光，这种担忧再次激增。这两人一个是澳大利亚公民周泽荣(Chau Chak Wing)，另一个是已经提出入籍申请的澳大利亚居民黄向墨。
Duncan Lewis, the director of the Australian Security Intelligence Organization, warned leading political parties two years ago against	据费尔法克斯媒体(Fairfax Media)和时事电视节目《四角》(Four Corners)的联合报道，澳大利亚安全情报机构主管邓肯·刘易斯(Duncan Lewis)两年

accepting contributions from the men because of their ties to the Chinese government, according to a joint report by Fairfax Media newspapers and "Four Corners," a current affairs television program.	前曾就主要政党在接受一些与中国政府有关者的捐款提出了警告。
But the Liberal Party and its governing coalition partners, as well as the opposition Labor Party, continued to take the money. The news organizations found that the men and their associates had made at least $5 million in political donations in Australia in recent years, including more than $820,000 since Mr. Lewis's warning.	但自由党(Liberal Party)及其执政联盟伙伴继续在接受这些捐款，反对派工党(Labor Party)也是一样。这两家新闻机构发现，这些捐赠者及其同伙近年捐给澳大利亚政界至少 500 万美元，其中包括在刘易斯发出警告之后的 82 万美元。
The most striking disclosure, though, revolves around a donation that did not occur. As a general election approached last year, Mr. Huang pledged to give an additional $300,000 to the Labor Party. But weeks before the vote, the report said, he rescinded the offer and made clear why: He was upset about a party official saying Australia should send naval patrols to challenge Beijing's claims to the South China Sea.	但最引人注目的爆料集中在没有发生的捐赠上。去年大选临近时，黄向墨承诺向工党再捐赠 30 万美元。该报道称，在投票几周前，他撤销了这个承诺，并清楚说明了原因：他对一名表示澳大利亚应该派海军参与巡逻行动、挑战北京在南海领土主张的政党官员很不满。
The Pentagon has urged Australia to join it on such patrols, but the government has resisted.	五角大楼一直敦促澳大利亚加入这一巡逻行动，但遭到澳大利亚政府的拒绝。
On Tuesday, Prime Minister Malcolm Turnbull said he was preparing legislation to ban foreign political donations. "Just as modern China was based on an assertion of national sovereignty, so China should always respect the sovereignty of other nations, including our own," he said.	周二，澳大利亚总理马尔科姆·特恩布尔(Malcolm Turnbull)说，他正在准备立法禁止外国政治捐赠。“正如现代中国是以国家主权为基础建立起来的，中国也应该始终尊重包括我们在内的其他国家的主权，”他说。
But the broader problem may be the role of big money in Australian politics. Campaign financing is largely unregulated, with no limits on fund-raising, donations or spending, and critics say that has resulted in a culture of soft corruption that Chinese donors have learned to exploit	但更大的问题是，大笔资金在澳大利亚的政治中所扮演的角色。竞选筹资在很大程度上是不受管制的，筹集资金、捐款或支出都有限制，批评者称这已经导致了一种软腐败的文化，中国捐赠者与澳大利亚的其他企业利益集团都在利用这种文化。

alongside other corporate interests in Australia.
At the federal level, it takes seven to 19 months for the public to learn how much parties have raised and from whom, and donors are identified only if they have contributed more than 13,500 Australian dollars, or about $10,000. As a result, individuals, and corporations, can anonymously make multiple donations below that threshold. At the same time, Australian politicians are not required to explain what they do with the money.	在联邦层面，公众需要7到19个月的时间才能了解一个党派获得了多少捐赠，来自哪里，而且只有在捐赠超过1.35万澳元（约合人民币7万元）才需要记下捐赠者的名字。因此，只要每次不超过这个金额，个人和企业可以进行多次捐赠。与此同时，澳大利亚政治家们不需要解释他们是怎么使用这些钱的。
"What we have is a thick shroud of secrecy regarding political donations at the federal level," said Joo-Cheong Tham, an associate professor at Melbourne Law School. "I think that clearly gives rise to the perception, at the very least, of corruption and undue influence."	"联邦政治层面的政治捐赠水太深，"墨尔本大学法学院(Melbourne Law School)副教授谭朱程（Joo-Cheong Tham，音）说。"我认为，显然这至少让人们感觉到存在腐败和不正当的影响。"
Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson hinted at Washington's concern after meetings in Sydney on Monday. "We cannot allow China to use its economic power to buy its way out of other problems," he said.	周一，美国国务卿托雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)在悉尼与澳方官员举行会谈后，暗示了华盛顿对此事的担心。他说："我们不能让中国利用其经济实力来买通摆脱其他问题。"
A report by the Australian Broadcasting Corporation last year concluded that businesses and individuals "with Chinese connections" had donated more than 5.5 million Australian dollars to the main political parties from 2013 to 2015, "making them easily the largest source of foreign-linked donations."	澳大利亚广播公司去年的一个报道得出结论说，从2013年到2015年，"和中国有联系"的企业和个人向主要政党捐赠了逾550万澳元（约合人民币2800万元），"轻而易举地成为了外国捐款的最大来源。"
But defining what a "Chinese connection" is and when it should matter is contentious.	但是，对于"和中国有联系"的界定，以及在什么时候它是个问题，这是存在争议的。
More than 4 percent of Australia's population is of Chinese ancestry, and Chinese-Australians often confront suspicion when they invest or become involved in politics.	澳大利亚4%以上的人口有华人血统，澳大利亚华裔在投资或参政时经常面临着怀疑。

"We've just got to be so careful with what we mean by 'foreigner,' because if we mean by 'foreigner' people who are born overseas, that includes many Australians, including myself," Professor Tham said. "It disenfranchises people who are legitimately members of this community."	"我们必须对'外国人'的含义非常小心才行,因为如果我们指的'外国人'是在海外出生的人,那就把很多澳大利亚人涵盖在内了,包括我自己。"谭教授说,"这样做是在剥夺这个群体合法成员的权利。"
One of the donors flagged by Australian intelligence, Dr. Chau, immigrated decades ago. He has long maintained that his campaign contributions are benign and unrelated to the Chinese government. But his profile suggests close ties with the Chinese authorities, and his political contacts in Australia would enhance his stature in China.	澳大利亚情报部门列出的一个捐赠者周泽荣,是在几十年前移民到澳大利亚的。他一直坚称自己对竞选运动的捐赠是良性的,而且和中国政府无关。但他的个人资料表明,他和中国当局存在密切的联系,他在澳大利亚的政治联系可以提升他在中国的地位。
His company, the Kingold Group, and its sprawling real estate empire are based in the southern Chinese city of Guangzhou. He also has invested in a newspaper there, linking him to the state propaganda apparatus, and is a member of a provincial body that advises the Communist Party.	他的公司侨鑫集团(Kingold Group)及其庞大的房地产帝国位于中国南方城市广州。他还在那里投资了一家报纸,通过这种方式和国家宣传机构挂上钩,另外他还是一个为共产党提供咨询建议的省级机构的成员。
The other donor, Mr. Huang, moved to Australia six years ago and leads the Australian Council for the Promotion of the Peaceful Reunification of China, which consistently promotes Beijing's foreign policy positions, including its assertion that Taiwan is part of China and opposition to independence for Tibet.	另一位捐赠人黄向墨于六年前迁居澳大利亚。他是澳洲中国和平统一促进会(Australian Council for the Promotion of Peaceful Reunification of China)会长,该组织坚持宣传北京的外交政策立场,包括声称台湾是中国的一部分,反对西藏独立等等。
Though such views are common among Chinese, Mr. Huang's fortune — the holdings of his Yuhu Group range from agriculture to shopping malls — means his voice commands attention.	黄向墨的这些主张虽然在中国人中很常见,但他的财富——玉湖集团涉足从农业到购物中心的多种产业——意味着他的声音会引起关注。
In an editorial published in a state-run newspaper in China last year, he said coverage about Chinese contributions distorting Australian politics	在中国一家官方报纸去年刊登的一篇评论文章中,他说,有关华人的捐款扭曲澳大利亚政治的报道是种族偏见。他接着表示,在很长时间里,外界总认

was racially biased. He added that the Chinese community in Australia had long been expected to pay tribute to politicians with donations but stay quiet on policy; he urged people to speak up instead.	为在澳华人群体会用捐款的方式向政治人物表示敬意，但在政策上保持安静；他呼吁民众发出声音。
"The Chinese realize that they need to make their voices heard in the political circle so as to seek more interests for the Chinese," he told reporters recently.	"华人意识到他们需要在政界发出自己的声音，以便为华人争取更多利益，"他最近对记者说。
In a statement on Tuesday, though, he denied linking his donations to foreign policy. "I expect nothing in return," he said. "While some seek to reinforce negative stereotypes about Chinese involvement in Australia, I am committed to more positive pursuits."	但在周二的一份声明中，他否认把自己的捐款和外交政策联系在一起。"我不指望获得任何回报，"他说。"尽管一些人寻求强化对华人参与澳大利亚事务的消极成见，我忠实于更积极的追求。"
Chen Yonglin, a former Chinese consular official in Australia who defected in 2005, said the donations disclosed so far were "very small compared to the transactions completed under the table," including free trips to China and other gifts to politicians that can be impossible to track.	2005年叛逃的前中国驻澳大利亚领馆官员陈用林说，目前曝光的捐款"和幕后完成的交易相比金额非常小"，包括免费的中国之旅和送给政界人物的其他不可能追查的礼物。
The uproar has focused attention on a revolving door in which politicians sometimes go to work for Chinese companies after leaving office. The former trade minister, Andrew Robb, who negotiated a trade pact with China, was reported to have received a part-time consulting contract worth more than $650,000 a year from a Chinese billionaire.	在此次轩然大波中，外界把重点放在了"旋转门"，即政界人物有时会在离任后为中国公司工作的问题上。据报道，与中国谈成了一项贸易协定的前贸易部长安德鲁·罗布(Andrew Robb)收到了一名中国富豪年薪逾65万美元的兼职顾问合同。
China's growing leverage over academia has also come under scrutiny as universities have become increasingly dependent on tuition paid by Chinese students and, in some cases, donations from Chinese benefactors. The fear is that Beijing is using this leverage to stifle critical views.	随着大学越来越依赖中国学生支付的学费，有时候还有中国捐赠人的捐款，中国对学术界日渐增强的影响也受到了关注。有人担心北京正在利用这种影响力压制批评意见。

Dr. Chau, for example, gave $15 million to the University of Technology Sydney for a building that bears his name, and Mr. Huang's money helped establish the Australia-China Relations Institute at the university, which is overseen by a former foreign minister, Bob Carr.	比如,周泽荣向悉尼科技大学(University of Technology Sydney)捐款 1500 万美元, 修建了一栋以他的名字命名的建筑, 黄向墨的捐款则帮助在该校成立了澳大利亚-中国关系研究院(Australia-China Relations Institute), 由澳大利亚前外长鲍勃·卡尔(Bob Carr)担任院长。
Mr. Carr argues that the institute is independent of Beijing's influence. But Feng Chongyi, a professor at the university who has criticized the Communist Party's efforts to suppress dissent, said the institute had repeatedly brushed off his efforts to get involved.	卡尔辩称澳中关系研究院不受北京的影响。但该校对中共镇压异见人士的做法持批评态度的教授冯崇义说, 该研究院多次拒绝他的参与请求。
Professor Feng said Australia must decide whether money or values defined its politics.	冯崇义说, 澳大利亚必须确定, 决定其政治的是金钱还是价值观。
"The question is whether you're willing to make sacrifices to fight these illiberal tendencies," he said, in his tiny office near the gleaming Dr. Chau Chak Wing Building on campus. "If you don't maintain your core values, it's all just business."	"问题是你是否愿意做出牺牲, 与这些专制趋势作斗争," 他在位于悉尼科技大学校内的狭小办公室里说, 旁边就是熠熠生辉的周泽荣博士商科大楼。"如果不维护自己的核心价值观, 一切都只是生意而已。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170607/china-political-influence-campaign-finance	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170607/china-political-influence-campaign-finance
Xi Jinping and Jerry Brown of California Meet to Discuss Climate Change	绕过特朗普, 中国与加利福尼亚谈气候合作
BEIJING — President Xi Jinping of China met on Tuesday with Gov. Jerry Brown of California, embracing one of President Trump's most prominent critics on the environment as China prepares to take a more commanding role in fighting climate change.	北京——在中国准备在应对气候变化上发挥更大作用之际, 中国国家主席习近平周二会见了加利福尼亚州州长杰里·布朗(Jerry Brown), 对特朗普总统环境方面最主要的批评者之一表示了欢迎。
The meeting, coming five days after Mr. Trump announced that the United States would abandon the landmark Paris climate accord, was notable in its symbolism, with Mr. Xi welcoming a man who has vowed	五天前, 特朗普宣布美国将退出具有里程碑意义的巴黎气候协定。这场会面中, 习近平对一位誓要向特朗普的环境政策发起一场“对抗运动”的人表示欢迎, 其象征意义值得注意。 to unleash a "countermovement" against Mr. Trump's environmental policies.

Mr. Xi and Mr. Brown spent 45 minutes discussing ideas that Mr. Trump has treated skeptically, including efforts to reduce carbon emissions and promote alternative energy.	习近平和布朗花了 45 分钟的时间讨论了在特朗普看来有待商榷的理念，包括减少碳排放和促进替代能源使用的努力。
"It's highly significant that the governor of California can meet with the president of China, talking about very specific issues on the foremost challenge of our time — namely, climate change," Mr. Brown told reporters after the meeting, which took place at the Great Hall of the People in Beijing.	会见在北京人民大会堂举行，布朗在之后对记者说，“加州州长能与中国国家主席见面，就我们这个时代面临的最重要挑战——气候变化——讨论非常具体的问题，具有十分重大的意义。”
Mr. Brown, who was attending an energy conference in the capital, said Mr. Xi did not speak critically of Mr. Trump but welcomed California's efforts to work with the Chinese government to help combat global warming.	来北京参加能源会议的布朗说，习近平没有批评特朗普，但对加州与中国政府合作、共同应对全球变暖的努力表示欢迎。
"He expressed very positive feelings about the role of California, about America and Chinese cooperation, and about the role of China in dealing with the larger problems of humanity," Mr. Brown said.	“他对加州的作用、美中合作，以及中国在应对人类所面对的更大问题上的作用，表示出了非常积极的态度，”布朗说。
It is unusual for Mr. Xi to meet with governor-level officials from other countries. His meeting with Mr. Brown was covered extensively by the government-controlled news media and featured as one of the top stories on evening news programs.	习近平与其他国家州长级别的官员见面很不寻常。中国政府控制的新闻媒体对他与布朗的会面进行了大范围的报道，将会面作为了晚间新闻节目的主要内容。
The United States energy secretary, Rick Perry, also attended the energy conference in Beijing on Tuesday, but there were no reports that he had met with Mr. Xi.	美国能源部长里克·佩里(Rich Perry)周二也出席了在北京举行的能源会议，但没有他与习近平见面的报道。
During a panel discussion on Tuesday, Mr. Perry spoke about storing or	在周二的一个小组讨论中，佩里谈到了储存或使用排放出来的二氧化碳、使

using carbon dioxide emissions so that they do not enter the atmosphere. He did not mention Mr. Trump's decision to abandon the climate agreement, and he did not answer questions from reporters after the event.	其不进入大气层的问题。他没有提及特朗普退出气候协议的决定，也没有回答记者在会后向他提出的问题。
The embryonic and still costly carbon capture technology is seen by some energy officials and supporters of fossil fuel use as a way to extend the lives of coal power plants and to maintain industrial production that would otherwise pump even more emissions into the air.	一些能源官员和支持使用化石燃料的人，将这种尚未成熟、成本仍很高的碳捕集技术，当作一种延长燃煤发电厂寿命、维持某些工业生产方法的手段，如果不用这种技术，将会把更多的二氧化碳排放到大气中。
The technology to capture and store or safely use carbon emissions "is a critical low-carbon technology that we must deploy to reduce emissions at the required scale from coal and gas-fire power plants, and the only option for decarbonizing high-emission process industries," Mr. Perry said. "We don't have to pit the environment against the economy. We can, and we will be, good stewards of both."	捕集并储存、或安全使用碳排放的技术"是一个关键的低碳技术，我们必须用它来把燃煤和天然气发电厂的排放降低到所需的水平，这也是让高排放流程行业除碳的唯一选择，"佩里说。"我们不必把环境作为经济的对立面。我们能够、而且将会在这两个方面都把事情做好。"
Mr. Brown said that since Mr. Trump's decision to take the United States out of the Paris climate agreement, many people had been looking to China to take a prominent role in the fight against climate change.	布朗说，自从特朗普决定让美国退出巴黎气候协定后，许多人都在期待中国在应对气候变化上起更重要的作用。
"California's leading, China's leading," Mr. Brown said. "It's true I didn't come to Washington, I came to Beijing. Well, someday I'm going to go to Washington, but not this week."	"加州在带头，中国在带头，"布朗说。"的确，我没有去华盛顿，而是来了北京。不过，我总有一天要去华盛顿，但不是这周。"
Mr. Brown has spent the past several days traveling around China to meet with Chinese officials about efforts to reduce carbon emissions and promote green technologies. He signed agreements with officials in the southwestern province of Sichuan and the eastern province of	过去几天里，布朗一直在中国各地访问，与中国官员会面，讨论减少碳排放、促进绿色技术的努力。他与西南地区四川省的官员以及东部地区江苏省的官员签定了协议。

Jiangsu.
California operates a cap-and-trade market, allowing companies to buy and sell greenhouse gas emission allowances, making it more costly for companies to emit at high levels, and China plans to start a national emissions trading plan by the end of this year. Mr. Xi welcomed greater Californian participation in China's efforts to clean up its pollution, Mr. Brown said, but he added that their discussions did not go into details.	加州已经开设了一个“排放限额与交易”市场，公司可以在市场上购买和出售自己的温室气体排放配额，这将让公司的高排放有更高的成本，中国计划在今年年底前启动本国的排放交易计划。习近平对加州更多地参与中国清理污染的努力表示欢迎，布朗说，但他补充说，他们两人的讨论没有进入更详细的层次。
"I believe that he definitely gave the green light for more collaboration between China and California, and I would say other states, through this subnational arrangement," Mr. Brown said of Mr. Xi.	"我相信，他明确地为让中国与加州、我觉得也包括其他州通过国家层次之下的协议进行更多的合作开了绿灯，"布朗说，他指的是习近平。
Mr. Brown said he had a relationship with Mr. Xi that traces its roots back to his first stint as governor of California in the 1970s, when he met Mr. Xi's father, Xi Zhongxun, a senior Chinese official who visited the state. Mr. Brown said he met Mr. Xi himself when he came to California for a summit meeting with President Barack Obama at the Sunnylands estate in 2013.	布朗说，他与习近平的关系可追溯到20世纪70年代他首次担任加州州长的年代，布朗曾在那时与习近平的父亲、到访加州的中国高级官员习近平的父亲见过面。布朗说，2013年，习近平来加州“阳光之乡”庄园与贝拉克·奥巴马总统举行峰会时，他也曾与习近平本人见面。
"I think there is a good feeling between us," Mr. Brown said.	"我觉得，我们之间有好感，"布朗说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170607/xi-jinping-china-jerry-brown-california-climate	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170607/xi-jinping-china-jerry-brown-california-climate
North Korea Fires More Missiles as Seoul Puts Off U.S. Defense System	韩国暂停部署萨德，朝鲜再发数枚导弹
TOKYO — North Korea launched several cruise missiles from its east coast toward the ocean on Thursday in its fourth missile test in four weeks, the South Korean military said.	东京——韩国军方表示，周四，朝鲜向东部海域发射了几枚巡航导弹，这是它在四周内进行的第四次导弹试验。
The launches came just a day after the administration of the newly elected South Korean president, Moon Jae-in, said it was suspending	就在发射前一天，新当选的韩国总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)的政府表示，韩国正暂停部署美国的一个导弹防御系统。而在不到一周前，联合国安理会扩

the deployment of an American missile defense system, and less than a week after the United Nations Security Council expanded sanctions against North Korea.	大了对朝鲜的制裁。
According to a statement from South Korea's joint chiefs of staff, reported by the Yonhap news agency, the missiles appeared to be surface-to-ship missiles.	韩国联合通讯社(Yonhap)报道称, 根据韩国参谋长联席会议(Joint Chiefs of Staff)的一项声明, 那些导弹似乎是地对舰导弹。
Thursday was the 10th time this year that North Korea tested missiles.	周四的试验是朝鲜今年进行的第 10 次导弹试验。
Mr. Moon suspended the deployment of the missile defense system — called Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or Thaad — in an apparent concession to China and a significant break with the United States on policy toward North Korea.	文在寅暂停部署萨德(Thaad)导弹防御系统, 明显是向中国让步, 也代表着在对朝政策上与美国的重大决裂。
In comments to reporters on Wednesday, a senior official from the presidential Blue House in Seoul said that two launchers already installed could remain, but that four launchers yet to be deployed would not be set up until the administration completed an environmental assessment.	周三, 首尔总统官邸青瓦台的一名高级官员对记者说, 两辆已经部署的发射车可以保留, 但另外四辆尚未部署的发射车要先等政府完成环境评估。
The missile defense system has been contentious in South Korea and has drawn sharp criticism from China, which views the system's radar as a threat. Beijing has taken retaliatory economic measures against Seoul, including curtailing the flow of Chinese tourists and punishing South Korean companies in China.	该导弹防御系统在韩国引发了争议, 同时遭到了中国的尖锐批评, 后者认为该系统的雷达是对自己的威胁。北京对首尔采取了报复性经济措施, 包括减少赴韩中国游客, 惩罚在华韩国企业。
During his campaign, Mr. Moon, who won the presidency last month, complained that the United States and the previous South Korean administration had rushed to deploy Thaad in order to present him with a fait accompli. His decision to suspend the installation could strain	上月赢得总统大选的文在寅在竞选期间抱怨称, 美国和前韩国政府匆忙部署萨德, 意在给他制造一个既成事实。他暂停部署的决定可能会导致与白宫的关系紧张, 白宫在对抗朝鲜及其核武器计划上采取强硬路线。这也可能会破坏美国联合日本和韩国对朝鲜采取一致强硬立场的努力。

relations with the White House, which has taken a hard line in confronting North Korea and its nuclear weapons program. It could also hurt American efforts to present a tough, unified position with Japan and South Korea against the North.
Mr. Moon, who has said he wants to resolve the nuclear crisis through dialogue, has also suggested that South Korea must “learn to say no” to Washington. He has already signaled a softening stance toward North Korea by encouraging aid groups to visit the country, although the North has rejected those offers since Seoul supported new United Nations sanctions.	文在寅已表示，他想通过对话来解决核危机。他也提出，韩国应该“学会对华盛顿说不”。他已经向朝鲜表露出更温和的姿态，鼓励援助团访问朝鲜，不过，朝鲜拒绝了那些帮助，因为首尔支持联合国的新制裁决定。
Analysts said that as people protested the Thaad installation and South Korean businesses pressured the government to improve relations with China, Mr. Moon might have decided that suspending the progress of the system was politically expedient.	分析人士表示，由于民众抗议部署萨德，再加上韩国公司向政府施压，希望改进与中国的关系，所以，文在寅可能认为，暂停部署萨德是政治上的权宜之计。
“I think he is trying to find a diplomatic way to slow down the process to placate the business community and placate his political supporters,” said Stephen R. Nagy, senior associate professor of politics and international studies at International Christian University in Tokyo.	“我认为，他在努力寻找一条外交途径，放缓这个过程，以安抚企业界和自己的政治支持者，”东京国际基督教大学(International Christian University)的政治和国际关系研究高级副教授斯蒂芬·R·纳吉(Stephen R. Nagy)说。
Mr. Moon may also have sensed that China was not going to back down. When Lee Hae-chan, South Korea’s special presidential envoy, visited Beijing last month, President Xi Jinping did not concede anything. China’s strategy is to stand firm against Thaad to force Mr. Moon to modify or even eliminate the system, which the Chinese suspect he does not like, either.	文在寅可能也感觉到中国不会让步。上个月，韩国总统特使李海瓚(Lee Hae-chan)访问北京时，习近平主席没有做出任何让步。中国的战略是坚决反对萨德，迫使文在寅修改甚至取消该系统，而中国猜测文在寅也不喜欢该系统。
The defense system officially went into operation in late April on an	4月底，该防御系统在首尔东南135英里的星州郡的一个废弃高尔夫球场正

abandoned golf course in Seongju, 135 miles southeast of Seoul, when two of six launchers were installed. United States military officials say it is "operational and has the ability to intercept North Korean missiles."	式开始运行，六辆发射车中有两辆已安装到位。美国军方官员表示，该系统“运行正常，有能力拦截朝鲜的导弹”。
This week, Mr. Moon accused the Defense Ministry of trying to dodge a required environmental assessment.	本周，文在寅指责国防部试图躲避法律要求的一项环境评估。
In South Korea, any military installation on a site larger than 330,000 square meters requires a full analysis of the potential environmental and social effects. The ministry divided the site, which is 700,000 square meters, into two parcels to expedite the installation.	在韩国，大于 33 万平方米的场地安装任何军事设备都需要对潜在的环境和社会影响进行全面分析。为了加快安装进程，国防部将这块 70 万平方米的场地分成了两块。
Supporters of Mr. Moon said he was simply working to ensure that the Thaad battery complied with the law.	文在寅的支持者表示，他只是努力确保萨德遵守法律。
"The previous administration wasn't really clear and transparent about the review process, and basically, this is a legal procedure," said Choi Jong-kun, a professor of political science at Yonsei University in Seoul.	“上届政府的评估过程并不清晰透明，从根本上讲，这是一个法律程序，”首尔延世大学(Yonsei University)的政治学教授崔钟建(Choi Jong-kun)说。
Mr. Choi said the president was eager to follow the legal procedure given that his predecessor, Park Geun-hye, was impeached and ousted after accusations of corruption.	崔钟建表示，现任总统渴望遵守法律程序，因为他的前任朴槿惠(Park Geun-hye)因遭到腐败指控而被弹劾罢黜。
A spokeswoman for the American forces in South Korea referred requests for comment to the Blue House.	一位驻韩美军发言人将置评请求推给了青瓦台。
American military officials noted that the system became operational in April and therefore could provide basic, limited defense in the event of a North Korean attack, even if the additional launchers were not deployed.	美国军方官员指出，该系统从 4 月份开始运行，因此能够在朝鲜发动攻击时提供有限的、基础的防御，尽管其他发射车尚未部署到位。
"We continue to work with the Korean government on this and have been transparent about our actions through this process," said Capt.	“我们继续在此问题上与韩国政府合作，在整个过程中保持我们行动的透明，”五角大楼发言人杰夫·戴维斯上校(Capt. Jeff Davis)说。

Jeff Davis, a Pentagon spokesman.
Pentagon officials noted that the missile defense deployment was a result of an agreement reached last year. But they also acknowledged that, since President Trump has pulled out of international agreements reached by his predecessor, Barack Obama, there is precedent for Mr. Moon's move.	五角大楼官员指出，该导弹防御部署是基于去年达成的一项协议。不过他们也承认，既然特朗普总统退出了他的前任贝拉克·奥巴马达成的一些国际协议，那么文在寅的行动也是有先例可循。
Opponents of Mr. Moon said the suspension was probably a first step toward rejecting the defense system altogether. Oh Shin-hwan, a spokesman for the conservative-leaning Bareun Party, said in a statement that because the environmental review would take more than a year to complete, "the government does not intend to deploy the remaining four launchers."	文在寅的反对者表示，暂停部署很可能是完全放弃该防御系统的第一步。具有保守主义倾向的正党(Bareun Party)的发言人吴申焕(Oh Shin-hwan)在一份声明中表示，由于环境评估需要花费一年多的时间才能完成，“所以政府并不打算部署剩下的四辆发射车”。
"North Korean provocations are occurring almost every day," the statement said. "And South Korea is saying that it will defend the country with half of the Thaad system."	"朝鲜几乎每天都在挑衅，"该声明称，"而韩国却说它要用半个萨德系统来保卫国家。"
Analysts said it was too early to predict the outcome of the assessment. The early deployment "was rushed, so if the rush has been slowed down a bit, it's not the end of the world," said Gordon Flake, the chief executive of the Perth-U.S. Asia Center at the University of Western Australia.	分析人士表示，现在预测评估结果为时尚早。西澳大学(University of Western Australia)的珀斯-美国亚洲研究中心(Perth-U.S. Asia Center)主任戈登·弗雷克(Gordon Flake)表示，早期的部署“很仓促，所以现在放慢一点，也不是世界末日”。
But, he added, Mr. Moon "has to be aware of a fundamentally changed strategic environment in the last several years in Northeast Asia." As North Korea rapidly develops the capability to strike Japan and American bases in the region, Mr. Flake said, "decisions that South Korea makes have regional and global implications."	不过他补充说，文在寅“必须意识到，在过去几年里，东北亚的战略环境发生了根本性变化”。弗雷克表示，由于朝鲜打击该地区日美军事基地的能力快速提高，所以“韩国的决定会产生地区性和全球性影响”。

Scott A. Snyder, senior fellow for Korea studies and director of the program on United States-Korea policy at the Council on Foreign Relations, said in an email that American officials should explain the need for the defense system to the new administration, and that Mr. Moon's supporters should not reject it simply because Ms. Park had approved it or give in to pressure from China.	朝鲜问题高级研究员、美国对外关系委员会(Council on Foreign Relations)美韩政策项目主任斯科特·A·施耐德(Scott A. Snyder)在接受电子邮件采访时表示,美国官员应该向新政府解释该防御系统的必要性,文在寅的支持者不应该仅仅因为朴槿惠批准了它而排斥它,也不应该迫于中国的压力而放弃它。
"Thaad is at risk of becoming overly politicized," Mr. Snyder wrote. "And both sides need to take a deep breath and reaffirm common objectives and means for dealing with them rather than allowing Thaad to become a neuralgic and reflexive object of confrontation."	"萨德有可能被过于政治化,"施耐德写道,"双方需要冷静下来,重新确定共同目标以及实现目标的方式,而不应该让萨德成为一个神经质的、不假思索的冲突对象。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170608/c08korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170608/c08korea
Japan Arrests Longest-Sought Fugitive After Nearly 46 Years	日本在逃 46 年逃犯被捕,系激进左派核心成员
The police in Japan have arrested the country's longest-sought fugitive, ending the hunt for a radical leftist accused of killing a police officer nearly 46 years ago.	日本警方逮捕了该国追捕时间最长的逃犯,结束了近 46 年的追捕,嫌疑人是一名激进左派人士,被控杀害一名警员。
The authorities this week confirmed the identity of the fugitive, Masaaki Osaka, 67, who was arrested last month in Hiroshima on a separate charge and refused to give his name, according to Kyodo, the Japanese news agency.	这名逃犯是 67 岁的大阪正明(Masaaki Osaka),日本通讯社共同社表示,当局在本周证实了他的身份。上个月他在广岛因另外一个指控被捕,但拒绝透露自己的名字。
The police said they identified Mr. Osaka through DNA testing. A new arrest warrant was issued on Wednesday.	警方表示,他们通过 DNA 检测确定了大阪正明的身份,于本周三发布了新的逮捕令。
Mr. Osaka is accused of killing Tsuneo Nakamura, a Tokyo police officer, on Nov. 14, 1971, when he threw a homemade gasoline bomb during a protest in Japan's capital. Both men were 21 at the time.	大阪正明被指控在 1971 年 11 月 14 日杀害了东京警员中村恒雄(Tsuneo Nakamura),当时他在日本首都的一个抗议活动中向其投掷了一枚自制汽油弹。两人当时都是 21 岁。
The police clashed with thousands of activists during the protest	那次活动抗议的是美日之间的一个条约,它将冲绳的主权归还给日本政府,

against a treaty between the United States and Japan that resulted in the reversion of Osaka's sovereignty to the Japanese government but allowed for a continued American military presence in the prefecture. Mr. Nakamura was killed and three other officers were wounded in the Tokyo riot. The police arrested 312 student radicals in the capital, according to news reports from the time.	但允许美国继续驻军，当时警方与数以千计的活动者发生冲突。除中村恒雄遇难外，另有三名警员在东京暴乱中受伤。据当时的媒体报道，警方在东京逮捕了 312 名学生激进分子。
Mr. Osaka was a leading member of the Japan Revolutionary Communist League-National Committee, a far-left revolutionary organization commonly known as Chukaku-ha.	大阪正明是日本革命的共产主义者同盟全国委员(Japan Revolutionary Communist League-National Committee)会领导成员，这是一个极左派革命组织，通常被称为 Chukaku-ha。
It is believed that members of the group kept Mr. Osaka hidden for years, according to The Japan Times. On May 18, during an investigation of another leftist, the police raided an apartment in Hiroshima, where they were confronted by a man who tried to stop them from entering.	据《日本时报》(The Japan Times)报道，据信是该组织的成员将大阪正明藏了这么多年。5月18日，在对另一名左派成员进行调查时，警方突击搜查了广岛的一间公寓，在那里他们遇到一名男子，试图阻止他们进入公寓。
That man, who the authorities later suspected was Mr. Osaka, has remained silent, refusing to answer investigators' questions, even about his name, for weeks.	当局后来怀疑这个人就是大阪正明，几个星期来，他一直保持沉默，拒绝回答调查人员的问题，连自己的名字都不透露。
The country has one of the lowest murder rates in the developed world, and the police take pride in quickly solving more than 90 percent of the murders they investigate, according to United Nations statistics.	联合国的统计显示，日本是发达国家谋杀率最低的国家之一，该国警方自豪地表示，在他们调查的谋杀案件中，90%以上都会迅速破案。
Criminals are typically caught swiftly. In 2012, however, the police arrested another long-sought suspect, Naoko Kikuchi, 40, in connection with the role the authorities said she played in the deadly 1995 poison gas attack on Tokyo's subway by the Aum Shinrikyo cult.	在日本，犯罪分子通常会被迅速抓获。不过在 2012 年，警方逮捕了另一名长期追缉的嫌疑犯，40 岁的菊地直子(Naoko Kikuchi)，当局说她曾参与奥姆真理教 1995 年对东京地铁发动的毒气袭击。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170609/japan-fugitive-masaaki-o	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170609/japan-fugitive-masaaki-o

saka-arrest	saka-arrest
North Korea's Antiship Missile Test Aims to Show It Can Repel Assault	朝鲜展示打击美国军舰的能力
TOKYO — Just days after a flotilla of American and Japanese warships left the sea between Japan and Korea, where they had been deployed in a show of force toward Pyongyang, North Korea tested missiles designed to hit such ships.	东京——不久前，美国和日本的海军舰队还在日本和韩国间的水域向朝鲜展示武力，这些军舰离开没几天，朝鲜就试验发射了为打击这种军舰而设计的导弹。
The launches Thursday morning of what appeared to be surface-to-ship cruise missiles were meant to demonstrate that the North could repel forces staging a strike on the Korean Peninsula, analysts said.	分析人士说，周四上午发射的看来是地对舰巡航导弹，意在表明朝鲜能够击退准备进攻朝鲜半岛的部队。
South Korea's newly elected president, Moon Jae-in, convened his first national security meeting in Seoul on Thursday to discuss the latest missile tests, which were the fifth the North had conducted since he was elected last month, and the 10th this year.	新近当选韩国总统的文在寅周四在首尔首次主持了国安会全体会议，讨论最近的这次导弹发射，这是自从他上个月当选以来，朝鲜进行的第五次导弹试验，也是今年的第十次。
"North Korea will only face further isolation from the international community and economic difficulties with its missile launches," Mr. Moon said at the meeting, according to a statement released by the presidential Blue House.	据总统府青瓦台发表的声明，文在寅在会上说，“发射导弹只会招来国际社会的孤立和经济难关。”
The launches came less than a week after the United Nations Security Council expanded its sanctions against Pyongyang over previous missile tests.	由于前几次导弹试验，联合国安理会扩大了对平壤的制裁，此次发射发生该举动不到一周后。
They also came less than 24 hours after Mr. Moon's administration said it had suspended the deployment of an American antimissile defense system — called Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or Thaad — that is meant to detect North Korean missiles and prevent them from hitting	发射也是在文在寅政府宣布已暂停部署美国反导弹防御系统不到 24 小时之后，部署名为“末段高空防御系统”（简称“萨德”）的目的是发现朝鲜的导弹、阻止它们击中目标。

their targets.
Critics had suggested that the suspension — which appeared to be a concession to China, whose leaders strongly objected to the Thaad system, and a break with the United States on policy toward North Korea — signaled that Mr. Moon was taking a much softer stance toward the North than his predecessors had.	中国领导人强烈反对部署萨德，暂停部署似乎是对中国做出的让步，也表现出韩国在对朝政策上与美国相左，批评人士曾暗示，暂停部署是一种信号，表明文在寅在朝鲜问题上将采取比其前任更温和的立场。
Mr. Moon sought to dispel any such perception on Thursday. In his strongest language on the North since his inauguration, Mr. Moon told the National Security Council that his government “will not step back even one step or make compromises on national security or on the safety of our people.”	文在寅在周四的会上试图打消任何这种看法。他在国安会上说，他的政府“对于威胁国家安全和国民利益的行为，坚决不会让步和妥协”，这是自就职以来，他在朝鲜问题上发表的最强烈的言论。
Some analysts say that with his decision to submit Thaad to a lengthy environmental review, as well as his recent approval of sending aid groups to visit North Korea, Mr. Moon is approaching North Korea as though its nuclear and missile development had not advanced in the decade since he last served in government. Mr. Moon was chief of staff to former President Roh Moo-hyun, a liberal who pursued a much more open policy toward the North than his conservative successors did.	一些分析人士说，文在寅把萨德系统交给耗时的环境评估程序、以及他最近批准派援助团体访问朝鲜的决定给人的印象是，文在寅在朝鲜问题上的做法好似朝鲜的核武器和导弹项目在他上次在政府任职之后的十年中没有进展。文在寅曾任前总统卢武铉的幕僚长，卢武铉属于自由派，在朝鲜问题上采取了比其保守派继任者更开放的政策。
The North has been steadily pursuing missile tests in defiance of United Nations sanctions and international condemnation. According to Kim Dong-yup, an analyst at the Institute for Far Eastern Studies at Kyungnam University in Seoul and a retired South Korean Navy commander, the tests Thursday appeared to be of four-canister missiles on new launchers that were displayed during a military parade in Pyongyang in April.	朝鲜无视联合国制裁和国际社会谴责，一直在稳步地进行导弹试验。据首尔庆南大学远东研究所的分析师、韩国海军退役军官金东叶说，周四试验的看来是使用新型发射器的4联装导弹，该系统在平壤今年4月份的阅兵式上展示过。

The missiles flew about 125 miles before landing in the sea between the Korean Peninsula and Japan. Two American aircraft carriers, the Carl Vinson and the Ronald Reagan, as well as Japanese Maritime Self-Defense Force destroyers, had recently been in the area, and analysts said North Korea was clearly showing off its ability to hit warships as well as military bases in the region.	导弹在飞行了约 200 公里后落入朝鲜半岛与日本之间的水域。美国航空母舰卡尔文森号(Carl Vinson)和罗纳德里根号(Ronald Reagan)、以及日本海上自卫队的驱逐舰最近曾在该海域活动, 分析人士说, 朝鲜显然是在炫耀自己打击该区域中的军舰和军事基地的能力。
"If the U.S. were to pre-emptively strike North Korea, it would use aircraft and vessels," said Yang Uk, a senior researcher at the Korea Defense and Security Forum, a research institute in Seoul, South Korea's capital. "And in these last series of tests, North Korea is showing they can deter those strikes."	"如果美国想先发制人地打击朝鲜的话, 会使用飞机和军舰," 位于韩国首都首尔的研究机构韩国防务与安全论坛的资深研究员杨旭(Yang Uk, 音)说。"在最近的一系列试验中, 朝鲜显示他们能够阻止这种打击。"
The United States Pacific Command did not immediately comment on the launches, and Japan's response was muted. Although Foreign Minister Fumio Kishida said the tests "cannot be accepted," the Japanese government did not register a formal complaint with North Korea.	美国太平洋司令部没有马上对导弹发射发表评论, 日本的反应也不强烈。虽然日本外相岸田文雄表示导弹试验"不可接受", 但日本政府并没有向朝鲜提出正式抗议。
Analysts said the North Koreans had deliberately avoided testing these particular missiles while the American and Japanese warships were nearby. "The timing was interesting because these U.S. ships and Japanese ships have left," said Narushige Michishita, director of the Security and International Studies Program at the National Graduate Institute for Policy Studies in Tokyo. "In a way, it wasn't too provocative."	分析人士说, 朝鲜有意避免了在美国和日本军舰出现在该海域附近时试验这类导弹。"时间的选择很有意思, 因为那些美国军舰和日本军舰已经离开了," 东京国家政策研究院安全与国际关系项目主任道下德成说。"从某种意义上来说, 这不算太挑衅。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170609/north-korea-missiles-south-korea-anti-ship	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170609/north-korea-missiles-south-korea-anti-ship

Duterte, Focused on Drug Users in Philippines, Ignored Rise of ISIS	菲律宾总统忙于缉毒，不提防 ISIS 崛起
MANILA, Philippines – It was classic bravado from the Philippines’ tough-guy president, Rodrigo Duterte.	菲律宾马尼拉——这是菲律宾的剽悍总统罗德里戈·杜特地的典型逞强之举。
The Maute Group, a militant Islamic band fighting government troops near the southern Philippines city of Marawi last year, had asked for a cease-fire.	去年，在菲律宾南部城市马拉维附近与政府军作战的一个名为“毛特组织”的伊斯兰武装团伙曾向政府提出停火要求。
The president rejected the overture.	总统拒绝了。
“They said that they will go down upon Marawi to burn the place,” Duterte recounted in December. “And I said, ‘Go ahead, do it.’”	“他们说，他们将打进马拉维，把城市烧掉，”杜特地去年 12 月提到这件事时说。“我说，‘请便，去干吧。’”
He got his wish.	他如愿了。
Hundreds of militants belonging to the Maute Group and its allies fighting under the black flag of the Islamic State, also known as ISIS, seized Marawi three weeks ago, leading to a battle with the Philippine armed forces and the biggest test yet of Duterte’s leadership during his tumultuous first year in office.	数百名属于毛特组织的武装分子、以及打着伊斯兰国（又称 ISIS）黑旗作战的同伙，三周前拿下了马拉维市，引发了一场与菲律宾军队的战斗，这是在杜特地上台后动荡的第一年里，对他的领导力迄今最大的考验。
A president who has focused on a deadly anti-drug campaign that has claimed the lives of thousands of Filipinos seems to have been caught unprepared for a militant threat that has been festering in the south for years.	杜特地上台后把注意力集中在禁毒运动上，这场运动已导致数千名菲律宾人死亡，他对菲律宾南部多年来愈益恶化的武装威胁似乎毫无准备。
“The government has largely been in denial about the growth of ISIS and affiliated groups,” said Zachary M. Abuza, a professor at the National War College in Washington who specializes in Southeast Asian security issues. “Duterte has been preoccupied with his campaign of gutting the rule of law by using police and other security forces for the extrajudicial killing of drug pushers.”	“菲律宾政府在很大程度上不接受 ISIS 及其附属团伙在该国发展的事实，”位于华盛顿的国家战争学院教授扎卡里·M·阿布扎(Zachary M. Abuza)说，他专门研究东南亚安全问题。“杜特地一门心思地要废除法制，在禁毒运动中使用警察及其他安全部队对兜售毒品者进行法外谋杀。”

Government forces have been unable to dislodge the militants despite deploying ground troops and bombing the city of 200,000 people from the air. More than 200 people have been killed, including 24 civilians, 58 soldiers and police officers, and at least 138 militants, according to the Philippine military.	尽管出动了地面部队并从空中轰炸了这座有 20 万人口的城市，但政府军一直不能把武装分子驱赶出城。据菲律宾军方说，已有 200 多人被打死，其中包括 24 名平民、58 名士兵和警察，以及至少 138 名武装分子。
Tens of thousands of civilians have fled, and much of the city center lies in ruins. The military says that it has cleared 90 percent of the city but that militants remain in three neighborhoods in the center, where the militants are mixed in with hundreds of civilians.	成千上万的平民已逃离了城市，市中心大部分地区也已成为废墟。军方表示已经控制了城市 90% 的地方，但武装分子仍占据着市中心的三个街区，他们混在那里的数百名平民之中。
Duterte has declared 60 days of martial law for the southern island of Mindanao, which includes Marawi and his hometown, Davao City. He has twice set deadlines for troops to retake Marawi, the country's largest predominantly Muslim city, but each deadline has passed with the battle still raging.	杜特地已在南部的棉兰老岛宣布了 60 天的戒严令，马拉维市、以及杜特地的老家达沃市就位于该岛。他已经为部队收复菲律宾的穆斯林人口比例最大的城市马拉维下了两次最后期限，但期限都已过去，战斗仍在激烈进行。
On Friday, Brig. Gen. Restituto Padilla predicted that the government would retake Marawi by Monday, Philippines Independence Day. On Saturday, 13 Philippine marines were killed in a clash with militants there.	雷斯蒂图托·帕迪亚准将(Brig. Gen. Restituto Padilla)周五预计，政府军将在周日的菲律宾独立日收复马拉维市。周六，13 名菲律宾海军陆战队员在那里与武装分子发生的冲突中丧生。
The militants' seizure of the city, a bold attempt to establish an Islamic State caliphate in Southeast Asia, marks a significant advance for the Middle East-based terrorist group as well as an apparent reordering of the militant threat in the southern Philippines.	武装分子控制这座城市是伊斯兰国在东南亚建立哈里发的大胆尝试，也标志着这个以中东为基地的恐怖组织的一个重大进展，以及菲律宾南部地区武装威胁的明显重组。
For the first time, it puts the Philippines on the map with failed states such as Libya and Afghanistan as places where Islamic State allies have sought to seize territory for a caliphate, giving the group another	马拉维市失陷，让菲律宾首次加入到利比亚和阿富汗等失败国家的行列，这些都是伊斯兰国试图为建立哈里发争夺地盘的地方，也为伊斯兰国扩大其全球影响力制造了又一个区域性爆发点。

regional flash point in its effort to spread its influence globally.
The Islamic State has urged fighters who cannot reach Syria to join the jihad in the Philippines instead, said Sidney Jones, director of the Institute for Policy Analysis of Conflict. Fighters from Indonesia, Malaysia, Chechnya, Yemen and Saudi Arabia were among those killed in the battle for Marawi.	冲突政策分析研究所(Institute for Policy Analysis of Conflict)主任西德尼·琼斯(Sidney Jones)说, 伊斯兰国已经在呼吁那些不能到叙利亚参加圣战的战士前来菲律宾。在马拉维战斗里被打死的武装分子中就有来自印度尼西亚、马来西亚、车臣、也门, 以及沙特阿拉伯的战士。
Mindanao has long been a hotbed of insurgencies, with numerous armed groups operating outside government control. Until the siege at Marawi, the best-known internationally was Abu Sayyaf, an ostensibly Islami militant group that specialized in kidnapping for ransom, turning Southeast Asia into the world's piracy capital, edging out the Horn of Africa.	棉兰老岛一直是叛乱的温床, 这里有许多武装团伙在政府控制之外运作。在马拉维市失陷前, 这里在国际上最有名的团伙是阿布沙耶夫(Abu Sayyaf), 一个自我宣称是伊斯兰武装组织、专门从事赎金绑架的团伙, 该团伙已让东南亚取缔了非洲之角, 成为世界上最大的海盗首都。
The Marawi siege also heralds the rise of Isnilon Hapilon, a longtime leader of Abu Sayyaf who had grown more ideologically minded over the years. Last year, Hapilon, 51, was named by the Islamic State as its emir in Southeast Asia. Previously based on the island of Basilan, he is on the FBI's list of most-wanted terrorists, and the United States has offered a $5 million reward for his capture.	马拉维市的失陷也预示着伊斯尼隆·哈皮隆(Isnilon Hapilon)的崛起, 哈皮隆长期以来担任阿布沙耶夫的领导人, 近年来, 他的思想变得更加意识形态化。去年, 伊斯兰国命名 51 岁的哈皮隆为其在东南亚的埃米尔。哈皮隆以前的基地在巴西兰岛, 他在联邦调查局头号通缉的恐怖分子名单上, 美国为将他捕获提供了 500 万美元的悬赏。
Various factions have come together behind Hapilon, notably the Maute Group, led by the brothers Omar and Abdullah Maute. Educated in the Middle East, the Mautes are based in the Marawi area and recently accepted Hapilon's leadership as emir.	几个不同的派别已聚集在哈皮隆的旗下, 其中最值得注意的是由毛特兄弟奥马尔(Omar)和阿卜杜拉(Abdullah)领导的毛特组织。以马拉维地区为基地的毛特兄弟曾在中东受教育, 他们最近接受了哈皮隆作为埃米尔的领导地位。
The Mautes are believed responsible for bombing a market in Davao City in September that killed 15.	毛特兄弟据认对去年 9 月达沃市一个市场发生的爆炸事件负有责任, 爆炸造成 15 人死亡。
Duterte is the first president from Mindanao, and he ran last year as the	杜特地是首位来自棉兰老岛的总统, 在去年的总统竞选期间, 他曾说自己是

candidate who could bring peace to the region. The bombing of his hometown may have inspired his angry challenge to the Mautes in December.	能给该地区带来和平的候选人。他家乡发生的爆炸事件也许是激发他在去年12月对毛特兄弟做出愤怒挑战的原因。
"It's the usual Duterte brand of bravado," said Roilo Golez, a former national security adviser to President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo, who left office in 2010. "It's a way of intimidating the opposition. It works most of the time."	"这是通常的杜特地型逞强，"曾在2010年卸任的前总统格洛丽亚·马卡帕加尔·阿罗约(Gloria Macapagal Arroyo)手下担任国家安全顾问的罗伊洛·戈雷兹(Roilo Golez)说。"这种吓唬反对派的手法，大多数时候管用。"
It hasn't with the Islami in Mindanao.	但在棉兰老岛的伊斯兰问题上还未见效。
After a clash between his military and Abu Sayyaf in April, Duterte suggested that the way to stop the militants was to eat them. "Make me mad," he taunted. "Get me a terrorist. Give me salt and vinegar. I will eat his liver."	今年4月杜特地的政府军与阿布沙耶夫发生冲突之后，杜特地曾表示，阻止武装分子的方式是把他们吃掉。"把我气疯吧，"他骂道。"抓个恐怖分子给我。再给我点盐和醋，我会吃掉他的肝脏。"
In May, the Philippine military got a tip that Hapilon had arrived in Marawi to join up with the Maute brothers. When soldiers raided the house where Hapilon was believed to be, hoping to capture him and claim the $5 million reward, they were surprised to find dozens of well-armed militants arrayed against them.	今年5月，菲律宾军方曾得到一个消息，哈皮隆已到了马拉维市，与毛特兄弟建立了联系。士兵们突袭了一处据认是哈皮隆所在的房子，希望能抓住他，从而拿到那笔500万美元的奖金，但他们意外地在那里发现了数十名严阵以待、装备齐全的武装分子。
Muslims make up only about 5 percent of the country's population overall but a larger proportion, estimated at 20 to 40 percent, on Mindanao.	穆斯林只占菲律宾全国总人口的5%左右，但在棉兰老岛人口中占的比例要高得多，估计在20%至40%之间。
Historic grievances among the Muslim Moro people there, widespread poverty and large lawless areas have helped create an opportunity for the Islamic State. A peace process pursued by Duterte's predecessor, President Benigno S. Aquino III, faltered in 2015 and has remained deadlocked under Duterte.	那里的几个因素为伊斯兰国创造了有利机会，包括信奉穆斯林的摩洛人中存在的历史遗留下来的不满、广泛的贫困，以及大片不受法律管辖的地区。杜特地的前任、贝尼尼奥·S·阿基诺三世(Benigno S. Aquino III)总统在那里开启的和平进程，2015年以来一直徘徊不前，在杜特地领导下仍不见起色。

"It was not the spread of ISIS in Iraq and Syria that fueled ISIS cells in the Philippines, but the collapse of the peace process," said Abuza, the National War College professor.	国家战争学院教授阿布扎说，“不是 ISIS 在伊拉克和叙利亚的扩张，是和平进程的崩溃，推动了 ISIS 小组在菲律宾的发展。”
The growing threat in the south will most likely compel Duterte to improve his relations with the United States, a process that had already begun with the election of President Donald Trump.	菲律宾南部日益增长的威胁很有可能将会迫使杜特地改善与美国的关系，自唐纳德·特朗普当选总统以来，菲美关系已开始有所好转。
Duterte has raged against the United States for daring to criticize his anti-drug campaign and, when President Barack Obama was in office, called for a "separation" from Washington. But Trump has shown a willingness to overlook the killings and has praised Duterte for doing an "unbelievable job on the drug problem."	奥巴马总统还在任上时，由于美国敢于批评杜特地的禁毒运动，杜特地曾对美国发怒，宣称要与华盛顿“分家”。但特朗普表示愿意对菲律宾的杀戮视而不见，他还赞扬杜特地在“毒品问题上做得简直太棒了”。
Leaders of the Philippines armed forces prevailed on Duterte not to reduce military cooperation, including a long-standing U.S. program to provide training, equipment and intelligence to fight terrorism. Since 2001, the United States has maintained a rotating force of 50 to 100 troops in the southern Philippines to combat Abu Sayyaf.	菲律宾军方领导人说服了杜特地不要减少与美国的军事合作，包括让一个美国为反恐提供培训、设备和情报的长期项目继续下去。美国为了对付阿布沙耶夫，自 2001 年以来，一直在菲律宾南部保持这一支 50 至 100 人的部队。
On Sunday, Duterte said he never asked the United States for help in Marawi, and it was a surprise to him when U.S. Special Forces arrived to assist the Philippine military.	杜特地周日说，他从未要求过美国帮助解决马拉维的事情，美国特种部队来菲律宾军队时，他很吃惊。
The U.S. Embassy said Friday that U.S. personnel were helping as part of a military relationship with the Philippines that "remains robust and multifaceted." Emma Nagy, a spokeswoman for the embassy in Manila, said, "U.S. Special Forces have been providing support and assistance in the southern Philippines for many years, at the request of several different Filipino administrations."	美国大使馆周五表示，作为与菲律宾的军事关系的一部分，美方人员正在提供帮助，美菲之间的军事关系“仍然强大、而且是多方面的”。马尼拉大使馆发言人艾玛·纳吉(Emma Nagy)说，“美国特种部队一直在应菲律宾几届不同政府的要求，在菲律宾南部提供支持 and 协助，这已经好多年了。”

https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170613/duterte-philippines-isis-marawi	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170613/duterte-philippines-isis-marawi
Dennis Rodman, Frequent Visitor to North Korea, Is Back	金正恩的“朋友”罗德曼再次访问朝鲜
HONG KONG — The former N.B.A. star Dennis Rodman has been one of the United States’ most unlikely links to North Korea, traveling repeatedly to the authoritarian state and gaining rare access to its leadership.	香港——美国国家篮球协会(NBA)退役明星丹尼斯·罗德曼(Dennis Rodman)是美国与朝鲜关系上最让人难以相信的联络人，他多次前往那个专制国家，并能得到与其领导人见面的罕见机会。
Now he is back, though no details have emerged of what he plans to do there. Some analysts speculated that Mr. Rodman may even be carrying a message from President Trump, who previously had praised his efforts to engage North Korea.	现在，他再次重返朝鲜，虽然没有透露他打算在那里做什么的细节。一些分析人士猜测，罗德曼甚至有可能会为特朗普总统转达口信，特朗普以前曾赞扬过罗德曼在接触朝鲜上的努力。
Mr. Rodman was seen at Beijing International Airport and flew to Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, on Tuesday, CNN reported.	据 CNN 报道，周二有人在北京国际机场看到罗德曼登机飞往朝鲜首都平壤。
Mr. Rodman wrote Tuesday afternoon on Twitter that he had arrived in the country, saying “I’m back” and thanking “my sponsor PotCoin.com.” PotCoin offers banking services to the legal marijuana industry. One of Mr. Rodman’s earlier visits to North Korea was sponsored by an Irish gambling company.	罗德曼周二下午在 Twitter 上写道，他已经抵达该国，并说“我回来了”，还感谢了“我的赞助商 PotCoin.com”。PotCoin 为合法的大麻行业提供银行服务。罗德曼过去的一次朝鲜之行曾得到爱尔兰一家博彩公司的赞助。
Websites and marijuana magazines have portrayed North Korea as a stoner’s paradise where cannabis is legal and can be freely purchased in marketplaces, but The Associated Press, one of the few foreign news organizations with an office in Pyongyang, sought to debunk that myth in January.	大麻行业的网站和杂志把朝鲜描绘为吸食大麻者的天堂，称大麻在朝鲜合法，可以在市场上自由购买，但美联社在今年 1 月份曾设法戳穿这个神话，只有很少几家外国新闻机构在平壤设有办事处，美联社是其中之一。
Mr. Rodman declined to say whether he had spoken about the trip with Mr. Trump, who four years ago endorsed Mr. Rodman’s visiting North	罗德曼拒绝回答他是否曾与特朗普讨论这次旅行的问题，特朗普曾在四年前对罗德曼访问朝鲜表示支持。

Korea.
"Well, I'm pretty sure he's pretty much happy with the fact that I'm over here trying to accomplish something that we both need," Mr. Rodman said, as reported by The A.P.	"这个嘛，我可以相当肯定地说，他对我来这里试图完成我们都需要的事情一定相当高兴，"罗德曼在美联社的报道中这样说。
Mr. Trump spoke to Fox News in 2013 about Mr. Rodman and North Korea, a year in which Mr. Rodman also appeared on his "Celebrity Apprentice" show. "Maybe Dennis is a lot better than what we have," he said.	2013年，特朗普曾在接受福克斯新闻采访时提到罗德曼和朝鲜，罗德曼也曾在那年出现在特朗普的《名人学徒》(Celebrity Apprentice)节目中。特朗普说，“也许丹尼斯比政府里的人强得多。”
Suzanne DiMaggio, a director and senior fellow at the New America think tank who had been involved in unofficial talks with North Korea, said on Twitter that there was a "high probability" of communication between the Trump administration and Mr. Rodman.	新美国(New America)智囊团主任兼资深研究员苏珊娜·迪马吉奥(Suzanne DiMaggio)曾参与与朝鲜进行的非正式会谈，她在Twitter上表示，“有很大可能性”特朗普政府与罗德曼之间进行了沟通。
While traveling in Tokyo, Thomas A. Shannon Jr., the United States under secretary of state for political affairs, said that Mr. Rodman was not acting in any official capacity.	正在东京访问的美国国务院负责政治事务的副国务卿小托马斯·A·香农(Thomas A. Shannon Jr.)表示，罗德曼的行动不带有任何官方色彩。
"We are aware of his visit. We wish him well, but we have issued travel warnings to Americans and suggested they not travel to North Korea for their own safety," Mr. Shannon said.	"我们知道他的访问。我们祝他旅行愉快，但我们已经向美国人发布过旅行警告，建议他们为了自己的安全不要去朝鲜，"香农说。
The visit is the latest leg in a strange tale. In February 2013, Mr. Rodman, an N.B.A. Hall of Famer, became one of the first Americans then known to have met Kim Jong-un, who had taken over the leadership of North Korea after his father's death in 2011. Mr. Kim, a longtime basketball fan, invited Mr. Rodman, and the two sat together while watching an exhibition game that featured three Harlem Globetrotters.	这次访问是一个奇异故事的最新一段。2013年2月，NBA名人堂入选者罗德曼，成为当时人们知道的、与金正恩见过面的第一拨美国人之一。金正恩在2011年父亲去世后成为朝鲜领导人。一直是篮球迷的金正恩邀请罗德曼访朝，他们两人同坐台上，观看了一场有三名哈林篮球队(Harlem Globetrotters)队员参加的表演赛。
Mr. Rodman returned in September 2013, when he held Mr. Kim's	2013年9月，罗德曼再次访朝，其间他还抱了金正恩刚出生的女儿。几个

newborn daughter. A few months later he made another visit with a group of former N.B.A. players.	月后，他与几名 NBA 退役球员一起再度访问朝鲜。
Officials in President Barack Obama’s administration said they would have blocked Mr. Rodman from visiting if they had any power to do so. The N.B.A. distanced itself from the issue, and Mr. Rodman was criticized by politicians and human rights advocates for giving friendly publicity to one of the world’s most repressive states.	奥巴马总统的政府官员曾表示，如果他们有权力那样做的话，他们会阻止罗德曼访朝。美国国家篮球协会避免介入这个问题。政治人士和人权倡导者批评罗德曼，给世界上最专制的国家之一制造了友好的宣传报道。
But he also offered up little-known details about Mr. Kim, confirming his age and his birthday, for instance. He also suggested that Mr. Obama simply pick up the phone and call the North Korean leader. The United States and North Korea do not have formal diplomatic relations, and Mr. Trump has called on China to pressure its neighbor and ally to rein in its nuclear weapons program.	但罗德曼也为人们提供了一些金正恩鲜为人知的细节，比如他的确切生日和年龄。罗德曼还给奥巴马提建议，说他只需要拿起听筒来与朝鲜领导人通电话。美国和朝鲜没有正式外交关系，特朗普已呼吁中国向其邻国和盟友施压，停止朝鲜的核武器计划。
North Korea has carried out a series of missile tests recently, and some observers raised concerns this spring that it was preparing for a sixth nuclear test. On Tuesday, South Korean military officials told reporters that a North Korean drone found last week had taken photos of a recently installed American-made antimissile system.	朝鲜最近进行了一系列的导弹试验，一些观察家今年春天对朝鲜正在准备进行第六次核试验表示担心。周二，韩国军方官员告诉记者，上周发现的一架朝鲜无人机对最近安装的美国制造的反导系统进行了拍照。
Mr. Rodman endorsed Mr. Trump’s presidential campaign in 2015 and appeared on his “Celebrity Apprentice” television show in 2009 and 2013.	罗德曼曾在 2015 年支持特朗普参加总统竞选，也曾在 2009 年和 2013 年两次出现在特朗普的《名人学徒》电视节目中。
Mr. Rodman has toyed with carrying out serious diplomacy in the past. He mentioned the case of Kenneth Bae, a Korean-American who had been sentenced to 15 years of hard labor in North Korea, in a 2013 interview with the celebrity news site TMZ. But he later played down	过去，罗德曼曾不太认真地考虑过在严肃外交问题上做点什么。2013 年，罗德曼在接受名人新闻网站 TMZ 的采访时提到过肯尼斯·裴(Kenneth Bae) 的案子，裴是韩裔美国人，被朝鲜判处了 15 年的劳改。但罗德曼后来淡化自己会为裴获释进行游说的建议，还在 2014 年访朝期间接受 CNN 采访时，

any suggestion that he would lobby for Mr. Bae and disparaged him in an interview with CNN during his 2014 visit.	说了贬低裴的话。
Mr. Bae, a Christian missionary who was released in November 2014, said he thought Mr. Rodman had in fact helped him, because he increased public awareness of his imprisonment.	2014年11月被朝鲜释放的裴是一名基督教传教士，他说他觉得罗德曼其实对自己有帮助，因为罗德曼让更多的人知道了他被监禁的事情。
With Mr. Warmbier's release, three Americans are now detained in North Korea, and in May, the State Department elevated its travel advisory, saying it "strongly warns" Americans not to visit because of the risk of arrest and long-term detention.	瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)获释后，仍有三名美国人目前被朝鲜关押，今年5月，美国国务院提高了旅行警告的级别，由于有被拘留和被长期关押风险，国务院“强烈警告”美国人不要去朝鲜。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170614/dennis-rodman-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170614/dennis-rodman-north-korea
Destroying a Philippine City to Save It From ISIS Allies	与 ISIS 巷战，菲律宾炸平自己的城市
MANILA, Philippines — Black smoke billows behind lush palm groves. Tanks rumble past graceful minarets. Bullets rain on empty streets.	菲律宾马尼拉——郁郁葱葱的棕榈树林之后有浓烟升腾。坦克隆隆驶过雅致的清真寺宣礼塔。在空荡荡的街头，子弹横飞。
As the siege of the southern Philippine city of Marawi enters its fourth week, more than 200 people have been killed and much of the city lies in ruins. The strongest attempt yet by supporters of the Islamic State to seize and hold territory in Southeast Asia has turned into an urban street fight in what is now largely a ghost town.	菲律宾南部的马拉维市已经持续四周遭受围困，200多人死于非命，大片城市化为废墟。这是伊斯兰国(Islamic State)支持者迄今在东南亚为占领和保有领土所做出的最大努力，目前局势已经演变为城市巷战，这里几乎成为一座鬼城。
Hastily closed businesses bear signs reading "looters will be shot." Stray dogs scavenge for food on deserted streets. A light rain on Tuesday added to the feeling of despair.	匆忙关闭的公司外面挂着“抢劫者将被枪杀”的牌子。流浪狗在荒废的街道上觅食。星期二的一场小雨更为此地平添绝望之感。
The Philippine military appears to have adopted a strategy of destroying the city to save it, conducting bombing runs at least twice a day.	为了拯救这座城市，菲律宾军方采取的战略似乎就是摧毁它，每天至少对它进行两次轰炸。
The rebels are holding a piece of the city center, controlling	叛军占领了市中心的一片土地，控制着几座桥梁的检查站，并在这个城市的

checkpoints on several bridges and planting well-armed snipers in some of the city's mosques. Hundreds of civilians are believed to be in their midst, making the government assault more difficult. Each side claims to have the other boxed in; both seem to be digging in for a protracted battle.	若干清真寺里安插了装备精良的狙击手。据信他们当中混杂着数以百计的平民，这令政府更难展开攻势。双方都声称已让对方走投无路；两者似乎都在酝酿着持久战。
A battle fought house by house	一场一个接一个房屋打响的战役
Marawi, a city of 200,000, sits on the shore of Lake Lanao on the island of Mindanao. The Agus River, which flows from the lake, divides the city.	马拉维是一个 20 万人口的城市，坐落在棉兰老岛上的拉瑙湖岸边。发源于这座湖泊的阿古斯河贯穿这座城市。
The militants still hold the part of the city southeast of the river that was once the economic and business center. The heaviest fighting is concentrated there in an area of about 500 square meters, one military commander said.	武装分子仍然占据河东南的部分城区，那里曾是经济和商业中心。一名军事指挥官说，最激烈的战斗集中在那里约 500 平方米的地区。
Rebel snipers are positioned in the taller buildings, forcing Philippine troops to maintain their distance. The military says the rebels control a fifth of the city.	叛军狙击手位于较高的建筑物内，迫使菲律宾军队保持距离。军方说，叛军控制着这座城市的五分之一。
"It's urban warfare, face-to-face combat," said Lt. Col. Christopher Tampus, an infantry battalion commander at the front line. "They are still holding out. The fighting is house to house, building by building."	"这是城市战争，面对面的战斗，"前线步兵营指挥官克里斯托弗·坦普斯(Christopher Tampus)中校说。"他们还在坚持。战斗在一座房屋接一座房屋，一座建筑接一座建筑之内发生。"
The Philippine military controls the skies and has been using helicopters and fixed-wing aircraft to bombard the city, inflicting heavy damage but so far failing to drive out the militants.	菲律宾军方拥有制空权，他们一直在使用直升机和固定翼飞机轰炸这座城市，对其造成重大破坏，但迄今为止还没有赶出武装分子。
Officially known as the Islamic City of Marawi, Marawi is the largest predominantly Muslim city in a country that is more than 90 percent Roman Catholic. Some of the city's most notable buildings are	马拉维的官方名称是马拉维伊斯兰城(Islamic City of Marawi)，是这个 90% 以上人口都信仰罗马天主教徒的国家中最大的穆斯林城市。市内若干最重要的建筑是清真寺。有些如今仍然挺立。

mosques. Some remain standing.
The Philippine military says that the militants are using mosques and madrassas as bases for fighting, including for the placement of sniper nests. It has complained that they can't attack these buildings because they are protected as cultural monuments.	菲律宾军方说，武装分子正在使用清真寺和伊斯兰宗教学校作为战斗基地，包括安置狙击火力。军方抱怨说，他们不能攻击这些建筑物，因为它们是受保护的文化遗迹。
Who are the rebels?	叛军是什么人？
The militants are a combined force of two Islamist insurgencies.	这群武装分子由两股伊斯兰派叛乱力量联合而成。
Their leader is Isnilon Hapilon, designated by the Islamic State as its emir in Southeast Asia. He leads a faction of Abu Sayyaf, a decades-old militant group best known for taking foreign hostages. He is on the FBI's list of most-wanted terrorists, and the United States has offered a $5 million bounty for his capture.	他们的领导人是伊斯尼隆·哈皮隆(Isnilon Hapilon)，由伊斯兰国指定为其在东南亚的埃米尔领袖。他领导着阿布沙耶夫(Abu Sayyaf)的一个派系，这是一个拥有数十年历史的武装组织，以绑架外籍人质著称。他位列联邦调查局的恐怖分子通缉名单，美国为抓获他的人提供 500 万美元赏金。
Hapilon has banded with the Maute group, led by the brothers Abdullah and Omarkhayam Maute. Educated in the Middle East, they are said to have sworn allegiance to Hapilon.	哈皮隆已经同穆特组织联合在一起，该组织由阿卜杜拉和奥马尔·穆特(Abdullah and Omarkhayam Maute)兄弟领导。他们曾在中东接受教育，据说已对哈皮隆宣誓效忠。
The Philippine military says the militants have put up a much fiercer fight than expected. A video recovered by the army shows the militant leaders planning to seize Marawi. Hapilon is seated at a table wearing a head scarf, to the right of Abdullah Maute, who is standing.	菲律宾军方说，同武装分子的战斗比预想中要激烈得多。一份陆军获取的视频显示了武装分子领导人正在策划占领马拉维。哈皮隆戴着头巾坐在桌子旁，阿卜杜拉·穆特站在他左边。
The fight for Marawi represents the first time the Maute and Hapilon groups have joined for such a major operation. The authorities say they have also been joined by fighters from Indonesia, Malaysia, Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Chechnya.	马拉维战役是穆特组织和哈皮隆组织首次联合起来进行如此重大的行动。当局说，还有从印度尼西亚、马来西亚、沙特阿拉伯，也门和车臣的战斗人员赶来加入他们。
The role of the United States	美国在其中扮演的角色
Americans are providing surveillance and intelligence assistance to the	根据长期协议，美国向菲律宾军方提供监控和情报援助。自 21 世纪初以来，

Philippine military under a long-standing agreement. Since the early 2000s, the United States has stationed a rotating force of 50 to 100 Special Forces troops in the southern Philippines to provide training and technical assistance to the Philippine military in its fight against terrorists.	美国在菲律宾南部派驻了由 50 至 100 名特种部队士兵组成的轮调部队，为菲律宾军队打击恐怖分子提供培训和技术援助。
Now, U.S. intelligence is probably helping the Philippine military select bombing targets, like those targeted by OV-10 Broncos.	现在，美国的情报可能正在帮助菲律宾军方选择轰炸目标，OV-10“野马”(OV-10 Broncos)飞机则会执行相关任务。
But foreign troops are barred from combat by the Philippine Constitution, and U.S. and Philippine officials say there are no U.S. troops in Marawi.	但是，根据菲律宾宪法，外国军队被禁止在菲律宾作战，美国和菲律宾官员都说在马拉维没有美军。
A government crackdown	政府镇压
President Rodrigo Duterte declared martial law for 60 days on the island of Mindanao, the country's second-largest island, where various rebel Islamic groups have operated for decades. Duterte, facing his biggest crisis since taking office nearly a year ago, had talked of declaring martial law nationwide in his anti-drug campaign, which has resulted in thousands of deaths at the hands of police and vigilantes.	罗德里戈·杜特地(Rodrigo Duterte)总统在该国第二大岛棉兰老岛上宣布戒严 60 天，在这里，各种伊斯兰反叛团体已经运作了数十年。杜特地如今面临上任近一年以来的最大危机，此前他曾在他的反毒品运动中说起过宣布全国戒严，该运动已导致数千人死于警察和治安积极分子之手。
Checkpoints set up around Mindanao may aid in the apprehension of militants who slip away from Marawi in the coming weeks. The Maute brothers' father, Cayamora Maute, and other relatives were arrested at a checkpoint in Davao City. A combined military and police unit arrested their mother, Ominta Romato Maute, in the town of Masiu, an hour's drive from Marawi.	环棉兰老岛建立的检查站可能有助于逮捕在接下来的几个星期内逃离马拉维的武装分子。穆特兄弟的父亲卡亚莫拉·穆特(Cayamora Maute)和其他亲属在达沃市的检查站被捕。一个军方与警察的联合小队在距马拉维一小时车程的马苏镇逮捕了他们的母亲奥米塔·罗马托·穆特(Ominta Romato Maute)。
Philippine security forces searched houses for guns and ammunition last week.	菲律宾安全部队上周到处入室搜查枪支和弹药。

For the Philippine military, which is more experienced at fighting the Islamists in the jungle, the Marawi siege has meant urban street fighting.	菲律宾军人对于在丛林中与伊斯兰主义者进行斗争更有经验,但包围马拉维意味着他们要在城市内进行巷战。
The trapped civilians	被围困的平民
The militants seized an unknown number of civilians on the first day of the siege. It is unclear how many have survived. The military believes the rebels are using some of them as human shields.	武装分子在围困的第一天抓捕了数量不明的平民。目前尚不清楚有多少人幸存下来。军方认为叛军正在使用其中一些平民作为人盾。
Those who escape from the city are closely vetted by the police.	逃离城市的人员正受到警方的密切审查。
Tens of thousands of refugees fled the city when the fighting began. But as many as 2,000 civilians remain, according to rescuers and the local Red Cross.	战斗开始时,成千上万难民逃离了这座城市。据救援人员和当地红十字会说,市内还留有多达2千名左右的平民。
Many are trapped in their homes or in other buildings — those that still stand — waiting for the siege to end. In the last few days, some have been able to flee.	许多人被困家中或其他仍未倒塌的建筑物内,等待着围困的结束。在过去的几天里,有些人尝试着逃离了出来。
Thousands of the displaced have been housed in temporary evacuation centers on the outskirts of the city.	数以千计的流离失所者已被安置在城市郊区的临时疏散中心。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170614/marawi-philippines-islamic-state	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170614/marawi-philippines-islamic-state
Otto Warmbier, American Held by North Korea, Is Evacuated in a Coma	被朝鲜关押的美国大学生获释,已昏迷超一年
WASHINGTON — Otto F. Warmbier, a U.S. college student held prisoner in North Korea for more than a year, has been medically evacuated from the reclusive country in a coma and is on his way back to the United States, according to a statement from his parents.	华盛顿——在朝鲜被关押一年多的美国大学生奥托·F·瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)在昏迷中从这个与世隔绝的国家被医疗后送,正在返回美国的路上,该消息来自他父母发表的一份声明。
"We want the world to know how we and our son have been brutalized and terrorized by the pariah regime" in North Korea, Fred and Cindy	"我们想让世界知道,我们和我们的儿子"在朝鲜"如何受到这个遭人唾弃政权的残酷对待与恐吓威胁,"弗雷德与辛迪·瓦姆比尔(Fred and Cindy

Warmbier said in a statement to The Associated Press. They said they were grateful that their son, who was detained last year while traveling as a tourist, would “finally be with people who love him.”	Warmbier) 夫妇在给美联社的一份声明中说。他们表示，对于去年旅游期间遭扣押的儿子“最终能回到爱他的人身边”，他们心存感激。
Warmbier, 23, has been in a coma for “over a year now and urgently needs proper medical care,” said Bill Richardson, the former governor of New Mexico, who has been in touch with the Warmbier family and has served periodically as a negotiator with the North Korean government.	23 岁的瓦姆比尔已经昏迷了“一年多，急需接受适当的医疗护理”，前新墨西哥州州长比尔·理查森(Bill Richardson)说道，他一直与瓦姆比尔一家保持联系，定期代表他们与朝鲜政府谈判。
A senior U.S. official said it was only in recent weeks that the United States obtained intelligence reports indicating that Warmbier had been repeatedly beaten while in North Korean custody. The official, who was not authorized to publicly discuss intelligence and spoke on the condition of anonymity, said there had been concerns that Warmbier had died as a result of the beatings.	一名美国高层官员表示，直到最近几周，美国才获得情报，瓦姆比尔在朝鲜被关押期间反复遭到殴打。这名没有被授权公开谈论情报信息因而选择匿名的官员表示，之前外界曾担心瓦姆比尔已被打死。
Warmbier was in fact alive, and his release Tuesday followed an extraordinary period of clandestine negotiations between U.S. and North Korean officials in Oslo, Norway, and New York. The talks intensified last month after a representative from Sweden, which acts as an interlocutor between Washington and Pyongyang, was granted visitation rights to one of three other Americans held in North Korea.	实际上，瓦姆比尔还活着。在他于周二获释之前，美国和朝鲜官员在挪威奥斯陆和纽约进行了一段时间的特别秘密谈判。在一名瑞典代表——作为华盛顿和平壤之间的中间对话者——获准探视被扣押在朝鲜的其他三个美国人中的一个后，两国加大了谈判力度。
U.S. officials learned of Warmbier’s medical condition last week during a meeting with a North Korean official, and by Monday, a U.S. delegation including a medical team had arrived in Pyongyang to bring him home, according to an account provided by the State Department. After two doctors visited Warmbier, a U.S. official demanded his release on humanitarian grounds, the State Department said, and he was	依据美国国务院的说法，美国官员是在上周与一名朝鲜官员会谈期间获知瓦姆比尔的身体状况，为了将他带回家，一个包括医疗队在内的美国代表团于周一抵达平壤。国务院表示，在两名医生探视了瓦姆比尔之后，一名美国官员要求基于人道主义立场将其释放，周二他获准后送。 evacuated Tuesday.

Secretary of State Rex Tillerson issued a statement Tuesday announcing the release of Warmbier, a University of Virginia student who had been sentenced to a 15-year prison term for trying to steal a propaganda poster in January 2016.	周二，美国国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)发表了一份声明，宣布弗吉尼亚大学(University of Virginia)学生瓦姆比尔获释。他是在2016年1月被朝鲜以试图窃取一份宣传海报的罪由判处了15年监禁。
People close to the negotiations that led to Warmbier's release said he had traveled from Japan to Anchorage, Alaska. There, the plane carrying him would refuel and continue on to Cincinnati, where his parents live.	了解瓦姆比尔获释谈判的人士表示，他先是从日本送往阿拉斯加的安克雷奇。运送瓦姆比尔的飞机在那里加油后，将继续飞往他父母所在的辛辛那提。
Tillerson did not provide any details about the negotiations. But according to a senior State Department official, the process escalated in May, after Sweden was granted visitation rights to a different U.S. detainee, and the North Koreans urgently requested a meeting with U.S. officials.	蒂勒森没有提供谈判细节。但据一名国务院高层官员透露，谈判在今年5月加速，此前瑞典获准探视另外一名被关押的美国人，朝鲜方面也紧急要求与美国官员举行会面。
Joseph Yun, a State Department envoy for North Korea, met with North Korea's ambassador to the United Nations in New York on June 6, the State Department official said, and that is when the Americans learned of Warmbier's condition.	这名国务院官员表示，国务院的朝鲜政策特别代表尹汝尚(Joseph Yun)在6月6日与朝鲜驻联合国大使在纽约会面。美国人就是在那个时候得知了瓦姆比尔的身体状况。
After consulting with President Donald Trump, Tillerson sent Yun to North Korea to obtain Warmbier's release and informed Pyongyang that a U.S. delegation would be traveling there.	在与唐纳德·特朗普商议之后，蒂勒森派尹汝尚去朝鲜争取瓦姆比尔的获释，并通知平壤一支美国代表团将前往那里。
Warmbier's evacuation was announced while Dennis Rodman — a former professional basketball player who has relationships with North Korea's leader, Kim Jong Un, and with Trump — was visiting North Korea. Rodman appeared on Trump's "Celebrity Apprentice" in 2009	瓦姆比尔获得后送的消息是在前职业篮球选手丹尼斯·罗德曼(Dennis Rodman)访问朝鲜期间宣布的，后者与朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong Un)和特朗普关系都不错。罗德曼曾在2009年参加特朗普的真人秀节目《名人学徒》(Celebrity Apprentice)，之前曾在2013年访问过一次朝鲜。 and also traveled to North Korea in 2013.

But a State Department spokeswoman, Heather Nauert, said Tuesday, "Dennis Rodman did not have anything to do with the release of Otto Warmbier."	但国务院发言人希瑟·诺尔特(Heather Nauert)周二表示,“丹尼斯·罗德曼与奥托·瓦姆比尔的获释没有任何关系。”
Sen. Rob Portman, R-Ohio, said, "Otto's detainment and sentence was unnecessary and appalling, and North Korea should be universally condemned for its abhorrent behavior."	俄亥俄州共和党参议员罗布·波特曼(Rob Portman)表示,“奥托被拘押和判刑是没理由的,此举极其恶劣,朝鲜应该为这种可恶的行径遭到普遍谴责。”
A senior aide to Portman said the senator had been working for months to secure Warmbier's release, consulting Trump, Tillerson, Richardson and John Kerry, the former secretary of state.	波特曼的一位高级助手表示,为了瓦姆比尔的获释,这位参议员忙碌了数月,曾与特朗普、蒂勒森、理查森和前国务卿约翰·克里(John Kerry)商讨此事。
Warmbier visited North Korea on a group tour last year. He was about to board a flight home when he was detained.	瓦姆比尔去年跟随一个旅行团到朝鲜旅行。在准备登上返程飞机时,遭到扣押。
In a tearful news conference in Pyongyang after his arrest, Warmbier said he had stolen the poster because an acquaintance had offered to give him a used car worth $10,000 in exchange for it. "I made the worst mistake of my life," he said. It is unclear whether his statement was genuine or coerced.	在被捕后于平壤举行的一场新闻发布会上,瓦姆比尔流着泪表示,他偷了一张海报,因为有一个熟人说会给他一辆价值1万美元的二手车作为交换。“我犯了一生中最大的错误,”他说。目前还不清楚,他的声明是真实的,还是被胁迫的结果。
Hours after video of the news conference emerged, the Obama administration announced broad new sanctions against North Korea.	这场新闻发布会的视频出现几小时后,奥巴马政府宣布对朝鲜实施广泛的新制裁。
The last time Warmbier was seen in public was in a video taken at his trial in March 2016, in which he appeared dazed and seemingly had to be carried by North Korean soldiers.	瓦姆比尔上一次出现在公众视野是在他2016年3月受审的视频中,当时他看起来有些神志不清,似乎必须由朝鲜士兵搀扶着行走。
The State Department has repeatedly warned citizens not to visit North Korea, which has detained a host of Americans over the years on a variety of charges. At least three other Americans remain in detention	国务院曾多次警告美国公民不要去朝鲜,该国在过去数年以各种各样的理由扣押了不少美国人。目前至少还有三名美国人被监禁在那里。

there.
Information about Warmbier's condition and detention had been impossible to come by until now. Before last month, his last consular visit from Swedish diplomats had been in March 2016, according to Suzanne DiMaggio, a director and senior fellow at New America, a research institute in Washington, who participated in talks with North Korea in Oslo in May.	有关瓦姆比尔身体状况和监禁情况在此前是不可能被知晓的。在上月之前，瑞典外交官最近一次对他进行领事探访是在 2016 年 3 月，该消息来自华盛顿的研究机构新美国(New America)的主管、高级研究员苏珊娜·迪马乔 (Suzanne DiMaggio)，这家机构参与了今年 5 月在奥斯陆与朝鲜的谈判。
Keeping Warmbier isolated for so long was initially seen as retaliation for the sanctions issued in July 2016 against Kim. Now, it seems likely that it was an effort to conceal the state of Warmbier's health, DiMaggio said.	将瓦姆比尔隔离这么久，最初被看作朝鲜对 2016 年 7 月公布的针对金正恩的制裁措施的报复。迪马乔说，现在看来，此举似乎是为了隐瞒瓦姆比尔的健康状况。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170614/north-korea-otto-warmbier-rodman	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170614/north-korea-otto-warmbier-rodman
Otto Warmbier Got an Extra Dose of Brutality From North Korea. The Mystery Is Why.	朝鲜虐囚的新方法：把囚犯打昏？
SEOUL, South Korea — One American who was held captive in North Korea said he was interrogated up to 15 hours a day by officials who wanted him to confess to plotting to overthrow their government. Another said she was held in a 5-by-6-foot windowless cell. Yet another former American inmate shivered on the concrete floor of a room "no bigger than a dog's house."	韩国首尔——一名曾被朝鲜关押的美国人说，官员对他的审讯最长可达一天 15 个小时，想让他供认密谋推翻朝鲜政府。另一人说她被关在一间五英尺（约合 1.5 米）高、六英尺（约合 1.8 米）宽并且没有窗户的牢房里。还有一名曾沦为囚犯的美国人在一个“没有狗窝大”的房间的混凝土地面上瑟瑟发抖。
But despite a history of such treatment of prisoners dating to the 1950-53 Korean War, North Korea has generally refrained from physically abusing the Americans it has held in recent decades. That makes the case of Otto Warmbier, a 22-year-old American college	尽管朝鲜如此对待囚犯的历史可追溯至 1950 到 1953 年间的朝鲜战争，但在最近几十年，朝鲜总体上避免对关押的美国人进行身体虐待。这使被判 15 年刑期且一直在服刑的 22 岁美国大学生奥托·瓦姆比尔 (Otto Warmbier) 的情况更加不同寻常。

student who had been serving a 15-year sentence in North Korea, even more striking.
Mr. Warmbier was released in a coma and returned on Tuesday to the United States, where he was immediately taken to the University of Cincinnati Medical Center for treatment. Details of his condition are not yet known. A senior American official has said the United States obtained intelligence reports that he had been repeatedly beaten. His fate has cast new attention on how North Korea treats foreigners in captivity.	瓦姆比尔在昏迷中获释，并于周二被送回美国。回到美国后，他立即被送往辛辛那提大学医疗中心(University of Cincinnati Medical Center)接受治疗。瓦姆比尔的详细情况尚不得而知。一名美国高官说，美国得到的情报报告称，瓦姆比尔被多次殴打。他的命运重新引起了外界对朝鲜如何对待遭其囚禁的外国人的关注。
North Korea is known to have detained 16 American citizens since 1996, including three who are still in custody. They have been subjected to varying degrees of mental abuse but less often physical torture.	目前已知，自 1996 年以来，朝鲜关押过 16 名美国公民，其中三人仍未获释。他们受到了不同程度的精神折磨，但遭受身体折磨的情况没那么常见。
Despite its longstanding enmity toward the United States and its allies, North Korea remains deeply sensitive to outside criticism of its human rights record, billing itself as a righteous nation that respects international norms. And while its propagandists have presented American prisoners as proof that the United States has been sending subversive agents into the country, it has also used them as bargaining chips in dealing with Washington, analysts said. The prospect that the Americans might eventually be released as part of negotiations seems to have influenced their treatment.	尽管长期敌视美国及其盟友，但朝鲜对外界就其人权状况做出的指责依然非常敏感，标榜自己是一个正义之国，尊重国际惯例。分析人士称，尽管宣传人员把美籍囚犯作为美国派遣从事颠覆活动的特工进入该国的证据，但在和华盛顿打交道时，朝鲜也把他们当作筹码。这些美国人也许最终会作为谈判的一部分获释的可能性，似乎影响了对待他们的态度。
"There seems to be a general attitude of not using physical violence against Americans, although they don't appear unwilling to use psychological tactics and that sort thing," said Robert R. King, a former State Department special envoy for North Korea human rights issues	"似乎存在一种不对美国人使用身体暴力的普遍态度，但他们在使用心理战术和类似策略方面好像并无顾忌，"曾任美国国务院朝鲜人权事务特使的罗伯特·R·金(Robert R. King)说。他一直负责处理瓦姆比尔的事情，直到 1 月退休。"发生瓦姆比尔这个事情，可能是出现了一些意外情况。"

who handled Mr. Warmbier's case until he retired in January. "This situation with Warmbier is likely something that happened that they did not intend."
The worst known case of abuse before Mr. Warmbier was that of Robert Park, a Christian missionary who said he was severely beaten by North Korean soldiers after he was caught in 2009 while walking across the border from China waving a Bible. After he was transferred to Pyongyang, North Korea, he said, he was subjected to torture so horrific he begged for death.	在瓦姆比尔之前，已知的最严重的情况发生在基督教传教士朴东勋(Robert Park)身上。他自称在2009年挥舞着一本《圣经》从中国步行越过边界时被抓后，遭到了朝鲜士兵的毒打。他说，被转移到平壤后，他遭受的酷刑非常恐怖，以至他只求一死。
"Several North Korean women surrounded me and did the worst thing to me to try to make me commit suicide," Mr. Park said in an interview with the South Korean news agency Yonhap. He said the women beat his genitals with a club.	"几名朝鲜女子围着我，对我做了一件最恶劣的事，试图逼我自杀，"朴东勋在接受韩国通讯社韩联社(Yonhap)的采访时说。他说那些女子用一根棍子击打他的生殖器。
Mr. Park has said he was diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder and has attempted suicide since his release. One former American detainee, Evan C. Hunziker, took his own life less than a month after he was released from North Korea in 1996, although it was unclear whether this was related to his experiences in the North.	朴东勋说，获释后他被诊断患有创伤后精神失调，曾试图自杀。1996年，曾被关押的美国人埃文·C·亨齐克(Evan C. Hunziker)在从朝鲜获释不到一个月后结束了自己的生命，但尚不清楚此事是否和他在朝鲜的经历有关。
In a 2015 interview, the former detainee Aijalon Gomes recalled "a cement cell, which was beyond freezing." He was later taken to a house where he was instructed to make bricks all day. Asked whether he was tortured, he said, "There were moments of violence and of humanity."	在2015年接受采访时，曾被朝鲜关押的艾亚隆·戈梅斯(Aijalon Gomes)回想起了"一间冰冷彻骨的水泥牢房"。后来，他被带进了一栋房子里。在那里，他被要求整天烧砖。被问及是否受过酷刑时，他说，"有暴力的时候，也有人道的时候。"
Laura Ling, who was held in North Korea in 2009 together with a fellow American journalist, Euna Lee, said she was held in a dark 5-by-6-foot cell.	2009年，凌志美(Laura Ling)和同为美籍记者的李丽娜(Euna Lee)一起被朝鲜关押。她说自己被关在一间五英尺高、六英尺宽的黑暗牢房里。

"Once I heard those words, '12 years,' come from the judge, I could barely stand up straight," Ms. Ling said on the "Oprah Winfrey Show," recalling the day she and Ms. Lee were sentenced to 12 years of hard labor for illegal entry into the country. She spiraled into a deep depression.	"一听到法官说出'12年'这几个词，我差点瘫倒在地，"凌志美在《奥普拉·温弗瑞秀》(Oprah Winfrey Show)上回忆自己和李丽娜被以非法进入该国为由判处12年劳改那天时说。她逐渐陷入了深度抑郁。
But she was not sent to a labor camp but was instead moved to a regular room while she was treated for ulcers. She was also allowed to place a few calls and send letters to her sister, husband and parents in the United States. She even taught curious guards a few yoga poses.	但她没有被送往劳改营，而是在接受溃疡治疗期间被转移到了一个普通房间。她还获准给在美国的姐姐、丈夫和父母打过几次电话，写过一些信。她甚至还给好奇的警卫教了几个瑜伽姿势。
The two women were released later in 2009 after former President Bill Clinton visited Pyongyang.	2009年早些时候，在前总统比尔·克林顿(Bill Clinton)访问平壤后，她们两人获释。
It was a similar pattern for Kenneth Bae, a Korean-American missionary who was sentenced to 15 years of hard labor on charges of trying to establish a secret proselytizing network in the North.	这和韩裔美国人肯尼斯·裴(Kenneth Bae)的情况类似。他被以试图在朝鲜建立秘密传教网络的罪名判处15年劳改。
In his book "Not Forgotten," Mr. Bae said his North Korean captors interrogated him up to 15 hours a day for the first four weeks. His treatment improved only after he wrote a confession in which he described himself as a terrorist who plotted to overthrow the government.	在《不曾遗忘》(Not Forgotten)一书中，肯尼斯·裴说，前四周，将他抓起来的朝鲜人对他的审讯最长可达一天15个小时。在他写了一份供状，把自己说成是一个密谋颠覆朝鲜政府的恐怖分子后，对方对他的态度才有所改善。
Mr. Bae toiled on a soybean farm and lost more than 30 pounds. But he was allowed to read emails from his family and friends in the United States. He was hospitalized three times for problems including diabetes, an enlarged heart and back pain. And he was permitted to read his Bible.	肯尼斯·裴在一个大豆农场里辛苦劳作，体重减少了逾30磅(约合14公斤)。但他获准看在美国的家人和朋友发给他的电子邮件。他曾因糖尿病、心脏肿大和背部疼痛等问题三次住院治疗。他还获准阅读《圣经》。
While his treatment was harsh, Mr. Bae said he also sensed an	尽管受到了严苛的对待，但肯尼斯·裴说，他也感受到了在意海外形象的朝鲜

undercurrent of respect toward foreigners by the North Korean authorities, who were concerned about their image abroad. He was never beaten, said Mr. Bae, who was freed in 2014 after the American government sent the director of national intelligence at the time, James R. Clapper Jr., to Pyongyang.	当局对外国人潜藏的尊重。他说自己从没遭到殴打。2014年，在美国政府派时任国家情报总监小詹姆斯·R·克拉珀(James R. Clapper Jr.)到访平壤后，肯尼斯·裴获释。
Some of the American detainees even said they were treated rather decently.	部分被关押的美国人甚至说他们受到了相当不错的对待。
Matthew Todd Miller said he was surprised that he was allowed to keep his iPhone and iPad for "at least a month" after his arrival in North Korea, enabling him to listen to music and access other stored information, although he could not use them to send or receive messages.	马修·托德·米勒(Matthew Todd Miller)说，他惊讶于到达朝鲜后，他获准把自己的iPhone和iPad保留了“至少一个月”。这让他能够听音乐并使用已存储的其他信息，不过他无法用它们收发信息。
"I was prepared for the torture. But instead of that, I was killed with kindness," he said in an interview with NK News.	"我做好了接受严刑拷打的准备。但让我坐立不安的不是酷刑，而是善意，"他在接受"朝鲜新闻"(NK News)的采访时说。
Another former detainee, Jeffrey E. Fowle, also said he was never harmed physically during nearly six months in detention.	曾被朝鲜关押的杰弗里·E·福尔(Jeffrey E.Fowle)也表示在被关押的近六个月期间，他从没有受到身体上的伤害。
Arturo Pierre Martinez said he was treated "well," and was even allowed out to take photos like a tourist.	阿图罗·皮埃尔·马丁内斯(Arturo Pierre Martinez)说自己受到了“良好”的对待，甚至获准像游客一样拍照。
Mr. King said North Korea appeared to be very concerned about the health of the Americans it held.	金说，朝鲜似乎非常在意被其关押的美国人的健康。
"They don't want anyone to die on their watch," he said. "This is why the Otto Warmbier case is unusual."	"他们不希望任何人死在自己手里，"他说。"这正是奥托·瓦姆比尔这件事不同寻常的所在。"
In his book "The Last P.O.W.," the journalist Mike Chinoy said that a North Korean doctor and nurse appeared to check the blood pressure, pulse and heartbeat of Merrill E. Newman, then an 85-year-old	在《最后的战俘》(The Last P.O.W.)一书中，记者迈克·奇诺伊(Mike Chinoy)说，一名朝鲜医护人员似乎一天要给当时已85岁的美籍被关押人员梅里尔·E·纽曼(Merrill E. Newman)测量四次血压、脉搏和心跳。2013年，纽曼

American detainee, four times a day. Mr. Newman was released after 42 days in 2013.	在被关押 42 天后获释。
"The North Koreans have traditionally not wanted to keep Americans if there's a possibility of having a health issue," Mr. King said.	"如果存在出现健康问题的可能，朝鲜传统上不希望继续关押美国人，"金说。
Mr. King said that Mr. Warmbier was treated much like other Americans until his trial in March last year, when he was sentenced to 15 years of hard labor for trying to steal a political banner from his hotel in Pyongyang.	金还表示，朝鲜对待瓦姆比尔和对待其他美国人很像，直到去年3月的审判。在法庭上，瓦姆比尔因试图从他在平壤住的酒店盗取一幅政治标语而被判处15年劳役。
What happened afterward is unclear. His family in Cincinnati reportedly was told that after his trial he contracted botulism and took a sleeping pill, and then fell into a coma. Mr. King suspected that North Korea may have been less willing to provide information about Mr. Warmbier's health during rising tension over recent American sanctions against the country.	之后发生的事情尚不清楚。据报道，他在辛辛那提的家人被告知，审判结束后他似乎是肉毒杆菌中毒，并服用了一片安眠药，然后就陷入了昏迷。金猜测，在美国近期对朝鲜实施的制裁导致紧张关系日渐升级期间，朝鲜可能不那么愿意提供瓦姆比尔的健康信息。
The news about Mr. Warmbier deepened the anxiety among families of South Koreans and Japanese citizens held in the North. North Korea is accused of kidnapping more than 450 South Koreans, mostly fishermen, and 12 Japanese citizens in the decades after the Korean War.	有关瓦姆比尔的消息加剧了被朝鲜关押的韩国和日本公民家人的担忧。朝鲜被控在朝鲜战争之后的几十年里，绑架了超过450名韩国人——主要是渔民——和12名日本公民。
"This sounded like a warning to us, signaling what might happen to our family members if we spoke out against human rights abuses in the North," said Hwang In-cheol, whose father was on a South Korean airliner hijacked to the North in 1969.	"这听起来像是对我们的警告，表明如果我们继续公开指责朝鲜国内侵犯人权的行为，我们的家人身上可能会发生什么，"黄寅哲（Hwang In-cheol，音）说。1969年，他父亲乘坐的一架韩国飞机被劫持到了朝鲜。
The families of the Japanese citizens who the government says were abducted by North Korea in the 1970s and early '80s know the pain of	在70年代和80年代初被政府认为遭到朝鲜绑架的日本公民的家人，知道等待亲人归来的痛苦。朝鲜告诉日本政府，12人中8人已不在人世，但很

waiting for loved ones to return. North Korea has told the Japanese government that eight of the 12 are now dead but many families refuse to give up.	多家庭拒绝放弃。
Shigeo Iizuka, 79, refuses to believe that his sister, Yaeko Taguchi, who was abducted in 1978, died in a traffic accident in North Korea.	79岁的饭冢成夫(Shigeo Iizuka, 音)不愿相信他在1978年被绑架的妹妹田口八重子(Yaeko Taguchi)死在了朝鲜的一起交通事故中。
"All we want is that all the abductees, including Yaeko, return as soon as possible," he said.	"我们只希望所有被绑架的人,包括八重子,尽快回家,"他说。
He said he was shocked to hear of Mr. Warmbier's release in a coma. "It's like a warning to the U.S.," he said.	他称自己听到瓦姆比尔在昏迷中获释时很震惊。“这像是对美国的一个警告,”他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170615/north-korea-otto-warmbier-	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170615/north-korea-otto-warmbier-
In Singapore, Prime Minister's Siblings Are Taking Private Feud Public SINGAPORE — In an unusually public escalation of a feud within Singapore's first family, Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong's siblings have accused him of misusing his position to advance his personal agenda and of betraying the legacy of their father, Singapore's first prime minister, Lee Kuan Yew.	新加坡第一家庭内斗激化,李显龙兄妹反目 新加坡——在一场罕见地公开激化的新加坡第一家庭内斗中,总理李显龙被自己的弟弟妹妹指责以权谋私,背弃了他们的父亲、新加坡开国总理李光耀的遗志。
"We feel big brother omnipresent," the prime minister's sister, Lee Wei Ling, and brother, Lee Hsien Yang, wrote in a statement posted on Facebook on Wednesday. Lee Hsien Yang added that he planned to leave Singapore "for the foreseeable future" because of his brother.	"我们感到老大哥无处不在,"总理的妹妹李玮玲和弟弟李显扬在一篇周三发表于Facebook的声明中说。李显扬还说,由于这位兄长的存在,他打算"在未来的一段时间"远离新加坡。
The prime minister, who is on an overseas trip with his family, issued his own statement, rejecting the allegations.	目前正与家人在海外的总理也发表声明,否认了这些指控。
"I am very disappointed that my siblings have chosen to issue a statement publicizing private family matters," he wrote on his Facebook	"姐妹弟兄选择用声明的方式公开家事,令我深感失望,"他在Facebook上写道。"自父亲于2015年3月去世以来,出于对父母的尊重,我作为长子一

page. "Since my father's passing in March 2015, as the eldest son I have tried my best to resolve the issues among us within the family, out of respect for our parents."	直尽最大努力在家庭内部达成和解。”
Their father served as Singapore's prime minister from 1959 until 1990, but remained until late into his life the dominant personality and driving force in what he called "a first world oasis in a third world region." Although his leadership was accused of suppressing freedoms, it was credited with transforming resource-poor Singapore into a wealthy international business and financial center.	他们的父亲在 1959 年到 1990 年间担任新加坡总理，但在这个被他称为“第三世界地区中的一片第一世界绿洲”里，卸任后的李光耀一直到晚年都是一言九鼎的人物，极具影响力。有人指责他治下的新加坡压制自由，然而能将这个资源匮乏的国家变成富有的国际商业和金融中心，也是他的功劳。
Public criticism of leaders is rare in Singapore, and the open rift within the Lee family has shocked many. The differences between the siblings first broke into the open last year, on the anniversary of Lee's death, when Lee Wei Ling published excerpts from emails in which she accused her brother of exploiting the commemoration ceremonies to abuse his power and "establish a dynasty."	公开批评领导人在新加坡是很少见的，李家的这场公开争斗令许多人感到震惊。双方的不和在去年李光耀忌辰时就已经暴露出来，当时李玮玲公布了一些电邮节选，在其中她指责哥哥利用纪念仪式谋取私利，以便“建立一个王朝”。
At the center of the dispute is a house that belonged to their father. In their statement on Wednesday, the two younger Lees said their older brother had taken steps to hinder their father's will, which called for the house to be demolished. The prime minister's siblings accused him of wanting to preserve it as a monument for his political advantage.	这场冲突的中心是他们的父亲名下的一处房产。在周三的声明中，两人指责哥哥没有遵照父亲的遗嘱将房子拆除。他们指责他想把房子留作纪念馆，为他自己的政治生涯所用。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170615/singapore-lee-hsien-loon-g-siblings	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170615/singapore-lee-hsien-loon-g-siblings
As Trump Bets on China's Help on North Korea, Aides Ask: Is It Worth It?	寄望于习近平，特朗普在朝鲜问题上押错注？
WASHINGTON — There is no foreign leader on whom President Trump has placed a bigger bet than Xi Jinping of China.	华盛顿——特朗普总统在中国的习近平身上押的赌注，超过了任何一个外国领导人。

Mr. Trump's gamble was based on his calculation that Mr. Xi, the Chinese president, could put heavy pressure on North Korea to curb its nuclear weapons and missile programs. To secure Mr. Xi's cooperation, the president soft-pedaled his harsh stance on China's trade practices, and has said little about its adventurism in the South China Sea.	特朗普的赌博依据的是他对习近平的推断，认为这位中国国家主席能向朝鲜施加重压，以遏制其核武器和导弹计划。为了争取习的合作，总统软化了此前在中国贸易做法方面的强硬立场，并对该国在南海的冒险行径不闻不问。
But a growing number of Mr. Trump's aides fear that the bet is not paying off.	然而越来越多特朗普的助手开始担心，他这一次是押错了宝。
China has not significantly tightened the pressure on North Korea since Mr. Trump met with Mr. Xi in Palm Beach, Fla., in April. Its failure to do more has frustrated White House officials, who plan to raise the issue with their Chinese counterparts at a high-level meeting here on June 21.	自特朗普与习近平于今年4月在佛罗里达州棕榈滩会面以来，中国并未显著加大对朝鲜的施压力度。白宫官员因中国没有采取更多行动而感到沮丧，他们打算在6月21日的一场高层会晤中向中方对等官员提出这一问题。
China's reluctance to exert its influence in this regard has left the Trump administration with few good options in dealing with the North Korea crisis. And it may lead the administration to try to negotiate with North Korea's leaders, an approach that did not work for Mr. Trump's predecessors but which he has periodically seemed to embrace.	中国不愿在这方面施加影响，让特朗普政府在处理朝鲜危机的过程中基本没有了太好的选择。这或许会促使特朗普政府设法与朝鲜领导人谈判，此种方针在特朗普的前任们看来并不管用，但他本人似乎不时地表示出认可的态度。
The White House stepped gingerly in the direction of engagement this week when it sent a senior diplomat to North Korea to obtain the release of Otto F. Warmbier, a gravely ill American prisoner. The encounter, some former American officials said, could lay the predicate for further such conversations.	本周，当白宫为了让朝鲜释放遭监禁的美国重病犯人奥托·F·瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)而派去一名高级外交官的时候，它朝着与朝鲜接触的方向迈出了小心翼翼的一步。一些美国官员称，此次接触可能会为将来的类似对话奠定基础。
But North Korea's inhumane treatment of Mr. Warmbier, 22, complicates the prospects for diplomacy. At an emotional news conference on Thursday, Mr. Warmbier's father said his son had been	但现年22岁的瓦姆比尔在朝鲜遭受的非人道待遇，让通过外交途径化解危机的前景变得更为复杂。周四，瓦姆比尔的父亲在一场令人动容的新闻发布会上表示，自己的儿子在被关押的18个月里“遭到了残酷对待与恐吓威胁”；

"brutalized and terrorized" during 18 months of captivity; doctors said the son had sustained a severe neurological injury.	医生称，瓦姆比尔的神经系统严重受损。
Still, current and former officials said the administration was unlikely to shift its strategy because of the mistreatment of a single American, no matter how horrific. The most likely outcome, they said, is that any future contacts with North Korea will be conducted in the utmost secrecy.	不过，一些现任官员和前官员说，特朗普政府不太可能因为一个美国人受到虐待而改变其战略，不论这虐待有多恐怖。他们说，最有可能出现的情形是，未来与朝鲜的任何接触，都将以极其秘密的方式进行。
"The Trump administration has made it quite clear that this is an all-of-the-above approach," said Daniel R. Russel, who served as assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs under President Barack Obama. "They will explore what kind of official or unofficial contacts with North Korea can advance the cause."	"特朗普政府已经非常清楚地表明了一切都在考虑范围内的原则，"贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)总统任内负责东亚事务的助理国务卿丹尼尔·R·拉塞尔(Daniel R. Russel)说。"他们会与朝鲜进行所有可以推进此项议程的官方和非官方接触。"
Mr. Trump's aides are also motivated by South Korea's recent election, which brought to power a progressive leader more interested in engagement than confrontation with the North. The president, Moon Jae-in, halted the deployment of an American antimissile system.	韩国最近的总统选举也促使特朗普的助手们做出行动，被选上台的是一名更倾向于与朝鲜接触而非对峙的进步派领导人。文在寅(Moon Jae-in)总统下令暂停了一个美国反导系统的部署。
The Chinese are among those most interested in a meeting between Mr. Trump the North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un, officials said, in part because that would put the onus for a solution on Washington, not Beijing. For the moment, though, the White House is more focused on getting China to put pressure on its neighbor.	官员称，中国人是最希望看到特朗普和朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)会晤的人之一，在某种程度上是因为这样一来寻求解决之道的皮球就会被踢给华盛顿，而不是北京。不过目前看来，白宫更侧重于让中国向其邻国施压。
Mr. Trump came into office promising to challenge China on a range of issues. But the imminent danger posed by North Korea's nuclear and missile programs changed that calculus.	特朗普上台前承诺，会就一系列议题向中国发起挑战。但朝鲜核计划和导弹项目引发的迫在眉睫的危险，让他的盘算有所改变。
In April, he said Mr. Xi would be his partner in curbing Mr. Kim. Two	他于今年4月表示，在约束金正恩方面，习近平会是他的伙伴。两周后，美

weeks later, the Treasury Department declined to designate China as a currency manipulator, something Mr. Trump had promised to do during his presidential campaign.	国财政部拒绝将中国列为汇率操纵国——而特朗普在竞选期间曾承诺要给中国贴上这一标签。
Since then, there is scant evidence of a crackdown by Beijing on Chinese trade with North Korea. The Chinese government has not announced the shutdown of any major trading companies, nor have traders in Dandong, the Chinese port city on the North Korean border, reported any signs of movement against their companies. The North Koreans have fired 16 missiles this year, nine of them since the summit meeting between Mr. Trump and Mr. Xi.	没有证据显示此后北京对中朝贸易实施了打压。中国政府未宣布关闭任何大型贸易公司，中朝边境港口城市丹东的贸易商也未报告他们的公司有任何遭到打压的迹象。朝鲜今年已经发射了 16 枚导弹，其中 9 枚是在特朗普和习近平的首脑会议之后发射的。
“It is worrisome that the president seems to think he has convinced Xi Jinping to change course,” said Michael J. Green, a senior adviser on Asia in the National Security Council of President George W. Bush. “That’s the position he has staked out publicly, and it has huge implications for the region. He should not have oversold it.”	“令人担心的是，总统似乎认为他已经说服习近平改弦易辙，”乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)总统任内的国家安全委员会(National Security Council)亚洲事务高级顾问迈克尔·J·格林(Michael J. Green)说。“他公开亮明的这一立场，已经对该地区造成巨大影响。他本不该过分夸大这一点。”
Mr. Trump’s quid pro quo has sowed concern in Japan and Southeast Asia, where officials are worried that the United States is muting its response to China’s aggressions in the South China Sea or could put off arms sales to Taiwan — actions that administration officials deny.	特朗普的利益交换策略在日本和东南亚引发了担忧，那些地方的官员担心，美国会对中国在南海咄咄逼人的姿态沉默以待，又或者会取消对台军售——特朗普政府的官员对这些予以否认。
To raise the pressure on China, administration officials said the United States was considering sanctions on a range of Chinese individuals and banks that do business with North Korea — a step that could aggravate tensions with China and sour Mr. Trump’s fledgling relationship with Mr. Xi.	政府官员称，为了向中国施加更大的压力，美国正考虑对中国的一些与朝鲜有业务往来的个人和银行实施制裁——此举可能会让中美关系更趋紧张，同时损害特朗普和习近平之间新建立的联系。
The next opportunity for the two leaders to meet face to face is at the	两名领导人下一次会面的契机是 7 月在德国汉堡举行的 G20 峰会。但一名

Group of 20 meeting in Hamburg, Germany, in July. But a senior official said China's responsiveness on North Korea could affect whether the White House schedules a one-on-one meeting.	高级官员称，中国对朝鲜问题的反应，可能会成为白宫是否安排一对一会面的影响因素。
It is not clear that even these steps would prod China to radically alter its approach to North Korea, which is driven less by concern over its nuclear ambitions than a dread of what a collapsed North would mean for China, with which it shares an 880-mile-long border.	目前还不清楚，这些措施能否促使中国在对待朝鲜的方式上发生剧烈的转变。相比于对朝鲜核野心的担忧，中国更担心一个垮掉的朝鲜对中国来说意味着什么——朝鲜与中国有着 880 英里（约合 1416 公里）的共同边界。
Impatience with China has simmered for weeks inside the White House. But only in recent days has it begun to show.	对中国的不耐烦情绪已经在白宫内部发酵了几周，但直到最近几天才开始显露出来。
"We cannot allow China to use its economic power to buy its way out of other problems, whether it's militarizing islands in the South China Sea or failure to put appropriate pressure on North Korea," Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson said last week in Sydney, Australia.	"我们不能允许中国用自己的经济实力绕过其他问题，不管是将南海的岛屿军事化，还是没有给朝鲜施加适当的压力，"美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)上周在澳大利亚的悉尼说。
Mr. Trump himself has withheld public judgment of Mr. Xi. At a rally in April to mark his first 100 days in office, the president said it would have been counterproductive to designate China as a currency manipulator at a time when he was seeking the government's help on North Korea. And he said he had developed a sense for Mr. Xi over hours of talks.	特朗普本人一直没有对习近平发表公开评价。在今年 4 月举行的纪念他上任百天的集会活动上，特朗普表示，在他试图获得中国政府在朝鲜问题上的帮助时，将中国指为货币操纵国，将会适得其反。他还提到，经过与习近平数小时的交谈，他已经对他有了一定的了解。
"He's a good man," Mr. Trump told his supporters. "Now, he's representing China. He's not representing us. But he's a good man. And I believe he wants to get that situation taken care of. They have tremendous power, and we'll see what happens."	"他是个好人，"特朗普对记者讲道。"现在，他在代表中国，不是代表我们。但他是个好人。我相信他想解决那种情况。他们有巨大的力量，我们会拭目以待。"
In his Twitter feed, the president has veered between optimism and mild finger wagging toward China.	在 Twitter 上，总统对中国的态度在乐观主义和温和指责之间摇摆。
On April 21, he wrote, "China is very much the economic lifeline to	今年 4 月 21 日，他写道，"对朝鲜来说，中国就像是它的经济生命线，但没

North Korea so, while nothing is easy, if they want to solve the North Korea problem, they will." On May 29, after another missile test, Mr. Trump wrote: "North Korea has shown great disrespect for their neighbor, China, by shooting off yet another missile ... but China is trying hard!"	有什么事是容易的。如果真的有心解决朝鲜问题，他们会解决的。“5月29日，特朗普在朝鲜又进行了一次核试验之后写道：“朝鲜又发射了一枚导弹，这是对他们的邻国中国极大的不尊重……不过中国正在努力！”
In the last month, traders said Chinese exports to North Korea were being inspected more thoroughly. The provincial authorities have warned traders not to hide banned goods that can be used in the North's nuclear program — chemicals, for example — in general cargo.	上月，贸易商表示中国对朝鲜的出口受到更加严格的审查。省级政府警告贸易商不要在一般货物中藏匿可以被朝鲜用来制造核武器的被禁商品，比如化学制品。
Some longtime diplomats predicted that the Chinese would announce some modest measures — cracking down on a handful of banks or companies without potent political ties — as a way of giving Mr. Trump just enough evidence to show that his confidence in Mr. Xi was not wholly misplaced.	据一些老资格的外交官预测，中国会宣布一些适度的措施——对一小批没有强大政治关系的银行或企业进行打击——以便给特朗普刚刚好的证据，去证明他对习近平的信任也不全错。
"There is a perception that the Chinese played to his vanity and fleeced him," said Chris Hill, a special envoy on North Korea during the George W. Bush administration. "It puts him in an awkward position. My sense is they know that calculation and want to deliver on it."	“有一种观念是，中国利用他的虚荣，骗了他，”曾在乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)政府时期担任朝鲜事务特使的克里斯·希尔(Chris Hill)说。“这让他处在一个尴尬的位置。我的感觉是，他们知道他的算盘，也打算满足他。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170616/china-xi-jinping-trump-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170616/china-xi-jinping-trump-north-korea
Gangsters, Grandmothers and Gold: Japan's New Crime Wave	日本大妈走私黄金，单次金额上百万美元
TOKYO — Sometimes the perpetrators are gangsters. Sometimes they are rather less accustomed to the criminal life. In one case, the ringleader of a middle-aged, female crime ring was said to be a 66-year-old woman.	东京——有时候案犯是帮派成员。有时候则是一些对犯罪生活远没有那么习以为常的人。一起案件中，一个中年女性犯罪团伙的头目，据说是一名66岁女子。

An old-fashioned crime is experiencing a resurgence in Japan: gold smuggling. Authorities say they are contending with a startling rise in the amount of gold being brought illegally into the country. The smugglers — an array of professional criminals and enterprising amateurs — profit by dodging import duties and taxes, in some cases worth millions of dollars. Arrests have jumped 40-fold in just a few years.	在日本，黄金走私这种旧式的犯罪活动正经历复兴。当局称，他们正设法应对以惊人的速度增长的入境黄金走私。走私者——一群专业罪犯和大胆的非专业人士——通过避开进口税获利，走私金额有时高达数百万美元。短短几年间，因此被捕的人数竟增加了 40 倍。
The smuggling has gained national attention because of a spate of high-profile episodes, including a brazen gold robbery by thieves dressed as police officers; the seizure of multimillion-dollar gold cargoes from fishing boats and private jets; and the foiling of the smuggling ring the police have said was organized by a 66-year-old housewife.	黄金走私引起国际社会的重视，是因为接连发生了一系列夺人眼球的事件。其中包括：盗贼扮成警察公然抢劫黄金；经由渔船和私人飞机运送的价值数百万美元的黄金被扣；还有一个据警方说由一名 66 岁家庭主妇组建的走私团伙被摧毁。
Crime rates in Japan are among the world's lowest and have been falling further as the population ages. But some nonviolent crimes, like shoplifting or embezzlement, have remained more common than other offenses — say, murder or armed robbery.	日本是世界上犯罪率最低的国家之一，而且随着人口的老龄化，其犯罪率还在进一步下降。但一些非暴力犯罪，比如行窃或贪污，一向比谋杀或持械抢劫之类的其他犯罪更常见。
Experts say gold smuggling is the type of crime that might appeal even in law-and-order Japan: It requires no violence, has no victims except state coffers and does not call for an aging person to carry a gun.	专家称，即便是在崇尚法律和秩序的日本，黄金走私或许也是一种颇为诱人的犯罪：它无需暴力，除了国库以外没有受害者，也不需要让上了年纪的人持枪。
This month, police in central Japan arrested five women in their 50s and 60s on suspicion of hiding nearly 70 pounds of gold in their clothing on flights from South Korea, a haul worth about $1.2 million.	本月，日本中部的警察逮捕了五名五六十岁的女性，她们涉嫌在来自韩国的航班上把将近 70 磅黄金藏在衣服里，总价值约为 120 万美元。
The woman accused of leading the group, the 66-year-old, admitted making eight such trips in the past three years, according to police.	警方称，被控领导该团伙的一名现年 66 岁的女性承认，在过去三年里安排了八趟这样的行程。日本的犯罪分子为她和她的同伴报销飞机票和住酒店的

Criminals in Japan covered the airfare and hotel bills of her and her companions and paid them $200 to $400 per pound of smuggled gold. (The women were in custody and could not be reached for comment, directly or through legal representatives.)	费用,每走私一磅黄金付给她们 200 至 400 美元酬劳。(这些女子遭到拘留,记者未能与其取得联系并请其直接置评或通过法律代表置评。)
Some smugglers work on a larger scale.	一些走私者会干更大手笔的买卖。
The coast guard said last month that it stopped a fishing boat loaded with about 460 pounds of gold, worth roughly $9.1 million. In a separate case in December, two men connected to a yakuza crime syndicate, the Inagawa-kai, were arrested at an airport in Okinawa after flying in from Macau with 250 pounds of gold stashed aboard a Gulfstream private jet.	日本海上保安厅上月称其截停的一艘渔船载有约 460 磅黄金,价值约为 910 万美元。在去年 12 月的另一起案件中,两名与黑帮犯罪集团稻川会(Inagawa-kai)有关联的男子在冲绳的一个机场被捕,他们是从澳门乘一架湾流(Gulfstream)私人飞机入境的,在飞机上藏匿了 250 磅黄金。
Smugglers have sometimes become targets. Two who were on their way to a cash-for-gold shop in Fukuoka last year were confronted by criminals in police uniforms who relieved them of cases containing several hundred pounds of gold bars, worth $6.9 million. Six men were arrested last month in connection with the robbery.	走私者自己有时会被盯上。去年,两名走私者前往福冈一家经营现金换黄金业务的店铺途中,与身着警服的犯罪分子遭遇,那些人拿走了他们随身携带的箱子,箱中装有几百磅金条,价值 690 万美元。与这起劫案有关的六名男子于上月被捕。
Gold smugglers are essentially profiting from the tax law.	黄金走私者实际上是靠税法获利。
The police say the smuggled gold comes from places where purchases are not taxed, like Hong Kong or Macau. It is ferreted in mostly by plane, either directly or through neighboring South Korea, which shares air links with many Japanese cities. The smugglers, unlike legitimate importers, hide their cargoes from customs agents and skip an 8 percent duty on gold brought into the country.	警方称,走私的黄金来自购买时无需交税的地方,比如香港或澳门。它们大多是由从邻国韩国直飞日本或者在那里中转的飞机运进来的,韩国与日本的很多城市都通航。走私者和合法的进口商不同,会让自己的货物避开海关人员的视线,避缴日本对进口黄金征收的 8% 的税。
Once in Japan, the gold is sold at pawnshoplike cash-for-gold stores. Such enterprises pay sellers, even individual ones, the value of the metal	与此同时,在日本,走私黄金会被卖到类似于当铺的以现金换黄金的店铺里。这些店铺会向卖方支付黄金的价款外加消费税——哪怕对方身为个人。这是

in addition to sales tax. That is the key to profit: Smugglers pocket the tax portion, netting an automatic gain of 8 percent. While the margin might sound small, for a commodity worth more than $1,000 an ounce, the money can quickly add up. A sales tax increase in 2014 expanded the potential for profit.	获利的关键：走私者把税钱揣进腰包，自动获取8%的收益。利润看似不大，但这是一种每盎司价值1000多美元的商品，赚的钱很快就能积少成多。2014年的消费税上调让利润空间得到了拓展。
The risks, by contrast, can seem small.	相比之下，风险看起来会很小。
While it is impossible to know how many smugglers avoid detection, specialists say most probably do. A man and a woman arrested on suspicion of gold smuggling in 2009 said they had made 56 round trips to Hong Kong and Australia, netting a profit of $1.4 million, before getting caught, according to records collected by customs authorities.	专家称，虽然无法知道有多少走私者避开了盘查，但大多数人很可能都避开了。根据海关当局收集的记录，因涉嫌走私黄金在2009年被捕的一男一女说，他们被捕前到香港和澳大利亚去过56趟，赚了140万美元。
The unlucky few who do get caught are typically charged only with evading the sales tax, an offense that carries a maximum fine of about $90,000. Once the fine is paid, the gold is usually returned, customs officials said.	运气不好被逮到的少数人，通常只会被控逃缴消费税。针对这一罪行的罚金上限是9万美元。海关官员说，一旦缴清罚金，黄金通常会被返还。
Smuggling cases have multiplied. During the decade before the sales tax increase, police arrested about 10 people on suspicion of gold smuggling-related tax evasion in a typical year, according to data compiled by the Ministry of Finance. In 2015, there were 294 arrests, a pace that continued last year, officials say, though official figures for 2016 are not yet available.	黄金走私案的数量已急剧增多。根据日本财务省汇编的数据，消费税上调前的十年间，警方一年通常只会以涉嫌从事与黄金走私相关的逃税活动为由，逮捕约10人。而在2015年共有294人被捕，2016年的官方数字尚未公布，但官员称，这一趋势去年还在继续。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170616/japan-gold-smuggling-crime-rates	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170616/japan-gold-smuggling-crime-rates
North Korea Says Otto Warmbier Was Released on 'Humanitarian Grounds'	朝鲜称释放美国大学生出于人道主义

SEOUL, South Korea — North Korea said on Thursday that it had freed the American college student Otto F. Warmbier on “humanitarian grounds” but did not reveal any details of his medical condition or the diplomatic negotiations that led to his release.	韩国首尔——朝鲜周四说，该国出于“人道主义考虑”释放了美国大学生奥托·F·瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)，但没有透露关于他病情、或让他得以获释的外交谈判的任何细节。
After he was held for more than a year in North Korea, Mr. Warmbier, 22, was flown from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, to Ohio, his home state, in a coma on Tuesday. Mr. Warmbier has been in a coma since shortly after he was sentenced to 15 years of hard labor during a one-hour trial in March last year, according to his family members, who were briefed by American officials.	朝鲜曾将现年 22 岁的瓦姆比尔关押了一年多，本周二，他在昏迷中被送上飞机，从朝鲜首都平壤飞往他家所在的美国俄亥俄州。美国官员已向他的家人介绍了有关情况，据他的家人说，自从去年 3 月，瓦姆比尔在一小时的法庭审理中被判处 15 年劳动教养之后不久，他就一直处于昏迷状态。
Doctors were evaluating Mr. Warmbier at the University of Cincinnati Medical Center, where he was admitted shortly after the plane carrying him landed in Cincinnati.	载着瓦姆比尔的飞机在辛辛那提降落不久，他被送往辛辛那提大学医学中心，那里的医生正在对他的状态进行评估。
A one-sentence dispatch on Thursday by the North’s state-run Korean Central News Agency was the country’s first official comment on Mr. Warmbier since his release.	朝鲜官方通讯社朝中社周四发表的一句话声明是该国在瓦姆比尔获释后发表的首次正式评论。
Mr. Warmbier’s release came after a series of low-key communications between United States and North Korean officials in recent months, even as the North conducted missile tests and Washington hinted at the possibility of military action to stop the country’s advancing nuclear weapons program.	瓦姆比尔的获释发生在美国和朝鲜官员近几个月来的一系列低调沟通之后，尽管在这段时间里，朝鲜进行了多次导弹试验，华盛顿也暗示可能会采取军事行动来阻止朝鲜不断发展的核武器计划。
In Oslo last month, Joseph Y. Yun, the State Department’s point person on North Korea, met with Choe Son-hui of the North Korean Foreign Ministry, who handled relations with Washington, to push for the release of all four American citizens then being held in the North.	为促进朝鲜将其关押的四位美国公民都释放出来，美国国务院的朝鲜问题特别代表尹汝尚(Joseph Y. Yun)上个月在奥斯陆与朝鲜外交部官员崔善姬见了面。

Then last week, North Korean diplomats at the United Nations told Mr. Yun that Mr. Warmbier had been in a coma for more than a year. The North later agreed to let Mr. Yun fly to Pyongyang to medically evacuate Mr. Warmbier.	那之后，朝鲜驻联合国的外交官在上周告诉尹汝尚，瓦姆比尔处于昏迷状态已经一年多了。朝鲜后来同意让尹汝尚飞往平壤，安排将瓦姆比尔医疗撤离。
The North told American officials that Mr. Warmbier contracted botulism and slipped into a coma after taking a sleeping pill. Doctors in Cincinnati have yet to comment on North Korea's claim.	朝鲜对美国官员说，瓦姆比尔感染了肉毒菌，在服用安眠药后陷入昏迷状态。辛辛那提的医生还未对朝鲜的说法发表评论。
The North's terse announcement on Thursday served to highlight many other unanswered questions about Mr. Warmbier, such as why North Korea kept his medical condition from United States officials for so long and why it decided to release him.	朝鲜周四发表的简短声明让关于瓦姆比尔的许多尚无答案的问题显得更加突出，比如，为什么朝鲜这么长时间不把他的病情告诉美国官员，为什么朝鲜决定释放他。
President Trump has defined his approach on North Korea as "maximum pressure and engagement." He has repeatedly called on China, the North's only major trading partner, to curtail economic ties with its neighbor to help rein in its nuclear pursuits. But Mr. Trump has also called North Korea's leader, Kim Jong-un, a "pretty smart cookie" and said he would be "honored" to meet him under right circumstances.	特朗普总统把他对朝鲜采用的方法定义为“最大的压力和参与”。他一再呼吁朝鲜唯一的主要贸易伙伴中国，缩减与邻国的经济关系，以帮助遏制朝鲜的核计划。但特朗普也称朝鲜领导人金正恩是一个“相当聪敏的人”，并表示在适当情况下会很“荣幸”地与金正恩见面。
If the North intended Mr. Warmbier's release as a diplomatic overture toward Washington, whether it leads to broader talks would depend on Mr. Warmbier's condition, analysts said.	分析人士说，如果朝鲜释放瓦姆比尔意在华盛顿作出外交姿态的话，这个姿态是否会带来更广泛的谈判将取决于瓦姆比尔的病情。
"Otto is not in great shape right now," his father, Fred Warmbier, told Fox News on Wednesday. "Otto has been terrorized and brutalized for 18 months by a pariah regime in North Korea."	“奥托现在的状态不太好，”他的父亲弗雷德·瓦姆比尔(Fred Warmbier)周三对福克斯新闻说。“奥托被朝鲜遭世界垂弃的政权恫吓和摧残了18个月。”
On Thursday, President Moon Jae-in of South Korea, who is scheduled	周四，韩国总统文在寅说，如果朝鲜停止进一步的导弹与核试验，他的政府

to meet with Mr. Trump on June 29 and 30 in Washington to discuss a joint approach to the North, said that his government was willing to start unconditional talks with the North if it ceased further missile or nuclear tests.	愿意与朝鲜开始无条件的谈判，文在寅已定于6月29日和30日在华盛顿与特朗普会晤。
In a speech marking the 17th anniversary of the 2000 summit meeting between the two Koreas, Mr. Moon urged the North to help promote peace on the divided Korean Peninsula by giving up its nuclear weapons program. He said South Korea would help North Korea rebuild its economy if it chose to denuclearize.	文在寅发表了一篇纪念2000年召开的韩朝首脑会议17周年的讲话，他在讲话中敦促朝鲜放弃核武器计划，说这样做将有助于促进朝鲜半岛的和平统一。他说，如果朝鲜选择无核化，韩国将帮助朝鲜重建经济。
All of Mr. Moon's predecessors in recent decades had made similar proposals, but Mr. Kim has only redoubled his efforts to build missiles capable of delivering nuclear warheads to the United States and its allies. Since taking office last month, Mr. Moon has vowed to play a more assertive role in resolving the North's nuclear crisis through talks, saying that he was willing to meet with Mr. Kim if the circumstances were right.	近几十年来，文在寅的所有前任都有过类似的建议，但金正恩反而在变本加厉地研发导弹，让其具有把核弹头运载到美国及其盟国的能力。文在寅自从上个月上任以来一再发誓，他要通过谈判在解决朝鲜核危机上发挥更大的作用，他说，如果情况适当，他愿意与金正恩见面。
There was no immediate response from the North to Mr. Moon's speech on Thursday.	朝鲜没有在周四对文在寅的讲话做出即时反应。
Mr. Warmbier was convicted on "anti-state" charges for trying to steal a propaganda poster from his hotel after arriving in Pyongyang on a tourist visa in January last year.	瓦姆比尔去年1月持旅游签证到达平壤，他因试图偷走酒店里的一张政治宣传标语，被以“反国家”罪名起诉、并被判有罪。
With Mr. Warmbier's release, three American citizens are currently known to be held in North Korea, all of them Korean-Americans.	瓦姆比尔获释后，朝鲜目前仍拘留着人们知道的三名美国公民，他们都是韩裔美国人。
They include Kim Dong-chul, who was sentenced to 10 years' hard labor on charges of spying and other offenses last year. North Korea has	其中包括金东哲(Kim Dong-chul)，去年他因间谍罪及其他指控被判处10年劳动教养。朝鲜还在最近几周里拘留了金学松(Kim Hak-song)和托尼·金

also detained Kim Hak-song and Tony Kim, also known as Kim Sang-duk, both Korean-American Christians, on unspecified charges in recent weeks.	(Tony Kim, 韩文名金盛德[Kim Sang-duk, 音]), 他们两人都是韩裔美籍基督徒, 拘留他们的罪名不详。
In December, North Korea's Supreme Court sentenced a South Korean-born Canadian pastor, the Rev. Lim Hyeon-soo, to hard labor for life on charges of carrying out "subversive plots" against North Korea.	去年 12 月, 朝鲜最高法院判处一名在韩国出生的加拿大籍牧师林铉洙(Hyeon Soo Lim)终生劳动教养, 他的罪名是在朝鲜进行“颠覆阴谋”活动。
At least six South Korean citizens, most of them Christian missionaries, have also been detained in North Korea on spying and other charges in recent years, officials in the South said.	韩国官员说, 近年来, 至少有六名韩国公民也因间谍等罪名被朝鲜拘留, 他们中大多数是基督教传教士。
The United States does not have diplomatic ties with North Korea. The Swedish Embassy in Pyongyang handles consular affairs for the Americans held there on Washington's behalf. Reached by email, the Swedish ambassador, Torkel Stiernlöf, declined to comment on the conditions of the three Americans still in North Korean custody.	美国与朝鲜没有外交关系。瑞典驻平壤大使馆代表华盛顿处理被朝鲜拘留的美国人的领事事宜。记者通过电子邮件联系到瑞典驻朝鲜大使托克尔·斯特恩洛夫(Torkel Stiernlöf), 他拒绝对仍被朝鲜关押的三名美国人的状况发表评论。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170616/north-korea-otto-warmbier-humanitarian-	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170616/north-korea-otto-warmbier-humanitarian-
Hiding Christians in the Basement: Fear and Heroism in a Philippine War Zone	逃离马拉维: 战火下的基督教逃亡者与穆斯林英雄
MARAWI, Philippines — Three Christian civilians said they had cowered in a basement for weeks while militants inspired by the Islamic State went door to door killing non-Muslims in the southern Philippine city of Marawi before fleeing for their lives at dawn Tuesday.	菲律宾马拉维市——三名信奉基督教的平民说, 他们在周二黎明得以逃生之前, 曾在一个地下室里躲藏了好几周, 在那期间, 受伊斯兰国激励的武装分子正在菲律宾南部的马拉维市挨门挨户地杀死非穆斯林。
"We heard them shouting 'Allahu akbar' and asking neighbors about religion," said Ian Torres, 25, a house painter who had come to Marawi	"我们听到他们一边大喊着'真主至大', 一边问邻居信什么教," 25 岁的伊恩·托雷斯(Ian Torres)说, 他是个到马拉维市寻找工作的房子油漆工。"我们只能

for a job. "We could only hear them. If they could not answer questions about Quran verses, gunfire immediately followed."	听到他们的声音。如果他们不能回答关于古兰经经文的问题，马上伴随而来的就是枪声。”
Their account, and others from people who have fled the battle zone in Marawi, starkly illustrate the brutal religious calculus of the militants as well as the heroic efforts of local Muslims who risked their lives to protect Christian friends and workers.	他们的描述、以及逃离了马拉维市激战区的其他人的描述，赤裸裸地揭示了激进分子残酷的宗教计算，以及当地穆斯林冒着生命危险保护信奉基督教的朋友和工人的英勇行为。
The militants, a coalition of local insurgent groups loyal to the Islamic State, began their assault on the city May 23, announcing their intent to create an Islamic caliphate in the Philippines' only predominantly Muslim city. Since then, nearly 300 people have been killed, the military says.	这些武装分子属于一个忠于伊斯兰国的当地叛乱团体联盟，他们于5月23日开始袭击这座城市，宣布要在菲律宾唯一以穆斯林人口为主的城市建立伊斯兰教的哈里发。军方说，到目前为止已有近300人被打死。
There have been previous reports of the militants threatening or killing Christians, but it is not known how many have died. The military says 26 civilians have been killed, but the militants still control about a fifth of the city, and there may be other areas the military has not reached.	以前曾有过关于武装分子威胁或杀死基督徒的报道，但尚不清楚有多少人已被打死。军方说，已有26名平民被杀，但武装分子仍然控制着城市约五分之一的面积，而且也许还有军方尚未进入的其他地区。
A propaganda video released by the Islamic State on Monday showed what was said to be the execution of six Christians in Marawi. However, it was not possible to verify that the scene was recorded there, and military officials cast doubt on the claim.	伊斯兰国周一发布的宣传视频显示了据说是在马拉维市对六名基督徒执行死刑的情景。但尚不能核实那个情景是否在该地录制，军方官员对视频的说法表示怀疑。
The three Christians who escaped Marawi were among a group of five laborers from Iligan City, about 25 miles to the north, who were hired to refurbish the house of a prominent Muslim trader in Marawi.	从马拉维逃出来的三名基督徒是来自伊利根市的五名打工者中的一部分，他们被雇到马拉维市为一位有名的穆斯林商人装修房子，伊利根市位于马拉维市北部约40公里。
But what was supposed to be a routine job turned into a nightmare when they were trapped in hostile territory with Islamist militants hunting them down.	但是，当他们被困在战火之中、伊斯兰武装分子开始寻找他们时，原本正常的工作变成了一场噩梦。

One of the men, Nick Andilig, 26, said about 50 militants suddenly appeared in the neighborhood where they were working, shouting "Allahu akbar" and displaying a black flag.	三人中 26 岁的尼克·安迪利格(Nick Andilig)说, 约有 50 名武装分子突然出现在他们正在工作的城区, 大喊着“真主至大”, 并打着一面黑旗。
"They claimed to be ISIS out on a mission to cleanse the city," he said, using another name for the Islamic State. He said he thought that meant they would kill all non-Muslims in the area.	"他们声称是 ISIS, 在城里执行清洗任务," 安迪利格说, 他用的是伊斯兰国的另一个名字。他说, 他觉得这意味着他们要杀死城区里所有的非穆斯林。
The fighters appeared to be in their 20s, wore face masks and head gear, and carried long firearms, Andilig said. Some arrived in a police car, which they had apparently stolen.	安迪利格说, 武装分子看上去 20 多岁, 他们戴着面罩和头盔, 拿着长枪。其中一些人是开着警车来的, 警车显然是他们偷来的。
Andilig said their employer hid the workers in his basement. When the militants reached his door, the workers overheard him arguing with them.	安迪利格说, 他们的雇主让工人们躲进了地下室。当武装分子来到他家门口时, 工人偶然听到他与武装分子发生了争吵。
"He told the gunmen that there were no Christians in the house," Andilig said.	"他告诉武装分子, 他家里没有基督徒," 安迪利格说。
The militants eventually moved on to the next house. Then they heard shooting.	武装分子最后离开他家, 去了下一家。然后他们就听到了枪声。
Andilig said he did not see the killings, but when he and his group eventually emerged from hiding, they saw several bodies with what appeared to be gunshot wounds.	安迪利格说, 他没有看到有人被打死, 但是, 当他和他的伙伴们最终从躲藏的地方出来时, 他们看到了几具看起来带有枪伤的尸体。
"Our employer escaped earlier with another household staff," he said. "He said he would come back for us but never made it. He was a good Muslim."	"我们的雇主在早些时候与家里的另一名雇工一起逃了出去," 安迪利格说。"他说, 他会回来接我们, 但他没能成功。他是个很好的穆斯林。"
That left the five workers, four men and a pregnant woman, trapped in the house.	结果是, 这五名工人被困在了房子里, 他们是四名男子和一名怀孕的女子。
For days they subsisted on food the owner had left behind, mostly	好几天, 他们靠雇主留下来的食物为生, 大多是罐头食品和大米, 但这些东

canned goods and rice, but eventually that ran out. They began to leave the house on brief forays to scrounge for food, eating plants they found.	西最终都被吃光了。他们开始短时间地离开房子去找吃的东西，用找到的植物充饥。
They were getting hungry, and the explosions outside, apparently from bombs dropped by military airplanes, had been getting louder.	他们越来越饿，外面的爆炸声也越来越大，军方显然在用飞机投炸弹。
"All of us decided to escape," Andilig said. "But our companion, who is seven months pregnant, could not run along with us. She and her husband decided to stay."	"我们都决定要逃生，"安迪利格说。"但我们有一个同伴怀孕七个月了，不能跟我们一起跑。她和她的丈夫决定留下来。"
"We said we'd try to get rescue for them if we made it out. We also told ourselves that our fate was with the Lord."	"我们说，如果能逃出去，我们会想方设法把他们救出来。我们也告诉自己，自己的命运掌握在天主的手中。"
As dawn broke Tuesday, Andilig, Torres and Arman Langilan, 22, fled.	在周二破晓时，安迪利格、托雷斯和22岁的阿尔曼·朗吉兰(Arman Langilan)开始出逃。
"We told each other, whatever happens, happens," Torres said. "If we get hit and die, that's our fate. But we had to escape. Or at least die trying."	"我们相互说道，无论发生什么，我们都认了。"托雷斯说。"如果我们被打死，那是我们的命。但我们必须逃生。至少要死在逃生的路上。"
They alternated between running and hiding in thick shrubs, eventually reaching the Agos River, which divides the city and separates the area controlled by the militants from that controlled by the Philippine military.	他们时而飞奔，时而隐藏在茂密的灌木丛中，最终到达了阿戈斯河，这条河将城市一分为二，一边是武装分子控制的地区，另一边是菲律宾军方控制的地区。
They tumbled down the banks as bullets fired by snipers sporting black bandannas whizzed over their heads. They plunged into the rushing water, hugging the banks until they saw a clearing, and climbed out on the other side.	戴着黑色头巾的狙击手朝着他们开枪，子弹从他们的头上飞过，他们连滚带爬地从河岸下到河里。跳进快速的河水之中，紧贴着河岸前行，直到看到一片不太急的水后，才涉水爬上了对岸。
They were found by the police wandering, tired and hungry, among the ruins of the city, which the fighting has transformed into a desolate	警察发现他们时，他们正又累又饿地在城市的废墟中徘徊，激烈的战斗已经把城市的这部分变成了一片荒芜，建筑物上弹痕累累，有的被炸得面目全非。

landscape of pockmarked buildings and cratered structures.
At a government checkpoint, they told their stories to the police and to The New York Times.	在政府的一个检查站，他们向警方和《纽约时报》讲述了他们的故事。
All showed signs of trauma. Langilan spoke incoherently and shuddered when bombs from a passing military plane exploded in the distance. Andilig clutched a piece of cucumber, his only real food in days, and repeatedly said he needed a shower.	他们都带有精神创伤的迹象。朗吉兰说起话来语不连贯，当一架军方飞机飞过、其投下的炸弹在远处爆炸时，他直打哆嗦。安迪利格手里紧紧地抓着一块黄瓜，这是他几天来唯一的真正食物，他不停地想说洗澡。
The fate of the two colleagues they left behind remains unknown. Attempts to reach them by mobile phone have been futile.	他们留在后面的两位同事的命运仍未可知。试图用手机与他们联系，但联系不上。
In another Marawi neighborhood, five Muslim police officers hid and protected five Christian construction workers for nearly three weeks.	在马拉维市的另一个城区，五名穆斯林警察把五名信基督教的建筑工人藏了起来，保护他们近三个星期。
"We had our chance to flee because we are Muslims," said Lumla Lidasan, one of the officers. "But as police officers we are mandated to protect the people. So we elected to stay because they will execute the Christian civilians."	"我们有逃生的机会，因为我们是穆斯林，"其中一位名叫鲁姆拉·利达桑(Lumla Lidasan)警官说。"但作为警官，我们的使命就是保护人民。所以我们选择留下来，因为他们会杀死基督教平民。"
Lidasan said he and his colleagues were armed with long rifles, which allowed them to keep the militants at bay while the Christians hid in the basement. Outside, he said, he heard rockets and bombs exploding as the city was reduced to rubble.	利达桑说，他和他的同事们有长枪，这使他们能够不让武装分子靠近，让那几名基督教平民得以在地下室藏身。他说，他听到外面火箭和炸弹的爆炸声不断，城市在爆炸声中变成一堆瓦砾。
"They are not real Muslims," he said. "Real Muslims will not hurt people unprovoked, regardless of religion."	"他们不是真正的穆斯林，"他说。"真正的穆斯林不会伤害无辜的人，不管他们信什么教。"
One of the Christians, Rodel Aleko, 24, said the bombing runs shook their hiding place, but whenever he peered out the window he would see the gunmen still patrolling.	其中一名基督徒、24岁的罗德尔·阿列克(Rodel Aleko)说，他们在藏身之地能感觉到飞机不停的轰炸所产生的震动，但每当他往窗外看时，他都会看到持枪的人仍在巡逻。
A police officer, Ricky Alawi, said there were times that they thought it	一名叫里奇·阿拉维(Ricky Alawi)的警察说，有几次，他们觉得那将是他们所

was going to be the end for all of them. He said they were in radio contact with the army, who told them that there would soon be a bombing run in their area. They decided to take a chance and leave that day, which was Monday.	有人完蛋的时候。他说，他们与军方保持着无线电联系，军方告诉他们，很快会轰炸他们所在的地区。所以他们当天决定冒险离开那里，那是周一。
"As we were fleeing we saw bodies lying on the ground," he said. "The gunmen were shooting at us as we ran toward the next building, where we stayed overnight. One of my colleagues and one of the civilians were injured."	"当我们跑出来时，我们看到地上躺着尸体，"阿拉维说。"枪手在向我们开枪，我们向下一幢大楼跑去，我们在那里过了一夜。我的一名同事和一位平民受了伤。"
When there was a lull in the fighting, the group started slowly walking toward Banggolo Bridge but were stopped by a gunman. Alawi said he told the militant that his colleagues were too traumatized to speak.	当战火出现间歇时，这些人开始慢慢朝着班戈洛桥(Banggolo Bridge)步行，但一名枪手将他们拦住。阿拉维说，他告诉那个武装分子，他的同事们受了太多的精神创伤，说不出话来了。
"He told us to just wait because he would call his companions," Alawi said. "When he left, we ran as fast as we could and crossed the bridge."	"他让我们等等，因为他要打电话给他的同伴，"阿拉维说。"等他刚一离开，我们就拼命地跑过了桥。"
Aleko was wounded when bomb shrapnel hit his left leg, he said, and the blasts were so loud that they may have permanently damaged his hearing.	阿列科说他受了伤，他的左腿被炸弹弹片击中，而且爆炸声如此之大，他的听力可能受到了永久性的损伤。
But he could only feel grateful.	但他唯一的感受是感激。
"This is our second life," he said. "I thank God for these officers."	"这是我们的第二次生命，"他说。"我感谢上帝让这些警官保护了我们。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170619/marawi-philippines-islamic-state-christians	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170619/marawi-philippines-islamic-state-christians
Sleeping Sailors on U.S.S. Fitzgerald Awoke to a Calamity at Sea	离奇海难：美国军舰撞货轮险些沉没
As a U.S. destroyer cruised off the waters of Japan in clear weather after 2 a.m. Saturday, only a few dozen of the crew of 350 were likely to be awake: standing watch, keeping the engines running, manning the bridge.	周六凌晨 2 点过后，天气晴朗，一艘美国驱逐舰正航行在日本海域附近。此时，船上 350 名船员中可能只有几十人是醒着的：站岗、保持发动机运转、在舰桥上值班。

Then, say Navy officers with decades of experience at sea, there were probably minutes of sheer terror aboard the Fitzgerald before the collision with an enormous container ship that killed seven sailors.	然后，一些有数十年海上航行经验的海军军官说，在“菲茨杰拉德”号(Fitzgerald)与一艘巨大的集装箱船相撞，导致七名水兵死亡前，船上出现了持续时间可能长达几分钟的极度恐惧。
“My guess is they suddenly saw the lights of the other ship coming toward them and tried to veer off,” said retired Adm. James G. Stavridis, whose book “Destroyer Captain” recounts his time commanding a similar ship in the mid-1990s. “Suddenly your ship is sinking under you. It’s terrifying.”	“我猜他们突然看到了迎面而来的另一艘船上的灯光，试图转向，”退役海军上将詹姆斯·G·斯塔夫里迪斯(James G. Stavridis)说。斯塔夫里迪斯的著作《驱逐舰舰长》(Destroyer Captain)详细记述了他在90年代中期指挥一艘类似舰船的经历。“突然之间，你脚下的船正在下沉。很可怕。”
Navy leaders Sunday hailed the efforts of the surviving sailors who struggled to seal off compartments and pump out the water that poured in through gaping holes torn in the starboard side.	海军领袖周日称赞了幸存船员的努力。他们奋力封锁船舱，并抽出了通过右侧撕开的一个大洞灌进船里的水。
“Heroic efforts prevented the flooding from catastrophically spreading, which could have caused the ship to founder or sink,” said Vice Adm. Joseph P. Aucoin, commander of the Navy’s Seventh Fleet. “It could have been much worse.”	“英勇举措阻止了海水灾难性地蔓延，那本会导致舰船沉没或下沉，”海军第七舰队(Seventh Fleet)指挥官、海军中将约瑟夫·P·奥库安(Joseph P. Aucoin)说。“情况本来可能严重得多。”
With the aid of tugboats, the Fitzgerald returned Saturday to its home port, the U.S. base at Yokosuka, Japan, south of Tokyo.	在拖船的帮助下，“菲茨杰拉德”号周六回到母港，即位于东京以南横须贺的美国基地。
As hundreds of anxious spouses, children and fellow sailors waited for word, Navy divers entered flooded compartments below decks and recovered the bodies of seven sailors, according to former Navy officials.	据前海军军官介绍，在数百名配偶、子女和水兵战友焦急等候中，海军潜水员进入甲板下被淹没的船舱，找到了七名水兵的遗体。
The Navy released the names Sunday night of the seven sailors aboard the Fitzgerald who were killed in the collision with a container ship. They were all located in flooded berths, the Navy said.	周日晚上，海军公布了“菲茨杰拉德”号上七名在此次与一艘集装箱船相撞事故中死亡的水兵姓名。海军称，他们都是在被水淹没的舱位上找到的。
The sailors were identified as Dakota Kyle Rigsby, 19, of Palmyra,	公布的七名水兵分别是来自弗吉尼亚州帕尔迈拉19岁的达科塔·凯尔·里格斯

Virginia; Shingo Alexander Douglass, 25, of San Diego; Ngoc T Truong Huynh, 25, of Oakville, Connecticut; Noe Hernandez, 26, of Weslaco, Texas; Carlosvictor Ganzon Sibayan, 23, of Chula Vista, California; Xavier Alec Martin, 24, of Halethorpe, Maryland; and Gary Leo Rehm Jr., 37, of Elyria, Ohio.	比(Dakota Kyle Rigsby)、圣迭戈 25 岁的慎吾·亚历山大·道格拉斯(Shingo Alexander Douglass)、康涅狄格州奥克维尔 25 岁的玉·T·张·黄(Ngoc T Truong Huynh)、得克萨斯州韦斯拉科 26 岁的诺埃·赫南德斯(Noe Hernandez)、加利福尼亚州丘拉维斯塔 23 岁的卡尔罗斯维克托·甘佐·西巴扬(Carlosvictor Ganzon Sibayan)、马里兰州黑尔索普 24 岁的沙维尔·亚历克·马丁(Xavier Alec Martin)和俄亥俄州伊利里亚 37 岁的小加里·利奥·雷姆(Gary Leo Rehm Jr.)。
The Navy said the collision inflicted significant damage to the destroyer above and below the water line, flooding berths, a machinery area and the radio room.	海军称，撞击给驱逐舰吃水线以上和以下部位、被淹没的舱位、一个机械区和无线电广播室造成了严重破坏。
Photographs showed the side of the Fitzgerald caved in about one-third of the way back. Among the compartments that flooded were cabins where 116 sailors were sleeping, Aucoin said.	照片显示，“菲茨杰拉德”号的一边塌陷了大约三分之一。奥库安说，进水的舱隔包括 116 名海军睡觉的船舱。
A collision of a U.S. Navy ship resulting in fatalities is extremely rare; veteran seamen could recall only a handful in recent decades.	美国海军的船只发生碰撞并造成人员伤亡的情况非常少见。在最近几十年里，老兵只能想起为数不多的几起。
Aucoin said he would appoint a flag officer to conduct one of several investigations that will seek to establish exactly what happened and to apportion responsibility.	奥库安说，为了弄清楚事故原因并明确责任，将展开多项调查，他将委派一名海军将官进行其中一项调查。
The Navy will conduct a separate safety investigation intended to find lessons on what might be done differently to reduce the risk of such accidents in the future.	海军将进行单独的安全调查，总结经验教训，降低未来再出现这种事故的风险。
The U.S. Coast Guard will also carry out a marine casualty investigation, Aucoin said, evidently because the crash involved a commercial ship, the 29,000-ton ACX Crystal, registered in the Philippines.	奥库安说，美国海岸警卫队(U.S. Coast Guard)也将展开海损事故调查，这显然是因为事故涉及一艘商船，即在菲律宾注册的 2.9 万吨的“ACX 水晶”号(ACX Crystal)。
According to Navy veterans, the main investigation ordered by Aucoin	据海军老兵称，奥库安下令进行的主要调查将把相撞前每一分钟发生的事情

will compile a minute-by-minute timeline of everything that happened before the collision, probably beginning at the moment the ACX Crystal appeared on the Fitzgerald's radar.	做成一份时间表，可能会从“ACX 水晶”号出现在“菲茨杰拉德”号的雷达上那一刻开始。
Investigators will interview everyone who was on duty that night and assess their training, experience, competence and sleep schedule. They will also assess the performance of the radar, which stores a recording like the “black box” on an aircraft.	调查人员将对当晚所有值班人员进行访谈，并评估他们的培训、经验、能力和作息时间表。他们还将评估雷达的性能。雷达存储了一个备份记录，类似于飞机上的“黑匣子”。
They will determine whether anyone on the ship's bridge pulled the collision alarm, a switch that would have caused an extremely loud signal to sound, directing every crew member to rush to their specifically assigned emergency stations on the ship.	他们将确定舰桥上是否有人拉了撞船警报。这个开关本会让船上响起极其刺耳的声音，指示每一个船员跑向自己在船上的指定岗位。
“The crew is highly trained in damage control,” Stavridis said. “That includes fighting fires and fighting flooding.”	“船员受过危害控制的严格训练，”斯塔夫里迪斯说。“包括救火和处理进水问题。”
The investigators' attention will be focused in particular on the Fitzgerald's commander, Cmdr. Bryce Benson, who was in his stateroom on the destroyer's starboard side when the Crystal's bow struck right at that point. He was injured and airlifted by a Japanese Coast Guard helicopter to Yokosuka, along with two other crew members, the Navy said.	调查人员的重点尤其会放在“菲茨杰拉德”号的指挥官、海军中校布赖斯·本森(Bryce Benson)身上。“水晶”号撞上来时，他身在驱逐舰右舷的船长室里。海军说，本森身体受伤，和另外两名船员一起被日本海上保安厅(Japanese Coast Guard)的一架直升飞机送去了横须贺。
“His cabin was destroyed. He's lucky to be alive,” Aucoin said of Benson, 40, who had commanded the Fitzgerald for a little more than one year.	“他的船舱被毁，他能活下来实属幸运，”奥库安说起40岁的本森时表示。事件发生前，本森指挥“菲茨杰拉德”号的时间刚过一年多一点。
Several experienced ship commanders said the captain is all but certain to be relieved of command as a result of the accident.	几名经验丰富的舰船指挥官说，因为这起事故，船长肯定会被解除指挥职务。
“It's a terrible, swift sanction, but it sends a message to everyone else in the fleet — make sure you're training harder, make sure they call you	“这是一种严厉、迅速的处罚，但此举向舰队里的其他所有人发出了一个信号：确保更加努力地训练，确保另一艘船靠近时有人通知你，”麦格拉思说。

when another ship is approaching," McGrath said.
Stavridis, the former destroyer commander, who is now dean of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, said it was too early to speculate about the cause of the collision.	现任塔夫茨大学弗莱彻法律与外交学院(Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University)院长的前驱逐舰指挥官斯塔夫里迪斯说, 现在猜测撞船原因为时过早。
The Fitzgerald, under international maritime rules, would be expected to give the Crystal the right of way because it was on the destroyer's starboard side when they hit. But Stavridis said the container ship "may have carried out some bizarre maneuver" before the crash.	按照国际航海规则,“菲茨杰拉德”号应该给“水晶”号让行,因为两船相撞时“水晶”号在驱逐舰的右侧。但斯塔夫里迪斯说, 相撞前那艘货船“也许做出了某个奇怪的动作”。
Marine traffic records show the Crystal made a series of sharp turns about 25 minutes before the collision, which in crowded seas might conceivably have caused a cascade of maneuvers by other vessels as they tried to avoid one another.	海上交通记录显示, 在发生的大约 25 分钟前, “水晶”号进行了一系列急转弯。在拥挤的海域, 这可能导致其他船只在努力避免相撞时做出大量动作。
Whatever the ultimate findings, Stavridis said, "My heart is really with the captain. He's got a rough passage ahead, to put it in nautical terms."	不管最终调查结论是什么, 斯塔夫里迪斯说, “我的心真的和船长在一起。用航海术语来说, 他接下来会迎来一段波涛汹涌的航程。”
Marc Tuell, who served as a personnel specialist on the Fitzgerald from 2010 to 2013, when he retired from the Navy, said it was deeply disturbing to watch the video of the damaged ship being towed to port in Japan.	从 2010 年开始在“菲茨杰拉德”号上担任人事专员, 直到 2013 年从海军退役的马克·图尔(Marc Tuell)说, 看着受损的“菲茨杰拉德”号被拖回日本港口的视频令人非常不安。
"I was putting myself in the mindset of what the crew is going through," said Tuell, of Deltona, Florida, who now works at a Toyota dealer. "It's pretty heart wrenching, having walked those decks for three years."	“我自己陷入了船员现在正在经历什么的思绪中, “来自佛罗里达州德尔托纳的图尔说。他现在就职于丰田的一家经销商。“非常揪心, 毕竟我在那些甲板上走了三年。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170619/navy-uss-fitzgerald-japan	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170619/navy-uss-fitzgerald-japan
North Korea Accuses U.S. of 'Mugging' Its Diplomats in New York	朝鲜谴责美官员“抢劫”其外交官
SEOUL, South Korea — North Korea on Sunday accused United States	韩国首尔——朝鲜周日谴责美国官员在肯尼迪国际机场(Kennedy officials of “mugging” its diplomats at Kennedy International Airport by seizing a diplomatic package they were carrying.	International Airport)抢劫其外交官，夺走了他们携带的一件外交行李。

A North Korean delegation, returning home from a United Nations conference in New York, was about to board a plane on Friday when more than 20 agents and police officers from the Department of Homeland Security confiscated the package, the North’s official Korean Central News Agency quoted a Foreign Ministry spokesman as saying.	朝中社(Korean Central News Agency)援引朝鲜外交部发言人的说法称，周五，在纽约参加完联合国会议后准备回国的朝鲜外交代表团即将登机时，被来自美国国土安全部的 20 多名探员和警察没收了那件行李。
“As the diplomats vigorously resisted, they grabbed the diplomatic package using physical violence and made off,” he said, adding that the North Koreans were carrying a valid diplomatic courier certificate.	“在外交官们强烈抗拒之际，他们使用肢体暴力抓住行李，将其掠走，”他说。他还表示，那些朝鲜人当时持有合法的外交信使证明书。
“This clearly shows that the U.S. is a felonious and lawless gangster state,” he said. “The U.S. should reflect on its reckless act and be fully aware of the grave consequences to follow.”	“这显然表明美国是一个穷凶极恶、无法无天的流氓国家，”他说。“美国应该反思自己的莽撞行径，并充分意识到此举会造成严重后果。”
The spokesman said North Korea “regards this mugging by the U.S. as an intolerable act of infringement upon the sovereignty” of the country, and demanded an explanation and an apology. The spokesman was not quoted by name, as is common in North Korean news reports.	这名发言人称，朝鲜“把美国的这次抢劫视为不可容忍的侵犯主权之举”，要求对方做出解释并道歉。朝中社没有透露该发言人的姓名，这在朝鲜的新闻报道中很常见。
He did not disclose what the diplomatic package contained.	他没有披露行李里都有什么。
In a statement, the Department of Homeland Security said its officers assisted in the inspection of three North Korean citizens on Friday, seizing “multiple media items and packages.” It did not explain why the items were seized, but said the North Koreans attempted to retrieve them.	国土安全部(Department of Homeland Security)在一份声明中表示，其官员周五协助对三名朝鲜公民进行了检查，没收了“多媒体物件和行李”。它并没有解释为何这些物品被没收，但表示朝鲜人试图取回它们。
“According to the U.S. State Department, the North Korean citizens were not accredited members of North Korea’s mission to the U.N. and	“据美国国务院称，这些朝鲜公民并非被认可的朝鲜驻联合国成员代表团成员，不享有外交豁免权。”该声明说。“这件存疑的行李无法免于受检。” had no entitlement to diplomatic immunity," the statement said. "The package in question had no protection from inspection."

North Korea said its delegation was returning home after attending a session of the Convention on the Rights of Persons With Disabilities.	朝鲜称其外交代表团当时参加完《残疾人权利公约》(Convention on the Rights of Persons With Disabilities)缔约国大会准备回国。
The controversy comes at a delicate time in relations between North Korea and the United States. On Tuesday, North Korea released an American college student, Otto F. Warmbier, who is in a coma after 17 months of captivity. American doctors said Mr. Warmbier had sustained extensive brain damage. North Korea said it had freed him on "humanitarian grounds" but did not reveal details of his medical condition.	这场争议发生之际，正值朝美关系的微妙时刻。上周四，朝鲜释放了被拘17个月、现处于昏迷状态的美国大学生奥托·F·瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)。美国医生称，瓦姆比尔的脑部大面积受损。朝鲜称释放瓦姆比尔是基于“人道主义原因”，但未披露关于其医疗状况的细节。
Mr. Warmbier was detained in January 2016 while trying to leave North Korea, which he visited on a tourist visa. He was subsequently sentenced to 15 years of hard labor on charges of committing the "hostile act" of stealing a political poster from a wall in his hotel.	瓦姆比尔是持旅游签证到访朝鲜的，于2016年1月试图离开时被扣留。他被控从事“敌对行为”，窃取所住酒店墙上的一幅政治海报，最终被判处15年苦役。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170619/north-korea-accuses-us-of-mugging-its-diplomats-in-new-york	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170619/north-korea-accuses-us-of-mugging-its-diplomats-in-new-york
In Bali, 4 Foreign Inmates Tunnel Out of Prison	巴厘岛越狱事件，4名囚犯挖地道逃跑
JAKARTA, Indonesia — Four foreign inmates have escaped from a high-security prison on the Indonesian resort island of Bali after digging a 50-foot tunnel under the prison's walls, the authorities said on Monday.	印度尼西亚雅加达——官方于周一声称，印尼度假岛屿巴厘岛上一座戒备森严的监狱中有四名外国囚犯逃跑，他们在监狱的墙壁之下挖出了一条50英尺的隧道。
Prison guards and local police officers found the tunnel around 8 a.m. local time, leading to a road outside Kerobokan Prison, which houses more than 1,000 inmates, including a large number of foreigners	科洛波坎监狱的看守和当地警察在当地时间上午8时左右发现了这条隧道，它通往监狱外的一条道路。这座监狱关押着一千多名囚犯，其中包括大量被判犯有谋杀罪和贩毒罪的外国人。

convicted of crimes including murder and drug offenses.
The prison, which is west of Denpasar, the island's capital, is only a few miles from many of Bali's internationally famous beaches and resorts.	这座监狱位于该岛首府登巴萨以西, 距离巴厘岛许多享誉国际的海滩和度假胜地仅有数英里。
The police said that the entrance to the tunnel was only 20 by 30 inches. Initially, the authorities thought that as many as seven prisoners had escaped, but a count confirmed that it was only four.	警方说隧道的入口只有 20 乘 30 英寸。当局最初认为有多达七名囚犯逃跑, 但最后确认只有四名。
"We immediately started a manhunt," said Hengky Widjaja, a spokesman for the Bali Provincial Police. He said the four inmates escaped under cover of darkness late Sunday or early Monday.	"我们马上开始了搜捕,"巴厘省警方发言人亨基·维查亚(Hengky Widjaja)说。他说, 四名囚犯于周日晚上或周一凌晨在黑夜掩护下逃跑。
The fugitives include Shaun Edward Davidson, a 33-year-old Australian from Perth who made headlines in his homeland when he was sentenced to a year in prison in September after being caught using someone else's passport on the island.	逃犯中包括现年 33 岁、来自珀斯的澳大利亚人肖恩·爱德华·戴维森(Shaun Edward Davidson), 他因使用他人护照在该岛被捕, 并于去年 9 月被判入狱一年, 此事在澳大利亚还登上了新闻。
The other escaped inmates are Dimitar Nikolov Iliev, 43, of Bulgaria; Sayed Mohammed Said, 31, of India; and Tee Kok King, 50, of Malaysia, said Syarpani, a spokesman for the government agency that oversees prisons, who like many Indonesians goes by one name.	其他逃犯还包括 43 岁的保加利亚人迪米特尔·尼科洛夫·伊利耶夫(Dimitar Nikolov Iliev), 31 岁的印度人赛耶德·穆罕默德·赛义德(Sayed Mohammed Said), 以及 59 岁的马来西亚人郑国经 (Tee Kok King, 音), 主管监狱监督工作的政府机构发言人西亚帕尼(Syarpani)说(同许多印度尼西亚人一样, 他的名字只有一个单词)。
Mr. Davidson had been set to be released within three months, according to local news reports, raising questions about why he opted to escape.	据当地新闻报道,戴维森的刑期只剩三个月,人们不禁猜测他为何选择逃跑。
According to The Sydney Morning Herald, in January 2016 Mr. Davidson was due in court in Perth on charges of possession of methamphetamine and cannabis, and two other offenses. When he didn't attend, an arrest warrant was issued.	根据《悉尼先驱晨报》(The Sydney Morning Herald)报道, 2016 年 1 月, 戴维森因涉嫌持有冰毒和大麻以及另外两起罪名, 本应在珀斯出庭接受审判。但他没有出席, 于是法庭对他发出了逮捕令。

Mr. Davidson fled the country, arriving at Bali's international airport from Perth.	戴维森逃离澳大利亚，从珀斯来到巴厘岛的国际机场。
Mr. Davidson was arrested months later by the Indonesian authorities, who had been looking for him after having received tips that he overstayed his tourist visa and was using false documents, the newspaper reported.	该报纸报道，几个月后，戴维森被印尼当局逮捕，当局接到若干举报，发现他持旅游签证逾期停留，并使用虚假身份文件，此后一直在搜捕他。
The Australian Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade said in an email reply to questions that it had been "advised by Indonesian authorities of an alleged escape from Kerobokan Prison of several prisoners, including an Australian man," but it declined to comment further.	澳大利亚外交与贸易部通过电子邮件回答了一些问题，邮件中说该部“接到印度尼西亚当局通知，称几名囚犯从科洛波坎监狱逃跑，其中包括一名澳大利亚男子，”但该部拒绝进一步置评。
Kerobokan has long had a grim reputation for overcrowding, corrupt guards and facilities below international standards.	科洛波坎监狱早有恶名，这里人满为患、守卫贪腐成风，监狱设施低于国际标准。
Among the prison's most notable foreign inmates in recent years were members of the so-called Bali Nine group of Australians who were arrested in 2005 trying to smuggle 18.5 pounds of heroin out of the resort island. The group's two ringleaders, Andrew Chan and Myuran Sukumaran, were executed by firing squad in 2015.	近年来，监狱中最著名的外国囚犯是一个人称“巴厘九人组”(Bali Nine)的团伙中的澳大利亚人，他们在2005年因试图携带18.5磅海洛因离开该度假岛而被捕。该集团的两名头目陈子维(Andrew Chan)和缪兰·苏库马兰(Manuran Sukumaran)于2015年被枪决。
The prison was also home for nearly a decade to Schapelle Corby, an Australian former student beautician who was sentenced to 20 years in 2005 for smuggling nine pounds of marijuana into Bali. Now 39, she was granted parole in 2014, and last month allowed to leave the island and return home.	此外还有在这里服刑近十年的莎佩拉·科尔比(Schapelle Corby)，她曾是一名澳大利亚学生美容师，2005年因将9磅大麻走私到巴厘岛被判入狱20年，现年39岁的她在2014年获得假释，上个月被允许离开该岛回家。
Monday's escape was another black eye for Indonesia's penal system, which has experienced numerous prison escapes and riots over the years because of overcrowding and inadequate conditions, as well as a	周一的逃跑事件是对印度尼西亚刑罚制度的又一次沉重打击，由于人满为患、条件匮乏、警卫和监狱人员人手不足，几年来，印尼发生了多起越狱和监狱骚乱事件。5月份，数百名囚犯从苏门答腊岛上一座拥挤的监狱逃离。

lack of guards and prison personnel. In May, hundreds of inmates broke out of an overcrowded prison on the island of Sumatra. In June, flooding caused a wall to collapse at a different prison on Sumatra, allowing dozens to escape.	6月在苏门答腊，洪水冲垮了岛上另一所监狱的墙壁，造成数十人逃跑。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170620/indonesia-prison-foreign-inmates	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170620/indonesia-prison-foreign-inmates
China Falls Short on Curbing North Korea, Trump Says	特朗普承认借中国压朝鲜策略失败
WASHINGTON — President Trump said on Tuesday that China had not succeeded in getting North Korea to curb its nuclear and ballistic missile programs, an extraordinary admission of failure in his strategy for dealing with the rogue regime of Kim Jong-un.	华盛顿——特朗普总统周二表示，中国未能成功地推动朝鲜遏制其核与弹道导弹项目，由此罕见地承认他用以应对金正恩(Kim Jong-un)流氓政权的策略遇挫。
Mr. Trump’s statement — delivered in an almost cavalier tweet, given how ardently he had sought the cooperation of President Xi Jinping of China — came a day after the death of Otto Warmbier, an American college student who had been detained and brutalized in North Korea.	特朗普通过推特发表这番言论——鉴于他此前极度热心于寻求与中国国家主席习近平合作，这则推文的语气几乎称得上轻慢——是在曾被朝鲜扣押和残忍对待的美国大学生奥托·F·瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)去世一天后。
Taken together, the developments are a major complication for Mr. Trump’s approach to North Korea, which he has called America’s most urgent foreign threat. He now faces a range of unattractive options: the use of military force; more coercive sanctions, including on Chinese banks that do business with the North; or some kind of opening to Mr. Kim.	所有这些最新情况，会让特朗普愈发难以选择自己的对朝路线——他一直把朝鲜称为美国面临的最紧迫的海外威胁。眼下摆在他面前的是若干没什么吸引力的选项：动用军事力量；实施更严厉的制裁，包括制裁和朝鲜有业务往来的中国银行；或者在某种程度上向金正恩敞开怀抱。
“While I greatly appreciate the efforts of President Xi & China to help with North Korea, it has not worked out,” Mr. Trump wrote on Twitter on the eve of a high-level meeting of Chinese and American officials in Washington. “At least I know China tried!”	“我非常感谢习主席和中国在朝鲜问题上给予的帮助，不过其努力尚未见到成效，”特朗普于中美官员在华盛顿进行高级会晤前夕在Twitter上写道。“至少我知道中国努力过！”

It is not clear how Mr. Trump's statement will affect Wednesday's Chinese-American meetings. Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson and other American officials had been planning to press their Chinese counterparts on North Korea. On Tuesday afternoon, senior officials said they were still trying to gauge the meaning of the president's tweet.	尚不清楚特朗普的言论将对周三的中美官员会晤产生怎样的影响。国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)以及其他美国官员一直计划就朝鲜问题向中方对等官员施压。一些高级官员周二下午表示,他们仍在竭力揣摩总统所发推文的含义。
Reports late on Tuesday of renewed activity at a North Korean nuclear site added to the sense of urgency, and underlined how China had failed to curb Mr. Kim's provocative actions.	周二晚些时候关于朝鲜一个核基地最新动向的报道,让情况显得更为紧迫,也突显了中国在遏制金正恩的挑衅行动方面的失败。
Administration officials said they were considering imposing so-called secondary sanctions on a variety of Chinese banks and companies with ties to North Korea. Such a step would greatly increase the pressure on Mr. Kim's government, but it could also antagonize the Chinese government.	政府官员称,他们正考虑针对与朝鲜有关联的各中国银行和企业实施所谓的二级制裁。此举将极大地增加对金正恩政府的施压力度,但也会惹恼中国政府。
In the short run, Mr. Warmbier's death from a brain injury suffered while he was a prisoner makes engagement with the North seem a more remote possibility. Mr. Trump has said in the past that he would be willing to meet with Mr. Kim if the conditions were right.	短期内,瓦姆比尔因在服刑期间遭受脑损伤而死亡的事件,让美国与朝鲜的接触变得更不可能。特朗普曾说过,在条件允许时,他愿意与金正恩会面。
"Clearly, we're moving further away, not closer, to those conditions being enacted," said Sean Spicer, the White House press secretary. "I would not suggest that we're moving any closer."	"显然,我们离实现那些条件更远了,而非更近了,"白宫新闻秘书肖恩·斯派塞(Sean Spicer)说。"我不认为我们离得更近了。"
But China's failure to do more to pressure North Korea — which was little surprise to anyone who follows the issue — also leaves the United States with few better alternatives to diplomacy. Some American officials had hoped to use the secret negotiations to obtain Mr.	但是,中国没有对朝鲜施加更大压力——对一直关注此事的人来说,这并不令人意外——也让美国在外交方面几乎没有更好的选择。有些美国官员希望将争取释放瓦姆比尔的秘密协商,用作在其他问题上与朝鲜进行对话的基础。

Warmbier's release as the predicate for a dialogue with the North on other issues.
The tension between those who want to shelve engagement and take a much tougher line on North Korea and those who want to continue probing for openings is reflected in the administration's ambivalent response after Mr. Warmbier was flown home in a coma last week.	有些人想要暂停接触，对朝鲜采取更强硬的手段，也有些人想要继续寻找沟通渠道。上周，瓦姆比尔在昏迷中被运送回国后，特朗普政府模棱两可的回应就反映出了这两种相互对立的态度。
At first, the White House and State Department said very little about the case, beyond expressing relief that he had been reunited with his family. But as outrage over the death of Mr. Warmbier, a 22-year-old college student, grew on social media and cable television, both released statements late on Monday condemning North Korea for his treatment.	最初，白宫和国务院对此事几乎没有发表任何评论，只是表示对他能与家人团聚感到欣慰。但是随着 22 岁的大学生瓦姆比尔的去世在社交媒体和有线电视上引发越来越强烈的愤慨，周一晚间，白宫和国务院都发表声明，谴责朝鲜对待他的方式。
Even on Tuesday, however, Mr. Trump appeared to place more of the blame on his predecessor, Barack Obama, for failing to negotiate Mr. Warmbier's release than on Mr. Kim. "It's a disgrace what happened to Otto," the president said. "Frankly, if he were brought home sooner, I think the results would have been a lot different."	不过，即便在周二，特朗普似乎也更多的是谴责前任贝拉克·奥巴马没有就释放瓦姆比尔进行谈判，而不是谴责金正恩。“奥托的遭遇是奇耻大辱，”特朗普总统说。“坦白的说，如果他能早些被带回国，我认为结果会很不同。”
But even as he implicitly criticized his predecessor, Mr. Trump appeared to walk away from one of the biggest gambles of his presidency. At a summit meeting in April at his Palm Beach, Fla., estate, Mar-a-Lago, Mr. Trump tried to enlist Mr. Xi to ratchet up China's pressure on North Korea — something China has historically avoided because of fears that it would precipitate a collapse in a country with which it shares a 880-mile border.	不过，尽管特朗普隐晦地批评了前任，他似乎回避了自己总统任期最大的赌注之一。今年 4 月，在佛罗里达州棕榈滩马阿拉歌庄园的峰会上，特朗普曾试图说服习近平加大中国对朝鲜的压力——由于担心这个与中国的边境线长达 880 英里的国家崩溃，中国一向不愿意那么做。
The president made Mr. Xi the centerpiece of his strategy for North	特朗普将习近平当作自己朝鲜战略的中心人物，同意淡化自己在 2016 年竞

Korea, agreeing to soft-pedal his complaints during the 2016 campaign about China's trade and currency practices in return for Beijing squeezing its neighbor to curb its nuclear and ballistic missile programs.	选期间对中国贸易和货币政策的抱怨,以换取北京迫使这位邻居收敛自己的核与弹道导弹计划。
"I explained to the President of China that a trade deal with the U.S. will be far better for them if they solve the North Korean problem," Mr. Trump declared in a morning tweet a few days after the summit meeting.	"我已向中国国家主席解释过,如果他们能解决朝鲜问题,他们在同美国的贸易谈判上会得到更多对中国有利的东西,"两国首脑会议过后几天,特朗普在一个早晨发推宣布。
As the evidence accumulated that China was taking only modest steps against North Korea, impatience with Beijing mounted inside the White House. But in his tweet on Tuesday, Mr. Trump seemed to take pains not to allow his disappointment to affect the relationship he has cultivated with the Chinese leader.	愈来愈多的证据表明,中国只对朝鲜采取了有限的措施,白宫内部对北京不耐烦的情绪开始增长。但在他周二的推文中,特朗普似乎努力不让失望情绪影响他同中国领导人建立起来的关系。
"The question we've all been waiting to have answered is, 'When does President Trump realize that Xi Jinping is not going to deliver North Korea for him, and what does he do when that happens?'" said Ely Ratner, a senior fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations. "Otto Warmbier's death accelerates that day of reckoning."	"我们一直在等待这样一个问题的答案,'特朗普总统什么时候才会意识到,习近平不会把朝鲜拱手交给他,以及到时他要怎么办?'"外交关系委员会资深成员伊利·拉特纳(Ely Ratner)说。"奥托·瓦姆比尔的死亡加快了清算之日的到来。"
The meeting in Washington is part of the Diplomatic and Security Dialogue set up after April's summit meeting. It will include Mr. Tillerson and China's top foreign policy official, Yang Jiechi, as well as Defense Secretary Jim Mattis and a Chinese general, Fang Fenghui. The four are expected to meet during the morning, hold a working lunch, break for the afternoon and then reconvene for dinner.	在华盛顿举行的会议,是4月首脑会议之后确立的外交与安全对话的一部分。与会者包括蒂勒森和中国最高外交政策官员杨洁篪,以及国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)和中国将军房峰辉。四人预计在上午开会,一起吃工作午餐,在下午休息,然后再次共进晚餐。
North Korea will top the agenda, but China's increasing militarism in the South China Seas and other maritime issues, the fight against the	朝鲜问题将成为首要事项,但是双方也会讨论中国在南海不断增加的军事力量及其他海洋问题;反对伊斯兰国的战争;以及其他可能的军事合作。

Islamic State, and other possible military cooperation will also be discussed.
Some China experts said the administration could use Mr. Warmbier's death as leverage to demand that China put pressure on North Korea to release three other Americans being held there.	一些中国问题专家表示，政府可以利用瓦姆比尔的死亡作为筹码，要求中国向朝鲜施加压力，要求朝鲜释放另外三名在朝鲜的美国人。
"The Chinese will only spring into action if they recognize the status quo is unsustainable," said Evan S. Medeiros, a former senior director for Asia in Mr. Obama's National Security Council.	"只有当中国人认识到现状已经不能维持下去，他们才会迅速采取行动，"奥巴马政府国家安全委员会负责亚洲事务的前主任埃文·S·梅代罗斯(Evan S. Medeiros)说。
Even apart from North Korea, relations with China could soon turn more contentious. Within days, the administration is expected to declare that foreign steel imports threaten the domestic steel industry. That will lead Mr. Trump to impose duties that will anger the Chinese, a major steel producer.	除了朝鲜问题之外，同中国其他方面的关系很快会出现更多敌意。在几天之内，政府很可能会宣布从外国进口的钢铁对国内钢铁产业构成威胁。这将导致特朗普征收进口税，从而激怒作为钢铁生产大国的中国。
"This initial period of calm in the U.S.-China relationship was not sustainable," said Eric Altbach, senior vice president at the Albright Stonebridge Group. "We're reaching the end of the beginning for the Trump administration, and things are only going to get worse."	"美中关系这种初期的平静是不会一直持续下去的，"奥尔布赖特石桥集团(Albright Stonebridge Group)高级副总裁埃里克·阿尔特巴克(Eric Altbach)说，"特朗普政府打下的开端正在走向终点，事情只会变得更糟。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170621/trump-china-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170621/trump-china-north-korea
China's Trump Honeymoon: Unexpected, and at Risk of Ending	习近平和特朗普的蜜月可能快结束了
BEIJING — The short, unexpected honeymoon that China enjoyed with President Trump seems to be in trouble, dashing hopes in Beijing that the two countries had embarked on a new, businesslike relationship.	北京——中国和特朗普总统享有的短暂且意想不到的蜜月似乎正在陷入困境，这让北京对两国已经开始了一种新型商业关系的希望化为泡影。
Mr. Trump's assertion that China had failed to pressure North Korea into curbing its nuclear and ballistic missile program means that Beijing must now confront the prospect of a stormier relationship ahead — not	特朗普声称中国未对朝鲜施压，以遏制其核武器及弹道导弹计划，这意味着北京现在必须面对这个带有更多冲突的两国关系的前景。不仅在朝鲜问题上，而且在贸易、货币和南中国海问题上，中国也无法回避美国更加强硬的

just over North Korea but also tougher stands on trade, currency and the South China Sea that Mr. Trump set aside as he sought President Xi Jinping's help with Pyongyang.	立场，此前特朗普为在朝鲜问题上寻求中国国家主席习近平的帮助，曾暂时搁置了那些问题。
"While I greatly appreciate the efforts of President Xi & China to help with North Korea, it has not worked out," Mr. Trump wrote on Twitter this week, ahead of a high-level meeting of Chinese and American officials on Wednesday in Washington, signaling a harder line.	在中美两国官员将于周三在华盛顿举行高级别会议之前，特朗普本周在Twitter上写道，“虽然我非常赞赏习主席和中国在帮助解决朝鲜问题上所做出的努力，但问题并没有得到解决。”
Mr. Trump did not detail what might follow that conclusion, but the options on the table with North Korea — including more coercive sanctions that could target Chinese companies trading with the country, a military buildup and even the use of force — are all deeply objectionable to Beijing.	特朗普没有详细说明伴随这个结论的可能会是什么，但摆在桌面上对付朝鲜的选择——包括更强制性的制裁（可能会针对与朝鲜有贸易往来的中国企业）、军事集结，甚至使用武力——都是北京极度不喜欢的。
At the same time, Mr. Trump had previously suggested he was holding off on getting tough on China's trade policies in return for Mr. Xi's help with reining in North Korea, often engaging in public flattery of the leader. Now, Mr. Xi and his colleagues in Beijing must ask — again — whether Mr. Trump is serious about the threats he made on the campaign trail.	与此同时，特朗普过去曾暗示，在中国贸易问题上，他还没有开始采取更强硬的政策，是为了换取习近平在朝鲜问题上提供帮助，特朗普还曾经常对朝鲜领导人公开表示恭维。现在，习近平及其北京的同事们必须再次考虑一个问题：特朗普在竞选活动中所做的威胁是否是真的。
The prospect of a rockier relationship is particularly sensitive now as Mr. Xi prepares to preside over the Communist Party's 19th National Party Congress in the fall. While Mr. Xi's re-election to a second five-year term as president is not in doubt, he is said to want to use the gathering to consolidate his authority and reshuffle the leadership, and he does not want any foreign crises to be distractions.	此时出现更不稳定关系的前景特别敏感，因为习近平正在为主持今年秋季召开的共产党第十九次全国代表大会做准备工作。虽然已毫无疑问，习近平会再次当选国家主席，连任第二个5年任期，但据说他想利用这次大会进一步巩固自己的权力并重组领导层，因此他不想为任何国外的危机分心。
"What Trump is saying is, I don't need you on North Korea now, and	"特朗普正在说，在朝鲜问题上，我现在不需要你了，所以也许我们应该把

therefore maybe we should have it out on these other issues, like trade," said John Delury, an expert on China and the Koreas at Yonsei University in Seoul.	比如贸易等其他问题摆到桌面上来，“首尔延世大学的中国与朝鲜半岛问题专家鲁乐汉(John Delury)说。
The official response from China was fairly muted, though strained.	中国的官方反应相当不明确，但有些紧张。
"I have to say that the crux of the Korean Peninsula problem and the focal point of the conflict is not China," a spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, Geng Shuang, said at a briefing on Wednesday.	"我不得不说的是，朝鲜半岛核问题的症结和矛盾的焦点不在中方，"外交部发言人耿爽在周三的例行记者会上这样说。
He added: "Resolving the Korean Peninsula issue requires joint efforts, and it won't work if it depends on China alone." At the same time, he said that "China's role is indispensable."	他还说："解决半岛核问题要靠集体智慧和共同努力。光靠中国不能解决问题。"同时他说，"中国的作用不可或缺。"
The statement by Mr. Trump, although couched in appreciative words for Mr. Xi, surprised and annoyed analysts in Beijing. China had taken significant steps to tighten trade with the North, they said, and the United States had, as always, not given sanctions enough time to take effect.	特朗普的推文虽然用了对习近平表示谢意的话语，但仍让北京的分析人士感到惊讶和恼火。他们说，中国已经在限制朝鲜贸易上采取了重要的步骤，美国一直没有让制裁有足够的时间来起作用。
"China has done its best, and these sanctions are working," said Lu Chao, director of the Border Study Institute at the Liaoning Academy of Social Sciences, a government research organization in Shenyang. "Given time, they will have a greater impact on the economy."	"中国已经尽了最大的努力，这些制裁正在起作用，"吕超说，他是位于沈阳的政府研究机构辽宁社会科学院边疆史地研究所的所长。"假以时日，制裁会对经济产生更大的影响。"
Even direct talks with North Korea's leader, Kim Jong-un — which seem less likely after the death of Otto F. Warmbier, the American college student who was released by North Korea in a coma last week — could leave China without a say in any negotiated outcome.	就连与朝鲜领导人金正恩进行直接对话的做法，也会让中国在任何谈判结果上没有发言权，虽然在朝鲜释放的处于昏迷状态的美国大学生奥托·F·瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)上周死亡之后，直接对话似乎不太可能。
Cheng Xiaohu, an associate professor of international relations at Renmin University of China in Beijing, said that Mr. Xi's government had	中国人民大学国际关系副教授成晓河说，习近平的政府已经学会了不在字面意思上理解特朗普的推文。 learned not to take Mr. Trump's Twitter messages at face value.

"The Chinese government assumes Trump's tweets do not necessarily represent the administration," he said. "The government cannot treat them very seriously. Trump changes all the time."	"中国政府认为，特朗普的推文不一定代表政府，"成晓河说。"中国政府不能太把这些推文当回事。特朗普每时每刻都在变。"
He added that the new round of meetings in Washington came at a "very critical period" and that the government would try to sustain the positive momentum of the first few months of the Trump presidency.	他补充说，在华盛顿的新一轮会议是在"非常关键的时期"举行的，中国政府将争取把在特朗普总统任期的头几个月出现的积极势头维持下去。
Officials in Beijing had expressed confidence that their gestures to Mr. Trump — including the lifting on Tuesday of a 14-year embargo on American beef imports — would placate Mr. Trump, whose platform as a candidate had signaled a more confrontational policy. "Why would I call China a currency manipulator when they are working with us on the North Korean problem?" he wrote in a tweet in April, defending the reversal of a campaign promise.	北京的官员曾表示他们有信心，他们对特朗普做出的姿态——包括本周二解除对美国牛肉的进口，该禁令已经有14年了——会让这位美国总统息怒，他在竞选阶段表述的纲领是更具对抗性的政策。"在他们正在朝鲜问题上与我们合作的时候，为什么我会把中国定为货币操纵者呢？"他在今年4月的一则推文中写道，为推翻竞选时的承诺作出辩护。
Mr. Xi's visit in April to Mar-a-Lago, Mr. Trump's club in Palm Beach, Fla., underlined the importance China places on relations with the United States, and officials hoped the initial cordiality between the two leaders would establish the sort of nonconfrontational partnership that Beijing prefers.	习近平曾在今年4月访问了马阿拉歌庄园，那是特朗普在佛罗里达州棕榈滩的俱乐部。访问突显了中美关系的重要性，官员们曾希望，两国领导人之间最初表现的友好热情，会建立起北京喜欢的那种非对抗性伙伴关系。
China's willingness to help with North Korea — or at least be seen to be helping — became the foundation of that relationship. In recent weeks, however, White House officials signaled a growing frustration with Beijing, arguing that Mr. Trump's bet had not paid off. The president appears to have reached the same conclusion.	中国表示愿意在朝鲜问题上提供帮助——或至少让人看来是在提供帮助——成为这种非对抗性关系的基础。不过，在最近几周中，白宫官员对北京表示出越来越大的失望，认为特朗普下的赌注没有得到回报。特朗普似乎也得出了一样的结论。
"We understand the Americans are angry over the student's death," said	"我们理解美国人对那名学生的死亡感到愤怒，"延吉市延边大学朝鲜韩国研

Jin Qiangyi, director of the Center for North and South Korea Studies at Yanbian University in Yanbian, near China's border with North Korea. But imposing new sanctions targeting Chinese companies would only lead to more problems, he said.	究中心学术委员会委员金强一说。但是，实行针对中国企业的新制裁措施只会带来更多的问题，他说。
"The United States may want to smoke North Korea out with sanctions so it would drop its nuclear programs, but we doubt this will work," he said. "This is a country that has managed to go through decades of sanctions."	"美国也许想通过制裁来摸清朝鲜的底细，让朝鲜放弃核计划，但是我们怀疑这不会奏效，"他说。"这是一个已经应对了几十年制裁的国家。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170622/china-trump-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170622/china-trump-north-korea
China Cancels Military Meeting With Vietnam Over Territorial Dispute	中越军方高层会晤意外取消，疑因南海争议激化
HONG KONG — State-run newspapers in Vietnam and China reported in recent days that senior military officials from the two countries would hold a fence-mending gathering along a border where their militaries fought a brief but bloody war in 1979.	香港——越南和中国的官方报纸近日都曾报道，两国高级军官将在边界举行改善关系的会晤；1979年，两国军队曾在那里进行过短暂而血腥的战争。
But Tuesday, the scheduled start of the gathering, came and went without any of the coverage in the state news media that readers in the two countries had expected. The Chinese Defense Ministry later said in a terse statement that it had canceled the event "for reasons related to working arrangements."	但本周二，在会晤预定的举行时间，却没有任何官方新闻出来，这大大出乎两国读者的预料。中国国防部后来在一份简短的声明中表示，“由于工作安排原因”，他们取消了这次会晤。
Analysts, citing government sources, said that the Chinese delegation had unexpectedly cut short a trip to Vietnam after tempers flared during a closed-door discussion on disputed territories in the South China Sea.	分析人士援引政府知情人士的话说，由于在一个关于南海争议领土的闭门会议上发生了激烈争执，中国代表团出人意外地中断了访越行程。
The cancellation is highly unusual for the two Communist neighbors, and it comes as Beijing continues to build artificial islands in the South	对于这两个相邻的共产党国家来说，取消会晤是非同寻常的事情，北京目前继续在南海修建人工岛，中国人试图在特朗普总统对该地区的政策存在不确

China Sea, where the Chinese seek to expand their military influence at a time of uncertainty over President Trump's policies in the region.	定性之际，扩大他们在这里的军事影响。
"This was not what the Vietnamese expected from a polite guest," said Alexander L. Vuving, a Vietnam specialist at the Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies in Hawaii.	夏威夷亚太安全研究中心(Daniel K. Inouye Asia-Pacific Center)的越南问题专家亚历山大·L·吴翁(Alexander L. Vuving)说：“越南人认为彬彬有礼的客人不会这么做。”
"You can say both sides miscalculated," he added. But another interpretation is that both countries are "very committed to showing the other their own resolve" on matters of territorial sovereignty.	"你可以说双方都失算了，"他又说。但另一种解释是，两国都想在领土主权问题上"表明自己的坚定决心"。
The dispute happened during a visit to Hanoi this week by Gen. Fan Changlong of China. It was unclear what precisely roiled his meeting with Vietnamese officials, much less whether the general's actions had been planned.	争执是本周在中国将军范长龙访问河内时发生的。目前尚不清楚他与越南官员的会晤究竟因为什么翻脸，以及范将军的行动是否是事先计划好的。
Analysts said he appeared to have been angry over Vietnam's recent efforts to promote strategic cooperation with the United States and Japan. Prime Minister Nguyen Xuan Phuc recently visited those two countries in quick succession, and the Vietnamese and Japanese coast guards conducted joint drills in the South China Sea last week focused on preventing illegal fishing.	分析人士表示，范将军似乎是对越南最近为加强与美日的战略合作所做出的努力感到愤怒。越南总理阮春福(Nguyen Xuan Phuc)不久前接连访问了这两个国家，上周越南还和日本海岸警卫队在南海进行了针对非法捕鱼的联合演习。
Another reason, analysts said, could be Vietnam's apparent refusal to abandon oil and gas exploration in areas of the South China Sea that both it and Beijing claim.	分析人士说，另外一个原因可能是越南似乎拒绝放弃在双方有争议的南海地区进行油气勘探活动。
Mr. Vuving said a specific source of the dispute may have been the so-called Blue Whale project, a gas-drilling venture in the South China Sea by Vietnam's state oil company, PetroVietnam, and Exxon Mobil. The companies signed an agreement during a January trip to Hanoi by	吴翁说，引发双方争执的具体问题可能是蓝鲸项目(Blue Whale)，这是越南国家油气集团(PetroVietnam)和埃克森美孚(Exxon Mobil)在南海的一个天然气钻探项目。今年1月，在时任国务卿的约翰·克里(John Kerry)访问河内期间，两家公司签署了协议。

John Kerry, the secretary of the state at the time.
The drilling site, which is expected to produce gas for power generation by 2023, is close to the disputed Paracel Islands and near the "nine dash line" that shows expansive territorial claims on Chinese maps. Mr. Vuving said that China probably resents that Vietnam has formed a partnership with an American oil company, particularly one whose previous chief executive, Rex W. Tillerson, is Mr. Trump's secretary of state.	这个项目预计将在 2023 年产出用于发电的天然气，其钻探地点接近有争议的斯普拉特利群岛 (Spratly Islands, 越南称之为长沙群岛，中国称为南沙群岛——译注)，而且靠近中国用来声索广泛领土权利的“九段线”。吴翁表示，中国可能对越南与一家美国石油公司形成合作关系不满，尤其是这家公司的前首席执行官雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)还成了特朗普的国务卿。
The project appears to set a "very damaging precedent for China's strategy in the South China Sea," Mr. Vuving said.	吴翁说，对于中国在南海的战略，这个项目似乎设定了一个“极具破坏性的先例”。
The Chinese and Vietnamese Foreign Ministries did not respond to requests for comment on Wednesday, and an Exxon Mobil spokeswoman in Singapore could not be reached for comment.	中国和越南外交部周三都没有回应置评请求，埃克森美孚在新加坡的发言人也无法联系上。
Other analysts said that the source of tension may have been Vietnam's recent decision to resume oil exploration in another disputed part of the South China Sea.	其他分析人士表示，紧张关系的源头可能是越南最近决定恢复在南海另一有争议水域的石油勘探。
Carl Thayer, a longtime analyst of the Vietnamese military and emeritus professor at the University of New South Wales, said that if General Fan had indeed asked Vietnam to cease oil exploration in that area, Vietnam would have considered the request "inflammatory"; it would have implied Chinese territorial control in the Exclusive Economic Zone off the Vietnamese coast.	长期研究越南军事问题的分析人士、新南威尔士大学(University of New South Wales)荣休教授卡尔·塞耶(Carl Thayer)说，如果范长龙将军真的要求越南停止在该区域的石油勘探，越南会认为这个要求“令人愤怒”；它意味着中国对越南海岸附近的专属经济区的领土控制。
"Vietnam's leaders would have refused this request and responded by reasserting Vietnam's sovereignty," Mr. Thayer said in an email to reporters and diplomats.	“越南领导人会拒绝这个要求，并重申越南主权作为回应，”塞耶在致记者和外交官的一封电子邮件中说。

There were unconfirmed reports on Wednesday that China had recently deployed 40 vessels and several military transport aircraft to the area. Vietnam accused Chinese ships of cutting the cables of one of its seismic survey vessels there in 2011.	周三，有未经证实的报道，中国最近向该地区部署了 40 艘船和数架军用运输机。越南曾在 2011 年指责中国船只割断了其在该地区的一艘地震测勘船的缆绳。
Though China is Vietnam's largest trading partner and a longtime ideological ally, the neighbors have long been at odds over competing claims to rocks, islands and offshore oil and gas blocks in the South China Sea, which Vietnam calls the East Sea.	虽然中国是越南最大的贸易伙伴和意识形态上的长期盟友，由于双方对南海（越南称之为东海）的暗礁、岛屿和近海油气资源都提出了主张，这两个邻居向来不和。
Tensions came to a head in 2014, when a state-run Chinese company towed an oil rig near the Paracel Islands and within about 120 nautical miles of Vietnam. No one was killed at sea, but a maritime standoff led to anti-China riots near foreign-invested factories in central and southern Vietnam, bringing relations between the countries to their lowest point in years.	2014 年，当中国的一家国有公司把一个石油钻井平台拖进帕拉塞尔群岛（Paracel Islands，越南称之为黄沙群岛，中国称为西沙群岛——译注）附近、距离越南不到 120 海里的水域时，双方的紧张关系达到巅峰。虽然海上没有人员伤亡，但海上的对峙导致越南中部和南部外国投资的工厂附近爆发反华骚乱，造成两国关系跌至多年来的最低点。
A few days before General Fan's Hanoi visit, Mr. Vuving said, China moved the same oil rig to a position in the South China Sea that is near the midway point between the Chinese and Vietnamese coasts, apparently seeking to pressure Vietnam to cease oil and gas exploration in disputed waters. Data from myship.com, a website affiliated with the Chinese Transport Ministry, showed that the rig has been about 70 nautical miles south of China and 120 nautical miles northeast of Vietnam over the past week.	在范长龙访问河内几天前，吴翁称中国把那个钻井平台移到了南海接近中国和越南海岸之间的中点位置，似乎是想对越南施压，逼迫对方停止在有争议水域的油气勘探。隶属于中国交通运输部的网站 myship.com 的数据显示，过去一周，该钻井平台位于中国以南约 70 海里、越南东北 120 海里的位置。
The first fence-mending gathering, called the Vietnam-China Border Defense Friendship Exchange Program, took place in 2014 and was intended to promote bilateral trust. The meeting this week was	双方第一次修复关系的会晤，即越中边境国防友好交流活动在 2014 年举行，意在促进互信。外界本以为本周的会议包括打击跨境犯罪的演习。

expected to include a drill on fighting cross-border crime.
Xu Liping, a researcher at the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in Beijing who specializes in Vietnam and Southeast Asia, said that the countries were expected to disagree over territorial claims in the South China Sea. But they have established frameworks to defuse disagreements through government channels as well as through the two countries' Communist parties, he added.	北京的中国社会科学院专门研究越南和东南亚问题的研究员许利平说，两国预计会在南海的领土主张上有分歧。但他接着表示，双方已经建起了通过政府渠道，以及两国的共产党来化解分歧的框架。
In the end, the two countries "will come out and resolve this problem since both want stability," Mr. Xu said.	许利平说，两国最终“会出来解决这个问题，因为双方都希望稳定”。
Le Hong Hiep, a research fellow at the Iseas Yusof Ishak Institute in Singapore, agreed with that conclusion, but warned that new tensions could emerge in the short term. China appears increasingly eager to stop Vietnam from growing too close to Japan and the United States, he said.	新加坡尤索夫伊萨东南亚研究所(Iseas Yusof Ishak Institute)的研究员黎洪和(Le Hong Hiep)同意这个结论，但也警告，短期可能还会出现新的紧张关系。他说，中国似乎越来越急于阻止越南与日美靠得太近。
"As Vietnam tries to achieve its economic growth targets, it is planning to exploit more oil from the South China Sea," Mr. Hiep wrote in an email. "As such, the chance for confrontation at sea may also increase."	"在越南努力实现其经济增长目标之际，它计划从南海开采更多石油，"黎洪和在电子邮件中写道。"就这一点而言，在海上发生冲突的可能性恐怕还会增加。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170622/china-vietnam-south-china-sea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170622/china-vietnam-south-china-sea
U.S. Pressed to Pursue Deal to Freeze North Korea Missile Tests	美国会迫于压力重启朝核谈判吗？
WASHINGTON — The Trump administration has come under growing pressure to open negotiations on a temporary freeze on North Korea's nuclear and missile tests in return for reducing the American military footprint in the Korean Peninsula, according to American officials and foreign diplomats.	华盛顿——据美国官员和外国外交使节透露，特朗普政府面临着越来越大的压力，重启临时冻结朝鲜核试验和导弹试验的谈判，以换取美国减少在朝鲜半岛的军事足迹。

Versions of the proposal, floated by Beijing for several months, have been revived several times this week, first by South Korea's newly installed president and then by China's foreign minister and one of its top military officials in talks on Wednesday with Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson and Defense Secretary Jim Mattis.	北京提出的这个建议的各种版本已经出现好几个月了，本周它又被重新提起了几次，先是韩国新任总统，然后是在中国国务委员和一名高级军事官员周三与国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W Tillerson)和国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)举行的对话中。
But White House officials say they are not interested in any proposal that would require the United States to lift military or economic pressure on the North, even in return for a moratorium on tests. Instead, Mr. Tillerson and Mr. Mattis publicly pressed the Chinese to exert more diplomatic and economic pressure on Pyongyang, though President Trump indicated on Twitter on Tuesday that he had just about given up on obtaining help from the Chinese.	但白宫官员表示，对于任何建议要求美国解除对朝鲜军事或经济压力的建议，他们都不感兴趣，哪怕这么做可以让朝鲜暂停试验。相反，蒂勒森和马蒂斯公开向中国施压，要求它对平壤施加更大的外交和经济压力，虽然特朗普周二在 Twitter 上表示，他差不多要放弃从中国人那里获得帮助了。
"China understands that the United States regards North Korea as our top security threat," Mr. Tillerson told reporters at a news conference after meetings with his Chinese counterpart, Yang Jiechi, and Gen. Fang Fenghui, in the first security dialogue with Beijing conducted by the Trump administration. "We reiterated to China that they have a diplomatic responsibility to exert much greater economic and diplomatic pressure on the regime if they want to prevent further escalation in the region."	"中国明白美国把朝鲜当作最大的安全威胁。我们向中国重申，如果要防止该地区局势进一步升级，他们有外交上的责任，对那个政权施加更大的经济 and 外交压力。"蒂勒森在和中国同行杨洁篪以及房峰辉将军会面之后，在记者招待会上对记者说道。这是特朗普政府上台后第一次与北京举行安全对话。
But like his predecessors, Mr. Trump is gradually learning that for all its talk about cooperation, China is deeply reluctant to take any measures that could seriously destabilize the North Korean government, for fear the country might collapse or be absorbed by the South.	但就像他的几届前任一样，特朗普正逐渐认识到，虽然中国口头上主张合作，但因为担心朝鲜会崩溃、被韩国合并，并不愿意采取任何可能严重破坏朝鲜政府稳定的举措。
So China's strategy has been to buy time — and preserve the status quo	所以中国主张通过谈判来冻结试验，其策略就是争取时间，保持现状。这种

— with talks that may be linked to some kind of testing freeze. They may now have a new advocate of that approach, President Moon Jae-in of South Korea, who was elected on a platform pledging resumed engagement with the North. On Tuesday, he embraced a similar idea, telling Norah O’Donnell of CBS News in an interview that a freeze could be a way station to a second phase of talks that would “achieve the complete dismantling of North Korea’s nuclear program.”	方法现在可能有一个新的支持者，那就是韩国新总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)，他在竞选期间承诺要恢复与朝鲜的接触。本周二，他在接受 CBS 新闻台诺拉·奥唐奈(Norah O’Donnell)的采访时，谈到了一个类似的想法。他说，冻结可能是进入第二阶段谈判——“彻底取消朝鲜核计划”的一条渠道。
In an interview broadcast on Wednesday, the North Korean ambassador to India, Kye Chun-yong, said his country was willing to consider a moratorium on nuclear and ballistic missile tests if the United States and South Korea stopped their annual joint military exercises.	朝鲜驻印度大使桂春英(Kye Chun Yong)周三在接受媒体采访时表示，如果美韩停止举行年度联合军事演习，朝鲜愿意考虑暂停核试验和弹道导弹试验。
“Under certain circumstances, we are willing to talk in terms of freezing nuclear testing or missile testing,” Mr. Kye said, speaking in English. “For instance, if the American side completely stops big, large-scale military exercises temporarily or permanently, then we will also temporarily stop. Let’s talk about how to solve the Korean issue peacefully.”	“在某些情况下，我们愿意就冻结核试验或导弹试验进行谈判，”桂春英用英语说道。“比如，如果美方暂时或永久性地完全停止大规模军事演习，我们也会暂时停止。让我们一起讨论如何和平解决朝鲜问题吧。”
But to American officials, a freeze is a trap that previous administrations have stepped into. The Clinton administration tried a freeze in 1994 that the North Koreans first cheated on and then openly discarded early in the administration of President George W. Bush. At the end of Mr. Bush’s term, a second such freeze and partial dismantlement of a nuclear reactor was negotiated, only to be abandoned by the North Koreans as soon as President Barack Obama entered office.	但对美国官员来说，冻结是一个陷阱，之前多届政府都陷入其中。克林顿政府在 1994 年尝试过冻结，但朝鲜先是作弊，然后在乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)总统政府成立初期公开撕毁协议。在布什任期结束时，双方又通过谈判达成了一份此类冻结和部分拆除一个核反应堆的协议。但贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)总统一上台，朝鲜就废除了该协议。
Mr. Tillerson himself rejected the idea of such a negotiated freeze when	今年年初访问韩国时，蒂勒森自己也反对通过谈判达成冻结协议这个想法，

he visited South Korea early this year, saying that it would simply enshrine “a comprehensive set of capabilities” that North Korea has already developed, a reference to its arsenal of a dozen or more nuclear weapons and a growing fleet of short- and medium-range missiles that can hit American troops in the region, along with South Korea and Japan.	称这只是把朝鲜已经发展出来的“一整套能力”珍藏供奉起来。他指的是朝鲜由十多件核武器，以及数量越来越多的短程和中程导弹组成的武器库。那些导弹能够打击美国在该地区的驻军，以及韩国和日本。
But the idea has been embraced by some longtime Korea experts, including former Defense Secretary William J. Perry, who say that it is the only way to buy some time before North Korea successfully tests an intercontinental ballistic missile that could reach the United States.	但这个主意得到了一些资深朝鲜问题专家的支持，包括前国防部长威廉·J·佩里(William J. Perry)。佩里说，这是在朝鲜成功试射可抵达美国的洲际弹道导弹之前，唯一可以争取到一些时间的办法。
All the other options available to the United States have major drawbacks. They include secondary sanctions on Chinese banks and companies doing business with North Korea; a military strike; or simple acceptance of North Korea as a nuclear power.	美国可以采纳的其他选择都存在着严重不足。这些选择包括对与朝鲜有业务往来的中国银行和企业实行二级制裁、军事打击或接受朝鲜的核国家地位。
Secondary sanctions could ignite a trade war. Even a limited military strike could lead North Korea to attack Seoul with conventional weapons, with potentially catastrophic results. And few in the United States government are ready to accept North Korea as an established nuclear power.	二级制裁可能会引发贸易战。即便是有限的军事打击也可能促使朝鲜用常规武器攻击首尔，造成人员伤亡。而在美国政府内部，鲜有人做好了承认朝鲜已是一个核国家的准备。
Without a clear alternative, the Trump administration remains committed to urging China to crack down on Pyongyang. Some 90 percent of North Korea’s trade is with China. And although China recently banned imports of North Korea coal, overall trade between the two countries has actually been increasing.	在没有明确替代方案的情况下，特朗普政府依然致力于敦促中国压制平壤。朝鲜大约 90%的贸易是和中国进行的。而且，尽管中国最近禁止进口朝鲜的煤炭，但两国之间的总体贸易其实一直在增长。
Mr. Tillerson said countries around the world were cracking down on	蒂勒森说，全世界的国家都在打击朝鲜用来为其核计划提供资金的活动，“我

activities North Korea uses to fund its weapons programs, "and we hope China will do their part as well."	们希望中国也承担起自己的责任”。
Mr. Mattis vowed to "continue to take necessary measures to defend ourselves and our allies."	马蒂斯则发誓要“继续采取必要措施，保卫自己和我们的盟友”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170622/north-korea-missle-tests	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170622/north-korea-missle-tests
Dangerous Exploits: Otto Warmbier and the Risks of Travel to North Korea	危险的旅行：那年我带儿子去朝鲜
Times Insider delivers behind-the-scenes insights from The New York Times. In this piece, Craig S. Smith a correspondent for The Times, who raised his family in Shanghai, Paris and Hong Kong, writes about an April 2015 trip he took to North Korea with his son, True.	“时报内情”专栏为读者呈现《纽约时报》报道的幕后故事。在这篇文章中，时报记者克雷格·S·史密斯(Craig S. Smith)讲述了他在2015年4月带着儿子特鲁(True)去朝鲜旅行的经历。他曾携家人在上海、巴黎和香港生活。
My heart breaks for Otto Warmbier, the 22-year-old American student who died Monday after returning home from North Korea in a vegetative state. His crime: He was young and curious, possibly mischievous and certainly naïve.	22岁的美国学生奥托·瓦姆比尔(Otto Warmbier)让我感到心痛，他在植物人状态下从朝鲜被送回家后，于周一去世了。他的错不过是：年轻、好奇，可能有点淘气，但肯定是太天真。
Mr. Warmbier's ordeal makes me shudder, not only for his tragic fate but also because less than a year before Mr. Warmbier's arrest, I had traveled to North Korea. And I had taken my teenage son.	瓦姆比尔的遭遇令我不寒而栗，这不仅是为他悲惨的命运，也是因为在瓦姆比尔被捕前不到一年的时候，我曾经去过朝鲜，而且还带上了我十多岁的儿子。
It has become fashionable to treat North Korea as a kitschy joke. Vice, the millennial-focused media company, has made entertaining, snarky videos there. They accompanied Dennis Rodman to see Kim Jong-un, but Mr. Rodman didn't seem to understand that the trip was a stunt and not Ping-Pong diplomacy. North Korea is not a joke, as Mr. Warmbier's experience has shown.	外界一直很流行把朝鲜当成一个俗气的玩笑。专注于千禧一代的媒体公司Vice在那里拍摄了一些既娱乐又尖酸的视频。他们陪着丹尼斯·罗德曼(Dennis Rodman)去见金正恩(Kim Jong-un)，但罗德曼似乎不认为这趟旅程是一个噱头或乒乓外交。朝鲜不是一个笑话，瓦姆比尔的经历说明了这一点。
Most tourists to North Korea are Chinese, for whom the country is a	去朝鲜的游客大多是中国人，对他们来说，那是一个有点让人回到毛泽东时

sort of nostalgic throwback to Maoist days. But there are a handful of companies that market North Korean tours to Westerners. They package otherwise dreary trips in cheerful and quirky wrappings, targeting young people who are looking for adventure. The Pyongyang Beer Festival is a typical offering.	代的国家。但也有一些公司将朝鲜作为一个旅游地推销给西方游客。他们把本身有些可怕的旅行进行欢乐而离奇的包装，然后将目标指向寻找冒险经历的年轻人。平壤啤酒节就是一个典型的宣传项目。
But the tour companies are simply agents. Once people cross the border, a North Korean travel bureau takes over, shepherding visitors through fixed itineraries meant to show as little of the impoverished country as possible while bringing in badly needed hard currency. Most people are treated to the same things: stops at socialist-realist monuments and vast, empty squares; cavernous state-owned restaurants serving desultory meals (fried fish, mounds of shredded cabbage), and a brief ride between two stations on Pyongyang's metro — the only real brush with North Koreans that most visitors ever get.	但这些旅游公司只是代理。人们一旦越过边境，就会被朝鲜旅游局接手，然后被领着进行固定的旅游行程，朝鲜这么做的目的是尽可能少地暴露这个国家贫穷的一面，同时又带来它所急需的硬通货。大多数人体验到的都是同样的东西：参观社会主义-现实主义风格的纪念碑和巨大、空旷的广场；在巨大的国有餐厅用一些随意的餐饭（炸鱼和一堆切碎的卷心菜），在平壤地铁中短暂地乘坐一站——这是大多数游客真正接触到朝鲜人的唯一机会。
I had long been curious about the shuttered country. I also wanted at least one of my sons to see the Stalinist-style state before it disappears so that they can understand what China was like before they lived there.	我一直对这个与世隔绝的国家感到好奇。也想让我的至少一个儿子在这个斯大林风格的国家消失之前看看它，这样他们就能明白中国在我们去那里生活之前是什么样子。
I spent my 20s in China when the country was still emerging from the Cultural Revolution. Almost everyone wore blue, green or gray. There were no private cars, and bicycles still crowded the streets. Restaurants were state-owned, there was no commercial advertising and people spoke to outsiders in maddening propagandistic platitudes. I wanted my sons to understand how far China had come to be the gritty, growing consumer-driven land of malls and office towers that they	我二十几岁那些年是在中国度过的，当时中国刚刚从文化大革命的阴影中走出。几乎所有人都穿着蓝色、绿色或灰色的衣服。没有私家车，街上拥挤的是自行车车流。餐厅是国有的，没有商业广告，人们跟外来者说话都是一些让人抓狂的宣传套话。我想让我的儿子明白，中国变成他们如今所认识的这个遍布购物中心和办公楼、日益由消费者驱动的活生生的国家，经过了多么遥远的路途。 know today.

I booked a private tour of North Korea through one of the agencies.	我通过一家旅行社预定了一趟朝鲜私家游。
Things started off-kilter. Hours before we left Hong Kong, I put my passport through the washing machine. It came out curled like a faded denim flower and was still damp when we arrived in China to change to a Russian-built Tupolev plane. A Chinese immigration officer smelled the passport and consulted with his superior before letting me pass. The North Korean immigration officials seemed less suspicious, though the passport looked doctored.	旅途的开始有点波折。在离开香港几小时前，我误将护照放进了洗衣机。拿出来时它皱巴巴的，像褪色的牛仔布花，而且在我抵达中国换乘一架俄罗斯产图波列夫(Tupolev)飞机时，它依然是湿的。一位中国移民官闻了闻护照，咨询了他的上级，才放我通行。朝鲜移民官看起来没那么疑心，尽管这护照看起来像被做了手脚。
Our North Korean guides met my son and me at the airport: a chatty woman carrying a designer handbag and a taciturn man in a suit, who rarely spoke and was clearly there to listen and observe.	我和儿子在机场见到了我们的朝鲜导游：一位拿着名牌包的健谈女子，还有一名身着西装的沉默男子，他几乎没有讲话，显然是来倾听和观察的。
Our guides instructed us not to photograph construction sites, military objects or soldiers, which was a significant constraint in a country where about five out of every 100 people are in uniform. They also instructed us not to cut the legs or heads out of the frame when photographing statues of North Korea's founder Kim Il-sung and his son Kim Jong-il.	导游指示我们不要拍建筑工地、军事建筑或士兵——在一个每 100 人里就有 5 人穿制服的国家，这是一个不小的限制。他们也嘱咐我们，在拍朝鲜开国元勋金日成(Kim Il-sung)和他儿子金正日的雕像时，一定要拍全像，不要漏掉腿或头。
We were taken from the airport in a minibus directly to monumental statues of the men, referred to as "the generals," on Mansu Hill in the center of the city. There, we were warned not to chew gum or stand with our hands in our pockets. We were instructed to buy bouquets of flowers from a kiosk, bow before the statues and lay the flowers at their feet. Only then were we taken to our hotel on an island in the Taedong River, which winds through the center of Pyongyang.	我们从机场直接被一辆小型公共汽车带去位于平壤中心的万寿台，参观这两位雕塑——他们被称为“将军”。在那里，我们被警告不要嚼口香糖，或把手插在兜里站着，也被告知要从一个售货亭买花束，在雕塑前鞠躬，然后把花放在雕塑脚下。之后，我们才被带往流经平壤市区的大同江中一座岛上的酒店。

We stayed at the same run-down place as Mr. Warmbier did on his fateful journey — the hotel where most Western tourists are housed. The place was almost empty, but we were warned not to venture unaccompanied beyond the gate or it would “cause problems.” On our first night, our female guide turned back to us as she was leaving and made us to promise that we wouldn’t leave.	我们入住的这座破败的酒店，正是瓦姆比尔在自己那趟灾难性的旅程中所住的地方——大多数西方游客都住在这里。这个地方几乎是空的，但我们被警告不要在无人陪伴的情况下到大门外去冒险，否则就会“造成问题”。入住的第一晚，我们的女向导在要离开的时候又转回来，要我们承诺不会离开酒店。
We did not leave.	我们没有离开。
Instead, we spent evenings in the underground entertainment rooms, bowling in the poorly maintained alley (the pins often toppled of their own accord), or playing blackjack in the Chinese-operated “casino.”	作为替代，我们晚上在地下娱乐室消磨时间，在维护很差的场地打保龄球（球瓶经常自己就倒了），或在中国人运营的“赌场”玩21点。
We covered quite a bit of ground during our visit, from the northern mountains to the southern demilitarized zone. Though it is forbidden to photograph between cities, I took pictures surreptitiously, much to my son’s consternation. The countryside looks like a lot of places in northern Asia — dry and brown in April — with oxen pulling carts, and few motorized vehicles.	旅行期间我们去了不少地方，从北部的山区到南部的非军事区。尽管在城市之间穿行时禁止拍照，但我还是偷偷拍了一些，这让我儿子非常震惊。朝鲜的乡村看起来和亚洲北部的许多地方类似——在4月是干的，一片棕黄色——有牛在拉车，也有少量机动车。
The most striking thing was how well ordered the whitewashed villages were and how every possible piece of arable land — even steep hillsides — had been plowed and planted. Of course, we were on roads open to foreigners: Who’s to say what lay unseen beyond the horizon.	最引人注目的是，这些被粉刷过的村庄是那么井然有序，每一片有耕种潜力的土地——哪怕是陡峭的山坡——都被犁过和种植了作物。当然，我们是行驶在对外国人开放的道路上：谁知道在我们看不到的地方会是什么景象。
I know that we passed about 10 miles from the Yongbyon nuclear complex on one side and about 25 miles from the notorious labor camp No. 14 on the other. Every request to stop and see something of North Korean life, even shops in the cities, was denied.	我知道我们在北边过了宁边核设施又开了10英里（约合16公里），在另一头过了臭名昭著的14号劳改营后又行驶了大约25英里（约合40公里）。每次请求停下来看一看朝鲜的生活，哪怕是城市里的商店，都遭到了拒绝。
As we drove, our guides asked nearly as many questions of me as I did	车行驶途中，两位导游问我的问题几乎跟我问他们的一样多。他们多次问到

of them. They repeatedly inquired about my work. In my visa application, I said that I managed a translation company in Beijing. It was true to a point; I was the managing director of The New York Times's Chinese-language operations there, which translates Times stories into Chinese.	我的工作。在申请签证时，我说自己在北京管理一家翻译公司。这在某种程度上是真的；我当时是《纽约时报》中文网的总经理，那里会将时报的文章翻译成中文。
Their questions were unsettling, however, and I stuck to my story as much as my smile. They talked a lot about how many spies they have in North Korea, and I realized this wasn't a game I should be playing with my son by my side.	不过，他们的问题让人有些不安，我尽可能微笑着坚持自己的说法。他们谈论了许多有关朝鲜有多少间谍的话题，我意识到我其实不该带儿子来这里。
On the last day, my son asked if we could go back to see the monumental statues of the generals. The guides seemed puzzled, even perturbed, but acquiesced. When we got there, I lost track of our male guide, but he soon joined us. On the way back, he and I fell behind my son and our female guide.	最后一天，儿子问我们能不能再去看看两位将军的纪念雕塑。两位向导一脸迷惑，甚至有点不安，但他们同意了。到那以后，我的男向导一度不见了，不过后来他又加入了我们。在回去的路上，他和我走在我儿子和女向导的后面。
"Why did you want to visit the generals again?" he asked. I explained that because we had begun our trip there, my son wanted to end it there. He fell silent as we approached an outbuilding. "Would you write that down?" he finally asked. I imagined being proffered a guest book where visitors wrote glowing tributes and answered yes.	"你们为什么想再去看将军的雕塑呢？"他问道。我解释说是因为我们的旅行是从那开始的，我儿子也想在那里结束。在我们走向一座附属建筑物时，他陷入了沉默。"你会把这写下来吗？"他最终问道。我想象着有人递上来一本访客留言簿，供游客写下热情洋溢的赞美之辞，然后回答说是的。
A man came out of the outbuilding and they conferred. Then the guide said I only needed to tell him the reason again, and he would go inside and explain. I repeated what I had said. Curious, I followed him into the building.	一名男子从那座建筑走出来，他们协商了一下。然后导游说，我只需要把理由再跟他讲一遍，他会进去解释。我重复了刚才讲过的话。因为好奇，我跟着他进了那座建筑。
There was no guest book inside, but rather a group of men in military uniforms. They seemed annoyed that I was there and motioned for me	里面没有留言簿，但有一群身着军服的男子。看到我出现在那里，他们似乎有些恼怒，做手势让我到外面去。过了一会，导游出来了。"他们满意了，"

to step outside. After a moment, my guide reappeared. "They are satisfied," he said.	他说。
It was then I realized that we had fallen under suspicion. In retrospect, given what happened to Mr. Warmbier, the entire trip was an unnecessary risk. The obfuscation about my identity, my damp and beaten passport, the surreptitiously taken photos — some of them cutting the head off Kim Il-sung — could easily have been used to construe nefarious intent.	那时我才意识到我们受到了怀疑。考虑到瓦姆比尔的遭遇，现在回头看，整个旅程都是一场没必要的冒险。有关我身份的困惑，我那皱巴巴的湿护照，还有那些偷偷拍下的照片——有些漏拍了金日成的头——都可以轻易地被用来解释成有恶毒的意图。
On the plane back to China, I picked up a copy of the English-language Pyongyang Daily. "Nukes will put an end to DPRK-US Standoff," a headline read, referring to the uneasy relationship between the U.S. and Democratic People's Republic of Korea, the North's official name.	在返回中国的飞机上，我拿起一份英文版的《平壤日报》(Pyongyang Daily)。“核武器将终结朝美僵局，”其中一篇文章的标题这样写道，指的是美国和朝鲜人民民主共和国此前的不和。
"The DPRK will advance the timetable for the great war."	"朝鲜会推进这场伟大战争的日程。"
A lot of people say I was stupid. But it's easy to underestimate the danger of a place like North Korea, to feel that it's not real.	有许多人说我当时的行为很傻。但人们很容易低估去朝鲜这种地方的危险性，会觉得它不是真的。
Mr. Warmbier was naïve, and so was I.	瓦姆比尔很天真，我也一样。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170623/dangerous-exploits-otto-warmbier-and-the-risks-of-travel-to-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170623/dangerous-exploits-otto-warmbier-and-the-risks-of-travel-to-north-korea
South Korea Leader Hopes for Unified Olympic Team With the North	文在寅提议朝韩联合组队参加 2018 年冬奥会
SEOUL, South Korea — President Moon Jae-in of South Korea proposed on Saturday that his country and North Korea form a unified team to compete in the 2018 Winter Olympics, to be held in the city of Pyeongchang in the South.	韩国首尔——韩国总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)周六提议韩国和朝鲜联合组队，参加在韩国城市平昌举行的 2018 年冬奥会。
Mr. Moon made the overture during a speech at the opening ceremony of a World Taekwondo championship in the city of Muju in South	文在寅是在韩国茂朱的世界跆拳道锦标赛开幕式上发表讲话时提出这一建议的。朝鲜没有参加该锦标赛，但派出了一支由朝鲜奥林匹克委员会

Korea. The North does not compete in the championship but sent a demonstration team, led by Jang Woong, its delegate to the International Olympic Committee. It was the first sports exchange since Mr. Moon took office.	(International Olympic Committee)代表姜雄（Jang Woong，音）率领的表演队。这是文在寅上台后两国进行的首次体育交流。
The South Korean president, who advocates dialogue and reconciliation with North Korea, recalled past instances where the two Koreas fielded joint teams in international sports competitions and their national teams marched together in Olympic Games.	主张同朝鲜对话并达成和解的文在寅回忆了过去朝韩联合组队参加国际体育比赛，以及两国代表队在奥运会开幕式上携手亮相的情况。
"I want to see the same glory again," he said, asking Mr. Jang for cooperation. "I want to feel the same Olympic sensation."	"我希望再次目睹同样的盛况，"他说，并请姜雄合作。"我希望感受到同样的奥运情。"
If they form a unified team for the Pyeongchang Olympics, it would be a major milestone in inter-Korean relations. South Korean officials hope such a feat would help create a thaw on the Korean Peninsula after years of tensions spurred by the North's nuclear and missile tests.	如果联合组队参加平昌奥运会，这将是朝韩关系的重大里程碑。数年来，朝鲜的导弹和核试验导致双边关系紧张。韩国官方希望这样一项成就就能够有助于缓和朝鲜半岛的紧张局势。
North Korea has yet to announce whether it wants to attend the Pyeongchang Olympics. The North and South remain bitter political and sports rivals.	朝鲜尚未宣布是否愿意参加平昌冬奥会。朝鲜和韩国在政治和体育上依然势不两立。
When the South hosted the 1988 Summer Olympics, in Seoul, the North boycotted it. But strong ethnic nationalism also compels people in one Korea to cheer for the other Korea when it competes with any other country, especially Japan, which once ruled the Korean Peninsula as a colony.	韩国 1988 年在首尔举办夏季奥运会时，遭到朝鲜的抵制。但当韩国或朝鲜与另一个国家，尤其是曾对朝鲜半岛实行殖民统治的日本比赛时，强烈的族群民族主义还是会促使双方民众为彼此加油。
Efforts by both sides to seek reconciliation through sports exchanges have sometimes led to breakthroughs. In 1991, the two Koreas fielded a joint team to an international table-tennis championship and	双方通过体育交流达成和解的努力，有时会取得突破。1991 年，双方联合组队参加世界乒乓球锦标赛和足球世青赛。 international youth soccer tournament.

In 2000, the year the two countries held their historic first summit meeting, their delegations marched together at the opening ceremony of the Sydney Olympics. They again marched together at the 2004 Athens Olympics, using the single name "Korea" and carrying a "Korea is one" flag. But they competed separately in 2000 and 2004.	2000年，韩朝举行历史性的首次峰会，两国的代表队也一起亮相悉尼奥运会的开幕式。在2004年的雅典奥运会上，两国以“Korea”作为名称再次共同入场，高举“朝鲜半岛是一家”的旗帜出场。但在这两届奥运会上，两国均单独比赛。
The potential implications of millions of Koreans cheering together for their unified team could be huge – a prospect that could further advance Mr. Moon's policy of promoting dialogue and exchanges with the North.	数以百万计的朝鲜半岛民众一起为联队加油可能会带来巨大的潜在影响。它可能会进一步推进文在寅促进与朝鲜对话和交流的政策。
But past efforts to form a unified Olympic team have all faltered over politically delicate details such as whether a joint team should have an equal number of players from each side, which side should choose the head coach and where the team would train.	但过去组建联合奥运会代表队的努力都因政治上的敏感细节而受阻，如联队中两国的运动员人数是否应该均等、哪一方挑选总教练和代表队在哪儿训练等等。
Such efforts for unity in sports also provide a testing ground for overcoming obstacles to reunification. For instance, after seven decades of division, athletes from the two Koreas use sharply different sports vocabulary. In South Korea, broadcasts of soccer matches are interspersed with English terms like "goal post," "penalty kick" and "midfield." In the North, where state linguists abhor foreign terminology, athletes use Korean translations not readily understandable to South Korean players.	为联合参赛而作出的这类努力，也为克服统一面临的障碍提供了试验机会。比如，经历了70年的分裂后，两国运动员的体育用语明显不同。韩国播出的足球比赛节目夹杂着“goal post（球门柱）”、“penalty kick（罚点球）”和“midfield（中场）”这样的英语术语，但在官方语言学家讨厌外国术语的朝鲜，运动员用的是经过翻译的朝鲜语版本，对韩国运动员来说，那些说法并不好懂。
The two Koreas have even developed different versions of taekwondo, their traditional martial art. The North is promoting the rival International Taekwondo Federation. The South's version became an	朝韩甚至在它们的传统武术跆拳道上，也发展出了不同的版本。朝鲜正在推广与世界跆拳道联盟抗衡的国际跆拳道联盟(International Taekwondo Federation)，韩国的跆拳道则在2000年成为了奥运会比赛项目。

Olympic medal sport in 2000.
On Saturday, Mr. Moon welcomed the North Korean taekwondo team to the South, which hopes to send its demonstration team to an International Taekwondo Federation competition to be held in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, in September.	周六，文在寅对赴韩的朝鲜跆拳道代表队表示欢迎。韩国也希望派自己的表演队参加9月在朝鲜首都平壤举行的一项国际跆拳道联盟比赛。
He said the two taekwondo federations' cooperation should inspire the two Koreas to work for a joint Olympic team. "Sports are a powerful tool to demolish walls and separation," he said.	他说，两个跆拳道联盟的合作应鼓舞双方为组建一支奥运会联合代表队而努力。“体育是一件消除隔阂和分裂的强大工具，”他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170626/korea-joint-winter-olympics	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170626/korea-joint-winter-olympics
Hard Life Among the Dead in the Philippines	与死者为邻：建在坟地里的马尼拉棚户区
MANILA, Philippines — Manila North Cemetery, opened in 1904, is one of the oldest and largest in the Philippines. Its elaborate mausoleums and endless rows of humble, stacked tombs are home to an estimated 1 million of the dead — and a few thousand of the living.	菲律宾马尼拉——建成于1904年的马尼拉北部公墓(Manila North Cemetery)，是菲律宾最大、最古老的公墓之一。这里既有精心建造的大型陵墓，也有一排排不起眼的、挤挤挨挨的小坟头，是大约100万亡灵以及几千个活人的家园。
The final resting place of presidents, movie stars and literary icons, the cemetery is also inhabited by some of Manila's poorest people. Many live in the crypts and mausoleums of wealthy families, who pay them a stipend to clean and watch over them.	除了充当总统、电影明星和文学偶像最后的安息地，此处公墓还是一些最贫穷的马尼拉人的栖身之所。很多人住在富裕人家的地穴和陵墓里，受雇为他们打扫和看管那些地方。
Others find different ways to engage the economy of death and burial. "There is really no work here inside the cemetery, so I taught myself how to do this in 2007," Ferdinand Zapata, 39, said as he chiseled the name of a dead man into an ornate marble headstone.	另外一些人则以不同的方式参与到葬丧经济中来。“公墓里真的没什么工作，于是我在2007年自学了做这个，”现年39岁的费迪南德·萨帕塔(Ferdinand Zapata)边说边把一位死者的名字刻在华丽的大理石墓碑上。
"This is the best job in the cemetery because you don't have a boss," said Zapata, who grew up in the cemetery and has raised two children	“这是公墓里最好的工作，因为没有老板管着，”在公墓内长大成人并在这里养育了两个孩子的萨帕塔说。“不过造龛位和陵墓的泥瓦匠能赚到更多钱。”

here. "The masons who make the niches and mausoleums can earn more, though."
As many as one-quarter of Manila's 12 million people are "informal settlers." Those in the cemetery prefer its relative quiet and safety to the city's dangerous shantytowns. The resourcefulness needed to live a life of such insecurity is on full display here.	马尼拉的 1200 万人口中，有四分之一是“非正式栖居者”。住在公墓里的人看中的是，比起市区危险的棚户区，这里相对而言更安静和安全。要过如此不稳定的生活是需要聪明才智的，这一点在这里得到淋漓尽致的展示。
In mausoleums, and in makeshift structures built over tombs, families go about their days. They chat, play cards and watch soap operas on TVs mounted near headstones or ornamental crosses.	人们在陵墓之内以及坟墓旁边的临时建筑物里过日子。他们聊天、玩牌，通过安放在墓碑或装饰性十字架旁边的电视机观看肥皂剧。
"Sometimes it's difficult living here," said Jane de Asis, 26, who lives in a classically designed mausoleum with a son, two sisters, her sisters' children and her mother, who is paid to take care of it. "We don't always have electricity and have no running water. It's especially hard in the summer, when it's so hot."	"这里的生活有时很艰难，"现年 26 岁的简·德阿齐兹(Jane de Asis)说。"我们并非总是有电和自来水。炎热的夏天尤其难熬。"德阿齐兹和她的一个儿子、两个姐妹、姐妹的孩子以及她的母亲一起，住在一个有着古典设计风格的陵墓里，她的母亲是被请来照管这座陵墓的。
At night, people sleep on the tombs. The thought of that may be jarring, but for the residents it is a practical choice. And many in this devoutly religious country see the boundary between the living and the dead as porous.	夜晚，人们在坟头上入睡。这一幕想来颇为诡异，但对公墓里的居民而言，这是一个颇为实际的选择。此外，在这个宗教盛行的国家里，很多人认为生死之间的界限很模糊。
Isidro Gonzalez, 74, likes to talk to his mother, he said as he sat with his back to her tomb, working on a crossword puzzle. "Maybe she can answer me, but so far, she has not!"	现年 74 岁的伊西德罗·冈萨雷斯(Isidro Gonzalez)喜欢跟自己的母亲交谈，他说他会背靠母亲的坟墓而坐，玩填字游戏。"或许她会回应我，但迄今为止还没有过！"
Electricity in these converted homes is jury-rigged, and most residents do not have running water. At the few public wells, people line up with carts loaded with empty water bottles, waiting to fill them up.	在这些经改造而来的居所里，电力设施是临时的，大多数居民都用不上自来水。几口公用水井边，人们推着装满空水瓶的平板车，排队等待取水。
Amid all of this, the normal business of a cemetery goes on. On a busy	公墓的正常业务就在所有这一切当中运转。繁忙的日子里，一天会有多达

day there can be as many as 80 funerals.	80 场葬礼。
Some cemetery residents, like the 54-year-old man who calls himself Father Ramona, are paid by visiting families to lead prayers at a grave. Father Ramona sometimes wears a T-shirt bearing the face of Jesus.	到访公墓的家庭会让住在这里的一些人在某座坟前领祷，并向其支付酬劳。比如一个现年 54 岁、自称拉莫纳神父(Father Ramona)的男人，他有时会穿一件印有耶稣面庞的 T 恤。
The cemetery is so dense with tombs and crypts that a hearse often cannot reach its destination. Mourners must then carry the coffin the rest of the way, clambering over other tombs and through passageways between mausoleums.	这个公墓里密密匝匝满是坟墓和龕位，灵车常常无法顺利抵达目的地。于是哀悼者必须抬着棺槨越过其他坟墓，穿行在陵墓之间的通道上，走完剩下的一段路。
Glen Baleña, 26, was interred on a Sunday, which is always a busy day. Baleña died of a brain infection, his relatives said.	一个周日，现年 26 岁的格伦·巴莱纳(Glen Baleña)被埋葬于此——周日通常是繁忙的一天。巴莱纳的亲属说，他死于脑部感染。
Tombs are generally rented for five years. After that, if the relatives stop paying, the cemetery administrators will exhume the remains, after a grace period. Discarded bags of skulls and bones, some tangled in the threads of the clothes they were buried in, are a common sight.	坟墓的租期通常为五年。五年过后，如果死者亲属停止付费，公墓管理者会在宽限期结束后将遗骸掘出。被遗弃的装有尸骨的袋子很常见，有些尸骨就用死者下葬时的衣服缠绕着。
People leave offerings of snacks, drinks and sometimes cigarettes at their relatives' gravesides. Family members can often be seen there, saying prayers, lighting candles or just chatting.	人们会在亲人墓旁留下点心、酒水，有时还有香烟。常常可以看到死者的家人在墓前念祷文，点蜡烛，或者只是和死者说话。
On a recent morning, the acrid smell of burning methamphetamine — or shabu, as Filipinos call it — wafted through a remote corner of the cemetery. It led to a middle-age woman smoking the drug from a piece of foil, as her daughter held a newborn. Teenage boys nearby slept off their highs on tombstones or in hammocks.	最近的一个早上，燃烧安非他命——菲律宾人称之为“沙布”(shabu)——的刺激味道自公墓的一个偏僻角落散发开去。循着气味可以看到一名中年女子正在吸食箔纸上的毒品，她的女儿则抱着一名新生儿。旁边墓碑和吊床上的若干十几岁的男孩正在吸毒后的亢奋中昏昏睡去。
Residents say drug use and crime have been on the rise in recent years; Zapata, the headstone carver, dated it to roughly 2000, when slum clearance nearby led to a wave of new residents. President Rodrigo	一些居民称，吸毒和犯罪活动近年来不断增多；刻墓碑的萨帕塔说，这种情况可以追溯至 2000 年左右——当时，附近一个贫民窟遭到清理，进而引发一波新居民的迁入。罗德里戈·杜特地(Rodrigo Duterte)总统对毒贩和瘾君子

Duterte's bloody crackdown on drug dealers and addicts has also been felt at Manila North. In September, three men were killed here in what police called an anti-drug sting operation; they were said to have been trying to sell $10 worth of shabu.	的血腥镇压，在马尼拉北部公墓也有所体现。去年9月，在警方所谓的禁毒诱捕行动中，三名男子在这里被杀；据说他们试图贩卖价值10美元的“沙布”。
Virginia Javier, 90, said residents now locked the gates to their tombs, which was not the case several years ago. "Since Duterte become president, every time there is a police raid here I go home to my children, usually," Javier said as she tended potted plants outside one of the 10 mausoleums she is paid to take care of.	现年90岁的维尔吉尼亚·哈维尔(Virginia Javier)说，现如今，人们会给通往他们所在坟墓的大门上锁，这是近几年才有的情况。“自从杜特地成为总统以来，每当警方突袭这里，我就会回家跟孩子们待在一起，经常是这样，”受雇照管十个陵墓的哈维尔边说边侍弄其中一个陵墓外的盆栽。
As dusk fell, many people advised an interpreter and me to leave, saying it was not safe to be walking around after dark.	黄昏时，很多人都建议我和翻译离开，说天黑以后四处逛并不安全。
During the day, new homes are built from modest tombs, as workers add makeshift concrete walls and roofs of corrugated iron, often scavenged from somewhere else.	那天，一些不起眼的坟墓正被改造成新家，工人们忙着添加简易水泥墙和瓦楞铁板屋顶——常常是从别的什么地方清理下来的。
As the heat of the day dies away, boys and young men play basketball on improvised courts, or a version of billiards that's popular in the slums of the Philippines.	白天的热气渐渐散去，男孩和年轻男子们在临时庭院里玩起了篮球，或者一种在菲律宾贫民窟里很流行的台球游戏。
Night often finds Gonzalez, the 74-year-old who was working on a crossword in his family crypt, sleeping there. But he is not a resident — he owns a condominium in Manila. His neighborhood, though, is more dangerous than the cemetery. As he put it, "The dead can't harm you."	现年74岁、在自家地穴边制作十字架的冈萨雷斯晚上经常会睡在那里。但他不是公墓的居民——他在马尼拉有一处公寓。不过，他所在的社区比公墓更危险。如他所说，“死人不会伤害你。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170626/manila-north-cemetery-philippines	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170626/manila-north-cemetery-philippines
China Jails Workers From Crown Resorts of Australia in Message to Casinos	澳大利亚博彩公司员工在华获刑

BEIJING — China has sent the global gambling industry a message: Be careful when trawling for business there.	北京——中国已经向全球博彩业发出了一个信息：在中国网罗生意要小心。
A court in Shanghai on Monday sentenced three Australian employees of Crown Resorts to less than a year in prison each for illegally promoting gambling in China. Including the time they have already spent in prison, all three should be released in weeks or months. Thirteen other employees, one Malaysian and 12 Chinese, received similar sentences, the company said.	上海一家法院周一判处皇冠度假酒店集团的三名澳大利亚员工一年以下有期徒刑，他们的罪名是在中国境内非法推销赌博。把他们已经在监狱里度过的时间算进去，这三人应该都在几周或几个月内获释。皇冠集团说，另有13名其他雇员，包括一名马来西亚人和12名中国人，也被判处类似的刑期。
Crown, based in Australia, said in a news release that the court had sentenced Jason O'Connor, the vice president of its V.I.P. international operations, to 10 months in prison. Two other Australians, Pan Dan and Jerry Xuan, were each sentenced to nine months. They have been in detention since Oct. 14, the company said.	总部在澳大利亚的皇冠集团在一份新闻发布中说，法院判处公司国际贵宾部副总裁杰森·奥康纳(Jason O'Connor)10个月的监禁。另外两名澳大利亚人潘丹和宣杰瑞(Jerry Xuan)分别被判处九个月的徒刑。该公司表示，这三人自去年10月14日以来一直被关押。
Three more Crown employees were convicted but not fined or sentenced to prison.	另有三名皇冠雇员被定罪，但未被罚款或判刑。
Although gambling is illegal in mainland China, many Chinese flock to Macau — a special administrative region under Beijing's rule but governed by separate laws — as well as places like Australia, Singapore and the Philippines to try their luck. Many casino operators in those places try to lure Chinese high rollers, or big-stakes gamblers, to their properties by enticing them with rides on private jets, haute cuisine and swift visa approvals.	虽然在中国大陆赌博是非法的，但许多中国人涌入澳门，以及澳大利亚、新加坡和菲律宾等地试手气，澳门是归北京管辖的特别行政区，但有自己独立的法律。这些地方的许多赌场经营者通过提供乘坐私人飞机、高档美食，以及快速签证通道等服务，设法将中国豪赌者或下大赌注的赌徒吸引到自己的赌场。
But the accusations against Crown drew the industry's attention and were closely watched for a sense of how other operators should run their businesses. It is unusual for a high-ranking foreign executive to be	但是，对皇冠集团的指控引起了博彩业的注意和密切关注，指控被看作是向其他经营者应该如何经营业务发出的信号。外国企业的高级管理人员在中国受起诉的事情比较罕见，中国法律规定，对组织赌博活动或试图从赌博中获

prosecuted in China, but the law mandates a maximum sentence of as many as three years for organizing gambling sessions or trying to profit from the business.	利的人，可判处最高三年的有期徒刑。
“The uncertainty was stifling for a lot of casino operators because they didn’t exactly know how this was going to pan out and what the exact objections were because not much was made public,” said Sudhir Kalé, the founder of GamePlan Consultants, a gambling consultancy based in Australia that has advised Crown in the past.	“案子带来的不确定性让很多赌场经营者非常压抑，因为他们完全不知道这是怎么回事，不知道究竟是什么东西引起政府的反对，因为案子的情况大都没有公开，”GamePlan 咨询公司创始人苏德海尔·凯乐(Sudhir Kalé)说，这家设在澳大利亚的博彩业咨询公司以前曾为皇冠做过咨询。
“Most operators will also learn that, every now and then, the government does become very serious about implementing the laws in the strictest sense of the word, and therefore they will be a lot more subtle in terms of promoting their properties to the mainland Chinese market,” he said.	“大多数经营者也将了解到，政府的确会时不时地按照法律文字最严格的解释，非常认真地严格执行法律，因此经营者在向中国大陆市场推销自己的赌场时，将会用更不易觉察的方法，”他说。
The detentions followed a crackdown on South Korean casino chains in 2015, when the authorities arrested more than a dozen employees accused of luring Chinese tourists with free accommodations and prostitutes. They also come on the heels of President Xi Jinping’s crackdown on corruption, in which he warned against ostentatious displays of wealth, and at a time when the government is struggling to stem capital flight.	皇冠雇员被拘留的事情发生在 2015 年的打击韩国博彩连锁店之后，当时，当局拘捕了十几名被指控向中国游客提供免费住宿和妓女的韩国公司雇员。这也与国家主席习近平的反腐败运动伴随而来，习近平在反腐运动中警告官员不要摆阔气炫耀财富，同时中国政府也正在努力遏制资本外逃。
Australia has watched the case closely, and its prime minister, Malcolm Turnbull, has expressed concern. A spokeswoman for Australia’s Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade said that consular officials would continue to aid the Australians and their families until they were released.	澳大利亚对此案密切关注，总理马尔科姆·特恩布尔曾表示担忧。澳大利亚外交贸易部一位发言人说，在这三名澳大利亚人获释之前，澳大利亚领事官员将继续为他们及家人提供帮助。

The detentions have also caught the attention of other foreign companies operating in China, where fears of increased government scrutiny are growing. Still, the sentences were lighter than the penalties meted out to some others that have come under the cross hairs of the Chinese government. In 2010, a senior executive at Rio Tinto, a mining giant, was sentenced to 10 years in prison in a case involving bribery and theft of commercial secrets.	这些人被拘留也引起了其他在中国经营的外国公司的关注，人们对政府审查力度越来越大的担忧在增长。不过，这次判的刑期比其他一些成为政府目标的人受到的处罚要轻。2010年，矿业巨头力拓集团的高级管理人员曾因涉及贿赂和盗窃商业秘密的案子被判处十年有期徒刑。
Chen Zhao, deputy director of Fudan University's China Center for Economic Studies in Shanghai, said he did not believe the Crown case meant that the government was putting foreign companies in its sights. "I believe that the Chinese government itself is very welcoming of all kinds of legitimate and reasonable investment, so I think this action isn't targeting a specific company, foreign investor or country," he said.	上海复旦大学中国经济研究中心副主任陈钊说，他不认为皇冠的案子意味着政府正在把外国公司作为惩罚的目标。“我相信，中国政府本身非常欢迎各种合法合理的投资，所以我认为，此次行动并不是针对特定的公司、外国投资者或国家的，”他说。
Crown said 16 of the 19 defendants were fined a total of $1.3 million, which the company paid.	皇冠说，19名被告中有16名被判处总数为130万美元的罚款，公司已经替他们支付了罚款。
It is unclear what the case would mean for Crown's growth prospects in China. On its website, the company lists Hong Kong, another special administrative region governed by its own laws, as its only international representative office. In May, Crown sold its remaining stake in the Macau casino operator Melco Resorts & Entertainment for about $1.2 billion.	目前尚不清楚此案对皇冠在中国的发展前景有什么影响。公司在其网站上的国际代表处栏目只列了香港，香港是另一个有自己法律的特别行政区。今年5月，皇冠以约12亿美元的总价卖掉了公司持有的澳门博彩运营商新濠博亚娱乐(Melco Resorts & Entertainment)的剩余股份。
Although Macau, the world's largest gambling market, has been hurt by the campaign against graft, it has rebounded in recent months as new resorts have opened.	澳门是世界上最大的赌博市场，虽然受到反腐败运动的影响，但近几个月来，随着新度假胜地的开放，澳门的赌博业已开始复苏。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170627/crown-resorts-china-sen	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170627/crown-resorts-china-sen

tencing	tencing
South Korea Voices Support for U.S. Antimissile System	韩国政府表态，愿继续支持萨德部署计划
SEOUL, South Korea — South Korea's foreign minister indicated strongly on Monday that her government would honor an agreement to deploy an American missile-defense system despite protests and economic retaliation from China.	韩国首尔——韩国外交部长周一强烈暗示，尽管受到中国的抗议和经济报复，但韩国政府会按照协议部署美国的导弹防御系统。
The deployment of the antimissile battery, known as Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or Thaad, had been approved under Park Geun-hye, the South Korean president who was ousted on corruption charges in March.	“末段高空防御系统”（Terminal High Altitude Area Defense，简称萨德）反导系统的部署是韩国前总统朴槿惠执政时批准的，朴槿惠已因腐败指控在今年3月被迫下台。
But President Moon Jae-in, who replaced Ms. Park in a special election last month, has cast doubt on the deal.	在上个月举行在特别选举中，文在寅取代朴槿惠担任总统，让人们对反导系统的继续部署产生了怀疑。
And the fate of the missile battery, some of whose key components have already been installed in South Korea, has threatened to become a contentious topic when Mr. Moon meets with President Trump in Washington this week.	文在寅于本周在华盛顿与特朗普会面时，反导系统继续部署的命运有成为有争议话题的危险，韩国已经安装了该系统的一些重要部分。
Since taking office, Mr. Moon has ordered his government to stop installing additional components of the Thaad battery until it completes a domestic review, including an environmental assessment.	文在寅上任后曾下令政府停止安装萨德反导系统的其他部分，直到韩国完成对其的评估，包括环境评估。
That move has provoked fears in Washington that Mr. Moon might be looking for an excuse to cancel the deal, even though he insisted that it did not mean that his government would reverse the decision made under Ms. Park.	此举引起了华盛顿的担忧，美国担心文在寅可能在寻找一个停止部署的借口，虽然他坚称，这并不意味着他的政府会扭转朴槿惠政府的决定。
On Monday, the South Korean foreign minister, Kang Kyung-wha, said the domestic review was to strengthen public support for the missile	周一，韩国外长康京和表示，国内评估是通过巩固反导系统的合法性，加强公众对其的支持。她称部署反导系统是“盟友间的决定”，并说韩国将“在相互

system by shoring up its political legitimacy. Calling the deployment “an alliance decision,” she said South Korea would “continue to collaborate on the basis of mutual trust.”	信任的基础上继续合作”。
“My government has no intention to basically reverse the commitments made in the spirit of” the alliance, Ms. Kang said at a forum jointly organized by the South Korean daily JoongAng Ilbo and the Center for Strategic and International Studies, a think tank based in Washington.	“我国政府并不打算在本质上改变其本着（盟友）精神做出的承诺，”康京和在韩国报纸《中央日报》与华盛顿智库“战略与国际研究中心”联合举办的论坛上表示。
The United States and Ms. Park’s government had insisted that Thaad was necessary to guard against the growing ballistic missile threats from North Korea.	美国和朴槿惠的政府坚持认为，有必要部署萨德，以防范来自朝鲜的日益增长的弹道导弹威胁。
But China has vehemently criticized the Thaad deployment at its doorstep, calling it a threat to its own national security. In recent months, many South Korean brands have been boycotted in China in what was considered to be economic retaliation.	但中国强烈反对在自己的门口部署萨德，称其对国家安全构成威胁。近几个月来，许多韩国品牌在中国受到抵制，韩国认为这是经济报复。
On the campaign trail, Mr. Moon expressed doubt that Ms. Park’s decision was in the country’s best interest. He also questioned whether Thaad would be effective in defending South Korea from the North’s missiles.	在竞选活动中，文在寅曾对朴槿惠的决定是否符合国家的最大利益表示怀疑。他也曾怀疑“萨德”能否有效地保护韩国不受朝鲜导弹的打击。
As he and his conservative rivals have bickered over the system, it has become a crucial test of Mr. Moon’s attitude toward the alliance with Washington.	随着他与保守派对手们在部署萨德问题上不断争吵，这个问题已构成文在寅对韩国与美国联盟的态度的关键考验。
Since his election, however, Mr. Moon has sought to dispel misgivings that his government would weaken that relationship, repeatedly emphasizing its importance. With North Korea’s missile programs advancing, he has also vowed to bolster South Korea’s defense.	然而，自从当选以来，文在寅通过反复强调韩美联盟的重要性，一直在试图消除人们对他的政府会削弱这一联盟的疑虑。随着朝鲜导弹计划的推进，文在寅也发誓，要加强韩国的防务。

Ms. Kang's remark on Monday was one of the clearest indications from Mr. Moon's government that it would honor the Thaad deal for the sake of the alliance.	康京和周一的说法是来自文在寅政府最明确的信号之一，表明政府为了美韩联盟将遵守有关萨德的协议。
Two days earlier, thousands of demonstrators briefly encircled the American Embassy in central Seoul during a peaceful anti-Thaad march.	两天前，数千名示威者曾围着位于首尔中部的美国大使馆举行了反对萨德的短暂游行。
Ms. Kang also addressed another concern in Washington by saying that her government would not hurry to try to reopen a jointly run industrial complex in the North Korean city of Kaesong. South Korea closed the complex last year after the North's nuclear and long-range rocket tests.	康京和还消除了华盛顿的另一个忧虑，她说，韩国政府不会急于试图重新开启设在朝鲜开城的韩朝联合经营的工业园区。去年朝鲜进行了核试验和远程火箭试验后，韩国关闭了这个工业园区。
During the election campaign, some aides to Mr. Moon had called for the reopening as part of Mr. Moon's program of fostering dialogue and exchanges with North Korea. But American politicians and former government officials feared that the reopening of Kaesong, which had been a key source of hard currency for Pyongyang, would undermine international efforts to squeeze its ability to raise cash.	在竞选期间，文在寅的一些助手曾呼吁重新开启园区，将其作为文在寅与朝鲜进行对话与交流的计划的一部分。但美国政治人士和政府前官员担心，重新开启园区会削弱国际社会限制平壤获得硬通货的努力，因为开城是朝鲜的一个重要外汇来源。
"We will pursue this only under the right circumstances," Ms. Kang said. "It is something that can be pursued at a later stage when we are assured of progress in dealing with the North Korean nuclear and missile threats, and we will do so in closest consultations with the United States."	"我们只会在适当的情况下才会这样做，"康京和说。"这件事可以留到将来去做，在我们确信在对付朝鲜的核武器和导弹威胁方面取得了进展的时候，而且我们将在与美国进行了密切协商的情况下才这样做。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170627/south-korea-thaad-missile-defense	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170627/south-korea-thaad-missile-defense
Tycoon's Claims Reverberate in China Despite Censorship and Thin Evidence	墙外的郭文贵给墙内的习近平添乱

BEIJING — Officially, no one in China can watch when the exiled tycoon Guo Wengui appears on banned websites to cheerfully lob incendiary allegations of corruption and skulduggery at the top ranks of the Communist Party. Unofficially, though, many people here in Beijing are riveted.	北京——明面上，流亡大亨郭文贵在被禁的网站上出现，愉快地发表种种指控中国共产党高层腐败和欺诈的煽动性言论，这些是中国人看不到的。不过，在私下里，北京的很多人都在关注。
Since taking office, President Xi Jinping has cultivated an aura of austere probity and stern control. But now a garrulous billionaire living in a lavish apartment in Manhattan, taunting the authorities beyond the easy grasp of Chinese security forces, has muddied that image — and created a political and publicity headache for Mr. Xi just months before a key leadership conference.	习近平主席上台后，营造出简朴廉洁、严格控制的氛围。但是现在，一位喋喋不休的亿万富翁住在曼哈顿的奢华公寓里，让中国安全部门无法轻易控制，他嘲笑中国当局，玷污了这个形象，在距离一场重要领导层会议还有几个月的时候，这也给习近平制造了一个政治和宣传上的难题。
“Everyone is paying attention to Guo Wengui,” said He Weifang, a law professor at Peking University who has criticized Mr. Xi’s hard-line policies. “At meals and gatherings, everyone talks about it.”	“大家都在关注郭文贵，”北京大学法学教授、批评习近平强硬政策的贺卫方说。“在聚餐和聚会上，大家都在谈论他。”
Over a week ago, Mr. Guo escalated his campaign with a fresh batch of sensational — and unproven — charges against Wang Qishan, the party leader who has directed the anticorruption drive that is the signature achievement of Mr. Xi’s first five years in power. The government declined to comment on the allegations, perhaps worried that responding would only draw more attention to the claims.	一周多前，郭文贵升级了自己的战斗，对王岐山发起了新一轮未经证实的轰动性指控。王岐山是中共领导人之一，由他主持的反腐运动一直是习近平掌权后前五年的标志性成就。政府拒绝就这些指控发表评论，也许是担心，回应只会引发对这些指控的更多关注。
But it is already near impossible to hold a private conversation with anyone in the Chinese capital who takes an interest in politics without talk turning to Mr. Guo and his unverified insider tales of elite corruption and power plays. People here have followed each unveiling of Mr. Guo’s often long-winded allegations by creeping around China’s barricade of	但是，现在在中国的首都，与任何一个对政治感兴趣的人私下谈话时，几乎都不可能不提到郭文贵，以及他有关权贵腐败和权力斗争的那些未经证实的内幕故事。这里的人们绕过中国互联网审查的高墙，关注郭文贵每次发表的往往十分冗长的指控。

internet censorship.
"I don't think the party has ever had a big businessman so boldly challenge it like this," said Bao Tong, a former senior aide to Zhao Ziyang, a former party leader who was toppled from power during the 1989 protests. "How to respond is a dilemma."	"我觉得共产党之前从未遇到过一个商人如此大胆地发起这种挑战，"赵紫阳的前高级助理鲍彤说。作为前中共领导人的赵紫阳在1989年抗议活动期间被拉下台。"如何回应是一个困境。"
Mr. Guo, who also goes by the name Miles Kwok, has delighted in doling out his allegations on a lively Twitter feed as well as in hourlong talks and interviews broadcast, sometimes live, on YouTube and Mingjing, a Chinese news website based in the United States. All those sites are blocked in China.	通过一个活跃的Twitter账户，又名迈尔斯·郭(Miles Kwok)的郭文贵十分享受以少量多次的形式发表自己的指控，或者在YouTube或位于美国的中国新闻网站明镜上发布长达数小时的谈话和采访，有时是直播。所有这些网站在中国都遭到封锁。
During a broadcast in mid-June, which went on for more than four hours, Mr. Guo seemed to enjoy teasing the interviewer.	在6月中旬的一次长达四个多小时的播出中，郭文贵似乎很喜欢逗采访者。
"I don't get how you're just sitting there. Are you made from flesh and blood?" Mr. Guo said as he laid out pictures and diagrams that he said proved his claims. "Such huge news. Why don't you take off your clothes and get excited?"	"我不明白你为什么还能坐在那里。你是用血肉之躯做成的吗？"他一边拿出他认为可以证明自己指控的照片和图表一边说。"这么大的新闻。你为什么没有脱掉衣服，兴奋起来？"
Mr. Guo's stories have caused a stir in part because he socialized with security officials before he left China several years ago and has shown a familiarity with who's who in elite party families. But many of his recent claims are unverified and disputed, and Mr. Guo has sometimes left out important details needed to test the accusations.	郭文贵的故事引起轰动的一个原因是，几年前他离开中国之前，与安全官员有过往来，而且似乎很熟悉中共权贵家族的情况。不过，他最近的很多指控都没有得到证实，而且引发了争议，他有时会漏掉那些需要用来验证指控的重要细节。
Yet even without confirmation, the allegations appear vexing for Mr. Xi.	但是，就算没有证实，那些指控似乎也足够让习近平伤脑筋。
Mr. Guo has described himself as a paladin defending Mr. Xi and even acting indirectly on his orders. But the billionaire has also asserted that Mr. Xi's plans for choosing a new leadership team for his second	郭文贵声称自己是保卫习近平的勇士，甚至表现得是间接听从他的命令。不过，这位亿万富翁也声称，在即将到来的常委会上，习近平为第二个五年任期选择新领导班子的计划，已经在冲突中陷入困境。关于这一点几乎没有任

five-year term at the coming congress are mired in conflict. There is little evidence of that, but Mr. Guo has thrown a firecracker into the careful choreography of the lead-up, some experts said.	何证据,但是有些专家认为,郭文贵往这个精心酝酿的过程中扔了一个鞭炮。
"No matter whether these allegations are bogus or exaggerated, they have become a distraction," said Deng Yuwen, a current affairs commentator in Beijing. "People who dislike Xi — the democratic opposition, cadres unhappy with his policies — are also finding something to focus on in Guo Wengui."	"不管这些指控是否是假的或者被夸大了,它们都会成为干扰因素,"北京时事评论员邓聿文说。"那些不喜欢习近平的人——比如民主派反对人士或对他的政策不满意的干部——也在郭文贵身上寻找某个关注点。"
Much of the speculation has focused on the future of Mr. Wang, one of the most powerful men in China and the primary target of Mr. Guo's ire. Party insiders have said Mr. Xi may want Mr. Wang to stay in office, bucking the established retirement rules.	很多猜测集中在王岐山的前途上,他是中国最有权力的人之一,也是郭文贵泄愤的主要对象。党内人士表示,习近平可能想让王岐山留任,违背沿用多年的退休制度。
But Mr. Guo wants Mr. Wang out and has claimed again and again that his extended family has amassed staggering wealth through a web of companies. At a minimum, the pounding has bruised Mr. Wang's reputation among members of the urban elite who have heard Mr. Guo's claims. The state news media has long presented him as an incorruptible graft buster with the courage to catch "tigers" — corrupt officials in the party's high echelons.	但是,郭文贵想让王岐山出局,他多次声称,王岐山的大家族通过一群公司积聚了惊人的财富。在听到这些指控的城市精英人群中,这些抨击至少损害了王岐山的声誉。国家新闻媒体长期以来将他树立为有勇气捉"老虎"的廉洁反贪人士。"老虎"指的是党内高层腐败官员。
"What if the tiger hunter turns out to be a tiger?" asked Mr. Bao, the former senior aide. "How do you explain that?"	"如果结果发现,捉老虎的人是老虎呢?"前高级助手鲍彤说。"你怎么解释?"
Still, Mr. Guo's claims are uncorroborated and have been challenged even by some critics of the party.	不过,郭的指控未经证实,甚至遭到一些共产党批评者的质疑。
"Much of what Guo Wengui says is incorrect or speculative," said Zhang Lifan, a businessman and liberal intellectual in Beijing who has jostled	"郭文贵说的很多话不真实,或者说是在臆测,"北京商人、自由文人章立凡说。他在网上与郭文贵过过招。"他只是放些烟雾弹,制造混乱。"

online with Mr. Guo. "He's just letting off fireworks to create a ruckus."
Asked about Mr. Guo's allegations, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said he was a crime suspect whom China had put on an Interpol list, and it referred questions to the legal authorities. The State Council Information Office, the government agency that deals with such inquiries, did not respond to faxed questions.	在被问及郭文贵的指控时，中国外交部表示，中国已经把他列入国际刑警组织的嫌疑犯名单，把这些问题推给了司法部门。处理这些询问的政府机关国务院新闻办没有回复通过传真提出的问题。
Leaders in Beijing face a quandary: Openly disputing Mr. Guo would give him more prominence, while ignoring him could be read by some as a sign that he is telling the truth, several experts said.	几位专家表示，北京的领导人面临一个困境：公开批驳郭文贵会让他更出名，而忽视他会被某些人解读为他说的是事实。
"You can't give him attention, but you can't ignore him, either," Mr. Bao said. "You might have been able to entirely ignore Guo Wengui before, when society was shut off and had no access to information. But that doesn't work now. You can't act dumb."	"你不能关注他，也不能忽视他，"鲍彤说。"以前你也许还可以完全忽视郭文贵，因为那时候整个社会是封闭的，人们接触不到信息。但现在不行了。你不能坐视不管。"
Mr. Guo, his business and his employees have been assailed by a wave of lawsuits in China and the United States claiming unpaid wages and debts, fraud and libel. The authorities have also channeled vitriol against Mr. Guo through Global Times, a tabloid that the party often uses to attack its foes.	郭文贵的公司和员工在中国和美国受到一大批起诉，被指控拖欠薪水和债务、诈骗和诽谤。中国当局也通过《环球时报》尖刻批评郭文贵。中共经常用这家报纸攻击自己的敌人。
"He's lied so much that the lies don't match up, and Guo Wengui has totally given up on logic," the newspaper said this month.	"因说谎太多，谎言跟谎言之间对不上号，郭文贵已经完全不顾逻辑了，"本月该报写道。
Still, the editorial nodded to Mr. Guo's acumen as a showman: "It must be said that he's a spectacle, and at home and abroad there are those who loathe China's political system and get a kick out of political rumors enjoying taking in this spectacle."	不过，这篇社论承认郭文贵作为一个爱作秀的人有一些聪明之处："不能不说，他仍是一个热闹，境内外一些对中国政治制度怀恨在心的人，以及就是喜欢政治谣言刺激的人，有些仍愿意凑他这个热闹。"
Though some opponents of the party's rule inside China and abroad	虽然中国内外反对共产党统治的人将郭文贵视为民间英雄，但也有些人警告

have embraced Mr. Guo as a folk hero, others warn he is an opportunist who could drag democracy advocates into perilous undercurrents of party infighting.	称，他是一个投机分子，有可能把民主倡导者拖入党内纷争的危险暗流中。
Mr. Guo has denounced some of these critics, accusing them of lacking the backbone to support him.	郭文贵谴责其中一些批评者缺乏支持他的骨气。
"He's become a divisive force in the democratic movement abroad," said Li Weidong, a former Chinese magazine editor living in New Jersey who has fought with Mr. Guo. "There's a clash of views over whether to back him or keep a distance."	"他成了一股分裂海外民运的力量，"居住在新泽西州的前中国杂志主编李伟东说。"关于要支持他还是保持距离有不同的观点。"
Much of the whispering in Beijing has fixated on Mr. Guo's claim that he still has powerful patrons inside the party, including an "old leader" whom he has not named.	北京的很多传言聚焦在郭文贵声称自己在党内仍有强大靠山这一点上，包括他未透露姓名的一位"老领导"。
But no Chinese leader is likely to make common cause with a volatile, talkative exile like Mr. Guo, said Minxin Pei, a professor at Claremont McKenna College in California who studies Chinese politics.	但是，研究中国政治的加州克莱蒙特麦肯纳学院(Claremont McKenna College)教授裴敏欣表示，没有哪位中国领导人会与郭文贵这种变化无常、口无遮拦的流亡者联手。
"Those attempting to do that must be mad since they can get caught easily and suffer the consequences," he said.	"愿意这么做的人是疯了，因为很容易被抓住，要承担后果，"他说。
Professor Pei added that Mr. Guo was unlikely to derail Mr. Xi's plans for the next leadership. "For his allegations to disrupt these preparations, there need to be at least a critical mass of senior officials who demand an investigation," he said. "Under the current conditions in Beijing, it is inconceivable that there are people in Beijing who dare to take such risks."	裴敏欣还表示，郭文贵不太可能打乱习近平组建下一届领导班子的计划。"他的指控要想破坏这些准备，至少需要一大批高级官员要求进行调查，"他说。"在北京目前的情况下，很难想像有人敢冒这样的险。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170628/guo-wengui-china-corruption-xi-jinping	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170628/guo-wengui-china-corruption-xi-jinping

With Modi in Washington, China and India 'Jostle' on Their Border	莫迪访美之际，中印爆发边境冲突
NEW DELHI — As Indians savored Prime Minister Narendra Modi's effusive welcome in the White House Rose Garden this week, another, less friendly image kept stubbornly interfering.	新德里——在印度民众细细品味印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)本周在白宫玫瑰园受到的热情欢迎时，另一幅不那么友好的画面一直扰乱着人们的心绪。
High in the hills of the Himalayas, Indian troops had halted a Chinese road-building project in a disputed border area, and Beijing was angry. News channels kept cutting to old video of troops bumping torsos, trying to force one another backward without escalating to slaps or punches, a tactic often described here as "jostling."	在喜马拉雅山脉的高山上，印度军队阻止了中国在一个有争议的边境地区的修路项目，令北京颇为愤怒。印度的新闻频道不断播放双方士兵撞击身体，试图在不用升级到动手的情况下逼迫对方后退的旧视频。这种战术在这里常被称作“推撞”。
Beijing released a complaint against India on Monday, just as Mr. Modi walked into a meeting in Washington with Defense Secretary Jim Mattis. On Tuesday, Global Times, a state-run nationalist tabloid, warned India to back down in a harshly worded editorial, saying that its "capacity is nowhere near China's, and the so-called strategic support from the United States is empty, too, so it won't be of any help when it is needed."	周一，就在访问华盛顿的莫迪同美国国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)会面时，北京公开表示了对印度的不满。周二，官方的民族主义小报《环球时报》在一篇措辞强硬的社论中警告印度，称印度“实力与中国比差得很远，美国的所谓战略支持也是虚的，真要用时根本使不上劲”。
The interruption of diplomatic ceremonies by border flare-ups is a regular feature of the Indian-Chinese relationship. To Indian analysts, the outburst conveyed Beijing's dissatisfaction with President Trump's plans to carry forward the United States-India strategic maritime partnership begun under President Barack Obama.	突然爆发边境摩擦干扰外交礼仪是印中关系常常出现的一个特点。在印度分析人士看来，此次爆发冲突传递出了北京对特朗普总统计划推进始于贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)总统任内的美印战略海上伙伴关系的不满。
"They look at India as a critical swing state in Asia, and they see India now moving inexorably toward the U.S., which makes it very difficult for China to carve out a Sinocentric Asia," said Brahma Chellaney, an analyst affiliated with the Center for Policy Research in New Delhi.	“他们把印度当作亚洲的一个关键摇摆国，现在眼看着印度不可阻挡地偏向美国，这让中国很难打造出一个以中国为中心的亚洲，”隶属于新德里政策研究中心(Center for Policy Research)的分析人士布拉马·切拉尼(Brahma Chellaney)说。

He said events of recent months — particularly India’s refusal to participate in the “One Belt, One Road” project, the vast, strategic transportation network supported by China’s president, Xi Jinping — have galled Chinese officials.	他表示，近几个月发生的事情，尤其是印度拒绝加入中国国家主席习近平支持的大型战略交通运输网络“一带一路”项目，令中国官方大为恼火。
“Without India’s entry,” he said, “O.B.O.R. will never be complete.”	“印度不参加，”他说，“一带一路就永远不完整。”
Analysts on both sides could reel off examples of diplomatic visits that had been interrupted by border spats. In 2014, when Mr. Modi hosted Mr. Xi for his first visit in eight years, the two men were at an opulent riverfront banquet when news broke of a skirmish between their armies.	双方的分析人士都能一口气说出外事访问因边境冲突而受到干扰的例子。2014年，莫迪招待八年来首次访问印度的习近平。当两国军队发生小冲突的新闻爆出时，两人正在参加一场奢华的滨河宴会。
Mr. Chellaney said the incursions had been ordered by the Chinese side “to remind India that diplomacy is an opportunity for India to concede to Chinese demands, or else China will use its muscle.”	切拉尼说，中方下令袭击，“以提醒印度，外交是印度对中方的要求做出让步的一个机会，否则中国会动用武力”。
Chinese analysts, not surprisingly, saw the current conflict the other way around: Some theorized that Mr. Modi had ordered his troops to cross the border to impress upon Mr. Trump that India could play a central role in containing Chinese ambitions.	不出意料，中国分析人士对当前这场冲突的看法正好相反。一些人从理论上认为，莫迪下令军队越境，是为了让特朗普知道，印度可以在遏制中国的野心上扮演核心角色。
Han Hua, an associate professor of international relations at Peking University in Beijing, called the timing “very strange.”	位于北京的北京大学国际关系学院副教授韩华称此事发生的时间“很奇怪”。
“Given that these kinds of disputes always coincide with major international events, we could at least say they have tactical purposes, if not strategic,” she said.	“鉴于这种冲突向来会伴随重大国际活动发生，它们即便没有战略上的目的，我们至少也可以说有战术上的目的，”她说道。
India, a country famously wary of forming strategic alliances, has drawn significantly closer to the United States since Mr. Modi took office. China has the world’s fastest-growing submarine fleet, and India was	印度对建立战略联盟持警惕态度是出了名的。但自莫迪上台后，印度明显靠近美国。中国拥有世界上规模增长最快的潜艇舰队。2014年，当中国人民解放军的一艘潜艇停靠在斯里兰卡的科伦坡港时，印度深感震惊，开始采取

shocked into action in 2014, when a People’s Liberation Army submarine docked in the Sri Lankan port of Colombo.	行动。
Last year, Washington and New Delhi signed a landmark agreement on defense logistics support that had been under discussion for nearly a decade, and the United States designated India a “major defense partner.”	去年，华盛顿和新德里就国防后勤保障签订了一项里程碑式的协议。该协议的谈判持续了近十年。此外，美国还把印度指定为“重要国防合作伙伴”。
In Washington, Mr. Trump announced the sale to India of advanced surveillance drones that can be used to track Chinese naval movements, and which have not, until now, been shared with a non-NATO military. These steps are being watched closely by Beijing.	在华盛顿，特朗普宣布向印度出售先进的无人侦察机，用于追踪中国海军的动向，此前这种飞机从未卖给非北约(NATO)国家。北京一直密切关注着这些举动。
“They fear India getting too close to America,” said Ashok Malik, a political analyst at the Observer Research Foundation. “They don’t fear India by itself, or India getting too close to anyone else.”	“他们害怕印度和美国走得太近，”观察家研究基金会(Observer Research Foundation)的政治分析师阿肖克·马利克(Ashok Malik)说。“他们不害怕印度本身，或是印度和其他任何国家走得太近。”
The confrontation occurred at the edge of the Chumbi Valley, a Chinese enclave that creates a wedge between Bhutan and the Indian region of Sikkim. The site, at an elevation of nearly 10,000 feet, is strategic because it offers access to a thin strip of Indian territory known as the Chicken Neck, which connects India’s far northeast to the rest of the country.	此次冲突发生在春丕河谷的边上。春丕河谷是中国的一片飞地，像楔子一样插在不丹和印度的锡金地区之间。那里海拔近一万英尺（约合3000米），具有战略意义，因为可以通过那里进入印度一片被称作鸡脖的狭长地带，那是连接印度遥远的东北部和该国其他地区的通道。
Chinese troops were constructing roads in that region when Indian soldiers, with what analysts described as unusual assertiveness, forced them to stop. Beijing insists that the spot — unlike other places where the two sides have frequent standoffs — has a clearly delineated border that has long been accepted by both countries. In protest, China cut off access to a group of Indian pilgrims who must cross a Chinese pass on	中国军队正在该地区修路，印度士兵带着分析人士所说的不同寻常的自信，逼迫中方停工。北京坚称那里——不同于双方频繁发生冲突的其他地方——有划分明确且两国向来认可的边界。为了抗议，中国不许一批印度朝圣者借道。在通往被印度教和佛教教徒视为圣地的冈仁波齐峰的路上，朝圣者必须越过中国的一处山口。 their way to Mount Kailash, which is considered sacred by Hindus and Buddhists.

Gen. V. P. Malik, a former chief of the Indian Army, said troops regularly scuffled at that spot.	前印度陆军负责人 V·P·马利克上将(Gen. V. P. Malik)说, 军队常在那个地方发生冲突。
"We believe that it is part of our territory, and I am sure they must think the same way on their side," General Malik said. "You know these nibbling tactics of the Chinese. They do it all the time, everywhere. They try to nibble things here and there."	"我们认为那里属于我们的领土, 我肯定他们同样认为那里属于他们," 马利克说。"大家都知道中国这些一点一点侵吞的手段。他们一直在这么做, 不分地方, 到处都试图蚕食。"
In China, Global Times, which sometimes reflects government thinking, carried an unusually harsh warning to India.	在中国, 有时反映政府想法的《环球时报》刊文, 对印度发出了异常强硬的警告。
"We must not just send them back to where they were before crossing the border, but also show no mercy in media reports," it said. "India is far from the point where it could be arrogant in front of China. Its G.D.P. is only a quarter of China's, its military budget is a third of China's. To remain friendly with China and cautiously manage the border issue would be its best option."	"不仅行动上要让它从哪越界的回到哪里去, 舆论上也要对它毫不客气," 文章写道。"印度还远没有到可以在中国面前翘鼻子的时候, 它的 GDP 仅为中国的 1/4, 军费是中国的 1/3, 与中国友好相处并谨慎管控边界问题是它的最佳选择。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170628/india-china-border	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170628/india-china-border
North Korea Calls for Execution of South Korean Ex-President and Aide	朝鲜称朴槿惠试图暗杀金正恩, 对其下达处决令
SEOUL, South Korea — North Korea issued standing orders on Wednesday for the "miserable dog's death" execution of South Korea's imprisoned former president and her spy chief, and improbably demanded that its southern adversary extradite them.	韩国首尔——朝鲜周三发布长期有效的命令, 要求让被关押的韩国前总统及其情报主管"凄惨无谓的送命", 并出人意料地要求势不两立的韩国将他们引渡。
The execution orders, which the North said could be carried out anytime, anywhere and by any means, amounted to an assassination decree against the imprisoned former president, Park Geun-hye, and	处决命令相当于对身陷囹圄的前总统朴槿惠(Park Geun-hye)和她任内的韩国国家情报院(National Intelligence Service)院长李炳浩发出的暗杀令。朝鲜称, 可在任何时间和任何地方以任何方式执行相关命令。

Lee Byung-ho, who was director of the National Intelligence Service under Ms. Park.
Conveyed in a statement issued via North Korea's official news agency, the execution orders came nearly two months after the isolated, nuclear-armed country accused the South Korean intelligence service of conspiring with the C.I.A. to assassinate the North Korean leader, Kim Jong-un, using biochemical poisons.	朝鲜是在通过官方通讯社发表的一份声明中，传达处决令的。近两个月前，与世隔绝但拥有核武器的朝鲜控告韩国国家情报院与美国中央情报局(CIA)合谋，企图用生化毒药暗杀朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)。
"We declare at home and abroad that we will impose death penalty on traitor Park Geun-hye and Mr. Lee," said the statement from the North's Ministry of State Security, Ministry of People's Security and Central Public Prosecutors Office. The statement said the pair's crime was "hideous state-sponsored terrorism."	"向内外宣布，对谋划和推进陷害朝鲜最高首脑的天怒人怨阴谋的特大国家恐怖罪犯——朴槿惠逆贼和傀儡国情院前院长李炳浩党羽判处极刑，"朝鲜国家保卫省(State Security)、人民保安省(Ministry of People's Security)和中央检察院(Central Public Prosecutors Office)的联合声明说。声明称朴李二人的罪行是"特大国家恐怖罪"。
Ms. Park and Mr. Lee "can never make any appeal even though they meet a miserable dog's death anytime, at any place and by whatever methods from this moment," the statement said.	声明说，朴槿惠和李炳浩"即使被任何人在何时何地，通过任何方法遭遇凄惨无谓的送命，也不可上诉"。
There was no immediate response from Ms. Park, who has been incarcerated since she was forced out on corruption charges in March, or from the National Intelligence Service. But the South Korea spy agency has denied trying to assassinate Mr. Kim.	自3月因腐败指控被迫下台后一直遭关押的朴槿惠和国家情报院均未立即做出回应。但国家情报院已经否认试图暗杀金正恩。
North Korea said Ms. Park had endorsed an "operation to replace the supreme leadership of the North" since late 2015. It said the plot involved Mr. Kim's assassination, which it said South Korean agents had planned to disguise as a "car or train accident." But the plot was eventually abandoned after Ms. Park was impeached in a corruption scandal, North Korea said.	朝鲜称朴槿惠自2015年末开始支持"更替朝鲜最高首脑工作"。朝鲜说这个阴谋涉及刺杀金正恩，并称韩国特工计划把刺杀伪装成"车祸或火车事故"。朝鲜表示，在朴槿惠因腐败丑闻遭弹劾后，该阴谋最终被放弃。

The statement provided no further details of the supposed plot. But on Monday, the Japanese newspaper Asahi, quoting anonymous sources, reported that Ms. Park had approved a plan for the National Intelligence Service to overturn Mr. Kim's government in 2015. The spy agency has called the report groundless.	声明没有提供这个所谓的阴谋的更多细节。但周一，日本报纸《朝日新闻》(Asahi)援引匿名信源报道，朴槿惠在2015年批准了国家情报院一个推翻金正恩政府的计划。国际情报院称该报道是无稽之谈。
Ms. Park's truncated term in office was punctuated by a spike in tension with North Korea, which had once tried to assassinate her father when he was the dictator of South Korea nearly a half-century ago.	朴槿惠提前结束的执政任期内，与朝鲜的紧张关系不时升级。在近半个世纪前朴槿惠的父亲对韩国进行独裁统治时，朝鲜一度试图刺杀他。
Mr. Kim has accelerated the North's nuclear weapons program with a torrent of bomb and ballistic missile tests, threatening South Korea and the United States with a "nuclear sword of justice."	金正恩通过一连串的炸弹和弹道导弹试验加速了朝鲜的核计划，并用“核正义之剑”威胁韩国和美国。
Ms. Park was an advocate of tough sanctions against the North while it fulminated, calling her a "snake" and a "prostitute."	朴槿惠主张对朝鲜实行强硬的制裁，朝鲜则强烈抗议，称其为“毒蛇”和“妓女”。
Mr. Kim, grandson of North Korea's founder, Kim Il-sung, runs an autocracy especially sensitive to any hint of threat to its leader. North Korea is widely believed to have been responsible for the brazen hacking of Sony Pictures in 2014 as retaliation for "The Interview," a fictional American film centered around a plot to assassinate Mr. Kim. Although North Korea is known to have tried to assassinate South Korean leaders at least twice, it is highly unusual for the North to claim to be a victim of a South Korean plot.	作为朝鲜开国领袖金日成(Kim Il-sung)之孙，施行独裁统治的金正恩对受到的任何一丝威胁都特别敏感。外界普遍认为朝鲜应为2014年肆无忌惮地对索尼电影娱乐公司(Sony Pictures)发动黑客袭击，以报复《刺杀金正恩》(The Interview)一事负责。《刺杀金正恩》是美国的一部虚构电影，以一个刺杀金正恩的阴谋为中心展开。尽管据知朝鲜至少两次试图刺杀韩国领导人，但朝鲜声称自己是韩国阴谋的受害者这种情况极为不寻常。
In 1968, North Korea sent commandos within striking distance of the residence of Ms. Park's father, Park Chung-hee, before they were repelled in bloody shootouts.	1968年，朝鲜派突击队员进入朴槿惠的父亲朴正熙(Park Chung-hee)官邸的攻击距离内，但后来，他们在血腥的枪战中被击退。
In 1983, North Korean agents tried to assassinate the South Korean	1983年，朝鲜特工试图刺杀访问缅甸的韩国独裁统治者全斗焕(Chun

dictator at the time, Chun Doo-hwan, while he was visiting Burma, now Myanmar. Bomb explosions killed 21 people, including South Korean cabinet ministers, but Mr. Chun escaped unharmed.	Doo-Hwan)。炸弹爆炸导致 12 人受伤，包括多名韩国内阁部长，但全斗焕安然无恙地逃过一劫。
During Ms. Park's term, South Korean news media reported that South Korean and United States special forces had been training to "decapitate" the North Korean government in the event of renewed conflict on the Korean Peninsula, where an armistice has kept peace since the Korean War, which lasted from 1950 to 1953.	韩国新闻媒体报道称，在朴槿惠任期内，韩国和美国的特种部队一直在进行训练，当朝鲜半岛再次爆发冲突时，“颠覆”朝鲜政府。自 1950 到 1953 年的朝鲜战争以来，休战协议维持着朝鲜半岛上的和平。
Neither Washington nor Seoul had formally acknowledged such training. Still, Mr. Kim was so fearful of assassination that he traveled in the early morning and used one of his deputies' cars to elude surveillance, the National Intelligence Service told South Korean lawmakers on June 15. He also strengthened his personal security force, the agency said.	华盛顿和首尔均未正式承认存在这样的训练。但国家情报院 6 月 15 日告诉韩国立法者，金正恩非常担心刺杀，因此一大早就出门，并且乘坐副手的车，以躲避监控。国家情报院称，金正恩还加强了自己的私人安保力量。
North Korea's relationship with South Korea and the United States has been particularly tense in recent months, as the North has defied demands to halt its testing of ballistic missiles, and may be preparing another nuclear test.	最近几个月，朝鲜与韩国和美国的关系特别紧张。朝鲜对停止弹道导弹试验的要求置若罔闻，并且可能正在准备下一场核试验。
President Trump has warned of "a major, major conflict with North Korea," sending what he called an "armada" of American warships to Korean waters, but he has also said he could meet with Mr. Kim under the right circumstances.	特朗普总统警告可能会“和朝鲜发生严重的、严重的冲突”，并派他所说的“一批”美国军舰进入朝鲜水域，但他也表示自己可以在合适的情况下和金正恩见面。
Mr. Trump is scheduled to meet with President Moon Jae-in of South Korea in Washington on Thursday and Friday. Mr. Moon, who won the May 9 election held after Ms. Park's impeachment, has been critical of	特朗普定于周四和周五两天在华盛顿会见韩国总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)。5 月 9 日，文在寅在朴槿惠被弹劾后举行的选举中胜出。他对朴槿惠的朝鲜政策持批评态度，呼吁同朝鲜展开对话。

Ms. Park's North Korea policy and has called for dialogue with the country.
For months after Mr. Trump took office, North Korea was uncharacteristically reticent about assailing him, possibly because of his administration's secret diplomatic attempts to ease tensions and secure the release of Americans held in the North.	在特朗普上台后的数月里，朝鲜非同寻常地没有攻击他，这可能是因为他领导的联邦政府秘密开展外交行动，试图缓和紧张关系并让被朝鲜关押的美国人获释。
But the mood in Washington soured after the death on June 19 of one of the detained Americans, Otto F. Warmbier, a college student who was released in a coma after 17 months of captivity. President Trump criticized the North's "brutality."	但被关押的美国人之一奥托·F·瓦姆比尔(Otto F. Warmbier)6月19日死亡后，华盛顿怒火中烧。瓦姆比尔是一名大学生，被关押17个月在昏迷中获释。特朗普总统指责朝鲜的“残忍”。
Since then, North Korea's state-run news media has taken a more hostile tone toward Mr. Trump, calling him a "war maniac" and a "lunatic." In a commentary on Tuesday, the official Korean Central News Agency likened Mr. Trump's "America First" policy to "Nazism in the 21st century" and compared him to Hitler.	之后，朝鲜官方新闻媒体对特朗普采取了更加不友好的口吻，称他是“战争狂人”和“精神病人”。在周二的一篇评论文章中，官方的朝鲜中央通讯社(Korean Central News Agency)把特朗普的“美国优先”政策比作“21世纪的纳粹主义”，并把他本人比作希特勒。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170629/north-korea-south-korea-assassination-threat	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170629/north-korea-south-korea-assassination-threat
Young Asian-Australians Carve Out an Identity of Their Own	澳大利亚亚裔青年一代的文化自定义
SYDNEY, Australia — Tan Falconer stood in the crowd milling outside the Sanctuary Hotel, a classic Sydney pub, cigarette in one hand. With the other, he greeted a stream of fashionable friends — men in tight shirts with hair smoothly buzzed on the sides, women with highlights and heavily drawn brows.	澳大利亚悉尼——坦·福尔克纳(Tan Falconer)站在悉尼经典酒吧庇护旅馆(Sanctuary Hotel)门外徘徊的人群中，一只手拿着香烟。另一只手在跟一群时髦的朋友打招呼——男人们穿着紧身恤，两侧的头发剃得干干净净，女人们头发做了挑染，眉毛画得很浓。
Nearly everyone there was part of an emerging cross-cultural scene centered on an Asian-Australian identity: electronic music, athleisure	那里的几乎每一个人，都是以亚裔澳大利亚群体为中心的新兴跨文化风貌的一部分：电子音乐，运动休闲服装和社交媒体的熟练使用。 fashion and social media savvy.

They often call themselves the "little girls" and "little boys" of Sydney and Melbourne, or L.G.s and L.B.s for short.	他们经常称自己为悉尼和墨尔本的“小女孩”和“小男孩”，简称 LG 和 LB。
"We feel comfortable and more at ease when we share the same issues," said Mr. Falconer, 23, who is of Thai-Chinese heritage and a project manager at a construction and engineering firm. "We come together to drink and laugh it off."	"当我们分享这些相同的话题时，我们感觉舒服，更自在，"23岁的福尔克纳说。他有泰国和中国血统，是一个建筑和工程公司的项目经理。"我们聚在一起喝酒、大笑。"
For most white Australians, L.G. and L.B. do not mean much, but find a group of young Asian-Australians here in Sydney and they will reel off an archetype. L.G.s and L.B.s are attractive, confident and outspoken. They hail from the city's diverse Western Suburbs and they have the accents and the work ethic to prove it. They are devotees of trance or hardstyle (two differing genres of electronic music with ethereal vocals or a harsh, aggressive bass), and build their style on a foundation of expensive Adidas sneakers and Nike sports bras.	大多数澳大利亚白人不知 LG 和 LB 为何物，但是，随便在悉尼找一群年轻的亚裔澳大利亚人，他们都能把典型形象向你和盘托出。LG 和 LB 很有魅力，充满自信，开朗外向。他们出生在这座城市多样化的西部郊区，他们的口音和敬业精神可以证明他们的出身。他们特别喜欢出神音乐(trance)或硬派音乐(hardstyle)，电子音乐的两种类型，前者有缥缈的人声，后者是粗犷的、具有冲击力的低音)。他们以昂贵的阿迪达斯(Adidas)运动鞋和耐克(Nike)运动文胸为基础打造自己的风格。
Almost certainly, they have an Instagram account.	他们几乎肯定都有 Instagram 账户。
And they represent what Australia increasingly looks like. According to census results released this week, one in two Australians are now either born overseas or have a parent who was born overseas, and that cohort is more likely to have roots in Asia than Europe for the first time since colonization.	他们代表着澳大利亚未来的面貌。根据本周公布的人口普查结果，每两个澳洲人中就有一个要么出生在国外，要么有一个父母出生在国外，而且自殖民时代以来，这群人第一次更多地可能来自亚洲，而非欧洲。
In a country that is still trying to reconcile its multicultural population with its "Australia-First" rhetoric, the L.G.s and L.B.s – who have grown up melding the expectations of immigrant heritage and traditional Australian identity – have carved out their own community, online and	澳大利亚依然在努力调和自己的多文化人口和“澳大利亚优先”的主张，LG 和 LB 在成长过程中把移民传统的期望与传统澳大利亚人身份融合在一起，在线上 and 线下创造出自己的社区，它的自我形象依然在剧烈变化之中。 off, with a self-image that is still very much in flux.

The little girl label seems to be a spinoff from a somewhat contemptuous shorthand applied by Asian-American communities in the United States to young Asian women who wore designer clothes and acted tough: A.B.G.s, or Asian Baby Girls.	LG 的标签似乎源于美国亚裔群体对身穿名牌服装、举止强横的年轻亚裔女性的略带蔑视的简称：亚裔小女孩 (Asian Baby Girls, 简称 ABG)。
Both terms have been batted around by young people in the United States and Canada since the early 2000s.	从新千年之初起，美国和加拿大的年轻人经常使用这两个称呼。
But by the time Mr. Falconer and some friends created a Facebook page in April dedicated to the L.G.s of Sydney and Melbourne, and another for the L.B.s, the term had already landed in the Asian-Australian community, with a mix of amusement and annoyance.	但是，在福尔克纳和一些朋友今年 4 月在 Facebook 上为悉尼和墨尔本的 LG 创建网页之前 (他们另外还建了一个 LB 网页)，这个称呼已经带着戏谑和厌烦出现在亚裔澳大利亚群体中了。
Giffie Ngo, 19, a student at the University of Technology Sydney who is from Bankstown, is reluctant to call herself an L.G. even though she is an administrator of the Facebook page and a regular at the raves that its followers attend. Many of the other young women in the scene also do not quite embrace the title either, even as they concede that they fit its parameters.	19 岁的吉菲·吴(Giffie Ngo)是悉尼科技大学(University of Technology Sydney)的一名学生，来自班克斯敦，她不愿称自己为 LG，尽管她是那个 Facebook 网页的一个管理员，也经常出现在它的关注者参与的锐舞中。这个群体中不太喜欢那个称呼的年轻人还有很多，尽管他们承认自己符合它的标准。
The term can be "sort of derogatory," Ms. Ngo said, like an Asian-Australian parallel to the "guido" and "guidette" personas for Italian-Americans popularized by the television show "Jersey Shore."	吴表示，这个称呼“有点贬义”，就像因电视真人秀《泽西海岸》(Jersey Shore)而广为人知的意大利裔美国人的别称圭多(guido)和圭黛特(guidette)一样。
That is part of what Mr. Falconer is trying to change. He said he created a presence on Facebook to mobilize the existing community and reverse the label's negative connotations.	这是福尔克纳想要改变的一个方面。他表示，他在 Facebook 上创建这个网页，是为了动员现有的群体，改变这个标签的负面含义。
The page, which reaches more than 30,000 people, invites Sydney and Melbourne residents to submit photos of themselves or friends who fit	有 3 万多人浏览了这个页面。它邀请悉尼和墨尔本的居民提交自己或朋友符合这种审美且同意公布的照片。福尔克纳和一群管理员每周浏览约 50 张提

the aesthetic and consent to be featured. Mr. Falconer and a team of administrators look through about 50 submissions a week, posting memes that poke fun at the subculture's silliest aspects (like a reverence for Sanctuary's Long Island ice teas) while also paying tribute to those who exemplify the group's ethos: "Party hard, work and study hard."	交上来的照片, 发布米姆揶揄这个亚文化群最愚蠢的地方(比如将庇护旅馆的长岛冰茶奉若神明), 同时也向那些最能代表这个群体理念的人致敬: "疯狂玩乐, 努力工作和学习。"
And despite their ethnicity, they say the page is multicultural and open to all young Australians.	尽管具有种族性, 但他们表示, 这个网页是多文化的, 面向所有澳大利亚年轻人。
Catharine Lumby, a professor of media at Macquarie University in Sydney, said that for young Asian-Australians, and other groups of young people, social media and face-to-face social life have become indistinguishable.	悉尼麦考里大学(Macquarie University)媒体学教授凯瑟琳·伦比(Catharine Lumby)表示, 对于年轻亚裔澳大利亚人以及其他年轻群体来说, 社交媒体和面对面的社交生活已经没有很大差别了。
"The positive side of social media is that it's giving young people a voice and a way to explore their identities," she said.	"社交媒体积极的一面是, 它给年轻人提供了一个探索自己身份的发声平台和途径," 她说。
The danger, she cautioned, is that these explorations are pushed out to a world with pre-existing biases of race and gender that may seek to undermine those seeking freedom and safety in a more welcoming setting.	她警告称, 危险在于这些探索正被推往一个带着既有种族和性别偏见的社会, 这可能会伤害那些希望在更友好的环境里找到自由和安全的人。
Some of the women in the L.G. world acknowledged that broadcasting their look on social media came with risks.	有些 LG 承认, 在社交媒体上公布自己的相貌是有风险的。
"Some comments you like, some comments you don't," said Bianca Ha, an administrator of the page from Liverpool, whose picture was posted in the page's early days.	"有些评论你喜欢, 有些你不喜欢," 来自利物浦的该网页管理员比安卡·何(Bianca Ha)说。她的照片在该网页建立之初就发布了。
While some of the L.B.s can at times seem to be playing the role of traditional Aussie lads, acting crass and carousing, she said the Facebook page can be empowering — a way for some women to take	虽然有些 LB 有时似乎在扮演传统澳洲小伙子的角色, 表现得粗暴愚钝, 喜欢玩闹, 但她说, 那个 Facebook 页面也许有着赋权的力量——对某些女性来说, 她们可以通过这种方式来掌控自己在人前的形象。

control of how they are portrayed.
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170629/young-asian-australians-carve-out-an-identity-of-their-own	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170629/young-asian-australians-carve-out-an-identity-of-their-own
Trump Takes More Aggressive Stance With U.S. Friends and Foes in Asia	特朗普对待亚洲盟友和对手的立场转向强硬
WASHINGTON — President Trump hardened his treatment of allies and adversaries in Asia this week, pressing South Korea’s visiting leader to overhaul a landmark trade agreement with the United States a day after announcing a series of steps that angered China.	华盛顿——本周（编注：本文英文版发表于6月30日），特朗普对待亚洲的盟友和对手的态度变得强硬，先是宣布了一连串令中国愤怒的举措，一天之后，他又向到访的韩国领导人施压，要求大幅修订一项具有里程碑意义的美韩贸易协定。
Meeting on Friday with President Moon Jae-in of South Korea, Mr. Trump demanded more access to Korean markets for American cars and less of what he called “dumped” Korean steel in the United States — all part of an overhaul of the five-year-old free trade agreement with South Korea that he derided as “not exactly a great deal.”	特朗普周五与韩国总统文在寅会面时，要求让更多的美国汽车进入韩国市场，同时减少他所说的韩国钢铁在美国的“倾销”——这些都是对5年前签订的美韩自由贸易协定的改动，他嘲笑说那个协定“不是好买卖”。
“Very important steps,” a stern Mr. Trump said in the White House Rose Garden, standing next to Mr. Moon. “They have to be made. Not fair to the American worker if they are not. And they will be.”	“这是非常重要的举措，必须采取。否则就对美国工人不公平。我们会采取这些举措的。”特朗普在白宫玫瑰园里说，当时文在寅就站在他旁边。
The president reaffirmed the American security alliance with South Korea against the threat of a nuclear-armed North Korea. But he showed little patience for Mr. Moon’s hope for engagement with the North — something analysts said could be a future source of friction between the leaders.	特朗普再次肯定了应对朝鲜核武威胁的美韩安全联盟。但他对于文在寅希望与朝鲜接触的态度表现得没有耐心——分析人士说，这可能是两位领导人未来发生摩擦的一个原因。
Mr. Trump’s decision on Thursday to impose sanctions on Chinese entities that do business with North Korea was interpreted by some as a shot across the bow not only to Beijing, but also to Mr. Moon, since it emphasizes pressure over diplomacy. And the president’s approval of a	特朗普周四决定制裁一些与朝鲜有业务往来的中国实体，一些人认为，这不仅是对北京的警告，也针对的是文在寅，因为它强调的是施压而非外交。特朗普批准向台湾出售14亿美元的军备，这也引起了中国政府的极大反应。

$1.4 billion weapons sale to Taiwan provoked a sulfurous reaction from the Chinese government.
Taken together, the measures signal that Mr. Trump has moved into an aggressive, unpredictable phase of his strategy for dealing with one of the world's tensest regions. On trade, at least, the United States will now be at odds with its two key partners in confronting the rogue government in North Korea.	总的来说，这些举动表明，面对世界上局面最紧张的地区之一，特朗普在政策上已经进入了一个咄咄逼人、不可预测的阶段。至少在贸易方面，美国目前在打击朝鲜流氓政府上与两个关键伙伴之间存在龃龉。
Mr. Trump's new approach will be a test of whether he can pursue the protectionist themes of his presidential campaign while still cooperating with China and South Korea on security issues.	特朗普的新做法将是一个考验：他是否可以继续总统竞选期间的保护主义主张，同时在安全问题上仍然可以与中韩展开合作。
"Trump has opted for coercion over engagement with allies and adversaries, even when the adversary is pressuring the ally," said Evan S. Medeiros, who served as senior director on Asia in the National Security Council during the Obama administration.	奥巴马时期担任国家安全委员会亚洲事务高级主管的埃文·S·梅代罗斯(Evan S. Medeiros)表示：“特朗普选择逼迫盟友和对手，而不是和他们交流，即便是对手正在给盟友施加压力的时候。”
China has punished several South Korean firms in retaliation for Seoul's decision to deploy an American antimissile system. The United States says the system is designed to deter missiles fired by the North, but China says its own security is also affected.	中国已经惩罚了几家韩国公司，以报复首尔打算部署美国一个反导系统的决定。美国说，这个系统的目的是为了遏制朝鲜发射的导弹，但中国说自己的安全也受到了影响。
Given that South Korea is already under intense pressure from the Chinese, some analysts said the harshness of Mr. Trump's critique of South Korea on trade had caught them by surprise.	鉴于韩国已经从中国人那里承受了巨大压力，一些分析人士表示，特朗普对韩国贸易问题的批评令他们感到吃惊。
During the Oval Office meeting with Mr. Moon, Mr. Trump invited his commerce secretary, Wilbur Ross, to recite a list of grievances. Mr. Ross cited barriers that he said cut down the number of American cars sold in South Korea. He also complained about Chinese steel, which he said	特朗普与文在寅的椭圆形办公室会晤的时候，还请商务部长威尔伯·罗斯(Wilbur Ross)列举了一连串的不满。罗斯说，韩国的贸易壁垒导致了美国汽车在韩销售量的减少。他还抱怨韩国用中国低价倾销的钢铁来生产油管，然后出口到美国。

was dumped in South Korea and used to manufacture pipes for oil fields, which are then shipped to the United States.
The United States ran a $27 billion trade deficit with South Korea in 2016, a modest decline from the previous year but more than double the amount in 2011, the year before the renegotiated trade agreement took effect. "There are a lot of very specific problems," Mr. Ross said.	2016 年的美国对韩贸易赤字达 270 亿美元, 比上年略有下降, 但却是 2011 年的两倍多, 这个重新谈判的贸易协定是在 2012 年生效的。罗斯说: "它包含很多非常具体的问题。"
Mr. Trump blamed President Barack Obama for the pact, even though the deal was first negotiated by President George W. Bush in 2007 and renegotiated by Mr. Obama, which is essentially what Mr. Trump is proposing to do.	特朗普指责奥巴马总统和韩国达成了那项协定, 虽然该协定最初是小布什在 2007 年谈成的, 后来奥巴马进行了重新谈判, 特朗普提出的建议本来也就是进行重新谈判。
Mr. Trump's aides said he also planned to push ahead with his trade campaign against China — freed up by his conclusion that China's president, Xi Jinping, had fallen short in pressuring North Korea to curb its behavior. Mr. Trump had delayed introducing measures against China to encourage Mr. Xi to use his influence with North Korea's leader, Kim Jong-un.	特朗普的助手表示, 他还计划推进针对中国的贸易运动——这是因为他已经得出结论, 认为中国国家主席习近平遏制朝鲜行为的施压不够。之前, 特朗普推迟采取针对中国的措施, 目的就是鼓励习近平发挥他对朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong-un)的影响力。
In the coming days, the White House plans to publish the results of an investigation of the steel industry, which could lead to tariffs and other measures against imports. South Korea is the second-largest supplier of steel to the United States, by dollar value, after Canada.	在接下里的几天里, 白宫计划公布一项针对钢铁行业的调查结果, 这会导致美国对相关进口产品征收关税或采取其他措施。以美元价值论, 韩国是向美国出口钢铁产品第二多的国家, 仅次于加拿大。
China is much further back, but administration officials say the country has a pernicious effect on the global steel market because of its excess capacity. Surplus steel from China is shipped to other countries and ends up in products that are exported to the United States.	在这方面, 中国的排位更加靠后, 但美国政府官员表示, 中国钢铁产量过剩, 对全球钢铁市场造成了有害的影响。过剩的钢铁从中国流往其他国家, 最终以产品的形式出口到美国。
During the meeting with Mr. Moon, Gary D. Cohn, the president's chief	在与文在寅会面期间, 白宫首席经济顾问加里·D·科恩(Gary D. Cohn)将谈话

economic adviser, confined his remarks to China's "many predatory practices in how they deal with us." He told Mr. Moon he would be interested to hear how South Korea deals with its neighbor.	集中在中国“对我们的诸多掠夺行为”。他告诉文在寅，他有兴趣听到韩国将如何应对这位邻居。
It is not yet clear whether Mr. Trump has given up on his relationship with Mr. Xi after cultivating him assiduously over a two-day summit meeting at the president's Florida estate, Mar-a-Lago, in April. Mr. Trump has avoided derogatory comments or tweets about Mr. Xi, even as his administration has made moves, like the Taiwan arms sale, that angered Beijing.	目前还不清楚特朗普是否已经不再对他与习近平的关系有所期待。在今年4月举行的为期两天的中美峰会期间，特朗普曾在他位于佛罗里达的马阿拉歌(Mar-a-Lago)庄园千方百计地与之培养关系。之后，特朗普一直避免发表贬损性的言论或在Twitter上谈论习近平，即便在他的政府采取向台湾销售武器等会激怒北京的行动之时，也是如此。
Tellingly, on Friday Mr. Trump did not refer to China as an ally in the push to curb North Korea's nuclear efforts. He said only that "other regional powers and all responsible nations" should join the United States, South Korea and Japan in enforcing sanctions on the North Korean government.	很能说明问题的是，特朗普在上周五提到中国时，没有称它为一起遏制朝鲜核努力的盟友。他只表示，“其他区域大国和所有负责任的国家”都应该与美国、韩国和日本一起实施对朝鲜政府的制裁。
"The era of strategic patience with the North Korean regime has failed," he said. "Frankly, that patience is over."	“对朝鲜政权予以战略忍耐的时代没能取得成功，”他说。“坦白讲，这种耐心已经用完了。”
In the days leading up to his visit, Mr. Moon and his aides had tried to erase any signs of daylight between him and Mr. Trump. The South Korean foreign minister said the government would not reverse the deployment of the American antimissile system, which Mr. Moon has halted until an environmental assessment can be completed.	在进行这次访问几天前，文在寅和他的助手曾竭力消除他与特朗普之间存在嫌隙的迹象。韩国外交部长表示，韩国政府不会撤销部署美国导弹防御系统的决定。此前文在寅暂停了这个项目，表示在完成一项环境评估之后再做决定。
Though Mr. Moon spoke of using "both sanctions and dialogue," he said he supported Mr. Trump's pressure campaign. "The threats and the provocations by the North will be met with the stern response," he said.	尽管文在寅谈到要同时利用“制裁和对话”的手段，但他对特朗普的施压行动表示了支持。“必须对朝鲜的威胁与挑衅做出严厉的回应的，”他说。
But Mr. Moon said nothing about the trade issues that Mr. Trump raised.	但文在寅没有就特朗普提到的贸易问题发表任何言论。像其他外国领导人一

Like other foreign leaders, he came armed with business deals, including a $25 billion agreement to buy American natural gas, which earned perfunctory praise from Mr. Trump before he launched his critique.	样，他是带着交易来的，其中包括一项价值 250 亿美元的购买美国天然气的协议。特朗普例行公事般地称赞了这项协议，之后便开始发起批评。
"I saw Moon moving toward alignment and taking issues off the table," said Scott Snyder, the director of the program on United States-Korea policy at the Council on Foreign Relations. "In a way, the only issue he couldn't take off the table is the one the president holds powerfully and viscerally — the idea that Korea is a free rider."	"我看到文在寅倾向结盟，对一些问题不予讨论，"美国对外关系委员会(Council on Foreign Relations)美韩政策项目主任斯科特·A·施耐德(Scott Snyder)说。"从某种程度讲，他唯一无法回避的问题，正是美国总统有力地、本能地把持着的议题——韩国在搭便车的说法。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170703/trump-south-korea-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170703/trump-south-korea-china
With Provocative Moves, U.S. Risks Unraveling Gains With China	"双赢"难免成虚话，中美翻脸比翻书快
BEIJING — President Xi Jinping of China likes to call his core foreign policy strategy "win-win." And President Trump likes to win.	北京——中国国家主席习近平喜欢称自己的核心外交战略为"双赢"。而特朗普总统喜欢赢。
So at a steakhouse in a sleek, new hotel in Beijing on Friday, there was a celebration of the most tangible result of the unexpected cooperation that emerged in the first months of Mr. Trump's presidency: the lifting of a ban on American beef imports.	所以，美国在北京一家新开业的豪华酒店的牛排餐厅里举办了一场活动，庆祝特朗普上任头几个月一项出乎意料的合作带来的最实实在在的成果：中国解除了对进口美国牛肉的禁令。
The event, which included a ceremonial carving of a slab of bone-in rib-eye flown in for the occasion, might have symbolized the promise of a constructive era — except the Trump administration seemed to forget that the "win-win" part requires reciprocation, not retaliation.	活动的最后是仪式性地切一大块专门从美国空运来的带骨肋眼牛排，这原本可以象征着一个建设性时代的到来，但特朗普似乎忘记了"双赢"需要的是交换，而非报复。
The twin announcements on Thursday that the administration was selling $1.4 billion of weapons to Taiwan and imposing sanctions on a Chinese company and a Chinese bank over illicit dealings with North	周四，美国政府同时发表两项声明，给这场庆祝活动蒙上阴影，也引发中国政府的愤怒回应——一个是美国政府将向台湾出售价值 14 亿美元的武器，另一个是以与朝鲜进行非法交易为由对中国的一家公司和一家银行实施制裁。

Korea overshadowed the ceremony and provoked a furious response from the government.
A spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, Lu Kang, said those actions contradicted the agreements that emerged from Mr. Xi's meetings with Mr. Trump at Mar-a-Lago in April, among them the decision to lift the beef ban, which had been in place since December 2003. If not reversed, they could have consequences, he said.	中国外交部发言人陆慷表示，这些做法与习近平今年4月在马阿拉歌庄园 (Mar-a-Lago)与特朗普会面时达成的共识背道而驰，其中就包括解除自2003年12月起对进口美国牛肉实施的禁令的决定。他表示，这些做法如果不予以改变，将产生不良后果。
"We hope the United States administration could correct its mistakes and bring China-U.S. relations back to the right track of healthy, stable and long-lasting development, so as not to affect bilateral cooperation in other important fields," he said.	"我们希望美方纠正错误，使中美关系重新回到健康稳定持续发展的轨道，避免中美两国在重要领域的合作受到影响，"他说。
The arms sale to Taiwan, which Beijing considers part of its territory, was a violation of international law that "hurt China's sovereignty and security," Mr. Lu said, adding that China resolutely opposed it.	向中国认为属于自己领土的台湾出售武器，违反了国际法，"损害中国主权和安全利益"，陆慷说道，并表示中国对此坚决反对。
While administration officials said Mr. Trump had grown increasingly frustrated with China for not putting more pressure on North Korea over its nuclear and missile programs, the response showed that officials here, too, were frustrated by Mr. Trump's lurching strategy and cavalier style of tweeting new policy.	尽管美国政府官员表示，特朗普对中国没有就核武器和导弹项目对朝鲜施加更大压力越来越感到恼火，但这种反应也表明，中国官员也对特朗普的政策摆动和他在 Twitter 上发布新政策的漫不经心的风格感到不满。
The latest steps, analysts said, felt retaliatory, and thus could prove counterproductive.	分析人士表示，美国最近的做法感觉有报复的成分，因此可能会被证明适得其反。
"The United States has stabbed us in the back," said Wang Dong, an assistant professor at the School of International Studies at Peking University. He said the sanctions — the first against a Chinese company for trading with North Korea since 2006 — would undermine China's	"美国在背后捅了我们一刀，"北京大学国际关系学院副教授王栋说。他表示，这些制裁——自2006年以来首次对一家与朝鲜做生意的中国公司实施的制裁——将削弱中国帮助解决朝鲜核问题的意愿。 willingness to help resolve the nuclear issue.

China has repeatedly said it shares the goal of halting North Korea's nuclear program, or more broadly ensuring the entire Korean Peninsula is without nuclear weapons. It has also repeatedly maintained that it complies with trade sanctions that the United Nations Security Council imposed in an effort to isolate the North from resources to finance its nuclear and missile programs.	中国曾多次表示，阻止朝鲜核项目，更广泛地确保朝鲜半岛无核化，也是中国的目标。它还多次坚称，遵守联合国安理会对朝鲜实行的贸易制裁，令朝鲜无法获得为其核武器和导弹项目提供资金所需的资源。
The extent of its cooperation, however, is disputed in Washington, even within the new administration. "The Chinese tried to gauge what were the minimal steps they could take to comply with the resolutions and show they were serious about North Korea's program," said Bonnie S. Glaser, a senior adviser for Asia at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. "And they miscalculated."	然而，中国的合作程度却在华盛顿存在争议，即便在新一届美国政府里也是如此。“中国竭力估算出他们在遵守联合国决议、显示自己对朝鲜核项目严肃态度方面可以采取的最小步骤，”华盛顿国际战略研究中心(Center for Strategic and International Studies)亚洲事务高级顾问葛来仪(Bonnie S. Glaser)说。“他们失算了。”
Officials in Beijing, however, have puzzled over what they view as conflicting signals from Mr. Trump, like his harsh words on the campaign trail and the personal bonhomie toward Mr. Xi to persuade him to apply a new round of pressure. Analysts have pointed to a widespread confusion over the United States' approach to North Korea, among other issues.	不过，北京的官员对特朗普释放出的在他们看来相互矛盾的信号感到困惑，比如他在竞选期间曾发表不少刺耳言论，而为劝说习近平采取新一轮的施压行动又对他个人示好。分析人士指出，他们对包括美国对朝策略在内的诸多问题普遍感到困惑。
Those include Mr. Trump's disavowal of the Paris agreement on climate change, now a priority of Mr. Xi's and one that is expected to be contentious when Mr. Trump attends the Group of 20 meetings in Germany next week.	其中包括特朗普退出有关气候变化的巴黎协议，现在这是习近平的一个优先事项，在特朗普参加下周于德国举行的20国集团峰会时，据信也会成为一个有争议性的议题。
The sanctions against the two Chinese companies were announced in Washington by Mr. Trump's treasury secretary, Steven Mnuchin, only	针对两家中国企业的制裁是由特朗普的财政部长史蒂文·努钦(Steven Mnuchin)在华盛顿宣布的，时间是美国农业部长索尼·珀杜(Sonny Perdue)

hours before the agriculture secretary, Sonny Perdue, arrived in Beijing to promote “tasty, wholesome, healthy, safe U.S. beef.” The ban, ostensibly imposed because of concern over mad cow disease, was officially lifted in May and the first shipments have begun to arrive in Chinese supermarkets and restaurants.	抵达北京宣传“美味、健康和安全的美国牛肉”几个小时后。这项禁令是在今年5月被解除的——当时实施的表面原因是出于对疯牛病的担忧——第一批运抵的牛肉已经开始进入中国的超市和餐厅。
“We think there’s an opportunity for agriculture to lead the way in the future relationship of commerce between our two wonderful countries,” Mr. Perdue, the former governor of Georgia, said as he appeared with the new American ambassador, another former governor, Terry E. Branstad, and a handful of hat-wearing cattlemen at a restaurant called Char.	“我们认为农业有机会引领我们两个杰出的国家未来的商业关系，”曾担任乔治亚州州长的珀杜说道，他与也曾担任过州长职务的新任美国驻华大使特里·布兰斯塔德(Terry E. Branstad)，以及一群戴帽子的牧牛人出现在这家名为 Char 的餐厅。
Mr. Trump himself promoted the lifting of the beef ban on Twitter as “REAL news,” evidence of his ability to entice concessions from China’s leaders on behalf of producers eager to feed China’s growing consumer class.	特朗普自己在 Twitter 上宣称解除牛肉禁令是“真正的新闻”，证明他有能力代表急于满足中国日渐壮大的消费者阶层需求的美国牛肉生产商，诱使中国的领导层做出妥协。
But his efforts to prod the Chinese on North Korea have, by his own account, failed. “While I greatly appreciate the efforts of President Xi & China to help with North Korea, it has not worked out,” the president wrote on Twitter more than a week ago.	但按他自己的说法，他敦促中国向朝鲜施压的努力已经失败了。“尽管我十分感激习近平主席和中国为帮助解决朝鲜问题所做的努力，但它没能取得产生效果，”这位总统一周多前在 Twitter 上写道。
The new sanctions targeted the Bank of Dandong and Dalian Global Unity Shipping — as well as two Chinese businessmen — who were accused of supporting North Korea through money laundering or illicit trade.	新制裁的目标是丹东银行和大连宇联船务有限公司，以及另外两名中国公民，他们被控以洗钱或从事非法贸易的方式给朝鲜提供了支持。
The bank, which could find itself cut off from the international banking system, is not among China’s biggest, raising the prospect that the	可能发现自己已被切断与国际银行系统联系的丹东银行并不是中国的大银行，因此外界认为，美国政府有可能将目标指向中国更大的银行。该银行总

administration could single out larger ones. A woman who answered the phone at the bank's headquarters refused to respond to a request for comment.	部一名接听了时报记者电话的女士拒绝就此事置评。
Although an outright breach in relations remains unthinkable, given the depth of economic ties, the outward warmth Mr. Trump once showed Mr. Xi seems to have worn out its welcome in China. And it happened much sooner than officials here expected.	尽管考虑到双方经济联系颇深，直接切断关系的可能性难以想像，但特朗普曾经对习近平表现出的表面友善似乎已经耗尽了他此前在中国所受的欢迎。这种情况发生的速度比中国官员预料的快得多。
Shi Yinhong, a professor of international relations at Renmin University of China, said that Mr. Trump's actions returned the relationship to normal: strained, with deep issues dividing the two countries.	中国人民大学国际关系学院教授时殷弘表示，特朗普的行为使两国关系恢复了以往常态：关系紧张，存在令两国关系疏远的深层问题。
Under Mr. Trump, he said, there was even less room for cooperation than under his predecessor, Barack Obama, who sought to work with China on climate change, for example.	他表示，在特朗普治下，两国合作的空间比他的前任贝拉克·奥巴马(Barack Obama)在任时更小，比如后者曾试图在气候问题上与中国合作。
"The latest situation has also illustrated that Trump is a leader without patience," Mr. Shi said.	"这些情况也说明了川普是一个没有耐心的领导人，"时殷弘说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170703/with-provocative-moves-us-risks-unraveling-gains-with-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170703/with-provocative-moves-us-risks-unraveling-gains-with-china
Crematory Is Booked? Japan Offers Corpse Hotels	尸体住宾馆：日本殡葬新风俗
OSAKA, Japan — The minimalist rooms at the Hotel Relation here in Japan's third-largest city are furnished with plain twin beds. Flat-screen televisions adorn the walls. Plastic-wrapped cups and toothbrushes are provided in the bathrooms. And just across the hall are the rooms where the corpses rest.	日本大阪——在这座日本第三大城市，关连宾馆(Hotel Relation)的极简主义房间里布置着两张普通的单人床。墙上挂着平板电视。浴室里配备了塑料包裹的杯子和牙刷。门厅对面就是停放着尸体的房间。
Checkout time, for the living and the dead, is usually no later than 3 p.m.	不管是活人还是死人，退房时间通常不晚于下午3点。

The Hotel Relation is what Japanese call an "itai hoteru," or corpse hotel. About half the rooms are fitted with small altars and narrow platforms designed to hold coffins. Some also have climate-controlled coffins with transparent lids so mourners can peer inside.	关连宾馆是日本人所称的“遗体宾馆”(itai hoteru)。大约一半的房间配有小型祭坛和用来停放棺材的狭窄平台。有些房间还有温控棺材，配有透明的盖子，哀悼者可以透过盖子看见里面。
Part mortuary, part inn, these hotels serve a growing market of Japanese seeking an alternative to a big, traditional funeral in a country where the population is aging rapidly, community bonds are fraying and crematories are struggling to keep up with the sheer number of people dying.	这些酒店既是殡仪馆，也是宾馆，它们的服务对象是那些不想举办大型的传统葬礼的日本人，鉴于人口快速老龄化，社区纽带不断松解，死亡人口的急速增加令火葬场不堪重负，这个市场正在日益兴起。
By custom, Japanese families take the bodies of their loved ones home from the hospital and sit for an overnight wake followed by a service the next morning in the company of neighbors, colleagues and friends. Then, in the afternoon, the body is sent to a crematory.	通常，日本家庭会把亲人的遗体从医院带回家，守丧一晚，第二天上午，邻居、同事和朋友都来参加追悼仪式。下午，遗体被送往火葬场。
But as neighborhood ties have weakened, funerals that once involved entire communities are increasingly the province of small, nuclear families. At the same time, Japanese society is getting old so fast and deaths per year are climbing so quickly that families sometimes have to wait several days before a body can be cremated.	但是，随着邻里关系淡化，曾经牵动整个社区的葬礼慢慢变成了核心家庭的事。与此同时，日本社会的老龄化速度很快，每年死亡人数的攀升速度很快，有时要等好几天才能轮到遗体火化。
The corpse hotels offer a practical solution — a place where a body can be stored at low cost until the crematory is ready, and where small, inexpensive wakes and services can be held outside the home.	遗体宾馆提供了一个实际的解决方案，在可以火化前，遗体可以以较低的成本存放在那里，也可以在那里举行价格不高的小型守丧和追悼仪式。
"We can say the supply doesn't meet the demand," mainly in urban areas, said Hiroshi Ota, an official at the Japan Society of Environmental Crematories. While Japan has an estimated 5,100 crematories, Tokyo, with a population of more than 13 million, has just 26.	日本环境斋苑协会(Japan Society of Environmental Crematories)官员太田宽(Hiroshi Ota)表示，“可以说现在是供不应求的，”尤其是在城市地区。日本约有 5100 座火葬场，但是拥有 1300 多万人口的东京只有 26 座。

“The demand for cremation will increase until the baby boomers disappear,” Ota said.	“在婴儿潮出生的人都去世之前，对火葬的需求会不断增加，”太田说。
Japan has funeral parlors, too, an industry that developed as people moved from the countryside to the cities and it became difficult — and often impossible — to take corpses into high-rises. But they cater to larger groups and more elaborate ceremonies, and these days, that can seem a bit much.	日本也有殡仪馆，这个产业是随着人们从农村搬到城市生活而发展起来的，把遗体运到高楼大厦里变得十分困难——很多时候完全不可能。不过，殡仪馆是为更大的群体和更复杂的仪式服务的，如今，那样做似乎显得没必要。
When Hajime Iguchi died at age 83 last autumn, his sister and brother-in-law held his wake and funeral at Sousou, a corpse hotel in the Tokyo suburb of Kawasaki City. Iguchi, a lifelong bachelor, had died in a nursing home after a protracted illness, and had few friends left.	去年秋天，井口元（Hajime Iguchi，音）以83岁高龄去世，他的妹妹和妹夫在东京郊区川崎市的遗体宾馆“葬送”(Sousou)为他举行了守丧和哀悼仪式。井口终身未娶，经历了漫长的病痛后在一家养老院去世，几乎没有在世的朋友。
“Back in the day, we used to have funerals at home, but times have changed,” said his sister, Kunie Abe, 73. “Neighbors all used to know each other and would help one another out. But today, you don’t even know your next-door neighbor.”	“过去，我们通常在家里举行葬礼，但是时代变了，”他的妹妹、73岁的阿部邦惠（Kunie Abe，音）说，“过去邻居们都认识，会互相帮忙。但是现在，你甚至连隔壁的邻居都不认识。”
The demand for “itai hoteru” is likely to grow. Last year, 1.3 million people died in Japan, up 35 percent from 15 years earlier, and the annual toll is expected to climb until it peaks at 1.7 million in 2040, according to the Ministry of Labor, Health and Welfare.	对“遗体宾馆”的需求很可能会增加。据厚生劳动省称，去年日本有130万人死亡，比15年前增加了35%，预计每年的死亡人数会不断增加，直到达到2040年170万人的最高点。
About 37 percent of Japanese women who died last year were over 90, with few surviving friends to mourn them. And close to one-fifth of Japanese men never marry or father children, leaving behind few relatives to plan or attend funerals.	去年死亡的日本女性中有约37%超过90岁，几乎没有在世的朋友能来悼念。有近五分之一的日本男性从未结婚或养育子女，几乎没有可以筹划或参加他们的葬礼的亲属。
The number of people dying alone is also on the rise. In Tokyo, for example, the number of people over 65 who died alone at home more	独自死去的人数也在上升。比如，在东京，从2003年至2015年，65岁以上、在家里独自死去的人翻了一倍多——这是政府能提供的最新数据。

than doubled between 2003 and 2015, the latest year for which government figures are available.
At the Hotel Relation in Osaka, about a third of the customers forgo a formal funeral. Instead, they sit in the rooms with their dearly departed for a day or two, with only close family in attendance, and then send the bodies for cremation.	在大阪的关连宾馆，约三分之一的顾客不打算举办正式的葬礼。他们选择在房间里与逝去的至亲待一两天，只有近亲在场，然后把遗体运往火葬场。
"In the past, if you heard someone held a funeral just for family members, people in the neighborhood would say, 'What kind of people would hold a family-only funeral?' But now it is accepted," said Yoshihiro Kurisu, the hotel's president.	"过去，如果听说谁举办仅限家庭成员参加的葬礼，街坊邻居们会说，'什么样的人才会办只有家人参加的葬礼啊？'但是现在，这已经是可以接受的了，"该宾馆的总裁栗须吉弘（Yoshihiro Kurisu，音）说。
Corpse hotels are more economical than large funeral homes. According to the Japan Consumer Association, the average funeral in Japan runs 1.95 million yen, or about $17,690. The cheapest package at the Hotel Relation costs 185,000 yen, or about $1,768.	遗体宾馆比大型殡仪馆更经济。据日本消费者协会称，日本葬礼的平均花费为 195 万日元，约合 17690 美元。而关连宾馆的最低套餐价格为 18.5 万日元，约合 1768 美元。
The package includes flowers, a room for the family to spend the night in the same room as the corpse, a traditional white gown for the deceased, a simply decorated coffin, transport of the body from the hospital and then to the crematory, and an urn to hold the ashes. Each additional night costs 10,800 yen, just under $100. Families who want separate rooms, wakes or funerals pay extra.	套餐包括鲜花、家人和逝者共享的一个房间、逝者穿的传统白色袍子、简单装饰的灵柩、把遗体从医院运到宾馆以及从宾馆运到火葬场的交通，以及存放骨灰的骨灰盒。每多住一晚，多交 1.08 万日元，约合近 100 美元。如果想要单独的房间，增加守丧或追悼仪式，需要另外交费。
"Itai hoteru" first appeared about five years ago in Japan's largest cities, and there are only a few across the country. Some have angered residents who do not want to live in such proximity to death and mourning.	"遗体宾馆"约五年前开始出现在日本的一些大城市，全国总共只有几家。有些宾馆会让附近的居民恼火，因为他们不想住在离死亡和哀悼这么近的地方。
Near the Sousou hotel in Kawasaki City, signs on fences protest,	在川崎市的葬送宾馆附近，围栏上有一些标语抗议道："遗体存放：坚决反

"Corpse storage: absolutely opposed!"	对！ ”
At Iguchi's tiny funeral ceremony last fall, a monk chanted last rites as his body rested in a coffin lined with white satin. Five guests, all relatives, sat in folding chairs nearby.	在去年秋天为井口举行的小型葬礼上，有一位僧人诵经，他的遗体躺在披挂白色绸缎的灵柩里。五位宾客全是亲属，坐在旁边的折叠椅上。
After the chanting, they rose to lay flowers and origami cranes on Iguchi's body, making a bright garland around his head and on his chest.	诵经结束后，他们站起来，往井口的遗体上放鲜花和千纸鹤，在他的头部周围和胸口摆出一个鲜艳的花环。
His sister, Kunie Abe, leaned close to her brother's ear. "So long," she whispered.	他的妹妹阿部邦惠弯下腰，贴近哥哥的耳朵。“再见，”她轻声说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/japan-corpse-hotels	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/japan-corpse-hotels
Tokyo Voters' Rebuke Signals Doubt About Shinzo Abe's Future	日本新政党崛起，安倍遭遇重大挫折
TOKYO — As recently as this spring, Shinzo Abe looked as if he was on track to become Japan's longest-serving prime minister, no small feat in a country where the leadership sometimes seems to be equipped with a revolving door.	东京——就在今年春天的时候，安倍晋三看上去像是要成为日本在任时间最长的首相了，在一个领导人更迭起来就像过旋转门的国家，这个成就可不算小。
But a local election in Tokyo has put Abe's longevity in doubt. Voters for the capital's metropolitan assembly on Sunday resoundingly rejected candidates from Abe's party, the Liberal Democrats, while electing all but one of 50 fielded by an upstart party founded by Tokyo's popular governor, Yuriko Koike.	但是在东京都举行的这次地方议会选举，让人怀疑安倍晋三还能在首相的位置上坐多久。周日，东京都选民狂踩安倍晋三所在的自民党的候选人，而支持东京都人气高涨的知事小池百合子(Yuriko Koike)创立的一个新党派，在该党 50 位候选人中，有 49 人当选。
The victory for Tomin First, the party Koike established in January, was widely seen as a referendum on Abe as much as a vote of confidence in Koike.	“都民第一之会”(Tomin First)是小池百合子今年 1 月才组建的党派，它的这次胜利被广泛视为对安倍晋三的公民复决投票和对小池百合子的信任投票。
For several months, Abe, who has been in office since 2012, has been dogged by influence-peddling scandals, as well as repeated stumbling	近几个月来，自 2012 年开始担任首相的安倍晋三，受到了以权谋私丑闻的困扰，内阁的一些成员也出现多次失误。而且他推动一个反阴谋法案的立法

by some members of his Cabinet. He has also drawn criticism for pushing through a legislative vote on an anti-conspiracy bill that many said he had not sufficiently explained. As the prime minister campaigned for his party in Tokyo last Friday, a scrum of protesters shouted, "Abe, resign!"	投票也招致了批评，很多人说他没有对该法案予以充分的解释。上周五他在东京给自己的党派造势时，一群抗议者高喊：“安倍晋三辞职！”
In brief comments to reporters on Monday, Abe appeared contrite, calling the Tokyo results — in which his party captured less than a fifth of the 127 assembly seats — a “very severe judgment” on his administration.	安倍晋三周一对记者发表简短讲话时，显得垂头丧气的样子，他说东京都的选举结果——他的党派获得的席位不到全部 127 个议席的五分之一——对他的政府来说是个“非常严厉的批判”。
“This is the biggest crisis and the first major setback for Abe,” said Atsuo Ito, a political analyst in Tokyo.	东京政治分析人士井户敦夫（Atsuo Ito，音译）表示：“这是安倍晋三最大的危机，也是他的第一个重大挫折。”
Until recently, Abe and his party behaved with an air of invincibility, shored up by their two-thirds majority in both houses of Parliament. But public frustration with Abe has grown. He has repeatedly denied involvement in two corruption scandals, in which his administration is accused of providing preferential treatment to schools operated by allies of Abe, and he has shielded his defense minister, Tomomi Inada, from criticism of her competence.	直到不久之前，安倍晋三及其政党还是一副所向披靡的样子，他们席卷了议会两院三分之二的多数席位。但公众开始对安倍晋三感到失望。他一再否认参与了两宗腐败丑闻，有人指责他的行政当局向其盟友经营的学校提供优待，而且他还保护防卫大臣稻田朋美(Tomomi Inada)免遭能力不足的批评。
Jiro Yamaguchi, a professor of political science at Hosei University, said Abe’s “arrogant attitude” had “made people quite anxious.”	法政大学(Hosei University)政治学教授山口二郎(Jiro Yamaguchi)表示，安倍晋三的“傲慢态度”“让人相当焦虑”。
If Abe’s support has been strong in recent years, it may have been in part because voters saw few alternatives. Nationally, the public is wary of the leading opposition, the Democratic Party, which is seen as having failed to deliver during more than three years in power before Abe. The party won just five seats in the Tokyo assembly election.	如果说安倍晋三近年来获得了有力的支持，那可能是因为选民看不到什么其他选择。在全国范围内，公众对主要的反对派民主党怀有戒心，他们认为，在安倍晋三上台之前三年多的民主党执政时期，他们没有什么建树。而在东京都议会选举中，该党只赢得了五个席位。

But Koike's new party provided a fresh option, at least in the capital.	但小池百合子的新党派提供了一个新的选择，至少在东京都是这样。
"I just couldn't vote for them," said Kayo Mochizuki, 60, a Tokyo resident, referring to the Liberal Democrats. Mochizuki, who voted for a Tomin First candidate, suggested that problems like Abe's were "what happens if someone keeps power for a long time."	"我反正不能把票投给他们。"60岁的东京居民望月佳代(Kayo Mochizuki, 音译)提到自民党人时说。望月佳代投票给"都民第一之会"候选人，还说安倍晋三的问题是"如果一个人掌权时间很长就会这样"。
According to exit polls by NHK, the public broadcaster, 43 percent of voters in the Tokyo election said they supported the Abe Cabinet. In the spring, the Cabinet had a 60 percent approval rating in national polls.	公共电视台 NHK 的出口民调显示，东京都选举中 43% 的选民表示支持安倍晋三内阁。今年春天举行的一个全国民意调查中，该内阁获得了 60% 的支持率。
It is unclear whether public sentiment in Tokyo will translate into national support for Koike, who is widely believed to have ambitions to become Japan's first female prime minister. Koike was a member of the Liberal Democratic Party but ran for governor as an independent after the party declined to back her; the party accepted her resignation on Monday.	目前还不清楚东京的民意是否会转化为全国对小池百合子的支持度，人们广泛认为，她有成为日本第一位女首相的雄心。小池百合子曾是自民党成员，但在该党拒绝支持她之后，她以独立候选人身分当选东京都知事；周一，"都民第一之会"接受了她的辞呈。
Most analysts said Koike did not expect to challenge Abe for his job, but perhaps hoped to be his successor. After Sunday's election, she said she would resign as head of Tomin First to focus on her role as governor.	大多数分析人士表示，小池百合子并不打算挑战安倍晋三的位置，但也许希望成为他的继任者。周日的选举后，她说将辞去"都民第一之会"党魁职位，专注在知事工作上。
"There's still the question of what exactly is her message to a national audience — is it just, 'I'm fresh, I'm new?'" said Tobias Harris, a Japan analyst at Teneo Intelligence, a political risk consultancy based in New York. "Right now there is a ceiling." He said that Koike's "routine plays well in Tokyo" but added that "it is not an easy path to national relevance."	纽约咨询公司 Teneo Intelligence 的日本分析师托比阿斯·哈里斯(Tobias Harris)表示："对于全国受众而言，她传达的信息究竟是什么还很难说——只是'我是新来的，是新人'吗？现在她面临着一个天花板。"他说小池百合子"在东京的势头很劲"，但是"要拥有全国性的声势，会不容易"。
For now, Abe may face bigger challenges within his own party. "It's not her that's the threat," said Michael Thomas Cucek, an adjunct professor	就目前来说，安倍晋三在自己的党内面临的挑战可能更大。早稻田大学(Waseda University)和东京天普大学日本分校(Temple University in

at Waseda University and Temple University in Tokyo. "It's his other rivals in the party who can take this loss and beat him with it."	Tokyo)的客座教授迈克尔·托马斯·库切克(Michael Thomas Cucek)说：“威胁不是她，而是他的对手，他们可以利用这次失败来打击他。”
Potential contenders within the Liberal Democrats include Shigeru Ishiba, a legislator and former Cabinet minister who called the Tokyo election a "historic defeat," and Foreign Minister Fumio Kishida, who has been quietly waiting in the wings to succeed Abe.	自民党内的潜在竞争者包括立法委员、前内阁大臣石破茂(Shigeru Ishiba)，他说东京都这次选举是“历史性的失败”。还有外相岸田文雄(Fumio Kishida)，他一直在不声不响地等待着接替安倍晋三。
Abe's term runs until the end of 2018. But in March, the party voted to change its rules to let a leader serve three consecutive terms, setting the stage for Abe to govern until 2021.	安倍晋三的任期要到2018年底结束。但在今年3月，自民党投票决定改变规则，允许领导者连任三届，为安倍晋三连任到2021年铺平了道路。
If his popularity continues to erode, it would be an echo of Abe's first term as prime minister. He resigned in 2007 after just a year in office, as his administration foundered on a series of blunders and scandals.	如果安倍晋三的人气持续下降，情况就会和他第一个首相任期相似。2007年，他就任仅一年的时候，因为政府出现了一系列的失误和丑闻而辞职。
Since returning to power in 2012 and holding on to it, Abe has been viewed as having learned lessons and become a much more savvy politician.	安倍晋三在2012年再次成为首相直到今天，人们认为他吸取了经验教训，成为了一名更加精明老道的政治家。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/japan-tokyo-shinzo-abe-election	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/japan-tokyo-shinzo-abe-election
Dispute Over Singapore Founder's House Becomes a National Crisis	李光耀故居争夺战演变成新加坡国家危机
Two years after his death, no memorials, statues or streets in Singapore are named after Lee Kuan Yew, who established this city-state as a modern nation and built it into a prosperous showcase for his view that limited political freedoms best suit Asian values.	去世两年来，新加坡没有为李光耀立纪念碑、雕塑，也不曾以他的名字命名街道。正是这个人将这个城市国家确立为现代国家，将它建成了一个能展现其观念的繁荣的窗口，这个观念就是有限的政治自由最适合亚洲的价值观。
Now a bitter and public family dispute over the fate of his modest house has shattered Singapore's image as an orderly authoritarian ideal and hinted at deeper divisions about its political future.	现在，就他那朴素的住宅发生的一起充满怨恨的公开家庭纠纷，破坏了新加坡作为有序的威权主义典范的形象，同时也暗示出这个国家的政治未来存在着更深层的分歧。

Two of Mr. Lee's three children have accused their elder brother, the prime minister, of abusing his power to preserve the house against their father's wishes. The motive, they said, was to shore up his own political legitimacy and ultimately to establish a dynasty for which he was grooming his son.	李光耀三个子女中的弟妹指控他们的兄长、现任新加坡总理李显龙滥用职权，违背父亲的意愿，执意保存故居。他们表示，他的目的是以此支撑自己的政治合法性，并培养自己的儿子，最终建立起一个王朝。
These charges have transformed what on the surface is an ugly estate battle into a national crisis that has raised questions about how this island nation is governed, the basis of the governing party's uninterrupted 58-year rule and how the country's leaders are chosen.	表面看来，这是一场不堪的财产争夺战，但因为这些指控演变成了一场国家危机，令外界质疑这个岛国的治理情况，质疑执政党连续 58 年统治的基础，以及这个国家选择领导人的方式。
And in a place where criticizing the government can land a blogger in jail, the public airing of these grievances from within the ranks of the revered founding family is nothing short of extraordinary.	在一个博客作者会因批评政府而入狱的地方，公开传播来自备受尊敬的建国家族内部的怨愤情绪完全是非同寻常的举动。
"These are allegations of abuse of power, subversion of due process, cronyism and nepotism," Kirsten Han, an activist and journalist, wrote in a popular blog. "If true, they upend Singapore's carefully cultivated, squeaky-clean, corruption-free image.	"这些是关于滥用权力、不按程序办事、任人唯亲和裙带关系的指控，"活动人士及新闻工作者韩俐颖(Kirsten Han)在一个很有人气的博客上写到。"如果是真的，它们肯定会颠覆新加坡精心塑造的纯洁无暇、不存在腐败的形象。
"And, more important for the people of Singapore," she continued, "they reveal that the 'A Team,' who have for decades presented themselves as the best option for the country, are actually using the power the electorate has bestowed upon them for their own personal goals."	"此外，对新加坡人来说最重要的是，"她继续写道，"它们会揭开'A 队'的真实面目，A 队成员数十年一直让民众觉得他们是治理这个国家的最佳人选，实际上却正利用选民赋予他们的权力达成自己的个人目的。"
Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong, 65, has called the accusations "baseless" and in a high-stakes performance appeared before a special session of Parliament on Monday to rebut the charges.	现年 65 岁的李显龙(Lee Hsien Loong)总理称这些指控"毫无根据"，并于周一在国会的一场特别会议上加以驳斥，上演了一出利害攸关的大戏。
"When the dust has settled on this unhappy episode, people must know that the government operates transparently, impartially and properly,"	"待这起不愉快的事件尘埃落定后，人们必定知道政府的运作是透明、公正和得当的，"他说。"知道在新加坡，就连李先生的故居和他的愿望都是接受

he said. "That in Singapore, even Mr. Lee's house and Mr. Lee's wishes are subject to the rule of law."	法律管辖的。”
As much as the prime minister would like to put the whole affair behind him, the crisis shows no signs of abating.	尽管李显龙希望此事尽快平息，但危机并没有任何缓解的迹象。
The prime minister's younger brother, Lee Hsien Yang, head of the Civil Aviation Authority and a former chief executive of Singtel, a global telecom company, has said he would leave the country indefinitely because he feared government retribution.	身为新加坡民航局(Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore)董事会主席、曾任国际电信公司新电信(Singtel)首席执行官的李显龙之弟李显杨(Lee Hsien Yang)说，他将无限期离开这个国家，因为害怕遭到政府的报复。
On Saturday, he posted a statement on Facebook accusing his brother of carrying out "a vast and coordinated effort" against him and his sister, Lee Wei Ling, a prominent neurologist.	上周六，他在 Facebook 上发表了一份声明，指责长兄“大动干戈地协调各方力量”对付他和他姐姐、知名神经科医生李玮玲(Lee Wei Ling)。
Singapore's remarkable rise from a sleepy, British-colonial backwater to a gleaming financial capital, whose banks now challenge Switzerland's as a global destination for secret money, was due in no small part to the country's unquestioned adherence to Lee Kuan Yew's vision. Under his mix of one-party rule, draconian enforcement of public order and business-friendly policies, the country thrived economically and became a model for governments like China's.	新加坡之所以能从一个偏僻闭塞的英属殖民地，不可思议地崛起为熠熠生辉的金融之都——其银行如今正在挑战瑞士银行作为全球秘密资金目的地的地位——在很大程度上是因为这个国家毫不迟疑地按照李光耀制定的愿景行事。他推行一党制，主张严格执法以维持治安，出台有利于商业发展的政策，所有这些让新加坡在经济上蓬勃发展，并被中国等各国政府视为楷模。
If it tended toward authoritarianism — dissent was discouraged, the government controlled the media, criticism was met with punishing defamation lawsuits and elections never changed who was in power — most Singaporeans were happy to accept the limits on freedom in exchange for prosperity.	虽然他领导下的国家倾向于威权主义——异见人士受到打压，政府控制着媒体，批评者遭遇惩罚性的诽谤官司，选举从未让当权者发生改变——但大多数新加坡人乐于接受对自由的限制，以换取繁荣。
Lee Kuan Yew's People's Action Party has never lost its hold on power since 1959, and today it controls 83 of 89 elected seats in Parliament.	自 1959 年以来，李光耀的人民行动党(People's Action Party)从未丧失执政党地位，目前国会的 89 个民选席位当中有 83 个为其所控制。

One of his last wishes was that the house where he had lived for nearly 70 years be demolished after his death. He did not want it to become a museum, he said, where visitors would “trudge through” and turn the place into “a shambles.”	李光耀的一个遗愿是，他住了将近 70 年的房子在他死后必须拆除。他说，他不想让自己的故居变成一座博物馆，供游客穿行其中，弄得“乱七八糟”。
The house itself, a musty five-bedroom affair at 38 Oxley Road, is not grand. More than 100 years old, it lacks a foundation, and dampness creeps up the walls. It suffers from decades of deferred maintenance. Walls are stained, and some have cracks. Furnishings have not been updated in years.	这栋位于欧思礼路 38 号、共有五个卧室的房子本身不算太起眼。这是一座有一百多年历史的老宅，没有地基，湿气沿着墙壁向上升腾。年久失修之下，墙面斑驳，有的还有裂缝。家具也是多年前置办的。
A pair of urns containing the ashes of Mr. Lee and his wife sit side by side on a small shelf in the main room.	堂屋内的一个小架子上并排摆着两个骨灰瓮，里面装着李光耀及其妻子的骨灰。
Despite the wealth created under Mr. Lee’s leadership, who was prime minister from 1959 until 1990, the house is emblematic of his modest lifestyle and a symbol of clean government.	李光耀在 1959 年至 1990 年担任总理期间，带领新加坡创造了大量财富，而这栋房子既是他的简朴生活方式的写照，也是政府为政清廉的象征。
But the home’s historical significance is undeniable. A basement room, set up with a long table and chairs, was the meeting place in the 1950s for the independence leaders who eventually rose to power, the spot where the People’s Action Party was born.	它还有着无可否认的历史意义。摆有一张长桌和若干椅子的地下室，是最终掌权的独立运动领导人在 1950 年代开会的地点，是人民行动党的诞生地。
But Mr. Lee left clear instructions in his will that the house should be torn down despite its historical value. The unsentimental leader doubted anyone would care, even his children.	但李光耀在遗嘱中明确表示，这栋房子必须拆除——尽管它具有历史价值。这位很少感情用事的领导人不觉得有谁会在意，哪怕是他的子女。
“They have old photos to remind them of the past,” he scoffed in a 2011 interview.	“他们有老照片用来缅怀过去，”他在 2011 年的一次采访中略带嘲弄地说道。
He stipulated that his daughter, who took care of him in his last years, could live there as long as she wished. She still does. She is only 62, so	他规定，照顾他晚年生活的女儿如果愿意可以一直在那里住下去。她目前还住在里面。她只有 62 岁，因此对这处房产的最终处置或许要再过数十年才

the final disposition of the property might not come for decades.	见分晓。
But the issue burst into public view in mid-June when the two younger siblings issued a blistering statement titled "What Has Happened to Lee Kuan Yew's Values?" They questioned their brother's "character, conduct, motives and leadership."	但6月中旬，李显扬和李玮玲以《李光耀的价值观哪里去了？》为题，发表了一份愤怒的声明，让这一问题猛然进入公众视野。他们质疑了兄长李显龙的“人品、行为、动机以及领导力”。
They accused him of creating a secret government committee to circumvent their father's will for his own political benefit and of misusing his position "to drive his personal agenda."	他们指责他为自己的政治利益计，设立了一个秘密的政府委员会，妨碍父亲遗愿的执行，还说他滥用职权去“达到个人目的”。
Singaporeans are divided. Some see the value in preserving a piece of Singapore's history while others think that Lee Kuan Yew's final wish should be honored. And some believe the whole affair should have been kept private.	新加坡人对此各执己见。一些人认为，保留这栋承载着新加坡一段历史的建筑自有其意义；另一些人则认为，李光耀的遗嘱应该受到尊重。还有人认为，整件事应该在私下里解决。
"This is a personal family issue, and it shouldn't be brought to the national level because it might create a bad impression around the world," said Tan Chuan Jin, 19, an information technology student.	“这是家事，不应该上升到国家层面，因为可能给世界各地的人留下不好的印象，”现年19岁的信息科技专业学生谭传金（音，Tan Chuan Jin）说。
But just as it was difficult to separate Mr. Lee from the country he built, it is impossible to erase the politics from the house. Preserving it would provide a physical reminder not only of Mr. Lee, analysts said, but also of the current prime minister's connection to him.	不过，正如很难把李光耀和他缔造的这个国家区分开，此处故居的政治色彩也很难被抹去。分析人士称，保留故居不仅是对李光耀的纪念，还可以实实在在地提醒人们现任总理和他的关系。
"For the ruling party, the house is a symbol of their legacy," said Li Shengwu, Lee Hsien Yang's son, an economist at Harvard University. "It is a symbol uniquely associated with them and gives them legitimacy."	“对执政党来说，这栋房子是他们的遗产的象征，”李显扬之子、哈佛大学经济学者李绳武说。“它是一个与他们有着独特联系的象征，给他们以合法性。”
But questions of legitimacy and abuse of power cut to the core weakness of a one-party state.	但对合法性以及滥用权力的质疑，直指一党制国家的核心弊端。
"The people are more aware that the key issue is the abuse of political	“民众愈发意识到，关键问题在于李显龙总理和人民行动党滥用政治权力，

power by Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong and the People's Action Party, but there are few checks and balances to prevent such abuse," Sinapan Samydorai, the director of Asean (for the Association of Southeast Asian Nations) affairs at Think Center, a nonprofit policy center in Singapore, said in an email.	但很少有防止权力滥用的制衡措施，“新加坡非营利性政策研究中心思考中心(Think Center)的东盟事务总监西纳潘·萨米多拉伊(Sinapan Samydorai)在一封电子邮件中表示。
"The trust and legitimacy of the government is being eroded, and the people's confidence in the system may slowly evaporate," he added.	“政府的信用和合法性正受到侵蚀，民众对这一制度的信心会慢慢瓦解，”他补充道。
So more than Lee Hsien Loong's reputation was on the line when he went before Parliament on Monday.	因此，当李显龙周一前往国会作证时，押上的不只是他个人的声誉。
On the dynasty question, he said his son, Li Hongyi, had no interest in politics, and Mr. Lee denied that he wanted to preserve the house to exploit his father's "aura."	谈及关于建立王朝的质疑，李显龙说他儿子李鸿毅(Li Hongyi)对政治不感兴趣，他还否认自己意图通过保存故居来利用父亲的“光环”。
"If I needed such magic properties to bolster my authority even after being your P.M. for 13 years, I must be in a pretty sad state," he said.	“如果我在做了你们13年总理之后，还需要用这种魔法宅子来巩固我的权威，我的处境一定很可悲，”他说。
As for the no-longer-secret committee, he insisted that he had nothing to do with it and had recused himself from any government decisions relating to the house. The committee's job, he said, was only to "list options for the house, so that when a decision does become necessary one day" the government would be prepared.	至于那个不再秘密的秘密委员会，他坚称与自己无关，还说自己回避了任何同故居有关的政府决定。他说该委员的职责只是列出处置房子的选项，以便日后需要做出决定时有这些选项可供政府考虑。
But the younger brother, Lee Hsien Yang, said Monday that the prime minister was using the committee to "attack the validity of our father's final will." Any such questions should be decided by a court, he said.	但他弟弟李显扬周一表示，现任总理正利用该委员会“攻击父亲遗嘱的有效性”。他说，任何此类问题都应由法院决定。
Analysts said the prime minister needed to put the issue to rest and to reassure the public that Singapore's government was fair-minded and aboveboard.	分析人士称，总理必须平息此事，并让公众相信：新加坡政府公平持正、光明正大。

It was not clear on Monday whether the day of speeches, which included canned questions but no discussion or debate, had achieved that.	周一当天还看不出总理的演讲——允许提一些预设的问题，但没有讨论或辩论——是否实现了这种效果。
“So far it has been a tightly scripted process that seeks to show that the processes and controls in government are adequate and so the alleged abuses could not have been possible,” said Eugene Tan, an associate law professor at Singapore Management University. “But the jury is still out as to whether they have been sufficient to persuade and convince.”	“截至目前一切严格按脚本进行，旨在表明政府的流程和管控都是正当的，因此不可能存在所谓的滥用权力，”新加坡管理大学(Singapore Management University)法学副教授陈庆文(Eugene Tan)说。“但尚不清楚其说服力是否足够大。”
The hearing continues for a second and final day on Tuesday.	为期两天的听证会于周二继续。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/lee-kuan-yew-house-singapore	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/lee-kuan-yew-house-singapore
With Social Media, Vietnam’s Dissidents Grow Bolder Despite Crackdown	Facebook 成越南异见人士反抗专制的论坛
HANOI, Vietnam — A prominent blogger and environmental activist in Vietnam was sentenced last week to 10 years in prison on charges of national security offenses, including sharing anti-state propaganda on social media.	越南河内——一位著名的博主、环保活动人士上周在越南以危害国家安全的罪名被判十年监禁，指控包括在社交媒体上进行反政府宣传。
Nguyen Ngoc Nhu Quynh, better known by her online handle Mother Mushroom, had been held incommunicado since she was arrested in October, and attendance at her trial was strictly controlled.	自去年 10 月被捕以来，阮玉如琼(Nguyen Ngoc Nhu Quynh)——更为人熟知的是网名 Mother Mushroom (蘑菇妈妈)——就与外界失去了联系，出席其庭审的人也被严格控制。
But barely one hour after the verdict was handed down Thursday, one of Quynh’s lawyers summarized his arguments and posted her final statement at the trial to his 61,000 Facebook followers.	但上周四判决书下发不到一个小时，阮玉如琼的一名律师就总结了他的辩词，并将阮玉如琼在审判中的最终陈词发到了他有 6.1 万粉丝的 Facebook 主页上。
“I hope that everyone will speak up and fight, overcome their own fears to build a better country,” she said, according to the lawyer. The	“我希望所有人都能仗义执言和抗争，战胜自己的恐惧，建设一个更好的国家，”据这名律师透露，阮玉如琼在法庭上这样讲道。这份声明被转发了数 statement was reposted thousands of times.	千次。

In authoritarian Vietnam, the internet has become the de facto forum for the country's growing number of dissenting voices. Facebook connections in particular have mobilized opposition to government policies; they played a key role in mass protests against the state's handling of an environmental disaster last year. Now, the government is tightening its grip on the internet, arresting and threatening bloggers, and pressing Facebook and YouTube to censor what appears on their sites.	在专制的越南，网络实质上已经变成这个国家数量渐涨的异见者发声的论坛。Facebook 上的连接尤其激发起反对政府政策的声音；在去年抗议政府处理一起环境灾难的大规模抗议行动中，这些连接也起到了关键的作用。现在，政府开始收紧对互联网的控制，逮捕和威胁博主，向 Facebook 和 YouTube 施压，要求它们对网站的内容进行审查。
"Facebook is being used as an organizing tool, as a self-publishing platform, as a monitoring device for people when they are being detained and when they get released," said Phil Robertson, deputy Asia director for Human Rights Watch.	"Facebook 被用作组织工具、自我出版平台，以及人们遭拘押和释放时的监测手段，"人权观察组织(Human Rights Watch)亚洲分部的副主任菲尔·罗伯逊(Phil Robertson)说。
Facebook is being used "to connect communities that otherwise wouldn't be connected," he said.	Facebook 被用来"连接原本不会产生关联的社群"，他说。
Nguyen Anh Tuan, 27, a pro-democracy activist, said the growing number of dissidents forging connections through social media had emboldened him.	27 岁的亲民主活动人士阮英俊(Nguyen Anh Tuan)表示，是通过社交媒体连接起来的日渐增多的异见者鼓舞了他。
The first time police interrogated him in 2011, he said, he felt utterly alone. His parents and friends disapproved of his political writings, and he knew few other people he could turn to for help.	他说自己第一次被警方审讯是在 2011 年，当时他觉得十分孤单。他的父母和朋友都不赞成他从事政治写作，他所认识的能寻求帮助的人也非常少。
Tuan still faces police harassment, and his passport has been confiscated. But the most recent time he was called in for questioning, he posted a copy of the summons to Facebook, along with a satirical note demanding to be paid for the time he spent in custody.	阮英俊现在依然会遭到警察的骚扰，他的护照已经被没收。但最近一次被传唤去接受质询时，他把传唤文件的复印件发到了 Facebook 上，同时还发布了一张有讽刺意味的纸条，要求警方为他被拘期间的损失做出补偿。

His note went viral, and other people followed suit, posting their own police summonses on Facebook and asking for compensation. "Regarding activism, I cannot feel lonely anymore," he said.	这张纸条在网上传播开来，其他人也纷纷效仿，在 Facebook 上发布自己收到的警方传唤证明并要求补偿。“在开展运动方面，我再也不感到孤单了，”他说。
Vietnam's Facebook users — who now number 45 million, almost half the country's population — use the site to organize prison visits and vigils outside police stations for detainees, and to solicit donations for political prisoners. And dissidents are increasingly migrating political and personal blogs, which can be easily blocked by the government, onto Facebook, which is so widely used that blocking it entirely would not be feasible.	越南的 Facebook 用户——目前已达到 4500 万人，几乎占越南人口的一半——利用这个网站组织探监和在警局外为被拘者做守夜祈祷的活动，还为政治犯募捐。异见者越来越多地将很容易被政府屏蔽的政治和个人博客转移到 Facebook 上，后者使用面太广，几乎无法完全屏蔽。
Tuan helps run a fund that supports the families of prisoners of conscience, including Quynh's mother and two young children. He said that much of the support now came from people inside the country sending money from their personal bank accounts, which the state can trace. In the past, he said, overseas Vietnamese communities drove most of the dissent and supplied most of the money.	阮英俊协助运营着一个给良心犯的家属提供支持的基金，资助对象就包括阮玉如琼的母亲和两个年幼的孩子。他表示，这些支持目前大多来自越南国内人士从个人银行账户捐赠的资金，政府可以追踪得到这些信息。他说，在过去，海外越南社区是大多数异议的推动者，提供了大多数资金。
"They know very well that they could be checked by the government, but they dare to do it," he said of his local donors.	"他们很清楚这些捐赠更可以被政府查到，但他们还是勇敢地这么做了，"他在谈及该基金在越南国内的捐赠者时讲道。
That has not gone unnoticed by the government, which is also asserting its authority in new ways. Quynh is one of over 100 bloggers and activists jailed in Vietnam, according to Human Rights Watch. Pham Minh Hoang, another popular blogger, was stripped of his citizenship and deported last week to France, where he also holds citizenship.	政府注意到了这个问题，也在以新的方式维护自己的权威。据人权观察组织统计，越南有 100 多名博主和活动人士遭到逮捕，阮玉如琼只是其中之一。另一位知名博主范明黄（Pham Minh Hoang，音）上周被剥夺了公民身份，遣返回他同时持有公民身份的法国。
The government has strategically cut access to Facebook when	据越南《青年报》(Tuoi Tre)报道，在有可能发生抗议行动时，政府会策略

protests are expected, and earlier this year asked both Facebook and YouTube to help it eliminate fake accounts and other “toxic” content, like anti-government material, saying it had identified up to 8,000 YouTube videos that fit that description, according to the local newspaper Tuoi Tre. The government also warned Vietnamese companies that their ads must not appear next to that sort of content.	性地减少对 Facebook 的访问，今年早些时候越南政府曾要求 Facebook 和 YouTube 帮助它消除假账号和反政府材料等其他“有害”内容，称它已经确认有多达 8000 条 YouTube 视频符合这种描述。政府还警告越南企业，它们的广告一定不能出现在此类内容旁边。
Facebook has said its policy is to abide by local laws, although there was no indication it had removed content in Vietnam thus far.	Facebook 表示，公司的政策是遵守当地法律，不过迄今为止，没有迹象表明它曾删除网站在越南的内容。
In a report released last month, Human Rights Watch detailed what it called a “disturbing trend” of bloggers and activists being beaten on the street by thugs known as “con do.” It tallied 36 such attacks from January 2015 to April, only one of which police investigated.	在上月发布的一份报告中，人权观察组织详细描述了该机构所说的一种“令人担忧的趋势”，即越来越多的博主和活动人士在街头遭到人称“con do”的暴徒殴打。从 2015 年 1 月至 4 月，该机构追踪到 36 起这样的袭击事件，但警方只调查了其中一起。
The report relies partly on the activists’ own photos and videos of their injuries, often filmed shakily on smartphones and quickly shared online.	这份报告部分依据活动人士自己拍摄的显示伤情的照片和视频，它们一般是用智能手机，在晃动的情况下拍摄，然后很快发到网上。
Jonathan London, a Vietnam specialist at Leiden University in the Netherlands, said that despite recent repression, the transformation wrought by the internet in a short period had been “astonishing and hopeful.”	荷兰莱顿大学(Leiden University)的越南问题专家乔纳森·伦敦(Jonathan London)表示，尽管出现了最近的打压行动，但互联网在短时间内实现的转变依然“让人感到难以置信和充满希望”。
It is “remarkable that in a country that as recently as 15 or 20 years ago had one of the lowest rates of telephone usage in the world has thrust rapidly into an era of 24-hour news and continuous social and political criticism accessible to everyone,” he said.	“一个 15 至 20 年前手机使用率还属于全世界最低的国家，能如此迅速地进入一个所有人可以 24 小时获取新闻、不间断收到社会与政治批评的时代”，这是“非常引人注目的”，他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/vietnam-mother-mushroom-social-media-dissidents	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170704/vietnam-mother-mushroom-social-media-dissidents
Philippine Supreme Court Upholds Duterte’s Martial Law Edict	菲律宾最高法院支持杜特地在南部实行戒严

MANILA — The Philippine Supreme Court upheld on Tuesday President Rodrigo Duterte’s declaration of martial law in the southern Philippines, which he says is needed to crush an uprising by militants linked to the Islamic State.	马尼拉——周二，菲律宾最高法院支持了罗德里戈·杜特地(Rodrigo Duterte)总统在菲律宾南部实行的戒严令。总统说，为了粉碎与伊斯兰国(Islamic State)相关的武装叛乱，需要实行戒严。
The court dismissed challenges to the order Mr. Duterte issued on May 23, days after militants launched attacks aimed at taking over the southern city of Marawi, where fighting still continues. The edict gives the military widespread powers not just in Marawi but across the large southern island of Mindanao, including carrying out warrantless arrests and setting up roadblocks and checkpoints.	该法院驳回了对杜特地 5 月 23 日签发的法令的诉讼挑战。法令签发前数日，武装份子发动了旨在控制南部城市马拉维的攻击，现在那里的战斗依然在继续。该法令给予军方广泛的权力，以进行未经授权的逮捕，设立路障和检查点，其覆盖范围不只是马拉维，还包括南部岛屿棉兰老的大部分地区。
Mr. Duterte had said Saturday that he would ignore the court if it struck down the order. Eleven of the 14 justices voted to uphold it, Ted Te, a spokesman for the court, said Tuesday. One said it was unconstitutional, and the three others said it should be limited to Marawi, Mr. Te said.	周六，杜特地表示，如果法院否决该法令，他将无视法院的裁决。周二，最高法院的发言人特德·特(Ted Te)表示，14 名法官中有 11 名投票支持该法令。他还表示，有一名法官认为该法令违宪，另外三名法官认为它应仅限于马拉维。
The government’s chief lawyer, Jose Calida, said the ruling “underscores the existence of real and present rebellion that threatens the lives of our fellow Filipinos in Mindanao, and their much-cherished liberties.”	肩负政府首席法律顾问责任的何塞·卡利达(Jose Calida)表示，该裁决“突显出，目前确实存在威胁菲律宾同胞性命以及他们珍视的自由的叛乱”。
“As the conscience of our nation, the Supreme Court did not sit idly to watch our country get dismembered,” Mr. Cadila, the solicitor general, said in a statement. “In fact, this decision shows the honorable Supreme Court is one with the president in protecting and defending our country’s sovereignty and territorial integrity.”	“最高法院出于对国家的良心，没有坐视我们的国家分崩离析，”司法部副部长卡利达在一份声明中说。“实际上，这项决定表明，尊敬的最高法院和总统站在一起，保护和保卫我们国家的主权和领土完整。”
Critics of Mr. Duterte have called his edict a throwback to the days of	杜特地的批评者称他的法令会把菲律宾送回费迪南德·马科斯(Ferdinand

Ferdinand Marcos, the strongman under whose two-decade rule thousands of dissidents were killed or went missing. Protesters outside the Supreme Court on Tuesday said Mr. Duterte was adopting the dictatorial methods of Mr. Marcos, for whom the president has expressed admiration.	Marcos)统治的时代。马科斯是一位铁腕人物，在他统治的 20 年里，成千上万异见人士被害或失踪。周二，最高法院外的抗议者表示，杜特地在实行马科斯的独裁统治——杜特地对马科斯表达过仰慕之情。
Julkipli Wadi, a political-science professor and head of the Institute of Islamic Studies at the University of the Philippines, said the ruling gave credence to critics' fears that martial law would spread beyond Mindanao, given that both the government and the militants have predicted that Islamic State-inspired radicalism would rise.	菲律宾大学(University of the Philippines)伊斯兰研究学院院长、政治学教授胡尔基普利·瓦迪(Julkipli Wadi)表示，这项裁决加深了批评者的忧虑，即戒严令会扩展到棉兰老岛之外，因为政府和武装份子都预言，受伊斯兰国鼓舞的激进活动会增加。
"It will certainly boost Duterte's draconian rule in Mindanao," Mr. Wadi said of the ruling.	"那无疑会助长杜特地在棉兰老岛的严酷统治，"瓦迪在提起这项裁决时说。
Mr. Duterte has said that he might declare martial law throughout the Philippines if Islamist rebels gain footholds elsewhere in the country.	杜特地曾表示，如果伊斯兰叛乱在该国的其他地方占据立足点，他可能会对整个菲律宾实行戒严。
The military is still struggling to retake Marawi from Islamic State-inspired gunmen with the Philippine militant groups Abu Sayyaf and Maute, backed by fighters from the Middle East and elsewhere in Southeast Asia. Most of the 200,000 residents in the predominantly Muslim city have fled, and the intense fighting has killed 85 soldiers, 39 civilians and 337 rebels, according to the military.	军方在收回马拉维方面仍然面临困难。该市目前被受到伊斯兰国鼓舞的枪手所占据，这些人来自菲律宾武装组织阿布沙耶夫(Abu Sayyaf)和穆特(Maute)，得到了中东和东南亚其他地方的武装分子的支持。这座以穆斯林为主的城市的 20 万居民大多已经逃离，激烈的战斗导致 85 名士兵、39 名平民和 337 名叛军死亡。
On the eve of the court's ruling, Mr. Duterte gave a rare televised speech in which he rallied the troops fighting in Marawi and thanked them for their "relentless effort."	在法院裁决前夕，杜特地罕见地发表电视讲话，鼓舞在马拉维战斗的部队，感谢他们的“不懈努力”。
"I enjoin the operating troops to carry on until our objective of wiping out these enemies of the state and the people has been achieved," he	"我命令作战部队继续战斗，直到我们实现目标，消灭国家和人民的敌人，"他说。他还表示，棉兰老岛的戒严"会继续实行，以对抗恐怖主义和叛乱的

said. He said martial law in Mindanao "will remain in effect to counter the persistent threat of terrorism and insurgency."	持续威胁”。
Mr. Duterte had said on Saturday that he would reject the ruling if the court struck down his edict, saying he would listen only to the armed forces.	周六，杜特地曾表示，如果法院否决他的法令，他会抵制它的裁决，称他只听从部队的声音。
"It's not dependent on the whim of the Supreme Court," he said. "Should I believe them? When I see the situation is still chaotic and you ask me to lift it? I will arrest you and put you behind bars."	“这不取决于最高法院的想法，”他说。“我应该相信他们吗？我看到情况依旧混乱，你让我取消戒严？我会把你抓起来，关进牢里。”
The martial law declaration has strong support in Congress, which is dominated by Mr. Duterte's allies. Richard Javad Heydarian, a political-science professor at De La Salle University in Manila, said the court was likely to have been influenced by the two elected branches of government.	戒严令在国会拥有强力支持，而国会由杜特地的盟友主导。马尼拉德拉萨大学(De La Salle University)的政治学教授理查德·贾瓦德·海达里恩(Richard Javad Heydarian)表示，法院很可能受到了政府的两个民选分支的影响。
"Clearly, the Supreme Court is making decisions not irrespective of the broader political atmosphere," Mr. Heydarian said.	“很显然，最高法院在做决定时，并不是没有受到更广泛的政治气氛的影响，”海达里恩说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170705/philippines-supreme-court-martial-law-rodriigo-duterte	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170705/philippines-supreme-court-martial-law-rodriigo-duterte
For Trump, Threats but Few Options in Confronting North Korea	面对朝鲜，特朗普还有多少选择？
When then-President-elect Trump said on Twitter in early January that a North Korean test of an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of reaching the United States "won't happen!" there were two things that he still did not fully appreciate: how close Kim Jong-un, the North's leader, was to reaching that goal, and how limited any president's options were to stop him.	1月初特朗普还是候任总统的时候，他在Twitter上说，朝鲜试验可以打到美国的洲际弹道导弹这种事情“不会发生！”。当时有两件事他不是完全了解：朝鲜领导人金正恩距离这个目标还有多远；任何一个总统在阻止他的时候选择是多么有限。
The ensuing six months have been a brutal education for Mr. Trump.	接下来的六个月，特朗普受到了事实的残酷教育。朝鲜周二的试射刷新了该

With North Korea's Tuesday launch, the country has new reach. Experts believe it has crossed the threshold — if just barely — with a missile that appears capable of striking Alaska.	国的导弹覆盖范围。专家们认为，这枚导弹似乎可以打到阿拉斯加，它已经跨过了门槛，虽然只是勉强跨过。
Mr. Kim's repeated tests show that a more definitive demonstration that he can reach the American mainland cannot be far away, even if it may be a few years before he can fit a nuclear warhead onto his increasingly powerful missiles. But for Mr. Trump and his national security team, Tuesday's technical milestone simply underscores tomorrow's strategic dilemma.	金正恩的再三测试表明，不久他就会更加明确地表明他的导弹可以打到美国大陆，虽然把核弹头装在越来越强大的导弹上可能还需要花几年时间。但是，对于特朗普及其国家安全团队来说，周二这个技术上的里程碑只是突显了明天的战略困境。
A North Korean ability to reach the United States, as former Defense Secretary William J. Perry noted recently, "changes every calculus." The fear is not that Mr. Kim would launch a pre-emptive attack on the West Coast; that would be suicidal, and if the 33-year-old leader has demonstrated anything in his five years in office, he is all about survival. But if Mr. Kim has the potential ability to strike back, it would shape every decision Mr. Trump and his successors will make about defending America's allies in the region.	正如前国防部长威廉·J·佩里(William J. Perry)最近所说，朝鲜导弹能够打到美国“改变了所有的盘算”。他们担心的不是金正恩会对西海岸发起先发制人的袭击，因为那无异于自杀，如果这位33岁的领导人上任这五年来表现了什么意图，那全部都和求生有关。但是，如果金正恩拥有潜在的反击能力，那就会深刻地影响特朗普及其继任者在该地区维护美国盟友方面的每个决定。
For years, the North has been able to reach South Korea and Japan with ease, and American intelligence officials believe those medium-range missiles are capable of carrying a nuclear warhead.	多年来，朝鲜的导弹可以轻松打到韩国和日本，美国的情报官员认为这些中程导弹拥有携带核弹头的能力。
But this latest test suggests the United States may already be in range as well, and that, as one former top American intelligence official noted recently, would color every military decision and put enormous pressure on American missile defenses that few trust to work.	但这次最新的测试表明，美国也可能已经在他们的打击范围之内了，正如一位前美国情报官员最近所说，这会影响到美国的每个军事决定，并给美国的导弹防御系统带来巨大的压力，很少有人相信该系统会起作用。
Mr. Trump still has some time. What the North Koreans accomplished	特朗普还有一些时间来做出反应。朝鲜人在美国人专心庆祝独立日的时候取

while Americans focused on Independence Day celebrations was a breakthrough, but not a vivid demonstration of their nuclear reach.	得的这项成就具有突破性，但并不是对其核能力的生动展现。
Their missile traveled only about 580 miles, by itself no great achievement. But it got there by taking a 1,700-mile trip into space and re-entering the atmosphere, a flight that lasted 37 minutes by the calculation of the United States Pacific Command (and a few minutes longer according to the North Koreans).	朝鲜的这枚导弹只射到了大约 580 英里（约合 933 公里）之外，这本身并不是什么巨大成就。但是它飞行了 1700 英里（约合 2736 公里）进入太空，然后重新进入大气层，根据美国太平洋司令部的测算，这段行程耗时 37 分钟（朝鲜人的说法还比那长几分钟）。
Flatten that out, and you have a missile that could reach Alaska, but not Los Angeles. That bolsters the assessment of the director of the Missile Defense Agency, Vice Adm. James D. Syring, who told a congressional hearing last month that the United States “must assume that North Korea can reach us with a ballistic missile.”	把轨迹拉平，导弹就可以打到阿拉斯加了，但到不了洛杉矶。这印证了五角大楼导弹防御局(Missile Defense Agency)局长、海军中将詹姆斯·D·叙林 (James D. Syring)的估计，上个月他在国会听证会上表示，美国“必须假定朝鲜的弹道导弹可以打到我们”。
Perhaps that is why Mr. Trump has not issued any “red lines” that the North Koreans cannot step over.	也许这就是特朗普没有宣布朝鲜人不能踩过的“红线”的原因。
He has not even repeated the policy that President George W. Bush laid out in October 2006 after the North’s first nuclear test: that he would hold the country “fully accountable” if it shared its nuclear technology with any other nation or terrorist group. Mr. Trump’s advisers say they see little merit in drawing lines that could limit options, and they would rather keep the North guessing.	他甚至没有重申乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)于 2006 年 10 月在朝鲜第一次核试验之后提出的政策：如果它与任何国家或恐怖组织分享核技术，他将让朝鲜负“全部责任”。特朗普的顾问说，划出一条限制自己选择能力的红线没有什么好处，他们宁愿让朝鲜继续猜测他们的应对方式。
So what are Mr. Trump’s options, and what are their downsides?	那么特朗普面前有哪些选择呢？它们各有怎样的缺点呢？
There is classic containment: limiting an adversary’s ability to expand its influence, as the United States did against a much more powerful foe, the Soviet Union. But that does not solve the problem; it is just a way of living with it.	一个老办法是遏制：限制对手扩大影响的能力，就像美国对抗更强大的敌人苏联那样。但这个做法并不能解决问题；它只是一种忍耐方式。

He could step up sanctions, bolster the American naval presence off the Korean Peninsula — “we’re sending an armada,” he boasted in April — and accelerate the secret American cyberprogram to sabotage missile launches. But if that combination of intimidation and technical wizardry had been a success, Mr. Kim would not have conducted the test on Tuesday, knowing that it would lead only to more sanctions, more military pressure and more covert activity — and perhaps persuade China that it has no choice but to intervene more decisively.	他可以加强制裁，加强美国在朝鲜半岛周围海军力量的部署——他曾在4月的时候夸口说，“我们会派出一支舰队”——并且增强美国破坏导弹发射的秘密网络项目。但如果这些威胁和技术魔法取得了成功，金正恩就不会在周二进行这次试验了，因为他明知这会引发更多制裁、更大的军事压力和更多的秘密行动——或许还可以说服中国它别无选择，只能更坚决地进行干预。
So far, Mr. Trump’s early enthusiasm that he had cajoled China’s president, Xi Jinping, to crack down on the North has resulted in predictable disappointment. Recently, he told Mr. Xi that the United States was prepared to go it alone in confronting North Korea, but the Chinese may consider that an empty threat.	截至目前，特朗普最初劝诱中国国家主席习近平对朝鲜进行制裁的热情不出所料地带来了令人失望的结果。最近，他告诉习近平美国准备独自应对朝鲜，但中国或许会认为这不过是虚张声势。
He could also take another step and threaten pre-emptive military strikes if the United States detects an imminent launch of a intercontinental ballistic missile — maybe one intended to demonstrate the potential reach to the West Coast. Mr. Perry argued for that step in 2006, in an op-ed in The Washington Post that he wrote with a future defense secretary, Ashton B. Carter. “If North Korea persists in its launch preparations, the United States should immediately make clear its intention to strike and destroy” the missile on the pad, the two men wrote.	他也可以采取另一种措施，威胁如果美国一探测到朝鲜要发射洲际弹道导弹，便会发起先发制人的军事打击——朝鲜可能会发射一枚，以证明自己有将导弹发射到美国西海岸的潜在能力。佩里与后来担任国防部长的阿什顿·B·卡特(Ashton B. Carter)在2006年一起为《华盛顿邮报》(The Washington Post)撰写的一篇专栏文章中，他曾主张采取这种措施。“如果朝鲜继续做发射导弹的准备，美国应该立即表明“它会把导弹”打击和破坏”在发射台上，两人写道。
But Mr. Perry noted recently that “even if you think it was a good idea at the time,” and he now seems to have his doubts, “it’s not a good idea today.”	但佩里最近指出，“就算当时觉得那是个好主意”，现在似乎也有点怀疑“它在今天不是个好主意了”。

The reason is simple: In the intervening 11 years, the North has built too many missiles, of too many varieties, to make the benefits of a strike like that worth the risk. It has test-flown a new generation of solid-fuel missiles, which can be easily hidden in mountain caves and rolled out for quick launch. And the North Koreans still possess their ultimate weapon of retaliation: artillery along the northern edge of the Demilitarized Zone that can take out the South's capital, Seoul, a city of approximately 10 million people and one of the most vibrant economic hubs of Asia.	原因很简单：在这 11 年时间里，朝鲜制造出种类繁多、数量很大的导弹，使得进行那样一场打击变得风险太大而不值得一试。朝鲜已经试射了新一代的固体燃料导弹，它们可以很容易地隐藏在山洞里，又能很快进行发射。而且朝鲜依然掌握着终极报复武器：部署在非军事区北侧的炮火足以毁掉韩国的首都首尔，那是一个人口约 1000 万的城市，也是亚洲最活跃的经济中心之一。
In short, that is a risk the North Koreans are betting even Mr. Trump, for all his threats, would not take. "A conflict in North Korea," Defense Secretary Jim Mattis said on CBS's "Face the Nation" in May, "would be probably the worst kind of fighting in most people's lifetimes."	简而言之就是存在这样一种风险，即朝鲜在押注特朗普尽管做出各种威胁，但并不会采取行动。“朝鲜半岛冲突，”国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)今年 5 月曾在 CBS 电视台《面对国民》(Face the Nation)节目中说，“可能会是大多数人一生中面临的最严重的斗争。”
Which leads to the next option, the one that South Korea's new president, Moon Jae-in, talked about in Washington on Friday when he visited Mr. Trump: negotiation. It would start with a freeze in North Korea's nuclear and missile tests in return for an American agreement to limit or suspend military exercises with South Korea. Mr. Xi has long urged that approach, and it won an endorsement on Tuesday from President Vladimir V. Putin of Russia, after he met with the Chinese leader.	这就说到了美国的下一个选项，也就是韩国新任总统文在寅(Moon Jae-in)周五在华盛顿与特朗普会面时谈论过的：谈判。首先是争取朝鲜暂停核项目与导弹试验，以换取美国同意限制或暂停与韩国的军事演习。习近平一直竭力主张采取这种办法，周二这一策略又赢得了俄罗斯总统弗拉基米尔·V·普京(Vladimir V. Putin)的支持，后者刚刚与习近平进行了会面。这种选择也有风险。它本质上实现了朝鲜和中国的目标，即限制美国在亚太地区的军事行动自由，渐渐削弱美韩军事威慑的质量。
That, too, carries risks. It essentially achieves the North Korean and Chinese goal of limiting American military freedom of action in the Pacific, and over time erodes the quality of the American-South Korean military deterrent.	与朝鲜进行谈判谈不上是什么新点子：比尔·克林顿(Bill Clinton)在 1994 年尝试过，布什总统在自己任期的最后两年也尝试过。但他们后来都发现，一旦朝鲜觉得自己获得的经济好处有限，交易就会告吹。

Negotiations with the North are hardly a new idea: Bill Clinton tried it in 1994, and Mr. Bush in the last two years of his term. But both discovered that over time, once the North Koreans determined that the economic benefits were limited, the deals fell apart.	此外，据估计，朝鲜已经拥有 10 到 20 枚核武器，到这个时候再暂停核项目，基本上是认可朝鲜规模不算太大的核武库将在朝鲜半岛保留下来。
Moreover, a freeze at this late date, when the North is estimated to have 10 to 20 nuclear weapons, essentially acknowledges that the North's modest arsenal is here to stay.	美国国务卿雷克斯·W·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)在 3 月中访问首尔时也表达过这样的观点，他告诉记者自己很可能会反对任何将“一整套能力”珍藏供奉在朝鲜的决策。在那之后，他的公开言论有所软化。政府官员现在表示，暂停核项目不是一种解决办法，而是通向朝鲜半岛无核化的一个站点——换句话说，那意味着一项令金正恩放弃所有核武器和导弹的协议。
Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson said as much when he visited Seoul in mid-March and told reporters that he would most likely reject any solution that would enshrine “a comprehensive set of capabilities” in the North. He has since softened his public comments. Administration officials now suggest that a freeze would not be a solution, but a way station to a nuclear-free Korean Peninsula — in other words, an agreement that Mr. Kim would give up all his nuclear weapons and missiles.	但目前金正恩显然对放弃这种权力没有兴趣。环视全世界，他看到的是利比亚的穆阿迈尔·卡扎菲上校(Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi)的例子——这位放弃了自己刚刚发展起来的核项目的独裁者，一遭到民众的反对，便在美国的协助下被推翻了。这正是金正恩认为自己的核武器项目可以防止的事情——美国推翻他的努力。
But it is now clear that Mr. Kim has no interest in giving up that power. As he looks around the world, he sees cases like that of Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi of Libya — an authoritarian who gave up his nascent nuclear program, only to be deposed, with American help, as soon as his people turned against him. That is what Mr. Kim believes his nuclear program will prevent — an American effort to topple him.	他的想法有可能是对的。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170705/trump-north-korea-missile-icbm	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170705/trump-north-korea-missile-icbm

In North Korea, 'Surgical Strike' Could Spin Into 'Worst Kind of Fighting'	军事打击朝鲜代价惨重，美国投鼠忌器
SEOUL, South Korea — The standoff over North Korea's nuclear program has long been shaped by the view that the United States has no viable military option to destroy it. Any attempt to do so, many say, would provoke a brutal counterattack against South Korea too bloody and damaging to risk.	韩国首尔——一直以来，因朝鲜核计划而起的对峙都有一个根本前提，即美国找不到一个可行的军事方案来摧毁该计划。很多人认为，任何尝试都会引发一场针对韩国的残酷反击，其血腥和损害程度意味着，冒险是不值的。
That remains a major constraint on the Trump administration's response even as North Korea's leader, Kim Jong Un, approaches his goal of a nuclear arsenal capable of striking the United States. On Tuesday, the North appeared to cross a new threshold, testing a weapon that it described as an intercontinental ballistic missile and that analysts said could potentially hit Alaska.	如今特朗普政府的回应依然掣肘于此，尽管朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong Un)正步步逼近他的目标——建起可以远及美国的核武打击能力。周二，朝鲜似乎又跨越了一道槛，测试了一种被他们称为洲际弹道导弹的武器，分析人士称该武器也许有能力打到阿拉斯加。
Over the years, as it does for potential crises around the world, the Pentagon has drafted and refined multiple war plans, including an enormous retaliatory invasion and limited pre-emptive attacks, and it holds annual military exercises with South Korean forces based on them.	多年来，五角大楼就此制定并完善了多套战争方案，这是它在面对世界各地潜在危机时的惯常做法，这些方案中有大规模的报复性入侵，也有局部的先发制人攻击，并每年基于这些方案与韩国进行联合军事演习。
On Wednesday, the Trump administration made a point of threatening a military response. Gen. Vincent K. Brooks, commander of the American forces that conducted a missile exercise with South Korea, said the United States had chosen "self-restraint" with the North. Nikki R. Haley, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said her country's "considerable military forces" were an option. "We will use them if we must, but we prefer not to have to go in that direction," she told the Security Council.	周三，特朗普政府对发出军事威胁一事做出解释。作为刚刚与韩国进行了一场联合导弹演习的美国部队的指挥官，文森特·K·布鲁克斯上将(Vincent K. Brooks)称美国在应对朝鲜的过程中选择了“克制”。美国驻联合国大使尼基·R·黑利(Nikki R. Haley)说，她的国家拥有“相当强大的军事力量”，可以作为一个选项。“万不得已之下我们是会使用这些力量的，但我们倾向于不往那个方向走，”她对联合国安理会表示。

But the military options are more grim than ever.	但是武力解决方案的严酷程度是空前的。
Even the most limited strike risks staggering casualties, because North Korea could retaliate with the thousands of artillery pieces it has positioned along its border with the South. Though the arsenal is of limited range and could be destroyed in days, the U.S. defense secretary, Jim Mattis, recently warned that if North Korea used it, it "would be probably the worst kind of fighting in most people's lifetimes."	甚至连最有限的打击都可能造成惊人的人员伤亡，因为朝鲜可能会用它布置在朝韩边境的成千上万门火炮进行报复。虽然那些火炮的射程有限，能在数日内被摧毁，但美国国防部长吉姆·马蒂斯(Jim Mattis)前不久警告称，如果朝鲜那样做，它“很可能会成为很多人一生中最残酷的战斗”。
Beyond that, there is no historical precedent for a military attack aimed at destroying a country's nuclear arsenal.	除此之外，历史上还没有出现过以摧毁一个国家核武库为目的的军事打击。
The last time the United States is known to have seriously considered attacking the North was in 1994, more than a decade before its first nuclear test. The defense secretary at the time, William J. Perry, asked the Pentagon to prepare plans for a "surgical strike" on a nuclear reactor, but he backed off after concluding it would set off warfare that could leave hundreds of thousands dead.	美国上一次认真考虑攻击朝鲜是在1994年，那是在朝鲜第一次核试验的十多年前。时任国防部长威廉·J·佩里(William J. Perry)让五角大楼准备对一个核反应堆进行“精准打击”的计划，但他后来放弃了，因为他认为，那会引发导致数十万人死亡的战事。
The stakes are even higher now. U.S. officials believe North Korea has built as many as a dozen nuclear bombs — perhaps many more — and can mount them on missiles capable of hitting much of Japan and South Korea.	现在的风险更大。美国官员认为，朝鲜制造了十几枚核弹——可能还有很多——那些核弹能安装在射程覆盖日本和韩国大部分地区的导弹上。
Earlier in his term, Trump tried to change the dynamics of the crisis by forcing the North and its main economic benefactor, China, to reconsider Washington's willingness to start a war. He spoke bluntly about the possibility of a "major, major conflict" on the Korean Peninsula, ordered warships into nearby waters and vowed to "solve"	特朗普在上任初期，试图通过迫使朝鲜和它的主要经济资助者中国重新考虑华盛顿发起战争的意愿来改变这场危机的力量对比。他直率地谈论朝鲜半岛发生“重大冲突”的可能性，命令军舰前往附近水域，发誓“解决”核武器问题。

the nuclear problem.
But Trump has backed off considerably in recent weeks, emphasizing efforts to pressure China to rein in Kim with sanctions instead.	但近几周，特朗普明显退让，转而强调迫使中国通过制裁来遏制金正恩的努力。
After all, a pre-emptive U.S. attack would very likely fail to wipe out North Korea's arsenal, because some of the North's facilities are deep in mountain caves or underground and many of its missiles are hidden on mobile launchers.	毕竟，美国先发制人的打击很可能无法彻底摧毁朝鲜的武器库，因为朝鲜的一些设施藏在山洞深处或者地下，很多导弹藏在移动的发射车上。
The North has warned that it would immediately retaliate by launching nuclear missiles. But predicting how Kim would actually respond to a limited attack is an exercise in strategic game theory, with many analysts arguing that he would refrain from immediately going nuclear or using his stockpile of chemical and biological weapons to avoid provoking a nuclear response from the United States.	朝鲜曾警告称，它会立刻报复，发射核导弹。但是，预测金正恩实际上会对有限打击做何反应只是战略博弈论上的判断，很多分析人士认为，为了避免美国用核武器反击，他不会立刻使用核武器或生化武器。
Opening Salvos	拉开序幕的炮火
North and South Korea, separated by the world's most heavily armed border, have had more than half a century to prepare for a resumption of the war that was suspended in 1953. While the North's weaponry is less advanced, the South suffers a distinct geographical disadvantage: Nearly half its population lives within 50 miles of the Demilitarized Zone, including the 10 million people in Seoul, its capital.	朝鲜和韩国被世界上有着最多武器的边境分开，半个多世纪以来，他们一直在为1953年中止的战争重新开启做准备。虽然朝鲜的武器相对落后，但韩国在地理上有明显的劣势：近半数的人口住在非军事区50英里（约合80公里）内的区域，包括拥有一千万人口的首都首尔。
"You have this massive agglomeration of everything that is important in South Korea — government, business and the huge population — and all of it is in this gigantic megalopolis that starts 30 miles from the border and ends 70 miles from the border," said Robert E. Kelly, a professor of political science at Pusan National University in South	"对韩国来说非常重要的一切都聚集在这里——政府、企业和大量的人口——都在这个庞大的都市里，它在离边境30英里至70英里（约合48至112公里）之间，"韩国釜山国立大学(Pusan National University)的政治学教授罗伯特·E·克利(Robert E. Kelly)说。"从国家安全的角度讲，这很糟糕。"

Korea. "In terms of national security, it's just nuts."
North Korea has positioned as many as 8,000 artillery cannons and rocket launchers on its side of the Demilitarized Zone, analysts say, an arsenal capable of raining up to 300,000 rounds on the South in the first hour of a counterattack. That means it can inflict tremendous damage without resorting to weapons of mass destruction.	分析人士称,朝鲜在非军事区自己这一边布置了 8000 个火炮和火箭发射车,在反击的第一个小时里, 这些武器能够对韩国发射 30 万枚炮弹与火箭弹。那意味着, 它不必借助大规模杀伤性武器就能造成巨大损害。
Kim could order a limited response, by hitting a base near the Demilitarized Zone, for example, and then pausing before doing more. But most analysts expect the North would escalate quickly if attacked, to inflict as much damage as possible in case the United States and South Korea were preparing an invasion.	金正恩可能会下令进行有限反击, 比如攻击军事区附近的一个基地, 然后暂停。但大多数分析人士预计, 朝鲜如果遭到攻击, 会立刻升级战争, 尽可能地造成更多伤害, 以防美国和韩国在准备入侵。
"North Korea knows it is the end game and will not go down without a fight," said Jeffrey W. Hornung of the RAND Corp., adding: "I think it is going to be a barrage."	"朝鲜知道这是终极对决, 不会束手就擒,"兰德公司(RAND Corp.)的杰弗里·W·贺南(Jeffrey W. Hornung)说。他还说, "我认为会是连续猛攻。"
The North has often threatened to turn Seoul into a "sea of fire," but the vast majority of its artillery has a range of 3 to 6 miles and cannot reach the city, analysts say.	分析人士表示, 朝鲜经常威胁要把首尔变成一片"火海", 但它的火炮的大部分射程是 3 至 6 英里 (约合 5 至 10 公里), 无法射中这座城市。
The North has deployed at least three systems, though, that can reach the Seoul metropolitan area: Koksan 170 millimeter guns and 240 millimeter multiple-rocket launchers capable of hitting the northern suburbs and parts of the city, and 300 millimeter multiple-rocket launchers, which may be able to hit targets beyond Seoul.	不过, 朝鲜至少部署了三套能够打到首尔都市区的系统: 谷山(Koksan)170 毫米火炮; 240 毫米多管火箭发射器, 它能击中首尔的北部郊区和部分城区; 以及 300 毫米多管火箭发射器, 它也许能击中首尔以南的目标。
A study published by the Nautilus Institute for Security and Sustainability in 2012 concluded that the initial hours of an artillery barrage by the North focused on military targets would result in nearly	诺蒂勒斯安全与可持续发展研究所(Nautilus Institute for Security and Sustainability)2012 年发表的一项研究得出的结论是: 朝鲜一旦发起炮击, 并集中攻击军事目标, 在最初几个小时内会导致近 3000 人丧生, 如果以平

3,000 fatalities, while one targeting civilians would kill nearly 30,000 people.	民为目标，则会夺走近3万人的性命。
The North could compound the damage by also firing ballistic missiles at Seoul. But Joseph S. Bermudez Jr., a North Korea expert at AllSource Analysis, a defense intelligence consultancy, said it was more likely to use missiles to target military installations, including U.S. bases in Japan.	朝鲜还可以通过向首尔发射弹道导弹来造成更大损失。但国防情报咨询机构 AllSource Analysis 的朝鲜问题专家小约瑟夫·S·贝穆德斯(Joseph S. Bermudez Jr)表示，朝鲜更有可能用导弹袭击军事设施，包括美国设在日本的基地。
The Defense	相关防御
U.S. and South Korean forces could be put on alert and bracing for retaliation before any attempt to knock out North Korea's nuclear program. But there is little they can do to defend Seoul against a barrage of artillery.	采取任何旨在摧毁朝鲜核项目的行动之前，美国和韩国的部队都会严阵以待，准备好应对朝鲜的报复。但他们在防止首尔受到炮击方面能做的并不多。
The South can intercept some ballistic missiles, with the recently installed Terminal High Altitude Area Defense system, as well as Patriot and Hawk systems. But it does not have anything like Israel's Iron Dome that can destroy incoming artillery shells and rockets, which fly at lower altitudes.	韩国可以用新近部署的“末段高空区域防御系统”(Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, 简称“萨德”[Thaad]), 以及“爱国者”(Patriot)和“鹰式”(Hawk)系统，拦截一些弹道导弹。但它没有任何类似以色列的“铁穹”(Iron Dome)那样的系统，后者可以摧毁来袭的飞行高度较低的炮弹和火箭弹。
Instead, South Korean and American troops would employ traditional "counterbattery" tactics — using radar and other techniques to determine the location of the North's guns when they are moved out of their bunkers and fired, and then using rockets and airstrikes to knock them out.	美国和韩国的部队会采取传统的“反炮兵战”策略——在朝鲜从地堡中运出武器并开火之际，用雷达以及其他技术手段判定火力点，随后用火箭弹和空袭将其捣毁。
David Maxwell, associate director for the Center for Security Studies at Georgetown University and a veteran of five tours in South Korea with the U.S. Army, said the Pentagon was constantly upgrading its counterbattery capabilities. But he added, "There is no silver bullet	乔治城大学(Georgetown University)安全研究中心副主任戴维·马克斯韦尔(David Maxwell), 是一名曾随美国陆军五度前往韩国的退伍军人，他说五角大楼正不断提高自己的“反炮兵战”能力。但他补充说，“并没有能在朝鲜人给首尔和韩国造成重大损失之前击败他们的简单有效的方法。”

solution that can defeat North Korean fire before they inflict significant damage on Seoul and South Korea.”
Civilian Preparation	针对民众的准备
All things considered, analysts say, it could take American and South Korean forces three to four days to overwhelm North Korea’s artillery.	分析人士认为，考虑到一切情况，美韩军队可能需要三四天时间来击败朝鲜炮兵。
How much damage North Korea inflicts in that time depends in part on South Korea’s ability to get people to safety quickly. As more of the North’s guns are destroyed and people take cover, the casualty rate would fall with each hour.	朝鲜届时能造成多大损害，在很大程度上取决于韩国迅速将人们转移到安全地点的能力。随着越来越多的朝鲜火炮遭到摧毁，以及越来越多的韩国人得到掩护，伤亡率每小时都会下降。
The Nautilus Institute study projects 60,000 fatalities in the first full day of a surprise artillery attack on military targets around Seoul, the majority in the first three hours. Casualty estimates for an attack on the civilian population are much higher, with some studies projecting more than 300,000 dead in the opening days.	诺蒂斯安全与可持续发展研究所的研究预测，朝鲜对首尔周边地区的军事目标发起突击炮击的 24 小时内，会有 6 万人死亡，主要发生在前三个小时之内。若朝鲜对平民发动攻击，预计伤亡还要高得多，一些研究估计最初几天内会有 30 多万人死亡。
The Seoul metropolitan government says there are nearly 3,300 bomb shelters in the city, enough to accommodate all 10 million of its residents. In Gyeonggi province, which surrounds the capital like a doughnut, the provincial government counts about 3,700 shelters. Many train stations in the region double as shelters, and most large buildings have underground parking garages where people fleeing artillery attacks can seek cover.	首尔市政府表示，该市有近 3300 个防空洞，足以容纳其全部 1000 万居民。京畿道省像甜甜圈一样环绕着首都，其省政府约有 3700 个庇护所。这一地区的许多火车站都可以兼做庇护所，大多数大型建筑物都有地下停车库，人员可以在那里寻求庇护，逃离炮火。
But critics say local authorities are unprepared for the chaos an artillery attack would cause and that the public is nonchalant about the prospect of war.	但批评人士认为，地方当局没有做好准备去应对炮火攻击将会带来的混乱，而公众则对于战争的前景显得漠不关心。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170706/north-korea-south-us-n	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170706/north-korea-south-us-n

uclear-war	uclear-war
U.S. Vows Tougher Action on North Korea After Missile Test	美国对朝发出直白警告：停战开战在一线之间
SEOUL, South Korea — The United States responded Wednesday to North Korea’s intercontinental ballistic missile test by conducting a rare joint missile exercise with South Korea and pushing to impose tougher United Nations sanctions against the North that would affect trading partners like China.	韩国首尔——周三，美国对朝鲜的洲际弹道导弹试验作出反应：美韩进行了罕见的联合导弹演习，并且努力推动对朝鲜施加更严格的制裁，这些制裁可能会影响到中国等贸易伙伴。
The U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, Nikki R. Haley, told an emergency meeting of the Security Council that North Korea’s test of an intercontinental ballistic missile Tuesday was a “clear escalation.”	美国驻联合国大使尼基·R·黑利(Nikki R. Haley)在安理会紧急会议上说，朝鲜周二试射洲际弹道导弹是事态的“明显升级”。
Haley said the United States was working on a Security Council draft resolution that “raises the international response” to North Korea’s repeated missile and nuclear tests. The sanctions to date, she said, “have been insufficient.”	黑利说，美国正在起草一项安理会决议，“提升”对朝鲜不断进行导弹和核试验的“国际反应”。她说，目前实施的制裁“还不够”。
She did not specify what the resolution would do or when it might be ready for a vote. But she alluded to punishments including a complete cutoff of North Korea’s access to international currency markets, severe restrictions on high-level North Korean officials and, in a reference to China, penalties for “any country that chooses to do business with this outlaw regime.”	她没有具体说明这个决议将会采取什么措施，以及什么时候表决。但她指出，惩罚包括完全限制朝鲜进入国际货币市场，并对朝鲜高级官员加以严格限制，而且要“对任何选择与这个非法制度做生意的国家进行惩罚”，指的就是中国。
On Tuesday, North Korea successfully tested its first intercontinental ballistic missile, the Hwasong-14. Washington and its allies confirmed that the weapon was an ICBM and condemned the test as a violation of U.N. resolutions and a dangerous escalation of tensions.	朝鲜本周二成功测试了其首枚洲际弹道导弹(ICBM)“火星-14型”。华盛顿及其盟友证实它属于ICBM，谴责它违反了联合国决议，是对紧张局势的危险升级。
The top U.S. general in South Korea said Wednesday that “self-restraint”	驻韩美军最高将领周三表示，美国和韩国之所以还没有和朝鲜开战，靠的全

was all that was keeping the United States and South Korea from going to war with the North.	是“自我克制”。
The unusually blunt warning, from Gen. Vincent K. Brooks, commander of U.S. troops based in Seoul, came as the South's defense minister indicated that the North's missile had the potential to reach Hawaii.	驻扎在首尔的美军司令文森特·K·布鲁克斯上将(Vincent K. Brooks)发出这个异常直白的警告同时, 韩国国防部长表示, 朝鲜的这种导弹有可能打到夏威夷。
"Self-restraint, which is a choice, is all that separates armistice and war," Brooks said, referring to the 1953 cease-fire that halted but never officially ended the Korean War. "As this alliance missile live-fire shows, we are able to change our choice when so ordered by our alliance national leaders.	"自我克制是一种选择, 停战还是开战就在这一线之间," 布鲁克斯说。他指的是朝鲜战争虽然自 1953 年停火, 但是从来没有正式结束过。"就像韩美联盟导弹实弹演习所表明的, 当我们联盟的国家领导人下了令, 我们能够改变选择。"
"It would be a grave mistake for anyone to believe anything to the contrary."	"任何不以为然的人, 都是在犯下大错。"
Although doubts remained about whether North Korea had cleared all the technical hurdles to make the Hwasong-14 a fully functional ICBM, the launch prompted the United States and South Korea to conduct a joint missile exercise off the east coast of the South on Wednesday. The drill involved firing an undisclosed number of ballistic missiles into the sea.	虽然朝鲜是否已经清除了所有技术障碍, 使“火星-14 型”成为一个功能齐全的 ICBM 尚存疑问, 但试射促使美韩周三在韩国东海岸进行了联合导弹演习。这次演习向海中发射了若干弹道导弹, 具体数量未作披露。
President Moon Jae-in of South Korea asked President Donald Trump on Tuesday night to endorse the joint exercise, arguing that the allies needed to respond to the North's provocation with "more than statements," Moon's office said.	韩国总统文在寅的办公室说, 他本周二晚上要求特朗普总统支持联合演习, 认为联盟在应对朝鲜的挑衅时, 需要的“不仅仅是声明”。
The South Korean military said the missiles, which had a range of about 185 miles, had been fired to test their ability to launch "a precision strike at the enemy leadership" in case of war. It did not say how far the	韩国军方表示, 这些导弹的射程大约在 185 英里 (约合 298 公里), 本次发射是为了测试它们“对敌方领导人进行精确打击”的能力。军方没有说这些导弹飞行了多远。 missiles had traveled.

Japan's chief Cabinet secretary, Yoshihide Suga, said Wednesday that Japan and the United States had agreed to take "specific actions to improve our defense systems and our ability to deter North Korea."	日本内阁官房长官菅义伟(Yoshihide Suga)周三表示，日本和美国已同意采取“具体行动，以改善我们的防务体系和遏制朝鲜的能力”。
Suga did not say what those actions were, but a spokesman for the Defense Ministry said the government was considering buying ballistic missile defense systems from the United States.	菅义伟虽然没有具体说是哪些行动，但是国防部发言人说，日本政府正在考虑从美国购买弹道导弹防御系统。
Meanwhile, Trump criticized China on Wednesday for failing to do more to pressure North Korea on its nuclear program, suggesting that he was re-evaluating the U.S. trade relationship with Beijing.	与此同时，特朗普本周三批评中国未能在核计划问题上对朝鲜施加更多压力，这表明他正在重新评估美国与北京的贸易关系。
The propaganda battle between the Koreas escalated Wednesday, even as Asian stock markets appeared to shrug off the latest tensions.	朝韩两国的宣传攻势周三出现升级，亚洲股市似乎未受最近紧张局势的影响。
The North's leader, Kim Jong Un, said the missile test was intended to "slap the American bastards in their face" and was a Fourth of July "gift package" for the "Yankees."	朝鲜领导人金正恩说，这次导弹试验是“打美国杂种的脸”，是独立日送给“美国佬”的“礼物”。
South Korea released a computer-animated video showing missile strikes at the heart of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital. The video featured a U.S. B1-B bomber and German-made Taurus air-to-land cruise missiles.	韩国发布了一个计算机动画视频，展示了导弹击中朝鲜首都平壤核心地带的场面。一架美国 B1-B 轰炸机，以及德国制造的“金牛座”(Taurus)空对地巡航导弹出现在了视频中。
The Taurus, which is meant to destroy targets underground, is often cited as a critical weapon South Korea would use in an operation to "decapitate" the North's government.	“金牛座”用于摧毁地下目标，它往往被视作韩国“斩首”朝鲜政府行动中会使用到的一个关键武器。
The video showed flags and government buildings in Pyongyang in flames.	这个视频显示平壤的一些旗帜和政府大楼在火焰中燃烧。
The North Korean missile launched Tuesday was fired at a steep angle,	按照朝鲜、韩国和日本官员的说法，周二朝鲜以大角度发射了那枚导弹，它

flying a horizontal distance of only 578 miles but reaching an altitude of more than 1,700 miles, according to North Korean, South Korean and Japanese officials.	飞行的水平距离只有 578 英里（约合 930 公里），但达到的高度超过 1700 英里（约合 2736 公里）。
Speaking to the South Korean National Assembly on Wednesday, the defense minister, Han Min-koo, said that the Hwasong-14, if launched on a standard trajectory, could have a range of 4,350 to 4,970 miles, enough to hit Alaska and possibly Hawaii.	韩国国防部长官韩民求(Han Min-Koo)周三对韩国国民议会说，如果以标准轨道发射，“火星-14 型”可以飞出 4350 英里（约合 7000 公里）到 4970 英里（约合 8000 公里），足以打到阿拉斯加，可能还可以打到夏威夷。
Analysts had said Tuesday that the missile appeared to be capable of striking Alaska. Hawaii is farther, about 4,780 miles from Kusong, the North Korean town where the missile was fired.	分析人士周二表示，这种导弹打到阿拉斯加似乎没问题。夏威夷更远一点，距离发射导弹的朝鲜龟城约 4780 英里（约合 7693 公里）。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170706/north-korea-war-us-icbm	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170706/north-korea-war-us-icbm
In Reporting on North Korea, Tech Helps Break Through Secrecy	这些科技手段帮时报记者报道神秘的朝鲜
How do New York Times journalists use technology in their jobs and in their personal lives? Choe Sang-Hun, The Times's Korea correspondent who is based in Seoul, discusses the tech he's using.	纽约时报记者在工作和个人生活中是如何利用科技产品的？时报驻首尔的朝鲜半岛记者崔相焄(Choe Sang-Hun)谈了谈他使用的技术。
As our Korea correspondent, what are some challenges you face reporting on North Korea, and how do you use tech to overcome them?	作为我们的朝韩记者，在报道朝鲜方面的挑战有哪些，你是如何利用技术克服的？
North Korea is a difficult topic to report for a simple reason: Journalists are not allowed to visit and do independent reporting there. Even when they get there with a tourist visa, they are not allowed to travel, visit places and interview people the way they do in democratic countries. So journalists try to figure out what is going on inside North Korea and interpret it the best they can from the outside.	朝鲜是个很难报道的题材，原因很简单：记者是不被允许进入该国做独立报道的。即便用旅游签证前往那里，也无法前往各地，像在民主国家那样探访某地、采访他人。因此记者要待在外面，努力去弄清朝鲜内部的状况，并尽可能好地作出解读。

And they monitor North Korea's official news media.	而且他们会监控朝鲜的官方媒体。
In fact, the North's state-run news outlets, especially the websites of its ruling Workers' Party newspaper Rodong Sinmun and its Korean Central News Agency, are the single most important sources of information. When North Korea has something to say to the outside world, it almost invariably speaks through K.C.N.A. The official news media is filled with propaganda. Still, if you read it over a period of time, you can develop insights into the country's ideology, policy goals and world views.	事实上，朝鲜的国有新闻机构，尤其是执政的劳动党的报纸《劳动新闻》和朝鲜中央通讯社的网站，是最重要的信息源。每当朝鲜要向世界宣布些什么的时候，基本上都是通过朝中社。官方新闻媒体充斥着政治宣传。然而，只要你读的足够多，就能练出眼力，从中看出朝鲜的意识形态、政策目标和世界观。
But there is a problem.	但是这里存在一个问题。
South Korea blocks its people, or anyone using the internet in the country, from accessing North Korean websites. If you try to open the K.C.N.A. website, a government warning pops up. It's the same warning the government issues to internet users when it restricts access to pornographic materials online.	韩国进行了网络封锁，禁止国民或任何在该国使用互联网的人登录朝鲜网站。打开朝中社网站，你会看到一个政府警告弹出来。这个警告和网民试图看在线色情内容时见到的警告是一样的。
I use the Tor browser to circumvent the government firewall. Web pages open slower on Tor than on Chrome and other regular browsers. Still, it's a godsend for journalists reporting on North Korea from the South, where Cold War-era fears still drive the local government to censor the internet.	我使用 Tor 浏览器来规避政府的防火墙。用 Tor 来打开网页比用 Chrome 和其他常规浏览器要慢。不过，对于在韩国报道朝鲜的记者来说，它真是一件恩物，在韩国，冷战时期的恐惧仍然驱使当地政府对互联网进行审查。
What's your favorite tech tool for doing your job?	你在工作中最喜欢的技术工具是什么？
I use Evernote to help organize my life as a journalist.	我使用 Evernote 来帮助自己组织作为记者的生活。
With a few clicks, you can clip a news article, commentary, analyst paper, PDF file, video link and other contents you find on the web and want to save for a later reference, and store them in a designated online "notebook." I find this "Web Clipper" function particularly useful when	只需点击几下，就可以剪切新闻文章、评论、分析文章、PDF 文件，视频链接，以及任何在网络上找到并希望保存下来供日后参考的内容，还可以将它们存储在指定的在线“笔记本”中。我发现这个“网络剪裁”功能在需要对某个主题进行几周乃至更长时间的研究时特别有用。比如说朝鲜的市场改革，我

researching a certain topic, say North Korea's market reforms, for weeks or longer; I create a "North Korea Economy" notebook and save related contents there for easy access.	创建了一个名叫“朝鲜经济”的笔记本，用来保存相关内容，方便我随时查阅。
What is Samsung's influence on South Korea, since the tech company's revenue accounts for a significant portion of the country's gross domestic product?	三星公司的收入占了韩国国内生产总值的很大一部分，这家科技公司对韩国的影响是什么？
Samsung is the biggest among the chaebol, a handful of family-run conglomerates that have dominated the South Korean economy for decades. The country's top 10 chaebol generate the equivalent of more than 80 percent of the country's G.D.P. Samsung's flagship company, Samsung Electronics, alone is responsible for 20 percent of the country's exports.	韩国有几个家族企业集团，几十年来一直占据着韩国经济的主导地位，称为“财阀”，三星是其中最大的一家。该国前十大财阀产出的GDP占全国的80%以上。仅仅三星的旗舰公司三星电子就占据全国出口量的20%。
One can't talk about how well or badly South Korea's economy is doing without talking about Samsung. Samsung has a pervasive presence in the country. It produces best-selling smartphones, TV sets and refrigerators. It runs insurance, shipbuilding and construction companies, to just name a few of its dozens of affiliates. If she likes, a South Korean can live in a "Republic of Samsung": She can get married and honeymoon in Samsung hotels; have her baby delivered in a Samsung hospital; take him to a Samsung amusement park; send him to a Samsung university; and stock her Samsung apartment with Samsung home appliances bought with a Samsung credit card.	谈及韩国经济的好坏时，三星是绝对无法回避的。三星在全国范围内无所不在。它生产畅销的智能手机、电视机和冰箱。它经营保险业，造船业和建筑公司，这还仅仅是它数十种附属机构中的几个。如果愿意，一个韩国人可以生活在“三星共和国”里：她可以在三星酒店里结婚和度蜜月；在三星医院里生孩子；带孩子去三星游乐园；送他进三星大学；并且用三星信用卡为自己的三星公寓添置三星家电。
But the name Samsung also has a darker side among Koreans. Six of the 10 top chaebol leaders, including Samsung's chairman, Lee Kun-hee, have been convicted of white-collar crimes, including bribery, although	但是三星这个名字在韩国人的心目中也有黑暗的一面。十大财阀领导人之中有六人被判定犯有贿赂等白领罪行，包括三星董事长李健熙(Lee Kun-hee)，尽管他们从未入狱服刑。虽然三星象征着财富和科技智慧，但是许多韩国人

they have never spent much time in jail. If Samsung symbolizes wealth and technological savvy, many Koreans also accuse the corporate behemoth of corruption and excessive power.	也指责这家企业巨大的腐败和过度的权力。
Mr. Lee's son, Samsung's vice chairman, Lee Jae-yong, who has been running the conglomerate while his father remains bedridden after a stroke, is now under arrest and on trial on charges of bribing Park Geun-hye, the impeached and ousted former president of South Korea.	李健熙的儿子，三星副董事长李在镕(Lee Jae-yong)在父亲中风卧床期间一直经营这家企业，因涉嫌贿赂遭弹劾及罢黜的韩国总统朴槿惠，他目前已被捕受审。
How does Samsung affect the way you live and work?	三星是如何影响了你的生活和工作方式?
I use only three Samsung products in my office — a Samsung TV set, a Samsung fax/printer and the Samsung monitor for my Dell desktop — though many of the tech products around me at home and in my office may contain Samsung components, like computer chips.	我在办公室只使用三种三星产品——一台三星电视机，一台三星传真/打印机，以及跟我的戴尔(Dell)台式主机搭配的三星显示器——不过我家里和办公室周围的很多科技产品可能含有三星元件，比如计算机芯片。
I used to use a Samsung Galaxy Note smartphone until I switched to an iPhone three years ago. I like my iPhone, but I have a major complaint about it: It doesn't allow you to record your phone conversations. What if a spokesman calls you back and dictates a statement while you are driving a car or standing in a crowded subway car? With my old Samsung phone, I could just tap the screen a couple times to record the conversation. You can't do that with an iPhone.	我用过一款三星盖乐世智能手机(Samsung Galaxy Note)，三年前换成了iPhone。我喜欢iPhone，但它有个大问题：它不允许你进行电话录音。如果你正在开车或站在拥挤的地铁车厢中，这时一位发言人给你回电话，口述一项声明，你怎么办？在我原来的三星手机上，我只用对着屏幕敲几下，就能把谈话录下来。但iPhone就不行。
Recording phone conversations is legal in South Korea, and journalists and others routinely do it. Samsung and others market smartphones with a built-in phone-recording function. Apple doesn't. I am thinking seriously of switching back to an Android phone when I retire my iPhone.	在韩国，电话录音是合法的，记者和其他人经常这样做。三星等品牌也在推广带有内置电话录音功能的智能手机。但苹果不行。我在认真考虑不用这部iPhone之后，换回安卓系统的手机。
Beyond your job, what tech product are you obsessed with in your	在工作之外，你在日常生活中喜欢用哪些科技产品?

daily life?
I'm not savvy with tech products. I have my desktop, my company-issued MacBook Air and my iPhone. That's about all the tech hardware I use. Online, though, I use the Naver and Daum maps all the time when I travel and go to an appointment. They are like Google maps, but more convenient to use in South Korea. Naver and Daum are the country's two biggest web portals and search engines. Google holds only a minor share in the search engine market of South Korea.	我对科技产品不是很精通。我有一部台式电脑，公司还给我配了 MacBook Air 和 iPhone。基本上，我用的技术硬件就这些。不过我旅行或赴约时，会使用 Naver 和 Daum 的地图。它们类似于谷歌地图，但在韩国用起来更方便。Naver 和 Daum 是韩国最大的两个门户网站和搜索引擎。谷歌在韩国的搜索引擎市场上只占较小的份额。
Kakao Talk, the country's most widely used messenger app, is a must-have for anyone who wants to stay connected in South Korea. Government spokesmen send news releases and media notices through Kakao Talk. Reporters put in queries through Kakao Talk.	Kakao Talk 是韩国使用最广泛的即时通讯应用程序。对任何一个想在韩国保持联系的人来说，它都是必备软件。政府发言人通过 Kakao Talk 发布新闻和媒体通知。记者们通过 Kakao Talk 提出询问。
I used to use my Kindle a lot, but not anymore. I have switched back to paper books. But Kindle is still very convenient when I am traveling and want to keep my bag light.	过去我经常使用 Kindle，现在不用了。我又开始看纸质书。不过，我旅行时想让背包轻一点的话，用 Kindle 依然很方便。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170707/in-reporting-on-north-korea-tech-helps-break-through-secrecy	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170707/in-reporting-on-north-korea-tech-helps-break-through-secrecy
Tiny Satellites From Silicon Valley May Help Track North Korea Missiles	美国加紧研发超小卫星监视朝鲜导弹
For years before North Korea fired its first intercontinental ballistic missile this week, the Pentagon and intelligence experts had sounded a warning: Not only was the North making faster progress, spy satellite coverage was so spotty that the United States might not see a missile being prepared for launch.	朝鲜本周首次发射洲际弹道导弹。数年前，五角大楼和情报专家就曾发出警告：朝鲜在取得更快速的进步，间谍卫星覆盖又不稳定，美国可能无法探测到一枚准备发射的导弹。
That triggered an urgent but quiet search for ways to improve the United States' early-warning ability — and the capability to strike	这引发了一场紧急但秘密的搜寻行动，以寻找能提高美国早期预警能力的方法，以及当导弹还在发射台上时对它们实施打击的能力。最让人感兴趣的解

missiles while they are on the launchpad. The most intriguing solutions have come from Silicon Valley, where the Obama administration began investing in tiny, inexpensive civilian satellites developed to count cars in Target parking lots and monitor the growth of crops.	决方案来自硅谷，奥巴马政府当年就开始在那里投资廉价的微型民用卫星，它们原本被用来统计塔吉特(Target)停车场的车辆和监控作物生长。
Some in the Pentagon accustomed to relying on highly classified, multibillion-dollar satellites, which take years to develop, resisted the move. But as North Korea's missile program progressed, U.S. officials laid out an ambitious schedule for the first of the small satellites to go up at the end of this year or the beginning of next.	五角大楼的一些人对这一举措表示反对，他们习惯依赖造价数十亿美元、高度机密的卫星，它们需要数年时间才能研发出来。然而，随着朝鲜的导弹项目取得进步，美国官员制定了颇为紧迫的时间表，要在今年末或明年初发射第一批小型卫星。
Launched in clusters, some staying in orbit just a year or two, the satellites would provide the coverage necessary to execute a new military contingency plan called "Kill Chain." It is the first step in a strategy to use satellite imagery to identify North Korean launch sites, nuclear facilities and manufacturing capability and destroy them pre-emptively if a conflict seems imminent.	这些卫星是成批发射，有些只在轨道上运行一两年，它们足以覆盖相关范围，以供执行名为“杀伤链”(Kill Chain)的新军事应急计划。这是该项战略的第一步，它利用卫星图像辨认朝鲜的发射点、核设施，了解其制造能力，并在冲突迫近时先发制人地摧毁它们。
The best chance of countering a strike comes when missiles are still on the ground, awaiting launch or shortly after their engines fire. Even a few extra minutes of warning might save the lives of tens of thousands of Americans — and millions of South Koreans and Japanese who already live within range of the North's missiles.	抵御一场袭击的最好时机，是导弹仍在地面上等待发射，或其发动机刚启动没多久的时候。哪怕是提前几分钟发出警告，也可能让数以万计的美国人——以及数以百万计已身处朝鲜导弹射程之内的韩国人和日本人——免于丧命。
"Kim Jong Un is racing — literally racing — to deploy a missile capability," Robert Cardillo, director of the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency, which coordinates satellite-based mapping for the government, said in an interview days before North Korea's latest launch. "His acceleration has caused us to accelerate."	"金正恩正疾速启用导弹能力——真正意义上的疾速，"国家地理空间情报局(National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency, 简称NGA)局长罗伯特·卡迪罗(Robert Cardillo)在朝鲜最近一次发射导弹几天前接受采访时说。"由于他加速了，我们也得加速。"NGA是为政府协调卫星测绘工作的机构。

The timeline for getting the satellites in orbit, which defense officials have never discussed publicly, reflects the urgency of the problem. The missile launch Tuesday by North Korea was initiated from a new site, a mobile launcher at the Pang Hyon Aircraft Factory. Capt. Jeff Davis, a Pentagon spokesman, said the missile "is not one we have seen before" but noted that North Korea had increasingly conducted launches from new locales.	国防官员从未公开讨论过的让这些卫星进入轨道的时间表, 反应出问题的紧迫性。朝鲜周二的试射是在一个新地点进行的, 导弹发射自芳岷飞机制造厂(Pang Hyon Aircraft Factory)内的一个移动式发射器。五角大楼发言人杰夫·戴维斯上校(Capt. Jeff Davis)说这枚导弹“是我们以前没见过的”, 但他指出朝鲜正越来越多地在新地点发射导弹。
That mobility is the problem that the new satellites, with wide coverage using radar sensors that work at night and during storms, are designed to address. Less than one-third of North Korea is under spy satellite coverage at a given moment.	这种机动性正是新卫星旨在应对的问题。相关卫星覆盖范围广, 使用了可在夜间和风暴中工作的雷达传感器。目前, 在某一给定时刻, 只有不到三分之一的朝鲜领土处于间谍卫星的覆盖范围内。
U.S. intelligence analysts detected indications of an impending launch in the days before the missile firing, according to a spokesman for the Defense Intelligence Agency, Cmdr. William Marks. But even after the launch, the Pentagon misjudged what it was looking at. Minutes after its 37-minute flight ended, the U.S. Pacific Command described the missile as an intermediate-range model, often seen.	美国国防情报局(Defense Intelligence Agency)发言人威廉·马克斯中校(Cmdr. William Marks)称, 朝鲜发射这枚导弹若干天前, 美国情报分析师发现了即将发射的迹象。但即便是在发射后, 五角大楼还曾误判过自己所看到的的东西。导弹历时 37 分钟的飞行结束后不久, 美国太平洋司令部(U.S. Pacific Command)将其描绘为一枚颇为常见的中程导弹。
Hours later, Secretary of State Rex Tillerson issued a very different conclusion: that the North had tested its first intercontinental ballistic missile, able to reach Alaska.	几小时后, 国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex W. Tillerson)发布了截然不同的结论: 朝鲜测试了自己的首枚洲际弹道导弹, 其射程可达阿拉斯加。
A week before, the head of the Missile Defense Agency, Vice Adm. James D. Syring, had warned Congress that such a moment was coming.	一周前, 五角大楼导弹防御局(Missile Defense Agency)局长、海军中将詹姆斯·D·叙林(James D. Syring)曾警告国会, 这样一个时刻即将到来。
"It is incumbent upon us to assume that North Korea today can range the U.S. with an ICBM carrying a nuclear warhead," he said in testimony.	"我们有必要认清, 今天的朝鲜可以把美国置于搭载核弹头的洲际弹道导弹射程之内," 他在听证会上表示。"我没法说我们对这种威胁早有准备。"

"I would not say we are comfortably ahead of the threat."
The commercial radar push is one of several new ways the administration is seeking to counter the North Korean threat. President Donald Trump inherited a secret effort to sabotage the North's missile launches. But its success has been spotty at best, especially of late.	加紧利用民用雷达是特朗普用以抵御朝鲜威胁的几种新办法之一。唐纳德·特朗普总统此前接手了一个旨在破坏朝鲜导弹发射的秘密项目。但该项目充其量只是取得了零星成功，近期尤其如此。
The new satellite initiative builds on technology created more for Wall Street than the Pentagon. From an office in an old Defense Department building within view of the Google campus in California, Raj Shah, director of the Defense Innovation Unit Experimental, or DIUx, is already investing in companies that exploit tiny civilian radar satellites in hopes that the Pentagon can use them by the end of the year, or early in 2018.	这个新的卫星计划所基于的技术，当初更多是为华尔街而非五角大楼打造的。国防创新实验小组(Defense Innovation Unit Experimental, 简称DIUx)组长拉吉夫·沙阿(Rajiv Shah)，已经开始把资金投向一些研制微型民用雷达卫星的公司，以期五角大楼可以在今年底或2018年初用上那些卫星。沙阿的办公室位于国防部的一栋老楼里，从那里可以看到谷歌在加利福尼亚的园区。
"It's a very challenging target," said Shah, a former F-16 pilot in Iraq whose extensive experience in Silicon Valley appealed to Defense Secretary Ash Carter, who set up the unit during Obama's second term and recruited Shah.	"这是一个非常有挑战性的目标，"曾在伊拉克做过F-16飞行员，以其在硅谷的丰富经验受到国防部长阿什顿·卡特(Ashton Carter)青睐的沙阿说。卡特在奥巴马的第二个任期内组建了DIUx，并招募了沙阿。
"The key is using technologies that are already available and making the modifications we need for a specific military purpose," Shah said.	"关键在于利用已有的技术，并针对我们的特定军事用途做出改进，"沙阿说。
His unit made an investment to jump-start the development efforts of Capella Space, a Silicon Valley startup named after a bright star. It plans to loft its first radar satellite late this year. The company says its radar fleet, if successfully deployed, will be able to monitor important targets hourly.	他领导的小组对硅谷初创企业五车二空间(Capella Space)——以一颗亮星的名字命名——进行了投资，以便启动其研发工作。五车二空间计划于今年底发射自己的首颗雷达卫星。该公司表示，其雷达卫星编队如果部署成功，将对重要目标进行每小时一次的监控。
"The entire spacecraft is the size of a backpack," said Payam Banazadeh, a founder of the company. Born in Iran, he learned satellite design at the University of Texas and NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory,	"整个航天器只有一个背包那么大，"该公司创始人帕亚姆·巴纳扎德(Payam Banazadeh)说。出生于伊朗的他，曾在德克萨斯大学(University of Texas)以及美国航空航天局(NASA)的喷气推进实验室(Jet Propulsion Laboratory)

specializing in miniaturization.	学习卫星设计，主攻小型化。
Once in orbit, the payload, he added, would unfurl its antenna and solar panels.	他还表示，装载物一旦进入轨道，就会展开天线和太阳能板。
"Everything is getting smaller," Banazadeh said of the craft's parts. "Even the next version of the satellite is getting smaller."	"每样东西都变得更小了，"巴纳扎德谈及航天器的部件时说。"而且下一个版本的卫星会更小。"
Seeing the early fruits of the Pentagon experiment, the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency is opening its doors to companies that can supply it with satellite radar data in addition to traditional images. Its outpost, set up this year, is in San Jose, the heart of Silicon Valley.	看到五角大楼开展的试验所取得的初步成果，NGA 也开始向除了可以为它提供传统图像，还能提供卫星雷达数据的公司敞开大门。今年它在硅谷的心脏地带圣何塞设了一个办公室。
Federal officials rarely, if ever, acknowledge the poor reconnaissance coverage of the North from traditional military satellites. But William J. Perry, the former secretary of defense, recently said in Washington that if the North rolled out a missile to hit the United States or its allies, "there's a good chance we'd never see it."	传统军事卫星对朝鲜的覆盖范围非常有限，联邦官员即使承认过这一点，次数也少得可怜。但前国防部长威廉·J·佩里(William J. Perry)最近在华盛顿表示，如果朝鲜亮出一枚用以攻击美国或其盟友的导弹，“它极有可能是我们以前从未见过的。”
The new generation of tiny, cheap satellites has made that outcome more achievable. Capella plans to loft its first radar satellite late this year and build as many as 36 orbital radars, within the range the congressional report recommended.	新一代廉价微型卫星，让朝鲜所取得的进展更容易被监测到。五车二空间计划在今年底发射自己的第一颗雷达卫星，并会建造多达 36 个轨道雷达——在国会报告建议的范围内。
In addition to Capella, private companies rushing to make and exploit new generations of small radar satellites include Ursa Space Systems in Ithaca, New York; UrtheCast in Vancouver, Canada; and Iceye in Espoo, Finland. Like many new companies seeking to make small satellites, most have strong ties to Silicon Valley.	除了五车二空间，还有一些私人公司争相研制新一代小型雷达卫星，其中包括纽约州伊萨卡的 Ursa Space Systems、加拿大温哥华的 UrtheCast，以及芬兰埃斯波的 Iceye。像很多致力于制造小型卫星的新公司一样，它们大多和硅谷有着密切的关联。
The National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency's initiative, known as the Commercial Geoint Activity, builds on programs in which the agency	NGA 的计划名为“民用地理空间情报行动”(Commercial Geoint Activity)，是以一些项目为基础的：该机构从加拿大、意大利和德国购买了雷达卫星数

bought radar-satellite data from Canada, Italy and Germany as part of its evaluation of the new civilian technologies.	据，作为它对这类新型民用技术的评估工作的组成部分。
Cardillo said the new partnerships could help the United States close the gaps in tracking Kim's rapidly expanding arsenal of threatening missiles.	卡迪罗说，这种新的伙伴关系可以帮助美国在追踪金正恩手上越来越多的极具威胁性的导弹方面尽快赶上来。
"If any of these companies, new or old, can help fill those gaps," he said, "then I'm interested."	"如果这些公司中的任何一家，不论是新公司还是老公司，可以帮助弥合这种差距，"他说，"我会很感兴趣。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170707/pentagon-spy-satellites-north-korea-missiles	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170707/pentagon-spy-satellites-north-korea-missiles
South Korea Seeks Reunions for Families Split by Korean War	文在寅发出和解信号，呼吁朝韩离散家庭团聚
SEOUL, South Korea — President Moon Jae-in of South Korea called on Thursday for family reunions for older Koreans separated by war six decades ago in a conciliatory move after the North's first test of an intercontinental ballistic missile.	韩国首尔——韩国总统文在寅周四呼吁让 60 年前因战火分离的老人与家属团聚，这是在朝鲜首次试射洲际弹道导弹之后，他采取的一个和解姿态。
Moon, a dogged advocate of dialogue with the North, made the proposal during an address in Germany, where he was scheduled to attend a Group of 20 summit meeting this week. In his first speech since North Korea's missile test Tuesday, Moon reaffirmed his policy of seeking to engage the North through negotiations even as his government vowed to join Washington in tightening sanctions against the North after its ICBM test.	文在寅一直坚定主张与朝鲜对话，他在德国的一个演讲中提出了这个建议，本周他在那里参加 G20 峰会。这是自周二朝鲜进行导弹试射以来文在寅的首次演讲，虽然韩国政府在朝鲜洲际导弹测试之后，誓言要和华盛顿一起对其进行制裁，他还是重申了通过谈判与朝鲜进行接触的政策。
"What the North chose to do this time was reckless," Moon said in a speech delivered at the Koerber Foundation, a nonprofit research group based in Berlin. "It asked for punishment from the international community."	"朝鲜这次的做法很鲁莽，"文在寅在柏林非营利研究组织科尔伯基金会 (Koerber Foundation) 的演讲中说。"它是在向国际社会自找惩罚。"

He added, "If the North doesn't stop its nuclear pursuit, there is no other option but to enforce even stronger sanctions and pressure."	他还说：“如果朝鲜不停止核计划，大家除了加大制裁和压力外就别无选择了。”
But Moon also reiterated that he was willing to meet Kim Jong Un, the North Korean leader, "at any time and any place" if the circumstances were right and if he saw an opportunity to reverse the military standoff on the Korean Peninsula.	但是，文在寅也重申，如果情况合适，他愿意在朝鲜领导人金正恩认为可以扭转朝鲜半岛军事对峙的时候，于“任何时间、任何地点”与之会晤。
He said North Korea should return to the negotiating table to discuss a "complete, verifiable and irreversible denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula." If the North chooses that path, he said, great benefits wait for it: security guarantees like a peace treaty for Kim's regime, as well as joint economic projects and other assistance.	他说，朝鲜应该回到谈判桌上来，讨论“完全的、可核查的、不可逆转的朝鲜半岛无核化进程”。他表示，如果朝鲜选择这条路，就会获得巨大的利益：首先是安全保障，比如为金家政权签订一个和平条约，然后还有联合经济项目和其他援助。
Moon said the need for dialogue with the North was stronger than ever, given a dangerous escalation of tensions on the peninsula in recent weeks.	文在寅说，鉴于最近几周来半岛紧张局势升级，与朝鲜进行对话的需要变得更加迫切。
As one of the first steps toward easing tensions, Moon said the two Koreas should start Red Cross talks to arrange temporary reunions of relatives in the North and South who have not seen each other since the 1950-53 Korean War. Moon also invited North Korea to send a delegation to the 2018 Winter Olympics, to be held in the South Korean town of Pyeongchang.	作为缓和紧张局势的第一步，文在寅说，两国应该开始进行红十字会谈，安排1950年至1953年的朝鲜战争之后没有见过面的朝韩家属进行临时团聚。文在寅还邀请朝鲜派团参加2018年在韩国平昌举行的冬季奥运会。
There was no immediate response from North Korea.	朝鲜没有立即做出回应。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170707/south-korea-reunions	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170707/south-korea-reunions
North Korea and Its Weapons Programs Are Now a Fact of Life	现实很无情：朝鲜已是核武国家
North Korea's once-unthinkable nuclear and missile capabilities are, as long as the country wants, here to stay.	只要朝鲜愿意，它那一度不可想象的核能力和导弹能力便会存在下去。

With each North Korean nuclear or missile test, U.S. officials go through a ritual that appears increasingly at odds with reality.	朝鲜人每开展一次核试验或导弹试验, 美国官员就要走一遍看上去愈发与现实相悖的过场。
They declare that they will not tolerate the rogue programs they have demonstrated little ability to slow, much less remove. They organize more of the talks or sanctions that have failed to alter North Korea's strategic calculus. And they issue threats that, if carried out, would either change little or risk an all-out war.	他们宣称不会容忍流氓项目——但却甚少展示遏制那些项目, 更别提将其摧毁的能力。他们组织开展更多对话或实施更多制裁——但相关对话或制裁却改变不了朝鲜的战略意图。他们语出威胁——但如果将威胁付诸行动, 要么起不了什么作用, 要么有引发全面战争的风险。
But the best that Washington can hope for, analysts and former officials increasingly say, may be to freeze the program in place. Even this would most likely come at a steep cost, a grim recognition both that the threat is severe and that U.S. leverage is limited.	不过分析人士和前官员越来越多地表示, 华盛顿所能期望的最好情形, 或许是冻结现有项目。即便是这样也极有可能需要付出巨大代价, 需要沮丧地承认威胁之严峻、美国手中筹码之有限。
"The window for denuclearization closed a long time ago," Jeffrey Lewis, director of the East Asia Nonproliferation Program at the Middlebury Institute of International Studies, wrote in a column this week.	"无核化的窗口很久以前就关闭了," 蒙特雷国际研究院(Monterey Institute of International Studies)东亚核不扩散项目(East Asia Nonproliferation Program)主任杰弗里·刘易斯(Jeffrey Lewis)本周在一篇专栏中写道。
The threat can be managed, he continued, only by "accepting the unacceptable" as a hard fact of life.	他还表示, 只有"把无法接受的事情"当成无情的现实来"接受", 才能管控威胁。
North Korea has achieved this through more than just missiles and bombs. By exploiting the dynamics of nuclear warfare and diplomacy, this otherwise weak country, whose economy is estimated to be smaller than that of Birmingham, Alabama, can dictate terms to the world's most powerful country.	朝鲜做到这一点所借助的不仅仅是导弹和炸弹。通过善加利用核战争和核外交态势, 这个本来颇为孱弱、经济规模据估计比阿拉巴马州伯明翰还小的国家, 竟然可以和世界上最强大的国家谈条件。
— North Korea's Asymmetrical Advantage	——朝鲜的不对称优势
The United States now faces the hostile end of a nuclear deterrence model it was the first to develop.	当初率先制定实施核威慑战略的美国, 如今面对的是这一战略不利于自己的一面。

In the early years of the Cold War, with American-allied West Germany facing down an overwhelming Soviet threat, the United States promised any attack would prompt nuclear retaliation.	冷战初期，美国在其盟友西德极力抵御来自苏联的巨大威胁之际誓言称，会以核报复回应任何攻击。
It worked, deterring the Soviets even from an invasion of West Berlin that it could have completed in a matter of hours.	这种办法起了作用，苏联人受到震慑，甚至没敢入侵西柏林，而它本来只用几个小时就可以完成这一行动。
North Korea may have achieved a similarly effective deterrent. Though it would quickly lose any war, it could impose unacceptable costs on South Korea, Japan and potentially the United States.	朝鲜或许已经获得了同样有效的震慑力。尽管会快速输掉任何战争，但它可以让韩国、日本，或许还有美国，付出无法承受的代价。
North Korea has developed certain technologies that, taken together, demonstrate something analysts call "asymmetric retaliation," with which it can guarantee a nuclear response to any attack.	如果把朝鲜已经研制出来的某些技术放在一起，便能看出分析人士口中的那种进行“不对称报复”的能力，朝鲜凭此可以确保对任何攻击做出核回应。
Its medium-range missiles can hold South Korea and Japan, where tens of thousands of U.S. troops are based, at risk. Special canisters allow the missiles to remain pre-fueled, shortening launch time. Track-driven mobile launchers can hide in remote locations, forcing U.S. war planners to doubt that strikes could eliminate all such missiles before they are launched.	其中程导弹可将驻扎着数万美军的韩国和日本置于危险境地。特殊的筒罐让这些导弹可以预装燃料，从而缩短发射时间。轨道式可移动发射器可以隐蔽在偏远之处，让美国战争规划者不得不怀疑，相关袭击能否在这类导弹发射前将其全部摧毁。
A missile submarine, while believed to be the only such vehicle in North Korea's modest navy, increases the country's odds of landing at least one retaliatory strike.	一艘导弹潜艇让朝鲜至少发起一次报复性袭击的可能性有所增大——尽管这据信是朝鲜不起眼的海军仅有的此类工具。
As a result, any conflict, even limited, would require the United States to be willing to sacrifice thousands of American lives and far more South Korean lives. Both countries are prosperous democracies — normally strengths that, up against the more risk-willing North Korea, become weaknesses.	结果，制造任何冲突，哪怕是有限的冲突，都要以美国愿意牺牲数以千计的美国人以及远多于此的韩国人的性命为前提。美韩都是繁荣的民主国家，面对更乐于冒险的朝鲜，通常意义上的优势变成了劣势。

— The Terrible Logic of First Strikes	——关于先发制人的可怖逻辑
There is another force working in North Korea's favor, known as "first-strike instability," in which both sides must fear that any exchange, however small, will escalate to nuclear launches.	还有一种因素对朝鲜有利，即所谓的“由先发制人引发的不稳定”——对峙双方肯定都担心，任何交火，不论规模多小，都会升级为核打击。
In the Cold War, this kept the United States and the Soviet Union locked in a comparable balance of power. On the Korean Peninsula, it does something otherwise impossible: It puts North Korea on equal footing with the United States.	冷战期间，这让实力相当的美国和苏联处于均势。但在朝鲜半岛，这催生了某种原本不可能出现的局面：朝鲜得以和美国平起平坐。
North Korea's strategy makes clear that even a limited strike, either to eliminate its weapons or its leadership, would prompt a full retaliation.	透过朝鲜的战略可以清楚地看到，哪怕是旨在摧毁其核武器或领导层的有限袭击，也会迅速招致全力报复。
Because North Korea sees the weapons as its only hope for survival, losing them risks provoking the country's fears of a full invasion or an effort to topple the government. And because Pyongyang believes it can survive such a threat only by retaliating, its incentive is to do so before it is too late.	朝鲜把这些武器视为生存下去的唯一希望，因此如果失去它们，朝鲜便会置身于对本国遭到全面入侵或本国政府被推翻的恐惧之中。另外，平壤坚信进行报复是自己不被这种威胁吞噬的唯一办法，因此它有充分理由赶在为时已晚之前采取行动。
The United States' overwhelming strength is, paradoxically, also a weakness. North Korean leaders must consider even a limited strike or accidental escalation as the start of a war they could lose within hours, virtually forcing them to immediately execute their full war plan.	矛盾的是，美国的压倒性优势同时也是劣势。即便是有限的打击或事态的意外升级，也肯定会被朝鲜领导人视为一场他们可能用不了几个小时就会输掉的战争的开端，从而促使他们立即执行自己的全面战争计划。
This constrains U.S. options. Even a single strike — for example, to destroy a missile or merely to punish the government — risks provoking a full war.	这就限制了美国的选项。哪怕是仅仅一次旨在捣毁一枚导弹或惩罚朝鲜政府的袭击，也有可能挑起一场全面战争。
This has held for decades. In 1969, when North Korea shot down a U.S. Navy plane, killing 31, the Nixon administration chose not to respond, fearing that North Korea would misperceive any attack as the start of a	几十年来一向如此。1969年，当朝鲜击落美国海军的一架飞机，导致31人丧生的时候，尼克松政府选择不做回应，因为担心朝鲜会错误地把任何袭击视为开战。随着利害关系日益增大，这种逻辑一直发挥着作用。

war. This logic has held as the stakes have grown.
Still, U.S. policy toward North Korea could always shift, particularly under President Donald Trump, who considers unpredictability an asset. While it is difficult to foresee a U.S. option that overcomes these risks, that does not prevent Washington from trying.	不过，美国的对朝政策可以不断变化，尤其是在把不可预测性视为资产的唐纳德·特朗普总统治下。虽然难以想见美国将拥有能规避前述风险的选项，但这并不妨碍华盛顿进行尝试。
— An Underlying Political Problem	——一个根本性的政治问题
In other such standoffs, military risks can be reduced by addressing the underlying political causes. Iran, for instance, was persuaded to surrender components of its nuclear program in exchange for integration into the global economy, which it saw as a more desirable way to secure its future.	在其他此类僵局中，可以通过解决政治上的根本问题来降低军事风险。例如，伊朗经劝说同意放弃部分核计划，以换取融入全球经济的机会，它认为后者可以为自己的未来提供更好的保障。
North Korea’s political problems may be beyond amelioration.	而朝鲜的政治问题或许难以得到改善。
“It is the regime’s awareness of a pending legitimacy crisis, not a fear of attack from without, which makes it behave ever more provocatively on the world stage,” B.R. Myers, a North Korea scholar at Dongseo University in South Korea, wrote in a 2010 book on North Korean ideology.	“它之所以在国际舞台上以愈发挑衅的姿态行事，是因为意识到即将迎来合法性危机，而非害怕来自外部的攻击，”韩国东西大学(Dongseo University)的朝鲜问题学者、曾在2010年以朝鲜的意识形态为题写过一本书的B·R·迈尔斯(B.R. Myers)说。
The country’s greatest threat is not American power but South Korean prosperity. Pyongyang’s official ideology of race-based nationalism requires describing the Korean people as one nation, temporarily divided.	这个国家面临的最大威胁不是美国的权力而是韩国的繁荣。以基于种族的民族主义为要旨的朝鲜官方意识形态，需要把朝鲜半岛上的人描绘为一个暂时分裂的民族。
But South Korea’s stronger economy and freer society leave the Pyongyang government with little reason to exist. Ending hostilities would risk a German-style reunification that would subsume the North under South Korean rule.	但韩国的经济更强大、社会更自由，让平壤政府几乎没有什么存在的理由。结束敌对状态要冒着引发德国式统一的风险——那会把朝鲜置于韩国的统治之下。

Only a perpetual state of near-war can stave off reunification while justifying the North Korean state. And only nuclear-armed missiles can make that standoff survivable.	只有永久的战争在即状态既可以避免统一，又可以为朝鲜政权的存在提供理由。而且只有搭载核弹头的导弹可以让这种僵局持续下去。
No amount of U.S. power or will could impose a threat that North Korea will see as costlier than destruction nor offer an incentive more valuable than survival.	在朝鲜看来，不论美国拿出多少力量或意愿，都不会构成比毁灭更大的威胁，也无法提供比生存更强的动力。
— A Symbolic North Korean Victory	——朝鲜的一场象征性胜利
William J. Perry, a former secretary of defense, said in January, “It is my strongly held view that we don’t have it in our power today to negotiate an end to the nuclear weapons program in North Korea.”	前国防部长威廉·J·佩里(William J. Perry)于今年1月表示，“我强烈认为，我们现在没有能力通过谈判终结朝鲜的核武器项目。”
Rather, he said, the United States should aim to “lessen the danger” by seeking an end to missile tests.	他说美国应该把目标定为：通过设法终结导弹试验来“减少危险”。
Mark Fitzpatrick, a scholar at the International Institute for Strategic Studies, this week advocated something known as “double suspension.” The United States would suspend its military exercises with the South while the North would suspend its nuclear and perhaps missile tests.	本周，国际战略研究所(International Institute for Strategic Studies)的学者马克·菲茨帕特里克(Mark Fitzpatrick)倡导实施所谓的“双暂停”方案——即美国暂停与韩国的联合军事演习，朝鲜则暂停其核试验，或许还有导弹试验。
There has been a broader shift toward such thinking. The ambition is no longer to roll back North Korea’s programs, but to mitigate the risk they pose day to day.	已经有更多人转而这样考虑问题。其追寻的目标不再是遏制朝鲜的核项目，而是降低它们日复一日带来的风险。
This is a tacit acknowledgment that North Korea’s preferred negotiations model — in which the United States takes steps away from the Korean Peninsula in exchange for peace — is increasingly accepted.	这其实是默认，朝鲜所青睐的谈判模式正日益被接受——在这种模式中，美国会采取措施远离朝鲜半岛，以换取和平。
Even if North Korea never achieves its vision of full victory, it has shifted the conversation to its terms.	即便朝鲜从未取得其眼中的全面胜利，也已经让对话向自己开出的条件倾斜。
Fitzpatrick and others say that the United States should pursue such	菲茨帕特里克等人认为，唯有朝鲜同意裁军，美国才应该采取这些举措，但

steps only if they point toward North Korean disarmament, but some consider this optimistic.	一些人并没有这么乐观。
Ankit Panda, a senior editor at The Diplomat, and Vipin Narang, a professor at MIT, wrote this week that there were “no good options” for the United States, “only bad ones and catastrophic ones.”	《外交官》(The Diplomat)杂志高级编辑安吉特·潘达(Ankit Panda)和麻省理工学院(MIT)教授维平·纳兰(Vipin Narang)于本周撰文称, 对美国来说“没有好选项”, “只有坏选项和灾难性选项”。
Any viable deal with the North Koreans, they suggested, “would require explicit acceptance of their nuclear state status and significant rollbacks to the U.S. conventional military presence in the Northeast Asian theater, both of which are nonstarters for the United States.”	他们表示, 有望与朝鲜人达成的任何协议, “都会要求明确认可他们的核国家地位, 并极大削减美国在东北亚地区的常规军事存在, 两者对美国来说都不可行。”
The likeliest outcome, they concluded, is that the world’s nations “learn to live with an ICBM-armed North Korea.”	他们得出结论, 最可能出现的结果是, 世界各国“学着适应一个拥有洲际弹道导弹的朝鲜”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170710/north-korea-weapons	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170710/north-korea-weapons
Defendant in Japan’s ‘Black Widow’ Trial Stuns Court: ‘I Killed My Husband’	日本七旬“黑寡妇”承认毒杀丈夫
HONG KONG — A serial murder trial in Japan took a cinematic turn this week when the accused, nicknamed the Black Widow by the news media, confessed in open court to having fatally poisoned her husband.	香港——本周, 日本一个连环杀手的审理过程出现了戏剧性的一幕, 被新闻媒体称为“黑寡妇”的被告, 在法庭上公开承认毒死了丈夫。
The case of Chisako Kakehi, now 70, has gripped Japan since her arrest in 2014, when the last of her four husbands, Isao Kakehi, a 75-year-old retired salaryman, was found dead at his home in Muko, a city near Kyoto, the latest in a string of her partners to have died.	自 2014 年被捕以来, 现年 70 岁的笥千佐子(Chisako Kakehi)这个案子在日本受到了极大的关注, 当时她的第四任丈夫笥勇夫(Isao Kakehi), 一个 75 岁的退休上班族, 被发现死在京都附近向日市的家中, 而在那之前, 她的好几名伴侣也都已死亡。
“I killed my husband,” Mrs. Kakehi said from the witness stand Monday. “I have no intention of hiding the guilt. I will laugh it off and die if I am sentenced to death tomorrow,” she said, according to The Japan Times.	据《日本时报》报道, 笥千佐子周一在证人席上说: “是我杀了丈夫, 我无意隐瞒罪行。如果明天判处死刑, 我会一笑置之。”
According to the authorities, Isao Kakehi was one of six men who died	据当局介绍, 有六名男子在和曾经从事 T 恤印花生意的笥千佐子结婚或约会

soon after marrying or dating Mrs. Kakehi, the onetime proprietor of a T-shirt printing business. Mrs. Kakehi has been on trial since June 26, accused of killing Mr. Kakehi and two other boyfriends and attempting to kill another man she had dated.	之后不久死亡，笈勇夫是其中之一。笈千佐子的审判是从6月26日开始的，她被指控谋杀了笈勇夫和两名男友，以及试图谋杀另外一名约会对象未遂。
When she took the stand on Monday, Mrs. Kakehi initially said she would remain silent, but when asked by the prosecutor whether she had poisoned Mr. Kakehi, she confessed, adding there was "no mistake" about her role in his death.	周一在证人席上时，笈千佐子最初说她会保持沉默，但是当检察官问到她是否毒死了笈勇夫时，她承认了，而且还说她在丈夫之死中发挥的作用“是确定无疑的”。
"I wasn't given any money after I married him," Mrs. Kakehi said. "I felt like Isao was discriminating against me in comparison to the last woman he was in a relationship with, and I got angry," she added, according to news reports.	新闻报道称，笈千佐子说：“和他结婚后，我没有拿到任何钱，我觉得他在歧视我，他对他的上一个女人可不是这样，我很生气。”
Mrs. Kakehi said she got the cyanide, with which she is believed to have poisoned her partners, from a business associate.	笈千佐子说，她从一个生意伙伴那里弄到了氰化物，据信她就是用氰化物毒死了伴侣。
Mrs. Kakehi's attorneys have said she has dementia and is incapable of accurately remembering details from the time of the men's deaths.	笈千佐子的律师说她有痴呆症，记不起在这些男人死亡之后的细节。
The case has struck a particular nerve in Japan, home of the world's longest life spans, where aging baby boomers have skewed the country's demographics toward the elderly.	日本是世界上人均寿命最长的国家之一，这个案件在日本尤其引人瞩目。随着婴儿潮一代的老龄化，日本的人口结构已经在向老年人倾斜。
All of the victims were between 70 and 80 years old and met Mrs. Kakehi between 2007 and 2013. The woman's three other husbands, whom she married in the same period, also all died, though she has not been charged in their deaths.	所有受害者的年龄都介于70岁至80岁之间，他们在2007年至2013年期间与笈千佐子结识。在这段时期中，她嫁的另外三名丈夫也全部死亡，但她没有遭到起诉。
According to one official estimate, Mrs. Kakehi inherited as much as 1 billion yen, or $8.8 million, from the men.	据官方估计，笈千佐子从这些男人那里继承了10亿日元（约合人民币6000万元）。

https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170713/japan-black-widow-trial-confession	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170713/japan-black-widow-trial-confession
South Korea Proposes Military Talks With North at Their Border	韩国提议与朝鲜举行军事对话
SEOUL, South Korea — South Korea on Monday proposed holding military and humanitarian talks with North Korea, aimed at easing tensions along their heavily armed border and arranging reunions of families divided decades ago by the Korean War.	韩国首尔——周一，韩国提议与朝鲜进行军事和人道主义会谈，目的是为了缓解韩朝之间重兵防守的边境线的紧张局势，安排让数十年前因朝鲜战争分离的家庭团聚。
North Korea did not immediately respond. Its reaction will be the first test of the pro-dialogue policy of South Korea's liberal new president, Moon Jae-in, who argues that talks are the likeliest way to end the crisis over Pyongyang's nuclear weapons program.	朝鲜没有立即对提议做出回应。朝鲜如何反应将是对韩国的自由派新总统文在寅主张对话政策的首次检验，文在寅认为，谈判是结束有关平壤核武器计划危机的最有效的方式。
The South wants to send a military delegation to the border village of Panmunjom on Friday to discuss "stopping all hostile activities that raise military tension" along the border, Vice Defense Minister Suh Choo-suk said Monday.	韩国国防部副部长徐柱锡周一表示，韩国想在周五派一个军事代表团前往边境线上的小村板门店，讨论“停止一切让（边境地区）军事紧张气氛升级的敌对活动”的问题。
Such a meeting would be the first between the two governments since 2015 and the first inter-Korean military dialogue since 2014.	如果能进行会谈的话，这将是自2015年以来两国政府之间的首次对话，也是2014年以来朝鲜半岛岛内的首次军事对话。
The North Korean leader, Kim Jong Un, had proposed such talks in a May 2016 speech. But the South's then-president, Park Geun-hye, a conservative who has since been impeached and removed from office, rejected the offer, calling it insincere and demanding that the North first move toward dismantling its nuclear weapons program.	朝鲜领导人金正恩曾在2016年5月的一次讲话中提议进行这种会谈。不过，时任韩国总统朴槿惠拒绝了这个建议，称之为没有诚意，她还要求朝鲜首先取消自己的核武器计划。后来，这位保守派的总统遭弹劾、被迫卸任。
Moon reaffirmed his commitment to dialogue in a speech in Berlin this month, days after Pyongyang conducted its first test of an intercontinental ballistic missile.	文在寅本月在柏林的一个讲话中重申了他对对话的承诺，就在他讲话的几天前，平壤进行了首次洲际弹道导弹试验。

Suh, the vice defense minister, on Monday called on the North to restore a military hotline that Pyongyang cut off in 2016, amid tensions following its nuclear test in January of that year. Without the hotline, the two militaries have no means of communicating quickly and directly to avoid an unintended conflict.	国防部副部长徐柱锡周一呼吁朝鲜恢复与韩国的军事热线。2016年1月朝鲜进行核试验，导致紧张气氛升级之后，平壤中断了这条热线。没有这条热线，韩国和朝鲜的军队无法直接地快速沟通，以避免发生意外的冲突。
South Korea did not disclose what specifically it wanted to discuss if military talks were held. In past meetings, North Korea has demanded that the South stop holding joint military exercises with the United States and end the use of loudspeakers to broadcast propaganda along the border. South Korea has recently accused the North of sending military drones to spy on the South, an issue that Seoul would be likely to raise.	韩国没有透露，如果举行军事会谈的话，将具体讨论哪些内容。在以前的会谈中，朝鲜曾要求韩国停止与美国进行的联合军事演习，并结束在边境地区使用扬声器进行广播宣传。韩国最近指责朝鲜派军事无人机对韩国进行侦查，这很可能是首尔方面将会提出的问题。
Also Monday, the South Korean Red Cross Society proposed a meeting at Panmunjom on Aug. 1 with its North Korean counterpart, to arrange reunions of relatives in the North and South who have not seen each other since being separated during the 1950-53 Korean War.	同在周一，韩国红十字会(South Korean Red Cross Society)提出在8月1日与朝鲜红十字会在板门店举行会谈，安排被朝鲜战争分离的家庭团聚，这些分别居住在朝鲜和韩国的亲属们自1950至1953年的朝鲜战争后，一直没见过面。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170718/north-korea-south-military-talks	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170718/north-korea-south-military-talks
An Alternative History of Singapore, Through a Comic Book	用漫画讲述非官方版本的新加坡建国故事
SINGAPORE — For half a century, Singapore’s creation story has been one of tough love.	新加坡——半个世纪以来，新加坡的建国故事已经变成一个关于严厉之爱的故事。
It goes something like this: Newly independent from its bigger neighbor Malaysia, small and vulnerable in the middle of the Cold War, beset by communist infiltrators and surrounded by domino nations, Singapore finally found stability and a road to prosperity when its founding father,	基本是这样的：冷战中，弱小的新加坡刚刚从比它强大的邻国马来西亚独立出来，为共产主义渗透者所困扰，周围的国家接二连三落入共产党之手，后来它的创始人李光耀战胜了危险的左翼对手，遗憾的是这一过程中许多人被投入监狱，但新加坡最终找到了稳定与繁荣之路。

Lee Kuan Yew, defeated dangerous left-wing opponents, regrettably by having many tossed in jail.
This young nation's narrative has been hammered home in textbooks, the mass media and television shows. To oppose it meant risking detention without trial, costly libel suits or extreme marginalization in a country where the state controls most purse strings and levers of power.	这个年轻国家的建国叙事在其教科书、大众媒体和电视节目中一再被强调。反对它就意味着，在这个由国家控制大部分资金与各级权力的地方，有可能未经审判就遭到羁押，面临代价高昂的诽谤诉讼，或是遭到极端的边缘化。
But this monolithic view of the past has begun to change, thanks in part to a soft-spoken artist and his comic book cast of robots, aliens and cockroaches.	但是，关于过去的单一观点已经开始发生变化，部分是由于一位说话温和的艺术家，以及他以机器人、外星人和蟑螂为主角的漫画。
"The Art of Charlie Chan Hock Chye" tells the story of Singapore's greatest cartoonist, the book's namesake, who grew up after the war when the colonies of British Malaya and Singapore were agitating for independence. Charlie Chan documents that era of riots and protests in a series of vignettes, each one paying homage to some of the world's comic book artists – and along the way challenging myths and rescuing from anonymity people written out of the official version.	《陈福财的艺术》(The Art of Charlie Chan Hock Chye)系列漫画讲述了新加坡最伟大的漫画家的故事，这位名叫陈福财的漫画家在二战后长大，当时英属马来亚和新加坡殖民地正在为独立展开斗争，他以一系列短篇漫画记录了那个暴动和抗议的时代，每一个短篇都在向世界各地的漫画家致敬，并且一直在挑战错误观念，让那些被官方版本抹去的无名人物重见天日。
What slowly becomes apparent is that Charlie Chan is fictional, maybe not even that famous, and the person "presenting" his work, Sonny Liew, is the real artist. But what isn't fictional is the history that Liew presents – and the sensation that his book has caused. Since being published two years ago, Liew's book has gone through multiple print runs and become central to a slow-burning national discussion over this country's history, culture and values.	读者慢慢才会发现，陈福财是虚构的，甚至也不那么有名气，而“呈现”其作品的刘敬贤(Sonny Liew)才是真实存在的艺术家。但是，刘敬贤在书中呈现的历史却不是虚构的，他的书所造成的轰动也绝非虚假。自从两年前首次出版以来，刘敬贤的书已被多次重印，在这个国家对自身历史、文化和价值观的慢热讨论中居于核心地位。
"When people ask me about Singapore and politics, I tell them I'm just a	"当人们问我关于新加坡和政治方面的问题时，我告诉他们，我只是一个漫

cartoonist,” Liew said in an interview. “My book is meant to offer a more inclusive vision of Singapore’s history, one that encourages readers to look at all narratives with a critical eye.”	画家，“刘敬贤在接受采访时说。“我的书旨在为新加坡的历史提供一个更具包容性的版本，鼓励读者用批判性的眼光审视所有叙事。”
That low-key, factual attitude probably accounts for the book’s success in a country that rarely looks favorably on challenges to government orthodoxy. After the book was published in 2015, Singapore’s National Arts Council withdrew a publishing grant, and an official wrote in a letter to a local newspaper that the book “potentially undermines the authority and legitimacy of the government and its public institutions.”	在一个并不欣赏对政府的正统性发起挑战的国家里，这种基于事实的低调态度可能正是该书取得成功的原因。这本书于 2015 年出版之后，新加坡国家艺术理事会撤回了一笔出版津贴，一位官员在给一家当地报纸的信中写道：这本书“可能会破坏政府及其公共机构的权威性与合法性”。
But overall the reaction has been mild. Liew still enjoys a subsidized studio, participates in government-supported festivals, won a major national literature prize and receives wide exposure in the state-controlled media — signs of a slow but profound relaxation taking place.	但总体而言，政府的反应较为温和。刘敬贤仍然享有政府给予了补贴的工作室，参与政府资助的艺术节，获得了一项重要的国家文学奖，并在政府控制的媒体中获得大量曝光——这些迹象表明缓慢但深刻的放松政策正在产生作用。
“If you look at Singapore today, we’re far from where we were 20 or 30 years ago,” said P.J. Thum, a Singaporean historian who has often challenged official histories. “People are seizing more agency for themselves and the government is yielding.”	“看看今天的新加坡，我们和二三十年前已经大不一样了，”经常挑战官方历史的新加坡历史学家谭炳鑫(P.J. Thum)说。“人们正在为自己争取更多的力量，政府正在屈服。”
Like many Singaporeans, Liew’s questioning is circumspect. He does not directly challenge what the government calls “The Singapore Story” — an upbeat tale of success made possible by Lee’s firm hand.	和许多新加坡人一样，刘敬贤的质疑是谨慎的。他并不直接质疑政府讲述的“新加坡故事”——由李光耀的铁腕所造就的一个乐观向上的成功故事。
Instead, he subtly lets the alternative histories unfold, mirroring his main character’s experimentation with new genres. The result is a kaleidoscope of art that pays tribute to Osamu Tezuka’s Astro Boy, Walt Kelly’s Pogo and Steve Ditko’s Spider-Man. Liew adds to the sense of a	相反，他巧妙地展开了一种替代历史，用新的艺术类型来反映他笔下主角的实验。创造出一种万花筒般的艺术，向手冢治虫(Osamu Tezuka)的阿童木(Astro Boy)、沃尔特·凯利(Walt Kelly)的波哥(Pogo)和史蒂夫·迪特科(Steve Ditko)的蜘蛛侠致敬。刘敬贤在作品中插入被摧毁的旧城的水彩稿，主要人

reimagined past by tossing in watercolor sketches of destroyed sections of the old city, oil portraits of the main characters, and old photos.	物的油画肖像与旧照片，令作品像是经过重新构想的过去。
At its heart, the story revolves around two men: Lee, the country's founder and long-serving prime minister, who died in 2015 at age 91, and Lim Chin Siong, a left-wing trade union leader whose spellbinding speeches helped convince many Singaporeans that they could become independent from Britain.	故事本身围绕两个人展开：一个是这个国家的创始人李光耀，他曾长期担任总理之职，于2015年去世，享年91岁；另一个是左翼工会领袖林清祥，他那引人入胜的演讲曾促使很多新加坡人相信，他们可以独立于英国的统治。
Lim spent two stints in jail, from 1956 to 1959, under British rule, and from 1963 to 1969, when the newly independent country under Lee arrested left-wing organizers. He was held in solitary confinement, his health deteriorated and he tried to commit suicide. He died in 1996, aged 62.	林清祥坐过两次牢。一次是在英国统治之下，从1956年坐到1959年；另一次则是在李光耀治下刚刚独立的新加坡逮捕左翼活动组织者之时，从1963年坐到1969年。他被单独囚禁，健康状况不断恶化，曾试图自杀。他死于1996年，享年62岁。
Today, Lim plays little role in Singapore's official history, but in Liew's book he is a central figure who could easily have been prime minister. Liew also explores charges that Lim advocated violence, using newly declassified British documents to come down fairly convincingly on the side of Lim's being framed.	现今，林清祥在新加坡的官方历史叙事中是不足挂齿的角色，但在刘敬贤的书中，他是一个中心人物，本有很大可能当上总理。刘敬贤还探究了关于林清祥鼓励暴力的指控，并借助新解密的英国文件公允而又令人信服地支持了关于林清祥遭到了陷害的观点。
The book's structure also gives Liew the backstage role he prefers. In life he is as self-effacing as the humble Charlie Chan: quiet and soft-spoken, with a boyish grin, a mop of hair and a runner's physique.	此书的结构也让刘敬贤得以扮演他最喜欢的幕后角色。生活中的他是一个像谦逊的陈福财一样不喜欢出风头的人：安静，声音柔和，脸上挂着男孩般的笑容，头发蓬乱，有着跑步者的体格。
His studio is more revealing. Located in what was once a high school and later an arts school that has been converted into artist workshops, his studio is a chaotic maze of kitschy toys, cutouts of main figures in graphic stories and shelves of weighty books. In some ways, they stand out the most in the cluttered room, underscoring a depth of intellectual	他的工作室更能说明问题。其所在之处原本是一所高中，后来变为艺术学校，再后来则被改造成艺术家们的工作场所。工作室本身仿佛一座迷宫，里边有流行玩具、图文故事中主要人物的图样纸版，以及摆放着大部头书籍的书架。某种程度上，后者是这个凌乱的房间里最显眼的东西，突显了智识投入的深度。 engagement.

Born in Malaysia, Liew moved to Singapore when he was 5. He began drawing comic strips as a teenager and later went to the Rhode Island School of Design. He worked for a computer gaming company in Boston but had to make a choice: find a steady job that would yield a work visa and the path to a green card, or stick with the piecemeal work of a comic book illustrator.	刘敬贤生于马来西亚，五岁时搬到新加坡。他从小就画漫画，后来在罗德岛设计学院(Rhode Island School of Design)深造。他曾在波士顿为一个电脑游戏公司工作，但后来不得不做出选择：找一份能拿到工作签证的稳定工作，为将来获得绿卡铺路，或者坚持做漫画师，打零工。
He chose the latter and moved back to Singapore. With time, his talent won him contracts with international comic book companies like Marvel and DC.	他选择了后者，搬回新加坡。随着时间流逝，他的才华为他赢得了漫威和DC等国际漫画公司的合同。
What began to fascinate him, however, was Singapore's history. Liew wondered why he had heard so little about Lim, the union leader. The past seemed so dim. He decided to explore.	不过后来，他开始着迷于新加坡的历史。刘敬贤想知道为什么他对工会领袖林清祥知道的这么少。过去显得如此模糊。他决定展开探索。
"I'm trying to make history more inclusive rather than championing a competing version," he said. "The Singapore Story is part of the truth, but if you leave out the alternative histories it's a less accurate picture."	"我努力让历史更有包容性，而不是主张一个与之冲突的版本，"他说。"新加坡故事是真相的一部分，但是如果你忽略其他版本的历史，那么你呈现的就不够准确。"
The book became a quick success. Helped in part by publicity over the government's decision to pull the grant, the initial print run of 1,000 copies quickly sold out, and now over 15,000 are in print in Singapore — a country of 5.6 million people. Last year, the book was published in the United States, with translations also in French and Spanish.	这本书很快大获成功。部分得益于政府撤回津贴所带来的宣传与报道，首印的1000本很快售罄，现在新加坡正在加印1.5万册——这个国家只有560万人。去年，该书在美国出版，而且有了法语和西班牙语译本。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170718/sonny-liew-singapore-charlie-chan-hock-chye	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170718/sonny-liew-singapore-charlie-chan-hock-chye
Defector to South Korea Who Became a Celebrity Resurfaces in the North	脱北女明星返回朝鲜：“在韩国的每一天都是地狱”

SEOUL, South Korea — Until April, Lim Ji-hyun had been a modest television celebrity in South Korea, talking to the audience about the country she knew best: North Korea. She even had her own online fan club, indicating that she was among the relatively few North Korean defectors who had successfully adjusted to life in the capitalist South.	韩国首尔——直到4月，林智贤（Lim Ji-hyun，音）都只是韩国的一个小电视明星，向观众介绍她最了解的那个国家：朝鲜。她在网上甚至有自己的粉丝俱乐部，这表明她已经成为成功适应了资本主义韩国生活的少数脱北者。
This week, Lim resurfaced in North Korea, tearfully recalling a terrible life in the South.	本周，林智贤重新出现在朝鲜，泪眼婆娑地回忆在韩国的骇人生活。
“Every single day of my life in the South was a hell,” Lim, 26, said in a videotaped interview uploaded on the North Korean government-run propaganda website Uriminzokkiri. “When I was alone in a dark, cold room, I was heartbroken and I wept every day, missing my fatherland and my parents back home.”	“我在韩国生活的每一天都是地狱，”26岁的林智贤在上传至朝鲜政府运营的宣传网站“我们民族之间”(Uriminzokkiri)的采访录像中说。“独自一人住在一间又黑又冷的房间里时，我伤心欲绝，每天以泪洗面，想念我的祖国和家乡的父母。”
Lim — or Jeon Hye Sung, as she was called in the North — said she returned to “the bosom of the fatherland” last month and was now living with her parents in her hometown.	林智贤——在朝鲜叫金慧星（Jeon Hye-Sung，音）——自称于上月回到“祖国的怀抱”，现在和父母在家乡生活。
She did not reveal how she traveled back to the North. The Unification Ministry, the South Korean government agency that handles issues related to defectors, said it was investigating Lim’s case. Since there is no press freedom in the North, what Lim told the propaganda website cannot be independently verified.	她没有透露是自己如何回到朝鲜的。韩国政府处理脱北者相关事务的统一部(Unification Ministry)表示，正在调查林智贤一事。鉴于朝鲜没有新闻自由，林智贤对该宣传网站说的话无法得到独立证实。
“I was lured to the South by a delusion that I would eat well and make a lot of money there,” she said. “It was not the place I had imagined. I had wandered around everywhere there to make money, working in drinking bars, but nothing had worked out.”	“我受引诱去了韩国，幻想在那里能吃好的，能挣大钱，”她说。“那里跟我的想像根本不一样。为了赚钱我四处辗转，在酒吧里工作，但都没用。”
Since a famine struck their country in the late 1990s, more than 30,000	朝鲜自从90年代末爆发饥荒以来，已有逾三万人逃至韩国，其中绝大部分

North Koreans have defected to the South, a vast majority of them taking a perilous journey through China and the jungles of Southeast Asia to seek new lives.	人都选择了经由中国和东南亚的热带丛林去寻找新生活的危险旅程。
After an extensive debriefing, they go through a monthslong program intended to help them integrate into South Korean society. But they often find it hard to make the transition from the North's highly regimented totalitarian system to the South's fast-paced, hypercompetitive capitalist society. They often cannot catch up with South Korean peers in schools and workplaces. Their strong accents divulge their origin.	全面的盘问结束后，他们会参加一个持续数月的项目，帮助他们融入韩国社会。但他们往往会觉得难以从朝鲜管制极其严格的集权主义制度，过渡到韩国快节奏、高竞争的资本主义社会。在学校里和职场上，他们往往无法赶上韩国同学和同事。浓重的口音也会暴露他们的出身。
Usually toiling in jobs shunned by South Koreans, they save money, which they send to family members left behind in the impoverished North.	他们通常都辛苦地从事着被韩国人嫌弃的工作，努力攒钱，并把攒下来的钱寄给留在一贫如洗的朝鲜的家人。
North Korea used to call defectors "traitors" or "human scum."	朝鲜过去称脱北者是“叛徒”或“人渣”。
But since the North's young leader, Kim Jong Un, took power in 2011, at least 25 defectors have resurfaced, claiming that they returned voluntarily, fed up with life in the South.	但自年轻的朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jong Un)在2011年上台以来，至少已有25名脱北者重新出现在朝鲜，声称他们受够了在韩国的生活，是自愿回去的。
South Korean officials agree that some of the North Koreans may have returned out of desperation after failing to adjust to life in the South. But they also suspect that some were abducted back to the North after they were lured to China. North Korean agents have tried to blackmail defectors in the South, using their relatives in the North as hostages, they said.	韩国官员认为，部分朝鲜人或许是未能适应韩国的生活，出于绝望回去的。但他们也怀疑部分人是在被引诱到中国后，被绑架回去的。他们说，朝鲜特工把脱北者在朝鲜的亲人作为人质，胁迫在韩国的脱北者。
The returning defectors are a propaganda boon for Kim.	对金正恩来说，回国的脱北者是一件宣传利器。
His government has organized news conferences in Pyongyang, where	他领导的政府平壤组织了多场新闻发布会。在这些新闻发布会上，回到朝

the returnees claimed that human smugglers or South Korean spy agents cheated or kidnapped them to the South. They invariably thanked Kim for giving traitors like them a second chance. The United Nations has long criticized North Korea as one of the world's worst human rights violators.	鲜的人声称是人贩子或韩国间谍把他们骗去或绑架去了韩国。他们无一例外地感谢金正恩给了像他们这样的叛徒第二次机会。联合国一直指责朝鲜是全球侵犯人权情况最严重的国家之一。
Under Kim, the North has tightened control along the border with China, the main escape route for defectors. The number of North Korean refugees arriving in the South dropped to 1,418 last year from 2,706 in 2011, according to the Unification Ministry. It has also intensified the crackdown on South Korean movies and TV dramas smuggled from China through which North Korean defectors said they learned of life in the South.	在金正恩的统治下，朝鲜收紧了与中国边境沿线的控制。那里是脱北者的主要出逃路线。据韩国统一部称，抵达韩国的朝鲜难民人数从2011年的2706人跌至去年的1418人。朝鲜政府还加大了对从中国走私的韩国电影和电视剧的打击力度。脱北者称，他们正是通过电影和电视剧了解韩国的生活的。
"In the South, where money ruled, there was only physical and psychological pain waiting for people like me who had betrayed their fatherland and fled," Lim said in an apparent warning to North Koreans who might be dreaming of leaving for the South.	"在金钱统治一切的韩国，像我这样逃离祖国的背叛者，等待我的只有身体和心理上的痛苦，"林智贤说。这似乎是对可能梦想前往韩国的朝鲜人发出的警告。
Lim arrived in South Korea in 2014.	林智贤于2014年抵达韩国。
From December, she had been among scores of mostly young female North Korean defectors who have tried to build careers on cable TV talk or reality shows. They often appear in North Korean dresses and sing North Korean songs.	从12月开始，她成了数十名以年轻女性为主、试图在有线电视脱口秀或真人秀上成就一番事业的朝鲜脱北者中的一员。她们往往身着朝鲜服饰，唱朝鲜歌曲。
Speaking in their unmistakable North Korean accents, these women share often funny or tearful episodes of life in the famine-struck Stalinist state or their dangerous journeys for freedom. A show called "Love of South and North" matches North Korean women with South Korean	她们会带着明确无疑的朝鲜口音，分享在爆发饥荒的斯大林主义国家朝鲜的生活，或是寻找自由的危险旅程中的片段。这些内容往往不是搞笑就是催人泪下。一个名为《南男北女》(Love of South and North)的节目把朝鲜女性和韩国男性配对，让他们身处浪漫的环境中。

men, placing them in a romantic situation.
These entertainment-driven programs, which often advertise “beauties from the North,” are accused of airing sensational yet unconfirmed allegations from the defectors. But they are also credited with helping South Koreans understand the lives of ordinary people in the North, a neighbor that has seldom generated interest among South Koreans despite its growing nuclear and missile threats.	这些经常以“来自朝鲜的佳丽”口号来博宣传、以娱乐至上的节目，被指宣扬脱北者耸人听闻却未经证实的指控。但也有人认为，它们有助于韩国民众了解朝鲜普通民众的生活——尽管朝鲜的核武器和导弹威胁越来越严峻，但这个邻国很少会引起韩国民众的兴趣。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170719/north-korea-defector-lim-ji-hyun	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170719/north-korea-defector-lim-ji-hyun
As U.S. Attention Wanes in Southeast Asia, China Woos Myanmar	美对东南亚兴趣减退，中国乘机结好缅甸
NAYPYIDAW, Myanmar — When Myanmar’s leader, Daw Aung San Suu Kyi, wanted to hold a peace conference to end her country’s long-burning insurgencies, a senior Chinese diplomat got to work.	缅甸内比都——缅甸领导人昂山素季(Daw Aung San Suu Kyi)希望举行和平会议，结束该国长期叛乱的局面，这时，一位中国高级外交官就着手行动起来了。
The official assembled scores of rebel leaders, many with longstanding connections to China, briefed them on the peace gathering, and flew them on a chartered plane to Myanmar’s capital. There, after being introduced to a beaming Ms. Aung San Suu Kyi, they wined, dined and sang rowdy karaoke late into the night.	这名官员召集了数十名反叛者领导人，其中很多都和中国有长期联系，该官员向他们介绍了和平会议的情况，并用包机把他们送到缅甸首都。在那里，把他们介绍给笑容满面的昂山素季后，他们就吃吃喝喝，大声地唱卡拉OK到深夜。
A cease-fire may still be a long way off, but the gesture neatly illustrates how Myanmar, a former military dictatorship that the United States worked hard to press toward democracy, is now depending on China to help solve its problems.	实现停火可能还有很长的路要走，但这样的状况清楚显示，虽然美国努力推动该国从前军事独裁政权过渡到了民主政权，但缅甸现在正依靠中国来协助解决自身的问题。
The pieces all fell into place for China: It wanted peace in Myanmar to protect its new energy investments, it had the leverage to press the rebels, and it found an opening to do a favor for Myanmar that the	对于中国来说，一切顺理成章：它希望缅甸和平，以保护自己的新能源投资；它有筹码来给反叛分子施压；它找到了一个美国未能实现的帮助缅甸的机会。

United States could not.
When Myanmar began to adopt democratic reforms in 2011, the Obama administration quickly reciprocated, loosening sanctions as part of a broader effort to strengthen relationships with Southeast Asian nations as a bulwark against China's rise.	缅甸在 2011 年开始实施民主改革时，奥巴马政府迅速做出反应：放宽对缅甸的制裁，将其作为加强与东南亚国家联系、遏制中国崛起的广泛努力的一部分。
As Myanmar's relations with China cooled, the result of what many saw as heavy-handed intervention by Beijing, Barack Obama became, in 2012, the first American president to visit the country. He came again in 2014, promoting stronger trade and security relations, and counted the country's opening as a foreign policy coup.	在缅甸与中国关系降温——很多人认为是北京强硬干预缅甸内政的结果——的同时，奥巴马在 2012 年成为第一位访问缅甸的美国总统。他 2014 年再次访问缅甸，促进两国展开更密切的贸易和安全关系，并将该国的开放看作外交政策上的漂亮举动。
But the United States did little to build on the new relationship, and now the tables have turned. As the Trump administration pays little attention, China is exercising strategic and economic interests that come from geographic proximity, using deep pockets for building billion-dollar infrastructure and activating ethnic ties with some of the rebel groups, all areas where the United States cannot compete.	但在这种新关系的基础上美国毫无建树，现在风向已经转变。就在特朗普当局不经意的当儿，中国正运用地理位置上的邻近引申出战略和经济利益，利用雄厚的财力修建价值数以十亿美元计的基础设施，并与一些反叛团体加强了族裔联系，在这些领域，美国是无法和中国竞争的。
"China wants to show: 'We are doing our best at your behest,'" said Min Zin, executive director of the Institute for Strategy and Policy in Myanmar, who attended the peace gathering in May. "As the United States recedes, Aung San Suu Kyi is relying more and more on China in Myanmar and on the international stage."	"中国想要显示'我们竭力满足你的要求'。随着美国的撤退，昂山素季在本土和国际舞台上都对越来越依赖。"缅甸战略与政策研究所(Institute for Strategy and Policy)执行主任敏辛(Min Zin)表示。他在 5 月份出席了那次和平会议。
And not only Myanmar. Across Southeast Asia, China is energetically bringing nations into its orbit, wooing American friends and allies with military hardware, infrastructure deals and diplomatic attention.	不仅仅是缅甸。在整个东南亚地区，中国都正在大力引导各国进入自己的阵营，通过军事装备、基础设施交易和外交关注，来拉拢美国的朋友和盟友。
In the Philippines, an American ally, President Rodrigo Duterte is	菲律宾是美国的盟友，其总统罗德里戈·杜特地(Rodrigo Duterte)大幅度偏向

leaning strongly toward Beijing. The military government in Thailand, another American ally, has bought submarines from China and, at China's request, deported Uighurs, a Turkic ethnic group that China accuses of fomenting violence in China. In Malaysia, China is offering Prime Minister Najib Razak lucrative deals like high-speed train projects.	了北京。泰国是美国的另一个盟友，其军政府已经从中国购买了潜艇，并按照中国的要求驱逐了维吾尔人——维吾尔人是突厥族裔，中国指责他们在中国煽动暴力事件。在马来西亚，中国邀请总理纳吉卜·拉扎克(Najib Razak)参与一些利润丰厚的交易，比如高铁这样的项目。
After the Obama administration made big gains in Myanmar, China's president, Xi Jinping, was reported to have asked, "Who lost Myanmar?" The message has gotten through, as China is now pushing on multiple fronts to bring the country back into its fold.	据说，奥巴马政府在缅甸取得巨大成果后，中国主席习近平曾经问：“是谁丢掉了缅甸？”这个信息起到了作用，中国正在多条战线上采取行动，把缅甸带回自己阵营。
Ms. Aung San Suu Kyi seems receptive. She has visited Beijing twice since becoming Myanmar's de facto leader last year. In contrast, she skipped an invitation from Washington to attend a conclave of Southeast Asian foreign ministers — she is also foreign minister of Myanmar — organized by Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson.	昂山素季似乎乐见其成。去年，她成了缅甸事实上的领袖之后，曾两度访问北京。相比之下，华盛顿邀请她出席国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)组织的东南亚外交部长会议——她也是缅甸的外交部长——她却没去。
China and Myanmar have also found common cause in their hard line on Muslims. At the United Nations several months ago, China blocked a statement supported by the United States on the persecution of the Rohingya, the Muslim minority in Myanmar.	在针对穆斯林的强硬立场上，中国和缅甸也有共同使命。几个月前，中国在联合国阻挠了一项美国支持的、关于缅甸的穆斯林少数民族罗辛亚人遭受迫害的声明。
But nowhere is China's effort to win over Myanmar clearer than as mediator in Myanmar's ethnic civil wars, the mission Ms. Aung San Suu Kyi says is dearest to her heart.	但中国能赢得缅甸的好感，最大的原因就是缅甸民族内战中担当了调解人，昂山素季说她对此感念于心。
"I do believe that as a good neighbor China will do everything possible to promote our peace process," she said during a visit to China last year. "If you ask me what my most important aim is for my country, it is to achieve peace and unity among the different peoples of our union."	“我相信，作为睦邻友好国家，中国将尽力推动我们的和平进程，”她去年访问北京时表示。“如果你问我，我在国内最重要的目标是什么，那就是实现不同民族之间的和平与团结。”

China is well positioned to help. Among the armed groups most resistant to peace talks are the United Wa State Army and the Kokang Army, both of which have been tacitly supported by China for years in their battles with the Myanmar military.	中国处于伸出援手的有利位置。最反对和平会谈的武装组织是佤邦联合军(United Wa State Army)和果敢军(Kokang Army)。在与缅甸军队作战的多年时间里，它们都得到了中国心照不宣的支持。
The Wa, whose army is said to have 20,000 members, use Chinese currency in their autonomous region, where illegal narcotics are made and peddled into China. Two Wa arms factories produce weapons with the help of former Chinese Army officers, and the Wa have received Chinese armored combat vehicles and tank destroyers, probably through Chinese middlemen, experts say.	佤邦联合军据称有两万人。佤邦在自己的自治区内使用中国的货币，制造毒品并把它们贩卖到中国。佤邦的两家军工厂在前中国陆军官员的帮助下制造武器。专家称，佤邦很可能是通过中国的中间人，获得了中国的装甲战斗车辆和反坦克车。
A third group, the Arakan Army, uses Chinese arms and vehicles provided by the Wa.	另一个组织若开军(Arakan Army)使用的是佤邦提供的中国武器和车辆。
China's special envoy for Asian affairs, Sun Guoxiang, brought the leaders of all three to the peace conference, as well as the leaders of four other rebel groups, most of whom use Chinese weapons.	中国的亚洲事务特使孙国祥让这三个组织，连同其他四个反政府组织的领导人坐在一起，举行和平会议。他们大部分都用的是中国的武器。
"China wants quiet in Myanmar," said Maung Aung Myoe, an expert on the Myanmar military at the International University of Japan. "It hurts their interests to have fighting because it disrupts China's trade. China now owns the peace process. The Myanmar military knows that."	"中国希望缅甸安定，"日本国际大学(International University of Japan)的缅甸军事问题专家貌昂妙(Maung Aung Myoe)说。"打仗有损他们的利益，因为它会扰乱中国的贸易。中国现在掌控着和平进程。缅甸军方知道这一点。"
China has a particular interest in pressing the Arakan rebels to the peace table. They operate in the Western state of Rakhine, where they can wreak havoc with the Chinese-built pipelines that carry oil and natural gas from the Bay of Bengal to southern China. Keeping Rakhine free of unrest may have also been a factor in China's blocking the United Nations from issuing a statement on the allegations of atrocities	中国尤其希望敦促阿拉干叛军回到谈判桌上。叛军在若开邦西部地区活动，可能会对中国修建的从孟加拉湾往中国南部的石油和天然气输送管道造成极大破坏。平息若开邦的骚乱可能也是中国阻扰联合国就缅甸军方在那里犯下的暴行指控发布声明的一个原因。

committed by Myanmar's army there.
The stakes are rising as a Chinese state-owned corporation negotiates final permissions to build a $7.3 billion deep-sea port at Kyaukpyu, a port town in Rakhine that will give China highly prized access to the Indian Ocean.	中国在那里的利害关系越来越多，因为中国的一个国有企业计划在若开邦滨海城镇皎漂(Kyaukpyu)修建一个价值 73 亿美元的深海港口，目前正在商谈最后的批准，它将让中国获得通向印度洋的宝贵通道。
Citic Construction of China is to start building the port early next year, having won the contract by covering 85 percent of the cost, said Oo Maung, vice chairman of the Kyaukpyu special economic zone management committee. Citic also won the right to build a $3.2 billion industrial park nearby, he said.	皎漂经济特区管理委员会副主席乌蒙(Oo Maung)表示，中信建设公司计划明年初开始修建该港口，它承诺承担 85% 的成本，因此获得了该合同。他说，中信建设还获得了在附近修建一个价值 32 亿美元的工业园区的权利。
The port is a signature project of China's global "One Belt, One Road" initiative, a $1 trillion global infrastructure campaign, which ensured preferential financing, said Yuan Shaobin, vice chairman of Citic Construction.	中信建设的副董事长袁绍斌表示，该港口是中国的“一带一路”全球计划的标志性项目。“一带一路”是价值一万亿亿美元的全球基础设施建设计划，能获得优惠的财政支持。
The United States generally leaves construction projects and other investments abroad to private companies, and Myanmar, a frontier economy fraught with risks, is considered an unattractive destination, said Mary P. Callahan, associate professor of international studies at the University of Washington.	华盛顿大学(University of Washington)的国际研究副教授玛丽·P·卡拉汉(Mary P. Callahan)表示，美国通常把建设项目和其他海外投资交给私营公司进行，而缅甸是一个充满风险的边远经济区，不被认为具有吸引力。
"American companies haven't come because of the high price of land, and a difficult approval process," she said. "The labor force is cheap but not skilled."	"美国公司没来这里是因为这里地价高，审批困难，"她说。"这里的劳动力很便宜，但是没有技能。"
America's loss may be China's strategic gain. China's ownership of the port — Citic will have the right to operate it for 50 years, with a possible 25-year extension — hands Beijing a giant boost in its long-term plans	美国的损失可能让中国在战略上获利。分析人士表示，中国对该港口的所有权将大力推动北京获得印度洋支配权的长期计划。中信将对该港口拥有 50 年的运营权，而且可能可以延长 25 年。

for supremacy in the Indian Ocean, analysts said.
Once completed, "Kyaukpyu will be a Chinese naval base," said Mr. Maung Aung Myoe, the military analyst. "China desperately needs access on the eastern side of the Indian Ocean."	军事分析师貌昂妙表示，港口一旦建成，“皎漂将变成中国的海军基地”，“中国迫切需要获得印度洋东部的入海口”。
China is already building Indian Ocean ports in Pakistan and Sri Lanka, and it is seeking approval for one in Bangladesh.	中国已经在巴基斯坦和斯里兰卡修建印度洋港口，正在孟加拉申请修建一个港口。
Some hurdles remain. Frustration with China roils the scruffy town of Kyaukpyu, among the poorest in Myanmar. After a decade of Chinese pipeline construction in the area, ordinary people say they received few benefits. The schools built by China as part of a corporate responsibility project were empty shells, they said.	现在依然存在一些障碍。对中国的失望惹恼了这个脏乱的城镇，它是缅甸最穷的地方之一。当地普通民众表示，中国在该地区修建管道十年后，他们所得好处甚少。他们还说，作为公司社会责任项目一部分而修建的学校只是空壳。
"I got a few cents a day for digging the pipeline and about $250 for the five-year use of my land," said Tun Aung Kyaw, 56, a farmer who was walking to herd his six cows in bare feet, a thin tarpaulin tied across his bare chest to protect him from the monsoon rain.	“我挖管道每天只能挣一点小钱，我的地被租用五年，只给了我约 250 美元，”56 岁的农民吞昂觉(Tun Aung Kyaw)说。他赤着脚驱赶六头奶牛，赤裸的胸膛上系着一块薄防水布，抵挡季风带来的暴雨。
Citic is aware of the hostility and is working with nongovernmental organizations in Kyaukpyu to avoid past mistakes, Mr. Yuan said. Citic will train Myanmar workers for 3,000 jobs for the park and the port, he said.	袁绍斌表示，中信了解民众的敌意，正在与皎漂的非政府组织合作，避免再犯过去的错误。他还说，中信会培训缅甸工人从事园区和港口的 3000 份工作。
China also faces suspicions among Myanmar's politicians, many of whom opposed a Chinese-financed dam planned at Myitsone, on the Irrawaddy River, to provide power to China. The previous government, yielding to public opposition, suspended the $3.6 billion project. Ms. Aung San Suu Kyi's government has appointed a commission to decide the dam's fate.	中国也面临着缅甸政治人士的质疑，他们中的很多人反对中国出资在伊洛瓦底江上修建密松大坝、为中国提供电能的计划。前任政府迫于民众的反对，暂停了这个耗资 36 亿美元的项目。昂山素季政府成立了一个委员会，以决定大坝的命运。

A confidant of Ms. Aung San Suu Kyi's and a member of her political party, Mi Khun Chan, said China viewed aiding the peace process as part of the cost of winning a green light for the dam.	昂山素季的心腹、她的政党成员米坤参(Mi Khun Chan)表示，中国将协助和平进程视为争取给大坝放行的代价。
For all the misgivings among her people about China, Ms. Aung San Suu Kyi seems impressed with Beijing's power to assist in peace.	尽管民众对中国抱有疑虑，但昂山素季似乎对北京协助和平进程的能力印象深刻。
Her father, Aung San, the leader of Burma after World War II, dreamed of a united country. He almost got there, presiding over an agreement with ethnic leaders in 1947 for a federation of states. Six months later he was assassinated.	她的父亲、二战后的缅甸领袖昂山曾梦想实现国家统一。他离梦想只有一步之遥，1947年，他主持一项协商，计划与少数民族领袖组建一个联邦政府。六个月后，他被暗杀了。
Ms. Aung San Suu Kyi wants to finish the job.	昂山素季想完成这项工作。
"Our goal is the emergence of a democratic federal union based on democracy and federalism," she said at the opening of the peace conference here.	"我们的目标是在民主和联邦制的基础上建立一个民主联邦国家，"她在和谈会议开幕时表示。
For the moment, she has China at her side.	目前，中国站在她这边。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170720/myanmar-china-us-diplomacy-trump	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170720/myanmar-china-us-diplomacy-trump
Mapping the Brutality of North Korea, and Where the Bodies Are Buried SEOUL, South Korea — For two years, from a cramped office in central Seoul, activists and volunteers from five different countries have been doing something never tried before: creating interactive maps of places where North Korea is thought to have executed and buried prisoners.	绘制一张朝鲜暴政地图 韩国首尔——两年来，一个来自五个国家的活动人士和志愿者们一直在首尔中部一间狭小的办公室里，做着前人从未尝试过的事情：制作一份外界认为是朝鲜处决和埋葬囚犯地点的互动地图。
Over the years, defectors from the isolated country have testified to widespread human rights violations there, including what United Nations investigators have determined were extrajudicial executions of political prisoners and others. But there has never been a coordinated	多年来，逃离这个孤立国家的脱北者们，已为该国普遍存在的侵犯人权行为提供了诸多证词，上述行为包括联合国调查人员查明的对政治犯和其他人的法外处决。但由于朝鲜不对国外的人权调查者开放，还从未有过试图确定这些处决实际发生地的一个共同努力。

attempt to locate where those killings actually took place because the country remains off limits to outside rights investigators.
On Wednesday, activists affiliated with the Transitional Justice Working Group, a human rights group based in Seoul, announced their initial findings, identifying more than 300 sites where executions are thought to have occurred and 47 sites believed to have hosted cremations and burials, places where as many as 15 people may have been executed and their bodies dumped together or left "like trash."	周三，隶属于首尔人权团体“转型正义工作小组”(Transitional Justice Working Group)的活动人士宣布了他们的初步调查结果，他们确定了 300 多个被认为是行刑场所的地点和 47 个被认为是进行火葬和掩埋的地点，其中有的地方倾倒了或“像垃圾一样”丢弃了可能多达 15 名被处决者的尸体。
"It is not unreasonable to assume that mass grave sites in existence today will still be there years from now," said Sarah A. Son, the group's research director. "As we have seen in many other post-conflict settings around the world, people will want to know what happened to family members, and an accurate historical record will need to be created as part of the process of recovery, particularly on a scale such as that in North Korea."	“假设今天存在的集体坟墓多年后仍然存在不是没有道理的，”该团体的研究主任莎拉·A·孙(Sarah A. Son)说。“正如我们在世界各地许多其他发生冲突后的环境中所看到的，人们想知道，在他们的家人的身上发生了什么，作为恢复过程的一部分，需要建立一个准确的历史记录，特别是在像朝鲜这种规模的行径上。”
Armed with Google Earth satellite imagery, the group has interviewed 375 North Korean defectors, asking them to help locate sites so that international rights officials can one day visit them to investigate, exhume bodies, secure forensic evidence and possibly bring charges against perpetrators. With the maps, the group said it aimed to provide "a sense of the scale of the human rights violations, their locations, and their victims and their approximate numbers."	该组织在 Google Earth 卫星图像的帮助下，对 375 名脱北者进行了访谈，请他们帮助确定位置，以便国际人权官员有朝一日能前往这些地点进行调查，把尸体挖出来，获得法庭证据，并可能对肇事者提出指控。该组织表示要用绘制地图的方式为“侵犯人权行为的规模、地点、受害者，以及受害者的大致人数提供一种感受”。
"We don't know when there will be a trial or other steps to hold perpetrators of the human rights abuses accountable, but that time will come, and we want to be as ready as possible," said Dan Bielefeld, a	“虽然我们不知道什么时候能把侵犯人权者送上法庭、或用其他方式追究他们的责任，但那个日子将会到来，我们要尽可能地做好准备，”来自密尔沃基的人权活动人士、网络开发者丹·比勒费尔德(Dan Bielefeld)说。“我们用涉

web developer and human rights activist from Milwaukee. "Our location-based map of suspected sites is a start down that road."	嫌场所地点制作地图是正义之道的开端。”
The activists said they were inspired by the United Nations' commission of inquiry, which in 2014 reported prison camps, systematic torture, summary executions and other widespread rights violations in North Korea.	活动人士表示，他们受到联合国一个调查委员会的启发，该调查委员会曾在2014年发布了关于朝鲜的劳教营、系统性的酷刑、草率处决及其他广泛侵权行为报告。
The report led United Nations member states to adopt a resolution asking the Security Council to refer the North Korean leadership to the International Criminal Court in The Hague, for prosecution of possible crimes against humanity.	报告促使联合国成员国通过了一项决议，要求安理会将朝鲜领导人提交海牙国际刑事法院，可能以反人类罪对其提起诉讼。
The North vehemently denied the findings, and its allies China and Russia have stalled any attempt to bring the North before the tribunal.	朝鲜强烈否认调查结果，朝鲜的盟友中国和俄罗斯一直阻碍着任何将朝鲜带上法庭的努力。
The activists' group, whose mapping project was financed by the National Endowment for Democracy, based in Washington, did not include the interactive maps in its report for fear North Korea would tamper with the sites. But it allowed a reporter to examine them on the condition that the locations of the sites would not be revealed.	上述活动人士组织的地图项目由总部设在华盛顿的国家民主基金会(National Endowment for Democracy)资助，该组织在网上发布的报告中不包括那个互动地图，因为担心朝鲜会对地图上的地点进行有意破坏。但该组织允许记者仔细查看了地图，条件是不对地图上的具体地点作公开报道。
More than 200 locations where killings are suspected, marked with blue squares, were clustered in Hamgyongbukdo, a northeastern province of North Korea. Most of the defectors interviewed hailed from that province. (A vast majority of 30,000 North Korean defectors living in South Korea come from the provinces bordering China.)	200多处被怀疑是行刑场所的地点用蓝色小方块标记出来，它们集中在朝鲜东北部省份咸镜北道。受访的大多数脱北者来自该省。(居住在韩国的3万名脱北者中的绝大多数来自朝鲜与中国接壤的省份。)
When Mr. Bielefeld zoomed in on one town, 53 blue squares appeared within 2.5 miles of a hillside site where burials are suspected. When he clicked on a square, a brief summary popped up: a public execution by	当比勒费尔德对一个地点进行放大时，在一个山坡6公里的范围内出现了53个蓝色小方块，它们都是被怀疑埋葬死者的地方。当他点击一个方块时，一段简短介绍在屏幕上出现：一名被指控偷盗采矿设备的受害者在那里被行

firing squad on charges the victim stole parts of mining equipment. The victim was shot by three officers from the Ministry of People's Security.	刑队公开执行枪决。受害者是被人民保卫部的三名人员枪杀的。
Each square was linked to digital testimonials, including audio files, from defectors. Some testimonials gave detailed firsthand accounts with the name and profession of the victim, while others relied on secondhand information.	每个方块都有与脱北者证词数码文件的链接，包括音频文件。一些证词中给出了包括受害者姓名和职业在内的详细的第一手资料，有些则是他人转述的二手资料。
In one testimonial, a defector cited a neighbor who saw security officers hacking a victim to death in a garage. The neighbor later confirmed from a relative working as a security officer that such extrajudicial killings were common in the garage. Mr. Bielefeld put a blue square on the building on his program based on the open-source OpenStreetMap.	在一份证词中，一名脱北者引用邻居的话说，看到安全官员在一个车库里将一名受害者用刀砍死。该邻居后来从一名担任安全人员的亲戚那里证实，这种法外杀戮经常在那个车库里发生。比勒费尔德在他的基于 OpenStreetMap 开源地图的软件上把一个蓝色小方块标在了那个建筑物上。
The group said North Koreans were executed for such crimes as smuggling mushrooms to China, stealing copper from factories, distributing South Korean dramas, human trafficking and "a slip of the tongue," usually a reference to criticism of the regime.	该团体说，被处死的朝鲜人所犯的罪行包括涉嫌向中国走私蘑菇、盗取工厂的铜、分销韩国电视剧、贩运人口，以及“口误”罪，通常指的是批评朝鲜政权。
Public executions took place most often between 1994 and 2000, during which North Korea struggled to control its people suffering in a nationwide famine, it said.	该团体说，公开处决在 1994 年至 2000 年期间最为频繁，朝鲜在那段时间曾努力控制遭受全国饥荒的人民。
"They hanged people in crowded places like markets and left the bodies there for hours to instill fear among the people," said Oh Se-hyek, a North Korean defector who conducted the interviews for the mapping project.	"他们在市场这样的拥挤地方把人吊死，并把尸体挂在那里好几个小时，以恐吓人民，"脱北者吴世海（Oh Se-hyek，音）说，他负责为地图项目对其他脱北者做访谈。
Mr. Oh said the biggest challenge for him was to persuade other defectors to testify for the mapping project, even when he promised	吴世海说，他所面临最大的挑战是劝说其他脱北者为地图项目作证，尽管他答应不透露这些人的个人信息。即使在韩国重新安置之后，脱北者仍担心朝

not to reveal their personal information. Even after resettling in South Korea, defectors feared that the North Korean authorities would trace their whereabouts and retaliate against their relatives back in the North.	鲜当局会查到他们的下落，并对他们在朝鲜的亲人进行报复。
Some of the executions on the digital maps dated from the 1960s, but some were as recent as 2015. As many as 15 people were executed at the same time, usually by firing squad.	该数字地图上记录的一些处决发生在20世纪60年代，也有发生在近在2015年的处决。最多的时候，15人被同时处决，通常是被行刑队用枪打死的。
Lee Young-hwan, executive director of the Transitional Justice Working Group, recalled the shock he felt when he was a college student doing volunteer work with North Korean defectors in 1999. During a painting class, a 7-year-old boy from the North depicted a scene he saw in his old homeland: uniformed North Korean soldiers executing people by shooting.	转型正义工作小组执行主任李英焕(Lee Younghwan, 音)回忆了1999年，他在自己的大学时代从事帮助脱北者的义务工作时感受到的一次震惊。在绘画班上，一名来自朝鲜的7岁男孩绘制了他在自己的老家看到的一个场景：穿制服的朝鲜士兵用枪对人执行死刑。
Encouraged by the 2014 United Nations report, Mr. Lee began putting together the international team to use satellite imagery and open-source mapping technology to record North Korean human rights violations, just as security analysts use such technology to monitor the North's military and nuclear sites.	受联合国2014年报告的鼓舞，李英焕开始召集这个国际小组，用卫星图像和开源地图技术来记录朝鲜侵犯人权的行为，就像安全分析人员使用这种技术来监视朝鲜的军事和核设施那样。
"As we interview more defectors down the road, we expect to locate more killing and burial sites across the North," Mr. Lee said. "Our work is still at an early stage. This is a collaborative work, and we expect more technical and other volunteers to join us."	"随着我们对更多脱北者做访谈，预计我们会在朝鲜发现更多的行刑和埋葬地点，"李英焕说。"我们的工作还处于早期阶段。这是一个合作项目，我们期望更多的技术人员和其他志愿者加入到我们的行列中来。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170720/north-korea-execution-sites	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170720/north-korea-execution-sites
The Female Warlord Who Had C.I.A. Connections and Opium Routes	不甘做女人，她成为缅甸大毒枭
MUSE, Myanmar — She was born to royalty in British colonial Burma,	缅甸木姐——她出生于英国殖民统治时期的缅甸皇室，但她拒绝那种生活，

but rejected that life to become a cross-dressing warlord whose C.I.A.-supplied army established opium trade routes across the Golden Triangle. By the time of her death, last week at 90, she had led hundreds of men, endured prison and torture, generated gossip for her relationship with a film actress and, finally, helped forge a truce between ethnic rebels and the government.	成为女扮男装的军阀，她的军队得到 CIA 的补给，在金三角地区建立了鸦片贸易路线。上周，她以 90 岁高龄去世。她曾领导成百上千人，经受牢狱之苦和酷刑，她与一名女电影演员的关系曾引发流言蜚语，最终，她帮助少数民族叛军和政府达成停火协议。
Olive Yang grew up as one of 11 children in an ethnic Chinese family of hereditary rulers of what was then the semiautonomous Shan state of Kokang. According to relatives, she wore boys' clothes, refused to bind her feet and frequently fell in love with her brothers' romantic interests.	杨金秀出身半自治的果敢掸邦华裔少数民族世袭统治家族，有 10 个兄弟姐妹。据亲戚们说，她爱穿男孩的衣服，拒绝裹脚，经常爱上兄弟们的心仪对象。
Concerned about their unconventional daughter, her parents arranged for her to marry a younger cousin. Shortly after she became pregnant, archives show, she left her husband to pursue a life among opium-trafficking bandits. Her son, Duan Jipu — named for the American jeeps Ms. Yang had seen in the Chinese city of Kunming during World War II — was raised by other family members.	她的父母为这个不遵循传统的女儿担忧，把她嫁给了一个表弟。档案显示，她怀孕后不久就离开了丈夫，在走私鸦片的土匪中寻找新的生活。她的儿子段吉普是亲戚们养大的，这个名字来自杨金秀根二战期间在中国昆明市看到的美国吉普。
Ms. Yang's pursuit of a career as a militia leader and opium smuggler grew in part out of her desperation to escape traditional gender roles, her relatives said. "It was a temptation she couldn't resist," wrote her niece Jackie Yang in "House of Yang," a family history published in 1997.	她的亲戚们称，杨金秀追求军事领袖和鸦片走私事业的一个原因是她渴望摆脱传统的性别角色。“那是她无法拒绝的诱惑，”她的侄女杰姬·杨(Jackie Yang)在 1997 年出版的家族史书《杨氏家族》(House of Yang)一书中写道。
By age 25, she commanded hundreds of soldiers guarding caravans of raw opium on mules and trucks across the hills to the Thai border. Those trade routes served what would eventually become the world's most productive opium-growing region, supplying raw ingredients for the heroin that was trafficked across the United States and Europe.	杨金秀 25 岁时，指挥成百上千名士兵守卫装载鸦片原料的骡子和车队，翻山越岭，赶往泰国边境。这些贸易路线所服务的鸦片产地最终成为世界上产量最高的生产区，为海洛因提供原料，产品走私到美国与欧洲。

Ms. Yang partnered with remnants of the Chinese Nationalist troops who had been defeated by Mao's Communists but continued to fight from havens in Burma. Intelligence dispatches at the National Archives in Yangon described her as a menace to the peace.	一些国民党残余部队被毛泽东领导的共产党打败后，继续在缅甸的避难所战斗，杨金秀曾与他们合作。仰光国家档案馆的情报文件称她是对和平的威胁。
The Nationalist troops had won support from the C.I.A. because of their shared interest in stemming the spread of communism during the early stages of the Cold War. The covert plan, called Operation Paper, included an agreement by which American weapons were airlifted to Southeast Asia using planes owned by the C.I.A., Alfred W. McCoy wrote in his 1972 book, "The Politics of Heroin," as the Nationalists and Ms. Yang's troops financed their operations through opium sales.	这些国民党军队获得了 CIA 的支持，因为在冷战初期，他们都想阻止共产主义的蔓延。阿尔弗雷德·W·麦科伊(Alfred W. McCoy)在 1972 年的《海洛因政治》(The Politics of Heroin)一书中写道，一个名为行动文件(Operation Paper)的秘密计划中包括一项协议：CIA 用自己的飞机把美国的武器空运至东南亚，国民党和杨金秀的军队通过销售鸦片为他们的行动提供资金。
The C.I.A.-supplied arms found their way into Ms. Yang's hands in 1952, as documented by the Burmese government in a complaint submitted at the United Nations General Assembly the following year. Ms. Yang's army was observed traveling across the border to an airfield in Thailand, where an unmarked C-47 aircraft arriving from Taiwan, the seat of the Chinese Nationalist government, was reported to have unloaded weapons.	根据缅甸政府 1953 年向联合国大会提交的投诉,1952 年 CIA 提供的武器落到了杨金秀手中。杨金秀的军队被观察到穿过边境，来到泰国的一个机场，据说一架来自台湾，没有标识的 C-47 飞机在那里卸下军火。台湾是国民党政府的所在地。
Shortly thereafter, Ms. Yang was intercepted by the Burmese authorities while traveling by car from the Thai border with her deputy, Lo Hsing Han. She spent five years in prison in Mandalay, on charges that she helped Chinese Nationalist soldiers illegally cross the border into Burma. It was the first of many imprisonments for Ms. Yang and Mr. Lo.	不久后，杨金秀和副手罗兴汉乘车从泰国边境返回缅甸时，电话遭缅甸当局窃听。她被指控帮助国民党士兵非法入境，在曼德勒的监狱里关了五年。那是杨金秀和罗兴汉第一次入狱，之后他们又多次入狱。
Mr. Lo would go on to earn the designation "kingpin of the heroin traffic in Southeast Asia," by United States drug enforcement officials, after	后来，罗兴汉与缅甸军政府达成协议，军政府允许他继续从事鸦片贸易，换取他支持政府军打击叛军，他后来被美国缉毒官员称为“东南亚海洛因贸易

striking a deal with the Burmese military government that allowed him to resume trading in opium in return for assisting government forces against rebel forces.	轴心”。
After her older brother Edward abdicated in 1959, along with dozens of other hereditary rulers in Shan state, Ms. Yang took control of his former army, becoming the de facto ruler of the territory. She also, according to her relatives, entered into a relationship with a Burmese movie actress, Wah Wah Win Shwe, lavishing her with gifts and adding her name to the deed of her house in Yangon.	1959年，哥哥杨振材和掸邦的其他几十位世袭统治者退位后，杨金秀控制了哥哥从前的军队，成为该地区的实际统治者。据亲戚们称，杨金秀还和缅甸女电影演员瓦瓦温瑞(Wah Wah Win Shwe)有过恋爱关系，慷慨地送了她很多礼物，还把她的名字加到自己仰光豪宅的房契上。
Ms. Yang's family considered them a couple, though in an interview in 2015, Ms. Win Shwe, who still lived in a house on Ms. Yang's former property, denied an affair. In any case, the arrangement came to an abrupt end in 1963, when Ms. Yang was arrested by police officials under Gen. Ne Win, who had seized power in Burma the year before. She spent six years in Yangon's Insein Prison, where she reportedly endured torture.	杨金秀的家人认为她们是情侣，不过瓦瓦温瑞2015年接受采访时予以否认——她依然住在杨金秀从前地产上的一座房子里。不管怎样，1963年，两人的协议突然结束，杨金秀被之前一年攫取缅甸政权的奈温(Ne Win)将军手下的警察逮捕。她在仰光的永盛监狱里关了六年，据说，她在那里遭受了酷刑。
Her career took another turn in 1989, when she was in her 60s. Retired as a warlord but respected among the ethnic rebel groups, Ms. Yang was recruited by the Burmese government's chief of intelligence, Khin Nyunt, along with her former colleague Mr. Lo, to help negotiate peace agreements for the government. The agreement struck with Ms. Yang's distant relative Peng Jiasheng and his Kokang rebel force, the Myanmar National Democratic Alliance Army, largely held until new fighting broke out in 2009.	1989年，60多岁的杨金秀再次迎来事业转机。当时，她已经不再做军阀，但依然受到少数民族叛军尊敬，她和前同事罗兴汉被缅甸政府的军情局局长钦纽(Khin Nyunt)招募，帮助政府协商和平协议。这项协议是与杨金秀的远亲彭家声及其果敢叛军缅甸民族民主同盟军(Myanmar National Democratic Alliance Army)达成，总体上维持到了2009年，之后爆发了新的战争。
Confined to a wheelchair, Ms. Yang spent her twilight years in relative	杨金秀晚年只能坐轮椅，过着相对默默无闻的生活，她住在木姐的大宅子里，

obscurity, living in the care of her stepson and his militiamen in a compound in Muse. Visited there not long after she had a stroke in 2015, Ms. Yang said she was happy to be living surrounded by deferential soldiers. When shown a photograph of Ms. Win Shwe at her home, Ms. Yang responded with a knowing smile and a devilish laugh. With a Chinese cigarette in her hand, she said, "That whole property was mine."	由继子及其手下民兵照顾。2015年，她中风后不久接受采访时表示，她很喜欢被恭顺的士兵围绕。我们给她看温瑞在她家里拍的照片，她以会意的微笑和顽皮的大笑回应。她手拿一支中国香烟，说：“那整个产业都是我的。”
Ms. Yang, who died on July 13, is survived by two younger sisters and her son. None of her immediate relatives remain in Kokang. Ms. Yang's eventual tomb, built for her with the help of one of her former soldiers, stands near Muse, just outside Kokang.	杨金秀于7月13日去世，她在世的亲人包括两个妹妹和儿子。她的近亲都不住在果敢。杨金秀最终的墓地是她从前的一名士兵帮助建造的，位于果敢外的木姐附近。
"It's very sad for all of Kokang," said the former soldier, Liu Guoxi, reached by phone as he was preparing for the funeral. "We have all come to say farewell to our leader."	“对整个果敢来说，这是一件非常悲伤的事，”前士兵刘国熹（音）在接受电话采访时表示。他正在为葬礼做准备。“我们都来跟领袖告别。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170724/burmese-warlord-olive-yang	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170724/burmese-warlord-olive-yang
U.S. Navy Plane Takes 'Evasive Action' to Avoid Chinese Fighter Jet	美军侦察机在东海上空遭中国战机拦截
WASHINGTON — A United States Navy spy plane had to take evasive action to avoid crashing into a Chinese fighter jet that suddenly pulled up in front of the American plane in contested skies above the East China Sea on Sunday, the Pentagon said.	华盛顿——五角大楼说，上周日，在东海上空有争议的领空，美国海军的一架侦察机不得不采取规避行动，避免撞上一架突然拉起，出现在它前面的中国战机。
Two Chinese fighter planes intercepted the Navy EP-3 surveillance plane, approaching at high speeds from beneath the American plane, said Capt. Jeff Davis, a Pentagon spokesman.	五角大楼发言人杰夫·戴维斯上校(Capt. Jeff Davis)说，两架中国战机高速从下方接近这架美国海军 EP-3 型侦察机，对其进行拦截。
When the planes were only a few hundred feet apart, one of the	当飞机仅仅相距几百英尺的时候，其中一架中国飞机减速，直接在美国海军

Chinese planes slowed down and flew directly in front of the Navy plane, prompting the American pilot to take what Captain Davis described as “evasive action.” He said the episode took place in international airspace between the East China Sea and the Yellow Sea, west of the Korean Peninsula.	的飞机前面飞行，导致美国飞行员采取了戴维斯上校所说为“规避行动”。他说此事发生在东海与朝鲜半岛以西的黄海之间的国际空域内。
A number of small islands in the East China Sea are claimed simultaneously by China, Japan and Taiwan, and Beijing has made a policy of disputing the presence of American spy planes that come near disputed islands there as well as those in the South China Sea.	中国、日本和台湾同时声称对东海的一些小岛拥有主权，针对美国侦察机在有争议的东海岛屿附近以及南海的存在，北京制定了干扰对策。
The United States has backed China’s neighbors in challenging those claims, as well as China’s military buildup on disputed islands. American ships and planes often traverse those seas and skies to exercise what the Pentagon has called their right to move through international airspace and waters.	针对北京的领土主张，以及中国在有争议的岛屿上进行的军事建设，美国支持中国的邻国向其发起挑战。美国的船只和飞机经常穿越相应的水域和空域，行使五角大楼所说的国际空域和水域使用权。
Defense officials said that the United States has complained about the episode to Beijing, but Captain Davis also appeared to take pains to avoid escalating the issue. He made a point of characterizing it as out of the ordinary for China.	国防部官员表示，美国已经向北京就该事件进行了抗议，但戴维斯上校似乎也在煞费苦心避免让问题升级。他特意帮北京将此事描述为例外。
“This is uncharacteristic of the normal safe behavior we see from the Chinese military,” Captain Davis told reporters at the Pentagon. “There are intercepts that occur in international airspace regularly, and the vast majority of them are conducted in a safe manner.”	“这和我们看到的中国军方的正常安全行为很不相同，”戴维斯上校在五角大楼对记者说。“在国际空域里经常会有拦截行动，绝大多数是以安全的方式进行的。”
He called Sunday’s encounter “the exception, not the norm.”	他称周日的事情是个“例外，不属于正常情况”。
During last year’s presidential campaign, Donald J. Trump labeled President Barack Obama as weak in defending international waters off	特朗普去年开展总统竞选活动时，曾说奥巴马在维护中国海岸外的国际水域方面软弱无力，北京在那里大举开展军事建设：填海造地，修建跑道，将设

the coast of China, where Beijing has engaged in a sharp military buildup to reclaim land, install runways and haul equipment onto reefs and shoals it claims as its own. But since taking office, amid mounting tensions with North Korea, the Trump administration has shown deference to Beijing.	备运往他们声称拥有主权的礁石和浅滩上。但是特朗普上任之后，由于朝鲜局势日益紧张，当局对北京表示了顺从。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170725/navy-plane-intercepted-chinese-jets	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170725/navy-plane-intercepted-chinese-jets
Anti-Chinese Posters at Melbourne Universities Are Tied to White Supremacists	“禁止中国人进入”：澳大利亚校园内出现反华海报
SYDNEY, Australia — Students at two Melbourne-area universities returned on Monday for the first day of a new semester to find racist, anti-Chinese posters plastered on building signs and walls.	澳大利亚悉尼——墨尔本地区两所大学的学生本周一回到学校，开始新学期的第一天，结果发现楼宇的标牌和墙壁上贴着种族主义的反华海报。
The posters, found at the University of Melbourne and Monash University, were in awkwardly worded Chinese, and read: “Attention! This is a place that prohibits Chinese people to enter. Any offense is subject to prosecution or possible deportation.”	在墨尔本大学(University of Melbourne)和莫纳什大学(Monash University)发现的这些海报上，写着生硬的中文，内容是：“注意！此处禁止中国人进入。如果违章将面临起诉以及驱逐出境的可能。”
The discovery of the posters comes as Australian schools have been absorbing an influx of students from mainland China and as the country is confronting concerns about Chinese interference in its political system and influence over its economy.	澳大利亚的学校招收了大量来自中国大陆的学生，而且中国对澳大利亚政治制度的干涉、对其经济产生的影响，也让该国感到担忧，海报就是在这样的大背景下出现的。
The posters found at the two universities included logos from the National Union of Students, the Chinese Student and Scholars Association at the University of Melbourne, and the Monash Chinese Student Association.	在这两所大学出现的海报上有全国学生联合会(National Union of Students)的标识，以及墨尔本大学华人学生学者协会和莫纳什中国学生协会的标识。
The posters were quickly removed, and organizations at both	这些海报被迅速清除，两所大学里标识被盗用的组织发表了联合声明，确认

universities whose logos were used issued a joint statement confirming they did not produce the posters.	这些海报不是他们制作的。
"Our society has been maliciously slandered by these notices put up around the university campus and it has created a harmful and poisonous atmosphere for all students," the statement said.	声明说：“我们社团被校园里这些四处张贴的告示恶意诽谤，它给所有学生都造成了一种有害、有毒的气氛。”
The Antipodean Resistance, a white supremacist group that identifies itself as pro-Nazi, claimed responsibility for the posters on Twitter. The group's website contains anti-Chinese slurs and Nazi imagery.	“澳洲抵抗”(Antipodean Resistance)是一个自称亲纳粹的白人至上主义团体，它在 Twitter 上声称对这些海报负责。该集团的网站上也有反华言论和纳粹图像。
Both universities said that they had contacted the police and were starting investigations using closed-circuit television footage to try to determine who put up the posters.	两所大学均表示已经报警，并调出监控录像以确认贴海报的人。
"We are committed to maintaining and strengthening a vibrant, inclusive and respectful campus community in which diversity is recognized, valued and celebrated," the University of Melbourne said in a statement. Monash University confirmed on Facebook that 23 posters had been found on their Clayton campus and called "any instance of racism abhorrent."	墨尔本大学在一份声明中说：“我们致力于维护和促进一个充满活力、包容性和尊重的校园社区，在这里，多元化将得到赞赏、重视和庆祝。”莫纳什大学在 Facebook 上确认在克莱顿校区发现了 23 张海报，并称之为“种族主义仇视的例子”。
On Chinese social media platforms like WeChat and Weibo, news of the posters garnered significant attention. The Chinese state news media reported on the posters while highlighting a history of other anti-Chinese incidents in Australia.	在微信和微博等中国社交媒体平台上，海报的消息引起了广泛的关注。中国国家新闻媒体报道了海报事件，同时强调了澳大利亚历史上的其他反华事件。
An article on Australian Red Scarf, a popular website among young Chinese people in Australia, called on the Australian government to get involved in the matter. The article was viewed more than 17,000 times.	“澳大利亚红领巾”网站在澳大利亚的年轻中国人当中人气很高，它发文呼吁澳大利亚政府介入此事。该文的浏览量已超过 1.7 万次。
"We could have just laughed at these posters insulting China," it said.	“面对这些辱华海报，本应该一笑而过。但是发生在新生开学的第一周，还

"But this has happened in the first week of the semester, and has brought shame on our student union – will you be able to put up with this?"	顺带黑了咱们学生会一把，你还能忍吗？”文章说。
Sophie Johnston, president of the National Union of Students, said the group had been in contact with student body presidents at universities across Australia to warn them in case similar episodes occurred.	全国学生联合会主席苏菲·约翰斯顿(Sophie Johnston)表示，该集团已经与澳大利亚各大学的学生团体主席联系过，希望在发生类似事件时通知他们。
"Those kinds of comments don't have any place on university campuses," she said, adding that most Australian students did not share such sentiment toward Chinese students.	她说“大学校园里没有这种言论的容身之地”，又说大多数澳大利亚学生对中国学生都没有这种情绪。
It is not the first time the Antipodean Resistance has left racist material on campuses. In December, posters urging "Keep Australia White" were also found on buildings at the University of Melbourne.	这也不是“澳洲抵抗”第一次在校园里散发种族主义资料了。去年12月，在墨尔本大学的建筑物上也发现了海报，呼吁“维护白人的澳洲”。
The latest posters alarmed Chinese students studying at the University of Melbourne.	这些新的海报让墨尔本大学的中国学生感到震惊。
Melinda Mengying Li, 23, who arrived in Melbourne two weeks ago to begin a master's degree in art curatorship, said the posters fed into a pattern of discrimination that Chinese people face worldwide.	23岁的李梦影（音）两周前抵达墨尔本，在这里攻读艺术策展硕士学位，她说，这些海报助长了一种中国人在世界各地遭到歧视的模式。
"I felt enraged, thinking of how Chinese overseas communities have always been isolated, unjustly labeled and even attacked," she said. "I hoped on campus there could be an atmosphere of equality, mutual respect and mutual improvement."	“想到海外的中国人社区一直遭到孤立，被贴上不公正的标签，甚至遭到袭击。我就感到很愤怒，”她说。“我希望校园里有平等、相互尊重、相互促进的气氛。”
Other students dismissed the posters as little more than the work of isolated amateurs.	另外一些学生认为，这种海报不过是一些被孤立的、很业余的人搞出来的玩意儿。
Ruiqi Liu, the president of the University of Melbourne branch of the Chinese Student and Scholars Association, called the posters	中国学生学者联合会墨尔本大学分会会长刘瑞奇（音）说这些海报“可笑”而“幼稚”。

"laughable" and "childish."
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170726/anti-chinese-posters-melbourne-universities	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170726/anti-chinese-posters-melbourne-universities
Intelligence Agencies Say North Korean Missile Could Reach U.S. in a Year	美国预计朝鲜导弹射程一年内可及美国本土
WASHINGTON — American intelligence agencies have shortened their estimate — to one year — of how long it is likely to take North Korea to put the finishing touches on a missile that can reach the continental United States, according to several administration officials briefed on the new assessment.	华盛顿——几位获得新评估简报的政府官员称，美国情报机构缩短了之前的预测，认为朝鲜可在一年内制造出可以到达美国大陆的导弹。
Until a few weeks ago, the official estimate was that it would take roughly four years, give or take 12 months, for North Korea to develop a missile that could carry a nuclear weapon small enough to fit into the missile's warhead and capable of surviving the stresses of re-entry and deliver it to the United States.	仅在几周前，官方还认为朝鲜需要四年——可能提早或延后 12 个月——开发出一种导弹，其弹头可安装足够小的核武器，并能承受再次进入大气层的压力，将核弹头送达美国。
But the realities of the past few months, especially a July 4 test that crossed a major threshold — if just barely — has forced intelligence experts to conclude that their estimates have been too conservative. In the test this month, a missile carried a warhead 1,700 miles into space, and returned it at high speed in a sharp parabola.	但是过去数月的事实，尤其是 7 月 4 日跨过一个重要门槛（虽然是勉强跨过）的试验，迫使情报官员得出结论，他们之前的估计太过保守。在本月的试验中，一枚导弹将一个弹头送入 1700 英里外的太空，并以窄抛物线高速回落。
If the trajectory was flattened out, the missile could strike Alaska. That forced government experts, reflexively cautious after overestimating Iraq's weapons of mass destruction 14 years ago, back to the drawing board.	如果这个抛物线更宽，那么这枚导弹就可以打击到阿拉斯加。这迫使政府专家们开始重新考虑这个问题。14 年前，专家们高估了伊拉克的大规模杀伤性武器，之后变得非常谨慎。
Behind the new assessment, officials said, was a growing recognition	官员们表示，专家们做出这项新评估，是因为他们越来越意识到，他们低估

that they underestimated the determination of Kim Jung-un, North Korea's leader, to race ahead with a weapon that could reach American soil, even if it is crudely engineered and inaccurate.	了朝鲜领导人金正恩(Kim Jung-un)开发出能抵达美国本土的武器的决心——虽然它的工程水平较低劣，也不太精准。
General Paul Selva, the vice chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, put the best case forward last week when testifying before the Senate Armed Services Committee. The most recent test, he said, stopped short of demonstrating that North Korea possesses "the capacity to strike the United States with any degree of accuracy or reasonable confidence of success."	上周，参谋长联席会议(Joint Chiefs of Staff)副主席保罗·塞尔瓦(Paul Selva)将军在向参议院军事委员会(Senate Armed Services Committee)作证时提出了最乐观的情况。他说，最近的试验尚不能表明，朝鲜具备“以任何程度的准确性打击美国的能力，或相信能够取得成功的理由”。
But that statement went far beyond what most Pentagon officials had been allowed to say in public before the most recent test. And it reflects a growing view, from the Defense Intelligence Agency to the C.I.A., that at this point Mr. Kim's missile engineers, while still refining the technology, have cleared most of the major hurdles.	但是，那项声明远远超出了在近期试验之前大多数五角大楼官员的公开置评口径。这反映出，从国防部情报局(Defense Intelligence Agency)到中央情报局(CIA)，越来越多的人认为，此时，金正恩的导弹工程师虽然还在改进技术，但已经清除了大部分主要障碍。
It is unclear how, if at all, that will change the calculus for President Trump. He has vowed to dispense with the Obama-era strategy of "strategic patience" toward North Korea. American military officials have been asked to come up with new potential strategies, from stepped-up economic pressure to increased cyber attacks on the missile testing regimes. But there is a lurking sense, one senior intelligence official said last week at the Aspen Security Forum, that at this point the best the United States can do is delay the day when North Korea demonstrates it can reach beyond Alaska and Hawaii.	这一点将会如何改变(或是否会改变)特朗普总统的计划，目前尚不得而知。他已经宣布放弃奥巴马时代对朝鲜的“战略耐心”。他要求美国军事官员想出新的潜在战略，从加大经济压力，到增加对朝鲜导弹试验系统的网络攻击。但是上周一名高级情报官员在阿斯彭安全论坛(Aspen Security Forum)上表示，他渐渐感觉到，迟早有一天朝鲜会宣布它能打击到阿拉斯加和夏威夷之外的美国领土，美国能做的最多就是推迟那一天的到来。
"It a big long supply chain to build this thing out," the director of the Central Intelligence Agency, Mike Pompeo, said at the security	中央情报局局长迈克·庞皮欧(Mike Pompeo)在那场安全会议上首次公开提及破坏流入朝鲜的零件和技术的长期秘密行动。“制造这个东西需要漫长的

conference, the first public reference to a long-running covert program to undermine the parts and technologies that flow into North Korea. "As for the regime, I am hopeful we will find a way to separate it" from its missile and nuclear capabilities.	供应线,"他说。"我觉得我们能找到一个方法"阻止朝鲜政府拥有导弹和核武器。
But the essence of the new assessment, which was first reported by the Washington Post, is that Washington has no more time. If the 2018 estimate is right, North Korea will have a crude capability to reach the continental United States before the nation's missile defenses are upgraded.	不过这项最早由《华盛顿邮报》(Washington Post)报道的新评估的核心看法是,华盛顿已经没时间了。如果2018年的估计是正确的,那么在美国的导弹防御系统升级之前,朝鲜将拥有打击美国本土的基本能力。
Quietly, the Pentagon has been refining longstanding contingency plans, from intercepting missile parts at sea to attempting, if Mr. Trump should decide to do it, to destroy a missile on the launchpad, before it is tested. But it is more likely that the United States would first try a variant of the effort developed during the Obama administration to sabotage the launches with cyber and electronic warfare techniques, and with a steady flow of bad parts.	五角大楼已经在悄悄改进沿用多年的应急计划,从在海上拦截导弹零件,到尝试在试验前将导弹摧毁在发射台上——如果特朗普决定这样做的话。不过,更可能的情况是,美国会首先尝试曾由奥巴马政府采取的一种行动的变种,通过网络和电子战技术或不断输入坏零件破坏发射。
A spokesperson for the Office of the Director of National Intelligence issued a statement from Scott Bray, the national intelligence manager for East Asia, that walked to the edge of acknowledging that judgments are shifting.	美国国家情报总监办公室(Office of the Director of National Intelligence)的一名发言人发布了国家情报东亚主管斯科特·布雷(Scott Bray)的一项声明,几乎已经是在承认专家们的判断出现了转变。
"North Korea's recent test of an intercontinental range ballistic missile — which was not a surprise to the Intelligence Community — is one of the milestones that we have expected would help refine our timeline and judgments on the threats that Kim Jong Un poses to the continental United States," Mr. Bray wrote.	"朝鲜最近的洲际弹道导弹试验——对情报机构来说,这不是新鲜事——是我们预料中的一个里程碑,它将帮助我们更新时间线,判断金正恩对美国本土的威胁,"布雷写道。

“This test, and its impact on our assessments, highlight the threat that North Korea’s nuclear and ballistic missile programs pose to the United States, to our allies in the region, and to the whole world.”	“这次试验以及它对我们评估的影响突出显示了朝鲜的核武器和弹道导弹计划给美国、我们在该地区的盟友以及全世界造成的威胁。”
The steady frequency of the North Korean missile tests, using a new solid fuel technology, came as a surprise to many intelligence experts, providing a different lesson than the one that emerged from Saddam Hussein’s weapons-of-mass destruction program in Iraq.	朝鲜导弹试验稳定的密集程度以及新的固体燃料技术的使用出乎很多情报专家的意料，它提供了一个与萨达姆·侯赛因(Saddam Hussein)在伊拉克的大规模杀伤性武器计划所得出的不同的教训。
In the Iraq case, the intelligence agencies overestimated Saddam Hussein’s ability to reconstitute what was once a healthy nuclear weapons program. In the North Korean case, one senior intelligence official noted last week, the speed and sophistication of the program have been consistently underestimated — much as it was with the Soviet Union 70 years ago, and China more than 50 years ago.	在伊拉克问题上,情报机构高估了萨达姆·侯赛因重建一度完善的核武器计划的能力。而在朝鲜问题上,一名高级情报官员上周指出,朝鲜核计划的推进速度和复杂程度一直被低估,与70年前的苏联和50多年前的中国的情况很像。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170726/north-korea-missiles	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170726/north-korea-missiles
Why I Visited North Korea	“比我预想的更加超现实”: 美国人的朝鲜体验
North Korea is the most reclusive country in the world, run by a repressive government accused of systemic human rights abuses. Last week, the United States barred Americans from traveling there, after the death of a college student who was detained in the country for 17 months.	朝鲜是最与世隔绝的国家,由一个被控系统性侵犯人权的高压政府统治。在一名美国大学生被朝鲜拘禁17个月死亡后,上周,美国禁止该国公民去朝鲜旅游。
But a small number of tourists have gone despite the risks. We asked readers who had traveled to North Korea to tell us why they went and what they found. Here is a sampling of about 60 responses we received.	尽管存在着风险,仍有少量游客前往朝鲜。我们询问了一些曾在朝鲜旅游过的读者,让他们告诉我们去那里旅游的原因以及见闻。我们收到了约60个回答,以下是部分摘录:
‘Even more surreal than I’d expected’	‘比我预想的更加超现实’
Rebecca High, from Los Angeles visited the country in April to run in	来自洛杉矶的丽贝卡·海伊(Rebecca High)4月前往朝鲜,参加了平壤马拉松

the Pyongyang Marathon. She joined more than 1,000 foreigners running in the race.	松。与她一道参加这个赛事的还有 1000 多名外国人。
When did you visit North Korea, and what prompted you to go? I'd lived in South Korea during the sinking of the Cheonan and had visited the DMZ [Korean demilitarized zone] from the south side, which sparked my curiosity. I heard about the marathon in Pyongyang and figured it would be a good way to get into the country, but also to do something productive and personally challenging.	你何时前往朝鲜，又是什么原因促使你去那里的？“天安号”沉没期间我住在韩国，当时我还从南边去探访了非军事区，这激发了我的好奇。我听说了平壤的马拉松，觉得是进入这个国家的好办法，同时又能做一些有成果和对个人有挑战的事情。
What did you see on your trip that resonated with you? North Korea was aesthetically even more surreal than I'd expected: very few cars on the road, people hand-painting propaganda billboards, people on their hands and knees working vast dirt fields, Socialist Party uniformed-citizens filling giant stadiums for mandatory sports events. I was also somewhat surprised at the conversations we were able to have with our guides. We happened to be there, without contact to the outside world, the week before Kim Il-sung's 105th birthday celebrations, during the weekend that President Trump tweeted and the cold war escalated.	你在旅途中看到哪些东西令你心生感慨？朝鲜在视觉上比我预想的更加超现实：马路上没什么车；有人在手绘宣传广告牌；在大片的土地上，人们以双手双膝着地的方式劳作着；强制参加的体育赛事在巨型体育场上举行，观众席上满是穿着社会主义政党制服的公民。我们与导游之间的交谈也让我感到有些惊讶。在金日成诞辰 105 周年之前的一周，我们碰巧在那里，与外界没有接触，那个周末特朗普总统发表了一些推文，冷战升级了。
Do you think that outsiders should visit nations like North Korea? I think cracking open borders via average citizen tourism is one of the best forms of soft diplomacy.	你认为外国人应该去像朝鲜这样的国家旅游吗？我认为通过普通公民旅游敲开边界之门，是软外交的最佳形式之一。
'I wanted to see for myself'	'我想亲眼去看看'
Mark C. W. Robinson is an American pilot based in California. He visited North Korea for four days last month with his wife.	马克·C·W·罗伯逊(Mark C. W. Robinson)是美国飞行员，住在加利福尼亚州。上个月他与妻子一起去朝鲜玩了四天。
What prompted you to go? My father has visited 69 countries, and I've	是什么促使你去朝鲜的？我父亲去过 69 个国家，我有几个朋友去过朝鲜。

had a few friends who have been to North Korea. I wanted to do something unique and decided to book a ticket via Beijing. I wanted to see for myself since we no longer know what will happen next politically.	我想做一些独特的事情，于是决定订下经由北京的机票。我想亲眼去看看，因为我们也不知道以后在政治上会发生什么事情。
What did you see on your trip that resonated with you? When we went to the DMZ, a soldier was extremely friendly. One political conversation came up, and he said he wished that both nations would talk. I was surprised to fly in a helicopter. Being a pilot myself, this was amazing to see the capital from the air. It's huge!	你对旅途中看到的哪些东西很感慨呢？我们参观非军事区的时候，一名士兵极为友好。我们就谈到了政治，他表示希望两国进行对话。我乘坐了直升机观光，感到很惊讶。我自己就是飞行员，从空中看平壤感觉很棒。它真的好大！
Do you think that outsiders should visit nations like North Korea? I believe outsiders should visit North Korea and other unusual nations to form their own opinion and see people running their daily lives. Tourism also gives the locals in those areas an opportunity to see Westerners and all the fashion, technology and conversation it creates.	你认为外国人应该去像朝鲜这样的国家旅游吗？我相信外国人应该访问朝鲜和其他不寻常的国家，以便形成自己的看法，亲眼看看人们是怎么过日常生活的。旅游业也让这些国家的当地人有机会看到西方人以及他们带来的各种时尚、技术和交流。
'I knew my trip was being carefully curated'	'我知道自己的行程是精心安排的'
Kelly Whitmer, a history professor at Sewanee: The University of the South, in Tennessee, visited North Korea with her family in April.	田纳西州南方大学的历史教授凯利·惠特曼(Kelly Whitmer)今年4月份与家人一起去朝鲜旅行了一趟。
What prompted you to go? My mother-in-law, Kathryn Whitmer, who will be 80 this year, was planning a trip to participate in the Pyongyang Marathon and wanted to share the experience with a family member. She asked me if I would join her, and I agreed.	是什么促使你去朝鲜的？我婆婆凯瑟琳·惠特默(Kathryn Whitmer)今年就要满80岁了，她当时打算去参加平壤马拉松，还想和家人分享这次经历。她问我要不要和她一起去，我答应了。
What did you see on your trip that resonated with you? I knew my trip was being carefully curated, that there were many sides of Pyongyang and the country that I simply would not see, or would be prevented from seeing. Yet, I am still glad that I went. It was like stepping into	旅途中看到的哪些东西让你印象深刻？我知道自己的行程是精心安排的，平壤和这个国家有很多方面是我根本不会看到，或者说不让我看到的。但我还是很高兴自己去了。像是踏入了另一个世界。这种经历会改变你对自己的生活的看法。参加平壤马拉松的经历很美好，除此以外，我看到的最难忘的，

another world. It was the kind of experience that changes the way you look at your own life. Apart from the experience of participating in the Pyongyang Marathon, which was amazing, the most memorable thing I saw were the underground stations with impressive, colorful mosaics and crowds of people coming and going. I will also never forget the "morning music" played in Pyongyang every day, starting just after dawn. I can still hear the melody in my head.	是那些有着令人印象深刻的彩色马赛克，人群来了又去的地铁站。此外，我永远都不会忘记平壤每天播放的“晨乐”，天刚亮就开始了。我现在还能在脑海里听到那种旋律。
Do you think that outsiders should visit nations like North Korea? While I understand the argument against traveling there – that by going you're supporting the regime – I still believe in the power of building and sustaining meaningful connections with people in different parts of the world through travel.	你认为外国人应该去朝鲜这样的国家旅游吗？尽管我理解不让去那里旅游的理由——去那里就是在支持朝鲜政权——但我依然相信，通过旅游与世界不同地方的人建立和保持有意义的联系所带来的力量。
'What I saw is what the authorities wanted me to see'	'我看到的，都是当局想让我看到的'
Simon Park visited the country twice in 2011 to teach at North Korea's only private university, Pyongyang University of Science and Technology, or P.U.S.T., which is funded by a Christian group in the West. Two Americans who worked at the university are currently detained. Mr. Park was a missionary who volunteered to teach a course on international finance.	西蒙·帕克(Simon Park)在2011年两次前往朝鲜唯一一所私立大学平壤科技大学(Pyongyang University of Science and Technology, 简称 PUST)任教。这所大学是由西方一个基督教团体资助的。曾在该校工作的两名美国人目前被朝鲜拘押。西蒙·帕克是一名传教士，自愿教授一门有关国际金融的课程。
What prompted you to go? I was looking for more meaningful engagement with people than just transactional engagements, like food distribution and financial gifts. I thought P.U.S.T. was an endeavor that had a chance.	是什么原因促使你去朝鲜的？我当时正在寻找通过更有意义的方式，而不仅仅是像食品发放和金钱捐赠这样的简单活动，与人们联系。我想，PUST 是一种尝试，有一定的机会。
What did you see on your trip that resonated with you? What I saw is what the authorities wanted me to see. At P.U.S.T., a sign, attributed to	旅途中看到的哪些东西让你印象深刻？我看到的，都是当局想让我看到的。在 PUST，主楼里一面显著的墙上挂着一个署名是金正日(Kim Jong-il)的牌

Kim Jong-il, was displayed on a prominent wall in the main building and read, "Plant your feet firmly in the motherland and watch the world." This seemingly schizophrenic attitude explained many dissonant beliefs and behaviors. Young students were selected by the state for academic performance and loyalty to the regime. The authorities knew who I was. They held my passport and phone for six weeks, but were willing to allow me to teach their students. Allowing access to its people as long as the regime feels confident that it can control its citizens and the visitors seemed to be the standard for all interactions with outsiders.	子，上面写着“坚定地立足祖国，观望世界”。这种看似矛盾的态度，解释了很多不协调的信念和行为。国家根据学习成绩和对朝鲜政权的忠诚程度挑选年轻学生。当局知道我是谁。在长达六周的时间里，他们收走了我的护照和手机，但愿意让我教他们的学生。只要当局相信自己能够控制自己的公民和外国人，就允许接触民众，这似乎是所有与外国人互动的标准。
Do you think that outsiders should visit nations like North Korea? They should visit, but with realistic expectations and free of personal agenda.	你认为外国人应该去朝鲜这样的国家旅游吗？应该去，但要怀着合理的预期，不要有个人的议程。
'We wanted to bring our two countries closer'	'我们想拉近两个国家的距离'
Patrick Leslie, from Texas, traveled to North Korea in June 2012 while he was studying in Seoul, South Korea. He played on a recreational basketball team that traveled to Pyongyang for a friendly match.	来自德克萨斯州的帕特里克·莱斯利(Patrick Leslie)在2012年6月在韩国首尔留学期间去过朝鲜。当时，在一个业余篮球队打球的他，随球队去平壤参加一场友谊赛。
What prompted you to go? We wanted to bring our two countries closer through basketball.	是什么原因促使你去朝鲜的？我们想通过篮球，拉近两个国家的距离。
What did you see on your trip that resonated with you? The actual basketball game we played was something that had an impact on the kids. That is something I will never forget.	旅途中看到的哪些东西让你印象深刻？我们实际参加的篮球比赛，影响到了孩子们。这是我永远都不会忘记的。
Do you think that outsiders should visit nations like North Korea? It is an amazing experience. You get to see and hear things you would never see on television.	你认为外国人应该去朝鲜这样的国家旅游吗？这是一种奇妙的经历。你会看到和听到永远不会在电视上看到的東西。
'I found myself digging for defector stories'	'我一直在寻找脱北者的故事'

Joseph Vo, a Canadian, visited North Korea last month while traveling throughout Asia.	加拿大人约瑟夫·沃(Joseph Vo)上月在亚洲各地旅游期间去了朝鲜。
What prompted you to go? Over the past couple of years, I had become very interested in the regime and the people that come out of it. I found myself digging for defector stories. We often hear stories about the regime, the leaders and their wacky antics. I feel that the people get lost in all of that.	是什么原因促使你去朝鲜的? 过去几年里, 我变得对朝鲜政权和它治下的民众非常感兴趣。我一直在寻找脱北者的故事。我们经常听说有关这个政权、它的领导人和他们疯狂滑稽的举止的故事。我觉得朝鲜民众迷失在其中了。
What did you see on your trip that resonated with you? On the bus from the airport to inner-city Pyongyang, we saw these ladies carrying buckets of water around, watering city grass. I asked one of our Korean tour guides about it. She said that these were just citizens of the city, and that they were watering the lawn because of the lack of rain. Children in school uniforms joined in every day. It was strange, because people didn't just do it when they had time, but at the same time every day the entire city would join in, so it felt forced.	旅途中看到的哪些东西让你印象深刻? 在从机场到平壤中心城区的大巴上, 我们看到一些女性提着水桶, 给市区的草地浇水。我问我们的一名朝鲜导游。她说, 这些人只是平壤的居民, 她们给草坪浇水是因为雨水少。穿着校服的孩子每天都会加入她们。这件事很奇怪, 因为人们不是有时间了才这么做, 而是在每一天的同一时间都会这么做, 而且整座城市都会加入, 所以感觉是被迫的。
Do you think that outsiders should visit nations like North Korea? Before traveling to the country I thought that a trip like this was not meant for everyone. I still feel this way. Especially with recent news, it is going to be a hard sell, but I truthfully did not feel in danger at any point on this trip.	你认为外国人应该去朝鲜这样的国家旅游吗? 去朝鲜之前, 我觉得像这样的旅行并不是所有人都适合。我现在依然这么觉得。尤其是在出了最近的新闻后, 这不是一个很好的点子, 但说实话, 旅途中任何时候我都没有觉得危险。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170726/why-i-visited-north-korea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170726/why-i-visited-north-korea
How India and China Have Come to the Brink Over a Remote Mountain Pass	中印局势剑拔弩张, 面临 30 年来最严重边界争端
On a remote pass through Himalayan peaks, China and India, two	在喜马拉雅山脉的一个偏僻山口, 由于一条没有铺砌的道路, 中国和印度这

nuclear-armed nations, have come near the brink of conflict over an unpaved road. It is one of the worst border disputes between the regional rivals in more than 30 years.	两个核武国家处在冲突的边缘。这是 30 多年来，这两个区域竞争对手之间发生的最严重的边界争端之一。
The road stands on territory at the point where China, India and Bhutan meet. The standoff began last month when Bhutan, a close ally of India, discovered Chinese workers trying to extend the road. India responded by sending troops and equipment to halt the construction. China, the more powerful of the two, angrily denounced the move and demanded that India pull back.	这条路所在的区域位于中国、印度和不丹三国交界处。对峙是从上个月开始的，印度的亲密盟友不丹发现中国工人在扩建这条道路。印度做出回应：派遣部队和设备到场，阻止施工。中国是两国中较强大的一方，他们愤怒地谴责这一举动，并要求印度撤兵。
Now soldiers from the two powers are squaring off, separated by only a few hundred feet.	现在中印两国的士兵正严阵以待，彼此相隔只有几百英尺。
The conflict shows no sign of abating, and it reflects the swelling ambition — and nationalism — of both countries. Each is governed by a muscular leader eager to bolster his domestic standing while asserting his country's place on the world stage as the United States recedes from a leading role.	冲突没有缓解的迹象，这反映出两国的野心以及民族主义的不断膨胀。两国的领导人都是强硬派，渴望提升自己在国内的地位，也想趁着美国从全球领导者位置上移步之际，确立自己国家在世界舞台上的地位。
Jeff M. Smith, a scholar at the American Foreign Policy Council who studies Indian-Chinese relations, said a negotiated settlement was the likeliest outcome. But asked whether he thought the standoff could spiral into war, he said, "Yes I do — and I don't say that lightly."	美国对外政策理事会(American Foreign Policy Council)研究中印关系的学者杰夫·M·史密斯(Jeff M. Smith)说，最有可能出现的结果就是谈判解决争端。但当记者问他，是否认为这次对峙可能会演变为战争时，他说：“是的——我可不是随便说说。”
Both sides have taken hard-line positions that make it difficult to back down. "The messaging is eerily similar," Mr. Smith said, to the countries' 1962 slide into a war that was also over border disputes.	双方的立场都很强硬，所以再要后退就非常困难了。1962 年，这两个国家曾因为边界争端进行过战争，史密斯说，“目前发出的信息”和当年的情况“异常相似”。
Why the Territory Matters	为何这块领土如此重要
On the surface, the dispute turns on whether the land belongs to China	从表面上看，此次争议是因为这块土地究竟是属于中国还是不丹而起。它只

or Bhutan. It is only about 34 square miles, but it is pivotal in the growing competition between China and India over Asia's future.	有 34 平方英里 (约合 88 平方公里)。但中印对于亚洲未来的竞争日益加剧, 这块土地对此具有至关重要的意义。
The dispute dates to contradictory phrases in an 1890 border agreement between two now-defunct empires, British India and China's Qing dynasty, that put the border in different places. One gives Bhutan control of the area — the position that India supports — and the other China.	这个争端可以追溯到 1890 年两个现已不复存在的帝国 (英属印度和中国清王朝) 签订的一个边界协议, 但不同条款规定的边界是不同的。一个条款把它划归了不丹——这是印度支持的立场——另一个把它划归了中国。
"This comes down to both countries having a reasonable claim," said Ankit Panda, a senior editor at The Diplomat, an Asian affairs journal.	"所以这两个国家的领土主张都自有其合理性, " 亚洲外交事务杂志《外交官》(The Diplomat) 的高级编辑安吉特·潘达 (Ankit Panda) 说。
Bhutan and India say that China, by extending its road, is trying to extend its control over an area known as the Dolam Plateau, part of a larger contested area.	不丹和印度说, 中国扩建道路, 试图将其控制权扩大到多拉姆高原 (Dolam Plateau), 它属于一块更大的有争议地区。
The plateau's southernmost ridge slopes into a valley that geographers call the Siliguri Corridor but that Indian strategists know as the Chicken Neck.	这个高原最南端的山脊下陷, 形成一个山谷, 地理学家称之为西里古里走廊 (Siliguri Corridor), 但是印度的战略家们称之为“鸡脖子”(Chicken Neck)。
This narrow strip of Indian territory, at points less than 20 miles wide, connects the country's central mass to its northeastern states. India has long feared that in a war, China could bisect the corridor, cutting off 45 million Indians and an area the size of the United Kingdom.	这条狭窄的印度领土, 有些地方宽不到 20 英里 (约合 32 公里), 却是将该国中央部分和东北各邦连接起来的要道。印度长期以来一直担心中国会在战争中把这条走廊一分为二, 把 4500 万印度人口和相当于英国面积那么大的一块土地和印度主要地区切断。
India's Aggressive Response	印度的激进反应
Few countries have been eager to confront China's regional ambitions as directly with military forces, which has made India's response to the construction so striking and, according to analysts from both countries, so fraught with danger.	几乎没有哪个国家想要直接动用军事力量来对抗中国的区域野心, 这就是印度对施工建设的反应非常引人瞩目的原因, 而且两国分析人士都认为, 这种反应充满了危险性。
But in recent months, India's leader, Prime Minister Narendra Modi, has	但近几个月来, 印度领导人纳伦德拉·莫迪 (Narendra Modi) 的行动已经表示,

shown that he is willing to flout China's wishes — and ignore its threats.	他有意蔑视中国的愿望，无视其威胁。
In April, a top Indian official accompanied the Dalai Lama to the border of Tibet, shrugging off China's public insistence that the journey be halted. In May, India boycotted the inauguration of President Xi Jinping's signature "One Belt, One Road" project, saying the plan ignored "core concerns on sovereignty and territorial integrity."	4月，一名印度高级官员陪同达赖喇嘛前往西藏边界，无视中国对终止这趟行程的公开要求。5月，印度抵制习近平主席极为重视的“一带一路”倡议开幕仪式，声称它无视了“关于主权和领土完整的核心关切”。
The border skirmish arose even as Mr. Modi visited Washington to court President Trump's favor as India vies with China for influence in Asia.	这场边界冲突竟然就发生在莫迪访问华盛顿的时候——中印在争夺对亚洲的影响力，莫迪想争取获得特朗普的青睐。
"I hope the Indian side knows what it's doing, because the moment you put your hand in the hornet's nest, you have to be prepared for whatever consequence there is going to be," said Shiv Kunal Verma, the author of "1962: The War That Wasn't," about the bloody border conflict the two countries fought that year.	“我希望印度方面知道自己在做什么，因为你把手放在大黄蜂蜂巢里的那一刻，就必须为将来的后果做好准备，”《1962：不是战争的战争》(1962: The War That Wasn't)的作者希夫·库奈尔·威尔马(Shiv Kunal Verma)说。该书讲述了当年那场血腥的中印边界冲突。
Chinese officials say the construction of the road was an internal affair because, they say, it took place within China's own borders. On Tuesday, China's foreign minister, Wang Yi, reiterated the country's warning to India to withdraw as a precondition for any broader talks. "The solution to this issue is also very simple," he said during a visit to Thailand, addressing the Indians directly. "That is, behave yourself and humbly retreat."	中国官员说，道路施工是中国的内部事务，因为施工范围位于中国边界之内。周二，中国外交部长王毅重申了该国的警告，说任何边界会谈都必须以印度撤军为先决条件。他说：“解决这个问题也很简单，”他在访问泰国时直接对印度人喊话。“那就是，老老实实地退出去。”
Bhutan, Caught in the Middle	夹在中间的不丹
Bhutan, which joined the United Nations in 1971, does not have diplomatic relations with China. It has always been closer to India, particularly after fears stemming from China's annexation of Tibet, another Buddhist kingdom, in the middle of the 20th century.	不丹于1971年加入联合国，与中国没有外交关系。它一直更偏向于印度，特别是在20世纪中期，中国吞并另一个佛教王国西藏，引发了不丹的恐惧之后。

Since then, India has played a central role in the kingdom's administration, contributing nearly $1 billion in economic and military aid annually in recent years. China has sought to woo Bhutan with its own offers of aid, investments and land swaps to settle border disputes.	自那之后，印度就在不丹政府中发挥了重要作用，近年来，印度每年为它提供近 10 亿美元的经济和军事援助。中国也试图拉拢不丹，希望通过提供援助、投资和土地互换来解决边界争端。
Two weeks after the construction began, Bhutan's Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying it violated earlier agreements, and called for a return to the status quo.	施工开始两周之后，不丹外交部发表声明，称此举违反了以前的协议，要求恢复原状。
"Bhutan has felt uncomfortable from the start," said Ajai Shukla, a former army colonel and consulting editor for strategic affairs at Business Standard, a daily newspaper in India. "It does not want to be caught in the middle when China and India are taking potshots at each other. Bhutan does not want to be the bone in a fight between two dogs."	"不丹从一开始就感觉很别扭，"前陆军上校、印度《商业旗帜》报(Business Standard)战略事务顾问编辑阿贾伊·苏克拉(Ajai Shukla)说。"当中国和印度互怼的时候，不丹不希望夹在中间，不想成为两条狗争斗中的那根骨头。"
The confrontation, meantime, has soured already tense relations.	与此同时，这种对峙使得双方本来就紧张的关系进一步恶化。
Mr. Modi and Mr. Xi both attended the recent Group of 20 meeting in Germany but did not hold a meeting, one on one, that might have defused tensions. India's national security adviser is expected to attend a meeting in Beijing this week, which analysts say could signal whether any face-saving compromise is possible.	莫迪和习近平都出席了不久前在德国举行的 G20 峰会，但两人并没有举行可能会缓解紧张局势的一对一会谈。印度国家安全顾问预定本周到北京开会，分析人士表示，这次会面可能会释放出是否将挽回面子、做出妥协的信号。
Mr. Xi is preparing for an important Communist Party congress in the fall that will inaugurate his second five-year term as president and consolidate his political pre-eminence. Given the unbending nature of Chinese statements, few analysts believe he would do anything that would seem weak in response to India's moves.	习近平正在为今年秋季一个重要的共产党代表大会做准备，以便开启他的第二个五年任期，巩固他的政治优势。中国发表的声明态度坚决，因此分析师普遍认为，他不会以软弱之举回应印度的行动。
"It may be harder to make concessions until after that gathering,"	"在会议结束之前，要做出让步可能会更难一些，"洛伊国际政策研究所(Lowy

Shashank Joshi, an analyst at the Lowy Institute, wrote in an essay posted on Friday, "while it may even suit Beijing to keep the crisis simmering through this period."	Institute)分析师沙尚克·乔希(Shashank Joshi)在上周五发表的一篇文章里写到。“对北京来说，在这段时期内维持中印危机处于即将爆发的状态，可能更合适。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170727/dolam-plateau-china-india-bhutan	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170727/dolam-plateau-china-india-bhutan
Where Mah-Jongg and Karaoke Are a Strategic Ploy	搓麻、K歌，保卫南海：旅游中也有政治
If you take a cruise on the Forever Happy Princess, a Chinese ship, you can play mah-jongg, sing karaoke and snorkel.	如果你乘坐中国邮轮“长乐公主号”旅游，你可以打麻将、唱卡拉OK和潜水。
You can see musical performances, like this song, "Friends."	你可以观看音乐表演，欣赏像《朋友》这样的歌曲。
And the water off the Paracel Islands is "as pure as a baby's soul," said one guest, Li Zhiyi.	而且，用游客李志义（音）的来话说，帕拉塞尔群岛（Paracel Islands，中国称之为西沙群岛——注）附近的水“像婴儿的灵魂那样纯净”。
But these state-run cruises have a serious purpose: China wants to remind the world of its position that it owns nearly the entire South China Sea, a strategic waterway claimed by several countries.	但是，这些官方组织的邮轮行有一个严肃的目的：中国要提醒世界，它拥有几乎整个南中国海，几个国家都宣称对这里的战略航道拥有主权。
Tens of thousands of Chinese tourists take state-run cruises through the Paracel Islands every year.	每年有数万名中国游客乘坐国营邮轮前往帕拉塞尔群岛。
Vietnam claims the Paracels too, and the United States has repeatedly challenged China's claims, sending a missile destroyer through the area this month.	越南也对帕拉塞尔群岛（越南称之为黄沙群岛[Hoang Sa]）有主权主张，美国已多次对中国的主权宣称提出挑战，本月还派了一艘导弹驱逐舰前往该海域。
The three-day cruise is off limits to foreigners, but tourists sent us photos.	这个为期三天的休闲游不对外国人开放，但游客给我们发来了照片。
The trip mixes patriotism and leisure. Guests sing revolutionary songs and dance and drink into the night. Tickets go for as much as $4,000.	旅游将爱国主义和休闲活动结合了起来。游客们唱革命歌曲、跳舞，畅饮到深夜。最贵的船票高达2.93万元（合4000多美元）。
A highlight of the journey is a propaganda film that shows China winning control of the Paracels.	旅途中的一大亮点，是观看一部关于中国赢得帕拉塞尔群岛控制权的宣传片。

Passengers said they didn't really worry about being in the middle of an international power struggle.	游客们表示，他们对处身于国际力量角力的中心真的不担心。
Guests can bond over a shared sense of nationalism. Some vowed to guard the South China Sea until their death.	共同的爱国主义情怀在游客间建立了纽带，一些人还宣称要誓死保卫南海。
"Some organized tours are all about spending money," said Xue Lihe, 60, a retired propaganda worker from central China. "This is just about one thing: patriotism."	"有的旅游团只知道花钱，"来自中国中部的退休宣传官员、60岁的薛立和(音)说。"这个团只管一件事：爱国主义。"
On Quanfu Island, tourists recite an oath and hold a flag-raising ceremony by the beach and coral.	游客在全富岛上宣读誓词，在海滩和珊瑚礁边举行升旗仪式。
"This is an indivisible part of China," they say, some of them shouting. "I love my country."	"这里是我国不可分割的领土，"他们说，有些人甚至喊道，"我爱中国。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170728/c00south-china-sea	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170728/c00south-china-sea
North Korea Tries to Make Hacking a Profit Center	黑客军团，朝鲜的新型“摇钱树”
SEOUL, South Korea —North Korea's state-sponsored hackers are increasingly going after money rather than secrets, according to a report published on Thursday by a South Korean government-backed institute.	韩国首尔——韩国政府资助的一家机构周四发布报告称，朝鲜官方支持的黑客越来越把目标指向钱，而非机密。
Cybersecurity experts have noticed a shift in the hacking attacks they suspected were mounted by North Korea. Formerly, most such attacks appeared intended to cause social disruption or purloin secret data, and the targets were generally the computer networks of government agencies or media companies in countries it considered hostile. The best-known example was a 2014 attack on computers at Sony Pictures Entertainment.	网络安全专家已经注意到，那些令人怀疑是由朝鲜发起的黑客攻击出现了变化。以前，这类攻击似乎大多是为了引起社会混乱或窃取机密数据，目标通常是被其认为怀有敌意的国家的政府机构或媒体公司的计算机网络。最著名的例子是2014年对索尼电影娱乐公司(Sony Pictures Entertainment)发起的一场攻击。
That kind of attack is still occurring, but in the last few years, North	这类攻击依然在发生，但韩国金融安全研究所(Financial Security Institute)

Korean hackers seem to have become more interested in stealing cash, the Financial Security Institute said in its report on Thursday.	周四在其报告中说，过去几年里，朝鲜黑客对盗取资金的兴趣似乎增加了。
The report said North Korean-linked hackers were behind the recent digital theft of $81 million from Bangladesh's central bank. The North Koreans also tried to breach Polish banks, leaving traces that led anti-hacking experts to believe the hacking group also planned to steal money from more than 100 other organizations around the world.	该报告称，和朝鲜有关联的黑客是不久前通过数字手段从孟加拉国央行盗走8100万美元（约合5.5亿元人民币）一事的幕后黑手。朝鲜黑客还试图侵入波兰的银行。他们留下的痕迹促使反黑客专家认为，该黑客组织还计划盗取全球其他100多个组织的资金。
North Korea is isolated, impoverished and desperately short of foreign currency to pay for imports. Even so, it has trained a large army of hackers, originally as an inexpensive means of espionage, sabotage and propaganda, but now also as a moneymaker.	朝鲜与世隔绝、一贫如洗，并且极其缺乏用来进口的外汇。即便如此，该国还是训练了一支黑客大军。他们起初是作为一种廉价的间谍、破坏和宣传手段，现在还充当着赚钱的工具。
The Russian cybersecurity firm Kaspersky Lab has identified a hacking group called Bluenoroff that it says is to blame for attacks on foreign financial institutions, like those in Poland and Bangladesh. Bluenoroff is said to be an offshoot of Lazarus, the North Korea-linked hacking group implicated in earlier attacks.	俄罗斯网络安全公司卡斯基实验室(Kaspersky Lab)也发现了一个名为Bluenoroff的黑客组织，称其应为波兰和孟加拉国等国的金融机构遭受的攻击负责。Bluenoroff据说是Lazarus的一个分支。后者是一个和朝鲜有关联的黑客组织，和早前的多起攻击有牵连。
The new report identified another Lazarus spinoff, which it named Andariel, and said that group was responsible for at least seven hacking attacks on banks, defense contractors and other businesses in South Korea over the last two years. (The names Lazarus and Andariel apparently refer to characters in a video game called Diablo.)	新发布的报告指出了另一个被其命名为Andariel的Lazarus分支，称其应为过去两年里韩国的银行、国防承包商和其他企业受到的攻击负责(Lazarus和Andariel这两个名字似乎源自一个名为Diablo的视频游戏里的角色)。
"Bluenoroff and Andariel share their common root," the report said. "If Bluenoroff has attacked financial firms around the world, Andariel focuses on businesses and government agencies in South Korea using methods tailored for the country."	"Bluenoroff和Andariel的根源相同，"报告写道。"如果是Bluenoroff攻击了全球的金融公司，那么Andariel的重点就是韩国的企业和政府机构，所采取的方式是专门针对韩国设计的。"

The report said the Andariel group had increasingly shifted from destructive attacks on computer networks to crimes like stealing bank-card data and using it to draw cash from bank customers' accounts or selling the data on the black market. The group also used malware to cheat at online poker and on other gambling websites.	报告称, Andariel 越来越多地从针对计算机网络的破坏性攻击, 转向窃取银行卡信息, 并利用它们从银行客户的账户取现, 或者是把窃取的信息拿到黑市出售。该组织还利用恶意软件在网络扑克游戏和其他一些赌博网站作弊。
"Andariel is believed to focus on earning hard currency," the report said.	"据信, Andariel 的重点是赚取硬通货," 报告写道。
The Financial Security Institute, which is financed by the South Korean government, cautioned that the report was partly conjectural and did not represent an official view.	由韩国政府资助的金融安全研究所告诫, 该报告在一定程度上只是推测, 不代表官方意见。
North Korea, a country that is cut off from much of the global economy and allows only a tiny portion of its population to have access to the internet, has been building up its cyberattack capabilities since the early 1990s, selecting teenagers and teaching them to be hackers, according to South Korean officials and defectors from the North. South Korean cybersecurity officials began detecting attacks attributed to North Korean hackers around 2009.	朝鲜脱离于全球经济的大部分领域之外, 只允许很少一部分人访问互联网。但据韩国官方和脱北者称, 朝鲜自 90 年代初便开始挑选青少年, 训练他们成为黑客, 构建起网络攻击实力。2009 年左右, 韩国负责网络安全的官员开始察觉到朝鲜黑客发起的攻击。
North Korea is now believed to have 1,700 state-sponsored hackers, aided by more than 5,000 supervisors, trainers and other support staff, South Korean officials estimate. The hackers typically do their work abroad, taking legitimate software programming or other jobs in China, Southeast Asia or Europe and waiting for instructions from Pyongyang to mount an assault, they said.	韩国官员估计, 朝鲜现在据信有 1700 名官方支持的黑客, 还有 5000 多名管理员、培训师和其他支持人员。他们说, 这些黑客往往在国外发起行动, 一边在中国、东南亚和欧洲承接合法的软件编程或其他工作, 一边等着平壤发出攻击命令。
Going abroad is a rare privilege for North Koreans, and those who are allowed to work outside the country are required to send the government a quota of foreign currency every year, according to North	对朝鲜人来说, 出国是一项罕见的特权。据脱北者称, 获准在国外工作的人每年要向政府缴纳定额的外汇。

Korean defectors.
North Korea has been accused of illicit moneymaking schemes to pay for its huge military, its nuclear weapons program and its leaders' luxurious lifestyle, including gunrunning, drug trafficking and counterfeiting. As the United Nations has tightened sanctions and made those avenues more difficult, cyberattacks have loomed larger as a source of cash. Some hacking experts suspect North Korean involvement in the recent wave of global ransomware attacks.	朝鲜被控通过非法的赚钱方式, 包括走私军火、贩卖毒品和制造假币的方式, 支付其庞大的军队、核武器计划和领导人奢侈生活方式的开销。随着联合国收紧制裁导致这些途径的难度增加, 网络攻击成了一个更大的资金来源。一些黑客专家怀疑, 朝鲜参与了最近这波全球勒索软件攻击。
North Korea has denied any involvement in hacking attacks, accusing South Korea and the United States of slander.	朝鲜否认参与黑客攻击, 指责韩国和美国诽谤。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170728/north-korea-hacking-cybersecurity	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170728/north-korea-hacking-cybersecurity
After North Korea Test, South Korea Pushes to Build Up Its Own Missiles SEOUL, South Korea — South Korea announced Saturday that it would soon start talks with the Trump administration about allowing Seoul to build more powerful ballistic missiles to counter the North, but current and former U.S. officials said the move would have little effect on the most urgent problem facing Washington: North Korea's apparent ability to strike California and beyond.	应对朝鲜威胁, 韩国欲研发新式导弹 韩国首尔——韩国周六宣布, 它将很快开始与特朗普政府会谈, 让首尔建造更强大的弹道导弹, 以便和朝鲜对抗。但美国一些现任和前任官员表示, 华盛顿目前面临的最迫切问题是, 朝鲜似乎有能力把弹头打到加州和更远的地方, 而韩美会谈对这个问题几乎不起作用。
The South's newly elected president, Moon Jae-in, called for the relaxation of limits on its missile arsenal hours after the North launched an intercontinental ballistic missile, or ICBM, 2,300 miles into space, which landed its warhead just off the coast of Hokkaido, the northernmost Japanese island. Experts quickly calculated that the demonstrated range of that test shot, if flattened out over the Pacific,	朝鲜发射的这枚洲际导弹(ICBM)在空中飞行了 2300 英里 (3700 公里) 之后, 弹头落在日本最北端岛屿北海道附近的海中, 数小时后, 新当选的韩国总统文在寅要求放松对其导弹武器力量的限制。专家们很快就计算出, 如果是直接朝太平洋对面发射, 这枚导弹的射程可以轻易到达洛杉矶, 甚至可以到达芝加哥和纽约, 尽管它的命中率仍然存疑。

could easily reach Los Angeles and perhaps as far as Chicago and New York, though its accuracy is in doubt.
The new missiles that South Korea wants, in addition to being able to strike deep into the North, could be a way of pressuring China to restrain Pyongyang because the missiles would probably be able to hit Chinese territory as well.	韩国想要拥有的新式导弹，不仅能够深入朝鲜腹地，可能也可用来向中国施压，让中国遏制平壤，因为这种导弹可能也可打到中国领土。
Moon's top national security adviser, Chung Eui-yong, called his White House counterpart, Gen. H.R. McMaster, early Saturday Seoul time to propose that the allies immediately start negotiations to permit South Korea to build up its missile capabilities. McMaster agreed to the proposal, which would probably involve increasing the payload on South Korea's ballistic missiles, according to officials in both countries.	首尔时间周六一早，文在寅的高级国家安全顾问郑义荣(Chung Eui-yong)和白宫同级别官员、陆军中将 H·R·麦克马斯特(H.R. McMaster)打了电话，提出两国应该立即开始谈判，让韩国建立自己的导弹实力。据两国官员说，麦克马斯特同意这一建议，这可能涉及增加韩国弹道导弹的有效载荷。
South Korea needs approval from the U.S. to build more powerful missiles under the terms of a bilateral treaty.	韩国需要得到美国的批准，才能在双边条约的框架下研制更强大的导弹。
There are still questions over whether the North can shrink a nuclear weapon to fit atop its intercontinental missiles, or keep it from burning up on re-entry into the atmosphere.	朝鲜是否可以把核武器缩小到可以搭载在洲际导弹上，是否可以防止它在重新进入大气层的时候燃烧，这些问题仍然存在疑问。
But at the Pentagon and inside U.S. intelligence agencies, there was a sense that the North had now crossed a threshold: demonstrating that if the U.S. ever threatened the regime of Kim Jong Un, the North Korean leader and grandson of the country's founder, it had the ability to threaten death and destruction in the continental United States.	但在五角大楼和美国情报机构看来，朝鲜现在已经超过了一个门槛：它表明，如果美国威胁到朝鲜开国者之孙、现任领导人金正恩的政权，它就有能力对美国本土发出死亡和破坏威胁。
The U.S. has lived with that threat from Russia and China for decades, but the past four U.S. presidents have all said the country could not take that risk with a government as unpredictable as North Korea's.	数十年来，美国一直生活在俄罗斯和中国的这种威胁之下，但之前的四位美国总统都表示，朝鲜这个国家的行为太不可预测，美国不能冒险让朝鲜拥有这样的能力。

Hours after Friday's test, former U.S. officials said President Donald Trump's options were limited.	周五，在朝鲜进行导弹试射几个小时之后，前美国官员说，特朗普总统手头的选择很有限。
"In the White House you have a threshold decision: Can you get them back to the table or not," Mark W. Lippert, President Barack Obama's ambassador to Seoul, said Saturday about negotiating with the North Koreans — a step Trump said during the 2016 campaign, and again several months ago, he was willing to try. Lippert said he supports Washington's current diplomatic efforts as well as U.N. sanctions against the North.	"白宫有一个判定阈：你能不能让他们回到谈判桌，"奥巴马时期的美国驻首尔大使马克·W·利伯特(Mark W. Lippert)周六提到与朝鲜人谈判时表示。特朗普在2016年竞选活动期间说过愿意与朝鲜谈判，而且在几个月前他也这么表示过。利伯特说，他支持华盛顿目前的外交努力，以及联合国对朝鲜的制裁。
But so far, the North has not responded, perhaps calculating that it first wanted to demonstrate it was a permanent member of the club of nuclear-armed nations, and able to strike U.S. cities, to strengthen its position before any negotiation.	但到目前为止，朝鲜没有作出任何回应。也许他们的打算是，首先证明朝鲜是核武俱乐部的永久一员，可以打击美国城市，这样在谈判之前就有了更多的资本。
Lippert, speaking at a conference in Kent, Connecticut, said that barring negotiations, "the question gets binary pretty quick: containment or some kind of military operations."	利伯特在康涅狄格州肯特市的一个会议上说，除了谈判之外，“这个问题很快就变成了二选一：是遏制还是采取某种军事行动。”
Others question whether this administration, immersed in its own internal upheavals, can focus on the problem.	其他人则质疑处在内部动荡中的特朗普当局，是否能把精力放在朝鲜问题上。
"It takes a president of the United States who has the intellectual, global and historical depth" to deal with the Korean crisis, said R. Nicholas Burns, who served as undersecretary of state for political affairs in the Bush administration.	布什政府时期负责政治事务的副国务卿尼古拉斯·伯恩斯(Nicholas Burns)说：“要处理这场危机，需要总统在智识、全球视野和历史观上富有深度。”
Some believe the U.S. will simply learn to live with the North's new capability, despite the words of Trump and his predecessors.	有人认为，尽管特朗普以及前任总统表过态，但美国无非是逐步承认朝鲜的新能力。
"We are left in a situation where they believe we will ultimately	"我们相信我们最终会默认这种情况”。美国外交官克里斯托弗·R·希尔

acquiesce," said Christopher R. Hill, a U.S. diplomat who led nuclear negotiations with North Korea during the last Bush administration, which resulted in the dismantlement of part of a plutonium reactor. Hill is now dean of the Korbel School at the University of Denver.	(Christopher R. Hill)说。在布什政府最后一个任期内，希尔曾与朝鲜进行核谈判，导致一个钚反应堆部分拆除。他现在是丹佛大学(University of Denver)科贝尔学院(Korbel School)院长。
Moon, considered a dovish leader, also ordered his government Saturday to cooperate with the U.S. to install an advanced U.S. missile defense battery known as THAAD, whose deployment in South Korea had been suspended since he took office in May.	文在寅被视为鸽派领导人，他在周六命令政府与美国合作，安装一个名为“萨德”(THAAD)的美制高级导弹防御系统；自从他5月份上任以来，“萨德”在韩国的部署工作已被叫停。
Moon's actions signaled that the growing missile threat from North Korea was spurring an arms buildup in Northeast Asia. Japan earlier said that it was considering buying ballistic missile defense systems from the United States.	文在寅的行动表明，朝鲜导弹威胁的加剧正在东北亚引发扩军。日本早些时候表示，他们正在考虑从美国购买弹道导弹防御系统。
But China has adamantly opposed installing the THAAD missile defense system in South Korea, arguing that it would only make tensions with North Korea more volatile and could undermine China's own nuclear deterrent by giving the U.S. another means to monitor its missiles.	但中国坚决反对在韩国部署“萨德”，认为这只会给本来就紧张的局势增添变数，还可能给美国提供另一种手段，用来监视中国的导弹，削弱中国自身的核威慑力。
On Saturday, the Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs condemned the resumed deployment of THAAD, in a statement that was in some ways more strongly worded than its statement earlier in the day criticizing North Korea's missile test.	周六，中国外交部发布了一份谴责恢复部署“萨德”的声明，从某种程度上说，其口气比当天早些时候批评朝鲜导弹试验的声明更为强烈。
"China is gravely concerned with the course of action taken by South Korea," a spokesman for the Foreign Ministry, Geng Shuang, said in the statement. "Deploying THAAD won't solve South Korea's security concerns, won't solve the related issues on the Korean Peninsula and will only further complicate issues."	“中方对韩方有关作法表示严重关切。”外交部发言人耿爽在声明中说，“部署‘萨德’解决不了韩方的安全关切，解决不了朝鲜半岛有关问题，只会使问题变得更加复杂。”

In Washington, Trump accused China of failing to curb North Korea's aggression and signaled he would restrict trade with Beijing as a consequence.	在华盛顿，特朗普指责中国没有控制朝鲜的挑衅行为，并表示他将因此对中美贸易进行限制。
"I am very disappointed in China," Trump said in a Saturday night post on Twitter. "Our foolish past leaders have allowed them to make hundreds of billions of dollars a year in trade, yet they do NOTHING for us with North Korea, just talk. We will no longer allow this to continue."	"我对中国很失望。"特朗普周六晚上在 Twitter 上说，"之前那些愚蠢的领导人让中国人在贸易中每年赚了数以十亿计美元，但他们在朝鲜问题上没有帮我们做任何事，就知道说说。我们不再允许这样的事情发生了。"
"China could easily solve this problem!" Trump said.	"中国要解决这个问题很容易！"特朗普说。
On Friday, just as news of the North Korean test was breaking, the man who engineered the opening of America's diplomatic relations with China, former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, argued that the administration needed a new and different approach to convincing the Chinese to take a more forceful stance.	周五，就在朝鲜测试的消息传开的时候，当年促进中美建交的前国务卿亨利·A·基辛格(Henry A. Kissinger)表示，政府需要一种不同的新方法来说服中国人采取更加强有力的立场。
"I believe we have a better chance of getting to the nuclear problem with North Korea if we first come to an agreement with China about what follows after the collapse of the North Korean regime," Kissinger said.	基辛格说："如果我们先与中国达成共识，就朝鲜政权崩溃之后的事情达成一致，我相信，这对我们处理朝核问题有好处。"
That would include a commitment from the U.S. to withdraw most of its troops from the Korean Peninsula after a North Korean collapse, to allay the Chinese fear that, with the buffer of North Korea gone, the U.S. military would be right on its border.	这将包括美国做出承诺：在朝鲜政权崩溃后，撤出其在朝鲜半岛的大部分驻军，以便打消中国人的担心——失去朝鲜这个缓冲区后，美国的军队将直抵中国边界。
Kissinger made the proposal to Secretary of State Rex W. Tillerson and other officials, according to people familiar with those conversations. But many doubt the Chinese would trust the U.S. commitment, perhaps noting that the promises to integrate Russia into the West after the fall	知情人士表示，基辛格向国务卿雷克斯·蒂勒森(Rex Tillerson)和其他官员提出了这个建议。但是很多人怀疑中国人是否会相信美国的承诺，也许有人会指出，在柏林墙倒塌后，把俄罗斯融入西方的承诺就从未兑现过。

of the Berlin Wall never came to pass.
Missile analysts remain uncertain and even doubtful that North Korea has cleared all the technical hurdles to build a reliable nuclear-tipped ICBM. But the test Friday night left little doubt that the country, although cut off from most of the global economy and hit with several rounds of U.N. sanctions, was getting closer to its goal of arming itself with long-range missiles that could deliver nuclear warheads to the U.S.	导弹分析人士依然不确定，甚至怀疑朝鲜是否已排除了制造一枚可靠的、带核弹头的洲际弹道导弹所面临的所有技术障碍。但周五晚上的试验清楚地表明，尽管与全球经济的联系基本被切断，并且受到联合国的多轮制裁，但朝鲜距离用能够把核弹打到美国去的远程导弹武装自己的目标越来越近。
South Korea fears that by building nuclear missiles that can reach major U.S. cities, North Korea is trying to weaken the United States' resolve over whether to intervene on the South's behalf should war break out on the Korean Peninsula.	韩国担心，通过制造能够打到美国主要城市的核导弹，朝鲜正在努力削弱当朝鲜半岛爆发战争时，美国为了韩国利益而介入战争的决心。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170731/us-south-korea-north-korea-missile-test	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170731/us-south-korea-north-korea-missile-test
Success of North Korean Missile Test Is Thrown Into Question	视频显示朝鲜导弹疑似空中解体
Analysts examining video of North Korea's launch on Friday of an intercontinental ballistic missile that appeared capable of reaching the West Coast of the United States say they saw evidence of a setback the North never mentioned: The mock warhead on the missile shattered into pieces during its fiery re-entry back to earth.	分析师研究了朝鲜上周五发射的、似乎能打到美国西海岸的洲际弹道导弹的视频后说，他们看到的证据显示出朝鲜从未提到的一个问题：导弹重新进入地球大气层时剧烈振动，它搭载的模拟弹头裂成了碎片。
If the analysis is correct, it would mean that North Korea suffered a significant, but not decisive, setback. It suggests that the country, for all its success as it works toward its goal of putting America cities under threat, has not yet mastered the difficult aerodynamics of designing a warhead that can survive re-entry.	如果这个分析是正确的，那就意味着朝鲜遭受了一个严重的但并非决定性的挫折。它表明，尽管该国在将美国城市置于其威胁之下的目标方面取得了一些成功，但尚未掌握艰深的空气动力学，不足以设计出能够安全地重新进入大气层的弹头。
News of the video analysis came as President Trump, asked about the	就在视频分析的消息传出时，美国总统特朗普首次被问及朝鲜试射的事情，

launch for the first time, offered vague assurances that he was on top of the problem. "We'll handle North Korea," he said, heading into a cabinet meeting. "We're going to be able to handle them. It will be handled. We handle everything."	他做出了笼统的保证，表示一切都在掌控中。“我们会处理朝鲜的事情，”他在去参加一个内阁会议的时候说。“我们能搞定他们。这件事会处理好的。我们会处理好一切事情。”
Mr. Trump's statements fell well short of describing a strategy, and his aides were working to develop an approach that goes beyond the largely symbolic flight of B-1B bombers over the Korean Peninsula over the weekend, in response to the test. The bombers accompanied South Korean and Japanese fighters, in a sign of solidarity.	特朗普的声明几乎没有谈及策略，他的助理正在努力制定一套应对朝鲜测试的方法，不仅仅是像上周末那样将 B-1B 轰炸机派到朝鲜半岛上空进行象征性飞行。作为一种团结一致的信号，这些轰炸机在日韩战机的陪伴下完成了飞行。
The United States has also agreed to negotiate with South Korea over permitting it to develop longer-range missiles, which could strike all parts of North Korea. But that would do little to address the problem of the North's apparent new ability to reach the continental United States.	美国还同意与韩国谈判，允许它研发射程更长、可以覆盖朝鲜所有地区的导弹。但是，朝鲜似乎掌握了打到美国本土的能力，韩美之间的这个谈判对于解决该问题起不到什么作用。
The findings about the North's difficulties with a re-entry vehicle came from Michael Elleman, a missile expert at the International Institute for Strategic Studies in London. He said the malfunction of the warhead as it re-entered the earth's atmosphere "casts doubt" on the North's ability to shield a nuclear warhead from the blistering heat and vibrations as it heads to its target at the high speeds that intercontinental ballistic missiles typically achieve.	朝鲜导弹重新进入大气层时有问题这件事，是伦敦国际战略研究所 (International Institute for Strategic Studies) 的导弹专家迈克尔·埃勒曼 (Michael Elleman) 发现的。他表示，这个弹头重新进入地球大气层时出现的故障“让人怀疑”朝鲜尚未掌握核弹头屏蔽在洲际弹道导弹高速飞行时产生的高热和振动影响的技术。
In a news conference on Monday, Mr. Elleman said North Korea would have to conduct a minimum of two or three more ICBM test flights to make sure its rocket designers have fixed the warhead problem. Still, he said, the nation will probably be able to develop a workable missile with a reliable warhead by early next year. That would put the country	埃勒曼在周一的新闻发布会上表示，朝鲜至少还将进行另外两到三次洲际导弹试射，才能确保其火箭设计师解决了弹头问题。不过他表示，在明年初，朝鲜可能就研发出可靠的弹头和导弹。这会让朝鲜处在情报分析师所说的攻坚时期，据他们预测，在 2018 年某个时候，朝鲜恐怕就可以把他们所需要的所有技术集中到一件武器上了。

within the rough time period described in recent American intelligence analyses, which predicted that sometime in 2018 all the technologies needed by the North would likely come together in a single weapon.
Fixing the design flaw “might take them another six months,” Mr. Elleman told reporters on a conference call organized by 38 North, a research institute at the Johns Hopkins University School of Advanced International Studies. “But the key is that they’ll have to do additional flight tests.”	解决这个设计缺陷“可能需要六个月的时间”，埃勒曼对记者说，“但关键是他们必须进行更多的试射。”他是在约翰·霍普金斯大学(Johns Hopkins University)高级国际研究学院的研究机构 38 North 组织的一个电话会议上说这番话的。
The need for more tests creates an opening for the Trump administration.	朝鲜需要进行更多的试射，这为特朗普当局提供了一些处理时间。
Under President Barack Obama, North Korean missile tests were regularly subject to cyber and electronic attacks. Among its military options, the Trump administration could accelerate those attacks, but they appeared less effective over the past six months.	在奥巴马总统时期，朝鲜的导弹测试经常遭到网络和电子攻击。特朗普政府手上有一些军事选择，其中一个就是加速这种攻击，但在过去六个月里这个做法似乎效果不佳。
The United States could also position more naval craft in international waters off the North Korean coast. That would give it the option of conducting pre-emptive attacks on missiles on their launchpads — a risky approach because it could trigger a war — or attempting to shoot down test missiles as they are rising through the atmosphere.	美国也可以在朝鲜沿海的国际海域部署海军舰艇。这样一来，美国就可以先发制人用导弹进行攻击——但这是一种冒险的做法，因为可能会引发战争——或是尝试在试射导弹升空之后击落它们。
The videotape of the warhead’s breakup came from the Japanese television station NHK. An affiliate in Muroran City, a port in Hokkaido, Japan’s northernmost large island, keeps a weather camera mounted on a roof. On Friday, in a stroke of luck, the camera was trained on the area of the sky where the mock warhead appeared to plunge back to earth, about 125 miles from the Japanese coast.	弹头解体的视频来自日本 NHK 电视台。它在日本最北端的大岛北海道的室兰市一个分支机构的屋顶上安装了一台全天候摄像机。幸运的是，周五时，这台摄像机对着天空的方向，正是模拟弹头落入地球的地方，距离日本海岸大约 125 英里（约 200 公里）。

The incoming mock warhead, Mr. Elleman said, should have shone brightly and continuously as it fell — like a shooting star streaking to Earth. But in this case, he said, the video shows the bright incoming projectile starting to shed into small radiant objects. Then, quite suddenly, it dims and disappears altogether.	埃勒曼说，这颗模拟弹头应该像奔向地球的流星一样持续闪亮，但是从视频来看，这个明亮的物体进入视野后，开始剥落成小块的发光物。然后，它突然就黯淡下来，完全消失了。
It should have continued to glow until it hit the ocean, he told reporters. “Most likely it broke up,” he said.	它本应该继续发光，直到落入海中，他告诉记者。“很可能它解体了，”他说。
How long it will take the North to fix the design, Mr. Elleman said, depends largely on “how much they learn from this particular test.” His six-month estimate, he said, assumes that the North’s engineers have the ability to correctly diagnose the technical problem and fix it.	埃勒曼说，朝鲜解决这个设计难点需要多长时间，这在很大程度上取决于他们从这次试射中学到了多少东西。他的估计是六个月，前提是朝鲜工程师有正确诊断技术问题并解决它的能力。
“It could be done in three months,” he said. “It may take six months. If they continue to fail, however, it could take a longer period of time. We just don’t know.”	“可能是三个月，”他说。“也可能需要六个月。但是，如果他们一直失败，可能就需要更长的时间。我们完全说不准。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170801/north-korea-missile-test-video	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170801/north-korea-missile-test-video
North Korea’s Nuclear Arms Sustain Drive for ‘Final Victory’	斗“美帝”，求统一：朝鲜学习中国经验
A mystery has long surrounded North Korea’s nuclear and missile programs.	长期以来，围绕着朝鲜的核导弹计划，一直有着一个不解之谜。
Conventional wisdom holds that the North’s weapons are intended to address the country’s two greatest problems — military inferiority and economic weakness — by deterring the United States and extracting concessions.	人们普遍认为，朝鲜发展核武器是为了通过威慑美国并获得让步，来解决该国两个最大的问题——军事劣势和衰弱的经济。
But in practice, the weapons make both problems worse by increasing the risk of war and ensuring continued sanctions.	但实际上，发展核武器反而让这两个问题变得更严重，因为武器增加了战争的风险，致使该国受到持续的制裁。

So what is driving the North's actions? Earlier assessments pegged the country as irrational or warped by its own ideology. But virtually every expert now dismisses those explanations, saying that North Korea has managed its history-defying survival too cannily to be anything but coldly rational.	那么，是什么原因在驱使朝鲜的行动呢？早期的看法是该国不理性、或被其自身的意识形态所扭曲。但是，几乎所有的专家现在都否定了这些解释，他们说，朝鲜能如此精明地抗拒历史求得生存，除了冷酷地理性，没有别的解释了。
And with each test, most recently the launching on Friday of a missile that according to some estimates could strike most of the United States, the contours of a far more ambitious strategy grow clearer.	而且，随着每次的试验，一个异常雄心勃勃的战略的轮廓变得越来越明显，上周五最新发射的这枚导弹，据一些人估计，能够打击美国的大部分地区。
"People keep asking, 'What do they want, why do they test these missiles?' " said Joshua H. Pollack, the editor of The Nonproliferation Review. "But they are telling us very clearly."	"人们一直在问，'他们想要什么，他们为什么要试验这些导弹？'"《防扩散评论》(The Nonproliferation Review)的主编乔舒亚·H·波拉克(Joshua H. Pollack)说。"但他们正在非常清楚地告诉我们。"
The country says that it plans — and analysts increasingly take this claim seriously — to force the world to accept it as a full member of the international community and, eventually, to reconcile with the United States and South Korea on its terms.	朝鲜说，它打算迫使世界接受其为国际社会的正式成员，并最终按照自己的条件与美国和韩国和解，分析人士正在越来越认真地对待朝鲜的这个说法。
North Korea envisions the United States one day concluding that it has grown too powerful to coerce and the status quo too risky to maintain, leading Washington to accept a grand bargain in which it would drop sanctions and withdraw some or all of its forces from South Korea.	朝鲜的愿望是，美国有朝一日会认为朝鲜已变得过于强大，不能强迫其就范，且情况已变得过于危险、以至于不可维持，这会让华盛顿接受一场大型谈判，其中包括取消制裁，以及从韩国撤出部分或全部美军。
As a show of global acceptance, Kim Jong-un, the North Korean leader, would then be welcomed in foreign capitals and at the United Nations. This political agenda, much like North Korea's push for an intercontinental ballistic missile, was once dismissed as bluster. But the country's actions suggest it means what it says.	作为为全球所接纳的表现，朝鲜领导人金正恩将受到世界各国及联合国的欢迎。这个政治议程，就像朝鲜大力发展洲际弹道导弹的做法一样，曾被认为是说说而已。但是，该国的行动表明，它说话算数。
Experts believe North Korea is likely to fall short of its grander	专家们认为，朝鲜有可能实现不了更大的野心，这些野心似乎是以新的拥核

ambitions, which appear premised on the kind of miscalculations to which new nuclear powers are often prone. Still, more modest goals, like a grudging global acceptance, may be more feasible.	国家常常容易做出的错算为前提的。但是，较为实际的目标也许可能实现，比如让世界勉强接受它。
Even if North Korea's own leaders consider success unlikely, they may have judged, with some reason, that this is their country's only shot at long-term survival.	即使朝鲜本国的领导人认为成功的可能性不大，他们也可能出于某些理由做出判断，认为发展核导弹是他们的国家长期生存的唯一手段。
The China Course	中国道路
The key to understanding North Korea's strategy may lie in the recent past of another Asian nuclear state: China.	搞懂朝鲜战略的关键也许在于亚洲另一个拥核国家——中国的近代史。
Mao Zedong's China began, in the 1950s, as a pariah state, isolated and threatened by the United States. It became, in the 1960s, a rogue nuclear power. And then it rose, through the 1970s, into an accepted member of the international community, embraced even by its onetime adversary.	20世纪50年代，毛泽东的中国在一开始也曾被世界抛弃，受到美国的孤立和威胁。中国在20世纪60年代成为一个拥有核武器的无赖国家。然而，中国在20世纪70年代逐渐成为被国际社会接受的成员，甚至被其曾经的对手所接受。
North Korea appears bent on following that progression. A nuclear program that can threaten the United States, making war unthinkable, would be only step one — and may, with the missile tests this summer, now be complete.	朝鲜似乎决心要步中国的后尘。让战争变得不堪设想、能够威胁美国的核计划，只是其第一步，而且，这一步随着今年夏天的导弹试验也许目前已经完成。
China ultimately won acceptance by playing the United States against the Soviet Union, not by rattling nuclear sabers. Its size and power also made it impossible for other nations to ignore it, advantages that North Korea lacks.	中国最终赢得世界的接受，利用的是美国与苏联的对立，而不是核武力威胁。国家之大、国力之强也让其他国家无法忽视中国，这是朝鲜缺乏的优势。
But North Korea's desperation, as well as its longtime obsession with China, may have led it to see the possibility, however misguided, of achieving success by following Beijing's script.	但朝鲜的绝望，加上其长期以来对中国的痴迷，也许让其认为，按照北京的办法做有取得成功的可能性，尽管朝鲜可能搞错了。

"You can see in their language and their approach that they are modeling all this on basically China and the U.S.," Mr. Pollack said.	"你可以从他们的语言和方法上看出来，他们的所有做法基本上是按照中国与美国打交道的模式，"波拉克说。
North Korea regularly offers the United States high-level envoy exchanges and even sports diplomacy. The Harlem Globetrotters visited in 2013; Dennis Rodman has made multiple trips. These outreaches, though dismissed as meaningless or just eccentric, appear taken from the history of Beijing's approach a half-century earlier, with echoes of the so-called Ping-Pong diplomacy.	朝鲜时不时地向美国提出要进行高级别特使交流，甚至搞体育外交。哈林篮球队(Harlem Globetrotters)曾在 2013 年前往朝鲜，丹尼斯·罗德曼(Dennis Rodman)已多次访问朝鲜。虽然这些与外界接触的努力被认为是毫无意义，或只不过是古怪而已，但看起来与半个世纪前北京的做法相似，与所谓的乒乓外交相互呼应。
Though it is difficult to imagine today an American president flying to Pyongyang to shake Mr. Kim's hand and normalize relations, it was not much easier, in the 1960s, to picture President Richard M. Nixon's 1972 trip to Beijing.	虽然今天很难想象，一位美国总统会飞到平壤去与金正恩握手，将美朝关系正常化，但在 20 世纪 60 年代设想理查德·M·尼克松(Richard M. Nixon)总统会在 1972 年访北京也并不容易。
"The key to understanding Kim Jong-un's long-term strategy has to do with 'byungjin,' " said John Delury, a professor at Yonsei University in Seoul. Byungjin, or parallel advance, is Mr. Kim's policy of developing the economy alongside the nuclear program.	"理解金正恩长期战略的关键在于'并进'，"首尔延世大学教授鲁乐汉(John Delury)说。"并进"的意思是并行推进，是金正恩在进行核武器计划的同时发展经济的政策。
"Ideally, from his perspective, he could replicate the Chinese model by normalizing foreign relations, from the U.S. down, on the basis of a nuclear deterrent," Mr. Delury said. Only then, with its economy, in theory, allowed to catch up to its neighbors' and its leadership accepted abroad, could North Korea feel secure.	"站在他的角度上看，理想的结果是，他可以复制中国的模式，以核威慑为基础，从美国开始，将对外关系正常化，"鲁乐汉说。只有在那之后，理论上才能让朝鲜的经济赶上邻国，让朝鲜领导人在国外得到接受，从而让朝鲜有安全感。
The country often explains its weapons as serving these goals, and it often ties its weapons tests to relatively small demands, like ending American military exercises on the peninsula. Mr. Pollack stressed that North Korea sees itself as playing a long game, in which small	朝鲜经常把其核武器解释为是为这些目标服务的，并且经常将核武器试验与相对较小的要求联系起来，比如结束美军在半岛的演习。波拉克强调说，朝鲜认为自己是在实施长远计划，在几代人的时间里，小的让步加起来就成了大成就。金氏可以执政数十年，他们有时间。

concessions add up over generations. Mr. Kim, who could hold power for decades, has time.
The Taiwan Corollary	台湾推论
A more radical version of North Korea's strategy, Mr. Pollack said, drives toward "what they call the final victory: reunification."	波拉克说，朝鲜战略的一个更激进版本是朝着“他们所谓的最后的胜利：实现统一”的方向发展。
Experts disagree on whether North Korea remains intent on assimilating the South under its rule, as it tried with a 1950 invasion and subsequent efforts at destabilizing South Korea's government. But the North continues to claim that as its goal, announcing the missile test on Friday with a pledge to "achieve the final victory."	对于朝鲜是否仍企图将韩国统一到自己治下，专家们持不同意见，朝鲜曾在1950年试图侵略韩国，后来也有不少破坏韩国政府稳定的努力。但朝鲜继续声称统一是其目标，周五宣布导弹试验时还承诺“要实现最后的胜利”。
"North Korea has consistently proclaimed its determination to unify the homeland and behaved accordingly," B. R. Myers, a North Korea scholar at Dongseo University in South Korea, wrote in a research paper last year.	韩国东西大学研究朝鲜问题的学者B·R·迈尔斯(B. R. Myers)去年在一篇研究报告中写道：“朝鲜一贯宣称要实现祖国统一，并采取了相应的做法。”
Reunification, Mr. Myers wrote, would be "the only long-term solution to the regime's chronic security problems."	迈尔斯写道，统一是“该政权长期存在的安全问题唯一长久的解决方案”。
South Korea's overwhelming prosperity in comparison with its neighbor leaves the North with little reason to exist as a separate state. This legitimacy crisis poses a danger just as existential as American military power.	与朝鲜相比，韩国经济的巨大繁荣，让朝鲜几乎没有作为一个独立国家存在的理由。这种合法性危机构成的生存威胁，与美国军事力量的存在的影响相似。
The North's leaders appear to have concluded, Mr. Myers wrote, "that unification would not be possible as long as U.S. troops remained in the South," leading them to develop weapons that could be used to force an American exit.	迈尔斯写道，朝鲜领导人似乎已经得出结论，“只要美军留在韩国，统一就不可能实现，”这让他们要发展可用来迫使美国人离开的武器。
While such goals might sound ridiculous to American ears, Mr. Pollack	虽然这种目标在美国人听来可能很荒谬，但鲁乐汉认为，这也是在朝鲜看来，

believes that North Korea sees this, again, as part of the Chinese model that worked once before.	曾成功过的中国模式的一部分。
For years, the United States recognized Taiwan, where it based troops, as the rightful Chinese government. But that relationship flipped in 1979, when the United States normalized ties with Beijing and broke its alliance with Taiwan.	美国曾在很长的时间里承认台湾是中国的合法政府，还在台湾设有美军基地。但是，美台关系在 1979 年彻底改变了，那年，美国正常化了与北京的关系，打破了与台湾的联盟。
North Korea may hope to use a similar playbook, splitting the United States from South Korea. The break would not need to be so drastic to fulfill the North's goals; official neutrality would do.	朝鲜可能希望按照类似的方式让美国与韩国分离。对实现朝鲜的目标来说，此类分离不必那么极端，只要美国官方做出中立的表示就行了。
Beijing's stated goal of reunification with Taiwan will not happen for decades, if ever, but few doubt its sincerity. North Korea may similarly see reunification prospects as remote and generations away but still essential.	北京宣布的统一台湾的目标，就算可以实现，也不会发生在未来几十年里，但几乎没有人怀疑北京说法的认真程度。朝鲜也可能把统一看成是几代人内无法实现的长远目标，但仍然至关重要。
Nuclear Ambitions, Nuclear Risks	核野心、核风险
Research on nuclear diplomacy offers two lessons: that North Korea's strategy is likely to fail and that the country is likely to try anyway.	对核外交的研究让人得出两种结论：朝鲜的战略很可能会失败，不过这个国家也很可能会再次尝试。
Nuclear threats rarely succeed in extracting concessions from adversaries, according to a book-length study by the political scientists Todd S. Sechser and Matthew Fuhrmann.	据政治学家托德·S·塞克瑟尔(Todd S. Sechser)和马修·佛尔曼(Matthew Fuhrmann)发表的一篇长度堪比一部书的研究，用核威胁来逼迫对手让步很少能成功。
Nuclear threats are simply not believable; the consequences of using the weapons are seen as too great to be credible. As a result, nuclear states are less likely to successfully coerce an adversary than non-nuclear states, which can more credibly threaten war.	核威胁简单地说是不可信的，人们认为这种武器的后果太大，因此使用武器的说法不可信。结果是，与无核国家相比，有核国家迫使对手就范的可能反而小，因为无核国家的战争威胁更可信。
And because nuclear weapons heighten the risk to both sides, they tend to lock the status quo in place — the opposite of North Korea's	而且，因为核武器增加了双方的风险，所以更可能会让双方都维持现状，这有悖于朝鲜的目标。 goal.

Mr. Kim, the research by Mr. Sechser and Mr. Fuhrmann suggests, has greatly enhanced his ability to deter the United States from invading. But if he is hoping to force the United States into a major policy change, he is headed for disappointment.	塞克瑟尔和佛尔曼的研究表明，金正恩已经大大提高了威慑美国，让其不敢入侵的能力。但是，如果他希望迫使美国做出重大政策变化的话，他会失望。
But North Korea may overestimate its chances. Michael C. Horowitz, of the University of Pennsylvania, found that new nuclear powers are more prone to aggression.	但朝鲜可能会高估自己手中的机会。宾夕法尼亚大学的迈克尔·C·霍洛维茨(Michael C. Horowitz)发现，新出现的拥核国家更容易遭到侵略。
And Colin H. Kahl, a Georgetown University political scientist, wrote in 2014 that, regardless of whether nuclear weapons actually work for extracting concessions, "new nuclear states appear to believe they do, at least for some period of time, and act accordingly."	乔治城大学政治学家科林·H·凯尔(Colin H. Kahl)曾在2014年写道：不管核武器是否真的有助于逼迫对手让步，“新的拥核国家似乎至少在一段时间里相信他们有这种能力，并采取相应的行动。”
This may pose the gravest risk to both the United States and North Korea itself. Should Mr. Kim miscalculate with his nuclear threats, there is a small chance he could blunder into war.	这有可能对美国和朝鲜本身构成最严重的风险。如果金正恩在核威胁上错算的话，有一种极小的可能是，他会错误地选择战争。
In a war, nuclear powers with small arsenals, like North Korea, would feel strong pressure to fire quickly before their weapons are destroyed, even if they believe they will lose, according to research by Caitlin Talmadge, a professor at George Washington University. While such a situation is remote, the North's strategic ambitions have introduced this risk.	据乔治华盛顿大学凯特琳·泰尔马稚(Caitlin Talmadge)教授的研究，在战争中，像朝鲜这样拥有小型核武库的国家，会面临极大的压力：在其武器被捣毁之前快速地将武器发射出去，即使他们认为自己会打输。尽管发生这种情况的可能性很小，但朝鲜的战略野心已经引入了这种风险。
If the world wishes to avoid these risks, Mr. Myers wrote, it would need to confront the "troubling explanations for North Korea's armament, instead of continuing to ignore them."	迈尔斯写道，如果世界希望避免这些风险的话，就需要直面“朝鲜发展核武器的令人不安的解释，而不是将其置之不理”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170801/north-korea-nuclear-mis	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170801/north-korea-nuclear-mis

sile	sile
A Deal for An Australian Dairy Wrapped in Layers of Chinese Loans	中国人收购澳大利亚乳业巨头，层层债务暗藏风险
SMITHTON, Australia — Not long after China’s leader, Xi Jinping, visited the remote island state of Tasmania, a little-known Chinese entrepreneur with big ambitions followed in his footsteps, buying Australia’s largest dairy, with 20,000 cows and rolling green pastures, for more than $200 million.	澳大利亚史密斯顿——中国领导人习近平访问偏远的澳大利亚岛州塔斯马尼亚不久后，一位野心勃勃却名不见经传的中国企业家紧跟着前来，以超过两亿美元的价格收购了澳大利亚最大的乳品企业，包括它拥有的两万头奶牛和绵延起伏的绿色牧场。
It looked like a good match. Australia was hungry for Chinese money. And the businessman, Lu Xianfeng, presented himself as a well-heeled investor, promising to protect existing jobs and add even more.	这看起来像是一个很好的组合。澳大利亚渴望中国的资金。而这位名叫卢先锋的商人也表现得像是一个高瞻远瞩的投资者，他承诺保护现有工作，并且增加更多工作机会。
Like much of the splashier overseas spending by Chinese conglomerates, the acquisition of the dairy was financed by layers upon layers of debt, the type of financial complexity and opaque deal making that worry regulators in China and around the world.	和大部分中国大企业的大笔海外交易一样，收购这家乳品企业的融资也是建立在层层债务之上的，这种复杂的金融活动和不透明的交易形式，令中国和全球的监管机构感到忧虑。
Mr. Lu paid for the purchase with three loans, one from a lender in Australia and two from Chinese lenders, including the biggest state-run bank, the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China, according to the filings of his publicly traded company. He then pledged shares in the public company, Ningbo Xianfeng New Materials, to raise even more money. Lately, his businesses have been on shaky financial footing, with Ningbo Xianfeng halting trading in its shares in China, citing a restructuring.	根据卢先锋上市公司的文件，他为这一收购进行了三笔贷款，其中一笔来自一个澳大利亚贷款者，另外两笔来自中国贷款者，其中包括中国最大的国有银行中国工商银行。然后，他以上市公司宁波先锋新材料的股份作抵押，募集更多资金。最近，他的企业的财务状况一直摇摆不定，宁波先锋以资产重组为由停止了在中国的股票交易。
The deal is part of a problematic pattern as indebted Chinese companies buy marquee assets in the United States, Europe, Canada and Australia. China was Australia’s largest source of foreign investment	负债累累的中国公司在美国、欧洲、加拿大和澳大利亚购买大笔资产的模式存在很大问题，这笔交易也是其中之一。据估计，中国是2016年澳大利亚最大的外国投资来源。

in 2016, as measured by approved deals.
China has started to rein in big players like the Anbang Insurance Group, Fosun International, the HNA Group and Dalian Wanda, concerned that their piles of debt, largely from state-run banks, threaten the financial system and economic growth. Foreign governments, too, are wary of the flood of Chinese deals, with complex ownership structures that make it difficult to discern the strategic motivations and financial health of the buyers.	安邦保险集团、复星国际、海航集团、大连万达等大型企业所欠下的大笔债务大部分来自国有银行，对金融体系和经济增长产生了威胁，因此中国开始对它们进行控制。外国政府也对大量涌入的中国交易持警惕态度，复杂的所有制结构使得买方的战略动机和财务状况难以分辨。
While Australian politicians generally view Chinese investment as advantageous, there are increasing worries that the government is approving deals by problematic companies aligned with a potential adversary. The attitudes toward Chinese money have been complicated by recent controversies about election-campaign donations from Australians of Chinese descent with links to the Chinese government.	虽然澳大利亚政界人士普遍认为中国的投资是有利的，但越来越多的人开始担心，政府所批准的交易中，这些存疑的中国公司正在同澳大利亚的潜在对手合作。近期，与中国政府有联系的澳大利亚华裔的竞选捐款引发了争议，使得人们对中国资金的态度更为复杂。
The acquisition of the Tasmanian dairy, known as Van Diemen's Land Company, or VDL, is spurring questions about whether the Australian government is fully assessing the risks.	被收购的塔斯马尼亚乳品企业名叫范迪门斯地公司（Van Diemen's Land Company, 简称VDL），这桩收购促使人们质疑，澳大利亚政府是否真正对风险进行了全面评估。
Major purchases by overseas buyers are vetted by Australia's Foreign Investment Review Board. While the board analyzes deals for threats to the country's national interests, its mandate does not require deep due diligence on the buyers' finances.	海外买家的大型收购都要由澳大利亚外国投资审查委员会(Australia's Foreign Investment Review Board)进行审查。虽然该委员会对威胁到国家利益的交易做出分析，但其权限并不包括对买方的财务状况进行深入的尽职调查。
"The Australian assumption has been that Chinese business operates like Australian ones," said Peter Jennings, executive director of the Australian Strategic Policy Institute. "But they operate in ways that don't fit with how we do business in the Australian economy."	“澳大利亚原本假设中国企业同澳大利亚企业的运营方式是一样的，”澳大利亚战略政策研究所执行所长彼得·詹宁斯(Peter Jennings)说。“但是，中国企业的运作并不符合我们在澳大利亚经济中开展业务的方式。”

The review process, he said, appears to lack basic due diligence on potential foreign buyers. "If they have the capacity, they are very good at hiding it," he said.	他说，审查过程似乎缺乏对潜在的外国买家进行基本的尽职调查。他说：“如果他们有这样的能力，那藏得可是够好的，”他说。
Mr. Lu is not the only Chinese buyer with precarious finances.	卢先锋不是唯一一个财务状况不稳定的中国买家。
A Chinese company, Landbridge, which leased the strategic port in Darwin in 2015, is facing financial troubles. Landbridge is trying to secure loans from lenders, including China's Export-Import Bank, raising concerns about why a facility near Australian and American defense forces may become tied up with a state-run Chinese lender dedicated to carrying out Beijing's policy goals.	2015年，一家名叫岚桥集团的中国公司在达尔文租下一处战略港口，如今该公司正面临财务困难。岚桥集团试图确保从包括中国进出口银行等贷款者那里获取贷款，这一点引发了忧虑。此处设施位于澳大利亚与美国防卫力量附近，人们担心它可能会有一个中国政府背景的管理者，一心想要执行北京的政策目标。
In a sign of the growing sensitivity, the Australian government rebuffed two offers from Chinese companies to buy the nation's biggest cattle ranch, S. Kidman and Co., on the grounds the deal was against the country's interest. A year later, a Chinese buyer took a minority interest with an Australian businesswoman, Gina Rinehart.	澳大利亚政府驳回了中国公司购买该国最大的养牛场S·基德曼公司(S. Kidman and Co.)的两笔报价，理由是违背澳大利亚的利益，这表明敏感度正在日益增加。一年后，一名中国买家与澳大利亚女商人吉娜·莱因哈特(Gina Rinehart)取得了少数股权。
Mr. Lu did not respond to requests for comment sent through his Chinese and Australian companies. A spokeswoman for his Chinese company, Ningbo Xianfeng, declined to comment.	卢先锋没有回应通过他在中澳两国的公司送交的置评请求。他在中国的公司宁波先锋的发言人也拒绝置评。
A spokesman for the Australian treasurer, Scott Morrison, said in a statement that "the government considers a broad range of factors against the national interest when assessing foreign investment proposals," including financing arrangements and impact on the economy.	澳大利亚财政部长斯科特·莫里森(Scott Morrison)的发言人在一份声明中表示：“政府在评估外国投资提案时，会考虑到国家利益的各种因素”，其中包括融资安排和对经济的影响。
Chinese money has poured into Australia, where buyers are seeking wide-open spaces, fresh produce and a stable economy. In the last	中国资金大举涌入澳大利亚，买家青睐这里开阔的空间、新鲜农产品和稳定的经济。根据毕马威会计师事务所(KPMG)的一项研究，在过去十年中，澳

decade, Australia was the second-biggest recipient of Chinese money, just behind the United States, according to a study by the accounting firm KPMG.	大利亚是中国资金的第二大接收国，仅次于美国。
Chinese players vied for cattle ranches, wineries, ports and mines. Tens of thousands of homes were snapped up.	中国买家竞相购买养牛场、酿酒厂、港口和矿山。成千上万的住宅也遭到抢购。
The Tasmanian government has been courting Chinese investors since it hosted President Xi with fanfare in 2014. Bolstered by an Australia-China free trade agreement, Tasmanian exports of fresh produce to China have soared.	自从 2014 年以盛大仪式款待习近平主席以来，塔斯马尼亚政府一直在致力于吸引中国投资者。受澳中自由贸易协定促进，塔斯马尼亚对中国的新鲜农产品出口呈上升趋势。
From the outset, the deal for the lush land perched high above the southern Pacific Ocean attracted attention. The roots of VDL, Australia's most prestigious dairy, stretch back to the settlement of Tasmania by the British in the early 1800s. The British owned it for more than a century; the dairy was owned by a New Zealand company before Mr. Lu bought it.	从一开始，围绕这片南太平洋之上的茂盛土地的交易便引起了人们的关注。VDL 是澳大利亚最有声望的奶制品公司，其渊源可以追溯到 19 世纪初英国人在塔斯马尼亚建立的定居点。此后一个多世纪内它归英国人所有；在被卢先锋买下之前，这家乳品公司由一家新西兰公司所有。
Mr. Lu, whose main business in China is manufacturing window shades, created an Australian company, Moon Lake Investments, to buy the dairy. He promised to invest an additional 100 million Australian dollars, preserve the existing 140 jobs and add up to 95 others. He vowed to export fresh milk from the farm to an expanding Chinese middle class desperate for quality assurances and covetous of imported food.	卢先锋在中国的主要业务是制造百叶窗，为了购买这家乳品公司，他创建了一个名为月亮湖投资(Moon Lake Investments)的澳大利亚公司。他承诺再投资 1 亿澳元，保留现有的 140 个工作岗位，并增添 95 个工作岗位。他发誓要把新鲜的牛奶从该农场出口到中国，带给那里不断扩大的中产阶级，他们迫切渴望质量保证，对进口食品格外垂涎。
"Here was a proposal from a savvy Chinese investor," said the chief executive of VDL Farms, Evan Rolley, a former state government official. "He could take the Tasmanian product right into the consumer markets in China."	"这是一位聪明的中国投资者的提案，"前州政府官员、现任 VDL 农场首席执行官的伊文·罗莱(Evan Rolley)说。"他可以把塔斯马尼亚的产品直接带给中国的消费市场。"

To help gain acceptance in tight-knit Tasmania, where the population is just 500,000, Mr. Lu chose a well-connected former politician, David Crean, as the deputy chairman of Moon Lake. Mr. Lu impressed officials with his pledge to honor the cultural heritage of aboriginal people on the property, Mr. Rolley said.	塔斯马尼亚州有 50 万人口，为了被这个联系紧密的地方接纳，卢先锋选择了前政界人士戴维·克里安(David Crean)担任月亮湖公司的副主席。罗莱说，卢先锋承诺尊重这块地产上的土著民文化遗产，给官员们留下了好印象。
"They have a naïve fixation" with China, Mark Harrison, associate professor of Chinese Studies at the University of Tasmania, said of the state government.	塔斯马尼亚大学的中国问题研究副教授马克·哈力森(Mark Harrison)说，该州政府对中国“有种天真的迷恋。”
"Mr. Lu's financial problems were well covered in the Chinese press and in financial filings," he said. "I know about them. Why doesn't the government?"	"中国媒体和财务文件中都提到了卢先锋的财务问题,"他说。"我知道这些事。为什么政府不知道?"
After striking an agreement to buy the dairy in late 2015, Mr. Lu established Kaixin Investment, a Ningbo-based company, to acquire the assets. That company obtained loans of $74 million from the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China and $22 million from the China Zheshang Bank to finance the purchase.	2015 年年底，VDL 乳品公司的交易达成协议之后，为收购这一资产，卢先锋在宁波成立了开心投资有限公司。为了给收购融资，该公司从中国工商银行获得了 7400 万美元贷款，从中国浙商银行获得了 2200 万美元贷款。
The loans were guaranteed by Ningbo Xianfeng, which in turn was backed by all the dairy farm's assets, according to corporate filings. Separate public filings showed that a $56 million loan from Rabobank in Australia also funded the deal, debt that was also backed by the dairy's assets.	根据企业文件，这些贷款是由宁波先锋担保的，而它又由 VDL 乳品公司的资产提供担保。另一份公开文件显示，澳大利亚的荷兰合作银行(Rabobank)一笔 5600 万美元的贷款也为这笔交易提供了资金，也是由这家乳品公司的资产提供担保。
The Chinese loans were not presented to the review board, according to the managing director of Moon Lake, Sean Shwe, who helped prepare documents for the board. Mr. Shwe said he was not aware of the loans from the Chinese lenders.	月亮湖公司总经理肖恩·瑞(Sean Shwe)曾参与准备向澳大利亚外国投资审查委员会提交的文件，他说，中国方面的贷款没有被提交给该委员会。他说自己对来自中国贷款者的贷款并不知情。

Around the same time, Mr. Lu began arranging other funding in China. He handed over blocks of shares in Ningbo Xianfeng to lenders as collateral for loans, eventually pledging 95 percent of his shares, according to corporate filings.	大约在同一时间，卢先锋开始在中国筹措其他资金。根据公司文件，他把宁波先锋的大批股份交给贷款者，作为贷款抵押品，最终抵押了自己95%的股份。
Such loans are generally extended at high interest rates. They can sour quickly if shares plunge in value, a possibility in China's seesawing stock market.	这些贷款通常以高利率延长期限。如果股价下跌，情况就可能迅速恶化，这种事在中国起伏不定的股市中是有可能发生的。
In an interview, the spokesman for Mr. Morrison, the Australian treasurer, said that Mr. Morrison was "comfortable with the advice provided by the review board on the dairy acquisition."	接受采访时，澳大利亚财政部长莫里森的发言人说，莫里森“对审查委员会就乳品公司收购中所提供的意见表示满意。”
The Australian review board said the documents presented by the Chinese buyer were confidential.	澳大利亚审查委员会表示，中国买家提交的文件是保密的。
Rabobank declined to comment.	荷兰合作银行拒绝置评。
After the purchase closed in March 2016, Mr. Lu tried to sell the dairy to his publicly traded company in a deal that would have paid off the Chinese loans. But the China Securities Regulatory Commission barred that transaction, citing "uncertain" future profits from the dairy, a decision based on declining earnings prompted by plunging worldwide milk prices.	在2016年3月收购结束后，卢先锋试图将这家乳品公司出售给自己的一家公开上市公司，这项交易可以偿还中国银行的贷款。但中国证券监督管理委员会禁止了这一交易，称该乳品公司未来的利润“不确定”，这一决定是基于全球牛奶价格暴跌引发的收入下降。
Mr. Lu's businesses have been struggling. Ningbo Xianfeng has not traded since April. It announced in July that profits were expected to drop at least 70 percent in the first six months of 2017.	卢先锋的生意陷入困境。宁波先锋的股票自4月以来一直停牌。它于7月份公布2017年前六个月的利润预计下降至少70%。
The window-shade business Mr. Lu owns in Perth, Australia, has failed to turn an annual profit since Ningbo Xianfeng acquired it in 2014.	卢先锋在澳大利亚珀斯拥有的百叶窗业务是2014年由宁波先锋所收购的，自那以来，它一直未能实现年度盈利。
Last month, Ningbo Xianfeng announced it would sell an online	上个月，宁波先锋宣布将在上海出售一家在线汽车零部件公司。根据新闻报

auto-parts business in Shanghai. Employees had staged a revolt, saying Mr. Lu didn't live up to his pledges, according to press reports and public filings.	道和公开文件, 该公司员工发起了反抗, 声称卢没有履行自己的承诺。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170803/china-australia-dairy	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170803/china-australia-dairy
In South Korea, an Unsung Hero of History Gets His Due	军队开枪之后, 出租车司机成为民主运动的英雄
SEOUL, South Korea — When foreign correspondents cover dangerous situations, they often depend on local assistants, who in many cases take greater risks than they do. In the bloody month of May 1980 in Gwangju, South Korea, one such invisible hero was a taxi driver whose name may or may not have been Kim Sa-bok.	韩国首尔——外国记者对危险情况进行报道时, 往往要靠本地人的帮助, 在很多情况下, 助手承担的风险比记者承担的还要大。1980年5月, 韩国光州发生血腥镇压时, 一名出租车司机曾当过这种无名英雄, 他的名字可能是金世福 (Kim Sa-bok, 音), 也可能不是。
As the military dictatorship of Chun Doo-hwan slaughtered people in Gwangju who were calling for democracy, Mr. Kim, if that was his name, played a pivotal role in telling the world what was happening. He managed to get a German TV reporter, Jürgen Hinzpeter, past the military cordon that surrounded the city, not once but twice. Mr. Hinzpeter was one of the few foreign correspondents to document the carnage, and his footage was seen around the globe.	全斗焕的军事独裁政权屠杀呼吁民主的光州人民, 在这件把事情公诸于世的这件事上, 金世福 (如果这是他的名字的话) 起到了关键作用。他设法把德国电视记者朱尔根·欣茨佩特 (Jürgen Hinzpeter) 送过光州周围的军事警戒线, 不止是一次, 而是两次。欣茨佩特是记录了大屠杀的少数外国记者之一, 他拍摄的录像让世界各地看到了那里发生的事情。
Mr. Hinzpeter, who died last year at 78, has long been celebrated in South Korea for his part in exposing Mr. Chun's atrocities. A memorial to the journalist stands in Gwangju.	去年逝世的欣茨佩特享年78岁, 长期以来, 因为他在把全斗焕的暴行公诸于世这件事上所起的作用, 他一直受到韩国的颂扬。光州还为纪念这位记者立了一个碑。
And this week, it is his driver's turn to be recognized. A film, "A Taxi Driver," opened Wednesday in theaters across the country, telling the story of the uprising from the point of view of a fictionalized version of Mr. Kim — who, despite the efforts of Mr. Hinzpeter and others over the years, has never been identified.	本周, 当年为他开车的司机终于得到了公认。一部名为《出租车司机》(A Taxi Driver) 的电影周三在韩国各地的影院上映, 影片从虚构人物金世福的角度讲述了光州民主化运动的故事, 尽管欣茨佩特和其他人做了多年的努力, 但人们仍不知道这个司机是谁。

"Until now, I had never known there was a taxi driver in this great tale about Mr. Hinzpeter," Kim Ju-sung, a high school student, said after a recent preview screening of the movie. "I feel as proud of him as I am of Mr. Hinzpeter."	"在这之前，我从未在关于欣茨佩特的伟大故事里听到过还有一名出租车司机，"高中生金柱圣（Kim Ju-sung，音）最近观看了电影的预映之后说。"我为他感到骄傲，就像我为欣茨佩特感到骄傲一样。"
The Gwangju killings were a painful landmark in South Korea's long, tumultuous journey to democracy. Mr. Chun, an army general who had seized power in December 1979 after the assassination of President Park Chung-hee, was tightening his grip in May. He declared martial law across the country, shut down universities and Parliament, and arrested opposition leaders. In Gwangju, a midsize southern city, protesters took to the streets on May 18, and soldiers opened fire.	光州大屠杀是韩国在走向民主的漫长、动荡道路上的一个痛苦的里程碑。全斗焕是军队的一个将领，1979年12月，他在朴正熙总统被刺后夺得了政权，并在次年5月加强对权力的控制。他在全韩国宣布了戒严令，关闭了大学和议会，逮捕了反对派的领导人。5月18日，抗议者在南部城市光州走上街头，士兵向他们开了火。
Hearing word of the unrest, Mr. Hinzpeter, who was based in Tokyo for the German broadcaster ARD, and his sound technician Henning Rumohr flew to Seoul. An acquaintance of Mr. Hinzpeter arranged for a driver, a middle-aged man who said his name was Kim Sa-bok, to meet them at the airport. They headed south.	德国广播电台 ARD 的欣茨佩特当时常驻东京，听到韩国发生动荡的消息后，他和录音师亨宁·鲁莫尔(Henning Rumohr)一起飞到了首尔。欣茨佩特认识的人为他安排了一名司机在机场接机，那个中年男性自称名叫金世福。他们见面后开始南行。
"Signs at the expressway entrance saying 'closed' were a warning to us. But these did not hinder our driver Kim from continuing on the empty highway," Mr. Hinzpeter wrote in 2006, when he was asked to recount his experience for the Seoul Foreign Correspondents' Club. "After driving for about an hour, we began to encounter detour signs, but Kim continued to drive straight toward Gwangju."	"高速公路入口处的'关闭'标志对我们发出了警告。但这并不妨碍我们的金司机在空荡荡的高速公路上继续前行，"欣茨佩特在2006年写道，那年他应邀在首尔外国记者俱乐部讲述自己的那段经历。"开了约一小时后，我们看到绕行的标志，但金继续直奔光州。"
Eventually, they reached military checkpoints, where soldiers forced them to turn aside. Mr. Kim headed for nearby villages; there, farmers told him about alternate routes to Gwangju, narrow roads winding	最终，他们到了军事检查站，那里的士兵强迫他们掉头离开。金世福把车开进了附近的村庄，村里的农民告诉他进入光州的其他道路，狭窄的道路在稻田间穿插。（欣茨佩特编了一个故事，帮助他们通过了后来的检查站，他对

among the rice paddies. (Mr. Hinzpeter made up a story that helped them get through later checkpoints, telling soldiers that his boss was stranded in Gwangju and he had to get him out.)	士兵说，自己的老板被困在了光州，所以他需要去把老板接出来。)
Mr. Hinzpeter was among the first foreign reporters to find Gwangju in a state of bloody uprising. After the troops started killing protesters, residents had begun to arm themselves. A "citizens' army" sped through the streets in commandeered military jeeps and trucks, carrying weapons and munitions stolen from police stations, as people on the sidewalks chanted against the dictatorship.	欣茨佩特是看到光州处于血腥暴动状态下的首批外国记者之一。军队向抗议者开枪后，居民们开始把自己武装起来。随着人行道上的人们高呼着反对独裁的口号，一支“公民部队”开着强行得到的吉普车和卡车在街上急行，车上载着从警察局偷来的武器和弹药。
Behind a hospital, "relatives and friends showed me their loved ones, opening many of the coffins that had been placed in rows," Mr. Hinzpeter wrote. "Never in my life, even filming in Vietnam, had I seen anything like this."	在医院的后面，“死者的亲戚朋友们向我展示了他们的亲人，把成排摆在那里的许多棺材打开让我看，”欣茨佩特写道。“我有生以来从未看到过这种场景，就连我在越南拍摄时都没看到过。”
With the Korean news media muzzled by martial law, only the handful of foreign correspondents present could publish reports on what was happening in Gwangju — no easy task, given the army cordon. Telephone lines had been cut by the military; some reporters walked miles to villages to line up at the nearest phones still working.	由于韩国新闻媒体被戒严令噤声，只有少数在现场的外国记者能够对光州发生的事情进行报道，因为军队的警戒线，作报道不是一件容易的事情。当地的电话线已被军方切断；有些记者步行了好几公里，从一个村子到另一个村子寻找仍然工作的电话机，在这些电话前排起了长队。
Getting footage to the outside world would be even more challenging. Mr. Hinzpeter wrapped his exposed film in its original packaging, to make soldiers at the checkpoints think it had not been used. Once back in Seoul, he hid it in a large can of cookies, which he wrapped in gold-colored foil and green ribbons so it would pass for a wedding gift.	把拍摄的片子送到外面去更具挑战性。欣茨佩特把拍摄用过的电影胶片重新放回到原来的包装里，让检查站的士兵认为胶片没被使用。回到首尔之后，他把胶片藏进了一个大饼干桶，并用金色的锡箔和绿色的丝带把饼干桶包起来，让它看起来像是一件婚礼礼物。
"The wrapping was so impressive that it actually made it through the security checks" at the airport, Mr. Hinzpeter wrote. He flew the film to	"这个包装真的非常出色，居然通过了（机场的）安全检查，”欣茨佩特写道。他在5月22日坐飞机把胶片送到了东京，并把它交给了雇佣他的电视台。

Tokyo on May 22 and got it to his employers.
That same day, he flew back to Seoul. He and Mr. Kim headed to Gwangju again, in time to cover the military's assault on a government building where armed citizens had dug in for their last, doomed stand.	当天，他就飞回了首尔。他和金世福再次前往光州，正好赶上了报道军队袭击政府大楼的事情，坚守大楼的武装公民在那里进行了最后的、但注定失败的反抗。
Nearly 200 people, including about 20 soldiers, were killed in Gwangju, by the official count, though civic groups and bereaved families have suggested that the toll was much higher. The junta blamed "vicious rioters" and "communist agitators" for the casualties, saying the military had been there only to protect people.	据官方数字，有近 200 人、其中包括约 20 名士兵在光州被打死，但公民团体和死者家属都认为，死亡的人数要更高。军政府将人员的伤亡归咎于“凶残的暴徒”和“共产党的煽动者”，还说军队进入那里，只是为了保护人民。
But Mr. Hinzpeter's footage exposed those assertions as lies — not just to the world, but to South Koreans.	但是，欣茨佩特拍摄片子，不仅向全世界、而且向韩国人戳穿了政府的谎言。
For the remaining years of Mr. Chun's rule, tear gas, Molotov cocktails and shouts for democracy rocked the campuses, as students clashed with the riot police. The dictator finally agreed to democratic overhaul, including free elections, in 1987. In the late 1990s, Mr. Chun was convicted of sedition and mutiny in connection with the 1979 coup and the Gwangju killings.	在全斗焕政权剩下来的年头里，由于学生与防暴警察经常发生冲突，催泪瓦斯、莫洛托夫燃烧瓶，以及民主的呼声震撼了校园。这位独裁者终于同意进行民主改革，包括允许在 1987 年举行自由选举。20 世纪 90 年代后期，全斗焕因与 1979 年的政变和光州屠杀有关而被判犯有煽动叛乱和哗变罪。
In the years that followed, when Mr. Hinzpeter was honored with awards by South Korean journalist associations and civic groups, he often spoke of Mr. Kim. He said he wanted to ride again in Mr. Kim's cab through the streets of a "new Korea," a vibrant democracy. Shin Nan-ja, 75, who worked for Mr. Hinzpeter after the uprising, said he asked her repeatedly to find him. But the searches went nowhere.	在接下来的几年里，每当欣茨佩特接受韩国记者协会和公民团体授予的荣誉时，他都经常提到金世福。他说，他想要在充满民主活力的“新韩国”的街道上，再次乘坐金世福的出租车。现年 75 岁的申南慈（Shin Nan-ja，音）在光州大屠杀后曾为欣茨佩特工作过，她说，欣茨佩特多次让她寻找金世福，但都未找到。
The written accounts Mr. Hinzpeter left behind gave few details about Mr. Kim, and the version that appears in "A Taxi Driver" — played by	欣茨佩特留下的文字记录中没有多少关于金世福的细节，而影片《出租车司机》中由韩国著名演员宋康昊扮演的版本大部分是虚构的。

Song Kang-ho, one of the country's best-known actors — is mostly fictionalized.
The film's producers say that they, like Mr. Hinzpeter, tried to find Mr. Kim. They said that they contacted every older South Korean they could find named Kim Sa-bok — a fairly uncommon name — but that none turned out to be the driver.	电影的制片人说，他们和欣茨佩特一样，也在试图找到金世福。他们说，他们联系了每位名叫金世福——这个名字在韩国并不常见——的上了年纪的韩国人，但没有一位是那个司机。
Interest in the movie has made the name one of the most searched-for terms in the country, but no one has come forward.	对这部电影的兴趣已经让该名成为韩国检索最多的词之一，但还没有人站出来说自己就是那个司机。
https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170803/south-korea-taxi-driver-film-gwangju	https://cn.nytimes.com/asia-pacific/20170803/south-korea-taxi-driver-film-gwangju
India's Leader Maps Out a More Robust Digital Future	印度总理誓言打造本国数字产业
NEW DELHI — Standing alongside some of the titans of Indian industry and senior ministers in his cabinet, Prime Minister Narendra Modi announced the start of a "Digital India week" at a packed stadium in the capital last week, highlighting his government's push for greater Internet connectivity and services for more of the country's people and a desire to jump-start Indian manufacturing in electronics.	新德里——上周，印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)在印度首都一座拥挤的体育馆里宣布启动“数字印度周”，身边站着一些印度工业界巨头和内阁高级部长。此举突显了莫迪政府为了使更多印度民众享受到更好的网络连接和服务所做的努力，以及推动印度电子制造业发展的愿望。
With an analogy, he evoked the image of a small child, once enthralled with a pen, or a pair of glasses in an adult's pocket, now captivated by a mobile phone.	他用小孩打了一个比方：曾经对大人口袋里的笔或眼镜着迷的孩子，现在却会被手机吸引。
"That means that he may or may not understand anything else, but he can understand digital power," he said on Wednesday. "Time demands that we understand this change, and if we don't understand this change, then we will be left in a corner and the world will move far away and we will be left watching."	"这说明，不论是否理解其他东西，他都能理解数字技术的力量，"他在上周三表示。"时代要求我们理解这种变化。如果我们不理解这种变化，就会被遗忘在角落，而世界将会离我们远去，留我们在原地观望。"

The statement was not, analysts said, needlessly overwrought. India has lagged behind much of the world in digital infrastructure. It ranked 115th on its average connection speed in the first quarter of this year, according to a study by Akamai Technologies. Just over 100 million subscribers, in a population of more than 1.2 billion, have broadband connections, data in April from a government regulatory body showed.	分析师人士表示，此番表态并非不必要的过度紧张。在数字基础设施方面，印度确实落后于世界许多地区。美国阿卡迈技术公司(Akamai Technologies)的研究表明，今年第一季度，印度的平均联网速度排在世界第115位。一家政府管理机构4月的数据显示，在拥有逾12亿人口的印度，宽带用户只有1亿多一点。
The problem lies partly in the slow progress of a project started in 2011 to expand the country's fiber optic network.	这个问题的部分原因在于始于2011年的一项工程进展缓慢。该工程的目的是扩大印度光纤网络的覆盖范围。
But India also represents great opportunity in the digital economy because of its bulging population and a fast-growing market for electronic goods. Mr. Modi noted that imports of electronic goods were second only to oil.	不过，由于膨胀的人口和发展迅速的电子产品市场，印度也代表着数字经济中的一个巨大机遇。莫迪指出，印度电子产品的进口额仅次于石油。
"Why can't we make quality electronic goods that are globally competitive?" he asked.	他反问道，“我们为什么不能制造具有国际竞争力的高质量的电子产品呢？”
Mr. Modi underscored his government's aim to substantially cut his country's imports of electronics by 2020, an ambitious goal for an India that, according to Neeraj Aggarwal, a senior partner and director at the Boston Consulting Group in India, is "almost not a player in this space."	莫迪强调了政府的目标：要在2020年时大幅减少印度的电子产品进口。波士顿咨询集团(Boston Consulting Group)印度分部高级合伙人兼董事尼拉杰·阿加瓦尔(Neeraj Aggarwal)表示，印度“几乎没有涉足这一领域”。对该国而言，这是一个雄心勃勃的目标。
In addition, the Digital India campaign includes a commitment to providing citizens with access to health care, education, banking, insurance, pension and agricultural services through a network of "common service centers" that are supposed to be open in 250,000 villages across the country by 2019.	此外，数字印度活动还包括，承诺通过一个“公共服务中心”网络来为民众提供医疗、教育、银行、保险、养老金和农业服务。根据计划，到2019年，这样的中心将在全国各地的25万座村庄开放。
"In a sense it's what we've been waiting for," said Nikhil Pahwa, the founder and editor of MediaNama.com, which analyzes India's digital	“从某种意义上而言，这就是我们一直等待的东西，”分析印度数字经济的网站MediaNama.com的创始人和总编尼克希尔·帕瓦(Nikhil Pahwa)说。“以前还

economy. "No government till now had made a strong, concerted effort on focusing on digitizing India."	没有哪届政府为实现印度的数字化而齐心协力地做过大的努力。”
Industrialists at the announcement, including Mukesh Ambani, the chairman of Reliance Industries, and the leaders of some of India's largest outsourcing companies, pledged nearly $71 billion to realize the government's goals.	出席莫迪声明现场的实业家包括信赖工业公司(Reliance Industries)的董事长穆凯什·安巴尼(Mukesh Ambani), 以及印度最大的一些外包企业的领导人。他们承诺出资 710 亿美元来实现政府的目标。
The event on Wednesday was a statement of intent more than a detailed policy brief, and the path to the goals the government described is not easy.	周二的活动更像是发表一番意图声明, 而非具体的政策通报, 而通往政府描述的目标的道路并不平坦。
While Mr. Modi spoke of empowering young people to build start-ups and innovate, Mr. Pahwa complained of byzantine regulations for technology companies. He cited the government's efforts to regulate Uber, the American ride-hailing company.	尽管莫迪提到要使年轻人具备创业和革新的能力, 但帕瓦抱怨高科技企业受到了太过繁冗的政府监管。他举出的例子是政府为美国打车企业 Uber 设置了重重管制。
Entrepreneurs complain that online payments in India have also been hamstrung by a series of measures.	创业人士申诉, 印度的网上支付因为一系列措施而受阻。
Some expressed skepticism that the government could keep its promises.	还有人表示, 他们怀疑政府是否能信守承诺。
"The Internet in India has grown despite government policy, not because of government policy," said Mr. Pahwa, who also worked on a campaign in India for net neutrality, a concept that all data should be treated equally.	“印度互联网得到发展是克服了政府政策的限制, 并不是因为政府的政策, ”帕瓦说。他还在参与印度的宣扬网络中立性的活动。所谓网络中立性, 就是所有数据都应该得到平等对待。
But Mr. Aggarwal, of the Boston Consulting Group, said the expansion of infrastructure and services could have the potential to pull in a huge base of consumers.	不过, 波士顿咨询集团的阿加瓦尔表示, 基础设施和服务的扩展可能会吸引大批消费者。
"It creates an enabling infrastructure, and a lot of private sector	他说, “这将创造可以带动其他方面发展的基础设施, 而大量私营部门的创

innovation can ride on top of that," he said.	新将能以此为基础。”
As for the manufacturing of electronics, India faces tough competition from China, which has incentives for foreign companies and a well-established manufacturing structure.	在制造电子产品的问题上,印度面临着来自中国的激烈竞争。中国有不少针对外国企业的激励措施,而且制造业的结构也比较完善。
In India, cumbersome land and taxation laws have the potential to scare off global companies. But a surge in the Indian market for electronics could provide India with the boost it needs, if coupled with swift policy action, Mr. Aggarwal said.	在印度,繁琐的土地法和税法可能会吓走跨国企业。但阿加瓦尔表示,如果配上快速的政策行动,印度市场对电子产品激增的需求或许会给印度提供需要的动力。
"This is a window of opportunity that, if lost now, will be harder to recover," he said.	"这是一扇机遇之窗,倘若错过,弥补起来将会更加困难,"他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20150706/c06indiadigital	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20150706/c06indiadigital
India's Manufacturing Sector Courts the World, but Pitfalls Remain	"印度制造"能否取代"中国制造"?
PUNE, India — Play-Doh, Monopoly and practically all of Hasbro's other toys were made in China for decades. Now, Hasbro is changing course.	印度浦那——几十年来,培乐多(Play-Doh)、大富翁(Monopoly),以及孩之宝(Hasbro)的几乎所有其他玩具都在中国生产。现在,孩之宝开始改弦更张。
While the company still sources expensive, complex toys like the electronic FurReal Friends from China, Hasbro has contracts for production in Turkey, Indonesia, Vietnam and Mexico. It has moved most aggressively into India, where Hasbro now buys from several sizable factories, and another is planned.	虽然孩之宝旗下较为昂贵、复杂的玩具,比如电子的"亲亲宠物"(FurReal Friends)系列,仍然在中国加工制造,但该公司的生产订单也发往了土耳其、印度尼西亚、越南和墨西哥。它进军最积极的地方是印度,孩之宝现在已经在印度有了几家相当大的工厂,而且还计划再开一家。
Multinationals around the globe have begun to look seriously at manufacturing in India, with its plentiful and inexpensive labor pool. But the investment doesn't mean doing business in India is getting easier. Rather, it is a sign that doing business in China is getting more difficult.	世界各地的跨国公司已经开始认真看待印度制造业,那里有充足的廉价劳动力资源。但投资印度并不意味着在该国开展业务变容易了,而是显示出在中国做生意越来越难了。
The Hong Kong-based Musical Group decided to build the latest Hasbro factory in India after facing severe labor shortages and soaring	美好集团(Musical Group)总部设在香港,其在中国南部的旗舰工厂遭遇了严重的劳动力短缺,而且工人工资飙升,于是该集团决定在印度修建最新的孩 wages at its main factory in southern China. But Musical, like many companies, is running headlong into India's bureaucratic morass over land purchases, and the project is months behind schedule.	之宝工厂。但是和许多公司一样，该集团在购买土地的问题上也陷入了印度的官僚泥沼，项目进度落后了数月之久。

"We've had a very tough negotiation with the local government," said Christopher Tse, the managing director of the Musical Group, which for nearly 35 years did almost all its manufacturing in China. "It takes more time than I expected."	"我们与当地政府的谈判非常艰难，"美好集团董事总经理谢鸿强(Christopher Tse)说，"花的时间比我预期的长。"该集团近35年来所有的制造加工环节，几乎都是在内地进行的。
For Prime Minister Narendra Modi of India, the situation presents a political and economic challenge.	对于印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)来说，这种情况是政治和经济上的一个挑战。
More than a year ago, Modi, wearing a traditional bright yellow jacket and standing below an immense logo of an Indian tiger, unveiled an ambitious effort to ramp up manufacturing. The "Make in India" campaign promised to reduce bureaucracy and improve infrastructure, paving the way for big multinationals and other foreign investors. It was a cornerstone of his candidacy.	一年多前，莫迪穿着亮黄色的传统上衣，站在一个巨大的印度虎标志下，推出了一项雄心勃勃的壮大印度制造业的计划。"印度制造"(Make in India)计划承诺削减官僚手续，改善基础设施，为大型跨国公司和其他外国投资者铺平道路。这是莫迪竞选政纲的核心。
Since then, almost nothing has gone as planned.	自那时之后，几乎没有哪一项目标在按计划进行。
Progress in improving the country's inadequate roads, rail lines and ports has been slow. Corruption remains pernicious. Urban air pollution is even worse in India than in China, and could deteriorate further as more factories are built.	改善该国的道路、铁路和港口不足的行动进展缓慢。腐败仍然猖獗。随着更多的工厂建成，印度城市空气污染的程度甚至变得比中国还糟糕，而且可能会进一步恶化。
Plans to rewrite labor and land laws, and to overhaul state taxes, have stalled in Parliament. And an effort by Modi to bypass Parliament with temporary executive orders has run into trouble as well.	重写劳动法和土地法，大幅调整地方税的计划也在议会里遭遇阻挠。莫迪想绕过议会颁布临时行政命令，但也遇到了麻烦。
Modi's most controversial but potentially far-reaching executive order — making it easier to convert farmland into factory sites — expired on	莫迪最具争议性，但有可能带来影响深远的行政命令，允许将农田更容易地转变为工厂用地，它已经在今年8月31日到期，莫迪决定不再延期。这个

Aug. 31. He chose not to renew it. The ordinance had become a political liability in state elections, as farmers feared that it might be used to push them off their land.	行政命令在各邦的选举中已经成了一个政治包袱，农民担心有人利用它来征收自己的耕地。
"Ease of doing business is still a work in progress," said India's finance minister, Arun Jaitley, adding that state governments were starting to reform land and labor laws.	"经商环境仍待完善，"财政部长阿伦·贾特里(Arun Jaitley)表示。他补充说，各邦政府已经开始修改土地法和劳动法。
Yet, slowly and a little unpredictably, India's manufacturing sector is starting to attract overseas investment.	然而，有点出人预料的是，印度制造业已经开始慢慢吸引海外投资了。
Foxconn, the world's largest contract manufacturer of smartphones and other electronics, which has most of its factories in China, agreed in August to open 10 to 12 plants in western India by 2020, employing as many as 50,000 workers. A week earlier, General Motors announced plans to invest $1 billion to develop new car models for the Indian market and nearly double the size of its 7-year-old factory on the outskirts of Pune.	富士康(Foxconn)是全球最大的智能手机和其他电子产品的代工制造商，其大部分工厂都设在中国。今年8月，该公司表示到2020年前，将在印度西部开设10到12家工厂，雇佣多达5万名工人。这个计划公布一周前，通用汽车(General Motors)宣布计划投资10亿美元，在印度市场开发新车型，并将其在浦那市郊有7年历史的老厂，扩大将近一倍。
Indian officials see manufacturing as essential to their country's future. They have 10 million young workers a year joining the labor force and few alternatives to create enough jobs.	印度官员认为，制造业对该国的未来发展至关重要。印度每年有1000万青年工人加入劳动力大军，几乎没有其他方法来创造足够的就业机会。
Devendra Fadnavis, an ally of Modi who is the chief minister of Maharashtra state that includes Mumbai and Pune, has been aggressively marketing his state's huge labor force in trips to China and elsewhere. "We have the human resources — if we can liberate them, we can pioneer the industrial production for the entire world," Fadnavis said.	德文德拉·法德纳维斯(Devendra Fadnavis)是莫迪的盟友，也是孟买和浦那所在的马哈拉施特拉邦的首席部长。他前往中国和其他国家时，一直积极宣传该邦巨大的劳动力资源。“我们有人力资源——如果我们能够释放这些资源的潜力，就可以成为整个世界工业生产的先锋，”法德纳维斯说。
The pitch has worked. Foreign direct investment in India is up 46	这种宣传发挥了效果。在过去两年，印度获得的外国直接投资增长了46%。

percent over the last two years. It is down 1.3 percent in China, although it shows signs of a modest rebound lately.	而中国却减少了 1.3%，不过最近出现了小幅反弹的迹象。
The recent flood of foreign investment is helping propel India, which is expected to be the fastest-growing major economy in the world this year. The International Monetary Fund estimated this month that India's economy would increase 7.3 percent in 2015, compared with 6.8 percent this year in China.	最近涌入的外国投资正在帮助推动印度增长。印度预计会成为今年全世界增长最快的主要经济体。国际货币基金组织(IMF)本月预测，2015 年印度经济增长速度将达到 7.3%，而中国今年预计仅为 6.8%。
In many ways, India is benefiting from the challenges facing China.	在很多方面，印度都受益于中国面临的挑战。
Blue-collar wages in China have more than quintupled in the last decade and companies face worker shortages despite economic weakness. "If you want to hire 1,000 workers, you only find 600, and the turnover will be 15 or 20 percent a month," said Tse of Musical Group, the Hasbro supplier.	过去十年里，中国蓝领工人的工资至少翻了两番。尽管经济疲软，但企业却面临用工荒。“如果想招 1000 人，只能找到 600 人，并且每个月的人员流动率会达到 15%到 20%,”美好集团的谢鸿强说。该集团是孩之宝(Hasbro)的供应商。
Some multinationals also worry that China is becoming a politically riskier place to do business. Such concerns have been heightened by the country's growing show of force, like the sight of thousands of goose-stepping soldiers parading through Tiananmen Square on Sept. 3, or the rapid construction of military-grade airfields this year on hastily built artificial islands in the disputed South China Sea.	一些跨国公司还担心，在中国做生意面临的政治风险越来越大。中国日渐频繁地炫耀武力的做法，也加剧了这种担心。比如 9 月 3 日，成千上万名士兵踢着正步走过天安门广场，又比如在有争议的南海，中国今年在仓促建成的人工岛上，迅速修建了军用级别的机场。
By comparison, India offers a stable democracy and low wages. Even skilled factory workers here in Pune, sometimes called the Detroit of India, earn about $300 a month, half of Chinese wages.	相比之下，印度有稳定的民主制度，且工资水平低。浦那有时会被称作印度的底特律，在那里，工厂熟练工的月工资也只有大约 300 美元，是中国工资的一半。
Maintaining its edge won't be easy for India.	但对印度来说，保持优势并非易事。
For one, India needs to significantly upgrade its roads, ports and other infrastructure. Musical Group initially considered building a factory	其中一个问题是，印度需要大幅升级道路、港口和其他基础设施。美好集团起初考虑在离加尔各答市区约 200 公里的地方建厂。但印度糟糕的路况意

about 200 kilometers (120 miles) outside Kolkata, formerly Calcutta. India's poor roads meant the trip would take four hours.	味着，这段路要耗时四个小时。
"In China, 200 kilometers is two hours," said Tse. He ultimately decided to seek costlier land a few miles from the port, only to encounter slow-moving local officials.	"在中国，200公里只要两小时，"谢鸿强说。他最终决定去找距离港口几公里远的高价土地，却又遭遇了效率低下的地方官员。
India is also trying to expand manufacturing just as global trade stalls. A big export push by India could prompt a backlash in other countries, said Raghuram Rajan, the governor of the Reserve Bank of India and former chief economic adviser to the Indian government.	印度还试图在全球贸易失速之际扩大制造业。印度储备银行(Reserve Bank of India)行长、印度政府前首席经济顾问拉古拉姆·拉詹(Raghuram Rajan)称，印度大力推动出口可能会招致其他国家的强烈反对。
"To expect another China to come in without any political reaction would be naive," he said in an interview in Mumbai. "We're going to have a much tougher fight for market share."	"如果指望成为另一个中国，却又不在政治上遭遇任何反弹，那就太天真了，"他在孟买接受采访时说。"要想赢得市场份额，我们还要打一场艰苦得多的仗。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151015/c15makeindia	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151015/c15makeindia
Why the Yum Brands Split Makes Sense	百胜剥离中国业务有什么好处
First comes the gratification, then the remorse. But does the cycle familiar to Yum Brands customers also apply to its investors?	先是满足感，然后是懊悔心。这种对于百胜(Yum Brands)顾客来说非常熟悉的循环，也适用于其投资者吗？
The owner of KFC has decided to split off its troubled China business, leaving two separately traded companies. The logical and potentially rewarding move comes with the chance of a less savory aftertaste.	肯德基(KFC)的母公司决定剥离陷入困境的中国业务，分成两个独立上市的公司。该公司做出这个合理且可能有回报的举动时，可能会带来不那么美妙的回味。
Yum will split off its China unit entirely, according to a person familiar with the situation, listing it wherever it garners the most interest from investors. While that is what the activist investor Keith Meister wanted even before he was added to Yum's board last week, it's also a no-brainer. Yum's own-and-operate model in China jars with its almost entirely franchise-based business elsewhere.	据一位知情人士透露，百胜将彻底剥离中国业务，在能吸引最多投资者兴趣的地方上市。虽然上周才加入百胜董事会的维权投资者基思·梅斯特尔(Keith Meister)早就希望这么做，但这可以说是一个显而易见的选择。百胜在中国施行的"拥有并经营"模式与其他地方几乎完全以特许经营为基础的业务不协调。

After the split, the two parts will have very different flavors. Suppose the China division can increase its number of stores by half, to 10,000, and create $1.4 million a year in revenue from each one, as it did before food scares in China last year hurt its sales. A Reuters Breakingviews analysis suggests that the unit could be worth $27 billion on a debt-free basis, three-quarters of the whole Yum enterprise value.	拆分之后,这两家公司将有不同的特色。预计中国公司能够店铺数增加一半,达到1万家,每家每年创造140万美元的收入,达到去年中国食品恐慌影响其销售额之前的水平。路透热点透视(Breakinviews)的一篇分析文章显示,中国公司在无债的基础上可能价值270亿美元,相当于整个百胜集团市值的四分之三。
The more mature Western-world business, meanwhile, could be slathered in debt. Yum, the owner of the KFC and Pizza Hut brands, might be able to extract a 3 percent license fee from its expanded China affiliate, giving it $420 million a year in mostly stable income. Add that to last year's non-Chinese earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization, or Ebitda, of $1.1 billion, assume there's room for borrowing worth three times Ebitda, and there is scope for a one-time debt-funded payout to investors of more than $4 billion.	与此同时,比较成熟的西方国家业务可能大量举债。百胜——肯德基和必胜客(Pizza Hut)的母公司——或许能从扩张后的中国公司收取3%的许可证费用,每年获得基本上稳定的4.2亿美元收入。加上这部分收入后,去年非中国业务的Ebitda(利息、税、折旧、摊销前盈利收入)达到11亿美元,假设还有可以获得三倍Ebitda的借款的空间,就有一次性向投资者举债回报逾40亿美元的余地。
Despite this, the $32 billion Yum stock rose just 4 percent after the split was announced on Tuesday. That may be because any separation could be at least a year away. It may also reflect the China risk that will remain with the Western business. The American unit will still depend on fees from China — increasingly so if growth plans there pan out. Yet it will not be able to control them. Yum's spinoff is sensible, but not a magic recipe.	尽管如此,周二宣布拆分计划后,市值320亿美元的百胜集团的股价仅仅上涨了4%。这可能是任何拆分计划需要至少一年的时间才能完成。这可能也反映了中国风险将会继续存在于西方业务中。美国公司仍将依赖来自中国的许可费——如果增长计划在中国取得成功,那就会愈发依赖。而美国公司将无法控制它们。百胜集团的拆分举措非常明智,但不是一份魔力食谱。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151021/c21db-yumviews	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151021/c21db-yumviews
Uber Said to Plan Another $1 Billion in Fund-Raising	优步拟再融资10亿美元,将成估值最高初创公司
Just three months after raising an enormous sum of money from investors, Uber is at it again.	三个月前刚从投资者那里筹集到一大笔钱的优步(Uber)又要融资了。

The ride-hailing service is planning to raise close to $1 billion in new venture capital from investors, according to people with knowledge of the matter. Investors are looking at a valuation of $60 billion to $70 billion.	知情人士称，这家叫车服务公司计划从投资者那里筹集近 10 亿美元风险投资。投资者预期该公司的估值在 600 亿美元到 700 亿美元之间。
Such a fundraising round would make Uber the world's most valuable private startup by far. A round just this summer valued the company at more than $50 billion, a bit more than Facebook's last big private capital raise in 2011.	这样一轮融资会让优步成为目前世界上估值最高的初创公司。今年夏天那一轮融资对该公司的估值是 500 多亿美元，略高于 Facebook 上市前在 2011 年进行的最后一轮融资中的估值。
Nearly as eye-popping as its soaring valuations has been the furious pace at which Uber has been raising money. The latest round of financing will be the eighth that the company has sought over the last five years.	几乎和日渐飙升的估值同样吸引眼球的，是优步的融资步伐。最新一轮融资将是该公司在五年时间里的第八次融资。
More precise targets on the size and the valuations will be determined after the company begins talks with investors in coming weeks, said the people, who spoke on the condition of anonymity. Executives at Uber and the company's board have approved another round, and the company plans to start holding official conversations in the next few weeks, they said.	要求匿名的消息人士称，有关融资规模和公司估值的准确目标，接下来几周该公司与投资者开始谈判后，才能确定下来。他们表示，优步的高管和公司董事会已经批准进行另一轮融资，公司计划在未来几周正式开始对话。
An Uber spokeswoman declined to comment Friday.	周五，优步的一名女发言人拒绝置评。
While Facebook's last big fundraising round took place a year before the social network went public, Travis Kalanick, Uber's founder and chief executive, has little interest in going public in the near future.	尽管 Facebook 最后一轮大规模融资结束一年后，这家社交网络公司便上市了，但优步创始人兼首席执行官特拉维斯·卡兰尼克(Travis Kalanick)对于在近期内上市几乎没什么兴趣。
"We're like eighth-graders. We're in junior high and someone is telling us that we need to go to the prom, and it's just a little early," Kalanick said at The Wall Street Journal's WSJDLive Conference in Laguna	"我们就像八年级学生。我们刚上初中，就有人对我们说，要参加毕业舞会，实在有点早，"卡兰尼克周二在《华尔街日报》(The Wall Street Journal)在加州拉古纳海滩举办的 WSJDLive 全球科技大会上说。"我们还是先上了高

Beach, California, on Tuesday. "Let us get into high school before we start talking about these sorts of things."	中再谈这些事情吧。"
Founded in San Francisco in 2009, Uber has swollen to operations in more than 300 cities across 63 countries around the globe.	2009 年成立于旧金山的优步, 业务已遍及全球 63 个国家的 300 多个城市。
Throughout Uber's rapid expansion, investors have poured money into the company at a staggering rate. To date, the company has raised more than $8 billion from investors including Benchmark and Google Ventures, as well as large financial firms like Goldman Sachs and TPG Growth.	在优步的快速扩张中, 投资者大笔投钱的速度令人震惊。迄今为止, 该公司已筹集了逾 80 亿美元, 投资者包括 Benchmark 和谷歌风投(Google Ventures), 以及高盛(Goldman Sachs)和 TPG Growth 等大型金融机构。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151025/c25db-uber	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151025/c25db-uber
Ctrip.com and Qunar, 2 Travel Companies in China, Swap Shares in Tie-Up	又见竞争对手合并: 携程与去哪儿换股“联姻”
Two of China's leading travel companies are teaming up to make the most of a bright spot in the Chinese economy.	为抓紧中国经济的一大亮点, 中国两家业内领先的旅游企业决定联手。
Ctrip.com International, the Chinese travel-booking company, agreed on Monday to a stock transaction with Qunar Cayman Islands, a travel search engine, and both companies agreed to cooperate across different services.	周一, 中国旅游预订公司携程旅行网同意了与旅行搜索引擎去哪儿网的股票交易。两家公司同意在不同服务领域展开合作。二者的上市实体分别为携程国际有限公司(Ctrip.com International)和去哪儿开曼群岛有限公司(Qunar Cayman Islands)。
Baidu, which is the majority shareholder of Qunar, exchanged 178,702,519 Class A shares and 11,450,000 Class B shares for 11,488,381 newly issued ordinary shares in Ctrip.	去哪儿的大股东百度将 178702519 股去哪儿的 A 类股和 11450000 股去哪儿的 B 类股, 置换为携程增发的 11488381 股普通股。
Baidu will now have a 25 percent voting interest in Ctrip, while Ctrip will have a 45 percent voting interest in Qunar.	百度将拥有携程 25% 的总投票权, 携程则将拥有去哪儿 45% 的总投票权。
Four Ctrip representatives have joined Qunar's board, including James Liang, the chairman and chief executive, and Jane Sun, co-president	携程的四名代表已加入去哪儿的董事会, 包括携程董事会主席兼首席执行官梁建章(James Liang)和联合总裁兼首席运营官孙洁(Jane Sun)。 and chief operating officer.

Robin Li, the chairman and chief executive of Baidu, and Tony Yip, the head of investments, mergers and acquisitions, have been appointed to Ctrip's board.	百度董事长兼首席执行官李彦宏(Robin Li)和负责投资并购事务的叶卓东(Tony Yip)亦被任命为携程董事。
Qunar, whose name means "where to go" in Chinese, had taken a step toward integrating more tightly with Baidu in September. It gave Baidu another two seats on top of the three it already had on its board. The company has been pushing to broaden its offerings in the face of competition from groups backed by Alibaba and Tencent.	今年9月,去哪儿就为了更紧密地与百度整合而迈进了一步,把百度在该公司董事会的席位从三个增加到五个。面对由阿里巴巴和腾讯支持的企业所构成的竞争,该公司一直在争取扩大产品和服务的范围。
Despite fears about the health of the Chinese economy, the travel market is still growing. Ctrip's second-quarter revenue rose 47 percent, to $408 million, from a year ago. Qunar's revenue increased 120 percent, to $142.1 million in the second quarter.	尽管对中国经济的健康状况存在担忧,但旅游市场仍在增长。携程第二季度净营业收入25亿元,同比增长47%。去哪儿第二季度总营收8.81亿元,同比增长120%。
Kaiser Kuo, the international communications director for Baidu, said the agreement with Ctrip would give Qunar more opportunities to cooperate on mobile search and map-based products.	百度国际媒体公关总监郭怡广(Kaiser Kuo)表示,与携程达成的协议,将让去哪儿有更多机会在移动搜索和基于地图的产品上开展合作。
He also said the two companies would be able to benefit from each others' strengths in different markets.	他还表示,两家公司都能通过对方在不同市场上的优势而获益。
"Ctrip is big on high end business travel, Qunar has been more leisure, personally booked travel," he said. "We're covering more bases, a broader demographic."	"携程在高端商务旅游方面做得很大,去哪儿更休闲,是个人预订出行,"他说。"我们会覆盖更多客户群,扩大服务对象。"
The travel industry is not the only sector that is seeing companies team up amid steep competition.	竞争对手联合起来的现象不仅发生在旅游业。
Meituan, a group buying service, and Dianping, a consumer review site, agreed to join forces this month with the goal of creating an	本月,团购网站美团网和消费者点评网站大众点评网同意合并,目标是创建一个电商巨头。

e-commerce juggernaut.
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151027/c27db-chinatravel	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151027/c27db-chinatravel
China's Slowdown Raises Questions About Long-Term Growth	中国经济放缓是阵痛还是深层衰退的开始
HONG KONG — The short-term economic signals out of China have not been reassuring.	香港——中国的短期经济信号让人心存不安。
Policy makers bungled a stock market bailout over the summer. The central bank made a surprise devaluation of the currency. Growth slipped to its slowest pace since 2009.	政策制定者今年夏天在 A 股救市行动中表现拙劣。央行突然让货币贬值。中国经济增长下滑到了自 2009 年以来最低水平。
These developments rattled global markets and unnerved investors. But the bigger question is, what, if anything, has changed in the long-term outlook for China's growth?	这些状况在全球市场引发了躁动，令投资者感到不安。但更大的问题是，中国经济增长的长期前景有变化吗？如果有的话，是什么？
Some experts on emerging markets look at China's sputtering growth rate and see signs of deeper problems ahead. Others are undeterred, taking China's current economic deceleration in stride. To them, it is a natural and necessary part of the switch to a more sustainable development path.	新兴市场领域的一些专家研究了中国的增长率下滑，认为有迹象表明将来会出现更深层的问题。另外一些人则态度从容，对中国目前的经济减速不以为意。他们认为，要转换到更加可持续发展的道路上，这是一个自然而必要的过程。
"The last couple of decades were all about ever-faster growth in everything in China, and the next couple of decades will be about slower growth rates in almost everything," said Andy Rothman, a San Francisco-based strategist at Matthews Asia, one of the biggest investment firms in the United States dedicated to Asia.	"过去几十年的主题是，中国的一切都在进行着前所未有的快速增长，而未来几十年的主题是，几乎一切增长都在放缓，"旧金山铭基亚洲(Matthews Asia)的投资策略师安迪·罗思曼(Andy Rothman)表示。铭基亚洲是美国最大的专注于亚洲市场的投资公司之一。
"We need to get comfortable with that," he added. "The Communist Party is comfortable with that, but over here, we're freaking out about it."	"我们需要习惯这种情况，"他说。"共产党就很泰然自若，而我们在这边惊慌失措。"
Indeed, the once-torrid growth in industrial and manufacturing output	事实上，中国工业和制造业产出虽然曾经有过高速增长，但最近几年已经降

has been cooling off for several years, falling under 7 percent. China's leaders have just set an annual growth target of 6.5 percent in the next five-year plan, running through 2020. But after decades of debt-driven investment, economists are trying to size up whether China can shift to a new model in which consumer demand becomes the main engine of economic growth, as in most developed countries.	温，滑落到了7%以下。中国领导人刚刚为持续到2020年的下一个五年规划设定了6.5%的年增长目标，但中国几十年来都是用债务推动投资，经济学家们正在尝试估算中国是否可以转型到一个新的模式，让消费者需求成为经济增长的主要推动力，就像大多数发达国家一样。
Bob Browne, the chief investment officer at Northern Trust in Chicago, describes the question of the Chinese consumer as "one of the fundamental long-term decisions an investor has to make about China."	鲍勃·布朗(Bob Browne)是芝加哥北方信托(Northern Trust)的首席投资官，他说中国消费者的问题是“面对中国的投资者必须做出的一项根本性的长远决策”。
"You can't be agnostic or neutral on it: Is that transition to a services-based economy, as the middle class expands, going to continue inexorably – with bumps along the way – or not?"	“向服务型经济转型的过程，是会随着中产阶层的增多继续前进，即使有颠簸也无法阻挡呢，还是不会？对于这个问题，你不能不在乎，也不能模棱两可。”
Given the volatile short-term outlook, investors have been cashing out of Chinese-related stocks in recent months, part of a broader sell-off that has affected most emerging markets.	由于短期前景不稳定，近几个月来，投资者纷纷套现中国概念股，而更加广泛的抛售已经对大多数新兴市场造成了冲击。
Selling pressure appears to have stabilized in recent weeks, but as of late October, the one-year estimated flow out of emerging market stocks totaled nearly $70 billion, according to data from EPFR Global, a fund tracker, as cited by Citigroup. Of that global total, money flowing out of funds in China and Hong Kong was more than $30 billion.	最近几周，卖压似乎已经逐步稳定，但花旗集团(Citigroup)援引追踪基金动向的EPFR Global提供的数据称，到10月末，新兴市场股市一年来流出的资金预计达到将近700亿美元。其中，从中国和香港基金市场流出的资金超过了300亿美元。
In the near term, investors are worried about China's growth. In recent monthly surveys of fund managers conducted by Bank of America's Merrill Lynch unit, a potential recession in China was cited as the biggest outlying risk to the global economy. In the bank's October survey, 39 percent of respondents said China was the biggest such risk,	短期内，投资者对中国的经济增长感到担心。美银美林(Bank of America Merrill Lynch)最近对基金经理进行的月度调查显示，中国的潜在衰退被列为全球经济最大的外部风险。该银行10月的调查显示，39%的被调查者表示，中国是最大的外部风险，尽管这一比率已经低于9月的54%。

though that was down from 54 percent in September.
Mr. Browne is among those who see China's slowdown as a near-term risk, but his longer-term faith in its ability to make the transition to a consumption-led growth model is unchanged.	一些人将中国经济的放缓视作短期威胁，布朗就是其中之一，但他长期以来对中国有能力向消费驱动型增长模式过渡的信心没有改变。
"Clearly with China, it's more of a top-down-driven economy, but so were Korea and Japan for much of their postwar development," he said. "That transition from a manufacturing- and investment-dependent economy to a services and consumer-led economy is fairly consistent."	"很明显，中国更多的是一种自上而下驱动的经济模式，但韩国和日本在战后大部分时间里也是如此，"他说。"从依靠制造及投资的经济模式向服务及消费驱动模式的转变是相当稳固的。"
China has a long way to go. Its state-directed economic model has overemphasized investment for years, and this has made growth increasingly unbalanced. The result is that private consumption today accounts for only around 38 percent of China's gross domestic product. That is a sharp contrast to the industrialized nations of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, where consumption on average accounts for more than 60 percent of G.D.P.	中国还有很长的路要走。国家主导的经济模式多年来过度强调投资，致使发展愈发不平衡。结果导致个人消费如今只占 GDP 的 38%。这与经济合作与发展组织(Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development)的工业化国家形成鲜明对比，这些国家的个人消费平均占到 GDP 的 60%多。
Addressing this imbalance poses pressing risks for China. Because of a reliance on state investment — often in wasteful projects or loss-making industries — the country accrued record levels of debt, which stands at nearly 300 percent of G.D.P.	应对这种不平衡的状况给中国带来了紧迫的风险。由于依赖国家投资——通常是浪费资金的工程或亏损企业——中国累积了创纪录的债务，相当于 GDP 的 300%。
That debt burden looks increasingly precarious as economic growth slows, raising the risk of deflation, or falling prices, which can lead companies to curtail investing and individuals to spend less. Deflation also makes debt relatively more expensive to repay — even at a time when revenue and profit at many businesses are crumbling.	随着经济的放缓，这种债务负担似乎愈发危险，加剧了通货紧缩或物价下跌的风险，这可能会导致公司削减投资，个人减少开支。通货紧缩还致使债务相对增加——尽管与此同时很多公司的收入和利润在骤减。
"Given the economy is slowing down and deflation is a major risk, if the	"鉴于经济发展放缓，通货紧缩带来重大风险，如果政府无法推动必要的改

government cannot push through necessary reforms, China may well follow the Japanese path of having a balance-sheet recession," said Li-Gang Liu, the chief economist for greater China at the Australia and New Zealand Banking Corporation in Hong Kong. He was referring to a type of recession in which spending on debt repayment takes priority over making new purchases or investments.	革，中国可能会步日本后尘，产生资产负债表衰退，“澳新银行(Australia and New Zealand Banking Group)大中华区驻香港首席经济师刘利刚说。在他所指的这种衰退中，偿债在支出中将优先于新的购买或投资。
Mr. Liu forecasts that private consumption will rise to about 44 percent of G.D.P. in the next five years – a slow but significant shift because consumption is expected to outpace the economy's general growth rate, replacing investment as the key engine.	刘利刚预测，未来五年，个人消费在GDP中所占的比例将会达到44%，这是一个缓慢但重要的转变，因为消费将超越经济的总体增长率，代替投资成为关键引擎。
This forecast, like others that see China making the gradual shift to a consumption-led growth model, rests in part on changes underway in how ordinary citizens manage their finances.	还有人认为中国正在逐步向消费主导的增长模式转变，与他们一样，这种预测部分基于普通公民管理资金的方式的变化。
On average, Chinese households save roughly 30 percent of their disposable income, the most of any major country. By comparison, the net saving rate is nearly 6 percent in the United States, 7 percent in Europe and just over 2 percent in Japan.	中国家庭平均会把大致30%的可支配收入存起来，这个比例比其他任何大国都高。相比之下，美国的净储蓄率差不多是6%，欧洲是7%，日本略高于2%。
But there are signs that a younger, urbanized generation – one that has not experienced the privation of the past – is taking a less conservative approach to spending than their parents or grandparents did.	但有迹象表明，城市化了的年轻一代没经历过以前的贫困，对花钱的态度也不像其父母或祖父母那么保守。
That includes people like Yu Ying, 22, who dyes her hair blond and works as a hostess and greeter for corporate functions and other events, making as much as 6,000 renminbi, or about $940, a month.	22岁的于颖（音）便是这个群体中的一员。把头发染成黄色的她给企业聚会及其他活动当服务员和迎宾员，每个月最多能挣6000元。
Asked about her saving and spending habits while on a recent shopping trip to Sanlitun, a popular Beijing neighborhood of cafes and shops, Ms.	前不久被问及存钱和花钱习惯时，于颖说：“我不存钱，一分钱都存不下。”当时，她正在三里屯购物。那里是北京一个备受欢迎的地区，遍布着咖啡馆

Yu said: "I don't save. I can't save any."	和店铺。
Ms. Yu moved to Beijing from the northeastern province of Jilin three years ago, and says she spends about half of her income on cosmetics and clothes. She spends a further 1,800 renminbi a month on rent in an apartment that she shares with friends.	三年前，于颖从吉林来到北京。她说自己大约一半的收入花在了化妆品和衣服上。她和朋友合租了一套公寓，每月的房租又要花去 1800 元。
"I also spend money on going out with friends and having dinner with them," she added.	"和朋友出去玩、吃饭也要花钱，"她接着说。
But even if younger Chinese are more free-spending, analysts say getting most Chinese to open their wallets more will require financial and other regulatory overhauls that Beijing has so far shied from undertaking. Among the priorities are easing or abolishing the nationwide system of household registration, or hukou.	但分析人士称，虽然中国的年轻一代花钱更随意，但让大部分中国人增加消费需要进行金融和其他监管改革。不过迄今为止，中央政府一直回避相关改革。首当其冲的包括放宽或废除全国性的户口制度。
The system as it stands generally prevents new migrants from the countryside from gaining access to urban school placements, health care and other social services, which can be provided only in one's official place of residence. Analysts say liberalizing this system would deliver a tremendous stimulus to labor mobility and also help reduce the need for migrants to save so much to meet health care and other costs.	现实情况是，户口制度通常会妨碍来自乡下的新一代民工入读城里的学校，享受医疗保健和其他社会服务。只有官方居住地才提供这些服务。分析人士称，放开户口制度会极大地刺激劳动力的流动性，还有助于降低农民工为考虑医疗保健和其他花销而存钱的需求。
"China needs to let people live where they can make the most money, which obviously they don't do now," said Derek M. Scissors, a resident scholar at the American Enterprise Institute in Washington.	"中国需要允许人们在赚钱最多的地方生活，他们目前显然不能这样，"华盛顿美国企业研究所(American Enterprise Institute)的驻所学者史剑道(Derek Scissors)说。
The risk of failing to execute on these and other reforms, he said, is falling into a phenomenon known as the middle-income trap, where growth and earnings reach a plateau before a country can become	他说，不实行这些和其他改革的风险是可能会陷入所谓的中等收入陷阱，即在国家实现总体富裕，变成发达国家之前，增长和收入出现停滞。 broadly wealthy and achieve developed-nation status.

"That's what I mean by stagnation: China doesn't continue to climb the ladder of prosperity; it stalls," he said.	"我说的停滞就是这个意思：中国不继续变得更加繁荣，而是陷入停顿，"他说。
"Of course, the Chinese have the capacity to reinvigorate the economy," he added. "But they're not implementing those kinds of reforms, and you cannot be a heavily indebted, aging middle-income country and continue to do well."	"当然，中国有能力重振经济，"他接着说。"但他们不是在实行这类改革，你不可能既是一个严重负债、人口日渐老龄化的中等收入国家，又要继续表现优秀。"
China's leaders reject suggestions that the economy could stagnate, pledging to remain watchful against an even faster downturn by undertaking interest rate cuts, infrastructure spending and targeted loans to favored projects.	中国领导人否认经济可能会停滞的说法，承诺通过降息、基础设施开支和面向扶持项目的定向贷款，来预防经济更快下滑
"The fundamentals underpinning a stable Chinese economy have not changed," Li Keqiang, the prime minister, told a gathering of the World Economic Forum in September in Dalian, a city in northeastern China.	"中国经济的基本面没有改变，"中国总理李克强9月在大连的世界经济论坛上对与会者说。
"We will be fully capable to deal with the situation once signs indicate that the economy is sliding out of the reasonable range," he added. "I'm not making an empty promise when I say that the Chinese economy will not head for a 'hard landing.'"	"一旦出现滑出合理区间的迹象，我们将有足够的力量来应对，"他接着说，"中国经济不会出现'硬着陆'，这不是空话。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151105/c05db-chinaecon	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151105/c05db-chinaecon
Bitcoin Surges, Emerging From a Lull in Interest	比特币再次大涨，中国需求激增
After a long period of quiet, the price of the virtual currency Bitcoin is surging again as signs of interest from China and Wall Street have helped kick off a new speculative frenzy.	经过一段较长时间的平静之后，虚拟货币比特币(Bitcoin)的价格再次出现飙升。有迹象表明，中国和华尔街对它产生了新的兴趣，从而催生了一波新的投机狂潮。
The price of a single Bitcoin has been steadily rising in recent weeks. On Wednesday, it spiked particularly sharply, rising above $500 on some	最近几周，比特币的价格一直稳步上升。本周三的飙升幅度尤其大，在某些交易中突破了500美元。与一个月前相比，一个比特币的价格上涨了逾一

exchanges, and bringing the value of a single coin up over 100 percent from a month ago. By the end of Wednesday, the price had fallen back closer to $400.	倍。到本周三结束时，价格回调到 400 美元附近。
The recent rally has been the biggest since the online currency entered a sustained decline after the collapse of what was once the biggest Bitcoin exchange, Mt. Gox, in early 2014. That incident — and the use of Bitcoin for drug sales — led many people to write off the virtual money as a passing fad.	近期行情是 2014 年年初以来比特币最大的一波涨势，曾经最大的比特币交易市场 Mt. Gox 在 2014 年年初崩溃之后，这种网上货币就进入一个持续的下降通道。那次事件以及有人使用比特币买卖毒品的现象，导致很多人对这种虚拟货币印象欠佳，认为它只是昙花一现。
Nonetheless, many banks and financial firms continued to study the technology behind the scenes and have recently been expressing their interest — and announcing new investments — in the technology underlying Bitcoin, which is being heralded as a new way to conduct a broad array of financial transactions.	尽管如此，许多银行和金融机构仍在幕后进行着研究，最近还对支撑比特币的技术表示了兴趣，并宣布进行更多的投资，比特币技术被誉为一种实现各类金融交易的新方式。
There has also been a surge in demand for Bitcoin in China, where the new interest is being explained by a number of factors, including the drop in the stock market there, as well as the emergence of a new Ponzi scheme tied to Bitcoin. The price of Bitcoin has been rising faster on Chinese exchanges than elsewhere in the world.	中国对比特币的需求目前也在激增，一些原因导致了人们对它的新兴趣，比如中国股市下跌，以及一个涉及比特币的新庞氏骗局的出现。与世界其他地方相比，中国交易所的比特币价格上涨速度更快。
Bobby Lee, the chief executive of one of China's biggest Bitcoin exchanges, BTCC, said that, as was the case in past price spikes, a critical mass of reports on Bitcoin was drawing a new wave of speculators, betting more on the future of the virtual currency than on its current use.	李启元(Bobby Lee)是中国最大的比特币交易所之一 BTCC 的首席执行官，他说，就像过去价格暴涨的行情一样，对比特币的大量报道会吸引一批新的投机者，他们主要是对这种虚拟货币的未来而非当前的用途下注。
"There are a few tipping points in a row, and you get a tidal wave," Mr. Lee said. "It's classic bull market."	"连续突破几个临界点，就形成了一波巨浪，"李启元说。"这是典型的牛市。"

Volatile price swings are nothing new for Bitcoin, which has been through several sharp ups and downs since it was released into the world in early 2009 by a shadowy creator going by the name Satoshi Nakamoto. In late 2013, the price shot to a peak above $1,200 in intraday trading.	价格波动大对比特币来说不是什么新鲜事。自从 2009 年初由自称中本聪 (Satoshi Nakamoto) 的神秘人推出以来, 比特币经历过几次大涨大跌。2013 年底, 其价格曾冲高至逾 1200 美元的峰值。
Past price rallies have generally been followed quickly by collapses, usually set off by some sign of weakness in the infrastructure of the Bitcoin industry.	在以前, 价格飙升之后通常很快就会出现崩盘, 往往是由比特币行业基础设施薄弱迹象引发的。
All along there has been skepticism when investor interest in Bitcoin has raced ahead of the real-world use of the virtual currency. While Bitcoin has been described as a faster and cheaper way to send money online, ordinary people have been slow to use the virtual currency for everyday transactions and there are no major signs that is changing.	而且, 当投资者对比特币的兴趣超过了现实世界对这种虚拟货币的使用量时, 人们也会对它抱有怀疑。虽然有人把比特币形容为一种更快、更便宜的网上汇款方式, 但普通公众却迟迟没有把它用在日常交易中, 而且也没有重大迹象显示这种情况正在发生变化。
But the companies that currently handle most Bitcoin transactions seem to be far stronger than those that did in the past.	但是, 目前处理大部分比特币交易的公司, 实力似乎远比以前雄厚。
New York's top financial regulator has granted trust company charters to two Bitcoin exchanges over the last year and both are now in operation, along with a California exchange, Coinbase, which is the largest in the country. On Wednesday, Coinbase reported trading volume four times as high as its recent average.	过去一年中, 纽约的最高金融监管机构已批准信托公司为两家特币交易所提供服务, 目前这两家交易所都在经营中。位于加州的美国最大比特币交易所 Coinbase 本周三交易量高达近期平均水平的四倍。
So far, big banks have not traded Bitcoin on these exchanges or invested in the virtual currency directly. But financial firms of all sorts have shown significant interest in the decentralized way in which Bitcoin transactions are handled and the new type of ledger on which all Bitcoins and Bitcoin transactions are recorded, known as the	迄今为止, 大型银行还没有在这些交易所交易比特币, 也没有直接投资于比特币。但是, 对于比特币的去中心化交易方式, 以及用“区块链”(blockchain) 技术记录所有比特币和比特币交易的新型总账, 各类金融机构都表现出了浓厚兴趣。

blockchain.
Last week, Nasdaq introduced a new system, Linq, that will allow shares in start-ups to be recorded and traded on a ledger like the blockchain, which is expected to manage trades more quickly than existing systems. Over a dozen banks, including most of the global giants, have recently joined with a start-up, R3 CEV, to define standards for new decentralized ledgers.	上周，纳斯达克推出了一个新系统 Linq，可以在类似“区块链”的总账中登记并交易初创公司的股票，其管理交易的速度预计会快于现有系统。最近有十几家银行与初创公司 R3 CEV 建立了合作，准备为新的去中心化总账定义标准；这些银行中包含了大部分全球巨头。
Most financial firms insist that they want to use blockchains that are not tied to Bitcoin. But financial firms have also been making bets in Bitcoin-related companies like the Digital Currency Group, a trading and investment company that announced funding from MasterCard and CIBC last week.	大多数金融机构都坚称，他们希望使用没有绑定比特币的“区块链”。但金融公司也一直在投资比特币行业内的公司，比如交易和投资公司数字货币集团 (Digital Currency Group) 上周就宣布获得了万事达卡 (MasterCard) 和加拿大帝国商业银行 (CIBC) 的投资。
Brendan M. O'Connor, chief executive of Genesis Global Trading, a division of the Digital Currency Group, said that after every big funding announcement, he saw a spike from big institutional investors.	数字货币集团下属创世纪全球交易 (Genesis Global Trading) 首席执行官布伦丹·M·奥康纳 (Brendan M. O'Connor) 说，每次宣布大笔资金注入的消息后，大型机构投资者的数目就会激增。
"That is nudging people to get off the sidelines and invest in the asset class," Mr. O'Connor said.	奥康纳表示，“这是在催促人们不要在一边看着，要出手投资这一资产类型。”
But as was the case during the big Bitcoin run-up in late 2013, most of the trading activity now is taking place in China. Exchanges there have encouraged speculation in Bitcoin by offering free trading and leveraged accounts.	但就像比特币在 2013 年末大涨的情况一样，现在大部分交易活动都出现在中国。那里通过提供自由交易和杠杆式账户推动了对比特币的投机。
There has been discussion recently that some Chinese investors are seeking out Bitcoin as China's currency, the renminbi, has struggled and the government has made it harder to move money out of the country.	最近出现了相关讨论，即随着中国货币人民币的疲软，政府加强对资金外流的控制，中国投资者在寻求比特币投资。

Mr. Lee of BTCC said he was not seeing much of those sorts of transactions. But he said he had seen signs that Chinese investors were using Bitcoin to move money into an international investment scheme, MMM Global, which claims to have been created by a man who did prison time in Russia after a previous Ponzi scheme collapsed.	BTCC 的李启元表示，他没有见到很多此类交易。但他表示，他看到了中国投资者利用比特币将资金转移到国际投资系统 MMM 全球金融互助平台 (MMM Global) 的迹象，该平台自称由一名因为庞氏骗局崩溃在俄罗斯蹲监的男子创立。
Exchange operators, though, say that the new users rushing in in recent weeks have been making a bet that Bitcoin will go mainstream and rise in value as it does.	但交易员们表示，最近几周蜂拥而至的新用户压下赌注，认为比特币将成为主流，会像现在一样升值。
"The main tangible driver of the recent price surge is the accumulation of all the investments and positive media about blockchain," said Gil Luria, an analyst with Wedbush Securities who has followed the market.	"投资的积累，以及媒体有关区块链的积极报道是最近价格飙升的主要推动因素，"追踪市场动向的韦德布什证券(Wedbush Securities)分析师吉尔·卢里亚(Gil Luria)说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151106/c06db-bitcoin	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151106/c06db-bitcoin
Jack Ma of Alibaba in Talks to Buy Hong Kong Newspaper	马云收购《南华早报》，谈判进行中
HONG KONG — Jack Ma, chairman of the Internet giant Alibaba Group, is in talks to buy The South China Morning Post, an influential English-language newspaper based in Hong Kong, according to a person with direct knowledge of the discussions.	香港——直接了解有关讨论的一位消息人士透露，互联网巨头阿里巴巴集团董事局主席马云正在就收购《南华早报》(South China Morning Post)一事进行谈判。《南华早报》是总部设在香港的一份有影响力的英文报纸。
A deal would echo the purchase of The Washington Post by Amazon's founder, Jeffrey P. Bezos, in 2013, which gave a major media brand substantial backing at a turbulent time for the business.	如果做成，这笔交易将是亚马逊创始人杰弗里·P·贝索斯(Jeffrey P. Bezos)于2013年收购《华盛顿邮报》(Washington Post)的重演。在纸面媒体面临动荡的时代，贝索斯的收购是对一个主要媒体品牌的重大支持。
Like Mr. Bezos, Alibaba's founder, Mr. Ma, made his fortune in Internet commerce. Like the Washington Post, The South China Morning Post is struggling to adapt to the changing media environment. And in neither case does the purchase create obvious business advantages for the buyer.	阿里巴巴创始人马云与贝索斯一样靠互联网电子商务发了财。而《南华早报》与《华盛顿邮报》一样在努力适应不断变化的媒体环境。同样，这两笔交易都不给买家带来明显的业务优势。

It has not yet been decided whether the buyer would be Mr. Ma or Alibaba, the person said on Tuesday.	该消息人士周二表示，买家是马云还是阿里巴巴尚未确定。
Any deal for the Hong Kong newspaper will have a political dimension.	任何有关香港报纸的交易都会涉及政治层面。
The prospective takeover is raising concerns that the newspaper's editorial independence could be compromised by a corporate owner whose market position depends in large part on the good will of the Chinese government. Unlike the rest of China, Hong Kong guarantees freedom of the press, a right enshrined in the laws that have governed the former British colony since its return to Chinese rule in 1997.	这个即将发生的收购引发了人们对该报的编辑独立性可能会受影响的担忧，因为该报将由一个企业人士拥有，而该企业的市场地位在很大程度上取决于中国政府对其有多友善。与中国内地其他地区不同，香港保障出版自由，这一权利庄严地载入了香港于1997年回归中国之后用来管理这个英国前殖民地的法律之中。
Mr. Ma "needs support from Beijing to continue his dominance of the Internet transactional world, and therefore he's going to be careful in what he does in the publishing world," said Andrew Collier, a former Beijing-based reporter for the newspaper who now runs a China-focused financial research firm in Hong Kong.	马云“继续他在全球网上交易的霸主地位需要有北京的支持，因此他在出版界做事会小心翼翼，”曾任《南华早报》驻京记者的安德鲁·科利尔(Andrew Collier)说，科利尔目前在香港经营一个关注中国金融的研究公司。
A deal could be weeks or even months away, said the person with knowledge of the discussions, who spoke on the condition of anonymity because the negotiations were private. The talks could also fall apart.	交易做成可能还需数周、甚至数月的时间，那位了解谈判情况的人士表示。此人要求不具名，因为谈判一事尚未公开。谈判也可能会失败。
Nevertheless, talks between the two sides have made "significant progress" in recent days, the person said.	然而，双方之间的谈判近日来取得了“显著的进展”，该人士说。
Alibaba declined to comment. Benson Chao, a spokesman for The South China Morning Post, said the company did not comment on "market rumors."	阿里巴巴拒绝置评。《南华早报》发言人本森·周(Benson Chao)表示，公司不对“市场传闻”发表评论。
A deal has been the subject of media speculation for much of the past month after news of the possible acquisition was reported in China	11月9日，大陆官方报纸《中国日报》报道了可能的收购之后，媒体在过去一个月的大部分时间里对这笔交易做出各种猜测。

Daily, an official mainland Chinese newspaper, on Nov. 9.
In the past, Mr. Ma's deal-making style has come under scrutiny for purchases that seemed out of line with Alibaba's strategy. For example, the company bought into a soccer team in 2014.	此前，马云的交易作风吸引了公众的密切关注，因为那些收购交易似乎不符合阿里巴巴的一贯战略。比如，公司曾于2014年买入一支足球队股份。
Having Mr. Ma make the investment personally would mean that only one company board, the newspaper's, would need to approve it. "For him, it's like pocket change," the person said.	如果交易是马云个人投资的话，那意味着他只需要得到一家公司、也就是这家报社的董事会的批准。“对他来说，这笔投资就像是口袋里的零用钱，”该消息人士说。
A deal for The South China Morning Post, the person said, would fit in with Alibaba's broader holdings. The company owns stakes in Chinese Internet sites with a media bent, like Youku Tudou, which is similar to YouTube, and Sina Weibo, akin to Twitter. The person said that The South China Morning Post had a good brand and that the takeover "might lead to some synergy." Any such advantages would be easier to realize if Alibaba were the buyer, the person said.	该人士表示，买下《南华早报》与阿里巴巴更广泛的持股相符。在媒体方面，阿里巴巴已经持有一些中国互联网网站的股份，比如类似YouTube的优酷土豆集团，和类似Twitter的新浪微博。该人士说，《南华早报》是一个良好的品牌，收购“可能会产生一些协同效应”。如果阿里巴巴是买家的话，会更容易实现这种组合优势，该人士说。
But the companies have drastically different audiences. Despite having a Chinese-language service, The South China Morning Post is primarily focused on the limited English-speaking market in Hong Kong, although its coverage of China is read globally. Content on Youku Tudou and Sina Weibo is overwhelmingly in Chinese.	然而，这两家公司有着非常不同的客户群。尽管《南华早报》有一个中文网站，但这家报纸的主要目标是香港有限的英语市场，虽然该报有关中国的报道在全球都有读者。优酷网、土豆网及新浪微博上的内容绝大多数都是中文的。
Under an agreement announced this month, copies of The International New York Times for Hong Kong and China will be printed by The South China Morning Post beginning in February.	据本月初宣布的一项协议，从明年2月起，《国际纽约时报》(The International New York Times)的香港版和中国版将由《南华早报》印刷厂印刷。
The main concern among some people who study the Chinese and Hong Kong press is that ownership of the newspaper by Mr. Ma or Alibaba could further erode media independence in Hong Kong.	关注中国和香港出版界的一些人的主要担心是，该报由马云或阿里巴巴拥有，可能会进一步削弱香港媒体的独立性。中国内地企业已在加强对香港当地企业的控股，这里的记者说，他们在报道被视为是挑衅北京的执政党共产

Mainland Chinese enterprises have been deepening their stakes in the local industry, and journalists here say they are feeling increasing pressure to soft-pedal issues deemed provocative by the governing Communist Party in Beijing.	党的问题时，已感到有越来越大的压力迫使他们低调处理。
In recent years, The South China Morning Post has written about topics that are off limits to newspapers in mainland China. Last year, the newspaper provided extensive coverage of the huge sit-in protests in Hong Kong, the so-called Umbrella Movement that had drawn the ire of the central government. The newspaper also published a multimedia retrospective last year on the 25th anniversary of the crackdown on student demonstrators in Tiananmen Square in Beijing.	近年来，《南华早报》写了一些大陆报纸不能触碰的主题。去年，它对香港的大型静坐抗议活动“雨伞运动”进行了广泛报道。此次运动引发了中央政府的怒火。同样在去年，在北京天安门广场学生示威者遭到镇压 25 周年之际，该报还刊发了多媒体回顾专题。
The newspaper has found itself at a crossroads. While the company — started in 1903 and controlled by the family of the Malaysian billionaire Robert Kuok since 1993 — remains profitable, the media business is becoming more difficult. The Kuok family, which also has large real estate and hotel interests on the mainland, has lately chosen top editors who have tended to be less critical of the central government than earlier leaders of the newspaper.	《南华早报》现在处在一个十字路口。该公司创办于 1903 年，自 1993 年之后由马来西亚亿万富翁郭鹤年(Robert Kuok)的家族控制。公司仍在盈利，但媒体业务正在变得日益艰难。郭氏家族在内地也有大量的房地产和酒店业务。他们近期任命的一些高级编辑，往往不像该报之前的领导者那么多地批评中央政府。
At times, Mr. Ma has been an outspoken critic in China. When major state-owned banks took aim at his financial business, he accused the banks of failing to keep pace with market reforms.	时不时地，马云在中国充当了直言不讳的批评者。在大型国有银行炮轰他的金融业务时，他指责这些银行未能跟上市场的改革步伐。
Still, Mr. Ma walks a fine line.	不过，马云仍然是在走钢丝。
In a 2013 interview, he told The South China Morning Post that the Chinese government's move to suppress the 1989 student-led Tiananmen Square demonstrations, in which hundreds of people died,	在 2013 年接受采访时，他告诉《南华早报》，中国政府在 1989 年镇压学生领导的天安门广场示威活动，导致成百上千人丧生，是当时情况下“最正确的决定”。虽然马云自称避免与政府做生意，但阿里巴巴 2014 年首次公开募

was “the most correct decision” under the circumstances. And while Mr. Ma says he avoids doing business with the government, some of the investors in Alibaba ahead of its 2014 initial public offering had ties to China’s ruling families, The New York Times reported at the time.	股前的一些投资者与中国的统治家族有联系，《纽约时报》当时也进行过报道。
“Obviously, we’ll have to watch and see what impact a Jack Ma or Alibaba stake in The South China Morning Post could have on its editorial line, and particularly its coverage of mainland China,” said David Bandurski, editor of the China Media Project website at the University of Hong Kong.	香港大学中国传媒研究计划的编辑班志远(David Bandurski)表示，“很明显，我们得留意观察，看看马云或阿里巴巴进入《南华早报》之后，会对编辑方面，特别是在对中国大陆的报道上产生什么样的影响。”
“But in recent years, the gravitational pull of mainland Chinese business interests has already had a very real negative effect on editorial independence in Hong Kong,” Mr. Bandurski said. “That pull could be very direct in this case, especially given the deep political interests associated in this group and its chairman.”	“不过近年来，中国大陆商业利益的作用，已经对香港媒体的独立性产生了非常不利的影响，”班志远说。“这一次，这种作用可能会表现得非常直接，尤其是考虑到阿里巴巴和马云具有的深层政治利益瓜葛。”
The person familiar with the negotiations played down concerns that The South China Morning Post under Mr. Ma’s control would be beholden to the Chinese government. Alibaba, the person said, has “a very high global profile,” and Mr. Ma’s stewardship of the newspaper would be similar to that of the Kuok family. It is in his interest to keep the newspaper as an independent voice, the person added.	对于马云控制下的《南华早报》可能会受制于中国政府的担忧，那名知情者不以为然。此人表示，阿里巴巴“享有很高的全球关注度”，而马云对该报的管理方式将与郭氏家族类似。此人还说，继续让该报发出独立的声音符合马云的利益。
“Jack Ma is a savvy businessman — he should know that the stakes are high,” said Ying Chan, founder of the Journalism Studies and Media Center at the University of Hong Kong. “He could create a paper of the highest standards, or turn it into a party mouthpiece. The world is watching.”	“马云是一个精明的商人——他应该知道风险很高，”香港大学新闻及媒体研究中心创设人陈婉莹(Ying Chan)说。“他可能创办一份遵从业界最高标准的报纸，也可能把它变成中共的喉舌。全世界都在拭目以待。”

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151125/c25db-alibaba	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151125/c25db-alibaba
6 Companies Make Market Debut in China After 5-Month Hiatus	中国将修改新股发行规定，改变预付款要求
HONG KONG — Shares started trading in six newly listed companies in China on Wednesday after a five-month hiatus for initial public offerings and just weeks before rules governing investors in new listings are set to change.	香港——首次公开募股暂停五个月后，周三，六家新上市公司在中国开始股票交易。几周后中国将修改有关新上市公司投资者的规定。
Shares in all the companies surged by their daily limit of 44 percent, a typical increase for listings in China. The Shenzhen and Shanghai stock indexes were both up about 0.6 percent by midday.	全部六家公司的股票都飙升至 44% 的每天涨停上限，这样的增长对在中国上市来说十分常见。截止午前，深沪两市股指均上升了约 0.6%。
The companies had filed to go public between February and June, but the Chinese government had banned new share sales in July in an effort to stem a plunge in the markets. The move created a backlog of nearly 700 companies that have been waiting to make their debuts.	这些公司是在二月至六月间提交上市申请的，但是在七月，为了遏制股市暴跌，中国政府禁止了新股发行。禁令颁布后，累计约 700 家公司一直在等待上市。
Public offerings were a popular investment before the ban, with companies often reaching the limit of how much their shares could rise on the first day. That effect was partly because of speculation and partly because of government policies meant to ensure that businesses were not overvalued when they went public.	在新股发行被禁止前，公开募股是热门的投资方式，公司往往在上市首日便达到股票的涨停上限。这种现象部分是由于投机活动的影响，部分是因为政府政策希望确保上市时公司的价值不会被高估。
Under current rules, buyers must back their order with cash up front, even though the entire share order is unlikely to be filled. That can temporarily tie up hundreds of billions of dollars that might be invested elsewhere.	根据现行规定，投资者必须在申购前预付现金，即便实际上不太可能足额付款。这能使数千亿美元的流动投资资金被暂时冻结。
About 3.978 trillion renminbi, or about $606 billion, was locked up for initial public offerings in June, while 42 billion renminbi was actually raised, according to ANZ Research.	据澳新银行研究中心(ANZ Research)，六月有 3 万 9780 亿人民币因 IPO 申购被冻结，其中只有 420 亿人民币实际用于募股。

But the China Securities Regulatory Commission said the deposit requirement for initial public offerings would be different in 2016. That may make more funds available for investing in new listings, and stocks in general, analysts said.	不过，中国证监会表示，对 IPO 预付款的要求会在 2016 年有所改变。分析人士称，此举可能会使更多投资新上市公司的基金出现，整体上股票增加。
Changing the rules could make new listings more inviting, said David Qu, a rates strategist at ANZ Research.	澳新银行研究中心利率策略师曲天石(David Qu)说，改变规定会令新股发行更具吸引力。
The old requirements, however, apply to the companies that started trading on Wednesday and the other 22 expected to list before the end of the year. Nonetheless, Mr. Qu says there is little to worry about.	然而，旧的预付款要求仍然适用于周三开始的股票交易以及其他 22 家预计在今年年底前上市的公司。但曲天石认为没必要太过担心。
"The P.B.O.C. is definitely going to maintain accommodative liquidity in the market in spite of the I.P.O.s," he said, referring to the People's Bank of China. "They will inject liquidity when necessary, so I'm not worried about the I.P.O. tightening this year."	"就算有 IPO，央行也肯定会保持市场的流动性宽松，"他说。"他们会在必要时注入流动性，因此我对今年的 IPO 收紧并不担心。"
Shanghai's main share index plunged 5.5 percent at the end of November, after Beijing cracked down on fraud and insider trading in the financial sector. But the resumption of I.P.O.s may also have contributed to sagging shares, as investors cashed out of their holdings to prepare for the new offerings.	十一月底，在中国政府严打金融市场的欺诈和内幕交易后，上海的主要股票指数下跌了 5.5%。由于投资者将股份套现，以为新一期募股准备资金，重启 IPO 亦可能加剧了股票的下跌。
Herald van der Linde, an equities strategist at HSBC, said the government was working hard to make the process of going public more efficient. He added that it would take a while to see how the market responded to the resumption of public offerings.	汇丰银行(HSBC)证券策略主管林传英(Herald van der Linde)表示，政府为增加上市过程的效率作了许多努力。他还说，市场对重启公开募股的反响如何，要过一段时间才能看出来。
"Sometimes when equity markets are hot, you see them do phenomenally well," he said, referring to new listings. "I don't really expect that at the moment; you get that when there is liquidity. It will	"有时候当股市大热，它们的表现便好得惊人，"他提到新上市公司时说。"我目前对那不抱太大期望；有流动性才会有那样。跟以前比起来，现在看到的应该会平缓很多。"

be much more muted from what we've seen for some of the past."
Anji Foodstuff, a condiment maker; BanBao, a toy manufacturer; and Bomim Electronics, which makes printed circuit boards, were listed on the Shanghai stock exchange on Wednesday.	周三在上海股市上市的公司包括调味料制造商安记食品股份有限公司、玩具制造商邦宝益智玩具股份有限公司和印刷电路板制造商博敏电子股份有限公司。
The Shenzhen listings were Hubei Kailong Chemical Group, which makes explosives; Zhejiang Zhongjian Technology, which makes gardening machinery; and Beijing Sanfo Outdoor Products, a manufacturer of camping items.	在深圳上市的公司包括爆炸物制造商湖北凯龙化学股份有限公司、园林机械制造商浙江中坚科技股份有限公司和野营用品制造商北京三夫户外用品股份有限公司。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151210/c10db-chinaipo	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151210/c10db-chinaipo
Advanced Semiconductor Engineering Keeps Up Pursuit of Taiwan Rival	紫光卷入台湾半导体行业收购混战
HONG KONG — Advanced Semiconductor Engineering, a Taiwanese company that assembles and tests chips, is not giving up its multibillion-dollar pursuit of its local competitor, Siliconware Precision Industries.	香港——台湾芯片封装测试企业日月光半导体公司意欲斥资数十亿美元收购本地竞争对手矽品精密工业的股份。它并不打算放弃这一行动。
It made an offer to buy the three-quarters of Siliconware Precision Industries, or SPIL, that it did not own for about 129 billion Taiwanese dollars, or about $3.9 billion, on Monday after the markets closed. The proposal came just after SPIL announced on Friday that it had formed a strategic alliance with Tsinghua Unigroup, China's top chip maker. That deal involved an investment of about $1.7 billion from the Chinese state-owned company.	本周一股市收盘之后，日月光提出以 1290 亿新台币的价格收购它尚未拥有的矽品另外四分之三的股份。矽品上周五才刚刚宣布与紫光集团建立了策略联盟，涉及金额约 17 亿美元的投资。紫光集团是中国最大的芯片生产商之一，为国有企业。
On Tuesday, shares in ASE were up 2.5 percent, to 34.25 Taiwanese dollars, while SPIL jumped 4.5 percent to 50.10 Taiwanese dollars.	周二的时候，日月光股价上涨 2.5%，至每股 34.25 新台币，而矽品飙升 4.5%，至每股 50.10 新台币。
Advanced Semiconductor Engineering, or ASE, first approached SPIL in August with an offer to buy 25 percent of its shares. The board of SPIL	今年 8 月，日月光首次向矽品提出收购其 25% 的股份。矽品董事会认为此举充满敌意，称其出价太低，但股东们还是接受了提议。

regarded the offer as hostile and said the price was too low, but shareholders accepted it anyway.
It has since been ducking further approaches from ASE by trying to set up a share exchange with Foxconn, the electronics manufacturer, a plan that was rejected by shareholders. The deal with Tsinghua Unigroup marked SPIL's latest maneuver.	此后，为了回避日月光的进一步行动，矽品试图与电子产品生产商富士康进行股权置换，但这个计划遭到了股东的否决。与紫光集团的这笔交易是矽品采取的最新动作。
Along the way, SPIL has had strong words for its suitor. The company even filed a lawsuit against ASE, asking a court to confirm that it does not have the right to request registration as a shareholder.	在此期间，矽品一直对日月光态度强硬。它甚至起诉过日月光，要求法院确认日月光没有权利要求自己将其登记为股东。
It also issued a statement before an extraordinary shareholders meeting in October, which referred to "double standards and double crossing plays obvious to all," and said ASE had "ambushed" the company with its tender offer. Explaining the company's wariness of ASE, the statement said: "Looking at past hostile takeover precedents, the outcomes were all disheartening, with no one benefiting, but rather being harmed. The company sincerely warns that a company that plunders the hard-earned results of another will not become an everlasting enterprise."	在今年10月举行的一次临时股东大会之前，矽品还发表声明称日月光“双重标准及双面手法众人皆知”，并称其用收购要约来“突袭”自己。在解释为什么它对日月光抱有戒心时，矽品在声明中说：“证诸国内过去敌意并购之案例，结局都令人痛心疾首，未见其利，反蒙其害。本公司诚挚呼吁，掠夺他人努力经营成果并无法成就传世之企业。”
Mike Ma, a spokesman for SPIL, said that if the companies merged, it would reduce competition and increase prices. "We have many other competitors, so from the customer side if two companies merge, it's less attractive and they give business to other alternatives," he said. He added that the company could not comment on the latest proposal from ASE because it was still discussing the offer.	矽品发言人马光华(Mike Ma)表示，如果两家公司合并，就会减少竞争，提高价格。“我们有很多其他竞争对手，所以从客户的角度来考虑，两家公司合并不是什么好事，他们会把生意转到其他对手那里，”他说。他还表示，公司仍在讨论日月光的最新收购要约，因此目前还不能置评。
ASE has offered to pay 55 Taiwanese dollars for each SPIL share. The	日月光表示愿意出价每股55新台币收购矽品。这份收购要约规定，矽品必

proposal stipulates that SPIL must cancel its arrangement with Tsinghua.	须取消与紫光的计划。
"We were chagrined to learn that on December 11, 2015, the board of directors of SPIL decided to enter into a share placement agreement with Tsinghua Unigroup Ltd," it said in a news release, noting that the transaction was "defensive and highly dilutive."	日月光在新闻稿中表示，“矽品公司董事会更于2015年12月11日决议与紫光签订认股协议书”，日月光对此“高度稀释全体股东权益”且“具反制目的之交易深感遗憾”。
There has been a wave of consolidation in the semiconductor industry in recent years as companies have tried to scale up. In the Asia Pacific region, not including Japan, there has been $31 billion worth of deals in the semiconductor industry this year, compared with $10.6 billion worth in 2014, according to data from Dealogic.	近年来，随着企业纷纷试图扩张规模，半导体行业出现了一波整合浪潮。金融信息公司 Dealogic 的数据显示，今年以来，不包括日本，亚太地区半导体行业的交易金额达 310 亿美元，而 2014 年的这个数字为 106 亿美元。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151216/c16db-chips	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151216/c16db-chips
China's Renminbi Declines After Being Named a Global Currency, Posing Challenges	人民币汇率持续下跌，政府调控难挽颓势
HONG KONG — At the end of last month, the Chinese renminbi was anointed as one of the world's elite currencies, a first for an emerging market and a widely hailed acknowledgment of China's rising financial influence and economic might.	香港——上月底，中国的人民币被指定为世界主要货币之一，这对一个新兴市场经济体来说是首次，也受到人们的广泛称赞，认为这是对中国正在崛起的金融影响力和经济实力的承认。
But soon after reaching that milestone, the renminbi started slowly and steadily falling as Chinese companies and individuals moved huge sums of money out of the country's weakening economy.	但是，由于中国企业和个人在把巨额资金撤出中国的疲软经济，导致人民币在达到这个里程碑后不久，就开始缓慢、持续地贬值。
The falling currency sets a fresh challenge for Beijing's leaders as the Chinese renminbi is increasingly woven into the global marketplace. While a weaker currency helps the country's exporters, the government must also control the slide, or risk fanning market worries and trade	人民币的贬值给北京的领导人带来一种新的挑战，因为中国的货币已经越来越多地与全球市场交织在一起。虽然货币贬值有助于中国的出口，但政府仍须控制货币的下滑，以免诱发市场忧虑和贸易紧张关系。

tensions.
So far, the Chinese government has stepped into currency markets repeatedly to control the tempo of the drop, but not enough to stop it.	到目前为止，中国政府已多次涉入货币市场以控制人民币贬值的速度，但其做法还不足以阻止贬值。
Over the last two weeks, the renminbi has dropped 1.3 percent against the dollar. The move follows a 4 percent devaluation in August. And while China's central bank has stayed studiously silent, most banking industry economists now expect the renminbi to continue slipping in the weeks and months to come.	在过去的两周里，人民币兑美元的汇率已降低了 1.3%。这是在 8 月份人民币贬值 4% 之后。尽管中国央行一直对此有意保持沉默，但大多数银行业经济学家现在预期人民币在未来几周和几个月里将继续下滑。
"We are looking for larger depreciation in the first half of next year, and then a stabilization," said Ryan Lam, the head of research at Shanghai Commercial Bank, a Hong Kong institution.	"我们预计将在明年上半年看到更大的贬值，然后趋稳，"香港上海商业银行研究部负责人瑞安·林(Ryan Lam)说。
The currency is partly a barometer of global forces, a sign of the Chinese economy's weakness and the dollar's strength. It also reflects the market's bet that the currency will continue to fall as the Chinese government looks to help the country's economy by making exporters more competitive.	人民币的走向在一定程度上是全球市场力量的晴雨表，反映了中国经济疲软和美元走强的迹象，也反映了随着中国政府希望用让出口更具竞争力来帮助中国经济复苏，市场把赌注押在人民币的继续贬值上。
Every morning this last week, the central bank has weakened by an additional 0.1 or 0.2 percent its daily fixing of the value of the renminbi, which sets the midpoint for the currency's daily trading range.	上周每天早上，中国央行在设定人民币的初始值、既人民币每日交易区间的中间价时，都在让人民币以 0.1% 或 0.2% 的幅度贬值。
The People's Bank of China, the country's central bank, faces a tricky balancing act.	作为央行的中国人民银行面临着一种棘手的平衡。
If the renminbi falls too steeply, the volatility could prompt traders to place large bets on further depreciation, making the decline harder to control. The International Monetary Fund added the renminbi on Nov. 30 to its group of global reserve currencies, alongside the dollar, euro,	如果人民币贬值的速度太快，可能会促使投资者把大量赌注押在更进一步的贬值上，这会让贬值的趋势难以控制。国际货币基金组织(IMF)在 11 月 30 日把人民币纳入了全球储备货币篮子，全球储备货币还有美元、欧元、日元和英镑。中国为了满足 IMF 的要求，不得不对其货币放松了一些管制，这使

yen and pound. In an effort to meet the I.M.F. requirements, China had to loosen some of its currency controls, making it somewhat more susceptible to market forces.	人民币更容易受市场力量的影响。
While a weaker currency helps Chinese exporters, it also adds to the country's already widening trade surplus with the United States.	虽然人民币贬值有助于中国出口商,但这也让中国与美国不断增涨的贸易顺差进一步扩大。
The I.M.F. has a policy of not commenting on short-term currency fluctuations, while the People's Bank of China and the United States Treasury very seldom do so. All three declined to issue statements on the renminbi's drop since the I.M.F. decision three weeks ago.	IMF 的政策是不对汇率的短期波动发表评论,中国人民银行和美国财政部也很少发表评论。这三家机构都拒绝对人民币自从 IMF 三周前的决定以来的贬值发表评论。
The I.M.F. had said that China has adopted substantial reforms aimed at making the renminbi more "freely usable." The Treasury accepted this in lending American support to the decision by the I.M.F.'s board to accept the renminbi. The I.M.F. and the Treasury have both urged China to let markets play a greater role in setting the value of the renminbi, which makes it harder for them to object now when market forces push down the currency.	IMF 曾表示,中国为了让人民币能“更自由地使用”已进行了实质性的改革。美国支持 IMF 董事会把人民币纳入储备货币蓝子的决定是因为美国财政部接受了 IMF 的上述说法。IMF 和美国财政部都在敦促中国在制定人民币价值上让市场发挥更大的作用,因此当市场现在压低了人民币的价值时,这两家机构都很难表示反对。
Those market forces are tougher to manage, although China still has formidable resources to do so.	虽然这种市场力量更难管理,但中国仍然有强大的资源来这样做。
It has the world's largest trade surplus. And until the last couple of years, that kept the renminbi on a path of gradual appreciation. But money is sluicing out of the country now, and it is more than offsetting the money that comes in from China's selling of more goods overseas.	中国拥有世界上最大的贸易顺差。直到最近一两年,这个顺差一直把人民币保持在逐渐升值的道路上。然而现在,钱正在泄洪式地流出国门,足以抵消中国向海外出口更多商品所产生的任何外汇收入。
The Chinese government has responded to faltering investment spending in the country by cutting interest rates. While lower lending rates have helped housing prices and construction by making	作为对国内投资支出疲软的响应,中国政府已多次降息。虽然较低的贷款利率让抵押贷款更便宜,帮助提升了住房价格和建筑行业,但银行的低存款利率也让中国投资者有更多的理由到海外寻找机会。与此同时,美联储现在开

mortgages cheaper, lower rates on bank deposits have also given an extra incentive for Chinese investors to look overseas for opportunities. At the same time, the Federal Reserve is now raising interest rates, making it more attractive to keep money in dollars.	始加息，这让持有美元更具吸引力。
Chinese exporters — and importers in the United States and Europe — are celebrating the renminbi's weakness.	中国的出口商以及美国和欧洲的进口商都对人民币的走弱表示欢迎。
Betty Chong, a director of the J.C. & Winsons Company, which manufactures gloves, hats and scarfs in Wuxi for export, said that she no longer added a premium to her prices as a buffer against appreciation of the renminbi. "The devaluation of the renminbi against the U.S. dollar of course helps my exports — my goods are comparatively more competitive than those from nearby manufacturers in Bangladesh, Vietnam and India," she said.	永盛创业是一家在无锡生产出口手套、帽子和围巾的公司，公司董事贝蒂·庄 (Betty Chong) 表示，现在他们无需再额外加价来缓冲人民币的升值了。“人民币对美元贬值有利于我们的出口业务——相对于附近孟加拉国、越南和印度的生产商，我们产品的竞争力增强了，”她说。
China's exporters to Europe are benefiting, as well as those selling to the United States. China's central bank made headlines a week ago by saying that it would publish an index of the renminbi's value in terms of a basket of currencies, not just the dollar. Such an index would highlight that the renminbi actually strengthened against some currencies in the first 11 months of this year, like the euro, even as it weakened against the strong dollar.	和面向美国的出口商一样，面向对欧洲的中国出口商也从中受益。中国央行上周表示，它将参考一篮子货币发布人民币汇率指数，而不仅仅参考美元，这个消息登上了报纸头条。该指数将突显人民币今年前 11 个月相对于欧元等一些货币实际是在走强，虽然它对相对于坚挺的美元走弱。
But because the dollar has faltered in the past two weeks, the drop in the renminbi lately has been even sharper against other currencies. The renminbi has fallen 3.7 percent against the euro in the past two weeks, for example.	但由于美元在过去两周里有所下滑，人民币最近相对于对其他货币的跌幅更大。例如在过去两周，人民币对欧元下跌了 3.7%。
A weaker renminbi is not a complete boon to Chinese companies.	对中国企业来说，人民币走弱也不全是好事。

Zhang Zepeng, the sales manager at the Qingdao Reliance Refrigeration Equipment Company, which makes cold-storage rooms and refrigerator compressors in Qingdao, has profited from a weaker renminbi on its exports. But he is concerned about rising costs for supplies bought overseas, since his company also sells within China.	张泽鹏(音)是青岛信实制冷设备公司的销售经理,该公司制造冷藏室和冰箱的压缩机,其出口业务从人民币贬值中受益。但张泽鹏对不断上涨的原材料进口费用感到担心,因为该公司也在国内销售产品。
"Since we need to import some of our raw materials, I do not want to see the RMB further devalue to, say, 6.7 or 6.8 against the U.S. dollar, since that will mean we will have to pay more for our raw material imports as well," he said. It is now around 6.5 to the dollar.	"我们需要进口一些原材料,我不希望看到人民币进一步贬值到 6.7 或 6.8 元兑 1 美元,因为这意味着我们必须花更多的钱在原材料进口上,"他说。目前人民币对美元汇率在 6.5 左右。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151221/c21db-yuan	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151221/c21db-yuan
Deutsche Bank Joins Retreat From China	外资银行持续撤资:德银出售华夏银行股份
Deutsche Bank is joining peers in cashing out of China. The German lender is selling a $3.8 billion, 19.9 percent holding, in Hua Xia Bank to local insurer PICC Property and Casualty.	德意志银行(Deutsche Bank)也加入了同行的队伍,将其在中国的投资套现。该银行要把在华夏银行持有的 19.9% 的股份——价值 38 亿美元——出售给中国人民财产保险股份有限公司(PICC Property and Casualty)。
Like such rivals as Goldman Sachs and Bank of America Merrill Lynch before it, Deutsche Bank is crystallizing a solid return — while acknowledging that minority stakes on the mainland are of little use.	就像高盛(Goldman Sachs)、美银美林(Bank of America Merrill Lynch)等竞争对手之前的情况一样,德意志银行将获得可观回报。此举也相当于承认了,在中国大陆持有少数股权用处不大。
Given China's troubles, this is a less-than-ideal time to sell. Shares of the bank, which is listed in Shenzhen, trade at just 6.5 times forward earnings, or 0.9 times book value, both roughly one-third below their 10-year average, Thomson Reuters StarMine data shows.	鉴于中国经济正经历困难,现在出售的时机并不理想。汤森路透(Thomson Reuters)旗下 StarMine 的数据显示,这家在深圳上市的银行的股价,预估市盈率仅为 6.5,相当于其账面价值的 0.9 倍,均比十年来的平均值低了大约三分之一。
But the foray was still worth the effort. In total, Deutsche Bank invested about 1.3 billion euros from 2006 to 2011. The final sale price will depend on how Hua Xia's shares trade. But at the midpoint of the stated range, €3.45 billion, plus €400 million or so of previous dividends,	但这一步举动还是值得的。德意志银行在 2006 年至 2011 年间总共投资了大约 13 亿欧元。最终售价将取决于华夏银行股票的交易价格。但根据披露的价格区间的中值计算,收益为 34.5 亿欧元,再加上之前大约 4 亿欧元的股息。德意志银行的总收益接近其投资金额的三倍。

Deutsche Bank will have nearly tripled its money on a gross basis.
That is not to be sniffed at, even if taxes on dividends and capital gains will presumably cut the net return significantly. Goldman Sachs made about 3.5 times its money investing in Industrial and Commercial Bank of China, albeit over a shorter time frame.	这可不是一笔小钱，即便股息和资本利得税还会大幅降低净回报。尽管高盛在中国工商银行投资的时间比这更短，但它的投资回报率还是达到了 3.5 倍左右。
Moreover, Deutsche Bank gets a clear capital benefit: a 30- or 40-basis point uplift to its Common Equity Tier 1 ratio, currently at 11.5 percent. Basel III rules make holding small stakes in other financial institutions an extra burden. The German bank is also now off the hook should Hua Xia need shareholders' help in shoring up its balance sheet.	除此之外，德意志银行的资本金也得到了明显提升：普通股权一级资本比率将增加 30 或 40 个基点，目前这个比率为 11.5%。按照《巴塞尔协议 III》(Basel III) 的规定，持有其他金融机构的少数股权已经成为额外的负担。如果华夏银行需要股东的帮助来支撑其资产负债表，德意志银行目前也已经脱身了。
Shareholders will be heartened in other ways, too. Minority positions with little influence, and no prospect of future control, look badly out of place when banks are struggling to make sustainable returns. This holds doubly true given China's slowdown.	股东还会在其他方面受到鼓舞。当银行难以提供可持续的回报时，没有什么影响力、未来也没有希望控股的少数股权，看起来很糟糕。鉴于中国经济发展放缓，这一点显得更加真实了。
The era of Western investment in Chinese banks is not quite over — HSBC is a notable holdout, firmly committed to its stake in Bank of Communications. But further retreats are likely, such as a sale by Standard Chartered of its holding in Agricultural Bank of China. The exodus will go on.	西方投资中国银行业的时代还没有完全结束，汇丰银行(HSBC)就是一个值得注意的投资者，该银行仍然坚定地持有交通银行的股份。但行业内撤资的趋势可能仍会加剧，比如渣打银行(Standard Chartered)出售其持有的中国农业银行股份。撤离还会继续下去。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151230/c30db-deutsche	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20151230/c30db-deutsche
Dalian Wanda of China May Buy Majority Stake in Legendary Entertainment	王健林进军好莱坞，万达拟收购美国传奇影业
LOS ANGELES — The Chinese conglomerate Dalian Wanda Group, which already owns the AMC chain of multiplex cinemas, is poised to buy a majority stake in a Hollywood production company that makes	洛杉矶——中国综合性大企业大连万达集团已买下了运营多银幕影院的 AMC 电影公司，如今，万达正准备购买好莱坞一家制作大片风格电影的制片公司的多数股权，这将让万达在美国娱乐业腹地拥有一个立足点，有强大

blockbuster-style movies, giving the politically powerful company with close ties to the Communist Party's ruling elite a foothold in the heart of America's entertainment industry.	政治背景的万达与共产党的统治精英关系密切。
Investors in the production company, Legendary Entertainment, have agreed to sell Wanda their stakes in a deal that values Legendary at about $4 billion, according to people with knowledge of the matter, who spoke on the condition of anonymity to discuss a transaction that was not yet public. The investors cashing out of Legendary own a little more than 50 percent of the company, these people said.	该制片公司是传奇影业(Legendary Entertainment), 公司的投资者已同意把他们所持的股份出售给万达, 这笔交易把传奇影业的价值估计在约 40 亿美元, 此消息来自知情人士, 他们要求不具名, 因为所讨论的事情尚未公开。这些知情人士说, 投资者出售的传奇影业股份加起来略高于公司 50% 的股权。
The rest of Legendary will continue to be owned by its management, including Thomas Tull, a former laundromat owner who founded the production company in 2000 and turned it into a Hollywood powerhouse. Legendary's hits include "Godzilla" and "Pacific Rim." It has also been trying, with limited success, to develop a television division.	传奇影业的其余股份将继续由公司管理层拥有, 包括前洗衣店老板托马斯·图尔(Thomas Tull), 他于 2000 年创建了这家制片公司, 使之成为一家好莱坞巨头。传奇影业制作的高票房大片包括《哥斯拉》(Godzilla)和《环太平洋》(Pacific Rim)。公司也一直在努力发展电视事业, 但只取得了有限的成功。
Industry experts say the deal makes sense for both Wanda and Legendary, which tends to produce the type of big-budget, special-effects-driven movies that Chinese audiences like. In addition to owning AMC, Wanda controls the biggest cinema chain in China, where box office receipts are set to eclipse the North American market in coming years. Wanda, a company owned by China's richest man, can provide Mr. Tull with money, a growing audience and a champion in China that can get more of his films into the tightly controlled market.	业界专家表示, 这笔交易对万达和传奇都有道理, 传奇影业倾向于制作大预算、以特殊效果为主的电影, 而中国观众喜欢这类影片。万达除了拥有 AMC 外, 还控制着中国票房收入最高的电影院线, 中国的电影票房收入预计在未来几年内将超过北美市场。万达由中国的首富拥有, 公司可以为图尔提供现金、越来越多的观众, 及其在中国的倡导者, 这样就可以让传奇影业制作的更多片子进入中国严格控制的市场。
"Wanda represents a good source of funding for him," Peter Schloss, managing partner of CastleHill Partners, a merchant bank specializing in the media and sports industries, said by telephone from Beijing.	"万达对他来说代表一个很好的资金来源," 彼得·施洛斯(Peter Schloss)从北京通过电话说, 他是一家专门投资媒体和体育产业的商业银行 CastleHill Partners 的管理合伙人。"万达欢迎这笔交易, 因为这笔交易是让其转型的"

"Wanda likes the deal because it segues into the approach that they are using to build themselves into a multifaceted entertainment conglomerate."	一种方式，万达正在把自己打造成一个多方面的娱乐集团。”
The deal, earlier reported by Reuters, deepens Wanda's foray into the movie production business. Wanda made a splash in 2013 when it announced the construction of a mammoth, $8.2 billion studio in eastern China, flying in stars like Leonardo DiCaprio and Nicole Kidman for the occasion. Last year, Wanda helped produce "Southpaw," a boxing movie starring Jake Gyllenhaal and Rachel McAdams, which was released by the Weinstein Company. Wanda bought the AMC chain for $2.6 billion in 2012, including $2 billion in assumed debt.	路透社在早些时候报道了这笔交易，交易加深了万达向电影制作业的进军。万达 2013 年曾引起轰动，当时公司宣布在中国东部投资 500 亿人民币建设规模最大的影视产业基地，还请来了莱昂纳多·迪卡普里奥(Leonardo DiCaprio)和妮可·基德曼(Nicole Kidman)等明星到场助阵。去年，万达帮助制作了《左撇子》(Southpaw)，这是一部由杰克·吉伦哈尔(Jake Gyllenhaal)和瑞秋·麦克亚当斯(Rachel McAdams)主演的有关拳击的电影，由温斯坦公司(Weinstein Company)发行。2012 年，万达花了 26 亿美元收购了 AMC 电影公司，其中包括所承担的 20 亿美元的债务。
Wanda's investment also makes sense politically for its chairman, Wang Jianlin, a former military officer who is carrying out the Communist Party's goal of deepening China's influence in the global entertainment industry. As many of China's most powerful families, including relatives of President Xi Jinping, have bought shares in Wanda, the Legendary purchase furthers Mr. Wang's importance to the country's political elite at a time when some of the country's richest businessmen are falling victim to Mr. Xi's anticorruption campaign, now entering its fourth year.	万达的投资对其董事长王健林也有政治道理，王健林是一名退役军官，他正在实现共产党在全球娱乐产业中深化中国影响力的目标。由于许多中国最有权势的家族、包括习近平的亲属在内，都购买了万达的股票，在中国一些最富有的商人都成了习近平反腐败运动牺牲品的时候，收购传奇影业股份将增加王健林在中国政治精英眼里的重要性。反腐败运动目前已进入第四个年头。
"He's basically putting himself in such an important position that makes it really difficult for the government to go after him, because he's actually carrying the water for the government in terms of making inroads into Hollywood," said Stanley Rosen, a professor of political science at the University of Southern California who studies China's film industry. "That's an important aspect of government policy."	"他说穿了就是要把自己的地位变得如此重要，以致于政府很难对他下手，因为他实际上是在为政府承担进军好莱坞的重任，"南加州大学(University of Southern California)政治学教授斯坦利·罗森(Stanley Rosen)说，罗森专门研究中国的电影业。"那是政府政策的一个重要方面。"

Still, Mr. Rosen said that the deal was best explained in business terms for Wanda, a private company, allowing it to leap over competitors like Alibaba, which is also expanding its presence in Hollywood. And since Legendary's primary focus is on American-style action movies, the opportunities for China to use the deal to increase its global "soft power" are limited. "If you're not promoting Chinese values and not promoting Chinese films overseas, how will this help Chinese power?" Mr. Rosen asked by telephone.	不过, 罗森说, 这笔交易对私营公司万达来说, 最好的解释仍是商业方面的, 交易将让万达超越像阿里巴巴这样的竞争对手, 阿里巴巴也在扩大其在好莱坞的存在。而且, 由于传奇影业主要制作美国式的动作片, 交易并没有给中国带来许多增加其全球“软实力”的机会。“如果你并不在推动中国的价值观, 也不在向海外推销中国的电影, 你怎么能帮助中国的软实力呢?” 罗森在电话中问道。
Ticket sales in China grew nearly 50 percent in 2015, to $6.78 billion, according to government data. ("Pacific Rim," for instance, collected $112 million in China in 2013.)	据报道, 中国的电影票房收入 2015 年增长了近 50%, 达到约 439 亿元人民币。(2013 年,《环太平洋》在中国的票房收入是 1.12 亿美元。)
Coming Legendary films include a "Godzilla" sequel that pairs the radioactive lizard with King Kong, and "Warcraft," an expensive adaptation of the popular video game. Legendary releases its films in partnership with Universal Pictures, a division of the Comcast-owned NBCUniversal.	即将上映的传奇影业片子包括《哥斯拉》的续集, 放射性蜥蜴将在续集中与金刚对打, 另一部是花了许多钱根据流行视频游戏改编的《魔兽争霸》(Warcraft)。传奇影业与环球影业(Universal Pictures)合作发行电影, 环球影业是康卡斯特拥有的 NBC 环球的一个部门。
A spokeswoman for Legendary declined to comment. A spokesman for Wanda, David Connolly, did not respond to an emailed request for comment and did not answer his phone.	传奇影业的一位女发言人拒绝置评。万达集团发言人戴维·康诺利(David Connolly)没有回复记者请求置评的电子邮件, 也没有接打给他的电话。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160106/c06db-legendary	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160106/c06db-legendary
China Halts Trading After Market Tumbles More Than 7 Percent	人民币继续贬值, 股市暴跌再熔断
HONG KONG — Trading was halted on China's stock market for the second time this week, as stocks plummeted on Thursday over concerns about the country's currency and the health of the economy.	香港——周四, 关于人民币汇率和中国经济状况的担心促使股市再次大跌, 导致中国股市交易本周二度提前终止。
It has been a rocky start to the new year, with worries over China	新年伊始开局不利, 对中国的担忧, 在全球各地都撼动了投资者的信心, 并

shaking the confidence of investors around the world and creating volatility in the markets. The big fear is that China's economy is slowing down, crimping global growth.	且在市场上制造了波动。一个重要的忧虑是中国经济正在放缓，而这会抑制全球增长。
A downbeat Chinese manufacturing report on Monday sent stocks spiraling, prompting the country's market to close early. It also set off a global rout, with stocks in Europe and the United States getting hit.	周一发布的一则中国制造业数据并不乐观，股价随之大幅下挫，导致中国股市提早收盘。它还导致了全球市场下挫，欧洲和美国的股价都受到了冲击。
The latest tumult centers on the Chinese currency, the renminbi.	最新的波动源于中国的货币人民币。
The Chinese government, which closely controls the renminbi, has been allowing the value to steadily decline. It is a difficult process to manage, especially as companies and individuals pull money out of the country at a rapid rate.	严格控制人民币汇率的中国政府，开始允许其币值稳步下行。这个过程很难控制，尤其是当下企业和个人都在迅速地将资金转移到境外。
The currency's moves on Thursday served to spook investors. China's central bank in the morning set the rate for the renminbi at 6.5646 to the dollar, its lowest point in almost six years.	人民币汇率在周四的波动让投资者感到惊悸。早间，中国的中央银行将人民币兑美元汇率的中间价设在了 6.5646，这是近六年来人民币币值最低的水平。
The weakening currency was likely to lead to a capital outflow and tightening monetary conditions in China, said Li-Gang Liu, the chief economist for greater China at the Australia and New Zealand Banking Group. That, in turn, he added, would exacerbate the sell off in markets.	人民币走软可能会导致资本外流，进而使中国货币环境趋紧，澳新银行大中华区首席经济学家刘利刚表示。他又补充道，这回过头来可能会加剧市场的抛售。
In theory, a weaker renminbi addresses two of China's problems. It would make China's exports more competitive in foreign markets, offsetting part of the surge in the country's blue-collar wages over the past decade. And it would make foreign companies, houses and other overseas investments seem more expensive.	理论上，人民币贬值可以应对中国的两个问题。这会让出口更有竞争力，缓解蓝领工人工资增长造成的压力；也会让投资外国公司、房产和其他海外投资成本增加。
The trick is preventing a gradual decline from turning into a rout.	但如何避免逐渐的贬值演变成汇率跳水，是个难题。
Managing the currency is becoming harder for China. Mainly domestic	中国货币管理正在变得更加困难。国内投资者正趁着人民币购买力变得更低

investors are moving money out of the country before the buying power of their renminbi slides any further.	之前向国外转移资金。
China's own economy has also been steadily slowing, making it a less attractive place to invest. Fourth-quarter growth, which will be reported later this month, is expected to be 6.9 percent, although some economists have expressed skepticism about the reliability of the figures.	中国自己的经济也在稳步放缓，让投资环境变得更不理想。第四季度的增长会在本月早些时候公布，预计在 6.9% 左右，但一些经济学家已经在质疑这个数字的可靠性。
Taken together, the currency weakness, the economic slowdown and the stock market turmoil could force the government to take action. When stocks sold off last summer, China organized large-scale purchases by government-linked brokerages and investment funds.	所有因素相加，会迫使政府采取行动。去年夏天股市抛售潮的时候，中国动员了有政府关系的经纪公司和投资基金大规模收购。
Some of those measures, though, may be adding to the current pain.	但一些应对措施可能会加剧当下的痛楚。
Under a new rule, trading stops for 15 minutes when losses hit 5 percent, a measure known as a circuit breaker. But the cooling-off period may be intensifying the sell-off.	根据新规则，当股市跌幅达 5% 时，交易停止 15 分钟，称为熔断机制。但这个冷静期可能会加剧抛售。
As trading opened on Thursday, Chinese stocks plummeted, triggering a circuit breaker for the second day this week. The circuit breaker forces trading to stop for 15 minutes when losses hit 5 percent, as they had done on Monday. Once trading resumed, the losses continued, taking stocks down 7 percent and forcing trading to stop for the day.	周四交易开始后，股价开始跳水，触发了熔断机制。这是本周第二天熔断机制被触发。熔断机制在股市跌幅达到 5% 的时候迫使交易中止 15 分钟。周一也发生了这种情况。交易恢复后，跌势继续，跌幅达 7%，迫使全天交易停止。
The CSI 300 blue chip stock index finished the day down 7.2 percent. The Shanghai composite index fell 7.3 percent, while Shenzhen plunged 8.3 percent.	沪深 300 蓝筹股指数收盘报跌 7.2%。上证综指跌 7.3%。深圳股市跌 8.3%。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160107/c07db-markets	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160107/c07db-markets
New World Development Offers $2.8 Billion to Take Unit Private	香港地产家族再欲收购内地子公司

HONG KONG — New World Development, a Hong Kong property company, offered on Wednesday to privatize New World China Land, its property developer unit, in a deal worth about $2.8 billion.	香港——香港地产企业新世界发展有限公司周三表示，计划通过一项价值约28亿美元的交易，将其从事地产开发的子公司新世界中国地产有限公司私有化。
New World Development is controlled by the family of the Hong Kong billionaire Cheng Yu-tung, which also controls the jewelry chain Chow Tai Fook, one of the world's largest. It had tried to privatize the property unit in 2014 but failed to gain shareholder approval because of a so-called head-count test, required under a special accelerated buyout process, which takes into account not just the number of shares that are voted but also the number of shareholders voting.	新世界发展集团由香港亿万富翁郑裕彤(Cheng Yu-tung)的家族掌控，该家族同时还掌管着世界上最大的珠宝连锁店之一周大福。新世界发展集团曾在2014年试图将上述子公司私有化，但因为“数人头”规则的限制而没能获得股东同意。这是一种特殊快速收购程序的要求，即不仅要参考投票的股份数量，还要考虑参与投票的股东人数。
New World Development had offered 6.80 Hong Kong dollars, or 87 cents, a share. While holders of 99.84 percent of New World China shares were in favor of the takeover, they constituted only 255 registered shareholders, or 34 percent. The remaining 66 percent of shareholders, with a stake of 0.16 percent, opposed the deal. After the offer fell through, regulations required New World Development to wait 12 months before making another bid for the unit.	新世界发展集团当时提出了每股6.8港元的收购价格。尽管持股99.84%的新世界中国地产股东同意这项收购，但他们只有255人，仅占注册股票持有人的34%。其余66%的所有人的持股比例只有0.16%，但他们反对这项交易。这次收购申请失败之后，根据规定，新世界发展集团需要在12个月以后才能再次申请收购该子公司。
The new offer for all the shares that the parent company does not already own will not have to pass the head-count test because it is not using the accelerated process. At 7.80 dollars a share — for a total 21.5 billion dollars — the company is offering a premium of 25.6 percent over the closing price of New World China on Dec. 31, its last trading day before shares were suspended in anticipation of the offer.	这次提出的收购母公司尚未拥有的所有股份的要约，将不再受“数人头”规则的限制，因为并没有采用快速收购方式。这一次，新世界发展集团提出了每股7.8港元的收购价格——整体收购价为215亿港元——比新世界中国地产12月31日的收盘价溢出25.6%。当天是该子公司的最后一个交易日，后因有可能被收购而暂停交易。
In a filing with the Hong Kong exchange, New World Development said that New World China would be able to use the parent company's	新世界发展集团在提交给香港交易所的一份文件中表示，新世界中国地产可以借助母公司“更强大的财务实力”和“更具竞争力的融资条款提升其银行借

"greater financial strength" and its "more competitive financing terms for raising bank borrowings" without being subject to the requirements of a listed company.	贷额度", 而不必受限于上市公司的要求。
The move also allows New World Development to invest in mainland China through New World China.	这次收购也将使新世界发展集团可以通过新世界中国地产在内地进行投资。
New World China's shares jumped nearly 21 percent after the announcement, while New World Development's shares slipped 4.4 percent.	这一消息发布之后, 新世界中国地产的股价飙升了近 21%, 新世界发展集团的股票则下挫了 4.4%。
The proposed takeover in 2014 had involved a "scheme of arrangement," a court-facilitated process that can move faster than a normal buyout. To qualify for this arrangement, a bid needs the support of only 75 percent of the shares but 50 percent of the shareholders voting.	2014 年提出的收购采用的是"协议安排"。这是一种通过法院协调的收购过程, 可以比普通收购方式速度更快。要实现这类收购, 要约只需获得 75% 的股份支持, 但同时需要赢得 50% 以上的参与投票的股东支持。
Although Hong Kong does not use the head-count test, the Cayman Islands, where New World China is incorporated, requires all proposals to be approved by a majority of shareholders.	尽管香港不使用"数人头"的规定, 但是在新世界中国地产有限公司的注册地开曼群岛, 所有提议都需要取得多数股东的同意。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160107/c07db-newworld	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160107/c07db-newworld
Currency Devaluations by Asian Tigers Could Hinder Global Growth	人民币贬值潜在连锁反应令人担忧
China's decision to push the value of its currency lower has opened a new front of worry for global investors: a potential wave of currency devaluations among the so-called Asian tigers — South Korea, Singapore and Taiwan.	中国将人民币进一步贬值, 使全球投资者陷入新一轮担忧: 这有可能会引发韩国、新加坡和台湾等亚洲四小龙国家的货币也出现贬值。
Such an outcome, a number of foreign exchange specialists say, would put a further damper on global growth expectations, which already are being revised downward as China's once-booming economy	不少外汇专家表示, 这样的结果会让全球增长预期进一步降低。随着一度繁荣的中国经济开始放缓, 这一预期之前就已被下调。 retrenches.

The dollar's strong run recently — together with the plunge in the price of oil and other commodities — has damaged fragile emerging-market economies like Brazil, Turkey and South Africa; the dollar has risen 130 percent against the Brazilian real and the South African rand since mid-2011.	最近美元走强，再加上石油和其他大宗商品价格大跌，使得巴西、土耳其和南非等脆弱的新兴市场经济遭创；美元对巴西雷亚尔和南非兰特的汇率相比于2011年中已经上涨了130%。
The currencies of fast-growing Asian countries, including India, have largely been insulated, thanks to their better-performing economies and their ability to stockpile large foreign currency reserve positions.	不过，包括印度在内的经济增长速度比较快的亚洲国家，大体上免于受到影响，因为它们的经济表现更好，而且有能力储备大量外汇。
But having a strong currency at a time when manufacturing competitors like Japan and China have weaker currencies leads to a sharp fall in exports, which have been the economic lifeblood of these countries for decades.	但是，美元在日本和中国等制造业竞争对手的货币较为疲软之时走强，导致美国出口剧降。而出口在过去几十年一直是这些国家的经济命脉。
"These countries have some of the most overvalued exchange rates on the planet," said Julian Brigden of Macro Intelligence 2 Partners, an independent research firm based in Vail, Colo., that advises large money management firms on global investment themes.	"这些国家汇率被高估的程度是全球数得上的，"朱利安·布里格登(Julian Brigden)说道。他来自总部位于科罗拉多州韦尔的独立调研机构宏观经济情报(Macro Intelligence 2 Partners)，该公司给大型资产管理公司提供有关全球投资方面的咨询建议。
When economies have high exchange rates, their exports tend to lose market share compared with countries with cheaper currencies. And when that happens, countries that depend on foreign trade will frequently take steps to push their currencies lower.	当一个国家的汇率增高时，其出口相比于汇率较低的国家，会失去一些市场份额。出现这种情况时，依赖对外贸易的国家往往会采取措施，使自己的国家货币贬值。
Echoing these fears, the finance minister of Mexico, Luis Videgaray, warned on Thursday that the Chinese currency actions could lead to a new round of competitive devaluations.	与这些担忧相呼应的是，墨西哥财政部长路易斯·比德加赖(Luis Videgaray)周四发出警告，表示人民币贬值可能会导致新一轮的竞争性货币贬值。
The fear is that a currency war in Southeast Asia — where the Asian	这种担忧在于，如果1997年亚洲金融危机的爆发地东南亚发生货币战争，

financial crisis erupted in 1997 — could result in lower growth and add to the already substantial concerns about the global economy this year and next.	可能会导致经济增长更加缓慢，使业界本就存在的对全球经济在今明两年发展形势的担忧进一步加剧。
Earlier this week, the World Bank lowered its estimate for global growth to 2.9 percent from 3.3 percent, with expectations for just about all major economies being revised downward.	本周早些时候，世界银行(World Bank)将它对全球增长率的预估值从 3.3% 降为 2.9%，并基本上将它对全球几乎所有主要经济体的经济预测都有所下调。
Already, global money managers have begun to pull money out of some of these Asian markets.	在全球进行资本配置的基金经理们已经开始将资金撤出一些亚洲市场。
The Korean won and the Singapore dollar are down 5 percent, while the Taiwan dollar has lost 7 percent over the last six months. Even in India, perhaps the most popular emerging market among global investors, the currency has given ground, about 7 percent, against the United States dollar.	在过去的六个月里，韩元和新加坡元汇率降低 5%，台币贬值 7%。就连印度这个全球投资者眼中最受欢迎的新兴市场，其货币对美元的汇率也下跌了 7%。
Underpinning the fears about a currency war have been the disappointing export figures from the region.	这个地区令人失望的出口数据，也是加剧出现货币战争这种担忧的一个因素。
For example, Korean exports fell 14 percent in December compared with the same month in 2014. For the year, exports shrank 8 percent — the worst result for the country since the global financial crisis in 2009.	比如，韩国 2015 年 12 月的出口额相比于 2014 年同期下降了 14%。2015 年整年则比去年缩水 8%，是 2009 年发生全球金融危机以来该国出口业绩最差的一年。
In Taiwan, government officials say they expect exports for last year to have fallen 10 percent; and in Singapore, the manufacturing sector at the heart of the country's export-based model slumped 6 percent in the most recent quarter.	台湾政府官员表示，他们预计台湾去年的出口额下降了 10%；在新加坡，作为该国出口型经济核心的制造业在最近一个季度骤降 6%。
These export figures are disturbing because they reflect that something deeper is ailing the global economy than simply a slowing China that is buying less oil from Nigeria, iron ore from Brazil or copper from Chile.	这些出口数据让人不安，是因为它们反映出，给全球经济带来麻烦的是一些更深层次的问题，而不只是中国经济增速放缓，以及随之而来的对尼日利亚的石油、巴西的铁矿石或智利的铜的需求减少。

Strong currencies in the Asian tiger countries have made their high-end electronic products, like Samsung phones from South Korea and computer parts from Taiwan, more expensive in Europe and the United States, their biggest markets.	强势货币使亚洲四小龙制造的高端电子产品，如韩国的三星手机和台湾的计算机零件，在其最大的市场欧洲和美国变得更加昂贵。
And with China, their main export competitor, expected to let the renminbi weaken further, these countries will face further pressure to let their currencies fall.	随着它们的主要出口竞争对手中国将其货币进一步贬值，这些国家有可能面临更多压力，也不得不贬值其货币。
The sudden export drop-off for manufacturing powerhouses like South Korea and Singapore troubles analysts who see it as a sign that the slowdown in the global economy is worse than people expect.	韩国和新加坡等制造业强国出口锐减，让一些分析人士感到担忧，因为他们认为，这代表着全球经济衰退的程度比人们料想的更糟。
"I expect these currencies to fall by another 20 or 30 percent," said Raoul Pal, an independent financial analyst and the founder of Real Vision TV, a media venture where sophisticated investors discuss their views on the market. "These export figures are a big deal — it's a huge shrinkage in the dollar-based economy, as not enough people are buying goods."	"我预计这些国家的货币还会进一步贬值 20%到 30%，"媒体平台 Real Vision TV 的创始人、独立金融分析师拉乌尔·帕尔(Raoul Pal)说道。"这些出口数据不容小觑——在以美元为基础的经济体里，这是规模很大的萎缩，说明没有足够多的人在购买商品。"在其媒体平台上，有许多富有经验的投资者会就市场行情发表自己的观点。
For quite some time, Mr. Pal has been promoting an investment thesis that the relentless rise of the dollar — since mid-2011, the dollar is up 35 percent against a broad basket of currencies — will have a deflationary effect on the global economy as export-driven economies enter into a series of competitive devaluations to protect crucial export sectors.	在相当长的一段时间里，帕尔一直在推广一种投资理念，即美元持续走高——自 2011 年中至今，美元对一篮子货币的汇率上涨了 35%——将给全球经济带来通货紧缩影响，因为出口导向型经济会为保护对本国至关重要的出口行业而竞相贬值其货币。
"This is not just a commodity story," he said. "It's a global trade story."	"不是只有大宗商品价格会受到影响，"他说。"全球贸易都会因之改变。"
Exchange-rate volatility in this part of the world will not take the heat off other weak currencies. In addition to usual examples like Turkey, Brazil and South Africa, investors expect commodity exporters like	这一地区汇率不稳，并不会减轻其他弱势货币的压力。投资者预计，随着大宗商品价格继续下降，除了人们比较熟悉的土耳其、巴西和南非等，印度尼西亚、智利和哥伦比亚等大宗商品出口国也会受到严重影响。

Indonesia, Chile and Colombia to take a big hit, as the prices for their products continue to fall.
The final frontier in this respect would be the pegged currencies in the Middle East, especially the Saudi Arabian riyal, which is tightly linked to the dollar.	能够抵御这种冲击的最后一道防线将是中东地区的挂钩货币，尤其是与美元联系紧密的沙特阿拉伯货币里亚尔。
Although Saudi Arabia has been running budget deficits of close to 20 percent of gross domestic product because of the fall in oil prices, it still has a war chest of $635 billion in foreign exchange reserves that it can tap to defend the riyal.	尽管因为油价下跌，沙特阿拉伯的预算赤字一直高达国内生产总值的大约20%，但它还有6350亿美元的外汇储备，足以对里亚尔的汇率形成支撑。
The other problem with downward trending currencies in South Korea, Taiwan and Singapore is that these countries, like just about all emerging market economies, have taken advantage of a rock-bottom interest rate environment to issue billions of dollars in dollar-denominated corporate debt to finance capital investments.	韩国、台湾和新加坡货币贬值趋势的另一个问题是，就像几乎所有新兴市场一样，这些经济体也利用触底的利率环境，发行了价值数十亿美元的以美元计价的企业债券，以便给资本投资提供资金。
Foreign investors were attracted to the high yields and especially the stable currencies and bought them in huge quantities. Now, with the currencies starting to wobble, dollar-based investors have less incentive to hold on to them, and they will do what they have been doing with their Brazilian, Turkish and South African bonds — get rid of them as quickly as possible.	境外投资者受其高收益率吸引，他们尤其看好这些货币的稳定性，于是大量买入。如今，随着这些货币汇率出现波动，以美元进行投资的投资者就相对不那么有动力继续持有这些债券，如同他们针对巴西、土耳其和南非债券所做的那样，他们会尽快将这些债券出手。
“There is a lot of underlying investor exposure in these markets,” said Mr. Brigden, the independent research analyst. “I think if things continue to get worse, we are going to move to liquidation stage.”	“有很多底层投资者在这些市场持有大量资产，”上述独立调研机构分析师布里格登说。“我认为，如果情况继续恶化，我们可能就要进入清算阶段了。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160111/c11db-currencies	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160111/c11db-currencies
How David Bowie Changed Wall Street	大卫·鲍伊如何改变了华尔街

David Bowie was known for his ability to reinvent himself. But he also helped inspire a pocket of Wall Street that tries to create money out of weird things like billboard rental income, cellphone tower lease payments and literary or film libraries.	大卫·鲍伊(David Bowie)以擅于重塑自我著称。但他对华尔街亦有所启迪。华尔街为了赚钱花样百出, 广告牌租金收入、手机塔租赁费、文学或电影资料库藏都成为他们的工具。
In 1997, Mr. Bowie bundled up nearly 300 of his existing recordings and copyrights into a $55 million security that paid the buyer – Prudential Insurance Company of America – a 7.9 percent annual rate over 10 years, backed by the income from his royalties and record sales, and the licensing of his songs for films or other uses.	1997年, 鲍伊把他现成的近300项录音和版权打包为一个5500万美元的抵押, 卖给美国保诚保险公司(Prudential Insurance Company of America), 在他的版税和唱片销售收入, 以及电影等场合使用他的歌曲所支付的授权费支持下, 买主得到了十年期7.9%的年收益率。
The so-called Bowie bonds were among the first in what would become a wave of esoteric asset-backed securities deals based on intellectual property, including a more recent one involving Miramax's film library (including titles like "Pulp Fiction" and "The English Patient"). Bankers have also come up with securities backed by franchise revenue for the restaurant chains Sonic and Church's Chicken, among others.	这种所谓的“鲍伊债券”(Bowie bonds)是基于知识产权的资产担保证券交易的先驱之一, 外界对这种交易知之甚少, 它还包括后来米拉麦克斯公司(Miramax)电影资料库(其中有《低俗小说》和《英国病人》等电影)的交易。银行还推出了特许经营收入担保的证券, 比如餐厅连锁索尼克(Sonic)和德州炸鸡 Church's Chicken 等等。
The buyers in these deals, which are negotiated privately by the banks that put the transactions together, tend to be specialized hedge funds or big institutions that can negotiate terms with the bankers. Individual investors never got their hands on a Bowie bond because Prudential never sold any of its stake.	这些交易是由牵头的银行私下协商的, 买主往往是专门的对冲基金或大型机构, 可以与银行协商交易条款。“鲍伊债券”从未落入过个人投资者手中, 因为保诚没有出售过它的任何份额。
A Prudential spokesman declined to comment.	保诚发言人拒绝对此置评。
At the time it was a good deal for Mr. Bowie. He got upfront cash for a decade's worth of royalty and licensing revenue without having to give up ownership of his songs.	在当时, 这个交易对鲍伊来说相当有利。他不必放弃自己歌曲的所有权, 就可以预支十年版税和授权费收入。
Originally rated A3 by Moody's Investors Service, Bowie bonds were	“鲍伊债券”最初被信誉评级机构穆迪(Moody's)评为A3级, 后来降为Baa3

later downgraded to Baa3, just above junk status. By the early 2000s, Internet file sharing had become a factor, and musicians were generating less income because album sales were declining.	级，仅高于垃圾级。到 21 世纪初，互联网文件共享蔚然成风，随着专辑销量下降，音乐人的收入也在减少。
Still, Mr. Bowie's Wall Street collaboration inspired other celebrities to cash in while the getting was still good. Edward Holland, Brian Holland and Lamont Dozier, the Motown hit songwriters, did a deal, as did James Brown and Rod Stewart. In 2002, DreamWorks SKG entered into a $1 billion deal involving its film catalog.	不过，鲍伊与华尔街的合作启发了其他名人，他们在收入还不错的情况下也开始套现。摩城唱片(Motown)金曲作者爱德华·霍兰德(Edward Holland)、布赖恩·霍兰德(Brian Holland)和拉蒙特·齐尔(Lamont Dozier)达成了一个交易，詹姆斯·布朗(James Brown)和罗德·斯图尔特(Rod Stewart)也是如此。2002 年，梦工厂(DreamWorks SKG)达成了一项 10 亿美元的电影资料库交易。
Most asset-backed securities are secured by income generated from mortgages, credit card loans and auto loans. But mortgage-backed securities gave the sector a bad name during the financial crisis and investors backed off for a while.	大多数资产担保证券，都是通过抵押贷款、信用卡贷款和汽车贷款产生的收入获利的。但在金融危机期间，抵押贷款担保证券毁了这一行的名声，投资者也离开了一段时间。
Issuance of asset-backed securities dropped 16.6 percent last year, to $184 billion, with a steep drop off in deals backed by credit card loans, according to the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association.	证券业和金融市场协会的资料显示，资产担保证券去年的发行量下滑 16.6%，至 1840 亿美元，信用卡贷款担保交易量出现暴跌。
Deals backed by unusual assets make up about a tenth of the asset-backed security market, appealing to investors who want higher yields and are willing to take on more risk.	在资产担保证券市场中，用非常规资产担保的交易约占十分之一，它们吸引的是那些追求更高收益率，也愿意承担更多风险的投资者。
"There's a nonanalytic aspect to these deals that makes them riskier," says Sylvain Raynes, a founder of R&R Consulting who worked at Moody's at the time the Bowie bond was being rated.	"这类交易存在一种非分析性，因此它们风险更高，"咨询公司 R&R Consulting 创始人西尔万·雷恩斯(Sylvain Raynes)说。鲍伊债券接受评级的时候，雷恩斯在穆迪工作。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160112/c12db-bowiebonds	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160112/c12db-bowiebonds
ChemChina Buying KraussMaffei, a German Machinery Company, for $1 Billion	中国化工 9.25 亿欧元购德企，创对德投资纪录

Hong Kong — The China National Chemical Corporation said on Monday that it would buy the KraussMaffei Group, a German manufacturer of plastics and rubber processing machinery, for about $1 billion.	香港——中国化工集团公司周一宣布，将出资约 10 亿美元，收购德国塑料和橡胶加工机械制造商克劳斯玛菲集团(KraussMaffei Group)。
The state-owned China National Chemical, known as ChemChina, has formed a consortium with the Guoxin International Investment Corporation and AGIC Capital to pay 925 million euros for KraussMaffei. The German company is owned by Onex, a Canadian private equity firm, and the sale is the biggest investment by a Chinese company in a German one.	中国化工集团公司是一家国有企业，简称中化。该公司与国新国际投资有限公司、汉德资本(AGIC Capital)联合出资 9.25 亿欧元收购克劳斯玛菲。克劳斯玛菲的所有人是加拿大私募股权公司 Onex。这笔交易是中国公司对德国企业进行的最大一笔投资。
“The KraussMaffei Group has significant development potential, especially in the important China market,” Ren Jianxin, the chairman of ChemChina, said in a news release. “We highly respect and trust its outstanding management team and superior Germany manufacturing technology, as well as high-end brands. We will retain the current management and employees and maintain the current corporate structure.”	“克劳斯玛菲集团的发展潜力是巨大的，特别是在重要的中国市场，”中化董事长任建新在新闻稿中说。“我们看中的是该公司杰出的管理层和德国制造的技术专长。我们将保留现有的管理层和员工，保持现有的企业结构。”
“The growth potential of the KraussMaffei Group is tremendous,” the release continued, “especially through improved access to the Chinese market, which we can make possible. We expect trends in the automotive industry toward advanced manufacturing and lightweight components will provide a huge development opportunity for the high-end plastic injection molding industry.”	“克劳斯玛菲集团的增长潜力是巨大的，”新闻稿接着说。“尤其考虑到我们能帮助开拓和增强其在中国市场的渠道。今后汽车业智能化、轻质化的发展趋势也将为新型高端塑化材料的注型业和装备业提供巨大的发展空间。”
The deal follows a record year for Chinese outbound investment, with 136 deals worth $31.3 billion in 2015, according to data from the deal	在这笔交易之前，中国的对外投资迎来了创纪录的一年。从交易追踪公司 Dealogic 的数据来看，2015 年中国的对外投资共达成了 136 笔交易，涉及

tracking firm Dealogic.	资金 313 亿美元。
ChemChina, one of China's largest chemical companies, has been on a buying spree, snapping up stakes in chemical, machinery and transport companies domestically and outside China. In March 2015, it purchased a 26 percent stake in Pirelli, the Italian tire maker, and it has been trying to woo Syngenta, the Swiss pesticide company.	作为中国最大的化工企业之一,中化开启了收购狂潮,争先抢购国内外化学、机械和运输公司的股份。2015年3月,该公司收购了加拿大轮胎生产商倍耐力(Pirelli)26%的股份。此外它还一直在努力争取瑞士杀虫剂公司 Syngenta。
Frank Stieler, KraussMaffei's chief executive, said the company expected to grow more quickly in China and Asia as part of ChemChina.	克劳斯玛菲集团首席执行官弗兰克·斯蒂勒(Frank Stieler)表示,在成为中化的一部分后,预计公司在中国和亚洲的增长会更快。
"Accelerated growth will have a sustained positive impact for the Company globally," Mr. Stieler said in a news release. "Our Company has a strong foundation, and we will continue to build on our strengths, and create new jobs around the world."	"加速的发展将使集团在全球范围内产生持久的正面影响。借助于我们全面的专业知识,我们拥有坚实的基础,并以此建立我们自己的优势。我们将在全球创造就业位置。"
The Onex Group bought KraussMaffei for €276 million in December 2012 and will receive €670 million when the deal is completed.	2012年12月收购克劳斯玛菲时,Onex集团花了2.76亿欧元。这笔交易完成时,该公司将获利6.70亿欧元。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160112/c12db-chemchina	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160112/c12db-chemchina
North Korea Is Newest Frontier for a Daredevil Investor	朝鲜:一个对冲基金经理眼中的未来财富之地
He searched for oil in the badlands of Somalia and fueled a stock market boom in Mongolia. He sued the world's smallest republic, far out in the Pacific, for a chunk of what it is worth.	他在索马里贫瘠的土地上寻找石油,助推蒙古股票市场一路飘红。他对远在太平洋上的、世界上面积最小的共和国提起诉讼,要求相当于整个国家价值一大块的赔偿。
Now, he is betting on North Korea.	现在,他正下注于朝鲜。
James Passin, a hedge fund manager at Firebird Management, believes the nuclear-armed country sits on as much as a billion barrels of crude — enough to make it as big a producer as Oklahoma. If the oil exists, he wants to help unlock it.	火鸟管理投资公司(Firebird Management)的对冲基金经理詹姆斯·帕辛(James Passin)认为,这个核武国家拥有可以生产10亿桶原油的石油储量,足以让它成为像俄克拉荷马州那么重要的石油产地。如果这一储量确凿,他想帮助释放它的价值。
"You have a country with 25 million people — young, highly disciplined,	"这是一个有2500万人口的国家,民众年轻、高度自律,且受过教育,它还

literate — and a strong military-industrial complex,” he said in an interview. “It’s possible that the early investors will be rewarded with potential for massive appreciation.”	有强大的军事工业，“他在接受采访时说道。“早期投资者有可能因其巨大的增值潜力而获得巨额回报。”
The risks of sinking cash — even just $7 million or so of Firebird’s $700 million in assets — into a neo-Stalinist state with labor camps and virtually no private property are obvious. The geopolitical volatility was on full display last week, as North Korea claimed that it had tested a hydrogen bomb. And Mr. Passin is treading on murky investment territory, given the American sanctions against the country.	将资金下注于一个有劳改营但几乎没有私人财产的新斯大林主义国家，其风险是显而易见的，哪怕只是将火鸟的7亿美元资产中的大约700万美元投注于此。上周，朝鲜称自己成功试爆了一枚氢弹，该地区的地缘政治不稳定性由此得到充分展示。考虑到美国可能会对朝鲜采取的制裁，帕辛正在踏入一片前景不明的投资领域。
His investors have experienced the wild rides that come with such frontier markets. Two of his funds are being liquidated after deep losses, including on banking in Iraq, gold in Armenia and oil and gas in Kenya.	他的投资者已经见识过因投资于这样的前沿市场而带来的剧烈起伏。他有两支基金因遭遇惨重损失正被清盘，其中包括对伊拉克银行业，亚美尼亚金矿和肯尼亚石油、天然气的投资。
But Mr. Passin isn’t deterred. “I see opportunities when other people are afraid,” he said.	但帕辛没有因此退却。“其他人感到害怕的时候，我看到的是机会，”他说。
Mr. Passin, 44, studied philosophy at St. John’s College in Maryland. He was inspired to enter finance, he said, in part by the story of Thales, a philosopher in ancient Greece who got rich by monopolizing olive presses before a bumper harvest he had foreseen in the stars.	现年44岁的帕辛曾在马里兰州圣约翰学院(St. John’s College)研修哲学。他说自己之所以进入金融领域，部分原因是受到古希腊哲学家泰勒斯(Thales)的启发。泰勒斯通过观察星象，预见来年橄榄要大丰收，便提前预租、垄断了所在地区的橄榄榨油作坊，由此获得巨大财富。
Contrarian instincts have led Mr. Passin to out-of-the-way markets like Chechnya, Congo and Somalia.	逆向投资的直觉让帕辛把目光投注于车臣、刚果和索马里等少有人问津的市场。
Joseph Naemi, one of Mr. Passin’s longtime business partners, recalled joining him in a brash attempt in 2002 to buy Uzbekistan’s national oil company, Uzbekneftegaz. They had a meeting with a dozen Uzbek government officials, and Mr. Passin’s pitch was simple: He was there to write a check for $600 million to $700 million to buy the entire	据帕辛长期的生意伙伴之一约瑟夫·纳埃米(Joseph Naemi)回忆，2002年他和帕辛一起进行投资，雄心勃勃地要收购乌兹别克斯坦国家石油天然气公司Uzbekneftegaz。他们和十多位乌兹别克斯坦政府官员进行会面，帕辛的提案非常简单：写一张六七亿美元的支票，表示要买下整个公司。但乌兹别克斯坦没有接受这个提议。 company. But the country did not go for the proposal.

"The skeptical look around the boardroom was actually hilarious," Mr. Naemi wrote in an email.	"整个会议室都是那种将信将疑的表情，实际上还挺滑稽，"纳埃米在一封邮件中写道。
In 2006, Mr. Passin toured Mongolia and zeroed in on its stock exchange. It was "just a room with some computers," Mr. Passin recalled.	2006年，帕辛到蒙古转了一圈，然后就把投资方向瞄准了蒙古证券交易所。其实"就是个放了几台电脑的屋子，"帕辛回忆道。
He said he snapped up shares in "anything that was listed." By 2011, the country's economy was clocking one of the fastest growth rates in the world — 17 percent a year — as vast troves of minerals were discovered under the steppes.	他说自己一口气买下"那里上市的所有公司"的股票。随着蒙古草原地下的巨大矿物储量被探明，该国经济经济增长率迅速飙升，至2011年达到17%，是全球最高的国家之一。
Since then, Mongolia's bull market has crashed, Mr. Passin said, and the economy has slowed. But he is redoubling his efforts there, aiming to construct a set of world-class Mongolian corporations — a project he has broadly likened to the empire-building of Genghis Khan.	帕辛表示，自那之后，蒙古的牛市结束，经济发展开始放缓。但他还在加大对蒙古的投资，目标是要创建一些世界级的蒙古大企业，他宽泛地做比，将之与成吉思汗建立的蒙古帝国相提并论。
Mr. Passin is also wagering on distressed debt in the South Pacific. Firebird has been suing the tiny, destitute island nation of Nauru for repayment on about $24 million of defaulted government-backed bonds, equal to about one-sixth the country's gross domestic product.	帕辛也在押注南太平洋的不良债务。火鸟正对一穷二白的小小岛国瑙鲁提起诉讼，要求它偿还由政府担保的价值约2400万美元的违约贷款，这相当于瑙鲁国民生产总值的大约六分之一。
Firebird, which bought the bonds from the original creditors at a fraction of their face value, stands to make money if it wins. The hedge fund has been fighting in Australian courts to garnish Nauru's state bank accounts — and briefly succeeded in freezing the accounts.	火鸟从原先的债权人那里以相对于票面价值极其低廉的成本买下这些债权，如果它赢得诉讼，让对方偿还贷款，就可以赚不少钱。该对冲基金一直在澳大利亚法庭上竭力争取，要求法院扣押瑙鲁国有银行一些账户的资产，并曾在短时间内成功冻结了这些账户。
"We will go to every corner of the world to find assets," he said.	"我会走遍全世界各个角落，搜寻有价值的资产，"他说。
Mr. Passin's North Korean investments may be his most contentious.	帕辛对朝鲜的投资大概是他的投资项目中最具争议性的一个。
Firebird owns nearly half of a Mongolian company, HBOil, which	火鸟拥有蒙古公司HBOil近一半的股份，后者在2013年与金正恩的政府成

entered a joint venture with the government of Kim Jong-un in 2013. The partnership gave the small company expansive rights to overhaul North Korea's primitive energy sector by opening 100 gas stations, restarting a derelict refinery and drilling for oil and gas.	立了一家合资企业。这种合作关系赋予了这家小公司广泛权力，去整改朝鲜的能源部门：在该国开设 100 个加油站、重新启用一家荒废的炼油厂，并去开采石油和天然气。
The projects have yet to materialize. Companies have been searching for oil and gas there since the 1980s, and it remains unclear whether the country has any significant quantities.	这个项目目前还没有真正实施。自 1980 年代起，就有公司一直在朝鲜探测石油和天然气储藏，但目前还不能确定该国是否有够大的储量。
Mr. Naemi, who is advising HBOil, believes there are deep reserves of oil — perhaps as much as a billion recoverable barrels on land. But the current low price of oil means that if it exists, and can be extracted, it still might not be profitable.	给 HBOil 公司提供咨询服务的纳埃米表示，他相信那里有相当多的石油储量——或许足以开采出 10 亿桶原油。但目前油价比较低，这意味着就算它的存在，而且能被开采出来，可能也赚不了钱。
Mr. Passin's investment also raises legal questions. Alexandra López-Casero, a sanctions lawyer at the Boston-based law firm Nixon Peabody, said the investment might violate American sanctions against North Korea absent a license from the Treasury Department in Washington. Other experts disagree, noting that the United States has not issued a blanket prohibition on investing in the North.	帕辛的这项投资还有一些法律方面的问题。总部位于波士顿的律所尼克松-皮博迪(Nixon Peabody)处理制裁案件的律师亚历山大·洛佩斯-卡塞罗(Alexandra López-Casero)表示，这项投资可能违反了美国对朝鲜的制裁，因为它没有获得美国财政部的许可。有些专家不同意这种观点，他们指出，美国并没有全面禁止针对朝鲜的投资。
Mr. Passin said that Firebird had neither sought such a license nor needed one. He added that an expert had reviewed the venture for him and concluded that it was legal.	帕辛表示，火鸟不需要，也不会申请这样的许可。他还表示，一名专家已经帮他评估了这个合资企业，结果认为它是合法的。
Some analysts worry that any oil exploitation would fortify Mr. Kim and others in the country's ruling elite. "The security risk is not small, as the oil business in D.P.R.K. is exclusively handled by the Communist Party and the military," said Keun-Wook Paik, an expert on North Korean oil at the research institution Chatham House, using the abbreviation for the	一些分析人士担忧，在朝鲜进行石油开发可能会增强金正恩及该国其他统治精英的力量。“其中的安全风险可不小，因为朝鲜的石油生意都是由该国共产党（即劳动党——译注）和军队垄断经营，”研究机构皇家国际事务研究所(Chatham House)的朝鲜石油问题专家白均旭(Keun-Wook Paik)说。“这就像打开了一个潘多拉盒子。”

Democratic People's Republic of Korea, the country's official name. "It will be a kind of Pandora box opening."
Mr. Passin dismisses such concerns.	帕辛没有这样的顾虑。
He said business with North Korea would both benefit ordinary people and encourage the totalitarian state apparatus to become "more open and less harsh." Besides, he argued, if the West avoided commerce with unsavory nations, much of the world would be off limits.	他表示, 与朝鲜做生意不仅能惠及普通朝鲜人, 还能鼓励这个极权国家政府变得"更加开放, 不那么严苛。"他还表示, 如果西方避免和所有不受其欢迎的国家做生意, 世界大部分地区都成禁区了。
"I believe there are companies that will emerge out of the D.P.R.K. that will be of lasting importance," he said. "That will survive for centuries."	"我相信朝鲜会出现一批企业, 它们会长期扮演重要角色,"他说。"而且会持续存在好几个世纪。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160114/c14db-passin	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160114/c14db-passin
Al Jazeera America to Shut Down by April	水土不服, 半岛电视台将关闭美国频道
The cable news channel Al Jazeera America, which debuted in 2013 to great fanfare when it promised to cover American news soberly and seriously, is shutting down by the end of April. The move was announced at a companywide meeting on Wednesday.	2013年, 半岛电视台美国频道(Al Jazeera America)在万众期待中开播, 当时承诺以冷静严肃的态度播报美国新闻。如今, 这一频道却将于今年4月底停播。该决议是在本周三的公司全会中宣布的。
In a memo to the staff, Al Jazeera America's chief executive, Al Anstey, said the "decision by Al Jazeera America's board is driven by the fact that our business model is simply not sustainable in light of the economic challenges in the U.S. media marketplace."	在致员工的备忘录中, 半岛电视台美国频道首席执行官埃尔·安思蒂(Al Anstey)表示, "董事会之所以作出这一决定, 是基于我们的运营模式无法应对美国传媒市场的经济挑战。"
"I know the closure of AJAM will be a massive disappointment for everyone here who has worked tirelessly for our long-term future," he continued. "The decision that has been made is in no way because AJAM has done anything but a great job. Our commitment to great journalism is unrivaled."	"我知道半岛电视台美国频道的关闭, 令在座所有人深感失望。各位一直在为我们的长远前景在孜孜不倦地努力,"他还说。"作出这一决定, 绝不是因为半岛电视台美国频道表现不佳。相反, 我们打造的优秀新闻出类拔萃。"
Al Jazeera America went on the air in August 2013 after it bought Al	以5亿美元收购美国前副总统阿尔·戈尔(Al Gore)创立的 Current 有线电视

Gore's Current TV for $500 million. It promised to be thoughtful and smart, free of the shouting arguments that have defined cable news in the United States over the last decade. But meaningful viewership never came, with prime-time ratings sometimes struggling to exceed 30,000 viewers.	台后，半岛电视台美国频道于2013年8月正式开播。它承诺致力于播报洞察深刻的新闻报道，避免过去10年间美国有线新闻台大吵大嚷的风气。然而，它一直未能获得足够的观众，黄金档的收视有时十分努力才突破3万人次。
To make matters worse, the newsroom was hit with turmoil last year when staff members complained bitterly of a culture of fear. There was an exodus of top executives, along with a pair of lawsuits from former employees that included complaints about sexism and anti-Semitism at the news channel.	去年，新闻编辑室陷入混乱令事态雪上加霜，员工愤怒地抱怨工作氛围充斥着恐惧。多名高层离职，前雇员对新闻台内部存在性别歧视和反犹太主义的两起诉讼又起风波。
In May, Ehab Al Shihabi, the chief executive of Al Jazeera America, was replaced by Mr. Anstey. Morale improved in the following months but ratings remained low.	去年5月，半岛电视台美国频道前台长埃哈伯·谢哈比(Ehab Al Shihabi)被安思蒂取而代之。此后数月，台内士气有所提振，但收视率依然不高。
And Al Jazeera America has not been free of controversy in recent months. In November, the news station's general counsel, David W. Harleston, was suspended following a report in The New York Times that he did not appear to be licensed to practice law. In late December, Al Jazeera aired an hourlong documentary that linked some of the biggest stars in Major League Baseball and the National Football League to performance-enhancing drugs. The most prominent athlete mentioned in the report was the Denver Broncos quarterback Peyton Manning, who angrily denied the report, calling it "complete garbage" and "totally made up."	在过去几个月间，半岛电视台美国频道依然争议不断。去年11月，《纽约时报》报道，该频道的总法律顾问戴维·W·哈尔斯顿 (David W. Harleston) 似乎并不具备律师执业资格，他随后被停职。去年12月末，半岛电视台美国频道播放了一部长约一小时的纪录片，内容涉及美国职业棒球大联盟(MLB)和美国职业橄榄球联盟(NFL)的顶级球星服用兴奋剂。该报道涉及的最大牌的球星是丹佛野马队(Denver Broncos)的四分卫佩顿·曼宁(Peyton Manning)。他愤怒地否认了报道内容，称之为“一派胡言”、“全盘捏造”。
As part of Wednesday's announcement, Mr. Anstey said that after the cable news network shuts down by April 30, Al Jazeera would expand	在本周三的声明中，安思蒂还表示，频道于4月30日停播后，半岛会在美国扩大数字服务，将“为美国带来新的国际视野”。 its digital presence in the United States. The expansion “would bring new global content into America.”

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160114/c14jazeera	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160114/c14jazeera
China Embraces Craft Beers, and Brewing Giants Take Notice	进口高端啤酒在华走红，啤酒巨头瞄准新商机
HONG KONG — When Jin Xin first started selling imported premium beer a decade ago, his bar manager predicted that it would take a month or two just to sell a single case. But within a few years business picked up, and soon customers started frequenting the bar for its India pale ales and other European beers.	香港——金鑫十年前刚开始销售进口优质啤酒的时候，他的酒吧经理预计或许一、两个月才能卖出一箱。但过了几年，酒吧生意就兴旺了起来，顾客很快开始在这里流连，饮用印度淡啤酒和其他欧洲啤酒。
Now, one of Mr. Jin’s bars, NBeerPub, tucked away in a laid-back part of Beijing’s old town, buzzes with young Chinese customers ordering imports like Delirium Tremens, Lindemans Framboise and Brewdog Punk IPA. Mr. Jin even sold a bottle of Brewmeister Snake Venom, a high-alcohol barleywine-style beer from Scotland, for about 2,700 renminbi, or more than $420.	金鑫的一个酒吧牛啤堂(NBeerPub)坐落在北京老城区里的一块休闲之处，现在有很多中国年轻人光顾这里，饮用 Delirium Tremens、Lindemans Framboise 和 Brewdog Punk IPA 之类的进口啤酒。金鑫甚至把苏格兰酿造的高度数麦芽啤酒 Brewmeister Snake Venom 卖到了大约 2700 元人民币一瓶。
“Slowly, Chinese people have more money in their pocket,” Mr. Jin, 43, said in his apartment, where over 6,000 bottles from more than 60 countries filled the shelves. “After they have money, some want something better in terms of taste as well as lifestyle, especially young people.”	“慢慢的，中国口袋里钱多了，”43 岁的金鑫在他的公寓里说，酒架上摆放着 6000 多瓶来自世界 60 多个国家的酒。“有了钱之后，有的人就向往更好的口味，更好生活方式，尤其是年轻人。”
As tastes rapidly change, Chinese consumers are swapping mass-produced local beers for imports and local craft beers.	中国消费者的口味迅速变化，他们正在从大规模生产的本地啤酒转向国内外的精酿啤酒。
It is the type of opportunity that is at the heart of Anheuser-Busch InBev’s $106 billion deal to buy SABMiller, its rival global brewer. While major markets in Europe and the United States have been sluggish,	百威英博(Anheuser-Busch InBev)斥资 1060 亿美元收购对手南非米勒(SABMiller)啤酒公司，就是看准了这样的机遇。虽然在欧美主要市场一直低迷，但像中国这样的发展中市场为他们提供了不断扩大的顾客群和较强的盈

developing markets like China offer a growing customer base and the potential for a stronger profit.	利潜力。
The Chinese middle class is swelling with young, affluent professionals who are more willing to spend money on brands and who are experienced travelers looking for a taste of other countries back home. And in China, most beer is still considered affordable. So sales have held up relatively well even as wine, the Chinese spirit baijiu and other more expensive liquors have been hit by the country's anticorruption crackdown and the slowing economy.	中国中产阶级的规模正在蓬勃壮大, 年轻富裕的专业人士更愿意把钱花在品牌上, 经验丰富的旅行者回到国内后也想追寻其他国家的滋味。而在中国, 人们仍然认为大多数啤酒的价格很亲民。因此, 虽然像葡萄酒、白酒和其他比较昂贵的酒类受到了中国反腐行动和经济放缓的冲击, 但啤酒的销售形势相对较好。
"It's an escape route from maturity in the West," said Spiros Malandrakis, a senior analyst of alcoholic drinks at the research firm Euromonitor International, referring to the established markets of the United States and Europe.	"这是逃离西方成熟市场的一条出路," 酒精饮料研究机构欧睿国际 (Euromonitor International)的高级分析师斯皮罗斯·马兰拉基思 (Spiros Malandrakis)说, 他指的是美国和欧洲的成熟市场。
In China, Anheuser-Busch InBev and SABMiller are betting on premium products.	在中国, 百威英博和南非米勒把赌注押在了高端产品上。
The two beer behemoths were among the first international entrants into China in the 1990s and initially teamed with local brewers. At the time, domestic breweries produced beer of inconsistent quality, but they were quickly multiplying, and consumption was soaring along with disposable incomes.	这两家啤酒巨头都属于1990年代进入中国, 与本地酿酒商合作的第一批跨国公司。当时, 中国国内的酿酒厂生产的啤酒质量很不稳定, 但产量很快就成倍增长, 销量也随着民众可支配收入的提高而飙升。
SABMiller took a 49 percent stake in a joint venture that makes Snow, which is now China's best-selling beer brand. Anheuser-Busch InBev has since bought Harbin and Sedrin, two other top domestic brands. Together, the international brewers account for about one-third of the overall beer market in China.	雪花啤酒是目前中国销量最大的啤酒品牌, 南非米勒持有这家合资公司49%的股份。百威英博后来收购了中国的另外两个顶级品牌哈尔滨啤酒和雪津啤酒 (Sedrin)。整体来说, 国际酿酒商占据了中国啤酒市场的大约三分之一。

As they pursue a merger, given their dominance, Anheuser-Busch InBev and SABMiller are expected to prune their portfolio in China to keep regulators happy, though it remains unclear where the trimming will be done. Some analysts think they would be able financially to justify the sale of a big domestic brand like Snow, since the market is moving toward premium offerings.	鉴于百威英博和南非米勒的市场支配地位，双方在寻求兼并的时候，可能会削减在中国持有的资产，以免引起管理机构的不满，不过目前还不清楚具体将如何调整。一些分析人士认为，从财务角度看，它们出售像雪花啤酒这样的中国大品牌是合理的，因为市场正朝着高端产品迁移。
“They might be forced to divest, but it might not be the end of the world for them, because Snow is not necessarily the price point for them,” said Shaun Rein, founder of China Market Research in Shanghai. “Consumers are looking for better quality.”	“它们可能会被迫撤资，但这或许不是世界末日，因为雪花啤酒对它们来说未必就是价值点，”市场研究机构上海 CMR 集团的创始人雷小山(Shaun Rein)说。“消费者正在寻求更高的品质。”
When the deal was announced, Anheuser-Busch InBev said it would “promptly and proactively” resolve any regulatory issues in China.	兼并交易宣布的时候，百威英博表示，将“迅速而积极”地解决中国的任何监管问题。
The focus follows the shift in the market in recent years.	对于中国的关注源于近几年市场的变化。
Imports have swiftly grown to 1.4 billion renminbi in 2013, or around $220 million, from 335 million renminbi in 2009. But the total volume of beer sales in China has dipped of late.	啤酒进口额从 2009 年的 3.35 亿元人民币迅速增长至 2013 年的 14 亿元，但啤酒在中国的总体销售量最近有所下降。
Homegrown craft beers are gaining favor. Beijing is home to about half a dozen microbreweries, and others have popped up in cities across China.	本土精酿啤酒正受到人们的青睐。北京本地有大约六家小型精酿啤酒商，中国其他城市也纷纷涌现出这样的啤酒商。
At the Jing-A Brewing Taproom in Beijing, the owners, transplants from Connecticut and Toronto, serve American-inspired beers with local flair, including Worker’s Pale Ale, Airpocalypse Double IPA and Mandarin Wheat.	北京的京 A 啤酒酿造作坊的老板来自美国康涅狄格州和加拿大多伦多，他们将美国风味与本地特色结合起来，供应工人淡色啤酒、空气大爆表双 IPA 和京城特白小麦啤酒。
Ji Chen, a banker, developed a taste for fine beer as a student in Belgium. When he returned to China, Mr. Chen, now 28, started buying	现年 28 岁的纪晨在银行工作，他在比利时留学的时候喜欢上了精酿啤酒。回到中国后，纪晨开始购买超市的进口啤酒，流连于精酿啤酒酒吧。 imported beer at the supermarket and hanging out at brew pubs.

"I don't think it's expensive," he said, sipping the Flying Fist IPA at Jing-A. "If you go out to drink at a bar, you would have to spend this much for any drink you get. And craft beers here are of good quality."	"我觉得不贵，"纪晨在京 A 酒吧抿了一口飞拳 IPA 说。"你去任何一家酒吧，买什么酒都得花这些钱。这里的精酿啤酒质量非常好。"
The high-end varieties can fatten a company's bottom line.	高端产品可以提升企业的利润。
"All of this premiumization and trading up is the biggest revenue driver of our industry," Jean Jereissati, Anheuser-Busch InBev's China president, said at an investor seminar in September. "And it is very relevant for our company."	"这种产品高端化和消费升级是我们行业最大的营收动力，"百威英博中国区总裁让·热雷萨蒂(Jean Jereissati)去年 9 月参加投资者研讨会时说。"这与我们公司密切相关。"
Anheuser-Busch InBev and SABMiller are digging deep into their cooler of longtime brands in the hope of attracting more discerning customers. In part, they are promoting the provenance of their brands.	百威英博和南非米勒都在深挖公司旗下历史悠久的品牌，希望吸引更多目光挑剔的顾客。它们的部分策略是宣传品牌的起源。
When Budweiser Supreme was introduced, the company projected a video detailing the recipe's origins and ingredients onto a giant bottle in various Chinese cities. Against a striking soundtrack, the company described how the beer had the "rich aroma of wheat malt flavor and aristocratic bearing."	在中国多座城市推广百威金樽啤酒(Budweiser Supreme)时，该公司把一段视频映在了巨大的瓶子上，视频详细讲述了配方的起源和原料的选择。伴随着令人扣人心弦的音乐，该公司介绍道，这款啤酒"有香浓麦味，贵族的气质"。
Lifestyle, too, is major selling point.	生活方式也是一个重要的卖点。
Other advertisements featured Budweiser Supreme being poured in a restaurant by a waiter wearing white gloves. In the summer, women in their 20s, wearing dresses with Corona or Budweiser logos and sometimes long white boots, were often seen milling around the bars and chatting with customers in the upscale Sanlitun area of Beijing.	其他广告展示了戴着白手套的服务员在餐厅为顾客倒百威金樽啤酒的场景。夏天的时候，经常会在消费水平较高的北京三里屯看到一些 20 多岁的女性，身穿印有科罗娜(Corona)或百威商标的裙子，有时还穿着白色长靴，穿梭于各个酒吧与顾客聊天。
"They put a lot of money into the marketing, the heritage — all those things make consumers pay more for it," said Jonny Forsyth, a global	"他们花了很多钱营销，宣传品牌传承，促使顾客花更多钱消费，"市场调研机构明特尔(Mintel)全球饮品行业分析师容尼·福赛思(Jonny Forsyth)说。"这

drinks analyst at Mintel, a research firm. "That's what's been missing in China. Younger people are more receptive to it."	是中国缺乏的东西，年轻人更容易接受。”
The message is getting through to consumers, who are increasingly willing to pay for beer.	这种理念已在消费者当中传开，他们愈发愿意为啤酒花钱。
At Heaven Supermarket, a store and bar with a backpacker vibe, Chen Jing, 30, browsed through the imported beer with her boyfriend, both of them clutching beers that cost about 50 renminbi each, or nearly $8. A bottle of Snow from the grocery store next door cost just 1.9 renminbi, or about 30 cents.	在有着背包客气质的酒铺兼酒吧天堂超市，30岁的陈晶和男朋友在浏览各种进口啤酒，两人都拿了每瓶价格大约50元的啤酒。而隔壁小卖部的雪花啤酒每瓶才卖1.9元。
Most of the bottles going through the checkout at Heaven are overseas varieties like Hoegaarden, Corona and Budweiser, selling for 15 renminbi. And the store, across the road from a Rolls-Royce and Bentley dealership, is not short of people perusing more expensive beers, which can cost up to 100 renminbi, or about $15.	天堂超市销量最高的品类是福佳(Hoegaarden)、科罗娜和百威等进口啤酒，每瓶售价15元人民币。这家位于劳斯莱斯和宾利专卖店对面的商店并不缺少购买昂贵啤酒的顾客，这些啤酒的价格会高达100元人民币一瓶。
Ms. Chen started drinking foreign beer after vacationing around China and Southeast Asia. She has taken such a liking to the beer culture that she is planning a holiday in Belgium.	陈晶在中国及东南亚旅行之后便开始喝外国啤酒了。她深爱啤酒文化，正在计划去比利时度假。
"I would rather be spending money on few quality beers than buying lots of cheap beers and feeling full and headachy," she said. "It's more about the lifestyle I choose than simply drinking."	“我宁愿花钱买几瓶好酒，也不愿意买一堆便宜货，喝完了感觉很胀，还头疼，”她说。“这不只是喝酒的问题，更多的是我选择的生活方式。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160118/c18db-chinabeer	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160118/c18db-chinabeer
Muting the Global Dialogue in Davos	达沃斯论坛为何回避争议
The invitation was sent. And then, two weeks later, revoked.	邀请已经发出，但两周后，邀请被撤销了。
The World Economic Forum, which on Wednesday begins its annual meeting in Davos, Switzerland, brings together political and business	世界经济论坛(World Economic Forum)将于周三在瑞士达沃斯召开年会，政界和商界领袖汇聚一堂，讨论全球最紧迫的问题。过去数年里，弗拉基米

leaders to discuss the world's most pressing problems. In years past, Vladimir V. Putin has attended. So has Bill Gates. This year, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr. will attend.	尔·V·普京(Vladimir V. Putin)出席了会议。比尔·盖茨(Bill Gates)也出席了。今年, 副总统小约瑟夫·R·拜登(Joseph R. Biden Jr.)将出席会议。
And so it wasn't a complete surprise to see that the foreign minister of North Korea, Ri Su-Yong, had accepted an invitation to attend the summit meeting in the Swiss Alps.	因此, 朝鲜外相李洙墉(Ri Su-yong)接到前往瑞士阿尔卑斯山参加今年峰会的邀请, 也不是特别出人意料。
But in early January, after North Korea's fourth nuclear test, which was broadly condemned, the World Economic Forum revoked Mr. Ri's invitation. North Korea said the forum had "unilaterally canceled the participation" of its delegation "based on unjust political motivation, which clearly runs counter to the nature and position of WEF as an international forum for discussion of economic issues."	但在1月初, 朝鲜进行了第四次核试验, 遭到了广泛谴责, 然后世界经济论坛就撤销了这份邀请。朝鲜表示, 论坛"单方面取消"其代表团的参会资格是出于"不公正的政治动机, 这显然违背了世界经济论坛作为一个讨论经济问题的国际论坛的性质和定位"。
The World Economic Forum, through one of its board members, Philipp Rösler, explained its decision. "We decided after the nuclear test that at the moment there would be no opportunity for an international, global dialogue in the spirit of the World Economic Forum," he said.	世界经济论坛委派董事会成员菲利普·罗斯勒(Philipp Rösler)对该决定作出了解释。"在这次核试验之后, 我们认为, 目前没有本着世界经济论坛的精神, 开展国际化、全球化对话的机会," 他说。
But why? If the World Economic Forum isn't an opportunity to have an "international, global dialogue" about North Korea's nuclear ambitions, especially with its foreign minister in attendance, then what's the point? After all, the forum's stated purpose is to "improve the state of the world."	但为什么呢? 如果世界经济论坛不是一个就朝鲜的核野心, 开展"国际化、全球化对话"的机会, 特别是在该国外相出席的情况下, 那它还有什么意义呢? 毕竟, 这个论坛的既定宗旨就是"改善世界状况"。
Even though Davos has sometimes been criticized as a boondoggle for the business elite, it has often been the stage for meaningful debate and compromise among policy makers. In 1994, for instance, the Palestinian leader, Yasir Arafat, and the Israeli foreign minister, Shimon Peres,	尽管达沃斯有时被诟病为商业精英的清谈之所, 但它也常常提供舞台, 让政治决策者进行有意义的辩论和妥协。例如在1994年, 巴勒斯坦领导人亚西尔·阿拉法特(Yasir Arafat)和以色列外长希蒙·佩雷斯(Shimon Peres)在这个舞台上握了手。在那六年之前的1988年, 希腊和土耳其签署了称作《达沃

entered the stage holding hands. Six years before, in 1988, Greece and Turkey signed a no-war agreement called the “Davos Declaration.” Its so-called multistakeholder approach — which was adopted in the recent climate change negotiations in Paris — can yield notable results.	斯宣言》(Davos Declaration)的不交战协议。该论坛让多方利益相关者参与的方式，有时会带来可观的成效——最近在巴黎举行的气候变化谈判就采用了这种模式。
At the same time, however, it seems like much of the conversations in Davos are a form of sanitized debate.	然而与此同时，达沃斯的很多对话都是一种“消过毒”的辩论。
“To attract all these famous politicians, billionaires and celebrities,” Bill Emmott, former editor of The Economist, once wrote, “they have made the event safe.”	“为了吸引各种著名的政治人物、富豪和名人，”《经济学人》(The Economist)前主编比尔·艾默特(Bill Emmott)曾经写道，“他们把这个会议开得很安全。”
“I don’t mean safe from terrorism, though I hope that is true,” he continued. “I mean safe from surprises and controversy. Things are arranged to avoid argument, confrontation, provocation.”	“我说的安全不是指不会受到恐怖袭击，虽然我也希望能保障那种安全，”他接着说。“我指的是没有意外，不发生争议的安全。他们做了安排，来防止争论、对抗和挑衅的发生。”
Two years ago, the Ukrainian prime minister, Mykola Azarov, who had flown to Davos and was scheduled to speak on a Friday afternoon, was disinvited from the conference after several protesters were shot in Kiev. He stayed in his hotel room, and criticized the snub in an interview with The Financial Times.	两年前，乌克兰总理米克拉·阿扎罗夫(Mykola Azarov)已经飞抵达沃斯，原本定于在一个周五的下午发表讲话，但几名抗议者在基辅遭到枪击后，主办方撤回了对他的邀请。他待在酒店房间里接受英国《金融时报》(The Financial Times)采访时，批评了这种怠慢的态度。
“The forum had a unique opportunity to listen to the head of government of Ukraine, to get a wider point of view — it’s hard to tell who lost more in this affair,” Mr. Azarov said in the interview.	阿扎罗夫接受采访时说，“该论坛本来有一个独一无二的机会，来倾听乌克兰政府首脑的意见，了解更广泛的观点。很难说在这件事上谁的损失更大。”
For several years at Davos, the topic of WikiLeaks dominated the conversation among policy experts and business leaders. Was Julian Assange, the founder of WikiLeaks, ever asked to address the forum? No. Edward J. Snowden, the former National Security Agency contractor who leaked millions of documents about electronic	多年来，维基解密(WikiLeaks)一直是政策专家及商业领袖在达沃斯论坛上讨论的主要话题。维基解密的创始人朱利安·阿桑奇(Julian Assange)曾受邀到该论坛发言吗？没有。美国国家安全局(National Security Agency)前承包商雇员爱德华·J·斯诺登(Edward J. Snowden)在泄露了数百万份有关美国电子监控计划的文件后流亡俄罗斯。他在俄罗斯通过视频参加了几次活动。但他

surveillance by the United States government, has taken part in several events by video from Russia, where he is exiled. But he has never been invited, either.	也从未受到邀请。
Of course, the forum has to be vigilant in creating its guest list and programming, as it does not want to become a weeklong stage for world leaders to blast each other or promote dangerous ideas.	当然，该论坛在邀请嘉宾、安排日程时需要保持警惕，因为它不想让这一周的时间成为世界领导人互相抨击或宣扬危险思想的舞台。
But some critics have long said that the conference is too carefully curated.	但一些批评人士早就表示，该论坛的组织工作过于谨慎。
"The World Economic Forum is an intensely orchestrated event with nothing left to chance," Frank Vogl wrote in the Global Policy Forum in 2001. "Every topic for discussion is carefully considered and researched, every participant is thoroughly prescreened and every moment of every day is micromanaged. The Forum is programmed to tick like the best Swiss watch."	"世界经济论坛是一场缜密安排的活动，一切都不能有差池，"弗兰克·福格尔(Frank Vogl)于2001年在《全球政策论坛》(Global Policy Forum)上写道。"每个讨论话题都经过了仔细考虑和研究，每个参与者都经过预先筛选，每一天的每一个时刻都受到了细致入微的管理。该论坛就像最好的瑞士表一样精准运转。"
Certain subjects have been avoided. Until last year, for example, discussions that focused on the rights of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people were not on the agenda, in part, because certain delegations from the Middle East and Eastern Europe objected to the topic.	某些话题会被避开。比如，直到去年，有关男女同性恋、双性恋或跨性别人群的权利的讨论，都没有进入过议事日程。部分是因为一些来自中东及东欧的代表团反对讨论这种话题。
As for North Korea, the situation was perhaps untenable. The country's participation at Davos would have made it difficult for someone like Mr. Biden and Prime Minister David Cameron of Britain to attend without being criticized.	至于朝鲜，情况或许会变得很棘手。如果朝鲜参加论坛，拜登、英国首相戴维·卡梅伦(David Cameron)等嘉宾很难不遭到批评。
Choe Myong-nam, deputy ambassador at North Korea's diplomatic mission in Geneva, said, "the decision by WEF is based on political	朝鲜驻日内瓦外交使团副大使崔明南(Choe Myong-nam)表示，"世界经济论坛是基于政治动机做出这一决定的，因为组织者突然决定取消邀请，选择

motivation because the organizer has suddenly decided to cancel, taking sides with the belligerent United States and its allies that are pursuing hostile policies against" the country. "We are 100 percent sure there is pressure and even blackmail."	支持好战的美国和那些对朝鲜奉行敌对政策的盟友。"他说，"我们百分之百确定，有人在施压，甚至是要挟。"
North Korea, of course, is just one challenge in a world that has become increasingly complex and dangerous. In today's environment, with escalating terrorist attacks and heightened economic and political instability, it is perhaps unfair to look to Davos as some sort of panacea for the world's problems. A conference of disparate voices works only if all parties attend. But in an increasingly divisive world, it may be harder to get them all in the same room.	当然，朝鲜只是这个愈发复杂和危险的世界面临的挑战之一。在当今的环境中，恐怖袭击不断升级，经济及政治动荡不断加剧，把达沃斯的世界经济论坛看作解决世界问题的灵丹妙药或许是不公平的。要想举行一场存在不同声音的会议，首先要各方都参与才行。但在这个分歧加剧的世界，把他们请进同一间屋子，或许更难了。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160119/c19db-sorkin	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160119/c19db-sorkin
Davos Takes a Fresh Look at Emerging Markets	达沃斯和新兴市场的美好理想终结了吗？
Ever since emerging markets became a major asset class in the early 1990s, a parade of potentates, policy makers and corporate chieftains have flocked to the stylish village of Davos in the Swiss Alps in the hope of becoming the latest global meme.	自从新兴市场在 90 年代初成为一项主要资产类别以来，许多当权者、决策者和企业负责人蜂拥前往瑞士阿尔卑斯山区的时髦小镇达沃斯，希望成为全球最新的米姆(meme)。
The growth revolution in China, the emergence of oil-driven sovereign wealth in the Middle East and Brazil's economic miracle have all been celebrated, one time or another, by the global elites who gather at the World Economic Forum in Davos each January to ponder the world.	每年 1 月份全球精英都会聚集在达沃斯参加世界经济论坛(World Economic Forum)，对世界大事进行思考。而中国的增长革命、中东地区由石油驱动的主权财富的崛起，以及巴西的经济奇迹都曾得到过他们的欢庆。
From 2000 on, the Davos boom and the emerging markets boom have been pretty much one and the same, a living ideal of globalization helped by central banks that have printed trillions of dollars of new money.	从 2000 年以来，达沃斯的红火和新兴市场的繁荣几乎完全是一回事，代表了一种由印制了数万亿美元新钞票的各国央行帮助实现的全球化生活理想。

But now, as interest rates in the United States begin to rise, these dollars have begun to flow out of China, the Middle East and Latin America. Growth rates are stumbling, debt levels rising and geopolitical fears spreading.	但现在，随着美国利率开始上升，这些钱开始从中国、中东和拉丁美洲流出。新兴市场增长率受挫，债务水平上升，而地缘政治的担忧也在蔓延。
Over the last year, the exodus has gathered pace, fed by worries that China will lose control of its currency, the price of oil will drop to $20 a barrel and Brazil's problems will worsen.	过去一年中，大批资金加快了外流的步伐，而这一现象主要由几点担忧引发：中国将失去对货币的控制力、油价将下降到每桶 20 美元、巴西的问题将更为恶化。
And many now say that this rosy, Davos-fueled notion of a world powered by emerging-market growth and innovation needs to be reconsidered.	现在许多人提出，需要重新考虑一下这种达沃斯倡议的由新兴市场增长和创新驱动的美好世界的概念。
"I have long maintained that the emerging-market hype was oversold when it was clear that what was going on was high commodity prices and cheap money," said Dani Rodrik, an expert on globalization at the Harvard Kennedy School.	"我一直坚持认为，新兴市场热太过头了，很明显不过是大宗商品价格高企、信贷宽松，"哈佛大学肯尼迪学院的全球化问题专家丹尼·罗德里克(Dani Rodrik)说。
As for the World Economic Forum in Davos, he said that over the last 10 years it had become an echo chamber of sorts.	至于达沃斯世界经济论坛，他认为，在过去 10 年中，它已成为某种自说自话的回音室。
"What we are seeing now is lower growth and policy conflicts between the emerging and the developed world," said Mr. Rodrik, who will not be making the trip this time around. "It is going to be a different type of Davos this year."	"我们现在看到的是更低的增长率，以及新兴经济体和发达国家之间的政策冲突，"罗德里克说。这一次他不会去达沃斯参加论坛。"今年的达沃斯将会与往年不同"。
Actually, the echo chamber has not been working as advertised. Since January 2010, emerging markets as an investment have produced a poor return. BlackRock's benchmark exchange traded fund for emerging market stocks is down 25 percent, and most of that decline came in the last year.	事实上，这座回音室一直没有达到宣传中的效果。自 2010 年 1 月以来，新兴市场的投资回报率相当糟糕。贝莱德集团(BlackRock)的新兴市场股票交易所基准指数基金下跌了 25%，而且大部分下跌是在去年发生的。

Perhaps the biggest sign that global investors have lost faith is that for the first time since 1988 (when only the bravest souls invested in these countries), investors have pulled more money out of emerging markets than they have put in, according to research by the Institute of International Finance.	全球投资者失去信心的最大迹象或许是，根据国际金融研究所(Institute of International Finance)的调查，自1988年（当时只有最胆大的人才敢投资这些国家）以来，投资者在新兴市场撤离的资金首次超过了投入的资金。
In an unusually blunt speech in Paris this month, Christine Lagarde, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, said that emerging nations needed a new model for growth after years of relying on easy money and high commodity prices.	本月在巴黎的一次异常直白的讲话中，国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)总裁克里斯蒂娜·拉加德(Christine Lagarde)表示，在经过多年的宽松货币政策和高企的大宗商品价格后，新兴国家需要一种新的增长模式。
"Growth rates are down, and cyclical and structural forces have undermined the traditional growth paradigm," Ms. Lagarde said. Moreover, she warned, the dollar's continued strength against just about all emerging-market currencies could well result in a new round of financial uncertainty, pushing commodity prices and global growth forecasts even lower.	"增长率在下降，而周期性和结构性力量削弱了传统的增长范式，"拉加德说。此外她还警告，美元对几乎所有新兴市场货币的继续走强很可能导致新一轮的金融不确定性，进一步压低大宗商品价格和全球经济增长预期。
Since mid-2011, the dollar has gained more than 100 percent against emerging-market currencies in Turkey, Brazil and South Africa. And over the last six months, following China's decision to depreciate the renminbi, previously robust monetary units in Singapore, Korea and Taiwan have also started to lose value against the dollar.	自2011年年中以来，美元对土耳其、巴西和南非等新兴市场货币的汇率涨幅超过了100%。而在过去的六个月中，在中国决定让人民币走低后，此前新加坡、韩国和台湾等地稳健的货币也纷纷开始对美元贬值。
"Our own estimates show that a slowdown of 1 percent in the emerging world would lower growth in advanced countries by at least about 0.2 percentage points," Ms. Lagarde said.	"我们自己的估计显示，新兴市场经济增长每放缓1%，将降低发达国家至少约0.2个百分点的经济增长速度，"拉加德说。
Still, even with the gloom and doom surrounding emerging markets these days, there is little sign that standard bearers are forgoing their	不过，尽管如今新兴市场前景暗淡，但几乎没有迹象表明领军人物们会放弃他们每年在瑞士山区度过的为期一周的会议。 annual week in the Swiss mountains.

This year, more than 320 representatives from Brazil, Russia, India and China – the so-called BRIC community of emerging nations – will be in Davos – compared with 237 from these countries in 2010.	今年，来自“金砖四国”(BRIC)——巴西、俄罗斯、印度和中国——的 320 多名代表将出现在达沃斯，而 2010 年这些国家派出的代表为 237 人。
None of these representatives will be heads of state, though. In the past, Brazilian presidents and Vladimir Putin of Russia have led their countries' delegations. This year, Russia is sending a deputy prime minister, Yury Trutnev, while China is sending a vice president, Li Yuanchao.	不过，这些代表中并没有国家元首。过去，几任巴西总统和俄罗斯总统弗拉基米尔·普京(Vladimir Putin)曾带领本国代表团参会。今年，俄罗斯派出的是副总理尤里·特鲁特涅夫(Yury Trutnev)，而中国带队的则是副主席李源潮。
Two large emerging markets that have been under significant stress of late will be sending their leaders. Turkey, recently rocked by terrorist attacks, will be represented by its prime minister, Ahmet Davutoglu. And the South African president, Jacob Zuma, who has gone through three finance ministers in the last five weeks, is also planning to show up.	近来承受着严重压力的两个大型新兴市场将派出他们的领导人。最近遭受了恐怖袭击的土耳其，将由其总理艾哈迈德·达武特奥卢(Ahmet Davutoglu)带队参加。而在过去五周换了三任财长的南非总统雅各布·祖马(Jacob Zuma)，也计划在论坛上露面。
The president of Brazil, Dilma Rousseff, whose popularity polls have sunk to single digits, will not be making an appearance, but her recently appointed finance minister, Nelson Henrique Barbosa-Filho, is scheduled to attend.	巴西总统迪尔玛·罗塞夫(Dilma Rousseff)在民意调查中受欢迎度已降到个位数，不会在论坛上露面。但她新近任命的财政部长小纳尔逊·恩里克·巴博萨(Nelson Henrique Barbosa-Filho)计划出席。
Ready to engage in some damage control will be the top executives at BTG Pactual, the Brazilian investment bank whose former chief executive, André Esteves, is under investigation for corruption.	巴西投资银行百达集团(BTG Pactual)的高层管理人员们做好了控制损失的准备。该行的前首席执行官安德烈·埃斯特维斯(André Esteves)正在接受腐败调查。
In terms of panels themed for developing nations, the World Economic Forum will be serving up the usual fare this year. One will explore how companies in emerging markets cope with laws that discriminate	在为发展中国家设立的全会方面，世界经济论坛将在今年呈上平常的讨论主题。有一个将探讨新兴市场的企业如何应对歧视男女同性恋、双性恋和跨性别员工的法律。另一个更直接：美国利率的提高对新兴市场的增长有何影

against lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender workers. Another is more straightforward: What will the impact of higher interest rates in the United States be on emerging market growth?	响?
But, as is always the case at the World Economic Forum, the meetings of genuine consequence will be the ones that you do not know are happening.	不过, 真正重要的, 是人们不知道的那些会晤。在世界经济论坛上, 向来如此。
That could mean Laurence D. Fink, the chief executive of BlackRock, the world's largest money management firm, sitting down with Jean-Paul Villain, an executive at the Abu Dhabi Investment Authority, or Fahad al-Mubarak, the governor of Saudi Arabia's central bank and overseer of the country's $650 billion foreign reserve stash.	这可能意味着, 世界最大的资产管理公司贝莱德的首席执行官劳伦斯·D·芬克 (Laurence D. Fink) 和阿布扎比投资局 (Abu Dhabi Investment Authority) 高管让-保罗·维兰 (Jean-Paul Villain), 或沙特阿拉伯央行行长、负责着该国 6500 亿美元外汇储备的法赫德·穆巴拉克 (Fahad al-Mubarak) 会坐下相商。
As oil prices sink, rumors have been rife that Middle East sovereign wealth funds — and Saudi Arabia in particular — have been calling in the billions of dollars of cash that they have allocated to global investment firms such as BlackRock. And traders say that the withdrawal of these funds, much of which has been invested in American stocks and bonds, has been a contributing factor to recently volatile markets.	随着石油价格下跌, 传言四起, 宣称中东的主权财富基金, 尤其是沙特阿拉伯, 在收回投给贝莱德等全球投资公司的数十亿美元。交易人员称, 这些基金撤资是导致市场最近不稳定的原因之一。它们当中很多投资了美国的股票和债券。
Or the chief executives of Goldman Sachs and JPMorgan Chase could wind up huddling with Fang Xinghai, the vice chairman of the China securities regulatory commission. The sharp swings in China's stock market are having an outsize effect on markets in the United States, and the big American investment banks will want to hear what Mr. Fang's strategy is for 2016.	或者, 高盛 (Goldman Sachs) 和摩根大通 (JPMorgan Chase) 的首席执行官可能会和中国证监会副主席方星海碰头。中国股市的剧烈波动极大地影响着美国的市场, 而美国的大投行会想听听方星海为 2016 年谋划的策略。
But as central bankers, prime ministers and chief executives wrestle this week to make sense of it all, Ruchir Sharma, head of emerging markets	不过本周, 在各大央行高管、政府部长和企业首席执行官努力想要弄明白一切时, 摩根士丹利投资管理公司 (Morgan Stanley Investment

at Morgan Stanley Investment Management, has a fairly simple explanation: The impact on the developed world of a slowdown in China and other emerging markets is going to be greater than most people realize.	Management)的新兴市场部门负责人鲁吉·夏尔马(Ruchir Sharma)却给出了一个相当简单的解释：中国等新兴市场放缓对发达国家的影响，会比大部分人认识到的更大。
"In 1997, the emerging world's share of the global economy was 20 percent – now, it's nearly 40 percent," he said. "This is a big deal. What happens in China has an effect on the wider world, and I think that the Davos crowd has been slow to recognize this."	"1997 年时，新兴市场在全球经济中占的份额是 20%，现在则近乎 40%，"他说。"这举足轻重。中国发生的事情会影响外部世界，我认为，达沃斯的与会者没有及时意识到这一点。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160120/c20db-emerge	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160120/c20db-emerge
In Canada, the 8-Dollar Cauliflower Shows the Pain of Falling Oil Prices	油价走低加元贬值，加拿大人“吃不起”花菜
OTTAWA — Steamed, sautéed or stir-fried, cauliflower is standard fare on many dinner tables. In Canada, it is a luxury.	渥太华——蒸、嫩煎或焗炒的花菜，在许多地方的餐桌上是一道家常菜。在加拿大，却是一种奢侈。
A head of cauliflower there now goes for around 8 Canadian dollars, a tripling in price, the strange foodie fallout from the low price of oil and other commodities.	如今一个花菜在那里可以卖到大约 8 加元（约合 38 元人民币），价格是原来的三倍，这是石油和其他大宗商品价格走低连累“吃货”的一个古怪案例。
The recipe for high-priced cauliflower starts with the currency.	天价花菜的出现，首先要从汇率说起。
As prices for commodities have dropped, the value of the Canadian dollar has fallen, a direct link to an economy that is dependent on oil and other resources. It makes imports, like fresh American vegetables during the dark Canadian winter, look especially costly.	随着大宗商品价格下跌，加元出现贬值，对于一个依赖石油和其他资源的经济体来说，这是一种直接的联动。这就导致进口商品的价格显得格外夸张，比如在天昏地暗的加拿大隆冬时节从美国进口的新鲜蔬菜。
Two years ago, one Canadian dollar was worth 93 American cents. On Wednesday, it stood at 69 American cents.	两年前，一加元相当于 93 美分。在本周三是 69 美分。
The drought in California, where Canadians get most of their vegetables in the off-season, just compounds the sticker shock. With less bounty in the fields, farmers' prices, in American dollars, are higher	而加拿大的非时令蔬菜大多来自加州，那里的旱情也加剧了价格的暴涨。由于收成不佳，以美元计的农产品价格要高于正常水平。

than normal.
As a result, fresh vegetables feel more like a splurge for Canadian consumers.	这样一来，新鲜蔬菜在加拿大消费者眼里就成了奢侈品。
Iceberg lettuce sells for 3 Canadian dollars, up from the typical 90 Canadian cents. One head of broccoli goes for $4, compared with $1.50 for two in the past. Last winter, a head of cauliflower was selling for 2.50 Canadian.	圆生菜售价从平常的 90 加分涨到了 3 加元。一个西兰花卖到 4 加元，在过去 1.50 加元可以买到两个。去年冬天，一个花菜的价格是 2.50 加元。
"We've gone through this cycle before with the dollar," said Jim McKeen, owner of McKeen Metro Glebe, a grocery store in downtown Ottawa. "But there were issues on prices anyways because of supply in addition to this whole fiasco with the Canadian dollar. It's a perfect storm."	"这些汇率的事以前全都经历过，"渥太华市中心食品杂货店 McKeen Metro Glebe 老板吉姆·麦基恩(Jim McKeen)说。"但是供应不足决定了价格本来就会有问题，再加上加元惨成这样，就成了一场完美风暴。"
The Canadian dollar, in part, reflects the trouble in the country's economy.	加元一定程度上反映了该国的经济困境。
For years, Canada rode the global commodities boom. The rapidly growing Chinese economy — and its seemingly insatiable appetite for commodities — helped increase the price of oil, potash, nickel and the other Canadian resources.	加拿大多年来得益于全球大宗商品的繁荣。快速增长的中国经济——及其看上去永无止境的大宗商品需求——推高了石油、钾盐、镍和其他加拿大资源的价格。
With China's demand now faltering, commodity prices have reversed course. Oversupply of oil has similarly devastated its price. Both factors are taking their toll on the Canadian economy. The gross domestic product increased just 0.6 percent in the third quarter of 2015, after six months of negative growth.	随着中国的需求增长放缓，大宗商品价格急转直下。石油的供过于求也对价格造成了类似的冲击。这两个因素都在危害加拿大经济。在经过六个月的负增长后，其国内生产总值在 2015 年第三季度只增长了 0.6%。
Since October, the decline in the Canadian dollar, already looking shaky against a surging American currency, has picked up speed.	自去年 10 月以来，加元加速贬值，与强劲美元相比，加元显得摇摇欲坠。

In many ways, a weaker currency is helpful to the economy. The United States is overwhelmingly the largest market for Canadian exports, which are now less expensive across the border because of the currency's fall.	从很多方面来看，走软的货币对经济有利。美国是加拿大最大的出口市场，远超其他国家。由于货币贬值，加拿大出口商品的价格有所降低。
And commodity exports are almost all priced in American dollars. So foreign exchange gains have helped cushion some of the blow to Canadian oil producers and mining companies, which largely sell their resources elsewhere.	出口大宗商品的价格几乎都是以美元定价。因此，外汇收益在一定程度上缓和了加拿大石油生产商和矿业公司遭受的冲击，这些企业开采的资源主要销往其他地区。
"From a household point of view, what Canadians see is that their dollar isn't going as far," said Craig Alexander, vice president of economic research at the C.D. Howe Institute, an economic analysis and policy group "But it's good for Canadians, it's good for jobs. The primary driver for economic growth going forward has to come from nonresource export sectors."	"普遍看法是，加拿大人认为加元不会一路跌下去，"经济分析及政策研究机构C·D·豪研究所(C.D. Howe Institute)负责经济分析的副所长克雷格·亚历山大(Craig Alexander)说。"但这对加拿大人有利，对就业有利。经济继续增长的主要驱动力来自非资源型出口领域。"
Canada's tourism industry and other service sectors, which had been suffering, are already experiencing gains from the currency drop. Luke Azevedo, the film commissioner for Calgary Economic Development, said there had been a notable rise in production in Alberta, where large portions of the movie "The Revenant" and the television series " Fargo" were filmed last year.	步履艰难的加拿大旅游业及其他服务行业，已经从货币贬值的形势中受益。卡尔加里经济发展局(Calgary Economic Development)电影专员卢克·阿塞韦多(Luke Azevedo)表示，艾伯塔省的制片活动显著增多。去年，电影《荒野猎人》(The Revenant)和电视剧《冰血暴》(Fargo)的很多场景都是在卡尔加里拍摄的。
"It's across the country and the dollar plays a fairly significant role," Mr. Azevedo said.	阿塞韦多说，"全国都是这样，加元汇率发挥了重要作用。"
Speaking at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, on Wednesday, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau emphasized Canada's strengths in technology and education rather than its ailing natural	周三，加拿大总理贾斯廷·特鲁多(Justin Trudeau)在瑞士达沃斯举行的世界经济论坛(World Economic Forum)发表讲话时，强调了加拿大在技术和教育方面的优势，并未多谈状况欠佳的自然资源行业。 resource sector.

“Our natural resources are important and always will be,” Mr. Trudeau said. “But Canadians know that growth and prosperity is not only based on what’s under our feet but particularly on what we have between our ears.”	“我们的自然资源非常重要，将来也是如此，”特鲁多说。“但加拿大人知道，发展和繁荣不仅仅是基于我们脚下的资源，还尤其要依靠我们的头脑。”
Consumer costs are creeping up in a number of areas.	在一些领域，消费者的购物成本在逐渐提高。
The turnover in the grocery aisle, compared with, say, a clothing store, is faster, meaning changes in currency are more quickly reflected. And profit margins are thin, so grocery stores are less willing to absorb the losses.	例如，与服装店相比，食杂店的价格上涨得更快一些，这意味着杂货店更快地体现了汇率波动。由于利润空间非常微薄，食杂店更不愿承受这种损失。
The current collapse of the country’s dollar could have a more significant impact in supermarkets than it did in the early 2000s, according to Sylvain Charlebois, a professor at the University of Guelph in Ontario and one of the authors of an annual study of Canadian food prices.	安大略省圭尔夫大学(University of Guelph)教授西尔万·沙勒布瓦(Sylvain Charlebois)表示，与2000年代初期的情况相比，目前加元汇率暴跌的形势可能会给超市带来更为显著的影响。沙勒布瓦跟其他人合著了一份关于加拿大食品价格的年度研究报告。
Professor Charlebois estimated that about 140 Canadian food processing plants have closed in recent years. Many were owned by multinationals that have replaced Canadian production with imports from their larger American plants. Kellogg’s ended a century of production in London, Ontario, just over a year ago.	据沙勒布瓦教授估计，近些年来约有140家加拿大食品加工厂关门。很多加工厂归跨国公司所有，这些公司用规模更大的美国加工厂生产的进口产品，代替加拿大本地生产的产品。一年多以前，家乐氏(Kellogg)停止了该公司在安大略省伦敦市已经持续百年的生产活动。
The result, Professor Charlebois said, is that price increases will be seen throughout grocery stores and not just in their fresh produce aisles. Already, he said, some breakfast cereals have hit 10 Canadian dollars.	沙勒布瓦教授表示，结果就是，不仅新鲜农产品的价格会上涨，食杂店商品的价格也会抬高。他表示，一些谷类早餐的价格已经达到10加元。
Fishermen in Prince Edward Island now send most of their oyster harvest to the United States to capitalize on the currency difference.	爱德华王子岛的渔民现在将收获的大多数牡蛎都运往了美国，以便利用汇率差价获利。这导致加拿大渔贩缺货，迫使一些餐厅老板从美国再进口牡蛎。

That's leading to shortages at Canadian fishmongers, forcing some restaurant owners to reimport from the United States.
"It's mind-boggling that I have to buy Malpeque oysters from my American importer in Boston," said David McMillan, the co-owner of Joe Beef and two other restaurants in Montreal, adding that the cost of the oyster from Prince Edward Island had risen to 120 Canadian dollars a box from about 90 Canadian dollars. "That's a lot of money for not a special oyster."	"我得从美国波士顿的进口商那里购买莫尔佩克产的牡蛎，这真是令人难以置信，"戴维·麦克米伦(David McMillan)说。麦克米伦在蒙特利尔与别人合开了 Joe Beef 及其他两家餐厅。他还表示，爱德华王子岛出产的牡蛎价格从一箱 90 加元上涨到了 120 加元。"对于并不特别的牡蛎来说，这个价格太高了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160121/c21db-cauliflower	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160121/c21db-cauliflower
Fears About China's Economy Fester at Davos	金融大鳄唱衰中国，悲观预期弥漫达沃斯
DAVOS, Switzerland — At the World Economic Forum here, chief executives and investors are blaming China for a slump in global markets.	瑞士达沃斯——在这里召开的世界经济论坛上，首席执行官和投资者们都把全球市场的低迷归咎于中国。
Fears about the country's downshift, as its official growth slowed to a quarter-century low, have dominated high-level discussions, both during public debates and in smaller, private meetings.	随着中国的官方增长数字降低到 25 年来的最低水平，对该国经济下行的恐惧占据了高级论坛的中心地位，无论是在公开的辩论会上，还是在小型的闭门会上。
The financier George Soros said at a dinner on Wednesday night that a "hard landing is practically unavoidable," adding that China is the root of the current financial crisis.	金融家乔治·索罗斯(George Soros)在上周三晚上的一个晚餐会上说，"硬着陆几乎不可避免，"他还说中国是当前金融危机的根源。
But behind the gloom and doom a more complex picture is emerging among the global elite in this Alpine ski resort. Some of it is coming from those who have lived or worked in China.	但是，在这种悲观失望背后，呈现在聚集在这个阿尔卑斯山滑雪胜地的全球精英面前的，是一幅更复杂的画面。这种画面的一部分来自那些在中国居住或工作过的人。
Melissa Ma, the founder of the $6.8 billion private equity firm Asia Alternatives, is one of them. "In Davos, there is a gap between perception and reality. If you're on the ground in China, you're not	68 亿美元的私募股权投资公司鯤行投资(Asia Alternatives)的创始人梅丽莎·马(Melissa Ma)就是其中之一。"在达沃斯，感觉和现实之间存在一个鸿沟。如果你处于中国的现实情况中，你并不担心，"马女士说。总部位于北京的

worried,” Ms. Ma said. Asia Alternatives, which is based in Beijing, invests across Asia, with about half of its portfolio in China.	鯤行投资在亚洲进行投资，其资产组合中大约有一半在中国。
China’s most influential executives could be seen this week in Davos, including Zhang Xin, the chief executive of the real estate developer SOHO China; Ya-qin Zhang, the president of the search engine giant Baidu; Jiang Jianqing, the chairman of the Industrial and Commercial Bank; and Jack Ma, the founder of Alibaba. These leaders have stepped in to argue for a more nuanced view on China.	本周在达沃斯也能看到中国最具影响力的高管们的身影，包括房地产开发商SOHO中国的首席执行官张欣，搜索引擎巨头百度的总裁张亚勤，工商银行董事长姜建清，以及阿里巴巴创始人马云。这些中国商界精英们在现身说法，让人们对中国经济有更加细致入微的看法。
Some have defended China’s potential for growth as Western participants voiced concerns and doubts. Neil Shen, a veteran venture capitalist and one of China’s most successful entrepreneurs, told one panel discussion about the evolution of Chinese industry, that Chinese companies were already competing in their own right in industries like smartphone manufacturing.	随着西方与会者表示担忧和怀疑，这些中国企业家中有些人在捍卫中国的增长潜力。老牌风险投资者、中国最成功的企业家之一沈南鹏(Neil Shen)在一个小组讨论会上介绍了中国的工业发展过程，称中国企业已经能以自身的力量在诸如智能手机制造等行业竞争。
Within the arena of financial markets, Chinese and Western leaders alike argued that the fears demonstrated in rocky markets were overstated. Last week, stocks moved into bear market territory – which occurs when stocks are down more than 20 percent from a high – in large part on the news of China’s disappointing 2015 growth domestic product figures.	就金融市场而言，中国和西方的领导人都认为，动荡股市表现出来的恐惧是夸大的。上周，股市一度进入熊市范畴，也就是股票指数从峰值下跌超过了20%，这主要是因为中国令人失望的2015年国内生产总值增长数字的消息。
Yet many cited the larger concerns that remained over China’s slowing economy and whether its government will manage its transition from an economy focused on industry and exports to one that derives most of its growth from consumption. And many worried that an unintended consequence of President Xi Jinping’s anticorruption campaign would	然而，也有不少人说，这与中国经济放缓所带来的更大问题有关，也就是，政府能否管理中国经济从以工业和出口为主到主要靠消费拉动的过渡。许多人担心，习近平反腐败运动的一个意想不到的后果将会是对金融市场的继续扰乱。

be continued disruption of the financial markets.
Christine Lagarde, the managing director of the International Monetary Fund, touched on these points during a debate at the start of the conference. China's biggest problem today was how its government communicated with the rest of the world, Ms. Lagarde said.	国际货币基金组织执行总裁克里斯蒂娜·拉加德(Christine Lagarde)在达沃斯论坛开始时的一个辩论会上提到了这点。拉加德说,中国如今最大的问题,是中国政府如何与世界其他国家沟通的问题。
"I would say also that given those massive transitions that are undertaken pretty much at the same time and accepted as such, there is a communication issue," Ms. Lagarde said, adding, "It's something that markets do not like."	"我想说,考虑到那些基本上同时发生、也被人们接受是在发生的巨大转变,还有一个沟通的问题,"拉加德说,她补充道,"这是个市场不喜欢的问题。"
Last summer, unexpected actions by the Chinese government started a global sell-off in the markets. Some of those measures nearly brought the market to a standstill. At one point in July, a third of the stock market was frozen. Investors with big stakes in stocks were prohibited from selling those stakes. Hedge funds were raided and short-sellers investigated for what the government called "malicious" activity, according to state media reports. The government even organized large-scale purchases of stocks by government-linked brokerages and investment funds to prop up the plunging market.	去年夏天,中国政府出人意料的行动引发了全球股市的抛售。政府的有些措施几乎让中国股市陷入停顿。去年7月份的某时,中国股市上有三分之一的股票停止交易。持有大股份的投资者被禁止在股市上出售他们的股票。据官方媒体报道,政府对冲基金遭到了突击检查,同样被调查的还有卖空者的所谓"恶意"活动。政府甚至组织了与政府有关的证券公司和投资基金大规模购入股票,以支撑暴跌的市场。
Many of these interventionist actions in the market were "the exact replicas that many other countries, including the United States, have done in certain parts of their modern history," Gary D. Cohn, president of Goldman Sachs, said.	对市场的这些干预行动中许多与"包括美国在内的不少其他国家在其现代化历史的某些时刻做过的完全相同,"高盛总裁加里·D·科恩(Gary D. Cohn)说。
"The communication is really what's important here; communicating what the Chinese market is going to be and sticking with that theory no matter how painful it is in the transition," Mr. Cohn added.	"这里面的沟通问题其实是最重要的。沟通一下中国市场将怎样做,而且无论转型多么痛苦,都坚持做下去,"科恩补充说。

Speaking at the same event, Fang Xinghai, the vice chairman of the China Securities Regulatory Commission, told a packed room, "We are learning. We are doing it."	中国证券监督管理委员会副主席方星海在同一个场合，对坐满听众的会场说，“我们正在学习。我们正在做。”
Mr. Fang, whose regulatory commission was responsible for much of the stock market intervention last year, added: "We should do a better job."	方星海任职的证监会对去年的大多数股市干预措施负有责任，他补充说：“我们应该做得更好。”
This message, however, was still lost on some of the more cynical China watchers.	但是，这个信息并未让那些持更多怀疑态度的中国问题观察家们释怀。
Kenneth Rogoff, a Harvard economist who has long warned of a potential financial crisis in China, remained skeptical. "There is a big propaganda push to say everything is good, everything is fine."	哈佛大学的经济学家肯尼思·罗格夫(Kenneth Rogoff)长期以来一直警告中国存在潜在的金融危机，他的怀疑态度仍未改变。“有个推销一切都好、一切都没问题的巨大宣传攻势。”
Earlier in the week he told attendees at the forum that China's large accumulation of government debt would one day be a shock to a financial system that "amplifies shocks."	本周早些时候，罗格夫在论坛上告诉与会者，中国庞大的政府债务积累有朝一日会给“放大冲击”的金融体系制造一个冲击。
Others with bearish views on China have kept their claws out. Jim S. Chanos, who once said China was "on a treadmill to hell," said he remained deeply concerned. His hedge fund, Kynikos Associates, estimated that China's nominal gross domestic growth in 2015 was 5 percent compared with 15 percent just five years earlier.	其他人对中国持悲观看法的人对自己的观点也不隐讳。吉姆·S·查诺斯(Jim S. Chanos)曾说过中国是“在通往地狱的跑步机上”这样的话，他说，他保持深切关注。据他的对冲基金凯尼克斯联合基金(Kynikos Associates)估计，中国2015年的名义国内生产总值的增长率是5%，而五年前的这个数字是15%。
"China's debt problems still lie ahead of it," Mr. Chanos said on Thursday, referring to concerns about the extent to which China's seeming economic growth is actually fueled by borrowing.	“中国的债务问题依然摆在其经济面前，”查诺斯周四表示，他指的是对中国表面上的经济增长实际在多大程度上是靠借贷刺激的担忧。
As for Mr. Soros, he told an audience at the Panorama Restaurant in the Seehof Hotel in Davos this year that the Chinese had waited too long to properly address the transition of its growth model. Asked by a	至于索罗斯，他今年在达沃斯西霍夫酒店的全景餐厅对听众说，中国在适当解决转变增长模式的问题上已拖了太久。当彭博社的一名记者问是否有2008年金融危机重演的风险时，索罗斯表示，市场正处在金融危机发生的

Bloomberg reporter if there was a risk of repeating 2008, Mr. Soros said the market was in a similar time of financial crisis.	类似时刻。
"But the source of the disequilibrium is different," Mr. Soros said, adding that in 2008, the main cause was the United States subprime crisis. "Now," he said, "the root cause is basically China."	"但是，这次不平衡的根源不同，"索罗斯说，他补充道，2008年的主要原因是美国的次贷危机。他说，"当前的根本原因基本上是中国。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160125/c25db-davoschina	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160125/c25db-davoschina
A Struggle to Quell Investor Fears Over Unsettled Emerging Markets	新兴市场疲软引发基金投资者大逃亡
Currency turmoil in China and fears of a global slowdown have led investors to abandon emerging markets in droves, rattling the large asset management firms that have long promoted such investments in their hunt for higher returns.	中国货币汇率动荡，再加上对全球经济放缓的多种担忧，导致投资者成群结队地放弃新兴市场，使大型资产管理公司陷入不安，因为他们在不断追求更高投资回报的过程中，一直在推动对此类市场的投资。
For more than a decade, star managers at Franklin Templeton, Pimco, Aberdeen and Oppenheimer seemed more like Marco Polos than Warren Buffetts, beating a path to Internet companies in China, oil giants in Brazil and gold mines in South Africa.	过去十多年，富兰克林-邓普顿(Franklin Templeton)、太平洋投资管理公司(Pimco)、安本资产管理公司(Aberdeen)和奥本海默基金公司(Oppenheimer)的明星经理看起来似乎更像马可波罗，而非沃伦·巴菲特(Warren Buffett)，他们想尽办法投资中国的互联网企业、巴西的石油巨头和南非的金矿。
Investing in these high-risk markets came to be seen as a necessity for a diversified portfolio as well as an opportunity for these firms to levy some of the highest fees in the industry.	以前，在这些高风险市场的投资，开始被视为多样化资产配置中必不可少的选项，也被看作是这些投资公司攫取行业内最高利润的机会。
Now, with investors fleeing in a fury, asset management firms are struggling to stanch the bleeding.	现在，随着投资者匆忙撤离，资产管理公司正在艰难止血。
Last year, a record $105 billion was pulled out of global mutual funds, with 26 percent of that figure coming from asset managers based in the United States, according to the fund tracker EPFR.	据追踪基金动向的EPFR统计，去年共有1050亿美元资金从全球各类共同基金退出，创下历史最高纪录，其中有26%出自总部在美国的资产管理公司。
It was the third consecutive year of bond and equity outflows and one	EPFR研究部负责人卡梅隆·勃兰特(Cameron Brandt)表示，2015年是连续 would have go back to the Asian crisis era of the late 1990s to see a similar retreat, said Cameron Brandt, the head of research at the data provider.	第三个债券和证券资金外流的年份，这一年出现的资金撤退规模只有 1990 年代末亚洲金融危机的情况堪与之相比。

"This has become a chronic condition as opposed to the sudden onset of something," Mr. Brandt said. "There is almost no conviction out there right now."	"这已经成为一种持续的常态，而非突然冒出来的状况，"勃兰特说。"此时此刻，几乎没有什么是可以确定的。"
For large fund companies whose assets under management ballooned on the back of these flows, the world has changed drastically, largely for the worse.	除了这样的资金外流，一些大型基金管理的资产还出现大量流失。对它们而言，情况发生了剧烈的变化，而且大体上变得更糟。
Take the global bond manager Pimco. It has three bond funds that invest in developing markets that the research firm Morningstar tracks: a local currency sovereign bond fund worth $4.7 billion; a broader vehicle valued at $1.7 billion, and a corporate bond fund whose assets have eroded to $202 million from more than $1 billion.	就拿全球债券管理公司 Pimco 来说，据投资研究公司晨星(Morningstar)统计，它有三支债券基金投资于发展中国家市场：一支价值 47 亿美元的本地货币主权基金；一支投资工具更广泛、价值 17 亿美元的基金；还有一支企业债券基金，其管理资产已经从 10 亿多美元减少至 2.02 亿美元。
In total, investors pulled $6 billion last year from emerging market funds managed by Pimco, according to Morningstar.	据晨星统计，投资者去年总共从 Pimco 管理的新兴市场基金中撤出 60 亿美元资金。
Pimco has had to steady itself after the explosive departure of a star manager, William H. Gross, in 2014. Yet the emerging market outflows, on top of the billions of dollars that followed Mr. Gross out the door, have only added to the firm's woes.	自 2014 年公司明星经理威廉·H·格罗斯(William H. Gross)离职一事闹得沸沸扬扬后，Pimco 一直在努力稳住自身步伐。但格罗斯离开带走数十亿美元的资产管理业务之后，又出现新兴市场资金大举外流，对于该公司而言，简直是雪上加霜。
Pimco, once the world's largest manager of emerging market bonds, has experienced industry- lagging returns from outside bets in Brazil and Russia that have propelled an investor exodus that is getting worse by the month.	太平洋投资管理公司曾是全世界规模最大的新兴市场债券管理机构，如今却因为在巴西和俄罗斯市场上的大笔投入，导致收益上落后于业界平均水平，并使投资者抽离资金的现象逐月恶化。
Last December, investors pulled $619 million from the firm's local	去年 12 月，投资者从太平洋的当地货币基金中抽走了 6.19 亿美元。根据晨

currency fund, which has lost 21 percent of its value over the past year, trailing every fund in the category except one, according to Morningstar.	星提供的数据,这一基金去年损失了 21%的市值,在本类别中排名倒数第二。
A $15 billion fund in 2013, it now languishes below $5 billion.	该基金在 2013 年的规模达 150 亿美元,目前则在不到 50 亿美元的水平上挣扎。
While Pimco may be struggling, it is certainly not alone. A local currency debt fund run by MFS investment management in Boston lost $1.4 billion last year, and Trust Company of the West in Los Angeles had outflows of $1.8 billion from its $2.6 billion bond offering last year.	如果说太平洋在苦苦求生,那么它绝不是一个孤例。总部在波士顿的 MFS 投资管理公司打理的一支当地货币债券基金去年规模缩减了 140 亿美元,洛杉矶的西部信托公司(Trust Company of the West)的债券基金则从去年 26 亿美元的水平流失了 18 亿美元。
On the equity side, the $28 billion Oppenheimer Developing Markets fund suffered by far the largest exodus last year, with $5 billion departing the fund, according to Morningstar.	在股票领域,晨星的数据显示,原本规模达 280 亿美元的奥本海默发展中市场基金(Oppenheimer Developing Markets)去年流失了 50 亿美元,是失血最严重的一年,把以往的记录远远甩在了身后。
The fund is overseen by Justin Leverenz, who spends more than half the year circling the globe in search of unloved companies. But Mr. Leverenz was hurt in 2015 from big positions in Chinese Internet companies like Alibaba, which lost 30 percent over the last year.	该基金的经理人贾斯廷·莱韦伦茨(Justin Leverenz)去年花了大半的时间来周游列国,寻找尚未被发掘的好公司。不过,由于在阿里巴巴等中国互联网巨头身上重仓投入,莱韦伦茨在 2015 年损失惨重。阿里巴巴的股价去年跌了 30%。
And in Europe, Aberdeen Asset Management, which manages $403 billion and specializes in emerging markets, had $48 billion leave the firm. Aberdeen's stock price fell by half for the year.	在欧洲,安本资产管理公司(Aberdeen Asset Management)打理着 4030 亿美元,并以新兴市场见长,去年却流失了 480 亿美元。安本自身全年股价下挫了 50%。
Traders and portfolio managers say that what worries them now is the sense that sophisticated institutional investors, who generally tend to take a longer-term view than their retail counterparts (and who might even be inclined to buy at these levels), have been the ones driving the selling over the last six months.	交易员和投资组合经理人表示,现在让他们担心的是,成熟的机构投资者一般比散户的目光要长远(甚至在这些点位上可能有买入的意愿),但在过去六个月中带头抛售的正是他们。
Instead of taking advantage of bond and company valuations that are at	这些投资者并未利用处于历史低位的债券和企业估值,而是一窝蜂似地在抛

historic lows, these investors are acting more like lemmings, unloading the good and the bad in their portfolios because that is what they see their peers doing. The panicky climate is also forcing managers to have a chunk of cash on hand to meet redemption requests.	售手中投资组合里的资产，无论好坏，只是因为看到同行在这么干。这种恐慌氛围也迫使经理人持有大量现金，用以满足赎回需求。
"We are seeing evidence that institutional investors are capitulating," said Charles Collyns, an economist at the Institute of International Finance, using an industry term to describe the practice of wholesale selling when all hope is lost.	"我们看到了证据,表明机构投资者在投降式抛售,"国际金融研究所(Institute of International Finance)的经济学者查尔斯·科林斯(Charles Collyns)说。"投降式抛售"是一个行业术语,用以形容希望丧失殆尽之时的大规模抛售行为。
In a recent survey of more than 100 investment managers conducted by Northern Trust in Chicago, the No. 1 risk factor cited by respondents was that problems in China would continue to bring down growth rates in the developing world.	根据总部位于芝加哥的北方信托(Northern Trust)近期对逾百名投资经理人进行的一项问卷调查,应答者列出的头号风险是,中国的种种问题会持续拉低发展中国家的增长速度。
Also of concern, regulators and economists say, is the fact that many emerging market securities, especially bonds, can be very hard to sell, especially when markets are declining.	监管机构和经济学者称,令人担忧的还有,许多新兴市场的证券,尤其是债券,可能会难以脱手,尤其是在市场下行的大环境下。
The surprise decision by Third Avenue Management last month to close down a junk bond fund because it could not meet investor demands for cash has heightened fears that an emerging market bond fund could find itself in a similar position.	上个月,因为无法满足投资者对现金的需求,第三大道管理公司(Third Avenue Management)出人意料地决定停掉一支垃圾债基金。此举加深了人们的忧虑,恐怕新兴市场债券基金也会步其后尘。
"There is definitely a liquidity concern out there," said Mr. Brandt, the research director at EPFR. "People are asking: 'If I don't get my stuff out now, will I be able to get it out later?'"	"肯定是存在有关流动性的担忧,"EPFR的研究主管勃兰特说。"大家在问:'我现在不脱身的话,以后还能脱身吗?'"
Things would need to get much worse for that to happen. The bonds that trade in countries like Turkey, Mexico and Brazil are far more liquid than the deeply distressed corporate securities that Third Avenue's	不过,市场得比现在恶化许多,才会出现这种情况。土耳其、墨西哥和巴西等国市场上交易的债券的流动性,要远胜于第三大道的信贷基金青睐的那种深陷困境的企业证券。 credit fund favored.

That has not stopped the selling though — especially in recent months. For example, of the $2.5 billion that left Pimco’s local currency fund last year, $1 billion came in the last two months of 2015, according to Morningstar.	不过，这并未阻止抛售行为，尤其是在最近几个月里。比方说，晨星的统计数据 displays，太平洋当地货币基金去年流失的 25 亿美元中，有 10 亿发生在年末那两个月里。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160126/c26db-emerging	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160126/c26db-emerging
Chinese Stocks Fall Sharply, Leading Asian Markets Lower	中国股市跌至 13 个月来最低，亚洲股市普跌
HONG KONG — China’s stock market sank on Tuesday amid accumulating evidence of the Chinese economy’s deeply rooted troubles and as the central bank pushed huge sums of money into the banking system.	香港——本周二，中国股市遭受重挫，越来越多的证据暴露出中国经济的深层问题，与此同时，中国央行将巨额资金注入了银行系统。
The drop took Chinese stocks to their lowest level in 13 months. It followed a sell-off in the United States on Monday that was caused by a fall in the price of oil, an indicator of global economic health. But it also comes at a time of lingering market volatility in China stemming from growth concerns and questions about Beijing’s ability to manage its markets.	在周二的暴跌中，中国股市创下了 13 个月来的新低。在此之前，作为全球经济健康状况指标之一的油价出现下挫，在美国引发了抛售行情。但同时这次暴跌也伴随着中国市场挥之不去的波动性，以及对北京管控市场的能力越来越重的担忧和质疑。
European shares were down slightly in midday trading, while futures trading suggested that Wall Street stocks could be set to fall on Tuesday. Oil also resumed its decline on Tuesday in Asian trading, dropping less than 1 percent after falling beneath the psychologically important $30 level earlier in the Asian trading day.	欧洲股市午盘小幅下跌；从期货交易来看，华尔街股市周二可能也会下行。亚洲的石油交易周二更重拾跌势，在跌破重要心理关口 30 美元之后，又下行了不到 1%。
China’s economy grew last year at the slowest pace in 25 years. Among other problems, it has a glut of old-line factories that make products like steel, glass and cement. That industrial overcapacity stems from years	中国经济增长速度减慢到 25 年来的最低水平。原因之一在于，钢铁、玻璃和水泥等行业的老旧工厂产能过剩。多年来，这些行业通过负债融资获得了资金投入，导致了这样了产能过剩，目前没有迹象表明它们有能力偿还贷款。

of debt-financed investment in industries that now show little sign that they can repay those loans.
Beijing, which is seeking to rebalance its economy to focus more on consumer spending and services, is slowly moving to address those concerns. The country's State Council, or cabinet, decided on Sunday that it would close 100 million to 150 million tons of steel-making capacity. That is enough capacity to potentially rival the total annual steel output of Japan, the world's No. 2 steel maker, which totaled 110.7 million tons in 2014.	正在试图重新平衡中国经济，将重心向消费和服务倾斜的北京，正慢慢开始着手解决这些问题。本周日，中国国务院决定关闭1到1.5亿吨的钢铁产能。这个数字相当于日本一年的钢产量。日本是全球第二大钢铁制造国，2014年共计产钢1.107亿吨。
By contrast, China produced 804 million tons of steel last year, even as demand faltered. Over all, China's steel-making capacity was set to reach 1.17 billion tons last year, according to estimates from Fitch Ratings.	相比之下，尽管需求减弱，中国去年的钢产量却达8.04亿吨。据国际评级机构惠誉(Fitch Ratings)估计，中国去年的总体钢产能为11.7亿吨。
Li Xinchuang, the head of the China Metallurgical Industry Planning and Research Institute, told the official Xinhua news agency that the planned steel mill closings could cost 400,000 jobs. "Large-scale redundancies in the steel sector could threaten social stability," he warned.	冶金工业规划研究院院长李新创告诉新华社，钢厂关停计划可能会削减40万个就业岗位。“钢铁行业大规模裁员可能会危及社会稳定，”他警告说。
The State Council decision, which was released on Monday, also called for large reductions in coal mining capacity, without providing a target figure.	国务院本周一公布的这个决定还呼吁大幅削减煤炭开采产能，但是没有提供目标数字。
China's markets are falling even as policy makers are attempting to rein in soaring capital outflows prompted by investors' seeking to avoid China's slowing growth and wide expectations that its currency will weaken. Excluding foreign investment, capital outflows probably rose	资本外流现象日益严重，因为投资者希望避开中国经济增长放缓、人民币走弱的广泛预期的影响，尽管政策制定者正在试图遏制资本外流，中国市场仍然无法止住下跌。渣打银行(Standard Chartered)经济师在一份研究报告中写道，不包括外商投资在内，2015年的资本外流可能升至高达9000亿美元

to as much as $900 billion in 2015, economists at Standard Chartered wrote Tuesday in a research note.	元。
In response to the outflows, China's central bank, the People's Bank of China, has been eating into its reserves at a record pace in recent months. The central bank is selling dollars in an effort to prop up the value of the Chinese currency, the renminbi, which is under pressure to depreciate as China's growth prospects weaken.	为了应对资本外流,在最近几个月里,央行中国人民银行创纪录地动用了外汇储备。它抛售美元,努力支撑人民币汇率。随着中国经济增长前景变得黯淡,人民币正在承受贬值压力。
Those dollar sales mean the central bank is buying renminbi, which effectively takes money out of the financial system. To offset that, it has been injecting huge amounts of new liquidity. On Tuesday, the central bank added 440 billion renminbi, equivalent to $67 billion, to its financial system, according to an announcement on its website.	出售美元储备意味着中央银行在买入人民币,这实际上是将钱从金融系统抽出。为了进行弥补,它一直在注入巨量新资金。周二,中央银行向金融系统注入 4400 亿人民币,该消息来自其官方网站上发布的交易公告。
China's stock markets have also suffered from worries about whether the government will eventually allow the sale of a flood of additional shares. Government-backed groups have been buying shares since last summer in an unsuccessful effort to stem the markets' decline. That has raised the government's overall holdings at a time when many economic reformers had hoped the government would privatize more companies to increase efficiency.	中国股市动荡还因为投资者担心,政府最终会不允许抛售大量增发股。自去年夏天以来,由政府支持的企业集团一直在回购股份,目的是阻止市场下挫,但效果并不理想。这一举措还使政府持有的股份总额增加,而这个时候许多经济改革者恰恰希望政府能私有化更多企业,以提高效率。
China's large private-equity funds also have a large and growing backlog of companies for which they would like to conduct initial public offerings, so as to exit their investments and pay back investors. "The exit numbers are too low compared to what has been invested," said David Brown, a PricewaterhouseCoopers partner who leads the consulting firm's greater China private equity group.	中国的大型私募股权基金手上也积压了数量巨大而且越来越多的企业,他们希望这些企业能进行首次公开募股,以便收回自己的投资,偿还给投资者。"退出额跟融资额相比要少太多了,"咨询公司普华永道(PricewaterhouseCoopers)大中华区私募股权基金业务组主管合伙人鲍德擘(David Brown)说。

Shanghai's main share index plunged in late trading on Tuesday to close down 6.4 percent, at a new one-year low. Japan's main share index closed 2.4 percent lower, while stocks in Hong Kong closed down about 2.5 percent.	上海的主要股指在周二尾盘交易中下跌 6.4%，创下这一年的新低。当日收盘时，日本主要股指下跌 2.4%，香港股价下跌 2.5%左右。
Investors in Asia were reacting in part to the sell-off in the United States on Monday, where the Dow Jones industrial average fell 1.3 percent and the broader Standard & Poor's 500-share index closed 1.6 percent lower.	亚洲的投资者做出这种反应，部分原因在于美国在周一出现了抛售，道琼斯工业平均指数下跌 1.3%，涵盖范围更广的标准普尔 500 指数(Standard & Poor's 500)收盘时下跌 1.6%。
The renewed volatility in China's markets comes after a senior Chinese leader sought to reassure investors that the government would curb volatility.	中国股市重新开始动荡之前，一名中国高层领导曾试图安抚投资者，表示政府将会遏制这种市场震荡。
In remarks at the World Economic Forum in Davos, Switzerland, last week, Vice President Li Yuanchao admitted that China's market was "not yet mature." But he pledged to use regulation to help tame "an excessively fluctuating market," according to an interview with Bloomberg News.	中国国家副主席李源潮上周在瑞士达沃斯出席世界经济论坛(World Economic Forum)并发表讲话，期间他承认中国股市“还不成熟”。但在接受彭博新闻社(Bloomberg News)采访时，他承诺会利用法规帮助驯服“一个波动过大的市场”。
The FTSE 100 index in Britain was down 0.7 percent at midday, and the Euro Stoxx 50 index had fallen 0.3 percent.	英国富时 100 指数(FTSE100)在午盘交易时下跌 0.7%，欧元区 Stoxx50 指数(Euro Stoxx 50)下跌 0.3%。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160127/c27db-markets	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160127/c27db-markets
Bahamas Mega-Resort Stands Empty, Casualty of Dispute With Chinese Partners	中企深陷巴哈马烂尾度假村泥潭
NASSAU, the Bahamas — Trei Bethel had been looking for work in the Bahamas for about a year when he finally got a break: a coveted spot in a program that trained young Bahamians to work at Baha Mar, a $3.5 billion mega-resort nearing completion on Nassau's white-sand Cable	巴哈马群岛拿骚——在巴哈马找了一年工作后，特雷·贝塞尔(Trei Bethel)终于时来运转。这个梦寐以求的机会就是巴哈-玛度假村(Baha Mar)的巴哈马年轻员工培训项目。在白沙无垠的凯布尔海滩，这座耗资 35 亿美元的巨型度假村已经临近竣工。

Beach.
There, he said, he learned about fine wine and the choreography of five-star service. He saw the resort as a place of opportunity and stability in a difficult economy.	贝塞尔说，他在那里学习上等葡萄酒和精心周到的五星级服务。在低迷的经济环境下，他认为这座度假村提供了难得的机遇和稳定。
"They really put so much effort into the growth and development of us as young people," said Mr. Bethel, now 20, who became a concierge at one of the resort's four hotels.	"他们真的花了很大心思帮助我们这些年轻人成长和进步，"贝塞尔表示。现年20岁的他成了一名礼宾员，在度假村四家酒店中的一家工作。
But in October, Mr. Bethel lost his job along with 2,000 others, the casualties of a dispute between the resort's developer and his Chinese partners that led to bankruptcy court. The falling-out has left Baha Mar at a standstill, fenced off at the end of a road that bears its name, more than a year after its original opening date.	但在10月，贝塞尔和其他两千人一起失去了工作。度假村的开发商和中国合伙人出现纠纷，闹上了破产法庭。这场分道扬镳导致项目陷入困顿，在原定的开业日期过去一年多后，以它的名字命名的马路的尽头，巴哈-玛依然紧闭着大门。
Baha Mar's uncertain future points to the challenges China faces as it finances and builds large-scale construction projects overseas amid language and cultural barriers, lack of regulation and allegations of graft.	巴哈-玛未卜的命运，彰显出中国在海外投资和建设大型基建项目时遭遇的挑战：语言和文化障碍、缺乏监管以及面临贪污指控。
"The more problems there are and, in a way, the more media attention these problems attract, they erode positive attitudes towards Chinese presence in the region," said Ariel C. Armony, director of the University Center for International Studies at the University of Pittsburgh, who has researched the perception of Chinese investment in the Americas.	"出现的问题越多，加上某种程度上，媒体对这些问题的关注越高，就会影响中国在该地区的正面形象，"匹兹堡大学国际研究中心(The University Center for International Studies)主任阿里埃尔·C·阿莫尼(Ariel C. Armony)表示，他对中国在美洲的投资形象进行过研究。
After losing its American backer during the financial crisis, Baha Mar was revived in 2009 by China Construction America, a Jersey City-based subsidiary of a Chinese state-owned construction company, the China State Construction Engineering Corporation. The company	在金融危机中失去美国投资人后，巴哈-玛依靠中建美国有限公司在2009年重焕生机。该公司是中国国有企业中国建筑工程总公司在美国泽西城创设的分公司。该公司促成了中国进出口银行的25亿美元贷款，后者是一家与中建公司有密切往来的国有银行；此外公司又投资1.5亿美元入股。作为交

facilitated a $2.5 billion loan from the Export-Import Bank of China, a state-owned lender with which it has close ties, and invested $150 million for its own equity stake. In exchange, China Construction America would serve as the resort's contractor, using Chinese workers.	换，中建美国成为度假村的承建商，在项目中使用中国工人。
The rest of the financing came from Sarkis Izmirlian, the Swiss-born developer who conceived Baha Mar and invested $850 million.	其余资金来自瑞士开发商萨尔基斯·伊兹米尔利安(Sarkis Izmirlian)，他作为巴哈-玛项目的提出者投资了 8.5 亿美元。
Since his project filed for bankruptcy last summer, there has been finger-pointing from all sides. But there is broad agreement on two points: Baha Mar is spectacular, and there is plenty of blame to go around for its failure to open.	自他的这个项目在去年夏天申请破产后，各方都在相互指责。但有两点没有异议：巴哈-玛十分壮观；没法开张的责任，谁也逃不了干系。
Critics say the resort was overly ambitious from the start and should have been built in phases. It combines four luxury hotels, the largest casino in the Caribbean region, a championship golf course, a 200,000-square-foot convention center and what is billed as the world's largest collection of Bahamian art. The hotel chains Hyatt, Rosewood and SLS had signed on as partners.	有人批评度假村的建设从一开始就过于宏大，本应该分阶段完成。度假村拥有四座豪华酒店、在加勒比地区最大的赌场、锦标赛级高尔夫球场、20 万平方英尺的会议中心，以及号称世界上最大的巴哈马艺术收藏。凯悦(Hyatt)、瑰丽(Rosewood)和 SLS 等酒店连锁已签约成为合作伙伴。
The Bahamas welcomed the investment, even moving the prime minister's residence to provide a prime location for the resort.	这项投资是巴哈马所乐见的，甚至愿意搬迁总理府邸，为度假村腾出黄金地段。
But Baha Mar executives say that problems became evident when China Construction America, or C.C.A., missed several construction deadlines, including a second attempted opening in March for which the hotels had already started taking reservations. The company then walked away from the job, officials say, leaving the resort staffed to run hotels that weren't finished.	但巴哈-玛项目管理层说，在中建美国多次未能在最后期限前完工后，问题开始变得明显起来，这其中包括第二次试图在 3 月开业，为此酒店已经开始接受预定。官员称，而后该公司就撒手不管了，让已经配备员工的度假村自行打理尚未完工的酒店。
In a statement in July, it called the developer's accusations "misleading	在 7 月的一份声明中，中建美国称开发商的指责“存在误导性且缺乏诚信”，

and dishonest," saying Baha Mar's "failure to secure adequate financing and its mismanagement" led to construction delays. The company did not respond to requests for further comment.	并称巴哈-玛“未能获得足够融资资金和对巴哈-玛度假项目设计管理不善”导致工程延期。公司没有回应进一步置评的请求。
The Export-Import Bank of China did not respond to a list of faxed questions.	中国进出口银行没有回应通过传真发出的一系列问题。
Unable to maintain the upkeep of a dormant mega-resort, Mr. Izmirlian filed for bankruptcy in Delaware in June. He declined to be interviewed for this article.	由于无力维持一座闲置的巨型度假村，伊兹米尔利安于6月在特拉华州申请破产。他拒绝就本文接受采访。
The United States case was dismissed in September because the Bahamian government refused to recognize it. The top court in the Bahamas, which has no bankruptcy law of its own, appointed provisional liquidators. After months of fruitless negotiations, the Export-Import Bank of China put the resort into receivership in November.	由于巴哈马政府拒绝承认，在美国的破产案被驳回。在没有破产法的巴哈马，最高法院指定了临时债务清算人。经过几个月徒劳的谈判，中国进出口银行在11月对度假村实施破产接管。
Since then the resort has received a $50 million loan from another Chinese state-owned company, the China Harbor Engineering Company, to help maintain the resort. Prime Minister Perry Christie of the Bahamas has said there are several potential buyers from China.	此后度假村得到了另一家中国国有企业中国港湾工程公司的5000万美元借款，用于度假村的维护。巴哈马总理佩里·克里斯蒂(Perry Christie)称，已经有多个中国买家对此有意。
For C.C.A., which celebrated its 30th anniversary last fall, Baha Mar was an opportunity to show what it could do as it tries to expand into Latin America and the Caribbean.	对去年秋天迎来创立30周年大庆的中建美国来说，在公司向拉美和加勒比海地区扩张之际，巴哈-玛项目本是一个展示其能力的机会。
In court filings, Baha Mar officials say C.C.A. failed to maintain adequate staffing, provide proper schedules or follow through on a promise to bring in partners with the experience needed to build such a complex project.	巴哈-玛官员在法庭文件中称，中建美国没能保持充足的人员配备，提供合理的日程安排，也没有根据之前的承诺，引入有建设复杂项目经验的合作伙伴。

“China State Construction never allocated the resources that were necessary to meet the deadlines of this project,” Stephen Wrinkle, former president of the Bahamian Contractors’ Association, said in a phone interview, using the name of C.C.A.’s parent company. “From Day 1 they never put the manpower, they never put the management, they never put the materials on site to finish on time.”	“中国建筑工程公司始终没有投入如期完成项目所需的资源，”前巴哈马承包商协会(Bahamian Contractors’ Association)会长史蒂芬·林克尔(Stephen Wrinkle)在接受电话采访时说，他使用的是中建美国母公司的名字。“他们从一开始就没有为了按时完成而投入人力，投入管理，没有把物料放到工地上。”
In court filings, C.C.A. countered that the developer had mismanaged the project, requesting multiple design changes that created cost overruns.	在法庭文件中，中建美国指出开发商对项目管理不善，提出了多个设计改动，导致成本超预算。
As evidence of poor construction quality, Baha Mar officials have cited an email from a Chinese subcontractor that appeared to have been accidentally shared with them. In it, he admonished two of his staff for using cheap material.	至于工程质量低劣方面的证据，巴哈-玛管理人员援引了一封中方承包商的电子邮件，似乎是无意中发到了他们手中。该承包商在信中对两名使用廉价材料的员工提出了警告。
“What’s wrong with you two! You can’t fake things in such an obvious way!” he wrote in Chinese, according to court records. “You’re going to get yourselves in trouble! If you want to do this, you must be careful!”	“你们两个怎么回事！作假不能这么明着来！”法庭记录中称他用中文写道。“你们这样要惹麻烦的！要这么干得小心着点！”
In an affidavit, the subcontractor said that the English translation of his email did not convey his intent and that “there is a conflict between American and Chinese culture and expressions.”	在一份书面证词中，该承包商说邮件的英文翻译没有准确表达他的意图，而且“美国和中国在文化和表达上有冲突”。
As the project went on, more subcontractors from the Bahamas, the United States and elsewhere were brought in to speed the process, said Dionisio D’Aguilar, who was a director at Baha Mar until the entire board resigned in November, including Mr. Izmirlian. The bankruptcy plan Baha Mar submitted called for C.C.A. to be removed from the project entirely.	前巴哈-玛项目董事——董事会已于11月全体辞职，包括伊兹米尔利安——迪奥尼西奥·迪阿圭拉(Dionisio D’Aguilar)说，随着项目的进行，更多来自巴哈马、美国及其他地方的承包商加入了进来，以加快工程进度。巴哈-玛提交的破产计划要求中建美国从该项目完全撤出。

"I have to believe that in the end the goings-on at Baha Mar have embarrassed them," Mr. D'Aguilar said of C.C.A.	"我只能相信，在巴哈-玛的这些是非，最后让他们感到丢脸了，"迪阿圭拉这样评价中建美国。
The delays are an economic blow to the Bahamas, which expected the resort to generate a payroll equivalent to 12 percent of its gross domestic product. Bahamians who had returned home to join Baha Mar after working or studying overseas are now leaving again.	项目的延误对巴哈玛经济是一个打击，该国本预计这座度假村将产生相当于其国内生产总值 12% 的薪资。一些原本在海外工作或学习的巴哈马人为了这个项目回国，现在已经再次离开。
Locals had started or expanded small businesses in anticipation of the resort's opening, "and those people are also left hung out to dry," Mr. Wrinkle said. Bahamian contractors are owed an estimated $74 million by the resort.	当地人为了即将开业的度假村已经开办或拓展了一些小企业，"那些人也倒霉了，"林克尔说。度假村拖欠巴哈马承建商的钱款估计达到 7400 万美元。
Standard & Poor's cited the Baha Mar impasse in its August decision to lower the Bahamas' credit rating to one level above junk status, warning that further downgrades were possible depending on "the handling of the Baha Mar project." And in December, the International Monetary Fund lowered the country's growth forecast for 2016.	标准普尔(Standard & Poor's)在 8 月决定将巴哈马的信用评级降至仅比"垃圾"高一等级时，将巴哈-玛项目的僵局引为一个理由，并警告会否进行进一步降级取决于"巴哈-玛项目的处置"。12 月，国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)下调了该国的 2016 年发展预期。
Even if work at Baha Mar resumes, it could be another year or more before it opens. Rosewood has moved to terminate its license agreement with Baha Mar; SLS did not respond to requests for comment. Hyatt said it remained committed to the project.	即便巴哈-玛项目能恢复运行，也要再过一年甚至更久才能开业。瑰丽酒店已经着手终止给巴哈-玛的授权协议；SLS 没有回应置评请求。凯悦则称依然对该项目有信心。
Mr. Bethel, the concierge, is holding out hope that he can return to Baha Mar once it opens and put what he learned into practice.	那位礼宾员贝塞尔依然希望有朝一日巴哈-玛开业后他会回去上班，让他学以致用。
"I have unfinished business there in terms of my career and where I want to get in life," he said.	"那里有我事业上的一些未了的东西，我也要通过那里完成我的人生目标，"他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160203/c03bahamar	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160203/c03bahamar
Toxic Loans Around the World Weigh on Global Growth	中国不良信贷或超 5 万亿美元，加剧世界经济风险

Beneath the surface of the global financial system lurks a multitrillion-dollar problem that could sap the strength of large economies for years to come.	全球金融系统背后潜藏着一个涉及数万亿美元资金的问题，它可能会在未来多年持续削弱多个大国的经济实力。
The problem is the giant, stagnant pool of loans that companies and people around the world are struggling to pay back. Bad debts have been a drag on economic activity ever since the financial crisis of 2008, but in recent months, the threat posed by an overhang of bad loans appears to be rising. China is the biggest source of worry. Some analysts estimate that China's troubled credit could exceed $5 trillion, a staggering number that is equivalent to half the size of the country's annual economic output.	这个问题就是巨大而且僵滞的债务池，它由全球各地的企业和个人难以偿还的贷款构成。自 2008 年金融危机以来，不良贷款一直在拖经济活动的后腿，但最近几个月，过多的不良贷款所构成的威胁似乎在不断加大。中国是这种担忧最大的源头。据一些分析人士估计，中国的不良信贷规模可能已经超过了 5 万亿美元，这是一个惊人的数字，相当于中国年经济产出的一半。
Official figures show that Chinese banks pulled back on their lending in December. If such trends persist, China's economy, the second-largest in the world behind the United States', may then slow even more than it has, further harming the many countries that have for years relied on China for their growth.	官方统计数字显示，中国的银行在去年 12 月放慢了发放贷款的速度。如果这种趋势持续下去，中国这个仅次于美国的世界第二大经济体，经济增长速度甚至可能会比现在还慢，进而给多年来一直依赖中国经济增长的很多国家造成进一步打击。
But it's not just China. Wherever governments and central banks unleashed aggressive stimulus policies in recent years, a toxic debt hangover has followed. In the United States, it took many months for mortgage defaults to fall after the most recent housing bust – and energy companies are struggling to pay off the cheap money that they borrowed to pile into the shale boom.	但这个问题不只是中国的。凡是政府和中央银行在最近几年采取激进刺激政策的国家，都会随之出现不良贷款过多的问题。在美国，最近一次楼市泡沫破灭之后，按揭贷款违约量好几个月之后才有所下降，现在则有不少美国能源企业，难以偿付它们投入到页岩气热潮中的巨额廉价贷款。
In Europe, analysts say bad loans total more than $1 trillion. Many large European banks are still weighed down with defaulted loans, complicating policy makers' efforts to revive the Continent's economy.	分析人士表示，欧洲的不良贷款总额超过了 1 万亿美元。很多大型欧洲银行还在承受巨大的违约贷款压力，这加大了政策制定者重振欧洲经济的难度。比如，意大利上周就宣布了一项计划，要清除该国举步维艰的银行体系中的

Italy, for instance, announced a plan last week to clean out bad loans from its plodding banking industry.	坏账。
Elsewhere, bad loans are on the rise at Brazil's biggest banks, as the country grapples with the effects of an enormous credit binge.	在其他地区，巴西最大的一些银行的坏账也在增加，该国正努力应对规模庞大的信贷狂潮带来的后果。
"If you have a boom and then a bust, you create economic losses," said Alberto Gallo, head of global macro credit research at the Royal Bank of Scotland in London. "You can hope the losses one day turn into profits, but if they don't, they are a drag on the economy."	"如果之前出现了繁荣，然后衰退，就会产生巨大的经济损失，"位于伦敦的苏格兰皇家银行(Royal Bank of Scotland)全球宏观信贷研究负责人阿尔贝托·加洛(Alberto Gallo)说。"你可以期待这些损失有朝一日能转变成利润，但如果这种希望落空，它们就会成为经济发展的负担。"
In good times, companies and people take on new loans, often at low interest rates, to buy goods and services. When economies slow, these debts become difficult to pay for many borrowers. And the bigger the boom, the more soured debt that is left behind for bankers and policy makers to deal with.	经济形势好的时候，企业和个人都会申请新的贷款，来购买商品和服务，而且利率往往比较低。经济放缓之后，很多债务人就会难以偿还其贷款。之前的泡沫越大，之后银行和决策者需要收拾的坏账摊子也就越大。
In theory, it makes sense for banks to swiftly recognize the losses embedded in bad loans – and then make up for those losses by raising fresh capital. The cleaned-up banks are more likely to start lending again – and thus play their part in fueling the recovery.	从理论上讲，银行可以快速列支不良贷款的坏账损失，然后通过吸收新资金，来填补这些漏洞。而这些清理完坏账的银行，就更可能重新开始发放贷款，由此发挥它们在助推经济复苏方面的作用。
But in reality, this approach can be difficult to carry out. Recognizing losses on bad loans can mean pushing corporate borrowers into bankruptcy and households into foreclosure. Such disruption can send a chill through the economy, require unpopular taxpayer bailouts and have painful social consequences. And in some cases, the banks might find it extremely difficult to raise fresh capital in the markets.	但事实上，这一理论很难付诸实践。要列支坏账损失，银行需要推动企业债务人走破产程序，迫使家庭债务人放弃抵押品赎回权。这种举措会让整个经济感到阵阵寒意，需要政府用纳税人的钱实施不得人心的紧急财政援助，也会带来社会阵痛。而且在有些情况下，银行可能很难在市场中再吸收新的资金。
Even so, the drawback of delaying the cleanup is that the banks remain wounded and reluctant to lend, damping any recovery that takes place.	尽管如此，推迟清理坏账也会有后果。因为银行会因此持续处在受创状态，不愿提供贷款，经济恢复也就遥遥无期。多名经济学家表示，在 20 世纪 80

Japan, economists say, waited far too long after its credit boom of the 1980s to force its banks to recognize huge losses – and the economy suffered for years after as a result.	年代出现信贷热潮之后，日本拖了太久才迫使其银行列支巨额损失，结果日本经济在之后多年一直一蹶不振。
Now, many banking experts are beginning to worry about China’s bad loans.	现在，很多银行业专家开始担忧中国的不良贷款。
Fears that the country’s economy is slowing have weighed heavily on global markets in recent months because a weak China can drag down growth globally.	对于中国经济放缓的种种担忧已经让全球市场在最近几个月承受了巨大压力，因为中国经济走弱将使全球经济随之放缓。
Many of these concerns focus on China’s banking industry. In recent years, banks and other financial companies in China issued a tidal wave of new loans and other credit products, many of which will not get paid back in full.	这种担忧有很多都集中在中国的银行业。最近几年，中国的银行和其他金融机构又发放了一大波新的贷款和其他信贷产品，其中很多都将无法全额收回。
China’s financial sector will have loans and other financial assets of $30 trillion at the end of this year, up from $9 trillion seven years ago, said Charlene Chu, an analyst in Hong Kong for Autonomous Research.	研究机构 Autonomous Research 驻香港分析师朱夏莲(Charlene Chu)表示，到今年年底，中国金融领域的贷款及其他金融资产将达到 30 万亿，而七年前这个金额只有 9 万亿。
“The world has never seen credit growth of this magnitude over a such short time,” she said in an email. “We believe it has directly or indirectly impacted nearly every asset price in the world, which is why the market is so jittery about the idea that credit problems in China could unravel.”	“以前从未有过这么短时间内出现这么大规模的信贷增长的情况，”她在电子邮件中写道。“我们认为，这已经直接或间接地影响到了世界上几乎每一项资产的价格，因此市场对于中国信贷问题可能暴露的预期，感到紧张不安。”
Headline figures for bad loans in China most likely do not capture the size of the problem, analysts say. In her analysis, Ms. Chu estimates that at the end of 2016, as much as 22 percent of the Chinese financial system’s loans and assets will be “nonperforming,” a banking industry term used to describe when a borrower has fallen behind on payments or is stressed in ways that make full repayment unlikely. In dollar terms,	分析人士表示，中国不良贷款的账面金额，很可能无法体现问题的真实规模。朱夏莲在分析中估计，到 2016 年年底，中国金融体系将有多达 22% 的“不良”贷款和资产。这一银行业术语指的是债务人拖延还款，或因为财务状况吃紧，无法全数还款的情况。按美元计算，中国的不良贷款和资产达到了 6.6 万亿美元。

that works out to $6.6 trillion of troubled loans and assets.
"This estimate really isn't that unreasonable," Ms. Chu said in the email. "We've seen similar ratios in other countries. What's different is the scale, which reflects the massive size of China's credit boom." She estimates that the bad loans could eventually lead to $4.4 trillion of actual losses.	"这种估计实际上不无道理，"朱夏莲在邮件中写道。"我们在其他国家也见到过类似的比率。不同的是规模，这反映了中国信贷热潮的巨大规模。"据她估计，不良贷款最终会带来 4.4 万亿美元的实际损失。
Although there is not enough official data to come up with a precise figure for bad loans, other analysts have come up with estimates of around $5 trillion.	虽然没有足够多的官方数据提供有关不良贷款的精确数字，但其他分析人士估计金额在 5 万亿美元左右。
Given the murkiness of the Chinese financial industry, other analysts arrive at estimates for a "baseline" figure for bad loans. Christopher Balding, an associate professor at the HSBC School of Business at Peking University, said that an analysis of corporations' interest payments to Chinese banks suggested that 8 percent of loans to companies might be troubled. But Mr. Balding said it was possible that the bad loan number for China's overall financial system could be higher.	鉴于中国金融行业的不透明性，其他分析人士只是估算了不良贷款的"基线"数据。北京大学汇丰商学院副教授克里斯托弗·鲍尔丁(Christopher Balding)说，对企业向中国各银行支付的利息进行分析后，结论是 8% 的企业贷款可能存在问题。但鲍尔丁表示，中国整个金融体系不良贷款金额可能更高。
The looming question for the global economy, however, is how China might deal with a vast pool of bad debts.	但全球经济面临的迫切问题在于，中国会如何应对巨额的不良贷款。
After a previous credit boom in the 1990s, the Chinese government provided financial support to help clean up the country's banks. But the cost of similar interventions today could be dauntingly high given the size of the latest credit boom. And more immediately, rising bad debts could crimp lending to strong companies, undermining economic growth in the process.	在 20 世纪 90 年代的信贷大潮过后，中国政府提供了财政支持，帮助银行清理不良资产。但考虑到最近信贷热潮的规模，如今采取类似干预举措的成本可能会极高。更直接的影响是，不断增加的不良贷款会阻碍健康的公司获得贷款，并在这个过程中削弱经济增长。

"My sense is that the Chinese policy makers seem like a deer in the headlights," Mr. Balding said. "They really don't know what to do."	"我感觉,中国的政策制定者就像是被汽车大灯照射到的小鹿,"鲍尔丁说。"完全不知道该怎么办。"
In Europe, for instance, some countries have taken years to come to grips with their banks' bad loans.	例如,一些欧洲国家等了很多年,才开始着手解决银行不良贷款问题。
In some cases, the delay arose from a reluctance, at least in part, to force people out of their homes. Even though Ireland's biggest banks suffered huge losses after the financial crisis, they held back from forcing many borrowers who had defaulted out of their homes. In recent years, the Irish government has pursued a widespread plan that aims to reduce the debt load of financially stressed homeowners. Such forbearance appears not to have weakened the Irish economy, which has recovered at a faster rate than those of other European countries.	有时候,拖延清理不良资产的原因在于不愿把别人赶出家门。尽管爱尔兰最大的银行在金融危机后遭受巨大损失,但它们并没有把不履行还贷义务的债务人从家里赶出去。近些年来,爱尔兰政府开展一个广泛计划,以减少资金困难的房主的债务负担。这种宽容举措似乎没有削弱爱尔兰经济,该国经济的复苏速度比其他欧洲国家都快。
Still, the perils of waiting too long are evident in Italy, which in January announced a proposal to help banks sell their bad loans. Some critics of the plan say it resembles a government bailout of the banks, while other skeptics say the banks might not use it because it appears to be too expensive.	但在意大利,等待太长时间所带来的风险是显而易见的。意大利在今年1月宣布了一项帮助银行出售不良资产的计划。该计划的一些批评人士表示,这与政府救援银行的举措相似,而其他持怀疑态度的人士则表示,银行可能不会采取该计划,因为其成本似乎非常高昂。
"The big problem in the Italian system is that they acted very late," said Silvia Merler, an affiliate fellow at Bruegel, a European research firm that focuses on economic issues. "They could have done something smarter – and they could have done it earlier."	"意大利银行体系的严重问题在于它们行动太晚,"欧洲经济问题研究机构布勒哲尔研究所(Bruegel)的研究员西尔维娅·梅勒(Silvia Merler)说。"他们本来可以处理得更聪明一些,更早一些。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160204/c04db-badloans	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160204/c04db-badloans
Syngenta Board Seeks Approval of ChemChina's $43 Billion Offer	中国化工收购先正达意在保障粮食安全
Six months ago, Syngenta said no to a $47 billion takeover attempt from Monsanto, arguing it was too risky.	半年前,先正达(Syngenta)拒绝了孟山都(Monsanto)470亿美元的收购报价,认为风险太大。

But times have changed. Commodities prices have slumped, decreasing the chances of a big payday for Syngenta, one of the world's biggest manufacturers of agricultural chemicals and seeds. China is on the hunt for strategic resource deals to provide for the long-term security of its huge population.	但时移世易。大宗商品价格出现了下滑，降低了先正达——世界上最大的农业化学品和种子生产商之一——大发利市的机会。而中国正在寻找战略资源交易，来为其庞大人口的长期安全提供保障。
So when when the state-owned China National Chemical Corporation offered to buy Syngenta for $43 billion — but leave Syngenta's Swiss headquarters and management in place — the answer was an enthusiastic yes.	因此当中国国企中国化工集团公司(China National Chemical Corporation)提出以 430 亿美元（约合 2820 亿元人民币）的价格收购先正达，并保留先正达的瑞士总部和管理层，他们收到了热切的肯定答复。
The transaction, announced Wednesday, would be the largest acquisition of a foreign company by a Chinese business and the latest in a string of deals by the company, known as ChemChina. It also would be the biggest cross-border deal involving an Asia-Pacific company, according to data from Dealogic.	于周三宣布的本次交易，将会是中国企业对外国公司最大的一笔并购，也是中国化工集团公司一系列交易中最新的一笔。据 Dealogic 的数据，这也将是涉及亚太公司最大的一笔跨境交易。
Under the terms of the deal, ChemChina would pay $465 a share, plus a special dividend of five Swiss francs, or about $4.90, upon closing. That would be the equivalent of 480 francs a share, representing a 22 percent premium to Syngenta's closing price on Tuesday.	根据协议条款，交易完成时中国化工集团公司将每股支付 465 美元，再加上 5 瑞士法郎（约合 4.90 美元）的特别股息。这相当于每股 480 瑞士法郎，较先正达周二的收盘价溢涨 22%。
Syngenta's board of directors said it was unanimously recommending that Syngenta's shareholders accept the offer.	先正达董事会表示，他们一致建议公司的股东接受此报价。
As part of the agreement, Syngenta would remain mostly independent and continue to be run by its existing management. The all-cash deal requires at least two-thirds of Syngenta's shareholders to agree to sell their stock to ChemChina.	作为协议的一部分，先正达将保留大部分独立性，并继续由现任的管理层进行运营。这笔全现金的交易，需要先正达至少三分之二的股东同意出售其股票给中国化工集团公司。
"The easiest way to say it is that Syngenta will remain Syngenta," Michel	"简单来说，先正达仍然是先正达，"先正达公司董事长米歇尔·戴莫瑞(Michel

Demaré, the Syngenta chairman, said in a video posted to the company's website. "We will keep the same name. We will continue to be headquartered in Switzerland. And customers around the world will still have access and be offered the same range of innovative products that will help them increase their productivity and their yields."	Demaré)在公司网站发布的视频中说道。“我们的名称不变。我们总部仍设在瑞士。世界各地的客户仍然可以使用并购买同样的创新产品，帮助他们提高生产效率和产量。”
Syngenta's share price jumped more than 6 percent in early trading in Zurich on Wednesday after the announcement.	交易公布后，先正达的股价在苏黎世早盘跳涨逾6%。
Syngenta, based in Basel, Switzerland, is one of the world's largest producers of agricultural chemicals, including insecticides, fungicides, herbicides and seeds. The company reported sales of $13.4 billion in 2015 and employs more than 28,000 people in more than 90 countries.	先正达总部设在瑞士巴塞尔，是世界上最大的农业化学品生产商之一，其产品包括杀虫剂、杀菌剂、除草剂和种子。2015年该公司公布的销售额为134亿美元，并在90多个国家雇用了超过28000名员工。
It was created in November 2000 by the merger of the agribusinesses of Novartis and AstraZeneca.	它于2000年11月由诺华公司(Novartis)和阿斯利康(AstraZeneca)的农业业务部门合并而成。
The deal comes as China grapples with its long-held resistance to genetically modified crops. China generally does not allow the growth of genetically modified crops for human consumption, though its farmers and processors use them for oils and animal feed. Genetically modified crops face widespread public skepticism in a country where food quality is a constant fear.	该交易正值中国设法解决其国内长久以来对转基因作物的敌视情绪。中国一般不允许种植供人食用的转基因作物，但农民和加工商会用它们来制作油和动物饲料。在一个人们不断担忧食品质量的国家，转基因作物面临着公众的普遍质疑。
Still, Chinese leaders have taken steps to nurture a homegrown genetically modified crop industry. Two years ago it also began to make public efforts to ease that skepticism — a function of a time when it may need GMO crops to feed its growing population.	尽管如此，中国领导人已经采取措施来培育自主研发的转基因作物产业。两年前，它也开始公开努力缓和这些疑虑，这是因为它可能需要转基因作物来养活不断增长的人口时。
The country pulls out nearly one-third less wheat, corn or other grains per hectare than the United States, according to United Nations data. A	根据联合国的数据，中国每公顷小麦、玉米或其它粮食的产量比美国要低近三分之一。由于中国人口稠密、西部地区环境恶劣，且存在污染问题，中国

smaller portion of its land is arable because of overcrowding, a harsh environment in the country's western region and pollution.	国土中可耕地的比例小于美国。
Even within its farmland, China struggled with its legacy of industrialization, fast growth and lax regulatory enforcement — in 2014 authorities said nearly one-fifth of its arable land was polluted. Those factors have spurred China to rely increasingly on imports, stoking concern among some officials in Beijing about dependence on foreign supplies of food.	即使是在农田里，中国也要艰难应对该国工业化、高速增长、监管执法懈怠的后果——2014年，当局表示该国近五分之一的耕地受到了污染。这些因素使中国越来越依赖进口，引发北京一些官员对依赖国外粮食供应的担忧。
About six months ago, Monsanto abandoned a dogged pursuit of Syngenta, which first came to light in May of last year.	大约半年前，孟山都放弃了对先正达的穷追不舍。孟山都收购先正达的意图是在去年5月公之于众的。
Monsanto had offered to pay as much as $47 billion for Syngenta, but the Swiss company's directors rejected its approaches. Syngenta's board said at the time that Monsanto's bid did not account for the risk that regulators would scuttle the deal.	孟山都提出愿意支付高达470亿美元来收购先正达，但这家瑞士公司的董事们拒绝了它的示好。当时先正达的董事会表示，孟山都的收购要约没有考虑监管机构否决交易的风险。
After Monsanto walked away, Syngenta said it would divest itself of its global vegetable seed business and buy back stock to reassure shareholders. It also engaged in discussions with other suitors, including ChemChina.	在孟山都放弃后，先正达公司表示将剥离旗下的全球蔬菜种子业务，并回购股票来安抚股东。它还与其他追求者展开了谈判，其中就有中国化工集团公司。
Syngenta, already buffeted by low crop prices, has also had to deal with currency fluctuations, which pushed sales down 11 percent in 2015.	已经因为农作物的低价而备受打击的先正达，同时还不得不面对汇率波动的问题，这在2015年已经令其销售额压低了11%。
On Wednesday, Syngenta said it would no longer sell the vegetable seed business and would discontinue the share-buyback program.	周三，先正达公司表示将不再出售蔬菜种子业务，并会中止股票回购计划。
Mr. Demaré said that being acquired by a Chinese buyer "shouldn't raise any concern at all" and would allow the company to continue to pursue	戴莫瑞说，被中国买家收购“不应引发任何忧虑”，反而还可以让公司继续执行其战略规划。 its strategy.

"With this transaction, Syngenta will be able to realize the full potential of its stand-alone strategy with an ambitious shareholder who will invest to make it happen," he said. "It will also, at the same time, give us an enhanced market access to China."	"通过本次交易，先正达将获得一位雄心勃勃的股东，帮助我们充分发挥公司独立战略的全部潜力，"他说。"同时，这也能让我们以强有力的姿态进入中国市场。"
The ChemChina deal will still probably face significant regulatory scrutiny, particularly in Europe and the United States. But its structure offers Syngenta a degree of independence that was unlikely in a deal with Monsanto.	中国化工集团公司的这宗交易仍然可能会面临严格的监管审查，尤其是在欧洲和美国。但此次交易的结构为先正达提供了一定程度的独立性，这在与孟山都的交易中是不太可能的。
Under the plan, four of Syngenta's existing directors would be part of its new 10-member board, and ChemChina said it would seek to publicly list a minority stake in Syngenta down the road.	根据该计划，先正达公司现有董事中有四人将进入新的10人董事会，而中国化工表示，一段时间之后将寻求公开上市先正达公司的少数股权。
The question remains whether regulators will block the deal, particularly in the United States. North America accounted for about 27 percent of Syngenta's sales in 2015.	现在的问题是监管机构是否会阻止这笔交易，尤其是在美国。北美在2015年占了先正达约27%的销售额。
Because of Syngenta's presence in America, the Committee on Foreign Investments in the United States, a government panel that reviews takeovers by foreign buyers, will probably take a close look at the transaction.	由于先正达在美国经营，美国负责审查外资并购的政府机构外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investments)，恐怕会密切关注此次交易。
The committee raised "unforeseen concerns" in October about a similar deal in which Philips, the Dutch electronics giant, would sell a controlling stake in its automotive and LED components business to GO Scale Capital, an investment fund sponsored by GSR Ventures of China and Oak Investment Partners.	去年10月，该委员会对荷兰电子巨头飞利浦(Philips)的一桩类似交易提出了"未预见到的担忧"。当时菲利普欲将旗下的汽车和LED部件业务出售给GO Scale Capital，后者是中国的金沙江创业投资(GSR Ventures)与橡树投资伙伴(Oak Investment Partners)共同建立的投资基金。
"ChemChina and Syngenta are highly complementary businesses with	"中国化工与先正达的业务高度互补，产品重叠相对有限，"中国化工董事长 relatively limited overlaps in products," Ren Jianxin, the ChemChina chairman, said in a video. "We will work closely with all of the regulatory agencies involved, and we are confident that we will receive regulatory approval."	任建新在一段视频中表示。“我们会与所有涉及的监管机构密切合作，我们有信心能取得监管机构的批准。”

Last month, Philips said it and GO Scale Capital had terminated their agreement after failing to win regulatory approval.	上个月，飞利浦表示，该公司与 GO Scale Capital 由于未能取得监管机构批准而终止了协议。
The Syngenta deal would mark the latest foreign transaction by ChemChina, and comes amid a consolidation push in the chemicals industry that saw the industry titans Dow Chemical and DuPont agree to combine in December.	先正达的交易是中国化工最新的海外并购行动，此时正值化学品工业进行整合的一段时期。业界巨头陶氏化学(Dow Chemical)和杜邦(DuPont)去年 12 月同意合并。
China has been actively securing resources deals and consistently tops the rankings when it comes to buying companies in commodities and agribusiness.	中国一直积极寻求资源行业的并购，在收购大宗商品和农业企业方面，中国一直名列前茅。
In 2015, Chinese companies bought up overseas companies in the oil, gas, mining and agribusiness sectors worth $12.6 billion, according to Dealogic.	2015 年，中国企业并购海外石油天然气、采矿、农业等领域的企业总值 126 亿美元，Dealogic 数据显示。
Since acquiring Adisseo of France in 2006, ChemChina itself has engaged in more than a half-dozen acquisitions of companies in Europe, the Middle East and Australia.	自从 2006 年收购法国的安迪苏(Adisseo)以来，中国化工已经在欧洲、中东和澳大利亚开展了近十宗并购。
It recently took a minority stake in Mercuria, a Swiss energy and commodities company, in a move to diversify its portfolio and expand into the energy sector.	该公司最近买进了瑞士能源和大宗商品企业摩科瑞(Mercuria)的少数股份，这是提高其资产组合多元性，迈进能源领域的一个举动。
Last year, ChemChina bought Pirelli, the Italian tire maker, for 7.1 billion euros, or about $7.7 billion. And just last month it sealed a deal for KraussMaffei, a German manufacturer of plastics and rubber processing	去年，中国化工以 71 亿欧元（约 520 亿元人民币）的价格收购了意大利轮胎厂商倍耐力(Pirelli)。就在上个月，该公司又与德国塑料和橡胶加工机械制造商克劳斯玛菲(KraussMaffei)达成并购交易，金额约 10 亿美元。 machinery, for about $1 billion.

“The discussions between our two companies have been friendly, constructive and cooperative, and we are delighted that this collaboration has led to the agreement announced today,” Mr. Ren said in a news release. “We will continue to work alongside the management and employees of Syngenta to maintain the company’s leading competitive edge in the global agricultural technology field.”	“两家公司之间的讨论一直是友好、合作、有建设性的，通过这样的合作，我们今天得以喜悦地宣布这项协议，”任建新在一份新闻稿中表示。“我们会继续与先正达的管理层和员工合作，保持这家公司在全球农业技术领域的领先优势。”
Dyalco, JPMorgan Chase, Goldman Sachs and UBS and the law firms Bär & Karrer and Davis Polk advised Syngenta on the transaction. HSBC, China Citic Bank International and the law firms Simpson Thacher & Bartlett and Homburger advised ChemChina, and Credit Suisse served as the tender agent.	在此次交易中 Dyalco、摩根大通(JPMorgan Chase)、高盛(Goldman Sachs)、瑞银(UBS)，以及 Bär & Karrer 和 Davis Polk 这两家律师事务所为先正达充当顾问。汇丰银行(HSBC)、中信银行国际公司(China Citic Bank International)，以及盛信律师事务所(Simpson Thacher & Bartlett)和衡博律师事务所(Homburger)为中国化工充当顾问，瑞信(Credit Suisse)为要约代理。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160204/c04db-syngenta	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160204/c04db-syngenta
Severe Contraction and Falling Prices in Japan Signal Tough Test for Abenomics	日本经济再度负增长，安倍经济学受打击
Japan’s economy shrank in the final three months of 2015, the government said on Monday, undergoing a more severe contraction than experts had expected amid signs that global growth was stalling.	日本政府在周一宣布，该国经济在 2015 年最后三个月呈现负增长，其萎缩幅度较专家此前依据全球经济增长迟滞的征兆所做的预期要更为严重。
The Cabinet Office said output in Asia’s second-largest economy declined by 1.4 percent in annualized, price-adjusted terms. Most sectors — from consumption and housing investment to exports — deteriorated.	日本内阁府表示，在根据物价调整之后，这个亚洲第二大经济体在第四季度的年化增长率为-1.4%。从消费、房产投资到出口，大部分产业的表现都恶化了。
The decline in Japan’s gross domestic product was the second in three quarters, and was sharper than most private sector economists had	日本国内生产总值已在最近三季里第二度负增长，幅度也较私营部门大多数的经济师预测的更大。彭博社(Bloomberg)早先征询的经济师估计的萎缩幅

forecast. Economists surveyed by Bloomberg had predicted a contraction of 0.8 percent, on average.	度，平均落在 0.8%。
With concerns about the health of the global economy sending shudders through the financial markets, Prime Minister Shinzo Abe is facing what may be the toughest test yet of his three-year-old campaign to lift Japanese growth rates and end two decades of deflation.	全球经济局势不佳，连带拖累了金融市场。在这一背景下，日本首相安倍晋三过去三年来为振兴日本经济增长、终结二十年来的通货紧缩所做的努力，可能会面临前所未有的严峻考验。
One crucial pillar of that campaign — a weaker currency — has lately begun to crack. The yen dropped by about 40 percent against the dollar from the time Mr. Abe took office in late 2012 until the end of last year, as the Japanese central bank carried out an aggressive program of monetary stimulus.	让日元走弱是安倍振兴经济方案里的重要手段，不过这个手段的效果近来开始显现疲态。自安倍于 2012 年底入主内阁一直到去年年终为止，在日本央行执行强力措施来进行货币刺激的情况下，日元对美元的汇率在此期间下跌了 40%左右。
The devaluation of the yen enriched automakers and other big companies that earn most of their revenues abroad, and sent the Japanese stock market soaring. It helped nudge consumer prices higher, too, another central goal of Mr. Abe's economic agenda, known as Abenomics.	日元贬值让日本汽车生产商等收益主要来自海外的大企业受惠，并使得国内股市大涨。这也小幅推升了国内消费物价，而它是名为“安倍经济学”的这一计划的另一个核心目标。
But since late last year, a flight to safe assets by global investors has reversed the yen's direction. Stocks have tumbled — the Nikkei 225 average lost 12 percent last week, its worst weekly performance since the depths of the financial crisis in 2008. Inflation has slipped back to around zero.	然而自去年年底以来，全球投资人纷纷逃向安全资产，反转了日元的走势。股市猛跌，通货膨胀幅度也几乎归零。日经 225 平均指数在上周下跌了 12%，是自 2008 年金融危机的谷底以来，日本股市最差的单周表现。
In response, the central bank — the Bank of Japan — announced last month that it would take the unusual step of cutting its benchmark interest rate below zero, joining a group of European countries that are	为因应情势，央行日本银行(Bank of Japan)在上月宣布，将采取非常措施，把基准利率调为负值。此举使得日本加入了也在为通缩苦苦挣扎的部分欧洲国家之列。

also struggling with deflation.
The Nikkei surged more than 5 percent in early trading on Monday despite the gloomy economic report, possibly reflecting a slight easing in the yen after Asian markets closed on Friday.	在本周一的股市早盘，尽管经济数据惨淡，日经指数仍上涨了逾 5%。这可能反映出，在亚洲其他股市于上周五收市之后，日元承受的压力稍有缓解。
Mr. Abe's governing coalition faces an election for the upper house of Parliament this summer. Analysts and advisers say he has been counting on public support for his economic policies to extend the coalition's majority there. The strategy now looks less bankable, though it is unclear whether Japan's weak collection of opposition parties can capitalize on any voter backlash.	今年夏天，安倍领导的联合政府将要面临国会上院改选一役。分析人士与顾问表示，安倍一直以来都指望民众对他的经济政策的支持能维系他的联合政府在上院中的多数席次。如今看来，这个策略没那么可靠了，即便反对党组成的联盟力量孱弱，能否善用选民的反水来增添优势尚在未定之天。
For all of 2015, the Japanese economy eked out growth of 0.4 percent, the government data released on Monday showed.	日本政府周一公布的数据显示，2015 年全年，日本经济勉强增长了 0.4%。
Japanese G.D.P. data are often subject to sharp future revisions. The low growth rate, meanwhile, means those changes can easily make the difference between an economy that appears to be growing and one that is shrinking. Last quarter, for instance, the government initially said the economy was in recession, having contracted for two straight quarters, only to declare a few weeks later that output had actually grown.	不过日本的 GDP 常在公布后又大幅修正。上述增长率如此微小，也意味着未来修正数据时，经济增长的成绩很容易就会变成萎缩。以上季度数据为例，日本政府起初表示该国经济已连续两季度萎缩，因而处于衰退状态，不过政府又在几周后宣布，整体走势其实是增长的。
Even so, the economic contraction measured by the government's data on Monday took place as the recent financial market turmoil was only beginning. Should the volatility continue, analysts say, Japan could fall into recession for real this time.	即便如此，政府周一发布的数据所显示的经济衰退发生时，最近金融市场的动荡才刚刚开始。分析人士表示，如果市场继续波动的话，日本这回可能真的要陷入经济衰退了。 https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160216/c16japangdp	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160216/c16japangdp
China's Deal Makers Have Disappointed	中国海外收购变成赔钱买卖

The ghosts of past failures haunt China's new mergers and acquisitions players.	过去失败的阴影困扰着中国的新并购者。
Most of the country's big overseas takeovers to date have fared poorly. Large bets on oil, mining and finance were victims of terrible timing. Though more recent deals like the China National Chemical Corporation's $44 billion takeover of Syngenta look less cyclical, real challenges remain.	迄今为止,中国大多数海外收购案进展不顺。相关公司在糟糕的时机对石油、矿业及金融领域投下大赌注。最近的交易与往常有些不同,比如中国化工集团公司以440亿美元收购先正达(Syngenta),但困难依然存在。
To date, 13 of the 20 biggest completed deals by Chinese buyers outside the People's Republic and Hong Kong have been in natural resources, Thomson Reuters data shows. Nine involved the state oil majors: Sinopec, the China National Offshore Oil Company and China National Petroleum. Another four were by state-backed specialists in metals, oil field services, chemicals and investment.	汤森路透(Thomson Reuters)的数据显示,迄今为止,在中国买主在中华人民共和国及香港之外完成的20笔最大交易中,有13笔交易涉及自然资源。国有石油巨头中石化、中海油及中石油参与了其中九笔交易。另外四笔是由国家支持的金属、油田服务、化学及投资公司开展的。
Big mistake. Oil prices have more than halved since those deals were struck. And there were operational headaches, too. Cnooc's $18 billion purchase of Nexen left the Chinese group grappling with spills, fleeing civil war in Yemen and struggling to extract crude oil from Canada's tricky oil sands. Nomura analysts say Cnooc could soon have to take an impairment charge of more than $5 billion on Nexen.	严重错误。自这些交易达成以来,油价下跌了一半以上。还存在运营问题。中海油在以180亿美元的价格收购了尼克森(Nexen)之后,努力克服泄露问题,逃离也门内战,在加拿大难以处理的油砂中提取原油也十分棘手。野村证券(Nomura)的分析人士表示,中海油可能很快就得为尼克森支付逾50亿美元的减损支出。
The record is not much better outside commodities. The $5.5 billion that the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China invested in South Africa's Standard Bank has more than halved in dollar terms. The China Investment Corporation invested in Morgan Stanley and Blackstone before the depths of the financial crisis. Shares in Portugal's utility EDP are worth a fifth less than the price at which China Three Gorges	除了大宗商品外,其他商品的记录也没好多少。以美元计算,中国工商银行对南非标准银行(South Africa's Standard Bank)55亿美元的投资已经减少了一半以上。中国投资有限责任公司在金融危机陷入深渊前对摩根士丹利(Morgan Stanley)及黑石集团(Blackstone)进行投资。中国三峡集团向葡萄牙EDP公司投资35亿美元,而该公司目前的股价比投资时少了五分之一。自2014年进行投资以来,在香港上市的万洲国际(WH Group)的市值自

invested $3.5 billion in it. The WH Group, which is listed in Hong Kong, is down roughly a third since floating in 2014, suggesting that investors have lost their appetite for its $7 billion push into American pork.	2014 年流通以来跌了大约三分之一,这说明该公司以 70 亿美元进军美国猪肉产业的事已经无法引起投资人的兴趣。
The list of value-destroying deals is worrying, given the rush to seek outward mergers and acquisitions, which hit a record $113 billion in 2015. Of course, Chinese buyers may have learned some lessons. There's also a huge difference between chasing energy security and a seasoned deal maker like ChemChina's chairman, Ren Jianxin, adding world-beating foreign companies to his stable.	鉴于中国出现海外并购热, 2015 年的交易额达到创记录的 1130 亿美元, 这些毁灭价值的交易令人担忧。当然, 中国买主或许得到了一些教训。中国化工董事长任建新等经验丰富的交易商将很多世界一流的外国公司收入囊中, 和追求能源安全的交易还是有很大分别的。
Still, like other cross-border buyers, Chinese companies can struggle to run new overseas outposts effectively, while also keeping staff and governments onside. A poll by the consulting firm BCG found that Chinese acquirers thought just 32 percent of their foreign deals were "trouble-free." Towering piles of debt – a staggering $43 billion is being raised in Syngenta's case – raise the stakes further. The only consolation is that China's outbound M&A. record cannot get much worse.	但就像其他跨境买家一样, 中国公司可能难以有效运营新的海外据点, 同时获得员工及政府的支持。咨询公司 BCG 开展的民调显示, 中国收购者认为只有 32% 的对外交易“没有问题”。巨额债务——先正达交易带来高达 430 亿美元的债务——进一步加剧了风险。唯一令人安慰的是, 中国的境外并购记录不能更糟了。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160218/c18db-chinaviews	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160218/c18db-chinaviews
Political Backlash Grows in Washington to Chinese Takeovers	中国收购美芯片企业遭华盛顿抵制
HONG KONG – As Chinese companies try to snap up American tech businesses, they are setting off ripples of unease in the Obama administration and in Congress, inciting a backlash that has stopped the latest acquisition attempt.	香港——随着中国公司试图抢购美国科技企业, 它们在奥巴马政府和国会内部引发了不安, 并遭到强烈反对, 导致最新的一次收购尝试以失败告终。
One of the companies that first brought silicon to Silicon Valley – Fairchild Semiconductor International – said it would remain in	最早将硅引入硅谷的公司之一仙童半导体国际公司(Fairchild Semiconductor International)拒绝了由国家支持的中国买家领衔的收购要

American hands after rejecting a takeover offer worth about $2.5 billion led by Chinese state-backed buyers. Instead, Fairchild embraced a smaller bid from an American rival on Tuesday, citing concerns that federal regulators might reject the Chinese deal.	约，表示自己仍将是一家美国企业。中国买家的要约价值约为 25 亿美元。周二，该公司以担心联邦监管机构可能会否决和中国买家的交易为由，接受了一家美国竞争对手低于中国买家的要约。
The unsuccessful Chinese bid for Fairchild was just one of at least 10 such offers in the last year for international semiconductor businesses, mostly in the United States. China's Five-Year Plan, the government's economic and strategic road map, has emphasized semiconductors as a core industry. And a long list of Chinese companies with varying ties to the government have been trying to acquire foreign technology in the sector.	去年，中国企业对国际半导体公司发出了至少 10 起类似的要约，此次对仙童发出要约而失败只是其中之一。这些要约涉及的半导体公司主要是美国公司。中国政府制定的五年计划，作为该国的经济和战略路线图，强调了半导体是核心行业。大量和政府有着各种各样的关系的中国公司，一直试图获取半导体行业的外国技术。
Recent Chinese moves in areas like heavy equipment, aerospace and financial services are also drawing attention from both ends of the American political spectrum.	中国最近在重型设备、航空航天和金融服务等领域的动作，在美国政坛左右两翼人士中均引起了关注。
A group of 44 Republican members of Congress and one Democrat sent a letter on Tuesday afternoon to the Treasury Department, demanding that the Obama administration's interagency committee on foreign acquisitions "conduct a full and rigorous investigation" of a bid by a company in Chongqing, China, to acquire the small but historic Chicago Stock Exchange.	周二下午，44 名共和党国会议员和一名民主党议员给财政部寄了一封信，要求奥巴马政府就外国收购项目成立的跨部门委员会，对中国重庆一家企业发出的收购要约“进行全面、严格的调查”。这家重庆公司的收购对象是规模虽小但却具有历史意义的芝加哥股票交易所(Chicago Stock Exchange)。
Representative Robert Pittenger, Republican of North Carolina, said in a telephone interview that it had been easy to gather signatures on the letter in the House, with members worried that the deal would give China direct access to America's financial infrastructure. "It took two days — generally, you'll spend two weeks trying to get signatures," he	北卡罗来纳州共和党众议员罗伯特·皮滕格(Robert Pittenger)在接受电话采访时表示，在众议院征集签名的过程很容易，议员们都担心这笔交易会赋予中国直接进入美国金融基础设施的途径。“只用了两天，而一般来说征集签名要花两周时间，”他说。

said.
But because semiconductors are the tiny electronic cores of a long list of military systems, including drones and smart bombs, Chinese interest in them has attracted the most attention in Washington. Those worries have been amplified as the Obama administration has repeatedly accused Beijing of cyberespionage against the United States. The worries have further increased as China has expanded its role in the South China Sea, including claims by the United States and Taiwan this week that China has deployed surface-to-air missiles there.	因为微小的半导体是包括无人机和激光制导炸弹在内的大量军事系统的电子核心，中国对它们的兴趣引起了华盛顿最大的关注。随着奥巴马政府多次指责北京从事针对美国的间谍活动，那些担忧被放大。而且随着中国在南海日益扩大自己的角色，包括本周被美国和台湾爆出在那里部署地对空导弹，美国的担忧进一步得到强化。
"China's engaged in a buying spree of international semiconductor firms," said Michael R. Wessel, a member of the United States-China Economic and Security Review Commission, a group created by Congress to monitor bilateral relations. "What they can't develop on their own, they intend to buy, if they can, or steal, if they must."	"中国掀起了一股收购国际半导体公司的狂潮，"美国国会为监测双边关系而成立的美中经济安全审查委员会(U.S.-China Economic and Security Review Commission)委员迈克尔·R·韦赛尔(Michael R. Wessel)说。"对无法自主研发的技术，他们想能买的就买，不得已时就偷。"
The Chinese government has vehemently denied that it is responsible for hacking attacks, while pointing to detailed disclosures by Edward Snowden of how the United States engages in extensive electronic intelligence gathering on China. Economists in China — and some in the United States, particularly at Wall Street banks that advise on Chinese acquisitions — argue that the United States needs to remain open to foreign investment, particularly given low American savings rates.	中国政府言辞激烈地否认自己应该为黑客袭击负责，同时指出，爱德华·斯诺登(Edward Snowden)透露的细节表明，美国大量搜集有关中国的电子情报。中国的经济专家——以及美国的部分经济专家，尤其是供职于华尔街为中国收购案提供咨询服务的银行的经济专家——表示，美国需要继续对外国投资持开放态度，特别是考虑到美国储蓄利率较低。
When Washington politicians start objecting to Chinese acquisitions, "they're caught up by old-school, Cold War thinking," said Fred Hu, a prominent Chinese economist and fund manager.	中国知名经济学家、基金经理胡祖六称，当华盛顿的政界人士开始反对中国的收购项目时，"他们陷入了老派的冷战思维"。

Fears about Chinese control over critical technologies recently prompted United States officials to block a $2.9 billion deal for Chinese investors to buy a controlling stake in a unit of the Dutch electronics company Philips.	最近，对中国控制关键技术的担忧促使美国官员叫停了一笔价值 29 亿美元的交易。在该交易中，中国投资者拟收购荷兰电子公司飞利浦(Philips)旗下一家公司的控股权。
Fairchild said in early January that it expected a bid from China Resources Microelectronics — a unit of the state-owned China Resources Holdings — and Hua Capital Management to be a “superior proposal.” That offer amounted to $21.70 a share in cash, compared with the $20 a share that ON Semiconductor, an American company, had on the table. But worries about the likelihood of approval from the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States outweighed the attractiveness of the bid.	仙童曾在 1 月初称，预计华润集团旗下子公司华润微电子和华创投资的要约会是“最高报价”。该报价相当于每股 21.70 美元现金，而相比之下，美国公司 ON 半导体(ON Semiconductor)的报价仅为每股 20 美元。但和报价的吸引力相比，对美国海外投资委员会 (Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States)可能不会批准交易的担忧占了上风。
Fairchild’s decision shows the effect of broader political suspicion in the United States toward Chinese investment in the high-tech sector. Last summer, a similar but much larger deal was derailed before it even made it to regulators. The $23 billion bid for the American memory chip maker Micron by a Chinese state-controlled firm was undone by concerns about its political feasibility.	美国政界广泛怀疑中国在高科技领域的投资，仙童的决定则显示出了这种怀疑的影响。去年夏天，一宗规模更大的类似交易甚至还没上报给监管机构就落空了。因为对政治可行性的担忧，中国一家国有公司出价 230 亿美元收购美国存储芯片生产商美光(Micron)的要约被取消。
In that case, Senator Chuck Schumer, Democrat of New York, voiced worries about the deal’s effect on national security in a public letter to Treasury Secretary Jacob J. Lew. But Republicans are now starting to take up the issue, which means that it could take on a partisan dimension in an election year.	在那件事中，纽约州民主党参议员查克·舒默(Chuck Schumer)在写给财政部长雅各布·J·卢(Jacob J. Lew)的一封公开信中表示，担心交易会影响国家安全。但共和党现在又开始重提此事，这意味着在选举年，这个问题可能会表现出党派纷争的一面。
Despite the difficult climate, Chinese bids for American companies seem likely to increase, affected by a slowing Chinese economy and a	尽管形势艰难，但中国对美国公司发出的要约似乎可能会增多。这是受了中国经济日渐放缓的影响，很多中国企业希望在人民币兑美元进一步贬值之前

desire by many Chinese companies to move money out of the country before China's currency can weaken further against the dollar. In the sensitive microchip industry, deals are also being driven by more than $100 billion set aside by the Chinese government to help the country improve the sophistication and scale of the critical industry.	把资金转移到国外。在敏感的微芯片行业，中国政府为帮助增强这个关键行业的先进性，并提升其规模而预留的 1000 多亿美元，也推动了交易的达成。
The number of deals involving a Chinese company that is trying to buy an overseas chip maker rose to 21 last year, including the offer for Fairchild, from eight in 2010, according to the data company Dealogic. There have already been five this year, worth $857 million.	从 Dealogic 公司的数据来看，涉及试图购买海外芯片生产商的中国公司的交易数量，已经从 2010 年的八宗增加了到了去年的 21 宗，其中包括对仙童发出的要约。今年已经有五宗了，涉及的金额达 8.57 亿美元。
That has drawn more attention to the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, also known as Cfius. An interagency body that includes representatives from the Treasury, Justice and Defense Departments, Cfius can recommend against foreign deals made for American companies, or companies connected to the United States, on grounds of national security. The agency can also broker compromises in which companies enact special security checks for sensitive aspects of an acquisition or sell off those assets.	这让又名 Cfius 的美国海外投资委员会得到了更多的关注。作为一个跨部门机构，Cfius 的成员包财政部、司法部和国防部的代表。它可以以国家安全为由，建议否决外国公司对美国公司，或和美国有关的公司发出的交易要约。该机构还能从中斡旋，促使各方达成妥协。在这些妥协中，公司要对收购的敏感方面进行特别的安全检查，或是变卖掉那些资产。
Many in the semiconductor industry are watching closely to see whether Cfius will investigate a bid by the Chinese chip maker Tsinghua Holdings for a stake in the American company Western Digital, which makes hard disk drives. A lack of an investigation could herald more moves by Chinese investors to take minority stakes in American chip and memory companies.	半导体行业的很多从业者都在密切关注，看 Cfius 是否会调查中国芯片生产商清华控股对生产硬盘设备的美国公司西部数据(Western Digital)的股份发出的收购要约。如果 Cfius 不调查，则可能预示着中国投资者收购美国芯片和存储设备公司少数股权的动作会增多。
The potential Chinese buyers of Fairchild had already agreed to pay a $108 million termination fee if the deal did not get approval from Cfius.	此前，仙童的潜在中国买家已同意，如果交易得不到 Cfius 的批准，便支付 1.08 亿美元的终止费。在仙童提出担忧后，它们还将报价增至每股 22 美元。

They also increased their offer to $22 a share after Fairchild raised concerns. But Fairchild's transaction committee said an agreement would still be too risky.	但仙童的交易委员会称，达成协议的风险还是太高。
The Fairchild board said in a regulatory filing on Tuesday that it found the higher offer attractive but that there was "nonnegligible risk of a failure to obtain Cfius approval."	周二，仙童董事会在一份监管文件中称，公司觉得较高的报价很有吸引力，但“无法从 Cfius 获批的风险不可忽视”。
Fairchild works on several technologies that could have raised concerns. In particular, it develops and produces sensors that track motion in three dimensions, which are used in many cutting-edge technologies. Xsens, a company acquired by Fairchild in 2014, works on sensors that guide unmanned submarines and drones and help in maritime surveillance.	仙童拥有的几项技术可能引起了担忧。特别是其研发和生产的能在三维层面追踪运动的传感器。这种传感器被用在了很多尖端技术上。2014 年被仙童收购的公司 Xsens 生产的传感器，能引导无人潜艇和无人机，并协助海上监视行动。
Shares of ON Semiconductor closed up more than 6 percent on Tuesday, when Fairchild announced that it still favored the American company's bid. Fairchild's stock dropped almost 3 percent.	在仙童宣布依然支持 ON 半导体的要约的周二，后者的股价收高逾 6%。而仙童的股价则下跌近 3%。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160218/c18db-chips	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160218/c18db-chips
China's Foreign Exchange Reserves Dwindling Rapidly	中国外汇储备急剧缩水，人民币面临下行压力
HONG KONG — As markets around the world have churned, China has long taken comfort in having what in the financial world amounts to a life preserver: its vast holdings of other countries' money.	香港——在全球市场动荡之际，中国一直对自己手中握有金融世界救生圈而感到欣慰，也就是大量持有的其他国家货币。
A year and a half ago, China held as much as $4 trillion in foreign exchange reserves. The reserves represented a symbolic trophy for China's leaders, who have described them as the "blood and sweat" of the workers and upheld them as a sign of national strength.	一年半前，中国拥有高达四万亿美元的外汇储备。外储对中国领导人来说是一种有象征意义的战利品，他们形容外储是劳动者的“血汗钱”，并将其作为国力的一个标志。
Now, as China's economic growth slows, that sign of national strength	现在，随着中国经济增长放缓，这个国力的标志也在慢慢减少。

is slowly ebbing.
China's foreign exchange reserves are shrinking steadily as money flows out of China and Beijing moves to shore up its currency. The country's reserves have shrunk by nearly a fifth since the summer of 2014 – and more than a third of the shrinkage has been in the last three months. By the end of January, reserves stood at $3.23 trillion, a level that has prompted speculation about how much lower Beijing will let them go.	随着资金大量外流，加之北京动用外汇储备来支撑其货币，中国的外汇储备正在不断减少。自2014年夏天以来，中国的外汇储备缩水了近五分之一——其中超过三分之一发生在过去三个月中。到今年1月底，中国的外汇储备余额降至3.23万亿美元，这难免让人猜测北京到底会让它降至何种水平。
With a smaller pot of reserves, Chinese leaders have less room to maneuver, should the economy undergo a sudden shock. The reserves situation also weakens China's control over the value of its currency, the renminbi.	随着外汇储备的缩水，如果经济突发震荡，中国领导层的回旋余地也会减少。而外汇储量的状况还削弱了中国对人民币价值的控制。
The drop in reserves could also hurt China's efforts to raise its global profile, as it doesn't have as much money to pump into high-profile projects in developing countries.	外汇储备的减少，可能还会破坏中国提高其国际形象的努力，因为它不再拥有那么多的资金，可以注入到发展中国家的重大项目中。
"If you use up $700 billion of reserves, how much more is going to follow? That is the basic problem," said Guntram Wolff, the director of Bruegel, a nonprofit economic research institute in Brussels.	"基本问题是，如果你花掉了7000亿美元储备，那你还会继续花多少？"布鲁塞尔非营利性经济研究机构勃鲁盖尔研究所(Bruegel)所长君特汉姆·沃尔夫(Guntram Wolff)说。
The dwindling reserves are one of the many factors shaking global investor confidence because of the impact the slide could have on China's financial system. A number of investors are now betting that China may have to let its currency depreciate, rather than dip further into its reserves.	不断减少的外汇储备，和其他很多因素一起，削弱了全球投资者的信心，因为储备缩水可能会对中国金融体系形成冲击。很多投资者现在都把赌注押在了中国不得不让人民币贬值，而不是进一步动用外汇储备上。
Chinese officials are fighting back. In a rare interview published last weekend by Caixin, a Chinese magazine, Zhou Xiaochuan, the governor	中国官员对这种观点予以驳斥。上周末，中国的财新杂志少见地发表了一篇对中国央行行长周小川的采访。周小川表示，“中国有世界上最大规模的外

of China's central bank, said, "China has the largest volume of foreign exchange reserves in the world, and we will not let speculative forces dominate market sentiment."	汇储备，我们不会让投机力量主导市场情绪。”
China's reserve hoard is a byproduct of how it manages its currency.	中国的外汇储备囤积，是人民币管理方式的副产品。
During China's biggest boom years, its currency could have risen in value as huge sums in dollars, euros and yen flowed into the country. Instead, Beijing tightly controlled the value of the renminbi, buying up much of the inflows and putting them into its reserves instead. That brought angry accusations from the United States and Europe that it was manipulating its currency to help keep Chinese exports inexpensive and competitive in foreign countries.	在中国经济繁荣的鼎盛时期，随着大量美元、欧元和日元资金的涌入，人民币的价值上升了。但北京严格控制其价值，购买了很大一部分流入的资本，把它们纳入外汇储备之中。这引发了美国和欧洲的愤怒指责，称中国操纵人民币汇率，维护中国出口产品在外国低廉价格和竞争力。
Now that the renminbi faces pressure to fall, China is spending its reserves in an effort to prop up the currency. But many American lawmakers and presidential candidates still accuse China of keeping its currency artificially weak.	现在人民币面临下行压力，中国动用外汇储备来支撑人民币汇率。但是，美国很多国会议员以及总统候选人仍然指责中国在人为地压低人民币汇率。
The reserves are still considerable, more than double Japan's, which has the world's second largest amount. The central bank chief, Mr. Zhou, and others have questioned whether the reserves were too big and the money could be better invested if left in the private sector. Mr. Zhou led a move over the last two years to make it easier for Chinese companies and families to invest their own money overseas, only to find in recent months that the outflows have been disconcertingly fast at times.	中国的外汇储量仍然相当可观，超过第二位的日本一倍以上。这个储备是否过大，把这些资金留在私营部门是否有更好的投资，包括央行行长周小川在内的许多人都有所疑虑。周小川在过去两年里领导了一个举措，降低了中国企业和家庭用自己的资金在海外投资的难度，结果他们发现，在最近几个月里，资本外流的速度已经快到了令人不安的程度。
China has taken steps to stem further flows out of the country. This winter the Chinese authorities arrested the leaders of underground	中国已经采取举措，阻止资金进一步外流。今年冬季，中国当局逮捕了那些将数十亿人民币换成美元和欧元的地下钱庄老板。他们还增加了中国公民使

banks that were converting billions of renminbi into dollars and euros. They also made it harder for Chinese citizens to use their renminbi to buy insurance policies in dollars.	用人民币购买美元保单的难度。
More quietly, Beijing bank regulators have halted sales within China of investment funds known as wealth management products that are denominated in dollars.	中国的银行监管机构则在悄悄地暂停美元结算理财产品在境内的销售。
Beijing has also instructed bank branches in Hong Kong to limit their lending of renminbi to make it harder for traders and investors to place bets against the Chinese currency in financial markets.	北京方面还命令各个银行的香港分支机构限制人民币借贷，使得交易商及投资者更难以在金融市场上做空中国货币。
"We did receive notice from Beijing in the earlier part of January to be more stringent in approving renminbi-denominated loans," said a Hong Kong-based China bank executive, who insisted on anonymity for fear of employer retaliation. "It is no fun being caught in the middle, with marketing officers wanting to do more business and the higher-ups telling you to be tougher when reviewing credit proposals."	"我们确实在1月早些时候收到了北京方面的通知，要求我们在批准以人民币结算的贷款时更严格一些，"一家中国银行驻香港的高管说。"被夹在中间的感觉并不好，营销人员希望开展更多业务，而上级则要求你更加严格地审查信贷方案。"这名高管担心遭到雇主报复，要求匿名。
The erosion of reserves is also politically awkward, given public perception, and Beijing has taken steps aimed directly at shoring them up.	鉴于它给公众造成的印象，外汇储备的流失也造成了政治尴尬。北京方面已经采取旨在支撑储备的举措。
One move would keep more of its reserves free of long-term commitments. China's central bank now demands that at least some foreign money managers who want to invest part of the reserves pledge to achieve an annual return of as much as 26 percent or else their management fees will be reduced, said a person with knowledge of China's foreign reserves who insisted on anonymity to avoid retaliation.	一项举措会促使更多外汇储备免受长期承诺的限制。一名了解中国外汇储备情况的人士表示，中国央行现在要求，在希望利用部分储备进行投资的经理中，至少有一部分应该承诺每年带来多达26%的收益，否则就会削减他们的管理费，这名人士为了避免遭到报复，要求匿名。

Chinese markets rose this week, as some investors bet that China could slow the erosion. Expectations have faded that the Federal Reserve will keep raising interest rates this year, making China look more attractive. And China is running huge trade surpluses, bringing in a steady inflow of foreign money.	本周，中国市场有所增长，一些投资商打赌称，中国会减缓外汇储备的流失。对于美联储今年继续加息的期待已经逐渐消失，这让中国看起来更具吸引力。中国拥有巨大的贸易顺差，使得外国资金稳步流入。
Economists inside and outside China are increasingly trying to guess how far reserves must fall before China might consider a sharp devaluation of the currency. An International Monetary Fund model suggests that an economy of China's size needs $1.5 trillion with strict capital controls and $2.7 trillion without them.	中国国内外的经济学家越来越多地在尝试推测外汇储备要降至什么水平，中国才可能考虑使人民币大幅贬值。国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)的模型显示，如果进行严格的资本控制，中国这种规模的经济需要有 1.5 万亿美元，如果没有相关控制举措，这个数额为 2.7 万亿美元。
Brad Setser, a former United States Treasury official now at the Council on Foreign Relations, said that China could manage with smaller reserves because the model is not designed for a country with domestic banking deposits as large as China's.	目前在美国外交关系协会(Council on Foreign Relations)任职的前美国财政部官员布拉德·塞策(Brad Setser)表示，中国会设法应对储备减少的情况，因为这种模型不是为中国这种国内银行存款规模如此庞大的国家设计的。
The Texas hedge fund manager J. Kyle Bass, who has bet on a fall in the renminbi, recently told clients that his firm believes China doesn't even have the ability to tap all of its reserves because as much as $1 trillion is already committed to long-term investments. But most economists disagree, saying that no more than $300 billion has been committed to various projects and not yet disbursed, while the rest of China's $3.23 trillion in reserves is readily usable.	德克萨斯州对冲基金经理 J·基莱·巴斯(J. Kyle Bass)认为人民币会贬值，他最近告诉客户，他坚信中国甚至没有利用所有外汇储备的能力，因为已经有高达一万亿美元被投入到长期投资中。但大多数经济学家不同意这种说法，称投入于各种项目的外汇储备数额不到 3000 亿美元，且尚未支付，而剩下的 3.23 万亿是随时可以使用的。
Longer term, China looks less likely to commit its reserves to big projects that build up its image abroad, said Victor Shih, a specialist in Chinese finance at the University of California, San Diego. "When you're losing $100 billion a month, you can't afford to invest in a highway in	加州大学圣迭戈分校(University of California, San Diego)中国金融问题专家史宗瀚(Victor Shih)表示，从长远来看，中国将储备用于树立国际形象的大型工程的可能性在降低。他说，“当你每个月损失 1000 亿美元的时候，你没钱投资在偏远地方建造公路，在巴基斯坦修建可能会被炸毁的铁路。”

the middle of nowhere or a railway in Pakistan that could be blown up," he said.
In 2014, President Xi Jinping announced that China would provide the bulk of the $50 billion to set up an Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank and then said a month later that China would also set up a $40 billion fund to invest in many of the same countries that would borrow from the bank.	2014年，中国国家主席习近平宣布，中国将提供500亿美元的资金，设立亚洲基础设施投资银行(Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank)，并在一个月后表示，中国还将再提供400亿美元，设立基金，用于在那些从该银行贷款的国家投资。
Last month, Mr. Xi announced yet another fund for additional infrastructure projects in the world's poorest countries. Its total: just $50 million, barely enough to build a few roads in a single impoverished country.	上个月，习近平宣布设立另一项基金，为世界贫穷国家建造更多基础设施。总额只有5000万美元，这些钱勉强能在一个贫穷国家建几条公路。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160219/c19db-chinareserves	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160219/c19db-chinareserves
Ingram Micro Sold to Chinese Company for $6 Billion	海航集团子公司60亿美元收购美国科技企业
HONG KONG — Tianjin Tianhai, a Chinese shipping group, will buy the technology distributor Ingram Micro for $6 billion in the latest mega-deal involving a Chinese company.	香港——中国航运集团天津天海将斥资60亿美元收购技术分销商英迈(Ingram Micro)，这是最新的一宗涉及中国公司的大型交易。
Tianjin Tianhai will pay $38.90 a share in the deal, which Ingram, based in Irvine, Calif., said would help it increase investment and expand its geographical reach. Ingram will suspend its quarterly dividend payment and its share repurchase program until the deal is complete.	英迈总部设在加利福尼亚州欧文市，该公司表示，天津天海的收购价格是每股38.90美元，这宗交易将帮助英迈增加投资，扩大地域辐射范围。在交易完成之前，英迈将暂停其季度股息的支付和股票回购计划。
The deal was made in the face of growing wariness in Washington over Chinese acquisitions of technology companies in the United States. On Tuesday, Fairchild Semiconductor International rejected a $2.5 billion bid from Chinese state-backed buyers because of fears that the deal would not get regulatory approval from the Committee on Foreign	该交易达成之际，正值华盛顿对中国收购美国科技公司变得越来越谨慎。本周二，仙童半导体公司(Fairchild Semiconductor International)拒绝了一家由中国政府背景的买主提出的25亿美元收购要约，因为他们担心监管机构美国外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, 也称Cfius)不会批准这宗交易。

Investment in the United States, also known as Cfius.
Regulatory filings on Wednesday showed that Tianjin Tianhai would be required to pay Ingram a termination fee of $400 million under several circumstances, among them the dismantling of the deal by antitrust concerns or a review by Cfius.	本周三提交的监管报备文件显示，如果该交易因反垄断问题或 Cfius 的审查而被否决，或者出现了其他几种情况，天津天海需要向英迈支付 4 亿美元的终止费。
Ingram will become a subsidiary of HNA Group, an air transport and logistics company based in Hainan, China. Alain Monié, Ingram's chief executive, will remain in place, and the company said it did not expect any disruptions. Tianjin Tianhai is itself a subsidiary of HNA Group.	英迈将成为海航集团(HNA Group)的一家子公司。海航是一家航空运输和物流公司，总部设在中国海南，天津天海本身就是它的子公司。英迈的首席执行官阿兰·莫尼(Alain Monié)将继续担任该职位，公司表示他们预计不会出现任何扰动。
"We look forward to supporting Ingram Micro's management team and strategies, including continued expansion into new geographies, while also offering their vendor and customer partners access to new and complementary offerings," Adam Tan, the chief executive of HNA Group, said in a news release.	"我们希望为英迈的管理团队和战略提供支持，包括继续拓展到新的地区，并向他们的供应商和客户合作伙伴提供新的、互补的产品，"海航总裁谭向东(Adam Tan)在一份新闻稿中表示。
Mr. Tan added that Ingram would become the biggest revenue generator for HNA Group and would help it reach "business opportunities in emerging markets, which have higher growth rates and better profitability."	谭向东还说，英迈将成为海航集团最大的收入来源，帮助它"在增长率和盈利能力较高的新兴市场上获取商业机会"。
Mr. Monié said that HNA Group's logistics and its presence in China would support the growth of Ingram.	莫尼说，海航集团的物流业务以及在中国的影响力将促进英迈的增长。
China International Capital Corporation and Bravia Capital acted as lead financial advisers to HNA Group, and Weil, Gotshal & Manges acted as legal counsel.	海航集团的首席财务顾问是中国国际金融股份有限公司和 Bravia Capital，法律顾问是威嘉律师事务所(Weil Gotshal & Manges)。
Morgan Stanley & Co. acted as financial adviser and Davis Polk & Wardwell acted as legal counsel to Ingram.	英迈的财务顾问是摩根士丹利(Morgan Stanley & Co.)，法律顾问是达维律师事务所(Davis Polk & Wardwell)。

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160219/c19db-ingram	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160219/c19db-ingram
Chinese Deals Feel the Chill From Washington	中国公司赴美投资收购为何屡次碰壁
As growth slows at home, more and more Chinese companies are looking to do deals in the United States. And they are increasingly running smack into the American national security apparatus.	随着国内经济增长放缓,越来越多的中国企业试图在美国做交易。但他们正在越来越频繁地撞上美国国家安全机器的南墙。
Such scrutiny will have implications for United States and China relations, as well as for mergers and acquisitions more broadly.	这种严苛的审核将会对美中关系形成冲击,并对更广泛的并购活动造成影响。
The latest Chinese deal to feel the chill from Washington was a planned $3.78 billion investment by the Tsinghua Unisplendour Corporation of China in the American hard disk drive maker Western Digital. On Tuesday, Tsinghua said it was abandoning the purchase of a 15 percent stake in Western Digital, citing a decision by the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States to review the deal.	感受到华盛顿这股寒意的最新一宗中美交易,是中国公司清华紫光投资美国硬盘驱动生产商西部数据(Western Digital)37.8 亿美元的计划。本周二,清华紫光表示将放弃收购西部数据 15%的股份,援引的理由是美国外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States)决定对该交易进行审核。
What is this government body that holds such power?	是什么样的政府机构拥有这样的权力呢?
The committee, better known by the acronym Cfius, has a long history, going back to the Exon-Florio amendment of 1988. At that time, there were concerns about Japanese acquisitions in the United States, a fear whose legacy is several mediocre movies like "Rising Sun," a tale about Japanese corporate corruption, and the comedy "Gung Ho," which starred Michael Keaton as an executive at a car plant struggling under Japanese ownership.	该委员会的缩写 Cfius 更为常见。它的历史比较悠久,可以追溯到 1988 年的埃克森-佛罗里奥修正案(Exon-Florio)。当时,日本企业在美国的收购行为引起了人们的担心。这种忧虑催生了几部平庸的电影,比如描述日本企业腐败现象的《旭日》(Rising Sun),还有喜剧《超级魔鬼干部》(Gung Ho)。迈克尔·基顿(Michael Keaton)在后一部片子里扮演日本汽车厂的高管,在日本老板手下苟延残喘。
Since then, Cfius has grown increasingly powerful. In 2006, an uproar erupted over DP World of Dubai's acquisition of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, a British company that owned ports in the United States. Washington lawmakers from both parties	从那时起, Cfius 的权力越来越大。2006 年,迪拜环球港务集团(DP World)准备收购在美国拥有多座港口的英国企业铁行轮船公司(Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company),引发了一片哗然。华盛顿的两党议员均对这宗交易进行了抨击,选择性地忽略阿联酋是美国盟友的事实。国会

attacked the deal, choosing to ignore that the United Arab Emirates is an ally of the United States. Congress again acted to give Cfius even broader reach. DP World soon sold the American P.&O. ports.	再次采取行动，授予 Cfius 更大的权限。迪拜环球港务集团很快就出售了铁行轮船在美国的港口。
Last week, Cfius issued its annual report for actions in 2014. The interagency body — it includes representatives from the Treasury, Justice and Defense Departments — is a bit secretive. All its filings are confidential, it doesn't have a building in Washington and it lags an entire year in reporting figures.	上周，Cfius 发布了 2014 年度的行动报告。这个跨机构的组织由财政部、司法部和国防部的代表组成，行事有点遮遮掩掩。所有的申请都是保密的，它在华盛顿没有办公楼，公布的数据滞后了整整一年。
Potential foreign acquirers make a filing for a national security review. In 2014 there was a record high of 147 filings, up from 97 in 2013. The increase in 2014 was mainly a result of acquisitions in manufacturing, primarily technology. The most filings were by China with 24. Next was Britain with 21, and after that was Canada with 15. (Yes, even our closest allies are subject to Cfius review.)	国家安全审查申请由潜在的外国买家提出。2014 年，Cfius 共收到 147 份申请，创历史新高，而 2013 年为 97 份。2014 年的增长大多是制造业收购案所致，主要是科技制造业。提出申请最多的国家是中国，有 24 份，其次是英国的 21 份，然后是加拿大的 15 份。（是的，即使我们最亲密的盟友也受到 Cfius 的审核。）
Once a filing is made, the committee can decide to do nothing or investigate further to see if the transaction presents a national security problem. In 2014, there was a record high of 51 investigations, fully a third of all filings.	接到申请后，Cfius 可以决定什么也不做，或展开进一步调查，以确定这项交易是否存在国家安全隐患。2014 年，该委员会创下历史新高，对 51 项申请展开了调查，占有所有申请的三分之一。
After an investigation, if Cfius finds that the transaction has a national security issue, it will make a recommendation to the president, who can then decide to block the deal.	调查结束后，如果 Cfius 发现交易存在国家安全问题，就会给美国总统提出建议，后者可以决定阻止这项交易。
But Cfius rarely gets that far. There has been only one presidential action to block a transaction in the last five years. That was the 2012 acquisition of a wind farm by a Chinese company. Why would a wind farm implicate national security? Well, it was too close to a military	但 Cfius 很少会走到那一步。过去五年，只出现过一次由美国总统采取行动来阻止交易的情况。那是在 2012 年，当时有一家中国公司试图收购美国一座风电场。风电场怎么会和国家安全扯上关系？这个嘛，原因是它太靠近一座军事基地。 base.

Instead, what typically happens is that Cfius signals to the acquirer that it will recommend against the transaction. In that case the acquirer will withdraw the transaction to avoid the public stain of a full presidential action.	实际上, 更常见的情况是, Cfius 给收购方发出信号, 表示它会建议否定这项交易。此种情况下, 收购方会主动撤回收购意向, 以避免被美国总统采取阻止交易的行动, 留下人尽皆知的污点。
This is what happened in the case of Western Digital. Similarly, Cfius has acted to block an acquisition of a gold mine by a Chinese company because it too was too close to a military base. Philips withdrew the sale of its lighting subsidiary last year under similar concerns.	清华紫光对西部数据的收购申请就是遭遇了这种情况。类似的, Cfius 因一座金矿太靠近军事基地而阻止一家中国公司对它进行收购。出于同样的原因, 飞利浦(Philips)去年撤销了出售旗下一家照明产品子公司的计划。
Some pending deals are coming into Cfius's cross hairs. The biggest is China National Chemical Corporation's $43 billion acquisition of Syngenta, a Swiss giant in farm chemicals and seeds with big operations in the United States.	有一些悬而未决的交易正在进入 Cfius 的瞄准范围。其中最大的一宗是中国化工集团公司收购先正达(Syngenta)的计划, 价值 430 亿美元。这家瑞典公司是农用化肥和种子生产领域的巨头, 在美国有多处大型分支机构。
It may seem odd that an agriculture company would become a matter for national security, but this is all about food technology. The market is betting that Cfius is almost certainly going to require divestitures or restrictions on access of the Chinese company to Syngenta's American operations and technology.	这看似有些奇怪, 一家农业公司会牵涉国家安全, 但它关乎的其实是食品技术问题。市场猜测, Cfius 几乎肯定会要求进行资产剥离, 或者限制这家中国公司得到先正达在美国的分支机构和技术。
But it is not just food technology. Chongqing Casin Enterprise Group's agreement to acquire the Chicago Stock Exchange has been met with heated protest. Forty-five members of Congress have sent a letter to Cfius asking the committee to block the deal on "transparency" concerns, namely that the Chinese economy and buyer are opaque and that providing access to American market and trading technology might harm the United States.	然而, 不是只有食品技术才会如此。重庆财信企业集团收购芝加哥证券交易所(Chicago Stock Exchange)的申请就遭到了强烈的抗议。45 位议员给 Cfius 发了一封联名信, 要求该委员会阻止这项交易, 原因是有关“透明度”方面的顾虑, 即中国经济和买家是不透明的, 给他们提供进入美国市场和进行技术交易的机会, 有可能会给美国造成伤害。

Expect tensions to get worse. Chinese companies are desperate to get dollars out of China in anticipation of a further slide in its currency. Foreign acquisitions are an easy solution, since they are encouraged by the Chinese government. And American sellers are willing to take the risk. Indeed, pending now is Tianjin Tianhai's $6 billion deal for the technology distributor Ingram Micro, which would be the largest Chinese acquisition of an American technology company.	这种摩擦还会加剧。中国企业目前急于将资金放到中国以外的地方，因为他们预计本国的货币还会进一步贬值。海外并购是个比较容易的解决办法，因为中国政府对这种行为持鼓励态度。美国卖家也愿意承担其中的风险。实际上，中国航运集团天津天海即将达成的以 60 亿美元收购技术分销商英迈 (Ingram Micro) 的交易，将会是中国在美国进行的最大的一宗科技企业收购。
To be sure, Cfius actually approves most acquisitions, even the Chinese ones. For example, it approved the acquisition of Smithfield Foods and the battery maker A123 despite some protest.	当然，Cfius 实际上通过了大部分的交易申请，甚至包括中国公司提出的那些。比如，尽管有人提出抗议，它还是批准了对史密斯菲尔德食品公司 (Smithfield Foods) 和对电池生产商 A123 的收购。
These types of national security reviews also occur in other countries, including China, and can sometimes take on an absurdist flavor. Canada, for example, reviewed Burger King's acquisition of Tim Hortons, its national coffeehouse chain, on national security grounds. France famously stated that it would not allow the acquisition of Danone, since the yogurt maker was a national champion.	其他国家也有这类针对国家安全的审核，包括中国，而且有时候还会显得有些荒诞。比如，加拿大就以国家安全为由，对汉堡王 (Burger King) 收购该国咖啡连锁店蒂姆-霍顿斯 (Tim Hortons) 一事进行了审核。法国曾出了名地表示，它不会允许外国公司收购达能 (Danone)，因为这家酸奶生产商是国宝。
But we are entering into a new phase with Chinese acquisitions. The United States' national security service, never considered a transparent process, is going to have to grapple with how far it can allow these Chinese companies to go. When is food technology important? Is a stock market really something that needs protection, particularly one that is dying?	不过，在中国企业的收购申请方面，我们正进入一个新的阶段。一直被认为不透明的美国国家安全审核，将要面对在多大程度上给中国企业放行的难题。食品技术什么时候成了重要的问题？证券交易所真的需要保护吗，尤其是那么一家快要倒闭的？
If you want to know how heated these debates can become, think about what is going on with Apple now and the controversy over whether it should be forced to unlock an iPhone. Then imagine a	如果你想知道这些争论未来会激烈到什么程度，可以想想眼下苹果正在经历的事，想想就是否该强迫苹果公司解锁一部 iPhone 产生的争议。然后想象一下，把其中的苹果替换成一家外国企业。

foreign company is substituted for Apple.
Would it be better to let the money in, as we did with the Japanese, and watch them overspend and mismanage? After all, even in the best of times foreign acquisitions are difficult. And it may just be that this money and new viewpoint will make American companies better.	让外国资金进来，然后看他们超支和管理不善，会是更好的选择吗？就像我们以前对待日本人那样。毕竟，就算是在经济形势最好的时候，外资收购也并不容易。而且，情况也可能是，这些钱和新的视角会让美国企业变得更好。
And ultimately, there is the issue of xenophobia and commerce. These acquisitions create value for the United States. Is blocking them based on rationality, or simply on fear?	最根本的，还存在着这是排外还是商业考量的问题。这些收购交易能为美国创造价值。我们是基于理性判断在阻止它们，还是只是出于恐惧？
Deal-making, particularly cross-border deal-making, is always hard, but it is about to get much harder over the next few years as the United States decides how vigorous its national security review process will be. This will be a debate that will primarily be about China.	达成交易，尤其是跨国交易，总是很难的，但在接下来的几年里，它会变得更难。美国会决定它就国家安全问题进行的审核会严格到什么程度，而这方面的争议将主要和中国有关。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160224/c24db-dealprof	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160224/c24db-dealprof
China Stocks Fall Steeply in Renewed Instability	沪指暴跌 6.4%，中国股市再现危机
HONG KONG — Chinese stocks dropped steeply on Thursday, days after the ouster of the country's top securities regulator and just ahead of Group of 20 meetings in Shanghai. The drop reversed some of the gains made since the Lunar New Year holiday this month.	香港——中国股市周四暴跌，而几天以前，中国证券行业的最高监管者被撤职。20 国集团会议即将在上海召开。此次大跌逆转了本月农历新年假期过后股市的一部分涨幅。
The Shanghai composite index plunged 6.4 percent after having edged up throughout February. The Shenzhen composite slid 7.3 percent. The ChiNext index of smaller companies also took a battering, closing 7.6 percent lower.	上海综合指数在经历了整个二月份的小幅度缓慢持续上涨之后，当日以下跌 6.4% 收盘。深综指下跌了 7.3%。小公司的创业板指数也受到重创，以 7.6% 的跌幅收盘。
The sharp sell-off comes at an awkward time, less than a week after China's leadership, which has been battling to rally confidence in its ability to manage the economy, replaced Xiao Gang, the head of the	股市大幅下跌的时间颇为尴尬，不到一周前，一直在努力增强人们对其管理经济能力的信心的中国领导层，换下了证券监督管理委员会主席肖钢。

China Securities Regulatory Commission.
Mr. Xiao took a huge portion of the blame for amplifying the turbulence in China's stock market, which kicked off last summer and reignited at the beginning of this year. Under his leadership, measures introduced to stem volatility and stabilize the markets ended up worsening a weeklong rout at the beginning of January that sent jitters around the world.	肖钢承担了放大中国股市动荡的大部分责备，股市动荡是去年夏天开始的，今年年初再次出现波动。肖钢领导下出台的旨在遏制波动、稳定股市的措施，反而让元旦之后一周里的暴跌更加糟糕，引起世界各地股市的不安。
Mr. Xiao was replaced by Liu Shiyu, the former chairman of the Agricultural Bank of China and a former deputy governor of the People's Bank of China. The high-profile move to force Mr. Xiao out appeared to be an attempt to buy time to limit the damage from the bungled management of the stock markets. But the sell-off on Thursday indicated that investors were still nervous.	接替肖钢的是原中国农业银行董事长、原中国人民银行副行长刘士余。高调撤换肖钢的做法，似乎是试图为控制笨手笨脚地管理股市所造成的损失争取时间。但周四的抛售表明投资者仍然不放心。
The rest of Asia was more mixed. The Nikkei 225-stock index in Japan closed 1.4 percent higher, while the Hang Seng Index in Hong Kong closed down 1.5 percent. Shares in South Korea and Australia inched up.	亚洲其他股票市场表现各异。日本的日经 225 指数以 1.4% 的涨幅收盘，而香港的恒生指数收盘时则下跌了 1.5%。韩国和澳大利亚的股市微涨。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160226/c26db-chinamarkets	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160226/c26db-chinamarkets
Global Finance Leaders Meet as Economic Skies Darken	G20 上海峰会能给世界经济开出什么药方
SHANGHAI — The global economy looks shaky. Markets for things as diverse as oil and European bank shares have plumbed new lows. The tried-and-true cures no longer seem to work.	上海——全球经济看起来极不稳定。从石油到欧洲银行股票这些差异极大的东西的市场均跌至新低。那些屡试不爽的解决办法似乎不再有效。
The task for global leaders this week: Come up with Plan B.	世界领导人本周面临的任务是制定 B 计划。
Finance ministers and central bank governors from the world's biggest industrialized and developing economies now arriving in Shanghai face their toughest task since the worst days of the global financial crisis.	世界最大的工业化国家及发展中国家的财政部长和央行行长正陆续抵达上海，面临自全球金融危机最低谷以来的最艰巨任务。欧洲陷入低增长，日本濒临衰退边缘，尽管日本央行及越来越多的欧洲央行进一步将利率压向负

Europe is mired in low growth and Japan is teetering on the brink of recession, even though the Bank of Japan and a lengthening list of European central banks are pushing interest rates ever deeper into negative territory.	值。
China, the world's leading engine of economic growth in recent years, is struggling with heavy debts, a slowdown in manufacturing, stagnant exports and a flood of money leaving its borders. Countries that depend on selling oil and other resources are struggling under persistently low prices. The United States is facing a drag on growth as the strong dollar makes it cheaper for many consumers and companies to import goods instead of buying them from American businesses.	中国作为近些年来世界经济主要的增长引擎，正在应对沉重债务、制造业放缓、出口业停滞不前及资金外流等问题。由于石油及其他资源的价格持续偏低，依靠出售此类资源发展经济的国家步履维艰。美元走强促使很多消费者和公司放弃美国公司的产品，转而购买进口产品，导致美国经济增长受阻。
That leaves a difficult situation for the economic policy makers of the Group of 20 nations, who will be hard pressed to come up with solutions during their meetings in Shanghai.	这给 20 国集团的经济决策者们出了一道难题，将会有很大的压力促使他们在上海会议中拿出解决方案来。
"What to do about the increasing risks to the recovery is perhaps the single most important question before the finance chiefs in Shanghai," the International Monetary Fund said this week. It added: "The G-20 must plan now and proactively identify policies that could be rolled out quickly, if downside risks materialize."	"经济复苏面临的风险日益增加，对此要采取怎样的应对措施，或许就是摆在齐聚上海的财长们面前的最重大的问题，"国际货币基金组织(IMF)本周表示。该组织还称："20 国集团现在必须规划并主动识别出一些政策，如果下行风险成型，这些政策可以迅速展开。"
During and right after the global financial crisis in 2008 and 2009, the Group of 20 produced broad agreements on many financial regulations, most notably a tightening of international capital standards. But in the years since, the disparate collection of economies from Argentina to the European Union has been known mostly for agreeing on generalities and making few changes, culminating in an	在 2008 年和 2009 年，全球金融危机期间和刚刚结束后，20 国集团针对很多金融监管制订了广泛的协议，其中最引人注目的就是国际资本标准的收紧。但在之后的这些年里，这个涵盖了从阿根廷到欧盟的多元经济体的集团召开的会议，基本上都是泛泛而谈，几乎没有出台任何改革措施，去年在土耳其举办的会议也是毫无建树。

unproductive series of meetings in Turkey last year.
"The Turkish presidency of the G-20 led to no progress on any front," said Ken Courtis, a prominent international economist and fund manager.	"在土耳其举办的 20 国集团会议没有取得任何进展,"著名国际经济学家、基金经理肯·柯蒂斯(Ken Courtis)说。
China, which holds the Group of 20 presidency this year, is one major concern. In August, China devalued its currency, the renminbi, by 4 percent with no warning, setting off sharp sell-offs in global markets. China now faces pressure to weaken the currency further as money leaves the country because of slowing growth – a prospect that could further hurt the global economic outlook.	中国既是今年 20 国集团会议主席国, 也是一个主要关注点。去年 8 月, 中国在没有事先警告的情况下将人民币贬值了 4%, 在全球市场上引发大量抛盘。由于经济放缓, 资金正在流出中国, 它现在面临着让人民币进一步贬值的压力——这可能会进一步损害全球经济前景。
"What we're concerned about is China. Could there be a break on China's currency that could tip the global economy into recession?" said Charles Collyns, a former assistant secretary of the Treasury for international finance in the Obama administration who is now the chief economist of the Institute of International Finance.	"我们现在担心的是中国。中国的货币是否会突然变化, 进而导致全球经济陷入衰退?" 国际金融研究所(Institute of International Finance)的首席经济学家查尔斯·科林斯(Charles Collyns)说。他曾在奥巴马政府担任财政部助理部长, 负责国际金融领域。
Chinese officials appear to have gotten the message that silence is not always golden. At a financial conference here on Thursday, officials described how they would use government deficit spending to spur growth. A senior Chinese central banker pledged to preserve the value of the renminbi by firmly tying its value to a group of other currencies. Zhou Xiaochuan, the governor of the central bank, has agreed to give a public speech on Friday morning in Shanghai, then hold a rare news conference afterward.	中国官员似乎已经明白, 沉默不总是金。本周四在这里举行的一个金融会议上, 官员们解释了他们会如何利用政府赤字开支来刺激经济增长。中国央行的一位高层官员承诺会维持人民币的币值, 方法是把人民币与其他一些货币牢牢挂钩。央行行长周小川同意在本周五上午在上海发表一个公开演讲, 之后再少见地举行一次新闻发布会。
China's devaluations put pressure on rival exporters to do the same or risk losing their competitiveness. Many emerging markets, like Russia	中国货币的贬值给同样出口的竞争对手带来了压力, 如果他们不同样贬值货币, 就可能会失去竞争力。很多新兴市场, 如俄罗斯和巴西, 要么是允许其

and Brazil, have allowed their currencies to fall steeply against the dollar or been forced into it, raising fears of devaluations of the sort seen in the 1930s, which led to a collapse of international trade. Countries with currencies that have stayed strong as safe havens, including the dollar and the Japanese yen, have seen growth suffer.	货币相对于美元急剧下跌，要么是被迫这样做，因此一些人担心上世纪30年代那样的贬值狂潮再次发生，令国际贸易崩溃。一些国家的货币保持坚挺，被视为避风港，比如美元和日元，而这些国家的经济增长都受到了影响。
One of the biggest question marks over the group lies in how much it might do on currencies, beyond a general call for more stable exchange rates. But Chinese officials have worked to deflate expectations that the Shanghai meeting could be a reprise of the Plaza Accord, a deal between major economies in 1985 to fix volatile currency markets.	20国集团身上最大的一个问号是，在货币方面，除了泛泛地呼吁更稳定的汇率之外，它还可以做多少事情。不过，中国官员在努力淡化《广场协议》(Plaza Accord)可能在上海会议中重演的预期。主要经济体在1985年达成了《广场协议》，目的是让动荡的货币市场变得稳定。
A senior United States Treasury official said that he expected countries to reiterate previous commitments to manage their currencies responsibly, rather than shift their value. "I see those commitments as being a strong indication from G-20 members that they will manage their currencies in ways that are globally consistent," he said.	美国财政部一名高级官员表示，他预计各国会重申之前做出的承诺：负责任地管理本国货币，不会改变币值。“我认为这些承诺将是一个强烈的信号，显示20国集团的成员国将在全球范围内采用协调一致的方式管理货币，”他说。
The official, who insisted on anonymity because of diplomatic considerations, said that the United States would push instead to call on countries with broadly measured surpluses on trade and royalties to stimulate domestic spending, particularly by consumers.	出于外交方面的考虑，这位官员不愿具名。他表示，美国将推进另一项主张，呼吁贸易和税费盈余较多的国家刺激国内消费，尤其是消费者支出。
Yet China has already stepped up infrastructure spending so much in the last decade that it is becoming harder to find projects that justify the investment. In Europe, the longstanding caution of the German government about large-scale spending has been a deterrent. In the United States, Republicans in Congress have been leery of the extra borrowing that could be needed to finance additional roads, bridges	然而，中国在过去10年大大增加了基础设施建设支出，以至于现在找到合理的投资项目变得更难了。德国政府对大规模支出长期持谨慎态度，在欧洲形成了一种阻力。而在美国，对于需要额外借款来资助公路、桥梁和铁路项目，国会的共和党人一直持怀疑态度。 and rail lines.

One question is whether China's presidency this year can make the group more productive.	一个问题是，中国今年担任主席国，能否让 G20 集团变得更有成效。
Except on climate change, for which it made a large commitment to slow down emissions before the Paris agreement in December, China has sought to be recognized as a leader of global diplomacy without taking responsibility for specific results. In Syria, in South Sudan, and at times even on its own border in North Korea, it has been leery of trying to dictate any resolution to longstanding international concerns.	除了气候变化方面——去年 12 月在巴黎达成协议之前，中国就做出很大的承诺，表示要减缓碳排放——中国还在竭力使自己被认可为全球外交事务方面的领导者，但它不愿为一些具体的后果承担责任。在叙利亚、南苏丹，有时甚至是在中朝边境上，中国都谨慎地避免在长期存在的引起国际关切的事务上做出任何表态。
In the Group of 20, China has to cope not only with its own reluctance to take strong stands but also with the lack of a strong international consensus among the disparate nations on what the world should do to strengthen economic growth. "It's hard in the context of a G-20 communiqué to get really concrete initiatives," Mr. Collyns said. "So what I would expect is some kind of framework."	在 G20 集团中，中国不仅必须应对自身不愿采取坚定立场的问题，还要面对迥然不同的各个成员国就世界该做些什么来拉动经济增长方面缺乏强烈国际共识的问题。"G20 公报里很难出现真正具体的倡议，"科林斯说。"所以我预计会是一些框架性的东西。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160226/c26globalecon	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160226/c26globalecon
China Gives Glimpse of Its Solutions to Economic Problems	中国官员透露经济对策，稳定币值增加开支
SHANGHAI — Chinese economic policy makers tugged back the curtain a bit on Thursday on their plans to stabilize the country's economy and financial markets, even as shares plunged more than 6 percent late in the day.	上海——周四，中国负责制定经济政策的官员稍微透露了一些该国在稳定经济和金融市场方面的计划，而中国股市在当天晚些时候又暴跌了逾 6%。
Speaking to leaders of the world's biggest banks and institutional investors at a financial conference here, officials described how they would use government deficit spending to spur growth. A senior Chinese central banker also pledged to preserve the value of China's	在上海举行的一次金融会议上，面对世界上最大的银行和机构投资者，中国官员讲述了他们将如何利用政府赤字开支来刺激增长。中国央行的一位高层领导也承诺，要保持人民币币值，方式是将人民币和一系列其他货币牢牢挂钩。

currency, the renminbi, by firmly tying its value to a range of other currencies.
Timothy Adams, the chief executive and president of the Institute of International Finance, said Chinese policy makers realized they had made a serious mistake by staying silent as slowing growth, stumbles in the stock market and a fluctuating currency undermined the world's perception of China's economic stability. Their silence has been widely construed as either a reluctance to acknowledge difficulties or a lack of solutions.	国际金融研究所(Institute of International Finance)首席执行官兼所长蒂莫西·亚当斯(Timothy Adams)表示,中国决策者意识到他们犯了一个严重的错误——在经济增长放缓、股市下跌和货币价值波动损害了外界对中国经济稳定性的看法时,一直保持沉默。他们的沉默被普遍理解为,要么是不愿承认面临的困难,要么是缺乏解决之道。
"Either they communicate with the markets in a timely and intelligent fashion, or the markets are going to write their own story line," said Mr. Adams, a former senior United States Treasury official.	"他们不用聪明的方式和市场进行及时的沟通,市场就会以自己的方式做出理解,"曾在美国财政部任高级官员的亚当斯说。
Finance ministers and central bank governors from around the world are flying into Shanghai for meetings this weekend. Global banking leaders are already here for the annual conference of the Institute of International Finance. So a large contingent of Chinese officials has come from Beijing to meet with them and discuss their policies.	世界各国的财政部长和央行行长正飞往上海,准备出席周末在这里举行的会议。全球银行业领袖已经来到上海,正在参加由国际金融研究所举行的一年一度的会议。所以一大批中国官员也从北京前来和他们会面,讨论他们的政策。
So far, the Chinese officials have acknowledged the challenges they face, but they contend that the world has overlooked the many policy options they can use to respond.	目前,中国官员已经承认自身面临诸多挑战,但他们辩称,外界也忽略了,他们有很多可以用以应对的政策选项。
The officials outlined how they hoped to shift the economy from its emphasis on manufacturing, exports and a sometimes manic pace of construction, toward services and consumer spending. And they described how they hoped to manage that transition without tripping up economic growth along the way.	这些官员勾画出,他们希望如何将经济发展的重点从制造、出口和不时狂飙突进的建设领域,向服务业和居民消费转变。他们还表示,希望在不影响经济增长的情况下实现这种转变。

Zhu Guangyao, a vice minister of finance, said Thursday morning that Prime Minister Li Keqiang would unveil a government budget early next month that would include economic stimulus through an increase in deficit spending, which was only 2.3 percent of economic output last year. "In 2016, certainly we will have to increase that ratio," he said.	中国财政部副部长朱光耀周四上午表示，李克强总理将于下月初公布今年的政府预算，其中将包括通过增加赤字支出来刺激经济增长的计划。中国去年的赤字支出仅为经济产出的 2.3%。“2016 年，我们肯定得提高这个比例，”他说。
Although China's corporations are heavily indebted, the Chinese central government is not.	尽管中国的企业大多负债累累，但中央政府并非如此。
In a subsequent speech to international bank leaders, Yi Gang, the first deputy governor of the People's Bank of China, provided the strongest commitment to date not to devalue the renminbi. He described a complex strategy based on anchoring the value of the renminbi to three baskets of currencies. The baskets are essentially weighted averages of how much the renminbi is worth in terms of dollars, euros, yen and other currencies.	随后，在对国际银行业领袖讲话时，中国人民银行副行长易纲做出了迄今为止有关人民币不再贬值的最强承诺。他描述了一项基于将人民币与三个货币篮子挂钩的复杂策略。这些篮子基本上相当于，人民币相对美元、欧元、日元和其他一些货币的加权平均。
Zhou Xiaochuan, the governor of the central bank, is scheduled to speak Friday morning and then hold a rare news conference immediately afterward.	央行行长周小川计划于周五上午发表讲话，紧接着他还会并不多见地举办一场新闻发布会。
He will have much to discuss: Money has been sluicing out of China this winter, as companies and individuals use their renminbi to buy dollars, fearing that the renminbi may decline further against the dollar. As officials spoke on Thursday, the Shanghai stock exchange on the other side of town was sliding steeply, ending with a loss of 6.4 percent — a particularly precipitous decline given that the market halts trading in any listing once it has fallen 10 percent.	他将有不少需要讨论的问题：随着企业和个人因担心人民币对美元进一步贬值而用人民币大量买入美元，这个冬天中国的资金一直在外流。周四，就在中国官员们讲话的同时，位于上海市另一端的上海证券交易所的指数剧烈下挫，最终以 6.4% 的跌幅收盘——考虑到任何一支股票价格下跌 10% 就会停止交易，6.4% 更可算是暴跌。
Share prices slid on Thursday, not in response to the reassurances of	周四的股市下滑，并不是对中国官员的安抚言论做出的反应，而是受到中国

Chinese officials but rather to a spike in short-term interest rates in Chinese money markets.	金融市场短期利率上扬的刺激。
Despite huge outflows in recent months, it was not immediately clear that trying to slow them was the sole cause of the rise in interest rates. The Chinese central bank injects huge sums of cash into the economy in late January and early February each year in anticipation of heavy consumer spending during Chinese New Year, then tries to drain some of that extra money in late February. It is a tricky task every year, and especially when financial confidence is weak.	尽管最近几个月中国出现大幅资金外流，但不能马上断定，遏制外流速度的努力是利率上升的唯一因素。每年的1月末和2月初，中国央行都会向经济领域注入巨额资金，以满足春节期间预计会出现的大量消费支出，然后在2月末的时候，再努力收回部分多余资金。每年这都是项棘手的任务，在金融领域信心低落的时候，尤其如此。
Even if Chinese officials do start unveiling further policy responses to economic weakness, it is unclear whether overseas investors will believe them. China has repeatedly promised measures to limit the rapid growth of corporate debt and to overhaul state-owned enterprises, notably at the Third Plenum, a policy-setting gathering in the autumn of 2013. But putting changes in effect has proved slow and difficult, as many could involve layoffs in single-company towns with few alternative employers, and could threaten the livelihoods of politically connected executives at troubled state-owned enterprises.	即使中国官员开始推出应对经济疲软的进一步政策，目前也不清楚海外投资者对他们是否有信心。中国一再承诺将采取措施，限制企业债的快速增长，并对国有企业进行全面改革，尤其是在2013年秋季召开制定政策的十八届三中全会的时候。但是事实证明，这些变化的贯彻既缓慢又艰难，因为它可能涉及到裁员，很多情况下一座城镇只有一家大企业，几乎没有其他雇主，而且在陷入困境的国有企业，这可能会威胁到那些有政治后台的高管的生计。
The Chinese central bank has been trying to inject additional cash into the economy to offset outflows and prevent interest rates from rising. Qu Hongbin, the chief economist for greater China at HSBC, said that not all of the money leaving China was harmful, however. He estimated that three-fifths of it consisted of Chinese companies paying overseas debts, which would become more expensive in renminbi terms if the currency weakens further.	中国央行一直试图将更多资金注入经济，以弥补资产外流，防止利率升高。但是，汇丰银行(HSBC)大中华区首席经济师曲宏斌表示，并非所有离开中国的资金都有害。他估计，其中有五分之三是中国企业用来偿还海外债务的，如果人民币进一步走弱，那么用人民币来计价，海外债务就会变得更高。

Mr. Yi, the deputy governor, sought to reassure bankers that China's central bank would not tolerate another broad decline in the value of the renminbi. The bank devalued the renminbi 4 percent compared with the dollar last August, then pushed it down nearly 3 percent in late December and early January.	人民银行副行长易纲试图安抚银行业高管，表示中国央行不会容许人民币再次大幅贬值。去年8月，央行让人民币对美元汇率下跌了4%，在12月下旬和1月初，又再次推动下跌了近3%。
Mr. Yi said that China is anchoring its currency to three weighted averages of currencies: one that it calculates itself, one from the Bank of International Settlements and one from the International Monetary Fund. Paul Gruenwald, a former I.M.F. official who is now the Singapore-based Asia economist for Standard & Poor's, said that because the dollar typically makes up a third of each of these baskets, the shift meant that the renminbi could conceivably vary three times as widely against the dollar.	易纲称，中国将用三个加权平均值来确定人民币汇率：一个是它自己计算得出的值，一个来自国际清算银行(Bank of International Settlements)，还有一个来自国际货币基金组织(IMF)。前IMF官员保罗·格伦瓦尔德(Paul Gruenwald)现在是标准普尔(Standard & Poor's)的亚洲经济师，常驻新加坡。他表示，由于美元通常在这些篮子中各占三分之一，可以想见，这种变化意味着人民币对美元汇率变化的波幅可能会是目前的三倍。
The renminbi gained against the broader baskets through much of last year, even as it weakened against the dollar. But this winter, the currency has also weakened against the averages, as it has followed the dollar down against the euro.	去年很多时候，人民币即使相对于美元走弱，但相对于更大的篮子却在升值。但是这个冬天，人民币相对于平均值也有所走弱，因为它和美元一起，相对于欧元贬值了。
By not specifying which of the baskets is most important, the People's Bank of China keeps greater flexibility, although at the cost of also allowing greater uncertainty in financial markets. China's own basket includes currencies that are somewhat important for its trade, like the Russian ruble and Malaysian ringgit. The I.M.F.'s special drawing rights, another basket cited by Mr. Yi, only has the dollar, euro, yen, British pound and the renminbi.	中国人民银行没有指出哪个篮子最重要，从而保持了较高的灵活性，不过这也增加了金融市场的不确定性。中国自己的篮子纳入了一些对该国贸易比较重要的货币，比如俄罗斯卢布和马来西亚林吉特。易纲还提到了另一个名为IMF特别提款权的篮子，而它只包括美元、欧元、日元、英镑和人民币。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160226/c26yuan	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160226/c26yuan

In Rare Appearance, China's Central Bank Chief Says All Is Well	周小川回应中国外汇储备及人民币贬值担忧
SHANGHAI — For the second time since last summer, an avuncular, graying man has stepped out of Beijing's shadows and calmed financial markets after a Chinese devaluation — but once again, his assurances came after nearly a month of turmoil and growing worry about the country's economic health.	上海——头发花白、神情慈爱的周小川，又一次在人民币贬值而北京态度不明之际站出来，稳定金融市场。这是自去年夏天以来的第二次。但和上次一样，他是在市场动荡持续了近一个月，外界对中国经济的健康状况日益担忧之际，才作出了安抚。
Mixing folksy charm with deft explanations of economic thought, Zhou Xiaochuan, the governor of China's central bank, held a rare news conference in Shanghai on Friday morning, as finance officials from around the world gathered for the Group of 20 major economies meeting. Mr. Zhou acknowledged worries about spiraling debt at Chinese corporations and local governments but offered reasons why the Chinese economy might be uniquely able to deal with it for the time being.	周五上午，在世界各地的财经官员齐聚上海，参加主要经济体组成的二十国集团（Group of 20，简称G20）会议之际，既有随和的魅力，又能熟练解释经济思想的中国央行行长周小川，罕见地举行了一场新闻发布会。他承认了中国企业和地方政府债务不断攀升的担忧，但也给出了一些理由，解释说中国经济可能具有独一无二的能力，可以暂时应对这种局面。
He also dismissed American hedge funds' concerns about the erosion of China's foreign exchange reserves and assured the audience that China did not plan to further devalue its currency to increase its already formidable export prowess.	美国对冲基金对中国外汇储备缩水表达了担忧，但周小川对此不以为意。他向与会者保证，中国无意为提升本就强大的出口实力而让人民币进一步贬值。
China's supply of foreign exchange reserves "is not an oil field with a static stock of oil. It is like water in a reservoir, so there are constant flows in and flows out," he said.	他说，中国的外汇储备规模“不像石油的油田储备量是一个固定的数，把油抽完了就没有了。外汇储备有点像水库里流水的水库，上游不断的有水进来，下游也有不断的出的，中间部分是外汇储备”。
Following Mr. Zhou's remarks, the Shanghai stock market rebounded 1 percent on Friday, on the heels of a 6.4 percent plunge on Thursday. The value of the renminbi also steadied on Friday in largely unregulated trading in Hong Kong, although it still dipped slightly against the dollar	在周小川发表上述言论后，上证指数周五回升1%。而在周四，沪指暴跌6.4%。周五当天，在香港基本上不受监管的交易中，人民币汇率也处于稳定状态，不过当天人民币兑美元汇率仍轻微下跌。

for the day.
What Mr. Zhou did not do on Friday, however, was provide any indication of when he might next offer an explanation of Chinese monetary policy. He also did not announce any plans for the People's Bank of China to follow other leading central banks — like the Federal Reserve, the European Central Bank and the Bank of Japan — in holding regular news briefings after important policy decisions.	然而，周小川周五并未透露，下一次可能会在何时解释中国的货币政策。此外，他也没有宣布中国人民银行有意效仿其他主要的中央银行——如美联储(Federal Reserve)、欧洲中央银行(European Central Bank)和日本银行(Bank of Japan)——在重要的政策决议出台后举行例行新闻发布会。
"It is very clear that he still does not want to talk too much about policy; he wants to leave it a bit uncertain," said Zhou Hao, the Asia economist for Commerzbank, who is not related to Zhou Xiaochuan. "From China's perspective, if it's too transparent, then people will expect too much of you."	"很显然，他依然不想过多地讨论政策；他希望保留一点不确定性，"德国商业银行(Commerzbank)亚洲经济学家周浩说。"从中国的角度来说，如果太透明了，人们就会对你有太多的期望。"周浩和周小川没有亲戚关系。
In contrast with the central banks of other major economies, China's central bank is to some extent an advisory body instead of an independent, decision-making institution. The final say on major economic decisions, like interest rate moves or devaluations, belongs to the country's political leadership.	和其他主要经济体的央行形成鲜明对比的是，中国央行在一定程度上来说只是一个顾问机构，而不是一个独立的决策机构。在像利率调整或人民币贬值这样的重大经济决策上，最终决定权属于中国的政治领导人。
Regular statements from the People's Bank of China could limit those leaders' ability to pivot quickly on policy. But quick changes — including a 4 percent devaluation of China's currency against the dollar in early August, and a gradual devaluation in late December and early January — have led to global bouts of market turmoil.	如果中国人民银行定期发布公告，可能会限制这些领导人迅速调整政策的能力。但突如其来的变化，包括8月初人民币对美元贬值4%，以及12月末和1月初人民币逐步贬值，引起了全球市场动荡。
On both occasions, Mr. Zhou said fairly little until the next meeting of the Group of 20 finance ministers and central bank governors a month later. The last ministerial meeting was in September in Ankara, Turkey;	周小川两次都说得很少，直到一个月后召开下一次G20财政部长和央行行长会议。上一次财长会议是9月在土耳其安卡拉举行的。今年，作为G20主席国的中国选择了上海作为会议举办地。会议周五晚上开幕，周六结束。

China holds the group's presidency this year and chose Shanghai for the gathering on Friday night and Saturday.
The secrecy of the central bank was not a problem for Chinese policy makers as long as they maintained strict regulation of money moving in and out of the country. But Mr. Zhou has dismantled many of those controls over the past two years as part of a successful move to increase international use of the renminbi and to win the International Monetary Fund's approval of it in November as a reserve currency. That has left interest rates, stock prices and money flows in China much more exposed to international sentiment about the country's economic prospects.	过去，对中国的政策制定者来说，只要对进出中国的资金维持严格的管控，央行的保密性就不是问题。但过去两年里，周小川废除了很多这类的管控措施。这是一项成功行动的一部分，该行动扩大了人民币在国际市场的使用，并于11月赢得国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)的同意，成为其储备货币。这大大提升了国际市场有关中国经济前景的看法，对中国的利率、股价和资金流动的影响。
United States Treasury Secretary Jacob J. Lew added his voice late Friday afternoon to those calling for China to explain policy changes.	周五下午早些时候，美国财长雅各布·J·卢(Jacob J. Lew)加入了其他人的行列，呼吁中国对其政策变化作出解释。
"The exchange rate policy is one in particular that needs to be clearly communicated, and it's important that as they make their transitions, that they do it in an orderly way," he told a small group of reporters in Shanghai before a meeting with other finance ministers.	"尤其需要明确解释汇率政策，在调整政策时，也要有序过渡，这一点很重要，"他在参加有其他财长出席的一场会议前，对上海的一小群记者说。
Although Mr. Zhou spoke for more than an hour at his news conference on Friday morning in a large, tastefully decorated hall on the fourth floor of the central bank's Shanghai branch office, he said virtually nothing that would limit the political leadership's options. He did not, for instance, categorically rule out another decline in the renminbi at some point against the dollar.	周五上午，周小川的新闻发布会在央行上海分行四楼一个装修典雅的大厅里举行。尽管讲话持续了一个多小时，但他几乎没有谈到可能会局限领导层可选方案的内容。比如，他并未完全排除人民币兑美元的汇率会在某个时刻再次下跌的可能性。
When one question suggested the renminbi was pegged to a basket of other currencies, Mr. Zhou quickly objected. He said instead that the	当有人提问时称，人民币“盯住”了一篮子货币时，周小川迅速表示了反对。他说，人民币的价值是“参照”一篮子货币，本质上是一个加权平均值。他甚

value of the renminbi would be set “with reference” to a basket of other currencies — essentially a weighted average. He preserved even more flexibility for China’s leadership by emphasizing that the renminbi would not be measured against just one basket, but against several.	至还为中国领导人保留了更多的灵活性，强调人民币参照的不仅是一篮子，而是多种货币。
Mr. Zhou decisively ruled out a depreciation for the purpose of trade advantage, but did not address whether the currency might someday rise or fall for other reasons.	周小川明确排除了为取得贸易优势而让人民币贬值的可能性，但他并未提到人民币会不会在某一天因为其他原因而升值或贬值。
“We will not resort to competitive depreciation so as to boost our advantage in exports,” he said.	“我们也不会用参与竞争性贬值来增强中国的出口能力，”他说。
Mr. Zhou hinted at another Chinese policy effort to strengthen economic growth when he talked about there being room for banks to lend more money for mortgages. Although companies and local governments are heavily in debt, Chinese households generally are not, he noted.	谈到银行体系有发放更多个人住房抵押贷款的机会时，他暗示了中国为加强经济增长而实行的另一项政策。周小川指出，尽管企业和地方政府债台高筑，但中国的家庭普遍没有沉重的债务负担。
The People’s Bank of China recently cut the regulatory minimum for down payments on mortgages to 20 percent of a home’s value, from 30 percent.	最近，中国人民银行将个人住房抵押贷款最低首付标准从总房价的 30%，降到了 20%。
Mr. Zhou also offered explanations why foreign investors were wrong to worry about China’s rising overall levels of credit, relative to economic output. China has a far higher savings rate than most other economies, so banks have a lot in deposits to lend, he said.	周小川还解释了外国投资者不用担心中国总体债务相对于经济产出的比例不断攀升的原因。他说，中国的储蓄率远高于其他大部分经济体，因此银行有大量可以用来放贷的储蓄资金。
China’s stock markets are somewhat small, compared with the size of its economy, forcing companies that need money to rely more on bank loans and bonds, he added. And because China was poor until very recently, many families have not had enough time to accumulate the	他接着表示，和中国的经济体量相比，中国股市规模有些小，这迫使需要资金的企业更依赖银行贷款和债券。并且因为直到不久前，中国还比较贫穷，很多家庭没有足够的时间来积累财富，用自己的存款创办企业。 wealth to start businesses just with their own savings.

"If you don't have a lot of accumulation," he said, "you have to borrow."	"机会又好，又没有底子，怎么办?"他说。“就靠借钱。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160228/c28yuan	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160228/c28yuan
China Moves to Bolster Lending by Easing Banks' Reserve Ratio	中国央行今起下调存款准备金率
HONG KONG —China said on Monday evening that it would free up banks in the country to lend more, as the government attempts to shore up slowing economic growth.	香港——随着政府试图稳住下滑的经济增长速度，中国在周一晚间表示，将允许国内的银行发放更多的贷款。
The move comes as the country's top financial policy makers attempt to reassure the rest of the world that their management of the economy remains on track, and that they still have many tools at their disposal to avoid an even sharper slowdown in growth. China is also grappling with persistent capital outflows amid expectations that the currency, the renminbi, could weaken further.	宣布此举的同时，中国的最高财政政策制定者在试图让世界其他国家放心，他们对经济的管理仍保持在正确的轨道上，而且他们手边还有许多避免经济增长速度更大幅度下降的工具。中国也在对付资本持续大量外流的问题，由于人们预期中国货币人民币的价值可能会进一步走软。
The measure announced on Monday comes just days before the country's top leaders convene in Beijing for the so-called two meetings, the annual gatherings of the full membership of the national legislature and a sprawling committee of political advisers.	周一宣布的措施也是在中国最高领导人即将在北京召开所谓的两会的几天前，两会指的是每年一次的国家立法机构全体成员大会，以及一个庞大的政治顾问委员会的年度会议。
Effective Tuesday, China's central bank said, the amount of cash that commercial banks are required to set aside as reserves will be reduced. Lowering the reserve requirement ratio essentially gives the state-controlled banking system more money to lend.	中国央行表示，自周二起，将降低商业银行需要留下来作为储备的现金数额。降低存款准备金率本质上是让由国家控制的银行系统有更多的钱放贷。
The move is the latest example of the fine line that China's policy makers are attempting to walk as they look to bolster the economy, the world's second-largest, after the United States. A major lending binge in recent years has left China with too many steel and cement factories	这一措施是中国的政策制定者在寻求提振经济时试图把握分寸的最新例证。中国是世界上第二大经济体，仅次于美国。近几年的一个放贷狂潮已经给中国留下了太多的钢铁厂和水泥厂，让许多国有企业背负了太多的债务。与此同时，中国领导人正试图让贷款进入国有银行长期忽略的领域，比如中小型

and saddled many state-owned companies with too much debt. At the same time, China's leaders are trying to channel lending to areas long underserved by state-owned banks, such as small and midsize businesses, that the leaders see as essential to nurturing growth.	企业，领导人认为中小型企业对促进经济增长至关重要。
This is the fifth time that the central bank, the People's Bank of China, has cut the reserve ratio since the start of last year. The move on Monday could release around 630 billion renminbi, or about $96 billion, in additional liquidity to China's banking system, according to estimates from Bank of America Merrill Lynch.	这是央行中国人民银行自去年年初以来第五次降低存款准备金率。据美国美林银行估计，周一的措施可向中国的银行系统提供大约 6300 亿人民币（相当于约 960 亿美元）的补充流动资金。
For the biggest banks, the ratio of total deposits that must be kept in reserve was reduced to 17 percent, from 17.5 percent. In recent months, Beijing has lowered interest rates and made other moves to rekindle growth. In a sign that some of those policies may be having an impact, China reported a record surge in credit growth for January.	对大型银行而言，它们必须保持的储备存款总额的比例从 17.5% 降到 17%。近几个月来，北京当局已经几次降低利率，还采取其他措施以重振经济增长。这些政策也许产生了一种迹象是，中国公布了 1 月份信贷增长创纪录飙升的数据。
By lowering the reserve requirement ratio, or R.R.R., by half a percentage point, the central bank is partly seeking to offset its own actions in support of the currency. The central bank has been selling dollars and buying renminbi to prop up the value of the renminbi, which has been under pressure.	通过把存款准备金率降低半个百分点，央行正部分地在寻求平衡自己做出的支持货币的行动。为了支撑人民币的价值，央行已在抛售美元、同时购买人民币，而人民币一直面临贬值的压力。
But that has siphoned liquidity out of the system. In response, the central bank has been injecting billions of renminbi into the country's financial system. The R.R.R. cut serves the same purpose, essentially representing a lending quota.	但是，这也减少了系统中的流动性。作为响应，央行已向国内的金融体系注入数十亿人民币。此次降准是为了同样的目的，本质上代表了一种贷款配额。
In a news release on Monday, China's central bank said the reduction	在周一发布消息时，中国央行表示，降准的目的是“保持金融体系流动性合

was intended "to maintain adequate and reasonable liquidity in the financial system and guide the steady moderate growth of money and credit."	理充裕，引导货币信贷平稳适度增长”。
In recent months, the People's Bank of China has slowly been switching its focus away from changing reserve requirements. Instead, it has been putting greater emphasis on interest rates as a way to control liquidity – specifically encouraging credit in the bank-to-bank lending market – an approach that is generally regarded as more market-oriented.	近几个月来，中国人民银行已在慢慢地将注意力从改变存款准备金的要求上移开，变得更重视把利率作为控制流动性的工具，特别是在银行对银行贷款市场上鼓励信贷方面，这种方法被普遍认为更市场化。
Still, the pressure on the renminbi to weaken remains such that the central bank will probably need to dig deeper into its monetary policy toolbox. Economists expect multiple reductions this year both to benchmark interest rates and to reserve ratios.	尽管如此，人民币面临的贬值压力仍然如此之大，以至于央行可能将需要动用其货币政策工具箱中更深层的工具。经济学家预计今年还将有几次降低基准利率和存款准备金率的动作。
"Over the past couple of years, the number of policy tools available to the People's Bank of China has proliferated," Mark Williams, the chief China economist at Capital Economics, wrote Monday evening in a research note.	“在过去的几年中，中国人民银行可用的政策工具的数量大增，”凯投宏观(Capital Economics)首席中国经济学家马克·威廉姆斯(Mark Williams)周一晚在一份研究简报中写道。
Although the central bank has been moving toward more market-driven interest rates, traditional measures like the R.R.R. cut still create across-the-board stimulus, Mr. Williams added.	威廉姆斯补充说，虽然央行已经逐步走上更多地让市场决定利率的道路，但像降准这样的传统措施仍可制造全面的刺激。
"The move underscores a message that officials have repeated in recent days, including at the G-20 meeting: Policy makers still have room to support the economy," he said.	他说，“此举凸显了官员在最近几天多次传达的信息，包括在 20 国集团会议上，那就是政策制定者仍然有支持经济的空间。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160301/c01chinabanks	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160301/c01chinabanks
Xi Jinping's Remedy for China's Economic Gloom Has Echoes of Reagan	习近平供给侧改革，一个里根式的口号

BEIJING — With the world looking to China for assurance that it can manage its slowing economy and tumultuous stock market, President Xi Jinping has begun pushing a remedy that sounds less like Marx and Mao than Reagan and Thatcher.	北京——随着世界在期望中国担保自己能够掌控经济增长的放缓及动荡的股市，习近平已开始推出一个听起来不像马克思和毛泽东、更像里根和撒切尔夫人的补救措施。
Mr. Xi is calling his next big economic initiative “supply-side structural reform,” a deliberate echo of the nostrums of tax cuts and deregulation advocated by those conservative Western leaders in the 1980s.	习近平把他的下一个大的经济方案称为“供给侧结构性改革”，有附和保守派西方领导人在上个世纪 80 年代提倡的减税及放松管制的秘诀的意思。
The new slogan, expected to receive top billing when China’s legislature convenes Saturday, represents an effort to rejuvenate Mr. Xi’s faltering plans to overhaul the Chinese economy. But he still faces widespread skepticism that he is committed to thorough restructuring, which would require cutting back bloated state enterprises, along with millions of jobs.	新口号预计将在中国立法机构周六召开的全体代表大会上享受显著的地位，它代表着为习近平改革中国经济的一波三折的计划增添活力的努力。但习近平仍面临着对他是否有决心彻底重组经济的普遍怀疑，那将需要削减臃肿的国有企业，伴随而来的是减少数百万人的就业机会。
“Thatcher and Reagan are highly regarded because it was proven that they made the right choices under heavy pressure,” said Jia Kang, an economist in the Ministry of Finance who is the most prominent advocate of the new policies. “Their spirit was one of boldly taking on challenges and innovating, and that’s certainly worth Chinese people emulating.”	“人们对撒切尔和里根有很高的评价，因为事实证明，他们在极大的压力下做出了正确的选择，”财政部的经济学家贾康说，他是新政策最突出的倡导者。“他们的精神是勇敢地接受挑战，勇于创新，这当然是值得中国人仿效的。”
The supply side Mr. Xi is referring to would, like Reaganomics, include lowering taxes and reducing the government burden on investors. Yet its main goal appears to be shutting or paring down mines and factories that produce far more coal, steel, cement and other industrial products than the market demands and reining in the credit and subsidies that feed that glut.	习近平指的供给侧，正如里根经济学那样，将包括降低赋税、减少政府施加给投资者的负担。然而，其主要目标似乎是关闭或逐步减少生产远远高于市场需求的煤炭、钢铁、水泥等工业产品的矿山和工厂，严格控制导致产能过剩的信贷和补贴。

Some economists say the supply-side rubric is at least a step toward painful measures that could lead to healthier growth.	一些经济学家说，供给侧改革的说法至少是向那些痛苦的措施迈出的一步，这些措施可能会引导经济健康增长。
“It is an important new initiative designed to reinvigorate the reform process,” Barry Naughton, a professor of economics at the University of California, San Diego, said by email. “Policy-makers have stumbled repeatedly, and overall the achievements in market-oriented reform have been meager. Policy-makers needed to come up with another approach.”	“这是一个旨在重振改革进程的重要新方案，”加州大学圣迭戈分校的经济学教授巴里·诺顿(Barry Naughton)通过电子邮件说。“政策制定者们已多次失误，总体来看，市场化改革的成就少得可怜。政策制定者们需要拿出一些别的办法。”
Mr. Xi has reorganized China’s military and orchestrated a scorching campaign against corruption. But similar breakthroughs in the economy have so far eluded him, a failure that many economists say has sapped business confidence in future growth.	习近平已对中国军队进行了重组，还主导了一场轰轰烈烈的反腐败运动。但在经济方面，他尚未能取得类似的突破，许多经济学家认为，他在这方面的失败已经削弱了企业对未来增长的信心。
On Wednesday, Moody’s Investor Service, the credit rating agency, lowered its outlook for China from stable to negative, citing “uncertainty about the authorities’ capacity to implement reforms.”	周三，信用评估机构穆迪投资者服务公司(Moody's Investors Service)把其对中国经济前景的预期从稳定降到负面，理由是“当局推行改革的能力存在不确定性”。
Skeptics say one reason the shift has been so anemic is that Mr. Xi’s economic goals have repeatedly clashed with his political ones. While he has shown great enterprise in centralizing power, they say, he has been reluctant to rein in the reach of the state, especially to curtail state companies’ privileged, often monopolistic, access to loans, resources and customers.	怀疑者认为，经济转型如此困难的一个原因是，习近平的经济目标已经多次与他的政治目标发生冲突。他们说，虽然习近平在把权力集中到自己手里这方面表现出极大的能力，但他一直不愿意约束国家的影响范围，尤其是限制国有企业在获得贷款、资源和客户上享有的特权，这些特权往往具有垄断性。
Several economists said Mr. Xi’s supply-side initiative may turn out to be a cosmetic makeover for a muddled approach — promising market liberalization yet magnifying state control — that has fallen far short of what was needed.	一些经济学家说，习近平的供给侧方案也许会只对之前糊里糊涂的改革作表面上的改进，虽然承诺让市场自由化，但还是加大了国家的控制，方案比所需要的东西还差得很远。

"To get the government more onto the market track, it would have to abstain," said Ning Zhu, a professor at the Shanghai Advanced Institute of Finance. "But that's exactly what they haven't been doing."	"为了让政府更多地步入市场的轨道，就需要回避干预，"上海高级金融学院教授朱宁说。"但是，这正是他们一直没有做的事情。"
Many liberal economists remain unconvinced that for all the tough talk, the Chinese government would willingly reduce its own power and risk a backlash from displaced workers. Calibrating state-supported industries to true market levels would mean cutting millions of jobs.	许多自由主义经济学家仍不相信中国政府会愿意减弱自己的权力，以及冒着面临下岗工人反对的风险，不管其说法如何强硬。把国家支持的产业调整到真正附和市场的水平会意味着削减数以百万计的就业机会。
Such cuts would most likely meet strong resistance from workers and managers threatened with layoffs and from officials in the provinces where they are concentrated.	这些削减有很大可能会受到面临裁员威胁的工人和管理人员的强烈抵制。而在这些工人和管理人员集中的省份，也会受到来自当地官员的强烈抵制。
Mr. Xi first laid out a sweeping blueprint for economic rejuvenation, including vows to revamp the state sector and nurture market forces, in 2013. But progress has been halting or uneven, reflecting his reluctance to cede state control, several economists said.	2013年，习近平曾制定了一整套振兴经济的蓝图，包括发誓要改造国有部门、培育市场力量。但进展断断续续、极不均匀，反映出他不愿意放弃国家的控制，几位经济学家说。
The mixed signals have paralyzed state officials, who are unsure how far to inflict cuts while still preserving stability and growth.	这些混杂的信号已导致政府官员的瘫痪，他们对在保持稳定和增长的同时，需要在多大程度上大作出削减很不确定。
"The central government emphasizes supply-side reform," said Yao Yang, an economist at Peking University. "On the other hand, you still encourage local governments to invest. That's the confusion that local government officials are facing, so they don't know the direction."	"中央政府强调供给侧改革，"北京大学的经济学家姚洋说。"而在另一方面，它仍在鼓励地方政府投资。这就是地方政府官员面临的困惑，因此他们不知道方向。"
How far Mr. Xi is willing to go, now that economic warning sirens are sounding, may become clearer after the Communist Party leadership presents its economic plans to the National People's Congress, which opens Saturday.	既然经济警报已经拉响，习近平愿意走多远呢？在周六开幕的全国人大上，共产党领导层将阐述他们的经济计划，届时这个问题的答案将会变得更加清晰。
"It remains to be seen if they walk the talk," said Jörg Wuttke, president	"他们是否言行一致仍然有待观察，"中国欧盟商会(European Union

of the European Union Chamber of Commerce in China. "It would be terrible for China if they don't."	Chamber of Commerce in China)主席约尔格·伍德克(Jörg Wuttke)说。“如果不是，中国就会有很大麻烦。”
It could also be difficult if they do.	如果是，可能也会很有难度。
A recent study concluded that if the cuts go through, more than three million people in the steel, coal and similar industries could lose their jobs in the next two years. On Monday, the government said it would lay off 1.8 million steel and coal workers, around 15 percent of the work force in those industries, though it did not say when.	近期一项研究指出，如果进行裁员，那么未来两年里，钢铁、煤炭等行业可能会有逾 300 万人失业。本周一，政府表示将裁减 180 万名钢铁和煤炭员工，相当于这些行业劳动力总数的 15%左右，不过没有具体说时间。
"Pain will be unavoidable, but also worthwhile," said a full-page article extolling supply-side structural reform published in January in People's Daily, the Communist Party's main newspaper. "It cannot possibly please everyone."	“阵痛不可避免，但也是值得的，”共产党主要党报《人民日报》1月发表了一篇整版文章，赞颂供给侧结构性改革。“不可能皆大欢喜。”
But if the slowing of the economy is forcing Mr. Xi to act, it has also increased the costs of doing so.	但是，如果说经济放缓正在迫使习近平采取行动，那么它也提高了行动的成本。
During the first wave of closings of state-owned factories, starting in 1997, more than 30 million jobs were eliminated in less than a decade. But the Chinese economy took off, especially after China joined the World Trade Organization in 2001, creating jobs that absorbed many of the excess workers.	从 1997 年开始的第一波国有企业倒闭潮中，逾 3000 万个就业岗位在不到十年的时间里消失。但中国经济开始腾飞，特别是 2001 年中国加入世界贸易组织之后，新增的就业机会消化了很多富余员工。
The job losses envisioned today, while smaller, may be more contentious when the economy is slowing. They threaten to erode the stability and mass support that Mr. Xi prizes, and he is unlikely to risk pushing China into a sharp downturn.	目前预测的就业岗位减少数量虽然较小，但可能更富争议，因为经济正在放缓。习近平对社会稳定和群众支持非常重视，就业岗位的减少可能会对其构成威胁，他不太可能冒险推动中国进入急剧下行的局面。
Since the financial crisis of 2008, the government has resorted to stimulus to keep the economy humming, increasing the debt. Chinese	自从 2008 年金融危机以来，中国政府采取了刺激措施来保持经济增长，导致了债务增加。中国供给侧学派表示，盲目扩张已达到了不可持续的程度。 supply-siders say the splurging has reached unsustainable levels.

China's steel production, for example, has "become completely untethered from real market demand" and amounts to more than double the combined production of the four next biggest producers: Japan, India, the United States and Russia, according to a new report on China's production overcapacity released by the European Union Chamber of Commerce in China.	例如，中国欧盟商会发布的一份新的产能过剩报告称，中国的钢铁产量已经“与真实的市场需求脱节”，是位居第二到第五的四大钢铁生产国——日本、印度、美国和俄罗斯——总产量的两倍以上。
Beyond correcting such distortions, there is still debate about what specific policies fall under the supply-side banner. Officials and economists have called for tax cuts for private businesses and giving private investors bigger stakes in more state-owned companies, while ruling out full privatization.	除了纠正这种问题，供给侧改革包括哪些具体政策仍然存在争论。官员和经济学家呼吁给私营企业减税，让私人投资者在国有企业中占有更大的份额，同时又不搞全面私有化。
But the concept is vague enough that it has also been used to argue for more export support, government-backed funds and policies to prop up faltering state firms.	但是这个概念也很笼统，一些人也在它的基础上，主张为摇摇欲坠的国有企业提供更多的出口支持、政府资金和扶持政策。
Curbing inefficient state-subsidized industries, however, has near universal support among economists and policy makers. Further delays in doing that are only likely to suffocate growth, deepen the malaise and hurt workers, said Sheng Hong, the executive director of the Unirule Institute of Economics in Beijing, which advocates economic liberalization.	但是，对获得国家补贴的低效率行业进行抑制，则基本上获得了经济学家和政策制定者的一致支持。主张经济自由化的北京天则经济研究所所长盛洪说，再拖下去只会扼制增长、恶化问题、伤害工人。
"If there's no sign of a solution, this year could be especially dangerous," he said. "Without reforms, there'll be big problems."	"如果没有拿出解决方案的迹象，今年可能会是特别危险的一年，"他说。"如果不改革，就会有大问题。"
And supply-side structural reform would be just another slogan.	而供给侧结构性改革可能仅仅是一个口号。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160304/c04chinaecon	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160304/c04chinaecon

AMC Deal for Carmike Would Create Biggest U.S. Theater Chain	万达在美国打造最大连锁电影院线
In a significant consolidation of movie theater holdings, AMC Entertainment will acquire Carmike Cinemas for about $737 million in cash, forming the country's largest chain with more than 600 theaters, the companies said on Thursday.	AMC 娱乐(AMC Entertainment)周四表示,该公司将在一次重大的影院控股公司合并中,以 7 亿 3700 万美元现金收购卡麦克影院(Carmike Cinemas),形成美国国内最大的、拥有超过 600 家影院连锁院线。
Under the terms of the deal, AMC will pay $30 a share, up 19 percent from Carmike's closing price on Thursday. Including the assumption of Carmike's debt, the transaction is valued at about $1.1 billion.	根据交易条款,AMC 娱乐每股将付 30 美元,相较于卡麦克周四的收盘价格溢价 19%。包括卡麦克的债务在内,这场交易的价格约为 11 亿美元。
The deal is the biggest by AMC since it returned to the public markets in a 2013 stock sale. And it represents a bold effort by AMC's controlling investor, Wang Jianlin of China's Dalian Wanda Group, to consolidate the American cinema industry.	这是 AMC 娱乐自 2013 年销售股票重新上市以来规模最大的一次交易。这也代表了 AMC 的控股人、中国大连万达集团董事长王健林的一次大胆的举动,意在巩固美国的电影业。
Dalian Wanda agreed in January to buy Legendary Entertainment, a film production and finance company, for about $3.5 billion. It bought AMC in 2012 for about $2.6 billion, and is building a large commercial and residential complex in Beverly Hills, Calif., adjacent to the Beverly Hilton hotel, where the Golden Globes and other Hollywood events take place.	大连万达集团于 1 月同意了以约 35 亿美元的价格收购传奇影业(Legendary Entertainment),一家电影制作与金融公司。该集团于 2012 年以 26 亿美元收购了 AMC 娱乐,并正在加州比弗利山上建造一个大型的商业与居住区,毗邻举行金球奖颁奖礼和其他好莱坞活动的比弗利希尔顿酒店。
AMC, based in Leawood, Kan., is the country's second-biggest movie theater chain with 5,426 screens, behind the Regal Entertainment Group. It is particularly strong in large markets, including New York, Los Angeles and Chicago.	位于堪萨斯州利伍德(Leawood)的 AMC 娱乐有 5426 个影厅,是美国第二大的连锁影院,位列帝王娱乐集团(Regal Entertainment Group)之后。AMC 娱乐在大型市场中实力尤其强劲,包括在纽约、洛杉矶和芝加哥。
Carmike, based in Columbus, Ga., has most of its 2,954 screens in midsize cities. The combined companies will be based in Leawood, they said.	位于乔治亚州哥伦布(Columbus)的卡麦克拥有 2954 个影厅,大部分都位于中等城市。该公司表示,合并后的公司将会设在利伍德。

By comparison, Regal operated 7,361 screens and 572 theaters as of year end.	相较而言，帝王娱乐截止去年底，共管理着 7361 个影厅和 572 个影院。
AMC said the deal would increase the geographic spread of its theaters, while allowing it to trim expenses by consolidating administrative operations for the two companies. The company estimated the merger would yield about $35 million in annual cost savings.	AMC 娱乐表示交易的完成会带来院线的不断扩张，同时通过整合两家公司的管理机构得以缩减开支。公司估计因此可以每年节省将近 350 万美元的开支。
The deal is expected to close by the end of the year, pending approval from regulators and by Carmike shareholders.	这场交易预计会在年底前完成，悬而未决的因素来自于监管机构和卡麦克的股东。
"This is a compelling transaction that brings together two great companies with complementary strengths to create substantial value for our guests and shareholders," Adam Aron, AMC's chief executive, said in a statement.	"这是一场瞩目的交易，会使两家原本强大的公司优势互补，强强联合，给我们顾客和股东带来实质的利益。"AMC 娱乐首席执行官亚当·艾伦(Adam Aron)在声明中称。
Together with Regal, AMC owns Open Road Films, a movie distributor whose "Spotlight" was named best picture at the Academy Awards on Sunday.	AMC 娱乐和帝王娱乐都对影业公司开路影业(Open Road Films)持有股份，最近在奥斯卡颁奖礼上斩获最佳影片的《聚焦》就是这家公司的作品。
Debt financing for the deal will be provided by Citigroup, which also provided financial advice to AMC, while the law firm Husch Blackwell provided legal counsel. JPMorgan Chase and the law firm King & Spalding advised Carmike.	花旗会给 AMC 娱乐提供有关交易的债务融资情况和其它财务方面的建议，而法律方面的事务则会由法律事务所胡布莱克威尔(Husch Blackwell)负责。而卡麦克一方的经济和法律事务则由摩根大通和金斯伯丁法律事务所(King & Spalding)负责。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160304/c04cinema	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160304/c04cinema
Law Graduate Gets Her Day in Court, Suing Law School	法学院毕业生当不上律师，学校该负责吗
Nearly a decade has passed since an aspiring young lawyer in California, Anna Alaburda, graduated in the top tier of her class, passed the state bar exam and set out to use the law degree she had spent about $150,000 to acquire.	近十年前，加利福尼亚州怀有一腔抱负的年轻律师安娜·阿拉布尔达(Anna Alaburda)以在班上名列前茅的成绩毕业，并通过了州律师资格考试，开始要利用自己花了大约 15 万美元换来的法律学位。

But on Monday, in a San Diego courtroom, she will tell a story that has become all too familiar among law students in the United States: Since graduating from the Thomas Jefferson School of Law in 2008, she has yet to find a full-time, salaried job as a lawyer.	但周一，在圣地亚哥的一家法院，她将讲述一个对美国的法律专业学生来说再熟悉不过的故事：自 2008 年从托马斯·杰斐逊法学院 (Thomas Jefferson School of Law) 毕业以来，她尚未找到一份带薪的全职律师工作。
From there, though, her story has taken an unusual twist: Alaburda, 37, is the first former law student whose case against a law school, charging that it inflated the employment data for its graduates as a way to lure students to enroll, will go to trial.	但从这里开始，她的故事发生了一个不同寻常的转折：37 岁的阿拉布尔控告法律学校夸大毕业生就业数据，以此诱骗学生入学。这也成为了首起即将开审的此类案件。
Other disgruntled students have tried to do the same. In the last several years, 15 lawsuits have sought to hold various law schools accountable for publicly listing information critics say was used to pump up alumni job numbers by counting part-time waitress and other similar, full-time jobs as employment. Only one suit besides Alaburda's remains active.	其他一些心怀不满的学生也试过这么做。过去几年里，共有 15 起诉讼案件试图追究各种各样的法律学校公开发布不实就业信息的责任。批评人士称，这些学校通过把兼职服务员及其他类似的全职工作算作就业的方式，抬高毕业生就业数据。除阿拉布尔达这起案件外，只有一桩诉讼案仍在处理过程中。
None of the other cases reached trial because judges in Illinois, Michigan and New York, where several cases were filed, generally concluded that law students had opted for legal education at their own peril, and were sophisticated enough to have known that employment as a lawyer was not guaranteed.	其他案件无一走到审理环节，因为在出现了多起类似诉讼案件的伊利诺伊州、密西根州和纽约州，法官普遍认为，法律专业的学生是自己冒险选择接受法律教育的，且他们足够成熟，知道不一定能以律师的身份就业。
But a California judge let Alaburda's suit proceed, brushing aside efforts by the law school to derail her claims.	但加利福尼亚州的一名法官不顾托马斯·杰斐逊法学院试图让阿拉布尔达的诉讼半途而废而采取的行动，允许案件继续往前推进。
"It has taken five years," said her lawyer, Brian A. Procel of Los Angeles. "But this will be the first time a law school will be on trial to defend its public employment figures."	"用了五年时间，"阿拉布尔达的代理律师布莱恩·A·普罗塞尔 (Brian A. Procel) 说。"但这一次，法律学校将首次走上法庭，为自己对外公开的就业数据辩护。"
Alaburda's day in court will take on added meaning: These will be her first public words after years of silence while she pursued a remedy for	阿拉布尔达走上法庭还有另外一层意义：在经历了多年一言不发地寻求法律教育的补救措施却无果后，这将是她首次公开发声。 a legal education gone wrong.

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160307/c07db-law	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160307/c07db-law
China's Outflows of Money Slowed in February	中国 2 月外汇储备降幅收窄，资本外流放缓
HONG KONG — Few economic statistics have gone as quickly from obscurity to the center of attention from international financial markets lately as China's foreign currency reserves, widely seen as the best barometer of how long China can avoid a possible devaluation someday of its own currency.	香港——几乎没有几个经济数据像中国的外汇储备这样，在最近的国际金融市场上以如此快的速度从默默无闻转变焦点，中国的外汇储备被普遍视为最佳的晴雨表，体现中国能够在避免本国货币出现可能的贬值上坚持多久。
Monthly changes in the reserves these days mainly reflect how much money is being sent out of the country by Chinese companies and families nervous about the country's economic slowdown and sweeping anticorruption investigations. Over the last five weeks, the Chinese government has waged an aggressive campaign to stem the outflow, through almost daily pledges by officials not to devalue and through much tighter enforcement of the rules on sending money overseas.	这段时间以来，外汇储备的月度变化主要反映了中国公司和家庭由于担心国内经济增长放缓以及大范围的反腐调查，把钱送往国外的程度。在过去五周中，中国政府发动了一场遏制资本外流的声势浩大的运动，其官员几乎每天保证人民币不会贬值，政府同时更严格地执行向海外汇款的规则。
Late Monday afternoon came word that the policies are starting to bear fruit: the erosion in China's foreign exchange reserves slowed sharply last month from the pace of $100 billion a month that prevailed through the winter. Reserves fell by $28.6 billion last month, to $3.202 trillion.	周一晚间传来消息表示，政策开始见成效：中国外汇储备上月的减少从整个冬季的每月减少 1000 亿美元的速度大幅放缓。外汇储备在上个月减少了 286 亿美元，降至 3.202 万亿美元。
Most economists had anticipated a somewhat larger drop in reserves — Barclays had expected a fall of $70 billion, for example. The decline announced on Monday "is an encouraging sign because the concern amongst a lot of the bears was that the outflows would keep	大多数经济学家曾经预期的外汇储备下降幅度比这个数字更大，比如巴克莱银行(Barclays)此前的预计是下降 700 亿美元。周一公布的下降数字“是一个令人鼓舞的迹象，因为很多持悲观态度的人担心，资本外流会继续加速，外流已有所缓解这一事实令人欣慰”，在伦敦的研究机构凯投宏观(Capital

accelerating — the fact they've eased is reassuring," said Julian Evans-Pritchard, the China economist for Capital Economics, a research firm based in London.	Economics)研究中国的经济学家朱利安·埃文斯-普里查德(Julian Evans-Pritchard)说。
Yi Gang, the senior deputy governor of the Chinese central bank, dismissed concerns about the nation's currency during remarks earlier in the day outside the National People's Congress session in Beijing. "The cross-border capital flows are in the normal range," he said.	当天早些时候，中国央行副行长易纲在北京的全国人大会议期间，对有关中国货币的担忧不屑一提。他说，“跨境资本流动在一个正常范围。”
At a time of turmoil in world financial markets, the renminbi is actually among the most stable currencies, Mr. Yi added. "Our volatility, the fluctuations of the renminbi against the U.S. dollar and also the fluctuations against a basket of currencies, in reality and from a global perspective, are fundamentally the smallest."	易纲补充说，在这个全球金融市场动荡的时候，人民币实际上是最稳定的货币之一。“中国汇率的波动性是非常小的，人民币对美元的波动和对一揽子货币的波动，在全世界来看都是最小的。”
China had caused alarm overseas and at home by devaluing its currency by 4 percent over three days in August, and by almost as much again over five weeks in late December and early January. But since then, the central bank, the People's Bank of China, has set the daily fixing of the renminbi against the dollar in Shanghai with no clear trend toward the strengthening or the weakening of the currency.	去年8月，中国在三天中让人民币贬值了4%，在海外和国内引起惊慌，之后在从去年12月到今年1月初的五周里又让人民币贬值了几乎同样的百分比。但自那以来，央行中国人民银行在上海设的每日人民币兑美元的指导价，没有给出人民币走强还是走弱的明显趋势。
State-controlled Chinese banks have also intervened heavily in the less regulated Hong Kong market since January to protect the currency's value here.	中国由国家控制的银行1月以来也大量介入监管不那么严格的香港市场，以保护这里的人民币币值。
Defending China's currency, the renminbi, could nonetheless remain a challenge for Beijing. Prime Minister Li Keqiang announced on Saturday that his government would step up China's already brisk expansion of its money supply, further flooding the economy with renminbi in an	然而，保持中国货币人民币的币值对北京仍是一个挑战。李克强总理周六宣布，政府将增加中国已在快速扩张的货币供应量，进一步把人民币注入经济，作为一种确保银行能向公司不断提供贷款的努力。

effort to make sure that banks can keep pumping out loans to companies.
Mr. Li included the money supply target in a broader panoply of measures aimed at maintaining economic growth at 6.5 percent or higher through 2020. Monetary stimulus helps economic growth by holding down interest rates. But lower interest rates also make it less attractive to invest in a currency, which could fuel further outflows of money from China.	李克强宣布的旨在到把经济增长速度到 2020 年保持在 6.5% 或更高的一整套措施，包括了货币供应量目标。货币刺激政策通过压低利率来帮助经济增长。但是，低利率也使投资一种货币的吸引力减小，这可能进一步促使中国的资本外流。
The reserves are a far from perfect measure of money leaving China. For starters, the change in the total value of the reserves is not influenced just by how much the central bank spends in currency markets to offset the outflow of money by Chinese companies and families.	外汇储备的数量并不是中国资金外流的完美衡量。首先，外汇储备总量的变化不只受央行在货币市场花了多少钱来抵消中国企业和家庭送出的资金的影响。
Changes in the value of China's vast hoard of government securities and some equities denominated in euros, yen, pounds and other currencies also affect the overall level of the reserves, which is quoted in dollars. Economists estimate that about two-fifths of the reserves are held in currencies other than the dollar, and the dollar weakened slightly against most currencies during February.	中国贮存的大量政府债券和欧元、日元、英镑及其他货币计价的某些资产的价值变化，也影响其外汇储备以美元计价的总额。经济学家估计，中国外汇储备中的五分之二是以非美元的货币持有的，而在 2 月份，美元相对大多数货币有小幅贬值。
That suggests that the overall value of the reserves increased by about $13 billion last month because of currency moves — and indicates that the outflow of money in the last month may have been $13 billion greater than the figure of $28.6 billion that was announced on Monday morning.	这意味着，中国外汇储备的总额由于汇率波动在上个月增加了约 130 亿美元，也表明，上个月的资金外流可能比周一上午公布的 286 亿美元多 130 亿美元。
Another consideration is China's huge trade surplus, which brings	另一个要考虑进来的因素是中国巨大的贸易顺差，这使每月有 500 亿美元

another $50 billion or so into the country each month. The decline in reserves last month suggests that capital outflows may have totaled about $90 billion, using up all of the $50 billion or so from the trade surplus and the $13 billion or so from valuation changes, in addition to nearly $30 billion from the reserves.	左右的资金进入中国。外汇储备上个月的下月表明，该月的资本外流总额可能约为 900 亿美元，这包括贸易顺差所带来的 500 亿左右的美元，以及外汇储备 130 亿美元左右的价值变化，再加上近 300 亿美元的外汇储备下降。
The change in central bank reserves does not include one other variable that will not be released until later this month and will provide a further clue on outflows: how much state-controlled banks spent on intervention last month.	央行储备的变化没有包括另一个变量，它将在本月晚些时候公布。该变量可以为资本外流状况提供进一步线索：国有银行在上个月的干预中花了多少钱。
In the last two weeks, Chinese officials have said repeatedly that they do not see a need to devalue the country's currency against the three baskets, or weighted averages, of various foreign currencies against which the central bank measures it. The Chinese central bank strengthened the renminbi against the dollar by nearly 0.3 percent on Monday morning in fixing the daily band of values within which the renminbi is allowed to trade in Shanghai.	在过去的两周内，中国官员曾多次表示，他们认为没有必要让人民币相对于三个货币篮贬值——货币篮是被央行用来与人民币做比较的多种外币加权平均数。周一上午，通过设定人民币在上海交易市场的每日价格浮动空间，中国央行让人民币对美元上涨近 0.3%。
Based on one model of reserves adequacy proposed by the International Monetary Fund, China needs a minimum of $1.5 trillion if it bars practically all investment flows in and out of the country. A minimum of $2.7 trillion is needed if China allows money to move in and out of the country freely. The central bank has been gradually tightening the enforcement of its regulations on capital flows.	根据国际货币基金组织(IMF)提出的一个储备充足性评估模型，如果中国基本上禁止了所有投资流入流出该国，它需要至少 1.5 万亿美元。如果中国允许资金自由流入和流出该国，则需要至少 2.7 万亿美元。中国央行已经在逐渐收紧资本流动监管规则的执行。
The level of China's reserves has become a subject of intense international interest as some large American hedge funds, like Hayman Capital Management in Dallas, have placed big bets in financial	中国的外汇储备水平已经在国际上引发了强烈兴趣，一些大型美国对冲基金，比如达拉斯的海曼资本管理(Hayman Capital Management)，在金融市场下重注赌人民币在未来 12 至 18 个月里贬值。“我不仇视中国，”海曼资

markets on a Chinese devaluation in the coming 12 to 18 months. "I'm not someone who hates China," said J. Kyle Bass, the founder and principal of Hayman Capital, in a telephone interview last week. "What I'm good at is spotting credit bubbles."	本创始人和总监 J·凯尔·巴斯(J. Kyle Bass)上周在接受电话采访时表示。“我擅长的是察觉信贷泡沫。”
But Chinese officials and many Chinese economists disagree with that gloomy prediction. They contend that official statistics showing limited bank exposure to nonperforming loans are credible, and that bank reserves to handle these loans are ample.	但中国官员和很多中国经济学家不同意如此悲观的预测。他们辩驳说，官方统计数据显示银行对不良贷款的风险敞口并不大，而这些数据是可信的，银行也有充足的准备金来应对这些贷款问题。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160308/c08chinareerves	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160308/c08chinareerves
Donald Trump Laces Into Japan With a Trade Tirade From the '80s	特朗普炮轰日本操纵汇率冲击美国贸易
TOKYO — Donald J. Trump has often aimed his raucous brand of disparagement at foreign countries during his presidential run. There is China, "ripping off" the United States on trade and stealing its jobs. And Mexico, closing its eyes to a flood of migrants and drugs across the border.	东京——在总统竞选活动中，唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)时常用他特有的刺耳语调贬低别国。他说中国在和美国的贸易中“坑蒙拐骗”。而墨西哥不理睬移民及跨境贩毒的问题。
But his preoccupation with Japan is perhaps more unusual, if not anachronistic.	但他对日本的耿耿于怀或许更不寻常，甚至有些年代上的错乱。
Mr. Trump chastised Japan last week in a Republican candidates' debate, naming it along with China and Mexico as countries where "we are getting absolutely crushed on trade." He has previously accused Japan of manipulating its currency to achieve an unfair economic advantage, and of exploiting its military alliance with the United States to protect itself at little risk and cost.	特朗普上周在共和党候选人辩论中谴责日本，称它和中国、墨西哥都是“使我们的贸易受到冲击”的国家。他之前指责日本操控汇率，获得不公平的经济优势，利用与美国的军事联盟保护自己，而自身的风险及成本较低。
His complaints are reminiscent of another era, when Japan's economy was booming and its companies were buying trophy American assets	他的不满言论让人想起另一个时代，那时日本经济繁荣，日本公司收购知名的美国资产，比如电影制片厂和洛克菲勒中心(Rockefeller Center)。但自

like movie studios and Rockefeller Center. Since the 1990s, though, Japan's growth has been mostly flat, and trade friction much more subdued, even as the United States continues to run large trade deficits with Japan.	20 世纪 90 年代以来，日本经济基本上处于停滞状态，贸易摩擦大幅减少，美国对日本的贸易赤字依旧巨大。
Whereas Japanese officials once feared so-called Japan-bashing by Americans, today they are more likely to lament "Japan-passing," a shift in attention to places viewed as more dynamic, like China.	日本官员曾经担心的是美国人的所谓“痛击日本”(Japan-bashing)，如今他们应该更多的是哀叹“痛失日本”(Japan-passing)，美国的注意力已经转移到中国等更具活力的地方。
"Trump's comments on Japan remind me of the period from the late 1970s to the mid-1990s, when Japan was considered a serious rival to American economic pre-eminence," said Glen S. Fukushima, a former United States trade official who is now a senior fellow at the Center for American Progress, a liberal policy group. "It's interesting that despite the two-decade stagnation of the Japanese economy, Trump is now reviving the idea of Japan as an economic rival robbing America of jobs."	“特朗普有关日本的评论让我想起了 20 世纪 70 年代末到 90 年代中期那段时间，当时日本被视作美国经济霸主地位的劲敌，”前美国贸易官员、自由主义政策组织美国进步中心(Center for American Progress)高级研究员格伦·S·福岛(Glen S. Fukushima)说。“有趣的是，尽管日本经济 20 年来停滞不前，特朗普如今再次提出了一个观点，即日本是夺走美国工作机会的经济对手。”
Or, as Robert E. Kelly, an East Asia specialist at Pusan National University in South Korea, put it on Twitter during the Republican debate: "Japan, Japan, Japan again. Trump is living in the Michael Crichton '80s." (Mr. Crichton's best-selling novel "Rising Sun," published in 1992, depicted a Japan that waged ruthless economic war against the United States.)	或者就像共和党辩论期间韩国釜山国立大学(Pusan National University)东亚问题专家罗伯特·E·克利(Robert E. Kelly)在 Twitter 上写的那样：“日本，日本，又是日本。特朗普生活在迈克尔·克莱顿(Michael Crichton)写 80 年代的那些作品中。”（在克莱顿 1992 年出版的畅销小说《旭日追凶》[Rising Sun]中，日本对美国发起了无情的经济战争。）
Mr. Trump's ascendance has begun to cause serious unease in Japan. Even if his run ends short of the White House, the worry is that an election dominated by such talk could leave the United States more closed to trade and less willing to defend its allies.	特朗普在竞选中取得的优势开始在日本引发严重的不安。即使他最终没能入主白宫，人们担心由这种讨论主导的选举会致使美国降低对贸易的开放程度，不愿捍卫自己的盟友。
"My friends in the Foreign Ministry are in a state of panic," said Kiichi	“我在外务省的朋友陷入恐慌，”东京大学(University of Tokyo)国际政治专家

Fujiwara, an expert on international politics at the University of Tokyo. "This is the first time in a long time that we've seen straightforward protectionism from an American presidential candidate."	藤原归一(Kiichi Fujiwara)说。“这是多年来我们首次看到美国总统候选人这么直接地提出贸易保护主义。”
Major Japanese newspapers published critical editorials a day after Mr. Trump's sweeping victories in the Super Tuesday primaries last week.	特朗普上周在“超级星期二”初选中获得压倒性胜利，一天之后，日本主要报纸发表社论，进行批评。
"If there is a big shake-up in American politics, there is a danger that Japan could become an outlet for popular dissatisfaction with the spread of inequality and other issues," The Nikkei financial daily said.	《日本经济新闻》(Nikkei)称，“人们普遍对不平等及其他问题的蔓延感到不满，如果美国政界出现剧变，日本可能会成为这种不满情绪的宣泄出口。”
One concern is that Mr. Trump's rivals will shift to more isolationist positions to counter him. Last month, Hillary Clinton, the Democratic front-runner, who is also contending with skepticism on trade from her party rival, Bernie Sanders, criticized China and Japan in an opinion piece published in American regional newspapers.	一个令人担忧的问题是，特朗普的对手将会转向更为孤立主义的立场，以便与之对抗。上个月，民主党热门总统候选人希拉里·克林顿(Hillary Clinton)在美国区域性报纸发表观点文章批评中国和日本。克林顿还在对付持有贸易怀疑论的党内对手伯尼·桑德斯(Bernie Sanders)。
"China, Japan and other Asian economies kept their goods artificially cheap for years by holding down the value of their currencies," she wrote, adding that the United States should consider "effective new remedies, such as duties or tariffs."	“中国、日本和其他亚洲经济体多年来通过压低本国货币价值，人为降低商品价格，”她写道，她还表示，美国应该考虑“新的有效的解决办法，比如征收关税”。
Mrs. Clinton has also backed away from her support of the Trans-Pacific Partnership, a 12-nation trade deal that includes Japan and is awaiting ratification by the participating countries. She helped promote the deal as secretary of state.	克林顿曾支持跨太平洋伙伴关系协定(Trans-Pacific Partnership)，但目前有所退缩，这个涉及日本等12个国家的贸易协议正在等待参与国的批准。克林顿在担任国务卿期间曾推动该协议。
"We're already drawing up new laws and regulations, but it could all unravel," said a senior Japanese official involved in the deal, who spoke on the condition of anonymity because the discussions are confidential. "Our best hope is to ratify it quickly, along with other	“我们已经拟定了新的法律法规，但可能全都无法公布，”一名参与协议制定的日本高级官员说。“我们最大的希望就是与其他国家一起立即批准协议，迫使美国跟进。”由于讨论是秘密进行的，这名官员要求匿名。 countries, to put pressure on the U.S. to follow through.”

As he does with China, Mr. Trump accuses Japan of taking American jobs.	就像对中国的评价一样，特朗普批评日本抢走了美国人的工作。
After his victories on Super Tuesday, he called out Komatsu, a Japanese manufacturer of construction machinery, saying the weak yen gave it an unfair advantage over its American rival Caterpillar. He pledged to use equipment from Caterpillar and John Deere, another American manufacturer, to build his promised wall on the border with Mexico to keep out illegal immigrants.	在“超级星期二”获得胜利后，特朗普提到了日本工程机械制造商小松 (Komatsu)，称疲软的日元使得该公司获得对美国竞争对手卡特彼勒 (Caterpillar) 不公平的优势。他保证利用卡特彼勒及另一家美国制造商约翰·迪尔 (John Deere) 的产品在墨西哥边境修建他所承诺的边境墙，以阻止非法移民进入。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160309/c09trumpjapan	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160309/c09trumpjapan
Awash in Empty Homes, China Asks Migrant Workers to Settle Down	中国加快房地产去库存，农民工成“接盘侠”
BEIJING — Migrant workers are the unsung heroes of China’s economic miracle. Numbering more than 270 million, they abandon their impoverished farms and villages to move to the cities, where they run the factories and build the highways and high-rises that have made China’s growth the envy of the world.	北京——逾 2.7 亿农民工是中国经济奇迹的幕后英雄，他们背井离乡，迁往城市，在工厂里劳作，修建了高速公路和高楼大厦，帮助中国实现了举世称羡的经济增长。
Now, as China’s economy slows, the country’s leaders have a new mission for them: Buy homes.	如今，随着中国经济放缓，中国领导人有了一个新的使命给他们：购房。
China is looking for ways to get migrant workers to help buy up a huge glut of unsold homes that is dragging down the country’s economic growth. Chinese leaders have eased taxes and down payment requirements. They are taking new steps to offer mortgages. And they have eased the tough laws that traditionally have kept migrant workers from putting down roots in big cities.	房屋存量严重过剩拖累了中国的经济增长，政府正在设法让外来务工人员购买库存房屋。此前中国领导人已经放宽了税收和首付要求。目前正在采取新的措施来提供房贷。一直以来令农民工无法扎根大城市的严格法规，也已经有所放宽。
The leaders want to turn people like Hong Qiwen into home buyers. Mr.	领导人希望吸引洪启文（音）这样的人来购房。洪启文现年 32 岁，在中国

Hong, 32, runs a small pastry shop in Xi'an, a city in Shaanxi Province in the country's north. The province has said it will offer mortgages and other help as part of a $9.1 billion lending push to get people — especially migrants — to buy homes.	北部陕西省西安市经营一间小糕点店。陕西省已表示，将提供房贷和其他帮助来促进人们——尤其是外来人员——购房，贷款总额为 91 亿美元。
But Mr. Hong, a father of two young children who is from a rural area in China's east, represents the challenge to China's effort. He has no plans to buy one in Xi'an. "I am like a fallen leaf that will eventually return to the roots," he said, invoking a Chinese proverb.	但洪启文的情况很能说明中国的这项行动存在怎样的困难。他来自中国东部的农村地区，有两个年幼的孩子。他并不打算在西安购房。“我就像落叶，总是要归根的，”他说。“落叶归根”是一句中国俗语。
The housing glut is one of the biggest drags on China's economy, and therefore one of the major drags on global growth. The empty homes have discouraged further investment in real estate, idling cranes and construction workers around the country.	住房过剩是中国经济的最大拖累之一，因此也是全球经济增长的主要拖累之一。房屋空置降低了人们进一步投资的意愿，令全国各地的起重机和建筑工人无事可干。
Investment in Chinese real estate reached nearly $1.5 trillion last year, according to official figures. Economists say the property sector's impact on the economy is even greater when related industries like steel and furniture-making are included. But growth has come to a standstill. After growing by double-digit percentage rates for more than a decade, Chinese real estate investment last year grew just 1 percent.	官方数字显示，去年中国房地产投资接近 1.5 万亿美元。房地产行业对经济的影响已经很大，而经济学家说，如果把钢铁和家具制造业这样的相关行业也计算在内，影响还会更大。但增长已经陷入停滞。十多年来两位数的增长已经成为过去，中国的房地产投资比去年同期增长了仅仅 1%。 residential complex.
The precise size of the housing glut is unclear. China nationally tracks square meters available for sale. Government data shows that the space in unsold residential units reached a high last year at 452 million square meters, more than twice as much as in 2011 and 130 times the size of Central Park in New York. (A square meter is a little less than 11 square feet.) Unlike typical homes in the United States, which are generally single-family houses, the typical Chinese home is an apartment in a	住房过剩的确切规模尚不得而知。中国统计了全国范围内可供销售的平方米数字。政府数据显示，未售出的住宅去年达到了 452 万平方米的高点，是 2011 年规模的两倍多，这个面积相当于纽约中央公园的 130 倍。美国的普通家庭一般是独门独户，但中国家庭通常是住在居民区的公寓里。

The real housing overcapacity may be more serious than official figures show. "If we take into account the land that hasn't started construction or newly started projects, the pressure from overcapacity will be greater," said Yan Yuejin, a property analyst at E-House R&D Institute in Shanghai.	住房过剩的真正状况，可能会比官方数字显示的更为严重。“如果我们把尚没有开工建设的，或新开工的项目用地考虑在内，住房过剩的压力将会更大，”上海易居房地产研究院研究员严跃进说。
The problem stems from China's lending-and-spending binge eight years ago to stave off the effects of the global financial crisis. With $611 billion in spending, China rekindled growth but added to its surfeit of steel mills, cement kilns and glass factories — as well as empty homes. The glut was further fueled by Chinese investors looking for a place to park their wealth.	这个问题的根源在于，八年前，为了免受全球金融危机的影响，中国掀起了借贷和支出的热潮，用 6110 亿美元的支出重新点燃了增长势头，但是钢铁、水泥、玻璃厂，以及空置住宅，全都出现过剩。加之中国投资者也在寻找保存财富的方式，就进一步加剧了这种过剩。
The problem is most acute in China's less developed cities. Rapid increases in home prices persist in wealthier cities such as Beijing, Shanghai and the southern manufacturing mecca of Shenzhen, and analysts still warn of the potential for bubbles.	问题最严重的是中国的欠发达城市。而在富裕的城市，比如北京、上海和南方制造圣地深圳，房价快速上涨，分析师也在警告有可能存在泡沫。
For now, Chinese leaders seem mostly preoccupied with the backlog of unsold homes. President Xi Jinping was quoted in November as saying that "destocking the property market" and "promoting the sustained development of the sector" were important tasks for the coming year. Changjiang Daily, an official newspaper in the central city of Wuhan, likened the task of unloading vacant homes to "a battle of annihilation."	现在，中国领导人似乎全神贯注在积压房屋上。报道称习近平去年 11 月表示，“房地产市场去存量”和“促进行业持续发展”是未来一年的重要任务。中国中部城市武汉的官方报纸《长江日报》把去存量任务形容为“歼灭战”。
Government ministries have responded with a number of measures, such as reducing the deed tax and lowering requirements for down payments. The pressure is on: One Chinese provincial government has	政府部门已做出回应，制定了降低契税、降低首付等多项措施。官员们面临着压力：中国的一个省政府警告县、市级的官员，如果去存量失败，他们将被“追究责任”，但没有具体指明处罚方式。

warned county- and city-level officials that they will be “held accountable” if they fail, without specifying the penalties.
Part of the solution, officials believe, lies with China’s hundreds of millions of migrant workers. Many are from the countryside and lack an urban hukou — the household registration that provides access to social services such as subsidized health care and state schools and the right to buy a home. Originally, that system was designed to keep rural workers from flooding Chinese cities.	官员们认为，动员中国的亿万农民工是解决方案的一部分。他们中很多人来自农村，没有城市户口，也就没有享受社会服务、医疗保健补贴、公立学校教育和购房权利。这种制度的最初目的是避免中国的城市被农民工淹没。
Now, provincial governments are encouraging the workers to stay, and many are focusing on initiatives tailored to migrants. In the central province of Henan, the government will subsidize city home purchases by migrant workers and give them easier access to an urban hukou. In Wuhu, in Anhui Province, the authorities have promised easy commercial bank loans to migrant workers.	现在，省级政府正在鼓励农民工留下来，很多都侧重在专为农民工制定的措施上。在中部省份河南，政府为农民工在城市购房提供补贴，让他们更容易获得城市户口。在安徽芜湖，政府已经承诺要让农民工更容易申请到商业银行贷款。
The policies are aimed at people like He Yong, 28, a driver from a village in Jilin Province, which borders North Korea and Russia. He hopes someday to get married, settle down in the nearby city of Hunchun — population 250,000 — and set up his own business. The policies to encourage that have not been introduced in his part of the country yet, but he hopes to take advantage of them.	这些政策针对的另一个目标人群是何勇（音）这样的人，这名28岁的司机来自吉林农村，那是一个与朝鲜和俄罗斯接壤的省份。他希望将来可以结婚，在附近人口25万的城市珲春定居，自己做生意。相关鼓励政策尚未被引入他所在的地区，但他希望有朝一日能从这些政策里受益。
“Here no one wants to marry you and live in the village,” Mr. He said. “We all want to get a place in the city some day. Being a farmer is tiring and doesn’t make much money.”	“在这儿，没人愿意嫁给你，住在村里，”何勇说。“我们都希望有一天能住到城里。当农民太辛苦了，也赚不了什么钱。”
Still, the effort could prove to be tough. Hu Xingdou, an economics professor at the Beijing Institute of Technology, said rural residents	尽管如此，政府这项努力可能并不容易实现。北京理工大学经济学教授胡星斗表示，农村居民对于移居城市这件事犹豫不决，因为乡村的各项服务正在

hesitated to move into cities because rural services were improving, and they worried about compensation for their land and a lack of jobs in less developed cities.	改善的过程中，而且他们担心会拿不到土地补偿，也担心欠发达城市缺少工作机会。
Mr. Hong, owner of the pastry shop in Xi'an, currently rents an apartment in Xi'an, but he doesn't plan to stay. Pollution and traffic make city life unpalatable, he said, adding that he could probably buy a modest home in a small city if he wanted to. Eventually, he said, he will probably settle down back in rural Jiangxi.	那位西安糕点店老板洪启文，目前在西安租了一套公寓，但不打算在西安定居。他说，因为污染和交通拥堵，城里的生活让人难以忍受。他还表示，如果想的话，他也许能在一个小城市买套不大的房子。他说最终他还是会回到江西的乡下老家。
"I dreamed about city life when I was young, because many of the villagers who went there bragged about the city, which they said was full of new things," he said. "But once I began working in cities, I missed home a lot and was not entirely used to the city way of life."	“年轻的时候，我向往城市里的生活，因为村里很多去了城里的人都夸那里怎么好，说到处都是新鲜东西，”他说。“但我到城里生活后，却非常想念老家，不能完全适应这里的生活方式。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160310/c10chinahome	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160310/c10chinahome
For China Banks, Swapping Stock for Debt Is a Stopgap With Pitfalls	企业以股抵债能否挽救中国经济？
HONG KONG — A new approach to managing China's corporate debt burden may offer temporary relief for banks but spell further difficulties for the country's economy: having deeply troubled companies use stock to pay overdue loans.	香港——用一种新的方式来处理中国企业的债务负担，可能会暂时缓解银行的压力，但却可能给中国经济带来更多问题：让深陷困境的公司用股票来支付逾期贷款。
Early evidence of the strategy emerged late Thursday, when a heavily indebted Chinese shipbuilder disclosed that it would issue equity to its creditors, instead of repaying $2.17 billion in bank loans.	这种策略的早期迹象在本周四晚出现：一家负债累累的中国造船企业表示将向债权人发行股票，而不是偿还 21.7 亿美元的银行贷款。
If Chinese companies were to broadly adopt the approach for their debt issues, banks could temporarily shore up their balance sheets by replacing troubled loans with shares that have at least some value. But accepting stakes in highly indebted companies is likely to make banks	如果中国企业广泛采取这样的做法来处理债务问题，银行可以暂时使用至少具有一定的价值的股票来替换不良贷款，让其资产负债表有些起色。不过，接受了高负债企业的股份之后，银行可能就更加不愿意关闭它们了。

even more reluctant to shut them down.
And that could mean China will be stuck with enormous overcapacity in industrial sectors including shipbuilding, steel and cement, hampering economic growth for years to come.	这可能意味着，中国的造船、钢铁、水泥等工业领域将陷入巨大的产能过剩中，在未来几年里拖累中国的经济增长。
This latest strategy has some advantages. It would allow companies to cut their debt loads. In doing so, they could potentially improve their credit profiles, borrow more from banks, and keep their businesses running.	这个最新策略有一定的好处。公司可以利用它来减轻债务负担。采用这种做法，公司可能会提高自己的信用状况，从银行借到更多资金，继续经营业务。
It also makes banks' loan books appear healthier, since they can reduce the amount of past-due loans. Financial markets have been fixated on Chinese banks' portfolios of so-called nonperforming loans. And halting the recent expansion of these loans has become a high priority for Chinese bank executives.	这也会让银行的贷款业务显得更加健康，因为逾期贷款金额将会减少。金融市场一直紧盯着中国银行业的不良贷款状况。抑制这些贷款近期出现的扩大，已成为中国银行高管的当务之急。
While repaying loans with shares might seem a quick solution to China's enormous debt overhang, it could make the problems more pernicious.	虽然对于中国巨大的债务负担问题，用股份偿还贷款似乎是一个立竿见影的解决方案，但它可能会带来更大的危害。
In effect, it is just another way for troubled Chinese companies to put off making hard choices, like laying off employees and closing operations. Rather, businesses can continue to limp along, even when their underlying operations are not making money and customer demand has evaporated.	实际上，这仍然只会让陷入困境的中国企业推迟作出裁员、停产等艰难的选择，让它们在基本业务已经不能赚钱，客户需求已经消失的情况下继续蹒跚而行。
Such problems have been at the root of China's economic issues, as many state-owned enterprises, or S.O.E.s, and private companies have continued to roll over the debt and keep their operations going. The government has supported the tactic, in an effort to avert mass layoffs	这些问题一直是中国经济的症结所在，因为有很多国有企业和私人公司仍在为了维持运转而进行债务展期。政府支持它们采用这种策略，以免出现大规模裁员，从而维护社会的稳定。

and maintain social stability.
The new approach is “in a nutshell, very bad news for S.O.E. reform and, more specifically, for the solvency of Chinese banks,” said Alicia Garcia Herrero, the chief economist for Asia at Natixis, a French investment bank.	这种新方法，“简单地说，对于国企改革是个非常坏的消息，更具体地说，对于该国银行的偿付能力也是如此，”法国投行 Natixis 亚洲区首席经济学家艾丽西亚·加西亚·耶赫雷罗(Alicia Garcia Herrero)说。
At this point, it is unclear how widespread this strategy has become among Chinese companies. The shipbuilder, China Huarong Energy Company Limited, had to disclose the move only because the company is listed on the Hong Kong stock market. Mainland companies not listed overseas don't face the same stringent rules.	目前还不清楚这一策略在中国公司中有多普遍。经营造船业的中国华荣能源股份有限公司因为是在香港上市，所以才不得不透露了这种举措。没有在境外上市的内地企业不会面临这种严格的规则。
Two finance specialists with ties to mainland China regulators say the government is working on a broader plan to allow troubled companies to repay loans with shares instead of cash. They declined to speak on the record, citing the sensitivity of the issue within China. Reuters on Thursday reported on regulators' efforts to help ease banks' bad debt.	和中国大陆监管部门有联系的两名金融专家说，政府正在制定一项更广泛的计划，让陷入困境的企业可以用股份而非现金的方式偿还贷款。他们拒绝对此事发表正式意见，称这个问题在中国很敏感。本周四，路透社报道了监管部门帮助缓解银行坏账的努力。
Officials at the People's Bank of China, the country's central bank, and the China Banking Regulatory Commission could not be reached for comment late Thursday night. Zhou Xiaochuan, the central bank's governor, and three of his deputies are scheduled to hold a news conference on Saturday morning in Beijing, near the session of the National People's Congress.	周四晚间，记者无法联系到中国的央行——中国人民银行——及中国银行业监督管理委员会的官员置评。央行行长周小川及其三名副手将于周六上午全国人大召开前在北京举行新闻发布会。
The debt issue is core to the debate over where China's economy is headed.	在有关中国经济前景的争论中，债务是一个核心问题。
China avoided most of the ill effects of the global financial crisis by ordering the state-controlled banking system to engineer a major	中国曾通过要求国家控制的银行系统大幅增加货币供应，避免了全球金融危机的大部分不利影响。这些银行向公司及政府建设项目提供了大量贷款。

increase in the money supply. Those banks channeled huge loans to companies and to government construction projects.
While the stimulus helped stoke growth, the country's debt burden ballooned.	虽然这种刺激举措帮助推动增长，但中国的债务负担也因此激增。
Overall debt in China was equal to slightly more than one year's economic output as recently as 2008. It now stands at 2.5 years' economic output — above levels considered dangerous in other countries. The debt is still rising, and most of it is owed by companies.	近在 2008 年的时候，中国的整体债务还只略高于一年的经济产出。如今的债务水平相当于 2.5 年的经济产出——高于其他国家认为的危险水平。债务仍在不断增加，其中大部分是公司债务。
The stock-for-debt strategy speaks to the underlying trouble at many companies.	以股抵债的策略证明了很多公司存在潜在麻烦。
China Huarong Energy is one of dozens of Chinese shipbuilders in financial distress as prices worldwide for new ships have halved in the past two years. It is a similar story for steel makers, cement makers and many other businesses in heavy industry.	由于全球新船价格在过去两年降了一半，数十家中国造船公司陷入财务困境，中国华荣能源股份有限公司是其中之一。钢铁、水泥制造商及重工业领域的其他公司也面临类似的困境。
China Huarong Energy has been a dismal performer on the Hong Kong stock market. Its shares have tumbled even more steeply than broad mainland Chinese stock indexes, falling 83 percent since late April 2015.	中国华荣能源公司在香港股市表现不佳。其股价的跌幅甚至超过中国内地大盘指数，自 2015 年 4 月末以来降低了 83%。
The stock-for-debt swap is taking shape as Hong Kong financiers say that China's bad debt problem has worsened appreciably in recent weeks. The problem, they said in recent interviews, is that more companies are stopping payments on their loans from mainland Chinese banks with the country's economy continuing to slow.	在出现这种以股抵债的做法同时，香港金融机构表示，中国的坏账问题最近几周明显恶化。他们最近接受采访时称，问题在于随着中国经济继续放缓，越来越多的公司开始停止偿还中国内地银行的贷款。
That has begun to produce ripples in China's financial system. Desperate borrowers have pledged in recent weeks to pay several percentage points in extra interest to borrow in Hong Kong, after	这开始在中国金融领域引起波动。在发现内地银行及其他金融机构不愿贷款后，急切的借贷者最近几周愿意多支付几个百分点的利息，以便在香港获得贷款。 finding that banks and other financial institutions on the mainland were reluctant to lend.

HSBC warned on Thursday that allowing borrowers to pay in shares was a limited solution to bad debt problems. International bank standards on capital assign a large penalty to holdings of shares, meaning banks have to hold extra money against the stock.	汇丰银行(HSBC)周四警告称,对于坏账问题来说,允许借贷者以股抵债是一个有限的解决方案。国际银行资本标准会对持股处以高额罚款,这意味着银行必须持有比股票多的资金。
But China's five biggest banks have somewhat more capital than the standards require. So they may be able to swap some loans for shares without falling below the required minimums for capital, but are unlikely to resolve large portions of their portfolios of troubled loans through this method.	但中国五大银行拥有的资本比标准要求的多。因此它们或许能够进行一些以股抵债的交易,而不会出现资本少于最低标准的情况,但它们不太可能通过这种方法解决大部分涉及不良贷款的投资组合。
"We think it is unlikely to be of significant scale given there are limited ways of replenishing" capital once it has been allocated to offset equity holdings, HSBC said in a research note.	汇丰银行在一份研究报告中指出,鉴于一旦将资本拨出用于抵消持股,“补充资本的方法有限,我们认为不太可能大规模采用这种方法。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160311/c11db-chinabanks	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160311/c11db-chinabanks
E.C.B. Takes Bold Steps to Stimulate Eurozone Economy	欧洲央行推出强力措施刺激欧元区经济
FRANKFURT — The European Central Bank took a series of unexpected and radical steps on Thursday to stimulate the sluggish eurozone economy, including effectively paying banks to lend money.	法兰克福——周四,欧洲中央银行(European Central Bank)采取了一系列出人意外的激进措施,包括相当于出钱让银行放贷,以刺激疲软的欧元区经济。
While increasing the penalty it charges banks to store funds in its virtual vaults, as expected, the central bank surprised analysts and investors by saying it would also offer four-year loans to commercial banks under an arrangement that would pay the banks interest on money they lend to businesses and consumers.	正如外界预料的那样,欧洲央行加大了对银行把钱存放在其虚拟金库里的惩罚力度。与此同时,该行还表示,将按一项协议的规定,向商业银行提供四年期贷款。这些贷款将向银行支付其发放给企业和消费者的贷款产生的利息。此举令分析人士和投资者大感意外。
The actions, which go well beyond what analysts predicted, are part of	这些行动远远超出了分析人士此前的预期。它们是一项越来越紧迫的行动的

an increasingly urgent effort by the central bank to give the eurozone economy a decisive shove and to head off the threat of a destructive decline in prices known as deflation.	一部分。欧洲央行试图通过该行动大力提振欧元区经济，并防止出现物价的破坏性下跌，即通货紧缩。
But the moves are not without risks, taking the central bank further into the relatively uncharted territory of so-called negative interest rates.	但这些举措并非没有风险。它们会让欧洲央行在所谓的负利率这个相对而言属于未知的领域陷得更深。
The central bank also said it would expand its purchases of government bonds and other assets to 80 billion euros, or about $88 billion, a month from €60 billion. In another unprecedented step for the eurozone, the central bank will also begin buying corporate bonds as part of the asset purchases.	欧洲央行还表示将把每月购买政府债券和其他资产的规模从 600 亿欧元扩大到 800 亿欧元。该行还将开始购买企业债券，将其作为资产购买行动的一部分。对欧元区来说，这又是一项史无前例的举动。
The announcement of the moves prompted an immediate plunge in the euro against the dollar, which is good for European exporters, while stocks rose. But the unexpectedly forceful action could also be interpreted as a sign that the European Central Bank is more worried than analysts thought about the risk of deflation.	这些举措的宣布促使欧元兑美元汇率立即大幅下跌。而这对欧洲出口商有利。与此同时，股市上涨。但力度超出预期的行动也可能被当做一个迹象，表明欧洲央行比分析人士以为的更担心通货紧缩风险。
"This has all the hallmarks of the E.C.B. having thrown the kitchen sink at the problem," Patrick O'Donnell, an investment manager at Aberdeen Asset Management, said in a statement.	"这完全是欧洲央行使出浑身解数解决问题的标志，"安本资产管理(Aberdeen Asset Management)投资经理帕特里克·奥唐奈(Patrick O'Donnell)在一份声明中表示。
In a news conference, Mario Draghi, the central bank's president, called the measures a "comprehensive package" meant to spur inflation and spur the eurozone economy.	在新闻发布会上，欧洲央行行长马里奥·德拉吉(Mario Draghi)称这些措施是一项"全面方案"，意在刺激通货膨胀和欧元区经济。
In normal times, commercial banks earn interest on money parked at the central bank. But beginning in June 2014, the European Central Bank began effectively penalizing banks for doing so, charging a negative interest rate on deposits.	正常情况下，商业银行会从存放在欧洲央行的资金赚取利息。但从 2014 年 6 月开始，欧洲央行开始对存款实行负利率。这实际上是对银行此种做法的惩罚。

In its first step on Thursday, the European Central Bank said it would further cut the deposit rate — the interest on commercial bank’s holdings at the central bank — to minus 0.4 percent. That was down from minus 0.3 percent. Some analysts had expected a bigger cut, to minus 0.5 percent.	周四当天，该行先是宣布将把存款利率——商业银行存放在该行的财产的利率——从目前的-0.3%进一步下调至-0.4%。一些分析人士本来预计下调幅度会更大，以为会降到-0.5%。
The moves signal the central bank’s sense of urgency about the eurozone economy. Despite the bank’s stimulus measures to date, inflation in the 19 countries of the eurozone has been stuck near or below zero for more than a year. The inflation rate, which had been slightly positive, was minus 0.2 percent in February, according to official figures. Falling prices are a symptom of slow growth, while a broad, sustained decline in prices can undercut corporate profits and lead to job losses.	这些举动标志着欧洲央行对欧元区经济有一种紧迫感。尽管该行迄今已出台多项刺激措施，但一年多以来，欧元区 19 个国家的通货膨胀率一直徘徊在零附近或以下。官方数据显示，2 月，曾经略高于零的通货膨胀率为-0.2%。物价下跌是经济疲软的一个征兆，而物价全面持续下跌则可能会削弱企业利润，导致失业。
Deflation occurs when consumers delay purchases in anticipation of lower prices, creating a circle of falling prices and demand. Because retail sales have been growing slightly in the eurozone, deflation has technically not begun. But policy makers fear that it could set in, knowing that deflation is a debilitating condition that is hard to cure.	消费者因为预计会降价而推迟购买，由此产生通货紧缩，形成一个价格和需求不断下降的循环。因为欧元区零售总额一直在小幅增加，所以严格来说通货紧缩尚未开始。但政策制定者担心它可能会到来。他们知道，通货紧缩这种削弱经济的情况是种顽疾。
Rekindling inflation is one of the central bank’s main policy goals.	重新让通货膨胀加速是欧洲央行的主要政策目标之一。
Mr. Draghi and his colleagues on the central bank’s Governing Council have had to explore new frontiers of monetary policy as they try to push inflation back to the official target of close to, but below, 2 percent. It is a goal the central bank has not been able to meet since 2013.	在努力推动通货膨胀回到接近但不到 2% 的官方目标时，德拉吉和他在欧洲央行管理委员会(Governing Council)的同事不得不探索货币政策的新前沿。自 2013 年以来，欧洲央行一直未能实现这个目标。
Negative interest rates, which have been adopted in some countries	负利率推翻了有关金融体系运行方式的很多假设。在欧元区，负利率趋势造

outside the eurozone, including Denmark and Switzerland, have upended many assumptions about how the financial system works. In the eurozone, the trend has led to negative rates on other assets such as German government bonds and recently even some bonds by commercial borrowers. Investors who buy such bonds have in effect been willing to pay to store their money in a place they consider safe.	成了其他资产，如德国政府债券陷入了负利率，最近甚至商业债务人发行的债券也陷入了负利率。购买这类债券的投资者，实际是愿意支付费用，把资金存放在一个他们认为安全的地方。欧元区以外的一些国家，包括丹麦和瑞士也实行了负利率。
On Tuesday, Berlin Hyp, a German bank, issued €500 million in bonds with a negative interest rate of 0.162 percent. The bank said that demand for the bonds, mostly from other banks, was three times the supply.	周二，德国柏林房地产融资银行(Berlin Hyp)以负 0.162%的利率发行了 5 亿英镑债券。该银行称，对这些债券的需求是发行额的三倍，主要来自其他银行。
There has been considerable debate among economists about whether the central bank measures have done any good. There are also risks. For example, negative interest rates could hurt bank profits even as many banks are struggling with bad loans or other troubled assets.	对于欧洲央行的措施是否起到了帮助作用，经济专家之间存在相当大的争议。这些举措也存在风险。比如，负利率可能会削弱银行利润，而很多银行眼下正在艰难应对坏账和其他不良资产。
It was almost exactly a year ago that the European Central Bank set eurozone precedent by buying government bonds and other assets. The program has essentially been one of printing money in hopes of stimulating the eurozone economy, which has yet to recover fully from the global financial crisis of 2008.	几乎就是在一年前，欧洲央行开欧元区之先河，开始购买政府债券和其他资产。该计划本质上就是大印钞票，以期刺激欧元区经济。而欧元区经济尚未从 2008 年的全球金融危机中完全恢复过来。
The money-printing program, known as quantitative easing, has helped keep the euro weak against the dollar, which is good for European exporters. And Mr. Draghi has argued that it has made it easier for banks to lend.	该印钞计划又叫量化宽松，帮助维持了欧元对美元的弱势地位。这有利于欧洲出口商。德拉吉称此举降低了银行放贷的难度。
Whatever the potential pitfalls of the new measures, "the risks of doing too much are probably now less than the risks of doing too little,"	牛津经济顾问公司(Oxford Economics)的经济师们在一份报告中表示，不管新措施的潜在隐患是什么，“现在做的太多的风险可能低于做的太少”。 economists at Oxford Economics said in a report.

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160311/c11ecb	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160311/c11ecb
Marriott-Starwood Deal Is Interrupted by a Chinese Suitor	安邦开价 128 亿美元欲收购海外酒店集团
Around two years ago, the Anbang Insurance Group, an insurer then little known outside of China, announced that it would buy the fabled Waldorf Astoria for $1.95 billion.	大约两年前, 安邦保险集团宣布将斥资 19.5 亿美元, 收购传奇性的华尔道夫-阿斯托里亚酒店(Waldorf Astoria), 那时, 这家保险公司在中国境外还鲜为人知。
Now, the Chinese insurer hopes to expand its hotel empire with an unsolicited bid to acquire Starwood Hotels & Resorts Worldwide, the operator of the hotel brands Westin, W and Sheraton, for $76 a share in cash, or $12.8 billion in total.	现在, 这家中国保险集团希望扩大其酒店帝国的规模, 主动提出以每股 76 美元、总计 128 亿美元的价格, 现金收购威斯汀(Westin)、W 和喜来登(Sheraton)等酒店品牌的运营商喜达屋酒店及度假村国际集团(Starwood Hotels& Resorts Worldwide)。
A consortium of investors, led by Anbang, is hoping to derail Starwood's $10.8 billion cash-and-stock merger with Marriott International that is set to be considered by shareholders of both hotel operators this month.	一个由安邦牵头的投资者财团, 试图来给万豪国际(Marriott International)与喜达屋的并购交易搅局。该交易金额为 108 亿美元, 支付方式为现金加股票, 定于本月由双方公司的股东进行考虑。
The other bidders in the competing consortium, according to a person with knowledge of the discussions, include J. Christopher Flowers' buyout firm, J.C. Flowers & Company, and the Primavera Capital Group, whose chairman, Fred Hu, is the former chairman of Goldman Sachs for China.	一名知情人士透露, 在这个竞购喜达屋的财团中, 包括 J·克里斯多夫·弗拉沃斯基(J. Christopher Flowers)的收购公司 J.C. Flowers & Company, 以及春华资本集团(Primavera Capital Group), 其董事长胡祖六曾是高盛(Goldman Sachs)在中国的董事长。
The cash offer by Anbang and its investment partners is the latest in a wave of overseas deal-making by Chinese companies. So far this year, Chinese companies have announced $81.9 billion worth of foreign deals, compared with just $10.55 billion in the same period a year ago, according to Thomson Reuters data.	安邦及其投资伙伴提出的现金收购, 是中国企业这波境外交易中的最新一起。汤森路透(Thomson Reuters)的数据显示, 今年以来, 中国公司已经宣布了 819 亿美元的境外交易, 而去年同期只有 105.5 亿美元。
Anbang's pursuit of Starwood follows fast on the heels of reports that	安邦寻求收购喜达屋之前, 刚刚才传出了它达成协议将斥资 65 亿美元收购

the Chinese company has agreed to acquire Strategic Hotels and Resorts from the Blackstone Group in a deal valued at $6.5 billion just months after Blackstone bought the company.	黑石集团(Blackstone Group)旗下战略酒店及度假村(Strategic Hotels and Resorts)的消息。黑石集团购入该酒店也才不过数月。
Strategic Hotels owns the Four Seasons hotels and resorts in Silicon Valley, Washington and Jackson Hole, Wyo., the Fairmont and Intercontinental hotels in Chicago and the JW Marriott Essex House hotel in Manhattan.	战略酒店拥有硅谷、华盛顿、怀俄明州杰克逊霍尔的四季酒店(Four Seasons), 芝加哥的费尔蒙(Fairmont)与洲际(Intercontinental)酒店, 曼哈顿的 JW 万豪埃塞克斯之家酒店(JW Marriott Essex House Hotel)。
Anbang, led by its chairman, Wu Xiaohui, has been an aggressive deal maker in recent years. Mr. Wu is married to the granddaughter of Deng Xiaoping, China's former top leader who oversaw the opening of the Chinese economy to capitalism and investment from foreign companies.	最近几年来, 在董事长吴小晖的带领下, 安邦开展了一些大手笔的交易。吴小晖是邓小平的外孙女婿。担任中国最高领导人期间, 邓小平主持了中国对资本主义和外商投资的开放。
In addition to its deal for Waldorf Astoria, Anbang, which is based in Beijing, has also bought an American insurer, Fidelity & Guaranty Life Insurance, for nearly $1.6 billion, and a controlling stake in a South Korean life insurer. Last year, it also unsuccessfully offered to buy a Portuguese lender.	安邦总部设在北京, 除了华尔道夫酒店的交易之外, 它还斥资近 16 亿美元收购了美国信保人寿保险公司(Fidelity & Guaranty Life Insurance Company), 并获得了一家韩国寿险公司的控股权。去年, 它出价收购一家葡萄牙贷款机构, 但未成功。
Anbang got its start as a car insurer supported in part by the SAIC Motor Corporation, China's largest automaker. A decade ago, it was a small operator compared with China's big state-owned insurance companies.	安邦最初是从汽车保险起家的, 它得到了中国最大的汽车生产商上汽集团的支持。10 年前, 与中国的大型国有保险公司相比, 它还是一家小企业。
But the company broadened its operations to sell investment products and other services and has increasingly made aggressive bets. It was helped by the Chinese government's move in recent years to give Chinese insurers greater freedom to invest their money, making them major players in real estate and other areas in China.	但安邦扩大了业务范围, 开始出售投资产品和其他一些服务, 并且日益激进地押注一些项目。中国政府近年来放宽限制, 允许境内保险公司更加自由地投资自己的资金, 于是这些公司成了中国房地产等领域的主要参与者。

The consortium's cash offer, which was made on March 10 and announced publicly by Starwood on Monday, represents a significant premium to Marriott's deal, which has been affected by a decline in the hotel operator's stock price since it was announced in November.	该财团的现金收购要约是在3月10日提出的，喜达屋本周一公布了此事。比起与万豪的交易，这是一个大幅溢价。自从去年11月宣布与万豪的交易以来，喜达屋的股价下跌，影响了这宗交易。
Starwood said on Monday that its board had not changed its recommendation in support of the Marriott deal, but that it would carefully consider the outcome of its discussions with the consortium led by Anbang to determine the course of action that is in the "best interest of Starwood and its stockholders."	喜达屋周一表示，董事会没有改变支持万豪交易的建议，但会认真考虑与安邦牵头的财团之间讨论的结果，以便确定符合“喜达屋及其股东的最佳利益”的行动方向。
Starwood said that it had received a waiver from Marriott to allow it to engage in discussions and due diligence with the consortium. The waiver expires on Thursday.	喜达屋表示，它已收到了来自万豪的免责声明，使其能够开展与该财团的讨论并对其进行尽职调查。免责声明将于本周四到期。
Marriott described the rival takeover approach to Starwood as "highly conditional and nonbinding."	万豪表示，这个竞争对手对喜达屋的收购方式“有很高的条件门槛，不具约束力”。
"Marriott will monitor this development as it and Starwood continue to work toward the closing of its transaction and the successful integration of the two companies," Marriott said in a news release.	“万豪将一边关注这方面的发展，一边继续与喜达屋共同推动交易的完成，向两家公司的成功整合迈进，”万豪在新闻稿中表示。
Shareholders of Starwood and Marriott are set to vote on whether to approve the merger on March 28. Marriott would receive a termination fee of $400 million if Starwood were to back out of the deal.	喜达屋和万豪的股东定于3月28日投票，决定是否批准这宗并购。如果喜达屋退出交易，万豪将获得4亿美元的终止费。
The deal with Marriott would create the world's largest hotel company, with more than 5,500 owned or franchised hotels, for a total of 1.1 million rooms around the world.	并购如果成功，它将成为全球最大的酒店集团，旗下有逾5500家直营或特许经营酒店，在世界各地共有110万个房间。
Based on the 20-day volume weighted average of Marriott's stock, the merger would be valued at $63.74 a Starwood share, including a cash	喜达屋本周一表示，根据万豪股票20天成交量加权平均价，喜达屋在并购中的估值是每股63.74美元，包括每股2美元的现金对价。 consideration of $2 a share, Starwood said on Monday.

Starwood shareholders would also receive $5.50 a share from the spinoff of its time-share business, Vistana Signature Experiences, and the business's merger with a subsidiary of the Interval Leisure Group.	喜达屋的股东，也将从该集团的分时度假业务维斯塔纳专属体验(Vistana Signature Experiences)与分时度假集团(Interval Leisure Group)一个分公司的并购交易中，获得每股 5.5 美元的收益。
Anbang is widely seen as benefiting from good relations with leaders in Beijing.	安邦集团被普遍认为受益于它和北京领导层的良好关系。
Late last year, it also struck an alliance with China Vanke, a Chinese property developer in the middle of a rare corporate takeover battle. The deal, which Vanke said it welcomed, was widely seen as a friendly effort that allowed Vanke management to remain at the helm of the company, China's largest property developer.	在去年末进行的一场罕见的企业股权争夺战中，安邦与中国地产商万科集团结成了联盟。万科欢迎安邦入股，它被广泛看作是一种友好的举措，能让万科管理层继续掌控这家中国最大的房地产开发公司。
It is not just Anbang that is increasingly looking abroad.	日益将目光投向海外的，不止安邦这一家公司。
China's slowing economy has led companies and individuals to take money out of the country and invest it elsewhere. This turnabout from the days when China soaked up much of the world's money flows has led investors to believe that China's currency — already weakened in recent months after two sets of devaluations — could fall further. Foreign deals allow Chinese companies to move money abroad with the blessing of Chinese officials while avoiding potentially painful devaluations.	中国经济增速放缓，导致企业和个人都将资金移出海外，在别处进行投资。之前一直是全世界的资金大批流向中国，如今情况逆转，致使投资者相信，在最近几个月经历两轮贬值已经走弱的中国货币，还会进一步贬值。通过进行海外交易将资金转移到海外的做法，可以得到中国官方的首肯，同时也让中国企业避开了有可能带来麻烦的货币贬值。
Those dynamics help explain why Chinese companies are redoubling their efforts to invest abroad despite growing efforts by the Chinese government to keep money at home. China's foreign currency reserves have fallen to $3.2 trillion in recent months, prompting Beijing to intensify its already tight limits on money flowing across its borders.	这种逻辑可以帮助我们理解，在中国政府不断加大举措将资金留在国内的情况下，中国企业为何却在加倍进行海外投资。中国的外汇储备在最近几个月减少到了 32 万亿美元。这促使北京进一步加强本已收紧的资金外流限制。

Still, major deals continue to be struck. In the biggest potential Chinese deal for a foreign company, the Swiss agribusiness Syngenta has agreed to be acquired by a state-owned Chinese chemical company, known as ChemChina, for $43 billion.	然而，大宗交易还在不断达成。瑞士农业综合企业先正达(Syngenta)接受了一家中国国有化工企业的收购要约，即由中国化工集团以 430 亿美元对它进行收购。这项交易有望成为中国公司规模最大的一宗海外收购。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160316/c16db-starwood	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160316/c16db-starwood
On Trade, Angry Voters Have a Point	对华贸易让美国人赔了多少？
Were the experts wrong about the benefits of trade for the American economy?	专家们把贸易对美国经济的益处弄错了？
The nation's working class will have another opportunity to demonstrate its political clout Tuesday night, as primary voters go to the polls in Illinois and Ohio, Rust Belt states that have suffered intensely from the loss of good manufacturing jobs. Last week, the insurrection handed Michigan's Democratic primary to Bernie Sanders while continuing to buoy the insurgent Republican candidacy of Donald Trump.	随着伊利诺伊州和俄亥俄州的初选选民前往投票站，这两个丢失了大量就业机会的传统工业州的美国工人阶级，在周二晚将再次有机会展示他们的政治影响力。上周，密歇根州的造反选民把民主党初选的胜利送给了伯尼·桑德斯(Bernie Sanders)，同时继续保持了非正统的唐纳德·特朗普(Donald Trump)在共和党总统候选人中的领先地位。
Voters' anger and frustration, driven in part by relentless globalization and technological change, may not propel either candidate to the presidency. But it is already having a big impact on America's future, shaking a once-solid consensus that freer trade is, necessarily, a good thing.	选民的愤怒和沮丧，虽然部分是由全球化和技术变革所导致的，都可能不会让这两名候选人中的任何一位成为总统。但这种情绪已经对美国的未来产生了很大的影响，它动摇了一个曾经坚定的共识，既自由贸易必定是一件好事。
"The economic populism of the presidential campaign has forced the recognition that expanded trade is a double-edged sword," wrote Jared Bernstein, former economic adviser to Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.	"总统竞选活动中的经济民粹主义迫使人们认识到，不断扩大的贸易是一把双刃剑，"副总统小约瑟夫·R·拜登(Joseph R. Biden Jr.)的前经济顾问贾里德·伯恩斯坦(Jared Bernstein)写道。
What seems most striking is that the angry working class — dismissed	看起来最令人惊讶的是，常常被人认为是短视的、无法全面了解贸易所代表

so often as myopic, unable to understand the economic trade-offs presented by trade — appears to have understood what the experts are only belatedly finding to be true: The benefits from trade to the American economy may not always justify its costs.	的经济权衡的愤怒的工人阶级，似乎早明白了专家们迟来的真理：贸易给美国经济带来的好处也许并不总能证明其代价的正当性。
In a recent study, three economists — David Autor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, David Dorn at the University of Zurich and Gordon Hanson at the University of California, San Diego — raised a profound challenge to all of us brought up to believe that economies quickly recover from trade shocks. In theory, a developed industrial country like the United States adjusts to import competition by moving workers into more advanced industries that can successfully compete in global markets.	在最近的一项研究中，三位经济学家，麻省理工学院的戴维·奥托尔 (David Autor)、苏黎世大学的戴维·多恩(David Dorn)，以及加州大学圣迭哥分校的戈登·汉森(Gordon Hanson)，对我们所有人从小就相信是正确的理论提出了深刻的挑战，该理论认为一个经济体从贸易冲击中迅速恢复过来。从理论上讲，像美国这样的工业发达国家，应该把劳动力转移到能在全球市场上竞争的更先进的产业，以此来应对出口竞争。
They examined the experience of American workers after China erupted onto world markets some two decades ago. The presumed adjustment, they concluded, never happened. Or at least hasn't happened yet. Wages remain low and unemployment high in the most affected local job markets. Nationally, there is no sign of offsetting job gains elsewhere in the economy. What's more, they found that sagging wages in local labor markets exposed to Chinese competition reduced earnings by $213 per adult per year.	他们研究了大约 20 年前，在中国突然出现在世界市场上之后，美国工人的经历。他们的结论是，理论上该出现的调整从未发生。或者至少还没有发生。在受影响最大的本地就业市场，工资一直很少，失业率高居不下。从全国来看，也没有迹象表明其他经济领域能提供就业增长，来抵消制造业的失业。更重要的是，他们发现，暴露在中国竞争下的当地劳动力市场上的工资下降，每年让每个成年人减少了 213 美元的收入。
In another study they wrote with Daron Acemoglu and Brendan Price from M.I.T., they estimated that rising Chinese imports from 1999 to 2011 cost up to 2.4 million American jobs.	在另一份他们与麻省理工学院的达隆·阿齐默鲁(Daron Acemoglu)和布兰登·普莱斯(Brendan Price)合写的研究报告中，他们估计，1999 年至 2011 年累计从中国进口商品的成本，是多达 240 万美国人的就业机会。
"These results should cause us to rethink the short- and medium-run gains from trade," they argued. "Having failed to anticipate how	"这些结果应该让我们重新思考贸易带来的短期和中期效益，"他们提出。"由于未能预见贸易造成的错位可能如此严重，文献有责任为贸易所带来的好处

significant the dislocations from trade might be, it is incumbent on the literature to more convincingly estimate the gains from trade, such that the case for free trade is not based on the sway of theory alone, but on a foundation of evidence that illuminates who gains, who loses, by how much, and under what conditions.”	给出更有说服力的估计，让赞成自由贸易的人不只靠理论的根据，也有证据基础表明谁受益、谁吃亏，各是多少，在什么条件下。”
Global trade offers undeniable benefits. It helped pull hundreds of millions of Chinese out of poverty in a matter of a few decades, an unparalleled feat. It ensured Apple could benefit from China’s ample supply of cheap labor. Consumers around the world gained better-priced, better-made goods.	全球贸易带来了不可否认的好处。在它的帮助下，数亿中国人在短短几十年里摆脱了贫困，这是一个无与伦比的壮举。它保证了苹果公司可以受益于中国充分的廉价劳动力供给。让世界各地的消费者得到价格更优惠、更好的制造产品。
Still, though trade may be good for the country over all — after netting out winners and losers — the case for globalization based on the fact that it helps expand the economic pie by 3 percent becomes much weaker when it also changes the distribution of the slices by 50 percent, Mr. Autor argued. And that is especially true when the American political system has shown no interest in compensating those on the losing side.	虽然如此，但奥托尔提供的证据表明，尽管在考虑了谁赢谁输之后，贸易对一个国家在整体上有好处，但当考虑到它把蛋糕的分配改变了 50%之后，支持贸易帮助全球经济蛋糕增长了 3%的证据就比较弱了。而且当美国的政治体制没有兴趣去补偿在这种贸易中失利的一方时，情况就尤其是这样。
The impact of China’s great leap into the market economy — which drew hundreds of millions of impoverished peasants into the manufacturing sector, mostly making goods for export to the United States and other wealthy nations — is waning. China’s wages are rising fast. Its exports and economy are slowing.	中国大步跨入市场经济的影响正在减弱。中国的市场经济曾经吸引了上亿的贫困农民进入制造业，他们主要为美国和其他富裕国家制造出口产品。中国的工资水平正在快速升高。中国的出口和经济正在放缓。
Trade with other parts of the world has not been as disruptive. For all the criticism of Nafta, most economists assess its impact on American workers as modest. Trade flows with Mexico were smaller and more	中国与世界其他地方的贸易没有如此之大的破坏性。尽管有对《北美自由贸易协定》的种种批评，但大多数经济学家评估其对美国工人的影响并不太大。美国与墨西哥的贸易往来，相对其与中国的贸易往来要小得多，也更平衡。

balanced than those with China. American manufacturing employment remained fairly stable in the years after Nafta came into force in 1994, plummeting only after China entered the World Trade Organization in 2001 and gained consistent access to markets in the United States.	美国制造业就业人数，在《北美自由贸易协定》于1994年生效后的多年里一直保持相对稳定，只是在中国2001年加入世界贸易组织、获得稳定进入美国市场的许可后，才大幅度减少。
The Chinese export onslaught, however, left a scar on the American working class that has not healed. That disproportionate impact suggests Washington officialdom might do well to reassess its approach to future trade liberalization. Most important, it points to reconsidering how policy makers deal with trade's distributional consequences.	但是，中国出口带来的冲击给美国工人阶级造成的创伤尚未痊愈。这种不成比例的影响提醒华盛顿的官员们，也许应该改变其在未来贸易自由化方面的做法。最重要的是，它指明需重新考虑政策制定者应该如何处理贸易分配后果的问题。
It doesn't mean walling off the United States from the rest of the world, but it does mean learning from the experience of other advanced nations that had a much healthier response to China's rise.	这并不意味在美国与世界之间架起藩篱，但这确实意味着应该借鉴其他一些发达国家的经验。对于中国的崛起，这些国家做出了适宜得多的回应。
Germany, for example, not only received a surge of Chinese imports, but also experienced an onslaught of imports from Eastern European countries after the collapse of the Soviet bloc. But it managed to maintain a more balanced trade because German manufacturers increased their exports to all these countries too, offsetting the job losses from import competition.	德国就是一个例子，它不仅经历了中国进口的激增，也经受了苏联集团解体之后来自东欧国家进口的冲击。但它仍然保持着较为良好的贸易平衡，因为德国生产商也增加了面向所有这些国家的出口，抵消了进口竞争造成的就业损失。
Mr. Autor suggests that Americans' low savings rate was a big part of the story, coupled with foreigners' appetite for accumulating dollar assets, which helped keep American interest rates low and the dollar strong, in that way fueling a persistent trade deficit.	奥托尔认为，美国人的低储蓄率是一个重要因素，再加上外国人倾向于囤积美元资产，帮助保持了美国的低利率水平和美元的坚挺，进一步推动了贸易赤字的居高不下。
But other factors were at work. Robert Gordon of Northwestern University suggested to me that Germany's highly skilled workers were harder to replace with cheaper Chinese labor, limiting though not	然而，也有其他因素在发挥作用。西北大学(Northwestern University)的罗伯特·戈登(Robert Gordon)对我说，德国的高技能工人比较难以用廉价的中国劳动力来替代，因此虽然没有彻底避免外包，却也限制了外包的规模。而

totally eliminating outsourcing. Germany's stronger labor unions also put up more of a fight.	且德国的工会也更强势，更善于坚持斗争。
Washington played its part, too. In their new book "Concrete Economics" (Harvard Business Review Press), Stephen S. Cohen and J. Bradford DeLong of the University of California, Berkeley suggest that ultimately, it was the fault of American policy choices.	华盛顿亦在其中扮演了角色。加州大学伯克利分校的史蒂芬·S·科恩(Stephen S. Cohen)和J·布拉德福特·德隆(J. Bradford DeLong)在新书《混凝土经济学》(Concrete Economics, 哈佛商业评论出版社发行)中表示, 究其根源, 这要归咎于美国的政策选择。
The United States might have leaned against China's export-led strategy, they argue, perhaps by insisting more forcefully that Beijing let its currency rise as its trade surplus swelled. It might have tried to foster the cutting-edge industries of the future, as government had done so many times before, encouraging the shift from textiles to jumbo jets and from toys to semiconductors.	二人认为, 美国本来可以对中国的出口导向型策略施加反作用力, 方法或许是, 在中国贸易顺差膨胀之际, 更强烈地坚持北京让人民币升值。它本来也可以努力扶持未来的尖端行业, 就像政府之前多次做过的那样, 鼓励从纺织品转向大型喷气式客机, 从玩具转向半导体。
What Washington did, instead, was hitch the nation's future to housing and finance. But Wall Street, instead of spreading prosperity, delivered the worst recession the world had seen since the 1930s. Even at best, they write, the transformation of banking and finance has "produced nothing (or exceedingly little) of value."	但华盛顿的做法却是把国家的未来和住房和金融绑在一起。而华尔街不仅没有让繁荣惠及众人, 还引发了上世纪30年代以来全球最严重的经济衰退。在他们笔下, 即使从最好的方面来看, 银行和金融业的发展也“没有产生任何价值(或者产生的价值微乎其微)”。
So where should policy makers go from here?	那么, 决策者们应该何去何从呢?
There are no easy answers. Tearing up existing trade agreements and retreating behind high tariff barriers — as Mr. Trump, and perhaps Mr. Sanders, would have it — would be immensely unproductive. It would throw a wrench into the works of a wobbly world economy. And renegeing on international treaties would vastly complicate the international coordination needed to combat climate change.	答案不会很简单。撕毁现有的贸易协定、躲回高关税壁垒的后面——就像特朗普, 或许还有桑德斯主张的那样——极度缺乏建设性。世界经济本来就不稳定, 这种做法相当于落井下石。而且, 如果违背了国际条约, 应对气候变化所需的国际协调也会变得极为复杂。
But in any future trade liberalization — including the Obama's	不过, 在未来的任何贸易自由化举措中——包括奥巴马政府倡导的尚未获得

administration's pending Trans-Pacific Partnership deal, if it is to go forward at all — policy makers must be much more careful about managing the costs. Mr. Autor suggests any further deals to increase trade should be gradual, to give much more time for exposed companies and their workers to retool and shift into other jobs and sectors.	批准的《跨太平洋伙伴关系协定》(TPP), 如果还会继续推进的话——决策者必须更加重视管理成本。奥托尔认为, 任何进一步增加贸易的协议, 都应该采取循序渐进的做法, 为面临风险的企业及员工留出更多的时间来改组转型, 进入其他工作岗位和部门。
Perhaps most important, the new evidence from trade suggests American policy makers cannot continue to impose all the pain on the nation's blue-collar workers if they are not going to provide a stronger safety net.	也许最重要的是, 贸易领域的新证据表明, 美国决策者如果不打算提供更有力的福利保障, 就不能一再把所有痛苦都转嫁到美国蓝领工人身上。
That might have been justified if the distributional costs of trade were indeed small and short-lived. But now that we know they are big and persistent, it looks unconscionable.	倘若贸易分配成本确实很小很短暂, 可能那还说得过去, 但是我们现在已经知道, 这些成本既庞大又持久, 此事看起来就不甚合理了。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160316/c16porter	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160316/c16porter
Unpacking a Chinese Company's U.S. Hotel Buying Spree	喜达屋收购案再次考验美国对华投资监管
When the Japanese began buying trophy properties like Rockefeller Center in the late 1980s, there was an intense reaction.	上世纪 80 年代末期, 日本人开始收购像洛克斐勒中心(Rockefeller Center)这种顶级地产, 这在当时引发了激烈反应。
David Letterman began his show one evening with the announcer saying, "From New York, a subsidiary of Mitsubishi, it's 'Late Night with David Letterman.'" A New York Times Op-Ed was titled, "An Economic Pearl Harbor?"	有天晚上, 大卫·莱特曼(David Letterman) 的节目是由播音员这么开场的: "这是来自三菱企业分公司'纽约'的《大卫深夜脱口秀》。"《纽约时报》刊载的一篇观点与评论的文章标题则是: "经济领域的珍珠港事件?"
Even Donald J. Trump got in on the act: "Bidding on a building in New York is an act of futility, because the Japanese will pay more than it's worth just to screw us," he told Playboy in 1990. "They want to own Manhattan."	就连唐纳·J·特朗普 (Donald J. Trump)也加入其中。"竞标纽约的大楼只会徒劳无功, 因为那些日本人会付出不成比例的价码, 就为了让我们吃鳖," 他在 1990 年的时候这么告诉《花花公子》(Playboy)杂志。"他们想要入主曼哈顿。"

A quarter-century later, it is China's turn.	四分之一世纪过后，轮到中国上场了。
On Monday, in a head-turning series of deals, a Chinese insurance company that just over a year ago purchased the Waldorf Astoria, bought $6.5 billion of properties from the Blackstone Group and made a $12.8 billion offer to buy Starwood Hotels and Resorts Worldwide.	周一时，在一连串令人瞩目的交易中，一年多前刚买下华尔道夫-阿斯托里亚酒店(Waldorf Astoria)的一个中国保险公司，自黑石集团(Blackstone Group)手中购入了价值65亿美元(约合423亿人民币)的房地产，还开出128亿美元的价码来收购喜达屋酒店及度假村国际集团(Starwood Hotels and Resorts Worldwide)。
The collection of brands — Sheraton, Westin, W Hotels, St. Regis — is remarkable. Properties include the Essex House on Central Park South; the Hotel del Coronado near San Diego, where “Some Like it Hot” was filmed; the Ritz-Carlton, Laguna Niguel and a smattering of Four Seasons and Fairmont properties.	这间中国公司收集到的这些名牌地产很是了得，有喜来登酒店(Sheraton)、威士汀酒店(Westin)、W饭店(W Hotels)，还有圣瑞吉斯酒店(St. Regis)。地产则包括了中央公园南(Central Park South)上的埃赛克斯酒店(Essex House)；位于加州圣地牙哥附近的科罗纳多酒店(Hotel del Coronado)，也就是电影《热情如火》(Some Like it Hot)的拍摄地；加州尼古湖的丽思卡尔顿酒店(Ritz-Carlton)，还有零星几座四季酒店(Four Seasons)和费尔蒙特酒店(Fairmont)的房产。
When the insurer, Anbang, purchased the Waldorf in 2015, there was concern that the historic hotel — where the United States ambassador to the United Nations resides — had fallen into the hands of a Chinese company. President Obama, who used to routinely stay at the Waldorf as United States presidents had done since 1947, switched hotels the next time he stayed overnight in Manhattan. The White House was said to be worried that the Chinese could have planted surveillance. (Mr. Obama stayed at the Millennium One UN New York and on a subsequent trip stayed at the Palace Hotel, which is owned by a South Korean company.)	当这家保险商——安邦——在2015年买下华尔道夫酒店的时候，有人对这个历史悠久的美国驻联合国大使下榻酒店落到中国企业手里感到担忧。和1947年以来的历任总统一样，华尔道夫也是奥巴马总统的例行下榻之处。不过他在这间酒店易主后就改到曼哈顿其他酒店过夜了。据称白宫是担心中国人可能在华尔道夫装设了监视系统。(奥巴马住进了纽约千禧联合国酒店[Millennium One UN New York]。后来的一次纽约行又改住韩国公司经营的皇宫大酒店[Palace Hotel]。)
Should there be concern over Anbang's aggressive real estate push? And will the deals become part of the debate raging during the	美国人该为安邦大举置业一事感到忧心吗？这些房产交易又是否会在总统竞选时，成为外国人抢走美国工作、买光美国资产的激烈辩题之一呢？

presidential campaign about foreigners taking American jobs and buying up assets here?
So far, none of the candidates have made comments about the deal. But it wouldn't be hard to see it become a talking point. In one of Mr. Trump's position papers, he said: "America fully opened its markets to China, but China has not reciprocated," describing its "Great Wall of Protectionism."	到目前为止，尚未有任何一位总统候选人对这场交易做出评论。但是我们也不难预见它会成为话题。特朗普在一份意见书里表示：“美国把自家市场对中国完全开放了，但中国并没有投桃报李。”又称这是中国的“保护主义长城”。
Chinese companies have been on a foreign acquisition spree in recent years, looking abroad for deals in an effort to diversify. In January, the Wanda Group from China agreed to buy Legendary Entertainment, the film company behind Jurassic World, for $3.5 billion. The largest Chinese acquisition to date of an American company was Smithfield Foods' $5 billion sale to China's Shuanghui International Holdings in 2013. Last month, China National Chemical Corporation bought Syngenta, a Swiss agricultural and chemical giant, for $43 billion, the largest foreign purchase ever by a Chinese firm.	近年来，中国企业狂热地购置海外资产，为了经营多样化而寻求并购机会。一月时，中国的万达集团同意用 35 亿美元收购制作了《侏罗纪世界》(Jurassic World)的美国电影公司传奇影业(Legendary Entertainment)。迄今规模最大的中国并购美国公司资产案则是在 2013 年，史密斯菲尔德食品公司(Smithfield Foods)以 50 亿美元卖给了双汇国际股份有限公司。而在上个月，中国化工集团公司花了 430 亿美元收购瑞士农业与化工业巨擘先正达(Syngenta)，成为中国公司有史以来最庞大的海外收购案。
The deals by Anbang, which has close ties to current and former Chinese government officials, will most likely be reviewed by Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, also known as Cfius, which reviews all deals for American companies that involve national security.	安邦集团与许多中国在任和前任政府官员有密切联系，它的收购案很可能受到美国外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, 简称 Cfius)的审查。该委员会会审查所有涉及国家安全的对美资公司收购案。
Real estate holdings may not seem like a likely target of the interagency body, but it did review and approve the Waldorf sale. At the time of the Waldorf deal, Daniel B. Pickard, a lawyer at Wiley Rein, wrote in a note to clients that the transaction "is a reminder that seemingly innocuous	房地产控股看起来不太像这家跨部门机构的目标，但它的确曾审核并批准了华尔道夫酒店的出售。卫理律师事务所(Wiley Rein)律师丹尼尔·皮卡德(Daniel B. Pickard)在给客户的报告中称该交易是一个提醒，“表明在美国，即使看似无害的地产交易，也可能会牵涉到国家安全”。

property transactions in the United States can have national security implications.”
And how “national security” is defined is a moving target. Over the last year, at least 10 deals, mostly related to technology, were withdrawn over concerns that Cfius would block them.	“国家安全”的定义是捉摸不定的。去年，由于担心被 Cfius 阻拦，至少十项收购案被撤回，其中大多数涉及科技领域。
Then there is the question of whether these deals will turn out to be a success or follow the losing path of Japan. Nearly all the trophy buildings that Japanese companies acquired at stratospheric premiums in the late 1980s were sold at a steep loss within the decade.	随之而来的问题是，这些收购案最终是会获得成功，还是会步日本的后尘。上个世纪 80 年代末日本公司以天价买下的那些知名楼盘，接下来十年基本上被大幅降价售出。
Anbang’s deal-making raises concerns. It is paying $6.5 billion to Blackstone for its hotel portfolio, yet Blackstone paid only $6 billion for them three months ago. Blackstone, arguably the world’s most skilled real estate investor, was all too happy to quickly flip it to them. And Anbang’s offer for Starwood, in which it was joined by two financial partners, looks like an opening gambit to thwart Starwood’s merger agreement with Marriott, so it is likely the final price will go even higher.	安邦集团的收购引发许多担忧。安邦向黑石集团支付 65 亿美元收购酒店业务，然而黑石集团在三个月前只为此支付了 60 亿美元。堪称世界上最老练的地产投资商的黑石集团，十分乐意把它们迅速转手赚钱。而安邦集团对喜达屋的出价（该项目还有另两个投资方参与），看来只是阻击喜达屋与万豪并购的序幕，因此最终的收购价可能会更高。
Then there is the question of how Anbang, which didn’t even exist 15 years ago, is paying for all of these deals. Well, it has entered the risky business of becoming a “shadow bank” in China by offering investment products that promise large interest payments. Already, some analysts are expressing nervousness that Anbang could be unable to pay back its investors because it has plowed so much money into real estate. But as China’s economy cools, companies like Anbang are desperately trying to find places to invest cash outside of the country.	随之而来的问题是，仅仅成立 15 年的安邦集团，如何担负如此巨额的收购资金。通过提供承诺会有巨大收益的投资产品，安邦集团已经涉足中国颇具风险的“影子银行”业务。已有分析师担心安邦集团可能无法偿付投资者，因为大量的资金已被投入房地产业。但随着中国经济降温，像安邦集团一样的中国企业正极力寻求机会，将现金投资海外。
Wall Street bankers and lawyers expect Chinese companies to continue	华尔街的银行家和律师希望中国公司继续收购美国的地产。安邦的收购仅仅

to acquire assets in the United States. Anbang's deals are only the beginning. If the pace picks up, watch for this to become an issue as the presidential campaign heads into the general election.	是一个开始。如果收购节奏加快，估计在进入大选阶段的总统竞选中将成为一个话题。
In 1989, Sony's chief, Akio Morita, was asked about all the consternation over his acquisition of assets in Hollywood. His reply?	1989年，索尼(Sony)在好莱坞的资产收购引发了人们的惊恐，有人就此问索尼总裁盛田昭夫(Akio Morita)，他的回答是：
"If you don't want Japan to buy it, don't sell it."	"如果你不想要日本买，那就不要卖。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160316/c16sorkin	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160316/c16sorkin
Bounty Hunter Tracks Chinese Companies That Dupe Investors	赏金猎人帮美国投资者向中国讨债
Robert W. Seiden is a Wall Street bounty hunter. He tracks down executives of Chinese companies that listed on stock exchanges in the United States and then blew up.	罗伯特·W·塞登(Robert W. Seiden)是华尔街的一名赏金猎人。他追踪的是那些在美国上市而后爆仓的中国公司的高管。
It is a painstaking business that few are willing to do.	这是一项非常艰苦的工作，很少有人愿意做。
One of his current targets is the chairman at Sino Clean Energy, who has battled with investors in a Nevada state court since 2014. On Feb. 16, the trial judge found the executive, Ren Baowen, in criminal contempt and ordered his arrest for failing to comply with earlier court orders.	塞登的目标之一就是中国清洁能源有限公司(Sino Clean Energy)董事长任宝文，任宝文从2014年开始在内华达州法院与投资者打官司。2月16日，庭审法官认为任宝文刑事藐视法庭，并下令将他逮捕，理由是他未能遵守法庭之前的命令。
In an attempt to increase the pressure on Mr. Ren, Mr. Seiden, the court-appointed receiver for Sino Clean, prepared a notice about the arrest warrant to be published through PR Newswire, which distributes corporate news releases.	法庭指定塞登担任中国清洁能源公司的资产管理人，为了向任宝文加压，他准备了一份逮捕令公告，计划通过公司新闻发布平台美国企业新闻通讯公司（PR Newswire，简称美通社）发布公告。
The release was published on Feb. 29 — but not in China, where Mr. Ren lives. PRNewswire, in an email to Mr. Seiden, said it had refused to publish the notice there citing "heightened political sensitivity concerning Chinese investment interests."	公告于2月29日发布，但没有在任宝文生活的国家中国发布。美通社给塞登发送邮件称，该公司拒绝在中国发布公告，理由是“关乎中国投资利益的高度政治敏感性”。

It was not the first time Mr. Seiden's tactics have been thwarted. It is the reason many remain skeptical of his efforts. Nevertheless, he has embraced the challenge and become the go-to person for American investors who are suing Chinese companies saying that they were swindled.	这不是塞登的策略首次受挫。因此，很多人对他的努力持怀疑态度。但他还是接受了这项挑战，如今在声称遭中国公司投机诈骗并提起诉讼的美国投资者眼里，他是不二之选。
"Unless the Chinese government is coming to arrest me, I'm going to do whatever is legally permissible by court order," Mr. Seiden said in a recent interview.	"除非中国政府来抓我，否则我会竭尽所能，做法庭命令允许的一切事情，"塞登最近接受采访时说。
Mr. Seiden, 52, a former Manhattan prosecutor, has been appointed by judges as the receiver to oversee the management of nine Chinese companies — many incorporated in Nevada — that once traded shares in the United States.	52岁的塞登曾是曼哈顿的一名检察官。法官指定他担任资产管理人，监管九家曾在美国上市的中国公司——很多是在内华达州建立的公司。
But his actual dollar recoveries for investors have been small — just $8 million out of the nearly $90 million he has sought to recoup.	但他实际上为投资者追回的资金非常少——他曾试图收回将近9000万美元，但实际上只拿到800万美元。
A Sherlock Holmes enthusiast (a bust of the fictional detective sits on his desk in Manhattan), Mr. Seiden has built a reputation for being tenacious. And for good reason: Getting Chinese executives to pay up involves extensive meetings, negotiations and cooperation from Chinese authorities and bankers.	作为夏洛克·福尔摩斯(Sherlock Holmes)迷（他在曼哈顿的桌子上摆着这位虚构侦探的半身像），塞登有着死缠烂打的名声。这很有必要：让中国高管付钱需要进行大量的会议、谈判，以及中国当局及银行从业人士的合作。
He is not just focused on China. He employs former agents from intelligence agencies around the world, including the Mossad in Israel and the K.G.B. in Russia, to help him conduct cloak-and-dagger investigations in places like Russia, Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan.	他不仅仅关注中国。他雇佣世界各地情报机构的前特工，比如以色列的摩萨德(Mossad)和俄罗斯的克格勃(KGB)，帮助他在俄罗斯、乌兹别克斯坦和哈萨克斯坦开展秘密调查。
He opened his company, Confidential Global Investigation, in 2008. Early on, he did work for hedge funds and their investors. But one of his	2008年，塞登创建了自己的公司秘密全球调查(Confidential Global Investigation)。早期，他为对冲基金及其投资者工作。但他在中国接到的首

first jobs in China was for Richemont, the company that owns luxury brands like Cartier, Piaget and Jaeger-LeCoultre. Mr. Seiden tracked down a ring of counterfeiters operating from Latvia and Scotland and manufacturing fake watches in China.	批工作之一就是历峰集团的项目，该公司旗下拥有卡地亚(Cartier)、伯爵(Piaget)和积家(Jaeger-LeCoultre)等奢侈品牌。塞登追踪了一些在拉脱维亚和苏格兰运作、在中国生产的制假者。
In 2013, Mr. Seiden received a call from a lawyer representing a large investor in ZST Digital Networks, a Chinese equipment maker. A Delaware judge appointed Mr. Seiden as the company's receiver to enforce the terms of a $32 million judgment on behalf of the investor. Mr. Seiden is still trying to get that money back, but the assignment started him on a new career path.	2013年，塞登接到中国设备制造商神阳科技公司一名大额投资者的代理律师的电话。特拉华州的法官指定塞登担任该公司的资产管理人，代表投资者执行3200万美元的判决。他仍在努力收回这笔钱，但这项任务让他开辟了新的职业道路。
More work started to flow from investor lawsuits over reverse mergers. In those deals, Chinese companies looking to trade in the United States bypassed the traditional method of an initial public offering and instead merged with largely defunct companies that already had shares listed on an exchange in the United States.	投资者有关反向收购的诉讼，带来了越来越多的工作。在这些交易中，希望在美国上市的中国公司绕开传统的首次公开募股(IPO)的方式，而是并购一家已经在美国上市，但基本上已经停业的公司。
Starting in the mid-2000s, these companies drew a wave of interest from investors who thought they could get rich from China's surging economic growth. But years later, they had little but burned fingers to show for their investments.	从2000年代中期开始，这些公司吸引了一波又一波的投资者，他们本以为能够在中国快速增长的经济中获利。但几年后，他们一无所获，损失惨重。
Many of the Chinese companies were soon engulfed in accounting irregularities or allegations of outright fraud. Others simply stopped submitting quarterly financial statements in the United States, leaving investors in the dark about what was happening with their operations in China.	很多这样的中国公司很快就曝出会计违规的丑闻，或是被控进行明目张胆的诈骗。其他公司则停止在美国提交季度财务报表，致使投资者对公司在中国的运营情况毫不知情。
Critics say regulators have been slow to act.	批评人士表示，监管机构迟迟没有采取行动。

"The U.S. regulators have been unwilling to go to the mat on this," said Paul Gillis, an accounting professor at Guanghua School of Management, Peking University in Beijing.	"美国监管机构不愿参加这场斗争，"北京大学光华管理学院会计学教授鲍大雷(Paul Gillis)说。
At the same time, there has been little political will to do anything about in China. "The responsibility for this stuff is spread out too widely, there are so many different Chinese bureaucracies involved," Professor Gillis said.	与此同时，中国几乎没有对此采取措施的政治意愿。"这种事的责任摊得太开了，涉及中国很多不同机构，"鲍大雷说。
But recently, Mr. Seiden has enlisted some officials in China. With the help of China's Ministry of Finance and Commerce and the State Administration of Foreign Exchange, Mr. Seiden collected $4 million from a settlement with Shengtai Pharmaceutical in 2015.	但最近，塞登争取到了中国部分政府机构的帮助。2015年，在中国财政部、商务部和国家外汇管理局的帮助下，塞登与盛泰药业达成和解，收回了400万美元。
Mr. Seiden said that he expected to collect an additional $28 million within months as a result of current negotiations, including talks with Mr. Ren's legal team.	塞登表示，目前正在与包括任宝文的法律团队在内的相关各方谈判，预计几个月内会再收回2800万美元。
In the case of Sino Clean Energy, a clean coal manufacturing company, Mr. Seiden contends in court filings that Mr. Ren "stole millions of dollars" from investors in the United States by "going dark."	对于精煤生产企业中国清洁能源公司的案件，塞登在法庭文件中称，任宝文"默不作声"，从美国投资者那里"窃取了数以百万计的美元"。
The company, based in Xi'an, China, has not filed updated financial statements with the Securities and Exchange Commission since early 2012, according to the investor lawsuit.	投资者提起的诉讼显示，从2012年初开始，总部位于西安的这家公司，就不再向美国证券交易委员会(Securities and Exchange Commission)提交最新的财务报表。
Sino Clean Energy listed its shares on the Nasdaq stock market after a reverse merger in 2006 with a largely defunct company called Endo Networks. It then raised more than $26 million in the United States.	2006年，在反向收购一家基本上已经停业的名叫恩多网络(Endo Networks)的公司后，中国清洁能源在纳斯达克上市。之后，该公司在美国筹集到了2600多万美元。
Matthew C. Zirzow, the Las Vegas bankruptcy lawyer for Sino Clean, did not return a telephone call seeking comment. Another lawyer for Mr.	为中国清洁能源辩护的拉斯维加斯破产律师马修·C·齐尔措(Matthew C. Zirzow)并未回复请其置评的电话。记者也无法联系到任宝文的另一名代理

Ren could not be reached for comment.	律师，请其发表评论。
Investors in companies that Mr. Seiden is pursuing to recover money acknowledge that the efforts are long shots.	塞登为收回资金而追查的那些公司的投资者承认，追款成功的机会渺茫。
John J. Kassay Jr. of Parkville, N.Y., said he lost about $20,000 on his investment in Sino Clean and joined the lawsuit in Nevada against Mr. Ren and the company to "take them to task."	纽约州帕克斯维尔的小约翰·J·卡萨伊(John J. Kassay Jr.)说，他在中国清洁能源的投资损失了大约2万美元。他加入了内华达州那桩起诉任宝文及其公司的诉讼，为的是“让他们承担责任”。
Whatever money he gets back from the litigation will be worth it, he said.	他说，不管通过诉讼能拿回多少钱都是值得的。
Michael Sammons, a San Antonio investor who lost money in two Chinese companies, Weikang Bio-Technology Group and RINO International, said he could not find anyone other than Mr. Seiden to take on these cases.	圣安东尼奥的投资者迈克尔·萨蒙斯(Michael Sammons)投资了维康生物科技集团(Weikang Bio-Technology Group)和绿诺国际(RINO International)这两家中国企业，均以亏本告终。他说，除了塞登，他找不到其他任何人接手这件事。
"He is pretty much the only game in town," said Mr. Sammons, who said he first learned of Mr. Seiden's name from an article three years ago in The Wall Street Journal.	"他几乎是唯一的人选，"萨蒙斯说。他说自己是三年前通过《华尔街日报》(The Wall Street Journal)的一篇报道第一次听说塞登的名字的。
Mr. Seiden's firm has grown from a handful of employees, including Steven, his brother, to 20 employees. Chinese reverse merger cases account for about 80 percent of the firm's work.	起初，塞登的公司只有包括他兄弟史蒂文(Steven)在内的几名员工。现在，公司已经发展到了20名员工。在该公司的业务中，中国的反向收购案约占80%。
"We are creating a pathway to get money back," he said.	"我们正在闯出一条把钱追索回来的路，"他说。
A recent crackdown on financial firms because of turmoil in the Chinese stock market has heightened concerns about how China treats foreign business interests when they conflict with its own.	最近，因为中国股市动荡，金融企业受到打压。这加剧了投资者的一种担忧：在本土企业与外国企业发生利益冲突时，中国会如何对待外国商业利益？
A spokeswoman for PRNewswire said it did not publish the release in China because of new Chinese government restrictions on what foreign companies may publish online.	美通社的发言人表示，该机构没有发布前述声明，不是因为中国政府新出台的限制条款。条款对外国公司可以在网上发布怎样的内容做出了限制。

Yet while China can appear to be uncooperative with demands from outside investors, that attitude is changing as some Chinese leaders want to show that it can be a reliable business partner, Mr. Seiden argued.	塞登称，尽管中国对境外投资者的诉求似乎并不配合，但由于中国一些领导人希望向外界表明中国能够成为一个靠得住的商业伙伴，这种态度正在发生转变。
Still, when he is in China — where he spends up to one month a year — he uses disposable phones and changes his hotel room after he checks in to make it more difficult for people to track his whereabouts, he said.	但塞登表示，在中国时，他还是会使用一次性手机，并且会在酒店登记入住后更换房间，以增加他人掌握其行踪的难度。一年中，他待在中国的时间会长达一个月。
The investors he represents say they sense that change could be underway. At the very least, they figure his help cannot hurt.	他代理的那些投资者表示，他们感觉可能起到了作用。至少，他们认为他的帮助没有坏处。
"It's a big battle, and it's a big unknown because it has not been done before," said Alain Peracca, a former Microsoft executive and an investor in Sino Clean Energy. "It is the only hope that shareholders have."	"这是一场大战，是一个大大的未知数，因为以前从来没人这么做过，"投资了中国清洁能源的微软(Microsoft)前高管阿兰·佩拉卡(Alain Peracca)说。"这是股东唯一的希望。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160317/c17db-bounty	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160317/c17db-bounty
What Donald Trump Gets Pretty Much Right, and Completely Wrong, About China	是真是假？盘点特朗普的涉中国言论
If there is one thing Donald Trump seems sure about, it is that the United States is getting a raw deal from China.	如果有一件事在唐纳德·特朗普(Donald Trump)看来似乎确定无疑的话，那就是美国从中国得到了不公平的待遇。
To people who spend time studying the United States' economic relationship with China, Mr. Trump's accounting of its dysfunctions contains both legitimate, accurate complaints and elements that completely misstate how things work between the world's largest and second-largest economies.	对那些花时间来研究美国与中国的经济关系的人来说，特朗普对关系失调的描述，既包括合理又确切的抱怨，也有对世界上最大和第二大经济体之间的运作方式完全错误的说法。
"They're killing us," Mr. Trump has said in many debates, rallies and television appearances. He has threatened to put a 45 percent tax on	"他们正在置我们于死地，"特朗普在辩论会、集会以及在电视上露面时多次这样说。他曾扬言要对中国进口征收45%的关税，"如果他们不好好做的话。"

Chinese imports “if they don’t behave.”
If you take Mr. Trump’s comments at face value, as president he would try to renegotiate a complex set of ties that has pulled hundreds of millions of Chinese out of dire poverty, made a wide range of goods available to American consumers at more affordable prices and contributed to the decline of American manufacturing.	如果你把特朗普的言论当真的话，要是当上总统，他将试图对一整套复杂的关系进行重新谈判。这些关系让数亿中国人摆脱了赤贫，让美国消费者以更实惠的价格得到了一系列的商品，也造成了美国制造业的衰落。
Here is a reality check on Mr. Trump’s arguments. (It’s also a way to understand the economic relationship between the countries.)	下面是对特朗普的观点在现实上的核查。（也是了解这两国之间的经济关系的一个办法。）
“We have very unfair trade with China. We’re going to have a trade deficit of $505 billion this year with China.” – Mr. Trump	“我们与中国的贸易非常不公平。我们与中国的贸易逆差今年将达到 5050 亿美元。”——特朗普
America’s trade deficit with China was $338 billion last year, and there’s no reason to think it would swing by as much as Mr. Trump suggests in 2016 – but what’s $167 billion among codependent trading partners? (Mr. Trump seems to be conflating the China number with the $505 billion total American trade deficit in 2014, which was first reported to be that much.)	美国对中国的贸易逆差去年是 3380 亿美元，没有理由认为 2016 年的逆差会发生像特朗普所说的那样大的变化，但是在相互依存的贸易伙伴之间，1670 亿美元是什么呢？（特朗普似乎把美国与中国的贸易逆差，与美国 2014 年的总贸易逆差混为一谈了，5050 亿美元是最初报道的总逆差。）
The central point, that the United States imports a lot more from China than it exports, is correct. To put it a bit differently, from 1999 to 2015 annual imports from China rose by $416 billion. In the same span, American exports to China rose by $145 billion.	美国从中国的进口大大高于出口这个核心点是正确的。用比较不同的视角来看，2015 年美国从中国的进口比 1999 年的增长了 4160 亿美元。在同一时期，美国对中国的出口增长 1450 亿美元。
That said, many economists would argue that a trade balance shouldn’t be viewed as a simple scorecard in which the country with the trade deficit is the loser and the one with the surplus the winner.	尽管如此，许多经济学家认为，贸易平衡不应该是一个简单的记分卡，贸易有逆差的国家是输家，而贸易有顺差的国家是赢家。
So the question isn’t whether there is a persistent, large trade deficit between the United States and China, but why. And that leads to	所以，问题不在于美国与中国之间是否存在着持久的巨大贸易逆差，而在于为什么是这样。这就引出了特朗普论点的另一个部分，两个国家谁更强。

another arm of Mr. Trump's argument, and one of the stronger ones.
"I have many friends, great manufacturers, they want to go into China. They can't. China won't let them." — Mr. Trump	"我有很多朋友，他们是出色的制造商，他们想进入中国市场。他们进不去。中国不让他们进。"—特朗普
It's not that American multinational companies — heavy industry, technology or finance — can't do business in China. Rather, their executives complain of Chinese government restrictions that they see as arbitrary, unpredictable and highly favorable to domestic companies — so much so that in practice they are either shut out or can't make money in China.	这并不是说美国的重工业、技术或金融行业的跨国公司无法在中国做生意。而是这些公司的高管们抱怨中国政府的各种限制，他们认为这些限制很任意且变化莫测，而且对国内企业高度有利，以至于实际情况是，企业要么无法进入，要么进入了也无法在中国赚钱。
Doing business in China typically requires a partnership with a Chinese company, and that often means sharing crucial intellectual property that can enable the partner to become a competitor down the road. The rules of engagement can change capriciously, especially for American and European companies, rendering major investments worthless.	在中国开展业务通常需要与中国企业建立合作关系，这往往意味着要与中方共享关键的知识产权，这会让合作伙伴成为日后的竞争对手。与中国打交道的规则可以被任意改变，特别是对美国和欧洲的公司，让大笔投资变得分文不值。
American business interests have a long list of complaints: that the Chinese government uses its enforcement of antimonopoly rules to favor its domestic businesses; that the government subsidizes exports through tax rebates and other practices; that automakers can set up factories within China only as part of joint ventures and face stiff tariffs in trying to sell cars made in the United States.	美国的商业利益有一个长长的抱怨清单：中国政府用反垄断执法来帮助国内商家；政府用退税及其他做法补贴出口；汽车生产商只能作为合资企业的一部分在中国国内建工厂，并在试图出售美国制造的汽车上面临高额的关税。
The United States government has pushed China on these "market access" issues for years. But the situation seems to be growing worse, at least in the opinion of American executives. The American Chamber of Commerce in China regularly surveys its members about business	美国政府多年来一直在推动中国解决这些“市场准入”问题。但情况似乎越来越糟糕，至少在美国高管的眼里。中国美国商会(American Chamber of Commerce in China)定期向其成员调查中国的商务环境状况，商会表示，今年，57%的受访高管把“监管解释不一致、法律不清楚”作为首要问题，高

conditions, and this year 57 percent of executives surveyed named “inconsistent regulatory interpretation and unclear laws” as a top problem, up from 37 percent in 2012.	于 2012 年的 37%。
This may reflect a faltering Chinese economy that is leading the government there to be more concerned than usual about protecting domestic companies.	这可能反映的是，中国经济状况不佳导致政府比以往更加关注保护国内企业。
“They are the single greatest currency manipulator that’s ever been on this planet.” – Mr. Trump	“他们是这个星球上有史以来最大的一个货币操纵国。”——特朗普
Mr. Trump’s complaint about China’s devaluation of its currency has a long, bipartisan tradition. It is also out of date.	对于中国贬值其货币，特朗普的抱怨代表了有着悠久传统的两党均秉持的立场。但这也是一个过时的看法。
It is true that China intervenes in currency markets to influence the price of its renminbi against the dollar. And it is true that a decade ago, both the American government and independent economists tended to think that the interventions served to depress the currency, in the Chinese government’s deliberate effort to make its exports more price competitive.	的确，中国对外汇市场的干预影响了人民币对美元的价格。十年之前，无论是美国政府还是独立的经济学家，也都确实倾向于认为，中国的干预措施压低了本币价值，中国政府刻意采取这类做法，目的是提升出口产品的价格竞争力。
But a lot has changed in the last decade. The renminbi was allowed to rise sharply from roughly 2006 to 2015, and is up 23 percent from a decade ago.	不过在过去十年中，情况已经有了很大的不同。大约从 2006 年到 2015 年，在政府的许可下，人民币出现了大幅升值，现在比十年前升值了 23%。
And since last summer, China has let the currency drop some, but that appears to be an example not of manipulation, but of letting the price of the currency fall closer to the rate that reflects China’s fundamentals given the country’s slowing economy. The International Monetary Fund has argued that the renminbi, also known as the yuan, is no longer undervalued.	自去年夏天以来，中国让人民币进行了一些贬值，但这似乎不属于操纵，而是因为该国经济正在放缓，要让币值跌到更能反映中国基本面的水平。国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)指出，人民币的估值已经不再过低。

"At least in 2006, 2007 or 2008, the yuan was undervalued — now it's probably not," said Derek Scissors, a resident scholar at the American Enterprise Institute and chief economist of China Beige Book, an information service.	"至少是在 2006、2007 或 2008 年，人民币被低估了——但现在很可能并没有，"美国企业研究所(American Enterprise Institute)的常驻学者、资讯服务“中国褐皮书”(China Beige Book)的首席经济学家史剑道(Derek Scissors)说。
Indeed, the Chinese government has been trying to restrict capital from flowing out of the country to stop the renminbi from falling any further. It would seem that the Chinese government and Mr. Trump are, for the moment at least, on the same side.	事实上，中国政府正在试图遏制资本流出国门，避免人民币进一步贬值。这似乎是中国政府和特朗普的一个共通之处，至少目前如此。
"What will happen if they don't behave, we will put on a tax of some amount, and it could be a large amount, and we will start building those factories and those plants. Instead of in China, we'll build them here." — Mr. Trump	"如果他们举止不端，那我们可以加些税，税率可以非常高，这样我们就会开始修建工厂。不是在中国建，就在美国建。"—特朗普
Mr. Trump's broader argument is that a generation of unfair economic relations with China (and also Mexico, Japan and others) is a primary cause of the troubles of American workers.	特朗普的更宽泛的说法是，美国这三十年来与中国（以及墨西哥、日本等国）之间不公平的经贸关系，是美国劳动者陷入困境的主要原因。
Mainstream economists are more sympathetic to this view now than they were even a few years ago. Traditional trade theory holds that the losers from global trade — factory workers who lose their jobs when that factory moves overseas — are more than compensated by other opportunities created by a more efficient economy.	即便是与几年前相比，主流经济学家现在也更加青睐这一观点。传统贸易理论认为，全球贸易的受害者——工厂向海外转移时失业的员工——获得了足够的弥补，因为更有效的经济创造了其他机会。
New scholarship suggests that the pain from globalization in certain geographic locations may be longer-lasting. One study found that Chinese imports from 1999 to 2011 cost up to 2.4 million American jobs.	新的学术观念认为，在某些地理区域，全球化造成的伤痛可能会更加持久。一项研究的结论是，在 1999 年至 2011 年间，因中国进口而失去的美国就业岗位最多可达 240 万。
That said, it's easy to assign too much of the blame for the collapse of manufacturing employment to China or trade more broadly. Hundreds	尽管如此，人们也容易把制造业的就业低迷过多地归咎于中国或更宽泛的贸易往来。在世界各地，有数以亿计的劳动者——其中很多在二三十年前还

of millions of workers across the globe — many of whom were in dire poverty a generation ago — have become integrated into the world economy. That’s a lot of competition, all in a short span, for American factory workers.	处在赤贫状态——融入了全球经济。这对美国工厂工人是一个巨大的竞争，而且是在一段不长的时间里出现的。
At the same time, factory technology has advanced so that a company can make more stuff with fewer workers. The number of manufacturing workers in the United States has been declining as a share of all jobs nearly continuously since 1943, and the total number of manufacturing jobs peaked in 1979; China’s trade with the United States didn’t really take off until the 1990s.	与此同时，技术进步也让企业可以依靠更少员工生产出更多的产品。自从1943年以来，美国制造业从业人员在全部就业岗位中的占比就一直在下滑。制造业就业总人数在1979年达到了峰值；而中美贸易直到90年代才真正开始激增。
In other words, trade has been an important economic force over the last few decades, and the deepening of the United States’ ties with China is one of the most important developments in global economics of the last generation. But to look at China as the sole force affecting the ups and downs of American workers misses the mark.	换句话说，在过去几十年中，贸易确实是一股重要的经济力量，而美中关系的深化是过去二三十年来全球经济中最重大的进展之一。不过，把中国视为美国工人命运起伏的唯一影响因素，这样的看法并不中肯。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160318/c18up-chinatrade	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160318/c18up-chinatrade
Marriott Raises Bid for Starwood	万豪提高报价，与安邦竞购喜达屋
Marriott International sweetened its bid for Starwood Hotels and Resorts Worldwide with more cash, greater synergies and a higher breakup fee. That still may not be enough to deter the Anbang Insurance Group of China and its co-investors from making a counteroffer — yet again.	万豪国际(Marriott International)提高对喜达屋酒店及度假村国际集团(Starwood Hotels& Resorts Worldwide)的报价，增加了现金支付额、提出了更深入的协同计划并调高了违约金。但这可能还是不足以阻止中国安邦保险集团及其共同投资人再次提价。
Anbang, with the New York private equity firm J. C. Flowers and the China-based Primavera Capital, swooped in with a bid for Starwood last week, as the hotel operator was finishing the deal it signed with	就在喜达屋与万豪去年11月签署的协议即将完成之际，安邦与纽约私募股权公司 J.C.Flowers，以及总部位于中国的春华资本集团(Primavera Capital Group)组成的财团上周提出竞购喜达屋。这促使了万豪国际采取行动，在周

Marriott in November. That set Marriott in motion, with a new offer disclosed on Monday.	一公布了新要约。
“The proposal we signed last night is not as good for us as the deal we signed and announced in November,” said Arne Sorenson, president and chief executive of Marriott, in an interview with CNBC on Monday. “The deal we got in November, in retrospect, maybe was just too good a deal.”	“昨晚签订的方案对我们来说不如 11 月签署并宣布的协议理想，”万豪国际总裁兼首席执行官阿尔内·索伦森(Arne Sorenson)周一接受 CNBC 采访时说。“回想起来，我们 11 月拿到的交易可能太优惠了。”
Starwood deemed Marriott’s new proposal as superior to the one brought last week by a consortium led by Anbang. Shareholders would receive $21 a share in cash and 0.80 share of Marriott for each share of Starwood, valuing Starwood at $79.53 a share, or $13.6 billion, as of the market close on Friday.	喜达屋认为万豪国际的新方案胜过安邦领衔的财团上周提出的收购要约。股东们将获得每股 21 美元现金，外加每股喜达屋股票换 0.80 股万豪股份。周五收盘时，这个报价相当于喜达屋的估值为每股 79.53 美元，总额达到 136 亿美元。
In the agreement that Marriott reached with Starwood in November, Starwood shareholders were to receive 0.92 share of Marriott stock as well as $2 in cash a share. Based on Friday’s close, that initial offer would have been worth $11.7 billion, or 16 percent lower.	在万豪国际去年 11 月与喜达屋达成的协议中，喜达屋股东将会获得每股 2 美元现金加 0.92 股万豪国际股票。根据周五收盘时的价格计算，这一初始方案的价值为 117 亿美元，比新方案低 16%。
Last week’s offer by the Chinese consortium of $78 a share, would be worth about $13.2 billion.	中国牵头的财团上周提出了每股 78 美元的报价，总额达到 132 亿美元。
Marriott’s proposed deal may not be on the table for long. The Chinese insurer and its co-investors may come back with another offer, analysts say, as they seek to diversify outside of China by buying assets in the United States. Morningstar said Anbang and its private equity partners would have to offer around $86 a share to be competitive with Marriott’s latest proposal.	万豪国际的新报价可能不会被讨论太久。分析人士表示，安邦集团及其共同投资人可能会提出另一项方案。它们希望通过在美国购买资产实现在中国以外的地方多元化发展的目标。晨星研究公司(Morningstar)表示，安邦及其私募股权投资合作伙伴需要提出大约每股 86 美元的报价才能与万豪国际的最新方案竞争。
The structure of the new bid does not do much to deter a rival suitor,	分析人士称，新方案并没有设置多少阻止竞争对手的策略。喜达屋同意提高

analysts said. Starwood agreed to increase the value of the breakup fee payable to Marriott to only $450 million from the $400 million from the original agreement. Starwood also agreed to reimburse Marriott for its financing-related costs, up to $18 million.	支付给万豪国际的违约金，但从初始协议的 4 亿美元增至 4.5 亿美元。喜达屋还同意补偿万豪国际与融资有关的费用，最多可达 1800 万美元。
"The breakup fee leaves the door open," said Dan Wasiolek, an analyst at Morningstar, in a phone interview. "Starwood, that's what they have to do on behalf of their shareholders, is leave the door open the best they can until the process is complete."	"违约金留有空间，"晨星分析师达恩·瓦斯勒克(Dan Wasiolek)接受电话采访时说。"喜达屋尽可能地保留可能性，直到交易完成，这是公司代表股东必须要做的事情。"
On CNBC, Mr. Sorenson said that he did not tell Starwood that Monday's offer was the final one. But Marriott does not have much room to stretch.	索伦森接受 CNBC 采访时表示，他没有告诉喜达屋周一的报价是最终报价。但万豪国际并没有太多加价的空间。
It is unable to offer much more cash because it wants to keep its investment-grade rating, said Mr. Wasiolek of Morningstar. It can increase its bid a little bit, but it is going to have to come from equity, he said. This is close to the final offer, he said.	晨星分析师瓦斯勒克表示，该公司无法提供更多现金，因为它希望保持投资级评级。他表示，万豪可以稍微提高报价，但会是以股票的形式。他认为，目前的要约接近最终报价。
"We're in overtime in the March Madness competition here for the Starwood title, with a minute or two left on the clock," Mr. Wasiolek said.	"我们在有关喜达屋的疯狂 3 月竞争中已经进入了加时赛，还剩下一两分钟，"瓦斯勒克说。
A representative for the Chinese consortium declined to comment on Marriott's revised bid.	中国财团的一名代表拒绝就万豪国际的新报价置评。
A combination of Marriott and Starwood, whose brands include Westin and Sheraton, would create the largest hotel company in the world, with more than 5,500 owned or franchised hotels and 1.1 million rooms around the world. The deal is expected to be neutral to adjusted earnings per share in 2017 and 2018.	喜达屋拥有威斯汀(Westin)和喜来登(Sheraton)等品牌，而它与万豪国际的合并会创立全球最大的酒店集团，旗下拥有逾 5500 家直营或特许经营酒店，在世界各地共有 110 万个房间。这项交易在 2017 年及 2018 年不会增益减损调整后的每股收益。

Over the weekend, Starwood signed up to manage two hotels in Cuba, becoming the first American company to do so in more 50 years. Mr. Sorenson was also in Cuba on Monday, alongside President Obama on his historic visit. It was there that he took the conference call with analysts to discuss the deal on Monday, and was met with a unique set of technical difficulties, as the line kept cutting out.	周末期间，喜达屋签订了经营古巴两家酒店的合约，成为 50 多年来第一家进军古巴市场的美国公司。周一，奥巴马总统对古巴进行历史性访问的时候，索伦森也在随行人员之列。正是在那里，索伦森周一与分析师们召开了电话会议，讨论这宗交易。期间他们遇到了当地特有的技术困难，电话不断出现掉线的情况。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160322/c22db-starwood	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160322/c22db-starwood
Law Graduate Who Sued Her School Loses at Trial	法学院毕业当不上律师能怪学校吗？陪审团：不能
A jury in San Diego on Thursday rejected claims by a law graduate, Anna Alaburda, that the Thomas Jefferson School of Law enticed her to enroll by using misleading graduate employment figures.	周四——圣迭戈的一个陪审团驳回了法学毕业生安娜·阿拉布尔达(Anna Alaburda)的申诉。她此前宣称，托马斯·杰斐逊法学院(Thomas Jefferson School of Law)虚报毕业生就业数据，以此诱骗她入学。
In the first — and perhaps last — such case to reach the courtroom, Ms. Alaburda, 37, argued that the school reported a higher percentage of its graduates landed jobs after graduation than was actually the case, and that she relied on the bogus data to choose to attend the school.	这是此类案件首次到达庭审阶段，大概也是最后一次。现年 37 岁的阿拉布尔达提出，该校夸大了学生毕业后的就业率数据，而她就是信了这个虚假的数据才选择入学的。
After amassing more than $150,000 in debt to graduate in 2008, she has been unable to find a full-time, salaried job as a lawyer, she says.	她表示，2008 年毕业时自己一共欠下了 15 万美元（约合 98 万元人民币）的债务，却一直没法找到一份带薪的全职律师工作。
A jury voted nine to three to reject her claims.	陪审团以九比三的票数驳回了她的申诉。
Still, unlike more than a dozen other disgruntled lawyers who have tried but failed to bring their former law schools to trial for counting their graduates' post-degree jobs such as waitresses and bartenders as full-time legal employment, Ms. Alaburda survived attempts over the past five years to sink her case.	不过，与试图将母校告上法庭却以失败告终的其他十多名心怀不满的法律工作者不同，阿拉布尔达在过去五年中挺过了让案子泡汤的多次尝试。这些人控告的原因是，法学院将学生毕业后从事服务员、酒保等职业当作全职法律工作来统计。
Thomas Jefferson stood by its employment figures. Its lawyer, Michael Sullivan, argued that earning a law degree was not a guarantee of a	托马斯·杰斐逊法学院坚称自己提供的就业数据无误。学校的代理律师迈克尔·沙利文(Michael Sullivan)提出，得到法学学位并不能保证找到薪资优厚的

well-paying job.	工作。
"I'm not here to tell you a law degree is a guarantee of career success, is a guarantee of riches," Mr. Sullivan told the jury. "It's not. No degree is."	"我不会在此告诉大家，法学学位就能保证事业成功，保证财源滚滚，"沙利文告诉陪审团。"它办不到。没有任何学位能办到。"
At trial in San Diego Superior Court this month, Ms. Alaburda said she chose Thomas Jefferson after consulting popular law school guides, including the 2004 edition of best graduate schools by U.S. News & World Report. The San Diego school's listing said that just over 80 percent of its graduates were employed nine months after they graduated.	在圣迭戈高等法院本月进行的庭审中，阿拉布尔达表示，她之所以选择托马斯·杰斐逊法学院，首先是查看了一些出名的法学院指南，比如《美国新闻与世界报道》(U.S. News & World Report)的2004年度最佳研究生院排行榜。位于圣迭戈的托马斯·杰斐逊法学院宣称，其毕业生在离校九个月后的就业率略高于80%。
"I knew it wasn't as competitive as first- or second-tier law schools, but it still had pretty decent statistics and was A.B.A. accredited," she told the jury.	"我明白它的竞争力比不上一二线的法学院，不过数据看起来还是不错的，而且有美国律师协会(A.B.A.)的认证，"阿拉布尔达告诉陪审团。
"So I thought it was a pretty decent school to apply to."	"所以我以为，申请这所学校是个不错的选择。"
Other law school graduates, citing six-figure debt and misleading employment data, have tried to hold law schools around the country accountable. About 15 such lawsuits were derailed before they reached a jury.	还有其他一些法学院毕业生以六位数的债务和误导性的就业数据为由试图让母校担责，涉及的法学院分布在全美各地。大约15桩此类诉讼没能见到陪审团就不了了之。
Ms. Alaburda, who invoked California state fraud protections, was the first to get her case before a jury even though a judge earlier rejected her effort to certify her claim as a class-action lawsuit, with potentially high-dollar damage awards. Ms. Alaburda, who has worked in a series of part-time legal support jobs, asked for $125,000 for lost wages and reimbursement of tuition and fees.	阿拉布尔达援引的法律依据是加利福尼亚州保护民众免受欺诈的条款。这是第一个见到了陪审团的同类案子。不过，法官早前驳回了她试图将其定为集体诉讼的请求，阻止了获得更高赔偿金的可能。阿拉布尔达毕业后从事了一系列兼职的法律援助工作，在本案中要求获得12.5万美元的薪资损失，外加返还学杂费。
Entry-level legal jobs began shrinking after the 2008 economic slowdown, and law graduates were left saddled with six-figure debt	2008年美国经济放缓之后，初级法律工作岗位缩减。法学毕业生背负着六位数的债务，职业前景却颇为渺茫。自那以后，美国律师协会采取了一些措

loads and limited job prospects. Since then, the American Bar Association has been taking steps to require law schools to be more open about postgraduate job placement.	施, 要求法学院更为坦诚地告知学生毕业后的就业去向。
While the 200-plus accredited law schools must now publish a more detailed breakdown of their employment data, including whether jobs are full time or part time, critics said the jury's decision lets schools off the hook.	时至今日, 这两百多家获得协会认证的法学院必须公布更详细的就业分类数据, 包括是否为全职工作。尽管如此, 批评人士认为, 此次陪审团做出的决定让学校脱了身。
"This verdict ratifies the systematic deception by law schools, blessed by the American Bar Association," said Kyle McEntee, executive director of Law School Transparency, a nonprofit that campaigns for law schools to disclose more accurate data.	"这次的判决给法学院的系统性欺骗发了通行证, 还有美国律师协会的背书," 法学院透明度组织(Law School Transparency)的执行总监凯尔·麦肯蒂(Kyle McEntee)说。这是一家非营利组织, 倡导法学院发布更精确的数据。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160325/c25db-lawschool	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160325/c25db-lawschool
Automakers Expanding in China May Soon Face Weakening Demand	外资车企在华大举扩张, 面临产能过剩风险
SHANGHAI — The new $1.3 billion Cadillac factory on the outskirts of Shanghai is a shrine to modern manufacturing, the kind of facility that automakers all over the world dream of building but can seldom afford.	上海——这座位于上海郊区的凯迪拉克新工厂造价达 13 亿美元, 是一座现代制造的神殿, 全球各地的汽车制造商都梦想修建这样的工厂, 但却没有几家负担得起它的成本。
Hundreds of robots bend, arch and twist to assemble the body of Cadillac's new flagship CT6. Lasers seal the car's lightweight aluminum exterior using techniques that the carmaker, General Motors, has only just introduced in the United States. Yardlong, bright yellow robots like mechanical Alaskan huskies tow five-foot-tall carts of auto parts to the assembly line.	数以百计的机器人弯曲、弓起, 扭动着, 组装凯迪拉克新旗舰车型 CT6 的车身。激光器对车辆的轻质铝外壳进行密封, 这是其制造商通用汽车公司(General Motors)刚刚在美国推出的新技术。一码长的明黄色机器人好像一只只机械阿拉斯加哈士奇, 把五英尺高、装着零件的拖车拉到装配线上。
"It's more along the lines of aircraft technology than traditional, spot-welded steel bodies," said Paul Buetow, G.M.'s head of manufacturing in China, as he strode along the assembly line.	"这更像是飞行器技术的生产线, 而不是传统的点焊钢铁车身," 通用汽车中国制造部门主管保罗·布托(Paul Buetow)一边沿着流水线走动一边说。

The factory is part of an aggressive expansion by automakers in China, the world's largest market for new cars and the industry's brightest hope for the last 15 years. But the country's economy is now cooling, which could leave carmakers with too many factories and not enough buyers.	通用汽车在中国积极进行扩张，这个工厂是其部分成果。中国是全球最大的新车市场，也是未来15年里这个行业最大的希望。但中国经济正在降温，拥有太多工厂的汽车制造商可能不会有足够多的购车者。
G.M. will open a second, $1 billion factory in Wuhan next year. G.M.'s main rival in the Chinese market, Volkswagen, plans to open large assembly plants next year alongside its existing factories in the cities of Foshan, Ningbo and Yizheng and build one in Qingdao by 2018. Hyundai plans to complete a factory south of Beijing by October and another in Chongqing next year, while Chinese automakers like Great Wall and Changan are aggressively adding capacity.	通用汽车的第二家十亿美元级工厂明年将在武汉开工。通用汽车在中国市场的主要竞争对手大众汽车(Volkswagen)计划明年在佛山、宁波、仪征的老厂旁边启动大型装配厂，2018年之前在青岛修建一家新工厂。现代汽车(Hyundai)计划今年10月之前在北京南部建成一家新的工厂，明年在重庆建成另外一家。而长城、长安等中国本土汽车制造商也正在积极扩大产能。
The research firm Sanford Bernstein estimates that auto manufacturing capacity in China will rise 22 percent over the next two years, bringing it to 28.8 million cars, minivans and sport utility vehicles annually. That is almost equal to the American and European markets combined, and greater than even the most optimistic forecasts: that sales in China will reach about 25 million next year.	据调研公司桑福德·伯恩斯坦(Sanford Bernstein)估计，在未来两年内，中国汽车产能将增长22%，每年可生产2880万辆轿车、小型货车和运动型多功能车。这几乎相当于美国和欧洲市场的总和，超过即便是最乐观的预测：中国明年的汽车销量将达到2500万辆左右。
Automakers are expanding at a time when China's economic growth has slowed to its lowest level in more than a quarter-century. China is closing coal mines across the country and plans to shutter steel mills. Exports are falling. Many Chinese cities are dotted with empty apartment buildings. Worried about pollution and traffic jams, China's wealthiest metropolises have begun limiting the number of new cars that may be registered.	汽车制造商扩大产能之际，正逢中国经济增长放缓至20多年来的最低点。中国各地都在关闭煤矿，还计划关停钢厂。出口正在下滑。很多中国城市都点缀着空荡荡的公寓楼。由于担心污染和交通拥堵，中国最富裕的超级大城市已经开始限制可以上牌照的新车数量。

On the surface, auto sales in China seem strong. More Chinese families can afford cars and are flocking to showrooms. Sales of cars, minivans and sport utility vehicles jumped 8 percent last year from 2014.	从表面上看，中国的汽车销售势头似乎很强劲。越来越多的中国家庭看起来能买得起车了，而且正在涌向展销厅。从2014年到去年，轿车、小型货车和运动型多功能车的销量飙升了8%。
The buyers are not just China's college-educated, white-collar elite, but also the beneficiaries of the country's roughly eightfold growth in blue-collar wages in the last dozen years. Zhou Genkou, a burly truck driver, recently waited in a Volkswagen dealership to pay $12,300 for a new white Santana sedan. He explained that he could not tolerate life without a car.	购车者不仅有大学学历者、白领精英，而且还包括过去十几年里工资增长了大约七倍的蓝领。周根寇(音)是一个魁梧的卡车司机，近日他在大众汽车经销店里等候为一辆白色桑塔纳新车支付1.23万美元(约合人民币8万元)。他解释说，自己过不了没有车的生活。
"It's so that we don't have to walk," he said.	"有了车就不用再走路了，"他说。
But there are signs that China's yearslong auto boom is easing.	但有迹象表明，中国数年来的汽车热潮正在降温。
After car sales fell three months in a row, the Chinese government decided last September to halve the sales tax on cars with engines of 1.6 liters or less, to 5 percent through the end of 2016. The main beneficiaries have been domestic Chinese automakers, mostly affiliated with municipal or provincial governments, that churn out cheap subcompacts with small engines.	去年9月，汽车销量连续下降三个月之后，中国政府决定将1.6升及以下排量轿车的销售税减半至5%，直到2016年年底。这个举措的主要受益者是中国本土汽车公司，它们大多隶属于市级或省级政府，生产小排量的廉价微型车。
A similar tax reduction produced strong sales in 2009 and 2010. But it mainly encouraged consumers to buy sooner. When the tax cut expired, sales essentially leveled off for the next two years.	2009年和2010年时，类似的减税措施导致了强劲的销售势头。但那主要是鼓励消费者将购车计划提前。在减税期结束后的两年里，汽车销售基本趋于平稳。
With the current tax reduction scheduled to end, "2017 will be a very difficult year for the auto industry, probably no growth," said Yale Zhang, the managing director of Automotive Foresight, a Shanghai consulting firm.	而在目前的减税期结束之后，"2017年将会是汽车行业非常困难的一年，可能不会有任何增长，"上海咨询公司汽车市场预测(Automotive Foresight)总监张豫(Yale Zhang)说。
Multinationals are focusing more on higher-profit segments that are	跨国公司更加集中在高利润细分市场上，销售增长不受这种激励措施的影响

growing without help from such incentives. But they are also finishing up a factory-building spree that started three years ago, when the economy was healthier.	响。但它们也在三年前掀起了建厂热潮，当时中国的经济形势还比较健康。
"We see China moving to a pace of what I would call moderate growth," said Matthew Tsien, the G.M. executive vice president who oversees the company's China business.	"我们认为，中国正在转向一种我称为'适度增长'的步伐，"通用汽车中国区总裁钱惠康(Matthew Tsien)说。
Volkswagen forecasts that China's auto market will grow slightly faster than the overall economy this year and slightly slower than the overall economy for the rest of the decade. G.M. is forecasting that the market will grow a little less than 5 percent a year through the end of the decade, the equivalent of adding the entire auto market of Japan, or five Australias.	大众汽车公司预测，中国汽车市场今年的增长将超过整体经济，而在这个十年剩下的时间里，它的增长将略慢于整体经济。通用汽车公司预测，该市场在2020年以前将以每年略低于5%的速度增长，增量相当于整个日本汽车市场，或者五个澳大利亚汽车市场。
Both automakers are planning to meet much of that growth with factories they have already commissioned or will soon finish. But if the economy weakens significantly, the industry could get stuck with a large amount of excess capacity.	这两家汽车制造商都计划通过已经委托建造的或即将完工的工厂满足大部分增长需求。但如果经济大幅下滑，汽车行业将陷入产能过剩的困境。
"Are manufacturers going to keep the rose-colored glasses or get real? Most of the multinationals are going to get real and slow down the new capacity," said Bill Russo, former chief executive of Chrysler China and now a consultant. "I'm not sure about the local manufacturers. They have a 'Field of Dreams' and 'build it and they will come' mentality."	"制造商会保持乐观还是会现实一些？大部分跨国公司会现实一些，放缓新增产能，"克莱斯勒中国公司(Chrysler China)前首席执行官比尔·鲁索(Bill Russo)说。"我不确定当地制造商的情况。他们有种电影《梦幻成真》[Field of Dreams]里的心态，'只要去建造，他们就会来。"鲁索现在担任顾问。
Chinese auto industry leaders shrug off such concerns. "They see the small-car market as having a lot of potential," said Cui Dongshu, the secretary general of the China Passenger Car Association.	中国汽车行业的领袖对这些担忧不予理会。全国乘用车市场信息联席会秘书长崔东树说，"他们看到小型车市场具有很大潜力。"
The Chinese economy needs continued strength in the auto market.	中国经济需要汽车市场继续走强。政府希望转向以消费支出为基础的、更具

The government wants to shift to a new, more sustainable model for growth based on consumer spending.	可持续性的新增长模式。
Since 2009, China has depended heavily on a loan-fed surge in construction of ever more highways, rail lines, factories and other investments. But that has produced a mountain of debt, particularly at state-owned enterprises.	自 2009 年以来，中国严重依赖贷款促进建筑项目的增加，建造更多公路、铁路线、工厂及加大其他投资。但这给相关公司带来了巨额债务，特别是国企。
Strong auto sales helped China attain a little-noticed milestone in recent months. Overall retail sales of consumer goods in China surpassed such sales in the United States, according to official data.	近几个月来强劲的汽车销售帮助中国达到了一个不太引人注意的里程碑。官方数据显示，中国的消费品零售总额超过了美国。
If sales do slow sharply, the question is whether multinationals and domestic automakers will try to start exporting more from their Chinese factories. The facilities are among the most advanced in the world, not least because they are also the newest.	如果销售大幅放缓，问题在于国际及国内汽车制造商是否会尝试开始出口更多中国工厂生产的汽车。这些工厂是世界上最先进的——一个重要的原因是它们都是最新建造的。
G.M. and other automakers could in theory try to export more cars to the United States, which is also a relatively healthy market. One potential obstacle, however, is that China's surplus capacity is mainly in subcompact cars, for which Americans have little appetite.	通用和其他汽车制造商理论上可以尝试向美国出口更多汽车，美国也是一个相对健康的市场。但中国的汽车生产力过剩主要出现在小型汽车领域，美国人对这种汽车不太感兴趣，这可能是一个阻碍。
G.M. is already preparing to start shipping a new car-based sport utility vehicle, the Buick Envision, from China to the United States, from a factory in northeastern China. The arrival of the Envision, which is being built only in China, Buick's biggest market by far, will be the mass market debut of Chinese-built cars in Big Three showrooms in the United States.	通用已经准备开始从中国东北的一家工厂向美国运送以轿车为基础的多功能运动型车别克昂科威(Buick Envision)。这款汽车只在中国生产，中国是别克目前最大的市场。这将是中国生产的汽车首次在美国“三巨头”的展销厅面向大众市场销售。
The preferences of Chinese consumers tend to be different from those of American buyers. Chinese customers, for example, are highly prone	中国消费者的偏好往往与美国顾客不同。例如，市场咨询公司 J. D. Power & Associates 的调查显示，中国顾客经常抱怨汽车内部的织物及其他材料有异 to complain if fabrics and other materials in a car's interior do not smell quite right, according to surveys by J. D. Power & Associates. Many in the auto industry have said they will be watching how American buyers respond to Chinese-built Envisions.	味。很多汽车行业的人士表示，他们将会关注美国顾客对中国制造的昂科威汽车的反应。

"So will we," said Mr. Buetow of G.M.	通用的布托表示，“我们也会关注。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160329/c29chinacars	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160329/c29chinacars
If Starwood Makes a Deal With Anbang, Can It Be Done?	和安邦集团做生意，美国公司要警惕哪些风险
Among the many issues Starwood Hotels & Resorts faces in negotiating a deal with Anbang Insurance Group, the giant and secretive Chinese insurance giant, is a stark one: Any deal Starwood negotiates may not be worth the paper it is printed on.	在与神秘的中国保险业巨头安邦保险集团进行交易谈判时，喜达屋酒店及度假村(Starwood Hotels & Resorts)面临很多问题。其中一个严峻的问题是，喜达屋谈成的任何协议可能都是一纸空文。
The enforcement problem may arise because Anbang is based in China. If the Anbang-led consortium wins its bidding contest against Marriott International and enters into an agreement to acquire Starwood, that agreement will become the main way Starwood would force Anbang to complete the transaction if financing issues or any others come up. As with any agreement, if one party fails to honor the terms, Starwood would have to sue Anbang to enforce the deal.	因为安邦是一家中国公司，协议的执行可能会出问题。如果以安邦为首的财团在竞价大战中打败万豪国际集团(Marriott International)，达成收购喜达屋的协议，这项协议将成为喜达屋在安邦出现资金或其他任何问题时，强迫对方完成交易的主要途径。和任何协议一样，如果一方未能履行相关条款，喜达屋将不得不起诉安邦，要求其执行交易。
This is where the problem arises.	这正是问题的所在。
If Starwood won a lawsuit in the United States, it would have to enforce the judgment in China, where Anbang and its assets are. Good luck with that.	如果在美国胜诉，喜达屋必须在安邦及其资产的所在地中国执行判决。但那谈何容易。
China is notorious for its weak rule of law, and whether or not a Chinese court would actually enforce a United States judgment against Anbang is unknown.	中国法治体系薄弱众所周知，且尚不清楚中国的法院会不会真去执行美国做出的不利于安邦的判决。

This is a good lesson for anyone dealing with companies outside the United States: Having a great claim is meaningless unless you have a pocket to get money from.	这对和美国以外的公司做生意的所有人都是个很好的提醒：很好的索赔理由没用，除非能从对方兜里拿到钱。
There are ways that American companies try to get around this issue. One method is for companies to agree that any dispute will be arbitrated. Enforcement of arbitration awards is typically easier because many countries are parties to the 1958 United Nations Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards, known as the New York Convention. This treaty requires any country that is a party to it to honor an arbitration award and enforce it without trying the case again in court.	美国公司可以通过多种方式尽力避开这个问题。方式之一是，各方同意，出现任何纠纷一律接受仲裁。仲裁裁决的执行往往更容易，因为很多国家都加入了 1958 年的联合国《承认及执行外国仲裁裁决公约》(Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards)，又名《纽约公约》(New York Convention)。该公约要求缔约国承认并执行仲裁裁决，无需重新开庭审理案件。
The treaty is viewed as a more certain way to enforce foreign judgments. Because of this, many deals with companies located in countries with weak rule of law use arbitration. Most cross-border deals with Russian companies, for example, are subject to arbitration in case of dispute rather than litigation in Russia itself.	在执行外国判决方面，该公约被认为更可靠。因此，如果相关公司所在的国家法治力量薄弱，很多交易便会使用仲裁这个办法。比如，与俄罗斯公司之间的大部分跨境交易在出现纠纷时，都会诉诸于仲裁，而不是在俄罗斯国内打官司。
China is a party to this treaty, so many agreements with Chinese companies contain arbitration provisions. But there is a common belief that Chinese courts will not enforce these awards. And in any event, the idea of going through arbitration and then trying to enforce a $14 billion deal in a Chinese court is ludicrous. Starwood can't wait the years this would take.	中国也是该公约的缔约国，因此和中国公司签订的很多协议都包含仲裁条款。但有一个普遍的观点是，中国法院不会执行这些裁决。并且不管怎样，走完仲裁程序后再尝试通过中国的法庭执行一笔价值 140 亿美元的交易这个想法很荒唐。这个过程可能要耗费的时间，喜达屋等不起。
So, Starwood's lawyers are assuming that Starwood will really have no recourse in China to enforce its agreement if Anbang decides to breach it.	因此，喜达屋的律师假设，如果安邦决定违约，喜达屋在中国真的没办法执行协议。

All is not lost, however. Starwood’s lawyers will look for Anbang to put up collateral – mainly American assets. These will secure any judgment so that Starwood would not have to turn to China.	但并不是一点办法也没有。喜达屋的律师可能会指望安邦提供抵押物，主要是在美国的资产。这些资产会为一切判决提供保障，这样喜达屋就不用求助于中国了。
The problem is that Anbang has limited assets in the United States. It owns the Waldorf Astoria, which it bought for $1.95 billion, and has agreed to buy Strategic Hotels and Resorts from Blackstone for $6.5 billion. But these assets are not enough. In both cases, Anbang most likely borrowed heavily to acquire them and they will not be available to meet the full purchase price for Starwood.	但问题是，安邦在美国的资产有限。它花 19.5 亿美元买下了华尔道夫-阿斯特里亚(Waldorf-Astoria)酒店，并同意出资 65 亿美元从黑石(Blackstone)手中买入战略酒店及度假村(Strategic Hotels and Resorts)。但这些资产还不够。在这两起收购案中，安邦极有可能借了大量债务，因而无法用这两家企业来冲抵收购喜达屋的标价。
This leaves the last option. Starwood’s lawyers will have to look for a deposit or a letter of credit. It is also possible to get commitments from Anbang’s owners, though the problem is that they are unknown and are also very likely abroad.	这样就只剩最后一个选择。喜达屋的律师可能不得不寄希望于押金或信用证。喜达屋也可以让安邦的所有者做出承诺，不过这里涉及的问题是，外界不知道他们是谁，而且他们也很有可能不在美国。
The gold standard for dealing with this issue along these lines is the Smithfield deal. In that acquisition, Smithfield Foods was bought by Shuanghui International Holdings, a Chinese company with no assets in the United States.	沿着这种思路解决问题的最佳案例是史密斯菲尔德收购案。在那起收购案中，在美国没有资产的中国公司双汇国际收购了史密斯菲尔德食品公司(Smithfield Foods)。
In that case, Smithfield’s only remedy if the transaction failed was to collect a termination fee of up to $275 million, about 5 percent of the transaction value. Shuanghui funded this termination fee by putting it in escrow. Smithfield preserved the possibility of suing Shuanghui if it willfully breached the agreement, but the parties knew that this action would not go anywhere.	在这个案例中，如果交易失败，史密斯菲尔德唯一可获得的补偿是收取高达 2.75 亿美元的终止费。这大约相当于交易价格的 5%。双汇将这笔终止费交由第三方保管。如双汇故意违反协议，史密斯菲尔德保留了起诉的可能性，不过双方知道，起诉不会有任何结果。
But in a hostile bidding war a 5 percent deposit is weak brew. So this deal may set a new standard for how targets deal with the completion	但在一场敌意竞价大战中，5%的押金起不了太大作用。因此，这笔交易可能会给收购目标应对中国竞价者的履约风险制定一个新标准。或许这一次会

risk from Chinese bidders. Perhaps there will be a “super escrow” here of multiple billions. And it may be funded by letters of credit or financing letters instead of cash deposits.	出现一笔高达数十亿美元的“超级第三方托管资金”。这笔资金可能会由信用证或其他金融凭证，而非现金押金提供。
Starwood should fight hard on this issue, though, because of the regulatory issues.	但因为监管问题，喜达屋应该在这个问题上奋力抗争。
The China risk on this transaction goes beyond the enforcement of the agreement. Approval of Chinese regulators is required for this deal and there are signs that the government may not approve, since the amount will exceed 15 percent of Anbang’s assets, the limit on insurers’ foreign investment under Chinese rules.	这笔交易中，中方投资者带来的风险不仅限于协议的执行。这笔交易还需要获得中国监管机构的批准，但数个迹象表明，中国政府不予批准的可能性是存在的，因为交易价格超过了安邦资产价值的15%。这个比例是中国制定的国内保险公司境外投资上限。
That’s the talk at least. The Chinese regulatory process is a bit opaque.	至少有这种说法，不过中国的监管流程有些不透明。
But remember what is driving this deal? Anbang is willing to pay so much in order to arbitrage the Chinese currency, the renminbi. Anbang knows that the renminbi might go down, and is desperate to get its money out and convert it to dollars. Indeed, Anbang appears partly built on a currency play. Many Chinese citizens buy its high-yielding life insurance products because that allows for the conversion of renminbi into dollars. Perhaps the Chinese government may be more forgiving to Anbang, as this conversion may benefit the company if there is indeed further renminbi devaluation.	但还记得推动这笔交易的因素是什么吗？安邦愿意出这么多钱是为了人民币套利。安邦知道人民币可能会贬值，因此急于把钱花出去，将其兑换成美元。实际上，安邦似乎在一定程度上就是建立在货币兑换盈利的基础上的。很多中国民众购买该公司的高收益率寿险产品就是因为这样可以把人民币兑换成美元。或许，中国政府对安邦可能会更宽容一些，因为如果人民币真的进一步贬值，这种兑换可能对该公司有益。
But who knows? And that creates regulatory risk No. 1 for Starwood.	但谁知道呢？而这也正是喜达屋面临的头号监管风险。
Then there is the issue of national security approval in the United States by the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, or Cfius, a committee of various federal agencies charged with reviewing foreign takeovers for national security purposes.	然后便是国家安全问题。在美国，交易需得到美国外国投资委员会（Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States，简称Cfius）的批准。该委员会由多个联邦机构联合组成，负责对外国收购进行审查，保护国家安全。

A hotel acquisition does not on its face raise national security issues. Cfius, however, does review how close Starwood's hotels are to national security facilities. It has previously blocked investments in a wind farm and a gold mining company by Chinese companies because these properties were located too close to military facilities.	表面上，一起酒店收购案并不会引发国家安全问题。然而，Cfius 的确会调查喜达屋旗下酒店离国家安全设施有多近。该委员会之前就叫停了中国公司对一处风力发电厂和一家金矿公司的投资，因为它们离军事设施太近。
Cfius will almost certainly not block the Starwood deal, but it may require divestments of hotels, like Starwood properties near the White House. This analysis will take a while since Starwood has about 1,300 properties. But this will only delay, not hold up, a deal.	Cfius 几乎肯定会阻止收购喜达屋的交易，但也可能要求剥离部分酒店，如喜达屋位于白宫附近的产业。这种分析会花一段时间，因为喜达屋旗下有大约 1300 处产业。但这只会推迟，不会终止交易。
The final risk to this transaction is financing. Anbang will be looking to borrow billions to finance the deal with its partners J. C. Flowers & Company and Primavera Capital. But financing can fall through, particularly in today's markets in the United States and China.	这笔交易面临的最后一个风险是融资方面的。为了与合作伙伴 J·C·弗拉沃斯公司(J.C. Flowers & Company)和春华资本集团(Primavera Capital Group)联合出资收购喜达屋，安邦预计将举债数十亿。但融资可能会失败，尤其是在美国和中国眼下的市场环境下。
And so, the questions really are whether Starwood will take the risk here, and how the lawyers deal with it. There are no complete solutions – Starwood is unlikely to be able to get an agreement that it can enforce or collect the full acquisition price if Anbang walks away.	因此，真正的问题是喜达屋会不会冒这个险，以及律师将如何应对。现在没有彻底的解决方案：喜达屋不太可能拿到一个它能确保执行的协议，如果安邦撤退，也难以全额收取收购价格。
Because of this risk, Marriott's bid is likely to be a better one even if Anbang is willing to pay more. This is because the bird in the hand of Marriott is a better bet.	因为存在这种风险，即便安邦愿意出更高的价钱，万豪的出价也可能更合适。这是因为，万豪的钱相当于一鸟在手，更靠得住一些。
We learned this lesson in the financial crisis. Then, the chemical maker Huntsman terminated a deal with Basell to accept a higher offer from Hexion, but one with greater antitrust risk. The risk proved not to be worth it, as Hexion was unable to finance the deal and walked, paying Huntsman a fraction of what it lost.	我们在金融危机中就学到了这个教训。当时，化学品生产商亨斯迈(Huntsman)终止了与巴塞爾(Basell)的一项交易，接受了瀚森(Hexion)的要约。瀚森报价更高，但反垄断风险也更大。事实证明不值得冒这个险，因为瀚森未能筹集到交易所需的资金，放弃了。瀚森付给亨斯迈的钱，只相当于其损失的一小部分。

But if Starwood chooses Anbang, how it deals with these issues will very likely be the template for how American acquisition targets deal with Chinese issues going forward. After all, if Anbang can convert renminbi at inflated prices to pay inflated values for American properties, why can't other Chinese buyers?	但如果喜达屋选择安邦，它应对这些问题的方式，很有可能会成为未来美国的收购目标应对中国问题的模板。毕竟，如果安邦能够以较高汇率兑换人民币，出高价购买美国的房地产，其他中国买家为什么不能？
Many here in the United States are worrying about a whole different risk in this transaction. Which one will better honor those Starwood points: Marriott or Anbang?	对这笔交易，很多美国人担心的却是另一个截然不同的风险：哪一家能更好地兑换喜达屋积分，万豪还是安邦？
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160331/c31db-anbang	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160331/c31db-anbang
Dalian Wanda Group Seeks to Delist Its Commercial Property Arm	万达商业地产将退市，母公司提出全面收购要约
HONG KONG — Dalian Wanda Group of China said Thursday that it may privatize its commercial property company in a deal that could be worth about $4 billion.	香港——周四，中国大连万达集团表示拟对旗下的万达商业地产公司启动私有化，估值约 40 亿美元。
The potential delisting of Dalian Wanda Commercial Properties comes just 15 months after it raised $3.7 billion in a Hong Kong initial public offering — the largest listing in Asia for 2014. The company did not say why it had decided to think about privatizing so soon after going public.	2014 年，万达商业地产在香港的公开募股(IPO)为当时亚洲最大规模，筹集到了 37 亿美元。短短 15 个月后便可能退市。为何在上市后如此短时间内考虑私有化，万达没有对此做出解释。
The group said in a news release on the Hong Kong Stock Exchange that it would offer no less than 48 Hong Kong dollars a share, or about $6.20 a share. That would be almost 24 percent higher than the price at which the stock closed on Wednesday.	万达集团在一份港交所的公告中说，它将提供每股不低于 48 港元的收购价格，约合每股 6.20 美元。此价格比周三的收盘现价高出近 24%。
Dalian Wanda shares, which had sunk well below their initial offer price, were bolstered by the news and leapt about 20 percent on Thursday morning. By lunchtime, they were up about 18 percent, at $45.85.	受此消息刺激，原本低于发行价的万达商业股价在周四上午大涨近 20%。截至中午，股价涨幅约 18%，达到每股 45.85 港元。
The property unit was set up in 2002 and spread across China, building	万达商业地产公司创立于 2002 年，业务遍布整个中国，开发项目综合购物

developments that combined shopping centers, theaters, hotels, offices and residential blocks. But China's economy is now being dragged down by a housing glut, and real estate investment has nearly come to a standstill after more than a decade of double-digit growth.	中心, 影院, 酒店, 写字楼和住宅区。然而, 目前住房过剩正在拖累着中国经济。在保持两位数增长 10 余年后, 房地产投资已经几乎陷入了停滞。
Fitch Ratings downgraded the company in February, saying in a note that "The downgrade reflects our expectation that Wanda's development properties' (DP) contracted sales in 2016 and 2017 will fall to a level not sufficient to support its ongoing capex plans and development expenditure."	2 月, 惠誉评级公司(Fitch Ratings)下调了对万达商业的评级, 表示“这次下调反映了我们的预期, 即 2016 年万达的开发项目销售额将有所下降, 并在 2017 年持续下跌, 达到无法充分支持其资本支出计划和开发费用的水平”。
The parent Dalian Wanda Group, however, has been busy investing far and wide in the film industry. It announced in January that it was buying Legendary Entertainment, one of Hollywood's biggest film production companies, for as much as $3.5 billion. It had also snapped up the theater chain AMC Theaters and begun construction of an $8.2 billion studio complex.	然而, 母公司大连万达集团已经忙于在电影产业进行长远且广泛的投资。1 月, 万达集团宣布斥资 35 亿美元收购好莱坞最大的电影发行公司之一——传奇影业。此外, 它还收购了 AMC 院线, 并开始建造一个价值 82 亿美元的影视产业基地。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160331/c31db-wanda	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160331/c31db-wanda
Starwood Hotels' Chinese Suitor Backs Out of Bidding	安邦放弃收购喜达屋, 竞购大战结束
The bidding war for Starwood Hotels and Resorts has ended suddenly — and strangely.	喜达屋酒店及度假村国际集团(Starwood Hotels and Resorts)并购战突然莫名其妙地终结了。
The current high bidder for the hotel chain, a consortium led by the Anbang Insurance Group of China, withdrew its $14 billion offer on Thursday.	目前, 此家连锁酒店的最高出价者, 由中国安邦保险领衔的财团在周四正式撤回了价值 140 亿美元的收购方案。
In a statement on Thursday, the consortium said: "We were attracted to the opportunity presented by Starwood because of its high-quality, leading global hotel brands, which met many of our acquisition criteria,	财团在周四的一份声明中称: “我们被喜达屋酒店的高质量以及全球领先的酒店品牌所吸引, 这符合我们的收购标准, 包括其产生持续、长期回报的能力。但是, 出于多重的市场因素考量, 财团决定不再继续该笔收购。” including the ability to generate consistent, long-term returns over time. However, due to various market considerations, the consortium has determined not to proceed further.”

The statement did not identify what the market considerations were.	此份声明并未指出究竟是哪些市场因素。
The withdrawal leaves Marriott International as the winner with its current $13.25 billion offer.	安邦的放弃使万豪国际(Marriott International)以当前价值 132.5 亿美元的收购方案成为此场收购战的胜者。
A combination of Marriott and Starwood, the operator of the Westin and Sheraton chains, would create the biggest hotel company in the world, with more than 5,500 owned or franchised hotels and 1.1 million rooms.	喜达屋经营着连锁酒店品牌威斯汀(Westin)和喜来登(Sheraton)，万豪国际与喜达屋的合并将会成为全球最大的酒店集团，旗下将拥有逾 5500 家直营或特许经营酒店和 110 万个房间。
Even though Anbang had offered more money — its second bid was $82.75 a share in cash, as opposed to Marriott’s most recent offer of $77.94 in cash and stock, as of Thursday’s prices — investors and analysts had raised questions about whether the Chinese-led consortium could actually close on its offer.	尽管安邦出了更多高的价钱，但投资者和分析人士始终质疑这个由中国牵头的财团能否真实兑现其并购方案。依据周四的收盘价格，安邦以每股作价 82.75 美元的现金收购方案以反击万豪提出的每股作价 77.94 美元的现金加股票的收购方案。
The abrupt withdrawal of the offer raised new questions, including whether the Chinese government, which has close ties with Anbang, had blocked the proposed transaction, or whether the insurer and its allies had run into issues with the financing for the deal.	突然撤回收购要约的行为引发新的疑问，其中包括，与安邦关系密切的中国政府是否阻止了此项拟议交易？安邦保险和它的联合投标人是否在此项交易的融资方面遇到问题？
The Anbang consortium included J. Christopher Flowers’ buyout firm, J. C. Flowers & Company, and the Primavera Capital Group, whose chairman, Fred Hu, is the former chairman of Goldman Sachs for China.	由安邦保险领衔的财团中包括了美国私募股权公司 J.C.Flowers 以及由前高盛（亚洲）(Goldman Sachs for Asia)董事长胡祖六所领导的春华资本集团 (Primavera Capital Group)。
Anbang had initially sought to break up Starwood’s first deal with Marriott by offering $78 a share, a proposal that was fully documented.	安邦起初曾试图以每股 78 美元的报价破坏喜达屋与万豪的初始交易，并且收购方案资料完备。
The second bid by the Chinese insurer, by contrast, had several open	相比之下，安邦保险提出的第二份收购方案却有些尚未解决的问题。喜达屋

questions. In a statement saying that Anbang's second bid was "reasonably likely to lead to a 'superior proposal,'" Starwood noted that the newer offer was nonbinding and that the two sides needed to hammer out "nonprice terms."	董事会在一份声明中称，安邦提出的第二份收购方案“有可能会产生一份‘更优方案’”，但因最新方案是非约束性的，因而双方仍需敲定一些“非价格条款”。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160401/c01db-starwood	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160401/c01db-starwood
Chinese Phrase Adds Mystery to Anbang's About-Face on Starwood	从安邦放弃收购喜达屋一窥中国海外投资风向
HONG KONG — An obscure phrase on foreign investment tucked into China's insurance regulations is being viewed as stunningly cryptic by Western standards. But the collection of words — not even a full sentence — adds to the mystery surrounding the sudden decision by the Chinese insurer Anbang Insurance Group to walk away from a $14 billion bid for the Starwood hotel chain.	香港——以西方标准来看，蕴含在中国保险监管规定中的有关外国投资的一个模糊说法，是极其隐晦的。但这组甚至不是一个整句的词语，让中国保险公司安邦集团突然做出的放弃以140亿美元竞购喜达屋酒店连锁的决策显得更加神秘难解。
The phrase allows insurance companies to make overseas investments, provided the total does not exceed 15 percent of their assets. But the rule does not specify how to calculate the value of the foreign investments.	该条文允许保险公司进行海外投资，前提是收购金额不能超过自身资产的15%。不过，这项规定并没有明确说明如何给海外投资估值。
For example, it does not indicate whether to use historical prices or market prices, nor which exchange rate to use. The rule does not even specify how to determine an insurer's assets, except to say that they shall be calculated at the end of the previous year.	比如，它没有指出是按历史价格还是市场价格计算，也没有明确使用什么汇率。这项规定甚至未能说明如何确定一家保险公司的资产额，只说应该按照前一年年底的数值计算。
So regulators have a lot of wiggle room. If the China Insurance Regulatory Commission made an unfavorable calculation, it might have raised the uncertainty for Anbang, compelling the company and its partner to withdraw the bid.	所以监管部门有很大的回旋余地。如果中国保险监督管理委员会做出不利的估算，就可能会给安邦带来不确定性，这迫使该公司及其合作方撤消了收购要约。
The derailed deal reflects the changing fortunes in China.	这项受挫的交易反映出中国形势的变化。

In the last couple of years, the Chinese authorities encouraged insurers and other companies to make large overseas acquisitions as a way to diversify and expand beyond their borders. Real estate was particularly attractive, and a rush of Chinese companies as well as wealthy families snapped up properties overseas. The results of a survey a year ago indicated that buyers from China were buying one in every 14 homes sold for more than $1 million in the United States.	过去几年，中国当局鼓励保险等领域的企业进行大规模海外并购，以此实现资产多样化和海外扩张。房地产尤其具有吸引力，有一大批中国企业和富裕家庭争相在海外购置房产。一年前的一份调查显示，美国每出售 14 座卖价超过 100 万美元的房屋，就有一座是被中国买家购得。
But such overseas investments are coming under increased scrutiny as the Chinese economy slows.	然而，随着中国经济增长放缓，此类海外投资开始受到越来越严格的审核。
Overseas acquisitions account for a significant source of capital outflows. And those outflows, which have weighed on the currency and the markets, have become a major point of concern for the Chinese authorities.	海外收购是中国资金外流的一个重要源头。而资金外流给中国的货币和市场带来不少压力，逐渐成为中国当局的一大顾虑。
China has been trying hard to slow a rapid flow of money to foreign markets since last summer. And Hong Kong financiers suggested this year that the government had been pressuring insurers to temper their purchases.	自去年夏天开始，中国一直在努力减慢资金外流的速度。有香港金融业高管今年指出，政府一直在向保险公司施压，要其放慢收购计划。
Anbang has been one of the most acquisitive Chinese insurers.	安邦一直是收购欲望最强烈的中国保险公司之一。
Less than three weeks ago, Anbang agreed to pay $6.5 billion to Blackstone to acquire Strategic Hotels and Resorts, which has more than a dozen luxury United States hotels. (The Blackstone transaction is expected to close this year.) Anbang already owns the Waldorf Astoria hotel in New York, which it acquired for $1.95 billion in 2014.	不到三个星期以前，安邦刚刚与黑石集团(Blackstone)达成协议，将支付 65 亿美元收购该集团旗下的战略酒店及度假村(Strategic Hotels and Resorts)，后者的资产包括十多座美国豪华酒店。(与黑石集团的交易有望在年内完成。)此前，安邦已在 2014 年以 19.5 亿美元收购了位于纽约的华尔道夫酒店(Waldorf Astoria)。
If the insurance rules played a role in the abandonment of the Starwood deal, it is also telling that it was Anbang that dropped the deal. Anbang	如果保险业监管规定的确在喜达屋交易作罢一事中发挥了作用，那么，是安邦放弃了收购这一点也很说明问题。该公司拥有深厚的政治人脉。此前这些

has deep political connections. And typically those ties have insulated companies until now, giving them more leeway with regulators.	关系往往深藏不露，因此在监管机构那里有更多的活动余地。
"It would be good for everybody in China to see that the rules are being applied more uniformly than people would have anticipated," said David Zweig, the director of the Center on China's Transnational Relations at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology.	"这是好事，让中国所有人都看到，规则的执行比人们预期的更加一视同仁，"香港科技大学跨国关系研究中心主任崔大伟(David Zweig)说。
Financing, too, may have been an issue.	融资可能也是一个问题。
Starwood was not comfortable with Anbang's ability to finance the latest bid of $14 billion, according to people briefed on the matter. An earlier bid by Marriott, just $700 million lower, appeared to meet Starwood's expectations.	知情者透露，安邦最后一次出价 140 亿美元时，喜达屋对它的融资能力感到不安。万豪之前的出价仅低 7 亿美元，似乎达到了喜达屋的期望。
Anbang declined to comment. Its partners — the American private equity firm J. C. Flowers & Company and another private equity firm based in Beijing and Hong Kong, Primavera Capital — did not respond to requests for comment, nor did the insurance commission.	安邦拒绝置评。其合作伙伴——美国私募企业 J. C. Flowers & Company 及设在北京和香港的私募企业春华资本(Primavera Capital)——也没有回复记者的置评请求。中国保监会亦是如此。
The 15 percent rule appears in Chinese insurance regulations as early as 2012. But it really became relevant only a year and a half ago, when the Chinese government started encouraging insurance companies to invest overseas. Even now, the Chinese insurance industry remains overwhelmingly domestic; only 1.5 percent of its assets were invested overseas as of last summer.	15%的规定最早出现在 2012 年的中国保险条例中。但直到一年半前，它才变得重要起来，也就是中国政府开始鼓励保险公司到境外投资的时候。即使到现在，中国保险业仍是基本上在国内运作；截至去年夏天，投资境外的资产只占 1.5%。
Anbang is one of the few insurers that have made a big overseas push, so the company has been viewed as a test case of how the 15 percent rule would be enforced. But Anbang is a particularly complicated corporate group to analyze for calculating asset ratios.	安邦是大力推动海外业务的为数不多的保险公司之一，因此业界把它看作是对 15%规则如何执行的一个测试。不过对于资产比率计算来说，安邦是一个分析起来特别复杂的企业集团。

For example, Anbang bought a 35 percent stake in the Chengdu Rural Commercial Bank in 2011 for nearly $1 billion. But Anbang is closely held. And the limited publicly available data on the insurer does not make clear whether it has included a portion of the bank's assets in figures for its total domestic assets.	例如，安邦在 2011 年斥资近 10 亿美元购买了成都农村商业银行 35% 的股份。不过安邦被人牢牢掌控着。它公开的数据很有限，看不出其国内总资产中是否包含该银行的那部分资产。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160405/c05db-anbang	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160405/c05db-anbang
Lost in Nicaragua, a Chinese Tycoon's Canal Project	迷失尼加拉瓜：中国富豪王靖的运河梦
BRITO, Nicaragua — A Spanish explorer conducted the first survey to connect the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans here in the 16th century. Napoleon III of France dreamed about it. The railroad magnate Cornelius Vanderbilt briefly had rights to do it. Nicaragua's history is littered with dozens of failed canal schemes.	尼加拉瓜布里托——16 世纪，一个西班牙探险家在这里进行了试图连接大西洋和太平洋的第一次勘测。法国的拿破仑三世对它充满了梦想。铁路大王康内留斯·范德比尔特(Cornelius Vanderbilt)曾在很短的一段时间里手握在这里修建工程的许可。尼加拉瓜的历史上充斥着几十个失败的运河计划。
But when a Chinese billionaire, Wang Jing, officially broke ground in a field outside this sleepy Pacific Coast village about a year ago, many Nicaraguans believed that this time, finally, they would get their canal.	但是，大约一年前，当中国亿万富翁王靖的工程项目在这座沉睡的太平洋海岸小村附近的土地上正式破土动工时，许多尼加拉瓜人相信，这一次，他们的运河终于可以修成了。
And not a small one, either. Three times as long and twice as deep as the Panama Canal, it would slice 170 miles across the southern part of the country — bulldozing through fragile ecosystems, virgin forests and scenes of incredible beauty. It would allow for the passage of the world's largest ships, vessels the length of skyscrapers that are too big for the Panama Canal.	而且还是一条不小的运河。它会有巴拿马运河的三倍长、两倍深，在该国南部脆弱的生态系统、原始森林和令人惊叹的美景之间，开一条 170 英里（约合 270 公里）长的口子。这条运河可以航行世界上最大的船舶，它们像摩天大楼横放着那样长，无法被巴拿马运河容纳。
Yet 16 months later, Mr. Wang's project — it would be the largest movement of earth in the planet's history — is shrouded in mystery and producing angry protests here. President Daniel Ortega has not talked about the canal in public for months. And there are no visible signs of	但 16 个月后，王靖的这个有望成为有史以来地球上最大建筑工程的项目陷入重重疑云，并在此地引发愤怒的抗议。尼加拉瓜总统丹尼尔·奥尔特加(Daniel Ortega)已经有数月没有公开谈论这条运河。也没有可见的迹象表明，项目还在进行。在王靖正式启动项目的那片原野上，有成群的牛在吃草。

progress. Cows graze in the field where Mr. Wang officially began the project.
Experts say they are baffled by Mr. Wang's canal. It may be backed by the Chinese government, part of its growing interest in Latin America, or may simply be a private investment cast adrift by the convulsions of China's stock markets and its slowing economy.	专家表示，他们对王靖计划开凿的这条运河感到不解。它的背后或许有中国政府支持，因该国在开发拉丁美洲方面的兴趣与日俱增，但它也可能只是一个私人投资项目，因中国股市动荡和经济增速放缓而打了水漂。
At the time of the groundbreaking in December 2014, the Chinese government said it was not involved with the project. This and Mr. Wang's recent setbacks — he has reportedly lost about 80 percent of his $10 billion fortune — make some experts say the deal is probably dead.	2014年12月，该项目举行破土仪式之时，中国政府曾表示与之没有关系。这一声明，加之王靖最近遭遇的挫折——据说他的100亿美元资产缩水了大约80%——促使一些专家觉得，这项交易可能已胎死腹中。
Others, however, say Chinese business practices are so opaque that it is hard to tell. Facilitating the movement of goods from the Pacific to the Atlantic aligns with Chinese interests, and the cost of the project is hardly an obstacle if the Chinese government wants to go forward — if it is involved.	不过，也有其他人表示，考虑到中国的商业行为往往非常不透明，所以很难说究竟是什么情况。让太平洋和大西洋之间的商品运输变得更加便捷，符合中国的利益。假如中国政府有参与，且有意推进，项目的费用就几乎构不成什么障碍。
Officials of Mr. Wang's company say they are simply taking more time to do preconstruction studies.	王靖公司的多名高管表示，他们只是在多花一些时间做施工前的研究工作。
"It's a project that has been notoriously nontransparent," said Margaret Myers, the director of the China and Latin America program at Inter-American Dialogue, a policy institute in Washington. She says she believes the project is probably dead for lack of funds, but like most experts is not sure.	“这个项目极其不透明，”华盛顿政策研究机构美洲国家对话组织(Inter-American Dialogue)的中国与拉美项目总监玛格丽特·迈尔斯(Margaret Myers)说。她表示，她相信这个项目大概已经因为缺少资金而取消了，但像大多数专家一样，她并不完全肯定。
What does seem clear is that the project's critics — environmentalists, human rights advocates and economists — have grown more outspoken and organized. In this part of the country, many	可以明确的是，该项目的批评者——环境保护者、人权倡导人士和经济学家——逐渐组织起来，开始更加直接地表达自己的意见。在该国这一地区，很多业主在自家房子的墙面上印上统一的“走开，中国人”(Go Away Chinese)

homeowners have stenciled "Go Away Chinese" on the sides of their houses, and virtually all the re-election posters for Mr. Ortega have been hit with black paint balls.	字样，奥尔特加竞选连任的海报基本都被人们用黑色颜料弹砸中，变得乌黑一片。
When he announced the deal in 2013, Mr. Ortega, a left-wing guerrilla turned pro-business politician, promised that the canal would transform Nicaragua and create hundreds of thousands of jobs, eventually doubling the country's gross domestic product. Many Nicaraguans, eager for a better future, embraced the idea, and many still do.	奥尔特加曾经是左翼游击队员，后来变身为支持商业发展的政客。当他在2013年宣布这项交易时，他做出保证，承诺这条运河会改变尼加拉瓜的面貌，创造数十万的工作机会，最终实现该国GDP翻一番。因为渴望拥有更美好的未来，不少尼加拉瓜人当时对项目表示支持，有不少现在依然如此。
But a growing number say the benefits of the deal are not so clear.	但也有越来越多的人表示，这项交易的好处并没有那么明确。
Some question whether the canal would even be commercially viable. Few supertankers and massive container ships now afloat will not be able to pass through the expanded Panama Canal set to open soon. And few ports are big enough to welcome those megaships. In the short term, some experts say, the combination of the Panama and Nicaragua canals would lead to overcapacity and price wars.	一些人质疑这条运河在商业上到底有没有获得成功的可能。经过扩建的巴拿马运河很快将再度开通，届时海上的超级油轮和巨型集装箱船很少会有通不过这条运河的。而足以容纳这些超级船只的港口又非常之少。一些专家表示，从短期来看，巴拿马和尼加拉瓜运河同时运营，会导致运载通道过剩而引发价格战。
There are also concerns about the seismic activity in the area, or the many volcanos. Some analysts point to China's poor record on environmental matters and Mr. Wang's inexperience in building anything, let alone a $50 billion (some say $80 billion) canal carving through miles of protected areas that are home to many endangered species, including the jaguar, and legally recognized indigenous lands. The little-known Mr. Wang made his fortune in telecommunications, not in construction.	也有人担心修建运河可能会在这一地区引发地震，或带来更多火山活动。一些分析人士指出，中国在环境保护问题上记录欠佳，王靖在建筑工程方面又没有任何经验，更不用说这是修建一条价值500亿美元（有人说是800亿美元）、会穿越大片保护区的大运河。保护区内生活着包括美洲豹在内的许多濒危物种，在法律上被认为是原住民领地。不太为人所知的王靖之前在电信行业发家，而非建设工程领域。
And then there is the 50-mile trench to be dug on the floor of Lake	况且，该项目还涉及在中美洲地区最大的淡水湖尼加拉瓜湖的湖底，挖掘一

Nicaragua, the largest body of fresh water in Central America — which many fear could end up contaminating, even killing, the lake.	条长 50 英里的渠道。很多人担心这项工程会污染乃至毁掉这个淡水湖。
Economists and human rights activists also object to the powers Mr. Wang has to expropriate land at far less than market rates, saying the terms of Mr. Wang’s concession could discourage anyone else from investing in Nicaragua.	王靖有权以远低于市场价的价格征用土地，对此，经济学家和人权活动人士也表示反对，他们说，此类特许条款会降低其他人在尼加拉瓜投资的积极性。
That aspect has prompted protests from farmers, some of which have turned violent. Experts say Mr. Wang will have to pay only the assessed value, or about 5 percent of the market value, for any lands he takes. But many farmers would not be entitled to even that. In a country that is short of adequate roads and government offices, many do not have formal title to the fields they have cultivated for generations.	这一点已经引发了农民的抗议，其中一些演变成暴力冲突。业内人士称，不论征用哪块土地，王靖只需要按评估价付费——相当于市场价的 5% 左右。但很多农民甚至连这点钱都拿不到。在一个道路和政府办公楼都不够用的国家里，许多人对他们世代耕耘的土地并没有正式的所有权。
Juan Sebastián Chamorro, the general director of the Funides research institute, who has come out against the canal, said the agreement with Mr. Wang, rushed through Parliament and enshrined in the Constitution, effectively made no landowner safe anywhere in the country.	站出来反对运河项目的 Funides 研究所总干事胡安·塞巴斯蒂安·查莫罗 (Juan Sebastián Chamorro) 说，与王靖的协议很快就在国会中获得通过，并被载入了宪法，实际上全国每一个土地所有者都可能受到它的影响。
“In theory, if Mr. Wang wanted to take this building we are sitting in right now for his project, he could,” Mr. Chamorro said, his hand sweeping across his office in downtown Managua, the capital. “Who would want to buy or build here with that possibility hanging over their heads?”	“理论上，如果王靖为了他的项目要立刻征用我们所在的这个栋建筑，那他就能征用，”查莫罗在他位于尼加拉瓜首都马那瓜市中心的办公室里说这话时，用一只手在空中比划了一下。“有这种可能性悬在头顶上，谁还会在这里买地盖楼呢？”
Mr. Chamorro said that the majority of the construction jobs would not go to Nicaraguans and that Panama did not become prosperous until it won control of its canal. That is unlikely to happen here for 100 years,	查莫罗说，大多数施工工作都轮不到尼加拉瓜人来做；并且巴拿马是在取得对自家运河的控制权之后才繁荣起来的。而根据与王靖的协议，尼加拉瓜在 100 年内都不大可能取得运河的控制权，王靖还可以将其出售给第三方。

according to the agreement with Mr. Wang, which he can sell to a third party.
Under the current plan, the canal would begin along a stretch of pristine beach in Brito, then cut through Lake Nicaragua, which, with two volcanoes rising out of it, is one of the country's major tourist destinations. It would reach the Caribbean coast by cutting through the land of the Rama and Kriol people, in areas that are not accessible by road right now.	按照当前的规划，这条运河将从布里托的一片原始沙滩开挖，然后横跨该国最主要的旅游圣地、伫立着两座火山的尼加拉瓜湖。它会穿过拉玛人(Rama)和克里奥尔人(Kriol)地界内一些尚无道路可达的区域，最终抵达加勒比海岸。
But the plan is much broader than just a canal. Mr. Wang's vision includes new airports, new ports on both ends of the canal, new lakes in the mountains to make sure the canal has enough water, and new islands in Lake Nicaragua to dispose of excavated sediment and rock.	但这一规划远远超出了一条运河的范畴。新机场，运河两岸的新港口，为了确保运河水量充足而在山区建的新湖泊，以及为了安置挖掘出来的泥沙和石头而在尼加拉瓜湖建的新岛屿，都在王靖的设想之内。
A 1,100-page study of the project, conducted by the British consulting firm ERM and issued five months ago, reinforced the notion of how much is at stake. It recommended further studies in many areas before going forward and noted that a wide range of mitigation efforts would be needed, like reforestation and job training.	英国的伊尔姆环境资源管理咨询有限公司(ERM)针对该项目做了研究，并在5个月前发布了一份长达1100页的研究报告，着重强调了其中牵涉的利害关系。报告建议，推进该项目之前应在许多领域做更为深入的研究；报告还提到，要采取各种各样的举措，比如人工造林、工作技能培训，来降低项目的负面影响。
Some see hope in those efforts. Jeffrey McCrary, an American fish biologist who lives in Nicaragua and worked on the study, supports the project, saying Mr. Wang's company will have to provide money to clean up environmental damage already caused by deforestation, poor land management, crop fumigation and general dumping into Lake Nicaragua.	一些人对这类举措寄予厚望。居住在尼加拉瓜的美籍鱼类生物学家杰弗里·麦凯瑞(Jeffrey McCrary)曾参与该研究，对这个项目持支持态度。他说，王靖将不得不投入资金，清除因为砍伐森林、土地管理不善、使用农药熏蒸剂以及向尼加拉瓜湖大量倾倒垃圾而对环境造成的危害。
"I've seen that lake, and it is in miserable shape," he said. "Are we going to kill a lot of fish to build the canal? Yeah, we are. But without the	"我去那个湖看过，它的情况非常糟糕，"他说。"我们建运河会导致大量鱼类死亡吗？是的。但要是没有这条运河，我认为我们就完蛋了。" canal, I think we are doomed.”

Kamilo Lara, a member of the Nicaragua Canal Commission, a group appointed by the government to oversee the project, said many critics of the project were political opportunists. Mr. Lara said the canal plan had been adjusted to deal with problem issues, like potential earthquakes, tsunamis and environmental concerns. And people who might be displaced by it, he said, could be moved to small cities with new schools and services they never had before.	尼加拉瓜运河委员会(Nicaragua Canal Commission)是由政府指定的负责运河项目的组织, 该委员会成员卡米洛·拉拉(Kamilo Lara)表示, 许多批评运河项目的人士是政治投机者。拉拉说, 为了应对一些令人担心的议题——譬如可能引发地震、海啸以及环境问题——相关方面已经对运河的规划作了调整。他还说, 受该项目影响而需要搬迁的人, 可以被安置在一些小城市里, 那里有他们以前从未拥有过的新学校和从未享受过的公共服务。
“I have been to China,” he said. “I saw the incredible capital they have to invest.”	“我去过中国,”他说。“我看到他们投入的资金多到令人难以置信。”
In answers to written questions, Pang Kwok Wai, the executive vice president of Mr. Wang’s company, the Hong Kong Nicaragua Canal Development Investment Company, said Mr. Wang was in talks with potential investors and would announce progress “in due form.” He said Mr. Wang had already invested about $500 million of his own money.	王靖的公司——香港尼加拉瓜运河开发投资有限公司——的常务副总裁彭国伟在回复书面提问时表示, 王靖正和潜在投资者谈判, 将以“适当的形式”公布相关进展。他说王靖已经自行投入了大约5亿美元。
Mr. Pang also said the company, though not obligated to do so, would pay market rates for the land it wanted. “We are in Nicaragua to bring progress and play a fair game,” he said.	彭国伟还说, 公司将以市价征用土地, 尽管他们没有义务这样做。“我们在尼加拉瓜要推动进步, 要公平交易,”他说。
In the meantime, speculating about the canal has become a national pastime, though polls show that Nicaraguans grow less inclined to believe that it will be built.	与此同时, 猜测这条运河的命运已经成了尼加拉瓜的全国性消遣活动, 尽管民意调查显示, 尼加拉瓜人不再那么倾向于认为运河能够建成。
“We used to talk about it every day,” said Carlos Fernando Chamorro, the editor of Confidencial, an investigative magazine. “Now we only talk about it every two days.”	“以前我们每天都会谈论它,”以调查性报道为主的杂志《机密》(Confidencial)的编辑卡洛斯·费尔南多·查莫罗(Carlos Fernando Chamorro)说。“现在我们每隔一天才会谈论一次。”
Some still hope it will lift this country out of poverty.	一些人仍然期待, 它能让这个国家脱贫致富。

But in Brito and the nearby city of Rivas, those who expect to be displaced are angry. Teresa de Jesus Henriquez Delgado, 31, is one of the residents who used a stencil to paint "Go Away Chinese!" on the outside of her house.	但在布里托及其附近隶属于里瓦斯省的城市，认为自己会被安置到其他地方的人们十分愤怒。一些居民在自家房子外喷涂了“走开，中国人！”几个大字，31岁的特雷莎·热苏斯·恩里克斯·德尔加多(Teresa de Jesus Henriquez Delgado)就是其中之一。
"I will resist with all of my strength when the bulldozers come to tear down my house," she said. "I will fight until I die. I have to for my children. They can't take this land from my family."	"当推土机来推到我房子的时候，我会尽全力抵抗，"她说。"我会抵抗至死。为了我的孩子我必须这样做。他们不能夺走我们家的地。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160405/c05nicaragua	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160405/c05nicaragua
China Stanches Flow of Money Out of the Country, Data Suggests	中国外汇储备五个月来首次增长
HONG KONG — China rattled markets around the world last year when vast sums of money began flowing out of the country. Estimated at nearly $1 trillion, the money flows represented growing skepticism that China would be able to fix its deep problems and resume its place as a driver of global economic growth.	香港——去年，由于巨额资金开始流出，中国曾让世界各地的股票市场恐慌。估计流出的金额接近1万亿美元，这种流动意味着人们越来越怀疑中国有能力解决其深层次的问题，恢复其作为全球经济增长动力的地位。
Doubts remain about Beijing's ability to rev up slowing growth and patch up its frayed financial system. But new data suggests China has stanchied, at least for now, the flow of money that had been pouring out of the country.	对北京扭转经济增长放缓、修补其分崩离析的金融体系的能力的怀疑仍然存在。但是，新数据表明，至少就目前而言，中国已经止住了资金的大量外流。
Chinese officials said on Thursday that the country's hoard of foreign exchange reserves grew in March for the first time in five months. Those reserves — a $3.21 trillion pot of American dollars, euros, pounds and other currencies that China has accumulated over years of managing the value of its currency — are a rough proxy for money moving in and out of the country.	中国官员周四表示，该国的外汇储备3月份有所增长，这是五个月来的第一次。多年来，中国通过管理其货币的价值，积累了总值为3.21万亿美元的美金、欧元、英镑及其他货币组成的巨额外汇储备，外汇储备是现金进入和流出中国的粗略指标。
The growth signals a reversal from the winter, when worries about	外汇储备的增长意味着冬季的情况出现扭转。上个季度，由于人们对中国经

China's growth and investor bets that the Chinese currency would weaken in value spurred swelling outflows of money, contributing to sell-offs in markets around the world.	济增长的担心，加上投资者押赌中国货币会贬值而引发大量资金外流，导致了全球各地股市出现抛售。
The shift now stems mainly from weakness in the American dollar, but also from China's increasingly aggressive efforts to keep its people from sending money out of the country. Stability in the reserves and even a slight increase in the value of China's currency, the renminbi, against the dollar also indicate a shift in strategy, economists and bankers say, as Chinese officials have more forcefully spoken out about shoring up their country's currency and have taken efforts to help economic growth.	目前，外汇储备从下降转为增长的主要原因来自美元的疲软，但也由于中国阻止人民把钱转移到国外的日益积极的努力。经济学家和银行家说，外汇储备趋稳、以及中国货币人民币兑美元汇率的略微升高，也表明战略有所改变，中国官员在更强有力地谈论支撑本国的货币，也在帮助经济增长方面做了更多的努力。
What remains unclear is whether China will again start hemorrhaging money to the rest of the world if global financial markets deteriorate once more or if skepticism over the Chinese economy intensifies.	目前尚不清楚的是，如果全球金融市场再次恶化，或者人们对中国经济的怀疑加剧的话，中国的资金是否会再次大量外流。
Worries that the renminbi would decline further against the dollar eased in March as the dollar itself weakened against practically every currency, including the renminbi.	由于美元3月份兑几乎所有货币、包括人民币的汇率走弱，人们对人民币相对美元会进一步贬值的担忧有所减轻。
As expectations of a short-term decline in the renminbi faded, Chinese investors mostly stopped rushing to move money out of the country. The People's Bank of China, the central bank, said on Thursday that the country's foreign exchange reserves had climbed $10.3 billion during March.	随着对人民币在短期内贬值的预期消退，中国的投资者大都停止了把资金快速向国外转移的做法。作为央行的中国人民银行中国周四表示，中国的外汇储备3月份增长了103亿美元。
The reserves had declined $28.6 billion in February, $99.5 billion in January and $107.9 billion in December, an outflow that was fed by a gradual devaluation of the renminbi from mid-December through early	中国的外汇储备2月份减少了286亿美元，1月份减少了995亿美元，去年12月减少了1079亿美元，这些下降部分是因为去年12月中旬到今年1月初的人民币的逐步贬值。投资者们将他们的钱移出中国，因为担心否则他

January. Investors were moving their money out of China then for fear that it would otherwise have less buying power in dollars.	们以美元为计的购买力将会降低。
"The capital outflow is very much linked to renminbi depreciation expectations," Shen Jianguang, a China economist at Mizuho Securities, said.	"资本外流与对人民币贬值的预期紧密挂钩，"在瑞穗证券研究中国的经济学家沈建光说。
But the dollar weakened broadly in March as the Federal Reserve signaled that it had little appetite for interest rate increases this year. That made it less attractive for investors to shift their money to the United States. Confidence in China and emerging markets improved.	但随着美联储发出信号表示，它对今年加息的胃口不大，美元在3月份普遍走弱。这就降低了投资者把钱转移到美国的吸引力。对中国以及新兴市场的信心有所改善。
Zhou Xiaochuan, the governor of China's central bank, and other Chinese policy makers helped stabilize the country's reserves by making a series of public statements at the end of February saying that they saw no need for a further fall in the renminbi. They also hinted that China could do more to support flagging economic growth, although at the expense of adding to the country's huge overhang of corporate debt.	中国央行行长周小川及其他政策制定者，通过在2月底发表的一系列公开声明，帮助稳定了中国的外汇储备，他们说，人民币没有持续贬值的基础。他们还暗示，中国可能会在支持疲弱经济的增长上拿出更多的措施，虽然这样做的代价是加重巨额企业债务的负担。
As net outflows of money slowed in March, the total value of the reserves in dollars rose slightly, to $3.21 trillion. That appeared to be because part of the reserves are held in euro-denominated and yen-denominated bonds, and the euro and yen strengthened against the dollar last month.	3月份，由于资金的净流出有所放缓，以美元计的外汇储备总值小幅上涨，达到3.21万亿美元。这看来是因为外汇储备的一部分是以欧元和日元计价的债券，而欧元和日元在上个月相对美元走强。
Without currency valuation effects, the reserves would have fallen $20 billion to $30 billion — still less of a fall than in previous months without the valuation effect, economists estimated.	据经济学家估计，如果没有这种汇率的影响，中国的外汇储备在3月份本会减少200亿至300亿美元，但仍减少的幅度仍比前几个月的小。
Many economists and traders say they believe that China will try to	许多经济学家和交易商说，他们认为，中国会尽量避免人民币的普遍贬值，

prevent a broad fall in the renminbi through early autumn. A weaker renminbi risks making China's currency an election-year issue in the United States. The renminbi is also set on Oct. 1 to join a basket of currencies determined by the International Monetary Fund, a move Beijing is unlikely to imperil.	直到初秋。人民币走弱有让中国货币成为美国选举年所讨论的问题的风险。人民币也于10月1日被纳入国际货币基金组织确定的一篮子货币，北京不大可能会让这件事遭殃。
President Obama and other world leaders are scheduled to gather in early September in Hangzhou, China, for the annual Group of 20 summit meeting.	奥巴马总统以及其他世界领导人定于9月初将在中国杭州聚集，出席20国集团的年度首脑会议。
"Very few people think there will be a significant devaluation before the G-20," said Michael Levi, a China specialist at the Council on Foreign Relations. "They've staked a lot of prestige on the G-20, and I don't think they want it to be a fight over currency."	"很少有人认为（人民币）会在G20峰会之前显著贬值，"美国外交关系委员会的中国问题专家迈克尔·莱维(Michael Levi)说。"他们把很多声望都寄托在G20峰会上，我觉得他们不希望让它成为有关货币战的会议。"
One way that China has stabilized the currency in the past couple of months has been to place large bets in currency markets that the renminbi will stay close to its current exchange rate. Those bets have largely offset big bets by hedge funds that China will allow the renminbi to decline further.	中国在过去几个月里稳定本国货币的一种方法是，在外汇市场上把大赌注押在人民币将基本保持其目前汇率上。这些赌注在很大程度上抵消了对冲基金下的大赌注，它们赌的是中国将允许人民币进一步贬值。
After months of pressure from the International Monetary Fund, China's central bank disclosed that the traded value of its contracts betting on the continued strength of the renminbi was $28.9 billion. By contrast, China had only $2.44 billion worth of contracts effectively betting on renminbi weakness.	在国际货币基金组织几个月的压力之下，中国央行透露了其押注人民币持续走强合约的交易价值为289亿美元。相比之下，中国对人民币走弱的有效投注合同的价值只有24.4亿美元。
The twin questions still facing China involve whether anything could happen before the United States presidential elections in early November to destabilize the renminbi, and whether the overall Chinese	中国仍面临着两个问题，一个是在11月初美国总统选举之前是否会出现动摇人民币价值的情况，另一个是中国整体经济是否会在美国大选时变得足够强大，让中国的家庭和企业想把他们的钱留在国内。

economy will have become strong enough by then for Chinese households and companies to want to keep their money at home.
If the dollar stops weakening in global currency markets before November and starts strengthening again, that would once more make the dollar more attractive to hold than the renminbi. And if China's banking system encounters a sharp rise in defaults on its huge loans to troubled state-owned enterprises, that would also hurt the renminbi.	如果美元在 11 月前停止在全球货币市场上走弱、转为走强的话，那将让持美元、相对持人民币而言再次具有吸引力。如果中国的银行系统因其对处于困境的国有企业的巨额贷款而遇到的违约率急剧上升的话，这也会给人民币带来损伤。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160408/c08db-chinareserves	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160408/c08db-chinareserves
Need to Hide Some Income? You Don't Have to Go to Panama	隐匿资产何必要去巴拿马，美国也是“避税天堂”
For wealthy Americans looking to veil their assets and shield some of their income from taxation, there is no need to go to Panama or any other offshore tax haven. It's easy to establish a shell corporation right here at home.	那些想要隐匿资产或者隐藏部分收入以达到逃税目的的美国有钱人，根本没必要去巴拿马或者其他离岸避税天堂。在美国本土开设壳公司是很容易的。
"In Wyoming, Nevada and Delaware, it's possible to create these shell corporations with virtually no questions asked," said Matthew Gardner, executive director of the Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy, a nonprofit research organization in Washington.	"在怀俄明州、内华达州和特拉华州，都可以开设这类壳公司，几乎不会有人过问，"税收与经济政策研究所(Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy)执行理事马修·加德纳(Matthew Gardner)说。该研究所是华盛顿的一个非盈利研究机构。
In some places, it can be more difficult to get a fishing license than to register a shell company. And it doesn't cost much more.	在某些地方，注册壳公司可能比获得捕捞许可证更容易。而且费用也不会高多少。
The Panama Papers — the cache of leaked documents from a Panama law firm, Mossack Fonseca — have revealed how thousands of the firm's clients, including an array of powerful figures around the world, stashed billions of dollars in tax havens. So far only a tiny number of American names have surfaced (although that could change as more of the documents are reviewed).	从巴拿马律师事务所莫萨克-冯塞卡(Mossack Fonseca)泄露出来的一批秘密文件，即巴拿马文件，已经揭示了该律所数以千计的客户——包括世界各地许多极具影响力的人物——如何把数以十亿美元计的财富藏匿在避税天堂。到目前为止，被曝光的美国人的名字并不多（不过随着人们查阅更多的文件，情况可能发生变化）。

That in no way means that Americans citizens are refraining from such practices, experts emphasized.	专家强调，这并不意味着美国公民与此类做法绝缘。
"This is just one firm in one place," said Gabriel Zucman, an economist and the author of "The Hidden Wealth of Nations: The Scourge of Tax Havens," "So it cannot be representative of what's happening as a whole in the world."	"这只不过是一个地方的一个公司，"著有《列国的隐藏财富：避税天堂之患》(The Hidden Wealth of Nations: The Scourge of Tax Havens)的经济学家加布里埃尔·祖克曼(Gabriel Zucman)说，"因此它不能代表整个世界的现状。"
But Mr. Zucman, who estimates that about 8 percent of the world's financial wealth — more than $7.6 trillion — is hidden in offshore accounts, said another reason was that it is so simple to create anonymous shell companies within the United States.	但祖克曼说，另一个原因是在美国境内开设匿名壳公司非常容易。他估计全世界约有8%的金融财富——超过7.6万亿美元——隐藏在离岸账户之中。
Wealthy individuals and businesses that want to mask their ownership can conveniently do so in the United States, and then stash those assets abroad.	想要隐藏财富的个人和企业，可以很方便地在美国这样做，然后再把那些资产藏匿到海外。
Yet while the United States demands that financial institutions in other countries share information about Americans with accounts overseas, its reciprocation efforts fall short, critics say.	批评人士称，尽管美国要求其他国家的金融机构与其分享关于拥有海外账户的美国人的信息，但它在礼尚往来方面做得还不够。
"You see a ton of wealth in tax havens in Switzerland and the Cayman Islands that is owned by shell companies that are incorporated in Panama or in Delaware," he said. "The bulk of this wealth does not seem to be duly declared on tax returns."	"你看到瑞士和开曼群岛的避税天堂里藏匿的大量财富，持有者都是在巴拿马或者特拉华州注册的壳公司，"他说。"这类财富中的绝大部分似乎并未按照规定进行纳税申报。"
A recent report by the Institute on Taxation and Economic Policy called "Delaware: An Onshore Tax Haven" noted that the state's lack of transparency combined with an enticing loophole in its tax code "makes it a magnet for people looking to create anonymous shell companies, which individuals and corporations can use to evade an	税收与经济政策研究所最近发布了一份报告，名为《特拉华州：在岸避税天堂》(Delaware: An Onshore Tax Haven)。报告称，特拉华州缺乏透明度，再加上该州税法中存在诱人的漏洞，"使得它成为了一块磁石，深深吸引着想要开设匿名壳公司的人，个人和企业可以利用这些壳公司逃掉应在美国和海外缴纳的税金，其数额难以估量。" inestimable amount in federal and foreign taxes.”

Delaware allows companies to shift royalties and similar revenues where they actually do business to holding companies in Delaware, where they are not taxed.	特拉华州允许企业将专利使用费及类似的收入从实际经营地转移到它们在该州的控股公司，而且不要求它们就这部分收入纳税。
Heather A. Lowe, the legal counsel and director of government affairs for Global Financial Integrity, a research and advocacy group in Washington, warned that the problem was much more widespread than just a handful of states.	华盛顿的研究及倡导团体全球金融诚信组织(Global Financial Integrity)的法律顾问兼政府事务负责人希瑟·洛(Heather Lowe)警告说，这一问题广泛存在，远远超出了几个州的范畴。
“You can create anonymous companies anywhere in the United States,” Ms. Lowe said. “The reason people know about Delaware, Nevada and Wyoming is because these states market themselves internationally.”	“你在美国的任何地方都可以开设匿名公司，”洛说。“人们之所以知道特拉华州、内华达州和怀俄明州，是因为这些州在国际上进行自我推销。”
Although individuals and businesses can have legitimate reasons to want to screen their holdings — for privacy or to prevent competitors from discovering investment plans — several experts said cloaking wrongdoing was a more common purpose.	尽管想要隐匿财富的个人和企业可能有合法的理由——为了保护隐私或者防止竞争对手发觉自己的投资计划——但一些专家称，掩盖不法行为才是常见的目的。
Aside from avoiding taxes, shell companies are routinely used by terrorist organizations to hide assets, by political donors to sidestep campaign finance laws and by criminals to launder money, Mr. Gardner said.	加德纳说，除了避税，壳公司还常常被恐怖分子组织用来隐匿资产，被政治捐款人用来避开竞选财务法，被罪犯用来洗钱。
The Treasury Department indicated this week that it planned to require financial institutions to verify the identities of customers who set up accounts in the names of shell companies, thus closing a loophole in the American banking system that thwarts transparency efforts.	财政部在本周表示，他们计划要求金融机构核实那些以壳公司的名义开设账户的客户身份，以填补美国银行系统中妨碍透明度的漏洞。
The Treasury also recently began a program that tracks people who use shell companies to purchase expensive real estate in New York and	财政部同样在最近开启了一个项目，以追踪那些使用壳公司去购买位于纽约和迈阿密的昂贵房产的人群。

Miami.
But the new rules would not affect state law.	但是新的规定并不会影响到各州法规。
John A. Cassara, a former special agent for the Treasury Department, said that American and foreign law enforcement officials conducting investigations were regularly stymied by state secrecy laws surrounding shell corporations.	约翰·A·卡萨拉(John A. Cassara)曾是财政部的特工。他说, 美国和其他外国的执法官员在进行调查的过程中, 常常会受到围绕在壳公司周围的保密法规的阻碍。
"If somebody is conducting an investigation and it comes back to a Delaware company and you want to find who or what is behind that company, you basically strike out," he said. "It doesn't matter if it's the F.B.I., at the federal level, state or local. Even the Department of Justice can't get the information. There is nothing you can do."	"如果有人在进行一项调查, 找到了一家特拉华的公司, 从而想找出这家公司背后的人或者组织, 你基本上就走进死胡同了," 他说。"无论调查的一方是不是 FBI, 无论是联邦级别、州级还是地方级, 都无济于事。甚至连司法部都无法获取那些信息。你什么都做不了。"
"Why incorporate in Nevada?" the state's website advertised in 2007. "Minimal reporting and disclosing requirements. Stockholders are not public record."	"为什么在内华达州组成公司?" 该州的网站在 2007 年这样宣传道。"因为这里有最低限度的申报和信息披露要求。没有股东的公开记录。"
Mossack Fonseca, the Panama law firm, set up offices in Nevada and Wyoming.	巴拿马律师事务所莫萨克-冯塞卡(Mossack Fonseca)就在内华达州和怀俄明州成立了办事处。
After revelations came to light about Americans using Swiss bank accounts to evade taxes, the United States in 2010 passed the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act, which requires financial firms in other countries to disclose details about American clients with offshore accounts.	在美国人使用瑞士银行账户进行逃税的行为被披露后, 美国在 2010 年通过了《海外账户纳税法案》(Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act), 该法案要求外国的金融企业披露设立了离岸账户的美国客户的相关细节。
Yet the United States is one of the few countries that has refused to sign new international standards for exchanging similar financial information with other countries.	为数不多的国家拒绝签署与其他国家交换类似的金融信息的新国际标准, 美国是其中之一。
Another country that has failed to sign the standards? Panama.	还有哪一个国家同样拒绝了签署新的标准? 巴拿马。

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160408/c08shell	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160408/c08shell
How a Tariff on Chinese Imports Would Ripple Through American Life	如果特朗普真的向中国加收关税
Donald Trump has proposed a 45 percent tariff on imports from China, on the theory that this would protect American jobs and promote American business.	唐纳德·特朗普(Donald Trump)建议对来自中国的进口产品收取 45%的关税，理由是有助于保住美国的工作机会，促进美国商业发展。
What's more likely, though, is that the new tariffs would set off a cascade of global economic consequences, mostly negative.	然而，更有可能发生的情况是，这一新关税标准会带来一系列大多为负面的全球性经济影响。
Trade between China and the United States — which reached $598 billion in 2015 — has generated large economic benefits for Americans. Manufacturing many goods in China, whether sneakers or smartphones, has kept their prices lower than they would be if made here. That's been a boon to American consumers, especially those with less money.	中美贸易的规模 2015 年已达 5980 亿美元，为美国人带来了巨大的经济利好。不管是运动鞋还是智能手机，企业将很多商品拿到中国生产，使其售价比在美国生产更低。这对美国消费者来说是种福利，尤其是对手上钱比较少的消费者而言。
But more and more, economists are also recognizing a downside to free trade. Competition from China and other low-wage emerging economies has severely hurt some American workers. One study figures that the United States lost at least two million jobs between 1999 and 2011 because of Chinese imports. To many people, Mr. Trump's solution may seem to make sense: Restrict those imports, save jobs and support American business.	不过，经济学家们也日渐认识到自由贸易的负面影响。来自中国等低人工成本的新兴经济体的竞争，严重影响了一些美国劳动者的生计。据一项研究统计，因中国进口商品影响，美国在 1999 至 2011 年间至少损失了 200 万个就业机会。在不少人看来，特朗普提出的解决之道似乎有道理：限制这些进口产品，保住工作机会，支持美国企业。
But if there were a 45 percent tariff on Chinese goods, at least part of that would probably be passed onto consumers in the form of higher prices. Americans would end up buying fewer Chinese things, and fewer things from anywhere else.	不过，如果对中国商品收取 45%的关税，其中至少有部分会通过更高的物价转嫁到消费者身上。结果是，美国人会购买更少的中国商品，同时也购买更少的其他商品。
Shrinking sales of Chinese products would generally hurt American	中国产品销售萎缩，会在整体上给美国企业和劳动者带来伤害。打着“中国

businesses and workers. A product labeled “Made in China” is not necessarily 100 percent Chinese, since many goods are assembled in China with parts from the United States and elsewhere. Sluggish purchases of these so-called Chinese products would reduce the sales of their American components, too.	制造“标签的商品不见得都是中国的，因为也有许多产品是用来自美国和其他国家的零部件在中国组装而成。所谓的“中国产品”销售疲软，也会减少美国零部件的销售。
For this reason and others, quite a lot of the money spent on Chinese goods actually ends up in the wallets of Americans. A study by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco figured that 55 cents of every $1 spent by an American shopper on a “Made in China” product goes to the Americans selling, transporting and marketing that product. Suppressing Chinese imports would harm shopkeepers and truck drivers.	正是由于这样的原因，花在中国商品上的大量资金最后实际上是进了美国人的腰包。旧金山联邦储备银行(Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco)的一项研究发现，美国消费者在“中国制造”的商品上花费的每一美元，都有 55% 落到了销售、运输和为这种产品做推广的美国人手中。限制中国进口商品，将会损害美国店主和卡车司机的利益。
In fact, making Chinese-made goods more expensive would ripple through American shopping malls. An extra $20 for, say, children’s clothing from China is $20 not spent on a new baseball glove for a child, or a birthday gift for a grandmother. A tariff on China would dent the sales of all kinds of products, even those made in the United States.	事实上，中国制造的商品价格上涨带来的影响，还会波及美国各大购物中心。比如，为一件来自中国的童装多花 20 美元，可能会导致一个美国家庭为孩子少买一副新的棒球手套，或为祖母少买一件生日礼物。对中国增收关税，会影响各种产品的销售，包括在美国生产的那些。
It seems likely that such a tariff would burden American consumers while doing little to create jobs for them. Gary Clyde Hufbauer and Sean Lowry at the Peterson Institute for International Economics, studying the impact of a 35 percent tariff imposed on Chinese tire imports by Washington in 2009, found that American consumers had to spend an extra $1.1 billion on tires, while the tariff protected no more than 1,200 jobs. About $900,000 for every job saved, in other words.	而且这项关税在给美国消费者带来负担的同时，似乎也不会对创造工作机会产生太大助益。针对华盛顿在 2009 年对中国轮胎产品收取 35% 关税这一决策所产生的影响，彼得森国际经济研究所(Peterson Institute for International Economics)的加里·克莱德·赫夫鲍尔(Gary Clyde Hufbauer)和肖恩·劳里(Sean Lowry)曾做过一项研究，结果发现美国消费者不得不为此在购买轮胎上多花 11 亿美元，与此同时这项关税却只保住了不超过 1200 个工作岗位。换句话说，我们为这每个工作岗位付出的代价大约为 90 万美元。

A big tariff would also harm China. Depressing its exports to the United States would deal another blow to an economy already enduring its worst slowdown in 25 years. In the longer term, increasing the cost of doing business in China would probably prompt manufacturers of basic consumer items to consider moving out of China.	收取高额关税也会损害中国的利益。抑制中国对美出口，会让一个本就遭遇 25 年来最严重的增速放缓的经济体雪上加霜。从长远看，在中国做生意的成本增加，可能会促使基本消费品的生产商考虑将生产线撤离中国。
That process is already underway. As the Chinese economy has advanced, wages of its workers have risen. A recent survey by the Japan External Trade Organization found that a Chinese factory worker earns $424 a month — the highest salary in developing Asia. That has caused many companies producing labor-intensive goods, like clothing or electronics, to shift factories from China to other countries or to diversify their sources of supply to keep costs down.	这个过程已经开始了。随着中国经济水平提高，劳动者工资也不断上涨。日本贸易振兴机构(Japan External Trade Organization)最近的一项调查显示，中国工厂员工的人均工资达到了每月 424 美元（约合 2740 元人民币），在亚洲的发展中国家里是最高的。这导致生产服装、电子元件等劳动密集型产品的企业，将工厂从中国转到了其他国家，或使其供货来源多样化，以继续保持低廉的生产成本。
Though higher costs in China might prompt some companies to move production back to the United States, a more plausible destination would be other emerging economies with lower costs. A factory worker earns, on average, $230 a month in India, $185 in Vietnam and $100 in Bangladesh, according to the Japanese survey.	尽管中国的生产成本增加，有可能会促使一些企业将其生产环节移回美国，但它们还有一个更合理的选择，即将生产转移到成本更低的其他新兴国家。上述日本机构的调查数据显示，印度工厂员工的平均工资是每月 230 美元，越南是 185 美元，在孟加拉国则是 100 美元。
Foxconn, the Taiwan-based company that assembles iPhones in China for Apple, announced last year that it would build as many as 12 new factories in India. That means your next smartphone or pair of bluejeans would more likely be made in Mumbai than in Minneapolis.	富士康是一家台湾企业，在中国大陆为苹果公司组装 iPhone。该公司去年宣布将在印度新建至多 12 座工厂。这意味着你的下一部智能手机或者下一条牛仔裤很有可能不是在明尼阿波利斯生产的，而是在孟买。
And the Chinese government's response would probably be tariffs of its own on American goods and services rather than lowering barriers for American companies doing business in China. It moved quickly to retaliate for the tariff on Chinese tires with punitive duties on American	中国政府的反应很可能不是降低美国公司在中国开展业务的障碍，而是对美国商品和服务征收关税。中国轮胎被征收的时候，它就迅速采取行动，对美国产品征收惩罚性关税。由于中国逐渐成为很多美国企业——无论是苹果、星巴克，还是波音——的关键市场，中国政府采取的任何削弱它们在中国的

products. Because the Chinese market has become critical for many American companies – whether Apple, Starbucks or Boeing – any steps taken by the Chinese government to curtail their ability to operate in China would be bad news for them.	运营能力的措施，对它们而言都是坏消息。
Mr. Trump’s tariff proposal addresses a real and legitimate concern about the effect of competition from low-wage countries on American workers. But that doesn’t mean it’s going to solve the problem – and it could create even more.	低工资国家确实给美国劳动者带来了竞争压力，特朗普关税提议针对的这个关注点是真实的、正当的。但是，这并不意味着这项建议可以解决问题——它反而有可能带来更多问题。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160408/c08up-trumptrade	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160408/c08up-trumptrade
HNA Group of China Offers to Buy Gategroup for $1.5 Billion	海航拟斥资 95 亿元收购瑞士航空服务商
LONDON – Gategroup Holding said on Monday that HNA Group of China had offered to buy the Swiss provider of catering and logistics services to airlines for 1.4 billion Swiss francs, or about $1.5 billion.	伦敦——瑞士航空配餐及服务供应商 Gategroup Holding 周一表示，中国的海航集团提出以 14 亿瑞士法郎（约合 95 亿元人民币）的价格收购该公司。
The transaction would expand HNA’s presence in the global aviation services industry.	该交易将扩大海航集团在全球航空服务业中的实力。
HNA, which is privately held and began as an airline in 1993, operates in a variety of industries, including aviation, infrastructure and real estate, financial services and tourism. HNA is the owner of Hainan Airlines. A shipping unit of HNA agreed to acquire technology distributor Ingram Micro for $6 billion in February.	海航集团属于民营企业，1993 年成立时是一家航空公司，如今在多个行业开展业务，包括航空、基础设施和房地产、金融服务及旅游业。海航集团是海南航空的母公司。今年 2 月，海航集团旗下的运输部门同意以 60 亿美元的价格收购技术分销商英迈(Ingram Micro)。
Under the terms of the offer, HNA would pay 53 francs a share for Gategroup, representing a 20 percent premium to its closing price on Friday. Shareholders would also receive a previously proposed dividend of .30 francs a share for the financial year ended Dec. 31.	根据收购要约，海航集团收购 Gategroup 的价格是每股 53 瑞士法郎，较该公司上周五收盘价溢价 20%。股东还将获得之前提出的分红每股 0.30 瑞士法郎，这是 12 月 31 日截止的财政年度的分红。
“The offer reflects the fair and adequate value and quality built by	“这个收购要约公平而充分地体现了 Gategroup 打造的价值和质量，”该公司

Gategroup," Andreas Schmid, the Gategroup chairman, said in a news release. "It makes strategic sense that our company will become part of HNA, one of the leading providers of airport and aviation services worldwide."	董事长安德烈亚斯·施密德(Andreas Schmid)在一份新闻稿中说。“我们的公司将成为海航集团的一部分，这具有战略意义。海航集团是全球机场和航空服务业中一个领军的供应商。”
Gategroup's board of directors unanimously recommended that shareholders accept the HNA offer.	Gategroup 的董事会一致建议股东接受海航集团的收购要约。
The offer is contingent on shareholders' agreeing to sell at least 67 percent of the company's shares, as well as on regulator approval.	这宗交易能否达成，取决于股东是否同意出售该公司股份的至少 67%，以及监管部门是否批准。
Should the deal be completed, HNA intends to delist Gategroup's shares from the SIX Swiss Exchange in Zurich and operate it as a portfolio company within HNA.	从海航集团的意向来看，交易完成之后，Gategroup 将从苏黎世的瑞士证券交易所(SIX Swiss Exchange)退市，作为海航集团旗下的一家公司经营。
Gategroup would remain independently managed and would retain its headquarters in Zurich, the company said.	Gategroup 表示，该公司将保持独立运作，并将保留其位于苏黎世的总部。
Credit Suisse and the law firm Homburger advised Gategroup, while UBS and the law firm Bär & Karrer advised HNA.	此次交易中，瑞士信贷(Credit Suisse)和 Homburger 律所代表 Gategroup，瑞银(UBS)和 Bär & Karrer 律所代表海航集团。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160412/c12db-gategroup	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160412/c12db-gategroup
China's Growing Ardor for Overseas Shopping	华尔街读不懂的中国海外收购狂潮
Nelson Peltz sat on the board of Legg Mason, the $3.7 billion asset management company, for five years while his hedge fund, Trian Partners, scooped up 10 percent of the company's stock.	纳尔逊·佩尔茨(Nelson Peltz)在管理着 37 亿美元的资产管理公司美盛集团(Legg Mason)董事会里待了五年，同时他的对冲基金特里安合伙人(Trian Partners)拿到该公司 10%的股份。
Mr. Peltz shook things up as he always does. He ousted the chief executive and got Legg to cut costs and return billions of dollars to shareholders. When it came time to exit the investment, Mr. Peltz sold his shares to the Shanda Group.	佩尔茨一如既往地进行了大刀阔斧的改革。他罢免了首席执行官，让美盛削减了成本，给股东带来了数十亿美元的汇报。到撤出投资时，佩尔茨把自己的股份卖给了盛大集团。
Wait, what? You heard right. Shanda is a Chinese investment company	等等，什么？你没听错。盛大是中国的一家投资公司，靠互动游戏起家，但

that started out as an interactive-gaming company but now “seeks global opportunities that offer business growth or unique breakthrough potential.” On Tuesday, it spent $340 million to buy Mr. Peltz’s stake in Legg, which got its start selling stocks out of a back office in the Baltimore Stock Exchange in 1899.	现在“寻求全球能带来业务增长或独特突破潜力的机会”。周二，该公司出资3.4亿美元收购了佩尔茨所持有的美盛股份。成立于1899年的美盛，最初是在巴尔的摩股票交易所(Baltimore Stock Exchange)的交易后台卖股票起家的。
The logic of this deal is hard to follow – not least because Shanda paid a premium to the market price for the Legg shares, something that almost nobody ever does for a passive minority stake. Yet such situations are hardly unique at a moment when Chinese companies and investors are going wild for assets of pretty much any color or stripe in the world’s developed economies.	这笔交易的逻辑有些难懂，尤其是因为盛大集团给美盛股份的开价高出了市场价。对于不会为购买者带来主动权的少数股份，几乎从来没人这么做过。但眼下中国公司和投资者正在狂热追逐全球发达经济体中几乎一切类型的资产，这类情形也算不上独特。
Indeed, the Chinese ardor for overseas shopping has become so fervent that there’s a new mantra making the rounds of Wall Street bankers who have an asset to sell anywhere in the world: “Who’s the Chinese buyer we’ve never heard of?”	实际上，中国海外收购的热情如此高涨，以至于但凡有待售资产的华尔街银行家都在流传一句新的口头禅：“我们从未听说过的这位中国买家是谁？”
The biggest advisory companies like Morgan Stanley and Goldman Sachs routinely fly China specialists across the ocean when they pitch companies for the mandate to help sell a business.	摩根士丹利(Morgan Stanley)和高盛(Goldman Sachs)等首屈一指的咨询公司隔三差五就要让其中国专家飞赴大洋彼岸，把委托它们协助出售的企业介绍给那里的公司。
The surge in Chinese buyers, many of them unknown in the West – sometimes even in Hong Kong – requires a new level of due diligence and heightened vigilance, from banks, lawyers and accountants. As the curious case of Anbang Insurance’s aborted – and inexplicable from the start – $14 billion bid for Starwood Hotels suggests, it’s harder for investment banks to really understand their Chinese clients’ motivations.	中国买家的激增，对银行、律师和会计师的尽职调查和警惕性提出了更高要求，很多买家在西方——有时候甚至是在香港——都不出名。正如安邦保险140亿美元收购喜达屋酒店(Starwood Hotels)的交易——从一开始就有些莫名其妙——离奇夭折一事所表明的那样，要了解中国客户的真正动机，对投行来说就更是困难了。

The examples cross nearly every industry and region. Though head-scratchers abound, not all of them are as hard to fathom as Shanda's Legg investment. Some reflect the overarching ambitions of Chinese Communist Party leaders. Some, like Alibaba's purchase of Hong Kong's South China Morning Post, look like vanity plays. Others just take a creative stretch of industrial logic to justify. Underpinning them all seems to be a lack of confidence about prospects in the People's Republic.	这类案例几乎遍及各个行业和地区。令人费解的例子比比皆是，但并不是所有的都像盛大投资美盛这样。一些案例反映了中共领导人的宏伟野心。一些看着像是追求虚荣，如阿里巴巴收购香港的《南华早报》(South China Morning Post)。其他一些就需要通过对行业逻辑进行创造性的延伸来解释了。所有这些交易的基础，似乎都是对中国国内的前景缺乏信心。
The China National Chemical Corporation's $43 billion takeover of the agrochemicals giant Syngenta falls squarely into the first category. The state-owned enterprise was set up by the country's former Ministry of Chemical Industry. Its chairman, Ren Jianxin, undoubtedly has a red phone linking his desk to the Communist Party's top brass in Beijing.	中国化工集团公司 430 亿美元收购农业化学品巨头先正达(Syngenta)的交易，完全符合第一类。国有企业中国化工集团公司由原化学工业部创办。该公司董事长任建新的办公桌上，无疑有一部可以与北京的中共高层通话的红色电话。
The Syngenta deal looks like it is intended to satisfy China's goals to bolster food production in the world's largest agricultural market. Syngenta's chemicals and patent-protected seeds are a strategic asset for a nation that has a population of 1.4 billion. This deal, China's biggest foreign acquisition, is a relatively logical pairing.	先正达这笔交易，看起来是想实现中国在全世界最大的农业市场推动食品生产的目标。对人口 14 亿的中国来说，先正达生产的化学品和受专利保护的种子是一种战略资产。作为中国规模最大的一笔海外收购案，这笔交易的买卖配对相对来说符合逻辑。
The same cannot be said of Shandong Ruyi's surprise $1.2 billion purchase last month of SMCP, the operator of the second-tier European fashion chains Sandro, Maje and Claudie Pierlot. It's hard to argue, as Shandong Ruyi does on its website, that "being involved in rabbit-hair spinning, textile & clothing, cotton textile, cotton printing and dyeing, knitting, fiber, jeans and real estate" has made it a "well-known textile-related pluralism group." Still, kudos to the enterprising banker	但对上月山东如意出人意料地出资 12 亿美元收购 SMCP 一事，就不能这么说了。SMCP 旗下拥有欧洲二线服装连锁品牌 Sandro、Maje 和 Claudie Pierlot。山东如意在其网站上称，“兔毛纺纱、纺织制衣、棉纺、棉印染、针织、纤维、牛仔布和房地产领域的业务”让其成为了一家“著名的纺织相关多元化集团”，这让人很难争辩什么。但还是要钦佩那位富有进取心的银行家，他竟会把 SMCP 所有人科尔伯格-克拉维斯-罗伯茨(Kohlberg Kravis Roberts)出售这家法国零售商的意向告知该公司。 who alerted the firm to the willingness of the owner, Kohlberg Kravis Roberts, to part with the French retailer.

At least Shandong Ruyi has a website. In the auction of Dah Sing Financial's insurance business, more than two dozen suitors showed up for the first round of bids, half of them from the mainland, and some so obscure that bankers involved in the process had never heard of them.	至少山东如意有自己的网站。在大新金融(Dah Sing Financial)的保险业务拍卖会上,二十多家有意向的公司发出了第一轮要约,一半来自中国大陆,其中一些太过籍籍无名,以至参与这个过程的银行业人士从未听说过它们。
That's not unusual. When the private equity firm EQT was selling a German company that generates energy from waste matter, eight interested parties from the mainland showed up. And unlike banks or insurers interested in Dah Sing, they weren't highly regulated entities. In the end, the business sold for 1.43 billion euros to Beijing Enterprises Holding, a conglomerate listed in Hong Kong with three business lines: gas, beer and sewage treatment.	这并不罕见。当私募股权公司殷拓(EQT)要出售一家利用废弃物发电的德国公司时,中国大陆有八位有意向的买家。而且不同于对大新感兴趣的银行或保险公司,它们并非高度受监管的实体。最后,那家公司被以14.3亿欧元的价格卖给了北京控股,一家香港上市公司,旗下有天然气、啤酒和污水处理三条业务线。
China's lunge for foreign assets has hit $92 billion so far this year, according to Thomson Reuters, nearly reaching last year's $103 billion record with eight and a half months to spare.	从汤森路透(Thomson Reuters)的数据来看,今年以来中国收购外国资产的资金已达920亿美元,接近去年创纪录的1030亿美元。而这一年还剩下八个半月。
At that pace, it won't be long before Mandarin solidly displaces money as the language of opportunity on Wall Street.	照这个速度,普通话不久便会彻底取代金钱,成为华尔街最能带来机会的语言了。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160415/c15db-chinaviews	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160415/c15db-chinaviews
As China's Growth Slows, Banks Feel the Strain of Bad Debt	中国屡现企业违约,银行业面临坏账困局
HONG KONG — For Chinese banks, the decision to lend to companies like Bohai Steel was for years a no-brainer. Lenders took heart from its state backing, which appeared as solid as the millions of tons of steel pipes that rolled off its production lines each year.	香港——对中国的银行而言,给渤海钢铁集团之类的企业提供贷款,在过去多年里一直是不太需要过脑子的决策。出借方从政府对这家企业的支持中获得鼓励,后者看起来就像每年从其生产线上产出的数百万吨钢管一样稳固。
That ironclad image is now tarnished. Plunging demand and a	如今,这种稳如磐石的形象开始动摇。市场需求大跌,加之生产过剩持续恶

worsening glut in production capacity have left Bohai Steel struggling to repay as much as $30 billion in debt. Worried creditors — more than 100 of them — are locked in negotiations with the company and local officials.	化，使得渤海钢铁难以偿还其高达 300 亿美元的欠款。感到担忧的债主们——共有 100 多家——陷入与该企业和当地官员的一轮轮谈判之中。
China's bad loans are on the rise, as companies that borrowed heavily in headier times struggle against a slowing Chinese economy. Underscoring the slowdown, China said on Friday that growth in the first three months of this year fell to 6.7 percent, a seven-year low. Growth might have been even slower, had China not revved up lending during the quarter — a solution that could add to debt problems later on.	随着繁华年代大举借债的企业在中国经济放缓的背景下陷入困境，中国的不良贷款规模日渐增长。更加突显这种放缓态势的是，中国在周五宣布，该国今年一季度的经济增长率跌至 6.7%，为七年来的最低点。如果中国没有在该季度加大贷款力度，这个数字可能还会更低，但上述策略可能会为中国后续应对债务问题带来更大困难。
The stakes are high for banks and for the Communist Party, which ultimately controls wide swaths of China's economy.	对于中国的银行和最终掌控着中国经济众多领域的中国共产党而言，个中风险颇高。
China's total local currency loans have more than tripled since the start of 2009, to 98.6 trillion renminbi, or about $15 trillion, at the end of March, according to official Chinese figures from CEIC, a data provider. That is equal to 144 percent of China's gross domestic product in the 12 months to the end of March — relatively high for China's level of development, and still rising. In January, Goldman Sachs said other countries that experienced similar debt run-ups faced either financial crises or prolonged slowdowns.	数据机构 CEIC 提供的中国官方统计显示，截止今年 3 月底，中国的地方债整体规模达到 98.6 万亿元人民币，相比于 2009 年初增加了两倍。这个规模相当于截止 3 月底的中国全年国内生产总值的 144%。该数据相对于中国的发展水平略高，而且还在攀升。今年 1 月，高盛(Goldman Sachs)曾表示，经历过类似债务高企问题的其他国家，要么出现了金融危机，要么陷入长期的经济迟滞。
Defaults tend not to pose a risk to individual Chinese banks because the government is perceived as standing behind them. But a chain of defaults could lead to a pullback in lending that could crimp China's economic output, said Anne Stevenson-Yang, a co-founder of J Capital	贷款违约不太会对中国的各家银行本身造成威胁，因为外界普遍认为中国政府会在后面支持它们。然而，美奇金投资咨询公司(J Capital Research)的联合创始人杨思安(Anne Stevenson-Yang)表示，一连串的违约则可能导致贷款紧缩，由此影响中国的经济产出。

Research.
“Companies that default are not individually all that important,” she said. “But if you allow them to default categorically, then you are sending a message that this-and-that type of debt can default, and people stop lending.”	“拖欠贷款的企业并非每个都很重要，”她说。“但如果你无条件地允许它们违约，就相当于在释放这样一个信号：各类贷款可以不予偿还。那么银行和机构就会停止发放贷款。”
Profit growth at China’s biggest state-owned banks stalled in the first three months of the years as bad loans mounted. Bad loans as a share of their total portfolio remains low, at less than 2.5 percent, but economists believe the figure understates the problem because banks often extend the payment dates for problem debt.	随着坏账增加，中国最大的几家国有银行的利润增长在今年一季度陷入停滞。不良贷款在银行整体资产组合中的比例依然不高，低于 2.5%，但经济学家认为，这个数字并没有反映出这一问题的严重性，因为银行往往会为问题贷款展期。
Bohai Steel has not disclosed details of its debt, and it is unclear which banks might be affected. But it regularly did business with China’s biggest state-run banks, as well as local and regional banking groups also tied to the state.	渤海钢铁没有披露与其债务有关的具体信息，目前尚不清楚有哪些银行会因之受到影响。但与该公司经常有业务往来的包括中国最大的多家国有银行，以及与政府存在关联的几家地方和区域性银行集团。
Since the beginning of this year, company executives have lobbied for more support from banks, as slowing growth and a property slump have reduced China’s demand for steel. In January it met with officials from China Bohai Bank, a lender that like Bohai Steel counts the city of Tianjin as a major shareholder. At the meeting, according to a statement from Bohai Steel, Yan Zesheng, general manager of Bohai Steel Group, said he hoped the bank would “continue to offer robust financial support” to the company.	随着经济增长放缓和楼市低迷导致钢铁需求下降，渤海钢铁的高管们自今年初以来一直在游说各大银行为之提供更多支持。今年 1 月，他们曾与渤海银行的高管会面。就像渤海钢铁一样，这家银行也将天津市政府列为自己的一个大股东。渤海钢铁的一份公告显示，在这次会议上，集团总经理严泽生表示，他希望渤海银行能“继续为渤钢集团提供强有力的金融支撑”。
Over the years, the company stressed its ties to lenders including the Bank of China, Industrial Bank and Citic Bank, among others, according to statements on its website. In 2013, the company said, it received a	渤海钢铁官网上的多份公告显示，过去许多年里，这家企业一直强调它与包括中国银行、兴业银行和中信银行在内的出借方的关系。2013 年，公司曾表示，它从中国银行获得总额 300 亿元的综合授信额度。著名财经媒体财

roughly $4.6 billion line of credit from Bank of China. A recent article in Caixin, a respected Chinese financial news outlet, said Bohai Steel's 105 creditors included at least three local banks in Tianjin and Beijing that were each owed more than 10 billion renminbi.	新网在最近的一篇报道中表示，渤海钢铁有 105 位债权人，其中至少有三家天津和北京地方银行，平均每家发放了上百亿人民币。
One of those lenders identified by Caixin, the Bank of Tianjin, raised nearly $1 billion in a Hong Kong public offering last month. The bank's listing document did not mention Bohai Steel but said that nonperforming corporate loans — or loans that had gone sour — rose 46 percent between the end of 2014 and September of 2015, the most recent data available. It cited the Chinese economy and problems in the steel industry.	财新网确认的其中一个出借方是天津银行。它上个月在香港首次公开募股，刚刚融得将近 10 亿美元资金。这家银行的上市文件中没有提到渤海钢铁，但表示未能履约的企业贷款，或者说坏账，在 2014 年底至 2015 年 9 月期间上涨了 46%。这是目前能找到的有关这项指标的最新数字。文中将中国经济和钢铁行业出现的问题列为出现这一增长的原因。
Neither Bohai Steel nor the banks responded to requests for comment.	渤海钢铁和上述几家银行没有回应本报的置评请求。
Xu Zhongbo, a professor of metallurgy at the University of Science and Technology in Beijing, described the situation at Bohai Steel as one where "the banks are now hijacked by the company, and it will take magic to bring the company back."	北京科技大学冶金学教授许中波将渤海钢铁的情况描述为“银行被公司绑架”的一个例子，并表示“公司打死也救不活。”
"Economically, it's really hard to get the company back to life, but politically the government needs to support it," Mr. Xu added.	“从经济上说，很难救活公司，但是政治上政府肯定得支持它，”许中波还说。
Other recent examples of corporate defaults in China offer, perhaps, less room for confidence.	对于中国新近出现的其他企业违约案例而言，情况可能更加不乐观。
Dongbei Special Steel Group, based in the northeastern port city of Dalian, has defaulted on its bonds multiple times since its chairman, Yang Hua, was found hanged in his home last month.	为中国铁道部提供建设物资的供应商中铁物资集团是陷入债务困境的首批中央直属企业之一。该公司本月暂停了其价值逾 20 亿美元的债券交易，还表示将寻求债务重组。
China Railway Materials, a supplier of construction materials to the railroad industry, became one of the first companies that is directly	经济学家们表示，对中国的银行系统而言，接下来几个月势必会面临更多贷款违约、企业破产和其他债务问题。“过去几年的低违约率看起来太美妙了，

owned by the central government to run into debt trouble. The company suspended trading this month on more than $2 billion worth of bonds and said it would seek to restructure its debt.	或许并不真实，“瑞士银行(UBS)亚洲经济研究团队负责人之一王涛说。“考虑中国的经济环境，出现这种抬升才是正常的。”
For China’s banking system, the coming months are almost certain to bring more defaults, bankruptcies and other debt problems, according to economists. “The low default rates that we have seen in recent years are perhaps too good to be true,” said Tao Wang, the co-head of Asia Economics at UBS. “The rise is natural considering the economic circumstances,” Ms. Wang said.	渤海钢铁集团的情况也证明，中国规模巨大的企业债已经超出了传统银行贷款的范畴。
The Bohai Steel case also demonstrates how China’s mountains of corporate debt extend beyond just traditional bank loans.	该集团主要的子公司天津钢铁集团还曾试图从普通投资者那里融资。
One of the company’s main subsidiaries, Tianjin Steel, also sought to raise money from ordinary investors.	一些信托产品宣传资料显示，天津钢铁集团曾经希望通过此类投资项目融资至多 1 亿美元。信托融资是难以获取贷款的企业经常采取的融资方式，这类产品监管不太严格，也难以追踪信息。
Tianjin Steel sought to raise as much as $100 million in investments known in China as trust products, according to a review of the marketing materials for those investments. Trust products, which are often used by industries that have a hard time getting funding, are lightly regulated and difficult to track.	代表天津钢铁集团发行过此类融资产品的国民信托公司承认，这些产品有一部分出现了问题。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160417/c17db-chinaecon	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160417/c17db-chinaecon
Trade Case to Target U.S. Imports of Raw Aluminum	中国铝出口激增，美国工会请愿要求提高关税
HONG KONG — An American labor union plans to push the United States to impose broad, steep tariffs on aluminum imports using a little-used but wide-ranging trade law that has riled the country’s trading partners in the past.	香港——一个美国劳工工会计划援引某条鲜少使用，但管制范围十分广泛的贸易法规，以促使美国政府对进口铝全面开征高额关税。这条法规在过去曾令美国的贸易伙伴十分恼怒。

The effort by the United Steelworkers union comes with trade increasingly an election-year issue in the United States and elsewhere. More than three-quarters of the United States aluminum smelting industry that existed five years ago will have been idled or shut down permanently by this summer as imports have surged, according to the union's legal petition.	伴随着美国钢铁工人联合会(United Steelworkers union)的这种做法，贸易已日益成为了美国和世界其他地区的选举年话题。根据该工会提交的法律请愿书所述，因为铝进口量激增的缘故，五年前还在美国国内运转的炼铝相关产业中，有超过四分之三将在今年夏季或之前遭到闲置或永久关闭。
The union blames China's rising exports, though if successful its effort would also affect American imports from Canada and many other countries.	虽然该工会指控的是中国有增无减的铝出口量，要是他们的请愿成功的话，也会影响到加拿大与其他许多国家对美国的铝出口。
The union and its law firm said that they plan on Monday to file the petition, which covers raw aluminum imports, with an American trade panel. The petition invokes Section 201 of the 1974 Trade Act. The section was last invoked by President George W. Bush in 2001 to start a legal process that led to American tariffs on steel imports the following year.	该工会与其委任律师事务所表示，他们计划在周一向美国一个贸易审查委员会递交这份涵盖了进口铝等事宜的请愿书。该请愿书援引的是 1974 年的《美国贸易法》(1974 Trade Act)的第 201 条。这项条款上回被引用是在 2001 年、美国总统乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)为了在翌年对进口钢铁加收关税，而要推动法律程序的时候。
A Section 201 case covers essentially all imports of a product from all over the world. That makes it more controversial than anti-subsidy and anti-dumping cases against imports from a single country. The European Union objected to President Bush's use of Section 201, which resulted in American tariffs on a wide range of steel products, until the administration dropped them in late 2003.	基本上，201 条款的管制范围可涵盖某产品自世界各地的所有进口，使得该条款比针对单一国家进口产品的反补贴或反倾销案更具争议。欧盟就曾反对布什总统引用 201 条款；此举使美国得以对大量钢铁产品课税，直到美国政府在 2003 年底取消这些关税为止。
But Section 201 cases are also harder to win. They require proof that a domestic industry has been "seriously injured" by imports, a harder test than the mere proof of "injury" from imports that is required for other trade cases.	不过，援引 201 条款的贸易案也更难过关。请愿方必须证明某国内产业持续遭到同类型进口产品的“严重伤害”，此一标准比仅需证明产业受到进口产品“伤害”的其他案件来得更为严苛。

Terence P. Stewart, the managing partner of the law firm Stewart and Stewart and the lead lawyer on the aluminum case, contended that raw aluminum could meet the test. "The domestic industry is disappearing before our eyes," he said. "Quick relief and addressing the underlying imbalance between global supply and demand are essential if we are going to have any industry left."	斯图尔特与斯图尔特律师事务所(Stewart and Stewart)的执行合伙人泰伦斯·斯图尔特(Terence P. Stewart)是该请愿案的主要律师,他声称铝进口能够符合该条款所要求的标准。“本土的炼铝业正在大家眼前消失,”斯图尔特表示。“如果我们还想让任何炼铝业者存活下去,尽快解除进口压力、着手处理背后的全球供需失衡问题是当务之急。”
The union also argues that aluminum is important to national defense because it is widely used in military equipment.	该工会也辩称,炼铝业对国防至关重要,因为铝金属是军事装备广泛使用的原材料。
Section 201 cases are reviewed by the United States International Trade Commission, a bipartisan, quasi-judicial group of trade experts in Washington. The commission then makes a recommendation to the president within two to six months, who makes the final decision on whether to impose tariffs. The law allows government officials, industries or unions to file claims.	第 201 条款案由华盛顿特区的美国国际贸易委员会(United States International Trade Commission)负责审理,这是由贸易专家组成、不分党派的准司法团体。该委员会会在受理案件后二到六个月内对美国总统提出建言,总统再就是否加征关税做最后决定。依照美国法律规定,政府官员、产业代表或工会都能对该委员会提出申请。
Presidents have almost always followed the commission's advice, although President Carter turned down a recommendation for tariffs on stainless steel flatware in 1978 and President George H.W. Bush rejected a recommendation for tariffs on extruded rubber threads in 1992. The Office of the United States Trade Representative declined to comment on the union's contentions.	历任美国总统几乎都会听从美国国际贸易委员会的建言,不过卡特总统曾在 1978 年拒绝了该委员会对不锈钢餐具加征关税的建议;乔治·H·W·布什总统(President George H.W. Bush)则在 1992 年拒绝了对橡胶线加征关税的建议。美国贸易代表办公室(The Office of the United States Trade Representative)拒绝对该工会的主张发表评论。
China, which already produces more than half the world's aluminum, is expanding capacity even as its economy decelerates. The result has been a surge in exports and falling prices for aluminum.	中国已出产全球一半以上的铝材;虽然该国经济增长正在放缓,目前仍在继续扩张铝工业的产能。此举的后果就是铝出口量大幅上升、价格下滑。
Chinese exports of aluminum jumped more than 27 percent in the past two years, Chinese customs figures show.	中国海关的数据显示,中国的铝材出口量在过去两年间激增了 27%。

A spokesman for the government-affiliated China Aluminum Association, who gave his family name as Zeng, said aluminum's increasing use in high-speed railway equipment, aerospace and electronics justified China's expanding production capacity and rising exports.	政府附属机构中国铝业协会的曾姓发言人表示，高铁装备、航空及电子领域的铝材使用量日益增加，是中国产能扩大、出口激增的原因所在。
Smelters in Canada and elsewhere, having been displaced in their traditional international markets, have stepped up shipments of raw aluminum to the United States. American imports of raw aluminum from Canada, the biggest supplier, jumped 10 percent by tonnage last year, United States customs data shows.	加拿大等地的冶炼厂在其传统的国际市场中已经被取而代之，于是加紧向美国出口原铝。美国海关的数据显示，去年，美国从原铝最大供应方加拿大处进口的原铝吨数增长了10%。
Other factors are influencing the aluminum trade. Alcoa, the main aluminum smelting company in the United States, has announced the closing of a series of smelting operations in the United States while relying more on production in Canada, Iceland and Saudi Arabia, as part of what it describes as an effort to improve overall efficiency. In a statement it said, "Alcoa has a long history of cooperation with the U.S. government. We haven't seen the petition and look forward to reviewing it."	其他一些因素也在影响铝材贸易。美国最主要的炼铝企业美铝公司(Alcoa)已经宣布关闭美国境内的一系列冶炼厂，同时更加倚重加拿大、冰岛和沙特阿拉伯的产出，并称这是竭力提高总体效率之举。该公司在一份声明中表示，“美铝公司与美国政府长期保持合作。我们尚未看到那份请愿书，希望有机会仔细研究它。”
Exports to the United States are an important source of employment in China, and Chinese officials have been increasingly concerned about Donald J. Trump's populist appeals for a tougher trade policy, including a steep tariff on goods from China. Finance minister Lou Jiwei of China told The Wall Street Journal during a visit to Washington in the past week that imposing such a tariff would violate World Trade Organization rules.	在中国，产品销往美国的出口企业是就业岗位的重要来源之一，该国官员对唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)的民粹主义诉求——包括大幅度提高中国商品的进口关税——忧惧日增。中国财政部长楼继伟曾在上周到访华盛顿期间告诉《华尔街日报》(The Wall Street Journal)，这样大幅提高关税是违反世界贸易组织(WTO)规则的。

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160419/c19trade	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160419/c19trade
Chinese Consortium Reaches Deal to Buy Lexmark	中国财团 36 亿美元收购美国打印机公司
HONG KONG — Lexmark, the printing and software company, agreed Wednesday to be sold to a consortium led by Apex Technology of China and PAG Asia Capital, a private equity firm, for $3.6 billion, including debt.	香港——打印技术与软件公司利盟(Lexmark)周三达成协议，以 36 亿美元的价格（包含债务），将公司出售给一个由中国的艾派克科技和私募公司太盟投资集团(PAG Asia Capital)牵头的财团。
Lexmark had been looking into strategic alternatives for a while. The consortium buying it, which also includes Legend Capital Management, a venture capital firm, will pay $40.50 a share in an all-cash transaction. Lexmark said the deal represented a 30 percent premium to its closing price on Oct. 21, when it became known that the company was looking into its options.	利盟考虑战略性选择已经有一段时间。收购它的财团包括风投公司联想投资管理。收购将以全现金方式进行，报价每股 40.50 美元。利盟表示，该价格比去年 10 月 21 日的收盘价溢价 30%，该公司在这一天 宣布正在考虑各种选择。
Lexmark said the deal would allow it to expand in Asia.	利盟表示，这项交易将帮助其在亚洲扩张。
"With the Consortium's resources, we will be able to continue to invest in and grow the business to more fully penetrate the Asia Pacific market for hardware, software and managed print services," Paul Rooke, Lexmark's chairman and chief executive, said in a news release.	"有了该财团的资源，我们就能够持续投入，发展业务，对亚太硬件、软件和打印管理服务市场进行更加全面的渗透，"利盟董事长兼首席执行官保罗·鲁克(Paul Rooke)在新闻稿中表示。
Jackson Wang, the chairman of Apex, added that the two businesses were likely to be complementary, as Apex manufactures parts for ink cartridges. "Apex has traditionally been successful in emerging markets and in cost-effective production," Mr. Wang said in a news release. "We are excited to work alongside Lexmark as they continue to invest in advanced technologies and solutions to best serve their customers and business partners, while simultaneously pursuing untapped opportunities in emerging markets particularly in Asia for future	艾派克董事长汪东颖(Jackson Wang)称，两家公司很可能会产生互补效应，因为艾派克是墨盒部件生产商。"艾派克在新兴市场、在经济高效的生产上一直表现出色，"汪东颖在另一份新闻稿中表示。"我们很高兴与利盟合作，他们将继续开发先进的技术和解决方案，更好地为他们的客户和业务合作伙伴服务，同时也在新兴市场，特别是亚洲市场，开发潜在机会，促进未来发展。"

growth.”
Lexmark said that it intended to keep its company headquarters in Lexington, Ky., and that Mr. Rooke would remain in his current role. Shares rose about 11 percent in after-hours trading.	利盟表示，公司打算保留肯塔基州列克星敦的总部，鲁克也将继续担任目前的职位。利盟股价在盘后交易中飙升 11%。
The deal continues a stream of prolific deal making among Chinese companies, including the sale of the technology distributor Ingram Micro for $6 billion to Tianjin Tianhai, a Chinese shipping group. Some deals, like the attempts to buy Fairchild Semiconductor and Starwood Hotels, have fallen apart, but China has still been racking up acquisitions. Outbound deals from China were worth $92.2 billion in the first quarter of this year, compared with $106 billion in the first quarter of 2015, according to Dealogic.	这桩交易延续了中国公司大肆并购境外公司的势头，比如来自中国的航运集团天津天海斥资 60 亿美元收购技术分销商英迈(Ingram Micro)。一些交易尝试未能成功，比如收购仙童半导体公司(Fairchild Semiconductor)和喜达屋(Starwood Hotels)，但中国的境外并购势头仍在持续。Dealogic 的数据显示，今年第一季度，中国境外并购交易总值达 922 亿美元，而 2015 年全年的数据为 1060 亿美元。
Lexmark’s board has approved the transaction, but it is still subject to shareholder and regulatory approval from agencies including the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States. The deal is expected to close in the second half of 2016.	利盟董事会已批准交易，但仍然需要通过股东及美国外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States)等监管机构。该交易预计将在 2016 年下半年完成。
Moelis & Company acted as financial adviser for the consortium, while Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom acted as legal counsel. Lexmark was advised by Goldman Sachs and Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz.	在这宗交易中，该财团的财务顾问是美驰公司(Moelis & Company)，法律顾问为世达律师事务所(Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom)。利盟的顾问则是高盛(Goldman Sachs)和 Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz 律师事务所。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160421/c21db-lexmark	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160421/c21db-lexmark
Union Drops Effort to Restrict U.S. Imports of Raw Aluminum	美国工会撤回限制铝进口请愿行动
HONG KONG — The United Steelworkers union has suspended indefinitely an unusual effort to push the United States government to restrict all aluminum imports after the campaign ran into opposition from aluminum companies, the Canadian government and even	香港——美国钢铁工人联合会(United Steelworkers)之前开展行动，推动美国政府限制所有铝材进口，但在遭到铝业公司、加拿大政府和甚至该工会的加拿大成员的反对之后，他们无限期暂停了这项不同寻常的行动。

Canadian members of the union.
The union on Friday withdrew its petition to an American trade panel, which was filed the preceding Monday, after an aluminum industry group agreed to work with the union to address its main concern: Chinese aluminum production overcapacity and exports. "The Aluminum Association shares many of the concerns expressed by the United Steelworkers regarding Chinese aluminum overproduction," the group said in a statement. "Overcapacity must be addressed to maintain a vibrant and healthy North American aluminum industry."	上周五，联合会撤回了上周一向美国一个国际贸易委员会提交的请愿书，在此之前，一个铝业行会同意与联合会合作，解决他们关切的主要问题：中国的铝产能过剩以及铝材出口。“对于中国的铝产能过剩，铝业协会(The Aluminum Association)与美国钢铁工人联合会有很多共同的关切，”该组织在声明中说。“必须应对产能过剩的问题，以维护北美铝业的活力和健康。”
The statement provided no specifics, saying only that, "The industry supports ongoing efforts by the U.S. and Chinese governments to address this critical issue."	这份声明不涉及任何细节，只表示，“美国和中国政府正在努力解决这一关键问题，行业对此表示支持”。
China's aluminum exports have surged as the country's economy slows. Those exports have displaced Canadian exports in some international markets, triggering an increase in Canadian shipments to the United States, where they now account for two-thirds of all American imports of raw aluminum.	就在中国经济放缓之际，该国的铝材出口量猛增。这些出口取代了加拿大在某些国际市场的出口，导致加拿大对美国的出货量增加，目前美国三分之二的原铝进口来自加拿大。
At the same time, American companies including Alcoa have also been expanding in countries including Canada, Iceland and Saudi Arabia while closing less efficient operations in the United States.	同时，美国铝业(Alcoa)等美国公司也在加拿大、冰岛和沙特阿拉伯等国家进行扩张，同时关停了美国境内效率较低的业务。
The union tried to address the issue by invoking Section 201 of the 1974 Trade Act — an obscure trade law not employed since 2001, when President George W. Bush used it to restrict steel imports. That nearly set off a trade war with the European Union. In a Section 201 case, American industries or unions facing serious injury from imports may	美国钢铁工人联合会试图援引 1974 年《贸易法》(Trade Act)第 201 条来处理这个问题——这项不太起眼的贸易法上一次动用是在 2001 年，当时的总统乔治·W·布什(George W. Bush)用它来限制钢铁进口，结果几乎掀起了与欧盟的贸易战。第 201 条规定，美国产业或者工会如果面临着进口带来的严重冲击，可以寻求对全球进口设置全面的关税，而不是针对具体某国。 seek broad tariffs on imports from around the world rather than from a particular country.

The union's petition triggered a strong reaction from government officials and workers in Canada, especially in the province of Quebec. That was awkward for the United Steelworkers, which represents workers across North America.	联合会的请愿书引发了加拿大政府官员和工人的强烈反响,尤其是在魁北克省。这对美国钢铁工人联合会来说有些尴尬,因为它代表着全北美的工人。
Although it withdrew the petition, the union said on Friday: "We believe the Section 201 case would have resulted in immediate price increases that would have helped to maintain domestic production and employment as well as ensuring that producers in the United States and Canada would be able to obtain a fairer price for their products."	虽然撤回了请愿书,联合会上周五仍然表示:"我们相信第 201 条案会立竿见影地促使价格上涨,有助于维护国内生产和就业,确保美国和加拿大生产商的产品获得更公平的价格。"
Section 201 cases are handled initially by the United States International Trade Commission, a bipartisan panel of trade experts in Washington. But the final decision is made by the president, who decides whether to follow recommendations from the commission. Cases that involve substantial imports from Canada or Mexico are sometimes slightly harder for American industries and unions to win because they are covered by the North American Free Trade Agreement.	涉及第 201 条的案件的初步处理由美国国际贸易委员会(United States International Trade Commission)开展;它是一个代表两党的小组,由华盛顿的贸易专家组成。但最终决定权在总统,他会对委员会的建议做出权衡。如果案件涉及从加拿大或墨西哥的大量进口,美国的行业和工会要获胜就会稍微艰难一些,因为那属于北美自由贸易协定(North American Free Trade Agreement)涵盖的范围。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160425/c25trade	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160425/c25trade
Where Jobs Are Squeezed by Chinese Trade, Voters Seek Extremes	来自中国的贸易冲击让美国选民左右转
COURTLAND, Ala. — In this forlorn Southern town whose once-humming factories were battered in recent years by a flood of Asian imports, Rhonda Hughes, 43, is a fervent supporter of Donald Trump. Her 72-year old mother is equally passionate about Senator Bernie Sanders.	阿拉巴马州考特兰——这是一个荒凉的南方小镇,近年来,由于产自亚洲的进口商品大量涌入,镇上原本喧嚣忙碌的工厂受到了重创。43岁的小镇居民朗达·休斯(Rhonda Hughes)是唐纳德·特朗普(Donald Trump)的狂热支持者。她72岁的母亲则对参议员伯尼·桑德斯(Senator Bernie)抱有同样的热忱。

Disenchantment with the political mainstream is no surprise. But research to be unveiled this week by four leading academic economists suggests that the damage to manufacturing jobs from a sharp acceleration in globalization since the turn of the century has contributed heavily to the nation's bitter political divide.	对政治主流感到幻灭并不令人意外。但即将由四位著名学院派经济学家在本周揭晓的研究结果显示，美国之所以出现严重的政治割裂，在很大程度上是因为 20 世纪末、21 世纪初以来明显加快的全球化进程让制造业的工作岗位出现锐减。
Ms. Hughes avoids discussing the election with her mother, but their neighbor Benjamin Green, 83, knows just what Washington needs. "It'll take a junkyard dog to straighten this country out," he said.	休斯总是避免和她母亲讨论大选话题，但她们 83 岁的邻居本杰明·格林 (Benjamin Green) 完全知道华盛顿需要什么。“只有一个凶悍的家伙才能理顺这个国家，”他说。
Cross-referencing congressional voting records and district-by-district patterns of job losses and other economic trends between 2002 and 2010, the researchers found that areas hardest hit by trade shocks were much more likely to move to the far right or the far left politically.	通过交叉参照 2002 至 2010 年间的国会表决记录、不同地区工作岗位减少的情况以及其他经济趋势，研究人员发现，受贸易冲击影响最大的那些地方，更容易在政治上走向极右或极左。
"It's not about incumbents changing their positions," said David Autor, an influential scholar of labor economics and trade at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and one of the paper's authors. "It's about the replacement of moderates with more ideological successors."	"这无关乎在任者改变立场，"麻省理工学院(Massachusetts Institute of Technology)劳动经济学和贸易领域的知名学者、时报撰稿人大卫·奥特尔 (David Autor) 说，"而是关乎意识形态上更激进的继任者取代温和派。"
Mr. Autor added: "In retrospect, whether it's Trump or Sanders, we should have seen it coming. The China shock isn't the sole factor, but it is something of a missing link."	奥特尔还说："回想起来，我们本应看到，不论特朗普抑或桑德斯的崛起，都是这种趋势的必然结果。'中国的冲击'并非唯一因素，但却是一个被忽略的环节。"
In addition to Mr. Autor, the research was conducted by David Dorn of the University of Zurich; Gordon Hanson, a professor at the University of California, San Diego; and Kaveh Majlesi of Lund University in Sweden.	除了奥特尔，从事这项研究的还有苏黎世大学(University of Zurich)的大卫·多恩(David Dorn)，加州大学圣地亚哥分校(University of California, San Diego)的教授戈登·汉森(Gordon Hanson)以及瑞典隆德大学(Lund University)的卡韦赫·马勒西(Kaveh Majlesi)。
"Exposure to import competition is bad for centrists," Mr. Hanson said.	"受到进口竞争的冲击，对中间派非常不利，"汉森说。"我们已经知道政治两

"We've known that political polarization and income inequality track each other, but that pattern is simply a correlation. We've now found a mechanism for how economic changes create further political divisions."	级分化和收入不平等之间是有关联的，但那仅仅是相关而已。现在我们发现了经济变迁令政治分歧进一步扩大的机制。”
Parker Griffith experienced the move away from the political middle firsthand.	帕克·格里菲斯(Parker Griffith)对于政治中间派被人抛弃有着切身体会。
A so-called Blue Dog Democrat who represented Courtland and the rest of Alabama's Fifth Congressional District, he switched to the Republicans in 2009 and metamorphosed into a moderate Republican. But that wasn't enough to save his seat.	格里菲斯原本是代表考特兰镇所在的阿拉巴马州第五国会选区的一名蓝狗民主党人(Blue Dog Democrat)。他在 2009 年转投共和党阵营，变成了温和派共和党人。但这并不足以保住他的席位。
Dr. Griffith was beaten in the Republican primary in 2010 by Morris J. Brooks Jr., who has emerged as one of the most right-wing members of Congress.	在 2010 年的共和党初选中，格里菲斯败给了小莫里斯·J·布鲁克斯(Morris J. Brooks)，后者加入了最右派的国会议员的行列。
"If you're under economic stress and you can't provide for your family, the easiest answer is to find someone to blame," said Dr. Griffith. "Mexicans, illegal immigrants, Obama."	“如果你面临着经济压力，无法养活家人，最简单的办法就是归罪于他人，”格里菲斯说，“比如墨西哥人、菲律宾人、奥巴马。”
Representative Brooks has said that he would consider "anything short of shooting" illegal immigrants to get them out of the country and that he favored imposing heavy tariffs on China to "level the playing field" and punish Beijing for what he sees as currency manipulation.	国会议员布鲁克斯曾经说过，为了把非法移民赶出美国，他会考虑“除了朝他们开枪之外的任何办法”；他还支持提高中国商品的进口关税，以便“培育公平的竞争环境”，并对在他看来正在进行货币操纵的北京方面予以惩戒。
In the case of the Fifth District, which includes Huntsville and its space-and defense-related industries, as well as more industrial Florence along the Tennessee River, the move has been to the right.	就阿拉巴马州第五国会选区而言，政治风向已经进一步向右转了。该选区涵盖了田纳西河(Tennessee River)河畔拥有航天及国防相关产业的亨茨维尔市，以及更像工业城市的佛罗伦斯。
But Mr. Autor and his colleagues found that in districts with heavy minority representation, similar shocks can push more Democratic	但奥特尔及其同事发现，在少数族裔聚居的地方，同样的冲击会推动民主党占优的选区走向相反的方向。他们的研究结论是：贸易冲击来袭，受到重创

districts in the opposite direction. While whites hit hard by trade tend to move right, nonwhite voters move left, eroding support for moderates in both parties, the study concluded.	的白人选民会向右转，非白人选民则会向左转，两党的中间派支持率都会下降。
As the South industrialized in the second half of the 20th century, poor Alabamians who once toiled on farms were able to secure a toehold in the middle class. In the shadow of Tennessee Valley Authority dams that supplied cheap power, thousands of workers sewed jeans and T-shirts, and could earn upward of $20 an hour in heavily unionized factories.	20 世纪下半叶，随着南方地区逐渐变得工业化，原本在农场里辛勤劳作的贫穷的阿拉巴马人得以勉强跻身中产阶级之列。在由田纳西河谷管理局 (Tennessee Valley Authority) 修建、可以提供廉价电力的那些水坝的帮助下，成千上万工人在工厂里缝制着牛仔裤和 T 恤衫，在工会组织强大的工厂里，他们可以赚到最高达 20 美元的时薪。
But the collapse of the apparel industry here in the first decade of the 21st century, following China's entry into the World Trade Organization in 2001, reversed that process.	但自从 2001 年中国加入世贸组织 (World Trade Organization, 简称 WTO) 以后，这里的服装行业在 21 世纪的第一个十年里走向崩溃，前述进程也就出现了逆转。
Nearly 10,000 manufacturing jobs disappeared. At 7.4 percent, the regional unemployment rate is well below its peak of 12.8 percent in 2010, but remains far above the national average of 5 percent.	将近 1 万个制造业工作岗位消失了。该地区当前的失业率是 7.4%，远低于 2010 年 12.8% 的峰值，但仍大大高于 5% 的全国平均水平。
The new paper underscores a broader rethinking among economists of the costs and benefits of policies aimed at encouraging industrial competition across borders.	这一新研究所凸显的是，经济学家们就旨在鼓励国家间工业竞争的那些政策的成本和收益展开了更广泛的反思。
"There's a deeper appreciation for the magnitude of the impact on workers who lose their jobs," Mr. Hanson said. "But the nature of globalization changed after the end of the Cold War and it took a while for academics to catch up."	"针对失业工人所受冲击的程度有了更深的理解，" 汉森说。"不过冷战结束后，全球化的本质有所变化，学术界花了一些时间才跟上这种变化。"
Until the Nafta agreement with Canada and Mexico in 1994, and especially the entry of China into the W.T.O., trade deals were mostly multilateral and the rise in manufacturing imports to the United States	直到美国在 1994 年与加拿大、墨西哥签署北美自由贸易协定 (Nafta)，尤其是中国在 2001 年加入 WTO 以前，贸易协定大多是多边的，美国的制造业产品进口量上升，主要是因为从德国、日本等发达工业国家进口了更多产品。

came primarily from other advanced industrial nations like Germany and Japan.
"China and the W.T.O. represented a shock that was way larger," Mr. Autor said. "We hadn't seen shocks like this because we were trading with rich countries, not highly productive developing countries with enormous labor reserves."	"中国和 WTO 代表了一种严重得多的冲击,"奥特尔说。"那以前我们没见过这样的冲击, 因为我们的贸易伙伴一直是富国, 而非劳动力资源极其丰富、生产率很高的发展中国家。"
To understand the connection between imports from China and political polarization, the researchers focused on the fact that manufacturers tend to localize in a specific region.	为了弄清从中国进口的商品与政治两极分化之间的关系, 研究人员把关注点放在了一些制造商倾向于在某一特定地区深入发展这个特点上。
"There are these concentrated pockets of hurt," Mr. Autor said, "and we're seeing the political consequences of that."	"这就造成了一些地区遭受的伤害尤其严重,"奥特尔说, "我们正目睹它的政治后果。"
Mr. Autor and Mr. Hanson emphasize that trade is only one factor among many that have contributed to a polarizing Congress (income inequality is another, as are attitudes toward immigrants). But it has been an important one, particularly over the last decade, when Chinese imports ramped up.	奥特尔和汉森强调, 贸易冲击只是让国会的两极分化愈演愈烈的多个因素之一(其他因素包括收入不平等、对移民的看法等)。但它是非常重要的因素, 在过去十年里尤为如此——其间来自中国的进口商品数量出现激增。
This trade-induced polarization has had a significant effect on the overall ideological makeup of Congress.	这种由贸易引发的两极分化, 已经对国会的整体意识形态构成产生了重大影响。
The authors found that voters in congressional districts hardest hit by Chinese imports tended to choose more ideologically extreme lawmakers.	这项研究的几位发起人发现, 受来自中国的进口商品冲击最严重的那些国会选区的选民, 倾向于选择意识形态更为极端的立法者。
Between 2002 and 2010, districts in the top 5th percentile of trade exposure, on average, experienced a 19 percent greater drop in manufacturing employment relative to districts at the other end of the spectrum. Those hard-hit districts became, on average, far more	2002 至 2010 年间, 所受贸易冲击程度排在前 5% 的地区, 制造业工作岗位减少量比排在后 5% 的地区平均高出 19%。总体而言, 那些受到严重冲击的地区比以前保守得多: 在意识形态上相当从马克·鲁比奥(Marco Rubio)变成特德·科鲁兹(Ted Cruz)

conservative: the ideological equivalent of moving from Marco Rubio to Ted Cruz.
Some very conservative members of Congress have been sympathetic to free trade arguments in the past, but Representative Brooks, who has welcomed support from the Tea Party, doesn't mince words about where he stands.	一些极为保守的国会议员过去一直赞成自由贸易理论，但对来自茶党(Tea Party)的支持表示欢迎的布鲁克斯并不讳言自己的立场。
"We're going to have to do whatever is necessary to ensure that a foreign country isn't able to successfully attack and destroy significant parts of the economy," he said. "I was in China two weeks ago and they are going to clean our plow if we don't act."	"我们必须采取一切必要举措来保证其他国家无法成功地伤害或摧毁美国经济的重要组成部分，"他说。"两周前我去过中国，如果我们不采取行动，他们就会把我们打翻在地。"
Mr. Autor, like most economists, is still persuaded of the long-established benefits that global trade confers on the economy as a whole. But he recognizes that angry voters have valid reasons to be frustrated.	和大多数经济学家一样，奥特尔仍然相信，整体而言全球贸易将为美国经济带来早就获得确认的益处。但他意识到，愤怒的选民完全有理由不快。
"It's a matter of diffuse benefits and concentrated costs, but our political system hasn't addressed those costs," he said.	"问题在于收益是分散的，成本是集成的，但我们的政治体系尚未着手处理与这些成本有关的问题，"他说。
Some staunch defenders of globalization, like Gary Clyde Hufbauer, a senior fellow at the Peter G. Peterson Institute for International Economics in Washington, also acknowledge that the federal government has failed to adequately address the needs of workers dislocated by lowered import barriers.	彼得森国际经济研究所(Peterson Institute for International Economics)高级研究员加里·克莱德·赫夫鲍尔(Gary Clyde Hufbauer)等全球化的坚定捍卫者也承认，联邦政府没能满足因为进口壁垒降低而失业的那些工人的需求。
But the benefit of free trade is "10 times the size of the losses," he said. "Free trade really helps working-class people in terms of lower prices for products. The benefits are skewed toward people with lower income because they spend a much larger fraction of their income on	但自由贸易的收益是"损失的10倍"，他说。"自由贸易让产品的价格降低了，就这一点而言，它真的帮到了工薪阶层的人。收入较低的人获得的好处更多一些，因为他们会把更大比例的收入花在购买商品上。" merchandise.”

Perhaps, but that’s cold comfort to people in northern Alabama, where wages are stagnant and manufacturing jobs are still disappearing.	或许吧。但这种话安慰不了生活在阿拉巴马州北部的人，那里的工资水平停滞不前，制造业工作岗位仍然在减少。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160426/c26trade	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160426/c26trade
Fed Keeps Rates Steady and Says Labor Market Is Improving	国内经济增长放缓，美联储宣布不加息
WASHINGTON — The Federal Reserve left its benchmark interest rate unchanged Wednesday even as it said that labor market conditions were improving and inflation had picked up.	华盛顿——周三，尽管美联储(Federal Reserve)称劳动力市场正在改善、通货膨胀有所加强，但该机构仍决定保持基准利率不变。
As expected, the Fed held steady on interest rates after a two-day meeting of its policymaking committee, noting that domestic economic growth had slowed. But the central bank appears on course to increase rates later this year.	不出所料，在其政策制定委员会举行了一场为期两天的会议后，美联储决定保持利率不变，并指出美国国内经济增长出现了减缓现象。不过，作为美国央行，美联储似乎准备在今年晚些时候加息。
“Labor market conditions have improved further even as growth in economic activity appears to have slowed,” the Federal Open Market Committee said in its statement after the meeting.	“尽管经济活力的增加看来有所放缓，但劳动力市场的情况有了进一步的改善，”联邦公开市场委员会(Federal Open Market Committee)在会后的声明中称。
When the Fed raised its benchmark interest rate in December, for the first time since the financial crisis, it said it was beginning a march toward higher rates. But the central bank has yet to take a second step.	去年12月，美联储在本轮金融危机后首次提高基准利率。当时，美联储表示自己开始走上加息的道路。但迄今为止，该机构尚未迈出第二步。
The April meeting represents the Fed’s third consecutive decision to stay put. The benchmark rate remains in a range of 0.25 percent to 0.5 percent, and borrowing costs for businesses and consumers have barely climbed.	今年4月的会议代表着美联储连续第三次决定保持利率不变。基准利率仍保持在0.25%到0.5%的区间，企业和消费者借贷的成本几乎未有增加。
This time, the Fed pointed to several areas of weakness in the domestic economy. It said household spending had “moderated,” and business investment and export activity remained “soft.”	这一次，美联储指出了美国国内经济的几个薄弱环节，称家庭支出“逐渐平淡”，企业投资和出口活跃程度依然“疲软”。

But those sour notes were tempered. The Fed noted that household income continued to rise and that consumer sentiment remained positive. Housing construction is increasing and, most important, the statement underlined continued strength of job creation.	不过，这些不良信号均遭淡化。美联储指出，家庭收入持续上涨，消费者情绪保持积极。住宅建设正在增加，而且最重要的是，声明强调了创造就业的强劲势头。
"A range of recent indicators, including strong job gains, points to additional strengthening of the labor market," the statement said.	"最近的一系列指标，包括就业岗位增长势头强劲，证明劳动力市场进一步增强，"声明中称。
The statement also suggested that the Fed's concerns about global economic weakness had diminished. The Fed's last statement, in March, described global conditions as a headwind for domestic growth. The April statement said merely that the Fed continued to monitor global economic and financial developments.	文中还表明，美联储对全球经济疲软的担忧有所减少。美联储在3月发表的上一份声明称，全球的状况不利于美国的增长。而4月的声明仅表示，美联储会继续观察全球经济和金融发展。
The statement also said that "inflation picked up in recent months," although it noted that inflation remained below the Fed's 2 percent annual target, and inflation expectations remained weak.	声明还称，"最近几个月，通货膨胀的情况有好转迹象"，但也指出通胀率依然低于美联储制订的2%年度目标，且通胀预期持续走低。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160428/c28fed	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160428/c28fed
Vijay Mallya, Indian 'King of Good Times,' Dethroned by Debt	坏账泥潭中，印度"寻欢之王"变成欠债大王
NEW DELHI — Three months before he left India with $1.4 billion in unpaid bills hanging over his head, the man who called himself the King of Good Times gave a party for himself.	新德里——这个自称是"寻欢之王"(King of Good Times)的男人离开了印度，名下挂着14亿美元未付的账单；在动身的三个月之前，他给自己举办了一个派对。
Vijay Mallya, a beer-and-airline magnate who publishes a swimsuit calendar and cavorts with celebrities, invited the pop singer Enrique Iglesias, the Bollywood star Sonu Nigam and some top Indian business figures to his villa in the coastal Indian state of Goa to celebrate his 60th birthday.	维贾伊·马尔雅(Vijay Mallya)是啤酒和航空业大亨，一本泳装日历的出版人，常与名人寻欢作乐。他邀请流行歌手恩里克·伊格莱西亚斯(Enrique Iglesias)、宝莱坞明星索努·尼加(Sonu Nigam)以及一些印度商界名流前往他在果阿邦海岸的别墅，一起庆祝他的60岁生日。
"My biggest assets are my friends," he told the revelers, according to a	"我最大的资产就是我的朋友，"据当地媒体报道，他告诉狂欢者说，"他们今

local media report, "and they are all here tonight."	晚都在这里。”
The party — for Mr. Mallya and for the rest of corporate India — is now over. Banks in India and elsewhere are pressing Mr. Mallya to get their money back. Authorities accuse him of money laundering, bribing bank officials, defaulting on loans and other misdeeds.	派对现在已经结束。无论是对马尔雅，还是其他印度企业，都是如此。印度以及其他地方的银行要求马尔雅归还欠它们的款项。当局指控他洗钱、贿赂银行官员、拖欠贷款，还有其他一些不当行为。
Last weekend Indian authorities canceled Mr. Mallya's passport, nearly a week after a court in Mumbai issued a warrant for his arrest. On Thursday, India's Foreign Ministry said it would ask Britain — where authorities believe he is staying — to deport him.	孟买法庭签发了对他的逮捕令，将近一周之后，印度当局于上周末取消了他的护照。本周四，印度外交部表示将要求英国——当局认为他目前待在那里——将他遣返。
Mr. Mallya is now widely pilloried by the news media and by some politicians in India as one of the worst examples from a corporate borrowing binge that has mired the country in bad debt. Economists and government officials say heavy corporate debt and bad bank loans are holding back growth and harming Prime Minister Narendra Modi's ambitious economic agenda.	如今，新闻媒体和印度的一些政界人士普遍指责马尔雅是公司借贷狂潮最臭名昭著的典型之一。正是这股狂潮导致印度陷入了坏账的泥潭。经济专家和政府官员称，高额的公司债务和银行不良贷款正在抑制增长，破坏印度总理纳伦德拉·莫迪(Narendra Modi)野心勃勃的经济议程。
"We hide the sickness and ultimately it's the poor who suffer," said K. C. Chakrabarty, a former deputy governor of India's central bank. "We are addressing Vijay Mallya. He's not the problem. He's the symptom of the problem."	“我们掩盖弊端，最终是穷人受苦，”前印度央行副行长 K.C.沙克拉巴迪(K. C. Chakrabarty)说。“我们正在解决维贾伊·马尔雅的问题。但他本身并不是问题的所在。他只是问题的症状。”
Mr. Mallya, who left India last month, disputes accusations by Indian lawmakers and lenders that he fled the country to avoid bad debts. "I am an international businessman," he said on Twitter. "I travel to and from India frequently. I did not flee from India and neither am I an absconder. Rubbish."	上月离开印度的马尔雅不同意印度议员和债权人称他逃离印度是为了躲避坏账的指控。“我是一个跨国商人，”他在 Twitter 上说。“我频繁进出印度。我没有逃离印度，也不是潜逃者。一派胡言。”
Even in a time when China, Europe and other places grapple with bad	尽管中国、欧洲和其他一些地方都在努力应对坏账问题，但印度一度被掩盖

debt, the depths of India's once-hidden problems are notable. Pressed by the central bank in September to come clean about their debt woes, India's banks are reporting billions of dollars' worth of loans that most likely will not be repaid.	的深层次问题仍是值得注意的。去年9月，印度央行敦促该国银行清理各自的债务问题。眼下，印度银行通报的极有可能无法收回的贷款价值数以十亿计美元。
Credit Suisse estimated that bad loans in the final months of last year totaled nearly $128 billion, making up more than 11 percent of outstanding loans, and said India's banking system had still more "unrecognized stress."	瑞信(Credit Suisse)估计，去年最后几个月的坏账总额接近1280亿美元，占未偿还贷款的11%以上。瑞信称印度的银行体系还面临着更多“尚未被外界发现的压力”。
The pain has rippled outside the country. Standard Chartered, a British bank, said in February that its India unit lost nearly $1 billion last year. The bank says it is selling problem loans.	印度债务问题的影响已经蔓延到了国外。英国渣打银行(Standard Chartered)曾在2月表示，其在印度的分公司去年亏损近10亿美元。该银行称正在出售问题贷款。
Diageo, the British spirits maker, has also been hit, after guaranteeing a $135 million loan last year from Standard Chartered to a company affiliated with Mr. Mallya. Diageo says it is pursuing the matter.	英国烈酒生产商帝亚吉欧(Diageo)也受到了影响。去年，渣打银行向一家隶属于马尔雅的公司提供了1.35亿美元贷款，帝亚吉欧为其提供了担保。该公司称正在追查此事。
The sour loans are raising questions about whether India's financial system could deal with the sort of debt crisis that hit the United States and Europe in 2008. "We're coming so late into the too-big-to-fail issue," said Susan Thomas, assistant professor at the Indira Gandhi Institute for Development Research in Mumbai and a member of the country's bankruptcy law reform committee.	不良贷款令外界对印度的金融制度心生疑虑，担心它无法应对美国和欧洲在2008年遭遇的那种债务危机。“我们遇到‘大到不能倒’这个问题的时间太晚了，”孟买英迪拉·甘地发展研究院(Indira Gandhi Institute for Development Research)助理教授、印度破产法改革委员会成员苏珊·托马斯(Susan Thomas)说。
As in China, which is dealing with its own corporate debt hangover, India's troubles stem from its efforts to spur growth after the 2008 global financial crisis. Regulators loosened fiscal and monetary policies and allowed many industries to restructure loans rather than let them go sour. It also allowed a moratorium on interest payments. Lenders	和正在解决公司债务遗留问题的中国一样，印度的问题源自其在2008年全球金融危机爆发后，为刺激增长而采取的一系列措施。监管机构放宽了财政和货币政策，允许很多行业重组债务，而不是让它们变成坏账。印度还允许延期支付利息。债权人做出了回应。在接下来的四年里，银行发放给非金融公司的贷款大致增加了一倍。

responded, and over the next four years bank lending to nonfinancial companies roughly doubled.
But people inside and outside the country increasingly worried about rising defaults and banks' ability to meet new global financial stability requirements. In September, Raghuram Rajan, India's top central banker, ordered lenders to provide a full accounting.	但是，印度国内外人士越来越担心拖欠债务的情况会增多，银行无力满足全球金融稳定的新要求。去年9月，印度央行行长拉古拉姆·拉詹(Raghuram Rajan)要求放款机构提供完整账务。
Mr. Mallya — who in India is often compared to Richard Branson, the British entrepreneur — is one of India's most famous names. His company, the United Breweries Group, makes Kingfisher beer and sells everything from alcohol to chemicals and fertilizer. He has a personal stake in India's only Formula One team. He is a regular presence on the party circuit, and made headlines 10 years ago when he held a lavish birthday party at which the singer Lionel Richie was the star performer.	马尔雅在印度很出名，经常与英国企业家理查德·布兰森(Richard Branson)相提并论。他的公司联合酿造集团(United Breweries Group)生产翠鸟牌啤酒(Kingfisher)，并销售酒精饮料、化学品和肥料等各种产品。他个人在印度唯一的一级方程式赛车队持有股份。他是派对圈的常客，10年前举办的一场奢华生日请到歌手莱昂内尔·里奇(Lionel Richie)献唱，登上了报纸头条。
"I work hard and I play hard, too," he once said. "There is nothing wrong with that."	"我努力工作，也放肆玩乐，"他曾经这样说，"这没什么错。"
When the post-2008 lending binge hit, Mr. Mallya saw a chance to help one of his newer businesses: airlines. His Kingfisher Airlines was initially modeled on the low-cost American carrier JetBlue, with an all-economy configuration that included seat-back TVs, unheard of on Indian domestic flights.	2008年后的贷款狂潮开始，马尔雅发现它可以帮助自己的新生意：航空公司。他的翠鸟航空(Kingfisher Airlines)最初是效仿美国廉价航空公司捷蓝(JetBlue)，采用全经济舱配置，配有当时印度国内航班上从未有过的座椅后背电视。
Mr. Mallya quickly added a lavish business class to Kingfisher. Roomy seats came with champagne glasses filled with cider, since India forbids alcohol on domestic flights. The airline was a pet project of Mr. Mallya's; he examined the in-flight napkins and interviewed some of the prospective flight attendants himself.	马尔雅很快给翠鸟航空增加了一款奢华的商务舱。机上座位宽敞，供应用香槟酒杯盛放的苹果汁——因为印度禁止国内航班供应酒精饮料。马尔雅特别青睐这个项目，亲自检查机上餐巾，并面试部分乘务员。

But Kingfisher Airlines suffered from an inefficient mix of planes and tough competition, which increased when it started flying internationally. Capitalizing on the looser lending practices, the airline persuaded its lenders to restructure its debt. Two years later, in 2012, Kingfisher stopped flying in the face of high fuel prices and a global slowdown.	但是由于机型组合效率低, 开飞国际航线后竞争更加激烈, 翠鸟航空陷入困境。它利用更宽松的贷款政策, 说服放款机构重组它的债务。两年后, 2012年, 面对高昂的燃油价格和全球经济衰退, 翠鸟航空停飞。
Kingfisher owed at least $1.4 billion in loans, much of it to state-controlled banks, as well as back pay to former employees and other bills. Because Mr. Mallya and his United Breweries Holdings backed some of the loans, creditors began pressing them for repayment. The dispute began to wind its way through the courts. Banks tried to seize Mr. Mallya's assets, including his estate in Goa.	翠鸟至少欠下 14 亿美元贷款——大多是借自国有控股银行——另外还有前雇员的欠薪和其他未付账单。由于部分贷款的担保人是马尔雅以及他的联合酿造控股公司(United Breweries Holdings), 所以债权人开始催促他们偿还。诉讼开始在各个法院展开。银行试图冻结马尔雅的资产, 包括他在果阿邦的地产。
Late last year authorities raided Mr. Mallya's homes and offices in Mumbai, Bangalore and Goa. As his lavish lifestyle came under scrutiny, he began to say less publicly. "Once a media witch hunt starts it escalates into a raging fire where truth and facts are burnt to ashes," he said in March on Twitter.	去年年底, 印度当局突然搜查马尔雅在孟买、班加罗尔和果阿邦的家和办公室。随着奢华的生活方式遭到监视, 他开始减少公开发言。“媒体迫害一旦开始, 就会逐步升级为熊熊烈火, 把真相烧为灰烬,” 今年 3 月, 他在 Twitter 上说。
By early March, banks had asked India's highest court to seize Mr. Mallya's passport. By then he had already left, setting off criticism. "How did he run away from the country?" asked Rahul Gandhi, vice president of India's main opposition party, the Congress party. "How did you allow him to escape?"	到了月初, 已经有多家银行要求印度最高法院冻结马尔雅的护照。那时他已离开印度, 从而引发批评。“他是怎么逃出国的?” 印度主要反对党国民大会党(Congress party)副主席拉胡尔·甘地(Rahul Gandhi)问道, “你们怎么能允许他逃跑?”
Finance Minister Arun Jaitley said in Parliament that the country's banks were seeking to recover "every penny" from Mr. Mallya.	财政部长阿伦·贾伊特利(Arun Jaitley)在国会上说, 印度多家银行正努力从马尔雅那里拿回“每一分钱”。
Indian officials have continued to warn about the impact of debt on the	印度的官员们继续警告债务对经济的影响。 economy.

"Debt is very much like a dynamite," said Mr. Rajan, the central banker, in December. "It is an instrument which is very useful in right places and explosive in others."	"债务很像炸药，"印度央行行长拉詹去年12月说，"用对了是利器，用错了就会造成破坏。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160429/c29indiadebt	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160429/c29indiadebt
China Lending Inflates Real Estate, Stocks, Even Egg Futures	中国信贷扩张催生投资泡沫，鸡蛋期价飙升
HONG KONG — China is pouring hundreds of billions of dollars into its economy in a new effort to support growth. Some of it is going into roads and bridges and other big projects that will keep the economy humming.	香港——中国新采取的保增长举措，是向经济领域注入数以千亿美元计的资金。一些资金正在流向会让经济保持发展势头的路桥建设等大型项目。
And some of it is going into eggs.	还有一些正在流向鸡蛋。
China's latest lending deluge has sent money sloshing into unexpected parts of the economy. That includes a financial market in Dalian where investors can place bets on the future productivity of the country's hens.	中国的最新一轮信贷扩张，已经让资金进入某些出人意料的经济领域。其中包括大连的一个金融市场，在那里，投资者可以押注于中国母鸡未来的生产力。
Egg futures have surged by as much as one-third since March, the sort of move that would be justified if investors believed China's chicken flocks were headed for an unfortunate fate.	自三月以来，鸡蛋期价已经飙升了三分之一。而只有投资者认为中国的鸡群即将遭遇灾难，这种涨幅才称得上合理。
But the market's usual participants say the flocks are fine. In fact, the actual price of eggs in the country's markets has fallen from a year ago, according to government statistics.	但该市场的资深参与者表示，鸡群的情况还不错。事实上，中国政府的统计数据 displays，与一年前相比，该国鸡蛋的实际市场价已经有所下降。
The reason for the unusual jump in egg futures, they say, is China's tendency to experience investment bubbles when the government steps up spending and lending. China's previous efforts to bolster growth unexpectedly sent money into real estate and the stock market	他们说，鸡蛋期价之所以出现不同寻常的飙升，是因为当中国政府扩大支出、放松信贷时，常常会催生投资泡沫。中国此前的保增长举措曾让资金出人意料地流进房地产和股票市场，致使二者毫无道理地上涨，随后又遭遇大跌。

— markets that had unexplained rises followed by striking drops.
“Many commodities prices have gone up crazily,” said Du Shaoxing, a futures trader in Guangzhou, in southern China. “We surely hope for a more stabilized trend where futures can reflect economic fundamentals. The way in which recent commodity prices went up is worrisome.”	“很多大宗商品的价格都疯狂上涨，”中国南方城市广州的期货交易员杜绍兴（音）说。“我们肯定希望其走势更加稳定，从而可以反映中国经济的基本面。大宗商品价格最近的这种涨法令人担忧。”
China’s latest bubble illustrates the potential risks of its newest effort to spur growth. The Chinese economy is already burdened with too much debt, economists say. And sometimes, stopgap measures to help the economy create long-term problems.	中国新涌现的投资泡沫，反映出刺激经济增长的最新举措所具有的潜在风险。经济学家称，中国经济已经背负了太多债务负担。有时候，一些权宜之计会导致经济领域产生长期问题。
China is the world’s biggest producer of eggs, but it is not clear whether the investment surge in eggs will have an impact on real-world prices. Jumps in the futures prices on commodities markets can take months to trickle down to the real world, and if the commodities surge subsides, then the price of eggs in local markets may not budge.	中国是世界上最大的鸡蛋生产国，但目前尚不清楚鸡蛋期价飙升是否会对实际市场价产生影响。在大宗商品市场上，期价可能要经过好几个月时间才会传导到现实世界，而且如果大宗商品价格飙升热潮消退，当地市场的鸡蛋价格也许不会出现变化。
Eggs are not the only commodity suddenly out of kilter. Domestic prices and trading volumes on steel, garlic, cotton, iron ore and other items have all soared. This despite the fact that China’s economic slowdown has hurt demand for many items. Officials at Chinese commodities markets are now taking steps to cool speculative fervor to avoid crashes, and prices have begun to ease.	鸡蛋并非唯一一种突然进入非常态的大宗商品。钢材、大蒜、棉花、铁矿石等交易品种的国内价格和交易量都大幅飙升。这种局面是在中国经济增长放缓导致多种商品的需求有所下降的情况下出现的。为避免崩盘，中国主管大宗商品市场的官员正想方设法给投机狂潮降温，目前价格已经趋于稳定。
By mid-April, the frenzy made Shanghai futures contracts in steel rebar, the rods used in construction to reinforce concrete, the most actively traded in the world — overtaking trading volumes of two major oil futures contracts, West Texas Intermediate and Brent crude, that have	花旗集团(Citigroup)分析师在上周的一份报告中称，截至4月中旬，这种狂潮让上海期货交易所的螺纹钢期货合约交易量超过了美国西德克萨斯中质原油（West Texas Intermediate，简称WTI）和布兰特原油(Brent)期货合约交易量，使其成为了全球最活跃的期货交易品种。螺纹钢是建筑业中用于

helped set oil prices for decades, analysts at Citigroup said in a report last week.	加固混凝土的钢筋条，而西德克萨斯中质原油和布兰特原油这两大原油期货合约，数十年来一直在影响原油的定价。
“There is very little rational or fundamental basis for why prices have gotten as out of hand as they have, or why volumes are so high, other than just irrational exuberance,” said Alex Wolf, an emerging markets economist at Standard Life Investments in Edinburgh, who previously worked as an American diplomat based in Beijing and Taipei.	“价格如此失控，交易量如此之大，却没有合理的依据或基本面支撑，只能说这是非理性繁荣的结果，”爱丁堡标准人寿投资公司(Standard Life Investments)致力于新兴市场研究的经济学家亚历克斯·沃尔夫(Alex Wolf)说。沃尔夫曾任美国驻北京和台北的外交官。
Economists blame Beijing’s new efforts to shore up its economy. Government officials increased lending by state-controlled banks and offered other support measures in the first few months of the year as economic growth slowed and longtime drivers like manufacturing and exports showed continued weakness.	经济学家对中国振兴经济的新举措提出了批评。今年前几个月，在经济增长有所放缓，制造业、出口等长期以来的经济驱动器持续呈现疲软态势之际，政府官员通过国有银行扩大了信贷规模，并采取了其他一些支持性措施。
Saad Rahim, the chief economist at Trafigura, one of the world’s biggest traders of metals and oil, calculates that China added about $1 trillion in new liquidity in the first quarter of the year — an amount that would be roughly equal to the entire quarterly economic output of Germany during the same period.	据全球最大的石油和金属贸易商之一托克集团(Trafigura)的首席经济学家萨阿德·拉希姆(Saad Rahim)估计，中国在今年第一季度新增了大约 1 万亿美金的流动性——该数额基本相当于德国当季的经济总产出。
“This kind of scale is unprecedented and some of it will leak into speculative investments,” Mr. Rahim said.	“这种规模是史无前例的，其中一部分会进入投机性投资领域，”拉希姆说。
In the short term, the new lending may be good news for global growth, if it works. China’s first-quarter growth came in at 6.7 percent, about where economists had expected, despite some indications that growth had weakened further.	从短期来看，这部分新增贷款如果能发挥作用，对全球经济增长而言或许是好消息。中国第一季度的经济增长率是 6.7%，基本符合经济学家此前的预期，尽管有迹象显示，经济增速已经进一步放缓。
But in turning to its old playbook, China risks adding to its already fast-growing pile of debt, which by some estimates is nearly 300	中国在重演故伎之时，冒着让快速增长的债务负担变得更加沉重的风险。据估计，该国总债务占 GDP 的比重已经接近 300%。 percent of gross domestic product.

The problems are most acute when it comes to China's corporate borrowers, which have gorged on cheap credit in the years since the global financial crisis. In a report released in April, the International Monetary Fund found that nearly 600 companies had almost $400 billion of debt that was considered at risk, accounting for 14 percent of total corporate borrowing in China.	问题最严重的是中国的企业借款人，在全球金融危机爆发以来的许多年里，它们获得了大量廉价信贷资金。国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)今年4月发布的一份报告显示，发放给近600家企业的大约4000亿美元信贷资金被认为存在风险，占中国企业借款总额的14%。
But the renewed push for credit-fueled growth shows that policy makers' concerns about China's debt burden appear to have been set aside for now. By delaying efforts to wean itself off cheap credit, China may be setting itself up for some problems related to debt and industrial overcapacity.	但重新推出的以信贷推动经济增长的举措表明，中国的政策制定者目前似乎已经把对债务负担的担忧放在了一边。通过缓行旨在减少对廉价信贷资金的依赖的一些措施，中国或许正在为自己制造某些与债务和工业产能过剩有关的问题。
There are few places for China's money to go. The country has tightened already stringent limits on how much money its people can send or invest abroad. Its stock market is still recovering from a crash last year. And its property market remains saddled with a glut of apartments in many cities.	中国的资金没有太多去处。当局已经进一步收紧了对中国人向海外汇款或进行海外投资的限制。去年崩盘的中国股票市场目前还在恢复当中。此外，很多城市里过剩的公寓楼仍旧在拖累中国房地产市场。
A property market bubble arose from the huge stimulus that Beijing deployed after the 2008 financial crisis, which set off a building boom.	在2008年的金融危机爆发后，北京推行的大规模经济刺激措施掀起了一轮建设热潮，催生出了房地产泡沫。
Stocks overtook property in investor interest last year. A raging bull market that was cheered on by official news outlets like People's Daily, the Communist Party's newspaper, skidded to a halt in June.	去年，股票接替房地产成为投资者的新宠。一波凶猛的大牛市在共产党喉舌《人民日报》等官方媒体加油打气之下应运而生，但却在去年6月戛然而止。
As for eggs, Chen Jie, who works in the futures department at Hubei Shendan Healthy Food, the biggest egg company in China, said in a phone interview that "there is definitely speculative capital in the	至于鸡蛋，中国最大蛋产品企业湖北神丹健康食品有限公司期货部门的陈杰（音）接受电话采访时说，“这一市场上肯定存在投机性资本。” market.”

Her company supplies eggs to KFC and McDonald’s restaurants, and sells them at more than 10,000 supermarkets across China, including those of chains like Walmart, Carrefour and Metro.	她所在的公司是肯德基(KFC)和麦当劳(McDonald)餐厅的鸡蛋供应商，还把鸡蛋销往中国各地超过1万家超市，其中包括沃尔玛(Walmart)、家乐福(Carrefour)、麦德龙(Metro)等连锁超市。
Hubei Shendan uses the futures market to hedge its bets against swings in actual egg prices. An abnormally volatile futures market makes that job more difficult.	湖北神丹利用期货市场来对冲鸡蛋现货价格波动带来的风险。期货市场出现异常波动，让他们的工作变得更困难了。
“The reason we are in the egg futures market is because the big swings in egg prices will affect our profitability, and a good futures market will help us in that regard,” Ms. Chen said.	“我们之所以进入鸡蛋期货市场，是因为波幅巨大的鸡蛋现货价格会影响我们的盈利能力，一个好的期货市场在这方面会对我们有所帮助，”陈杰说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160503/c03db-chinalend	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160503/c03db-chinalend
In Japan’s Slow Economy, Rare Price Rise Prompts Surplus of Remorse	从雪糕涨价6毛钱看日本的经济困境
TOKYO — One of the most talked-about television commercials in Japan this year advertises an unusual product: contrition.	东京——日本人今年谈论最多的电视广告之一，和一个不同寻常的产品有关：致歉。
The ad shows a group of workers and executives from an ice cream company lined up in neat rows in front of their suburban Tokyo factory. As gentle folk music plays, they bow in apology.	在这则广告中，一家冰淇淋公司的员工和管理人员在东京郊区的工厂门前整齐站立着，伴随着轻柔的民谣音乐，他们一起躬身道歉。
The company’s transgression? Adding 10 yen, or about 9 cents, to the price of Garigari-kun, a hugely popular soda-flavor ice cream bar. About 500 million of the bright blue snacks are consumed every year, mostly by children.	这家公司做错了什么？他们把一种汽水味雪糕“嘎哩嘎哩君”的售价调高了10日元（约合0.6元人民币）。这种亮蓝色的雪糕很受欢迎，每年销售约5亿支，消费者大多是儿童。
Increasing prices are a big deal in Japan. The country’s sluggish economy means that the cost of most things has not risen in 20 years, and almost any increase makes headlines.	涨价在日本是一件大事。该国经济不景气，大多数东西在过去20年里没有涨过价，几乎每次出现涨价都会登上新闻。
Consumer prices are a painful economic headache for Japan. The	消费物价对日本经济来说是个很头疼的问题。该国官员一直试图通过向经济

country's officials have been trying to break this stubborn pattern of deflation by pumping money into the economy and bolstering public spending. Japan's economy, which has been oscillating between growth and contraction for years, picked up speed in the first quarter, according to government data released on Wednesday.	中注入资金并提高公共支出来化解顽固的通货紧缩。日本经济常年在增长和萎缩之间摇摆。本周三，政府公布的数据显示，经济增长的速度在第一季度有所加快。
But the price increases that do go through — like the cost of the Garigari-kun ice cream bar rising to ¥70, from ¥60 — do not reflect a more vibrant economy or a stronger consumer. They usually mean a company is facing higher costs cutting into its profit. The deflationary trends are still firmly in place. And wages are under more pressure than prices, so buying power for most Japanese has declined compared with a generation ago.	但是，上涨的物价——比如“嘎哩嘎哩君”雪糕从60日元涨价到70日元——并不意味着经济变得更有活力，或者消费趋势增强了，而是通常意味着公司成本增加，使得利润变薄了。通货紧缩的趋势仍然难以动摇。相比于物价，工资遭受的压力更大，所以大多数日本人的购买力并不如上一代人。
“Garigari-kun is meant to be something kids can easily buy with their allowance,” said Fumio Hagiwara, a marketing executive at Akagi Nyugyo, the maker of the ice cream bar. “Even grown-ups have less pocket money these days.”	“嘎哩嘎哩君”应该是小孩可以轻松用零用钱购买的东西，“在出产这种雪糕的赤城乳业株式会社(Akagi Nyugyo)，营销高管萩原文雄(Fumio Hagiwara)表示。“现如今，就连大人的零用钱也减少了。”
Akagi last increased prices a quarter of a century ago, and it debated the recent rise for seven or eight years, Mr. Hagiwara said. The rising cost of raw materials finally forced Akagi's hand, he said. Tighter logging restrictions in China, for instance, meant it had to use more expensive Russian lumber for ice cream sticks.	赤城乳业上次调价是在四分之一世纪以前。萩原文雄透露，公司近七八年来一直在讨论涨价的事。他说，原材料成本的上升最终迫使赤城上调了售价。比如，中国加严了对伐木的限制，公司不得不使用价格更昂贵的俄罗斯木材来制作雪糕棒。
In stronger economic circumstances, Akagi's price increase would not stand out. Companies in other places routinely pass on higher costs to consumers. But in Japan, businesses that face rising costs feel they have less ability to do so because wages are flat. Instead, they take a hit	在更好的经济环境中，赤城乳业的涨价行动不会这么引人注目。其他国家的企业常常把更高的成本转嫁给消费者。但在日本，成本上升的公司会觉得自己无力调高售价，因为消费者的工资并没有增加。所以公司宁可利润少一点，或者削减开支，也不愿意疏远消费者。

to their profits or cut back rather than alienate consumers.
"We don't have any more income, but taxes are rising," said Kazuko Ida, 65, who lives in Tokyo. As a result, she said, she is especially reluctant to spend more. "It's one thing if luxury items are expensive, but if cheap things aren't cheap anymore, it's a real problem."	"我们的收入没有增加，但税却在上升，"现年 65 岁的东京居民井田和子（Kazuko Ida，音）说。她表示，这带来的结果是她特别不愿意多花钱。“奢侈品贵是一回事，但如果便宜的东西也不再便宜，就真的有问题了。”
Japanese policy makers have long identified deflation as enemy No. 1 for the economy. Prime Minister Shinzo Abe won power four years ago on a promise to stamp it out. The central bank has been flooding financial markets with cheap money, and it has gone so far as to cut its benchmark interest rate below zero, a policy that has been tried in only a few other developed countries.	长久以来，日本的决策层一直将通货紧缩看作经济发展的头号敌人。首相安倍晋三(Shinzo Abe)四年前就是凭借做出遏制通货紧缩的承诺才掌权。中央银行一直在向金融市场注入大量资金，甚至将基准利率降至零以下——只有少数发达国家采取过这种政策。
But the results officials have been seeking — robust increases in borrowing and spending, and a sustained rise in prices — have been elusive. The Consumer Price Index is back below zero, after an upswing during Mr. Abe's first two years in office. Wholesale prices tumbled 4.2 percent in April, their sharpest decline in more than six years.	即便如此，官员们期待的结果——强劲的借贷和消费增长、物价持续上行——仍难以显现。在安倍执政头两年出现上扬之后，日本的消费价格指数又重新陷入负增长。今年 4 月份，商品批发价格暴跌 4.2%，是过去六年多里跌幅最大的一次。
A recent rise in the value of the yen, after several years of weakness under Mr. Abe, has made beating deflation harder. A weak yen means costlier imports, which helps drive overall inflation. But now imports on the whole are getting cheaper again.	在安倍领导下的头几年里，日元一直保持弱势，但最近有所走强，令击退通货紧缩的目标更加难以实现。日元疲软意味着进口商品价格更高，由此推高整体通货膨胀水平。但现在进口商品价格整体而言又再度走低。
The economic report on Wednesday showed that Japan's economy expanded 1.7 percent in annualized, price-adjusted terms in the quarter that ended in March. That was significantly faster than forecasts. Still, economists urged caution: Spending by households and businesses was down, and so were exports — all crucial pillars of growth.	周三发布的经济报告显示，在根据物价调整之后，日本经济在截止今年 3 月的一季度里年化增长率为 1.7%。这个数字比预期高了不少。不过，经济学家们依然劝告大家保持谨慎：住房和商业支出都在下降，出口额也不例外——这些都是经济增长的关键支柱。

Rather than rely on those, the economy benefited from higher government spending and a decline in imports. The extra day in February because of the leap year also helped, specialists said.	日本经济近期的增长依赖的并非这些支柱，而是得益于政府支出增长和进口额下降。专家表示，因今年是闰年，2月比往年多了1天，这也是有利因素之一。
"Reasons for the upside surprise were not encouraging," said Masamichi Adachi, chief Japan economist at JPMorgan Chase. He said the economy was likely to remain stagnant.	"尽管出现了令人意外的增长，背后的原因却无法令人感到鼓舞，"摩根大通(JPMorgan Chase)驻日本的首席经济师足立正道(Masamichi Adachi)称。他还表示，日本经济很可能会继续停滞不前。
Since Mr. Abe's conservative coalition was elected in December 2012, the economy has expanded in eight quarters and shrunk in five. Newspaper opinion surveys suggest that about half of voters are dissatisfied with his economic program, known as Abenomics. A disorganized political opposition has offered little in the way of alternatives, but an election for the upper house of Parliament in July is adding to pressure to turn things around.	自安倍领导的保守派执政联盟在2012年上台以来，日本经济在其中八个季度里有所增长，而在五个季度里出现萎缩。报刊上的民意调查显示，大约有一半的选民对他的"安倍经济学"政策感到不满。尽管缺乏组织的反对党也没能拿出像样的替代方案，但即将在7月举行的参议院选举令安倍政府面临扭转现有局面的更大压力。
Mr. Abe is looking at ways to restore momentum. The government is drafting a supplementary stimulus budget and is considering delaying an increase in the national sales tax planned for April 2017. The two percentage point tax increase, the second of two planned rises, has already been put off once. Supporters say it is needed to reduce Japan's large budget deficit. But the first increase, in 2014, hurt consumers and was blamed for pushing the economy into recession.	安倍正在寻找重振经济的办法。政府在制定一项额外的刺激预算，也在考虑延迟原定于2017年4月生效的上调消费税的计划。这两个百分点的税率增长，是两阶段税收上调计划中的第二阶段，此前已经被推迟了一次。支持者表示，日本需要实施该计划才能减少庞大的预算赤字。但2014年的首次增税挫伤了消费者的信心，并被指为日本经济陷入衰退的原因。
In the ice cream business, Mr. Hagiwara said Akagi had calculated that Garigari-kun's sales volume would drop by 7 percent as a result of raising prices. The sales hit, the company believed, would be more than counterbalanced by the higher price.	至于雪糕行业，荻原表示，赤城乳业之前就预计到，价格上涨会导致"嘎哩嘎哩君"的销量下降7%。公司相信，售价提高带来的好处会超过这部分的损失。
But it appears that for his company, at least, an apology is an effective	不过，对于该公司而言，向公众道歉似乎至少是一种应对这一打击的有效方

way to deal with the pain. Mr. Hagiwara said sales jumped by about 10 percent in the first month or so after the price increase in March, though they have since begun to fall back.	式。狄原表示，今年3月产品提价以后的大概一个月里，公司销售额曾上涨约10%，尽管之后又有所回落。
"We figure it will take another year before we know how consumers really take to it," he said.	"我们觉得还得再过一年时间才能知道消费者对涨价的接受度到底如何，"他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160519/c19yen	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160519/c19yen
North Korea Linked to Digital Attacks on Global Banks	亚洲多家银行遭网络攻击，疑是朝鲜所为
Security researchers have tied the recent spate of digital breaches on Asian banks to North Korea, in what they say appears to be the first known case of a nation using digital attacks for financial gain.	安全研究人员认为，近期涌现的多起亚洲银行网络泄露事件与朝鲜有关。他们表示，这似乎是已知的首桩此类案件，即一国利用网络攻击来获取金融利益。
In three recent attacks on banks, researchers working for the digital security firm Symantec said, the thieves deployed a rare piece of code that had been seen in only two previous cases: the hacking attack at Sony Pictures in December 2014, and attacks on banks and media companies in South Korea in 2013. Government officials in the United States and South Korea have blamed those attacks on North Korea, though they have not provided independent verification.	数字安全企业赛门铁克(Symantec)的研究人员称，在近期针对银行的三次攻击中，窃贼使用的一段不同寻常的代码仅见于过去的两桩案件：一是2014年12月索尼电影娱乐公司(Sony Pictures)遭受的黑客攻击；二是2013年韩国的多家银行和媒体公司遭受的攻击。美国和韩国的政府官员将这两次攻击归咎于朝鲜，不过他们并未提供独立验证。
On Thursday, the Symantec researchers said they had uncovered evidence linking an October attack at a bank in the Philippines with attacks on Tien Phong Bank in Vietnam in December and one in February on the central bank of Bangladesh that resulted in the theft of more than $81 million.	周四，赛门铁克的研究人员表示，他们发现了一些证据，能将三起攻击事件联系起来。它们分别是去年10月菲律宾的一家银行遭受的攻击、去年12月越南先锋银行(Tien Phong Bank)受到的攻击，以及今年2月孟加拉国中央银行损失逾8100万美元的攻击。
"If you believe North Korea was behind those attacks, then the bank attacks were also the work of North Korea," said Eric Chien, a security researcher at Symantec, who found that the identical code was used	"如果相信之前那两次攻击是朝鲜干的，那么针对银行的这几次攻击也就是朝鲜所为，"在赛门铁克进行安全研究的埃里克·钱(Eric Chien)说。他发现了这三次攻击使用了相同代码。 across all three attacks.

"We've never seen an attack where a nation-state has gone in and stolen money," Chien added. "This is a first."	"我们还从来没有见过哪回的攻击是国家进去偷钱,"他还说。"这是头一遭。"
The attacks have raised alarms in the global banking industry because the thieves gained access to Swift, a Brussels-based banking consortium that runs what is considered the world's most secure payment messaging system. Swift's system is used by 11,000 banks and companies to move money from one country to another – one reason that it is a tempting target for criminals.	这些攻击引起了全世界银行业的警觉,因为窃贼把手伸向了环球银行金融电信协会(Swift)。这是一个总部位于布鲁塞尔的银行业团体,运行着大家认为是世界上最安全的支付电文系统。有逾 1.1 万家银行与企业使用该系统,以将资金从一国转移到另一国,而这恰好是它成为罪犯眼中诱人目标的一个原因。
Swift has warned publicly that the attacks are part of a broad coordinated assault on banks, though it has not assigned blame. It has also emphasized that it was the banks' connection points to its network – and not the core Swift messaging network itself – that the attackers were able to breach. Also, U.S. bankers have noted that the security lapses all occurred at banks in third-world countries, which may give some comfort to banking customers in the United States.	Swift 公开警告,这几次事件属于针对银行的大范围协同攻击的一部分,不过它并未将其归咎于谁。它还强调,攻击者打开缺口的地方是银行进入 Swift 系统的连接点,而非 Swift 本身的核心电文网络。而且,美国的银行界高层指出,这几次安全漏洞都发生在第三世界国家的银行身上。这一点或许会让美国的银行客户感到些许安慰。
Security researchers and U.S. government officials have tied thousands of attacks to nations in the past. They have linked the United States and Israel to an attack that destroyed Iranian centrifuges, and the Chinese military and contractors to attacks that stole military and trade secrets from thousands of foreign entities.	安全研究人员和美国政府官员过去曾将数以千计的攻击归结到国家身上。一些人认为,美国和以色列与摧毁伊朗离心机的一次攻击有关,而中国军方及承包商与窃取数千家境外实体的军事和贸易机密有关。
But the latest spate of attacks on banks in Bangladesh and Southeast Asia would be the first time, security researchers say, that a nation has used malicious code to steal purely for financial profit.	不过,安全研究人员表示,近期涌现的针对孟加拉国与东南亚国家银行的攻击,是首次由一个国家使用恶意代码来纯粹窃取钱财。
The idea that Pyongyang had turned to digital theft would not be	平壤诉诸网络盗窃的想法并不令人意外。朝鲜经济因制裁和粮食短缺等物资

surprising. North Korea's economy has been ravaged by sanctions, food shortages and other deprivations. Pyongyang does not publish economic data, but estimates have put North Korea's gross domestic product between $12 billion and $40 billion, tiny when compared with South Korea's economic output of more than $1.4 trillion.	匮乏而遭受重创。平壤并不公布经济数据，不过外界估算，朝鲜的国内生产总值在 120 亿到 400 亿美元之间。与韩国的 1.4 万亿美元相比，可谓微不足道。
In the attack at Bangladesh's central bank in February, the thieves tried to transfer $1 billion in funds from an account at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Fed officials became suspicious of the some of requested transfers and released only $81 million to accounts in the Philippines.	在孟加拉国央行今年 2 月遭受的攻击中，窃贼试图从纽约联邦储备银行 (Federal Reserve Bank of New York) 转出 10 亿美元。联储官员开始对某些汇款请求心生怀疑，仅放出了 8100 万美元到菲律宾的账户上。
"If you presume it's North Korea, $1 billion is almost 10 percent of their GDP," Chien said. "This is not small change for them."	"假定是朝鲜干的，那么 10 亿美元就快到他们 GDP 的 10% 了，"埃里克·钱(Eric Chien)评价。"这可不是什么小数目。"
Symantec researchers said it was possible that the bank in the Philippines containing the North Korean code was also involved in the Bangladesh bank scheme and the attempted breach on the Vietnamese bank.	赛门铁克的研究人员表示，带有朝鲜代码的那家菲律宾银行有可能也卷入了孟加拉央行盗窃案，以及越南先锋银行遭受的攻击企图。
The researchers would not identify the Philippines bank and did not say whether the thieves had been successful in transferring funds. Researchers were able to confirm only that the attackers had managed to breach the bank and install identical code strings on the bank's computer systems — the same code that they discovered in Bangladesh, Vietnam and the two previous attacks at Sony in 2014 and South Korea in 2013.	研究人员不准备透露那家菲律宾银行的名字，也没有说出窃贼是否成功地转出了资金。他们只确认，攻击者设法攻破了这家银行，在它的计算机系统中植入了同样的代码串——与他们在孟加拉国、越南及 2014 年索尼和 2013 年韩国遭受的那两次攻击中找到的代码一致。
Chien noted that the attackers not only used identical numbers but wrote the code in the same, unusual sequence across all three attacks.	埃里克·钱指出，在这三次针对银行的攻击中，攻击者不仅使用了相同的数字，还采用了同样的独特排序来写这部分代码。

Chien said the evidence pointed to all three attacks being the work of the "Lazarus Group," a name his team gave to the attackers behind the Sony and South Korean attacks.	他认为，证据指向的是，这三次攻击均为“拉撒路集团”(Lazarus Group)的手笔。他所在的研究团队用这个名字来称呼索尼和韩国事件背后的攻击者。
There is no evidence to date that the thieves have gone after large U.S. or European banks, though new possible attacks are being reported weekly. Last week, evidence emerged that Banco del Austro, an Ecuadorean bank, was infiltrated by hackers who were also able to sneak onto the Swift network. The thieves transferred several million dollars to accounts around the world, according to a lawsuit the bank filed in federal court in the United States against Wells Fargo, which facilitated one of the transfers.	迄今为止，没有证据表明窃贼把目标对准了美国或欧洲的大银行，但每周都有人反映可能出现了新攻击。上周出现的证据表明，入侵厄瓜多尔的 Banco Del Austro 银行的黑客，也能够偷偷潜入 Swift 的网络。该银行向美国的联邦法院提起诉讼，控告富国银行(Wells Fargo)。诉讼显示，窃贼将几百万美元转移至全球多个账户，富国银行为其中一笔转账业务提供了协助。
Researchers have yet to unearth any of the code used in the Ecuador attack, but banking analysts say it is probably no coincidence that these attacks are happening in the developing world, where security measures tend not to be as tight as they are in financial hubs like New York and London.	研究人员尚未发现黑客攻击厄瓜多尔这家银行时使用的任何代码，但银行业分析人士称，这些攻击发生在发展中国家可能不是巧合，那些地区的安全措施往往不像纽约和伦敦这种金融中心那么严格。
Swift has issued numerous warnings in recent weeks urging banks to step up their security protocols. Analysts worry that the breaches could have a chilling effect on global finance; larger banks may become reluctant or even refuse to transact with smaller banks in the developing world unless they can have assurances that their networks have not been compromised by thieves and malware.	最近几周，Swift 发布了大量警告，敦促银行加强安全规范。分析人士担心，这些入侵可能会给全球金融造成寒蝉效应，大银行可能会不愿，甚或拒绝与发展中国家的小银行进行交易，除非向它们保证，后者的网络未被窃贼和恶意软件入侵。
At a conference on Tuesday in Brussels, Swift's chief executive, Gottfried Leibbrandt, said the recent attacks could do far more damage than breaches on retailers and telephone companies, which he said	周二在布鲁塞尔的一场会议上，Swift 的首席执行官戈特弗里德·莱布兰特 (Gottfried Leibbrandt)称，最近这些攻击造成的损害，可能远远超出了对零售商和电话公司的入侵。他表示，零售商和电话公司蒙受的主要是声誉和法

suffer largely reputational and legal hits.	律方面的损失。
"Banks that are compromised like this can be put out of business," Leibbrandt said.	"被这样入侵的银行可能会被迫停业，"莱布兰特说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160527/c27db-swift	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160527/c27db-swift
Delay in Chinese Conglomerate's Deal for U.S. Insurer	安邦撤回收购美国信保人寿申请
HONG KONG — Anbang, a politically connected Chinese insurer, has hit a bump in its effort to buy an insurance company in Iowa for $1.57 billion, the latest setback to its multibillion-dollar global shopping spree.	香港——拥有政治关系的中国保险公司安邦在准备斥资 15.7 亿美元收购美国艾奥瓦州一家保险公司时遇到麻烦。安邦正在全球各地洒下大把金钱进行并购，而这是它遇到的最新挫折。
Anbang Insurance Group has struck a remarkable spate of deals including an agreement two years ago to buy the Waldorf Astoria hotel in New York. It has also reached a $6.5 billion deal to buy hotels from the private-equity firm Blackstone Group, and it has agreed to buy financial firms in Europe and South Korea.	安邦保险集团已经达成了一系列引人注目的交易，包括两年前收购纽约华尔道夫-阿斯托里亚酒店 (Waldorf Astoria)，斥资 65 亿美元从私募股权公司黑石集团(Blackstone Group)那里收购酒店，以及收购欧洲和韩国的一些金融公司。
The Chinese insurance company — which until recent years was not well-known even in its home country — is near the forefront of a growing wave of Chinese companies buying firms abroad.	就在几年之前，这家保险公司甚至在中国本土都不太知名，如今它却成为了中国企业海外并购大潮中的一个领跑者。
But the campaign hit a setback with Fidelity & Guaranty Life, the Des Moines-based insurer that Anbang agreed to buy last year. Anbang withdrew its application with the New York State Department of Financial Services to acquire the company, Fidelity said in a filing on Tuesday with the Securities and Exchange Commission.	不过，安邦去年达成的收购总部设在得梅因的信保人寿保险公司(Fidelity & Guaranty Life)的协议，现在却出现波折。本周二，信保在提交给美国证券交易委员会(Securities and Exchange Commission)的一份备案文件中表示，安邦撤回了向纽约州金融服务局(New York State Department of Financial Services)提交的收购申请。
Fidelity had hoped that Anbang could come back, saying the withdrawal was not final and that it expected Anbang to refile in the "near future."	信保希望安邦能回心转意，表示撤回申请并非最终决定，期待安邦在“近期”重新申请。
Paul Marriott of FTI Consulting in Hong Kong, which represents	对于安邦撤回申请的原因，代表安邦的香港富事高商务咨询(FTI

Anbang, did not have an immediate comment on why Anbang withdrew its application. Fidelity did not say why Anbang withdrew its application, which was reported earlier by The Wall Street Journal.	Consulting)的保罗·马里奥特(Paul Marriott)没有立即置评。《华尔街日报》(The Wall Street Journal)之前报道了申请撤回一事，但信保没有提到其中的原因。
The setback adds to Anbang recent stumbles. In March, it abruptly ended its $14 billion bid to buy Starwood Hotels and Resorts. It said little about why it had retreated, mentioning only "various market considerations."	安邦近来遭遇的挫折不只这一起。今年3月，它突然放弃以140亿美元竞购喜达屋酒店及度假村(Starwood Hotels and Resorts)。安邦几乎没有提及原因，只是说“出于各种市场考虑”。
Anbang, which owns insurance companies, a bank and a leasing company, says it has almost $300 billion in assets; it is owned by 39 corporate shareholders, according to China's State Administration of Industry and Commerce. Two of the shareholders are state-owned companies, while the other 37, which own more than 95 percent of Anbang, are an opaque web of interconnected companies. Many share phone numbers, email addresses and management, The New York Times reported in March.	安邦旗下有多家保险公司、一家银行和一家租赁公司，自称拥有近3000亿美元的资产；从中国国家工商行政管理总局的资料来看，它的企业股东有39个。两家是国有企业，其他37家拥有安邦95%以上的股份，彼此关联，形成了一个错综复杂的网络。《纽约时报》今年3月的报道指出，其中很多公司连电话号码、电子邮箱地址和管理层都一样。
Anbang's chairman, Wu Xiaohui, married a granddaughter of China's former leader, Deng Xiaoping. One Anbang director is the son of Chen Yi, a former long-serving foreign minister and top army general who died in 1972. Another former director is the son of Zhu Rongji, China's prime minister from 1998 to 2003.	安邦董事长吴小晖是中国前领导人邓小平的外孙女婿。一位董事是陈毅之子；陈毅拥有元帅军衔，曾长期担任外交部长，于1972年去世。另一位前董事的父亲则是1998至2003年担任总理的朱镕基。
Anbang must obtain regulatory approval for its takeover from states where Fidelity does business. It also has a pending application in Iowa, Fidelity said in its filing on Tuesday. Fidelity shares fell by more than 3.3 percent on Tuesday in New York, their biggest drop since August.	安邦要收购信保的话，就必须从信保开展业务的各州监管部门那里获得批准。信保在周二的备案文件中表示，安邦在艾奥瓦州的申请也有待批准。周二当天，信保在纽交所的股票价格下跌逾3.3%，创下去年8月以来的最大跌幅。
Anbang's purchase of Fidelity, announced in November, was cleared by	安邦收购信保的计划是在去年11月宣布的。今年3月，信保表示这个计划

the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, a government panel that checks whether planned acquisitions of American companies raise national security concerns, Fidelity said in March.	已在美国外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States)获得通过。该委员会是政府机构，负责审核并购美国公司的计划是否涉及国家安全问题。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160602/anbang-fidelity-guaranty-life	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160602/anbang-fidelity-guaranty-life
A Steel Mill Lives Again, in a Setback for China	北京调整经济的举措遭到地方抵制
TANGSHAN, China — The hulking, white-and-brown buildings of the Songting Iron & Steel Company stood silent one chilly February afternoon. The only signs of life came from the handful of guards at the compound’s gate, and from the disheveled middle-aged man who emerged to shout to the plant’s visitors, “Get lost!”	中国唐山——在 2 月份的一个寒冷下午，松汀钢铁有限公司白棕两色的庞大建筑沉默地矗立着。唯一的生命迹象来自把守在这片建筑门口的几名保安，来自那名头发蓬乱的中年男人。他站出来对想要进入工厂的人大喊，“走开！”
Once one of the largest steel mills in this dreary industrial city, Songting had ceased production, a victim of China’s slowing economy. Its workers — many unpaid for months and worried about their future — were let go to fend for themselves, and steel works that can churn out five million metric tons a year had gone quiet.	在这座沉闷的工业城市，松汀原是最大的钢铁厂之一。此时它陷入了停产，成为中国经济放缓的一个受害者。厂里的工人——很多数月没拿到工资，为自己的未来感到担忧——下了岗，自生自灭。昔日年产 500 万吨的钢铁厂没了动静。
Three months later, the silence was broken. Trucks trundled between Songting’s buildings. Rows of cars were parked outside. Around the corner, smoke billowed from a tall chimney.	三个月后，沉默被打破。卡车在松汀的各栋建筑之间隆隆行驶。成行的汽车停在厂外。拐角处，浓烟从一座高高的烟囱里冒出来。
Songting has risen from the dead — and that is bad news for China and the global economy.	松汀起死回生了——对中国和全球经济而言，这却是个坏消息。
The mill’s story illustrates the challenge Beijing faces in overhauling the slowing Chinese economy. China desperately needs to eliminate unnecessary, unprofitable factories in many industries to shift the	这家工厂的情况显示出，在调整放缓的中国经济方面，北京面临着怎样的挑战。中国迫切需要淘汰许多行业里不必要且不盈利的产能，以便将经济转向更富效益的领域。

economy toward more productive businesses.
The national government has repeatedly pledged to tackle the problem. In the steel industry alone, Chinese leaders announced plans this year to reduce the country's steelmaking capacity by as much as 150 million metric tons by 2020 – an amount larger than the entire industry in Japan.	中央政府多次承诺要应对这个问题。单单在钢铁行业，中国领导层今年就曾宣布，至2020年计划削减至多1.5亿吨的钢铁产能——减幅比日本整个钢铁行业的规模还要大。
But as Songting shows, closing even the most troubled plants can prove problematic.	然而，就像松汀的情况所显示的，哪怕是关掉最有问题的工厂也困难重重。
At a local level, Communist Party cadres and businessmen sometimes keep unwanted steel mills and other factories operating to preserve financial and social stability. Steel mills are large employers, and closings can cause widespread layoffs. China's plan would throw an estimated 500,000 steelworkers out their jobs.	在地方层面，共产党干部和商人有时会让包括钢铁厂在内的冗余工厂继续运营，以保持财务和社会稳定。钢铁厂雇佣着大批员工，关门的话可能导致大规模下岗。中国的计划会裁掉大约50万炼钢工人。
Beijing hopes that the workers laid off from excess steel mills and other bloated factories will find new employment in healthier sectors of the economy, especially in services. But several Songting workers – who spoke on the condition that their names not be revealed because they hoped to be rehired – complained that they could find few jobs in a region dominated by stumbling heavy industry. Many quickly fell on hard times, and some even resorted to public protests – exactly the social instability Chinese officials fear most.	北京希望，从冗余的钢铁厂等人员臃肿的企业下岗的员工能在更健康的行业内重新就业，尤其是服务业。但好几名松汀工人——他们要求不具名，因为希望还能被厂里重新聘用——抱怨，在步履维艰的重工业把持的这片地区，自己几乎找不到新工作。不少人很快就在生活上遇到了困难，有些甚至开始诉诸公开抗议活动——这正是中国官方最担心出现的社会不稳定状况。
Concerns about labor unrest, combined with worries that closing factories will saddle China's big banks with bad debt, have slowed factory closures. By one estimate, China permanently shut less than 2 percent of its total steelmaking capacity last year, a period when	对劳工骚动的顾虑，加之对关闭工厂会加重中国大型银行坏账负担的担忧，令关厂的步伐减慢。据估计，去年中国永久关闭的钢铁厂不及整体钢铁产能的2%。同一时期，有三分之一左右的产能处于闲置状态。

roughly one-third of that capacity went unused.
"There is no concrete policy or plan that can resolve these problems in the near term," says Laura Zhai, a director at rating agency Fitch in Hong Kong. "The capacity elimination is not going to happen right away."	"目前没有切实的政策或计划可以在近期内解决这些问题，"评级机构惠誉(Fitch)驻香港的董事翟璐(Laura Zhai)说。"产能淘汰不会马上实现。"
Stubborn steel capacity is also causing friction with Washington. Both the United States and the European Union are up in arms over a flood of cheap steel pouring into global markets from excess Chinese factories. In response, Washington has slapped steep tariffs on some Chinese steel imports.	难以去除的钢铁产能还导致北京与华盛顿之间产生摩擦。对于大批廉价钢铁从产能过剩的中国工厂涌入全球市场，美国和欧盟都采取了强烈抗议的态度。作为回应，华盛顿针对一些中国进口钢铁产品征收了高关税。
"Implementing policies to substantially reduce production in a range of sectors suffering from overcapacity, including steel and aluminum, is critical to the function and stability of international markets," the United States Treasury secretary, Jacob J. Lew, said during a Beijing visit this week.	"在一系列出现产能过剩的部门，包括钢铁和铝业，实施大幅减产的政策，对维持国际市场的运转和稳定是至关重要的，"美国财政部长雅各布·J·卢(Jacob J. Lew)上周访问北京期间表示。
Songting — which employed about 6,000 workers, according to the local government's website — was among the larger, privately owned mills in town. But with construction of new homes and infrastructure in the doldrums, prices of steel plunged, and Songting, along with the entire industry, began to suffer. Workers say they stopped receiving regular paychecks in early 2015. A section of the plant was idled for part of the year, and management began laying off staff.	当地政府网站的数据显示，松汀雇佣了大约 6000 名员工，是该市规模较大的私有钢铁厂之一。随着新住宅和基础设施建设陷入停滞，钢铁价格大跌，松汀随整个行业一起遭遇困难。工人们表示，自 2015 年初，他们就开始无法规律地拿到薪水。那一年的部分时间，该厂的一部分设备停产，管理层开始裁员。
One of the unfortunate was C. F. Shi, 45, who worked in Songting's factory for 21 years and asked that her full name not be used. One morning last September, she arrived at the plant to find her boss	现年 45 岁的 C·F·史(C. F. Shi)是这群不幸工人中的一员。此前，她在松汀钢铁厂工作了 21 年。她要求不要使用全名。去年 9 月的一个上午，她到厂里时，看到老板把一片片折起来的纸放进一个盒子里。盒子在房间里一个接一

dropping folded slips of paper into a box. As the box was passed around the room, each worker had to draw a slip, and only those who selected one with a mark on the inside could stay on the job.	个地传下去，每个人都要从里面抽出一张纸条来，只有抽中的纸条里面标有记号的人可以留下来继续工作。
Ms. Shi lost out in the lottery and got sent home, without five months of unpaid wages or severance. She was distraught. "I even thought of trying to hang myself," she said.	史女士没有抽中，于是她被解雇了。厂里既没有给她补发五个月的欠薪，也没有付遣散费。这令她几近崩溃。“都想过上吊自杀，”她说。
On the morning of Nov. 14, as the workers assembled at their posts as usual, managers informed them that the factory was shutting down indefinitely. According to a December report from HSBC, the money-losing mill was forced to suspend production after it was unable to pay a fee owed to the local power supply bureau.	去年 11 月 14 日的上午，工人们像往常一样在各自的岗位上工作，却听到经理通知他们工厂要无限期关闭。汇丰银行(HSBC)去年 12 月的一份报告显示，这家亏损的钢铁厂无力向当地供电局缴纳一项费用，于是被迫停产。
Some employees began demanding their paychecks, according to workers who were there. By that point, Songting owed them about six months of wages. Fifteen workers climbed to the roof of one company building and threatened to jump as hundreds of horrified staff looked on below, said one worker.	曾经在这里工作过的工人透露，一些员工开始讨要薪水。当时松汀欠了他们大概六个月的工资。其中一名工人称，有 15 名工人爬到公司其中一栋建筑的房顶上，威胁要跳楼，数百名受到惊吓的职工在下面看着。
In desperation, hundreds of Songting workers held a protest in November outside a local government office demanding their unpaid salaries, workers said, but to no avail. With few local job options, some of the laid-off employees quickly tumbled into destitution.	工人们表示，绝望之下，数百名松汀员工去年 11 月在地方政府大楼前举行了抗议活动，讨要拖欠的工资，但也无济于事。因为地方上新的工作机会很少，一些下岗职工很快陷入赤贫状态。
Ms. Shi and her husband, who had also lost his job at Songting, were unable to find steady work, leaving her scrimping to support her two young children in a drafty concrete house not far from Songting's plant. She and her husband sometimes had nothing to eat but cabbage.	史女士的丈夫也失去了他在松汀的岗位。夫妇俩找不到稳定的工作，不得不省吃俭用，好养活两个年幼的孩子。他们一家人生活在离松汀的工厂不远的一栋漏风的混凝土房子里。她和丈夫有时什么也没得吃，只有大白菜。
"We don't even have the basic requirements for life," Ms. Shi said.	"我们就连基本的生活需求都满足不了，"史女士说。

Starting in late February, some workers began getting calls from their former managers asking them to return. Part of the plant, they were told, was going to start production again.	从2月末开始，一些工人开始接到以前经理的电话，请他们回去工作。他们得知，工厂部分恢复了生产。
The reason was not clear. Industry experts say other owners have restarted factories to generate cash. A recent jump in steel prices widely attributed to a new Chinese lending binge and a pickup in construction activity has also encouraged factory owners.	其中的原因并不明确。行业专家表示，其他一些老板重启工厂是为了获利。最近钢铁价格的跳涨——被普遍归因于中国新一轮的信贷热——与建筑业的好转也助推了工厂所有者的这一决策。
Maintaining jobs is a major consideration as well, said Xu Xiangchun, chief information officer at Chinese research firm Mysteel. "The employment problem is the biggest problem for the government and the enterprises," he said. "So the companies adopt various measures to activate capital and to give workers jobs."	中国研究公司“我的钢铁网”资讯总监徐向春表示，保住工作岗位亦是一个主要的考虑因素。“对政府和企业来说，就业是最大的问题，”他说。“所以这些企业采取了各种措施来盘活资本，给工人提供工作机会。”
The industry's woes are far from over. Fitch, the bond-rating firm, estimates that the industry may be saddled with as much as $600 billion in debt. That burden, combined with low prices and sagging demand, has moved the steel sector into the red. The China Iron and Steel Association said that its members lost a combined $9.8 billion last year, compared with a combined profit of $3.4 billion in 2014.	这个行业的麻烦还远远没有结束。据债券评级机构惠誉估计，钢铁行业的债务规模或许多达6000亿美元。这么大的债务负担，加上产品价格低迷、需求疲软，令整个行业陷入亏损。中国钢铁工业协会表示，去年其成员共计损失645亿元人民币。而在2014年，这些企业获得了共计226亿元的利润。
"Even if there is no government push, the market conditions will drive out more capacity," said Rachel Zhang, a steel analyst at Morgan Stanley. "It is just a matter of time."	“即便没有政府的推动，市场环境也会淘汰更多产能，”摩根士丹利(Morgan Stanley)钢铁行业分析师蕾切尔·张(Rachel Zhang)说。“这只是一个时间问题。”
Because Songting is a private company, it does not disclose financial details. The company declined requests for comment.	因为松汀是一家私人企业，所以它不对外披露财务细节。公司拒绝了本报的置评请求。
Its workers are simply happy to have their jobs back. Ms. Shi returned to her old job in late April, just as the mill started operating again, though	因为可以重返工作岗位，工人们就感到很高兴了。4月底，这家钢铁厂开始重新运转时，史女士做回自己原来的工作，尽管薪水有所减少。她还是会担 at a reduced salary. She still worries about what might come, but for now, she hopes her fortunes will revive with Songting's. "At least the living standard of my two kids has improved," she said.	心接下来会发生什么, 不过眼下她希望自己的运势可以随松汀一起重振。“至少两个孩子的生活水平有了提高,” 她说。

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160612/a-steel-mill-lives-again-in-a-setback-for-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160612/a-steel-mill-lives-again-in-a-setback-for-china
Disney Shares Keys to the Magic Kingdom With China	迪士尼的魔法在中国失灵 (下): 同床异梦
Read the first chapter: Disney Shares Keys to the Magic Kingdom With China (Chapter 1)	阅读《迪士尼的魔法在中国失灵 (上): 挫败与妥协》
One Bed, Different Dreams	同床异梦
When the Communist Party first invited overseas companies into the country in 1979, global businesses had to team up with the state. It wasn't pretty.	当共产党于 1979 年邀请海外企业来中国做生意的时候, 跨国公司必须和政府合营。那种滋味并不美妙。
As commercial interests clashed with socialist principles, there were wage disputes, allegations of intellectual property theft and conflicts over corporate strategy. To put it in the parlance of an ancient Chinese proverb, it was like two people sleeping in the "same bed, dreaming different dreams."	在商业利益与社会主义原则发生冲突的同时, 出现了工资纠纷、窃取知识产权的指控以及公司战略方面的分歧。用一句古老的中国谚语来说, 就是“同床异梦”。
Pepsi found itself managing a tanning factory, as part of its Chinese partnership. McDonnell Douglas claimed that some machine tools had been diverted to a factory that made missiles, in violation of United States rules. The American and Chinese partners in Beijing Jeep disagreed over quality control.	百事(Pepsi)发现自己在管理着一座灌装厂, 那是和中方合作的一部分。麦道(McDonnell Douglas)声称, 某些机床被转移到了一家制造导弹的工厂, 这违反了美国的法规。北京吉普的中美合作伙伴则在质量控制问题上意见不合。
"I now tell people, 'If you don't have to do a joint venture, don't,'" said Don St. Pierre Sr., an American businessman who worked for Beijing Jeep.	“我现在会跟人说, ‘合资企业能不办就不办’, ”曾为北京吉普工作的美国商人老唐·圣皮尔(Don St. Pierre Sr.)说。

After the blowups, China started to allow some companies to go it alone. But Disney didn't have a choice. The Communist Party maintains strict control over media companies.	出现种种争端之后，中国开始允许某些公司独立运营。但迪士尼没有选择。共产党坚持严控媒体公司。
The partnership has significant perks for Disney. State-run construction companies cleared a 1,700-acre tract to build the resort, which will ultimately include two additional Disney theme parks and thousands of Disney hotel rooms, analysts say. The authorities have relocated residents, moved graves and closed more than 150 polluting factories. The government built new infrastructure, including a subway line that goes directly to the park's front gate.	这种伙伴关系给迪士尼带来了显著的好处。分析人士称，一些国有建筑公司清理出了一片面积为 1700 英亩的空地，用以修建这个度假区，它最终还将包括另外两个主题园区和数以千计的迪士尼酒店客房。当局已经迁走了居民和坟墓，关闭了逾 150 家制造污染的工厂。政府新建了一些基础设施，其中包括一条直达主题公园大门口的地铁。
Officials have also taken unusual steps to protect Disney from piracy in China, a country where copyright infringement is common and the government rarely intervenes. Whether the state can stand by that pledge is uncertain. But early signs are promising. Last November, regulators fined five copycat Disney hotels located near the theme park. Around the same time, nearly 2,000 counterfeit Disney items, including hundreds of Winnie-the-Pooh shirts, were seized in Hangzhou. The government is even sending regulators to Disney for special training to help them better identify counterfeits.	在这个侵犯版权之举稀松平常、而政府极少干预的国度里，官员们还采取了一些非同寻常的措施，来保护迪士尼免受盗版之害。目前尚不确定政府能否长期坚持履行相关承诺。但早期的一些迹象令人颇为振奋。去年 11 月，监管部门对主题公园附近五家山寨版迪士尼酒店处以罚款。就在那段时间，近 2000 件仿冒迪士尼品牌的商品，包括数百件小熊维尼衬衫，在广州被截获。政府甚至还派遣监管人员到迪士尼接受专门的培训，以便更好地识别仿冒品。
The partnership is "structured so that it will work," said Mr. Iger. "They have a tremendous amount riding on it."	这种伙伴关系“是为了顺利运转而精心构建的，”艾格说。“这件事对他们至关重要。”
But Disney is stepping into a potential minefield. State leaders are growing more confident about exerting influence over multinationals. The government is pushing to upgrade China's economy, and it wants state-owned companies to learn from partners like Disney while	但迪士尼正踏入一个潜在的雷区。政府官员在向跨国公司施加影响方面越来越自信。中国政府正推动中国经济升级换代，它希望国有企业既能从迪士尼这样的合作伙伴身上学到东西，又能获得很大一部分收益。

amassing a large share of the profits.
Along with its stake in the park, Shendi stands to make a fortune from a 4,000-acre plot of land that it controls around the resort. In other locales, Disney has typically maintained a firm grip on the immediately adjacent real estate. Shendi wants to use that land for hotels, spas and retail, like its new Shanghai Village, a 590,000-square-foot outlet mall, with luxury shops selling Armani, Kate Spade, Juicy Couture and other brands.	除了持有主题公园的股权，申迪还控制着度假区附近一块面积为 4000 英亩的土地，从中能赚一大笔钱。在其他地区，迪士尼通常会死死抓住紧邻地块的控制权。申地想用这块地来建造酒店、水疗中心和零售空间，就像它的新项目“奕欧来上海购物村”(Shanghai Village)一样，那是一座面积为 59 万平方英尺的专营购物中心，内设销售 Armani、Kate Spade、Juicy Couture 等奢侈品牌的商铺。
The Shanghai government sees Disney as just one piece of a broader effort to redevelop Pudong, the city's easternmost region, by creating industrial parks, economic zones and tourist destinations. Just 30 miles southeast of Disney's site, the government has promoted Winterland, which bills itself as the world's largest indoor ski resort and entertainment facility. Nearby, Haichang Polar Ocean World promises "performances" by beluga whales, dolphins, polar bears and arctic wolves.	上海市政府正通过建设工业园区、经济特区和旅游景点来重建浦东，与迪士尼的合作被其视为这种努力的一部分。迪士尼度假区东南方仅 30 公里处的“冰雪世界”游乐项目，已经得到了政府的推广，它号称是世界上最大的室内滑雪场和娱乐设施。附近的“海昌极地海洋世界”承诺，将会有白鲸、海豚、北极熊和北极狼在那里表演。
"China wants Shanghai to be this kind of dragon's head, a showcase city for all the world to see," said Robert Lawrence Kuhn, an American businessman who has worked with the Shanghai government. "Disney is part of that grand strategy."	"中国想让上海成为这种龙头城市，一座展示给全世界的样本城市，"已经在跟上海市政府合作的美国商人罗伯特·劳伦斯·库恩(Robert Lawrence Kuhn)说。"迪士尼是这个宏大战略的一部分。"
The partnership structure puts Disney in a complicated spot. Shendi is really a consortium of four powerful government-owned companies: the Shanghai Radio, Film and Television Development Company; Jin Jiang Hotels; Bailian retail shops; and a property developer, the Lujiazui Group. And each of those companies has separate business ties to	这种伙伴关系的结构已经把迪士尼置于复杂的境地之中。申迪的四大股东分别是上海广播电影电视发展有限公司、锦江国际集团、百联集团和房地产开发商陆家嘴集团，均为极具影响力的国企。它们分别都和迪士尼的新度假区有着业务上的联系。

Disney's new resort.
The Jin Jiang Group has a contract to provide tourism services for the park. The Lujiazui Group helped develop the world's largest Disney Store. The Shanghai Media Group, a division of the development company, is positioned to capture a big share of the park's television and advertising budget, since it controls the city's biggest television stations, as well as major newspapers, magazines and radio properties.	锦江国际集团持有为主题公园提供旅游服务的合同。陆家嘴集团参与开办了那家全球最大的迪士尼商店(Disney Store)。上海文广集团将把主题公园的相当一部分电视广告及推广预算收入囊中，因为它控制着上海市最大的一些电视台，以及主要报纸、杂志和广播电台。
So Disney will have to deal with a bewildering array of state affiliates acting as partners, suppliers and even competitors, making contract negotiations complex and raising thorny conflict-of-interest issues. Shendi, for instance, has set up its own energy company to supply natural gas to the theme park site. And Shanghai Media Group has formed alliances or made investments with Disney competitors like Sony, Warner Bros. and DreamWorks Animation.	因此，迪士尼必须和一系列令人眼花缭乱的国有部门打交道，它们是合作伙伴、供应商，甚至还是竞争对手，从而让合同谈判变得更加复杂，并引发棘手的利益冲突问题。例如申迪已经成立了自己的能源公司，为主题公园所在区域供应天然气。而上海文广集团已经与索尼(Sony)、华纳兄弟(Warner Bros)、梦工厂动画电影公司(DreamWorks Animation)等迪士尼的竞争对手结成了战略联盟，或者与其共同投资了一些项目。
"The more partners you have, the more potential conflicts," said Oded Shenkar, a professor of business at Ohio State University and an authority on Chinese joint ventures.	"合作伙伴越多，潜在的冲突就越多，"俄亥俄州立大学(Ohio State University)商学院教授、中国合资企业研究权威石家安(Oded Shenkar)说。
"Each of those state companies may come with multiple other affiliations," he added. A multinational must then "contend with a whole network of relationships and interdependencies they often cannot decipher."	"这些国有公司每一家都可能有多个子公司，"他接着说。因此，跨国公司必须"面对它们常常无法理解的关系和相关性所构成的整个网络"。
A Master of Control	控制大师
When Disney unveiled the website for the Shanghai park in March, the fervor was instantaneous. The site registered five million hits in less than half an hour. Tickets for the first two weeks sold out within hours.	迪士尼3月推出上海迪士尼度假区的网站时，立即激起了民众的热情。不到半个小时，网站的点击量就高达500万。前两周的门票在几个小时内售罄。5月初的一个周末，在距正式开放还有一个月时，逾10万人前往该度假区，

Over one weekend in early May, with the opening still a month away, more than 100,000 people visited the resort to peek through the park gates and explore a shopping area that doesn't require a ticket.	透过园区大门窥探内部情况，勘察不需要门票的购物区。
But the criticism has begun, too. Disney has been pilloried in local media for its prices ($1 for a single steamed bun, or about five times the street price). Some initial visitors trampled the public gardens. And Disney has had to deploy uniformed security guards to maintain order at popular rides, where lines during the soft opening stretched up to three hours. Shanghai authorities subsequently published an etiquette guide.	但批评的声音已经出现。因为价格的原因（一个包子一美元，大约是街头价格的五倍），迪士尼受到了本地媒体的指责。初期的一些游客践踏公共绿地。迪士尼不得不安排穿着制服的保安在受欢迎的游乐设施旁边维持秩序，试运营期间，人们在等待的长队中最多要等上三个小时。此后，上海当局发布了一份礼仪指南。
"The frenzy of Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck and the era of blindly following them have passed," Wang Jianlin, the chairman of Dalian Wanda Group, which operates a chain of Chinese theme parks, said on state television in May.	"现在已经不是看米老鼠、唐老鸭为之疯狂的年代了，"大连万达集团董事长王健林5月在官方电视台上说。万达经营着中国的一个主题公园连锁品牌。
Mr. Iger brushed off Mr. Wang's criticism as "patently absurd," and said media reports about food pricing complaints were overblown. "We made a decision with our quick-service restaurants to go higher-end, and there's a cost to that," he said.	艾格对王健林的抨击不甚在意，称其“极其荒唐”，并表示媒体对民众抱怨食品价格的报道言过其实了。“我们和快餐店一同决定走高端路线，这是有成本的，”他说。
Disney needs to avoid getting lost in translation, an especially difficult proposition in China. It is a deeply American brand trying to break into a country where the government wants to suppress Western ideals.	迪士尼需要避免在本地化过程中迷失方向。在中国，这是一件特别困难的事情。作为一个美国特色非常浓厚的品牌，迪士尼正在试图进入一个政府希望压制西方理念的国家。
Already, Shanghai Disneyland is triggering concerns about American cultural imperialism. At a gathering of China's political leaders in Beijing in March, an official called for limiting Disney's expansion and growth.	上海迪士尼乐园已经引发了对美国文化帝国主义的担忧。今年3月，在中国政治领导人于北京召开的一场会议上，一名官员呼吁限制迪士尼的扩张和发展。
"I suggest that we shouldn't allow too many Disneyland theme parks to	"我不建议大量的迪士尼乐园进来，"曾任东部安徽省文化厅副厅长的李修松

be built” in China, said Li Xiusong, the deputy head of culture in the eastern Anhui province. “If children follow Western culture when they are little, they will end up liking Western culture when they grow up and be disinterested in Chinese culture.”	说。“孩子从小就追求西方文化，长大了就会喜欢西方文化，对中国文化冷冰冰。”
The country’s leaders have also grown more nationalistic in recent years: Everything must serve the state’s interest. The Communist Party is using Disney to bolster the country’s own media and entertainment companies, as well as to improve China’s image abroad. And the Chinese government is a master of control, known for strictly censoring Western media. This spring, with little warning or explanation, Chinese regulators shut down Apple’s digital book service and DisneyLife, a four-month-old subscription-based movie streaming service operated by Alibaba.	最近几年，中国的领导人也变得愈发崇尚民族主义：一切都必须服务于国家利益。共产党正在运用迪士尼来支持中国自己的媒体和娱乐公司，以及改善中国在海外的形象。中国政府是管控大师，以严格审查西方媒体出名。今年春天，中国监管机构在几乎没有进行任何警告或解释的情况下，便关闭了苹果的数字图书服务和阿里巴巴推出仅四个月的订阅电影流服务迪士尼视界。
Disney is going to extraordinary lengths to prove its commitment to the China and the Communist Party. During a 2010 meeting with China’s propaganda minister, Mr. Iger pledged to use the company’s global platform to “introduce more about China to the world.” And he has done just that.	迪士尼正在不遗余力地证明自己对中国和共产党做出的承诺。2010年与中国负责宣传事务的一位部长会面时，艾格承诺利用迪士尼公司的全球平台，“向世界进一步介绍中国”。他的确也这么做了。
Disney is working with China’s Ministry of Culture to help develop the country’s animation industry and has agreed to work with Shanghai Media Group to make films for global audiences. Notably, Disney partnered with the state to produce “Born in China,” a film that promises to “showcase to the world the spectacular wildlife and natural beauty of China,” which a trailer depicts as snuggly baby pandas, snow leopards and lavish aerial shots of pristine mountain ranges.	迪士尼正在与中国文化部合作，帮助发展该国的动漫产业，并且已同意同上海东方传媒集团合作，制作面向全球发行的电影。尤其要指出的是，迪士尼和中国官方携手制作《生于中国》。这部影片承诺“向世界展示中国壮丽的野生动植物和自然之美”。预告片中出现了温暖可爱的熊猫宝宝、雪豹和航拍镜头下的壮丽山川。

"When global brands ask me what they need to do to improve their chances in China, I often paraphrase John F. Kennedy: Ask not what China can do for your business, but what your business can do for China," said John A. Quelch, who teaches at Harvard Business School and has extensive experience in China. "They need to demonstrate that they are willing to promote things the government is interested in."	"当跨国品牌问我，它们需要怎么做才能增加自己在中国的机会时，我常常套用约翰·F·肯尼迪(John F. Kennedy)的话：不要问中国能为你的企业做什么，要问你的企业能为中国做什么，"在哈佛商学院任教且在华经历丰富的约翰·A·奎尔其(John A. Quelch)说。"它们需要表明自己愿意提倡政府感兴趣的东西。"
Mr. Iger is trying especially to give Shanghai Disney some Chinese flair. Disney instructed its park designers to infuse as many Chinese elements as possible.	艾格正在特别努力地赋予上海迪士尼一些中国特色。迪士尼要求乐园的设计师尽量多地融入中国元素。
Builders collected indigenous trees from all around China, including a 59-foot chestnut oak from Zhejiang province, to adorn the grounds. A "Tarzan" show was directed by Li Xining, an acrobatics expert who once worked for the Chengdu Military Area Command under the People's Liberation Army. The musical version of "The Lion King" will be performed entirely in Mandarin, the first time in a language other than English at any Disney resort.	负责打造度假区的工作人员从全国各地收集当地的特色树种，来装饰园区，包括来自浙江省的一棵59英尺(约合18米)高的小叶栎。曾任职于人民解放军成都军区的杂技专家李西宁根据《泰山》(Tarzan)导演了一部舞台剧。音乐剧《狮子王》(The Lion King)也将全程使用中文。这是迪士尼乐园首次使用除英语以外的其他语言演出该音乐剧。
Mr. Iger even came up with a new slogan for the Shanghai resort, calling it "authentically Disney and distinctly Chinese." He repeats the phrase constantly when talking about the site, and Disney executives in Shanghai have posted it around their offices. It is supposed to be a sign of respect for China and its people.	艾格甚至还给上海迪士尼度假区想到了一个新口号，叫"原汁原味迪士尼，别具一格中国风"。说到那里时，他会不断重复这句话，上海迪士尼高管的办公室里到处都贴着这句话。这被认为标志着对中国及其民众的尊重。
"What are we doing here that will make this park successful in China?" Mr. Iger said at an investor event in May. "One of the critical elements was making it distinctly Chinese, making sure that the people who visit this park feel that it's theirs."	"我们在这里要怎么做，才能让这个乐园在中国取得成功?"艾格在5月的一次投资者活动上说。"关键的一个点是让它具有明显的中国特色，确保来度假区游玩的人觉得这里就是他们的地方。"

https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160614/c15chinadisney2	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160614/c15chinadisney2
MSCI Delays Adding China Stock to Emerging Markets Benchmark	MSCI 指数再次拒绝 A 股，担忧中国政府干预
SHANGHAI — Chinese stocks had seemed poised to join an important global benchmark, paving the way for overseas money to pour into the country's markets.	上海——中国股市看上去已经准备好加入一个重要的全球指数，以便为海外资金涌入国内市场铺平道路。
But the provider of the index, MSCI, decided that China was not yet ready, again holding off on adding mainland stocks to its influential emerging-markets benchmark.	然而，指数供应商 MSCI 明晟再次决定延迟将中国 A 股纳入这个重要的新兴市场指数，表示中国还没有做好准备。
The decision, announced on Tuesday, was a blow not only to despondent local investors but for the Chinese government more broadly. For several years, China had been pushing hard to increase its sway in global financial markets, an effort that recently resulted in having its currency, the renminbi, included in the exclusive club of currencies at the International Monetary Fund.	本周二宣布的这个决定不仅让本地投资者失望，也在更宏观的层面上令中国政府遭受了打击。几年来，中国一直在大力提升本国在全球金融市场的影响力，人民币最近就加入了国际货币基金组织(IMF)的一个高级俱乐部。
A year ago, China seemed close to having won over MSCI, whose remaining major concern was the difficulty for foreigners to buy and sell stocks in China, where the government has significant influence over markets.	一年前，中国看上去即将赢得 MSCI 明晟的认可。当时它的主要顾虑是境外人士在中国买卖股票颇为困难，政府对股市影响很大。
One stock market crash later, however, the government's grip has grown tighter.	不过后来股市崩溃，政府反而加紧了对它的掌控。
The heavy-handed government intervention after the crash raised questions about whether China's volatile and highly speculative local markets could pass muster with global investors and regulators. Tactics used included banning big shareholders from selling stocks, detaining investors who bet on falling share prices and even suppressing	政府在股市暴跌后采取的重大干预行动引发了外界的疑问：中国股市波动巨大，投机性很强，它是否符合全球投资者和监管机构的要求？中国采取的措施包括禁止大股东抛售股票，拘押空头投资者，甚至是打压来自独立渠道的经济信息。 independent economic information.

The extra money flowing into mainland stocks, or A shares, would have provided a much-needed boost. Despite the government intervention, Chinese stocks have been in a deep slump, off about 40 percent in the last 12 months.	如果有额外的资金注入 A 股, 就可以为它提供急需的推动力。尽管中国政府采取了干预措施, 中国股市却一直低迷, 在过去 12 个月中跌幅达到 40% 左右。
"International institutional investors clearly indicated that they would like to see further improvements in the accessibility of the China A shares market before its inclusion in the MSCI Emerging Markets Index," Remy Briand, the global head of research at MSCI, said in a statement on Tuesday.	"国际机构投资者明确表示, 他们希望看到中国 A 股在被纳入 MSCI 新兴市场指数之前, 其开放性得到进一步改善," MSCI 明晟负责全球研究的雷米·布赖恩德(Remy Briand)在周二的声明中称。
MSCI said it would reconsider A shares for inclusion in 2017.	MSCI 明晟表示, 将在 2017 年重新考虑是否纳入 A 股。
The index provider's decision to delay for another year highlights persistent concerns among global investors about government meddling in local markets as well as the quality of regulation and company accounts.	MSCI 明晟做出再延迟一年的决定, 突显了全球投资者对中国政府干预股市、对监管质量及企业会计水准的持续担忧。
"Accounting in China is a state secret," said Hugh Young, who oversees investments in Asia for Aberdeen, one of the world's largest emerging markets investors. "Our money goes into companies, and we have had trouble finding the right ones to invest in."	"在中国, 会计账目是国家机密," 全球最大的新兴市场投资机构之一安本(Aberdeen)在亚洲的负责人杨修(Hugh Young)说。"我们的钱会进入企业, 但我们已经很难找到合适的公司来投资。"
Most large investors get their China equity exposure by investing in large companies listed in Hong Kong or other overseas markets — like the internet giants Tencent and Alibaba — where companies must adhere to globally accepted financial rules and regulations. MSCI's weighing toward China was already 25 percent, the largest of all the countries it tracks; analysts were guessing that China's inclusion would	多数大型投资机构通过投资在香港或其他海外市场上市的大型企业——比如互联网巨头腾讯和阿里巴巴——的方式, 来获得中国股票资产。在这些市场, 公司必须遵循全球公认的财务规则和监管条例。中国在 MSCI 中的实际比重已经达到 25%, 是该指数追踪的最大一个国家; 分析师们猜测, 纳入 A 股将把这个比重再提高一个百分点。

add another 1 percent of Chinese exposure.
MSCI said investors were also bothered by the stiff limits imposed on foreign investors withdrawing their funds from China.	MSCI 明晟表示，投资者还有另一个困扰：境外投资者从中国撤出资金面临着严格限制。
The verdict will do little to lift the mood in China's once bustling brokerage halls.	这个判定几乎无助于让中国曾经繁忙的交易厅兴奋起来。
On a recent afternoon inside a poorly lit trading hall near People's Park in Shanghai, a dozen or so elderly investors were chatting among themselves as the final minutes of another trading day ticked away.	近日的一个下午，在上海人民公园附近一家光线昏暗的交易厅里，当天的交易时段马上就要结束，十几个老年股民正在聊天。
As the stock prices flashing on a bank of 21 LCD screens attested, the main Shanghai share index had staged a modest rally to recover from its earlier losses. But once again, the index had slumped back down into negative turf by the 3 p.m. close.	墙上 21 块液晶屏上闪烁着股票价格。上证指数之前在跌，后来小幅反弹。但是下午 3 点休市时已经又跌回阴线。
"It's not about waiting it out, because if you try you will probably get wiped out," said Mr. Ye, a 62-year-old retiree who declined to give his full name when speaking critically about the government's stock market rescue efforts.	"等不是办法，如果你等，可能就会输得精光，"不愿透露全名的退休人员老叶说。他 62 岁，对政府的救市努力颇有微辞。
"It is really painful," he added, estimating that most of the investors at the Shanghai trading hall had lost money over the past year. "This market isn't really regulated."	"真的很难受，"他还说。"股市没有被真正管起来。"他估计，这个上海交易厅的大多数股民过去一年都亏了钱。
The MSCI decision speaks to the caution signs in the market.	MSCI 明晟的决定体现了市场的警惕。
When the index company delayed its decision a year ago, mainland stocks were at their frothiest. They had more than doubled over the previous 12 months.	一年前这家基准供应商推迟做出决定时，大陆股市泡沫正处在顶峰。在那之前的 12 个月里，其股市涨了一倍多。
At the time, the company said it was concerned about a number of restrictions in China. Certain rules made it challenging for global	当时公司称他们担心的是中国的一些限制措施。一些规则阻碍了国际投资人的钱在这个国家的进出，甚至不能明确证明他们对股票的所有权。 investors to move money in and out of the country, or even to prove with certainty their ownership of shares.

Global investors also fretted about the curious ability of Chinese companies to stop trading in their stock whenever it seemed to suit their own needs. The practice stopped shares under pressure from falling further, but it did so by preventing investors from cashing out.	中国公司可以在任何他们觉得必要的时候停止其股票交易, 这种奇特的能力令国际投资者十分苦恼。这种做法可以阻止有下行压力的股票进一步下跌, 但同时也阻止投资者将股票抛出。
With an eye on making the cut at MSCI, China sought to address these concerns in recent months.	为了达到 MSCI 明晟的标准, 中国在过去几个月里试图去解决这些困扰。
Last month, China's stock exchanges published new rules that discouraged companies from halting trading in their own shares. China also took steps to give foreign investors greater access to its markets by increasing investment quotas.	上个月, 中国的证交所发布新规, 对企业的停牌加以限制。中国还通过增加投资额度来让外国投资者可以更多地进入其市场。
Last week, China said it would grant an initial renminbi-denominated investment quota to the United States, allowing American funds to purchase stocks worth as much as 250 billion renminbi, or $38 billion. American investors could previously buy into Chinese stocks through other methods, but the new quota provided significant direct access and ranked as the second-biggest of its kind under the renminbi program, after Hong Kong's.	上周, 中国称将向美国提供一笔人民币合格境外机构投资者额度, 美国基金共可购买 2500 亿人民币 (约合 380 亿美元) 的股票。美国投资者此前可以通过其他途径购买中国股票, 但新的额度大大降低了直接进入市场的门槛, 使美国拥有了该人民币结算项目的第二大额度, 仅次于香港。
This follows previous moves to open up mainland markets through a newer link between the Hong Kong and Shanghai markets, although it is also subject to investment caps and quotas. Chinese officials have said they plan to make stocks listed in Shenzhen eligible for the same scheme, connecting them to the Hong Kong market later this year.	在此之前, 香港和上海股市建立了新的联系, 从而进一步开放大陆市场, 不过那种途径同样要收到上限和额度的限制。中国官员称他们打算把深圳股市也采取同样的方式处理, 在今年晚些时候和香港股市连通。
Still, efforts to improve market regulations may be cold comfort for	但对于普通的中国投资者而言, 去年股市崩盘的损失让他们心有余悸, 这些

ordinary Chinese investors who are still nursing losses from last year's stock market fallout.	改善市场监管的努力恐怕起不到什么安慰作用。
Mr. Tao, a 63-year-old retiree at the Shanghai brokerage who declined to give his first name because he spoke critically of the government's actions, said he used a bit of his monthly pension of 1,600 renminbi, or $243, to dabble in the stock market.	在上海的证券大厅, 63岁的退休人士陶先生说, 他在用每月1600元退休金中的一部分玩股票。由于涉及批评政府行为的言论, 他拒绝透露自己的全名。
Taking a break outside the brokerage to chat over a red Double Happiness cigarette, Mr. Tao said he was sitting on tidy profits until the market turned downward last June.	正在大厅外抽着双喜烟休息的陶先生说, 他当时是稳赚的, 结果去年6月股市开始暴跌。
Since then, his investments have given back more than 70 percent of those gains.	此后他在投资中赚到的钱70%以上又赔了回去。
"In investing, one misstep and you're nabbed," Mr. Tao said.	"炒股是一不小心就要套牢的," 陶先生说。
He added that it could take years to recover his lost profits. "Now I just want to wait it out," he said.	他还说自己的收益损失可能要好几年才能收回来。"现在就只能是等了," 他说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160615/msci-delays-adding-china-stock-to-emerging-markets-benchmark	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160615/msci-delays-adding-china-stock-to-emerging-markets-benchmark
China-Led Development Bank Starts With $509 Million in Loans for 4 Projects	亚投行宣布首批贷款项目, 强调国际性
BEIJING — A new Chinese-led international development bank announced its first four loans on Saturday, pledging to lend $509 million for projects to spread electric power in rural Bangladesh, upgrade living conditions in slums in Indonesia, and improve roads in Pakistan and Tajikistan.	北京——周六, 中国牵头的一个国际开发银行宣布了它的首批四个贷款项目, 承诺将提供5.09亿美元贷款, 用于在孟加拉国乡村地区普及电力供应, 提高印度尼西亚贫民窟的生活条件, 以及改善巴基斯坦和塔吉克斯坦的道路状况。
At the first of the annual general meetings of the institution, the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank, the bank's president, Jin Liqun, said the	在亚洲基础设施投资银行(简称亚投行)首届理事会年会上, 行长金立群表示, 这些项目资金充足, 环境友好, 已经被项目所在地的民众接受。

projects were financially sound and environmentally friendly and had been accepted by the people in the project areas.
The projects of the 57-member bank, founded last year as an effort by China to both challenge lending institutions and cooperate with them, are relatively modest.	相对而言，亚投行的这些项目不算太大。这家银行有 57 个成员，去年由中国努力促成，既是为了挑战现有的借贷机构，也是为了与它们展开合作。
The road in Tajikistan is just three miles long, but it will help clear traffic congestion on an important trading route near the capital, Dushanbe. A $100 million loan to Pakistan is for 40 miles of highway in Punjab Province that would complete the last section of a national artery, the M-4, the bank said.	在塔吉克斯坦修建的这条公路只有三英里长，但它将有助于改善首都杜尚别附近一条重要贸易线路的交通拥堵情况。亚投行表示，给巴基斯坦提供的 1 亿美元贷款将被用于在旁遮普省修建 40 英里的公路，工程属于该国一条国家主干线 M-4 建设的最后一部分。
Three of the projects are being financed with other institutions — the Asian Development Bank, the World Bank, and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development — an approach that allowed the new bank to begin the projects quickly. The bank’s $165 million loan to expand electricity in rural areas of Bangladesh is its only stand-alone project.	这些项目中有三项同时获得了其他机构——亚洲开发银行(Asian Development Bank)、世界银行(World Bank)和欧洲复兴开发银行(European Bank for Reconstruction and Development)——的资金。这一策略使这家新银行得以很快启动项目。用于扩展孟加拉国农村地区电力覆盖的 1.65 亿美元贷款，是亚投行唯一一个独立出资的项目。
By financing projects with long-established institutions, the Beijing-based bank was able to move quickly because work on meeting environmental standards and procurement policies had been completed, staff members at the bank said.	亚投行工作人员表示，通过与成熟机构一起为这些项目提供贷款，这家总部位于北京的银行得以快速行动起来，因为满足环境标准和采购政策需求的工作已经完成。
Although the new bank was China’s idea, it is intended to operate as an international bank dedicated to improving the basic structures and facilities needed to stimulate development across Asia, Mr. Jin said at a news conference on Saturday. Unlike the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank, the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank places	周六的时候，金立群在新闻发布会上表示，尽管成立亚投行的想法由中国提出，但它的目的是运营一家国际银行，致力于改善促进亚洲各地经济发展所需的基础建筑与设施。他还称，与世界银行和亚洲开发银行不同的是，亚投行的侧重点相对不那么放在减少贫困上。 less emphasis on the reduction of poverty, he said.

The bank “was born with the birthmark of China, but its upbringing is international,” Mr. Jin said. Referring to the three other institutions that will finance the projects, he said, “We can work wonderfully together.”	亚投行的“诞生带有中国标记，但它的成长方式是国际性的，”金立群说。在谈到为这些项目提供资金的其他三家机构时，他表示，“我们可以很好地展开合作。”
The new bank is being watched closely. The United States refused to join when it was offered membership in 2014, saying it was uncertain how the bank would measure up on matters of environmental protection, human rights and anticorruption measures long promoted by Western governments and institutions. Japan has also not sought membership in the bank.	这家新银行受到密切的关注。2014年接到邀请时，美国拒绝加入亚投行，声称不确定它会如何在西方政府和机构长期推动的环境保护、人权和反腐措施等问题上做到合规。日本也不曾寻求加入该行。
But President Obama’s administration was mostly concerned that the bank would challenge the current development architecture, the Bretton Woods system established under the leadership of the United States after World War II.	不过，奥巴马政府主要还是担忧亚投行会挑战目前的开发架构，也就是二战后在美国领导下确立的布雷顿森林体系。
In the past year, Mr. Jin has worked to reassure Washington, largely by agreeing to choose projects that have already been approved by the World Bank, the Asian Development Bank and the European bank. He has also emphasized that the new bank will be more streamlined and strive to be “lean, green and clean.”	过去一年，金立群在努力消除华盛顿的担忧，主要方式是同意选择已被世界银行、亚洲开发银行和欧洲复兴开发银行批准的项目。他还强调亚投行的结构将会较为精炼，努力做到“精干、廉洁和绿色”。
Washington has shown no signs of wanting to join the new bank, but senior Obama administration officials have praised the decision to work with the established institutions and their regimen of standards.	华盛顿一直没有显示出想要加入的迹象，不过奥巴马政府的高级官员赞扬了亚投行与成熟机构合作并遵循其标准规则的做法。
Britain was the most eager of the Western democracies to join the bank, and it broke ranks with the United States and became a member in the fall of 2014. Other members of the European Union, including	在西方民主社会中，英国是最积极加入亚投行的国家。它于2014年秋季脱离美国阵营，成为亚投行的成员国。包括法国和德国在内，欧盟的其他一些成员也很快加入。

France and Germany, rushed in after Britain.
The withdrawal of Britain from the European Union is not expected to affect its relationship with the bank, Mr. Jin said. "I believe the United Kingdom will continue to play an important role in the development of the bank," he said at the news conference.	金立群预计，英国退出欧盟不会对它与亚投行的关系产生影响。“我相信英国将继续在亚投行的发展中扮演重要的角色，”他在新闻发布会上表示。
Asked if he believed that Britain's decision showed that the old guard was crumbling quicker than he expected, Mr. Jin diplomatically replied that he had detected no such signs.	在被问到他是否觉得英国的决定显示出旧势力崩溃的速度比他预料得要快，金立群以外交口吻予以答复——他没有发现这种迹象。
One of five vice presidents of the bank, the British politician Danny Alexander, sat next to Mr. Jin at the news conference. Member countries eagerly sought to fill the positions of vice president, and Mr. Alexander's appointment was interpreted as a reward to Britain for its critical support of the bank in the face of American opposition.	在新闻发布会上，身为亚投行五位副行长之一的英国政界人士丹尼·亚历山大(Danny Alexander)就坐在金立群旁边。各成员国急切地想获得副行长的职位，而亚历山大获得任命被解读为对英国的回报，感谢它在面临美国的反对之时予以关键的支持。
Two dozen countries have expressed interest in joining the bank, and they sent observers to the two-day meeting, Mr. Jin said. The new members would come from Eastern Europe, Latin America and Africa, and could join as early as next year.	金立群提到，有二十多个国家表达了加入亚投行的意向，他们派了观察员来出席这次为期两天的会议。这些新成员来自东欧、拉丁美洲和非洲，最早可能于明年加入。
So far, the bank has 39 permanent professional staff members and about 20 other people working on contracts, a relatively small pool of people for an international bank planning to supervise major contracts. The staff is expected to expand to about 100 by the end of the year, a bank official said.	截至目前，亚投行共有 39 名常设正式员工，另有大约 20 名合同工。对于一个计划监管大型合约项目的国际银行而言，人员显得比较少。一名银行官员表示，到今年底，亚投行员工人数预计将达到 100 人左右。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160627/china-led-development-bank-starts-with-509-million-in-loans-for-4-projects	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160627/china-led-development-bank-starts-with-509-million-in-loans-for-4-projects
Climate Change Seen as Threat to Lucrative 'Himalayan Viagra' Fungus	“喜马拉雅伟哥”日渐稀缺，气候变化惹的祸？

BAGDANDA, Nepal — From a pasture high in the Himalayas, Tulsingh Rokaya, 55, a shepherd, watched for years as the number of itinerant harvesters swelled.	尼泊尔巴格丹达——来自喜马拉雅山脉一个高原牧场的 55 岁牧民图尔辛格·罗卡亚(Tulsingh Rokaya), 多年来眼睁睁地看着流动采摘者的人数在不断壮大。
They came in search of what is known as caterpillar fungus, or yarsagumba in Nepali. A parasitic fungus, it forms out of the head of ghost moth larvae living in the soil at altitudes above 10,000 feet, and has been used as an aphrodisiac for at least a thousand years, earning it the nickname Himalayan Viagra.	他们是来寻找所谓的“虫草”的, 尼泊尔语叫“yarsagumba”。这是一种寄生真菌, 由蝠蛾幼虫的头部形成, 这种幼虫生活在海拔 3000 多米的高原土壤中。虫草被用作壮阳药至少有 1000 年了, 它拥有“喜马拉雅伟哥”的别名。
In the 1980s, the pickers used to trade the fungus for cigarettes and noodles. But as yarsagumba grew in popularity, it exploded into a multibillion-dollar industry spanning China, Singapore and the United States.	在 20 世纪 80 年代, 采摘者用这种真菌换香烟和面条。但随着虫草越来越多地受到人们的喜爱, 它迅速发展成为一个横跨中国、新加坡和美国的数十亿美元产业。
During the picking season, which runs from late May to July, the number of harvesters in Bagdanda and two neighboring camps has often reached several thousands of people. But this season, with the fungus becoming scarce, the number is down to the hundreds.	在 5 月下旬至 7 月的采摘季节, 前来巴格丹达和附近两个营地的采集者人数往往可达到几千人。但随着这种真菌变得越来越稀少, 今年采集季节的人数已下降到了几百。
They still hike from a camp below, carrying metal picks to dig out the fungus, helping to produce an average regional harvest of 135 tons a year. Occasionally, they stop at Mr. Rokaya’s tent to buy sheep’s curd. Most of the time they pass through, teetering on a steep hillside where they spend the morning hunched over to find the fungus’s crooked black stem poking through the dirt.	他们仍从山下的营地徒步上山, 手拿金属小镐把虫草挖出来, 为这个山区平均每年 135 吨的产量做贡献。偶尔, 他们会在罗卡亚的帐篷前停留, 购买羊凝乳。但大多数时候, 他们只是从这个搭建在陡峭山坡上的帐篷前路过, 整个上午都在弯着腰寻找这种真菌露出泥土的弯曲黑茎。
Folklore has it that interest in the fungus stems from the startling performance of Chinese runners at an international track meet in 1993, which their coach attributed to their consumption of a soup combining	民间传说称, 对这种真菌的兴趣, 来自中国赛跑选手在 1993 年的一次国际田径运动会上令人吃惊的表现。他们的教练把成绩归结于运动员喝了用虫草和鳖血做的汤。(西方的竞争对手怀疑并不是出于这么具有异国风味的原因,

the fungus with turtle blood. (Western competitors suspected something less exotic, namely performance-enhancing drugs.)	而是由于使用了提高成绩的兴奋剂。)
With prices topping $50,000 a pound in China's coastal megacities, harvesting of the fungus has helped to curb endemic poverty in the Himalayas, which stretch across Nepal, northern India, Bhutan, Tibet and China. For hundreds of thousands of people living in remote villages, selling yarsagumba has become a primary source of income.	在中国的沿海大城市，虫草标价超过了每磅5万美元（约合每千克66万元人民币）。采摘虫草帮助改善了喜马拉雅地区普遍存在的贫穷状况。这一地区跨越尼泊尔、印度北部、不丹、藏区和中国。对于数十万生活在边远村庄的人而言，售卖虫草成了一项重要的收入来源。
A study by Nepal's central bank found that harvesters earned an average of about $2,500, or 56 percent of their yearly income, selling the fungus. Money from yarsagumba has given some of the world's most impoverished people access to electricity, hospital care and education.	尼泊尔中央银行的一项研究发现，采摘者售卖虫草的平均收入约为2500美元（约合1.7万元人民币），占他们年收入的56%。由虫草获得的收入让世界上最贫穷的一些人用上了电，看得起病，也得以接受教育。
"The whole Tibetan plateau is by now completely dependent on the cash influx," said Daniel Winkler, a mycologist who has studied the caterpillar fungus extensively in Tibet. He estimated that over one million people in Tibet sell the fungus.	"到现在，整个青藏高原地区完全依赖这部分资金来源，"真菌学家丹尼尔·温克勒(Daniel Winkler)说。他在藏区就虫草做过大量的研究。他估计藏区有超过100万人在卖虫草。
But as quickly as demand for the fungus has surged, its supply has dropped sharply. Mycologists studying the fungus point to overharvesting as one reason. But another possible cause, some researchers now believe, is a warmer ecosystem precipitated by climate change, a phenomenon that may be more acute at higher altitudes.	虫草的需求迅速上涨的同时，供应量却出现剧烈的下滑。研究虫草的真菌学家认为过度采摘是出现这种状况的一个原因。不过一些研究者现在认为，还有另一种可能的原因：由气候变化引起的生态系统变暖。在海拔高的地方，这种现象或许更加严重。
"There are strong theoretical reasons as to why we might expect the rate of climate change to be faster higher up in the mountains than it is at sea level," said Nicholas Pepin, a geographer at the University of Portsmouth in England.	"我们有充分的理论依据认为，气候变化的速率在山区会比在海平面更快，"英格兰朴茨茅斯大学(University of Portsmouth)的地理学家尼古拉斯·佩平(Nicholas Pepin)说。

Some of the most compelling data comes from the Tibetan plateau, where from 2001 to 2012, the increase in temperatures was between half a degree Fahrenheit and nearly an entire degree at weather stations above 10,000 feet. In the same decade, global temperatures rose by only about 0.2 degrees.	一些最具说服力的数据来自青藏高原。自 2001 年至 2012 年，那里的气温增长了 0.5 华氏度(约合 0.3 摄氏度)，在海拔超过 1 万英尺(约合 3000 米)的气象站，增幅则达到将近 1 华氏度。而在同样的十年里，全球平均气温只增长了 0.2 华氏度左右。
Scientists say it is unclear why mountain ranges may be warming more rapidly than other parts of the planet. But Kamaljit Bawa, a biologist at the University of Massachusetts Boston, said failure to better understand warming in the Himalayas could have serious consequences for the region's unique biodiversity.	科学家表示，目前还不清楚为什么山脉地区气温增速会比地球上的其他地区更快。不过，马萨诸塞州大学波士顿分校(University of Massachusetts at Boston)的生物学家卡迈勒吉特·巴瓦(Kamaljit Bawa)表示，倘若无法更好地理解喜马拉雅的气候变暖，可能会给该地区独一无二的生物多样性带来严重的后果。
"We have to make very rapid progress," he said. "We can't use the slow approach, the traditional, slow scientific approach."	"我们得非常快速地取得进展，"他说。"我们不能采用慢的方式，那种传统的、比较慢的科学方法。"
Not for yarsagumba, apparently.	显然，用这种方式应对虫草问题是行不通的。
As harvesters returned from the pastures to Bagdanda on a recent afternoon, children gathered in the camp's dusty thoroughfare and divided teams for a volleyball game. A mother held down her squirming daughter to pick lice from her scalp. Men congregated on trash-strewn dirt mounds and peeled strips of kutki, an herb used to treat vomiting and fever.	不久前的一个下午，采摘者从牧场返回巴格丹达，孩子们聚集在营地尘土飞扬的大路上，分组玩排球游戏。一位母亲按着她浑身扭动的女儿，给她抓头发里的虱子。男人们聚集在垃圾遍布的土丘上，给胡黄连去皮。这是一种治疗呕吐和发热的草药。
In a village below the meadows, Prithvi Budha, 60, a beekeeper who is sitting out the harvest to watch dozens of empty mud and stone huts, said less precipitation may be the cause for the drop in yarsagumba supplies.	在位于草原下方的一座村子，现年 60 岁的养蜂人普里特维·布达(Prithvi Budha)没有参加采摘，而是负责看守那几十座没人的泥石棚屋。他说降水减少可能是虫草产量降低的原因。
"We used to have snow up to here and up to here," he said, pointing to his torso and his shoulders as he recalled a string of childhood winters.	"过去这里会下很大的雪，积雪能有这么高，这么高，"他说一边说，一边把手比到自己的躯干和肩膀部位。他在回忆童年时期的冬天。

Uttam Shrestha, a researcher at the University of Southern Queensland in Australia, said it was difficult to say why the supply of yarsagumba had dropped. Changes in temperature, he said, could be one of several factors affecting the supply of the fungus.	澳大利亚南昆士兰大学(University of Southern Queensland)的研究人员乌塔姆·什雷斯塔(Uttam Shrestha)表示, 很难确定为什么虫草的产量会减少。他说气温变化可能是影响虫草供应的多种因素之一。
"We can draw some inferences," he said. "Here, the fungus is very sensitive to the increase in temperature and so that could have an impact, but there is no empirical evidence yet."	"我们可以做一些推论,"他说。"在这里, 虫草对气温的上升是非常敏感的, 所以它可能会有影响, 但目前还没有实践经验的证据。"
Jir Bahadur Budha, 43, a farmer, said he was disappointed with this year's harvest. He estimated that his family of six would collect only 400 pieces of yarsagumba, 200 fewer than last year and 500 fewer than the year before. The selling price for a single piece is about $3.50 in Nepal.	现年 43 岁的农民哥吉尔·巴哈杜尔·布达(Jir Bahadur Budha)表示, 他对今年的收成感到失望。他估计今年家里六个人只能采到 400 株虫草, 比去年少 200 株, 比前年少 500 株。目前虫草在尼泊尔的单株售价约为 3.5 美元。
On a recent morning, Mr. Budha joined dozens of others in a pasture as a heavy fog set in. Within 10 minutes of searching, calls echoed from a few hundred feet away, where a teenager had spotted one of the day's first pieces. Clawing away dirt from the larva's body, the boy received a smattering of congratulations. He had found a good piece.	不久前的一个上午, 布达和另外几十个人在浓雾弥漫之时走进了牧场。开始搜寻不到十分钟, 几百英尺远的地方传来喊声, 一名少年找到了当天第一株虫草。扒开幼虫尸体上的泥土, 他找到了一株品质不错的虫草, 得到了零星的祝贺。
"Only lucky people find yarsagumba in the morning," one man said.	"只有运气很好的人才能在早上找到虫草,"一名男子说道。
Mr. Rokaya, the shepherd, was cautious in his appraisal of the day's pickings. Whatever the reason for the decline in yarsagumba, he said, it may be too late to salvage what has been lost.	对于当天的采摘, 牧民罗卡亚的评价比较谨慎。他说不管是什么原因导致虫草产量下降, 要挽回这里损失的东西可能都已经太迟了。
"No jobs. No money. What to do?" he said, thrumming his fingers on a gnarled cane. "We eat the rice that even donkeys and horses don't eat."	"没有工作。没有钱。能怎么办?"他一边说, 一边用手指连续敲击一根弯曲的手杖。"我们吃的是连驴和马都不吃的大米。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160628/himalayan-viagra-climate-change	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160628/himalayan-viagra-climate-change
How China Took Center Stage in Bitcoin's Civil War	比特币战争(上): 中国操盘手

A delegation of American executives flew to Beijing in April for a secret meeting at the Grand Hyatt hotel, just blocks from Tiananmen Square.	4月，一个美国企业高管代表团飞到北京，在东方君悦大酒店参加了一次秘密会议，那里距天安门广场仅几个街区之遥。
They went to meet with the new kingmakers in what has become one of the grandest and strangest experiments in money the world has seen: the virtual currency known as Bitcoin.	和他们会面的是业内新晋的实权人物，而他们所在的这个行业，是人类历史上最宏大、最古怪的一场金钱实验：被称为“比特币”的虚拟货币。
Against long odds, and despite an abstruse structure, in which supercomputers are said to mine the currency via mathematical formulas, Bitcoin has become a multibillion-dollar industry. It has attracted major investments from Silicon Valley and a significant following on Wall Street.	比特币有一个令人费解的体系，据称要利用超级计算机作数学计算来开采货币，然而出人意料的是，它已经成为一个数十亿美元的行业。硅谷向它注入了大笔投资，还引起了华尔街的密切关注。
Yet Bitcoin, which is both a new kind of digital money and an unusual financial network, is having something of an identity crisis. Like so many technologies before it, the virtual currency is coming up against the inevitable push and pull between commercial growth and the purity of its original ambitions.	然而，作为一种新型的数码货币和独特的金融网络，比特币正面临一场身份危机。和此前的许多技术一样，虚拟货币也不可避免地要面对一种推拉效应：一方面要商业增长，另一方面要维持其初心的纯洁性。
In its early conception, Bitcoin was to exist beyond the control of any single government or country. It would be based everywhere and nowhere.	根据最初的设想，比特币是不受任何单一政府或国家控制的。它无处不在，又无处可寻。
Yet despite the talk of a borderless currency, a handful of Chinese companies have effectively assumed majority control of the Bitcoin network. They have done so through canny investments and vast farms of computer servers dispersed around the country. The American delegation flew to Beijing because that was where much of the Bitcoin power was concentrated.	然而，虽然被认为是一种无国界货币，比特币网络的多数控制权实际上已经落入几家中国公司手中。他们是通过精明的投资和分布于该国各地的巨型计算机服务器矿场实现这一点的。美国代表团要飞到北京，正是因为比特币的相当一部分权力就集中在那里。
At the time of the meeting, over 70 percent of the transactions on the	在会议举行之时，比特币网络七成以上的交易是通过四家中国公司进行的，

Bitcoin network were going through just four Chinese companies, known as Bitcoin mining pools – and most flowed through just two of those companies. That gives them what amounts to veto power over any changes to the Bitcoin software and technology.	也就是所谓的比特币矿池——而大多数的流通只涉及其中的两家公司。这样一来，他们对比特币软件和技术上的任何改变就有了否决权。
China has become a market for Bitcoin unlike anything in the West, fueling huge investments in server farms as well as enormous speculative trading on Chinese Bitcoin exchanges. Chinese exchanges have accounted for 42 percent of all Bitcoin transactions this year, according to an analysis performed for The New York Times by Chainalysis. Just last week, the Chinese internet giant, Baidu, joined with three Chinese banks to invest in the American Bitcoin company Circle.	中国形成了一个西方世界无法比拟的比特币市场，巨量投资进入服务器矿场，中国的比特币交易所里进行着大宗投机交易。据《纽约时报》委托Chainalysis进行的分析，中国交易所今年的交易额占了总额的42%。就在上周，中国互联网巨头百度还和三家中国银行联手，投资了美国比特币公司Circle。
But China's clout is raising worries about Bitcoin's independence and decentralization, which was supposed to give the technology freedom from the sort of government crackdowns and interventions that are commonplace in the Chinese financial world.	但是，中国的影响力让人开始担心比特币的独立性和去中心化。这些特性本应让比特币技术不需畏惧政府的打压和干预。而政府打压和干预又在中国金融界司空见惯。
"The concentration in a single jurisdiction does not bode well," said Emin Gun Sirer, a professor at Cornell and a Bitcoin researcher. "We need to pay attention to these things if we want decentralization to be a meaningful thing."	"集中在一个单一辖区不是什么好兆头，"康奈尔大学教授、比特币研究者埃明·古恩·希拉尔(Emin Gun Sirer)说。"这些是我们需要留意的，否则去中心化就会流于表面。"
The power of Chinese companies has already come to play a major role in a civil war that has divided Bitcoin followers over the last year and led to the departure of one of the top developers of the virtual currency. The dispute has hinged on technical matters but also on bigger questions of what Bitcoin should look like in 10 or 20 years.	去年的一场内战导致这种虚拟货币的信徒出现分裂，其中一位顶尖开发者因此离开了社区，中国公司在那一战中已经扮演了重要的角色。争执是围绕一些技术问题展开的，但事关比特币未来10年、20年发展的大问题也牵扯其中。

The American companies that journeyed to the Grand Hyatt — including venture capital-funded start-ups like Coinbase and Circle — are fighting to make Bitcoin bigger. They hope to expand the capacity of the Bitcoin network so that it can process more transactions and compete with the PayPals and Visas of the world.	前往东方君悦的美国代表包括 Coinbase、Circle 等创投基金支持的创业公司，他们在力求扩大比特币的规模。他们希望对比特币网络进行扩容，可以处理更多的交易，与 PayPal、Visa 等服务抗衡。
The current size of the network goes back to the early days, when Bitcoin’s founder, Satoshi Nakamoto, limited the amount of data that could travel through the network, essentially capping it at about seven transactions a second. As Bitcoin has grown more popular, those limits have caused severe congestion and led to lengthy transaction delays.	目前的网络规模是早年决定的，当时比特币的创始人中本聪（Satoshi Nakamoto，音）对在网络中流通的数据总量进行了限制，本质上就是给交易设定了每秒七次左右的上限。随着比特币的日渐普及，这些限制导致了严重的阻塞，交易处理会有大幅延时。
The American delegation in China had a software proposal, known as Bitcoin Classic, that would change all that.	前往中国的美国代表提出了一个软件方案叫做“比特币经典版”(Bitcoin Classic)，可以彻底改变这种局面。
The Chinese companies, though, had the ultimate decision-making power over any changes in the software, and they did not agree with the American delegation. The Chinese had thrown in their lot with another group of longtime programmers who wanted to keep Bitcoin smaller, in part to keep it more secure. The Americans hoped to persuade the Chinese to switch sides.	然而中国公司对软件的任何改动有着终极裁决权，他们不同意美国代表的想法。中国人选择站在另一个程序员群体一方，这些人一直都想让比特币保持在较小的规模，一定程度上是为了保障安全。美国人希望劝说中国人改弦更张。
In a hotel conference room, the American team of about a half-dozen people cycled through its PowerPoint slides, in English and Chinese, arguing for expansion of the network, most notably pointing to the long delays that have been plaguing the system as a result of the congestion. The Chinese companies listened and conferred among themselves. The group took a break for a lunch of lamb and dumplings at a nearby mall.	在一间酒店会议室里，五六人组成的美国代表团围着中英双语的 PowerPoint 幻灯片，陈述他们扩张网络的理由，其中主要的一点是长延时，这个由阻塞导致的问题正困扰着整个系统。中国公司听了美方陈述，彼此间也商量了一番。中午大家到附近的购物中心吃了羊肉和饺子。
“We kept coming back and saying, ‘For better or worse, you have this	“我们反复说，‘不管怎么说，你们是这个产业的领导者，大家都期待你们有

leadership in the industry, and everyone is looking to you to show some leadership," said Brian Armstrong, chief executive of Coinbase.	领袖的作为, "Coinbase 首席执行官布莱恩·阿姆斯特朗(Brian Armstrong)说。
Ultimately, Mr. Armstrong said, "We were unable to convince them."	最终, "我们没能说服他们, "阿姆斯特朗说。
Some Bitcoin advocates have complained that the Chinese companies have been motivated only by short-term profit, rather than the long-term success and ideals of the project. Bobby Lee, chief executive of the Bitcoin company BTCC, which is based in Shanghai, bristled at that — and at the notion that the Chinese companies represent any sort of united front. He attended the April meeting and pointed out that the Chinese companies had disagreed among themselves on how urgent it is to make changes to the Bitcoin software.	一些比特币倡导人士指责中国公司只受短期利润的驱使, 不在乎长远的成功和该计划的理想。总部在上海的比特币公司 BTCC 首席执行官李启元被这种言论激怒了——包括把中国公司当作一个同仇敌忾的群体来看待。他参加了4月的会议, 并指出在改变比特币软件的紧迫性上, 中国公司之间是存在分歧的。
He said the American companies failed to understand the power dynamics in the room that day. "It was almost like imperialistic Westerners coming to China and telling us what to do," Mr. Lee said in an interview last week. "There has been a history on this. The Chinese people have long memories."	他说那天在会议室里, 美国公司对权力的消长没有认识。"给人感觉就像高高在上的西方人来到中国, 对我们指手画脚, "李启元在上周接受采访时说。"这种事以前发生过。中国人记性很好的。"
Read Part 2.	阅读《比特币战争(下): 从投机到掌控大型矿池》
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160630/china-bitcoin-investment1	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160630/china-bitcoin-investment1
How China Took Center Stage in Bitcoin's Civil War	比特币战争(下): 从投机到掌控大型矿池
Read Part 1.	阅读《比特币战争(上): 中国操盘手》
The mysterious creator of Bitcoin, Satoshi Nakamoto, released the software in early 2009. It was designed to provide both a digital coin and a new way to move and hold money, much as email had made it possible to send messages without using a postal service.	2009年初, 比特币的神秘创造者中本聪(Satoshi Nakamoto)发布了相关软件。它的设计意图是既提供一种数字货币, 又提供一种新的转移和保存资金的方式, 很像电子邮件使人们可以不使用邮政服务便能传递消息。
From the beginning, the system was designed to be decentralized —	从一开始, 它就被设计成了一个分散的系统——由所有把计算机加入比特币

operated by all the people who joined their computers to the Bitcoin network and helped to process the transactions, as Wikipedia entries are written and maintained by volunteers around the world.	网络, 并帮助处理交易的人管理, 就像维基百科(Wikipedia)的条目由全世界的志愿者输入和维护一样。
The appeal of a group-run network was that there would be no single point of failure and no company that could shut things down if the police intervened. This was censorship-free money, Bitcoin followers liked to say. Decision-making power for the network resided with the people who joined it, in proportion to the computing power they provided.	集体管理网络的吸引力在于不会出现单点故障, 并且如果警察介入的话, 没有哪个公司能够关停业务。比特币的支持者喜欢说, 这是一种不会受到审查的货币。对这个网络的决策权掌握在加入该网络的人手中, 与他们提供的计算能力成比例。
The allure of new riches provided the incentive to join: Every 10 minutes, new Bitcoins would be released and given to one of the computers helping to maintain the system. In the lingo of Bitcoin, these computers were said to be “mining” for currency. They also served as accountants for the network.	新财富的诱惑促使人们加入其中: 每 10 分钟, 便会有新的比特币发行并被交给帮助维护该系统的其中一台计算机。在比特币行话中, 这些计算机被称作是在“挖”比特币。它们还充当着该网络的会计。
For the first few years, aside from its use as a payment method on the Silk Road, an online drug market that has since been shut down, Bitcoin failed to gain much traction. It burst into the world’s consciousness in 2013 when the price of the digital money began to spike, in no small part because Chinese investors began trading Bitcoins in large numbers.	头几年, 除了被已关闭的在线毒品市场“丝绸之路”(Silk Road)用作支付方式外, 比特币没能真正有所作为。2013年, 当比特币的价格开始飙升时, 这种数字货币一举进入所有人的视野。比特币价格飙升, 在很大程度上是因为中国投资者开始大量交易比特币。
Mr. Lee said the Chinese took quickly to Bitcoin for several reasons. For one thing, the Chinese government had strictly limited other potential investment avenues, giving citizens a hunger for new assets. Also, Mr. Lee said, the Chinese loved the volatile price of Bitcoin, which gave the fledgling currency network the feeling of online gambling, a very	李启元称, 中国人迅速喜欢上比特币有多方面的原因。首先, 中国政府严格限制其他潜在的投资渠道, 导致民众渴望新资产。同时, 李启元还表示, 中国人喜欢比特币价格不稳定这一点, 它让这个新兴货币网络给人一种在线赌博的感觉。在线赌博活动在中国非常盛行。 popular activity in China.

There has been widespread speculation that Chinese people have used Bitcoin to get money out of the country and evade capital controls, but Mr. Lee and other experts said the evidence suggests this is not a significant phenomenon.	外界普遍猜测中国人利用比特币将资金转移至国外，规避资本控制，但李启元和其他专家称，证据显示这种现象不明显。
"No Chinese person is pushing for Bitcoin because it's libertarian or because it's going to cause the downfall of governments," said Mr. Lee, who moved to China after growing up in Africa and the United States and studying at Stanford. "This was an investment."	"没有中国人是因为比特币具有自由论属性，或是比特币会导致政府垮台而支持比特币的，"李启元说。"这是一种投资。"李启元在非洲和美国长大，并曾在斯坦福大学求学，之后来到中国。
The extent of the speculative activity in China in late 2013 pushed the price of a single Bitcoin above $1,000. That surge — and the accompanying media spotlight — led China's government to intervene in December 2013 and cut off the flow of money between Chinese banks and Bitcoin exchanges, popping what appeared to be a Bitcoin bubble.	2013年末，中国严重的投机活动将一个比特币的价格抬高至超过1000美元（约合6600元人民币）。价格暴涨——连同随之而来的媒体关注——促使中国政府在2013年12月出面干预，切断了中国的银行与比特币交易平台之间的资金流动，导致看似出现泡沫的比特币繁荣景象一度破灭。
The frenzy, though, awakened interest in another aspect of the currency: Bitcoin mining.	但这股狂潮却唤起了对比特币另一方面的兴趣：对比特币的挖掘。
Peter Ng, a former investment manager, is one of the many people in China who moved from trading Bitcoins to amassing computing power to mine them. First, he mined for himself. More recently he has created data centers across China where other people can pay to set up their own mining computers. He now has 28 such centers, all of them filled with endless racks of servers, tangled cords and fans cooling the machines.	很多中国人从交易比特币转向为挖比特币而积聚计算能力。前投资经理彼得·黄(Peter Ng)便是其中之一。一开始，他是为自己挖比特币。后来，他在中国各地成立数据中心。在这些数据中心，其他人可以出钱配置自己的挖掘计算机。他现在拥有28个这样的数据中心，全都摆满了放着服务器的架子、相互缠绕的电线和给机器散热的电扇。
Mr. Ng, 36, said he had become an expert in finding cheap energy, often	现年36岁的彼得·黄说自己已经成了寻找廉价能源的专家。有廉价能源的地

in places where a coal plant or hydroelectric dam was built to support some industrial project that never happened. The Bitcoin mining machines in his facilities use about 38 megawatts of electricity, he said, enough to power a small city.	方常常有火电厂或水坝。它们本是为了支持某个工业项目而建，但后来项目未能落实。他说那些数据中心里的比特币挖掘机要用 3.8 万千瓦电，这些电足以供应一座小城市。
The people who put their machines in Mr. Ng's data centers generally join mining pools, which smooth the financial returns of smaller players. A popular one, BTCC Pool, is run by Mr. Lee's company. This month it attracted about 13 percent of the total computational power on the Bitcoin network. The most powerful pool in China – or anywhere in the world – is known as F2Pool, and it had 27 percent of the network's computational power this month.	把自己的计算机放在彼得·黄的数据中心的人通常会加入矿池。矿池会让规模较小的玩家获得更为平稳的经济回报。颇受欢迎的矿池 BTCC Pool 便由李启元所在的公司运营。本月，该矿池吸引了比特币网络总计算能力的大约 13%。中国——或许也是全世界——最有影响力的矿池叫 F2Pool，本月在比特币网络的计算能力中占了 27%。
Big pool operators have become the kingmakers in the Bitcoin world: Running the pools confers the right to vote on changes to Bitcoin's software, and the bigger the pool, the more voting power. If members of a pool disagree, they can switch to another pool. But most miners choose a pool based on its payout structure, not its Bitcoin politics.	在比特币世界，大矿池的运营商大权在握：运营矿池让它们有权对比特币软件的改变进行投票表决，并且矿池越大，投票权越大。如果某矿池的成员有不同意见，他们可以转至其他矿池。但大部分“矿工”都是根据矿池的支付结构，而非比特币政治来进行选择的。
It was his role overseeing BTCC Pool that got Mr. Lee invited to the meeting with the American delegation in Beijing. The head of operations at F2Pool, Wang Chun, was also there.	正因为是 BTCC Pool 的负责人，李启元才受邀在北京与美国代表团召开会议。与会者还包括 F2Pool 的业务负责人王春。
Perhaps the most important player in the Chinese Bitcoin world is Jihan Wu, 30, a former investment analyst who founded what is often described in China as the world's most valuable Bitcoin company. That company, Bitmain, began to build computers in 2013 using chips specially designed to do mining computations.	在中国的比特币界，最重要的玩家或许是 30 岁的吴忌寒。曾是一名投资分析师的他创建了一家名叫比特大陆的公司。在中国，该公司常被称作全世界最有价值的比特币公司。2013 年，比特大陆开始用经过特殊设计的芯片，打造用来进行挖矿计算的计算机。
Bitmain, which now has 250 employees, manufactures and sells Bitcoin	比特大陆现有员工 250 名，从事的业务包括生产和销售比特币挖矿机，运

mining computers, operates a pool that other miners can join, called Antpool, and also keeps a significant number of mining machines for itself, which it maintains in Iceland and the United States, as well as in China. The machines that Bitmain retains for itself account for 10 percent of the computing power on the global Bitcoin network and are enough to produce new coins worth about $230,000 each day, at the exchange rate this week.	管其他矿工可加入的蚂蚁矿池(Antpool), 同时自己也保留了数量可观的挖矿机。这些矿机分布在冰岛、美国和中国。比特大陆给自己保留的挖矿机, 占全球比特币网络计算能力的 10%。按照本周的汇率, 它们每天足以产生价值约为 23 万美元的新比特币。
Mr. Wu and the other mining pool operators in China have often seemed somewhat surprised, and even unhappy, that their investments have given them decision-making power within the Bitcoin network. "Miners are the hardware guys. Why are you asking us about software?" is the line that Mr. Ng said he often hears from miners.	对于投资给他们在比特币网络内部带来的决策权, 吴忌寒和中国其他的矿池运营商常常看上去有些惊讶, 甚至不悦。彼得·黄称自己经常听到矿工说, "矿工是做硬件的。你们为什么要问我们软件的事?"
This attitude initially led most Chinese miners to align themselves with old-line Bitcoin coders, known as the core programmers, who have resisted changing the software. The miners wanted to take no risks with the money they were minting.	起初, 这种态度促使大部分中国矿工与被称作核心程序员的比特币编程人员结成同盟。保守的核心程序员不愿改变软件, 矿工则要确保自己创造的财富万无一失。
But lately, Mr. Wu has grown increasingly vocal in his belief that the network is going to have to expand, and soon, if it wants to keep its followers. He said in an email this week that if the core programmers did not increase the number of transactions going through the network by July, he would begin looking for alternatives to expand the network.	但最近, 吴忌寒越来越公开地表达自己的信念: 要想留住追随者, 比特币网络将不得不扩大, 而且要快。他本周在一封电子邮件中表示, 如果核心程序员不在 7 月之前增加整个网络的交易数量, 他将开始寻找扩大网络的替代方案。
However the software debate goes, there are fears that China's government could decide, at some point, to pressure miners in the country to use their influence to alter the rules of the Bitcoin network. The government's intervention in 2013 suggests that Bitcoin is not too	不管软件之争将如何发展, 有人担心中国政府可能会在某个时间点上决定向国内的矿工施压, 要求他们利用自己的影响力改变比特币网络的规则。政府 2013 年的干预行动表明, 比特币问题并非小到能逃过政府的眼睛。

small to escape notice.
Mr. Wu dismissed that concern. He also said that as more Americans buy his Bitmain machines and take advantage of cheap power in places like Washington State, mining will naturally become more decentralized. Already, he said, 30 to 40 percent of new Bitmain machines are being shipped out of China.	吴忌寒对这种担忧不以为然。他还表示，随着更多的美国人购买比特大陆的挖矿机并利用华盛顿州等地的廉价电力，比特币的挖掘自然会变得更加分散。他说，比特大陆新生产的矿机中，已有 30%到 40%正在被运往国外。
For now, though, China remains dominant.	但目前，中国依然占据主导地位。
"The Chinese government normally expects its businesses to obtain a leading role in emerging industries," he said. "China's Bitcoin businesses have achieved that."	"中国政府通常希望自己的企业在新兴行业占据领导地位，"他说。"中国的比特币企业做到了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160701/bitcoin-china-part2	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160701/bitcoin-china-part2
Ikea Under Fire in China After Limiting Dresser Recall to North America	宜家召回问题抽屉柜不涉中国再惹争议
BEIJING — The announcement last week by the Swedish furniture maker Ikea that it was recalling nearly 36 million chests and dressers in the United States and Canada that have been linked to the deaths of at least six children has set off heated discussions among Chinese consumers over being excluded from the deal and the relatively lax safety standards in their own country.	北京——上周，瑞典家具生产商宜家(Ikea)宣布在美国和加拿大召回近 3600 万件抽屉柜和梳妆台。它们和至少六名儿童的死亡有关。此举促使中国消费者围绕中国不在召回范围之内，以及中国的安全标准相对来说不严格展开了激烈的讨论。
The recall applies only to North America, where the children were crushed after the furniture tipped over on them. Customers who bought the furniture after 2002 are eligible for a partial refund. Ikea has said that the chests and dressers are safe when anchored to a wall as instructed with the supplied equipment, but its decision came after pressure from the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission to abide by voluntary industry standards for the stability of	宜家的召回仅适用于北美。家具翻倒致孩子被压的事故就发生在该地区。在 2002 年后购买相关家具的消费者可获得部分退款。宜家表示，若按照提示用提供的设备将抽屉柜和梳妆台固定在墙上，它们便是安全的，但在受到美国消费品安全委员会(Consumer Product Safety Commission)的压力，并被要求遵守独立式衣物储存家具稳定性的推荐工业标准后，宜家做出了召回的决定。 free-standing clothing storage units.

On Weibo, a popular social media platform in China, users complained about the limited scope of the recall.	在中国的流行社交媒体平台新浪微博上，用户对召回的范围限制颇为不满。
"This discriminates against the Chinese people," a person with the handle HappyLifeEverday wrote.	"歧视中国人，"用户名为"乐活人生 everyday"的用户写道。
A user identified as CHING-ME wrote, "The sooner they close down the better! Let's boycott Ikea now!"	另一个名叫"CHING-ME"的用户写道，"早点倒闭的好！坚决抵制宜家!!"
China is Ikea's fastest-growing market, and sales in China last year reached $1.55 billion. On weekends, Ikea stores in China are routinely packed with customers, some of whom even nap on the furniture displays.	中国是宜家增长最快的市场，去年该公司在中国的销售额高达 15.5 亿美元（约合 104 亿元人民币）。周末时，中国的宜家门店常常挤满消费者，一些人甚至会在家具展品上小睡一会儿。
But the recall has also prompted widespread calls for more stringent safety standards in the country.	但宜家的召回也在中国引起了广泛的呼声，要求出台更严格的安全标准。
"This is not discrimination by Ikea," a user going by the name captain-laomei wrote on Weibo. "It's that our country's standards are too low — not just for furniture, but for manufacturing, food hygiene, agriculture, health, cars, the service industry, financial services and so on."	"不是宜家歧视，"一个名为"captain-老姜"的微博用户写道。"是我们的国家标准太低，这不仅家具业，制造业、食品卫生、农业、医疗卫生、汽车、服务业、金融业等等各领域都是如此。"
China has experienced a series of consumer safety scandals, including melamine-tainted baby formula in 2008 that killed six children and sickened 53,000, dangerous levels of heavy metals in rice and ineffective vaccines. In recent years, China has begun strengthening automobile safety and manufacturing regulations after numerous automotive recalls.	中国经历了一系列的消费者安全丑闻，包括 2008 年导致六名儿童死亡、5.3 万名儿童生病的婴儿配方奶粉含三聚氰胺事件、大米重金属含量达到危险水平和疫苗失效。最近几年，在出现大量汽车召回事件后，中国开始加强汽车安全与生产监管。
"Chinese companies won't raise their own quality standards, so you end	用户名为"我的个喵"的新浪微博用户写道："中国公司不提高自己的标准和质

up with two different standards, for inside the country and abroad," a person identified as My Own Meow wrote on Weibo.	量，国内国外有两个标准，就是知道怎么坑自己的人。”
Ikea has said limiting the recall to North America was justified, since its products meet safety standards in China, the European Union and other markets.	宜家称此次召回仅限于北美是合理的，因为其产品符合中国、欧盟和其他市场的安全标准。
"The chests and dressers conform to all local regulations and standards," Xian Jiabin, a company spokeswoman in Guangzhou, said in an interview.	"相关抽屉柜和梳妆台符合当地的一切条例和标准，"广州宜家的发言人冼嘉欣接受采访时表示。
Under Chinese standards, children's furniture that is more than 60 centimeters high, or about 24 inches, must be able to be fastened to a wall and be accompanied by clear directions to do so, although many customers leave them unattached.	按照中国的标准，高度超过60厘米的儿童家具必须能固定在墙上，并附带明确的固定指导，不过很多消费者会独立放置。
"We emphasize to customers that they must be fastened to a wall," Ms. Xian said. She confirmed that the furniture recalled in North America was still sold in all of Ikea's stores in China.	"我们向消费者强调，它们必须被固定到墙上，"冼嘉欣说。她证实，北美召回的家具在中国所有宜家门店均有售。
Last Thursday, the Shenzhen Consumer Council, a government agency, issued a statement calling for equal consumer protection and further investigations into the safety of the Ikea chests and dressers sold in China.	上周四，深圳的政府机构深圳市消费者委员会发表声明，要求对消费者实行平等的保护，并对中国在售的宜家抽屉柜和梳妆台的安全性进行进一步的调查。
"The right to health is the most basic of human rights and should be subject to equal and nondiscriminatory protection in any country and place," it said. "If products publicly recalled in North America are still being sold on the Chinese market, the Ikea Group must unconditionally recall these products."	"生命健康权是最基本的人权，在任何国家、任何地区都应受到平等、无差别地保护，"声明说。"如果在北美地区召回的同类产品有在中国市场上公开销售，宜家集团必须无条件召回。"
Ikea had not issued a response to the statement as of Tuesday.	截至周二，宜家尚未对这份声明做出回应。

"We are still undergoing internal communications about the council's statement," said Mark Peng, a company spokesman in Shenzhen. "I fully believe that we will implement an appropriate response after our internal communications are done."	"我们依然在就深圳市消费者委员会的声明进行内部沟通，"深圳宜家的发言人彭炜强说。"我完全相信我们会在内部沟通结束后，做出恰当的回答。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160706/china-ikea-dresser-recall	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160706/china-ikea-dresser-recall
Financial Markets Show Lingering 'Brexit' Worries	脱欧余震：投资日本国债变赔钱买卖
LONDON — Financial markets got off to another weak start on Wednesday, as investors made skittish by Britain's vote to leave the European Union fled stocks in search of safer places to stash their money.	伦敦——周三，随着因英国投票退出欧盟而受到惊吓的投资者逃离股市，寻找更安全的投资渠道，金融市场再次疲软开市。
That nervousness sent the British currency, the pound, to new 31-year lows, and it pushed the yield on Japanese debt into negative territory, meaning investors were effectively paying Japan's government to lend it money. Seeking havens for their cash, many have turned to the United States dollar and gold, as well.	紧张情绪使英国货币英镑的币值创下 31 年以来的新低，并导致日本国债收益率变为负值，也就是说投资者实际上正在出钱让日本政府借自己的钱。为了给自己的资金寻找避风港，很多人可能还转向了美元和黄金。
The sharp shifts reflected lingering uncertainty over the impact of last month's vote, known as Brexit, and came with concerns over Britain's real estate market also increasing. Three of the country's major real estate funds halted withdrawals in recent days, to stop panicked investors from fleeing.	这种剧烈的转变，反映出上月又称“英国退出欧盟”的投票带来了挥之不去的不确定性。与此同时，对英国房地产市场的担忧也日渐加剧。最近几天，该国三大房地产基金已暂停取款，意在防止恐慌的投资者逃离。
The impacts of the June 23 referendum are still being felt the world over, but policy makers have pledged to do whatever is necessary to ensure the markets continue to function. The Bank of England, Britain's central bank, has pledged 250 billion pounds, or about $330 billion, as a backstop to keep the markets functioning, but it warned on Tuesday	全球依然能感受到 6 月 23 日那场公投的影响，但政策制定者承诺采取一切必要措施，确保市场继续正常运转。英国央行英格兰银行(Bank of England)承诺拿出 2500 亿英镑（约合 2.2 万亿元人民币）作为后盾，保持市场照常运转，但该银行周二警告称，金融环境变得颇具“挑战性”。

that the financial environment had become "challenging."
Sweden's central bank held its main interest rate at minus 0.5 percent on Wednesday, and it said it would postpone any future rate rises, noting that the referendum had caused "considerable uncertainty."	周三，瑞典央行将其主要利率定为负 0.5%，并表示将推迟加息，称公投造成了“相当大的不确定性”。
As policy makers and economists continue to consider the implications, investors are putting their money in investments widely seen as stable.	在政策制定者和经济学家仍在考虑可能会出现的后果时，投资者正在把资金投入被广泛认为稳定的投资中。
The pound, which had recovered slightly since its steep fall after the referendum, dropped to $1.2798 against the dollar on Wednesday. The yield on Britain's benchmark 10-year government bond, which moves inversely to the price, continued falling to all-time lows. Stocks in Britain and Continental Europe were down, and the price of gold continued its post-referendum rise.	周三，英镑兑美元的汇率跌至 1.2798 美元。公投结束后，英镑汇率暴跌，之后曾略有回升。与价格走势相反的英国基准十年期政府债券收益率继续下跌至有史以来的最低水平。英国和欧洲大陆股市下跌，黄金价格继续维持公投后的上扬趋势。
In Asia, the yield on Japan's 20-year government bonds fell below zero percent, which essentially means global investors are paying the Japanese government for the privilege of lending it their money. The once-rare phenomenon has become increasingly common around the world, upending a financial system that has been based on above-zero interest rates, as investors have sought safe investments amid slow economic growth and political uncertainty.	在亚洲，日本 20 年期政府债券的收益率跌至零以下。这在本质上意味着全球投资者正在给日本政府钱，以换取借钱给它的殊荣。随着投资者在经济增长放缓、政治局势不稳定之际寻找安全的投资，这种一度罕见的现象在全球变得越来越普遍，颠覆了以正利率为基础的金融制度。
Japan's benchmark stock index closed down 1.9 percent Wednesday afternoon, while Hong Kong stocks fell 1.2 percent.	周三下午，日本基准股指收跌 1.9%，香港股市跌 1.2%。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160707/daily-stock-market-activity	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160707/daily-stock-market-activity
Is China Stealing Jobs? It May Be Losing Them, Instead	中国抢走美国人的工作？如今情况或已逆转
BEIJING — Throughout his presidential campaign, Donald J. Trump has claimed that China is stealing American manufacturing jobs.	北京——唐纳德·J·特朗普(Donald J. Trump)在竞选总统的过程中一直宣称，中国正抢走美国制造业的工作。

In a speech to the Republican National Convention on Thursday, Mr. Trump — the party’s nominee for the presidency — said that “disastrous trade deals” had hurt manufacturing jobs in the United States. Mr. Trump also argued that American support for China’s embrace of free trade had been a “colossal” mistake.	周四，共和党总统提名人特朗普在该党全国代表大会上发表演讲时表示，“极其糟糕的贸易协议”造成了美国制造业工作岗位的流失。特朗普还说，美国支持中国走上贸易自由化道路是一个“巨大的”错误。
At one point, Mr. Trump’s argument had merit. With its large pool of workers who earned much lower wages than their American counterparts, China attracted manufacturers seeking to reduce costs, bolster profitability and keep prices low. Between 1999 and 2011, the United States lost at least two million jobs because of a surge in Chinese imports, according to a study published in The Journal of Labor Economics.	特朗普的观点一度有其可取之处。中国拥有大批工人，且其薪资水平远远低于美国工人，这对想要削减成本、提高利润率、维持低价的制造商而言颇具吸引力。发表在《劳动经济学期刊》(The Journal of Labor Economics)上的一项研究显示，从1999年到2011年，由于来自中国的进口商品数量激增，美国至少失去了200万个工作岗位。
In today’s China, however, workers face a more troubled outlook than Mr. Trump suggests. They are losing their jobs because of a slowing domestic economy, rising costs and stiffer foreign competition — including from the United States.	然而，在今天的中国，工人面临的前景相当令人不安，并非像特朗普所暗示的那样。因为国内经济增长放缓，生产成本不断升高，来自外国——包括美国——的竞争日益加剧，他们正在丢掉工作。
Presidential candidates “are screaming about yesterday’s problems,” said Jim McGregor, chairman of the consulting firm APCO Worldwide’s Greater China operations. “Manufacturing for export is getting harder and harder” in China.	一些总统候选人“正就昔日的问题大声疾呼”，安可顾问公司(APCO Worldwide)大中华区主席麦健陆(James McGregor)说。“中国出口制造业的境况越来越艰难了。”
China’s labor market has changed sharply in recent years.	近年来，中国的劳动力市场发生了急剧的变化。
As its economy has expanded, creating opportunities in many sectors, assembly line jobs are not as attractive as they once were. That has caused managers to raise wages to attract workers. At the same time, local governments in Shenzhen, a coastal trading hub that abuts Hong	随着中国经济向前发展，许多行业涌现出大把机会，流水线工作的吸引力已经不像以前那么有吸引力了。于是，为了吸引工人，经理们开出了更高的工资。与此同时，深圳及其他工业重镇的地方政府一直稳步提高强制性最低工资标准，以便提升工人家庭的福利水平，并促使企业生产附加值更高也更昂

Kong, and other industrial centers have steadily increased the mandated minimum wage to improve the welfare of working families and pressure companies to produce more expensive, high-value products.	贵的产品。深圳是毗邻香港的沿海贸易枢纽。
That combination has pushed wages for Chinese factory workers higher. Their monthly pay now averages $424, 29 percent more than just three years ago, the Japan External Trade Organization has estimated. Labor costs in China are now significantly higher than in many other emerging economies. Factory workers in Vietnam earn less than half the salary of a Chinese worker, while those in Bangladesh get paid under a quarter as much.	上述因素共同推高了中国工厂工人的薪资水平。据日本贸易振兴机构(Japan External Trade Organization)估计, 目前, 他们的月均工资为 424 美元, 比三年前高出逾 29%。与其他许多新兴经济体相比, 中国当前的劳动力成本要高出一大截。越南工厂里的工人赚的钱还不到中国工人的一半, 孟加拉等国工人的薪水还不到中国工人的四分之一。
Rising costs have also significantly altered China's competitive position compared with the United States.	生产成本不断升高还极大地改变了中国相对于美国的竞争地位。
In a 2015 study, the Boston Consulting Group said the costs of manufacturing in China's major export-producing zone were now almost the same as in the United States, after taking into account wages, worker productivity, energy costs and other factors.	波士顿咨询集团 (Boston Consulting Group, 简称 BCG) 于 2015 年开展的一项研究显示, 把薪资水平、工人的生产率、能源成本以及其他因素考虑在内, 中国主要出口加工区的制造成本几乎与美国相当。
Without the lure of large cost savings, more American companies are "reshoring," or moving factories back. In a separate survey of large United States manufacturers conducted by BCG last year, 24 percent said that they were actively shifting production home from China or were planning to do so over the next two years, up from only 10 percent in 2012.	由于大幅降低成本这一好处不见了, 越来越多的美国企业正在“回巢”, 也就是把工厂迁回美国本土。根据 BCG 去年开展的另一项针对美国制造企业的调查, 24%的受访者表示, 正积极地把生产从中国转移回本土, 或者打算在未来两年内这样做。而在 2012 年, 这一比例仅为 10%。
"It just makes economic sense," said Hal Sirkin, a senior partner at BCG. "The U.S. right now is in a very favorable position."	"这在经济层面是合理的," BCG 高级合伙人哈罗德·西尔肯(Harold Sirkin)说。"美国现在处于非常有利的地位。"

That means more jobs for American factory workers. Half of the respondents in the BCG survey said they expected the number of manufacturing workers they employed in the United States to increase over the next five years.	这意味着美国工厂的工人会得到更多工作机会。在 BCG 的调查中，一半受访者表示，未来五年里，他们预计会在美国雇用更多制造工人。
And it is not just the United States that is taking jobs away from China. Rising costs are driving many companies in a variety of sectors to relocate business to a wide range of other countries. In the most recent survey from the American Chamber of Commerce in China, a quarter of respondents said they had either already moved or were planning to move operations out of China, citing rising costs as the top reason. Of those, almost half are moving into other developing countries in Asia, while nearly 40 percent are shifting to the United States, Canada and Mexico.	把工作岗位从中国拿走的不光是美国。不断上升的成本正促使各个行业的许多企业把生产迁移到其他各个国家。在中国美国商会(American Chamber of Commerce in China)最近开展的一项调查中，四分之一的受访者表示，已经或打算将业务迁出中国，他们把不断升高的成本列为这样做的首要动因。当然了，其中大约一半正迁往亚洲其他发展中国家，不过另有 40%正迁往美国、加拿大和墨西哥。
Many of the factories moving away make the products often found on the shelves of American retailers.	在美国零售商的货架上，常常可以看到正从中国迁走的很多工厂生产的产品。
Stella International, a footwear manufacturer headquartered in Hong Kong that makes shoes for Michael Kors, Rockport and other major brands, closed one of its factories in China in February and shifted some of that production to plants in Vietnam and Indonesia. TAL, another Hong Kong-based manufacturer that makes clothing for American brands including Dockers and Brooks Brothers, plans to close one of its Chinese factories this year and move that work to new facilities in Vietnam and Ethiopia.	今年 2 月，总部位于香港，为迈克·高仕(Michael Kors)、乐步(Rockport)等大牌代工的鞋履制造商九兴(Stella International)关闭了中国的一家工厂，并把部分生产线转移到了越南和印尼的工厂。总部同样位于香港，为多克斯(Dockers)、布克兄弟(Brooks Brothers)等美国品牌代工的服装企业联业制衣(TAL)，打算于今年关闭中国的一家工厂，并把生产转移到越南和埃塞俄比亚的新工厂。
Other companies with an extensive presence in China may not be closing factories, but are targeting new investments elsewhere.	其他一些在中国拥有广泛业务的企业或许不会关闭工厂，但正寻求把资金投向其他地方。

Taiwan's Foxconn, best known for making Apple iPhones in Chinese factories, is planning to build as many as 12 new assembly plants in India, creating around one million new jobs there. A pilot operation in the western Indian state of Maharashtra will start churning out mobile phones later this year.	以在中国的工厂里替苹果公司代工 iPhone 而为人所知的台湾企业富士康 (Foxconn), 计划在印度新建多达 12 家装配厂, 这将为那里创造大约 100 万个新的工作机会。位于印度西部的马哈拉施特拉邦的一个试点项目, 将于今年晚些时候开始大量生产手机。
And though China remains by far the largest exporter of clothing to the United States, it is facing more competition from lower-cost rivals in Asia. Last year, China's market share of apparel exports to America declined, while countries such as Vietnam and Bangladesh gained, according to a March report from the Fung Business Intelligence Centre, a Hong Kong-based research outfit that specializes in supply chain and sourcing issues.	尽管中国向美国出口服装的规模依然遥遥领先, 但它也面临着成本更低的亚洲对手越来越多的竞争。冯氏集团利丰研究中心(Fung Business Intelligence Centre)今年3月发布的一份报告显示, 去年中国出口到美国的服装, 市场份额有所下降, 而越南和孟加拉国等国家的份额有所增加。这是一家总部位于香港的研究公司, 专注于供应链和采购领域的研究。
"It's not like China is an attractive location for all low-cost jobs," said James Zimmerman, the American Chamber's chairman in Beijing. "China is moving up the value chain, which will mean an adjustment."	"中国并不是一个对所有低成本岗位都有吸引力的地方," 在位于北京的中国美国商会担任主席的吉莫曼(James Zimmerman)说。"中国正在往价值链上游走, 这意味着会出现调整。"
Chinese workers are also facing job losses because of the country's stumbling economy.	因为中国经济增长受阻, 该国工人还面临着就业岗位的损失。
The rate of growth has dropped to its slowest pace in a quarter-century, hurting many industries. Manufacturing – which accounts for about a fifth of all urban employment in China – has been hit especially hard. Officially, China's job market is weathering the downturn surprisingly well, with government data showing unemployment of only 4 percent.	经济增长率降至近 25 年的最低点, 有诸多行业因之受损。为中国贡献五分之一城镇就业机会的制造业, 遭遇了尤其严重的冲击。表面看, 中国就业市场在经济下行冲击下的表现异常良好, 政府公布的数据显示该国失业率只有 4%。
Some economists, however, believe the employment situation is not as rosy as official statistics suggest. A June report from Fathom Consulting,	但一些经济学家认为, 就业形势并不像官方数据显示的那么美好。总部位于伦敦的华顿咨询公司(Fathom Consulting)于6月发布的一份报告估计, 今

based in London, estimates that unemployment and underemployment in China will reach 12.9 percent this year — triple the level in 2012.	年中国的失业及不充分就业率将达到 12.9%，是 2012 年的三倍。
Leland Miller, the chief executive of China Beige Book International, a research firm, says the job market hit a critical inflection point late last year, as the weakening economy finally started to bite. His figures show hiring began to plunge in the fourth quarter of 2015, and though the situation stabilized in recent months, probably because of greater government stimulus, Mr. Miller believes the improvement is not sustainable.	研究公司中国褐皮书国际公司(China Beige Book International)首席执行官利兰·米勒(Leland Miller)表示，随着逐渐走弱的经济终于开始产生显著后果，中国就业市场去年末出现了关键性的拐点。他提供的数据显示，招聘活动在 2015 年第四季度开始大幅减少，不过情况在最近几个月趋于稳定，原因可能是政府采取了更大的刺激措施。米勒认为这样的增长不可持续。
Factory workers in China, already suffering, may face even tougher times ahead.	已经开始受到影响的中國工厂工人，未来有可能面临更严峻的形势。
Many industrial companies are burdened by excess capacity, and downsizing may be unavoidable. In February, China's minister for human resources and social security estimated that 1.8 million workers could lose their jobs in the steel and coal sectors alone.	许多工业企业背负着产能过剩的沉重负担，缩小规模可能是不可避免的。今年 2 月，中国人力资源与社会保障部估计，单单钢铁和煤矿行业就有 180 万人有可能失业。
"If anyone is claiming that China is still enjoying a healthy or robust jobs market," Mr. Miller said, "they have no idea what they're talking about."	"如果说有人说中国还拥有健康或蓬勃的就业市场，"米勒说，"那他们根本不知道自己在说什么。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160725/china-jobs-donald-trump	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160725/china-jobs-donald-trump
Australia Rejects Bids From Chinese Investors for Electricity Provider	中资竞购澳大利亚供电企业受阻
HONG KONG — Citing national security concerns, the Australian government on Thursday rejected competing bids from Hong Kong and mainland Chinese groups for control of a company that supplies electricity to Sydney and neighboring areas.	香港——周四，澳大利亚政府以国家安全方面的担忧为由，拒绝来自香港和中国大陆的投资人提出的竞购案，它们要收购的是一家服务于悉尼及其周边地区的供电企业。
Key sectors of Australia's economy, like mining and agriculture, rely heavily on Chinese demand. But local wariness toward China's growing	澳大利亚的一些关键经济部门，比如采矿业和农业，严重依赖来自中国的需求。但近年来，随着许多澳大利亚企业的控制权接二连三地落入中国人手中，

economic influence has risen in recent years amid a wave of Chinese takeovers of Australian businesses.	当地人越来越忧心于中国日益增长的经济影响力。
At the same time, an influx of wealthy buyers from China has helped push up real estate prices in urban centers like Sydney and Melbourne, pricing local residents out of the market.	与此同时，来自中国的富有买家大量涌入，推高了悉尼、墨尔本等城市中心地带的房产价格，把支付不起高价的当地居民挤出了市场。
In response, the Australian government, in accordance with its foreign investment review legislation, has been carefully vetting the sale of key assets to Chinese interests and has blocked several high-profile transactions. Officials have also ordered Chinese buyers to sell homes acquired in violation of Australia's restrictions on foreign investment in real estate.	作为回应，澳大利亚政府已经开始根据该国的外国投资审查法，仔细审查向中资企业出售重要资产之举，而且已经阻止了若干宗颇为引人瞩目的交易。针对一些违反外资限购房地产规定的中国买家，政府也要求其出售所购房产。
In the latest such action, the Australian treasurer, Scott Morrison, on Thursday rejected the bids for 50.4 percent of Ausgrid, an electricity provider with a 99-year lease to distribute power in the southeastern state of New South Wales.	类似举措的最新一例是，澳大利亚财政部长斯科特·莫里森(Scott Morrison)于周四拒绝了投资者对供电企业澳洲电网(Ausgrid)的竞标。这些投资者本打算以一份为期 99 年的租约取得澳洲电网 50.4%的股权，并向东南部的新南威尔士州分销电力。
Mr. Morrison did not name the bidders, but news reports in Australia last month widely identified them as Cheung Kong Infrastructure, controlled by the family of the Hong Kong billionaire Li Ka-shing; and the State Grid Corporation of China, a government-owned electricity transmission and distribution company that is China's biggest.	莫里森没有对相关竞标企业指名道姓，但上个月，许多澳洲媒体都曾认定，它们分别是由香港亿万富翁李嘉诚家族控制的长江基建(Cheung Kong Infrastructure, 简称 CKI)，以及国有的中国最大电力输送和分销企业国家电网。
"My preliminary view is that the foreign investment proposals put to me for this transaction are contrary to the national interest," Mr. Morrison said in a news release. "National security issues were identified in critical power and communications services that Ausgrid provides to businesses and governments."	"我的初步看法是，交到我手上的这些关乎该交易的外国投资提案与国家利益相悖，"莫里森在一篇新闻稿中表示。"澳洲电网为企业和政府提供的重要电力和通信服务涉及国家安全问题。"

Mr. Morrison also emphasized the importance of foreign investment to Australia's economy and, in separate comments to reporters on Thursday, said that the nationality of the bidders was not a factor in his decision, which focused more on the specifics of the proposed deals.	莫里森也强调了外国投资对澳大利亚经济的重要性，并于周四另行告诉媒体记者，他主要是依据拟议中的具体交易内容做出了这一决定，竞标者的国籍不在他考虑的因素之列。
"The national security concerns were not country-specific and relate to the transaction structure and the nature of the assets," he said.	"国家安全方面的担忧并非针对哪个国家，而是和交易结构以及资产的性质有关，"他说。
He said the bidders have until next Thursday to argue their cases before he makes a final ruling on the matter.	他说，在他就此事做出最终裁定前，也就是直至下周四，相关竞标者都可以为自己的提案辩护，
Representatives of State Grid did not immediately respond to requests for comment.	国家电网的代表未立即回复置评请求。
Cheung Kong Infrastructure noted that it had been operating power, water and gas networks in the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand for 25 years.	长江基建则指出，过去 25 年时间里，它一直在英国、澳大利亚和新西兰运营着电力、水和天然气网络。
"We believe that the Australian government must have reasons beyond the obvious which led them to make today's announcement," the company said in a news release. "The issue is unrelated to CKI."	"我们相信，除了公开的原因，肯定还有其他因素导致澳大利亚政府在今天宣布这样的消息，"该公司在一份新闻稿中表示。"问题与 CKI 无关。"
Ausgrid's coverage area includes Sydney, Australia's biggest city, and covers more than 22,000 square kilometers, or about 8,500 square miles — an area roughly the size of New Jersey.	澳洲电网的服务覆盖范围包括澳大利亚最大城市悉尼，覆盖面积为 2.2 万平方公里——与新泽西州大致相当。
Australian news reports had estimated a sale of the Ausgrid stake could have brought in more than 10 billion Australian dollars, or $7.7 billion, to the state government of New South Wales.	澳大利亚媒体估计，出售澳洲电网的股权或将为新南威尔士州政府带来超过 100 亿澳元（约合 77 亿美元）的进账。
Both of the bidders are already significant investors in the Australian electricity market. State Grid has stakes in three local power companies, while Cheung Kong Infrastructure owns electricity and gas distribution	在澳大利亚的电力市场上，这两个竞标者都已经成为极具影响力的投资者。国家电网持有当地三家电力公司的股份，长江基建则在澳大利亚的几个州拥有电力和天然气分销网络。 networks in several Australian states.

Local business groups in Australia had lobbied for a more welcoming approach to the bids from China. They pointed out that the United States remains the country's biggest foreign investor, with Chinese investment in Australia to date amounting to only one tenth of what America has spent.	澳大利亚当地的商业团体已经开始游说相关方面以更加友好的方式对待来自中国的竞标。它们指出，美国依然是澳大利亚最大的外国投资者，中国目前在澳大利亚的投资只相当于美国的十分之一。
Australia has blocked several high-profile deals involving buyers from China in recent years.	近年来，澳大利亚阻止了若干颇为引人瞩目的涉及中国买家的交易。
Last year, Australia's treasurer at the time, Joe Hockey, ordered the head of Evergrande Real Estate Group, a Chinese developer, to sell a mansion he had acquired illegally in 2014 for 39 million dollars.	去年，澳大利亚时任财政部长乔·霍基(Joe Hockey)命令中国开发商恒大地产的老板卖掉其在 2014 年斥资 3900 万美元以非法方式购买的一栋豪宅。
In April, Mr. Morrison signaled his opposition to the acquisition of a cattle ranching company by a Chinese-led group. He cited the significant size of the firm's sprawling ranchland, which covered 1 percent of Australia's total area and 2 percent of its agricultural land.	今年 4 月份，莫里森就一个由中国投资者领衔的财团对一家畜牧企业的收购交易表示了反对意见。他给出的理由是，该公司的牧场面积过大，分别占澳大利亚总面积和农地总面积的 1%和 2%。
Even some Chinese investments that went through have stirred up controversy. Concerns arose in October that an agreement by a Chinese company to acquire the port of Darwin, in Australia's Northern Territory, could open the door to spying on United States Marines, who train there several months of the year.	就连一些已经获得批准的投资项目也引发了争议。去年 10 月，一家中国公司通过一纸协议，取得了澳大利亚北领地自治州达尔文港口的控制权，有人担心这可能会被用来监视每年在这里训练数月的美国海军陆战队。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160812/australia-china-ausgrid-nsw-sydney	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160812/australia-china-ausgrid-nsw-sydney
Trillions in Murky Investments Could Rock China's Economy	理财产品威胁中国金融体系：缺乏监管、不透明
SHANGHAI — The deal could be hard to resist.	上海——这也许是一桩令人难以拒绝的买卖。
A Shanghai investment firm is offering a fat return of up to 10 percent a	上海一家投资公司在提供每年最高可达 10%的丰厚回报，远远高于当地股票

year, handily beating both the local stock market and the paltry payouts from bank accounts. It requires a minimum deposit of about $15, making it accessible to just about anyone. Investors can pull out in as little as seven days. Best of all, the money is guaranteed.	市场的收益或银行账户微不足道的利息。最低只需要存入约 100 元现金，这让几乎任何人都能参与投资。投资者最短七天后就可撤资。最重要的是，这个投资是有保障的。
There is just one catch: Investors know surprisingly little about what they are buying.	只是有一个诡异之处：投资者们对他们所购产品的了解惊人得少。
The firm, State Gold Treasure, said the money would be plowed into a real estate company building a luxury serviced-apartment complex here in Shanghai. But it will not release details, including the complex's address.	这家名叫“国金宝”(State Gold Treasure)的公司说，钱将投给在上海建设一个豪华服务式公寓群的房地产公司。但国金宝没有给出更多的细节，比如该公寓群的地址。
The offering is just one of a spate of barely regulated, highly opaque investments that are posing a growing threat to the Chinese financial system. As the country's economy slows, experts increasingly worry that many of the investment funds could fail — and the government may not know how to handle the shock to its financial system.	这家公司的产品只是一批几乎无监管且高度不透明的投资产品之一，这些投资产品正在给中国金融体系带来日益严重的威胁。随着中国的经济增长放缓，专家们越来越多地担心，许多这类投资基金可能会失败，而政府可能不知道如何应对其金融体系所面临的冲击。
Over the last five years, Chinese investors have plowed at least $2.8 trillion into buying such funds from banks alone. After quintupling since 2011, these investments, known as wealth management products, now total an amount roughly equal to more than one-third of the country's annual economic output. Their growth has increased as China's economy has slowed.	在过去的五年中，中国的投资者仅从银行购买的这类投资产品就已至少达到 2.8 万亿美元。这些被称为理财产品的投资自 2011 年以来已经翻了五番，目前的累计金额大致相当于中国年度经济总产值的三分之一以上。随着中国经济增长的放缓，理财产品的增长率反而在增加。
That is just the funds distributed by banks. Reliable data on wealth management products sold by other types of firms, like State Gold Treasure, is hard to come by.	这仅仅是银行发行的理财产品。很难得到像国金宝这样的其他类型企业销售的理财产品的可靠数据。
The problem for China is that a big chunk of the money is going into	中国的问题是，这些钱中有很大部分正在流入面临困难的行业，比如建筑

troubled industries like construction and real estate. Further slowdowns in those areas could result in major blowups.	和房地产业。这些行业的进一步放缓可能会导致危机的爆发。
Banks also increasingly use the funds to raise money, instead of more stable deposits. The extra investment cash allows banks to make loans at a much faster clip than their deposits alone would allow. But if investors suddenly demanded their money back, banks could be in a financial bind.	银行也越来越多地用这些产品来筹集资金，而不是用更稳定的存款。银行可以用投资产品带来的额外现金以更快的速度发放贷款，比仅靠银行存款所允许的要快。但是，如果投资者突然要求撤资的话，银行可能会陷入金融困境。
The Chinese government so far has stepped in to stop big meltdowns of wealth management products, to avert ripple effects and forestall investor anger. But not all investors have been spared.	中国政府迄今已几次插手阻止理财产品的大崩溃，避免连锁反应，预先防止投资者愤怒的爆发。但是，并非所有投资者都这么幸运。
Li Wenyuan, a doctor in Beijing, says she invested almost $140,000 last year in a wealth management product linked to a steel company. After the company ran into difficulty, she was repaid less than $2,000. She had planned to use the entire original amount to send her son to a high school in Canada, where the air is cleaner and he would have a chance to improve his English.	北京的医生李文媛（音）说，她去年投资了约 100 万元人民币，购买了一个与一家钢铁公司有关的理财产品。该公司遇到困难后，退给她的钱还不到 1.5 万元。她曾打算把整笔原始投资用于送儿子到加拿大读高中，那里的空气更干净，儿子也会有机会提高自己的英语水平。
"It's quite a big loss for my family," she said. "We are still able to provide for ourselves. Still, it's a lot of money and I doubt I will ever get it back. I am worried."	"对我的家庭来说，这是一笔相当大的损失，"她说。"我们还能养活自己。但那是一大笔钱，我怀疑我永远也收不回那笔钱了。我很担心。"
Wealth management products are part of a huge but shadowy system of unregulated investments and underground banks that many Chinese people depend on for the loans that keep their businesses humming. Increasingly, the debate inside and outside China is focusing on what will happen if that system falls apart — and how quickly the government might be able to respond.	理财产品是不受监管的投资和地下钱庄形成的巨大影子系统的一部分，许多中国人靠影子银行获得维持其商业运行的贷款。中国境内外争论的焦点越来越多地是关于，如果这个影子系统崩毁的话，会发生什么，以及政府可能有能力做出反应的速度有多快。

“There is a risk building up in this regard, and on top of that, the tricky issue is that there are many triggers that could wake up this sleeping lion,” said David Daokui Li, a prominent Tsinghua University economist who is a member of the Chinese central bank’s monetary policy committee. “Most likely, this issue will emerge as a crisis. The question is whether it is a small crisis or a big crisis.”	“这方面有一个风险积累，在此之上的一个棘手问题是，有很多唤醒这个睡狮的可能触发点，”清华大学的著名经济学家李稻葵说，他也是中国央行货币政策委员会的委员。“最有可能的是，这个问题将以危机的形式出现。目前的问题是，是一个小危机、还是一个大危机。”
China’s wealth management products are neither stocks nor bonds nor mutual funds. A typical wealth management product offers a fixed rate of return over a set period. Many Chinese investors treat them like bank savings deposits because many are sold by state-controlled banks that give the funds the appearance of government backing.	中国的理财产品既不是股票，也不是债券，也不是共同基金。典型的理财产品在核算期内为投资者提供某种固定的收益。许多中国投资者把理财产品当成银行储蓄存款，因为很多这类产品是由国家控制的银行出售的，让它们看似背后有政府支持。
But unlike bank deposits, they are uninsured. They are also typically structured so that the banks are not responsible if the investments fail. Among the biggest issuers of wealth management products are hundreds of banks and other financial institutions in poor, inland provinces. These banks are under intense pressure from provincial political bosses to keep lending and help sustain big employers like state-owned enterprises, at a time when the entire country’s economy is slowing.	但是，与银行存款不同，理财产品没有保险。理财产品通常的结构是，如果投资失败，银行并不承担任何责任。理财产品最大的发行者是贫穷的内陆省份的上百家银行和其他金融机构。来自省级政治领导的强大压力，迫使这些银行不停地发放贷款，以在整个国家的经济增长放缓时，帮助维持国有企业这样的大雇主。
To raise money for large-scale lending, banks have ramped up issuance. They sold 187,000 separate wealth management products by the end of last year, up 56 percent from a year earlier, according to official statistics.	为进行大规模借贷筹集资金，银行加大了理财产品的发行规模。据官方统计，截至去年底，银行出售的理财产品达 18.7 万种，比上年同期增长了 56%。
Technology has made it easier for firms other than banks, like State Gold Treasure, to sell the products online and through smartphone	技术让国金宝这样的非银行企业在网上、或通过智能手机应用程序来销售理财产品变得更容易。“在过去，你需要去银行或一家基金公司开个账户，”北

apps. "In the past, you'd need to go to the bank to open an account or open an account at a certain fund company," said He Zhirui, a finance company worker in Beijing who also invests in wealth management products. "Now, with the apps, you can simply upload your personal ID and purchase wealth management products right away online."	京一家金融公司的工作人员何智睿（音）说，他也投资理财产品。“现在，你可以通过手机应用程序，只要上传一下自己的身份证，就能在网上购买理财产品了。”
State Gold Treasure, known as Guojinbao in Chinese, has its wood-paneled offices on the 71st floor of the gleaming Shanghai World Financial Center, which has a large statue of a Chinese god of wealth in the lobby. On its website, the company says investors are protected by a "seven-layer guarantee mechanism" and promises that all investments will be repaid in full.	用木材精装修的国金宝办公室，位于光彩夺目的上海环球金融中心的 71 层，上海环球金融中心的大厅里有一个大型的财神塑像。在国金宝的网站上，公司说投资者享有“7 维安全保障”，还保证投资项目 100% 兑付。
But the fund does not say who is guaranteeing the funds. The company declined interview requests and to make officials available for comment during a visit to its offices.	但投资产品并没有说明谁为资金提供担保。公司拒绝接受采访，也没有让公司领导与前往其办公室的记者见面，就公司事宜发表评论。
The proliferation of wealth management products has drawn concern from regulators. In May, China's banking commission warned that the business was plagued with problems, including unauthorized products.	理财产品的激增已经引起了监管部门的关注。今年 5 月，中国银监会曾警告说，理财产品存在很多问题，包括未经授权的产品。
Regulators are also considering new oversight rules. The goal, the commission said in response to questions, was to "facilitate a standards-based, healthy and sustainable development" and to "prevent risks."	监管机构也正在考虑出台新的规则。银监会在回答有关问题时表示，新规则的目的是“促进规范、健康且可持续的发展”，同时要“防止风险”。
The shift in money away from bank deposits leaves China's financial system on less solid footing. China withstood the Asian financial crisis in 1997 and 1998 and the global financial crisis in 2008 and 2009 in part because its financial system depended on highly stable household and	资金从银行储蓄中转移，令中国的金融系统根基相对不稳。中国之所以能经受住 1997-1998 年的亚洲金融危机和 2008-2009 年的全球金融危机，部分原因就在于它的金融系统依赖高度稳定的家庭和企业储蓄，而且这些资金主要集中于由政府控制的四大银行。

corporate deposits parked mainly at four huge, government-controlled banks.
But smaller banks combined are now almost as large as the four main banks combined. Wealth management products account for up to a third of money raised at many midsize and smaller banks.	不过，现在规模更小的银行加在一起，资金规模几乎与四大银行相当。在许多中小银行，理财产品可占到所吸纳资金的三分之一。
Mr. Li, the central bank adviser, and other officials and economists say the Chinese government has the resources to cover big losses if wealth management products fail. They also say China's increasingly tough enforcement of limits on sending money abroad will ensure that enough cash remains in the country in the event of a big failure.	央行顾问李稻葵及其他一些官员和经济学家称，中国政府有资源，可以弥补一旦理财产品投资失败带来的损失。他们还表示，中国限制资金外流的力度越来越大，就算出现更大的问题，也将能确保国内有足够的资金。
"With the Chinese system, it's easier to deal with a liquidity issue — the money can't go out," said Chang Chun, the executive dean of the Shanghai Advanced Institute of Finance at Shanghai Jiao Tong University.	"在中国的制度之下，更容易应对流动性问题——资金出不去，"上海交通大学高级金融学院执行院长张春说。
But some specialists in Chinese finance say that serious problems could appear faster than expected. They could also lurk in unexpected corners unnoticed by Chinese regulators, much less international investors.	不过，一些研究中国金融的专家表示，严重的问题可能会比预期来得更快。它们也可能潜伏在让人意想不到的角落，连中国监管机构都没有注意到，更不用说国际投资者。
"It's going to happen," said Christopher Balding, an associate professor of finance at the HSBC Business School at the Peking University Shenzhen Graduate School, "when a firm goes bust that you've never heard of, or in a city you've never heard of."	"会发生的，"北京大学深圳研究生院汇丰商学院金融副教授克里斯托弗·鲍尔丁(Christopher Balding)说，"会有你没听到过的公司破产，或者发生在你没听说过的城市。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160815/murky-investments-pose-china-risk	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160815/murky-investments-pose-china-risk
U.S. Regulator Signs Off on ChemChina-Syngenta Deal	中国化工 430 亿美元收购先正达获美国批准
LONDON — The state-owned China National Chemical Corporation	伦敦——中国国有企业中国化工集团公司周一宣布，其出资 430 亿美元（约

said on Monday that it had received clearance from a regulator in the United States for its $43 billion acquisition of Syngenta, a giant in farm chemicals and seeds.	合 2900 亿元人民币) 收购农化和种子行业巨头先正达(Syngenta)一事, 已获得美国监管机构的批准。
The approval by the regulator, the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, removed one of the biggest potential challenges to the deal, as the interagency body had previously proved to be an obstacle for cross-border agreements involving Chinese companies.	该机构名为美国外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States), 这一监管机构的批准, 消除了这笔交易面临的最严峻的潜在挑战之一, 因为之前的事实证明, 这个跨部门机构是涉及中国公司跨国交易面临的一大障碍。
The China National Chemical Corporation, known as ChemChina, has been an active buyer in recent years, acquiring more than a half-dozen companies in Europe, the Middle East and Australia. But if it is completed, the Syngenta purchase would be China's biggest foreign deal ever.	近年来, 中国化工集团公司, 简称中国化工, 一直是一个积极的买家, 在欧洲、中东和澳大利亚收购了六家以上的公司。但如果收购先正达的交易完成, 这将是最大的对外收购交易。
ChemChina agreed to acquire Syngenta in February, about six months after the Swiss company rejected a $47 billion takeover bid by Monsanto. Syngenta said at the time that the American company's offer undervalued it, and that it might be difficult to execute because of regulatory concerns. Monsanto abandoned its pursuit in August.	今年 2 月, 中国化工同意收购先正达, 此时距这家瑞士公司拒绝孟山都(Monsanto)470 亿美元的收购要约已过去了大约六个月。当时, 先正达称美国公司孟山都的报价低估了自己的价值, 并表示因为监管方面的问题, 交易可能难以达成。去年 8 月, 孟山都放弃收购。
But Dow Chemical and DuPont agreed to combine in December, further consolidating the pesticide industry and limiting Syngenta's opportunities for a merger of its own. Analysts said after that deal that Monsanto or ChemChina were Syngenta's most likely merger partners.	但去年 12 月, 陶氏化学(Dow Chemical)和杜邦(DuPont)同意合并。这使杀虫剂行业进一步整合, 限制了先正达自己的合并机会。那项协议达成后, 分析人士称孟山都或中国化工是最有可能与先正达合并的合作伙伴。
Syngenta, based in Basel, Switzerland, is one of the world's largest producers of agricultural chemicals, including insecticides, fungicides, herbicides and seeds. It was formed in November 2000 by the merger of the agribusinesses of Novartis and AstraZeneca.	总部设在瑞士巴塞尔的先正达是全世界最大的农用化学品生产商之一, 产品包括杀虫剂、杀菌剂、除草剂和种子。它由诺华公司(Novartis)和阿斯利康(AstraZeneca)的农业业务部门在 2000 年 11 月合并而成。

Syngenta reported sales of $13.4 billion in 2015, of which 27 percent came from North America. The company employs more than 28,000 people in over 90 countries.	先正达通报称 2015 年销售额为 134 亿美元，其中 27%来自北美市场。该公司在 90 多个国家拥有逾 2.8 万名员工。
When they announced the deal, Syngenta and ChemChina emphasized that the Swiss company's headquarters and management would remain in place, and they noted that there was limited overlap in their products to give cause regulators pause.	宣布这项协议时，先正达和中国化工强调这家瑞士公司的总部和管理团队就被保留，并指出双方可能会让监管机构有理由犹豫的产品重叠范围有限。
The transaction is still subject to antitrust review in several countries, ChemChina and Syngenta said. "Both companies are working closely with the regulatory agencies involved and discussions remain constructive," they said in a news release.	中国化工和先正达表示，这笔交易依然须接受多个国家的反垄断审查。“双方正在同涉及的监管机构密切合作，讨论依然具有建设性，”它们在一份新闻稿中说。
The companies said they expected the deal to close by the end of this year.	两家公司表示，预计交易会在今年年底之前完成。
The approval by the Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States, which reviews deals for potential national security issues, removes a major roadblock.	美国外国投资委员会的批准消除了一大障碍。出于对潜在的国家安全问题的考虑，该机构会对相关交易进行审核。
Last year, the committee raised "unforeseen concerns" about a similar deal in which Philips, the Dutch electronics giant, would sell a controlling stake in its automotive and LED components business to GO Scale Capital, an investment fund sponsored by GSR Ventures of China and Oak Investment Partners.	去年，该委员会对一桩类似交易提出了“未预见到的担忧”。当时，荷兰电子业巨头飞利浦(Philips)欲将旗下汽车和 LED 部件公司的控股权，出售给 GO Scale Capital。后者是中国的金沙江创业投资与橡树投资伙伴(Oak Investment Partners)共同建立的投资基金。
The ChemChina-Syngenta deal is the latest in a series of recent moves by the Chinese company.	近期，中国化工采取了一系列的行动，收购先正达这笔交易是其最新动作。
In January, it took a minority stake in Mercuria, a Swiss energy and commodities company, to diversify its portfolio and expand into the	今年 1 月，为实现投资组合的多元化并进军能源行业，中国化工收购瑞士能源和大宗商品公司摩科瑞(Mercuria)的少数股份。同月，中国化工完成了出

energy sector. That same month, it sealed a deal for KraussMaffei, a German manufacturer of plastic- and rubber-processing machinery, for about $1 billion.	资约 10 亿美元，收购德国塑料和橡胶加工机械制造商克劳斯玛菲 (KraussMaffei) 的交易。
And last year, ChemChina bought Pirelli, the Italian tire maker, for 7.1 billion euros, or about $8 billion at current exchange rates.	去年，中国化工斥资 71 亿欧元，收购意大利轮胎制造商倍耐力 (Pirelli)。按照当前的汇率，这笔交易的收购价约合 80 亿美元。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160823/us-china-chemchina-syngenta-merger	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160823/us-china-chemchina-syngenta-merger
The Challenge of Cutting Coal Dependence	向燃煤说再见，没那么容易
It won't be easy to get rid of coal.	要摆脱煤炭没有那么容易。
Worried the nation might miss its 2020 target to drastically cut emissions of carbon dioxide, the German government proposed a steep levy last year on the most heavily polluting generators. The tax was intended to deliver a decisive blow against lignite or brown coal, the dirtiest fuel around and Germany's main source of electricity.	因为担心德国达不到 2020 年大幅削减二氧化碳排放的目标，该国政府曾在去年提议对污染最严重的发电厂征收高额税费。此举意在给褐煤决定性的一击。褐煤是这里最不清洁的燃料，也是德国电力的主要来源。
Germany views itself as a leader in the push against climate change. It is probably the world's most enthusiastic investor in renewable energy, mainly wind and sun. But even the powerful Chancellor Angela Merkel couldn't quite pull it off.	德国自认为是推动气候变化方面的领导者。它可能是世界上最热心于投资可再生能源的国家，主要发展风能和太阳能。但就连强悍的德国总理安格拉·默克尔 (Angela Merkel) 也没能完全实现上述提议。
Facing blowback from labor unions and governments in coal country, Berlin backed off, replacing the levy with a subsidy of 1.6 billion euros to gradually mothball eight coal-fired plants and shut them down permanently by 2023.	面对来自工会和煤炭产区地方政府的阻力，柏林退缩了。它放弃征收那项税费，代之以 16 亿欧元（约合 120 亿人民币）的补贴，帮助逐渐淘汰八座燃煤发电厂，并在 2023 年结束前将它们永久关闭。
Environmentalists hated it. "Instead of being fined for polluting by the proposed new climate levy, utilities will instead get paid for keeping their oldest and most inefficient lignite plants on standby," noted a	环境保护主义者非常不喜欢这种结果。“这些造成污染的事业公司非但不会被处以罚金，缴纳新提议的气候税费，反倒可以因为保留自己那些极其老旧和低效的褐煤电站，并暂停其运转而得到补贴，”非营利环保组织 E3G 就德

report for Oxfam on Germany's energy policies by the environmental nonprofit E3G. It "amounts to a golden handshake for utilities at the expense of taxpayers and consumers."	国能源政策为乐施会(Oxfam)制作的一份报告指出。这“相当于用纳税人和消费者的钱给这些事业单位一大笔退休金”。
And that wasn't all. The chancellery also rejected a push by Barbara Hendricks, the environment minister, to establish a road map to the total phaseout of coal, hoping to postpone timing decisions until after national elections next year.	不仅如此，总理办公室还否决了环境部长芭芭拉·亨德里克斯(Barbara Hendricks)确立彻底废除煤炭燃料的线路图的努力，希望将决策时间推迟到明年的大选之后。
Berlin's hesitance may seem like little more than a snag in Germany's vaunted "Energiewende." At least the coal generators are scheduled to shut down eventually.	柏林的犹豫看起来似乎不过是德国大肆宣扬的“能源转型”(Energiewende)遇到的一个障碍。至少依计划这些燃煤发电厂最终都会被关闭。
But the resistance in the greenest of green countries underscores a more substantial challenge to the international effort to drastically reduce fossil fuels in the world's energy supply: workers and retirees, local economies and communities still depend on the fuels the rest of us hope to let go of to preserve the planet for our children and our children's children.	但这个堪称“绿中最绿”的国家所遭遇的阻力，突显出在全球能源供应中大幅减少化石燃料的国际努力面临一个更实质性的挑战：工人和退休人员、仍然依赖这些燃料的地方经济和社区，尽管我们其他人希望放弃它们，以便保护这个星球，让我们的孩子及其后代拥有更好的环境。
I'm old enough to remember President Jimmy Carter going on TV on April 18, 1977, declaring a "moral equivalent of war" against dependence on foreign oil, and telling Americans that "we need to shift to plentiful coal." It seems unfair to simply tell the communities that worked on this shift: "We're sorry, but it didn't work out."	我年龄够大，还能记得吉米·卡特 1977 年 4 月 18 日在电视上宣布向美国对石油的依赖发起“道义战争”的情形，他告诉美国人“我们需要转向储量丰富的煤炭”。单单告诉这些社群，“对不起，这场战争出了大问题”，似乎不太公平。
But making those who will suffer from this transformation whole is not just a matter of fairness. A successful transition to a low-carbon future requires their support. And yet they remain pretty much an afterthought in the public debate over climate change.	但对那些会因这种转变受损的人做出补偿，不只是一个公平问题。成功地迈向低碳的未来需要他们的支持。而在针对气候变化的公开辩论中，他们基本上始终是事后才被想起的群体。

Employment in U.S. coal mines has been falling for decades, pushed more by market forces than environmental policy. The steep downturn of late is mainly because of a glut in the global steel market and extra-cheap natural gas. President Barack Obama's Clean Power Plan has not yet kicked in, placed on ice by the Supreme Court. Still, Hillary Clinton singled out coal country for government assistance, offering $30 billion over 10 years.	几十年来，美国煤矿的雇佣人数一直在下降，这更多是由市场力量推动，而非环境政策。近来这一数字大幅降低，主要是因为全球钢铁市场供过于求，加上天然气价格格外低廉。美国总统贝拉克·奥巴马还没有开始实施他的清洁电力计划(Clean Power Plan)，因为最高法院做出裁决，要求暂停执行。此外，希拉里·克林顿(Hillary Clinton)单独将煤炭区列出来，提议在10年里为它们提供300亿美元的政府援助。
The stakes are even larger in China. It is the world's largest consumer of coal — burning as much as every other country combined. After years adding coal-fired generators at breakneck speed, the government in Beijing finally acknowledged the public health costs and ordered limits on new construction.	中国牵涉其中的利益甚至更大。它是世界上最大的燃煤国，煤炭消耗量相当于其他国家的总和。在多年以非常危险的高速度增加燃煤发电厂之后，北京的政府终于承认这么做的公共卫生代价太大，下令对新建项目进行限制。
Yet even as environmentalists welcome the decision as a watershed in the transition out of the world's most polluting fuel, striking coal miners have taken to the streets, protesting unpaid wages and government plans to cut 1.3 million coal jobs out of a total of nearly 6 million to reduce overcapacity as the country's growth slows.	然而，就在环保人士对此表示欢迎，将它看作摆脱世界上污染最严重的燃料的努力出现转折之时，罢工的煤矿工人却走上了街头，抗议企业拖欠工资，抗议政府计划削减130万个煤炭业工作岗位。当下，中国煤炭业有将近600万个工作岗位。随着中国经济增长放缓，政府需要削减过剩的生产力。
There are several reasons to be skeptical about the world's transition out of coal. Sure, official data suggest that the world's production peaked in 2013. China's coal consumption appears to have declined 3.3 percent last year. But experts note that despite the new limits, there are still lots of new coal-fired generators being built.	我们有好几个理由对世界摆脱煤炭资源的可能性持怀疑态度。当然，官方数据显示全球产煤量在2013年达到了高峰。中国去年的煤炭消耗量似乎减少了3.3%。不过专家也指出，尽管政府实施了新的限制，但仍有不少新的燃煤发电站在建设之中。
To protect jobs and tax revenue from small coal mines, Chinese local governments have been known to fib when Beijing has demanded they stop producing coal. They stop reporting production numbers but don't	据悉，为了保住工作机会和来自小煤矿的税收，中国地方政府会在北京要求停止产煤的时候撒谎。他们不再上报生产数据，但却不会关掉煤矿。

shut them down.
Finally, even the most renewable-friendly nations have not figured out how to draw more than a modest share of their power from wind and sun – which can't be counted on to deliver energy continuously. At the same time, coal remains the easiest and often cheapest source of base power. So from Germany to India, strategies to increase the share of renewable energy in the power mix have relied on a coal base.	最终，就连最支持可再生能源的国家也搞不清楚，如何才能将本国风能与太阳能极低的总发电量占比有所提高。目前还不能指望这两种能源可以实现持续稳定的供应。与此同时，煤炭依然是最容易获得、往往也是最便宜的电力来源。所以不管是在德国还是印度，其增加可再生能源发电比例的策略都要以煤炭电力为基础。
"The way many jurisdictions are going is to follow the German model," said Mark C. Thurber, associate director for research at Stanford University's Program on Energy and Sustainable Development. "It seems totally nuts, but it follows from the fact that renewables have a lot of support, and other than that, people do what they know, which is coal."	"很多国家的发展方向就是采用德国的模式，"斯坦福大学能源与可持续发展项目(Stanford University's Program on Energy and Sustainable Development)研究部副主任马克·C·瑟伯(Mark C. Thurber)说。"这看似完全疯了，但它出自这样一个事实：很多人对可再生能源表示支持，但除此之外，人们还是会使用自己了解的东西，那就是煤。"
India draws 62 percent of its power from coal and is already the second-largest consumer after China and ahead of the United States. Still, coal consumption is growing about 7 percent a year to power the country's economic catch-up.	印度 62%的电力来自煤，它已经是排在中国之后、美国之前的世界第二大燃煤国。但印度的燃煤量依然在以每年约 7%的比率增长，这样才能为该国在经济上的奋起直追提供动力。
"There is not much research into backing out coal with something else," Thurber said. "They are just throwing renewables at a coal base." While environmentalists welcomed India's announcement last year that it would increase investment in solar energy, they were less pleased by its plans to triple coal production from 2013 to 2020.	"目前没有太多有关用别的能源取代煤炭的研究，"瑟伯说。"他们只是在煤炭资源基础上增加可再生能源。"尽管环保人士对印度去年宣布的一项举措表示欢迎，即它将增加在太阳能方面的投资，但对于印度提出的在 2013 年至 2020 年间将煤炭产量增加两倍的计划，他们就没那么满意了。
This means the world's climate change strategy cannot rely on the quick replacement of the dirtiest fuel around. Increasing investment in technologies like carbon capture and storage may prove indispensable	这意味着这个世界应对气候变化的策略，不能依靠快速替换目前污染最严重的燃料实现。对于达到在接下来的几十年里阻止灾难性的气候变暖状况发生所需的碳排放限制，增加在碳捕集与存储等技术上的投资，或许会被证明是

to meet the limits on carbon dioxide emissions needed to prevent a catastrophic warming over coming decades.	不可或缺的。
Even after all this is dealt with and the obstacles are overcome, the human dimension will remain.	即便所有这些问题得到解决，障碍被跨越，依然会有人的问题。
It will require a lot of attention, and more than a few billion dollars. Simply assuming that displaced coal miners will make a smooth transition into jobs in newfangled energy industries, which have a different geographical footprint and require a different skill set, is a cop-out.	它将需要很多关注，不只是投入几十亿美元那么简单。仅仅想到让被取代的煤矿工人顺利实现转型，在新能源行业里找到工作，那简直就是逃避问题，因为能源分布情况不同，也需要不一样的技能。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160831/the-challenge-of-cutting-coal-dependence	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160831/the-challenge-of-cutting-coal-dependence
Canada to Join China-Led Bank, Signaling Readiness to Bolster Ties	加拿大申请加入亚投行，中加关系回暖
BEIJING — Canada said on Wednesday that it had applied to join China’s version of the World Bank, breaking with previous leaders who had shared United States officials’ skepticism of the new Beijing-led lender.	北京——加拿大周三表示已申请加入中国版的世界银行，此举改变了该国以前领导人的态度，他们曾与美国官员一起对这家新的、由北京领导的借贷机构表示怀疑。
The move came during a five-day trip to China by the prime minister of Canada, Justin Trudeau, who is seeking to burnish trade, business and political ties with Beijing. China’s relationship with the previous Canadian government had been lukewarm.	此举是加拿大总理贾斯汀·特鲁多(Justin Trudeau)在为期五天的中国之行期间做出的，特鲁多正在寻求与北京加强贸易、商业和政治关系。中国与加拿大上届政府的关系一直不冷不热。
The membership would provide a lift for the lender, the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank, a Chinese-led organization that counts 57 countries as members and that is looking to expand by about an additional 30. The bank — founded last year to fund roads, power lines and other needed infrastructure projects in Asia — is widely seen as an	加拿大的加入将提振亚洲基础设施投资银行这一借贷机构。中国领导的亚投行目前有 57 个成员国，并希望增加 30 个成员国。去年成立的亚投行被广泛认为是中国日益增长的经济和政治实力的延伸，是中国与世界银行和其他西方国家主导机构的抗衡。亚投行将为修建道路、输电线以及亚洲所需的其他基础设施项目提供资金。

extension of China's growing economic and political heft and as a counterweight to the World Bank and other institutions dominated by Western countries.
The previous Canadian government, led by Stephen Harper, hesitated in joining the bank, saying that it wanted to ensure that the institution's financial and environmental standards were sound. The Obama administration expressed similar reservations, and during the genesis of the bank, it advised several allies, including Australia and South Korea, not to join.	斯蒂芬·哈珀(Stephen Harper)领导下的上届加拿大政府曾对加入亚投行犹豫不决,说希望能确定该机构的财务和环境标准是可靠的。奥巴马政府表达了类似的保留态度,在亚投行创建时,美国曾建议一些盟国不加入该行,其中包括澳大利亚和韩国。
Both countries eventually ignored Washington and became founding members of the bank that is intended to both compete and cooperate with existing lending institutions. Britain also broke with the United States over the new bank and became an inaugural member along with France, Germany and Italy.	那两个国家最终没有理睬华盛顿,以创始成员国的身份加入了旨在与现有的贷款机构既竞争又合作的亚投行。英国也在亚投行问题上与美国破裂,与法国、德国和意大利一起成为亚投行的创始成员国。
American officials have since softened their criticism and have encouraged the Chinese to finance projects with the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank as a way of ensuring what they consider acceptable standards of environmental and lending practices.	自那以后,美国官员已缓和了他们的批评态度,并开始鼓励中国与世界银行和亚洲开发银行一起投资项目,从而确保环境和借贷活动符合他们认为的可接受的标准。
China is Canada's second-largest single trading partner, after the United States, and it is a major buyer of Canadian timber, paper, metals and fertilizer. China, in turn, has become a major investor in Canada, buying up oil and natural gas reserves and high-end homes in Vancouver.	中国是加拿大仅次于美国的第二大贸易伙伴,也是加拿大木材、纸张、金属和化肥的主要买家。同时,中国已成了加拿大的一个主要投资者,购买石油和天然气储备,还在温哥华购买高档住宅。
That wave of investment has prompted controversy in Vancouver, where residents blame China for steep home prices, and in other places, where critics worry about the influence of Beijing in Chinese	这些投资已在温哥华引发争议,那里的居民把房价高涨的原因归咎于中国,而在加拿大其他地方,批评人士担心北京对当地中国社区的影响。 communities and elsewhere.

Relations between the countries have sometimes been rocky. Mr. Trudeau was expected to raise the issue of Kevin Garratt, a Canadian held by the Chinese authorities on accusations of spying. Mr. Garratt's family disputes the allegations.	中加关系有时也有起伏。特鲁多预计会向中国提有关凯文·加勒特(Kevin Garratt)的问题，中国当局指控这名被其拘留的加拿大公民犯有间谍罪。加勒特的家人否认该指控。
Speaking at a news conference on Wednesday, Li Keqiang, China's premier, said that the case would be looked at according to Chinese law and that Mr. Garratt would be treated humanely.	中国总理李克强在周三的新闻发布会上表示，中国将依法对待该案，并表示加勒特会得到人道的待遇。
For Canada, joining the bank could help strengthen its relationship with a country that is increasingly important to its economy. "Canada's membership will create commercial opportunities for Canadian companies and create jobs for the middle class," said Canada's finance minister, Bill Morneau, at a news conference with the bank's president, Jin Liqun.	对加拿大来说，中国对加拿大的经济越来越重要，加入亚投行可能会帮助其加强与中国的关系。“成为亚投行成员国将为加拿大公司创造商业机会，为本国中产阶级创造就业机会，”加拿大财政部长比尔·莫诺(Bill Morneau)在与亚投行行长金立群一起举行的新闻发布会上说。
Mr. Jin said he interpreted Canada's application for membership as a "vote of confidence." Canada is a leader in environmental matters and had a record as a "clean" government, attributes that match the bank's efforts to be "lean, green and clean," he said. "We have zero tolerance of corruption," he said.	金立群说，他把加拿大的申请加入解释为该国对亚投行“抱有信心”；加拿大在环境保护方面是领导者，有“干净”政府的良好记录，这些都与亚投行“精干、廉洁、绿色”的理念相符；亚投行“对腐败采取‘零容忍’态度”。
Mr. Jin acknowledged that one of the bank's five vice presidents, Hong Kyttack, a former finance official in South Korea, had taken a six-month leave after allegations that he had been negligent in giving loans to Daewoo Shipbuilding & Marine Engineering during his tenure at the Korean Development Bank.	金立群承认，亚投行的五位副行长之一、韩国前财务官员洪起泽(Hong Kyttack)将休职六个月，此前洪起泽被指控在韩国产业银行任职期间，在向大宇造船和海运工程公司提供贷款上失职。
Mr. Hong had served as the chief risk officer for the Asian Infrastructure	金立群说，洪起泽曾担任亚投行的首席风险官，亚投行现在正在寻找替代他

Investment Bank, and the bank was now seeking a replacement, Mr. Jin said.	的人。
At its first annual meeting in June, the bank announced $509 million in loans for four modest projects in Bangladesh, Indonesia, Pakistan and Tajikistan. Three of the projects are being financed with other institutions – the Asian Development Bank, the World Bank and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development – a cautious approach that has helped build the bank’s credibility.	在今年6月举行的首次年度会议上，亚投行宣布向孟加拉国、印度尼西亚、巴基斯坦和塔吉克斯坦的四个不大的项目发放5.09亿美元的贷款。项目中有三个也得到了其他机构——亚洲开发银行、世界银行和欧洲重建和发展银行——的资助，这种审慎的做法已帮助亚投行建立了信誉。
The bank said Canada and other new members are expected to join early next year.	亚投行表示，加拿大等新成员国有望在明年年初加入。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160901/canada-china-aiib	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160901/canada-china-aiib
A Chinese Mystery: Who Owns a Firm on a Global Shopping Spree?	安邦之谜：村民股东、白手套和隐匿的权贵
Pingyang County’s verdant hills still hint at a long-lost China. Rice paddies and villages surround its bustling towns, and in the fields, farmers wade into the mud to plant seedlings as they have for thousands of years.	平阳县的苍翠山峦至今仍会让人想到一个早已不存在的中国。稻田和村庄环绕着喧闹的城镇，田野里，农民趟着泥地插秧，和过去千百年没什么两样。
It is an odd place to find the people behind a Chinese corporate powerhouse that is turning heads on Wall Street with a global takeover binge. Yet the area is home to a tiny group of just such people – small-time merchants and villagers who happen to control multibillion-dollar stakes in the Anbang Insurance Group, which owns the Waldorf Astoria in New York and a portfolio of global names and properties.	你不会想到，因一系列全球性收购引发华尔街关注的中国大财团，其所有者会是在这样一个地方。但这个地区就有这么一小群人——他们是小本经营的商人和村民，却偏偏控制着安邦保险集团价值数十亿美元的股份。该公司目前是位于纽约的华尔道夫-阿斯托里亚(Waldorf Astoria)酒店的所有者，还拥有各种全球知名的品牌和产业。
American regulators are now asking who these shareholders are – and whether they are holding their stakes on behalf of others.	现在，美国监管机构正在询问这些股东是谁——他们是否是在代表他人持有股份。

The questions add to the mystery surrounding a company that seemed to come out of nowhere, surprising deal makers with offers to pay more than $30 billion for assets around the world.	这些问题增加了这家公司的神秘性，它凭空出现，提出要花费超过 300 亿美元收购世界各地的多项资产，令交易中介机构深感意外。
Anbang's shopping spree is part of an outflow of money from China that has reshaped global markets but has often been shrouded in secrecy, sometimes by prominent Chinese looking to shift their wealth abroad without attracting attention at home. That poses a problem for international regulators trying to identify the buyers behind major acquisitions and to assess the riskiness of these deals.	安邦的疯狂收购属于中国资金外流的一部分。这些交易改变了全球市场格局，但它们往往遮遮掩掩。有时是由中国知名人士所为，他们想把财富转移到国外，但不想引起国内的注意。这给国际监管机构带来麻烦，因为他们需要确认重大收购行为背后的买家的身份，以便评估这些交易的风险。
The Anbang shareholders in the Pingyang County area hold their stakes through a byzantine collection of holding companies. But according to dozens of interviews and a review of thousands of pages of Anbang filings by The New York Times, many of them have something in common: They are family members and acquaintances of Wu Xiaohui, Anbang's chairman, a native of the county who married into the family of Deng Xiaoping, China's paramount leader in the 1980s and '90s.	在平阳地区的安邦股东是通过一系列错综复杂的控股公司持有该公司股票的。但在对几十人进行采访，并查看数千页安邦公司文件之后，《纽约时报》发现他们中不少人有一个共通点：他们是安邦保险集团董事长吴小晖的家人和熟人。吴小晖是平阳本地人，后来通过婚姻进入了中国上世纪八九十年代的最高领导人邓小平的家族。
In many ways, Anbang and Mr. Wu appear to be archetypal products of China's mix of freewheeling capitalism and Communist Party dominance, a formula that has fueled nearly four decades of untrammelled growth.	从许多方面看，安邦和吴小晖似乎都像是中国随心所欲的资本主义与共产党主导地位相结合的典型产物。这种结合为将近 40 年的恣意增长提供了动力。
Anbang got its start as an auto insurance company in 2004 in the eastern Chinese city of Ningbo. For years it was only a minor player. But it took off as it became more aggressive with its finances, buying stakes in Chinese banks and bringing in money by selling high-risk, high-yield investment funds to ordinary Chinese.	2004 年，安邦作为一家汽车保险公司在中国东部城市宁波成立。在很长一段时间里，它一直只是个小角色。但是随着它在财务上变得更加激进，买入几家中国银行的股份，通过向普通民众销售高风险、高收益的投资基金吸纳资金，迅速发展起来。

Mr. Wu, 49, a former car salesman and low-level antismuggling official, led Anbang through this transformation and is now known as one of China's most successful businessmen. He wears tailored suits and polished loafers, hobnobs with the likes of Stephen A. Schwarzman of Blackstone, and sometimes holds court at Harvard.	49岁的吴小晖之前是一名汽车销售员和低级别反走私官员。他领导安邦实现了这个转型，如今已是中国最成功的商人之一。他穿着剪裁考究的西装和锃亮的乐福鞋，与黑石集团(Blackstone)的苏世民(Stephen A. Schwarzman)这样的人过从甚密，有时还在哈佛大学演讲。
But he does not appear in Anbang's filings as an owner.	但他在安邦的报备文件里并不是企业所有者。
It is common in China for the wealthy to hold shares in companies in the name of others. Known in Chinese as baishoutao or white gloves, these people are often trusted relatives or acquaintances. Many defend the practice as a way to protect their privacy in a nation where riches can be a political liability. But others say white gloves can be used to hide ill-gotten gains and thwart corruption investigators.	在中国，富人借别人的名义在公司里持股是很常见的。这种人在中文里被称为白手套，他们往往是值得信任的亲属或熟人。很多人为这种手法进行辩护，称在一个有钱可能会惹来麻烦的国家，这是一种保护隐私的方式。但有些人则表示，白手套可能会被用来掩盖不当获利，妨碍腐败调查人员的工作。
Anbang did not respond when asked if Mr. Wu was a shareholder and declined to answer questions about its owners.	在被问到吴小晖是否是公司股东时，安邦公司没有回应，也拒绝回答有关公司所有者的其他问题。
The company, a spokesman said, "has multiple shareholders who have made all required disclosures under Chinese law. They are a mix of individual and institutional shareholders who made a commercial decision to invest in the company. Anbang has now grown to be a global company thanks to the support of these long-term shareholders."	安邦的一名发言人表示，公司“拥有多名股东，他们都依照中国法律进行了必要的披露。其中既有个人，也有机构股东，他们做出了投资公司的商业决策。因为有这些长期股东的支持，安邦现在成长为一个全球性的公司”。
For investors and regulators, white gloves can make it difficult to evaluate the financial health of a Chinese buyer. Ownership may be concentrated in the hands of a few people, posing hidden risks, and companies with government connections could be vulnerable to political shifts or become magnets for corruption.	对投资者和监管机构而言，白手套让人很难评估一位中国买家的财务健康状况。所有权可能集中在少数人手中，构成潜在的风险。有政府关系的企业可能容易受政治变局的影响，或者成为腐败行为的多发地。

"It is very important for businesses to know who they are ultimately doing business with, and for investors, what they are investing in," said Keith Williamson, a managing director in Hong Kong at Alvarez & Marsal, a firm that carries out corporate fraud investigations.	"企业需要知道在和谁做生意，投资者需要知道他们是给谁投资，这些都是非常重要的，"开展企业诈骗调查的奥迈公司(Alvarez & Marsal)驻香港常务董事韦谦信(Keith Williamson)说。
It is not clear whether the shareholders in the Pingyang County region are holding large stakes on behalf of anyone else. But on May 27, Anbang withdrew its application with New York State to buy an Iowa insurer, Fidelity & Guaranty Life, for $1.6 billion. Regulators had asked about ties between several shareholders with the same family names, said one person briefed on the matter who spoke on the condition of anonymity.	目前尚不清楚平阳县的股东是否是代表别人持有大额股份。但今年5月27日，安邦撤回了此前向纽约州政府提出的以16亿美元收购艾奥瓦保险公司信保人寿(Fidelity & Guaranty Life)的申请。一位要求匿名的知情人士表示，监管机构询问了公司几名同姓氏股东之间有何联系。
A $6.5 billion deal for a portfolio of hotels that includes the Essex House in New York and several Four Seasons locations is awaiting results from a security review by the American government. In March Anbang withdrew a $14 billion bid for Starwood, the operator of Sheraton and Westin hotels, in a move that surprised Wall Street.	安邦另一项价值65亿美元的交易正在等待美国政府的安全审查结果。该交易包含对多家酒店的收购，其中纽约艾塞克斯豪斯酒店(Essex House)和几家四季酒店(Four Seasons)。今年3月，安邦撤销了对经营威斯汀(Westin)和喜来登(Sheraton)酒店品牌的喜达屋(Starwood)集团提出的140亿美元收购要约，此举令华尔街摸不着头脑。
The company could come under greater scrutiny as it prepares to sell shares in its life insurance business on the Hong Kong stock exchange next year.	这家企业可能会面临更严格的审查，因为它计划明年将自己的人寿保险业务在香港上市。
Separately, the Chinese magazine Caixin reported in May that Chinese regulators were examining Anbang's riskier financial products. It is unclear where that inquiry stands or whether Anbang's ownership structure is being investigated.	另外，中文杂志《财新周刊》在5月报道，中国监管机构正在调查安邦风险较高的金融产品。尚不清楚调查是否仍在进行，以及安邦的所有权结构是否也在调查之列。
President Xi Jinping has waged a campaign against graft since taking office, and the use of white gloves has recently come under scrutiny.	中国国家主席习近平上台后发起了一场反腐运动。最近，使用白手套的做法成为了调查的对象。"白手套'与权力'黑手'相伴而生，"共产党的纪律检查机

"White gloves are accompanied by power's black hands," the Communist Party's disciplinary watchdog wrote in a report last year.	构在去年的报道中写道。
Questions about Anbang's owners come as Chinese companies make deals around the world — sometimes representing efforts by China's powerful to move money out of the country, as the economy slows and the party tightens its grip on everyday life.	安邦的所有者引发怀疑的时候，中国企业正在全世界做生意。它们有时候代表的是，中国的权贵阶层在开展行动，在本国经济放缓、共产党加紧控制民众的日常生活之际，将资金转移至国外。
China has encouraged some capital outflow to improve the performance of its investments and expand its influence. But the subject of the elite moving money overseas is politically sensitive, raising questions about the source of their wealth and their confidence in the Chinese economy.	中国鼓励可以提高投资表现、扩大其影响力的某些资本流出。但权贵阶层把钱转移到海外的议题在政治上颇为敏感，会让人怀疑这些财富的来源及他们对中国经济的信心。
Luo Yu, the son of a former chief of staff of China's military, said China's most politically powerful families had been transferring money out of the country for some time.	中国军方前总参谋长之子罗宇表示，中国最具政治影响力的一些家族向海外转移资产已经有一段时间了。
"They don't believe they will hold onto power long enough — sooner or later they would collapse," said Mr. Luo, a former colonel in the Chinese Army whose younger brother was a business partner with one of Anbang's founders. "So they transfer their money."	"他们不相信他们能够做多长，早晚要垮台，"罗宇说。"所以他们才把资产往外转。"罗宇曾是中国军队里的大校，他弟弟与安邦的一位创始人曾是生意伙伴。
At its founding in 2004, Anbang had an impressive list of politically connected directors. Records show early Anbang directors included Levin Zhu, son of a former prime minister, and Chen Xiaolu, the son of an army marshal who helped bring Communist rule to China.	在2004年成立时，安邦董事名单拥有的政治背景令人印象深刻。记录显示，安邦早期的董事包括前国务院总理之子朱云来(Levin Zhu)和当年协助共产党上台的一位元帅的儿子陈小鲁。
Then there was Mr. Wu, who was born Wu Guanghui but was known as Wu Xiaohui from a young age. Relatives said he grew up in a Catholic family; a crucifix sat on his aunt's dining room table, and she wears a	还有吴小晖本人。他本名吴光辉，但从年轻时起就改名吴小晖。亲戚称他在一个天主教家庭长大；他的一位婶婶家的餐桌上放着一尊耶稣十字架受难像，她戴的项链上也有圣母玛利亚的画像。 necklace with a portrait of the Virgin Mary.

Mr. Wu married Zhuo Ran, a granddaughter of Deng, the Chinese leader who brought China out of the chaos of the Mao era. Together, Mr. Wu, Ms. Zhuo, Mr. Chen and their relatives owned or ran the companies that controlled Anbang, according to company filings.	吴小晖娶了卓蓓, 后者的外祖父便是带领中国走出毛泽东时代混乱局面的邓小平。公司备案文件显示, 吴小晖、卓蓓、陈小鲁及他们的多名亲属拥有或管理的公司共同控制着安邦。
Anbang leapt onto the global stage with last year's purchase of the Waldorf Astoria and its aborted bid for the Starwood chain. By this year, Anbang's assets had swelled to $295 billion.	凭借去年收购华尔道夫-阿斯托里亚酒店, 以及试图买入喜达屋连锁品牌后又放弃, 安邦一跃登上了全球舞台。到今年, 安邦的资产已增至 2950 亿美元。
It is not clear what prompted Anbang's sudden interest in overseas assets. But the shift came after a reshuffling of its ownership structure that also led to the injection of more than $7.5 billion into the company.	尚不清楚是什么促使安邦突然对海外资产发生了兴趣。但在发生这一转变之前, 安邦改组了自己的所有权结构。改组还促使公司得到了逾 75 亿美元的注资。
Company documents filed with Chinese agencies show that the number of firms holding Anbang's shares jumped to 39, from eight, over six months in 2014. Most of those firms received large injections of funds. At the same time, Anbang's capital more than quintupled.	提交给中国多家机构的公司文件显示, 在 2014 年的六个月时间里, 持有安邦股份的企业数量从八家增至 39 家。这些公司大部分获得了大量的资金投入。与此同时, 安邦的资产也增加了四倍多。
Ms. Zhuo, Deng's granddaughter, disappeared from the ownership records by the end of that year. Many of Mr. Wu's relatives did as well. Mr. Wu and Mr. Chen had earlier disappeared from the records.	当年年底, 邓小平的外孙女卓蓓从所有权记录中消失。吴小晖的许多亲属也一样。吴小晖本人及陈小鲁的名字则此前已在相关记录中不见踪影。
Mr. Zhu, who does not appear to have owned shares, disappeared in paper filings from Anbang's roster of directors by 2009, though he was listed as a director on online government filings as late as 2014.	到 2009 年, 在安邦提交的备案文件中, 看上去未持有安邦股份的朱云来也从其董事名单中消失了。不过直到 2014 年, 他在网上的政府备案文件中仍被列为安邦董事。
Mr. Wu, Mr. Chen and Mr. Zhu did not respond to requests for comment, and Ms. Zhuo could not be reached. In March, Mr. Zhu told Chinese reporters that he was not an Anbang director.	时报未联系到卓蓓, 吴小晖、陈小鲁和朱云来则未回复记者的置评请求。今年 3 月, 朱云来对中国记者表示, 自己不是安邦的董事。
Anbang's current shareholding firms are not well-known names in	安邦目前的持股公司在中国并非知名企业, 一些公司似乎仅仅是为了持有安

China, and some appear to have been set up just to hold Anbang shares. One lists its address as the empty 27th floor of a dusty Beijing office building. Two more list an address at a mail drop above a Beijing post office.	邦股份而成立的。其中一家的地址写的是北京一栋尘土飞扬的办公楼的 27 层，但那里实际上空无一人。另外两家公司的地址是北京一家邮局楼上的代收邮件的地方。
Using corporate filings, The Times compiled a list of nearly 100 people who own shares in the firms and traced about a dozen to Pingyang County or nearby. Reporters visited the area, in China's eastern Zhejiang province, and interviewed dozens of residents, including several whose names appeared on the list. They also interviewed an uncle, an aunt and a nephew of Mr. Wu.	时报借助公司备案文件搜集了一份名单，罗列了在这些公司里持有股份的将近 100 个人的名字，并且发现其中十几个人来自平阳县及其周边地区。记者赶赴位于华东地区浙江省的这个县，采访了数十名居民，包括名单上的一些人。他们还采访到了吴小暉的一位舅舅、一位婶婶和一个堂侄。
The latter two, as well as others in the area, said one name matched that of his sister, Wu Xiaoxia. The family members said several other names matched those of Mr. Wu's extended kin, including two cousins and others on his mother's side of the family. Through their various stakes in Anbang shareholding companies, these people control a stake representing more than $17 billion in assets.	包括后两人在内的一些当地人表示，名单上的一个名字与吴小暉的妹妹吴晓霞相吻合。家人称，还有若干名字与吴小暉稍远一些的亲属相吻合，其中包括两位表亲，以及他母亲一方的几名亲戚。通过在安邦持股公司里的股份，这些人控制着代表价值逾 170 亿美元资产的股权。
Other names matched local acquaintances of Mr. Wu, including Huang Maosheng, a local businessman who confirmed in a brief phone interview that he had a business relationship with Mr. Wu but declined to elaborate.	另有一些名字指向吴小暉在当地的熟人，其中包括当地的商人黄茂生。他在接受简短的电话采访时确认，他和吴小暉有生意上的往来，但拒绝做详细说明。
One village leader and neighbors identified the names of four of Mr. Huang's relatives — including some whom they described as common workers — from among those on the list. Their Anbang holdings represent about $12 billion in assets.	村里的一位领导及一些邻居指认，名单上有黄茂生的四名亲属——有的据他们说普通工人。这些人持有的安邦股份代表着价值约 120 亿美元的资产。
Another resident, Mei Xiaojing, said two names on the list matched	另一位居民梅小京表示，名单上有两个名字与她的亲属相吻合。当被问及是

those of her relatives. Asked if she knew Mr. Wu, she said, "Well, yes," then ended the phone conversation and did not respond to subsequent calls. Through multiple holding companies, those three people have a stake representing about $19 billion in Anbang assets.	否认识吴小晖时，她说“是吧”，随后挂断了电话。电话再打过去便无人接听了。通过多家持股公司，这三人控制着代表约 190 亿美元安邦资产的股权。
As Anbang rose, so did Mr. Wu's profile. In 2013 Mr. Wu secured a yearlong position as a visiting fellow at the Asia Center of Harvard, joining a growing list of politically connected Chinese billionaires with ties to Harvard.	随着安邦的崛起，吴小晖本人的形象也高大起来。2013 年，吴小晖开始在哈佛大学亚洲中心(Asia Center of Harvard)担任为期一年的访问学者，加入了日益壮大的既有政治人脉又和哈佛有联系的中国亿万富豪的行列。
Ezra F. Vogel, a professor emeritus at Harvard who wrote a biography of Deng, said he met Mr. Wu on several occasions.	哈佛大学荣休教授、邓小平传记作者傅高义(Ezra F. Vogel)表示，他在若干场合见到过吴小晖。
"He had this staff of sharp people who were working for him," Mr. Vogel said. "It seems that they were doing the detail work, and he was the friendly man supplying the connections."	"为他工作的员工都很精干，"傅高义说。"看起来他们在做具体的工作，而他则是待人友好、负责处理各种关系的人。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160902/anbang-wu-xiaohui-chen-xiaolu	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160902/anbang-wu-xiaohui-chen-xiaolu
Behind China's Anbang: Empty Offices and Obscure Names	起底安邦股东：空办公室里的壳公司
In the center of Beijing's booming commercial district, with soaring office towers, gleaming shopping malls and luxury apartment complexes, sits a shabby, four-story building with an office that houses stupendous wealth.	在北京的一个商业区里，办公楼高耸入云、购物中心闪闪发光、公寓大楼环境奢华。在这个繁荣的商业区的中心，坐落着一栋破败的四层小楼，而楼里的一间办公室却掌握着惊人的财富。
To get there, visitors must first pass through an unmarked entrance next to a gray-tiled post office, then pass through a maze of carelessly strung phone and power lines. On the fourth floor, down a hallway where black scuff marks on the walls indicate years of neglect, is the Hujialou Concentrated Office Zone, an officially sanctioned domicile for	要前往那间办公室，访客必须先经过一个没有标识的入口，入口旁边是一个贴着灰色瓷砖的邮局。然后，再穿过一座由随便牵搭的电话线和电线组成的迷宫。到了四楼，走廊墙壁上黑色的磨损痕迹表明这里长年失修。走廊的尽头，便是呼家楼集中办公区。这是一个得到官方批准的壳公司注册地。 shell companies.

According to government records, that office is home to two companies with a total stake that accounts for more than $15 billion in assets of one of China's biggest financial conglomerates: the Anbang Insurance Group.	政府记录显示，这间办公室是两家公司的所在地，而这两家公司在中国最大的金融集团之一安邦保险集团持有的股份，代表着该集团逾 150 亿美元的资产。
Prying visitors are not welcome. A woman at the office, who did not give her name, grew angry when a journalist told her that two companies there controlled a large share of Anbang.	打探情况的访客不受欢迎。当记者告诉办公室里的一名女子，这里的两家公司持有安邦的大量股份时，不愿透露姓名的这名女子变得很生气。
"We're just a private company, helping others register with the State Administration for Industry and Commerce," she said, referring to the keepers of China's corporate database. "It is none of our business whether they are shell companies."	"我们就是一个私人企业，就是帮别人做工商注册，"她说。"它们是不是壳公司和我们没关系。"这名女子指的是在国家工商行政管理总局注册，而该机构管理着中国的企业数据库。
Another Anbang shareholding firm — one that controls $5.6 billion in assets — lists its address a few blocks away from the Hujialou building, at an office tower's empty 27th floor.	另一家持有安邦股份的企业控制着价值 56 亿美元的资产。这家公司的注册地址与呼家楼这栋小楼只隔了几个街区，在一栋办公楼的 27 层，但那里实际上空无一人。
Near the Temple of Heaven, the former imperial religious complex in Beijing, the listed address of yet another shareholding company turns out to be another empty office. The directory downstairs lists the former tenant: a shoe seller.	事实证明，在昔日的皇家祭祀场所天坛附近，另一家持股公司的注册地址也是一间空置的办公室。楼下的索引信息倒是列出了以前的租户：一家卖鞋的企业。
A group of 39 companies control Anbang, which was once a sleepy insurance company and now has $295 billion in assets and a reputation as an ambitious global deal maker. Many of those companies are in turn owned by a welter of shell companies, many with similar names and addresses or common owners.	安邦曾是一家不甚活跃的保险公司，现在却坐拥价值 2950 亿美元的资产，并被冠以雄心勃勃的全球买家的名号。它由 39 家公司控制，这些公司中有不少所有者又是关系盘根错节的壳公司。很多壳公司名字和地址相近，或是有着共同的所有者。
Ultimately, as The New York Times reports, they are controlled by	正如《纽约时报》报道的那样，这些公司归根结底由大约 100 人控制，他们

about 100 people, many of whom hail from a county called Pingyang on China's east coast. Pingyang County is the home county of Anbang's chairman, Wu Xiaohui.	中的许多人来自中国东部沿海地区的一个叫平阳县的县。那里是安邦董事长吴小晖的家乡。
In any major country, the shareholders of marquee companies are often household names themselves. General Electric counts major institutional investors such as the Vanguard Group and BlackRock as top owners. Berkshire Hathaway's biggest shareholder is its chairman, Warren E. Buffett.	在任何一个大国,大企业的股东通常本身也是家喻户晓的机构或个人。比如,通用电气(General Electric)便将先锋集团(Vanguard Group)和贝莱德(BlackRock)等主要机构投资者列为自己的大股东。伯克希尔-哈撒韦(Berkshire Hathaway)最大的股东是其董事长沃伦·E·巴菲特(Warren E. Buffett)。
China is no exception. Dalian Wanda Commercial Properties, for example, led by China's richest man, Wang Jianlin, may match Anbang in the breadth of its political connections, but many of its biggest shareholders are easily recognizable Chinese companies like China Life Insurance.	中国也不例外。比如,中国首富王健林领导的大连万达商业地产在政治人脉的广度上堪比安邦,但它的很多大股东是家喻户晓的中国公司,如中国人寿。
Anbang is different. The companies that own it, and the people who back them, are almost all obscure. Two state-owned companies that collectively own less than 2 percent of Anbang are the only exceptions. I first started writing about Chinese companies 16 years ago and have never seen a similar ownership structure at a major company.	安邦却有所不同。持有安邦股份的公司,以及它们背后的支持者,几乎全都名不见经传。唯一的例外是两家国有企业,但它们加起来持有安邦不到2%的股份。本人16年前就开始采写有关中国企业的报道,但从未在任何一家大公司看到过类似的所有权结构。
That is remarkable, given Anbang's increasing size and prominence. Earlier this year, Anbang came close to executing what would have been the biggest takeover ever of an American company by a Chinese company, offering more than $14 billion for Starwood Hotels & Resorts.	考虑到安邦的规模日渐扩大,声望与日俱增,这一点不同寻常。今年早些时候,安邦差点达成中国公司对美国企业进行的规模最大的一笔收购案。当时,安邦提出以逾140亿美元的价格收购喜达屋酒店及度假村国际集团(Starwood Hotels & Resorts)。
In China, the company not only sells auto and life insurance, but also controls a major bank in southwestern China, is the largest shareholder of one of the country's biggest financial conglomerates, China	在中国,除了销售汽车保险和人寿保险,安邦还控制着西南地区的一家大型银行。它是中国巨型金融集团中国民生银行的最大股东,同时是招商银行的第二大股东。

Minsheng Banking Corporation, and is the second-largest shareholder in another, China Merchants Bank.
But China is not an offshore haven like the Cayman Islands or the British Virgin Islands. The country's online corporate records system allows those with patience to find the names behind the holding companies, even if — as with Anbang — the corporate shareholders frequently change names, addresses and owners.	但中国并非开曼群岛或英属维尔京群岛那样的离岸天堂。只要有耐心，通过该国的在线企业备案系统就可以查到持股公司背后的名字，安邦也不例外，尽管其法人股东的名字、地址和所有者频繁变动。
After more than three months of combing through thousands of pages of records, The Times was able to piece together a corporate history for those 39 shareholders. One clear pattern emerged. At least 35 of the companies, collectively owning more than 92 percent of Anbang, can trace all or part of their ownership to relatives of Mr. Wu or to his wife, Zhuo Ran, who is the granddaughter of the former Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping; or to Chen Xiaolu, the son of one of China's most famous marshals, who helped Mao's Communists to victory in 1949. Those relatives are either current or former owners or directors of those companies, or current or former owners of predecessor firms.	时报花了三个多月的时间梳理成千上万页备案文件，从而还原出与这 39 个股东有关的企业史。一幅清晰的图景浮出水面。其中至少 35 家公司——共持有安邦逾 92% 的股份——全部或部分的所有权可以追溯至吴小晖、其妻卓苒或陈小鲁的亲属。卓苒是中国前领导人邓小平的外孙女，而陈小鲁的父亲是中国最知名的元帅之一，协助毛泽东领导的共产党在 1949 年取得了胜利。有的亲属是这些公司当前或曾经的所有者或董事，有的则是其前身公司当前或曾经的所有者。
One example is Lin Cong, who owns a small share of the company. Mr. Lin is Mr. Wu's cousin, the nephew of his mother, Lin Xiangmei, relatives say.	例如持有安邦少量股份的林聪。一些亲属透露，林聪为吴小晖的表亲，是吴小晖的母亲林香美的外甥。
Back at the Hujialou Concentrated Office Zone, one of the Anbang shareholders there, a company called Beijing Bibo Investment Management Company, controls $10.9 billion in Anbang assets. Until Dec. 1, 2014, that stake was ultimately owned by a woman named Wu Xiaoxia, corporate records show. Relatives in Pingyang County say she	回到呼家楼集中办公区，也就是安邦一个股东的注册地，一家名叫北京碧波投资管理有限公司的企业控制着价值 109 亿美元的安邦资产。企业备案资料显示，截至 2014 年 12 月 1 日，相关股份其实由一个名叫吴晓霞的女人持有。平阳县的亲属表示，她和吴小晖非常亲。 is very close to Mr. Wu.

She is his sister.	她就是他的亲妹妹。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160902/china-anbang-insurance	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160902/china-anbang-insurance
China Investigates Uber's Deal to Sell Operations There	中国调查滴滴出行收购优步中国计划
HONG KONG — The authorities in China are investigating Uber's planned sale of its Chinese operations to a local rival, complicating a deal intended to bring the American ride-share operator's costly venture there to an end.	香港——美国约车服务提供商优步拟将其中国业务出售给当地竞争者的计划目前正在接受中国政府的调查。优步在中国损失惨重，意欲停止在这里的业务，但这笔交易如今又遇波折。
At a daily press briefing on Friday, Shen Danyang, a spokesman for the country's Commerce Ministry, said the inquiry was prompted by local concerns about Uber's plan to sell the business to China's Didi Chuxing. The deal, announced one month ago, would create a new company worth $35 billion that would hold a strong position in the Chinese market for hailing cars via smartphone apps.	在周五的例行新闻发布会上，中国商务部发言人沈丹阳说，优步向中国的滴滴出行出售业务的计划引发了本地的担忧。上月公布的该笔交易将产生一个估值 350 亿美元的新公司，稳稳占据中国手机应用约车市场上的一席之地。
The ministry "will protect fair competition in the relevant market and safeguard the interests of consumers and the public," Mr. Shen said, according to an official transcript of the press conference.	沈丹阳说，商务部“将继续依法推进本案调查工作，保护相关市场公平竞争，维护消费者利益和社会公共利益”。
Neither Uber nor Didi Chuxing immediately responded to requests for comment.	优步与滴滴出行都未回应采访请求。
The two companies had ratcheted up competition since last year, spending growing amounts of money to subsidize drivers and expand into more Chinese cities. Uber last week said it lost $1.2 billion in the first half of this year, with China accounting for a significant chunk.	这两家公司在中国市场上竞争激烈。优步上周承认，今年上半年，公司损失 12 亿美元，其中很大一部分来自中国。
The investigation comes as China looks to bolster its antitrust enforcement. The country's antitrust law is only eight years old, but	沈丹阳在声明中说，滴滴未能就该笔交易第一时间通知商务部。商务部已经两次约谈该公司，要求其说明交易情况、未申报的原因，并按商务部提出的

local experts say it is an essential part of nurturing a stronger consumer culture and greater competition in business. Foreign companies have sometimes complained that antitrust authorities unfairly focus on them, an accusation that China denies.	问题清单提交有关文件、资料。
In his statement, Mr. Shen said that Didi did not initially notify the agency that it had struck the deal. In two subsequent interviews with Didi, he said, it asked the company for further explanations for the reasons behind the deal and to broadly describe industry trends.	商务部可能会针对这笔交易追加条件，或者彻底阻止交易。但考虑到收购方是一家中国公司，彻底叫停的可能性不大。
The ministry could put conditions on the deal or even block it outright. A full block is unlikely given the purchaser is a Chinese company.	但滴滴和优步仍然有理由担心。类似的合并鲜有先例，而且商务部曾经对一些交易迟迟不批，有时长达数年，以便得到符合政府心意的交易条款。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160902/china-uber-didi-chuxing	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160902/china-uber-didi-chuxing
Venture Communism: How China Is Building a Start-Up Boom	“共产主义风投”：政府驱动的中国创业潮
HANGZHOU, China — In Dream Town, a collection of boxy office buildings on the gritty edge of this historic city, one tiny company is developing a portable 3-D printer. Another takes orders for traditional Chinese massages by smartphone. They are just two of the 710 start-ups being nurtured here.	中国杭州——在位于这座历史名城郊区的一片四四方方的办公楼群“梦想小镇”内，一座小公司正在研发便携式3D打印机。另一家则通过智能手机提供中国传统的推拿服务。它们只是在这里孵化的710家创业公司中的两个。
Anywhere else, an incubator like Dream Town would be a vision of venture capitalists, angel investors or technology stalwarts. But this is China. The Chinese Communist Party doesn't trust the invisible hand of capitalism alone to encourage entrepreneurship, especially since it is a big part of the leadership's strategy to reshape the sagging economy.	放在别的地方，像梦想小镇这样的孵化器势必是出自风险资本家、天使投资人或技术中坚分子的构想。但这里是中国。中国共产党不相信单凭不可见的资本之手就可以鼓励创业，尤其是考虑到，重塑陷入疲软的中国经济是这届领导层的发展战略的一个重要部分。
Which is why the government of Hangzhou — a former royal capital that has been a major commercial hub for more than a millennium — built Dream Town and lavishes resources on start-ups. The businesses	这是杭州市政府建设梦想小镇，在创业公司上投入大批资源的原因。在这座有千年历史的商业中心和古都里，这些公司可以享受包括房租优惠、现金补贴和特殊培训在内的一系列好处，它们都由政府买单。

here get a slate of benefits like subsidized rent, cash handouts and special training, all courtesy of the city.
Chemayi, which offers car repair services through a smartphone app, is staying rent-free at Dream Town for three years and is applying for as much as $450,000 in subsidies from city authorities to help pay salaries and buy equipment.	车蚂蚁是一家通过智能手机应用提供车辆维修服务的公司，它已经在梦想小镇享受了三年的免租金待遇，而且正在向市政府申请高达 45 万美元的补贴，用于支付员工薪资和采购设备。
"From the central government all the way down to local governments, we have seen a lot of warm support," said Li Liheng, co-founder and chief executive of Chemayi.	"我们看到，从中央到地方政府，都给予了很多热情的支持，"车蚂蚁联合创始人兼首席执行官李立恒说。
For much of China's long economic boom, young people flocked to manufacturing zones for jobs making bluejeans or iPhones. But today China is trying to move beyond just being the world's factory floor. Policy makers want the next generation to find better-paying work in modern offices, creating the ideas, technologies and jobs to feed the country's future growth.	在中国时间不短的经济繁荣期里，年轻人多数时候都是涌向工业区，寻找加工牛仔裤或 iPhone 的工作。然而现在，中国正试图超越世界工厂的角色。决策者想要下一代在现代化的办公室内找到待遇更好的工作，让他们创造新观念、新技术和新工作机会，以保证中国在未来的持续增长。
Premier Li Keqiang frequently calls for "mass entrepreneurship." In March at the National People's Congress, he bragged that 12,000 new companies were founded each day in 2015.	国务院总理李克强曾多次呼吁"大众创业"。在今年 3 月举行的全国人民代表大会上，他不乏自豪地宣称，2015 年中国每天有 1.2 万家新公司成立。
The entrepreneurial embrace comes with lots of financial support. Across the country, officials are creating investment funds, providing cash subsidies and building incubators.	这种对创业的支持包括许多财务上的扶持。全国各地的官员都在设立投资基金，提供现金补助和打造孵化器。
"Without these kinds of subsidies, you only rely on private money, and you wouldn't see so many technology start-ups happening today," said Ning Tao, a partner at Innovation Works, a venture capital fund in Beijing. "Without quantity, you cannot have quality."	"没有这类补贴，只靠个人资金，我们不会看到有这么多创业公司涌现出来，"位于北京的风险投资基金创新工场的合伙人陶宁说。"没有数量，就难求质量。"

But the heavy spending is adding to worries about an inflating bubble in the world of China's tiniest companies. Along with the government funds, venture capital money is flooding the country. About $49 billion in deals were made last year, making China second only to the United States, according to the accounting firm Ernst & Young.	然而这种巨大的投入让人们愈发担心，中国的这些小公司正面临越来越大的泡沫。随着政府加大投入，风险投资的资金也在大批涌入这个国家。据会计师事务所安永(Ernst & Young)统计，去年中国达成了价值约 490 亿美元的投资交易，仅次于美国。
Some economists and entrepreneurs are concerned that the government is helping fuel a frenzy that might ultimately result in failed businesses, wasted resources and financial losses. Just one city, Suzhou, near Shanghai, has announced it will open 300 incubators by 2020 to house 30,000 start-ups.	一些经济学家和创业者担心政府是在助推一种可能最终会导致企业倒闭、资源浪费和财务损失的疯狂行为。单单苏州一个城市就宣布，至 2020 年该市将设立 300 个孵化器，容纳 3 万家创业公司。
Beijing's policy makers have a long history of giving favored companies easy access to loans and subsidies to propel certain industries, with both good and bad consequences. Though that tactic lubricated the nation's industrialization, it also contributed to the excess that has buried the country in empty apartment blocks, mothballed cement plants and sputtering steel mills — all of which threaten the economy's stability.	长久以来，北京的决策者习惯于为自己青睐的企业提供低门槛的贷款和补贴，以推动某些行业的发展。这种措施既有好的一面，也曾带来不好的结果。这一策略尽管使中国的工业化得以顺利进行，但也导致行业过剩，使大量公寓空置，水泥厂关闭，钢铁厂难以为继——所有这些都危及了中国经济的稳定。
"I think the subsidies shouldn't be a long-term policy," Jin Xiangrong, an economist at Zhejiang University in Hangzhou, said of the start-up support programs. "They can lead to overcapacity like the kind we see now in China's manufacturing sector, which is largely a result of government support."	"我觉得补助的这个政策并不应该作为一种长期的政策执行，"位于杭州的浙江大学的经济学家金祥荣在谈及支持创业的项目时表示。"这样的政策有可能导致产能过剩。我们已经在制造业看到了这样的情况，很大程度上是由政府的支持导致的。"
Hangzhou city officials turned down requests for interviews.	杭州市政府官员拒绝了时报的采访请求。
At Dream Town, Mr. Li, 39, frets more about his own business. He got the initial idea for Chemayi in 2009 after a car accident. To find a	在梦想小镇，39 岁的李立恒更多地在为自己的企业焦心。2009 年经历了一场交通事故之后，他产生了创立车蚂蚁的想法。为了找到值得信赖的技工，

trustworthy mechanic, he searched online, asked friends for advice and visited repair shops.	他曾在网上搜寻，向朋友咨询，也去了不少汽车维修店。
But Mr. Li found it difficult to judge who was reliable. A car culture – and all the services that come with it – is relatively new in China.	但李立恒觉得很难判断哪一家比较可靠。在中国，汽车文化以及随之而来的一切服务都相对较新。
Aiming to fill the information void, he and three friends set up Chemayi in 2013 with 5 million renminbi (currently $750,000) of their own money. For an annual fee, Chemayi sends out staff members to help fix flat tires, paint scratches or repair broken-down engines.	抱着填补这个信息空白的想法，他和三个朋友在 2013 年自己出资 500 万元，成立了车蚂蚁。用户交纳一笔年费后，车蚂蚁会派工作人员帮忙补胎、给刮痕喷漆或修理故障发动机。
“Henry Ford is gone for so many years, but we are still driving his cars,” Mr. Li said. “I felt that I also must pursue a cause that will persist after I’m gone.”	“亨利·福特已经过世这么多年了，我们还是在开着他的车，”李立恒说。“我离开这个世界后，我也希望我追求的目标是能够持久的。”
Chemayi beat out more than two dozen other start-ups for a coveted space in Dream Town in a 2014 competition. Another co-founder, Ouyang Feng, delivered a 40-minute presentation to a panel of judges who peppered him with questions about Chemayi’s business model and future prospects. The provincial governor watched over the grilling.	在 2014 年的一场竞争中，车蚂蚁击退其他二十多家创业公司，在梦想小镇获得了梦寐以求的一席之地。另一位联合创始人欧阳锋向评委小组做了 40 分钟的陈述，评委们不断就车蚂蚁的商业模式和未来的前景向他发问。浙江省长亲自过问了审核过程。
In the end, the committee awarded Chemayi a three-foot golden key that symbolically opened the doors to Dream Town.	最后，评委会给了车蚂蚁一把约 90 厘米长的金钥匙，象征着他们打开了通往梦想小镇的大门。
Chemayi now has 284 employees in four cities, with plans to reach 1,000 by the end of the year. Mr. Li said his company had raised $22 million in private money and turned a profit of about 10 million renminbi last year.	车蚂蚁目前在四个城市有 284 名员工，并计划到年底时达到 1000 人的规模。李立恒称，公司筹集到了 2200 万美元的私人资金，去年盈利约 1000 万元人民币。
“A lot of Chinese people want to be successful. They want to initiate change through innovation,” Mr. Li said in his spacious corner office, while fussing with a traditional Chinese wooden tea-making set. “That	“很多中国人都希望成功，并且他们希望通过创新来改变一些东西，”在位于房屋一角的宽敞办公室里，李立恒一边摆弄一套中国传统木制茶具一边说。“这是股很大的力量。”

is a formidable power.”
Hangzhou is a natural center for China’s start-up fever. After China embraced capitalist reform in the 1980s, Zhejiang province, of which Hangzhou is the capital, emerged as a leading base for the export industries that fueled the country’s rapid growth. Factories pumped out products like socks and plastic Christmas trees.	杭州成为中国创业热潮的中心是很自然的。中国 80 年代开始进行资本主义改革时，以杭州为省会的浙江省成为出口工业的头号基地。出口工业推动了中国的快速增长。工厂大量生产袜子和塑料圣诞树等产品。
Now that zeal for commerce is being channeled into technology start-ups. Hangzhou is home to China’s most famous internet company, the e-commerce giant Alibaba, which has become a training ground for would-be entrepreneurs.	现在，这种贸易热情正在被引向科技初创企业。杭州是中国最著名的互联网企业、电商巨头阿里巴巴的总部所在地。阿里巴巴已经成了想创业的人的培训基地。
The neighborhoods near Alibaba’s sprawling campus, once a poorly developed area on the city’s outskirts, now make up a budding tech center with newly built office parks like Dream Town, dominated by ambitious college graduates, angel investors and venture capitalists. The local restaurants have become hangouts to exchange ideas and gossip over fried squid and stewed pork and eggs.	阿里巴巴的园区规模庞大，所处的地方一度是杭州市郊的一个不发达地区。如今，这里形成了一个新兴的科技中心，有多个像梦想小镇这样的办公园区，往来人员以踌躇满志的大学毕业生、天使投资人和风险投资者为主。当地的餐厅成了一边品尝炒鱿鱼、炖猪肉和鸡蛋，一边交流想法和八卦的场所。
Feng Xiao is typical of this new breed. Mr. Feng, 39 and a Hangzhou native, spent 11 years at Alibaba, mainly in sales and marketing.	冯晓是这一新兴群体的典型代表。现年 39 岁的冯晓乃杭州本地人，曾在阿里巴巴任职 11 年，主要从事市场营销工作。
“There is a Chinese proverb, ‘The soil is too rich,’” Mr. Feng said. Alibaba “offered you a lot of opportunities. It was easy to have a sense of success. But I wanted to be able to start from scratch.”	“按中国人的说法，这是片沃土，”冯晓说。“阿里巴巴会给你很多的机会，在那儿很容易获得一种成就感，不过我还是希望能从头开始创业。”
His start-up was born in Alibaba’s cafeteria, where he ate meal after meal. “I really missed Mom’s cooking,” he said. He figured that many other people, trapped working for long hours far from home, felt the same.	他的初创企业诞生于阿里巴巴的餐厅，他以前成天在那儿吃东西。“我挺想念我妈妈的饭的，”他说。他觉得其他很多离家在外、长时间忙于工作的人，应该和他有着同样的感受。

Mr. Feng and two other Alibaba employees left their jobs in 2014 and opened a food delivery service, Mishi. Their plan was to connect people willing to prepare homemade meals with on-the-go professionals who were too busy to cook. They set up shop in a friend's empty house, decorated with secondhand furniture and photos from home.	冯晓和阿里巴巴的另外两名员工于2014年离职，创办了提供送餐服务的“觅食”。他们的计划是把乐于烹制家常菜的人和无暇下厨的专业人士联系起来。他们在一位朋友的空房子里开了店，里面摆上二手家具，以及从家里拿来的照片。
Along with raising $19 million from private investors, Mishi caught the eye of the Hangzhou city government. In 2014, district officials awarded Mishi 5 million renminbi to help pay the bills. Its rent in a Hangzhou office park is also subsidized.	除了从私人投资者手中募集了1900万美元资金，觅食还获得了杭州市政府的关注。2014年，区里的官员奖给觅食500万元人民币，帮其支付账单。它还得到了租金补贴，用以在杭州一个办公园区租赁办公场地。
"The most important thing on the part of the government is whether they are open" to new types of businesses, Mr. Feng said. "We are glad to see they are aggressively supporting us."	"其实很重要的是政府是否能够对待新的业务模式保持开放的态度", 冯晓说。"政府这么强力支持我们，我们是很高兴的。"
Hangzhou represents what Chinese leaders see as the nation's economic future. The country used to generate astronomical growth rates by depending heavily on low-cost exports and extremely high investment in apartment towers, factories and highways. China built so many steel mills that it can produce 10 times as much steel as the United States.	杭州代表着中国领导人眼中的本国经济的未来。以前，中国习惯于严重依赖低成本出口，以及对公寓楼、工厂和公路的大手笔投资，以此来支撑惊人的经济增长率。中国已经建起了太多钢铁厂，其产量是美国的十倍。
But today, costs are rising, eating away at the competitiveness of many export industries. The long investment boom has saddled the economy with too many factories and a mountain of debt.	但现在，日益升高的成本削弱了许多出口行业的竞争力。长期以来的投资热潮让中国经济背上了工厂数量过剩、债务堆积如山的负担。
Instead, policy makers are encouraging a shift to new growth engines, like services and high tech. The entrepreneurial focus is providing an economic boost for Hangzhou.	因此，决策者们正致力于推动转型，把服务业、高科技业等打造成新的增长引擎。以创业为核心的做法，正在刺激杭州经济的发展。
The city's gross domestic product rose 10.2 percent in 2015, compared	在2015年，杭州的GDP增长了10.2%，相比之下，整个中国的增长率为

with the 6.9 percent national growth rate. Hangzhou's service sector, which includes many start-ups, was the main engine of that strong performance, surging 14.6 percent.	6.9%。杭州的服务业——包括许多初创企业——是促成这种强劲增长的主要引擎，其产值猛增了 14.6%。
"The Chinese know that state-owned enterprises are not going to employ everybody," said Hans Tung, a managing partner at GGV Capital, a venture capital firm that operates in both Silicon Valley and China. "They need young people to create jobs for themselves, so they are encouraging them to try something new."	"中国人知道，国有企业没法雇用所有人，"在硅谷和中国均有业务的风险投资公司纪源资本(GGV Capital)的管理合伙人童士豪(Hans Tung)说。"他们需要让年轻人自己创造出就业机会，于是就鼓励他们尝试新东西。"
Mishi, the food delivery start-up, has created 100 full-time jobs, and has bolstered the incomes of more than 10,000 home chefs.	送餐初创企业觅食创造了 100 个全职工作岗位，并为超过 1 万名家庭厨师带来了更多收入。
Cai Liangen, a retired businessman turned Mishi cook, learned about the start-up when a marketing team visited his apartment complex seeking to enlist new chefs.	从退休商人变身为觅食厨师的蔡连根，在想要网罗新厨师的营销团队到访他住的公寓楼时知道了这家初创企业。
Last November, he and his wife began making local specialties in their kitchen, including a sliced pork dish prepared with "my mother's secret recipe," Mr. Cai said. They now receive 40 orders a day and earn 5,000 renminbi a month, increasing their total income 70 percent.	蔡连根说，他和妻子从去年 11 月开始在自家厨房里烹制本地特色菜，其中包括按照"我母亲的家传秘方"做的一道猪肉片。他们现在每天能接到 40 个订单，一个月能赚 5000 元人民币，家庭总收入提高了 70%。
"We do it because we love to cook," Mr. Cai said, "but the money is good to have, too."	"我们是因为喜欢烧饭才做这个的，"蔡连根说。"能挣一些钱也不错。"
After submitting a 10-page proposal in 2014 to join a Hangzhou incubator, Ai Binke sat nervously before a committee of tech industry executives who questioned his future prospects. His software company, Yun Ran Internet of Things, had only four employees, and its business deals had been small. But his start-up, Mr. Ai explained to the committee, had great potential.	在 2014 年，为了加入杭州的一个孵化器，艾斌科在递交了一份 10 页长的方案之后，不安地坐在一个由科技行业高管组成的委员会面前，接受关于企业未来前景的质询。他的软件企业名为云然物联网公司，当时只有四名雇员，业务规模也很小。但艾斌科向委员会解释，他的初创企业潜力极大。

That was sufficient for the judges to award him 100,000 renminbi in subsidies. The bulk, roughly 70 percent, was instantly transferred into his corporate bank account. "As long as you run projects that are encouraged by the Hangzhou government, you can get the subsidies," said Mr. Ai, 29. "It's not very difficult."	这足以说服评委们给予他 10 万元人民币的补助。大约 70%的款项立即就转入了云然公司的银行账户。“基本上只要你的项目是杭州政府支持的项目，你都能获得补助，”现年 29 岁的艾斌科说。“不会太难。”
Local governments around China are spending heavily on start-ups. In Shenzhen, authorities are offering to subsidize up to 70 percent of rent for "creative" start-ups. Local officials in the southwestern metropolis of Chengdu are setting up a 200 million renminbi "entrepreneurship and innovation development fund" and promising subsidies of up to 5 million renminbi.	中国各地方政府正向初创企业投入大笔资金。在深圳，当局为“创新型”初创企业提供的租金补贴可多达租金的 70%。在西南地区的大城市成都，地方官员设立了规模为 2 亿元人民币的“创新创业发展基金”，并承诺给予相关企业的补助最高可达 500 万元。
Officials in Guangdong province in China's south will cover part of a start-up's losses. Even the lesser-known city of Yingtan, in an area of Jiangxi province mainly known for its ancient Taoist temples, is planning to build an incubator.	南方省份广东的官员愿为初创企业承担部分损失。就连不太为人所知的鹰潭市，也打算打造一个孵化器。鹰潭隶属于江西省，主要以古老的道观闻名。
Hangzhou's government has been one of the more active. Officials are forming a venture capital fund of 4.7 billion renminbi, with contributions from companies, according to the city's website. This year, Hangzhou announced that it would give 100 million renminbi annually to help start-ups pay expenses.	杭州市政府是较为积极的一个。该市的网站显示，官方正利用来自企业的款项，筹办一个规模为 47 亿元人民币的风险投资基金。杭州于今年宣布，每年将投入 1 亿元，帮助初创企业支付各种费用。
But governments historically have a spotty record of using state-directed money to generate business success stories.	不过，回顾历史，政府利用自身控制的资金打造成功商业案例的记录一向良莠不齐。
During Japan's high-growth decades, its bureaucrats tried to "pick winners" by selecting certain industries for support. Though they nurtured a few internationally competitive industries (shipbuilding and	在日本经济高速增长的几十年里，该国的官僚试图通过筛出可以获得支持的特定行业来“挑选赢家”。尽管培育出了几个颇具国际竞争力的行业（造船业和钢铁业），但他们也遭遇过巨大的失败（化工业和计算机软件业）。奥巴马

steel), they also had significant failures (chemicals and computer software). The Obama administration got a black eye for its financial aid to the solar technology firm Solyndra, which sank into bankruptcy.	政府曾因给太阳能科技企业 Solyndra 提供财务援助，但公司最终破了产，弄得他们灰头土脸。
In China, government efforts to assist new businesses have often led to waste and excess. Too much investment pours into favored industries, spawning poorly conceived projects in areas like hotels and solar panels. By trying to spur start-ups, the state is also engaging in a high-risk business that even for the most experienced venture capitalist is prone to produce more failures than successes.	在中国，政府扶助新企业的努力常常导致浪费和过剩。太多投资涌进受青睐的行业，在各地催生出了大量匆忙上马的项目，比如在酒店和太阳能组件领域。通过竭力推动初创企业的发展，政府还涉足了一个高风险的行业——就连经验最老道的风险投资人遭遇的失败也往往多过取得的成功。
Hangzhou officials are trying to avoid such pitfalls. At Dream Town, the financial aid is often linked to a start-up's performance. The amount of free rent depends on how much private capital a company can raise. Cash handouts are tied to revenue targets or top-selling apps.	杭州的官员正竭力避免这类陷阱。在梦想小镇，资金援助常常和初创公司的业绩挂钩。租金减免额度取决于企业可以募集多少私人资金。现金发放则和收入目标挂钩，或者针对最受欢迎的一些应用。
Government officials also enlist professionals to help allocate the city's money. The committee that judges applicants to Dream Town is usually made up of tech executives, financiers and academics.	政府官员也会招募一些专业人士来协助分派该市的资金。对申请加入梦想小镇的人员进行评判的那个委员会，通常由科技企业高管、金融从业人士和学者构成。
Ye Feng, a manager at another incubator who has sat as a judge on three occasions, said she quizzed the contenders on their technology, business plan and even product pricing.	另一个孵化器的负责人叶枫曾在三个场合担任评委，她说自己向申请者询问过他们的技术、商业计划，甚至是产品定价。
Usually about 30 start-ups appear at each competition. No more than four make the cut to enter Dream Town. "The competition is quite fierce," Ms. Ye said. "Sometimes it's hard to make a decision."	每一场角逐通常会有 30 家初创企业参与。获准加入梦想小镇的不会超过四家。“竞争还是挺激烈的，”叶枫说。“有的时候要做出一个决定很难。”
But some in Hangzhou fear that the government is doling out too much money, and it is flowing to start-ups with weak business plans and feeble prospects. Mr. Ai of Yun Ran said that two neighbors also	但杭州的一些人士担心，政府撒钱太多，一些资金正流向商业计划乏善可陈、前景黯淡无光的初创企业。云然公司的艾斌科说，邻近的两家公司也获得了政府的补助。其中一家是机器人初创企业，没能吸引到私人资本，最终关门

received city subsidies. One, a robotics start-up, failed to attract private capital and closed, while the other, a mobile game company, is struggling to stay afloat as its business withers.	大吉；另一家是做手游的，业务不断萎缩，正挣扎求存。
The government money, Mr. Ai said, often cannot replace the private capital necessary for start-ups. "Without financing, it would be very hard for them to survive," he said.	艾斌科表示，政府资金通常无法取代对初创企业必不可少的私人资本。“没有这样的资金上的支持的话，这些企业会很难生存。”
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160905/venture-communism-how-china-is-building-a-start-up-boom	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160905/venture-communism-how-china-is-building-a-start-up-boom
China's Big Debt Worries George Soros. Should It Worry You?	中国债务负担究竟潜伏多大危机
The global economy is full of risks right now. Growth is sluggish, and central banks seem powerless to fix it. Europe faces persistent challenges and division. In America, the election looms.	目前，全球经济充满风险。增长缓慢，中央银行似乎也无能为力。欧洲面临持续存在的挑战和分裂。美国大选在即。
But some say the biggest danger of all may be on the other side of the world, in China.	不过，有些人说，最大的危险可能在世界的另一边——中国。
China is in the midst of one of the biggest borrowing binges in recent history. Its debt load reached $26.6 trillion in 2015 — about five times what it was a decade ago, and more than two and a half times the size of the country's entire economy. That huge increase has prompted some economists and even the prominent investor George Soros to compare China to the United States before the 2008 financial crisis.	中国正处于近年历史上最大的借贷狂潮之中。2015年，它的债务总额达到26.6万亿美元，大约是10年前的五倍，是该国经济总量的2.5倍多。这种巨大增长促使一些经济学家、甚至著名的投资者乔治·索罗斯(George Soros)把中国与2008年金融危机前的美国相比较。
How big a danger does China's fast-growing debt load present to the country, or the world?	中国快速增长的债务让该国或世界面临多大的危险？
The traditional view is that rapidly rising debt eventually leads to an economic crisis. That can happen in several ways. In Greece, the culprit was the government, which built up more debt than it could handle. In	传统观点是快速增长的债务最终会导致经济危机。它可能以几种方式发生。在希腊，罪魁祸首是政府，它累积了超过自己承受能力的债务。在美国，风险潜伏在银行和家庭财务方面。

the United States, the risks lurked in the finances of banks and households.
In the case of China, the problem is primarily in the corporate sector. China's big companies — especially those owned by the state — have done much of the borrowing. Higher debt means companies will have to spend more on interest and paying it back, and less on investing and hiring.	在中国，这个问题主要存在于公司方面。中国最大的企业——尤其是那些国有企业——是借入的主体。更高的债务意味着公司将不得不在支付利息和偿还方面投入更多，在投资和雇佣方面投入更少。
That is where a vicious cycle could come in. Less spending on investing and hiring hurts the overall economy, hitting corporate bottom lines and making it even harder for companies to pay off debt. Bad loans rise. Banks freeze lending. Confidence in the financial system can be shaken, leading to a full-fledged banking crisis.	这就可能导致恶性循环。减少投资和雇佣方面的开支，会打击整体经济，损害企业的盈利，让还债变得愈发艰难。不良贷款会上升。银行放贷会被冻结。金融体系的信心会受到动摇，从而引发全面的银行业危机。
China, which has the world's second-largest economy after the United States', plays a crucial role in generating global growth. Such a situation in China could ripple across the world.	中国是仅次于美国的世界第二大经济体，在促进全球经济增长方面发挥着重要作用。中国如果出现这种局面，其影响可能扩散到世界各地。
On the other hand, a number of economists say China's mountain of debt is not as scary as it appears.	另一方面，许多经济学家认为，中国堆积如山的债务并不像表面看起来那样可怕。
Qu Hongbin, chief economist for Greater China at HSBC, and his team argue that China's debt is simply a result of the way its financial system works. For a variety of reasons, China's corporations and households stash more money away than their peers in other countries. That cash piles up in banks and is turned into loans, resulting in China's high level of debt.	汇丰银行(HSBC)大中华区首席经济学家曲宏斌及其团队表示，中国的债务仅仅是该国金融系统的运营方式所带来的后果。由于种种原因，中国企业和家庭储蓄的资金比其他国家的企业和家庭多得多。这些资金汇聚在银行里，又变身为贷款，导致中国的债务水平居高不下。
Since the debt is backed by all that savings, it is not as risky, Mr. Qu contends. "Concerns about China's debt levels reaching a critical	曲宏斌说，这些债务有储蓄做支撑，因此风险没有那么大。“有关中国的债务水平已达临界值，可能引发系统性风险的担忧被夸大了，”其团队在4月

threshold and posing a systemic risk are overblown," the HSBC team wrote in April.	份写道。
Others argue that China's debt is less of a threat because it is to a great degree backed by the government. Much of it comes from state-run banks, which are the primary lenders to China's large state-run companies. That means Beijing can stop banks from pushing borrowers too hard and would be more inclined to shore up the financial system, preventing the crisis that a more free-market economy might suffer.	其他一些人声称，中国的债务在很大程度上得到了政府的背书，因此不会构成太大威胁。许多贷款都源自国有银行，它们是中国大型国企的主要债权人。这意味着北京可以阻止银行把借款人逼得太狠，而且很有可能为金融体系提供支撑，以防发生自由程度更高的市场经济体可能遭遇的危机。
The debt, too, is largely domestic, making China less likely to be pushed into a crisis by problems outside its borders, which have toppled debt-heavy emerging economies in the past.	而且这些债务基本是内债，使得中国不太可能因为受境外问题的钳制而陷入危机。此前，类似的问题曾把某些债务负担沉重的新兴经济体拖垮。
Other economies, furthermore, have debt similar to or even bigger than China's. Debt in the United States, for instance, is roughly equivalent when compared with the size of America's economy. Japan's is much larger, at nearly four times the size of its national output.	此外，其他一些经济体的债务水平与中国类似，甚至还要更高。例如，美国的债务占其经济总量的比重，与中国大体相当。日本的数字则高得多，债务总额几乎是经济总量的四倍。
Still, there is ample evidence to suggest that a large expansion of debt almost always has disastrous consequences.	不过，有充分的证据表明，债务规模急剧扩张几乎总是会带来灾难性的后果。
Neil Shearing, chief emerging markets economist at the research firm Capital Economics, has studied more than 25 years of collapses in developing economies. He concludes that the pace of debt accumulation is more important than the overall level of debt in determining whether a country will face a financial crisis. China's pace of debt accumulation is well above the threshold he identified as indicating the potential for crisis.	经济研究公司凯投宏观(Capital Economics)的首席新兴市场经济学家尼尔·希林(Neil Shearing)对发展中国家的经济崩溃有着超过25年的研究。他得出的结论是，与总体债务规模相比，债务增速是决定一个国家会不会发生金融危机的更重要因素。而中国的债务增速，比他眼中预示着可能发生危机的阈值高出不少。
Some economists say that even if China dodges a full-scale crisis, it	一些经济学家称，中国即便逃过一场全面危机，也有可能无法逃脱不断攀升

may not be able to escape the damage caused by its rising debt. They fear that China could fall into a yearslong slump like Japan, which has regularly suffered little or even no growth ever since its own banking crisis more than two decades ago.	的债务造成的危害。他们担心中国或许会像日本那样陷入为期多年的衰退。自从日本在 20 多年前爆发银行业危机以来，其经济增长常常微乎其微，甚至出现过零增长。
In China's case, the problems created by such an outcome would be much more painful, since it would enter that slow-growth period with its people at a much lower standard of living.	就中国而言，类似的结果可能引发惨烈得多的问题，因为它会在人民生活水平相对低很多的时候进入经济增长放缓的阶段。
There are already signs that China's debt is beginning to hamper progress in its economy. China's banks have increased their lending to try to stimulate the economy, but the actual rate of growth has not picked up. That is partly because China's economy requires more and more debt to produce the same economic results.	有迹象表明，中国的债务已经开始妨碍其经济进步了。中国银行加大了放贷力度，竭力刺激经济，但实际增长率并未加速。这在某种程度上是因为中国经济得用越来越多的债务为其带来同等的经济成效。
Brandon Emmerich, general manager for North America at Wind Information, a data provider, says $4 of new credit is necessary to generate just $1 of additional gross domestic product — the worst ratio since the depths of the last financial crisis. One reason, Mr. Emmerich recently wrote in a newsletter, is that "most new debt in China goes to pay off old obligations rather than invest in new value-creating projects."	数据供应商万得资讯(Wind Information)北美部总经理布兰登·埃默里赫 (Brandon Emmerich)说，信贷每新增 4 美元，只能让国内生产总值新增 1 美元，这是上一次金融危机爆发以来最糟糕的比率。埃默里赫在一篇简报里写道，一个原因是，“中国的大部分新增债务，都被用于偿还旧债，而非投资于可以创造价值的新项目”。
After analyzing corporate bonds issued in China, he calculated that 42 percent of the money raised since 2015 was earmarked to pay off existing loans or expiring bonds, compared with only 8 percent in 2014.	分析过在中国发行的企业债券之后，他得出结论，自 2015 年以来募集到的资金，有 42%被用来偿还现有债务或赎回到期债券。相比之下，2014 年的数字是 8%。
In an August report, the International Monetary Fund warned of "heightened downside risks" and the need for "decisive action" to reduce the economy's reliance on credit, including reforming and even	国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)在 8 月的一份报告中就“下行风险提升”做出警告，称有必要采取“果断的行动”，降低经济对信贷的依赖，包括改组甚至关停负债过高的公司。“脆弱度仍在沿着危险的轨道上

shutting down overly indebted companies. "Vulnerabilities are still rising on a dangerous trajectory," it said.	升，"报告称。
China has long defied predictions that it is heading for a crash, and perhaps it will prove the doomsayers wrong yet again. But Beijing's policy makers must limit the increase in debt without inflicting a severe blow to growth. That delicate balancing act is hard to manage, but Beijing may be left with no other choice.	关于中国经济即将崩溃的预测过去一直存在，但都落了空。中国也许会再度证明这些悲观主义者是错的。但北京的政策制定者必须限制债务规模的扩张，同时还要避免对经济增长造成严重打击。这种微妙的平衡很难把握，但北京或许已经没有其他选择。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160908/chinas-big-debt-worries-george-soros-should-it-worry-you	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160908/chinas-big-debt-worries-george-soros-should-it-worry-you
Rush of Chinese Investment in Europe's High-Tech Firms Is Raising Eyebrows	中国资本涌入欧洲尖端技术产业引发担忧
HONG KONG — After a customer canceled a large order at the last minute, shares in Aixtron, a German high-tech company, sank fast. Months later, with the stock still reeling, a Chinese investor agreed to buy the company.	香港——一个客户在最后时刻取消一笔大订单后，德国高科技公司爱思强(Aixtron)的股价迅速下滑。数月后，在其股价依然萎靡不振之际，一个中国投资者同意买下公司。
If only it were as simple as smart deal-making.	如果此事真是这么简单，只是有人做出了明智的交易决策就好了。
Financial filings and public statements indicate a web of relationships among the customer, the buyer and the Chinese state. The links highlight the blurred lines between increasingly acquisitive Chinese companies and Beijing's long-term industrial policy.	然而，根据提交给金融监管机构的文件及该公司公告显示，那名客户、买家与中国政府之间存在一个关系网。这种关联，突显出胃口越来越大的中国企业和北京的长期产业政策之间颇为模糊的界限。
"The Aixtron case makes it very clear: It is not regular investment that is at work here," said Sebastian Heilmann, president of the Mercator Institute for China Studies, a think tank based in Berlin. "Instead, we see governmental-program capital working behind the scenes."	"爱思强的例子非常清晰地表明：这并不是常规的投资，"在位于柏林的智库墨卡托中国研究中心(Mercator Institute for China Studies)担任主管的韩博天(Sebastian Heilmann)说。"相反，我们看到受政府控制的资本在幕后发挥着作用。"
Chinese leaders have made clear their intention of using state funds to	中国领导人表明了利用国家基金获取并引入海外技术能力的意图。近年来的

acquire technological capabilities overseas and bring them home, and a series of purchases in recent years have highlighted that strategy.	一系列收购也突显了这一策略。
That has led to questions about how to treat bids that cross between private investment and state-orchestrated takeovers. It has also fed into broader suspicions about the fate of the takeover targets, and whether national champions will ultimately be absorbed into the supply chain in China.	这引发了一个问题：如果要约既涉及私人投资，又涉及由政府策划的收购，该如何对待？它还引发了关于收购目标未来命运如何的疑问，以及这些全国性龙头企业最终是否会被纳入中国供应链。
Aixtron — one of a growing number of European businesses with cutting-edge technologies that have recently been targeted by a surge in Chinese overseas investment — provides a case study.	近年来，随着中国在海外掀起投资热潮，越来越多拥有尖端技术的欧洲企业成了它的目标。作为其中一员，爱思强提供了一个可资研究的案例。
A university spinoff, it employs hundreds of highly skilled engineers and has a decades-long history of making the advanced tools needed to make semiconductors. Its systems can deposit layers of chemicals just atoms thick that grow the crystals needed to make chips and light-emitting diodes.	作为大学衍生企业，爱思强雇用了数百名技能高超的工程师，在生产制造半导体所需先进工具方面拥有数十年经验。它的系统可以让化学品进行原子层沉积，由此生成的晶体是生产芯片和发光二极管的必需品。
It was facing a broad slowdown in demand in 2015 when San'an Optoelectronics, based in the eastern Chinese city of Xiamen, canceled a large order at the last minute.	在 2015 年，中国东部城市厦门的三安光电公司在最后时刻撤销了一笔大订单，这让爱思强遭遇了需求全面下降的状况。
The decision sent Aixtron's share price crashing. By May of this year, it had agreed to sell itself to a Chinese investment fund, Fujian Grand Chip.	这个决定导致爱思强的股价大幅下挫。到了今年 5 月，它接受了中国投资基金福建宏芯的收购要约。
Yet in a twist that shows the conflicting interests that can lurk behind Chinese deals, San'an has a number of connections to Fujian Grand Chip, including a common investor and an existing financial relationship.	不过，三安光电和福建宏芯有许多关联，其中牵涉到一名共同投资人和一种既有的财务关系。这显示了牵涉中国的交易背后，常常隐藏着利益冲突。

Fujian Grand Chip is 51 percent controlled by Liu Zhendong, a businessman the Mercator Institute said most likely had government connections but was otherwise hard to track. The rest is held by Xiamen Bohao, a local government investment fund that itself has links to San'an.	商人刘振东持有福建宏芯 51% 的股份。墨卡托中心称其极可能和政府有瓜葛，但这一点难以追查。受控于当地政府的投资基金厦门博灏持有其余的股份，它本身和三安光电有关。
A financial filing showed that at the end of 2014, San'an owed Bohao 300 million renminbi, now worth about $45 million. The following year, another filing showed Bohao owed San'an 240 million renminbi. While there is no explanation given for the fund flows, they appear to be related to financing provided to San'an by Bohao.	提交给金融监管部门的一份文件显示，2014 年底，三安光电欠厦门博灏 3 亿元人民币，约合现在的 4500 万美元。次年另一份文件显示，厦门博灏欠三安光电 2.4 亿元人民币。尽管文件未对上述资金流动做出说明，但它们似乎和厦门博灏为三安光电提供资金支持有关。
There are other links as well. Another state-run investment firm based in Xiamen holds stakes in both companies. And a broader national investment fund is providing a loan facility, through a subsidiary, for the takeover of Aixtron while holding a stake in San'an.	二者之间还存在其他一些关联。厦门的另一家国有投资企业在这两家公司里都持有股份。此外，一家业务范围更广的全国性投资基金在三安光电持有股份，正通过自己的子公司为收购爱思强提供贷款融通。
Just three days after the Aixtron bid was announced, a new company was registered at an address in Quanzhou along the Taiwan Strait. San'an was an investor in the company, and the address was the same as that listed by Fujian Grand Chip in its Aixtron offer.	爱思强接到收购要约的消息宣布仅 3 天后，一家新公司在台湾海峡沿岸城市泉州注册成功。三安光电是该公司的一个投资方，而公司注册地址，与福建宏芯在收购爱思强的要约文件中列名的地址相同。
The connections do not necessarily indicate wrongdoing. Still, they raise questions about the independence of Chinese companies that have been on a global high-tech spending binge.	这些关联不一定意味着存在违规行为。不过，它们会让人怀疑，正在全球范围内掀起高科技投资狂潮的中国企业是否具有独立性。
"It is the goal of Chinese outbound industrial policy programs to replace foreign technology leaders in the medium term — not just in China but also in global export markets," Mr. Heilmann said.	"中国外向型产业政策规划的中期目标，是取代国外的科技龙头企业——不仅是在中国，而且是在全球出口市场上，"韩博天称。
He echoed the complaints of American and European officials, who say	他的说法与美国及欧洲官员的抱怨相呼应。美欧官员称，虽然中国企业——

that while Chinese companies — including those backed by the state — are able to mount takeover bids for companies in the West, the opposite is not typically allowed within China.	包括那些有政府背景的企业——可以向西方企业发起收购要约，但如果换成西方企业收购中国企业，在中国则通常不被允许。
The German economics ministry declined to comment on the Aixtron takeover. Fujian Grand Chip, Bohao and Mr. Liu declined to comment. San'an did not respond to a request for comment, but in a statement, Aixtron said San'an canceled its order because its "specific qualification requirements were not achieved."	德国经济部拒绝就爱思强收购案置评。福建宏芯、厦门博灏及刘振东也拒绝置评。三安光电未回复置评请求，但爱思强在一份声明中称，三安光电之所以取消订单，是因为“特定的工艺要求无法得到满足”。
In an August conference call with analysts, Aixtron's chief executive, Martin Goetzeler, said there no was current investment link between San'an and Fujian Grand Chip, a relationship that was first reported in the German magazine Capital.	在8月份的面向分析师的电话会议上，爱思强首席执行官马丁·格特策勒(Martin Goetzeler)说，三安光电和福建宏芯之间目前不存在投资关系——当初首先报道这种关系的是德国杂志《资本》(Capital)。
Bids for companies like Aixtron reflect a shift in Chinese investment patterns that goes back a number of years.	向爱思强这样的公司发出要约，反映出中国沿用多年的投资模式发生了转变。
Chinese companies bearing checkbooks have generally been welcomed in Europe. They have provided a source of fresh capital for ailing European enterprises, like the Swedish carmaker Volvo, the Italian tire maker Pirelli, the French resort operator Club Med, and the port in Piraeus, Greece.	总体来说，手持支票簿的中国公司是受到欧洲欢迎的。它们为境况不佳的欧洲企业，包括瑞典汽车制造商沃尔沃(Volvo)、意大利轮胎制造商倍耐力(Pirelli)、法国度假区运营商地中海俱乐部(Club Med)和希腊比雷埃夫斯的港口提供了新的资金来源。
But deals over the past two years — which last year hit a record 20 billion euros, or $22.4 billion, according to a survey by Rhodium Group and the Mercator Institute — have begun targeting leading-edge companies with crucial technologies and iconic brand names.	但过去两年里的交易开始把目标对准拥有关键技术和标志性品牌的前沿企业。荣鼎集团(Rhodium Group)和墨卡托中心共同进行的一项调查显示，去年这类交易达到了创纪录的200亿欧元。
Anxieties are perhaps most acute in Germany, which has had Aixtron and the well-known robotics company Kuka — whose technology is	最紧张的大概是德国。今年，该国的爱思强和著名机器人公司库卡(Kuka)均被中国收购。库卡的技术在德国的汽车工厂里随处可见。据墨卡托中心称，

ubiquitous in German car factories — both go to Chinese bidders this year. Largely because of those two deals, Germany has become the largest recipient of Chinese investment in Europe thus far in 2016, according to the Mercator Institute.	主要因为这两项交易，德国成了欧洲 2016 年迄今最大的中国投资接受国。
In the United States, a number of Chinese bids for chip companies have been undone by regulatory concerns. Regulators thwarted an overture by San'an for an American semiconductor company, and the Treasury Department's Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States is reviewing the Aixtron bid.	在美国，中国公司对芯片企业发出的多项要约因监管机构的担忧而被迫取消。监管机构叫停了三安对一家美国半导体公司提出的收购提议，美国财政部下属的美国外国投资委员会(Committee on Foreign Investment in the United States)正在审查对爱思强提出的收购要约。
By contrast, European laws give politicians few avenues to block acquisitions, though that has not stopped them from trying.	相比之下，欧洲的法律几乎没给政界人士提供阻止收购的途径，但这并未妨碍他们尽力尝试。
President François Hollande of France has warned the Chinese hotel group Jin Jiang against trying to acquire a majority in the French hotel chain Accor. And last month, Prime Minister Theresa May of Britain delayed approval of a nuclear power plant because of security concerns about Chinese companies involved. (It has since been given the green light.)	法国总统弗朗索瓦·奥朗德(François Hollande)警告中国酒店集团锦江不要试图收购法国酒店连锁品牌雅高(Accor)的多数股份。上月，出于因涉及中国公司而产生的安全担忧，英国首相特丽莎·梅(Theresa May)推迟了一个核电站项目的批准。(该项目现在已经获批。)
In Germany, the takeover of Kuka — frequently cited by politicians as emblematic of the country's future economic development — has drawn particular attention. The economics ministry examined the takeover of the company by Midea Group in China, which already owns 95 percent of Kuka shares, but eventually decided the deal did not meet the strict criteria for a formal review.	在德国，收购库卡一事引起了特别的关注。政界人士常说此事象征着德国未来的经济发展。该国经济部对中国美的集团收购库卡一事进行了调查，但最终断定交易未达到进行正式审核需满足的严格条件。美的现已拥有库卡 95% 的股份。
Beyond politics, concerns also surround the origin of the money supporting Chinese bids.	除政治外，支持中国公司发出收购要约的资金来源也引发了担忧。

The Aixtron case, in particular, shows how difficult that can be.	爱思强收购案尤其体现了其中的难度。
Ultimately both San'an, the customer, and Fujian Grand Chip, the buyer, are recipients of government funds earmarked to help China build out its semiconductor capabilities. While it's not clear whether the two coordinated in any way, they are a product of a new approach Beijing has taken to develop its semiconductor industry.	无论是爱思强的客户三安，还是买家福建宏芯基金，从根本上都是政府资金的接受方，政府此举是为了帮助中国发展其半导体实力。尽管尚不清楚这两家公司是否以某种方式进行了协调，北京为发展其半导体行业而采取了一种新方法，它们都是这一方法的产物。
Previously, China's government would dole out funds to several well-known state-owned companies. Now those funds are being distributed through national and local investment funds, which give them out to, and through, smaller companies like Bohao and San'an.	以前，中国政府会将资金发放给多家著名的国有企业。现在，这些资金通过中央和地方投资基金的形式发放，投资基金再将它们发放给博灏和三安这种较小的公司，或是再经由它们进行发放。
German companies have so far managed to stay ahead of China and other competitors in quality and technology, but there are growing concerns that Chinese companies are catching up.	迄今为止，德国公司仍能在品质和技术上领先于中国和其他竞争对手，但民众对中国公司正在迎头赶上的担忧日渐加剧。
"A lot of people in Germany have massive concerns about Chinese companies taking over leading tech companies," said Daniel Bauer, a spokesman for SdK, a German investor-protection group. "People fear that foreign investors will just transfer the know-how and have no interest in keeping the facilities."	"很多德国人对中国公司收购德国著名科技公司非常担心，"德国投资者保护组织 SdK 的发言人丹尼尔·鲍尔(Daniel Bauer)说。"人们担心外国投资者只会转移专业技术，无意于保留设施。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160918/china-germany-takeover-merger-technology	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160918/china-germany-takeover-merger-technology
I.P.O. for Postal Savings Bank of China Gets Help From Beijing	中国邮政储蓄银行巨额 IPO 暗藏隐忧
HONG KONG — China's biggest banks are struggling with a slowing economy, rising bad debts and shrinking profits.	香港——中国的大银行正竭力和经济增长放缓、坏账增加、利润缩水作斗争。
So to raise more than $7 billion in the world's largest new share sale in two years, a stodgy Chinese bank has sought a little help from its	因此，为了通过两年来全世界规模最大的新股发行，募得逾 70 亿美元资金，一家古板的中国银行已经从朋友那里寻求了一点帮助。 friends.

The Postal Savings Bank of China, a sprawling state-owned lender that is one of the country's biggest, priced shares on Wednesday for its initial public offering at $0.61 each, valuing the new shares at $7.4 billion, according to a person familiar with the offering who was not authorized to speak publicly about the pricing. The total proceeds make it the biggest single I.P.O. anywhere since 2014, when Alibaba's $25 billion New York listing set the global record.	一位知情人士称，周三，中国最大的国有信贷机构之一中国邮政储蓄银行，将其首次公开募股的招股价定为每股 0.61 美元，所发行的股份价值 74 亿美元。该人士未被授权公开谈其定价。阿里巴巴于 2014 年赴纽约上市，以 250 亿美元的募资总额打破全球最大 IPO 的历史纪录，本次 IPO 是自那以后的全球单笔融资金额之最。
But only a fraction of those shares will be held by nongovernment investors, as Chinese state-run companies have already pledged to buy up most of them.	但其发行的新股只有一小部分会被非政府投资者持有，因为一些中国国有企业已经承诺认购绝大部分股票。
The big I.P.O. is shining a light on the practice, called cornerstone investing, of inviting big investors to buy up large chunks of shares before a company goes public. Though it is less common in other markets, it has been increasingly used by Chinese state firms going public in Hong Kong, where government-controlled companies purchase growing numbers of shares to ensure a smooth offering.	这项大型 IPO 让世人注意到了一种名为基石投资的做法，也就是在一家公司上市前，邀请大投资者认购大量股票。这种做法在其他市场上并不常见，但却受到了越来越多赴港上市的中国国企的青睐——为了确保 IPO 的顺利进行，受控于政府的企业在香港市场认购的股票日益增多。
Banks tend to go along with the practice because it helps get deals done, but it has come under criticism in the past because it can give plugged-in investors preferential access to new offerings.	一些银行倾向于采取这种做法，因为它有助于达成交易。但它在以往也饱受批评，因为会让有门路的投资者获得参与 IPO 的优先权。
Postal Savings Bank declined to comment.	邮政储蓄银行拒绝置评。
On the face of it, the I.P.O. recalls a period a decade ago, when an initial wave of offerings by China's biggest state banks on overseas stock markets resulted in megalistings attracting eager investors among foreign funds and Wall Street banks.	从表面上看，这项 IPO 会让人想起 10 年前的那个年代。当时，中国大型国有银行赴海外证券市场公开募股的浪潮刚刚兴起，许多巨型 IPO 吸引了外国基金和华尔街银行的目光，让那些投资者充满渴望。

Optimism about China's banks soared with the country's double-digit economic growth rates, and lenders like the Industrial and Commercial Bank of China, China Construction Bank and the Bank of China surpassed traditional names like Citigroup and Bank of America to become the biggest banks in the world by market value.	中国两位数的经济增长率使得关于该国银行的乐观看法急剧升温，中国工商银行、中国建设银行、中国银行等信贷机构力压花旗集团(Citigroup)、美国银行(Bank of America)等老牌机构，成为全世界市值最大的银行。
That enthusiasm has been replaced by an increasing wariness of problems with China's traditional growth model, which relied heavily on state-directed investment to support economic growth. That led to mountains of debt and rampant industrial overcapacity in areas like mining, steel making and other manufacturing businesses.	如今，那种乐观看法，已经被人们对中国传统增长模式所存问题的日益担忧所取代。中国严重依赖由政府引导的投资来支撑经济增长，导致债务堆积如山，采矿、炼钢等制造业领域的产能严重过剩。
Shares in China's big banks now trade at less than the reported value of their assets — a signal that investors do not believe the banks' books or that they expect more problem loans will crop up.	中国大型银行的股票目前已低于财报披露的资产价值——说明投资者并不相信这些银行的账册，或者认为会有更多不良贷款冒出头来。
With Postal Savings Bank, more than 75 percent of the shares in the bank's I.P.O. were presold to so-called cornerstone investors, big buyers that get priority by promising not to sell their stakes for six months. All six cornerstone investors in the deal are entities affiliated with the Chinese government.	邮政储蓄银行通过此次 IPO 发行的股份，逾 75% 被预售给了所谓的基石投资者，也就是以六个月内不出售股票的承诺换取优先认购权的大买家。这项交易中的六个基石投资者全都是与中国政府有关联的实体。
That state support included about $2 billion from China Shipbuilding Industry Corporation and investments from Shanghai's main port operator, a regional airline operator and the country's main power grid company.	国家提供的支持包括来自中国船舶重工集团的 20 亿美元资金，以及来自一家上海大型港口运营商、一家地区性航空运营商以及该国的主要电网公司的投资。
The postal bank I.P.O. comes amid a relative lull in big listings in Hong Kong. And the deals that have gone through have increasingly relied on cornerstones — a sign that underlying demand from retail or small	邮政储蓄银行的 IPO，是在香港市场大型 IPO 交易相对沉闷的情况下到来的。这些交易的进行越来越依赖基石投资者——说明来自零售投资者或者说小投资者的潜在需求颇为低迷。 investors may be lackluster.

For example, cornerstone investors accounted for nearly 80 percent of the shares offered in the June listing of CDB Leasing, a state-backed aircraft leasing company. Last month, Everbright Securities, a state-controlled brokerage, sold nearly 70 percent of its I.P.O. to cornerstones.	例如，国有飞机租赁企业国银租赁 6 月份赴港上市时，基石投资者认购了其所发股份的将近 80%。上月赴港 IPO 的国有券商光大证券，把将近 70% 的所发股份售予基石投资者。
Last year, cornerstone investors accounted for a record 41 percent of all I.P.O.s in Hong Kong, according to figures from Dealogic, a financial data provider. The previous high was 36 percent in 2012, a difficult year for new listings.	来自金融数据供应商 Dealogic 的数字显示，去年，基石投资者的投资在香港 IPO 交易所中所占比例创下了 41% 的新高。此前的最高为 2012 年的 36%，那是新股发行颇为艰难的一年。
Cornerstones last year bought almost $14 billion worth of the $33.6 billion in shares sold through 49 new listings in the city, according to Dealogic.	Dealogic 称，香港市场去年共达成 49 宗 IPO 交易，所发股份总价值为 336 亿美元，而基石投资者买下了将近 140 亿美元的股份。
The growing influence of cornerstones in Hong Kong has come under scrutiny, but so far regulators and lawmakers have taken a relatively hands-off approach.	基石投资者对香港市场与日俱增的影响力受到了密切关注，但到目前为止，监管机构和立法者采取的是相对而言不过多干预的政策。
In 2013, the city's stock exchange cautioned underwriting banks against giving cornerstone investors preferential treatment or privileged access to information about a company's business.	2013 年，香港的证券交易所曾提醒经营 IPO 承销业务的银行，不要给予基石投资者优惠待遇，或者通过特殊渠道获取公司业务信息的权利。
A year later, the Financial Services Development Council, a government advisory body, proposed overhauls to the I.P.O. process and the effect that cornerstones have on deal pricing.	一年后，香港政府顾问机构金融发展局提议对 IPO 流程以及基石投资者对交易定价的影响进行检讨。
"One undesirable side effect of I.P.O. cornerstone investment is that it takes the pricing process further away from the normal market forces and may have a distortive effect on the company's market value," the	"IPO 基石投资的一个不良副作用是，它会让定价流程进一步脱离正常市场力量的掌控，还可能给公司市值带来扭曲效应，"金融发展局在建议中写道。 council wrote in its recommendations.

To date, Hong Kong regulators have not moved to limit cornerstone investing. A spokesman for the stock exchange said on Wednesday that it had researched the issue and “found no conclusive evidence that cornerstone investments narrow the shareholder base.” He added that after last year’s review, the listing committee “decided that no additional regulation is warranted at this stage.”	香港的监管机构至今尚未采取限制基石投资的举措。港交所发言人周三称，交易所已经研究过这个问题，“没有发现基石投资会缩小股东基础的结论性证据。”他还说，经过去年的检讨，上市委员会“得出的结论是，在此阶段没有必要进行额外的监管”。
Postal Savings Bank agreed to sell 12.1 billion shares at 4.76 Hong Kong dollars each, near the bottom of the market range. The offering was helped along by an unusually high number of underwriters – 26 banks in total worked on the deal.	邮政储蓄银行同意把 121 亿股 H 股的发行价定为 4.76 港元，接近招股区间的下限。帮助进行此次 IPO 的承销商多得异乎寻常——共有 26 家银行为这项交易服务。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160922/china-postal-bank-ipo	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160922/china-postal-bank-ipo
JPMorgan May Face New Scrutiny in China Hiring Case	雇佣中国权贵子女，摩根大通面临更多罚单
For the last three years, JPMorgan Chase’s hiring practices in China were at the center of a federal bribery investigation.	过去三年里，摩根大通(JPMorgan Chase)在中国的雇佣行为是一项联邦贿赂调查的焦点。
Now, just as the bank is preparing to settle with federal prosecutors and the Securities and Exchange Commission, another round of scrutiny has emerged.	时至今日，就在它准备与联邦检察部门和证券交易委员会(Securities and Exchange Commission)达成和解之际，新一轮调查浮出了水面。
JPMorgan’s top regulators – the Federal Reserve and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency – are seeking to impose their own penalties in the China hiring case, according to people briefed on the investigations. In recent days, the Fed sought a $62 million fine from the bank, and the O.C.C. is expected to seek its own punishment, according to the people, who were not authorized to discuss the private negotiations.	知情人士称，监管摩根大通的最高机构——美联储(Federal Reserve)与货币监理署(Office of the Comptroller of the Currency)——正寻求在中国雇佣案中开出自己的罚单。根据他们的说法，近日来，美联储希望从摩根大通那里征收 6200 万美元的罚款，而货币监理署则另有处罚。这些知情人士没有得到讨论未公开谈判的授权。

Those agencies, which were not previously known to be involved in the case, could announce a settlement alongside the S.E.C. and prosecutors in the coming months.	这两家机构之前并未透露出介入了此案。它们可能会在接下来的几个月与证券交易委员会和检察部门一起宣布同摩根大通达成和解。
The Fed and O.C.C. investigations stem from the bank's efforts to hire the children of China's ruling elite – and in some cases link those jobs or internships to securing business with Chinese government-run companies. But unlike the S.E.C. and federal prosecutors, the banking regulators are not focused on the bribery aspect of the case, but rather a breakdown in controls and practices that allowed the improper hiring to take place.	美联储与货币监理署的调查源于摩根大通雇佣中国执政权贵子女的行为——在有些情况下还将工作或实习机会和敲定与中国国有企业的生意往来联系在一起。不过，与证券交易委员会和联邦检察部门有所区别的是，这两家银行业监管机构关注的并非是本案的贿赂问题，而是令不当雇用行为得以发生的企业管控及实践的细节。
The actions from banking regulators would come on top of the roughly $200 million that JPMorgan is expected to pay to the federal prosecutors in Brooklyn and the S.E.C., the people briefed on the matter said, the majority of which would go to the S.E.C.	知情人士称，摩根大通预计会向驻布鲁克林的联邦检察官办公室和证券交易委员会缴纳 2 亿美元左右的罚款，其中大部分归于后者，而两家银行业监管机构采取的行动将独立于这项罚款之外。
With prosecutors, the bank appears to have scored a moral victory by avoiding criminal charges, the people briefed on the matter said. Instead of facing charges, the bank negotiated a rare nonprosecution agreement.	知情人士称，在检察部门那里，摩根大通避免了刑事指控，似乎取得了一点心理上的胜利。它不必面临指控，而是通过谈判达成了一项罕见的免于起诉协议。
Yet for JPMorgan, the Fed's and O.C.C.'s involvement complicates the outcome of the case and throws into doubt the timing of a settlement. If JPMorgan were facing only the S.E.C. and the prosecutors, the case might have concluded sooner and at a cheaper cost.	不过，对摩根大通而言，美联储与货币监理署的介入让此案的结局变得复杂，和解时间也不再确定。假如它仅需面对证券交易委员会和检察部门，此事或许会更早结案，付出的代价也更小。
The latest developments are an unexpected twist that underscore the banking regulators' increasingly aggressive stance toward Wall Street misdeeds.	此事的最新进展出人意料，突显了银行业监管机构对华尔街不当行为采取的立场在变得越来越强硬。

In the fallout from the 2008 financial crisis, regulators have demanded that big banks tighten their controls and bolster oversight of their employees. Banks that failed to do so in the past have paid tens of billions of dollars in fines, much of it stemming from dubious mortgage practices in the years before the crisis, a departure for agencies once known for their light enforcement touch.	在 2008 年的金融危机之后，监管机构要求大银行收紧控制，加强对员工的监督。未能做到这一点的银行付出过数百亿美元的罚款，其中不少源于危机之前的那些年里从事的可疑住房贷款行为。这样的举动偏离了这些机构曾经拥有的执法力度小的名声。
Spokesmen for the Fed and the O.C.C. declined to comment. A spokesman for the Justice Department's Criminal Division in Washington, which is working with the Brooklyn prosecutors in the case, also declined to comment, as did a spokeswoman for the S.E.C.	美联储与货币监理署的发言人都拒绝置评。司法部驻华盛顿的刑事部门正在本案中与驻布鲁克林的联邦检察官办公室合作，而该部门的发言人也不予评论。证券交易委员会的女发言人亦如此。
JPMorgan did not comment, but the bank addressed the investigations in its most recent quarterly regulatory filing, stating that it was "responding to and cooperating with these investigations."	摩根大通未予置评，但在最近提交给监管部门的季度备案文件中提到了自身接受的调查，表示它“正在回应并配合这些调查”。
Wells Fargo, which long marketed itself as the country's Main Street lender and largely avoided headline-grabbing penalties, is now the latest bank to find itself in the cross-hairs of regulators. The bank agreed this month to pay $185 million in fines, including $35 million to the O.C.C., for fraudulently opening as many as 1.5 million bank accounts and potentially issuing hundreds of thousands of credit cards that had not been authorized by customers.	富国银行(Wells Fargo)曾长期标榜自己的借贷对象是美国普通民众，也基本躲开了能登上新闻头条的大额罚单。不过，如今这家银行却发现自己成了监管机构瞄准的目标。本月，富国银行同意支付 1.85 亿美元罚金，其中 3500 万交给货币监理署，理由是用欺诈手段开了至多 150 万个银行账户，同时还可能发行了数十万张客户并未授权的信用卡。
In prepared remarks before the Senate Banking Committee on Tuesday, Thomas Curry, the comptroller of the currency, said his agency was considering taking action against individual Wells Fargo executives, "including directors, officers and employees who violate any law or regulation, engage in unsafe or unsound practices or breach fiduciary	周二出现在参议院银行委员会面前时，货币监理署署长托马斯·柯里(Thomas Curry)在事先准备好的讲话中说，他领导的机构正在考虑对富国银行的个别高管采取行动，包括“那些违反法规、从事不安全或无理由行为、违背信托责任的董事、官员和雇员。” duty.”

The Federal Reserve has stepped up its enforcement efforts as well. Daniel Tarullo, a Federal Reserve governor who leads many of the central bank’s regulatory oversight efforts on Wall Street, recently remarked that banks have not done enough to change their cultures. And when banks misbehave, he said, regulators should hold individual bankers accountable.	美联储也在加大执法力度。牵头进行美联储针对华尔街的不少监管行动的理事丹尼尔·塔鲁洛(Daniel Tarullo)近期评论,各大银行并未做出足够的努力来改变自身的文化。他说,当银行从事不法行为时,监管部门应该追究其中个人的责任。
“There is a need, I think, for a focus on individuals as well as the fines put on the institutions,” Mr. Tarullo said in a televised interview on CNBC this month.	“我认为,在向机构罚款的同时,有必要关注个人,”塔鲁洛在 CNBC 本月播出的电视采访中表示。
The Fed’s recent enforcement cases reflect this focus on individual wrongdoing. In 2015, the Fed chose to bar six bankers from the industry, twice the number in 2014. The year before that, the Fed did not take any such actions.	美联储近期的执法案例反映出这种对个人不法行为的关注。在 2015 年,美联储选择禁止六名银行业人士再从事这一行业,是 2014 年的两倍。再往前一年,美联储并未采取任何此类行动。
And just last month, the Fed took action against a former Goldman Sachs executive, seeking to bar him from the industry in a case that stemmed from 2014, when a junior Goldman employee received confidential government information from a Federal Reserve employee in New York. The Fed also fined Goldman $36 million.	就在上个月,美联储对高盛(Goldman Sachs)的一名前高管采取了行动,准备以源于 2014 年的一宗案子为由禁止他从事银行业工作。当时,高盛的一名初级雇员从美联储在纽约的一名雇员的手中获取了机密的政府信息。美联储还对高盛处以了 3600 万美元罚款。
When the China hiring investigation first came to light in a front-page article in The New York Times three years ago, it was the latest regulatory woe to plague the bank. It came on the heels of the bank’s so-called London whale trading scandal, in which its traders lost $6 billion in bungled derivative bets, and around the time a mortgage settlement with the Justice Department cost $13 billion.	三年前,《纽约时报》率先在头版的一篇文章中曝光摩根大通在中国的雇佣行为在接受调查。这在当时是该行陷入的一系列监管麻烦中的最新一桩。此事之前,摩根大通刚刚曝出了“伦敦鲸”交易丑闻,公司的交易员搞砸了衍生品交易,损失了 60 亿美元。在那段时间里,它与美国司法部就住房贷款问题达成的一项和解也使其损失了 130 亿美元。

Billions of dollars in fines later, the bank has largely retreated from the spotlight, which now appears to shine on Wells Fargo and other rivals.	被罚了上百亿美元之后，摩根大通大体从聚光灯下淡出。现在，这种关注似乎转移到了富国银行等竞争对手身上。
Even so, the government's roughly $200 million settlement with JPMorgan in the China case could draw attention from lawmakers who argue that banks are too big — and systemically important — to indict. No individual employees are expected to be criminally charged, the people briefed on the matter said, and the bank will probably receive a nonprosecution agreement, a form of corporate probation that comes in exchange for concessions and penalties.	即便如此，政府就在中国的雇用行为与摩根大通达成 2 亿美元左右的和解一事，可能会吸引认为银行规模如此巨大（且在系统中极为重要），以至于不能起诉的那些议员的注意。知情人士透露，此案中不会有具体雇员遭到刑事指控，摩根大通也很可能拿到免于起诉的协议。这是一种面向企业的缓刑，用以换取对方承认过失并缴纳罚款。
Alternatively, prosecutors could have sought a criminal guilty plea, or a deferred-prosecution agreement, which involves the filing of charges that are deferred and is generally viewed as more onerous than a nonprosecution deal. With the growth in guilty pleas and deferred-prosecution agreements on Wall Street, nonprosecution deals have become less common for Wall Street banks.	或者，检方本可以寻求达成一份刑事认罪或延期起诉协议。这种协议涉及推迟提出指控，普遍被认为比免于起诉协议更严厉。但随着华尔街认罪和延期起诉协议的增加，对那里的银行来说，免于起诉协议已变得没那么常见。
Ultimately, evidence in the case may have limited the options for prosecutors, who have a higher burden of proof than the S.E.C. For one thing, there is nothing inherently illicit about hiring well-connected people, and prosecutors may have struggled to show an explicit quid pro quo from the bank to Chinese officials. And in many cases, the job or internship candidates may have been qualified anyway, or JPMorgan may have secured the business regardless of the hiring. JPMorgan's lawyers also urged prosecutors not to criminalize hiring practices — including something as simple as awarding an internship — that were common in the region.	最终，本案中的证据可能限制了检方的选择，他们的举证责任比证券交易委员会重。首先，雇佣人脉广的人本身并不违法，检方也许难以证明摩根大通给中国官员提供了明确的回报。而且很多情况下，应聘工作或实习岗位的人可能本来就满足资格，或者摩根大通也许不管有没有相关雇佣行为都能拿下相关业务。摩根大通的律师也敦促检查机构不要将雇佣行为，包括简单地把提供一个实习机会定为非法，这种做法在该地区颇为普遍。

And yet the bank had a formal program for hiring the children of China's elite, once called "Sons and Daughters." The bank went as far as to use spreadsheets that listed the bank's track record for converting a hire into a business deal, The New York Times reported in 2013.	但摩根大通制定了一个正式的雇佣中国权贵子女的项目，一度就叫“子女项目”(Sons and Daughters)。《纽约时报》2013年报道，该银行甚至还用电子表格来记录其将雇佣一名员工转化成一笔商业交易的情况。
The investigation into JPMorgan's hiring practices has brought to the fore an enduring issue for foreign banks competing for deals in China, where a person's "guanxi," or social connections, sometimes count for more than their business experience. The culture of cultivating connections has fed widespread use of kickbacks and bribery across industries. For decades, Wall Street banks have sought to hire the sons and daughters of China's elite — so-called princelings — potentially to curry favor.	对摩根大通的雇佣行为进行的调查，突出了在中国争夺生意的外国银行长期面临的一个问题。在中国，一个人的“关系”有时候远比他们的商业经验更重要。培养关系的文化导致使用回扣和贿赂的手段在各行各业都颇为普遍。几十年来，华尔街的银行一直寻求雇佣中国权贵的子女，即所谓的太子党，可能是为了讨好对方。
When announced, the JPMorgan case would represent one of the first major crackdowns on a big bank for violations of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, which prohibits giving "anything of value" to a foreign official to obtain business with a government entity. The S.E.C. filed a similar case last year against Bank of New York Mellon, which agreed to pay $14.8 million to settle the accusations.	消息一经宣布，摩根大通案便成了首次针对违反《反海外腐败法》(Foreign Corrupt Practices Act)的大银行采取严厉打击行动的典型案例。该法案禁止将“任何有价值的东西”给予外国官员，以便从政府控制的实体那里延揽业务。证券交易委员会去年对纽约梅隆银行(The Bank of New York Mellon)提起了类似的指控，后者同意以1480万美元的代价与其达成和解。
Once JPMorgan puts its China hiring settlement behind it, regulators will most likely turn to the hiring practices of other banks, including HSBC and Deutsche Bank. These and other banks have publicly disclosed the existence of the investigations.	一旦摩根大通就其在中国不当聘用人员一案达成和解，监管机构极有可能转而调查其他银行的雇用行为，包括汇丰银行(HSBC)和德意志银行(Deutsche Bank)。这两家银行以及其他一些银行公开披露过调查已经启动的消息。
Indeed, before JPMorgan stepped up its hiring, bank employees lamented the loss of business to a rival bank with a more formal hiring effort.	事实上，在摩根大通加紧招聘人员之前，该银行的雇员曾感叹，由于采用了更正规的雇佣方式，他们被对手抢了业务。

"We lost a deal to DB today because they got chairman's daughter work for them this summer," one JPMorgan investment banking executive remarked to colleagues, using the initials for Deutsche Bank.	"我们今天有一单交易输给了DB, 因为今年夏天他们把董事长的女儿弄去上班了," 摩根大通投资银行的一名高管对同事说。"DB"是德意志银行的首字母缩写。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160923/jp-morgan-may-face-new-scrutiny-in-china-hiring-case	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160923/jp-morgan-may-face-new-scrutiny-in-china-hiring-case
Chinese Tourists Pump Cash Into a Hot Destination: China	中国鼓励民众境内游, 中产阶级成消费主力
SANYA, China — When Stephan Stoss arrived here six years ago, little more than lush foliage lined the roads leading to the 492-room Hilton where he is now general manager.	中国三亚——史德龙(Stephan Stoss)六年前来到这里的时候, 通往希尔顿酒店(Hilton)的道路两侧只有繁茂的植被; 现在他是这座有492个房间的酒店总经理。
Few other international hotels had been built along the town's picturesque bays. Mr. Stoss and his colleagues from those that were operating would meet regularly for dinner around a small table.	当时在这座城市风景如画的海湾, 只有寥寥无几的几座国际酒店。史德龙与来自其他酒店的同行定期碰面, 他们围着一张小桌子共进晚餐。
Today, they would need a banquet hall. St. Regis and MGM hotels have joined the Hilton on a stretch of white-sand beach on Yalong Bay. Elsewhere in Sanya, Hyatt, Westin, Shangri-La and other prominent chains have built properties. Hilton alone has three hotels in town.	如今他们要聚会的话, 得需要一个宴会厅。继希尔顿之后, 瑞吉(St. Regis)和米高梅(MGM)也在亚龙湾的洁白沙滩上建起了酒店。在三亚其他地方, 凯悦(Hyatt)、威斯汀(Westin)、香格里拉(Shangri-La)等著名连锁品牌也建起了自己的酒店。光是希尔顿在该市就有三家酒店。
Those once-quiet streets around the Hilton are clogged with tour buses. Upscale apartment blocks and gated communities of multimillion-dollar villas have replaced the wild brush.	希尔顿附近的街道曾经非常安静, 如今塞满了旅游巴士。路边野树林已被高档公寓楼和带有门禁的别墅区所取代, 那些别墅动辄需要数百万美元。
"The speed things go here, you don't have that in any other destination," said Mr. Stoss, 54. "Only China."	"这里的发展速度很快, 其他任何目的地都看不到这种情况," 54岁的史德龙说。"只有中国。"
Against the backdrop of China's slowing economy, tourism is a bright spot. Many Chinese families are still getting wealthier, and spending that extra income on travel.	在中国经济增长放缓的大背景之下, 旅游业依然是亮点。许多中国家庭仍在变得更加富裕, 他们把增加的收入用于旅游。
Groups of Chinese tourists are already a common sight, from Times	从时报广场到白金汉宫, 再到吴哥窟, 成群结队的中国游客已经是常见的景

Square to Buckingham Palace to Angkor Wat. But a bigger part of the travel story is the boom within China. Last year, Chinese tourists took four billion domestic trips, twice as many as in 2010 and significantly more than the 122 million journeys abroad, according to government statistics.	象。但中国境内游的繁荣，才是旅游业发展的重头戏。根据政府的统计数据，去年，中国的境内游达到 40 亿人次，比 2010 年增长了一倍，远远多于 1.22 亿人次的境外游数量。
The government has been encouraging Chinese families to pack up and go. As the economy's traditional export and investment engines have been slowed by feeble demand and excess factories, policy makers are trying to shift toward services and consumption.	政府鼓励中国家庭去旅游。受需求疲软与产能过剩的影响，传统的出口与投资引擎放慢了速度，决策者试图把经济重心转移到服务业与消费上来。
Tourism is central to that transition. The government hopes China's swelling middle class will spend more on leisure and entertainment to create jobs in hotels, airlines and restaurants.	旅游业是这一转变的核心。政府希望中国日益壮大的中产阶级能在休闲娱乐上花更多钱，在酒店、航空公司和餐饮领域创造更多就业机会。
"Here it is becoming more important for people to have quality spare time," Mr. Stoss said, "and they are willing to pay for that."	"人们更加重视闲暇时光的质量，"史德龙说，"而且他们愿意为了这个花钱。"
Beijing is counting on travelers like Leng Zhichen, 28. Mr. Leng, an entrepreneur from Qingdao in Shandong Province on the east coast of China, travels with his wife and 2-year-old daughter nearly every month, often for long weekends and usually within China.	28 岁的冷志晨（Leng Zhichen，音）就是政府期待的那种旅游者。他是中国东部沿海山东省青岛市的一个企业家，几乎每个月都会带着妻子和两岁的女儿出游，经常是利用周末时间，而且往往是境内游。
"I like to spend more time with my child, and have her experience different places," Mr. Leng said as he relaxed in the Hilton's lobby.	"我想花更多时间陪孩子，让她体验不同的地方，"冷先生在希尔顿酒店大堂休息时说。
Despite the economic downturn, his income is surging — up tenfold in three years to 3 million renminbi ($450,000). With more disposable cash, he spends several times as much on hotels and meals as he previously had.	尽管经济出现衰退，他的收入仍在上涨——三年增加了十倍，达到了 300 万元人民币。有了更多可支配收入，他在酒店和吃饭上花的钱比从前多了好几倍。
"My travel has changed since I had a family," said Mr. Leng, who runs his	"有了家庭以后，我的旅行方式改变了，"拥有自创珠宝品牌的冷先生说。"我

own jewelry brand. "I stay in nicer hotels and eat better-quality food."	会住更好的酒店，吃质量更好的食物。”
Hainan, the island province that includes Sanya, is at the center of the government's push.	海南——就是三亚所在的那个岛屿省份，是政府推动旅游业发展的中心地带。
In 2009, the national government designated Hainan for development as an "international tourism island" and unleashed a torrent of investment to support its travel industry. A high-speed railway that zips around the island was completed last year, and a new airport for Sanya is on the way. Private investors poured money into expensive golf courses, luxurious hotels and rows of vacation homes.	2009年，中国政府确定把海南建设成为“国际旅游岛”，并且通过一连串投资扶植那里的旅游业。去年，海南落成了高速环岛铁路，三亚正在建设一座新机场。私人投资者们将资金大量注入高档高尔夫球场、豪华酒店和一排排的度假屋。
On Sanya's beaches, crowded with frolicking children, worries about China's economy seem a distant mirage. Last year, tourist arrivals in Sanya neared 15 million, almost 70 percent more than five years earlier. Ninety-eight percent of the visitors were Chinese.	三亚的海滩上聚集着许多嬉闹的孩子，在这里，对中国经济的忧虑如同遥远的海市蜃楼。去年有将近1500万游客来到三亚，比五年前高出将近70%。其中98%的游客都是中国人。
Revenue from tourist businesses more than doubled over that time, to 30 billion renminbi ($4.5 billion) last year. It helped drive Hainan's overall growth, with the province's economy up 7.8 percent in 2015, substantially faster than the 6.9 percent nationally.	旅游业同期创造的收入则增长了一倍还多，去年达到了300亿人民币。这有助于促进海南的整体发展，2015年，该省的经济增长了7.8%，远远高于全国6.9%的水平。
But not all is perfect in paradise. When the government selects one sector for support — whether steel or solar panels — it often helps contribute to undue exuberance among investors, resulting in wasteful projects that depress the economy.	但是天下没有十全十美的事情。当政府选择扶持一个经济部门的同时——不管是钢铁还是太阳能——通常会引发投资过热，导致出现不必要的项目，进而阻碍经济发展。
In Hainan, the excitement over tourism has left the island littered with more golf clubs, apartment buildings and hotel suites than even the rising tide of travelers can fill. The number of hotel rooms in Sanya has increased 40 percent in only five years.	在海南，围绕着旅游业的兴奋为海南带来了更多的高尔夫俱乐部、公寓楼和酒店套房，甚至不断增长的游客大潮也没能将它们填满。三亚的酒店房间数量在五年间就增长了40%。

The boom in hotels has created such cutthroat competition that room rates have dropped about 30 percent in three years, Mr. Stoss of Hilton estimated. "It is becoming harder and harder" to maintain revenue, he admitted.	这股酒店大潮带来了异常激烈的竞争，希尔顿的史德龙估计，酒店房价在三年里下跌了 30%左右。他承认，维持利润变得“越来越难”。
Too many golf courses are chasing too few golfers as well. Lured by the increasing tourist traffic, investors opened eight golf courses in Sanya, many of them with luxurious clubhouses catering to rich Chinese.	由于这里的高尔夫球场太多，而打球的人太少，球场间的竞争也非常激烈。受到游客增加的诱惑，投资者在三亚兴建了八座高尔夫球场，其中好几座都带有豪华的俱乐部会所，用来招待富有的中国人。
But President Xi Jinping's anticorruption campaign has scared government officials and state enterprise executives away from the game, seen by many in China as a sport for the well heeled. The high season for golf, during the cooler winters, is only about four months long, leaving the courses scrambling for customers the rest of the year.	但是习近平主席的反腐败运动导致政府官员和国有企业的高管们不再敢玩这项被很多中国人视为富人运动的项目。高尔夫球在这里的旺季是寒冷的冬日，一年中只有四个月的时间，其余时间里，这些球场就只能拼命争抢客户。
"Most golf courses are losing money," said Dai Yuying, general manager of Sanya Luhuitou Golf Club, adding that his tournament-quality course is managing to break even. "The number of people who play golf has decreased a lot."	三亚鹿回头高尔夫球会的总经理戴玉应说，“大多数高尔夫球场都在赔钱。”他又补充，自己的球场拥有举办赛事的质量，却也只能勉强做到收支平衡。“打高尔夫球的人减少了很多。”
Too many vacation homes are roasting empty in the Sanya sun. The local property association estimated that it would require nearly four years to find buyers for all of the unsold residences on the market.	太多空置的度假屋曝晒在三亚的烈日之下。据当地的房地产协会估计，把市场上所有尚未售出的住宅卖出去，需要近四年时间。
While the pace of expansion has slowed somewhat, developers are still building. Lu Keyong, marketing director of the Yalong Bay Development Company, said his firm remained convinced that more tourists would bring more home buyers. The company is building more apartments near Sanya's airport.	尽管发展的步伐在放慢，开发商还是在不断兴建新项目。亚龙湾开发股份有限公司的营销部经理卢克勇说，他的公司一直相信，随着游客的增长，也会有更多人想在这里安家。公司目前正在三亚机场附近兴建更多公寓。
"The need for accommodation is a necessity for people," Mr. Lu said.	“住房是人们生活中必不可少的需求，”卢先生说道。

The government is prodding investors to do more than throw up hotels and apartments. Officials said it had become harder to get state permission to build hotels.	政府目前正在敦促开发商不要只顾着兴建酒店和公寓。官员们表示，兴建酒店要想得到国家批准变得越来越难了。
Instead, they are encouraging investment in projects with a wider range of entertainment options. One hotel complex, Kerzner International's $1.6 billion Atlantis, will have water slides, exhibits of marine life, and event halls when it opens in 2017.	相反，他们鼓励投资者投资具有更多娱乐选择的项目。柯兹纳国际(Kerzner International)投资 16 亿美元兴建的综合性娱乐度假酒店亚特兰蒂斯 (Atlantis) 将于 2017 年开放，届时酒店内会有滑水道和海洋生物展，以及各种活动大厅。
"There is only one thing I worry about in the long term," said Zhao Kuan, secretary general of the Sanya Tourism Association, a business group. "We need to diversify the attractions."	"从长远看来，我只担心一件事，"三亚市旅游协会秘书长赵宽说道（该协会是一个商业机构）。"我们需要让吸引力多样化。"
The jammed restaurant at the Grand Metropark Resort near the Hilton offers reason for optimism.	离希尔顿酒店不远的维景国际度假酒店(Grand Metropark Resort)内爆满的餐厅，让人看到了乐观的理由。
At one table, Chen Hong, 32, slurped up a morning bowl of noodles with her sister, sister-in-law, parents, nephew and 5-year-old son. Ms. Chen, from Xuzhou in eastern China, was on her first trip to Sanya, and said she wanted to take a lot more vacations like this one.	32 岁的陈红 (Chen Hong, 音) 正津津有味地吃着一碗面，一同吃早饭的还有她的姐姐 (或妹妹) 一家、父母、外甥与五岁的儿子。陈女士来自中国东部的徐州，这是她第一次来三亚，她说想多一些这样的度假。
Her husband's income as a civil servant has increased in recent years, and so has their interest in travel. They aim to take one long vacation a year, especially since they see it as important for their child.	她的丈夫是公务员，近年来收入有了增长，两人对旅游的兴趣也随之增加。他们计划每年做一次长途旅游，特别是他们觉得这对于儿子来说很重要。
"I think travel should broaden his horizons," she said.	"我觉得旅游能让他开阔视野，"她说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160928/chinese-tourists-pump-cash-into-a-hot-destination-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20160928/chinese-tourists-pump-cash-into-a-hot-destination-china
China Manipulates Its Currency, but Not in the Way Trump Claims	特朗普说中国让人民币贬值，事实正相反
HONG KONG — In Monday's presidential debate, Donald Trump repeated one of his frequent criticisms of China: It keeps its currency	香港——在上周一的大选辩论中，唐纳德·特朗普(Donald Trump)再一次老调重弹，指责中国人为地压低人民币汇率。

artificially cheap.
Of all the countries in the world, he said, China is “the best ever” at devaluing its currency, the renminbi. That gives its companies a big — and unfair — advantage when selling its goods abroad, the argument goes.	他说，把全世界所有国家都算上，中国是“有史以来最善于”让本国货币——人民币——贬值的。据他所说，这让中国公司在把商品销往海外时获得了巨大的并且是不公平的优势。
That’s no longer quite the case. Nowadays, China faces the opposite problem: It is shoring up its currency while the rest of the world is trying to push it down.	事实已经并非如此了。眼下，中国面临着截然相反的问题：它正在外界竭力打压人民币之际为其提供支撑。
That change speaks to an enormous shift in China’s economic fortunes and to its position in the world. Not long ago, it was still an up-and-coming country looking for ways to nurture an economic boom that was lifting millions of people out of poverty.	这种变化反映了中国经济状况的巨大转变以及它在世界上的位置。不久前，它还是一个想方设法促进经济繁荣，让无数国人摆脱贫困的新兴国家。
Today, China is a world power with ambitions to call more of the shots in world economic affairs. Beijing is no longer content to cede that role to the likes of Brussels, London, Tokyo and Washington.	如今，中国已经成为世界性大国，雄心勃勃地想要在世界经济事务中享有更多决策权。北京不愿再把相关权力拱手让给布鲁塞尔、伦敦、东京、华盛顿等地。
With that shift in attitude comes a change in the way China thinks about its money. A decade ago, China saw its currency as merely a tool to help its factories sell goods. That meant keeping it weak.	随着其态度发生这样的转变，中国看待本国货币的角度也变了。10年前，中国只把人民币视为帮助本国工厂销售产品的工具。那意味着要让它维持弱势。
Now, China sees the renminbi as an instrument of its growing power. If more people around the world hold renminbi in their wallets, the thinking goes, then China will have greater say in the decisions they make. Someday, Beijing hopes, the renminbi may even rival the dollar as the world’s de facto currency.	现在，中国把人民币视为增强自身影响力的工具。其想法是：如果在世界各地有更多人把人民币塞进钱包，那他们在做决策时就会更多地受到中国的影响。北京甚至希望，人民币有朝一日能作为实际上的世界性货币与美元分庭抗礼。
With that in mind, China has moved in recent years to make the renminbi more appealing. On Saturday, when the International	有了这层考虑，中国近年来采取了一些让人民币更具吸引力的举措。国际货币基金组织(International Monetary Fund)在不久前正式把人民币加入特别

Monetary Fund is set to formally add the renminbi to its basket of reserve currencies, a move that will lump it in with the dollar, the pound, the euro and the yen, it will take another step in that direction.	提款权货币篮子——人民币将由此跻身美元、英镑、欧元和日元的行列——是中国朝那个方向迈出的又一步。
But in the year since the monetary fund first said it would bestow that status on the renminbi, the Chinese currency has become less attractive. Despite Mr. Trump's contention — which, like his assertions about Japan, harks back to another era — many economists say they believe the renminbi is overvalued, not undervalued.	但在这一年里，自从国际货币基金组织首次宣布将赋予人民币这种地位以来，中国货币已经变得不那么有吸引力了。尽管特朗普亮明了观点——和他对日本的想法一样，已经过时了——但许多经济学家都表示，他们认为人民币目前处于高估而非低估的状态。
Tony Gao, a senior at the University of Southern California, helped found a start-up called Easy Transfer three years ago. The company helps Chinese parents with children going to American schools exchange their renminbi for dollars. But business growth is down this year, he said, because many affluent Chinese have already changed their renminbi for dollars.	南加州大学(University of Southern California)大三学生高宇同(Tony Gao)三年前与人联手创办了初创企业易思汇(Easy Transfer)。该公司会帮助送子女去美国读书的中国父母把人民币兑换成美元。但他说，今年的业务增长有所放缓，因为很多富有的中国人已经把人民币换成美元了。
"A lot of them already have acknowledged this depreciation," Mr. Gao said, adding that he was thinking of switching his renminbi to dollars, too. "Now I'm actually on the edge."	"他们很多人都意识到了这种贬值的趋势，"高宇同说他自己也在考虑把手里的人民币换成美元。"我现在就在决策的门槛上。"
Currency 101	货币的常识
The situation with the renminbi:	人民币的处境是这样的：
Under the traditional rules of economics, the value of a country's currency will go up if the world moves more money there. That is what should have happened in China. People around the world poured money into the country as they bought its products and as companies built factories and invested in China's growth.	按照传统的经济规则，当人们把更多的钱转移到一个国家的时候，该国货币便会升值。中国本应出现这种情况。当人们购买中国的商品，企业在中国投资建厂、押注于该国经济增长的时候，曾有大把的钱撒向那里。
Instead, China largely kept its currency at a steady value compared with	然而，中国基本让人民币对美元汇率保持了稳定。这在某种程度上造成了中

the dollar. That contributed to imbalances in the country, but it kept the renminbi weak.	国经济的失衡，但它此前一直让人民币处于疲软状态。
For China's manufacturers, a weak currency is ideal. If the renminbi is at, say, eight to the dollar, then a $100 widget translates into an 800 renminbi sale. At a stronger seven renminbi to the dollar, that same $100 widget generates only 700 renminbi in sales.	对中国制造商而言，疲软的货币是好事。举个例子，如果1美元可兑换8人民币，那么卖出100美元的小商品就可以有800人民币的销售收入。如果人民币走强，1美元只能兑换7人民币，那么同样是卖出100美元的小商品，只能产生700人民币的销售收入。
That is not ideal for the American factories that compete with Chinese rivals. In previous years, China's currency policy angered American lawmakers and took center stage in the United States' dealings with China.	但对那些与中国对手竞争的美国工厂而言，这就不是好事了。前些年，中国的货币政策触怒了美国的议员，成为了美国对华事务的核心议题。
What Changed?	什么改变了？
For starters, China's growth rate slowed, and the flow of money into the country moderated. Both factors have led economists to say that the renminbi might be fairly valued, or even overvalued. The verdict, for many investors: China's currency is poised to weaken.	首先，中国增速放缓，且进入该国的资金流减弱。这两个因素促使一些经济学家表示，人民币的价值可能是合理的，甚至被高估了。对很多投资人来说结论便是：中国的货币即将走弱。
There are other forces at work. China has taken steps over the past few years to relax its hold on the renminbi. That makes it easier for banks and merchants abroad to save the renminbi or to use it in transactions. Manufacturing has also declined as a major growth driver in the country's economy, as the government pushes to build its growing consumer and high-tech sectors.	还有其他力量在发挥作用。过去几年里，中国采取多项措施，意在放松对人民币的控制。这降低了海外银行和商户储蓄人民币或在交易中使用人民币的难度。随着政府推动建设该国规模渐长的消费和高科技行业，作为中国经济主要增长动力的制造业也出现了下滑。
Since August of last year, when Beijing surprised global markets with a one-time devaluation of its currency, investors have been broadly seeking to unload their renminbi in favor of dollars.	去年8月，北京让人民币一次性贬值，震惊全球市场。自那时以来，投资者普遍寻求抛售人民币，换取美元。
In Hong Kong, the biggest offshore center for renminbi banking,	在最大的人民币银行业务离岸中心香港，人民币存款在2014年12月达到

deposits of the Chinese currency peaked in December 2014 and have since fallen by a third.	巅峰，现在和那时相比已减少三分之一。
For five years since 2010, the renminbi had made small but progressive gains as a global payment currency, as measured by transactions processed on the Swift global payment system. But that usage crested in August 2015 at 2.8 percent of transactions, and it has declined steadily since then, to 1.9 percent in August.	用通过环球银行金融电信协会(Swift)全球支付系统处理的交易来衡量，在从2010年开始的五年时间里，人民币作为全球支付货币的作用逐步小幅提升。但这一功能在2015年8月达到峰值，使用人民币支付的交易比例达2.8%。之后，这个数字逐步下滑至今年8月的1.9%。
China has spent hundreds of billions of dollars from its foreign reserves over the past year to support the value of the renminbi and to prevent it from weakening more drastically. A sharp fall could lead even more people to find ways to convert their renminbi into other currencies, resulting in an exodus of money from the country. More broadly, it could undermine Beijing's case that the renminbi is worth holding.	过去一年里，为了支持人民币的价值并防止其更加剧烈地贬值，中国花了数千亿美元的外汇储备。外汇储备急剧下跌可能会导致更多人设法将持有的人民币兑换成其他货币，造成资本外流。在更广泛的层面上，这对力求证明人民币值得持有的北京是不利的。
Under Pressure	压力之下
Even long-term supporters of the renminbi now seem to see the currency's pause as perhaps inevitable.	即便是人民币的长期支持者现在似乎也认为，它停止升值也许不可避免。
"It's been the strongest currency in the world for the last 10 years or so, and anything that strong should consolidate, should have a correction," said Jim Rogers, a Singapore-based investor who is well known for being bullish on China. "Is it a normal market correction or being jiggled? Maybe some of both," he added.	“它是过去大约10年里全世界最强劲的货币，任何强劲到这个地步的东西都需要固化，需要进行一次调整，”身在新加坡的投资人吉姆·罗杰斯(Jim Rogers)说。他因为看涨中国而声名远扬。“是正常的市场调整还是动荡？可能都有一些，”他接着说。
Mr. Rogers, who made his name in the 1970s as a co-founder of the Quantum Fund with George Soros, said he retained a positive long-term view of the Chinese currency. But he said the renminbi could continue to come under selling pressure in the next year or so, as	罗杰斯因在70年代和乔治·索罗斯(George Soros)共同创立量子基金(Quantum fund)而成名。他表示从长远来看，自己仍对人民币持乐观态度。但他说，在未来的大约一年里，随着投资者纷纷认为美元较为安全，人民币可能仍会面临抛售压力。 investors flock to the perceived safety of the dollar.

Some of the renminbi's declines, Mr. Rogers added, were "a self-fulfilling prophecy."	罗杰斯接着表示，人民币贬值在一定程度上“是个自证预言”。
"Because it's not convertible, people feel trapped and want to get out," he said.	“因为不可兑换，人们觉得被困住了，都想出去，”他说。
Longer term, despite the I.M.F.'s planned move, few expect the renminbi to rival the dollar as a haven, or even as a significant reserve currency, unless China pushes forward with dramatic legal and financial changes.	从长远来看，尽管 IMF 计划采取相关行动，但鲜有人认为人民币会成为能够与美元相媲美的避风港，甚至是重要的储备货币，除非中国推进巨大的法律和金融变革。
Inclusion in the monetary fund's basket is "a symbolically momentous event but is unlikely by itself to be a game changer in global finance," said Eswar S. Prasad, a professor at Cornell University and a former top I.M.F. official for China. He is also the author of a book called "Gaining Currency: The Rise of the Renminbi."	将其纳入货币基金组织的储备货币篮子是“一件象征意义重大的事情，但它本身不太可能改变全球金融的格局，”康奈尔大学(Cornell University)教授、前 IMF 中国部门高官埃斯瓦尔·S·普拉萨德(Eswar S. Prasad)说。他还是《不断升值的货币——人民币的崛起》(Gaining Currency: The Rise of the Renminbi)的作者。
"Notwithstanding the I.M.F.'s imprimatur, the renminbi will not become a significant reserve currency unless China has better-developed and well-regulated financial markets," Mr. Prasad added.	“尽管获得了 IMF 的正式批准，但人民币不会成为重要的储备货币，除非中国能有一个更发达的、监管良好的金融市场，”普拉萨德接着说。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161009/china-trump-yuan-devaluation	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161009/china-trump-yuan-devaluation
Snooping in the Bathroom to Assess Credit Risk in China	从卫生间看你的借贷偿还能力
KUNSHAN, China — Banks and other lenders typically look at borrowers' credit histories, tax forms and other financial information to determine whether they will get paid back. In China, lenders also look at their bathrooms.	中国昆山——银行等贷款机构通常会考察借方的信用记录、税务报表以及其他财务信息，以便确认他们是否具有偿还能力。在中国，贷方还会查看他们的卫生间。
Lenders have to be creative. As the economy slows, the government wants to nurture a credit culture to get Chinese families spending	贷方必须具备创新精神。随着经济放缓，政府想要培育一种信用文化，推动中国家庭多消费，而不是多储蓄。

instead of saving.
But judging creditworthiness is tricky in a country where cash reigns, fraud is rife and even the most basic details can be difficult to verify. Despite China's size and wealth, most people have never taken out a mortgage or used a credit card, so lenders often have little reliable information about potential borrowers.	但在一个现金占据主导、欺诈屡见不鲜，甚至连最基本的细节也难以核实的国度里，判断信用可靠度是一项棘手的工作。尽管中国是一个拥有许多财富的大国，但大多数人从未获得过抵押贷款或者使用过信用卡，因此贷方手上基本没有关于潜在借款者的可靠信息。
To fill the gaps, one upstart lender, China Rapid Finance, supplements data analysis with on-the-ground spade work. The company's investigators, in more than 90 cities, check for the number of toothbrushes or towels to determine how many people are living in a house. They look for dirty dishes in the kitchen. They take photos of a potential borrower at work to confirm employment status.	为了填补这一空白，信贷界新晋企业信而富(China Rapid Finance)以实地调查作为数据分析的补充。该公司遍布 90 多个城市的调查人员，会通过牙刷或者毛巾的数量来确定一套房子里住着多少人。他们会进厨房寻找脏盘子。会为潜在借款者拍摄工作照，以确认其就业状况。
A growing number of companies are trying to crack the credit code in China. The internet giants Alibaba, Tencent and Baidu are developing credit scoring systems based on users' online transactions and search histories. Another niche lender, Jubao Internet Technology, plugs dozens of variables into its proprietary credit formula, including whether borrowers use their social media accounts to connect with celebrities.	在中国，竭力破解信用密码的公司日益增多。互联网巨头阿里巴巴、腾讯和百度正在研发以用户的线上交易和搜索历史记录为基础的信用评分系统。另一家专注利基市场的信贷机构聚宝汇把数十种变量纳入了其专有的信用公式，其中包括借方是否会用自己的社交媒体账号与名人交流。
"This is probably the largest untapped consumer finance market globally," said the founder and chief executive of China Rapid Finance, Zane Wang, who spent years as the head of analytics at the credit arm of Sears, the American retailer.	"这或许是全球最大的有待开发的消费金融市场，"信而富创始人兼首席执行官王征宇说。他曾在美国零售商希尔斯公司(Sears)的信用卡部门当过多年的分析主管。
Getting credit right is crucial to China's economic plans. The government is trying to bolster consumer spending to help offset the	用好信贷对中国的经济规划而言至关重要。以前曾为中国崛起提供动力的传统重工业陡然出现滑坡，政府正竭力拉升消费支出，以抵消其影响。中国需

sharp decline in the smokestack industries that previously helped power the country's ascent. China will need to increase the use of credit to make it easier to spend, while at the same time avoiding the pitfalls that come with too much debt.	要加大对信贷的利用力度, 好让消费变得更加便利, 同时又要避免掉进负债过多的陷阱。
Shifting generational dynamics will play a big role, as China's millennials are much more likely to use credit than their scrimping and saving parents. But lenders will also need to put the right products in their hands.	代际转换态势将起到举足轻重的作用, 因为比起省吃俭用的父母, 中国的千禧一代利用信贷的可能性要大得多。但贷方也需要向他们奉上适当的产品。
While the country's wealth has swelled, the financial system has not kept pace.	尽管中国的财富在增长, 但其金融系统并未保持同步。
Most consumers lack access to credit cards, loans and other traditional products offered by banks. The World Bank estimates that 79 percent of China's population above the age of 15 have bank accounts, while only 10 percent have ever borrowed from the formal financial system.	大多数消费者都缺乏获得信用卡、贷款或者银行提供的其他传统产品的途径。世界银行(World Bank)估计, 15 岁以上的中国人里, 拥有银行账户的占 79%, 但从正规的金融系统中借过钱的只有 10%。
China's banks have a modest consumer lending business. But they typically favor making loans to big state-owned companies.	中国各银行的消费信贷业务不温不火。但它们通常乐于为大型国有企业提供贷款。
Instead, online lenders are emerging as the pioneers, catering to China's rising consumer class. Alibaba's financial affiliate makes small loans to online shoppers and vendors on its e-commerce platforms. JD.com offers loans for small purchases and education-related expenses. Peer-to-peer lenders match investors with consumers, small businesses and other borrowers.	相反, 网络信贷机构正以先锋的姿态冒出头来, 迎合中国日益壮大的消费阶层的需求。阿里巴巴的金融子公司为其电子商务平台上的买家和卖家提供小额贷款。京东商城向小额购买以及与教育相关的支出提供贷款。个人对个人信贷机构把投资者与消费者、小企业以及其他借款者匹配起来。
They are trying to attract the next generation of spenders like Mao Yiting, a researcher at the local antiquities bureau in the coastal city of Haining.	它们正想方设法地吸引新一代借款者, 沿海城市海宁当地文物保护管理机构的研究人员茅奕婷就是它们的目标之一。

Ms. Mao, 27, has never had a credit card or taken out a loan. But she regularly borrows small amounts of just over $90 from Huabei, a consumer lending business started by the Alibaba affiliate Ant Financial. She uses the money to pay for online purchases like books, dog food, or ingredients for the dessert recipes she likes to cook.	27 岁的茅奕婷从未办过信用卡或者向银行申请过贷款。但她会定期通过花呗借得少量款项——只有 90 美元多一点。花呗是阿里巴巴的子公司蚂蚁金服推出的消费信贷业务。她用这笔钱在网上购买书籍、狗粮，或者购买食材做她爱做的甜点。
"I always pay the debt on Huabei on time," said Ms. Mao, who repays the money in installments. "It's more convenient than the credit cards issued by banks."	"我总是及时在蚂蚁花呗上还款。花呗比银行的信用卡方便多了。"会分期还款的茅奕婷说。
But online lending in China still has a Wild West aspect — for both the lender and the borrower.	但中国的网络信贷仍有蛮荒西部(Wild West)的一面——对放款者和借款者而言都是如此。
Peer-to-peer platforms have proved hugely popular in China, with outstanding loans of more than 600 billion renminbi ($90 billion), according to figures compiled by Moody's Investors Service and Wangdaizhijia. But the industry's reputation has been marred by scandal, like the collapse of Ezubao, which authorities called a $7.6 billion Ponzi scheme.	事实证明，个人对个人平台在中国极受欢迎，来自穆迪投资者服务公司(Moody's Investors Service)和网贷之家的数据显示，此类平台的未偿贷款额突破了 6000 亿人民币（约合 900 亿美元）。但这个行业的声誉却因 E 租宝倒台之类的丑闻而蒙羞。当局称，E 租宝制造了一个 76 亿美元的庞氏骗局。
After that, regulators have stepped up their oversight of online lenders, including setting caps on the amounts that can be borrowed. The regulators' tightening grip is "something like a shepherd gradually herding his sheep into an increasingly narrowing pen or chute," said Mark Natkin, the founder and managing director at Marbridge Consulting, based in Beijing.	那之后，监管机构加强了对网贷平台的监管，采取了设定贷款额度上限等举措。其收紧控制之举“有点儿像是牧羊人把羊群逐渐赶进越来越窄的羊栏或者溜道，”总部设在北京的迈博瑞咨询有限公司(Marbridge Consulting)的执行董事马克·纳特金(Mark Natkin)说道。
The lenders themselves are entering a financial black hole, with little to no credit history on potential borrowers.	至于借方自己，它们正进入一个金融黑洞，几乎不掌握潜在借款者的信用记录。
In the United States, the Big Three credit bureaus — Equifax, Experian	在美国，三大信评机构——Equifax、Experian 和 TransUnion——会收集借

and TransUnion — compile borrowing and repayment records to create so-called FICO scores. Financial institutions rely heavily on those scores to make lending decisions.	款和还款记录，给出所谓的 FICO 信用分数。金融机构在做贷款决策时极为依赖这些分数。
China lacks a direct equivalent. The central bank's main database includes personal credit history data on less than a third of the country's population.	中国缺乏与之直接对应的东西。央行的主数据库里只有该国不到三分之一人口的个人信用记录。
"Compared with the broad consumer base, there is still lots of room to go," said Paul Wang, a co-founder and the chief executive of Happyfi.com, a Shanghai start-up that guides online lenders on risk management.	"与庞大的消费群相比，还有很大的改进空间，"乐融金融(Happyfi.com)联合创始人兼首席执行官王文阳说。乐融金融是上海一家引导网络借贷机构进行风险管理的初创企业。
Without a more complete depository of information, the industry is finding new ways to build those histories.	由于没有更为完备的信息库，这个行业正在寻找建立信用记录的新方法。
WeLab, an online lender, uses data collected on mobile phones, with the permission of users, to automatically process hundreds of details about potential borrowers' habits, online and offline. When deciding whether to lend money, it becomes granular, like the time of a day a loan application is submitted. Those filed from 1 and 6 a.m. have a higher correlation with repayment default, according to Simon Loong, the founder and chief executive of WeLab.	网络贷款机构我来贷(WeLab)在得到用户允许的情况下，利用收集自手机的数据，自动处理潜在借款者线上线下各种习惯的大量详尽信息。在决定是否放贷的时候，它会更加注重各种细节，比如贷款申请是在一天中的哪个时段提交的。我来贷的创始人兼首席执行官龙沛智称，申请如果是在凌晨 1 点至早上 6 点之间提交的，还款违约的概率就会高一些。
"Getting efficient access to cheap lending is still a fundamental way of how people improve their quality of life," said Mr. Loong, a banking veteran whose start-up has backing from Li Ka-shing, the Hong Kong billionaire, and Sequoia, the Silicon Valley investor.	"拥有获得低廉信贷的有效途径，依然是人们提高生活品质的基本方法，"曾长期从事银行业的龙沛智说。他的初创企业获得了香港亿万富豪李嘉诚和硅谷红杉资本(Sequoia)的投资。
China Rapid Finance draws on transaction data and other records from dozens of internet companies, including Baidu and Tencent. The	信而富会利用来自百度、腾讯等数十家互联网企业的交易数据以及其他记录。该公司用自己的算法来处理这些原始数据，进而识别出潜在客户。 company feeds this raw data into its own algorithms to identify potential customers.

Based on that information, the company first gives out small, preapproved loans to build a credit history. China Rapid recently teamed up with Tencent's QQ messaging platform to offer loans of $75.	基于这些信息，信而富会发放预先批准的小额贷款，以便建立信用记录。它最近和腾讯的QQ通通信平台联手推出了限额为75美元（约合500元人民币）的信贷产品。
After a borrower repays several loans, the company then hands out bigger amounts. At that point, the company's investigators step into the mix to vet borrowers further.	一个借款者还过几次款以后，该公司会增加额度。届时，公司的调查人员就会加入进来，进一步审核借款者的情况。
One applicant, the company said, wanted to borrow 100,000 renminbi for 18 months at an annual interest rate of 2.89 percent. The applicant, a 28-year-old single man from Changchun, wanted the money to renovate his home.	该公司称，曾有一名申请者想要借10万元，期限为18个月，年利率为2.89%。这是一名28岁的单身男子，来自长春，想用这笔钱翻修自己的住房。
It did not pass muster. On inspection, the company found that the applicant had stayed at what he claimed was his residence for only three days. His stated employer had no record of him.	这份申请没能通过审核。该公司在审核时发现，这名申请者在其声称的自家住宅里刚刚住了三天。他口中的雇主那里也没有他的记录。
"We need to have a mechanism to check and verify," said Mr. Wang of China Rapid Finance. "We have to start somewhere."	"我们需要有一个核查机制，"信而富的王征宇说。"我们必须着手去做。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161011/snooping-in-the-bathroom-to-assess-credit-risk-in-china	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161011/snooping-in-the-bathroom-to-assess-credit-risk-in-china
China Property Boom Spurs Fear of Bubble's Burst	"史上最大的泡沫": 中国楼市暴涨引崩盘担忧
SHANGHAI — Zheng Ruizhen counted herself among the last holdouts on Lufeng Road.	上海——郑瑞珍（音）认为自己是陆丰路上最后的钉子户之一。
Even as high-rises sprang up in recent years to surround her dilapidated home, Ms. Zheng, a 50-year-old schoolteacher, and her husband, Sun Guojian, held firm. He grew up there. Her school was a 20-minute	尽管近些年她破旧的家周围涌现出很多高楼大厦，但50岁的学校教师郑瑞珍和丈夫孙国建（音译）还在坚守。孙在那里长大。郑的学校骑车20分即达。他们的儿子也在这里长大，虽然儿子现在已经长得很高，头都会擦到狭

bicycle ride away. They raised their son there, though he eventually grew so tall that his head grazed the ceiling of his cramped room. When city officials pushed them to sell, they said no.	小房间的天花板。市政官员催促他们卖房时，他们拒绝了。
Then came China's latest property bubble — a frothy surge in prices that could have global repercussions if it pops.	然后出现了中国最新的地产泡沫——价格飞涨产生的泡沫一旦破裂，会对全世界产生影响。
In August, an unremarkable piece of land around the corner from Ms. Zheng sold for nearly $2,000 a square foot, a national record and nearly three times the average land price in Manhattan. Local officials grew more insistent and threatened to tear down their bathroom.	今年8月，郑家附近一个很普通的地块以每平方英尺近2000美元的价格出售，打破了全国记录，几乎是曼哈顿平均地价的三倍。地方官员更加急切，威胁要拆除他们家的卫生间。
Finally, they relented, and Ms. Zheng's husband signed away the home for a price to be determined later. Then, on Oct. 9, Mr. Sun died of a heart attack, something Ms. Zheng said was perhaps influenced by stress over the pending demolition of their home.	他们最终妥协，郑的丈夫签字放弃这个房子，价格待定。10月9日，孙因心脏病发作去世，郑说可能是受到住房即将被拆除的压力影响。
Now, as she grieves, she is waiting to hear how much the Shanghai government will offer in compensation — but however much that is, she knows it will not be enough for her to be able to afford to live anywhere close to Lufeng Road.	现在，悲伤的她还在等待上海市政府的补偿价格——但她知道不管补多少，都不够她在陆丰路附近买个房子。
Said Ms. Zheng: "I never expected housing prices in Shanghai would get this high."	郑说：“我从没想到上海的房价会变得这么高。”
China is in the midst of a dizzying housing bubble. Shanghai's average housing price is up nearly one-third from a year ago, with prices in major cities like Beijing and Guangzhou not far behind. Chinese consumers are rushing to buy homes before the government steps in with restrictions.	中国正处于令人头晕目眩的房价泡沫之中。上海的平均房价比一年前上涨了近三分之一。北京和广州等大城市的房价相去不远。中国消费者正在政府介入并采取限制措施之前争相买房。
When rumors swept through Shanghai that the government would	当上海谣传政府将要求房主在购买额外房产时缴纳更多税款和首付款时，很

require homeowners to pay more in taxes and down payments to buy additional properties, many couples filed for divorce so that one partner could still be treated as an independent buyer.	多夫妻申请离婚，以便一方能够仍被当作独立购房者对待。
China has experienced housing booms and busts before. And fervor for real estate among the wealthiest Chinese has already spread far beyond the country's borders, from Long Island mansions to disused ranches in Texas — many to get their money out of the country.	中国经历过房地产繁荣和崩溃。中国最富有人群对房地产的狂热已蔓延至国外，从长岛(Long Island)的住宅到德克萨斯州废弃的农场——很多是为了把钱转移到国外。
But economists warn that the current boom on the Chinese mainland could be extra difficult to resolve: It comes with a growing amount of American-style debt.	不过经济学家们警告称，中国大陆目前的房价暴涨解决起来可能会特别困难：它伴随着越来越多的美国式债务。
Long-term household loans — mostly mortgages — have doubled as a share of total official bank lending this year. They accounted for about 40 percent of all new loans in August, contrasted with just 20 percent at the start of the year. The value of new home loans as a percentage of all housing sales has surged to a record high.	今年，长期房贷——大多是抵押贷款——占全部官方银行贷款的比例翻了一番。今年8月，房贷占全部新贷款的比例约为40%，而年初仅为20%。新房贷的价值占全部住房销售额的比例暴涨至历史新高。
The loans — largely a byproduct of a flood of Chinese lending to keep the economy growing — are helping the affluent, the middle class and low earners who have dreamed of owning a home, while investors and speculators are piling in, too. Underground lenders — those who operate outside the formal banking system using a variety of new platforms — are also helping to feed the boom.	这些贷款大多是中国为保持经济增长而出现的贷款狂潮的副产品，它们正在帮助富人、中产阶级、以及梦想拥有一套房子的低收入人群，不过投资者和投机者也在涌入。地下放债者，也就是利用各种新平台，在正式银行系统之外运作的人，也助长了这次暴涨。
Last month, economists at the Bank of China warned in a report that worsening asset price bubbles were adding to a frothy market that could result in trouble. The day before, Wang Jianlin, a politically connected property and entertainment magnate who is one of the	上个月，中国银行的经济学家在一份报告中警告称，日益恶化的资产价格泡沫正在促进一个有泡沫的市场，可能会导致麻烦。之前一天，有政治背景的地产和娱乐业大亨、中国富豪王健林对 CNN 表示，中国地产是“史上最大的泡沫”。

country's richest people, told CNN that China property was "the biggest bubble in history."
That could be bad news for the global economy. Many economists estimate that housing and related areas — like construction, cement manufacturing or furniture making — account for roughly one-fifth of China's economic activity. But if the bubble pops, that support could disappear quickly.	那对全球经济可能是坏消息。很多经济学家估计，房地产及相关领域——比如建筑业、水泥生产或家具制造——占中国经济活动的约五分之一。如果这个泡沫破裂，这个支柱可能会很快消失。
Chinese officials, apparently mindful of the 2008 American housing bust, appear to be aware of the risks of a debt-fueled property bubble. But some economists worry they will be too slow to rein it in.	中国官员显然记得美国 2008 年的房地产崩盘，似乎也意识到了债务高筑的地产泡沫的风险。不过，有些经济学家担心，等他们试图控制，可能会为时已晚。
"The risk is that the government is late in cooling the market, the rally spreads to more areas, pushing up household leverage and construction activity, pushing the bubble bigger, which is then followed by a bigger downward correction," said Tao Wang, the head of China economics at UBS in Hong Kong.	"风险在于，中国政府给可能太晚才给市场降温，房地产上涨会扩展至更多领域，推动居民负债和建设活动，催生更大的泡沫，随后出现更大力度的下行纠正，"瑞银集团(UBS)驻香港的首席中国经济学家汪涛称。
Local regulators are already trying to cool things down. In the last few weeks, local authorities have accelerated efforts to tighten housing markets in up to 20 Chinese cities, according to economists at China International Capital Corporation, an investment bank.	地方监管机构已经在努力给楼市降温。据投资银行中国国际金融公司的经济学家称，在过去几周里，地方当局在多达 20 个城市加快了收紧住房市场的行动。
But in many cases these steps have only added to the rush, as home buyers move in while they can.	不过，在很多情况下，这些行动只是助长了购房热，因为买家想在政策允许时赶快出手。
By her account, Zhang Xia and her husband have enjoyed a happy marriage. Then the rumor swept the city that Shanghai authorities would make it harder for couples with one home to buy more.	据张霞（音译）称，她和丈夫婚姻幸福。然后整个城市都在谣传，上海市当局将增加已有一套住房的夫妻购买更多房产的难度。
On a recent Monday, Ms. Zhang, a 40-year-old resident of Shanghai's	前不久的一个周一，家住上海黄浦区的 40 岁的张和丈夫在当地一个婚姻登

Huangpu area, and her husband sat waiting at a local marriage registry office to file for divorce. Shanghai officials continue to deny that they will limit house buying by couples, but Ms. Zhang is among many who do not believe them.	记处等待申请离婚。上海市官员继续否认他们将限制夫妻购房，不过张和其他很多人一样，不相信官员们的话。
"We know the government said this is a rumor, but they also said that a few times before, when the rumor actually came true," Ms. Zhang said. "Some people even said the fact that the government said it's a rumor means it's going to be true."	"我们知道政府在辟谣，但是以前他们也辟过几次谣，后来谣言都成真了，"张说，"有些人甚至说，政府辟谣就说明肯定会发生。"
Shanghai, China's financial capital, is at the heart of the property boom. Demand there is so intense that developers now commonly require sizable deposits of cash just to join a lottery to buy a new apartment. Only holders of winning numbers will be offered the chance to buy a unit. One flashy new development in central Shanghai charges a refundable 200,000 renminbi, or $30,000, to enter its lottery.	中国的金融中心上海处于这次地产暴涨的中心。这里的需求非常旺盛，现在开发商通常要求购房者支付一大笔现金订金，才能参与摇号，购买新房。只有摇到号的人才有机会买一套房。上海市中心一个奢华的新楼盘要求购房者支付可退还的20万人民币订金才能参与摇号。
"In Shanghai now," said Wang Jie, a sales manager there, "it's not like you can buy an apartment just because you have money."	"现在在上海，"当地的一名销售经理王杰（音）称，"不是有钱就能买到房。"
Back on Lufeng Road, the recently widowed Ms. Zheng and her neighbors try to go about their lives despite the boom going on around them. Men and women play mah-jongg near a half-demolished house, one of a number of dwellings along the road in various states of disassembly, like a row of rotting teeth. Stray dogs sunbathe and alley cats hunt around piles of red bricks and wooden beams scattered on the street.	在陆丰路，新近丧偶的郑和邻居们努力继续自己的生活，尽管周围的地产在暴涨。男人和女人们在一所被拆了一半的房子附近打麻将。沿路还有很多住宅，处于不同的拆除阶段，就像一排腐坏的牙齿。流浪狗在晒太阳，野猫在一堆堆红砖周围觅食，木梁散落在街上。
In recent months, local officials hung red propaganda banners on people's housing extolling the benefits of selling out. "No more	近几个月，当地官员在人们的房子上挂起红幅，宣传卖房的益处。"不要再犹豫，不会再失望，"其中一道红幅上写道。另一道上写着："征收政策有法

hesitation means no more disappointment," reads one. Says another: "Requisition and compensation are lawful. Smart alecks will regret it later."	度，自作聪明后悔迟。"
"Look at those banners," Ms. Zheng said, shaking her head. "It's almost like the Cultural Revolution once again."	"看看那些红幅，"郑摇摇头说，"就像文革又来了。"
Earlier, local officials told Ms. Zheng that the land where her home stands would be used to build supporting facilities for the next-door complex of high-rises built by China Vanke, the country's largest property developer.	之前，当地官员对郑说，她家所在的那块地将被用于为旁边的高楼群建配套设施。那些楼是中国最大的地产开发商万科建造的。
"They said that when people who live in the high-rises in Vanke look down, the view from their windows is our ugly roofs," she said. "So they have to get rid of us."	"他们说，住在万科高楼上的人往下看，看到的就是我们这些难看的屋顶，"她说，"所以他们必须把我们赶走。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161017/china-home-price-bubble	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161017/china-home-price-bubble
As China Shifts From Exporter to Importer, Fortunes Change	没落的大庆：中国国有石油公司陷入生存困境
BEIJING — Zhou Bo was a born oilman.	北京——周波（音）生来就是一名石油人。
His parents work for a state oil company in the northeastern Chinese city of Daqing, and during at least one summer break when he was a child, he tagged along with his father, an oil engineer, on an exploration mission. Humming oil pumps stood near his school's playground, and propaganda posters stressing steady production were ubiquitous. By the age of 10, he could reel off the complicated crude extraction process.	他的父母在中国东北部城市大庆的一家国有石油公司工作。小时候，他至少有一个暑假是跟着当石油工程师的父亲在执行勘探任务的过程中度过的。上学时，学校操场旁边矗立着嗡嗡作响的油泵，强调稳定产量的宣传海报随处可见。10岁时，他已经能一口气说出复杂的原油提炼过程了。
Now 22, Mr. Zhou is finishing a bachelor's degree in applied chemistry at a university in nearby Harbin. His parents had hoped it would land him a job in the oil sector back home. But now, with domestic oil	如今，22岁的周波正在哈尔滨附近的一所大学攻读应用化学的学士学位，他即将毕业。父母本希望这能让他在老家的石油行业找到一份工作。但现在，随着国内石油产量下降，大庆油田的石油供应即将枯竭，他和父母正在重新

production declining and the Daqing oil field exhausting its supply, he and his parents are having second thoughts.	考虑这个问题。
"The oil field will perhaps support the livelihood of my parents' generation, but it can't keep pumping out oil forever," Mr. Zhou said. "Even my parents are telling me not to come back to find work."	"油田或许能维持我父母这一代的生计，但它不可能永远出油，"周波说。"我父母现在都让我不要回来找工作。"
Daqing is home to China's biggest oil field, and the city's troubles reflect a broader reality for the country: Once a major exporter of oil, China is now one of the world's biggest net oil importers. Fields like Daqing are aging and becoming more expensive to pump, and buying oil elsewhere is often cheaper – and necessary to keep up with rising demand.	大庆有中国最大的油田，该市的困境映射出了中国所面临的一个更大的现实：曾是主要石油出口国的中国，现在已是全球最大的石油净进口国之一。大庆等油田日渐老化，开采成本增加，而从其他地方购买石油往往更划算，而且要满足不断上升的需求的话也必须这么做。
The country is already the world's biggest auto market, and car sales continue to rise, driving gasoline sales higher. Demand for jet fuel is also strong as incomes advance and air travel becomes more affordable to a larger number of people.	中国已经成为了全球最大的汽车市场，而且汽车销量继续上升，从而推高了汽油销量。随着居民收入增加，越来越多的人负担得起乘飞机出行，对航油的需求也颇为强劲。
In many ways, Daqing epitomizes the changes.	在很多方面，大庆都体现出了这些变化。
A provincial leader named the city Daqing, which means big celebration in Chinese, after the discovery of the oil field there in 1959 created a swell of national exuberance.	大庆在中文里的意思是盛大的庆祝。1959年，那里发现了油田，令全国一片欢腾。之后，省里的一名领导给该市起名为大庆。
In the decades since, the youths of Daqing followed in the footsteps of their forefathers. Destined for jobs in the petroleum industry, they are often nicknamed "the children of the oil field."	在那之后的几十年里，大庆的年轻人追随着先辈的足迹。他们注定会在石油行业工作，经常被人称为“油田子弟”。
The workers were treated as national heroes, their stories widely celebrated in textbooks, plays and songs. The city itself became a national symbol of endurance and industrial advancement, with Mao	石油工人被当做民族英雄，他们的事迹出现在教科书、戏剧和歌曲中。大庆本身也成了毅力和工业进步的民族象征，毛泽东说过一句著名的话，“工业学大庆。”

Zedong famously declaring, "In industry, learn from Daqing."
And the city wants that legacy to live on.	大庆希望将这种遗产能流传下去。
Today, sleek oil museums stand to remind visitors of the glorious past, a former Chinese premier's calligraphy praising the Daqing spirit hangs in the city's petroleum university, and private tutoring schools post ads about courses tailored to job seekers in the oil industry.	如今，造型优美的石油博物馆让人想起了这座城市昔日的辉煌；该市的石油大学悬挂着一位中国前总理称赞大庆精神的题词；私人辅导学校的广告上列着专门针对想在石油行业找工作的人的课程。
But with oil prices at less than half of their multiyear peaks, Daqing's oil boom has largely turned to dust.	但随着油价不到其持续多年的巅峰水平的一半，大庆的石油繁荣已经大半烟消云散了。
The oil field's production peaked about 20 years ago and has since been in a slow decline. The China National Petroleum Corporation, the Chinese oil company that runs the field, reported a 98 percent drop in net profit in the first half of the year compared with a year ago.	大庆油田的产量在大约 20 年前达到巅峰水平，之后慢慢下降。经营该油田的中国石油天然气集团公司通报称，今年上半年的净利润同比下降 98%。
The company said it was its "toughest time since going public." Other significant Chinese oil companies have recorded losses during the same period.	该公司称这是其“上市以来最困难的时期”。中国其他的大石油公司同期也出现了亏损。
More broadly, the country's crude production fell 4.8 percent in the first six months of 2016 compared with the first half of last year, according to the National Development and Reform Commission, China's economic planning body.	在更广泛的层面上，据中国的经济规划机构国家发展和改革委员会称，2016 年上半年，中国原油产量同比下降 4.8%。
At Daqing in particular, the situation is dire.	特别是在大庆，形势变得非常严峻。
Jiang Wanchun, who was then the oil field's party secretary and its most senior official, presented a dismal report card in March when he met with Chinese President Xi Jinping in Beijing: The oil field had suffered substantial losses, which he blamed on low global crude prices and high production costs, according to a transcript of the exchange	一家政府新闻网站上发布的交谈文字记录显示，时任大庆油田党委书记（该油田级别最高官员）的姜万春 3 月在北京见到中国国家主席习近平时，交出了一份惨淡的成绩单：大庆油田亏损惨重。姜万春认为，巨亏的原因是全球原油价格低迷，生产成本高。 posted on a government-run news website.

In just the first two months of the year, the field had lost more than 5 billion renminbi, or around $750 million, Mr. Jiang said, and production costs were almost equal to prices on global markets, leaving a razor-thin profit margin.	姜万春称仅在今年头两个月，油田的亏损便超过 50 亿元人民币，并表示生产成本几乎和全球市场上的油价相当，导致利润空间非常小。
If current levels of oil output were maintained, the field would be completely depleted in about five years. Energy Aspects, a market research firm based in London, predicted that output at Daqing would decline 7.2 percent this year, its fastest pace in the last 20 years.	如果保持当前的产油水平，大庆油田大约五年后便会彻底枯竭。总部设在伦敦的市场研究公司 Energy Aspects 预计，今年大庆的石油产量将下降 7.2%，是过去 20 年里的最大跌幅。
And with oil revenues responsible for about half of Daqing's economy, that poor performance has hit hard. The city's gross domestic product contracted 2.3 percent last year, its first fall in economic growth in 30 years, the state-run China News Service reported, citing government data.	大庆的经济大约一半依靠石油收入，在这种情况下，油田表现不佳给大庆的经济造成了严重的打击。官方的中国新闻社援引政府数据称，大庆去年的国内生产总值缩水 30%，这是该市 30 年来经济增长首次出现下滑。
A spokesman for Daqing oil field declined to comment.	大庆油田的一名发言人拒绝置评。
To make up for the falling domestic production, China has stepped up crude imports to unprecedented levels.	为了弥补不断下跌的国内产量，中国将原油进口的规模提高到了前所未有的水平。
Imports of crude rose 14 percent in the first half of the year compared with the period in 2015, according to customs data, pushing China's oil foreign dependency rate to a high of 64 percent.	海关数据显示，今年上半年原油进口量同比增长 14%，使得中国对外国石油的依存度高达 64%。
Those purchases have largely been driven by a group of private refiners who were granted crude import quotas last year. The move was part of Beijing's efforts to dilute the monopoly on the market held by state-owned energy companies.	这些交易主要是一批私人炼油厂所驱动。它们在去年获得了原油进口配额。此举是北京为了削弱国有能源公司对市场的垄断而采取的多项措施之一。
These refiners — known as teapots because of their small size — had	因为规模小，这些炼油厂被称作茶壶炼油厂。由于市场份额有限，它们一直

been struggling because of limited market share, but with the crude import licenses, they quickly capitalized on low global oil prices. Having access to higher quality crude also meant they could compete with the state-owned behemoths on a more equal footing.	举步维艰，但有了原油进口许可后，它们马上开始利用低廉的全球油价。能获得更优质的原油也意味着它们能够更平等地与国有巨头竞争。
The rise of the teapots has had consequences domestically and further afield.	茶壶炼油厂的崛起对国内外都有影响。
Global oil producers could benefit because they would have new ways to access the Chinese market, according to Michal Meidan, an analyst at Energy Aspects.	Energy Aspects 的分析师米夏尔·迈丹(Michal Meidan)表示，全球的石油生产商可能都会受益，因为他们有了进入中国市场的新途径。
"It's a boost to the global oil market because you have all these new buyers," she said.	"这是对全球石油市场的刺激，因为有了这些新买家，"她说。
And within China, the changes pile further pressure on already beleaguered state oil companies.	而在中国国内，这些变化加剧了原本就困难重重的国有石油公司的压力。
For the Zhou family, that means a life built around the Daqing oil field may no longer be viable, and soon the phrase "the children of the oil field" will be a thing of the past.	对周波一家来说，这意味着以大庆油田为中心的生活可能无法再继续下去了，“石油子弟”这个说法很快也将成为历史。
Mr. Zhou says his parents' salaries have already been cut in half, and when he graduates from university, he is considering jobs at internet companies in Shanghai, about 1,400 miles from home.	周波说，他父母的工资已经减少了一半。他正在考虑大学毕业后去距离老家大约 1400 英里（约合 2250 公里）的上海，在那里的互联网公司找份工作。
"My grandfather joined the struggle to discover oil back in the day," Mr. Zhou said. "He has now passed away, but he would never have thought it would come to this one day."	"我爷爷参加了当年的（石油）会战，"周波说。"他已经过世了，但他永远不会想到今天这样。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161019/as-china-shifts-from-exporter-to-importer-fortunes-change	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161019/as-china-shifts-from-exporter-to-importer-fortunes-change
As China's Economy Slows, a Look at What Could Happen	预测：中国经济困境的 3 种结局

HONG KONG – China’s economy is slowing. How bad can it get?	香港——中国经济增长正在放缓。情况能有多糟？
China is widely expected to report on Wednesday that its economy grew about 6.7 percent in the third quarter from a year ago. That would match the growth pace China set in the first and second quarters of this year. In economics, stability like that is remarkable – and usually not to be believed.	业界普遍预期中国本周三将宣布第三季度经济同比增长约 6.7%。这和中国今年第一、第二季度的增速持平。在经济学中，这样稳定的增速很值得注意——人们通常也不会相信。
Economists often look beyond the official numbers to find alternative ways to gauge the Chinese economy. Other figures and facts on the ground suggest that a lending binge that China has unleashed in recent months is helping to sustain growth.	经济学家常常把目光放在官方数字之外，寻找其他方法来衡量中国经济。其他相关数字和事实表明，中国近几个月放出的大量贷款有助于维持增长。
But by historical standards, China’s growth is slowing down. This year’s growth is set to come in at a pace slower than last year’s, which was already the weakest pace in 25 years.	但以历史标准来看，中国的增长正在放缓。今年的增速肯定会比去年慢，去年是 25 年来最为低迷的一年。
“China’s growth has already slowed down dramatically from the heady rates before the financial crisis,” said Diana Choyleva, chief economist at Enodo Economics. “The economy has reached the end of the road when it comes to its export- and investment-led growth model.”	“中国的增长已经从金融危机前的高速度显著放缓，”伊诺多经济公司(Enodo Economics)的首席经济学家戴安娜·乔伊利瓦(Diana Choyleva)说。“从出口和投资拉动型增长模式的角度来看，中国经济已经走到了尽头。”
That is a major concern for central banks, economists, investors and corporate executives around the world, as China has been a major engine of growth for decades. Their main question: What happens next?	这是全球各地中央银行、经济学家、投资者和企业高管关注的大事，因为在过去几十年来，中国一直是经济增长的一个主要引擎。他们的主要疑问是：接下来会发生什么事？
Below are three situations that are often discussed as the most likely outcomes of China’s predicament – and what each would mean for the rest of the world.	以下三种情况，常常被视为中国困境最有可能的后果，以及每一种对世界其他地方产生的影响。
Financial Meltdown	金融灾难

China escaped the worst of the 2008 global financial crisis by starting a campaign of state-directed spending that created mountains of new debt. This helped cushion the blow of the fallout around the world. But critics argue that this only delayed China's own day of reckoning.	在 2008 年全球金融危机中，中国通过启动一场由国家主导、产生大量新债务的支出活动而躲过了最严重的影响。这对缓解世界各地遭受的危机冲击起到了帮助作用。但批评者认为，它只会推迟中国自己品尝苦果的时间。
China is still adding credit at a heady pace, and experts are starting to sound alarm bells. Under this situation, China risks its own version of the 2008 crisis that shook Wall Street and plunged the United States into recession and years of painfully slow growth. The rest of the world – which is still dealing with Europe's woes – could follow.	中国仍然在以惊人的速度增加信用，专家纷纷对此发出警告。在这种情况下，中国有可能重蹈 2008 年金融危机的覆辙，那次危机沉重地打击了华尔街，令美国陷入衰退，经历了数年极为缓慢的增长。目前仍在应对欧洲麻烦的世界其他地方，可能也会跟着陷入危机。
Last month, the Bank for International Settlements published new data estimating that the gap between China's outstanding credit and its long-term economic growth rate had widened to a record and was well above the historical level that indicates a financial crisis is likely.	上个月，国际清算银行(Bank for International Settlements)公布了新数据，估算中国未偿还信贷与其长期经济增长率之间的差距已经刷新纪录，远远高于可能引发金融危机的历史水平。
Part of the problem lies in the rapid growth of what is known as shadow financing, like wealth management products, or other forms of nontraditional lending, which have been the focus of a number of prominent frauds. In a report this month, the International Monetary Fund warned that shadow loans average almost 300 percent of the capital buffers at China's smaller banks.	一部分问题在于“影子融资”的快速增长，比如理财产品或其他形式的非传统贷款，这已经成为了一系列重大欺诈案件的焦点。在本月的一份报告中，国际货币基金组织(IMF)警告说，影子贷款的平均数接近于中国小型银行的资本缓冲的 300%。
The sharp rise in debt prompted one I.M.F. official to warn this month of the risk of a financial "calamity" emanating from China.	鉴于这样的债务骤增，IMF 一名官员本月发出了中国有可能爆发金融“灾难”的警告。
The good news is that few people actually think such a crisis is the most likely outcome.	好消息是，真的认为这有可能导致金融危机的人并不多。
"The risks of a financial crisis remain very low," said Andy Rothman, an investment strategist at Matthews Asia, based in San Francisco.	旧金山的铭基亚洲(Matthews Asia)的投资策略师安迪·罗思曼(Andy Rothman)说，“中国发生金融危机的风险仍然很低。”

Mr. Rothman and others point to China's tight grip on its own financial system. It controls the country's big banks as well as the big companies that borrow the most. It also limits how much money can leave its borders and keeps a firm grip on the value of its currency.	罗思曼等人指出，中国对金融体系的控制力很强。它控制着本国大型银行以及借款最多的大公司，对流出本国的资金数量进行了限制，还一直掌控着人民币的价值。
The Good Times Return	回到好日子
So why can't China just spend its way out of its slowdown?	那么，中国为什么不能一直用增加支出的方式来应对经济放缓呢？
Optimists point to China's history of responding to economic challenges: the 2008 lending surge, an earlier bailout of the banking system and a painful restructuring of state-owned enterprises. This time, China could make progress with a plan to restructure debt while increasing spending on areas that could benefit its growing consumer class, like medical care and social services. That would be good news for a world economy looking for sparks.	乐观主义者提到了中国以往应对经济挑战的历史：2008年的贷款激增，对银行系统的早期救助，以及国有企业的痛苦重组。这一次，中国可以通过重组债务，并在那些可以为中国日益扩大的消费阶层带来好处的领域增加投资，来取得成效，比如医疗保健和各种社会福利事业。这对于正在寻求起色的全球经济来说，是一个好消息。
The problem is that China's debt burden is so much larger than ever before – both in absolute terms and compared with the economy.	问题是，中国的债务负担比以往任何时候都沉重得多——无论是在绝对数量上，还是相对于经济总量而言。
At the same time, recent efforts to support growth by increasing state spending have met with another challenge: The government is getting less bang for its buck.	与此同时，通过增加政府支出来保增长的努力近期也面临着另一个挑战：政府支出的效果越来越差。
What's more, private companies, put off by the lackluster economic outlook, have been pulling back on investment. State spending has helped keep growth rates on target so far this year, and a rebound in real estate investment has also helped, albeit at the risk of inflating a housing bubble.	此外，由于经济前景不容乐观，私人企业已经开始撤资。今年到目前为止，在政府支出和房地产投资回暖的帮助下，中国保持了经济增长目标，但楼市泡沫膨胀的风险也加剧了。
"The resurgence of state investment has helped sustain growth in the short run, as has the modest rebound in property investment this year,"	"国家投资的再现有助于在短期内维持经济增长，房地产投资今年的小幅反弹也起到了这个作用。"华盛顿彼得森国际经济研究所(Peterson Institute for

said Nicholas R. Lardy, an expert on China's economy who is a senior fellow at the Peterson Institute for International Economics in Washington.	International Economics)的高级研究员、中国经济专家尼古拉斯·R·拉迪(Nicholas R. Lardy)表示。
But he added, "The productivity of state investment is low, so it is a very inefficient way to sustain growth."	但他也说, "国家投资的生产率很低, 所以用这个方式来维持增长的效率非常低下。"
Japan Comparisons	日本的先例
With China's high debt, inability to spend and a lack of political will to make tough choices to fix its economy, economists are increasingly comparing it to another Asian powerhouse: Japan.	中国债务高企、消费无力、缺乏为解决经济问题做出艰难选择的政治意愿, 导致经济学家越来越爱拿它与另一个亚洲大国日本进行类比。
Like China now, Japan in the 1990s faced enormous bank debt, the bursting of a stock market bubble and overcapacity in a number of industries. Reluctant to make the sort of tough choices that result in shutting factories and killing companies, Japanese leaders tolerated years of economic stagnation instead. The result was called the Lost Decade, though many of Japan's problems linger today.	就像现在的中国一样, 日本在 1990 年代也面临着巨大的银行债务、股市泡沫破裂, 还有很多行业产能过剩。日本领导人不愿意做出会导致工厂关门、公司倒闭的艰难选择, 而是容忍了多年的经济停滞。结果导致了“失落的十年”, 尽管日本的很多问题如今仍然存在。
China is not Japan, of course, and its vast and upwardly mobile population stands in contrast to Japan's wealthier but aging society. Still, a growing number of economists see the possibility of something similar.	当然, 中国不是日本, 它向上流动的庞大人口, 也和日本更富裕但老龄化日渐严重的社会形成了鲜明的对比。但依然有越来越多的经济学家看到了类似的可能性。
"Just having a lot of debt, and bad debt, does not cause you to have a crisis," said Arthur R. Kroeber, the managing director of Gavekal Dragonomics, an economic research firm in Beijing.	"大量债务, 并且是不良债务, 并不会给你造成危机," 北京的经济研究公司佳富龙洲(Gavekal Dragonomics)的常务董事葛艺豪(Arthur R. Kroeber)说。
"But the price that you pay — if you don't do the financial restructuring and real economy restructuring that is necessary to restore things to health — is that you get a very long period of very low growth and	"但要恢复经济的健康, 必须进行金融重组和实体经济重组, 如果不这么做, 你要付出的代价就是在非常漫长的时期里增长速度低下, 市场疲软," 他接着说。 anemic activity," he added.

That could also sideline one of the world's most reliable engines of growth. It could also cause problems in China, where leaders have long pledged to provide jobs and opportunity to the millions who still leave their rural villages looking for a better life.	这可能还会降低全球最可靠的引擎之一的重要性，并在中国国内引发问题。在中国，领导人一直承诺给仍在为寻找更好的生活而离开农村的数亿人提供工作岗位和机会。
Still, that could be better than the alternative.	但这仍然好过另一种情况。
"This expansion of debt is way beyond anything we saw in Japan, both in terms of magnitude and time frame," said Charlene Chu, a partner at Autonomous Research and a former China banking analyst at Fitch Ratings.	"不管是在规模上还是时间范围上，这种债务扩张远远超出了我们在日本看到的情况，"曾在惠誉评级(Fitch Ratings)担任中国银行业分析师的 Autonomous Research 合伙人朱夏莲(Charlene Chu)说。
"I think a Japan outcome in many ways would be a best-case scenario for China."	"我觉得从很多方面来说，日本的结果应该是中国最好的结局了。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161019/china-economy-slows-impact	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161019/china-economy-slows-impact
China's Genetically Modified Food Dreams Face Bitter Harvest	转基因在中国：喧哗、恐惧与争论
HONG KONG — For many in China, the term "genetically modified food" evokes nightmares: poisoned seeds, contaminated fields, apocryphal images of eight-legged chickens.	香港——对于很多中国人来说，转基因食品这个词可以引发噩梦：有毒的种子、受到污染的农田，还有八条腿小鸡的假图片。
China and the global agricultural industry are betting billions of dollars that they can change those perceptions. They are starting with farmers like Li Kaishun.	中国和全球农业产业投入了数十亿美元，押注在可以改变这些看法上。首先是从李开顺这样的农民开始。
Mr. Li is an agricultural thought leader. The 39-year-old millet, corn and peanut farmer in China's eastern Shandong Province quickly adopts new techniques to bolster production, such as mixing pesticides with his seeds before he plants them as a way to reduce overall pesticide	39岁的李开顺是一位农业思想的领先者，在中国东部省份山东种植小米、玉米和花生。李开顺善于迅速采用新技术来促进农业生产，例如在种植之前，他将杀虫药与种子混合，从而减少农药的整体使用量。他从当地农民那里租地，现在总共耕种着100英亩（约合600亩）地，而中国的农场平均只有

use. He rents land from local farmers, giving him 100 acres in a country where the average farm takes up only one-quarter of an acre.	四分之一英亩大。
The next innovation he wants: genetically modified crops. That view appeals to DuPont, the American seed giant, which offers Mr. Li and his family discounts on seed, pesticides and fertilizers to cultivate those views.	他想采用的下一个创新就是转基因作物。这个打算对美国种子巨头杜邦 (DuPont) 很有利, 于是该公司以折扣价格为李开顺及其家人提供了种子、农药和化肥, 希望培养这种想法。
One thing DuPont cannot provide — though it hopes to someday — is genetically modified seeds themselves. In China, genetically modified crops are largely banned from food destined for dinner tables.	但杜邦无法提供转基因种子本身——虽然它希望有一天可以提供。在中国, 转基因作物基本上是被禁止用来制作餐桌食品的。
“If there is better seed and better technology, I would definitely want it,” Mr. Li said. “But I have never seen a G.M.O. seed. Neither have I heard about anyone planting one.”	“有更好的种子、有更好的技术肯定很需要,” 李开顺说。“转基因种子咱没见过, 附近也没听说种的。”
China has ambitions to be a major player in genetically modified food. One of its state-run companies is vying to acquire Syngenta, the Swiss agricultural company, for $43 billion, which would make it China’s largest foreign purchase ever. It is ramping up spending on research and development and supporting a nascent homegrown industry that it hopes can somebody become China’s answer to Monsanto and DuPont. In a 2013 speech, Xi Jinping, the country’s president, told his audience, “We can’t let big foreign companies dominate our G.M.O. crops market.”	中国雄心勃勃地想要成为转基因食品的主要参与者。一家国营公司正在参与加瑞士农业公司先正达(Syngenta)的争购战, 它出价 430 亿美元, 如果成功, 就会成为中国历史上最大的一起海外并购案。该公司也正在加大研发投入, 支持一个新兴的本土产业, 希望能培养出中国的孟山都(Monsanto)或者杜邦。在 2013 年的一次演讲中, 国家主席习近平告诉听众: “我们不能让大型外国公司主导我们的转基因作物市场。”
Many Chinese officials see G.M.O. science as a way to bolster production in a country where large-scale farming is still uncommon — a legacy of the Communist Revolution, when land was stripped from landlords and given to peasants. China also hopes to better feed its	很多中国官员把转基因科学看成一种促进农业生产的方式, 在中国, 大规模农业生产仍然不常见, 这是共产主义革命留下的产物, 当时收缴了地主的土地, 分配给农民。中国也希望更好地为其日益增长、日益富裕的人口提供食物。 growing and increasingly affluent population on its own.

But even if China succeeds in building a vibrant industry, it has to persuade a frightened public that genetically modified food is not another Chinese food scandal in waiting.	但是，即使中国成功发展起一个充满活力的产业，它也必须说服饱受惊吓的公众，让他们相信转基因作物不是中国的又一起食品丑闻。
"I'm cautiously optimistic that will happen, but it's still a significant challenge to address public perception of G.M. food," said William S. Niebur, chief executive of Origin Agritech, a Chinese genetically modified seed developer and a partner with DuPont. He says that the public wants transparency, accessible information and choice, but "where we are today, the emotions continue to be stronger than facts."	"我对前景保持谨慎乐观，但转变公众对转基因食品的看法仍然是一个重大挑战。"杜邦公司合作伙伴、中国转基因种子开发商奥瑞金种业(Origin Agritech)的首席执行官威廉·S·倪博(William S. Niebur)说。他表示公众希望获得透明度，看到信息和选择，但"眼下的情况是，感情因素的力量大过了事实"。
In a country where dissent is roundly discouraged, a number of activists have publicly criticized the pending Syngenta deal. Hundreds of citizens, including Qin Zhongda, a 93-year-old former minister for China's chemical industry, signed letters to top leaders and the China National Chemical Corporation, Syngenta's would-be buyer, saying that the Syngenta deal would lead to uncontrollable pollution of China's food crops. They also predicted severe damage to the health of Chinese consumers, the safety of the country's food supply and the livelihoods of Chinese farmers.	在中国，不同意见常常会遭到打压，但一些活动人士对正在进行的先正达交易进行了公开批评。数以百计的公众，包括93岁的前化工部部长秦仲达，在一封信上签名，试图阻止高层领导人和中国化工集团并购先正达，称该交易将导致中国粮食作物污染失控。他们还预测，此举会对中国消费者身体健康、国家食品供应安全和中国农民的生计造成严重危害。
"ChemChina must stop this suicidal acquisition that will destroy the country," one letter said.	"中国化工集团必须立即停止这场导致亡族灭种的自杀式收购，"一封信中说。
G.M.O. food has come under further scrutiny in recent weeks after state media reported that a testing center for modified animals at the Chinese Academy of Agricultural Sciences had faked inspection records and let unqualified people perform tests. The Ministry of Agriculture	最近几周，人们加强了对转基因食品的关注，因为据官方媒体报道，中国农业科学院一个改良动物的测试中心伪造检查记录，让不合格的人员开展测试工作。该院之前的一名博士生上个月在网上曝光了此事之后，农业部对该院进行了调查。

conducted an investigation into the academy after a former Ph.D. student made claims online last month about problems there.
A spate of reports on illegally planted seeds prompted Lin Xiangmin, an official in charge of safety management and intellectual property rights of G.M.O.s at the Ministry of Agriculture, to tell The Beijing Times newspaper that the department was working to make illegal planting of G.M.O. seeds a criminal offense.	在一系列报道提到非法种植种子之后，农业部科教司转基因生物安全与知识产权处处长林祥明告诉《京华时报》，该部门正在研究把非法种植转基因作物列入刑事犯罪。
For many opponents, China simply is not ready. "Safety can be achieved only with regulation," said Cui Yongyuan, an anti-G.M.O. campaigner at the Communications University of China. "Many Chinese scientists don't seem to understand this. They feel that safety is created in a laboratory."	对很多反对者看来，中国根本没有做好准备。“安全是监管出来的安全，”中国传媒大学的反转基因食品活动人士崔永元说。“中国的很多科学家不明白这个事，他们老觉得，安全是实验室实验出来的安全。”
The roots of this skepticism run deep. Human tampering with food has been behind many of China's most shocking food scandals. The tainted milk that killed six babies and injured hundreds of thousands of others stemmed from milk producers' adding a chemical to make the milk look protein-rich. Fruit has been spiked with chemicals to make it look fresh and to stimulate growth.	这是一种根深蒂固的怀疑。中国很多惊人的食品丑闻背后，都是有人对食品做了手脚。比如生产商在牛奶中添加了一种化学品，使其显得富含蛋白质，结果被污染的牛奶导致6个婴儿死亡，给成千上万的人带来健康损害。还有人对水果使用化学品，让它们看上去光鲜，或者是刺激它们生长。
Those fears, combined with China's voluble online community, can sometimes lead to rumors. Last year, KFC, the fried-chicken chain popular in China, sued three Chinese internet companies over online accusations that it used genetically modified chickens with six wings and eight legs to feed its customers.	除了这样的担忧之外，中国的网上社区也很活跃，有时可能会导致谣言的出现。去年，在中国很受欢迎的炸鸡连锁公司肯德基起诉了三家中国互联网公司，因为它们称肯德基给顾客食用的是转基因鸡，有六只翅膀和八条腿。
"One of the steps the research community has been doing is trying to extend the knowledge about the G.M.O.s to the public," says Cao Cong,	《转基因中国》(Genetically Modified China)一书的作者、诺丁汉大学位于中国的教授曹聪说，“研究界一直在努力向公众传播关于转基因生物的知识，

a professor at the University of Nottingham in China and the author of a forthcoming book called "Genetically Modified China," "but the public still doesn't want to accept this kind of knowledge."	但是公众仍然不想接受这种知识。”
Further complicating matters, China already grows and buys plenty of genetically modified crops — just, generally, not for people. Chinese farmers grow genetically modified cotton and its meat and dairy companies buy genetically modified corn from abroad to feed pigs and cattle. G.M.O. seeds are allowed for growing papayas.	让情况变得更复杂的是，中国已经在种植和购买大量转基因作物了，只不过总的来说不是用于人们食用。中国农民种植转基因棉花，中国的肉类和乳品公司从国外购买转基因玉米喂猪和牛。中国还允许销售用于种植番木瓜的转基因种子。
That has led to accusations that G.M.O. crops have already crept into Chinese fields. In January, the environmental group Greenpeace said it found that domestic corn crops in northeast China contained genetically modified material. Chinese officials said they had ramped up inspections.	这引发了一些人的指控，认为转基因作物已经潜入了中国的田间地头。今年1月，环保组织绿色和平(Greenpeace)称在中国东北的国内玉米作物中发现了转基因物质。中国官员称已加强检查力度。
Unapproved G.M.O. food can be found elsewhere in China's food supply, said Jiajun Dale Wen, an energy and environment researcher at Renmin University. For example, many papaya seeds planted in China's southern island of Hainan are not the kind approved by the government, while genetically modified rice can be found in some fields, she said.	中国人民大学的能源和环境研究员文佳筠表示，在中国食品供应的其他环节也能找到未经批准的转基因食品。她说，比如位于中国南部的海南岛上种的番木瓜种子，就不是政府批准的那一种，转基因水稻也能在一些田里找到。
"In theory, China should have a supervision of G.M.O.s that is stricter than the U.S." Ms. Wen said. "The Ministry of Agriculture has said that they would punish every case they found. But in reality, the punishment is light."	“中国对转基因的监管理论上说比美国更严格，”文佳筠说。“农业部声称发现一起查处一起，但对违规者实质上是高高举起，轻轻落下。”
Many farmers remain outright opposed to using G.M.O. seeds, or just apathetic.	很多农民依然强烈反对使用转基因种子，或者只是缺乏兴趣。

"The seed, pesticide and fertilizer market is kind of in a mess," said Shi Guangzhi, a 44-year-old farmer with about 180 acres planted to corn in Bayan County, in China's northern Heilongjiang Province.	"种子肥料农药，市场太混乱，"东北黑龙江省巴彦县 44 岁的农民史广智说。他种了大约 180 英亩（约合 1100 亩）的玉米。
"We don't have the abilities to tell what is good and what is bad," he said. "I can only learn from word of mouth which seed does well this year. Then everyone will plant this seed next year."	"我们没有鉴别能力，"他说。"哪知道哪个是好的那个是不好的。听口碑，看表现，今年哪个种子表现好，明年就都种，"
Mr. Shi has little time to dream about the G.M.O. future that the government has planned. "I heard that the government doesn't allow the growth of G.M.O. seeds. Then it will be difficult for me to sell it."	史广智几乎没时间梦想政府规划的转基因生物的未来。"我感觉政府不让种，将来卖粮也困难。"
That makes farmers like Li Kaishun, in Shandong Province, valuable to G.M.O. proponents. Although he says he does not know much yet about genetically modified seeds, he is willing to learn.	这让像山东的李开顺这样的农民，变得对转基因的支持者颇为重要。尽管他说自己不太懂转基因种子，但他愿意学。
"What is G.M.O.?" he asked New York Times reporters. "If you say G.M.O. seed is good, can you provide me some?"	"转基因是啥东西啊？"他问《纽约时报》的记者。"你说这个种子好，你能给提供点儿吗？"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161020/chinas-genetically-modified-food-dreams-face-bitter-harvest	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161020/chinas-genetically-modified-food-dreams-face-bitter-harvest
As Europe and Asia Hoard Cash, Economists See Echoes of Crisis	储蓄过剩不仅是中国问题，也威胁世界经济
European and Asian investors have been rushing into the United States bond market, spurred by a global glut of savings that has reached record levels.	受全球储蓄过剩达到创纪录水平的刺激，欧洲和亚洲的投资者在不断涌入美国债券市场。
Running from near-zero interest rates at home, foreign buyers are piling into the booming market for corporate bonds, including high-grade debt securities issued by the likes of IBM and General Electric and riskier fare churned out by energy and telecommunications companies.	为避开本国几乎为零的利率，境外投资者正在一片繁荣的企业债券市场扎堆，这里既有 IBM、通用电气(General Electric)等公司发行的优质债券，也包括能源与电信企业大量推出的风险更高的债券。

A growing number of economists are concerned that this flood of money may inflate the value of these securities well beyond what they are worth, potentially leading to a market bubble that eventually bursts.	越来越多的经济学家开始担心，这样的资金流入可能会使这些债券的价格虚高，超过它们的实际价值，结果带来最终破裂的市场泡沫。
More broadly, however, these economists fear that an excess of ready cash in Europe and Asia is on the rise, which could keep a damper on global growth prospects.	不过，从更广泛的层面看，这些经济学家更担心欧洲和亚洲的现金过剩状况不断加重，这可能令全球经济增长的前景更加黯淡。
That is because the cash, instead of being spent on building bridges in, say, Germany, or individual shopping sprees in China and Japan, is accumulating and being recycled into global capital markets, keeping interest rates artificially low as investors chase after returns.	那是因为现金没有被德国用于建造桥梁，或者被中国和日本用于个人的大肆消费，而是在累积，循环进入全球资本市场，在投资者寻求回报时利率人为地保持着低水平。
And again, economists say, the burden is placed on the United States, with its still fragile economy, to be the growth engine for the world.	经济学家们还表示，这个重担又一次放在了美国身上。尽管自身的经济还十分脆弱，美国却要承担起拉动世界经济增长的重任。
“Asia and Europe keep exporting their savings to the rest of the world,” said Brad W. Setser, an expert in global financial flows who worked at the United States Treasury from 2011 to 2015. “All this money sloshing around looking for a home is not healthy – it indicates a real lack of demand in other parts of the global economy.”	“亚洲和欧洲持续地将自己的储蓄资金转移到世界其他地方，”研究全球资金流动的专家、曾在 2011 至 2015 年供职于美国财政部的布拉德·W·塞策(Brad W. Setser)说。“这些资金四处流动、寻找可以落地的地方，这是不健康的——它表明全球经济的其他部分的确存在需求匮乏的情况。”
The surge in flows echoes a wave of investment in the years right before the financial crisis, when mostly European investors snapped up billions of dollars of mortgage-backed securities before the American housing market imploded.	这种资金流动剧增的情况，让人想到金融危机爆发前几年出现的投资浪潮。当时在美国房地产市场崩盘之前，主要来自欧洲的投资者抢购了价值以十亿美元计的抵押担保债权。
The current numbers are also arresting.	现在的数字也相当引人注目。
According to Mr. Setser’s figures, about $750 billion of private money has poured into the United States in the last two years alone. About $500 billion, he calculates, reflects European and Asian investors buying	据塞策统计，单单过去两年，就有大约 7500 亿美元私人资金流入美国。他推测，其中大约 5000 亿美元是欧洲和亚洲投资者在购买美国国债、房利美（Fannie Mae，美国联邦国民抵押协会的别称）发行的债券，以及美国公

United States Treasury securities, bonds issued by Fannie Mae and debt issued by American companies.	司发行的企业债。
The rest comes from American institutional investors unloading their zero-returning European bonds and looking for some extra yield closer to home.	其他的则来自美国的机构投资者，他们在抛售零回报的欧洲债券，转而寻找一些更靠近美国本土的超额收益。
The culprit, Mr. Setser argues in a new paper for the Council on Foreign Relations, where he is a senior fellow, is the biggest global glut of savings ever, driven by cash-hoarding in counties like China, Taiwan and South Korea.	作为对外关系委员会(Council on Foreign Relations)的高级研究员，塞策在为该机构撰写的一篇新报告中提出，其中的罪魁祸首是由中国、台湾和韩国等国家的现金囤积所推动的、有史以来规模最大的全球储蓄过剩。
"There is a glut, and the glut isn't healthy," Mr. Setser said.	"存在一种过剩，而且是不健康的过剩，"塞策说。
The philosophical grandfather of this global savings glut is Ben S. Bernanke, former chairman of the Federal Reserve, who coined the phrase in 2005, before he became chairman.	美联储(Federal Reserve)前主席本·S·伯南克(Ben S. Bernanke)是全球储蓄过剩的观念鼻祖。在成为美联储主席之前，他于2005年首次提出了这种说法。
There are economic theories that daze and confuse, thanks to their opacity. And then there are a few that define a moment in time by explaining why asset markets overreach and implode.	现在存在很多因为晦涩难懂而让人感到茫然困惑的经济学理论。但其中有一些通过解释为何资本市场会贪功致败、陷入崩溃，而界定了一个时刻。
In September 2007, as the financial crisis was beginning to take shape, Mr. Bernanke gave a speech in Berlin in which he warned of the dangers that excessive global savings posed to the United States economy.	2007年9月金融危机开始显现的时候，伯南克在柏林发表了一个演讲，警告全球储蓄过剩给美国经济带来的危害。
Mr. Bernanke cautioned that an accumulating cash pile in fast-growing countries like China was keeping global interest rates low and steering money into risky investments.	伯南克还提醒，中国等经济快速增长的国家现金储备不断积聚，令全球利率维持在低水平，并迫使资金流入高风险的投资领域。
Within months, investment banks in the United States began their death march as the once-soaring market for mortgage securities collapsed.	没过几个月，曾经高涨的抵押证券市场便崩盘了，美国的投资银行开始走向死亡。

Over time it became accepted in academic and policy circles that the global savings glut that Mr. Bernanke had described played a crucial role in the boom and eventual bust of the housing bubble in the United States.	随着时间的推移，学术和政策圈开始接受这样一种观点，即伯南克之前描述的全球储蓄过剩，在美国房地产泡沫的壮大和最终的破灭中，扮演了至关重要的角色。
Now, nearly a decade after Mr. Bernanke's warning, Mr. Setser and others are making the case that this cash pile is as large and dangerous as ever, driven by a persistent rise in excess savings in China and elsewhere in Asia, and in Europe, with Germany leading the way.	现在，在伯南克发出警告近十年之后，塞策等人正在证明，这次现金储备的规模仍和以前一样大，危险程度也一样高，个中原因就是中国和其他亚洲国家，还有以德国为首的欧洲国家的储蓄过剩情况在持续加重。
Not everyone subscribes to the savings glut theory, of course, especially not those nations that are sitting atop these piles of cash and facing pressure to take action, as Germany is.	当然，不是所有人都同意这种储蓄过剩论，尤其是那些坐拥大量现金、有压力要采取行动的国家，比如德国。
Their opposing view holds that it has been the reckless money-printing ways of the global central banks (jump-started by Mr. Bernanke himself) that pose a threat to the global economy.	他们持相反的观点，即对全球经济构成威胁的是全球中央银行不计后果的印钞票（而这恰是由伯南克助推启动的）。
Still, the total sum of the savings glut is a stunning number — $1.2 trillion — a bit above what it was in 2007 when Mr. Bernanke warned about it. Three-quarters of it comes from China and other Asian dynamos.	但储蓄过剩的总额的确十分惊人——1.2万亿美元——比2007年伯南克对此发出警告时又高出了一些。其中有四分之三来自中国和其他经济发展比较快的亚洲国家。
The rest comes from large savers in Northern European countries like Germany and the Netherlands, replacing oil producers in the Middle East that have seen their cash piles erode with the decrease in oil prices.	其余的则来自德国、荷兰等欧洲北部的储蓄大国，它们替代了中东产油大国的位置——随着油价走低，后者的现金储备有所萎缩。
In 2005, when Mr. Bernanke introduced the thought that there could be a downside to all this saving overseas, the American housing market was still robust and his remarks did not quite resonate.	当伯南克在2005年首次提出这些境外储蓄可能对美国不利的看法时，美国房地产市场仍然坚挺，他的言论没有引发太大反响。
It is easy to see why, given that the problem, as outlined by Mr.	这很容易理解，鉴于按照伯南克的说法，问题不是债务太多，而是现金太多。

Bernanke, was not having too much debt, but having too much cash.
Past global blowups, like Mexico's in 1994, and Southeast Asia's in 1997 and 1998, were often stories of fast-growing economies running up debt and then running out of money.	之前的几次全球性经济危机，就像墨西哥 1994 年、东南亚 1997 和 1998 年经历的，往往是快速增长的经济体债务迅速增加，然后资金链断裂。
Now, Mr. Bernanke was proposing, the danger was that these and similar nations were safeguarding cash by increasing exports and not investing as much as they should, with the result being a savings surge.	而正如伯南克之前提到的，现在的危险则在于这些以及其他有着类似情况的国家为了维持现金储备，在出口增加的同时又没有进行应有的投资，结果就是储蓄过剩。
Recently, criticism has been directed toward large developed economies like Germany and other big savers in Europe like the Netherlands for allowing their current-account surpluses — essentially a country's cash on hand after investments — to increase more than fourfold since the financial crisis, to $488 billion today.	最近，批评的矛头直接指向德国等大的发达经济体和荷兰等欧洲储蓄大国，理由是它们放任自己国家的往来账户过剩——尤其是除去投资之后的库存现金——使之达到现在的 4880 亿美元，自金融危机以来增加了四倍不止。
But Mr. Setser in his paper contends that the sharp upswing in East Asian surpluses has been less noticed.	但塞策在他的报告中认为，东亚储蓄过剩大幅上升的情况一直不太被人注意。
That is because, he says, even with China's tremendous investment binge during recent years, its savings rate is still near 50 percent — which is just too high a level for the world economy.	他说那是因为，尽管中国最近几年出现了巨大的投资热潮，但它的储蓄率依然接近 50%——相对于世界经济而言，这个比率实在太高了。
"This is a big problem," said Nouriel Roubini, an economist at New York University who was recognized for his early warnings about the 2008 crisis. "There is no way to force those who are oversaving to spend more."	"这是个大问题，"纽约大学(New York University)经济学家诺里·鲁比尼(Nouriel Roubini)说。他因对 2008 年金融危机提前发出警告而为人所知。"没什么办法能迫使这些过度储蓄的国家花费更多。"
All of which hangs like a pall over the global economy, depressing interest rates and prospects for growth.	所有这些就像个棺罩一样悬在全球经济上方，压低了利率，也降低了经济增长预期。
"Bernanke is even more right than he was in 2005 and 2007," Mr. Setser said.	"伯南克的判断拿到今天，甚至比 2005 年和 2007 年更正确，"塞策说。

While no one is saying yet that the flood of investment has created an asset bubble similar to that of 2008, market participants accept that certain corners of the market, like junk bonds, have had a very nice ride of late.	尽管目前还没人表示，这股投资潮制造了一个与 2008 年那次类似的资产泡沫，但市场参与者承认，在这个市场的某些领域，比如垃圾债券，最近一片红火。
Ken Monaghan, who oversees high-yield bonds for the global fund manager Amundi Smith Breeden, says that he is seeing a surge in interest from Asian and European insurance companies and pension funds – many of them conservative clients not known for dabbling in these sorts of securities.	在全球性基金公司阿蒙迪-史密斯-布里登(Amundi Smith Breeden)负责高收益债券业务的肯·莫纳汉(Ken Monaghan)表示，他发现亚洲和欧洲的保险公司和养老基金对此类债券的兴趣激增——它们大多是保守型客户，原本不太会涉猎此类证券。
"It has really caused spreads to move," he said, using Wall Street jargon to describe what happens when the interest rates of these bonds decrease as investors pile in. "We are seeing institutional investors come to us and ask for levels of risk that they have never asked for before."	"这的确让利率差变化了，"他用华尔街术语描述了当这些债券的利率随着投资者大量涌入而降低时，会发生什么情况。"有机构投资者来找我们，提出了他们以往从没要求过的风险层级。"
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161025/as-europe-and-asia-hoard-cash-economists-see-echoes-of-crisis	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161025/as-europe-and-asia-hoard-cash-economists-see-echoes-of-crisis
China Oceanwide Dips Into American Insurance, Buying Genworth	中国海外收购大潮继续，泛海收购美国保险公司
HONG KONG — A Chinese conglomerate has agreed to buy the insurer Genworth Financial of Virginia for $2.7 billion, in the latest example of Asian firms buying American insurance companies.	香港——亚洲公司收购美国保险公司又添新例，一家中国企业集团同意出资 27 亿美元（约合 181 亿人民币）收购弗吉尼亚州保险公司 Genworth 金融 (Genworth Financial)。
The conglomerate, China Oceanwide, which has interests in real estate and finance, said on Sunday that it had struck a deal to buy Genworth for $5.43 per share, offering a 4 percent premium to shareholders compared with Friday's closing. It also said that it would contribute an additional $1.1 billion to cover maturing debt and to invest in	这家名为中国泛海控股集团的企业业务涉及房地产和金融。该公司周日表示已达成协议，将以每股 5.43 美元的价格收购 Genworth。对股东而言，收购价同周五的收盘价相比溢价 4%。公司还表示将额外出资 11 亿美元，用于偿还到期的债务，并投资 Genworth 的寿险业务。

Genworth's life insurance business.
Genworth, which provides mortgage and long-term-care insurance, would become a stand-alone subsidiary of Oceanwide.	提供抵押贷款和长期护理保险业务的 Genworth 将成为泛海的独立子公司。
Genworth also announced on Sunday that it would have an after-tax charge of $260 million to $300 million in the third quarter after reviewing how much it would have to keep in reserve for long-term-care claims.	Genworth 也于周日宣布, 在对用于长期护理索赔的备用金进行了审核后, 该公司第三季度需要 2.6 亿到 3 亿美元的税后费用。
The deal is part of a wave of interest from Japanese and Chinese companies looking to make acquisitions abroad. Japanese insurance companies have been making purchases overseas as a way to protect themselves as Japan's population ages. Chinese companies have been buying foreign outfits as economic growth slows domestically. Major deals this year include China National Chemical's $43 billion offer to acquire Syngenta of Switzerland, a maker of farm chemicals and seeds, and the Chinese insurer Anbang's deal to buy a portfolio of high-end hotels from the Blackstone Group, an agreement valued at $6.5 billion.	该协议是日本和中国公司海外收购浪潮的一部分。随着日本人口老龄化, 日本保险公司把海外收购当做一种自保的方式。伴随着国内经济增长放缓, 中国保险公司也一直在收购外国公司。今年的大型交易包括中国化工集团公司出资 430 亿美元收购瑞士农化和种子生产商先正达(Syngenta), 以及中国保险公司安邦收购黑石集团(Blackstone Group)持有的高端酒店资产组合。后者的协议价值 65 亿美元。
"Genworth is an established leader in both mortgage insurance and long-term-care insurance, which are markets that present significant long-term growth opportunities," said Lu Zhiqiang, Oceanwide's chairman, in a news release.	"Genworth 金融集团是长期护理保险和住房按揭保险领域中著名的领军企业, 这两个市场有着长期和潜在的增长机会," 泛海董事长卢志强在一份新闻稿中说。
For Chinese buyers, insurance in the United States isn't always an easy deal to strike. Companies in the field need to clear regulatory hurdles at the state level in addition to the national level. Anbang, which also bought the Waldorf Astoria as part of its spending spree, withdrew its application with the New York State Department of Financial Services to	对中国买家而言, 在美国的保险行业达成协议并非总是易事。除国家层面的障碍外, 这个行业的公司还需清除州一级的监管障碍。在收购狂潮中还买入了华尔道夫(Waldorf Astoria)的安邦就因为监管机构问及股东之间的关系, 撤回了向纽约州金融服务局(New York State Department of Financial Services)提交的收购艾奥瓦州保险公司信保人寿保险公司(Fidelity &

buy Fidelity & Guaranty Life, an insurer based in Iowa, because regulators had asked about ties between shareholders.	Guaranty Life)的申请。
Oceanwide, which has made investments in United States real estate through its subsidiaries recently, has to obtain regulatory approval for the deal in the states where Genworth does business. Mr. Lu and Thomas J. McInerney, the chief executive and president of Genworth, said that the capital commitment would increase the likelihood of obtaining regulatory approval.	最近通过子公司投资美国房地产的泛海,必须在 Genworth 的业务涉及的州获得监管机构对该协议的批准。卢志强和 Genworth 的首席执行官兼总裁托马斯·J·麦金纳尼(Thomas J. McInerney)表示, 承诺的出资会增加获得监管机构批准的可能性。
Oceanwide has also invested in other sectors such as financial services and energy, with a controlling stake in Asia-Pacific Property & Casualty Insurance.	泛海还投资了其他一些行业, 如金融服务和能源, 并拥有亚太财产和意外伤害保险公司(Asia-Pacific Property & Casualty Insurance)的控股权。
Through its Hong Kong-listed subsidiary, Oceanwide has spent hundreds of millions on real estate in New York, Hawaii and Los Angeles and invested in power plants in Indonesia. It spent $390 million on properties in Manhattan in August 2015 that it said it planned to turn into a commercial and residential tower. When it announced the purchase, the company said it wanted to expand its real estate business and build an international conglomerate.	通过在香港上市的子公司, 泛海在纽约、夏威夷和洛杉矶的房地产市场投资了数亿美元, 此外还投资了印尼的多座发电厂。2015年8月, 泛海斥资3.9亿美元购买曼哈顿地产, 称计划将其改造成一栋商业和住宅大楼。宣布这项收购交易时, 该公司表示希望扩大房地产业务, 打造一个国际化的企业集团。
If the Oceanwide-Genworth deal is approved by shareholders and regulators, the companies expect it to close by the middle of 2017.	如果收购交易得到股东和监管机构的批准, 泛海和 Genworth 预计在 2017 年年中之前可以完成交易。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161025/china-oceanwide-genworth-financial	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161025/china-oceanwide-genworth-financial
Germany Withdraws Approval for Chinese Takeover of Aixtron	德国政府撤回许可, 中资收购爱思强受阻
HONG KONG – In a surprise move on Monday, the German authorities withdrew approval for the takeover of a domestic semiconductor firm	香港——本周一, 德国当局做出令人惊讶之举, 撤回了之前对一家中国投资者收购德国半导体公司发放的通行证, 该交易被认为是中国公司收购尖端技

by a Chinese bidder, a deal that was set to be an emblem of a new push by Chinese companies to acquire cutting-edge technology businesses and a sign of Berlin's tolerance for such moves.	术企业新趋势一个标志，显示了柏林对这类行动的容忍底线。
A statement from Aixtron, the German company being bought by Fujian Grand Chip, did not specify a reason for the reversal of the decision by the regulator in Germany. But it comes as concerns rise about Chinese firms taking over leading German tech companies, and with federal elections scheduled for next year.	福建宏芯的收购对象德国公司爱思强(Aixtron)发表了一份声明，但没有具体说明德国监管机构撤回通行证的理由。不过此事发生的背景是德国明年要进行联邦选举，中国企业收购领先的德国科技公司正在引起更多的关注。
Although Chinese investment in European companies is nothing new, some experts have raised concerns as Chinese funds have shifted focus from ailing businesses to more advanced and successful firms, particularly in Germany. So far this year, the country has been the largest recipient of Chinese investment in Europe, according to the Mercator Institute for China Studies, a research foundation based in Berlin.	虽然中国投资欧洲公司并不是什么新鲜事，但随着中国的资金将注意力从经营不善的公司转移到了更先进、更成功的公司，一些专家表达了担忧，特别是在德国。柏林墨卡托中国研究中心(Mercator Institute for China Studies)的数据显示，今年迄今为止，德国是中国在欧洲投资的最大目标国。
In an article last month, The New York Times highlighted how a Chinese customer that dropped a large order — in turn crashing Aixtron's shares — had a relationship with Fujian Grand Chip. The connection did not indicate wrongdoing, but it does illustrate the blurred lines between acquisitive Chinese companies and Chinese industrial policy.	《纽约时报》上月的一篇文章报道了一家中国客户取消了一笔大订单，导致爱思强股价大跌的经过，而这家公司与福建宏芯之间存在关联。虽然这并不意味着存在不法行为，但也确实说明胃口巨大的中国公司和中国产业政策之间的界线比较模糊。
Many German companies retain a lead over Chinese competitors, but the wholesale purchase of firms like Aixtron has raised the specter of the technology being spirited away to the supply chain in China, as Beijing details in state economic plans.	相对于中国竞争对手，很多德国公司都保持着领先优势，但是爱思强这样的公司被整体收购，可能会导致德国的技术悄悄流向中国的供应链，正如北京在国家经济计划中打算的那样。

For Germany, that could mean a long-term loss of know-how and upper-class jobs. The country is particularly vulnerable because of its large number of highly advanced, small and midsize companies – known as the Mittelstand – that can be taken over more easily and more cheaply than large multinationals.	对德国来说，这在长远上可能意味着实践知识和高级工作岗位的流失。该国在这方面特别脆弱，因为它拥有大量极为先进的中小型企业——称为Mittelstand——收购它们比收购大型跨国公司更加容易，成本也更低。
Also this year, the robotics company Kuka – whose orange arms are ubiquitous in highly automated German auto plants – was taken over by the Chinese appliance maker Midea. And this month, Chinese news media said that two Chinese companies were considering a bid for Osram Licht, a Munich-based lighting and semiconductor firm.	今年，机器人公司库卡（Kuka，其橙色的设备在高度自动化的德国汽车工厂中随处可见）被中国家电制造商美的收购。本月，中国新闻媒体称，两家中国公司正在考虑向慕尼黑照明和半导体公司欧司朗(Osram Licht)发出收购要约。
In its statement, Aixtron said the German Economics Ministry would reopen a review of the proceedings.	爱思强在声明中说，德国经济部将重启审查程序。
The ministry confirmed that it had withdrawn its initial approval for the deal, but did not provide further details.	德国经济部确认，它已经撤回了对该交易的初步许可，但没有提供进一步的细节。
In recent months, Germany’s economy minister, Sigmar Gabriel, as well as Günther Oettinger, a German who is the European commissioner for the digital economy, have begun calling openly for new measures that would give the European Union and its member states more power to regulate acquisitions by non-European firms, particularly when those investors have ties to foreign governments.	近几个月来，德国经济部长西格玛尔·加布里尔(Sigmar Gabriel)以及分管欧洲数码经济的德国政界人物金特·厄廷格(Günther Oettinger)已经开始呼吁采取新的措施，赋予欧盟及其成员国更多权力，来监管非欧洲公司发起的收购活动，特别是当这些投资者与外国政府存在关联的时候。
“Clearly, many German and European policy makers and senior officials have taken a second look at the investors and intentions behind Chinese acquisitions of high-tech companies,” said Sebastian Heilmann, president of the Mercator Institute. “Chinese M&A activity has come to be seen as driven by government-sponsored programs, funds and	“显然，德国和欧洲的很多决策者和高级官员再次审视了中国高科技公司收购案背后的投资者和收购意图，”柏林墨卡托中国研究中心主管韩博天(Sebastian Heilmann)说。“在很多情况下，中国公司并购案的幕后推手都是政府资助的计划、基金和投资者网络。” investor networks in many cases.”

Questions were raised in the case of Aixtron, as both the customer that dropped the orders and Fujian Grand Chip are related to state-controlled investment firms.	爱思强收购案中的疑点在于，放弃订单的那个客户和福建宏芯都与一些国有控股投资公司有关联。
The company that dropped the orders, San’an Optoelectronics, is also one of the companies considering a bid for Osram Licht.	取消爱思强订单的三安光电公司，也是考虑竞购欧司朗的公司之一。
When the Aixtron merger was announced, San’an and Fujian Grand Chip had a common investor and an existing financial relationship, among other links. And they are both recipients of government funds. Although it is not clear whether the two coordinated in any way, they are a product of a new approach that Beijing has taken to develop its semiconductor industry.	在宣布爱思强的并购案时，三安广电和福建宏芯有一个共同的投资者，而且两家公司之间存在财务关系以及其他关联。它们都接受过政府资金。虽然不清楚这两家公司是否以任何方式进行过协作，但它们都是北京发展半导体行业的新思路的产物。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161025/germany-china-technology-takeover	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161025/germany-china-technology-takeover
ZTO Express of China Has Largest U.S. I.P.O. This Year	中通纽约上市，IPO 规模创今年美国之最
The latest company to offer American investors a piece of China’s internet boom has risen with the help of thousands of couriers on electric carts who speed garments, lipsticks and electronic devices to customers’ homes.	最近，一家公司让美国投资者得以分享中国的互联网繁荣。这家公司是在成千上万名骑着电动车的快递员的帮助下崛起的。他们快速将衣服、口红和电子设备送到消费者家中。
The company, ZTO Express, is one of a host of delivery companies that have emerged in China to ferry packages from merchant to consumer to propel the country’s vast e-commerce revolution. China is now the world’s largest delivery market; nearly 21 billion packages were sent last year, roughly 70 percent originating from online transactions, according to the market research firm iResearch.	名为中通快递的这家公司，是中国出现的众多快递公司中的一家。这些公司将包裹从商家递送到消费者手中，推动了中国巨大的电子商务革命。中国现在是全球最大的快递市场。从市场调研公司 iResearch 的数据来看，中国去年寄出了近 210 万个包裹，大致 70%来自在线交易。

That concept enabled ZTO to raise a greater-than-expected $1.4 billion in an initial public offering of stock on Thursday, the largest I.P.O. in the United States this year, according to Dealogic, a deal information provider. But by midafternoon in New York, its shares on the e New York Stock Exchange t dropped 12 percent, a concerning signal for new listings, which have been challenged this year.	这个概念使中通能够在周四的首次公开募股中筹集到了高于预期的 14 亿美元（约合 95 亿元人民币）。交易信息供应商 Dealogic 的数据显示，这是美国今年规模最大的 IPO。但到纽约时间下午 3 点，中通在纽约证券交易所 (New York Stock Exchange) 的股价下跌 12%。对今年处境艰难的新上市企业来说，这是一个令人担心的信号。
The offering's size eclipsed the $1.3 billion that the Japanese messaging company Line raised in July. That also makes it the largest American debut by a Chinese company since the $25 billion stock sale in 2014 by the Alibaba Group, the Chinese e-commerce giant that has underpinned the rise of companies like ZTO.	中通的发行规模超越了日本即时通讯公司 Line 在 7 月筹集到的 13 亿美元。这也使中通成为了继电商巨头阿里巴巴集团 2014 年筹资 250 亿美元后，中国公司在美国规模最大的 IPO。正是阿里巴巴集团为中通这类公司的崛起奠定了基础。
ZTO is one of four Chinese delivery companies that ferry a bit more than half of all packages in China. The companies, known as the Tongda Operators, share similar names, business models and origins, and all of the founders hail from Tonglu County, about 50 miles south of Alibaba's headquarters in Hangzhou, in the eastern province of Zhejiang. Proximity to Alibaba has been a boon for business; Alibaba's online shops accounted for about 77 percent of ZTO's business in 2015, according to the company's I.P.O. prospectus.	中国的四家快递公司承担了该国略超过一半的包裹，中通便是其中之一。被称作“三通一达”的它们在名字、商业模式和发迹上都类似，创始人都来自东部省份浙江下辖的桐庐县。该县位于阿里巴巴杭州总部以南约 50 英里（约合 80 公里）处。紧挨着阿里巴巴对业务有好处。从中通的 IPO 招股书来看，公司 2015 年的业务中大约 77% 来自阿里巴巴的网店。
"To Xinjiang, Beijing, anywhere in China, all the Tongda Operators are about the same price," said Liu Song, who runs the Sweet Lisa Flagship Store, which sells women's apparel on Alibaba's Tmall online shopping platform. From China's southern city of Guangzhou, Mr. Liu ships about 3,000 dresses, blouses and skirts each month, for roughly 53 cents a parcel. In 2011, he paid $1.20 a parcel to ship to Beijing.	"到中国任何地方，不管是新疆还是北京，三通一达的价格都一样，"在阿里巴巴的天猫网购平台上经营女装店甜蜜丽莎旗舰店的刘松说。刘松每月会从南方城市广州发出大约 3000 件连衣裙、衬衫和短裙，每个包裹邮费大约 53 美分。他说，2011 年发往北京的包裹一个 1.2 美元。

"Every year the price is going down," Mr. Liu said. "I don't think it can go down any more."	"每年都在降价，"刘松说。"我觉得不能再降了吧。"
Though ZTO depends heavily on the legions of delivery people who zip around Chinese cities delivering makeup, clothes and gadgets, it doesn't employ them. The Tongda Operators run only the sorting and long-haul transportation network, leaving last-mile delivery — traditionally the most costly link in the chain — to partners who ferry packages from hubs to homes.	尽管中通严重依赖穿梭在中国各大城市递送化妆品、衣服和小物件的快递员大军，但双方并不存在雇佣关系。“三通一达”只负责分拣和长途运输网络，把最后一英里的递送——历来是整个链条中成本最高的环节——留给合作伙伴，由他们将包裹从各个站点送到消费者家中。
That has helped ZTO maintain profit margins as prices charged to customers decline. ZTO earned a net income of $115 million on revenue of $639 million in the first six months of this year.	这帮助中通在降低面向顾客的收费同时仍能维持利润空间。今年上半年，中通营收 6.39 亿美元，净收益 1.15 亿美元。
"As the market cost leader, we are not afraid of a price war," said James Guo, ZTO's chief financial officer, while also noting that the decline in parcel weight and the introduction of digital waybills explained some of the falling prices. "In the case of the price war, we can actually benefit from that and gain market share."	"作为市场成本领导者，我们不怕价格战，"中通首席财务官郭健民说。他还指出，包裹重量减轻和数字运货单的引入是价格不断下降的部分原因。"就价格战而言，我们实际上可以从中受益，扩大市场份额。"
Almost anyone can open a delivery outlet by paying a fee and signing a contract with ZTO or one of its partners. Then come logos, three-wheeled carts and delivery personnel to start carrying packages. These partners set the prices charged to senders and are the ones being squeezed by a price war.	几乎任何人都可以开设一个快递网点，只要支付一笔费用，并同中通或它的合作伙伴签订合同。然后再配上标识、三轮车和快递员，就可以开始运输包裹了。这些合作伙伴制定向发件人收取的价格，是受价格战挤压的一方。
Though the Tongda Operators are the biggest, China's delivery market is fragmented and cutthroat. It has an estimated 8,000 companies, according to 2015 figures from the China E-Commerce Research Center. No single courier holds more than 15 percent market share by	尽管“三通一达”是规模最大的，但中国的快递市场分散，竞争激烈。从中国电子商务研究中心 2015 年的数据来看，中国估计有 8000 家快递公司。iResearch 的数据显示，从货物量来看没有哪家快递公司的市场份额超过 15%。2011 年，德国邮政敦豪(Deutsche Post DHL)彻底退出中国国内快递

volume, according to iResearch. Deutsche Post DHL pulled out of the domestic delivery market entirely in 2011; FedEx and UPS have a tiny share.	市场，联邦快递(FedEx)和UPS 的市场份额非常小。
ZTO's business model is particular to China, with its densely populated cities and its online shopping boom. It is a business model probably unsuited for many other countries, so the bet for investors is on growth in China's e-commerce market and eventual consolidation in the delivery space.	中通的商业模式是针对城市人口密集、网购繁荣的中国量身定制的。它可能不适合其他很多国家，因此投资者赌的是中国电商市场的增长和快递领域最终的整合。
An American initial public offering like ZTO's is unusual among China's express delivery companies. ZTO's immediate peers — YTO Express, STO Express and Yunda Express, as well as the premium competitor SF Express — are going public in mainland China using what are called reverse mergers, in which the company pours its operations into an existing company that has publicly traded shares.	在中国的快递公司中，像中通这样在美国 IPO 很少见。与其实力接近的同行圆通快递、申通快递和韵达快递，以及面向高端客户的竞争对手顺丰快递，都准备通过反向并购的方式在内地上市，即公司将业务注入已有的上市公司中。
ZTO said on Thursday that it would sell more than 72 million shares at $19.50 each, though it said its underwriters had a 30-day option to buy an additional 10.8 million. The offering was led by Morgan Stanley, Goldman Sachs, China Renaissance, Citigroup, Credit Suisse and J. P. Morgan.	中通周四表示，将以每股 19.50 美元的价格出售 7200 万股，不过该公司称承销商有权在 30 天内再购买 1080 万股。这次公开发行由摩根士丹利 (Morgan Stanley)、高盛(Goldman Sachs)、华兴资本、花旗集团(Citigroup)、瑞士信贷(Credit Suisse)和摩根大通(J. P. Morgan)牵头经办。
https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161028/zto-express-ipo-us	https://cn.nytimes.com/business/20161028/zto-express-ipo-us
A Little-Noticed Fact About Trade: It's No Longer Rising	国际贸易停止增长，发达国家背弃全球化？
The constant flow of goods from Asia to the United States was briefly interrupted last month after Hanjin, the South Korean shipping line, filed for bankruptcy, stranding several dozen of its cargo ships on the high seas.	韩国海运公司韩进上个月申请破产之后，曾导致公司的数十艘货轮困在公海上，使得从亚洲接连不断地运往美国的货物流一度中断。

It was a moment that made literal the stagnation of globalization.	这一刻，全球化的停滞表现得如此真实。
The growth of trade among nations is among the most consequential and controversial economic developments of recent decades. Yet despite the noisy debates, which have reached new heights during this presidential campaign, it is a little-noticed fact that trade is no longer rising. The volume of global trade was flat in the first quarter of 2016, then fell by 0.8 percent in the second quarter, according to statisticians in the Netherlands, which happens to keep the best data.	国与国之间的贸易增长是近几十年来最重要、也最有争议的经济发展形式。然而，尽管有关的辩论十分激烈，并在这次美国总统竞选期间达到了新的高度，但人们忽略的一个事实是，贸易已不再上升。据掌握着最好数据的荷兰统计学家，全球贸易量在 2016 年第一季度持平，而后在第二季度下降 0.8%。
The United States is no exception to the broader trend. The total value of American imports and exports fell by more than $200 billion last year. Through the first nine months of 2016, trade fell by an additional $470 billion.	美国的情况也不例外。美国去年的进出口总值下降了 2000 多亿美元。在 2016 年的前 9 个月里，贸易额再次下降了 4700 亿美元。
