Thanks

I would like to thank all those who worked with me on the first two editions of Advanced Grammar in Use, in particular Jeanne McCarten and Alison Sharpe for their encouragement. Thanks also to my former colleagues and students in the English for International Students Unit at the University of Birmingham for their help and interest.

For this third edition I am grateful to Colin McIntosh, Nora McDonald, Annabel Marriott, Sabina Sahni, Kevin Doherty, Andy George, Claire Cole and Janet Weller. Claire and Janet in particular have given me tremendous support in preparing the book and the accompanying CDROM.

Thanks to Sophie Joyce, Sandy Nichols, Katie Mac, Ian Mitchell and David Whamond for the illustrations and to Kamae Design for their work on the finished product. I would also like to thank Cambridge University Press for allowing me access to the Cambridge International Corpus.

Many students and teachers sent me comments on the 2nd edition, and these have been very helpful in writing this new edition. Thank you all for taking the trouble to contact me.

Finally, my thanks, as ever, to Suzanne, David and Ann.

To the student

Who the book is for Advanced Grammar in Use is for advanced students of English. It was written mainly as a self-study book, but might also be used in class with a teacher.

How the book is organised

There are 100 units in the book, each looking at a particular area of grammar. Some sections within each unit focus on the particular use of a grammatical pattern, such as will be + -ing (as in will be travelling); others explore grammatical contrasts, such as whether to use would or used to in reporting past events, or when we use except or except for. The 100 units are grouped under a number of headings such as Tenses and The future, and you can find details of this in the Contents. Each unit consists of two pages. On the left-hand page are explanations and examples; on the right-hand page are practice exercises. The letters next to each exercise show you which section(s) of the left-hand page you need to understand to do that exercise.

At the back of the book you will find a number of further sections.

- Appendices* (pages 202 and 204) Two appendices provide further information about irregular verbs and passive verb forms.
- Glossary* (page 205) Although terms to describe grammar have been kept to a minimum, some have been included, and you can find explanations of these terms in the Glossary.
- Study planner* (page 210) You can use the Study planner to help you decide which units you should study, or which parts of the Grammar reminder you should read first.
- Grammar reminder* (page 222) This presents examples and explanations of areas of grammar that you are likely to have studied already at earlier stages of learning English. References on the left-hand page of each unit point you to the sections of the Grammar reminder relevant to that unit. Read these sections to refresh your understanding before you start work on the more advanced grammar points in the unit.
- Additional exercises* (page 240) If you want further practice of grammar points, follow the references at the bottom of the right-hand page of a unit. These will tell you which of the Additional exercises to do next.
- Keys* (pages 251, 277 and 278) You can check your answers to the practice exercises, Study planner and Additional exercises in the keys. You will also find comments on some of the answers.
- Indexes* (pages 281 and 287) Use the Indexes to help you find the grammar or vocabulary you need.

How to use the book

It is not necessary to work through the units in order. If you know which grammar points you have difficulty with, go straight to the units that deal with them, using the Contents or Indexes to help you find the relevant unit. When you have found a unit to study, read through any related material in the Grammar reminder before you begin.

You can use the units in a number of ways. You might study the explanations and examples first, do the exercises on the opposite page, check your answers in the Key to Exercises, and then look again at the explanations if you made any mistakes. If you just want to practise an area of grammar you think you already know, you could do the exercises first and then study the explanations for any you got wrong. You might of course simply use the book as a reference book without doing the exercises.

Corpus information

A corpus is a large collection of texts stored on a computer. In writing Advanced Grammar in Use we have worked with the Cambridge International Corpus (CIC), a multi-million word collection of real speech and writing, and the Cambridge Learner Corpus, a collection of exam answers written by students. From these corpora we can learn more about language in use, and about the common errors made by learners. Using this information, we can be sure that the grammar explanations and examples in the book reflect real language, and we can focus on problem areas for learners. We have also used the CIC to produce word boxes, listing the most common words found in particular grammar patterns.

To the teacher

Advanced Grammar in Use was written as a self-study grammar book but teachers might also find it useful for supplementing or supporting their classroom teaching. The book will probably be most useful for advanced level students for reference and practice.

No attempt has been made to order the units according to level of difficulty. Instead, you should select units as they are relevant to the syllabus that you are following with your students, or as particular difficulties arise, rather than working through from beginning to end. Alternatively, you could ask students to do the multiple-choice test in the Study planner (page 210) and focus on units that deal with areas of grammar where students are least successful.

Don't forget to point students to the Grammar reminder (page 222). This is a reference-only section which presents basic knowledge on a number of areas of grammar. It will be useful for students to read through a section before moving on to the more advanced material in the units. At the beginning of each section of the Grammar reminder you will find information about the unit(s) it relates to.

There are many ways in which you can use the book with a class. You might, for example, present the explanations on the left-hand page of a unit, and use the exercises for classroom practice. Alternatively, you might want to begin with the exercises and refer to the left-hand page only when students are having problems. You could also set particular units or groups of units (such as those on Articles or Nouns) for self-study if individual students are having difficulties. Another possibility might be to develop your own classroom-based activities around the explanations on the left-hand page of a unit, and then set the exercises as consolidation material for self-study. When students need further practice of grammar points from a number of different units, refer them to the Additional exercises (page 240). References at the bottom of the right-hand pages show where the relevant Additional exercises can be found.

An edition of Advanced Grammar in Use without the answers is also available, and some teachers might prefer to use it with their students.

The third edition of Advanced Grammar in Use has the same comprehensive grammar coverage as previous editions, but many of its exercises have been revised and its layout made more user-friendly.

Advanced Grammar in Use

Present continuous and present simple 1

A

State verbs

Reminder → A1–A5

We can use the present continuous with some state verbs (e.g. attract, like, look, love, sound) to emphasise that a situation is temporary or for a period of time around the present. Compare:

- Ella stays with us quite often. The children love having her here. and
- Ella's with us at the moment. The children are loving having her here.

State verbs which we rarely use with the present continuous include believe, consist of, doubt, own.

B

Some verbs have different meanings when they are used to talk about states and when they describe actions. With their 'state' meanings, they usually take simple rather than continuous forms. With their 'action' meanings, they may take simple or continuous forms, depending on context. Compare:

- The app doesn't appear to work on my phone. (appear: state = seem) and
- Carley Robb is currently appearing in a musical on Broadway. / She often appears in musicals. (appear: action = take part)

Also: cost, expect, feel, fit, have, imagine, measure, think, weigh

C

Mental state verbs

With some verbs describing mental states (e.g. find, realise, regret, think, understand) we can use the present continuous to emphasise that we have recently started to think about something or that we are not sure about something. Compare:

- I regret that the company will have to be sold. (= I've made the decision and I'm sorry about it) and
- I'm regretting my decision to give her the job. (= I'm increasingly aware that it was the wrong decision)

When it means 'think carefully about', consider is only used with the present continuous:

- He's considering taking early retirement. (not He considers taking early retirement.)

Some other verbs describing preferences and mental states (e.g. agree, believe, conclude, know, prefer) are rarely used with the present continuous:

- I believe you now. (not I'm believing you now.)

D

Performatives

We use the present simple with verbs which perform the action they describe (= performatives):

- I suggest you park outside the city and get the bus to the centre.
- We request that you read the terms and conditions carefully before signing.

Also: acknowledge, admit, advise, apologise, beg, confess, congratulate, declare, deny, forbid, guarantee, name, order, permit, predict, promise, refuse, remind, request, thank, warn

Some verbs used as performatives with the present simple in affirmative (= positive) sentences (apologise, deny, guarantee, promise, suggest) have a similar meaning with either the present simple or the present continuous in negative sentences:

- I don't deny / I'm not denying taking the books, but Miguel said it would be okay.

Modals are often used with performatives to make what we say more tentative or polite:

- We would advise you to arrive two hours before the flight leaves.
- I must beg you to keep this a secret.

Exercises

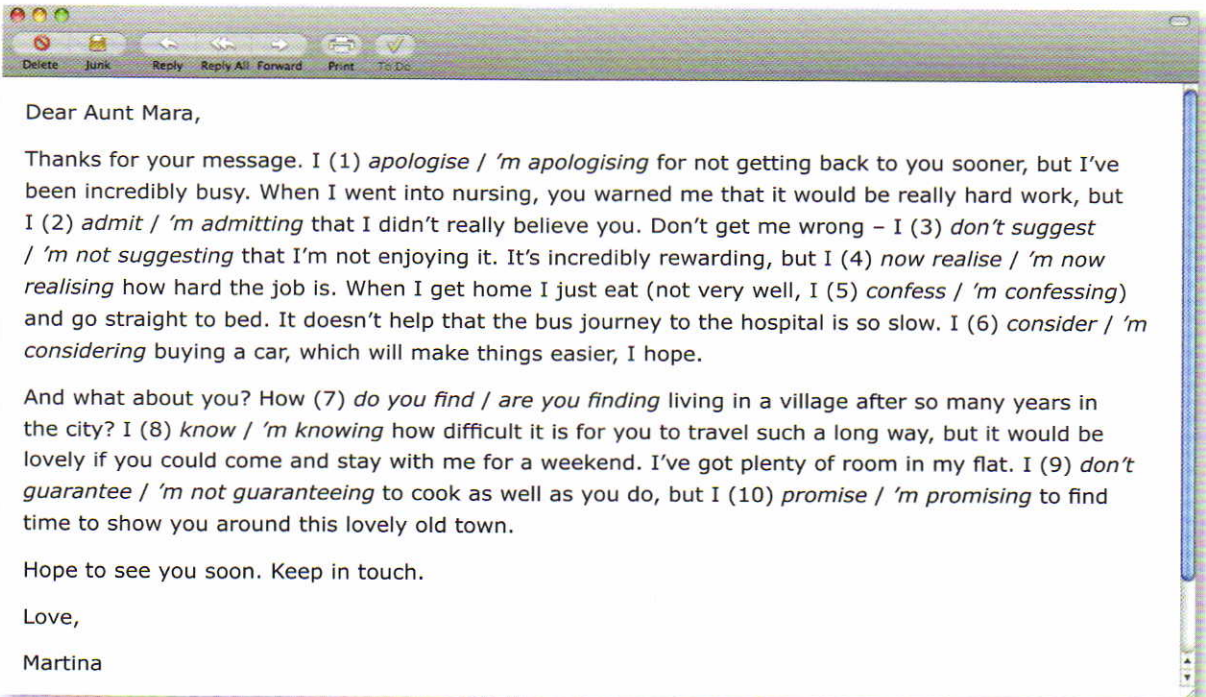

- 1.1 Complete each pair of sentences using the same verb (in a question form or negative if necessary) from the box. Use the present continuous; if this is not possible, use the present simple. Use \surd to add any words outside the gap and use contracted forms where appropriate.

A & B

Dear Aunt Mara,

Thanks for your message. I (1) apologise / 'm apologising for not getting back to you sooner, but I've been incredibly busy. When I went into nursing, you warned me that it would be really hard work, but I (2) admit / 'm admitting that I didn't really believe you. Don't get me wrong - I (3) don't suggest / 'm not suggesting that I'm not enjoying it. It's incredibly rewarding, but I (4) now realise / 'm now realising how hard the job is. When I get home I just eat (not very well, I (5) confess / 'm confessing) and go straight to bed. It doesn't help that the bus journey to the hospital is so slow. I (6) consider / 'm considering buying a car, which will make things easier, I hope.

And what about you? How (7) do you find / are you finding living in a village after so many years in the city? I (8) know / 'm knowing how difficult it is for you to travel such a long way, but it would be lovely if you could come and stay with me for a weekend. I've got plenty of room in my flat. I (9) don't guarantee / 'm not guaranteeing to cook as well as you do, but I (10) promise / 'm promising to find time to show you around this lovely old town.

Hope to see you soon. Keep in touch.

Love,

Martina

Present continuous and present simple 2

A

We often use the present simple and present continuous in stories and jokes in informal spoken English to create the impression that events are happening now. This can make them more direct and exciting and hold people's attention:

Reminder → A1-A5

- She goes up to this man and looks straight into his eyes. He's not wearing his glasses, and he doesn't recognise her ...
- This man's playing golf when a kangaroo bounds up to him, grabs his club and hits his ball about half a mile ...

The main events are usually described in sequence using the present simple and longer background events are described using the present continuous.

In narratives and anecdotes the present simple can be used to highlight an event. Often it is used after past tenses and with a phrase such as suddenly or all of a sudden:

- I was sitting in the park, reading a newspaper, when all of a sudden this dog jumps at me.

B

We also use the present simple and present continuous in live commentaries (for example, on sports events) when the report takes place at the same time as the action:

- King serves to the left-hand court and Adams makes a wonderful return. She's playing magnificent tennis in this match ...

C

We can use the present simple in phrases such as It says here, I hear, I gather, I see, I understand and They say, (Someone) says, (Someone) tells me to introduce news that we have heard, read, seen (e.g. on television), or been told. We can also use past tenses (e.g. It said here, I heard):

- I gather you're worried about Pedro.
- Sophia tells me you're thinking of emigrating.
- Professor Hendriks is at the conference and I hear she's an excellent speaker.

D

The present simple is often used in news headlines to talk about events that have recently happened:

SECOND QUAKE HITS JAPANFIRE BREAKS OUT IN HOTEL ROOM*SCIENTISTS FIND ICE ON THE MOON*FOREIGN MINISTER RESIGNS

We can use the present simple to refer to the contents of books, films, newspapers, etc:

- Thompson gives a list of the largest European companies in Chapter 6.
- At the beginning of the book, three men find $4 million in a crashed plane.
- In the film, Loni Baranski takes the role of a private detective.

E

We can use the present continuous with adverbs such as always, constantly, continually or forever to emphasise that something is done so often that it is characteristic of a person, group or thing:

- A: I think I'll stay here after all. B: You're constantly changing your mind.
- Jacob is a really kind person. He's always offering to help me with my work.

We often use this pattern to indicate disapproval. The past continuous is used in a similar way with these adverbs (e.g. Was Olivia always asking you for money, too?).

We can use the present continuous to describe something we regularly do at a certain time:

- At eight o'clock I'm usually driving to work, so phone me on my mobile.
- Seven o'clock is a bit early. We're generally eating then.

Exercises

2.1 Complete these sentences using the verbs in brackets. Use the present simple or present continuous. A & B

- A man home late one night after the office Christmas party. His wife for him, and she to him ... (arrive - wait - say)
- I went to a concert yesterday in the Town Hall. In the middle of it, while the orchestra this man suddenly on his seat and to conduct them. (play - stand - start)

2.2 Complete what each person says about the news they have read or heard using the present tense phrases in C. C

- Government gives health service billions

I see the government's giving the health service a lot more money.
- Vegecorp to sack 1,000 workers.

..... Vegecorp are going to
- President Cartman announced a new public holiday on his birthday, August 6th. He made the announcement ...

..... we're going to have
-  Did you hear that Bruno's crashed his car again?

Ed

..... Bruno's
-  I've got a new job.

Julia

..... she's
-  A team of researchers claims to have identified a gene which causes some people to overeat.

..... they've identified

2.3 Expand one of the sets of notes below to complete each dialogue. E continually / change / mind forever / moan / work forever / ask me / money constantly / criticise / driving ~~always / complain / handwriting~~

- A: I can't read this. B: You're always complaining about my handwriting.
- A: Can I borrow €10? B: You're
- A: That was a dangerous thing to do. B: You're
- A: I think I'll stay here after all. B: You're
- A: I had a bad day at the office again. B: You're

2.4 Complete each pair of sentences using the same verb (in negative form if necessary). Use the present continuous or the present simple. Use \surd to add any words outside the gap. D & E

- a A: Shall I phone at six? B: No, we usually dinner at that time.

b I lamb, thanks. I'm a vegetarian.
- a Gielman Henry V in the latest production at the Royal Theatre.

b They constantly loud music until the early hours of the morning.
- a I normally the children to school at 8:30. Perhaps we could meet at 9:00.

b In his 2007 book, Wall a controversial view of Britain's role in the war.

Past simple and present perfect

A

Time expressions that refer to the present, such as this morning / week / month and today, can be used with either past simple or present perfect verbs.

Reminder → A6–A12

If we think of this morning (etc.) as a past, completed time period, then we use the past simple; if we think of this morning (etc.) as a time period which includes the present moment, then we use the present perfect. Compare:

- I didn't shave this morning. (= the morning is over and I didn't shave) and
- I haven't shaved this morning. (= it is still the morning and I might shave later)

B

In a sentence which includes a time clause with since, we generally prefer a past simple verb in the time clause and a present perfect verb in the main clause. The time clause refers to a particular point in the past:

- Since* Mr Dodson became president unemployment has increased. (rather than ... has become ...)
- She hasn't been able to play tennis since she broke her arm. (rather than ... has broken ...)

Note, however, that we use the present perfect in the time clause if the two situations described in the main clause and time clause extend until the present:

- Have you met any of your neighbours since you've lived here? (not ... you lived ...)

C

With time clauses introduced by after, when, until, as soon as, once, by the time and the time expressions the minute / second / moment the past simple refers to past, completed events and the present perfect refers to future events. Compare these examples:

- After* she left hospital (past), she had a long holiday. and
- After* Lucas has left school (future), he will be spending six months in India.
- The minute* I got the news about Anna (past) I telephoned my parents. and
- I'll contact you the minute I've got my exam results. (future)

In the time clause in sentences like this it is possible to use the past perfect instead of the past simple (e.g. After she had left ...) and the present simple instead of the present perfect (e.g. After Lucas leaves ...) with the same meaning (see also Unit 5).

D

In news reports, you will often read about or hear recent events introduced with the present perfect, and then the past simple or other past tenses are used to give details:

- A Russian spacecraft has returned safely to Earth with its two passengers. US astronaut Scott Keane and Russian cosmonaut Olga Kaleri landed in the early hours of Wednesday.

- An American woman has become the first person to make 2 million contributions to Wikipedia. Esther Miller began editing the site eight years ago.

E

After the pattern It / This / That is / will be the first time ... we generally use the present perfect in the next clause:

- That's the first time* I've seen Jan look embarrassed. (reporting a past event)
- It won't be the first time* she has voted against the government. (talking about a future event)

Note that after It / This / That was the first time ... we generally use the past perfect (see Unit 5):

- It was the first time* I'd talked to Dimitra outside the office.

Exercises

3.1 Complete each sentence with a verb from the box. Use the present perfect or past simple, with a negative form where necessary. A

B: No, I this morning because my alarm clock didn't go off, so I need to work late.
- 6 I much of the report yet, but I have to finish it by the weekend.

3.2 Complete the sentences with the pairs of verbs from the box. Choose the most appropriate tense — present perfect or past simple. B

- 3 Since he the girl from a house fire, he on TV almost every day.
- 4 A lot since I last to you.
- 5 Since I to drive I much more independent
- 6 Stefan's reading enormously since he at school.

3.3 One sentence in each pair is wrong. Correct it by replacing the past simple with the present perfect of the italicised verb. C

- 1 a Remember that after you signed the contract you won't be able to change your mind.
b Carlo's injury only became apparent after he signed to play for Real Madrid.
- 2 a As soon as I finished college I want to travel around Australia.
b I didn't have time to check the essay. I handed it in as soon as I finished it.
- 3 a By the time Sarah got to work the meeting had finished.
b I'll probably have finished breakfast by the time the children got up.
- 4 a I recognised her the moment I heard her laugh.
b I'll tell you what time we're coming the moment I heard from Emil.

3.4 Here are some extracts from a television news report. Choose the more appropriate tense – present perfect or past simple – for the verbs in brackets. D & E

- 1 When President Nelson arrives (arrive) in Paris this evening, it will be the first time she (visit) Europe since her election victory in May.
- 2 The Victoria Hospital in Milltown (close) to new patients after more cases of food poisoning. Three elderly patients (die) last week in the outbreak.

- 4 Nearly 600 laptops (steal) from Ministry of Defence staff over the past five years. However, a spokesperson (insist) that there had been no security problems as none of the computers (hold) secret information.

Past continuous and past simple

A

When we talk about two events or activities that went on over the same period of past time, we can often use the past continuous or the past simple for both:

- Mia was reading to the children while Ben was washing up. (or ... read ... washed up.)

Using the past continuous emphasises that the event or activity ('was reading') was in progress during the past period of time ('while Ben was washing up'). Compare:

- When I was learning / learned to drive I was living with my parents.

Was learning emphasises that the activity was in progress ('I had lessons during this time') and learned emphasises completion ('I passed my test during this time').

When we talk about two or more past completed events that followed one another, we use the past simple, not the past continuous, for both (see also Unit 5C):

- She got up when the alarm clock went off.

Reminder → A6–A8, A13

B

We usually use the past simple rather than the past continuous to talk about repeated past actions:

- We went to Spain three times last year.
 Did you drive past her house every day?

However, we can use the past continuous, particularly in spoken English, when we want to emphasise that repeated actions went on for a limited and temporary period of past time:

- When Kata was in hospital, we were visiting her twice a day. (or ... we visited ...)
 To lose weight before the race, I wasn't eating any biscuits for weeks. (or ... I didn't eat ...)

or to talk about something that happened surprisingly often:

- Last week I was having to bring work home every night to get it all done. (or ... had ...)
 When the builders were here I was making them cups of tea all the time. (or ... made ...)

C

We often use the past simple in a narrative (e.g. a report or a story) to talk about a single complete past event and the past continuous to describe the situation that existed at the time. The event might have interrupted the situation, or happened while the situation was in progress:

- Erika dropped her bag while she was getting into her car.
 She was shaking with anger as she left the hotel.

D

We can use either the past continuous or past simple (or past perfect; see Unit 5E) with some verbs to talk about things we intended to do but didn't:

- We were meaning to call in and see you, but Marc wasn't feeling well. (or We meant ...)

Also: consider + -ing, expect to, hope to, intend to, plan to / on + -ing, think about / of + -ing, want to

These verbs (with the exception of mean and expect) and wonder about can also be used with the present and past continuous to report what we might do in the future. The past continuous is less definite than the present continuous:

- I was thinking of going to China next year, but it depends how much money I've got. (less definite than I'm thinking of going ...)
 We were wondering about inviting Eva over tomorrow. (less definite than We're wondering about ...)

Exercises

- 4.1 Complete the sentences using these pairs of verbs. Use the past simple in one gap and the past continuous in the other. A–D

- I bumped into Lena last week. She a lot better than when I last her.
- My boss into the office just as I everyone my holiday photos.
- I badminton four times a week before I my ankle.

This time, use the same tense, either past simple or past continuous, in both spaces.

- 4.3 Complete this email with either the past simple or the past continuous form of the verbs in brackets. Where alternatives are possible, think about any difference in meaning. A–C

I (1) (buy) a new alarm clock the other day in Taylor's the jewellers, when I actually (2) (see) somebody shoplifting. I'd just finished paying for my clock and as I (3) (turn) round, an elderly woman (4) (slowly put) a silver plate into a bag that she (5) (carry). Then she (6) (walk) over to another part of the shop and (7) (pick up) an expensive-looking watch a number of times. When she (8) (think) that nobody (9) (look), she (10) (drop) it into the bag. Before I (11) (have) a chance to tell the staff in the shop, she (12) (notice) that I (13) (watch) her and (14) (hurry) out. Unfortunately for her, two police officers (15) (walk) past just at that moment and she (16) (run) straight into them.

Past perfect and past simple

A

When we give an account of a sequence of past events we usually put these events in chronological order using the past simple. If we want to refer to an event out of order – that is, an event which happened before the last event in the sequence we have written or spoken about – we can use the past perfect. Study the use of the past perfect and past simple in the text on the right:

Reminder → A6–A8, A14–A15

Order of events:	1 gave present 2 wrote email 3 made mistake 4 realised mistake
Order events are mentioned:	1 wrote email 2 had given present (out of order) 3 realised mistake 4 had made mistake (out of order)

I wrote Clara an email to thank her for the present she had given me for my birthday last week. But as soon as I pressed the 'send' button, I realised that I had made a mistake and sent it to her sister instead.

B

When we understand that we are talking about events before another past event, we don't have to continue using the past perfect:

- We bought a new car last month. We'd driven my parents' old car for ages, but it started (or had started) to fall apart. We put (or had put) a new engine in it, but that didn't solve (or hadn't solved) the problems we were having.

C

If the order of past events is clear from the context (for example, if time expressions make the order clear) we can often use either the past perfect or the past simple:

- After* Ivan had finished reading, he put out the light. (or ... Ivan finished ...)
- The two leaders agreed to meet, even though earlier talks had failed to reach an agreement. (or ... talks failed ...)

D

The past perfect is often used in reporting what was originally said or thought in the present perfect or past simple (see also Unit 35):

Talking about a past event	Reporting this past event
<input type="checkbox"/> 'I have met him before.'	<input type="checkbox"/> I was sure that I had met him before. (not ... I met him ...)
<input type="checkbox"/> 'The village hasn't changed much.'	<input type="checkbox"/> I found that the village hadn't changed much. (not ... the village didn't change ...)
<input type="checkbox"/> '225 people drowned in the recent floods.'	<input type="checkbox"/> Police said that 225 people had drowned in the recent floods. (or ... drowned ...)
<input type="checkbox"/> 'I stole the watch.'	<input type="checkbox"/> She admitted that she had stolen the watch. (or ... stole ...)

E

We can use either the past perfect or past simple (and often past continuous and past perfect continuous; see Units 4 and 7) when we talk about things that we intended to do, but didn't or won't now do in the future:

- I had hoped to visit the gallery before I left Florence, but it's closed on Mondays. (or I hoped ..., I was hoping ..., I had been hoping ...)
- Aron planned to retire at 60, but we have persuaded him to stay for a few more years. (or Aron had planned ..., Aron was planning ..., Aron had been planning ...)

Exercises

5.1 The events mentioned in the magazine article are listed below. Write the order in which the events are mentioned and then the order in which they occurred (or were thought to occur). Compare the two lists and consider why the past perfect (in italics) was used. A & B

How I bought my dream house

When I first saw the old house I had just moved to the area. It had been empty for about a year and was beginning to need some repairs, but the house was exactly what I wanted. But by the time I had put together enough money I learnt that a property developer had bought it and planned to turn it into a hotel. Six months later I had nearly given up hope of finding anywhere to live in the village when I heard that the house was for sale again. The property developer had decided to invest his money in a new housing development on the edge of the village. I bought the house immediately and I've lived there happily ever since.

- The waiter took my plate away before I had finished / finished eating.

5.3 Expand these sets of notes using the past perfect to begin each sentence. E

I / expect / operation / painful ~~I / hope / leave / by nine~~
 He / not mean / insult / her Lara / not intend / become / dentist
 I / not think of / cook rabbit

- I had hoped to leave by nine*, but I overslept and missed the train.
-; she always wanted to be a vet.
-, but I didn't feel a thing.
-, until Andrei told me how tasty it was.
-, but Daria was very offended.

Present perfect continuous and present perfect

A

We use the present perfect continuous to express the idea of an activity (a task, piece of work, etc.) in progress until recently or until the time of speaking:

Reminder → A9–A12, A16–A17

- Have you been working in the garden all day? You look exhausted.
- She's been writing the book since she was in her twenties and at last it's finished.

Note that we often use time expressions to say how long the activity has been in progress.

We don't use the present perfect continuous with verbs such as belong, know, (dis)like, and understand that describe unchanging states:

- Have you known each other long? (not Have you been knowing ...)
- I haven't liked ice cream since I ate too much and was sick. (not I haven't been liking ...)

When we talk about situations (general characteristics or circumstances) that exist until the present we can often use either the present perfect or present perfect continuous:

- We've been looking forward to this holiday for ages. (or We've looked forward to ...)

B

We often use the present perfect or the present perfect continuous to talk about something that has recently finished if we can still see its results. However, we generally use the present perfect continuous with verbs that suggest extended or repeated activity. Compare:

- He's broken his finger and is in a lot of pain. (not He's been breaking ...)
- I've been playing squash and need a shower! (more likely than I've played ...)

We use the present perfect continuous rather than the present perfect when we draw a conclusion from what we can see, hear, etc. We often use this form to complain or criticise:

- Who's been messing around with my papers? They're all over the place.
- You've been eating chocolate, haven't you? There's some on your shirt.

When we talk about the result of circumstances or an activity, we use the present perfect, rather than the present perfect continuous. When we focus on the process we often use either the present perfect or the present perfect continuous. Compare:

- Prices have decreased by 7%. (not Prices have been decreasing by 7%.)
- Prices have been decreasing recently. (or Prices have decreased ...)
- I've used three tins of paint on the kitchen walls. (not I've been using three tins of paint on the kitchen walls.)
- I've been using a new kind of paint on the kitchen walls. (or I've used ...)

C

The present perfect continuous emphasises that an activity is ongoing and repeated, while the present perfect suggests the activity happened only once or on a specified number of occasions:

- Miguel has been kicking a football against the wall all day. (more likely than ... has kicked ...)
- He has played for the national team in 65 matches so far. (not He has been playing for the national team in 65 matches so far.)

Compare:

- The workers have been calling for the chairman's resignation. (= emphasises a number of times, probably over an extended period) and
- Workers have called for management to begin negotiations on pay. (= maybe a number of times or only once.)

Exercises

6.2 Here are two views on the government's announcement that it is to cut the money it gives to the Influenza Research Centre. If necessary, correct the present perfect continuous verbs using either the present perfect or past simple. A-C and Unit 3

a Dr Petra Adams, the Director of the Centre

It's remarkable to think that since 1950 influenza (1) has been claiming more than 50,000 lives in this country, and in 1957 alone around 6,000 people (2) have been dying. But over the last 20 years we at the Centre (3) have been making considerable progress on understanding the illness. We (4) have been producing over a hundred books and articles reporting the results of our research and in 2012 they (5) have been awarding the Nobel Prize for medicine to one of my colleagues. In our more recent work we (6) have been looking into the effects of influenza on heart disease and we (7) have also been exploring a possible link between climate change and the recent increase in the number of cases of influenza. It is a tragedy that the government (8) has been making this decision now.

b Sabir Khan, the Opposition spokesperson for science

The previous government (1) has been investing huge amounts of money into the Centre and I think it's terrible that the present government (2) has been announcing this cut when the number of cases of influenza (3) has been increasing. The Centre (4) has been running successfully for many years. But this decision is just typical of this government. It (5) has been neglecting health research ever since it was elected, and (6) has been cutting back on spending on science generally. Although the government says that the cut is necessary because of the recent world economic problems, I (7) have been finding evidence that they (8) have been planning this for some time. I (9) have been speaking to the Minister about this yesterday and (10) have also been writing to the Prime Minister demanding that the decision should be reversed.

Past perfect continuous, past perfect and past continuous

A

We use the past perfect continuous to talk about something that was in progress recently before or up to a past point in time, and the past perfect when we talk about a finished activity before a past time:

Reminder → A14–A15, A18

- I'd been finishing some work in the garden when Lea arrived, so I didn't hear her come in. (not I'd finished some work in the garden when Lea arrived, so I didn't hear her come in.) and
- I'd finished all the ironing so I started cleaning the windows. (not I'd been finishing all the ironing so I started cleaning the windows.)

We can often use either the past perfect continuous or the past perfect with a similar meaning:

- I'd been working / I'd worked hard all year, so I felt that I deserved a holiday.

B

If we talk about how many times something happened in a period up to a particular past time, we use the past perfect, not the past perfect continuous:

- How many times had you met him before yesterday? (not How many times had you been meeting ...)
- I had stayed in the hotel twice in the 1990s. (not I had been staying in the hotel twice ...)

C

The past perfect continuous can be used to talk about a situation or activity that went on before a particular past time and (i) finished at that time, (ii) continued beyond it, or (iii) finished shortly before it:

- (i) We'd been driving for about an hour when the engine suddenly stopped.
- (ii) She felt terrible during the interview because she had been suffering from flu since the previous day.
- (iii) When I last saw Omar, he'd been running and was out of breath.

If we are not interested in how long the activity went on, we can use the past continuous instead of the past perfect continuous. Compare:

- When the merger was announced it became apparent that the two companies had been discussing the possibility since last year. and
- A friend told me about a conversation she'd recently overheard. Two women were discussing their holiday plans ...
- I first met Mateo and Lucia when they had been going out together for five years, and they didn't get married for another three years after that. and
- Karin met Lars when she was going out with his best friend.

D

Remember that we don't describe states with continuous tenses (see Unit 1), and we use the past perfect, not the past perfect continuous, even when we focus on the length of a situation up to a particular past time:

- We had only owned the car for six weeks when the clutch broke. (not We had been owning the car for six weeks ...)

The past perfect continuous is mainly used in written texts and is less common in speech. Here is an example in a newspaper article:

- The body of a climber who went missing in the Alps was finally found yesterday. Carl Sims had been climbing alone near the Harz Waterfall, which has claimed many lives in the past.

Exercises

B: She (4) had just been hearing that he (5) had been flown by helicopter to hospital in Edinburgh from a village called Contin where he (6) had fished with my Uncle Mark.
A: And is he okay? What's wrong with him?
B: Well, Uncle Mark said that Dad (7) had been complaining of a bad headache most of yesterday, but he (8) hadn't been wanting to go back to the hotel and spoil the day. But then in the evening, just as they (9) had stopped fishing for the day, he (10) had been collapsing...

A

Continuous and simple

Reminder → Section A

When we focus on an activity itself, starting before and continuing up to (and possibly beyond) a particular point of time, rather than focusing on actions as completed events, we use continuous forms:

- Ingrid can't come to the phone. She's washing her hair.
- As you're not using your car at the moment, can I borrow it?
- This time yesterday I was flying over the Pacific.
- Was she wearing that red dress when you saw her?

We use simple forms to talk about general situations, habits, and things that are or were always true:

- When I worked as a postman I got up at three o'clock every morning.
- Miguel doesn't play golf very well.
- These birds build their nests on the ground.
- The earthquake struck the area at midday yesterday. (past simple for completed events)

We use simple forms with verbs that describe unchanging states (that stay the same):

- She intends to work hard at school and go on to university.
- Did you understand the instructions we were given?

However, we can use continuous forms with these verbs when they describe something happening or changing:

- She was intending to talk to Tony about the idea, but she didn't get the opportunity.
- I'm understanding physics much better now that Mr Davies is teaching us.

B

Perfect

We use perfect verb forms to describe one event or state from the point of view of a later time. The present perfect suggests a connection between something that happened in the past and the present time. Note, however, that the situation or event does not have to continue until the time of speaking, only to have some connection or relevance to the present time:

- I've finished that book you wanted, so you can borrow it now.
- Have you turned the heating off? I don't like it to be on when I'm not at home.
- Your nose is bleeding. Has somebody hit you?

The past perfect is used to locate a past event before another past event:

- I invited him out to dinner, but he said he had already eaten.
- By the time I picked up the phone, they had rung off.

Combinations of perfect and continuous

We combine the perfect and continuous forms in the present perfect continuous to describe an activity in progress either at or recently before the time of speaking, and possibly beyond it:

- I have been following the discussions on the forum with great interest.

We can also use the present perfect continuous to talk about activities that have recently finished with some result that can be seen, heard, etc.:

- Look at the dirt on your clothes! Have you been digging in the garden again?

The past perfect continuous has a similar meaning. However, the point of reference is not 'now' (as it is with the present perfect continuous) but a point in the past:

- When we met Lena and Marko, they had been riding.
- It had been snowing heavily for hours and when I went to the door I couldn't open it.

last season they (9) (finish) second in the First Division. However, they (10) (win) only five matches so far this season. The chairman of the club, Peter White, last night (11) (accuse) Ronson of lack of commitment to the club. 'Neil's attitude (12) (disappoint) us recently. Over the last few months he (13) (spend) more time on Spanish beaches than working with the players in Aston.'

8.3 Here is the rest of the conversation in Exercise 7.3. If the italicised verb is correct, write ✓. If it is wrong, correct it using the past simple, present perfect, past perfect, present perfect continuous or past perfect continuous. A–C

- A: (1) Did he have any health problems recently?
 B: Well, he (2) 's been suffering from stress for some time, but we (3) have thought a holiday in Scotland would be relaxing for him. He (4) worked too hard for months, and we (5) 've been trying to persuade him to have a break for ages before he agreed.
 A: So (6) have you gone up to Scotland when you (7) have heard?
 B: No, Mum (8) has gone up to be with him, but the doctors (9) have checked him over and (10) had been saying that it's not too serious. They (11) gave him some medicine to bring down his blood pressure and (12) had told him that he needs complete rest for a couple of months. So Mum's driving him back in the car tomorrow.
 A: Well, send him my best wishes when you speak to him.
 B: Thanks, I will do.

Will and be going to

Reminder → B1–B5

A

We can use either will or be going to to talk about something that is planned, or something that we think is likely to happen in the future:

- We will study climate change in a later part of the course. (or We are going to study ...)
- Where will you stay in Berlin? (or Where are you going to stay ...?)
- The south of the city won't be affected by the power cuts. (or ... isn't going to be affected ...)

We often prefer be going to in informal contexts (see also D).

B

We use will rather than be going to to make a prediction based on our opinion or experience:

- Why not come over at the weekend? The children will enjoy seeing you again.
- 'Shall I ask Lamar?' 'No, she won't want to be disturbed.'

We use be going to rather than will when we make a prediction based on some present evidence:

- The sky's gone really dark. There's going to be a storm.
- 'What's the matter with her?' 'It looks like she's going to faint.'

C

To predict the future we often use will with I bet (informal), I expect, I hope, I imagine, I reckon (informal), I think, I wonder and I'm sure, and in questions with think and reckon:

- I imagine* the stadium will be full for the match on Saturday.
- That cheese smells awful. I bet nobody will eat it.
- When do you think you'll finish work?
- Do you reckon* he'll say yes?

Be going to can also be used with these phrases, particularly in informal contexts.

D

We use will when we make a decision at the moment of speaking and be going to for decisions about the future that have already been made. Compare:

- I'll pick him up at eight. (an offer; making an arrangement now) and
- I'm going to collect the children at eight. (this was previously arranged)
- 'Pineapples are on special offer this week.' 'In that case, I'll buy two.' and
- When I've saved up enough money, I'm going to buy a smartphone.

However, in a formal style, we use will rather than be going to to talk about future events that have been previously arranged in some detail. Compare:

- Are you going to talk at the meeting tonight? and
- The meeting will begin at 9 am. Refreshments will be available from 8:30 onwards.

E

We can use will or be going to with little difference in meaning in the main clause of an if-sentence when we say that something (often something negative) is conditional on something else:

- You'll / You're going to knock that glass over if you're not careful.

When the future event does not depend on the action described in the if-clause, we use be going to, not will. This kind of sentence is mainly found in spoken English. Compare:

- I'm going to open a bottle of lemonade, if you want some. (= I'm going to open a bottle of lemonade. Do you want some?) and
- I'll open a bottle of lemonade if you want some. (= If you say you want some, I'll open it.)

However, we use will, not be going to, when the main clause refers to offers, requests, promises, etc. and ability:

- If Erik phones, I'll let you know. (= an offer; '..., I'm going to let you know' suggests 'I intend to let you know when Erik phones')
- If you look to your left, you'll see the lake. (= you'll be able to see; '... you're going to see ...' suggests 'I know this is what you can see when you look to your left') and when one thing is the logical consequence of another:

- If you don't switch on the monitor first, the computer won't come on.

Exercises

A: Sorry. In that case, I'll sort out a different day with Karl.
- 13 A: Did you get the theatre tickets?
B: No. I forgot all about them. I'll book them tomorrow.
- 14 A: We've got small, medium and large. What size do you want?
B: I'm going to have a large one, please.
- 15 A: Shall I give Ian another ring?
B: Yes, I expect he 'll be home by now.
- 16 A: What are those bricks for?
B: I'll build a wall at the side of the garden.

9.2 Complete the sentences with will ('ll) or be going to and an appropriate verb. If both will and be going to are possible, write them both. E

- 1 If you want me to, I 'll explain how the equipment works.
- 2 If you want to help us, we these trees at the bottom of the garden.
- 3 You your back if you try to lift that box.
- 4 If I give you the money you me some oranges when you're out?
- 5 If you press the red button, the machine
- 6 I Laura this weekend, if you'd like to come too.
- 7 He's been told that if he's late once more he
- 8 If you listen carefully, you an owl in the trees over there.

A

Present simple

Reminder → B6 & B7

We can often use either the present simple or will to talk about future events that are part of some timetabled or programmed arrangement or routine. However, we prefer the present simple for fixed, unchangeable events. Compare:

- Does the sale finish on Thursday or Friday? (or Will the sale finish ...?) and
- The sun rises at 5:16 tomorrow. (more likely than The sun will rise ...)

We avoid the present simple when we talk about less formal or less routine arrangements, or predictions. Instead we use will, be going to, or the present continuous:

- Are you staying in to watch TV tonight, or are you coming dancing? (not Do you stay to watch TV tonight, or do you come...)
- It's only a problem in Britain now, but it will affect the rest of Europe soon. (not ... but it affects the rest of Europe soon.)

We use the present simple, not will, to refer to the future –

- ☆ in time clauses with conjunctions such as after, as soon as, before, by the time, when, while, until:
 - When* you see Ben, tell him he still owes me some money. (not When you will see Ben ...)
 - I should be finished by the time you get back. (not ... by the time you will get back.)
- ☆ in conditional clauses with if, in case, provided, and unless:
 - Provided* the right software is available, I should be able to solve the problem.
 - I'll bring some sandwiches in case we don't find anywhere decent to eat.
- ☆ when we talk about possible future events with suppose, supposing, and what if at the beginning of a sentence. Note that the past simple can be used with a similar meaning:
 - Suppose* we miss the bus – how will we get home? (or Suppose we missed ...)
 - What if* the train's late? Where shall I meet you then? (or What if the train was late?)

C

Present continuous

We can often use either the present continuous or be going to with a similar meaning to talk about planned future events. The present continuous indicates that we have a firm intention or have made a definite decision to do something, although this may not already be arranged:

- Are you seeing the doctor again next week? (or Are you going to see ...?)
- I'm not asking Tom to the party. (or I'm not going to ask ...)

However, we don't use the present continuous for the future –

- ☆ when we make or report predictions about activities or events over which we have no control (we can't arrange these):
 - I think it's going to rain soon.
 - Scientists say that the satellite won't cause any damage when it falls to Earth.
- ☆ when we talk about permanent future situations:
 - People are going to live / will live longer in the future.
 - Her new house is going to have / will have three floors.

D

Many people avoid be going to + go / come and use the present continuous forms of go and come instead:

- I'm going to town on Saturday. (rather than I'm going to go to town ...)
- Are you coming home for lunch? (rather than Are you going to come ...?)

Exercises

10.1 If possible, use the present simple of a verb from the box to complete each sentence. If not, use will + infinitive. A-C

A

Future continuous: I will be doing

Reminder → B8

We can use the future continuous to talk about:

(i) something that is predicted to start before a particular point of future time, and that may continue after this point (often the result of a previous decision or arrangement):

- When it goes into orbit, the spacecraft will be carrying 30 kilos of plutonium.
- Anna will be helping us to organise the party.

(ii) a future activity that is part of the normal course of events or that is one of a repeated or regular series of events:

- Dr Lin will be giving the same talk in room 103 at ten next Thursday.
- Will you be driving to work, as usual?

We can often use either the future continuous or the present continuous when we talk about arranged activities or events in the future (see also Unit 10). Compare:

- We will be leaving for Istanbul at 7:00 in the evening. (timetabled; or ... are leaving ...) and
- When the race starts later this afternoon the drivers will be hoping for drier weather than last year. (not ... are hoping ...; not reporting the details of a programme or timetable)

When we don't want to indicate willingness, intention, invitation, etc., we prefer to use the future continuous instead of will. For example, if guests have stayed longer than you wanted, and you don't know when they are leaving, you might ask:

- Will you be staying with us again tonight? (asking about their plans) rather than
- Will you stay with us again tonight? (they might think this is an invitation)

C

Future perfect and future perfect continuous: I will have done and I will have been doing

We use the future perfect to say that something will be ended, completed, or achieved by a particular point in the future:

- By the time you get home* I will have cleaned the house from top to bottom.
- I'm sure his awful behaviour will soon have been forgotten. (= passive form)

We use the future perfect continuous to emphasise the duration of an activity in progress at a particular point in the future:

- Next year* I will have been working in the company for 30 years.

With both the future perfect and future perfect continuous we usually mention the future time (e.g. By the time you get home ..., Next year ...).

The future continuous, future perfect and future perfect continuous can also be used to say what we believe or imagine is happening around now:

- We could ask to borrow Joe's car. He won't be using it today – he went to work by bike.
- Most people will have forgotten the fire by now.
- Tennis fans will have been queuing at Wimbledon all day to buy tickets.

We can use the future perfect continuous to say what we think was happening at a point in the past:

- Motorist Vicky Hesketh will have been asking herself whether speed cameras are a good idea after she was fined £100 last week for driving at 33 mph in a 30 mph zone.

Exercises

11.1 Complete both sentences in each pair with one verb from the box. Use the future continuous (will / won't be + -ing) in one sentence and will / won't + infinitive in the other. A & B b Without more cheap housing, families the village and find homes in town.

- 2 a you late at the office again? I want to know when to cook.

11.2 Make sentences with a beginning from (i), a verb from (ii) (either in the future perfect or future perfect continuous), and an ending from (iii). C & D

11.3 Here is part of an email from Emily, an English teacher in Japan, to her friend Rosa. Underline the correct option. A & D

Be to + infinitive; be about to + infinitive

A

Be to + infinitive is commonly used in news reports to talk about events that are likely to happen in the near future:

- Police officers are to visit every home in the area.
- The main Rome-to-Naples railway line is to be reopened today. (passive form)

It is also used to talk about formal or official arrangements, formal instructions, and to give orders:

- You are not to leave the school without my permission.
- The European Parliament is to introduce a new law on safety at work.
- Children are not to be left unsupervised in the museum. (passive form)

Passive forms are often used to make orders and instructions more impersonal.

Note that we only use be to + infinitive to talk about future events that can be controlled by people. Compare:

- In the next few years, thousands of speed cameras are to appear on major roads. (or ... will appear ...) and
- Scientists say they can't predict when or where the disease will appear again. (not ... the disease is to appear again; the appearance of the disease can't be controlled)
- The President is to return to Brazil later today. (or ... will return ...) and
- The comet will return to our solar system in around 500 years. (not The comet is to return ...; the movement of the comet can't be controlled)

However, when be to + infinitive refers to the future from the past (see Unit 14B), we often use it to describe what happened to someone, whether they were able to influence events or not:

- Matthew Flinders sailed past Tasmania in 1770, but it was to be a further 30 years before he landed there.
- Clare Atkins was to write two more books about her experiences in Africa before her death in 1997.

B

We often use be to + infinitive in if-clauses to say that something must happen first (in the main clause) before something else can happen (in the if-clause):

- If* the human race is to survive, we must look at environmental problems now.
- The law needs to be revised if justice is to be done. (passive form)

Compare the use of be to + infinitive and the present simple for the future in if-clauses:

- If Lopez is to win gold at the next Olympics, he needs to work on his fitness. and
- If Lopez wins gold at the next Olympics, he has said that he will retire from athletics.

Note how the order of cause and effects in if-sentences is reversed with these two tenses:

- If Lopez is to win gold ... (= effect), he needs to work ... (= cause) and
- If Lopez wins gold ... (= cause), he has said that he will retire ... (= effect)

C

We use be about to + infinitive mainly in conversation to say that something will (not) happen in the very near future:

- We're about to eat. Do you want to join us?
- Appearing on TV might make her famous, but it's not about to make her rich.
- A: Why don't you switch it off and turn it back on again?
B: Yes, I was about to try that when you came in.
(not Yes, I was to try ...) (referring to the future from the past)

Exercises

- Seventy new posts at the factory following a major investment by the parent company in the United States.

12.2 Underline the correct answers. In some cases both alternatives are possible. B & C

Other ways of talking about the future

A

Some phrases are commonly used to refer to actions or events in the future with a meaning similar to be about to + infinitive (see Unit 12C). We can use be on the verge of ... / brink of ... / point of ... (+ -ing or noun) to say that something will happen soon:

- People are on the verge of starvation as the drought continues.
- Scientists are on the brink of making major advances in the fight against AIDS.
- Exhausted, mentally and physically, she was on the point of collapse.

Be on the brink of usually refers to something important, exciting, or very bad.

We use be due to (+ infinitive) to say that something is expected to happen at a particular time, be sure / bound to (+ infinitive) to say that something is likely or certain to happen, and be set to (+ infinitive) to say that something is ready to happen:

- The company's chief executive is due to retire next year, but following today's announcement of further losses she is sure to be asked to leave sooner.
- 'Will there be somewhere to get a coffee at the station?' 'Oh, yes, there's bound to be.'
- Her new film is set to be a great success.

Note that we use due to + noun to give the reason for something, not to talk about the future (e.g. Due to fog, all flights from the airport have been cancelled).

B

We use some verbs with a to-infinitive to talk about intentions:

- We guarantee to refund your money if you are dissatisfied with the computer.

The present simple + to-infinitive or present continuous + to-infinitive can be used with the verbs marked * to talk about intentions:

- I aim to get to Bangkok by the end of June. (or I'm aiming to get ...; I was aiming to get ... is also possible, but more tentative)

Also: aim, agree, expect, hope, intend, mean, plan, promise, propose, resolve, undertake, want

Some people, particularly in speech and in journalism, use be looking + to-infinitive to mean planning a course of action:

- We're looking to create 3,000 jobs in the city over the next year.

C

When the phrases and verbs in A and B are used with past tense forms, they are usually concerned with future events seen from the past (see also Unit 14):

- It was his 64th birthday in 2006 and he was due to retire the following year.
- Nathan had resolved to become fluent in Spanish before he left university.
- The new management had been looking to create 20 new jobs.

Some people use shall (and shan't) instead of will (and won't) in statements about the future with I and we. However, it is more common to use will (particularly its contracted form 'll) and won't:

- He was a good friend and we shall miss him greatly. (more commonly ... we'll miss ...)
- I'm just going to buy a newspaper. I shan't be long. (more commonly I won't ...)

In current English we don't usually use shall / shan't with other subjects to talk about the future, although this is found in formal rules and in older literary styles:

- The match referee shall be the sole judge of fair play.
- All people of the world shall live together as brothers.

- Sorry, but I shan't / won't be able to give you a lift after all.
- I think your parents shall / will be very happy with your decision.

The future seen from the past

There are a number of ways of talking about an activity or event that was in the future at a particular point in the past. In order to express this idea, we can use the past tenses of the verb forms we would normally use to talk about the future. These forms are often used in reporting (see Units 32–36). Compare the following sentences:

The future from now ...	The future from the past ...
<input type="checkbox"/> I haven't got much money, so I think I'll stay at home this summer.	<input type="checkbox"/> Eleni decided that she would stay at home for the summer.
<input type="checkbox"/> I'm not going to say anything about the exams today, because I don't have time.	<input type="checkbox"/> I wasn't going to say anything about the exams, but the students asked me to.
<input type="checkbox"/> I'm having a meeting with my tutor tomorrow to discuss my work.	<input type="checkbox"/> I couldn't go to the match because I was having a meeting with my tutor.
<input type="checkbox"/> Will you be going alone, or is Louise going with you?	<input type="checkbox"/> At the time, I thought I would be going alone, but then Jan said he wanted to come.
<input type="checkbox"/> The exam will have finished by three o'clock, so I'll see you then.	<input type="checkbox"/> The exam was so easy that most people would have finished after 30 minutes.
<input type="checkbox"/> There is to be a meeting of ministers this evening.	<input type="checkbox"/> It was announced that there was to be a meeting of ministers that evening.
<input type="checkbox"/> When the school closes, all the children are to be moved to one nearby.	<input type="checkbox"/> Mrs Novak heard that she was to be moved to a post in a nearby school.
<input type="checkbox"/> As the bell is about to go for the end of the lesson, pack your books away.	<input type="checkbox"/> The bell was about to go when all the children started to pack their books away.

If the future seen from the past is still in the future for the speaker, then either form is possible:

- It was announced this morning that there is / was to be a statement this evening.

In some cases we don't know whether the activity or event happened or not. Compare:

- I didn't phone to give him the news because we were seeing each other later. He was very upset when I told him. (= we saw each other) and
- We were seeing each other later that day, but I had to phone and cancel. (= we didn't see each other)

To talk about an activity or event that was in the future at a particular point in the past, we can use was / were to + infinitive (for things that actually happened) and was / were to have + past participle (for things that were expected, but didn't happen):

- At the time she was probably the best actor in the theatre company, but in fact some of her colleagues were to become much better known.
- The boat, which was to have taken them to the island, failed to arrive.
- He was to find out years later that the car he had bought was stolen.

Note, however, that in less formal contexts it is more natural to use be supposed to:

- I was supposed to help, but I was ill. (more natural than I was to have helped ...)

14.1 Write ✓ if the italicised parts are correct. If they are wrong, correct them. A

- 1 I'm going to do the washing, but we'd run out of washing powder.
- 2 The concert tonight would be over by about 9:30. We could eat after that.
- 3 When we were passing Ivan's house, we thought we'd drop in and see him.
- 4 A: Where shall I hang my coat? B: Sorry, I thought Ella will have shown you. Over there.
- 5 The manager of Newtown United said that the team is to be announced at nine tomorrow.
- 6 The second half was about to start, so shall we go back to our seats now?
- 7 I knew that by the morning I would be feeling exhausted, but I just wanted to go dancing.
- 8 A: Where's Oliver? He is supposed to be here yesterday, and there's still no sign of him.
B: I'm about to ask the same question.
- 9 I didn't phone Ben this morning because I was going to see him when I've finished work.
- 10 DNA testing was to be used by police in the search for the missing Dublin schoolboy. His parents have welcomed the news.
- 11 We are meeting at seven in the Globe coffee bar. Can you be there, too?
- 12 We didn't expect that having a rabbit as a pet will cause so many problems.

In which three cases can we use either a past or present tense form in the italicised parts?

14.2 Choose the more appropriate option, (a) or (b), to complete these sentences. B

- 1 The meeting was to have taken place in the hall, ...
a but had to be cancelled at the last minute.

a many times before he moved to Madrid.
b but he moved to Madrid.

Can, could, be able to and be allowed to

A

Can, could and be able to: ability

Reminder → C1 – C7

We sometimes use be able to instead of can and could to talk about ability. We avoid be able to –

☆ when we talk about something that is happening as we speak:

- Watch me, Mum; I can stand on one leg.
(not ... I'm able to stand on one leg.)

☆ before passives:

- Films can now easily be streamed online. (rather than Films are now easily able to be streamed ...)

☆ when the meaning is 'know how to':

- Can you cook? (rather than Are you able to cook?)

B

If we talk about a single achievement, rather than a general ability in the past, we usually use be able to rather than could. Compare:

- Sophie could play the flute quite well. (or ... was able to ...; a general ability) and
 She swam strongly and was able to cross the river easily, even though it was swollen by the heavy rain. (not She swam strongly and could cross ...; a specific achievement)

However, could is usually more natural than be able to –

☆ in negative sentences:

- I tried to get up but I couldn't move.

☆ with verbs of the senses, e.g. feel, hear, see, smell, taste, and with verbs of 'thinking', e.g. believe, decide, remember, understand:

- I could remember the crash, but nothing after that.

☆ after the phrases the only thing / place / time, and after all when it means 'the only thing':

- All* we could see were his feet.

☆ to suggest that something almost didn't happen, particularly with almost, hardly, just, nearly:

- I could nearly touch the ceiling.

Can and could: possibility

To talk about the theoretical possibility of something happening we use could, not can. However, we use can, not could, to say that something is possible and actually happens. Compare:

- It could be expensive to keep a cat. (= if we had one, it could or it may not be expensive) and
 It can be expensive to keep a cat. (= it can be, and it sometimes is)

We use can't, not couldn't, to say that something is theoretically or actually impossible:

- There can't be many people in the world who haven't watched television.
 The doctor can't see you this morning; he's busy at the hospital.

D

We use can to indicate that there is a very real possibility of a future event happening. Using could suggests that something is less likely or that there is some doubt about it. Compare:

- We can stay with Jake in Oslo. (= we will be able to stay) and
 We could stay with Jake in Oslo. (= it's possible; if he's there)

Could and be allowed to: permission

To say that in the past someone had general permission to do something – that is, to do it at any time – we can use either could or was / were allowed to. However, to talk about permission for one particular past action, we use was / were allowed to, but not could. Compare:

- Anyone was allowed to fish in the lake when the council owned it. (or ... could fish ...) and
 Although he didn't have a ticket, Ned was allowed to come in. (not ... could come in.)

In negative sentences, we can use either couldn't or wasn't / weren't allowed to to say that permission was not given in general or particular situations:

- I couldn't / wasn't allowed to open the present until my birthday.

a

We went camping in the north of Spain last July. As you probably know, it (1) rain a lot on the coast, even in midsummer, and the day we arrived we (2) believe how heavy the rain was. Eventually we found a place to camp, in a field next to a beach. We had a new tent – the advertisement for it said, 'This tent (3) be assembled in two minutes with no previous experience.' What a joke! Now, there (4) be many people who haven't had difficulty putting up a tent at some time, but it took us more than two hours. And then, just as it was done, a man came along and said that we (5) camp there – it was private property. So we had to take the tent down again. Then Eva just said, 'Well, we (6) stay here all night. Let's go to that hotel in the last village we drove through.' Unfortunately, when we got there they were full. But they were very kind and we (7) camp at the end of their garden!

b

It is often said that sports coaches (1) be strict, but athlete Lance Jordan's was incredibly hard on him in the year before the Olympic Games. For instance, Lance (2) stay up later than nine, although on his birthday he (3) watch television until ten as it was a special occasion! Of course, all Lance (4) think of was going out with his friends in the evening, and he (5) hardly wait for the Games to finish to get back to a normal life. When he complained, his coach just said, 'Trust me and you'll win gold – you (6) lose!' And his coach was right. He won a gold medal in the 400 metres in a world record time. And on the night of his victory Lance (7) celebrate – by staying up until 11 o'clock! 'But no later,' said his coach. 'The World Championships are only two years away.'

A Will and would

We can use will (for the present) and would (for the past) to talk about –

☆ characteristic behaviour or habits:

- Every day Dan will come home from work and turn on the TV.
- At school she would always sit quietly and pay attention.

☆ things that are or were always true:

- Cold weather will kill certain plants.
- During the war, people would eat all kinds of things that we don't eat now.

(For the use of will to talk about the future, see Unit 9.)

We don't use will or would in this way to talk about a particular occasion. Compare:

- Each time I gave him a problem he would solve it for me. and
- Last night I gave him a problem and he solved it for me. (not ... he would solve it ...)

However, we can use will not (won't) and would not (wouldn't) in either case. Compare:

- He would / wouldn't walk the five miles to his place of work. (characteristic behaviour) and
- She wouldn't say what was wrong when I asked her.

B In speech, we can stress will or would to criticise people's characteristic behaviour or habits:

- She just won't do the washing up when I ask her.
- I was happy when Ryan left. He would talk about people behind their backs.

We can also express disapproval of something they have done using will:

- 'I feel sick.' 'Well, if you will eat so much, I'm not surprised.'

C We can use will to draw conclusions or state assumptions about things that are the case now (see also Unit 9B):

- Martina will be at home by now. Let's go and see her.
- You will know that Ewan and Lucy are engaged. (= I assume you already know)

D Would and used to

When we talk about repeated events in the past that don't happen now we can use either would or used to + infinitive. However, we can use would only if the time reference is clear. Compare:

- We used to play in the garden. (not We would play ...; time reference not given) and
- Whenever we went to my uncle's house, we would / used to play in the garden.

We can use used to but not would when we talk about past states that have changed:

- The factory used to be over there.
- Didn't you use to have red hair?

We don't use either used to or would when we say exactly how many times in total something happened, how long something took, or that a single event happened at a given past time:

- We visited Switzerland four times during the 1990s. (not We would / used to visit ...)
- She went to Jamaica last month. (not She would / used to go to Jamaica last month.)

E Would / will have + past participle

To talk about an unreal past situation – that is, an imaginary situation or a situation that might have happened in the past, but didn't – we use would have + past participle:

- I would have been happy to see him, but I didn't have time.

However, to say that we think a past situation actually happened, we use will have + past participle:

- As it was cloudy, few people will have seen last night's lunar eclipse. (rather than ... would have seen ...)

May and might

A

May and might often have a similar meaning when we talk about possibility. However, we prefer may in academic or formal language to talk about characteristics or behaviour:

Reminder → C15 – C19

- The seeds from the plant may grow up to 20 centimetres in length.
- and in speech we prefer might to say what we will possibly do in the future:
 - I might paint the kitchen purple.

B

We don't use may to ask questions about the possibility of something happening. Instead we use, for example, could(n't) or the phrase be likely:

- Could it be that you don't want to leave? (not May it be that you ...?)
- Are you likely to be in Spain again this summer? (not May you be in Spain ...?)

It is possible to use might in this type of question, but it is rather formal:

- Might they be persuaded to change their minds?

Note that we can use may in formally asking for permission and offering help:

- May I leave now? May I help you?

C

Might (not 'may') + bare infinitive is sometimes used to talk about what was typically the case in the past. This is a formal or literary use:

- During the war, the police might arrest you for criticising the government.
- Years ago children might be sent down mines at the age of six. (passive form)

We can also use could + bare infinitive in examples like this to talk about past ability (see Unit 15).

For example, 'During the war, the police could arrest you ...' means that the police were legally able to arrest you.

D

When we say that a person or thing compensates to some extent for a limitation or weakness by having another characteristic, we can use a pattern with may / might not + bare infinitive ... but ... or may / might not have + past participle ... but ...:

- The painting may not be a masterpiece, but the colours are remarkable.
- She might not have danced very gracefully, but she had a lot of energy and enthusiasm.

E

We use may / might (not 'can') + have + past participle and may / might (not 'can') + be + -ing to talk about possible events in the past, present and future:

- Do you think Laura may / might have completed the report by now? (past)
- His maths may / might have improved by the time the exam comes round. (future)
- Marco isn't in his office. He may / might be working at home today. (present)
- When I go to Vienna I may / might be staying with Max, but I'm not sure yet. (future)

Note that could can be used in these sentences instead of may or might:

- Do you think Laura could have completed the report by now?

We can use may / might have been + -ing to talk about possible situations or activities that went on over a period of past time:

- Callum didn't know where the ball was, but he thought his sister might have been playing with it before she left for school.

Exercises

Must and have (got) to

A

We use must and must not in formal rules and regulations and in warnings:

Reminder → C20–C24

- Bookings must be made at least seven days before departure.
- The government must not be allowed to appoint judges.

In spoken English we often use must and mustn't (= must not) to propose a future arrangement, such as a meeting or social event, without making detailed plans:

- We must get together more often.
- We mustn't leave it so long next time.

We can also use I must ... to remind ourselves to do something:

- I must charge my phone. I meant to do it yesterday, but I forgot.

B

To draw a conclusion about –

☆ something that happened in the past we use must + have + past participle:

- That's not Clara's car. She must have borrowed it from her parents.

☆ something happening at or around the time of speaking we use must be + -ing:

- I can't hear a noise. You must be imagining things.

☆ something that is likely to happen in the future we use must be going to or must be + -ing:

- 'What are all those workmen doing?' 'I think they must be going to dig up the road.'
- I was wrong about the meeting being today. It must be happening next Friday.

☆ a present situation we use must be, or have (got) to be in informal speech:

- Their goalkeeper has got to be at least two metres tall! (or ... must be ...)

We can use must have to to say that we conclude something based on what we know about a present situation and must have had to to conclude something about a past situation:

- I can't access the database. You must have to put in a password. (= a password is necessary)
- Matt wasn't at home when I went round. He must have had to go out unexpectedly.

Note that we can't say 'must've (got) to' but we can say must've had to.

C

In questions that hope for or expect a negative answer we prefer have (got) to, although in formal contexts must is sometimes used:

- Do we have to answer all the questions? (or Have we got to ...?; formally Must we ...?)

We use have to in questions that imply a criticism. Must can also be used, although some people think this is rather old-fashioned. We usually stress have and must in sentences like this:

- Do you have to play your trumpet here? It's deafening! (formally Must you play ...?)

D

Sometimes we can use either have to or have got to. However –☆ we use have to with frequency adverbs:

- I often have to work at the weekend to get everything done.

Also: always, never, normally, rarely, sometimes, etc.☆ with the past simple we use had to especially in questions and negative sentences:

- When did you have to give it back? (not When had you got to give it back?)
- We didn't have to wait too long for an answer. (not We hadn't got to wait too long ...)

☆ if have is contracted (e.g. I've, He's, It'd) then we must include got:

- I need a new pair of shoes, and they've got to be blue. (not ... they've to be ...)

☆ we don't use have got to with other modal verbs:

- Motorists will have to wait until next year to use the bridge. (not Motorists will have got to wait ...)

Note also that have got to is often preferred in informal speech.

Hello Maria,

Sorry I haven't been in touch for a while. You (1) must have been wondering what's been happening. Well, I must admit I've had a pretty awful week. When I got home from work last Monday, the front door was wide open. The door's very stiff, and I (2) always have got to pull it very hard to shut it. My neighbour's always saying, '(3) Have you to bang the door so hard?' When I went in I found that the house had been burgled. They (4) must have climbed over the fence in the back garden. None of the windows and doors were damaged, so someone very small (5) must have to squeeze through the tiny window in the kitchen. I suppose I (6) must leave it open, but I didn't expect anyone to be able to get in. Then they (7) must have come through the house and opened the front door for the others. Of course, the first thing I did was to call the police and I (8) mustn't wait very long for them to get here. Fortunately, the only thing that was taken was my TV. I think the burglars (9) must be disturbed, perhaps when the postman came. So now (10) I've to get a new lock for the front door and replace the TV, and I (11) must put some locks on the windows. I suppose I (12) may must get a burglar alarm, too. I must say I've never really wanted one, but needs must!

Anyway, (13) I've to go. Hope the family is well. Jessica (14) must get ready to go back to university. And you (15) must be busy with the new school year just about to start. When you have time, we (16) have to get together for a weekend.

All the best for now,

Amy

Can you find three other common expressions with must?

Need(n't), don't need to and don't have to

Reminder → C25– C28

A

We can use need as an ordinary or a modal verb (followed by a bare infinitive). As a modal verb it doesn't change its tense and doesn't add '-s' for the third person singular. Compare:

- I needed to leave early. or She's thirsty. She needs a drink. (= ordinary verb) and
- You needn't speak so loudly. (= modal verb)

When it is a modal verb need is most commonly used in negative sentences:

- I've already cleaned the car so you needn't bother to do it.
- I was very nervous before the interview, but I needn't have worried – I got the job!

Other verbs often used with need not (needn't): apply, concern, fear, involve, mean, panic

It is sometimes used in questions, but we prefer to use need as an ordinary verb or have to:

- Need you go so soon? (= modal verb; less common and rather formal)
- Do you need to go so soon? (= ordinary verb) or Do you have to go so soon?

It is rarely used in affirmative sentences (that is, not questions or negatives), but is sometimes found in written English, particularly in fiction:

- We need have no fear for Nicole, she can take care of herself.

In other styles of formal written English it is used in this way with negative words such as hardly, never, nobody / no one, and only:

- The changes need only be small to make the proposals acceptable. (less formally The changes only need to be ...)
- Nobody* ever need know about the money. (less formally Nobody ever needs to know ...)
- 'I don't want my parents to know.' 'They need never find out.' (less formally They never need to find out.)

B

To give permission not to do something we can use either needn't or don't need to:

- You needn't cut the grass, I'll do it later. (or You don't need to cut the grass ...)

To talk about a general necessity, we prefer don't need to:

- You don't need to be over 18 to get into a nightclub. (rather than You needn't be ...)

C

We can often use either needn't or don't have to with little difference in meaning to say that it is unnecessary to do something:

- You needn't whisper. Nobody can hear us. (or You don't have to ...)

However, some people prefer needn't when it is the speaker who decides the lack of necessity, and don't have to when somebody else or external rules make something unnecessary. Compare:

- As you worked late yesterday you needn't come in until ten tomorrow morning. (the speaker's decision) and
- We've been told that we don't have to be at work until ten tomorrow. (reporting someone else's decision.)

D

We can use needn't (or don't have to) to say that something is not necessarily true. We don't use mustn't in this way (see also Unit 18C):

- Volcanoes needn't erupt constantly to be classified as 'active'. (or Volcanoes don't have to erupt ...; not Volcanoes mustn't erupt ...)
- Nowadays it needn't cost a fortune to own an e-book reader. (or Nowadays it doesn't have to cost ...; not Nowadays it mustn't cost ...)

Exercises

19.1 Match the sentence beginnings and ends. Join them with needn't and the bare infinitive of one of the verbs from the box. A

| 4 Our software provides full computer security so you ... | ... about booking a taxi. |
| 5 The new tax laws don't come into force until next year so you ... | ... about being bitten by mosquitoes. |

19.2 Rewrite the following in a formal style using need. A

- It is hardly necessary for us to remind you that the money is now due.
We need hardly remind you that the money is now due.
- It is only necessary for us to look at the rainfall figures to see the seriousness of the problem.
- With such a lead in the opinion polls it is hardly necessary for the Democrats to bother campaigning before the election.
- It is not necessary for anyone to know who paid the ransom to the kidnappers.
- After such a huge lottery win, it is not necessary for him to work again.

19.3 Underline the more likely option. If the options are equally likely, underline them both. B

- In most developed countries, people needn't / don't need to boil water before they drink it.
- You needn't / don't need to walk. I'll give you a lift.
- I'll email a summary of the lecture so you needn't / don't need to take notes.

- You needn't / don't need to buy me a birthday present.
- In most cities you needn't / don't need to pay to get into the galleries and museums.

19.4 Correct any mistakes in the extracts from a speech made by the managing director of a company to her employees. A-D

- You needn't to worry about losing your jobs.
- Need we make any changes in company policy?
- Changes in technology mustn't be a problem, but in fact provide opportunities.
- I don't have to remind you that we are competing with two other companies.
- I need hardly to tell you how important it is that we get this order.
- You don't have to cancel your holiday plans.
- We mustn't allow our rate of production to drop.
- The present financial difficulties mustn't mean that people will lose their jobs.

Should, ought to and had better

A

We can often use either should or ought to to talk about obligations and recommendations (e.g. You should / ought to finish your homework before you go out) and probability (e.g. It should / ought to be ready by now) although in general should is used more frequently. Ought to is used particularly in speech and most often to talk about obligation rather than probability.

Reminder → C29–C32

When we conclude, on the basis of some evidence we have, that something is certain or very likely we can use must (see Unit 18) but not should / ought to:

- It's the third time she's been skating this week. She must really enjoy it.

Note also the following details –

- ☆ we prefer should when we say what an outside authority recommends:
 - The manual says that the computer should be disconnected from the power supply before the cover is removed. (rather than ... ought to be disconnected ...)
- ☆ we use should (or would), not ought to, when we give advice with I ...:
 - I should leave early tomorrow, if I were you. (or I would leave ...; or I'd leave ...)
- ☆ we prefer should in questions, particularly wh-questions:
 - What should I do if I have any problems?
 - Should I ring you at home?

B

We use should / ought to + have + past participle to talk about something that didn't happen in the past and we are sorry that it didn't:

- We should / ought to have waited for the rain to stop. (I'm sorry we didn't)

We often use this pattern to indicate some regret or criticism and the negative forms shouldn't / oughtn't to have are almost always used in this way.

We also use should / ought to + have + past participle to talk about an expectation that something happened, has happened, or will happen:

- If the flight was on time, he should / ought to have arrived in Jakarta early this morning.

C

We can use should in questions that are offers or that request confirmation or advice:

- Should I phone for a taxi for you?
- Who should I pass the message to?

Note that in sentences like these we can also use shall with a very similar meaning.

Compare the use of shall and should in sentences such as the following, where 'I shall' means 'I intend to' and 'I should' means 'I ought to':

- I shall read the script on the train tomorrow. (or I'll read ...) and
- I should read the script on the train tomorrow but I know that I'll be too tired.

D

We can use had better instead of should / ought to, especially in spoken English, to say that we think it is a good idea to do something:

- If you're not well, you'd better ask Clare to go instead. (or ... you should / ought to ...) although we don't use it to talk about the past or to make general comments:

- You should / ought to have caught a later train. (not You had better have caught ...)
- I don't think parents should / ought to give children sweets. (not ... parents had better give ...)

We prefer had better if we want to express particular urgency or in demands and threats:

- There's someone moving about downstairs. We'd better call the police, quickly.

Note that the negative form is had better not, and in questions the subject comes after had:

- He'd better not be late again or he'll be in trouble.
- Had we better get a taxi? (or Should we get ...?)

Exercises

Linking verbs: be, appear, seem; become, get, etc.

A

When an adjective or noun phrase is used after a verb to describe the subject or say what or who the subject is, the adjective or noun phrase is a complement and the verb is a linking verb:

- Clara is a doctor. She seemed unable to concentrate.

Other linking verbs:

'being' linking verbs: e.g. be, keep, prove, remain, stay

'becoming' linking verbs:
e.g. become, come, end up, grow, turn out

'seeming' linking verbs:
e.g. appear, look, seem, sound

Most of these verbs can be followed by either an adjective or noun phrase (e.g. It sounds nice / a nice place).

When they are used as linking verbs, come and grow (e.g. come to know, grow thoughtful) can't be followed by a noun phrase.

Keep is only followed by a noun if an adjective follows it (e.g. It kept him awake).

B

After the verbs appear (= seems true), look (= seem), prove, seem, and turn out we can often either include or omit to be:

- The room appears (to be) brighter than when I last saw it.

However, following these verbs to be is usually included before the adjectives alive, alone, asleep, and awake, and before the -ing forms of verbs:

- I didn't go in because she appeared to be asleep. (not ... she appeared asleep.)

Before a noun we include to be when the noun tells us what the subject is, but often leave it out when we give our opinion of the person or thing in the subject. We leave out to be in formal English. Compare:

- He walked into what seemed to be a cave. (not ... what seemed a cave.) and
 She seems (to be) a very efficient salesperson.

C

We use the linking verb become to describe a process of change. A number of other linking verbs can be used instead of become, including come, get, go, grow, turn (into).

We use get rather than become: in informal speech and writing before difficult, ill, interested, pregnant, suspicious, unhappy, and worried; in imperatives; and in phrases such as get changed (clothes), get dressed, get married / divorced:

- I first got suspicious when he looked into all the cars. (more formally ... became suspicious ...)
 Don't get upset about it! Where did you live before you got married?

We prefer become to talk about a more abstract or technical process of change:

- He became recognised as an expert.
 Their bodies have become adapted to high altitudes.

*Also with: apparent, aware, convinced, infected, irrelevant, obvious

We use become, not get, if there is a noun phrase after the linking verb:

- Dr Morales became an adviser to the government.

D

We use go or turn, not usually get or become, when we talk about colours changing:

- The traffic lights turned / went green and I pulled away.

We often use go to talk about changes, particularly for unwanted situations. For example:

go deaf / blind / bald; go mad / crazy / wild; go bad / off / mouldy / rotten; go bust; go dead; go missing; go wrong.

But note: get ill, get old, get tired.

- The company went bust and had to close.
 My computer's gone wrong again.
 Some people get ill very easily.

After the verbs come, get, and grow (but not after become) we can use a to-infinitive. Come and grow are often used to talk about gradual change:

- I eventually came / grew to appreciate his work. (not ... became to appreciate his work.)

The morning we were going on holiday everything seemed to (1) turn wrong. The taxi was due at 8:00 to take us to the airport. When I looked in on Adam at 7:00 he (2) seemed awake, so I went downstairs to make breakfast. When I opened the fridge I found that the milk (3) had gone off, so we couldn't have breakfast. Then Adam (4) seemed taking a long time to come down, so at 7:30 I went back upstairs and he still (5) hadn't become dressed. He said he wasn't feeling well, but I just shouted, 'You can't (6) get ill when we're going on holiday!' After that the keys to the luggage (7) got missing, but Adam eventually found them in his jacket pocket. By 8:30 the taxi hadn't arrived and I was starting (8) to become worried. It was (9) getting obvious that we were going to miss our plane if we didn't leave soon. But just then the taxi arrived and we made it to the airport with minutes to spare. Surprisingly, after such a bad start, it (10) turned out to be an excellent holiday.

Forming passive sentences 1

A

Verbs such as give take both a direct object (DO) and an indirect object (IO) in two patterns: V + IO + DO or V + DO + preposition + IO. These verbs have two corresponding passives:

Reminder → Section D & Appendix 2

active	passive
V + IO + DO V + DO + prep + IO
Alice gave us that vase. ✓	We were given that vase (by Alice). ✓
Alice gave that vase to us. ✓	That vase was given (to) us (by Alice). ✓

Also: award, hand, lend, offer, send, throw (= 'giving' verbs); ask, read, teach (= 'telling' verbs)

The passive form you choose depends on which is more appropriate in a particular context. If we specify an agent (see Appendix 2), this follows by at the end of the clause. Note that in informal contexts 'to' can be left out in the second passive pattern.

Verbs that can't be followed by IO + DO in the active have only one of these passive forms:

active	passive
V + DO + prep + IO
He explained me the problem. X He explained the problem to me. ✓	I was explained the problem. X The problem was explained to me. ✓

Also: announce, demonstrate, describe, introduce, mention, propose, report, suggest (= 'reporting' verbs)

B

Verbs followed by object + complement in the active have one passive form:

active	passive
V + object + complement
They elected her president.	She was elected president.

Also: appoint, declare, make, nominate, vote (to do with giving a particular position); call, name, title (= 'naming' verbs)

C

Some verbs that are followed by object + bare infinitive (= an infinitive without 'to') in the active are followed by a to-infinitive in the passive:

active	passive
V + object + bare infinitive
They have made him return the money.	He has been made to return the money.

Also: feel, hear, help (also + object + to-infinitive), observe, see (see also Unit 23A)

D

Transitive two- and three-word verbs (see also Unit 94)

Some have passive forms:

active	passive
Ella looked after him.	He was looked after (by Ella).

Also: carry out (= put into practice), disapprove of, hold over (= delay), talk down to (= patronise)

Some are not used in the passive:

active	no passive
We came up against a problem.	A problem was come up against. X

Also: brush up on (= revise), cast (your mind) back (= try to remember), get (something) down (= write), take after (= resemble)

Some can be only used in the passive with certain senses:

active	passive
They put out the fire. I put out a hand to steady myself.	The fire was put out. A hand was put out to steady myself. X

Also: (passive possible meaning / no passive meaning): call (someone) up (order to join the army / telephone); call (someone) back (ask to return / telephone); let in (allow into a place / allow rain, etc. in); let out (allow to leave / let out a sound)

A Active patterns with verb + -ing

Verbs followed by object + -ing in the active are made passive with 'be' + past participle + -ing:

- They saw the monkey climbing over the fence. (= active)
- The monkey* was seen climbing over the fence. (= passive)

Also: bring, catch, hear, find, keep, notice, observe, send, show

B Some verbs that can be followed by an -ing form can be used with a passive form being + past participle:

- I really love being given presents.
- The children enjoyed being taken to the zoo.

Also: avoid, deny, describe, dislike, face, hate, (not) imagine, like, remember, report, resent

C Verbs which in the active are followed by an object consisting of a noun phrase and -ing clause usually have no passive:

- I dread him (or his) finding out.
(but not He is dreaded finding out)

Also: anticipate, appreciate, dislike, forget, hate, imagine, like, (not) mind, recall, remember

D Active patterns with verb + to-infinitive

The active pattern verb + object + to-infinitive is made passive with 'be' + past participle + to-infinitive. Compare:

- Mr Wang has taught Peter to sing for years. and
- Peter has been taught to sing (by Mr Wang) for years.

Also: advise, allow, ask, believe, consider, expect, feel, instruct, mean, order, require, tell, understand

Note that in some contexts it is possible to make both verbs passive:

- Changes to the taxation system are expected to be proposed. (compare the active We expect the government to propose changes to the taxation system.)

Some verbs followed by an object + to-infinitive in the active have no passive:

- Susan liked Karl to be there. (but not Karl was liked to be there.)

Also: (can't) bear, hate, love, need, prefer, want, wish (= 'liking' and 'wanting' verbs)

E The active pattern verb + to-infinitive + object is made passive with verb + to be + past participle. Compare:

- Supermarkets started to sell fresh pasta only in the 1990s. and
- Fresh pasta* started to be sold by supermarkets only in the 1990s.

Also: (i) appear, begin, come, continue, seem, tend;
(ii) agree, aim, arrange, attempt, hope, refuse, want

The verbs in group (i) (and start) have corresponding meanings in active and passive sentences, but the verbs in group (ii) do not. Compare:

- People have come to see organic food as something only the wealthy eat. (active) corresponds to
- Organic food has come to be seen as something only the wealthy eat. (passive)
- Petra wanted to help me. (active) does not correspond to
- I wanted to be helped by Petra. (passive)

- They saw the burglar getting into the museum through a window.
The burglar
- They think that over 20,000 people will go to the pop concert.
The pop concert
- They criticised her but she wasn't unhappy about it.
She
- They said I had to fill in two copies of the customs declaration.

- They caught Mrs Dee taking things from the shop.
Mrs Dee

23.3 Make passive sentences beginning with the italicised word(s). E

- Kay's questions began to irritate Marco.
Marco began to be irritated by Kay's questions. (corresponding meaning)
- The team captain hopes to select Omar.
- Alastair arranged to take Kathy to the station.
- Critics have come to recognise Galdos as one of Spain's greatest novelists.
- The south coast continues to attract holidaymakers.
- Harris has agreed to interview the Finance Minister.

Do the sentences you have written have a corresponding meaning to the original, or a different meaning? Look carefully at the tense in the sentences given.

Using passives

Reminder → Section D & Appendix 2

A We typically use a passive rather than an active in the following situations.

- ☆ Using a passive allows us to omit the agent (= the subject of the corresponding active sentence) by leaving out the prepositional phrase with by. We prefer passives when the agent:
 - is not known: My office was broken into when I was on holiday.
 - is 'people in general': An order form can be found on page 2.
 - is unimportant: He is thought to be somewhere in Russia.
 - is obvious: She is being treated in hospital. (the agent is clearly 'medical staff')
- ☆ In factual writing (e.g. describing procedures or processes) we often omit the agent, and use passives:
 - Nuclear waste will still be radioactive even after 20,000 years, so it must be disposed of very carefully. It can be stored as a liquid in stainless-steel containers which are encased in concrete. The most dangerous nuclear waste can be turned into glass which will be stored in deep underground mines.
- ☆ In informal contexts, particularly in conversation, we often use active sentences with a subject such as people, somebody / someone, something, they, we, or you even when we do not know who the agent is. In more formal contexts, we often prefer to use a passive so that we can avoid any mention of an agent. Compare:
 - They're installing the new computer system next month. and
 - The new computer system is being installed next month. (more formal)

B Note also that some verbs have related nouns which express the same meaning. These nouns can be used as the subject of passive sentences, with a new passive verb introduced. Compare the example above and:

- The installation of the new computer system will be completed by next month.

C In English we usually prefer to put the topic (what is already being talked about) at the beginning of a sentence (or clause) and a comment on that topic at the end. Choosing the passive often allows us to do this. Compare these two texts and note where the topic (in italics) is placed in the second sentence of each. The second text uses a passive where the emphasis is on the (safety) valves:

- The three machines tested for the report contained different types of safety valve. The Boron Group in Germany manufactured all the valves.
- The three machines tested for the report contained different types of safety valve. All the valves were manufactured by the Boron Group in Germany.

Using the passive allows us to put long subjects at the end of a sentence. So, for example:

- I was surprised by Dev's decision to give up his job and move to Sydney.
- is more natural than 'Dev's decision to give up his job and move to Sydney surprised me', although the choice can depend on considerations of style and context.

D Instead of making a that-clause the subject of a passive sentence, it is normal to use an it-clause (see also Unit 25):

- Everybody believed (that) the plan would fail. (active)
- It was believed that the plan would fail. (passive) is more natural than
- That the plan would fail* was believed by everybody.

Exercises

24.1 Write passive sentences about the development of an Olympic Games site starting with the italicised words. A & Appendix 2

1 They built the main stadium in under three years.
The main stadium was built in under three years.

2 They have designed the main stadium to accommodate many different sports.

3 They will take down the temporary stands after the Games.

4 They will have completed the basketball arena by the end of May.

5 They are holding the rowing competition on the River Nene.

6 They had completed the athletics track only a year after the city got the Olympics.

7 They were using the handball venue as a warehouse until a year ago.

8 They should have finished the badminton arena by now.

24.2 Rewrite these sentences beginning with a noun formed from the italicised verb (with the if necessary). Use a passive form of the verb in brackets, and make any other necessary changes. B

- They will consider the issue at next week's meeting. (give)
Consideration will be given to the issue at next week's meeting.
- They will appoint a new managing director next week. (make)
- People have accused the local council of corruption. (make)
- They demolished the building in only two days. (complete)
- They will present the trophy after the speeches. (make)
- Local residents will certainly resist the proposed new industrial area. (expect)

24.3 Complete the text with appropriate forms (active or passive) of the verbs in brackets. A-D

Slowly but surely the coastline of Britain (1) is being worn away. (wear away) by an advancing sea. The country which once 'ruled the waves' now (2) (rule) by them, with huge forces threatening to destroy vast areas of human and wildlife habitat. Already some of Britain's last wild, natural areas (3) (disappear), and experts (4) (fear) that this is just the beginning. It (5) (estimate) that there will be a 38-55 cm rise in average sea levels by the year 2100. According to the Department of the Environment, during the next 50 years at least 10,000 hectares of farmland (6) (turn into) mud flats and salt marshes by the increases in sea levels. Rather than trying to prevent the erosion, the present government (7) (use) a method of 'managed retreat' by creating new defences further inland and allowing low-lying coastal farmland (8) (abandon) to the sea. However, many of the country's major cities could also (9) (affect). London, Bristol and Cardiff all (10) (expect) severe flooding as our sea defences (11) (destroy) by the rising tides.

Reporting with passives; It is said that ...

A

We often use a passive to report what people say, think, etc., particularly if it is not important to mention who is being reported:

- People in the area have been told that they should stay indoors.
- Everyone was asked to bring some food to the party.

B

Another common way of reporting what is said by an unspecified group of people is to use it + passive verb + that-clause (see Unit 33 for more on that-clauses). Using this pattern allows us to put important information at the end of the sentence (see Unit 24C):

- It is reported that the damage is extensive. (compare The damage is extensive, according to government sources.)
- It was decided that the meeting should be cancelled. (or It was decided to cancel the meeting.)

Also: allege, announce, assume, believe, calculate, claim, consider, demonstrate, discover, establish, estimate, expect, feel, find, know, mention, recommend, reveal, say, show, suggest, suppose, think, understand; agree, decide, hope, intend, plan, propose (can also be followed by a to-infinitive clause)

Note that many other verbs connected with reporting are not used with it + passive verb + that-clause, but can be used as in A:

- We have been informed that we have to leave.
(but not It has informed us ...)

Also: encourage, persuade, reassure, remind, tell, warn

These verbs need a personal object before the that-clause in an active form (e.g. They have informed us that ...)

C

An alternative to it + passive verb + that-clause is to use subject + passive verb + to-infinitive if we want the subject to be the topic of the sentence (see Unit 24C). Compare:

- It is reported that the damage is extensive. and
- The damage is reported to be extensive.

Most of the verbs listed in the first white box in B can also be used in this pattern except for announce, decide, mention, propose, recommend, suggest.

We can only use tell in this pattern when it means 'order'. So we can say:

- I was told (= ordered) to go with them to the railway station.
but not 'The accident was told (= said) to have happened just after midnight'.

D

With some verbs we can also use it + passive verb + wh-clause to report information given or found out:

- It has now been revealed who was responsible for the accident.
- The decision to build the bridge was taken before it was established whether it was actually needed.

Also: discover, explain, find, know, reveal, show, understand

When a that-clause begins that + there ..., we can make a corresponding passive form there + passive verb + to be / to have been. Compare:

- It is thought (that) there are too many obstacles to peace. and
- There are thought to be too many obstacles to peace.

We can use the same verbs in this pattern as with subject + passive verb + to-infinitive (see C).

Exercises

It has been agreed that the UN will send in troops.
- 2 PATIENTS REASSURED ABOUT HOSPITAL SAFETY

- 9 RESTAURANT ESTABLISHED AS SOURCE OF FOOD POISONING OUTBREAK

25.3 Write two new sentences for each numbered sentence below, using it + passive verb + that-clause in one sentence and subject + passive verb + to-infinitive in the other. (The second pattern may not always be possible.) C

(1) We have discovered that a mechanical fault caused the problem. (2) We don't think that the fault is serious. (3) We expect that it will take several weeks to correct the fault. (4) We have decided to postpone the next rocket launch, and (5) we suggest that the next launch should take place in May.

- 1 It has been discovered that a mechanical fault caused the problem. / A mechanical fault was discovered to have caused the problem.

Wh-questions with who, whom, which, how and whose

Who refers to people, and can be used as subject, object or complement:

Reminder → Section E

- Who owns that car? Who did you meet? Who was her father?

Whom is used as a formal alternative to who as object, and also directly after prepositions:

- Whom did you meet? To whom were you talking?

Which is used to refer to people when we want to identify somebody in a group:

- 'Which is your brother?' 'The one next to Luka.' (talking about a photograph) and we can use which instead of who to talk about particular classes of people:

- Which do you think earns more, a teacher or a police officer? (or Who do you think ...?)

B

We usually use which, rather than who or what, in questions before one(s) and of, as which is commonly used to ask or talk about a choice between one or more things:

- I've decided to buy one of these jumpers. Which one do you think I should choose?
 Which of you would like to go first? (rather than Who of ...?)

C

When we use who or what as subjects, the verb that follows is usually singular, even if a plural answer is expected:

- What is there to see in the town? (expects an answer giving a number of things to see;
not What are there to see in the town?)

However, the verb can be plural in echo questions (see Unit 27E) after a plural subject or a subject consisting of two or more noun phrases joined by and:

- 'Mr Almeida and his family are here to see you.' 'Who are here?' (or Who's here?)

and when who and what function as complements:

- Who are those people over there? What are the consequences of the decision?

D

How or what?How

- How was the journey?
 (asking a general opinion)
 How is your brother?
 (asking about general health)
 How do you like your coffee?
 (asking about food and drink preferences)

What

- What was the journey like?
 (asking a general opinion)
 What do you like about the job?
 (asking for details)
 What if your plan doesn't work?
 (asking about consequences)
 What's it called? (asking about a name)

How / What (about)

- How / What about a swim? (making a suggestion)
 'He's a bit scary sometimes.' 'How / What do you mean?' (asking for more information)

E

We can use whose to ask about the person that owns or is responsible for something. Whose can be used either before a verb (as a pronoun):

- Whose are these boots?

or before a noun or noun phrase (as a determiner) introducing direct or indirect questions:

- Whose boots are these? She asked me whose coat I was wearing.

In formal contexts we can use a preposition before whose (see also Unit 55B):

- In* whose desk was it found? (less formally Whose desk was it found in?)

However, in questions without a verb a preposition comes before whose:

- 'We're meeting at nine.' 'In whose house?' (not Whose house in?)

Exercises

26.1 Underline the correct option (or both if possible). A & B

- 1 To whom / who should the documents be sent?

A

Negative questions

Reminder → E5– E7

We usually make a negative yes / no or wh-question with an auxiliary verb (have, did, would, etc.) + -n't to suggest, persuade, criticise, etc.

- Wouldn't it be better to go tomorrow? Why don't we go out for a meal?

In formal contexts, or when we want to give some special emphasis to the negative (perhaps to show that we are angry, very surprised, or to strongly persuade someone), we can use not after the subject in negative questions. This happens particularly in yes / no rather than wh-questions:

- Did she not realise that she'd broken it? (less emphatically Didn't she realise that ...?)
 Can you not get there a bit earlier? (less emphatically Can't you ...?)

B

We sometimes use negative words other than -n't such as never, no, nobody, nothing, nowhere:

- Why do you never help?
 Have you nowhere to go? (or Do you have nowhere to go?) or less emphatically or more informally:

- Why don't you ever help?
 Haven't you got anywhere to go? (or Don't you have anywhere ...?)

C

We can make a suggestion with Why not + verb or Why don't / doesn't ... (but not Why do not / does not ...):

- Why not decorate the house yourself? (or Why don't you decorate ...?)

Why didn't ... isn't used to make a suggestion, but can show that we think an action was wrong. For example, depending on intonation and context, it can be used to criticise someone:

- Why didn't you tell me that in the first place? (I'm annoyed that you didn't)

D

Negative question forms, usually with a falling intonation, are used in exclamations giving opinions:

- Haven't you grown! Doesn't she look lovely! Didn't it snow a lot!

E

Echo questions

Echo questions are used when we haven't understood what has been said or to check that we heard correctly, perhaps because we found it very surprising. We might repeat, usually with a rising intonation, the whole of what was said:

- 'Tala's lost her job.' 'Tala's lost her job?'

or focus on part of what was said using a stressed wh-word or a phrase with how:

- 'Leon's arriving at 6:30.' 'When's Leon arriving? / Leon's arriving when?'
 'We paid £3,000 for the painting.' 'How much did you pay? / You paid how much?'

We can use what or 'do' what to focus on the verb or part of the sentence beginning with the verb:

- 'We paid £3,000 for the painting.' 'You what? (or 'You did what?')
 'I think she's having a sleep.' 'She's what? (or 'She's doing what?')

F

Questions with that-clauses

A wh-question can refer to a following that-clause, particularly after verbs such as expect, hope, reckon, say, suggest, suppose, and think. We can leave out that in these questions:

- When do you reckon (that) you'll finish the job?

However, when the wh-word is the subject, object or complement of the verb in the subordinate clause, we do not use that:

- What did you think was in the box? (not What did you think that was in the box?)

Exercises

27.1 Write negative questions for B in these dialogues, using -n't with the words in brackets. A

B: But that will take ages. (... rather / plane?)

27.2 Use the notes to complete these dialogues with two negative questions. In the first use -n't; in the second use never, no, nobody, nothing or nowhere. B

B: He's sold? / He's done? / He's?
- A: He's going climbing in the Andes.
B: He's going climbing? / He's doing? / He's?

27.4 If necessary, correct any mistakes in these sentences. Put a tick if they are already correct.

- What did you say that is in these biscuits?
- How do you think that Twitter will have changed our lives in ten years' time?
- Why did not you tell me you'd changed your number?

Verbs, objects and complements

Reminder → F1–F3

A Some verbs can be either transitive or intransitive, allowing us to focus on either the person or thing performing the action, or the person or thing affected by the action. Compare:

- She closed the door. (transitive) and The door closed. (intransitive)
- I've ripped my shirt. (transitive) and My shirt has ripped. (intransitive)

Also: begin, bend, break, burn, change, decrease, drop, finish, increase, move, open, shut, start, vary, wake (most are 'change' verbs)

B Some transitive verbs don't need an object when the meaning is clear from the context:

- I often sing (songs) in the shower.
- She plays (the saxophone) beautifully.

Also: answer, ask, change, cook, dance, drink, drive, eat, fail, park, phone, read, smoke, study, wash, wash up, wave, win, write

C After some verbs we usually add a complement – a phrase which completes the meaning of a verb, noun or adjective – which is an adverb or prepositional phrase:

- The disease originated in Britain. (not The disease originated. We need to add something about where or how it originated.)

Other verbs usually have a complement but may not. Compare:

- He paused for a few moments. and He paused. (no complement needed)

D Some verbs are commonly followed by a particular preposition or prepositions and then an object (see also Unit 94):

- We had to deal with hundreds of complaints. (not We had to deal.)
- I'm sure that blue car belongs to Murad. (not I'm sure that blue car belongs.)

Also: adhere to, aspire to, culminate in / with, detract from, differentiate between, incline to / towards, specialise in

E Some verbs are usually followed by an object + prepositional phrase complement:

- I always associate pizza with Italy. (not I always associate pizza.)
- She put the report on the floor. (not She put the report.)

Also: attribute ... to, base ... on / upon, equate ... with, inflict ... on, mistake ... for, regard ... as / with, remind ... of

F Some verbs are often followed by an object + adjective (or adjective phrase) complement:

- The people of this country will hold the government responsible.
- Conti pronounced herself fit for the match.

Also: assume, believe, consider, declare, find, judge, prove, report, think.
(The object after declare, find, pronounce and prove is usually a reflexive pronoun.)

Sentences with an object + adjective complement after these verbs are usually rather formal. Adding to be after the object or using a that-clause can make sentences less formal:

- Dr Adams argues that house prices will fall, but other economists believe the opposite true.
(or less formally ... believe the opposite to be true. or ... believe that the opposite is true.)

Exercises

28.1 If it is possible to omit the object (in italics) after the underlined verbs, put brackets around it. B

Aya was (1) reading (a book) when the telephone rang. It was Val. She said, 'I called you earlier, but nobody (2) answered the phone. Would you like to come over to (3) eat dinner tonight with me and Tom? Is eight/seven okay?' Aya (4) thanked Val and said that she'd love to come. At about seven Aya started to get ready. She (5) washed herself and (6) brushed her hair. Then she (7) changed her clothes and (8) put on some makeup. After that, she (9) drove her car to Malstowe, the village where Val and Tom lived. Val was gardening when Aya (10) reached their house and she (11) waved her hand when she saw Aya. Aya (12) parked her car on the drive and walked over to Val. Val said, 'Tom's still (13) cooking dinner, so I thought I had time (14) to pick some flowers. By the way, my sister Kate is staying with us. She's (15) studying French at university, but is on holiday at the moment. I forgot to (16) mention her when I spoke to you earlier. I'll (17) introduce you when we go inside.' Aya (18) enjoyed the evening very much. The food was excellent and they talked a lot about their holiday plans. Aya hoped to go to Canada, but wasn't sure yet that she could (19) afford it. Before she left, Aya helped (20) wash up the dishes. As she drove home, she decided that she must (21) invite Val and Tom for a meal at her house very soon.

- We believed her at school.

Now write less formal versions using either to be after the object or a that-clause.

- The scientific evidence proved him to be guilty. / The scientific evidence proved that he was guilty.

Verb + two objects

A

Some verbs can be followed by two objects. Usually the first object (= the indirect object (IO)) is a person or group of people and the second object (= the direct object (DO)) is a thing:

- Can you bring me (= IO) some milk (= DO) from the shops?
- He made himself (= IO) a cup of coffee. (= DO).

Many verbs that can have two objects may also be used with a DO only (e.g. I read a story). With many verbs that can have two objects, it is possible to reverse the order of the objects if we put for or to before the IO (this is then called a prepositional object). Compare:

- I built my daughter a doll's house. and I built a doll's house for my daughter.
- Can you pass me that bandage? and Can you pass that bandage to me?

Other verbs with for + object: book, buy, catch, choose, cook, fetch, find, get, make, order, pour, save

Other verbs with to + object: award, give, hand, lend, offer, owe, show, teach, tell, throw

We often use this pattern if we want to focus particular attention on the object after for / to. We also use it if the IO is a lot longer than the DO:

- Jasmin taught music to a large number of children at the school. (not Jasmin taught a large number of children at the school music.)

If the DO is a pronoun, a pattern with DO + preposition + IO is usual. Patterns without a preposition are avoided because they are considered to be bad style:

- I gave them to Isa. (rather than I gave Isa them. / I gave them Isa.)
- We bought it for them. (rather than We bought them it. / We bought it them.)

B

Some verbs can be used with either for or to. Often there is a difference in meaning: to suggests that there is a transfer of something to someone, and for suggests that someone benefits from something. Compare:

- I hadn't got time to visit Mira, so I wrote a letter to her. and
- Mira had broken her wrist, so I wrote a letter for her.

Also: bring, leave, pay, play, post, read, sell, send, sing, take

Sometimes, however, the meaning is very similar:

- He played the piece to (or for) me.
- Can you sing that song again to (or for) us?

Note that when object + object is used after these verbs it usually has a similar meaning to the verb with object + to + object. For example:

- I sold him the car. (means I sold the car to him, not I sold the car for him.)

C

Some verbs that are followed by two objects cannot have their objects reversed with for / to:

- We all envied him his lifestyle. (but not We all envied his lifestyle for / to him.)

Also: allow, ask, cost, deny, forgive, guarantee, permit, refuse

D

Some verbs, such as describe and fix, can only have a second object if this is a prepositional object –

☆ with to (see also Unit 22A). Compare:

- She described the situation (to me). (but not She described me the situation.) and
- She told this joke (to me). or She told me this joke.

Also: admit, announce, demonstrate, explain, introduce, mention, point out, prove, report, say, suggest

☆ with for. Compare:

- He fixed the tap (for me). (but not He fixed me the tap.) and
- I booked a room (for her). or I booked her a room.

Also: collect, mend, repair

Verb + -ing forms and infinitives 1

Reminder → F4– F13

A Some verbs can be followed either by an object + -ing or a possessive + -ing with a similar meaning, although the possessive + -ing form is usually considered to be rather formal:

- I resented Tom winning the prize.
(more formally I resented Tom's winning the prize.)
- Mia recalled him buying the book.
(more formally Mia recalled his buying the book.)

Also: detest, (dis)approve of, (dis)like, hate, love, object to (= '(dis)liking' verbs); forget, imagine, remember, think of (= 'thinking' verbs)

Note that we only use a possessive form (Tom's, his) here to talk about a person or group of people:

- I remember the horse winning the race. (but not ... the horse's winning ...)

B Some verbs can be followed by to + -ing where to is a preposition:

- She confessed to stealing the money.
- You don't object to working late tonight, do you?

Also: adapt, adjust, admit, look forward, own up, resort

Note that these verbs can also be followed by to + noun phrase:

- She confessed to the crime.
- You don't object to the work, do you?

C Other verbs can be followed by different prepositions + -ing. For example:

- ☆ by + -ing (begin, close, end, finish (off / up), open, start (off / out))
 - Can you begin by cleaning the floors, and then do the windows?
- ☆ on + -ing or on + object + -ing (concentrate, count, depend, focus, insist, rely)
 - Clare insisted on (Jack) wearing a suit to the party.
- ☆ of + -ing or of + object + -ing (approve, hear, know, speak, talk, tell)
 - Have you ever heard of (anyone) getting arrested for gossiping before?
- ☆ object + from + -ing (deter, discourage, keep, prevent, prohibit, stop)
 - The noise from next door prevented me from sleeping.

D Some verbs (feel, hear, notice, observe, overhear, see, watch) can be followed by an object and then either by an -ing form or bare infinitive, but the meanings may be slightly different. Compare:

- I saw them playing football from my window. (-ing indicates an action in progress) and
- I saw him smash the bottle. (bare infinitive indicates a completed action)
- I was able to watch them building the new car park from my office window. (-ing suggests that I watched, but not from start to finish) and
- I watched him climb through the window, and then I called the police. (bare infinitive suggests I watched the whole action from start to finish)

E After the verbs dare and help we can use either a bare infinitive or to-infinitive:

- I was angry with him, but I didn't dare (to) say anything.
- We hope the Twitter campaign will help (to) raise awareness of the problem.

When dare has an object, we can only use a to-infinitive. Compare:

- I dared him to cross the river. (not I dared him cross ...) and
- I helped them (to) pack.

After have, let and make we can use an object + bare infinitive but not to-infinitive:

- His exam results might make him work harder. (not ... might make him to work ...)
- I had Irena clean up her bedroom before I let her go out to play.

Verb + -ing forms and infinitives 2

Reminder → F4–F13

A After some verbs we need to include an object before a to-infinitive in active sentences:

- The police warned everyone to stay inside with their windows closed. (not The police warned to stay ...)

Also: advise, allow, believe, cause, command, enable, encourage, entitle, force, invite, order, persuade, remind, show, teach, tell

After other verbs, however, we can't include an object before a to-infinitive:

- We've decided to leave early. (not We've decided us to leave early.)

Also: agree, consent, fail, hope, manage, offer, pretend, refuse, start, threaten, volunteer

B After some verbs we have to put a preposition, usually for, immediately after the verb before an object + to-infinitive (see also Unit 29):

- They arranged for Rania to stay in London. (not They arranged Rania to stay ...)
- They applied for the court appearance to be postponed.

Also: advertise, campaign, long, plan, wait (After apply and campaign, the to-infinitive is usually passive.)

Other verbs can be followed by different prepositions + object + to-infinitive. For example:

- ☆ at + object + to-infinitive (go on [= to criticise continually], keep on [= to talk about something many times], scream, shout, yell)
 - I shouted at the man to open the door.
- ☆ on + object + to-infinitive (call [= to officially ask someone to do something], count, depend, prevail, rely)
 - We're depending on you to find a solution soon.
- ☆ to + object + to-infinitive (appeal, gesture, motion, signal)
 - He closed the door and signalled to the pilot to take off.

C A number of other to-infinitive and -ing forms can also follow verbs –

- ☆ verb + negative to-infinitive and negative -ing forms
 - We decided not to go to Paris after all. (compare The people didn't decide to go to war, it was their political leaders.)
 - Some of my friends have considered not going to college because of the cost. (compare I haven't considered going to college – I don't want to go on studying after school.)
- ☆ verb + to have + past participle
 - The accident seems to have happened at around 1 pm yesterday.
 - Simmons is alleged to have assaulted a police officer.

This form is often used to give an opinion (after verbs like seem and appear) about a past event, or to report what is or was said (after passive verbs like is / was alleged, believed, said, thought) about past events.

☆ verb + having + past participle

The verb + -ing and verb + having + past participle forms have a similar meaning with these verbs:

- I now regret buying the car. and I now regret having bought the car.

This form is most often used with admit, deny, forget, recall, regret and remember.

Reporting people's words and thoughts

A

Quoting and reporting in our own words

Reminder → G1–G11

When we report what people think or what they have said, we often give the information using our own words. We do this with sentences that have a reporting clause and a reported clause (see also Units 33–39):

reporting clause	reported clause
She explained He didn't tell me	(that) she couldn't take the job until January. where to put the boxes.

B

If the exact words are important, we might report the actual words someone said. In writing this is done in a quotation:

- 'I suppose you've heard the latest news,' she said to me.
- 'Of course,' Carter replied, 'you'll have to pay him to do the job.'

The reporting clause can come before, within, or at the end of the quotation.

In the English used in stories and novels, the reporting verb (e.g. ask, continue) is often placed before the subject when the reporting clause comes after the quotation except when the subject is a pronoun:

- 'When will you be back?' asked Jimin. (or ... Jimin asked.)
- 'And after that I moved to Italy,' she continued. (not ... continued she.)

C

Negatives in reporting

To report what somebody didn't say or think, we make the reporting verb negative:

- He didn't tell me how he would get to London.

If we want to report a negative sentence, then we usually report this in the reported clause:

- 'You're right, it isn't a good idea.' → He agreed that it wasn't a good idea.

although it may be reported in the reporting clause, depending on meaning:

- 'I disagree. It's not a good idea at all.' → He didn't agree that it was a good idea.

However, with some verbs, to report a negative sentence we usually make the verb in the reporting clause negative:

- 'I expect he won't come.' / 'I don't expect he will come.' → She didn't expect him to come.

Also: believe, feel, intend, plan, propose, suppose, think, want

D

Reporting questions

To report a wh-question we use a reporting clause and a clause with a wh-word:

- She asked me what the problem was.
- I asked him where to go next.

When we report a yes / no question we use a reporting clause followed by a clause beginning with either if or whether (but note that we can't use if + to-infinitive; see Unit 34):

- Liz wanted to know if / whether we had any photos of our holiday.

The usual word order in a wh-, if-, or whether-clause is the one we would use in a statement:

- 'Have you seen Paul recently?' → She wanted to know if I had seen Paul recently.

However, if the original question begins what, which, or who followed by be + complement, we can put the complement before or after be in the report:

- 'Who was the winner?' → I asked who the winner was. (or ... who was the winner.)

Note that we don't use a form of do in the wh-, if-, or whether-clause:

- She asked me where I found it. (not ... where did I find it. / ... where I did find it.)

However, if we are reporting a negative question, we can use a negative form of do:

- He asked (me) why I didn't want anything to eat.

Exercises

Reporting statements: that-clauses

Reminder → G1–G7

A When we report statements, we often use a that-clause in the reported clause (see Unit 32):

- He said (that) he was enjoying his work.
- The members of the Security Council warned that further action may be taken.

After the more common reporting verbs such as agree, mention, notice, promise, say, and think, we often leave out that, particularly in informal speech. However, it is not usually left out –

- ☆ after less common reporting verbs such as complain, confide, deny, grumble, speculate, warn (and after the common reporting verbs answer, argue, and reply)
- ☆ in formal writing
- ☆ if the that-clause doesn't immediately follow the verb:
 - She agreed with her parents and brothers that it would be safer to buy a car than a motorbike. (rather than ... and brothers it would be safer ...)

B Some reporting verbs which are followed by a that-clause have an alternative with an object + to-infinitive (often to be), although the alternatives are often rather formal. Compare:

- I felt that the results were satisfactory. and
- I felt the results to be satisfactory.

Also: acknowledge, assume, believe, consider, declare, expect, find, presume, report, think, understand

C If we use a that-clause after an active form of some verbs, we must include an object between the verb and the that-clause. This object can't be a prepositional object (see D below):

- I notified the bank that I had changed my address. (but not I notified that I ... / I notified to the bank that I ...)

Also: assure, convince, inform, persuade, reassure, remind, tell

However, after some other verbs an object before a that-clause is not always necessary:

- They promised (me) that they would come to the party.

Also: advise, show, teach, warn

D After some verbs we can use a that-clause with or without a personal object before the that-clause. However, if we do include an object, we put a preposition before it.

- ☆ After some verbs we use to:
 - She admitted (to me) that she was seriously ill.
 - I pointed out (to the driver) that he had parked across the entrance.

Also: announce, complain, confess, explain, indicate, mention, propose, recommend, report, say, suggest

- ☆ After some verbs we use with:
 - We agreed (with Ella) that the information should go no further.

Also: argue, check, disagree, joke

- ☆ After the verbs ask, demand and require we use of:
 - The club asks (of its members) that they pay their fees by 31st December.
 - The company demand(s) (of its staff) that they should be at work by 8:30.

This pattern is usually used in formal contexts. Less formally we can use a to-infinitive clause after ask and require (e.g. The club asks its members to pay their fees by 31st December). However, we can't use a to-infinitive clause after demand (not The company demands its staff to ...).

Exercises

33.1 Underline the correct verb. If both are possible, underline them both. C

- The doctors advised / persuaded that I should rest for three months.

Verb + wh-clause

A Some verbs can be followed by a clause beginning with a wh-word (how, what, when, where, which, who, or why):

- That might explain why he's unhappy.
- I couldn't decide which train to catch.
- Let's consider how we can solve the problem.

Many of these verbs can also be followed by –

☆ a that-clause (see Unit 33):

- I decided that I ought to leave.

☆ a wh-clause (except 'why') + to-infinitive:

- Did you find out where to go?

Note that if we add a subject in the wh-clause we don't use a to-infinitive:

- I can't imagine what he likes about jazz.

Also: arrange, calculate, check, choose, debate, determine, discover, discuss, establish, find out, forget, guess, imagine, know, learn, notice, plan, realise, remember, say, see, talk about, think (about), understand, wonder

B Some verbs must have an object before the wh-clause:

- She reminded me what (I had) to do.
- I told Linda how to get to my house.

Also: advise, inform, instruct, teach, warn

The verbs ask and show often have an object before a wh-clause, but not always:

- I asked (him) how I could get to the station, and he told me.

These verbs can also be followed by object + wh-word + to-infinitive:

- She taught me how to play chess.
- I showed her where to put her coat.

C We can often use the way instead of how referring to either the route or the means:

- Go back the way (that / by which) you came. (or informally Go back how you came.)
- Have you noticed the way (that / in which) he spins the ball? (or ... noticed how he spins ...?)

Note that we don't use 'the way how'. (e.g. not Go back the way how you came.)

D Whether

We can use whether as the wh-word in a wh-clause when we want to show possible choices.

Whether has a similar meaning to 'if' (see Unit 86):

- He couldn't remember whether / if he had turned the computer off.

Some verbs can be followed by whether + to-infinitive to talk about the choice between two or more possibilities. Note that 'if' is never used before a to-infinitive:

- You have 14 days to decide whether to keep it or not. (not ... to decide if to keep it or not.)

Also: choose, consider, debate, determine, discuss, know (in questions and negatives), think about, wonder (= 'talking' or 'thinking about choices' verbs)

Some other 'talking' and 'thinking about choices' verbs are not used with whether + to-infinitive, including ask, conclude, explain, imagine, realise, speculate, think.

E Note the difference between these sentences. The first has a wh-clause with whether and the second has a that-clause (see Unit 33):

- I didn't know whether the shop was shut. (= if the shop was shut or not)
- I didn't know that the shop was shut. (suggests that the shop was shut)

F In rather formal contexts, particularly in writing, we can use as to with a meaning similar to 'about' or 'concerning' before a wh-clause. This is most common before whether:

- Opinion was divided as to whether the findings from the study were representative of the population as a whole. (or less formally ... divided whether ...)

Exercises

34.3 Zak Miles has written a book about mountain climbing in the Andes. Correct any mistakes in these extracts. A–F

The villagers warned ^{me} ~~me~~ what the conditions were like at higher altitudes, and advised to take enough food for a week. There was some discussion through the day as whether the snow would arrive before my descent from the mountain, but I never imagined how hard the conditions would be. In the morning they showed me the way how to get to the track up the mountain.

When the snow started falling it was very light, and I couldn't decide if to carry on or go back down. Soon, however, I couldn't see where to go.

I wondered if to retrace my steps and try to find the track again, but by the time I decided whether I should go back, the track had disappeared.

As the snow got heavier I began to realise whether my life was in danger. Fortunately, my years in the Andes had taught what to do in extreme conditions. I knew that there was a shepherd's hut somewhere on this side of the mountain that I could shelter in, but I didn't know that it was nearby or miles away.

Tense choice in reporting

A Verb tense in the reported clause

Reminder → G1–G7

When the situation described in the reported clause (see Unit 32) is in the past when we are reporting it, we use a past tense (past simple, past continuous, etc.):

- 'I don't want anything to eat.' → Yusuf said that he didn't want anything to eat.
- 'I'm leaving!' → Lamar announced that she was leaving.

When the situation described in the reported clause was already in the past when it was spoken about originally, we often use the past perfect to report it:

- 'We have found the missing girl.' → Police said that they had found the missing girl.

However, if it is clear that one event took place before another, then it may not be necessary to indicate this by using the past perfect and we use the past simple instead:

- 'I've sent out the invitations. I did it well before the wedding.' → She reassured me that she sent out the invitations well before the wedding. (or... had sent ...)

B When the situation described in the reported clause is a permanent / habitual situation, or still exists or is relevant at the time we are reporting it, then we use a present tense (or present perfect) if we also use a present tense for the verb in the reporting clause:

- Dr Weir thinks that he spends about five minutes on a typical appointment with a patient.
- US scientists claim that they have developed a new vaccine against malaria.

Note that the present perfect focuses attention on the result of the action, not the action itself.

However, when we use a past tense in the reporting clause we can use either a present or past tense (or present perfect or past perfect) in the reported clause:

- She argued that Carl is / was the best person for the job.
- They noted that the rate of inflation has / had slowed down.

Choosing a present tense (or present perfect) in the reported clause emphasises that the situation being reported still exists or is still relevant when we report it.

If we are not sure that what we are reporting is necessarily true, or a situation may not still exist now, we prefer a past rather than a present tense. Compare:

- Yasemin told me that she has two houses. (= might suggest that this is true) and
- Yasemin told me that she had two houses. (= might suggest either that this is perhaps not true, or that she once had two houses but doesn't have two houses now)

C Verb tense in the reporting clause

To report something said or thought in the past, the verb in the reporting clause is often in a past tense:

- Just before her wedding, she revealed that she had been married before.

When we report current news, opinions, etc. we can use a present tense for the verb in the reporting clause. In some cases, either a present or past tense is possible, although we prefer a present tense to emphasise that what was said is true or still relevant when we report it:

- She says that she'll have to close the shop unless business improves. (or ... said ...)

We often prefer a present rather than a past tense –

☆ to report information that we have been told or heard, but don't know whether it is true:

- I hear you're unhappy with your job.

☆ to report what is said by some authority:

- The law says that no one under the age of 16 can buy a lottery ticket.

☆ to report what many people say:

- Every teacher I've spoken to tells me that standards of spelling are in decline.

Exercises

- 35.1 Report these sentences using the verbs from the box in the reporting clauses and either the past simple or past perfect (or both if possible) in the that-clause. A

When I mentioned to Nokes that he had been seen in a local shop last Monday, he protested that he is at home all day. He swears that he didn't own a blue Ford Focus. He claimed that he had been to the paint factory two weeks ago to look for work. Nokes alleges that he is a good friend of Jamie Barnes. He insisted that he didn't telephone Barnes last Monday morning. When I pointed out to Nokes that a large quantity of paint had been found in his house, he replied that he is storing it for a friend.

At the beginning of the interview I reminded Barnes that he is entitled to have a lawyer present. He denied that he knew anyone by the name of Daniel Nokes. Barnes confirmed that he is in the area of the paint factory last Monday, but said that he is visiting his mother. He admitted that he is walking along New Street at around ten. He maintains that he was a very honest person and would never be involved in anything illegal.

Reporting offers, suggestions, orders, intentions, etc.

A Verb + (object) + to-infinitive clause

When we report offers, suggestions, orders, intentions, promises, requests, etc. we can follow some verbs in the reporting clause (see Unit 33) with –

☆ a to-infinitive clause

- 'The theatre will be built next to the town hall.' → They propose to build the theatre next to the town hall. (not They propose them to build ...)

Also: agree, demand, guarantee, offer, promise, swear, threaten, volunteer

☆ an object + to-infinitive clause

- 'You should take the job, Fran.' → She encouraged Fran to take the job.

Also: advise, ask, call on, command, instruct, invite, order, persuade, recommend, remind, request, urge, warn, tell

The object usually refers to the person who the offer, suggestion, etc. is made to; that is, the person who performs the action in the reported clause.

Compare the use of ask with and without an object before a to-infinitive clause:

- We asked to leave our bags outside the exam room. (= this is something we wanted) and
 They asked us to leave our bags outside the exam room. (= this is something they wanted)

B Verb + that-clause or verb + to-infinitive clause

After some verbs we can use a that-clause instead of a to-infinitive clause:

- He promised to arrive on time. or
 He promised that he would arrive on time.

Also: agree, demand, expect, guarantee, hope, propose, request, vow

With a that-clause the person promising, etc. and the person referred to in the reported clause may be different:

- He promised that he wouldn't be late. ('He ...' and '... he ...' may refer to different people)

C After the verbs insist, order, say and suggest we use a that-clause but not a to-infinitive clause:

- There were cheers when he suggested that we went home early. (not ... suggested to go ...)

Advise and order can be used with an object + to-infinitive clause (see A) or a that-clause:

- I advised that she should accept. (or I advised her to accept.; but not I advised to accept ...)

D Verb + to-infinitive clause (not verb + that-clause)

After some verbs we use a to-infinitive clause but not a that-clause:

- Carolyn intends to return to Dublin after a year in Canada.
 (not Carolyn intends that she should return ...)

Also: long, offer, refuse, volunteer, want

E When we report a suggestion, either what the person reported might do themselves, or what someone else might do, we can use a reporting clause with advise, propose, recommend or suggest followed by an -ing clause rather than a that-clause:

- The lecturer recommended reading a number of books before the exam. (or ... recommended that the students should read a number of books before the exam.)

Exercises

In a separate development, the UN Secretary General has (7) agreed to meet the leaders of both countries and has (8) offered that a peace conference should be held in New York early next week.

Can any of these sentences be rewritten with a to-infinitive clause without an object?

Modal verbs in reporting

A When there is a modal verb in the original statement, suggestion, etc., it sometimes changes when we report what was said or thought. The changes are summarised here:

	modal verb in original	modal verb in report
B	could, would, should, might, needn't, ought to, used to, could have, should have, etc.	could, would, should, might, needn't, ought to, used to, (i.e. no change) 1–3 could have, should have, etc.
C	will, can, may	<input type="checkbox"/> would, could, might 4 & 5 <input type="checkbox"/> will, can, may (existing or future situations and present tense verb in reporting clause) 6 <input type="checkbox"/> will or would, can or could, may or might (existing or future situations and past tense verb in reporting clause) 7
D	shall	<input type="checkbox"/> would (talking about the future) 8 <input type="checkbox"/> should (offers, requests for advice, etc.) 9
E	must (= necessity) must (= conclude; see Unit 18B) mustn't	must or had to 10 must 11 mustn't 12

- B
- 'I could meet you at the airport.' → He said that he could meet us at the airport. 1
 - 'We might drop in if we have time.' → They said they might drop in if they have time. 2
 - 'You should have contacted me earlier.' → She said I should have contacted her earlier. 3

- C
- 'She may have already left.' → He thought she might have already left. 4

If the situation we are reporting still exists or is still in the future and the verb in the reporting clause has a present tense, we use will, can, and may in the reported clause (see Unit 32). Compare:

- 'Careful! You'll fall through the ice!' → I warned him he would fall through the ice. 5 and
- 'I'll be in Paris at Christmas.' → She tells me she'll be in Paris at Christmas. 6

If the situation we are reporting still exists or is still in the future and the verb in the reporting clause has a past tense, we can use either would or will, can or could, or may or might in the reported clause:

- 'The problem can be solved.' → They said the problem can / could be solved. 7

- D
- 'I shall (I'll) call you on Monday.' → She told me she would call me on Monday. 8
 - 'Where shall I put this box?' → He asked where he should put the box. 9

- E
- 'You must be home by 9 o'clock.' → She said I must / had to be home by 9 o'clock. 10
(had to is more natural in speech)
 - 'I didn't hear the phone. I must be going deaf.' → Alex thought he must be going deaf. 11
 - 'You mustn't tell my brother.' → He warned me that I mustn't tell his brother. 12

F Note that we sometimes use a modal verb in a reported sentence when there is no modal verb in the original:

- 'You're not allowed to smoke here.' → She told me that I mustn't smoke there.
- 'My advice is to look for a new job now.' → She said that I should look for a new job now.

A Reporting using nouns

We sometimes report people's words and thoughts using a noun in the reporting clause followed by a reported clause beginning with that, a to-infinitive-, or wh-word. Most of these nouns are related to reporting verbs (acknowledgement – acknowledge, statement – state, etc.). Note that when we report using nouns and adjectives (see C) the exact original words are not necessarily reported. Instead we might use our own words, or report that something was said without reporting what was said.

☆ Noun + that-clause

- The claim is often made that smoking causes heart disease.
- The jury came to the conclusion that the woman was guilty.

Also: acknowledgement, advice, allegation, announcement, answer, argument, comment, decision, explanation, forecast, guarantee, indication, observation, promise, recommendation, reply, speculation, statement, suggestion, threat, warning

Note that we don't usually leave out that in sentences like this (see Unit 33).

☆ Noun + to-infinitive clause

- I accepted Luisa's invitation to visit her in Rome.
- He gave me every encouragement to take up painting again.

Also: decision, instruction, order, promise, recommendation, refusal, threat, warning

Note that some of these nouns can be followed by a that-clause:

- They carried out their threat to dismiss workers on strike. (or ... their threat that they would dismiss workers on strike.)

☆ Noun + wh-clause

- Juan raised the question of when the money would be collected.
- Our previous meeting looked at the issue of how to increase income.

Also: explanation, discussion, problem

We usually use of after these nouns in reporting.

B After many of the nouns listed in A we can use as to + wh-clause or as to + wh-word + to-infinitive to introduce the subject of a question or topic discussed or thought about (see also Unit 34F). Note that an alternative preposition can usually be used instead of as to:

- She asked my advice as to what subject she should study at university. (or ... advice on ...)
- There was some discussion as to whether the price included tax or not. (or ... discussion of ...)
- Before we left we gave them strict instructions as to how to cook it. (or ... about how to ...)

C Reporting using adjectives

Some adjectives used to report a speaker's feelings or opinion are followed by a that-clause:

- The builders are certain that they'll be finished by the end of next week.

Also: adamant, agreed, angry, annoyed, grateful, insistent, sure

Adjectives expressing uncertainty are usually followed by a wh-clause:

- Scientists aren't sure where the remains of the satellite will land.

Also: doubtful (usually + whether), uncertain, not certain, unsure

Some adjectives are usually followed by a preposition + noun phrase:

- Today's newspapers are very critical of the President's decision to appoint Mr Walters.

Also: apologetic, complimentary, insulting, tactful (+ about); dismissive, scornful (+ of); abusive, sympathetic (+ to / towards)

Should in that-clauses; the present subjunctive

A We can sometimes report advice, orders, requests, suggestions, etc. about things that need to be done or are desirable using a that-clause with should + bare infinitive:

- They have proposed that Felix should move to their Munich office.
- We advised that the company should not raise its prices.

After should we often use be + past participle (passive) or be + adjective:

- They directed that the building should be pulled down.
- We insist that the money should be available to all students in financial difficulties.

B In formal contexts, particularly in written English, we can often leave out should and use only the base form of the verb (that is, the form you would look up in a dictionary). This form is the present subjunctive (see Unit 85A for the past subjunctive) and is used to describe bringing about the situation expressed in the that-clause:

- They have proposed that Felix move to their Munich office.
- They directed that the building be pulled down.

Other verbs used with the present subjunctive:
advise, ask, beg, command, demand, insist, instruct, intend, order, prefer, recommend, request, require, stipulate, suggest, urge, warn

To make a negative form, we use not (not 'do not') before the verb:

- We advised that the company not raise its prices.

In less formal contexts we can use ordinary forms of the verb instead of the subjunctive. Compare:

- I suggested that he should give up golf. (negative: ... that he shouldn't give up ...)
- I suggested that he give up golf. (more formal) (negative: ... that he not give up ...)
- I suggested that he gives up golf. (less formal) (negative: ... that he doesn't give up ...)

C We can also use that-clauses with should or the subjunctive after reporting clauses with nouns related to the verbs in B (e.g. advice, order, proposal, warning):

- The police issued an order that all weapons (should) be handed in immediately.
- The weather forecast gave a warning that people (should) prepare for heavy snow.

D We can also use should or sometimes the subjunctive in a that-clause after it + be + adjective:

- It is inappropriate that he (should) receive the award again. (or ... that he receives ...)

Also: advisable, appalling, appropriate, (in)conceivable, crucial, essential, imperative, important, obligatory, (un)necessary, urgent, vital

E We can use should in a that-clause when we talk about our own reaction to something we are reporting, particularly after be + adjective. Compare:

- I am concerned* that she should think I stole the money (or ... that she thinks ...)

Also: amazed, amused, anxious, astounded, disappointed, shocked, surprised, upset

Note that when we leave out should in sentences like this (= less formal) we use an ordinary tense, not a subjunctive.

F We can use should in a that-clause to talk about a situation that exists now:

- It's not surprising that they should be seen together – they're brothers.

or one that may exist in the future:

- We believe it is important that she should take the exam next year.

If we are talking about an intention or plan, we can often use a subjunctive rather than should:

- I've arranged that she come to the first part of the meeting. (or ... that she should come ... / ... that she comes ... / ... for her to come ...)

Exercises

Agreement between subject and verb 1

Reminder → H1– H3

A If a sentence has a singular subject, it is followed by a singular verb, and if it has a plural subject, it is followed by a plural verb; that is, the verb agrees with the subject. Compare:

- She lives in China. and More people live in Asia than in any other continent.

When the subject of the sentence is complex the following verb must agree with the main noun in the subject. In the examples below the subject is underlined and the main noun is circled. Note how the verb, in italics, agrees with the main noun:

- Many leading members of the opposition party have criticised the delay.
- The only excuse that he gave for his actions was that he was tired.

The verb must agree with the subject when the subject follows the verb (see Units 99 & 100):

- Displayed on the board were the exam results. (compare The exam results were displayed ...)

B If the subject is a clause, we usually use a singular verb:

- To keep these young people in prison is inhuman.
- Having overall responsibility for the course means that I have a lot of meetings.
- Whoever took them remains a mystery.

However, if we use a what-clause as subject (see Unit 98B), we use a singular verb if the following main noun is singular, and either a singular or a plural verb if the following main noun is plural (although a plural verb is preferred in more formal contexts):

- What worries us is the poor selection process.
- What is needed are additional resources. (or more colloquially ... needed is ...)

C Some nouns with a singular form, referring to groups of some kind, can be used with either a singular or plural form of the verb. These nouns are sometimes called collective nouns:

- The council has (or have) postponed a decision on the new road.

We use a singular verb if the focus is on the institution or organisation as a whole unit, and a plural verb if the focus is on a collection of individuals. Often you can use either with very little difference in meaning, although in formal contexts (such as academic writing) it is common to use a singular verb.

Also: army, association, audience, class, club, college, commission, committee, community, company, crew, crowd, department, electorate, enemy, family, federation, generation, government, group, institute, jury, opposition, orchestra, population, press, public, school, team, university; the Bank of England, the BBC, IBM, Sony, the United Nations (specific organisations)

In some contexts we have to use a singular or a plural form of the verb.

<input type="checkbox"/> The committee usually raise their hands to vote 'Yes'. (not The committee usually raises its hands ...)	This is something the individuals do, not the committee as a whole.
<input type="checkbox"/> The school is to close next year. (not The school are to close ...)	This is something that will happen to the school as a building or institution, not to the individuals in the school.

D When names and titles ending in -s refer to a single unit we use a singular verb. Examples include countries; newspapers; titles of books, films, etc.; and quoted plural words or phrases:

- At this time of the year the Netherlands is one hour ahead of the UK.
- The Machine Gunners* was one of Robert Westall's most successful books.
- 'Daps' is the word used in the south-west of the country for sports shoes.

Agreement between subject and verb 2

With any of , each of , either of , neither of , or none of and a plural noun / pronoun we can use a singular or plural verb. (We use a singular verb for careful written English.)	<input type="checkbox"/> I don't think any of them knows (or know) where the money is hidden. <input type="checkbox"/> Neither of the French athletes has (or have) won this year.
With a / the majority of , a number of , a lot of , plenty of , all (of) , or some (of) and a plural noun / pronoun we use a plural verb. (We use a singular verb with the number of .)	<input type="checkbox"/> A number of refugees have been turned back at the border. <input type="checkbox"/> The number of books in the library has risen to over five million.
After one of and a plural noun / pronoun we use a singular verb. However, after one of + plural noun / pronoun + who we can often use either a singular or plural verb. (A plural verb is more grammatical.)	<input type="checkbox"/> One of the reasons I took the job was that I could work from home. <input type="checkbox"/> He's one of those teachers who insist / insists on pupils sitting silently in class.
With any of , none of , the majority of , a lot of , plenty of , all (of) , some (of) and an uncountable noun we use a singular verb.	<input type="checkbox"/> All the furniture was destroyed in the fire. <input type="checkbox"/> None of the equipment appears to be damaged.

When a subject has two or more items joined by and, we usually use a plural verb:

- Ingrid and Tobias are moving back to Australia.

However, phrases connected by and can also be followed by singular verbs if we think of them as making up a single item:

- The lorry, its cargo and passengers weighs around 35 tonnes. (or ... weigh ...)

C

When a subject is made up of two or more items joined by (either) ... or ... or (neither) ... nor ... we use a singular verb if the last item is singular (although a plural verb is sometimes used in informal English), and a plural verb if the last item is plural:

- Either the station or the cinema is a good place to meet. (or ... are ... in informal English)
 The President or his representatives are to attend the meeting.

If the last item is singular and previous item plural, we can use a singular or plural verb:

- Either the teachers or the principal is to blame for the accident. (or ... are to blame ...)

D

In there + be / have (see Unit 95) we use a singular verb form with singular and uncountable nouns and a plural form with plural nouns. However, in informal speech we often use a shortened singular form of be or have (= There's) with plural nouns:

- Over the last few years there have been many improvements in car safety.
 There's been lots of good films on lately. (or There've been ...)

Agreement between subject and verb 3

A Plural nouns

Some nouns are usually plural and take a plural verb:

- The company's earnings have increased for the last five years.

Also: belongings, clothes, congratulations, goods, outskirts, overheads, particulars (= information), premises (= building), riches, savings, stairs, surroundings, thanks

Note that whereabouts can be used with either a singular or plural verb, police and people always take a plural verb, and staff usually does:

- Police believe that Thomas is in Brazil, although his exact whereabouts are / is unknown.
- Staff say that the new computer system has led to greater levels of stress in their work.

B Plural nouns used with singular verbs

Although the words data and media (= newspaper, television, etc.) are plural (singular datum and medium), they are commonly used with a singular verb. However, in formal contexts such as academic writing a plural verb is preferred. Note that other similar plurals such as criteria and phenomena (singular criterion and phenomenon) are always used with plural verbs. Compare:

- All the data is available for public inspection. (or ... are available ...) and
- I agree that the criteria are not of equal importance. (not ... the criteria is not ...)

C Uncountable nouns ending in -s

Some uncountable nouns always end in -s and look as if they are plural, but when we use them as the subject they have a singular verb:

- The news from the Middle East seems very encouraging.

Also: means (= 'method' or 'money'); economics, linguistics, mathematics, phonetics, physics; politics, statistics; athletics, gymnastics; diabetes, measles, rabies

However, compare:

academic subject	general use
<input type="checkbox"/> Politics is popular at this university.	<input type="checkbox"/> Her politics are bordering on the fascist. (= political belief)
<input type="checkbox"/> Statistics was always my worst subject.	<input type="checkbox"/> Statistics are able to prove anything you want them to. (= numerical information)
<input type="checkbox"/> Economics has only recently been recognised as a scientific study.	<input type="checkbox"/> The economics behind their policies are unreasonable. (= the financial system)

D Agreement with measurements, percentages, etc.

With a phrase referring to a measurement, amount or quantity we usually prefer a singular verb:

- Only three metres separates the runners in first and second places. (rather than ... separate ...)
- and a singular verb must be used when the complement is a singular noun phrase (e.g. a long time):
- Three hours seems a long time to take on the homework. (not Three hours seem ...)

When the first noun in a complex subject is a percentage or a fraction the verb agrees with the noun closest to the verb. Compare:

- An inflation rate of only 2% makes a difference to exports. (verb agrees with main noun) and
- About 50% / half of the houses need major repairs. (verb agrees with closest noun)

Where we use a singular noun that can be thought of as either a whole unit or a collection of individuals, we can use either a singular or plural verb:

- Some 80% of the electorate is expected to vote. (or ... are expected ...)

Compound nouns and noun phrases

Reminder → H4– H12

A

In a compound consisting of noun + noun, often the second noun gives the general class of things to which the compound belongs and the first noun indicates the type within this class. The first noun usually has a singular form:

- an address book (= a book for addresses; not an addresses book)

However, there are a number of exceptions. These include –

☆ when the first noun only has a plural form:

- a savings account a customs officer a clothes shop (compare a shoe shop)
the arms trade (arms = weapons) a glasses case (glasses = spectacles. Compare 'a glass case' = a case made of glass) an arts festival (arts = music, drama, film, dance, painting, etc. Compare 'an art festival'; art = painting, drawing and sculpture)

☆ when we refer to an institution (an industry, department, etc.), such as

- the building materials industry the publications department which deals with more than one kind of item or activity (different types of building material, different forms of publication).

Note that to make a compound noun plural we usually make the second noun plural:

- coal mine(s) office-worker(s) tea leaf / leaves

B

Sometimes a noun + noun is not appropriate and instead we use noun + -'s + noun (possessive form) or noun + preposition + noun. In general, we prefer noun + -'s + noun –

☆ when the first noun is the user (a person or animal) of the item in the second noun:

- a baby's bedroom a lion's den a women's clinic a girls' school birds' nests

☆ when the item in the second noun is produced by the thing (often an animal) in the first:

- goat's cheese duck's eggs cow's milk (but note lamb chops and chicken drumsticks)

☆ when we talk about parts of people or animals; but we usually use noun + noun to talk about parts of things. Compare:

- a woman's face a boy's arm but a pen top a computer keyboard

We prefer noun + preposition + noun –

☆ when we talk about some kind of container together with its contents. Compare:

- a cup of tea (= a cup with tea in it) and a tea cup (= a cup for drinking tea from)

☆ when the combination of nouns does not refer to a well-known class of items. Compare:

- income tax (a recognised class of tax) and a tax on children's clothes (rather than 'a children's clothes tax')

C

Some compound nouns are made up of verbs and prepositions or adverbs, and may be related to a two- or three-word verb (see Unit 94). Compare:

- Mansen broke out of the prison by dressing as a woman. (= escaped) and
- There was a major break-out from the prison last night. (= prisoners escaped)

Countable compound nouns like this have a plural form ending in -s:

- read-out(s) push-up(s) intake(s) outcome(s)

However, there are exceptions. For example:

- looker(s)-on (or onlooker[s]) runner(s)-up passer(s)-by hanger(s)-on

D

We can form other kinds of hyphenated phrases that are placed before nouns to say more precisely what the noun refers to:

- a state-of-the-art (= very modern) tablet PC up-to-date information

Exercises

A / an and one

A

We use a before nouns and noun phrases that begin with a consonant sound. If the noun or noun phrase starts with a vowel letter but begins with a consonant sound, we also use a:

a university (/ə ju:n .../) a European (/ə jʊə .../) a one-parent family (/ə wʌn .../)

We use an before words that begin with a vowel sound, including a silent letter 'h':

an orange an Italian an umbrella an hour an honour and abbreviations said as individual letters that begin with A, E, F, H, I, L, M, N, O, R, S or X:

an MP (/ən em pi:z/) an FBI agent (/ən ef bi: ai .../) an IOU (/ən ai əʊ ju: /)

But compare abbreviations said as words:

a NATO general (/ə neɪtəʊ ... /) a FIFA official (/ə fi:fə ... /) but an OPEC meeting (/ən əʊpek ... /)

Note that we say:

a history (book) but an (or a) historical (novel)

B

We use a / an (not one) to talk about a particular but unspecified person, thing or event:

- I really need a cup of coffee.
- You never see a police officer in this part of town, do you?

We also use a / an, not one, in number and quantity expressions such as:

- three times a year half an hour a quarter of an hour a day or so (= 'about a day')
- 50 cents a (= each) litre (note we can also say '50 cents for one litre')
- a week or two (= between one and two weeks; note we can also say 'one or two weeks')
- a few a little a huge number of ...

We use a rather than one in the pattern a ... of ... with possessives, as in:

- She's a colleague of mine.
- That's a friend of Gabriel's.

C

Before a singular countable noun one and a / an both refer to one thing:

- We'll be in Australia for one year. (or ... a year.)
- Wait here for one minute, and I'll be with you. (or ... a minute ...)

Using one gives a little more emphasis to the length of time, quantity, amount, etc.:

- He weighs one hundred and twenty kilos! Would you believe it! (using one emphasises the weight more than using a)

However, we use one rather than a / an if we want to emphasise that we are talking about only one thing or person rather than two or more:

- Do you want one sandwich or two?
- Are you staying only one night?
- I just took one look at her and she started crying.

We use one, not a / an, in the pattern one ... other / another:

- Close one eye, and then the other.
- Bees carry pollen from one plant to another.

We also use one in phrases such as one day, one evening, one spring, etc. to mean a particular, but unspecified, day, evening, spring, etc.:

- Hope to see you again one day.
- One evening, while he was working late at the office ...

A / an, the and zero article 1

Reminder → 11–19

A

We usually use the when we talk about –

☆ things which are unique; that is, there is only one of them (or one set of them):

- the world the sky the atmosphere the sun the ground the climate the horizon the human race the environment
 the travel industry the Internet

☆ general geographical areas with the as in:

- the beach the town the sea(side) the land the country(side)
 (where 'the country' or 'the countryside' means 'the area where there are no towns')

☆ the past the present the futureNote, however, that some nouns like this can be used with zero article (i.e. no article) to refer to a concept in general:

- Climate is one of the many factors involved in changing farming methods. (or The climate ...)
 These flowers grow best in sandy soil and sun. (= sunshine)
 In autumn the temperature difference between land and sea decreases. (or ... the land and the sea ...)

If we want to describe a particular instance of these we can use a / an. Compare:

- I could see the plane high up in the sky. and
 When I woke up there was a bright blue sky.
 What are your plans for the future? and
 She dreamt of a future where she could spend more time painting.

B

We can use the when we make generalisations about classes of things using singular countable nouns. (See also Unit 47A.) Compare the use of the and a / an in these sentences:

- The computer has revolutionised publishing. (this refers to computers in general) but not
 A computer has revolutionised publishing. (computers in general have done this, not an individual computer)
 The computer is an important research tool. and
 A computer is an important research tool. (this statement is true of both the general class and the individual item)

As an alternative to the + singular countable noun we can use a plural countable noun to talk about a class of things:

- Computers are an important research tool.

Note that if the is used with plural and uncountable nouns we refer to a specific thing or group:

- The computers have arrived. Where shall I put them?
 The music was wonderful. I could have listened to the orchestra all night.

When we define something or say what is typical of a particular class of people or things, we generally use a / an rather than the:

- A corkscrew is a gadget for getting corks out of bottles.
 A garden is there to give you pleasure, not to be a constant worry.

C

Some nouns can be used uncountably when we talk about the whole substance or idea, but countably when we talk about an instance or more than one instance of it. When these nouns are used countably we can use a / an (and plurals). Compare:

- I don't drink coffee. and Would you like a coffee? (= a cup of coffee)
 He shook with fear. and He has a fear of heights.

There are many other nouns like this, including conversation, grammar, importance, iron, pleasure, shampoo, sound. Some of these nouns (e.g. grammar, iron) have different meanings when they are used countably and uncountably.

A / an, the and zero article 2

A

We use a / an to say what a person's job is, was, or will be:

- She was a company director when she retired.
- Against her parents' wishes, she wants to be a journalist.

Reminder → I1–19

However, when we give a person's job title, or their unique position, we use the or zero article (i.e. no article), not a / an. Compare:

- She's been appointed (the) head of the company. and
- I'm a production manager at Fino. (= there may be more than one production manager)

After the position of, the post of, or the role of we use zero article before a job title:

- Dr Simons has taken on the position of Head of Department.

B

We usually use zero article (i.e. no article) before the name of an individual person or place. However, we use the –

☆ when there are two people with the same name to specify which one we mean:

- That's not the Stephen Fraser I went to school with.

but compare 'There was a Stephen Fraser in my class.' (= a person named Stephen Fraser)

☆ when we want to emphasise that the person we are referring to is the most famous person with that name. Used this way, the is stressed and pronounced /ði:/:

- Do they mean the Neil Armstrong, or someone else?

☆ with an adjective to describe a person, or another noun which tells us their job:

- the late Michael Jackson
- (the) artist Joseph Turner ('the' is sometimes left out, particularly in journalism)

☆ when we talk about a family as a whole:

- The Robinsons are away this weekend.

C

Note that a / an, or sometimes zero article, is used with a name when referring to the particular excellent qualities of the person named:

- Majid plays tennis well, but he'll never be (a) Roger Federer.

We also use a / an when we refer to an individual example of a product made by a particular manufacturer (e.g. I've just bought a Mercedes) or a work by a particular artist (e.g. Do you think it could be a Van Gogh / a Rembrandt?).

You can use a / an before a person's name if you don't know the person yourself. Compare:

- Dr Lee is here for you. (= I know Dr Lee) and
- There's a Dr Amy Lee on the phone. (= I haven't heard of her before) Do you want to talk to her?

D

In stories and jokes in conversation, this is commonly used instead of a / an to introduce a new person or thing. Using this highlights the person or thing as the topic of what is to come next:

- As I was walking along, this spider (= a spider) landed on my head, and ...
- This man (= a man) goes into a chemist and he says ...

E

We use the before a superlative adjective (the biggest, the most expensive, etc.) when the superlative adjective is followed by a noun or defining phrase:

- He is the finest young player around at the moment.

However, we can often leave out the, particularly in an informal style, when there is no noun or defining phrase after the superlative adjective. Compare:

- A: Why did you decide to stay in this hotel?
- B: It was (the) cheapest. and It was the cheapest I could find.

A / an, the and zero article 3

Reminder → 11–19

A

With plural and uncountable nouns, zero article (i.e. no article) is used to talk generally, without definite people or things in mind. The is used when we assume the listener or reader will understand who or what we are referring to, or when other words in the noun phrase make the reference specific. Compare:

- The government has promised not to tax books. (= books generally) and
- The books have arrived. (= the books you ordered)
- Music played an important part in his life. (= music generally) and
- I thought the music used in the film was the best part. (= that particular music)

B

We often use zero article with the names of holidays, special times of the year, months, and days of the week including Easter, Ramadan, New Year's Day. But compare:

- I'll see you on Saturday. (= next Saturday)
- We met on Saturday. (= last Saturday)
- They came on a Saturday as far as I can remember. (we are only interested in the day of the week, not which particular Saturday)
- They came on the Saturday after our party. (a particular Saturday, specifying which one)

With winter, summer, spring, autumn, and New Year (meaning the holiday period), we can use either zero article or the:

- In (the) summer I try to spend as much time as I can in the garden.

We use the when it is understood or we go on to specify which summer, spring, etc. we mean:

- I'd like to go skiing in the autumn. (= this year)
- I first went skiing in the spring of 2002.

We say 'in the New Year' to mean near the beginning of next year:

- I'll see you again in the New Year.

When we want to describe the features of a particular holiday, season, or other period of time and say that it was somehow special when compared with others, we can use It / That was ... + a / an + noun + modifying phrase. Compare:

- That was a winter I'll never forget. (= compared to other winters it was unforgettable) and
- That was the winter we went to Norway. (= a statement about a particular winter)

C

We use zero article with times of the day and night such as midnight, midday, and noon:

- If possible, I'd like it finished by midday.
- Midnight couldn't come quickly enough.

But note that we can say either the dawn or dawn:

- He got back into bed and waited for (the) dawn.

We use the + morning / afternoon / evening for a day which is understood or already specified:

- I enjoyed the morning, but in the afternoon the course was boring.

But compare:

- Morning is the time I work best. (= mornings in general; The morning ... is also possible)
- I'll be there by (the) morning / evening. (but ... by the afternoon, not ... by afternoon)
- I waited all morning. (more usual than all the morning / afternoon, etc.)
- 'You look upset.' 'Yes, I've had a terrible morning.' (= compared to other mornings)

D

We often use by + zero article to talk about means of transport and communication. Compare:

- I generally go by bus to work. and I generally take the bus to work.

Also: go / travel by car / taxi / bus / plane / train / air / sea; contact / communicate by post / email / phone

Some and any

A

Some

Reminder → 110–121

Before plural and uncountable nouns we sometimes use some or zero article (i.e. no article) with very little difference in meaning:

- 'Where were you last week?' 'I was visiting (some) friends.'
- Before serving, pour (some) yoghurt over the top.

With both some and zero article we are referring to particular people or things but in an indefinite way. When it is used in this way, some is usually pronounced /səm/.

We don't use some to make general statements about whole classes of things or people:

- Machinery can be dangerous unless used properly.
- Babies need a lot of attention.

B

Some is used before a number to mean 'approximately':

- Some eighty per cent of all residents took part in the vote. (= approximately eighty per cent; beginning 'Eighty per cent ...' suggests a more precise figure)

When it is used in this way, some is usually pronounced /sʌm/.

When we can't say exactly which person or thing we are talking about because we don't know, can't remember, or want to emphasise that it is not important, we can use some instead of a / an with a singular noun. When it is used in this way, some is usually pronounced /sʌm/.

- He was interrupted twice by some troublemaker in the audience.

We use the phrase some (thing) or other in a similar way:

- I bought them from some shop or other in New Street. (not ... from a shop or other ...)

D

Any

We usually use any not some (and anyone, anything, etc. not someone, something, etc.) –

☆ in non-affirmative contexts; that is, lacking positive, affirmative meaning.

☆ to refer to non-specific, unspecified things.

For example, we generally use any in sentences with a negative meaning:

- There's hardly any sugar left.
- I closed the windows to prevent any flies getting in.
- It was impossible to see anything in the dark.
- We got to the airport without any difficulty.

Also when sentences include: barely, never, rarely, scarcely, seldom (= negative adverbs); deny, fail, forbid, prohibit, refuse (= negative verbs); reluctant, unable, unlikely (= negative adjectives)

However, we use some with these negative words–

☆ when some (pronounced /sʌm/) has the implication 'not all':

- I talk to colleagues before I make some decisions, but I had to make this one on my own.

☆ when the basic meaning is positive:

- Somebody isn't telling the truth. (= There is some person [who isn't telling the truth])

☆ when we are talking about a particular but unspecified person or thing:

- I was reluctant to repeat something so critical of Paul. (= a specific criticism)

E

We often use any in clauses that begin with before, and with comparisons:

- I cleared up the mess before anyone saw it. ('... before someone saw it' suggests that I have a particular person in mind who might see it)
- The material felt softer than anything she had ever touched before.

No, none (of) and not any

Reminder → 129–134

A

We can use no and none (of) instead of not a or not any for particular emphasis. Compare:

- There isn't a train until tomorrow. and There's no train until tomorrow. (more emphatic)
- Sorry, there isn't any left. and Sorry, there's none left.
- He didn't have any of the usual symptoms. and He had none of the usual symptoms.

We use other pairs of negative words and phrases in a similar way:

- There isn't anyone / anybody here. and There's no one / nobody here. (more emphatic)
- She wasn't anywhere to be seen. and She was nowhere to be seen.
- Why don't you ever call me? and Why do you never call me?

B

We don't usually use not a / any, not anyone, etc. in initial position in a sentence or clause, or straight after and, but or that at the beginning of a clause. Instead we use no, none of, no one, etc.:

- No force was needed to make them move. (not Not any force was needed ...)
- Most players are under 16 and none of them is over 20. (not ... and not any of them ...)
- I'm sure that nothing can go wrong. (not ... that not anything can ...)

C

In a formal or literary style we can use not a in initial position or after and, but or that (see also Unit 100):

- Not a sound came from the room. (less formally There wasn't a sound from the room.)
- She kept so quiet that not a soul in the house knew she was there.

D

After no, we can often use either a singular or a plural noun with little difference in meaning, although a singular noun is usually more formal:

- No answers could be found. (or more formally No answer ...)
- We want to go to the island but there are no boats to take us. (or more formally ... there is no boat.)

However, we use a singular noun in situations where we would expect one of something, and a plural noun where we would expect more than one. Compare:

- I phoned Sarah at home, but there was no answer. (not ... but there were no answers.) and
- He seems very lonely at school, and has no friends. (not ... no friend.)

E

We can give special emphasis to no or none of using phrases like no amount of with uncountable nouns, not one ... / not a single ... with singular countable nouns, and not one of ... with plural nouns:

- The company is so badly managed that no amount of investment will make it successful.
- Not one person remembered my birthday. (or Not a single person ...)
- Not one of the families affected by the noise wants to move.

F

Some phrases with no are commonly used in informal spoken English: No wonder (= it's not surprising); No idea (= I don't know); No comment (= I have nothing to say); No way, No chance (= emphatic ways of saying 'no', particularly to express refusal to do or believe something);

No problem, No bother (= it isn't / wasn't difficult to do something):

- 'The computer's not working again.'
'No wonder. It's not plugged in!'
- 'Thanks for the lift.' 'No problem.
I had to go past the station anyway.'

Hi. Just back from a week on the island of Lumos – but I certainly wouldn't recommend it! Their economy is in a really bad way. A lot of people just sit around all day – there (1) is no job to be found outside the main town. I had to hire a car because there (2) is no train or bus on the island. But it was incredibly old – it's ages since I've seen a car with (3) no seatbelt. And then when I had a puncture I discovered there (4) were no spare tyres either. It was in the hills in the north, and as there (5) were no people around to help, I phoned the car hire company and had to wait hours for someone to turn up. It was hot and there (6) was no shade as there (7) is no tree in that part of the island. The hotel wasn't much better. There (8) were no swimming pools – even though it showed one on its website! There (9) were no televisions in my room, and on the first night there (10) was no hot water. But when I phoned down to reception to complain, there (11) were no replies. The food was awful at the hotel, but as there (12) were no restaurants for miles around there (13) were no choices – I had to eat there. But I don't think I'll be going back!
Speak soon,
Karl

Much (of), many (of), a lot of, lots (of), etc.

Reminder → 138–142

In affirmative sentences we generally use a lot of and lots (of) rather than much (of) and many (of), particularly in informal contexts. However, there are a number of exceptions –

- ☆ In formal contexts, such as academic writing, much (of) and many (of) are often preferred. We can also use phrases such as a large / considerable / substantial amount of (with uncountable nouns), or a large / considerable / great / substantial number of (with plural nouns):
 - Much debate has been heard about Thornton's new book.
 - There could be many explanations for this.
 - Much of her fiction describes women in unhappy marriages.
 - A large amount of the food was inedible. (or Much of ...)
 - The book contains a large number of pictures, many in colour. (or ... many ...)
- ☆ In formal contexts we can use much and many as pronouns:
 - There is no guarantee she will recover. Much depends on how well she responds to treatment.
 - Many (= many people) have argued that she is the finest poet of our generation.
 - Not once did I see a tiger in the jungle, although I heard many. (referring back to 'tiger(s)')
- ☆ We usually use many rather than a lot of or lots of with time expressions (days, minutes, months, weeks, years) and number + of (e.g. thousands of voters, millions of pounds):
 - We used to spend many hours driving to Melbourne and back.
 - He was the founder of a company now worth many millions of pounds.

B

We can use many following the, my, its, his, her, etc. and plural countable nouns:

- Among the many unknowns after the earthquake is the extent of damage to the foundations of buildings.
- The gallery is exhibiting some of his many famous paintings of ships.

We can use the phrase many a with a singular noun to talk about a repeated event or a large number of people or things:

- Many a pupil at the school will be pleased that Latin is no longer compulsory.

C

To emphasise that we are talking about a large number we can use a good / great many with a plural noun:

- She has a good / great many friends in New Zealand.

To emphasise that we are talking about a large amount we can use a good / great deal of with a singular or uncountable noun:

- A good / great deal of the exhibition was devoted to her recent work.

D

We use far (not 'much' or 'many') before too many + a plural countable noun or too much + an uncountable noun:

- Far too many students failed the end-of-year maths exam. (not Much / Many too many ...)
- Far too much time is wasted filling in forms. (not Much / Many too much time ...)

E

We often use plenty of instead of a lot of or lots of with uncountable and plural countable nouns. However, plenty of means 'enough, or more than enough' and is therefore not likely in certain contexts. Compare:

- We took lots of / plenty of food and drink on our walk through the hills. and
- Nina doesn't look well. She's lost a lot of weight. ('plenty of' is unlikely here)

All (of), whole, every, each

A

All (of)

Reminder → 143–146

We sometimes use all after the noun it refers to:

- His songs all sound much the same to me. (or All [of] his songs sound ...)*
- We all think Kushi's working too hard. (or All of us think ...)*

Note that we usually put all after the verb be and after the first auxiliary verb if there is one:

- They are all going to Athens during the vacation. (not They all are going ...)*
- You should all have three question papers. (not You all should have ...; however, note that we can say 'You all should have ...' for particular emphasis in spoken English)*

B

To make negative sentences with all (of) we usually use not all (of) rather than all ... not (although all ... not is sometimes used in informal spoken English):

- Not all (of) the seats were taken. or The seats were not all taken.*

Note that not all (of) and none of have a different meaning. Compare:

- Not all (of) my cousins were at the wedding. (= some of them were there) and*
- None of my cousins were at the wedding. (= not one of them was there)*

C

All and whole

Before singular countable nouns we usually use the whole rather than all the:

- They weren't able to stay for the whole concert. (rather than ... for all the concert.)*

However, we can say all + day / week / night / month / winter, etc. (but not usually all October / 2001 / 21st May, etc.; all Monday / Tuesday, etc. are only usually used in informal contexts); all the time, all the way; and in informal speech we can use all the with things that we see as being made up of parts (all the world / house / city / country / department, etc.):

- After the fire the whole city was covered in dust. (or ... all the city ... in informal speech)*

Note that we can use entire instead of whole immediately before a noun:

- The whole / entire building has recently been renovated.*

Before plural nouns we can use all (of) or whole, but they have different meanings. Compare:

- All (of) the towns had their electricity cut off. (= every town in an area) and*
- After the storm, whole towns were left without electricity. (= some towns were completely affected; note that we don't say '... whole the towns ...')*

D

Every and each

Often we can use every or each with little difference in meaning. However, we use every –

- ☆ with almost, virtually, etc. + noun to emphasise we are talking about a group as a whole:
 - Almost every visitor stopped and stared. (not Almost each visitor ...)*
- ☆ with a plural noun when every is followed by a number:
 - I go to the dentist every six months. (rather than ... each six months.)*
- ☆ with abstract uncountable nouns such as chance, confidence, hope, reason, and sympathy to show a positive attitude to what we are saying. Here every means 'complete' or 'total':
 - She has every chance of success in her application for the job.*
- ☆ in phrases referring to regular or repeated events such as: every other (kilometre), every single (day), every so often, every few (months), and every now and again (= occasionally).

We use each –

- ☆ before a noun or one to talk about both people or things in a pair:
 - I only had two suitcases, but each one weighed over 20 kilos.*
- ☆ as a pronoun:
 - I asked many people and each gave the same answer. (or ... each / every one gave ...)*

51.4 Find any mistakes in the italicised parts of this blog post and suggest corrections. A-D

(1) Each so often I like to invite (2) my entire family – my parents, six brothers and their families – over for dinner on Saturday evening. My parents are quite old now, so I like to see them (3) each few weeks. It's quite a lot of work and I usually spend (4) all Friday shopping and cooking. Some of my family are fussy about what they eat, so I generally have to cook different things for (5) every of them. Fortunately, (6) all the food doesn't usually get eaten, so I have plenty left for the rest of the week. (7) None of my brothers always come, but the ones who live locally usually do. Last Saturday (8) Neil and his family all were on holiday so they couldn't make it. Anyway, (9) the rest of us had all a great time and we spent (10) the whole evening talking about when we were children.

Few, little, less, fewer

Reminder → 147–152

A

We often use (a) few and (a) little with nouns. However, we can also use them as pronouns:

- It is a part of the world visited by few. (= few people)
- Do you want a chocolate? There's still a few left. (= a few chocolates)
- Little is known about the painter's early life.
- 'Do you know anything about car engines?' 'A little.' (= I know a little about car engines)

Note that quite a few means 'quite a large number':

- She's been away from work for quite a few weeks.

B

We can use the few and the little followed by a noun to suggest 'not enough' when we talk about a group of things or people (with few) or part of a group or amount (with little):

- It's one of the few shops in the city centre where you can buy food.
- We should use the little time we have available to discuss Jon's proposal.

Instead of the few / little we can use what few / little to mean 'the small (number / amount)':

- She gave what little money she had in her purse to the man. (or ... the little money ...)
- What few visitors we have are always made welcome. (or The few visitors ...)

Note that we can also say 'She gave what / the little she had ...' and 'What / The few we have ...' when it is clear from the context what is being referred to.

We can use few (but rarely little) after personal pronouns (my, her, etc.) and these and those:

- I learned to play golf during my few days off during the summer.
- These few miles of motorway have taken over ten years to build.

C

In speech and informal writing, we use not many / much or only / just ... a few / little to talk about a small amount or number, and we often use a bit (of) instead of a little:

- Sorry I haven't finished, I haven't had much time today. (rather than ... I had little time ...)
- I won't be long. I've only got a few things to get. (rather than ... I've got few things ...)
- Want a bit of chocolate? (rather than ... a little chocolate?)

In more formal contexts, such as academic writing, we generally prefer few and little:

- The results take little account of personal preference. (rather than ... don't take much ...)

D

Less (than) and fewer (than)

We use less with uncountable nouns and fewer with plural countable nouns:

- You should eat less pasta.
- There are fewer cars on the road today.

Less is sometimes used with a plural countable noun (e.g. ... less cars ...), particularly in conversation. However, this is grammatically incorrect.

We use less than with a noun phrase indicating an amount and fewer than with a noun phrase referring to a group of things or people:

- I used to earn less than a pound a week when I first started work.
- There were fewer than 20 students at the lecture. (or informally ... less than ...; but note that some people think this use of 'less than' is incorrect)

When we talk about a distance or a sum of money we use less than, not fewer than:

- The beach is less than a mile away.

To emphasise that a number is surprisingly large we can use no less than or no fewer than:

- The team has had no fewer than ten managers in just five years. (or ... no less than ...)

Note that we prefer no less than with percentages, periods of time and quantities:

- Profits have increased by no less than 95% in the last year. (rather than ... no fewer than ...)

- 2 Proportion of money spent on books (%)
- 3 Proportion who walk to lectures (%)
- 4 Time spent online per week (hours)

Are there any results that surprise you? Comment on them using no less than or no fewer than.

Relative pronouns

A

Defining and non-defining relative clauses begin with a relative pronoun, which can sometimes be omitted:

Reminder → J1–J5

- We went to a beach (which / that) Ali had recommended to us. Here the relative pronoun refers to 'a beach', and the subject of the relative clause is 'Ali'. Compare:
- I know a man who / that ran in the New York Marathon last year, where the relative pronoun refers to 'a man', and the subject of the relative clause is also 'a man'. In this case, the relative pronoun can't be omitted.

B

Relative pronouns are used to add information in defining relative clauses as follows:

adding information about things

subject	which	that
object	which	that	no relative pronoun

adding information about people

subject	who	that
object	who	that	no relative pronoun	whom

- ☆ When we add information about things, we can use that (or no relative pronoun) as object in conversation and which in more formal contexts:
 - Decorating's a job (that) I hate. (rather than '... which ...' in this informal context)
- ☆ When we add information about people, we generally prefer that (or no relative pronoun) as object in informal contexts rather than who or whom:
 - He's the man (that) I met at Aisha's party (rather than ... who / whom I met ...)
- ☆ whom is very formal and rarely used in spoken English:
 - The boy whom Elena had shouted at smiled. (less formally that, no relative pronoun or who)
- ☆ We use that as subject after: something and anything; words such as all, little, much, and none used as pronouns; and noun phrases that include superlatives. Which is also used as subject after something and anything, but less commonly:
 - These walls are all that remain of the city. (not ... which remain of the city.)
- ☆ Note that we can use that (or no relative pronoun) as object after something / anything; all, etc.; and noun phrases with superlatives. For example:
 - She's one of the kindest people (that) I know. (not ... one of the kindest people who I know.)

C

Relative pronouns are used to add information in non-defining relative clauses as follows:

adding information about things

subject	which	that
object	which	that adding information about people

subject	who
object	who	whom

- ☆ Note that we must include a relative pronoun in a non-defining relative clause.
- ☆ We can use who or whom as object, although whom is very formal:
 - Professor Johnson, who(m) I have long admired, is to visit the university next week.
- ☆ When we add information about things, we can use which as subject or object. That is sometimes used instead of which, but some people think this is incorrect:
 - The Master's course, which I took in 2001, is no longer taught. (or ... that I took ...)

Exercises

A

Clauses with whose

Reminder → J1–J5

We use a relative clause beginning with the relative pronoun whose + noun, particularly in written English, when we talk about something belonging to or associated with a person, animal or plant:

- Stevenson is an architect whose designs have won international praise.
- Suzy was taking care of a dog whose ears were badly damaged in a fight with a cat.

We can use whose in both defining and non-defining relative clauses.

We generally avoid using whose to talk about something belonging to or associated with a thing:

- I received a letter, and its poor spelling made me think it was written by a child. (more natural than I received a letter, whose poor spelling made me think ...)

However, we sometimes use whose when we talk about towns, countries, or organisations:

- The film was made in Botswana, whose wildlife parks are larger than those in Kenya.
- We need to learn from companies whose trading is healthier than our own.

In academic writing whose is used to talk about a wide variety of 'belonging to' relationships:

- Students have to solve problems whose solutions require a knowledge of calculus.

B

Clauses with when, whereby, where and why

We can begin relative and other clauses with when (referring to time), whereby (method or means; used mainly in formal contexts), and where (location). In formal English in particular, a phrase with preposition + which can often be used instead of these:

- The camera records the time when the photo is taken. (or ... the time at which ...)
- Do you know the date when we have to hand in the essay? (or ... the date on / by which ...)
- We need to develop a system whereby workers and management can communicate more effectively. (or ... the system in / by which workers ...)
- This was the place where we first met. (or ... the place at / in which we ...)

In academic English, we can also use where to refer to features other than location, particularly after words such as case, condition, example, situation, system:

- Later in this chapter we will introduce cases where consumer complaints have resulted in changes in the law. (or more formally ... cases in which ...)

We can also use a / the reason why or a / the reason that or just a / the reason:

- I didn't get a pay rise, but this wasn't the reason why I left. (or ... the reason (that) I left.)

C

Clauses with who and what; whatever, whoever and whichever

Some clauses beginning with a wh-word are used like a noun phrase in a sentence. These are sometimes called nominal relative clauses:

- Can you give me a list of who's been invited? (= the people who have been invited)
- I didn't know what I should do next. (= the thing that I should do next)

Note that we can't use what in this way after a noun:

- I managed to get all the books that you asked for. (not ... all the books what you asked for.)

We use clauses beginning with whatever (= anything or it doesn't matter what), whoever (= the person / group who or any person / group who), or whichever (= one thing or person from a limited number), to talk about things or people that are indefinite or unknown:

- I'm sure I'll enjoy eating whatever you cook.
- Whoever wins will go on to play Barcelona in the final.
- Whichever one of you broke the window will have to pay for it.

Prepositions in relative clauses

Reminder → J1-J5

A In formal styles noun + of which is often preferred to –☆ whose + noun:

- A huge amount of oil was spilled, the effects of which are still being felt. (or ... whose effects are still being felt.)

☆ that / which ... of in relative clauses:

- The school of which she is head is closing. (less formally The school (that / which) she is head of is closing.)

After both we can use of which and of whose, but not usually which or whose:

- Lotta was able to switch between German and Russian, both of which she spoke fluently. (not ... both which she spoke fluently.)

Also after: all, each, many, most, neither, none, part, some, a number (one, two, etc.; the first, the second, etc.; half, a third, etc.), and superlatives (the best, the biggest, etc.)

B In formal, mainly written, English whose can come after a preposition in a relative clause. Putting the preposition at the end of the clause is more natural in informal and spoken English:

- I now turn to Freud, from whose work the following quotation is taken. (less formally ... Freud, whose work the following quotation is taken from.)

C When a preposition is needed with the relative pronouns which and whom we usually put it before the relative pronoun in formal styles:

- The rate at which a material heats up depends on its chemical composition.
- There are 80 teachers in the Physics Department, among whom are 24 professors.

After a preposition we usually use whom rather than who in formal styles:

- Is it right that politicians should make important decisions without consulting the public to whom they are accountable? (rather than ... the public to who they are accountable.)

and we don't use that or no relative pronoun:

- The valley in which the town lies is heavily polluted. (not The valley in that the town lies is heavily polluted.; not The valley in the town lies is heavily polluted.)

In less formal English we usually put the preposition later in the relative clause:

- The office that Juan took us to was filled with books. (rather than The office to which Juan took us ...)

and we prefer who (or that) rather than whom (see also Unit 26A):

- The playground wasn't used by the children who it was built for.

D If the verb in the relative clause is a two-word verb (e.g. come across, fill in, look after, take on) we don't usually put the preposition before the relative pronoun:

- The Roman coins, which a local farmer came across in a field, are now on display in the National Museum. (not ... coins, across which the local farmer came, are ...)

With three-word verbs, we only put the preposition before the relative pronoun in a very formal or literary style, and many people avoid this pattern:

- She is one of the few people to whom I look up. (or less formally ... who I look up to.)

Exercises

55.1 Rewrite these sentences so that they are more appropriate for formal written English. Use preposition + which or preposition + whose, as appropriate. A & B

- Fleming's discovery of penicillin, which he was awarded the Nobel Prize for, had a major influence on the lives of people in the 20th century. Fleming's discovery of penicillin, for which he was awarded the Nobel Prize, had a major influence on the lives of people in the 20th century.

55.3 Rewrite the sentences from 55.2 in a less formal way, putting the preposition at the end of the relative clause. A

- My Maths teacher, Mr Kato, was someone who / that / - I had great respect for.*

55.4 If necessary, suggest corrections or improvements to these sentences or write ✓ if they are already correct. A, C & D

- The house into which the thieves broke is owned by Caleb Cruz.
- The school has been given 20 laptops, half of which are brand new.
- JKL Motorbikes sells six different models, the first which they started making in 1985.

Other ways of adding information to noun phrases 1:
additional noun phrases, etc.

A

We sometimes add information about a person or thing referred to in one noun phrase by talking about the same person or thing in a different way in a following noun phrase:

- A hooded cobra, one of the world's most dangerous snakes*, has escaped from Dudley Zoo.
- Dr Alex Parr, director of the State Museum*, is to become the government's arts adviser.

In writing, the items are usually separated by a comma, and in speech they are often separated by a pause or other intonation break. However, when the second item acts like a defining relative clause, when it is usually a name, there is usually no punctuation in writing or intonation break in speech:

- My friend Mia* has moved to Sweden. (rather than My friend, Mia, ...)
- The current champion is expected to survive her first-round match with the Italian Silvia Farina. (rather than ... the Italian, Silvia Farina.)

B

We can add information to a noun phrase with a conjunction such as and or or:

- Kurt Svensson, her teacher and well-known concert pianist, thinks that she has great talent. (= her teacher is also a well-known concert pianist)
- Phonetics or the study of speech sounds is a common component on courses in teaching English as a foreign language.

C

The adverb namely and the phrase that is are used to add details about a noun phrase:

- This side effect of the treatment, namely weight gain, is counteracted with other drugs.
- The main cause of global warming, that is the burning of fossil fuels, is to be the focus of negotiations at the international conference.

D

We can also add information to a noun phrase using a participle clause beginning with an -ing, -ed or being + -ed verb form. These are often similar to defining relative clauses:

- The people living next door come from Italy. (or The people who are living next door ...)
- The weapon used in the murder has now been found. (or The weapon that was used ...)
- The prisoners being released are all women. (or The prisoners who are being released ...)

Note that -ing participle clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with an active verb, while -ed and being + -ed clauses correspond to defining relative clauses with a passive verb.

We can also use a to-infinitive clause, as in:

- Have you brought a book to read?
- My decision to resign from the company was made after a great deal of thought.
- I thought that the management's offer, to increase staff holidays, was a good one.

E

In written English, particularly in newspapers, -ing and -ed clauses are also used instead of non-defining relative clauses. These are usually written between commas or dashes (-):

- The men, wearing anoraks and hats, made off in a stolen Volvo estate.

- The proposals – expected to be agreed by ministers – are less radical than many employers had feared.

Exercises

56.1 Add the information in brackets to the sentences and rewrite them in an appropriate way, using the examples in A and B as models. A & B

(iii)

Greenland

1 + e Leo Tolstoy's most celebrated novel, namely War and Peace, was published in 1869.

56.3 Complete the sentences with an -ing, -ed or being + -ed form of the verbs from the box. Then rewrite each sentence using a relative clause instead of the participle clause. D

~~drive~~ educate flow introduce need print say tell off

- The man driving the bus is my brother. The man who is driving the bus is my brother.
- I went to a reunion for students in the physics department during the 1990s.
- As my aunt told me what she thought, I felt like a schoolboy by his headteacher.

- Rivers into the Baltic Sea are much cleaner now than ten years ago.
- The booklets as we speak will be on sale later this afternoon.
- Anyone further information can see me in my office.

Other ways of adding information to noun phrases 2:
prepositional phrases, etc.

A

We commonly add information about a thing or person using a prepositional phrase. Often these have a meaning similar to a relative clause:

- What's the name of the man by the window? (or ... the man who's by the window?)
- It's in the cupboard under the stairs. (or ... the cupboard that's under the stairs.)
- She lives in the house with the red door. (or ... the house which has the red door.)

In some cases, however, these prepositional phrases do not have a corresponding relative clause:

- You need to keep a careful record of what you spend.
- There is likely to be an increase in temperature tomorrow.

We often prefer a relative clause rather than a prepositional phrase in non-defining relative clauses with be + preposition or with have as a main verb:

- Mr Chen*, who was in the store at the time of the robbery, was able to identify two of the men. (rather than ... Mr Chen, in the store ...)
- Davide Gallo*, who has a farm near Pisa, has decided to grow only organic vegetables. (rather than Davide Gallo, with a farm near Pisa, has ...)

B

In written English, particularly in academic writing, a series of prepositional phrases and relative clauses is often used to add information about a previous noun phrase. Note that prepositional phrases can also be used with an adverbial function (e.g. '... taken the drug in the last six months' in the sentence below):

- Doctors are contacting patients (with diabetes) (who have taken the drug in the last six months).
- Scientists (in Spain) (who have developed the technique) are optimistic that it will be widely used in laboratories within the next decade.

We can also use participle clauses and noun phrases (see Unit 56) in a series of clauses / phrases which add information to the preceding noun phrase:

- The waxwing is the only bird (found in Britain) (with yellow and red tail feathers).
- Mr Bob Timms, (leader of the Democratic Party, (MP for Threeoaks, has announced his resignation.

C

Note that adding a series of prepositional phrases can often lead to ambiguity. For example:

- The protesters were demonstrating against the mistreatment of animals on farms. could mean either that the place the protesters were demonstrating was 'on farms' or that the animals were 'on farms'. We could make the sentence unambiguous with, for example:
- The protesters were demonstrating on farms against the mistreatment of animals. or
- The protesters were demonstrating against the mistreatment of animals kept on farms.

Exercises

57.1 Match the sentence halves (there may be more than one possible answer), adding an appropriate preposition. A

- | | |
|---|-------------------------------|
| 1 Maja's the girl ... | a ... green shirts. |
| 2 She's in the photograph ... | b ... the back garden. |

57.2 Rewrite the sentences in 57.1 using defining relative clauses. A

1 Maja's the girl who has blonde hair.

57.3 Complete the sentences by adding the information in brackets. Use relative clauses (Unit 53), additional noun phrases and participle clauses (Unit 56) and prepositional phrases (Unit 57).

1 Police are questioning men ... between 25 and 30 living in the village, who are known to have a criminal record.

(The men are between 25 and 30. They live in the village. They are known to have a criminal record.)

2 Teachers
(The teachers work at Queen's College. Queen's College is in the city centre. The teachers went on strike last week. They have appointed Kristina Borg as their spokesperson. She is the head of English.)

3 Marge Scott
(Marge Scott has died. She was aged 95. She was educated at Marston College. She was the first woman to be educated there. Marston College is in south Wales.)

4 The conference
(The conference was held in Singapore. It approved the world trade agreement. The agreement was drawn up by European and Asian states. The conference has now ended.)

5 A book
(The book is on gardening. It is called All about Plants. Anna wanted to borrow it. It wasn't available in the library.)

6 A painting
(The painting was found in a second-hand shop. It was found by Lara Gruber. She is an antique dealer. She is from Austria. The painting is thought to be by J.M.W. Turner. Turner was a British landscape artist.)

57.4 Why are these sentences ambiguous? Can you rewrite them to remove the ambiguity? C

- A man was talking with a grey suit.
- A lorry was stopped by a police officer carrying thousands of stolen cigarettes.
- I discussed my plan to decorate the room with my parents.

Participle clauses with adverbial meaning 1

Reminder → J6–J10

A We can use present participle (-ing) and past participle (-ed) clauses with an adverbial meaning. (See also Unit 59.) They often give information about the timing, causes, and results of the events described:

- Opening her eyes*, the baby began to cry. (= When she opened her eyes ...)
- Faced with a bill for £10,000*, Ivan has taken an extra job. (= Because he is faced ...)
- Looked after carefully*, the plant can live through the winter. (= If it is looked after ...)
- Having finished the book*, I had a holiday. (perfect; = When / Because I had finished ...)
- The fruit was expensive, being imported. (simple passive; = ... because it was imported)
- Having been hunted close to extinction*, the rhino is once again common in this area. (perfect passive; = Although it had been hunted close to extinction ...)

B The implied subject of a participle clause (that is, a subject known but not directly mentioned) is usually the same as the subject of the main clause:

- Arriving at the party*, we saw Ruth standing alone. (= When we arrived ... we saw ...)

However, sometimes the implied subject is not referred to in the main clause:

- Having wanted to drive a train all his life*, this was an opportunity not to be missed.

In careful speech and writing we avoid different subjects for the participle and main clause:

- Turning round quickly, the door hit me in the face. (first implied subject = 'I'; second subject = 'the door') would be better as:

- When I turned round quickly, the door hit me in the face.

C In formal English, the participle clause sometimes has its own subject, which is often a pronoun or includes one:

- The collection of vases is priceless, some being over 2000 years old.
- Her voice breaking with emotion, Vasiliki spoke about her father's illness.

We use the present participle (-ing) clause to talk about something happening at the same time as an event in the main clause, or to give information about the facts given in the main clause.

D When we use not in a participle clause it usually comes before the participle. However, it can follow the participle, depending on meaning:

- Not understanding the rules, I found the cricket match boring. (= because I didn't understand the rules)
- Hoping* not to be recognised, I chose a seat in a dark corner. (= I hoped that I wouldn't be recognised)

E We use a clause beginning with having + past participle rather than a present participle if the action in the main clause is the consequence of the event in the participle clause:

- Having broken her leg the last time she went, Giorgia decided not to go on the school skiing trip this year. (or After breaking her leg ...; not Breaking her leg ...)

We can use either a present participle (-ing) clause or a having + past participle clause with a similar meaning when the action in the participle clause is complete before the action in the main clause begins. Compare:

- Taking off his shoes, Ram walked into the house. (Having taken off ... has a similar meaning) and
- Running across the field, I fell and hurt my ankle. (= While I was running ...; 'Having run ...' would suggest that I fell after I had run across the field)

Exercises

58.1 Rewrite the sentences beginning with one of the clause forms from sections A and D opposite.

A & D

- 1 When she saw the dog coming towards her, she quickly crossed the road. Seeing the dog coming towards her, she quickly crossed the road.
- 2 As she was dressed all in black, she was almost invisible in the starless night.
- 3 As I don't have a credit card, I found it difficult to book an airline ticket online.
- 4 Antonio spent a lot of time filling in job application forms because he was unemployed.
- 5 Because I was walking quickly, I soon caught up with her.
- 6 The house was built of wood, so it was clearly a fire risk.
- 7 I was eager to catch the bus in good time because I had been told off the day before for arriving late.
- 8 She didn't know where the theatre was, so she asked for directions at the hotel reception.
- 9 As she was a nurse, she knew what to do after the accident.
- 10 He had spent his childhood in Oslo, so he knew the city well.

58.2 If the implied subject of the two clauses is the same write S and if it is different write D. Rewrite the D sentences to make them more acceptable. B

- 1 Waiting for the bus, a car went through a puddle and splashed water all over me.
- 2 Known mainly as a writer of novels, Rashid has now written a successful biography.
- 3 Keeping a careful eye on the spider, Suzanne hurried out of the bathroom.
- 4 Looking down from the hill, the town spread out before us towards the coast.
- 5 Feeling rather sick, the boat ploughed through the huge waves.
- 6 Found only in the Andes, the plant is used by local people to treat skin diseases.

58.3 Write not in the more appropriate place in each sentence. D

- 1 wishing to boast, she said nothing about her success.
- 2 pretending to notice that people were staring at me, I carried on looking on the floor for my lost contact lens.
- 3 determined to be beaten, she put all her energy into the serve.
- 4 feeling well, she went home early.
- 5 bothering to put on his coat, he left the house.
- 6 trying to cry, she waved to Harun as the train pulled out.

58.4 Join these sentences using having + past participle or the -ing form of the first verb. Which sentences can have either form? E

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 I moved house recently. | a I decided to cancel the order. |
| 2 I looked over my shoulder. | b I felt I needed to change my life. |
| 3 I walked through the tunnel. | c I could see Ida running after me. |

| 7 I reached my mid-thirties. | g I could understand how Nathan was feeling. |
| 8 I learned some Swahili as a child. | h I walked the rest of the way. |

- 1 + d Having moved house recently, I don't yet have internet access.

Participle clauses with adverbial meaning 2

A

We can use prepositions such as after, before, besides, by, in, on, since, through, while, with, and without in a present participle (-ing) clause with an adverbial meaning (see also Unit 58):

Reminder → J6–J10

- While understanding her problem, I don't know how I can help. (= Although I understand ...)
- After spending so much money on the car, I can't afford a holiday.
- Before being changed last year, the speed limit was 70 kph. (passive form)

An alternative is a clause with a verb that can change according to tense and subject. Compare:

- Since moving to London, we haven't had time to go to the theatre. and
- Since we moved to London, we haven't had time to go to the theatre. (less formal)

by, in, on + -ing

<input type="checkbox"/> By working hard, she passed her maths exam.	= the -ing clause indicates 'the method or means used'
<input type="checkbox"/> They only survived by eating roots and berries in the forest.
<input type="checkbox"/> On returning from Beijing, he wrote to the Chinese embassy.	= the -ing clause indicates 'when'
<input type="checkbox"/> Josh was the first person I saw on leaving hospital.
<input type="checkbox"/> In criticising the painting, I knew I would offend her.	= the -ing clause indicates 'cause'
<input type="checkbox"/> In choosing Marco, the People's Party has moved to the left.

We can often use by + -ing or in + -ing with a similar meaning, although by + -ing is preferred in informal contexts:

- In / By writing about Spanish culture, I came to understand the country better. ('In writing ...' = the consequence of writing was to understand ...; 'By writing ...' = the method I used to understand the country better was to write...)

But compare:

- By telephoning every hour, she managed to speak to the doctor. (not In telephoning ...; the method is the focus here, not the consequence)

C

with -ing; without -ing

With + -ing often introduces a reason for something in the main clause. This use is fairly informal.

Note that a subject has to come between with and -ing:

- With Louise living in Spain, we don't see her often. (= Because Louise lives in Spain ...)

With and what with can also be used with a noun phrase to introduce a reason:

- With my bad back I won't be able to lift a heavy suitcase.
- What with the traffic and the heavy rain, it's no wonder you were late.

We can use without + -ing to say that a second action doesn't happen:

- I went to work without eating breakfast.
- They left without paying.

Often, however, it has a similar meaning to 'although ... not' or 'unless':

- Without meaning to, I seem to have offended her. (= Although I didn't mean to ...)
- Without using the app, I can't judge how good it is. (= Unless I use the app ...)

D

Adverbial meanings can also be added by a clause beginning with a conjunction or adjective but with no verb. This kind of clause has the same meaning as a clause beginning with a conjunction + subject + be and is used in fairly formal English (more informal alternatives are given in brackets):

- While in Poland, they will play two concerts in Warsaw. (or While they are in Poland ...)
- Although just two feet apart, they didn't speak. (or Although they were just ...)
- I try to use public transport whenever possible. (or ... whenever it is possible.)
- Unhappy with the decision, Johnson swore at the referee. (or Because he was unhappy ...)

Although from a poor background

~~Although she was from a poor background~~, Paula Regis gained a place at Southam University. She was always fascinated by the stars and she took a first degree in astrophysics. Once she was at university she also became interested in student politics and, because she was popular with her fellow students, was elected University President in her second year. This didn't distract her from her studies, however, and while she was in the final year of her degree, she won the International Young Scientist of the Year award for her work on star classification. When she was asked what was the secret of her success she said, 'Just hard work and a little luck.' She is determined to continue her research and she has recently begun work on her PhD.

Reflexive pronouns: herself, himself, themselves, etc.

A

In addition to the usual reflexive pronouns (myself, yourself, etc.) some people use themselves to refer to the person who is the subject of the sentence, to avoid saying whether the subject is male or female:

Reminder → K1–K4

- The author of the letter* describes themselves as 'a senior government official'.
- Who* wants to go through life by themselves, without friends?

Oneself (or less formally yourself) is used to refer to people in general:

- I think one has to have the courage to be oneself and say whatever comes naturally. (less formally I think you have to have the courage to be yourself ...)

B

We can use reflexive pronouns for emphasis in various ways. We also use reflexive pronouns to emphasise that the subject caused a certain action. Compare

- Salma worked hard and got promoted.
- Salma worked hard and got herself promoted. (emphasises that it was through her own efforts)
- Salma encouraged me to apply for the senior manager position, but she got promoted herself. (emphasises that Salma got promoted, not me)

C

If the object of a transitive verb refers to the same person or thing as the subject, then that object must be a reflexive pronoun. Compare:

- He walked around the golf course to familiarise himself with it. and
- We walked around to familiarise the children with their new surroundings.

Also: absent ... from, avail ... of, busy ... with, concern ... with, occupy ... by / with, pride ... on, tear ... away from, trouble ... about / with

With some verbs we can use a reflexive pronoun or leave it out with little difference in meaning:

- We are confident that both sets of fans will behave (themselves) at the match.

Also: acclimatise, adapt, (un)dress, hide, move, prepare, shave, wash

We include the reflexive pronoun if we want to emphasise that the person or thing referred to in the subject is affected by the action:

- Although she helped other athletes in their preparations for competing at high altitudes, she found it difficult to acclimatise herself.

D

When the subject and object after a preposition refer to the same person or thing we use a reflexive pronoun after the preposition:

- He was pleased with himself. (not ... pleased with him.)

If the verb has a direct object we use a personal pronoun, not a reflexive pronoun:

- I remember closing the door behind me. (not ... closing the door behind myself.)

However, if we need to make it clear that the subject and prepositional phrase refer to the same person or thing, we use a reflexive pronoun after the preposition:

- She bought the bracelet for herself. ('... for her' suggests it was bought for someone else)

E

Myself is sometimes used after and and or rather than 'I' or 'me', although some people consider this use incorrect and avoid it:

- I believe that Lizi and myself have done a pretty good job.
- When you've finished the job can you send the bill either to Mrs Petrov or myself?

Using myself reduces focus on the speaker or writer and so sounds less forceful or more polite.

Exercises

60.1 Complete each sentence with a suitable form of a verb from the box followed by a reflexive pronoun and, if necessary, a preposition. If the reflexive pronoun can be omitted, put brackets around it. C

- 8 Peter arranged to the company for the first time in his life so that he could spend time with his father in hospital.

60.2 Underline the correct option. If both options are possible, note the difference in meaning. D

- 8 I opened the window in front of myself / me and took a deep breath of fresh air.

60.3 If necessary, correct the italicised parts of this email or write ✓. Give alternatives where possible. A-E

Hi Dana,

Yes, Jan's a lot better, thanks. We (1) got vaccinated ourselves against hepatitis before we went to West Africa, so Jan was just unlucky to get it. He went into work after we got back although he was feeling bad, and some of his colleagues were worried about (2) getting it themselves. I know that some of them (3) had checked themselves by their doctors. By coincidence, his boss said that (4) he'd caught himself hepatitis when he was in Africa a few years ago. When he's completely recovered, (5) Jan and myself are off to Paris for a few days – if I can get Jan (6) to tear him away from his office! – and (7) we're going to occupy us with looking at the galleries and having a rest.

Must go now. The children have just shouted that they want some juice and (8) they can't reach it themself.

Will be in touch, Nika

One and ones

A We can use one instead of repeating a singular countable noun and ones instead of repeating a plural noun when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- 'Can I get you a drink?' 'It's okay, I've already got one.' (= a drink)
- I think his best poems are his early ones. (= poems)

We don't use one / ones instead of an uncountable noun:

- If you need any more paper, I'll bring you some. (not ... I'll bring you one / ones.)
- I asked him to get apple juice, but he got orange. (not ... but he got orange one / ones.)

We can't use ones without defining precisely which group of things we are talking about. Instead, we use some. Compare:

- 'We need new curtains.' 'Okay, let's buy green ones this time. / ... ones with flowers on / ... those ones.' and
- 'We need new curtains.' 'Okay, let's buy some.' (not Okay, let's buy ones.)

B We don't use one / ones after nouns used as adjectives:

- I thought my memory stick was in my trouser pocket, but it was in my coat pocket. (not ... my coat one.)

Instead of using one / ones after possessive determiners (my, your, her, etc.) we prefer mine, yours, hers, etc. However, a possessive determiner + one / ones is often heard in informal speech:

- I'd really like a smartphone like yours. (or '... like your one' in informal speech)

We usually use ones to refer to things rather than people:

- We need two people to help. We could ask those men over there. (not ... ask those ones ...)

However, ones is more likely to be used in comparative sentences to refer to groups of people:

- Older students seem to work harder than younger ones. (or ... than younger students.)

Note also that we use ones to refer to people in the little ones (= small children), (your) loved ones (= usually close family), (one of) the lucky ones.

C We can leave out one / ones –

☆ after which:

- When we buy medicines, we have no way of knowing which (ones) contain sugar.

☆ after superlatives:

- Look at that pumpkin! It's the biggest (one) I've seen this year.

☆ after this, that, these, and those:

- The last test I did was quite easy, but some parts of this (one) are really difficult.
- Help yourself to grapes. These (ones) are the sweetest, but those (ones) taste best. (Note that some people think 'those / these ones' is incorrect, particularly in formal English.)

☆ after either, neither, another, each, the first / second / last, (etc.):

- Karl pointed to the paintings and said I could take either (one). (or ... either of them.)
- She cleared away the cups, washed each (one) thoroughly, and put them on the shelf.

D We don't leave out one / ones –

☆ after the, the only, the main, and every:

- When you cook clams you shouldn't eat the ones that have broken shells.
- After I got the glasses home, I found that every one was broken.

☆ after adjectives:

- My shoes were so uncomfortable that I had to go out today and buy some new ones.

However, after colour adjectives we can often leave out one / ones in answers:

- 'Have you decided which jumper to buy?' 'Yes, I think I'll take the blue (one).'

2. To help keep fit, go to shops you can walk or cycle to rather than ...
.....
3. A number of causes of climate change have been suggested, but the main ...
.....
4. Camera tripods come in a variety of sizes and materials, but the most convenient ...
.....

So and not as substitutes for clauses, etc.

A

We can use so instead of repeating an adjective, adverb, or a whole clause:

Reminder → K10–K12

- The workers were angry and they had every right to be so. (= angry)
- Joe took the work seriously and Petra perhaps even more so. (= took the work seriously)
- Usman's giving us a lift. At least I presume so. (= that he's giving us a lift)

B

We often use so instead of a clause after verbs concerned with thinking and speaking:

- 'Is Lewis going back to Scotland to see his parents this summer?' 'I've no idea, but I'd imagine so. He goes most years.'
- I found it ridiculous, and said so. / ... and told them so. (= that I found it ridiculous)

Also: be afraid (expressing regret), appear / seem (after 'it'), assume, believe, expect, guess, hope, presume, suppose, suspect, think

Note that after 'tell' we include an indirect object.

We don't use so after certain other verbs:

- 'Will Stefan know how to mend it?' 'I doubt it. / I doubt (that) he will.' (not I doubt so.)

Also: accept, admit, agree, be certain, hear, know, promise, suggest, be sure

Note that in informal English, particularly in an argument, we can use 'I know so'.

C

In negative sentences, we use not or not ... so:

- Is the Socialist Party offering anything new in its statement? It would appear not.
- They want to buy the house, although they didn't say so directly.

We can use either not or not ... so with appear, seem, suppose:

- 'I don't suppose there'll be any seats left.' 'No, I don't suppose so.' (or ... I suppose not.)

We prefer not ... so with believe, expect, imagine, think. With these verbs, not is rather formal:

- 'Will we need to show our passports?' 'I don't think so.' (rather than I think not.)

We use not with be afraid (expressing regret), assume, guess (in the phrase 'I guess ...', = 'I think ...'), hope, presume, suspect:

- 'You'd better do it yourself. Eva won't help.' 'No, I guess not.' (not No, I don't guess so.)

Compare the use of not (to) and not ... so with say:

- 'Do we have to do all ten questions?' 'The teacher said not.' (= the teacher said that we didn't have to) or 'The teacher said not to.' (= the teacher said that we shouldn't)
- 'Do we have to do all ten questions?' 'The teacher didn't say so.' (= the teacher didn't say that we should do all ten, but perhaps we should)

We can use so in a short answer, instead of a short answer with 'Yes, ...', when we want to say that we can see that something is true now that we have been told, particularly if we are surprised. In answers like this we use so + pronoun + auxiliary verb (be, can, etc.):

- 'Lisa and Sara are here.' 'So they are.' (or Yes, they are.) (= I can now see that, too)

However, if we already know something we use 'Yes, ...', not 'So ...'. Compare:

- 'Your bike's been moved.' 'So it has. / Yes, it has. I wonder who did it.' (= I didn't know before you told me) and
- 'Your bike's been moved.' 'Yes, it has. Philip borrowed it this morning.' (= I knew before you told me; not So it has.)

E

We can use so in a similar way in short answers with verbs such as appear (after 'it'), believe, gather, hear, say, seem, tell (e.g. So she tells me.), understand. However, with these verbs, the pattern implies 'I knew before you told me':

- 'I found that lecture really boring.' 'So I gather (= I knew that). I saw you sleeping.'

Exercises

62.1 If possible, complete the dialogues with so. If not, use an appropriate that-clause. B

- 1 A: Is Zak ill again? B: Well, he hasn't come to work, so I assume so.
- 2 A: Will we need to pay to get in? B: I doubt that we will.

- 5 A: What did you think of Sadia's work?
B: Well, I thought it was pretty awful, although I didn't say so / said not / said so.

62.3 Complete B's responses with short answers beginning Yes, .... If possible, give an alternative response with So D

- 1 A: That horse is walking with a limp.
B: Yes, it is. / So it is. Perhaps we should tell the owner.
- 2 A: The children from next door are taking the apples from our trees.
B: I said they could come round and get them.

- 4 A: I told you I'd be late for work today.
B: I agree. But you didn't say how late – it's nearly two.

62.4 Choose any appropriate short answer beginning So ... to respond to A's comments below, to say that B already knew what is being said. Use the verbs in E opposite. E

- 1 A: My car won't start again. B: So I hear.
- 2 A: Maria's not very well. B:
- 3 A: The class has been cancelled again. B:
- 4 A: I see income tax is going up. B:
- 5 A: Fred's moving to Berlin. B:

Do so; such

A

Do so

We use do so (or does so, did so, doing so, etc.) instead of repeating a verb phrase (a verb and what follows it to complete its meaning) when the context makes clear what we are talking about:

- She won in 2012 and seems likely to do so (= win) again this year.
- Dr Lawson said, 'Sit down.' Katia did so (= sat down), and explained her problem.
- The climbers will try again today to reach the summit of the mountain. Their chances of doing so (= reaching the summit of the mountain) are better than they were last week. (In very formal English we can also use so doing.)
- When he was asked to check the figures, he claimed that he had already done so. (= checked the figures)

Do so is most often used in formal spoken and written English. In informal English we can use do it or do that instead:

- Mrs Chen waved as she walked past. She does so / it / that every morning.
- Ricardo told me to put in a new battery. I did so / it / that, but the radio still doesn't work.

We can also use do alone rather than do so in less formal English, especially after modals or perfect tenses (see also B):

- 'Will this program work on your computer?' 'It should do.'
- I told you that I'd finish the work by today, and I have done. ('have' is stressed here)

B

We can use do so instead of verbs that describe actions, but we avoid do so with verbs that describe states and habitual actions. Compare:

- 65% of the members voted for Katie Brown this time, whereas 84% did so last year.
- Kenyon confessed to the murder, although he only did so after a number of witnesses had identified him as the killer.
- I gave her the medicine, and I take full responsibility for doing so. and
- Lars doesn't like Facebook but Emma does.
- He earned a lot more than I did.
- I don't have time to go swimming every day, but I usually do.

C

Such

We can use such + (a / an) + noun to refer back to something mentioned before, with the meaning 'of this / that kind'. We use such + noun when the noun is uncountable or plural, and such + a / an + noun when the noun is countable and singular. Such is used in this way mainly in formal speech and writing:

- The students refer to teachers by their first names and will often criticise them for badly prepared lessons. Such behaviour is unacceptable in most schools. (more informally Behaviour like this ...)
- When asked about rumours that the company is preparing to lose more than 200 jobs, a spokeswoman said: 'I know of no such plans.' (more informally ... no plans of this kind.)
- They needed someone who was both an excellent administrator and manager. Such a person was not easy to find. (more informally A person like this ...)
- We allow both men and women to have time off work to look after children. We were the first department to introduce such a scheme. (more informally ... a scheme like this.)

More on leaving out words after auxiliary verbs

A

To avoid repeating words from a previous clause or sentence we use an auxiliary verb (be, have, can, will, would, etc.) instead of a whole verb group or instead of a verb and what follows it:

- She says she's finished, but I don't think she has. (instead of ... has finished.)
- 'Would any of you like to go to Paris?' 'I would.' (instead of I would like to go to Paris.)

If there is more than one auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, we leave out all the auxiliary verbs except the first instead of repeating the main verb. Alternatively, we can use two (or more) auxiliary verbs:

- 'They could have been delayed by the snow.' 'Yes, they could.' (or ... could have (been).)

B

If there is no auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, or if the auxiliary is a form of do, we can use a form of do instead of repeating the main verb. We use do when the main verb is a present simple form and did when it is a past simple form:

- Mona plays golf on Saturdays, and I do too. (instead of ... and I play golf on Saturdays too; '... and so do I' is also possible)
- 'I didn't steal the money.' 'No one thinks that you did.' (instead of ... thinks that you stole it; 'No one thinks so' is also possible.)

If be is the main verb in the previous clause or sentence, we repeat a form of the verb be:

- 'The children are noisy again.' 'They always are.'

If have or have got is the main verb in the previous clause or sentence, we can usually use a form of either do or have:

- 'Do you think I have a chance of winning?' 'Yes, I think you have.' (or ... you do; 'Yes, I think so' is also possible.)
- Even if he hasn't got a map himself, he may know someone who has. (or ... who does.)

However, if we use have + noun in the previous clause or sentence to talk about actions (have a shower, have a shave, have a good time, etc.) we prefer do:

- I wasn't expecting to have a good time at the party, but I did.

Note that sometimes we can use either do, be or have with a similar meaning (see also C):

- I asked Clara to tidy her room, and she has / did. ('has' replaces 'has tidied her room'; 'did' replaces 'tidied her room'.)

C

If we use have as an auxiliary verb, we can often follow it with done instead of repeating the main verb. This happens particularly in spoken English:

- 'She's never made a mistake before.' 'Well, she has (done) this time.'

However, this is usually not possible when the verb being substituted is intransitive:

- 'They've already gone.' 'I don't think Daniel has.' (not ... Daniel has done.)

Similarly, after a modal auxiliary verb (can, could, may, might, must, ought to, shall, should, will, would) we can use do, particularly in spoken English:

- 'Will you be seeing David today?' 'I might (do).'

Sometimes we can use be instead of do with a similar meaning (see also D):

- 'Will you be seeing Felix today?' 'I might (do / be).' ('do' replaces 'see Felix today'; 'be' replaces 'be seeing Felix today'.)

D

If we use be as an auxiliary verb in the previous clause or sentence, we can use be after a modal:

- 'Is Ella staying for lunch?' 'Yes, I think she will (be).' (or ... she will do.)

However, if be is used as a main verb in the previous clause or sentence, or as an auxiliary verb within a passive, we can usually leave out be after a modal in informal contexts only. Compare:

- 'Lina's late again.' 'I thought she might (be).' and
- It has been found that the comet is made entirely of gas, as it was predicted it would be.

Exercises

Leaving out to-infinitives

A We can sometimes use to instead of a clause beginning with a to-infinitive when it is clear from the context what we are talking about:

- I wanted to come with you, but I won't be able to. (instead of ... to come with you.)
- It might have been better if Rosa had asked for my help, but she chose not to. (instead of ... chose not to ask for my help.)

However, when we use the verb be in the previous sentence or clause the to-infinitive form of be is repeated in the next clause or sentence:

- Leon was frightened – or maybe he just pretended to be. (not ... just pretended to.)

B After most nouns and adjectives that can be followed by a to-infinitive clause, we can leave out the to-infinitive clause or use to:

- I'm not going to write another book – at least I don't have any plans (to). (or ... plans to write another book.)
- 'Could you and Tom help me move house?' 'Well, I'm willing (to), and I'll ask Tom.'

Also: chance, idea, opportunity, promise, suggestion; afraid, delighted, determined

We can also leave out a to-infinitive or use to with some verbs:

- Alex will collect us by 10 o'clock. He promised (to).
- 'You were supposed to buy some sugar.' 'Sorry, I forgot (to).'

Also: agree, ask, begin, refuse, start, try

After verbs which must have a complement (i.e. a phrase which completes the meaning of the verb) we can't leave out to:

- I admit that I took her watch, but I didn't mean to.
- Have you thought about getting vaccinated against cholera before going there? I'd certainly advise you to.

Also: afford, be able, choose, deserve, expect, fail, hate, hope, intend, love, need, prefer

C After want and would like in if-clauses and wh-clauses we can often leave out a to-infinitive or use to:

- You're welcome to dance if you'd like (to).
- You can do whatever you would like (to).
- Call me Ben if you want (to).
- Come and see us when you want (to).

In other clauses (not if- and wh-clauses) we include to:

- I was planning to see you tomorrow, and I would still like to.
- I offered to clean your car because I really want to, not because I hope to be paid.

In if-clauses and wh-clauses we usually leave out to after like. Compare:

- You can have one if you like. and You can have one if you'd like (to).
- Leave whenever you like. and Leave whenever you'd like (to).

However, we include to with negative forms of want, would like, and like, including in if-clauses and wh-clauses:

- 'Shall we go and visit Laura?' 'I don't really want to.'
- I should have phoned Jo last night, but it was so late when I got home I didn't like to.
- 'He won't mind you asking him for a loan.' 'Oh, no, I wouldn't like to.'

Position of adjectives

A

Many adjectives can be used either before the noun they describe, or following linking verbs such as appear, be, become, feel, get, and seem (see Unit 21). Compare:

- The high price surprised him. and The price seemed high.

B

Some adjectives are seldom or never used before the noun they describe. These include –

☆ some 'a-' adjectives:

- The horse was alone in the field.
(but not The alone horse ...)

Also: afraid, alike, alive, ashamed, asleep, awake, aware

Some have related adjectives that can be used before a noun or after a linking verb. Compare:

- The animal was alive. and A living animal.
(or A live animal. / The animal was living.)

Also: afraid – frightened, alike – similar, alone – lone, asleep – sleeping

☆ some adjectives used to describe health and feelings:

- My son felt unwell. (but not My unwell son ...)
These are sometimes used between an adverb and noun e.g. 'a terminally ill patient'.

Also: content, fine, glad, ill (but 'ill health'), sorry, (un)sure, upset (but 'an upset stomach'), well (but 'He's really not a well man')

C

Emphasising adjectives are used to emphasise your feelings about something. Compare:

- I felt a fool. and I felt a complete fool. (for emphasis)

Some emphasising adjectives (such as complete, and also absolute, entire, mere, sheer, total, utter) are seldom or never used after a linking verb:

- It was a total failure. (but not usually The failure was total.)

Classifying adjectives are used to say that something is of a particular type. Like emphasising adjectives, classifying adjectives are seldom or never used after a linking verb:

- a nuclear explosion (but not usually 'The explosion was nuclear', unless we particularly want to emphasise a contrast with other kinds of explosion)

Also: atomic, chemical, digital, domestic, environmental, medical; general, occasional, northern (etc.), maximum, minimum, underlying Qualitative adjectives are used to give the quality that a thing or person has. We use them either directly before a noun or after a linking verb. Compare:

- a beautiful sunset The sunset was beautiful.

Note that some classifying adjectives can also be used with different meanings as qualitative adjectives and placed after a linking verb. Compare:

- The country's economic reforms. and
 The process isn't economic. (= not profitable)

Also: academic, conscious, educational, (il)legal, scientific

D

Many adjectives can be used immediately after a noun, at the beginning of a reduced relative clause (see Unit 69B). For example –

☆ adjectives before a to-infinitive, or a prepositional phrase as part of the adjective phrase:

- It was a speech calculated to appeal to the unions.
 He is a manager capable of making difficult decisions.

☆ some -ible and -able adjectives such as available, imaginable, possible, suitable. However, we use these adjectives immediately after a noun only when the noun follows the or when the noun is made definite by what follows in a relative clause:

- This was the most difficult decision imaginable.
 It is a treatment suitable for all children with asthma.

☆ the adjectives concerned, involved, opposite, present, proper, responsible. These words have different meanings when they are used before a noun and immediately after it. Compare:

- All the people present (= who were there) approved of the decision. and
 I was asked for my present address. (= my address now)

Gradable and non-gradable adjectives 1

A

Gradable adjectives can be used with grading adverbs such as very or extremely to say that a thing or person has more or less of a particular quality. Here are some examples of adjectives used as gradable in their most common meanings:

Grading adverbs

a bit, dreadfully, extremely, hugely, immensely, intensely, rather, reasonably, slightly, very angry, big, busy, clever, common, different, fast, friendly, happy, important, low, popular, quiet, rich, strong, weak, young

Gradable adjectives

- She was extremely rich.
- It's hugely popular.

- The people there are reasonably friendly.
- They're slightly different.

Non-gradable adjectives are not used with adverbs such as very or extremely because these adjectives do not refer to qualities which have different degrees. With non-gradable adjectives we can use non-grading adverbs which emphasise their extreme or absolute nature, such as absolutely, completely, etc. Many classifying adjectives (see Unit 66) are usually non-gradable. Adverbs such as almost, exclusively, etc., which indicate the extent of the quality, are commonly used with classifying adjectives. Here are some examples of non-gradable adjectives in their most common meanings:

Non-grading adverbs absolutely, completely, entirely, perfectly, practically, simply, totally, utterly, virtually; almost, exclusively, fully, largely, mainly, nearly, primarily awful, excellent, huge, impossible, superb, terrible, unique, unknown, wrong; domestic, environmental, agricultural (see Unit 66C)

Non-gradable adjectives

- She's completely wrong.
- He was practically unknown to the public.

- It was absolutely superb.
- The region is largely agricultural.

Gradable adjectives are sometimes used with non-grading adverbs, and non-gradable adjectives with grading adverbs to give special emphasis or to be humorous:

- What you're asking isn't just difficult – it's extremely impossible! (grading adverb + non-gradable adjective)
- You've won a hundred pounds? Wow, you're virtually rich! (non-grading adverb + gradable adjective)

Note that not all the adverbs can go with all the adjectives given in each of the tables above. For example, we can say 'absolutely huge', but we wouldn't usually say 'completely huge' unless it was for particular emphasis or for humour.

B

The adverbs fairly (= to quite a large degree, but usually less than 'very'), really (= 'very [much]') and pretty (= similar to 'fairly'; used in informal contexts) are commonly used with both gradable and non-gradable adjectives:

- She's fairly popular at school.
- I'm really busy at the moment.
- It's a pretty important exam.
- It was a fairly awful film.
- The flooding was really terrible.
- The bill was pretty huge.

However, note that we don't generally use fairly (or very) with gradable adjectives which indicate that something is very good or necessary:

- Experience is really / pretty essential for the job. (not ... fairly essential ...)
- The weather was really / pretty perfect. (not ... fairly perfect.)

Also: invaluable, superb, tremendous, wonderful

Exercises

67.3 If necessary, correct the italicised parts of this email. If they are already correct, write ✓. A

Dear Nathan,

I'm writing this email in my new flat in Stratford. It's in an (1) absolutely old building which was (2) totally renovated last year. Fortunately, I didn't have to do much decorating when I moved in. As you know, I'm (3) hugely useless at DIY so I was (4) absolutely happy about that. The building is (5) reasonably unique in this part of Stratford, as most others around are (6) rather modern, and the view across the river from my sitting room is (7) simply superb. The flat's (8) simply small, but (9) completely comfortable for me.

My neighbours are (10) very friendly and usually (11) fully quiet. The only problem is that the woman upstairs plays the trumpet and I find it (12) a bit impossible to read when she's playing. I get (13) slightly angry about this, but she doesn't play for long each time, so it's not an (14) extremely terrible problem.

I know that the weather has been (15) dreadfully awful recently, so it's been difficult for you to get here, but you must come over one evening. There's an (16) absolutely marvellous restaurant nearby that we could go to.

Hope all is well,

Lea

67.4 Cross out any incorrect or unlikely alternatives. B

- Her advice was fairly / really invaluable.
- Our neighbours are really / fairly friendly.
- I thought his performance as Hamlet was fairly / really tremendous.
- The children kept pretty / very quiet during the concert.
- The view from the window was very / pretty wonderful.
- Their cooperation is pretty / very essential if we want the project to go ahead.
- The weather was really / fairly perfect for a long walk.
- In this photograph she looked really / very young.
- The workmanship in the furniture was pretty / very superb.
- The disease is fairly / pretty common in this part of the country.

Gradable and non-gradable adjectives 2

A

Some adjectives have both gradable and non-gradable senses.

(i) Some adjectives have different senses when they are gradable and non-gradable. Compare:

- Smith is a very common name. (= frequently found; gradable) and
- We have a lot of common interests. (= shared; non-gradable; not very)
- The house is very old. (= existed many years; gradable) and
- I met my old politics professor the other day. (= former; non-gradable; not very)

Also: civil, clean, critical, electric (= 'exciting' when gradable), empty, false, late, odd, original, particular, straight

(ii) Some adjectives have similar meanings when they are gradable and non-gradable. However, when they are gradable we talk about the quality that a person or thing has (i.e. they are qualitative adjectives and therefore can be used with an adverb), and when they are non-gradable we talk about the category or type they belong to (i.e. they are classifying adjectives). Compare:

- I don't know where he came from, but he sounded slightly foreign. (= not from this country; gradable) and
- She is now advising on the government's foreign policy. (= concerning other countries; non-gradable)
- They had a very public argument. (= seen / heard by a lot of people; gradable) and
- He was forced to resign by public pressure. (= from many people in the community; non-gradable)

Also: academic, adult, average, diplomatic, genuine, guilty, human, individual, innocent, mobile, private, professional, scientific, technical, true, wild

In spoken English in particular, we can use good and ..., lovely and ..., and nice and ... followed by another gradable adjective in order to emphasise the second adjective. Possible patterns include –

- ☆ good and ready and more colloquially good and proper / relaxed / strong (but not usually good and beautiful / rich / tall):
 - If you're all feeling good and relaxed after the break, let's get on with the meeting.
- ☆ lovely and dry / soft / sunny / warm (but not usually lovely and decent / empty / short):
 - It's lovely and warm in here. Freezing outside, though.
- ☆ nice and bright / clean / cold / comfortable / early / fresh / quiet / simple / soft / tidy / warm (but not usually nice and interesting / handsome / exciting):
 - 'Shall we get some strawberries?' 'Yes, they look nice and fresh.'

We can also link comparative adjectives (see Unit 72) with and to talk about an increasing degree of the quality described in the adjective. We use more and more + adjective in a similar way:

- As she got more and more excited, her voice got higher and higher and louder and louder.
- The taxi driver just drove faster and faster and faster until I told him to stop, and I got out.

Participle adjectives and compound adjectives

A Participle adjectives

Some -ing forms (present participles) and -ed forms (past participles) of verbs can be used as adjectives. Most of these participle adjectives can be used before the noun they describe or following linking verbs (see Unit 21):

- The hotel had a welcoming atmosphere.
- I found this broken plate in the kitchen cupboard.
- The students' tests results were pleasing.
- My mother seemed delighted with the present.

B We can use many participle adjectives immediately after nouns when they identify or define the noun. This use is similar to defining relative clauses and they are often called 'reduced relatives':

- We had to pay for the rooms used. (or ... the rooms that were used.)

Some of these are rarely used before the noun:

- My watch was among the things taken.
(but not ... the taken things.)

Also: applying, caused, found, included, provided

Others can be used before or immediately after nouns:

- The crowd watching grew restless. or
- The watching crowd grew restless.

Also: affected, alleged, allocated, broken, chosen, identified, infected, interested, remaining, resulting, stolen

C In formal English, that and those can be used as pronouns before a participle adjective:

- The flour is of a higher quality than that produced by other varieties of wheat. (= the flour which is produced)
- The touchscreens perform less well than those manufactured elsewhere. (= the touchscreens which are manufactured elsewhere)
- Here is some advice for those (= people) preparing to go on holiday.

D Compound adjectives

Many compound adjectives include a participle adjective. Common patterns are:

- adverb + -ed participle* They are well-behaved children.
- adverb + -ing participle* Social networking is a fast-growing activity.
- adjective + -ed participle* She seems to live on ready-made meals.
- adjective + -ing participle* He's the longest-serving employee in the company.
- noun + -ed participle* The public square was tree-lined.
- noun + -ing participle* I hope it will be a money-making enterprise.
- ed participle + particle* Did it really happen, or was it a made-up story? (from two-word verbs)

We can use some participle adjectives only in adjective compounds. For example, we can't say '... behaved children' or '... a making enterprise' as the sense is incomplete without the adverb or noun.

Also: New York-based, Paris-born, brick-built, easy-going, peace-keeping, long-lasting, good-looking, home-made, hair-raising, far-reaching, well-resourced, sweet-smelling, strange-sounding, soft-spoken, sour-tasting, nerve-wracking

Note that many other compound adjectives do not include participle adjectives:

- The problem is short-term.
- It was just a small-scale project.

Adjective + to-infinitive, -ing, that-clause, wh-clause

A

When an adjective comes after a linking verb (e.g. appear, be, become, seem; see Unit 21) we can use a number of patterns after the adjective including a to-infinitive, -ing, that-clause, and wh-clause. (For It + linking verb + adjective, see B.)

	adjective +	example adjectives used in this pattern
i	to-infinitive <input type="checkbox"/> You're free to leave at any time you want.	(un)able, careful, crazy, curious, difficult, easy, foolish, free, good, hard, impossible, inclined, mad, nice, prepared, ready, stupid, welcome, willing
ii	-ing <input type="checkbox"/> He was busy doing his homework.	busy, crazy, foolish, mad, stupid; (after the verb feel) awful, awkward, bad, good, guilty, terrible
iii	that-clause <input type="checkbox"/> He became worried (that) she might fall down.	afraid, alarmed, amazed, angry, annoyed, ashamed, astonished, aware, concerned, disappointed, glad, (un)happy, pleased, shocked, sorry, upset, worried; certain, confident, positive, sure
iv	wh-clause <input type="checkbox"/> I'm not certain (of / about) why he wants to borrow the money	afraid, not aware / unaware, not certain / uncertain, doubtful, not sure / unsure, worried
v	to-infinitive or that-clause <input type="checkbox"/> She was afraid to say anything. <input type="checkbox"/> I was afraid that I would be late.	the adjectives in (iii) above, except aware, confident and positive
vi	to-infinitive or -ing <input type="checkbox"/> He'd be stupid to leave now. <input type="checkbox"/> He'd be stupid giving up the job.	crazy, foolish, mad, stupid
vii	-ing or that-clause <input type="checkbox"/> She felt awful leaving him with all the clearing up. <input type="checkbox"/> She felt awful that she was late.	(after the verb feel) awful, awkward, bad, good, guilty, terrible

It + linking verb + adjective

We can sometimes use it + linking verb + adjective + to-infinitive as an alternative to subject + linking verb + adjective + to-infinitive (see also Units 96 and 97):

- The fireworks were amazing to watch. or
- It was amazing to watch the fireworks.

Also: annoying, awkward, easy, good, interesting, lovely, simple, terrific, wonderful

In informal speech we can use an -ing form instead of a to-infinitive:

- It is easy understanding her.
- It was amazing watching the fireworks.

We can use a similar pattern with adjective + wh- or that-clause (see Unit 96A):

- It is not clear why he did it.
- It was odd that she left so suddenly.

After certain adjectives we often include of + subject between the adjective and a to-infinitive:

- It was rude (of them) to criticise her. or
- They were rude to criticise her.

Also: brave, generous, kind, mean, thoughtful, unprofessional, unreasonable

When we talk about how somebody reacts to a situation we can use it + make with an adjective and to-infinitive, -ing or that-clause:

- It made me angry (to discover) that so much money was wasted. (or It made me angry discovering that ... or I was angry to discover that ...)

Also: ashamed, furious, glad, happy, miserable, nervous, sad, tired, uncomfortable

Adjectives and adverbs

A

Some adverbs of manner (saying how something is done) are formed from an adjective + -ly: sudden → suddenly, happy → happily, etc. When an adjective already ends in -ly (e.g. cowardly, elderly, friendly, kindly, lively, lonely, lovely) we don't add -ly to it to make an adverb. Instead we can use a prepositional phrase with fashion, manner, or way:

Reminder → L5-L6

- He smiled at me in a friendly way.
- She waved her hands around in a lively fashion.

Most participle adjectives ending in -ed (see Unit 69) don't have an adverb form and so we use a prepositional phrase instead:

- They rose to greet me in a subdued manner. (not ... subduedly.)

or we use a preposition and a related noun if there is one:

- She looked at me in amazement. (not ... amazedly.)

However, some do have an adverb form with -ly. Compare:

- The storm was unexpected. and
- The weather turned unexpectedly stormy.

Also: agitatedly, allegedly, deservedly, determinedly, disappointedly, excitedly, hurriedly, pointedly, repeatedly, reportedly, reputedly, supposedly, worriedly

B

Some adverbs have two forms, one ending in -ly and the other not. We can sometimes use either form without changing the meaning, although the form ending in -ly is grammatically correct and more formal:

She ran quick / quickly towards the door.
and must be used if the adverb comes immediately before the verb:

- She quickly ran towards the door. (not She quick ran ...)

Also: cheap(ly), clean(ly), clear(ly), fine(ly), loud(ly), thin(ly), slow(ly)

C

Some adverbs have different meanings with and without -ly. Compare:

- She gave her time free. (= for no money) and She gave her time freely. (= willingly)
- I arrived late for the concert. (= not on time) and I haven't seen Amy lately. (= recently)

Compare also:

<input type="checkbox"/> He wandered deep into the forest and got lost. (= a long way)	<input type="checkbox"/> He felt deeply hurt by her criticisms. (= very)
<input type="checkbox"/> You don't have to change trains. You can go direct . (= without stopping)	<input type="checkbox"/> They loved each other deeply . (= very much)

Comparatives: -er vs more / less ... than

Reminder → L7-L8

We usually add -er to one-syllable adjectives and adverbs to make their comparative form.

However, we use more + adjective –

☆ with one-syllable past participle adjectives (see Unit 69) such as bored, creased, pleased, worn:

- After I'd ironed my shirt it looked more creased than before. (not ... creaseder ...)

☆ with fun, real, right and wrong:

- I expected the film to be rather dull, but I couldn't have been more wrong. (not ... wronger.)

☆ when we are comparing two qualities:

- 'Wasn't he brave to swim across?' 'I think he was more mad than brave.'
- Although the paint was called 'Sky Blue', I thought it was more green than blue.
We can also use '... he wasn't so much brave as mad' and '... it was blue rather than green'.

We can sometimes use more as an alternative to the -er form to emphasise the comparison:

- You might think it's dark here but it's more dark in the cellar. (or ... darker ...)

Also: clear, cold, deep, fair, rough, soft, true.

B

Some adjectives with two syllables are most commonly used with more / less, particularly:

- participle adjectives (e.g. worried, boring)
- adjectives ending in -ful and -less (e.g. careful, careless)
- afraid, alert, alike, alone, ashamed, aware
- some other adjectives, including active, cautious, certain, complex, direct, eager, exact, formal, frequent, modern, special, recent

Most two-syllable adjectives ending -y, -ow, -er and -ure can take either an -er or the more + adjective form, although the -er form is more frequently used.

Some adjectives (e.g. complete, equal, favourite, ideal, perfect, unique) have a comparative or superlative meaning so are not often used with -er / more / less or -est / most / least. However, we can use comparative or superlative forms for special emphasis:

- The weather today was good, but less perfect than yesterday.

C

Superlatives

We usually use the, a possessive form (with -s), or a possessive pronoun before a superlative adjective or adverb. In informal contexts we sometimes leave out the before an -est or most + adjective superlative after a linking verb, particularly at the end of a sentence:

- 'Why did you go by bus?' 'It was (the) cheapest.'
- Which was (the) most expensive?

However, we can't leave out the when we go on to say what group of things is being compared:

- 'Why did you buy these oranges?' 'They were the cheapest ones I could find.' (not They were cheapest ones ...)

When most + adjective / adverb is used without the, most means something like 'very':

- I checked the form most carefully (= very carefully) but didn't notice the mistake.

D

After a superlative we use of + a plural noun phrase to name the objects being compared:

- Adam's the oldest of my three brothers.

Note that we can put the of-phrase at the beginning to emphasise it:

- Of my three brothers, Adam's the oldest.

When we give the location or context within which the comparison is made we usually use in + a singular noun phrase:

- It was the tallest tree in the forest. (not ... the tallest tree of the forest.)

Comparative phrases and clauses

A

We use as + adjective / adverb + as to say that something or someone is like something or someone else, or that one situation is like another:

- Was the film as funny as his last one? I came round as quickly as I could.

Negative forms of sentences like this can use either not as or not so. In formal speech and writing it is more common to use less + adjective + than:

- The gap between the sides is not as / so wide as it was. (or ... is less wide than it was.)

B

If we put a singular countable noun between an adjective and the second as, we use a / an in front of the noun:

- Despite his disability, he tried to lead as normal a life as possible. (not ... as normal life as ...)

The negative form of sentences like this can use either not as or sometimes not such:

- It's not as quiet a place (or ... not such a quiet place ...) as it used to be.

Note that we use not as + adjective + a / an + noun but not such a / an + adjective + noun.

We can use so, too and how followed by an adjective in a similar way:

- It's not quite so straightforward a problem as it might at first seem.
 'Conspiracy' is perhaps too strong a word. How big a piece do you want?

C

We also use as much / many as or as little / few as to say that a quantity or amount is larger or smaller than expected. Many and few are preferred before numbers; much and little are preferred with amounts (e.g. $5, 20%) and distances (e.g. 3 metres):

- There are a small number of people involved, possibly as few as twenty.
 Prices have increased by as much as 300%.

D

We can use not + adjective / adverb + enough + to-infinitive to mean that there isn't as much as is necessary to do something:

- I'm not tall enough to reach. He didn't speak loudly enough to be heard.

We can use sufficiently before adjectives to express a similar meaning to enough. Sufficiently is often preferred in more formal contexts:

- She didn't play sufficiently well to qualify. (or ... well enough to qualify.)

E

We can use too + adjective / adverb + to-infinitive to mean 'more than necessary, possible, etc.' to do something:

- They arrived too late to get seats. It moved too fast to see it clearly.
 The suitcase was too small (for him) to get all his clothes in.

In rather formal English we can use too + adjective + a / an + noun:

- I hope you haven't had too tiring a day. (not ... a too tiring day.)

(In a less formal style we might say 'I hope your day hasn't been too tiring.')

F

We can use so + adjective / adverb + that-clause to say that something existed or happened to such a degree that a specified result occurred (see also Unit 81):

- It's so simple that even I can do it. He came in so quietly that I didn't hear him.

Less often we use so + adjective / adverb + as + to-infinitive with a similar meaning. Compare:

- The difference was so small that it wasn't worth arguing about. and
 The difference was so small as to not be worth arguing about. (= Because the difference was so small, it wasn't worth arguing about)

We can use go so / as far as + to-infinitive to talk about actions that are surprising or extreme:

- One furious woman went so / as far as to throw tomatoes at the minister.

I know him (7) sufficiently well enough to say that he will consider his future carefully before making any major decisions.

INTERVIEWER: Well, we all wish him (8) as speedy recovery as possible ...

Position of adverbs 1

There are three main positions for adverbs which modify a verb: end, front and mid position –

☆ In end position , the adverb comes after the verb – either immediately after it or later in the clause.	<input type="radio"/> They played quietly all day. <input type="radio"/> He tried to leave quietly . <input type="radio"/> He sat in the corner quietly .
☆ In front position the adverb comes before the subject.	<input type="radio"/> Finally he could stand the noise no longer. <input type="radio"/> Sometimes I feel like leaving.
☆ In mid position the adverb comes between the subject and verb, immediately after be as a main verb, or after the first auxiliary verb.	<input type="radio"/> He usually plays better than this. <input type="radio"/> She is usually here by ten. <input type="radio"/> They would usually come by car.

Many adverbs can go in any of these positions, depending on context or style. For example:

- He turned round slowly. (end) Slowly he turned round. (front)
 He slowly turned round. (mid)

B

End position

In end position, we usually put an adverb after an object rather than immediately after the verb:

- We considered the problem briefly. (not We considered briefly the problem.)

However, if an object is very long other positions are possible:

- We considered briefly the long-term solution to the problem. (or We briefly considered ...)

C

We avoid putting an adverb between a main verb and a following -ing form or to-infinitive:

- He began running quickly. or He quickly began running. (not He began quickly running.)
 She tried to leave quietly. or She quietly tried to leave. (not She tried quietly to leave.)

The position of the adverb can change the meaning of the sentence (see Unit 75A). Compare:

- I recall telling him clearly that he had won. (= I told him clearly; 'clearly' modifies 'telling him') and I clearly recall telling him that he had won. (= I clearly recall it; 'clearly' modifies 'recall'.)

'I recall clearly telling him that he had won' is also possible, but is ambiguous; it can have either of the two meanings given above. In speech, the meaning intended is usually signalled by intonation.

D

When there is more than one adverbial in end position, the usual order in written English is adverbial of manner (= saying how something is done), place, and then time:

- In the accident she was thrown violently forwards. (= manner + place)
 We arrived here on Saturday. (= place + time)

For special emphasis we can move an adverbial to the end:

- In the accident she was thrown forwards, violently.

If one adverbial is much longer than another then it is usually placed last:

- They left at three with a great deal of noise. (= time + manner)

An adverb usually comes before a prepositional phrase when these have the same function (i.e. when they both describe manner, or place, or time):

- She went downstairs to the cellar. (= place + place)

E

End position is usual for many adverbials of place, definite frequency, and definite time:

- They live upstairs. (not They upstairs live.)
 She goes weekly. (not She weekly goes.)
 Have you heard the good news? Eva had a baby in May. (not Eva in May had a baby.)

However, adverbs of indefinite time usually go in mid position (see Unit 75).

Note that in journalism, other adverbs of time are often used in mid position, where we would normally place them in end (or front) position:

- The government yesterday announced an increase in education spending.

Exercises

A

Front position

Most types of adverb commonly go in front position in a clause (see Unit 74A). In particular –

☆ connecting adverbs , which make immediately clear the logical relation to the previous sentence.	<input type="checkbox"/> The value of the yen has fallen. As a result , Japan faces a crisis.
☆ time and place adverbs , which give more information about a previous reference to a time or place.	<input type="checkbox"/> The last few days have been hot. Tomorrow the weather will be much cooler.
☆ comment and viewpoint adverbs , which highlight the speaker's attitude to what they are about to say (see Unit 78).	<input type="checkbox"/> She has just heard that her sister is ill. Presumably , she will want to go home.

Note, however, that other positions are possible for these adverbs.

Some words can be used both as comment adverbs or adverbs of manner. As comment adverbs they usually go in front position (but can go in other positions) and relate to the whole of the clause; as adverbs of manner they usually go in end position and modify the verb. Compare:

- Naturally, I'll do all I can to help. and
- The radioactive gas occurs naturally in many areas.

Also: clearly, curiously, frankly, honestly, oddly, plainly, seriously

Note that for special emphasis or focus, adverbs that usually go in mid position (see B) and end position (see also Units 74 and 76) can sometimes be put in front position:

- In May, Maxine had a baby.
- Regularly, Helena works on several paintings at once.

B

Mid position

The following types of adverb usually go in mid position (see Unit 74A) –

- ☆ degree adverbs (e.g. almost, hardly, nearly, quite, rather, scarcely):
 - The street lighting was so bad that we almost missed the turning.
 although some (e.g. completely, enormously, entirely, greatly, slightly) can go in end position:
 - I admire your work greatly. (or I greatly admire your work.)
 Note that some degree adverbs are not usually used in mid position with some verbs. For example, enormously is not usually used in mid position with develop, differ, go up or vary; greatly is not normally used in mid position with care or suffer.
- ☆ adverbs which indicate the order of events, such as first, last and next. These can also go in end position, but if there is a phrase giving the time of an event they usually go before this:
 - I first met her in 1997. (or I met her first in 1997.)
 We don't usually put these in front position, except to list actions (see also Unit 76B):
 - Next, add three teaspoons of sugar.
- ☆ adverbs of frequency which say in an indefinite way how often something happens, including hardly ever, often, rarely, regularly, seldom (see also Unit 76B); and also the frequency adverbs always and never:
 - We hardly ever see Kaspar nowadays, he's so busy at the office.
 Note, however, that adverbial phrases of indefinite frequency (e.g. as a rule, on many occasions, from time to time, every so often) usually go in front or end position:
 - As a rule, I go every six months. (or ... every six months, as a rule; not I as a rule go ...)

C

We rarely put long adverbials (including clauses; see Units 58 and 59), and prepositional and noun phrases in mid position. Usually they go in end position or front position for emphasis:

- She phoned home, anxious for news. (or Anxious for news, she phoned home.)
- He picked up the vase with great care. (or With great care he picked up the vase.)
- I'd seen Tarik the day before. (or The day before, I'd seen Tarik.)

A

Adverbs of place and direction (or adverbials, particularly prepositional phrases) usually go in end position, but we can put them in front position to emphasise the location. The effect may also be to highlight what comes at the end (e.g. 'a body' in the example below). This order is found mainly in formal descriptive writing and reports. Compare:

- The money was eventually found under the floorboards. (= end) and
- The police searched the house. Under the floorboards they found a body. (= front)

If we put an adverb of place in front position we put the subject after the verb be (see also Unit 99A):

- Next to the bookshelf was a fireplace. (or less formally Next to the bookshelf there was a fireplace; not Next to the bookshelf a fireplace was.)

We can also put the subject after the verb with intransitive verbs (except with a pronoun subject) used to indicate being in a position or movement to a position:

- Beyond the houses lay open fields. but
- Beyond the houses they lay. (not ... lay they)

Note that '... open fields lay' might be used in a literary style.

Also: hang, live, sit, stand; come, fly, go, march, roll, run, swim, walk

However, we don't usually put the subject after the verb when we talk about actions: if one of these intransitive verbs is followed by an adverb of manner; with other intransitive verbs; or with transitive verbs:

- Through the waves the boy swam powerfully. (rather than ... swam the boy powerfully.)
- Outside the church the choir sang. (rather than ... sang the choir.)
- In the garden Nik built a play house for the children. (not In the garden built Nik ...)

B

When we put certain adverbs of time in front position the subject must come after an auxiliary verb or a main verb be (see also Unit 100):

- At no time would he admit that his team played badly. (not At no time he would admit ...)
- Not once was she at home when I phoned. (not Not once she was ...)

If the main verb is not be and there is no auxiliary, we use do, although inversion is not necessary in this case:

- Only later did she realise how much damage had been caused. (or Only later she realised ...)

Adverbs like this include negative time adverbials such as at no time, hardly ever, not once, only later, rarely, and seldom. Note also that we can put first, next, now and then in front position with the verb come to introduce a new event, when the subject follows the verb. But if a comma (or an intonation break in speech) is used after first (etc.) the verb follows the subject. Compare:

- At first there was silence. Then came a voice that I knew. (not Then a voice came ...) and
- At first there was silence. Then, a voice came that I knew.

C

Adverbs of time which indicate a definite point or period in time or a definite frequency usually go in end position, or front position for emphasis, but not in mid position. Note that when these adverbs are in front position there is no inversion of subject and verb:

- I went to Paris yesterday. (or Yesterday I went to Paris.)
- We meet for lunch once a week. (or Once a week we meet for lunch.)

The adverbs daily, hourly, monthly, weekly, annually, quarterly (= four times a year), etc. only go in end position:

- I pay my subscription annually. (not Annually I pay ...; not I annually pay ...)

Degree adverbs and focus adverbs

A

Degree adverbs can be used before adjectives, verbs, or other adverbs to give information about the extent or level of something:

- They're extremely happy. I really hate coffee. He almost always arrived late.

Some degree adverbs, such as almost, largely, really and virtually, are usually used before the main verb, and others, such as altogether, enormously, somewhat, and tremendously, are usually used after the main verb. Degree adverbs are rarely used in front position (see Unit 75B).

Focus adverbs draw attention to the most important part of what we are talking about. Some (e.g. especially, even, mainly, mostly, particularly, specifically) make what we say more specific:

- There is likely to be snow today, particularly in the north.

and others (e.g. alone, just, only, simply, solely) limit what we say to one thing or person:

- Many people offered to help me invest the money, but I only trusted Rick.

B

Much and very much

In affirmative sentences in formal contexts, much can be used as a degree adverb before the verbs admire, appreciate, enjoy, prefer and regret to emphasise how we feel about things:

- I much enjoyed having you stay with us. Their music is much admired.

Much is used in this way particularly after I and we. Note that we don't usually use this pattern in questions (e.g. not Did you much enjoy ...?).

We can use very much in a similar way before the verbs above and also before agree, doubt, fear, hope, like and want. Note, however, that we don't use much before this last group of verbs. Compare:

- I much prefer seeing films at the cinema than on DVD. (or I very much prefer ...) and
 We very much agree with the decision. (or We agree very much ...; but not ... much agree ...)

We can also use much or very much before a past participle which is part of a passive:

- The new by-pass was (very) much needed.

We don't use much but can use very much before past participle adjectives (see Unit 69A):

- I was very much surprised by her news. (or I was surprised ...; but not I was much surprised ...)

and we don't use either much or very much before present participle adjectives:

- The hotel was (very) welcoming. (but not The hotel was (very) much welcoming.)

In negative sentences in informal contexts we can use (very) much before verbs such as appreciate, enjoy, like, and look forward to to emphasise a negative feeling about something:

- I didn't (very) much enjoy the film.

C

Very and too

Before an adjective or another adverb we use very when we mean 'to a high degree', and too when we mean 'more than enough' or 'more than is wanted or needed'. Compare:

- The weather was very hot in Majorca – perfect for swimming. (not ... too hot ...) and It's too hot to stay in this room – let's find somewhere cooler. (not ... very hot ...)

In negative sentences in informal spoken English we can use not too to mean 'not very':

- I'm not too bothered about who wins. (or I'm not very bothered ...)

D

Even and only

Even and only usually go in mid position (see Unit 75), but if they refer to the subject they usually come before it. Compare:

- My mother has only brought some food. (= She hasn't brought anything else) and Only my mother has brought some food. (= My mother and nobody else)
 Aya can even speak French. (= in addition to everything else she can do) and Even Aya can speak French. (= you might not expect her to) (rather than Aya even ...)

Comment adverbs and viewpoint adverbs

A

We use some adverbs to make a comment on what we are saying.

some comment adverbs:	examples
☆ indicate how likely we think something is	apparently, certainly, clearly, definitely, obviously, presumably, probably, undoubtedly
☆ indicate our attitude to or opinion of what is said	astonishingly, frankly, generally, honestly, interestingly, luckily, naturally, sadly, seriously, surprisingly, unbelievably
☆ show our judgement of someone's actions	bravely, carelessly, foolishly, generously, kindly, rightly, stupidly, wisely, wrongly

Comment adverbs often apply to the whole sentence and are most frequently used in front position (see Unit 75A), although they can also be used at the end of the sentence and in other positions. At the beginning and end of sentences we usually separate them from the rest of the sentence by a comma in writing or by intonation in speech:

- Presumably, he didn't hear me when I called.
- The book was based on his experience in China, apparently.
- If you practise continuously, you will undoubtedly get better.

Comment adverbs which show judgement usually follow the subject, although they can be put in front position for emphasis:

- He kindly offered to give me a lift. (or Kindly, he offered ... to emphasise 'Kindly')

If comment adverbs apply to only part of the sentence they can be used in other positions. Compare:

- Astonishingly, she did well in the exam. (= I was surprised that she did well) and
- She did astonishingly well in the exam. (= she did extremely well)
- You've had a major operation. Obviously, it will be very painful for a while. (= I expect you to know this already) and
- When he stood up it was obviously very painful. (= the pain was clear to see)

B

Some adverbs are used to make clear what viewpoint we are speaking from; that is, identifying what features of something are being talked about:

- Financially, the accident has been a disaster for the owners of the tunnel.
- The brothers may be alike physically, but they have very different personalities.

Also: biologically, environmentally, financially, ideologically, industrially, logically, medically, morally, outwardly, politically, technically, visually

A number of phrases are used in a similar way:

- Politically / In political terms, this summer is a crucial time for the government.

Also: politically speaking, in terms of politics, from a political point of view, as far as politics is / are concerned

Some adverbs or phrases are used to say whose viewpoint we are expressing:

- The head of National Bank is to receive, according to reports, a £1 million bonus.
- In my view, the foreign minister should resign immediately.

Also: to my / his / her (etc.) knowledge, from my / his / her (etc.) perspective, personally, in my / his / her (etc.) opinion

A

As, when and while

Reminder → M1 & M8

We can often use as, when or while to mean 'during the time that', to talk about something that happens when something else takes place:

- As / When / While Miguel was eating, the doorbell rang.

We use when (not as or while) to introduce a clause which talks about –

☆ an event that takes place at the same time as some longer event (in the main clause):

- They were playing in the garden when they heard a scream.

☆ the circumstances in which the event in the main clause happens:

- When they are fully grown these snakes can be over two metres long.

We also use when to mean 'every time', and we prefer when to talk about past periods of our lives:

- I still feel tired when I wake up in the morning. (= 'every time')
- His mother called him Robbie when he was a baby. (= a past period)

We prefer when if one event happens immediately after another, particularly if one causes the other:

- You'll see my house on the right when you cross the bridge.
- When the lights went out, I lit some candles.

In the first sentence, 'as' or 'while' would suggest 'during the time that' and the continuous would be more likely ('... as / while you are crossing ...'). In the second sentence 'as' or 'while' would be very unlikely because lights usually go out instantaneously.

We prefer as to say that when one thing changes, another thing changes at the same time:

- As the cheese matures, its flavour improves. (rather than When the cheese ...)

We can also use 'While ...', particularly with a continuous tense: 'While the cheese is maturing ...'.

We prefer while or as (rather than when) to talk about two longer actions that go on at the same time, although while is more common than as in informal speech:

- I went shopping while Liam cleaned the house. (or ... as Liam cleaned ...)

We use while or when (rather than as) to avoid ambiguity where 'as' could mean 'because':

- While you were playing golf, I went to the cinema. (As you were playing ... = Because ...)

B

Before, after and until

We use before or after to talk about an event happening earlier or later than another event:

- I put on my coat before I went out.
- The message arrived after I'd left.

We can often use either until or before when a situation continues to happen up to a time indicated in the adverbial clause:

- I had to wait six weeks until / before the parcel arrived.

However, we use until to talk about an action that continues to a particular time and then stops:

- They sat on the beach until the sun sank below the horizon, and then they went home.

and when the adverbial clause describes the result of an action in the main clause:

- He cleaned his shoes until they shone. ('shining' is the result of 'cleaning'.)

C

Hardly, no sooner, scarcely

When we say that one event happened immediately after another we can use sentences with hardly, no sooner, and scarcely (see also Unit 100). After hardly and scarcely the second clause begins with when or before; after no sooner it begins with than or when:

- The concert had hardly begun before all the lights went out.
- I had no sooner lit the barbecue than / when it started to rain.

We often use a past perfect in the clause with hardly (etc.), no sooner or scarcely and a past simple in the other.

Giving reasons: as, because, etc.; for and with

A

We can begin a clause with as, because, seeing that, seeing as, or since to give a reason for a particular situation:

- As it was getting late, I decided I should go home.
- We must be near the beach, because I can hear the waves.
- Since he was going to be away on his birthday, we celebrated before he left.
- We could go and visit Natalia, seeing that we have to drive past her house anyway.

Note that –

- ☆ it is common and acceptable for because to begin a sentence, as in:
 - Because everything looked different, I had no idea where to go.
- ☆ to give reasons in spoken English, we most often use because. So is also commonly used to express a similar meaning (see also Unit 81). Compare:
 - Because my mother's ill, I won't be able to come. ('because' introduces the reason) and
 - My mother's ill*, so I won't be able to come. ('so' introduces the result.)
- ☆ when it means 'because', since is rather formal. It is uncommon in conversation, but is frequently used in this way in academic writing:
 - I had to go outside because I was feeling awful. ('since' is unlikely in an informal context)
 - The results of this analysis can be easily compared to future observations since satellite coverage will remain continuous. (more likely than 'because' in this formal context.)
- ☆ seeing that is used in informal English. Some people also use seeing as in informal speech:
 - Joel just had to apologise, seeing that / as he knew he'd made a mistake.

B

In formal or literary written English we can also introduce a reason in a clause beginning for, in that, or, less commonly, inasmuch as. For is a formal alternative to 'because'; in that and inasmuch as introduce clauses which clarify what has been said by adding detail:

- We must begin planning now, for the future may bring unexpected changes. (not For the future ..., we must ...)
- The film is unusual in that it features only four actors. (or In that ..., the film is ...)
- Clara and I have quite an easy life, inasmuch as neither of us has to work too hard but we earn quite a lot of money. (or Inasmuch as ..., Clara and I ...)

C

The prepositions because of, due to, and owing to can also be used before a noun or noun phrase to give a reason for something:

- We were delayed because of an accident.
- She was unable to run owing to / due to a leg injury. (= because of a leg injury.)
- We have less money to spend owing to / due to budget cuts. (= because of budget cuts.)

Note that we don't use because alone before a noun or noun phrase:

- We were delayed because there was an accident. (not ... because an accident.)

In current English we usually avoid owing to directly after a form of be:

- The company's success is due to the new director. (not ... is owing to ...)

However, owing to is used after be + a degree adverb such as entirely, largely, mainly, partly:

- The low election turnout was partly due to / owing to the bad weather.

We can often use either it was due to ... that or it was owing to ... that:

- It was* owing to his encouragement that she applied for the job. (or It was due to ... that)

D

We can use for and with followed by a noun phrase to give a reason (compare B above):

- She was looking all the better for her stay in hospital. (= 'as a result of')
- With so many people ill, the meeting was cancelled. (= 'as a result of there being')

- 4 I felt a lot fitter because of all the exercise I was doing.
- 5 Because the train drivers are on strike tomorrow, I don't think I'll go to town after all.

Purposes and results: in order to, so as to, etc.

A

In order / so as + to-infinitive

To talk about the purpose of an action we can use in order / so as + to-infinitive:

- He took the course in order to get a better job.
- Trees are being planted by the roadside so as to reduce traffic noise.

In spoken English in particular it is much more common simply to use a to-infinitive without 'in order' or 'so as' to express the same meaning:

- He took the course to get a better job.

We rarely use just not + to-infinitive, but instead use so as not to or in order not to:

- He kept the speech vague in order not to commit himself to one side or the other. (not ... vague not to commit himself ...)
- I wrote down her name so as not to forget it. (not ... name not to forget ...)

However, in contrastive sentences we can use not + to-infinitive, but + to-infinitive as in:

- I came to see you not (in order / so as) to complain, but (in order / so as) to apologise.

Note that we can put in order / so as before the to-infinitives in sentences like this.

B

In order that and so that

We also use in order that and so that to talk about a purpose. Compare:

- She stayed at work late in order / so as to complete the report. and
- She stayed at work late in order that / so that she could complete the report. (not ... in order that / so that to complete the report.)

So that is more common than in order that, and is used in less formal situations. Note that informally we can leave out that after so, but we always include it after in order.

A present tense verb in the main clause is usually followed by a present tense verb (or a modal with present or future reference – can, will, etc.) in the clause beginning in order that / so that. A past tense verb in the main clause is usually followed by a past tense verb (or a modal with past reference – could, would, etc.) in the clause beginning in order that / so that. Modal verbs are very often used after in order that / so that:

- Regular checks are made in order that safety standards are maintained.
- Advice is given in order that students can choose the best course.
- Did you give up your job* so that you could take care of your mother?
- I hid the presents so that Marianna wouldn't find them.

C

Such that and in such a way that / as to; such ... that

In formal contexts, such as academic writing, we can use such that to introduce a result:

- The model was designed such that the value of x could be calculated. (= 'in a way that has the result that ...'; or ... in order that ...; or ... so that ...)

Less formally we can also use in such a way that or in such a way as + to-infinitive with a similar meaning:

- The advertisement is printed in such a way that two very different pictures can be seen depending on how you look at it.
- Our business is managed in such a way as to minimise its environmental impact.

We can also use such + noun phrase + that to introduce a result:

- It is such a popular play that all the performances were sold out after the first day. (For so + adjective / adverb + that, see Unit 73.)

Exercises

81.1 Combine the two sentences in the most appropriate way using in order (not) + to-infinitive or so as (not) + to-infinitive. A

(or ... so as to set up ...)

81.2 Look again at the sentences you wrote in 81.1. Is it also possible to use only a to-infinitive, without in order or so as? Write ✓ or X. A

1 I had to borrow money from the bank to set up the business. ✓

81.3 Complete the sentences with the correct versions of the phrases from the box. B it will / would receive the new channels it won't / wouldn't take up a lot of computer memory mosquitoes can't / couldn't get in nobody will / would know it was there ~~people can / could walk around the gardens~~ we can / could see the view over the city

- They have an open day at their house each year so that people can walk around the gardens.
- I put a rug over the stain on the carpet so that
- There were screens on all the windows so that
- The software is designed so that
- We went up to the top floor so that
- The TV needs to be retuned so that

81.4 Rewrite each sentence less formally in two ways; once using in such a way that and once using in such a way as to. C

- The factory demolition was planned such that any risk to the public was avoided.
The factory demolition was planned in such a way that any risk to the public was avoided. / The factory demolition was planned in such a way as to avoid any risk to the public.

- The meeting room is designed such that everyone's voice can be heard without the use of microphones.
- The website is organised such that it is easy to navigate.
- If the dial is rotated such that the number 1 is at the top, the valve opens.

Contrasts: although and though; even though / if; while, whilst and whereas

Although and though

We use although or (less formally) though to say that there is a surprising contrast between what happened in the main clause and what happened in the adverbial clause:

- Although / Though Reid failed to score himself, he helped Jones to score two goals.

With a similar meaning, we can use despite the fact that / in spite of the fact that (e.g. Despite the fact that / In spite of the fact that Reid failed to score ...), despite / in spite of + -ing (e.g. Despite / In spite of Reid failing to score ...), or despite / in spite of his / her + noun (e.g. Despite / In spite of his failure to score ...).

Note that we can use though, but not although, at the end of a clause:

- I eat most dairy products. I'm not keen on yogurt, though.

We can give special emphasis to an adjective by putting it before though in the pattern adjective + though + noun / pronoun + verb (usually a linking verb such as appear, be, become, feel, look, seem, sound, prove, etc.). As (but not although) can be used instead of though. Compare:

- Hot though (or as) the night air was, they slept soundly. and
- Although / Though the night air was hot, they slept soundly.

B

Even though and even if

We can use even though (but not 'even although') to mean 'despite the fact that' and even if to mean 'whether or not'. Compare:

<input type="checkbox"/> Even though Matt doesn't speak Spanish, I think he should still visit Madrid.	= Despite the fact that he doesn't speak Spanish	i.e. the speaker knows that Matt doesn't speak Spanish
<input type="checkbox"/> Even if Matt doesn't speak Spanish, I think he should still visit Madrid.	= Whether or not he speaks Spanish	i.e. the speaker doesn't know definitely whether Matt speaks Spanish or not

While, whilst and whereas

In formal contexts we can use while or whilst with a meaning similar to 'although' to introduce something that qualifies what is said in the main clause or something that may seem to conflict with it. In this case, the while / whilst clause comes before or within the main clause, but not after it:

- While / Whilst there is no evidence that Rob cheated, we were all astonished that he passed the exam. (not We were all astonished that he passed the exam, while ...)
- The diesel model of the car, while / whilst more expensive, is better value for money.

Note that whilst is a rather literary word and some people avoid using it.

We can use while or whereas (or less often whilst) to say that something contrasts with something in the main clause. The while / whereas clause may come before or after the main clause:

- Juan gets lots of homework from school, while / whereas Mia gets very little.
- While / Whereas I always felt I would pass the exam, I never thought I would get an A grade.

We don't use whereas if what is said in the subordinate clause makes what is said in the main clause unexpected:

- Although / While Sophie's father is from Spain, she doesn't speak Spanish. (not Whereas ...)

We can use -ing and past participle (-ed) clauses after although, though, while and whilst, and also clauses with the subject and verb left out (see Unit 59D).

Exercises

82.1 Join the sentence halves and give special emphasis to the adjective by moving it to the front of the sentence. Use either though or as. A

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1 it may seem amazing | a they were very useful when I looked at them in detail |
| 2 she was frightened | b she forced herself to pick up the snake |
| 3 food became scarce | c they had never faced such severe conditions before |

| 5 the instructions first appeared confusing | e they always found enough to share with me |
| 6 it looked disgusting | f she knew the examination would not be easy |
| 7 she felt confident | g my brother Johan has just won the lottery |
| 8 their new products have proved successful | h it was actually quite tasty |

1 + g Amazing though it may seem, my brother Johan has just won the lottery.
(or Amazing as it may seem ...)

82.2 Expand the notes in brackets and rewrite the sentences using In spite of + -ing in 1–3 and In spite of his / her + noun in 4–6. A

- Although she has to cope with three small children, ... (taking – part-time MBA course)
In spite of having to cope with three small children, she is taking a part-time MBA course.
- Although he was much younger than the others, ... (was – most outstanding rider – team)

- Although he was frightened, ... (allowed – huge spider – placed in his hands)
- Although she is obviously intelligent, ... (finds – it difficult – express – ideas in writing)
- Although she was ill, ... (went – walking holiday – Nepal)

Now rewrite the sentences you have written beginning Despite the fact that ...

- Despite the fact that she has to cope with three small children, she is taking a part-time MBA course.

82.3 Underline the correct phrase. B

- The driver stopped to let on more passengers even though / even if the bus was already full.
- I wouldn't tell you where Mariam lives even though / even if I knew.
- Even though / Even if I only play one match for my country, I'll be happy.
- Even though / Even if he had just had lunch, Thomas bought a hamburger.
- He plays for France even though / even if he was born in Algeria.
- You won't see all the animals in the zoo even though / even if you stay for the whole day.
- Even though / Even if I'm quite old, I still miss my parents.
- I still couldn't afford to go to Taipei, even though / even if I took the cheapest route.

82.4 Rewrite these sentences with a similar meaning. Begin the sentence with Whereas if possible and While if not. C

- Horse riding is an expensive pastime, but more and more people are taking it up.
While horse riding is an expensive pastime, more and more people are taking it up.
(Whereas ... is not possible ...)
- A decade ago only 5% of students dropped out of college, but the figure today is 25%.
- The temperature is below freezing, but it actually feels quite warm when the sun is out.
- The cost of rail travel has increased, but the number of train passengers has grown.
- I've always wanted to visit Australia, but I've never had any wish to go to Canada.

A

Real conditionals

Reminder → M9–M17

In real conditionals we usually use a present tense verb in the if-clause to talk about the future:

- If you leave now, you'll be able to catch the 5 o'clock train. (or If you're leaving now ...)

However, in conversation we can use be going to instead of a present tense verb:

- If I'm going to catch the train, I'll have to leave now.
 We'll need more chairs if we're going to invite so many people to the performance.

When we make offers, and give instructions or advice we can use an imperative in the main clause:

- Take another sandwich if you're hungry.
 If you have a mobile phone, check that it is turned off.

B

We can use if-clauses with a present tense verb to introduce certain conditions under which something is true. In this case, 'if' has a meaning similar to 'when':

- The video pauses if you click on this button.
 If age-related changes are taken into account, the conclusion remains the same.

C

We can talk about possible future events with a present perfect verb in the if-clause and a future form (will, present continuous, or be going to) in the main clause. Sometimes present perfect or present simple can be used with a similar meaning:

- I'll lend you War and Peace if I've finished it before you go on holiday. (or ... if I finish ...)
 If you haven't paid the bill by Friday, we're taking the carpets back. (or If you don't pay ...)

However, to focus on the future consequences of a past event, we use the present perfect. Compare:

- If I've failed my exam again, I'm giving up the course. (suggests I have already taken the exam; I don't know the result) and
 If I fail my exam again, I'm giving up the course. (I may or may not have taken the exam)

D

Unreal conditionals

In unreal conditionals we can use if ...were + to-infinitive rather than if + past simple to talk about imaginary future situations, particularly when it is unlikely that the situation in the if-clause will happen (see also Unit 14):

- If the technology were to become available, we would be able to expand the business.

However, note that we don't usually use this pattern with verbs such as belong, doubt, enjoy, know, like, remember, and understand when they describe a state:

- If I knew they were honest, I'd gladly lend them the money. (not If I were to know ...)

We sometimes use this pattern to make a suggestion sound more polite:

- Would it be too early for you if we were to meet at 5:30?

E

We use if it was not for + noun phrase (or more formally if it were not for + noun phrase) to say that one situation is dependent on another situation or on a person (see also Unit 85A). When we talk about the past we can also use if it had not been for + noun phrase:

- If it wasn't / weren't for Nina, the conference wouldn't be going ahead.
 If it hadn't been for Dad, I wouldn't have gone to college. (or If it wasn't / weren't for ...)

In formal language we can also use Were it not for ... and Had it not been for ... (see Unit 84A):

- Were it not for Nina ...
 Had it not been for Dad...

We can use but for + noun with a similar meaning, particularly in formal contexts:

- The village school would have been closed years ago but for the determination of teachers and parents to keep it open. (= ... if it hadn't been for the determination ...)

Exercises

83.1 Complete these sentences with an imperative (1–3) or an if-clause (4–6). A

- 6 There would have been far more wars in the last 50 years without the United Nations. If it was
- 7 We would have been here two hours ago except for the roadworks. If it had

A

When the first verb in a conditional if-clause is should, were, or had we can leave out if and put the verb at the start of the clause (see Units 99 and 100 for more on inversion). We do this particularly in formal or literary English, and only in hypothetical conditionals (a type of unreal conditional which answers the question 'What would happen if ...?'):

Reminder → M9–M17

- Should any of this cost you anything, send me the bill. (= If any of this should cost ...)
- It would be embarrassing, were she to find out the truth. (= ... if she were to find out ...)
- Had they not rushed Jo to hospital, she would have died. (= If they hadn't rushed Jo ...)

B

We don't usually use if ... will in conditional clauses. However, we can use if ... will –

☆ when we talk about a result of something in the main clause. Compare:

- Open a window if it will help you to sleep. (or ... if it helps you to sleep; 'Helping you to sleep' is the result of opening the window) and
- I will be angry if it turns out that you are wrong. (not ... if it will turn out ...; 'Turning out that you are wrong' is not the result of being angry)

☆ in requests or with the meaning 'if you are willing to' (or if ... would to be more polite):

- If you will / would take your seats, ladies and gentlemen, we can begin the meeting.

☆ in real conditionals when we want to show that we disapprove of something. In this case, will is stressed in speech (see also Unit 16B):

- A: I'm tired. B: Well, if you will go to bed so late, I'm not surprised.

Note that we can use if ... won't when we talk about a refusal to do something:

- There's no point in trying to teach the class if they won't pay attention.

C

In a real conditional sentence, we use if ... happen to, if ... should, or if ... should happen to to talk about something which may be possible, but is not very likely. If ... happen to is most common in spoken English:

- If you happen to be in our area, drop in and see us. (or If you should [happen to] be ...)

Note that we don't usually use this pattern in unreal conditionals talking about states or events in the if-clause which the speaker perceives as highly unlikely or impossible:

- If the North Sea froze in winter, you could walk from London to Oslo. (but probably not If the North Sea happened to freeze / should (happen to) freeze in winter ...)

D

In comparison clauses we can use as if followed by a noun phrase, -ing clause, past participle (-ed) clause, or to-infinitive to introduce a comparison with a situation described in the main clause. We do this to give an explanation or to say that something appears to be the case but is not:

- Magnus walked in as if nothing had happened.
- His hands made a circular motion, as if steering a bus through a sharp bend.
- When he caught the ball, Lee fell to the floor as if hit by a bullet.
- As if to convince herself that Luis was really there, she gently touched his cheek.

Note that we can use as though instead of as if, and in informal speech some people use like with the same meaning:

- The crowd reacted as though they were watching a boxing match. (or ... as if ...)
- He walked into the room like nothing had happened. (or ... as if ...)

Exercises

84.1 Rewrite these sentences with similar meanings. Begin with the word given. A

Reminder → M13–M17

A

In unreal conditional sentences we can use were after any subject in the if-clause, including singular first and third person subjects (e.g. I / she / he / it). This use of were is sometimes called the past subjunctive, and is generally preferred only in formal contexts. Note that although the verb has a past form, reference is to the imagined present or future:

- If your mother were here, I'm sure she wouldn't let you eat all those chocolates.
- My job would not exist if it were not for government funding.

Was can be used instead of were with the same meaning ('If your mother was here ...', etc.). However, we prefer were rather than was when we give advice with If I were you ...:

- If I were you, I'd take it back to the shop. It's got a hole in it. (rather than If I was you ...)

B

Were is used in this way in other patterns when we talk about imaginary situations –

(i) when we use were + subject + to-infinitive or were + subject as a more formal alternative to if + subject + was / were (see also Unit 84A):

- Were the election to be held today, the Liberals would win easily. (or If the election was / were held today ...)
- Were I not in my seventies and rather unfit, I might consider taking up squash. (or If I wasn't / weren't in my seventies and rather unfit ...)

(ii) after wish:

- I enjoy my job enormously, but I wish it were closer to home. (or ... I wish it was ...)
- Of course I'm pleased that Jan has been given the award. I only wish he weren't so boastful about it. (or ... I only wish he wasn't ...)

(iii) after if only when we express our regret that a situation isn't different:

- 'If your job is so bad, why don't you leave?' 'If only it were that simple.' (or If only it was ...)
- I'd really like to do accounting. If only I weren't so poor at maths. (or If only I wasn't ...)

(iv) after would ('d) rather and would ('d) sooner when we talk about preferences:

- I feel embarrassed about what happened and would rather the event were forgotten. (or ... was forgotten.)
- 'I've arranged a meeting for the end of July.' 'I'd sooner it were earlier, if possible. (or ... it was earlier.)

(v) in sentences or clauses beginning with suppose, supposing and imagine:

- Suppose* I were to lower the price by £100. Would you consider buying the car then? (or Suppose I was to lower ...)
- I know it looks rather dirty now, but imagine the house were (to be) repainted. It would look a lot more attractive. (or ... imagine the house was (to be) repainted.)

And in comparisons we can use were –

(vi) after as if and as though (see Unit 84D) and even if:

- I remember stepping off the boat in New York as if it were yesterday.
- Despite losing the election, she continues to act as though she were prime minister.
- It's too late to start the work this year even if it were possible to find the money for it.

B: Well,
- I know you haven't got much time, but
- Wearing odd shoes to school was embarrassing and I
- I'm very fond of Paul, but I

If ... not and unless; if and whether; etc.

A

If ... not and unless

Unless is used in conditional sentences with the meaning 'except if':

- You can't travel on this train unless you have a reservation.

With unless we use present tenses when we talk about the future:

- Unless it rains, I'll pick you up at six. (not Unless it will rain ...)

B

In real conditional sentences, we can often use either unless or if ... not with a similar meaning:

- Unless the theatre is able to raise £100,000, it will have to close. (or If the theatre isn't able to ...; implies 'it will have to close only if it can't raise the money')

However, we use if ... not but not unless –

☆ when we say in the main clause that an event or action in the if-clause is unexpected:

- I'll be amazed if Christie doesn't win.

☆ usually in questions:

- If you don't pass the test, what will you do?

☆ when the 'only if' implication does not apply:

- If it wasn't the best performance of Hamlet I've seen, it was certainly the strangest.

We usually use if ... not rather than unless in unreal conditional sentences:

- If I weren't so tired, I'd give you a hand.

However, unless can be used in unreal conditional sentences when the main clause is negative:

- She wouldn't have gone to university unless her parents had insisted.

C

If and whether

We can use if or whether to say that two possibilities have been talked or thought about, or to say that people are not sure about something:

- They couldn't decide if / whether it was worth resitting the exam.
 Do you know if / whether Ben's at home?

Whether can usually be followed immediately by or not. Compare:

- I didn't know if Aya was coming or not. (not ... if or not Aya was coming.) and
 I didn't know whether or not Aya was coming. (or ... whether Tom was coming or not ...)

D

We use whether rather than if –

☆ after a preposition (although if is sometimes used informally) and before a to-infinitive:

- We argued about whether butter or margarine was better for you. (informally ... if ...)
 I couldn't decide whether to buy apples or bananas.

☆ in the pattern noun / adjective + as to whether to mean 'about' or 'concerning':

- There was some disagreement as to whether he was eligible to play for France.

Also: conflict, confusion, debate, discussion, doubt, question, speculation, uncertainty; concerned, indifferent, uncertain, undecided, unsure and we prefer whether rather than if –

☆ after the verbs advise, choose, consider, depend on, discuss, talk about, and think about:

- You should consider whether the car you are interested in is good value.

☆ in a clause acting as a subject or complement:

- Whether the minister will quit over the issue remains to be seen.
 The first issue is whether he knew he was committing a crime.

Connecting ideas in a sentence and between sentences

A

Some words and phrases (sentence connectors) are used to connect one sentence with a previous sentence or sentences. Often (but not always) these go at the beginning of the sentence:

- There was no heating in the building. As a result, the workers had to be sent home.

Other words and phrases (conjunctions) are used to connect clauses within a single sentence:

- While I was waiting, I read a magazine.
- I stood up so that I could see better.

type of connection	sentence connectors	conjunctions comparing, contrasting, and indicating that a situation (in the main clause) is unexpected	after all, all the same, alternatively, anyway, by contrast, even so, however (but see C), in any case, in contrast, instead, nevertheless, on the contrary, on the other hand	although, even though, though, whereas, while, yet reasons and results	as a consequence, as a result, consequently, for one thing, so; hence, in consequence, therefore, thus (the last four are rather formal)	as, because, for, in that, since, insofar as, so, so that adding information	above all, after all, also, besides, furthermore, in addition, likewise, moreover, similarly, what's more; as well, too (the last two are not used at the beginning of a sentence) condition	if not, if so, otherwise	as long as, assuming (that), if, on condition that, provided (that), so long as, supposing (that), unless time: one event at the same time as another	at that time, at the same time, meanwhile	as, when, whenever, while time: one event before or after another	after, after that, afterwards, before, before that, earlier, later, previously, soon, subsequently, then	after, as soon as, before, since, until

Note that after, before and so can be both connectors and conjunctions.

We can't use a sentence connector on its own with a comma to connect clauses within one sentence (e.g. not I expect to be promoted, if not I'll leave).

However, a sentence connector can be used to connect two clauses in one sentence if the clauses are joined with and, but, or, so, or a semi-colon (;), colon (:), or dash (–):

- The building was extremely well constructed and, as a result, difficult to demolish.
- You could fly via Singapore; however, this isn't the only way.

B

Even though is a conjunction used to say that a fact doesn't make the rest of the sentence untrue (see also Unit 82B). It connects ideas within a sentence:

- Even though it was midday, I put on the light.

Even so is a sentence connector used to introduce a fact that is surprising in the context of what was just said. It connects ideas between sentences:

- It was midday. Even so, I put on the light.

C

However is often used as a sentence connector, but it can also be used – ☆ as an adverb when it is followed by an adjective, adverb, or much / many:

- We just don't have the money to do the work, however necessary you think it is.

☆ as a conjunction when it means 'in whatever way':

- However she held the mirror, she couldn't see the back of her neck.

Prepositions of position and movement

A Across, over

We can use across or over to talk about a position on the other side of, or moving to the other side of a road, bridge, border, river, etc.:

- Antonio lives in the house across / over the road from ours.
- Once she was across / over the border, she knew she would be safe.

We use over rather than across when we talk about reaching the other side of something that is high, or higher than it is wide. Compare:

- He jumped over the fence into the garden. and
- He jumped across the stream.

When we are talking about something we think of as a flat surface, or an area such as a country or sea, we prefer across rather than over:

- He suddenly saw Eva across the room.
- The programme was broadcast across Canada.

We prefer all over rather than all across to mean 'to or in many different parts of an area'. However, we commonly use across, or right across for emphasis:

- The disease has now spread all over the world. (or ... (right) across the world.)

B Along, through

When we talk about following a line of some kind (a road, a river, etc.), we use along:

- They walked along the footpath until they came to a small bridge.

We use through to emphasise that we are talking about movement in a three dimensional space, with things all around, rather than a two dimensional space, a flat surface or area:

- He pushed his way through the crowd of people to get to her.

Through often suggests movement from one side or end of the space to the other. Compare:

- She walked through the forest to get to her grandmother's house. and
- She spent a lot of her free time walking in the forest.

C Above, over; below, under; beneath, underneath

We can use either above or over when we say that one thing is at a higher level than another:

- Above / Over the door was a sign saying, 'Mind your head'.

However, we prefer above, when one thing is not directly over the other. Compare:

- They lived in a village in the mountains above the lake. (not directly over) and
- The bird hovered just a few metres above / over the lake. (directly over)

We use over, not above, when something covers something else and touches it:

- She put a quilt over the bed.

and usually when we are talking about horizontal movement at a higher level than something:

- I saw the helicopter fly out over the water, near the fishing boat.

Below is the opposite of above; under is the opposite of over. The differences in the uses of below and under are similar to those between above and over (see above):

- It's hard to believe that there is a railway line below / under the building. (at a lower level)
- Her head was below the level of the table so nobody noticed her. (not directly under)
- She hid the presents under a blanket. (the blanket covers and touches the presents)
- Zara ran under the bridge. (horizontal movement at a lower level)

We can use underneath as an alternative to under as a preposition of place. Beneath is sometimes used as a more formal alternative to under or below.

Between and among

A As prepositions of place we use between with two or more people or things that we see as individual or separate, and we use among when we see the people or things as part of a group or mass. Among is only used with three or more people or things:

- She held the diamond between her thumb and forefinger.
- Zimbabwe is situated between Zambia to the north, Mozambique to the east, Botswana to the west, and South Africa to the south.
- He stood among all his friends at the party and felt very happy.
- She eventually found her passport among the clothes in the drawer.

Note that amongst is sometimes used instead of among, but in more literary contexts.

B Between and among are not only used as prepositions of place. For example, we can use either to talk about something divided or shared between people:

- The money is to be divided between / among the towns in the area.
- The prize will be shared between / among the first six finishers in the race.

We also use between –

☆ to talk about comparisons and relationships:

Also: association, comparison, connection, contrast, correlation, difference, distinction, relationship

☆ to say that people or things share an amount of something:

- Between them, Will and Alice must earn about €100,000 a year.

We also use among –

- Their music is still very popular among teenagers.

☆ when we mean 'included in a particular group':

- They are among the best hockey players in the world.

C There are a number of common expressions using between and among:

- Between ourselves / Between you and me (= keep this a secret), I don't think Jack is as honest as he should be.

Prepositions of time

A During, in, over, throughout

We use during or in to talk about a period of time within which an event or activity occurs. The activity may continue for the whole of the period of time:

- I stayed at home during the summer. (or ... in the summer.)
- The population of the city has actually fallen during the last decade. (or ... in the last ...)

or the event may happen at some time, or be repeated a number of times, in the period of time:

- We went to Turkey during the summer. (or ... in the summer.)
- He suffered a number of injuries during his career as a jockey. (or ... in his career ...)

We use during, rather than in, to mean 'at some time in the period of' before nouns such as illness, holiday, meal, stay, treatment, and visit, when we refer to an event which lasts some time:

- The President made the speech during a visit to Madrid.

and also with the phrase the whole (of), emphasising duration of an entire period:

- No one was allowed to leave the ship during the whole of its time in port.

We can use throughout to emphasise that something happens over the whole of a period of time:

- We had enough firewood to keep us warm throughout the winter. (or ... warm during / through the winter.)

B We can use over or during when we talk about something that goes on for a length of time within a period of time, either for some of that period or for the whole of it:

- Weather conditions have been improving over / during the past few days.
- I hit my head and can't remember anything that happened over / during the next hour or so.

However, if we talk about a short event that happens within a period of time, we prefer during:

- She sneezed* during the performance. (= once or a few times; not ... over the performance.)
- During a pause in the conversation, she left the room. (not Over a pause ...)

C Until, by, up to

There are a number of ways of saying when something that has continued for some time stops –

- ☆ We use until (or informally till) to say that something continued or will continue to a particular time, and by to say that something happened or will happen either before a particular time or at that time at the latest. Compare:

- We have to be at home until 2:30. (We must not leave home before 2:30) and
- We have to be at home by 2:30. (We must arrive home either before or at 2:30)

- ☆ In informal contexts we can use up to or up till instead of until. We commonly use up to / till with now and with then:

- I've just bought a tablet computer. I've always used a laptop up to now. (or ... up till now ...)

- ☆ We can use until now to talk about a situation that will not continue beyond now:

- Supermarkets say that until now there has been little consumer interest in buying organic produce. (The situation has changed or is going to change)

Note, however, that we don't use until now for a situation that will or may continue into the future. Instead we can use so far or, in formal contexts, to date:

- It was certainly the best match of the football season so far.
- When the contract is signed it will be the building company's biggest order to date.

Talking about exceptions

A

We use except (for) to introduce the only thing(s) or person / people that a statement does not include:

- The price of the holiday includes all meals except (for) lunch.
- Everyone seemed to have been invited except (for) Mrs Woodford and me.
- I had no money to give him except (for) the few coins in my pocket.

We use except, not except for, with to-infinitives, and that-clauses:

- I rarely need to go into the city centre except to do some shopping.
- They look just like the real thing, except that they're made of plastic.

We usually use except before prepositions, bare infinitives, and that-clauses including those where the word that is left out (see Unit 53). However, informally except for is sometimes also used, although this is grammatically incorrect:

- There is likely to be rain everywhere today except in Wales.
- There is nothing more the doctor can do except keep an eye on him.
- They look just like the real thing, except (that) they're made of plastic.

We can use except for, but not except, with the meaning 'but for' (see C below).

B

We use except (for) to mean that something is not included in a particular statement, but we use besides to mean 'as well as' or 'in addition to'. Compare:

- I don't enjoy watching any sports except (for) cricket. (= I enjoy only cricket) and
- Besides cricket, I enjoy watching football and basketball. (= I enjoy three sports)
- I haven't read anything by her, except (for) one of her short stories. and
- Besides her novels and poems, she published a number of short stories.

Apart from can be used with the same meanings as both except (for) and besides:

- I don't enjoy watching any sports apart from cricket. (= except for)
- Apart from cricket, I enjoy watching football and basketball. (= besides; as well as)

C

We can use but with a similar meaning to except (for), particularly after negative words such as no, nobody, and nothing:

- After the operation he could see nothing but / except (for) / apart from vague shadows.
- There was no way out but / except / apart from upwards, towards the light.

But for has a different meaning from except for. We use it to say what would or might have happened if the thing introduced by but for had not happened:

- The country would now be self-sufficient in food but for the drought last year. (= if there hadn't been the drought ...)
- But for the leg injury he suffered last year, he would probably have been picked for the national team by now. (= if he hadn't injured his leg ...)

However, some people use except for in the same way as but for, particularly in informal spoken English:

- I'd have got there on time except for the taxi being late. (or ... but for the taxi being late.)
- Except for the problems with my computer, I would have got the book finished weeks ago. (or But for the problems with my computer ...)

Note that we can use excepted, apart or aside after mentioning a person or thing to say that they are not included in the statement we make:

- It has been, 1984 excepted / apart / aside, the hottest July for the last 100 years.

Prepositions after verbs and to say that we approve of a particular idea or action:

Prepositions after nouns

A

Many nouns are followed by the same prepositions as their related adjective or verb. Compare:

- Are you satisfied with the way that the business is being run? and
- The shareholders have expressed satisfaction with the way the business is being run.

A few nouns are followed by different prepositions. Compare:

- They became fond of each other at school. and
- Their fondness for each other grew and many years later they married.

Also: proud of / pride in, ashamed of / shame about / at

Some nouns take a preposition where their related verb does not. Compare:

- I respect Louis enormously. and
- I have enormous respect for Louis.

Also: admiration for, ban on, discussion about / on, improvement in, influence on, interview with, lack of, respect for

Note that many other nouns are commonly followed by of phrases which indicate possession, a property, or classify the noun by describing what it relates to. Compare:

- He described the conductor as moving his arms like a windmill. and
- His description of the conductor was very funny.

B

Some nouns can be followed by of + -ing but not usually to-infinitive:

- He's got into the habit of biting his nails when he's nervous.

Also: cost, effect, fear, likelihood, possibility, probability, problem, prospect, risk, sign

Some nouns can be followed by a to-infinitive but not usually of + -ing:

- His unhappy childhood explains his reluctance to talk about his parents.

Note that many of these nouns can also be used with other prepositions + -ing (e.g. attempt at -ing, reason for -ing, etc.).

Also: ability, attempt, concern, decision, desire, determination, failure, inability, permission, proposal, reason, refusal, (un)willingness

C

Some nouns can sometimes be followed either by of + -ing or a to-infinitive with a similar meaning, usually after the:

- Do staff have the opportunity of taking unpaid leave? (or ... the opportunity to take ...)
- The* aim of providing clean drinking water has been achieved. (or The aim to provide ...)

Also: ambition, idea, option, plan.

However, some nouns, such as chance, sense and way, have more than one meaning and are followed either by of + -ing or a to-infinitive depending on which meaning is used. Compare:

- What's the chance of getting five heads when you toss a coin five times? (= likelihood; not ... chance to get ...) and
- Will you get the chance to visit Miki in Japan? (= opportunity; not ... of visiting ...)
- He didn't have the sense to move away from the puddle of water as the bus went past. (= good judgement; not ... sense of moving ...) and
- Everyone was very friendly and she had a sense of belonging within a few days of moving to her new school. (= feeling; not ... sense to belong ...)
- I've got a new way to cook rice. (= method; or ... way of cooking ...) and
- She has a really funny way of speaking. (= manner; not ... way to speak)

Note also that of + -ing usually follows no / every / the sole / the slightest / (not) any / with the + intention, but that we can use either of + -ing or a to-infinitive in most other cases. Compare:

- I have no intention of lending Dan any more money. (not ... no intention to lend ...) and
- He announced his intention to stand in the election. (or ... intention of standing ...)

Two- and three-word verbs: word order

A The meaning of some verbs commonly used with a particular preposition or adverb (or particle) is often different from the meaning of their separate parts. We can call these two-word verbs:

- I'll quickly go over the main points of the report again. (= summarise)
- She had to let her dress out because she'd put on weight. (= make it larger)

Other three-word verbs are commonly used with an adverb + preposition.

- Do you think he's really likely to go through with his threat? (= do it)
- The team has failed to live up to earlier expectations. (= achieve what was expected)

These two- and three-word verbs are sometimes also called phrasal verbs.

B Many two-word verbs are usually intransitive:

- He grew up on a farm.
- When she came to she found herself in hospital.

Also: crop up, fall through, get up, move off, shop around, splash out

However, some two-word verbs can be used transitively or intransitively with the same meaning:

- I'll call back later.
- I'll call you back when I get home.

Also: answer back, clear away, cover up, help out, take over, tidy up, wash up and other two-word verbs can be used transitively or intransitively with a different meaning:

- The engine cut out and the car came to a stop.
- I cut the picture out and kept it.

Also: break in, hold out, look out, look up, pick up, split up, turn in, wind up

C With many transitive two-word verbs, the object can come before or after the adverb:

- I want to try out the local food. or
- I want to try the local food out.

Also: bring about, clean up, count out, drink up, gather up, get down, leave out, make up, mess up, shoot down, sort out, throw away, use up

However, if the object is a pronoun it must come between the verb and the adverb:

- I won't be able to go to the party. You'll have to count me out. (not ... count out me.) and we prefer to put the object after the adverb when the object is long. Compare:

- She had to clean the kitchen up. (or ... clean up the kitchen.) and
- She had to clean up the mess in the kitchen. (rather than ... clean the mess in the kitchen up.)

D With some transitive two-word verbs, the object comes between the verb and the adverb:

- I just couldn't tell the twins apart. (not ... tell apart the twins)

Also: catch out, hear out, order about, pull to, push to, shut up (= to silence), stand up

E With some transitive two-word verbs, the object follows the preposition:

- She takes after her mother.
- I flicked through a magazine while I was waiting.

Also: account for, act on, approve of, call on, check into, look after, provide for, result from, run into, take against

F With most three-word verbs, the object goes after the preposition:

- He really looks up to his older brother.

However, a few three-word verbs usually have the object immediately after the verb. A second noun or noun phrase goes after the preposition:

- She tried to talk me out of the plan.

Also: come in for, come up against, cut back on, look down on, put up with

Also: do out of, help on with, let in on, put down as, put up to, take up on b: But they're so old – why don't you just throw away? (them)

94.3 Complete each sentence using a two-word verb from (i) and a noun phrase from (ii). If two word orders are possible, give both. C & D

(i)

get down leave out make up
~~push to~~ hear out shut up

94.4 If necessary, correct the word order or give a more likely word order in these sentences. If they are already correct, write \checkmark . D, E & F

- It is assumed that parents will provide their children for until they are 18.
- She wouldn't let in me on the secret, however hard I tried to persuade her.

- My parents didn't approve of our engagement.
- I had always looked Mr Gao up to, so I was shocked to discover what he had done.

There is, there was, etc.

A When we introduce a new person or thing – to say that this person or thing exists, happens, or is found in a particular place – we can use a sentence beginning There + be:

- There was a loud bang from upstairs. (not A loud bang was from upstairs.)
- There's nothing to eat. (not Nothing is to eat.)

We invert this pattern in questions to ask about the existence etc. of people and things:

- Is there anybody in here?

We can also use there with auxiliary and modal verbs with be (e.g. has been, can be):

- There must be some way of contacting her.

with verb + to be (e.g. used to be, is supposed to be, tends to be, appears to be, seems to be):

- There appears to be a major disagreement between the two presidents.

and some other verbs that indicate existence (e.g. arise, emerge, exist, remain):

- During the 1990s there arose a demand for organic food.

Because we use there in this way to introduce topics, the noun after there + be often has an indefinite or non-specific meaning. So we often use a / an, zero article, any(one) (+ noun), or some(thing), no(body), etc. rather than the, this, my, your (+ noun), or a name, which give the noun a more definite or specific meaning. Compare:

- There's nobody here.
- There was something strange about her. and
- The cat* was in the kitchen. (more usual than There was the cat in the kitchen.; but compare There was a cat in the kitchen.)
- Jan* is waiting for me outside. (more usual than There is Jan waiting for me outside.)

When we use there + be + the, this is often done to show a change of topic. Choosing the, that, etc. + noun indicates that we think the topic is already known to the listener or reader:

- ... And then there is the question of who is going to pay.

B The verb be should agree with the noun that comes after it:

- There is a very good reason for my decision.
- There were too many people trying to get into the football stadium.

However, in informal speech we sometimes use there's before a plural noun:

- 'Anything to eat?' 'Well, there's some apples on the table.'

If the noun phrase consists of two or more nouns in a list, we use a singular verb if the first noun is singular or uncountable, and a plural verb if the first noun is plural:

- When I opened the fridge there was only a bottle of milk, some eggs, and butter.
- When I opened the fridge there were only some eggs, a bottle of milk, and butter.

C There + be is also used with nouns followed by a that-, wh-, to-infinitive or -ing clause:

- Is there a chance (that) Kim could arrive this afternoon?
- There is no reason (why) I can't see you tomorrow.
- There is a small stream which / that runs at the bottom of the garden.
- There was an attempt to resolve the dispute at the factory.
- There was a taxi waiting outside the hotel.

We don't usually leave out a relative pronoun when it is the subject of the following finite verb, but can leave it out when it is the object (see Unit 53).

D In formal English we can use a clause with there being to introduce a reason for something:

- There being no evidence against him, he was released. (= Because there was no evidence).
- There being no reports of adverse reactions, the drug is to be sold more widely.

It ... 1

A

We can use an introductory it at the beginning of a sentence –

- ☆ to place long or grammatically complex sentence elements at the end (the usual place for them in English). Compare:
 - To drive without a licence is illegal. and*
 - It is illegal to drive without a licence.
- ☆ to focus attention on something by putting it at the end (the usual place for new or important information in English). Compare:
 - That she wasn't hurt is a miracle. and*
 - It's a miracle that she wasn't hurt.

Introductory it is commonly used when the subject is a to-infinitive or that-clause (as in the examples above), and also when the subject is a wh- or -ing clause (see also Unit 25):

- It is clear why Diego decided to leave Spain.
- It is useless asking Sophie to help.

B

We often use introductory it with be + adjective / noun (as in the examples above), but other patterns with an introductory it are possible. Here are some common examples–

☆ it + verb + to-infinitive

- 'I've got a terrible headache.' It helps to lie down.'
- If you want someone to help you, it doesn't do to annoy them just before you ask. ('[not] do' = (not) advisable, acceptable or enough)

Also: hurt, pay (= give an advantage or benefit)

☆ it + verb + object + to-infinitive

- It shocked him to see her looking so ill.
- It means a lot to get a place at university.

Also: amaze, annoy, astonish, concern, cost, frighten, hurt, scare, surprise, upset, worry (most are to do with feelings)

After these verbs the object usually refers to a person.

We can also use it + take + object + to-infinitive when we say what is or was needed in a particular activity; for example, time, resources or characteristics needed. Compare:

- It takes a lot of effort to play the flute. and
- To play the flute takes a lot of effort.

☆ it + verb + that-clause

- It seems that she has lost her memory.
- It emerged that he already had a criminal record.

Also: appear, come about, follow, happen, transpire

☆ it + verb + object + that-clause

- It suddenly hit me that Sara wanted to borrow money. (less likely is That Sara wanted to borrow money suddenly hit me.)

Also: dawn on, not bother, strike (= occur to), turn out, and the highlighted verbs above

The object in this pattern usually refers to a person.

C

We don't usually use an it ... pattern as an alternative to a noun as subject:

- Their success was unexpected. (not It was unexpected their success.)

However, in informal contexts, particularly in speech, this is quite common in order to give special emphasis to the information immediately following it ...:

- It tastes really good, this new ice cream.

and also to place a longer noun phrase at the end in order to focus attention on it:

- It's ridiculous, all the bureaucracy involved in running a school these days.

A

We can use a pattern with it as the object of a verb where it refers forward to a clause. It can sometimes be followed directly by a that-, if- or when-clause after can't bear, hate, like, love, resent and can't stand, and by an if- or when-clause after dislike, enjoy, prefer and understand:

- I hate it that you can swim so well and I can't. (not I hate that you can swim ...)
- We always enjoy it when they stay with us. (not We always enjoy when they ...)

Some verbs can be followed by it and a that-clause, particularly in spoken English, or directly by a that-clause without it:

- You've just got to accept (it) that Emil's gone and won't be coming back.

Also: admit, deny, guarantee, mention

Many other verbs that can be followed by a that-clause or wh-clause are not used with it in this way:

- I can't remember when I last saw her. (not ... remember it when ...)

Also: argue, discover, emphasise, notice, predict

B

With other verbs used to indicate how we see a particular event or situation, it is followed first by an adjective or noun phrase and then a that-clause, to-infinitive clause, or clause beginning when:

- Officials said they believe it unlikely that any lasting damage to the environment has been done. (or ... they believe it is unlikely that ...; not ... they believe unlikely that ...)

Also: consider, feel, find (= discover something from experience), think

When we use leave and owe (= have a responsibility to) with it we can use to somebody + to-infinitive after it:

- Don't bother to arrange anything. Just leave it to me to sort out.
- She owed it to her parents to do well at college.

C

With the verbs accept, regard, see, take (= interpret something in a particular way), or view we use it + as + noun (or adjective) + clause:

- We see it as an insult to have received no reply to our letter.
- I take it as encouraging when students attend all my lectures.

D

It is / was no ... vs There is / was no ...

Here are some common expressions including It is / was no ... and There is / was no ...:

- It's no secret that he wants a new job.
- It's no surprise that his latest film has been so successful.
- It's no use telling me now. I needed to know a week ago.
- It's no good getting angry. That won't help solve the problem.
- It's no coincidence (or accident) that they left the party at the same time.
- It's no longer necessary to have a visa to visit the country.

- There's no denying that he's intelligent.
- I'm afraid there's no alternative (or choice) but to ask her to leave.
- There's no hope of getting more money.
- There's no need to explain how it works; I'll read the manual.
- There's no point in buying an ice-cream maker unless you plan to use it a lot.
- There's no question of agreeing to his demands.
- There's no reason to be pessimistic.
- There's no chance of finding a cure if we don't fund more research.

The sentences with It is / was no ... have alternatives in which the that-, -ing or to-infinitive clause is placed at the front, but the sentences with There is / was no ... do not. Compare:

- It's no secret that he wants a new job. (or That he wants a new job is no secret.) and
- There's no denying that he's intelligent. (but not That he's intelligent is no denying.)

Focusing: it-clauses and what-clausesA Focusing with it-clauses

We can use an it-clause with be to focus attention on the information that immediately follows it + (be). A sentence like this is sometimes called a cleft sentence. The clause after the it-clause (usually a that-clause) contains information that is already known or considered to be less important:

- 'Lea bought the car from Olav.' 'No, it was Olav that bought the car from Lea.'
- I don't mind her criticising me, but it's how she does it that I object to.
- It was to show how much I cared for her that I bought her the necklace.

We sometimes use which or who instead of that; when and where can also be used, but usually only in informal English; and note that how or why can't replace that:

- Karl was always there to help her, and it was to him that / who she now turned for support.
- 'Ida's seriously ill in hospital.' 'But it was only last Sunday when / that I was playing tennis with her.'
- It was in Warsaw where / that the film was made.
- 'Was it by cutting staff that he managed to save the firm?' 'No, it was by improving distribution that he made it profitable.' (not ... how he made it profitable.)

B Focusing with what-clauses

We can also use a what-clause followed by be to focus attention on certain information in a sentence (= another form of cleft sentence). This pattern is particularly common in conversation. The information we want to focus attention on is outside the what-clause. Compare:

- We gave them some home-made cake. and
- What we gave them was some home-made cake.

We often do this if we want to introduce a new topic; to give a reason, instruction or explanation; or to correct something that has been said or done. In the following examples, the information in focus is in italics:

- What I'd like you to work on is the revision exercise on the website.
- Isa arrived two hours late: what had happened was that his bicycle chain had broken.
- 'We've only got this small bookcase – will that do?' 'No, what I was looking for was something much bigger and stronger.'

We can often put the what-clause either at the beginning or the end of the sentence:

- What upset me most was his rudeness. or
- His rudeness was* what upset me most.

To focus attention on an action performed by someone, we use a sentence with what + subject + do + be + to-infinitive clause. We can't use an it-clause to do this (see A):

- Luis lost his job and was short of money, so what he did was (to) sell his flat and move in with his brother. (not ... so it was (to) sell his flat that he did.)

C

The pattern in B is only usually used with what-clauses. Instead of placing other wh-clauses (beginning how, when, where, who, why) at the beginning of the sentence we prefer to use a noun which has a meaning related to the wh-word (e.g. reason rather than why; place rather than where) followed by a that- or wh-clause. Here are some examples:

- The only reason (why / that) I left the party early was that I was feeling unwell. (rather than Why I left the party early was ...)
- The place (where / that) you should play football is the playground, not the classroom.
- Somebody (who / that) I enjoy reading is Peter Carey.
- The time (when / that) I work best is early morning.

Exercises

B: In fact
- 4 A: In what period of your life do you think you were happiest? (lived Australia)
B: I suppose

Inversion 1

A In statements it is usual for the verb to follow the subject, but sometimes this word order is reversed. We can refer to this as inversion. There are two main types of inversion: when the verb comes before the subject (inversion is often optional), and when the auxiliary comes before the subject and the rest of the verb phrase follows the subject (inversion is usually necessary):

- Alex stood in the doorway. → In the doorway stood Alex. (or ... Alex stood.)
- I had rarely seen such a view. → Rarely had I seen such a view. (not Rarely I had seen ...)

Inversion brings about fronting, the re-ordering of information in a sentence to give emphasis in a particular place. Often this causes an element to be postponed until later in the sentence, focusing attention on it.

B In conversation we use Here comes + noun and There goes + noun, with inversion of verb and subject, to talk about things and people moving towards or away from the speaker:

- Here comes the bus.
- There goes Per Alvin, the conductor.

Here comes ... is also used to say that something is going to happen soon, and There goes ... is used to talk about things (particularly money) being lost and to say that something (such as a phone or door bell) is ringing:

- Here comes lunch.
- My bike's been stolen! There goes £100!
- There goes the phone. Can you answer it?

We also put the verb before the subject when we use adverbs expressing direction of movement, such as along, away, back, down, in, off, out, up with verbs such as come, fly, go. This pattern is found particularly in narrative, to mark a change in events:

- The door opened and in came the doctor. (less formally ... and the doctor came in.)
- As soon as I let go of the string, up went the balloon, high into the sky. (less formally ... the balloon went up ...)

For more on inversion after adverbs of place and direction, see Unit 76A.

C We can use clauses with inversion instead of certain kinds of if-clause (see Unit 83). Compare:

<input type="checkbox"/> It would be a serious setback, if the talks were to fail .	<input type="checkbox"/> It would be a serious setback, were the talks to fail .
<input type="checkbox"/> If you should need more information, please telephone our main office.	<input type="checkbox"/> Should you need more information, please telephone our main office.
<input type="checkbox"/> If Andy had asked , I would have been able to help.	<input type="checkbox"/> Had Andy asked , I would have been able to help.

The sentences with inversion are rather more formal than those with 'if'. Note that in negative clauses with inversion, we don't use contracted forms:

- Had the plane not been diverted, they would have arrived early. (not Hadn't the plane ...)

D In formal written language we commonly use inversion after as and than in comparisons:

- Paper was invented in China, as was the process of printing.
- Most young people did not vote in the election, as was the case in 2010.
- I believed, as did my colleagues, that the plan would work.
- Research shows that parents watch more television than do their children.

Note that we don't invert subject and verb after as or than when the subject is a pronoun:

- We now know a lot more about the universe than we did ten years ago. (not ... than did we ten years ago.)

Exercises

99.1 Complete the sentences with an appropriate adverb and a form of either come or go. B

Inversion after negative adverbials

In formal and literary language in particular, we use negative adverbials at the beginning of a clause. The subject and first auxiliary are inverted, and do is used with a simple tense verb after –

- ☆ the time adverbials never (before), rarely, seldom; barely / hardly / scarcely ... when / before; no sooner ... than:
 - Seldom do we have goods returned to us because they are faulty.
 - Hardly had everybody taken their seats when Dr Lee began her lecture.
- ☆ only + a time expression, as in only after, only later, only if, only once, only then, only when:
 - She bought a newspaper and some milk at the shop on the corner. Only later did she realise that she'd been given the wrong change.
 - Only when she apologises will / speak to her again.
- ☆ only + other prepositional phrases beginning only by ..., only in ..., only with ..., etc.:
 - Only by chance had Carl discovered where the birds were nesting.
 - Maria had to work in the evenings. Only in this way was she able to complete the report.
- ☆ expressions such as at no time, in no way, on no account, under / in no circumstances:
 - At no time did they actually break the rules of the game.
 - Under no circumstances are passengers permitted to open the doors themselves.
- ☆ expressions with not ..., such as not only, not until, not since, not for one moment and also not a + noun:
 - Not until August did the government order an inquiry into the accident.
 - Not a word had she written since the exam had started.
- ☆ little with a negative meaning:
 - Little do they know how lucky they are to live in such a wonderful house. (= 'they don't know' or 'they don't know sufficiently')

Note that inversion can occur after a clause beginning only after / if / when or not until:

- Only when the famine gets worse will world governments begin to act.
- Not until the train pulled into the station did Miguel find that his coat had gone.

B

Inversion after so + adjective ... that; such + be ... that; neither ... / nor ...

We can use so + adjective at the beginning of a clause to emphasise the adjective. When we do this, the subject and first auxiliary are inverted, and do is used with a simple tense verb:

- So successful was her business, that Lana was able to retire at the age of 50.
- So dangerous did weather conditions become, that all mountain roads were closed.

We can use such + be at the beginning of a clause to emphasise the extent or degree of something:

- Such is the popularity of the play that the theatre is likely to be full every night.

We use inversion after neither and nor when these words begin a clause to introduce a negative addition to a previous negative clause or sentence:

- For some time after the explosion Jack couldn't hear, and neither could he see.
- The council never wanted the new supermarket to be built, nor did local residents.

Note that we also use inversion in Neither / Nor do I, Neither / Nor does Diane (etc.) and in So do I, So does Maya (etc.).

TOWN EVACUATED AS FOREST FIRES APPROACH

The people of Sawston were evacuated yesterday as forest fires headed towards the town. Such the heat was of the oncoming inferno that trees more than 100 metres ahead began to smoulder. Only once in recent years, during 2004, a town of this size has had to be evacuated because of forest fires. A fleet of coaches and lorries arrived in the town in the early morning. Into these vehicles the sick and elderly climbed, before they headed off to safety across the river. Residents with cars left by mid morning, as all non-essential police officers did.

Hardly the evacuation had been completed when the wind changed direction and it became clear that the fire would leave Sawston untouched. Soon after that were heard complaints from some residents. 'At no time the fires posed a real threat,' said one local man. 'I didn't want to leave my home, and nor most of my neighbours did.' So upset some elderly residents are that they are threatening to complain to their MP. But Chief Fire Officer Jones replied, 'Hadn't we taken this action, lives would have been put at risk. Only when the fires have moved well away from the town residents will be allowed to return to their homes.'

Read these sections to refresh your understanding before you start work on the advanced grammar points in the unit.

A

Tenses

→ Units 1–8

Present continuous (→ Units 1, 2 & 8)

- A1 'Who are you phoning?' 'I'm trying to get through to Misaki.'
We use the present continuous to talk about particular events or activities that have begun but have not ended at the time of speaking. The event or activity is in progress at the present time, but not necessarily at the moment of speaking.
- A2 She's doing voluntary work with young children until she starts her university course.
We use the present continuous to suggest that an event or activity is or may be temporary. (For the present continuous for the future, see B7 & Unit 10.)

Present simple (→ Units 1, 2 & 8)

- A3 Trees grow more quickly in summer than in winter.
We use the present simple with verbs describing states or situations that are always true or continue indefinitely.
- A4 This cake tastes wonderful. Where did you buy it?
We use the present simple with states or situations (thoughts, feelings) that exist at the present moment.

Verbs describing states include *agree, appreciate, attract, *desire, *doubt, expect, hate, hope, like, love, *prefer, *regret (to do with emotions, attitudes, and preferences); anticipate, assume, *believe, consider, expect, feel, find, imagine, *know, realise, think, understand (mental states); ache, hear, *notice, see, *smell, sound, *taste (senses and perception); *belong to, *consist of, *constitute, *contain, cost, *differ from, have, look, *mean, measure, *own, *possess, *resemble, *seem, weigh (to do with 'being', 'having', etc.).

The verbs marked * are rarely used with continuous tenses (but can be if we mean actions rather than states).

- A5 Do you go to Turkey every year for your holidays?
We use the present simple to talk about habits or regular events or actions. (For the present simple for the future, see B6 & Unit 10.)

Past simple (→ Units 3, 4, 5 & 8)

- A6 Aisha left a few minutes ago.
A7 Mikhail continued the course even though it was proving very difficult.
We use the past simple to refer to a completed action or event in the past or to talk about situations that existed over a period of time in the past, but not now. We can either say when something happened, using a time adverbial (e.g. a few minutes ago: A6), or assume that the listener or reader already knows when it happened or can understand this from the context (A7).
- A8 I saw my grandparents every week as a child.
We use the past simple to talk about repeated past actions. (For the past simple in conditionals, see M12 & M13 and Unit 83.)

Present perfect (→ Units 3, 6 & 8)

- A9 We can't have a meeting, because so few people have shown any interest.
A10 My ceiling has fallen in and the kitchen is flooded. Come quickly!
A11 We have belonged to the tennis club since we moved here.

- A12 Lee has represented his country on many occasions, and hopes to go on to compete in the next Olympics.

We use the present perfect to talk about a past action, event or state, when there is some kind of connection between what happened in the past, and the present time. Often we are interested in the way something that happened in the past affects or is relevant to the situation that exists now (A9). However, the connection with the present may also be that the action happened recently with a consequence for the present (A10), that it continues until the present time (A11), or that a repeated event in the past may (or may not) happen again (A12).

Past continuous (→ Units 4, 7 & 8)

- A13 When he realised I was looking at him, he turned away.

We use the past continuous to talk about a situation (... I was looking at him ...) that started before a particular point in the past (... he turned away) and was still in progress at that point.

Past perfect (→ Units 5, 7 & 8)

- A14 When I went into the bathroom, I found that the bath had overflowed.

- A15 By 10 o'clock most people had gone home.

We use the past perfect to talk about a past event that took place before another past event (A14), or before or up to a particular time in the past (A15).
(For the past perfect in conditionals, see M14 & Unit 83.)

Present perfect continuous (→ Units 6 & 8)

- A16 Since the operation two months ago, Samuel has been learning to walk again. He can already take one or two steps unaided.

- A17 Your eyes are red – have you been crying?

We use the present perfect continuous to talk about an activity in progress in the past for a period until now, which is still in progress (A16) or has recently finished (A17).

Past perfect continuous (→ Units 7 & 8)

- A18 When I saw the vase on the website, I knew it was exactly what I had been looking for.

We use the past perfect continuous to talk about a situation or activity that was in progress over a period up to a particular past point in time.

B

The future

→ Units 9–14

Will + infinitive (→ Unit 9)

- B1 It's late. I think I'll go to bed now.

- B2 I think you'll enjoy the film.

We use will when we state a decision made at the moment of speaking (B1) and when we say that we think something is likely to happen in the future (B2).

- B3 I'll make one of my special desserts for dinner, if you like.

- B4 I've asked her to join us this evening, but she won't.

We use will (or 'll) when we talk about willingness to do something in the future (e.g. in offers (B3), invitations, requests, and orders) and will not (or won't) when we talk about unwillingness to do something in the future (e.g. reluctance, refusal (B4)).

Be going to + infinitive (→ Unit 9)

- B5 'Has anybody offered to look after the children?' 'Sophia's going to do it.'

We use be going to when we state a decision made some time before we report it. Going to is often preferred in informal spoken English (where it is often pronounced /gənə/) and will is preferred in more formal contexts.

Present simple for the future (→ Unit 10)

- B6 The next train to Dublin leaves at 3.45. (station announcement)

We use the present simple to talk about future events that are part of some official arrangement such as a timetable or programme. A time expression is usually used with the present simple for the future (... at 3.45) unless the time referred to is already clear from the context.

Present continuous for the future (→ Unit 10)

- B7 We're having a party next Saturday. Can you come?

We use the present continuous to talk about future activities and events that are intended or have already been arranged. Usually a personal pronoun is used (We ...) and a future time is mentioned (... next Saturday) or already understood.

Future continuous (→ Unit 11)

- B8 After the operation you won't be doing any sport for a while.

We use the future continuous to talk about an activity or event happening at a particular time or over a particular period in the future. We usually mention the future time (After the operation ...).

CModals and semi-modals

→ Units 15–20

The modal verbs are: will, would, can, could, may, might, shall, should, must

Modal verbs have meanings relating to ideas such as possibility, likelihood, prediction, necessity, permission and obligation. They do not have to-infinitive, -s, -ing or past participle forms. They are often followed by the bare infinitive of another verb (e.g. She might go) but can also be used on their own (e.g. Yes, I can). They cannot be followed directly by a to-infinitive, an -ing form, a past participle, or another modal verb. In questions they come before the subject (e.g. Could you help?) and before not in negatives (e.g. He won't [= will not] help).

The semi-modals are: ought to, used to, need, dare, had better, have (got) to, be able to

These have meanings like modal verbs but not the same formal features: for example, some can be marked for tense (e.g. have / had [got] to); some have non-modal uses (e.g. She needs a rest).

Can, could and be able to (→ Unit 15)

- C1 A polyglot is someone who can speak several different languages.

- C2 Anita could speak three languages before she was six.

- C3 Olivia couldn't swim until she was ten.

When we say that someone or something has or doesn't have the ability to do something, we use can('t) (for the present; C1) or could(n't) (for the past; C2, C3).

- C4 'Why isn't Ben here yet?' 'It could be because his mother's ill again.'

We use could, not can, to say there is a possibility of something happening or being true.

- C5 Despite yesterday's snowfalls, we were able to drive home in less than an hour.

We can use be able to instead of can or could to talk about ability. We prefer be able to when we talk about a specific achievement (particularly if it is difficult, requiring some effort; C5) rather than a general ability. Where there is a choice, in speech we generally prefer can or could rather than be able to.

- C6 After the trees have been cut back, we will be able to see more of the garden from the sitting room.

We use will be able to, not can, to say that something is possible in the future on condition that something is done first.

- C7 We can / are allowed to stay up late on Fridays and Saturdays because we don't have to go to school the next day.

We use can for the present or the future and could for the past to report permission. We can also use be allowed to.

Will, would and used to (→ Unit 16)

- C8 Will / Won't you have another biscuit? ('Won't you ...?' is a very polite and rather formal offer)
- C9 'Luka wants to borrow the car.' 'He will not.' (a firm refusal)
- C10 You will now put your pens down and pay attention. (a firm instruction)
We use will and will not (won't) to talk about (un)willingness (see B3–4) and also to make offers (C8), requests, refusals (C9), and to give instructions (C10).
- C11 You should apply for the job. You would have a good chance of getting it.
We can use would to make a prediction about an imaginary situation; that is, about something that may or may not happen (see also M13).
- C12 Would you like me to get you some water?
We can use Would you like ... when we make an offer, but not 'Will you like ...'. In requests, too, we can say I would like ..., but not 'I will like ...'. We can use should (with I or we) instead of would in requests like this, but this is formal.
- C13 We would / used to lend him money when he was unemployed.
- C14 I used to live in a flat in Paris.
To talk about things that happened repeatedly in the past, but don't happen now, we can use would or used to + infinitive (C13). Used to is more common in informal English. We can use used to but not would to talk about permanent past states (C14). Note how we normally make questions and negatives with use to in spoken English: 'Did your children use to sleep well when they were babies?'; 'I didn't use to like visiting the dentist when I was young.' Many people avoid using used to in questions and negatives without do ('Used you to ...?', 'I usedn't to ...') and in question tags (... , usedn't you?) because it sounds very formal and old-fashioned.

May, might, can and could (→ Units 15 & 17)

- C15 If the drought goes on much longer, there may / might / could be a hosepipe ban before the end of the month.
- C16 Her parents may / might / could have influenced her decision to resign.
In affirmative sentences (that is, sentences which are not questions or negatives) we use may, might, or could with a similar meaning to say that there is a possibility of something happening or being true (C15). Can is not used in this way. We sometimes prefer could to show that we are giving an opinion about which we are unsure. We use may / might / could + have + past participle to say that it is possible that something happened in the past (C16).
- C17 'While we're in Moscow shall we go and see Dariya?' 'But it's been nearly 20 years since we last saw her. She may not / might not remember us.'
- C18 I definitely saw her go out, so she can't / couldn't be at home.
In negative sentences, including sentences with words like only, hardly, or never, we use may not or might not to say it is possible that something is not true (C17), and can't or couldn't to say that it is not possible that something is true (C18).
- C19 Coats may be left in the cloakroom.
May (not 'might') is used in formal contexts to say that something is allowed. May not is used to say that things are not allowed (e.g. Calculators may not be used in the examination.).

Must and have (got) to (→ Unit 18)

- C20 That's really good news. I must tell Marco straight away.
- C21 'Can we meet on Thursday morning?' 'Sorry, no. I have to go to the dentist at eleven.'
When we say that it is necessary to do something, we use must or have (got) to. Sometimes it doesn't matter which we use, although have got to is less formal than either must or have to and is particularly common in spoken English. However, we use must when we want to indicate that the speaker decides that something is necessary (C20) and we use have (got) to to suggest that someone else or some outside circumstances or authority makes something necessary (C21).

Grammar reminder

- C22 She was bruised quite badly in the accident. It must hurt a lot.
We normally use must, not have (got) to, when we conclude that something (has) happened or that something is true.
- C23 'I'm seeing Dr Evans next week.' 'That can't be right. He's on holiday then.'
When we give a negative conclusion we rarely use must not or have (got) to. Instead, we use can't (cannot) or couldn't.
- C24 When my father went to school he had to learn Latin.
To say that something was necessary in the past we use had to, not must.

Need(n't), don't have to and mustn't (→ Units 18 & 19)

- C25 He didn't cook the meal himself so you needn't / don't have to eat it all. He won't be offended.
- C26 You mustn't put anything on the shelves until the glue has set hard.
We use needn't (or don't need to) or don't have to to say that something is not necessary (C25) and mustn't to say that something is not allowed (C26).
- C27 I didn't need to / didn't have to have an interview because I'd worked there before.
- C28 I needn't have cooked dinner. Just as it was ready, Pablo and Daniela phoned to say that they couldn't come to eat.
When we say that it was not necessary to do something in the past, and it wasn't done, we use didn't need to or didn't have to (C27). To show that we think something that was done was not in fact necessary we use need not (needn't) have (C28).

Should, ought to and be supposed to (→ Unit 20)

- C29 You'll catch cold if you go out like that. I think you should / ought to take a hat.
- C30 I enjoyed her first novel, so the new one should / ought to be good.
We can often use should or ought to with little difference in meaning when we talk about obligation (e.g. in giving advice, making recommendations, or talking about a responsibility, (C29) and the probability of something happening or being true (C30).
- C31 The work was supposed to start / should have started / ought to have started last week.
- C32 Walking under a ladder is supposed to be unlucky.
(Be) supposed to can be used instead of should / ought to to express a less strong obligation than should (C31). It is also used to report what many people think is true, but should / ought to are not used in this way (C32).

D

Passives

→ Units 22–25

Passive verb forms have one of the tenses of the verb to be and a past participle. Passive verb forms are summarised in Appendix 2. The choice between an active and passive sentence allows us to present the same information in two different orders. Compare:

active <input type="checkbox"/> The storm damaged the roof.	passive <input type="checkbox"/> The roof was damaged. <input type="checkbox"/> The roof was damaged by the storm.
This sentence is about the storm, and says what it did. The subject (The storm) is the 'agent' and the object (the roof) is the 'done to'.	These sentences are about the roof and say what happened to it (in the first sentence) and what did it (in the second). The subject (The roof) is the 'done to'. If it is mentioned, the agent (the storm) goes in a prepositional phrase with by after the verb.

- D1 The building survived the earthquake but then was destroyed by a fire.
Verbs which take an object (transitive verbs) can have a passive form (... was destroyed). Verbs which do not take an object (intransitive verbs) do not have passive forms (The child vanished ..., but not 'The child was vanished ...').

However, many verbs can be used at different times with and without objects – that is, they can be both transitive and intransitive. Compare: 'Are they meeting him at the airport?' (transitive) and 'Is he being met at the airport?' (passive); 'When shall we meet?' (intransitive; no passive possible)

- D2 I'm really disappointed. I didn't get picked / wasn't picked for the team again.
 D3 The house was owned by an elderly couple before I bought it.

In spoken language we often use get + past participle (... didn't get picked ...) instead of a passive form (... wasn't picked ...) to talk about actions or events that we see as negative (D2). Note, however, that we can also use it to talk about positive actions and events (e.g. Great news – I got picked for the team again!). We don't normally use get + past participle to describe states (D3).

E

Questions

→ Units 26–27

E1 Basic question forms

If a verb phrase includes an auxiliary verb, the auxiliary verb comes before the subject.	<input type="checkbox"/> Are they leaving soon? <input type="checkbox"/> Where will you stay?
If a verb phrase includes more than one auxiliary verb, only the first comes before the subject.	<input type="checkbox"/> Has she been doing her homework? <input type="checkbox"/> What should we have told Nina?
In present and past simple tenses of verbs (apart from be), we use do or did .	<input type="checkbox"/> Does he enjoy school? <input type="checkbox"/> Where did you go on holiday?
If be is used in a verb phrase without another verb, the form of be comes before the subject.	<input type="checkbox"/> Are you happy at work? <input type="checkbox"/> Where was Lars today?
If we use what , which , who or whose as the subject, we use the same word order as in a statement; i.e. the subject goes before the verb phrase.	<input type="checkbox"/> What made that noise? <input type="checkbox"/> Who can tell me the answer to question 5?

- E2 What happened to your eye?

If we use what, which, who or whose as the subject, we don't use do in the question (E2). However, note that we can sometimes use do when what, which, who or whose is the subject if we want to add emphasis, or to contrast with what has been said or implied. Do is stressed in spoken English: 'Come on, be honest – who did tell you?' Don't confuse whose with who's (short for either who is or who has), which are pronounced the same.

- E3 I've got orange juice or apple juice. Which would you prefer?

- E4 He just turned away when I asked him. What do you think he meant?

In these questions the wh-word is the object. We prefer which when we are asking about an identified group or range of things or people (E3), and we use what when the possible range of reference is open (E4). Sometimes, however, we can use either which or what with little difference in meaning (e.g. What / Which towns do we go through on the way?).

- E5 Haven't you finished your homework yet?

- E6 Why didn't she pay for the meal?

- E7 Who wouldn't like to own an expensive sports car?

We can use negative yes / no or wh-questions to make a suggestion, to persuade someone, to criticise, or to show that we are surprised, etc. We make a negative yes / no or wh-question with an auxiliary verb (have, did, would, etc.) + -n't (E5, E6, E7). We can also ask a negative question using a negative statement and a positive 'tag' at the end (e.g. We don't have to leave just yet, do we?). Negative questions can be used to sound polite when giving an opinion (e.g. Shouldn't we offer her a lift?).

Verb complementation: what follows verbs

- F1 She described the attacker to the police.
 F2 They arrived at the restaurant an hour late.
 F3 He gave me a biscuit.

Some verbs (e.g. describe in F1) are followed by an object ... the attacker ...). These are called transitive verbs.

Also: arrest, avoid, do, enjoy, find, force, get, grab, hit, like, pull, report, shock, take, touch, want, warn

Some verbs (e.g. arrive in F2) are not usually followed by an object. These are called intransitive verbs. If a verb can't be followed by an object, it can't be made passive.

Also: appear, come, fall, go, happen, matter, sleep, swim, wait

Some verbs (e.g. give in F3) are commonly followed by two objects (me and a biscuit in F3).

Also: lend, offer, pay, sell, tell, throw

A good dictionary will list the meanings of verbs and tell you whether each meaning is intransitive, transitive and, if transitive, whether it is followed by one or by two objects.

F4–13

Many verbs can be followed by another verb in the form of a to-infinitive (e.g. refuse to eat), -ing (e.g. avoid working), bare infinitive (e.g. help carry). Note that when to comes after a verb it can be part of a to-infinitive (= to + the base form of a verb; e.g. He wants to go, She hopes to win) or it can be a preposition followed by a noun phrase (e.g. He went to the theatre) or by an -ing form (e.g. He admitted to having a gun). An -ing form often behaves like an object (e.g. I regret leaving).

Here is a summary of common patterns together with examples of verbs that are used in this pattern. Note that many verbs can be used in several different patterns, and that some of the verbs given can be used just with an object, and may also be used intransitively (e.g. He failed to stop, He failed the test, He failed).

Verb + to-infinitive	F4 <input type="checkbox"/> They won't agree to pay for the damage. Also: aim, ask, decline, demand, fail, hesitate, hope, hurry, manage, offer, plan, prepare, refuse, want, wish
Verb + -ing	F5 <input type="checkbox"/> Stevens admitted stealing the wallet. Also: avoid, consider, delay, deny, detest, dread, envisage, feel like, finish, imagine, miss, recall, resent, risk, suggest
Verb + to-infinitive or -ing (little difference in meaning)	F6 <input type="checkbox"/> Before we began eating / to eat my father thanked everyone for coming. Also: cease, continue, start
Verb + to-infinitive or -ing (difference in meaning)	F7 <input type="checkbox"/> She came hurrying up the path to bring us the news. F8 <input type="checkbox"/> How did you come to buy the car? Also: go on, mean, regret, remember, stop, try
Verb + object + to-infinitive (= there must be an object)	F9 <input type="checkbox"/> My parents wouldn't allow me to go to the party. Also: believe, cause, command, consider, enable, encourage, entitle, force, invite, order, persuade, show, teach, tell, warn

Verb + (object) + to- infinitive (= there may be an object)	F10 <input type="checkbox"/> I would hate (her) to give the job up. Also: help, like, love, need, prefer, want, wish
Verb + object + -ing (= there must be an object)	F11 <input type="checkbox"/> The police caught him driving without a licence. Also: discover, feel, find, hear, leave, notice, observe, overhear, see, spot
Verb + (object) + -ing (= there may be an object)	F12 <input type="checkbox"/> I can't stand (him) wearing a suit. Also: detest, dislike, dread, envisage, hate, imagine, like, love, mind (in questions and negatives), miss, recall, regret, remember, resent, risk, start, stop
Verb + object + bare infinitive or -ing (sometimes a difference in meaning)	F13 <input type="checkbox"/> She felt the mosquito bite / biting her. Also: hear, notice, observe, overhear, see, watch

G

Reporting

→ Units 32–39

When we report speech in a different context from the one in which it was originally produced, we sometimes need to make changes to the original words. Of course, differences between the original speech context and the one in which it is reported will influence whether changes are needed and what they should be. Here are some possible changes:

- G1 'Dan's arriving later today.' She said that Dan was arriving later that day.
 G2 'I was sure I'd left it here.' He said that he was sure he'd left it there / on the table.
 G3 'I grew these carrots myself.' He told me that he had grown those carrots himself.

The tense we choose for a report is one that is appropriate at the time that we are reporting what was said or thought. This means that we sometimes use a different tense in the report from the one that was used in the original statement (G1 & G3) and change pronouns, references to time and place, and words such as this, that, and these (G1–G3).

- G4 Georgia told me (that) she would be late for the meeting.
 G5 She said (that) she was feeling ill.
 G6 I said to Ivan (that) he had to work harder.
 G7 She told me about her holiday in Finland.

Say and tell are the verbs most commonly used to report statements. We use an object after tell (... me ..., G4), but not after say (G5). Note, however, that we can use to + object after say (... to Ivan ..., G6), but not after tell, and that we can report what topic was talked about using tell + object + about (G7).

- G8 'It's a pity you can't come this weekend.'
 G9 "I'm really hungry. I fancy a cheese sandwich."

When we quote what people think or what they have said, we put single ('...') (G8) or double ("...") (G9) quotation marks at the beginning and end of a report of their exact spoken or written words. This is often referred to as direct speech

- G10 Here are more examples of direct speech. Note the punctuation used:
 'I think we should go to India while we have the opportunity,' argued Oliver.
 'Can I make an appointment to see the doctor?' asked Maxim.
 'You must be mad!' yelled her brother.
 'It tastes horrible,' said Anna, 'but it's supposed to be very good for you.'
 'You should go home,' Maria advised. 'You're looking really ill.'
 Daniel said, 'Put them all on the top shelf.'
 She stood up and shouted to the children: 'It's time to go home!'
 G11 'Why did she look at me like that?' wondered Julia.
 Perhaps the door is open, thought Omar.
 Suddenly she thought: Could they be trying to trick me?

To quote what a person thinks, we use the conventions shown in the examples above, or separate the quotation from the reporting clause with a comma (or colon) and leave out quotation marks.

Nouns

Countable and uncountable nouns

H1 The equipment was faulty.

Nouns can be either countable or uncountable. Countable nouns are those which can have the word a / an before them or be used in the plural. Uncountable nouns are not used with a / an or in the plural. Some nouns in English are normally uncountable (like equipment in H1), while in many other languages they are countable, e.g. accommodation, advice.

Also: applause, assistance, baggage, camping, cash, chaos, chess, clothing, conduct, courage, cutlery, dancing, dirt, employment, evidence, fun, furniture, harm, health, homework, housing, housework, information, jewellery, leisure, litter, luck, luggage, machinery, money, mud, music, news, nonsense, parking, pay, permission, photography, poetry, pollution, produce, progress, publicity, research, rubbish, safety, scenery, shopping, sightseeing, sunshine, transport, underwear, violence, weather, work

H2 The company is / are doing a lot of business in South America.

Sometimes a noun is used uncountably when we are talking about the whole substance or idea (e.g. business), but countably when we are talking about units or different kinds (e.g. businesses).

Also: beer, coffee, water; fruit, toothpaste, washing powder; cake, chicken, land, paint, space, stone; abuse, (dis)agreement, difficulty, fear, improvement, language, life, pain, protest, responsibility, success, thought, war

Compare:

- Three coffees and a lemonade, please. – Brazil is a major producer of coffee.
- Most toothpastes contain colourings. – Don't forget to buy some toothpaste.
- The chickens have escaped. – I don't eat chicken.
- I have a fear of spiders. – He was trembling with fear.

H3 The use of recycled paper is saving thousands of trees from being cut down each year.

Some nouns (e.g. paper) usually have different meanings when they are used countably and uncountably.

Also: competition, glass, grammar, iron, jam, lace, property, room, sight, speech, time, tin, work

Compare:

- I just don't understand grammar. – I looked the answer up in a grammar (= a reference book)
- I got held up in a jam (= traffic jam). – This jam is really sweet. (Note that 'jams' can also be used to mean types of jam)
- She made a wonderful speech at the wedding. – His speech has been affected by the illness.

Compound nouns (→ Unit 43)

H4 How much pocket money do you give to your children?

H5 A new golf course / golf-course is being built outside the town.

A compound noun (e.g. pocket money) is an expression made up of more than one word, which functions as a noun in a sentence. For example, we can use a noun + noun combination to say what something is made of, where something is, when something happens, or what someone does.

Examples: rice pudding, a glasshouse, the kitchen cupboard, hill fog, a night flight, a morning call, a language teacher, a window-cleaner

We sometimes make compounds from nouns, which consist of more than two nouns.

Examples: a milk chocolate bar, an air-traffic controller, a dinner-party conversation

Some compound nouns are usually written as one word (e.g. a tablecloth), some as separate words (e.g. waste paper), and others with a hyphen (e.g. a house-sitter). Some compound nouns can be written in more than one of these ways (e.g. a golf course or a golf-course; H5). A good dictionary will tell you how a particular compound noun is usually written.

- H6 She got some chewing gum stuck on her shoe.

-ing + noun compound nouns (the -ing form usually says what purpose the following noun has)	Examples: chewing gum, a living room, drinking water, (a pack of) playing cards, a dressing gown, a turning-point, a working party
noun + -ing compound nouns (usually refer to actions or processes)	Examples: fly-fishing, film-making, sunbathing, risk-taking, life-saving

The possessive form of nouns

- H7 The girls' shoes were covered in mud, so I asked them to take them off before they got into Leon's car.

To make the possessive form of nouns in writing – referring to people or groups of people (e.g. companies), other living things, places, times, etc. – we add 's ('apostrophe s') to singular nouns and to irregular plurals that don't end in -s (e.g. Leon's car; the college's administrators; women's issues) and add ' (an apostrophe) to regular plurals (e.g. the girls' shoes; the companies' difficulties). To make the possessive form of names ending in -s pronounced /z/ we can add either ' or 's (e.g. It's Leon Jones' [or Leon Jones's] new sports car).

- H8 That old car of Zara's is falling apart.

- H9 It belongs to a friend of his.

We can use the pattern noun + of + 's (H8) or a possessive pronoun (H9) to talk about something that someone owns, or about a relationship. Note that when we are talking about relationships between people we can also use a noun without 's (e.g. an uncle of Emil's (or an uncle of Emil)).

- H10 We're going to Mona's (house) for the evening.

The noun following a possessive form can be left out when we talk about someone's house. We don't use 'shop' when we talk about, for example, the newsagent's / the chemist's or the newsagent / the chemist (but not 'the newsagent's shop' / 'the chemist's shop') where the name of the shop includes the profession of the person who works there (compare 'the sweet shop', but not 'the sweet's shop').

- H11 David's guitar playing has improved enormously.

- H12 The construction of the office block was opposed by protestors.

Often we can use the possessive 's or ... of + noun ... with very little difference in meaning. However, in general, we are more likely to use the possessive form of a noun when the noun refers to a particular person or group of people (H11); and when we are talking about time (e.g. next year's holiday prices, rather than the holiday prices of next year). We are more likely to use the ... of + noun ... form with an inanimate noun (H12); when we are talking about a process, or a change over time (e.g. the establishment of the committee, rather than the committee's establishment); and when the noun is a long noun phrase (e.g. She is the sister of someone I used to go to school with. rather than She is someone I used to go to school with's sister.).

Articles, determiners and quantifiers

Determiners are words such as this, her, and your which determine or specify what a noun or noun phrase refers to. They come before the noun and at the front of the noun phrase. Quantifiers are words such as some, much, and few which identify the quantity of something. Some words can be both determiners and quantifiers (e.g. 'I sent out invitations to a few friends' [few = determiner] and 'A few of my friends came to the party' [few = quantifier]) while some are determiners only (e.g. 'This is my friend Andrew' [my = determiner]). Many determiners and quantifiers can be pronouns, taking the place of a noun phrase (e.g. I've invited all my friends and most are coming [most = pronoun]). Articles (a / an and the) are determiners. They also specify what the noun refers to and come at the beginning of the noun phrase. However, they cannot be quantifiers or pronouns.

The (→ Units 45–47)

- 11 Lisa took a cake and some biscuits to the party, but only the biscuits were eaten.
 12 Can you shut the door after you, please?
 13 We had a good time on holiday. The beaches were all beautifully clean.
 14 Give it to the man wearing the red coat.
 15 Look at the moon. It's very bright tonight.

We use the with singular, plural or uncountable nouns when we expect the listener or reader to be able to identify the thing or person we are referring to in the following noun. It may be that the thing has already been mentioned (11); that it is clear from the situation which person or thing we mean (12); that it is in some other way understandable from the context which thing or person we mean (13; 'the beaches' = 'the beaches we went to'); that the thing or person is identified in what is said after the noun (14; 'wearing the red coat'); or that there is only one of a particular thing (15 and also, for example, the Great Wall of China, the North Pole, the USA, the world).

A / an (→ Units 44–47)

- 16 Helen's just bought a house on Wilson Street.
 17 Sydney is a beautiful city.

We use a / an with singular nouns when we don't expect the listener or reader to be able to identify the thing or person we are referring to in the following noun. We often use a / an to introduce a new specific person or thing (16); or when the noun refers to a class of people or things generally – for example, when we describe someone or something or say what type of thing someone or something is (17).

Zero article (→ Units 45–47)

- 18 [-] Water has got into my camera and damaged it.
 19 There are [-] examples of the present continuous tense on page 32.

We use zero article [-] with uncountable and plural nouns when we talk generally about people or things rather than about specific people or things. We might talk about a whole class of things in a general way (18) or about an indefinite number or amount (19).

Some (→ Unit 48)

Some and any are used with plural and uncountable nouns, usually when we are talking about limited, but indefinite or unknown, numbers or quantities of things.

- 110 Peter gave me some advice.
 111 Hasn't some information about the proposal been sent out already? I thought I read about it last week.
 112 Shall I send you some details?

We generally use some: in affirmative sentences (sentences which are not negatives or questions) (110); in questions where we expect agreement or the answer 'Yes' (111); in offers and requests in order to sound positive, expecting the answer 'Yes' (112). If it is used in this way some is pronounced with its weak form /səm/.

- I13 Some teachers never seem to get bored with being in the classroom.
We use some to talk about particular, but unspecified, people or things with the implication 'some, but not all'. If it is used in this way some is pronounced with its strong form /sʌm/.
- I14 I haven't been here for some years.
We use some (pronounced /sʌm/) when we mean quite a large amount of, or a large number of something. Note that we can say 'some years, months, weeks, etc.' or just 'years, months, weeks, etc.' with a similar meaning.

Any (→ Unit 48)

- I15 We haven't got any butter left.
- I16 Do you have any better ideas?
- I17 Any student could have answered the question.
We generally use any: in sentences with a negative meaning (I15); in questions where we don't necessarily expect agreement or the answer 'Yes' (I16); when we mean 'all (of them), and it's not important which' (I17).
- I18 If you see any cherries in the shop, can you buy them?
- I19 Any questions should be sent to the manager.
We commonly use any: in 'if' clauses (I18; note that 'some' is possible, but would seem to expect that you will see cherries); when any means 'if there is / are' (I19; = If there are questions ...).

Anyone, someone, etc.

- I20 Isabella lives somewhere in Denmark.
- I21 I've never seen anybody that tall before.
The rules for the use of the following words are generally the same as those given in I10–I19 for some and any: the pronouns someone / anyone, somebody / anybody, something / anything, (note that somebody = someone, and anybody = anyone), and the adverbs somewhere / anywhere. For example, some- words are generally used in affirmative sentences (I20), and any- words are generally used in sentences with a negative meaning (I21).

Quantifiers with and without 'of': any (of), some (of), much (of), many (of), both (of), all (of) each (of), none (of), few (of), little (of) (→ Units 48–52)

- I22 Many of Liam's closest friends are women.
- I23 Some of my jewellery is missing.
- I24 Have you seen any of these new light bulbs in the shops yet?
- I25 Are you going to eat all (of) that cake, or can I finish it?
- I26 Both of us were exhausted after flying to Japan.
- I27 I polished each trophy with a soft cloth.
- I28 Is there much orange juice left?
We usually need to put of after quantifiers when there is a possessive form (I22), pronoun (I23) or determiner (I24) before a noun. Note, however, that in informal contexts after both and all we can leave out of before the, these, those (and this or that with all; I25); my, your, her, his, etc.; and mine, yours, etc., but not before them, you, or us (I26) (or it with all). We don't use of after a quantifier immediately before a noun (I27 & 28).

No, none (of), neither (of), either (→ Unit 49)

- I29 There's no train until tomorrow.
- I30 No information was given about how the study was conducted.
- I31 She had no shoes on.
- I32 None of my clothes fit any more.

Grammar reminder

- 133 'How many children have you got?' 'None.'

We use the determiner no to mean 'not a' or 'not any' before a singular (I29), uncountable (I30), or plural noun (I31). Before the, my, this, etc. we use the quantifier none (of) to mean 'not any' (I32). If it is clear from the context what we mean, we can use the pronoun none (I33).

- 134 None of the furniture has arrived yet.

When we use none of with an uncountable noun the verb must be singular. However, when we use none of with a plural noun the verb can be either singular or plural (e.g. None of the parcels have / has arrived yet), although the singular form is more grammatical.

- 135 Neither of his parents could drive.

We use neither of instead of none of when we are talking about two people or things.

- 136 You could catch the 10:05 or the 10:32. Either train gets you there in good time.

- 137 Has either of them passed their driving test yet?

When we use either as a determiner (I36), it is followed by a singular countable noun. If this is the subject of the sentence, it is followed by a singular verb. We use either of with plural nouns and pronouns (I37). Note that either can also be used as an adverbial as in 'We can either take the train or go by bus' and 'I had no wish to go, and Lev didn't want to go either'.

Much (of), many (of), a lot of, lots (of) (→ Unit 50)

- 138 There isn't much traffic along the street where I live.

- 139 Will you be taking many suitcases on the trip?

Much and many are used to talk about quantities and amounts. Much is used with uncountable nouns (I38) and many with plural nouns (I39). Before the, my, this, etc. we use much of / many of. Much of can also be used with a singular countable noun to mean 'a large part of' (e.g. Much of the national park was destroyed in the fire.). We can use much and many without a noun if the meaning is clear (e.g. Can you get some sugar when you go shopping? There isn't much left.). Much and many are often used after as, how, so, and too (e.g. I'd say there were twice as many women at the meeting as men.).

- 140 She didn't show much interest in what I said.

- 141 Mariam offered me a lot of money for the car.

- 142 Many of my relatives live around Auckland.

Much (of) and many (of) are used in negative sentences to emphasise that we are talking about small (or smaller than expected) quantities or amounts (I40) and in questions to ask about quantities or amounts (e.g. Have you got much homework to do?). In affirmative sentences we often use a lot of, lots of or plenty of rather than much (of) and many (of) to talk about large amounts and quantities, particularly in conversation and informal writing (I41). However, many of is common in affirmative sentences in both formal and informal contexts (I42).

All (of) (→ Unit 51)

- 143 There is heating in all (of) the holiday cottages.

We use all or all of when we are talking about the total number of things or people in a group, or the total amount of something. In informal contexts we can leave out of.

- 144 Everyone was waiting to hear the results.

In modern English we don't use all without a noun to mean 'everyone' or 'everything'. However, all can mean 'everything' when it is followed by a relative clause (e.g. I don't agree with all that he said. (= everything that he said)). We can also use all without a noun to mean 'the only thing' (e.g. All she wants to do is help.).

Each / every (→ Unit 51)

- 145 Every newspaper had the same front page story.

- 146 Following the flood, every building in the area needs major repair work.

We can use each and every with singular countable nouns (I45), and each of with plural nouns, to mean all things or people in a group of two or more (each (of)) or three or more

(every). We use a singular verb (... needs ...) after each (of) and every (I46). However, when each follows the noun or pronoun it refers to, the noun / pronoun and verb are plural (e.g. Every student is tested twice a year. They are each given a hundred questions to do.)

(A) few (of), less (of), (a) little (of) (→ Unit 52)

I47 A few of the boys were very good computer gamers.

I48 There is little evidence to support his claim.

We use (a) few (of) with plural countable nouns (I47) and (a) little (of) with uncountable nouns (I48).

I49 There's a lot less water in the lake than last year.

I50 The holiday cost less than I thought it would.

We use less (of) with uncountable nouns (I49) or in a general sense (I50).

I51 I've got a few close friends that I meet regularly.

I52 He has few close friends and often feels lonely.

We often use a few and a little in a 'positive' way (I51); for example, to suggest that a small amount or quantity is enough, or to suggest that it is more than we would expect. We often use few and little in a 'negative' way (I52); for example, to suggest that the amount or quantity is not enough, or is surprisingly low. Compare 'A few of her songs were popular and she was very well known' (= 'positive') and 'Few of her songs were very popular and eventually she gave up her musical career' (= 'negative'). This use of few and little is often rather formal.

Relative clauses and other types of clause

→ Units 53–59

Relative clauses have a similar function to adjectives in that they give more information about someone or something referred to in a main clause. Participle clauses (-ing and -ed clauses) can be used like relative clauses, but can also have an adverbial function, giving information about time, cause, etc.

Relative clauses (→ Units 53–55)

J1 Magnus stopped the police car that was driving past.

J2 My mother, who is in her seventies, enjoys hill walking.

Defining relative clauses (e.g. ... that was driving past; J1) are used to specify which person or thing we mean, or which type of person or thing we mean. Note that we don't put a comma between the noun and a defining relative clause.

Non-defining relative clauses (e.g. ..., who is in her seventies, ...; J2) are used to add extra information about a noun, but this information is not necessary to explain which person or thing we mean. We don't use them often in everyday speech, but we do use them frequently in written English. Note that we often put a comma before and after a non-defining relative clause.

J3 The house, which is to the north of the road, is owned by a rock star.

After a relative clause, we don't repeat the subject with a pronoun; so, for example, we wouldn't say 'The house which is to the north of the road it is owned by a rock star'.

However, this is sometimes found in informal speech; for example, 'A friend of mine who is a solicitor – she helped me.'

J4 I have a friend who / that plays guitar. (a friend = subject, plays = verb, guitar = object)

J5 He showed me the rocks (which / that) he had collected. (the rocks = object, he = subject, had collected = verb)

When we use a defining relative clause, the relative pronoun can be either the subject or the object of the relative clause. When it is the subject the word order is subject + verb + object (J4). When the relative pronoun is the object the word order is object + subject + verb (J5).

-ing clauses (= present participle clauses) (→ Units 58 & 59)

J6 Glancing over his shoulder, he could see the dog chasing him.

J7 Pushing her way through the crowds, she just managed to get on the bus as it pulled away.

- J8 'Wait a minute,' said Amy, running through the door.

We can use an -ing clause to talk about something that takes place at the same time as (J6) or just before (J7) an action in the main clause. We often use an -ing clause in written narrative after quoted speech, when we want to say what someone was doing while they were talking (J8).

Note that the understood subject of -ing and -ed (see J10) clauses should be the same as the subject of the main clause. For example, in J6, 'he' is the unstated subject of 'Glancing over his shoulder ...'.

- J9 Knowing exactly what I wanted, I didn't spend much time shopping.

-ing clauses can be used to talk about reasons and results. This sentence has a similar meaning to 'Because I knew exactly what I wanted, I didn't spend much time shopping'.

-ed clauses (= past participle clauses) (→ Units 58 & 59)

- J10 Annoyed by the boys' behaviour, she complained to the headteacher.

We can use an -ed clause to talk about something that happened before an action in the main clause. Often the event in the -ed clause causes the event in the main clause.

K

Pronouns, substitution and leaving out words

→ Units 60–65

Reflexive pronouns (→ Unit 60)

- K1 'What did you do to your hand?' 'I cut myself when I was chopping vegetables.'

When the subject and object of a sentence refer to the same person or thing, we use a reflexive pronoun as the object of a sentence rather than a personal pronoun. The singular forms of reflexive pronouns are myself, yourself, herself, himself, itself; the plural forms are ourselves, yourselves, themselves.

- K2 We phoned the plumber and he came himself.

- K3 My sister drew the picture herself.

- K4 I was given this book by the author herself.

We can use reflexive pronouns for emphasis: for example, after an intransitive verb (K2) to emphasise the subject; after a transitive verb (K3) to emphasise that something is done without help; or after a noun to emphasise that noun (K4).

Each other / one another

- K5 They tried to avoid each other / one another at the party.

- K6 John and Carmen first met (each other / one another) when they were working in Spain.

Some verbs, such as avoid (K5), can be used to describe actions in which two or more people or things do the same thing to the other(s). We use each other or one another with these.

Also: attract, complement, face, help, repel

After other verbs such as meet (K6), we can use each other or one another, but this may be omitted when the subject is plural or has the form '... and ...'.

Also: embrace, fight, kiss, marry

- K7 The scheme allows students from many countries to communicate with each other / with one another.

- K8 We looked at each other / one another and started to laugh.

With some verbs (e.g. communicate) we have to use a preposition, often with, before each other / one another (K7 & K8).

Also: agree, coincide, collaborate, compete (against), contrast, co-operate, disagree, joke, look at, quarrel, talk to / with

- K9 The two children each blamed the other for breaking the window.

For emphasis we can separate each and other. This sentence is more emphatic than 'The two children blamed each other ...'.

Substitution (→ Units 61–63)

- K10 I had a racing bike when I was young, and so did my brother.
 K11 'Emma loves ice cream.' 'So do I.'
 K12 'I didn't think much of the restaurant.' 'Neither did I.'

We can use so + auxiliary verb + subject to say that a second person does the same things as the person already mentioned (K10 & K11). The corresponding negative form uses neither (K12), nor ('Nor did I'), or not ... either ('I didn't either'). We often use this to avoid repetition (e.g. in K12 we use 'Neither did I' rather than 'I didn't think much of the restaurant either').

L Adjectives and adverbs

→ Units 66–78

Gradable and non-gradable adjectives (→ Units 67–68)

- L1 They live in a very large house.
 L2 Our teacher gave us an absolutely impossible problem to solve.

Most adjectives describe qualities that can be measured or graded, and so can be used in comparative and superlative forms and with words such as 'very' or 'extremely'. These are referred to as gradable adjectives (for example, 'large' in L1). Some adjectives are not gradable because they refer to qualities that are completely present or completely absent. These non-gradable adjectives (e.g. 'impossible' in L2) are not usually used in comparative and superlative forms or with words such as 'very' or 'extremely'. They can often, however, be used with words such as 'absolutely' or 'completely'.

Order of adjectives

- L3 I drank some very good Brazilian coffee.

When we use more than one adjective before a noun, there is often a preferred (although not fixed) order for these adjectives depending on what type of adjective they are:

opinion + size / physical quality / shape / age + colour + participle adjectives + origin + material + type + purpose + NOUN

Examples:

an old plastic container	= age + material + noun
a hard red ball	= quality + colour + noun
a frightening Korean mask	= opinion + origin + noun
a round biscuit tin	= shape + purpose (for holding biscuits) + noun
a small broken plate	= size + participle adjective + noun
a useful digital alarm clock	= opinion + type + purpose + noun

To help you to learn this order, it can be useful to remember that gradable adjectives (describing opinion, size, quality, shape, and age) usually precede ungradable adjectives (participle adjective and adjectives describing origin, material, type and purpose).

Easily confused adjectives

- L4 I was surprised to find that the film was quite frightening.

Some adjectives that are used to describe feelings about something or someone else have both an -ed and -ing form. Generally, the -ed form describes how the person feels (e.g. I was surprised ...), and the -ing form gives an evaluation of the thing or other person (e.g. ... the film was quite frightening.)

Also: alarmed – alarming, amazed – amazing, bored – boring, excited – exciting, interested – interesting, pleased – pleasing, tired – tiring, worried – worrying

Adjectives and adverbs: use (→ Unit 71)

- L5 The staff in the shop always speak politely to customers.
 L6 It was strangely quiet as we went into the room.

We use an adverb, not an adjective, to say how something happened or was done (L5), or to modify adjectives (L6).

Adjectives and adverbs: comparative and superlative forms (→ Unit 72)

- L7 The building was bigger than I'd expected.
 L8 It was the most ridiculous thing to say.

We usually add the ending -er to one-syllable adjectives and adverbs to make their comparative forms (L7) and -est to make their superlative forms. With three or more syllables we usually add more / less and most / least (L8). With two syllables we can usually use either.

Quite

- L9 I was quite satisfied with the result.
 L10 No, you're quite wrong!
 L11 The food here is quite superb.

Quite has two meanings: to a particular degree, but not 'very' (= 'fairly') (L9); and to a large degree, or 'very much' (= 'completely') (L10). When quite is used with non-gradable adjectives it means 'completely' (L11).

MAdverbial clauses and conjunctions

→ Units 79–87

An adverbial clause is a type of subordinate clause, linked to a main clause. An adverbial clause adds extra information to the main clause about such things as time and conditions. Most adverbial clauses begin with a conjunction that indicates their link with the main clause. Example conjunctions are after, before, when and until (time conjunctions); and if and unless (conditional conjunctions).

Tenses in adverbial and main clauses: general

- M1 Because I'm overweight, my doctor has put me on a diet.
 M2 I felt unwell when I got up this morning.

The verb in the adverbial clause is usually the same tense as the verb in the main clause. In M1 they are both present (present simple + present perfect), and in M2 they are both past (past simple + past simple).

Time clauses: tenses (→ Unit 79)

- M3 Have something to eat before you leave.
 M4 As soon as you see / have seen her, come and tell me.
 M5 She wrote to me after she spoke / had spoken to Carlos.

To talk about an action in the adverbial clause that is completed before another action described in the main clause, we can use either simple or perfect tenses (present as in M4 or past as in M5), but not will or will have + -ed (the future perfect).

- M6 When I saw Kim, I asked her over for dinner.
 M7 While the children were swimming, their mother kept a watchful eye on them.
 M8 I read a book while I waited.

While is mainly used with continuous tenses (M7) and also with simple tenses (M8).

Conditional clauses (→ Units 83–86)Real and unreal conditionals (→ Units 83 & 84)

Some conditional clauses beginning with if suggest that a situation is real – that is, the situation is or was true, or may have been or may become true (e.g. If anyone phones, tell them I'll be back at eleven; If you really want to learn Italian, you need to spend some time in Italy). Others suggest that a situation is unreal – that is, the situation is imaginary or untrue. (e.g. What would you do if you won the lottery?; If you had started out earlier, you wouldn't have been so late).

Compare: If I go to Berlin, I'll travel by train. (= real conditional) and If I went to Berlin, I'd travel by train. (= unreal conditional). In the first, the speaker is thinking of going to Berlin (it is a real future possibility), but in the second, the speaker is not thinking of doing so. The second might be giving someone advice.

Real conditionals: tenses (→ Units 83 & 84)

M9 I'll give you a lift if it rains.

M10 If you leave now, you'll be home in two hours.

M11 If water freezes, it expands.

M12 If I made the wrong decision then I apologise.

In real conditionals we use a present tense to talk about the future (M9), the present (M10) or unchanging relationships (M11), and past tenses to talk about the past (M12).

Unreal conditionals: tenses (→ Units 83 & 84)

M13 If my grandfather was / were still alive, he would be a hundred today.

To talk about present or future situations in unreal conditionals, we use a past tense (either simple or continuous) in the if-clause and would + bare infinitive in the main clause.

In unreal conditionals we don't use the past simple or past perfect in the main clause. In unreal conditionals, we can also use could / might (have) instead of would (have) (e.g. If my grandfather was / were still alive, he might have enjoyed looking after our garden; If I lived out of town, I could take up horse riding.). Note that we sometimes use if ... were instead of if ... was (see Unit 85).

M14 If I had known how difficult the job was, I wouldn't have taken it.

When we talk about something that might have happened in the past, but didn't, then we use if + past perfect and would have + past participle in the main clause. We can also use might / could have instead of would have in the main clause (e.g. They might have found a better hotel if they had driven a few more kilometres.).

M15 If Bruno wasn't so lazy, he would have passed the exam easily.

M16 If the doctor had been called earlier, Paula would still be alive today.

In some unreal conditionals we use mixed tenses. That is, a past tense in the if-clause and would have + past participle in the main clause (M15), or a past perfect in the if-clause and would + infinitive in the main clause (M16). We can use these patterns to talk about possible consequences if situations were or had been different. We can also use might / could (have) in the main clause instead of would (have) (e.g. ... he could have passed the exam easily; ... Paula might still be alive today.).

M17 If I had a more reliable car, I'd drive to Spain rather than fly.

In unreal conditional sentences we don't normally use would in an if-clause (but see Unit 84).

Other adverbial clauses

Other types of adverbial clause give information about place (M18), contrast (M19 and Unit 82), cause or reason (M20 and Unit 80), purpose (M21 and Unit 81), and result (M22 and Unit 81):

M18 Can you put it back where you found it, please?

M19 My sister is blonde, whereas my brother has dark hair.

M20 He wasn't allowed in because he was too young.

M21 We got up early so that we could watch the sunrise.

M22 He played so badly that he was easily beaten.

- 4 'was checking in' or 'checked in' are both possible with a similar meaning. Using the past continuous presents 'checking in' as the background event which was going on as the couple started to chat to him.
- 7 'was playing' and 'played' are both possible. The past continuous suggests that this was a temporary rather than a regular arrangement.

4.3

The people of Sawston were evacuated yesterday as forest fires headed towards the town. Such was the heat of the oncoming inferno that trees more than 100 metres ahead began to smoulder. Only once in recent years, during 2004, has a town of this size (inversion is likely in this written context) had to be evacuated because of forest fires. A fleet of coaches and lorries arrived in the town in the early morning. Into these vehicles climbed the sick and elderly (inversion is likely in this written context), before they headed off to safety across the river. Residents with cars left by mid morning, as did all non-essential police officers. Hardly had the evacuation been completed when the wind changed direction and it became clear that the fire would leave Sawston untouched. Soon after that complaints were heard from some residents. 'At no time did the fires pose a real threat,' said one local man. 'I didn't want to leave my home, and nor did most of my neighbours.' So upset are some elderly residents that they are threatening to complain to their MP. But Chief Fire Officer Jones replied, 'Had we not taken this action, lives would have been put at risk. Only when the fires have moved well away from the town will residents be allowed to return to their homes.'
